West Texas C.C. Heads Hush Talk Of Re-Organizing Regional Body

DIRECTORS AT EL PASO VOTE TO MEET DEBT

W. B. Hamilton on Committee to Solve Finance Problems

DEBT 'UNNECCESARY'

Andy Bourland's Report Pleads for Change In Membership Work

By FRED DYE
Associated Press Staff Writer

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 23.—Expressing determination to halt immediately talk of dissolution or reorganization of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, the board of directors late today appointed a sub-committee of five to arrange overnight a plan to wipe out the organization's indebtedness variously expressed as from $18,000 to $25,000 and to finance the chamber's work for 1930.

C. M. Caldwell, Abilene banker, was named chairman, with other committeemen W. B. Hamilton, of Wichita Falls; O. P. Thrane, Snyder; J. D. Hamlin, Farrell, and J. P. Williams, Mineral Wells.

Late tonight the committee was going over figures to determine the exact deficit, and it found the problem not so great as was at first believed. It appeared there were pledges of approximately $12,000. The plan seemed shaping to call upon the pledges to make good, and then for directors to go into their own pockets to make up the difference and point the chamber towards a business basis for next year.

Ignorance Blamed

The committee was named upon motion of Caldwell, who asserted "we never should have permitted this organization to get into debt." If the money was not forthcoming from another source the directors themselves should pay it, he said.

Hamilton asserted that ignorance of the directors of what their own organization was doing had led to the deficit and added "I feel so guilty I feel we directors ought to go down in our pockets and pay this debt out."

$14,000 Due

A. M. Bourland, president and since July 15, last, acting general manager, said in response to question from Caldwell, that when he took over the organization's destinies he found it sadly rundown and West Texans refusing to support it further with some directors disposed to give added shove to the downhill journey. He personally had set about restoring confidence, and said $14,000 in memberships was due. Previously it had been costing 40 to 50 per cent to collect dues, he said.

The conclave, a pre-session to the formal opening of the chamber's 11th annual convention tomorrow, was signalized by the president's report, which showed striking accomplishments for the organization during the past year.

Plan Too Costly

"The present plan of raising memberships is entirely too costly as it costs in many instances more than 50 per cent to solicit and collect the membership," Mr. Bourland said.

Wichita Says Official Farewell To Harrison at "Radio Banquet"

City's Leaders Pay Tribute to Work of C.-C. Manager Over KGKO; Chatham Named to Fill Post Temporarily

Wichita Falls said the official farewell to Hubert M. Harrison Wednesday night in a "radio banquet" broadcast over station KGKO in tribute to the 10 years' of service which Mr. Harrison has given to this city as manager of the chamber of commerce.

Mr. Harrison's resignation was accepted by the chamber's board of directors Wednesday to allow Mr. Harrison to assume his new duties as manager of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce on Nov. 1. J. W. Chatham, industrial and traffic manager with a length of service equal to that of Mr. Harrison, was named acting manager.

Notables Make Talks

Speakers at the radio program Wednesday night included Mayor J. W. Akin, Dr. J. W. Cantwell, J. H. Allison, A. E. Kelly, J. C. Mytinger, Henry Camp Harris, J. M. Gilliam, Walter Nelson Jr., and Orville Bullington. Each speaker told in glowing terms of Mr. Harrison's work here with the city, the schools, the newspapers, the community chest, as a religious teacher, with the National Security Life Insurance company, a local organization; the radio station, the junior chamber of commerce and the senior chamber. Orchestra numbers were interspersed with the speeches and R. E. Shepherd gave a special song, "The City That Faith Built."

Appreciation for the cooperation and kindness which Wichitans have shown him was expressed by Mr. Harrison in his reply.

"These good friends of mine in their enthusiasm and splendid

$33,133 IN CHEST FUND

Wichita Nears Half-Way Mark in Drive

Wichita Falls was almost halfway to its goal of $70,000 for the Community Chest at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening, with a total of $33,133.75 reported from the workers.

The school division, under the direction of Dr. J. W. Cantwell, surpassed all so far in going over the top. With a quota of $600 assigned it, the schools had turned in $850 Wednesday. Other divisions which had reached their quota were the county division, with a quota of $400, and the miscellaneous with a quota of $600.

Districts which had turned in the full amount asked were No. 9, No. 11 and No. 29. Forty teams have not yet turned in complete reports.

CAMPAIGN CHAIRMEN ASKED TO REPORT

Chairmen of subscription committees of the community chest campaign were urged Wednesday afternoon by A. E. Kelly, campaign director, to again report their totals at noon Thursday. The results of the report made Wednesday noon were most gratifying, Mr. Kelly said, pointing out that a knowledge of the progress of the drive is essential for its successful completion in a short time.

Sanction Is Accorded To Royal Love Match

BRUSSELS, Oct. 23. (UP)—The engagement of Prnicess Marie Jose, daughter of King Albert, to Crown Prince Humbert of Italy—a love match between one of the most beautiful princesses and the most handsome prince in Europe—was announced officially tonight.

Formal announcement of the engagement followed a visit which Humbert paid to the royal family at noon today, when he formally asked the hand of the beautiful young princess. King Albert and Queen Elizabeth gave their consent and the engagement became a fact.

Officials Ask Larger Westmoreland College

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Oct. 23. (AP)—Officials of Westmoreland college hoped today for approval by the West Texas Methodist conference of their request that the school be made an enlarged, co-educational institution.

E. R. Stanford, president of the college, announced the change was contingent upon success of a campaign for funds and support of other Methodist conferences would be sought.

The conference began a five-day meeting.

Woman Witness Faces Perjury Indictment

LAREDO, Texas, Oct. 23. (AP)—An indictment charging perjury in connection with her testimony at the trials of Raymond J. West and Tomas Hernandez, convicted of the slaying of Harry Williams, newspaper reported, has been returned by a grand jury against Maria Alatorre, hotel keeper. The woman was a defense witness.

Murder Charge Returned In Shooting of June Hilburn

BOND IS REFUSED

16 Other Indictments Given Court in Final Jury Report

An indictment charging Roy Grundy with the murder of June Hilburn on the streets of Wichita Falls fast Thursday morning was returned with 16 other bills Wednesday afternoon when the 30th district grand jury made its final report before adjourning for the October term.

Trial Next Month

Sam Spence, district attorney, recommended that no bond be set for Grundy. A speedy trial, probably early in November, will be sought, the attorney declared. Grundy surrendered to members of the police department after Hilburn, his former neighbor, had died from three shotgun wounds, received as he ran for shelter toward the door of the Club cafe, 615 Eighth street, early in the morning of Oct. 17.

In the only statement which has been made public since the shooting, Grundy was quoted as saying the affair grew out of "family troubles." Mr. and Mrs. Grundy, who occupied a Burnett street house adjoining the residence of Hilburn, have been divorced since Sept. 18. Mrs. Grundy has denied that her former husband had any cause for jealousy. She has visited him in his cell at the county jail since the shooting.

Of the other 16 indictments returned at the end of a record day's work in the grand jury room, two charged swindling, three whisky violations, two theft, two receiving

State Fails To Shake Pantages

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 23. (UP)—Alexander Pantages' story that he was forced to repulse compromising advances by Eunice Pringle remained unshaken as he left the witness stand today at his trial on a charge of attacking the 17-year-old dancer and the defense closed its case.

The multi-millionaire showman's last few minutes of cross-examination were devoted to emphatic denials that he had told police officers a story different from that he related on the stand.

When he returned to his chair at counsel table the jury had his accusation that Miss Pringle had obtained an interview, torn his clothing and screamed as part of a plot to compromise him for money or theatrical booking.

Plainview Celebrates Opening of Pavement

Special to The Record News.

PLAINVIEW, Texas, Oct. 23.—Approximately 2,000 people joined in Plainview's celebration of the opening of the north end of state highway 9, which is the first hard-surfaced highway in the South Plains of Texas. The stretch of road is nine miles in length and reaches from Plainview north to the Swisher county line. A brief program was given after which a motion picture news reel was made. The Plainview Municipal band furnished the music for the occasion ending their concert with "The Old Dirt Roads are not What They Used to Be."

TRIAL NEAR END

Fall's Case Will Reach Jury's Hands Some Time Today

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (UP)—The seventh and perhaps last of the criminal oil trials, that of former Interior Secretary Albert B. Fall, on a charge of accepting a bribe from E. L. Doheny, will go to the jury tomorrow.

The trials have resulted so far in four acquittals, one conviction, and one mistrial.

Justice William Hitz will charge the jury in district supreme court, soon after court opens, to stick to the evidence and disregard any sympathy they may have for the 68-year-old defendant, who has been ill throughout the trial, and was diagnosed at one time as having bronchial pneumonia.

PETROLIA FIELD HAS 'COMEBACK'

Townsite Tests to Follow Discovery Well

(By Staff Correspondent)

PETROLIA, Texas, Oct. 23.—The bringing in of two good wells, and the staking out of sites for other tests to be drilled at once in the townsite and vicinity of Petrolia, north Clay county, has again focused the eyes of operators and others on the possibilities of another big pool in this, one of the oldest fields in the state of Texas.

The completion of the Merrick-Goldsmith No. 1 Stine in block 15, Parker county school lands, from a new stand at 1017 feet, and but a stone's throw from a spot where 20 years ago the county was thrown into excitement by the completion of a huge gas well, and a section which was regarded by the oil fraternity in general as a depleted area, is again the factor in the probable come-back of a far reaching and extensive re-drilling of this part of the county. The completion of the well, which showed the earmarks of 125 barrels, was followed by a demand for nearby acreage and several leases changed hands at ordinary prices. To the east of the producer Art & Taxman of Wichita Falls secured a lease and immediately started drilling and in a week's time were amply rewarded by the completion of a 200 barreler from the same pay depth. The same parties made two additional locations, one to the north and one to the east, and is already drilling No. 2 well, an east offset.

To the south of the Art-Taxman well in block 16, Byers Brothers land, Hickman & Associates No. 1 Byars Brothers has moved on and will begin drilling by the end of the week.

In the southeast and east part of the townsite of Petrolia a number of lots have been leased with the view of drilling one or more tests within the confines of the town itself, and with leases changing almost daily Petrolia and its surrounding tracts during the next few weeks may once more enact over the scenes of its former activities of 20 years ago, then North Texas' premier producing area.

Purchase of Yo-Yo Tops Not Proof of Insanity

COLUMBUS, Kan., Oct. 23. (UP)—The purchase of half a dozen Yo-Yo tops and a dozen bottles of soda pop each day is not proof of insanity, it was ruled by District Judge John W. Hamilton here today in a sanity hearing for Mrs. Ethel Brotherton.

The defense had based a plea of insanity on these contentions in an effort to prevent trial of Mrs. Brotherton on a charge of murdering Bonnie Davis, 17, sweetheart of the defendant's 14-year-old son.

COWBOY FLIER ORDERS FUEL TO GREENLAND

Gasoline Sent to Northern Continent Long Ago For A 'Mr. Diteman.'

PLANE UNREPORTED

Silence Lends New Fears For Safety of Daring Adventurer

LONDON, Oct. 24. (Thursday)—(AP)—An exchange telepraph dispatch from Copenhagen today said that it was learned that the Greenland trade department two months ago had been ordered to send gasoline to Julianshaab, Greenland, for a "Mr. Diteman."

The dispatch said an unnamed American firm had ordered three drums of gasoline, each holding about 50 gallons, to be held for disposal at the Greenland port. The order was executed, but it was not known if the gasoline was claimed or whether the consignee was Urban F. Diteman Jr., the Montana cattle buyer, who took off alone in a small airplane from Harbor Grace, N. F., on Tuesday.

DAY PASSES OFF WITHOUT NEWS

(By The Associated Press)

The silence that marked the unauspicious transatlantic start of monoplane Golden Hind had placed pilot and machine last night in that category which few survive—missing and unreported.

After more than a day since Urban F. Diteman Jr. soared into the East from the shores of New Foundland, leaving only a note to announce his adventure, no word had come from him and there was no report of his tiny plane, without wireless and a ready prey to the pre-winter seas of the North Atlantic. In fact, there was nothing to indicate that Diteman had got far from the North American coast, or even that he was going to London, except his note.

Only Negative Reports

From the seaboard, mid-ocean and England—Diteman's destination in his 2,350 mile flight from Harbor Grace, New Foundland—came nothing but negative reports. Only in a home in Portland, Ore., and another in Billings, Mont., where waited parents and wife and children, was there any hope. It

HOOVER TALKS ON WATERWAYS

President Speaks at Louisville on Program

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 23. (UP)—President Hoover, addressing the nation from Memorial hall here tonight, proclaimed the renaissance of "Ole Man River."

The president had planned to make his speech from a puffing tail-wheel steamer moored to a tobacco wharf, but the inclement weather which has dodged him since he started on his Ohio river celebration tour, followed him here with rain which at times turned to snow and forced him to talk indoors.

Program Outline

He outlined in detail the administration program for "modernizing every part of our waterways which will show economic justification in aid to our farmers and industries."

Average expenditures of approximately $100,000,000 annually from the federal treasury during the next 10 years are contemplated in the new national program.

Major projects listed by the president were:

1. "We should complete the entire Mississippi system within the next five years.

2. "We should continue improvement of the channels in the Great Lakes. We should determine and construct those works necessary for stabilizing the lake levels.

St. Lawrence Project

3. "One of the most vital improvements to transportation of the North American continent is the removal of the obstacles in the St. Lawrence river to ocean-going vessels inward to the Great Lakes. Our nation should undertake to do its part whenever our Canadian friends have overcome those difficulties which lie in the path of their making similar undertakings.

4. "At the present time we have approximately 746 miles of intercoastal canals. We still have approximately 1,000 miles to build. We should complete this program over a period of less than 10 years.

5. "We shall expedite the work of flood control on the lower Mississippi in every manner possible."

FINANCE GROUP SETS BIG SUM FOR CAMPAIGN

Legal Advisors Asked To Prepare For Stock Sales In Wichita Area

FUND OPEN TO ALL

Every Citizen Is Offered Chance to Buy Shares, Says Hines

Resolutions naming $1,000,000 as the amount to be raised as capital for the recently announced deep oil drilling corporation and asking the legal committee to prepare forms at once for use in obtaining subscriptions for stock were passed at a meeting of the finance committee held Wednesday afternoon in the office of Harry Hines, chairman.

Major Amount Selected

Decision as to the amount of stock subscriptions to be sought for the drilling campaign in the Wichita, Archer-Young, Wilbarger, and Clay districts was left up to the finance committee at the meeting of 100 business men which launched the corporation Oct. 16. The general meeting recommended that the capital be not less than $500,000 nor more than $1,000,000, and the finance committee selected the major amount for the campaign in this territory.

Second Meet Planned

The meeting Wednesday adjourned to be resumed early next week at a time to be selected by the chairman, it was said. Thorough discussion of the project determined upon by the 100 business men last Wednesday was designed to make all those present familiar with the work given the finance committee. At the meeting next week, Mr. Hines said, suggestions of all members of the committee will be heard, and definite organization for the financial campaign will be effected.

Every citizen of this section will be given an opportunity to participate in the funding of the deep oil drilling project, according to members of the finance committee. Papers for the incorporation of the proposed concern are now being prepared by the legal committee, of which Leslie Humphrey is chair-

Mercury Hovers At Freezing Mark

The temperature at 1 a. m. Thursday stood at 36 degrees, a bare four points above freezing, according to the thermometer at the Texas Electric Service company.

The mercury had dropped steadily since the maximum of 62 for Wednesday, recorded early in the afternoon, and at 8 o'clock Wednesday night stood at 48 degrees. By 10 o'clock the temperature had fallen to 43 degrees and then to 38 at midnight. The steady drop seemed to indicative of a still lower recording for the night, with the mercury probably hovering above the 32-degree freezing point.

Record News Cotton Table

For Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma

Cotton prices over Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma generally reacted to lower levels Wednesday after the sharp advances of Tuesday, although the lower prevailing prices were still considerably in excess of the quotations prior to the farm board's announcement of an advance of 16 cents a pound on cotton. Memphis and Frederick, leading cotton centers of Texas and Oklahoma sections respectively, continued to post higher prices for the staple, however. The range of price in Memphis was from $3 to $7.50 higher than on the previous day, while at Frederick the highest quality cotton of Wednesday sold as much as $7.50 a bale over the highest quality of Tuesday. Low quality stuff at Frederick showed a loss of 25 points, however. The following prices prevailed Wednesday over the section, according to reports to The Record News from correspondents in the principal markets:

	Range of Price Middling Basis	Wednesday Cottonseed	Ginnings	Season's Ginnings
MEMPHIS	16.50 to 18.00*	$35	361	10,502

Two Deaths and Tremendous Damage Result From Great Lakes Storms

CHICAGO, Oct. 23. (AP)—At least two persons were dead, two others were believed drowned, and the safety of dozens of others on ships somewhere in the lakes was in doubt as the Great Lakes region's worst storm of the year cut a chill path eastward tonight, leaving millions of dollars in property loss behind.

The ore carrier William Pilkey was missing in Lake Superior and was feared to have been lost; the steamer Maple Court was aground on Magnetic reef in Lake Huron and 13 persons including a woman, were taken from the freighter N. J. Nisson, grounded off Point Pelee in Lake Erie. The car ferry Milwaukee was missing in Lake Michigan; an unidentified barge was aground in Lake Ontario off Leamington, Ont., and the barge Lake Frugality was grounded in Lake Superior off Point Au Sable but the crew was able to leave her safely late today. One barge sank in Lake Michigan last night, but the crew was saved.

Two Appleton, Wis., youths, Patrick Dolton and Carlton Roth, both students at Lawrence college, were still missing tonight, and are believed to have drowned when their drifting boat sank.

Two deaths in Chicago resulted indirectly from the storm when Mrs. L. R. Cates, blinded by snow, was run down by a Burlington train at suburban Hinsdale, and Bruno Crush was killed as his car skidded and overturned.

Stock Values Lose Billions In One of Worst Breaks in History

NEW YORK, Oct. 23. (UP)—In one of the worst breaks in the history of the stock exchange, values of issues today were forced down more than two billion dollars before powerful support was brought out to stay the bear onslaught.

The early dealings were tame enough, but once the bears got control, small holders lost their heads and began dumping holdings overboard in immense volume. Tickers ran behind rapidly and the last sale did not appear until one hour and 45 minutes after the closing gong.

The industrial average at the close was down 20.66 points, the widest break since Dow Jones & Company has been compiling the figure.

(Complete account of Wednesday's trading on the stock exchange may be found on page 10 today).

and concealing stolen property, three child desertion, one disposing of mortgaged property, two forgery, and one driving while drunk. The second report of the term brought the total number of indictments for October to 41, 24 having been returned at the end of the first four days' work of investigation.

Bills for Wire Theft

Four of the bills received by Judge W. W. Cook, acting for Judge Allan D. Montgomery, involved the alleged theft and disposal of more than a ton of copper wire recovered here by members of the constable's department during the past few weeks. Defendants already under arrest include: Ladonia Stout, Mozelle Barker and D. M. Barker, charged with receiving and concealing stolen property; Marvin Monroe, indicted for forgery; R. C. Kent, accused of car theft; Dan Norwood, charged with possessing a still and material for manufacturing whisky, and Taz Locke, indicted on a similar charge.

Locke, who is 19 years old, is still in an Electra hospital where his hand was amputated last week after it had been mutilated by a shot from an officer's gun, fired at the time of the capture of a huge still 18 miles from Electra. Mr. Spence has announced that he will not push the case against Locke, declaring that the boy has had punishment enough.

Testimony Completed In $11,500 Suit Here

Testimony in the $11,500 damage suit brought by Mrs. M. C. Grubbs against A. H. Hudgins, growing out of an automobile accident here in December, 1928, was completed before Judge W. W. Cook in the 78th district court Wednesday afternoon. The case is expected to go to the jury before noon Thursday.

Mrs. Grubbs, who is joined in the suit by her husband, claims to have been permanently injured in an automobile collision which took place at the intersection of Burnett and Twelfth streets. The suit was brought by Taylor, Muse, and Taylor, attorneys. Mr. Hudgins is being represented by James V. Allred and David Covington.

France has launched a world campaign for aerial safety.

Wife Tells of Husband's Relief

Orgatone Builds up System That Was in a General Run-Down Conditions for Four Years

"My husband was in a general run-down condition, and relief seemed to not be for him at all," said Mrs. D. T. Evans, 2518 North Twentieth street, Waco, Texas, while giving a statement on the benefits her husband received from the use of Orgatone. Mr. Evans is a well known citizen of Waco, having been in the barber business here for several years.

"Mr. Evans' main trouble was indigestion," continued Mrs. Evans, "and it seemed as though he could never get any relief from this. Most everything he would eat would disagree with him. Food would sour on his stomach and this would cause gas to form, and of course this made him feel very miserable. He was rather nervous at times, and never seemed to have the pep he should have.

"We finally began to take notice of the testimonials that appeared in the papers, and found that so many people even right here in Waco had been so greatly benefited by this medicine, that my husband decided to give it a trial and see if it would not help him, too. Well, he has just finished his first bottle and says he feels a great bit better. He never has indigestion any more, as everything seems to agree with him wonderfully now. His appetite is better and the food does not sour on his stomach. He is never bothered with gas, and his nerves seem to be in good condition. His actions show that he feels much better, for now he has that old pep back that he use to have. He would, of course, be glad to recommend Orgatone because of the help it has been to him."

land said. "I consider this problem one of the biggest confronting us. Homer D. Wade, who resigned as general manager of the organization, reported to the directors it had a deficit of something like $18,000.

"I think the organization should be financed on the unit or county basis, placing responsibility of financing on local leaders, and then it will be possible for the active staff of workers to render real service to the community, in place of spending a large portion of their time, as in the past, raising the budget."

A closer contact with and through local chambers also was urged by Mr. Bourland.

Referendum Urged

"The present arrangement places no responsibility on local chambers of commerce, but it is conducted on an individual basis," he said. "Representation on the official board, important committees and other contacts should be approved and recognized by local chambers of commerce.

"A definite plan and system of referenda on all important questions should be worked out in order that when announcement is made that the West Texas Chamber of Commerce favors or disapproves certain things, the world may know it is the expressed opinion of the majority of its membership.

"Conflicts must not exist between the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and local chambers of commerce. Duplication should be avoided, complete understanding and proper allocation of efforts should be made. In other words, substitute service for misunderstandings and antagonism."

CLINE AND HAMILTON ATTEND CONVENTION

W. D. Cline and W. B. Hamilton will represent the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce at the annual meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce which opens Thursday at El Paso, according to officials of the local organization.

Both delegates are now en route to El Paso. Mr. Hamilton going from McKinney, where he attended the opening sessions of the North Texas Methodist conference, it was said.

Two Face Charges After Truck Wreck

Special to The Record News

LAWTON, Okla., Oct. 23.—Charges of transporting liquor have been filed against G. E. Gamble now being guarded in a local hospital here in connection with the finding of a wrecked truck and a large quantity of liquor south of this city Tuesday morning. Officers have learned that Gamble resides at Iowa Park, Texas. His condition was much improved today.

Officers say the truck contained about 250 gallons of liquor. A German Mauser pistol was found near the scene of accident and is in possession of the chief of police.

Tom Tipton, who resides in the mountainous section of the county, is in the county jail today charged with conspiracy in connection with the case. Officers are of the opinion the liquor was being taken to Wichita Falls.

Pardon Granted By Barry Miller Filed

AUSTIN, Oct. 23. (AP)—One pardon and one reduction of sentence from 10 to two years, granted by Barry Miller while he was acting governor, were filed with the secretary of state today. Six furloughs also were filed.

The pardon was issued to Jack Sullivan, sentenced to two years for forgery from Hale and Lubbock counties, in September, 1928.

Willie Hooser's sentence was reduced to two years. Hooser was sentenced from Dallas county on a burglary charge in April, 1928.

Temporary Appointment Is Made by Board

words of praise have taken in lots of territory, and have been far too complimentary of one who has merely tried to do his duty to a city which has given him friendship, cooperation and loyal support," Mr. Harrison declared.

Harrison Speaks

"In praising a member of the profession of community building you have paid tribute to the profession itself," he added.

"You have shown that you all believe that every man and woman owes an obligation to reinvest some of his time, thought, talent and money in the community that gives him birth, tender associations of home, advantages of school and church, a chance to make a life as well as to make a living, and neighbors and friends. My father and mother instilled this duty in my heart in my youth, and it is a privilege to invest such small talents as God has given me in the work of making my community, my state and my nation a little better for the generations yet to come. How empty that life would be which comes to the sunset time with no service for the public good to look back upon.

"Any little success that has attended my efforts has been due to the advice, counsel, cooperation, support and teamwork of stalwart, patriotic citizens of Wichita Falls, too numerous to mention by name.

"In leaving Wichita Falls after having served for more than 10 years, there is a pull at the heart strings. We love that for which we sacrifice. You love a town when you have put something of yourself into it.

"The call to larger service in East Texas is a challenging opportunity in a land of rich resources, both material and human. It is to be my privilege to work with all the progressive, loyal men and women in East Texas for the development of that great section, building on the splendid foundation that has been laid.

Promises Best Efforts

"There is a patriotism of peace as well as of war. Thinking men and women realize that we must live and work for our home land as well as to fight for it if that should ever become necessary.

"The East Texas Chamber of Commerce is regional but not sectional, aggressive but not selfish. We hold out the hand of friendship and cooperation to every other section of Texas for the upbuilding of all Texas and if our constructive program shall benefit others as well as ourselves, we shall be glad.

"The great number of West Texans who have given me messages to kinfolks in East Texas impresses me that we are all one people.

"With a heart overflowing with gratitude to you all in Wichita Falls, and with a prayer for strength and ability for larger service, I pledge my utmost devotion to my new work in East Texas."

NEW MANAGER UP TO 1930 DIRECTORS

Direction of the general program of the chamber of commerce during the months of November and December was given to James W. Chatham, present industrial traffic manager of the organization, by the board of directors which held its regular bi-weekly meeting at the Wichita club Wednesday noon and accepted the resignation of Hubert M. Harrison, general manager during the past 10 years.

Mr. Chatham becomes acting manager on Nov. 1, effective until the election of a permanent successor to Mr. Harrison, whose resignation takes effect on Oct. 31 to permit his assumption on Nov. 1 of his new duties as vice president and general manager of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce. It is expected that the 1930 board of directors, which will be organized in January, will be assigned the task of selecting a permanent general manager. Until such action is taken, Mr. Chatham will perform the duties formerly discharged by Mr. Harrison, in addition to continuing his direction of the industrial and traffic department.

Harrison Reviews Work

After the acceptance of his resignation by the board, Mr. Harrison was asked to address the meeting. He discussed briefly measures which he recommended as being consistent with the future success of the local chamber of commerce, among other things urging a continuance of the personal contact policy in trade territory, which has been carried on during the past several months. At the request of Mr. Harrison, the board voted to have a complete audit of all chamber of commerce accounts made as of Oct. 31, 1929.

Presenting a brief statement of the financial condition of the organization, Mr. Chatham pointed out that during the past three years, the annual budget has been reduced by more than $20,000. Orville Bullington, president, stated that an $8,000 obligation which the organization has carried for several years has been reduced to $3,000, and that under present plans it will be entirely liquidated by the end of the current year. With the 1929 budget $7,000 less than that of the preceding year, it was pointed out that the organization would show a gain of about $15,000 during the current year with the retirement of the remaining $3,000 debt.

A committee consisting of A. H. Britain, Luther Hoffman, and N. H. Martin was appointed by Mr. Bullington to draw up resolutions incident to Mr. Harrison's long period of service here and his promotion to a larger field of chamber of commerce executive work. The committee was asked to have the resolutions ready for inclusion in the radio "banquet" given in Mr. Harrison's honor for station KGKO Wednesday night.

Mr. Chatham has been connected with the chamber of commerce here since Nov. 1, 1919. From that date to Nov. 1, 1926, he was head of the traffic department, serving as auditor for the Wichita County Water Improvement districts during the latter three years of that period while continuing his chamber of commerce work. On Nov. 1, 1926, he became industrial and traffic manager, which position he has held since that time.

Mr. Chatham's first activity in this section was in 1919, when he was sent to Wichita Falls by the United States Railroad commission to handle traffic in the oil field areas between this city and Grandfield, Okla. He is a member of the National Industrial Traffic Managers' association and a director of the Texas Industrial Traffic league.

Before Baby Comes

comfort and ease

The muscles, tissues and nerves must "give" easily as the abdomen enlarges or much pain and suffering may result. More important still, is to have the tissues and muscles as "elastic" as possible when the great moment of childbirth arrives.

Countless thousands of expectant mothers for over 60 years have been relieved by the use of "Mother's Friend"—that time-tested, scientifically-prepared skin lubricant and pain-reliever which originated in the prescription of an eminent obstetrician.

You owe yourself the comfort "Mother's Friend" gives. It is soothing and relaxing. It is used externally only—gently rubbed into the skin. Clean and pleasant to the touch. Brings relief promptly. Very valuable in keeping the breasts in good condition. Also puts you in fine shape for the approaching ordeal.

Free Book "Mother's Friend" is on sale at all drug stores. $1.25 per bottle. Try a massage with it tonight and notice the ease and comfort it gives. A booklet on "Things to Know Before Baby Comes" will be mailed in plain envelope free, on request. Address Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. 15, Atlanta, Ga.

was a hope that few others shared and a hope that gained but little strength by a vague and unconfirmed report current at Roosevelt field, N. Y., that Diteman had landed "somewhere in Europe."

Diteman, self-styled descendant of Sir Francis Drake, and the Golden Hind, named after the globe-cruising Galleon of the English adventurer, could have reached the continent, but chances for that were considered less than the meagre chances conceded the airman for reaching London.

23 Hours Expire

Diteman's own estimate of 25 hours' flying time, as based on the fuel he carried, could have kept him aloft longer and could have carried him farther than he had planned, but the 25-hour period expired at 11:45 a. m. yesterday and there was nothing to show he had won. Instructions were issued, however, for London's great airport at Croydon to be illuminated throughout the night, and wireless operators on both sides of the ocean and ships at sea remained mindful that through their instruments might come a signal to revive a dying hope.

CABLEGRAM AWAITS FLIER IN LONDON

LONDON, Oct. 23. (AP)—An unclaimed private American cablegram for Urban F. Diteman Jr., tonight was lying on a desk in the London bureau of the Associated Press and seemed likely to become a souvenir of another transatlantic air tragedy. Diteman yesterday left New Foundland in a small airplane with the hope of reaching England today.

The cablegram was sent soon after he left and lay here awaiting his arrival all day. Every [illegible] utes there reached the same desk messages from all parts of the British Isles and ships at sea reporting that nothing had been heard of the aviator since he left New Foundland. Tonight there was grave doubt that Diteman would ever read his message.

DITEMAN'S WIFE CLINGS TO HOPE

BILLINGS, Mont., Oct. 23. (AP)—Her hope apparently undimmed after 30 hours of suspense, Mrs. Urban F. Diteman Jr., today listened attentively but unmoved to press dispatches asserting a belief of aviation authorities that her husband has joined those other pioneers of trans-oceanic aviation swallowed by the sea.

Not until tomorrow, Mrs Diteman indicated will be she be gravely concerned over the fate of her husband.

American talkies will be exhibited in Singapore, Straits Settlements.

More Millions treat colds DIRECT

More and more people every year are giving up the old, indirect way of treating colds by "dosing," and are adopting the modern, direct treatment—Vicks VapoRub.

"Dosing" is not only a round-about way to treat colds, but it also tends to upset the stomach. Being applied externally, Vicks, of course, cannot disturb the digestion. Just rubbed on, it acts direct through the skin like a plaster; and, at the same time, it gives off medicated vapors which are inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages.

Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing." To keep step with the ever-growing demand for this modern method of treating colds, the figures in the famous Vick slogan are again being changed. There are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly."

The NEW 50c Colgate Toothbrush

(Designed by Colgate Department of Dental Education)

GIVEN AWAY

to each purchaser of

Two 25c Tubes of Colgate Ribbon Dental Cream

$1.00 value for 50c

SAVE 50 CENTS

The Colgate brush has amazing penetrating, cleansing power... because the bristles are scientifically serrated ... tufted ... to get into the tiny crevices and hard-to-reach places where the ordinary toothbrush fails to penetrate.

Brush teeth with this up-and-down motion, advise dentists. The new Colgate Toothbrush was specially designed to make this action doubly effective. Do not brush directly across the teeth.

When you brush your teeth on the inside, use an in-and-out stroke. Note how well the firm bristles invigorate the gums.

THE OFFER: To induce still more people to try Ribbon Dental Cream ... we make this remarkable offer. Only Colgate ... world's largest maker of tooth paste ... could finance such a proposition.

There is no "catch" to this offer. Colgate simply wants you to try Ribbon Dental Cream. To repay you for doing this, we offer you a genuine new Colgate Toothbrush ... value 50 cents ... ABSOLUTELY FREE!

The brush

This toothbrush—the newest, most advanced type known to dental science—was designed by the Colgate Department of Dental Education ... a group of dentists who have studied the needs of thousands of men, women and children.

Examine this brush. Study its shape, its size, its bristles. It is made by skilled American workers ... under the most sanitary conditions ... from selected, imported snow-white bristles of finest quality. Every brush is carefully inspected. Handles are of lovely, transparent material, in 5 exquisite shades of green, purple, amber. Bristles are inset by a unique process that holds them in a vise-like grip.

This brush is identical in quality, in size, in durability to nationally advertised brushes that sell regularly in better stores at 50 cents. Now yours FREE with this unique offer.

The dentifrice

Colgate's Ribbon Dental Cream is the world's largest-selling tooth paste. More people use it ... and more dentists recommend it ... than any other dentifrice.

The reason for this is simply that Colgate's cleans teeth better. Colgate's contains the world's best cleansing agent—a penetrating foam that cleanses where the toothbrush cannot reach.

Your dentist will tell you that decay doesn't start on the smooth outer surfaces of the teeth ... but in the tiny crevices where food particles and mucin collect.

No ordinary toothbrush can reach these hard-to-clean places. They must be cleansed by the dentifrice.

Hence the real test of a tooth paste is its ability to get down into these crevices and cleanse them thoroughly. A recent scientific test proved that Colgate's has a greater penetrating power than any of the leading tooth pastes on the market today. This is the secret of Colgate's superior cleansing power.

The foam of Colgate's carries a fine chalk powder ... a polishing material prescribed by dentists ... which polishes the enamel safely, brilliantly.

The Colgate method of scientific tooth brushing

After years of study and thousands of experiments, the Colgate Method of scientifically cleansing the teeth has been developed by the Colgate Dept. of Dental Education.

This method is most effective when Ribbon Dental Cream is brushed on with the Colgate Brush. For the springy, serrated bristles, set at exactly the right distance, act in a way that applies the full, concentrated cleansing power of the famous Colgate foam ... deep down into the "hard-to-clean" places. Only thus can you be sure you are cleaning these difficult spots where decay lurks.

Start today to use the Colgate Method of Scientific Tooth Brushing ... and note the difference in your teeth ten days hence.

NOTE!

This offer is strictly limited. The supply of brushes has been rigidly allotted to the stores which are co-operating in this great offer. They will not last long ... once people read this announcement. Thousands of men and women, realizing that when Colgate makes such a proposition, it is worth grasping at once, will hurry to the stores and get their brushes. Many will lay in a supply for the whole family. ... So, act NOW!

BRIAND SURE TO REGAIN HELM

Crisis to End With Premier Back in Power

PARIS, Oct. 23. (UP)—Although once more ousted from the premiership, Aristide Briand, political wizard of France, appeared today to be the only man capable of forming a government that could conciliate the conflicting party elements which brought about the fall of his cabinet yesterday.

Others will be invited to take the helm—particularly those critics of Briand who caused his fall. But not one of these leaders is definitely prepared to assume the responsibility of organizing a cabinet.

The present crisis is expected to last from 8 to 10 days, but when the bitterness of battle will have subsided, Briand, according to all present indications, will again be offered the premiership.

President Gaston Doumergue began conferences today with the various party leaders in the hope of arriving at a speedy solution of the cabinet crisis.

Edouard Daladier, president of the radicals, who have the largest single bloc in parliament, will be invited to form a cabinet, but with the radical congress at Rheims scheduled to begin tomorrow, Daladier is almost certain to refuse.

Leaders who helped overthrow Briand in yesterday's battle in the chamber—the centrist, Louis Marin, and the radical Socialist, Jeen Montgny—will be summoned to the Elysez to discuss the situation with Doumergue.

'Diploma Expert' Freed on Charge Of Running 'Mill'

MOUNT VERNON, Mo., Oct. 23. (INS)—"Dr." Ray B. Horton of Kansas City, alleged medical diploma expert, was free today.

Dr. Horton won his freedom yesterday on a demurrer sustained by the court hearing his case.

The demurrer was based on the theory that when Horton accepted $250 from Lonnie Jackson, young druggist of Monnette, Mo., in exchange for alleged influence in helping the druggist to pass an examination before the state board of pharmacy, the money was merely held as escrow with the understanding it would be returned to Jackson in the event he failed to pass the examination.

He did fail and the money was returned to him by Horton. The court held that under this condition Dr. Horton had committed no crime.

Publication of Crash Findings Ordered

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (INS)—The senate commerce committee today approved a resolution directing the commerce department to make public the report of experts on the crashes of the T. A. T. transport plane at Mount Taylor, N. M., Sept. 8, in which eight persons were killed, and the crash of Frank Hays at Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 6.

The action followed statements of Secretary of Commerce Lamont and Assistant Secretary Young before the committee that they cannot make public the reports under the law.

ARMS PARLEY DOPE COMPILED

State Department Gathers Technical Reports

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—Secretary Stimson and state department officials are compiling technical reports for the use of America's delegation to the London naval conference.

Actively assisting the secretary are Joseph P. Cotton, the undersecretary of state, and J. Theodore Marriner, chief of the western European division, both of whom dealt intimately with the naval question while Ambassador Dawes and Prime Minister MacDonald held preliminary discussions this summer.

Stimson has ordered that all information pertinent to the London meeting which may come into the hands of any in the department be made available to Marriner, who has been prominently mentioned as Stimson's chief coordinator and advisor at the conference.

Assistance of naval officers, some of whom are yet to be chosen as advisors to the American group, is being enlisted by the secretary. Read Admiral Richard H. Jackson, member of the general navy board, who has been mentioned as a possible choice by the president for an advisory position, conferred with Stimson yesterday.

The view that if the conference in London is not successful the world powers will renew competitive building in all unlimited categories of naval vessels, was advanced by Representative French of Idaho, chairman of the naval appropriations subcommittee.

He predicted that a successful conference will mean the end of the battleship as the backbone of the various fleets, but doubts the submarine can be abolished as suggested in the invitation. France, Italy and Japan have shown a desire to keep their submarines, he said, while most nations have indicated a willingness to drop eventually the costly dreadnaughts.

Holloway May Name New Court For Libel Suit

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 23. (UP)—The appointment of a special supreme court to pass on the libel suit of Justice J. W. Clark against O. O. Owens and the Tulsa World will be squarely up to Governor Holloway on his return from Washington.

Attorneys for Clark have filed a motion to dismiss the appeal and for judgment on the supersedeas bond.

Dismissal of the appeal is asked on the allegation that attorneys for Owen and the Tulsa World did not comply with rules of the supreme court requiring filing of briefs within 40 days after the filing of an appeal.

Clark was awarded a $50 000 verdict in his home county of Atoka against Owens and the World in connection with a political advertisement published by Owens when a candidate for the legislature three years ago. All members of the court have disqualified in the case.

RAINS DELAY COTTON WORK

Crop Harvest Interrupted In Eastern Belt

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (UP)—The government weekly weather report for cotton issued today stated that cotton picking was interrupted by rains in central and northeastern districts of the eastern half of the cotton belt the latter part of the week. Picking also was retarded locally in Oklahoma but otherwise weather was generally favorable for the field work in the belt.

Harvest and ginning made good advances and were well along in central and northeastern districts. In Texas, picking and ginning have been completed except in the west and northwest, and were reported ahead of the seasonal average in Arkansas.

In the northeastern belt there was some complaint of damage to staple by the heavy rains, but otherwise conditions were mostly favorable for outstanding open cotton. The week closed with some local light frosts in parts of the western belt.

Smoot and King Sponsor Green River Projects

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (INS)—Senators Smoot, Republican, and King, Democrat, Utah, today introduced bills providing for construction of a vast reclamation and power project on the Green river in northeastern Utah, near Wyoming.

The Smoot bill authorized an $18,000,000 appropriation for construction of the dam in Horse Shoe canyon, while the King bill provides for building at Flaming gorge.

Judge Wins Out In Battle With Stubborn Copper

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 23. (UP)—It was Patrolman Edward Lynch speaking as a city court witness, but the judge with characteristic legal mind wanted to make sure and thereby hung the downfall of Patrolman Edward Lynch.

"Are you Patrolman Lynch of the traffic department?" asked the judge.

"Yes," replied Lynch promptly.

"When you are addressed by an officer of this court I want you to say 'yes sir.' Do you understand?"

"Yes," said Lynch.

"Did you understand me?" thundered the judge.

Lynch was equal to the occasion. He replied:

"Yes," and looked the judge in the eye.

"Mr. Marshal, lock him up for contempt of court," said the judge.

"Yes, sir," said the marshal.

Lynch was kept in jail for an hour, decided to apologize and when released said:

"Thank you, sir."

Italy Increases Its Naval Appropriation

ROME, Oct. 23. (INS)—With arrangements in full swing for a five-power naval disarmament conference in London in January, an official decree issued today increased the Italian naval appropriation $10,000,000 annually.

The additional appropriation was made in order to complete Italy's present warship building program within the next two years.

Seventy Years Young!

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE scorns that ancient prejudice which harshly dictated that age was a limiting factor of usefulness. To-day, old age not only commands respect but demands its place in every walk of life.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

Lovely Fashions Shown At Hostess Day Luncheon

Orchid in delicate and deep shades was the motif used in decoration when the Orchid shop offered its fashion promenade Wednesday during the Hostess day luncheon at the Woman's Forum clubhouse. Each table, save those where hostesses furnished individual decorations, had vases with lavender ageratum mixed with baby's breath making lovely centers.

One hostess, Mrs. Harriet Barwise, of Electra, who entertained 15 guests, had a table exquisitely decorated in great feathery chrysanthemums in the color of the day.

Place cards with bunches of violets in the corners, bore names of the guests written in purple ink. Bouquets of lavender chrysanthemums filled great jars in the prettily furnished drawing room on the stage.

Mrs. J. Truman Stevens, with Mesdames Charles Watson, R. H. Peterson, G. D. Fox and A. M. Lummus were hostesses to whom much of the success of the day was due. Mrs. Stevens made announcements in a clear voice easily heard throughout the auditorium.

First on program was a scene from college days when Clarice Pitman, Niski Britain, Katherine Douglass, Olive Humphrey and Ruth Thomason appeared in gay pajamas, with guitar, piano, dance and song adding to the beauty of the scene.

Mesdames Charles Nolen, R. H. Davis and Misses Mary Tancred and Mary Meredith were lovely models in the first showing for handsome suits and blouses of the Orchid shop.

Mary Jo Ellis and Mattie Lenore Solomon, pupils of the Wichita Falls Academy of Fine Arts, did a wonderful acrobatic dance before the next modeling; the little girls were full of grace and followed the music, given by Mrs. A. H. Britain, with perfect rhythm.

After the models had styled again in handsome dresses and coats, Miss Virginia Green of the Knickerbocker School of Dancing, did the latest hit in New York, "The Breakaway," accompanied by Mrs. Marian Smith. Dancer and dance were both said to be lovely by the audience.

The last styling was the outstanding one of the day. Four beautiful evening gowns were modeled, in which the audience found it difficult to name the most beautiful. Mrs. Charles Nolen wore with the right air an exquisite green velvet and tulle; Mrs. R. H. Davis shone in an American beauty velvet with wrap accompanying in the same shade; Miss Mary Tancred with a charmingly draped black net and deep lace collar was adorably dignified, and Miss Mary Meredith wore black in fishnet over soft shining satin, which made the audience ask her to pause in her stroll.

Mrs. A. G. Holmes announced the Spanish Fiesta and Mrs. J. Truman Stevens announced the Mangel's style showing to take place on the next hostess day, Wednesday, Oct. 30, with Mrs. Grover C. Johnson as general chairman.

Guests registering included Mesdames C. C. Parfett and guests, Paul Pond, Paul Steed and Jesse D. Woods; Ed Howard and guests, R. D. Kennedy, Murry Street and Rhea Howard; Joe Cable and guests, Walter Campbell, F. E. Van Warner, Ridgeway; St. Andrew Myers of Henrietta and guests, Joe Douthitt, Troy Douthitt; S. J. PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

The cook came in the kitchen door shivering: "It sho' is cold this mawnin'," she said.

Another member of the family stretched his legs to the fire and remarked, "Well, winter has begun."

And we remembered the hermit of the St. Francis river.

Some 10 years ago, he lived in a houseboat on the St. Francis, a deep, sluggish tributary of the Mississippi. It runs through thousands of Arkansas acres too low for cultivation; the least rise in the river sends yellow, muddy water back over the land. Cypress trees border it and cypress knees stand out in the mud when the high water recedes.

The old man invited very few people to come on the boat. Once a month he went to the nearest town and laid in his meager supplies.

He never had malaria, though all the "pore white trash" living on houses built on stilts along the river, seemed never without it. It seemed as though the vile tobacco he chewed and smoked made him impervious to mosquito bites. He drank good whisky and "lowed," he drank mighty little water without "doctoring" it with whisky.

He was a weather prophet. People came from miles away to ask him about cold weather indications. And this is the reason why.

Hung on the wall of his shanty boat in consecutive order dating back to 1875, were the breast bones of wild geese, and he was as earnest in his faith in their markings as ever any prophet in his soothsaying.

For more than 35 years he had gone out on a sand bar in the Mississippi river when he heard the first "honk honk" of the wild geese going south and shot, if he could, the leader. He was almost unerring as a shot and almost always he got the leader.

He did not know why they went south at a certain time. Who could have warned them of the rigor of cold weather? But, he thought, they must know something. Their lonely call was a certain warning.

He cut them open and began noting the breast bones. Each year he marked them and it was not long before he was foretelling what the winter would be. There they hung, dates and his prophecy roughly scratched upon them.

If the front of the breast bone was dark, cold weather came early; if it was stfeaked, cold and moderate weather alternated. If winter —real winter—was to be late, that dark streak was at the back of the breast bone.

One breast bone was dark all through and the people talk yet of the long, winter months when for weeks everything was frozen.

What tells the wild goose to go south?

Junior Travel Club Has Program

Members of the Junior Travel club met at the Woman's Forum clubbhouse in regular session Wednesday afternoon to study Spain and North Africa.

Mrs. Thelbert Martin was the leader and after the answering of the roll call with names of Egyptian kings, she presented a splendid paper on Spanish art and architecture, illustrating it with pictures.

Mrs. John Humphrey talked on the North African motor tour and had a map of North Africa on the wall, with the motor route outlined with small car. With the aid of this map, she carried her audience to all the famous cities and points of interest. Palms and camels illustrated the map.

Members present were Mesdames O. T. Ailes, W. H. Caldwell, E. A. Deaton, E. T. Duff, J. J. Fennessy, R. O. Kenley Jr., Thelbert Martin, W. A. McCartery, J. A. McFall, W. J. Morgareidge, C. C. Myers, I. R. Sheldon, W. P. Smith, Wayne Somerville, G. K. Wilson, O. W. Wilson, Clyde J. Brannan and John Humphrey.

SLIM FIGURE NOW UNFASHIONABLE

Women and Girls Can Now Be Healthy as Well as Stylish

That excessive and unnatural slimness that ruined the health of thousands of women and young girls is no longer fashionable. Paris couturiers are developing clothes for the rounded figure. Musical comedy producers are searching for healthy, normal figures for the stage. All the world is getting health-wise where the human figure is concerned.

This means that women and girls will be encouraged to eat enough varied foods at regular meals to supply the requirements of health. It means that tuberculosis, anemia and other dangerous results of undernourishment may be more easily averted. And to the eyes of discerning men and beauty experts, it means that women will be more natural and more beautiful.

Eat cereals, milk, fruits, vegetables and meats daily. Do not gorge or overeat, but eat variety. Remember that flavor is the one important factor in causing people to eat varieties of foods, and that sugar is nature's supreme condiment for developing the flavors of nearly every healthful food.

The necessity of a dash of sugar for making cereals, fruits and milk desserts delicious is well known. Women cooking experts recently discovered that a dash of sugar in vegetables while they are cooking revolutionizes their freshness and natural vegetable flavors. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

"Gold Digger" Wife Breaks Morale Of Husband, Says Dix

Shall a Man Try to Hold His Quitter Wife?—Ought a Man's Insurance Go to His Mother or His Family? — Separation Best for Too-Early Married.

Dear Miss Dix—I have been married for about a year and a half to a girl with whom I fell in love shortly after finishing college. I had not worked long and my salary was only $2,000 a year, but I believed I had a promising future. My sweetheart was not accustomed to luxuries, so we decided that we could stick it out together until I earned better pay. Now she is very dissatisfied and is constantly throwing up to me my inability to make more money, and wonders why she can't have a maid, a new car and such things, all of which I think she deserves, but which I will not be able to give her for at least two years more.

It makes my heart sore to realize that my income is inadequate and her constant reference to it makes us both miserable. She suggests divorce as a remedy for the situation. For her sake what should be done?—BAFFLED.

Answer.—If you would give her the divorce she wants, it would be a punishment that would fit her crime, because she would find out that her greed had been her undoing and that in trying to get a richer husband she was like the dog in the old fable who lost even the meal ticket that he had by trying to grab at a bigger one.

Undoubtedly your wife's conceit is such that she thinks that if she were rid of you she would be besieged by millionaires and be able to at once marry some man who would install her in a palace and give her a fleet of motor cars and an unlimited shopping ticket. But, alas, these pipe dreams of avaricious wives are seldom realized. The supply of Croesuses is strictly limited and they are not going around hunting up predatory divorcees. On the contrary, their one aim and object in life is to escape the gold-diggers and matrimony.

Of course, it is a consoling thought to a woman that if she wasn't burdened with her husband she could marry any man she chose, and I hate to shatter her rosy illusion, but it is a cold, hard fact that it takes a lot more beauty and charm and technique and sex appeal than the average wife possesses to enable her to go out and make a hit with the men. So my earnest advice to the ladies who have good, kind, generous husbands, who make them a comfortable living, is to stay married.

You have my earnest sympathy, you poor, baffled man who can't understand why your castle of dreams has come tumbling down about your ears, nor why the woman who was so eager to marry you and live with you on a small income, now is so discontented with it. There is no human being in all the world whom I am sorrier for than the man who is unlucky enough to be married to a woman who is a poor sport, and who instead of standing by him and fighting with him shoulder to shoulder in the battle of life, turns quitter.

Such a wife takes the last bit of heart out of a man. She breaks down his morale. She discourages him so completely that he has to call up his last ounce of determination and courage to carry on and keep on struggling until he wins through to victory in spite of her.

I often wonder if these peevish, discontented, whining women who are always reproaching their husbands with not making more money and complaining because they have not all the things that rich women have, realize how cruel they are and how they stab their husbands to the very soul. And I wonder still oftener at the patience and the forbearance of the men who are working themselves to death to supply the demands of the wives who continually cry more, more, more.

And I am very sure that these grasping wives do not know that they are killing the goose that lays the golden egg when they twit their husbands with not being go-getters and throw in their teeth the success of other men. For if they did, they would know that when you destroy a man's faith in his ability to succeed you doom him to failure, and that when you discourage him you slow down his efforts. Many a man achieves marvels just because he had to justify his wife's belief in him, but no man ever did anything for a wife who had no faith in him.

The real American romance is not the sticky, silly love story of boys and girls. It is the story of a poor young couple who marry on a shoestring and who work up together, the wife encouraging, inspiring, believing in her husband, cheering him on, bolstering him up when his own strength falters. I was reading the biography of such a man the other day and in it, in speaking of the days when they were desperately poor and fighting for a toehold on the ladder of success and when the wife's lot was full of hardships and sacrifice, she said: "But we were just as happy then and just as rich as we are now when we have millions." No wonder that man succeeded.

In your case, Baffled, I should certainly let my whining wife have a divorce if she wanted it. A wife who won't stand by a man and make the fight with him is small loss.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—What arguments would you use to persuade your husband to have his insurance policy changed, naming his wife instead of his mother? This man is a good husband and father and he and his wife are very devoted to each other. They have two little children. Five years before the man was married he took out an insurance policy, naming his mother as beneficiary, and he refuses to change this because if he should die his mother would have no other means of support. The wife is so fond of her husband that she would make no point of this, but her family nag her incessantly about it and keep the matter always stirred up. What should the wife do?
MRS. NEIGHBOR.

Answer.—I think the wife should tell her family that it is none of their business and that they are making trouble by interfering in her domestic affairs.

A young woman can get work, but an old woman is helpless. There is nothing that she can do to support herself, nobody wants her and there is nothing left for her but the poorhouse unless she has a little money. And so it is easy to understand why any man who is a good son and a good husband would try to save his mother from the horror of a dependent old age.
—DOROTHY DIX.

Crockett School P.-T.A. Observes Father's Night

Members of the Crocket school P.-T. A. met in regular session Tuesday evening in the auditorium, observing "father's night" with a special program. The attendance numbered approximately 300. The auditorium was beautifully decorated with masses of cut flowers, Misses Clark, Ramsdell and Thrash acting as the decoration committee.

Mrs. Guy Rogers, president, opened the meeting and the Lord's prayer was repeated in unison. Mrs. Rogers extended greetings and welcomed the fathers, stressing in her interesting talk the need of cooperation.

After the reading of the last minutes, Mrs. Ed Bristol read "Maggie and Jiggs at the Golden Gate," to the open delight of the audience. Miss Dorothy Reed, one of the teachers, followed with an outstanding talk on the "Effect of Regular Attendance on a Child's Record in School." Dr. J. W. Cantwell also made an interesting talk on cooperation and took up some of the phases of education.

A lovely vocal number, "The Slave Song," was given by Mrs. George Thorburn, accompanied by Miss Marie Beatty.

Committees reported by chairmen were as follows: program committee, Mrs. G. L. Shapard; membership committee, Mrs. W. W. Fraser, who reported a paid up membership of 233; ways and means committee, Mrs. John Dobbs, who announced the Halloween carnival to be held Friday evening, Oct. 25, beginning at 5:30, on the Chenault lawn; treasurer, Mrs. N. B. Chenault; corresponding secretary, Mrs. B. W. Coulter; preschool clinic Mrs. G. C. Bullington; publicity chairman, Mrs. Horrace Robbins; purchasing agent, Mrs. J. P. Tarry; magazine chairman, Mrs. O. R. Hartt.

Delegates elected to the state P.-T. A. convention which meets in Waco in November were announced as Mrs. Charles Crowell with Mrs. W. W. Fraser, alternate.

In the room count, Miss Ramsdell's room won the honor, a banner.

New parents to Crockett P.-T. A. were welcomed especially by the president and the staff of teachers was introduced by the principal.

One of the special features of the evening was the beautifully decorated birthday cake, bearing 20 candles, honoring the 20th birthday of the state P.-T. A.

At the conclusion of the program a social half hour was spent, during which refreshments were served.

Pretty Ceremony Marks Wedding Here Wednesday

A simple but beautiful wedding ceremony was that performed at the First Evangelical church at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening when Miss Lena Sturm was married to Blake Campbell, the impressive ring ceremony being read by Rev. F. Doege before an altar banked with lovely flowers.

L. G. Gray sang as a pre-nuptial number, "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Miss Loraine Tucker.

Miss Tucker played as a processional, the wedding march from Lohengrin. Miss Edna Sturm, who acted as maid of honor to her sister, entered with Ray Atkins, best man, followed by Miss Lena Sturm with Mr. Campbell.

During the wedding, Miss Tucker played softly "At Dawning," and as a recessional, the wedding march from "Midsummer Night's Dream," by Mendelssohn.

Miss Sturm wore a navy chiffon dress and carried a bouquet of rosebuds. The bride was gowned in a lovely beige georgette and carried an arm bouquet of rosebuds and valley lillies.

Mr. Campbell is a young business man of Wichita Falls, and after a short trip to Dallas, the young couple will be at home in this city.

Two Years of Research By Wichita Chemists Perfects New Motor Fuel

PLANT HERE FIRST IN FIELD

Refinery Adds Equipment For New Gasoline

With the refining, automotive and aeronautic interests of the nation persistently applying their combined endeavors to the evolution of more efficient gasoline, and material improvements being announced frequently, the highest degree of development in that direction has been reached in the production of green "Noxless" gasoline, placed on the market a few days ago by the Panhandle Refining company of this city, according to W. F. Sims, refinery superintendent of that concern.

Knocks Eliminated

Primary objectives of all the prodigious research in gasoline manufacture have been for some years increased power efficiency of fuel and elimination of elements which not only hamper that efficiency, but prove injurious to the working parts of motors. The majority of internal combustion motors recently have been built on the high compression principle of power-production. A resultant factor with which all motor manufacturers have had to contend, it was stated, was a marked increase in the shock known in automobile parlance as a "knock." The augmented detonation noticeable in high-compression motors, it was said, has been attributed generally to a too rapid combustion of the fuel charge.

Added to the irritating and harmful element of "knocks" has been the old problem of carbon and gums, materials which remain unburned on the piston head and in the combustion chambers of the motor. Research and experimentation with gasoline have been directed chiefly to the solution of these two problems.

Experimentation leading ultimately to the production of the present green "Noxless" gasoline began more than two years ago, Mr. Sims stated, and the system finally perfected involves six distinct steps in refining in contrast with the two steps involved in the production of ordinary white gasoline.

Airplane Fuel Also

From the tsandpoint of the chemist, the objective to be gained was a gasoline containing a maximum of aromatic hydrocarbons, known in that field as the prerequisite to even and complete combustion without "knock." That objective has been obtained, it is claimed, through the perfection of a gasoline whose combustion is even, and slow enough to exert its power upon the piston as a push rather than in the shape of a sharp, sudden blow. The new product was said to be equally adaptable to automobile and airplane motors.

The plan followed has been one of "cut and try," according to the refinery superintendent. Automobiles belonging to the company were repeatedly cleaned, drained and tested for new trials with successive specimens of gasoline. Careful and exact tests definitely proved that from the standpoint of power as measured in increased mileage, the improved gasoline more than paid for the extra cost involved in its manufacture, Mr. Sims declared. A material reduction in the residue of carbon and gums was attributed principally to the fact that most of such elements had been eliminated in the six-step refining process, while the retarded combustion of the gasoline mixture appeared to consume most of what foreign substances might have gone through the manifold.

Only Producer in Nation

Aside from the heavy investment of chemical research and experimentation in refining methods, production of the new gasoline has involved the installation of much new equipment at the Panhandle refinery, it was learned. Differing from some "knock-less" fuels formerly produced, Mr. Sims said, their improved green gasoline contains no admixture of chemicals or other foreign ingredients. It is made entirely from North Texas crude oil. The green color, it was said, is nothing more than a harmless dye, blended in the local Panhandle laboratories, and used to distinguish the new type of gasoline from white grades.

So far as can be learned, according to Panhandle officials, this is the only refinery in the country producing the type of gasoline fuel which was recently announced.

The Panhandle refinery is one of the oldest industrial plants in this section, and in all probability has set a record for constant operation. Since its opening 14 years ago, there has never yet been a shutdown, according to officials of the company. It employs about 450 persons, has a monthly payroll of about $75,000, and is now putting out approximately 100,000 gallons of gasoline daily, besides other incidental products.

Chemist Tests Gas for Panhandle

W. F. Sims, (left), and O. B. Males, (right), superintendent and assistant superintendent, respectively, of the Panhandle Refinery, are interested spectators as chief chemist U. V. Closer completes his laboratory experiments which have resulted in the perfection of their new product, green "Noxless" gasoline.

Christian Gospel Cure For Poverty, Club Told

One hundred per cent application of the Christian gospel was urged as a cure for poverty and distress in an address given Thursday noon by Col. David Main of Dallas, division commander of the Salvation Army in Texas, before the weekly meeting of the Lions club at the Kemp hotel.

Colonel Main was introduced by Ensign A. Shultz, who is now in charge of the work in this city.

The life of Thomas A. Edison was reviewed by Roy E. Carter, in observance of the Light Golden Jubilee, and Edison memorial coins were distributed to those present as souvenirs from the Texas Electric Service company.

Stunts by Irvin J. Vogel, Fred Reaser, and Frank Cripliver, secretary, were included in the entertainment for the occasion.

By substitution of bare sustenance rations for the luncheon usually served, $23.90 was obtained for the community chest.

Mrs. Putty Entertains New Century Club

Mrs. Cecil Putty was hostess to members of the New Century club at her home, 2410 Talunar lane Wednesday afternoon. Miss Faye Fisher led an interesting lesson on "English History and Government" and gave a well prepared paper on the government. Miss Anabel Couper read another interesting paper on the history.

Lovely refreshments were served to Mrs. Jimmie Allred, Miss Anabel Couper, Mrs. Dick Davis, Mrs. H. B. Dudley, Miss Faye Fisher, Mrs. Almond Gates, Mrs. Paul Hines, Miss Mary Jo Kell, Mrs. Anderson Kemp, Mrs. Cecil Putty, Miss Thelma Fisher and Miss Helen Grisham.

Single prescription made a family doctor famous

SELDOM has any single act been of greater benefit to mankind than the one which Dr. Caldwell performed back in 1885 when he wrote the prescription which has carried his fame to the four corners of the earth.

Over and over, Dr. Caldwell wrote this prescription as he found men, women, and children suffering from those common symptoms of constipation, such as coated tongue, bad breath, headaches, gas, nausea, biliousness, poor appetite, or lack of energy, etc. And it invariably relieved these symptoms so much more pleasantly, so much quicker than other things, that his patients simply had to tell other people about it.

The demand for this prescription grew so fast that by 1888 Dr. Caldwell was forced to have it put up ready for use and supply drug stores with it. Today you can get the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, at all drug stores.

When you or your children suffer from any of the symptoms of constipation, it will pay you to remember this safe, pleasant-tasting, effective laxative; made only from herbs and other pure ingredients; a real corrective for constipation. A doctor's 47-year experience behind this formula!

CALL FIELD HANGAR BURNS

$6,000 Lost in Balze at Old Flying Station

Damage estimated at $6,000 was caused by flames which destroyed hangar No. 4 of Call field, in which about 4,000 bales of hay belonging to the Bailey-Moline Hardware company were stored, about 7:40 o'clock Wednesday morning. Fire department officials were unable to determine the cause of the blaze, but it was thought that a carelessly tossed match or a cigaret left by tramps who were thought to sleep in the structure at night had started the flames.

Loss on the 4,000 bales of hay was estimated at $2,000 by A. C. Moline, vice president and manager of the Bailey-Moline company. The hangar was rented as storage space by the hardware company from the Texas-Oklahoma Fair association. The structure was partially covered by insurance, it was said. The series of hangars, used during the war as part of the Call field aviation camp, at present belong to the fair association and have been used in the past as exhibit buildings. Since 1927, when the last fair was held, they have been rented as storage space or left vacant.

The building was completely enveloped in flames by the time the alarm was turned in, according to witnesses. Four persons called the fire department almost at the same time but the structure and the hay were a mass of smouldering ashes by the time trucks arrived.

An incident of the fire was the loss of a wagon load of cotton which was standing in a field almost half a mile from the scene of the blaze. A vagrant spark dropped in the cotton which blazed up immediately and only quick work by firemen, who rushed to the field and overturned the wagon, saved the team and the wagon bed.

SIMMONS WEEK . .

An Invitation

Every lady in the city of Wichita Falls and vicinity is cordially invited to visit our Bedding Department and meet Miss Meharry, the country's foremost authority on "Better Sleep Equipment and the Proper Arrangement and Color Scheme for Your Bedroom!" See the famous "Beautyrest" Mattress and Ace Spring. Let Miss Meharry show you how you can improve the restfulness of your sleep.

the LAST WORD in perfect sleep equipment

Comfort. Rest. Sleep that feels like floating on a cloud, that's what you may expect from Simmons sleep equipment.

Take this new Ace Box Spring for example: not until Simmons had made a very thorough study of the good points of hundreds of box springs . . . not until they had been able to overcome every difficulty and build a box spring just as outstanding as their Beautyrest Mattress . . . did they offer it to the public.

Its marvelous construction is the secret of the rare comfort of the Ace Box Spring. Frame of seasoned lumber, steel braced. Best grade of finely tempered Premier wire coils, hand-tied with Italian hemp cord. Between these coils and a sturdy canvas covering are several layers of fine upholstering, and over all, the luxurious damasks that have proven so successful when used on the Beautyrest Mattress.

Herbert Kaufman's
REMOVE THEIR DISABILITY
Daily Editorial

EARLY in the war, Samuel Gompers predicted that "an even greater misunderstanding between government and labor than that which arose in England, may arise here in a more acute form because of the racial diversity of our working classes."

Foreign labor's habit of living in special districts tends to accentuate racial solidarity and to perpetuate whatever misconceptions of America they brought with them.

While the barriers of speech stretch between us and them, we shall never be able to explain ourselves or appreciably influence their sympathies.

The alarming number of so-called factory towns shows a preponderance of aliens and of native illiterates gradually combed, since 1915, out of the furthest villages and plantations by short-handed war industries, and to be held indefinitely in their new environments by high wages, short hours and city excitements.

It is a shabby economy, an ungrateful economy that withholds funds for their betterment. The fields of France cry shame upon those who are content to abandon them to their handicap.

The loyal service of immigrant soldiers and sailors commits us to instruct and nationalize their brothers in breed.

The spirit in which the United States was conceived, insists that the republic remove the intellectual disadvantages under which so many native-born carry on.

The problem is not local. However much different sections may, at present, hold a preponderance of the uneducated, we cannot be safe anywhere until we are sound everywhere.

There cannot be coagulations of illiteracy and non-English speaking on either coast or border without both coasts and both borders finally sharing the consequences.

AN OUTBREAK of hoof and mouth disease would compel instant remedial laws and funds to contain the menace within bounds.

It is even more incumbent upon us to defend healthy citizenship against civic incapables. But since we manifestly cannot prohibit the free passage of illiterates from state to state, then the only protection which any particular state can secure, must be through federal jurisdiction.

There are some who maintain that this obligation should remain entirely a state responsibility, but because it has hitherto been a state responsibility, and because so many states have failed to deal adequately in the matter, the government will be compelled to intervene.

Because the several states permitted 386,196 citizens of draft age to remain so abysmally unlettered that they could not comprehend the simplest military orders or write a postcard, the war department was forced to prepare them for service, at an expense of millions.

If we continue to neglect such folk, there are influences that will sooner or later convince those who now fail to appreciate the worth of our systems, that democracy itself has failed.

We demand the right to render all those whom we deem fit to fight for our flag, fit to vote and prosper under its folds.

We demand the right to bring the American language to every inhabitant of these United States, and qualify him for self-determination, and self-sufficiency.

Americanization must especially carry with it authority—federal authority.

We dare not, in sanity, permit undelegated or untrained folk, any more than exploiting industrial interests to conceive standards of citizenship accordingly as arbitrary theory, sectionalism or personal advantage advise.

We can have but one mould for the casting of the melting pot and the pattern of that mould cannot be too jealously designed.

The making of America may not proceed faster than the making of Americans, otherwise we will sophisticate the quality of tomorrow.

After all, Mr. Ferguson didn't promise to eliminate electrocutions to reduce the state's electricity bill.

Ford says women won't figure in industry much longer because they don't think. But do they have to think when they have the figures?

Judging by recent captures, the rum industry seems to have been educated correctly to the Wall street merger idea.

Texas Senator in the Big Picture

SENATOR MORRIS SHEPPARD started something when he introduced an amendment to the Volstead act calling for legislation that would result in the punishment of the buyer as well as the seller. Many pro senators hedged. Senator Borah, touted for years as a great constitutional lawyer, hid behind the constitution for research purposes. Bishop James Cannon Jr. lined up with Sheppard. Dr. Clarence True Wilson backed the Sheppard proposal. Dr. F. Scott McBride, high in the councils of the Anti-Saloon league, let it be known that the Sheppard proposal would muddy the waters. He was lukewarm, if anything. The Rev. A. J. Barton, another shining light in the Anti-Saloon league world, tossed the proposal aside. It did not appeal to him.

Now the Texas senator has let it be known that the supreme court of the United States may soon be asked to decide whether the buyer of liquor is equally liable with the seller for prosecution. A test case has been asked by the district attorney of Philadelphia as a result of a ruling by the United States court of appeals there that the buyer is immune from arrest. Decision of the department of justice is being awaited. Senator Sheppard will ask an inquiry by Atty. Gen. William D. Mitchell to decide whether the government may not now prosecute buyers under the present law.

Apostle McBride contends that the conviction of the seller must almost invariably depend upon the testimony of the buyer and that to accomplish conviction of the buyer it would be necessary to grant immunity to the seller. There are two conflicting opinions by federal courts. Federal Judge W. A. Dawson of Kentucky held that rum buyers do violate the Volstead act and he instructed his grand juries to return indictments against purchasers.

Lest we forget the Volstead act now provides that "no one shall purchase any liquor without first obtaining a permit from the commissioner to do so," and further that "anyone who violates any of the provisions of this chapter, for which offense a special penalty is not prescribed, shall be fined for a first offense not more than $500." The reader is reminded that the supreme court of the United States held that the 18th amendment was intended to prohibit traffic in liquor. To create traffic there must be buyers as well as sellers. A decision from the court of last resort will clarify the atmosphere. Senator Sheppard will be up for election next year. He is a regular, he gave his unstinted support to Smith and Robinson last year. Now he is going to do his level best to pinch the buyer as well as to imprison the seller. Let the light shine.

When Melodramas Are Outdone by Facts

THE STORY of the "liquor empire" uncovered in the East by federal prohibition agents reads like the scenario for a melodramatic movie.

For several years the novelists and the movie makers have been spinning tall yarns about vast rum-running organizations in which millions of dollars were involved; organizations that had palatial headquarters, private armies of thugs, fleets of ships, extensive legal and sales departments and amazingly full treasuries.

We always enjoyed these stories, but we never quite believed them. They were too much like detective story thrillers in which some "international crook" directs a crime ring with branches in all the principal cities.

But now—behold! It's all true. The gaudiest dreams of the romancers are outdone by sober fact. We have caught up with our melodrama.

Listen again to some of the details of this outfit which the federal men finally managed to smash into:

A string of warehouses running all the way from Highlands, N. J., to Atlantic City; a fortified arsenal where the gang could resist attacks by its enemies; a private radio station; branch offices in England and Canada; a whole fleet of ships, many of them heavily armed; a board of directors whose espionage system kept it informed of the government's movements; a private hotel for the use of employes; a financial hook-up with banks which insured a constant supply of funds; a private army ready to fight off rivals or government officers; and, of course, a "master mind" of great mystery and cunning who directed operations from a distant hide-out.

This sort of stuff sounds like dizzy fiction and it happens to be fact. The thrillers have been outdone by reality.

How many other similar organizations there may be is a matter for conjecture. Probably there are quite a few. We have a long coast line, and the liquor smuggling business offers enormous profits.

It's highly interesting—but it isn't, really, anything to laugh at.

This smuggling outfit was an empire within our empire; a group of men who lived by their own laws and were answerable only to themselves.

The situation is extremely serious. The existence of such groups brings us a lot closer to actual chaos and breakdown than it is comfortable to think about.

Unless we can find some way to smash such outfits and make the law supreme we are going to run into a very nasty catastrophe. We have traveled a whole lot farther along the road that leads to it than we imagine.

'EASY' The Love Story of a Modern Girl
By BEATRICE BURTON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Ann Marie Macy is the "easy" type of girl who is continually imposed upon. Young and pretty, she dreams of a future as an artist, saving from her earnings by painting cards and working in her father's bookstore, but, as her selfish, flapper sisters, Alice and Jeanie, borrow her dresses for their own ends, so her brother, Howard, borrows her savings. The art course plan is shelved when Ann Marie uses the money in extricating Howard from an entangling alliance with Leota Ingram, the town's bad girl. Even her mother's pendant is pawned to pay Howard's fare to the West when he loses his bank job. Neal Forsythe, dashing Don Juan, visiting the wealthy Lawlers, wins Ann Marie's heart. Mrs. Lawler forbids her son to further accompany the Macy girls, calling them "night-time friends." Alice evens accounts by getting herself engaged to John Lawler. To celebrate, Johnny, Alice, Ann Marie, Neal, Jeanie and Brookie have a party at a roadhouse.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XX

Some people are "tight" with their money. And some people just don't have the money to spend.

That evening at Simonds' roadhouse Ann Marie made up her mind that the reason Neal did not break his $20 bill was because he was poor. And not because he was the tight-wad that Johnny said he was.

He told her just how poor he was as they danced together, weaving in and out among the packed couples on the floor.

"I live in one room at the top of an apartment house in New York," he said, his voice low and deep against her ear. "It's just a question of time when I'll be illustrating stories for the big magazines. Even if I do say it, myself, I sure can draw better than a lot of the boys who are pulling down big money—"

How absolutely romantic and thrilling, thought Ann Marie. . . . Living in one room in an attic—well, in what you might call an attic—and waiting for big opportunity to come knocking at the door.

"I can't give you anything but love, Ba-a-aby.

"That's the only thing I've plenty of—Baby—" sobbed the saxophones in the orchestra, while slender, high-heeled feet and large flat-heeled feet in pairs beat out the measure.

"'I can't give you anything but love, Baby,'" said Neal, his lips moving against the soft, brown-gold hair that covered Ann Marie's right ear. "That's the only thing I've plenty of, Baby! . . . How about it, Ann Marie?"

Ann Marie's heart turned a flip-flop in her breast. She leaned back in the man's arms and gave him a wide, soft, startled look. . . . Was he asking her to marry him? Was he telling her how poor he was and asking her to share his poverty? Or was he just spoofing her?

He was smiling down into her face as he sang. She didn't know whether he was serious or not.

They went on dancing.

Through Ann Marie's head flashed visions of love in an attic. Of bread and cheese and kisses. Of all the romantic and lovely things that girls have dreamed about since the beginning of time. . . . Of rain beating on a roof, a grate-fire in the room beneath it, and of breakfast for two laid out on a little table in front of the fire. . . . Heaven on the installment plan!

"How about it, Ann Marie?"

"I don't know what you mean," the girl breathed. "I don't know what you mean."

"Yes, you do." His mouth was against her cheek. He kissed her quickly so that no one should see. "Yes, you do."

She did. She knew that he was asking her to marry him. . . . The miracle of miracles had happened!

"Oh, you know I love you," she said at last in an unsteady whisper. "You know I'd rather starve to death with you than live on—on—on chicken and mushrooms with anybody else—" And then she made herself laugh so that she would not cry. She was so happy.

"I can't give you anything but love, Baby—" wailed the saxophones.

"That's the only thing I've plenty of—Baby—"

Ann Marie opened her eyes to a cold, wet Sunday the next morning. A high wind was blowing the boughs of the sycamore tree outside her window against the pane, and the house was filled with the smell of smoke. The fire-place in the front parlor always smoked when the wind was in the north.

"I hope it won't smoke tonight," she thought, stretching herself under the blankets.

For Neal was coming to see her that night, and she wanted everything to be perfect for him.

She spent the whole morning dusting the room, snipping the dead leaves from the plants in the windows, plumping up the cushions on the couch.

At noon Alice and Jeanie came down to eat Sunday dinner in their kimonos and bedroom slippers, much to the disgust of Mrs. Leezy.

"It ain't respectable for 'em to run around the house half-dressed all day on the Sabbath," she complained bitterly to Mr. Macy. "If they was mine they wouldn't do it—and leave me to tell you so!"

He shrugged his shoulders and looked more meek and helpless than usual as he got out of his easy chair and started to the table.

"What can I do about it?" he asked in his mild way. "You know they never listen to anything I say to them."

Mrs. Leezy snorted. "Haw!—I'll bet I'd be master in my own house or know the reason why!" she declared hotly. "If them girls belonged to me I bet you they'd dress theirself!"

After dinner she left the dirty dishes standing on the sink, put on her street clothes and left the house. Every now and then she rebelled—and this was her way of doing it now."

"The worst of it is that the boys are coming over for supper," Jeanie groaned, as she stood in the bay window of the Front Parlor and watched her vanish down the street. "I suppose we'll all have to pitch in and do up the dishes."

"Not me," answered Alice. "I don't care if they never get done. I'm going to wash my head."

Ann Marie and Jeanie did the dishes and cleaned up the kitchen.

"I think I'll ask Neal over for supper, too," decided Ann Marie, "and make some waffles."

But that afternoon at four o'clock Neal telephoned her.

"I want you all to myself tonight, he said to her. "Johnny says I can have his roadster, so I'm coming over to get you. We'll go out to Simonds' and have some more of their chicken-salad sandwiches, hmm?"

Ann Marie thought of his $20 bill and his cheap room in New York.

"No, I won't go there," she answered. "It's too expensive."

There was a little pause and then his voice came again. "I hate a cheap place—thick dishes and no service."

Ann Marie hated thick dishes herself.

But she was one of those women who want to take care of that man they love—to help him save his money and get ahead. There was really not enough of the gold-digger in her. She was too "easy."

"We-e-ell," she said slowly, "I will go to Simonds', then, on one condition—that you'll go Dutch treat."

"Pay your half of the bill?" he asked, and he didn't sound as surprised as she had thought he would be.

"Yes."

"All right—if you insist upon it," he said. "After all, you've got to know I'm no million-dollar baby some time, I suppose. See you later."

Ann Marie went down the hall to the back parlor where her father was taking his Sunday afternoon nap, with his newspaper folded across his stomach so that it rose and fell with his breathing.

She bent over him and shook him gently.

"Peter," she said, "will you let me take five dollars?—I hate to ask you for it."

He gave it to her without a word, fell back upon his pillow and began to snore again the minute his eyes were closed.

Alice was sitting in her room, manicuring her nails, when Ann Marie went upstairs.

"Come her a sec!" she called through the doorway and Ann Marie walked in.

"I couldn't help hearing what you said to Neal Forsythe over the 'phone just now," she said, studying the pink and polished tips of her fingers, "and I just want to tell you that you're a sap, a simp and a nit-wit!"

Ann Marie flushed. "Why?"

"Offering to pay half the bill tonight when he takes you out to dinner!" she cried scornfully. "You ought to be ashamed of yourself! —And if he lets you do it he ought to be ashamed of himself, too! He didn't pay for a single thing last night, and that was bad enough! But to let a girl split a bill with him!—And he hardly knows you, too!"

Ann Marie bit her lip.

"You don't know what you're talking about," she said, after a minute. "He knows me a lot better than you think he does . . . You are just peeved because you're crazy about him yourself! And if he'd had money you'd have given him the chase of his life—But he didn't, so you let him alone!—Well, I don't care how poor he is! I'm going to marry him!"

Alice let out a shout of shrill laughter. "Does he know it?" she asked.

"He ought to know it!" Ann Marie came back at her. "He proposed to me last night while we were dancing—"

"Well, that was nice of him," Alice broke in. "But let me ask you this—if he can't buy you a chicken sandwich and a cup of coffee at Simonds', how is he going to support a wife?"

Ann Marie had no answer for her.

"I'll tell you how!" Alice said forcefully. "Dutch treat! That's how he's going to do it!—Just the way he's managing tonight's trip! You'll work and support yourself —and he'll support himself, maybe! Why, Johnny says he hasn't a cent to bless himself with and he won't go to work! Borrows money from Mrs. Lawler all the time!—That's why he didn't dare to bring you home the night when she bawled you and me out! He was afraid she'd be sore at him and stop lending him money to live on! That's your bridegroom for you!—That's your fifty-fifty sweetie!"

Ann Marie nodded. She knew that Alice was telling the truth. Not because Alice was truthful, but because what she had said simply bore out what Neal had told her himself.

"I don't care what you say about him," she answered gently and thoughtfully, "I love him. . ." She couldn't go on. Her love was so new and so wonderful that she couldn't talk it over this way with Alice whose god was money.

"Well, be sure you can afford him!" Alice trilled out as she closed the door of her own room and began to get dressed.

The Once Over
By H. I. PHILLIPS

Golf and Business

Industry in the United States is suffering from too much golf, a speaker at a manufacturers' convention declared recently. "Fundamentally business is sound but too many business men are neglecting business for the links," he charged.

PHILLIPS

No truer word was ever spoken. The old-time business man, who used to put in eight to ten hours a day sitting in a stuffy office worrying about business, is now spending at least half his time out on the golf course worrying about his back swing.

He used to fret over trade conditions, economic trends and market prospects. Now he frets over wrist action, keeping his head down and remembering to pivot.

It was once possible to bring on a nervous decline by suggesting that new business was not so good. Now he will laugh that off but show symptoms of a general collapse at the intimation he is putting too much body into his wood clubs.

One of the most disturbing factors in the business outlook is the spectacle of countless presidents, vice presidents, general managers, production experts and high-pressure salesmen out in the great open spaces digging divots and asking pathetically of their startled caddies, "What did I do that time?"

There are more corporation heads in the sand traps of America than there are in skyscraper offices, and for every director who is on the job on any given afternoon there are ten in the woods looking for lost balls.

The time business takes a spurt in this country today is during weather when it is too cold or too wet to play.

The average business man regards the office as a place to go when the golf course is too crowded.

Fifty per cent of the important business conferences in the United States today are taken up chiefly by futile discussions over when to use the mashie-niblick and how far back to go on the putt. You can break up a meeting of the directors of the United States Steel corporation, General Motors or Radio Corporation of America any time by sending in a card announcing there is a man outside who knows how to correct a slice.

The slogan of the business world used to be "Do it now!" Today it is "Put up a bail for me. I'll be out in 10 minutes!"

Gone are the captains of industry who used to sleep in the office so they could be on the job early the next morning. They now sleep at the country club so they can play before it gets too hot.

John D. Rockefeller owes his success to the fact he never picked up a midiron until he had launched the Standard Oil company, and the present-day status of the Schwabs and Morgans is due to the fact they never got the idea knee pants were the proper thing for big business men.

Something's gotta be done. The first step may be to cut down the $100,000 a year salaries paid to big executives. No golfer is worth that much money.

Traffic Reform

Washington, D. C., is considering new traffic rules so that all east and west-bound lobbyists will not collide with those bound north and south.

There is a big strike of gasoline tank wagon drivers in New York and so far nobody has referred to the agitators as stormy "petrels."

MARSHALL RATLIFF FILES PLEA FOR SANITY HEARING

CISCO BANDIT FILES MOTION

Condemned Man's Mother Signs Affidavit

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, Oct. 23. (AP)—A petition for a sanity hearing for Marshall Ratliff, the "Santa Claus" bandit in the Cisco bank robbery of 1927, who has been in the death cell here for 22 months, was filed in district court here today.

His mother, Mrs. Rilla Carter, signed the affidavit. She asserted that Ratliff sits all day in his cell muttering, over and over to himself, Lord have mercy on my soul."

He has become insane, the petition says, on the question of religion.

Hearing on the petition will be held before Judge B. H. Singletary next Wednesday, Oct. 30. W. E. Gates, local attorney will represent Ratliff, and the state will be represented by R. T. Burns, attorney of Walker county, and a representative of the attorney generals office.

Ratliff and two others were convicted of the Cisco bank robbery of Dec. 21, 1927, in which two officers were shot to death. One of the bandits was dressed in a Santa Claus outfit. They made their escape using two little girls, picked up outside the bank, as shields from officers' bullets.

During Ratliff's 22 months in the death cell, he has watched 15 or more men go to the electric chair, including Henry Helms, his partner in the robbery, who failed in his attempt to gain a reprieve on the grounds of insanity. Robert Hill, the other convicted bandit, was sentenced to 99 years' imprisonment. With 18 others, he escaped recently from Wynne prison farm, and has not been recaptured.

Jury Undecided On Dog Hospital Plea

After almost five hours of deliberation, the jury trying the injunction application brought by neighboring property owners against the veterinary hospital operated by Dr. Fred Gross at 1405 Lamar was excused for the night without having reached a decision late Wednesday afternoon.

The jurors were instructed by Judge Vincent Stine, sitting for Judge P. A. Martin, to reassemble for further consideration at 9 o'clock Thursday morning. The petition for an injunction, which includes a plea for $1,500 damages on the allegation that property values have dropped, was filed by Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Bauknight, Mr and Mrs. R. C. Cato, and Mrs. A A. Thomas, all represented by E. W. Napier, attorney.

Wichita Officers To Return Wright Today

C. A. Wright, to be tried here next week under the Texas habitual criminal act on a third offense burglary charge, will be brought here from the Dallas county jail late Thursday, according to plans announced by Sheriff W. G. Bralley Wednesday. The defendant is to be transferred on the authority of a bench warrant signed Tuesday by Judge Vincent Stine, sitting for Judge P. A. Martin. Mr. Bralley had not assigned the moving of the prisoner to any one of his deputies late Wednesday. Wright's trial is set for Monday morning in the 89th district court.

LIGHT-HEADED, TIRED FEELING

Bilious Troubles Relieved by the Help of Thedford's Black-Draught.

Gainesville, Ga.—Mrs. F. A. Watson, of 43 West High street, this city, says that she has used Thedford's Black-Draught for 15 years, when needed for such troubles as she mentions below:

"I took Black-Draught for indigestion and the tired, worn feeling that comes from biliousness.

"When I get up in the morning and my mouth tastes bad and my eyes burn, and I feel light-headed, I know that I must take something. And after I heard how good it was, I took Black-Draught. A few doses relieve me so much—make me feel well and strong and clear up my head.

"I don't know what I would do without Black-Draught. It seems to regulate the bowels and rid one of impurities."

Thousands of others have written to tell how many disagreeable symptoms, due to constipation, have disappeared after they had taken Thedford's Black-Draught. It is a natural remedy, composed of selected medicinal herbs and roots, and put up by modern scientific, accurate methods.

Four Arrested and Heavy Equipment Seized in Raid on Big Whisky Plant

Wichita and Wilbarger Sheriffs Join Forces in Swoop on Still Near County Line, West of Electra

Four men were arrested, 300 gallons of whisky seized, and a triple-copper still capable of running 250 gallons a day was dismantled in a joint raid of Wichita and Wilbarger county officers in a Wilbarger county pasture 18 miles southwest of Electra Wednesday afternoon. The prisoners, all Electra men, were placed in jail at Vernon, where the liquor and the equipment was later hauled. State charges will be filed against the four Thursday morning, according to Sheriff W. G. Bralley, a member of the raiding party.

Several shots were fired as the officers, a group of seven men, surrounded the place and stopped the flight of the four operators, Mr. Bralley said. The arrests were made while the look-out, especially equipped with a saddle horse, had stopped inside the camping tent for supper, the sheriff reported. The officer described the plant and its equipment as one of the largest and most complete he has ever uncovered in this section of the country. Besides the actual manufacturing equipment, the operators were supplied with a regular camping outfit and comfortable living quarters, he reported.

Three Copper Stills

The manufacturing unit itself consisted of three connected copper stills, fed from as many concrete mash vats buried in the ground, Mr. Bralley went on. The mash vats were estimated at a capacity of about 200 barrels. The raiders found 19 10-gallon kegs, one 20 and one 30-gallon container, and about 60 additional gallons of whisky standing near the still in open containers, the sheriff reported. All the liquor was later taken into Vernon where the cases against the four defendants will be filed.

Besides Mr. Bralley, the raiding party included Dick Morris and Charlie Gant, deputies, Sheriff Rhea of Vernon with his deputies, Campbell and Price, and the newly appointed Constable Whisnant of Electra. Mr. Bralley said the still was too hot to be touched when the officers arrived and that it had evidently been in operation until a few minutes before the raid. The plant was set several miles from any house, in a mesquite filled hollow, with the added protection of the circuit-riding lookout. The horse and saddle of the picket were included in the seizures made in the course of the raid.

Second Seizure

The seizure Wednesday afternoon is the second big still to be uncovered by Wichita county officers in this section within the past week. An earlier raid near the Archer county line several days ago brought two arrests and resulted in the destruction of a high double copper still, three galvanized mash tanks, a large quantity of whisky and mash, and in the seizure of two automobiles. Indictments were returned here Wednesday against the two men involved in the first raid.

ACCOUNT TO BE PROBED

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 23. (AP)—Investigation of an alleged secret bank account kept under an assumed name by Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, was begun here today by the district attorney's office at the request of Daniel Beecher, deputy prosecutor in charge of the grand jury.

Olney Man Faces Liquor Charge Here

Charges of possession and sale of liquor were filed against Vadio Lemons who lives near Olney in Young county, before J. A. Lants, federal commissioner, Wednesday afternoon following his arrest Tuesday afternoon when officers seized 18 half-gallon jars of whisky. Lemons was held at the county jail Wednesday night in lieu of $1,000 bond.

The arrest was made by Texas Ranger Hugh McNeese, Constable Jim Bob George and Deputy Sheriff Will Jennings.

Optimist Club Has Program on Edison

Celebration of the Light Golden Jubilee was continued locally at the weekly meeting of the Optimist club at the Kemp hotel Wednesday noon with addresses praising the genius and character of Thomas A. Edison.

Rev. Patrick Henry, pastor of the Highland Heights Christian church, and Phil M. Cordell were speakers.

A song written to Mr. Edison by George M. Cohan was sung by H. W. Gray, and Ted Myers, tenor, sang "Can't Remember." Miss Lorene Tucker played their accompaniments.

The singsong Wednesday was led by Joel H. MacGregor, who has been ill for several weeks, and was given an ovation of welcome by the club. The program was in charge of Joe Richker.

Marvin Smith, president, named W. H. Bailey, J. V. Allred, Jerry Vinson, Solon Featherston, Frank Humphrey and Kindel Paulk as an attendance committee.

Butler Returned To Hill County Officers

Hugh D. Butler, twice acquitted of charges growing out of the robbery of the Silver store here, Wednesday started to Hillsboro to face the second of two murder charges brought against him there. The prisoner was turned over to George Simmons, sheriff of Hill county, Wednesday morning. He is under a murder indictment following a shooting affray in which two men lost their lives at the Groesbeck fair in 1927. A former trial on the first of the two murder counts resulted first in a 99-year sentence. The case was reversed on appeal and the second trial brought an acquittal.

Watch Tongue For Signs of Illness

Your tongue is nothing more than the upper end of your stomach and intestines. It is the first thing your doctor looks at. It tells at a glance the condition of your digestive system — and physicians say that 90 per cent of all sicknesses start with stomach and bowel trouble.

Look at your TONGUE every morning!

A white or yellowish coating on your tongue is a danger signal of those digestive disorders. It tells you why the least exertion tires you out; why you have pains in the bowels, gas, sour stomach, dizzy spells.

And it's a sign you need Tanlac. This good old reliable medicine has helped thousands who were physical wrecks. See how the first bottle helps you.

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs; it is made of barks, herbs and roots—nature's own medicines for the sick. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

Keep Free from FAT

in excess; it's easy now

Modern science has found that excess fat is largely due to an under-active gland. Starve as you will, exercise as you will, you are bound to fail unless you correct the cause.

That gland largely controls nutrition. When it is weak, too much food goes to fat, too little to fuel and energy. So modern physicians, in treating obesity, supply the gland substance which is scant.

That is the method employed in Marmola prescription tablets, prepared by a famous medical laboratory. People have used them for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. Anybody, in any circle, can see what a change has come. Excess fat is disappearing fast. New youth and beauty, new health and vitality, are conspicuous everywhere.

If you are abnormal in your weight, a certain gland is abnormal. Try Marmola. Feed the factor lacking. Watch the pounds go, the new vitality return. You will be amazed and delighted. But the formula in each box of Marmola will tell you the reason. To people who know, there is no excuse today for obesity. Start to remedy that ill condition now.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 a box. Any druggist who is out will gladly order for you.

LITCHFIELD TEST ATTRACTS ATTENTION

An individual campaign to open up new fields of oil development near the city through the sinking of a well in deep strata has been launched near the county farm by C. E. Litchfield, local oil and real estate man, according to information given The Record News Wednesday.

Mr. Litchfield is now down 1100 feet on a hole begun on Oct. 15 on block six of the Cherokee county school lands, the site being located one and a half miles southeast of the city water pumping station. With the steel derrick and drilling equipment which have been set up, the hole may be sunk to a depth of almost 4,000 feet, it was stated.

The particular level which the new well is designed to discover and test is in the regional basin of the Cisco formation, Mr. Litchfield said, the geological surveys upon which location for the well was based indicating that it should be encountered at between 2,700 and 3,000 feet. The same sand lies at a depth of about 2,000 feet near Holliday, it was said, and slope has been estimated to carry the formation somewhat less than 1,000 feet deeper just south of this city. Geologists estimated that should the sand which Mr. Litchfield hopes to reach be located where the well is now drilling, the production should be more prolific than at any other point.

It was pointed out that evidences of oil at shallower levels have been revealed by other wells in that section during the past 10 years. According to Mr. Litchfield, no hole in that area has gone deeper than 2,500 feet, and the location on which it was drilled was said to offer less probability of paying production than that on which the present effort is being made.

NEW PRESIDENT WILL TAKE OVER SPUDDER BASEBALL CLUB

Advice to Golfers

"Oh! Come and put your golf clubs up
And can the whole procedure;
Dismiss the all too bitter cup;
Forget you ever teed your

Ball and hooked it out of bounds,
Forget the horrid chasms,
The agony of wretched rounds,
The waggles and the spasms.

Go get a golf book—try a swing
Or two—read all the hokum—
And then smoke up and dream of spring
And how you're going to soak 'em!
—WILFRED FUNK.

Not yet—not yet—just yesterday
While I was talking with 'em
(I mean some pros), I found a way
To standardize my rhythm.

And when you hear the lyric tones
My club makes—wood and iron—
You won't say, "There goes Bobby Jones"—
But Shelley, Keats or Byron.

In the Way of National Banking

Two of the big games on the card for Saturday that are bound to count heavily along the lines of national ranking are Stanford-Southern California and Notre Dame-Carnegie Tech.

It is quite probable that the combined strength of Stanford and Southern California was never quite as great as it is this year.

Both squads are made up of big, fast material, experienced and ably coached—with long spring training campaigns to perfect the undamentals and the general machinery. Each team can call upon six or seven fast backs who can run, pass and kick—or at least run, buck and pass.

In the same way Notre Dame always looks on Carnegie Tech as one of its top foemen. The reason is simple enough if you look back over past scores, and Carnegie Tech again has an outfit that is good enough to annoy any one.

Stanford and Notre Dame will be slight favorites, but there will be no squally upsets to write about, no matter what happens.

They Must Have It

Each autumn now, with all the hullabaloo churned up, is always the autumn of football's discontent. And this discontent, as usual, turns back to the matter of more and noisier publicity. The period of beratement from those overlooked is on in full blast. "Why don't you write more about so-and-so?" is one of the battlecries that sends its ringing chorus against the gray or blue October skies.

So old grads and colleges and football players figure that nothing else matters much except publicity? The football players don't bother about it, but the warwhoops of the non-combatants reach the dimensions of vocal cataclysms. They seem to forget there must be a hundred or more fine football teams in the country and at least 200 star football players.

And many of these are far better players than many of those for whom publicity has been demanded.

Two Interesting Games

It isn't often that the Army and Navy tear into two members of the Old Guard on the same afternoon. These two games may not have any bearing on the final ranking, which is always a guess, anyway, but they will be full of action for big crowds.

The Army meets Yale, and the Navy meets Princeton, and at this point it looks as if the Navy had the tougher assignment.

The Navy has no backfield star to match Cagle, but the Army would give more than a cigaret for some of Bill Ingram's forwards.

So far as action and color and a picture worth looking at may count, not forgetting traditional rivalry of the keenest sort, these two games will be something to watch. Princeton has always found the Navy a troublesome barrier, and there will be no change in the story this year, despite the fact that the Tiger has greater length and sharpness to his claws than the season's record has shown so far.

When it comes to line play and line strength, some football team will have to hustle to show more than Notre Dame and Pittsburgh. Ends, tackles, guards and centers—take them either way—find a weakness, and your eyesight is exceptional.

Given his chance, or half a chance, and it hasn't taken Frank Cavanaugh long at Fordham to show that one of the old guard is still up in the front row.

The battle for southern leadership will be the hardest ever known, from Carolina across to Texas. They have more good teams than they ever had before—and this doesn't mean possibly or perhaps.

Memphis Cyclones To Meet Wellington

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Oct. 22.—Evolving from the Clarendon game without any serious injury, the Memphis Cyclone are ready to tackle the Wellington Sky Rockets in their fourth conference game, which is to be played at Wellington Friday, Oct. 25.

The Cyclone hit their stride in the game with Clarendon last Friday, outplaying the Bronc in every department of the game, but costly fumbles and penalties kept the Cyclone from pushing over the winning touchdown, and the game ended in a 6-6 tie. Memphis made 12 first downs to Clarendon's five.

The Cyclone after playing in and out ball for six games seem to have found themselves in the game with Clarendon and should show some real football for the rest of the season, said Coach Nolan Walter. "One reason for the in and out style of football the Cyclone have been playing this year, is the inexperience of the players and their age. Out of the squad of 18 players 11 had never been in high school football games before this year, and six of this number are only 15 years of age."

Every team in this section has lost or tied one or more games and it looks like anybody's race with Memphis, Clarendon, and Estelline rated as the favorites.

'BULLETIN 23' RAPS COLLEGES

Carnegie Report Tells Of Subsidizing

tigators characterize as "the deepest shadow that darkens American college and school athletics"—the widespread practice of recruiting and subsidizing athletics.

"Fagins" of Sport

"Those who tempt young men to barter their honesty for the supposed advantage of a college course, dishonestly achieved, are the Fagins of American sport and American higher education," declared the 383-page bulletin prepared by Howard J. Savage, staff member of the foundation; Harold W. Bentley, John T. McGovern and Dean F. Smiley, M. D.

Placing the responsibility squarely upon the shoulders of college executives, the authors find that "in the murk there are many brighter patches" and that "the university or college that, under capable leadership, makes up its collective mind to cast out these practices, can do so."

"Portions of the picture are even blacker than they have been painted," the investigators assert in concluding the illuminating section of recruiting and subsidizing in which facts are given and institutions frankly and impartially named whether in criticism or in praise.

Long Inquiry

The inquiry consumed more than three and a half years, entailed personal visits to 130 American and Canadian colleges, universities and schools, and involved the cooperation of more than 2,000 persons. Only two of the 130 institutions did not cooperate fully, the report states, specifying the University of Georgia and Oglethorpe.

This marks the first probe of American athletics by the Carnegie foundation, which has published findings on English athletics but otherwise concentrated chiefly on the study of general or special educational subjects, such as law, dentistry.

"The varieties (of recruiting)" the report states, "range from rare and casual contacts made or directed by an individual in the athletic organization of the institution (Chicago, University of Colorado, Cornell, Washington State college) in which the motive may be the general welfare of the institution or personal favor, to an intensely organized, sometimes subtle, system that may utilize or co-ordinate numbers of agents on or off the campus (Michigan, Northwestern, Oglethorpe, Southern California, Wisconsin).

Widespread Notion

"The schoolboy notion that athletic ability can be turned to advantage is so widespread that the mercenary athlete seldom waits for solicitation. In common parlance, he starts "shopping."

"For purposes of 'shopping around' one schoolboy (Evanston, Ill.) with an enterprise worthy of a more honorable cause, had an especially favorable press notice mimeographed from a local paper with some of its comments underscored.

"Almost identical letters of another high school athlete (New York City), who was hawking his services, were encountered at no fewer than five institutions.

"A third football prospect, much solicited, furnished our inquiry with 58 answers to his own tenders, with the comment that he had been shopping and 'this is the result'."

"Soliciting apart from subsidies," the bulletin points out, "appears to be less strenuous in the Southwest and, with one or two exceptions, in New England, than it is in the other eastern and middle Atlantic states.

Letters Filed

"At some institutions the amount and nature of correspondence demand that a member of the athletic staff or a coach out of season shall attend to the letters of prospective athletes, and in some cases the files contain literally hundreds of letters to or about promising schoolboy athletes scattered over a very wide area (Brown, Dartmouth, Montana State college, New York university, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin).

At California, N. Y. U., and Pennsylvania, as well as at some smaller institutions, it is remarked, the football coach "is likely to care for such corespondence himself."

"If all who receive and answer athletes' letters showed in their replies the high-minded disapproval of these tenders that they exhibit in conversation and in speeches, the tone of such 'feelers' from high school athletes before long would change. Evidence to this effect is found at Bates, Bowdoin, Brigham Young, Chicago, Cornell, Lehigh, Stanford, Tulane and Virginia."

Taking up the employment of athletes by the athletic department, the bulletin remarks: "If a regular weekly or monthly wage is paid, the force may be unnecessarily large (New York university, Oklahoma).

"Sometimes (Boston college, Holy Cross, Notre Dame) no definite promises are made; the athlete is merely assured that he will be 'cared for.'

Recruiting Highly Desired

"Although the probable success of a candidate at athletics is usually a pre-requisite to such arrangements, a further obligation of some sort is occasionally imposed; the performing of odd tasks about the campus, or recruiting—indeed an athlete successful at recruiting may even be valued at his full college expenses without any other requirement than attendance at the university (Oglethorpe).

"The amounts available in slush funds vary "Carnegie Tech $13,000; Centre $600; Grove City $8,000; Lafayette $3,000) with the interest of contributors, but the number of beneficiaries varies less with the size of each fund than with the cost of living at the institutions (Carnegie Tech 32; Centre 11; Dickinson 12; Grove City 35; Lafayette 12; Lebanon Valley 16; Northwestern 16; Western Maryland 6.)

Big Funds Raised

"In an extreme case of subsidizing, alumni and business men made contributions ranging from $10 to nearly $1,000 annually to a fund aggregating from $25,000 to $50,000 a year. From this the college expenses of all football players were paid and additional sums, termed "pay checks," were disbursed to leading performers (Washington and Jefferson.)

"Assistance to needy athletes at Catholic institutions takes several forms.

"It may be distributed as cholarships from athletic funds, covering wholly or partly tuition, board and room, in addition to assistance from individual alumni (Fordham) or jobs that provide tuition, board and room in return for very nominal services (Notre Dame); or an outright allocation of funds without return except in athletic participation (Georgetown).

"Occasionally, the attempt is made to balance awards to athletes with those to non-athletes (Holy Cross), so that no young man will feel that his muscles alone are sufficient to get him through, or priests may effect arrangements among their own parishioners, members of the faculty, or friends of the college by which athletes may be maintained (Boston college).

Leads 1929 Carnegie Tech Team

John Dreshar, guard, captains this year's Carnegie Tech team. He is being relied upon to play a big part in stemming the Notre Dame attack when the two teams meet on Saturday, Oct. 26.

Leading Texas Colleges Included In List 'Shamed' by Subsidies

NEW YORK, Oct. 23. (AP)—At only 28 out of 112 north American colleges and universities studied by the Carnegie foundation, was no evidence found that athletes were subsidized by any group or individual, says its report made public today. Seven of the 28 are Canadian institutions. The complete list.

Bates (Maine), Bowdoin, (Maine) Carleton (Minnesota), Chicago, Cornell university, Dalhousie (Canada) Emory (Georgia), Illinois, Laval (Canada), McGill (Canada), Marquette (Wisconsin), Massachusetts Agricultural college, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Ottawa (Canada), Queens (Canada), Reed (Oregon), Rochester (New York), Saskatchewan (Canada), Toronto (Canada), Trinity (Connecticut), Tufts (Massachusetts), Tulane (Louisiana), United States Military Academy, University of Virginia, Wesleyan (Connecticut), Williams (Massachusetts), College of Wooster (Ohio), and Yale.

The other 84 colleges visited, the 112 institutions having been selected from the country's total of 800 on a basis of geographical distribution, follow:

Amherst, Boston college, Brown, Dartmouth, Harvard, Holy Cross, Middlebury, Vermont, Springfield.

Allegheny, Bucknell, Carnegie Institute of Technology, Colgate, Columbia, Dickinson, Fordham, Franklin and Marshall, Geneva, Gettysburg, Grove City, Hobart, University of Pennsylvania, Lafayette, Lebanon Valley, Lehigh, Muhlenberg, New York university, Penn State, Pittsburgh, Princeton, Rutgers, Syracuse, Ursinus, Washington and Jefferson.

Blue Ridge, Georgia, Georgia School of Technology, Georgetown, University of North Carolina, Oglethorpe, West Virginia, West Virginia Wesleyan, Western Maryland.

Beloit, Michigtan, Northwestern, Notre Dame, Oberlin, Ohio State, Ohio Wesleyan, Purdue, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, South Dakota.

Alabama, Centre, Tennessee, Vanderbilt, Baylor, Oklahoma, Southern Methodist, University of Texas, Arizona, Brigham Young, Colorado, Denver, Idaho, Montana State, Utah, Wyoming.

California, Oregon State, Southern California, Stanford, University of Washington, Washington State, Hamilton, Susquehanna.

OIL BELT GRID RACE IS HOT

Cisco-Breckenridge Game Is Classic

By W. G. CHAMBLESS

The "big drive" is on down in the Oil Belt theater of football warfare and the push is all along the entire ten team circuit. The annual Cisco-Breckenridge football clash will be the major attraction of the loop this week-end with Ranger vs. Abilene placing as the next best on the program.

Four out of the ten teams down there are in the running for the conference championship and six are practically out. The four teams just mentioned are the ones to watch, for they are the class of the Oil Belt and from among them will come out the 1929 champions.

The "also rans" include the Big Spring eleven which will play Eastland on Friday, Swetwater and San Angelo, and Mineral Wells vs. Brownwood at Mineral Wells.

Big Trek to Game

More than 5,000 persons are expected to see the Cisco-Breckenridge setto at Cisco. Two thousand seats have been reserved for visiting Breckenridge rooters alone who will come and make probably the greatest trek ever made out of that city to attend an out-of-town football game. Special interest attaches to the game for the reason that it is generally thought that the winner of the affray will be the district title winners.

Buckaroos Strong on Offense

The Breckenridge Buckaroos have displayed a tremendous driving attack in their games thus far in the season. Against Brownwood last Friday they cut loose and when the 60 minutes of battling was over they had amassed a 59 to 6 score against their opponents. They have not lost a single start during the season and have won all of their four games by impressive counts.

Cisco Whipped Bobcats

Cisco, on the other hand, has won all of its three starts but not by exactly impressive counts. Ranked as the smoothest functioning team in the district before last Friday, Cisco was hard put to nose out the San Angelo Bobcats by a single touchdown, 13 to 7.

Though they have suffered one loss in their four games played, the Ranger Bulldogs will not be easy pickings for the Abilene Eagles. Abilene has not lost a game of their three starts but they found the going slower than Montana molasses in winter time when they played the twice defeated Mineral Wells eleven last Friday. The final score was 27 to 0 but the Eagles scored only one touchdown in the first three quarters.

The district standing of the Oil Belt eleven is as follows:

Club—	Won	Lost	Pct.
Breckenridge	4	0	1.000
Abilene	3	0	1.000
Cisco	3	0	1.000
Ranger	4	1	.800
San Angelo	2	2	.500
Eastland	1	2	.333
Brownwood	1	3	.250
Mineral Wells	0	3	.000
Big Spring	0	3	.000
Sweetwater	0	4	.000

(One tie—Mineral Wells-Big Spring).

Olney Meets Burk In Friday Contest

Special to The Record News.

OLNEY, Texas, Oct. 23.—The Olney Cubs play Burkburnett here Friday afternoon in their third conference game of the season. So far this season the Cubs have won easily over their opponents, defeating Archer City 45 to 6, Iowa Park 43 to 0 and Chillicothe, 19 to 0. Although Burkburnett has not been so successful, nevertheless they will offer some strong opposition here this week.

Two of Olney's first string men will probably not be able to play. Dees, veteran tackle, and a man who has played exceptional football throughout the season has been out this week with a bad leg. Graves, fullback, is suffering with injuries from the Chillicothe game and according to Coach A. S. Acker, will not be in condition by Friday.

Olney and Seymour are the only two teams in this district to remain undefeated. Should both teams win their next two games, the championship of the district would be decided here Nov. 28, when Olney meets Seymour.

W. E. HUFF BUYS CLUB HOLDINGS

Alvin J. Gardner Retires As Owner

By W. G. CHAMELESS

The announcement late Wednesday that J. Alvin Gardner had disposed of his major interest and resigned his post as president of the Wichita Falls Spudder baseball club of the Texas league and had been succeeded by William E. Huff came as a distinct surprise to citizens of Wichita Falls and North Texas alike. The deal involves one of the biggest shakeups in baseball property to take place in the Texas league in several years. About 70 per cent of the stock in the club was taken over from the retiring president by William E. Huff.

Little Change in Policies

In a statement last night Mr. Huff said that there would be little change in the club policies and that in the main he would continue the affairs of the baseball association much as they had been carried on under the highly successful administration of Mr. Gardner. "Mr. Gardner," said the new Spudder club owner, "has set an enviable record in building up his ball club in the four years that he has guided the destinies of the Spudders and I intend to give my best efforts trying to do as well as he has done. That will mean hard work but I shall be satisfied with nothing less than a winning team."

First Wichitan Owner

Mr. Huff enjoys the distinction of being the first man born and reared in Wichita Falls ever to control the Spudders. He is the son of Judge R. E. Huff, pioneer citizen of Wichita county, and has lived in this city for the most of his 41 years of life.

Graduating from high school here he matriculated at Baylor university in 1906 where he received his college training and played first base on the varsity nine. In 1908 he played first base with the Wichita Falls Independents and earned quite a reputation as a diamond performer. Mr. Huff's business career began with the First National bank of Wichita Falls. He resigned his position as assistant cashier in that institution in 1920 and organized the State Trust company. Later he became head of the Huff Insurance company.

Long Intimacy With Game

In Mr. Huff the Spudder club will possess a man who has been intimately connected with the game for years, both as a player and as an administrating official. Last year he served as vice president with Mr. Gardner and probably knows the affairs of the club better than any other man who could have succeeded the retiring owner and president.

Relinquishing his control after four years at the helm of the Wichita Falls club, Mr. Gardner expressed deep regret that the affairs of his business holdings demanded his withdrawal from the field of baseball ownership. He was high in his praise of the fine spirit of friendship and helpful cooperation extended him by the fans in this section while he worked as president. He spoke of his successor, Mr. Huff, friend and business associate, saying that he believed that a competent man had taken the reins and would ably meet the duties and responsibilities that devolve upon him.

Took Charge in 1925

Controlling interest of the Wichita Falls club was taken over by Mr. Gardner in 1925 and in the four years that he has been in possession, he has given the association a Texas league championship and the Dixie series championship against New Orleans in 1927. In 1928 and 1929 the Spudders have won the second halves of the split seasons, only to lose the league pennant in the playoff series.

Airey to Remain

Guy F. Airey, who has been secretary of the club during most of the reign of Gardner, will continue in his present capacity under the new president.

Since the resignation of Jim Galloway early this week the Wichita Falls club has been without a manager. Mr. Huff announced. And it probably will not be until after the minor league meeting in December at Chattanooga that a new manager will be named to take the place of Galloway.

In discussing plans for the coming 1930 campaign Mr. Huff said that he expected to have the job of building the team from the ground up. What with the drafting of members of the club by the major leagues and the wholesale marketing of the players on the team soon after the close of the last playing season the new president will have only a shell of the 1929 outfit.

Huff Enthusiastic

Mr. Huff is enthusiastically optimistic about the youngsters which he has coming up from the club farm at Abilene. He observes that he has some real first rate ball players in the youngsters, many of whom he believes are destined for the majors.

The Spudder baseball park and grandstand are at this moment undergoing repairs for the coming season. Contracts were let Wednesday morning for the building of new concrete box seats at the grandstand.

Club offices remain in the Harvey-Snider building on the sixth floor. No change is contemplated in this direction.

Mr. Huff also announced that in company with Mr. Gardner and Guy F. Airey, he would attend the annual two-day business meeting of Texas league club owners held in Dallas, starting Oct. 26.

Many Stars in Football Firmament From Whom to Choose All-American

By JOHN W. HEISMAN
Famous Coach and Football Authority
(Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—With the football season nearly half over football fans are already beginning to figure on what players will prove to be the most popular selections of the experts for berths on the mythical all-America team. A check up now on what we seem to have in the way of stellar material the country over will enable all to concentrate attention on a narrowed field to advantage.

Eastern Stars

Of those who secured, say, 75 per cent of the votes of the expert pickers in '28 few are back in harness. Of these the most outstanding of the present season is doubtless Halfback Cagle, of the Army—for the very good reason that last year Cagle probably rung up more votes than any other player of the year; there was no argument anywhere as to his right to place on the first eleven.

Another who proved a very frequent selection was Donchess at Pittsburgh. This lad is again in harness and is said to look better than ever.

By the way, Tackle Dimeolo, of Pitt, was also mighty well thought of by the apricot pickers of '28. He's a captain this year.

Other Eastern Stars

Marsters, quarter at Dartmouth, was a prime favorite in 1927 but not last year. Thus far this season has play has been phenomenal.

Other leading backs of the East seem to be: Putnam, quarter, at Harvard; Halfbacks Eyth, at Carnegie, Hewitt of Columbia, Dowler of Colgate, Gentle and Masters of Penn, Uansa of Pittsburgh, Stevens of Syracuse, Fogarty of Brown, Witmer of Princeton, and Fullbacks Murrell of Army, Clifton of Navy, Parkinson of Pitt, Harper of Harvard, Lemark of N. Y. U., Woodfin of Lafayette, and Pieculewicz of Fordham.

Leading linemen sem to be Tackles Armstrong at Dartmouth, Schein of Brown, Barrett at Harvard, Grant of N. Y. U., Tys of Columbia, Utz of Penn, Bowstrom of Navy, Herrmann of Boston C., Mooney at Georgetown, and Centers Palmer of Yale and Siano of Fordham.

Stars of the Southeast

"Stumpy" Thomason and Mizell, halves at Georgia Tech, are back at it again, as are also Banker at Tulane and Justus at Clemson, also halfbacks. These constitute a quartet whose names were advanced by many writers and coaches for high honors. To their number must now be added the names of Branch, quarter, and Manger, half, both of North Carolina; McEver,. half, of Tennessee; Holm, full, of Alabama; Crabtree, quarter, at Florida, and Parker, quarter, of Vanderbilt. This seems to be the cream of the backfield crop in the Southeast for this season.

Star Linemen Limited

The number of scintillating linemen of this section appears to be more limited than usual. An outstanding guard of 1928, however, was Steel, of Florida, and his work thus far this year will certainly result in many pondering him at length for a position. At Alabama there is a rattling good tackle by the name of Singleton, while a good end may be named in Woodruff at Clemson. Captain Boland, center for Georgia, is recognized as one of the very best pivot men of the country. At Georgia Tech the outstanding player in the line is Westbrooke at guard, though many like Jones at end very much. Another who plays guard head and shoulders above the average is Captain Farris at North Carolina. Brown, of Vanderbilt, is still another man who is looming up strong at the guard position—in fact he loomed aplenty last year, for many put him on their second or third elevens.

Dalrymple, at Tulane, and Captain Nutter, at Virginia, are two ends who will bear a lot of close watching, while Johnson, tackle for Tennessee, is a pillar, a stone wall, a keystone and whatever other good thing you can think of in the Volunteer line.

Some will point out that I have named practically no sophomores. With but four games to their credit at the most, at this writing, it would seem more than a bit premature to put any sophomores forward; the big games of their lives are nearly all still before them. At any rate this covers the eastern section of the country pretty well and should hold down speculation for a week or two. Next week we will look over the western crop.

PONIES PREP FOR OLE MISS.

Coach Hazel Is Bringing Strong Team

DALLAS, Oct. 23. (AP)—Duke warned by Mississippi university's victory over the Loyola Wolves last week that he will face a worthy foe in Saturday's intersectional tilt here, Coach Ray Morrison continued to drive his Southern Methodist squad hard today.

Mustang scouts who saw "Ole Miss" down Loyola advised Morrison that the team, like the Ponies, is composed largely of sophomore talent and has been slow to hit its real stride. After dropping their first four starts, Coach Hazel's youngsters apparently began hitting on all cylinders against Loyola.

Stiff scrimmage has been the lot of the Mustangs for three afternoons, with the reserves trying to stop the assortment of plays Morrison has given the varsity in preparation for the conference race. Observers declare the Mustangs look 50 per cent stronger since the return of Bob Gilbert, regular quarterback, who was out for several weeks with bad ankles.

With Gilbert in the backfield, Weldon Mason is able to devote all his talent to a halfback post, for which he is naturally fitted. Kattman at the other half and Hopper at full round out a capable backfield, with Davidson and Winters first substitutes.

A LESSON ON CHOPS

During the summertime many people find it convenient to use chops on picnics, since they may be quickly cooked over a small fire, and do not take up much room in packing. Travelers touring the country in their cars may stop in towns and buy chops which they can pack on a piece of ice and carry right along with them until the urge to stop and eat comes on, when they can build a camp fire and broil their chops, cooked out of doors and served with a large fresh salad.

The chop meal will be found to be appetizing, inexpensive, pleasing to the appetite, and still without providing such a heavy meal that stuffiness will result throughout the afternoon. Different kinds of chops are often desirable through the summer months, since they cook quickly, and the housewife does not need to heat up the kitchen as much as is necessary when roasts are cooked.

Many people like pork chops who do not care for other kinds of meat, and it is no doubt true that pork chops do have a certain agreeable flavor which has coaxed many would-be vegetarians away from their well laid principles of not using flesh foods. It is much better however to use only a limited amount of any kind of pork meat, especially with those who have digestive disturbances. The protein particles of the pork seem to be so interwoven with the fat that those with faulty digestions find difficulty in digesting the fat and protein together.

One of the best ways to prepare pork meat is in the form of pork chops with at least part of the fat removed before cooking. They should then be broiled under a broiler and cooked thoroughly. Many cooks make the mistake of not cooking pork well enough. This is especially true when the broiler is used, as the fire is often too hot and burns the outside of the meat before it is completely cooked on the inside.

Broiling is really a modern version of the old-time "spit" on which the meat is revolved before the fire. In order to cook the meat thoroughly in this way, one variety of the old time spit was connected with some sort of music box that played a certain number of tunes, enabling the cook to tell when the meat was done. Perhaps the modern housewife might be able to time her cooking by running so many records on the phonograph. But better yet, I would advise her to buy a modern stove with one of the timing devices which can be set to turn off the fire and ring a clock exactly to the minute.

With a little practice cooking different kinds of meat, the housewife can soon learn the exact time required for cooking each kind of meat or other food.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Swollen Gland

Question: Mary R. writes:—"I have a swollen gland in my neck and am writing to you to ask what is good for it. I have had it lanced a couple of times but after a while it seems to come back. It doesn't hurt me. I am a strong healthy girl of 16 and some people say I will outgrow it, but I don't think so."

Answer:—Your only hope to cure the swollen gland is to take a careful diet which will not overload your lymphatic circulation. It is best, for a short time, to eliminate all of the heavy foods such as starches, sugars, meats, etc., and live on fruits and green vegetables for a month or two and give your glands a chance to empty themselves of an accumulated wastes. Loncing only injures the glands still further, and extends the trouble to other glands nearby. Hot applications or electrical treatments are sometimes helpful in emptying out the swollen glands.

Coddled Eggs

Question: Mrs. J. asks:—"Will you please explain how to cook coddled eggs?"

Answer:—Place the unbroken eggs in a deep pan which is not standing on the fire, and pour over them boiling water. At least one quart of water should be used to each two eggs. Allow to stand for from five to 10 minutes. When broken open the egg should have a jelly-like consistency, but should at the same time be so well cooked that there is no transparent albumen which has not been coagulated. If the pan is covered less time will be required to get the same effect, but it is possibly more desirable to have the eggs cook very slowly after perhaps eight to 10 minutes, as in this way they are cooked through more thoroughly.

12,000 Bales Ginned So Far in Harmon County

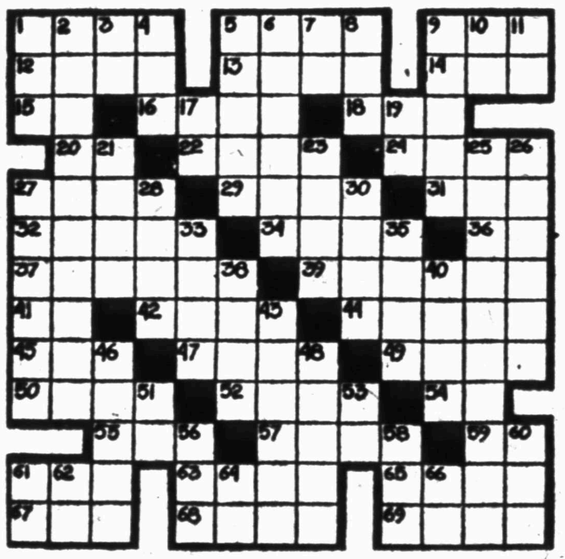

HOLLIS, Okla., Oct. 23.—It has been the general opinion that this part of the country has had practically a total crop failure this season, but according to official estimates, the yield will be equal to that of 1928 if not better. So far there has been about 12,000 bales of cotton ginned in Harmon county. This leads last year's ginnings at this time by nearly 1,000 bales. A general rain in early September has put a second growth on the cotton and a late frost will mean a second growth of bolls. Most of the cotton in the sandy part of the county was late and will be far better than any expectations predicted.

All gins in the county have been kept busy most of the time. There are 18 gins in the county, most of them being owned and operated by the farmers. The farmers have shown splendid cooperation with the gins. So far there has been only one accident of any consequence. That was when the Farmers Cooperative Gin at Gould was struck by lightning and almost completely destroyed.

The farmers are needing help to gather the cotton crop. Hundreds of acres are open with not a boll gathered.

American motorcycles are becoming popular in Germany.

Sooner Citizens Warned Against Carbon Monoxide

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 23. (UP)—A bulletin warning against the dangers of carbon monoxide gas was issued today by Dr. Clyde W. Beson, state commissioner of health.

Dr. Beson said, "carbon monoxide gas is the product of incomplete burning of carbon or the carbon compound such as motor fuel, ordinary gas, and coal. It is colorless and odorless, which makes it all the more dangerous as its presence usually is not detected until the damage is done.

Never run your motor in a closed garage.

All gas appliances should be adjusted by trained persons and gas ovens, water heaters and other gas-heating devices should be connected by flues with the outside air."

Dr. Beson urged that persons should never stay in a room with the windows and doors closed where gas stoves are burning.

Dr. Beson's weekly health report shows a report of 56 new diphtheria cases as compared with last week's total of 63.

Scarlet fever cases were reduced from 61 to 38 and only 31 new typhoid fever cases were reported as compared with 47 the previous week.

HOLBROOK-WOODS SALE

The Arkansas Fuel & Gas company Tuesday purchased from Holbrook and Woods, local operators, two tracts totaling 48 acres out of blocks 45 and 82, Wichita Valley farm land, Kemp-Kempner lands, southwest of Iowa Park in south Wichita county, for a consideration of $160,000 cash. The property acquired by the Arkansas interests consists of the above leases with 11 wells and a daily production of 185 barrels. The new owners will begin at once the drilling of a number of wells on the new properties.

Bridge Improvements At Hollis, Okla., Planned

Special to The Record News

HOLLIS, Okla., Oct. 23.—At the special meeting of the board of county commissioners, held Monday for the purpose of considering the Salt Fork bridge proposition, the county engineer, Pearl Little, was requested to prepare plans and specifications for two steel spans, each 120 feet long, to rest on one permanent pier in the center, and also a concrete base for the south side of the river, and the entire bridge to be built three feet higher than at present.

These plans and specifications are to be prepared at once and submitted to the board of county commissioners. If accepted, bids will be asked for at once.

The county commissioners have maintained a man at the bridge ever since the bridge washed out, about a month ago, to haul travelers across free of charge. This expense is being met by the business men of Hollis.

Work on New Hollis School is Started

Special to The Record News

HOLLIS, Okla., Oct. 23.—Work on the proposed new $66,000 high school building at Hollis began Monday morning. It is being built beside the present building. It will cover about half block of ground and will have a full basement both ways, and will be two stories high. When completed this building will be one of the best in the state. It will be equipped with the most modern equipment, in all departments. It is patterned after the Capitol Hill high school building at Oklahoma City.

It is doubtful that the building will be ready for the second semester as was hoped for at first.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 23. (AP)—Cotton lost the greater part of yesterday's advances today, trading under a renewal of southern selling and liquidation. December contracts sold off to 18.12, making a net decline of 38 points and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 37 to 48 points.

The opening was steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 7 points under overnight selling orders from the South and in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables.

After showing net losses of about 19 to 25 points the market rallied several points on trade buying and covering while there appeared to be a little buying on the forecast of frost over a good part of the South and the low temperatures shown by the day's detailed weather reports. This bulge met a renewal of southern selling and liquidation. The lowest prices of the day were reached in the late trading.

October sold off to 17.87 and March to 18.24, and closing prices were the lowest of the day. October was relatively weak during the entire day under liquidation.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 23. (AP)—Persistent selling developed a reactionary tendency to cotton prices today and although the market received some support on the decline, rallies were short lived. The final trading selling pressure reached its height due to the weakness in stocks. January contracts eased to 18.19 and closed 1 point above that figure for a net loss of 21 points. The general market closed steady at a net decline of 31 to 52 points. Liverpool cables were lower than due and were reflected in an opening decline of 5 to 8 points here.

The market encountered persistent liquidation. December sold off to 18.24, and March 18.61, or 34 to 15 points under the previous close.

Around noon some covering developed and prices rallied a few points from the lows, but the weakness in the stock market induced heavy selling in late trading and prices sold off rapidly reaching the low points of the day right at the end when December traded at 18.08 and March 18.46, or 32 to 33 points down from yesterday's close. Final prices were at or near the bottom.

A private report issued today estimated total ginning prior to Oct. 18 at 8,757,000 bales and indicated crop at 14,600,000 to 14,800,000 bales.

Unprecedented Selling Movement Sinks Prices of Nearly All Stocks

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 23. (US)—Selling in an unprecedented volume today resulted in the worst collapse in stock prices witnessed for the last decade. The wave of selling shunted aside every semblance of order on the stock exchange and overpowered every endeavor to support prices. The heavy selling developed in the early afternoon and reached its peak at the very close of the exchange, when virtual panicky conditions prevailed. Offerings were made without regard for quotations and prices simply melted away. Transactions for the entire day exceeded last Monday's total, amounting to 6,588,300 shares, the largest since the 8,000,000-share earlier this year.

Selling pressure was accelerated as definite indications were forthcoming that support had been withdrawn in prominent stocks. It was a much different affair from Monday's break, when support was rushed into leading stocks and offerings were fairly well absorbed, at least for the time being. Today's break undoubtedly was instituted by resale of stock which had been acquired the previous day and a half for supporting purposes. Sensing this situation, the powerful bear clique which has dominated the market for the last 10 days renewed their assault on pivotal points and succeeded in unloosening such a volume of selling as has not been exceeded for years. The last 50 minutes of trading, when prices were fading a point or more on a single transaction, witnessed the greatest volume of business the exchange has ever handled. More than 2,592,000 shares were thrown overboard without consideration for price in this short period, and the selling orders poured into brokerage offices from all over the country and from foreign countries.

Seemingly, those powerful factors who had furnished some semblance of support on previous disastrous breaks, this time stepped aside and allowed stocks to plunge until outside assistance was furnished. Steel common near the close furnished encouragement when it was reported that huge blocks would be acquired by its bankers if the selling wave persisted. This issue closed off 8⅛ points on a rally from its lowest level at 201⅝.

As on previous recent breaks, the Public Utility shares proved the most vulnerable. American Foreign Power, so-called leader of the Electric Bond and Share group, suffered a 23-point collapse which carried it to prices representing more than 80-point decline from its peak a relatively few weeks ago. Evidence of withdrawal of all support was plain in the action of various "specialtics," such as Electric Auto-Lite, Simmons, Vanadium, Ludlum Steel, and similar recently-exploited stocks.

In the excitement of beartishness all factors were construed as discouraging. The weekly brokerage loan statement due tomorrow it was forecast in bear quarters, would disclose another increase, but it is recognized that should such prove the case it will be a reflection of new financing rather than greater stock market speculation.

Diteman's Only Public Utterance of London Flight Plans Made at 'Bar'

Dude Ranch Impresario Relates How Montanan Boasted of Journey Over Fudge Sundae in Billings

By SAM LOVE
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—"High, wide and handsome, boys—that's the way you will hear about me riding to London."

If you'll believe T. Joe Cahill, nationally known dude ranch and rodeo impresario, a rawboned man in overalls and a Pendleton jacket made such an announcement of his intentions in what passes for a soda fountain in Billings, Mont., early in September.

"Hey," said T. Joe Cahill, always on the lookout of outcroppings of the spirit of the old West, "if you get there, will you send me a cable?"

"You can bet your belly-band I will," responded the stranger.

Wager Goes Begging

And Mr. T. Joe Cahill, in New York in connection with a rodeo exhibition offered to bet his cincha, latigo and $1,000 to boot that if U. F. Diteman of Billings reached London he, T. Joe Cahill, would receive a cablegram announcing same, there were no takers, Mr. Cahill reduced the bet to $100, $10—even to $5. There were no takers. Mr. Cahill has romanced in his time, but he never offered to bet real money before.

"I was out in Billings," said Mr. Cahill, swinging a sombrero, which has been recently rained on and puckering his eyes behind horn-rimmed glasses, "I was out in Billings on may way to Big Timber. It was early in September, maybe the second or third.

"I drop into this place and two car loads of the boys pull up and unload. There was a fine stock saddle over the hood of one of the cars and I figured they were all in from Roberts, where there had been a rodeo. They said they were.

"It was snowing some and pretty cold, so we all warmed up on a sort of fudge sundae and got to talking. As a matter of fact, it was colder than billy-be-damned. That's the way I came to notice this fellow's Pendleton jacket.

Diteman "Medium Cowboy"

"'I see you've got on tarp,' I said. That's what we call Pendleton jackets, tarps. And I gave it a kind of friendly pull.

"This fellow was what I would describe as a medium cowboy. That is, he seemed to be good, but from the conversation I gathered there were some other things he could do regular and survive. This led to the information that he was a flyer, to boot.

"He said, 'You birds think you can ride anything—well, I can ride to London, what do you think of that?"

"The conversation went first one way and then another. The fellow didn't seem to be a boaster. He never brought up the subject after he had been egged on to declaring himself, but just for luck I wrote down his name."

T. Joe Cahill thereupon fished in his breast pockets and brought up a mass of papers that seemed to disguest him. He fished in his slicker pockets and put them back. Finally, he fished in his hip or gun pocket, and drew out a crumpled slip of yellow tinted paper, it bore a scrawl, "U. F. Diteman, Billings, Mont." In a corner was a word decipherable as "London."

Mr. Cahill had a hard time describing the Montana cowboy. The nearest he could come was that he seemed healthy and resembled neither the Late Tex Rickard nor Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. But he had on his tarp, or Pendleton jacket, and overalls and high-heeled boots. Whether the overalls were stuffed inside the boots or not, Mr. Cahill refused to say.

WICHITA GIRL IN RADIO TEST

Atwater Kent Finals Over WFAA Tonight

Miss Kathryn Sullivan, winner in the district Atwater Kent radio audition held here on Oct. 9, will leave Thursday for Dallas where she will sing from station WFAA at 10 o'clock Thursday night in the state finals. One girl and one boy will be selected by joint decision of judges and listeners to represent Texas in the Southwest district competition to be held next month, the winners of which, in turn, will compete in the finals for the entire country.

Miss Sullivan, organist at the Sacred Heart church, soloist with the Scottish Rite choir, and frequently an entertainer over radio from station KGKO, has been well known here for her unusually rich contralto voice for the past nine years. At the age of 15, she was a pupil of Mrs. W. L. Robertson, formerly a resident of Wichita Falls and now living in Dallas. Shortly after beginning the study of voice, she appeared before Madame Louise Homer, who visited this city on a concert tour. After hearing Miss Sullivan sing, Madame Homer requested a second number, and declared the voice one of the most promising she had heard among young singers.

Miss Sullivan graduated from the Academy of Mary Immaculate in the spring of 1924, and presented a finishing voice recital at the First Baptist church at about the same time. She then resumed her study with Arch Bailey at the Horner Institute of Fine Arts in Kansas City, spending several months there. She is now a pupil of Mrs. Lois Parker of this city. Mrs. W. L. Underwood will play Miss Sullivan's accompaniments in Thursday night's radio competition at Dallas.

Instructions published relative to voting in the contest state that telegraphed votes will be counted, but that only one signature on each telegram will be recognized as that of a voter. Letters mailed to station WFAA are preferred, those in charge stated. Contestants will be introduced by number, and voting will be done in the same manner. It was emphasized that voters must vote for first and second places in each group, the girls comprising one group, boys another.

Decorating Expert To Advise Home Owners

Katherine Meharry, decorator, with the Simmons company of Chicago, will be at Freear's, Eleventh and Lamar streets, all this week to consult with Wichita Falls housewives regarding plans for beautifying of the interior of homes, according to Ivan Murchison, sales manager of the concern. No charges are made for Miss Meharry's services, Mr. Murchison stated.

Mr. Murchison said Miss Meharry had no lectures to give, but would be glad to make appointments with those who desire her services.

Missouri Girl Held In Death Stepfather

BARNHART, Mo., Oct. 23. (INS)—Helen Vachuda, 20, and her mother, Mrs. William Caruba, are being held in county jail today at Hillsboro, Mo., because the girl, angered when she was told her stepfather and mother were arguing, shot and killed her stepfather, William Caruba, 48, here last night.

At a cornor's inquest, testimony revealed that Mr. and Mrs. Caruba were arguing and Caruba struck his wife. Friends notified the daughter who was at a roadhouse which she operated a few miles away. Upon returning home, the girl shot her stepfather through the heart with a 38-caliber revolver.

A city-beautiful movement has been started in China.

PERMITS PASS MILLION MARK

Building Inspector Files $316,750 List

Building permits in Wichita Falls went over the million mark Wednesdty when suburban permits totaling $316,750 were turned in to the city engineer by Fred A. Smith, city building inspector. The total for the year stands at $1,272,176 as the result of the compilation of the figures on structures erected in outlying additions to the city.

The permits added Wednesday were all issued during the month of October and apply to houses and buildings in Westmoreland, Weeks park, and other outlying additions of the city proper.

South Side Church To Ordain New Deacons

The newly elected deacons for the South Side Baptist church will be officially ordained at a special service at the church Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock, according to the announcement made Wednesday by Rev. T. J. Furniss, pastor. All local Baptist pastors have been invited to participate in this service. Rev. O. L. Powers, pastor of the First Baptist church, will deliver the ordination sermon.

Those to be ordained include H. L. Huggins, R. D. Anderson, T. A. Hubbard, A. G. Michels, R. C. Man, F. C. Batterton and H. Taylor. Mrs. I. J. Morgan will give a vocal solo as a special number on the program.

College and School News

Frank Bain was elected president of the Junior college Speakers club Wednesday morning. Other officers elected are: Randal Hanks, vice president; Marlin Mann, secretary, and Mary Lou Johnston and Curtis Cook, treasurer and assistant treasurer, respectively. Randal Hanks made a talk on the importance of public speaking in any phase of life.

Hiking Club

Junior college Hiking club decided at a short business meeting Wednesday morning upon activities for the following week. They will have a dance Tuesday evening, Oct. 29, and on Wednesday, Oct. 30, they plan to go on a fox and goose chase. It was found that a large majority of the members are members of the college pep squad.

Girl Reserves

All paid members of the Girl Reserves will be entertained with a party Friday morning in the Junior college cafeteria at 9:30 o'clock. Misses Dorothy Cline, Josephine Kelly, Marjorie Bash, Geneva Taylor and Marion Proctor will act as hostesses. Miss Kay Cason is in charge of the program.

SERVICE FOR GASLESS CARS

WEST TISBURY, Mass., Oct. 23. (AP)—On the island of Martha's vineyard gallon cans full of gasoline are set along the roads every few miles for stranded motorists. Automobiles who thus save long treks for gasoline are requested only to refill the cans at the nearest station and bring them back where they found them.
