Home Health gets good report

Mitchell County Home Health Agency received a deficiency-free certification from the Texas Department of Health last week and in turn, cleared up a number of deficiencies that were recorded during an April 15 visit this year by the agency.

The survey includes a review of the Agency's medical records, policies and procedures, quality assurance activities and home visits to determine the quality of patient care.

Sandra Galyean, director of the Home Health Agency, said the problems had developed over the past year and "they had to be corrected in order to continue with Medicare certification."

According to the surveyors with the Texas Department of Health, the main problem dealt with the flow of paperwork at the Agency and never with the kind or quality of care.

Mitchell County Home Health Agency provides a wide range of services to homebound patients in Mitchell, Nolan, Scurry, Howard, Coke, Sterling, Borden and Fisher counties. The services offered includes skilled nursing visits by R. N.s and L.V.N.s, home aide visits for personal care, physical therapy, speech therapy, occupational therapy and medical social services.

To qualify for home health services, a patient must be homebound and require skilled nursing or physical therapy.

Medicare defines homebound status as requiring a considerable or taxing effort for the patient to leave home.

Patients may attend church services, visit a spouse or close relative in a nursing home and go to the barber shop or beauty shop for hair care.

Sandra Galyean, R. N., has been the director of the Agency since May 17th of this year and has over ten years in the home health field.

Barlow installed as Kiwanis leader

Bill Barlow was installed as the president of the Colorado City Kiwanis Club Tuesday night succeeding Keith Ruddick who has served as president this past year.

Pat Barber will serve as the vice president and Jack Strain will be the secretary. Royce Clay was installed as the treasurer.

Serving as directors for the coming year will be John Martinez, Kenneth Rogers and Howard Quiett.

Installing the new officers and directors was Division 32 Lt. Governor, Dave Stinnett.

She emphasizes that the agency's nurses are available twenty-four hours per day and are eager and capable of assisting patients with their health care needs.

The agency is currently providing services to 97 patients in four counties and made 1025 skilled nursing visits and 763 aide visits during the month of August.

Registered Nurses coordinate all patient care and evaluate all referrals by working closely with the patient's physician.

Additional information may be obtained or a patient may be referred by calling 728-2657.

POINTING OUT LOCATIONS: Diane Perkins, Fina geologist, makes a point at the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission meeting in Colorado City Thursday night. It was the second meeting the TNRCC has held concerning the clean up at the site of the old Col Tex refinery. Over thirty people attended the meeting plus five representatives of the TNRCC from Austin.

Producers hear of boll weevil eradication

Even though Mitchell County is primarily an agricultural area, few people who are not directly involved in the production of cotton fully realize the impact the pesky boll weevil has on the local economy.

Frank Myers spoke at the lunch following the annual farm tour Wednesday and said the minimum impact dollar-wise the boll weevil has in Mitchell County is $4 million.

"In this county alone, the minimum damage the boll weevil causes is $4 million," said the former director of the Southwest Boll Weevil Eradication Program, "and it could go as high as $8"

Some seventy people registered for the lunch and heard Myers say that 30 percent of the cotton production is lost to weevils each year. So it is easy to see how a 30 percent increase over any crop year would be a bonus for the producers. "But the boll weevil can be eliminated," said Myers, "by using a 'trap and treat' method - we go strictly on a trap count. We find them and then we spray them."

BOLL WEEVIL INFORMATION: Following the annual Farm Tour last Wednesday and a noon meal, Frank Myers (left) waits to address the group as local cotton producer, Woody Anderson introduces him. Myers is the former director of the Southwest Boll Weevil Eradication Program in Arizona.

TNRCC explains delay in beginning Col Tex cleanup

It doesn't look that bad - so why is it rated the number one hazard site in the state by the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission was the question several people asked in a meeting with that state group Thursday night?

Biologist Chuck Epperson told the thirty-plus gathered for this second hearing on the initial cleanup step that "there are different pathways to exposure to hazardous elements and this site has them all ... air, surface water, ground water and the 200 acres of soil the site covers plus its closeness to the Colorado River and to the populace."

"There are sites around the state that look a lot worse but they don't meet all the criteria that this site does," added Epperson.

One man in the audience questioned the "number one rating" by stating "I grew up right next to it and used to wade in the sludge out there up to my waist and I still feel pretty healthy and so do my friends that were with me."

Most in attendance however, took another view and wanted to know "what is going on and when will it happen" since the cleanup operation was to be in full swing by Oct. 1 on the three remaining tanks on the site.

Epperson said there had been a mix up in the bidding process and it had caused at least a one month delay but by mid-October he stated, "you should see people out there in 'moon suits' working on the site."

The first phase is the removal of three large tanks that are still on the site.

Despite the fact that representatives of the TNRCC have been on the old refinery site many times, they seemed quite surprised at some seemingly obvious revelations by the audience such as finding out there is a residential area - named the Santa Fe addition - adjacent to the site.

"These are the kinds of things we need to know about," said Barbara Ferguson of the TNRCC.

"You can save us both time and money by telling us anything you know about the site by calling our toll free number: 1-800-633-9363."

Fina's representative at the meeting, Diane Perkins, told the crowd that what remained in the tanks at this time is "asphalt - just like you walk and drive on every day."

When questioned about the report from the TNRCC stating that the tanks contain benzene, chromium and other hazardous substances, Perks replied "there are trace elements there but our plans are now to even recycle the asphalt that remains in the tanks."

Fina is the only previous owner that has taken any action at all in helping clean up the refinery site. Currently they have booms across the Colorado River and have constructed an underground hydrocarbon abatement system that serves as a barrier to any more hydrocarbons finding their way to the Colorado River.

Bake Off scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 9

One of the highlights every year at the Mitchell County Fair is the annual Mitchell County Bake-Off scheduled on Saturday, Oct. 9 and sponsored by the Colorado City Business and Professional Women.

Entries will be accepted at the Fair Barn from 3:30 until 5 p.m. and all entries will remain the property of the B and PW Club until they are auctioned off at 7 p.m. Saturday evening.

There is no age limit for entering and it is open to men, women, boys and girls of Mitchell County. The divisions are adult breads, cakes and pies and youth cakes, cookies and pies.

Prizes are to be awarded in each division with the grand prize being an American Harvest Jet Stream Cooker from Corky's True Value.

One of the chemicals used is malathion at it strongest strength and it is used in a concentration of as little as 2 ounces per acre.

"It takes all the producers working together and while the cost may seem high to some ...it's not much money when you're talking about the future of the cotton industry in this area," said Myers.

The elimination of the boll weevil would also have an environmental impact. Myers said at least 30 percent less chemicals would have to be used in the county. He estimated the costs of eliminating the pest would run from $12 to $50 an acre with the federal government picking up 30 percent of this cost.

Myers said a typical program - assuming there were a million weevils to be treated - would see a fifty percent decrease in the second

Baptist General Convention to be held in Dallas

About 8,000 Texas Baptists from churches throughout the state are expected to convene in Dallas Convention Center, Oct. 25-26, for the annual meeting of the 2.5 million-member Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Under a theme of "The Family of God Touching Families," the messengers (delegates), beginning Monday afternoon at 1:30, will conduct business involving the convention's institutions and state missions ministries.

Messengers will elect new officers, including a successor to Dick Maples, pastor of First Baptist Church, Bryan, who has served the traditional two terms as convention president. He will deliver the annual presidential address Monday evening.

Also, the messengers will consider a $63.5 million Cooperative Program budget and resolutions on key moral and social issues and will elect about 300 trustees and board members for convention institutions and agencies.

More than a third of the recommended budget would help support missions work of the nationwide Southern Baptist Convention, including about 9,000 missionaries in the United States and 126 foreign countries.

The remainder would help to operate 23 Texas Baptist educational and benevolent institutions and provide a vast network of state missions ministries including beginning new churches and strengthening missions.

D.L. Lowrie, pastor of First Baptist Church, Lubbock, will deliver the annual convention sermon on "The Changing Family."

Other speakers include BGCT Executive Director William M. Pinson, Jr.; Russell Dilday, president of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth; and Jerry Rankin, president of the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board.

Woman's Missionary Union and Texas Baptist Men will meet Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 26, in the Convention Center.

OUTDOORS

BY RANDY BULLARD

Things are looking pretty good in Mitchell County and in the State of Texas, especially when it comes to fish and wildlife. The fishing is good (especially bass), the deer are abundant and I've seen more quail lately than you can shake a stick at. Even had some good reports of the blue (scaled quail) trying to make a comeback. Rattlesnakes are numerous as usual, but the reptile that has caught my attention the most is the more frequent sightings of the "horny toad" or more correctly the "Texas horned lizard."

The Texas horned lizard is one of 14 species of horned lizards found throughout the western U.S. and portions of Canada and Mexico. In Texas, the horned lizard is extremely scarce in the eastern part of the state. Hot, arid regions with sparse plant growth such as mesquite and cactus are preferred by horned lizards. They bury themselves in loose sand or soil to regulate their body temperature and avoid predation, making western Texas an ideal habitat.

Large live ants are their primary food source, but they will also dine on beetles and other small insects. This diet provides some moisture, but the horned lizard will also drink the dew off of plants. He must consume large quantities of food because of the ants' low nutritional value. Hence nature has given him a large wide stomach with an appetite to match.

Its mottled coloring and flat body (that casts almost no detectable shadow) blend with the color and texture of the surrounding soil, helping it avoid predators. When alarmed, the horned lizard may exhibit an unusual and well known self-defense trick-it squirts blood from its eyes for a distance of several feet. The blood is thought to be an irritant to the eyes of small mammals, and apparently the lizard suffers no ill effects from this bizarre behavior.

There are several theories as to why the horned lizard declined to the point that it has to be placed on the state's "threatened species" list. Habitat alteration and our widespread use of pesticides has eliminated much of its food sources.

In east Texas, fire ants will spread into an area and force the large aggressive ants to abandon their nests and move elsewhere. Efforts to eradicate fire ants with chemicals often result in elimination of native ants as well. The horned lizard's major food source is gone and it does not find the fire ants a welcome substitute.

Commercial and private collecting have also contributed to the decline of the horned lizard. Tourists visiting Texas (and some residents) were amazed by the little prehistoric-looking creatures (especially the cute little ones) and would often take them home. Their popularity as pets prompted them to be shipped all over the U.S. by pet dealers.

But as usual with any wild animal, captivity spells certain death when done with good intentions. Their captors usually cannot supply enough large, live red ants for food. Even if food is adequate, most homes are too cool to allow its metabolism to process food into energy, and too warm for it to enter a complete cycle of hibernation. The animal simply loses strength, withers and dies.

Once again man has played havoc on a species of wildlife and once again man has had to intervene to correct the problem through regulations and education. Thus, after 5 years of being on the "threatened species" list, this little well-liked ant eater is being seen again.

So the next time you see one of these critters basking in the sun, look at it and even pet it, but remember it is illegal to possess or kill...his survival depends on it.

Extension Homemakers Council changes name

The National Extension Homemakers Council, Inc. changed its name in February, 1992, to become the National Association for Family and Community Education, or NAFCE.

All state affiliates were encouraged to adopt the same name, inserting the state's name instead of "national", thus changing the Texas Extension Homemakers Association to become the Texas Association for Family and Community Education, or TAFCE.

The delegates to the 1993 Annual TEHA State Convention in Waco in September addressed this proposal, presented from McLennan County and recommended by the State Bylaws Committee. The proposal passed with the two-thirds majority vote necessary for a bylaws amendment.

The mission of the organization has not changed. Our mission continues to be continuing education, leadership development and community service. This change does not diminish the fact that we are homemakers and proud to be homemakers-but we are so much more. We are about families in our local community, but we are concerned about families in an even larger global community.

"Homemaker" has a different meaning to different people. While we members view "homemaker" to mean more than operating a household, many do not. Many others view it to primarily mean cooking and serving.

We think the new name will bring a true awareness of our organization. We members know who we are...others do not. The new name is already opening new doors.

Locally, the Mitchell County Extension Homemakers Council will be known as the Mitchell County Family and Community Education Council, or Mitchell County FCE Council. Buford/Fairview/ North Loraine/ Looney. Extension Homemakers Clubs will be known as the Buford/Fairview/ North Loraine/ Looney Family and Community Education Clubs of Buford/ NorthLoraine/ Fairview/ Looney FCE Clubs.

Fire Prevention Week proclaimed

County Judge Ray Mayo has proclaimed the week of October 3-9, 1993 as FIRE PREVENTION WEEK in Mitchell County.

The Mitchell County Farm Bureau, in conjunction with all fire departments in the county are working together to emphasize fire prevention and protection throughout the county.

Fire Prevention Week is always the Sunday-through-Saturday period in which falls October 9, date of the Great Chicago Fire of 1871. The Chicago disaster killed 250 people and destroyed more than 17,400 buildings.

In this proclamation, Judge Mayo has called upon the citizens of Mitchell County to participate in Fire Prevention Week activities such as locating and eliminating fire hazards; developing a home escape plan; and as the 1993 theme suggests—"Get Out, Stay Out! Your Fire Safe Response". David Stubblefield, President of Mitchell County Farm Bureau said "Fire is both friend and foe. We can't live without it, but its destructive power is a threat we must control." Protect yourself by keeping fire a friend:

- * Read and follow instructions with portable heaters. Place them where they won't ignite combustibles or be tipped over. Never use gasoline in a kerosene heater, and make certain gasoline and kerosene containers are clearly marked to avoid a mix-up. Never use a kerosene or gas-fired heater in a closed area - have ample ventilation. Be certain you use the correct grade of fuel for your portable heating equipment.

- * Check your heating system prior to the heating season. Install and use wood-burning stoves as directed in the manuals or other literature. Screen fireplaces. Keep chimneys and flues free of obstructions and creosote buildup.

- * Keep matches and lighters out of children's reach.

- * Never smoke in bed and avoid the easy chair when drowsy. Avoid smoking when using flammable materials or in places that have readily combustible materials such as hay, straw, dry weeds, grain dust, etc. Store flammable liquids in well marked, closed containers. Make sure your or match is "out" before discarding.

- * Install approved lightning protection systems on main buildings. Inspect them annually to make sure they are properly grounded.

- * Be prepared for fire should it strike. Have operating smoke detectors and fire extinguishers. Develop and practice a home fire escape plan. Teach children how to call for help. Have a water supply available to fight fire.

- * Choose and regularly inspect fire extinguishers that are the right size and type for the fires that might occur.

- * Consider installing a sprinkler system in all new construction.

- * Latest information indicates that every 15 seconds a fire department responds to a fire somewhere in the U.S...

- * A residential fire occurs every 66 seconds...

- * There is a civilian (Non-fire service person) fire death every 118 minutes...

- * There is a civilian fire injury every 18 minutes...

- * An estimated $9,467,000,000 in property damage occurred as a result of fire in 1991, including 49,000 vehicle fires.

- * It is further estimated that more than 4,000 civilians (non-fire persons) died as a result of fire in 1992.

- * Regularly inspect your house and out-buildings for fire hazards. Check the electrical system, electrical appliances and equipment, fuel storage, heaters and heating system. Make needed repairs or replacements without delay. Don't overload circuits or bypass fuses/breakers.

- * Remove trash, stacks of paper and other unneeded combustibles that could feed a fire.

- * For the hearing impaired a bright flashing light provides success in gaining attention. Use 110 candela when placed approximately six feet.

- * For the hearing impaired a bright flashing light provides success in gaining attention. Use 110 candela when placed approximately six feet from the floor and connected with a smoke detector. Always consider variables. For more information call 301-463-0278.

WIC participation encouraged

As of July 1, 1993, the administration of the Womens, Infants, and Childrens Program (WIC) was transferred from the Texas Department of Health to Outreach Health Services. The WIC clinic is currently located at 2112 Hickory, and is opened every Wednesday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

In an effort to increase WIC participation, Fuller's Thriftway is sponsoring a "Bring A Friend to WIC" contest. A gift certificate will be given away to the participant that brings the most new clients. The gift certificate will be given away the week before Thanksgiving.

WIC is a nutritional program which provides nutrition education and nutritious foods to pregnant, breastfeeding, and postpartum women, infants, and children up to the age of 5.

WIC is an equal opportunity program that does not discriminate on the basis of race, national origin, age, or disability. If you or anyone you know would like to apply for WIC, please call 728-2146 for an appointment.

NEWS FROM

LORAIN SENIOR CITIZENS CENTER

The board of directors met Sept. 6th on their regular first Monday of the month.

During the business session, yea votes carried to raise the price of lunch meals from $1.50 to $1.75. This cost increase will take effect Oct. 1st, this year. Cuts in government funding starting Oct. 1st has made this necessary.

This calendar years board is made up of Presley Powell, president, Lee Matlock, vice president, Sue Lankford, treasurer, Bertha Fay Snyder, secretary. Also directors Effie Wheeler, Agnes Haney, Bobby Graham, Margaret Brame and Millie Rose.

Darlene Hamrick, Manager, assistant, L. Lewis, Jo Ann Long is bookkeeper, Bessie Ann Vaughn attendance clerk. On kitchen roster is Gurinn Henderson, cook, Mildred Rose, assistant cook, and green thumb workers Abrams Aguilar and Valentina Martinez.

Billie Schroeder is manager of Taylor Witta Senior Complex plus wonderful members and friends who volunteer their time and efforts...Also all the people who attend and eat. All these people keep the center open. You may come socialize, play games and have a hot nutritional meal if you are 60 years of age or the spouse of someone who is 60 or the guest of a 60 year old.

Our friend and fellow member Irene Hester fell at the Loraine Post Office Monday the 20th. It took several stitches to close a nasty cut on the back of her head. After leaving the Colorado City Hospital she came on back to eat lunch with us at the center. Native Lorainians seem to be tough. We certainly are glad she is still up and around.

Nannie Lou Miles is some better and has now gone home from the Mitchell County Hospital.

BRIDLEY

A Texas Parks and Wildlife Hunter's Safety Course is set for Oct. 4, 5 and 6th from 6 until 10 p.m. at the Ag Building at the Loraine ISD.

Game Warden Randy Bullard said the class will be limited to the first 25 who sign up and those interested need to call 737-2225 to register. The cost for the course is $5.

Paul Hunter showed slight improvement after heart by-pass surgery at last inquiry Monday the 20th.

It was great to have Elsie Freeman in attendance last week. Also Hilda Etheridge. Both these ladies have had a long, bad time with broken bones and surgeries.

Iva Armstrong brought down a real cute idea for a Halloween project. Goblins will be here again soon.

We are happy to report two new members. They are Forrest and Modene Porter from Roscoe. We hope they enjoy all the activities and the good lunches.

Blood pressure readings were taken by Home Health Care the 8th and again on the 22nd.

After reading a small piece by Homer, some senior ladies might want to do like-wise... "Grecian ladies counted their age from their marriage, not from their birth!!" If that were the case today, seventy or eighty year old ladies might not be old enough to come to the Center!!

We might have a Center full of 60 year old, or older men, waiting for the girls to mature!!

Just a thought!
See you at the Center.

Wolves lose final non-district tilt

Big plays...big plays...big plays!
That is what has bothered the Colorado City Wolves all year and they again proved to be the downfall in Muleshoe Friday night as the hometown Mules defeated the Wolves, 27-7.

Take away those big plays and it would have been much closer and it could have just as easily gone the other way if the Wolves had been able to generate any ground attack at all.

The Wolves were not able to get their running offense in gear in the game but did jell with their passing attack late to avoid a shutout in their last non-district game of the season. They managed to complete 14 passes out of 30 for 151 yards. The Mules were rushing for over 155 yards in the first half alone as Jake Adair gained much of that on two scoring plays from his backfield spot. One was a 35-yard scamper with 5:20 remaining in the first quarter and seven seconds later, he scored again on a 45 yard run following an outside kick recovery by Muleshoe.

For the game, the Mules ended up with 234 yards rushing against a Colorado City defense which spent much of the 2 1/2 hour long marathon on the field. It was evident too as several Wolves were bothered with leg cramps as the game continued past 10:30 p.m.

Colorado City scored with 6:08 left in the game following a recovery of one of four Muleshoe fumbles.

The Wolves took over on the Mule's 36 and a third down pass from Jason Castillo to Daniel Silva put the Wolves in scoring position at the seven. The first play was for naught but Ashley Walthall scooted in from the seven to put the Wolves only two touchdowns behind as Frank Espinoza kicked the extra point.

Muleshoe came back with less than two minutes left in the game to ice it at 27-7 against the weary Wolves.

Colorado City will host Sonora Friday in the first district game of the season.

8th grade Wolves defeat Coahoma

The Colorado City 8th grade football team defeated Coahoma last week 28-0. Scoring for the 8th graders were Perry Noblett on a 55 yard run, Adam Molina scored in the second quarter on a 35 yard run and a 25 yard run in the third quarter. He also added a 93 yard touch down run in the fourth quarter on a reverse. Coach Yardy Powell said the win over Coahoma brings our record to 2-1. We got off to a slow start against Stanton but have played well the last two games. Our next game is here against Stanton October 7 at 6 p.m.

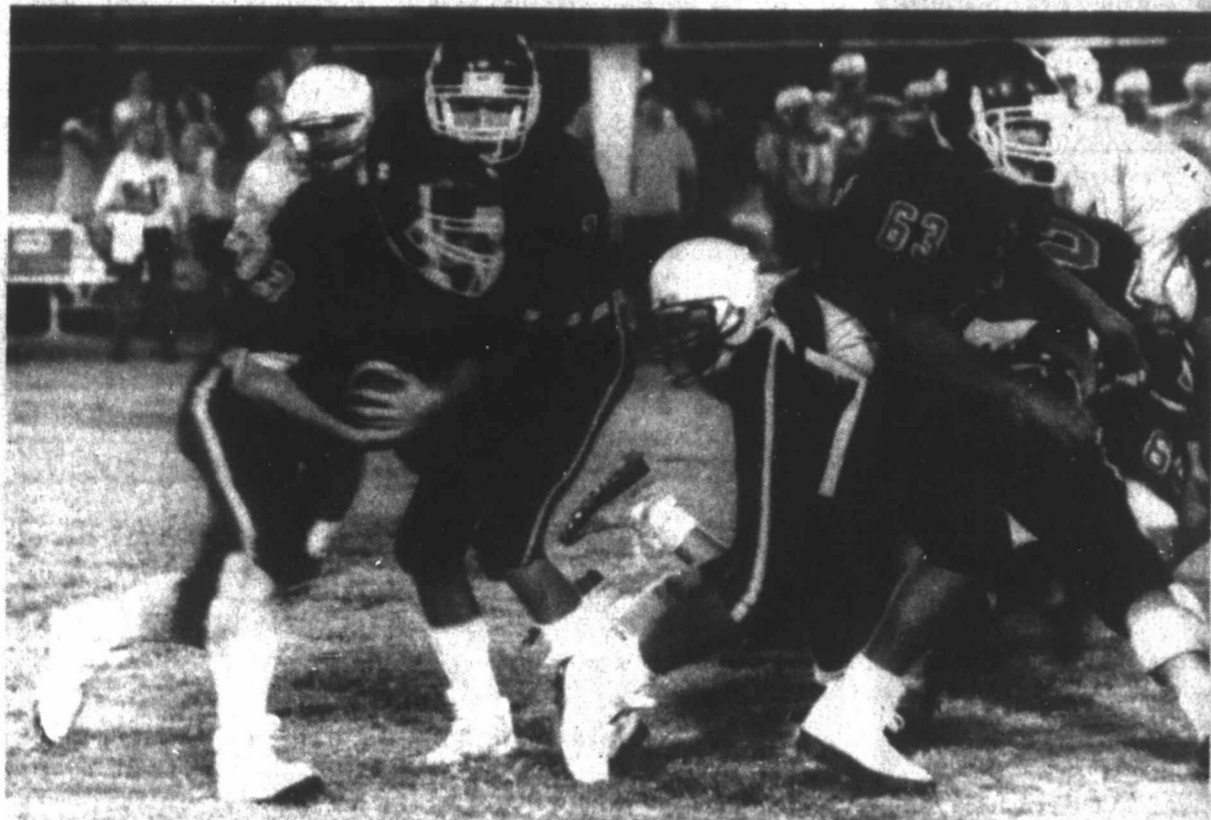

7th graders lose to Big Spring

The 7th grade "A" Volleyball team played Big Spring lost 15-2, 1-15 and 11-15. Points were scored by Kendra Anderson, Jamie Mason, Kaylon Graves, Jeanette Morgan. Coach Aberegee said we really played a good match but Big Spring just out served us the last two games. We have another shot at Big Spring and I think we will know what to expect and be ready for them.

The 7th grade "B" Volleyball team played against Big Spring and lost 12-15, 2-15. Points for the girls were scored by Shelly Pilcher, Sarah Selvera, Julie Ellis and Amanda Rivera. Coach Shona Aberegg said this was a tough night for the "B" team because we made too many mistakes and could not serve the ball over the net. This is a good group of girls but we still need to get more consistent with our serving.

The 7th grade "C" Volleyball team played against Big Spring and lost 15-7, 11-15, 13-15. Scoring for Colorado City were Victoria Rivera, Christy Smith, Sofia Salazar, Sherri Mayes, Adelita Garza, Angela Leanos, Lila Quiroz, Amanda Reyes and April Gutierrez. Coach Aberegg said these girls did a super job for their first game, they have improved tremendously.

JUNIOR VARSITY ON THE MOVE: Number 33 Joe Ross Jamison takes a handoff from quarterback Lance Dockrey and follows the blocking of number 63 Andrew Briseno in the JV game against Greenwood Thursday evening. The young Wolves lost to the speedy Greenwood team, 40-14.

J.V. Wolves lose to Greenwood 40-14

The Wolves junior varsity gave up some big plays in the second half Thursday afternoon to let Midland Greenwood pull away for a 40-14 victory.

The halftime score was 20-14 as Daniel Duran and Jamie Gutierrez both scored a touchdown. Tony Cornada converted the two extra points said coach Epperson.

"Greenwood had lots of speed but we still continue to give up the big plays," said Epperson.

KIT'S LIT

BY KITTEN ARTHUR

What exactly is meant by learning styles, and how do they affect my child's education? This question comes to my desk quite often, especially since Colorado ISD has trained its teachers in the basics through PSI.

Quite simply, there are four basic ways in which students learn information: visually (through seeing), auditorily (through hearing), tactilely (through touch), and kinesthetically (through moving). The more ways we are educators (and co-educators!) offer information, the better our students will learn and retain knowledge.

In the past, most teaching involved only visual and auditory stimulation (sometimes only auditory). The teacher taught by lecture only, the students listened and took notes. If a student had strong audio-visual skills, he or she learned rapidly and was labeled a "good student." The rest of the students made poorer grades, and many students dropped out of school only to make their living (and oftentimes their fortune) in the world of oil, agriculture, or industry.

With the demise of the industrial society and the boom of the information age, however, attitudes are changing. Brain-based research is relatively new on the scene, but it has opened educators' eyes to a startling reality: all children can learn—maybe not on the same day or in the same way, but they can learn information if we can alter the way we present it.

Today in most CISD classrooms, you'll see a different look from the classroom of yesteryear. Of course you'll still see teachers, but you're most likely to find them moving constantly around the room to assist students, rather than behind a desk or podium droning out lengthy lectures. You'll see students sitting on the floor, on a couch, working in small groups or independently, and you'll see chairs clustered rather than in rows. Students might be tracing spelling words written in glue with their fingers, using brightly colored geometric pieces to learn fractions, or delivering an oral report to their classroom dressed as a favorite character.

You'll see some areas of the classroom brightly lit while others are dim. Soft music may be playing, or students may be listening to taped books on headphones. Some students may even be snacking on low-fat veggies or popcorn with a water bottle close by. You'll see loads of students' products displayed in rooms, halls, and windows—even in our secondary schools!

Sound a little scary? Actually, because of so much research in how children learn, we know we're on the right track. Does altering our teaching to fit individual learning styles make it "easy" for students to pass, and therefore "dumb down" the curriculum for our best and brightest? Absolutely not. What it does do is to help all students realize how they learn best and then adjust to any teaching situation.

Because the knowledge base of information will double about every 30 days by the year 2000, educators cannot possibly "teach it all" anymore. Instead, we must instill in our students the ability to learn how to learn. Our challenge, then, is to use the available research, offer information to our students in a way that fits their learning style, and become a "guide on the side" rather than a "sage on the stage."

If you are interested in learning more about learning styles—your own as well as your student's—plan to attend the Learning Style Workshop to be held in the CMS cafeteria on Tuesday, October 26, 1993, at 7 p.m. See you there!

Pack your kids a healthy lunch

Pack a nutritious lunch that is sure to be a kid-pleaser. Moms can make lunch fun and healthy with a few brown-bag basics.

"To have a productive day of learning, every child needs a balanced meal," said Amy Bain, R.d., dietitian at Methodist Hospital.

A pointer for packers is to use less mayonnaise and butter (100 calories per tablespoon). Try low-fat yogurt or mustard. Note also if you use a high-quality bread, you will not have to use as much spread to add taste. To prevent soggy sandwiches, pack sandwich items separately and create your sandwich right before eating. Lettuce, sprouts, tomatoes, onion, cucumber and apples should be packed in separate containers.

Remember to avoid fatty and salty luncheon meats. Your best bet is freshly sliced meats from the deli. Another idea is to try the PB without the J. Consider replacing the jelly with fresh fruit slices like apples, pears and bananas.

Here are five things that should be in every brown bag lunch.

1. Fruit or fruit juice
2. Vegetables or vegetable juice
3. High-fiber grains (whole-wheat bread, crackers, pasta or rice)
4. High-protein food (peanut butter, lean meat, fish or skinless poultry)
5. Nonfat or low-fat dairy (milk, cheese, cottage cheese or yogurt)

Avoid chips which contain 10 calories per chip. Good finger-vegetables are cherry tomatoes, carrots, broccoli and celery. Since most of us do not get enough calcium, a good substitute for a coke would be milk. It is a good habit to drink a carton or glass of milk at lunchtime. Choose 100 percent fruit juices with the word "juice" on the label. Avoid fruit drinks. If the words "drink" or "punch" appear, the beverage is often high in sugar and corn syrups.

Is your family bored with bread? Creative bread substitutes include corn or flour tortillas, whole-grain English muffins, rice cakes, bagels and pita bread.

Brush and Palette Club holds classes

The Colorado City Brush and Palette Club will be holding free art classes for area adults. The classes are for beginners only who want to learn how to get started creating and enjoying your own paintings. Although the classes are free of charge, there will be some supplies that must be purchased prior to classes which will begin as soon as we have 8 people.

Instructors will be members of the Brush and Palette Club. Classes will be held at the Wallace Center each Thursday from 9:00 a.m.-Noon. For more information please call 728-3676 or 728-8812.

Medical Fund

A medical fund has been set up at City National Bank and the First National Bank to defray medical costs for Colton McCright.
