Airport Due $300,000 In Federal Aid

Howard County stands to get an additional $300,000 to spent on its proposed county airport from the Civil Aeronautics Administration, R. H. Weaver, county judge, told the Howard County Commissioners Court Monday morning.

This information was provided Weaver in Washington, D. C., in the course of an interview last weekend he had with Paul Morris, high ranking official on the Civil Aeronautics Board.

The news was somewhat of a surprise as the CAA had previously insisted that it would not participate in any financial way in the construction of the new county airport.

Change in attitude apparently stemmed from the growing impression in Washington that Webb Air Force Base here seems destined to become a permanent establishment — permanent, it was explained, in the sense that it would be operating as long as training bases of its character are required in the defense program.

Under such an interpretation of Webb's status, the CAA has concluded that Big Spring and Howard County have been deprived of former facilities for civil air operations and the way has been cleared for the CAA to re-enter the picture.

Weaver was told that the CAA cannot participate in the local airport program until the county has expended money equal to the investment the CAA had in the old airport operation which is now part of Webb Air Force Base. In other words, when the county has expended its own funds to the amount of $199,277 — which was the total investment the CAA has in the old installation, the CAA is free to enter the program on a flat dollar-for-dollar footing with the county. Since Howard County has already provided $500,000 for the airport project, the CAA can participate in the program to the amount of $301,723. Such participation would bring the total possible investment in the airport to more than $800,000.

Weaver told the court that it was stressed that for CAA to take a part in the project, the agency must first of all approve and accept all plans for the project. The site, is was explained, which has already been acquired, has been approved by CAA — which means that this phase of the project is already settled.

Weaver suggested that a delegation be sent to Fort Worth immediately to consult with the planning engineer of the CAA. The commission endorsed this proposal and suggested that Weaver and Hudson Landers, who formerly was with the CAA, make the trip as quickly as an appointment can be made wth the engineer. Jack

Four Charged With Murder, Trio Arrested

Three suspects have been jailed and officers are looking for a fourth after the fatal stabbing of Geronimo Calderon Jr. on the Northside early Sunday morning.

Calderon was dead upon arriving at a local hospital.

The funeral services with military honors will be held this afternoon at the City Cemetery at 5 p.m. Father Adolph Metzger will officiate. Mass was said this morning at 8:30 in the Sacred Heart Church. Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home handled the arrangements.

The police department arrested Felix Zapata, Lupe Zapata, and Joe Armendariz Sunday and charged them with murder this morning. A fourth Latin American, Pablo Zapata, who is a brother of Felix and son of Lupe, is still at large and is wanted by the department.

A call came to the police department at 2:28 a.m. Sunday from the Ramirz Boot Shop at 310 NW 3rd that a man was behind the boot shop who had been badly beaten.

Patrolmen William Riddle and Fred Taylor investigated and immediately called Nalley-Pickle ambulance. The man, Calderon, was rushed to a hospital but was pronounced dead as a result of stab wounds. He had been stabbed five times, once under the right arm, on the right shoulder. over the heart, on the left shoulder, and under the left arm.

Piecing the story together from witnesses' statements, police said that the trouble evidently started

Loses Hair

Natalia Daryll, 24, loses her luxuriant head of hair before the movie cameras for a sequence in "The Secret Diary of Joseph Stalin." Tears course down her cheeks as barber Chick Gleason first scissors off her tresses. Then she bows her head as he runs electric clippers through what's left. A straight edge razor shaves her lathered scalp. Completely bald, she ends her brief appearance before the Hollywood cameras. The studio is providing her with three wigs to wear until her hair grows out. She plays a Stalin victim who displeases him.

JET FUEL?

Shale Exciting Western States

DENVER (AP) — Gray, sandy shale lying along the flanks of the Rockies may one day power America's military jet aircraft, and the West is excited about it.

Getting oil from shale deposits long has been a Western dream. The Suez crisis, with its shutoff of oil from the Middle East, caused Washington and the U.S. oil industry to take a long second look at the nation's untapped wealth of oil from shale.

At a Western mining conference this month, Navy Capt. A. B. Miller said the fleet feels the shale reserves may prove a potent source of fuel for jet aircraft.

Miller, director of the Navy's petroleum and oil shale reserves, said naval officials hope to get Congress to reopen the oil shale research plant at Rifle, Colo., for jet fuel tests.

The plant, where the Bureau of Mines spent 14 million dollars in research, now stands idle.

In getting oil from shale, three facts stand out:

1. There is a vast abundance of oil locked away in the shale. The U.S. Geological Survey estimates reserves at more than a trillion barrels.

2. It will take lots of money to get it out and refine it for commercial use. The Union Oil Co. of California estimates the cost of an initial shale industry at anywhere from 60 to 300 million dollars. A congressional committee went higher — 1½ billion dollars.

3. Even if all financial and production hurdles were cleared quickly, it would likely be three to five years before oil could be obtained from shale in marketable quantities.

Union Oil, with seven-million dollar plant near Rifle, so far has set the pace for the oil industry in shale research.

A. C. Rubel, Union president, predicted there will be a thriving oil shale industry in Colorado within five years. The prediction is conditioned on two big "ifs." One is adequate water supplies in 16,500 square miles of Colorado, Wyoming and Utah where oil shale is found. The other is tax concessions.

Shale enthusiasts argue the industry should get the same 27½ per cent depletion allowance as the petroleum industry.

Union Oil differs with the geological survey in its estimate of potential production from shale. The company thinks 30 to 40 billion barrels are all private industry could tap without infringing on Naval reserves and private claims.

Shale oil is not like crude oil. Heat and pressure in the retorting processes drive it out of the shale as a vapor, which condenses into a black, highly viscous substance called kerogen.

Kerogen has the consistency of gelatin. It can't be piped like crude oil to refineries many miles away. Partial refineries must be built near the source of supply. This would take lots of water, more, some authorities say, than might be available for industry and the municipal uses generated by a swelling population in western Colorado.

Too, an oil shale boom would blossom in roughly the same area that has experienced substantial population influxes because of uranium discoveries on the Colorado plateau.

Year's 2nd Traffic Fatality Recorded

Howard County chalked up its second traffic fatality for 1957 Sunday morning when Mrs. Opal Ruth Hughes, 44, wife of G. L. Hughes, oil field worker, was killed in a car wreck near Luther.

Mrs. Hughes alone in a 1955 Buick, died when she lost control of the car on a curve. The car turned over several times. The woman was pronounced dead on arrival at the Malone and Hogan Hospital. The accident occurred around 11 a.m. Sunday. Nalley-Pickle ambulance was called to bring the victim to Big Spring.

The body was later turned over to the Ellis Funeral Home of Midland. Funeral arrangements were pending Monday.

Mrs. Hughes, according to reports, had been to the rig where her husband, employed by Pool and Gerlach, San Angelo, was employed. He had been sitting in the car talking to her, he told investigators. He was called back to the floor of the rig and when he looked again, his wife had driven away in the car.

A few minutes later, he said, someone brought word that his wife had been in an accident just a short distance from the drilling rig.

Mrs. Hughes was accompanied in the car by the Hughes' pet dog. Sunday the dog had vanished from the scene when rescuers reached the wreckage. Monday morning, the dog had reappeared at the scene of the accident, Sheriff Miller Harris was advised.

She and her husband travelled over the area as employes of the oil company. They made their home in a trailer. Snyder was listed as their temporary postal address.

She is survived by her husband, one brother, Jim Dobbins, Midland; two sisters, Mrs. Eleanor Kidd of Stroud, Okla., and Mrs. Tom Maclin, Tulsa, Okla., and her mother, Mrs. Lettie Dobbins Bristow, Okla.

Lamesa Councilman Asks Re-Election

LAMESA — J. Ray Williams, Lamesa hotelman, became the first incumbent member of the city commission to file for re-election Monday. He left his application for a place on the ballot with City Secretary Jack Goodloe. J. D. Dyer Jr., other incumbent whose term expires, said he had not yet made up his mind whether he would offer for re-election.

South Bypass Talks Slated

Howard County commissioners have an appointment with the Texas Highway Commission for 10 a.m. Feb. 27 to discuss plans for the development and improvement of the proposed Highway 700 cut-off from U. S. 87 to U. S. 80, south of town.

R. H. Weaver, county judge, told the commissioners court Monday morning that he has received a letter from the highway commission inviting representatives of Howard County to be at the offices of the commission at that time.

The county commissioners recently followed a suggestion advanced by Marshall Formby, member of the highway commission, that the county dedicate four miles of its remaining allocation of farm-to-market roads to this cut-off project.

Formby said that he believed, if the county would provide four miles allocation of its FM road mileage and secure 300-foot right-of-way, that the commission would be willing to build the road.

The cut-off would begin at the present west termination of FM-700 just south of Big Spring and extend east and north until it intersected U.S. 80 near Cosden Refinery.

Disappearance Of Nurse On Medic's Yacht Still Probed

SWANQUARTER, N. C. (AP) — Sheriff Charles J. Cahoon said today he had not "closed the books" in the mysterious disappearance of a New Jersey nurse Feb. 9 from a doctor's yacht, although a sister of the nurse had told him she had talked with the missing woman by telephone.

The sheriff said he would await further developments in the vanishing of Mrs. Mary Ann Scales, 33, of Trenton, N. J.

Cahoon confirmed an earlier report that he had talked by telephone with the sister, Mrs. Marie McDonald, of Bordentown, N. J. He quoted Mrs. McDonald as saying the call came from Florida although she did not know from what place.

"She told me she knew it was her sister, and would swear it was her voice," he declared.

However, when questioned early today about a statement attributed to him that the search for Mrs. Scales would be called off, he said, "I don't know about that yet."

Mrs. Scales had been the object to a widespread search since she supposedly disappeared near Ocracoke Island from a yacht of Dr. James T. Dodge, 46-year-old general practitioner of Trenton, N. J.

The doctor and nurse, separated from their spouses, had been cruising.

Dr. Dodge said he went below and retired about 8 p.m. Feb. 9 and left Mrs. Scales on deck. He said she was gone the next morning. The sheriff said empty liquor bottles were found on the yacht.

Cahoon quoted Mrs. McDonald as saying that Mrs. Scales "wanted to know how her little girl was getting on. The sister said she could tell that Mrs. Scales was very much upset and sick. Mrs. Scales told her not to try to get in touch with her anymore."

Mrs. Scales' husband, Eugene, who works in a Trenton brake shop, said previously he had filed suit for divorce charging desertion, and is caring for the couple's two children.

Previously Dodge's wife, Mrs. Dorothy Dodge of Mercerville, N. J., said she had left her husband last May because of the nurse. The Dodges also have two daughters.

Tax Revaluation Bid Dies Again

Red Gilliam, county commissioner, again brought up his motion that the county launch a county-wide revaluation project for tax purposes Monday morning. Once again his motion died for lack of a second.

Gilliam's motion — worded similarly to the same motions he has made at two previous meetings of the court — was that the county insert advertisements for bids from tax revaluation engineering firms in leading newspapers of Texas and that such bids be considered at a meeting as soon as possible.

Rains Called Best Since Last Spring

Local Rainfall Light; More Is Promised

A persistent drizzle which prevailed most of the day provided Big Spring with a third of an inch of rain Sunday and brought the total precipitation for February to .79 inch.

The shower never generated much force but continued as a heavy sprinkle hour after hour. The .34 inch rainfall here was Big Spring's share of general rains which soaked West Texas over the weekend. So general and so effective were the rains that many drought ridden counties are jubilantly predicting that the prolonged era of rainless months may be at an end.

Rain locally was far lighter than in other areas in this part of the state. Lamesa had .46 inches and Morgan Creek reported 1.31. Eskota had 1.30.

Texas Electric Service Company said that it measured .32 inch at its plant here and .33 inch at the switching plant east of town. Coahoma had .35 inch; Chalk .38; and Snyder .38.

Other rain reports listed .39 inch at Wild Horse; .41 at O'Daniel ranch in the same general area; Stanton .40 to .50 inch; Tarzan .50 inch; Lenorah .40, and Courtney .50 inch.

Garden City reported rainfall about on a parity with Big Spring. South half of Glasscock County, however, enjoyed substantially heavier precipitation.

Lake Thomas showed no gain from the rains. The elevation stood at 2,249.28. There was no appreciable change in the lake level at Lake Colorado City.

The Lake Thomas gauge area reported .50 inch rainfall. Ackerly community reported half an inch of moisture.

The weather forecast calls for a continuation of the same kind of weather that prevailed over the weekend for Monday night and Tuesday. Slightly cooler weather is slated for Tuesday and occasional showers are promised.

Trailer Folk Meet

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — About 1,000 trailer dwellers from throughout the nation were on hand today for the opening of the Tin Can Tourists of the World's annual convention. This week will be devoted to dances, sports events and other entertainment.

MARILYN'S MATE

Playwright Given Contempt Citation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Playwright Arthur Miller, husband of actress Marilyn Monroe, was indicted today on two charges of contempt of Congress.

The indictment stemmed from Miller's refusal to tell the House Committee on Un-American Activities the names of fellow writers with whom he admitted attending Communist party meetings in 1939 and 1940.

Miller denied in testimony to the committee June 21, 1956, that he had ever been a Communist or under Communist discipline, but admitted he had been associated with a number of Communist-front groups.

The Pulitzer Prize winning playwright told the committee he "would not support now a cause dominated by Communists."

In refusing to name persons with whom he attended Communist party meetings, Miller said: "My conscience will not permit me to use the name of another person and bring trouble to him."

The federal grand jury which indicted Miller also returned a separate indictment charging Dr. Otto Nathan of New York, executor of the estate of the late Albert Einstein, with contempt of Congress.

Nathan, German-born associate professor at New York University, refused to answer some questions by the House Committee on Un-American Activities June 12, 1956. He told it he would not "make any kind of statements about my political and private associations."

Among questions Nathan refused to answer was whether he had ever been a member of the Communist party.

Neither Miller nor Nathan claimed the Fifth Amendment's privilege against answering questions that might tend to be incriminatory.

Miller married Miss Monroe last June. It was during his appearance before the committee that he told reporters of his forthcoming marriage to the actress.

Miller's play "All My Sons," was a Broadway hit in 1944 and won the New York Drama Critics' Award as the best play of the year.

Four years later his "Death of a Salesman" won both the drama critics' and Pulitzer prizes.

Contempt of Congress is punishable by up to $1,000 fine and a year's imprisonment on each count.

Consolidation Of Coahoma, Midway To Be Put To Vote

An election for consolidation of the Midway common and Coahoma Independent School districts has been called for March 16.

County Judge R. H. Weaver signed the election order on Monday morning in response to petitions presented by constituents in both the Coahoma and Midway districts.

The referendum will climax negotiations between the two districts. Midway trustees first approached the Coahoma board for a joint meeting, which was subsequently held. Then Midway trustees presented the proposal to Midway patrons, who generally approved. The petitions followed.

For several years most of the high school pupils in Midway school have attended the Coahoma High School. Midway has functioned as a grade school.

The Midway district contains 47 square miles. The Coahoma district, already the largest geographically in the county, has 242 square miles. Coahoma has 534 scholastics for the current school year and Midway has 140.

If the two districts approve consolidation in the March 16 balloting, then issues wil be submitted subsequently for assumption of outstanding indebtedness and for tax levies thereon. At the next regular trustee election (April 6) an entire new board of trustees would be elected.

Region From Panhandle To Gulf Dampened

By The Associated Press

Rains fell in Texas overnight from the Panhandle to the Gulf. The Weather Bureau called this the best general rain since last spring.

It was a continuation of the weekend downpours and showers that brought unprecented moisture for this time of year to parts of far West and Southwest Texas.

The Weather Bureau said the rains might continue for some time in parts of the state.

Rainfall totals for 24 hours ending at 6:30 a.m. Monday, most of them official Weather Bureau figures, showed:

Abilene .20 inch, Amarillo .37, Austin .72, Beaumont .45, Brownsville .64, Corpus Christi .50, Dallas .21, Del Rio .34, Fort Worth .19, Galveston 1.80, Houston 1.24, Laredo .64, Lubbock .27, Odessa .04, San Angelo .36, San Antonio .82, Victoria .55, Waco .39, Wichita Falls .25 to .75, Van Horn .16, Lufkin .59, Palacios 1.31, Cotulla .50, Junction .24, College Station .64, Mineral Wells .26, Wink .30, Childress .35, Texarkana .06, Dalhart .01, Big Spring .35, Sherman .05, Ranger .40, Cisco .36, Eastland .38, Gainesville .18, Karnes City .83, Kenedy .92 and up to 1.24 in parts of Karnes County, and Kilgore .81.

At Midland, an average of a half to three-quarters of an inch had fallen in two days. Some old timers there said they hadn't seen this kind of weather in February since 1949. The rain mostly was a slow drizzle, and skies remained overcast and more showers were expected.

At Plainview the rain started about 8:30 p.m. Sunday and continued intermittently but fairly steadily throughout the night and morning. The total to 10 a.m. was .70, and farmers indicated the rain was general in a wide area around Plainview.

Snyder had an overnight rainfall of .45 inch.

Farmers around Waco in Central Texas said they now have hope for a normal crop season. They said the area is in better shape than in the last 5 or 6 years. Waco had .50 inch, with as much

At Least 70 Die As Fire Destroys Old Folks Home

WARRENTON, Mo. (AP) — Fire turned an old folks' home into a blazing death oven in minutes here yesterday, taking the lives of at least 70 persons.

Seventy of the 155 inmates 45 of them women, were reported missing. Only ten bodies were recovered last night.

"The whole building was in flames in just three or four minutes," John J. Barada, a 34-year-old hardware operator, said. He was one of the first to reach the scene.

Bodies could be seen in the rubble. They were so badly burned that plastic bags and cardboard cartons were used to gather them up. Most of the bodies appeared to be in the basement.

County Coroner F. H. Knigge estimated the death toll "from 70 on up." The state highway patrol, in reporting 70 inmates unaccounted for, did not include employes.

Firemen from 25 nearby communities, townspeople and attendants rushed into the burning building and helped bedridden inmates and the injured out before flames thwarted further rescue attempts.

Shortly after the fire's start, a muffled explosion shot flames and smoke billowing into the air, visible more than 30 miles away.

It started off as a pleasant Sunday afternoon. Relatives were visiting with inmates. Some 50 of them were believed to have been in the building when the fire broke out at 3:45 p.m. Not all of them had been accounted for.

The Rev. Walter H. Schwanie, a Lutheran minister, was holding services in a first-floor room of a dormitory for 22 patients and 11 visitors.

The congregation was singing the hymn "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," when they heard someone shout, "Fire!" The visitors and the Rev. Mr. Schwanie helped the patients, two of them in wheel chairs, flee the flames.

The fire reportedly started in a hallway nearby. The operator of the home, Woodrow O'Sullivan, said he had no idea what caused it. Authorities said they were puzzled over how quickly flames enveloped the 65-year-old building. O'Sullivan estimated property damage at $250,000.

Mrs. Myrtle Gordon, 68, St. Charles, Mo., who needs crutches to walk was resting on her bed on the first floor. She smelled smoke and then heard running footsteps.

"I threw on a robe and grabbed my crutches and went into the hall," she related. "I never walked faster in my life. When I got to the door people were jamming up there and I got shoved out with everyone else."

Thirty-nine patients in an adjoining building, also a two-story brick structure, were evacuated safely and taken to a grocery store across the street.

Warren Stuart, an employe at a nearby filling station, was putting gasoline in a car when he heard the fire alarm in this east central Missouri town of 1,600, fifty-five miles west of St. Louis.

He helped six inmates to safety before flames turned him back. He told of hearing screams and cries for help.

"The more water they poured on it the faster it blew," he said. "In only a few moments the flames and smoke beat back rescue efforts. Those who had not gotten out by then just didn't get out."

Mrs. Velma O'Sullivan, wife of the operator of the home, was injured slightly helping 10 inmates escape. She and others laid mattresses on the ground and told inmates, standing at windows, to jump. Several jumped the 20 feet to safety.

O'Sullivan who had operated the home since 1948, said his patients ranged in age from 50 to 99 years. He called it the Katie Jane Memorial Home.

"I've spent $30,000 trying to fix it up just to prevent something like this," he said, explaining there were no heating stoves in the building. The home was heated by steam from a powerhouse a block away. Cook stoves in the kitchen used liquified petroleum fuel stored in big pressure tanks 100 yards behind the building.

Mayor Oscar H. Kossina said the Warrenton Volunteer Fire Department had inspected the home only four weeks ago and it had "passed inspection."

The nursing home fire was the third of its kind in the state in slightly more than four years. Twelve persons lost their lives in a rest home fire at Puxico in southeast Missouri last July. Eighteen persons burned to death in the fall of 1952 in Hillsboro, south of St. Louis. The Hillsboro home was operated by O'Sullivan's sister Mrs. James Lewis and her husband.

O'Sullivan said he believed his 90-year-old aunt, Mrs. Noad Chandler, perished in the fire.

Survivor Of Disaster

An aged woman who survived a fire at the Katie Jane old folks home in which 50 to 75 persons are reported to have perished is comforted after being removed from the burning building at Warrentown, Mo. Flames and explosions destroyed the two and one-half story brick building and firemen and spectators risked their lives in rescuing the bed-ridden victims from the flaming structure.

U.S. Washes Hands Of Israeli Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States virtually washed its hands today of efforts outside the United Nations to win Israeli withdrawal from disputed Middle East territories.

After an all-out weekend try which the White House said brought no agreement, President Eisenhower bluntly told Israel it now has "the maximum assurance that it can reasonably expect at this juncture, or that can be reconciled with fairness to others."

That was a key phrase in an 800-word statement authorized by the President at his Thomasville, Ga., vacation headquarters. He wound it up with a new appeal for Israeli cooperation with the United Nations, declaring:

"The United States, for its part, will strive to remain true to, and support, the United Nations in its efforts to sustain the purposes and principles of the charter, as the world's best hope of peace."

Israeli officials said, however, their talks with American officials are not at an end. Despite the air of finality about American pronouncements, Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban said he expects to meet again with Secretary of State Dulles — "but no date has been fixed."

While the main U. S. effort was shifting to the U. N. at New York City, Dulles' door still was open to Eban if his government wants to change its mind about holding on to the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba area called Sharm el Sheikh.

Golda Meir, Israel's foreign minister, said last night Israeli troops would evacuate Sharm el Sheikh in an hour if the United States guaranteed free shipping to all nations in the Gulf of Aqaba.

In a nationwide TV appearance, she proposed three other possible solutions: (1) a similar guarantee by Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Jordan, which border the gulf, (2) stationing of U.N. police forces at Sharm el Sheikh to prevent harassment of gulf shipping, and (3) an Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty. ed States found just as unacceptIt was to avoid a showdown in the U.N. on the issue of sanctions against Israel that Dulles proposed his two-part plan last Monday. Eban came back with a counter proposal which the United States found just as anacceptable. Both plans were made public last night. The formal documents bore out what already had been reported of their substance:

1. That Dulles demanded "prompt and unconditional" Israeli withdrawal from the areas captured in last fall's fighting; pledged to seek stationing of U.N. police force in Gaza and Sharm el Sheikh, and to "exercise the right of free and innocent passage" by sending an American ship into the gulf; but "the first requirement is that force of invasion and occupation should withdraw."

2. That Eban applauded the spirit of the proposal but said "no effective steps were taken" to stop Egypt from discriminating against Israeli shipping; called for "a precise guarantee" of free gulf access or assurance that U.N. forces would patrol the gulf coast until a peaceful settlement; denied any basis for returning Gaza to Egypt and insisted it be left in Israeli civilian hands backed by a police force; and asked for clarification on how the United States feels about reopening the Suez Canal under conditions still banning Israeli use of it.

Eban was noncommittal late yesterday when he emerged from Dulles' home after an hourlong talk. He had had similar talks Friday and Saturday.

A focal point now will be the United Nations General Assembly meeting tomorrow.

The extraordinary statement put out by Eisenhower emphasized, as Dulles had in his contacts with Eban, that Israel must withdraw before anything else can happen. That is precisely what Israel says it cannot do.

Eisenhower is adamant that Israel rely "upon the resoluteness of all friends of justice" for a fair solution.

"This, we believe, should provide a greater source of security for Israel than an occupation continued contrary to the overwhelming judgment of the world community," the Eisenhower statement said.

Youth Sought After Parents Are Slain

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — Wichita County Sheriff Weldon Bailey issued a statewide pickup order yesterday for a 16-year-old boy whose mother and stepfather were found shot to death at their home here.

The bullet-riddled bodies of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Parks were found yesterday. Mrs. Parks was found dead near the front door of their home. A trail of blood led from the bed to her crumpled body. Parks' body lay nearby.

Sheriff Bailey said Mrs. Parks' son, James, 16, was missing along with the family car. He said he had been reported sighted in Matador, Tex., near Lubbock in West Texas. Earlier he said officers thought the youth might be headed for Arkansas where he had relatives.

Sand Spring Woman Praises Sleeping Formula

I have been troubled for years with being unable to sleep. I was afraid to take anything as I thought it might make a dope adict of me. I have spent night after night that I could not sleep. Of course I was nervous, because of ill health and needed an operation.

Tranq-Wal was recommended to me as being safe, not habit forming, and not a barbiturate or narcotic .I bought a box, asked a doctor about it, if it would be harmful to me. After he advised me that it would not, I took a bottle of them. I will say that I have not had anything to help me as they did. I take one thirty minutes before bedtime and sleep all night. I have to set the alarm now. When I wake up I am fresh and feel good during my work all day and maybe I won't have to have an operation. I give this letter with my own free will and was not paid to write it.

$700 Million Is Cost Of Atom Warning Net

WASHINGTON (AP)—To the estimated 40 billion dollars which would be needed for a national program of building H-bomb shelters, add another 700 million dollars for establishing a reliable warning system to tell all the people to take cover.

A study made for the National Academy of Sciences' Advisory Committee on Civil Defense makes that cost estimate for the warning system.

The report was prepared last year by Willard Bascom, an engineer and scientist, but comes to attention now in light of a White House announcement last week that it has an H-bomb shelter program under active consideration. That announcement said the cost of such a project might run between 20 billion and 40 billion dollars.

Rep. Albert Thomas (D-Tex) said Saturday a shelter program to provide "minimum protection" against hydrogen bomb attack would cost from 35 to 40 billion dollars based on civil defense estimates.

The study prepared for the academy is based on two premises:

1. "The old concept of warning only those who live near the centers of potential target areas is not acceptable. Initial weapons effects can reach out 50 miles and fall-out can go many times farther; bombs in aircraft which are brought down by our defenses may explode and missiles from submarines or other continents may go wild and miss their targets by many miles."

2. Probably by 1960, when transoceanic missiles are ready for use, warning time will drop to "a matter of minutes."

The academy study says that "a reasonable goal" to aim for is the ability to warn 95 per cent of the United States population within five minutes.

A nationwide, effective warning system would include both interior and exterior systems such as radio and telephone devices, sirens and specialized equipment for sounding warnings in factories and other places where the normal noise level might drown out a siren sound.

Passengers Hurt When Bus Skids

Many soldiers and officers joined the revolt led by students and workers. Officers were taken back after the Russians crushed the revolt only if they signed a statement supporting the Russian intervention.

Senate Expected To Pass Mid-East Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) predicted today the Senate will pass by a margin of more than 2-1 its revised version of President Eisenhower's anti-Communist Middle East resolution.

But Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) said in a separate interview that if more than 25 of the Senate's 96 members vote "no," their action might classify the resolution as "one of those matters it might have been better not to bring up."

Both Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles have urged a decisive vote for the resolution to demonstrate solid support. The House passed it 355-61.

The Senate is expected to begin debate on the Middle East plan late today after acting on the first money bill before it this session.

As revised by Senate committees, the resolution would provide that "if the President determines the necessity thereof, the United States is prepared to use armed forces" to assist Middle Eastern nations seeking such aid "against armed aggression from any country controlled by international communism."

Up to 200 million dollars in military and economic aid also would be made available for Middle Eastern countries.

The Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees approved this version as a substitute for the House-passed bill which would directly authorize Eisenhower to use troops to aid countries requesting assistance. That was the form Eisenhower originally asked.

Of the 30 committee members, eight influential Democrats voted against the resolution. Their opposition to any declaration of this type seemed likely to reflect a larger "no" vote in the Senate than administration leaders had expected.

Knowland said, however, he believes there will be no major changes in the measure as it was approved by the committees and it will be passed "by a better than 2-1 vote."

Both Aiken and Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) said they hope the measure can be "improved" when a Senate - House committee sets out later to compromise the differing versions.

Senators O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) and Douglas (D-Ill) already have said they will try to amend the resolution in the Senate.

O'Mahoney said he wants to delete mention of the United Nations because he fears that would raise a legal barrier to independent American action.

Douglas said he wants to write in a restriction that the President shall obtain agreements "as binding as possible" that American arms would not be used by recipient countries in the Middle East for aggressive purposes.

Traffic Boosts Weekend Death Toll

By The Associated Press

Rain-slicked highways figured in two multi-fatality traffic accidents Sunday to boost Texas' weekend violent death toll to at least 32 persons.

Traffic claimed 14 lives, mostly during rainy weather.

Civil Rights, Foreign Policy, Statehood Final Demo Actions

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Resolutions prodding Congress to enact civil rights legislation at its present session, denouncing the Eisenhower-Dulles foreign policy and demanding quick statehood for both Hawaii and Alaska were announced as the final actions of national Democratic party leaders at their first West Coast meeting.

Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler said the meetings of the national committee, the new advisory council and other leaders were held here as a tribute to the West, which scored election gains that gave the Democratic party control of Congress.

The resolutions were adopted in closed sessions of the advisory council.

The civil rights resolution urged passage "during this first session of the 85th Congress of legislation embodying civil right planks in the 1956 Democratic platform.

Specifically mentioned were elimination of discrimination on the right to vote and to engage in gainful occupations.

No mention was made in the resolution of the Supreme Court desegregation decision or of violence which has followed in some Southern states.

The platform referred to the decision and put the party directly in support of the high court.

Former Sen. Herbert H. Lehman of New York, a member of the advisory council, flayed the Republican administration in a statement for what he called the "lending of moral authority" to disregard of the Supreme Court decision in the South.

Asked what reaction he anticipated from Southern congressmen or party leaders, Butler said that since the resolution only reaffirmed and asked for action on the party "would be justified in objecting to it."

He added the resolution had been opposed in the advisory council only by Mrs. Lennard Thomas of Alabama, an alternate member of the Democratic committee's National Executive Committee. Mrs. Thomas did not want any statement on civil rights, Butler said.

The two Southern members, Camille F. Gravelle Jr., Alexandria, La., national committeeman, and Mrs. Benjamin B. Everett, national committeewoman from Palmyra, N.C., both voted for the resolution.

Adlai Stevenson, the 1956 Democratic presidential nominee, who sat with the council, referred to civil rights only once in his speech to a $50 Democratic dinner Saturday night. He "hoped and prayed" that Congress would pass civil rights legislation "with overwhelming Democratic support and without filibuster and parliamentary harassment."

Ed Wynn, Red Skelton Get Nomination For TV Award

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ed Wynn and Red Skelton, who have made a lifetime career of taking comic pratfalls, turned to tear production this season and won themselves nominations for television Emmies.

The nomination of the two famous comics highlighted the televised nomination ceremony Saturday night of the Television Academy of Arts and Sciences. Nominees were announced in 29 acting and technical categories, with the winners to be selected March 16.

Wynn's nomination for best supporting actor and Skelton's for best single performance were 2 of 13 nominations won by Playhouse 90, the CBS-TV weekly dramatic series which swept the nominations.

Among other nominees to become early favorites.

John Daly, who covered the political conventions with more attention to news than electronics and won a nomination in the newsgathering category.

Nanette Fabray, no longer (Sid) Caesar's "wife," but nominated anyway as best comedienne.

James (Gunsmoke) Arness and Hugh (Wyatt Earp) O'Brien, expected to have a showdown fight for best series actor.

Evelyn Rudie, the child actress who played "Eloise" on Playhouse 90.

Jack Benny, whose recent 39th anniversary of his 39th birthday was celebrated by the Friers' Club at $100 a plate, for best comedian.

Jane Wyman, already a movie Oscar winner, for best series actress.

"Requiem for a Heavyweight," for best single program of the year.

Senate Probers Claim Signs Of Fraud, Abuses

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate probers, digging for evidence of racketeering in labor and industry, say they have uncovered signs of widespread fraud and other abuses.

Reporting this yesterday, Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) said investigators are at work in nine cities. He said more than six unions are involved. He predicted the inquiry would turn up evidence to warrant criminal charges.

McClellan is chairman of a special Senate committee set up to handle the labor-management racketeering inquiry. He discussed the situation on the ABC television program Press Conference.

He said six months of investigations have produced indications of fraud in many places. Evidences of racketeering "extended plumb out to the West Coast," he said.

Among problems the committee will deal with are labor-management collusion, racketeer control of some unions, misuse of union shakedowns conflict of interest by and welfare funds, violence, officials, and deprivation of civil rights and liberties of union members.

McClellan said New York, Philadelphia, Scranton, Pa., Chicago, Minneapolis, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Ore., and Seattle Wash., have been investigated.

Unions under study were listed as the teamsters, carpenters, operating engineers, plumbers and steamfitters, Allied Industrial Workers and other groups in the building trades.

On another TV interview, AFL-CIO President George Meany said that "up to the present time" he has had no evidence of any wrongdoing by international officers of the Teamsters Union. If such evidence should be developed, he would take action.

Queen, Duke In Portugese Visit

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh stepped ashore in Lisbon today for the first visit to Portugal by a British monarch in 53 years.

Cannon boomed a 21-gun salute. Dense crowds of holidaying Portuguese cheered lustily. Thousands of colorful fishing boats dotted the waters of the Tagus River.

The Queen and her husband came ashore in a 100-year-old royal barge which deposited them on a gaily decorated landing stage. They are making a three-day state visit to Britain's ally for 600 years. The last British ruler to visit Lisbon was the Queen's great-grandfather, Edward VII.

The couple transferred to the gilded barge from the royal yacht Britannia, anchored in the Tagus River estuary 400 yards offshore. Elizabeth and her husband had spent 20 hours in squally weather on the yacht 30 miles southeast of here before beginning the state visit.

The reunion on the yacht brought the royal couple together after being apart for four months while the Duke was on a world circling tour. It gave them their first opportunity to discuss privately the reports of a rift between them. The reports were denied by Buckingham Palace.

Three Portuguese and three British destroyers escorted the Britannia as it entered the wide Tagus.

Elizabeth and the Duke stepped between two rows of gaily uniformed Portuguese sailors who rowed the barge. The Queen wore a flaring blue-purple satin coat with diamond clips on her right lapel and on her blue velvet hat. She also wore white gloves, pearl earrings, and brown open-toed shoes.

Edinburgh wore the uniform of an admiral of the British navy with a broad blue sash across his chest.

Portugese President Francisco Higino Craveiro Lopes moved down the red-carpeted steps of the landing stage to greet the visitors.

After the landing ceremony and a review of an honor guard, the British royal couple began a long and ceremonious program before them.

A Bible Thought For Today

For I would not, brethren, that ye should be ignorant of this mystery, lest ye should be wise in your own conceits, that blindness in part is happened to Israel, until the fulness of the Gentiles be come in. (Romans 11:15.)

Way Open To Preserve Our Archives

It is odd that a state with a history as varied and well-documented as Texas should be content to have some of its most precious and physically perishable documents piled like junk in rat-infested sheet-irom warehouses at the headquarters of the State Safety Department for want of a more suitable place to store them.

As part of Mexico, the history of Texas goes back to 1519 when Cortez put his 700-man invading force ashore near Vera Cruz. That was more than a hundred years before Plymouth Rock, and 88 years before Jamestown. Documents relating even remotely to the exploration and settlement of Texas may be said to be priceless, yet to our shame be it said we have no place to put them except hay barns, so to speak.

To remedy this situation Rep. Raymond R. Russell Jr. of San Antonio, joined by a score of other representatives, has introduced H. B. No. 429. This would authorize the use of more than $2.5 million from the surplus funds of the Safety Department's motor vehicle inspection fund for the purpose of building a State Library near the Capitol grounds to house the state's archives. Rep. Russell says Col. Homer Garrison, director of the Safety Department, has volunteered to make this surplus available if the necessary legislation is passed.

Texas needs many things that cost money, but it seems to us an investment in a building to preserve and protect the state's library and archives would be one of the most enduring one could imagine.

Unless this is done many of these valuable documents will be lost to posterity forever.

The authors of the bill point out this would entail no new taxes, and it is to be hoped the Legislature gives the matter serious consideration as soon as possible.

Promising Career Cut Short

George Sessions Perry, the writer whose body was found in a river two miles from his home at Guilford, Conn., this week, was a native of Rockdale, Texas. He left his home several weeks ago ostensibly to search for a missing dog, and a prolonged search had failed to find his body or to explain his disappearance. He suffered from arthritis, and a year or two ago had a nervous breakdown.

Perry was best known as the author of a series in the Saturday Evening Post called "The Cities of America," though he had an established reputation as a novelist before beginning that series. He was an amiable writer, with a humorous slant, and a thorough reporter when dealing with concrete facts like the description of cities and their people.

He was almost an expatriate Texan, having spent most of his life in the East, but loved to visit his old haunts around Rockdale occasionally. He was unlike a good many expatriate Texas writers in that he neither glorified his state nor gave it the hot foot, but in all his references to it maintained his customary bland and amiable attitude.

He was born in 1910, attended Allen Academy at Bryan, studied at Southwestern University at Georgetown, a few miles from his birthplace, and at Purdue and the University of Houston.

He was a great strapping fellow who made many friends in Texas and elsewhere, and had his health not broken down he might have made many more valuable contributions to the literature of the Southwest in particular, and the country in general. He lived a busy, far-ranging life and gave pleasure to many millions of his fellow-Americans.

Stronger Statement On Middle-East

WASHINGTON—Maybe the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees pulled an unintentional boner. They wanted to "water down" the resolution about the use of troops in the Middle East. Instead, they not only strengthened it but probably went further on the road to war than has any resolution ever passed by Congress in advance of hositilities.

The resolution, as adopted recently by the House of Representatives, stated merely that the President is "authorized to undertake military assistance programs" in the Middle East and is "authorized to employ the armed forces of the United States as he deems necessary."

But the resolution adopted by a 20-to-8 vote of the two combined Senate committees says "the United States is prepared to use" its armed forces to assist any Middle East nations threatened by international Communism "if the President deems it necessary."

The first phrasing—by the House of Representatives—is simply permissive. The resolution by the Senate committees is much more of a threat. It is an announcement of a decision by Congress declaring that the executive can take such action as he deems necessary. It says "the United States is prepared to use" its armed forces. The words—"the United States"—mean both the executive and Congress, acting together. It sounds more like an old-fashioned ultimatum.

The difference in the wording arose from a variety of motives. Some Democrats dislike the idea of being asked to delegate the power to use force. Others feel the executive already has the power to act and Congress need only affirm in advance that he has it. Still others want to pass the buck—preferring to wait to see how it all comes out. If the use of force proves unpopular, they think they can shift the blame and say Congress didn't authorize it and that the President must take the responsibility. The Republicans voted for the resolution just to get it out of the committees and to expedite action. The wording of the resolution will have to be ironed out anyway in conference between the two houses, and one suspects that it is the Senate's resolution that will be "watered down" to square with the language of "authorization" granted by the House.

The proceedings of the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees have been hectic and confusing. Plenty of partisan bitterness, which never should prevail in handling delicate matters of foreign policy, seems to have cropped up. One glaring example of it was the refusal of the committees to allow publication until now of the text of the answer made by Secretary of State Dulles before the committees in executive session more than two weeks ago when he replied to the charge that he was reflecting on British and French troops. The original comment by him occurred at a committee hearing on January 25, when, in answering a question about allied action, he said he thought it would be better not to have French and British troops alongside American troops "as things are today," but he added, "I hope they change."

This was widely misinterpreted in the press abroad as a reflection in the valor of the British and French troops. A press officer at the State Department promptly denied this, but the denial didn't catch up with the anti-American sentiment generated abroad by the false report. Mr. Dulles appeared on January 28 before the joint committee and made a fuller statement, but it was not released until February 14. In the meantime, much damage was done to American prestige abroad. Mr. Dulles said in part:

"I spoke as I did precisely in relation to the present situation, particularly in Egypt, where due to the fact that the British and the French forces had been there as enemies fighting Arabs, and were being or had recently been withdrawn pursuant to the United Nations decision, anything indicating that they would be brought back under these present conditions would not be useful. The same reasoning led the United Nations itself, as you have pointed out, not to include British and French in the United Nations emergency force which is in Egypt at the present time. . . .

"Certainly we hope very much that those conditions will rapidly change, and indeed they do not prevail throughout the whole of the area at the present time, I am glad to say. But there are parts of the area where at the moment, due to the fact that the British and French forces have been in there as hostile forces, their reintroduction at this time or the suggestion that they would be reintroduced would not promote the purposes of this resolution."

It will be interesting to see if those sections of the British press which printed the original misrepresentation will now print the official text of the Secretary of State's testimony just released.

U.S. Promises Indefinite

WASHINGTON (AP) — The disagreement between the United States and Israel comes down to this: the United States says, "Trust us to do our best." Israel says, "Thanks, but we want something more solid than good intentions."

That's the sum total of a week of words and notes exchanged between President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles and representatives of the Israeli government.

It would be nice for the United States and the United Nations—in their quest for Middle East peace—if Israel would withdraw its troops from Gaza and the Aqaba Gulf area, both of which it seized when it attacked Egypt last fall.

It might give Egyptian President Nasser that much less excuse for making trouble in the Middle East. The United States asked Israel to pull back its troops. The United Nations demanded it. Israel refused.

Israel says it won't budge until it gets guarantees that, once its troops are withdrawn, the United States or the United Nations guarantees to prevent Nasser from attacking Israel across Gaza or blockading Israeli shipping in the gulf.

No such guarantees have been given by either this country or the U.N. Dulles has talked vaguely of "support" for Israel if her troops pull back. But he's never explained exactly what he means by "support."

Eisenhower has said Israel should "rely upon the resoluteness of all friends of justice." Since good intentions can get sabotaged or sidetracked, the Israelis aren't taking any chances.

And Israel remembers how helpless the United States has been so far in dealing with Nasser. But the American-Israeli week of words at least postponed for that long a showdown in the United Nations.

A week ago, just before the world organization was getting ready to consider sanctions against Israel if it still refused to budge, Dulles thought up the idea of making the American request to Israel.

Any attempt by the U.N. to use sanctions against Israel would be embarrassing for both the U. N. and the United States. The United States has, in Israel, at least one friend in the Middle East. This country helped create Israel.

But neither the United States nor the United Nations believes in trying to force every nation which disobeys U.N. resolutions to back down. Russia ignored the U.N. demand to get out of Hungary and the U.N. did nothing.

When Egypt first began blocking Israel shipping from the Suez Canal some years ago, the U.N. ordered an end to it. Egypt ignored the command and kept on blocking, which was why Israel now insists on guarantees before leaving the Aqaba area.

Since to use sanctions on Israel, but not on Russia or Egypt, would make the U.N. look a little hypocritical, and would leave other small nations open to the same treatment some other time, the U.N. may never try sanctions.

Joe College Is A Swell Guy

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP)—Joe College today is a great guy.

Don't let anyone tell you he's just a spoiled retired teen - ager who thinks life is simply one long grand ride on golden roller skates.

I came out here to teach Joe College something, but the real result, I feel, is that I have learned a lot from him. There is nothing like a visit to a modern campus to make an old grad feel young and immature.

It is the custom at Southern Illinois University here to bring a working newspaperman in periodically to talk to the student journalists. The victim is known as the Elijah Lovejoy memorial lecturer.

Lovejoy, an early abolitionist, was an editor who was shot to death by a mob in Alton, Ill., in 1837. Just why they brought me here I am not sure, unless it was to prove—120 years late—that the mob shot the wrong newspaperman.

Twenty-five years have galloped into the stall of oblivion since I was graduated from the University of Missouri. On the way here I wondered whether college life had changed much.

At first sight I felt sure it hadn't. The corduroy trousers and sweat shirts still looked as unpressed as in the days when I wore them.

But after three days of almost continuous bull sessions with the lords and ladies of this campus, I found a number of differences.

For one thing, some 10 per cent of the 6,000 students here are married. When I was in college and a student learned he was to become a father he generally left town. Now he is called into the dean's office, congratulated, and handed a cigar.

All the Joe Colleges I met seemed to have one quality in common—an optimistic confidence that life would turn out well with them.

How different Joe College was in 1932. We were smart-alec and cynical, because in that depression time we felt the world had small use for us.

We tried to make a joke of it and called ourselves, "the unemployables." We weren't members of "the lost generation." That was a few years before us. We were of the 'get lost' generation. We felt unsure, doubtful of ourselves, unwanted in a job-hungry universe.

Maybe youth should always feel troubled and insecure and feed only for a while on impossible dreams. Maybe Joe College today feels too secure and will find he has been living in a fool's paradise.

But I hope not. It is wonderful to see young people happy in the present and confident of the future, isn't that really how we'd all like to be?

I had half a mind to enroll as a freshman myself—and start all over again.

Tech Students To Reconstruct Frontier Fort

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Texas Tech archeology professor has been here digging into records about a pre-Civil War Cavalry post which protected early-day settlers in the Southwest.

Known as Ft. Burgwin just south of Taos, N.M., the fort existed from 1852 to 1860. It is to be restored and reconstructed by Tech students under Dr. Fred Wendorf, 31, who teaches archaeology in Lubbock.

Not much remains now, except mounds where chimneys and other more solid parts of the frame barracks and headquarters building were. About 200 officers and men were stationed there.

In his search for facts on which to write a history of the fort and base the restoration project, Wendorf came to Washington and got in touch with George Mahon of Lubbock, Sen. Lyndon Johnson and New Mexico's Rep. John Dempsey.

Soon the chief archivist of the United States, Dr. Wayne Grover, looked up the youthful Wendorf and learned more of the undertaking. Funds for the restoration, which may take 10 years to complete, are being given by the Wichita Foundation of Wichita, Kan.

Wendorf had the run of the huge grey-stone National Archives Building.

"I'm delighted with what I've found," he said.

The Automobile Industry Is B-I-G

Things I never knew about the automotive industry and the motoring public until I scanned a trade journal recently:

No fewer than 3,500,000 automobiles and 600,000 trucks find their way to the "graveyards" every year — the junk heaps of the business.

If you think you're still living in the horse-and-buggy age, listen to this: The number of licensed drivers in this country now exceeds the number of inhabitants at the time the automobile was introduced. In 1895, when there were only four automobiles in operation, the population was reported at 69,500,000. Now, there are 77,000,000 licensed drivers of automobiles, trucks and buses.

U. S. farmers today own 7,000,000 motor vehicles, compared to 4,500,000 horses and mules. Ten years ago, there were 11,900,000 dray animals, compared to 5,600,000 autos.

In the decade after World War II, the writing of automobile insurance has increased almost fourfold in this country. Personal liability leads in preference, followed by property damage, fire and theft.

One out of every three public school students today rides in school buses. The estimated cost of the service amounts to $340,000,000.

Since 1893, when Frank Duryea built the first successful automobile, some 2,500 companies have entered the field of car production. Today, only five are still in business. Of the 20 new companies which were organized after World War II, none survives today. Just four years ago, there were nine auto manufacturers in business. By 1954, the number was down to eight; by 1955, it was cut to six. Last year, two quit business.

At an average rate of 30 miles an hour, it would take you more than 11 years to travel over all the rural roads in the U. S. in existence today. There are 3,012,520 miles of them.

At 60 miles an hour, approximately 3,000 gallons or 60 barrels of water ar circulated through the average automobile radiator an hour.

The average life of a motor vehicle has increased from six years in 1925 to a present all-time high of 13 years. Total mileage accumulated during an average vehicle's lifetime had quadrupled since 1925, rising from 25,750 miles to 115,000.

More than 47 per cent of all radios built in the United States are designed for automotive use.

There are 54,300,000 passenger cars and 10,975,000 trucks and buses for a total of 65,275,000 motor vehicles in use in America today — a 90 per cent increase in ten years.

Approximately 66,850,000 motor vehicles, with a wholesale value of $95,800,000,000 have been produced and sold in the U. S. since 1947.

In the Central American country of San Salvador, a motorist who injures a person and is at fault must stay in jail until his victim recovers.

The journal didn't say how many cars can pass an intersection and keep a motorist at bay on a side street before he loses his temper.

Teevee Ruining The Value Of Money

These are the days when everyone, including the Secretary of the Treasury, is scared to death that inflation is going to ruin money and keep the printing presses working overtime.

It is Gresham's Law (look it up in your own encyclopedia) that bad money puts the Indian sign on good money, and pretty soon none of it is worth so much as a boxtop.

Oh, I think money is on the way to the ruination bowwows, all right. Only I think it is teevee and not inflation that's putting the skids under it.

Over the past five years television has bred an increasing contempt for money. Nor am I pointing an accusing finger at the giveaway programs, although it is increasingly difficult to stand at salute in the presence of a five-dollar bill when tiny tots are hauling home thousands upon thousands of dollars for knowing the name of Paul Revere's horse, the make of saddle it favored and whether the horse or Paul counted the lights in the old church tower.

It's not the teevee giveaways but the teevee spectaculars that are giving the populace the idea that money not only ain't worth the effort but that it just ain't worthy anything.

Let us examine the case of "Mayerling." This 90-minute canape was so widely touted that I decided it would be nothing short of subversive not to look at it. I was impressed, no mistake. Never before have so many cliches and so much ham been compressed into a 90-minute period.

But it was all done so stylishly, with so many period costumes and so much palace background that in our household we nicknamed it "tripe a la mode" and let it go at that.

Indeed, my motto is "Live and let live" and I would never have brought the matter up if I had not read later on that "Mayerling" is the first solid gold spectacular, costing a sum total of $620,000. Of this amount, $500,000 went for the production itself and $120,000 for 90 minutes of teevee time.

It was at this turning point that I, who am just crazy about money, began to realize that teevee could be the end of it. Surely, $620,000 for a dish of tripe a la mode is enough to kill anyone's respect for the long green. I even began to resent Anatole Litvak's assault on history.

It is true, all right, that Prince Rudolph of Hapsburg was crown prince of the old Austro-Hungarian Empire, and that he was a good-time Charlie. That much Anatole got right. But to this day no one really knows what happened at Mayerling, or who killed whom or why.

The official dossier on the tragedy was excluded from the state archives of the old Empire and all persons in any way connected with it were sworn to secrecy. Only one thing is certain: Baroness Marie Vetsera, Rudolph's honeybun, knew all about the birds and the bees—contrary to Audrey Hepburn's portrayal of her.

At the time of the event, it was variously reported that the tragedy was (1) a suicide pact, (2) murder by religious fantics, (3) murder by an enraged husband (not Marie's), (4) murder by a group of Hungarian noblemen and (5) a suicide and murder with the Baroness doing the shooting.

The most interesting version of the tragedy I ever heard was told me some years ago by a man whose father had been a high-ranking Austro-Hungarian diplomat during the days of the Mayerling tragedy. His parents had told him that Marie's enraged male relatives had broken into Mayerling. In the fight that ensued, Prince Rudolph was brained with—appropriately enough—a champagne bottle. And Marie got in the way of a bullet.

But even this version isn't worth $620,000 on a 21-inch screen, even in compatible color. And certainly the inane version of Mayerling served up by teevee at that price can only lead to either the total devaluation of money or television.

An End To The Era Of Hard Feelings

The president will receive M. Mollet, the French Prime Minister, in about ten days, and a month later he will fly to Bermuda to confer with Mr. Macmillan. There is no doubt that the simultaneous announcement of these two separate meetings is to be taken as meaning the official end of the period of hard feelings which were aroused over the Suez affair. This is good news. But with the best will in the world, it would be a mistake to assume that the alliance will now be just what it was before, and that there are no fundamental problems which have to be faced.

In thinking about these problems, it is useful to distinguish between our alliance with Britain and with France on the one hand, and our partnership with them in world affairs. The alliance, which is registered in the NATO treaty, is a solemn and specific pact of mutual defense within the geographical area defined in the treaty. There has been no "rift" in this alliance. It was as valid and binding on the night in the U. N. when we voted against the British and French action in Egypt as it was when the NATO treaty was originally signed.

What has broken down is the partnership which derived not from a treaty but from the personal relationship of Churchill and Roosevelt during the second World War. Into this partnership, after her liberation from the Germans, France was admitted. The essence of the partnership was that in the great issues of peace and war, we would all consult one another and would work out a common policy. When Britain and France intervened in Egypt without consulting the United States, when the United States then took the lead in the United Nations to oppose them, the partnership which Churchill and Roosevelt created was dissolved.

* * *

The question now is in what measure a new partnership can be developed. I think we must put it that way because the old partnership would not have dissolved last autumn if there had not already been a deep erosion of the basis on which it rested. Its basis was the common peril of a world war against a formidable enemy inEurope . The war in the Pacific was always in considerable degree outside the partnership. But in the rest of the war — in Europe. The war in the Pacific was East, Africa and the Atlantic Ocean — the Churchill-Roosevelt partnership was real because the two governments were so profoundly dependent the one on the other.

In the post-war period, the area has been contracting in which the partnership has worked. North of Hongkong it has disappeared in the Far East. It does not exist in South Asia. Now it is greatly shrunken in the Middle East, and the question is whether and how far a new partnership can be developed.

* * *

The area in which the new working partnership needs to be developed, where it is indeed indispensible, is on the continent of Europe, in the Middle East, and in Africa. The affair in Suez proved that in this area there cannot be an independent British or French policy. It follows that we shall have to work out common policies for the reunion of the two Germanies, for the security of the whole continent, for the stabilization and the neutralization of the Middle East, and for the development of Africa.

If we can do that, we shall have again what Churchill and Roosevelt had when they founded the old partnership — great things to do that we must do together.

Worry Warts?

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP) — A psychiatrist reports that bacteria and other minute organisms find it easier to infect people who worry and fret.

"All organic diseases are influenced by psychological factors," said Dr. Leo Rangell, clinical professor of psychiatry at UCLA, at a recent postgraduate seminar on psychiatric problems in general practice. "Resistance to infection is influenced by the psychic state."

The psychiatrist said emotional irritations may be reflected in irritations of the lining of the colon or skin surface, which in turn invite bacterial invasion.

Well Preserved

WATERLOO, Ont. (AP) — "Out of date, but out of debt," is the slogan Charles Kayes has painted on his 1929 model car, which he bought for $30 three years ago. He estimates that in 27 years the car has logged only 26,000 miles, and can still make 70 m.p.h.

She Likes Simplicity

To be well dressed is to be simply dressed is the contention of Actress Constance Bennett. Although Miss Bennett is known for her fashionable ideas both in interior decorating and in designing clothes, she doesn't believe in belts between the shoulders or slung below the derriere. Miss Bennett is familiar to NBC's "Matinee Theater" viewers and to many who have taken in her night club act throughout the country.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Don't Overdress, Is Caution From Connie

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — Constance Bennett has to struggle to keep her weight above 95 pounds but she is a dynamo of energy with multiple interests. She is one of the world's best dressed women and has designed clothes, prepared cosmetics and even dabbled in interior decorating. Some of her interior designs are used nationally today. Lately when she couldn't find a play to her liking she dreamed up a night club act.

I recalled a critic attributing Miss Bennett's wardrobe and not the plot for keeping her play running on Broadway and so when I visited her at NBC's "Matinee Theater," I invited her to talk about clothes.

"To be well-dressed is not to be overdressed, no matter where one is appearing," she began. "The big question is not what to put on but what to take off. Clothes should compliment your body or if necessary disguise figure faults. I don't think it is attractive to wear clothes too tightly, even a sheath, or a dress that overpowers one's personality.

"I don't care for extremes of any kind and I think fashion dictators who put belts between your shoulders or below your derriere should be ignored," Miss Bennett went on. "They can move hemlines up and down but I wear my skirts at a length which is becoming."

"Do you think you have to be born with a fashion sense?" I asked.

"No," she said after a thoughtful pause. "I think taste in clothes can be developed. As you get to know yourself, you discover what types to look for and what to disregard. When you don't have confidence in your own tastes, begin with a simple line — you can't go wrong there.

"Don't have an extensive wardrobe with inexpensive dresses but spend your money on a good suit, sweaters and skirts," she advised. "If possible, add to this a basic black dress and you can go anywhere.

"Good clothes are an economy. They can be worn year after year with confidence," Miss Bennett concluded.

Popularity Poll Brings Varied Responses From Local Swains

By MARY SUE HALE

What factors determine a girl's popularity? There are any number of qualifications set up for local girls, as pointed out by a number of boys attending Howard County Junior College. Between the ages of 18 and 23, these fellows agree without exception with survey findings from the Survey Research Center, University of Michigan, in that a popular girl must have consideration for others, skill in social activities, and good moral character.

But, added to the above standards by which boys on HCJC campus judge a girl's popularity, Richard Engle declares that a girl must have a give and take attitude. "Furthermore," declares Max McCulloch, "she's got to know how to cook."

Jointly Richard and Max agree with Bobby Wardell in saying that a girl's popularity largely coincides with her personality. "I would go so far as to say that a girl's popularity is three-fourths made up of her personality," ventures Bobby." Also, the girls should take some initiative," he concluded.

Enthusiasm, IQ, and personality are top qualifications on Kirk Faulkner's list of components of popularity. "I think that popularity is a very intangible thing," said Bobby Myers. "But I think, to be popular, a girl should like sports, should be cheerful, and should never, under any circumstances, gossip." In general agreement, Bennie Compton added that a girl should have a fair attitude, should be willing to compromise differences of opinion, and should be friendly.

Looking at the matter from a different slant, Forrest A. Sherman quipped that a girl's popularity was determined by the type of clothes she wears. "And she wouldn't be hindered by having long hair and being feminine," suggested Don H. Stueck.

Being able to keep up a good conversation and having something to say when she talks ranks high with Charles Machnik. "And," added Charles, "usually you can determine how popular a girl is with people in general just by talking to her for a few minutes. The popular girl, reasons Charles, is able to make you feel at ease almost immediately."

George Kozachuk firmly implies that personality is the dominant characteristic of any popular girl. Constituting personality, George reasons, are a girl's attitude, the way she walks, the way she talks, her looks, and most important, her smile.

"Intelligence rates pretty high in my estimation," asserts George Clark, "also a pleasing personal appearance and an ability to conform with any situation."

The rare talent of being accurate and punctual is considered very important by Jack Allerton, who also notes that a popular girl has the ability to get along with other people.

Having an active role in school affairs is most important, according to Harlen Thornton. "I also consider the weight cast by a good sense of humor," Harlen said.

Along with loyalty and honesty, James Skeen merits personality and the ability to deal with people as necessary qualifications of any popular girl. James stated that he also appreciates the girl who can reach her own conclusions about matters.

"It's all a case of 'guesstimation,'" said U. G. Powell, in an effort to throw some light on the subject of necessary attributes of a popular girl. "Popularity is a rare quality — more or less — not solved by any formula. Either a girl has the components to success, in the way of popularity, or she doesn't measure up to par."

Bryan Huff considers a girl's attitude of understanding, while John Richardson adds that a popular girl is always tactful.

Jerry Howell added that a popular girl makes contributions to the school, while Glenn Jenkins and Robert Richards agree on good appearance and personality. "Also," added Jerry Choate, "a girl's manners, poise, and disposition determine her popularity."

Another characteristic, Snuffy Rogers brings it out, is a girl's Christian attitude. He adds that a girl should be able to carry on an intelligent conversation on varied subjects, in order to be classified as popular.

George Cleveland suggested that while a girl should be sportsminded to a certain degree, her attitude toward life is more important.

"Her smile is very important," brought out L. E. Owens. "And," said Charlie McCarty with a great deal of emphasis, "she should not be two-faced."

"Looks and personality are very important," said Buddy Mayes and Tommy Black. "The thing I admire most in a girl is a general interest," concluded Tommy.

After thinking the problem over, David Dibrell reasoned that a girl's sense of humor, intelligence, wit, and personality all combined to make for popularity. "More important," he ventured, "is that she be a blonde. I just naturally like blondes."

"Looks are not necessary in the make-up of a popular girl," said Don Lovelace. "Beauty helps," admitted Don, "but a good personality is more important. A popular girl is unselfish, and equally friendly to everyone," he concluded.

Second Class Of Red Cross Gray Ladies At Webb To Receive Caps

Recognition will be given to the Webb Gray Ladies, Feb. 26, when a capping ceremony will be held in the base chapel. The eight who have just completed their training will be honored. Special awards are to be given to the Gray Ladies who have contributed 100 hours or more of their time during the past year.

Col. C. M. Young, wing commander, will give the welcoming address at this, the second such ceremony to be held here.

Mrs. Leslie F. Garrett is chairman of the local group, which has membership of 15 active workers.

Gray Ladies devote an average of 100 hours annually to the welfare of airmen who are confined to the hospital. They relieve nurses from routine office work, enabling the nurses to spend more time with the patients in the wards.

In addition, the Gary Ladies distribute comfort items to the patients three times weekly. The articles, such as cigarettes, writing material and toilet articles, are furnished free by the Red Cross.

A reception will be held in the Officers' Club immediately following the ceremony.

Receiving caps will be Mrs. Young, Mrs. Roy Ireland, Mrs. Wayne Truxal, Mrs. Richard Bigelow, Mrs. William J. Sadler, Mrs. Harrison H. Buxton, Mrs. Gail H. Wilson and Mrs. George Barrett.

Turn About Forecast For Spring Fashions

By DEIDRA HINTON

Hems are going down, hair is curling up — and new hats flirt with the '30s — you're ready for flight in the new style capes, bright colors are added to the neutrals — and shoes are 'way out front.'

The first sign of spring you can add to your wardrobe for that extra fancy look, is bow-tied blouses. Most blouses that make news this spring are silk. The bow-tied blouse features the bow tied in a low V neckline. Another feature of the spring blouses is the blouson look — fits tight at the waist, but upward, it blossoms out.

One of the season's newest looks deals with the cape. Spring coats are featuring an elbow length capelet. In many instances the cape is taking the place of the jacket, but in any case this is the newest look.

Pussy willow gray, flax and other basic neutrals will lead the parade in sheath versions. Brighter colors, too, will predominate. New emphasis is placed on shades from vivid violet to subdued mauve-pink.

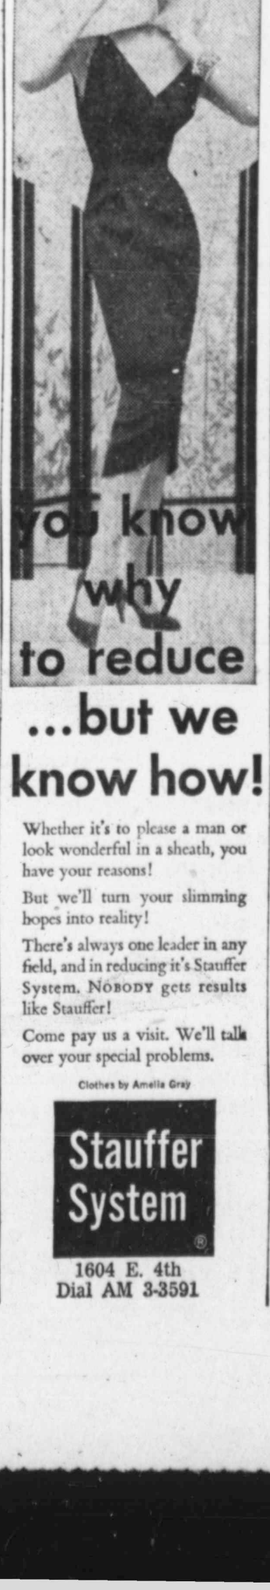
Experts say these shades will appair in tailored separates, in elegant, simple fabrics. Most notable accompaniment will be other shades of pearl gray.

For simple elegance, ropes of pearls or other beads will adorn the fashion leaders. Large costume pins and medallions will add the desired effect for the new sheaths.

It's truly lady's day with the new gentle prints this spring. These prints will bring forth the light and airy look, which is so feminine. Soft chiffons, silk organzas and crepes are definitely the fabrics to watch.

New shoes are more pointed than last year's and usually sport a bow or buckle. Purses are small and tidy, and even the larger ones are skinny and sleek. Tall shortie gloves that hit about two inches above the wristbone take on new life.

As always the new added interests of this spring offer a challenge to women who aren't content to just buy a new dress!



...but we know how!

Whether it's to please a man or look wonderful in a sheath, you have your reasons!

But we'll turn your slimming hopes into reality!

Sudden Wealth

During the final two decades of the 18th century, Bermuda acquired sudden wealth from privateering. Daughters of small sea captains became heiresses overnight. And elaborate wedding feasts were spread in newly-built mansions, including Spithead in Paget, the current residence of author-actor-composer, Noel Coward.

Plan Restoration

Accord Reached On Waterfront Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — New York waterfront employers and the striking International Longshoremen's Assn. reached agreement last night on a pact to end the five-day East Coast dock tieup.

"This contract ensures waterfront peace along the entire Eastern Coast from Hampton Roads, Va., to Portland, Maine," said ILA counsel Louis Waldman.

The actual back-to-work movement of 45,000 dockworkers, however, is conditional on membership ratification of the proposed three-year contract and settlement of thorny local issues in several ports.

Hassles over local port conditions in Boston, Philadelphia and Wilmington, Del., kept local union officials and employer groups in various stages of negotiations. At Philadelphia, both sides were reported stalemated and "still very far apart."

They, nonetheless, were expected to fall in line quickly once the 25,000 longshoremen in the Port of New York accept the new contract. As in past waterfront strikes, the "pilot" pacts negotiated in New York have set the pattern for the entire East Coast.

ILA officials were prepared to urge acceptance of the contract. The union's executive committee is scheduled to meet today to set the date for the referendum.

Waldman signaled the end of the costly dock tieup by announcing a "meeting of minds" with the New York Shipping Assn. representing 170 shipping and stevedoring firms. The two groups have been negotiating on and off since August.

"This means that subject to union ratification the strike is over," Waldman declared.

Alexander Chopin, chief negotiator for the employers, said, "We don't want any longshoremen to think he's getting nothing . . . It is the most generous contract in waterfront collective bargaining anywhere.

"It will cost, over its duration, $56,474,000, with $38,000,000 going for wages alone and $7,900,000 for welfare," he said.

Chopin's statement brought this retort from ILA President William V. Bradley:

"Whether we got nothing or something, I don't know, Mr. Chopin. But it sure took us a long time to get it. It is a good agreement. We will try to get the men to accept it."

Included in the tentative contract is a 32-cent hourly wage boost, spread out over a three-year period. An 18-cent hike is effective the first year with 7-cent raises for each of the succeeding years. The present basic wage is $2.48 hourly.

The new pact provides also for improved vacations, holidays, welfare and pension benefits and other work conditions.

Bradley said no union policy has been set toward getting the dockworkers back on the job in New York yet. Ratification plus agreement on work conditions for checkers, carpenters and other crafts still must be settled, he said.

Inflation Big Cause Of Tax Increases

By DAVID C. BEEDER
Associated Press Staff

It's costing record sums of money to oil the wheels of state government and lawmakers are casting around for new tax sources.

Record budgets are nothing new. They've been increasing steadily since the end of World War II.

Increased government activity is one reason, but inflation is the main factor. With state governments trying to do more things for more people, the biggest problem facing lawmakers is where to send the tax bill.

An Associated Press survey shows higher salaries for teachers and state employes, highway programs and welfare projects are the major reasons behind increased state spending. In all of these cases, the mounting cost of living is in the background.

Highest state budgets are those proposed in heavily populated Illinois, New York and California.

Illinois is expected to pass a budget calling for spending of two billion dollars for 1957-59.

Two years ago, the Illinois Legislature appropriated a record $1,736,000,000. The increases are due to expected higher appropriations for schools, mental institutions and salary boosts for state employes.

Increases in Illinois and other states also result from the massive federal highway program. States must match part of the federal funds.

Like many states, the hard facts on the Illinois budget are as yet unavailable. Republican Gov. William G. Stratton won't have it ready for presentation until April. A sales tax increase is expected.

In New York, Gov. Averell Harriman already has sent a record $1,617,400,000 budget to the Legislature for the fiscal year beginning April 1, 1957. Schools, inflation and expanded state programs were cited by Harriman as reasons for the increase from last year's $1,441,800,000 budget.

Gov. Goodwin J. Knight attributes a record-high $1,947,964,933 California budget proposal to the "inexorable demands of growth." Knight's budget request exceeds the state's previous budget by more than 119 million dollars.

Seventy millions of the increase, to be used for additional school aid, would come from a cigarette and beer tax increase recommended by Knight.

In New Hampshire, Gov. Lane Dwinell handed lawmakers a record 155-million-dollar budget request. Dwinell has asked for reenactment of a $5 "head tax" on residents between the ages of 21 and 70 to help foot the bill. New Hampshire is one of the few states without either a sales tax or an income tax.

Some big boosts in state budgets have been proposed in fast-growing Western states.

Washingon state officials say increases in the record $1,106,767,111 budget request are needed to meet higher pay demands of state employes and teachers and the requirements of a rapidly growing population. The proposed budget is up almost 39 million dollars.

The cost of government would go up more than 120 million dollars in Oregon if a record state budget of $741,654,533 is approved.

Record high budgets also have been advanced by governors in Idaho, Wyoming, Colorado, Oklahoma, Utah, Montana, Nevada and North and South Dakota.

Wisconsin's proposed 343-million-dollar budget needs 47 million dollars in new revenue before it will balance. Indiana's financial outlook has been described by some observers as a "crisis."

Indiana Gov. Harold W. Handley, GOP factional foe of outgoing Gov. George N. Craig, has called "fantastic" Craig's proposed 790-million-dollar request.

Both Indiana and Wisconsin are expected to enact increases in state income tax.

In most states the budget story is the same: all-time high expenditures are planned to meet steadily increasing needs of government.

Outlook for future state budgets: more record breakers.

Fire Kills Mother, 6 Of 7 Children

CENTERVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Fire claimed the lives of a mother and six of her seven children and destroyed their six-room home just outside Centerville's city limits yesterday.

A neighbor pulled Adolph Shelby, 50, an unemployed former night watchman, from the blazing home.

The dead were Mrs. Shelby, 46; Ruby Lee, 28; Mary Fay, 20; Jo Ann, 16; Ruth, 13; Danny 9; and Elaine 6.

Another son, Wallace, 12, was spending the night at his grandmother's house nearby.

HST Declines Invitation To Aid Celebration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citing other commitments, former President Truman has declined invitations to attend ceremonies marking the 10th anniversary of the Greek-Turkish aid program he inaugurated.

The State Department announced this yesterday and said it is "a source of regret" to both President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles.

The invitations originated with the Greek and Turkish governments, which plan celebrations in Athens and Ankara next month. Dulles passed the invitations on to Truman after Eisenhower had given his approval.

Truman, on a combined speaking-vacation trip in Florida, sent his reply to Dulles Saturday. The former Democratic President declined in Miami Beach to say what was in it.

But yesterday, State Department press officer Lincoln White told newsmen:

"We have heard that Mr. Truman, because of previous commitments, would be unable to accept the invitations of the governments of Greece and Turkey to visit those countries on the 10th anniversary of the Truman Doctrine.

"This is a source of regret to both the President and the secretary of state and it must be to the governments of Greece and Turkey."

The department said it would not make public the contents of Truman's reply.

Relations have been cool between Truman and Eisenhower since the 1952 election campaign.

Truman has, however, urged Congress to grant the Eisenhower administration the special military-economic powers it seeks to block Communist expansion in the Middle East.

Rabbit Drive Set For Next Weekend

Bernard Houston, Stanton, announced Saturday that the second annual rabbit hunt on his and adjacent ranches in Glasscock County will be staged on Saturday and on Sunday, Feb. 23 and 24.

Last year 200 hunters shot and killed some 6,000 to 8,000 jackrabbits in the two-day hunt over the same lands. Houston said there "are plenty of rabbits for everyone" again this year.

The hunt will be spread over the ranches of Bernard Houston, George Lewis, Grady Cross, H. A. Houston, Tom Houston, Tom Brothers, and Leo Turner.

The hunt gets under way at 8:30 a.m. Saturday. Hunters will be moved by pickup truck to the areas to be covered. Start will be made from Bernard Houston's property.

At noon, all hunters will return to the starting point for a barbecue dinner served by the Odessa Chuck Wagon Gang. Last year, the ranchers served the barbecue but this year the Odessa group will provide the meal. Hunting will resume at 1 p.m. and continue to dark.

Sunday at 1 p.m. the hunters will return to the fields and pastures. There will be no barbecue on Sunday and no hunting in the forenoon.

Houston said that, as last year, arrows will be placed on posts along the route from Big Spring to the hunting grounds. He said the best way for Big Springers to make the trip was by way of Lomax store.

Only shotguns will be permitted in the hunt. No rifles or pistols will be used. Jess Woody, Stanton, will be on the scene with a supply of ammunition to sell. Woody was present last year.

A special invitation to airmen from Webb Air Force base to participate in the hunt was extended by Houston. He said that a large number of airmen took part in the hunt last year and have been inquiring if another is to be staged this spring.

Houston said that most of the ranches included in the hunting area have patches of oats and that the rabbits are moving in on these fields in great numbers.

"There are not as many rabbits as we had in 1956," he said, "I've never seen as many rabbits as we had that year. However, there are hundreds and hundreds of rabbits this year—plenty of rabbits for all the hunters we can muster."

First Nation With Missile May Rule Earth, Expert Says

DALLAS (AP)—The first nation to develop an intercontinental missile will, if it wishes, have the rest of the world at its mercy, an Army missile expert said here yesterday.

There is now no known defense against the long-range missile being developed, said Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, commanding general of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency at Huntsville, Ala.

But he said he believes the United States is ahead in the missile race.

William L. Wimberley, seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wimberley of 900 Douglas, Big Spring, has left McMurdo Sound, Antarctica for Little America, aboard the seaplane tender USS Curtiss.

The Curtiss arrived at McMurdo Sound Jan. 21 after clearing the ice pack which surrounds the Antarctic Continent. She transported scientists and relief wintering-over personnel to the Antarctic to make earth science studies during the International Geophysical Year 1957-58.

She will return to civilization with the party of the Navy men and scientists who have spent the past winter on the Antarctic Continent. The seaplane tender stopped at Port Lyttelton, New Zealand to pick up additional passengers and to replenish supplies before continuing on to the "White Continent."

Jimmie Ralph Hicks, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Hicks, Gail Route, Louis Marion Pachall, husband of Mrs. Peggy Joyce Pachall, 702 North Scurry St., and John Wayne Hayes, 411 North Scurry St., have enlisted in the Navy.

Hicks was employed by the Texas Electric Service Company of Big Spring prior to going into the Navy as a junior college graduate applicant in the electronics field.

Hicks was also active in the Scouting program of Big Spring to the extent of being Assistant Scoutmaster of Troop 5 sponsored by the First Baptist Church. He had attained the honor of being an Eagle Scout while being with Troop 5. Prior to employment by Texas Electric Service Co. he attended the Arlington State College, Arlington, Texas and had graduated during 1956.

All of these young men were transferred to the Naval Training Station, San Diego, Calif., for their nine weeks of recruit training.

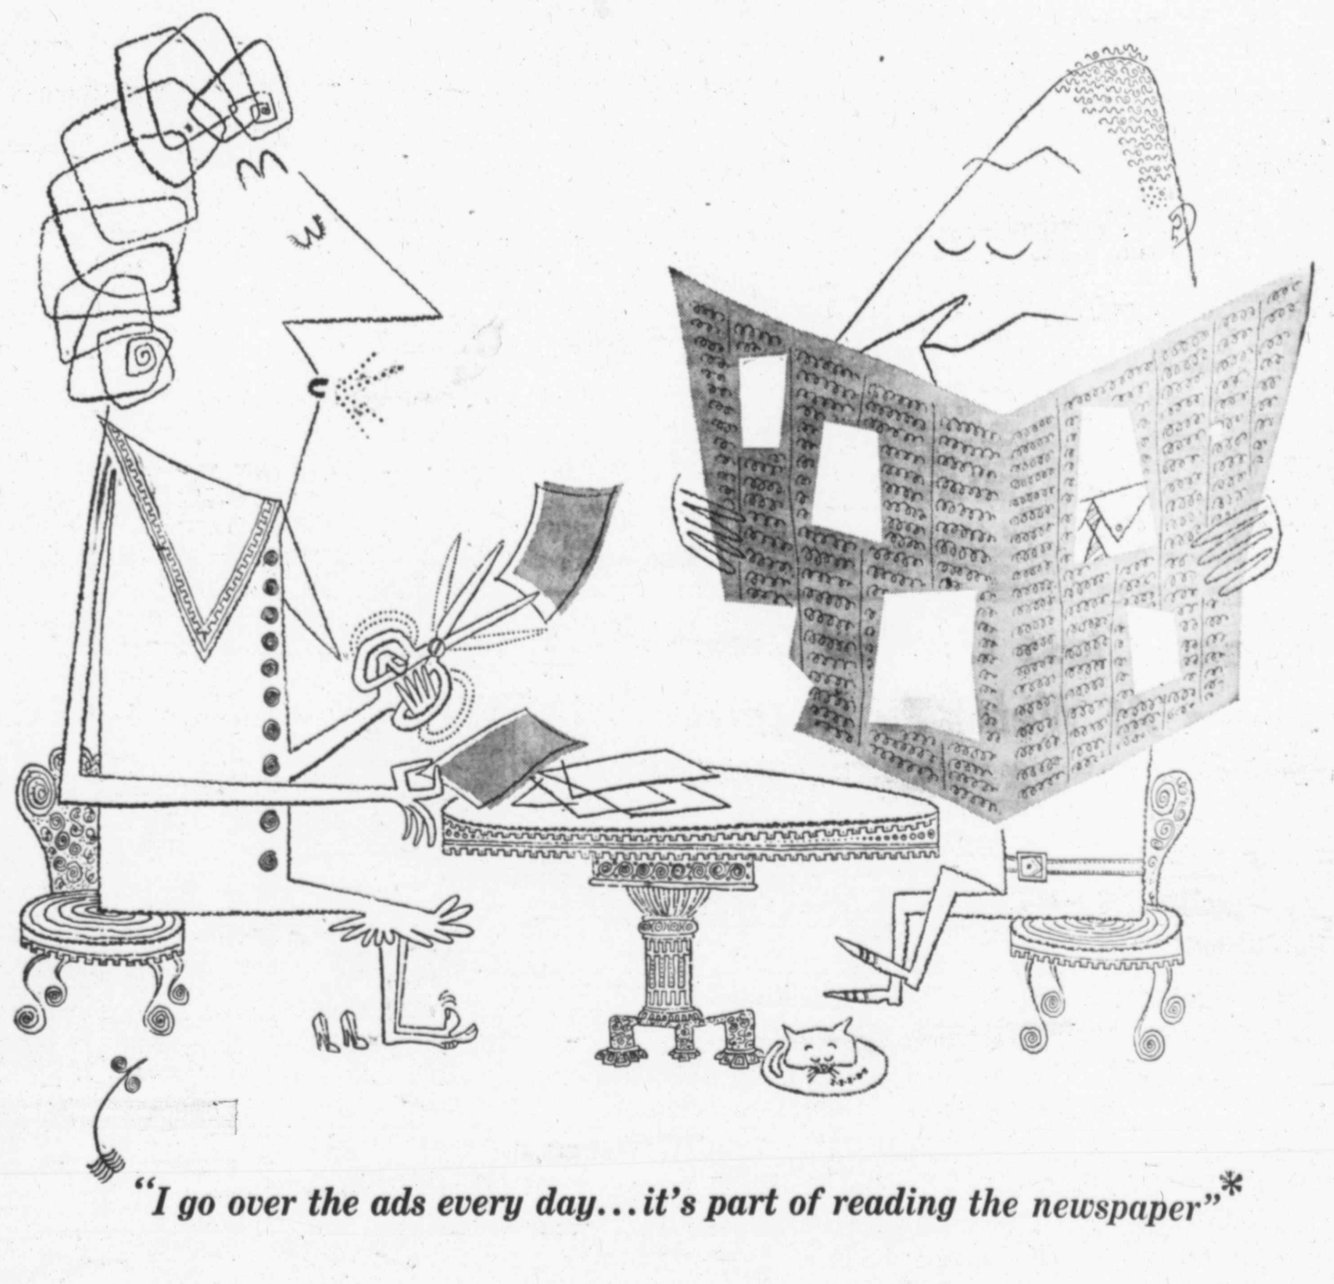
WHY DO YOU READ THE NEWSPAPER? COPYRIGHT 1957, BUREAU OF ADVERTISING OF THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS ASSOCIATION, INC.



"I go over the ads every day...it's part of reading the newspaper"*

Ask ten different people why they read the daily newspaper and you'll probably get ten different answers. That's because the newspaper offers so much under one roof to interest people—local and worldwide news, sports, comics, fashions, gardening, home planning, business news, teen-age columns, human interest pictures, entertainment news, and a whole roomful more.

Newspaper reading is a local habit done on a national scale. And one habit common to almost all newspaper readers is shopping the paper. As the lady in our illustration says, "It's part of reading the newspaper." That is one of the fundamental reasons why an all time high of almost 57,000,000 newspapers are eagerly bought—and read—every day.

The newspaper is a basic need in peoples' lives and is naturally a basic selling tool for all kinds of advertisers—national, regional and local.

Is it your basic advertising medium?

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Credit Bill Frank, the former baseball umpire and now advertising manager of Cosden, with helping Art Bowland land the managerial post of the Plainview Ponies.

Frank called the president of the Plainview team after reading that San Angelo probably would not field a team in the Southwestern league and strongly recommended Art. Bowland, who had guided the San Angelo club last season and who would have returned as manager had the Colts fielded another team, was hired within 24 hours.

That's where friendship with an umpire paid dividends. Bowland usually makes it a point to 'stay on the good side' of most arbiters.

Without doubt the outstanding player in the TWC volleyball tournament at Fort Worth last week — in which the HCJC Jayhawk Queens participated —was Lillian Novisad of the TWC team.

Miss Novisad performed for the United States team in an international tournament in Europe last year.

HCJC was beaten in the semi-finals of the meet but, no doubt, would have won had it played by rules more familiar to it. As it was, the Jayhawk Queens attracted more attention during the tournament than any other team.

Spectators at other courts would hurry over to watch them play, when they took the court.

A total of $309 was taken in at the gate when Big Spring hosted Abilene in its recent basketball game here. The game produced the biggest turnout of the year.

The Steers played only eight home games during the 1956-57 season and won seven of them. The loss came in an overtime period at the hands of Odessa and knocked Big Spring out of contention for the district championship.

In three seasons as head coach here, Johnny Johnson has seen his basketball teams win 38 decisions while losing 40. This year's team, which won 18 of 24 starts, gave him a big boost.

His first year's team copped 12 while losing 13 times. Last year, the Steers tailed off to an 8-21 record.

* * *

Johnson set some kind of record by starting the same five boys in each of the 24 games the Steers played.

That's not considered good strategy but Johnson had little choice. He had few reserves who could push the regulars. Donnie Anderson, no doubt, could have but he suffered a knee injury at a most inopportune time.

Merkel And Ropesville In Playoff Game Here

Merkel's high-scoring Badgers, champions of District 6-A, will play the 5-A king, Ropesville, in the first round of the state basketball playoffs in Steer Gym here at 8 o'clock Tuesday night, Feb. 26.

Coaches of the two schools met at the Settles Hotel with Wayne (Red) Smith, manager of the local Chamber of Commerce, who extended the invitation to use local facilities on behalf of the city and the Big Spring Independent School District.

Merkel is undefeated this season and in Robert McLeod boast one of the greatest players ever to perform in any class in West Texas.

McLeod will be remembered by local football fans as the quarterback who guided the Badgers to an impressive bi-district victory over Sundown here last November.

The Badgers are coached by Don Loyd, who formerly was tutor of the Clarendon Junior College team.

Ropesville clinched its conference crown by beating Plains, 94-72, in Plains last Friday night.

The Eagles are sparked by Jimmy Bevers, Jim Valintin and J. W. Bridwell.

Against Plains, Ropesville scored 31 points in the second quarter to salt away the decision.

Merkel's attack is helped by Kermit Rutledge, who was also a star in the Badger football backfield.

AS RACES NEAR END

BYU, Idaho State And SMU In Front

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

They may not have the "mostest," but Brigham Young, Idaho State and Southern Methodist figure to be the "fustest" to nail berths in the NCAA university division basketball tournament.

All three can haul up conference pennants this week—while the rest of the major college hopefuls start a string of title showdowns.

BYU can become the first entry in next month's championship eliminations by defeating Utah Thursday and clinching the Skyline title.

Idaho State can pick up its fifth consecutive Rocky Mountain championship with nothing more than a split against runner-up Western State in a Friday-Saturday pair.

And SMU's Mustangs, who had to wait 17 years between Southwest Conference titles, can make it three in a row by disposing of last-place Texas A&M tomorrow night and then ousting runner-up Rice Saturday.

Here's how the other conference races shape up:

Atlantic Coast—Unbeaten North Carolina gets another chance to make up time against once-powerful North Carolina State tonight. Tar Heels have first place sewed up.

Southern—West Virginia (10-0) could cinch first place and No. 1 seeding in title tournament should runner-up Washington & Lee (7-2) lose to either Virginia Tech (8-4) tomorrow or William & Mary (6-3) Friday.

Southeastern—Air may clear a bit tonight when leader Kentucky (8-2) hosts runner-up Vanderbilt (7-3).

Big Ten—Indiana (7-2) leads with five victories in row, plays also-ran Iowa tonight.

Missouri Valley—Bradley (7-1) leads, plays at home against third place Wichita (7-2) tonight.

Big Seven—Kansas (6-1) and Kansas State (5-2) are the big guys, with Iowa State (5-4) a possible thorn in K-State's side. Kansas plays at home to last-place Oklahoma tonight. K-State is at Nebraska.

Pacific Coast—California (10-0), UCLA (9-1) and Washington (10-2) all alone.

Ivy—Yale (7-1) gets big test against third-place Columbia and Princeton (both 5-2) Wednesday and Saturday.

ET Baptists Win Big State Title

By The Associated Press

East Texas Baptist College of Marshall is the Big State Conference basketball champion for the second straight year.

Coach Lenny Fant's Tigers wrapped up the title with a pair of victories last week. East Texas Baptist has two more regular season games, one this week, before meeting the champion of the Lone Star Conference in the District 4 NAIA playoffs. Winner of the best two-of-three series will advance to the NAIA tournament at Kansas City.

East Texas Baptist ripped Southwestern 79-60 and walloped St. Edward's, 77-64, last week to extend their conference winning streak to 14 games over a two-year span. The Tigers have a 9-0 league mark this season.

Texas Wesleyan hosts Southwestern at Fort Worth Tuesday and entertains East Texas Baptist Friday. Other conference games this week include St. Edward's vs. St. Mary's at San Antonio Thursday and Pan American vs. St. Edward's at San Antonio Saturday.

Border Spotlight Moves To Abilene

By The Associated Press

The Border Conference basketball spotlight centers on Abilene this week when the Hardin-Simmons Cowboys make a final stab at winning the conference championship.

The Cowboys entertain league-leading Texas Western Monday night and will move in front if they come out on top. The University of Arizona Wildcats will visit Abilene Saturday.

Western took over the league lead last week when the Cowboys dropped a 67-56 decision to the Sun Devils of Arizona State at Tempe.

The Cowboys salvaged something from the trip by taking an easy 80-69 victory over the Wildcats at Tucson.

The Wildcats then gave the Sun Devils their jumps at Tempe, 96-90, Saturday.

In non-conference action, Texas Tech beat Western 70-44 at Lubbock. The two teams clash again in El Paso Saturday. Tech visits New Mexico A&M at Las Cruces Friday in another non-conference clash.

Lions, Southwest Texas In Scramble

By The Associated Press

East Texas State and Southwest Texas battle Monday night for the undisputed lead in the Lone Star Conference basketball race.

East Texas climbed into a tie for the lead last week by winning 2 games while Southwest Texas was splitting a pair. Both have 9-2 records.

Stephen F. Austin remained third in the title chase with an 8-3 record. Austin plays Texas A&I at Nacogdoches Monday. Howard Payne and Lamar Tech clash at Brownwood and Sam Houston and Sul Ross meet at Alpine.

East Texas downed Sam Houston 56-52 and Texas A&I 68-55 to vault into a tie for the lead. Southwest Texas trimmed Sul Ross 71-66, then faltered and dropped a 60-53 decision to Stephen F. Austin.

Austin kept its season leadership with a 20-3 mark, followed by Southwest Texas, 17-5, and East Texas 17-6.

Two Are Signed By Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles said today that two baseball players have signed contracts with Baltimore farm clubs.

Nat'l Circuit Now Boasts An Official Emblem

CINCINNATI (AP)—The National League now has an official emblem.

A picture of the emblem, designed by League President Warren Giles, is on the front cover of the league's 1957 Green Book—that gold mine of facts, figures and miscellaneous information about National League players and teams—which came out today.

The information in the book, assembled by Service Director Dave Grote, can settle a lot of those never-ending baseball arguments but Joe Fan can't get it. The book is for use of baseball writers and radio and television broadcasters.

Giles has had the idea of an official emblem for about two years. The one finally approved has an eagle, shield and baseball superimposed on a drawing of a baseball diamond. The eagle is clutching a baseball glove and a bat in its claws. Eight white stars on the shield represent the eight clubs of the league and nine red vertical stripes represent the nine players on a baseball team.

The team rosters and the voluminous pages of records and statistics are the important parts of the Green Book, however, as far as writers and broadcasters are concerned.

Fullmer Opposes Ernie Durando

DENVER (AP) — Middleweight champion Gene Fullmer expects to collect the second largest paycheck in his career, something over $8,000, for his non-title fight tonight with Ernie Durando, winner of two of his last three bouts.

Promoters expect a near sell-out for the 10-round match in the Denver Auditorium arena which seats 7,300. This would make a gross gate around $25,000 with tickets selling from $2 to $7.50.

The West Jordan, Utah, welder will get 40 per cent. That'll be the most he's made boxing except for the $20,000 he collected in lifting the title from Sugar Ray Robinson last month in Madison Square Garden in New York City.

Fullmer, 25, in perfect condition, is expected to easily handle Durando, 30-year-old East Bayonne, N.J., veteran. Durando in his last three fights, all in 1956, won a decision, scored a knockout and was kayoed himself.

Charter Granted Lone Star Umps

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—The National Baseball Congress today announced it has issued a 1957 charter to the Lone Star Umpires Assn. in Texas.

The group will have jurisdiction for approving all individual umpire memberships in the National Assn. of Umpires in Bexar, Medina, Atascosa, Wilson, San Patricio and Comal counties.

Officers of the 1957 Lone Star Umpires Assn. include Willis Monroe, president; Edward Marcinak, vice president, and Russell Lyons, secretary-treasurer, all of San Antonio.

Only approved members of the N.B.C. Assn. of Umpires are eligible to officiate in sanctioned district and state tournaments preceding the 23rd annual national tournament in Wichita which starts next Aug. 16.

Garald Peterson Inks Colt Pact

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two tackles, one a returnee from last year and the other a rookie, returned signed contracts to the Baltimore Colts today.

Garald Petersen of Texas is a defensive prospect.

The rookie is Don Simonic of Tennessee Tech, 6-4, 230-pound performer from Steelton, Pa. He was drafted by the Colts on the 12th round.

Ponies Can Clinch SW Crown Saturday

By The Associated Press

Southern Methodist, with its third straight Southwest Conference basketball title only an owl hoot away, sails into the final two weeks of the campaign this week.

The sixth-ranked Mustangs pointed toward a Saturday date with second place Rice, holding a game and a half lead over the Owls. A victory over Rice could clinch the title for the Mustangs and put them in the NCAA playoffs for the third straight year. The Owls are the only team with a chance to earn a tie for the title.

SMU knocked off Texas 79-56 at Dallas Tuesday to avenge its only conference loss of the season. Baylor helped the Mustang cause by beating Rice 95-70 at Waco the same night.

SMU has a 7-1 conference record and a 17-3 season mark. Rice stands second in conference play with a 6-3 record. Baylor and Arkansas follow with 5-5 and 5-4 records, respectively, TCU is fifth 4-5, Texas is 3-6 and Texas A&M is in the cellar with a 2-7 mark.

The Mustangs get things rolling in the conference Tuesday night with a game against cellar dwelling Texas A&M at Dallas. Arkansas will host Rice at Fayetteville.

Wednesday Texas plays East Texas State at Austin and Texas Christian meets Baylor at Fort Worth.

Other games Saturday find Texas against A&M at Austin and Baylor meeting Arkansas at Waco.

Big Jim Krebs was held to only 14 points against Texas and dropped out of the individual conference scoring lead. Jerry Mallett of Baylor took over the top spot with 179 points.

Krebs and Ray Downs of Texas are tied for second with 172 each. Krebs remained on top in season scoring with 467 points. Downs was second with 446 and Dick O'Neal of TCU was third with 399.

WITH A 271

Jay Hebert Wins At San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Jay Hebert, the slender young pro from Louisiana, won the $20,000 Texas Open with "the only shot that would have done it."

Hebert, 34, playing out of Sanford, Fla., 3-ironed to the green on the 185-yard 18th hole at Brackenridge Park and sank a six-foot putt for a birdie to beat Ed Furgol, the St. Andrews, Ill., veteran, by a stroke yesterday. He had a 4-under-par 67 on the final round for a 72-hole total of 271 — 13 strokes under par.

"It takes a perfect shot on this hole," said Hebert as he accepted the $2,800 check to make him second to Doug Ford in money winnings of the year. "I made it and I won."

Hebert, capturing his second tournament of the winter tour — the only player who has won more than one — had staged a glittering duel with Furgol, the man with the withered arm, down the stretch. They sailed through the 17th hole tied for the lead and the big crowd jammed around the 18th green was silent as Hebert stroked the putt that brought him the precious birdie. Furgol parred the hole and won second money of $1,900 with 272.

Jimmie Demaret, the old-timer from Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., had started the final round with 202 for 54 holes and a 2-stroke lead over the field. But he said he couldn't putt a lick—"I took 37 putts, that's what was wrong with me"—and ended up with a 3-over-par 74 and a tie for fifth place at 276.

Tying for third place were Arnold Palmer, Latrobe, Pa., and Tony Holguin, Midlothian, Ill., who had 68 and 66 respectively for 274 totals.

As the golf tour moves on to the $36,000 Houston Open, Hebert has climbed into second place in money winnings with $7,415. Doug Ford of Mahopac, N.Y., is the leader with $8,585.50.

Frank Wharton of Houston was the low amateur of the tournament with 282 for the 72 holes. He wound up with a 68 yesterday. Rex Baxter of Amarillo was second with 285 with a closing 71 while Juan Estrada of North Texas State College was third with 286. Estrada shot a 72 on the final round.

Wilt Needs 40 Points Tonight

By The Associated Press

Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain needs 40 points against Oklahoma tonight to regain the individual scoring lead in major college basketball.

That would give the Kansas giant a 30.61 average against a 30.57 mark by South Carolina's Grady Wallace. Both Wallace and Columbia's Chet (The Jet) Forte, No. 3 in the scramble, with a 29.56 average, are idle tonight.

Knott Teams Host Stanton In 3 Games Tuesday Night

KNOTT (SC) — The Knott girls, basketball champions of District 19-B, will mark time for the bi-district playoffs in a game with Stanton here tomorrow.

The contest is one of three carded for the evening. Boys' B teams of the two schools clash at 6 p.m. The girls' game goes on at 7:00 while the boys' A quintets take the court at 8:00.

The game will be the last for Bill Bolin's girls until March 5, at which time they meet Mertzon in bi-district competition at Sterling City.

Mertzon, coached by the former Knott superintendent, J. T. Lowe, is undefeated in 22 games this season. Mertzon lost only one player from last season and she wasn't a regular.

Winner of the Sterling City game becomes eligible to play in the second round of the Regional Meet at Brownwood March 8-9.

Knott's girls will carry a 20-8 won-lost record into the game with Stanton. Four of the Billies' losses have come at the hands of Ackerly.

Stanton should give the Billies an excellent test, since the Buffalo Queens finished third in the rugged District 6-A.

ACC Preserves Unbeaten Mark

By The Associated Press

Abilene Christian College preserved its unbeaten record in Gulf Coast Conference basketball play last week, winning two games to boost its conference record to 4-0.

The Wildcats downed North Texas 81-63 and Midwestern 99-60. Midwestern and North Texas remained in a second place tie with 2-2 conference marks. Trinity trailed with a 0-4 conference record.

Midwestern beat Trinity 89-69 and North Texas took an 81-76 decision over Trinity in other games.

Monday's schedule finds Abilene Christian at St. Mary's in San Antonio. Tuesday Trinity meets ACC at San Antonio and North Texas plays Midwestern at Denton. Friday Trinity will meet Midwestern at San Antonio and North Texas travels to Abilene to test the Wildcats again.

Odessa Wranglers Topple Bulldogs

ODESSA (SC) — Odessa Junior College came from behind to defeat the Clarendon JC Bulldogs, 57-56, and move into a tie for second place in West Zone basketball standings here Saturday night.

The Wranglers trailed by three points (29-26) at half time.

ODESSA (57) — Dobbins 5-0-10; Stuckey 6-0-12; Lewallen 6-0-12; Louis 2-0-10; Ziegenhorn 3-0-6; Gibson 1-0-2; Bennett 2-1-5. Totals 25-7-57.

CLARENDON (56) — White 7-6-20; Jarnagin 4-6-14; Adams 1-3-4; Cushenberry 1-2-4; Bailey 4-6-14. Totals 17-22-56.

Half time score—Clarendon 29, Odessa 26.

Gonzales May Be Forced To Cancel Net Series

NEW YORK (AP)—An ugly hand blister may achieve what the world's best tennis players have been unable to do—knock Pancho Gonzales off his professional throne.

The 28-year-old pro champion from Los Angeles disclosed today the recurrence of a hand injury which first struck him in Australia last fall, and he said ominously:

"If this thing gets any worse, I'll have to quit the tour."

The tall, swarthy Californian of Mexican extraction bared his inflamed paw after crushing Ken Rosewall in the Australian's American pro debut before 11,416 at Madison Square Garden yesterday, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.

The victory took only 60 minutes and sent the pro tourists on to Dallas, where the 100-match series will be resumed tonight, with Gonzales leading 8-4.

Promoter Jack Kramer, whose present tour stands to gross more than a quarter of a million dollars, was disturbed over the development but said he expected his big star to continue.

"Pancho has a signed contract with me to play 100 matches," Kramer said. "If he doesn't fulfill that contract he stands to lose his professional title and with it all the guarantees of future tours.

"If Gonzales is forced out of action—and I don't anticipate it—then we will continue with the men we have, Pancho Segura and Dinny Pails—and try to get Frank Sedgman or Tony Trabert. Then we'll match the best available player against Rosewall."

Gonzales said the hand popped on him in a practice match with Segura Saturday and began to bleed severely.

The spot is on Gonzales' racket hand just below the index finger. Pancho said it first developed a blister, then a blister on a blister and later hardened into a callous, or a cyst.

Basilio And Saxton Clash For Third Time Friday

By The Associated Press

Welterweight champion Carmen Basilio and ex-titleholder Johnny Saxton have it out for the third time in Cleveland Friday night with the champ a 5-1 favorite to win the "rubber" bout.

The bout will be broadcast and telecast, NBC, 10 p.m. EST, coast to coast. The Cleveland area will be blacked out of the telecast.

Former lightweight champion Paddy DeMarco of Brooklyn pits his skill and experience against the power punching of Stefan Redl a Hungarian now living in Passaic, N.J., in the television 10-rounder, Dumont, 10:30 p.m., EST at New York's St. Nicholas Arena tonight. Redl, 23, a truck loader, has an 11-0 record, including nine knockouts. DeMarco has a 73-17-3 record with only seven kayos.

The Wednesday night radio-television, ABC, 10 p.m., EST, 10-rounder matches speedy, clever Willie Pastrano of New Orleans, and husky Johnny Holman of Chicago, in a 10-round battle of heavyweight contenders at Louisville, Ky.

Albert Hohertz, chairman of the congregation for St. Paul Lutheran Church, turns a spade of earth as part of the groundbreaking exercises at the church site, Ninth and Scurry, Sunday morning. Behind him in the white surplice is Chaplain Henry Wolk, who spoke at the morning worship preceding, and to the right is the pastor, the Rev. Wayne Dittloff.

Rains Called Best Since Last Spring

as 1.20 inches in the area. Some totals in the section: Hico, Clifton, McGregor and Meridian .25, Cameron .83 and an inch north of there, Chilton .90, Rosebud .91 and 1.31 for weekend, Frost .37, Riesel .73 and 1.16 for weekend, and Kerens 1.20.

In other areas, Cuero had .90 inch Gonzales .89, Yoakum .91 and Hallettsville .91.

At Kilgore, the rain was on top of 4.18 inches in January—the most for any January since 1950. Most of the Kilgore rain was soaking into the ground. Lake Cherokee was up 13 inches from the January rains.

In Dallas, the rains continued during the morning to bring the total to .31 inch. Police reported 17 accidents on slick streets, but no deaths or major injuries.

Agriculture Commissioner John White said the rains were "our most hopeful sign of a possible return to a normal rain cycle since 1950."

"The beneficial rains which have come to some of our worst-hit drought areas during the last few days have caused an increasing optimism among our farmers that this terrible disaster may be on the wane," White said.

"We cannot at present consider the drought broken even though it might be bending a little in the middle. We must still take an attitude of caution in the over-all water picture because of the lack of subsoil moisture. It will take years to replenish our lost underground water resources, and without these resources we are still in a state of drought."

The Fort Worth and Denver Railroad dispatcher at Wichita Falls reported near noon that it was raining all the way from Wichita Falls to Dalhart at the top of the Panhandle. Some rainfall totals around Wichita Falls were Seymour .45, Bowie and Guthrie .30, Olney .31, Paducah .35, Munday .47, Stamford .28, Haskell .50, Burkburnett .20 and Iowa Park .75.

Llano had a .21 inch rain with heavier rains reported over the county.

Some areas which normally do not receive any rain during February were counting up to 4 and 5 inches, heaviest since 1949.

A cool front pushed into the Panhandle early Monday while a low pressure area south of Galveston worked its way north.

The Weather Bureau said if the low pressure area gets deep into the state, there is a good chance for prolonged, if not heavy rains, for two days. The cool front was expected to push south during the day.

Temperatures in the Panhandle dropped 5 to 10 degrees.

Dalhart reported the low reading of 39 degrees. The high overnight minimum was at Brownsville, 53 degrees. Winds shifted to northerly in the Panhandle when the front arrived.

A Southwest Texas county agent called the weekend rains the best in his area in seven years.

Almost all of the country around Alpine received an average of half an inch yesterday after Saturday's downpours that ranged up to nearly 4 inches.

Light rains also fell yesterday at Brownsville. Streets were temporarily flooded in that Rio Grande Valley city Saturday when a 4-inch rain soaked the area.

Frank Newsom, county agent for Jeff Davis and Brewster counties in far West Texas, said the rains in his area were the biggest ever recorded for February or at least as far as he could remember.

"The value is unknown because this country normally does not receive rainfall in February, March and April," Newsom said. He called the rains the best over-all precipitation in the area in at least seven years.

A small tornado struck the Stuart community near Harlingen in the Rio Grande Valley. It knocked over small buildings, trees and utility poles, but no one was injured.

Earl Hull Enters Dallas Hospital

Earl Hull, county commissioner, was admitted to the Gaston Avenue Hospital, Dallas, Monday morning for surgery, it was announced at the meeting of the Howard County Commissioners court.

Hull was scheduled for surgery Monday morning. Nature of his illness nor an estimate on how long he would be at the hospital was not availaole.

He was at the courthouse on Saturday — working on right-of-way easements needed to get the old Colorado road project under way.

Welcome Rain Continues In U.S.

By The Associated Press

Welcome rain continued to fall on some drought-stricken areas in the Southwest today as light snow and snow flurries dusted the northern Great Lakes and generally fair weather prevailed over the rest of the nation.

Seasonably warm weather which covered the central portion of the country moved eastward over the Atlantic Coast states. Meanwhile, chill air across the Northern Plains began spreading into the Great Lakes region. Little temperature change was reported elsewhere.

Some light snow was reported from the Dakotas, Minnesota, through the Great Lakes states and in New England.

Rain pelted the lower Gulf Coast, Texas, Arizona, New Mexico and southern California.

Home Owner To Give House Away

HOUSTON (AP)—Julius Glass, who had intended to split his property 1,000 ways, has decided to offer it to Texas instead.

Glass owns a lot and two houses in the path of the North Loop, but the state won't buy his property until 1965.

The private investigator said he can't dispose of the property, or rent it, because everybody knows it will eventually be taken over for right of way.

He said he must move to another climate because of his health. He is 49.

Previously he said he wanted to split the property into small segments so the state would have to deal with 1,000 individuals to acquire the property.

"But I saw it would do no good," he said today. "So if the state wants it, we'll give it away. It's all we have to give, besides our lives."

Glass said the property is worth about $8,000.

AIRPORT

Cook, chairman of the aviation committee of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, is also invited to accompany the two officials.

County commissioners have been gravely perturbed over the matter of building the kind of airport desired with the funds which are available. It has been feared that $500,000 would not provide enough money to complete the project as it should be. Sharp cuts in plans have been contemplated in an effort to stay inside the budget.

The CAA, Weaver said, can participate in the program in any way required. It can share in the cost of the land, in the buildings and in construction of runways and installations needed for the operation of the port.

Since the county will spend half a million, the full participation of the CAA above $300,000 can easily be anticipated, Weaver said.

His office was contacting Fort Worth today in an effort to make an appointment with the planning engineer of the CAA office there.

Buildings Burn In Weatherford

WEATHERFORD (AP)—Fire destroyed three buildings two blocks from the city square here last night after raging several hours.

The blaze was reported visible as far away as 20 miles. No one was injured. Firemen said the cause and damage had not been determined.

The fire apparently started in the I. C. Walker Plumbing Co. and spread south, engulfing two other buildings, the Deleleu Furniture Store and the two-story Weatherford Poultry & Egg Co.

Fire companies from eight nearby towns and cities came to the aid of local firemen.

A telephone trunk line in front of the burning buildings was severed and much of the town was left momentarily without telephone service.

Fire Chief Bryant Teague said when his men arrived flames "were coming out of the top of the furniture store."

"It was a mass of flames," he said. "It looked like the world was on fire." Firemen brought the flames under control in about four hours. A curious throng of spectators attracted by the flames kept police lines busy and clogged highways for a time.

Newspaper Roles In Communities Are Discussed

DEL RIO — Newspapers have an obligation to operate efficiently and to be strong economically in order to fill the larger role in their communities, Bill Collyns, Midland, told the West Texas Press Association Sunday.

Collyns addressed the closing session of the meeting at Del Rio. He said the real challenge to newspapers was to put out a good product, to protect the public's right to know, to keep the public informed, to lead in public promotions and community service.

These things cannot be done effectively unless papers are operated so as to be strong economic units, he said. About 50 were registered for the mid-winter meeting which dealt principally with short-cuts and cost-controllers, especially as dealt with automation and new machines.

DID GIN MAKE CHAPEL LOOK LIKE A GIN?

The story of the drunk who found himself locked in the bar — and wanted out instead of in — took a new twist here early today.

The police dispatcher got a call from a man who said he was an airman and that he was locked up in a cotton gin, but where he didn't know. He said that someone had robbed him and taken his shoes.

He told the dispatcher that the number of the phone was AM 4-9018.

The call was referred to the sheriff's department and they checked gins in the area but could find no shoeless airman.

Later the police department went to the air base and found an airman passed out in the base chapel.

He was without his shoes. He claimed, however, that he had not called the police department.

4 Mishaps In City Sunday

Four accidents occurred here Sunday, including two on Gregg.

Donald Richardson, 1311 Johnson, and McAlister Davis of Lubbock were involved in a minor accident at 18th and Gregg. And at 19th and Gregg, Robert Lowy, 1224½ E. 16th, and Glenda Brawler of Denver City collided.

At Third and Main, Marvin Hodnett, Rt. 1, and Thomas Mize, 411 Runnels, were drivers of cars colliding. A minor hit-and-run occurred at 100 Main when Herbert Cox, 1022 Goliad, was hit by a yellow convertible.

Today, Alvin Mize, 1813 Mittel, driving a panel truck belonging to Morton Foods, collided with a Gandy's Creamery truck driven by Robert Baker at 200 Main.

Police said little damage was caused.

Son Horsewhips Mother, Faces An Examination

NEW YORK (AP)—A man who horsewhipped his mother is awaiting examination today.

Tibor Foldvary, 29, told police he had whipped his mother, Dr. Mary Foldvary, 62, Saturday because "she deserves it."

A day earlier the son had accused her of attempting to poison him and his sister. He also had turned in his mother to federal authorities for allegedly hoarding gold.

Dr. Foldvary, who fled her native Hungary in 1955, said her son "has been beating me for nearly two years, but this was the worst."

Civil Rights Vote Slated On March 5

WASHINGTON (AP)— A Senate Judiciary subcommittee voted today to bring civil rights legislation to a vote March 5. It was a major defeat for opponents of the legislation who have followed a strategy of seeking to delay action.

National Guard Presents Case In Army Row

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Guard today begins presenting to Congress its case for a compromise in the Guard-Army row over compulsory active duty training for recruits.

Maj. Gen. Ellard A. Walsh, President of the National Guard Assn. was the first witness before a House armed services subcommittee resuming hearings after a week's recess.

The subcommittee has heard the Army contend that six months continuous duty is the least that can be counted on to give a young soldier a solid foundation. Weekly drills and summer camps in succeeding years then can keep him militarily effective, the Army says.

The Guard, which now requires no extended active duty, wants instead to give its enlistees under 18½ years old 11 weeks of active duty training, and those older than 18½ years old 11 weeks of active duty training, and those older than 18½, six months. Other Army reserve programs require six months.

The recess has permitted much private mulling over two compromise proposals — for a six months training program split into two summer installments or for a year's trial of the Guard's 11-week plan.

The latter, possibly with the training extended to three months, seemed to be gaining ground among congressmen who in effect will have the final say. Whatever settlement the subcommittee approves is expected to be accepted by both sides without the necessity for legislation.

Subcommittee chairman Overton Brooks (D-La) predicted in a statement the group will seek guarantees from the Army, and that the strength of the National may propose in legislation also Guard will not be allowed to drop below the present 400,000.

Brooks said he sees no reason why the Army proposal to require six months training of recruits older than 18½ should not go into effect April 1 as planned.

Little Prospect For VA Housing

There is little prospect at this time for additional housing facilities for the Veterans Administration hospital here, R. H. Weaver, county judge, was told by high officials of the VA in Washington last weekend.

Weaver had conferred with the national office of the VA relative to the need for additional housing here. He said that nothing encouraging was offered by the Washington office and that it seems likely no additional housing will be provided for the hospital in the immediate future.

MARKETS

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market extended its gains in fairly active early trading today.

Leading issues advanced fractions to a point. Some gains went beyond this. A few small losses appeared.

The market opened active. The pace slowed in later dealings.

Despite a new cut in the price of copper, Kennecott raced ahead around 3 points. Lukens Steel and Union Carbide were up about 2.

Leading rails were up from fractions to around 4 points. Most major steel producers showed small gains. The trend was higher among motors with Chrysler up around a point. Ford a good fraction and Studebaker firm. General Motors dropped a fraction.

All leading aircrafts were higher. United Aircraft was up well over a point. Gains of around a point were scored by Illinois Central, Atlantic Coast Line and American Cyanamid.

Bethlehem Steel was up ¼ at 44. Reynolds Metals up ½ at 57⅝ and General Dynamics up ⅝ at 61⅝.

Suspect Admits Six Burglaries

Police caught a Latin American in the act of breaking into Kimbell Mills Saturday, and he later confessed to six burglaries here within the past few weeks.

Practically the entire police force had a hand in the arrest, and nine patrolmen surrounded the building before he was apprehended.

Sunday, the man signed a statement admitting six burglaries and previously told officers of two others. However, when he gave them the statement, he denied the other two.

Detective Leo Hull said this morning the suspect admitted burglarizing Kimbell on two occasions, the National Supply Company on North Gregg twice, and the Phillips 66 warehouse and Continental Oil warehouse on East First.

He also said he entered the Big Spring Locker plant in December and the Pearl Distributing building, but he denied these when making the written statement, Hull said.

The police department, in an attempt to check the rash of burglaries here, planned to watch certain businesses here with extra men Saturday night. Nine patrolmen were at the police station waiting to go to their posts when the call came at 7:30 p.m. that someone was trying to break into the Mill.

Patrolmen surrounded the building and the man was captured without any trouble.

He was transferred to the county jail this morning by police officers.

Coahoma Hires Music Teacher

COAHOMA (SC) — The music teacher vacancy which has existed in the staff of the Coahoma schools since mid-term has now been filled, Supt. H. L. Miller announced Monday.

James Gambino, whose 'teenage string ensemble of Odessa pupils was presented in concert here last week, has accepted the post.

He will make his home in Big Spring but will instruct music in the Coahoma schools during week days except for Tuesday morning and Thursday afternoon when he will be at the Midway school. He assumed his duties Wednesday and will make his first Midway appearance Tuesday.

Another vacancy filled recently was that of home economics instructor. Miller said Mrs. Virginia Allen, who had been studying toward her Master of Arts degree and who also instructed a freshman HE class at Tech part-time, has been elected to the post.

Drilling Crews' Union To Meet

The International Union of Operating Engineers, Local No. 672 for drilling crews, has scheduled weekly meetings here, E. V. Swygart, Lamesa, said Monday.

These sessions have been set for 10 a.m. and at 7:30 p.m. each Monday at the Howard House. He said all drillers, roughnecks, and toolpushers are invited to attend the sessions.

In addition to organizational details, the IUOE division for drilling crews is starting a training program in cooperating with the United States Department of Labor, he said. A brief outline of the program will be discussed at the meetings.

The local is headed by M. S. Fitzgerald, Oklahoma City, as president, and it covers basically the Permian Basin Area. O. W. Parks, Odessa, is the assistant representative, and together with Swygart, the area organizers are Ed Bowman, Midland, Tommy Hackler, Seminole, and Bill Goodman, Lovington, N. M.

Industry Foundation Meeting Postponed

The meeting of Industrial Foundation leaders, first set for 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, has been rescheduled for 4:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Postponement was to avoid conflict with the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Housing Committee which is to consider an urban renewal program Tuesday afternoon. J. H. Greene, Industrial Foundation campaign director, said all interested persons are invited to the foundation meeting Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Banta Of Lamesa Dies

LAMESA — Rites were to be said at 3 p.m. today at the Lamesa Church of Christ for Mrs. Alice Neal Banta, 88, who died at her home at 1005 S. 3rd Street at 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Banta, a native of Fredricksburg, had lived in Dawson County since 1918 and in Lamesa since 1928.

Officiating was to be W. T. Hamilton, minister, and burial was to be in Lamesa Cemetery under direction of Higginbotham Funeral Home.

Mrs. Banta was injured in an automobile mishap seven years ago and has been bedridden since. Surviving are seven daughters, Mrs. E. A. Stewart, Mrs. B. C. Burke, Mrs. W. L. Womack of Lamesa, Mrs. F. L. Hollman, Cleveland, Mrs. Joe Haney, Odessa, Mrs. Leo Ranson, Levelland, and Mrs. Alice Cotten, Baton Rouge, La.; three sons, W. Y. Banta, San Angelo, John Banta, Lamesa, and Hillary Banta, Baton Rouge, La. She also leaves three sisters and two brothers.

Coahoma Students Win H-SU Honors

COAHOMA (SC) — Two Coahoma students are named on what is probably the most exclusive "dean's honor lists" in the state.

Mark Reeves III and J. Paul West of Coahoma are listed on the Hardin-Simmons University honor roll for the fall semester. Requirements are so strict that only about one per cent of the H-SU students achieved the honor.

There were 16 on the roll. Grades ranged upward from 95. Another 44 students maintained a 3.5 grade average, which ranges from 85 to 95.

Four-County Agricultural Workers Council Formed

The Four-County Agricultural Workers Council was organized here this morning by representatives of farm and ranch agencies in Howard, Martin, Glasscock and Midland counties.

Purpose of the organization is to pool information and coordinate activities of the various agencies to provide a better farm and ranch program for this area. The group will meet once each month, rotating the sessions among Big Spring, Garden City, Stanton and Midland. Next meeting will be Mar. 18 in Garden City.

Jimmy Taylor, Howard County farm agent, was elected president of the council at the initial meeting this morning. Marion Everhart, Big Spring representative of the Soil Conservation Service, was named secretary.

Formation of the council was sponsored by the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce. About 20 persons attended the organization meeting, representing the various offices of the SCS, Farmers Home Administration, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation, farm agent offices, agriculture departments in the public schools and the U. S. Experiment Station.

Drillstem Test On Borden Well Produces Sulphur Water

Drillstem tests at a Borden County wildcat revealed only sulphur over the weekend.

Twelve miles southeast of Gail, Continental drillstem tested the No. 1 F. D. Jones. It recovered 4,836 feet of sulphur water and 390 feet of muddy salty sulphur water from a one-hour test between 6,350-450 feet.

Operator is drilling to test the Pennsylvanian however.

Borden

Shell No. 1-A Miller, an Ellenburger wildcat, rigged up rotary today. It is located three miles west of the Lucy field on the eastern edge of the county, 646 feet from south and 1,972 feet from east lines, 275-97, H&TC Survey.

Continental No. 1 Jones took a drillstem test from 6,350-450 feet, with the tool open one hour. It recovered 4,836 feet of sulphur water and 390 feet of muddy salty sulphur water. Flowing pressure was 2,740 pounds. It is located C SW SW, 154-25, H&TC Survey 12 miles southeast of Gail.

Continental No. 1-29 Good deepened to 7,445 feet in lime and sand. Location of the Arthur pool venture is C NW SE, 29-33-4n, T&P Survey.

Continental No. 1-40 Good projected to 8,265 feet in lime and shale. Drillsite is C NW SE, 40-33-4n, T&P Survey.

Dawson

Humble No. 2 Stewart, a wildcat 19 miles southeast of Lamesa, projected today through anhydrite, lime, and gyp at 3,272 feet. The wildcat is C NE SW, 5-33-4n, T&P Survey, and four miles northeast of the Jo-Mill (Canyon) field.

Seaboard No. 1 Broyles drilled through lime at 4,870 feet today. It is located in the East Mungerville field, 330 feet from south and east lines, Labor 20, League 3, Taylor CSL Survey, two and a half miles southeast of Mungerville.

Senate Rejects Rules Suspension

AUSTIN (AP)—The Senate rejected today a motion by Sen. Grady Hazlewood to suspend rules of the Senate and take into consideration the special runoff election bill after it was called up.

The vote was 18-13 in favor of the motion, three less than the required two-thirds majority.

It was apparent a conservative-liberal bloc defeated the motion to bring up the House-passed bill by Rep. Joe Pool of Dallas.

"This bill giving the right of the people to govern by majority rule is a fundamental principal of Democracy," Hazlewood told his colleagues. "We have fought many wars and have spent billions of dollars to have this right of majority rule."

Sen. Charles Herring of Austin, sponsor of a bill to eliminate the special April 2 election, in opposing the motion told the senators "You are calling on the people of Texas to spend money at a time they can ill afford it. Under this bill I can foresee the possibility of seven or eight elections brought about. The people of my district don't want it."

Voting for Hazlewood:

Sens. Aikin, Ashley, Bracewell, Colson, Fuller, Gonzales, Hazlewood, Kazen, Martin, Moffett, Owen, Parkhouse, Phillips, Ratliff, Reagan, Roberts, Rogers and Segrest.

Against it were:

Sens. Bradshaw, Fly, Hardeman, Herring, Hudson, Krueger, Lane, Locks, Moore, Smith, Weinert, Willis and Wood.

The House took up another controversial measure, the enabling act of a proposed constitutional amendment to create the Texas water development fund.

Daniel has endorsed the election bill, by Rep. Joe Pool of Dallas, as the fulfillment of his campaign promise to let voters decide who shall succeed him in the Senate.

SLAYING

in a cafe on NW Third between Calderon, the three Zapatas, and Armendariz.

A trail of blood led from in front of the boot shop to the rear of the address where Calderon was later found under a tree.

Police surmised he had been dead about 40 minutes to an hour when he was found.

The three suspects were picked up Sunday morning and questioned by city, county, and district attorney officials. All three admitted being in a fight with Calderon but nothing more, police said today.

When picked up, Lupe Zapata had one cut on her waist, Felix had three slashes — one on the arm and two on the back — and Armandariz had no wounds.

Police have reports that Pablo had a severe cut on his head.

A knife was found in a coat belonging to Pablo, which was left at Felix's house. No other weapons were found, however.

Blood samples from Calderon's clothing and the knife were to be sent to Austin today for checks, officers reported.

Calderon resided at 611 N. Bell. He was born here on March 12, 1932. He is a Korean veteran, having entered the Army in 1952.

Survivors include his father, Geromino Calderon Sr., of Big Spring; three brothers, Dentura Calderon, Basilio Calderon, and Raselio Calderon, all of Big Spring; a sister, Mrs. Lupe Valdez of Seminole, three nephews, and a niece.

Hungary Opens Rebel Trial

BUDAPEST (AP) — Communist Hungary today opened its biggest show trial so far of rebels who fought last fall against the Russians.

Among the 12 on the defendants' bench in the drab, gray Budapest Municipal Court were a 25-year-old woman medical student and two well-known writers.

The young woman, Gizella Ilona Toth, is charged with killing a man believed to have belonged to the Communist secret police.

The writers were playwright Jozsef Gali, 27, and Gyula Obersovszky, 30, one of Hungary's best-known journalists. They are accused mainly of putting out pamphlets and leaflets.

The judge is a woman, Matilde Toth, in her early 40s. Presumably she is not related to the woman defendant. Two male advisers sat beside Judge Toth.

One defendant, Ferenz Goenczl, 26-year-old locksmith, drew a rebuke from the judge after she had asked if he were in good health.

"No," he replied, "the Russians beat me."

Afro-Asian Bloc Undecided On Israel Move

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The Asian-African group of 27 U.N. delegates appeared still undecided today whether to ask the General Assembly to vote economic penalties now to get Israel out of Egypt.

A usually well-informed Arab source told a reporter he had heard "it was the sense of the group" that a resolution calling for economic sanctions should be introduced when the General Assembly resumes debate on the Middle East tomorrow.

But one member of the group declared, "I don't think that they would do anything so serious before they got the U.S. views on that."

It was understood Chief U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge in conferences today would explain the American view on sanctions to the Asian-African leaders. Secretary of State Dulles so far has said publicly only that his government would give serious consideration to any proposal for economic retaliation.

The source from the Asian-African bloc said a sanctions resolution had been drawn up but had been held back pending the outcome of U.S. efforts to obtain Israeli withdrawal from the Egyptian coast of the Gulf of Aqaba and from the Gaza Strip.

The delegate said the resolution is "along the line" of a U.S. proposal that Britain and France vetoed in the Security Council Oct. 30 after the Israeli invasion of Egypt.

British Papers Report Frank Sinatra Slapped

NEW YORK (AP) — Newspapers printed reports today that British actor Rex Harrison slapped Frank Sinatra in the face twice at a party in a misunderstanding over Harrison's fiancee Kay Kendall.

The New York Herald Tribune and the New York Daily Mirror had similar stories from Hollywood about the incident, which reportedly occurred last week.

Neither Sinatra nor Harrison could be contacted in Hollywood for comment on the stories, and other sources at the film capital were unproductive.

From the reports the incident shaped up along these lines:

Sinatra, his fists clenched at his side during the double slapping, didn't strike back but walked away.

The slapping occurred at a party attended by many Hollywood notables, with producer - agent Charles Feldman as host.

Sinatra went to the patio of Feldman's home to get some fresh air early in the morning and Miss Kendall joined him there for a chat. They had a casual conversation, in the course of which Miss Kendall admired Sinatra's shirt. Harrison, who had escorted his fiancee to the party, came out looking for her, and found her with Sinatra.

Miss Kendall said to Harrison: "Isn't this a beautiful shirt Frank is wearing?"

Harrison grudgingly agreed, and asked what color it was.

Said Sinatra: "Just an old shirt. Kind of off-white, maybe yellow."

Harrison then slapped Sinatra.

Sinatra, gritting his teeth and clenching his fists, said, "It's still yellow."

Then came the second slap. Several other guests came out on the patio, and Sinatra walked away.

Harrison, who is on a month's leave as male star of the Broadway musical hit "My Fair Lady," was divorced in Mexico Feb. 7 by his wife of 14 years, Lilli Palmer. She charged incompatibility and mental cruelty.

Uncle Ray:

Reader Is Puzzled By 'Color Changes'

By RAMON COFFMAN

Words in a letter from a young reader, Conny Johnson, made me "take notice." Here they are:

"Could you answer this question? A cow eats green grass and the milk comes out white—then how do you get pink cheeks?"

That question takes me back to a remarkable passage in a book by Sir Norman Angell. He said, in substance:

"Bread is not mere dead matter. There is a marvelous chemistry which transforms it into a melody of Lizst or the laughter of a child."

A cow, like a human being, has chemistry which changes food. The grass eaten in the pasture turns into muscle, blood, bone and sinew. The same is true of hay and grain eaten in the barn.

Colors are lost in the changing process in human beings, as well as animals. Otherwise our skin might become too red after we eat beets. Think of what would happen if we ate a salad containing peas, carrots and other vegetables!

2-18

Bossy poses a puzzling question.

Sometimes it is said that milk will give a person pink cheeks. The same remark might be made about other healthful foods. Pink cheeks (in certain cases, at least) are a sign of good health.

Here is another question:

"One adult told me that a cow has seven stomachs, but another says it has only two—what is the correct number?"

The answer depends on our definition of "stomach." A cow has only one TRUE stomach, but three other parts of her digestive system may be described as stomachs.

Food swallowed by a cow goes into the paunch, sometimes called "the first stomach." Later it enters the reticulum, or "second stomach."

The food then returns to the cow's mouth and serves as "cud." After the cud has been chewed long enough, it is swallowed again, and this time it goes to the "third" stomach. After that the food goes into the fourth, or true, stomach.

Police Investigate Night Spot Blast

FORT WORTH (AP)—A highway night spot once frequented by some of Fort Worth's big names in the underworld was blasted by an explosion yesterday.

Police were investigating a possible revenge motive by "undesirable persons" who had been excluded from the Thunderbird Club on the Jacksboro highway north of here. It has been operated in recent months as a private club.

The blast ripped a hole in the south wall of the club, now operated by Mrs. Bettye Coffman. Pieces of the blasted wall were found inbedded in the opposite wall 30 feet away. A television set was ripped apart, a mirror was smashed and a telephone was split in half.

Sansom Park Police Chief Bob McLaughlin said the blast probably was made from black powder. A two-foot piece of fuse was found. found.

Mrs. Coffman denied having any trouble with underworld figures.

"I love everybody," she said. "I have no idea why anyone would do this to me."

The club formerly was known as the By-Way Drive Inn and such local badmen as Cecil Green, Tincy Eggleston and Gene Paul Norris once made it a meeting spot.

Green was shot down as he and Eggleston stood in front of the place a few years ago. Eggleston, who narrowly escaped that time, was slain some time later.
