CCPD witnesses hectic weekend

By LUIS RIOS

The Church of Christ located at 22nd and Austin was the scene of a break-in December 28, 1983. Taken in the break-in were items worth approximately $840, according to the police report.

The thefts reported over the weekend included the theft of a battery worth approximately $65, some Niko amplifiers worth approximately $900 and a tarp, (white ducking material) whose estimated worth was $100.

The initial hit-and-run occurred at 700 Hickory Street at 4:45 p.m. December 27. The second hit-and-run reported was at 1200 Oak Street. The incident occurred at 6:10 p.m. December 29. The third of the hit-and-runs reported occurred at 1800 Vine Street.

Two other accidents were reported during the weekend. One occurred when a vehicle driving southbound on Highway 208 missed a stop sign and plowed into an oncoming car. The accident happened on December 31. The second accident was a minor "fender bender" at the Fuller Foods parking lot.

Conservation tillage aids crop growth

Crop losses from the drought in 1983 were staggering...corn yields were down 48 percent and soybeans and cotton down by one-third, according to USDA estimates.

Crops, however, that were under some form of conservation tillage, particularly no-till, were in better shape than those under conventional tillage, said Peter Myers, Chief of U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service. Improved moisture holding capacity is one of the greatest benefits of conservation tillage in a drought year like this one.

Conservation tillage

can make the bad times better and make the best of the good times, said Myers in the October issue of Soil and Water Conservation News. Farmers using conservation tillage and researchers studying demonstration plots have learned that:

-Crops under conservation tillage show signs of stress five to 10 days later than conventionally tilled crops. Delaying stress during pollination and critical growth stages often mean higher yields.

-Crop residue delays evaporation of moisture and allows the rainfall to soak in.

-During stress periods, there can be as much as two inches or more of soil moisture available for crops with conservation tillage and no-till than with conventional tillage.

-No-till on irrigated wheat can save as much water as it takes to irrigate the crop once with four inches of water.

-In dry years, crops under conservation tillage, particularly no-till, yield better than conventionally tilled crops. In the Midwest, corn under conservation tillage, yielded 10 to 25 bushels more per acre than conventionally tilled corn.

The plant residue left on the surface by conservation tillage helps hold moisture by covering the surface to reduce moisture evaporation and decreasing runoff to allow more infiltration of water into the root zone. As the organic matter content increases in the seeding zone, the water holding capacity of the soil improves.

Rivera makes All-West Texas Super Team

Dennis Rivera

By TONY FRANCO
 At 5-7 and 135 pounds, you just have to give a little more effort to make up for the size disadvantage.
 Dennis Rivera, Colorado City's slippery wide receiver did just that to finish as the top receiver in West Texas. For the effort, Rivera was named to the 1983 All-West Texas Super Team, by no means a small deal.

To make the team a player must be the best in a portion of Texas that most other states fall very short of.

That's not just Class 3A only either, the Super Team is composed of all classes.

For the season, Rivera caught 48 passes for 929 yards and four touchdowns. Joining Rivera on the offensive receiving corps are Goldwaithe's Ricky Roberts, Midland's Allan Foret and tight end Doyle Weishuhn from Wall.

District 6-3A champions Ballinger placed quarterback Aaron Kee-see and specialist Matt Allen on the squad.

Sonora tackle Rodney Jones is the remaining District 6-3A footballer to make the squad.

For the year, Rivera has been named All-District wide receiver, All-District secondary back, All-West Texas wide receiver and All-West Texas Super Team wide receiver. Super.

HERE'S ALL YOU DO...

Get your free Bingo ticket at the checkout lane or service booth each time you come into a Safeway store. Each ticket contains 4 markers. Just match the number on your Bingo marker to the number on your die-cut card and slip it into the correct position. When you fill an entire row horizontally, vertically, or diagonally, you win!

If you cover all four corners of any one of the Bingo games, even without getting Bingo, yours is a winning card which pays FIVE TIMES the amount of the game.

NO PURCHASE NECESSARY...

Hale accepts job as coach at Tech

Texas Tech head football coach, Jerry Moore traveled to Houston last week with the intention of hiring Clovis Hale, former Rice offensive coordinator, to his Red Raider staff. This he did. Hale will coach the offensive line and has already started recruiting.

Hale, 42, son of Mr. and Mrs. R.J. Hale of Loraine, played football with the Loraine Bulldogs while in high school in Loraine, and for McMurry College where he got his degree. He began his coaching career at Lubbock High School in 1965 and then became assistant coach at Big Spring. He took the head coaching job at Big Spring in 1970 before going to San Angelo Lakeview where he won two District titles.

In reminiscing, Hale said, "I remember I told my wife when I started coaching at Lubbock High School saying that if I could just get back to Tech, then I would have made it, and its taken me 18 years to get back, and I consider myself very fortunate to get this opportunity."

Clovis coached the offensive line at North Texas State in 1978 and went with Hayden Fry to Iowa for two years before joining Ray Alborn's staff at Rice.

Moore stated "I feel fortunate to have hired an offensive line coach of the caliber of Clovis Hale. It's even more of a plus for us since he has a West Texas and a high school coaching background."

Hale said, "I guess more than anything else, I'm excited simply because I'm a West Texas guy, Texas Tech has been the University I've followed all my life."

Hale, his wife, Jean, and two sons Joe Bill and Dusty spent Christmas here with his parents and with Jean's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Kidd.

Their guests for New Year's were Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Stovall from Mesquite.

In business, Clara Butler read minutes and Mrs. Harris gave the treasurer's report.

The Current Mission and Bible Study Group will meet with Mrs. Baird at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, January 18.

Mattox outlines rules to follow for patent

By JIM MATTOX
Attorney General

If you're one of those creative people who has invented a new concept or product, you may now be considering getting your design or product patented. Before you hire someone to help you with this project, there are a few things you should know. First, it sometimes surprises inventors to learn that the first to invent—not the first to file for a patent—is the person protected by patent law. For example, if someone invented a new type of cotton gin and put it into "public use" and you later came up with the same process, you would not be able to get a patent, even though the original inventor never filed for a patent. "Public use" can mean used by as few as two or three people. You have one year from the time your invention becomes "public" to file for the patent. Patent law says you cannot get a patent on something which would be "obvious to one of ordinary skill" in the area. Just because you don't see anything like it in the store, you should not assume that the product is patentable. Even if an invention is patentable, it may have very little patent protection, because it is only slightly different from something already on the market. If you do think you have a unique, patentable and marketable product, it is best to seek the advice of a patent attorney. First, the attorney will run a patentability search to determine whether the product has already been patented, or can be patented. This search alone will cost $400 to $800, but can be more if your product is complex. There are about four million patents on file with the U.S. Patent Office right now. Unfortunately, many people are taken in by companies claiming to do both patent search and manufacturer marketing for $300-500. The company will typically do a very limited search, which they don't admit to the client, pronounce the product patentable—and then ask for MORE MONEY to do the marketing. Once you and your patent attorney are confident the invention is patentable, the attorney will probably charge anywhere from $700-$1,000 for a very simple patent application. One for an extremely complex chemical or electronic invention may run over $10,000. It is often not worth the money to get a patent. However this business decision is frequently made on the basis of ego satisfaction, not practicality. Companies that fleece inventors rely on that fact. An honest attorney or company may very well try to dissuade the inventor from seeking a patent once the search is completed. Some dishonest companies will agree to do both the patent search and the patent application for as little as $500. All too often, the inventor finds that all the salesmen wanted was his money. As with any important transaction, you should get everything in writing. If the company or attorney makes a specific promise to you, make sure it's in your contract. Also, you should distinguish between a marketing company, and a patent company or attorney. Generally, patent attorneys do not engage in marketing. If the company you're dealing with says it has satisfied customers, ask who these customers are and visit with them. If the salesman says that his company has contacts with large corporations which may be interested in your product, talk to those companies and find out for yourself what the invention company's reputation is. You can also contact your local Better Business Bureau and the Attorney General's Office to find out if they have had any complaints about the company. In a future column, I will tell you about the Invention Development Act. If you have more questions, contact your nearest Attorney General Consumer Protection office (Austin, Dallas, El Paso, Houston, Lubbock, McAllen, and San Antonio). The Attorney General's office is here to help you.

Licenses to bear codes

Beginning January 1, 1984, those persons who renew their driver license, qualify for their first license, or apply for a duplicate permit will receive licenses bearing new codes signifying class of license. Colonel Jim Adams, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said the department is starting the conversion to a new classified driver licensing system in accordance with a law passed this year by the Texas Legislature. "Licenses issued prior to 1984 will be valid until the expiration dates which appear on them," Adams said. "The new licenses will carry classifications designating the type and weight of vehicles which the holder may operate."

The new license classifications are "A," "B," "C" and "M." The Class "C" license permits operation of single, two-axle vehicles with a gross weight of 24,000 pounds or less excluding motorcycles and mopeds. This designation also allows the towing of a vehicle not exceeding 10,000 pounds gross vehicle weight (GVW) or a farm trailer not exceeding 20,000 pounds GVW. In addition, the Class "C" designation permits the operation of a bus with a maximum seating capacity of 23 passengers not including the driver. Standard operator licenses issued under the old law will be converted automatically to Class "C" permits upon renewal or issuance of a duplicate license. The Class "B" license allows the holder to drive all Class "C" vehicles plus single vehicles with a GVW exceeding 24,000 pounds and buses with a capacity of 24 or more passengers. Motorcycles and mopeds are excluded. Class "A" permits allow operation of any vehicle or combination of vehicles including those listed for classes "B" and "C." Mopeds and motorcycles are excluded. Commercial and full chauffeur licenses issued under the old statute will be converted automatically to Class "A" permits upon renewal or issuance of a duplicate license. The Class "M" designation allows the holder to operate motorcycles, motor-driven cycles and mopeds. The road test must be taken with a vehicle which meets the specific requirements of the license class for which the person is applying. "All classes of licenses including renewals will be valid for four years," Adams said. "The fee for obtaining or renewing all license classes will be $10. An examination fee of five dollars will be charged for those drivers seeking a higher license classification or a motorcycle endorsement for their current license." Drivers who have no moving violation convictions over a four-year period and who also have no physical limitations are eligible to renew their licenses by mail. To qualify for mail-in renewal, a driver must first receive a DPS form in the mail.

This application should be mailed back to the department within one week after it is received. When the license is renewed, the driver will be sent a validation card which must be carried with the old license. A vision test and new photograph will not be required for mail-in renewals. Drivers who receive mail-in renewal forms may also visit a driver license office and renew their licenses according to the standard procedure which will require them to be photographed and have their vision tested. The fee for a provisional license is computed at $2.50 per year until the driver's eighteenth birthday with a minimum fee of four dollars. The cost of a duplicate license is three dollars.

 Lone Star Gas Company

Bentson speaks out on federal relief

By LLOYD BENTSEN

Last summer when West Texas ranchers came to me asking for help surviving their area's worst drought in decades, they did not ask for a handout. What they wanted was to buy damaged, surplus government-owned grain, at reasonably reduced prices, so that they could save what remained of their livestock from starvation. The compelling reasoning in favor of this strategy was that the damaged grain, much of which had been stored in Texas, was not of good enough quality to use for export or the Payment-In-Kind program. It was not good for much except livestock feed. This damaged grain was stored in grain elevators at an enormous cost to taxpayers. U.S. Department of Agriculture records in June showed 83 million bushels of damaged grain was running up an annual bill of $48 million in storage and interest charges. Agriculture Secretary John Block had it within his discretion to release this grain to these ranchers, yet he repeatedly refused to help. At one point the department did offer improved terms for Farmers Home Administration loans. But our drought-stricken ranchers and farmers didn't really need another note at the bank. They needed something a cow could eat. For more than six months, ranchers and farmers were forced to play an agonizing waiting game because of the department's obstin-ce. Congress had to pass legislation forcing release of the grain. The legislation, which I introduced in the Senate, was finally signed into law on November 29, 1983. Shortly thereafter, a USDA spokesman admitted publicly that the grain could have been released four months earlier, and without legislation. So our ranchers paid the price. Some went out of business. Many had to cut back herds they had spent years developing. In the 27 Texas counties designated as drought disaster areas last year, statistics for January 1983 showed 755,000 cattle and 1.2 million sheep and goats. Texas A&M University estimates there are now 300,000 cattle and the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association estimates there are only 300,000 sheep and goats. This was a tragic price to have paid so needlessly. Had the Secretary acted to provide drought relief last summer, this emergency aid would have been far more timely and more helpful. Even at its best federal aid cannot end the problems brought on by the drought. Only rain can do that. But effective and timely federal relief—such as emergency livestock feed assistance—can help. Unfortunately, the help our ranchers and farmers are getting is several months late.

Businesses look forward

State's economy should improve

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said Thursday a survey he has conducted shows Texas business people are expecting the state's economy to improve markedly during the first half of 1984. "Texas business expects to produce more, sell more, spend more and hire more during the first six months of 1984," Bullock said. The Comptroller based his predictions on a recent survey of 300 of the state's largest sales taxpayers. Bullock asked these businesses if they expect the first half of 1984 to be better, worse or the same as 1983. More than 70 percent of those who received questionnaires responded. "A whopping 48 percent of them expect to hire more employees next year," Bullock said. "Eight out of ten expect Texas business conditions to improve." Bullock said retail and manufacturing companies have the highest expectations for the next six months, while construction, oil and gas utility companies are the most pessimistic. Bullock's survey also shows: 1. Three quarters of those responding expect the Texas economy to perform at least as well as the nation as a whole. 2. Three quarters expect the financial condition of their own companies to improve over the next six months. 3. Sixty-five percent expect their profit picture to improve. 4. Many construction firms, participants in a Texas building boom for the past 18 months, are expecting to reduce the number of employees now on their payrolls. 5. Oil and gas firms are still suffering from their industry's slump, but those firms with available cash see 1984 as a year of investment opportunities for those who can take advantage of lower costs for drilling and capital equipment. "The results of this survey confirmed what we expected when we issued our latest Revenue Estimate in October," Bullock said. "The survey shows retailers are coming back strong and expect to get stronger, while other parts of our state economy are looking at a slower climb."
