Kills Brother Over Young Wife

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., June 10, (P).—Roy Weedman, 33, was shot and killed Sunday by his brother, Irwin, 28, in what Deputy Sheriff Ray Pyle said Irwin's 18-year-old wife described as a "passion murder."

Pyle said Irwin admitted the shooting and declared it climaxed a quarrel with his brother over the young wife, Laverne.

The shooting occurred at Irwin's home, where Laverne, who recently left him, returned with Roy to get her clothing and other belongings. The parents of the two brothers, Mr. and Mrs. James V. Weedman, were witnesses to the shooting. Pyle said they corroborated Irwin's story.

"This must be what the mystery magazines call a passion murder. Ain't that swell?" Pyle quoted the girl as saying.

Pyle declared that from the stories told him he learned that Laverne was once friendly with Roy, but later married Irwin, quarreled with him several days ago, and then returned to Roy. Pyle said Irwin made a voluntary statement to him concerning the shooting.

"Laverne Weedman went to the home," said Pyle, "to obtain some of her clothes and other belongings."

"Irwin said his wife could come in and get her clothes, but that he did not want to see his brother, Roy, again. Roy came in, however."

"Irwin fired three bullets into Roy's body with an automatic pistol. The father and mother were witnesses to the shooting. They bear out Irwin's story and he seems to make no reservations in admitting the whole affair."

The two brothers were employed by different oil companies.

Irwin was held in the county jail.

Japanese Drive May Restore His Throne

Reports that Japan is pouring troops into North China strengthens the belief that Nippon's long-anticipated program to extend the influence of Manchukuo is getting underway and will not halt until the portion of China between the Great Wall and the Yellow River, if not still further westward, has been brought under Manchukuan sway. Thus the way would be opened for restoring Henry Pu Yi, left, Manchukuan ruler and former "boy emperor" of China, to the ancestral throne in Peiping which he abdicated in 1912. and for the extension of his domain, under Japanese influence, to all of eastern Inner Mongolia in addition to North China. Japan's failure to achieve economic domination in North China is regarded as responsible for the current campaign. The map shows how Japan's expansionist policies have already embraced Manchukuo and Jehol, and indicates the territory toward which Nippon's eyes now are turned.

AFTERMATH OF A FOLLY

The chain letter craze seems to have had an even shorter life than the miniature golf fad, which previously had held all records for briefness of popularity. And the last flareback of the dying craze is having unfortunate results for the luckless mail carriers.

A great many people sent out dimes, dollar bills, or whatnot, at the tail end of the craze, at a time when it was mathematically impossible for them to reap the gains they had anticipated. Then they sat back and waited for the harvest. When it didn't come in, they began to blame the postmen.

An official of the National Association of Letter Carriers reports that disappointed chain letter senders are actually accusing postmen of abstracting money-laden envelopes and keeping the money for themselves.

The charge is too absurd for discussion, of course. But it isn't much more crack-brained than the whole chain letter idea was in the first place.

"Keep the Home Fires Burning" was a popular wartime song. Maybe that's why people are up in arms when they hear it during these late springs.

Ceremony at Home of Bride's Mother
Sunday Morning Is Climax of College
Romance of Midland Girl, Austin Man

By MISS LYDIE G. WATSON

The spotlight of social interest this week was focused on the marriage of Miss Edith Adelaide Haag and Mr. Conn. Culbertson Thomas, of Austin which was solemnized Sunday morning at 9:00 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. B. Frank Haag, at 209 N. Big Spring street.

The Haag home that lends itself so effectively to decorations was lovely in color, with pink and green while the decorative scheme acknowledged the rose as queen of summer's gorgeous flora, though gladioli appeared conspicuously. Still further carrying out the favored color scheme, the mantel and walls were hung with the ever graceful English ivy interspersed with daisies and baskets of roses. Wicker floor baskets filled with pink gladioli and ferns were placed on either side of the improvised altar. The place of ceremony was marked by a hooked rug made from the clothes of the bride's father, the late Honorable B. Frank Haag, who at the time of his death in July, 1933 was representative of the 80th District.

Preceding the impressive ceremony, performed by the Rev. James Sharp, of Stanton, a program of wedding music was given under the direction of Miss Lydie and Mr. Ned Watson. "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" was played as a violin and piano number. Miss Phyllis Haag sang "I Love You Truly" accompanied by Miss Watson at the piano and Mr. Watson violinist. The wedding party consisted of the bride, Miss Edith Haag, a student of the University of Texas at Austin, and the groom, Mr. Conn. Culbertson Thomas, a student of the University of Texas at Austin. The bride was escorted by Mr. Merwin Haag, a student of the University of Texas. The groom was escorted by Mr. Merwin Haag. The wedding ceremony was held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. B. Frank Haag, at 209 N. Big Spring street.

The bride who was given in marriage by her mother, Mrs. B. Frank Haag, was lovely in her wedding gown of gossamer blue chiffon with deep collar and cuffs of ruffled pink net. With this costume she wore pink sandals and carried a bouquet of pink gladioli, roses and baby's breath. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Knox Thomas of Anderson as his best man. The maid of honor was Miss Pauline Waterman of Austin, a sorority sister of the bride. She was escorted by Mr. Merwin Haag, a student of the University of Texas. The wedding ceremony was held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. B. Frank Haag, at 209 N. Big Spring street.

The bridegroom is the son of Judge and Mrs. B. C. Thomas. He was first honor graduate of Huntsville High School, class of 1930. He also attended Southwestern University, where he is a member of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority, and was a nominee for Blue Bonnet Belle in the beauty section of the 1934-35 basketball team. Mr. Thomas is now in the Auditing Division of the Texas branch of Federal Rural Rehabilitation Department.

Grand Gadgets Simplify Life

What to get for the weekend hostess? Here are some clever and well-known gadgets to choose from: the young woman admires an ice-cube crock; left to right below are a house plant sprayer, a weather-

NEW YORK—If, next fall, you aren't able to say that it's been the most comfortable summer you ever spent, it certainly will not be the fault of the inventors. They, industrious souls, have evidently, from the looks of the shops, been working overtime to insure to everybody the most convenient and effortless hot-weather season ever known.

There's even a bug electrocutor, among the new gadgets, believe it or not. Not to mention candlesticks that keep candles from going out no matter what sort of gale comes up; coasters of cork or rubber that help in walking; and a glass; and a skillet tray with a handle that makes serving guests easy on the arms.

One of the neatest of the new wrinkles is a combination cane and chair for the restless person who loves to wander about communing with nature. The chair is a cane that helps in walking, and the cane straightway turns into a chair.

The designers have done some of their best jobs on tables and magazine racks for the out-of-doors. One nest of three tables has a track-like contrivance on which each of the two tables underneath are run into place when not in use and fastened securely to the table above. So when you go to pick them up, you get a table for hours while other cubes for the cold drinks are freezing in the trays.

Many of the newest serving arrangements have compartments for ice so that the butter or the hors d'oeuvres will be kept indefinitely at the proper temperature. And there's one triple server of cut glass that with a bowl for ice and three small bowls for caviar, cottage cheese and what have you that will soon be the week-end hostess' delight.

Another gadget to add to that list is a buffet stand and tray of white enamel decorated nautically and fitted with toothpick holder, hearse boards and platters covered with durable fabricoid in animal shapes for the hostess who hates to have to b r i n g the pillows in from the terrace every night?

Make notes, too, while you are about it, of drip guards for wine bottles, made of sponge rubber and decorated with colored flower wreaths, chromium telephone clocks that will wake you up from that catnap in time for your next engagement without having to rouse your mind to effort, summer dog mats made of two layers of porous material and wired inside for air circulation, a defroster that can be used on any refrigerator, portable awnings, and beverage carts you can wheel around.

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything).

A recent invention by Wendall Fathers, famed for motor car attachments, is the Oral Speedometer which operates with a phonographic attachment.

At 25 miles it remarks:
"The city speed limit has been passed. Is there a motorcycle policeman behind you?"

At 25 miles it remarks:
"Too fast for city driving. We hope you are now in the country." At 45 miles:
"Your car is still under control but watch the car behind the car ahead of you."

At 50 miles:
"Your responsibility is increasing. Keep your eyes on the road."

At 60 miles:
"Are your insurance premiums paid to date?"

At 70 miles:
"You drive this attachment will do the praying."

At 80 miles:
"Probably someone will have this car repaired. If so, we thank you for the sale of another speedometer to replace this one which in a few moments is going to hell along with you."

What has become of the old-fashioned thief who would not steal anything that was tied?

When I hear a certain woman singing "Oh! Would I Were a Bird," I wish I were a gun.

Blessed is the old man who has satisfactory false teeth.

It has come to pass that the words of the wise are called old-fashioned. Too bad!

A wolf in a trap is very penitent. But the second he is released he attacks the person who rescued him. Once a wolf, always a wolf.

The only time a local woman ever got any new clothes was when she went into mourning for her stingy old husband.

June Bride of This Year Chooses White, Pastel Shades in Lingerie

By MARIAN YOUNG
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—When she picks her trousseau lingerie, this June's bride follows the same rules she applies in selecting the wedding gown and the trousseau clothes. The set is white. The others are likely to be peach, tea rose, pink and blue.

Dripping with lace and made of the finest silks and satins, bridal slips, panties and nightgowns look as though they had been designed for a fairy princess. The laces are real, of course, and the blue of the filmy garments themselves are as carefully cut as Paris evening gowns.

There are nightgowns that closely resemble evening dresses. Most of them have V necklines, bias-cut skirts and wide shoulder bands of lace that form diminutive cape sleeves. Of course, for tailored brides, there are models, without lace, that depend on exquisite fabric and dainty applique motifs for glamor.

Nightgown of Oyster-White Crepe
One particularly handsome tailored nightgown is made from satinback, oyster-white crepe. The full side is used for the gown itself and the satin side for the delicate sprays of flowers at waistline, around the neckline and at the elbow seams in the sleeves of the matching jacket. The skirt molds the hips and ends in a short train.

White Crepe
The gown is as glamorous as the wedding procession. Trimmed generously with real Alençon lace in white to match the delicate piping of the bodice, this has an extremely long, pleated, fan-like front godet of white chiffon.

Lace on Slip
Made in white crepe, the slip has the popular V neck, fitted waistline and is trimmed with lace to match the nightgown. The bodice and skirt are finished at the top with plain band and two small buttons.

Incidentally, as far as expensive and really good panties are concerned, elastic bands are passe. Plain bands that button on one side are the order of the day, regardless of color or material.

The rose is the favorite undergarment. Peach is used a good deal, too, and you'll find many handsome shades of blue. Pink is distinctly not a best-seller. However, trimmed with the increasingly popular platinum lace, it can be lovely.

Laces Now Made in Many Colors
Laces by the way, are as varied as the flowers in a June garden. You don't have to stick to plain white or the ubiquitous dark tan tones. There are in addition to platinum, shades of dark brown and yellowish brown. On tea rose, yellow, blue and white fabrics, there are sure to thrill the heart of any young bride.

She'll be pleased, too, by heart-shaped sachets to put between layers of underwear, sachets like the one nice little sachet of blue satin with pleated frill of chiffon, looks like a tiny pillow and smells like a bank of fresh June daisies. It matches the blue satin garters that satisfy the bride's demand for "something blue" to bring her luck. They're trimmed with padded hearts of blue satin that dangle from pink sweetheart roses.

COLTS CONTINUE WINNING STREAK, BEATING BIG SPRING 7-6

HANKS WILD AT TIMES BUT HOLDS MOUND THROUGHOUT HOTLY PLAYED GAME SUNDAY; LOCAL HITS TIMELY

By HURSHIEL HOWARD

In spite of the wildness on the part of Herman Hanks and the faulty fielding by the Colts, the Midland infield managed to squeeze out a close 7-to-6 victory over a strong Big Spring team Sunday. Errors on the Midland infield gave Big Spring five unearned runs in the first four innings but after that the team settled down and played good ball.

Payne started on the mound for Big Spring. After retiring the side in order the first and second innings, an error in the third, Butler singled to right and was forced at second by Woody; Estes hit to deep center for three bases, scoring Woody. Payne was hit in the fourth on Krutliuk's hit, a force out and hits by Mills and Hanks. L. Harris took the mound in the fifth. Woody greeted him with a hit to right. Estes walked, and hits by Baumgarten and Hill were good for three runs.

In the ninth Big Spring tied the score on Martin's hard double to center and Brown's error in the Midland's half of the ninth. Woody, first up, worked L. Harris for a walk. Estes fanned. Baumgarten found one to his liking and drove it to right for two bases. Woody scoring standing up.

The Midland Colts' offense seems to be clicking fairly well and if they will polish up the rough spots in their defense they will have one of the strongest clubs that Midland has turned out in many years.

It's always a pleasure to have you visit us, but this time the moviegoers of Midland are twice as anxious to see your latest picture, "Go Into Your Dance," Warner Bros. stunning musical now showing through Tuesday at the Yucca. 'Go Into Your Dance' Presents Al Jolson, Ruby Keeler in Team

First National has given the public not only a musical comedy, in "Go Into Your Dance" showing today and tomorrow at the Yucca, but a picture that is replete with dramatic situations as well as hilarious laughs, romance and gigantic, spectacular dance numbers.

The cast is headed by a most remarkable team, Al Jolson stage and screen star who introduced the talking picture, and his wife, Ruby Keeler, one time musical comedy star who rose to fame on the screen in the last two years.

Never before have the two played together each fearing to lose the spotlight from the other. But in this picture they work together as a perfect romantic team.

Jolson shows more of his old time voice, both in his singing and his acting, than he has displayed in any other picture. His work with Miss Keeler seems to have given him an added stimulus.

Supporting cast includes Glenda Farrell, Patsy Kelly and Helen Morgan.

Johnson Asks Aid In Reducing Relief Load of State

AUSTIN.—State Relief Director Adam R. Johnson has appealed to municipalities and counties of the state to aid county administrators in reducing the Texas relief load.

The request came after a demonstration last week at Paris, where relief clients picketed the county relief office and refused to permit employees of the Lamar county relief staff to enter their offices.

Pat Warner, Lamar county administrator, told Johnson by telephone that leaders in the demonstration refused to leave the place until concessions in the form of more adequate relief were granted by relief authorities. Johnson reported that relief funds were distributed to all counties on an equitable basis and that the Relief Commission is not in a position to bargain about the amount of relief extended. After the state director informed Warner that he would have to discontinue all relief activities in Lamar county, if local officials were not able to maintain order there, Paris officials wired that the crowd had been dispersed and that order prevailed.

"We are sending to the counties every available dollar for relief as soon as it reaches Austin and picket lines won't improve the situation. It's true that our per case grants will be reduced almost in half this month, but that's because the allotment to us has been reduced by a
