

DEAN KEPT ON, ATTORNEY'S POST CANCELLED, CHECK SERVICE RETAINED

County Court Reverses Decisions

By LINDA CROSS
Actions in effect rescinding those taken at a meeting a week ago were voted Monday morning by the Howard County Commissioners Court, in a session which at one time degenerated into a bitter word battle between Judge A. G. Mitchell and D. A. Brazel.

The crowd gathering for the session was so large that the session was moved to the county court room.

The court this morning:

- (1) Voted to retain Earl Dean in the capacity of property valuator, working jointly for the county, the junior college, the city and the school district.
- (2) Voted that no assistant county attorney will be employed.
- (3) Voted to retain the "hot check" services under supervision of the sheriff's office.
- (4) Accepted the resignation of Don Carter, who had been named to a joint position of county fire chief, chief mechanic and purchasing agent.

RESOLUTION
Shortly before noon Brazel presented a resolution calling upon the court to move for what, in essence, would be a blanket rescinding of most action taken at the January 4 meeting.

Commissioner Terrazas protested that the matters should be taken one at a time, and then the question of taking action when such items were not on the official agenda came up. County Attorney W. H. Eysen said the matter could be handled at a special session, and the court adjourned to call such special session for 2 p.m.

WORD OUTBURST
Meanwhile, there had been much discussion on other employee matters.

The emotional tone of the meeting was set following the reading of a letter from Mrs. Rita Palmer, former secretary to the county road and bridge superintendent, J. D. Nixon, and a controversy over the meetings supposedly held by the new members of the court prior to their taking office.

Brazel, who has attended all the meetings of the court since it was sworn in and who himself was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for county judge, accused the court of having had secret meetings.

Prior to this outburst, Judge Mitchell had admitted that he and the commissioners, excepting Commissioner Bill Crocker, had met numerous times before taking office.

"I deny that we held any secret meetings. Before taking office, we can meet to discuss problems as often as we wish," said Mitchell.

DREW APPLAUSE
"You are a liar, an absolute liar. All that action Monday was the blind leading the blind — you don't know what you're doing," Brazel's statement drew a round of applause from spectators.

At this point, Commissioner Crocker read some excerpts from last Monday's court action in which Judge Mitchell denied any meetings at all had taken place. This action resulted in a heated exchange between Crocker and the judge until Crocker requested that he be given the floor to speak as his due as a commissioner.

After reading from the transcript, Crocker proceeded to read from Mrs. Palmer's letter. In her letter, Mrs. Palmer said, "I wish to make some happenings of the past known. I have no motive except that the truth be told."

"Early in December, 1970, A. G. Mitchell and Bill Bennett came to my office and told me that I was to be moved to the county barn and be given a comfortable office and a $25 a month raise. I was not happy about the move, but thought that if I would get the raise and the office promised me, I would move.

"On Dec. 9, I was asked to be at Mr. Mitchell's house and bring along my stenography notebook," the letter continued. "Mr. and Mrs. Simon Terrazas, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bennett and Jack Buchanan were present. Mrs. Mitchell and the other ladies retired to another room. The men then began discussing the hiring of Don Carter as a fire chief, purchasing agent and mechanic, the reclassification of road and bridge department jobs, and they discussed rules for the road and bridge department and ordered me to make copies of them.

'SMOOTH' COURT
"At a later date, in my office, Bennett motioned to a copy of the agenda and said: 'I'll present part of this, Sy will present part, and we will give some to Jack. Old Bill Crocker will not even know what's going on.' Judge Mitchell then said that they would have the smoothest running court," according to Mrs. Palmer's letter.

She went on to explain that she later began to doubt that she would receive the promised raise and was reluctant to make the move to the barn. Following a discussion with Mitchell in which he told her if she was not satisfied with her job she should look for another job, Mrs. Palmer wrote, she handed in her resignation.

Mrs. Palmer also stated in her letter that the woman hired as a secretary in the welfare office was interviewed in a back office in the road and bridge office. "I didn't see her again until she reported for work Jan. 4," concluded Mrs. Palmer.

Judge Mitchell then replied that he had a right to answer Mrs. Palmer's letter. He contended that there had been no illegality involved in the meeting held before his taking office, and objected to them being termed secret.

"I have admitted right here in court that we met. There was nothing secret about them," he said.

Judge Mitchell opened the meeting by reading a letter of resignation from Don Carter, newly appointed fire chief, purchasing agent and mechanic. Carter stated his reason for resigning was that he had been offered a position at a higher salary.

The newly created was left vacant but was not formally abolished by the commissioners.

In another reversal of their previous action, the motion dismissing tax evaluator Earl Dean was rescinded and Dean was reinstated. Dean and his attorney, Roger Brown, were present in today's meeting.

The motion setting up the positions of assistant county attorney and a secretary to that post was rescinded unanimously by the court. County Attorney Bill Eysen advised the court that they had the legal right to set up the position, but not to set the salary. Eysen added that the salary stipulated by the statutes would not make the job desirable to anyone, and that the commissioners would be well advised to table the matter.

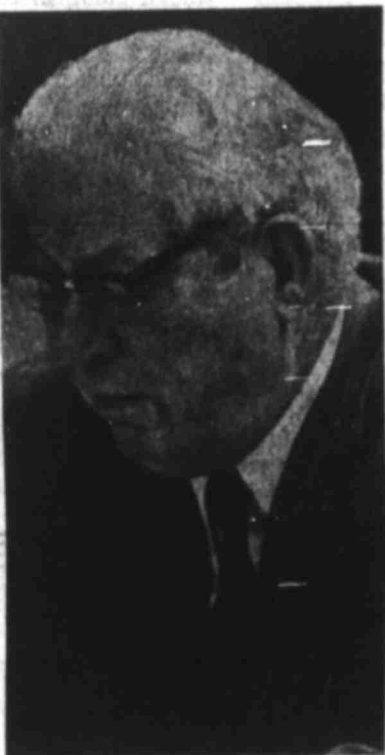

WRITTEN REQUEST

Crocker also moved that the motion to employ a deputy in the Howard County Sheriff's Office be rescinded, and that Sheriff Standard be requested to submit a written request for the additional employee and detail the needs of his office. Sheriff Standard was present in court and agreed to the request.

Tax Burdens On Business To Be Eased

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon may take a personal hand in an expected announcement today that tax burdens on business will be eased—a move aimed at speeding economic expansion.

The only news briefing of the day at the Western White House was scheduled for 3:30 p.m. EST, an unusually late hour coinciding with the closing bell of stock exchanges in New York.

Treasury officials in Washington spent much of Sunday completing drafts of new regulations to grant businesses faster tax writeoffs on amounts they spend on new plant and equipment.

The plan is to permit businesses to deduct more for depreciation of equipment in the earlier years of its use.

In the early hours, the rebels announced they were acting to keep Bolivia from being delivered to "another imperialism as dismal as that of North America." They did not identify it.

Revolt Flops In Bolivia

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — A group of army officers seized the armed forces headquarters in La Paz early today in rebellion against Bolivia's three-month-old leftist military regime. A few hours later President Juan Jose Torres announced the revolt had been crushed.

In a broadcast to the nation, Gen. Torres said some leaders of the coup had taken refuge in foreign embassies—chiefly in the embassy of Peru. The leaders were described as mostly young officers. Torres called them right-wingers and reactionary subversives.

DEFEATS MORAN Handpicked Doc To Cure GOP Ills?

AUSTIN (AP) — Dr. George Willeford, handpicked and endorsed by Sen. John Tower, was elected state Republican chairman today.

The Austin physician defeated Houston industrialist John J. Moran, the only other candidate, for the influential party post.

Both candidates called for a reorganization of the party into a more "aggressive" campaign unit for the 1972 elections.

"We need to shift gears in the 1970s... We need to change the face of the state party," Willeford said.

He called for more aggressive press relations, more participation at the regional and local party level and "more people in the policymaking."

The new chairman replaces William Steger of Tyler, who became a federal judge for East Texas Dec. 29.

SHE OUT-TALKS 'POOR' SKYJACKER

DENVER (AP) — A Trans-World Airlines stewardess talked a man out of a threat to force a New York-Denver flight to divert to Las Vegas.

Linda Barnard, 25, told the pilot of the conversation Sunday. He radioed Denver and when the plane landed there, the FBI arrested Patrick Miranda, 25, of Bound Brook, N.J., and charged him with carrying a gun aboard an aircraft.

Miss Barnard, of Atlanta, said Miranda told her he had to meet somebody in Las Vegas and was going to hijack the aircraft because he only had $2.

Tupamaros Gun Down Detective

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — The Tupamaros urban guerrillas assassinated a detective today and challenged the government to negotiate the release of kidnapped British Ambassador Geoffrey Jackson.

Several Tupamaros opened fire with .45-caliber pistols as detective Jose Leandro Villalba left a bar, police reported. Villalba, off duty, was killed instantly. A note left by the Tupamaros said: "This is how an informer is paid."

Villalba was the 11th policeman killed by Tupamaros since 1966.

Breaking a three-day silence, the Tupamaros announced Sunday night that the British ambassador, kidnapped on Friday, and U.S. agronomist Claude L. Fly and a kidnapped Brazilian diplomat were "in perfect state of health."

In a communique to several Montevideo newspapers, the leftist rebels called on the government "to reconsider its refusal to negotiate" the release of Fly and Brazilian Consul Aloysio Dias Gomide, their captives for five months, and British Ambassador Geoffrey Jackson, who was kidnapped on Friday.

The message came as the Legislative Commission, which acts for Congress when it is not in session, was considering a request by President Jorge Pacheco Areco for a 90-day suspension of civil liberties to help in the search for the captives.

The Tupamaro communique said the rebels were withdrawing their offer to release Fly, 65, of Fort Collins, Colo., if Montevideo's newspapers published an antigovernment proclamation. No new ransom demand was made. The government refused to authorize the publication, although one newspaper published the manifesto last week.

High Court Clears Way For Ali-Frazier Title Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court granted a hearing today to heavyweight fighter Muhammad Ali on his claim that he was entitled to exemption from the draft as a religious conscientious objector.

The court decision, announced in a brief order, clears the way for Ali's fight in March with Joe Frazier for the heavyweight boxing championship.

PRISON TERM
Ali, also known as Cassius Clay, was convicted 3½ years ago for refusing induction into the Army. He claimed he was entitled to an exemption as a Muslim minister.

His conviction carried a five-year sentence, and boxing officials stripped him of the title he had won from Sonny Liston.

HOFFA DEFEAT
In other actions today, the court:

—Rejected an appeal by James R. Hoffa, former Teamster Union president, from his 1964 conviction on pension fraud charges. This means Hoffa faces an additional five years in prison; he is now serving an eight-year sentence for jury tampering.

—Agreed to review an appeals court ruling that customs inspectors must show more than an "aroused suspicion" to order Americans entering this country to submit to a search of their clothing for narcotics.

—Rejected a bid to restore the tax-exempt status of 30 Mississippi private schools involved in a segregation dispute. Had the court turned down Ali's appeal it would have been highly unlikely that the fight with Frazier would have been held.

The bout, scheduled for New York City on March 8, will be the richest in history. Ali made a fight comeback last October scoring a technical knockout over Jerry Quarry and continued with a victory in December over Oscar Bonavena.

In the appeal, Ali's lawyers claimed government wiretaps listened in on his private telephone conversations. The appeal also challenged the validity of orders from what Ali called a "lilywhite" Selective Service System.

'RELIGIOUS'
But, in granting review, the court limited its consideration to the single point whether the government was wrong in characterizing Ali's objections to Army duty as "political and racial" rather than "religious."

Ali is a Negro.

The hearing will be held at a date to be fixed in a few months. The most likely prospect is in April.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr., in a note following the court's order, said he favored hearing the wiretap allegations as well as the conscientious ob-jector issue.

The same note said Justice Thurgood Marshall did not participate in the case.

Marshall is a former chief counsel for the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund. His self-exclusion presumably was based on the fact the appeal was filed by Fund attorneys. This means Marshall will not take part in deciding whether Ali's conviction should stand.

It took the vote of four justices to grant Ali a hearing. Following customary practice, the court did not reveal who these justices are. All that surfaced was that Brennan favored hearing Ali.

THANKS TO TAX CHANGES

Wage Earners Finding Pay Envelopes Fatter

WASHINGTON (AP) — American wage earners are finding their pay envelopes fattened by federal tax law changes which took effect with the New Year.

Single people get some of the largest cuts in federal tax deductions, but almost everybody benefits.

It's all part of the Tax Reform Act of 1969 which reduces taxpayers' burdens by $9 billion over several years starting in 1970. This year's portion, however, — $3.5 billion nationwide — will have the greatest impact.

MONEY TO SPEND

The cuts in the federal tax bite could be tempered in some areas by increased state and local levies. There's also an increase in Social Security taxes — 4.8 to 5.2 per cent this year — meaning someone with a $7,500 taxable income will pay an additional $31.20 in 1971.

But over-all, Americans should have more money to spend in an inflationary economy. Those benefiting the most are the unmarried, the rich and those of low income.

For openers, the standard exemption for individuals and their dependents goes up from $625 to $650 for all of 1971. That means the IRS will be counting on claims of greater exemptions so the paycheck deduction is reduced.

At the lower earning levels, individuals will benefit this year from the second stage of a special "low-income allowance" designed to remove some low-income families from the tax rolls and reduce tax payments for others through a formula which increases allowable deductions.

A tax break is also provided for people who don't itemize deductions — such as some non-homeowners. This year's standard deduction will be 13 per cent or $1,500, whichever is lower, compared to 10 per cent or $1,000 in past year.

Single people, who have in the past been billed up to double the taxes borne by a married couple with the same income, benefit by revised rates which assure they won't pay more than 20 per cent more tax than the couple.

Some help is assured also this year for high-paid individuals whose income is generated by salaries, fees and commissions. Under the old law, they could pay up to 70 per cent for taxable income.

For 1971, the maximum rate is reduced to 60 per cent. It will drop to 50 per cent in 1972.

Oil Interest Spelled Out In Beaumont

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — Agreement by officials of the Mobil Oil Co. refinery here and two labor unions on a new two-year contract was disclosed early today.

Ratification by Oil, Chemical & Atomic Workers Local 423 and International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 590 was reported after meetings which lasted past midnight. About 1,500 members are affected.

Tentative agreement on the contract, following guidelines of other industry settlements, earlier in the evening averted a strike set for midnight.

Management and union spokesmen said the agreement provides for an 8 1/2 per cent pay increase effective Jan. 1, 1971, and 7 1/2 per cent more Jan. 1, 1972, plus one additional holiday and improvements in pensions and hospital-surgical insurance benefits.

The average base pay for oil workers in old contracts was $4.25 per hour.

Negotiators for plant and office groups said there would be no immediate strike at Union 76 Oil Co. as talks broke up Sunday night at Port Arthur. A mediator set another session for today.

PRESIDING OFFICERS OF TEXAS HOUSE AND SENATE AGREE

Legislators Must Boost Sales Tax This Year

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP)—The two young men who preside over the Texas House and Senate agree on one thing: The legislature that meets at noon Tuesday will raise the sales tax.

House Speaker Gus Mutscher, 38, lists a sales tax increase from 3.25 to 4 per cent as one of the "items that can be realistically considered."

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, 32, says he "would be very surprised" if the sales tax is not raised.

Both expect lawmakers to give serious consideration as well to broadening the sales tax base to include some services.

'REALISTIC' TAXES

Mutscher also has on his list of "realistic" taxes a levy on mixed drinks, a state college tuition increase for non-resident students and some kind of business tax, such as a franchise tax boost or a corporate profits tax.

The speaker will be looking at the tax issue first, since the Texas Constitution requires revenue bills to originate in the House.

Mutscher figures about $800 million in new taxes will be needed to cover the two-year appropriations bill.

Barnes said no one has suggested a "magic solution" to the tax crisis, but a few Texans have written or called with this advice about taxes: "Don't raise them."

FAST START

"The only alarm I am sounding is an alarm for knowledgeable help. I want people to come in and testify (on taxes)," Mutscher said.

Both houses probably will get off to an early start on the spending and taxing issues.

Barnes said he would appoint his committees Tuesday, with Finance Committee appropriations hearings starting Wednesday.

Mutscher plans to await Gov. Preston Smith's address to the legislature—expected Jan. 25—before naming committees, but this is earlier than usual.

Temporary rules, administration and appropriations committees already will be in business.

Mutscher opposed a penny-pinching economy stand despite the state's revenue problems. He said there are unmet needs for medical and dental schools.

He "very definitely" wants state employees to get a cost of living pay raise and opposes any cuts in welfare checks.

The two presiding officers indicated in separate interviews they differ on one major issue.

Barnes wants the legislature to submit an amendment eliminating the $80 million annual ceiling on state spending for welfare.

Mutscher said the House probably would want to increase the ceiling, rather than eliminate it. This is what happened in 1969, and the House prevailed.

Barnes said proposals to liberalize abortion laws and reduce marijuana penalties would face tough going in the Senate.

Mutscher said he opposes reducing first-offense marijuana possession from a felony to a misdemeanor, as once proposed by Barnes.

try again to get voters to approve annual legislative sessions. They rejected that in 1969.

Mutscher had a couple of ideas for constitutional amendments. One would boost the size of the Senate from 31 to 39 members to reduce the size of rural Senate districts while giving cities the senators to whom they are entitled. The other would create a state commission to determine legislators' salaries and issue ethical guidelines.

LONG WAY
Mutscher denied speculation he might try to carve out a congressional district for himself during this year's reapportionment.

With Barnes and Smith often at odds over issues, Mutscher said his role is that of moderator.

"I hope I can go a long way in coordinating our programs and toward moderating calculated differences that apparently exist between the other two officers," he said.

On liberalizing abortion laws, Mutscher said he expects the House will keep an "open mind."

The lieutenant governor wants the Senate to study other states' car insurance laws to see if competitive rates would be better than the present uniform state set rates.

He also indicated he would try again to get voters to approve annual legislative sessions. They rejected that in 1969.

Mutscher had a couple of ideas for constitutional amendments. One would boost the size of the Senate from 31 to 39 members to reduce the size of rural Senate districts while giving cities the senators to whom they are entitled. The other would create a state commission to determine legislators' salaries and issue ethical guidelines.

HEY, LOOK AT THE ANIMALS! — A dromedary gazes out — apparently in slack-jawed amazement — Sunday as he looks at all those peculiar two-legged animals on the other side of the bars at New York's Central Park Zoo. Like the camel, many New Yorkers left their heated houses for the outdoors Sunday to enjoy a relatively warm spell.

D.C. Gears Up To Take Step Toward Home Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — One hundred years after the right of self-government was taken away from the capital of the world's pre-eminent democracy, the city is geared up to take a giant step toward a second chance.

District of Columbia residents go to the polls Tuesday to select candidates for nonvoting delegate to the House of Representatives.

While the eventual winner will give the District a voteless voice in the House, Congress will still control the city's purse-strings and the President will still appoint the mayor and the city council. But home-rule advocates say this is an important step in reversing the century-old arrangement.

ONLY WHITE

Running in a race that has no local precedent in modern times, the three leading candidates for the all-important Democratic primary appear timid about straying far from each other on the major issues—crime, freeways, schools and home rule.

The Republican nomination will fall to John A. Nevius, a former city councilman who describes himself as a Rockefeller-Kennedy type. He is the only Republican and the only white man on the ballot. All seven Democrats are black, as is no about 70 per cent of the city's population.

Barring a runoff, the Democratic winner Tuesday will be the clear favorite to win the Capitol Hill job in the March general election, although several expected independent candidates in that contest could disturb that probability. Unless a single candidate gets 40 per cent of the vote, a runoff will be required.

$42,500 SALARY

The job includes a $42,500 annual salary, a suite of Capitol offices and staff, the right to speak on the House floor and offer bills and amendments—but no vote.

200 Protest Gas Transfer On Okinawa

NAHA, Okinawa (AP) — About 200 Okinawans protesting the movement of deadly mustard gas across their island were driven back early today from two U.S. bases.

The demonstrators attacked some hours after American authorities announced a two-day delay in the start of transfer of the gas from storage on Okinawa to Johnston Island, in the mid-Pacific.

More than 100 demonstrators armed with rocks and bamboo poles tried to force their way into a compound in Chibana where some of the gas is stored.

Seventy U.S. Marines blocked another 100 protesters trying to break through the main gate at Camp Hague, on the route over which a convoy was to transport an initial shipment of mustard gas.

One American was reported injured at Chibana.

Movement of the gas was to have begun today but was delayed because of threats by leftists and some villagers to block the shipment.

The 150-ton shipment is the first to be made from a stockpile of 13,000 tons of mustard and nerve gas stored on Okinawa by the United States since World War II. All the gas is to be transferred to Johnston Island, 700 miles southwest of Hawaii, by 1972, when Okinawa is scheduled for return to Japan.

Find 'Old' City

BELGRADE (AP) — The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug says a 3,300-year-old city has been discovered by the River Danube near Loma in northern Bulgaria. Explorers found 54 urns containing the ashes of cremated persons, 38 smaller urns, 70 ceramic knives and scraping tools, arrow heads and other implements.

FIERY CRASH KILLS THREE

Texas Violence: 25

By The Associated Press

Traffic accidents took 17 lives in Texas during the weekend, and the state counted a total of 25 violent deaths.

The fatalities occurred between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday.

Two auto crashes—one near Needville in Fort Bend County and the other on a San Antonio freeway—each killed three motorists.

Three youths died as two cars smashed together head-on at an intersection of county roads close to Needville, southwest of Houston. They were Terry Barber, 22, of Grand Prairie; Ernest Barcak, 17, of Beasley; and Curtis Kueck, 17, of Rosenberg.

The accident sent Franeigie Lyl Drdecka, 16, of Rosenberg to a Houston hospital in critical condition.

DIE VIOLENTLY

In the fiery crash at San Antonio, three members of one family were killed late Saturday night and two other persons were injured, all from Boerne. One vehicle was moving the wrong direction on divided Interstate 10. The dead were Edward Kulla, 43; his wife Marquene, 42; and their daughter Karen, 18.

These were among the others who died violently: Billy Joe Frizzell, 38, of Houston was killed Sunday night and two other persons injured in a car-pickup truck collision on a north Harris County road.

Kenneth Fred Phifer, 47, of Comanche died Sunday of injuries suffered Saturday night in a two-car crash 10 miles east of Comanche on U.S. 377. Four other persons were injured.

FATALLY STABBED

Austin James Dillon, 62, was shot to death early Sunday in the parking lot of the East Houston lounge he operated. Witnesses said Dillon was attempting to break up a fight.

Robert F. Keith, 43, was fatally stabbed late Saturday night in another Houston lounge. Police charged Glenzo Meeks, 19, with murder.

A head-on collision four miles south of Rockport on Texas 35 early Sunday killed James Grumbles, 27, of Corpus Christi. Two other persons suffered injuries.

Antonio Ramirez, 22, was injured early Sunday when a car struck him on a Robstown street. Police said the driver did not stop and he was being sought.

Both drivers died as a station wagon and a car collided Saturday evening on a Texas 24 bridge spanning Lake Bridgeport in North Texas. The victims were Basil H. Curry, 70, of Runaway Bay, whose station wagon first hit a bridge railing, and William K. Kuykendall, 66, of Bridgeport. Kuykendall's wife was injured critically.

NO BRIDGE

Ruby Washington, 33, of Corpus Christi drowned late Sunday night when a car ran off a lift bridge .6 mile northwest of the city and plunged into a ship turning basin. The bridge was being raised to let a barge pass.

Boggs Pros Claim Leadership Victory

WASHINGTON (AP) — The liberal vote associated with the liberal Democratic Study Group was divided between Udall and James G. O'Hara of Michigan.

The DSG support is expected to coalesce behind one of these — presumably Udall — at some point in the balloting.

Boggs strategists now claim 116 votes pledged, with a better than even chance of picking up the additional 12 needed from among 48 uncommitted Democrats.

But they are also angling for second-choice votes among supporters of B.F. Sisk of California, Wayne L. Hays of Ohio and Edward P. Boland of Massachusetts.

Boggs, an organization Democrat with a voting record liberal by Southern standards, launched a campaign based on Southern support plus a broad appeal to urban moderates.

Sisk's candidacy was backed, however, by some old-line Southerners who consider Boggs regionally unorthodox. But Sisk does not appear to have attracted wide support.

He Will Ask Dies To Extend Vote Registration Date

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A lawyer who headed a successful court fight against Texas' annual voter registration system says he will ask Secretary of State Martin Dies Jr. to extend the registration deadline.

A three-judge federal panel in Houston declared the annual registration system and the Jan. 31 deadline unconstitutional last week.

Dies, Texas' chief election officer, said he was confident the new legislature will pass a law meeting the requirements set out by the court. But he mentioned nothing of changing this year's deadline.

Corpus Christi lawyer Yaney White, here over the weekend for a meeting, said he will ask Dies to extend the cutoff date to the end of the upcoming session. That would be May 31.

Capt. Medina Hearing Ends

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — The Army has finished closed hearings that will determine whether Capt. Ernest Medina will be court-martialed on charges that include responsibility for any civilian deaths at My Lai.

The last of the lengthy hearings was held at Ft. McPherson Sunday. Those who appeared were Medina, his lawyers and four former members of Charlie Company, which he commanded.

Ten former Charlie Company soldiers testified Saturday when the hearing began.

Medina commanded the company when it conducted an assault on the village of My Lai March 16, 1968.

Swartz Named To Board Of Industrial Foundation

Members of the Big Spring Industrial Foundation holding their annual membership meeting this morning elected Adolph Swartz to the BSIF board of directors, ratifying a mail-in proxy election in which Swartz received all but one vote.

Don Womack, concluding his one-year term as director and president of the board, reported on the foundation's activities during the year and the year-end financial statement.

Income for the year included

$68,984.83 in pledge payments from Foundation members.

$1,156.03 in oil royalties on BSIF lands, $12,000 in property rentals from Intech, and other income bringing the total to $82,295.97. The sale of land from the industrial site east of Cosden brought in $1,500. Operating expenses and expenses involved in conferring with potential industrial developers totaled $5,569.74, leaving a net $78,326.23 income available for retirement of a portion of the $271,000 in outstanding bonds issued for industrial development.

Womack reported that the board at a meeting Thursday established a sale price of $37,500 for the industrial site east of Cosden and voted to place $43,000 in certificates of deposit, distributed among five institutions: First National Bank, State National Bank, Security State Bank, First Federal Savings and Loan, and Big Spring Savings Association.

The executive committee of the Industrial Foundation, he reported, met Saturday to negotiate with representatives of a mobile home manufacturer who are considering establishing a manufacturing plant here. Womack added that the company has outlined its requirements, mainly in the form of financial backing by the local lending institutions, and the executive committee is seeing if the requirements can be met.

In other business, a request from Ross Burnett for rental of the IS 20 east property for cattle grazing was declined. The members felt they could not tie up the property, which is being offered for sale.

After the membership meeting adjourned, a meeting of the new board of directors was called to elect officers. On a motion from Marvin Miller, Ken V. Perry was elected president, Adolph Swartz was elected vice president, and John Currie was re-elected treasurer. Chamber of Commerce Manager Tom Eastland will continue to serve as ex-officio secretary of the executive board.

Don Womack was asked to continue working with the board, especially in areas of industrial development, now that his term of office is up. The members voted to have Womack serve as official liaison officer with the Industrial Team of the Chamber of Commerce.

Of the five directors, Miller and Perry are to serve until the end of 1971. Currie and Winston Winkle will continue through 1972, and Swartz will continue through 1973.

The directors then went into executive session to discuss negotiations on the mobile home industrial prospect.

WOMEN'S POWDER ROOM BACK OF SENATE GILT-EDGED

Plush New Chambers For Texas Solons

AUSTIN (AP) — Legislators have found they have new or refurbished offices plus remodeled Senate and House chambers.

They also found electricians, carpenters, painters and carpet layers scurrying about, finishing up.

Workmen hurried to get large rolls of carpeting and furniture from the hallways and to clear the dust from the chambers before the members themselves begin creating and stirring a little dust of their own.

Each of the 31 senators now has his own private office with a separate reception room for his staff.

About 100 representatives fared as well as the senators, getting private offices for the first time. The 49 others had to be happy with two-man offices.

The new look for the interior of the 82-year-old Capitol was made possible by the 1969 legislature, which appropriated $500,- 000 each to the House and Senate.

Published reports show that the low contract bid for the work was $1,154,902 but projects added after the contract was signed pushed the final total to almost $1.5 million.

H. R. Nieman Jr., State Building Commission director, said his office was given $1.5 million to refurbish the interior, so there is enough money to foot the bills. This money is in addition to the House and Senate contingency funds, which are also used for remodeling, Nieman said. The $1.5 million was split equally between the two chambers, Nieman said.

WILL BE READY
All offices and the two chambers will be ready when the gavel raps Tuesday, said the two legislators overseeing the work.

"We're absolutely in good shape," Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth, chairman of the House Administration Committee, said late last week. "Each legislator has had an office assigned to him."

Sen. Jack Hightower of Vernon, chairman of the Senate Contingent Expense Committee, concurred.

"We're going to have all offices complete, along with the Senate chamber itself," he said. "I spent two days in Austin trying to push and tug and it's going to be a squeaker."

As Hightower spoke from his law office in Vernon, his secretary in his Capitol office was keeping one eye on her desk and one on the scaffolding above her as an electrician worked in the ceiling.

EXTRA SPENDING
Hightower said the overrun in construction costs was expected. "We knew in the beginning we could not get all of the work done," he said. "We had the architect do part of it and then let a contractor. Other contractors were let as add-ons."

He said whatever extra money had to be spent on the refurbishing of the Senate portion would come out of that body's contingent fund.

The add-ons came as workmen encountered pipes, wiring and other obstacles which did not show up in the blueprints. Extra steel beams had to be added where blueprints showed beams to exist but none were found.

GUESS WHO PAID?
The taxpayer paid for 14 new offices for senators, two committee rooms and 42 new offices for House members, plus completely refurbished quarters for the legislative reference library and the Legislative Budget Board.

The Senate chamber got deep blue carpeting. The House chamber was carpeted a few years ago in gold.

The House decided to soften the blow of spending the public's money by installing gold carpeting in its gallery where spectators and lobbyists sit.

The Senate picked up space for its 14 offices when the comptroller moved from the east wing of the Capitol to the Finance Building. The state treasurer moved there also, making room for 30 House offices.

The basement, now known as the ground floor, had its plastered walls paneled, tile floors carpeted in gold and ceiling tile installed to make way for legislative and departmental offices.

Although the legislative offices are complete, Shannon said, other departments' offices are not, so House members will have to hear the pounding of the carpenter's hammer as well as the speaker's gavel in weeks to come.

One of the more lavish spots, reliable sources say, is the women's powder room back of the Senate. This will be used by the Senate's only female member, Sen. Barbara Jordan of Houston, and female legislative employees. The room is not accessible to the public.

City Fathers To Consider Mobile Home Ordinance

The city commission Tuesday will consider a mobile home ordinance that has been revised and recommended by the planning and zoning board after sessions that gave owners of existing mobile home parks an opportunity to suggest changes.

Working from the draft prepared by Public Works Director Nolen Chafin with suggestions from city planner Marvin Springer, board members arrived at a version that "reflects not only their input but those of many existing mobile home park owners of Big Spring," according to Bill Sheppard, planning and zoning chairman.

The new draft of the proposed ordinance is equipped with an emergency clause, so the commission has the option of approving it at one sitting.

CHANGES

A recent change eliminates the sections requiring the services of a registered professional engineer in the planning stages of a mobile home park development. Also eliminated are building restrictions on service buildings and other community service facilities within a mobile home park, and requirements for inspection of each mobile home park at least once a year.

Minimum setback distances from public streets were left unchanged, but height restrictions were deleted and spacing requirements were replaced by a clause setting a maximum mobile home density of eight per gross acre.

LIGHTING

Vague language in the lighting requirement was replaced by a section reading, "Adequate lighting shall be provided to illuminate all streets, driveways, and walkways to assure safe movement of vehicles and pedestrians between the hours of sunset and sunrise," with a minimum illumination level of 0.2 foot-candles.

The license renewal fee for mobile home park operators was reduced to $25 annually, instead of $50 plus a dollar for each mobile home or travel trailer stand.

Section 15-38, as rewritten, specifies which of the mobile home park requirements apply to existing parks and how long a park owner has to comply with each requirement.

Engineering designs, permits, and permit fees are to apply only to extensions or changes made in existing parks. Plot plans of existing parks are to be turned into the director of public works within 120 days after the ordinance goes into effect. Density requirements and a section requiring ground cover that prevents blowing dust are to apply within a year.

THREE YEARS

Owners of existing parks are to be given three years to comply with setback requirements that affect health, safety, and fire protection, and to comply with traffic circulation requirements.

Licensing, drainage, water, sewerage, electricity, refuse handling, insect and rodent control, and fire protection requirements are to be effective immediately for existing parks.

A phrase limiting the applicability of the ordinance to privately owned travel trailer parks was deleted, so that public and private camper parks are to be covered by the restrictions.

SERGEANT SUTTON Book Vividly Tells Story Of Marine

SERGEANT SUTTON, by Robert E. Ford; Hawthorn, 70 Fifth Ave., New York, 75¢.

Take a mild-mannered kid off an Oklahoma farm and shove him into the midst of amphibious assaults, withering fire on remote South Pacific islands and see how a U.S. Marine reacts to his unnatural environment.

Robert E. Ford, who is the veteran state editor for the Associated Press at Dallas, has written a saga of one man's repeated rendezvous with death. "Sgt. Sutton" is graphically told with all the earthiness of the corps, yet with no conscious resort to blue language. Told through a reporter's eyes and in a reporter's crisp, moving style, the book is one that anyone will find difficult to put down. It is one that will track with fidelity the memories of any man who was there.

Ford makes no effort at a complicated plot. "Sgt. Sutton" is the story of a Marine sergeant who saw his Dog company dwindle to less than a handful in the face of repeated thrusts into the teeth of the enemy, and who in the end had nothing left except the instinct, as Kipling said, to fight on.

This is a story of action. Ford's descriptive passages make it come alive in vivid detail, but this is the chronicle of Bill Sutton in action. There's not a dull spot as the narrative unfolds to reveal a glimpse of what makes a fighting man tick. Ford served as a first lieutenant with the Marines in the South Pacific, and his story is in effect an unromanticized, hard-hitting eye-witness account. There's no substitute for that.—JP

Oil Price Investigation Welcome, Oilman Says

In a series of letters to congressional and governmental officials opposing an increase in the price of crude oil, Ed Thompson, Midland, executive secretary of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association, said Saturday that PBPA welcomed an investigation of oil prices.

"We are sure that an investigation can only show that the price of domestic crude oil has been too low to create incentives for further exploration," said Thompson. "Both crude oil and natural gas well-head prices have been a deterrent to many staying in this risky business. In turn, this only adds to the problem of finding additional needed reserves, which, unless found and developed, will create still higher prices."

Thompson pointed out that the independent had no say in fixing prices and was dependent upon the majors for marketing. It is a fallacy, he said, to couple the price of gasoline with that of crude oil as witness a two-cent raise in 1970 before the crude oil price was advanced 25 cents a barrel. Labor costs have gone up 36 per cent, and even Congress raised its pay 41 per cent, Thompson noted, so why not a small increase for crude oil?

He addressed letters to Sen. William Proxmire, Sen. Vance Hartke, Sen. Philip A. Hart and to George A. Lincoln, director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness.

Suggests Abortion Be Retroactive

NORTHWOOD, N. D. (AP) — One North Dakota weekly newspaper publisher is pushing for a retroactive clause in any law proposing "open" abortion in the state.

Under a heading, "Let's Make It Retroactive," publisher Truman C. Wold of the Northwood Gleaner had this to say:

"This newspaper stands on the proposition that any legislator supporting the legalizing of open abortions should be willing to become a victim of the same human extermination process."

POW WIFE TO RUN FOR CITY COUNCIL — Mrs. Jerry Baker, right, 33, wife of an Air Force prisoner of war held by the North Vietnamese the past three and a half years, confirmed she will seek election to the City Council in San Antonio in April as an independent candidate. At left is her son, Michael, 11, and daughter, Melissa, 13.

Southwestern Exposition Has Four Howard Entrants

The 1971 edition of the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show in Fort Worth will unfold Jan. 29 through Feb. 7 with excitement, thrills and seriousness joined together as a fitting tribute to the 75th Diamond Anniversary.

At least four Howard County residents will be taking part in the stock show, according to Jim Allison, assistant county agent.

Maxwell Barr, Jill Hunt and Mary Kay Hunt will have Charolais cross steers in the junior stock show. Richie Tubb will enter three Hereford steers in the open stock show.

The exposition continues to grow bigger and better with each passing year, and is recognized as one of the top five livestock shows in the country. The rodeo is the oldest and largest indoor event of its type in the world.

In 1912 one youngster rode horseback across Fort Worth to the Northside Coliseum. He entered the show and captured a blue ribbon in the children's horse show class. That youngster today is a prominent rancher who annually directs the Southwestern Exposition. He is W. R. Watt, stock show president and manager.

Watt looks with justifiable pride on the improvements to the exposition's physical plant during his administration. In 1946, the stock show's golden anniversary year, he was named president. At that time the only buildings on the show grounds were the Will Rogers Memorial Auditorium and Coliseum, plus one exhibit building.

Major improvements since then have included 14 livestock barns, a multipurpose Hall of Commerce exhibits building, a new cafeteria, the stock show office building, and heating and air conditioning of both the coliseum and the Hall of Commerce.

This year, along with two additional blocks of parking facilities, the show will premier the Children's Barnyard, an educational exhibit showing mother and baby farm animals in natural surroundings. The barnyard will be housed in a new building between the swine and sheep barns. It will be coordinated by members of the Texas Future Farmers of America.

In traditional manner, the exposition will begin with a 2 p.m. All-Western Parade through downtown Fort Worth. Show grounds will open at 4 p.m. for the 10-day run.

Highlights of the livestock show will include selection of the grand champion steer at 10 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 3, and the sale of champions at 9 a.m. Friday, Feb. 5.

All major breeds of beef cattle will be exhibited, including Angus, Brahman, Charolais, Hereford, Polled Hereford, Red Angus, Santa Gertrudis and Shorthorn. Also exhibited will be outstanding classes of sheep, swine, dairy cattle, poultry, rabbits and pigeons.

The horse show will give fanciers a look at top Arabians, Gaited show horses, Appaloosas, Galicenos, Palominos, Paints, Pony of the Americas and Quarter horses. Several horse show events will be judged during the stock show rodeo.

Rodeo action will feature the five major events plus an exciting new challenge, the Wild Horse Race. Top professional cowboys and challengers will be seeking to share in the over $80,000 in rodeo prize and entry fee money.

Over-all premiums for the 1971 stock show and rodeo are more than $240,000, including an increase of $4,000 in the beef carcass contest.

Astros Begin 21-Day Medical Isolation

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 14 astronauts today began a 21-day period of preflight medical isolation to minimize exposure to disease or illness such as the measles contact which forced a late substitution in the Apollo 13 crew last year.

Astronauts Alan B. Shepard Jr., Stuart A. Roosa and Edgar D. Mitchell and their backup crew generally will be restricted to three areas of the Kennedy Space Center. These are the crew living quarters, the training building and the launch pad.

WERE EXPOSED

They also will make one or two trips to nearby Patrick Air Force Base for practice flying in jet airplanes. Movements from one point to another will be watched carefully so the astronauts do not contact unauthorized personnel.

The Apollo 14 launching is scheduled Jan. 31 with Shepard and Mitchell to attempt a landing in the moon's Fra Mauro Highlands to search for ancient lunar soil.

Last April all three Apollo 13 astronauts were exposed to German measles a few days before launch. James A. Lovell Jr. and Fred W. Haise Jr. were found to be immune, but Thomas K. Mattingly was not and he was replaced hours before the launch by backup command module pilot John L. Swigert.

The isolation that went into effect today was the result. During the 21 days, only 112 persons will be authorized to work directly with the astronauts, compared with about 800 on earlier Apollo flights.

Most of the 112 will have only minimal association with the crew, some none at all unless necessary.

PRIME CONTACTS

These prime contacts all have provided detailed medical histories, submitted to extensive physical exams and have been immunized against 10 common diseases, as have the astronauts.

School officials and physicians in the Cape Kennedy area have been given a list of the 112 persons and their families to help detect any potential disease carrier.

The wives of the astronauts will be allowed to visit, if not ill, but their children will be prohibited from direct access because of the prevalence of childhood diseases in schools.

The children will be able to talk with their fathers through a glass partition as the spacemen sit in a newly built isolation booth. This booth, equipped with an intercom system, also will be used for discussions with lunar scientists and others apart from the 112 primary contacts.

More than $160,000 has been spent to place new air filtration units in the living quarters and in the training building, where the astronauts rehearse in spacecraft simulators. The filters are the type used in operating rooms and other critical areas in hospitals.

Apollo Mission Director Chester M. Lee said: "We are going to have a medical officer on duty 24 hours, not only for the crew, but also for any of the primary contacts who feel they may have been exposed to anything that might transmit to the crew."

Spain Attracts

MADRID (AP) — The government says a record 24,099,791 tourists came to Spain last year, an increase of 11.2 per cent over 1969. They spent $1.5 billion, 25 per cent more than the previous year.

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

DEAR ABBY: I wish you'd say something about a problem I am sure many share.

Grandma loves to knit and crochet, so she gives her handiwork to members of the family as Christmas gifts. Unfortunately she never asks anyone's size, she just "guesses" and some of her creations are a fright. One grandson received a sweater which was unbelievably short. ("I ran out of thread on this one.") A nephew got a scarf which was no less than six yards long! ("Just keep wrapping it around your neck.")

The colors she uses are atrocious and the styles are from 40 years ago.

We wouldn't hurt Grandma's feelings for the world, so we just graciously accept her gifts, and put them away. But the problem arises when Grandma asks the younger children if they ever wear her presents. What should they say?

DEAR ABBY: As parents of a two-year-old boy, we are somewhat concerned about the following situation. We have a nephew (around 30 years old) who is a homosexual. This isn't just hearsay. He's a fine, talented, very nice person, but he just happens to be a homosexual. Do you think we should ever let him alone with our son? Or would it be dangerous?

DEAR CONCERNED: A homosexual is no more likely to molest a child than a heterosexual (or "normal") person.

DEAR ABBY: I want to cry when I read letters from women who complain that they are always "tired," and think their husbands are too demanding when it comes to sex.

I had a husband who loved me dearly, and although I loved him, too, I am sorry to say that I wasn't as loving and cooperative as I might have been. (I was somewhat "frigid.") I wasn't a "bad" wife, but I was "tired" most of the time, and must have been a great disappointment to my dear and patient husband all those years. After my husband died, I had a thorough physical checkup and found out that I was terribly anemic and had a long list of other physical deficiencies. No wonder I was always tired! I am now taking medication to correct my condition, and as I told my doctor, if I had done this 20 years ago, I would have made my husband much happier.

Abby, please tell these chronically tired women to seek medical help at once, so they will never have the regrets I now have. Don't use my hometown, as someone might recognize this weeping widow. Sign me . . . "TOO LATE"

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069.

A Devotion For Today . . .

Let them that suffer . . . commit the keeping of their souls to him in well doing, as unto a faithful Creator. (1 Peter, 4:19)

PRAYER: Merciful and gracious Lord, in the midst of pain we take a long look at the cross. It would be easier if life's afflictions might be relieved — or would it? Give us the assurance of Thy abiding presence which enables us to overcome. Give us love and understanding for those who endure travail. Bless all who suffer. Amen.

New Escape Clause

The fault, dear Brutus, lies not in our stars, but in ourselves . . . (Julius Caesar, Act One)

If there is one thing we're always looking for it is someone or something, out there, to blame for our problems, predicaments, failures, sins of omission and commission, and streaks of general cussedness.

For some, the positions of the planets at their birth has been a fascinating cop-out. But now Dr. Walter Toman has provided a much more scientific one: Birth order.

Toman, professor of psychology at both Brandeis University and at the University of Elanzen-Nuremberg in West Germany, writes in "Psychology Today":

"It is possible on the basis of very little factual information to describe a person's major personality characteristics and those of his friends and lovers, the likelihood of stability in his marriage, what he is like at work, his politics and probably his political philosophy."

He refers to the person's position in the family, whether he has brothers or sisters or both, and the loss of an important family member during early childhood.

Toman's theory is based on the premise that, while parents are important, the principal ingredient in determining the personality of a child is his siblings.

The oldest brother of brothers is "aggressive, assertive, in control most of the time." The youngest is "capricious, willful and sometimes petulant . . . daring, imaginative."

The oldest brothers of sisters — adores women — as friends, colleagues, lovers, wife. The youngest sister of brothers is "feminine, friendly, kind, tactful, submissive." The youngest sister of sisters is a "charming chameleon."

For a stable marriage, an older brother of a sister should marry the younger sister of a brother; a younger brother of sisters would be happy with an older sister of brothers.

But woe betide the youngest brother of brothers who marries the youngest sister of sisters!

At any rate, here is a nice, new escape clause: It is not only the fault of Mom and Dad but all those brothers and sisters! Do you follow us? Or do you have a feeling you need a liver pill?

Just To Keep Us Humble

The Big Thinkers keep us humble and that's a blessing.

We aren't prepared to be as humble as Robert McCracken, who's only an assistant professor of anthropology in California, is trying to make us, though.

McCracken said man is not the end product of evolution; that man is already obsolescent; that he is about to be overcome by "social evolution" wherein storage and accessibility of information expands to the point where "someday machines will treat us as pets."

This assistant professor starts with the premise that evolution depends upon storage and retrieval of information. There is enough support for his theory to make us wonder, and there's enough reaction in us to propose that somewhere there has to be someone to pull The Plug on that machine.

David Lawrence Many Will Remain In Vietnam

WASHINGTON — Will the war in Vietnam really "end" for the United States in 1971 or 1972 or even within the next 10 years?

While much emphasis has been placed on "withdrawal" of American troops, the underlying facts about America's continued presence in South Vietnam to protect the independence of that small country, for which so many sacrifices have been made, are not widely understood.

The United States plans to withdraw its "ground combat" troops, but it intends to leave forces which will supply air and artillery support, logistics and security. The United States has maintained some divisions in South Korea under the auspices of the United Nations since 1953, and undoubtedly this has prevented the outbreak of another war in that area.

SECRETARY OF Defense Melvin Laird has just said that most U.S. troops "with combat responsibility" will be withdrawn by the first of May and that those who will remain will be "assigned security roles." They will be available to deal with emergency situations which might arise to threaten the safety of American personnel. President Nixon in his recent television conference with newsmen declared:

"I have no desire to resume the bombing of North Vietnam. We do not want to go back to the bombing if the strategic targets in North Vietnam, and we do not want even to bomb military targets unless it becomes necessary to do so, and this is the key point — to protect American forces . . ."

"WE MUST realize, however, as Secretary Rogers pointed out in his news conference at the State Department a few days ago, that in May of this year, most American combat forces, ground combat forces, will have been withdrawn from Vietnam. But there will still be 290,000 there left to withdraw."

"NOW, THE President of the United States, as commander-in-chief, holds a responsibility to those men to see that they are not subjected to an overwhelming attack from the North. That is why we must continue reconnaissance, and that is why also, if the enemy at a time we are trying to de-escalate, at a time we are withdrawing, starts to build up its infiltration, starts moving troops and supplies through the Mu Gia pass and the other passes, then I, as commander-in-chief, will have to order bombing strikes on those key areas."

THE ANNOUNCED policy of the President refers, of course, to all American forces in Vietnam and not just to the combat troops which are in process of being withdrawn. If, for example, 40,000 or 50,000 servicemen are on duty in South Vietnam for the next several years, it will be the President's obligation to protect them against attacks that might be launched from the North.

It undoubtedly will sooner or later dawn on the North Vietnamese that the United States is not going to get out of Vietnam altogether, as it is questionable whether any peace agreement will ever be reached at Paris. The Hanoi government is bound to wait until after American troop withdrawals have been virtually completed before a renewed effort is made to take over South Vietnam. Then will come the real test of "Vietnamization."

MILITARY MEN and administration officials generally are confident that the South Vietnamese are becoming strong enough to withstand any aggressor who may launch ground attacks. If the South Vietnamese have difficulty in resisting successfully, the United States would have to decide whether it should bomb bases north of the demilitarized zone in order to protect its own troops remaining in South Vietnam as well as the army developed by the Saigon government.

A TELLING BLOW

John Cunniff More Positive Data In Credit Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — As our credit society enlarges—120 million Americans now have charge accounts—the efficiency and reliability of credit reporting agencies may be improving, but a basic record-keeping flaw remains.

This defect, although said by credit executives to be infinitesimally small compared to the size of credit data systems, does threaten the names of credit users and the credibility of the industry itself.

Derogatory information, it seems, still may repose in the files of credit checkers even though the situation that led to the adverse report was without merit or has been corrected or adjudicated in favor of the individual.

Ironically, for an industry whose past is badly marred by inefficiency, the blame for this situation rests as much with the nation's many governmental units as it does with the industry. Much more so, industry officials say.

The flaw is this: The filing of a suit or a lien is clearly indexed and available as a public record from the courts. But the disposition, if recorded at all, is often much more difficult to find.

As a result, nuisance actions against individuals may wind up in their credit files and even cause them to lose privileges available to others, even though the actions were decided in their favor or dropped.

"This is the biggest single problem of the industry, the biggest source of complaints we have," says Edward Brennan, vice president and general manager of the largest computerized credit reporting service in the country.

"Court records are in a mess," said Brennan. "There is no penalty in many states for not recording the disposition of a case. If a charge is dropped, many times there may be nothing done to indicate it."

Despite this serious flaw Brennan, who runs TRW Credit Data, an amazing operation that maintains updated credit files on 30 million Americans and 120 million separate charge accounts, believes better days are ahead for credit users.

The industry, he observed, as he awaited the annual meeting here of the National Association of Retail Merchants, is in the process of consolidating many small and inefficient credit bureaus into about five large units highly regulated by the Fair Credit Reporting Act.

Individuals now are assured the right to correct their files if they fell inaccurate information is being maintained. And, Brennan says, the concept of positive information is now becoming established.

Originally, local credit bureaus felt their job was to record negative information. An individual with a record of steady, on-time payments conceivably might have not record at all to prove his creditworthiness.

Moreover, if a person moved to another section of the country he might have to begin all over again to establish his credit. And that credit, for no reason that needed to be explained to him, might have been arbitrarily denied.

The professionalization of the industry now appears under way. Files are being maintained by computer on a national basis, include more positive data, and may be referred to in seconds rather than days.

TRW has now consolidated the credit files of thousands of banks, savings and loan associations, department stores, finance companies and others. It claims, in fact, to maintain at Anaheim, Calif., the largest data base on individuals aside from the U.S. Government, and is capable of checking a record in nine seconds upon being provided the name, address and Social Security number.

Hal Boyle Learn To Like Yourself

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

If you want to avoid becoming a delinquent, learn to like yourself. Psychologists have found that a lack of self-esteem, a feeling of being bad and worthless, often lead an individual to rebel against the rules of society and become delinquent.

There is no reason for blind worship of the efficiency of machines. It has been figured that it would take 100 clerks working for 100 years to make a mistake as monumental as a single computer can make in a thousandth of a second.

Half of America's industrial employees work under conditions so noisy they risk damaged hearing, the Stanford Research Institute estimates. But all attempts to make a hush-hush world don't succeed. Example: an attempt to market a quieter vacuum cleaner failed because housewives felt that lack of noise indicated lack of power.

Keep living: A child born in the United States today can look forward to living 70½ years—a record level. In 1900 an infant had an average life expectancy of 48 years. Many people may ask whether life is worth living, but most of them hang on to it as long as possible—if only in the hope that it will get better.

Maternal Pachyderm: Female elephants are good mothers and don't believe in spoiling the child by sparing the rod. When her baby—which weighs 200 pounds at birth—gets too mischievous, the mother elephant uproots a bush or plucks a tree branch and whacks it across the back sternly—just as human mothers used to do.

Worth remembering: "The best way to get a woman's undivided attention is to tell her something that is none of her business."

Those good old days: In 1902 all U.S. government taxes—federal, state and local—came to only $17 per person.

Mr. Little and Mr. Big: Who were the lightest and heaviest U.S. presidents? The lightest at 100 pounds was James Madison, who was only 5 feet 4. The heaviest was 6-foot William Howard Taft who, at 340 pounds, weighed nearly 3½ times as much as Madison.

To Your Good Health Had TB Years Ago; Should She Baby-Sit?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it advisable for a person who had tuberculosis 13 years ago and is being regularly checked every six months to be a baby-sitter for two children?

If the answer is no, I would like to know why. I am a middle-aged housewife with a child of my own, aged 5.

I have a feeling that a lot of people in our church circle think twice about including us in social events because of our handicap. They still feel I may give them TB germs. Is this possible as long as I am checked periodically? — S.S.

We've come such a long way in treating TB that there's a tendency to be a bit careless about it sometimes. And yet it remains so prevalent that we can't afford to take any needless chances.

I commend you for doing what every former TB patient ought to do: Be checked every six months.

With such regular checks (an X-ray that shows no changes and a negative sputum test — showing no TB germs in the sputum) you are no hazard to anyone else, including, of course, the children with whom you baby-sit.

As a matter of fact, you are a safer baby-sitter than the average sitter, because there is always the possibility that somebody else may have an active, yet undetected, case of TB. You, on the contrary, know from your regular tests that you do not have an active case, hence do not have germs that can be given to others.

That is a fact well known to doctors who are trying to cut down the number of new cases. TB is not spread by former TB patients whose regular checks show them to be safe. It is spread by people who have developed the disease but don't yet know it!

(Of course there is no excuse for a person who knows he has TB and still gives it to others — the occasional person who walks out of a hospital before he is told that it is safe for him to do so. Such people are walking bombs. Every time they cough or sneeze, or even just breathe, they carry the risk of infecting someone else.)

The person who has been tested is a safe person; the one who hasn't had regular checks — that's the one you don't know about.

As to your being left out of social events — are you unduly conscious of your past history? Or how come the church people know so much about you? Have you talked too much about your illness of 13 years ago? Or do you live in a small community where everybody knows about everybody else?

I suggest that if you just keep on with your checks every six months and say nothing about the TB you once had, matters will settle down to normal.

Mononucleosis is primarily a disease of young people. To learn more about it, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald for a copy of the booklet, "Mononucleosis," enclosing with your request a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Around The Rim Top Prizes Of The Year

I read that a group of Iowans have decided to name a native son the Incredible Man of the Year award winner for his contributions to state government — the chief of which was his decision not to run for governor.

Other prizes handed out by the enterprising group included:

Get Out of Vietnam Award — To President Richard M. Nixon for his work in getting us out of Vietnam . . . and into Laos and Cambodia.

JACK BENNY Philanthropy Award — To Michael Brody Jr., the Jelke Margarine heir, for promising to give away $23 million (which he obviously didn't have) and then not doing it.

Zsa Zsa Gabor Social Work Award — To Dean Martin for giving his lady love $500,000 to break off their engagement.

Women's Liberation Award — To Martha Mitchell for her efforts in demonstrating the need for upgrading the education of women.

Mediocrity Award — To G. Harrold Carswell for being so mediocre that he even made the U.S. Senate feel superior.

GIVE THE Kid What He Wants Award — To South Vietnamese Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky, for his offer to lead the next commando raid to rescue American prisoners behind enemy lines.

I think Texans should join hands with Iowans and hand out a few laurel wreaths of their own. Surely there are enough candidates in this great state. Here are a few which come to mind:

The John D. Rockefeller Award — To those $7,500-a-year chaps who rallied the citizenry to donate toward a fund that would supply a new car for a $35,000 college coach who finished with an 8-2 won-lost record.

THE OSCAR Acting Award — To members of the Texas Legislature, who appealed to the voters that they need a pay raise to supplement that hefty monetary allowance they get just for answering roll call in Austin.

The Pork Barrel Award — To that central Texas county judge who campaigned successfully for a $4,000-a-year pay raise by arguing that it wouldn't cost the taxpayers anything.

THE GOOD Samaritan Award — To the citizens and civic leaders of Dallas, for giving the NFL Cowboys to the city of Irving.

The Beatles Award — To farmer Joe Giotz, for expressing concern over his community's future because no one had threatened to stage a rock festival there.

Marquis Childs Nixon: Something For Everybody

By WILLIAM S. WHITE
(Substituting for Marquis Childs)

WASHINGTON — In his choice of high policies, Richard Nixon has set the pendulum swinging widely — one almost might say wildly — for the second half of his term. The fact is that the White House palace guard itself is confused and divided as to where — or whether — the administration will finally come to rest in some fixed position in ideological terms.

The President is giving something to everybody (though it does not follow that every gift has an equivalent value) and his advisers are perforce resorting to the comfortably blanket word "pragmatic" to describe what their chief is now about.

SPECIFICALLY, the President is preparing with his right hand to increase rather than to reduce the nation's military budget and its defense capability. This will enormously please the mostly conservative bipartisan coalition which in the old Congress had to fight famous battles with the new isolationists and neo-pacifists.

With his left hand, however, Mr. Nixon is preparing to push domestic welfare programs, notably a yet not fully disclosed medical scheme, that would cost many billions.

IT HARDLY needs pointing out that this is great news to the liberal Republicans — and it will make it awkward for the Democrats to mount any effective welfare issue against the President in 1972. Nor will the President's now open abandonment of the traditional Republican dogma of balanced federal budgets, in favor of deficit spending to ginger up the economy, cause any pain to the liberals of whatever party.

STILL, at the moment he hits the orthodox Republicans with this blow to the solar plexus he picks them up, dusts them off and pleases them by making it plain that orthodoxy is still the watchword in party management and top control.

This he has done by insisting upon the appointment as chairman of the Republican National Committee of Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, one of the few wholly untrifled and articulate all-the-way Nixon Republicans in the Senate. While Dole is a freshman in the Capitol, he will be very far from a freshman in the minds of those men, beginning with Richard Nixon, who are going to run the party.

WHAT MR. NIXON has done here, in short, is symbolically to replace Robert Dole's bars of a captain with the stars of a major general. Being in charge of the party megaphone that is the national committee will mean he will also be heard in the Senate as he has not been before.

SO, WHAT is the President really up to with all these metronomic effects? His immediate objective is this: to placate a Republican left still sore about the President's purge of far-out un-Republican Republican Sen. Charles Goodell of New York — but without really alienating the Republican center and right wing. These latter will forgive a great deal because of the President's refusal to lay an axe upon the Pentagon.

It is a soundly educated guess that the President's long-term aim on domestic issues is to force the Democrats farther and farther to the left by his own steps in that direction in the hope they will nominate as his 1972 adversary an Edward Kennedy or somebody of like ideology.

Burleson Reports Congressional Sessions Too Long

WASHINGTON — Except for two brief recesses the Congress has been in continuous session since January 19, 1970.

A session of Congress is seven months after convening on January 3. The convening date is a constitutional requirement. The seven months duration is a hope and a futile one at that. It has been many years since adjournment has come on time.

WE HAVE grown to accept this situation since it is obvious that the myriad of legislation now handled by Congress cannot be disposed of by September. What makes it obvious is because Congress has taken upon itself to perform functions for which it was never designed or intended under the Constitution. Over the years Congress has assumed jurisdiction over about every facet of American daily life. As a result, mere volume of drafting bills, committee hearings and debate, is enough to create a legislative logjam.

THIS, HOWEVER, is not the most serious aspect of this development. More serious is the fact that members of Congress are called upon to be experts in a wide range of highly technical subjects. None are.

Health care insurance, space exploration, the many-headed school aid programs, environmental control, housing, foreign affairs, labor legislation, settling strikes, transportation, military preparedness, dealing with highly technical and complex tax matter and appropriations — to name just a few — are all subjects and issues deserving a special knowledge of each.

THE COMMITTEE system of the congress provides special study, with specialized staff assistance, for legislation on these subjects. The system works in matters of common concern — national defense, foreign relations, international trade, monetary policy, etc. — It is less so when involved in matters of more local concern — with different effect in different parts of the country. A senator or a congressman would have to be a sociologist, a scientist, an economist, a constitutional lawyer — yes, even a prophet — to always be sure of how certain legislation will effect the nation, his state and the people he represents.

MARATHON SESSIONS of the Congress often, if not always, end with highly important proposals still pending. The opposite would seem the case but not so. A definite and binding date for adjournment would not only speed the legislative processes but should result in greater responsibility.

Our state of Texas has such a system and it is better than the U.S. Congress.

SUCH AN arrangement would give greater opportunity for members of Congress to spend more time back home learning the thinking of the people they represent and vice versa. A Congress isolated in Washington may lose the touch with "back home" which is fundamental to representative government.

It seems that as long as the Congress is in session there are new proposals by the White House, the various agencies and departments and members of the House and Senate, to create new programs of some sort or other. Every action taken invariably increases the government's bureaucracy, with its attendant increased cost.

Floating Hotel

NEW YORK (AP) — Visitors to Japan's seaside resort of Mito in Shizuoka Prefecture can now stay on what used to be the world's largest private yacht. The 5,105-ton luxury cruiser, the Stella Polaris, has been rechristened the Scandinavia and converted into Japan's first floating hotel.

Rotate Tires

NEW YORK (AP) — Tires should be rotated every 5,000 miles for maximum wear. Rotating the tires lets them wear evenly, according to a report from Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corporation.

Jews-Soviets Map 'Terror'

NEW YORK (AP)—The head of the militant Jewish Defense League says his group will step up its anti-Soviet campaign by forming teams to "trail and harass" Soviet diplomats working here.

"We don't want to build cultural bridges on the bodies of three million Jews," said Rabbi Meir Kahane when asked if his organization's activities might not aggravate Soviet-American relations.

Speaking outside the Soviet mission to the United Nations on East 67th Street, Kahane said Sunday that "the life of each Russian will be made miserable" under the harassment campaign.

RETALIATION

The league has spearheaded a number of anti-Soviet demonstrations in recent weeks to protest the condition of Jews living in the Soviet Union and the trial and conviction of 12 persons, most of them Jews, for an attempted hijacking.

In response the Soviet Union has officially protested the campaign. In Moscow over the weekend the cars of three American correspondents were vandalized in apparent retaliation.

Kahane, who founded the JDL in 1968, said he called for harassment of Soviet diplomats after hearing reports of the Moscow incidents.

A few league members followed cars emerging from the mission here Sunday. Police escorted the cars and blocked off the street.

Arkadi V. Gouk, first secretary at the missions, said Sunday night: "Some of our people were followed by some unknown people with provocative purposes. Who they are, we don't know."

CALLED NAMES

He said the diplomats and staff personnel had been followed to their homes and had been called names.

In Moscow, Pravda published a long article Sunday saying that "Zionist storm troopers" were conducting a "campaign of terror and provocation" against Soviet citizens in the United States. But it said the majority of Americans condemned such acts.

The newspaper also described in detail the bombing of the Soviet cultural office in Washington last Friday.

An anonymous woman called news agencies after that blast and said: "This is a sample of things to come. Let our people go. Never again!"

"LET OUR PEOPLE GO" The Pravda story said the woman was a JDL member and quoted only the first sentence of her statement.

The second sentence, "Let our people go," refers to the Soviet Union's refusal to allow its Jews to emigrate to Israel. "Never again!" is the JDL motto and refers to the killing of six million Jews by the Nazis during World War II.

TO THE EDITOR:

It has just been brought to my attention that I can no longer send you my monthly check for services rendered and address it to you as "BIG SPRING HERALD, CITY" because it must first go to Midland to be sorted out of the other mail before it can be sent back to you. I, therefore, must address this to The Big Spring Herald, Big Spring, Texas, 79702.

Now I don't mind so much the extra time it takes to address the envelope in the new manner, but what bothers me is that you will be a couple days longer getting it. Of course I have always tried to pay my bills on the 10th of the month following the date of the purchase. But I guess I will have to start mailing my check two days earlier so that you will be receiving it as the regular time.

I looked into this and, after some close checking, it looks like it is not the work of Mr. Hardesty, but from those higher up. Now to send our mail to Midland to have it sorted in order to save money is a bit far out for me to grasp. Of course if we are short of help in Big Spring, why not employ a few more people rather than send the mail to Midland to bolster their economy. We could use some of the economy here in the city (of Big Spring that is).

Anyhow, Mr. Editor, after a careful study of this situation, I guess I had better be loyal and do what they tell me to, but if they are right in their thinking, then please excuse me for I find that I must run over to Midland to mail a letter. It is cheaper you know???

Questions Commissioners

TO THE EDITOR:

Why is our county audit work going to an out-of-town firm when we have qualified men in our own city?

Everyone keeps wondering why Big Spring does not progress as rapidly as other cities. How can it when we use our own money to support out-of-town firms rather than our own?

The men who have established their businesses here, live here, and pay the city and county taxes are the men who are interested in this city and county and want to see it grow. They are the people who work for new industry, donate their time and money, support the Chamber of Commerce, and spend their money here.

I don't believe I have ever heard of Midland, Odessa, or Fort Worth sending us money to pay our taxes or donating money for new industry in our city. They use their money for their own growth which is what they should do. Why are they so much smarter than we are?

Latin Leader Heaps Sharp Raps At Tube

DALLAS (AP)—La Raza Unida, in its sixth annual conference here, has heard a national Mexican-American leader call for a united political front.

Domingo "Nick" Reyes, chairman of the national Mexican-American Anti-Defamation Committee, told about 600 conferees that "a national movement is the only way we can have any effect on social change."

"We're tired of being depicted as the white man's new nigger," Reyes, a 42-year-old native Texan, heaped heavy criticism in his Saturday night speech on radio and television for "perpetuating the poor image of the Mexican-American."

"Our image as far as broadcasting... is concerned is that of a lazy, thieving, no-account type of people," he said. "It's much like the pot calling the kettle black."

The speaker's Washington-based organization currently has a multi-million dollar suit against Frito Lay, CBS and AEC television over the Frito Bandito commercials.

He urged his audience to pressure local television and radio stations for "relevant" Chicano programs with threats of taking their case to the Federal Communications Commission.

He also challenged his listeners to become involved in civic work. Without social, economic and political power, (the Mexican-American) is going to remain a second-class citizen," he added.

Supt. Nolan Estes of the Dallas school system appeared at the meeting and repeated a previous pledge to work for quality education for all children.

"We know," Estes said, "that we have short-changed Mexican-Americans in public schools in the past. We cannot continue to let this happen."

Cotton Growers Object To Rule

Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., among others, has registered strong opposition to a ruling which would require that set-aside acres under the 1971 cotton program be cropland that has produced a crop for harvest within the three preceding years.

ASCS officials in Washington are known to be "taking a second look" at the regulation.

In a letter to Kenneth Frick, ASCS administrator, PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson pointed out that the requirement could not be administered to all farmers alike, (because there is no adequate record) would increase production costs on many farms without greatly affecting volume of production; would result in a waste of irrigation water which desperately needs conserving, and would void some of the benefits expected from government expenditures under conservation programs.

Hitchcock Eyes Suave Sadist

LONDON (AP) — British-born Alfred Hitchcock is getting ready to make his first movie in Britain in more than 20 years, with multiple murder again his theme.

"It's not the Jack the Ripper Story," Hitchcock told newsmen today.

Titled "Frenzy," it will have echoes of the case of Neville Heath, the suave sadist who mutilated and murdered two women in the late 1940s.

PAY RAISE, LESS KP DUTY, MORE PRIVACY

Volunteer Army Specifics

WASHINGTON (AP) — To meet the military's manpower requirements, President Nixon's goal of an all-volunteer Army can be achieved, the Pentagon has spelled out plans for a major start this year.

Specifics include a $2 billion GI pay and incentive raise, less KP duty, more privacy in the barracks, educational opportunities and enlistment at higher rank for men with special skills.

The first-year program for face-lifting GI life in an effort to attract enough volunteers to do away with the draft was outlined to the House draft subcommittee in closed session last August but not released until Sunday.

"A BILL OF GOODS" Chairman F. Edward Hebert D-La., called the idea "a bill of goods," saying only the pressure of the draft can draw enough volunteers plus draftees to meet the military's manpower requirements.

Even so, Hebert's subcommittee recommended President Nixon's pay raise proposals be considered at the same time Congress renews the draft law beyond its expiration date June 30.

But it added that Congress should establish future manpower levels at the same time it extends the draft law.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird announced last month a goal of achieving an all-volunteer force of 2.5 million men and women by mid-1973 and said it can be met if Congress approves increased pay and benefits.

NO TIMETABLE But Asst. Secretary Roger T. Kelley told the House subcommittee last Aug. 4 no timetable can be set because of the uncertainty of drawing enough volunteers—and said a standby draft should be kept for emergencies.

Nevertheless, Kelley spelled out major first-year plans for starting the volunteer drive, but said specific recommendations were not ready at the time he testified.

The $2 billion incentive package, he said, would include a 20 percent pay raise effective Jan. 1 for enlisted men with less than two years service, pay raises for junior officers in July and increased housing and subsistence allowances for all personnel.

The plans also call for more and better family housing and more barracks privacy for single men, he said, as well as enlisting skilled men at higher pay and rank instead of starting all enlistees as buck privates.

PAINTING-PAPERING E-11
PROFESSIONAL PAINTING — Taping,

By ANN HENCKEN
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "I hate the mid-lengths," says Mrs. Harilaos Theodoracopoulos, American wife of the Greek shipowner, and one of the 12 women elected to the International Best-Dressed list of 1970.

She dislocated her hip trying to get out of a taxi cab in a long, straight skirt, and sent the skirt to the dressmaker saying, "cut it off!"

She wears skirts at the knee with boots, ankle-lengths for evening and midlengths. But she still wears minis, too.

"I've worn short shorts for two years," she says, adding that designer Halston made her a tweed pair with a long vest over them. Adolfo and Galanos are two other favorite designers.

"I love sexy clothes. A lot of the longer lengths aren't sexy. An' you have to dress to be comfortable. With all that extra weight on your legs, it is hard to move around," she says.

Mrs. Theodoracopoulos is among 66 men and women of 16 nationalities chosen for their good taste and influence on current fashion. They were elected by written ballot sent to some 2,000 people representing fashion, society and theater.

The list was announced by Eleanor Lambert, a publicist of fashions who originated the poll in 1940. The votes were counted by a committee of editors of fashion publications.

Other best dressed women of 1970 were: The Begum Aga Khan, British wife of the Moslem spiritual leader; Mme.

Ahmed Benhima, wife of the Moroccan Ambassador to the United Nations; Diahann Carroll, American singer; Catherine Deneuve, French actress; Sophia Loren, Italian film star; Mrs. Denise Minelli, Yugoslav residing in San Francisco; Mme. Georges Pompidou; Mrs. Richard Pistell, New York, former Marquessa Carol de Portugal; Mrs. Ronald Reagan, wife of the governor of California; Mrs. Samuel P. Reed, American socialite, daughter of Mrs. Charles Englehard and Mrs. Charles Revson, wife of the cosmetics magnate.

Five women were given "permanent status" and elected to the Hall of Fame: Mrs. William McCormick Blair Jr., Chicago-born wife of the former U.S. ambassador who now heads the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington; Mrs. Alfred Bloomingdale of Los Angeles, wife of the founder of the Diner's Club; Mrs. Wyatt (Gloria Vanderbilt) Cooper of New York; Mrs. Kirk Douglas, Hollywood, born in Paris; and Mrs. Patrick Guinness, Lausanne, Switzerland and Paris. The list of best-dressed men for 1970 includes: J. Frederic Byers III of Pittsburgh and New York; Yul Brynner, actor of Tartar stock now living in Switzerland; Hernando Cortwright, Mexican - born hotelier of Los Angeles; John Gallier, American socialite of New York and London; Angus Ogilvy, British business man married to Princess Alexandra of Kent; Armando Orsini, New York restaurant owner; Giorgio Pavone, Roman public relations executive; Baron Alexis de Rede, Austrian-born Paris financier; Thomas Shevlin, Palm Beach socialite; Bobby Short, nightclub star born in Rockford, Ill.; Lord Snowdon, photographer, husband of Princess Margaret and Sargent Shriver, Washington.

Men to rank above the annual vote on the three-year-old men's list are: Gianni Agnelli of Turin, Italy, head of Fiat Motors; Cecil Beaton, British artist and photographer; Bill Blass, Indiana-born fashion designer; Pierre Cardin, Venetian-born French fashion designer; Count Rodolfo Crespi, Brazilian-born Italian in public relations; Hubert de Givenchy, French fashion designer; Bernard Lanvin, French head of the couture house; Henry Cabot Lodge, Massachusetts-born statesman; Col. Serge Obolensky, the Russian prince now in American business; Norman Parkinson, British fashion photographer; I.S.V. Patcevic, Russian-born New York publisher; Baron Eric de Rothschild, member of the French branch of the European banking family; and John Weitz, Viennese-born, British-schooled American designer for men.

Among those women voted the twelve best-dressed fashion professionals were Marisa Berenson, American model, granddaughter of Italian-born French designer Elsa Schiaparelli; Anne Klein, New York fashion designer; Mrs. Renny Saltzman of New York and Naomi Sims, model; and Pamela Lady Harlech, London, American wife of the former British Ambassador to the U.S. Others included Mrs. David Evans, Mrs. Thomas Candies, greenery and a replica of a snowman bedecked the head table, and the individual tables held smaller, matching snowmen.

Cash receipts totaled almost $100, and many additional pledges for future donations were received. The money will be donated to the March of Dimes.

Hostesses were Mrs. J. W. Speegle, Mrs. M. R. Box, Mrs. Ted J. Hicks, Mrs. S. R. Heffley, Mrs. Gage and Miss Currie.

The refreshment table was covered with a white cloth and centered with an antique silver and gold container of red roses. Crystal and silver appointments were used. Mrs. Box presided at the coffee service.

Local Artist Displays Work For Hyperions

"Mary Signor Ramsey Holloway is a daydreamer," began Mrs. J. Y. Robb as she introduced Mrs. Holloway as guest speaker Saturday for the 1980 Hyperion Club. The group met at Big Spring Country Club.

"She has a special dream of becoming an artist and is working every day toward making this dream come true," Mrs. Robb continued. She told the story of how Mrs. Holloway began painting five years ago, and said the first pictures came out "somewhat pitiful," but that Mrs. Holloway thought they were beautiful.

Mrs. Holloway had read the life story of Van Gogh, who started with nothing but desire and accomplished his dream of becoming an artist in ten years. She believes that with desire and hard work, anything is possible.

Mrs. Holloway paints mostly still life and landscapes, and has done several paintings of local homes. During her program, she gave some hints to beginning painters.

"If you want to paint, don't follow any specific rules; don't worry about what to paint," she said. "Start with any shape and color, and ideas will grow as you go along."

"Don't be afraid of color; if you like the ones you use, someone else will too. Painting should not be symmetrical, but should be balanced. When you like the way your painting looks stop. If you don't like it, just paint over it. Some of the paintings I consider my best have been painted right on top of another one."

"And if all this fails," Mrs. Holloway mused, "you can always burn or bury it and start from scratch."

Mrs. Holloway displayed about 25 of her paintings, including the first one she did five years ago. Today, she has her own studio in the building with May Belle's Antiques, 1617 E. 3rd.
