Deadly gas leaks from oil well in Odessa

By FRANK TROMBLEY
and PATRICK CRIMMINS
Staff Writers

ODESSA — Nearly 2,000 Odessa residents were evacuated Friday night but no injuries were reported to sheriff's department officials after an oil well in the northwest part of the city started leaking deadly hydrogen sulfide from a broken valve.

Although there were no official reports of injuries, a number of people reportedly were being treated for eye irritation.

Reports indicated the well was being serviced when the valve broke. Service crews from Halliburton Services were called to the scene just before 10 p.m., and just before 11 p.m. were using mud brought in from Pecos in attempts to close the hydrogen sulfide leak.

A worker at the site, located in a heavily populated residential area just northeast of the intersection of 64th Street and Golder, said crews were going to attempt to plug the well with the mud.

A Texas Railroad Commission official on the scene said he did not know when residents would be allowed to return to their homes.

Officials from the Texas Air Control Board and the Ector County Health Department were also called to the scene, as well as crews equipped with air packs from the Odessa Fire Department.

According to Ector County Sheriff Lt. Jackie Perkins, the well is owned by Brock and Foster. Initial reports indicated the well was owned by the Exxon Corp.

A dispatcher for the Ector County Sheriff's Department said about 9 p.m. that every available deputy had been called in for assistance, and said residents were being evacuated as quickly as possible.

"The evacuations have been going well," the dispatcher said. "I know we have some officers using loudspeakers to notify residents; I don't know if we've had anyone going house to house."

One official at the scene said most of the evacuees had gone to stay with friends or relatives.

The evacuated area, approximately three miles square, was 57th Street north to Yukon Road, and from Andrews Highway to West County Road. Roadblocks were set up to divert traffic in the area by the Department of Public Safety and sheriff's deputies.

At presstime, the heaviest concentrations of the gas, which smells like rotten eggs and can paralyze the respiratory system, had moved away from the well site.

Area doctors have heart-to-heart talk with DeBakey

By JANE MARLER DEES
Staff Writer

Doctors from around the Permian Basin had heart to heart talks Friday with world-renowned cardiologist Michael E. DeBakey, M.D. of Houston.

"Straight From the Heart," a cardiology symposium held at the Plaza Club and sponsored by Physicians and Surgeons Hospital, gave heart specialists from Houston, Brooklyn, N.Y., Columbus, Ohio; Irvine, Calif.; Lubbock and Midland the chance to discuss the latest trends in cardiology from "hyperlipidemia" to aorto-coronary artery bypass surgery.

The hallmark of the day for most however, may have been the chance to listen to or meet the famed DeBakey, heart surgeon extraordinaire as well as chancellor of the Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

DeBakey said great strides are being made in the world of cardiology — with statistics showing that the death rate from heart disease has decreased 27 percent over the past 15 years.

"Many heart operations are routine today.

"Training for cardiologists constitutes a 'team approach' which has established a high standard of the quality of the personnel," DeBakey said.

IT IS A given that technology today in the world of cardiology has exploded, and DeBakey said Americans have the best in the world in terms of treatment and chances for recovery.

"There is though, a small segment that's not getting treatment.

"We need to identify them (those who don't have the funds) and help them," DeBakey said.

DeBakey said a person who, for instance, didn't have the estimated $50,000 he said it costs to receive a heart transplant, would never be turned down, although he said it does create an obstacle in treatment.

"We'll just find the ways to get them the funds," DeBakey said.

Later in the day, DeBakey gave a presentation on the current status of artificial heart and cardiac transplantation surgery.

Heart transplantation, which began in 1968, DeBakey said, stopped for a time in 1972 because the survival rates — only two out of 14 had lived longer than a year — weren't promising.

A group of scientists at Stanford University got the ball rolling again, and DeBakey gives much of the success credits to them today.

"We're doing transplants today on every organ that's transplantable including the lungs, heart, kidney, liver and cornea," DeBakey said.

In 1980, 440 transplants were performed, he said, and 80 percent of those patients lived at least one year and 50 percent lived for at least five years.

DEBAKEY STRESSED a heart transplant is "a technically simple procedure," which consists of taking the old one out and sewing in a new one.

Reagan: There's no comparison between Daniloff, hostages

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan said Friday two American hostages in Lebanon might have been forced to make statements demanding that the United States give their case the kind of attention that won Nicholas Daniloff's release from the Soviet Union.

Questioned about a 10-minute videotape made available to Western news agencies in Beirut, in which Terry A. Anderson and David Jacobsen criticized the administration's performance, Reagan said, "I have a feeling that they were doing this under the orders of their captors."

Stopping to talk to reporters as he walked toward his helicopter to fly to Camp David, Md., for the weekend, he said "there is no comparison" between Daniloff and the hostages in Lebanon.

Daniloff was set free Tuesday in a complex deal between the United States and the Soviet Union, in which, among other things, a Soviet physicist facing a spy trial in this country was allowed go home after pleading no-contest to spy charges in Brooklyn, N.Y.

At the same time, Daniloff was permitted to leave the Soviet Union with his wife, Ruth, after the U.S. News & World Report correspondent had been first imprisoned for 13 days and then confined to the American Embassy in Moscow for 17 more days.

Distinguishing between Daniloff and the American hostages in Lebanon, Reagan told reporters, "In one, we were dealing with a government that had under its laws arrested one of our citizens (Daniloff), we were able to get him back." He said that in the case of the hostages in Lebanon, "We don't know who's holding them."

Lewis names Larry Don Shaw to Appropriations Committee

By STEVE LEVINE
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — House Speaker Gib Lewis Friday appointed Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring, to the powerful House Appropriations Committee.

"Never before in our history has Texas needed the experience of proven legislators in dealing with our budget problems," Lewis said. "Larry Don Shaw has shown the mental toughness needed to enable him to make the hard choices facing the State of Texas."

A six-year legislative veteran, Shaw will replace Rep. Rene Oliveira, D-Brownsville, who lost a bid for re-election and resigned his seat on the budget-writing committee.

"Stepping aside from the Appropriations Committee for the remainder of my term will provide the opportunity for a veteran member like Larry Don Shaw, who will be returning in January, to bring his legislative talent to bear on the appropriative process," Oliveira said.

Shaw's appointment brings two Midland-area lawmakers to the panel. Rep. Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield, is chairman of the committee.

Soviets asked to join news blackout

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, saying it wants private talk, not public rhetoric, has asked the Soviets to join in a news blackout during summit talks next week between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, a White House spokesman said Friday.

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes told reporters, "We have proposed to the Soviet Union that we follow our Geneva formula" in which the two sides refused to discuss publicly what was said during the two days of summit talks last November.

Speakes said he did not know whether the proposal had been delivered to Soviet officials in Reykjavik, Iceland, where planning for the hastily called sessions Oct. 11 and 12 is under way.

But a blackout, he said, would meet the criteria set out by Gorbachev when he proposed "private, small, quick" meetings between the two leaders.

Doll collecting accidental, sort-of side line to couple's antique business

MARSHALL (AP) — One glance around the Franks Antique Doll Museum in Marshall proves that collecting the thousands of items that fill the 1,440-square-foot area was not a simple matter of fulfilling a childhood dream.

Instead it was the work of a serious, educated collector and took years of work by Clara Franks, and her husband, Francis, who have been operating the museum for the past 24 years.

Actually, the name "doll museum" is deceptive.

Although the room does contain almost 2,000 dolls of every size and type — many of them one-of-a-kind — from almost every country around the world, there's much, much more than dolls to see.

Every shelf and every foot of floor space is filled with collectibles, more than 2,000 of them. On one shelf is a cluster of mechanical toys, on another a miniature Vermont country store and on still another a set of rare Punch and Judy marionettes.

Scattered around the center of the museum are all types of doll beds, cradles and buggies, each containing a doll carefully covered with a quilt or spread.

Doll houses of all sizes and age, children's tables set with miniature tea sets, tiny pieces of furniture once used as samples by catalogue salesmen, rocking horses, doll trunks, books and pictures fill the remaining space.

The doll collecting came about accidentally, sort of as a side line to the Franks' antique business, Mrs. Franks said.

The couple originally began collecting dolls while Franks was serving in the Army Air Corps, from which he retired in 1947. That same year they moved to Marshall and opened an antique business.

In 1957 they moved the shop to one of the city's most historic homes, the Hochwald House, built in 1894-1895 by Isaac Hochwald, a partner and later owner of the Great Railroad Store. In April 1978, the Frankses closed the shop, but they still own the house and are refurbishing it.

As the couple traveled around the country on their antique collecting trips, they began buying dolls, toys and other items.

"When you get the bug and you see one, you've got to buy it," Mrs. Franks said. During their travels in the northeastern states, they bought items anywhere they could, Franks said.

Mrs. Franks says she surprised herself by taking such an avid interest in dolls. Although she and her two sisters often played with dolls when they were children, Mrs. Franks had little exposure to dolls while rearing the couple's two sons.

Slowly over the years, the antique shop and the closets in the couple's home began to fill up with the items they'd collected. Finally, they decided the collection needed a special home of its own.

"One reason we opened the museum was because I wanted to share, so people could see and enjoy what we collected," she said.

So, the adjacent garage was turned into a museum. In a few years that space too was filled to overflowing and the couple recently built a separate 40-by-30-foot building behind the Hochwald House.

"People are kind of overwhelmed when they first see the museum," Franks said. "They've never seen this many dolls or this many types of dolls in one place. People tell us this is the largest collection in the South."

But, the Franks Doll Museum is more than just a collection. The Frankses greet visitors at the door, and offer a personal guided tour if a visitor wishes.

There's a special story to go with almost any of the items and the Frankses are glad to share them with their guests.

Mrs. Franks carefully explains that Germany was one of the first countries where dolls were made.

Reporter: Rangers didn't want to know truth about Lucas

EL PASO (AP) — An investigative reporter testified Friday that he got the feeling members of the Texas Rangers task force on Henry Lee Lucas "didn't want to know the truth" about the possibility that Lucas' mass murder confessions were bogus.

Hugh Aynesworth, reporter for the Dallas Times Herald, said the Rangers task force members refused to accept evidence that could have cleared Lucas.

Lucas is charged with first-degree murder in the 1983 slaying of Librada Apodaca, 72, in El Paso. He confessed to that killing and hundreds of others but later recanted.

His attorneys have filed a motion asking that his confession to the Apodaca crime be ruled inadmissible, saying it is as phony as some 600 other confessions Lucas made and then retracted. The pretrial hearing started Sept. 8 and lawyers expect it to last at least six more weeks.

Aynesworth, one of the writers of several Times Herald stories challenging a number of Lucas' confessions, testified he was able to determine Lucas was cashing a check in Jacksonville, Fla., in 1979 the day a woman was killed in Georgetown, Texas.

Lucas received the death sentence in the case.

When Aynesworth tried to tell Bob Prince, who headed the Rangers task force, and Williamson County Sheriff Jim Boutwell about his findings, he was turned away, the reporter testified.

"That's when I stopped believing them. They were going to put a man to death and they didn't touch all the bases," Aynesworth said. "I got the feeling they didn't want to know the truth."

Aynesworth said he thought it "ridiculous" when he was told the investigation had already been completed.

"They knew he was making it up. That was the implication," he added.

Contacted at his office in Houston, Prince said, "It's absolutely erroneous that he (Aynesworth) ever came to me with any information of this nature. I would have taken any information brought forward."

> "That's when I stopped believing them. They were going to put a man to death and they didn't touch all the bases. I got the feeling they didn't want to know the truth. They knew he was making it up. That was the implication."

> — Reporter Hugh Aynesworth

A Williamson County Sheriff's spokeswoman said Boutwell was out of the office Friday.

Aynesworth testified that in one instance, Lucas would have had to travel 13,000 miles in one month to kill six people he didn't know.

"There should have been some questions," he said.

Lucas has said he confessed to hundreds of crimes under pressure from law enforcement officers who wanted to clear unsolved slayings.

James Lang, district attorney for Tehama County, Calif., testified he was convinced Lucas' confession to having killed Rachell Ward in Red Bluff, Calif., in March 1983 was not true.

Lang, who was a police office and judge before becoming district attorney, said Lucas was fed information about the case before Tehama County investigators interviewed him in Montague County, Texas.

"My impression is that Lucas had been given some information before our investigators got here," said Lang. "Lucas never supplied details that were not known to our police."

Interviews with people who knew Lucas in Montague County also satisfied him that Lucas was not in California when the murder happened, Lang said.

New JSC director says successful shuttle flight key to NASA recovery

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Aaron Cohen, a veteran space engineer who will become director of the Johnson Space Center later this month, said Friday that successful operation of the space shuttle is the key to NASA's recovery from the Challenger accident.

Cohen, 55, said he believes NASA's political and popular reputation will be restored once the agency starts flying the space shuttle safely again.

"It's very important for NASA to fly the shuttle safely by the first quarter of 1988," said Cohen. He said the announced date for the resumption of flights, Feb. 18, 1988, is very realistic, although the agency has much work to do before then.

Cohen said he expects to establish a management style based on an openness of communication, an attention to detail and a willingness to respond to critics.

"Open communication is one of my primary (goals) ones," said Cohen.

Engineers at lower levels, he said, must know that any problems, such as safety concerns, will be communicated up the management ladder to the top.

A presidential commission that investigated the Challenger accident criticized NASA's management system that pinched off the communication of engineering safety concerns.

Low-level engineers recommended that the Challenger not be launched because of a rocket joint that could be affected by cold weather, but their concerns never reached higher levels. The rocket joint failure was blamed for the Challenger tragedy.

Cohen said he wants to avoid such communication failures in the future.

"You must make people feel that you are willing to listen to them," said Cohen. "They must know that the problems they talk about will get a full hearing."

The NASA executive said he expects the agency will encounter criticism again in the future, but believes, "you need to be able to take criticism and not be defensive."

Cohen, who gained a reputation as a skilled engineer who pays meticulous attention to detail, said that will continue to be his style.

Flying the shuttle safely, he said, "will be accomplished by paying attention to detail," and to encourage others to do the same.

"You are only as good as your people and you need to let them know you are counting on them," he said.

Cohen had major engineering roles in the development of the Apollo spacecraft, and in the design and testing of the space shuttle. He has been at the Johnson Space Center since 1962.

Cohen succeeds Jesse Moore who announced on Thursday he was resigning to accept a reassignment to NASA headquarters in Washington. Cohen takes over his new post on Oct. 12.

Johnson is responsibile for most phases of manned space flight. The center is home of the shuttle program office and of the Mission Control Center, which is in charge of all orbiting manned spacecraft. JSC also has a major role in the development of the space station, a permanently manned laboratory set for operation by 1994.

Goldthwaite cancels property taxes for '87

GOLDTHWAITE (AP) — At a time when most cities and the state are raising taxes, this community is doing away with them.

In a unanimous decision, the Goldthwaite City Council voted to eliminate property taxes for 1987.

Mayor J.B. Harper offered the plan to eliminate ad valorem taxes for 1987 and to fund estimated city expenses of $1.5 million solely through the sale of electricity, water and fees charged for sewer and garbage service.

Harper told the San Angelo Standard-Times that Goldthwaite will be the only city he knows of that won't be collecting property taxes.

"I've talked to a lot of officials around the state and didn't find one" like Goldthwaite, he said.

The city also cancelled taxes levied by the water district to pay off an outstanding bond. But the city still wasn't through.

It approved a six-tenths of one cent decrease in the rate charged for electricity generated by the city-owned power plant.

"Elimination of the ad valorem tax will mean about $88,000 total savings for property owners" in the community of about 1,700, Harper said after the meeting.

He said the reduced charge for electricity effective Nov. 20 means a savings of about $6,600 per month for 1,060 customers.

Harper said he hoped the city could avoid collecting property taxes in future years, but the vote Thursday is for no taxes in 1987 only.

By eliminating the property tax the city hopes to attract new businesses and residents and improve ecomonic conditions.

"Goldthwaite is a good place to live. We have five major highways and a railroad. Hopefully, no property taxes will attract more people and businesses," he said of the community southeast of Brownwood.

A recently completed reservoir which holds 260 acre-feet of water is providing adequate water for sale. The community has enough cash to pay off the water improvement bond when it comes due in April 1987.

Judge extends order against Farm Credit

LUBBOCK (AP) — A federal judge Friday extended a temporary restraining order blocking the Farm Credit Administration from forcing farm credit groups in Texas from sharing funds with financially troubled groups.

U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward said he needed to give the matter further study before deciding whether to issue a permanent injunction pending a trial on the matter. He said he may render a decision Oct. 13.

"There's a two-foot, six-inch stack of papers I have to go through, but I will do my best to reach some decision by then," Woodward said.

No date has been set for a trial.

The state president of the Federal Land Bank Association testified Friday that loan activity is down dramatically this year because land bank members are leery of problems surrounding the nation's Farm Credit Administration.

Dan Rogge of Austin was the first witness to be called before Woodward in a hearing seeking to block the forced sharing of Texas farm credit money with troubled associations in other farm states.

At stake is more than $50 million in unallocated funds accumulated by Texas farmers and ranchers over several decades.

The Farm Credit Administration and Capital Corp. is calling for a transfer of funds from strong credit groups and land bank associations to those in trouble. The transfer of money was to have started last month, but Woodward issued a temporary restraining order on Sept. 25.

The farm credit leaders contend the sharing of such funds is allowed under farm credit provisions. But the Texas groups fighting the transfer say it amounts to an unconstitutional grab of money owned by farmers.

In his testimony, Rogge said that loan activity at the Federal Land Bank Association in Austin was down by about $228 million the first nine months of this year because of borrower wariness about the government's plans.

He said that for the same period in 1985, the association had 2,100 more loans than for the same period this year.

"The effect (of the assessment) would be a disaster, an immediate impairment of the Federal Land Banks (in Texas)," Rogge said.

HOSTAGES

The president appeared angered by a reporter's shouted question that the hostages were "afraid you don't care." Approaching the crowd of reporters, Reagan pointed his finger and said heatedly, "Look, wait a minute."

Reagan said, "There has never been a day that we have not been trying every channel to get our hostages back from Lebanon. But they were not seized by a government. We don't know who's holding them. There's never been any contact between their kidnappers and us, other than an indirect statement that if we could persuade a third country to release some people who were tried and convicted of murder, that would be the way to get our people back.

"Well, there's no way that third country's going to do that."

The State Department, earlier Friday, appealed to the kidnappers of the American hostages in Lebanon to make contact with the United States or with intermediaries for discussions on the release of the captives.

"We've always been willing to establish contact either through direct talks with the kidnappers or their representatives or with third parties," deputy spokesman Charles Redman said.

"Although the kidnappers have demonstrated that they can communicate with news agencies by letter, telephone and videotape, they've shown no inclination to talk directly to us."

Islamic Jihad, which holds three Americans hostage, released the 10-minute tape and a statement. But there was no way of knowing whether the two had made the statements willingly.

It was the first time Anderson, 38, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, appeared in a videotape since his abduction in Moslem west Beirut 1½ years ago. Jacobsen, 55, said the hardships the captives face have worsened in recent weeks, though he gave no details.

The two men read separately from prepared statements and bitterly attacked the administration's vigor and speed in securing Daniloff's Monday release from Moscow.

"How can any official justify the interest, attention and action given in that case and the inattention given ours?" said Anderson, who wore a collarless pale yellow shirt.

"After 2½ years of empty talk and refusal to act on the part of the Reagan administration, it hurts to see the propaganda and bombast with which that administration solved the problem of Mr. Daniloff, a citizen like us who was imprisoned only a short time," Anderson said.

Jacobsen, in a statement addressed to Reagan, asked: "Don't we also deserve the recognition, the respect and the honorable treatment by the United States government? Don't we deserve the same attention and protection that you gave Daniloff?"

Redman said the difference between the Lebanese cases and the Daniloff case was that the U.S. News & World Report correspondent was being held by the Soviet government, "an identifiable party."

He said the United States could hold the Soviets accountable for Daniloff's arrest and was able to hold discussions for his release.

In contrast to the Daniloff case, Redman said, the captives in Lebanon are being held by "a shadowy group, a faceless group; the only one clear demand has been the release of the 17 terrorists tried and convicted by Kuwait."

Meanwhile, the Rev. Jesse Jackson, accused Reagan of putting the Lebanon hostage issue "on the back burner."

"That's painful, it's unfair, it's inconsistent," Jackson told reporters.

"If we can negotiate for the release of Mr. Daniloff, the humane thing to do (is to) negotiate for the release of Terry Anderson and the other Americans held captive in Beirut," he said.

Anderson and Jacobsen talked about "murder" of another American, William Buckley, a U.S. diplomat whom Islamic Jihad claims to have killed.

Redman said that in the absence of confirmation, the administration will continue to work on the assumption that Buckley is still alive.

At a Thursday night news conference at the United Nations, Secretary of State George Shultz was asked whether his meeting with Syrian Foreign Minister Faroul al-Sharaa on Wednesday had produced progress toward the release of Americans held hostage in Lebanon.

"I hope so," Shultz said. "We work on it constantly. But there's no progress worth reporting except if they become free. They are either free or they aren't free."

He said the administration is working on the problem.

"I never miss an opportunity to talk to the Syrians about the subject," Shultz said, adding that there is some question as to how much influence that country has over the fate of the hostages.

In Orlando, Fla., Friday, Daniloff, in an emotional speech greeted with tears and applause, told fellow journalists they should not forget about a colleague held hostage in Lebanon.

"My heart goes out to my brother, journalist Terry Anderson of The Associated Press, who is being held hostage in Lebanon," Daniloff said, his voice choking with emotion. "To him and the other hostages and his sister, Peggy Say, I want to say 'We shall not forget you.'"

DEBAKEY

He went over Dr. Christiaan Barnard's "piggy back" technique of putting two hearts in so if one fails, an auxillary will be there for back-up.

DeBakey said a transplant recipient should be less than 63 years of age, have a terminal heart disease, have normal kidney and liver functions and have no signs of infection or insulin dependence.

The typical donor is less than 35 years of age and has had (before death) no chest trauma and shows no signs of infections or damage caused by cardiac arrest (heart attack), DeBakey said.

"We miss a lot of donors," DeBakey said.

"Often, the family members are not asked if they'd consider the donation, but a new law in several states makes this mandatory," he added.

Legally, a donor must have two doctors authorize the fact he is brain dead, consent of the nearest relative and consent of the local coroner, DeBakey said.

DeBakey didn't place much stock in the permanent use of artificial hearts.

"They are helpful to serve as a bridge between illness and a transplant," DeBakey said, but he won't be satisfied until they can perfect the artificial heart where there will be no serious side effects (such as intensive tissue damage to other organs).

"The concept stems from the heart-lung machines," DeBakey said. It supported the concept that the heart needs help to recover from illness or surgery, he added.

"The artificial heart has a place in terms of temporary use," DeBakey confirmed.

World-renowned cardiologist Michael E. DeBakey, M.D. of Houston, addressed doctors in "Straight From the Heart," a cardiology symposium held at the Plaza Club and sponsored by Physicians and Surgeons Hospital. Heart specialists from Midland and around the country had the chance to discuss the latest trends in cardiology.

Kent Porter/Reporter-Telegram

THE FUTURE OF hearts looks bright and interesting.

In about three to five years, a total artificial heart system should be ready for clinical testing that incorporates all the parts — including an energy source — in the body, DeBakey said.

Those parts include left and right chambers pump, batteries, energy converter and a secondary transformer, he said.

Technology such as this may make its way to Midland one day thanks to Physicians and Surgeons Hospital's new open heart surgery complex.

Two more open heart surgery patients are scheduled for today and a man who had a bypass two weeks ago was sitting in the audience at the symposium Friday looking fit and healthy.

The two patients scheduled for today are both Midlanders, thus keeping true the hospital's promise to serve the community and allow people to stay in Midland for state-of-the-art cardiac treatment.

Fetus identified as monkey actually human stillborn

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A fetus identified as a monkey was actually a human stillborn wrapped in a towel that was accidentally sent out to the laundry, a mistake the hospital apparently had known about, officials said Friday.

Allegheny County Coroner Joseph Perper said Mercy Hospital had told him the remains of the infant born to Constance Lowder three months premature on Aug. 5 had been lost. Meanwhile, Perper had been sent fetal remains found at a laundry, which he identified as simian.

Sister Joanne Marie Andiorio, chief executive officer of the hospital, said an internal investigation had led Mercy officials to believe the fetus found at the laundry was human.

"During the whole period, Mercy claimed it did not know what happened to the fetus," Perper said. "Obviously, the coroner's office needed to have proper disclosure of what's going on.

"I asked them to tell me why they believed (the monkey) was the fetus. Then was the occasion (for them) to say they put the baby in the laundry."

Perper's finding that the fetus was a monkey was confirmed by Dr. J. Lawrence Angel, curator of physical anthropology at the Smithsonian, and other experts.

Perper said he learned about the hospital's mistake from Angel, who said he was told Thursday by hospital pathologist Dr. William Smith.

Angel said Smith had known since at least Aug. 11 that an autopsy technician had wrapped the stillborn infant in a towel and mistakenly sent it to the Health Center Hospital Laundry, a facility used by Mercy and other Pittsburgh hospitals.

Smith referred all telephone calls to Mercy Hospital's public relations office. Hospital spokeswoman Mary Donnelly refused comment on the incident.

Perper said Friday that it was possible criminal charges could result from the delayed disclosure.

"If this was willfully done, it basically interferes with our investigation. I would suspect that that is a criminal charge," he said.

Angel re-examined the remains and decided they were human because of the length of the thumb and the evidence of hemorrhaging.

SUMMIT

"The president believes that this is not the time for public rhetoric but, instead for private talk," Speakes said.

He confirmed the proposed blackout in reply to reporters' questions after reading a formal response to Gorbachev's first public comments about the Reykjavik summit since the meeting plans were announced Tuesday.

Reagan, Speakes said, "believes that face-to-face private discussions with General Secretary Gorbachev are the best way to seek progress at this critical juncture in our relationship."

But the spokesman also, made clear the United States has no intention of restricting the talks to arms control issues stressed by Gorbachev.

The Soviet leader, at an unveiling ceremony in Moscow, spoke of his desire to discuss his continuing opposition to Reagan's "Star Wars" strategic defense program and a Soviet proposal for a superpower moratorium on nuclear testing, a proposal the United States has rejected.

"The arms race makes the partition between peace and war ever thinner," Gorbachev said. "And we do not cease to repeat: The militarization of outer space is a step to war. We are calling for ending nuclear tests and for starting to reduce the stocks of nuclear weapons in earnest and on a large scale."

"Arms control is important to both nations, indeed to the world," Speakes said in his response. "We will be diligent in our efforts to seek a common ground that can provide the basis for progress at Geneva," where arms talks are underway. "But our agenda is broader than arms control."

As it did at last year's summit, the United States insists it will raise issues in four areas of U.S.-Soviet relations: arms control, regional disputes, human rights and bilateral concerns that range from boundary disputes to cultural exchange programs.

"Regional issues — the tensions in Afghanistan, Africa, the Caribbean, the Middle East and Southeast Asia — contribute to tensions between the two superpowers and build mistrust that makes an arms buildup a dangerous fact of life in today's world," Speakes said.

He added that the United States also will insist on raising human rights issues, both around the world and inside the Soviet Union.

Speakes, responding to the Soviet leader's remarks, told reporters, "The president's goal is that both sides will gain a better understanding of each other's position at this time and move forward toward a summit in the United States," possibly as soon as November or December.

"We will be satisfied with the Iceland meetings if we accomplish better understanding," the White House spokesman said.

STATE IN BRIEF

Salesman arrested for making hijack threat

DALLAS (AP) — A young salesman arrested at Dallas Love Field for allegedly making a hijacking threat on a Southwest Airlines flight bound for Houston was released Friday after questioning.

Airport police say David Archie Macleod, 26, of Houston, told a flight attendant on the Thursday night flight that he was going to hijack the plane. The flight attendant told him that was no joking matter and Macleod allegedly responded that it wasn't a joke, police said.

The flight attendant notified the captain and the suspect was detained by airport security personnel, said Southwest Airlines spokeswoman Charlotte Goddard.

"It was just something he shouldn't have said," said Sgt. Ed Taylor of Love Field Security. Taylor said Macleod was not carrying a weapon. He was arrested on an investigative charge of making a terrorist threat and taken to the Dallas County jail, Taylor said.

Sheriff's spokesman Jim Ewell said Macleod was released Friday afternoon after posting a $1,500 bond.

Indian woman writes sheriff

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas County Sheriff Jim Bowles was flattered earlier this year to get a letter addressed to "The Sheriff, Texas, U.S.A.", from a woman in India.

The woman had asked "The Sheriff" of Texas for help in tracking down her husband, who she said took her family's dowry of jewels and fled to the United States in 1984.

But Thursday, Bowles had the heart-rending task of informing the woman, Asra Farooq, that although his investigators traced her errant husband to Houston, there is nothing they can do.

"An exhaustive search of United States local agencies, national agencies and contact with INTERPOL discloses there is no international warrant for (his) arrest," Bowles told Ms. Farooq in a letter.

"It is nearly two years since this ordeal began and I am helplessly lamenting and the nightmare of my dark future haunts me day in and day out," Farooq had written in her letter.

Change of venue denied

SAN MARCOS (AP) — State District Judge Charles Ramsay has denied a motion to move the trial of Gregory Allen, 18, who is charged with involuntary manslaughter in the death of country singer George Strait's daughter.

Jenifer Strait, 13, was killed June 25 while riding in a car driven by Allen. The auto rolled over while making a turn on a county road south of San Marcos.

Ramsay turned down a request Thursday by Allen's lawyers to move the trial out of Hays County. Lawyer Joe Turner said rumors about the accident would make it impossible for Allen to receive a fair trial.

Allen initially was charged with criminally negligent homicide, a misdemeanor, but a Hays County grand jury returned an indictment charging him with the felony.

Man sentenced for bomb

WACO (AP) — A federal judge gave a 25-year-old Arizona florist the maximum 50-year sentence Friday for mailing a pipe bomb to a Fort Hood soldier.

Robert Ortloff, of Tempe, Ariz., was convicted by a jury on Aug. 15 of mailing the bomb to the barracks of Thad Gulczyinksi in January. Gulczyinski was burned on the face, upper body and leg and later recovered.

U.S. District Judge Walter S. Smith issued the sentence to Ortloff, who was found guilty of attempted murder, mail bombing and related charges. The 50-year term represented the maximum sentence he could be given on all the charges.

The government claimed Ortloff's motive was jealousy over a woman both men had dated. The woman later married Gulczyinski.

Help!

An unidentified woman awaits help as her car is surrounded by rising water in Cedar City, Mo., Friday morning. Residents of the town frantically filled sand bags in an attempt to halt the rising flood waters from a tributary to the Missouri River. Their efforts proved futile, however, as many motorists were left standing and some were evacuated from the area.

Senate approves Philippines aid, funds to fight drugs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate late Friday voted new aid to the Philippines and money to fight drugs as it approved a record $558 billion spending bill, but foreign policy disputes between the Reagan administration and the House imperiled final congressional passage.

The massive spending package, next headed to a House-Senate conference committee, was approved, 82-13.

It took three attempts during the week-long debate to clear the $200 million approved earlier by the House for the government of President Corazon Aquino, as Democrats and Republicans disagreed on how to pay for it.

The compromise, approved 82-14, would take money from other foreign affairs accounts but no more than 3 percent from any one account.

Minority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said the money was not only helping a "fragile democracy" but "this is also an investment in ourselves, in our far-flung interests in the far Pacific, our national security."

The House approved the $200 million for the Philippines shortly after Mrs. Aquino addressed a joint meeting of Congress last month, without providing a way to pay for it. The two chambers will need to reconcile their differences.

The Senate added $1.5 billion in spending to cover the drug-fighting initiative being negotiated between the House and the Senate. The Senate approved the extra money despite complaints that lawmakers didn't come up with a way to pay for it.

The addition increased the deficit and violated Congress' own budget rules, said Sen. Bill Armstrong, R-Colo. "These chickens will come home to roost right after the first of the year," he said.

Anxious to leave Washington for the campaign trail, the Senate worked nearly around the clock on the bill, which covered virtually every aspect of government spending for the fiscal year that began Wednesday. In almost every area, the administration has voiced objections.

But the greatest heat surrounded House-passed provisions on arms control that President Reagan contends would tie his hands at the upcoming summit in Iceland with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

The House included in its $562 billion version of the bill a freeze on spending for the "Star Wars" missile defense program, a chemical weapons ban, a prohibition on anti-satellite weapons tests and a requirement that the administration observe the unratified SALT II treaty.

The Republican-controlled Senate will try to strike those provisions when the two chambers meet to reconcile their differences next week. But leaders of the Democratic-run House have said they would keep Congress in session past the Oct. 11-12 summit rather than surrender.

As the marathon wore on, Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., Appropriations Committee chairman, was reduced to hoarseness Friday in managing debate on dozens of amendments, most of them pet projects for lawmakers' home states.

In other action on the bill Friday, the Senate:

— Adopted a package of food aid for the Philippines, "friendly" African countries, India and Bangladesh offered by Sen. John Melcher, D-Mont. The amendment, approved over administration objections, would require the giveaway of surplus government-owned grain and dairy products, with the recipient governments allowed to sell part of the commodities to pay transportation and distribution costs.

— Showed support for democratic reform in Chile, refusing 92-0 to kill a resolution proposed by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass. Kennedy withdrew the amendment before a vote on final adoption to avoid a filibuster by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C.

— Voted to overturn a controversial District of Columbia law that bars insurance companies from testing people applying for policies for exposure to the AIDS virus.

The Senate, House and White House have until next Wednesday to achieve a spending plan, or many government agencies will be forced to shut down Thursday without authority to spend their fiscal 1987 allowances.

Government agencies have been operating since Wednesday under a stopgap spending bill Congress approved to carry through the first eight days of the new fiscal year. A second stopgap measure could be approved if agreement on the comprehensive bill proves elusive.

The situation was pressured by the desire of lawmakers to campaign, especially Republicans seeking to keep control of the Senate.

Boy accused of causing death of his classmate

NEWTON, Iowa (AP) — A 14-year-old boy was charged with involuntary manslaughter and serious assault Friday for a blow which dislodged a plastic heart valve, causing the death of a 13-year-old classmate.

Jasper County Attorney John Billingsley said the boy, Jody Collins of Newton, had gotten into a hallway scuffle with Justin Charles Cupples at Berg Junior High School on Sept. 24.

Court documents said Cupples was hit once in the chest and once in the back. He collapsed, and died two days later at a Des Moines hospital.

The heart valve had been implanted in August to correct a birth defect.

Billingsley said medical examiners theorized the blow either loosened stitches around the valve, causing further bleeding and loosening which was aggravated when paramedics attempted to massage Cupples' heart, or that the punch caused an irregular heartbeat which progressed to cardiac arrest during the heart massage.

Regardless, Billingsley said the blow began a series of events which led to Cupples' death.

Some people had called for filing of a murder charge in the case, but Billingsley said there was no evidence the charged boy intended to cause the death. A murder charge requires proof of intent, he said.

He said the only letters he received urged him not to file charges because it would compound a tragedy.

"You hear this isn't tough enough," Billingsley said. "I think there are feelings both ways."

The boy surrendered to juvenile authorities Friday and was being held at a youth shelter, Billingsley said.

Asked whether holding the youth in custody was due to threats, Billingsley responded, "It's to everyone's benefit that he's at the youth center. I know there's a lot of emotion in the community over the case."

"I'm relieved he got charges at all but it doesn't seem like heavy enough charges because they always drop the charges lower, and how much lower can you get an involuntary manslaughter?" said Debra Cupples, the victim's mother.

Her husband, Danny, added: "I don't even care if they lock him up. Locking him up is going to make him worse, and that's not what he needs. He needs psychiatric treatment."

No matter what happens, "it still won't bring Charlie back," he said.

A hearing will be held Monday on whether Collins should remain in custody until his trial in juvenile court, Billingsley said.

Billingsley said at a news conference that he decided not to seek to try Collins as an adult.

"It was our feeling that in juvenile court he would wind up with more of the type of services that would prevent future troubles than if he were tried as an adult," Billingsley said.

He said if convicted in juvenile court, the boy could be detained until his 18th birthday, in February 1990. If convicted in adult court, the boy could receive up to 6 years in jail on the two charges combined plus fines of $8,500.

NATION IN BRIEF

Nomination of archivist won't likely be confirmed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The controversial nomination of John T. Agresto to head the National Archives appears to be dead, but the White House said Friday that he will be resubmitted for Senate confirmation next year.

Agresto, 40, a protege of Education Secretary William Bennett, is opposed by 16 major scholarly organizations and several civil rights groups as lacking the political independence and professional qualifications required to be archivist of the United States.

Agresto, who now is deputy chairman of the National Endowment for the Humanities, also was criticized by several Democratic members of the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, which failed to act on the nomination Thursday at its final regular meeting before Congress adjourns.

The Governmental Affairs Committee met Thursday to vote on the Agresto nomination, but Republican absentees prevented the quorum necessary to act and Agresto's name was dropped from consideration.

Committee Democrats, notably Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., protested that the White House personnel office had quizzed candidates for the National Archives job about their party loyalties, in violation of a 1984 law requiring the archivist to be chosen "without regard to political affiliations and solely on the basis of professional qualifications."

Agresto's critics are particularly concerned about whether he would be an impartial arbiter in the long-running legal battle over public access to Richard Nixon's presidential tapes and documents, and Agresto's role in the planning of Reagan's presidential library and disposition of his papers.

Abuse indictments returned

SALYERSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A grand jury has indicted eight people in the alleged sexual abuse of 17 children who investigators say were burned, beaten, sodomized and raped by relatives.

The children range in age from 9 months to 11 years, said Kentucky State Police Detective A.C. Cantrell. They belong to five related families in Magoffin County in eastern Kentucky.

According to the indictments, one 9-year-old girl had been abused since she was 4.

Magoffin County Sheriff Chalmer Wireman said the alleged crimes occurred "mostly within the families," including fathers, uncles and other relatives.

Some of the children were severely beaten, Wireman said, and some children reported being intentionally burned with cigarettes.

Indictments were returned against Herbert "Hub" Gipson of Masons Creek and his wife, Gracie Gipson; Willie Gipson Jr. of Hendricks and his wife Merlene; Kernie Gipson and his wife Grindle; William "Tom" Gipson, of Hendricks, and Anna Faye Risner of Hendricks.

Lawmaker has bypass

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Ted Weiss was in critical condition Friday following cardiac bypass surgery at the Washington Hospital Center.

The New York Democrat was taken to the hospital Thursday night after collapsing at a banquet in the Capitol.

Weiss' office issued a statement that the congressman's condition "according to his surgeon is the normal patient status following such procedures."

Jessica Wolfe, a spokeswoman for Weiss, said the quadruple bypass operation had caused "no damage to his heart." Weiss had undergone single bypass surgery in August 1982.

Weiss' office said in a statement that physicians expect him to fully recover and return to his congressional duties following a period of recuperation.

A native of Gava, Hungary, Weiss, 59, was a New York County district attorney and a New York City councilman before he was elected to Congress in 1976.

New Orleans cityworkers to be on four-day week to save money

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — City Hall was open for business Friday, but it wasn't business as usual: it was the last Friday that city offices will be open this year because of a $10 million deficit.

At the urging of Mayor Sidney Barthelemy, the City Council approved a plan this week to cut more than 200 jobs and put most of the remaining 5,900 city workers on four-day work weeks with 20 percent pay cuts.

Nearly every city office and non-emergency service will be closed Fridays, starting next week. Emergency service will continue around the clock, but fewer firefighters and police officers will be available at any one time.

The council also approved a 1.5 percent tax on earnings made inside the city, but a bitter legal wrangle is expected with suburban officials who contend that the plan violates the state constitution, which bars municipalities from levying an income tax.

Attorney General William Guste said Friday that proponents may be able to take advantage of the vague wording of the constitution and argue that an "earnings tax" is not an "income tax."

Barthelemy, who took office five months ago, hopes the cutbacks will get rid of the last $10 million of the $30 million deficit he inherited from his predecessor, Ernest Morial.

Barthelemy blamed Morial for ignoring spending guidelines established by the City Council and spending more than half the city's 1986 budget of $288 million in the first four months of the fiscal year.

He said the austerity measures would be unpopular among the 560,000 city residents, but said they were the only alternative to eliminating 1,500 city jobs.

Barthelemy's $75,000 salary and the $42,500 salaries of the council members also will be cut by 20 percent over the remainder of the year.

"I'll have to try to find a way to get by," said Carlos Fleury, 51, a draftsmen and 16-year city employee who plans to seek additional work on Fridays. "It's a hard blow. You see, we haven't had a raise in over four years."

The crisis has been looming for years as city government grew and the financial base didn't. A consultant warned in 1966 that new sources of revenue should be found.

With state laws rigidly prohibiting the ways cities can raise money, New Orelans increased sales taxes to 9 percent but was unable to impose income taxes and raise property taxes.

Property taxes are among the lowest in the nation, with the state automatically exempting the first $75,000 of a home's value.

Gunmen kidnap Syrian diplomat, release him next day

DAMASCUS, Syria (LAT) — Mystery gunmen kidnapped a Syrian diplomat in Tehran, Iran, but freed him Friday, a Syrian presidential spokesman said here.

The diplomat, Ayad Mahmoud, was kidnapped late Thursday when the gunmen intercepted his car with an ambulance and another car, the official Iranian IRNA news agency reported from Tehran.

The assailants fired six shots before whisking the diplomat into the ambulance and speeding off, Tehran radio added.

Jibrane Kourieh, official spokesman for the presidential palace in Damascus, said Friday that "This matter is over now and Mr. Mohmoud is no longer in the hands of the kidnappers." He gave no further details.

The Iranian reports did not say whether anyone was wounded in the kidnapping.

Kourieh corrected earlier reports that Mahmoud was Syria's ambassador to Tehran. The post has been vacant since the last ambassador, Ibrahim Younes, returned to Damascus three months ago.

Mahmoud is the second-highest diplomat at the mission, which is being run by Farouk Abbara, the charge d'affaires.

IRNA quoted an unidentified government official as saying that he believed that the CIA and other "imperialist agents" were "involved in this terror act."

IRNA charged that the abduction was aimed at "undermining Iran's strong relations with the progressive Arab countries at a time when the Islamic republic is moving toward a victory (in its Persian Gulf War against Iraq).

Syria and Libya have been supporting Iran in the six-year-old war. But there have been persistent reports in the Arab press that the Syrians were getting increasingly worried about Iranian-backed fundamentalists in Lebanon and the possibility of an Iranian victory in the gulf.

Jordan's King Hussein launched a bid earlier this year to reconcile Syria with Iraq, proposing, among other things, re-opening of a strategic Iraqi oil export pipeline running through Syrian territory to the Mediterranean.

Syrian President Hafez Assad was quoted earlier this week as proposing "immediate unity" with Iraq "a very dignified way out of the war" for the Baghdad government, which Iran has vowed to overthrow. But Iraqi information minister Lateef Jassem subsequently described the offer as a ploy.

Pope to pay homage to martyrs from Gaul

LYON, France (AP) — Pope John Paul II, venturing into a country newly shaken by terrorism, begins his third trip to France today to pay homage to the first Christian martyrs from Gaul.

Heavy security has been planned for the visit.

President Francois Mitterrand and several Cabinet ministers will greet the spiritual leader of the world's 800 million Roman Catholics at Lyon's Satolas Airport before the pope starts a four-day tour of the Rhone-Alpes region of southeastern France.

Officials at the presidential palace said Mitterrand and John Paul would talk privately for about 40 minutes after airport ceremonies.

The pope will say Masses in Lyon today; in Paray-Le-Monial, 100 miles northwest of Lyon, on Sunday; Ars, 20 miles north, on Monday; and at Annecy, 60 miles east, on Tuesday.

After his talks with Mitterrand, the pope will lead an ecumenical prayer session at the Roman Amphitheater of the Three Gauls, where the first Christians from Gaul were martyred in 177 A.D., including Saint Blandine.

The major event of the first day is the Mass at the Eurexpo exposition complex in Lyon, with more than 300,000 people expected to attend.

Authorities have assigned more than 10,000 police to the Lyon area and 26 miles of metal barriers have been brought in for crowd control.

It is at Eurexpo that the pope will beatify Father Antoine Chevrier (1826-1879), the priest who worked among the poorest in Lyon and built a chapel in a former dance hall.

Beatification is a formal act whereby the saintliness of a person is recognized. It is generally the first step toward sainthood.

Security will be intense following five terrorist bombings in Paris last month that killed 10 people and injured 162.

On Sunday, John Paul will visit the ecumenical monastery at Taize, where about 80 Roman Catholic and Protestant brothers from 20 countries pray for the reunification of the Christian church. Taize also has become site of a pilgrimage for thousands of young people from all over the world.

Sunday's Mass will be celebrated in a field at Paray-Le-Monial. The pope also will visit the chapel where St. Marguerite-Marie Alacoque (1647-1690) founded the cult of the Sacred Heart.

That will be followed by a meeting with French youth in Lyon's 50,000-seat Gerland soccer stadium.

The third day of the trip is largely devoted to St. Jean-Marie Vianney (1786-1859), known as the Cure of Ars, the patron saint of the world's parish priests.

The pope's final day in France begins with a trip to Annecy, where St. Francis de Sales was bishop and co-founder of the Order of the Visitation with Ste. Jeanne de Chantal.

John Paul will celebrate Mass at the Annecy lakeside, then return to Lyon.

The pope will take most of his meals and spend his nights at the St. Irenee Seminary in St. Foy, just west of Lyon.

Gorbachev views summit as way to have better relations

MOSCOW (AP) — Mikhail S. Gorbachev said on Friday that he viewed this month's Iceland summit with President Reagan as a chance to finally move toward better superpower relations and an arms control accord.

The Soviet leader, making his first public comments on the Oct. 11-12 meeting, spoke at a ceremony unveiling a statue of the late German Communist leader Ernst Thaelmann. He lashed out at Star Wars and reiterated calls for a nuclear test ban.

"The arms race makes the partition between peace and war ever thinner," Gorbachev told the gathering at the windswept square on Leningrad Prospekt. "And we do not cease to repeat: The militarization of outer space is a step to war."

He was referring to the Reagan administration's program that envisions a space-based missile defense, popularly known as Star Wars. The Kremlin claims the project is designed to provide cover for a nuclear first strike.

But Gorbachev said "a nuclear apocalypse is not inevitable...Mankind can avert the terrible threat which hangs over it."

He said his proposal for a working meeting with Reagan on neutral territory was prompted by Soviet desires for cooperation between the superpowers and efforts to remove the threat of nuclear war.

"We have one and the same objective here: to start, at last, the realization of our accords reached in Geneva with the president of the United States," Gorbachev said.

At the Geneva summit in November, the two leaders pledged to work toward better relations and nuclear arms reductions.

"We are calling for ending nuclear tests and for starting to reduce the stocks of nuclear weapons in earnest and on a large scale," Gorbachev said, his voice thick with an apparent cold.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Boris Pyadyshev told a news briefing later it was still not known who would accompany Gorbachev to Reykjavik, capital of Iceland, and that an agenda had not yet been worked out.

"I'm sure the discussions in Reykjavik will be creative and imaginative and we believe they should concentrate on the major issues of an arms reduction agreement and a ban on nuclear testing," Pyadyshev said.

Besides frequent calls for an arms control agreement, the Soviets have been trying without success to persuade the United States to join their nuclear testing moratorium, which began 14 months ago and is to run through Jan. 1.

U.S. officials have said some nuclear testing must continue to ensure the safety and effectiveness of existing weapons and have cited problems of verifying compliance with a test ban.

Pyadyshev said travel plans for the Soviet delegation have yet to be worked out, but that an advance team had already left for Reykjavik.

In his speech, Gorbachev hailed the coming summit as a step that "fully meets the interests of both the Soviet and American people and all the peoples in the world."

He and Reagan agreed at Geneva to hold a summit this year in the United States and another in the Soviet Union in 1987.

But Gorbachev has resisted setting a date for the Washington summit, demanding that there first be an improved political atmosphere and signs of progress toward an arms accord.

The Aug. 30 arrest of American correspondent Nicholas Daniloff, a week after a Soviet citizen was arrested for espionage in New York, triggered a diplomatic crisis between the superpowers.

The espionage cases were settled this week after intensive negotiations between Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze and Secretary of State George P. Shultz.

The Iceland summit, billed by both sides as a preparatory meeting for Gorbachev's U.S. visit, was announced Tuesday.

The ceremony at which Gorbachev spoke was attended by East German leader Erich Honecker and Irma Gabel Thaelmann, daughter of Ernst Thaelmann, who died in 1944 at Buchenwald death camp.

Seven men executed for taking bribes in Iraq

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Seven government employees and businessmen were executed by hanging for accepting bribes and commissions from companies that sought contracts in Iraq, according to a presidential decree published Friday.

Among them was Oil Ministry undersecretary Abdul-Munim Hassan Alwan, it said. The businessman accused of bribing him, Nassir Shaker Nimo, also was reported hanged.

A contractor, two engineers, a company director and an industrialist were also executed. Alwan and the two engineers worked for the government.

A revolution tribunal found the seven guilty of corruption and President Saddam Hussein upheld the sentences, said the decree, dated Aug. 31.

State-run newspapers reported the executions were carried out, but gave no date. Neither trial nor executions were public.

The reports said another man was sentenced to life imprisonment and fined, and a ninth drew 15 years and a fine.

Youths killed by train

TARRAGONA, Spain (AP) — Two Spanish youths were killed and 11 badly hurt when a freight train rolled over them as they sat on a railroad embankment to watch an outdoor rock concert, a police spokesman said Friday.

Sgt. Tomas Hortelano said police believed the youths didn't hear the train coming because of the high volume of the rock music.

Hortelano said the accident took place at 11:30 p.m. Thursday several hundred yards back from Playa de Milagros beach on this northeastern coastal city's edge during a benefit concert by Spanish rock singer Luz Casals.

At least 30 fans had climbed a hill above the beach to sit on the tracks for a better view of the concert, Hortelano said.

Demonstrators jailed

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) — Eleven villagers were arrested for organizing an illegal demonstration to demand release of a jailed medicine man, state-run Radio Tanzania reported Friday.

It said police broke up the demonstration Thursday in a village near Kigoma, in western Tanzania just south of Burundi and near Lake Tanganyika.

The radio said the medicine man was jailed after claiming he had the power to identify witch doctors in the area.

Shevardnadze meeting with de la Madrid

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze met Friday with President Miguel de la Madrid to discuss a broad range of topics including bilateral trade, disarmament and a possible visit by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev next year.

His first meeting was a two-hour, 10-minute session with Foreign Minister Bernardo Sepulveda. He then went into a meeting with President Miguel de la Madrid.

A source close to the foreign ministers' talks said Shevardnadze and Sepulveda "talked of commercial, industrial, technical cooperation and of course touched on the cultural aspects" of bilateral relations.

The source, who spoke on condition he not be identified further, said they also discussed disarmament and easing of international tensions.

He quoted Shevardnadze as saying the Soviet Union welcomed the effort by the Group of Six to obtain a moratorium on nuclear weapons testing by the two countries.

The Group — Mexico, Argentina, Greece, Sweden, India and Tanzania — offered in an August meeting in Ixtapa, Mexico, to help monitor any U.S.-Soviet agreement banning nu The two foreign ministers also discussed the Oct. 11-12 meeting between Gorbachev and President Reagan, the source said.

Shevardnadze told reporters at the airport, "This is a meeting awaited by all and should contribute to resolving the accumulated problems, since these cannot wait any longer."

Discussions of regional issues included Central America, Afghanistan and the Middle East, the source said.

Counties forecasts

Midland, Ector, Crane, Upton, Reagan, Glasscock, Andrews, Gaines, Howard, Martin, Borden and Dawson: Today, cloudy, cooler, a 30 percent chance of thunderstorms, high mid 70s with wind east to northeast 5 to 15 mph.

Tornado seen outside Crane

From Staff and Wire Reports

It wasn't only rainshowers and aerial fireworks that roamed the West Texas skies Friday night. A tornado and a funnel cloud reportedly were sighted outside Crane and added to the festivities by giving a number of West Texans a reason to cast their eyes skyward throughout much of the evening.

A spokesman for the Crane Police Department said one tornado touched down outside the city Friday evening but apparently caused no damage and added that a funnel cloud sighting also was reported.

Crane received a large amount of rain Friday evening but no other associated severe weather such as high winds or hail.

A weather official with the weather service at Air Terminal said Friday's rain showers were spawned along a "dry line."

Light rain also was falling elsewhere in the Permian Basin Friday night. Drizzle was reported at Greenwood, 11 miles east of Midland.

The forecast for today calls for cloudy and cool temperatures with a 20 percent chance of more thunderstorms. High temperature should be in the mid 70s. Sunday morning's low should be in the mid 60s with a high in the mid 70s.

High temperature was 86 Friday, after a morning low of 67.

The record high for the date was 95, set in 1951. The record low was 41, set in 1932.

STATE

Showers moved from North Texas into Oklahoma Friday afternoon, while scattered showers and thunderstorms persisted in southeastern Texas and along the Texas-Louisiana border this afternoon.

The showers and thunderstorms resulted from warm moist unstable air flowing into the state from the Gulf of Mexico, the National Weather Service said.

Another small area of showers was over the lower Rio Grande Valley.

Skies over Texas Friday afternoon was generally partly cloudy. North and Central Texas were covered by the most clouds, while parts of the Panhandle had clear skies. The wind over the state was generally from the south or southwest in the 10 to 20 mph range.

However, a west wind was observed in the Trans Pecos and the Panhandle at about 10 to 20 mph, with occasional gusts to 30 mph.

The forecast called for partly cloudy skies through Sunday, and mostly cloudy with scattered showers and thunderstorms in much of West Texas east of the Pecos.

Rebel Express still on non-stop journey

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Assistant Sports Editor

With starting quarterback Rodney Johnson suffering from a bruised shoulder, Midland Lee decided it was best to go with junior quarterback Geoff Rich and the Rebel offensive machine never showed a squeak in a 40-14 win over the Odessa High Bronchos at Memorial Stadium Friday night.

Rich completed six of 12 passes for 141 yards and three touchdowns in his varsity starting debut. He also rushed for 50-yards in only four carries and ran the option like he had done it all his life.

He also guided the Rebels on scoring drives in three of the first four times they had the ball. There is no question that Johnson is the one who turns the offensive wheels at Lee this year, but Rich showed he could step in without any letup, providing first year head coach Earl Miller with a valuable insurance policy.

"Geoff did a fantastic job under the circumstances. He had to be scared to death out there when the game started," noted Miller. "It was a great effort when we needed one from him. What more could you ask from a kid? Rodney is our quarterback and he can do a lot more things at this stage than Geoff, but what a performance."

RICH threw touchdown passes of 37 yards to split end Freddy Dawson, who caught the ball when it bounced off OHS defender Eddie Winegeart in the end zone, 41 yards to halfback Durian Jenkins and 24 yards to Dennis Sterling.

"I felt some pressure in getting to start the game, but I had a lot of confidence because Rodney helped me a lot this week and Coach (Van Tom) Whatley worked a lot with me and told me I just had to relax. I've got a strong arm, but I have to relax when I throw.

"I felt a lot better when I completed that first pass (15 yards to tight end Jack Chase). Then we went on in and scored on our first drive and that felt good," said Rich.

Just to keep Rich in his place, Johnson was used in only one series in the third quarter and that, too, turned into a Lee touchdown. Johnson rand three times for 24 yards and ended an 11-play, 56-yard drive with a three-yard TD run. Even with a bad wing, Johnson completed a nine-yard pass to Sterling. It was the only pass Johnson threw.

STERLING, often known as the other back in the Lee wishbone, had his second great outing of the year. He had over 100 yards rushing and scored four times in the season opener against Lubbock Coronado. Against OHS, Sterling rushed for 164 yards and caught three passes for 51 yards for 215 all-purpose yards. He scored on a five-yard run and on a 24-yard pass from Rich that split the Broncho secondary in the fourth period.

"I didn't have any idea that I would get to carry the ball as much as I did, but I feel like if I can get outside I can make things happen with my speed. I've had two 100-yard games now and I just take the opportunities that are given to me," said Sterling.

THE SCORE could have been worse. Rich had a 24-yard touchdown pass to Joe Woodard called back by penalty and defensive end Kevin Jackson dropped a sure interception at the Broncho 20 with no one in front of him. Kicker Jeff Connally missed on a 32-yard field goal attempt. It all shows the Lee dominance and shows that the Rebels were often in scoring position.

"We played when we had to," noted Miller. "And I think that is a sign of a good team. I've coached long enough to know that you can't get a team as emotional as we did last week for two weeks in a row. I made last week an emotional game for our team and was pleased that they executed as well as they did this week."

Lee led by a 19-0 score before OHS got on the board. The Bronchos marched 94 yards in eight plays as quarterback Lance Sloniger hit on three passes and scored himself from 33 yards out.

Mets Series favorite

RENO, Nev. (AP) — The New York Mets are the strong favorite at Harrah's Reno Race & Sports Book to win both the National League pennant and the World Series.

Harrah's listed the Mets on Friday as an 8-10½ favorite over the Houston Astros in the playoffs. In the American League, the Boston Red Sox are 6½-8 favorites over the California Angels.

The odds mean a bettor would have to wager $8 on the Mets to win $5 or would have to put $5 on the Astros to get back $10.50 if they take the pennant. Winning bettors also get the amount of the wager back.

Harrah's lists the Mets as 1-2 favorites in the series, with the Red Sox 9-5. The Astros and Angels are both 3-1.

Mojo roughs up Bulldogs, 42-0

By BOB BRUNDAGE
Sports Writer

ODESSA — There was only one bright spot from Midland High's 42-0 loss to No. 2 ranked Odessa Permian Friday night at Ratliff Stadium.

Despite the score, the Bulldog defense actually played a pretty good ball game. It was the Bulldog offense that stunk up the field.

"We were very pleased with our defensive effort, particularly in the first half," said Bulldog head coach Doug McCutchen. "We gave them excellent field position and only gave up two field goals and a touchdown or it would have been an excellent first half."

PERMIAN first year coach Gary Gaines agreed.

"Midland High has a good defensive football team," he said. "They're big and physical up front and we did have some difficulty moving the ball in the first half."

Trouble moving the ball, but not much trouble putting points on the board.

The first time Permian touched the football set the pace for most of the game. The Bulldog offense would fail to move the football and couldn't punt their way out of it. The Panthers got the ball on the Bulldog 39.

The defense, however, wasn't as passive. After giving up two first downs, the Panthers were held and Woody Bryant came on to kick a 41-yard field goal, the only points of the first quarter.

Nearly 11 minutes later, the Panthers notched a second scoring drive, this time moving 44 yards to the Bulldog 16 where Bryant kicked a 33-yarder.

A KICKOFF and two MHS offensive plays later and Permian was threatening again, taking advantage of Darren Allman's interception of Jaime Madrid's pass at the Bulldog eight. Bryant punched the ball into the end zone on the first try. Albert Jordan passed to Shawn Crow for the two pointer and a 14-0 score.

After forcing the Bulldogs to punt on their next possession, a short 15 yards to their own 32, the Panthers quickly moved into the end zone, capping the drive with a three-yard run by league-leading rusher Crow.

The TD and ensuing Bryant kick gave Permian a 21-0 halftime lead.

The second half started out much like the first, with Permian in great field position.

Kermon Stance took the kickoff 36 yards to the Permian 49 and, using a 28-yard run by Bryant and a 16-yarder by Crow, the Panthers set up at the MHS three and scored on Bryant's run. The kick made it 28-0.

Two possesions later, the Panthers broke the biggest play of the night and showed why Crow leads the league in rushing. On third-and-eight, Crow took the ball to his right and was hit around the line of scrimmage, the MHS 14.

Fighting off several would-be Bulldog tacklers, Crow made a spin to the inside and was suddenly running in the clear for an 84-yard score to cap a 99-yard drive for a 35-0 score.

THE FINAL points of the game came in the fourth quarter when Brian Gallimore picked off a tipped Jeff Somers pass at the Permian six and raced untouched into the end zone 94 yards away.

Crow was held to a season-low 91 yards in the first half but finished with 195 for the game.

Lipsey plays hurt to fuel Owl win

By ERIC SCHURER
Sports Writer

BIG LAKE - There was no way a little thing like a shoulder injury was going to keep Scott Lipsey from this game.

So Lipsey pulled himself off the turf at Owl Stadium to direct the Reagan County offense to a 27-7 thumping of McCamey Friday night.

The junior quarterback passed for a touchdown, ran for another and even intercepted a pass from his safety position in the rout of the Badgers.

"I kept begging them to let me back in," Lipsey said of his second-quarter injury. "I didn't want to sit out this one."

LIPSEY passed just five times against the Badgers, but four were completed and all were big plays, accounting for 119 yards.

The big one was a 20-yard scoring strike to Mike Townsend that put the Owls ahead to stay late in the second quarter. It was an impressive aerial performance from a quarterback known as a runner when he was forced into duty last season.

And in the second half, Lipsey did keep the Badgers at bay with his running, with some help from James West and Junior Romero.

"He's just one tough kid," coach Ronnie Reeger said of Lipsey. "He's really worked on his passing this year - he knows it's going to help his running, too."

In a game where the objective of both teams was to stay healthy, both sides came up with worrisome injuries. But McCamey's was the worst. Tailback Rodney Terry went down on the gfirst play of the second quarter and is out indefinitely.

If that weren't enough, Rob Adams, one half of coach Buster Leaf's quarterback tandem, broke his collarbone late in the game and is likely out for the season.

THOUGH Lipsey also went down in the second quarter, he came back with fire in his eyes to direct the win. McCamey, 4-1, and Leaf weren't so lucky.

"I've had better days to be more than honest," Leaf said. "This game kind of sets us back. We played extremely well for four games. We just didn't have it tonight."

"We played a quality football team and we were fortunate to have things go our way," Reeger countered. "He had less things go wrong than they did."

The first half saw both teams moving the ball well, but mistakes were the difference.

The Owls translated their first break into a touchdown when Robert Chaney recovred a fumble off a quarterback sack on the McCamey seven-yard line. Junior Romero punched in the first play for the score and a 7-0 Owl lead.

MCCAMEY put together a drive of its own to tie it at 7-7 in the second quarter, though the Owls had them stopped twice on third down.

But a pair of pass interference calls helped the Badgers complete their only scoring drive, covering 84 yards in 17 plays. Roman Zarate went the final yard on a quarterback keeper.

Lipsey came back on his sore shoulder to direct the Owls down the field, as the clock ran down in the first half. Reagan County moved 70 yards in just six plays as Lipsey found Townsend open for a 20-yard scoring strike.

Townsend was Lipsey's favorite target, catching three passes for 108 yards as well as kicking three extra points.

TED BATTLES

Just an innocent remark....

Sometimes you try so hard and nothing happens. It all can very discouraging.

Last fall, all my cheap shots at the University of Nebraska, not to mention numerous others, fell like long incomplete passes. Couldn't get a rise out of anybody. I'd given up hope until last week when an innocent remark fell on my foot like an anvil.

This strange package of "Success" emanated from a remark meant to be a simple statement of fact and resulted the challenge of a duel ..."choose your weapons, sir."

The observation was intended to inform that for Nebraska to get the same respect as a 15-14 victory over Temple, it had to win big.

"Tom Osborne isn't that kind of coach," bristled the offended reader, "He doesn't run up the score on people. You'll notice how he kept it down against Illinois. He wound up playing everybody on the bench."

I had to agree, my forecast justified the accusation. Still, a response.

"And how come," the offensive was assumed now that a nerve at last had been exposed, "Nebraska never beats Oklahoma so I get some relief from these Okies around here? Huh, how come?"

"The main reason is," he explained the facts of life with as much patience as he could muster, "They have better players. I'm not accusing OU of buying better players, but they just get better players. They are closer to the good recruiting areas."

"I think this shows in in the pros," he went on, "Not many Nebraska players make it. They are good college players, but not necessarily professional prospects. Osborne is a fine man and I think he does a remarkable job of moulding his talent into superior football teams."

How can you argue with that? Let's see, who else can I pick on.....

The SWC. Judging by the point spread, this must be blow out weekend in the league...

TCU plus 15 1/2 over Arkansas- Hogs shouldn't have any trouble winning, but if Tony Jeffrey can get loose a couple of times, Frogs may be able to keep it close.

Houston plus 20 over Baylor- I should have learned not to take the points against the Bears, but, golly, 20 points.

Texas Tech plus 21 over Texas A&M- Talk about gluttons for punishment, but, surely, Betty Crocker wouldn't burn two cakes in a row, would she, Billy Joe?

Texas minus 19 1/2 over Rice- Owls are emphasizing defense this year, but apparently opposition is doing a better job of emphasizing offense.

Boston College plus 7 1/2 over SMU- This must be a Doug Flutie hangover...

The really Big Ones...

Notre Dame plus 7 over Alabama- It's in hot, humid Birmingham, but I like the points.

Arizona State plus 7 over UCLA- in view of Sun Devils 21-21 tie with Washington State last week, don't take this one seriously.

Michigan State minus one over Iowa- In a game this close, even one point would be tempting, but in effect this is Hawkeyes' first game of the season while Spartans are seasoned veterans in comparison.

LSU plus 2 at Florida- LSU can be good, although it lost to Miami, O. Florida as lost three straight.

South Carolina plus 24 1/2 over Nebraska- Gamecocks didn't look all that bad against Georgia last week.

The others....

Rutgers plus 15 over Penn State- If Lions are going to lay it on anyone, it will be the Scarlet Knights from one of State's happy hunting grounds. Still, living dangerously....

Tennessee minus 28 over UTEP- Last Iowa, this week the Vols. Where does UTEP dig up these teams...and why?

Southern Mississippi plus 4 1/2 over Kentucky- Shouldn't Wildcats be getting the points?

Indiana minus 9 over Northwestern- Now that the Evanston football factory has ventured into academia by beating Army and non-athletic scholarship Princeton, the Wildcats resume their role as the Big 10's citadel of learning.

USC minus 19 over Oregon- Unfortunately, I understand the Webfoots' football player is injured.

The Pros...

Dallas plus 3 1/2 over Denver- State loyalty. Dan Reeves would like to beat old boss Tom Landry just as much as Gene Stallings wanted to last week. Difference is, Reeves has the people who can do it.

Bears minus 13 over Vikings- With McMahon back, 13 doesn't look like nearly enough.

Browns minus 2 1/2 over Steelers- Pittsburgh turned it around last week and now Cleveland turns it around again.

In fact, the Bobcats had to score two touchdowns in the last two minutes of play to turn away the Eagles, who fell to 0-2 in league play. San Angelo is now 1-0 in district and 5-0 on the season.

With 1:52 left in the game, San Angelo narrowed the AHS margin to 26-21 when Charles Kelly scored from five yards out.

Cooper is now 2-3 on the season and return to District 4-5A play next week when they host Midland Lee.

Are Broncos really tough against run?

By JOHN MOSSMAN

DENVER (AP) — Through an infusion of speed and a swarming mentality, the Denver Broncos have developed the top run defense in the NFL. And none too soon.

A unit that has held opponents to an average of 65.8 yards per game on the ground this season gets a severe test on Sunday when the Dallas Cowboys invade Mile High Stadium.

The Cowboys come at you with two Heisman Trophy winners. Tony Dorsett, who shows no signs of slowing up despite 10 years in the league and 11,060 yards, and Herschel Walker, the Georgia and USFL star whose 2,411 yards in 1985 set a single-season pro football record, give Dallas a double-barreled threat.

Dorsett, who needs 177 yards to move past O.J. Simpson into fifth place on the NFL career rushing list, is listed as questionable by the Cowboys because of a sprained left knee.

Walker started in Dorsett's place in Monday night's 31-7 victory over St. Louis and, as Bronco Coach Dan Reeves said, "They didn't seem to miss anything with Dorsett out." Walker rushed for 82 yards and caught a touchdown pass.

Dorsett dazzles you with speed and elusiveness. Walker scares you with a rare blend of speed and power.

LEE——

The Bronchos, who had seven players quit the team this week, got a final touchdown late in the fourth period when receiver Lindsey Garnett sprinted 37 yards on an end around play.

The only real negative for the Rebels was an injury to halfback Woodard, who had 62 yards and a TD before hurting what appeared to be his shoulder in the first half. It was not known how bad the injury was.

Lee rolled out 363 yards rushing and another 150 in the air, an almost unheard of total for a Lee team that thinks it invented the infantry. OHS' Chris Henson led the Bronchos with only 58 yards rushing. OHS had only 149 yards on the ground and 91 in the air.

The Rebels are now 5-0 and rolling for a date against Abilene Cooper next Friday in Abilene. Lee and Permian, also 5-0, are both unbeaten and the only teams in the league with perfect 2-0 marks after two weeks of play in District 4-5A. OHS is 2-3 on the year and 0-2 in loop play.

OWLS——

It was also in the first half that McCamey lost Terry to an ankle injury. It was the third time in three years that Terry, the Badgers breakaway threat, has injured that ankle.

But as the Owls began to put points on the board in the second half, McCamey was forced to go to the air - unsuccessfully.

Zarate was picked off three times and Adams once as the two combined to hit on just nine of 24 passes.

"They were in a position where they had to throw the ball," Reeger said. "We had pressure on them and that helped us."

Bpth teams open district play next week with Reagan County on the road at Rankin while McCamey returns home with Presidio.

Champ mistaken for terrorist

TURIN, Italy (AP) — Venezuelan Bernardo Pinango, who puts his World Boxing Association bantamweight title at stake tonight, expects fewer troubles from Italian challenger Ciro De Leva than what he had with Italian anti-terrorism police.

The 26-year-old world champion was held at gunpoint and detained for 90 minutes Thursday by policemen who had mistaken him for a would-be terrorist.

Policemen became suspicious when Pinango, clad in black hooded training outfits, drove twice near the closely guarded U.S. consulate.

Miami officials look into Cane escapades

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP) — University of Miami officials formed a six-member committee Friday to investigate off-field escapades that have given the nation's top-ranked college football team a bad image that the officials admit could hurt the university.

University President Edward Foote, flanked by a somber Coach Jimmy Johnson and university officials and trustees, said the committee would meet "as quickly and as often as possible" to probe a series of incidents and is expected to make recommendations on possible policy changes within three weeks.

"This was to acknowledge and deal with the rather widely reported series of incidents," Foote said after he, Johnson and Athletic Director Sam Jankovich met for two hours with an advisory group largely comprised of university trustees. "It's a problem for the whole university. There's a great deal of publicity because we're ... No. 1 ... this week and hopefully for a long time.

"Yes, it hurts," Foote said. "I'm proud of this university. I'm proud of those players. But we don't suggest the publicity has nothing to do with reality."

Johnson defended his coaching staff's efforts to maintain discipline. He said he wouldn't disclose specifics, but said many hours were spent in counseling and that his punishments in nearly three Miami seasons have ranged from 6 a.m. running sessions to revocation of four players' scholarships.

Saying his coaches work 100 hours per week with students who have come to Miami from varying backgrounds, and some "with no guidance for 18 years," Johnson said he believed his team had less-serious problems than those of many others.

"We've had widespread publicity because of our national ranking, but when you look at the overall picture, the academic standing, the success on the field, and the fairly minor problems, I think we can be very proud," Johnson said.

He pledged full cooperation with the six-member committee, to be headed by William Butler, vice president for student affairs. It will include Jankovich, the university's legal counsel, a professor and two other university officials.

Foote insisted that the university already had been investigating problems involving the team, but said the new committee will intensify the probe.

Last week's defeat of defending national champion Oklahoma made Miami the nation's No. 1 team, and increased media coverage of a series of off field incidents that has included:

— Involvement by a number of players in widespread campus misuse of a long-distance telephone service's billing numbers. Miami players agreed to pay nearly $10,000 in restitution.

— Leasing of cars from current or potential pro sports agents by four players. Three were cleared of wrongdoing, while linebacker Winston Moss was suspended for the opening game.

— Linebacker George Mira Jr. was arrested after campus arguments with his girlfriend and with police. Felony charges against him later were reduced to a misdemeanor count of simple battery.

— Other incidents with campus police, including a Sept. 25 disturbance outside the football players' dorm in which 14 police units were called to restore order. The Miami Herald reported Friday that campus police officers have been instructed in a new memo from their chief to call on Johnson's coaching staff to first try and handle any "minor" disturbances.

— Running back Melvin Bratton faces shoplifting charges for walking out of a store wearing sunglasses he says he forgot to remove after trying them on.

Are Broncos really tough against run?

By JOHN MOSSMAN

DENVER (AP) — Through an infusion of speed and a swarming mentality, the Denver Broncos have developed the top run defense in the NFL. And none too soon.

A unit that has held opponents to an average of 65.8 yards per game on the ground this season gets a severe test on Sunday when the Dallas Cowboys invade Mile High Stadium.

The Cowboys come at you with two Heisman Trophy winners. Tony Dorsett, who shows no signs of slowing up despite 10 years in the league and 11,060 yards, and Herschel Walker, the Georgia and USFL star whose 2,411 yards in 1985 set a single-season pro football record, give Dallas a double-barreled threat.

Dorsett, who needs 177 yards to move past O.J. Simpson into fifth place on the NFL career rushing list, is listed as questionable by the Cowboys because of a sprained left knee.

Walker started in Dorsett's place in Monday night's 31-7 victory over St. Louis and, as Bronco Coach Dan Reeves said, "They didn't seem to miss anything with Dorsett out." Walker rushed for 82 yards and caught a touchdown pass.

Dorsett dazzles you with speed and elusiveness. Walker scares you with a rare blend of speed and power.

LEE

The Bronchos, who had seven players quit the team this week, got a final touchdown late in the fourth period when receiver Lindsey Garnett sprinted 37 yards on an end around play.

The only real negative for the Rebels was an injury to halfback Woodard, who had 62 yards and a TD before hurting what appeared to be his shoulder in the first half. It was not known how bad the injury was.

Lee rolled out 363 yards rushing and another 150 in the air, an almost unheard of total for a Lee team that thinks it invented the infantry. OHS' Chris Henson led the Bronchos with only 58 yards rushing. OHS had only 149 yards on the ground and 91 in the air.

The Rebels are now 5-0 and rolling for a date against Abilene Cooper next Friday in Abilene. Lee and Permian, also 5-0, are both unbeaten and the only teams in the league with perfect 2-0 marks after two weeks of play in District 4-5A. OHS is 2-3 on the year and 0-2 in loop play.

OWLS

It was also in the first half that McCamey lost Terry to an ankle injury. It was the third time in three years that Terry, the Badgers breakaway threat, has injured that ankle.

But as the Owls began to put points on the board in the second half, McCamey was forced to go to the air - unsuccessfully.

Zarate was picked off three times and Adams once as the two combined to hit on just nine of 24 passes.

"They were in a position where they had to throw the ball," Reeger said. "We had pressure on them and that helped us."

Bpth teams open district play next week with Reagan County on the road at Rankin while McCamey returns home with Presidio.

Crane deals Buffs first loss

From Staff Reports

STANTON — The Crane Golden Cranes knocked the Stanton Buffaloes from the ranks of the unbeaten here Friday night with a sound 38-0 non-conference football victory at Buff Stadium.

Crane is 2-3 on the year while Stanton absorbed its first loss and is now 4-1.

Stanton started the game by moving from its own 41 to the Crane seven before an interception halted the drive. Crane then turned it around when Gerald Mitchell busted 72 yards for a touchdown.

From there, Sherrod Vaden scored on TD runs of one, 19 and 21 yards to put the game away. Crane scored 21 points in the third period.

Carl Claunch scored from 15 yards out for Crane in that big-thrid period and Lonny Velasquez kicked five extra points and a 21-yard field goal.

Champ mistaken for terrorist

TURIN, Italy (AP) - Venezuelan Bernardo Pinango, who puts his World Boxing Association bantamweight title at stake tonight, expects fewer troubles from Italian challenger Ciro De Leva than what he had with Italian anti-terrorism police.

The 26-year-old world champion was held at gunpoint and detained for 90 minutes Thursday by policemen who had mistaken him for a would-be terrorist.

Policemen became suspicious when Pinango, clad in black hooded training outfits, drove twice near the closely guarded U.S. consulate.

Miami officials look into Cane escapades

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP) — University of Miami officials formed a six-member committee Friday to investigate off-field escapades that have given the nation's top-ranked college football team a bad image that the officials admit could hurt the university.

University President Edward Foote, flanked by a somber Coach Jimmy Johnson and university officials and trustees, said the committee would meet "as quickly and as often as possible" to probe a series of incidents and is expected to make recommendations on possible policy changes within three weeks.

"This was to acknowledge and deal with the rather widely reported series of incidents," Foote said after he, Johnson and Athletic Director Sam Jankovich met for two hours with an advisory group largely comprised of university trustees. "It's a problem for the whole university. There's a great deal of publicity because we're ... No. 1 ... this week and hopefully for a long time.

"Yes, it hurts," Foote said. "I'm proud of this university. I'm proud of those players. But we don't suggest the publicity has nothing to do with reality."

Johnson defended his coaching staff's efforts to maintain discipline. He said he wouldn't disclose specifics, but said many hours were spent in counseling and that his punishments in nearly three Miami seasons have ranged from 6 a.m. running sessions to revocation of four players' scholarships.

Saying his coaches work 100 hours per week with students who have come to Miami from varying backgrounds, and some "with no guidance for 18 years," Johnson said he believed his team had less serious problems than those of many others.

"We've had widespread publicity because of our national ranking, but when you look at the overall picture, the academic standing, the success on the field, and the fairly minor problems, I think we can be very proud," Johnson said.

He pledged full cooperation with the six-member committee, to be headed by William Butler, vice president for student affairs. It will include Jankovich, the university's legal counsel, a professor and two other university officials.

Foote insisted that the university already had been investigating problems involving the team, but said the new committee will intensify the probe.

Last week's defeat of defending national champion Oklahoma made Miami the nation's No. 1 team, and increased media coverage of a series of off-field incidents that has included:

— Involvement by a number of players in widespread campus misuse of a long-distance telephone service's billing numbers. Miami players agreed to pay nearly $10,000 in restitution.

— Leasing of cars from current or potential pro sports agents by four players. Three were cleared of wrongdoing, while linebacker Winston Moss was suspended for the opening game.

— Linebacker George Mira Jr. was arrested after campus arguments with his girlfriend and with police. Felony charges against him later were reduced to a misdemeanor count of simple battery.

— Other incidents with campus police, including a Sept. 25 disturbance outside the football players' dorm in which 14 police units were called to restore order. The Miami Herald reported Friday that campus police officers have been instructed in a new memo from their chief to call on Johnson's coaching staff to first try and handle any "minor" disturbances.

— Running back Melvin Bratton faces shoplifting charges for walking out of a store wearing sunglasses he says he forgot to remove after trying them on.

Past glory for Notre Dame riding on Crimson Tide

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Football Writer

Notre Dame, trying to "wake up the echoes," "shake down the thunder" and recapture some of its past glory, gets a chance to do that Saturday.

The Fighting Irish, 1-2, under Coach Lou Holtz, are at Birmingham to play second-ranked Alabama in the fifth meeting of one of college football's memorable rivalries.

Alabama won its last national championship in 1979 by defeating Arkansas, coached by Holtz, 24-9 in the Sugar Bowl.

"That team had one of the finest collections of athletes I've ever coached against," Holtz said, adding that this year's team is better.

"This Alabama team is better on film than the 1979 team. For one thing, they have better athletes. For another, they have an absolutely awesome kicking game.

"Defensively, they have great speed and quickness to go along with experience. And they're sound.

"On offense, I don't think I've ever seen running backs run inside the way (Bobby) Humphrey and (Gene) Jelks can. We all know what they can do outside.

"And their receivers, (Al) Bell and (Greg) Richardson, are just as impressive. Bell's the only guy I've seen catch Jelks from behind. It happened on that long run of his (75 yards against Vanderbilt) when Bell came out of nowhere to help block.

"Their offensive line ... I really like the way they play together. And their quarterback, Mike Shula, is the catalyst. He's smart, he knows the game and he doesn't make many mistakes.

College Football

"This team is for real. This team has championship talent. I know I've just seen them on film only, but you can tell a lot about a team on film. And Alabama is as good as any team I've seen on film this year."

MIAMI, THe nation's No. 1 team after beating Oklahoma last week, puts its new ranking on the line in a night game at home against winless Northern Illinois.

Meanwhile, third-ranked Nebraska visits South Carolina and No. 4 Michigan is at Wisconsin for a night game. The other members of The Associated Press Top Ten are at home — fifth-ranked Penn State against Rutgers, No. 6 Oklahoma with Kansas State, seventh-ranked Auburn vs. Western Carolina, No. 8 Arkansas against texas Christian and No. 9 Southern California against Oregon at night. Tenth-ranked Arizona is idle.

The only two Top Twenty pairings find No. 11 Iowa at No. 17 Michigan State and No. 16 Arizona State at No. 15 UCLA in day games. Elsewhere in the Second Ten, California visits No. 12 Washington, Houston is at No. 13 Baylor for a night game, Texas Tech at No. 14 Texas A&M, No. 18 Louisiana State at Florida and No. 19 Fresno State at San Jose State. North Carolina State, the No. 20 team, is idle.

SOUTH CAROLINA is 1-3 and Coach Joe Morrison describes himself as "very disappointed." Things don't figure to get better against a Nebraska team, which Morrison calls "without question one of the best in the country. They've always been known as a physical football team, but this team blends outstanding speed with that strength and skill to really be impressive."

Morrison said South Carolina's "progress is evident." Wisconsin Coach Jim Hilles thinks his Badgers, also 1-3 and having lost to such powers as Hawaii, Nevada-Las Vegas and Wyoming, will give Michigan a good game.

"I've had a good feeling about the Michigan game since before the season," Hilles said. "I expect we'll play Michigan tough. I don't believe our players are intimidated by Michigan any more."

But he also thought Wisconsin could be 4-0 and a possible contender for the Big Ten championship.

SEVEN members of the Rutgers coaching staff, including head coach Dick Anderson, have degrees from and or have coached at Penn State, so they know what they're up against.

Still, "I'm not interested in making a good showing. People look at the wins and losses. I think we're capable of beating anybody," said Anderson, who has bachelor's and master's degrees from Penn State and served on Joe Paterno's staff for 11 years.

Paterno predicts Rutgers will be "the best team by far we've played this season (Temple, Boston College and East Carolina were the others). Rutgers is solid and well-coached. They hang onto the football and they don't beat themselves. They play good defense and they're tough to beat."

Anderson is 0-2 against his former boss since coming to Rutgers, but the games were close — 15-12 and 17-10.

Oklahoma quarterback Jamelle Holieway will miss the Kansas State game with a bruised shoulder. Even without him, the Sooners are seven-touchdown favorites.

"We are not holding him out because we are playing Kansas State," Coach Barry Switzer said. "He wouldn't play if we were to meet Texas this week."

Flutie may be available to play Monday

BOSTON (AP) — Doug Flutie could be available to play in the National Football League as early as Monday. But where he could play remained uncertain Friday.

Flutie's agent, Bob Woolf, said Friday he was close to an agreement with Donald Trump, owner of the New Jersey Generals of the United States Football League, that would settle his client's rich personal services contract.

The Generals and the USFL have suspended operations for the 1986 season.

"We're in the process of drawing up final settlement documents with Donald Trump, which should be finished by Monday," Woolf said in a telephone interview. "At that time, the National Football League will be notified of the release."

Woolf previously said that Flutie would receive slightly more than $3 million of a guaranteed personal services contract worth $3.9 million. He played one season with the Generals.

Flutie was in Green Bay last Tuesday for a tryout with the Packers. Another former USFL quarterback, Chuck Fusina of the Baltimore Stars, also auditioned and was ultimately signed.

Fusina was a free agent. Flutie's NFL rights are held by the Los Angeles Rams.

Pecos turns Andrews fumbles into two TDs

From Staff Reports

ANDREWS — Pecos High's Eagles had to drive a total of 27 yards for the two touchdowns that did in the Andrews Mustangs, 13-0, in a District 2-4A football game here Friday.

Jamie Estrella punched in from one yard out with 7:24 left in the half and Tony Urquidi converted for a 7-0 lead. This was a five-yard drive after one of five fumbles lost by the Mustangs.

With 10 minutes left in the game, Pecos applied to the coup de grace with a 22-yard drive off a fumble recovery and this time Javier Estrella crashed in from the four-yard line and the fake kick gamble for two on the extra point failed.

The outcome left both teams with 2-1 district records while Andrews isd 2-3 for the season and Pecos is 4-1. Andrews previously defeated Lamesa and Fort Stockton in league games while Pecos beat Snyder and lost to Monahans.

The Mustangs get another test next week on the road at Monahans while the Eagles return home for a game with Lake View.

Rangers break into win column

From Staff Reports

OZONA — The woes of the Greenwood Rangers ended here Friday night in firm fashion as the Rangers won a 30-6 decision over the Ozona Lions in a non-conference football game.

Greenwood is now 1-4 for the season and begins play in District 4-3A next week at home with Alpine.

Ozona, the team that defeated Iraan earlier this year, didn't even score until only 53 seconds were left in the game. Greenwood had 358 yards rushing while Ozona managed only 37.

Greenwood's Glen Teal sparked the victory with a five-yard touchdown run and TD passes of 24 and 13 yards to Randy Donnell and Todd Martin. Steve Popham and Mitch Russell had second half touchdowns.

Greenwood led 12-0 at the half, but also scored 18 points in the second half before Ozona could answer on the scoreboard.

Forsan 27, Iraan 13

From Staff Reports

IRAAN— Iraan scored first, but after that Forsan took over to roll to a 27-13 victory that preserved their unbeaten record here Friday night.

Billy Castaneda drew first blood, going in from the nine-yard line with 6:52 left in the first period and Raul Mendoza converted.

Forsan countered in spectacular fashion when Brant Nichols uncorked a 54-yard touchdown pass to Brandy Bryan and Wayne Wright's kick tied with 1:34 left in the opening quarter.

Wright made it 13-7 on a one-yard run in the third period and Nichols went in from the six with 11:13 left to play to give Forsan, now 5-0, a 20-6 lead.

Iraan struck back when Jacky Stone cashed in from the one and Mendoza converted, but Wright's 19-yard run with 1:10 left settled the issue.

The loss leaves Iraan with a 3-2 record for the season.

The Bearkats continue District 6-A play at Eden next Friday.

Both teams are now 2-3 on the season and 1-2 in 2-4A play.

Glenn Collins, MC golfer, can't believe he missed a putt, but his 107 for 27 holes helped pace the Chaparrals to first place in the WJCAC tournament at Green Tree Country Club Friday.

Chap golfers finish with win

By TED BATTLES
Sports Editor

Midland College golfers may have all winter to savor their Western Junior College Athletic Conference victory Friday, but Chaparral Coach Delnor Poss wasn't able to enjoy the "fruits" until today.

The tournament lasted until almost 5:30 p.m. and Poss had to be in Lubbock before 7:30 p.m. to officiate a high school football game.

The 27-hole win at Green Tree Country Club more than doubled MC's point total for the three-tournament fall session, moving MC past Western Texas College into fourth place overall with 11 points.

The Chaps carded a 286-144—430 Friday to beat out Odessa College 293-142—435 while New Mexico Junior College, the overall fall leader with 17 points, took third with 289-147—436.

NMJC took first in the earlier fall tournaments held at South Plains College in Levelland at WTC at Snyder. After Friday's play, NMMI retained second with 12 1/2 points and OC was third with 12.

Steve Alexander shot a 38-31-35—104 to take second place in the medal competition in leading the Chaps. Glenn Collins had a 34-38-35—107.

In compiling total score, the low four scores for the 18 hole round and the low four totals for the final nine were taken for team scores.

Mike Harrison, WTC, shot 34-33-35—102 for medalist. NMMI's Derek Crawford shota 107, only the second time all year he hasn't been medalist. On the other occasion, he four-putted the final hole to lose low round honors.

Also contributing to the MC victory were Arnie Burttschell with 111, Gordon Wessels and Robert Anderson at 112 and Ricky Cruz 122.

WJCAC play resumes in the spring with everyone starting from scratch for the three tournaments at Roswell, Hobbs and Odessa.

Tech tempting morsel for offense-searching Aggies

Associated Press

Texas A&M opens defense of its Southwest Conference football title on Saturday after a less-than-awesome adventure into the non-conference wars.

The Aggies dropped their opener 35-17 to Louisiana State, clipped North Texas State 48-28, and showed few offensive fireworks in defeating Southern Mississippi 16-7 last week.

The Aggies will entertain a Texas Tech team that was ripped 45-14 on homecoming last Saturday in Lubbock by Baylor. The Red Raiders also ran afoul of No. 1 rated Miami three weeks ago.

In other SWC games on Saturday, Baylor hosts Houston on national television (6:45 ESPN); Texas travels to Rice to meet the humiliated Owls at 7 p.m. in Rice Stadium at 7 p.m.; and TCU is at Arkansas at noon in a Raycom regionally televised game.

SMU entertains Boston College in the only non-conference game.

The SWC hasn't done that well intersectionally. The league is 0-4 against Pac 10 teams and 0-3 against clubs in the Top Twenty.

Baylor Coach Grant Teaff said the Bears look for a tough time against Houston.

"Historically, this has been a very exciting and tough football game," Teaff said. "Houston will play flawless football against us Saturday. It seems they always do.

"They could have eight or nine fumbles the week before they play us, but since we are always their first league game they come out of the shoots for us."

Houston Coach Bill Yeoman returned the hype.

After viewing films of Baylor's defense, Yeoman said "I will be leading the cheers after every four-yard gain we make against them."

Arkansas (3-0) will be wary of the Horned Frogs on Saturday.

In 1984, TCU beat the Hogs in Fayetteville 32-31 in Arkansas Coach Ken Hatfield's first season.

Rice was beaten 31-6 by Division I-AA Southwest Texas State last week. It was the Bobcats' first victory of the season.

Oddsmakers rated Texas A&M, Texas, and Baylor as 20 point favorites in their games. Arkansas was a 15 point choice over Baylor and SMU was a seven-point pick over Boston College.

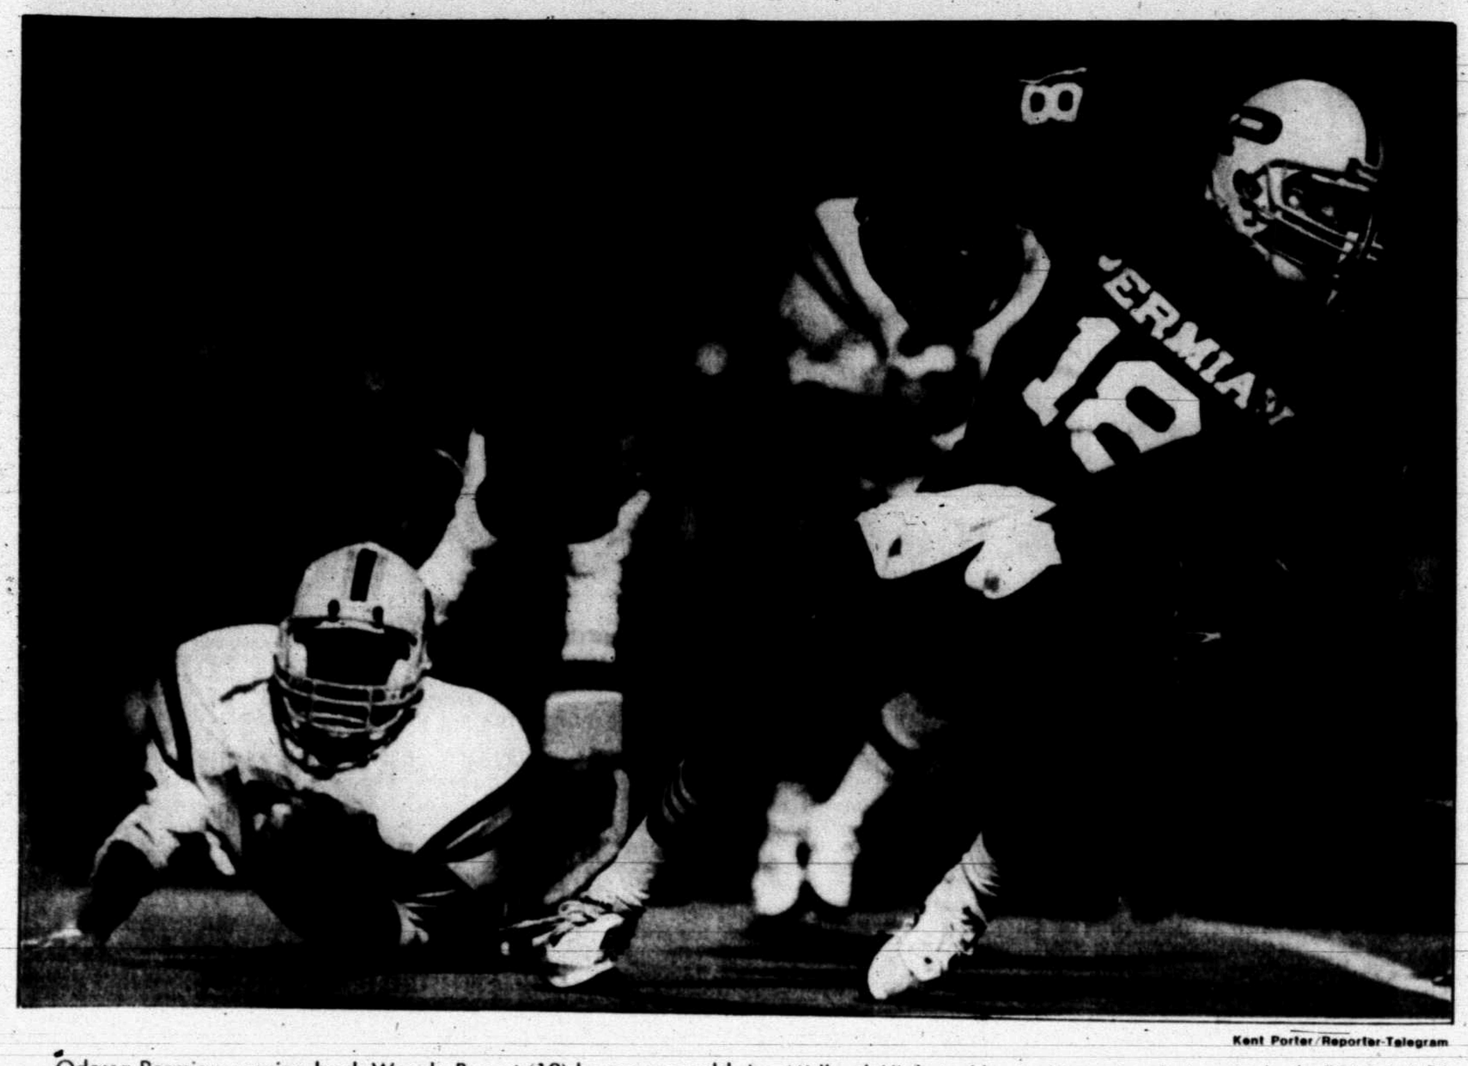

History says A&M may not have it easy against Tech.

The Aggies haven't beaten the Red Raiders at home since 1980.

Tight end Rod Bernstine says "Nobody on this team has ever beaten Tech at home. There's something about coming to Kyle Field that fires them up and we better be at our best."

A&M has won 10 straight games at Kyle Field.

Rankin's Abalos runs for 160 yards in win

From Staff Reports

FORT DAVIS — Rankin's George Abalos rushed for 160 yards in 16 carries and Chris Beeman scored two touchdowns as the Red Devils went on a 27-12 rampage to defeat Fort Davis here Friday night.

The win was the fourth straight for Rankin since an opening game loss to Iraan.

Beeman went over the right side from the nine with 5:58 left in the first period and handyman Abalos converted. With 11:29 left in the second period, Fort Davis scored when tailback David Granado nudged over from the one, but the pass failed.

Before intermission, however, Rankin was to score twice. First, it was a one-yard plunge by Beeman with 5:44 left and then Quarterback Doug Braden flipped 19 yards to end. Bruce Hooker with 1:59 in the half.

Fort Davis played tough with Granado circling the left side on an 18-yard scoring saunter with 29 seconds left of the third period.

Before the period was out, Rankin countered on a 66-yard run by Abalos with nine seconds left.

Grandao also went over the century mark in rushing, carrying 20 times for 104 yards for Fort Davis.

The Red Devils begin their first year in District 6-2A with Reagan County at home next week.

Brown tops in qualifying play

ROCKWALL (AP) — Billy Ray Brown of Sugar Land was the medalist with 69-67-71-71—278 to lead players in the PGA Tour qualifiying tournament Friday at The Shores.

Brown finished two strokes ahead of former University of Houston teammate Steve Elkington of Humble.

"He took some good shots," said Gaines. "Midland High was really hitting him hard. He fumbled one and then fumbled another that we recovered."

Ahhh, but that run.

"That was a great individual effort by Shawn," said Gaines. "He did a great job of getting to the end zone. I don't know how he did it."

EVEN THOUGH the Bulldogs failed to score some points, they did have their opportunities. Three times the Dogs were close and three times the Panthers turned them back.

The first came in the third quarter when the Bulldogs mounted a drive from their own 17 to the Permian 12 where it died when Tyrone Oliver fumbled and Panther Art Wagner recovered.

On the next play, Crow fumbled the ball back to the Bulldogs at the seven where Richard Triplett recovered.

Oliver picked up five yards to the Permian two and followed with another carry to the one. Madrid made the next attempt and failed but Permian was flagged and the down replayed.

Oliver tried for the second time from the one and disappeared into a line of black, the same fate Anthony Adkison suffered on the fourth down carry.

ARLINGTON (AP) — Jeff Kunkel hit his first major league home run in over two years to lead the Texas Rangers to a 6-1 win over the California Angels Friday night.

Bobby Witt, 11-9, scattered three hits over five innings before giving way to relief help. Mitch Williams and Greg Harris finished up, the latter posting his 20th save.

The Rangers are 12-0 during Witt's last 12 starts and the rookie right-hander has not lost a decision since July 21. Witt struck out three and walked three.

Kunkel's homer, his first in the majors since Aug. 28, 1984, came in the third inning off Angels starter Kirk McCaskill, 17-10, who struck out eight, including five in a row. Both of McCaskill's walks, which came in the fourth, resulted in runs.

Twins 9, White Sox 2

MINNEAPOLIS — Steve Lombardozzi's grand slam homer and Mike Smithson, 13-14, pitched a four-hitter for eight innings.

Lombardozzi's grand slam, his eighth homer of the year, highlighted the Twins' six-run outburst in the fourth inning.

Tigers 6, Orioles 3

BALTIMORE — Kirk Gibson drove in four runs with two homers and two singles in five trips, and Lou Whitaker added a solo homer.

The loss was the Angels' sixth in seven games since they clinched the American League West title on Sept. 26. The Rangers have won six out of seven since being eliminated.

The victory clinched at least a fourth-place finish for Detroit in the AL East. The Orioles, 14-40 since pulling to within 2½ games of the division lead on Aug. 5, clinched a last-place finish for the first time in their 33-year history.

Whitaker's 20th homer was the 18th of his career as his team's lead-off hitter in a game. He and shortstop Alan Trammell became only the fourth middle infield combination in history to reach the 20-homer plateau.

The feat was accomplished three times previously by Boston Red Sox players, Bobby Doerr teamming with Joe Cronin in 1940, and Vern Stephens in 1948 and 1950.

Gibson, who scored three runs and stole his 34th base, hit a solo homer in the first and added his 27th in the third following the second of Trammell's three hits.

Brewers 4, Blue Jays 1

TORONTO — Bill Wegman, 5-12, won his first game since Aug. 20, combining with two relief pitchers on a four-hitter, and Rick Manning hit a solo homer to lead Milwaukee.

Wegman allowed three hits, including Jesse Barfield's 40th homer in the seventh which sent him to the showers. Relievers John Henry Johnson and Dan Plesac finished up, the latter posting his 14th save.

BATTLES—

Patriots minus 5 over Dolphins- Are you sure Don Shula is still coaching this Miami team?

Giants plus 6 1/2 over Cards- Is this a misprint?

Redskins minus 6 1/2 over Saints- Certainly that isn't asking too much.

Eagles plus 6 over Falcons- A seizure of delerium.

Raiders plus one over Chiefs- "Oakland" has got to be better than a 1-3 team.

Tim Raines and Wade Boggs may win the major league batting titles while sitting in the dugout during the final weekend of the regular season.

Going into the closing games, Raines, the Montreal Expos' outfielder, led a tight three-way race for the National League batting championship. He was hitting .335, with Steve Sax of the Los Angeles Dodgers second at .331 and San Diego's Tony Gwynn third at .329.

In the American League, Boggs, Boston's third baseman, had a seven-point lead over New York's Don Mattingly, .357 to .350.

RAINES strained his right pectoral muscle Tuesday while lifting a heavy suitcase and missed games Wednesday and Thursday. Boggs sat out Thursday and Friday games against the Yankiees because of a tear in his right hamstring.

"I've never had anything like this happen to me," said Raines, who aggravated the injury by playing Tuesday. "I don't like sitting on the bench.

"But if I can't swing the bat, there goes the batting race."

Boggs said he had looked forward to the head-to-head confrontation with Mattingly, but he did not want to risk further injury with the playoffs scheduled to begin next week and the Red Sox, champions of the AL East, set to face the California Angels, winners of the AL West, in the league's championship series.

Meanwhile, another Yankee, Rickey Henderson, will capture two AL titles, runs and stolen bases, while Mattingly will wind up the season with the most hits. With 232 hits going into Friday night's games, Mattingly already had broken the club record set by Earle Combs in 1927, and his 52 doubles — tops in the AL — had tied the club record set by Combs the same year.

PHILADELPHIA'S Mike Schmidt virtually had clinched his fifth NL home run crown in six years. The Phillies' third baseman had 37 homers, seven more than runners-up Glenn Davis of Houston and Dave Parker of Cincinnati going into Friday night's games.

Schmdit won the title outright in 1980, 1981 and 1983, and tied for the crown with Atlanta's Dale Murphy in 1984.

The runs batted in race in the NL was close, with Schmidt leading Parker by four, 119-115.

St. Louis' Vince Coleman, the first player in NL history to steal more than 100 bases in consecutive seasons, had wrapped up that title. He had 107 going into Friday night's games, and last year finished with 110.

Maury Wills in 1963 and Lou Brock in 1974 were the only other NL players to steal 100 or more bases in a season.

HOUSTON'S Mike Scott is only the fourth pitcher in NL history to notch 300 strikeouts. He raised his major league-leading total to 306 Thursday. Scott, who just missed a bid for a second consecutive no-hitter Thursday, also has clinched the NL earned run average crown, with a mark of 2.22.

Dwight Gooden of the New York Mets became the first pitcher in major league history to record at least 200 strikeouts in each of his first three seasons, finishing his season Thursday night with an even 200.

"I was thinking about it and I was trying to strike out every batter I faced," Gooden said after striking out seven Montreal hitters.

The AL home run race was not that close, with Toronto's Jesse Barfield (39) leading Oakland's Dave Kingman by four.

The AL RBI race, however, was undecided, with Cleveland's Joe Carter leading Oakland rookie Jose Canseco, 119-117.

Boston's Roger Clemens, knocked out of Wednesday's game when he was struck by a line drive, also was probably knocked out of a chance to become the first AL pitcher to lead the league in victories, strikeouts and earned run average since Lefty Grove in 1937.

Clemens has won 24 games and a 2.48 ERA, both untouchable. But he leads Seattle's Mark Langston by only two strikeouts. Clemens will not start again until the playoffs, while Langston is scheduled to work Saturday against Cleveland.

This Day In Baseball

1906 — The Chicago Cubs completed a record-setting season with their 116th win against only 36 losses. No team has come within five games of matching the Cubs' victory total. Ironically, the Cubs lost the World Series to their crosstown rivals, the White Sox.

1925 — Fans at the Detroit-St. Louis game were treated to the unusual spectacle of two managers, both famous as hitters, pitching against each other in the season finale. Ty Cobb of the Tigers hurled one perfect inning and George Sisler of the Browns worked two scoreless frames in an 11-6 Tiger victory.

1948 — The Cleveland Indians beat the Boston Red Sox 8-3 in a one-game playoff for the American League pennant. The pitching of Gene Bearden and the hitting of Lou Boudreau were chiefly responsible for the championship victory.

Astros' Davis pokes No. 31 in 6-2 victory

HOUSTON (AP) — Glenn Davis hit his 31st home run and drove in his 100th run, and Nolan Ryan scattered five hits over seven innings to lead the Houston Astros to a 6-2 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Davis' two-run fifth-inning homer drove in Denny Walling and made Davis the first Astro since Bob Watson in 1977 to drive in 100 or more runs in a season.

Ryan, 12-8, retired the Braves in order for four innings, before Bob Horner, who two RBI, led off the fifth with his 27th homer. Ryan struck out six and walked one.

Houston took a 3-0 lead in the second against Jim Acker, 5-8, with Craig Reynolds' two-run triple the key hit.

Reds 6, Padres 3

CINCINNATI — Ted Power, 10-6, struck out a career-high eight batters in seven innings, and Tony Perez drove in two runs with a fourth-inning double to lead the Reds.

Expos 6, Phillies 5

PHILADELPHIA — Al Newman's one-out double in the ninth inning scored Dann Bilardello with the winning run.

After reliever Kent Tekulve, 11-5, struck out pinch-hitter George Wright to open the inning, Bilardello, who earlier had hit a three-run homer, doubled to left. Newman followed with a drive to left-center.

Blanchard retains European ring title

BERLIN (AP) — Alex Blanchard of the Netherlands decisioned Ralf Rocchigiani of West Germany Friday night to retain the European light heavyweight boxing championship.

Blanchard, 28, had no trouble beating the 23-year-old Rocchigiani, who never threatened in 12 rounds.

Blanchard has been the European champion since May 28, 1984 and Friday was the fourth time he had defended the title.

Rocchigiani weighed 171 pounds.

Curl goes on birdie binge

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — Rod Curl charged into the second-round lead Friday by shooting 11 birdies en route to a course-tying 9-under-par 61, in the $350,000 Southern Open golf tournament.

Curl, who has been on the PGA tour for 17 years, has a 36-hole total of 131 after shooting a par 70 in Thursday's opening round. He was two shots ahead of Andy Bean, Tom Sieckmann and Payne Stewart, who were at 133.

Bean, the third-leading money winner on the Tour this season, had a 65. Stewart shot a steady 67 and Sieckmann a 66 over the narrow, hilly par-70, 6,791-yard Green Island Country Club course.

Bean, who has won two tournaments this year and earned $480,902, had 7 birdies and two bogeys, his second coming on the par-5, 18th hole when his third shot went into the rough on the fringe of the green. He chipped 15 feet past the hole and two putted.

Stewart, No. 6 on the money list, had three birdies and no bogeys in his round while Sieckmann had five birdies and a bogey.

Mike McCullough and Fred Wadsworth were another shot back at 134. McCullough shot a 65 and Wadsworth had his second consecutive 67. Defending champion Tim Simpson was another shot back at 135 after a 67.

Jim Thorpe, who led after the first round with Lon Hinkle, had a 71 and was at 136. Hinkle shot a 72 and was another shot back at 137.

Bob Tway, who is the second-leading money winner this year with more than $600,000, had a 70 for 138. He needs to finish 10th or better here to pass Greg Norman on the money list.

"This is my best competitive round in 17 years on the tour," said the 5-foot-5 Curl, who is an American Indian. "I hit the ball good and putted good."

Among Curl's birdies were putts of 40 feet on the par 5, 504-yard eighth hole, 25-footers on Nos. 5 and 13, and a 20-footer at No. 17.

"What keeps you out here is that a touring pro is an eternal optimist," said Curl, whose only Tour victory came in the 1974 Colonial in a season in which he was 17th on the money list with more than $120,000.

The 43-year-old Curl, however, made only $7,440 last year and just over $21,000 so far this year while making the cut in only 14 of 26 tournaments.

Curl's round equaled the 1982 tournament score of Hale Irwin, who shot 61 in the final round to finish second to winner Bobby Clampett.

His bogeys came on his fifth hole when he three-putted from 60 feet and on his 10th hole when he missed a 6-footer for par.

Among those failing to make the 36-hole cut of 141, included Jack Nicklaus II, who had a 76 for 152; Jerry Pate, who was making his first appearance in five months after shoulder surgery in 1985, had a 69 for 143, and Clarence Rose, who finished second last year, had a 69 for 142.

Did You Know That Last Year's U.S. Savings Bonds Average Rate Exceeded 9%?

Many people all over America are surprised when they hear what U.S. Savings Bonds have to offer.

For starters, Savings Bonds give you market-based interest rates—like the money markets—plus the security of a guaranteed return. This means you can earn a lot more than the guaranteed minimum rate of 7½%, but never less! To earn the higher rates, just hold your Bonds for five years or longer.

Here's more surprising news—the interest you earn from Savings Bonds is free from state and local income taxes. And you don't have to pay federal taxes on the interest earned until you cash in your Bonds.

Savings Bonds are easy to buy, too. They cost as little as $25 and can be purchased at most banks and savings and loans. Or through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

All of these advantages are making Savings Bonds an increasingly popular investment. Last year, sales of U.S. Savings Bonds were up nearly 30%!

With all that Savings Bonds have to offer, it's no surprise they're one of the best investments in America. For the current rate, just call toll-free 1-800-US-BONDS.

U.S. SAVINGS BONDS Paying Better Than Ever

Market-based rates apply to Bonds purchased on and after 11-1-82 and held at least five years. Bonds purchased before 11-1-82 earn market-based rates when held beyond 10-31-87. Bonds held less than five years earn lower rates.

Rice forecasts sports revolution

By DAVE KINDRED
New York Times Service

"I'd never broken any rules in 27 years in college athletics. So what I heard from a pro player was new to me. I was coaching the Cincinnati Bengals, '78 and '79. A young man had been recruited illegally by a major university — an automobile, money for his parents — and he ha no academic background for college.

"An 'agent' got hold of him. In the young man's sophomore year, the 'agent' signed him to a 'contract.' The agent would loan him money. And he introduced him to cocaine. Then the young man had the habit. So he needed more money.

"By the time he was picked in the pro draft, the 'agent' owned him. He was trapped, so deep in debt that a big bonus and big salary weren't enough. The more in debt he went, the worse his habit with cocaine. Finally, with nowhere else to go, he came to me."

Georgia Tech athletic director Homer Rice says that when he coached the Bengals, player after player came to him with sadly similar stories. Rice says that only then, as a pro coach after 27 years of college work, did he recognize the darkness that had fallen over college athletics. Rice later wrote of that shadow:

"One other critical and indefensible but common element surfaced. In most cases, the young men's academic courses had been altered — not just in college but in high school. They were given grades they did not make, and in some cases credited with classes they did not attend.

"Their attitude was, 'Well, why not?' They were offered inducements to attend an institution: always an automobile and usually spending money, clothes, girls...."

By now we have heard a thousand variations of this melancholy theme. The intriguing part here is that Homer Rice is an earnest man publicly committed to integrity in college athletics. Yet it was only seven or eight years ago

— no time at all — that even a Homer Rice realized that college athletics had become a cesspool of corruption.

The realization now is widespread, and there is, in response, a revolution afoot.

The universities of San Francisco and Tulane dropped basketball. No-pass, no-play rules have grown from the college problems. Even political columnists have let Reagan slide a day while they fulminate about exploitation of college athletes. Stung by Jan Kemp, Georgia took the bold step of accepting no underqualified student-athletes.

The Pulitzer prize people, each of the past two years, awarded journalism's highest honor to newspapers exposing corruption in college athletics and academics. There has been a Len Bias story on the front page of The Washington Post virtually daily since Bias's cocaine death last spring. The New York Times last Sunday reported that presidents of NCAA schools will consider proposals to de-emphasize big-time sports.

The ABC-TV news show "Nightline" last month did two hours on repercussions of the Bias death. Tuesday night, athletic-academic corruption even reached into prime time, where shows want only topics the great unwashed public will care about. To see college corruption dramatized by "Jack & Mike" is to know the issue no longer is limited to insiders.

Maybe NCAA schools will recognize, at the public's insistence, the need to clean up their act. The 44 university presidents who make up the Presidents Commission will study freshman eligibility, the reduction in size of coaching staffs and number of scholarships, the limiting of sports to one semester's play and cutting back on recruiting periods.

Turning back the clock.

Not to the Ivy League purity perhaps.

But to common sense.

"There has to be some common sense applied everywhere. We try at Georgia Tech — and we're not immune to problems — to be academically sound and keep athletics in the perspective that it's important but not more important than our total mission of helping student-athletes get a quality education.

"You're asking about a revolution in college athletics. I think there is one. It's a change to people who care. Ten years from now, I hope college athletics looks like what we're trying to do here. Colleges have to start trusting each other.

"Look at this. This thing is ridiculous. It's gone beyond common sense. It's 365 pages. We have to take this thing and get it down to pamphlet size."

Homer Rice held in his hand, as he spoke, the NCAA rule book.

First victory 4 years for DH-Jarvis Eagles

FORT WORTH (AP) — The Diamond Hill-Jarvis Eagles won their first game in four years when Vernard Hampton returned an interception 27 yards for a seal a 28-15 victory over the Polytechnic Parrots.

"It's the greatest feeling in the world to break a losing streak you've been watching since middle school," Hampton said.

Diamond Hill's last victory was Sept. 17, 1982 against Joshua.

The Eagles' loss record tied Beeville for the third-longest in Texas high school history.

Hampton, a linebacker, returned the interception with 2:56 left in the fourth quarter.

"It's a new experience for Diamond Hill but it feels great," said defensive end William Cox. "We knew we had it in us all the time but we finally played like we wanted to."

The Eagles scored on their first offensive play — a 59-yard touchdown run by Alonso Patterson — and led, 22-3, at halftime. But the Parrots cut the lead to 22-15 with two second-half touchdowns and the Eagles needed two key Polytechnic turnovers in the final five minutes to hold on.

"It's just starting," quarterback Mark Lira said. "There's going to be more wins coming now that we proved to ourselves we can win if we just stick together."

Oldest of DiMaggio boys dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Vince DiMaggio, the oldest of the baseball-playing DiMaggio brothers, died Friday morning at his home in nearby North Hollywood, his wife said.

DiMaggio was 74. According to his wife, he had been diagnosed as having cancer of the colon this past June.

DiMaggio, whose brothers Joe and Dominic had long careers with the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox, respectively, played 10 years in the National League as an outfielder with the Boston Braves, Cincinnati Reds, Pittsburgh Pirates, Philadelphia Phillies and New York Giants.

He had a career batting average .249 with 125 home runs and 584 runs batted in. His best season came for the Pirates in 1941 when he hit 21 homers and drove in 100 runs.

He was born Sept. 6, 1912 in Martinez, Calif.

DiMaggio is survived by his wife, two children, four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. He and his wife were married for almost 54 years.

DiMaggio was involved in sales in recent years, his wife said.

Joe, a member of baseball's Hall of Fame, now lives in San Francisco while Dominic lives in Boston.

Pet therapy works because people remember, smile

FORT WORTH (AP) — The 53-year-old man lay motionless on the bed.

"You won't get any response from him," said Betty Willis, activities director at Jarvis Heights Nursing Center in Fort Worth. At her side was Arlington pet therapist Jenny Hyatt.

"He doesn't move," Ms. Willis continued.

Ms. Hyatt was undeterred. She scooped up Lady, her 3-year-old schnauzer, and walked to the man's bed.

"How are you today Robert?" Ms. Hyatt asked, smiling, her gaze penetrating the man's eyes.

"Would you like to pet Lady?" Ms. Hyatt asked, bringing the dog closer to the man's hand.

His fingers quivered, lifting slightly from the bedcovers, but still inches from Lady's fur.

Ms. Hyatt took the man's hand and placed it on Lady's back.

The man smiled.

"I was amazed," Ms. Willis admitted. "Robert (Muller) has a degenerative muscle disorder and is never going to get better. The nurses told me the only response I could hope to get was him blinking his eyes — once for yes, twice for no."

Ms. Hyatt and Lady proved them wrong.

"We're not trying to rehabilitate him," Ms. Hyatt said. "But at least we can 'motivate him' to do something besides sit and mold."

It's called pet therapy and, according to the few who are practicing it in Fort Worth-Dallas, it works. Combine an animal with a person in need and the results are often dramatic.

"We got several patients who did not consistently respond to anything to look at Dusty's tail or Dusty's nose," said Shari Bernard, occupational therapist at Baylor Institute for Rehabilitation in Dallas.

Dusty is Ms. Bernard's Shetland sheepdog. He has spent the last two years visiting local nursing homes and, much because of his owner's campaigning, will begin work with unresponsive patients at Baylor next month, Ms. Bernard said.

"What we want to do is have patients (who respond to nothing else) to consistently respond to something," Ms. Bernard explained. "It gives the therapist a better idea of how to work with that patient."

Baylor is the first medical facility in the Fort Worth-Dallas area to use pet therapy, Ms. Bernard said. If results are as good as anticipated, a second pet therapist and animal may be added to the program, she said.

Some patients respond quite well to this type of therapy, especially those who owned pets prior to their injury, said W.L. Parker, Baylor's medical director.

"This type of therapy can help to further other areas of rehabilitation."

A minister friend questioned Jesse James about his life. He reminded Jesse that he used to read his Bible. James thrust his hand into his inside coat pocket and showed him a New Testament so marked up it had to have been used constantly. There is a difference in using a New Testament and applying it. Sounds and Sights of Fall

Ah, the SOUNDS OF FALL: school bells tolling; leather smacking leather on football fields; children verbally playing in fallen leaves, screaming to catch them as they flutter to Mother Earth.

And the SIGHTS OF FALL: vacations ending; routines resuming, and feelings of nostalgia fighting with feelings of anticipation as the days God has made become clothed in his coats of many colors.

Fall is God's message that he is actively at work in his universe; that change is not all that is permanent, but rather his is creatively at work in us: changing, moving, pulsating, ~~and gearing us~~ toward that maturity of wisdom he promises to those who seek him and will allow him control.

The coming of Fall is not merely a sign that winter is not far behind, but that God is painting universal, multi-colored pictures of his purpose. And he wants to include us.

"Try me," he says, "and see if I will not open the windows of heaven for you and pour down for you an overflowing blessing." (Malachi 3:10b)

As God paints the trees, even so will he paint his purpose in our hearts, making us as beautiful as all nature around us.

Fall is a good time to seek him in his house of worship; and, be picked-up by him there.

MIDLAND SANITARY PLUMBING

RELIGION IN BRIEF

First Church of Nazarene hosts a special speaker

The Rev. Wallace Renegar, Albuquerque, N.M., will be special speaker at First Church of the Nazarene, 1208 W. Wall Ave., Sunday through Wednesday.

The Sunday services begin at 10:45 a.m. and 6 p.m. and week night services being at 7 p.m. There will be special music during each service.

Renegar is serving the Church of the Nazarene as director of development at Nazarene Indian Bible College, Albuquerque, N.M. He has been a pastor in the church for 25 years, his last pastorate having been at First Church, Clovis, N.M.

He has served as District Nazarene Youth International president, districtsecretary, chairman of the District Advisory Board, chairman of the Board of Orders and Relations and chairman of the District Board of Finance. He has served on the board of trustees at Point Loma Nazarene College, San Diego, Calif.

He was elected to the board of directors, Bellflower Chamber of Commerce and the board of directors with the Bellflower, California, and Clovis, N.M., Kiwanis Clubs. He was appointed to the board of directors for the district attorney in Los Angeles County and served on the scholarship Committee for Bank of America in Southern California.

Renegar and his wife, Waulea, have two married children, Todd and Taryn Petty.

The church's pastor, the Rev. Harold L. Quarles, invites the public to attend.

Olmsted begins ministry

Dr. Olmsted

Dr. Gilford Olmsted began an interim ministry at First Christian Church in Midland today. Olmsted had served the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) in several churches. His pastorates include congregations in Nashville, Tenn.; Shawnee Mission, Kan.; San Bernardino, Calif.; Souix Falls, S.D.; and Minneapolis, Minn. He also has served as regional minister in Kansas and Indiana.

He received his undergraduate degrees at Drake University, his bachelor of divinity from Drake Divinity School and was awarded an honorary doctor of divinity from his alma mater.

Since retiring from full-time ministry in 1982, Olmsted has done five interim ministries.

His first service at First Christian Church also marks that church's observance of World Communion Sunday.

Family film begins at mall

The family film "Papa Was a Preacher" will be shown beginning Oct. 10 at Midland Park Mall Cinema.

The motion picture is rated "G" and is based on a best-selling novel by the same name written by Alyene Porter.

"Papa Was a Preacher" is set in a small town in Texas in the early 1950s. It revolves around a minister and his family of eight children. It features Robert Pine, Georgia Engel, Dean Stockwell and Imogene Coca.

Residents respond to rally

Midland area residents are responding "enthusiastically" to the 'God and Country Rally' scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Chaparral Center, according to Midland Mayor Carroll Thomas.

"When we first planned this rally, we felt that during the uncertain economic times we are currently going through, it would be appropriate to take time out from our regular activities to: 1) remind ourselves of the Godly principles on which this nation was based; 2) offer thanks for the blessings we have enjoyed as a result of these principles; and 3) commit ourselves to seek God's blessings on our community in the future," said Mayor Thomas.

Incoming Chamber of Commerce President, Wayne Merritt, said "Every bit of American currency we carry has inscribed right on it the words, 'In God We Trust.' It is important that we remember and rely on that trust and keep our daily priorities in perspective. Hopefully, this rally will serve to remind us all of how important our commitment to 'God and Country' has been in receiving the fruits this nation has enjoyed for so long."

Admission is free and no offering will be taken. Rally coordinator, Everett Bender, said, "We're praying that God will provide for the expenses of this rally. If we hope to inspire folks to trust God for their needs, then we need to set an example by trusting God to meet our needs in this rally. Hopefully, the way we run this rally will be as much of an inspiration as the rally itself. That's why we chose not to charge admission nor take an offering."

Musical talent from throughout the city will participate in a blend of patriotic and gospel selections, according to James Nance, minister of music at First Baptist Church, who is music committee chairman for the rally.

According to Kelly Coleman, a local oilman who is in charge of publicity, more than local talent is being donated. Technical assistance has been volunteered, as well as a variety of advertising including local businesses using their portable signs to promote the rally.

In addition to the ones already mentioned, other local individuals have given their endorsement to the rally. Among them are County Judge Bill Ahders; Catholic Bishop Michael Pfeifer; Charlie Jacksson, president of the Black Advisory Council; Oralia Corrales, city councilwoman; former mayor, Ernest Angelo; George Bush; and oilmen Clarence Scharbauer, III and Clayton Williams Jr.

Grant awarded annually

First United Methodist Church of Midland has for many years provided scholarships and financial assistance to students who are members of the church, as well as others, pursuing graduate and undergraduate degrees at Perkins School of Theology at Southern Methodist University.

Several years ago, Perkins identified the need for financial assistance to minority students, and the Work Area on Missions of First United Methodist Church challenged the membership to establish an endowed scholarship for minority students, according to Eleanor Josting, a spokesman for the church. A goal of $80,000 was set for the endowment, with earnings each year to be distributed by Perkins School of Theology. From personal and memorial gifts and funds from distribution of First United Methodist Church Foundation earnings, the scholarship fund reached the goal.

Recently, the administrative board of the church approved the transfer of these funds to Perkins for administration and investment. In August, $87,068 was transferred, and is designated on Perkins and SMU records a the "First United Methodist Church of Midland Perkins School of Theology Scholarship for Minority Students." A scholarship grant of $6,926 will be awarded annually in September.

Dean James Kirby of Perkins was in Midland recently to express appreciation to the church and its members for their support of minority students.

Religion writer honored

BEAUMONT — Thomas Morton, religion writer for the Beaumont Enterprise, has been named recipient of the 1986 Texas Baptist Communications Award.

The award is presented annually by the Public Relations Advisory Committee of the Baptist General Convention of Texas to a person who has made outstanding contribution to the religious life of Texas through the media, according to Orville Scott, a spokesman for BGCT.

"This year's recipient is a young religion writer who has done an outstanding job in fair, courageous, thorough reporting," said Thomas J. Brannon, BGCT director of public relations.

Morton will be honored at an Oct. 16 luncheon in Beaumont and will receive the award at the annual session of the Baptist General Convention of Texas in El Paso on Nov. 5.

Morton has written for "Boston Magazine" and "New England Church Life." He reported Billy Graham's 1986 International Conference for Itinerant Evangelists in Amsterdam for the Hearst newspaper chain. Working at the Enterprise is Morton's first full-time reporting job.

"It's rare for a newspaper our size to have a full-time religion writer. And it's unfortunate that so few papers have full-time religion writers when there's more involvement in religion than in sports, concerts, etc.," said Morton.

Noting that some 40-41 percent of Americans attend some sort of weekly religious service, he continued, "Religion often has more impact on people's personal lives than do all these other activities."

Morton believes religion reporting must be respectable. He admits he still has difficulty sometimes in relating religion to issues not explicitly religious, such as economics, politics and racial justice.

Women rejoice worldwide

The young women ages 12 to 17 of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints will participate in a worldwide celebration Oct. 11.

The purpose of "Young Women Worldwide Celebration: A Rising Generation" is, a church spokesman said, "To provide every Latter-day Saint young woman of every nation the opportunity to express her feelings concerning the gospel of Jesus Christ and to send a personal message of hope, commitment and faith to the world."

The celebration will use helium-filled balloons. Each young woman will have prepared, in advance, a written message to attach to her balloon. On a given signal, the balloons will be released.

The activity in West Texas will take place 7:30 a.m. at The University of Texas of the Permian Basin.

The activity will take place early morning worldwide to symbolize "a day of new beginnings, a commencement day," said president Gordon B. Hickley. "As each girl releases her helium-filled balloon, it will rise as a symbol of her commitment to her Heavenly Father and stand for truth and righteousness."

Christian Church assembles

For the first time since Texas and New Mexico Disciples merged in 1974, the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) in the Southwest will hold its biennial assembly in New Mexico.

The Oct. 17-20 event in Albuquerque also will take note of the centennial of organized Disciples work in the region — the 100th anniversary of the founding of CCSW's predecessor, the Texas Christian Missionary Fellowship, and the parallel development for much of that time of the Christian Church in New Mexico.

The event is expected to attract up to 1,000 Disciples to the Albuquerque Convention Center, said Carole Coffey, of the Fort Worth office of CCSW.

The theme "Disciples, Go Forth!" will be presented by six major speakers. They are Jerrell J. Crosby of Arlington; Ronald E. Osborn of Seaside, Ore.; Nancy Claire Hawley of Dallas; Howard B. Goodrich of Indianapolis, Ind.; Jessie G. Truvillion of Fort Worth; and Michael K. Kinnamon of Indianapolis.

Participants will confront business matters, attend Bible study classes, and have available to them 22 workshops intended to strengthen congregations and increase understanding of current issues.

Evangelists give testimony

The Rev. Dick and Linda West, Spirit of Faith evangelists, will give their testimony 10:30 a.m. Sunday at Word of Life and 11 a.m., Oct. 12 at Cornerstone Christian Fellowship.

The two are affiliated with International Gospel Assemblies.

Based in Nairobi, Kenya, for the past three years, the Wests founded the Mwimoto christian Life Center, which consists of a church, a school and an orphanage. The Wests' define the Center's mission as "serving the helpless in Kenya." A part of their focus is "establishing converts in enterprise."

Mrs. West ministers in song and was featured on the internationally televised "Expo '85" convention from Nairobi.

The public is invited to attend either service. Word of Life is located at 3838 W. Wall Ave. For more information call Word of Life, 699-5610.

Second of series shown

The second part of the six-part series "Turn Your Heart Toward Home," by Dr. James Dobson, will be shown 6 p.m. Wednesday at Word of Life of Midland, 3838 W. Wall Ave.

"In this bold new film series, America's most trusted family life expert brings his vast experience to bear on one of society's most pressing challenges — the protecting and strengthening of family relationships," said a Word of Life spokesman.

This film, "Power in Parenting The Young Child," begins by exploring the inherent nature of power and offers many practical helps for facing the battlegrounds in child-rearing — bedtime, mealtime and other confrontations so familiar to parents. Dobson also takes a look at areas of conflict in marriage and other adult relationships.

The church's pastor, Russ Austin, invites parents to attend. For more information call 699-5610.

Crestview singles cook chili

Crestview Baptist Church Singles Department will be participating in a Chili Cook-Off Contest Oct. 11.

This church-wide activity begins at 6 p.m. outside the Educational/Activities Building. Chili judging by the staff and awards presentations will begin at 7 p.m. Prizes will be given for the best chili, hottest chili and the best team costumes.

Betsy Brown of First Baptist Church will be featured in concert at 7:30 p.m., Oct. 11, in the gym. Ms. Brown will be singing and giving testimony about her life and travels. The church's pastor, the Rev. Kenneth Hall, invites the public to attend the concert.

Crestview Baptist Church is located at 3300 Thomas Ave.

Group showcases plays

The A.D. Players, a professional repertory theater company from Houston, will be bringing a one-hour showcase of its plays to St. Nicholas Episcopal Church, 8 p.m. Oct. 15 at 2900 Princeton Ave.

"Abundant Life," is a grouping of short plays that focus on the many dimensions of abundant life in Christ.

Scheduled for the Midland performance are:

— "Item," a play about Christian growth which focuses on a determined woman who wants all the benefits of God's gifts without the disciplines;

— "Mary and Martha," a "captivating" piece about two very different sisters who have a common friend in Jesus Christ.

"The Message," the story of a young Christian who deals with the pressure of compromise while trying to send out a message that says it all.

"A Pair of Ables," an entertaining account of stewardship based on two parables.

and "Tableau I," the parable of the lost sheep told through narrated mime.

The A.D. Players was started 19 years ago in Houston by Jeannette Clift George. Calling themselves the "After Dinner Players" because they hoped to be fed prior to each performance, the company now has grown to 20 full-time and six part-time members, according to Ms. George.

Christian theater, said a spokesman for the group, is unique in that its purpose is to glorify Christ.

"It claims theater as a means for illustrating those principles by which all may live the abundant life."

The St. Nicholas performance is sponsored by Episcopal Church Women. Tickets, priced at $5 each, may be purchased at the church or by calling 687-4761 or 686-8497.

Gala to benefit project

The Episcopal Church Women of Holy Trinity will host their second annual fundraiser, a "Tasting Extravaganza," on Oct. 14, 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., in the parish hall at 1412 W. Illinois.

This year's theme, "Making Memories," will recreate a Victorian ladies' tea. Antique furnishings and Victorian-memorabilia will carry the theme throughout the hall.

Events of the day will include a benefit luncheon, bake sale and door prize give-away. There will also be a "Table-Top Fashion Show," which will feature year-round table settings, and a silent auction. A "St. Francis" by Ben Ortega of Santa Fe, N.M., and a pedicure, facial, manicure and haircut donated by a local salon are among other items up for bids at the auction.

Tickets are $6 and will be available at the door.

Proceeds from the "Tasting Extravaganza" support the ECW and its outreach projects such at Meals on Wheels, Hospice, Hearthstone, and the Permian Basin Center for Battered Women and Their Children.

Church conducts revival

St. Anne Spiritual Church, 1800 E. Illinois Ave., is conducting a Holy Ghost Restoration Revival beginning 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Speaker for the revival is Prophet James of Dallas, who is on Radio KHVN.

The church's pastor, Mother Scott Williams, invites the public to attend.

Special Needs class begins

A Special Needs Sunday School Class will begin Sunday at Crestview Baptist Church, 3300 Thomas Ave.

The non-denominational class is designed to minister to the needs of handicapped children in Midland. Parents and teachers of handicapped children will be leading the class.

For more information call the church, 694-7701.

Odessa hosts gospel singer

ODESSA — Dino Kartsonakis, five-time winner of the Gospel Music Association's Dove Award, will appear in concert 7 p.m. Oct. 11, at Odessa's Crescent Park Baptist Church.

Kartsonakis has performed in Canada, Europe, the Orient and the United States. His more than 200 solo performances a year include a variety of piano classics, sacred hymns, contemporary Christian songs, as well as show tunes and popular music selections.

In addition to winning five Dove Awards, two Religion in Media Awards, and Grammy Award nominations, Kartsonakis has recorded over 20 albums, and currently records for the Benson Company. Three of those albums are "Chariots of Fire," "Majesty," and "Praise." He also has been chosen spokesperson for World Vision with Amy Grant and will tour Africa as part of his preparation to record an album for them with the London Philharmonic Orchestra.

The public is invited to the performance in Odessa.

'Gingerbrook Fare' slated

A performance of Agapeland's "Gingerbrook Fare" will be sponsored by Word of Life of Midland, 7 p.m. Wednesday at the Holiday Inn Convention Center.

"The whole family is sure to enjoy the slapstick comedy and hilarious antics of Gingerbrook Fare's singing, dancing, laughing clowns as they bring biblical truths to life," said a spokesman for Word of Life.

"These madcat students of Mik's Clown Training School are funny, heartwarming reminders that living by God's principles is the right thing to do. Gingerbrook Fare's main goal is to teach children positive character qualities through music and drama. The lessons include basic biblical principles of love and having a good heart.

Gingerbrook Fare is a production of the Agape Force and has performed at Disneyland and Circus World, Orlando, Fla. Other Agape Force creations include the inspirational children's albums "Music Machine" and "Bullfrogs and Butterflies," as well as the contemporary Christian music group Silverwind.

For more information call 699-5610 or 689-0255.

Church to 'likely' have women bishops

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The Episcopal Church will likely have women bishops in the near future, although they may hurt relations with the Catholic Church and even other Anglican groups, the national Episcopal leader says.

Presiding Bishop Edmond Browning said Thursday that women priests have been in the running in a couple of diocesan elections, and the selection of a woman bishop probably is only a matter of time.

"It would be unrealistic to say it's not going to hinder" relations with the Catholics and Anglicans outside the United States, Browning told the San Antonio Light.

"But I'm hopeful that over a period of time, there will be a growing understanding and acceptance of women as bishops," said Browning, who was in town recently for the annual meeting of the House of Bishops.

The start of the bishops' conclave coincides with the final day of the annual synod of the American Episcopal Church, a small breakaway group.

Pope John Paul II recently sent a letter to the Archbishop of Canterbury expressing "grave concerns" about the prospect of women Episcopal bishops.

At a worldwide conference in June in Toronto, Anglican bishops from nations that have not voted to ordain women also said the selection of female bishops could strain relations.

The bishops are scheduled to discuss the issue.

A native of Corpus Christi, Browning was elected presiding bishop in September 1985. He has a reputation as an outspoken advocate on social and political issues, especially for ending apartheid in South Africa and limiting the arms race.

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Once you reach an agreement with your boss or a family member, money matters should take care of themselves. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your desire for a special relationship grows stronger today. Curb a tendency to be extravagant. You need to put more cash in the bank.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Do those things that will put you in charge of a situation or event. Your endurance makes you a good camping or mountain-climbing partner. Be affectionate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You may have to give in to an older family member in order to restore peace at home. Try not to act resentful. Put romance on the back burner for now.

WATCHES

Mr. Sears and Mr. Roebuck got together because of a classified ad!

In the late 1800's, Richard W. Sears had a pretty good business going selling watches and needed someone to handle his watch repairs. He placed a classified ad in the newspaper and Alvah C. Roebuck got the job. That's how the nation's biggest retailer got started... through a classified ad!

O'Neill says he's going to miss public life

O'Neill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thomas P. O'Neill, retiring this week after a decade as speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives and 50 years in office, says he's going to miss his public life.

"Do I like the status? The 'Hey, Tip, how are you?' Of course I like it," he said Friday in an interview on NBC's "Today" show. "I'll miss it too. I hope it just doesn't evaporate because I'm no longer speaker."

O'Neill said he is stepping down to give others a chance in the office.

"When I was on the rise, I used to say, 'How long is old Carl Albert or old Sam Rayburn going to stay around? You know, anybody going to get a break?'" he said.

"I just said to myself one day, 'You know, it's high time for you to step aside and show some loyalty to some people who've been loyal to you.' That's why I made the decision," he said.

Taylor

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Elizabeth Taylor's pain from a tooth extraction and television star Heather Thomas' swollen knee will keep the celebrities hospitalized through the weekend, doctors said Friday.

Miss Taylor, hospitalized last week because of severe pain and infection from the extraction, was still in too much pain to be released Friday from the Hospital of the Good Samaritan, said her publicist, Cheri Sam.

"She's in satisfactory condition but she's in considerable pain," Ms. Sam said. "She will be hospitalized at least until Monday."

At St. John's Hospital in nearby Santa Monica, Ms. Thomas was in good condition making "remarkable progress" following surgery for injuries suffered when she was struck by a car on Sept. 16, hospital spokesman Armen Markarian said.

"Her doctors plan no further surgery and at her current rate of progress they are hopeful she will be released at the end of next week," Markarian said.

Ms. Thomas co-starred in the canceled television series "The Fall Guy."

Miss Taylor stars with Robert Wagner in Sunday's ABC-TV movie "There Must Be a Pony," in which she plays a faded film star trying to make a comeback with the help of a younger lover.

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP) — President Reagan wants to meet the 8-year-old boy who used the Heimlich maneuver to dislodge a piece of pork chop from his baby sitter's throat.

Scott Hoffman Jr. received a letter from the White House this week praising him for his quick thinking and asking him to make the visit.

"This is just wild," said Scott Hoffman Sr., the boy's father.

The youngster learned how to perform the lifesaving measure last year at school. He put it to use last month when his baby sitter, Geraldine Shank, began choking on a piece of meat. He hit her between the shoulder blades, then wrapped his arms around her and pushed his fist under her rib cage, dislodging the food particle.

"I'm just so excited," said Sally Snowberger, the teacher who taught Scott's class how to perform the Heimlich maneuver last year. "I was really wanting and hoping that Scott would get recognition from the president."

Ms. Snowberger was invited to accompany Scott to the White House.

HONOLULU (AP) — Famed flamenco guitarist Carlos Montoya will keep to his concert schedule despite injuries he suffered during a performance Wednesday night in Reno, Nev., an official says.

The 82-year-old Montoya received a cut to his left leg and assorted bruises when he fell more than five feet off a darkened area of the stage, according to John F. Leonard, a spokesman for Friday night's Honolulu concert.

The accident occurred as Montoya was leaving the Reno stage for an intermission, Leonard said.

Montoya returned to complete his performance after being examined by three doctors from the audience, he said.

KILGORE, Texas (AP) — Mrs. Lyde Williford Devall, a former University of Texas regent and newspaper executive, died Friday at a hospital in Tyler after suffering a stroke on Monday.

She was 76.

Mrs. Devall served on the first Texas Commission on Higher Education and as a member of the board of regents. She was a member of the UT Development Board.

In addition, she served as a member of the State Democratic Executive Committee.

Mrs. Devall was acting publisher of the Kilgore News Herald, Mount Vernon Optic-Herald, Morris County News and Hughes Springs New Era while her husband was serving in the Navy in World War II.

The Devalls owned the Kilgore News Herald from 1949-79.

Mrs. Devall also was active in fund-raising efforts for Houston's M.D. Anderson Hospital.

She also taught at Highland Park High School for six years.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Rader Funeral Home.

She is survived by her husband, Charles B. Devall, and one sister.

"The blue of her eyes and the gold of her hair
Are a blend of the western sky
And the moonlight beams on the girl of my dreams
She's the Sweetheart of Sigma Chi."

ALBION, Mich. (AP) — She was the coolest coed, the frat's meow, a mythic queen of the campus.

She supposedly inspired two Sigma Chi brothers to pen perhaps the most famous fraternity theme, tapping out the tune on an Albion College organ 75 years ago.

But "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" may not have been a real woman. She may not have been any sort of woman.

"The author once said that the 'sweetheart' was the fraternity itself," said Kim Straffie, alumni director at Albion. "That kind of burst the bubbles of some gals who thought it was written for them."

Albion College today will honor the song written by alums Byron D. Stokes, who composed the words during class, and F. Dudleigh Vernor, who put them to music later that same day in 1911.

About 200 fraternity members and a dozen "sweethearts" elected by the chapter through the years are to attend a series of events culminating with a mass "Sweetheart" serenade at halftime of the homecoming football game.

The song had been composed by Stokes and Vernor merely to mark the local Sigma Chi chapter's 25th anniversary. But other chapters nationwide began clamoring for copies, and it soon was adopted by the national fraternity.

"I think it helped give us the name recognition that made this fraternity one of the most popular in the world," said William T. Bringham Sr., executive director of the national Sigma Chi chapter in Evansville, Ill.

Bringham said the song remains popular among the fraternity's 150,000 members.

Mexico rescue package could leadto loans to other debtor nations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The heads of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund said Friday that a $12 billion rescue package for Mexico should open the way for loans to other debtor nations, but possibly not at such generous terms.

Bank President Barber Conable and IMF Managing Director Jacques de Larosiere both called the Mexican loan agreement a successful first test of the year-old plan by Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III to alleviate Third World debt.

"If we had not had a Mexican package, it would have been a major setback," Larosiere told a news conference at the conclusion of the week-long joint annual meeting of the two international organizations.

And Conable told reporters the accord proved that commerical banks, which had previously voiced reluctance toward lending more money in Latin America, where total foreign debt is close to $400 billion, were willing to cooperate.

"If it had not been successful, people would have drawn very negative conclusions about the Baker initiative," Conable said.

Mexico is one of 15 nations that Baker's $29 billion, three-year loan strategy was aimed at helping. The plan calls for $20 billion of the money to come from commercial banks. To receive the loans, countries would have to take steps to make their economy more market-oriented.

Other debtor nations are expected to seek the same kind of terms that Mexico negotiated with commercial banks, the World Bank and the IMF.

4-H scholarship recipient's life greener in agriculture

By FRANK SMITH

DORCHESTER (AP) — Brad Schnitker has won more than $10,000 in college scholarships the old-fashioned way — he's earned them.

With an $8,000 4-H Club scholarship from the San Antonio Livestock Exposition, a $2,000 award from the Texas Independent Cattlemen's Association and another scholarship from the Grayson County Extension Homemakers, the 18-year-old's future looks bright. But that bright future and those impressive awards were earned through a long and distinguished 4-H career that Brad first embarked on at age 9.

He followed his older sister Becky, who established an outstanding 4-H career in her own right. Since then, he has amassed a slew of awards, including the top three 4-H county awards. In addition, Brad currently serves at the highest 4-H level in the state as one of 27 members on the state council. He represents an 18-county district.

But scholarships and recognition haven't been the only benefits Brad has received through 4-H.

"The things that you gain from 4-H that you really don't gain from other things are that you get a slice of everything, a cross-section of everything," he says. "You'll meet friends from all over — and close friends, ones that'll stay with you."

He adds that his 4-H experiences have aided him in communicating and in public speaking skills.

Brad, who graduated from S&S High School in May, says he plans to attend Texas A&M University as a member of the Corps of Cadets and major in agricultural journalism. He says he'd like to be a field representative for an agricultural or stock show journal, adding that modern agricultural technology particularly interests him.

"Most people when they consider ag, they think about farming," Brad says. But that's only part of the picture now, he says.

"I mean there's so many neat things going on now that people don't even understand about agriculture," he says. "A lot of it is more science than anything."

One such advance he points to is the successes of embryo transplanting in cattle.

"They're almost to the point where they can almost produce a perfect animal..." he says. "And they can split the embryotic sac, take part of it out and route it in another embryotic sac and make twins and triplets — they know how to do all that...

"And you can take embryos and freeze them in liquid nitrogen and they can keep. Right now they don't know how long they can keep. (But) the ones that were frozen back in the '30s when they first discovered all this stuff were still good."

Much of Brad's agricultural education has come from working on his parents' farm outside of Dorchester. That's where he's been putting in 12-hour days this summer, working with the cattle and hogs and combining wheat. The combine harvester, like the tractor, is something with which he's become quite familiar.

"I've been doing this since I was 10 years old," he says. "I've put many hours in on a tractor already in my lifetime."

A brief tour around part of the farm reveals a small sampling of Brad's work. There's the trimming chute that he just finished building this spring. And there's the ramp he built where one of the calves is being kept.

"We're trying something new," he explains. "We have a ramp and a feeder set up and he has to climb up the ramp to eat. That way he'll build up maybe some thicker muscle and a thicker rump."

Brad has shown 15 steers at contests in the last eight years. Most, he says, aren't shown until they're about 18 months old.

"You usually keep a steer almost a year and you just have to go all the way through halter breaking and haying it down and feeding it properly," he says. "And there's a lot of fitting and grooming as far as training the hair to go all the same way."

Brad's mother, JoAnn, says the discipline 4-H'ers need to develop to stick with their work depends largely on parents.

"They see that the kids get their things done — like the record books here," she says. "They have to have the parents nagging them on everything on their projects because if you don't have your parents giving direction, sometimes they don't want to go down there and feed those animals and wash that hog flat. You've got to stay on them till they get in the habit of doing it."

Mrs. Schnitker and her husband, Bob, have been involved in 4-H for more than 11 years now, and currently serve as club managers of their local 42-member S&S Cloverleaf club. The local club meets monthly, though usually not during the summer, conducts regular business meetings, holds covered-dish suppers every other month, and hosts an annual livestock show in Dorchester.

"The parents," Brad says, "are what makes the 4-H Club."

Tammera Dean, Grayson County 4-H extension agent, says the Schnitkers' strong support enabled their children to achieve outstanding success.

Craftsman's saddles tooled to rider, horse

Joe Miller, 49, works on a saddle recently, in his Rosebud, Texas, shop. For nearly 30 years Miller has combined his knowledge of horses and leathercraft to create beautiful and practical saddles.

By CRAIG RENFRO

ROSEBUD, Texas (AP) — Whether you are interested in having a saddle fit for a king or just one for a reserve champion horse, chances are that Joe Miller can create a leather masterpiece that will suit your needs.

And for nearly 30 years, Miller has combined his knowledge of horses and leather craft to create lasting pieces of art that are not only beautiful but practical.

Miller, 49, of Rosebud, began making leather wallets and belts in high school. He made his first saddle in 1957 as a present for his father.

What began as an interest in leather tooling soon blossomed into a full-time business. Miller began making saddles for his friends, selling them at no more than the cost of materials in order to gain experience, he said.

Miller quickly gained a reputation for leather expertise and decided to open his first saddle shop in 1962 in Huntsville. The shop remained open for five years, and Miller prided himself in his workmanship.

"Everything I do is self-taught," Miller said. "I never apprenticed, but I learn from everyone I come in contact with."

Miller then worked for two years for the Glennloch Farms Arabian horse ranch in Spring. It was at the ranch, Miller said, that he was introduced to the style of saddle he now makes. Miller credits Tom McNair, horse trainer for the ranch, as being instrumental in developing this style.

A superior quality saddle is a necessity for training show horses, Miller said. The horse and rider must become as one, he said. Most people think horses are directed by the rider's hands, he said. But for show horses, movement is controlled by the rider's legs, and the closer the rider and saddle conform to the horse, the more control the rider has, Miller said.

Miller left Glennloch Farms to open a landscaping business in Houston, although he continued to make saddles in his spare time. After five years in the landscaping business, Miller decided to devote full time to saddlemaking. He moved to Rosebud in 1974.

"I've continuously had saddles to make," Miller said. "Ever since I've been here, we've never been out of saddle orders."

Considering the amount of time that is required to produce one, it is no wonder that Miller stays busy.

The basic saddle requires about 25 hours of work, he said. The more exquisitely designed saddles can take up to 100 hours, he said.

"We put out about 25 to 30 saddles a year," Miller said. "It depends on how ornate they are as to how many we turn out."

The procedure begins with a rawhide-covered pine tree base, he said. The base is soaked in water, and when dried, it shrinks by a third.

"This is what gives the saddle its strength," Miller said.

After the base dries, eight layers of hand-fitted leather are used at the front of the saddle to help build the seat, he said.

Miller buys his leather from a company in Dallas, Ore., he said, because it tans its leather in the old-fashioned way.

"They don't use any shortcuts," he said. "They've been using the same process of tanning since the 1870's."

The process provides a more supple saddle and allows the rider to conform to the horse, Miller said, as well as giving the rider more comfort.

"This is just one of the things that makes our saddles a little unique," Miller said.

The leather layers are fitted wet, Miller said. If the saddle is to be leather-tooled, sufficient time must be allowed for the leather to dry.

After the leather has dried, Miller will design a one-of-a-kind pattern that is different for each saddle he makes. The leather then is conditioned and stained for durabilty.

The saddle then is ready to be assembled. The horn is sewn in by hand, and cantle binding is stitched around the edge of the saddle to provide extra strength.

The final process involves attaching the stirrups to the saddle, Miller said.

Comic books capture more adult readers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Comic book characters who leap tall buildings and use phrases like "Leapin' lizards" are leapfrogging generations as they emerge from a child's world to attract grownups and fatten their bank accounts.

They carry enough weight to support at least a couple of comic book specialty stores in Columbus.

The books have turned a new page in their 50-year history and are capturing more adult readers with improved plots and lucrative trading values, the experts say.

"Comic books have grown up," said Wrich Printz, manager of Wizard of Comics. "Interest in comics is increasing, and the books are far more respectable than they've ever been."

Comic books started as advertisements during the Depression. In those tough times, Americans looked to superheroes such as Superman and Batman.

"Superman possessed tremendous strength," Printz said. "And nothing less than a bursting shell could pierce his skin."

Superman and Batman once were hot-tempered guys. Superman pushed villains off buildings to induce confessions, and he loved to scare Lois Lane by dropping and then catching her.

Batman was less subtle. He sometimes carried a machine gun.

Violence in comics was criticized in the early 1950s, prompting the industry to adopt a code which forbade portraying the living dead, crooked cops, evil heroes, drug abuse and sex.

The rules lasted only until mid-1970s when new publishing companies began opening up. Today's liberated characters are more human, and some of the old sock has returned. One of the new books, Batman, The Dark Knight Returns, portrays a tarnished crime fighter who clutches the bottle as much as the Bat Phone.

Robin has been killed. A female version replaces him. This Batman is described as a danger to Gotham City.

"In my gut," Batman says, "the creature writhes and snarls and tells me what to do."

This new realism is revitalizing the comic book, Printz said.

"Comic books now are miniature magazines that have a lot of entertainment in them. If you enjoy escapism, if you liked Star Wars, Star Trek and Rambo, you'll like most of today's comics.

"And if you like Socrates, Shakespeare and opera, there are comic books that will appeal to you."

Woman weightlifts body, builds a dream

GREENSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Six days a week, Mary Kastanek rises at 5:30 a.m. to chase a dream.

By 6 a.m., she has begun her morning routine — 20 minutes of running followed by 20 minutes of bicycling, followed by a series of abdominal exercises.

She's at work by 8 a.m. A meter reader for a local water company, Kastanek spends roughly five hours of every workday on her feet, walking. At 4:30 p.m., she heads for the gym and a two-hour workout with weights.

Day by day, muscle by muscle, Kastanek chases her dream of becoming a professional bodybuilder.

Kastanek was introduced to the sport of bodybuilding four years ago by her future husband, Eric. At first, she started going to the gym "just to spend time with him." She soon found weightlifting appealing as well.

Weightlifting was a way to build her upper body strength. She had to learn not to offer advice if she saw someone doing a lift incorrectly.

"A guy will not ask or take advice from a female," she said. "I have learned that I don't go up and correct them."

Still, Kastanek considers herself an equal in the gym.

"I'm not a big equal rights person, but I'm equal in the gym," she said. "I don't claim to be as strong as a man. I know my limitations."

Those limitations would be the envy of many. The 24-year-old can benchpress 150 pounds, deadlift 275 pounds and squat 275 pounds. Her upper body strength now matches her lower body strength. And the strength comes in handy at times, she says, like when the Kastaneks moved into their home recently.

But Kastanek is going for more than strength. A year ago, she began competing in local bodybuilding competitions. A number of trophies scattered about the Kastanek home attest to her success.

Claiborne requests full impeachment trial on Senate floor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Imprisoned federal Judge Harry E. Claiborne, described as a hard-working "salt-of the earth individual," has asked for a full impeachment trial on the Senate floor, not the abbreviated procedure envisioned by the House.

In motions filed with the Senate by the Nevada judge's attorney, released Friday, the House was accused of attempting an "end run" by asking the full Senate to reach a verdict without calling any new witnesses.

The House, which acts as a prosecutor in presenting the case for removal of Claiborne from office, has asked the Senate for a verdict solely on the basis of the judge's conviction for income tax evasion.

An unprecedented 12-member Senate impeachment committee has heard seven days of testimony in the first phase of the trial, and then turned the transcript over to the full Senate for a verdict.

The Senate is expected to conduct a trial next week, although Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., said there is some sentiment to postpone the proceedings until next year.

"The record clearly shows that Judge Claiborne is a hard-working, no-nonsense, salt-of-the-earth individual," said the legal brief filed by Claiborne attorney Oscar Goodman.

Judge Claiborne is asking for nothing more than an opportunity to be heard, completely, by a court of impeachment made up of fair and just members of the Senate."

Goodman, as he did before the impeachment committee, contended that Claiborne's conviction resulted from a vendetta by government prosecutors. Errors on his tax returns were blamed on hired tax preparers.

A motion by the House, meanwhile, asked the Senate to convict Claiborne.

"An individual who has been convicted of a felony, in a proceeding that was fair and supported by overwhelming evidence, does not deserve to be a federal judge," the House brief said.

"Judge Harry E. Claiborne is, and will remain forever, a convicted felon — a man who cannot legitimately preside over judicial proceedings, who cannot fairly pass judgment on other persons, and who cannot hope to maintain the trust and the respect of the American people.

"He has earned a mark of infamy, which the evidence proves is sadly but unequivocally deserved."

Von Bulow files $20-millionsuit in reaction to suit filed by stepson

NEW YORK (AP) — Claus von Bulow, whose stepchildren filed a civil lawsuit against him last year after the Danish socialite was acquitted of trying to kill their mother, has replied with a $20 million federal countersuit.

Last year a Rhode Island jury cleared von Bulow of causing the seizures that rendered his wealthy wife, Martha "Sunny" von Bulow comatose in 1979 and in 1980. She recovered from the first coma but doctors say the second is irreversible.

Von Bulow was convicted of attempted murder in 1982 but the verdict later was reversed and he was acquitted after a second trial in 1985.

Mrs. von Bulow's children by a previous marriage, Alexander Auersperg and Annie Laurie Auersperg Kniessel, filed a $56 million civil suit on her behalf last year after their stepfather's second trial.

The two stepchildren, who bankrolled an investigation that led to the criminal charges against von Bulow, renewed their claims in the federal civil suit that he tried to murder his wife with insulin injections.

But von Bulow mounted his own lawsuit late Thursday, seeking damages "believed to exceed $20 million."

The suit names only Auersperg as a defendant and claims he, "possibly, in concert with others, perpetrated a fraud of which von Bulow was the intended victim."

Auersperg's attorney Michael Armstrong, expressed surprise when contacted for comment on the lawsuit.

"That's interesting. I haven't seen it. I guess I can't very well comment on something I haven't seen," said Armstrong.

Von Bulow's lawsuit claimed Auersperg sought to injure him and to deprive von Bulow of his rights to his wife's assets.

Von Bulow stands to inherit $14 million of his wife's $75 million estate.

Besides asking $56 million in damages, the stepchildren's suit seeks to void von Bulow's interest in the estate and force him to repay anything he got from his wife, the heiress to a Pittsburgh utilities fortune, since her first coma.

Reached at his apartment, von Bulow declined to comment on his lawsuit. His attorney, Harold Tyler, was out of town Friday.

Auersperg and his sister later issued a statement through their attorney, which claimed the lawsuit was another delaying tactic for von Bulow who has gotten the sworn statement he is required to make for their lawsuit delayed several times.

In a related development, their stepsister, Cosima von Bulow, moved in court to break their grandmother's $100 million will.

Miss von Bulow, the only child Claus and Sunny had together, said she was disinherited because she sided with her father when he was charged with trying to kill her mother.

Miss von Bulow, 19, said her grandmother, Annie Laurie Aitken, "was not competent to make a will in that she was not at that time of sound mind and memory..."

Miss von Bulow said her stepsister and stepbrother had poisoned Mrs. Aitken's mind against her and her father.

Mrs. Aitken died in May 4, 1984, at age 86, leaving close to $100 million. Her last will, drafted Nov. 4, 1982, excluded Miss von Bulow "for what I consider good and sufficient reasons."

That will left her husband, Russell Aitken, one-third of the estate, with the other two-thirds to go to von Auersperg and Miss Kneissl.

In a will executed seven months earlier on April 14, 1982, Miss von Bulow would have shared equally in the other two-thirds, receiving about $22 million.

Army discharges female MPs because of alleged lesbianism

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Eight female military police officers at West Point were given less-than-honorable discharges from the Army because of alleged homosexual activity, a U.S. Military Academy official said Friday.

West Point spokeswoman Andrea Hamburger said the women, who were among 27 women in the 143-member MP corps at West Point, were given general discharges during the summer.

West Point discharged the women under a military law that forbids homosexuality in the U.S. Armed Forces.

The women contended that they were threatened with dishonorable discharges or imprisonment during an investigation preceding the discharges, the Middletown Times Herald-Record reported. The academy would not comment on the investigation.

Two of the MPs denied they are lesbians, the Times Herald-Record said.

The newspaper quoted unidentified military sources as saying one of the women, a 31-year-old divorced mother of two, tried to kill herself with a drug overdose after her discharge. The woman denied she is a lesbian, the paper said. It did not identify her.

Six of the women admitted they are lesbians, but said their sexual orientation did not affect their work, the Middletown newspaper reported.

Col. John P. Yeagley, another public affairs officer for the academy, said when questioned Friday about whether the women's alleged sexual activities affected their work, "That's not the question. The question is, you may not practice homosexuality and be in the Army."

Bart Stichman, a lawyer for Vietnam Veterans of America, said that the Army sometimes violates court rulings when applying the homosexuality law.

"The courts have ruled that you can't give a less than honorable discharge unless the homosexuality interfered with the performance of their duty," he said. "The Army ignores that."

Some of the women said their less-than-honorable discharges will damage their chances of establishing new careers. Three of the women said they would seek to have their discharges upgraded.

"It keeps me from getting a job," says Tina J. Skinner, a former MP from Rock Falls, Ill. "I can't even get unemployment (benefits) because of the reasons I got kicked out."

"It's going to put a bind on me becoming a policeman," said Lisa Schwartz, 23, of Houston, who has denied being a homosexual.

A general discharge "means you served, but you did something that didn't quite merit an honorable discharge," said Maj. Patrick Cooney, the assistant public affairs officer at West Point. "A dishonorable discharge means you've done something probably of a criminal nature."

He the women had not served long enough to accrue benefits.

In 1985, all branches of the Armed Services discharged 1,648 people because of homosexuality. More than 1,000 of those were given honorable discharges.

Priests to be able to give absolution for abortion

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — The bishop who excommunicated Rhode Island's leading pro-choice activist is allowing priests to offer absolution on their own initiative to Roman Catholics who have had or performed abortions.

In a pastoral letter issued Thursday, Bishop Louis E. Gelineau said that during October, priests would not have to ask him before forgiving women, their relatives, doctors and others who want to repent following "the sin of abortion." He said the unusual move was an attempt to highlight the church's "Respect Life" month.

But Mary Ann Sorrentino, the excommunicated director of Rhode Island Planned Parenthood, said Friday that Gelineau's gesture was a transparent, political move to influence a vote on a proposed anti-abortion amendment.

Ordinarily, priests must write or call the bishop to ask absolution for an anonymous pentinent. Although the procedure is relatively routine and simple, it requires people to wait and see the priest twice.

Giving priests the power of absolution in abortion cases is not without precedent. Last month, Archbishop Edward A. McCarthy of the Miami archdiocese said about 1.1 million Roman Catholics in South Florida who have had abortions or assisted in performing them could be granted absolution without seeking special permission for the next year.

Mrs. Sorrentino, whose ouster from the church made her a national spokeswoman on the church-abortion issue, said she is "delighted if the bishop's statement brings comfort to any Catholics who may have been feeling any distress about their past abortion experience."

But the move, she said, appears to be an attempt to influence the Nov. 4 vote on a proposed amendment that would automatically outlaw most abortions if states are ever given that power. The proposal has stirred heated debate around the state, but polls show Rhode Islanders are overwhelmingly against it.

Gelineau referred to the amendment at the start of his pastoral letter, saying the issue has given him "occasion to study and pray about God's great gift of life." Gelineau is the only Rhode Island religious leader to come out in favor of the anti-abortion amendment.

"During this month of October, I ask that all of us in the Church of Providence reach out to those wo are suffering the pain and alienation because of abortion," he wrote.

"Encourage them to rid themselves of guilt and enjoy the peace that is found in God's mercy and forgiveness," the letter said.

Mrs. Sorrentino said the bishop and other church officials are apparently under the mistaken impression that women who have had abortions "are beating their breasts afterward in guilt. That's just not the reality."

LET'S TALK REAL ESTATE...

Recently I've written on Langston Monarch's commitment to growth and expansion, a reflection, we hope, of the future for all of us in Midland as well as the city itself.

These commitments included:
- A 30% increase in sales associates
- An expanded Corporate/Relocation Service Department
- A new listing/sales processor
- A new training director
- A new corporate caller
- An expanded market share

And now we are happy to add two more

Our own in-office mortgage program for transferees. It is backed by the strength of the prestigious Prudential Insurance Company; applications are simple and quick, and can be made even on weekends; approvals are usually obtained in only 14 days; rates are competative! Another "first" for Langston Monarch.

An effective, comprehensive warranty program that covers the property not only for the buyer during the crucial first year, but also covers the property for the seller during the marketing period. And, unbelievably the reasonable cost of the warranty policy is not charged until a sale of the property is sold!

Do call us for more details on these exciting new programs!

Joanne Langston
