Powers Yawns At Battle For Life In Court

"Bluebeard" Of West Virginia Chews Gum And Grins During Opening Day; Is Accused Of Murdering Five

Strange Setting

Crowd Forms At Dawn To Mill About Opera House; Glaring Lights Illumine Stage For Ironic Death Trial

(By The Associated Press)

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 7.—Chewing gun and grinning, Harry F. Powers went on trial for his life today.

With his back to the 1,200 men, women and children, who filled every seat in the town opera house, he sat on the stage of the improvised courtroom and watched eagerly while a jury was being selected. He yawned, however, when he was accused of murdering two women and three children for profit and he showed no trace of emotion when a demand was made he be hanged for one of the killings, that of Mrs. Dorothy Lemke, of Northboro, Mass.

Powers Immobile

During the testimony of three witnesses heard before court adjourned for the day, the bland defendant sat immobile. When Police Chief Clarence A. Duckworth stepped down from the stand and pulled blood stained garments worn by Mrs. Lemke from a cotton bag, Powers glanced at them and turned his interest toward a stage electrician on a platform in the wings.

Coroner Le Roy C. Goff and Dr. Herbert H. Haynes told how Mrs. Lemke, Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher of Parkridge, Ill., and two of the latter's children had all been strangled to death, while Harry Eicher, 12, had been gagged and struck on the head with a hammer, but the doctors seemed to be playing parts in a drama that little concerned the defendant.

Crowd Mills About

Townspeople who once had filled the streets around the jail shouting his name, and who more recently had torn down part of the garage in which the killings were committed, milled around in front of the opera house, unable to gain entrance. A crowd formed at dawn.

Up and down the sidewalks paraded "sandwich men" advertising

Cleverness With "Six-Gun" Fails To Halt Sub-Machine Gun's Rapid Fire

Former Officer Shot Down By Sheriff On City Street

(By The Associated Press)

RANKIN, Dec. 7. Searching for a motive for the trouble between Graham Barnett, known for his cleverness with a "six-gun," and W. C. Fowler, fearless sheriff of Upton county, a special court of inquiry interrogated a number of witnesses here today.

Barnett, 41, of Alpine, colorful former border peace officer and state ranger, was shot to death yesterday on Rankin's main street by Sheriff Fowler. The sheriff said he did not fire his sub-machine gun until afterBarnett had made a move towards his belt.

Loan Is Refused

Sheriff Fowler had declined to say definitely what led up to the difficulty, and the only intimation was that he had refused to give Barnett a requested loan.

Tony Hess, one of Barnett's companions at the time of the killing, said he and Barnett were trying to borrow money with which to go into the cattle business. Rhome Shively also came with them to Rankin.

Albert Franks, negro jail cook, told the court of inquiry that Barnett and two men whom he thought to be Hess and Shively came to the Upton jail late Saturday and asked for Fowler. Franks said Barnett had been drinking.

Asks About Prisoners

The negro told the men that Fowler was not there. Barnett then was quoted as asking Franks if Fowler was not a "tough man."

Testifying further, the negro said Barnett asked him how many prisoners were in jail. The negro told him, and Barnett was quoted as

Marchers Get Cold Greeting

Federation Of Labor President Says Emphatically That All Of Demonstrators Represent Nothing But Communism

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—A band of 1,500 demonstrators which paraded peacefully about Washington today failed in its announced purpose of presenting demands for unemployment relief to President Hoover and on the senate floor.

In fact, as nightfall found their steps slow and their band silent, they had not officially made their program known either at the White House or to congress.

At both places, their leaders refused to send in their demands after police blocked their entrance.

Cold Reception

A committee of six did enter the headquarters of the American Federation of Labor but filed out quietly after President William Green said emphatically the marchers represented "communism."

There was no outburst, however, as the six reported the denunciation Green had given them. The committee protested the attitude of the federation in opposing federal unemployment insurance.

Sterling Will Not Interfere In Cotton Row

Texas Governor Declares That He Will Not Sound An Appeal To Governors For Action On Cotton Reduction

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Dec. 7.—Governor R. S. Sterling, will keep his finger out of the affairs of neighboring commonwealths, he said today in declaring he would not appeal to governors of other cotton states that have not done so to urge enactment of cotton acreage reduction laws similar to Texas'.

"Why should I threaten the governors of the states that have not yet enacted cotton acreage reduction statutes?" he asked when confronted with a request from a mass meeting of Central Texas farmers held at Waco Saturday that he immediately appeal to the governors of states that have not acted to convene their legislatures for that purpose.

Propose Session

The mass meeting proposed that should the governors of the states that had not acted, not promise to convene their legislatures by January 20, the Texas governor call his legislature together and repeal the Lone Star state laws prohibiting the planting in 1932 of more than 30 per cent of the acreage devoted to all crops in 1931.

Governor Sterling said he believed the less said and written about the cotton acreage situation the better.

"We ought to let well enough alone," he stated. "The farmers asked for the law the legislature gave them. They wanted to go farther than that and call a 1932 cotton holiday."

Joyful "Rebel" Yells Sounded As Smiling Jack Garner Is Elevated To Post Last Held By Demo 12 Years Ago

Legislative Recommendations Of President Hoover Are To Be Heard Today; Report Is Also Being Expected

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7. (AP)—The nations new congress convened today in a calm, quiet manner that belied under-surface tension and the strife-filled issues awaiting its consideration.

The house went into the hands of the Democrats. Joyful "rebel" yells greeted the smiling veteran of the party, Garner of Texas, as he ascended the speaker's rostrum, last held by a Democrat 12 years ago.

Republicans clung to their fingerhold in the senate. It went through the brief routine of swearing in new members in a formal 35-minute session. Its organization problem will be settled tomorrow. A dispute is impending on the reelection of George Moses of New Hampshire, as president protem.

To Present Report

To this divided and politically hostile congress, President Hoover tomorrow will submit his legislative recommendations and a report on the state of the union.

The dominant economic problems facing this seventy-second congress met with an unemployment demonstration on the capitol plaza. Representatives of the organized marchers were halted by the police at the doors of the senate chambers. With tomorrow's reading of the presidential message, the congress will plunge immediately into its task of devising a way to speed American prosperity. That is the keynote.

Assuming congressional authority for the first time in a dozen years, Democratic leaders are moving cautiously but unitedly. There will be no coalition. There will be politics for it is the dawn of a presidential year. But on the vital steps for national recovery there is promise of prompt, non-partisan action.

In keeping with the spirit of this congress elected a year ago in the

Gold Mines With No Gold Bring Poverty To Two Duncan Sisters; "We've Cried Like Two Babies"

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 7.—The Duncan sisters, Rosetta and Vivian, stage and screen actresses, filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy in federal court today. They will file within ten days a schedule of assets and liabilities.

Their attorney, Bert L. Irving, said "bad investments are responsible for their predicament.

"The action was taken," he said, "because creditors have been harassing them, making it difficult for them to fill theatrical engagements."

"Gold mines with no gold, worthless stock, the fickleness of Wall street and signatures on too many dotted lines are responsible, Vivian related in tears.

"Three years ago we had more than $1,000,000 and the money was rolling in," she said. "We were a big success and everyone with something to sell was playing us with propositions back stage. We signed up for almost anything they

Two Entertain With Tea Honoring Methodist Women Leaders In City

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

OH WELL, you have to be smart to fool these children . . . The child, for instance, who wanted to know how Santa could have time to come around on this tour if he was so busy getting ready for Christmas . . . And the one who was telling us he "would give Santa one more chance to answer his letter as he had written two and had received no answer." Someone was relating, too, about the skinny Santa who was parading around some store last year while several children eyed him in with some doubt as to his authenticity. One little girl from Lorenzo rushed up to greet him and Santa was forced to ask her name. "I'm Susie Blank from Lorenzo," she piped, and Old Santa in his best jovial manner boomed, "Oh yes, I know about that town. Worked over there on the pipe line all summer!"

We hear, again, about how disgusted it is to allow the children to believe in the Santa Claus myth and how we are giving them an unbalanced slant on life. Mebbe so. Mebbe so. But how about all of us who believed in St. Nicholas and cherished the belief then learned that it was fiction? If that were life's greatest disillusionment . . . anyway, it is such a grand and glorious feeling to believe that there is such a magnanimous and rare creature. It is one of the childhood memories most of us love to preserve. Until we can invent something better, it is just as well to keep them believing in Santa Claus.

YOUR FRUIT CAKE

FOR THAT Christmas fruit cake, here is a recipe you may not have tried before: One cup shaved citron, 1 1-2 cups brown sugar, 3 cups flour, 4 eggs, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 1-2 cups candied cherries, 1 cup chopped candied pineapple, 3 cups nuts, 1 cup fruit juice, 1 cup wessen oil, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 cup raisins, 1 teaspoon ground cloves, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 2 teaspoons allspice, 1 cup chopped figs. Mix the sugar, egg yolks and oil and beat vigorously for 2 minutes. Sift together spices, salt, baking powder and two cups of the flour and add alternately with the fruit juice to the first mixture. Then add the fruits and nuts which have been mixed with the remaining cup of flour. Fold in the egg whites, beaten stiff and bake in a very slow oven (275 degrees F.) for about four hours.

THE RAINY SEASON

HERE we are in the rainy season. We'll hear of this again, in all probability, about next July when the skies have been cleared of clouds and everyone has settled down for a nice long drouth. We'll be hearing then of the "season" that went in the ground in December.

THESE BENEFITS

IF YOU have a yen to do something to make Christmas a little more cheerful for someone this year, this is one week when opportunity will be offered.

Last evening, there was a box supper given by the American legion auxiliary and the money will go into gifts for former soldiers who are now lying in hospitals from injuries received fourteen years or more ago. Tonight, the auxiliary to the National Letter Carriers association—the society to which your postman's wife belongs—is having a benefit and one-tenth of the proceeds is to go into the treasury of the Salvation Army. On Friday night, the A. B. C. is planning a benefit and the money will be used in bringing Christmas cheer to some families who might otherwise be without this bit of happiness. Bridge, forty-two and dancing will be diversions for the evening—good time is to be had by all—and the money can then be used for some other fellow. Camp Fire is to benefit from proceeds of two parties — Thursday and Friday afternoons—and those who play bridge, auction or contract, are to attend.

The pleasant part about a benefit party is that one may have a good time, enjoy the thing that he likes to do, and at the same time help some other fellow along.

There are a lot of people who will not have as much Christmas this year as they have had in the past. There are a lot who will have no Christmas at all unless citizens of the town help give it to them. We may not be able to live up to Jolly Old St. Nick but we can do next door by seeing that there is some food and warmth and clothing in homes where the wolf has taken up residence on the doorstep.

THOSE OLD CLOTHES

AND, by the way, don't forget to gather up those old clothes and have them on the door step next Saturday morning early. Every family has a few old things that have been outgrown or are too threadbare for general wear that someone in the city will be glad to have. There was one thing Miss Richter mentioned that most of us can supply and that is hose. Most of us have old stockings on hand that have a runner that seems too long to have mended or holes in the heels that we are going to mend next week. Even with mending, hose get too worn to wear to work and yet may be of some use to some poor woman who remains at home. Almost anything can be used. This wasn't specified, but have the things clean. If nothing else, air the old suits this week and sun them if the sun comes out. Wash off the spots and do a little pressing. Some poor family will thank you for that.

Fire Loss Small During November

Only nine fires occurred here in November and damage at each was slight, reports of the fire department show. On only two days did the department make more than one run in a 24-hour period.

Four of the blazes were at residences, two were in automobiles, and one each was at a commercial garage, a cotton dealer's office, and an electric line leading to a hotel. The firemen answered two alarms each on November 6 and 9.

Origin of the fires was determined in seven cases, the departmental records indicate. The blazes were reported as being caused by or resulting from:

Oil and paper in a tub, an overturned can of gasoline, matches in cotton, and an overheated stovepipe.

Varied Activity Shown In Report Of Salvation Army

The Salvation Army's report for November shows that organization gave clothing to 330 persons, shoes to 20, sandwiches to 1,000 families and food to 31 at other times, furnished two grocery orders and 129 meals and 186 beds last month.

The report, made by Capt. W. T. Wilson, in charge of the local post, also shows this additional relief work by the corps: Gasoline furnished for two, carfare for one, five visits made to hospitals, five visits to jails; 125 copies of the War Cry, Salvation Army weekly, distributed to hospitals and jails; 181 Thanksgiving dinners served; four half-fare permits obtained, and three jobs furnished. The Dr. Pepper Bottling works donated sandwiches, cauliflower and beans November 27, the Army reported.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Exceptional Action Photo Shows Body Of Flier Hurtled From Plane

Belching forth smoke and flames, the racing plane of Lowell Bayl ess, Springfield, Mass., speed flyer, is shown in this exceptional action picture as it struck the ground while he was flying about 300 miles per hour at Detroit, Mich., in an attempt at the world's land speed record. Bayles, whose body is indicated by the arrow, had previously been clocked at close to 300 miles per hour, but in one of these tests a timing device failed to work, cheating him of a record. Unlucky "breaks" h ad brought him the name of the "hard luck flyer." The world record is 278.4 miles per hour.

Westerners Get Ready To Entertain Abilene Eagles

Radio, Bench Warmers Threatened As Big League Moguls Open Parley

Quarter-Final Game Of State Race Is Here

Chapman Wins Toss And Sends Westerners To Work Today; Practice Held Up Yesterday As Gridders Rested

Returning late yesterday from Snyder where he got the better of Coach Dewey Mayhew of Abilene in a coin-tossing contest, Weldon Chapman, Lubbock High school mentor, announced that he would institute today a period of training and practice, mostly training, with the Westerners as preparation for the sectional game Saturday with the Abilene Eagles.

Chapman, who has added much to his state-wide popularity by coaching a district and bi-district team during his first year at Lubbock, tipped a mean dime yesterday in the presence of Superintendent Green and Coach Mayhew of Abilene and Superintendent Duncan of Lubbock, and Coach Mayhew called it wrong. Thus the game to decide the schoolboy Class A football championship of all West Texas will be played at Texas Tech Field Saturday afternoon, starting at 2:30 o'clock.

No Workout Yesterday

The Westerners took things easily yesterday under the guidance of Assistant Coach Burl Huffman, who is also winding up his first year as coach here. From Snyder, Coach Chapman suggested to Huffman that the Westerners refrain from practice yesterday afternoon and rest in as much concentrated rest as possible. They have been going unusually hard for the past two weeks, playing four hard games to win a district and bi-district championship within ten days, and a bit of rest is welcomed.

Today, however, the Westerners will don regulation uniforms and get down to business again. A more or less tough scrimmage is booked for the day this week, probably about tomorrow, and the local gridsters will coast along on Thursday and Friday, listening to the verbal workings of their coaches rather than indulging in hectic practice.

No Bad Injuries

Quite naturally, the Westerners are battered and bruised from their recent experiences, but a check last night failed to reveal any serious injuries which might hamper the team's strength next Saturday. Cotton Welch and Gene Barnett, the leading casualties as a result of the game with Amarillo here last Thursday, were not called upon to work against Quanah in the bi-district game and consequently will have had a rest of nine days when they go in against Abilene Saturday. Ed Watson, star left end, was taken from the field with a wrenched ankle last Saturday but it is thought that the member will be sufficiently healed by Saturday to grant a good performance.

Hope points to an Abilene victory, considering the strain under which the Westerners have been laboring and the possible weight advantage the Mayhewmen. Abilene is so far undefeated, which is more than Lubbock can say, and rules a slight favorite, according to comparative scoring.

The Westerners have gained considerable recognition as the "iron men" club of the state race, and are causing fans and critics to wonder just how long it can last. If they beat the Elephants of Taylor City Saturday, they will enter the state semi-finals on the following Thursday with the winner of the Greenville-Fort Worth Central game, the latter to be played this week at Greenville.

Anderson Comments

In connection with the "iron men" records and the record so far made by the Westerners, Prexy Anderson, the scribe, comments as follows in his column of Sunday last.

"We would favor a ceremony of raising the hat this morning to the Lubbock High school Westerners if were not so cold that all hats should be kept on.

"The Lubbock team, you know, is the one which will play the Abilene Eagles for the school boy championship of West Texas. Don't be surprised if you hear of the Westerners checking in their gridiron uniforms this morning, playing several football games tomorrow, holding a track meet Tuesday, participating in baseball tournament the next day, having a summer's vacation on Wednesday, then jumping into their football suits again Friday for a scrimmage, review, and playing Abilene that afternoon of Saturday."

PIRATE SHORT BOUGHT

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7. (AP) — Purchase of Ben Sankey, shortstop from the Pittsburgh Pirates in release of Bernie De Viverous, shortstop, was announced today by Joe Bearwald, president of the San Francisco Missions.

Sankey has been used in a utility role by the National League for the last two seasons. De Viverous joined the coast league outfit last midseason, coming from the Texas league.

Tie Beats Vernon Out Of Title

VERNON, Dec. 7. (AP) — The Vernon Lions claim a record of some kind in losing the district championship in football without having their goal line crossed.

Their championship hopes ended in a scoreless tie with the Quanah Indians in which the latter team was awarded the game on 20-yard zone penetrations. Quanah scored 65 points for the season against 6 for the opposition. Vernon scored 57 points with 0 for the opposition.

Vernon's conference games were as follows: Vernon 26, Childress 0; Vernon 6, Electra 0; Vernon 0, Quanah 0; Vernon 25, Wichita Falls 0.

Big Six Loop Is Trimming Budget

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 7. (AP)—Facing decreased funds attributed generally to the economic condition and student apathy, Bix Six Conference athletic directors today trimmed their budgets to meet diminished revenues earned by spectacles of sports, principally football.

A possible waning of "hysteria" over collegiate sports also was listed among the causes of reduced ticket sales as the directors slashed prospective expenditures toward a total expected to reach $50,000.

They eliminated round robin schedules in wrestling, tennis and baseball; ordered the discontinuance of medal awards to champions in those sports and track and field events, which will effect a saving of approximately $1000 annually and reduced the intended outlay for officials.

Herb D. Gish, athletic director of the University of Nebraska, said Big Six schools possibly could get along with three officials instead of four in football games and that in basketball one official may shoulder the duties formerly entrusted to a pair.

Coaches Named For All-Star Houston Team In Charity Go

HOUSTON, Dec. 7. (AP)—Major George D. Bronson, supervisor of physical education in the Houston city schools, today named two active coaches for the local all-star high school football team which will meet the Dallas all-city schoolboy eleven in the third renewal of the annual charity game here New Year's Day.

Arnold Krichamer, coach of the district championship John Reagan High team, and Ed Duggan of Sam Houston High, Coach of the runner-up team in the district race, were selected.

The coaches will select outstanding players from the five high schools here and daily practice will be started next Monday. The squad will be composed of about 30 players. Proceeds of the game will go to a fund to furnish school supplies and clothing for needy children.

Million Dollar Gates May See Charity Games

Army-Navy Classic To Draw Big Crowd; President's Committee Believe Program Will Go Over Top

NEW YORK, Dec. 7. (AP)—The million-dollar mark in charity football gate receipts will be touched this week, spokesmen for the president's committee on mobilization of unemployment relief said today.

This includes the assurance of a "gate" of at least $400,000 for the year's greatest charity spectacle, the Army-Navy classic, this Saturday in the Yankee Stadium. If it is a complete sellout, the service battle may draw close to $450,000.

The president's committee anticipates the final tabulation on football's contribution to charity will reach $1,500,000 with reports still to be made and games to be played, including the Rose Bowl classic New York's Day between Southern California and Tulane.

"Heads Up" Football Given As Cause Of Fatalities By Man Who Invented Basketball Game

LAWRENCE, Kan., Dec. 7. (AP)—Exaggerated "heads up" football is assigned as the cause of numerous gridiron fatalities and serious injuries by Dr. James A. Naismith, University of Kansas, inventor of basketball and student of physical effects of sports.

The phrase is given a literal meaning by many coaches and its application is the cause of broken necks, the physical director declares.

Players are taught to keep their heads back in an unnatural and dangerous position until the moment of contact so that they may keep their eyes on an opposing player, Dr. Naismith said.

Because of man's anatomical structure, Dr. Naismith points out, his neck is without protection when the head is held in such a position.

"It's all right to watch the player, but at the moment of a tackle, the head should be dropped to a point where the neck may be protected," he said.

Lou Little Favors Teed Kick-Off; Thinks Hurts On Grid Would Be Less

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Advice usually is cheap, but with the worthless there sometimes comes a valuable suggestion. Here is one from Lou Little, head football coach at Columbia University:

Lou Little

"The kickoff is the most spectacular moment of football," declares the Columbia mentor, "and we should be sorry to see anything substituted for it. But because of the unusual amount of injures, some of them fatal, which have occurred on kickoffs this year, it may have to go if we do not return to the use of the tee.

"Kicked from a tee, the ball soared high and the kicking team was down the field with the ball, usually waiting for the catch. Without the tee, as of the past several years, the kick is low and hard and the ball is in the hand of the receiving team in ample time for the interference to form in front of the receiver and the charge to get under way. The result is that opposing teams come together under full impetus."

Years ago it was a simple matter to boot the ball over the goal line on kickoffs from tees. There were fewer run-backs, and consequently fewer injuries on the plays.

Columbia Paper Urges Doing Away With Football As Game

NEW YORK, Dec. 7. (AP)—A football death toll which has grown to 40 for the 1931 season today prompted Spectator, Columbia student daily, to urge abolition of the game as an intercollegiate sport.

In an editorial titled "death stalks over the gridiron," Spectator charged the game now is played largely for entertainment of the spectators and the profit of the coaches and "other parasites."

Spectator recently attracted attention when it charged football with being a "semi-professional racket."

Hound Puppies In Polk County Race

CAMP REYNARD, POLK COUNTY, Tex., Dec. 7. (AP) — A derby race for hound puppies began today as one of the feature events of the 39th annual hunt of the Texas Fox and Wolf Hunters association here.

Every hunter and spectator in camp arose at dawn and watched fifty hounds take the trail. Nearly all the owners rose with the eight judges and the spectators walked out to hear the first of the hounds as they picked up the trail.

There will be three days of competitive hunting. The entrants will have numbers painted on their sides.

Broadcasts To Be Eliminated Or Taxed Rent

Major League Club Owners Sit In Annual Session And Talk Over Means Of Slashing Salaries And Making Money

BY PAUL MICHELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—Major league club owners broadcast threatening notes to radio stations and baseball's bench warmers tonight as they gathered in Chicago for their 3-day business session.

From almost every club owner it was learned that two of the most important proposals before meetings, concerned that radio and the bench warmers—the radio through a move to ban broadcasting from all major league parks or to levy a heavy rental charge on them for the privilege and the extras through a plan to cut the player limit from 25 to 22 or even 21.

May Reduce Limit

Second division clubs were strong for the plan to reduce the player limit because it would ultimately give them access to the many players they could use on the field themselves. Furthermore, they figured that if every club would reduce its squad from 25 to 22 men each league would save approximately $120,000 in salaries alone.

The radio attack brewing several years, was brought to a climax by the Western Union Telegraph company, which has paid a large sum each year for exclusive press wire privileges. The Western Union complained the radio stations had refused to reimburse it and that broadcasts seriously interfered with its business. Several club owners also were known to be opposed to broadcasting, notably those having interests in minor league clubs, which have complained broadcasts keep fans away from their parks so they can hear the play-by-play of major league games.

Another proposal before the club owners was a movement to reduce salaries although it was almost certain that no maximum would be set. Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, was one of the chief objectors to the proposal on the theory that players' salaries would be left up to each club owner.

Hack On Block

One apparently reliable report had the Cubs and Cincinnati at terms in a deal for Hack Wilson while the White Sox admitted they were ready for anything and that they had just started in to swap players.

Smart Manager?

Pirates To Be 'Smart' Bunch

Mr. Barney Dreyfuss Says His Ball Club Must Be Up And Among 'Em And He Names Gibson To Do The Work

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 7. (AP)—When Owner Barney Dreyfuss began tearing down his fifth-place Pittsburgh baseball club at the end of last season and started laying plans for the next campaign, he determined that, first of all, the 1932 Pirates would have to be a "smart" ball club.

That was the principal reason, he says, that he selected George Gibson from 76 applicants for the berth as manager.

Gibson, who managed the Pirates in 1920, 1921 and part of 1922 and who at one time was one of the greatest catchers in the game, is just the man, Dreyfuss believes, to rebuild the club and to get dependable, heads-up baseball.

Gets Free Hand

Everything possible will be done to allow Gibby to succeed, the Bue owner announces. He will be given a free hand in negotiating trades, sales and purchases.

While the husky Canadian has been in retirement for the past six years, he has not lost touch with the national game and his interest in the club with which he gained fame as a catcher has never faded.

He has made frequent trips to Pittsburgh, where he visited one of his three children, Dr. George Gibson of suburban Wilkinsburg, and whenever possible he has chatted with Dreyfuss, with whom he always has been a favorite.

Fits In With New Game

Elimination of the lively ball has returned the game to the type played when Gibby was a Pirate, and Dreyfuss is confident his new manager will be "at home" on the diamond as though he had not been in retirement at all.

Dalrymple May Not Play With Tulane Greens

Injury Last Week May Prevent Star End From Playing With Green Wave Against Southern California At Bowl

(By The Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 7.—Physicians had Jerry Dalrymple, Tulane football captain and all-American end, under observation in a hospital today because of a kidney injury received in Saturday's game with Washington State.

He was stricken suddenly Sunday while driving his automobile in McComb, Miss., with Miss Dorthy Benedict of New Orleans. He was put to bed there by Dr. Robert H. Brumfield, but was sent to New Orleans by train today and placed in the hospital.

Physicians said that time only would tell the seriousness of his condition, but that similar cases had been known to clear up without ill effects.

Jerry laughed and joked about his illness and said he would be in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena playing right end against Southern California New Year's day in as good condition as ever.

Dalrymple said he received the injury on the second kickoff of the Tulane-Washington State game when he attempted to block big "Turk" Edwards, Washington State's star and last year's all-American tackle.

"That's a hard man to meet when you and he are both going full speed," said Dalrymple. "But I didn't think anything of it. It didn't bother me any until Sunday afternoon when my back began to hurt me pretty badly."

Thomason's Good Campaign

CONGRESSMAN EWING THOMASON, former mayor of El Paso, will urge the present session of Congress to reimburse West Texas cotton farmers for expenditures forced upon them several years ago in the interests of the entire cotton industry. While these farmers reside in counties not adjacent to Lubbock, The Morning Avalanche hopes, in a spirit of fairness, that every Texas Congressman will "side" Mr. Thomason in his campaign.

Commenting upon the Thomason plan, The Abilene Morning News sums the matter up nicely when it says:

"Representative R. Ewing Thomason of the El Paso district will ask congress to appropriate to reimburse farmers of about 25 West Texas counties for the cost of fumigating lint cotton as a precaution against the spread of the pink bollworm.

"'These farmers,' explains the El Pasoan, 'were forced to pay out this money by the federal government before they could sell a pound of cotton lint or seed. This expenditure was not made for their own particular benefit but for the protection of the entire cotton industry and I do not feel that they alone should be penalized. As well charge them for the salaries of the inspectors, whose duty it was to examine their fields.'

"The reason why this protection was for the benefit of the entire growing region and not especially for the region under quarantine is that the pink bollworm does not thrive in the high, dry climate fo West Texas. To prevent spread of the pest to other regions where its effect is devastating, the federal and state authorities clapped a quarantine on several counties. The farmers were given the solemn promise that they would be reimbursed for the cost of the fumigation and other work in connection with the quarantine. The legislature of Texas once passed a bill to repay these farmers, but Governor Moody vetoed it. Again, the legislature passed the bill, and Governor Sterling vetoed it.

"This is a debt of honor. It should have been paid long ago. It is to be hoped Representative Thomason swings sufficient support behind his measure to insure its passage. The state has failed to make good; let us hope the federal government does better."

GRASPING AT STRAWS

The far-western bloc of the Republican party has started a campaign all its own and it's pretty safe to say that it will get little aid from Mr. Hoover and his aces, Senators Watson and Fess. The campaign has a slogan of "Dawes For President."

Dissatisfied with the present administration and fearful that the President cannot be re-elected, the Dawes supporters have started early to make a noise for "Helen Maria." Just what they will be able to do for the Chicagoan is hard to say at this writing but to the Democrat it appears to be another case of "grasping at a straw."

Republicans may just as well face the facts.

If harmony maintains in the ranks of Democracy there will be a new deal at Washington after next inauguration day.

Grasping at straws won't help much. The people are not to be denied.

A FAIR ENOUGH DECISION

At the time of the arrest of President Hoover's kinsman on a liquor charge some wag appropriately commented: "Let him who is without a brother-in-law among you cast the first stone." In other words, the remark pretty well voiced public sentiment, in that the President should not be charged with the difficulties, real or imaginary, of his relatives.

The Morning Avalanche was glad to see Mr. Hoover's brother-in-law freed of the charge—not because we were interested in the brother-in-law himself but because we feel that the President has enough worries of state without adding those of a personal nature upon his already sagging shoulders.

Judging from the testimony as reported by the press, someone sought to use Hoover's brother-in-law against the latter's knowledge—for a shield.

For the sake of a harried public servant, we are glad that the deal fell through.

HISTORICAL MYTHS

Rafael Sabatini, the author who permitted post-war readers to turn back to tales of piracy and other varieties of romantic adventure, declares that history is so full of myths that it takes years of research to find out whether any colorful incident of the past is fact or fiction.

Among the "historical" tales which are pure fiction, says Mr. Sabatini, are the famous yarn about the man in the iron mask, the William Tell episode and the story that Richard III of England made away with his two youthful nephews.

This, of course, is interesting information; and yet, when you stop to think about it it makes very little difference whether these and similar historical anecdotes really have any truth in them or not. True or false, they point a moral, so to speak. They summarize certain times, certain people and certain events in such a way that they will live even if we prove them to be sheer invention.

The tale of the man in the iron mask, for instance—who hasn't felt a cold shudder or two at this story about the Bastille's hopeless prisoner? The story may be a fake—but it tells us more about the way France was governed in those old days than a whole volume of dry facts.

Similarly, there is Marie Antoinette's supposed remark that the starving peasants ought to eat cake—a remark which, historians assure us, was never made. Suppose she didn't say it? The whole ruling class had just such a stupid and flippant attitude toward the misery of the lower classes then; and once you understand that fact, the French revolution is easier to understand.

And William Tell—his story, true or false, expresses the Swiss fight for freedom so graphically that no one who has once read it will ever forget it. Tell may never have existed, but he is a valuable historical character just the same.

So it goes. These old anecdotes may never have happened, but they could have happened; and because they provide such illuminating highlights for more sober history the world will go on using them for a long time.

One Remaining Hope Seen

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—"I never did think much of the League of Nations," said Senator Smith W. Brookhart, looking up from the paper in which he had been reading an account of Geneva's latest activities in connection with the Manchurian situation.

Senator Smith W. Brookhart

"That is to say, I always considered it impotent," he added.

"The Kellogg pact," continued the Iowa lawmaker, "is different. It doesn't undertake to accomplish anything definite. It merely declares war to be a crime, but doesn't promise to prevent wars.

"Japan, if she grabs Manchuria, has admitted in advance that she's a criminal.

"That's worth knowing.

"It's worth other nations' while to know it and it's worth while to have Japan know that they know it."

THE SENATOR pooh-pooh'ed the idea that there can be any justification for the policy the Japanese have pursued in Manchuria.

"They see how they can make money there," he said, "so they want it.

"The League of Nations assumed the job of preventing such performances. If it can't do it, it may just as well be disbanded.

"My opinion is that it's on its last legs now, on its present basis. Its one hope lies in reorganization, with what it was obvious, from the first, that it would have to have in order to have the slightest attention paid to it in any real emergency—an international police force, strong enough to enforce league decisions."

Would not this have to be a very large and strong police force?

"It would, indeed," agreed the senator, "unless the nations disarm.

"They're going to hold a disarmament conference in two or three months, you know," he confided. "Maybe they actually will disarm as a result of it. Anyone who chooses is at liberty to believe so. As for myself, I'm scarcely that optimistic.

"Nevertheless, it's a theoretical possibility."

"IS IT a supposition on which you'd favor American membership in the league?" I asked the Iowan.

"It is not," said the senator promptly.

"Not while the present international economic set-up continues.

"Never, never will I vote for a world super-government until after there has been a world economic revolution."

THE PRESENT economic set-up is international then?

And how about America? Even though not included in the League of Nations, is she not included in the existing economic set-up?

"It's international, all right," acquiesced the senator.

"Yes, and we are included in it but we ought not to be and we needn't have been but for rank mismanagement.

"We ought to be immensely prosperous.

"So far as we're concerned, it's ridiculous to say that the war caused the depression. Heaven knows we profiteered enough out of it."

* * *

"BUT AS FOR the League of Nations," concluded the Iowan, "we're more influential out of it than we would be in it, anyway.

"In it we would count for only one vote.

"Out of it we count up to our full strength, for whatever use we may see fit to make of it.

"When the Manchurian row started I was under the impression, from the tone our diplomacy took, that we were going to use it—peacefully, of course—to frown down Japan's grab.

"I guess I was mistaken."

Only two weeks elapsed between the British general election and the opening of the new parliament—hardly enough for the lame duck to organize a law office in London.

An ex-broker was tried as a leader of an arson gang. With business at low ebb he probably was just trying to fire things with enthusiasm.

Practical Health Problems

RISKY TO CHEW GRASS

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, And of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

A DISEASE which is rather rare but which at the same time attacks altogether a considerable number of people is actinomycosis or lumpy jaw.

Cattle are attacked by this disease more frequently than is man. When man is infected it is usually from chewing grass or straw or grain which has been infested with the organism. Because of the character of the disease it is more frequently present ni laborers and farmers than in other classes of people. The organisms which cause this disease is known as a fungus.

When it gets into the body, it enters usually through decayed teeth or diseased tonsils, following the chewing of straw. The first sign is usually a hard lumpy swelling at the lower edge of the jaw or in front of the ears, such as occurs in mumps. After the skin becomes elevated and lumpy, pus forms, and soon there is an open running growth. The material form this growth is also infected, and it is therefore necessary to observe sanitary precautions around such people.

PEOPLE who are infected must be kept under control as long as there are any open lesions, and examination of the material from these lesions must be made constantly in order to make sure that they are not infectious.

The treatment of actinomycosis involves usually surgical removal of the infectious material. Sometimes the X-ray is used, and vaccines have been given in order to control the infection if persistent. In order to prevent the spread of the disease the contact with the discharge must be avoided. Therefore, there must be a thorough cleaning of the patient, but also of any materials with which he may come in contact.

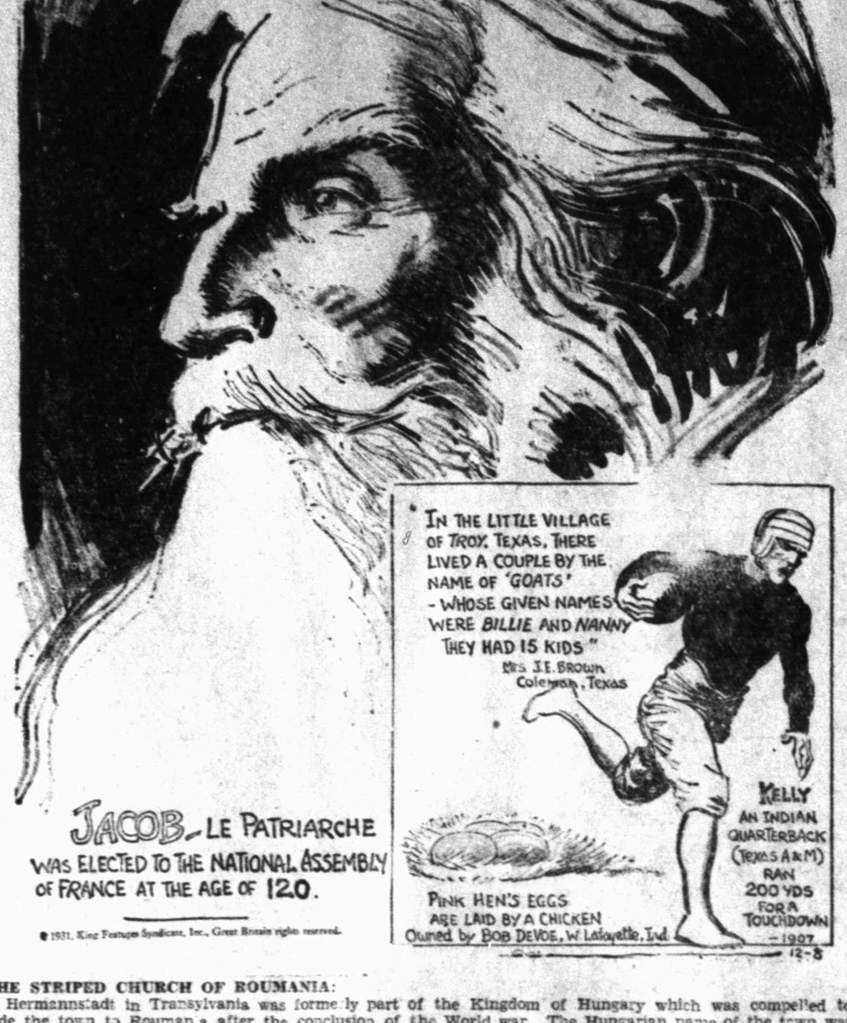

People who want to avoid the disease should avoid the practice of chewing grass or straw. Meat from infected animals must be condemned and any animal that is infected should be destroyed and the body burned.

MARY HARKNESS undertakes to trap THE FLY, who she believes "framed" her brother, EDDIE, with the murder of MRS. JUPITER, and later ran Eddie down and killed him to keep him from telling. As bait she plans to use the famous Jupiter necklace of rubies, which the murderer failed to get.

She is aided by BOWEN of the Star. Mary's fiance, DIRK RUYTHER, and his family stop the official investigation, objecting to the notoriety. They believe Eddie guilty.

BRUCE JUPITER, absent many years, returns from Europe with a woman friend. His father orders him out and makes Mary his heir. Bruce swears to rout Mary, who he thinks is a gold-digger.

Mary and Dirk quarrel because Dirk is jealous of Bowen and refuses to believe in the existence of The Fly. Dirk goes about again with his former sweetheart, CORNELIA TABOR, who is trying to win him back.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVI

The "Gypsy" was made ready to sail on Tuesday. Monday night Mary had a telephone call from Dirk. He had just received her letter, he said.

"Did you want to see me?" he asked formally.

"Why, yes," Mary replied. "Don't you—want to see me?"

There was a short wait before he answered, "Of course. Shall I come over?" He was setting a distance between them but then it was he whose feelings had been injured. They would talk it over and it would be all right.

Mary dressed without any particular enthusiasm. Dirk was coming now but tomorrow she would be gone. It was a rather hollow sort of happiness she felt, but it was better than not seeing Dirk at all.

When he came, he sat down beside her casually, but made no move to touch her. Mary felt the least bit rebuffed. He looked worried and strained, and her heart went out to him.

"I'm sorry I left you like that," she said gently.

"I know," he said. "That's all right."

Another silence fell.

"I had to know about those fingerprints. Whether they were The Fly's" she explained. "I couldn't wait. Haven't you ever felt that way?"

He shrugged. "I suppose you were anxious, of course," he said. "What did you find out?"

"They were his. The Bertillion at police headquarters checked them."

Dirk cleared his throat. "You understand, don't you, that the gun's being his doesn't prove conclusively that it was The Fly who fired it? It was the murder gun, of course; I've had it in the hands of ballastic experts, and there's no doubt about that part. But—I don't mean to hurt your feelings again — but how can you prove to a jury that it was The Fly who was the murderer, rather than—than someone else?"

"We can't. We're not even trying to. The Fly himself will do that for us."

"If you're lucky."

"If we're lucky. And if we play our cards just right. But the least slip, the least word—and it's all spoiled. It's possible that's happened already. You aren't very popular with George Bowen just now. The Fly's left town, you know."

Dirk looked at her in bewilderment. "I'm not popular? What've I to do with it?"

"Didn't you go back to Shay's with a warrant for him?"

"Certainly not."

"Well—! Then who—?"

This was a new state of affairs. Somebody else on the Fly's trail? Who could it be?

"Bowen naturally supposed it was you," she faltered apologetically. "You'd just been saying the thing to do was arrest The Fly and when the police came down on the place Bowen jumped to the conclusion—"

"He does a good deal of that, I'm thinking," Dirk commented dryly.

Mary was in no mood to resent any thing Dirk might say against the absent Bowen. She was too mystified—too busy speculating.

"Who do you think it could have been?" she asked.

"He's probably got a dozen rackets," Dirk replied. "The cops might be after him for any one of them. Or it might be for some fool thing like parking overtime. He ran, like they all do. They don't like a pinch, even for a minor offense—it's bad for their rackets."

Considerably wind had been taken out of Mary's sails by this discovery but she was none the less regretful that it had taken place. The Fly was gone and what assurance had she that she could find him again? Nothing but Bowen's guess—and Bowen could be wrong, as this slip-up showed.

For a moment she felt panicky — she was committed to so much, just on the strength of that chance that The Fly would show up at the track when his horse ran her big race. If he were really frightened he might stay away. Although he would probably feel himself safe enough. Unless the offense were a serious one, extradition from Florida would be more than the New York police would trouble with.

The idea that the Fly's arrest had been sought by Inspector Kane occurred to her but was instantly dismissed. In her last interview with him he had been to emphatically disinterested in following up the case, that such a decided change in his point of view seemed unlikely.

Gandhi Says India After American Type Freedom

Leader Of Indian Nationalists Declare His People Want Independence Like U. S.

By MAHATMA GANDHI
(As Told to Milton Bronner, European Manager, NEA Service)

LONDON, Dec. 7. (By Cable)—My message to America as to what India wants now is this:

India wants now what India has wanted all along—independence in your American sense of the term; not whittled or shackled independence but the real thing, with such safeguards as Indians deem proper, fitting and honorable.

I speak for 85 per cent of the Indian people, who want to be masters of their own house.

This does not mean we woud drive out Britons or British interests not inimical to India's best interests.

If Mr. MacDonald told Parliament we do not want independence it was a serious slip of the tongue—I left nobody under any delusions as to our very real feeling and our deep desire.

As to whether the Second Round-table Conference was a failure, I am unprepared to say. Future events may show much accomplished, or just so much smoke blown away by the breeze.

The serious thing I have to consult with the Indian congress is whether India shall resume civil disobedience.

The British may jail me again—it is a habit they have. They can lock up my body, but not my soul. My spirit and that of tens of thousands of others goes marching on.

What manifold millions have set their hearts upon they will, they must ultimately, get. You can't stop progress and the march to freedom.

We Indians want to attain our hearts' desire by peaceful methods—not by war. But we will not shirk the issue if it is forced upon us.

There are not enough jails in all India to hold our people if national civil disobedience is decided on.

Besides, you cannot go on jailing a whole people.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The above message to America was obtained from Mr. Gandhi by Milton Bronner, European manager for Avalanche and NEA Service, who attended one of his last London press conferences and then remained for a brief personal interview. As they talked, Bronner squatted on the floor beside Gandhi who was attired in his usual loin cloth.

Bread Prices Are Given Boost Here

Four Lubbock bakeries Monday hiked price of bread to 6 cents per loaf and the retailers advanced the price to 7 cents. As late as last week some merchants had been selling bread at the unprecedented low price level of two loaves for 7 cents.

One year ago the wholesale price was 8 cents and subsequently Lubbock bakers reduced it a cent at a time. Six cents, Lubbock bakers said Monday, is "a fair price" in view of increased cost of materials. Commodity prices are from 15 to 30 per cent below those of last year and the bread price here has been reduced 25 per cent, a baker said. Other South Plains bread-makers, including those in Ralls, Littlefield and Tahoka, have raised the wholesale price to 6 cents, he continued.

Advances Cited

"Flour and other materials used in bread have advanced extremely in the last 30 days," a Lubbock baker said.

"Flour has advanced about 25 per cent in the last 30 days and other materials are in about the same proportion."

The price which Lubbock bakers began charging today is in line with those in a majority of Texas towns, they said. Although a price of 5 cents wholesale prevails generally in the Dallas and Fort Worth territory, that area has had "the lowest bread market the past year in the entire United States," a baker said.

A Lubbock baker this morning received a new schedule of an Abilene company's wholesale prices. The prices, which the local baker said corresponded to those here, follow:

White bread, 6 cents a loaf; whole wheat, 6 cents a loaf; pullman, 6 cents a pound; patented special, 7 cents a loaf; rye, 8 cents a pound, and buns, 15 cents a dozen.

Officials of Londonderry, Ulster, are much disturbed over the possibility of having to meet every day under the new dole regulations.

Just before his inauguration as Lord Mayor of London, Maurice Jenks was knighted by King George at Buckingham Palace.

Kane had been "bought off," was sure. He was the sort of bootlicker to do just that.

Well, she was sailing in the morning, probably on a wild-goose chase, but she couldn't back out now. How would she feel, though, once she had spread this elaborate web she was spinning, and seated herself in the center of it with the gleaming Jupiter rubies as bait, if The Fly failed to appear? She almost wished she had not embarked on such an insane adventure. Much better to remain safely at home where women belonged and have no thoughts of one's own—then one could not be mistaken, and deservedly laughed at.

Dirk put his hand on hers, looked earnestly into her face.

"Why not forget it?" he begged.

"I wish I could," she murmured unhappily. "But—we've made so many plans—you've no idea what preparations have been made. There's even a dictagraph in his cabin—the cabin we're keeping for him—"

Dirk jerked his hand away.

"My God, you're not going to take that—that—that animal on board? Associate with him? Why, he's—scum! If he's no more than a gigolo, he's not the sort you ought to be seen with! I'd trust him no more than I'd trust a snake. For all you know he may be a bank robber—a thief—an impostor of the worst order—"

"A murderer," Mary supplied gently.

"Even a murderer," Dirk agreed hotly. "I won't have him around you! By George, I thought old Jupiter had some sense, but"—"

"You talk," she interrupted, "as if I were going to be the only one on the boat. There'll be Bruce, and the Countess, besides Mr. Jupiter and the crew—"

"The Countess? Who's she?"

"My chaperon, darling. And if you don't think that's funny you should know her. She's a friend of Bruce's. I mustn't tell you all I surmise about her or you'll think I'm as bad as that Town Tattle chap . . . gosiping away without anything to prove it. But I do think she's the reason Bruce has stayed in Europe—one of the reasons. She hates New York and Americans. She only came over to protect her property—to see that no smart young debutante grabbed up her Brucey-boy and ran off with him to the altar. So far he's had sense enough not to marry her. But how she hates me!"

Mary made a wry face.

"Good Lord," said Bruce, in distaste, "why should she hate you?"

"She thinks I'm after the Jupiter money. Worse—she thinks I've already bagged it. J. J. worked himself into such a fury at Bruce that, out of spite as much as anything else, he made a new will . . ."

Dirked stared. "So that's what the old boy was doing in the office bright and early Saturday morning"

"Yes. Didn't your father tell you?"

"No." He seemed strangely discomfitted. "But then—I haven't seen him alone since. I left while Jupiter was there."

"Yes, I know. Your father said you'd gone away—for the week-end." She felt again the stab of jealousy that had gone through her at sight of Bruce on Cornelia Tabor's tennis-court.

Dirk looked at her cautiously but said nothing. Mary tried to keep her manner casual, her tone light.

"Did you have a good time? I'm terribly jealous, of course. You know that," she said banteringly.

Dirk fished for a cigaret, leaned back. "You needn't be," he returned indifferently. "It wasn't a pleasure trip. It was stern duty."

"Duty?" Indignation got the better of her. "It was your duty to play tennis with Cornelia Tabor?"

Apparently it did not surprise him much that she knew where he had been.

Not that, exactly. But the rest of it was. Politeness sentenced me to two days at hard labor, nothing less. Con called me—she was desperate and I pretty well had to go. Some flame of Ethel's had disappointed her at the last minute and she had to have another man."

Mary was coldly furious. "That's likely story of Con's—I don't believe a word of it," she exclaimed angrily. "She just wanted to get you there."

"You're crazy," Dirk rejoined mildly. "No, it was true enough. It was that count chap Ethel met in the speakeasy. She's been chasing him ragged. Finally she got him to say he'd come for the week-end. He made Connie tell him who the guests were to be. She had to read the list to him before he'd say he'd come. Rotten little snob. Can you beat it?"

"Well, why didn't he come, then? Did the Vanderbilts steal him or what?" She wasn't really interested, but she wanted to believe well of both Dirk and Connie if she could. Th's crazy jealousy that flamed up whenever she saw the two together or heard Dirk speak Connie's name was like a painful sickness. She wanted to be inoculated against it if possible. And perhaps it was true . . . a capricious house-guest like Ethel . . . a manless emergency . . . and Connie always had depended on Dirk like a brother . . . perhaps there was no guile there.

"She should have asked me, too, though," she was thinking rebelliously.

"Oh, he's out of little Ethel's life for good," Dirk explained. "Called home to Argentina to settle his estate or something. She'll never see him again, and a darn good thing. Con's mother was worried sick for fear Ethel would elope with him."

He was holding her hand and stroking it gently with the other, just as he always did. Was it absent-mindedness, or had his stiffness melted for good? Mary relaxed happily against the pillows and listened, with only half her mind attentive to what Dirk was saying.

He looked down at her, smiling. "Too bad," he said." He's was so anxious to meet you, too."

"Meet me?" Mary sat up.

"Sure, you. Ethel took me aside and told me, Connie never would have peeped. It made her furious, naturally. Ethel said when she came to your name on the guestlist, Count What's - His - Name wanted to know if you were the Miss Mary Harkness whose picture he had seen in the paper. She said you were, and what about it, and he began to kiss his fingers to the ceiling and exclaim 'Ah, ravishing! Charmant!' and all that. And night away he said he'd come. Burned Ethel up but she was glad to get him on any terms." He grinned down at her teasingly, "You've got quite a rep, kid!"

Humanly, Mary smiled. It was rather decilious revenge to have had that happen to Connie. But then, Connie had had her revenge by asking Dirk. The score was even.

"She didn't ask me," Mary murmured, puzzled. "Was that why?"

"Well—no," Dirk flushed. Then he burst out "What could I say? That we'd had a fight? I told her you'd gone to Hot Springs for a few days to rest. That was when she asked me to fill in." He looked at her apologetically. "Take somebody with a strong constitution to get along with Ethel. She has to be slugged every so often to keep her in her place."

Mary laughed. "And you're the brute to do it," she agreed. "But who was this other chap?" Some how the episode did not ring entirely true . . . something about it had set her to wondering. She looked at him with earnestly puckered brow. "It couldn't have gotten out about the new will leaving the Jupiter money to me, could it?"

Dirk's scornful gesture didn't entirely reassure her.

"When was this invitation given, Friday?" Mary pursued thoughtfully. DeLoma. De Loma. Where had she heard the name? "The Miss Harkness whose picture he had seen in the papers." That must have been those awful Friday stories about her and the Jupiter necklace. Suddenly she knew. . . De Loma was the name given in the racing papers as the owner of The Fly's horse, La Mosca! Could it be the same man? Was De Loma The Fly?

Cotton Traders Await Cotton Report Livestock Cattle Arrivals Monday Decrease Grain Grain Prices Go Downhill Monday

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 7. (AP)—Procrastination dominated the cotton market's activities here today, traders appearing to choose to await announcement of the government's final crop report due tomorrow as well as showing anxiety over the president's message to congress.

As a result prices fluctuated narrowly and without definite trend. Despite the fact that Liverpool came in much better than due prices here opened easier. Near close prices rallied 2 points on a little short covering. The close was steady showing net declines for the day of 1 to 2 points. Liverpool is due tomorrow 1 penny point up on New Orleans. Jan. closed at 6.00 and March at 6.34, or 2 points net lower for the day.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Dec. 7. (AP)—Trading in cotton was quiet today and prices fluctuated within a narrow range.

After selling off to 6.02 at the start, January rallied to 6.06, or a point above Saturday's closing quotations, but later sold back to 6.01, the close was barely steady at net declines of 2 to 4 points.

The opening was steady, unchanged prices to 1 point lower under some southern and continental selling.

Frank Hawks

a record of one hour, 45 minutes and 58 seconds, was made on the wings of a storm which at times pushed the tail of his plane at a velocity of 50 to 75 miles an hour.

His average speed for the 455 miles, Hawks said, was 257 miles an hour.

His escape from a death similar to that of Bayless, Hawks said, came 50 miles before the end of the trip.

Landing Wire Breaks

He was speeding over the New Jersey-Pennsylvania state border at an altitude of 10,000 feet when the landing wire, which runs along the wing from the tip to the fuselage, broke. His ship tilted jerkily as if about to go into a roll. Cutting his motor for a second, Hawks righted his craft and in his own words "limped in, although the wing was rather heavy."

"I wouldn't be a bit surprised," he added, "if that's what happened to Lowell Bayless."

Both Hawks and airport officials estimated the broken wire cut at least 10 minutes off Hawks' time for the trip.

saying, "Well, I just believe I will go up and turn them all out."

Barnett was said to have asked the negro if he had a key. Franks replied he did not and didn't think Barnett could get "up there as it was locked."

Pulled Shotgun

Pulling a sawed-off shotgun from the seat of his car, Barnett showed it to the negro, Franks said, and asked "this will get me up there, won't it, negro?" Franks replied he "guessed it would."

Barnett then told the negro to come with him, the testimony continued. Franks said he believed it would not be right to leave without Fowler knowing because he was a prisoner in jail. Barnett was quoted as saying: "That is all right, come on with me and let Fowler come, looking for you."

Barnett's companions finally persuaded him to leave, the negro said. As Barnett left, he was reported as saying: "Tell Mr. Fowler that I will see him tomorrow."

Several witnesses stated Barnett had alighted from his car in a filling station and started walking toward Fowler's automobile when the shooting occurred. They said they did not know whether Barnett had made a move for a pistol.

Conclusions of the court of inquiry will not be revealed until the February term of court when the case is called. Fowler is at liberty under $10,000 bail on a murder charge.

Follow State road 53 to Dickens, State road 100 and 24 to Seymour, No. 277 from Seymour to Wichita Falls, State road 79 to Devol, Oklahoma, same road to Waurika, Oklahoma, U. S. highway 21 to Chickasha, going to Oklahoma City by way of Amber, Tuttle and New Castle. Paving east to Chickasha, detour mostly gravel.

Revival Services Are To Be Continued By City Baptists

Because of increasing interest in the revival being conducted at the First Baptist church by the Rev. W. Y. Pond of Waco, services will be continued at least through Wednesday, the Rev. R. C. Campbell pastor, said Monday. The services were scheduled to close Sunday night.

Services are held twice daily, at 9:30 a. m. and at 7:30 p. m. at the church auditorium. Fifty additions were received in the church Sunday. This number increased the total to 205 for the three weeks the revival has been in progress.

Amarillo Burglaries During Week End Net Thugs $1,000

AMARILLO, Dec. 7. (AP) — Burglaries and a robbery netted more than $1,000 cash over the week-end in Amarillo. Yeggs cracked two safes Sunday night, taking $170 from a grocery and $500 from a warehouse. The burglaries were reported Monday while officers still were following clues in a daring Saturday night holdup, which netted three bandits approximately $400. The trio robbed a wholesale baking company.

Hundreds Of Citizens Pay Visit To New Jail Monday

Hundreds of Lubbock county citizens filed through the new jail Monday despite inclement weather, the sheriff's department said last night. Today visitors will be permitted to view the $125,000 structure, but beginning Wednesday rules permiting only members of the prisoners' families and their friends to enter the jail will be enforced.

Delay in completion of the building and heavy expense of keeping county prisoners in other jails caused officials to move prisoners to the building before an official house warming.

Launch Gyro-Equipped Ship

A dramatic scene in the shipyards of Trieste, Italy, as the huge ocean greyhound, Conte Di Savoia, slid down the ways to the accompaniment of rousing cheers from the 100,000 people who gathered for the colorful event. The Princess of Piedmont officiated at the launching of the huge liner, which is equipped with a giant $1,000,000 gyroscope that will keep the vessel on an even keel during the roughest weather.

Grain

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Dec. 7. (AP) — Cash grain demand, fair.

Quotations ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas ports, export rate, or group three points, freight paid:

Wheat, No. 1 ordinary hard milling 60@61; 13 per cent protein 62@65; 14 per cent 66@67; 15 per cent 70@71; 16 per cent 74@75.

Corn—No. 2 mixed 44@46; No. 2 white 46@46; No. 2 yellow 46@49.

Barley, No. 2 nominally 41@45.

Sorghums, No. 2 milo per 100 lbs. 70@71; No. 2 kaffir 70@71.

Basis delivered group three: oats, No. 2 red 26@27.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 7. (AP)—Faced by uncertainties of British and Canadian exchange rates, and by an almost complete standstill in North American wheat export business, grain prices went downhill today. Notwithstanding that the United States wheat visible supply showed 4,145,000 bushels decrease for the week, and that the amount of wheat afloat for importing countries had also been sharply curtailed, price rallies failed to hold. To a notable degree, grains paralleled the course of Wall street securities.

Wheat closed nervous, at the same as Saturday's finish to 7-8 cent lower, corn unchanged to 3-8 off, oats a shade to 1-4 to 3-8 down and provisions showing a rise of 2 to 17 cents.

"Bluebeard"

songs, phonograph records and books about the man West Virginia calls its "Blue Beard."

Inside, Judge John C. Southern sat on a raised platform in the middle of the stage with the jury to one side of him, counsel tables slightly down stage and witnesses on the other side.

The glare of 200 "border lights" overhead, lines of papier mache trees on each side of the stage and a "backdrop" showing a typical small town street, with a church at the judge's back, supplied the setting.

Is Mild Mannered

Powers, a pudgy little man of 45 with horn-rimmed spectacles was no longer the dashing Don Juan of the mountains that he pictured himself in letters he sent to scores of women in his nationwide "matrimonial correspondence campaign."

As he was led in by state troopers, with handcuffs locking his wrists together, and sat for a few minutes looking down into the sea of faces that peered up at him, he seemed like a mild-mannered store clerk at a theatre performance which had little interest for him.

After his handcuffs were unlocked, he sat for the rest of the day with his back to the audience. He took little interest in proceedings. A motion for a change of venue by defense counsel on the ground that talesmen had indicated a strong feeling in the community against the defendant was denied.

Congress

depths of economic adversity, the membership went about its business today in informal attire, for the most part, and in sombre attitude.

Spectators thronged the galleries with women predominating. Eager members of the families of more than 100 new members were there. It was the house, however, which "stole the show."

The roll call giving the Democrats the speakership and the control there was greeted with applause and cheering.

In the senate where Vice President Curtis banged the opening gavel in his customary vigorous way, only four members—all Democrats—were absent.

Two Are Contested

Swearing in of new members was interrupted momentarily by the tall, deliberate Shortridge of California, who, as chairman of the elections committee, notified the senate of contests against Bankhead, of Alabama, and Bailey, of North Carolina, both Democrats. They then received the oaths.

If there is any bitterness in the fight of the western Republican independents against reelection as president protem of the man who called them the "sons of the wild jackass"—George Moses—it wasn't evident on the floor.

Smiling and genial, Moses greeted friend and foe alike. There was many a laugh as he exchanged greetings with his colleagues. Moses himself would say nothing except that "like Will Rogers, all I know is what I read in the newspapers."

Demos Are United

This Republican schism in the senate appeared in the house, too, where five members voted for Schneider of Wisconsin, for speaker against the Republican nominee, Snell.

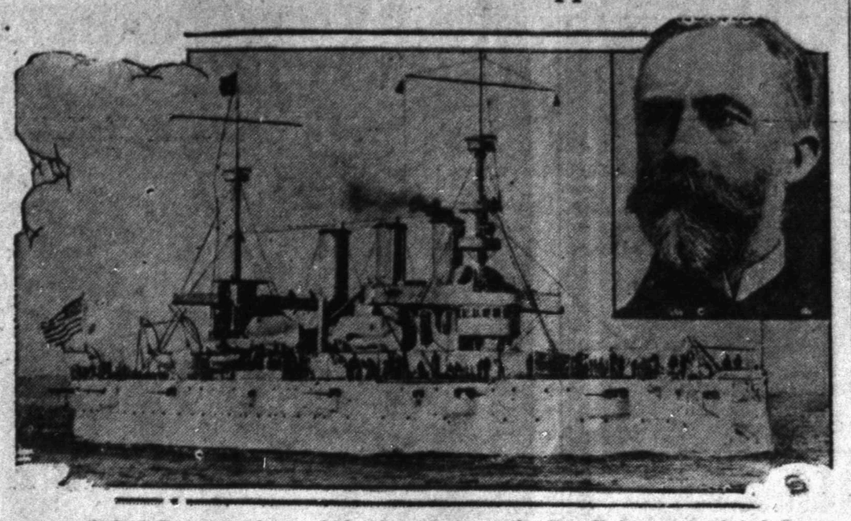

In contrast, Democrats are starting with united ranks. They established a record when everyone of the 218 members of the house voted today on the opening roll call. Garner received the full 218 votes of his party for speaker. He voted present.

The appearance in the senate of its first woman member serving a regular term—Mrs. Caraway of Arkansas—was delayed at the last minute. She preferred to await the formal recognition taken by the senate of the death of her senator husband, Thaddeus Caraway, before taking her place. Warren Barbour of New Jersey, appointed to succeed the late Senator Morrow, pursued a similar course. He was present but did not take the oath of office. Both Mrs. Caraway and Barbour will take office tomorrow.

The other senate absentees were Stephens, Mississippi, who is ill; Long, Louisiana, who is completing his term as governor; and Lewis of Illinois, who is expected here shortly. Their absence leaves the Democrats with 44 votes to the 48 Republican votes.

Plans for hydroelectric development of the La Cascada Falls, of the Rio Quequen Grande, in Argentina, are being made.

Historic Ship To Be Scrapped

The cruiser U. S. S. Rochester (above), which, when known as the New York, served Admiral Sampson (inset), as his flagship during the Battle of Santiago, and is the oldest fighting ship in the American Navy, is to be scrapped as part of the new economy program sponsored by President Hoover. A half dozen large trucks will leave Dallas Tuesday morning carrying the covering and a full crew of men will accompany them. Night watchmen will guard the Texas Tech playing field throughout the week.

If ticket sales warrant them, additional stands will be built, said E. J. (Pinky) Lowrey, athletics manager, last night. Seating capacity of the field is near 8,000 now, it was said. Temporary bleachers could be erected at a nominal cost and would care for several hundred more fans, it has been pointed out.

Train Is Probable

Message from Abilene last night said that a special train from that city to accompany the heralded Eagles was probable, but definite announcement had not been made. The Texas & Pacific will put extra coaches on the regular train to Sweetwater and thence to Lubbock if not enough faces to warrant a special are sold. The Eagle band and pep squad are expected to come.

At the request of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, Lowrey is sending 250 tickets there. The Santa Fe probably will place extra coaches on the train which arrives here at 11 a. m. The 4:45 p. m. train will be held by the Santa Fe until 6:15 to enable Amarilloans to make the return trip without delay. The Santa Fe is planning a special round-trip fare for the game.

To avoid congestion at the field, two additional gates, and possibly three, will be constructed this week. One gate will be placed at the south side and another on the west side. In previous games, fans have rushed the one gate until many people were delayed in gaining entrance.

No student tickets will be sold at the gate, Lowrey said. They must be bought at the principal's office. General admission tickets for seats, not reserved, on the east side may be put on sale a day or two before the game, said Lowrey.

Lubbock Monday morning won the toss and the right to entertain the Abilene players and fans when representatives of the two schools met at Snyder. The meeting had been postponed from Sunday morning.

Abilene will receive one-half of the net gate receipts for coming here, said Supt. M. H. Duncan, who with Coach Weldon Chapman, represented Lubbock. Officials were named yesterday afternoon, but their names will not be announced until they have accepted the places, said Duncan.

The game will start promptly at 2:30 o'clock.

The price of the tickets will be: $1.50 for box seats; $1.25 for reserved seats in west stand; $1 for general admission tickets for east stands and standing room and 50 cents for students. In order to prevent scalping on the tickets, no more than ten tickets in a block will be sold to one person. Reserved seats for Lubbock's band and its pep squad will be held on the east side.

Tech field was slightly soggy yesterday and more rain was falling on it last night. It will take considerable rain, however, it was said to make the field muddy. The tarps from Dallas will arrive this afternoon or tonight and will be placed as soon as possible.

Arrangements For Warm Welcome To Thousands Of Visitors In Lubbock For Santa's Visit Are Being Made

ARRANGEMENTS are being made for a warm welcome to the hundreds of out-of-town visitors expected here Friday when the Santa Claus spectacle is brought here.

The festivity has been arranged to appeal to young and old alike. The parade itself has been developed so as to appeal to all classes and all ages. There will be something to attract the attention and hold the interest of the old people, the college girl, the high school boy, the working man, doctor, lawyer, banker and little children. Of course Santa Claus will be the center of attraction.

Santa Claus will be seen riding in his tiny sleigh which has been mounted on little rubber tired wheels so that it can be operated either in snow or on cleared pavements. The wheels make it possible for Santa to travel in the tropical countries as quietly, smoothly and mysteriously as he does in the land of ice and snow from where he comes. As he serves the children of all the world he must have equipment suitable to all climates and conditions.

Prince of Love, the mystic messenger, who will be seen in the parade also has sent a message saying that Santa Claus has asked that all the children persuade their parents or guardians to take them to the stores to see the wonderful toys and other things which make useful Christmas gifts.

Santa has taken all the store keepers in partnership with him and everything must be displayed in stores and shops throughout the world in advance of Christmas so children and older folks may visit the stores and see the toys, candies, fruits and many items of clothing, jewelry, furniture, toilet articles and beautiful things which they might think they would like Santa to bring them.

Children must understand that they cannot expect to have all the things they think they want. Never does any one have all the things they wish for at times. The happiest people are those who find complete satisfaction and comfort in the things which are rightfully theirs and who enjoy the fullest measure of pleasure in the gifts which come to them as a surprise from relatives and dear friends.

Good boys and girls will consult with parents or guardians and seek their advice as to what is best for them to have for Christmas and the loving mother, father, or guardian will be sure to tell the children just what they can expect Santa Claus to bring them. Santa never brings children anything unless he knows that the older folks of the household approve of his selections for the children.

Santa also wants everybody young and old, to help him spread happiness and especially asks that everyone condiser the welfare of people known to be in unfortunate circumstance so if you know of any such families you can be a real Santa Claus yourself by providing them with your cast off toys or clothing and with some new playthings and worthwhile presents if you can afford to buy them.
