Around Town

ONE BAD MORNING – The driver of this red Saturn, Elizabeth Leach, ran off into the creek on Business I-20 across from the Mitchell County Ag Barn Tuesday morning. Leach was transported to Mitchell County Hospital's emergency room, and a helicopter was called in for a possible transport to Lubbock.

One injured in Bus. I-20 wreck

Tuesday morning, around 8:30 or so, Elizabeth Leach was driving eastbound coming down the west hill on Business I-20 when she lost control of her car and it ended up flipping off the culvert into a creekbed on the north side of the road.

Colorado City firefighters came to Leach's rescue, using the Jaws of Life to get her out of her red four-door Saturn. A medical helicopter was called in to transport Leach to Lubbock, but she was transported by Mitchell County EMS to Mitchell County Hospital's emergency room. The helicopter went to the hospital, but Leach was transported to Lubbock by ambulance.

Her sister, Jennifer Wright of Westbrook, said that as of Tuesday evening, Leach was in surgical ICU in Lubbock with a damaged aorta and broken bones in hr right leg.

"As for Mitchell County Hospital, I sure am thankful they were there," Wright said.

Leach is from Westbrook and works at Fuller Foods. She is the daughter of Sara Petty.

CISD board of trustees hires new MS principal

Monday evening, the Colorado ISD school board hired Robby Russell, principal at Lueders-Avoca, to replace Mark Merrell as principal at Colorado Middle School. Merrell will be moving to high school to fill the shoes of retiring Principal Dalton West. Allison Alvarez, CMS language arts teacher, will take on the position of Assistant Principal at middle school and will retain some of her teaching duties as well.

Christy Harris was hired during the board's regular meeting to serve as counselor at Wallace High School, and Ryan Gainey will be teaching history at CMS starting this fall. Jordan Solis was hired as a high school English teacher, and Anita Alanbar will be teaching art.

Along with approving the new hires, the board of trustees accepted the resignations of Reggie Gardner, Eva Salinas and Nanette Mata.

It was announced in April that CISD would be the recipient of a prestigious $3.5 million federal grant through the U.S. Department of Labor. The Youth Career Connect grant was awarded to CISD by the Employment and Training Administration, and agency in the labor department, and will give Colorado High School students an opportunity to take part in classes and programs not previously offered to students.

Part of the school district's requirements that must be met for the grant include extensive data collection and reporting to the federal government. During the meeting, board members looked at proposals to provide the data collection and reporting services.

The board approved a bid by ACT Investments for $356,100, about 10% of the grant award, over the course of the four years of the grant. The company helped school officials write the grant application and are well-versed in the details of the requirements.

According to Marina Wilcox, high school counselor and grant coordinator, the company will compile, format and send in data for at least three comprehensive reports each quarter. Wilcox will travel with Shelia Redwine and Denise Farmer to Washington, D.C. this summer to accept the grant award on behalf of CISD.

The meeting went into closed session to discuss personnel matters, and when it reconvened in open session, raises were approved for CISD employees.

C-City man shot, killed in Snyder

According to the Snyder Police Department, Robert Silva, a 33-year-old from Colorado City, was shot at a motel in the 1000 block of 25th Street in Snyder Tuesday at approximately 4:50 p.m. He was transported by Snyder EMS to Cogdell Hospital where he was pronounced dead.

Shortly thereafter, at about 5 p.m., Snyder Police Investigator Mike Counts stopped a vehicle traveling north in the 200 block of N. Old Lubbock Hwy. for a traffic violation.

During the stop, it was discovered that the 28-year-old driver and 24-year-old passenger had been in an altercation at the motel where Silva had been shot.

Through futher investigation, the investigator identified the passenger, Nicole Mann of Snyder, as the person involved in the shooting.

Mann was arrested and booked into the Scurry County Jail for the murder of Silva.

Silva is the son of Edwina Silva.

Well bids awarded

County Commissioners accepted a bid by West Texas Water Well Services of Odessa to drill two more wells for the desalination plant. However, bids for the foundation, building and pipeline construction were rejected, and commissioners are now seeking a general contractor to complete the construction tasks, as recommended by Board of Economic Development representative Bobby Lemons.

WTWWS bid approximately $335,000 to drill two test wells to be used by the desalination plant. The wells must be drilled, because existing wells are producing water but not enough volume for processing by the plant.

The county will advertise for bids to hire a general contractor to construct buildings, fencing and piping for the project in hopes of cutting costs. Bids will

Sanctuary being built at historic church

PROUD HISTORY – Champion Baptist Church, located southwest of Roscoe, is getting a new sanctuary thanks to its congregation. Pastor Bruce Parsons said the church is trying to build with as little debt as possible.

One hundred years ago, West Texas was mostly prairie with few trees, according to old-timers, and dotted with dozens of small communities and one room churches five or ten miles apart.

Today, few of those communities and even fewer of the churches remain. Located slightly southwest of Roscoe, Champion Baptist Church continues to enjoy its 100 plus years of ministry; however, the original frame building will fall short of celebrating its 100th anniversary.

Constructed in 1916 for $500, the one room church building has undergone several renovations but can no longer compete with the ravages of time. The congregation voted to construct a new sanctuary in April 2013 and Mahaffey Construction commenced building later that year.

As it nears completion, the new steel frame sanctuary will seat 125 and be more energy efficient. Although construction costs have changed considerably in 100 years, the church is trying to build with as little debt as possible, according to Pastor Bruce Parsons.

"We're 70% on reaching our goal on financing the total sanctuary construction costs," said Randall Bankhead, great-grandson of one of the original founders, George M. Bankhead.

The new church will also feature a natural rock front, steeple, and copper plated cross. To preserve tradition and the church's history, the congregation will use the pews and podium from the old building, as well as many other fixtures.

The Mesquite Wing, which was added to the north side of the original building in 1952 after the closing of the Mesquite Church, also suffered severe structural issues and has been torn down to make additional space for parking during the construction phase.

According to the church history, "Champion Baptist Church has always been involved in various activities such as many revivals, the Cooperative Program, Vacation Bible Schools and different organizations within the church." Traditions started long ago and still practiced today include the annual Easter egg hunt, honoring mothers on Mother's Day, giving Bibles to graduating Highland seniors, and fifth Sunday dinners. The church is also very mission minded.

"The original minutes, all the way back in 1907, still exist," said Kimberly Cornutt Jones, former member and descendant of the original founders. "I feel as if I'm in the past when I read them, and it makes me proud to be a part of that history."

Of the church's 43 pastors, five attended the church's golden anniversary in 1957, and R. L. Bankhead, the only person present at the church's organization who was still living, gave the church history. Six pastors attended the church's 100th anniversary in 2007.

Wallace fundraiser is this Sunday's lunch

Volunteers at the Wallace Senior Center are always looking for ways to raise funds, since governmental budget cuts reduced assistance from the West Central Texas Council of Governments. This Sunday, June 15th, a fundraiser lunch will be held at the senior center, and everyone is urged to participate to help raise money for the center.

Roast beef, gravy, mashed potatoes, green beans, hot rolls, dessert, tea, coffee and water will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. on Sunday for $8 for adults and $5 for children 12 and under. Call-in and to-go orders can be placed by calling 325-728-1089.

The center relies heavily on donations from individuals, businesses, organizations, churches, groups, and a grant from the Texas Department of Agriculture. With continuing donations, the center will keep providing nutritious meals, health screenings, entertainment, health information and fellowship to seniors in the county.

The only requirement for participating is to be 60 years old, or in some cases, handicapped and unable to prepare meals. Citizens who are able are encouraged to come to the center, and others have meals delivered to their homes.

With the help of volunteers, meals are delivered to shut-ins within the county. IntegraCare Home Health nurses help with meal delivery, as well as perform health and fitness evaluations and in-house health checks at no charge.

In 2013, the Wallace Senior Nutrition Program provided 8,052 meals to seniors at the center and delivered 8,787 meals to those unable to leave their homes. To make a donation or for more information, call 325-728-1089.

MCHD earns Bronze Award for improvements

Mitchell County Hospital District has received the Texas Hospital Quality Improvement Bronze Award from TMF® Health Quality Institute, the Medicare Quality Improvement Organization for Texas. The Texas Hospital Quality Improvement Award program, sponsored by TMF, Texas Hospital Association and Texas Organization of Rural and Community Hospitals recognizes Texas hospitals that have undertaken quality initiatives to improve outcomes in patient care and improve their performance on specific national quality measures. This program was established in 2004 as a non-competitive recognition program designed to recognize exemplary outcomes achieved by hospitals statewide.

The 2014 Texas Hospital Quality Improvement Awards, based on achievements in 2012 and 2013, honor Texas hospitals that are performing quality initiatives aimed at improving outcomes in patient care by recognizing those hospitals that have improved their performance on specific national quality measures.

"We are proud to have achieved this recognition. Our success illustrates our commitment to patient safety and to delivering quality health care," said Robbie Dewberry, MCHD CEO. "It was a significant amount of work, but well worth it because it was the right thing to do for our patients."

Out of all 313 Inpatient Prospective Payment System (IPPS or Acute Care) Hospitals and 80 Critical Access Hospitals (CAH) statewide, 33 earned the Texas Health Hospital Quality Improvement Gold Award. The Silver Award went to 45 hospitals, and 57 hospitals earned the Bronze Award. Hospitals receiving these awards will be recognized at a special ceremony in Austin on June 11.

"TMF is proud to recognize these hospitals for promoting quality improvement activities and their senior management for promoting a quality culture," said Tom Manley, CEO of TMF Health Quality Institute. "Quality improvement is a complex and demanding process, and we thank Mitchell County Hospital District for their commitment to improving the health of Texans and the efficiency of health care in our state."

"Proven standards of care can save lives," said Robbie Dewberry, MCHD CEO. "We will continue to enhance our quality improvement efforts through our collaboration with partners and with TMF Health Quality Institute to ensure that every person gets the right care at the right time, every time."

For the award evaluation, CAHs (Critical Access Hospital's) were evaluated on the reporting of at least one Inpatient Quality Reporting (IQR) and Outpatient Quality Reporting (OQR) measure set, as well as the Appropriate Care Measure (ACM) score. The ACM for CAHs focused on indicators for heart failure and pneumonia. The ACM is a composite score that captures whether a patient received all the care he or she was eligible to receive. The ACM score is a measure of how often the hospital gets it right.

CAH Bronze Award winners were required to report at least one measure set for both IQR and OQR programs during the hospital award period (Q2 2012 through Q3 2013) and had to attain an aggregate ACM score of 80-89 percent on specified clinical measures focused on heart failure and pneumonia.

For more information on the awards program, see the TMF Health Quality Institute awards website at http://award.tmf.org.

TMF Health Quality Institute focuses on improving lives by improving the quality of health care through contracts with federal, state and local governments, as well as private organizations. For more than 40 years, TMF has helped health care providers and practitioners in a variety of settings improve care for their patients. www.tmf.org.

Bradury bullriding set for July 12th

The bulls will be bucking at the Kerry Bradbury Memorial Bullriding set for Saturday, July 12th at the Mitchell County Rodeo Arena. The annual event, sanctioned by World Senior Professional Bull Riders (WSPBR), will host over 20 senior pro bull riders.

Gates will open at 6 p.m. and action will kick off at 7 p.m. with mutton bustin for kids 8 years and under. Cost is $25 per rider, and entries will be taken on June 16th, 17th and 18th from 6 to 9 p.m. by calling 325-642-5130.

OPINION & COMMENTARY

TUMBLEWEED SMITH
The fireman poet of Eastland

"My dad wrote poetry and I guess it just came natural to me," says Sam Williams of Eastland. "When I'm inspired about something, I write it."Sam owns a construction company in Eastland, where he serves as a volunteer fireman. He remembers a poem handed down from generations of his family: "I had a mule. His name was Solemn Slick. All that I could dream was how that mule could kick. He could kick a feather from a dove or break an elephant's back. He backed up against the Rio Grande and kicked it off the track. Swam the Gulf of Mexico settin' on a log. Whipped a dozen Yankees and swallowed a yellow dog."

When I spoke at Eastland's chamber of commerce banquet this year, part of the program was an impressive ceremony recognizing the outstanding volunteer fireman of the year. It's called the Greg Simmons Meritorious Service Award, named for a member of the fire department who was fatally injured while fighting a fire.

"That's something we started after Greg's death," says Sam. "It was the first line of duty death the department had in its 107 year history. We wanted to memorialize that event and remember Greg, who he was and what he stood for. The award is a big deal for the honoree each year." Eastland County had a huge fire in April of 2011 that claimed Greg's life. He had 21 years of fire service. On a wall of the meeting room in the well-equipped Eastland fire department building is a poem Sam wrote about Greg, who sometimes was called Pudge. It's called THE LEGEND OF OLD PUDGE SIMMONS.

"In Southern Eastland County, way down Texas way, there blazed a dreadful fire one sunny April day. The heartless, mindless monster became a flaming sea, raging toward a road called 323. An urgent call went out and volunteers gave chase, to catch the fire's fury at that awful place. About a dozen firefighters braved the danger zone. Old Pudge Simmons led the attack driving 621. They fought the fire hard and much to their surprise, the monster cowered down, then flashed at twice its size. Choked by ash and embers, engulfed in smoky haze, fire trucks began to burn in the monstrous, brutal blaze. The flames grew swift and spread toward Gorman town. Engine 5 was full ablaze and Billy Don was down. Eastland's tanker was deep in danger when Honee climbed aboard. Inside its cab was far from safe. Outside the monster roared. Quickly sizing up the scene, as any hero would, Pudge left the safety of his truck to help them if he could. Tanker 6 could scarcely move, but Rayco coached it through. And a little push from Pudge finally saved the crew. Matt was not as tenured, as others there that day, and though severely burned, he never turned away. With a little help from Pudge, Matt rescued Billy Don and saved him from the fate reserved for only one. After all were saved, with nothing more to give, Greg suddenly missed the coat that might have helped him live. While it's natural to doubt that one man helped so many, those of us who knew him don't doubt it any. If you're a non-believer, who are we to judge? According to a witness, the credit goes to Pudge."

A pure miracle... from 1944

By Ernie Pyle

NORMANDY BEACHHEAD, June 12, 1944 – Due to a last-minute alteration in the arrangements, I didn't arrive on the beachhead until the morning after D-Day, after our first wave of assault troops had hit the shore.

By the time we got here the beaches had been taken and the fighting had moved a couple of miles inland. All that remained on the beach was some sniping and artillery fire, and the occasional startling blast of a mine geysering brown sand into the air. That plus a gigantic and pitiful litter of wreckage along miles of shoreline.

Submerged tanks and overturned boats and burned trucks and shell-shattered jeeps and sad little personal belongings were strewn all over these bitter sands. That plus the bodies of soldiers lying in rows covered with blankets, the toes of their shoes sticking up in a line as though on drill. And other bodies, uncollected, still sprawling grotesquely in the sand or half hidden by the high grass beyond the beach.

That plus an intense, grim determination of work-weary men to get this chaotic beach organized and get all the vital supplies and the reinforcements moving more rapidly over it from the stacked-up ships standing in droves out to sea.

Now that it is over it seems to me a pure miracle that we ever took the beach at all. For some of our units it was easy, but in this special sector where I am now our troops faced such odds that our getting ashore was like my whipping Joe Louis down to a pulp.

In this column I want to tell you what the opening of the second front in this one sector entailed, so that you can know and appreciate and forever be humbly grateful to those both dead and alive who did it for you.

Ashore, facing us, were more enemy troops than we had in our assault waves. The advantages were all theirs, the disadvantages all ours. The Germans were dug into positions that they had been working on for months, although these were not yet all complete. A 100-foot bluff a couple of hundred yards back from the beach had great concrete gun emplacements built right into the hilltop. These opened to the sides instead of to the front, thus making it very hard for naval fire from the sea to reach them. They could shoot parallel with the beach and cover every foot of it for miles with artillery fire.

Then they had hidden machine-gun nests on the forward slopes, with cross-fire taking in every inch of the beach. These nests were connected by networks of trenches, so that the German gunners could move about without exposing themselves.

Throughout the length of the beach, running zigzag a couple of hundred yards back from the shoreline, was an immense V-shaped ditch 15 feet deep. Nothing could cross it, not even men on foot, until fills had been made. And in other places at the far end of the beach, where the ground is flatter, they had great concrete walls. These were blasted by our naval gunfire or by explosives set by hand after we got ashore.

Our only exits from the beach were several swales or valleys, each about 100 yards wide. The Germans made the most of these funnel-like traps, sowing them with buried mines. They contained, also, barbed-wire entanglements with mines attached, hidden ditches, and machine guns firing from the slopes.

This is what was on the shore. But our men had to go through a maze nearly as deadly as this before they even got ashore. Underwater obstacles were terrific. The Germans had whole fields of evil devices under the water to catch our boats. Even now, several days after the landing, we have cleared only channels through them and cannot yet approach the whole length of the beach with our ships. Even now some ship or boat hits one of these mines every day and is knocked out of commission.

The Germans had masses of those great six-pronged spiders, made of railroad iron and standing shoulder-high, just beneath the surface of the water for our landing craft to run into. They also had huge logs

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letter to the Editor:

As you sit in your late model vehicle sailing down the highway at 85 mph, you ride a result of a century of evolution. A mechanical/electronic wonder. One which is impossible for intelligence to conceive of "cold turkey".

Improvements over last year's model are instilled, bit by bit, and evolution accumulates in a marvel elsewise impossible.

Now, turn the mirror to reflect a human which resulted from 3 1/2 billion years of evolution. A result of improvements over proceeding generations accumulating into a wonder of wonders. Not a "cold turkey" invention by a super intelligent designer.

Those beginnings and evolutions are a natural process. Nature is universal. The origin of which is not revealed.

It is reasonable that life began with the universe. Or that it did, as it did on earth, during its evolution (naturally). It is reasonable that life and its evolution is as eternal as the universe.

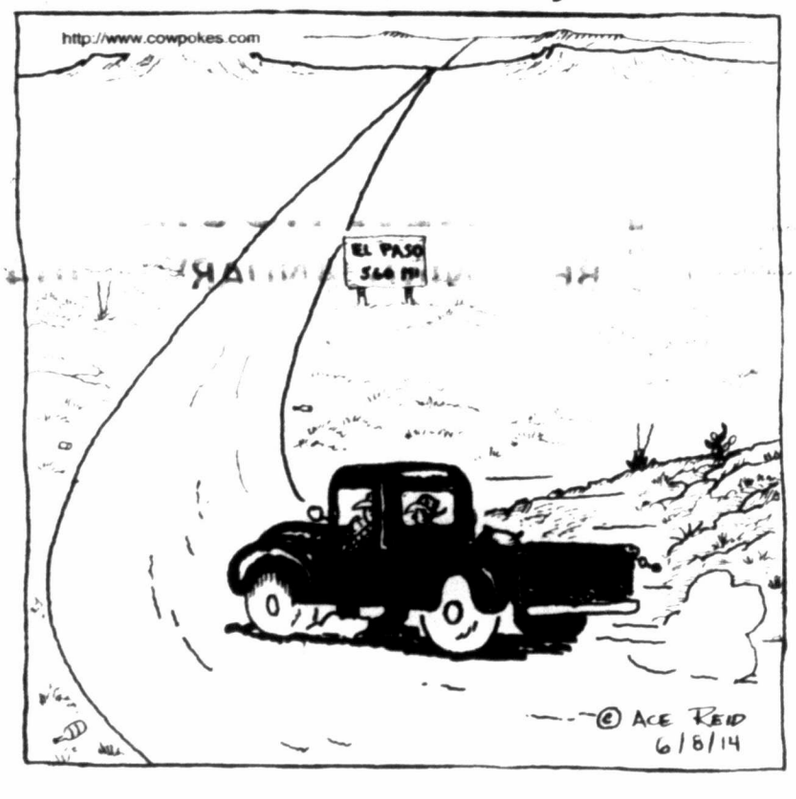

"Supernatural" is a word without substance.

"God" is a word with even less meaning.

Like our vehicles – we come and we go – new models take the road. We are a mere flicker on the progress of evolution. We could have missed the trip, we are infinitely fortunate. I do not complain or pretend there could be more. There is plenty to enjoy.

Teacher salaries will now begin at $3,000 above base pay, and hourly employees will receive their step increase plus 15 cents. Salaries for administrators and transportation employees will increase by 3%, and the food service director will also be put on a higher pay scale.

Charlie Price from Compass Builders attended the meeting and gave board members an update regarding ongoing construction. He said that renovations at high school started on June 2nd, and crews are putting in new ceiling tiles in the hallways. Construction began on the ceramic walls on Tuesday.

"It's going to look amazing when the students and teachers come back," he said. "We're kind of excited about that."

According to Price, rain has caused delays on construction of the K-8 campus and multi-purpose building. Work crews spent a couple of days pumping water and sand and rebuilding concrete forms destroyed by the rain. Despite the rain delays, concrete for the pre-k building was poured on Tuesday.

If there are no "major hiccups", Price said he expects steel to start going up on the multi-purpose building in August.

Grade point averages, or GPAs, will now be calculated differently at Colorado High School. Because courses were not weighted correctly in the past, rankings were sometimes difficult to decipher. The new weighting system approved by the board should help correct the problem. The weighting system will be sent to the Texas Association of School Boards for further approval.

The cost of full-pay student meals will see a slight increase in the coming school year. At Kelley and Hutchinson, the price will go up from $1.90 to $2 and from $1.95 to $2 at Colorado Middle School. At high school, meal prices will increase to $2.25, up from $2.20. Adult meals will cost $3.

Board members approved bids for food products as recommended by Food Service Director Pat White. Borden Dairy Co. of Texas, LLC, out of Dallas will continue to provide milk and dairy products to the district. White recommended the company due to the excellent service provided in the past. Fuller Foods will also continue to supply bread products.

In the administrator's report, Superintendent Reggy Spencer urged board members to make a trip out to high school as renovations progress. "The kids are going to say, 'That's where I want to go to school,'" Spencer said.

The board will meet again July 14th.

DESAL

be opened on July 14th.

Construction of the desalination plant is made possible by a $2.5 million grant from the Texas Department of Rural Affairs, and wording of the grant presents the county with a deadline to begin operations. Commissioners approved a resolution during their Monday meeting to request an extension from the agency, moving the original operation start date from August 31st of this year to August 31, 2015.

If the extension is granted, it will give the county and the BOED time to continue with construction. County officials are unsure of what will happen if the extension is not granted. It is feasible that the agency could ask for the grant money back, but no one thinks that will be the outcome. Martha Drake from Grantworks said her company is working with the Texas Department of Agriculture, which is now the grant provider, and the extension "looks promising."

In other business, Diane Terrell from Davis Kinard & Co., PC presented audit findings to the court. Terrell gave the county an unmodified, or clean, opinion, and also said there were no problems with internal control or compliance.

Payroll of $81,790.23 was approved as presented by County Treasurer Jennifer Rivera, and bills in the amount of $139,609.26 were approved to be paid as presented by County Auditor Heidi Harris.

Attorney Jeannie Fuller has volunteered and was approved to continue to be the county's representative on the Juvenile Probation Board. She will serve two more years, beginning September 1st.

New street lamp going in on Walnut

Members of the City Council of the City of Colorado City approved the installation of a street lamp in the 1700 block of Walnut, at the request of citizens.

City Manager David Hoover said there is a long block on Walnut Street, just north of 17th that is about 600 feet of darkness after sunset, and citizens living in that area have requested that a street light be installed. Council members must have agreed, because with little discussion the installation of the street light was approved unanimously.

The council accepted the resignation of Pat Parker from the Housing Authority Board, but no one was appointed to replace her. Parker cited getting busy with summer sports as her reason for resigning.

Mayor Jim Baum said he would contact the people at the Housing Authority to see if there has been any interest expressed by anyone to serve on the board. Anyone interested in serving is urged to contact city hall or the Colorado City Housing Authority.

During the police department report, CCPD Chief Luis Aguilar told council members that things ran steady in May. He said that overall, arrests are down, with the department making 18 arrests in May.

Aguilar said that though the number of arrests has decreased some, there have been some arrets made in higher profile cases recently. In May, CCPD took 407 calls for service and issued 76 citations.

Councilman Keith Hiser said that he has become aware that the police department is advertising for an employee in the animal control department. Aguilar said that current Animal Control Officer Jennifer Redwine has submitted her two weeks notice. She will be taking a job elsewhere.

A resolution was approved during the meeting which authorizes the city to continue participation with the Atmos Cities Steering Committee. Hoover said the committee is a watchdog group that keeps Atmos from price gouging small towns.

During the city manager's report, Hoover said the agreement for the first grant award has been signed by the city and forwarded on to Stripes. Once Stripes officials sign, the contract will go to the state for consideration.

The city's work toward getting ready for the Stripes Travel Center construction is already underway. Hoover said that the environmental studies have been completed and approved. Stripes representatives have said they would like to begin construction in the last quarter of the year.

USPS warns consumers of recent postal scam

The United States Postal Inspection Service is warning consumers about a nationwide scam to steal customers' personal information. The scam is being investigated by the Postal Inspection Service after receiving complaints from customers about fraudulent emails and phone calls.

Fraudsters, claiming to be USPS officials, say a package was unable to be delivered and attempt to gather the customer's personal information, according to a release from USPS.

The emails include a message related to an attempted delivery or intercepted package delivery and a customer is told to click the link or open an attachment and print the label, officials said. When opened a malicious virus is installed on the computer, which could steal personal identifiers of the customer and compromise the customer's information, the release said.

Criminals are also contacting potential victims via the phone, officials said. When contacted, the caller uses a similar approach, regarding an attempted or intercepted package delivery, and attempts to obtain the customer's information.

The Postal Inspection Service is warning customers to not give their information to the callers and instead contact their local post office to verify the phone call. They're also advising customers to avoid clicking the link or opening the attachment in the fraudulent emails and forward them to spam@usps.gov.

Incidents can also be reported to the postal inspection service at 877-876-2455.

MIRACLE

buried in the sand, pointing upward and outward, their tops just below the water. Attached to these logs were mines.

In addition to these obstacles they had floating mines offshore, land mines buried in the sand of the beach, and more mines in checkerboard rows in the tall grass beyond the sand. And the enemy had four men on shore for every three men we had approaching the shore.

And yet we got on.

Beach landings are planned to a schedule that is set far ahead of time. They all have to be timed, in order for everything to mesh and for the following waves of troops to be standing off the beach and ready to land at the right moment.

As the landings are planned, some elements of the assault force are to break through quickly, push on inland, and attack the most obvious enemy strong points. It is usually the plan for units to be inland, attacking gun positions from behind, within a matter of minutes after the first men hit the beach.

I have always been amazed at the speed called for in these plans. You'll have schedules calling for engineers to land at H-hour plus two minutes, and service troops at H-hour plus 30 minutes, and even for press censors to land at H-hour plus 75 minutes. But in the attack on this special portion of the beach where I am — the worst we had, incidentally — the schedule didn't hold.

Our men simply could not get past the beach. They were pinned down right on the water's edge by an inhuman wall of fire from the bluff. Our first waves were on that beach for hours, instead of a few minutes, before they could begin working inland.

You can still see the foxholes they dug at the very edge of the water, in the sand and the small, jumbled rocks that form parts of the beach.

Medical corpsmen attended the wounded as best they could. Men were killed as they stepped out of landing craft. An officer whom I knew got a bullet through the head just as the door of his landing craft was let down. Some men were drowned.

The first crack in the beach defenses was finally accomplished by terrific and wonderful naval gunfire, which knocked out the big emplacements. They tell epic stories of destroyers that ran right up into shallow water and had it out point-blank with the big guns in those concrete emplacements ashore.

When the heavy fire stopped, our men were organized by their officers and pushed on inland, circling machine-gun nests and taking them from the rear.

As one officer said, the only way to take a beach is to face it and keep going. It is costly at first, but it's the only way. If the men are pinned down on the beach, dug in and out of action, they might as well not be there at all. They hold up the waves behind them, and nothing is being gained.

Our men were pinned down for a while, but finally they stood up and went through, and so we took that beach and accomplished our landing. We did it with every advantage on the enemy's side and every disadvantage on ours. In the light of a couple of days of retrospection, we sit and talk and call it a miracle that our men ever got on at all or were able to stay on.

Before long it will be permitted to name the units that did it. Then you will know to whom this glory should go. They suffered casualties. And yet if you take the entire beachhead assault, including other units that had a much easier time, our total casualties in driving this wedge into the continent of Europe were remarkably low — only a fraction, in fact, of what our commanders had been prepared to accept.

And these units that were so battered and went through such hell are still right at this moment pushing on inland without rest, their spirits high, their egotism in victory almost reaching the smart-alecky stage.

Their tails are up. "We've done it again," they say. They figure that the rest of the army isn't needed at all. Which proves that, while their judgment in this regard is bad, they certainly have the spirit that wins battles and eventually wars.

Former and present coaches speak at Lions Club Friday

PASSING THE BATON – McMurry's Brad Parris (right) and Barbara Crousen came to Lions Club on Friday to announce that Parris will succeed Crousen as McMurry's head track and field coach.

Retiring McMurry University track and field coach Barbara Crousen along with Brad Parris, came to Colorado City last Friday to announce the change in leadership to local Lions. Crousen's impressive career led her to be the first-ever female, in any sport and at any level, to coach a men's team to an NCAA national championship.

Since taking over the track and field program at McMurry in 1998, Crousen has led the men's team to 14 consecutive American Southwest Conference titles. She was named the women's ASC Coach of the Year 10 times during her tenure.

No one attending the regular Lions Club meeting Friday would have known by what she said that Crousen's career was filled with accolades for the spectacular track and field program she has built at the Abilene university. She only spoke of what the student athletes had accomplished during her time at the school.

Crousen has officially handed over the reins of the program to her longtime assistant Brad Parris, who has worked in the same track program for 16 years. Parris made the announcement official with a press conference held last Thursday.

"How do you fill the shoes of a legendary coach?" Parris asked hypothetically. "Someone with 24 titles? You don't. You cannot fill the shoes of a legend. I plan to wear my own shoes."

Parris said that his number one priority at McMurry is to teach students about the Christian values upheld by the university. He said teaching college kids about service and values was what is most important.

"The university is gonna' give kids an opportunity to get a quality education," he said "and a chance to run track."

Parris' dad is a four-time national track champion, and his mom has worked for the university for 26 years. Parris said he watched the athletes work out from under the bleachers, and that's really where he got his start in the McMurry track and field program. He also said that he has two five-year-olds who will be doing the same thing soon.

FOUNDATION OF GOOD THINGS TO COME – Work crews from Beezley Development Inc. were working furiously to pour the foundations of the new CISD K-8 campus and multi-purpose building this week. Snyder resident has ties to Bergdahl incident

Many Americans have been surprised and dismayed by the release of Sgt. Bowe Bergdahl who allegedly abandoned his post and was taken captive by the Taliban five years ago. None have been more shocked by the release than Krisa Murphrey, whose brother, Michael, served with Bergdahl in the same division.

Bergdahl was released in exchange for five Taliban prisoners being held at Guantanamo Bay.

According to a story in the Snyder Daily News, Army Staff Sgt. Michael Murphrey graduated from Snyder High School and enlisted in the U.S. Army in 2003. He died on September 5, 2009, at the age of 25, from injuries sustained in an IED blast.

Krisa told SDN Staff Writer Art Benavidez that she is really shocked and angry about Bergdahl's release. "I think it was a bad choice on (President) Obama's end. My first thought was that I can't believe this guy is coming home after so many people have died looking for him. I'm very angry about it; everybody is. It's a sad situation," she said.

Army Staff Sgt. Michael Murphrey has been identified as one of six soldiers who died while searching for Bergdahl in hostile enemy territory. Krisa said that she had spoken to her brother about Bergdahl's decision to walk away from his post, and that he said Bergdahl walked out on his own free will.

While Bergdahl's decision to leave his post changed his division's orders, Krisa said her brother's death could not be directly linked to the desertion.

"My brother was killed on a humanitarian mission. But, indirectly, Bergdahl's desertion affected my brother's life because it changed military operations and tactics moving forward," she told Benavidez last week.

She went on to say that she hopes justice will be served to Bergdahl, because she believes he deserted his fellow soldiers.

Locating Seven Wells thanks to Google Earth

By Charles Earnest Porter

Well, we have finally gotten to the location of our remarks -- Seven Wells. But here also is the point where I tell you that I don't actually remember the last time that I was out at the area itself. My memory is still fairly excellent, but I just can't recall everything from my younger years. So I'm going to have to ask you to go to your electronic "helper" Google Earth and call up "Colorado City, TX" on it. Go east to the cemetery, then follow Hwy. 208 down south for about 7 miles. When you hit CR 2319 coming in from the east and you are between the two Champion Creek bridges crossing Hwy. 208, you should be just east of an upside-down teardrop -- just east of Seven Wells.

Are you there? Enlarge the picture so that the light-colored sandstone area is larger and in the center of the picture. I want you to notice that the watercourse of South Champion is darker (wider and deeper) than that of North Champion. A geologic estimate -- South Champion has been around for a longer period of time. If you "blank out" the course of North Champion in your mind, the turn of South Champion to the west makes quite logical sense -- the sandstone body has forced the creek to turn. This earlier turn caused a deeper "gorge" to form, which is where the numerous "wells" are located, the result of swirling waters in the narrow gorge.

At a later time-point, the waters of North Champion hit the sandstone body and its course was directed southwest, forming a parallel channel. Its waters cut a channel until it intersected with the South Champion body. The combined branches' volume created the open area for the larger body of water to the west.

What do I remember from the early 1930s?

On one of our All Saints Episcopal outings, we drove out onto the fairly flat sandstone surface until we neared the North Concho fork. There were three or four rough lumber tables sitting there where picnic baskets could be unloaded. There was a plain lumber bridge -- with handrails -- across the North Concho, where you could look down on intricately carved sandstone below. Then you could look down into a deep pool in the South Concho gorge -- great for swimming. About that time, the federal Works Progress Administration (WPA) built a low dam which increased the size of this deep pool, with a 10-inch around bronze plaque placed in the sandstone gorge side.

But I've got to tell about something you may have missed looking at when you parked your car: two lines of "buffalo tracks", a short one from the north to south into the Champion north bank, a long one going southwest to northeast for several hundred yards away from the creek.

That is what hit me when I saw (in 1993) a picture of dinosaur tracks in the Entrada Sandstone of Western Colorado. The Triassic geologic age of the rocks at Seven Wells is much older than the Jurassic Entrada, but they could have been reptile tracks, and reptiles were small to large back then.

Old Timer Mike Burt told me that three different flood waters have covered Seven Wells since the 1930s. So now, you Texas Tech students and graduates -- start the ball rolling to get a paleontologist from Tech to come down and examine those "tracks".

One final story. I asked a man who was supposed to be an expert on buffalo if the tracks could be from buffalo. He said that "...yes, they could be buffalo tracks if : 1) buffalo could be trained to walk in single file -- which they haven't been, 2) all the buffalo were the same size and with the same length legs --which they aren't, and 3) they were choreographed with the Radio City Music Hall Rockettes -- which they weren't..."

Juneteenth celebration set in park

The community is invited to celebrate Juneteenth on Saturday, June 21st in Ruddick Park. The celebration will be held for the 10th year in a row, and organizers are expecting a good turnout again this year.

Juneteenth is the oldest known celebration commemorating the ending of slavery in the United States. On June 19, 1865, Union soldiers, led by Major General Gordon Granger, landed in Galveston to the news that the war had ended and that slaves were free. This was two and a half years after President Abraham Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation which had become official January 1, 1863.

Don and Kathy Emerson have been putting together the celebrations in Ruddick Park for 10 years, and Don says that everyone from everywhere is invited and more than welcome to attend. The family provides a delicious barbeque meal to everyone who attends free of charge.

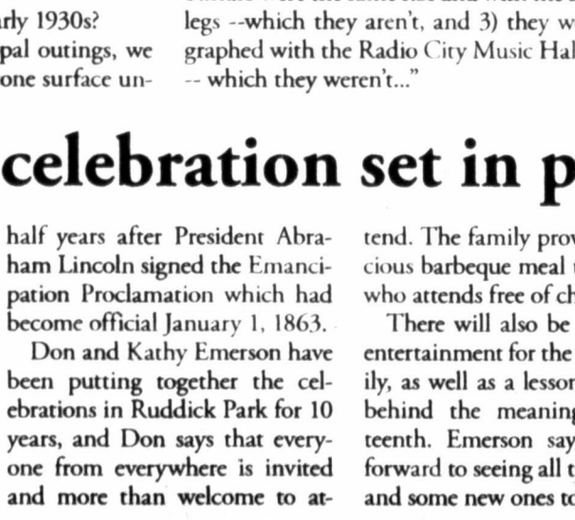

There will also be games and entertainment for the whole family, as well as a lesson in history behind the meaning of Juneteenth. Emerson says he looks forward to seeing all the old faces and some new ones too.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO CONDUCT WEATHER MODIFICATION OPERATIONS IN THE STATE OF TEXAS

1. Notice is hereby given that the Seeding Operations and Atmospheric Research (SOAR) Program, 1012 Ave. F, Plains, Texas, 79355, has filed an application with the Texas Department of Licensing and Regulation (TDLR) for a State permit to conduct weather modification operations to change, or attempt to change, the natural development of clouds for the purpose, objective, period, and by the method summarized herein below.

2. The Seeding Operations and Atmospheric Research (SOAR) Program holds a valid Texas weather-modification license, issued by the State of Texas on September 1, 2013, for Fiscal Year 2014, which began on September 1, 2013.

3. The purpose of the proposed weather-modification operation is to enhance precipitation within the target area of Scurry County, Nolan County, and Mitchell County. The requested period of the permit is four (4) years from the date of issuance of the permit.

4. The proposed weather-modification operation is to be carried out in both an operational area and a target area, to cause the intended effect(s) to occur only in the target area. The operational area is composed of the target area and that area within the following boundaries:
Mitchell County
Nolan County
Scurry County

5. The area to be affected by the proposed weather-modification operation is the target area. The target area is that area contained within the following boundaries:
Mitchell County
Nolan County
Scurry County

6. The methods and materials to be used in conducting this operation are summarized herein. A meteorologist licensed by the TDLR to conduct weather-modification operations will select suitable clouds for seeding using a weather-radar system, as well as standard analytical and weather-forecasting procedures, to guide aircraft to release cloud-condensation nuclei either at cloud base or at cloud top to promote the growth and development of the precipitation process within those clouds. The aircraft will be equipped with flare racks or generators to dispense appropriate materials, either glaciogenic or hygroscopic or a combination of the two, into those clouds deemed suitable for seeding.

7. Persons interested in knowing more about the technical aspects of the proposed weather-modification operation should contact George Bomar, Texas Department of Licensing and Regulation (TDLR), P. O. Box 12157, Austin, Texas 78711 (512/936-4313); george.bomar@tdlr.texas.gov.

8. A public meeting on this application may be called by mailing letters, or petitions, that specifically request a meeting to the Executive Director, TDLR, P. O. Box 12157, Austin, Texas 78711. The letter or petition must contain (1) the signature, full name, phone number, and mailing address, including physical address and name of county, of each person requesting the meeting; (2) a statement that each person is at least 18 years of age and that he(she) resides or owns property in either the operational or target areas, and (3) a description of each person's interest and how that interest would be adversely impacted by the proposed seeding operation. Requests for a meeting must be mailed and postmarked to the TDLR within 30 days after the date of first publication of the Notice of Intention, which is required by State rules to be published in newspapers of general circulation in the affected counties once a week for three consecutive weeks. If at least 25 eligible persons make appropriate written requests for a meeting, the TDLR will schedule a public meeting within the area where the operation is to be conducted. Public notice stating the time, place, subject, and legal authority of the public meeting shall be provided at least 20 days prior to the meeting.

9.Individual members of the public who wish to inquire about the information contained in this notice, or to inquire about other agency licensing and permitting procedures, may call the TDLR at (800) 803-9202 or access the following website: www.license.state.tx.us.

Non-pesticide termite treatment now available in Texas
Developed over years of Texas A&M testing, Polyguard Products, of Ennis, Texas introduces TERM Particle Barrier, the first and only Texas termite treatment not classified as a pesticide.
EPA classifies the TERM Particle Barrier as a "device". The concept is simple - quartz particles are carefully sorted and sized to an exact combination. Particles are too large for termites to move, and too small for them to crawl between. The particle barrier simply blocks entry, causing termites to forage elsewhere for food.
TERM Particle Barrier can be installed by Polyguard authorized pest management professionals on the outside perimeter of existing or new homes and schools, as well as in bath traps and wherever plumbing penetrations come through the slab. No building should be built without this particle barrier, as it blocks most places where termites enter structures. TERM Particle Barrier should dramatically reduce the need for pesticides.
EPA Establishment # 89537-TX-1
For more information, visit: www.ParticleBarrier.com/prba
