Critical of Reagan...

Mondale heads for Demo conflab

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. (AP) — Walter F. Mondale, sharing star billing with Geraldine Ferraro, was flying to the Democratic Convention today where newspaper headlines reflected his criticism that President Reagan was not fulfilling his part "of a Christian's responsibility."

An outdoor welcoming rally, a fund-raiser for female candidates and a meeting with Senate candidates were on Mondale's agenda for the opening day of the Democratic National Convention.

In an interview with the San Francisco Chronicle published today, Mondale agreed that he and Reagan are both products of small towns and "Middle America," but he said the similarities ended there.

Mondale echoed comments made by his choice for vice president, Ms. Ferraro, last Friday about the president's policies not being those of "a good Christian." Mondale said of the president:

"Our beliefs are quite different...when it comes to justice, non-discrimination, fairness, he's out to lunch."

"My faith has unmistakably taught me that social justice is part of a Christian's responsibility. My upbringing taught me a sense of community...a sense of responsibility, one toward another. (Reagan) would have to explain how he come to a different conclusion," Mondale said in a home he rented for the weekend on Lake Tahoe in the Sierra Nevada range.

Ms. Ferraro was traveling to the convention with Mondale, and the New York congresswoman planned to be at his side at the fund-raiser and the rally.

Mondale had no plans for a personal appearance today at the convention, which opens at 2 p.m. PDT. Highlights of the first session were an address by former President Carter and the keynote speech by Gov. Mario Cuomo of New York.

For Mondale, the 1984 Democratic Convention was the realization of a long-held dream that he would become the party presidential nominee.

Protest names to city

A petition has been resubmitted to city officials which will apparently prompt a citywide vote here regarding annexation of property south of the current city limits.

The document bearing some 263 signatures was turned in Friday. To be valid, some 200 names of registered city voters had to be secured.

The petition was to be originally submitted last Monday at the July meeting of the city council. At that time, it was noted the council could not accept it until after official action had been taken regarding the issue of annexation.

The council allowed the original petition to be resubmitted, however, rather than requiring an entirely new document to be circulated and signed.

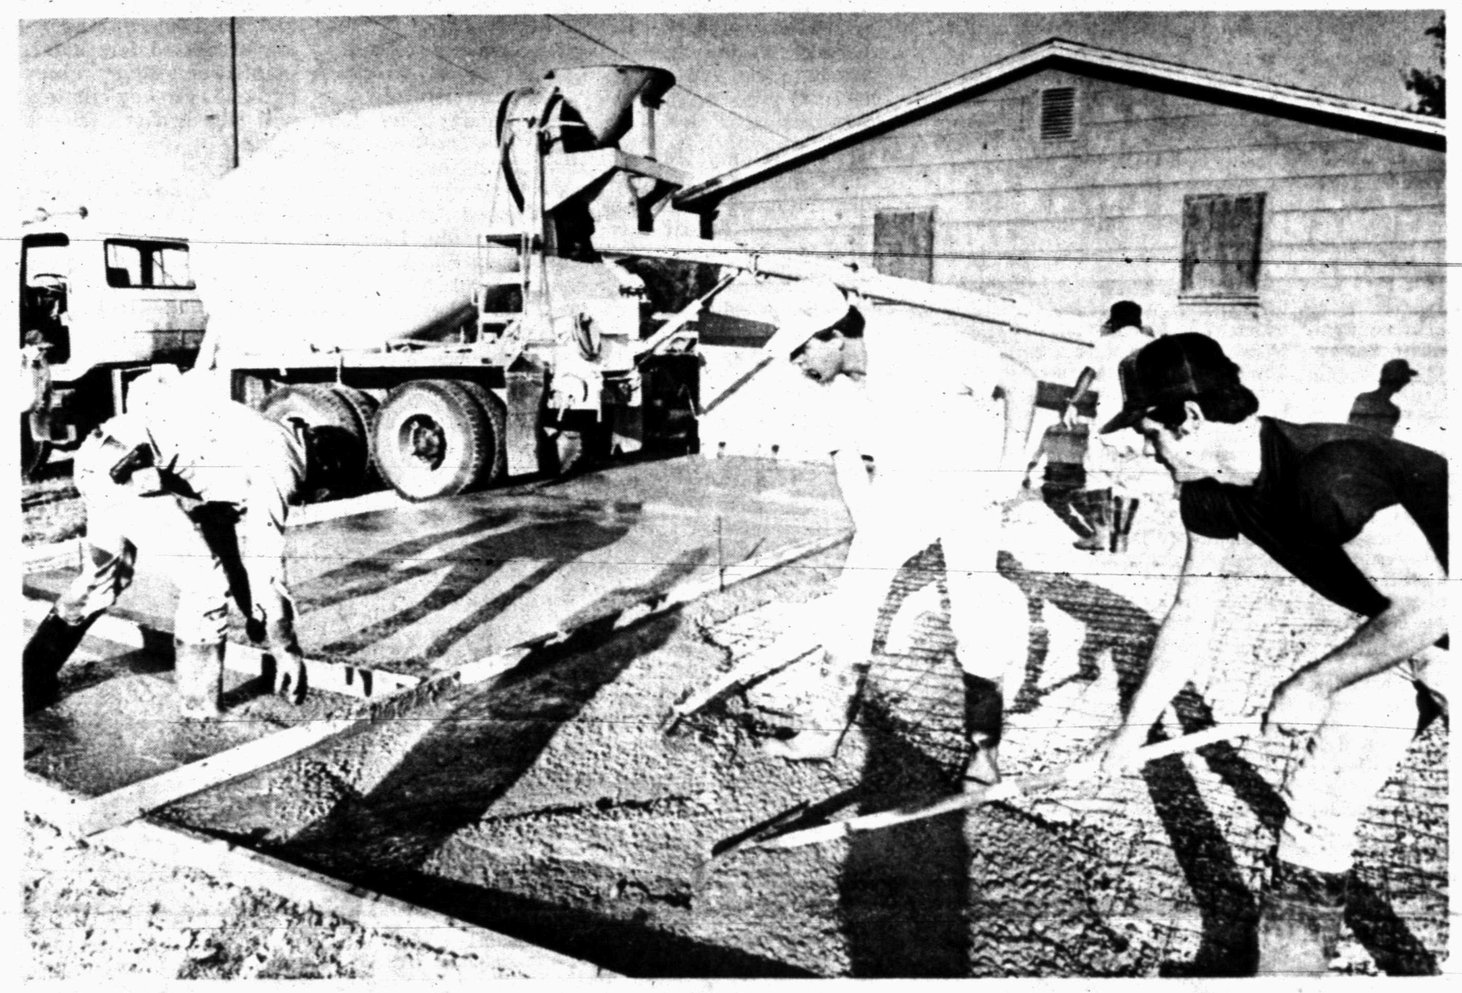

At the Monday meeting, the council approved on first reading an ordinance calling for the annexation of some 60 acres south of 48th St.

The annexation proceedings have been implemented to bring under city control property adjacent to the proposed Houston Parkway extension.

A public hearing to allow comment regarding the street project — which itself has produced criticism from adjacent property owners — is scheduled at city hall July 24.

The petition relates to the annexation of the property only and both city and state officials have

Jackson V-tour leaves Texas

IRVING, Texas (AP) — It's on to Jacksonville, Fla., for the Jacksons, who closed out the second leg of their "Victory Tour" before a screaming sell-out crowd that withstood Texas temperatures in the high 90s.

Even though criticism brewed over the costly tickets and confusing policies, 39,000 fans showed their loyalty to Michael and his brothers Sunday night and raised the total attendance for the three-day stand to about 117,000, promoters said.

Tickets sales were sluggish in the Dallas area initially, with many fans disgruntled at having to mail $120 for four tickets without a guarantee of seeing any of the three shows, which started Friday.

The weather on Sunday plagued as many as 70 in attendance with ailments related to the heat, said Dr. Phillip Williams, one of the physicians on duty at the concert's first aid stations.

"With the heat of the evening, the enclosed stadium, the lights and the body heat — people jumping up and down — the body energy begins to develop," he said.

During Friday's opening of the Texas concerts, a total of 54 people were treated for various heat-related maladies and headaches from the noise, said nurse Phyllis Hall, who manned one of six first-aid stations.

Saturday night in Ms. Hall's station alone, 48 people were treated, she said.

Among the spectators Sunday night were various cast members of the prime-time televison soap opera "Dallas," including Larry Hagman, Patrick Duffy, Linda Gray, Charlene Tilton and Priscilla Presley. Singer Lou Rawls was also present.

Mary Swain, 16, of Euless, said she had gone to the concert all three nights and was still excited about Sunday's performance.

"I still feel like I'm dreaming," she said.

She had gone to the Sunday concert with no ticket and said she was ready to pay $75 for a chance to the see the group perform a third time before someone gave her a pass she said.

"I almost started to cry when he gave me this," she said as she pointed to a pass which enabled her on the floor of the stadium. "I couldn't believe it. I got closer than I ever thought I would."

The three-day stand at Texas Stadium produced little in the way of complaints from Jackson fans, who braved the temperatures to see their idol and his brothers.

"It wasn't the $30 as much as the ordering that bothered me," said Bobbie Wear, 56, of Oklahoma City. "I'll live through it, it's worth it."

Ms. Wear, who said she's been called "rock 'n' roll mama" because she regularly attends rock concerts, faced a 3½-hour drive back home before reporting for work at 7 a.m. today.

When it was all over, Blanca Pena, said, "I've never seen anything like this."

Jury selection begins

Jury selection began Monday morning in 132nd District Court for the arson trial of a 45-year-old Scurry County woman.

Dolores Allen of Rt. 1 Snyder was arrested by county authorities May 13. She was charged with arson in connection with the alleged intentional burning of an automobile she owned on May 11 — a blaze which also started a grass fire on property west of the city owned by Bob Head of Snyder.

The indictment for felony arson involves damage caused to the land owner's property.

Air gun suspected in glass breakage

Three incidents involving glass apparently broken out by an air rifle were investigated from Saturday through early Monday by police.

Wayne Merritt of 2000 KSNY Dr. filed the first criminal mischief complaint at 12:47 p.m. Saturday.

He told investigators that the windshield of his 1976 Ford truck had been shot out with a BB gun while the vehicle was parked at the residence Friday night. Damage was estimated at $150.

Police officers on patrol discovered the second incident at 12:31 a.m. Monday.

According to reports, police discovered the front glass door and three windows in the Southern Electric building at 900 College Ave. broken out — also apparently by an air rifle. No damage estimate was available at noon Monday.

Jerry Sorrell called police at 4 a.m. Monday to report the weekend's third criminal mischief incident.

According to reports, the glass front door of G&G Grocery on the Clairemont Highway at Huffman Ave. was discovered broken out.

MISGUIDED BIRD — This unidentified bird has been a guest at the H.A. Flournoy residence about 20 miles northwest of Snyder for the past week. The Flournoy's are not sure what species the bird is, but it appears to be some kind of water fowl. The best current guess, provided by a friend of the Flournoy family, is that the bird is a young Black Crowned Heron who has strayed away from his natural environment. (SDN Staff Photo)

Wreck traps trucker

A San Angelo man was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital for treatment of a broken leg and other possible injuries following a truck-cow collision on U.S. Highway 84 near Dermott early Monday morning.

According to reports, Sammy Mardis, a driver for the Upshaw Trucking Co. of Rotan, was driving an 18-wheeler loaded with cattle northbound on 84 around 1 a.m. Monday when he struck a cow roaming free on the road.

Mardis apparently lost control of his rig after the collision. His tractor-trailer rig overturned after the trailer separated from the tractor.

The rig sustained extensive damage in the mishap and units of the Snyder Fire Department were called to the scene to help free Mardis from the wreckage.

Firemen used the "Jaws-of-Life" device for

Tanker runs aground

DEER PARK (AP) — The Coast Guard has ordered a special team to start the clean up of thousands of gallons of oil that leaked from a grounded Venezuelan tanker and closed the busy Houston Ship Channel.

A Coast Guard spokesman, Felix Muniz, said today that equipment and a team of specialists were being brought from St. Louis with special equipment designed to skim up some 33,000 gallons of fuel oil coating a three-mile segment of the 58-mile channel.

Coast Guard officials said that about 18 vessels are waiting in the Gulf to enter the channel. The spill has blocked access to the upper docks of the Port of Houston.

Some ships were permitted to pass through to test the effectiveness of a boom that is being used to contain the spill, Muniz said.

Ant bite fatal

ODESSA (AP) — Physicians have added a 20-year-old Odessa woman to the list of people who have died from reactions to insect bites.

Nancy Kay Nix died Tuesday in Odessa Medical Center Hospital, two days after she was bitten on the right hand by a red ant while working in a neighbor's yard. She died despite taking allery medicine 10 minutes after the bite, her mother said.

According to her doctor, she suffered an anaphylactic reaction that caused her heart, spleen and lungs to swell, virtually suffocating her.

Mrs. C.W. Nix of Odessa said her daughter had known since childhood that she was allergic to ants.

Tornado kills one

PEMBROKE, Ontario (AP) — A tornado whipped up 100-mile-per hour winds as it touched down in parts of Ontario and Quebec, killing one person, injuring at least 27, leveling rural homes, and knocking out power in several towns and villages.

The tornado raced over 62 miles of mostly unpopulated areas of eastern Ontario and western Quebec, as it headed northeast Sunday.

One person died in the Quebec village of Blue Sea Lake, 46 miles northeast of here, where the wind and rain storm damaged 15 homes, Quebec Provinvial Police said.

About 100 people in the village of 500 began working today to clear away the rubble at the site of the tornado's most serious damage.

Sixteen people were sent to the hospital in nearby Maniwaki, but most were quickly treated and released.

New Zealand warned

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — The United States has warned that it will break defense ties with New Zealand if the new Labor government follows through on threats to ban port visits by American warships, top officials said today.

Washington has made it clear privately that the ANZUS defense pact of Australia, New Zealand and the United States will be disearded if the new government moves against American defense interests, according to high-placed sources who declined to be identified further.

U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz said during a break in the first day of the annual ANZUS defense summit, "We hope to continue in partnership with the new government."

Manatt episode called clumsy, unnecessary

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — It isn't easy for the inevitable winner to create a no-win situation, but Walter F. Mondale managed. Heading for his greatest political triumph, he wound up playing the loser to the Democratic Party bureaucracy.

So when the Democratic National Convention opens today, ready to nominate Mondale for the White House, the gavel will be firmly in the grip of Charles T. Manatt. Mondale tried to make him a lame duck by firing him effective on Friday, but he didn't make it stick.

Mondale and his lieutenants called the Manatt episode a typical convention rumbling, and a minor diversion. Maybe so, but it also was clumsy, unnecessary and silly.

It took the edge off Mondale's newfound image as the decisive political leader who dared defy tradition to put a woman, Rep. Geraldine Ferraro, on the Democratic ticket. And it recalled the arguments of his primary election challengers, who tried to cast Mondale as a candidate too beholden to interest groups, too easily pushed in one direction or another.

A national political convention has only one real prize to bestow, and that is nomination for the White House. That is what Mondale has sought so long, and that is what he will have on Wednesday night. Mondale has the delegates, and his interest right now is in a convention of celebration, harmony and unity.

It makes no sense to pick fights on the small stuff. But Mondale did.

Ironically, Mondale almost certainly could have dispatched Manatt and installed his own chairman right after the convention, if he'd followed the traditional timetable. The choice of a chairman is a prerogative of presidential nominees. The national committee meets on Friday, the morning after the convention, to hear from the nominee and do his bidding.

There would have been some grumbling if he had fired Manatt then, but it wouldn't have made much difference.

Gov. White says...

Texas will like vp choice

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — U.S. Rep. Geraldine Ferraro, Walter Mondale's choice for his running mate, will be well-received in Texas and an asset to the Democratic ticket, several leading Texas Democrats say.

"I think she'll be a real asset. I think she is going to be very well received," Gov. Mark White said Sunday.

White had favored Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen or San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros for the job, and last week voiced disappointment that one of them wasn't chosen.

But Sunday, on the eve of the opening of the Democratic National Convention, the governor said he wanted to clear up any misunderstanding.

White said his disappointment had nothing to do with Ms. Ferraro, a New York congresswoman, and insisted he doesn't believe the ticket now is in trouble in Texas.

Search for missing minister abandoned

ANSON, Texas (AP) — Authorities have called off their search for a Church of Christ youth minister from San Antonio whose abandoned and ransacked car was found along a farm road about 10 miles north of here in northern Jones County.

Although three days of combing several West Texas counties failed to bring them any closer to finding the whereabouts of 31-year-old Wesley Barrett "Barre" Cox, lawmen vowed to press an intense investigation.

Jones County Sheriff Mike Middleton said he was continuing to assume that Cox, whose car was found on Thursday, met with foul play.

Middleton said "not a thing" was found Sunday during what largely was an air search north of Anson to Haskell and Stonewall counties, east to Lake Stamford and west to Rotan in Fisher County.

Two Civil Air Patrol planes, four privately owned helicopters and a private aircraft, were involved in Sunday's manhunt. Several people also made in a ground search of the area, Middleton said.

The number of searchers Sunday was down from the previous two days when about 100 people — including many of Cox's friends and relatives from Amarillo, Lubbock, Abilene and San Antonio — combed fields, creeks and buildings in the area.

Cox left Rotan about 3:45 a.m. Thursday traveling east on Texas Highway 92 toward Hamlin, Bankston said. Hamlin is about 35 miles northwest of Abilene on U.S. 83. His car was found Thursday evening about 10 miles east of Hamlin, a few miles north of Highway 92.

The keys were locked in the trunk, where officers also found an empty beer can. The beer can was being processed for fingerprints or other clues because Cox "definitely was not a drinker," friends said.

Contents of his wallet were found scattered along a ditch about a mile south of where the car was found. About $100 was believed missing from the wallet, Middleton said.

DR. LAMB

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Determining most fertile time

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 25-year-old female who has been overweight all my life. My husband and I want to have a baby and I am sorry to say that I was never taught very much about female reproduction. I feel I have a lot to learn. Can you send me some information on this subject? I could go to a library, but at my age, I feel embarrassed to ask for this information. I need to know how to figure out when my most fertile time is.

DEAR READER — You certainly are not the first woman who wanted to get pregnant. Wanting information on this subject is perfectly natural and quite common. Don't be intimidated.

You will need to understand your menstrual cycle. The first day of your menstrual cycle is considered day one for counting purposes. In most instances the most fertile time is about the 13th to the 15th day after the onset of the 28-day cycle, or, stated another way, after the onset of menstruation.

But women often don't have a regular 28-day cycle. A more accurate statement is that ovulation occurs about 14 days before the onset of menstruation. The problem here is that when menstruation begins, the fertile period you can identify has already passed.

To help pinpoint the most fertile period more accurately, many women use a temperature chart. You can also use changes in mucus to help even more. The combination of your temperature chart, mucus changes and knowledge about your menstrual cycle usually provides a fairly good indicator of your most fertile time.

These are explained in more detail in The Health Letter 17-2, Female Reproductive Function, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have had shingles for more than three months and they are really painful. They seem to be inside me. I still have spots on my body from the middle of my stomach to the middle of my back. It seems like hot knives sticking me from the inside out. If I rub the area, it feels like a sharp hot knife.

My doctor says I should take pain pills. I've sure taken my share of them. I know of seven other people in this small town who had shingles. Their doctor gave them shots and they are feeling fine. My shingles are driving me mad. Is there anything than can be done for this? What causes shingles? I'm 63 and had four bypasses of the heart, but have never had such pain as these shingles have caused me.

DEAR READER — Shingles, herpes zoster, is caused by the chicken-pox virus. You probably had chicken pox when you were a youngster. The virus lives in the roots of your nerve fibers. Years later, the viruses become activated and the nerve involved causes the area of rash. Your case is typical in distribution, because the nerve comes from your spinal cord from your back around your body to the midline.

Shingles are increasingly common as you get older. In people 85 years of age, 50 percent of them have had shingles. Treatment is not satisfactory. New antiviral agents are just beginning to be used. The nerve pain that follows the rash can persist for months and sometimes more than a year. It is less likely to occur if a patient gets corticosteroid treatment when the attack first begins. Later, you have to use symptomatic treatment. That may include electrical stimulation of the area, but it is difficult to treat.

Dear Abby

Busy Signal Makes Dad Want To Reach Out and Hit Son

By Abigail Van Buren

©1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: You be the judge. Junior, our married son, and his wife have a habit of taking their telephone off the hook whenever they feel like it. When the phone is off the hook, the caller gets a busy signal and has to call again.

Well, the other evening my husband tried to phone our son, and he got a busy signal for two hours straight. He became furious, got into his car and drove to Junior's house. (It's about three miles.) When he got there, he found Junior, his wife and their kids just sitting in the backyard, doing nothing. Junior had taken the phone off the hook because they didn't want to be disturbed during dinner, and nobody thought to put it back on!

My husband took our son apart for his "selfishness" and "lack of consideration" for us, his parents, saying we should be able to reach him by phone when we want to. Junior apologized, but didn't promise to discontinue the practice of taking the phone off the hook.

What do you think about this situation? Is Dad out of line to complain?

MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Yes. A person installs a telephone for his own convenience—not for the convenience of others. If my memory serves me well, it was the late Supreme Court Justice Brandeis who said, "One of the most cherished of all rights is the right to be left alone."

Of course, if parents are elderly or in poor health, one would hope that their children would keep their telephone line "open" in case of an emergency.

DEAR ABBY: I just read "A Parent's Prayer" in your column and feel the need to comment.

What's with all this, "Dear God, make me ...; Dear God, help me ...; Dear God, guide me ...," and all such other weak-kneed whining?

How about, "Dear Mother, haul up your bootstraps, buckle on your armor and call on all the common sense, guts and love you were born with and raise your children yourself"?

MRS. J.G.L., MEDINA, OHIO

DEAR MRS. L.: I think you missed the point. "A Parent's Prayer" was a mother's plea for the patience, strength and wisdom to raise a child. All mothers know that raising a child is a do-it-yourself project.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Please contact your experts on the best way for women to remove body hair in order to wear those new swimsuits.

SUSAN IN BROOKLYN

DEAR SUSAN: There is no "best" way for all women. Electrolysis for permanent hair removal is costly, and takes a long time because each hair is removed (by needle) individually. (Some hairs grow back and must be removed again.) Waxing is popular but not without pain. Depilatories are popular, but because they contain strong chemicals, they must be used with care in certain areas.

Shaving is another option, but many complain that it encourages regrowth, and they get a 5 o'clock shadow before 6 p.m.

Then there's "Baby Touch," a simple, mitten-like buffer that's easy to use and has been a long-time favorite of women of all ages.

CONFIDENTIAL TO THE LONELIEST WARRIOR IN CALIFORNIA: There is a child abuse law in California that makes it mandatory for anyone, including a psychotherapist, to report any knowledge of child molestation to the police.

BEAUTY DIGEST

Diane Robbens

Stress-free beauty

Superstar Julie Andrews spoke to Beauty Digest magazine about the importance of relaxation: "You can use all the best beauty products in the world, but they're useless if the woman using them is not relaxed. So my favorite beauty trick is to simply turn off all distractions from the outside world. Do this and take a long, hot bath with bath oil or bubbles. It works better than any makeup or wrinkle cream."

Polish a plus

Nail polish is definitely a tool for getting nails long and keeping them that way. The lacquer coats, protects and strengthens nails from daily abuse. It's a good idea, though, to keep your fingernails free of nail polish for a day or two every few weeks to allow them to "breathe" freely and to prevent drying out.

Seated in the picture are (left to right) Mrs. Pesina and Clara Hoskins, activities director. Standing is Martha Davis, food supervisor, without whom, according to Mrs. Hoskins, "we couldn't have our parties."

When cheap is costly

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

The natural tendency is to win tricks as cheaply as possible. This is true for declarers and defenders alike. Sometimes extravagance in winning tricks is called for, if there is a good purpose to be served.

Declarer South played low from dummy on the opening lead of the spade five, East played the eight, and the nine won the trick. The jack of diamonds was played and everyone followed low. A second diamond was played and was won by West, who switched to a low heart. East played the jack, won by South's king. South played the jack of clubs out of his hand, hoping either defender would take the king, thus establishing the queen as an entry to dummy. No such luck! A second club was played up to dummy's queen and gathered in by the king, and East returned his remaining spade. The unhappy result — down two.

The contract can easily be made at trick one, if declarer employs some strategic generosity. Let him win East's eight of spades extravagantly with the ace. Now, after the ace of diamonds is forced out, the defenders will be unable to prevent declarer from entering dummy with the spade queen. Without even taking the club finesse, 10 tricks will be made.

Here is bridge writer H.W. Kelsey's advice concerning this deal, from his new book "101 Bridge Maxims": "Don't be miserly with your high cards. A cheap trick is no bargain if it denies you a later entry."

President John F. Kennedy was assassinated Nov. 22, 1963, as he rode in a motorcade in Dallas.

Gives history of smallpox

PRINCES AND PEASANTS: Smallpox in History. By Donald R. Hopkins. University of Chicago Press. 380 Pages. $25.

For millenia smallpox was mankind's most dreaded scourge.

Not only did it claim the lives of millions globally, but it felled king as well as commoner and often changed the course of history.

The author of "Princes and Peasants" is a doctor who played a key role in massive world efforts to eradicate smallpox — a goal gloriously achieved in 1977.

This book does not focus on how the tragic malady was conquered, though a brief explanation is given, but rather on its terrible ravages for ages.

Smallpox is believed to have originated as long ago as 10,000 years B.C., and may have developed from a type of pox found in animals.

Once it got going in humans, few expected to escape. Inexplicably some were unaffected and others gained immunity after mild cases.

It was to sweep around the world and keep on doing so. For centuries no one could ascertain its cause or devise a preventive remedy. Those stricken often died in horrible fashion. Doctors were helpless.

Donald R. Hopkins gives a detailed and terrifying report of how the disease affected nations, armies, rulers and plain people. There are individual accounts of the cases of many of the most prominent victims.

Years of research went into this work and it will probably stand as the definitive account of the subject far into the future.

Industry Changes Bring New Options

'Network Interface' or 'Protector' Marks Division of Responsibility

Among the many changes in the telecommunications industry is one which probably will affect you sooner or later, if it hasn't already.

It deals with your connection to the telephone network. Let's start from the beginning...

There's a device that marks the point where Southwestern Bell Telephone's lines (from a switching office) stop and where your inside wiring begins. (Inside wiring is simply the wiring inside your home.) That device is either a "network interface" or a "protector."

All telephone lines are installed with a protector (which protects against power surges), but not all telephone lines were installed with a network interface.

The network interface is a plug-in device which enables customers to connect or disconnect inside wiring from the telephone network access line.

If your home is a newer home, more than likely, it has a network interface installed either on the inside or outside close to where the telephone line comes to your home.

We started using network interfaces in 1982. If your home does not have a network interface, Southwestern Bell Telephone is responsible for the telephone line from the switching office, up to and including, the protector. This is where our lines ends and your inside wiring begins.

Until recently, we did all the installation and repair of wiring inside our customers' homes. Now that's all changed. Today, you have three options on how to handle installation and repair of inside wiring and jacks for your telephones:

(1) hire Southwestern Bell Telephone to do it,

(2) hire another contractor, or

(3) save the money by doing the work yourself. Materials are readily available from numerous retail stores.

If you choose Southwestern Bell Telephone to do the work, you should know about some new charges called "Premises Work Charges," recently approved by the Public Utility Commission of Texas. The charges, which include materials, are billed according to the time required to do the job.

Here is the schedule of those charges:

PREMISES WORK CHARGES FOR JACKS AND INSIDE WIRING

		8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday	Other Times: Monday-Friday All-day Saturday	Other Times: Sundays and Holidays
Installation	Initial 15 Minutes	$18.50	$22.75	$27.00
	Each Additional 15 Minutes	$10.50	$12.50	$14.75
Repair	Initial 15 Minutes	$28.25	$31.75	$35.25
	Each Additional 15 Minutes	$10.50	$12.75	$15.00

When we complete the work, you get a 30-day warranty against defects and malfunctions from the date of installation or repair. For your reference, keep this warranty handy.

For ease, convenience or cost savings, the choice is yours!

2,000 acres burned in three brush fires

By The Associated Press

Firefighters in three widely separated regions of Texas say they have apparently contained brush fires that, between them, scorched more than 2,000 acres.

More than 100 firefighters battled five separate fires that covered more than 1,000 acres in western Comal County, near New Braunfels.

Eight volunteer fire departments battled a 1,100-acre grass fire off Texas Highway 258, about 11 miles west of Wichita Falls.

Abilene's grass fire was reported about 1:20 p.m., and firefighters battled the blaze for an hour to contain the blaze before it could reach nearby West Texas Utilities transformers.

At one point, more than 100 firefighters were battling five large separate fires, the largest of which burned over 300 acres. No serious injuries or loss of homes was reported, and authorities said they had not determined the cause of the fires.

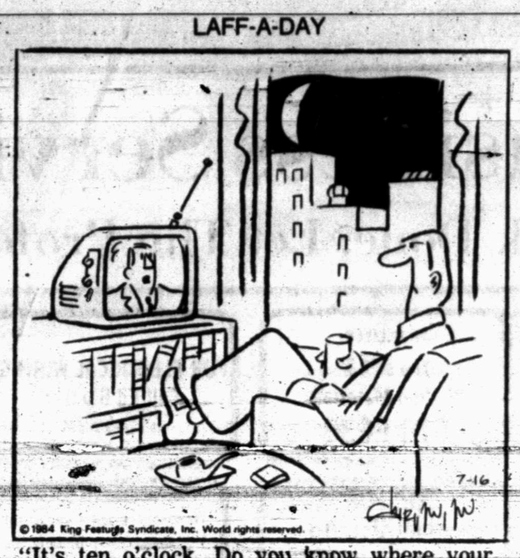

Bob Hahn, president of the Canyon Lake Volunteer Firefighters Association, said that although firemen were still battling flames late Sunday and patroling in the air for hotspots and flareups, the fires have been contained.

Officials say the extreme drought conditions gripping much of South and Central Texas have contributed to the spread of the flames.

The fire near Wichita Falls, close to the Texas-Oklahoma border, was brought under control about 7:30 p.m. Sunday. A few firefighters were treated on the scene for smoke inhalation, but no one was seriously injured.

"This is probably the biggest fire we've had this year. The green grass makes it real smoky where you can't breathe and you can't hardly get to it," said Dan Shores, Wichita West fire department chief.

Soviet family likes new-found freedom

DALLAS (AP) — A year after nine members of a Soviet Christian family found refuge in the United States, the mention of freedom still brings tears to Maria Chmykhalov's eyes.

"Freedom is the greatest experience for us," Mrs. Chmykhalov said, tears flowing down her face. "We tried to emigrate for 22 years. Now my family is all together and that is happiness. Freedom and happiness mean the same thing for us."

Mrs. Chmykhalov, 62, and her son Timothy, 22, were among a group of seven Soviet Pentecostals, dubbed the "Siberian Seven," who rushed past Russian guards in 1978 and then lived in a one-room apartment at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow for almost five years.

On July 18, 1983, after months of private talks between U.S. and Soviet officials, Mrs. Chmykhalov and eight family members were allowed to leave the country.

The family first went to St. Louis, Mo., where they were cared for by a group of American pentecostals. A month later, Timothy was invited to study at Christ for the Nations Institute in Dallas, and the entire family made their way to Texas.

Mrs. Chmykhalov spoke from her South Dallas apartment, where her family has lived since last August. Timothy, who learned English during his stay at the embassy, acted as interpreter.

"In the Soviet Union my husband and sister were in prison. I was in prison for 24 days. Now we don't worry that this will happen," she said through her son. "The government doesn't persecute us. We feel free to share with other people and to worship God the way we want."

But life in a free country hasn't been without its problems.

Good jobs have been difficult to find and the language barrier poses major problems, Mrs. Chmykhalov said. Timothy, the only family member able to communicate with the outside world, lives in a nearby apartment with his pregnant wife Tatyana and works in the institute's circulation office.

Mrs. Chmykhalov's 58-year-old husband, Peter, works in a maintenance job at the institute, which also helps provide the three-bedroom apartment where the family lives.

Timothy's brothers, Anatolii, 27, and Alexandr, 24, do appliance maintenance and factory work. Their sister, Nadezhda, 32, and their aunt, Anna, work in the institute's nursery.

"We stay at home most of the time. It's very hard to communicate with people," Mrs. Chmykhalov said. "We need help to learn English. We try very hard. But some of us are old and it's very difficult to remember words."

Green spots turn brown...

Drought causes state-wide ills

Associated Press Writer

Businesses along the Guadalupe River are buying torrents of water to revive tourism. Streets in Corpus Christi are patrolled for water thieves. One small town on the brink of losing its supply built a 7½-mile emergency water pipeline.

And on Monday, Austin begins mandatory water rationing.

From the Red River to the Rio Grande, the story is much the same: the midsection of Texas has gone bone-dry this summer in what some say could prove to be the worst drought in 30 years.

"The last beneficial rain we had was in May of 1982," said Paul Werner, water superintendent in the coastal city of Corpus Christi, which has invoked a mandatory rationing program and has begun patrolling the streets for offenders.

"We now have some of the brownest lawns in the state," he said. "What we really need is a hurricane to fill the reservoirs."

Corpus Christi, which built a second reservoir too late to collect any water before the drought set in, is not alone.

The drought, combined with rapid population growth that has depleted water supplies across the state and caused problems even in normal conditions, has forced 67 cities and towns into water conservation measures, according to the Texas Department of Water Resources.

Austin's city manager last week announced that a mandatory program would begin Monday. San Antonio is on a voluntary plan. Newcastle rushed a 7½-mile pipeline into service when one lake dried and the other dropped to 2 feet. And Abilene, also under mandatory rationing, saw cattle ranchers line up recently for a marathon sell-off of stock they could neither feed nor water.

"It all boils down to this: people all over the state are having problems right now. Just about everybody's hurting," said Bill Hoffman, chief of the Water Use Technology unit of the water resources department.

For two years now, Mother Nature has been down-right cruel to Texas. In 1983, drought devastated farming and ranching in West Texas, Hurricane Alicia ravaged the Galveston-Houston area and the worst freeze in history ruined the citrus crop in the Rio Grande Valley.

All but 59 of Texas' 254 counties have been declared eligible for some form of federal disaster assistance, said George Svatek of the Farmers Home Adminstration.

Spring rain eased the situation in most of West Texas, but the drought just slid east.

As a result, business evaporated this summer for the merchants along the Guadalupe River, a popular water sports area in Central Texas. But the innovative entrepreneurs pooled their resources and bought river water in bulk.

"We didn't even know we could buy water," said Don Moses, an employee at Texas Canoe Trails.

Each weekend, 125 acre-feet of water, bought by the businesses from a water authority upstream, is released from Canyon Lake into the river, raising the flow from 20 cubic feet per second to 100.

"We've decided to do it every weekend through Labor Day. It's costing us $65,000. But the economy is real bad here right now and we didn't know what else to do," Moses said.

Nina Johnson's friends prayed for rain and prayed for her plight in church last Sunday.

The co-owner of the Turf and Irrigation Co. in Corpus Christi said her business headed down the drain when the city banned lawn watering.

"Nobody's buying sprinklers or mowers or anything," she said. "We're looking at having to lay off our employees if we don't get rain soon."

Meteorologists say the prospects for showers are bleak in the South Central Texas area, the area already classified as a severe drought region.

"The outlook for the month of July shows most of Texas to have subpar rainfall," said George Bomar, meteorologist with the Texas Department of Water Resources. "So far that's been borne out. There's been very little rainfall anywhere."

Bomar said the drought really began for the southern part of the state last winter. A mound of high pressure built over Texas and prevented the usual winter and spring precipitation. Without that runoff, both underground and surface water supplies were low before the usually dry Texas summer began.

"We entered the summer in poor shape and once the old summer regime set in, the hot, dry conditions have really exacerbated the situation," Bomar said.

Interest rates may continue upward

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Reserve policymakers, sitting down to plot monetary strategy, may well squeeze the credit clamps a little more to try to slow the energetic pace of the economy, say private analysts.

The result, they predict, would be still more pressure on interest rates which have been on the rise in recent months.

Other analysts, though, argue against any further tightening, saying the officials would be more cautious in light of fresh economic reports showing inflation staying under control and the economy cooling off.

"No dramatic decision is likely," said Henry Kaufman, chief economist at the New York investment banking firm of Salomon Brothers Inc., in his weekly report.

The policymakers, members of the Federal Open Market Committee, are meeting behind closed doors today and Tuesday to review current monetary policy and set preliminary targets for growth in the money supply next year.

The officials try to provide enough money to the banking system to keep the economy growing without re-igniting high inflation. To do that, the central bank has been keeping relatively strict control over the growth in the money supply.

Because of the unexpectedly robust economy, some analysts believe the officials have no choice but to try to grip the reins even a bit tighter, adding more pressure on interest rates. If left unchecked, they say, the economy might eventually kick up inflation rates.

But two government reports Friday signaled the economy is moderating, and a third report turned up no signs of inflation at the wholesale level.

Singer wins Miss Texas

FORT WORTH (AP) — Tamara Hext, who entered the Miss Texas Scholarship Pageant initially three years ago, says her improved singing helped her win the title.

"I'd worked so hard to improve my singing. I had a fantastic voice coach, Ginny Falk in Arlington, she made the difference," she told a news conference Sunday.

The 21-year-old Miss Arlington defeated 68 other contestants as she was crowned Miss Texas 1984 Saturday night.

The singer and communications student at the University of Texas at Arlington won a prize package worth more than $35,000 and the right to represent Texas in the Miss America pageant.

"It's all in your mental attitude," she advised title seekers. "You can do anything you think you can."

She won the preliminary swimsuit competition Wednesday night and returned to top Friday's talent competiton with her rendition of "I've Got a Crush on You."

Reform said causing more prison violence

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Violence in Texas prisons is on the rise and prison officials blame instability brought about by a reform lawsuit and an administrative shuffle among members of the prison staff.

"Physical conflicts have increased significantly," said prison psychologist Steve Gilliland. "It's something that has been building for a few years."

In 1983, nine Texas prisoners died at the hands of other inmates. Already this year, corrections records show, seven inmates have been murdered by fellow prisoners, The Dallas Morning News reported Sunday.

Assualts and violations of prison rules also are on the increase.

In April, for example, more than twice as many inmates were treated for injuries received during fights than were treated the previous May, when prison officials began tracking injuries.

"Prisoners are being beaten, raped and pushed around more," said William Bennett Turner, a San Francisco attorney who represents inmates in a federal lawsuit that has brought about massive reporms in the Texas system.

"I have always thought it was pure dumb luck that Texas has escaped a major flare-up," he said.

M.W. Moore, warden of the Ramsey II prison near Rosharon, and other corrections officials believe that instability brought about by the federal lawsuit and the Texas Department of Correction's recent adminitrative shuffle have contributed to the increased violence.

"We've been like a fish out of water. It's been like we've been in a big ocean, just drifting," said Moore. "That has to cause some unrest."

Employees like Moore believe the recent appointment of Ray Procunier as TDC director will help stabilize the system. Longtime TDC director W.J. Estelle Jr. resigned in October. Since then, more than 50 prison employees have been disciplined or fired for using excessive force against inmates.

Unfinished business: Recently I mentioned that our school-agers are killing themselves 18 a day and a thousand a day try. A 40 percent increase in eight years.

I asked help from you in understanding why.

I got it.

Many of the letters I have since received are signed; I will reveal none of those signatures.

What we're looking for are the common denominators — the causes of suicide — the symptoms — and we may have stumbled upon a prevention.

Prime candidates for teen suicides are white males.

Several letters, in different words and differing ways, blame "boredom."

"The world is just getting boring..."

Some blame authoritarian fathers.

"I can't measure up to dad's ideas of what a perfect child should be."

Others complain that they are "ignored" by their parents.

What many read and hear has them convinced that the future is futile, limited by an impending nuclear holocaust.

If it sounds as though there is little or no correlation among the several grievances, stay with me; there is.

"I would like my parents to hold me once in a while." That was written by a grown woman schoolteacher.

During this visit I had asked people contemplating suicide first to write to me and try to explain why.

"The pills are going to win. I can't help it. I sit here taking them one after another and I know that the pills are going to win."

Here's another: "My psychiatrist tells me to hang in there 'for one more week.' He's been telling me that for too many weeks."

Apparent paradox: One woman writes that she is going to kill herself because she is 38 and unmarried. Another writes that she is thinking of killing herself because she is engaged and "can't face marriage."

But now we are getting to the point of this:

The common denominator is "depression."

But many who contemplated suicide, and did not, credit "nutrition."

"My diagnosis said 'endogenous depression.' My doctor prescribed a high protein, no-sugar diet and I am not the same person since."

Another: "I got off Kool-Aid, Twinkies and hot dogs and onto a high nutrition diet and I feel great."

"I cut out the soft drinks and started taking carrot juice and iron tablets and other vitamins and soon recovered."

Here's another and it's typical of many: "Pure hell melted away into sheer heaven in less than two days after I balanced my body chemistry by getting off junk food and onto three meals a day." End-quote.

Have we, in this most affluent nation on earth, been starving to death?

Thatcher's future at stake over strike

By The Associated Press

LONDON (AP) — Banana boats were prepared to dump their cargo in the sea and thousands of vacationers were faced with chaotic changes in travel plans as transport unions threatened to add Dover to the list of strike-bound British ports today.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, confronted by nationwide coal mine and dock strikes, called an emergency Cabinet meeting today. She hinted over the weekend that army troops might be called in to do the work of 35,000 longshoremen at ports that have been idle for a week in a dispute over use of non-union labor.

The 25,000-member National Union of Seamen has also stopped working, halting freight ferries in a protest against the government's plan to sell profitable ferry services to private enterpise.

The 500 workers at Dover, who control the busy cross-channel gateway between Britain and the European Continent, planned a vote today on whether to join the rest of their union in a strike as the summer holiday season began.

Ferry companies were hoping that even if the men voted to halt freight service, they would allow vacationers to sail. At this time of year, there are 100 ferry trips for tourists planned. Also there were truckers traveling though Kent over the weekend to beat the threatened strike at Dover, but a harbor spokesman said early today that traffic was normal and scheduled ferries were leaving on time.

With about 90 British ports closed, three-quarters of the nation's import and export goods held up, hundreds of trucks delayed and vacation plans in chaos on the first day of the school holidays, Mrs. Thatcher is not required to declare a state of emergency in order to summon troops to the docks.

The British army was last used on the docks in 1950, when 5,000 soldiers broke a wildcat walkout of London longshoremen.

But an emergency declaration would allow the government to order people in vital jobs, such as water service and electric power, to work or face imprisonment.

Most of the nation's 183,000 coal miners went on strike March 12 to protest plans by the state-owned National Coal Board to shut down 20 unprofitable mines and reduce the workforce by 20,000.

The possibility of a restive Conservative Party replacing its first woman leader was being openly discussed by politicians and the press.

Top Tories are worried about escalating industrial unrest with 12.6 per cent of the work force, or 3 million unemployed.

The Financial Times reported that a Marplan survey showed 66 percent of senior company executives who were interviewed believe the interest rates hikes are damaging to the economy.

The survey said the businessmen also are concerned about the slide in the British pound's value from $1.58 to $1.30 in 12 months.

Three Conservative dailies, the Telegraph, Mail and Express, all urged Mrs. Thatcher to stand firm against her critics.

Guerrilla attack fatal to 21

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — A freight train was dynamited and derailed by leftist rebels, killing 21 Treasury policemen on board and destroying one of five locomotives remaining in El Salvador, the government says.

A Defense Ministry spokesman said Sunday that guerrillas detonated powerful dynamite charges as the train passed through the hamlet of San Antonio Grande, 25 miles north of San Salvador.

After the train was blasted off the traeks Saturday, the rebels raked it with automatic weapons fire, killing 21 of the Treasury officers guarding the train and wounding the other four members of the contingent, the spokesman said.

El Salvador's president, Jose Napoleon Duarte, today began a 10-day trip to Europe to seek economic aid for his war-torn country, with West Germany his first stop. It's his first foreign trip since taking office June 1, although he met with U.S. officials in Washington shortly after his May 6 election victory.

In Nicaragua, the leftist Sandinista government said its ambassador to the Vatican, Ricardo Peters, was scheduled to meet with officials of the Holy See today in an apparent effort to ease diplomatic strains. A statement issued in Managua said the visit was to show "the appreciation of the Nicaraugan government of its relations with the high Catholic leadership and the Vatican."

A week ago, the Sandinistas expelled 10 foreign Roman Catholic priests who were accused of anti-government activity. Pope John Paul II called the expulsions "painful and particularly grave."

Last week, the Sandinistas named a Jesuit priest, the Rev. Fernando Cardenal, as education minister — a move which junta coordinator Daniel Ortega said refutes "those who claim that religious persecution exists in Nicaragua."

The freight train wrecked by the Salvadoran rebels was traveling to Metapan, 70 miles northwest of San Salvador, to pick up a load of cement. The destroyed engine was one of only five left of the 20 owned by the national railroad in 1979.

Vehicle's battery taken

John Dennington of the Windridge Apartments reported a stolen vehicle battery to police around 8:50 a.m. Saturday.

Police were told the battery, valued at $80, had been stolen from his company pickup, owned by Blankenship Packers of Snyder, sometime Friday night. The vehicle had been parked at Dennington's residence.

In other weekend action, city police arrested eight subjects for public intoxication and two for driving while intoxicated Saturday and Sunday.

Pool lot is wreck scene

One minor traffic mishap was reported in Snyder during the past weekend.

Minor damage and no injuries were reported at 4 p.m. Saturday when a 1979 GMC driven by Roger Dale Kelly of 1208 25th St. struck a parked 1983 Ford owned by Arthur Casias. The mishap occurred beside the Towle Park Swimming Pool.

Snyder man dies in one-car mishap

A 52-year-old Snyder farm worker was killed Saturday in a one-vehicle accident near Rock Springs in South Texas.

Services for Antonio Aquilar, 706 26th St., are set for 10 a.m. Wednesday in Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church with Fr. Bernard Degan of the Holy Family Catholic Church in Sweetwater officiating.

Rosary will be conducted at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Chapel of Roses. Burial will be held in the Snyder Cemetery under the direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Aguilar had been a resident of Snyder for the past 10 years, moving here from Ralls. He was born Sept. 14, 1931 in Mexico. He was a member of Our Lady of Guadalpue Church.

He married Paula Banda on Feb. 7, 1954 in Seguin. She survives.

Other survivors include six daughters, Victoria Aguilar of Snyder, Angela Martinez of Snyder, Gloria Sanchez of Lubbock, Patricia, Beatrice and Adela Aguilar, all of Snyder; three sons, Tony, George and Ernest, all of Snyder; six half-sisters including Spenanza Torres of Snyder; four half brothers including Lepoldo Aguilar of Snyder; and nine grandchildren.

Family moves, takes house too

BUCKINGHAM, Texas (AP) — Dorothy and Chuch Wiginton are moving, but unlike most families whose chief problems include moving personal belongings and getting mail forwarded, they're taking their house with them.

Developers bought all of tiny Buckingham six months ago in order to turn it into a planned community of mostly apartments, office buildings, shopping centers and restaurants.

The Wigintons, faced with an ultimatum to clear out, decided to take their $200,000, 3,000-square-foot house with them to Tyler, some 80 miles to the east.

"It's too nice a home to just bulldoze," Wiginton said. "It's the first home we ever built from scratch."

Movers next month will cut the one-story, 3,000-square-foot house into three pieces before trucking it to Tyler.

Some other Buckingham residents received extensions past Sunday's original deadline to move out, but most said they'll be out of the tiny town of 160 people surrounded by Richardson — one of Dallas' fastest growing suburbs.

Until development of the town begins in the fall, renters have moved into the homes on a month-to-month basis, said C.W. Kendall III, a real estate broker who arranged the sale of most of the town's property to developer Michael Block.

The Wigintons lived in Buckingham eight years before building their dream home in 1977.

"This house is going to remind us of Buckingham," and of the three-acre property that "seemed like country, yet was close to town," said Mrs. Wiginton.

Wiginton, who retired this year after a career in banking, said he and his wife always thought they would remain in Buckingham.

"We both always said that our next stop would be Restland (cemetery)," he said.

The move to Tyler, however, places Wigmton in a more convenient location for his new line of work as a distributor of Slush Puppie Big Delight products in East Texas.

The Wigintons say they only wish they could transplant their neighbors with them.

"We hope they'll have a reunion someday," Wiginton said.

High-stakes battle in federal court

MARSHALL (AP) — Texas' high-stakes legal battle with the federal government over offshore oil leases went to court today with lawyers for the state claiming federal policies will hamper development of energy resources in the Gulf of Mexico.

The state contends that federal law requires the Department of Interior to divide tracts put up for leasing bids while the federal government contends the law is not that specific.

Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox has described the Interior Department's lease offer as "a windfall for the oil industry" because offering only large areas for leasing would cut small firms out of the running.

Including small firms in the bidding would drive the lease price higher, Mattox contends.

"Interior's approach in this situation eliminates the panoply of bidders for individual tracts," Assistant Attorney General David Richards argued this morning before U.S. District Judge Robert Parker.

Parker heard opening arguments on the "nomination process" — the process by which lease areas are specified.

"If the nomination process is applied to tracts, there is greater assurance that bidders are showing a degree of interest for exploration of those tracts they lease," Richards said. "It is our intent not to discourage, but emphatically to encourage, exploration of oil deposits in the region."

Richards said 31 million acres of outer continental shelf lease property is at stake in the dispute. Gov. Mark White recently met with Interior Secretary William Clark to discuss the matter, but reached no agreement.

noted that the street can be built regardless if it is within the city limits of Snyder.

Regarding annexation, it cannot go into effect until this ordinance has passed two readings of the council. The second reading is scheduled Aug. 13.

If approved by the council, any further action regarding the issue will be postponed until January — the first legal date such a special election may be conducted by the city.

Under Texas law, such elections may be scheduled on either the second Saturday in August or the third week in January.

A check with state officials indicated there is currently not sufficient time to call such a vote in August.

some two hours before they were able to free Mardis from the wreckage. Personnel with Aid Ambulance-Snyder reported him to be suffering from a broken left leg and possible shoulder and hip injuries when he was transported to the local hospital.

Highway patrolmen who investigated the mishap reported eight or nine of the cattle in Mardis' truck killed in the accident.

USFL championships...

Stars outshine Arizona

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) - It was a night for redemption and the Philadelphia Stars, a team driven all year long by a two-point loss in the United States Football League's inaugural championship game, would not be denied.

Chuck Fusina came to pass, Kelvin Bryant came to run and above all, Coach Jim Mora's club came to play defense, shutting down the Arizona Wranglers 23-3 to win the USFL's second title game before a Tampa Stadium crowd of 52,662.

"There's no doubt we are the best team in the USFL," Mora said after the Stars hiked their record to 19-2 and 35-6 over two years. "There was no denying this team."

Philadelphia, a 24-22 loser to Michigan in the first USFL championship game in Denver last July, dominated from the Wranglers from start to finish, although a trio of turnovers threatened to spoil the club's mission.

Fusina completed his first 10 passes as the Stars built a 13-3 halftime lead and Bryant, the league's most valuable player in 1983 and second leading rusher in 1984, ran for 115 yards on 29 carries to pace an offensive attack that featured a USFL playoff-record 59 rushing plays.

Philadelphia controlled the ball for 43 minutes, 19 seconds to Arizona's 16:41 and the Stars outgained the Wranglers 414 yards to 119.

Bryan Thomas' 4-yard touchdown run 7:50 into the game helped the Stars to a 7-0 lead and Fusina's 1-yard sneak seven minutes later made it 13-0.

The first of three Philadelphia turnovers - Ken Dunek's fumble early in the second quarter - set up Frank Corral's 37-yard field goal, but Arizona couldn't capitalize on the other two miscues.

Bryant, playing with a jammed toe, fumbled at the Wranglers goal line to end an 84-yard drive just before halftime and Ed Smith intercepted a Fusina pass and returned it 37 yards to to halt another march that had traveled 68 yards in the third quarter.

"We had opportunities to get back in the game after a couple of turnovers, but we didn't take advantage of them," said Arizona Coach George Allen. "We didn't play as well as I thought we would, so Philadelphia deserves to win the championship."

Fusina, voted the game's most valuable player, eluded the Wranglers' vaunted pass rush all night, finishing with 12 completions in 17 attempts for 158 yards. More importantly, Arizona failed to sack him.

"Any team we played tonight would have been hard pressed to stop us," the league's top-rated quarterback added.

Philadelphia's "Doghouse Defense," meanwhile, took the spotlight from Allen's contingent that ranked No. 1 overall during the 18-game regular-season.

Shutout in the second and third quarters, the Stars used the Wranglers' only turnover to set up a touchdown that put them comfortably ahead, 20-3, with 9:55 left in the fourth quarter.

Don Fielder sacked Arizona quarterback Greg Landry at the Wranglers' 11-yard line, forcing a fumble recovered by Philadelpiha's Buddy Moor.

Seven plays later, Bryant crashed into the end zone from the 1. David Trout, who earlier missed a 27-yard field goal, completed Philadelphia's scoring with a 39-yarder 4:34 later.

"We really didn't get started tonight. We made a few mistakes and Philly just controlled the game," Landry said.

"They made a lot of mistakes also and at halftime we still thought we had a shot," the former Detroit Lions and Baltimore Colts quarterback added. "But we just couldn't do anything in the second half."

The Wranglers, losers of eight of their first 14 games, closed the season with a 12-9 record.

All-Stars prepare for Ballinger team

MERKEL – Snyder's Little League All-Stars are scheduled to play Area 2 champion Ballinger at 8 p.m. here Tuesday.

Snyder sewed up the Area 1 title last Friday with a 15-5 win over Rotan.

The competition will be a best two-of-three series since neither Snyder nor Ballinger have a loss in playoff competition. Little League playoffs are double elimination until the State Tournament, however, any loss is carried over into the following series.

Snyder is expected to pitch Tommy Lane in the first game.

Game Two of the series is tentatively scheduled for Thursday at 8 p.m.

United States sweeps Argentina by 5-0 score

ATLANTA (AP) - Most of the suspense ended in the early going, but John McEnroe managed to keep everyone's attention on and off the court in the United States' 5-0 Davis Cup tennis victory over Argentina.

The start of Sunday's competition was delayed 51 minutes while doctors examined McEnroe and Argentine star Jose-Luis Clerc. Davis Cup officials announced that McEnroe had tendinitis in his right lateral hamstring and Clerc had a slightly torn abdominal muscle, but that both would play.

McEnroe said later that he had planned to sit out Sunday with the injury, allowing Jimmy Arias to substitute. He said he changed his mind when he heard about Clerc. He said the Argentine faked the injury.

"I said, 'I'll play if he'll play,'" McEnroe said.

Clerc then lost to Jimmy Connors 8-6, 6-2, and McEnroe beat 19-year-old Martin Jaite 6-3, 6-4. Both matches were shortened to best-of-three sets because the contest had been decided when the Americans took a 3-0 lead Saturday.

Friday, McEnroe defeated Clerc 6-4, 6-0, 6-2 and Connors beat Jaite 6-3, 6-4, 10-8. McEnroe and Fleming clinched the contest by winning Saturday's doubles match 7-5, 4-6, 6-3, 6-1 over Clerc and Jaite.

The three-day paid attendance of 48,529 at the Omni set a record for a Davis Cup match in the United States.

The U.S. team will meet defending champion Australia in the semifinals in September in Portland, Ore.

Australia, Czechoslovakia and Sweden, all playing at home, wrapped up semifinal spots Sunday.

Pursley gains alternate spot

WALNUT, Calif. (AP) - Bill Green, winner of the U.S. Olympic Trials in the hammer throw, improved his American record to 251 feet Sunday night in a pre-Olympic meet at sultry Mount San Antonio College.

Meanwhile Ria Stalman, a native of The Netherlands and the winner of the U.S. championship this year in the women's discus, unleashed the best throw in the world this year, 233-8, in bettering her national record by nearly 12 feet.

Green's best throw came on his fifth attempt. He also had broken the American record on his third try, throwing 247-7.

Giampaolo Urlando of Italy finished a close second at 250-11. Declan Hegarty of Ireland was third with a national record of 250-5, and Shigenobu Murofushi of Japan placed fourth at 242-9, also a national record.

Their chances for an Olympic medal are enhanced by the fact that the top three throwers in the world - Yuri Syedikh, Sergey Litvinov and Igor Nikulin, all of the Soviet Union - will not be at the Los Angeles Games because of their country's boycott.

The Olympics begin July 28, but track and field events begin Aug. 3.

Brad Pursley gained the alternate's spot on the U.S. pole vault team, winning at 18-5 1-4. He then took three shots at an American record of 19-1, barely missing on his final attempt.

Pursley had finished in a fourth-place tie with Dave Kenworthy and Joe Dial during the Trials. Kenworthy wound up third Sunday night at 17-6 1-2 and Dial did not compete.

The meet was in sharp contrast to Saturday's pre-Olympic meet at Berkeley, Calif., where no world or American records were set and no 1984 world-bests were produced.

Ron Brown rallied in the final 15-20 meters and won the men's 100 in 10.26 and ran a leg on the winning 400-meter relay team, clocked in 38.91.

And the men's 1,600-meter relay team of Willie Smith, Ray Armstead, Alonzo Babers and Walter McCoy was timed in 3:00.11, the second-best in the world this year.

Relief pitching cements Tigers' win over Twins

by The Associated Press

With the kind of standout relief pitching the Detroit Tigers are getting these days, Dave Rozema doesn't worry about finishing a game.

"Once I get through five innings with a lead, I think about Aurelio and I start to feel pretty safe," says Rozema.

His reference, of course, is to Aurelio Lopez, whose tough relief work Sunday helped the Tigers beat the Minnesota Twins 6-2. Lopez gave up but one single and struck out five in 3 2-3 innings to nail down the Detroit victory.

On Saturday night, Doug Bair and Willie Hernandez retired 19 of 20 batters in relief to help the Tigers win 6-5 in 12 innings. Combined with Lopez's effort Sunday, Tiger relievers retired 28 of the last 30 batters in the two games.

In other American League action, it was New York 4, Kansas City 1; Baltimore 6, Chicago 4; Toronto 6, Oakland 3; California 7, Milwaukee 6; Boston 11, Seattle 3, and Cleveland 5, Texas 4 in 11 innings.

Rozema scattered eight hits over 5 1-3 innings and allowed one earned run, walked one and struck out five before Lopez came on in the sixth for his 11th save.

Lou Whitaker went 4-for-5, and Darrell Evans hit a solo homer and a two-run double to lead the Tiger offense.

Whitaker's RBI single capped a two-run second inning for the Tigers. Evans blasted his eighth homer in the third and he hit a bases-loaded double in the sixth to give the Tigers a 6-1 advantage.

Yankees 4, Royals 1

Ray Fontenot scattered eight hits over 6 1-3 innings and Dave Winfield and Omar Moreno each drove in two runs as New York defeated Kansas City and completed a five-game sweep of the Royals.

Fontenot, 3-5, allowed only one run while striking out three and walking one. Jay Howell pitched 2 2-3 innings to register his third save.

Orioles 6, White Sox 4

Cal Ripken Jr., Eddie Murray and Wayne Gross hit homers to account for five Baltimore runs as the Orioles defeated Chicago behind the combined eight-hit pitching of Dennis Martinez and two relievers.

Blue Jays 6, A's 3

Cliff Johnson walloped a pair of home runs, including a two-run shot in a five-run sixth, to power Toronto over Oakland.

Damaso Garcia led off the sixth with a homer, his third of the year, off Oakland starter Curt Young, 2-1. Lloyd Moseby was hit by a pitch and George Bell followed with a triple to score Moseby and knock Young out of the game.

Angels 7, Brewers 6

Bob Boone scored the winning run in the ninth by knocking the ball loose from catcher Bill Schroeder's glove to boost California over Milwaukee.

Boone had led off with a pinch single off Bob McClure, 2-5, and was sacrificed to second. After Gary Pettis was walked intentionally, pinch-hitter Juan Beniquez singled and Boone, who initially had stopped at third, was forced to go home when Pettis over-ran second and was caught in a rundown. Shortstop Robin Yount's throw to Schroeder was ahead of Boone, but Boone's forearm loosened the ball and he came in to score.

Red Sox 11, Mariners 3

Rich Gedman drove in four runs and Mike Easler had three RBI and four hits to power Boston past Seattle.

Gedman unloaded a two-run double off Seattle starter Jim Beattie, 9-9, to key a four-run Boston fourth inning. He belted a two-run homer, his 10th of the season, to cap a five-run seventh.

Al Nipper, 3-3, pitched the first eight innings for the victory.

Black climbs to top at Busch Golf Classic

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ronnie Black was a standout golfer for New Mexico Junior College of the Western Junior College Athletic Conference during the late 1970's.

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) - A future father-in-law has something to learn about Ronnie Black.

"He told me second was a realistic goal," Black said. "I went him one better."

Black, a lanky 26-year-old in his third year as a touring pro, set a couple of seasonal marks as he came from seven strokes off the pace with a spectacular 63 that provided him with a 1-shot victory Sunday over little Willie Wood in the Anheuser-Busch Golf Classic.

"Willie knew he had to go out and shoot a good score to win," Black said. "But he probably never expected to see me up there."

He paused, then added: "I don't know that I expected me up there."

Black started the final round in fourth place, with Wayne Levi and host pro Curtis Strange, respectively, four and five strokes back of the front-running little man called "Wee Willie," and, apparently, his only serious threats.

But Black holed three shots from off the green - a bunker shot, a chip-in and a putt from the fringe - on the way to the best round of his career. His 8-under-par effort tied - for the third time in the week - the record on the 6,746-yard Kingsmill Golf Club course.

His make-up of seven shots was the best of the year on the PGA Tour.

And his winning total, 17-under-par 267, was the tour's lowest score of the year, one better than Tom Purtzer's winning score in Phoenix and one better than Wood, who had to settle for second.

"I love to compete," said Black, who scored his first tour triumph last year in the Southern Open. "That's what makes Lanny Wadkins so good. Anyone who does well out here, a lot of heart is involved."

Black's victory was worth $63,000 from the total purse of $350,000 and boosted his season's earnings to $142,238 for the year.

A busy player who has competed in 23 events this season and had a sixth-place finish in the Masters and third in the Heritage, Black took the week off immediately before his victory, and will take off this week, too.

"I'm getting married next Saturday in Tucson," he said. The bride-to-be is Sandy Sarabia.

Strange, with a closing 67 and a 269 total, and Levi, 69-270, were the only others in title contention.

Vance Heafner, at 70-276, was nine shots back of the winner. Scott Hoch closed with a 65 and was at 278.

Stacy wins her third Women's Open crown

PEABODY, Mass. (AP) - Hollis Stacy, only 30, moved closer to U.S. Golf Association immortality Sunday at the steamy Salem Country Club.

Stacy rallied from five strokes off the pace in an amazing comeback and won the U.S. Women's Open golf championship for a third time in a stretch duel with young Rosie Jones and longtime rival Amy Alcott.

Stacy fired a three-under par 69, equalling the tournament's best score, for a 72-hole score of 290, two over regulation, on the sun-baked 6,285-yard layout.

Nailing down the victory on the final hole, she joined elite USGA company, such as Bobby Jones, JoAnne Gunderson Carner and Jack Nicklaus - while equalling the third lowest last round score in Women's Open history.

Stacy pulled into a tie with Nicklaus with six USGA championships. Nicklaus won two national amateur championships before winning four Opens. Stacy captured three USGA Girls' Junior crowns before winning the 1978 and '79 Opens as a pro. Then she did it again with her dramatic comeback for her first victory on the pro tour this year.

Stacy recalled her longtime rivalry with Alcott, starting in the junior ranks, but was happy just to savor the victory.

She watched from near the 18th green as first Jones and then Alcott dropped from a tie which would have forced an 18-hole playoff today. Jones took a bogey, then Alcott had a double bogey because of a faulty drive.

Jones, the 1882 Spanish Open champion and runnerup for the British women's crown the same year, had a final round 72 for 291.

Alcott, who felt she was the player to beat all week, slipped to a 74 and wound up tied for third at 292 with Lori Garbacz, who finished with a 70.

Patty Sheehan, the LPGA champion for two years in a row and the leading money winner on the tour had a closing 70 for 294.

Astros edge Phillies

by The Associated Press

The Houston Astros had plenty of chances to score. Finally, in the 16th inning, they did and they won.

Alan Ashby's one-out single drove in Jose Cruz from second base Sunday night, giving the Astros a 3-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies in 16 innings.

"I thought we would play until midnight," said winning pitcher Frank DiPino, 3-5, who worked one inning as Houston's fifth hurler. "We put a lot of guys on base, but we couldn't score any runs."

The Astros left 20 runners on base while receiving seven intentional walks, a major league record for an extra-inning game.

In other NL games, Atlanta downed New York 8-3, Chicago defeated Los Angeles 4-1, Pittsburgh downed San Francisco 9-3, San Diego beat St. Louis 6-1 and Cincinnati edged Montreal 3-2.

Carman, the fifth Philadelphia pitcher, lost his first decision of the year.

Braves 8, Mets 3

Claudell Washington drove in three runs with a homer, a double and a ground ball that broke a 3-3 tie in the seventh inning as the Braves snapped an eight-game Mets winning streak and cut their lead in the division to one-half game over the Cubs.

The only drawback to Washington's day was that he was hitting in the No. 3 spot in the order instead of his accustomed leadoff spot.

Mets rookie right-hander Dwight Gooden, 8-6, gave up five runs on five hits in seven innings, despite striking out 10. It was the seventh time this season he has been in double figures in strikeouts.

Chris Chambliss also homered for Atlanta, while Darryl Strawberry connected for New York.

Cubs 4, Dodgers 1

Dennis Eckersley and Lee Smith combined on a seven-hitter, and Ryne Sandberg homered in Chicago's four-run seventh inning against Los Angeles, which has lost four of its last five. Eckersley yielded five hits in seven innings and struck out seven. Sandberg has 13 homers.

Franklin Stubbs' three-base error in center field also contributed to the Cubs' big inning against Fernando Valenzuela, 8-10. Eckersley is 3-5.

The Dodgers played the game under protest because the umpires made Valenzuela change from shoes with white tongues to a pair with blue tongues.

Reds 3, Expos 2

Jay Tibbs made his major league debut by pitching 7 2-3 innings of four-hit ball and got help from Ted Power to beat Montreal, ending an eight-game Cincinnati losing streak. Tibbs took a two-hitter into the eighth when Montreal scored on a single by Tim Raines, a passed ball, a grounder and Andre Dawson's single.

Tibbs, who was recalled from the minors on July 12, also gave up a seventh-inning homer to Mike Stenhouse.

The Reds scored an unearned run off Steve Rogrs, 3-9, in the first inning, picked up another on consecutive doubles by Dave Concepcion and Nick Esasky in the second and scored again in the seventh on Tom Foley's RBI single.

Gold medal winners at the first modern Olympics in 1896 also received olive branches from the King of Greece, the host country.
