Texan Makes Fiery Appeal For Charter

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Senator Tom Connally told the Senate today there was blood on the wall of the chamber to show where the League of Nations was "slaughtered" and asked for a vote that will convince the world this nation is truly behind the United Nations charter.

Opening debate on ratification of the 50-nation agreement for a world organization designed to keep the peace, the Texan said that there was ample evidence of overwhelming approval.

Others Fear Senate

But "the other nations are still fearful of the United States Senate," he added and pointed a finger at the back wall as he went on:

"They know that the League of Nations was slaughtered here in this chamber.

"Can't you see the blood—there it is on the wall."

The speech by the chairman of the foreign relations committee started a week of formal discussion on the document, and was backed up by an imposing show of bipartisan support.

Confident that the Senate will ratify the charter drawn at San Francisco, two of its authors—Connally and Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) told their stories in less than an hour and a half.

On an issue of such weight these probably were two of the shortest main speeches in Senate records.

Ratification Believed Sure

There were other signs that ratification is a foregone conclusion. Both Connally and Vandenberg were applauded vigorously as they pleaded for U. S. participation in world councils.

Other senators took their cues apparently from the opening speakers who indicated there was little more to be said after the extensive San Francisco oratory and the week long hearings in the Senate Foreign Relations committee. By midafternoon debate lagged, got off on other topics. Connally finally felt called on to urge the senators not to hold back but to speak their minds.

Chairman of the committee that approved the treaty 21 to 1, Connally presented it formally as the Senate convened at noon and told the legislators the whole world is waiting for the action here, first.

Courage In Peace

"We had the courage to go to war . . . Shall we lack the courage to accept responsibilities?" he asked. "Can't we show some of that same courage in the cause of peace?"

"I hope the Senate will ratify this charter by a vote that will resound 'around the world."

Other senators joined in, commenting:

Senator Chavez (D-NM)—"I believe it is in the interest of my country and humanity."

O'Daniel (D-Tex)—It is the "best possible instrument" and should be ratified as quickly as possible.

ODT Head Flays Troop Movement

WASHINGTON, July 23. (AP) — Col. J. Monroe Johnson, the nation's transportation chief, complained to Congress today that the Army kept him in the dark on redeployment plans and is building up such a load the railroads simply can't carry it.

"Something must give way," the Office of Defense Transportation director testified before the Senate War Investigating committee.

The Army, he said, failed to consult him in drawing up a 10-month transportation program, and then speeded up troop return from Europe even beyond the planned rate.

60 Trains Daily

Johnson said about 60 troop trains are moving daily now and the number will certainly reach 100 and may go higher.

"Every troop train diminishes the capacity of the railroads to handle freight by perhaps two trains," he explained.

He added:

"It was a mistake which has not been corrected for the Army to bring the number of men which have arrived, irregularly and subject to violent fluctuations in numbers, into the country and to this increase its demands for transpor-

Circulation Of Big Bills On Decline

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Large-denomination currency in circulation continued to decrease in June for the fourth straight month.

Treasury figures show a striking reversal of trend in $100, $500, and $1,000 bills around March. Their use had been expanded for years and suddenly began going down.

Government economists are agreed that this development is connected with the Treasury's drive on tax evasion; also on reports that spread last spring that the government was considering calling in big bills.

HST Wins Important Aims At Conference

Cordial Friendship Developed With Stalin; Parley Moves Toward End

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press Staff Writer

POTSDAM, July 23—President Truman was reported tonight to have won important American aims at the Big Three conference and to have established a cordial friendship with Premier Stalin that produced unexpected Russian concessions.

A spokesman for the U. S. delegation said the Big Three had met again today—their seventh day of conferences—and "are driving ahead."

Sources close to the chief executive said he and Stalin have established the most cordial relationship and have reached a stage of understanding considered impossible before the meeting opened.

End Believed Near

The belief prevailed that Truman, in his debut as an international negotiator, had achieved a substantial understanding with the Russians on impending developments in the Japanese war.

Prospects for an early conclusion of the Big Three parley appeared enhanced tonight.

It was learned reliably that Prime Minister Churchill would give a state dinner tonight as the last of a series of such Big Three functions in Potsdam.

A tight-lipped silence was maintained in the Allied compounds about concrete matters already agreed upon by the conferees.

The President, however, was believed to have had "two strings to his bow" in frank talks with his two greatest allies on the way to bring order out of the chaos of war.

Firstly, he appeared to believe it was not impossible that Japan's saner militarists and wealthiest industrialists might at last join hands in seeking peace so as to avoid heavy occupation of the home islands.

Secondly, if Japan's leaders persisted in their suicidal course, he wanted to assure employment of Allied forces, including those of the Soviet Union, in such a coordinated manner that the greatest blows would be struck at the most vulnerable points of enemy imperial defenses.

One of the best-kept secrets of the Yalta conference concerns what tentative agreement Stalin may have assented to with the late President Roosevelt and Churchill regarding Far Eastern hostilities. To Allied observers in Moscow, for example, it has seemed obvious that the continuing of large lend-lease shipments to Vladivostok depends upon some still-secret terms.

The impression given by the smooth, work-a-day advance of the Potsdam meeting was that serious hitches concerning the Far East have not arisen.

SURPRISING MOVE

NEW YORK, July 23—Reporter Roy Porter of the National Broadcasting company said in a broadcast from Berlin tonight that part of the American delegation to the Big Three conference already has left Germany and other members are preparing to leave for "a new and surprising destination."

"It is possible to say tonight," Porter declared, "that a part of the American delegation already has left Potsdam. Who they are and what they will do is another one of those prohibited subjects, prohibited this time by security rather than political significance.

"Another section of the American group is getting ready to leave on another leg of the trip which will take the group from Washington into an entirely new territory which will be as much of a surprise to you as it was to me when I first heard about it."

Action Against University Directed 'At All Involved'

(By The Associated Press)

Action of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in placing the University of Texas on probation was "a criticism of the relationship between Dr. Rainey and the regents, directed at all involved," the association's new president said Monday.

Dr. W. J. McConnell, newly elected association head and president of North Texas State Teachers college, made his statement as he was returning from the Memphis, Tenn., meeting of the association.

He, registrar E. J. Mathews of the university, and acting University of Texas President T. S. Painter asserted the probation would not affect transfer of credits at the school.

Announced Sunday

The executive committee of the association following recommendation of a committee named to investigate conditions at the university which involved dismissal of Dr. Homer P. Rainey as president last Nov. 1, announced its action in Memphis Sunday.

The investigating committee, saying it had found each side in the controversy "believed it was totally, exclusively right, and the opposition totally wrong," levelled criticism both at regents and Dr. Rainey.

From Dudley K. Woodward, jr., chairman of the present board of regents, came a statement that conditions at the university "from the standpoint of teaching, scholarship, and research, were never more favorable than at this time."

Regent C. O. Terrell of Fort Worth said he believed there would be no academic repercussions at the university because of the probation; that he did not feel that rules of tenure had been violated, and that the "regents" position has been tenable and justifi-

Anger Marks Opening Of Petain Trial

By LOUIS NEVIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, July 23.—Marshal Henry Philippe Petain went on trial for his life today amid angry catcalls and disorderly courtroom uproars, and asserted that, far from betraying France, he had "prepared the road to liberation."

Proudly displaying the medals France had given him, the 89-year-old former Vichy chief of state answered charges of intelligence with France's hereditary enemy, Germany, and plotting against the security of France, by saying:

"I sacrificed my prestige for the French people. If I've treated with the enemy it was to spare you."

Bitter Facts Unrolled

In a jammed and noisy courtroom, once cleared by gendarmes carrying tommyguns, the fallen giants of France unrolled the bitter facts of France's 1940 defeat as Petain sat calmly before the high court of justice and a 24-man jury.

The old marshal's own assertion from the prisoner's dock that as Vichy chief he was "shield and buckler" protecting the French people was followed by testimony from Paul Reynaud—the premier who brought Petain into the French government—that the marshal was responsible for the armistice despite a solemn pact with Britain not to make a separate peace.

Reynaud's voice quivered with emotion when he described as his "monumental error" his belief that the patriotism of Petain and Gen. Maxime Weygand "was greater than their political aims and their personal ambitions."

Reynaud Despises Him

"I despise him," Reynaud said. In a clipped almost breathless voice, Reynaud declared that as premier in June 1940 he was determined to remove the French government to North Africa and continue the war. Petain, he charged, opposed the plan and he was afraid of Petain's prestige and of the effect on France if Petain resigned as vice-premier.

Petain, his face expressionless through most of the session, stirred uneasily only when his enemy stepped briskly into the witness box within arm's reach. Their eyes never met. The old soldier cupped his ear to hear Reynaud more clearly.

When the tumultuous first day of the trial ended after threats to arrest the spectators, Reynaud, a prosecution witness, still was on the stand, his statement only one-third completed. The trial will resume at 1 p.m. (7 a.m. ewt) tomorrow.

High point of the trial's first session was a six-page declaration Petain asked to read after the names of the prosecution witnesses were called. Nearly 90 witnesses have been summoned for the trial, the list including former Premiers Leon Blum, Edouard Daladier, Edouard Herriot and former French President Albert Lebrun.

Petain said his statement would be his only words during the trial, the first of the head of a French government since King Louis XVI was convicted and gulllitoned in 1793 for "treating with the enemy."

Cpl. James Newman Said 'Much Better'

FORT WORTH, July 23 (AP)—Cpl. James E. Newman, who has lived under an oxygen tent for the past two days, spent a restful day today. His condition remained "much better."

According to his sister, Mrs. Billie Fitch, he had a good night Sunday night, and slept most of this afternoon. However, she said, when he was awake, it was necessary to give him injections of morphine at intervals of about four hours to ease his suffering.

Corporal Newman received the Purple Heart by mail Monday, and at least 200 letters, including two from England, one from South Africa, and one from Canada.

He ate lightly today, seeming to relish a biscuit with gravy, one of his staple foods since being flown home after three years in a Jap prison camp, suffering from tuberculosis and malnutrition.

Different Bombing Slant Used On Jap

EL CENTRO, Calif., July 23 (AP)—A different slant on bombing was used when First Lt. Wendell M. Browning, Marine Corsair pilot, Edwardsville, Ill., surprised a Jap fighter taking off at Kanoya airfield, Tokyo, it was reported at the Marine corps air station here today.

After sighting the Jap, Browning altered his course a bit and let go with a 500-pound bomb which caught the climbing Jap in mid-air.

Record B-29 Armada Rocks Osaka, Nagoya

WHAT DEFEAT PROBABLY MEANS FOR JAPAN—Picto-map above illustrates highlights of probable peace terms Allies will impose upon Japan in case of unconditional surrender. Aimed at stripping the enemy of conquered territory and wiping out his capacity for future war, they include reduction of army and destruction of Jap fleet and air force; elimination of heavy industry with war production potentials; surrender of all conquered territory (indicated by black areas on map), including Manchuria, Korea and Formosa, not already recaptured; dismantling of shipbuilding facilities and strict control over imports.

Skies Filled By Air Giants

By AL DOPKING
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, Tuesday, July 24. — A record-breaking strike by more than 600 B-29s attacked industrial targets in the Osaka-Nagoya region with nearly 4,000 tons of explosives at noon today.

It was the first Superfort strike in daylight in nearly a month.

The Superforts, splitting into several task forces, swooped brazenly without fighter escort at altitudes ranging from medium to high and dropped their loads of demolition bombs, weighing from 500 to 4,000 pounds each.

Spread Out For Miles

The giant B-29s spread out for miles overhead like great silvery sharks as they caught two of Japan's most highly industrialized areas just at lunch time.

It was the first daylight strike on the Japanese home islands since June 26, when 10 aircraft and airplane parts factories in four Honshu industrial areas were hit by nearly 500 B-29s.

Maj. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, commander of the 20th Air force, did not immediately announce the number of targets on today's schedule, but it was likely the B-29s had several objectives as they struck from the largest force yet sent over Japan.

This was the third raid by more than 600 planes, but headquarters said that while exact figures would not be released, today's was the largest attack yet.

Second Largest City

Osaka, population 3,250,000, is Japan's second largest city. It has iron, steel, electrical, aluminum, oil, airplane, and shipbuilding industries.

It has been attacked five times previously, the first in March and four in June.

For Nagoya, one of Japan's four largest industrial centers and an important aircraft manufacturing city, this was the 17th attack by Superforts.

Since June 26, the Superforts have been concentrating on incendiary blows against smaller enemy cities as profitable targets were becoming harder and harder to find in debris of the oft-bombed larger cities.

Since Feb. 25, the B-29s' incendiaries burned out more than 140

Carrier Planes Batter Big Naval Base At Kure In 'Great Strength'

By MURLIN SPENCER
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, Tuesday, July 24.—Carrier planes of the U. S. Third Fleet are attacking the Japanese naval base at Kure, on Japan's inland sea, in "great strength" in an assault which began at dawn and is still in progress.

It was the second onslaught against a major enemy naval base in seven days, planes of the same force having heavily damaged the Japanese battleship Nagato and sunk 12 other ships at Yokosuka last Wednesday.

Details Not Given

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, who announced the present strike, gave no details. His terse communique said merely that the attack was on "military targets in the vicinity of Kure, in western Honshu." His use of the term "great strength," however, indicated that it was among the heaviest carrier-plane strikes of the war.

Previous use of the term has meant at least 1,000 planes were involved.

Nimitz also announced that on Sunday light units — probably cruisers and destroyers — of the Pacific fleet shelled Paramushiro in the northern Japanese Kurile islands but that fog obscured results. Since he specified the Pacific fleet, this force undoubtedly was from Aleutian waters, part of the Ninth Fleet of Vice Adm. Frank Jack Fletcher.

On the same day, Sunday, American destroyers attacked enemy shipping directly off the coast of Chekiang province, China, south of Shanghai.

Several small craft were sunk

Great Mass U. S. Raid Bewilders Germans; Many SS Men Captured

By JAMES F. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

FRANKFURT ON THE MAIN, July 23—In perhaps the greatest mass raid in history, half a million American soldiers searched every house in the U. S. occupation zone of Germany over the week-end for weapons, ammunition and loot and arrested 80,000 persons, many of them SS men who had been hunted as war criminals.

Fifteen million Germans in the American zone, taken by surprise, were bewildered and scared, but offered no resistance. Only two tried to escape the search. One was shot to death.

Brig. Gen. Edwin L. Sibert, of Vinyard Haven, Mass., head of the G-2 (Intelligence) division of U. S. forces in the European theater, said guns, ammunition and loot, such as American uniforms, K-rations, gasoline and vehicles, were seized but there was no sign of an organized German underground.

Transition To Positive

"The raid marks the passing from a negative to a positive line of action," Sibert said. "We wanted to act before there was even a chance of anyone coming up and hitting up in the face."

He added "it upset the civilian population quite a bit, which is good."

Sibert explained the Germans had been given a week of grace, ending July 20, in which to turn over all weapons, ammunition, radio transmitters and other forbidden articles without fear of punishment. Those caught with such properties face trials in which the death sentence can be applied.

Strike At Daylight

Using "tallyho" as a code word, the American troops struck at daylight Saturday. They wanted every vehicle, including U. S. Army jeeps, checked the papers of civilians and soldiers, and swept through every German house from cellar to attic.

Sibert said the raid was ordered three weeks ago but perfect security was maintained. Censorship on the arrests was lifted today.

Sibert said many SS men posing as discharged wehrmacht prisoners of war were arrested.

Col. Thomas Sands, who led the raid, described those arrested as more of the "criminal element" than anything else and objected vigorously to any reference to them as "werewolves." He said those seized would get "rough treatment."

Legality Of Sugar Purchase Doubted

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—The department of agriculture is hesitating to purchase Cuba's sugar for two years ahead for fear it is not legal to do so.

The purchasing agency, the Commodity Credit corporation, has only until July 1, 1947, to run under present law, and the 1947 crop could not be delivered until after that date.

Barrage Balloon No Bar To Yank Pilots

EL CENTRO, Calif., July 23 (AP)—Barrage balloons weren't on the target schedule. But on a run over Kanoya airfield, Tokyo, pilots of Task Force 58 suddenly came upon a balloon shrouded by low clouds.

Leader of the squadron, Marine 2nd Lt. Robert H. Cook, 25, Sidney, Ia., set the gas bag afire with gun bursts. The other pilots followed Cook through the flaming ring like some grotesque circus act to score a direct hit on their objective.

Air Blows Sink 14 Jap Vessels

MANILA, Tuesday, July 24 (AP)—Widespread air blows sank 14 Japanese ships and small craft over the week-end, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today as the Tokyo radio claimed that Shanghai again was pounded by more than 100 of his bombers and fighters.

The enemy said the new Shanghai attack struck air fields in Shanghai's suburbs and installations on the Bund along the Whangpoo river Sunday.

Long-range bombers of the Seventh Fleet and the 13th Air force attacked 95 enemy watercraft ranging from junks and luggers to small freighters and gunboats in patrols around China coast, Formosa, Indo-China and Borneo.

Gulf Shipping Pounded

A concentraion of enemy shipping in the Gulf of Siam was pounded for the second Saturday, Navy Liberators leaving a medium freighter sinking and another damaged outside Hatien harbor and a small freighter and a barge sunk inside the harbor.

Later 13th Air force Liberators appeared and bombed two small Japanese gunboats, a medium freighter and three small cargo ships.

Liberators sank eight cargo craft off the coast of Formosa. Mariners strafed 20 junks near Hong Kong, attacked 20 schooners near Amoy and ran down a barge laden with 20 Japanese soldiers in Swatow harbor.

A schooner was sunk off the coast of Indo-China and two barges were sunk in raids on the Lesser Sunda islands south of Borneo.

Eleventh Post In Cabinet Discussed

WASHINGTON, July 23. (AP)—A proposal to create an eleventh cabinet post—secretary of the department of welfare and security—rendered uncertain today the political future of Paul V. McNutt.

McNutt is war manpower commissioner and director of the Federal Security agency. The suggested new department would take over the half-dozen or more agencies now loosely attached to FSA.

McNutt is absent from Washington on a rehabilitation mission to the Philippines, and hence there was no immediate comment from him on the proposal, which is under study by other government officials.

At the Commerce department, meanwhile, it was learned that Secretary Henry A. Wallace is planning a thorough reorganization which might also require congressional action he wishes to re-shape commerce for better promotion of business activity after the war.

Gallup Poll Shows Nation Solidly Behind United Nations Plan

U. S. Public 20-1 For Charter

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J.—If the question of ratifying the United Nations charter were put before the people of the United States in a special national referendum, the result would show a vote overwhelmingly in favor of adopting the charter.

GALLUP

Through the development of scientific opinion polling it is possible to report with accuracy how voters would likely divide on the issue if such a referendum were held.

A total of 39,500,000 would be in favor of ratifying the charter, while 2,000,000 would be opposed.

In terms of percentages this is 96 per cent in favor, 4 per cent against.

As in all elections, a sizable additional number — about 18,500,000 in this instance — would probably not take the trouble to vote, either because they have no opinion on the charter issue, or no information about it. In precentages this total is 31 per cent.

Exclusive of these non-voters, sentiment would stand approximately 20-to-1 in favor of ratification. If, as some political observers in Washington report, there will be only about six votes in the Senate against ratification, then the division of the vote in the Senate will closely parallel the division of votes through the country on the charter question. The Senate debate on ratification started Monday.

Polling precedures are, in effect, unofficial sampling referenda. The procedure is one of questioning voters in all walks of life selected in such a manner as to form a true cross-section of the country. Election forecasts in the United States and in other countries demonstrate that these sampling procedures have foretold the outcome of elections and referenda on issues with an error of generally less than 4 per cent, and frequently less than 2 per cent.

National opinion on the charter issue was sounded on the following question:

"Should the United States Senate approve the United Nations charter for a world organization as adopted at the San Francisco conference?"

The vote in terms of percentages is as follows:

Yes	66%
No	3
No Opinion	31

Approval of the charter is high

The Woman's Angle

By JAMIE HYATT
(Pinch-hitting for Margaret Turner, now on vacation.)

THE subject of traffic regulation in Lubbock has hit the big time in the past few weeks, what with the Police department running in high gear trying to get a few points clear with pedestrians and motorists alike. If you haven't been whistled at by a cop (with a whistle, of course) in the past few weeks, you haven't really lived. Or else you haven't been downtown.

The police department is getting pretty touchy about such misdemeanors as stepping off the curb before the light turns red and crossing the street anywhere except at the corner where you're supposed to. After all, it's for your own good, says copsy, since he knows most of the cars don't have brakes to brag about any more. For some of the things the Police force doesn't like about motorists, we might mention double-parking, running lights and making turns on Broadway where you don't make turns anymore.

In conversation with a member of the force after he followed us in a cafe the other day (we thought we were getting arrested for jay-walking), he told us that out of six people he stopped one day, only one of them had a driver's license. It's a peculiar thing about traffic policemen, but they think when they stop a motorist for some minor infringement on the rules, he should have a license for pedaling his scooter.

TO obtain a driver's license, all one has to do is go down to the Highway Patrol office, 1314 Ave. Q, take a written examination on rules and regulations, have his eyes tested, and then drive for the nice patrolman who will see if you really knew what you were talking about when you answered the written questions. All of this may seem silly to people who have been getting away with all but murder in the 20 or 30 years they have been driving a motor vehicle, but it's not silly for a thinking person who realizes that automobile accidents could compile a casualty list every day comparable to the ones issued by the War department.

As Bob Stinnett of the Texas Highway Public Safety department so aptly put it, "Nobody yet has passed a driver's test with a 100 per cent grade, and we don't ever expect anybody to. Even the best drivers are careless on some points, and that's nothing against them as drivers, but still, they aren't perfect. Not but 38 out of 100 applicants at our office get their driver's license on their first test, and some of them don't get in on their fifth. But our department will not issue a license to any but drivers who can measure up to the standards of the state."

WE heard Stinnett talk to a civic club on the work of the highway patrol and were so interested in what he said that we called him and asked if women fall very far behind men in passing their driver's tests. In his own words, as well as we remember them, he said, "Of course only about one-third as many women as men apply for licenses, but of that per cent, the average woman passes her tests as easily, if not more easily, than the average man."

Incidentally, do you know who made the highest grade on the actual driving part of the examination ever made in the Lubbock district? A negro boy who couldn't read or write. His grade was 97, which shows what kind of grade must have been made by some of our "average" drivers. He was coached on signals, highway sign recognition, turns, lane changes, and all the in and outs of proper driving technique, by his boss, and he didn't take his exam till he had it all down pat.

AS for us, we're going to drop by the Highway department office on our way home from work and get one of their little books on what to do and why. Then we're going down and take our driving test before they catch us using that out-of-state license. (That's just a five-dollar fine, we hear tell. As far as your car is concerned, you're a resident of Texas if you've worked in the state so much as one day).

HAVE you had a driver's license lately?

Amarillo Wedding Is Announced Here

Announcement is being made here of the wedding of Miss Anna Ruth Lawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Lawson of Amarillo, and Pfc. Guy Brown, former Lubbock resident, which took place in the home of the bride's parents July 19.

The double ring ceremony was read before an improvised altar with the living-room fireplace as a background. Decorations were ferns, palms, bouquets of pink gladioli and white tapers in branched candelabra.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white crepe dress with a bodice of beaded net. A white halo hat held her fingertip length veil in place. She carried a white Bible topped with gardenias and white satin streamers.

Feeders And Farmers Gather From Area For Feeding Course At Tech

Approximately 75 livestock feeders, county agents and farmers gathered at Texas Technological college's Agriculture building Monday for the opening session of Tech's fifth livestock feeding short course. The course will continue through Thursday with daily morning and afternoon sessions.

Citing the rising cost of land and labor, and cautioning that these factors should be kept in mind throughout the meeting, Dean A. H. Leidigh welcomed the group.

Ray C. Mowery, professor of animal husbandry at the college, presided when talks were heard by W. L. Stangel, head of the animal husbandry department, and F. G. Harbaugh, professor in the same department and Mowery.

Stangel Presides Today

Stangel will preside over today's meeting opening at 9 o'clock. The course is scheduled to conclude Thursday at noon.

Stangel spoke Monday of the college's holding of the course during a bad feed year but said that it should be studied at all times, and just as carefully handled during an abundant year as during one like the present.

He spoke of two types of feeds, roughage and concentrate — the former most adaptable in this area. Concentrates, he said, are more valuable on the alcohol market while roughage is only for stock.

Cheapest Production

He went into detail on the various types of roughage including fodders, silages, stover, straws, hays, hulls and discussed the problems and advantages of each. He said that the cheapest production in all livestock feeding (sheep and beef) comes from roughage.

Under concentrates Stangel listed grains, grain by-products, barley, corn, oats, grain sorghums, wheat, oil bearing seeds, packing house by-products and sugar refinery by-products. Various types of these divisions were discussed especially the oil bearing seeds, including cottonseed, peanuts, flax and soy bean.

Harbaugh Talks On Parasites

Harbaugh closed the morning's session with a talk on "Parasites Affecting Feedlot Animals." He described several of the most common threats to good production, their life cycles and remedies for each. Listed as one of the most important, and most overlooked, was having a place for drenching, or dipping, the stock with that particular spot used for no other purpose, so as to be rid of the parasites permanantly. Otherwise, he said, "they will just walk around the block and re-enter the stock."

After lunch Mowery gave his talk on "Lambing-down Milo." He distributed charts showing in minute detail the results of college experiments during the past several years with evidence of profit shown.

Feeding Methods Told

Mowery told how lambs during the first 28 days of the first trial were lotted each night and fed their supplemental feed in the morning before being turned into the field. The first day they were allowed out only 20 minutes and the time increased daily until they were left in the open all day. During the second trial they were taken to the field and not removed. No shelter was available.

Where the field milo was supplemented with alfalfa hay as compared to supplementing with sumac sorghum fodder and cottonseed mean, the table Mowery exhibited showed the gain $2.92 per hundredweight more economical. The profit was 52 cents more per lamb.

The day's session was ended by a round-table discussion and a demonstration by Mowery and John White, senior Agriculture student, on hog and sheep judging.

J. M. Jones, head of the division of range animal husbandry at the experiment station at College Station, will open the meeting today with a talk on "Amarillo Grazing Experiments." John H. Knox, head of the department of animal husbandry at Nex Mexico college of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, will speak at 10 o'clock this morning on "Meeting Protein Requirements of Range Cattle." "Three-Way Cattle' will be the subject of a talk at 11 a. m. by R. E. Dickson, superintendent of the Spur Experiment station.

At 1:30, following lunch, W. H. Dameron, superintendent of the Sonora Experiment station, will speak on "Range Management." The final talk of the day will be by E. R. Eudaly, director of the livestock division of the Universal Mills at Ft. Worth, on "Minerals for Livestock."

A round table discussion followed by beef cattle judging by Mowrey and White will end the session today.

Food Locker Probe To Begin Shortly

Investigation of "unusually excessive" amounts of meat in frozen food lockers in the Lubbock OPA district will start within the next few days, Roscoe H. Collier, chief investigator, said Monday. Collier will be assisted by Thomas E. Francis

"With only two investigators and 80 locker plants in the 71-county district, one can readily see the task before us," Collier said.

He said there would be no investigation of individual lockers unless locker plant records revealed more than an "unusual amount" of meat stored therein. He said locker plant owners would be contacted, and if they report any "unusually large amount of meat in any of the lockers, the owner will be contacted. He will be asked to state whether the meat was slaughtered according to OPA regulations, and whether red points were surrendered for the meat if it was slaughtered at a time when OPA rationing regulations were in effect.

Collier, 38, is a discharged veteran, having suffered the loss of both his legs on Bougainville, March 13, 1944, when hit by a Jap mortar shell. He walks on artificial limbs by the use of a cane.

square miles of Japanese cities.

In their June 26 daylight raid, the B-29s hit both Nagoya and Osaka and also attacked Gifu and Akashi from medium altitude. They had fighter escort then.

They lost only five planes in the then record strike at military and industrial installations.

By flying unescorted today, the B-29s displayed utter contempt for what is left of the Japanese air defense, which refused to scrap with the Seventh Fighter command's Iwo-based Mustangs in their Tokyo sweeps or with Admiral Halsey's Third Fleet carrier planes.

Two Heavily Damaged

Recent Superfortress raids knocked out nearly half the built-up areas of the Japanese cities of Sakai and Wakayama on Honshu and damaged the Nippon oil refinery and tank farm at Amagasaki, reconnaissance photographs showed today.

In the first raids on these cities July 10, Sakai's main area was 42 per cent destroyed and Wakayama's 52 per cent destroyed. Twelve of 14 buildings at the Nippon oil refinery showed damage, and eight of ten large tanks were hit.

tation already overburdened without advising and consulting (the ODT).

"With the railroads now congested and with additional war production to move transcontinentally, it will be impossible for the western railroads to redeploy the troops and move the freight loads."

Manpower Would Help

Adequate manpower, he added, would increase the capacity of western railroads by perhaps 15 per cent. President Truman last week urged the public to help fill job vacancies on the rail lines.

Johnson said he was trying to coordinate buses and airplanes into the troop carrying program. He did not elaborate but an ODT source said that so far no move had been made to use civilian buses or take them off their regular runs.

Civilian travel by rail has been curbed by the ODT, which only Saturday forbade sale of tickets or space to travel agencies. It took steps recently to make passenger coaches more readily available for the Army, shortly after halting civilian use of sleeping cars, on trips under 450 miles.

Sheet Metal Works Is Burglarized Here

Burglary early Monday night of Doss sheet metal shop, at 901 Ave. H, brought a two-day series of breakins to five.

Nothing apparently was taken in last night's burglary. But the intruders evidently were several in number, for they left five empty coke bottles which police later examined for fingerprints. A rear door was forced open.

Over the week-end the Hot Shot cafe, in 800-block Main, was burglarized of $60; and a place at 345 Ave. H, of three checks, $10 in postage stamps, a casting and a fly rod, valued at $10 each, and 30 golf balls valued at $15. Quality hatchery, next door to 345 Ave. H, was broken in to but nothing was taken. Only 35 cents was taken from Hub Furniture store, at Tenth and Ave. H, it was reported.

Pfc. Dorothy Green Andre, wife of Cpl. Archie Andre of Corpus Christi, was stationed in London and Wales.

Other Texans in the convoy included:

Capt. Howard F. Bomhoff, Austin; Pfc. Boyce Carter, Tyler; 1st Sgt. Guy D. Marco, El Paso; S/Sgt. El G. Runiga, San Angelo.

FOREIGN MINISTER QUITS

ATHENS, July 23, (AP)—Foreign Minister John Sophianopoulos submitted his resignation today, saying the time has come for the formation of a new government representing all political parties. He is just back from the San Francisco conference.

News Briefs

Rafael Lara, 32, was held in county jail Monday night in lieu of three $400 bonds set by County Judge Walter Davies in as many theft cases. Officers said Lara was charged with taking various articles from the parked automobiles of Santa Fe employes here.

A hitchhiker stood Monday night just off the pavement on north Ave. H. As he described with his thumb the ole hitchhiker's arc, he swayed to and fro, ever so slightly, in the soft, south breeze. Ah, at last along came a motorist with a heart. The wanderer got his ride —to the police station. His benefactor was Capt. C. E. Tabor of the highway patrol.

Dorothy Nickens, 22, of Lubbock, was injured in a collision of two automobiles at 3 o'clock Sunday morning 14 miles east of Tahoka on U. S. highway 390. Her injuries were not believed serious. She as taken to Tahoka clinic. Capt. C. E. Tabor of the highway patrol said the drivers of both automobiles had been charged in justice of peace court at Tahoka with operating a motor vehicle without a license. He identified them as Ralph Nickens, 25, of Lubbock and Pedro Cruz, 24, of Tahoka. Highway Patrolman B. J. Patterson investigated.

B. J. Patterson, an officer with the Lubbock district headquarters of the Texas Highway patrol for many years, has been transferred to Temple, it was learned Monday. With the exception of a few months in O'Donnell, where he engaged in private business, Patterson has been a patrolman here since 1938. Patterson and his family reside at 2107 Ave. T.

Third Fleet Raids

This was the first surface blow off the China coast, although planes have raided the area.

As the swift American cruisers and destroyers thus roamed far afield, in and out of Japanese home waters, Nimitz reported that Fleet Air Wing One search planes continued their blockade of Korea and Japan. On Sunday they sank two cargo ships, set three on fire and left two others sinking in Tsushima straits near Korea and in the Yellow sea.

56 Ships Per Day

The fleet and naval planes were seeking to maintain their record of knocking enemy shipping out of action at the rate of 56 ships a day for the past fortnight.

The Kure attack by the carriers' torpedo planes dive bombers and fighters was in the same area where the seaborne fliers on March 18 caught and sank the Japanese super-battleship Yamato, two cruisers and several destroyers.

Today's attack began at dawn, and several hours later still was in progress.

Location of battleships of the American and British fleets still was hidden by a security blackout, by customarily capital ships operate with the carriers.

Nimitz announced, however, that the present blow was by the U. S. Third Fleet, not mentioning the British.

Jap "Mare Island"

If Yokosuka, which was attacked Wednesday, might be likened to the Brooklyn Navy yard. Kure is Japan's "Mare Island." What the carrier planes found there has not yet been disclosed.

The bruised and crippled Japanese sea and air arms appeared powerless to ward off the rain of blows but Vice Adm. John S. McCain warned that the enemy might be saving up resources "and waiting for a more propitious time."

"We have had the advantage of being able to penetrate weather through which the Japs either would not or could not fly," he told Richard O'Malley, Associated Press correspondent with the fleet.

There was no indication that the typhoons which have been pinning down American air forces under Gen. Douglas MacArthur were interfering with operations of the fleet in Japan's home waters.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced that one task force of light units moving into the outer waters of Tokyo bay wrecked a four-ship convoy yesterday.

The convoy was intercepted west of the cape of Nojima, which is the eastern land arm protecting the bay, and when the flaming action was over a medium and a small cargo ship were on the bottom, a medium cargo vessel was probably sunk and an escort craft was damaged.

Thus the toll of Japanese shipping — already hard-hit — rose to 791 vessels and small craft sunk or damaged in 14 days of raiding by the fleet and land-based war planes of the Nimitz and MacArthur commands.

While this task force was on the rampage on Tokyo's doorsteo, another force of light units showed up 550 miles to the south and bombarded the port of Omura on Chichi Jima in the Bonin islands.

Heroism In Behalf Of Buddy Recognized

SAN DIEGO, July 23 (AP)—For more than three hours, his own life in jeopardy, Preston S. Sharp, 29, radioman first class, USNR, fought to save a shipmate from drowning while they awaited rescue after their ship had been bombed in a Pacific action.

Even after a rescue vessel had sighted the pair, Sharp refused to be picked up, despite his exhaustion, until he had secured a line around his shipmate and had watched him being hoisted safely aboard.

For heroism and complete disregard for his own life, Radioman Sharp, the son of Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Sharp, of Honey Grove, Tex., has been awarded the Navy and Marine corps medal, the Eleventh Naval district said today.

ARMY FLIER KILLED

DALLAS, July 23, (AP) — Capt. Thornton O. McKinney, 29, died yesterday of injuries received Saturday in a plane crash near Burlington, Kas., his mother, Mrs. O. A. McKinney, of Dallas has been notified.

Negro Held Here In Shooting Of Woman

Lish Dansby, 32-year-old negro, was held in lieu of $1,000 bond Monday night in connection with the shooting early Sunday of Eva Barnes, a negro woman, at her home, 1908 East Ave. B.

The woman was shot in a thigh. At Chatman hospital, where she was treated and then released, it was reported the bullet caused merely a flesh wound.

The woman told officers that she and another woman were sitting on the porch of her home talking to Dansby when he suddenly pulled a revolver and began shooting wildly about the place. She said he fired the gun five times.

The shooting occurred at 2:30 Sunday morning and the suspect was arrested about 7 a. m. No motive had been established in the shooting, officers said.

Texas U. Trouble

able at all times." Regent E. B. Tucker of Nacogdoches termed the action "extremely regrettable."

One of the assertions of the association committee was that investigators had learned the regents reserved the right to pass on a faculty member's hold in office by a hearing; that the regents had ruled that they, themselves, rather than the president, would have the right to appoint members of the hearing committee.

Dr. Painter said Monday a proposed change in the tenure rule extending it to administrators may meet the association's objection. The rule change, proposed by the faculty, is before the regents, and may be acted on at their September meeting unless an earlier meeting is called.

Highly Objectionable

The investigating committee report concluded: "The committee is convinced that administrative conditions at the University of Texas have been highly objectionable, in flagrant controvention of commonly accepted academic principles and practices.

"The committee feels quite definitely that the board of regents, as constituted in the years immediately preceding Dr. Rainey's dismissal bears a heavy weight of responsibility for unsatisfactory conditions at the university.

"The committee believes great responsibility remains on the board for correction of these unsatisfactory conditions.

Rainey Appraisal Unneeded

"Since Dr. Rainey is no longer president of the university, there is no necessity for complete appraisal of the measure of his responsibility for conditions in the university which the committee condemned. The majority of the committee is convinced that Dr. Rainey's measure of responsibility is significant and large.

"The committee recommend that the University of Texas be placed on probation until such time as the association is assured full observance of its principles and standards."

"I wish to emphasize that our action has no effect on transfer of credits at the university," Dr. McConnell said as he stopped briefly in Dallas. He said the university in the normal course of events, would be removed from probation only if conditions at the school which the association disapproves are eliminated within a year or two-year period.

Credits Not Invalidated

A formal statement from Mathews said "it is not anticipated that the association's action would result in invalidation of credits for work done at the university. He said that technically another member school might refuse "to accept for admission credits that students have acquired at the penalized institution," but that "in actual practice, however, each institution sets its own standards for admission of its students, and few refuse to admit students whose quality of work is satisfactory."

Capt. R. J. Valentine, commandant, said the probation would not affect the naval training program at the university. At Houston, Dr. Frederick C. Elliott, dean of the U. T. Dentistry school, said the school was under jurisdiction of the American Dental association, and was not affected by the association action.

Great Ovation Given Envoy To Argentine

BUENOS AIRES, July 23, (AP)—American Ambassador Spruille Braden, widely cheered by Argentine citizens in a spontaneous ovation last night, today attributed a virtiolic leaflet campaign against him to "foreign Nazi elements totally alien to the truly noble feelings of the Argentine people."

The demonstration accorded Braden at a railroad station when he returned from a trip to the interior was one of the most enthusiastic ever given to an envoy to Argentina.

Foreign Minister Cesar Ameghino had declared the leaflets and posters attacking Braden were not inspired by anyone connected with the government.

Blow Is Tough When Cigarets 'Drown'

MOUNTAIN LAKE, Minn., July 23, (AP)—It was quite a blow.

Hopeful cigaret smokers converged on a local cafe after seeing a truck arrive with supplies.

Alas, there were no cigarets. Six carton of the smokes had been packed in a large carton with a can of fly spray. The fly spray can leaked and the cigarets were ruined.

Public For Charter

in all sections of the country, in all types of communities. Republican and Democratic voters are almost alike in their attitude toward it, and it receives the same overwhelming vote of approval in the Mid-Western states — which used to be considered isolationist —as in any other section. The vote:

	Yes	No	No Op.
N. Eng. and M. Atl.	64%	3%	33%
E. and W. Central	68	3	29
South	62	2	36
Far West	65	4	31

This one-sided vote is eloquent evidence of how far public opinion has swung away from the isolationist doctrine of the nineteen-thirties. In 1937 an Institute survey found just 33 per cent of the population in favor of joining a league or association of nations. Those were the days of the Neutrality act.

Institute surveys have kept a record of sentiment throughout the years for American entrance into a new league of nations.

The turning point came in mid-summer of 1941. That was when the majority of our people turned their thoughts to joining a new league of nations. By the middle of 1942 the public vote for joining a league had reached the proportion of 7-to-3.

A very sizable majority—73 per cent — also expressed the opinion in December, 1942, that Washington should call a meeting of Allied leaders to set up a world organization, without waiting for the war to end. That is what happened two and a half years later at San Francisco.

the struggle abroad, I prepared the road to liberation," he argued.

Petain asserted that the "French people gave me power to direct the nation" through the national assembly at Vichy. "I've come to answer to them alone," he said.

Led Armies To Victory

The "Hero of Verdun," who rose from an obscure Army colonel at the start of the first World war, added: "Let the French people remember I led their armies to victory in 1918."

"In the most tragic days of France's history, she called on me again," he said, "asserting he was 'heir to an unprecedented catastrophe,' and that he only carried out the advice of military leaders when he asked the Germans for an armistice.

"Faced with the enemy's demands I surrendered nothing essential although we had daggers at our throats." Petain then called on those condemning him to ask themselves whether they "did as much."

He said millions of Frenchmen had faith in him and "by condemning me you will condemn them." "Let my condemnation be the last," he said. "Do not punish those who only obeyed the orders of their leader."

Petain's statement was greeted with sneers and catcalls.

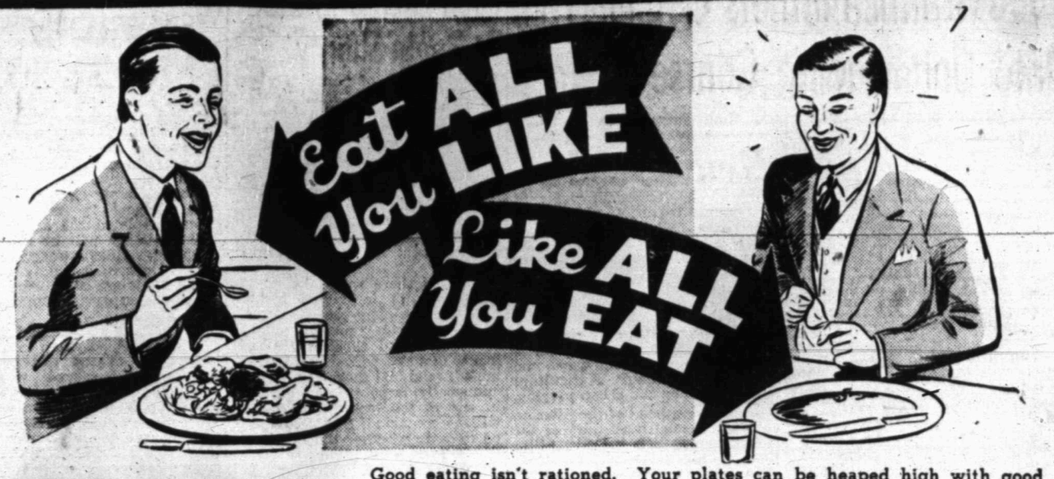

Safeguards Urged On Coupon Thefts

WASHINGTON, July 23, (AP) — The OPA today called for adoption of "all possible safeguards" to curb thefts of gasoline rationing coupons from service stations.

Reporting a big increase of such thefts, the agency said:

"Apparently organized gangs of racketeers for formerly made and distributed counterfeit coupons have found that their former racket is no longer safe nor profitable."

U. S. Ratification To Breathe Life Into United Nations Agreement

By RALPH HEINZEN
United Press War Analyst

The U. S. Senate, which begins debate Monday, will breathe life into the United Nations charter for world security when it ratifies the agreement this week. Once American approval has been obtained, other ratifications are expected to come rapidly and by late October the organization of the United Nations may come officially into existence as the medium of keeping world peace by use of pooled force if necessary.

The birth of the United Nations itself will come when the charter has been ratified by all five of the permanent members of the security council — United States USSR, Great Britain, China and France—plus a majority of the other members of the organization. That will require 23 out of the remaining 45 nations who sat in at the conference.

U. S. Gets First Chance

When the San Francisco conference ended there was an unwritten understanding that it give the world full confidence in the new charter, the United States would be allowed to give it its first ratification. Abroad there are still painful memories of the rejection by the U. S Senate of the League of Nations covenant despite President Wilson's promises, so to appease any remaining fears, the United States would be given the first chance to ratify.

Nicaragua and El Salvador, however, did not await Washington's action, so that there are already two of the needed 23 ratifications by non-permanent members.

France Can Hardly Wait

The delay, if there is to be a delay in obtaining the necessary ratifications, is more likely to come from the other four of the big five than from the remaining non-permanent member states. Under the French constitution of 1875, the President of the republic must ratify treaties after approval by the two chambers. There are no chambers, only a "consultative assembly" which has no powers to make laws or reject or approve treaties. There is no constitution. General Charles de Gaulle fills the role of president in this provisional non-elected regime. Yet France can hardly await the October elections before voicing its stand on the United Nations charter.

Russian ratification is the prerogative of the supreme organ of authority and is not a prerogative of Generalissimo Stalin himself. The San Francisco document is now in the hands of the peoples commissariat for foreign affairs for preliminary approval and will then go to the two councils of the supreme Soviet for final action.

China May Act Next

China's ratification requires the "advice" of the Yuan as supreme legislative Orgam, but once the Yuan has approved, a simple signature by Chiang Gai Chek will suffice. Since Premier T. V. Soong played a big part in the San Francisco negotiations, China's ratification may come next after America acts.

A bill must be submitted to the British parliament, pass through its required two readings, its public debate, and its third or final reading before parliament can decide to send the treaty to the crown for ratification. British action was delayed by the general election, so Britain may be last among the Big Five to ratify.

Thus far the new charter is running ahead of schedule in comparison with the eLague of Nations covenant. It took 260 days for the covenant to com into force, from the adoption o fthe draft covenant by the preliminary peace conference in Paris on April 28, 1919, to the enforcement of the covenant Jan. 10, 1920. The first session of the league council met in Paris six days later on January 16, 1920. The following November 1, the league was permanetly transferred and installed in Geneva.

News Briefs

Visiting friends in Lubbock is Lt. Louis Kellet, former Geology student at Texas Tech college, returned from the South Pacific theater of operations to be placed on the inactive reserve with the Army Air forces. Kellet, a bomber pilot with the 7th Bomber command, flew 25 missions from Saipan against Iwo Jima enemy installations and later flew 16 missions while based at Guam. He wears eight decorations including the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal with six clusters, three battle stars, the Asiatic-Pacific ribbon, the Eastern Mandate ribbon and the Western Pacific ribbon. He will be discharged at San Antonio in two weeks.

Arno Dalby, Lubbock truckline operator who resides at Hotel Hilton, is reported as convalescing nicely following an emergency apendectomy in New Orleans, Sunday. In the Crescent City on business, Dalby was taken to Touro infirmary there suffering a pain in his side. Examination disclosed a ruptured appendix, said his brother-in-law, Allen Benton, oil and gasoline wholesaler, residing here at 2301 Thirtieth.

Second Lt. Frank Mitchell, jr., has returned to Washington, D. C., from where he will go to the west coast and overseas with the signal corps of the Army Air force. He, 22, visited with his parents, of 2218 Sixteenth. His father is an inspector of Texas Liquor Control board.

Robert S. Speight, 20, shipfitter, third class of 2010 Fifteenth, is home on 30-day leave after completing 28 months overseas with the Seabees in the Southwest Pacific. Before entering the Seabees, Speight was employed at the Lubbock hotel. On his tour of duty in the Admiralties, he was assigned to pontoon assembly and repair work. He will return to Camp Parks, Calif., for reassignment.

Jack Hays Phillips Missing In Pacific

LEVELLAND, July 23. (Special) —Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin T. Phillips of Levelland have received a telegram from the War department informing them that their son, Jack Hays Phillips, aviation radioman third class, has been missing in action since July 3 as result of a plane crash at sea on that date. The telegram stated that further details would be furnished when received.

Phillips entered the service January 4, 1943, and received his training at Memphis, Tenn., Jacksonville, Fla. and San Clemente, Calif., before going overseas in March of this year. He is a graduate of Levelland High school and farmed with his father here before entering the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips have another son, Lt. Ben T. Phillips, USMCR who is now stationed in Hawaii, and a daughter, Joan Phillips who is employed in Levelland at the First National bank.

The beauty of a bond is doubly apparent in the photo above, because the young lady is Judy Bond, New York college girl stylist, and her beautiful new "creation" is a blouse made of War Bonds totaling $60,000.

Amherst Boy Is Killed In Accident Sunday

Funeral services for Charles Henry Durham, 11, of Amherst, who was killed instantly Sunday when the car in which he was riding struck a horse, were conducted at 3 o 'clock Monday afternoon at the Harmony Baptist church in the Creek community near Paducah. The accident occurred near Paducah.

Son of Mrs. Mike Mote of Amherst, the boy had been visiting his uncle in Paducah for some time. His cousin, J. W. Gibbs, jr., driver of the car and its only other occupant, was not injured. The two boys were on their way back to the uncle's farm after attending a picture show.

The car partly turned over when the animal was hit then scooped the horse up onto its top. The weight of the 1600 pound horse crushed the top of the light car in on the side on which the boy was sitting.

The mother, a younger brother and a married sister, Mrs. Leroy Terrell of Floydada, attended funeral services.

The Kansas, or Kaw, river separates Kansas City, Mo., and Kansas City, Kans., which are both on the same bank of the Missouri river.

Run In Eleventh Gives Sox 1-0 Victory Over New York

NEW YORK, July 23. (AP) — The New York Yankees, whose woeful home stand has sent Manager Joe McCarthy to his sick bed, lost another game today, bowing to the Chicago White Sox, 1-0, in 11 innings on a walk, two wild pitchers and an error by pitcher Bill Zuber and Oris Hockett's scratch single.

With two out and nobody on in the second overtime frame of a tight duel between Zuber and Bill Dietrich, Johnny Dickshot worked Zuber for a walk. The Sox left fielder moved to second on a wild pitch and took third on another wild heave to the grandstand.

Zuber Makes Error

Tony Cuccinello walked on a 3-2 pitch and Hockett slapped one back at Zuber who fielder the ball on the hop, slipped on the damp grass and threw wildly past first base. The official scorer ruled Hockett was entitled to a run batted in on the play and gave Hockett a hit and Zuber an error because Cuccinello went to third.

The Yanks missed a scoring chance in the sixth when, with one out George Stirnweiss tripled. Trying to squeeze home the run, Frankie Crosetti dumped a bunt in front of the plate but Stirnweiss was out at the plate on a very close play, Dietrich to Mike Tresh.

Chicago Loads Bases

Chicago loaded the bases in the seventh on singles by Cuccinello and Hockett and a walk to Tresh but Dietrich rolled out weakly to Zuber.

The setback dropped the Yanks out of the first division for the first time this year, setting them back in a fifth-place tie with idle Boston, one percentage point behind the idle St. Louis Browns. Chicago took over third position.

Braves Lose To Pittsburgh 8-5

PITTSBURGH, July 23. (AP) — A 17 hit attack, highlighted by three home runs, gave the Pittsburgh Pirates an 8 to 5 victory over the Boston Braves today.

Tommy Holmes dropped to second place in the National league's batting race after leading virtually all season. His five hitless trips, making 18 in a row, plummeted his average to .366, as Goody Rosen, of the idle Dodgers, took over first position with .367.

Russell Leads Pirates

Jim Russell led the Pirate barrage, with a homer and a double among his four hits. Bob Elliott and Bill Salkeld also homered for the Bucs, Salkeld's eighth of the season.

Pittsburgh started the scoring in the first inning but Boston took the lead with four runs in its half of the second. The Pirates tied it up in the third with three runs. The Braves took the lead again with one in the fourth inning, but the Pirates scored two in the sixth to clinch the game and added two more in the eighth.

Tommy Holmes went hitless for the fourth straight game of the series. He has now gone to the plate 18 times without getting a hit.

Kattmann Cup Team Named For Tourney

Two playoffs remain to name the Lubbock team in the John Kattmann Cup matches, scheduled as the opener for the annual Lubbock Country Club's invitation tournament here Aug. 9 to 13, following completion of the qualifying rounds Sunday.

Captain T. E. Patterson will have Morley Jennings, Chick Trout, Raymond Marshall, Ted Tipps, Dr W. A. Schaal, Don Mitchell, Amos Howard, Truman Hutson, Roy Howard and J. D. Hinson.

The remaining member of the team will be named in an 18-hole playoff between Cliff Dean and Dr. J. H Stiles. The loser will be the first alternate. The second alternate will be named in another 18-hole playoff between Otis Felty and Kerk Dean.

At a general meeting of committee members Monday night at the club, final plans were worked out for the tournament. Herb Schroeder, club pro, was named to head a committee to draft the tournament playing rules.

Golfers were urged to refrain from using the regular tees, and drive from temporary tees for the next couple of weeks. This measure was taken to allow the grass on the tees to grow.

The entry list for the tournament was swelled to 60 entries Monday night, with many other tickets sold, but unreported.

ABC Trounces Kiwanis 13-2

American Business club hitters had a field day Monday night and backed up one hit pitching by Lester York and Billy Tatum to win easily over the Kiwanis nine 13-2.

Duane Peters led the ABC offensive with two singles and a double in three trips to the plate. Billy Tatum was runner-up, collecting two triples and a single during his four times at bat. ABC scored in every turn at bat but the last.

Lester York began on the mound for the ABC-ers, pitching three perfect innings. No Kiwanis player so much as reached first base.

ABC Gets Hits

Backing York up, ABC hitters began in the first frame and bunched three errors, a hit, and a sacrifice for two runs. Three more errors and a hit were good for two more tallie in the second. Four hits, including a triple by Tatum and a double by Peters were gathered off Weber in the third frame for another pair of runs.

Billy Tatum took the mound for ABC in the fourth, putting three out in short order. His mates added three runs to their growing total in their turn at bat.

David Clark, lanky ABC center fielder, pulled a possible triple out of the air for ABC in the fifth frame. Running hard toward the lumber yard fence, he caught Charles Galey's long fly over his left shoulder with a one handed stab.

Kiwanis Tally

With one out, Tatum walked Ford. On the next pitch, Billy Wylie, seeing Ford begin to steal, threw deep into center field, admitting Ford at the plate for the Kiwanis' first run.

Tatum's second triple, along with a single, two walks and an error pushed four more ABC tallies home in the fifth frame.

With two out, Tatum walked Galey in the seventh. Buddy Weber, Kiwanis hurler, caught a fat one down the middle and lined out a screaming double, scoring Galey. Rounding second too far, Weber was cut off by Tatum, who had stopped the throw to home.

The line score:

Kiwanis ..... 000 010 1— 2 1
ABC ..... 222 340 x—13 10

Yanks' Joe McCarthy Offers Resignation

NEW YORK, July 23. (AP) — Joe McCarthy today asked President Larry MacPhail to accept his resignation as manager of the New York Yankees but agreed to reconsider his decision while taking a brief rest at his Buffalo home.

The man who had piloted the Bronx Bombers to eight pennants and seven World Series triumphs said he hoped improved health would make it possible for him to return to his duties.

McCARTHY

In a typewritten statement, the Yankee pilot said "On account of my poor health I have requested that Colonel MacPhail accept my resignation as manager. This he has refused to do. The colonel proposed that I go a few days and see my doctor. He felt that the rest may prompt me to reconsider my decision."

McCarthy emphasized there had been no friction between MacPhail and himself.

The new Yankee owner said "I told him we'd probably be in the second division if it wasn't for him, and I told him I wouldn't accept a resignation.

Club Is Satisfied

"As far as I am concerned it's club policy for Joe to manage this year and next when his present three-year contract expires. But it's up to him.

"In the event McCarthy makes up his mind that he doesn't want to manage the club he can come into the front office as my assistant."

In the absence of McCarthy, who has been troubled by an ailing gall bladder, Coach Art Fletcher will boss the club.

Major Leagues Turn Down Hike In Price Of Drafted Players

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP) — The major leagues today flatly rejected a demand by minor leagues that the draft price of class AA players be doubled from the present fixed $7,500 tag.

Debate on the subject monopolized a joint meeting of major and minor league committees to study proposed revisions in the major-minor league agreement.

"The majors absolutely refused to consider any increase in the draft price," said Thomas H. Richardson, Williamsport, Pa., chairman of the minor league committee following a six-hour session.

Majors Object

"It was their contention," he continued, "that any player worth $15,000 would be sold into the big leagues in the normal course of events and that a higher draft price would retard the progress of a player on whom a major league club would be willing to gamble $7,500, but no more."

Clarence (Pants) Rowland, president of the Pacific Coast league and a committee member, led the minor league argument for a bigger draft price and asserted the matter was not yet closed.

"We'll keep after them, because we have a legitimate request," he asserted. "Perhaps present wartime conditions don't warrant an increase, but in a few years we'll see to it that the big leagues don't pick up our key players for a song."

New Meeting Set

Richardson said he would head a sub-committee composed of two major league representatives and two other minor league officials to re-draft major-minor league rules for consideration at the December meetings of the two groups.

Meanwhile, he explained, the present agreement would be continued until Jan. 12, 1946. A majority of the revisions studied by the joint committee today involved minor technical changes.

Former Bund Leader In U. S. Kills Himself

WITH U. S. SEVENTH ARMY In Germany, July 23. (U.P.)—Ludwig Kuehner, former mid-western leader of the German-American bund, committed suicide in a jail cell at Mosbach last Wednesday after confessing that he acted as a spy for the German consulate in Chicago.

Seventh army headquarters announced Kuehner's suicide. The ex-bund leader was said to have signed a written confession of his guilt and then hanged himself from the window bars of his cell with an improvised noose made from his tie and a handkerchief.

Kuehner, who was active in Milwaukee, Wis., bund circles from the time he immigrated to the United States in 1933 until he returned to Germany in 1939, fought in the German army on the eastern and western fronts for five years, and was discharged early this year. He was arrested by the 84th division in Heidelberg, along with his wife and daughter.

Moscow Radio Claims Nazi Bigwigs Coddled

LONDON, July 23. (AP)—The Moscow radio said today that Reischsmarshal Hermann Goering, Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz and Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop were "resting in luxury in a Luxembourg place," where they were "growing even fatter and more insolent."

The broadcast referred to the hotel at Mondorf, Luxembourg, where 52 leading Nazis are held by the U. S. Army.

An Associated Press dispatch Saturday from Mondorf quoted Col. B. C. Andrus, whose 391st anti-aircraft battalion guards the Nazis, as saying:

"We stand for no coddling here. These men are in jail. We have certain rules and those rules are obeyed."

The four star general will succeed Brig. Gen. Frank Hines in the Veterans administration post. He is expected to order a large scale reorganization of the agency.

GRAY FOX SEEN HERE

O'DONNELL, July 23. (Special)—Ben Moore, amateur naturalist and historian, reported today that he recently observed a gray fox near the upper entrance to Mackenzie state park at Lubbock, and said that the animal was probably living near the Hub Homes housing project. Moore reported that 25 years ago a fox could probably not have been found within 100 miles of Lubbock.

Lot Of Yanks In Jap Hands May Improve

WASHINGTON, July 23. (U.P.)—American prisoners in Japanese hands are expected to get better treatment as a result of Japan's belated decision to allow neutral observers to make regular visits to prisoner camps.

The Japanese agreements on this provision of international law was revealed by the State department last night in announcing that Switzerland will take over the representation of Japanese interests in this country.

Japan has been without neutral representation here since March, when Spain ended her role of go-between. Switzerland agreed to take over only on condition that the Swiss minister in Japan be permitted to visit U. S. prisoners of war and civilian internee camps in the enemy homeland and occupied territory. Such permission previously had been denied in some instances.

Proposed Health Law Is Needed

WHEN old Ben Jonson sang, "Leave but a kiss within the cup, and I shall not ask for wine," he did not mean that he wanted a big crimson lip stick smear on his coffee cup, too, a Lubbock city official observed yesterday in commenting that the time might come when the city would have an ordinance insuring fewer lip stick marks on cafe chinaware.

Admitting that progress in drafting and enacting the new health ordinance has been slow, the official pointed out that the State law—Article 700-A, Section 2 of the Texas Civil Statutes—specifically states that no hotel, cafe or other place serving food and drink can lawfully serve a drink in a cup or glass that has not been washed and sterilized.

The law requires that dishes be dipped for at least three minutes in water heated to 170 degrees Fahrenheit, or two minutes in water of 180 degrees, he explained.

Lubbock has a passingly good health and sanitation record, and the purpose of the proposed ordinance is to help the city to maintain its excellent reputation—won over eleven consecutive years—as the cleanest town in Texas.

While most of the resturant and cafe operators are cooperative, as best they can now, in maintaining this high standard, there are some who are careless about their sterilization of dishes, unless checked upon frequently, the official said. He pointed out that he believed Lubbock's reputation for clean eating houses was an important element in attracting trade in the local area, and that more rigid enforcement of sanitation would pay off in business as well as in good health for those who patronize the city's cafes.

If the proposed ordinance is such a good idea and is needed, what's holding it up? Or are we going to wait until after the war, just because that's a good "out"?

Of Interest To West Texas

ALTHOUGH the end of the present war and the subsequent reopening of the rubber growing plantations to United States' trade may end governmental interest in the growing of guayule, at least at this time, it will never erase two important lessons taught by this conflict.

These lessons are:

1. That guayule, a native of the Big Bend country once considered a waste product of the wasteland, can be produced successfully on a vast scale in West Texas.

2. That American ingenuity can always be depended upon to meet any emergency, and the United States shall never have to get along without rubber.

Of these two vital lessons the second is the more important, since it demonstrates again that the old American spirit of self-reliance is not dead, and that necessity is still the mother of invention.

Thomas Alva Edison was one of the first to dream of a subsitute for rubber and the last few years have proved the reality of his vision. The success that has been attained in producing synthetic rubber from the lowly guayule may mean in time that America will be freed of its long dependence on the East Indies for natural rubber supplies. It may also herald a new day for West Texas.

Isolation Is Losing Out!

THE time may not be far distant when a cowhand out riding the range in an ex-Army jeep can telephone his home and tell his wife to put the steak in the broiler, that he will be back for dinner.

Or if the range rider's little son should fall from a pony and break his leg, the mother can rush to her phone and notify her husband, although he may be miles away.

It is a far cry from the old pioneer days when the wife rang a dinner bell or shot off a six gun to bring the men folks racing to the ranchhouse. Yet it is one of the conveniences now being promised by the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. as a post-war possibility. The company announces that such radio-telephone service will be available shortly after the end of the war.

This is a development that had grown in a way out of the "walky-talkies" used by our soldiers to maintain liaison during the present war. Again civilians are going to benefit from an invention developed under the stress of war.

We wish we were as nearly out of something to worry about as the man who asked a Q. and A. department, "Does a worm ever sunburn?"

A linguist says the English language can be reduced to 1,000 essential words. Many persons have already reduced their list of English adjectives to two words, namely, "swell," and "lousy."

One-Minute Sermon

Bless them that curse you, and pray for them which despitefully use you. And unto him that smiteth thee on the one cheek offer also the other; and him that taketh away thy cloke forbid not to take thy coat also.—Luke 6: 28, 29.

This is a true story of the men who fly the "hump"—carrying passengers and cargo over the high Himalayas between India and China. Pilots call it the toughest airline route in the world.

FLYING THE BURMA ROAD

IV

In the summer of 1942 the Japs invaded Burma, cutting off China's vital supply route, the Burma Road. The cutting of the road didn't, perhaps, mean much to most Americans, including myself; but it meant a great deal to people higher up and better informed than most of us then were. It meant, conceivably, the difference between keeping China in the war as an active and valuable ally in our struggle with Japan, and losing her, a starved and wornout victim, to our common enemy.

China had endured a blockade of its western coast for years but had been able to do so only because its back door was open. Guns, machinery, trucks, food and munitions had been flowing in a constant—although thin —stream up through Burma from Rangoon on the Bay of Bengal, along the tortuous route of the Burma Road, and thus into the interior of China.

Now, with the Japanese seizure of French Indo-China and the cutting off of the Burma Road at its uppermost point in Burma, that back door was virtually closed. It would have been completely so had it not been for Pan-American Airways and the far-seeing, indomitable Chinese leader, Chiang Kai-shek.

Between these two—Chiang on the one hand and William Bond, Pan-American's representative in Burma and China—the loss of the Burma Road was quickly minimized.

In Upper Assam, almost due north of Rangoon and within an even shorter distance of Calcutta, they had established the eastern base of Chiang Kai-shek's newly founded, personally owned, but Pan-American-operated, China National Airways Corporation. From Dinjan, in Assam, China National's air route lead directly east over the most difficult flying terrain in the world, across Upper Burma and the Jap-held territory surrounding the captured Burma Road, and terminating 700 miles inside China at Kunming, in Yunnan Province.

The only problem facing Bond and Chiang Kai-shek after they had laid out that route was finding men who would be willing to fly it.

In August, 1942, I decided to approach Pan-American Airways about a job. I knew they had been ferrying planes to England, Russia and China under contract with the government. So I went down to their New York office in the Chrysler Building and talked to Capt. Hal Sweet.

He was much impressed with the flying experience I had had, which included a year ferrying ships for the Air Transport Auxiliary of the R. A. F. in England, but he gloomily informed me that the Pan-American ferrying job was soon to be taken over by the Army.

"You'd probably get a good commission if you applied for one," he said. "The Army needs fellows like you who are already trained in this kind of work."

"You're probably right," I said, "but the Army and I parted company some time ago."

I told him about going to Randolph Field and being washed out as a "dangerous flyer." Before going to Randolph, I told him, I had spent several thousand dollars over a period of years giving myself the training that would make me a top-rank pilot. Later, when I put in some time with Lockheed in California and with Brewster Aircraft in New York, I had spent most of my earnings on lessons in instrument flying and navigation.

Before I left Sweet asked me to call him again in a few days: Pan-American was adding some more planes to the airline it operated for Gen. Chiang Kai-shek between India and China and they were going to need pilots.

"You mean for that trans-Himalaya run?" I asked.

"That's the one," Sweet replied. "It's the toughest air route in the world, but flying it pays real dough . . ."

They were prepared to pay pilots from $1000 to $1500 per month, requiring them to work only three weeks out of every four, but pilots still were not swarming in.

No doubt that is why, when Gingiss, Al Privensal, Skippy Lane and I were being interviewed in New York, we heard more about the beautiful Chinese girls who cluster around American flyers in droves, pleading to share their affections, than we did about the hazards of flying freight and personnel across the snow-capped Himalaya mountains.

There were a lot of factors that entered into my decision to fly for C. N. A. C., but I can't deny that the rosy picture painted by Hal Sweet had considerable to do with the outcome. On the other hand, the hazards of the route didn't seem too serious, because I was confident now of my instrument flying; the work was an important contribution to the Allied war effort; it paid better than any other flying job in the world; and it would be far more valuable experience than flying in the States.

If I could combine all the things I liked—instrument flying, difficult flying, playing an important part in the war, and making money—if I could do all that and have beautiful Chinese girls fighting for my affections at the same time—hell, I had no alternative!

Looking At Life ------ By Erich Brandeis

A FEW days ago, George Crimmins picked up a turtle that was slowly crossing the road in front of his house in Liberty, N. Y.

He picked it up, thinking that his children might like to have it for a pet, and noticed that the initials "J. H.", the place "Aden, N. Y." and the year "1901" were carved on the turtle's back.

Being on vacation and not having very much to do, Crimmins went over to Aden, about five miles away, and found out that the only "J. H." in that little town was John Hanofee.

BRANDEIS

Yes, Mr. Hanofee remembered having carved the inscription on a turtle's back 44 years ago, when he was a boy.

The paper made quite a little ado about the story—imagine, they said, a turtle taking forty-four years to cover five miles.

Remarkable, isn't it?

And yet, how many of us cover even less ground—either physically of mentally?

Right around me here in Brookfield there are any number of people who haven't been farther away from home than two miles in heaven knows how many years.

Day after day and night after night it's the same routine of doing the same things over and over again.

And the saddest part of this running-around - in - a -circle kind of life is that so many people's minds don't even get that far away from home.

I don't want to get personal, but just think for a minute.

Don't you know a whole lot of people whose lives haven't differed so much from that of the Hanofee turtle?

And, if you want to be truthful with yourself, how much farther than five miles — or five inches — have you gotten away from the you of forty-four or twenty-four or four years ago?

Has your outlook on life broadened?

Have you progressed culturally?

Have you gotten ahead spiritually?

What have you learned that you didn't know then?

How far have you traveled in service to your fellow man?

MAYBE you read that story about Hanofee's turtle.

Maybe you smiled condescendingly and said: "Isn't the turtle a slow thing?

Yet — look at the millions of human turtles who crawl through life with nothing but their names, their places, the year of their birth carved on their backs, only to end up under a tombstone with the same data, plus the day of their demise, carved on it.

Not a very cheerful thought, but neither is there anything cheerful about a turtle.

Veterans Get "Tip-Off"

They're Coached To Meet Folks!

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

ARMY morale lecturers at discharge centers throughout the United States are sending former soldiers back into civilian life with their tongues in their cheeks. They are taking pains to insure that the boys will not be psychoanalyzed, pitied or glorified to boredom or death by the well-meaning home folks.

In many instances the last-day advice to yesterday's heroes assumes a humorous form. The soon-to-be veterans are told that, if their families and friends want to weep over their wounds and hear of all their hardships, they should fall into the melancholic mood and shed as many tears as they can summon by whatever means. They should give a free rein to their imagination so as not to disappoint the audience.

On the other hand, if home-town worshipers prefer yarns of heroism and near-death escapes, the veteran should emulate Othello, who warmed masculine and feminine hearts with his military romances. In short, the youngsters about to resume their old ways are instructed to be all things to all men — and women —but to keep their heads under all circumstances.

TUCKER

In general, they are warned that they should act up for the stay-at-homes, who have enjoyed only a remote and vicarious taste of the world's greatest drama. Should the good people wish to stuff the warrior with food and beverages, he should show his appreciation by consuming the viands and the drinks to the limit of his capacity.

Above all, the dischargees are reminded, they must prepare to be feted and lionized for about a week, and then they must become reconciled to the fact that they will be "just another guy named 'Joe' without the 'GI' prefix." In short, Prof. Hank Stimson's Emily Posts are giving the demobilized thousands a postgraduate course in how to reconvert the vast body of civilians from a war to a peacetime psychology.

SNOOPING: Henry Morgenthau, jr., seems determined to wind up his public career in a blaze of super-snoopery, althought the retiring Secretary of the Treasury is personally opposed to such tactics. In enforcing the law requiring payment of a $5 tax on automobiles, his agents have resorted to the worst methods of prohibition officers.

The checkup campaign has been launched in Washington, where extraordinary experiments on human beings are usually given a tryout, but it will soon be extended to metropolitan and rural areas throughout the nation. His T-men, accompanied by the local Polizei, fan out through public parking lots, along street curbs and even into private spaces.

When they find a car without the revenue stamp attached to the windshield, they leave a formal notice to the effect that the owner must explain the omission, or his name will be turned over to the U. S. district attorney for prosecution.

Incidentally, it should be noted that the maximum sum available from this levy is only $125,000,000, as there are only about 25,000,000 cars on the road at the present time.

HOSTILE: Internal Revenue officials themselves dislike this sort of practice, and so do the agents. The federal detectives who collared Al Capone, and Tom Pendergast and Huey Long gangs regard their present activities as "chicken feed" stuff.

For some reason Mr. Morgenthau has not experimented with a more sensible and orderly means of collecting this tax. It has been suggested that a more decent and less painful scheme would be to request states and cities to grab the fee at the time they issue licenses, and then turn the funds over to the Treasury.

Several measures to that effect have been introduced on Capitol Hill, but there has been no official attempt to obtain action. It is expected that the incoming Fred Vinson will take that step, for the Kentuckian is hostile to all small-time enforcement ideas.

PETTINESS: The Office of Price Administration, however, still wins the prize for bureaucratic pettiness. When a citizen loses his gas or food coupons, as has happened in thousands of cases through unavoidable accidents, he or she must wait 30 days after applying for a new book before they are forthcoming.

In the meantime, this arbitrary regulation, forces the victims to walk or starve. Actually, they are compelled to borrow from friends, which is a clear cut violation of OPA provisions.

The theory behind the enforced delay and privation is, contrary to all Anglo-Saxon jurisprudence, that an American citizen is a crook or a chiseler until proved innocent. it is one of those early Tugwell-Henderson hangovers which the Truman administration has not yet had time to remedy.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

ONE OF THE most important problems of the Big Three is how to put Europe back on its feet economically.

A solution is imperative to prevent revolutions in countries seething with unrest and to remove the financial burdens of rehabilitation which solvent nations like the United States are carrying.

But when we examine the current situation in France, the fourth great power, we discover how difficult it will be to cure her ills — and she is better off than most of her neighbors.

France is engulfed in several desperate struggles, any one of which could swamp her. She is undergoing a capital-labor war which makes even our turbulent Detroit crisis seem tame.

She is also beset by controversies over basic economics (nationalization), political ideologies (Communism) and loyalties (Vichyism). Gallic tempers are sharper than usual for the country suffers from a lack of fuel, food, clothing and transportation.

WEAKNESS: Now General de Gaulle, spurred by public opinion, has precipitated another great internal split by calling a national election in October to decide on the permanent structure of the Fourth Republic by either reviving the Constitution of 1875 or drafting a new one.

French officials arriving in New York point out that this is no petty squabble among doctrinaires over a mere change in by-laws. The initial debate already has revealed the depths of the chasm that separates the right from the left. Each faction is determined that the coming system of government shall be a bulwark for its political methods.

The old constitution had glaring faults. A premier never knew when he would get the gate. In 65 years France had 100 different cabinets; Britain only 24. This weakness is behind the demand for a strong executive branch.

The new forces that spring from the Resistance seek to junk the Senate which they dub "the citadel of reaction." Conservatives want to keep the upper body as a barrier against the rising tide of Socialism and Communism.

COMMUNISTS: At the start of the war the Communists never lifted a finger to help the underground. Later, when Russia was attacked, they joined the movement and did yeoman service — but not once missing a bet to gain publicity for their deeds.

They emerged from the war a compact noisy group. French Communists, stopping over in New York en route from the San Francisco Conference, boast that their party has 900,000 enrolled members and is growing fast.

The labor row involves not only the Communists but the French General Confederation of Labor composed of workers of every political stripe.

Its representatives demand increased wages to meet the soaring black market prices and general high living costs. The Ministry of Labor granted a slight pay raise but refused to boost the scale higher on the ground that it would cause inflation.

This industrial collapse is at the root of current misery and political unrest.

Nothing succeeds like success. Anything Bob Hope says now is funny because Bob Hope says it.

Truman Clicks On International Front . . .

Home Picture Is Far Less Bright

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — When President Truman stepped into the White House there was much talk about that being the beginning of "an era of co-operation between the President and Congress."

What lots of people meant by that, as was pointed out here at the time, was co-operation by the President with Congress. The desired result was that Congress should take the driver's seat, since Congress had proved itself safely conservative in practical operation, to check any too Rooseveltian impulses by his successor.

STOKES

Something about like that has happened as far as the domestic front is concerned—a front increasingly important with reconversion, and soldiers coming back home, looking for jobs. This is revealed by a recapitulation of events in the three months since Harry Truman became President.

International Aims Achieved

On the international front President Truman has done handsomely with Congress. He will have achieved within the next few weeks, with Senate ratification of the San Francisco charter, the immediate objectives of his predecessor and himself, which included also the reciprocal tariff program extension, and the Bretton Woods financial agreements.

Home Picture Different

BUT the home picture is far less bright.

President Truman has recommended action on several pressing measures, either directly or through top officials. But Congress has not been disposed to act. Consequently, Congress is abandoning the field of domestic legislation for its long recess and leaving behind such matters as:

Supplemental federal unemployment benefits to bring state benefits up to adequate amounts for those thrown out of work. These were recommended by the President and are embodied in bill now pending.

The so-called "full employment" bill, long pending in both House and Senate, recently urged by Fred M. Vinson before he left his post as war mobilization director to become secretary of the treasury.

A permanent Fair Employment Practice commission, recommended by the President.

Gradual Transformation

What has happened here is now becoming clear. There has been a gradual transformation in the last three months since the change of administrations, a slowing down, a resort to the "practical." It may be attributed to two influences.

The Southern wing of the Democratic party in Congress has become increasingly active and effective, encouraged by the change of administrations. It almost succeeded in scuttling the existing FEPC. Its leaders have held back the unemployment benefit and full employment bills.

THE other influence is more subtle. It comes from the substitution in key places—in the top command and lower down—of more "practical" and more phlegmatic men, several of them trained in Congress. They replace the more zealous, "needling" type of officials who were always pushing for action here and there. The latter made the New Deal very much alive, if often erratic.

There was also in the previous administration at the top a man who followed up his recommendations with pressure upon his leaders at the capitol, and thus far President Truman has exhibited little of that as far as the domestic program is concerned.

Country Facing Problems

It is going to be needed.

For the country is facing problems in the era of readjustment to peace which, in many ways, rival those of the early New Deal in the depression. They will call for a comparable vigor and inventiveness in approach. For one thing, the WPB has forecast unemployment of 7,500,000 in the year following V-J day.

There are evidences that Progressives have learned one lesson, even if late. This is that they cannot afford, henceforth, to depend almost entirely on one man, such as the late President Roosevelt, that they cannot run to the White House to settle everything, but must get out and work themselves. They must work on present members of Congress, and work to get into Congress more of the kind they can depend on.

The CIO, for instance, has sent out word to its people all over the country to work on members of Congress when they get back home.

This is a practical way to reach "practical" men.

O'DONNELL BUILDING SOLD

O'DONNELL, July 23. (Special) —O'Donnell's first building, which was erected in the summer of 1910 and was operated as a hotel for many years, has been sold by A. H. Koeninger to Joe McLaurin. It is reported that McLaurin will wreck the building and convert it into cabins at Ruidosa, N. M.

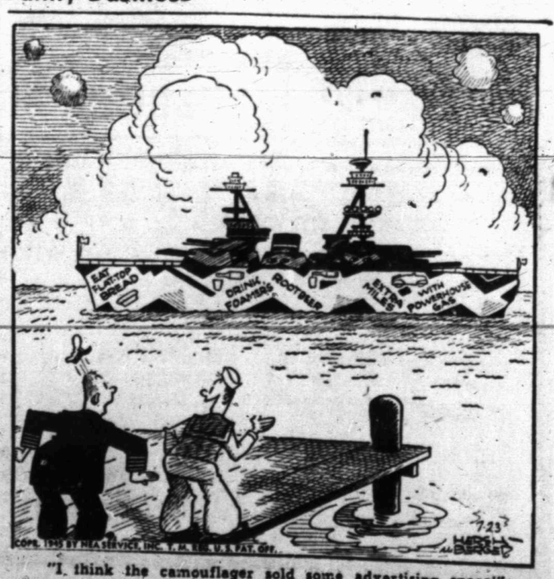

RIGHT-OF-WAY CLEARED

REYNOSA, Mexico, July 23. (AP) —Right-of-way for an 87½-mile highway leading from Reynosa into the interior of Mexico, the fifth road of its kind along the Texas border from Brownsville to Laredo, has been cleared.

Completion of the work was announced by officials of the Reynosa Chamber of Commerce.

At one time, a canister was a wicker basket for bread or fruit. It came from the Greek "kanastron."

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP)—Cotton futures slumped $1 a bale today on heavy liquidation before recovering partially on short covering and trade buying. Final prices were 30 to 60 cents a bale lower.

Selling was stimulated by war news, which raised renewed conjecture over possible military cutbacks in textile buying and reconversion problems. New Orleans and locals sold liberally but the decline attracted mill covering against textile orders towards the close.

The Commodity Credit Corp. announced an additional offering of stocks acquired under the 1944 purchase program on which the trade may submit bids beginning August 1.

Governor Urges Aid Of Officers

AUSTIN, July 23 (AP)—Gov. Coke R. Stevenson proposed today that peace officers and local parole boards notify him immediately of parole violations.

Declaring that authority to revoke a parole is about the only independent power he has in matters involving clemency, he proposed that prompt reporting of parole violations might help improve conditions of which some peace officers have complained.

Refers To Committee

The governor was referring to published reports that Texas peace officers have named a committee to study clemencies in relation to a sharp wartime crime increase.

At a press conference the governor said he had revoked an estimated 50 clemencies since he has been in office.

Referring to the overall system of clemency in Texas the governor said he normally follows the recommendations of the three-member board of pardons and paroles which makes a study of each convict's case before it recommends a pardon or parole.

Basis of Parole

Chairman Elster M. Haile of the board of pardons and paroles explained, answering a question, that a first offender convict is eligible for clemency consideration after he has completed a third of his term. Twenty days extra credit is given for every month of good behavior.

When a prisoner is conditionally pardoned he is required to report regularly to the volunteer county parole board in the county to which he is pardoned. Conditions of a pardon normally include non-absence from the county, no drinking and good conduct. A violation makes his parole subject to revocation.

Ration Plan In Mine Areas To Be Extended

WASHINGTON, July 23. (AP) — Coal and ore miners throughout the country will become eligible early next month for extra ration points for meat, dairy products and sugar.

The OPA announced today that an experimental program now in effect for San Francisco and Denver area miners only would be expanded during the first week in August to apply everywhere.

As in the two western regions, coal and ore miners who do not have access to in-plant feeding establishments will be able to obtain a monthly maximum of 50 extra red points for meats and fats, and a supplementary stamp for one pound of sugar a month.

Expansion of the program follows complaints from mining areas that the regular allotment of points is not sufficient for men doing heavy manual labor.

Three-Year Sentence Given In Sodomy Case

J. P. Rayborough, who by his own admission Monday afternoon in court had practiced with young Lubbock boys what the law calls the "abomniable and detestable crime against nature," sodomy, was sentenced by 99th District Judge G. V. Pardue to three years in the penitentiary.

Two boys, one of them 13, appeared against him.

He, 49, told officials upon his arrest and jailing in lieu of $3,000 bond, that his name was spelled "Raybaugh," that he lived at a downtown hotel and that he was born in Pennsylvania.

Judge Pardue told the man in sentencing him:

"I'd a lot rather see you hanged to one of those elm trees out on the lawn."

Maurice McCallen pleaded guilty of forgery at morning proceedings and was given suspension of a five-year sentence.

Rowan Richerson pleaded guilty of forgery and was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. District Attorney Burton S. Burks said he understood Amarillo wants Richerson after Lubbock has disposed of him.

Other cases were set for later in the week: Weldon Webb, charged with burglary; Reyes Bustillos, desertion, and Roosevelt Taylor, assault with intent to murder, will answer at 10 o'clock this morning.

Troy Lawson, charged with murder while driving an automobile while intoxicated, will be tried Wednesday morning.

Shreveport Housing Said Acutely Short

SHREVEPORT, La., July 23. (U.P.)—Jack Moore, local contractor, said today that the Shreveport housing situation was becoming so bad that he is having to complete most of 100 new homes he is building after the tenants and buyers have moved in.

Rent property owners desiring to get rid of tenants, it was said, were presenting doctor's certificates to the OPA declaring that because of their physical condition, they must occupy the property themselves.

On one street, Contractor Moore has 24 new homes, most of which are occupied by families who have been forced to move by what was called the rent property owners' trick. The street has been nicknamed "eviction row."

Vacationists Warned On Travel Hazards

If railway travel is means of transportation this summer, vacation and other non-essential travelers may find themselves stranded, according to J. J. Van Pelt, district director of the Office of Defense Transportation.

The director called attention to the fact that the ODT has placed all railway passenger coaches in to a pool to be available upon demand for the use of armed services. The demands of the armed forces for passenger equipment are expected to increase to the point where at times regularly scheduled passenger trains will have to be suspended in order to provide cars, ODT said.

The order was effective July 17, and will remain in effect, unless terminated by directives earlier, until the end of the war. By the terms of the order any rail carrier in possession of any passenger car "shall cause such car to be used for such purpose and in such service as the ODT shall direct or shall be leased, rented, hired or furnished to such other rail carrier or other person as the ODT shall designate."

OFFICE OF DEFENSE TRANSPORTATION
GENERAL ORDER 53

"On and after 12 o'clock noon, July 15, 1945, no common carrier by railroad or sleeping car company shall operate or transport any railway car containing sleeping space or sleeping accommodations to a point of distance 450 miles or less from the point of origin of such car, such distance being measured by the shortest distance by railroad over which sleeping cars are operated between such points. . . . Each common carrier by railroad shall forthwith cancel all reservations for space after 12 o'clock noon on July 15, 1945."

What about Travel now....

under the new Government rulings?

The Government has curtailed civilian travel by ordering the railroads not to make reservations on passenger trains more than five days in advance of departure and by banning sleeping car service on trips of 450 miles or less.

A lot of people are assuming that, with the European war over, the travel situation on trains should have eased up by now.

But they are finding out that it's harder than ever to get space. They're asking themselves, "Why?"

The reason is simply that the railroads are being called upon to repeat a job of moving over 3,000,000 soldiers. But this time it is to be done in 6 to 9 months whereas originally it took more than 2 years to move these men.

The railroads are still operating with the same number of passenger cars that they had when the war started. Building new passenger cars has not been permitted since Pearl Harbor.

Many Pullman cars have been converted into hospital cars, and, of course, more Pullmans and coaches than ever are being withdrawn from civilian service to use in the movement of men to the Pacific.

The great bulk of traffic for the Pacific funnels into 4 railroads to ports of embarkation in California. Santa Fe, with its improved facilities, is carrying a large part of this traffic.

This all adds up to the fact that only a very limited amount of space is left over for civilian travel.

Of course we like to accommodate our friends and make new acquaintances. But you, too, agree that the troops and materials needed to whip Japan must come first.

New cars are now on order. Santa Fe has enough new chair cars on order to seat 3186 people. 16 new lunch counter-diners are also on order. A substantial number of new sleeping cars will be placed in service on the Santa Fe as soon as War Production Board orders permit.
