Fire scene

Hereford firefighter Johnny Amaro aims a jet of water at part of a grass fire that broke out inside the city on Monday. The blaze was reported at 1:58 p.m. at 114 New York, in an empty lot behind Scott Seed Co. Firefighters raced to the scene as flames neared the property of Consumer's Fuel Co-Op Association Inc. They were able to put out the fire before it seriously threatened fuel tanks and buildings at the co-op plant, although fire did burn close to a small storage shed. There were no injuries or property damage reported.

Alert issued for two men sought in OKC bombing

By SALLY STREFF BUZBEE

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)

Authorities have issued an alert for two men who stayed near Arizona motels used by bombing suspect Timothy McVeigh, then reportedly came to the town where he was arrested.

A revised sketch of John Doe 2 was released Monday. Search crews prepared to use machinery today to clear away the rubble of the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building.

The death toll was at 139, including 15 children. At least 40 people were still missing.

Convinced there was almost no chance someone was still alive in the wreckage, rescue workers turned to machinery to search for bodies. A huge backhoe mounted on tracks like a bulldozer was to lift debris from inside the ruins and set it down outside, where it will be searched by hand, said Assistant Fire Chief Jon Hansen.

Hansen said he told families that "there are some people we probably won't find."

Federal authorities said the two men being sought as "witnesses" stayed at a cheap Arizona motel not far from two motels used by McVeigh. The men registered as Gary Allen Land and Robert Jacks, and stayed there up until April 3, 16 days before the bombing.

The night of April 19, when the bomb exploded, the men may have stayed at a motel in Vinita, Okla., 180 miles from Oklahoma City.

The next day, they checked into a motel in Perry, Okla., where McVeigh was arrested by a state trooper about 75 minutes after the blast on unrelated traffic and weapons charges. The New York Times reported today.

The men then returned to the Vinita motel, the Times said.

The third FBI sketch of John Doe 2 shows him in a profile view, appearing stocky and wearing a baseball cap. He is very tall and muscular and may be a weightlifter, said FBI agent Weldon Kennedy.

John Doe 2 is believed to be the man who was with McVeigh on April 17 in Junction City, Kan., when McVeigh allegedly rented the truck that carried the bomb.

McVeigh, the only person charged so far in the worst terrorist attack on U.S. soil, is being held without bail. McVeigh stayed in Kingman, Ariz., off and on until April 12.

Land and Jacks lived at El Trovatore Motel in Kingman from Nov. 3 to April 3, according to managers Bill and June Terranova.

More input needed on golf course plan

By GEOIGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

Another go-around over operation of the John Pitman Municipal Golf Course Monday evening produced a delay on recommendations to the City Commission by the golf course advisory board.

The commission decided to allow more time for input from the golfing public before deciding whether to close the course one day each week for maintenance purposes. The issue will be on the agenda for a special commission meeting next Monday.

In other business, the commission adopted a substance abuse and alcohol testing policy for city employees, approved a Holly Sugar request to tie into the city's sewer system and made appointments to the city plumbing and mechanical board and board of electrical examiners.

The golf course advisory board's recommendations, outlined by a board member, Marcy Hughes, called for closing the course on Monday each week.

The board also recommended that senior citizen memberships be increased by $50 per year with playing privileges extended to weekends. Previously, a $250 annual fee allowed seniors to unlimited play on weekdays, but none on weekends.

Hughes pointed out that for the $300 fee, seniors would pick up one more day each week. "They would lose 52 weekdays, but gain 104 days on weekends," she said.

The advisory board also asked the commission to support course personnel in enforcement of course rules on cart use.

The board suggested that golfers who do not follow rules and observe roped areas be warned initially, then suspended from cart privileges if they continue to ignore warnings.

Hughes emphasized that the recommendation on closing on Mondays is to benefit the course.

Mayor Bob Jossrand questioned Hughes about opposition to the proposal to close. "If the purpose is to improve the course, why are they opposed? If you explain the reason, are they satisfied?"

"Some are, some aren't," replied Hughes.

She pointed out that "most courses in the area close for a half or full day every week."

Addressing the issue of senior privileges on the course, Duane Albracht said he believes "seniors don't like weekends... they are too crowded."

The mayor asked if seniors would be satisfied if the annual fee for weekdays only could be reduced to $200, but six-day use would go to $300. He said only about 20 seniors now take advantage of the weekday membership.

"The main issue is to improve the course," Jossrand insisted.

Meredith Ireland supported the advisory board's recommendations, saying that "what it should be about is the good of the course."

She continued, "We'll just have to give a little and I'm one who'd have to give up Monday."

Gayle Cornelius said he has "no problem closing one day, but I'd ask some concession for non-weekend golfers."

Jossrand said he believes that some fee structure could be arranged to accommodate seniors.

Another speaker, Mary Shelton, suggested to the commission that the advisory board representatives from the women's golf association "don't represent" the wishes of the organization.

"This wasn't voted on by the association," she declared.

Jossrand pointed out that Marcy Hughes was named by the association for appointment to the board and Rhea Scott was appointed by the commission as an at-large board member.

Another issue on course maintenance was raised by the greenskeeper, Mary Haun, who reported that environmental regulations on chemical use on golf courses are expected in the near future.

"They've already made the rules on chemical use on farms and on schools and they will on golf courses," she said. Haun said she expects the rules to specify that use would be barred for 12 hours after chemicals are applied.

To permit further input from the community, the commission agreed to review the recommendations and take action at the special meeting next Monday. Commissioner Carey Black, chairman of the advisory committee, said the committee would have no objection to the delay.

A request from Holly Sugar for sewer service was approved by the commission with the provision that the cost be paid by the company. An engineering estimate of cost, except the expense to the company on its own property, is about $75,400.

The commission, on motion by Commissioner Nancy Griego and second by Commissioner Scott Hall, voted unanimously to approve the proposal with the understanding that all expense is the responsibility of Holly Sugar. Only domestic waste may be run through the sewer, the commission specified.

A city policy on substance abuse and alcohol testing was adopted unanimously. City Attorney Terry Langenhennig reported the policy meets legal requirements.

The commission appointed Shannon Wilburn and re-appointed Donald Vasek and Harold Barrett to the plumbing and mechanical board. Holdover members are Wayne Keeter, Butch Casey and Ramon Castillo.

Re-appointed to four-year terms on the board of electrical examiners were Donnie Skelton and Joe Don Daniels. Holdover members are Lonnie Skelton, Fred Ruland and Jerry Koenig.

Fire carries out Houdini's wish to destroy collection

NIAGARA FALLS, Ontario (AP) - Amid smoke and mystery, one of Houdini's last wishes has been granted. Whoever did it may find himself locked up tighter than the escape artist ever was.

Fire swept through the Houdini Magical Hall of Fame on Sunday, destroying many of the magician's artifacts, including the famed Chinese Water Torture Cell.

Houdini had asked that his memorabilia be burned rather than sold for profit. But his brother

Theo Hardeen inherited the tricks after Houdini's death in 1926 and sold the collection to a man who then sold it to museum owner Henry Muller.

"Certain things are priceless because they're the only ones - they're unique," said Muller, who opened the museum in 1968.

Fire officials said they suspected arson, but added other causes hadn't been ruled out. There have been a string of arsons in Niagara Falls recently.

A "Celebrity Auction" here Saturday night netted approximately $30,200 for the Deaf Smith Healthcare Foundation, it was reported by Dr. Nadir Khuri, DSHF president.

The foundation's major fundraiser offered donated items from nationally-known athletes, entertainers and politicians, as well as items from local and area artists of note, and contributions from local businesses.

The unique event drew a total of $17,850 from the live auction, and the remainder from a silent auction, cash donations and sale of raffle tickets. Linda Poter, Rt. 1, Canyon, was the winner of two roundtrip tickets to any American Airlines destination in Europe.

Door prize winner of two airline tickets to the Caribbean, also donated by American Airlines, was Kitty Gault. A number of other door prizes were presented at the close of the auction.

Sylvia Khuri, executive director of the Healthcare Foundation, expressed appreciation to all auction donors. "The fundraiser was a great success, thanks to the cooperation and generosity of local businesses and individuals. She also thanked hospital employees and other individuals who helped set up the displays, and auctioneer Larry Noland.

Besides many items given by local merchants, other individuals and artists of the community and area provided contributions. These included sculptures, paintings, jewelry, and everything from haircuts to food.

The Deaf Smith Healthcare Foundation is a non-profit corporation which will build and maintain an endowment fund for Hereford Regional Medical Center and healthcare in general.

Foster ready for hearings on surgeon general nomination

By NITA LELYVELD
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)

Dr. Henry Foster says Senate confirmation hearings on his nomination as surgeon general finally offer him a chance to counter assertions by conservatives that he is an abortion doctor who lacks credibility.

"Am I intimidated? No," the anti-abortion obstetrician-gynecologist said Monday, on the eve of his hearing before the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee, where he faces possible rejection by the Republican-controlled panel. "And I'm not being cocky. I'm not being cocky."

Foster said he looked forward to the hearing, "because that is the place where I get the chance to define who Henry Foster is."

Since President Clinton named him in February, the 61-year-old Tennessee doctor and educator has been under fire from conservative groups and lawmakers - first for having performed abortions and then for giving varying responses about exactly how many.

Lack of credibility soon became the battle cry for Foster's opposition, even for those who originally focused on abortion.

Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, who has said he may not call up the nomination for a vote in the full Senate even if it gets out of committee, attacked the nominee's credibility in a speech Tuesday - parceling out the heaviest blame for the White House.

"This is not about abortion. This is about credibility. This is about telling the truth," said Dole, R-Kan., who is running for president.

Clinton, in a last-minute lobbying effort, took a jab at Dole and his rival for the GOP presidential nomination, Sen. Phil Gramm of Texas, who has threatened to filibuster if the Foster nomination gets to the floor.

"He deserves to be more than a political football in the emerging politics of this season," Clinton said.

Aides said Clinton was committed to fighting the battle to the end, and some said a strong performance at the hearing could still turn things around for Foster. But others predicted he would not be confirmed to replace Dr. Joycelyn Elders, whom Clinton fired after the said schools should consider teaching about masturbation.

For the committee to recommend Foster's confirmation by the full Senate, two of the nine Republicans would have to vote with the seven Democrats.

Foster's nomination got into hot water quickly when the White House first said he had performed one abortion, a number Foster revised to less than a dozen, and then later to 39.

believe in them enough to allow them the right to vote on this decision?" Turner said.

Rep. Ron Wilson, House sponsor of the gun bill, said voters already decided the question in November when they elected Republican Gov. George W. Bush over incumbent Democrat Ann Richards.

Richards two years ago vetoed a bill that would have allowed Texans to vote on the issue. Bush has said he would sign a concealed handgun bill.

"I don't know where y'all were Nov. 8, 1994, but there was a referendum on this issue," said Wilson, D-Houston. "The people have spoken. Let us go ahead and put the issue to rest."

Concealed gun bill wins first House vote

Legislation that would allow Texans to carry concealed handguns has won tentative House approval after lawmakers narrowly adopted a proposal to allow citizens to vote on the issue.

The vote, which would take place in November, would have no effect on the bill should it become law. But Sen. Jerry Patterson, author of the gun bill, was quick to condemn it.

"It is a deceitful attempt to put us in court and challenge the constitutionality of the bill, even if it's nonbinding," Patterson, R-Pasadena, said Monday after the vote.

Patterson said he would seek to remove the referendum once the bill reaches a House-Senate conference committee. If he fails, he said he would kill the entire bill.

"We will have no bill that has a referendum in it," he said.

Supporters of the referendum, approved on a 74-70 vote, said they believe Texans should have the chance to vote on such an important issue.

"There's absolutely nothing wrong with letting the people send us a message about whether or not we should have concealed weapons in this state," said Rep. Sylvester Turner, D-Houston.

"If you believe in the people in your district... then why don't you

Alternate pool reduced to five after flight attendant dismissed

By MICHAEL FLEEMAN
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) - The new

O.J. Simpson juror reads self-improvement books, was portrayed as a racist by an ousted juror and once said Simpson was the only person with "a visible motive" to kill his ex-wife and her friend.

Juror No. 1427, a 28-year-old Hispanic woman, has been seen reading "When I Say No, I Feel Guilty" and "The Six Pillars of Self-Esteem" during breaks in testimony.

The real estate appraiser was taken from the alternate pool Monday to replace a 26-year-old black female flight attendant who told the judge last month, "I can't take it anymore." The flight attendant's complaints were partly responsible for the dismissal of three deputies guarding the sequestered jurors.

The alternate pool is now down to five people, with months of testimony to go and more potential trouble looming. A 38-year-old white woman has asked to be dismissed to care for her sick husband, and Superior Court Judge Lance Ito has noted that a 28-year-old black woman hasn't been paying attention.

It may have to take serious steps to keep a full jury and prevent a mistrial, legal analysts said.

"He will simply not allow jurors to leave for normally accepted purposes. The personal problems will have to be very extreme before he excuses them," said Loyola University law professor Stan Goldman.

If the alternate pool is depleted and the number of jurors falls below 12, both sides must agree to continue or a mistrial will be declared.

After the juror was replaced, the trial ground on with the testimony of police forensic chemist Gregory Matheson. He returns to the stand today, and is likely to reveal blood test results that prosecutors say link Simpson to murder.

Maunson, assistant director of the police crime lab, spent most of his first day on the stand defending criminalists Dennis Fung and Andrea Mazzola, who collected the evidence.

The defense tried to portray them as careless during cross-examination last month, but Matheson said that even the slightest collection techniques could yield usable forensic information.

Simpson's trial on charges of murdering Nicole Brown Simpson and Ronald Goldman has been beset by jury problems, with seven members dismissed since sequestration began Jan. 11.

The replacement of the guards prompted a revolt by 13 panelists, who refused to hear testimony on April 21. They showed up wearing black and demanded a meeting with the judge.

The new juror is a college graduate with a bachelor's degree in business administration. She was singled out as a source of racial tension by dismissed panelist Jeanette Harris, who met with the judge after she was ousted.

In her jury questionnaire, the woman said she had formed no opinions about Simpson's guilt or innocence, but she wrote: "He's the only person who had a visible motive. It was his ex-wife and she was with another man. It's something most people would have a problem with."

Wheat producers have crop decisions to make

AMARILLO - Producers in major hard red winter wheat-producing areas are grappling with decisions on whether to replant wheat fields to spring crops following a hard freeze in mid-April.

Below freezing temperatures hit southeastern Kansas and the Oklahoma and Texas panhandles in mid-April, with temperatures dropping into the mid-teens to low 20s. Though damage estimates are still being finalized, calculations of the potential loss have ranged from 30 to 70 million bushels for the region, area agronomists say.

Producers have several options. Damaged wheat fields may be used for hay, grazing, silage or replanted to corn or sorghum, according to Brent Bean, agronomist for Texas A&M University. The decision whether to replant may be based on what, if any, herbicide program is in place and how much time is left in the spring planting season.

The window for planting corn in this region of the Corn Belt is open until mid-to-late May, while sorghum can be planted until late June and still have enough time to develop. Also, there may be cropping restrictions for some herbicides, Bean added.

Additionally, some agronomists say the decision to replant with corn or sorghum may be linked to water availability. On irrigated ground, farmers may choose to replant to corn if they have adequate water supply to take care of additional corn acres.

If their water supply is tight and

Bills aimed at stopping baseless lawsuits

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas Senate has passed two more bills aimed at stopping baseless lawsuits. One would affect medical malpractice court claims, and the other targets lawsuits by prison inmates.

Both measures passed the Senate Monday. They earlier passed the House and return to that chamber for consideration of Senate amendments.

The medical malpractice lawsuit bill would require people bringing allegations against health care providers to have their claims validated by medical experts.

It also would increase the amount of money a plaintiff would have to put up as bond to file a medical malpractice lawsuit.

"Groundless medical liability lawsuits are driving up the cost of malpractice insurance premiums, which lead to higher health care costs for the consumer," said Sen. David Sibley, R-Waco, who sponsored the bill with Rep. Todd Hunter, D-Corpus Christi. The measure passed the Senate on a voice vote.

The inmate lawsuit bill would create a grievance system that prisoners would be required to use before being allowed to file a claim.

It would authorize a court to dismiss all or part of an inmate's claim if it was found to be frivolous, and to order the inmate to pay court fees and costs.

The Texas Department of Criminal Justice would be required to revoke some of an inmate's good-conduct time the second time he or she brings a frivolous lawsuit.

The bill by Rep. Allen Hightower, D-Huntsville, and Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, passed the Senate 31-0.

Chatting with the winner

County Judge Tom Simons visits with Linda Poteet during Saturday's Deaf Smith Healthcare Foundation auction. Mrs. Poteet's name was drawn from the pot as grand prize winner in the raffle held in conjunction with the auction. As winner, Mrs. Poteet won round-trip airline tickets for two to any destination in Europe, which she will use this summer to visit her son, who is stationed in Vienna, Austria.

Raffle winner will use tickets for visit to son

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

When Linda Poteet collected her first paycheck as an employee of Hereford Regional Medical Center in February, a co-worker begged her to spend $10 of that check on a raffle ticket to benefit the Deaf Smith Healthcare Foundation.

Mrs. Poteet bought the ticket, then put it away until she got off work Saturday and went to the foundation's auction.

It turned out that Mrs. Poteet's donation will pay off in an unexpected way, as the student respiratory therapist anticipates a trip to Europe.

Mrs. Poteet was the big winner in the raffle, claiming her prize of two round-trip tickets on American Airlines to any destination in Europe.

The destination is already set -- Vienna, Austria -- where Mrs. Poteet is already looking forward to a reunion with her son, Lynn, who is serving there in the U.S. military.

Mrs. Poteet said she had no thoughts of Europe when she bought the ticket.

She was not able to be at the auction when her name was drawn as grand prize winner, but she arrived later in the evening, at which time she was met at the door with news of her win.

"When I was walking in the door, someone stopped me and told me," she said. "I told them I didn't believe them."

Even two days after the drawing, Mrs. Poteet said she was not totally convinced she is going to Europe. Not, she said, until "they give me the tickets in my hand."

Still, Mrs. Poteet is planning for her trip to visit her oldest son, whom she has not seen in three years, since joining the military following his graduation in 1992 from Canyon High School.

Mrs. Poteet's traveling companion for the journey also is set -- her husband, Tony. "He probably wouldn't let me come back if I didn't (take him)," she said with a laugh.

Mrs. Poteet, who is a PRN studying respiratory therapy, said the realization she won the trip would probably set in Monday night, when she was planning to call her son and tell him he doesn't need to come home in August, "I'll just come to see him."

The trip will have to wait until then, she said, because of career considerations.

Mrs. Poteet graduates from school in June, then has to take her state board examinations in July to become a respiratory therapist.

She said she enjoys working at Hereford Regional Medical Center and plans to stay on after her schooling is complete.

The family lives 1-1/2 miles east of Umlinger, although Mrs. Poteet said she grew up in Adrian.

Between now and August, Mrs. Poteet said, her life will be busy, both with school and with trip preparations.

She said she has two main things to get done -- obtain a passport and start saving money.

Hall is elected president of La Madre Mia Club

La Madre Mia Study Club met Thursday in the SPS Reddy Room for its election party.

Officers elected for the 1995-96 club year were Kay Hall, president; Nancy Pastzold, vice president; Nicky Walser, secretary; Carolyn Baxter, treasurer; Cindy Cassels, historian; Lavon Nieman, reporter; and Glenda Marcum, parliamentarian.

Officers will be installed May 11 at a dinner meeting at Hereford Country Club. Members who cannot attend should call Marcum.

Members dressed Mexican style and were served Mexican steak and desserts. Tables were covered with bright colored cloths, decorated with large handmade paper flowers and accented with bright blue plates and napkins.

Debbie Tardy conducted the election and the hostesses provided entertainment while votes were counted.

During the business meeting president Marcum announced the party planned at Aikman School has been changed to 1:30 p.m. May 17. Students of a class there have been pen pals with members of La Madre Mia for the club year. The students are treating their pen pals with a party and they will meet each other for the first time.

The committee for the election party included Nieman, chairman, Tardy, Linda Cumpston, Merle Clark and Marlene Watson.

Attending the meeting were Baxter, Hall, Marcum, Pastzold, Francyn Bromlow, Bettye Owen, Tricia Sims, Georgia Sparks, Betty Taylor, Mary Beth White, Judy Williams, Mary Herring, Mysedia Smith and the hostesses.

Local volunteers will be honored

Several Hereford residents, who volunteer for the Texas Department of Human Services will be honored at the 12th Annual Volunteer Banquet on Tuesday. The banquet will be held in the Amarillo Civic Center Grand Plaza Ballroom.

Registered volunteers being recognized from the client self-support services program are Roxann L. Hernandez, Carmela C. Huerca, Keith Lindell and Laynette Walker.

Registered volunteers being recognized from the community care to the aged and disabled program are Marie Bowen, Larry Burrows and Alfred Cano.

Frank Smith, chairman of the Panhandle Regional Advisory Council, will preside over the volunteer recognition. Steven Shamlin, chief of the Amarillo Department of Veterans Affairs, Medical Center Community Resource Service will be the keynote speaker.

Jerome Lindsay, deputy commissioner for Regional Operations for TDHS in Austin, and Terry G. Temple, regional administrator for TDHS, will be on hand to recognize the many volunteers who make a difference in the lives of TDHS clients.

No idea is so outlandish that it should not be considered with a searching but at the same time with a steady eye.

Wo-He-Lo recipients

Wo-He-Lo medallions awarded to local Hereford High students

Three Hereford High School seniors were recently awarded the highest rate in Camp Fire, the Wo-He-Lo Medallion. The recipients were Cami Bainum, Shanon Guy and Lori Crofford.

The recipients have had the opportunity to experience the four reflections which make up the Wo-He-Lo Medallion: celebrate me, choices and decisions, map my way and making it on my own. They have taught, served, lead and spoken out in their lives within Camp Fire and outside Camp Fire that they are willing to start with a goal, finish that goal and not be afraid to celebrate the results.

Cami, who was awarded the medallion by her father Craig Bainum, performed in state competition in the high school band her freshman year. She has practiced her skill of giving service by visiting an elderly lady in the neighborhood. Cami is a member of the National Honor Society. She is currently working while she finishes high school. The income will help her continue her academic goal of becoming a paralegal.

Lori received her medallion from her father, Dean Crofford. She is interested in music and poetry. She has been a member of the band for four years. She has gone to State, been in All Region twice and Honors Concert Band two years. Lori is a member of the National Honor Society. Her goal is to someday be band director for Hereford High School.

Shanon was presented the Wo-He-Lo Medallion by her father, Eugene Zinser. Shanon has also been a member of the Hereford High School band and is in National Honor Society. She has served as captain of the drill team and the Student Camper on the Board of Directors of the Hereford Camp Fire Council. She has been selected to appear in Who's Who of American High School Students and as a Student of the Month by the Kiwanis Club.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Six months ago, I found myself confronted with a mess when I had to take over my aunt's health care. I had known she was hooked on sweepstakes, but I had no idea of the extent of her addiction. When she was hospitalized, I handled her affairs and was shocked at what had been going on.

I found that "Aunt Catherine" had purchased dozens of CDs, hundreds of books and cassettes and over 60 VCR tapes. She obtained them all through mail-order companies. My aunt does not own a VCR or CD player, but she said she planned to buy them as soon as she won the $5 million sweepstakes.

Many of the items Aunt Catherine bought had not been removed from the shipping cartons. The bills that had piled up were horrendous. She owed money to record companies and jewelry stores and had signed up for 20 magazines that she could not possibly read since she is nearly blind.

I also discovered she was sending money to companies that entered her in THEIR sweepstakes and to other companies that offered to check and see if she had won any other sweepstakes. Of course, they all charge a fee for this "service." In addition, Aunt Catherine was involved in four foreign sweepstakes and two lotteries. During an 11-month period, she spent her entire income on these scams.

Until I took over her affairs, I had no idea what a huge industry these sweepstakes have become. Nor did I know how they entice people to enter and buy merchandise. Please, Ann, warn your readers to be aware of what these companies do to senior citizens. They prey on naive and indigent elderly and print disclaimers in such fine print that even people with excellent eyesight cannot read them. — Appalled in Oakland, Calif.

DEAR OAKLAND: Thank you for a letter that could save a great number of readers a lot of money and some serious disappointment.

If you are wondering how they get away with it, the answer is simple. These outfits have clever lawyers who check the language carefully and make sure the company is protected against being sued. As you pointed out, the disclaimers are in such small print, they are extremely hard to read.

My advice to one and all is this: Get-rich-quick offers are for suckers. And unfortunately, P.T. Barnum was right. There's one born every minute.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Will you please use your influence and suggest to your readers that the appropriate response upon hearing that someone they know has AIDS is NOT "Oh, wow, how did he get it?" A discussion of how someone acquired any illness borders on gossip. The more humane response would be "How sad. Is there anything I can do to help?"

Ann, in my case, the person who has AIDS is the father of my two teen-age children. They are carrying the heavy burden of trying to balance their love for their father with the reaction of their peers when the news of his illness becomes known at school.

It would help if those who hear "the news" would remember that AIDS-infected individuals have families that must also struggle with this insidious disease. Please tell them. — Anywhere

Dear Anywhere: While curiosity about "who, what, why and where" is a moral response, sensitivity to the feelings of others should be the principal concern. Thank you for an opportunity to point this out.

In 1939, Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini signed a "Pact of Steel" which committed Germany and Italy to a military alliance.

Students to compete at state level

Six Hereford High School students will travel to Austin Wednesday for the U.I.L. Academic state meet.

Kyle Moody will represent Hereford on the One Act Play Honor Crew.

Bree Perrin and Marc Haney are among the 30 students selected from throughout Texas to serve on the State Meet Honor Crew.

John Messer earned the trip to Austin by placing 4th in Persuasive Speaking at the U.I.L. Regional meet held in San Angelo.

Cady Auckerman placed 4th in Informative Extemporaneous Speaking and will compete at state.

Heather Hernandez placed 2nd in Prose Interpretation at the Regional meet to earn the right to compete. Last year, she placed third at the State Tournament.

Local kids claim Kitchens crowns

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

The fourth annual Cuby Kitchens Classic AAU basketball tournament ended Sunday with four Hereford-influenced teams taking home championship trophies.

Although none of the championships went to teams made up entirely of Hereford players, nearly half of the ten brackets were won by teams with at least one Hereford player on the roster. Those champions were:

The West Texas Heat, in the girls' 14-under bracket, included Julie Rampley, Kendra Wright and Makasha Rives.

The Lubbock Warriors, in boys' 16-under, included Isaac Walker.

The Texas Warriors, in boys' 13-under, included Daniel Carnahan, Eric McNutt, James Miller and Steven Northern.

The Texas Trojans, in boys' 12-under, included Chayse Rives, Cody Hodges and Slade Hodges.

The 13-year old Texas Warriors had to come out of the losers' side of the double elimination bracket, and they had to beat the team that put them there in overtime.

The first time they met the Lone Stars, they lost 58-48. The second time, in the finals Sunday, they got 30 points from Miller and won 56-49 in OT. Miller's 30 points may have been the highest output of the entire tournament.

To get to the finals, they beat Clovis Magic 54-50. Miller and McNutt each had 10 points in the game.

While the Warriors squeaked by the Trojans and West Texas Heat rolled to victory.

The Trojans breezed through the bracket winning, in order: 68-10 over Running Rebels, 58-27 over Lubbock Warriors; 58-27 over the Lone Stars; and 80-23 over the Lone Stars, again, in the championship game.

Both Hodges boys reached double figures in each of the last three games: Cody's top performance was 21 against the Warriors, and Slade's best was 20 in the finals. Rives' best output was seven in the finals.

The West Texas Heat won 93-34 over West Texas Thunder in the finals. Rampley had 12 points in the balanced attack. The Heat lost once, 57-31, to the Colorado Hoopsters, who forfeited in the finals.

Colorado teams were set to play in the finals of the girls' 13-under, 14-under and 16-under, but all three chose to start their seven-hour drives home early, rather than playing games at 6:30 Sunday.

The Lubbock Warriors won the 16-under boys, beating the Bearcats, 59-51. Walker's best output was 18 points, coming in a 124-33 rout of the Clovis Warriors. Walker led six others in double figures.

Following are summaries of all 10 brackets:

11-under girls: Above the Rim defeated the Metro Stars, 43-30, in the championship game. Above the Rim had to twice defeat the Metro Stars, which included Hereford's Sarah Griffin, during the tournament. Above the Rim beat the Metro Stars 29-27 on a buzzer-beater Saturday.

The Metro Stars won the four games in which they didn't play Above the Rim. They started with a 34-6 win over Friona, then lost to Above the Rim for the first time. The Metro Stars climbed out of the losers' side of the bracket with three wins: 33-24 over Sudan; 37-7 over Friona; and 33-21 over the Hotshots. Griffin scored a total of 13 points in the games.

This bracket also included the Lady Blues, which lost twice, but Hereford's Tiffany Mercer was their leading scorer in both games. They lost 39-10 to Above the Rim, then 16-11 to Friona. Mercer had four points in each game.

12-under girls: Quicksilver from Idalou beat the Amarillo Force 38-34 in the finals.

The West Texas Heat, a Hereford team lost twice to Quicksilver, but they did win two games: 34-12 over Clovis Swoosh, with Valerie Guzman scoring 16, and 36-10 over Young Guns Magic, with Leslie Torres scoring eight.

The Lady Warriors won 25-19 over Tulia, with Holly Schilling's eight points. They were knocked out by Quicksilver, 47-13.

13-under girls: The West Texas Flyers beat the Texas Twisters, 37-32. The Hereford Hotshots beat Court Extreme, with Kristen Cole's 12 and Amy Perrin's 10 points. They lost to PAA Blue Chips, 27-17.

16-under girls: Quicksilver won, 54-41 over Amarillo Texans.

Misti Davis played for Court Extreme, which won twice before being knocked out 50-43 by Four Corners, although Davis scored eight points. Davis' team won 53-26 over the Amarillo Bandits and 66-65 over the Aggco Aggies.

Two teams with Hereford girls both were eliminated in two games. The Swarm lost 43-30 to Four Corners and 49-29 to the Amarillo Texans. The West Texas Heat lost 59-55 to Quicksilver and 60-57 to the Texans.

11-under boys: The Amarillo Shooters went undefeated, beating the West Texas Thunder 52-35 for the title.

The Hornets, one of the two Hereford teams in this bracket, were eliminated by the Amarillo Pacers, 41-31, despite an 18-point effort by Andrew Carnahan. The Bulls, the other Hereford team, were knocked out by Naz, from Nazareth, 46-17. Stewart Carr scored seven of his team's 17 points.

12-under boys: Besides the Texas Trojans, this bracket had the Big Dawgs from Hereford. They started with a close loss to the Amarillo Wolverines, 39-37, then were knocked out by the Texas Stars from Plainview, 38-28. J.P. Holman led the Big Dawgs in both games, with 17 and 16 points, respectively.

13-under boys: Besides the Texas Warriors, this bracket had the Panthers from Hereford. They lost to the Jaguars, 67-32, although Tim Dudley scored 10. Then they lost to the Regulators, 42-39, despite 14 points from L.J. Vallejo and nine from Seth Pietsek.

14-under boys: In the last game of the entire tournament, the West Texas Outlaws won the title with a 76-71 overtime win over the Central Texas Express, which made the trip from Killeen and finished play at 8:30 p.m. Sunday.

This was the only bracket without a single player from Hereford.

Crox finishes fourth in 300-meter hurdles

Hereford's Marie Crox finished fourth in the 300-meter hurdles at the Region 1-4A Track Meet Saturday in San Angelo.

Marquise Brown was fifth in the 200-meter dash and seventh in the 100 dash, and Michael High took seventh in the triple jump.

Crox, a sophomore, ran the hurdles in 47.42 seconds—close behind the fourth-place finisher, Mario Estes of Fort Worth Carter Riverside (47.30).

The top two finishers, both of which will go on to the state meet, were two seconds ahead of the field. Mandy Hayworth of Granbury won in 45.26 and Pampa's Mechelle Abbott was second in 45.53.

"We kind of expected that out of those two," coach Martha Emerson said. "We hoped Marie could stay close to those two. Marie's run closer to Abbott than she did (Saturday)...but we're talking about a senior (Abbott) and a sophomore."

"I think Marie did an excellent job all year," Emerson said. "She ran exceptionally well, and she ran better each time."

Crox broke her own school record with a 46.9 in prelims. She set the previous mark two weeks earlier at the district meet.

Brown didn't have his best day Saturday.

"He didn't run very well in either race," coach Ron Young said. "He had a bad start in the 100, a bad start out of the blocks. In the 200, he ran a decent time—he was just in real fast company."

Brown, a junior, ran the 200 in 22.81 seconds to finish fifth. The winning time was 21.27, turned in by Kendrick Campbell of Everman.

Brown's official time in the 100 was not available—only the top six were kept—but Young said he ran a hand-timed 10.84. An automatic timing mechanism was used for the official times, and those typically produce higher times than hand-held stop watches.

High, who advanced in the triple jump as the third place finisher in District 1-4A after the top two didn't go, still finished seventh in the field of 14 at regionals. His best jump was 41 feet, 10 inches.

"Michael did well for his first time at regionals," Young said. High is a junior, so he has a chance at a second time at regionals.

Drexel Owusu of Big Spring won the event with a 50-7 triple jump, and Robert Reed of Sweetwater was second, also at 50-7 but with a shorter second-best jump.

"(High) was in some pretty tough company," Young said, then referred to the accomplishments of Owusu. "He was in the same company as the (defending) state champion, the regional record holder. In fact, (Owusu) broke the record two times on that particular day."

Following are the complete final standings for the four events involving Hereford athletes:

Girls' 300 hurdles—1, Mandy Hayworth, Granbury, 45.26; 2, Mechelle Abbott, Pampa, 45.53; 3, Mario Estes, FW Carter Riverside, 47.30; 4, Marie Crox, Hereford, 47.42; 5, Chiquita Lemons, Frenship, 48.25; 6, Piper Bryant, Lamesa, 48.46.

Boys' 200 dash—1, Kendrick Campbell, Everman, 21.27; 2, Derrick Payton, Estacado, 21.65; 3, Eric Woodberry, FW Polytechnic, 21.90; 4, James Polk, Everman, 22.37; 5, Marquise Brown, Hereford, 22.81.

Boys' 100 dash—1, Eric Woodberry, FW Polytechnic, 10.62; 2, Shawn Carr, Sweetwater, 10.71; 3, Amar Johnson, Polytechnic, 10.86; 4, Travis Gayler, Joshua, 10.87; 5, Derrick Payton, Estacado, 10.98; 6, Corey Steadham, Cedar Hill, 11.10.

Boys' triple jump—1, Drexel Owusu, Big Spring, 50-7; 2, Robert Reed, Sweetwater, 50-7; 3, Leon Baker, Lake View, 48-6 1/4; 4, Tvea Carter, Mineral Wells, 47-6 3/4; 5, Jason Windfield, Mineral Wells, 46-8 1/2; 6, Jakiki Garrett, Levelland, 45-8 1/2.

Courtney Gearn, a former Hereford High School runner, is going to the state meet after she finished second in the 400-meter dash. Gearn ran for the Hereford team last year but has since moved to Canyon.

Gearn was second in 58.97 seconds. Keisha Smith of Cedar Hill won it in 57.92.

Pampa's four-run inning sinks Herd

Pampa broke up a pitcher's duel Saturday at Whiteface Field, scoring four runs in the sixth inning to take a 6-3 win over Hereford.

The starting pitchers—Gregg Kalka for Hereford and Pampa's Rene Armendariz—battled through five innings. Kalka didn't allow a baserunner until No. 8 hitter August Lamm's single. Armendariz didn't give up a hit until leadoff hitter Ronald Torres singled in his second plate appearance.

The teams were scoreless through 2 1/2 innings. The Herd led 2-1 after five, and all three of the runs at that point were scored entirely on errors.

Errors led to the Herd's downfall in the sixth. The Harvesters led off with a single, then tried to bunt him over. Kalka fielded the bunt and tried to tag the runner, but he missed, then threw the ball away. Harvester were on second and third, setting up Ryan Cook, Jason Warren and Matt Archibald for RBI singles.

John Marty Galan relieved Kalka, and the first batter hit a high pop up which shortstop Ronald Torres lost in the sun. The ball hit Torres' foot and bounced high in the air, then landed in front of Torres. Warren, who was on third, tried to score after the ball hit the ground, but Torres recovered and threw Warren out in a close play at the plate.

Archibald, who moved up to third on that play, came home to score Pampa's fourth run of the inning on a wild pitch, giving the Harvesters a 5-2 lead.

"It seems like once we get one error, it starts us off on a roll," Herd coach Pete Rodriguez said. "But we were still in it. (We needed) three runs in two at bats, so we were still in it. We just needed to make contact—which we did, but they made some plays out there."

Hereford got one run back in the sixth, when Armando Zambrano singled and Joe De La Cruz doubled him home. Pampa answered that with a single, a sacrifice bunt and an RBI bloop single. Pampa led 6-3.

Warren made an outstanding play for the first out of the seventh inning. The first baseman went after Torres' foul pop-up, ran into the fence and reached over the pull the ball back in.

The next two outs were routine, and Pampa had the win.

Hereford's earlier runs were both scored by Gabriel Guerrero—in the third and fifth inning. He reached by walking in the third and a single in the fifth, and he scored both times on Pampa errors.

Hereford might have gotten more in the fifth, but Harvester fielder Ryan Cook made a diving catch at the line to rob Tanner Murphey of extra bases. Since Guerrero and Jacob Lopez both had hits in the inning, it could have been a big inning without Cook's play.

The loss dropped Hereford to 3-7 in District 1-4A and 6-16 overall. It officially eliminated Hereford from the playoff race, keeping the Herd from a second straight playoff berth.

Hereford has no game today. It is the open spot in the district schedule.

Pampa, which improved to 6-3 and 10-8, is in the thick of the playoff race. With two or three games left, five teams all have a chance to claim at least a share of the district title: Borger (7-3), Dumas (6-3), Pampa (6-3), Randall (5-4) and Canyon (5-5). Borger whipped Dumas 8-0 Saturday, letting Borger take over first place, while Canyon stayed alive by edging Caprock, 2-1.

Hereford golfers win in Amarillo

The Hereford foursome of Craig Robinson, Paul Hubbard, Jeff Yates and James Salinas teamed with Amarillo's James Bischof to win the Noss Classic golf scramble Sunday in Amarillo.

Those five combined to shoot a 54 in the scramble format at Amarillo's Comanche Trails Municipal Course.

Bad bunt

Hereford's Tanner Murphey dives to catch a popped bunt, and Pampa's Jason Warren turns to watch himself be put out. Pampa won, 6-3, Saturday at Whiteface Field.

Mussina, Cone get taste of own medicine

If you wanted a shutout, you'd be happy to take your chances with Mike Mussina or David Cone on the mound, right?

Wrong. At least not on Monday. Instead, Mussina and Cone were on the wrong end of shutouts as Baltimore and Toronto got blanked by Milwaukee and California, respectively.

Ricardo Bones, formerly known as Ricky, combined with Gnome Lloyd on a two-hitter as Milwaukee beat Baltimore 7-0 in the first game of the season at Camden Yards.

Shawn Boskie, who hasn't pitched a shutout since he was in Class A ball in 1988, combined with Lee Smith on a five-hitter as California beat Toronto 2-0.

In other games, New York beat Boston 5-3 and Seattle defeated Texas 4-1.

Bones quieted a crowd of 46,523—the 46th sellout in the last 47 games at Camden Yards—by keeping the Orioles off-balance with a continual array of breaking balls.

"He pitched differently. He used to throw a lot of fastballs, but this time he threw a lot more breaking balls," Baltimore's Leo Gomez said.

But according to Baltimore manager Phil Regan, the pitches were breaking because Bones was breaking the rules.

Scoreless innings, and the Giants took advantage of four Los Angeles errors in one inning.

Glendon Hill and J.R. Phillips hit two-run homers, Barry Bonds got his first hit and RBI of the season and Matt Williams added three hits.

Mullholland lost the Giants' season opener in Atlanta last Wednesday.

Galarraga's bloop single sparks Rockies

DENVER (AP) — Don Baylor knows Andre Galarraga's hitting quirk better than Galarraga does.

So, when the Colorado Rockies first baseman struck out in his first three at-bats Monday night, extending his hitting string to 12 at-bats and dropping his average to .115, Baylor made a simple suggestion.

Baylor, the Rockies manager who helped resurrect Galarraga's career when both were at St. Louis in 1992, told his slumping slugger to hit to right, knowing that Galarraga thrives when he concentrates on driving the ball to the opposite field.

The result wasn't pretty, but the bloop single to right drove in the first run of a five-run eighth-inning outburst that carried the Rockies past the San Diego Padres 8-3.

In other games, San Francisco blanked Los Angeles 7-0 and St. Louis beat Pittsburgh 4-0.

Giants 7, Dodgers 6

At San Francisco, Terry

Oates returns to Rangers

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Texas manager Johnny Oates returned from a leave of absence four days earlier than planned Monday night, only to see the Rangers lose 4-1 to the Seattle Mariners.

Oates didn't exactly go out of it way to impress the new boss. The Rangers committed five errors for the first time since May 1990 and had season-lows for hits (five) and runs (one).

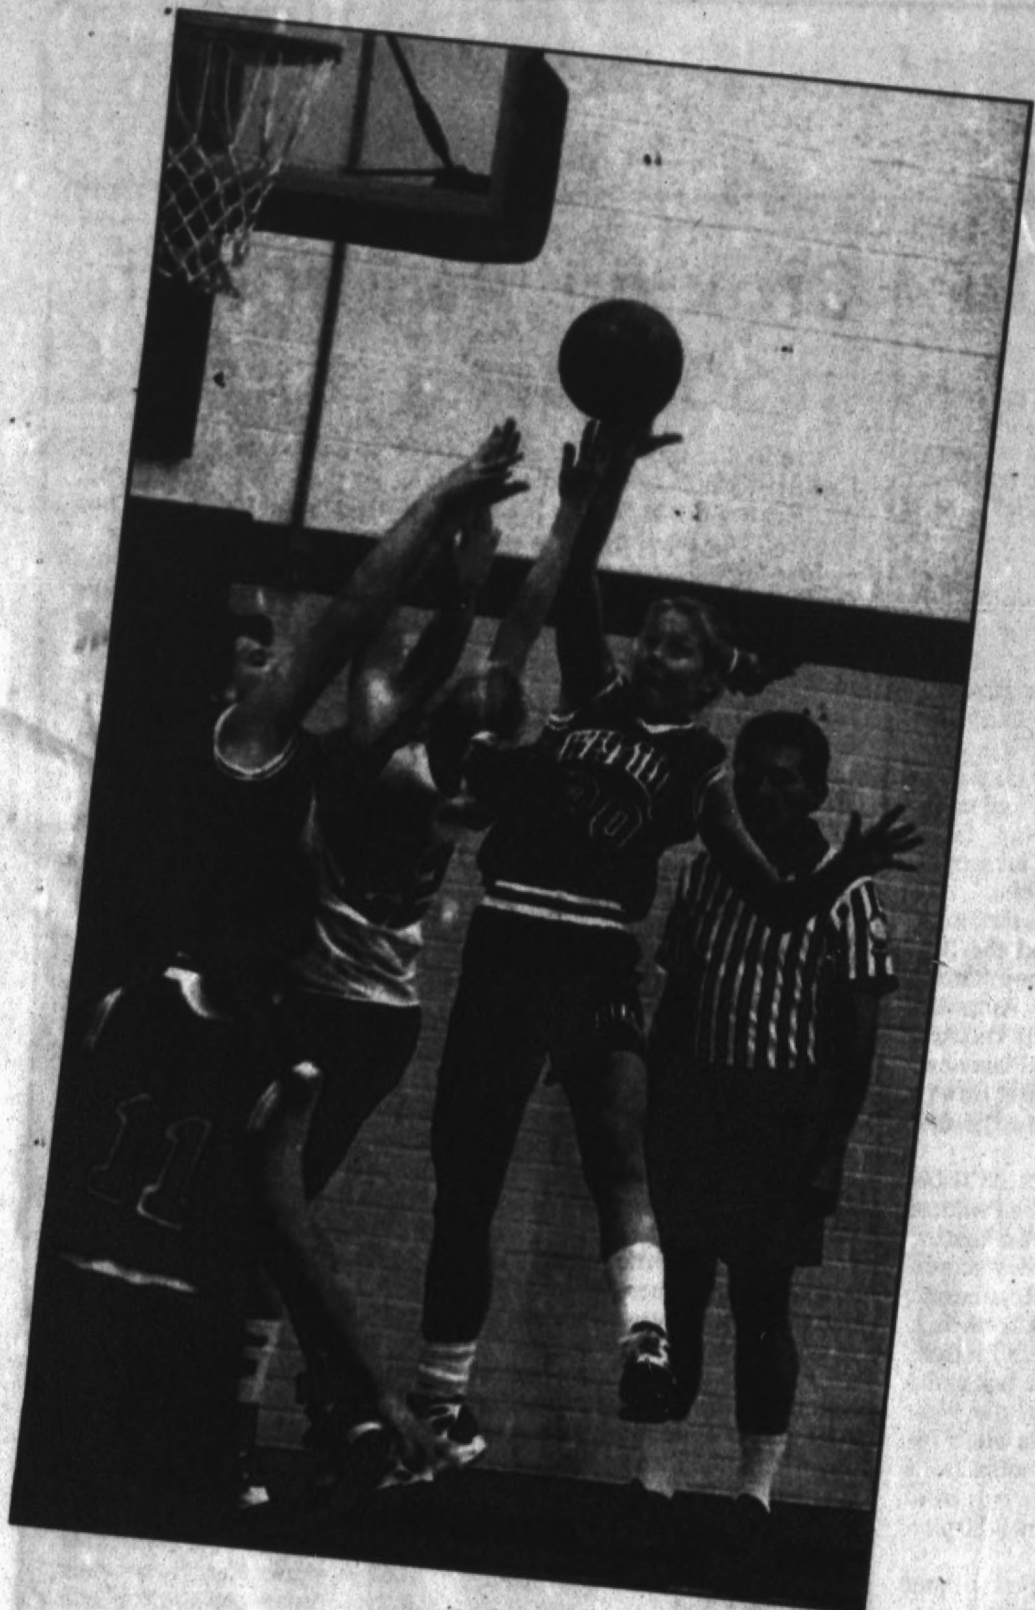

Oates, though, was just happy to be back. He didn't let his team's offensive and defensive woes wipe the smile from his face.

"It's good to be back and to get the heart pumping again," said Oates, who had left the team during spring training to be with his wife, Gloria, who was suffering from exhaustion. "If we catch the ball and mix in a few hits, it may have been a different game."

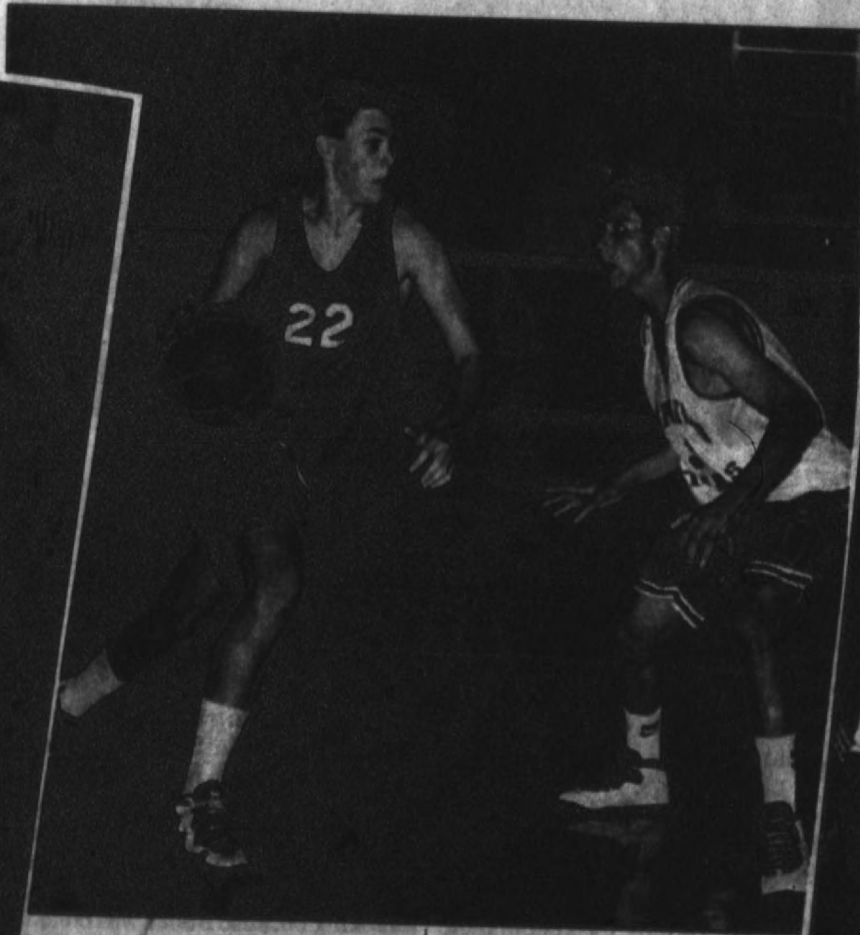

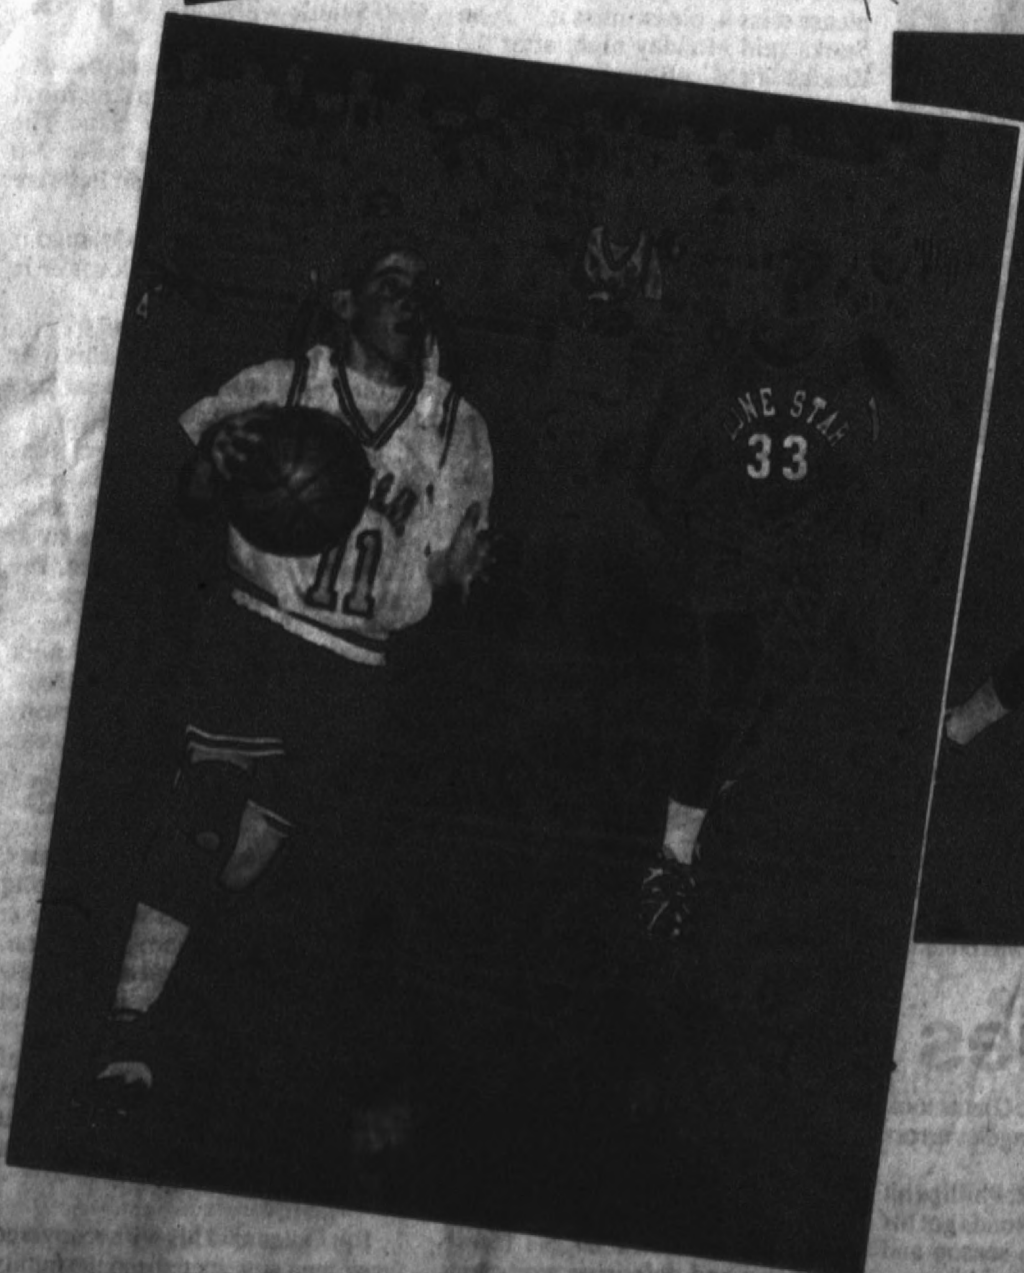

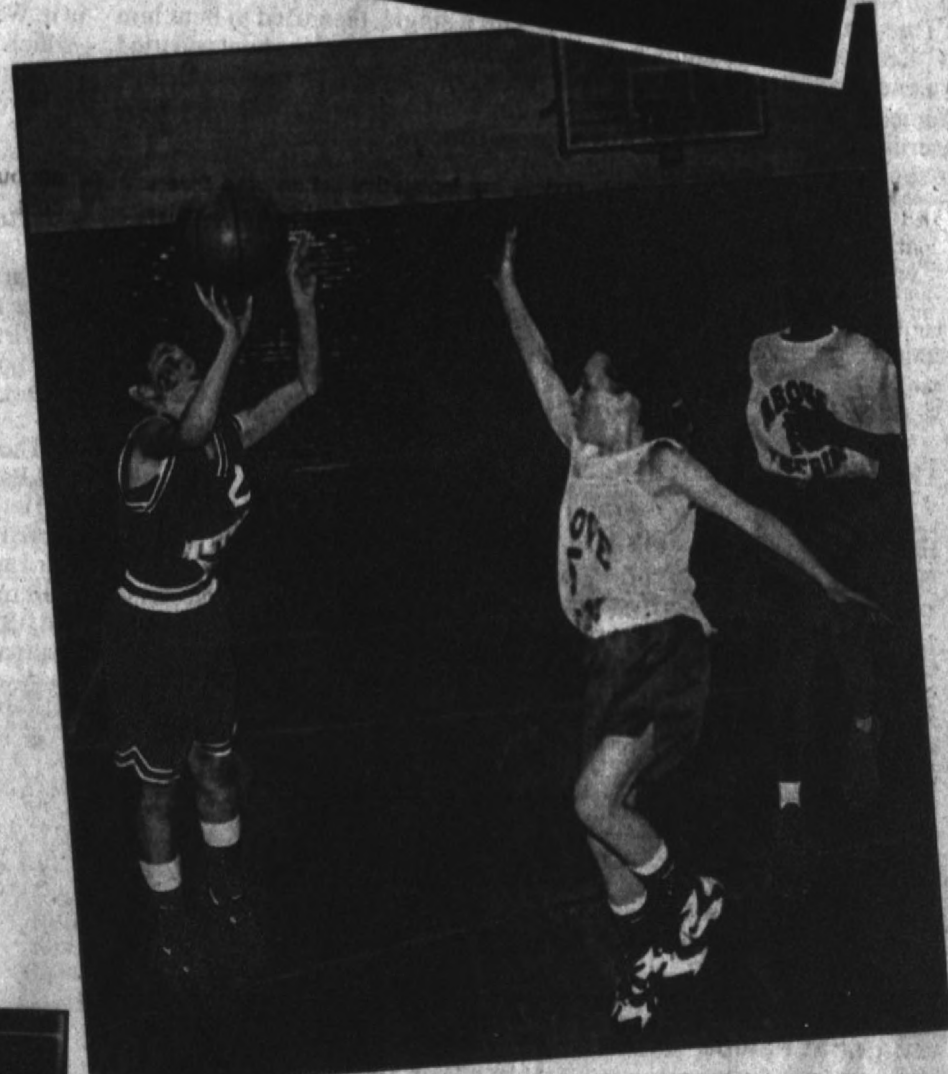

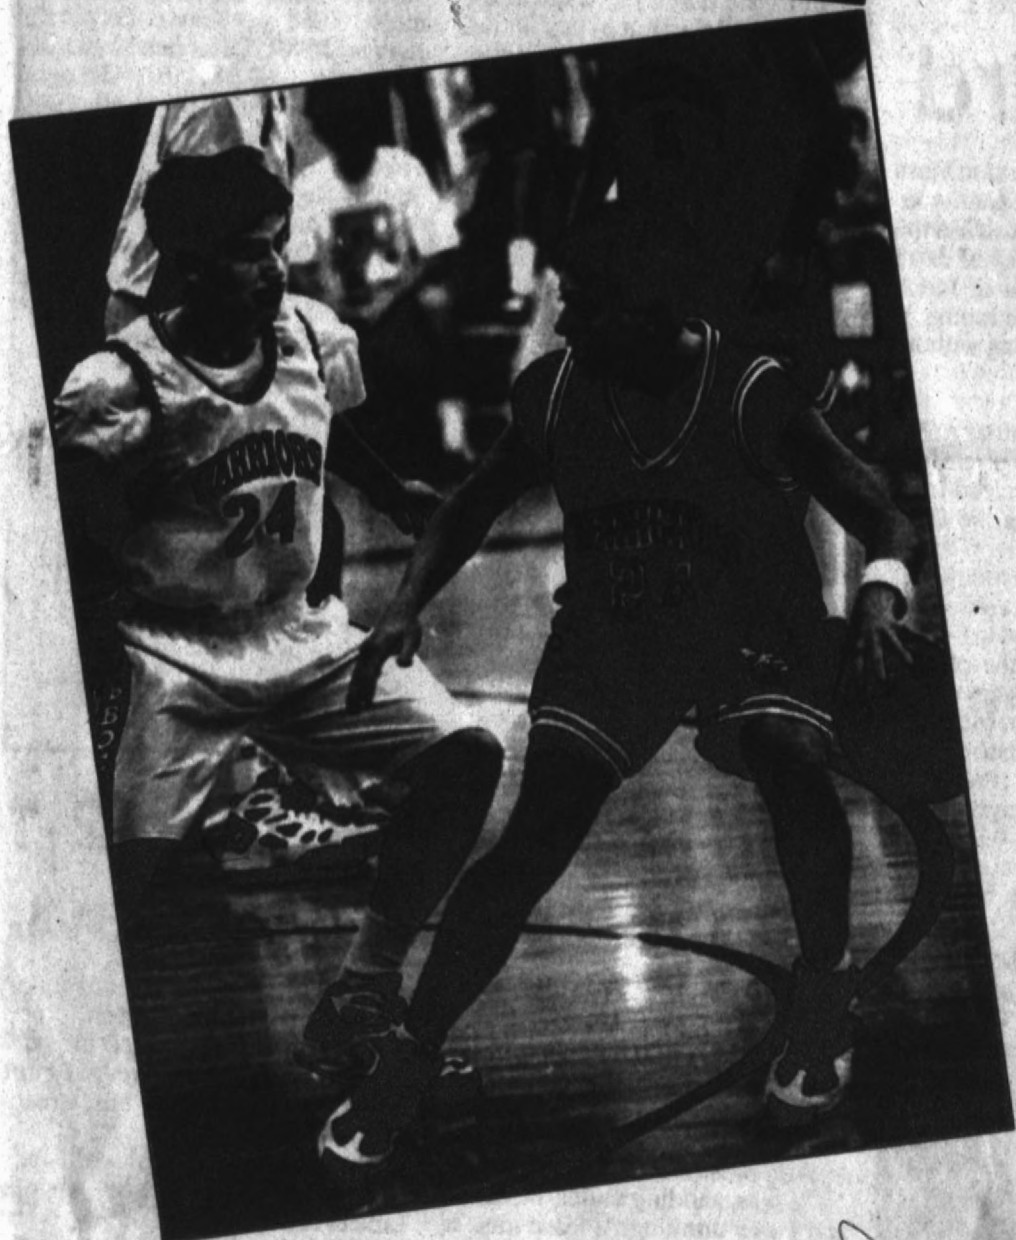

Oates had been granted a leave of absence of up to two weeks and was expected to join the team at Oakland on May 5 for the start of a seven-game road trip.

But Oates said his wife recovered faster than anticipated and the family agreed that he should return to his job.

Action from the Cuby Kitchens Classic

Young basketball players from all over Texas, New Mexico and Colorado filled Hereford gyms over the weekend for the fourth annual Cuby Kitchen Classic AAU basketball tournament. Some of the highlights were (clockwise from top left): Julie Rampley (30) of the West Texas Heat swatting a shot as Makesha Rives (11) looks on; James Miller (32) and Brett Clements (10, of Muleshoe) of the Texas Warriors surrounding a Lone Star; the Texas Trojans' Chayse Rives grabbing a steal and heading upcourt with teammate Slade Hodges at his side; Sarah Griffin of the Metro Stars getting off a shot over a player from the team Above the Rim; Randi Qualls and Tori Walker (in air) of the West Texas Heat putting the press on the Young Guns Magic; the Razorbacks' Bryant McNutt driving on an opponent; Cody Hodges of the Texas Trojans eyeing an easy layup in the championship game; and Isaac Walker of the Lubbock Warriors applying defensive pressure on a Bearcat.

Senator Teel Bivins Reports

AUSTIN — Texas' criminal, civil and juvenile courts are currently contending with more than 700,000 lawsuits with little relief in sight. As the backlog of cases grows, our courts are coping with inadequate technology, diminishing funding and the U.S. Justice Department's refusal to allow Texas to create new courts.

One thing we don't need while Texans are standing in line for access to their courts is a flood of litigation brought to Texas courts by people who live outside the state. Yet that's exactly what is happening.

For decades, cases more appropriately tried in courts in other states have been moved from Texas courts under the doctrine of forum non conveniens, a well-established feature of the American judicial system for most of this century. Simply put, this doctrine allowed Texas judges to decline cases that were more fairly heard elsewhere, such as in the state or country in which the claimant suffered the alleged harm.

However, a 1990 decision by the Texas Supreme Court prohibited Texas courts from applying forum non conveniens in personal injury cases. This decision resulted in a surge of out-of-state lawsuits being filed in Texas.

In 1993, the Legislature moved to stem the tide, enacting a statute that re-established the forum non conveniens doctrine in most cases. Unfortunately, the 1993 legislation, while accomplishing much, left a few types of cases outside the system.

One type of case exempted from the 1993 law is asbestos-related litigation that originates in other states and countries. At the time, it was thought a national administrative mechanism would be put in place to streamline the handling of this litigation and that the impact on Texas courts would be minimal.

As is frequently the case with basing legislative action on a forecast of future events, reality has not lived up to expectations. Of the approximately 27,450 asbestos lawsuits pending in Texas courts, 80 percent were filed by non-residents of Texas. Just since January, a single Texas employer has been hit with more than 5,300 out-of-state claims — meanwhile Texas cases wait on the back burner.

Clearly, Texas citizens receive little, if any, benefit from an avalanche of out-of-state litigation. Tax dollars paid by Texas citizens to run Texas courts for Texas citizens are being used for the benefit of non-residents. Legitimate lawsuits brought by Texas citizens are standing in line behind out-of-state claims.

In short, the exemptions that the 1993 Legislature believed would have little impact on Texas — based on a reasonable expectation at that time — should now be revised. Asbestos litigation from other states should be treated just like any other litigation from other states. Let Texas judges decide whether there is a final and compelling reason to try these cases in Texas.

I have introduced legislation to allow judges to exercise their discretion over out-of-state asbestos lawsuits. The legislation has nothing to do with whether these cases are legitimate or whether claimants are entitled to compensation.

At issue is whether Texas courts — paid for by Texas taxpayers for the primary use of Texas citizens — should be used to try lawsuits with little or no connection to the state. If a judge finds a case would be more appropriately tried in another state, so be it. If the judge finds the case should be tried in Texas, so be it.

It's that simple, and it's the only fair solution for all Texans who support their courts with hard-earned tax dollars.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Medical savings accounts would make winners out of healthy workers and losers out of those with steep medical bills, an independent study suggests.

Almost three-quarters of workers would come out ahead if their employers switched them from a standard, fee-for-service plan with a $200 deductible into a catastrophic coverage plan with a $1,500 deductible, and earmarked the savings for the workers' personal medical accounts, the American Academy of Actuaries said.

They would gain $449 on average from the new arrangement, the actuaries said in a study released today.

But 26 percent of workers would wind up stuck with more of their medical bills, losing $552 on average, the study found. Older employees and pregnant women would be among the losers.

And there is a risk that as more healthy workers opt for the high deductible-and-catastrophic coverage plan, premiums would soar for those left behind in the sicker pool of people wanting to keep their low-deductible coverage, an academy work group concluded.

House Speaker Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., and House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Bill Archer, R-Texas, are drafting legislation that would encourage more firms to try them. Several major health reform bills proposed last year included versions of medical savings accounts; the White House proposal did not.

The idea is to make consumers more cost-conscious purchasers of health care by giving them a direct stake in the first dollars they spend on medical bills. People will avoid unnecessary care if they feel they are spending their own money instead of their company's, advocates argue.

The actuaries calculated that the average annual premium now for an individual employee with a $200 deductible is $2,699 and the premium for a $1,500 deductible would be $1,996.

The employer could put the $703 savings into a medical savings account for the employee at no extra cost.

Most workers would come out

New radio station on air

A new radio station serving listeners in the Hereford and Deaf Smith County area recently went on the air. The new station, American Family Radio, can be found at 90.7 on the FM dial.

AFR is a non-commercial, listener-supported station providing an all-Christian format 24 hours a day. It is part of the AFR network, headquartered in Tupelo, Ms., which owns and operates 73 stations serving 23 states. The station does not sell advertising and airs no commercials.

The format is about 70 percent music and 30 percent talk, according to Donald Wildmon, president of AFR. The music is described as "light contemporary Christian music with a strong mixture of traditional Christian music and great hymns." The station carries USA Radio Network news.

Health accounts would help healthy workers, hurt those with medical bills ahead because they would run up far less than $703 in out-of-pocket medical expenses.

If an employer is not careful, "a destructive cost spiral can result" for those in the low-deductible plan, the study warned.

If most healthy workers opted for the high deductible, the premium for the $200 deductible could shoot up to $4,343, while the premium for the high-deductible coverage would fall to $1,430.

"The people that are going to get the most out of this will be the healthier people who have no medical expenses," said Edwin Husted, a benefits consultant from the firm of Hay Huggins, who chaired the academy's study group.

Unless employers structure the plans to avoid the premium spiral, "eventually you wouldn't have any more $200 deductible plans," said Husted.

The report also cautions that it will be difficult to make medical savings accounts work with managed care, including health maintenance organizations.

It said that medical savings accounts hold the promise of helping "achieve a goal that has, so far, eluded us: to bring the consumer into the health care arena as an active player." Workers might "learn to be smart shoppers in making health care purchases, just as they can be in buying computers or tires."

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Lee Iacocca is having more luck making deals with his estranged wife than with Chrysler's board of directors.

Dan Iacocca has agreed to a divorce settlement that is close to the $4 million deal she rejected six months ago, a friend of the former Chrysler chairman told the Detroit Free Press.

Lawyers presented the settlement to a judge on Monday. "The terms were mutually acceptable," said Iacocca's lawyer, Philip Vastevich.

Also Monday, Chrysler Corp.'s board formally rejected a proposal from Iacocca and investor Kirk Kerkorian to buy the automaker for $22.5 billion.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Joe Montana may be retired, but he won't be put out to pasture.

On Tuesday, the future Hall of Fame quarterback bought into Target-Chip Ganassi Racing, an IndyCar team.

Montana, who spent 16 years with the San Francisco 49ers and Kansas City Chiefs, became interested in auto racing when he took part in a 1984 celebrity race in Long Beach, Calif.

He won't drive the team's sleek, red racers. But he plans to hang around as often as he can, hoping for a vicarious fix of the exhilaration that can only be had from driving in the neighborhood of 230 mph.

Increase in research money asked for diseases of elderly

By CASSANDRA BURRELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Advocates for the elderly are urging the government to spend more money - an additional $1 billion a year - on preventing and delaying age-related diseases, not just curing them.

Increasing research on aging could save up to $250 billion in health costs over the next five to seven years, said the Alliance for Aging Research and the American Federation for Aging Research.

The groups were submitting a report to delegates of the White House Conference on Aging, a once-a-decade conference opening this afternoon. More than 2,250 people were expected to attend the conference, which runs through Friday.

As with previous conferences, delegates hope the Clinton administration and Congress will turn their recommendations into national policy.

The report said President Clinton's proposed fiscal 1996 budget would reduce spending at the National Institute on Aging - a research agency and one of the government's National Institutes of Health - by $4.4 million after inflation is taken into account. And members of the Republican majority in Congress expect government researchers to endure their share of budget cutting.

As people age, their risk of developing illnesses doubles every five years after middle age, the report said. Lowering that risk would give the elderly more years of good health and decrease the number of people who suffer such ailments as incontinence, arthritis, hip fractures, memory loss, strokes and osteoporosis.

"Delaying the diseases of aging is a relatively new idea, but one with great potential," the report said. "Postponing the onset of Alzheimer's disease by five years would, in the course of time, reduce incidence by half, thus saving half the cost of this terrible terminal illness, currently estimated at $100 billion annually."

Discussions at the White House Conference on Aging will touch on health care for the elderly, employment and child care, as well as retirement and healthy living. The hottest topic probably will be Medicare, said Patrick Burns, spokesman for the National Council on Senior Citizens.

House Republicans are studying a proposal to cut more than $300 billion from the Medicare health insurance program over seven years as part of a plan to balance the federal budget. In the Senate, Republicans are looking over proposals that would cut $250 billion by 2002.

The National Council of Senior Citizens, which has a half-million dues-paying members, opposes any cuts in Medicare. Medicare pays for about half of all health care expenses for people 65 or older, easing the burden on families, Burns said.

Substantial cuts would "reduce Medicare to the level of Band-Aids and Mercurochrome, and I think it is wrong," Burns said.

On the other hand, the conservative United Seniors Association believes it's unreasonable to spare Medicare from the budget cutting that must be done to reduce the deficit. And Medicare costs - which are expected to grow about 10 percent a year - need to be overhauled to prevent the program from running out of money in 2002, said Mike Korbey, the association's director of legislative affairs.

Medicare and Medicaid, the health-insurance program for the poor, were created in 1965, four years after the 1961 aging conference, which focused on health care. Congress passed the 1961 Social Security Amendments shortly after that meeting.

The 1971 aging conference helped bring about a 20 percent increase in Social Security benefits in 1972 and the establishment of yearly cost-of-living increases. The Meals on Wheels program, which takes hot meals to the homes of the elderly, and the Supplemental Security Income program also followed, as well as the creation of the House Select Committee on Aging.

Dame Vera still remembered by her 'boys' of World War II

By AUDREY WOODS
Associated Press Writer
DITCHLING, England (AP) - When Vera Lynn sings "The White Cliffs of Dover," even people born after World War II feel a pang of nostalgia.

Veterans of some of the worst battles in modern history sit misty-eyed when Dame Vera, looking impossibly young, croons another of her signature tunes: "We'll meet again, don't know where, don't know when."

She may be 78, and a Dame of the British Empire, but "our boys" remember her as the "Forces Sweetheart" they chose in 1939.

It was Vera Lynn they listened to, often furtively, on their scratchy radios in lonely, dangerous places across Europe, Africa and Asia. She went to see their new babies and broadcast messages from their families on her weekly program. She visited them in Egypt, India and Burma.

Vera Lynn and her "boys" have been true to each other for half a century. Harry Lewis, a former band musician and her husband of 54 years, doesn't mind at all.

It is Lewis who answers the door at their home in a quiet village in East Sussex. Dame Vera appears quickly and pulls a chair close to the fire.

Her short hair is wavy and blonde and her eyes china blue and direct. But her hand is a little tired. She has been autographing envelopes to raise money for one of the service charities she supports.

"If I can do that just by going somewhere and mixing with people or signing letters, that's the sort of thing I hope to be able to do. Not necessarily have to get involved with singing. I've done enough singing," she said with a laugh.

Dame Vera played an important part in the 1989 campaign that won a better pension deal for World War II widows. Her immediate concern is Tribute and Promise, a campaign by 130 charities to help the war generation.

"The money is going to go to help the people who were young at that time and now are elderly and worked all through the war in one way or another. ... It's amazing how little thought has been given to them," she said.

Her bond with servicemen and women, forged in the worst of times, has never broken. They write; she attends their reunions.

Although her career prospered after the war with new songs, her own television shows and 14 gold records, it was the songs of the war years that people wanted to hear at concerts.

"You know, I wasn't a film star," she said, trying to explain the affinity.

"I was somebody that they could associate with. ... I was an ordinary girl."

Vera Welch - the name she was born with - was a plumber's daughter. She started singing in social clubs at 7, and was a band singer at 17. She first sang Charles Parker's "We'll Meet Again" in 1939. She was 21 when the war started and already a well-known performer.

"The shows didn't stop if a raid started," she said. "We just used to carry on."

The Luftwaffe bombers seemed to turn up just as she was singing "A Nightingale Sang in Berkeley Square."

"A nice, quiet, gentle song - then the siren would go and you kept on singing till the show was finished," she said. "Then we used to have a bit of a party afterward."

In 1939, the soldiers of the British Expeditionary Force voted Vera Lynn their favorite singer. In 1941, the BBC gave her a half-hour program after the Sunday night news. "Winston Churchill was my opening act," she once said.

"The radio was the link with everyone - everywhere. It was absolutely a war weapon. ... In occupied countries, they were forbidden to listen. If they were caught listening to the BBC they were just shot."

State Capital
HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams & Ed Sterling
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Both houses of the state Legislature agree: Needy Texans who can work ought to work to receive financial assistance from the state, and there has to be a limit to time "on the dole."

Last week, the Texas Senate voted 31-0 in favor of Sen. Judith Zaffirini's bill overhauling the state welfare system. The state House passed its own welfare bill earlier, and a conference committee is expected to iron out differences in the two measures.

"I believe this bill will help us get Texans off welfare," said Zaffirini, D-Laredo.

The Senate bill would require:
• Welfare recipients who exhaust benefits to wait five years before they could reapply for more financial aid;
• Children on welfare to be immunized;
• Adult welfare recipients to sign an agreement in which they promise to be drug-free and help establish a dependent child's paternity.

The measure also:
• Would limit benefits received on behalf of a dependent child to a maximum of 36 months; and
• Would allow the state to revoke the driver's, professional and recreational licenses of parents who are delinquent in paying child support.

An amendment to the bill would consolidate employment programs administered by various state agencies under a new Texas Department of Workforce Development.

Another amendment, by Sen. Jerry Patterson, R-Pasadena, sets time limits on receiving welfare based on education and work experience. Patterson said variable time limits would allow the state to lend more assistance to the lesser-skilled welfare recipients.

Sen. Chris Harris, R-Arlington, tacked an amendment on the welfare bill that would make divorcing couples who have been married for at least 10 years eligible for "spousal support" for up to three years if husband or wife lacks job skills.

The House measure also has an alimony provision, but its version would eliminate the 10-year marriage requirement for battered spouses.

Senator Dislikes Jail Policy
Shortly after the House voted to permit violent offenders to be warehoused in state jails beyond September 1997, a key senator predicted the Senate will vote down the measure.

Earlier, the House voted 141-0 to pass a criminal justice bill that would repeal a Sept. 1, 1997, deadline to remove all violent offenders from state jails. The new jails were sold to voters as correctional facilities that exclusively would house nonviolent offenders.

"I don't think lifting the 1997 cap has got a chance in the Senate," said Sen. John Whitmire, D-Houston, chairman of the Senate Criminal Justice Committee. "I can't imagine the House did this. It shows a retreat from the concept of state jails."

The House bill's sponsor, Rep. Allen Hightower, D-Huntsville, said his measure was intended only to give the state flexibility from September 1997 to September 1998.

"By 1997, or the next year, we will have enough inmates (convicted of nonviolent offenses) to fill up state jail facilities," Hightower said.

TCADA Conservators Named
Gov. Bush last week named an Austin businesswoman, a top aide and a former House speaker as conservators to oversee the troubled Texas Commission on Alcohol and Drug Abuse.

The governor is expected to place the agency in conservatorship when the Senate confirms the three appointees: Bush's fiscal policy director, Michael Weiss, chairman; Carolyn Gallagher, Austin, president of Texwood Furniture Corp.; and Byron Tunnell, a lawyer and retired president of Tenneco Inc., who is a former House speaker and Railroad Commission chairman.

Tenneco Can Sue A&M
A state Senate committee unanimously adopted a resolution allowing Tenneco to continue its $63 million battle against the Texas A&M System for breach of contract.

Although Tenneco has not sued A&M, the committee vote came after an arbitrator said Tenneco "is reasonably likely to prevail" in a lawsuit against Texas A&M System.

The dispute involves A&M's contract with Tenneco to build a $120 million cogeneration power plant on the A&M campus.

Other Highlights
• To observe his first 100 days in office, Gov. Bush hosted a lunch for all 181 lawmakers. In remarks on what he's learned, the governor said he was surprised at how hard and long legislators worked. Before coming to Austin, "I thought they were all drunks and philanderers," he said.

• The Texas House passed a bill that permits contractors to hire state prisoners to help build Texas' new correctional facilities. Under the measure by Rep. Karyne Conley, D-San Antonio, inmate salaries would be divided with half going to the inmates dependent family and the rest going to the state's crime victims compensation fund.

Scholarships to be offered at WT by musical, ballet

The "TEXAS" musical drama and the Lone Star Ballet are teaming up to fund dance scholarships at West Texas A&M University. The two companies will co-produce the "Stars at Night" benefit program in the Palo Duro Canyon on Saturday.

The performance will offer dances ranging from classical to tribal. In addition to full stage performances, the program showcases individual talents.

A sunset supper in the canyon will also be available at 6 p.m. the night of the show. Showtime is 8 p.m.

For ticket information and reservations call the Lone Star Ballet office in Amarillo at 806-372-2463.

Let us show you a Texas you've never seen before.

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics.

Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.
