GIANT PLANE MAKES 9,600-MILE FLIGHT

Crippled B-36 Superbomber Sets New Distance Record

FORT WORTH, March 12. (AP)—A crippled B-36 superbomber landed at Carswell Air Base here today with a new distance record for the giant planes.

The great silver ship, with two of its six pusher-type engines dead, touched earth after a 9,600-mile non-stop, non-refueling flight over the nation. For 5,000 of those 9,600 miles, the '36 toted 10,000 pounds of bombs. Two propellers were motionless as the superbomber came in for a gentle landing at 7:57 o'clock this morning. It had been airborne 24 hours and 55 minutes since roaring away from Carswell at 12:20 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

The sensational flight topped by 687 miles the former B-36 record distance flight last Dec. 6-7, a dramatic hop from Fort Worth to Honolulu and return which ended on Pearl Harbor Day.

Carswell Base announced that the plane had two more hours of fuel left when it landed. Maj. John D. Bartlett, project officer for B-36 training for the 7th Bombardment Wing of the 8th Air Force, ordered the plane down because two engines had failed today and weather was closing in on the field.

The route of the bomber took it northward over Minneapolis; westward to Great Falls, Mont.; southward across the nation to Key West, Fla., where President Truman is vacationing.

The '36, big as three five-room houses, dropped its tremendous load in the Gulf of Mexico at 1:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Then it headed northward, passing over Fort Worth two hours and five minutes later.

It roared northward, past Denver, and at 10:36 o'clock last night it sighted Great Falls, Mont., for the second time. An hour and 22 minutes later it throbbed over Spokane and turned southeastward for the long, last lap home.

Over Wyoming the bomber bucked into terrific headwinds and Bartlett said it had not been for these headwinds and the engine trouble, the plane could have exceeded 10,000 miles.

Both Bartlett and Lt. William Grabowski, Bergenfield, N. J., flight engineer, who were on the flight, also made the distance trip on Pearl Harbor Day.

Prince To Appeal Robbery Conviction

DALLAS, March 12. (AP)—The conviction of Ollie Otto Prince, 44, on charges of bank robbery, will be appealed. Attorney Howard Dailey filed notice yesterday with the office of the federal court clerk here. Prince was sentenced to 10 years in prison by Federal Judge T. W. Davidson after a jury found him guilty of robbing the First State Bank of Rice, Navarro County, of $4,002 last Aug. 11.

Cattlemen's Group Seeking Most Weatherbeaten Cowboy

MADISONVILLE, Tex., March 12. (AP)—Are you a weatherbeaten old cowboy who really took a weather-beating this winter? If so, pardner, 'light and listen. This is your chance to win a free trip to (ugh) Texas.

Send no box tops. This is the annual contest of the famed Madisonville Sidewalk Cattlemen's association, the outfit that regulates boot-wearing in Madison county. You can't come around Madison county in boots unless you own cattle. Fellows that break this law get dipped in one of two horse troughs on the shady courthouse square of this East Texas town.

"We dipped a few strangers the other day," Dr. J. F. Heath, president, said. Last year the association held a contest to pick the out-of-state war veteran who haled Texas most. Ray Halloran of Cincinnati won and was feted all over the Lone Star state. When he was safe back home he said he hadn't changed his mind.

This year, the cattlemen are looking for the most weatherbeaten cowboy in the United States.

"We heard all about those blizzards they had through the west," said the tall, booted, Dr. Heath. "We figured to give some poor old cowboy who fought snowdrifts all winter a real sunny vacation."

"We'll fly him to Texas and see that he gets around the state. We will set him up with some high-cotton entertainment. He'll be honor-guest at our annual barbecue June 2."

So just write your hard-winter story to Dr. Heath, attaching your picture.

But get this: "We don't want slicker cowboys from New York, Boston or Cleveland," said the doctor. "The winner has to ride in our annual rodeo and if he can't ride, we won't pay his way home."

The cattlemen are also flying Miss Bebe Shopp of Minnesota, the current Miss America, to Madisonville for their rodeo.

"We don't care if she can ride or not," Dr. Heath said.

YOUTH ARRESTED AS TCU DEAN'S SLAYER

Had Hitch-Hiked To Los Angeles, Says, 'I'm Ready To Face Music'

LOS ANGELES, March 12. (AP)—An 18-year-old youth who was befriended by the elderly dean of Texas Christian University's graduate school was arrested here today on a charge of murdering the educator.

Police Detective E. A. Romero said the young man, Arthur Clayton Hester, made a statement concerning the beating of 70-year-old Dr. John Lord, his guardian, but claimed he did not know Dr. Lord was dead when he fled.

"If he's dead I'm ready to face the music, but I guess I just wasn't in my right mind," Romero quoted Hester, who was arrested as he walked into the East Los Angeles home of his half-sister, Mrs. Anna Goldberry.

Dr. Lord's body was found last Thursday in his home near Cleburne, Tex. Hester, who lived with the educator, disappeared last Tuesday.

Police said Hester told them that he had frequent arguments with Dr. Lord and that last Tuesday he was refused permission to take his guardian's automobile and go to Fort Worth, 12 miles away from the Post Oak community where the two lived.

"I told him I was going anyway," Romero quoted Hester. "I was pretty excited, I guess, and during the scuffle I picked up a piece of pipe and hit him. But I didn't know he was dead. I thought he was just knocked out. I knew I was in plenty of trouble. I took the car and started west, but I had to abandon the auto at Cosmo because the clutch burned out. I guess I set a record for hitch-hiking, though, because it took me only three rides to get out here."

Police said the youth told them he was in the Texas State Orphan's home when he went to Dr. Lord's home one day in 1946, begging food. The educator took him in and he remained there until he enlisted in the Navy in 1947.

Officers said Hester informed them he went AWOL, and was arrested in Ft. Worth and sentenced to 20 days in the brig and fined $240. He was dishonorably discharged from the Navy last December for going AWOL again and then returned to live with Dr. Lord.

Hester was described by Moyne L. Kelly, superintendent of the orphan's home at Corsicana, Tex., as a youth "who could move in on your heart faster than any kid I ever knew." Kelly who had charge of Hester at Corsicana, said he had a "wonderful personality."

The youth is being held for the arrival of Texas officers.

Rent Control Decision Due

WASHINGTON, March 12. (AP)—Administration forces scurried around today rallying house Democrats for a showdown on rent controls next Tuesday.

By tonight it looked as if they might be able to ram a control bill through without any more changes.

But there may be a couple more big fights—to turn over controls to local authorities and to extend controls for only 90 days.

Democratic leaders agreed with Republicans that the scraps will be hard and close.

ent control is but one in the package of bills docketed for a house vote during the week. Others involve sales tax, for the District of Columbia, rural telephone, military and appropriations legislation.

And while the House is passing them, the Senate may decide what to do about settling the filibuster that has held up the progress of legislation for two weeks. Important bills await Senate action.

The rent bill the House is tussling with would extend controls for 15 months, until June 30, 1950, instead of the 22 months the administration asked.

The decision on the measure was put off over the week end. Democratic chiefs didn't want to take any chances on members being out of town after they squaked by one crucial ballot Friday with only 15 votes to spare.

Big Spring Boy's Champion Lamb Brings $1.50 Lb.

ODESSA, March 12. (AP)—A caponized rooster sold for $50 at the Sand Hills Hereford show here, today as the total sales price for all livestock hit a new record of $19,845.

The high priced capon was champion of the show and was exhibited by Kenneth Cunningham of Odessa.

The grand champion club steer, which weighed 890 pounds, brought $1.50 per pound for his owner, Will Staten of Fort Stockton.

The price was duplicated for the grand champion lamb owned by Jesse Overton, Big Spring. It weighed 128 pounds.

Agreement Today Would End Fight

WASHINGTON, March 12. (AP)—President Truman tonight signalled for a settlement of the Senate filibuster.

The 12-day talkathon may be at an end. With his legislative program at an absolute standstill in the Senate, Mr. Truman gave his blessing to a conference called for Sunday to work out a compromise.

Any agreement would mean an end to his fight to smash the filibuster. The administration had lost in a test vote. Its only weapon left is to try to wear out the southerners while vital bills gather dust.

Mr. Truman talked to his Senate lieutenants from Key West, Fla., where he is vacationing. Sen. McGrath (D-R.I.) reported the president is "agreeable to anything that will work out a solution."

The Senate recessed abruptly at 7:51 in the midst of a night session when it was announced that a solution was to be attempted. Leaders of administration Democrats, southern Democrats and Republicans will be in on the Sunday huddle.

Majority Leader Lucas (D-Ill.) told the Senate that these groups expected to work out a settlement. This would head off round-the-clock sessions which he had threatened to start Monday to break the filibuster.

Lucas, with a broad smile, warned that no definite agreement had been reached as yet but quickly added that a compromise is possible.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga.), Dixie leader, and Republican Leader Wherry of Nebraska agreed cautiously, apparently wary about the bargaining yet to take place. Invited to the "secret session" Sunday are Lucas and Deputy Democratic Leader Myers (Pa.), Republican Leader Wherry (Neb.) and GOP Sen. Saltonstall (Mass.) and Knowland (Calif.) and Sen. Russell and Byrd (D-Va.) from the Dixie group, as well as Sen. Hayden (D-Ariz.), chairman of the Senate Rules Committee.

Leaders would not discuss details of the proposed compromise but it was learned these matters were under discussion.

1. A proposal for a change in cloture (debate limiting) rules to require favorable vote by three-fourths of the Senate, or 72 if all 96 voted, instead of two-thirds as has been proposed. But this would not apply to a rules change. It is believed southerners would accept this.

2. A counter offer to require that 64 senators be present and vote for cloture instead of a mere two-thirds of those voting.

Sen. Byrd (D-Va.), a leader of the southerners, told a reporter that they would insist that no unlimited debate continue to be permitted on a motion to take up a change in Senate rules. That is the basis for the present filibuster.

Reviewing The Big Spring -Week-

Joe Pickle

City commissioners let it be known last week that they do not consider the Colorado River Municipal Water association project a dead duck. They went on record urging continued studies of the proposal to dam the Colorado river 25 miles northeast of here and pipe water to cities in this area.

Moreover, they are taking steps to cooperate with the CRAWA executive committee in creating a district in event these studies indicate the big project is still feasible.

The school board moved rapidly last week to act on petitions for a $200,000 bond issue. Voters will be asked to give their answer on March 25. One reason for the pace is the board's desire to take action at once, if approval is granted, toward providing additional elementary classrooms before next autumn when more of the "war baby" crop will report to compound an already badly overcrowded situation. The current $1.50 tax rate, said board officials, would not be disturbed.

At the moment the Howard-Glasscock Red Cross roll call is lagging. Drive chairmen have pointed out repeatedly that the response among those contacted has been exceptionally gracious and generous. The hitch is that thousands of people have not been contacted at all. It would be most helpful if you would mail your check to the chapter office or leave it at the gas company where roll headquarters are maintained.

Death of Garland Woodward seemed a personal loss for many Big Springers. Woodward was a prominent and well-liked figure here in the decade he was a contributing citizen in Big Spring. He

FARMERS HAIL REVAMPED PORKER

Tailor Made Hogs Have Meat Appeal

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 12 (U.P.)—Now they're producing "tailor made" hogs with more meat appeal.

Farmers like the revamped hog because it costs less to feed. Housewives take to its leaner ham and bacon.

The new porker even has a better temper, according to the man who developed it.

Dr. L. M. Winters, professor of animal husbandry at the University of Minnesota, Farm School, began a highbrow hog project in 1936.

He started with two established breeds—the Danish Landrace and the English Tamworth.

After several years of inbreeding (breeding among related hogs) and crossbreeding (mixing two strains) his No. 1 breed emerged.

Similar work was done with the Yorkshire and Poland China varieties to produce his No. 2.

The No. 1 hog is red, has short legs, long, thin nose and a very quiet temperament.

The No. 2 is black and white, has longer legs, a short, slightly upturned snout and is very active and curious.

American Oil Firms In Deal With Japanese

TOKYO, March 12 (U.P.)—Standard Vacuum and Caltex Oil Company representatives said today their companies had concluded agreements with Japanese firms for distributing their petroleum products in Japan.

The agreements are expected to be ratified some time next week by the Japanese government.

H. W. Daniels, general manager in Japan for Standard Vacuum, told newsmen his firm had concluded a joint operation agreement with TOA (East Asia) Fuel Company for distribution of Standard products.

He declined to discuss terms. Informed Japanese said it included a clause by which Standard would be allowed to buy 500,000 of TOA's total of 1,000,000 shares. Standard will advance a loan to TOA, provide technical advice, and act as its agent overseas. Standard will lease storage and refinery facilities.

Daniel said the leasing of refineries was a "possibility." Under the occupation, the Japanese are not allowed to operate refineries.

The Standard Vacuum official expressed the hope the whole agreement would be "a growing thing."

Lester Carson of Caltex said his company reached an agreement with the Nippon Oil Company under which Nippon will be the original distributor of Caltex products in Japan.

He said the agreement included a clause on "shared earnings" and "options for buying certain Nippon oil assets." Caltex also agreed to sell crude oil to Nippon Oil Company. Japanese sources said the Caltex agreement would run for 10 years.

Top Prices Paid For Gift Lambs

GARDEN CITY, Mar. 12—Lambs bought at top prices from John Jay Phillips III at Midland early in the week were given to him by buyers.

Initial reports confused this point. When A. A. Jones, Midland, paid $1.40 a pound for one of Johnny's lambs and Shorty Bigby paid $1.20 a pound, the two men made a gift of the animals to him so that he could resell them at 24¢ cents a pound. Several other boys were given their lambs.

B-36 Bomber Is Described As World's Highest-Flying

WASHINGTON, March 12. (U)—The Air Force's B-36 bomber, already known as the world's largest and longest flying warplane, will be recognized soon as the world's highest flying, hardest to shoot down and fastest propeller driven bomber.

The $2,720,000 B-36, product of the Consolidated Vultee plant at Fort Worth, Tex., is the largest warplane by virtue of its over 3000,000-pound gross weight. It is the longest flying because of its demonstrated range of over 8,000 miles. It is the only bomber able to carry any type bomb without modification.

Officials say privately new claims to be made for it will place its top speed under emergency condition at more than 400 miles an hour and its operating altitude at 45,000 feet. Its combination of speed, altitude and defensive armament make it a nearly impossible target for jet fighters.

The Air Force soon will confirm reports that the B-36 will have four jet engines in twin power pods hung under its wing. These will give it emergency power of more than 20,000 pounds of thrust in addition to the 14,000 horsepower in its six conventional engines.

The belief that the huge B-36 can be operated only from a few bases has been wiped out.

Men familiar with the work say 166 bases scattered over the world are suitable for sustained B-36 operations under combat conditions. Of these, 41 are in the United States, 16 elsewhere on this continent and 109 widely distributed overseas.

In addition, 285 military and civil airports throughout the world are rated satisfactory for occasionally setting down the big bomber at its normal landing weight of 200,000 pounds.

The B-36 is said to have the first completely new armament system installed since V-J Day. This includes 16 20-millimeter cannon in eight turrets.

In defensive power the B-36 is as far beyond the B-29 as that airborne battleship was ahead of early World War II bombers.

Interception tests have been made with jet fighters, and indications are that the B-36 has been intercepted successfully no better than once in a hundred tries.

The Air Force has no interceptor yet flying to intercept a bomber operating at 45,000 feet. The first designed for such a job, the Republic P-81, has not yet flown. Its four rocket motors and exceptional four powerful turbo-jet engine are expected to push it up to B-36 altitude in one-tenth the time required for conventional jet fighters.

Modern bomber formations will be spread out, in contrast to the tight patterns flown in World War II. This will add to interceptors' worries. Because of the deadlines of the atom bomb, it will be necessary to attack every bomber in a formation to be sure of getting the one with the big weapon.

Solemn Mass Honors Pope

VATICAN CITY, March 12. (U)—The Vatican today celebrated the 10th anniversary of Pope Pius XII's spiritual rule of the world's Roman Catholics with a colorful, solemn mass in Rome's famous Sistine Chapel.

Cardinals, prelates, priests and members of the diplomatic corps assigned to the Holy See attended the pontifical mass marking the anniversary of the Pope's coronation.

Greetings came to the Pontiff on the festive day from all parts of the world.

The Pope notified his representatives abroad last week that because of "sorrowful conditions" facing the church in some parts of the world he did not wish the usual coronation anniversary receptions this year.

Today's mass continues a series of observances begun 10 days ago. On March 2 the Pope celebrated the anniversary of his election to the throne of St. Peter in 1939 and also his 73rd birthday, on April 2 he will mark his 50th anniversary as a priest.

Pioneer Week Final Program Draws 1,000

Approximately 1,000 people turned out for the final ceremonies of Pioneer Week at Howard County Junior College Friday.

Included were upwards of 400 seniors from 14 high schools in this area. E. C. Dodd, president, said that 700 were fed at the barbecue and that an additional 300 were on hand for festivities later in the evening at the gymnasium.

During the afternoon, visitors inspected facilities at the college and were entertained at a program in the auditorium. Besides a "brush" court which tried individuals for various offenses during Pioneer week, there was a play presented by HCJC students.

Guests were treated to the barbecue in the original college cafeteria room. At the gymnasium several square dance teams, including juveniles under direction of Harry King, gave demonstrations.

A number of parents of HCJC students were guests at the college during the festivities as well as visiting school officials and seniors from Stanton, Coahoma, Acckerly, Knott, Garden City, Lamesa, Grove, Courtney, Westbrook, Forsan, Snyder, and Big Spring. The Coahoma band, under the direction of R. L. Meyers, furnished music.

Some Optimism On Employment Shown By Job Experts

WASHINGTON, March 12. (U)—Government job experts said here they look for more unemployment this year than in 1948, but they gave a "moderately optimistic" forecast for job prospects this spring and summer.

This analysis was based on a survey of 92 major labor market areas across the country conducted by the Bureau of Employment Security.

The report said that a "majority of employers" questioned expected a "moderate employment recovery in late April and May, but did not expect the recovery to raise employment this year to last year's record breaking levels."

WOULD TAKE AWAY POWERS

Nine Agencies Hit By Hoover Group

WASHINGTON, March 12. (U)—The Hoover Commission today proposed stripping executive powers from nine agencies which regulate such things as shipping, radio, power and labor relations.

It said these agencies perform such functions "badly" and thus hamper the regulation of vital industries.

The 12-member commission on government reform, filing its 12th report with Congress, proposed as a means of cutting federal regulatory costs and reducing "delay and inefficiency," that:

The Maritime Commission yield to the commerce department its power to build, buy, sell, charter and subsidize ships.

The Federal Power Commission be shorn of power-development planning and that the interior department get the assignment.

The Interstate Commerce Commission hand to the commerce department its railroad and highway safety programs and the control of railroad cars.

Efficiency-boosting measures also were urged for the Federal Trade Commission, Civil Aeronautics Board, Federal Reserve Board, National Labor Relations Board, Security and Exchange Commission and Federal Communication Commission.

Britain Charges Bulgaria Welshing On Pact Guarantees

LONDON, Sunday, March 13. (U)—Britain charged today that Bulgaria has no intention of living up to her peace treaty guarantees of political and religious freedom.

The charge was made in a sharp protest note against the trial of 15 Protestant church leaders. It declared the churchmen's confessions that they spied for Britain were "completely false," and added:

"Religious freedom in eastern Europe is under a deliberate general attack."

Does Stomach Gas and Bloat Make You Feel Miserable?

If so, here is how you may get blessed relief in freeing your stomach from this nervous distress. It works this way: Everything food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, starchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing the flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with over-doses of soda and other alkalis to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps build sturdy health.

SKELETONS OF NAZI PRISONERS ARE FOUND BY DEEP SEA DIVER

NEW YORK, March 12. (U)—A deep sea diver said Friday he had found the bones of thousands of Nazi political prisoners—Jews and Spaniards—on the floor of the Corinth Canal.

The diver, William Smythe, said the victims were herded into box-cars and whole freight trains were run off bridge approaches to the canal.

The Corinth canal connects Ionian and Aegean Seas.

Smythe, 49, and a professional diver 21 years, arrived on the American export liner Excmbla after 17 months in Greece.

The husky diver's job abroad was to clear out the ports of Piraeus and Salonika and the Corinth Canal. The Germans dynamited them and they were filled with the debris of war.

"I worked among skeletons and bones often when I was on the bottom," he related. "Human bones brought up by dredge were taken out to deep water. They were too mixed up with debris and muck for other burial."

Felix Longorio Reburial Probe Is Recessed

THREE RIVERS, March 12. (U)—The Felix Longorio reburial investigation was recessed today. House probers had spent two and a half days taking testimony.

The five-man investigating committee is trying to determine whether use of a funeral chapel here was refused because Longoria, a soldier killed on Luzon, was a Latin-American.

The committee recessed here about noon and will reconvene next week in Austin, where several more witnesses are scheduled to be heard.

The investigators had been asked to report back to the House by March 15, but Rep. Cecil Story of Longview, committee chairman, said he would request an extension of time.

The probe opened last Thursday. The committee was instructed to find out of racial discrimination played a part in the Latin-American soldier's body being reburied in Arlington National Cemetery instead of in Texas. He was killed in action on Luzon.

One group of witnesses consistently testified that Longoria's family was denied the use of a Three Rivers Funeral Chapel because of differences between the widow, Mrs. Beatrice Longoria and his parents.

Another group said use of the funeral chapel was denied because of Longoria's racial origin.

Ex-Defense Head Made Premier Of Nationalist China

NANKING, March 2. (U)—Gen. Ho Ying-Chin became premier of Nationalist China today. Peace talks with the Communists await formation of his cabinet.

Acting President Li Tsung-Jen's choice to succeed Dr. Sun Fo was approved by the Legislative Yuan at a special session. The vote was 209 to 30.

Nomination of the former defense minister was confirmed after a personal appeal by the acting president for speedy approval.

There has been no Communist reaction to Ho as premier.

Ho is expected to strengthen the position of the central government in what is left of Nationalist China. This in turn will bolster Li's hand in peace negotiations with the Reds.

WEEK'S BUSINESS

Realty Deals, Construction Show A Drop

City building figures and real estate both were off the normal pace here last week, based on construction permits issued by the city and warranty deeds filed in the county clerk's office. Construction work started during the week was limited chiefly to repair work, although new permits did not necessarily reflect a true picture of the actual building activity, since work was continuing on a number of projects that were started earlier. Estimated cost of projects listed on new permits amounted to only $5,015, which left the year's total at $439,615.

Real estate transactions involving $9,665 were recorded in the county clerk's office. Eleven instruments were listed for the week. The warranty deed total for the year is $442,755.20.

New work applications were up slightly at 66, although new job orders, at 48, also gained during the week at the Texas Employment Commission office in Big Spring. The local office made 54 referrals to jobs which resulted in 36 placements. Reception contacts for the week totaled 502, while 294 active applications were on file at the end of the week. The office handled 65 claims actions for unemployment compensation during the same period.

Enraged Cubans Try To Lynch Americans

HAVANA, Cuba, March 12. (U. P.) — An enraged Cuban crowd threatened to lynch three drunken U. S. sailors last night after watching them desecrate the statue of the Cuban national hero by indecent acts.

The U. S. ambassador apologized today, ending a threatened international incident, and Cuban students called off plans for a "national day of mourning" at the affront to the statue.

WOULD BE LINKED TO NORTH ATLANTIC PACT

Russia May Try To Form Mediterranean Alliance

ANKARA, Turkey, March 12. (U. P.) — Russia seems to be making guarded but anxious inquiries into possible formation of a Mediterranean defense alliance which would be linked to the projected North Atlantic Pact.

There were strong indications that Russian Ambassador Alexander Lavrishev has discussed the proposed Mediterranean agreement in recent conversations here with envoys of other nations.

Diplomatic sources said he talked in the last three weeks with ambassadors of France, Italy, Great Britain, Greece and, perhaps, the United States. American sources withheld comment.

Foreign Minister Necmeddin Sadak of Turkey said he had no information about Lavrishev talking with Turkish foreign office officials about a Mediterranean regional treaty.

Diplomatic sources in London said earlier that Russia had asked the Turkish foreign office about Turkey's interest in such an agreement. Russia and Turkey have a common border of more than 500 miles.

Turkish officials as far back as six months ago urged formation of a regional security belt in the eastern Mediterranean area.

The British informants said Turkey told Russia in reply that the suggested arrangement would be aimed at securing peace, and not against the Soviet Union.

Russia is expected to come out strongly against any Mediterranean pact — if and when it seems to be taking shape. The Soviet has called the proposed Atlantic agreement an aggressive alliance against Russia.

Final terms of the Atlantic pact are now being ironed out. It would link the United States and Canada with western European countries in mutual defense.

A Mediterranean alliance presumably would include Greece and the Arab nations, besides Turkey. Both Turkey and Greece now receive military aid from the United States as part of the Truman program to check communism.

Sadak has talked over the proposed new alliance recently with British, French and Greek officials.

Some diplomatic sources said it was unlikely Turkey would pay much attention to possible Russian protests over the Mediterranean pact.

Washington, March 12. (U. P.) — High U. S. officials told Denmark's foreign minister today that the Atlantic Treaty would provide a "framework" to solve the long-pending problem of American air bases in Greenland.

American strategists are known to believe that if American bases in Greenland, Iceland and the Azores—or use of them—can be arranged under the pact it will permanently strengthen defenses of the entire Atlantic area.

But today's talk between State Department leaders and Foreign Minister Gustav Rasmussen provided the first definite information that American officials do in fact feel the treaty will greatly ease the base solution.

Britain Sends More Troops To Mid-East

LONDON, March 12. (U. P.) — Britain ordered reinforcements today to Akaba, Trans-Jordan's tiny Red Sea port. Five miles away, across the Gulf of Akaba, Jewish armored columns are in possession of the Negev's short Red Sea coastline.

Trans-Jordan, which signed a cease fire pact for the whole Palestine front yesterday at Rhodes, has informed Britain officially of the Israeli advance to the Red Sea shore.

Israel says the territory is hers under the United Nations partition arrangement.

Although Israel disclaimed any intention of attacking or harassing, Britain obviously is viewing situation as dangerous.

'Copter Saves Man From Mud Death

NEW YORK, March 12. (U. P.) — A police helicopter today saved a stranded man as he was being swallowed by soft mud in Jamaica Bay.

The helicopter bucked a 38-mile wind for six minutes to reach Frank Vaccaro, 34, of Brooklyn, who was up to his neck in the slime.

GIRL BORN WITHOUT ARMS HOPES SHE CAN HAVE ARTIFICIAL ONES

NEWARK, N. J., March 12. (U. P.) — said the only thing to do now is wait and see how the operation works out. He said he had formed a loop in the end of a muscle of the left arm's stump. A wire to control an artificial arm would be run from a pin in the loop.

He tested the loop after the operation and said the operation appeared to be successful. He emphasized, however, that it was just a preliminary hope.

Grace must wait at home while doctors check the results. When the arm appears to be ready, she will make further trips to Newark Kessler can try fitting an artificial limb to the left arm stump.

If the procedure is a success, she will make further trips to Newark for an operation designed to do the same thing for her right arm.

Railroad men who got interested in her when she failed to wave to passing trains as other children did took up a collection which is paying her expenses.

New York City Wire-Tapping Plot Uncovered

NEW YORK, March 12. (U. P.) — Mayor William O'Dwyer today disclosed a spectacular plot to get city officials' secrets by telephone wiretapping. The district attorney later announced that evidence of the plot would go to a grand jury.

Two alleged wiretappers were arrested early today but one duped his captors by going out a window at City Hall while they thought he was in a rest room.

Hours later the man, Kenneth Ryan, 45, a retired city detective, still was free.

He reportedly fled to New Jersey despite a police net at all exits from Manhattan.

However, officials said tonight they understood Ryan planned to surrender.

Officials hinted the wire-tapping might involve prominent political enemies of O'Dwyer.

The office of Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan said evidence would go to the grand jury Monday and among those subpoenaed was John G. Broady, attorney and former Texan.

Broady was named by Police Commissioner William P. O'Brien as the attorney who hired the two men for the wiretapping.

Hospital Campaign Making Progress

STANTON, March 12. — Reports from the campaign to raise an additional $15,000 toward the Martin County Memorial Hospital project indicated good progress is being made.

Recently, when bids for the project were opened, they totaled $27,983.87, or about $15,000 more than the hospital board had in sight. At that time the board elected to attempt to raise that amount to take advantage of the bids within a 30-day grace period.

Saturday, Cecil Bridges, one of those active in the efforts to raise funds, said he understood that the campaign had progressed to the point that a way might be found to undertake the project.

The Martin County Memorial hospital currently is cramped for quarters and its backers have pointed to the need of adequate, modern facilities to serve the people of Martin county.

Red Cross Helpers Urged To Report

Appeals for support of the annual Red Cross roll call were renewed here Saturday, as total receipts still were $4,100 less than the objective.

Jack Y. Smith, general chairman, called upon canvass workers to make every effort to broaden the scope of contact work during the coming week.

The Saturday tabulation at the roll call headquarters showed slightly over $5,100. Smith was well pleased with the ratio of contacts and receipts, but went on to explain that current reports only serve to emphasize the importance of carrying the campaign to all citizens.

The general chairman especially urged business firms that have not completed employee canvasses to submit their reports as soon as possible.

Meet The "Seniors" of the COSDEN FAMILY

This is the 35th of a series of special Cosden's presentations, recognizing the long and valued services of those employees who have been associated with Cosden for 15 years and longer. Cosden is proud of the scores of its workers who have contributed to its success through so many years.

JOHN W. WOOD

Another of those Cosden veterans who helped in the original construction of the refinery and gathering system is John W. Wood.

He first went to work for the company in 1928, helping to lay the pipeline from Forsan field to the refinery, and helped in construction of the first loading rack.

He left Cosden in 1931, to farm for a time near Roscoe, then returned here September 1, 1933, as a mechanic helper. In January, 1939, he was made mechanic leadman, a place he now holds.

Native of Haskell county, Wood moved with his family to Stonewall county while he was a boy, and received his schooling there. He worked for refineries at Fort Worth for several years before joining Cosden.

Wood was married to Miss Ruby Donnell of Peacock in 1925, and they have three sons, Johnny, 21, William, 19, and Clinton, 11. Gardening and poultry raising are Wood's hobbies. He is a member of the First Methodist church of Coahoma and is treasurer of the Coahoma school Band Booster club.

How Important

is KNOWLEDGE?

THE active support of every citizen in Texas is needed to abolish ignorance from the sickroom—to guarantee that every practitioner—doctor of medicine, osteopath, chiropractor or naturopath—meets at least minimum standards of knowledge of the healing sciences.

In eighteen other states of the United States, minimum standards laws have been established to protect the public.

No such legal protection is afforded the people of Texas today.

There is now pending before the State Legislature a workable, fair and impartial Minimum Standards Bill, which would require proof of fundamental knowledge of anyone who intends to practice any branch of the healing art. He would be required to pass an examination in the six sciences common to all forms of healing.

The Minimum Standards Bill provides that anyone who would treat the sick must meet the same requirements. All branches of the healing art are treated alike. All would be examined by a qualified, impartial board of science teachers, chosen from the staffs of our leading accredited universities. No practitioner from any branch of healing may serve on the board.

The six sciences generally considered as "basic" to all forms of healing are: Anatomy, Physiology, Pathology, Bacteriology, Chemistry, and Hygiene and Public Health. In other words, every practitioner should be expected to know something of the human anatomy, disease, the effect of drugs and basic health rules.

No one who is now legally practicing a healing art in Texas would be affected by the Minimum Standards Law. But the law would demand that future practitioners must first meet these Minimum Standards.

We demand by law that plumbers, teachers, veterinarians and attorneys prove themselves qualified in their field before practicing in it. Yet we have no minimum standards for those who minister to our ill.

For your health's sake, urge your State Legislators to vote for the Minimum Standards Bill.

YOUR INQUIRIES ARE WELCOMED:

If you would like to have additional information regarding the Minimum Standards Bill, consult your doctor, or contact the Secretary of this Society.

Boy Scout Crusade Launched Saturday

Dozens of uniformed Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts and their adult leaders representing units in the Big Spring district Saturday pledged their support for two-year campaign to strengthen their program and work for preservation of their country's liberty.

The campaign, officially designated as the 40th anniversary Boy Scout crusade, was launched here with brief ceremonies witnessed by a number of Scout leaders and several hundred other adults who assembled on the courthouse lawn. Similar ceremonies were held Saturday at other district centers in the Buffalo Trail council.

Major objectives of the crusade, which is designed to bring the Scout organization up to peak strength by its 40th anniversary year, are expansion of leadership, the Scout program and membership.

After several selections were played by the Big Spring High school band, under direction of J. W. King, Leslie Snow, district commissioner, accepted the torch used as the crusade symbol. The torch was presented to Snow by Vevagene Apple, who appeared as "The Spirit of Liberty."

After accepting the torch and pledging support of the crusade on behalf of the district, Snow, then presented the Symbol to Eddie Hickson, a unit leader, who in turn, passed the torch to Eagle Scout Billy Bob Watson.

Miss Apple was escorted to the stand by Jerry Ray McMahon, Bobby Caywood, Jimmie Deal, Charles Cunningham and Tommy Pickle, representing Cub Scout units, and Thomas Lynn, Lynn Thames, Lewis Stipp, Bill Earley and Don Anderson, representing local Scout troops.

Joe Pickle was master of ceremonies, while the Scout color guard was composed of Allen Holmes, Roger Brown and Richard Hughes, and Tommy Thigpen served as bugler.

Leaders and former Scouts who have been associated with the program since its beginning in Big Spring were present at the ceremony. Among those seated on the speakers stand were B. Reagan and his son, Paul Reagan, who was a charter member of Troop No. 1, the first Scout unit ever established in this area. Troop No. 1 was organized largely as a result of the efforts of the senior Mr.

Reagan and Mrs. Reagan, who continued to maintain active interest in the program.

Other guests at the speakers stand were Mayor G. W. Dahney, J. H. Greene, chamber of commerce manager, and P. V. Thorson, Buffalo Trail Council Executive.

Special crusade badges were distributed to the various units by U. D. Puckett immediately after the ceremony.

All arrangements for the crusade launching here were supervised by Nat Shick, general chairman of a special committee.

New Features For Scout Round-Up

Two added features are listed on the program for the 23rd annual Boy Scout Round-Up this year, Scout officials announced Saturday.

The Round-Up, a council-wide activity that is held each year in Big Spring, is scheduled for April 21-22-23.

Additions to the program are a parade and a demonstration area of Scouting skills. The demonstration will be in progress throughout the Round-Up, and the public will be invited to visit the area.

Otherwise, the Round-Up program will be substantially the same as for previous years, with troop competition in all phases of the Scouting program. Closing feature will be the traditional barbecue provided by Big Spring citizens on the final day of the Round-Up.

Rep. Blount To Boost Texas In Broadcast Talk

State Representative R. E. (Poppy) Blount, of Big Spring, gets an opportunity this week to show a group of radio stars a thing or two about Texas—a chance to back up with actual proof a few items of Texas information he volunteered several months ago in far-off Chicago.

The opportunity will come when cast members of the Breakfast Club, a morning feature of the American Broadcasting company, arrive to make a series of appearances in major Texas cities.

Blount is due to appear on the regular broadcast Wednesday morning in San Antonio. The program will be heard here over KBST at 8 a. m., the regular hour for the Breakfast Club.

The young Texas legislator met the Breakfast Club troupe and participated in one of the programs while in Chicago several months ago. At that time he made a vigorous sales talk in behalf of his native state, and Don McNeill, the popular Breakfast Club master of ceremonies, referred to Blount's appearance on many subsequent broadcasts.

Mexico Claims Any Oil Found Off Her Coast

MEXICO CITY, March 12. (U. S. P.)—Mexico served notice Friday it claims any oil found underwater within three miles of her coast.

Pemex, the Mexican petroleum monopoly, announced yesterday three U. S. independent oil companies will do the first tideland exploration in Mexico.

The companies will carry out the tideland explorations under Mexico's new drilling contracts. The contracts are with U. S. Oilman Edwin W. Pauley, the American Independent Oil Company and the Signal Oil Company.

Pemex said the margin for the initial Mexican off-shore drilling would permit an 18 per cent profit. The government allows 15 per cent profit for ordinary drilling.

The Mexican tideland exploration and drilling will be carried out in southern Vera Cruz and Tabasco states. It must be accomplished within the next 12 months.

Economic Survey Of Howard County To Be Summarized

Local interests will get a look soon at a detailed report on an economic survey of Howard County which has been completed over a period of several months by the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas.

The survey, which was prepared for the Texas and Pacific railroad, will be summarized here at a special meeting on the night of March 22. At that time, representatives of city and county government, schools, the chamber of commerce, agricultural agencies and other organizations, as well as business men, will receive copies of the survey report.

The T&P has sponsored such surveys covering all West Texas served by that railroad. The report to be presented here will deal exclusively with Howard county.

Representatives of the Bureau of Business Research will discuss highlights of the survey and then distribute copies of the report. The meeting here is scheduled for 8 p. m. on the announced date in the Settles hotel.

Other reports will be presented during a two-day trip in Odessa, Midland, Colorado City, Snyder and Sweetwater.

$2-BILLION RACKET CHARGED

Cosden Exhibit To Be Part Of Exposition

The story of Big Spring's industries will be told along with that of the rest of the Southwest at the second annual Southwestern Industrial Exposition at the Will Rogers Memorial exhibit buildings in Fort Worth May 8-15.

Cosden Petroleum Corporation, whose refinery has operated in Big Spring since 1929, was so pleased with the results of participation in the 1948 show that the company not only is among the early industries to reserve space for this year's event—but has taken increased space, as well.

Declared M. M. Miller, vice president: "We took exhibit space last year in order to do our part in getting the Exposition off to a good start. We were pleasantly surprised by the interest shown by the thousands of visitors, not only in our exhibit but in all others as well. Even after the show we continued to have inquiries about our products and our distribution, therefore, we intend to increase our exhibit space for this year's show."

The company's representatives at the Exposition will include Miller and C. W. Smith, sales manager. Big Spring: W. F. Coffman, Fort Worth sales manager; and W. A. Tracey, Fort Worth, assistant sales manager; and H. T. Bratcher, manager of the Orme Terminal, Arlington.

The Exposition is strictly a regional show and is restricted to products made, processed or assembled in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas and New Mexico. Its main purposes are to sell Southwest products, to tell the world that the Southwest is now a manufacturing region of sufficient importance to command world markets and to help growing manufacturers find today's markets and develop potential trade channels for their products.

Four Die In Fire

MILFORD, Mass., March 12. (U. S. P.)—Fire flashed through sections of a two and one-half story dwelling early today snuffing out the lives of a grandmother, her daughter and two children.

Frankie Costello of New York was singled out by the commission as the racket's kingpin.

Costello's lawyer, George Wolf, declined in New York even to contact his boss for comment. As for Wolf, he said the commission's report of underworld corruption featuring from New York to California "doesn't interest me in the slightest."

It was different in Chicago. It was there, in a January convention of the Coin Machine Institute, that the commission claimed it had learned of plans for buying public officials "like sacks of potatoes" from a bribery fund of $400 million a year paid in by slot machine operators.

Harry E. Williams, president of the Coin Machine Institute, reacted with a demand "that the California commission's reckless and unfounded charge be retracted."

CMI would not stand for such a meeting, Williams declared, and called upon the commission to furnish the name of any CMI member participating in any such meeting. Such a man, he promised would be "expelled forthwith from CMI."

Trolley lines in the United States once had special cars to carry milk and mail, also street sprinkling cars, and in one instance, a funeral car.

BIG SPRING

BOARD FINDS FINANCES O. K.

Big Spring School District Solvent

Financial outlook for the Big Spring Independent School district appears sound for the balance of the school year.

At the end of February, according to reports received by the school board at the regular meeting Thursday, district revenues for the first six months, revenues had aggregated $393,639 and disbursements were $65,000 less or $328,639. Outstanding budgeted revenue was $101,645, and with $103,756 due from the state for per capita apportionment, chances for an excess of revenues over estimates appeared excellent.

Already the payment of delinquent taxes, which amounted to $8,059 at the end of February, were $7,058 in excess of estimates. This record was attributed in a large measure to the campaign to collect back taxes owing the district. Current taxes exceeded estimates by $2,216 in reaching $256,039. Donations and fees were over estimates, too. At the end of the year the excess of revenues may get into several thousand dollars provided all state and federal funds (for vocational education) are received before Sept. 1.

On the other side of the ledger, the prospect was equally encouraging, for the board may under-run the anticipated expenditures. It is not impossible, if present trends continue, that a minimum of $20,000 would be saved, principally in institutional costs. Because part of this includes personnel on a 12-month basis, it is difficult to accurately appraise disbursement savings at this stage.

A comfortable nest egg, however, might put the district in a position to consider needed renovations, repairs, etc. and at the same time leave the possibility of attacking the final installment of its repayment on 1947 taxes in the amount of approximately $23,000. This would be important, if possible, in that it would free the district to meet funded debt requirements in event the district voters approve a $200,000 bond issue up for consideration on March 25.

Here are some highlights from expenditures for the period from Sept. 1, 1948 to Feb. 28, 1949: Administration $10,083; instruction (white) $221,696; instruction (colored) $6,670; operation of plant, $17,810; maintenance of plant, $3,578; auxiliary service (bus, etc.), $782; fixed charges (insurance), $12,781; capital outlay, $4,491; debt service (including $10,600 in redemptions) $45,398. Cash on hand at the end of February was $93,437, of which $83,455 was for local maintenance, etc. and the balance of $9,981 for interest and sinking fund purposes.

Non-Residential Building Hiked

AUSTIN, March 12 (U-P)—A sharp increase in non-residential building pushed Texas construction awards past the $25 million mark this week.

Non-residential awards accounted for $11,645,728 of the $25,631,096, let in contracts, the Texas Contractor building trade journal reported.

Residential building reached $8,676,115, and 843 homes, costing less than $7,000 each accounted for $6,052,650 of the total. More expensive homes added $1,058,465, apartments $1,553,000 and duplexes $12,000.

Engineering projects totalling $3,309,222 were put under contract.

The accumulative total for the first 10 weeks of the year stood at $204,663,450, compared to the total of $171,898,576 for the same period in 1948.

inspired organization and was first president of the Kiwanis club.

Those ideas of March are at hand, and with them the deadline for getting off your income tax return. They are due to be in the hands of the collector of internal revenue by midnight Tuesday. Filing has been earlier than usual for many people this year, possibly because of refunds.

Date for opening bids on the last 12 miles plus of the Snyder highway in Howard county have been asked for March 23. This means that by early April contractors should be at work on this major step toward connecting the county seats of Howard and Scurry counties and will be particularly good news for the Vincent folk.

Fire last week caused several thousand dollars damage to automotive equipment at an asphalt mixing plant. Fortunately, mixers were not damaged and city paving was not delayed. The loss was not chalked up against the city's insurance record, but that doesn't keep it from being a loss.

School officials urge that anyone knowing of a family whose children have not been enumerated in the current scholastic census call the administrative office (1206). Each scholastic draws the district a $55 per capita payment and since the district has the responsibility of educating the youngsters, they should be enumerated.

Some newspapers, reporting on the search for the car of Dr. John Lord, slain TCU professor, sought to throw a little glory around members of the Herald staff. Sorry to disappoint the romanticists, but we got our tips from the officers.

Neal Stanley Hurt As Car Overturns

Neal Stanley, Tahoka mortician, sustained painful injuries Saturday night when his car overturned eight miles north of here on U. S. 87.

He sustained a leg injury, but possibly not a fracture, and was bruised extensively. He was at the Malone & Hogan hospital, where he was taken in a McDaniel-Boullion ambulance.

Stanley, who was travelling toward Big Spring, said that a car pulled up short in front of him, and to avoid striking it, he swerved to shoulder and overturned several times before his badly damaged car came to rest in a field.

Stanley is a former resident of Big Spring and is a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Terry.

'ALL PURPOSE' MEASURE

State Tax Bill Being Prepared

AUSTIN, March 12 (U-P)—A new all-purpose tax bill to help span the $50 million dollar canyon between state money requests and available revenue was in prospect today.

It was reliably reported such measure was being written for early introduction in the house as the 51st session passed the theoretical mid-point and faced a heavy-schedule of committee work.

Coming before committees for public airing were the three Senate-approved Gilmer-Aikin public school bills, controversial labor legislation, and an anti-Communist bill requiring state officers and employees to swear they are not members of that organization.

The legislature's major accomplishments during the past week came in the House. The basic science measure was passed on second reading, and final passage there was regarded as certain. The House Committee on Revenue and Taxation favorably reported a natural gas tax bill, with the funds earmarked for feeder rural roads and schools. It would have little effect on the general revenue fund.

Gov. Beauford H. Jester last week, commenting on the comtroller's new estimate that trimmed 22 million dollars off the prospective revenue, promised to make some "helpful suggestions" to the legislature soon.

He said the possibility that a new tax bill will have to be passed cannot be overlooked. Lt. Gov. Allen Shivers said that if a tax bill has to come, it should be along the lines of the one enacted in 1941.

Shivers also said he thought that the appropriation requests could be trimmed, and that's just what the Senate Finance and House Appropriations Committees are doing.

They are making an effort to squeeze the margin between revenue and available funds down as far as possible before the tax issue comes to a head.

Program Complete For YMCA Meeting

Program details for the annual meeting of the YMCA Tuesday at 7 p. m. in the high school cafeteria have been completed.

Tickets for the event are now on sale by members of the board of directors, but those not contacted should call the YMCA office for reservations.

Burrill S. Mills, Lubbock, who has had the privilege of having visited in all 48 states as well as in 29 nations of Europe, Asia and Africa, will be the principal speaker.

His talk here will deal with "Our Five Responsibilities To Youth," and Mills told YMCA officials that "I shall not expound theories, but use very straight language. I do not propose to pull punches, but to use the vernacular, lay it on the laps. I am convinced that the public needs to be aroused from its lethargy and made to realize the absolute necessity of the YMCA and other such agencies."

Arnold Marshall, accompanied by Helen Duley, is to sing. Young people from half a dozen Y-sponsored activities, will make two-minute reports, and Lee Milling will point for a moment to the summary of the year's past work.

Invocation will be by Dr. P. D. O'Brien, First Baptist pastor, and benediction by Rev. Lloyd Thompson, First Christian pastor.

Mills, who is a key figure in this district for Kiwanis International, has a colorful background, including graduation from the University of Paris (France) in Economics and applied psychology. He has served on several important commissions under presidential appointment; served as member of the U. S. war department and British government speakers' bureau; had service during World War I; has held responsible positions with Boy Scouts, Girl Scout, Red Cross, etc. In addition, Mills has served as a member of the U. S. Olympic committee.

'Germ War' Called Practical By U.S. Defense Department

WASHINGTON, March 12 (U)—Germ warfare is practical but it simply hasn't got a superweapon that can wipe out multitudes of people, the Defense Department said tonight.

Biological warfare was called a thing of the future. Nevertheless Americans were warned of the possibility that saboteurs might try a "Pearl Harbor" attack on food sources with disease even before a war breaks out.

The department sought to straighten out the public's exaggerated impression about the potency and development of biological combat.

But, said Defense Secretary Forrestal in the first official statement on the subject in three years, "it would be folly to underestimate the potentialities of biological warfare."

He was backed up in that statement by one of the foremost authorities on bacterial war, Maj. Gen. Alden H. Walt, chief of the Army's Chemical Corps.

Forrestal warned we must guard against saboteurs striking with disease weapons before a declaration of war. He said our food supplies would be especially vulnerable to such a biological attack.

The government, after an original press release on biological warfare in 1946, had up to now clamped the tightest type of secrecy on the whole project. It had refused among other things, to let any military personnel even mention the name of biological warfare.

It finally was goaded into today's discussion by what Forrestal called "extravagant" inaccurate and unduly spectacular unofficial discussions of ways to kill or sick populations or livestock and destroy their crops. In military jargon, this form of warfare is called simply "BW."

Water Group Plans For Hearing In Austin; Eyes Proposed Bond Bill

The Colorado River Municipal Water Association had centered its immediate attention upon the state capitol by the end of the week, as two legislative measures that would affect the association directly and other proposals that might eventually be figured in area plans stood for consideration in the state senate.

A bill that would enable the association to create the Colorado River Municipal Water district, and another that would allow cities to enter into contracts with the district, were introduced in the senate Thursday. The two measures, which list Senators Corbin of Lamesa, Bullock of Colorado City and Hudson of Pecos as co-authors, will be the subject for a discussion by the CRMWA executive committee on March 21.

R. T. Piner, chairman, has called the committee for a meeting at 10 a. m. on that date in the Driskill hotel, Austin. Senators and representatives whose districts touch the proposed CRMWA project are due to meet with the committee for further discussion on the evening of the same date.

Meanwhile, local officials who have been active in the CRMWA, constitution submitted by Senator Bell of Cuero. Although the full text of that proposal has not been studied here, press reports have formed the basis for some speculation on the effect such an amendment would have on projects such as CRMWA.

According to press reports, the proposed amendment would provide for creation of the Texas Water Conservation Projects Board, which would have authority to issue up to $200,000,000 in bonds for establishing a revolving fund. The fund would be devoted to financing construction and planning for various types of water conservation projects so that water resources could be made available for any beneficial purposes.

Officials here plan to request copies of the proposed amendment. If possible they hope to study the full text prior to the Austin meeting of the CRMWA executive committee.

The amendment, which already has been approved by the senate committee, will be presented to voters of the state on Nov. 3 if it gets a green light on the remainder of its journey through the legislature.

BOYS MAY HAVE CONJURED THREE GUNMEN OUT OF OWN IMAGINATIONS

KANSAS CITY, Kan., March 12 (U)—"Scram you rats" nine-year-old Bobby Reynolds says he shouted at three gunmen yesterday.

And the men left "but came back in" Bobby says.

So Bobby, his seven-year-old brother Gene, and two schoolmates ran from their rural school 14 miles west of here to a nearby home, setting off an all-day manhunt.

No trace of the three men, described by the boys as wearing red pants, black coats and checked shirts was found by deputy sheriffs, state highway patrolmen, and policemen. The boys said the men were carrying two shotguns, a rifle and a pistol.

The boys said the men appeared in the schoolroom shortly before class was to begin and before the teacher arrived. Investigating officers found a few broken phonograph records and mud on several desks.

Before officials finished their all-day search and began to suspect the men originated in boyish imaginations, rumors were widespread. People refused to leave their homes and unsubstantiated reports of holdups and a killing were spread.

Youth Vaccinated In Unusual Way

PITTSBURGH, March 12 (U)—Georgia Smith, 3, was sporting a brand new smallpox vaccination, and he got it the easiest way possible. He kissed his five-year-old sister's shoulder.

Georgia, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Smith, felt sorry about his sister Audrey's fresh vaccination last week, gave her an affectionate kiss near the hurt.

Presto! A vaccination blossomed on Georgia's left cheek. Doctors explained that a scratch on Georgia's left cheek had come into contact with the vaccinated spot of the sister.

American Tanks Sent To Germany

AUGSBURG, Germany, March 12 (U)—U. S. Army officials said today tanks are being shipped from the United States to Germany to rearm American troops here.

The U. S. constabulary, since last fall, has been reorganized from a highway and border patrol unit to a combat outfit.

The CHIROPRACTOR and You

This is One Of A Series Of Articles Published In The Public Interest To Explain And Illustrate The Practice Of Chiropractic.

CASE HISTORY No. 206. This patient had developed fainting spells which grew in numbers and severity as time went on. During one of these spells she struck her head on the floor and on trying to rise discovered that all use had gone from her legs. Despite costly advice and treatment the condition gradually became worse. Sensation as well as movement was lost in the limbs. Eventually she was carried into a Chiropractor's office where analysis revealed the nerve pressure that was the cause of her trouble. The first simple adjustment enabled her to move her toes. In three weeks' time, leg movement returned, and a week later she was able to walk again. There has been no recurrence of the fainting spells since Chiropractic adjustments were given.

CASE HISTORY No. 468. Severe headaches had troubled this woman for eight years, the attacks occurring sometimes two or three times a week. She had obtained only temporary relief from the many treatments undertaken, and when she finally decided to try Chiropractic it was she explained, "her last hope." A series of spinal adjustments brought immediate relief, and within 3 months the headaches had apparently ceased. Headaches occurred twice during the following six months and in both instances Chiropractic adjustments brought prompt relief. There have been no headaches since.

CASE HISTORY No. 421. A baby girl who had been subject to eczema since she was six months old. Scores of remedies were tried without success. Her mother, who had begun taking Chiropractic adjustments herself, suggested that Chiropractic might help the child. Analysis indicated nerve pressure and a series of adjustments were given. The eczema completely cleared up and has not reappeared at any time since.

WHAT IS CHIROPRACTIC? The Chiropractor teaches that the brain and nervous system are the root of health. From the brain, nerve energy is distributed through the nervous system to control all parts of the body. When this nerve energy is shut off even slightly between brain and body (by bone displacement in the spine), one or more body functions are interfered with an ill health results. By X-ray, analysis and spinal adjustment the Chiropractor is able to relieve nerve interference and restore normalcy to the affected part. No drugs. No surgery. Nature is the healer.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION concerning the modern Chiropractor and what he can do for you Phone 419. Appointment only.

Sons Of Pioneers Booked For Show Here On Tuesday

Fans of the "Sons of the Pioneers" will have an opportunity to hear and see them in action when they visit Big Spring Tuesday.

The songsters, aided by other artists in a Western show, have been booked for an 8 p. m. appearance at the municipal auditorium under sponsorship of the Junior chamber of commerce.

Most people who have heard the team over the radio and seen them perform in Roy Rogers pictures since they were banded together 15 years ago under the leadership of Bob Nolan need no more recommendation than the name.

The Pioneers have built up an extensive following due to their close harmony, style and inclination not to toss in a lot of fancy stuff that was not written into the music.

Nolan will head his troupe when it comes here. Others in the Pioneers are Tim Spencer, Ruth and Karl Farr, Lloyd Perryman and Pat Brady. Sometime Brady is called out on pictures and when this happens Shug Fisher takes his place as the comedian.

Ken Curtis, who has been starring in Western pictures, in included, along with Caroline Cotton the yodeling champ from Cash, Ark. This young woman has had the distinction of starring in pictures, on the radio and more recently over television.

Many of the old favorites such as "Tumbling Tumbleweeds," "Cool Water," "Way Out There" and others are due to be included in the repertoire during the fast-moving two hour show.

Carpenter Heads Drive To Raise SMU Center Fund

DALLAS, March 12 (U)—John W. Carpenter has been appointed chairman of a campaign to raise $1,000,000 for a legal center at Southern Methodist University.

Carpenter is president of the Texas Power and Light Company.

The school already has earmarked $1,000,000 in property for use of the center.

R. G. Storey, law school dean and president of the Southwestern Legal Foundation, said the drive for building funds will be held from April 15 to May 15. Plans call for a law school building combined with a dormitory and other facilities. SMU has donated a hall and five acres of land.

Storey said the legal center is an independent corporation and will provide a forum and workshop where business, labor, legal and government leaders "may work together... for the improvement of the law."

STUMPING TRIP IS POSSIBILITY

Truman Smiles At Congress Rebuffs

KEY WEST, Fla., March 12 (U)—President Truman met Capitol Hill rebuffs with a smile today while his aides speculated about the growing possibility of a presidential stumping trip to save his program.

Catholic Teacher Ban In Schools Of New Mexico

SANTA FE, N. M., March 12 (U)—Dist. Judge E. T. Hensley today barred 143 Catholic teachers from teaching in New Mexico public schools.

The state court's written judgment supplemented a verbal decision from the bench Oct. 7 in the Dixon school case.

Hensley's verbal decision held that employment of members of the Catholic teaching orders in public schools violated the state and national constitutions.

The Dixon case arose from a dispute over alleged teaching of Catholicism in the public schools at Dixon, a little northern New Mexico mountain community.

At the same time, Mr. Truman had no comment on the Senate's defeat last night of Majority Leader Lucas' attempt to shut off the anti-civil rights filibuster.

Likewise, Presidential Press Sec. Charles G. Ross, the President's spokesman, said Mr. Truman had nothing to say on John L. Lewis' call for a two weeks work stoppage by soft and hard coal miners as a protest against appointment of Dr. James Boyd as director of the Federal Bureau of Mines.

One highly-placed but unquotable aide recalled Mr. Truman's speech to the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner Feb. 24 in which he said he may take another train trip around the country to let the voters know what is going on in Washington.

This aide said nothing has been decided on such a course, but that "the possibility is growing."

Bearded Gents May Play Exhibition Contest Here

The Big Spring baseball professionals, who officially begin initial workouts a week from Monday, will probably play the famed House of David Bearded Beauties exhibition game here sometime after April 20, Manager Pat Stasey announced Saturday.

The Beauties are not due back from their swing through the South until about April 15 but will try to crowd as many exhibition games as possible into their program before the 1949 campaign officially gets underway with Vernon here April 27.

All local fans should be familiar with the antics and the feats of the famed Davids, who play out of Benton Harbor, Michigan. The Beauties used to perform here regularly years ago.

They not only have one of the best ball teams to be found anywhere but they offer some comedy relief that has always attracted the crowd like flies.

Stasey said it was probable the Beauties would play a home-and-home exhibition series with Midland before the season officially began.

The Bronco management received a letter from Bert Baez, veteran pitcher, who revealed that a 17-year-old rookie shortstop would show up here for a tryout. He did not identify him by name.

Baez went on to relate that the youngster was considered a better prospect than Ray (Cook) Vazquez, the 1948 regular at that position for the Cavies.

Vazquez might or might not return here. His father reportedly wants him to remain in Cuba. Vazquez is the property of the Havana Cubans, sister club of the Bronco.

Reports are now circulating in the league that Bob Cruces, who hit 60 home runs for Amarillo in the WT-NM league last year, will assume the managerial reins at Roswell.

Presently the property of the Jackson, Miss., club of the South-eastern league, the outfielder has refused to report for spring training.

Information is that Willis Hudlin, Jackson's field manager, has given Cruces permission to dicker with the Roswell club for the pilot's post. Roswell would have to buy him, in the event President Bill Moore agrees to hire him.

Cruces hit .404 during the 1948 season. He batted in 254 tallies, had the astonishing total of 478 total bases and scored 185 runs himself.

He tied Joe Mauser's all-time minor league home run record. Mauser set the mark while performing for the Milwaukee club in 1933.

Thompson To Race In Chicago Relays

AUSTIN, March 12 (AP)—Jerry Thompson, ex-University of Texas distance star, has accepted a bid to the Chicago Relays invitational mile, March 19.

The race will be the first indoor appearance in several years for Thompson, who represented the United States in the Olympics last year after winning the NCAA 5,000 meters.

Also entered in the Chicago race is Don Gehrmann of Wisconsin, who is ranked as the nation's best indoor mile of 1949.

Looking 'Em Over

by Tommy Hart

Howard L. Green, former president of the Longhorn baseball league who's now business manager of the Pueblo club of the Western league, opines in a letter to this department Odessa is the club to watch in our own loop. . . . Green points out A. D. (Shadow) Ensey has been working overtime for several months to give Odessa a winner and he looks for the Oilers to fight it out with the Big Spring Bronco for the championship. . . . Howard adds it should be a great race, though with Sweetwater under competent leadership and San Antonio appearing strong from the start, pointing out that the circuit, which experienced some shaky moments during 1948 season, appears strong from stem to stern for the first time. . . . In his own circuit, Green is expecting the greatest trouble from Des Moines, where Stan Hack is the field manager, but insists Pueblo will be in the scrap all the way. . . . Before closing out, Green asks what Vernon has done about a pilot. . . . Homer Matney, the Fort Worth Cats' great outfielder, was rumored for that position but it appears now that Bob Huntley, the club owner and catcher, will assume the job himself. . . . San Angelo's Colts open spring drills March 23, which is one week from next Wednesday. . . . Sam Harshany, the new Colt mastermind, expects to arrive in the Concho City next Friday. . . . Apparently he's begged a leave of absence from his coaching job at San Antonio. . . . Angelo, by the way, has signed three promising rookies and Odessa two. . . . Huck Doe of Our Town has been attending a baseball coaching school at Austin with his new boss, Ensey, and is supposed to report to the Oilers camp at Hondo today.

Entry Fee In Odessa Show Too High

Middle name of Larry Shaw the one-time Big Spring hurler now with Vernon, is Omigalia. When J. K. McClain, another ex-Bronco now on the Angelo roster, adds his autograph to a contract, he signs it thusly: Jesse Kinch McClain, Jr. . . . Some one got mixed up when the Henderson diamond of the East Texas league was sown with seed the other day. . . . It developed turnips instead of grass were planted. . . . A couple of Texas boxing professionals are fighting with some success in Eastern rings. . . . Gene Gooney, who lists his home as Big Lake, recently stopped one Joe Weiden of Austria at Baltimore. . . . Both are heavyweights. . . . Henry Lasne, a Houston feather, outpointed Buddy Hayes of Boston in a ten-round at Holyoke, Mass., a couple of nights ago. . . . The Kilgore College Rangerettes, who made such a hit providing half time entertainment for the Cotton Bowl crowd last New Year's Day, have been invited to appear in Madison Square Garden this summer. . . . The Tri-County baseball league of this section perhaps could line up a post-season playoff with the newly formed Trans-Pecos circuit, which has Iraan, Big Lake, Ozona and an Angelo army team as members. . . . The Odessa dog show, which comes off Wednesday, March 20, perhaps could attract several local entries were it not for the exorbitant starting fee, which is $5. Lubbock will shortly stage a similar show and charge only 50 cents for each animal. . . . Coach Harold Davis of HCJC has a couple of canines he might take to Lubbock. . . . One of them is a mile corral called Sinbad, out of the famous Ruggles.

Tyler Apaches Lose Two Cage Stars

Bob Clarke, the assistant football coach at Odessa high school, will serve as director of the National Women's AAU track and field meet in Odessa later this year. Bill Henderson, the one-time Texas Golden Gloves champion, worked out with LaVerne Roach, the ex-Marine from Plainview, in preparation for his fight with Jean Mougin of Paris, France, in El Paso. . . . Mougin is a fast friend to Marcel Cerdan, who licked Roach decisively several months ago. . . . Levi Clay, who probably hurl for Midland again this season, hails from Claremore, Okla. . . . Will Rogers' home town. . . . The Tyler Junior college basketball team's chances for winning the National JC crown suffered a grave wound recently when it was learned Dave Rodriguez and Herb Richardson, a pair of their aces, would not be eligible to compete. . . . Like Jimmy Kile of Amarillo and Ted Pachall of HCJC, they have been in school too long. . . . Clarence Beers, the ex-handymen of the Midland baseball team, is given an excellent chance to stick with the St. Louis Cardinals this season. . . . Bobby Hart, a ball of fire as a basketball player when the HSU frosh played HCJC here the past season, will run the center dash for the Cowboys this spring. Another HSU dash man is Dunny Goode, the Midland football star. . . . Peppy Blount of Big Spring and the University of Texas, who tells this department he'd prefer playing pro football on the West Coast (because of the weather advantages), has been extended a contract by a team he identifies representing a 'Midwestern city'. . . . That could be the Chicago Bears, though he adds he's holding off until he learns the result of a secret draft held recently by All-America Conference teams. . . . Incidentally, Blount was pulling for Texas City in the recent AA high school cage playoffs. He made the acquaintance of all the players while fulfilling a speaking engagement at a football banquet there recently.

MARV RACKLEY, who hit .327 for the Brooklyn Dodgers last season, expects to do even better this year, that is, if he can play more regularly. What with Pete Reiser gone, Marv is counting on that very thing. He's slightly built, fast and swings from the left side.

Isaacs' Steers Speed Drills For Opener

Conn Isaacs' Big Spring high school Steers, who open their 1949 District 3AA baseball season here a week from Friday, are fast rounding into shape.

The Longhorns, with a seasoned crew back from the 1948 campaign, have been engaged in steady workouts for the past couple of weeks.

Isaacs had his first team playing the scrubs Friday afternoon and, despite the presence of Isaacs himself Assistant Coach Roy Baird and Bobby Martin in the lineup for the second string, the regulars won rather decisively.

It appears now Floyd Martin or Howard Jones will pitch in the opener against Midland. Jones' progress has been retarded due to an eye injury but he may be ready. Maurice Arcard and Donnie Carter will be available for mound duty, too.

The 3AA race will extend through May 10, with each team meeting the other six clubs on a home-and-home basis before the time runs out.

AUSTIN, March 12 (AP)—Texas Interscholastic League baseball will have 633 competing schools this spring. Conference B, the loop for small schools, leads the way with 364 teams.

The four-conference total is slightly greater than last year's, when 599 schools were entered, reported Rhea Williams, league athletic director.

Conferences A boasts 175 schools, AA 75; City, 19.

The City Conference is made up of schools from Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston.

Williams reminded AA, A and B schools that May 14 is the deadline for certifying district baseball champions. Conference AA bi-district champions must be certified by May 28, and the state championship playoff will be held June 6, 7 and 8 in Austin.

Tennis Matches Are Set Back

A series of tennis matches, pitting the Big Spring senior and junior boys' and girls' teams against Odessa, will be played here Wednesday afternoon.

The two squads were originally booked to tangle here yesterday morning but Bob Clarke, Odessa mentor, called Coach Johnny Malaise of the local forces he had to go to Oklahoma and could not make it.

The local netters have been engaging in regular workouts at the stadium courts for the past couple of weeks.

Jayhawks Terminate Season By Routing Phillips, 53-36

Locals Beaten In First Tilt

AMARILLO, March 12 (Sp)—

Howard County Junior College Jayhawks solved a zone riddle in the first half here tonight and broke away to defeat Frank Phillips of Borger 53-36 and capture third place in the region V basketball meet here Saturday night.

Baffled by a zone defense thrown up by Frank Phillips, a torrid rival over season play, the Hawks were behind 12-4 after 10 minutes of play. But as the Howard county lads solved the riddle, they forged ahead 22-20 at the half.

Phillips, who had clipped the Hawks at Borger and had dropped a game here, shifted to a man-to-man defense in the second half and was never in the game after that. Had not Coach Harold Davis elected to play all his squad, the final margin might have been wider.

Delmar Turner turned in one of his best games of the season, hitting from all angles. Don Clark, playing his last game for HCJC, set up a major portion of the shots and played a brilliant floor game. The Hawks captured an eight-inch trophy in the process.

After 10 minutes of play in the final game, Sayre, Okla., was leading Amarillo Junior College 15-7. Friday evening, the Hawks ran into a miserable 10-minute toward the end of the first half, and as they might, could never overcome a 18-point lead staked to Sayre, Okla. After 10 minutes HCJC was leading Sayre 12-11, the lead having changed hands five times. Before the half was out, Sayre had scored 22 points to 2 for the Hawks, who were getting the shots but somehow couldn't make them fall.

In the last half, the Hawks outlasted, out-played and out-scored Sayre 31-24, and at one time whittled the lead to nine points before Clark fouled out. That stifled the rally eight minutes short of the final gun.

Lewis was superb on the defense, holding Barker, Sayre's six foot, six inch center, who had more than 400 points to his credit during the season, to three field goals. It was the least Barker had flipped in all year. Fletcher stamped himself as an outstanding player of the tourney with his phenomenal hook shots.

Texas Football Team Will Boast Better Reserves, Says Cherry

AUSTIN, March 12 (AP)—Football talent may not be up to par in the first string at the University of Texas this fall, but it's due to run deeper than usual on Coach Blair Cherry's team.

"Our starting lineup will not command as much respect as the 1947 and 1948 teams that closed out with bowl success," says Coach Cherry, "but our replacements will be more dependable, though less experienced."

Thirty days of spring training found the reserves crowding the first string for starting duty and that the gap between the No. 2 and No. 3 units has been reduced.

Few lineup shifts were made this spring, but Coach Cherry apparently rang the bell with each experiment. Freshman Paul Williams of Lufkin, a star fullback in high school, was switched to end, and it appears he will be the starting right end in the opening game next September.

The only other major lineup change involved Bobby Coy Lee who won his letter last season as a defense specialist while listed as a reserve quarterback.

They gave Lee a chance to prove himself at left halfback this spring and he came through with the best ball carrying performances of the period. Plans are now for him to divide left halfback offensive duty with Billy Pyle and to play regularly on the defense.

Lee's show of ball-carrying ability was one of the major spring developments listed by Cherry. The other two:

- (1) The arrival of Bud McFadin, the 230-pound letterman guard.
- (2) The rapid improvement of Squadman Bill Allen at quarterback.

"All of our backs have improved back last season, has been roomed for left halfback and fullback. He probably will see service at both positions this fall.

Texas suffered its chief manpower losses in the line, being hard hit at end, tackle, and center.

Cherry doesn't expect to come up with another tackle combination like he had in George Petrovick and Ed Kelley nor a linebacker to compare with Dick Harris, all-conference performer for four seasons. However, he will have lettermen available at all but one position in the line.

University Of Texas Noses Out Aggies In Laredo Meet

Seven Records Are Broken

LAREDO, Tex., March 12 (U-P)—The University of Texas defeated Texas A and M as champion of the Border Olympics tonight, winning the seventh annual running of the track and field carnival, 56 points to 55.

LAREDO, March 12 (U-P)—J. D. Hampton, slender Texas A and M runner, tonight performed the unusual feat of breaking records in both long distance races—the mile and two mile.

Hampton faced the mile in 4:18.7 and the two-mile in 9:36.0. The latter cut more than a second from the record of 9:37.3 set last year by Jerry Thompson of Texas.

Seven records fell and two were tied at Texas end A and M waged a tight duel.

John Robertson and Charley Parker led the Longhorns to their triumph.

Robertson was high point man with 12½ and Parker turned in 11½ as both figured in the record-smashing that was hogged by the slender Hampton.

North Texas State won the college division with 34 points. Howard Payne was second with 31½ and East Texas State was third with 28.

Oklahoma A and M finished third in the university division with 21 points while Rice and Southern Methodist tied for fourth with 14 each.

John Rowland, tall Southern Methodist hurdler, cracked the 220-yard high hurdles standard with a time of 23.6 and also tied the record for the high hurdles in 14.3. The latter, however, was set in the preliminaries. Rowland won the finals in 14.5. The 220-yard hurdles record was 24 flat, set in 1946 by Ralph Tate of Oklahoma A and M. The high hurdles mark tied by Rowland was made in 1939 by Fred Walcott.

Hamline Stops Regis In NAIB

KANSAS CITY, March 12 (U-P)—Hamline university's Pied Pipers of St. Paul won their second National Intercollegiate Basketball championship by beating Regis college Rangers, Denver, 57 to 46 tonight. A crowd of slightly under 10,000, largest ever to witness a basketball game here, saw the finals.

Angeloans Lose In TAF Finals

SAN ANGELO, March 12 (U-P)—Vandergriff of Dallas came from behind to trim the San Angelo Ellis Parts Indians, 54-51, here tonight for the Texas Athletic Federation Men's basketball championship.

Ellis Parts led until the last four minutes when Vandergriff worked up a 45-40 lead and kept going. Ellis led at the half, 29-27, and at the end of the third period, 41-34.

Ellis Parts' Hopkins was high point man with 16 counters. Lane of Dallas scored 12.

FUNK AND WEBBER COLLIDE MONDAY

No one will have to build a bonfire under the combatants in the Monday night main event at the local grapple palace in order to get them to move.

The principals are Vic Webber, the fast-moving, cagey veteran from New York City and Plainview, Tex., and durable, tricky Dory Funk of Hammond, Ind.

For all his faults—If buffoonery and villainy inside the ropes can be called that—Funk becomes quite an operative once he descends into the battle pits.

The bout looks like a natural, especially since Webber test-hopped his battle equipment here last week and came through with flying colors. He was the same old Vic, not quite as fast, perhaps, as he was ten or 12 years ago but smarter and deadlier than ever now.

He used his favorite weapon but once here last Monday. That would be the Irish whip. When he brought it into play, he made Billy Sandow, who happened to be forming the opposition, pay, and pay, and pay.

Sandow must have felt like a Mexican jumping bean on a spree. Webber flipped him around the ring like an old dish rag and finally smothered him for a fall.

For a supporting attraction, Promoter Pat O'Dowdy has lined up Balk Estes of Elk City, Okla., against Olan Boynton, the Amarillo anchor. Boynton is a recluse, as far as his trade goes, because other tin-ears find it hard to get along with him.

Bovine Track Teams Wins Dual Meet From Coahoma

Big Spring high school's track and field squad nudged the Coahoma Bulldogs 64 1-3 to 35 2-3, in a dual meet here Friday afternoon but Edwin (Red) Dickson, Canine junior, walked off with individual scoring honors.

Dickson, probably Coahoma's top all-around athlete, won four first places and tied for a fifth to score an aggregate of 21 2-3 points.

Big Ed was tops in the shot put with a toss of 39 feet 10 inches, the broad jump with 17 feet 7 inches, pole vault with an even ten feet and discus with 113 feet 2 inches. In addition, he finished in

VALLEY CARDS TRACK MEET

WATER VALLEY, March 12 (U-P)—One of the first track and field meets of the spring season will be staged here Saturday, starting at 10 a. m.

Both senior and junior high school teams are being invited to compete in the annual Water Valley meet, which will be directed by Elvin Mathis, high school coach here.

Coahoma, Robert Lee, Forsan, Garden City, Sterling City, Merit, Rankin, Big Lake, Miles, Wall, Bronte and Christoval will probably be represented at the games.

Awards will be presented at 3:30 p. m. or after the 1½ mile relay, the final event on the program. Trophies will be awarded to the winning teams and individual awards to the athletes winning first place. An identification bracelet will be presented to the top boy scoring the most points in the senior division.

Paschal Sacks Up City Title

HOUSTON, March 12 (U-P)—Favored Paschal of Fort Worth lost an 11-point lead and received a big scare tonight before defeating Milby of Houston 41 to 40, for the championship of the Big City conference school boy basketball tournament.

Both Paschal and Milby won with ease in morning semi-final games. The Panthers from Cowtown, winners of 23 consecutive games over the full-season route, disposed of San Jacinto, 56 to 38. Milby, third place winner in state Class AA last year, coasted while defeating Brackenridge, 47 to 32.

Paschal yesterday had eliminated Sunset of Dallas, 53 to 45, and Milby had swept past Polytchne of Fort Worth, 56 to 38. San Jacinto, the Houston district runnerup that had been slated for a cellar position in pre-season selections, moved into the semifinals up upsetting Sidney Lanier, the San Antonio champions, 57 to 43, as Brackenridge disposed of North Dallas, also district champs, in a 33 to 32 thriller.

Paschal's victory was a surprise. The team managers will meet again Sunday, April 3, at the Settles hotel for the purpose of working out final details for the opening of play.

NEW YORK, March 12 (U-P)—Baseball's home-rule gets two severe challenges on successive days next week.

On Monday an attorney for Danny Gardella will ask the federal court for a writ that would return the squat wartime outfielder of the New York Giants to active play at once.

The next day the officers of the sport have been ordered to show cause in court why Max Lanier, Fred Martin, a pair of one-time St. Louis Cardinal pitchers, should not be permitted to rejoin their mates immediately.

All three players are among those suspended for five years by Commissioner A. B. Chandler in 1946 for jumping their jobs in organized baseball and playing in the independent Mexican League.

The hearings are of two baseball's rare appearances in court. It always has been the sport's pride that it could handle its own problems.

It was baseball itself that banished the members of the Chicago Black Sox of 1919 for life although the court found the players innocent of a charge of throwing the world series. It was Commissioner K. M. Landis who barred William D. Cox, owner of the Philadelphia Phils, from the spot for life for betting on games. And it was Chandler in 1946 who rules that the jumpers to the Mexican League would have to sit out a five-year sentence.

Neither of next week's injunction hearings are connected directly with the $300,000 damage suit which Gardella has pending against the Giants and baseball as a whole.

Swimming Meet Starts Thursday

AUSTIN, March 12 (U-P)—Four new records seem assured and all of the existing marks will be in sharp jeopardy when the Southwest Conference holds its swimming meet here this week end.

The meet begins Thursday night with the 1,500 meter free style, one of the four new events that have been added. Preliminaries and the finals in six events will be held Friday with the remainder Saturday.

On the basis of dual meet competition, the Texas Longhorns will be favorites to win their 16th clear title in 18 years. The Longhorns lost to A&M in 1945 and tied the Aggies in 1944.

Distances have been lengthened in three events, thus assuring new records. These events are the 200 yard individual medley, the 200 yard breast stroke and the 150 yard back stroke.

Lepard Second In 880 Race

Leon Lepard, former Big Spring high school star, ran second to Mercado of East Texas State in the finals of the 880-yard run in the Border Olympics at Laredo Saturday night.

Lepard, now attending Abilene Christian College, forced Mercado to a time of 1:57.3 minutes. The time turned in by Mercado bettered the winning time in the university division, which was won by Tarrant of Oklahoma A & M. Tarrant's time was 1:57.7. Lepard also ran the third heat in the winning mile relay team. The ACC quartet finished in 3:25 minutes.

Cosden To Open Baseball Wars On Own Field

Knott, Cosden's Oilers of Big Spring and Coahoma will play hosts in first round games of the Tri-county baseball league, which begins its schedule Sunday, April 17, and continues for 15 weeks thereafter.

The Knott team will entertain the Howard County Junior college Jayhawks. Forsan comes to town to play Cosden while Ackerly invades Coahoma.

Regular season's play will continue through Sunday, July 24. The teams will take two week's layoff following that date, during which time playoffs for any tie that might result will be worked out.

The top four clubs will then participate in a Shaughnessy playoff for the championship. In event no tie for first or fourth place must be played at the end of the season, the Shaughnessy games will start on Sunday, July 31, with the first place team meeting the fourth and the second the third.

Forsan is the defending champion, in the league, having beaten Howard County Junior college in a special playoff in 1948. HJCJC had won first half honors, Forsan the final half.

Team managers will meet again Sunday, April 3, at the Settles hotel for the purpose of working out final details for the opening of play.

Tom Green Gets Strawn Venture

J. K. Wadley of Texarkana and R. T. Adams of Fort Worth No. 1 J. Wiley Green is to be a 5,000-foot wildcat in Southeast Tom Green county, to test into the Strawn line of the Pennsylvanian.

Rotary rig is being moved in for the project and actual drilling will start within the next ten days.

The venture will be 330 feet from north and west lines of section 195, district 11, SPRR survey. That makes it 16 miles southeast of San Angelo, and approximately one mile east of the nearest well in the Susan Peak field, where the production is from the Strawn line.

It is understood that if the Wadley and Adams venture fails to produce from the Strawn that it will be drilled below that formation to test lower horizons.

Adams Drilling company, of which R. T. Adams is the operator has the contract to drill the wildcat.

Pennsylvania Pay Is Encountered In New Coleman Area

Guy Mabey No. 1 Kennedy, West-Central Coleman county wildcat has discovered a new field from the Palo Pinto line of the Pennsylvanian.

This project flowed an average of 22 barrels of 43.4 gravity oil per hour, through open two-inch tubing, with a small shakeout of acid water, and is still flowing to clean out and test.

The production is coming from two streaks of pay. The zone at 3,071-78 feet had been treated with 4,000 gallons of acid, and the section at 3,109-14 feet had received a 3,000 gallon acid injection. No formation water has developed. The 5 1/2-inch casing is cemented at 3,015 feet.

The new discovery is 660 feet from north and west lines of the south half of F. Owen survey No. 210 and is four miles north of the Leonard field. It is one and three-quarter miles north of Talpa.

Mabey and associates have leases on about 7,000 acres surrounding the new field opener. The spread on which the well was drilled was assembled by Homer E. Ogden of Midland. He retains an interest in the acreage and in the new producer.

The wildcat has indicated that it will also produce from the Gardner sand section above the Palo Pinto. No formation has been released regarding any tests that may have been made on the formation.

Sterling Well Test

A drillstem test was scheduled for Pan American and Taylor Refining Company No. 2 R. W. Foster, Southeast Sterling county wildcat to the southwest of the Marvin-Wichita-Albany field.

The examination was to be on the formation at 4,114-22 feet, which showed staining and slight saturation when penetrated.

This prospect is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 10, block 13, SPRR survey, about nine miles south.

Missing Scion Is

CHICAGO, March 12. (U) — The body of Daniel H. Heekin, Jr., 34, missing son of a wealthy Cincinnati manufacturer, was found last night in Lake Michigan.

The body was identified by young Heekin's brother-in-law, Edward Berghausen of Cincinnati.

WEST TEXAS OIL

Completion Due On Deep Venture

By JOHN B. BREWER

SAN ANGELO, March 12.—Heavy yield of Ellenburger oil this week gave Magnolia No. 1-A TXL in northwestern Upton County the earmarks of one of the Permian Basin's major discoveries.

Magnolia No. 1-A TXL in Upton was in the process of completion at the week's close as a major Ellenburger strike from 60 feet of an indicated 275 feet of pay. On a 23-hour gauge from 12,700-60 feet, the strike made 1,535 barrels of oil, an average of 66.7 barrels per hour. Completion will be from the perforated section. The remainder of the Ellenburger up to the top of that formation at 12,530 feet will not be opened. Nor will any attempt be made to develop production from indicated flowing production from Pennsylvanian line, possible production from the Wolfcamp, basal Permian, or gas shows in the Devonian. Location is in the C NW 31-40-3s, T&P, quarter mile south of the Midland county line.

Magnolia also staked short northeast and southwest outposts to No. 1-A TXL. No. 3-0 Dr. Roy Glass of San Angelo will be in Midland County one location north and one location east of the discovery. It will be 660 feet from the south, 1,980 feet from the west lines of section 30-40-4s, T&P, 2,970 feet southwest of No. 1 Glass, a 1947 Permian line failure. No. 1 Glass drilled to 5,569 feet without results. No. 3-0 Glass is contracted to 13,300 feet with rotary, to start March 13.

The southwest diagonal offset to the discovery will be Magnolia No. 1-36 Dr. Roy Glass, 1,980 feet from the north, 660 feet from the east line of section 30-41-T&P. It is also contracted to 13,300 feet with rotary to start March 13.

Placid Oil Co. No. 1 Robert Foreman on the north side of the Bronte field in Coke county, a failure in the regular Palo Pinto pay, had prospects of production from a sand deeper in the Pennsylvanian. On a drillstem test from 4,975-94 feet, lasting 1 1/2 hours, it recovered 1,090

Commercial Well Is Fined Near Lubbock

A commercial oil well has been completed in the Lee Harrison field, formerly called the Lubbock field, of Central Lubbock county. It is Tube Foster, et al, No. 2, B Nairn, 330 feet from west and south lines of the lease in section 25, block A, Gibson survey.

On a 24-hour potential test, the well pumped 24 hours to make 117.05 barrels of oil, with gas-oil ratio of 400 L. Gravity of the petroleum was 25 degrees. The total fluid recovered was cut three per cent water.

The pay section at 4,872-5,021 feet was previously treated with 14,000 gallons of acid.

Extension To Deep Ector Zone Tested

Gulf Oil Corporation was testing prior to completing its No. 458-E. Goldsmith, extension to the Goldsmith-Ellenburger production of Northwest Ector county, 660 feet from north and 2,007 feet from east lines of section 15, block 44, T-1-S, TP survey.

From the open hole section at 8,480-9,533 feet in the Ellenburger, it kicked off and flowed nine hours, producing 488 barrels of fluid. Shakeout was not reported, but the recovery was resumed to be mostly, if not entirely, oil. Gravity was 43.4 degrees. Testing was continuing.

S'west Terry Test To Check Ellenburger

MIDLAND, March 12.—Hiawatha Oil & Gas company will start operations in the near future on a wildcat to explore into the Ellenburger in Southwest Terry county, approximately 15 miles southwest of Brownfield.

The prospector will be Hiawatha No. 1 J. W. Robbins, et al. The drillsite is to be in the southwest quarter of section 56, block D-14, C&MRR survey.

It is expected that the venture will have to dig to at least 11,000 feet, and possibly may have to go to 12,000 feet to find and test the Ellenburger.

Hiawatha has a block of more than 6,000 acres of leases surrounding the location. This acreage was originally blocked by Seaboard Oil company of Delaware. It was checked by seismograph, and that survey showed possibilities of a deep structure on the block.

Seaboard turned the acreage to Hiawatha to drill and retained an over-ride on the block.

Drilling with rotary is to start at the deep wildcat in the near future. Exact location will be announced in a few days.

Seaboard Oil company of Delaware and Republic Natural Gas company have taken an oil and gas lease on the George Beggs of Fort Worth ranch of approximately 38,000 acres in East Garza county and in West Kent county.

Consideration for the lease is reported to be the payment of $1.00 per acre to the landowner each year for ten years. No initial bonus payment is called for by the transaction, and no annual rental is called for.

The contract does not include any drilling obligation.

It is understood that the two companies are equal partners in the deal.

The Texas company was swabbing the West-Central Andrews county Devonian with its No. 1-W State, wildcat one and one-half miles north of the West Parker-Devonian field.

Bottomed at 8,450 feet, the venture perforated the section of pipe at 8,310-58 feet. Those perforations were washed with 500 gallons of mud acid. Operator was swabbing water and acid residue on last report.

This prospect is 665 feet from east and 662.8 feet from south lines of the north half of section 33, block 12, University survey.

Adjacent to the North Russell field of West-Central Gaines county, Pacific Western Oil corporation was drilling ahead with its No. 1 Oil Development, deep wildcat.

The prospector, 660 feet from south and east lines of section 315, block G, CCSD&RGNG survey, was below 6,325 feet in lime.

A second drillstem test of the M. J. Delaney No. 1-B University, possible northwest extension to the Shafter Lake-Wolfcamp pool of northcentral Andrews county.

The tool was open for an unreported period of time at 8,605-22 feet. Recovery was 120 feet of oil and gas emulsion plus two feet of salt water.

A previous test in the Wolfcamp at 8,598-8,607 feet had gas in 15 minutes and recovered 2,350 feet of clean oil and 400 feet of oil cut, watery mud.

LOCAL OIL

Seaboard Nears Final For Test

Seaboard Oil Company of Delaware was in the process of completing three of its wells for commercial production from the Pennsylvanian in the Vealmoor field of North-Central Howard County.

The concern's No. 1 Male Zant, 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 29, block 32, T-3-N, TP survey, a west outpost to the pool, was bottomed on 7,915 feet, running a string of 5 1/2-inch casing.

Seaboard No. 2 H. N. Zant was running tubing preparatory to swab over total depth of 7,812 feet. It is 660 feet from west and 1,985.5 feet from north lines of section 28, block 32, T-3-N, TP survey.

Seaboard No. 3 H. N. Zant, 660 feet from south and west lines of section 28, block 32, T-3-N, TP survey, was drilling out cement plug on 5 1/2-inch casing set at 7,787 feet with 200 sacks of cement. It is bottomed on 7,796 feet.

In South-Central Borden County, approximately six miles northwest of the Vealmoor field, Seaboard was making hole with its No. 1 T. J. Good, 1,985 feet from south and 2,094 feet from west lines of section 37, block 33, T-4-N, TP survey.

Last report had it below 5,900 feet in lime. Projected depth is 6,500 feet.

In the Vincent area of extreme

Northeast Howard County, Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 1-A Herman Gartner, wildcat, 660 feet from north and west lines of section 67, block 20, Lavaca Navigation District survey, was boring on from 8,301 feet in lime, shale and chert.

Venturing in the central portion of Howard County, five miles east of Big Spring, Sun Oil Company No. 1 Cooden Oil Company was below 6,149 feet, penetrating shale, sand and lime.

It is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 38, block 32, T-1-N, TP survey.

Lone Star Producing Company No. 1 Maule, one location north of a producer from the lower Canyon on the northwest side of the North Snyder field, in North-Central Scurry County, is swabbing to test on perforated section at 5,572-5,610 feet.

The horizon at 5,620-34 feet had swabbed a salt water with a rain-bow of oil, and it has been squeezed off with cement. This development drilled to a total depth of 7,190 feet in Pennsylvanian lime.

There were some slight shows of oil in the bottom section, but they were not sufficient for commercial production.

COSTING PUBLIC PLENTY

Sharp Salesmen Now Pose As Poll-Takers

NEW YORK, March 12. (U.S.)—The popularity of public opinion polls has spawned a dubious offspring that is costing Americans plenty.

Sharp salesmen are posing as poll-takers to gain the confidence of their victims, then selling them cheap merchandise at painfully exorbitant prices.

Complaints have been pouring in to better business bureaus from more than a score of cities. Not only from the duped buyers, but also from bona fide market research agencies, from companies whose advertised brand names often are misused by the phony pollsters, and from legitimate door-to-door salesmen.

The National Better Business Bureau says this form of public deception is by far the most widespread salesmanship "racket" to emerge in this country since the war. It's spreading fast in rural areas, too.

The golden gimmick, as the fake survey approach has been dubbed, has many variations. But here's how it generally works:

The salesman knocks on Mrs. Smith's door and tells her he's making a survey to determine the neighborhood's favorite radio program—or comic strip, or soap.

He may claim to represent a nationally-known advertiser. Mrs. Smith probably is willing to give her opinion. She knows the true field interviewer merits her support. After all, legitimate market surveys often result in better products. And how is a company to know how its goods and services can be made to suit her better unless she speaks her mind? So she invites him in.

The salesman makes a big show of writing down her answers carefully. He flows over with gratitude for her co-operation. "To show you our appreciation," he may say, "we'd like to send you this valuable silverware set. All you'll have to pay is the cost of handling and postage—$2 a week for a short time. Just write your name and address down here so we'll know where to send it, and thank you so much."

Mrs. Smith scribbles her name and address, and graciously shows the gentleman out. Then she takes another look at the fine print above her signature—and finds she's going to be paying that $2 a week for a long, long time. That's a sales contract she signed.

Maybe the salesman doesn't even leave her a copy, and the next time she sees that little slip of paper it's in a bill-collector's hand.

John J. Burke, who heads the NBBB's nationwide campaign against this type of salesmanship, makes it clear the bureau does not question the right of anyone to conduct a survey of opinion, whether or not the material ever is used later.

"What we object to is the misleading use of the survey approach to get in to people's homes for a sales spiel," he said.

"The housewife has a right to know what the seller is really after before she opens her door to him. Some people find it psychologically impossible to get rid of a high pressure salesman without making a purchase, once he's in the house."

Burke said complaints still are being received, nearly a year after the racket was first reported.

"In Brooklyn just a couple of weeks ago, a glib-tongued expert at the golden gimmick made a clean sweep of one neighborhood," he said. "Then a few days later, somebody else tried it. He hardly got the word 'survey' out of his mouth before his prospect called for help. I'm told the angry housewives chased him for blocks."

At Bangor, Me., the bureau's warning reached town almost at the same time the phony pollsters did.

"A newspaper editor there wrote an editorial about it and folks were ready for 'em," Burke said. "But in other cities from Philadelphia to San Francisco, the phony pollsters have made a mint."

How can you tell if a survey is sincere?

"The true survey interviewer will never try to sell you anything, never ask you to pay any money, and never ask you to sign an agreement to buy anything," said Burke. "If he does, please refer his name, company and the product he's selling to the Better Business Bureau or your Chamber of Commerce."

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

Congress Fixed America's First 'Standard' Of Time

WASHINGTON, March 12. (U.S.)—Once upon a time there was no time in America—at least not so you could tell it right.

You had a pretty good general idea, but if you lived in Kansas City, say, you'd watch might read 1:20 p. m.—and your neighbor's might read 1:40. It depended largely on which jeweler you patronized. Each jeweler furnished his own "time" to his customers, and no two times agreed.

There simply was no "standard." If you took a train from New York to Philadelphia you had to set your watch back five minutes on arrival if you wanted to get in time with the city of brotherly love.

In Washington 11,890 feet and seven seconds marked the space and time differentials between the capitol building and the Lincoln Memorial.

How come? Because before March 13, 1884—65 years ago today—local areas all over the country ate, worked and slept on their own local or "sun" time. On that date President Chester A. Arthur signed an act of Congress which established one single time for the District of Columbia. That act was the first to fix a "standard" of time for any part of the country.

But the railroads, rather than Congress, were the prime movers toward a sensible standard of time. In 1883 we had almost 100 different time zones, and none was clearly definable. If a travelling salesman were peddling wares from Eastport, Me., to San Francisco he would have been obliged to set his watch more than 20 times if he wanted to make his connections.

In Pittsburgh railroads used no less than six standards of time for the arrival and departure of trains. The Chicago Tribune listed 27 different local times in Michigan, 38 in Wisconsin, 27 in Illinois and 23 in Indiana.

By 1883 our railroads lines 121,422 miles on three separate routes from east to west coast. The ease with which people could get from home to distant parts stimulated travel to an unprecedented degree. And more and more people started talking about the confusing time setup. But as with the weather, nobody seemed to do anything about it.

So the railroad took the matter into their own hands. Their general time convention adopted a definite "standard of time" on Oct. 11, 1883. The new railroad standard time established five time zones—one in the eastern provinces of Canada and four in the U. S., called Eastern, Central, Mountain and Pacific times.

The four U. S. zones were to use the "sun" time at the 75th, 90th, 105th and 120 meridians west of Greenwich, England. All railroad clocks were ordered set to the new standard at noon, Sunday, Nov. 18, 1883.

Neither federal nor state governments were involved in the change. Some local governments rebelled at the idea. Said the Indianapolis Sentinel in an editorial:

"Railroad time is to be the time of the future. The sun is no longer to boss the job. People—$5,000,000 of them—must eat, sleep and work as well as travel by railroad time. The planets must, in the future, make their circuits by such time-tables as railroad magnates arrange."

The New York Herald took it better. It commented: "The man who goes to church today will hug himself with delight to find the noon service has been curtailed by four minutes. And every old maid on Beacon Hill, in Boston, will rejoice to discover she is younger by almost 16 minutes!"

Most people liked the idea. Business offices, churches, farms and schools quickly adopted the new standard.

But it wasn't till 35 years later that the federal government officially recognized standard time for the whole country. On March 19, 1918, Congress passed the Standard Time Act, which did two things:

1. Sanctioned the standard of time set up by the railroads, giving the Interstate Commerce Commission the job of defining borders between time zones and making changes when necessary.

2. Establish daylight saving time for the war period. But people didn't like daylight saving and in October 1919 that part of the act was repealed.

Today even the mayor of Bangor, Me., is reconciled to standard time. The mayor of 1883 wasn't. He vetoed a city council order, endorsing the new system, with these words: "No one has the power to change one of the immutable laws of God."

Mexico Senator Makes Bid For U. S. Capital

WASHINGTON, March 12. (U.S.)—Senator Antonio Bermudez, director of the Mexican petroleum monopoly, said Friday the United States can help meet Mexico's unlimited needs for capital to boost oil production.

Bermudez said a U. S. government loan would be "convenient" but declined to say specifically that he is hoping for such a credit.

In response to a direct question at a press conference, he said:

"The collateral Mexico offers is perfectly satisfactory. It is a good business proposition and we could repay every cent of any loan made to us."

Bermudez said estimates of Mexico's financial needs "could run from one thousand to one thousand million dollars."

Bermudez emphasized Mexico's need for U. S. money and technical assistance a day after conferring with Rep. Robert Crosser (D-Ohio) chairman of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee. He came here two days ago at Crosser's invitation to discuss U. S. participation in the Mexican oil industry.

Fashions For Spring . . . Distinctively "Big Spring"

Spring styles in the Big Spring manner catch the spirit of the centennial of the discovery of the big spring. Designs and settings may be new, but they convey the ever-changing parade to stay abreast of the times.

Backgrounds have changed tremendously in the century since white man first laid eyes on the spring, and most of all within the past 25 years. Style conscious Big Spring women and children have kept pace, too, for a catalogue of styles from the wasp-waisted Gibson girls days to the modern silhouette counterpart would tell its own story of progress just as surely as railroads, airplanes, oil wells, refineries, cotton fields, paved thoroughfares and a host of other material things.

(All Photos by Jack M. Haynes)

OFF THE SHOULDER—"Girl at the spring"—Wanda Richardson (left) sports an off-the-shoulder frock in pastel blue cotton broadcloth. The long-fitted bodice has puff sleeves, neckline is trimmed with lace and a bow of self material. Skirt is full gathered.

SUN DRESS—Nell Rhea McCrary (right) models a sun dress of orchid butcher linen, with white embroidery trim on neckline and on peplum of the fitted buttoned jacket. Spectator pumps complete the sports-for-spring ensemble.

PRINTED RAYON—For "less than formal" spring wear, Mrs. E. H. Boulioun, Jr., (below) is attired in printed rayon fitted dress of brown, tan and blue. Full circular flounce on skirt. Brown linen bolero is lined with dress fabric.

ON FORMAL—White lace provides glamor in the evening gown modeled by Mrs. John Davis (above). The gown is strapless, with fitted bodice. The very full skirt is over a taffeta slip trimmed with rose grosgrain ribbon binding. Stole is of white lace.

NEW SILHOUETTE—Changes by Mrs. Ted Phillips (above) in brown cotton two-piece dress. Waist is of eyelet embroidered broadcloth with peplum, featuring plunging neckline with collar. Pencil-slim skirt. Brown straw, off-the-face bonnet has net chin tie.

H-I - talk

By Dolores Franklin

With her horn-rimmed glasses perched on her slightly upturned nose, Virginia Costello, senior representative of 1949 Who's Who, gives the impression of being a very studious girl, interested only in her studies. But Virginia, though she likes her books, is a girl of action. That's why her main interest is volleyball. Ginger says her most thrilling moment was when she made the all-tournament volleyball team for the first time. A member of the Girls Athletic association, all tournament team three years, press club, and Who's Who, Ginger says her hobby is— you guessed it! Volleyball!

Lowie Rice, junior representative of the Who's Who, was most embarrassed when he was attending a volleyball game and the girl sitting beside him slapped him for teasing her. Lowie is a member of the Big Spring F. F. A. chapter and was a member of the Latin club last year. He was sophomore favorite and is on the Who's Who. He plans to enter Texas A & M when he graduates, to major in agriculture. Lowie was most thrilled when his steer won championship at El Paso, and he's sure made a good start for his ambition, he says, is to be a famous roper.

'Daring' Is The Word For Spring

It will be a colorful season in Big Spring's parade of spring fashions.

Daring might be a better word than colorful, for the bold plaids, dark prints, and new shades of standard colors are bolder and more striking than before. Some more conservative souls may be convinced that they are bold enough to say "how do you do" in the '49 manner.

Outstanding color of the season is probably navy blue. It really seems to be THE thing, whether used in suits, dresses, hats or even hose, which have also taken on the orchid and nude shades.

"Buttons and bows" are more than popular this year, too, and their popularity has extended far beyond the hit tune stage. For the woman or girl who likes the styles just a bit "old fashioned," it will be a very enjoyable season. It's going to be frills, frills, frills and "the charming young miss" will certainly look her part.

It's been many a season since orchid has held a "place in the sun," but it will make up for any lost time this season. If it's the lady's color, she can't go wrong in planning it to fit into her wardrobe in some fashion.

Another outstanding color is green. It's being used to a great extent in shoes and bags as well as garments of various types. It looks well in many combinations and that's well this season because the solid colors are not the most popular. In fact, white is almost non-existent in some stores.

Regardless of the buyer's hair, coloring or build, she should be able to find a color just for her this season. With all of the new shades, some of the clerks are even stumped for names. They all have names of course, but with new materials and colors, too, it's difficult to keep up with the latest.

Homemakers Class Has Luncheon And Quilting Meeting

Members of the First Baptist Homemakers Class met at the church Friday for a covered dish luncheon and quilting. After the opening prayer and a devotional by Mrs. H. W. Bartlett, the group completed one quilt.

Those present were: Mrs. Harry Billington, Mrs. M. D. Stewart, Mrs. W. F. Cain, Mrs. Roy Green, Mrs. George Melear, Mrs. Ethel Bartlett, Mrs. Sol Bledsoe, Mrs. M. E. Harlan, Mrs. Inez Lewis, Mrs. G. C. Potts, Mrs. L. C. Chapman, Mrs. R. M. Snyder and Dickie, Mrs. T. A. Rogers, and two visitors, Mrs. M. D. Bishop, Fort Worth, and Mrs. Earl Bishop, Carlsbad, N. M.

YOUNGER GENERATION DRESSES UP, TOO—Mr. and Mrs. Future Big Spring are getting ready for spring, as well as the grown-ups; and typical apparel is presented in this picture. Judy Kay Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Brown, wears a "buttons and bows" dress of pink dotted swiss with blue buttons and bows for trim. It's a very full skirt with eight-inch hem, and a full peplum. All-over embroidery ruffly trim on peplum and sleeves. Her hat is a felt flower clip. Donnell Knightstep, son of Mr. and Mrs. Knightstep, is the well-dressed young man in Palm Beach short pant suit of beige, with matching cap. (Photo by Jack M. Haynes).

The Gay Spirit Captured In Colors And Fabrics Of Spring Presentations

Prevalent in conversations over tea, the telephone and in Big Spring dress salons is sparkling talk about spring clothes.

Spectacular seems to describe them better than anything else. The dresses are designed for one purpose this season and that seems to be the imparting of a gay spirit to the wearer.

The best color for spring is navy blue; much orchid, purple and mauve is on display and yellow and green is excellent. Colors range from dynamic tangerine to the palest of pinks.

Styles are varied and very attractive. The full, full skirt of last season has been modified to a graceful flare for Miss Spring, 1949.

Boleiros, jackets, sporties are much in the news. These are made from matching materials, bold plaids and linens of startling contrasts.

Waistlines are fitted, with high midriffs and snug bodices. The empire fashion is evident and princess lines are good. Some of the "different looks" include fitted dresses with a full, circular flounce beginning at the knee and the sacque dress, tightly belted at the waist.

Silk prints and shantung are important. Both are featured in bold, dark colors. Dark, after five taffetas are good and the ordinary chambray has received a glamor treatment, called iridescent chambray. Tissue silk faille is used for the "dresses" dresses, designed to give milady a more subdued, lady-like rustle as she moves about.

For casual wear and play, one can find skirts and play suit ensembles in faded denim. These feature huge, workman-like pockets at the hipline and can be purchased together or as separates.

Lingerie accentuates the feminine. Bows, frills and lace are used to profusion.

Jewelry is a must with the new spring wardrobe. Strands and strands of simulated pearls in varying shades are worn high at the throat or left to decorate the bodice of the dress. Small dainty pins may be used at the waist or the shoulder and choker necklaces seem to be popular, perhaps to modify the plunging neckline effect.

And if you would be known for your special feminine charm, then, perhaps you, too, will place a fresh, bright flower just below your chin to proclaim to the world that "Suddenly, It's Spring."

Mexican Supper Set By Sewing Club On Friday

Plans were made for a Mexican supper to be held in the home of Mrs. Viola Sneed, Center Point, next Saturday night when the Happy Stitches Club met in the home of Mrs. Lorraine Williams, 606 Gregg, Friday.

It was announced that the next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Polly Sundry, 1508 Scurry.

Refreshments were served to the following: Mrs. Bessie Daugherty, Mrs. Polly Sundry, Mrs. Viola Sneed, Mrs. Jeroma Deam Sanderson, Mrs. Ella Ruth Morton, Mrs. Mardena Matthes and Louise Logsdon.

Square Dancers Meet At YMCA

YMCA Square Dance Club held a regular session at the YMCA headquarters Thursday night.

Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Sam Bloom, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Shive, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jones, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Basham, Mr. and Mrs. K. D. Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Roden, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Blum, Mr. and Mrs. Omar Pitman, Mr. and Mrs. R. Fitzgerald, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Agee, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Witt, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Rowe, Mr. and Mrs. Burl Haynie, Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Lepeard.

Necklines, Not Skirts, Represent The Change In Newest Apparel

Woman, put up those shears!

Spring fashions now on display here argue against hasty use of scissors in trimming skirts. Fashion clerks say there may be some debate as to the length of a lady's skirts this season, but an extreme cut in lengths is not guaranteed by any manner for this season.

A gradual raising of the hemline from the floor may be in order, but it will be safe and stylish to keep those skirts at approximately the same length you have grown used to in the past season.

"I took a long time to get that 'new look,' but it looks like, on the basis of this year's new crop of styles, that it may take a longer time to achieve a 'newer look.' There is at least one extreme change in the fashion world however but it has to do with necklines not with skirts. Higher necklines may have looked good last season and they will still have a season with some styles, but like the skirts did not so long ago, those necklines have gone down, down, down. Someone has been guilty of saying that women's styles are just like elevators, they keep going up and down.

Fifth Birthday Is Party Occasion

Mrs. T. A. Welch entertained her son, Tommy, with a party on his fifth birthday anniversary in their home Thursday evening.

Pictures were taken of the group and refreshments were served. Games were played as entertainment.

Attending were Elvin Ray Dickson, Daniel Wilton, Billy Carroll Bradberry, Richard and Mary Bain, Sylvia Coe, Mary Covert, Sherry and Louis Dean Baggett, Sandra, Pamela and Theresa Kimbrough, Sharon and Jerry Welch, Mrs. R. D. Dickey, Mrs. W. T. Bradberry, Mrs. W. H. Kimbrough, Mrs. M. D. Baggett and the hostess and honoree.

Colors, of course, are outstanding this season, as are the new materials, including the pure silk voile and new varieties of chambray. Take note of cotton, girls, it's not a new material, but it will be very good this season. It's being used in the more expensive lines as well as the inexpensive.

Men will have a lot more to talk about when it comes to women's hats this spring. If that is possible, hats have been covered with flowers, ribbons and what-have-you before, but there will be even more trimming this year. If you want a hat just like one of Carmen Miranda, there's at least one of those in town, too.

Jewelry will be popular and will be used to make the bright costumes even brighter. It will be worn in many fashions, old and new. Necklaces will be made with longer strands than usual.

Dorothy Nell Miller Named Party Honoree

Mrs. Carmen Dwyer entertained her daughter, Dorothy Nell Miller, on her eighth birthday anniversary with a party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Adams, great-grandparents of the honoree.

The table was laid with a white cloth and the centerpiece consisted of a floral arrangement.

Games were entertainment and prizes were presented the winners. Approximately 18 persons attended.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Coleman, taking their first vacation trip in several years, have been visiting in the lower Rio Grande valley. They found the freeze had done much damage but that weather now is mild and pleasant. They made a junket to Mexico. R. L. Rogers writes from Eureka Springs, Ark. that he and his wife are having a short rest there and will return this week.

Tech Band To Appear

The concert band from Texas Technological College, eighty strong, will give a concert at the high school auditorium on March 22 at 11 a. m.

This band has been acclaimed over a large part of the nation as one of the finest college organizations in the country. Playing everything from classics to moderns, this versatile group will give a program which the public will probably like very much.

Oil Paintings Are Discussed At Club Meeting

"How To Select An Oil Painting" and "China Paintings" were discussed by Mrs. E. H. Hoppel at the meeting of the Art Study club in the home of Mrs. C. B. Lawrence Friday.

Oil Paintings and a water color by Mrs. Hoppel were displayed and a pastel painting was shown by Mrs. Ira Raley.

Mrs. Raley announced that the Mary Raley Art Show will be held at the Settles Hotel April 22. The public is invited and the hours are from 2 to 5 p. m. and from 7 to 9 p. m.

Those attending were Mrs. Alton Underwood, Mrs. J. W. Elrod, Jr., Mrs. W. D. Green, Mrs. Charles Kee, Mrs. Robert Satterwhite, Mrs. Ira C. Raley, Mrs. Ray L. Coffee, two guests, Mrs. E. H. Hoppel and Mrs. Edwin Lowe and the hostess.

In 1840 several women, including Quakeress Lucretia Mott, were sent to a World's Anti-Slavery Convention in London, but were not permitted to take their seats.

Flattering Footwear Is Milady's Demand

In olden times, if a shoe was functional it was sufficient; but not so in the spring of 1949.

Today, milady demands not only that a shoe fit well and feel well, but that it flatter the foot, the ankle and the leg.

And, it does!

Spectators receive the most prominence in the shoe departments in the local stores. White with blue, white with black, white with red and the standard white with brown are all featured. All-white shoes are seldom seen.

Toes tend to be more pointed and long, slender lines are encouraged. The opera pump is a spring favorite, though less pointed and with a shorter vamp than her winter sister.

Straps are of utmost importance, ranging from the one-strap across the instep design to as many as eight in some cases. The ankle strap is still a favorite, but has lost much of its popularity to the newer sandal that crosses just over the ankle bone. Colors vary from the unusual dark: black, brown and navy to pastel shades died to match the wearer's costume. Green shoes are excellent, so are purple.

Multi-colored raffia sandals with matching bag are spring news for the beach and casual wear. These are very comfortable and cool and look well with the much featured cotton ensembles.

Not since the war has there been such a revival of crepe soles. And this season they wear a new face: whereas, before they were used by school children and sports women, now they look proud enough to be worn for daytime and street wear.

Read and straw bags are spring news. The former is used for more formal occasions than the latter. Cloth bags are extremely popular and can be bought in a variety of colors to match the wearer's shoes.

Full Calendar For The YMCA During Week

A busy week of activities for the YMCA and its small groups lies ahead, Lee Milling, executive secretary, announced Saturday.

Leading off at 5 p. m. Monday will be the gym and volleyball class for young women, to which any young woman is welcome. Later in the evening the H-Y club meets to select delegates to the Youth Conference at Odessa next Friday and Saturday. When it adjourns to the game room, men interested in quartet singing (either as participants or listeners) will seek to organize a chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America. Dan Conley is in charge, and said tenors are needed especially.

Tuesday evening the week's highlight turns up with the annual YMCA meeting in the high school cafeteria. Tri-Hi-Y girls will serve and Barritt S. Mills, world-traveler, will speak.

The GRA-Y club of College Heights will meet Wednesday at 3:30 p. m. for a business session and to practice softball. The same evening the Teen-Age group will take instruction from Jack Thompson in folk dance routines. Last week 50 attended.

Tri-Hi-Y girls meet at the Y Thursday at 4:30 p. m. and they also will name delegates to the Youth Conference. Thursday evening the Y-Square Dance club, headed by Joe Blum, meets.

One of the most energetic groups scheduled is the Junior Social group, composed of those in the seventh grade and below. Meeting time is Friday evening at the Y under supervision of Ruth Burnham.

Saturday morning games and movies will constitute the program at the Y for boys under 12. Other boys will be practicing for a softball league under direction of Culin Grigsby.

Saturday evening at the Y is reserved for a social for high school boys and girls. Ricki Cooper is supervising. Meantime, local delegates, accompanied by Muriel Floyd, J. W. King and Lee Milling will be at the Odessa party. Dr. P. D. O'Brien, Big Spring, will deliver the keynote address for this meeting.

Milling stressed that people of all ages are welcome at the Y, and he urged visitation of activities. He also said that young people are encouraged to visit the office and discuss any special wholesome activities which would serve their needs.

Drys, WCTU In Hot Attack On Pool Hall Bill

DALLAS, March 12. (AP) — The United Texas Drys want the Legislature to turn down a bill to legalize pool halls because it would allow the sale of beer in them and would allow youths as young as 16 to frequent them.

Dr. Walter H. McKenzie, executive secretary of the organization, said Friday the drys don't favor pool halls but probably would not have protested the bill except for those two provisions.

AUSTIN, March 12. (AP) — The State WCTU president yesterday attacked a pool hall licensing bill as an attempt to create "another type of beer joint in our state." The bill, by Rep. Miller Walker of Beaumont, was amended by the House this week legalizing the sale of beer in billiard recreation rooms.

"This so-called pool hall measure, now brought out into the open as an instrument to create additional places to sell beer in Texas, has the earmarks of a device to recreate the manifold evils which caused Texas to outlaw the crime-breeding pool hall many years ago," said Mrs. Claude De Van Watts, head of the WCTU.

THE TEXAS POLL

Texans Want To Control Schools

By JOE BELDEN
Director, The Texas Poll

AUSTIN, March 12.—There is little doubt in most Texans' minds that our public schools should be locally controlled. But only one out of every five taxpayers believes that local government should be the principal provider of money to run the schools.

Almost as many—one out of every six—say, "let Uncle Sam supply most of the money." However, less than half of these people who are attracted by the federal purse would be willing to relinquish local control of their schools.

The attitude of many people is that the federal government does a good job of collecting revenue, but local and state governments would do a better job of spending it.

These are the findings of a survey by The Texas Poll, in which a cross section of men and women in all sections of the state was asked the following questions:

1. "In general, which do you think does the best job with the money it has to spend—your county government, the state government in Austin, or the federal government in Washington?"

County 28
State 28
Federal 23
Don't Know 21

100

2. "Do you think the money to run our public schools should come mostly from the federal government in Washington, the state government in Austin, or the local governments in the various counties?"

Mostly federal 17
Mostly state 46
Mostly local 20
Qualified answer 9
Don't Know 8

100

3. "Which do you think would do the best job of running our public schools—federal officials in Washington, state officials in Austin, or local officials in the various counties?"

Federal officials 7
State officials 26
Local officials 60
Qualified answers 2
No opinion 5

100

It can be seen from these results that the weight of opinion favors the state government as principal provider of school funds and local officials as the agents for their proper use. At the same time, a considerable minority is ready to shift the financial burden from the state to the federal government.

The U. S. Congress is now considering a plan to give financial aid to the various states to help improve their school systems. The amount of federal aid would be relatively small compared with the present total cost of the schools, but opponents fear that in time it may grow to such proportions as to endanger local control of the schools.

This view recently prompted the Texas Council of Church Women to go on record opposing U. S. Senate Bill 246, which provides for federal aid to education. "There is always danger of federal control or supervision," the Council decided. "It poses a threat to freedom of thinking which is the greatest bulwark of any Christian democracy."

Congress Weighs Far-Reaching Plan To Broaden Social Security Benefits

WASHINGTON, March 12 (U.S.)—The government's biggest mass welfare project in 10 years is being threshed out in Congress.

Legislation proposed by the Truman Administration would provide the greatest increase in social security since survivors benefits were added to old age insurance in 1939. The one per cent taxes paid by employees and employers for insurance benefits would be raised July 1 and doubled by next January.

The increase and extension of benefits and the taxes for them would affect more than 60 million wage earners, farmers, small businessmen and professional people. Also their families and their employees if they have any.

The legislation requested by President Truman calls for (1) large increases in old age and survivors insurance payments, (2) boosts in the insurance tax, (3) extension of old age insurance to an additional 20 million persons and (4) disability and sickness payments.

It also provides for direct government grants to needy persons of all ages instead of just the needy aged, the blind, and dependent children as now provided.

Rep. Kean (R-N.J.) has introduced a bill providing for substantial increase in old age insurance benefits, extended coverage of the insurance program and liberalizing the eligibility for insurance benefits.

These social security bills are separate from the compulsory health insurance program urged by President Truman.

Some 43 million workers are now covered by social security insurance, and 78,700,000 persons have some wage credits towards insurance. About 2,300,000 men, women and children are now receiving old age and survivors' insurance benefits.

(Many people confuse old age insurance with old age assistance, which is payment of government money to the needy. Persons who receive old age assistance funds do not contribute any money in order to get these funds.

(Persons under old age insurance have to contribute a part of their monthly wages—one per cent now—to get monthly benefits later. Employers contribute a similar amount for each employee.)

(A rich person can qualify for old age insurance.)

Retired workers now, drawing benefits would get the increased payments if the administration bill passes. So would their wives if they were 60 or older. Also the widows (if 60) and surviving children (under 18) of deceased workers who had been covered.

The administration's bill would reduce the qualifying age for women employees, wives and widows of insurance-covered persons from the present 65 to 60. Kean's bill reduces the age of retirement for women to 62.

The retirement age for men workers would remain at 65 under both bills.

Under the administration bill, the highest monthly insurance benefits paid one family, based on one wage-earner's contributions, would be $150. Under the present law, the highest possible monthly payment is $85. Kean's bill calls for a maximum family payment of $120.

Suppose a single person, 65 or older, with an average monthly wage of $200 has been contributing to insurance for 12 years. Under the administration bill his average wage would be the average for his highest-paid five consecutive years. His monthly benefit would be $63 compared with $39.20 under the present law.

Under the administration bill, if he were married and his wife were 60 or older, she would get a monthly benefit of $31.50, half the amount of his benefit. The total paid the couple would be $94.50 a month. Under present law the same couple receives $58.80 a month. The wife, however, doesn't begin drawing her benefit payment until she is 65.

Top total payment to a family on one wage earner's insurance credits would be $150 under the administration bill, but if both a man and his wife were wage earners under social security they could receive benefits totaling more than $150.

Increased monthly insurance benefits under the proposed law would be brought about in several ways. Among other things, the formula upon which monthly benefits are based would take into consideration 50 per cent of the first $75 of average monthly wages instead of 40 per cent of the first $50 of average wages as at present.

Under the administration bill, minimum benefits for insured persons with a small amount of earnings or a short period of coverage would be increased as follows:

Retired individual, from $10 now to $25 under the administration plan.

For retired man and wife, from $15 to $37.50.

For widow and two children, from $17.50 to $50.

Aged widow, from $10 to $17.50. The maximum amount of wages which can be taxed now is $250 a month, or $3,000 a year. Under the administration bill, the maximum amount taxable would be $400 a month, or $4,800 a year.

The highest tax paid at present by any employee, no matter how large his wage, is $2.50 a month, or $30 a year. On a $200 monthly wage the tax is $2 a month.

An employee's highest monthly tax beginning next January would be $8 under the administration bill. That would amount to $96 a year. The employer would pay similar tax amounts for each of his insured employees.

The administration bill would extend insurance coverage to farm labor, domestic servants, employees of non-profit institutions, federal employees not covered under a federal retirement plan, and state and local government employees if the state enters into a voluntary compact for such coverage.

It also would cover farmers and other self-employed persons, such as small businessmen and professional people, and civilian employees in Army, Navy and Marine post exchanges.

Members of the Armed forces could get insurance credits while in active service. They could use social security-covered employment forces long enough to get a ment. If they remained in the these credits later if they entered military retirement pension, their insurance credits would be canceled.

Year Of Possibilities, 1949 Also Calls For Big Decisions

The spring centennial year looms large in importance for Big Spring. Prophecy is always risky, but no powers of vision into the future are required to deduce that many vital decisions will be reached. In rapid succession, many things are taking shape.

For instance, the school board has called election on a $200,000 bond issue for March 25, hoping that approval by property voters will make available funds for construction and additions to relieve a crowded elementary school condition.

Now being circulated are petitions asking the call of an election for $600,000 in bonds for a new county courthouse. There seems little doubt that before long this will be submitted to voters.

Legislation has been introduced at Austin to create a water district with legal status to effect action on studies for a multi-city water supply from a proposed lake on the upper reaches of the Colorado river. If and how this project can be developed is a matter to be thrashed out, but should it materialize even in modified form, it would involve an investment of several million dollars. Revenue bonds have been talked most prominently as a source of revenue, but again the people would be obliged to answer.

There is a probability that extensive additions will be provided by the legislature to the Big Spring State hospital. Meanwhile, the outlook on highway and road construction is brightening with $300,000 of work in the county already indicated. A paving program which will approach that amount is now in full stride. The city is completing a $30,000 fire station, and orders are expected momentarily for bids to be asked on a $60,000 airport terminal. Cosden Petroleum Corp. is in the midst of installing a new catalytic cracking unit at a cost of many hundreds of thousands of dollars.

There are rumors of a few major construction projects, and 1949 may see the beginning of several larger residences as well as the completion of $300,000 to half a million dollars of more modest residential structures. It is not out of the realm of possibility that Howard County Junior College will begin construction of the first building of a permanent home. At the moment, agricultural prospects are looking up, and oil is holding its own with additional discoveries always a possibility.

What happens to the year 1949 here remains to be seen, but it looms at the moment as one of the more important years in the history of this immediate vicinity.

Nothing Gained By Criticizing Military Leaders All The Time

By FRANK GRIMES
Herald Special Writer

Recently a B-50 bomber traveled 23,452 miles around the world in 94 hours one minute, from Fort Worth back to Fort Worth, and thereby opened everybody's eyes to the manner in which military aviation has shrunk this our globe from months and years to hours and days.

It was quite a feat, a feat demanding new respect for Uncle Sam's military potency, a feat that may well make the dictators get their heads out of the ideological clouds and do some real, hard thinking.

But there is at least one fly in every dish of ointment, and so there was in this case. One Washington correspondent wrote a column bawling out the Air Force big brass for exercising what he called censorship on the B-50 exploit. He was griped because the brass did not call in the correspondents at the beginning of the flight, instead of waiting until it was nearly over, then inviting them to take a nice ride to Fort Worth to see Lucky Lady II come in.

Now, freedom of the press is a fine thing, and we're all for it; but it does seem that some Americans get childish about it at times. Why should the Air Force have tipped off the Washington correspondents in advance of the flight? Suppose it had come a cropper, and Lucky Lady II could get no further than the first whistle stop. Think how Moscow would have chuckled at that!

The Air Force brass explained that this was a training mission (rye straw!) designed to carry out the practice of bombardment, reconnaissance and gunnery, not to mention the transfer of huge quantities of gasoline from one plane to another while in full flight. Also, in a manner of speaking, it was a practice in keeping a military secret too, hence the failure to make public announcement in advance. The Air Force had been accused of talking big in the past, without always making performance match talk; so it decided to act first and talk later.

This makes sense to us. Where does anybody get the quaint notion that our military officials must call in the reporters for a briefing every time they are stricken with a sudden thought? Why should they operate in a glass house at all times, holding nothing back? And when they do decide that a special occasion like a globe-girdling flight should be kept quiet until completed, as a test of military secrecy, what's the use of reading them a lecture on the sacredness of press freedom?

It looks as though if our military authorities give out something in advance they are criticized for seeking publicity, and if they don't give it out they're raked over the coals and accused of censorship.

We have made our military leaders fair game for any form of criticism. They are condemned if they do and condemned if they don't. If they try to keep a secret, they get bawled out for doing it; if they speak out in meeting they're told to shut up and remember their manners. It's a wonder they don't come down with a severe case of galloping inferiority.

North Atlantic Program Must Not Become Offensive Threat

It has been known for about a week in Washington that Mr. John Foster Dulles intended to say publicly at the Cleveland conference sponsored by the Federal Council of Churches what he has been telling officials privately since before the election: "That the United States should not seek military bases so close to the Soviet Union as to carry an offensive threat that is disproportionate to defensive value," and that "That is why our fellowship with the peoples of Western Europe, and particularly of Scandinavia, ought not to seem to bring United States military might directly to Russia's border."

Since the effort to unite Scandinavia in an independent defensive league has been torpedoed, and Norway with Denmark about to follow has joined the Atlantic Pact, is Mr. Dulles' warning a case of locking the stable door after the horse is stolen? Some who really agree with him said, when they heard he would speak out, that he is too late. In the sense that we now have a special commitment, which must be honored to protect Norway and Denmark against the consequences, it is too late to undo what it would have been much better not to do.

But it is by no means too late to consider very seriously how we are to deal with the consequences. The pact is not an honorary society in which, once elected, the new member wears his decoration on gala occasions. Nor is the pact a simple case of our promising to defend—let us say Norway and Denmark—and of letting them buy weapons in return for their promise to go to war if the other members are at war. The pact is, as all the world knows, a legal framework within which the high command of the principal nations is to organize a strategic system.

The pain of that system is still under discussion, and that is why the intervention of Mr. Dulles has great practical significance.

His warning against seeking military bases so close to the Soviet Union must be read in connection with the Norwegian reply (March 4) to the Soviet Union. Norway, says the note, "desires to reiterate most categorically" that it will not "grant bases for foreign military forces on Norwegian territory as long as Norway is not attacked or subject to threats of attack."

Were the full story of our Scandinavian policy during the summer and autumn as well known here as it is abroad it would be clear that the Norwegian statement together with Mr. Dulles' warning are an attempt to stop the car before it skids into the ditch. For, as Mr. Dulles said, "It can be assumed that the Soviet state would use the Red Army if its leaders felt that their homeland was imminently and seriously menaced... it would, indeed, involve a high tribute to Soviet leaders to assume that, under these circumstances, they would exercise more self-control than would our people under comparable circumstances, as, for example, if the Soviet Union had military arrangements with a country at our border."

This warning is timely not only in respect to the next steps in Scandinavia but also in respect to the extremely sensitive southern flank of the Soviet Union. In the past few days we have had from Turkey a little noticed dispatch to "The Times" in London reporting that the Soviet Ambassador had made inquiries, similar to those made in Norway, about the Mediterranean Pact which is being considered in London and Washington.

On Tuesday there was a diplomatic denial from the Turkish foreign office. The report of "The Times" correspondent may be "completely unfounded" as to what happened, but no one need think it is completely unfounded as to what is sure to happen.

Now there should be no misunderstanding about the position of those who, like Mr. Dulles, believe it necessary and wise to halt the quest for military bases on the borders of appeasement. They have been among the first to insist that this backed by rearmament and conscription, make it unmistakably clear that any movement of the Red Army anywhere beyond the armistice lines would without benefit of any pact but, as a matter of vital American self-interest be resisted. That policy, which was indicated by the dispatch of the battleship Missouri to Turkey three years ago this month, was a turning point in the East-West conflict. The American action restored the balance of power and, thereafter, the conflict was limited to a cold war.

The objection to the Scandinavian policy, which has changed the original character of the Atlantic Pact, is that it may, if it is not checked, bring the conflict to a point where only a solution by war is possible. That is what Mr. Dulles was talking about, in effect that American power should be used to deter Soviet aggression but not to back the Russians into a corner. And what he was saying reflects the views of our most responsible military leaders.

Barkley, In Feud With Architect, Will Not Trade Office For More Modern Room

(EDITOR NOTE - The brass ring, good for one free ride on the Washington Merry-Go-Round, today goes to the Vice President of the United States, Alben Barkley.)

WASHINGTON - Vice President Barkley is a kindly, much-loved Kentucky gentleman, not given to feuds. However, he is having a slight altercation with Capitol architect, David Lynn. Mr. Lynn wants Barkley to move out of the traditional vice president's office into more modern quarters, but the vice president refuses to budge. He is in love with the ancient but historical room for one quite special reason.

Hanging in the vice president's room are two magnificent chandeliers, made of highly polished glass prisms and brought to this country by Thomas Jefferson. Jefferson acquired them when serving as ambassador to France, later presented them to the U. S. government and for many years they hung in the White House. Then Teddy Roosevelt objected.

The rough rider President couldn't stand the chandeliers because they were so delicately balanced that they tinkled when anyone walked across the floor. So they were banished to the vice president's office in Capitol Hill, where sentimental Alben Barkley likes them and wants to keep them in his office.

Alben is also having another minor row with the President of the United States, the Secretary of the Treasury and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover. They are determined that the vice president have either a secret service man or an FBI man to protect him on his many trips around the USA.

But Barkley says no. "It isn't that I'm going to do anything I'm ashamed of," he explains, a little plaintively, "but I value my freedom more than anything else in the world. I don't think anyone is going to attack me. Besides, if anyone really wanted to get me, one secret service man wouldn't be much good anyhow."

MODIFYING INFLUENCE Today Alben Barkley is the most important balance wheel in the government, and the most effective modifying influence on his chief in the White House. If Barkley had had an opportunity to be with the President before or during his unfortunate remark about a majority vote on stopping filibusters, the Senate would not have snarled itself up in Southern oratory. Nothing could have infuriated Southern senators more than Truman's intemperate remark and Barkley, knowing this, would have given his teeth to have sidetracked it.

No matter what Mr. Truman does, however, his vice president remains 100 per cent loyal. Barkley has even explained away Truman's reported snub to Governor Strom Thurmond of South Carolina and Herman Talmadge of Georgia when scores of newsmen witnessed the fact that Truman did not raise his hat to salute these two Dixiecrats.

Barkley loyally maintains that Truman did lift his hat to Gov. Thurmond, while, in the case of Gov. Talmadge, Barkley points out that the Navy had asked the President to pass judgment on the different groups of naval cadets as they marched by, and the President had turned to a naval officer to give his appraisal of the cadets just as Gov. Talmadge passed by.

"Later that day," Barkley defends his chief, "the President and I went down to the national gallery where both Governor and Mrs. Thurmond and Governor and Mrs. Talmadge were greeted cordially by both the president and me, and they stopped and chatted with us in a very pleasant way. If either had felt they had been deliberately slighted during the parade, I am quite sure they would have shown sign of it."

The vice president himself has been most meticulous with all Dixiecrats, and his failure to attend the mayors conference in Columbus, S. C. was because he was tied up in the Senate.

JEFFERSONIAN AUTHORITY It is rare that vice presidents are related. However, Barkley was a second cousin of vice president Adlai Stevenson, who served under Grover Cleveland, which also makes Barkley the third cousin of Illinois' new governor Adlai L. Stevenson.

Barkley has been getting around the country quite a bit lately - though Senate leaders wish he would spend more time acting as balance wheel at the President's elbow. Reason for Barkley's trips is that he has become the Democratic Party's favorite speaker at Jefferson-Jackson Day dinners.

This also is close to Barkley's heart, for he is a walking encyclopedia on Jefferson, having studied his life intently while a student at the University of Virginia. When the vice president speaks on Jefferson he seldom reads a manuscript, partly because his eyes are not good, but also because it is relatively easy for him to draw from his bottomless vat of knowledge on Jefferson.

SEES PEOPLE'S FRIENDSHIP No man in the Truman Administration has traveled more widely than the vice president. He has visited almost every country in the world, and still has a photo of himself sewing wood with some Russian peasants prior to World War II.

Barkley has visited most of the iron curtain countries, including Bulgaria, Finland and Albania. He is a great believer in people-to-people friendship, and has been pressing the state department to break through the iron curtain and establish contacts with the people behind. That, reasons Barkley, is the only safe and sure way to prevent war.

One thing the vice president collects on his travels is rare walking sticks. He also has a secret passion for antique figurines, and picked up quite a few at bargain prices in Germany after the war.

People Must Decide On Meeting Needs Created By City Growth

It looks like there's no stopping place to the number of things a town needs, if it grows.

It's an old platitude, you know that an enterprise either progresses or it slips back; there's no standing still, the maxim says. The same truism must hold for communities. They either grow or they don't grow, and those that don't are on the decline.

And growth of a community seems to exact a stiff price. Look at the things which have stacked up on Big Spring, and appear to be clamoring for attention all at the same time:

Tragically overcrowded schoolrooms (with the worst yet to come) prompt the calling of a bond issue referendum to determine whether more building space will be provided for the children;

A badly out-moded courthouse prompts the circulation of petitions asking an election to finance a new structure;

Forefront as to the municipality's water needs prompts continued efforts to ward creation of a reservoir to provide an adequate supply;

The city's growth prompts blocks and blocks of new paving, a new fire station, plans for a new terminal building at the airport.

Projects, projects, projects. Well, these are all the natural accompaniment of the town's growth, of its expansion, of the desire of people to pro-better facilities—the desire to make the place better for those who are here in vide themselves and their children with the future.

Money? Sure, all of these things cost money. They represent the price that has to be paid for development. You may be sure that Big Spring's problem is not unique; city after city has built water-works and city halls and paved streets and expanded schools; county after county has surfaced new roads, added new services. There are few towns in Texas not facing the same situations Big Spring faces today.

Many reasonably ask, can we afford all these things?

And many just as reasonably answer, can we afford NOT to provide them?

It's a matter of what the people of the community want. Perhaps many folks would like to see Big Spring back at the ago; maybe they recall the contentment of living in the small town that was here then. That sort of town undoubtedly had, and has, its attractions.

But those days have passed by, and Big Spring is no longer that town it was 30 years ago. It couldn't remain, no matter how determinedly we willed it, as it is today. It will change, it can grow. Or it can slip backward. If it does grow, that growth has to be fed with such things as lakes and schoolhouses and new churches and courthouses. There is no growth without such nourishment. The nourishment comes only at a cost, and the people must decide if they want to provide it.—BOB WHIPKEY

Technicalities May Block Action On Truman Civil Rights Program

WASHINGTON, (AP)—HERE'S A BRIEF ABC on the filibuster and other complicated doings in the Senate right now.

The President's civil rights program is at the heart of it. But the fight now isn't on the program itself.

It's on the technicalities that may stand in the way of doing something about the program.

And if the Senate, maybe months from now, gets around to doing something about the program itself, the present fight starts all over.

That's why you'd better ask for odds if you're betting the civil rights program, or any part of it, will pass this year.

First, the background, and then what's happening now.

There are two main steps in Senate consideration of a bill, like an anti-lynching bill: A motion to consider it, and then debate and vote on the bill itself.

THERE'S AN OLD SENATE RULE that when debate on a bill starts, there can be unlimited debate, or a filibuster, on it unless—

Two-thirds of the Senate vote to limit debate. This is called imposing cloture. Because senators usually want no limit on their freedom to talk endlessly, that two-thirds vote is hard to get. A vote on a bill itself is much easier. That needs only a majority vote.

But a year ago when Senator Vandenberg, Republican of Michigan, was acting as President of the Senate, this question came up:

What about a motion to take up a bill? While cloture can be imposed on debate on a bill itself, can cloture be imposed on all on a filibuster against a motion to consider a bill.

Vandenberg ruled "No," that there can be no limit on debate on a motion.

Under the Vandenberg ruling, any time anyone made a motion to bring up a civil rights bill the southerners could talk without limit against the motion. That really meant the bill could never be brought up.

THEN COMES NEXT MAY OF JUNE, when the Senate is rushing to get through for the year and its work is piled up. Say the Trumanites then are ready to bring up a civil rights bill and make a motion to do so.

The southerners promptly would filibuster against the motion. Suppose finally—in view of Barkley's ruling yesterday—the rest of the Senate imposes cloture by a two-thirds vote on a filibuster against the motion. That would be only one defeat for the southerners.

The moment, then, that the bill itself comes up for debate, the southerners could start filibustering against the bill itself, even though they lost the filibuster against the motion to bring it up.

Once again, to stop the filibuster against the bill itself, a two-thirds Senate vote is needed.

There's no certainty that three months from now senators who today voted for cloture would vote for it on a filibuster against a civil rights bill.

That's why it's too soon to count any chickens on civil rights.

By a tiger, that is.

"No, there is no pain," said Capt. Roman Proke, noted wild animal trainer. He should know. He's been clawed, pawed and hurriedly chewed by a dozen different tigers in his 34 years in the ring.

"All you remember is the big face coming at you with the mouth wide open, the claws wide stretched," he said.

"You have time only to throw your arm—and then he has you, and you are on the ground. The whip, the gun—if you carry a gun—they are useless.

"You are helpless. You are powerless all at once.

"YOU TRY TO HIT THE TIGER. BUT your hand it is like a powder puff. All you can think of is 'I am finished—this is the end.' But there is no pain. The shock is too great."

He shrugged. "Wild animals have been my life. It is only reasonable that they should be my death, too."

Not that Proke has any desire to die. Tigers have just been the spice of his life. And he wants to keep it that way. A life without tigers would be as monotonous to him as a salt-free meal to a fat man.

What interests Proke most about being chewed on by his tigers is the psychology of the situation. He told me about it as we stood by a cage on his tiger farm here. "Man thinks of himself as the big being," he said. "He feels there is an invisible glass wall between himself and the animals, because he is an egotist."

"THIS IS JUST A BIG BLUFF. IN training wild animals your control of them—it is all in being erect, is using the big voice."

Widow Says FDR Slept Through 'Wind' Picture

HOLLYWOOD, (AP)—During her visit here this week, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt disclosed the tale of how the late president slept through "Gone With The Wind."

For all her statesmanship, the former first lady is a part of show business, due to her five-times-a-weekly broadcast on ABC with daughter Anna. So it seemed inevitable that she be given a Hollywood-style cocktail party during her lecture stop here. The scene: Anna's modest apartment, filled with FDR mementoes.

Arriving early, I asked Mrs. Roosevelt about her husband's movie habits.

"Of course, movies were his most practical diversion," she said, "because of the fact that they could be brought to him. That was important because of his incapacity. He liked movies very much, and his favorites were the Walt Disney pictures. He loved to watch the animals."

"There was one picture which made him very angry. Let me see—I forget the name of the book and movie; it was about the Civil War."

I supplied the title: "Gone With The Wind."

"Yes, that's it. My husband went to sleep in the middle of it and when he woke up, the picture was still on. He was quite angry. 'No movie has a right to be that long,' he said."

Mrs. Roosevelt said she has seen few movies since leaving

Mass Production Brings New Fiber Furniture At Low Cost

CHICAGO, March 12 (AP)—A new technique for making furniture has been developed by the Armour Research Foundation.

It is aimed at the mass production of strong fiber furniture at lower costs.

Combination backs and seats for chairs have been produced in one piece in a pilot plant. The process works like this:

Wood pulp similar to that used in paper mills is put in a beater and broken down. The beaten pulp is placed in a felting tank and diluted with water. Suction draws the pulp fibers to a die that is covered with a fine screen and is shaped like the back and seat of the chair. The fibers accumulate on the screen in the shape of the die and build up to the desired thickness. The die is removed from the tank and the mat of fibers that formed on it is separated from the die by compressed air. The mat—called a preform—is dipped in a resinous solution until it is completely saturated. Then it is cured in an oven. If a smoother finish is wanted, the preform can be put in a hydraulic molding press and pressed under high pressure and high temperature.

The result is a one-piece back and a seat that can be made into a complete chair by fastening it to a one-piece metal leg unit with screws.

Researchers say they could produce a whole chair by the same method if they used a die designed for that purpose. They also say they could turn out chairs in any color by adding the proper pigment.

"We feel we have done something revolutionary," says Layton

C. Kinney, supervisor of chemical engineering research. "It's largely an automatic process—a step in the direction of an automatic factory."

He figures that making a chair in one or two parts would cut assembly work to a minimum and that making it without joints would eliminate weak spots.

"An article turned out by this process," he says, "would be cheaper and longer lasting."

The same methods could be used, he says, to make drawers and coffee and end tables.

Dr. Louis Koenig, chairman of the Chemical Engineering Research Department, says chairs could be turned out "by the hundred with only a few operators."

British Advised To Worry Less About Tradition

LONDON, (AP)—Prof. Willis R. Worlich, chief of the scientific office of the American Embassy, thinks Britain would be more prosperous if its people kowtowed less to tradition. He said so at an Engineering Industries Association luncheon.

"Britain might need to place less reliance on history and more responsibility on her creative young men," he declared. "That has brought dividends to other English speaking nations. I sincerely believe it will do so to you."

"If the British are determined to do so," Worlich said, "they can compete in almost all articles of small plant production with the United States. Your labor is not as highly paid. The cost of your raw material is rather more in some instances. Your men work diligently."

Apparel Designer Has Own Problems

POCATELLO, Idaho, (AP)—Designing women's clothes is more of a job than you'd think.

Phil Lindley, 25, radio operator on a bomber in World War II, is somewhat discouraged over his first attempts to restyle feminine apparel. The hardest hurdle was taking the course with a classful of coeds.

Lindley, a junior at Idaho State College, is an art major. He found last fall he'd have to take a course in dress designing.

"When I entered the class I was full of enthusiasm," Lindley declared. "I had hopes of turning out to be a great designer—might even shorten the hemlines."

But—the first day in class, students had to fill out a questionnaire, listing waist and bust measurements. Lindley found he was a "perfect 40."

Little things like that kept coming up. Now Lindley thinks he'd rather do another bombing mission than take any more dress designing courses.

FIBER FURNITURE—Layton C. Kinney, supervisor of chemical engineering research at Armour Research Foundation, lifts pre-form shaped seat and back of chair from mold in pilot plant. Wood pulp similar to that used in paper mills, provides material.

'John Loves Mary', From Stage Hit, Showing At Ritz

For light film fare, Warner Bros. has brought forth the engaging "John Loves Mary," a romantic farce which headlines the Ritz theatre's program for today and Monday.

Ronald Reagan and Jack Carson have starring roles, and the film also introduces a charming new personality, Patricia Neal.

The film is from the Norman Krasna story which proved to be such a Broadway hit a few seasons ago.

Filled with hilarious situation and sprinkled with bright dialogue, "John Loves Mary" is the story of an ex-war hero who has an English war bride whom he married just so he could bring her to this country for his buddy. It so happens he has a girl of his own, who has been waiting impatiently through the war years, and he encounters some real complications because the delicate matter of a previous marriage is something he cannot easily tell his girl and her parents. Suffice it to say that the wartime buddy and the English bride are not much help to him in getting affairs straightened out.

Virginia Field is another prominent player, in the role of the bride. Wayne Morris and Edward Arnold are others adding to the lustre of the cast.

Ray Kemo, Guitar Specialist, To Be On Stage At Ritz

A special stage attraction is an addition to the Ritz Theatre's program for Tuesday, when Ray Kemo appears in person.

Kemo is nationally known for his "hot" guitar choruses on records and he has made many popular appearances with his twin-necked steel guitar.

Ray for the past six years has been with the noted Grand Ole Opry program. He has a group with him that will play modern square and various other types of dance music. With him are such performers as Dusty, Billy, Jack and Fuzz.

GOOD TIME HAD BY ALL—A scene from the romantic farce, "John Loves Mary," shows Jack Carson getting his hair pulled by Virginia Field as Irving Bacon and Ronald Reagan look on. Another in the cast of the picture, which is at the Ritz theatre today and Monday, is Patricia Neal, a newcomer.

COULD BE BAD—Robert Mitchum finds himself in an awkward spot (Big Boy Williams is the menace) in this scene from "Nevada," in which they are featured, along with Anne Jeffreys. This colorful western melodrama is at the State theatre today and Monday.

LOVE DOES IT—Lynn Bari tames the West's most fabulous gunman, as portrayed by James Craig, in the western romantic-adventure story, "Man From Texas," featured at the Lyric theatre today and Monday.

Frontier Romance Told In 'Rachel And The Stranger'

The conflict between two frontiersmen over the wife of one, is the basis of RKO Radio's engaging romance of pioneer Ohio, "Rachel and the Stranger," co-starring Loretta Young, William Holden and Robert Mitchum. It is the featured attraction for tonight and Monday at the Terrace Drive-In theatre.

When Holden's wife dies in their lonely cabin, Holden decides he must marry again to have a stepmother for his young son. At the settlement the only suitable prospect is a young housewife (Miss Young), and Holden buys her from her owner and marries her. But neither he nor the boy appreciates her efforts to please them until Mitchum, a strolling Indian scout, arrives for a visit and immediately falls in love with her.

The ensuing maneuvers between the two men makes for plenty of comedy situations, as well as the dramatic suspense when a band of Shawnees attack the cabin. The film is said, incidentally, to present an unusually entertaining and realistic picture of wilderness life a century and a half ago. Gary Gray, as the younger, and Tom Tully as the frontier elder, head the supporting cast of "Rachel and the Stranger," which was produced by Richard H. Berger and directed by Norman Foster, with Dore Schary in charge of production.

HIGHLIGHTS ON KBST

'Breakfast Club' Coming To Texas

One of the top morning features on radio, ABC's Breakfast Club moves its setting all the way from Chicago to Texas this week, and for five days—March 14 through 18—will be heard from various cities in this state. The program is a daily feature of KBST.

The Texas roundup for Don McNeill and cast starts at Dallas, then moves to Fort Worth, San Antonio and Houston. In the latter city they will take part in the celebration of the opening of the new Shamrock hotel on March 17. It will be the first Texas visit for the Breakfast Club.

"BARN DANCE"

A program which has long been one of America's favorites makes its debut Saturday, March 19 at 9 p. m. on the American Broadcasting company and KBST. It's the National Barn Dance, a program of Western song and fun originating in Chicago. This program has been one of the top western shows ever since its inception.

CHARLES BOYER

That Charlie Boyer is perfectly cast in his role in "The Gloconda Smile," to be presented on "Theatre Guild on the Air," this evening at 8:30 over KBST, is evidenced by the critical acclaim he is receiving for his work in the movie version of this absorbing story by the brilliant British author, Aldous Huxley. Making his first appearance on the series, Boyer portrays a likeable man, attractive to women, who is convicted of poisoning his invalid wife.

One of the best of Huxley's earlier work, "The Gloconda Smile" was first published as a short story in his book, "Mortal Coils," in 1922. Adapted for the stage, it opened in London, June 3, 1948, starring Clive Brook and Pamela Brown. It was proclaimed one of the highlights of the season.

The Wooley aggregation is a six-piece western band, with comical turns interspersed with hoedown and hillbilly music. A 30-minute act will be presented scheduled for four times during the day at the State, in addition to the regular film program.

Sheb and his gang appear regularly over several radio stations heard in this area, and have made personal appearances in West Texas.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN WORLD OF ARTS

Brooklyn Adds Symphony Orchestra To Its Other Public Attractions

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP)—The borough of Brooklyn, which already had a museum, a baseball team and a bridge, now has a symphony orchestra.

World War II veterans pushed the project, and picked for musical director, Dr. Herbert Zipper, whom they had heard conducting the Manila Symphony in the ruins of a bombed church. Zipper now has the use of an unbombed Brooklyn church for rehearsals, and his first ambitious program, on March 16, will be presented in the Brooklyn Academy of Music and repeated later in a high school. The non-profit Brooklyn Orchestral Association, with more than 1,000 members, has sought the support of Mr. Average Citizen, though it does not shut its doors to the rich. Unlike most symphonies, it has been built from the bottom up in the last couple of years. The association is headed by Henry C. Bohack, and Rembert R. Wuritzer is chairman of trustees. Associate conductor is Richard Korn, who has just been appointed Memphis Symphony conductor for 1949-1950.

Zipper says more than 700 musicians were auditioned to select the 85-man aggregation. Players from many leading American orchestras, wanting to go back home to Brooklyn, inquired about openings; while the Cleveland Symphony was here in January, Zipper says he had calls from 15 instrumentalists asking about the changes for a job in the home town.

With a population of 3 million, Brooklyn is the home of 13,000 American Federation of Musicians members. Many smaller American cities have orchestras of their own, and as the boys back from the Philippines said, "If Manila can do it, why can't Brooklyn?" It will be the first New York borough, after Manhattan, to have its own full-fledged professional symphony. Most New Yorkers depend on Carnegie Hall, though Brooklyn regularly hears the Boston Symphony and the Little Orchestra Society. The goal is a $250,000 annual budget, but the beginning is more modest.

Zipper, a refugee from Vienna who reached the Philippines in time to be jailed by the Japanese, will offer on his first program Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, Strauss' "Till Eulenspiegel," and the fourth act of Verdi's "Don Carlos," with a backdrop, and costumes for Regina Resnik, Brenda Lewis and other soloists.

WHERE TO GO IN GOTHAM Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo is at City Center with a premiere and a revival scheduled during its four-week season. New York City opera opens at City Center March 24, with these additions to the repertory: "Tales of Hoffman" and "The Medium," and the world premiere of "Troubled Island" by William Grant Still and Langston Hughes. Ballet theatre will begin its spring season at the Metropolitan Opera House April 17.

ART-AND-DANCE: Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo is exhibiting scenic and costume designs by Christian Berard.

ART-AND-BOOKS: Durand-Ruel is exhibiting the illustrations made by French artists for the American publication of George Macy Company.

ART-AND-FILM: "Rubens" as artist is the subject of a new 80-minute made-in-Belgium film in the museum of modern art collection. Lemonade Opera has the American rights to Poulenc's "Les Mamelles de Tirésias." Edmore Kurtz, conductor of the Houston Symphony, has Munch on the music panel of the National Art Foundation. Kathleen Ferrier, newly arrived from England, began her second American tour auspiciously as Orfeo in the Little Orchestra Society's concert performance of Gluck's "Orfeo et Eurydice" ... The Julliard String Quartet, in two times hall performances, is playing Bela Bartok's Six Quartet; pocket scores, and parts; for all six have been published, or will be soon, by Boosey S. Hawkes ... The National Institute of Arts and Letters, Douglas Moore president, has elected five foreigners as honorary association members: Edith Sitwell, Ralph Vaughan Williams, Gian Francesco Malipiero, Pablo Picasso and Yasuo Kuniyoshi ... Leonard Warren celebrated his 10th year at the Metropolitan Opera in a 10th-year revival of Verdi's Falstaff.

RECORD BOX Albums of piano music by Mozart and Kabalevsky, played by Horowitz, and a 12-inch single of three Chopin etudes, played by Byron Janis, are among new RCA Victor releases. Kabalevsky's Sonata No. 3, Op. 46, has a popular appeal, with its catchy rhythms and easy tunes, but for just those reasons it is not an important piece. His best known work, at least in this country, is the "Colas Breugnot" overture, but aside from that, since there isn't much of him on records, there may be a demand for Horowitz's lively rendition. Sonata No. 12, in F, is one of the most beautiful of Mozart's 17 Sonatas; Horowitz's performance doesn't match the music for beauty, but it is admirable workmanship. On the fourth surface in this album in the Busoni arrangement of Bach's chorale—prelude, "Nun Komm, der Heiden Heiland."
