Final Action On Attempt Of Two Railway Systems To Serve Lea County New Mexico Not Taken

Struggle Involved Announcement Marks First Action Taken Following Hearing Here Last April; Refuse Southern Line

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today received a recommendation from one of its examiners that the Texas-New Mexico Railway company, subsidiary of the Texas and Pacific railway, be permitted to construct a 70-mile extension from its terminus at Texas-New Mexico state line to Lovington, Lea county, New Mexico.

Examiner Haskell C. Davis recommended the Santa Fe and Pacific railroads to be authorized to construct a 46-mile extension of its line from Seagraves to Lovington.

Recommendation was made that the commission deny the application of the Santa Fe and Pacific railroads to build a 44-mile branch from its proposed extension about five miles west of the Texas-New Mexico state line in a southerly direction.

Struggle Involved The report involves a struggle between the Santa Fe and the Texas and Pacific to gain entrance into the rich oil and agricultural territory of Lea county.

Roseco Wilson attorney for the Santa Fe railroad and A. B. Davis, manager of the Lubbock chamber of commerce, both prominently identified in the rail hearing at Lubbock last April, before Examiner H. C. Davis, of the Interstate Commerce Commission, yesterday declined to make a statement regarding "Nothing definite has been announced," they declared, "and be-

Heat Wave Holds Sway Fourth Day

Water Shortage and Menace Of Forest Fires Grip Parts of United States And Canada Wednesday

Water shortages and forest fire hazards became more acute Wednesday as the heat wave which has gripped most of the United States and part of Canada continued in its fourth day.

Temperatures which had remained in the 90's since the Atlantic seaboard and the middle west for the last three days advanced or clung to their record-breaking marks in most of the heat-infested sections.

Drought which accompanied the heat wave was keenly felt by forest rangers from Michigan across into New England and south into Pennsylvania and Maryland. Hundreds of forest fires smoldered in densely wooded areas that needed only a stiff breeze to fan them beyond control.

The forest fire situation in Michigan was reported as the "most critical in the memory."

Not for many years had there come so many fires in Pennsylvania areas. They were fought with extreme difficulty.

ARDMORE, Ala., Sept. 4. (AP)—Eugene Poff, 60-year-old restaurant operator, today sold Limestone county authority that he would buy Harry Hunter, 25-year-old merchant, to death last night, when he found Hunter holding a trust with Mrs. Poff.

Poff said he suspected illicit relations between Hunter and his 52-year-old wife and that he followed her to Hunter's store shortly after sundown, yesterday. He said he kicked open the back door and found his wife in Hunter's embrace.

Gusher Report At Marland Well Is Denied Wednesday

Drilling Reaches Depth Of 4,814 Feet In Black Lime To Give Indications Of Oil; Gas Showing Strong

Rumors circulated late yesterday in Lubbock that the Marland-Slaughter No. 1 test well, in Cochran county, had blown in as a gusher were denied last night in reports from Morton, 12 miles north of the well.

The reports stated that the hole had been drilled to a depth of 4,814 feet and that drilling continued in black lime, giving indications that the well will be a paying producer.

Gas Is Strong Gas continues strong and estimates show the amount to be almost double that of Sunday, when the first indication was encountered. Completion heads have been installed and a great amount of caution is being taken to ward off possibility of fire hazard.

Lubbock citizens have manifested a keen interest in the test and many have visited the location since the announcement of a gas showing last Sunday. Members of the oil fraternity have kept close watch over the drilling activities in anticipation of the opening of a new field.

Amarillo Aerial Derby Head Here

Dalton McCarthy, of Amarillo, chairman of the Amarillo air derby and representative of the Western Air Express, landed at the Lubbock airport yesterday afternoon shortly before 3:30 o'clock in a seven-place Travelair T.A.T. plane.

McCarthy, together with his pilot, Bobby Duell, and Tex Thornton, is touring South Plains cities in the interest of the formal opening a dedication ceremony of the Amarillo municipal airport on September 7 and 8.

The flying party was to have conferred with representatives in this city, composed of George Benson, Gus McCleary and A. B. Davis, but arrived here before the scheduled time and took off early. Programs of the two-day celebration were left at the airport for distribution.

POULTRYMEN TO MEET Plans For Annual Poultry Show At Slaton

SLATON, Sept. 4.—Poultrymen of the Slaton territory will meet here Friday to lay plans for the fourth annual Slaton Poultry Show, which will be held this year on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Dec. 5, 6 and 7, according to E. L. Hicks, president of the Slaton Poultry association.

More than 400 birds were exhibited at the show here last year, and a larger number will be shown this year, Hicks predicted. A larger premium list is being prepared, and a show catalog will be issued soon.

Dates of the Slaton show follow those of the Littlefield show by exactly one week, permitting Slaton exhibitors to make entries there and Littlefield showmen will send exhibits here, according to poultry leaders.

CHILDREN KILLED OMAHA, Sept. 4. (AP)—Two children were fatally crushed when pinned against a retaining wall by an automobile which was catapulted over the sidewalk in a collision with another car here tonight.

Charred Body Is Found In Plane

MAJOR JOHN WOOD

NEEDLES, Calif., Sept. 4. (AP)—A sixty-hour search for the veteran pilot, Major John Wood, 32, ended today with discovery of his body behind the motor of his racing airplane at a point 38 miles northwest of here, dashing faint hopes that he, like his mechanic, Ward Miller, 25, might have leaped to safety after a wing of the ship exploded early Monday.

Heavy Rains Spot Section Of South Plains Wednesday

Hail Damages Crops Near Littlefield Last Night; Lubbock Gets Only Light Showers to Cool Weather

Heavy rains were reported from practically all sections of the South Plains last night though only light showers fell in Lubbock and immediate vicinity. A heavy hail, reported at Littlefield, was said to have damaged crops to a great extent though the exact loss had not been determined late last night.

Temperatures throughout the area dropped several degrees and a touch of the fall season was in the air. Though Lubbock received only a slight precipitation, heavy skies early this morning indicated that rain was near. No break in the skies was evident in any direction and lightning and distant rumbles of thunder bore evidence that sur-

Gossip Makes Pastor Resign

FORT WORTH, Sept. 4. (AP)—Rev. L. T. Grantham was forced to resign as pastor of College Heights Baptist church because of gossip in the neighborhood and among church members over the pastor's frequent visits to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Vinson, during the husband's absence, according to testimony and witnesses in forty-eighth district court today in the divorce trial of the Vinsons in which the pastor is named as a co-defendant.

Denial that she ever had improper relations with her pastor was made by Mrs. Vinson on the stand Wednesday.

Visiting Professor From Washington University Sees Rosy Prospect For Future Of Tech College

TEXAS Technological College has greater potentialities for immediate growth to the major rank than any educational institution I know of," said Dr. Frank L. Wright, head of the department of education at Washington University, St. Louis, in an interview here Wednesday afternoon, shortly before departing for his home.

Dr. Wright spoke daily during the South Plains teachers' institute in this city.

Total Of 4,225 Students Enroll In Public School System To Show Increase

Banner Attendance For Year Likely After Initial Registration Surpasses That Of Entire First Month Of Last Year

A TOTAL of 4,225 students had been enrolled at the close of Wednesday's session of the city schools, showing a slight increase over the total enrollment for the first month of last year, according to Superintendent M. H. Duncan.

A bare 4,200 pupils were enrolled in the schools at the end of the first month during the 1928 session and from indications this year a banner attendance will be seen.

"The enrollment to date exceeds what we expected," stated Mr. Duncan. "When all adjustments have been made every building will be full and all teachers will have full work before them. We feel confident that at the close of the year a total enrollment of over 6,000 students will have been recorded. We expect to have over 4,500 by October 1."

The total enrollment of last year stood at 5,374 at the closing of the schools and officials believe this figure will be raised almost a thousand.

A meeting of school principals was held yesterday afternoon in the office of Supt. Duncan, at the senior high school, at which tentative plans for the school year were outlined.

Will Collect Data For Proposed Line

Cities On Routing of Planned Rail Extension Will Be Asked To Aid; Meet Held At Morton

Cities on the proposed routing of a rail extension of the Frisco lines, from Floydada to El Paso, will be asked to subscribe prorata amounts to send a man over the territory to collect data for presentation to railway officials for consideration. This action was taken at a meeting Wednesday afternoon in Morton of some 40 or 50 representatives from cities in West Texas and New Mexico, according to a statement last night by George E. Lance, president of the Morton Chamber of Commerce, and chairman of the meeting.

The meeting was an enthusiastic one," said Mr. Lance. "All present seemed highly in favor of the proposal and I am of the opinion that with a cooperative effort on the part of all interested parties, the extension will be landed."

El Paso, Tatum, Lovington, Littlefield and Abernathy were represented at the meeting. A delegation started from Artesia but car trouble delayed them and they were unable to arrive in time. A telegram was read at the meeting from A. M. Summers of Quanah, general manager of the Quanah, Acme & Pacific railroad, in which he asked for all information on the proceedings of the meeting.

Mr. Lance was named to write all chambers of commerce in the territory, asking for their cooperation.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 4. (AP)—Tampico voters will be relieved of their pistols on election day, Nov. 17, by their wives, mothers and sisters who have formed "the league to prevent bloodshed during the election."

Besides "depoliticization," which is the chief item on the league's program, the women will stand watch at election booths and otherwise seek to make sure that the elections are carried out in a fair and peaceful way. Women do not vote in Mexico.

Members of Farm Board Likely To Face Opposition

Nominations Are Submitted To Senate In First Of Business Sessions After Summer Recess

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The nominations of the eight members of the Farm Board and of three new diplomatic officers were submitted to the senate today at its first business session after the summer recess and immediately referred to committees for consideration.

Rumors of opposition to members of the farm board, which has been functioning since July, were heard but no definite opposition was sounded. The agriculture committee will meet Friday to look over the list of nominees.

Names Submitted The president submitted the names of John W. Garrett of Baltimore, Md., to be Ambassador to Italy; Garratt John Diekmann of Michigan, to be Minister to the Netherlands, and of George T. Summerlin of Louisiana, to be Minister to Venezuela. The Foreign Relations Committee will consider these nominees next week. Their confirmation was expected.

No judicial appointments were forwarded or expected before next week. If any opposition develops to the board members it was expected.

Zeppelin Reposes In German Hangar

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Sept. 4. (AP)—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin reposed in its home hangar tonight after having set a new record for world circling by any means and then setting up an even better mark of 20 days, 4 hours and 18 minutes.

The officers and crew, idols of a tremendous German welcome, finally obtained much needed rest after a month of blazing new air trails, without a single serious damage to their ship or injury to passengers. The 22 passengers, including two women, who made the trip from Lakehurst shared in the festivities to which this city, and in lesser measure, all Germany, gave itself up.

Only Dr. Hugo Eckener, the commander who guided his beloved ship around the world from Lakehurst to Lakehurst before turning her over to his first assistant captain Ernst Lehmann, was missing. He remained in America to discuss plans for giving dirigibles added importance in the world.

TO DISGRACE OFFENDERS TAMPICO, Mexico, Sept. 4. (AP)—Photographs of gamblers and persons who become intoxicated will be published in the local newspapers if the suggestion of one of the city councilmen of Villa Cecilia is approved. The idea is to subject the offenders to disgrace.

"Bootleg Ring Of Police" Uncovered

Confessed Bootlegger Held Under Indictment After Charging Twenty Police With Receiving Money

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 4.—The county grand jury returned secret indictments charging conspiracy to violate the liquor laws against J. B. Westman, alias Harry D. McDonald and three others today following the confessed bootlegger's repudiation before the inquisitorial body of his charges that 20 policemen extorted protection money from him over a period of five years.

A former associate of Westman in the Turkish bath house, which he said was operated as a cover for his liquor selling business, and two John Does, were named with the man in the indictment. Foreman Elwood De Garmo said the true bill would serve to hold Westman in jail where he could be protected from outside attacks.

World-Famous Band Music Composer Is Convict

By PHILIP J. BENNETT
NEA Service Writer

SAN QUENTIN, Calif., Sept. 4.—He's "The Professor" to the 4,300 convicts in San Quentin Prison.—To John Phillip Sousa, Louis B. Mayer and many others, he's a creative musical genius of outstanding ability.—His marches are played all over the world.—

But to the board of prison directors, he's Damascus Garcia Gallar, a "two-time loser," not given consideration for parole.

Gallar, long known as a musician, has served 14 years in San Quentin. It's a "ten-to-life" sentence for second degree murder, growing out of shooting of a money lender during a quarrel. During that time, he has taken charge of the San Quentin Military Band, also the prison orchestra, and has made them two of the west's finest musical organizations.

Has $92,000 in Bank

But while this organization's music has been confined within Quentin's gray walls, Gallar's music has been heard around the world, through the marches and overtures he has composed; numbers used regularly in band concerts and by army, navy and marine bands. From these, he has $92,000 to his credit in a bank. "May Day," the prize was $5,000. Gallar turned this over to the War Mothers for their work.

Wrote "Gold Strips" March

His "Gold Strips" March has been made the official march of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in several states. It has been played before Presidents Coolidge and Hoover and is widely used by military and fraternal bands.

For nearly two years though, Gallar has not been marketing any of his compositions. A ruling by the prison board barred any sale of writings by convicts. But he kept composing, as inspiration came and has over 600 compositions awaiting the time they can be released to stage music publishers.

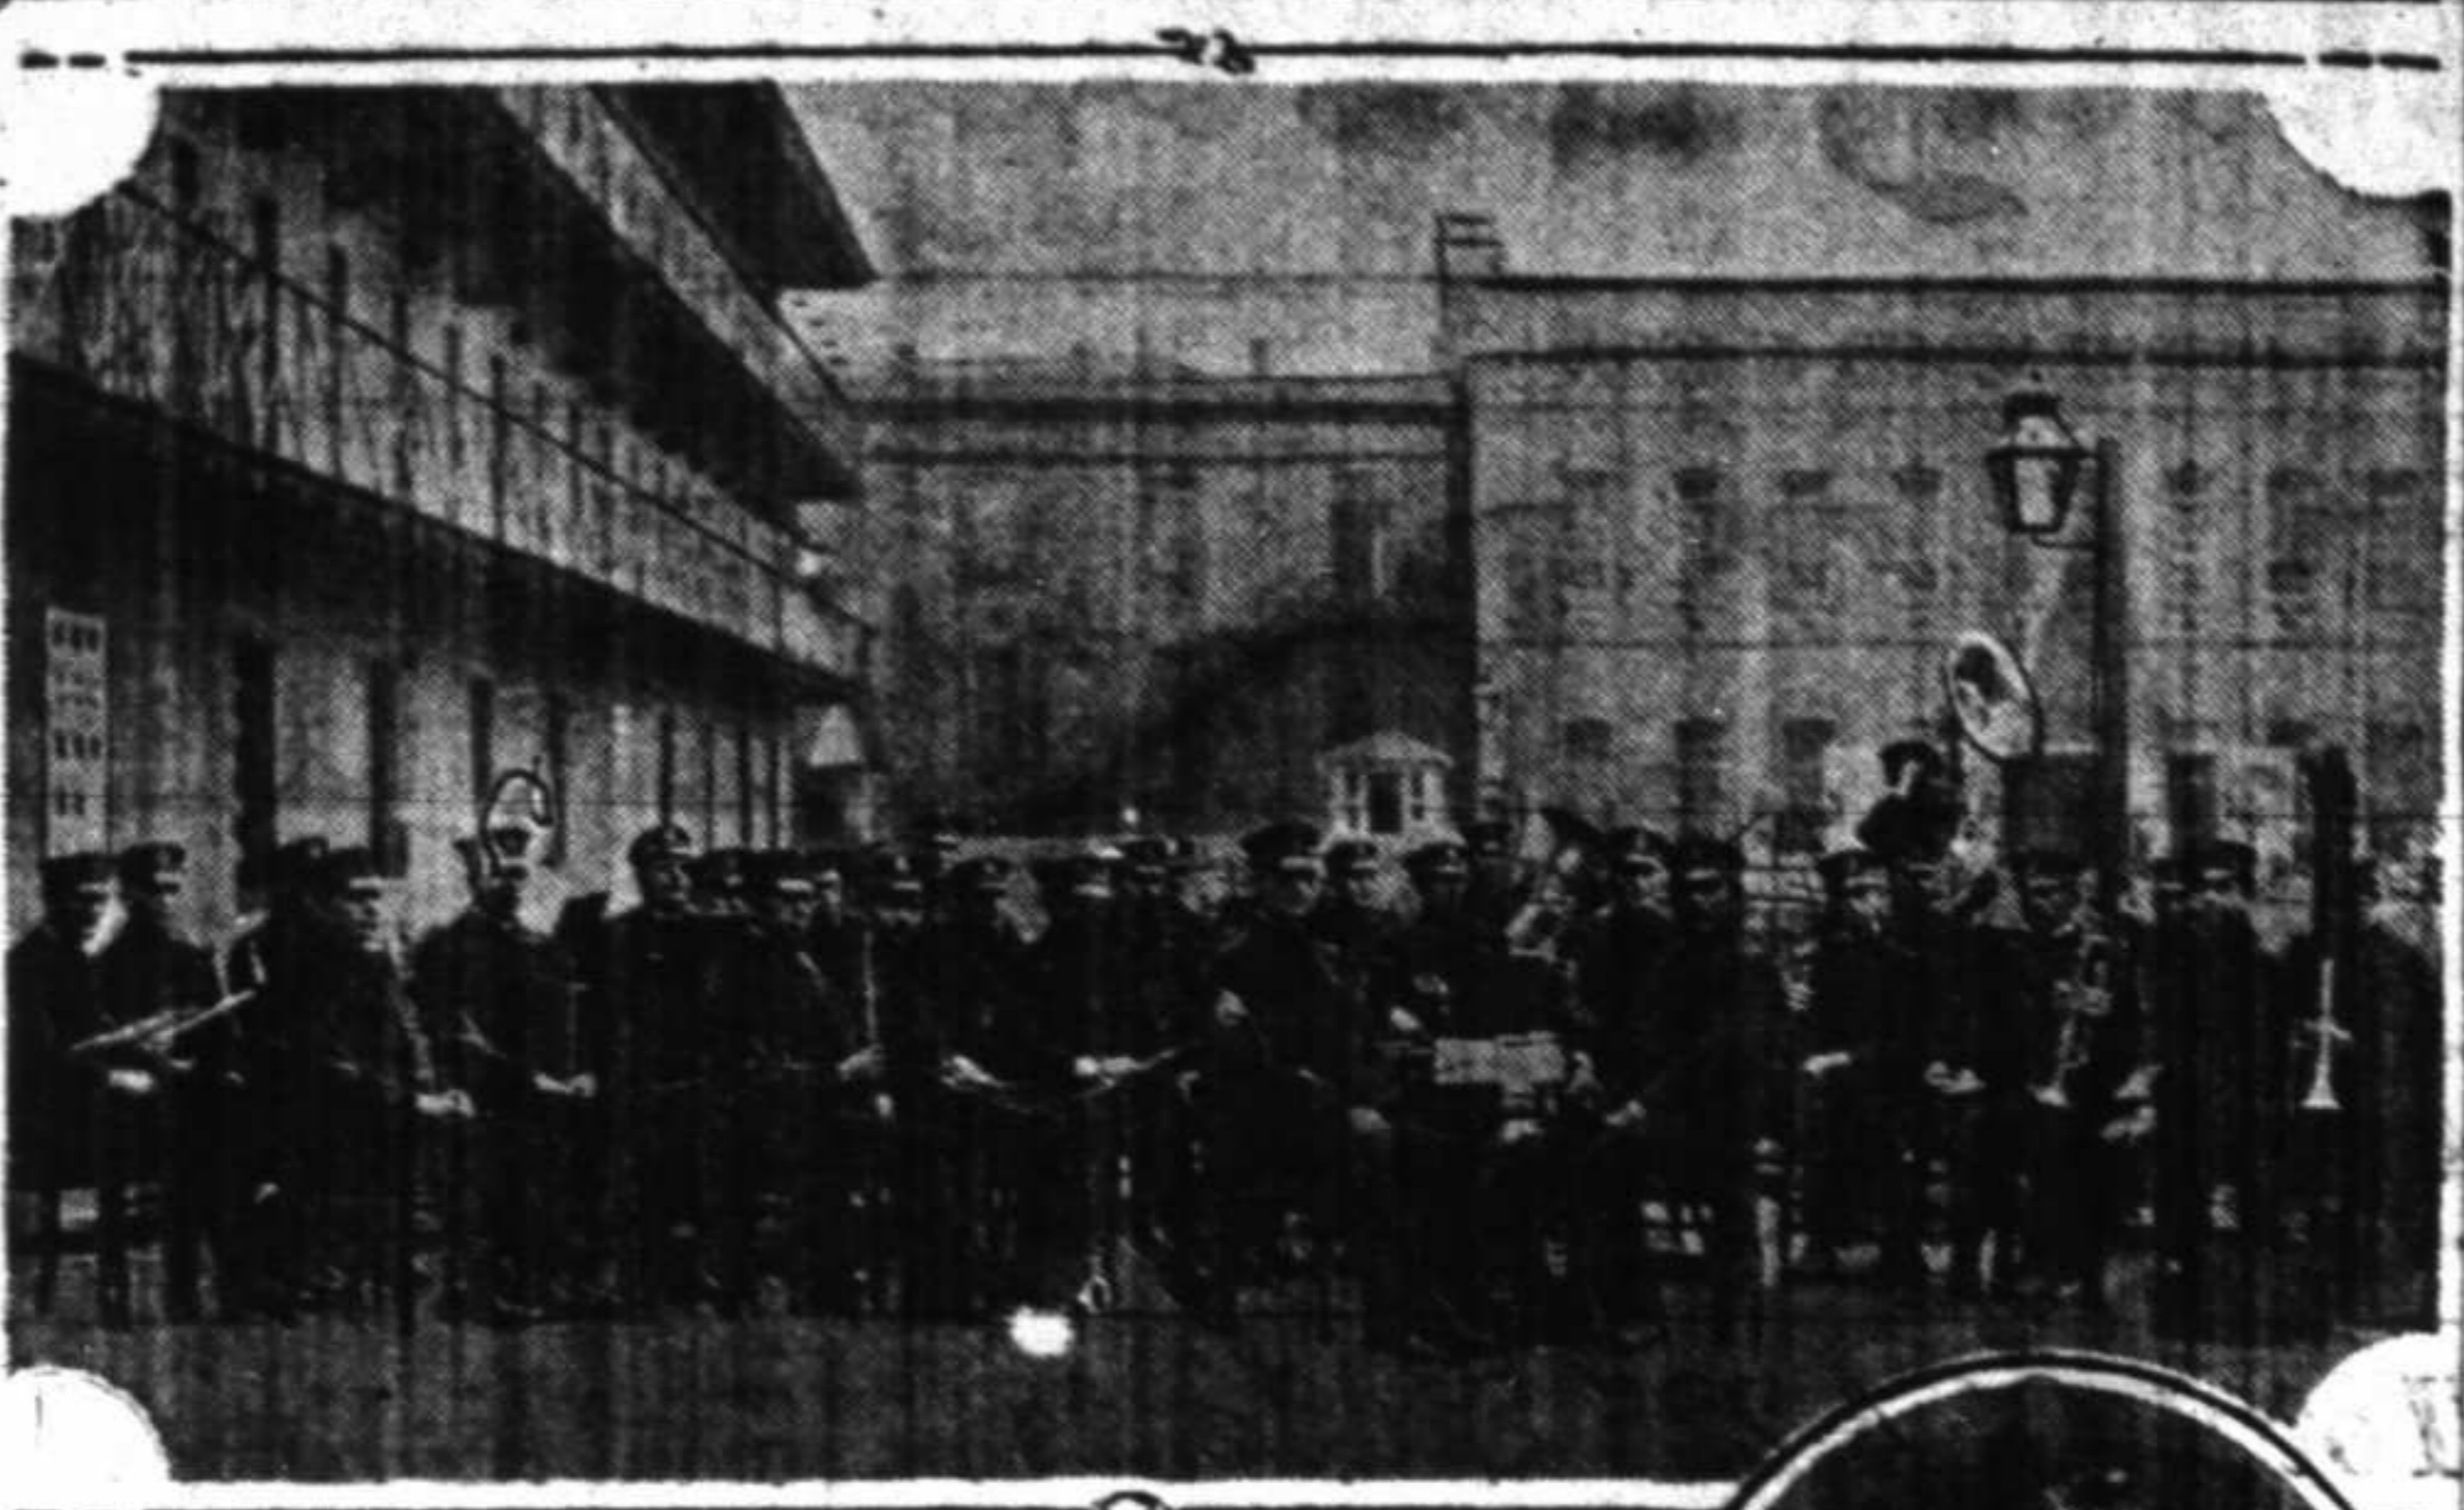

Gallar has an offer from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio to compose for contracts at $1,500 a week and royalties. Vaudeville circuits have offered contracts, too, in case of his release. And the fame of his hand and orchestra will create a demand for his services as a leader.

Many Seek Release

Thousands of members of the Musicians' Union, Ametta Gallar-Curt, John Phillip Sousa, Director Philip Shapiro of the San Francisco Municipal Band, the late Paul Steinberg and hundreds of others have signed petitions seeking release from prison of this caged maker of songs. Sousa declares Gallar is one of two conductors who can lead a band of more than 50 in symphonies without once referring to the score.

But Gallar had a prior conviction on an embezzlement charge. This has mitigated against attempts to secure the musician's release on parole. And thus far the board has not taken steps to definitely fix the time Gallar must serve under the ten-to-life indeterminate sentence. A kindly man, 47, is "the professor," beloved alike by convicts and by prison officials. His artistic temperament is given outlet through his band, his orchestra and his writings—and executives declare he is a model prisoner. He was born and educated in Spain, has been soloist for several famous bands; is master of many instruments, and a splendid conductor.

Tallahassee, capital city of Florida, is the only American city founded by a member of the immediate family of Napoleon Bonaparte. Colonel Charles Louis Napoleon Achille Mu.

Bar Association Meets In Memphis

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4. (AP)—When the American Bar association meets in Memphis, October 22, it will have before it recommendations by its standing committee on radio law for sweeping revision of present radio legislation.

The report called for the repeal of the section of the radio act dividing the country into zones.

Davis Amendment Rapped

The Davis amendment, by which the commission was directed to allocate all broadcasting facilities equally as between zones and equitably in proportion to population in the states of zones, also was attacked on the ground it "runs counter to well-established engineering principles."

The committee reported there exists an uncertainty and division of authority in radio administration which should be terminated by placing radio regulation permanently in the hands either of the radio commission or the department of commerce.

AGED WOMAN HURT

LIBERTY, Sept. 4. (AP)—An unidentified woman about 60 years old, injured in an automobile accident near Deers, Liberty county, last night died today in a Beaumont hospital, according to a report received here. The woman was transferred to Beaumont after being given treatment at a clinic here. It was thought possible the woman was from Dalsetta.

Mrs. Pantages On Trial For Murder

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 4. (AP)—Six women and six men had been selected as tentative jurors today to hear the case of Mrs. Alexander Pantages, wife of the theater magnate, charged with murder in connection with the death of Joe Rokumoto.

Mrs. Pantages is accused of driving in a reckless fashion while intoxicated. Rokumoto died from injuries received when the automobile which he was driving was struck by a machine piloted by the multi-millionaire theater operator's wife.

Defense attorneys announced they intended to bring out that Mrs. Pantages was suffering from a nervous disorder.

49 Texans Aboard Virginia Special

HOUSTON, Sept. 4. (AP)—Forty-nine Texans were aboard the special train which left here today for Newport News, Va., for the christening and launching of the United States cruiser Houston there Saturday.

R. B. Cragger of Brownsville, republican national committee chairman, Mayor Charlton Brown of Mineral Wells, "Blue Shirt" candidate for governor, Mayor Walter E. Monteth of Houston and Miss Charlotte Williams, of Houston, great granddaughter of General Sam Houston, were in the party.

Governor Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia, Sam Houston's native state, will be master of ceremonies at the christening, Miss Elizabeth Holcombe, of Houston, daughter of Oscar F. Holcombe, former mayor, will smash a bottle of ship channel water across the prow of the new $17,000,000 cruiser.

Governor Dan Moody was unable to leave on the train because of business.

Officers Baffled By Mystery Death

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 4. (AP)—A death mystery confronted Tulsa authorities today with the finding of the body of I. G. Fidler, about 51, prominent in business circles here, in an open field on the outskirts of the city.

Grass had been beaten about the body, indicating, officers said, the man had rolled about as if in agony. Death had occurred about four days ago.

No marks of violence were found. England has no mountains high enough to be perpetually covered with snow.

The Woman's Day

By Allene Sumner Allene Sumner

Skirts will be long this fall, but stockings will continue to be the shortest silk, according to editorial comment upon the matter.

The editorial comment is from a man who would ever question why things should be any less extravagant whether they show or not to be demanded by women? If this were so, the lingerie market would have gone on the rocks some ago.

WHAT'S DISORDERLY

And they're still arresting them for taking sun baths. The charge is "disorderly conduct." Maybe we'll be less hysterical some day—not that taking sun-baths is "disorderly," but that calling it "disorderly conduct" is. Maybe someday we will see enough sense and taboo not to quell at the thought of a sun bath.

CAN TAKE NO MORE

Californian waitresses may not be so far from a recent piece of legislation which forbids them to carry more than ten pounds on their trays when they go up and down stairs, and never to carry more than fifty pounds.

On face value, one would think that they would be very glad just as on face value you would expect a woman worker to be glad when she is told that she may legally work only so many hours a day, that she may legally stand only so many hours a day, and that she may legally not work in a place which does not provide proper restroom facilities.

NOT SO GLAD!

But the fact is that thousands of women will be just as disturbed by this ten-pounds-on-a-tray law as they will be pleased. For it means "special legislation" for women, the very thing which the National Woman's party fights with tooth and nail, reasoning that no employer will hire a woman, or at least hire her for the same wage as a man, if they must bother about all the demands of "special legislation."

They reason that because women work only because they must if they eat, and because they prefer any kind of a job to pleasant

How to Achieve Beauty

Some hands portray culture. One glimpse of them and their owner is set down at once as a person of fine tastes and instincts. They are expressive hands — hands that show breeding rather than emotion. Shapely, poised and graceful in their movements; never nervous, fidgety or fluttering — the hands of a gentleman.

These hands rarely lose their look of culture and grace, even when they grow older. The gentleman's hand usually remains shapely in contour and outline, even when the skin grows yellow and wrinkled, and veins show prominently.

Yet these unpleasant signs of age are ugly—they do detract from the job. It's better for them to have the same working conditions as men as to have "protection."

It's often hard to say just who is right, they, or the other organized girls who insist that the abolition of special working protection for women would do that for which they have fought for years.

UPPERS, TOO!

Speaking of special demands made for women. If not of them, here's one specifically demanded of men. Comptroller A. E. Roth, of Stanford University (resident Hoover's school, by the way) predicts that sun tan, or sun bath, students must keep their shirts on when on university grounds. This is especially aimed at those misguided miscreants who play tennis in only the loaves and not the upper.

When one thinks of how women have been censured and ultimata against and forbidden to go there and here in short skirts and with no sleeves, such sartorial restrictions seem only fair, even if a bit silly.

Sixteen American aircraft were put into service in China this year.

A bee must travel 40,000 miles to get a pound of honey.

Handless hands need exercise to retain a fresh, youthful look of vitality — need to be refreshed and stimulated constantly, like their owners' minds.

Bloodless hands should be made to grip things firmly — to move with energy and strength as well as quiet grace, to make the blood flow into them, to make them vital.

If your hands show culture and mental refinement at the expense of physical freshness and a smooth firm skin—take this exercise. Clench them tightly, then extend the fingers as far apart as possible. Stretch them tensesly, then let them relax—and then clench the fists again. Repeat this exercise vigorously ten or twelve times a day. Keep the skin supple by using a milky lotion daily—and a stimulating nourishing hand cream at night. Rub them and manipulate them in idle moments; soak them in warm oil or heat in the cream. Wear gloves at night, slip them vigorously and practice scales on a real or imaginary piano.

The visiting card is of Chinese origin.

For ages the favorite color of Chinese officials has been yellow.

NATURE seldom gives the maximum of two good qualities to any animal, plant, mineral or any natural oil. Most motor oils are made from crude oil that has a paraffine base or another crude oil with a naphthene base. Both these crude oils have qualities peculiar to themselves. The chemists of the Gulf Refining Company chose the best paraffine and naphthene crude oils and after exhaustive research finally succeeded in perfecting a blend of the two, which is

SHIRTING DAYS OF KLONDIKE GOLD RUSH ARE LIVED AGAIN AS VETS OF '98 HOLD COLORFUL CONVENTION

Here are some scenes snapped on Seattle's streets during the "Sourdough Stampede," when 5000 veterans of the great Klondike gold rush met again to talk over old times. No. 1 shows Glen McLeod, now a Seattle barber, garbed as he was when he went to Alaska in 1897. No. 2 is "Sandy" Frew, who spent 12 years carrying mail on a dog sled to the distant Yukon mining camps. No. 3 is the Rev. George C. Pringle, for a decade famous as the "sky pilot of the Yukon." In No. 4 an Alaskan known as "Malamute Jake" poses with one of his huskies. No. 5 shows two old "sourdoughs" dressed in the correct Klondike outfit of a bygone day, greeting each other on the streets of Seattle.

bent, gray-haired men registered from the King County Poor Farm! Days of '98 Are Lived Again Just as all classes and conditions of men mingled in the rush to the Klondike, so all classes and conditions mingled in the convention here. There were federal judges, Northwest Mounted policemen, doctors, bankers, farmers, lawyers, down-and-outs, housewives, men who had stuck to prospecting ever since the glamorous days of '98—all meeting here in the happy camaraderie of old-time associations. Some of these men had been prospectors in the old days. Others had been fur dealers, steamboat men, north country doctors, dance hall girls, fur trappers and nobody knows what-not. Among the delegates for instance, was Kate Rockwell, who went up to the Klondike in '98 with the Savoy Show company playing dramatic roles for the rough miners. Now living in Oregon, Kate Rockwell is the proprietress of a little restaurant. She knew the dance hall girls who sold drinks to the men on a percentage basis, of course. "Where are the dancing girls?" she was asked. "Some married millionaires — in

...is now a California orange grower and Laughlin is a cotton broker. "The Sky Pilot of the Yukon." One of the most interesting figures at the convention was the Rev. George C. Pringle, long known as the "sky pilot of the Yukon," and now a resident of Victoria, B. C. Pringle, who had been graduated from the University of Toronto and had taken post-graduate courses at Edinburgh, Scotland, went north in '98 and headed straight for the wildest part of the frontier, earning his passage up the Yukon by working the sweeps of a barge, and finally landing among the gold creeks 20 miles back of Dawson. Month after month he went afoot among the mining camps—Whisky Hill, Paradise Hill, Squabblers Bench, Last Chance Creek and Too Much Gold Creek—carrying mail, nursing the sick and holding church services in barrooms and road houses, wherever he could find room. Once in the Eureka roadhouse he was holding up a whisky bottle with a lighted candle protruding from the neck, the better to see the text he was reading, when he recognized in his audience an older brother, a member of the Northwest Mounted Police. He had never seen the older brother, recognizing him from pictures; but he stopped the service and said, "Sorry, boys, I can't preach today. This is my brother I've never seen before." A Drink on the Parson! And the congregation shouted as one man: "Let's have a drink on the parson!" It would be impossible to name all of the interesting and colorful figures at the convention. There was, for instance, the famous Coolidge Smith, old-time Australian prize fighter who went to the Yukon for a change of luck: there was the "Blow Back Kid," famous for always coming back to every place he was chased away from; there was Judge William A. Gilmore, distinguished lawyer; Charles D. Garfield, former collector of customs at Nome and Juneau; A. L. Brackett, who helped his father finance and build the Brackett Wagon Road out of Skagway toward the pass; Henry C. MacAulay, first mayor of Dawson; Joel Warren, chief of police at Nome; and there was a detachment of Northwest Mounted police, resplendent in red tunics—the second time in history that a detachment of "mounties" has come over the border into the United States.

Pro Officers And Police Battling

NEW YORK, Sept. 4. (AP)—The controversy between federal prohibition authorities and Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen advanced a step further today when Maurice Campbell, prohibition administrator for New York, directed a letter to the commission asking whether the city's speakeasies, "as breeding places for crimes," were not "a purely local problem to be handled by the municipal authorities."

In a previous letter Commissioner Whalen had returned complaints forwarded by the prohibition administrator and accused Major Campbell of attempting "to pass the buck" to the city police on a matter purely federal. Major Campbell denied this in his reply and said that closest cooperation possible was necessary between federal and police agents if the speakeasies were to be closed.

Dr. Sam Dunn Is Rotary Club Hit

"The Specialist," an exceedingly eulogistic rhetorical classic, read by Dr. Sam Dunn, was the principal feature of the Wednesday noon luncheon of the Lubbock Rotary club. Other features included piano numbers by Jimmie Allen and a report from the Tulsa Kiwanis convention, by J. A. Raley. Raley declared that every Lubbockite attending the Kiwanis convention worked diligently every minute from the time they arrived in Tulsa until the convention place was decided Tuesday. This city, he stated, was the only one that had representatives from the Rotary and Lions clubs, and chamber of commerce, as well as the Kiwanis club, at Tulsa, giving invitations to bring next year's convention to the respective cities, and that this fact helped a great deal in swinging votes to Lubbock Rotarians present at Tulsa were Raley, R. J. Murray and Charles A. Guy. President J. J. Clements presided at the meeting at which about 60 were present, among the visitors being Dr. P. L. Wright, of Washington University, St. Louis, as guest of Dr. Paul W. Horn. Nell H. Wright read a letter of invitation from the Plainview Rotary club in which the local club was asked to provide the program at Plainview for its Rotary club on Friday, September 27.

Sues for $455,000

By NEA Service SEATTLE, Sept. 4.—The strangest, most romantic convention in American history has just been concluded in Seattle, where the calendar was turned back 30 years. It was a convention of men and women whose collective memories hold more of color, excitement and adventure than the memories of any similar group in the country. They were the men and women—5000 of them—who went to the Klondike in the great gold stampede of '98, gathered together here from all over the world for a convention which they called "the Sourdough Stampede," bringing together again the remaining fragments of the mighty army that stormed the Alaskan fastness a generation ago. There were visitors here from many lands, most of them, of course, were from the United States; but there were delegations from South America, Mexico, Germany, Cuba, and Australia as well. And there was one group of 16

gold dust—some came back to the States and went straight, and some "didn't," she replied. Braved Chilcoot's Blizzards A section in the parade here was led by Mrs. David Allerton of Hollywood, who was a great stage favorite of the Klondike under the name of Gracie Robinson. She left a New York chorus job in '97 to go north, and went through the famous Chilcoot Pass with her theatrical costumes wrapped in a gunny sack and strapped to her shoulders. Then there was Dr. I. H. Moore, pioneer surgeon in Skagway, who was hilariously greeted in the convention hall by Jack Lamont, whose life he had saved after Lamont had been shot through both thighs in the free-for-all shooting fracas that attended the fatal duel between the bandit, "Soapy" Smith, and the heads of the Skagway Vigilance Committee. Then there was Frank Emerson, of Los Angeles, who unexpectedly ran into Harry Laughlin of New Orleans. He had last seen Laughlin in Skagway and had borrowed $5 from him after being cleaned in a poker game. The debt was paid at the convention, with much attendant hilarity. Emmer-

Social Affairs Continue For Younger People In City

San Angelo Visitors Here Honored At Picnic and Dance; Parties Are Favors For Members of Sans Souci

Miss Grace Smith Hostess With Picnic and Dance On Tuesday Evening For Four Visitors Here

While much of the interest of the young social set here is in the opening of colleges this month, parties continue to be given during the week, with bridge the popular diversion.

Following the announcement of the approaching Duggan-Knight nuptials, plans are being made for several social affairs to honor the bride-elect.

Parties continue to be given for visitors in the city. Miss Grace Smith, 2123 14th street, entertained a number of friends on Tuesday evening complimentary to four out-of-town visitors here.

The Woman's Day by Allice Sumner

With all the tumult and shouting about divorce, its evils, its abuses, and the social turmoil that results from it, it is at least a change to hear Owen Johnson, the novelist, opine that divorce may be a great blessing and make that and that as many divorces may be made in heaven as marriages.

OUR WAY BEST
He says that our American tradition which assumes that when love goes a marriage is blessed, is as good as Europe's idea which assumes that love is the last thing a marriage needs and which no more expects a home to be broken up when papa and mama quarrel than it expects the millennium.

BETTER SECOND ONE
The author favors easier divorce, believing that if people do not feel eternally bound to one another they are not so apt to rebel and strain at the leash.

HASTY BRIDE
Not a month ago the American show girl who married Jean Assolant, pilot of the plane "The Yellow Bird" just before he took off on his eastward trans-oceanic trip, was much in the limelight as the bride of the famous aviator.

SHE MADE WHOOPEE
Mrs. Jervis E. Morrison, 23, of Davenport, Iowa, described as attractive and well-dressed, was fined $200 in a New York court the other day for "making whoopee" in a hotel. The manager charged that she entered the hotel intoxicated and proceeded to play tunes on the cash register and throw lamps and bric-a-brac at bell boys who tried to curtail her musical inclinations.

Days Are Witnessing Last Stand Of Waning Styles

BY BESSY SCHUYLER
SMA Service Writer

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Just as flowers are being laid just before they fade, so do the lovely summer gowns reach the zenith of their achievement. Just before the summer wanes, crepe, organdie, gingham, pastel colored crepe, and flustering sheer fabrics have had their few more days in the sun. Then come the somber colors of fall, the deeper leaf tones, and the autumn interpretation of the mode.

Who knows but this may be the last summer of the short skirt and the comfortable waistline? Who knows how our silhouettes may have changed by next year? At the rate we are going anything might be possible. Or women might even yet stampede and rebel against the passing of the Age of Crepe.

A Floral Crown
A second visit to Saratoga revealed new sartorial delights. I quite adored the hat worn by Marion Wilson, a very neat fitting and very distinctive model with a wreath of flowers of different colors gaily arranged about the crown. After the very severe chapeaux, it was most feminine and disarming. I was so entranced by the millinery that I quite neglected to notice what sort of a frock she was wearing. Probably it was a gown, but I can't be sure.

When tan linen is made smarter, it has a marvelous style, hasn't it? I wondered why more women did not realize its possibilities when I saw how stunning Mrs. Joe Lakin, of Washington, looked in hers, with its impeccable line and faultless tailoring. Then I seemed to remember how lovely it could be on a drooping figure, and I spent no more time lamenting its scarcity.

In The Sunken Shoe
Marion Wickes knows how to play up to that marvelous tan of hers. She was positively stunning in a gingham suit with large checks of yellow and white, and cuffs and pocket of white organdie. The blouse was a wash-in, and I think it was delicious.

Quantities of lace are seen here, and the favorite color seems to be beige. It is apparently quite the most approved material for formal afternoon wear. For evening I have noticed that green is the fashion given, possibly that than ever before—and talk, too particularly black tulle.

I was enchanted by the picture made by Edna Marie, in an organdie gown over tulle—black tulle—with a wash of black organdie and in a bow in the back. Let femininity return, I said to myself, if we can have more frocks like this.

Southampton Is Gay
Southampton, too, is very gay these days and very colorful. At the swimming given recently at the Meadows Club, I saw most lovely and graceful costumes.

Strolling on the beach early one morning I saw Mrs. Kenneth O'Brien, looking very smart in a white linen suit with a cardigan jacket and a pleated skirt. With her was Mrs. Charles E. Mitchell, wearing a frock with a most interesting collar line, a sort of oval effect in front that was formed by a fold of silk. It gave a long and graceful line to her V neckline, and was quite out of the usual routine of scotch or run-over collars.

"The fifteen cruiser building program is largely a replacement program," the Senator said. "It appears to me the ships would have to be built no matter what kind of agreement was reached with Great Britain."

How to Achieve Beauty

Every time you put your hand to your face, you are either building up or tearing down. You are either bracing the muscles, tightening and toning them—or you are dragging down on them and hastening the aging process. Even so simple a process as washing the face can be made definitely beneficial to the skin and contour—and is, unfortunately, frequently injurious!

Movements which I am going to outline below for the application and removal of creams and lotions, are recognized as scientifically correct by the medical profession. They work with the muscle structure—the movement being from the origin to the insertion of the muscle. Therefore, these movements are corrective movements—they work with your corrective preparations and enable you to get the maximum benefit from the preparations.

To apply cream—spread it evenly over both hands. Start the spreading from the chin upward to the ear in one sweeping stroke. Then from the nose to the temple—another long sweeping stroke. Get the habit of making long sweeping strokes, instead of small, picking ones. Now lift upward between the eyes and stroke across the forehead, finishing by coming inward under the eyes (gently—oh!) so gently) and going out over the eyelid itself. Even with the cleansing step, it is important to work well around the eyes with the cream, for here the skin is thinnest and most delicate and, especially, even in the case of very young girls, it is inclined to cry.

Now with the cream remaining on the hands, cup the hands and spread lightly down the front of the throat from chin to collar bone—then turn the hands and stroke firmly up the back of the neck.

When the cream has thus been applied, begin to work it in lightly with the finger tips—sliding the fingers lightly over the face, but do not move the skin or flesh with the fingers. In working in the cream follow the same general outline of movement as for applying the cream, only use little rotary movements instead of the long, sweeping stroke used in applying cream.

After the cream has been thoroughly worked into the skin, it should be allowed to remain on the required time and then removed with the same careful, corrective movements used for its application. In removing cream from around the eyes, hold the outer corner of the eyes with one hand, while removing the cream with the other, so as to prevent any possibility of stretching the delicate skin about the eyes.

Here you see her in a costume, selected by Florence Ziegfeld as the owner of 'Amber's Most Beautiful Legs,' beside the unfinished bronze as it came from the foundry. of the "TREAD" and regardless of how thick the tread may be, the carcass (foundation) must be of greater strength or your tire will be gone before your tread is half worn down. The tread gives you traction and added strength to the tire carcass.

This demonstration explains why Goodyear Tires are supreme for standing abuse without premature blowouts or sidewall breaks.

And that these superiorities are real and vital is proved by the fact that millions more now ride on Goodyear Tires than any other kind.

Bobby Jones Is Eliminated By 20-Year-Old Nebraskan

Napoleon of Golf Meets Waterloo On Hazardous Pebble Beach Course In First Round of National Amateur

Most Sensational Upeat Tournament Has Ever Known Occurs When Johnny Goodman Outplays Wizard Of Atlanta To Win Out 18th Hole

BY ALAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor
PEBBLE BEACH, Cal., Sept. 4. (AP)—Pebble Beach today proved the Waterloo for the Napoleon of Golf—Bobby Jones.

Coming to the Far West for the first time, the world's foremost shotmaker and four time holder of the title was eliminated today in the first round of the National Amateur Championship by a 20-year-old Nebraskan, Johnny Goodman of Omaha.

In one of the most sensational upsets the tournament has ever known, Goodman outplayed Jones to win by the narrow margin of one up in a match that went the full eighteen holes and was not decided until the final putt.

Goodman Then Loses
Goodman's path of glory was brief. He was eliminated himself unceremoniously in the second round by an 18-year-old San Franciscan, William Lawson Little, Jr., 2 and 1, but the Nebraskan was the main shock producer for the day.

Goodman won from Jones because he played better golf.
If there were any "tricks" Jones got them. On the ninth Bobby's second shot hit a bank and rolled near the pin. On the thirteenth he was stymied but hopped over Goodman's ball and into the cup with his mangle niblick. On the 18th, the champion's second shot sliced so far that it hit a tree, bounding out to the fairway, but he hit his chip shot too feebly and had a 35-foot putt left that he failed by a foot to get down as the last desperate stroke of a champion meeting his downfall.

Defeat Comes Early
It was the first time in his career that Jones has met defeat in the first round of the championship in which he made his debut as a boy in 1916.

The removal of so outstanding a favorite as Jones, threw the tournament into a somewhat chaotic scramble for the title, with the race wide open for the last eight that go into the third round tomorrow.

It there was anything one-sidedly convincing about the opening day's performance, it was turned in by the giant British champion, Cyril Tolley, who crushed his first two opponents, Eddie Held, and Fay Coleman, by margins of 7 and 6, and 8 and 6.

Von Elm Out
George Von Elm of Detroit, the 1926 champion, passed out quickly for the third straight year, along with Gene Hornum, of Englewood, N. J., co-medalist with Jones. Old-time Dunlap of Los Angeles, whose 89 in the opening qualifying round made him a sensation, and Phillips Finlay, another California favorite.

Five of the sixteen matches went to extra holes and all the stars, save Tolley, George Voight and Francis Quimet, had plenty of trouble.

Two Youths Meet For Wichita Cup

WICHITA FALLS, Sept. 4. (AP)—Youth will have its fling tomorrow in the championship round of the second annual invitation golf tournament of the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club when two youngsters, who lack several years of being voters, will battle over 36 holes.

Gus Moreland and Jack Jackson, both of Dallas, won their way to the finals today by defeating Morris Norton and Tommy Cochran, both of Wichita Falls.

Moreland won from Norton 4 and 3 and Jackson eliminated the veteran ex-state champion, Cochran, 4 and 2, today.

Moreland and Norton were extended to win their quarter-final matches this morning while Cochran and Jackson won handily. Norton was carried to the nineteenth hole by Jack Parr of Electra and Moreland did not win from Bob Alexander of Munday until the eighteenth green.

HURRICANES WIN
WESTBURY, N. Y., Sept. 4. (AP)—The Anglo-American team, the Hurricanes, led by Stephen Sanford, defeated Roslyn in a 12 period match to enter the final of the national open polo championship today. The final score was 8 to 7.

Greatest Champion Is Dethroned

BOBBY JONES
Gunning for his fifth national amateur championship and a top-heavy favorite to retain his title, Bobby Jones, the Atlanta wizard of the golf links, tasted defeat in the first round of the national tournament at Pebble Beach, Cal., yesterday, losing a disastrous 18-hole struggle to Johnny Goodman, 20-year-old youth from Omaha, Neb. It was the first time in his long career that Jones met defeat in the first round of a tournament. His elimination has thrown the race for the title wide-open.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4. (AP)—Brooklyn protected fifth place against the designs of the Phillies by taking a double-header from the home team here today 5 to 3 and 9 to 7. The second clash lasted 10 innings.

Daisy Vance got credit for the opening victory when Harry Smythe weakened in the eighth to lose his first major league decision after three straight victories. Smythe also closed out the second game but the battle already had been lost when he entered the box.

The battling race between "Babe" Herman and Frank O'Doul, remained unchanged. Base got three out of nine in the two games, and Herman remained ahead by a fraction of a point.

Donald Hurst hit his 96th homer in the first game. Val Picinich made the circuit on a drive within O'Doul misjudged his liner, which rolled to the flagpole.

A BIG JOB
Lubbock's victorious delegates, tired, dusty but supremely happy, trooped back into the city last night from the highest of the Texas-Oklahoma district. Kiwanis International, you've already seen in the papers that Lubbock was awarded the 1930 meeting as a result of an aggressive campaign staged at Tulsa and in so doing noed out delegations from Fort Worth, Laredo and San Angelo who sought the honor likewise.

But the battle fairly begun. Just one year from now some 2,000 Kiwanians and their wives will invade Lubbock and Lubbock must be ready to receive them. The Texas and Oklahoma clubmen have the right to be taken care of for they were invited here through every civic channel available. Hence, it is up to us to remember throughout the next 12 months that we have a job ahead of us.

Tulsa Kiwanians, with every entertaining feature at hand, had little trouble in setting a high mark—a difficult target at which other cities, in future years, must shoot. It is up to Lubbock to start now with plans to raise Tulsa's ante and make the 1930 meeting the greatest in Texas-Oklahoma Kiwanis history.

The Morning Avalanche is glad the Kiwanians won at Tulsa and congratulates them on their fine work. This newspaper believes more conventions should be brought to Lubbock—that every member of sectional organizations here should bring his co-workers to the Hub of the Plains. The coming Kiwanis convention, the largest to ever come to Lubbock, will prove our mettle as a convention city or else will show the world that we are not as good as we think we are.

Let's plan now to put Lubbock out in front as a convention city.

CANNED FOODS
It is comforting to have from the federal department of agriculture the assurance that the prejudice and distrust against canned foods a generation ago have been almost entirely removed by the twenty years or more of constructive effort on the part of the canning industry, backed by the constant pressure in behalf of sound, honest products exerted through the department of the federal inspectors and drug acts. There may still be some prejudice, but there are few persons who refuse to purchase "canned goods" from the stores.

The public soon learns which manufacturers and brands are reliable, and refuses to buy any that are not up to the highest standards. And many instances have shown that the stores which carry inferior goods. Government inspectors are alert and keep a watchful eye upon the canneries and the packers. It is no longer necessary for the housewife to stand in a hot kitchen "putting up" fruits and vegetables, as she can buy—often at lower prices—so good, if not better, canned fruits and vegetables, jams and jellies than she can produce.

We are told that "domestic inspection of canning practices, plants and products goes vigilantly on, year in and year out, from Maine to Florida, from California to Washington. Wherever food is canned for human consumption, there are food and drug inspectors watching, advising, reporting all they see and hear to the district offices at Washington, Chicago, San Francisco and headquarters at Washington, D. C." And there are many, very many, families that depend upon the delicatessen and grocery stores.

ONE FOR THE BIG NAVY GANG
Officials at the United States Naval Academy are a great deal of a different opinion from a feminine member of the house of representatives who threatens to appoint a girl to Annapolis. "Heavens!" they exclaim. "We aren't running a cradle of the deep."

It is, to say the least, a novel suggestion. But why not give it a trial? The boys at the academy would doubtless be a great deal of a different opinion. Besides, no one can assert that scores of American girls are incapable of fighting for their country. There is the case of that Baltimore lass who sought a pugilist's license.

"Are you going to fight women?" asked the boxing commissioner.

"Hell, no!" she replied. "I can lick plenty of these tin-lipped, tin-toed fellows."

There may be some departmental reason why the fair sex must be denied admission to the official ranks of the navy. But the reason must have to do with something besides bravado and nerve.

TURN ON THE SEARCHLIGHT
Full publicity in connection with the Latin American policy of the department of state at Washington was advocated by Professor Herbert I. Priestly, of the University of California, in an address before the Williamson Institute of Politics.

"The nation is entitled to know," he said, "what interests are being served by United States intervention in Latin American affairs and what the direct effect is likely to be upon the taxpayer and upon the man who serves his government's colors."

Why, it may reasonably be asked, have we not received a full report on the Nicaraguan situation? Some marines are still stationed in that country in spite of the fact that "order" has long since been restored. What interests are being served? It would seem that the department of state is entitled to a complete accounting.

In several major respects, the Hoover administration has been much more open and above-board in its international dealings than was the Coolidge-Kellogg combine. But even now we are getting the plain statements to which Professor Priestly so convincingly alludes.

SENATE PROBABLE TARIFF ACTION MAKES BILL DIGESTIBLE-STEWART

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Members of the house of representatives like Henry T. Rainey and Cordell Hull, who denounced the tariff bill, passed by their branch of congress last spring, as the worst piece of financial legislation they ever had seen in their lives, certainly have been vindicated.

The senate tariff committee's action in cutting it down, speaks for itself.

Any list of tariff rates which was too high for a group of senators, including Chairman Reed Smoot, of the committee, James E. McPherson, David A. Reed, and Samuel M. Shortridge must have been terrible.

In fact, it must have been even worse than Representatives Rainey and Hull thought, because they both predicted that the senators would boost the whole thing.

To assume that Committees Smoot, Watson, Reed and Shortridge did not want to boost it would be doing them a great injustice, however.

They left the rates as high as they believed they would be able to get the rest of the senate to endorse. Perhaps they are higher yet than they can persuade a majority to accept.

First a series of tariff hearings was held, lasting for weeks.

The minority members of the committee—Rainey, Hull, et al—were allowed to be in on that. When it came to drafting the bill, the majority locked them out, to avoid being bothered by their kicking.

From the old law—its highest tariff enactment in all previous history—the majority built up.

The task finished, the minority was given a look. All hands promptly yelled bloody murder, of course. Equally promptly, and equally of course, the house of representatives passed the bill.

Then came the senate finance committee's turn. As before, there were prolonged hearings, attended by all the members. As before, when the time arrived to draft the revised bill—revised from the representatives' majority, the committee was barred and the G. O. P. majority toiled secretly.

A few days ago the finished product was submitted to the minority, to make the most of—and gosh—it was not as high as they had expected—not as high as it was before.

So Chairman Smoot says, at any rate.

To the untrained eye, the bill is a mere jumble of figures, signifying nothing. Chairman Smoot, however, knows more about tariffs than anyone else in the world and what he says undoubtedly is right.

Under the present (the old) tariff law, collections are about $515,000,000 a year.

Chairman Smoot says the bill would provide for approximately $645,000,000, but the senate's schedule will stop in the neighborhood of $605,000,000.

In other words, the senate bill—if we get off that easily—will increase the cost of America's living only $90 millions annually; the house bill—if adopted as the house passed it—would increase it 130 millions.

If the high tariff fixers deliberately thought up this scheme—this cut from 130 to only 90 millions—it was good tactics. Even a free trader must admit that.

Ninety millions, mentioned all by itself, sounds like a sizeable sum.

Directly following a reference to 130 millions, it sounds much smaller—only 90 millions—think of that!—a mere bagatelle!

But my impression is that the senate boosters bit off only 90, not so much as a matter of clever generalship, as because they were afraid it was all they could chew at one mouthful—that the upper house would choke on the 130 which the lower one was able to masticate, with its better set of majority teeth.

It goes to prove that the senate has better table manners than the house of representatives, anyway.

REFRIGERATOR MAKERS AVOIDING USE OF POISONOUS GASES
EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the ninth of a series of articles by Dr. Morris Fishbein describing the action of poisonous gases on human beings.

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association And of Hygiene, The Health Magazine

Among the irritating gases used in refrigeration are sulphur dioxide and ammonia. Everyone knows that ammonia burns and irritates and that it is not safe to be around when ammonia is escaping.

Workers who become unconscious following an explosion and who are thus exposed to quantities of ammonia die as a result of the burning of the tissues. They do not die as a result of the absorption of the gas. It is impossible to remain in air filled with ammonia without wearing a gas mask.

Sulphur dioxide is a gas with extremely irritating properties. Sulphur dioxide under pressure in the liquid state is used in the ice machines. When a person comes in contact with sulphur dioxide, his eyes and throat are irritated. If there is any considerable amount of sulphur dioxide in the air, it is impossible to breathe.

A person who is conscious under such circumstances leaves promptly. Thus sulphur dioxide is a more poisonous gas than methyl chloride, but its use in daily life is not nearly so dangerous because it makes its presence known.

The records do not indicate a single instance of fatal poisoning from sulphur dioxide gas used in household refrigerators. When a person becomes poisoned by any irritant gas such as sulphur dioxide, the treatment is the same as that for nitrogen dioxide, thinning of the blood by bleeding, the injection of fresh blood and salt solution and the inhalation of oxygen.

It is important to know that practically all of the household refrigerators now sold have either sulphur dioxide or ammonia as the refrigerant gas. Those using methyl chloride are arranging as rapidly as possible to mix sulphur dioxide with the methyl chloride or to find some other odorless, irritating substance which will safeguard the situation.

It is likely, however, that sooner or later methyl chloride will be replaced as a household refrigerant.

It hardly seems possible that in a mere two months we shall be arguing heatedly over whether an Alabama halfback we have never seen is better than a Texas halfback we have never seen.

Anniversary Notes

On September 5, 1774, the first Continental Congress met in Carpenter Hall, Philadelphia.

Fifty-five delegates, representing all of the colonies except Georgia, attended the first assembly. They represented a population of 2,300,000.

Resolutions from various sections of the country, stating their wrongs were presented to the congressmen and a petition to the British king (the declaration of rights and grievances) was ordered, assuring him that by abolishing the system of laws and regulations of which the colonists complained, harmony would be restored.

"We ask but for peace, liberty and safety," the petition stated. "We wish not a diminution of the prerogative, nor do we solicit the grant of any new right in our favor. Your royal authority over us and our connection with Great Britain we shall always carefully and zealously endeavor to support and maintain."

The resolutions bound the colonies to a common resistance to acts of force against all, or any one of them. The representatives agreed that another congress should be held within a month unless the redress of grievances which they desired was obtained before that time.

The first Continental Congress adjourned October 26, after a secret session of 51 days.

FIRE FIGHTERS GAIN
Rains and Cooler Weather Counteract Flames

MISSOULA, Mont., Sept. 4. (AP)—Rains over a wide area and cooler weather generally over much of the burning forest area in western Montana and northern Idaho brought reports of gains by fire fighters in almost every section. Some big fires, like the Half Moon, east of Kalspell, were burning too hard for even rain to extinguish them, but with the change in the weather crews pressed rapidly toward control. Snow died the fight on the Sullivan creek fire.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4. Representatives of several live stock associations, including Day-ton Moses, of Fort Worth, president of the Southwestern Cattlemen's association; and J. H. Mercer, secretary of the Kansas Livestock association; expressed the opinion that the decree should be modified as requested by the packers.

The SHINING TALENT
By ELEANOR EARLY

THIS HAS HAPPENED
MOLLY BURNHAM, whose suitors make her miserable, is experimenting with a trial engagement. BOB NEWTON, the man on approval, is making a highly satisfactory fiancé, but Molly does not really love him. She is considering marriage with him for two reasons. First, he is the father of a little girl whom she adores, and wants for her own. The second reason is JACK WELLS. Molly loves Jack with all her heart. But he has told her flatly that he will never marry her. Molly, you see, is rich and famous. And Jack is not. He declares that he could never bear to be known as Mister Molly Burnham.

Then one day RED FLYNN, who also loves Molly, telephoned to say that Jack Wells is in town. Red is going to meet him that evening, and asks Molly if he shall bring him out to her flat. But Molly has a dinner engagement with Bob. She has promised to marry him, if the engagement proves a success. And, she means to play the game, and abide by all the rules. She tells Red that she does not want to see Jack.

Bob breaks his dinner engagement. Feeling very lonely and forsaken, Molly decides to see if she can reach Jack by phone. If Bob breaks his appointment with her, then surely she has the right to ask an old friend to call. She is crying his vexation and grief when the bell rings.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLVII
Bob found Red in the press room at the police court. Fortunately for Bob, there were no other newspapers about at the time. Because Red, when aroused, delivered himself of considerable invective.

Now he greeted Bob derisively. "Hello, Romeo."

"Where's Molly?" Demanded Bob. Red dropped his cigarette to the floor and stepped on it.

"I'm glad you dropped in, Newton," he began informally. "I've been wanting to see you for a few things. Being at Molly's, when pinning to relieve my mind, always cramped my style. Every time I had a yen to let you know what I thought of you, Molly was around."

"I didn't come here to learn your valued opinion," broke in Bob angrily. "I want you to tell me where Molly has gone with my child."

"Not so fast," soothed Red. And his exasperating calm infuriated his perturbed visitor. "Not so fast, Romeo."

Now, in police court circles, Red is more or less famous for originality and diatribe. Today he was in good form.

"Do you know what a squaw man is?" he questioned, lighting another cigarette with insulting insouciance.

Red glared at him malevolently.

"So that's the trouble, Flynn? You thought I was going to run away with your little sugar darling?"

Bob was pale and unsteady. He clutched at the edge of a desk, and looked uncertainly at Molly.

"So that's it!" he repeated.

Red's face crimsoned wrathfully. His temper, among his intimates, was proverbial. But Bob had no way of knowing that. Neither did he know that Red's smashing left was more or less famous.

Suddenly a hairy old man, with the chin the probable of a bull, stepped forward. Because at the moment it connected with his chin, he closed his eyes, and his powers of observation forthwith ceased to function.

After some moments he mumbled weakly, and tried to raise his head. He collided painfully with the top of a chair. Then, mercifully, he passed again into oblivion.

A little later someone came and three cold water in his face, and dressed brandy between his lips. They brushed off his clothes and retrieved his hat which had fallen behind a desk. Then he called a taxi, and when he had given them his address, they sent him home.

Bob was talking before that rather incoherently, of police. He wanted a warrant. And he talked of assault and battery. He surprised himself by using oaths that he had never before come to his lips. He did not, in fact, realize that he had remoted a lot of his sub-consciousness. The ugly epithets he used were applied entirely to Red, on whom he vowed a deep and dreadful vengeance.

The men who were rushing him off were newspapermen. They took the affair with a very casual air, as though they were used to finding unconscious people strewn all over the place.

"Better lay off Red," they admonished. "What chance have you got against a police court man? Naturally the boys will give him the breaks. It would be a lot of advertising that wouldn't do you any good."

Eventually he saw the wisdom of their advice. He saw that a story may be fairly presented, but with enough subtle humor to render either plaintiff or defendant absurd. Even for the sake of a verdict, he had no desire to appear ridiculous. As the reporters had said, it was natural that the newspapers should give Red a break. The inevitable conclusion would be his own presentation in the most ignominious of roles.

He was determined, however, to locate Molly, and compel the return of his child. He considered consulting a detective agency, but decided to wait for a few days. For the present, it was better that people should think Molly had gone away solely to avoid the existence of the press.

He called one of the papers and dictated a statement.

"Regretting the exploitation of her most personal affairs, Miss Burnham," he said, "has left Boston, in company with his small daughter. Neither Miss Burnham nor I have any further statement to make at this time."

Meantime the re-write men, each fortified by a copy of Ashes of Desire, were writing various "True Stories of Molly Burnham's Romance." Assuming that the book was autobiographical, they interpreted it as a message to Bob.

It was a good story. Full of heart throbs. The re-write men did not know that it was not true. There was Molly's book, from which to quote, and there were certain facts. They put two and two together. News was scarce, and a good romance is almost as good as a murder, any day. Besides, it is not often that there is such a chance for an attractive layout as Molly's romance furnished. Molly takes a very good one. Rita and two dogeys photographed by the best portrait photographers in the country. There were pictures, too, of Rita. She is a delightful child, and has been photographed often, probably than any child outside of the movies.

Considering all things then, the news editors can scarcely be blamed for plugging the story for all it was worth. On the second day, the stories were more complete than on the first. They traced Molly's phenomenal success from college days. I too, Rita and two dogeys, shooting by Doxy Dan from beginning to end. The stories of Molly's plays were told and retold. And Ashes of Desire was reviewed in a five-column spread.

Red Flynn read the first editions with a gasp. He had finished, he sent Molly a telegram.

It was addressed to Mrs. William Blake, Lenox, Mass. And it read: "My scheme all wet stop on rampage stop suggest return a once to pacify him stop no work from J. stop Guess he went back to New York."

When Molly received this cryptic message, she threw discretion to the winds and telephoned Red at the police court.

"What's Bob ramping about," she demanded. "Is he furious because I took Rita and two dogeys?"

"That's some of it," admitted Red. "The telephone's no place for confidences, old thing. Come on home, and I'll tell you."

"Is he drinking?"

"I don't know. The truth is, Molly, I don't know. You ought to be here. Yes," he prompted. "What happened? Hurry up and tell me I'm imagining the most awful things."

"Wait till I close the door," he admonished. The walls have ears around the door. Can you hear me all right, Molly?"

"Of course I can hear you, heaven's sake. Red, don't be like that!"

"Well," he drawled. "I know your fi-aney for a row of goals at night. Sweetness, oh, he's all right now. Nothing to worry about. It's a little clip on the chin. Nice and clean, right outa the picture."

"Red! You brute! What did you do that for?"

"Little private matter," he here solemnly. "I've been wanting to take a wallop at the guy for long time. Last night he come down to see me, and pretty soon took a fair one."

"But you shouldn't have struck him!" she cried.

"Well, remorse isn't gnawing away at my vitals, so don't let bother you. Sweetness, the pe is, the young man's a bit riled. If off, he was going to have me arrested for assault and battery. Be honest, I thought better of that because there haven't been process servers invading the territory of our consecrated parlor."

"It's nothing to joke about," interrupted Molly sharply. "If you infuriated Bob, he'll simply take out on me that's all."

"That being that, you might well come home. What I'm afraid of is he might get some detective agency on your trail. Then the be the device of a rumpus."

"Little sunbeam, you're speaking of a rumpus, you're right the exit, Mr. William Blake and Rouge from Lenox. Now I'll Red." Molly's voice came calmly over the wires. "Tell honestly," she coaxed. "Do you see Jack?"

"No, hide nor hair of his guess he's ditched you," he here unfeelingly. "Seems right, Molly, getting yourself gaged to an Arab like Newton."

"Oh, Red, be nice to me, be perfectly. I'm so upset. Rita's begged a dreadful cough, and worried to death. Please be just for a little while."

"All right," he promised. "on home, and I'll be nice. I plan to get in some time after. It will give you a peaceful if the crowd doesn't know back."

Deport Arabs To Express Regrets

JERUSALEM, Sept. 4. (AP)—A deputation of Arabs from Hebron where 45 Jews, including 12 Americans, were massacred on August 23, today expressed to the director of the Zionist Anglo-Palestine company regret for the trouble which occurred there.

Blame was placed on the governor of Hebron for not interfering after the first murder which occurred on the eve of the massacre. The mob interpreted his attitude as encouragement of lawlessness.

When Hebron Arabs brought vegetables and cattle to the Jerusalem market as usual yesterday Jews steadfastly refused to buy the products. Prices dropped rapidly, and the Arabs were compelled to sell to Jerusalem Arabs at very low rates or take their goods home.

Colonel Kish, chairman of the Palestine Zionist executive, who returned duty on his return from Europe yesterday, has started an investigation trip through the country.

Molly felt disaster in her bones. He had laughed at the notion. But now she felt sure that what she said was true. She could sense catastrophe in her very marrow.

It was a calamitous night. Molly drew her coat tightly about her, and shivered.

"Is daddy going to meet us?"

manded little Rita, pressing her nose to the window, as they drew into the station. "Where's daddy mama?"

"I don't know, dear," Molly changed the subject. "Won't it be nice to be home again, Rita? How would you like to have Natsur bring your little bed in mother's room tonight? Wouldn't you like that, dear?"

"And you'll tell me about when you were a little girl?" wheedled Rita. "And how Grandpa Burnham took you to the circus? And you ate the peanuts, and drank all the pink lemonade, and got sick as anything?"

"And the lions!" prompted Molly. "And the sea lion that ate all the fishes—dozens and dozens of them, Rita! And the elephant that carried the man in his mouth."

Rita's eyes were sparkling. "You tell nicer stories 'n my daddy," she approved.

Molly had thought Red might be at the station, but there was nobody there to meet them. A taxi whirled through the darkness. And Natsur, calm and unperturbed, admitted them.

"I'm not at home," she told him. "Not to anybody, Natsur."

He bowed gravely. "My lady has had many callers."

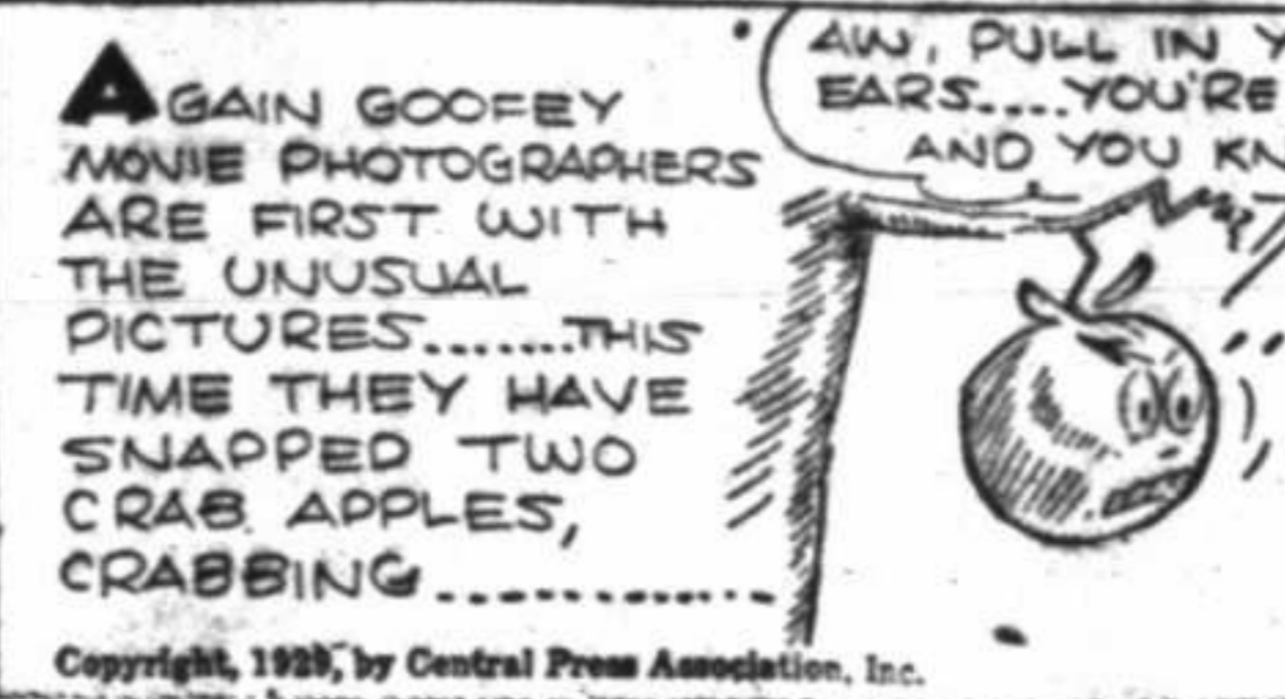

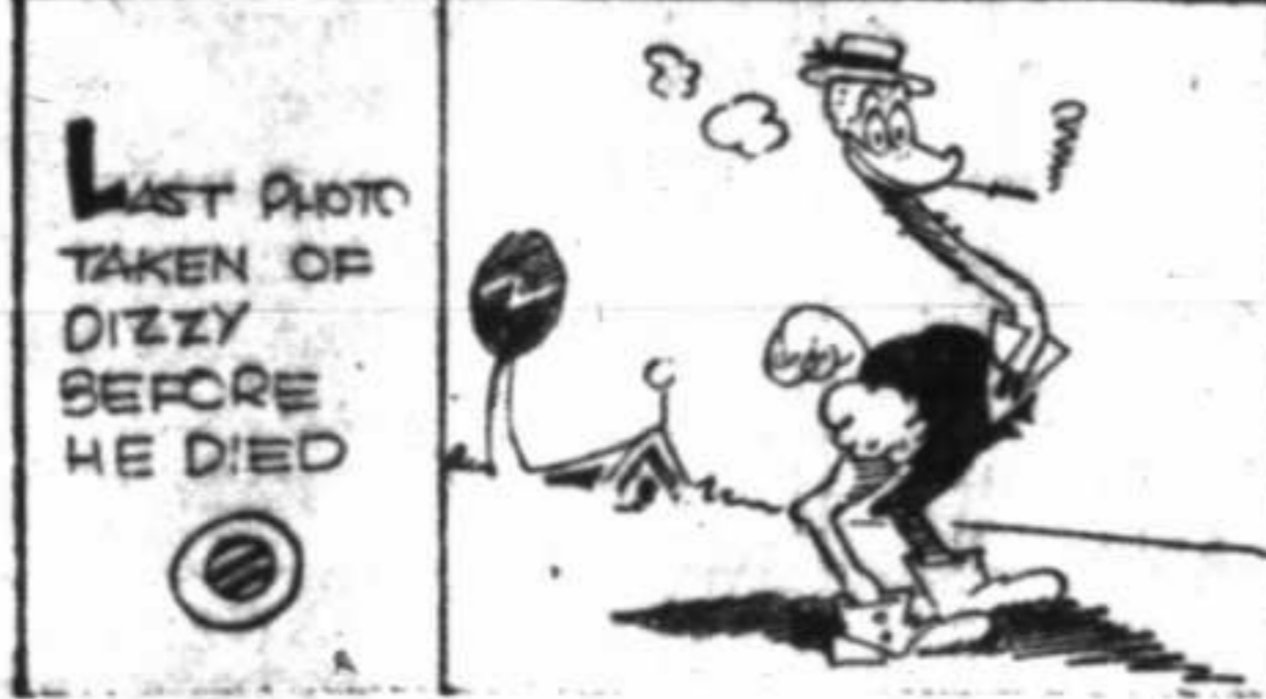

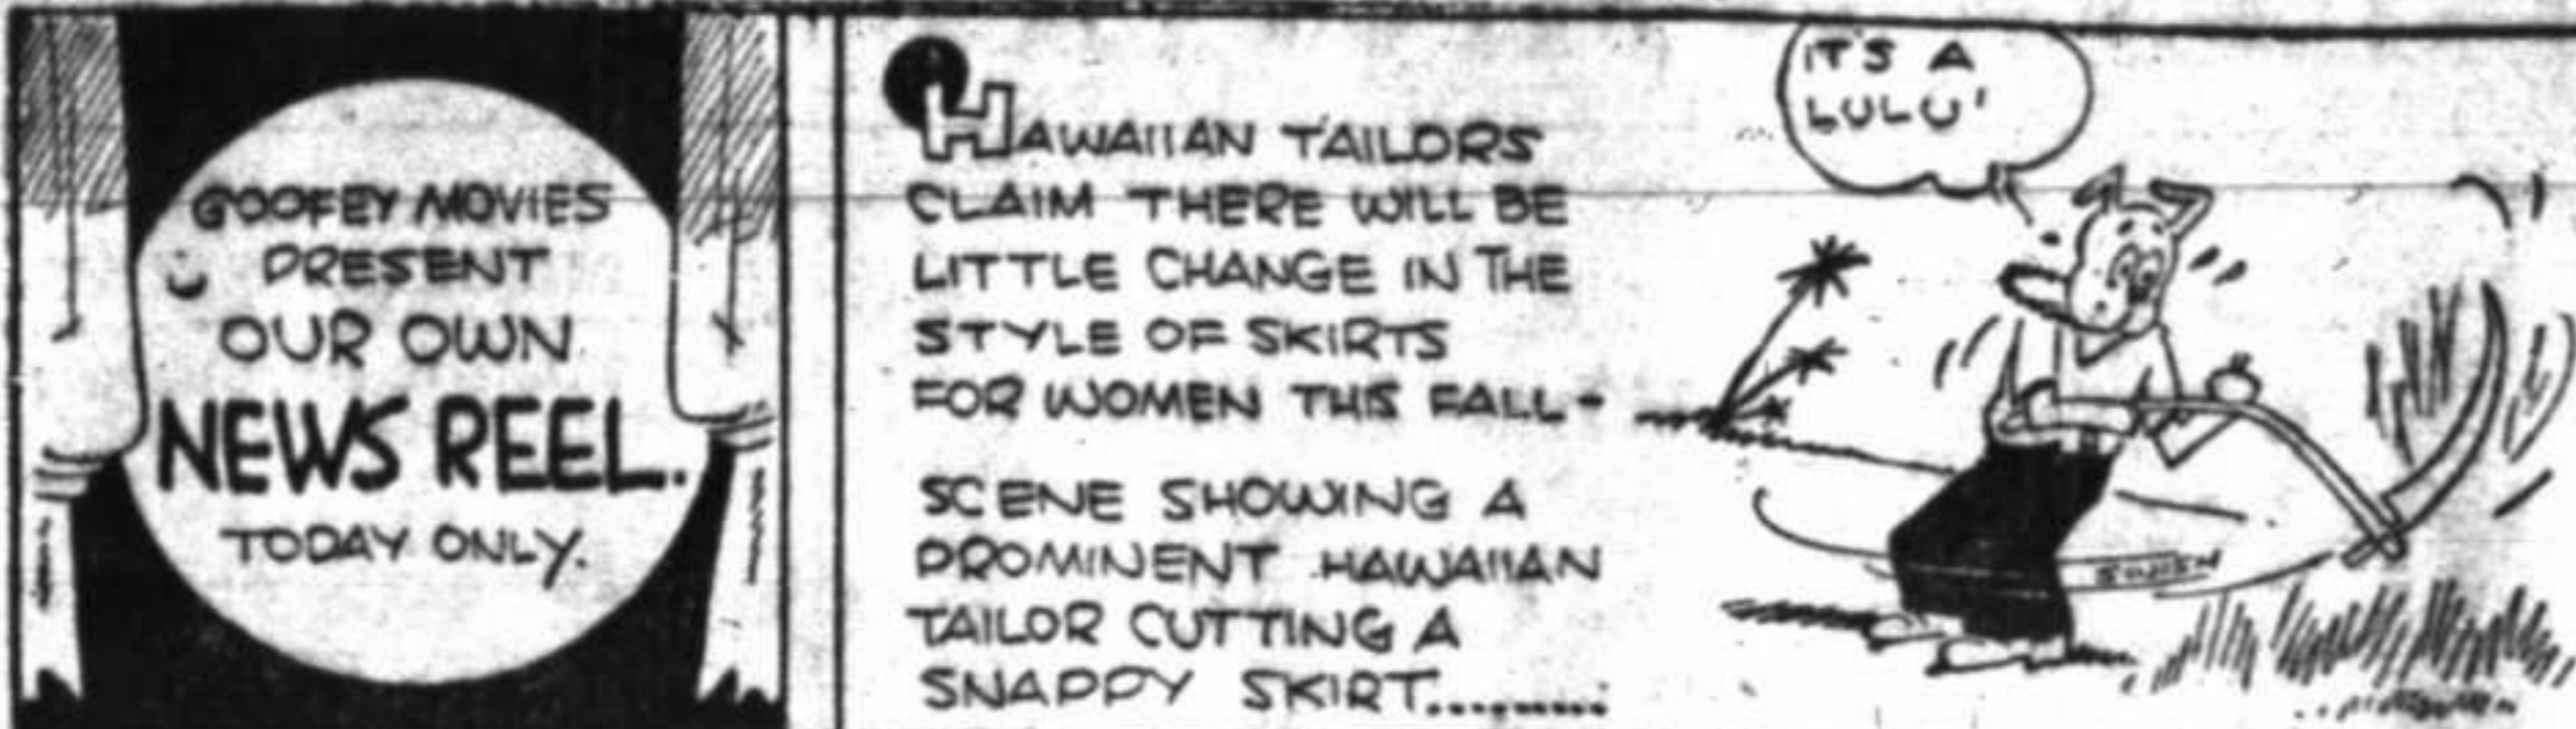

"Yes—well, I don't want to see any of them. And, Natsur, please move Miss Rita's bed into my room."

Molly chided herself for her fears. They were quite childish, really. She had an absurd notion that Bob would try to kidnap Rita from her nursery. It was better that the child should remain with her.

"And, Natsur, be sure you lock the doors very securely tonight."

Wheat Market Pushed Downgrade Pressure Finds Market In Vulnerable Condition To Send Down Values Despite Argentina Clear Weather

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN Editor of the Press Market Editor WAGO, Sept. 4. (AP)—Pressure on wheat market found it vulnerable today and despite continued weather in Argentina prices were pushed down. There was a demand for wheat both here and abroad and available world supply showed a big increase. There was pressure on other grains, but corn and oats stubbornly resisted at the end, while wheat was near the low point of the session. Wheat finished 1 3/4 to 2 1/2 cents lower and corn 3/4 to 1 1/2 lower. Provisions held at the same as yesterday's with a few lower, bellies showing a loss.

Wheat Stocks Shows Breadstuffs showed the world's available wheat stocks to be 345,000,000 bushels against 180,000,000 a year ago, an increase of 75,000,000 bushels. Today's deliveries to 187,000 bushels of wheat and 17,000 bushels of other grain to be shipped were a bit higher than a year ago.

Rains (Continued From Page One) ...rounding sections were being visited by beneficial downfalls. While the seeming break in the long summer drought came late, the moisture is expected to be of some benefit to cotton and late feed. During the past days of hot weather cotton has been opening fast and the growth of the stalk, the size of the bloom and help to lengthen the staple it is said. Green fall pasturing will be materially aided and with good pasturing farmers will be able to conserve their feed supply.

Braves Beat Out Giants In Tenth NEW YORK, Sept. 4. (AP)—The Braves defeated the Giants 8 to 7 in 10 innings here today. The excessive heat brought about numerous pitching changes, the Giants employing five batters and the Braves three.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4. (AP)—Resolutions asking for negotiations of a new peace treaty, additional flood relief for southeastern states and participation of the selection of federal grand jurors in South Carolina were introduced today by Senator Hearn, democrat, South Carolina, as the senate got down to work after a summer recess.

Nominations (Continued From Page One) ...to center on Alexander Legge of Chicago, chairman and business representative, and on Samuel R. McKelvie, of Nebraska, wheat representative. McKelvie is a political foe of Senator Morris, republican, Nebraska.

REGAINS HEALTH AFTER 2 YEARS OF SUFFERING

Lubbock Farmer's Daughter Declares Orgatone Only Medicine That Ever Brought Her Relief

Any person suffering from stomach trouble learns to expect great distress after a meal. Headaches and dizziness are common symptoms and as restless night follows restless night, the body becomes so run-down that the sufferer is exhausted by slight effort.

"About two years ago I began to have spells of stomach trouble," she continued. "I was operated on for appendicitis and ever since have been so generally run-down that what food I ate bothered me, and I suffered from sour stomach and gas, and became so nervous that I couldn't sleep at night. Also I had liver trouble and had frequent headaches. I had this 'flu' about six months ago and all this helped to get me in a most serious condition."

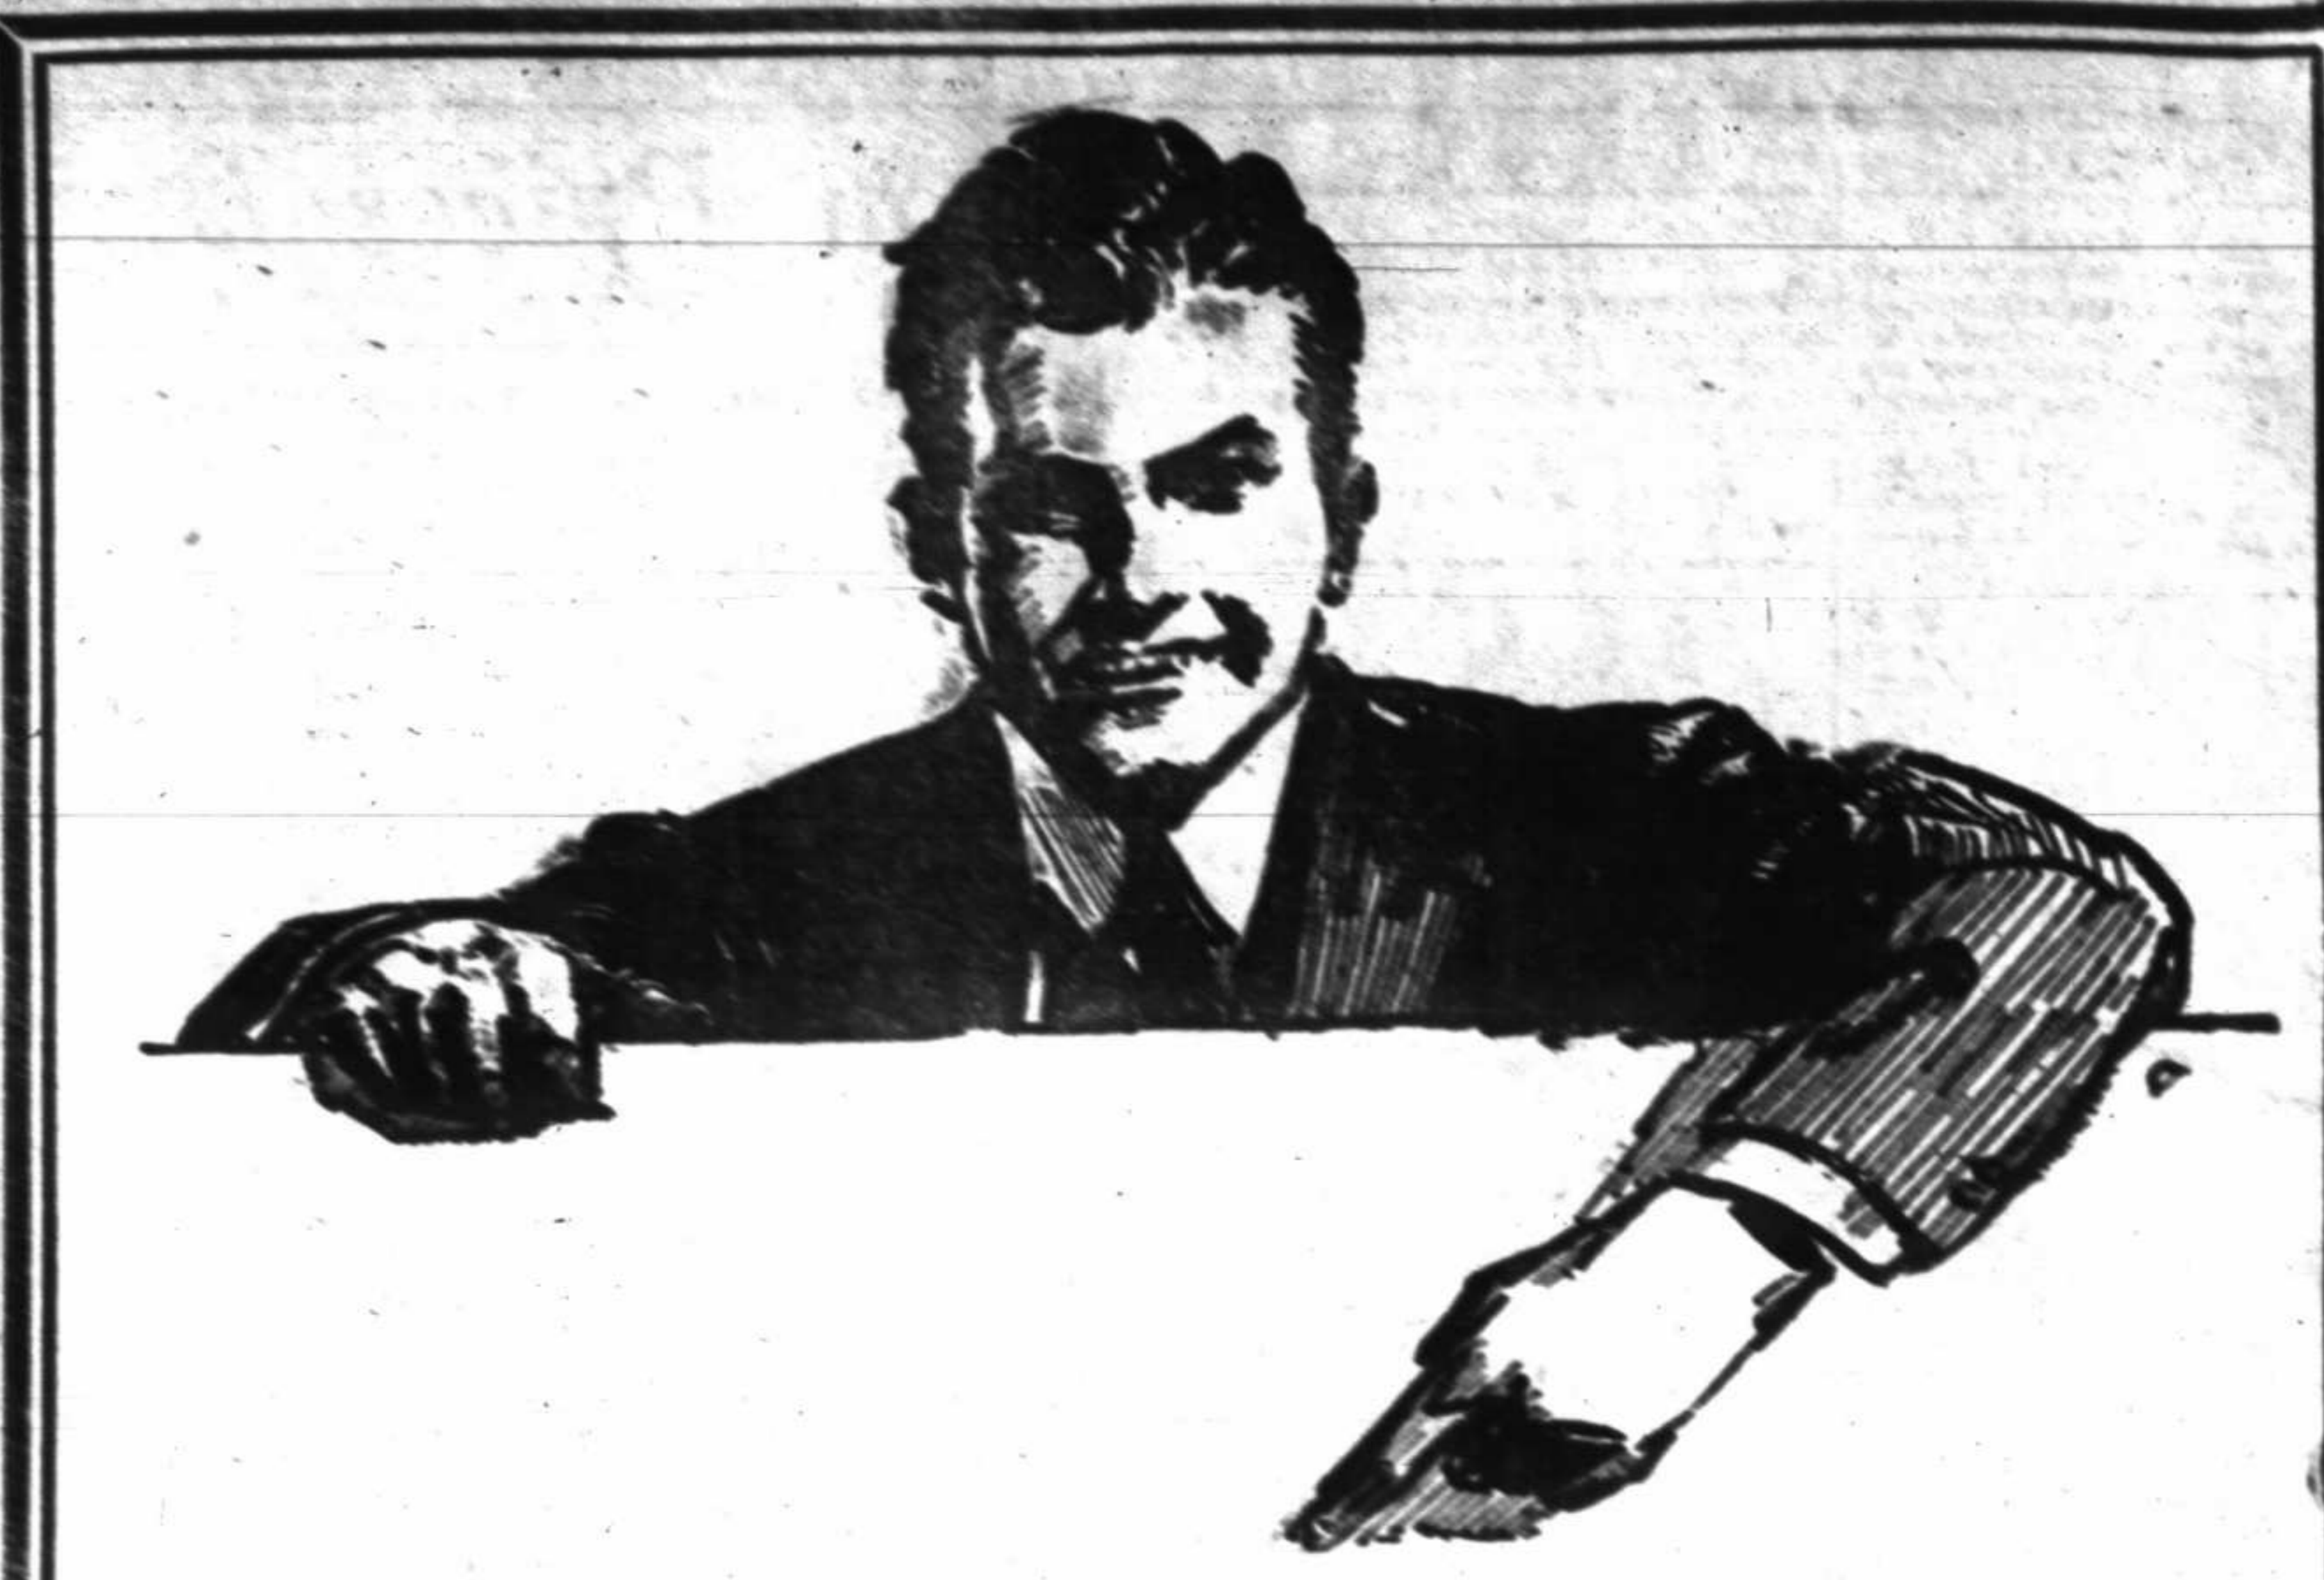

"A FRIEND RECOMMENDED Orgatone to me and I began the treatment. In a short time I could see some improvements in my condition and I continued taking the medicine until my tired exhausted feeling has disappeared and I have no ambition I'm no longer troubled with indigestion, gas or sourness, but enjoy eating my meals. I sleep soundly and rise refreshed and rested in the morning. I have told some of my friends about Orgatone and they are taking it on my recommendation. Orgatone is certainly a good medicine and will do what they say that it will."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific bile treatment containing no alcohol or other stimulating drugs and is sold in Lubbock exclusively by the Bureau's Drug Store who are direct laboratory agents.
