June 19 parade now set

Activities planned by Snyder's Black community will begin Thursday and will continue here through Saturday.

Thursday marks the traditional observance of "Junteenth" here and across Texas, while Friday and Saturday activities are scheduled as part of the reunion of Lincoln School graduates.

Snyder's Black Women's Association will sponsor a parade here Thursday. It will assemble at 5 p.m in the parking lot in front of American State Bank.

The parade will begin at 5:30 p.m. and will head down 37th St. to stop at Winston Park.

A barbecue is planned in the park and tickets are on sale for it.

A float in Thursday's parade will include a June 19th King and Queen. Riding on the float will be Katrina Reed, Thomas Wesley and Shrunda Richardson.

The first activity related to the Lincoln School Reunion will be registration of exes from 2 until 6 p.m. Thursday at the school.

On Friday, a barbecue will be held from noon until 2 p.m. All former students, teachers and friends are invited.

NEW YELLS FOR NEXT YEAR — Rachel and Felicia Romero of Borden County High School practice a new yell as they participate along with 32 other West Texas cheerleaders attending the annual All-Star Cheerleader camp at Western Texas College. Snyder's chances at 4A tournament before high court

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas Supreme Court has agreed to review conflicting lower court orders that one school lawyer said threaten to cancel some players' "once in a lifetime" quest for a state high school baseball championship.

The Supreme Court, acting Tuesday on an appeal by Austin Westlake, scheduled oral arguments for Wednesday.

(Snyder High School, a state tournament qualifier but one of only two schools which has not filed a lawsuit, gained permission to play a scrimmage game with a pony league team in Big Spring Wednesday. The contest is scheduled for 4 p.m.)

Westlake lawyers went to the Supreme Court after it appeared that orders issued by judges in Waco and Austin had created a legal stalemate that would cancel the Class 4A state baseball tournament.

The Westlake appeal to be one of four semifinalists in the tournament said unless the Supreme Court acted, the 4A tournament probably would be canceled and players "will be deprived of this once in a lifetime experience and honor ..."

"Unless this court intervenes by mandamus, in this case of statewide importance, the sky will soon be black with crisscrossing restraining orders, injunctions and writs of prohibition," the appeal said.

State champions were determined in Class A, 2A, 3A and 5A last Friday but a deadlock between Westlake and Waco Richfield has held up play in 4A.

The University Interscholastic League has tentatively rescheduled the 4A semifinals for Friday night and the championship game for Saturday night in Austin, assuming that deadlock can be broken.

But UIL director Bailey Marshall has said if it cannot be resolved before Friday, the 4A state tournament may be canceled for this year. UIL athletic director Bill Farney indicated that decision probably would be made Thursday.

Westlake won the first of a best 2-of-3 series against Richfield, 4-3, and advanced to the tournament.

State viewers to eye AJRA in Snyder

Much of the State of Texas will be exposed to events occuring in Snyder the weekend of Aug. 16-17 via a live broadcast of the final performance of the National AJRA Finals Rodeo.

And to insure that television viewers are "impressed" with what they see, steps are now being taken to "fill up" the Scurry County Coliseum for the weekend performances of the annual rodeo.

These facts were reported Tuesday to members of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, host-sponsor for the AJRA finals again this year.

Addressing the board was Janice Miller, production manager and president of Accolade Inc., the firm which has contracted with the chamber for a "first" this year, promoting and filming the AJRA.

Miller told the board Tuesday that to date she has obtained agreements from 10 television stations to either carry the rodeo performance live Saturday or to tape-delay its broadcast for later viewing.

These 10 stations, with negotiations continuing with others, represent more than half of the television markets which crisscross the state, she said.

These include two stations seen locally, the CBS affiliate in Abilene (Channel 32 viewed locally on Channel 5); and the NBC affiliate in Lubbock (Channel 11).

Others set to carry AJRA coverage include stations in Tyler, San Angelo, San Antonio, Victoria, El Paso, Amarillo, Temple-Waco and Odessa in addition to Ada, Okla.

Miller said the rodeo finals will

Stolen trailer recovered

Scurry County sheriff's deputies this week recovered a trailer stolen here last Feburary from Eddie Williams' ABC Rental.

The trailer — reported missing since Feb. 6 — was found in Lubbock over the weekend while authorities there were helping identify property belonging to a 61-year-old man who died earlier this month.

The deceased man is not thought to have been a suspect in the actual theft of the trailer.

Aceording to investigators, the trailer disappeared in February when two men rented a tractor and the trailer from the local agency under a false name.

The two suspects are described as in their late teens or early 20s. Neither the tractor nor trailer was returned to the rental agency at the end of the rental period.

The tractor was recovered in

Expanded July 4 outlined Tuesday

An expanded July 4th celebration here in connection with the Texas Sesquicentennial was previewed Tuesday for chamber of commerce board members.

The event will stretch over two days this year, Friday and Saturday, July 4-5.

Features pointed to Tuesday included the appearance of the Texas Tech Brass Band, set to play prior to the fireworks display, and an expanded Independence Day parade, which to date boasts 16 to 18 floats.

Offering the report Tuesday was Kent Horsley, this year's chairman of the July 4th planning committee.

He noted also that the arts and crafts display space is already filled. The work of area craftsman are traditionally offered for sale in the National Guard Armory.

The Palette Club art show is also again scheduled in the county barn facility adjacent to the armory.

Musical entertainment is again planned also with two locations to be set up in Towle Park.

An expanded fireworks display is scheduled also.

Horsley noted balloons will be sold during the event to help defray costs of the fireworks display.

At Tuesday's June chamber meeting, the board was informed also of plans to form an alumni association for members of the chamber and college-sponsored

The feller on Deep Creek says, "If you want to live longer, you need to stop doing the things that make you want to live longer."

If you ask a youngster what he wants to be when he grows up–you likely hear fireman, policeman, baseball player, doctor or nurse. Seldom does some youngster aspire to be a personnel director or employee recruiter.

The title itself lacks excitement, so that is likely the reason that one of the most successful personnel recruiters in the nation has adopted a hobby related to his mundane business.

Robert Half is a connoisseur of the alibi, especially the fib that tardy workers tell their bosses. Mr. Half commissioned a study of large corporations for their favorite excuses for late or absent workers.

A fellow in Detroit told his boss he was late because his pet chicken got loose in an ice storm and froze to the driveway. He said he had to wait around to thaw it out.

Half says anybody can come up with an excuse about a traffic jam, but the innovative person has to be admired–like the father who said he was late because his six-year-old set all the clocks in the house back an hour as a joke. Another original was the guy who skipped work because he thought Halloween was a national holiday.

Half has compiled a thick, looseleaf notebook full of unusual excuses. He says humor helps in any business. Here are just a few:

–"Suddenly, the doors on the armored car in front of me opened up and $10 bills started flying out. It caused such a traffic jam that I was an hour late."

–"Someone stole one of my shoes on the bus."

–"My parakeet spoke for the first time, so I waited for him to do it again so I could tape record it."

–"I ate so much during my vacation that none of my clothes fit, so I spent the morning having them altered."

Observed the employee expert, "People prefer the honest truth. If you're not chronically tardy, no one is going to mind if you tell them you were late because a spider cornered you in the bathroom."

A. — No. City officials note that all residential neighborhoods are picked up routinely twice weekly.

In Brief

Tax overhaul

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is winding down action on sweeping tax-overhaul legislation today with Democrats making a last-ditch effort at collecting more from wealthy taxpayers to increase the tax cut for middle-income people.

The tax bill, in its ninth day of debate, is heading for overwhelming approval possibly by late tonight.

"We're going to finish this baby," Sen. Alan K. Simpson, R-Wyo., the assistant majority leader, said as he contemplated a second straight night of working past midnight on the measure.

Simpson also predicted the defeat of an amendment by Sen. George Mitchell, D-Maine, to change the tax rates in the legislation.

The measure compresses more than a dozen individual tax rates into two rates: 27 percent and 15 percent. The top individual rate is now 50 percent.

GNP grows

WASHINGTON (AP) — The economy grew at a moderate annual rate of 2.9 percent in the first three months of the year, a sharp downward revision from earlier estimates, the government reported today.

The new estimate also marked a big downward revision from just a month ago, when the Commerce Department reported that the economy had expanded at a 3.7 percent rate in the January-March quarter.

Nose trial

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — An Abilene man says he bit off the end of a man's nose because he feared for his life.

"I was scared for my life. I had to do something to get away," Thomas Michael La Fave, 25, testified in District Court here Tuesday.

La Fave is being tried on a charge of aggravated assault in connection with an incident Sept. 9, 1984, in which Ralph Garcia Gonzales, 37, of Abilene, had the end of his nose bit off.

Abilene Police officer Steve Parks testified that La Fave told him he bit Gonzales' nose because "I feared I was fixing to die."

The case was scheduled to go to a jury of six men and six women today.

Dr. Donald Wehmeyer, a plastic surgeon who still is in the process of reconstructing Gonzales' nose, testified that the portion of the nose recovered by police was too small to attempt surgical reattachment.

U.S. senator is controversial

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Although there was no immediate response here Tuesday to U.S. Sen. Jesse Helms' allegations about fraud in Mexican elections, the conservative Republican rapidly has become a controversial and well-known figure in Mexico.

The newspaper Excelsior, a leading newspaper that generally reflects the government's views, carried an interview its Washington correspondent had Monday with the North Carolina senator.

The interview was its banner story Tuesday, under the headline, "Mexico Deserves to Live 'Free of Socialism,' Helms Says." It also carried prominently the quote: "Its Politicans Don't Intimidate Me."

"I have the highest admiration for the people of Mexico, a people that deserves whatever change that might be possible in order to live in a free country, and by being free I mean free of socialism and of obstacles to their desires and aspirations," Helms was quoted as saying in the interview.

The afternoon news broadcast of the private Televisa network did not refer to Helms' comments at the latest set of hearings Tuesday. The government also did not issue any immediate statements.

The Mexican Embassy in Washington issued a statement saying the president does not take any part in the Mexican electoral process.

"Consequently, Sen. Helms' assertion and the supposedly secret figures that he made public in today's hearing regarding recent electoral results are groundless and most probably are intended to confuse public opinion," the statement said.

Attention has focused on Helms since the first set of hearings the Foreign Relations subcommittee on Latin America he chairs held May 12-13 about Mexico.

At that session, allegations were made that official corruption in Mexico is fueling the illegal drug trade to unprecedented levels. The charges triggered an unusually sharp, formal protest from the Mexican government, which said the hearings infringed on Mexico's sovereignty.

The third set of hearings started Tuesday, and Helms charged that President Miguel de la Madrid was elected by fraud in 1982 through an allegedly corrupt electoral system using "a double set of books — one public and one private."

Helms said "sources within the Mexican government" had given him documents showing that de la Madrid, proclaimed the winner with 71.2 percent of the vote, actually won only 39.8 percent.

The Institutional Revolutionary Party, known as the PRI, has dominated Mexican government since its founding in 1929.

Rocket maker discussing settlement

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Officials of rocket manufacturer Morton Thiokol Inc. are discussing a settlement of liability claims by a family of one of the seven astronauts killed in the Challenger accident, according to a Houston attorney who is representing the family.

Ronald D. Krist, a Houston lawyer who once won a settlement for the widow of another astronaut, said he was in "crucial and candid" negotiations toward a settlement with "very high ranking officials" of Thiokol, the Utah firm that manufacturered the solid rocket boosters on the space shuttle.

Krist declined to identify the family he is representing, but he said the discussions have been underway for two weeks.

"We're hoping to avoid (court action) if possible," Krist said in a telephone interview. "If we are unsuccessful in our efforts to resolve this matter out of court, you can certainly anticipate a court suit."

He declined to disclose any proposed amount of a settlement, but said there would be either an agreement or a lawsuit within two weeks.

Though he is representing only one family, Krist said family lawyers representing other Challenger families have called to ask if he is available "if their clients opted to initiate suit."

Space shuttle Challenger exploded 73 seconds after its launch from the Kennedy Space Center on Jan. 28, killing the crew of five men and two women. A presidential commission investigating the accident said in a report released last week that the spacecraft was destroyed when a joint in the right solid booster rocket failed and caused a fuel tank to ignite. Morton Thiokol manufacturers the solid rocket booster.

"The presidential commission points to Morton Thiokol as the primary culprit," said Krist. The company, he said, "received hundreds of millions of dollars for doing their job and then did their job in a neglectful fashion."

Krist said Thiokol "is certainly agreeable to discussion."

"They sent very high ranking officials to my office," said the lawyer. "Whether or not they are agreeable to a settlement is something that the next two weeks will tell. When you talk about settlement, it has to do with whether or not people agree as to the value of the loss."

Krist won a $350,000 judgement against Rockwell International for Betty Grissom, the widow of astronaut Gus Grissom who died in an Apollo spacecraft fire in 1967.

The Grissom case, he said "is not a fair standard" because the statute of limitations had run out on several key issues before Mrs. Grissom initiated the suit in 1970.

Krist said the Challenger family negotiations has "to do with failure to heed warnings...I think the people got lax and it resulted in this disaster, an avoidable disaster."

Singer Kate Smith is dead at the age of 79

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Kate Smith touched the hearts of Americans and gave them a special pride with her sense of patriotism, said President Reagan in paying tribute to the woman who made "God Bless America" a second national anthem.

Although she had no formal music training, Miss Smith was one of the most popular radio entertainers during the 1930s and 1940s. She called her voice a "God-given gift."

Her songs made the Hit Parade more than 700 times. Among the most popular were "The Music Goes Round and Round," "White Cliffs of Dover" and her theme song, "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain."

But she was most closely identified with "God Bless America," making it a virtual second national anthem and inspiring her nickname, "radio's own Statue of Liberty."

Miss Smith died Tuesday of respiratory arrest at the emergency room of Raleigh Community Hospital, where she was taken after being stricken at her home, said nursing supervisor Mike Leisey. She was 79.

Miss Smith "was a patriot in every sense of the word. ... America was indeed God-blessed to have Kate Smith as one of her daughters," Reagan said in a statement from the White House.

"For many years, Kate Smith touched our hearts and souls and made us all swell with the special pride of being Americans," he said.

When President Franklin D. Roosevelt introduced her to visiting King George VI, he said, "This is Kate Smith — this is America." And, more than 40 years later, in October 1982, Reagan awarded her the Medal of Freedom, the nation's highest civilian honor.

Miss Smith had suffered brain damage during a diabetic coma in 1976 that made it difficult for her to walk or talk. Diabetes forced the amputation of her right leg above the knee in January, and she underwent a mastectomy on May 9.

Despite her illnesses, her death shocked the family, said her sister, Helena Steene of Raleigh. "She was ill, she was desperately ill at times, but she always came back," she said Tuesday night.

A funeral Mass will be held Thursday at Lady of Lourdes Roman Catholic Church in Raleigh, said Jeff Barbour of Brown Wynne Funeral Home. Final plans for burial have not been settled, he said.

Dear Abby

Long-Distance Romancing Is Short on Love, Long on Work

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 67-year-old widow who just had her face lifted, but it wasn't that bad before. I have just become the "girlfriend" of an elderly gentleman who told me that he is leaving me one-third of all his assets, which are considerable.

I'll tell it like it is: He is very tight! Entertaining his girlfriend with lavish dinners and giving her expensive gifts are not his style.

I live in Southern California and he lives alone in a big house 120 miles north of here. I drive up to visit him every weekend, and as soon as I arrive, I find myself flinging the vacuum cleaner around and doing his laundry. Abby, at 67, you can't clean all day and be scintillating company in the evening, but I try.

He reminds me constantly that he's leaving me one-third of his assets — the other two-thirds will go to his married children who rarely come around.

His latest idea of a "good time" is flying to Seattle, staying in a middle-class motel and cooking fish! Can you think of anything more revolting?

He's in very good health for 84 and hopes to live forever. Do you think it's worth it? Sign me,

HIRED GIRL WHO TRAVELS

DEAR GIRL: Before you swallow these promises hook, line and sinker, ask this penny-pinching "fish cook" to put his promises in writing. Otherwise, you are wasting precious time and energy.

DEAR ABBY: I made a beautiful needlepoint picture as a birthday gift for my husband's boss. (I'll call him Mr. K.) I worked very hard to finish it and have it framed in time for his party. I was very disappointed when Mr. K. didn't open his birthday presents during the party. The next day he told my husband our gift was "magnificent" and he would telephone me to thank me personally, which he never did.

A few months later we received a rather general printed "thank-you" card. That was it!

To make matters worse, my husband was at Mr. K.'s home recently, and our needlepoint picture had not been hung anywhere. This hurt me because of all the time I had put into it — and the expense was also considerable.

If Mr. K. doesn't like it and isn't going to hang it, we'd like to have it back. How should we ask him?

FRUSTRATED IN FRESNO

DEAR FRUSTRATED: When you gave the gift to Mr. K., it became his property — to hang, put away, give away, throw away or whatever. Moreover, in view of the boss-employee relationship, to ask him to return it would be awkward and ill-advised.

DEAR ABBY: I recently gave a birthday party for my husband. On the invitation, I had printed: Regrets Only (and my phone number). Six couples did not respond. Naturally I assumed that they were coming and included them in my count to my caterer. As you know, one pays the caterer for each expected guest. The going rate in this area is $7.50 per person, so $90 went out of my pocket for "friends" who did not take the trouble to let me know that they were not coming.

What should I say to these no-shows when I see them? Should I say, "Oh, that's all right," when I feel that it is not all right?

ANNOYED AND NAMELESS

DEAR ANNOYED: If they mention the party, say, "Since you didn't respond to my 'regrets only' invitation, we expected you." If they then apologize, tell them they missed a great party.

For those who do not know that if they do not call to regret a catered affair, the hostess must pay for their plate, they know it now. Others think a "regrets only" invitation means a mob is invited, so if they don't show, they won't be missed. But that's not a legitimate reason for ignoring the invitation.

Contractor accused of defrauding government

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A builder who had a $7 million contract with the Defense Department has been indicted on charges he cheated the government out of more than $230,000, the FBI said.

Jaime Torres of El Paso, president of J.T. Construction Co. Inc., was indicted by a federal grand jury on four counts, said FBI spokesman Gary Webb. Torres is accused of misrepresenting information to the Defense Department, he added.

Torres, 38, had contracted with the Defense Department to construct storage buildings for the Sgt. York, an anti-aircraft gun, Webb said.

The gun was tested last year at the Fort Bliss military installation just outside El Paso and scrapped, said Sgt. William Darrah, a Fort Bliss spokesman.

The FBI conducted the investigation jointly with Fort Bliss authorities, Webb said.

The charges carry penalties of up to $1 million in fines and 30 years in prison.

Another federal grand jury indictment was also returned Tuesday against Riley Nolan Brown of El Paso. The three-count indictment charged Brown with embezzling about $145,000 from MBank, where he had been an employee for 41 years, Webb said.

Brown, 58, joined MBank in 1944 as a coin wrapper and messenger. He retired Dec. 31, 1985 as vice president and commercial loans officer, Webb said. The alleged embezzlements occured in 1985, he added.

Penalties upon conviction are a $250,000 fine and five years in prison on each of the three counts.

Both men will be issued a summons to appear in U.S. District Court for arraignment.

DEEP LIE. By Stuart Woods. Norton. 344 Pages. $15.95.

Few heroines in novels have as many problems as Katharine Rule has in "Deep Lie."

Ms. Rule is a single parent who is divorced, but that's the least of it. She is an American CIA agent who knows too much about an insidious Russian plot to take over Sweden.

The trouble is that her stuffed-shirt bosses at the CIA don't believe her, are downright antagonistic in fact, and the result is that her career and reputation are on the line.

Medication isn't 'catching'

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am sexually involved with a man who is having chemotherapy treatments for lung cancer and a liver tumor. Is there any way the drugs he takes could be transmiitted to me?

DEAR READER — Your partner's chemotherapy will not affect you. However, anti-cancer treatments often reduce a patient's resistance to infection, and it's possible that he could contact an unusual infection that might be transmitted to you. I think this is unlikely if your immune system is normal. The drugs he is taking should not directly influence your health.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My doctor says I have irritable bowel syndrome. What is this and what can I do to cure it?

DEAR READER — Irritable bowel syndrome (spastic colon) is a common condition that causes periodic diarrhea, cramps and gas. In many people, the situation is stress-related. It may be made worse by certain foods, like roughage and fruits.

Experts now believe that some people have overly sensitive intestinal tracts that are easily stimulated. When this happens, food moves too rapidly through the bowel, digestion is incomplete, liquid is not reabsorbed back into the system and symptoms develop. Sometimes antispasmodic drugs — to reduce bowel contractions — help control irritable bowel. Often, minor changes in diet may be effective.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report on IRRITABLE BOWEL SYNDROME. Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 plus their name and address to P.O. Box 2597, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband and I are planning to start a family and are concerned about the effects of stress on the baby during pregnancy. I am a recovered agoraphobic, so you can see there was at one time a great deal of stress in our lives. Do you have any suggestions about stress reduction during pregnancy?

DEAR READER — Physically normal, well-fed pregnant women are able to withstand a great deal of stress without risking the unborn baby's health. Agoraphobia (a fear of crowded or restricting environments) is not genetically transmitted. Therefore, from the information you have provided, I think that you and your husband need not worry about starting a family. Put yourself under the care of a good obstetrician, relax and enjoy a very special time in your life. Incidentally, "The Well Baby Book" by Mike & Nancy Samuels (Summit Books, 1979) lists stress-reduction exercises that you might find interesting.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am a 27-year-old female on the thin side. I get lots of black-and-blue marks on my legs, and once in a while, I have poor circulation in one leg or another. Is this something to be concerned about?

DEAR READER — Bruising and poor circulation, although normal in many people, can indicate a blood disorder or a dietary deficiency. I suggest you have an examination and blood tests by your doctor in order to make sure that there is no serious cause for your problem.

Woman shot on freeway dies

DALLAS (AP) — A 23-year-old woman who was shot in the head while driving on a Dallas freeway died as police continued to search for clues to who shot her and a friend.

Beverly Amaro died at 11:15 a.m. Tuesday after her relatives removed life-support equipment at Baylor University Medical Center.

There have been no arrests in the Saturday night shooting.

"We've had people call in saying they saw different things, but we haven't come up with anything," said homicide investigator Bobby Hammer.

Ms. Amaro was shot about 11:45 p.m. Saturday as she and a friend, Karen Zapata, 37, drove on east R.L. Thornton Freeway after leaving an Oak Cliff nightclub. Ms. Zapata, who was shot in the back, was released from Baylor Monday.

Ms. Zapata said a red-and-white 1950s or 1960s model pickup drove past her car seconds after the shots were fired. She also said Ms. Amaro argued at the nightclub with a man who had made a rude remark to her.

"There's been some speculation that ... (the assailants) may be the same people that they argued with, but we don't know for sure," said homicide Sgt. Pat Herring.

AIDS guidelines to be developed

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — After confirming that an elementary pupil has been diagnosed with AIDS, school officials said they plan to develop an attendance policy that will balance the safety and rights of the individual against those of other students.

Officials said Tuesday that the child's parents voluntarily removed their child from summer school after learning of the diagnosis.

"I think the key thing is that we are concerned about the safety of 30,000 school kids, likewise we are concerned about the safety and emotional stability of this one child," said Gary O. Boren, school board president.

"So we're balancing both and we're trying to develop a policy that will help us deal with the situation."

Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome is an illness in which the body's immune system is damaged and no longer has the ability to fight off certain kinds of cancers and infections.

Both school and health officials declined to say where the child attended classes, but Boren said the student was in a program for homebound students at the end of the 1985-86 school year and had attended summer school for two days before his parents removed him from classes.

The child contracted AIDS through blood injections, but the source of blood is not known, said Dr. Anthony Way, public health director.

"I have no idea where the source was. The only thing I know by inference is that if the child was infected by blood products, it had to be prior to the time at which the blood was being screened," said Way, noting the screening has been in effect for about a year.

Way added that Lubbock recipients of blood transfusions in the past year are at no risk of contracting the disease because national guidelines now mandate the screening of blood for the AIDS virus.

He said the incubation period for AIDS can be as long as five years to just several months.

AT&T, union say tentative accord to enhance future

WASHINGTON (AP) — American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and a union representing 155,000 AT&T employees say the tentative three-year labor contract ending the nation's largest strike since 1983 will enhance the future of both sides.

The accord was reached Tuesday — the 17th day of a nationwide walkout by the Communications Workers of America — and provides an immediate 2 percent wage increase for 155,000 of the company's 300,000 employees and includes what union president Morton Bahr called a "quantum leap" toward lifetime job security for its members.

Likewise, Herb Linnen, a spokesman for the telecommunications giant, said the company's goals had been achieved. The agreement, he said, "positions AT&T to face the real world in which the company now operates."

A final accord still depends on negotiators for AT&T and the union agreeing by midnight Saturday on six separate pacts covering the company's various operating divisons. Those agreements also would have to be ratified by the union's members before July 28, although they would return to work in the meantime.

But the tentative national accord is expected to bring to an end what had become a costly strike for both sides, and what has been the nation's largest walkout since CWA struck AT&T in 1983.

Braves clip Winters Yanks in area LL tournament here

Richard Morris' second-inning double provided the eventual winning run as Snyder's Braves defeated the Winters Yankees 5-1 in an area Little League tournament here Tuesday evening.

Snyder will advance to meet Hamlin in the single-elimination tournament, which resumes Thursday.

Snyder led 1-0 in the second inning before Cedric Sneed and Charles Richardson walked and scored on Morris' double.

Winters retaliated with its only run in the bottom of the inning. Jay Cowan and Jason Garcia both reached base on errors before Braves' pitcher Marcus Best struck out Gabriel J. Ortiz. Next-up Johnny Rodriquez singled to score Cowan, but Best retired the side by fanning Craig Slaughter and Lupe Roman.

Snyder added insurance runs in the top of the sixth. Best led off with a single and Matthew Byrom reached first safely on an error. Best scored on the Winters miscue, and Byrom ran all the way to third. Jimmy Henry then followed with a sacrifice fly which scored Byrom.

Snyder's first run came in the initial inning when Eric Neves stroked a two-out single and Best followed with a double.

Best gave up just three hits in the game. The Winters pitcher, Slaughter, allowed only four hits.

In Tuesday's nightcap, Hamlin defeated Merkel 8-5 in a game highlighted by Wayland McGee's third-inning, bases-loaded home run.

When the tournament continues Thursday, Ballinger and Rotan will take the field at 6 p.m. Snyder will take on Hamlin at 8 p.m.

The tournament championship game is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday. The winner will advance to play the champion of an tournament being held simultaneously in Anson. That game will be held at 7:30 p.m. June 21 at Logan Field.

Williams not concerned with Tech timetable

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) - Were David McWilliams to look above him, he wouldn't see a sword hanging ominously, prepared to plunge mercilessly toward him if he doesn't guide Texas Tech to a winning football season in his first year at the helm.

Others might detect it, shaking their heads in pity all the while, but not McWilliams.

McWilliams, chosen Dec. 2 to succeed ousted five-year Tech head coach Jerry Moore, said he doesn't believe he faces a win-or-lose-your job proposition in his first season with the Red Raiders. Later, perhaps, but not immediately.

"For me to say I feel pressure ... well, I just don't," McWilliams said. "I'm not going around saying we've got to win every one of 'em. But I feel like we have a chance to win a lot of games."

Pressure, no. Apprehension, yes. At least initially.

"I was a little bit apprehensive going in," confesses McWilliams, 44. "The players liked Coach Moore, and I was a little apprehensive about being accepted by the players. But I've found the apprehension was my fault, because it wasn't that way.

"After two or three weeks, I found no more reason to be apprehensive. The people have gone out of their way to make me feel comfortable."

McWilliams was in Midland with other Texas Tech coaches for a golf tournament with alumni.

"I think most coaches put pressure on themselves, and it's a cliche, but they do - and I think players do, too," McWilliams said. "A coach wants to prove he can do it, and that he's the right man for the job."

McWilliams' blue eyes indicate genuine excitement as he acknowledges the best opportunity of his 22-year career - which includes two years as an assistant coach at Abilene High School and four more as Abilene's head coach (1966-69) before becoming an assistant coach and later the defensive coordinator on the University of Texas coaching staff.

"It wasn't hard for me to leave Texas," McWilliams said, "because I was so excited about this opportunity. It didn't take me more than about 15 or 20 minutes to make a decision once they told me I had an opportunity at the job. It wasn't something I labored over."

McWilliams said he hasn't felt compelled to make many changes - among staff members or otherwise.

"I came in with the idea that this isn't a place you need to get here and say, 'Look, we're changing everything.' It wasn't a situa-

Cats see some work in scrimmage today

From local and AP wire reports

BIG SPRING – Snyder Coach Albert Lewis was keeping one ear towards Austin today as his action-hungry Tigers prepared to scrimmage a Babe Ruth league team here.

The University Interscholastic League approved the 4 p.m. scrimmage, which Lewis hopes will help revive the Tigers' sharpness as they continue to prepare for a state tournament that may never come about.

In Austin, the Texas Supreme Court has agreed to review conflicting lower court orders that threaten to cancel the state high school baseball championship.

The Supreme Court, acting Tuesday on an appeal by Austin Westlake, scheduled oral arguments for today.

Westlake lawyers went to the Supreme Court after it appeared that orders issued by judges in Waco and Austin had created a legal stalemate that would cancel the Class 4A state baseball tournament.

The University Interscholastic League has tentatively rescheduled the 4A semifinals for Friday night and the championship game for Saturday night in Austin, assuming that deadlock can be broken.

Under the new schedule, Snyder will play Brenham at 8:30 p.m. Friday at Disch-Falk Field.

But UIL director Bailey Marshall has said if it cannot be resolved before Friday, the 4A state tournament may be canceled for this year. UIL athletic director Bill Farney indicated that decision probably would be made Thursday.

A horse named Survivor won the first Preakness Stakes in 1873 by 10 lengths, and it's still the greatest margin of victory.

Western ropers struggling but team could still do well

BOZEMAN, Mont. – Western Texas College has met with some hard luck in the roping events but hopes to make up for it in the bareback and steer wrestling as College National Finals Rodeo continues here this week.

Paul Yorks took a no-time Tuesday in the calf roping and Southwest Region champion Keith Hudson clocked an 11.9 for a 24.8 on two head. His total leaves him eighth in the average with about 30 ropers left to compete. Only the top 10 advance to Saturday's short-go, or finals.

"I doubt he'll make it back but stranger things have happened," said WTC rodeo coach Bob Doty. "There are about five guys left that could move him out."

In the same situation are Yorks and Chuck Smith, who timed a 14.3 in their second-go of the team roping. Their 21.9 total left them sixth in the average, currently.

"It will be close. There are some good teams left to go. I don't know whether they'll make it back (to the short round) or not," said the coach.

Meanwhile, Bliss Mayhan finished just out of the points with his 71 in the bareback. Points are awarded to first through fourth place in each go-round and Mayhan finished the first-go in a three-way tie for fifth. WTC's Tony Hecksher scored a 70 and finished in a four-way tie for eighth, while Mike Carrillo's score of 58 was 29th overall.

While Mayhan rode well in the bareback, he bucked off in the bull riding, giving him almost no chance of making the finals. Also, Tobin Tate took a no-time in the calf roping.

Tate also competed in Tuesday's bull riding, but will get a re-ride tonight.

The news was not encouraging for WTC's women's team Tuesday. Shelly Eldridge turned an 8.9 in the goat tying and Mistri Davis had a no-time. Eldridge, Davis and Niki Moist all took no-times in the breakaway Tuesday.

"Of the girls, Niki has one more run in the goat tying and she's the best shot we have for a girl making the short round," said Doty. Moist clocked an 8.2 on her first run Monday.

"A lot of the guys, it's going to be pretty close whether they make the short round. Some of the guys have already eliminated themselves from the average," the coach noted. "We can still get some go-round points. Tony has a (bareback) horse that Mike had last night so it's doubtful he'll have a real good score, but he could do okay. Bliss had a horse that was 71 last night. Mike has a horse that hasn't gone yet but is supposed to be a high point-getter. Tobin has a chance to do well in the bull riding and we still have Jim Smith to go in the calf roping and Paul in the steer wrestling."

Yorks won the first-go of the steer wrestling with a 4.1, earning Western 120 team points.

In other results:

Hermleigh native Kenny Riley, from Tarleton State, and Russ Smith, from Texas Tech, were 14.7 in the team roping for a 22.3 on two head, which is placing seventh in the average. Riley took a no-time in the second-go of the steer wrestling.

Snyderite and former WTC competitor Van Hale, now with Sul Ross, took a no score in the saddle bronc riding.

Jim Sharp of Odessa won the first go in the bull riding with a 76, unless Tate can better that mark this evening.

Karen Snodgrass of Howard College is winning the second-go in the barrels with a 14.28.

Witness admits little expertise in football

NEW YORK (AP) - A USFL expert witness, who under cross-examination admitted football was not her specialty, claimed the 4-year-old league could incur actual damages from $301 million to $565 million because of alleged antitrust violations by the National Football League.

Dr. Nina Cornell, an employee of the Federal Communications Commission for three years, testified Tuesday in the USFL's $1.5 million antitrust suit against the NFL with the six-member jury not in attendance. She is expected to repeat some of her testimony today with the jury present.

Cornell explained the economic formulas she used to compute the alleged damages.

On the stand, she predicted that the financial ramifications of the NFL's alleged acts would extend from 1983 to 1992.

She described two scenarios, calling them Plan A and Plan B.

The old American Football League, which merged with the NFL in 1970, was used for comparisons in Plan A, based on the period when the AFL was televised on NBC.

Plan B used a CBS network analysis of whether the network could afford to air both the USFL and the NFL while the older league still enjoyed a relationship with all three networks.

Cornell also figured the 1986-1992 scenario with the USFL having no network contract, only cable television coverage.

Plan A called for $565 million in damages while Plan B asked for $301 million in damages.

But under questioning from NFL attorney Guy Strube, Cornell admitted her figures did not include costs the USFL might incur by moving from a spring to a fall schedule and into direct competition with the NFL.

After admitting she had little expertise in football, Cornell said she was not aware of the losses the USFL accrued in 1983 or 1984.

The NFL lawyers had tried to preclude much if not all of Cornell's testimony from being heard by the jury.

U.S. District Judge Peter K. Leisure denied those motions, in part, he said, because the NFL's delay in raising the objections was "inexplicable." The NFL had known of the scope of this testimony for months.

Leisure further denied the NFL the opportunity to question Cornell about whether legal relief would mitigate USFL damage claims.

Today's court session may be postponed and there is no testimony scheduled Friday because of the absence of USFL counsel Harvey Myerson, who is ill and not expected back on the case until Monday.

WILLIAMS

tion where we needed to revamp ... because they had been close (to success) before I got there. You really don't go in and completely upheave every single thing," he said.

McWilliams said his top priorities as Tech's 11th head football coach are to restore confidence and success to a team that hasn't finished above .500 in eight years, to continue the progress of Tech's smothering defense, and to instill life in a sluggish offensive attack.

Under Moore, who was 16-37-2 at Texas Tech, 15 of the losses came by margins of seven points or fewer, McWilliams noted. Nine, including losses last season to Texas A&M, Rice, Southern Methodist and Houston, were by three points or less.

"The players knew they weren't losers. They just knew te weretting beat at the end. We worked on some drills in the spring that probably were more mental drills than anything, and we told the players that theson we were doing this was to try to get things to turn in our favor," McWilliams said.

"If we do line up and lose ...we'll know they beat us, and we didn't beat ourselves. That's pretty much my philosophy of football. I don't beat myself."

Under Moore, Tech's offense - which was transformed last year from the standard Tech I-formation to the wishbone - never ranked better than eighth in the Southwest Conference.

So McWilliams has returned to the I, with a new emphasis on passing. In Tech's spring game, 72 passes were thrown, with No. 1 quarterback Billy Joe Tolliver and No. 3 Monte McGuire of Monahans combined for 16 completions in 35 attempts for 312 yards and five touchdowns.

McWilliams, a native of Cleburne, said he won't be distraught if the Red Raiders don't immediately rocket to an undefeated season. But he wants success, and he wants it right away, he emphasized.

Asked it his first season truly is THAT big a hurdle, McWilliams replied, "Not for anybody else but me, because I want it so bad."

Has he set a timetable for desired success?

"Day by day," McWilliams said, grinning but in all seriousness.

"We're not on a one, two or three year plan. I've never been one to set long-range goals. I just want to do something today to make our program better tomorrow. That way, we have a chance to be ready in September and the year after."

Lots of trades...

Draft day filled with surprises

NEW YORK (AP) - The surprises started early on draft day and continued until the last pick of the first round.

The eye-opening developments included two blockbuster trades, both involving the Philadelphia 76ers, that were announced just hours before Tuesday's National Basketball Association draft.

One deal sent three-time Most Valuable Player Moses Malone, forward Terry Catledge and Philadelphia's 21st pick in the first round to Washington for Jeff Ruland and Cliff Robinson. The other deal gave Cleveland its first No. 1 draft pick in 15 years, while veteran forward Roy Hinson went to the 76ers.

Once the draft started, the Cavaliers used their newly acquired first pick to take Brad Daugherty of North Carolina, Boston followed with Maryland's Len Bias and Golden State grabbed Chris Washburn of North Carolina. The selection of those three Atlantic Coast Conference stars was no surprise.

Then came the first of two first-round shockers when Indiana passed up 7-foot center William Bedford and took 6-8 forward Chuck Person of Auburn, bringing boos from a draft party crowd at Market Square Arena. They were wondering what the Pacers were going to do with four young forwards - Person, Herb Williams, Clark Kellogg and Wayman Tisdale - and scarcely any other talent.

The surprise pick made a shambles of the probable plans of at least four other teams and a like number of draft prospects.

New York, expected to take Person, picked next and grabbed another Southeastern Conference forward, Kenny Walker of Kentucky.

Phoenix, which had made no secret of their willingness to take guard Ron Harper of Miami, Ohio, couldn't resist the opportunity to take Bedford of Memphis State, who had been mentioned as a possible first pick overall.

Dallas took Roy Tarpley of Michigan with the No. 7 pick, making Harper, who has been compared to Julius Erving, available for the Cavaliers with their own No. 8 pick.

"We believe the quality of the team is better than it was a couple of days ago," Cavaliers President Thaxter Trafton said. Trafton, who handled the Cleveland draft in the absence of a coach or general manager, can add John Williams, the former Tulane star acquitted of point-shaving charges Monday, to the Cleveland roster along with Daugherty and Harper.

The final big surprise of the day came with the 24th and final pick of the first round when the Portland Trail Blazers, who took college player of the year Walter Berry with the 14th pick, drafted Arvidas Sabonis of the Soviet Union 10 picks later.

Sabonis, 7-2, is considered by many to be the best non-American basketball player, but his availability is suspect. He was drafted in the fourth round by Atlanta a year ago and reportedly was being recruited by Louisiana State Coach Dale Brown.

Joining Cleveland and Portland with two first-round picks were Washington and Denver.

The Bullets took 6-9 forward John Williams of LSU, the youngest player in the draft at 19, with the 12th pick. They used the 21st pick from the Malone deal to select guard Anthony Jones of Nevada-Las Vegas.

Denver, picking 16th and 18th, tried to bolster its backcourt and front line by taking guard Maurice Martin of St. Joseph's and forward Mark Alarie of Duke.

Other first-rounders included No. 9 Brad Sellers of Ohio State by Chicago, No. 10 Johnny Dawkins of Duke by San Antonio, No. 11 John Salley of Georgia Tech by Detroit, No. 13 Dwayne Washington by New Jersey, No. 15 Dell Curry of Virginia Tech by Utah, No. 17 Harold Pressley of Villanova by Sacramento, No. 19 Billy Thompson by Atlanta, Buck Johnson of Alabama 20th by Houston, No. 22 Scott Skiles of Michigan State by Milwaukee and Ken Barlow of Notre Dame 23rd by the Lakers.

Daniel Boone and 27 others were captured by Indians in 1778 at Blue Lick, Ky.

Texas Rangers get booted in more ways than one, 4-0

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) - The Texas Rangers, atop the American League West since May 24 but in the midst of their longest slump of the season, were well on their way to their fourth straight loss when they really swung into action.

However, it was the wrong kind of action. And it didn't involve any swings of the bats that right-hander Mike Witt of the California Angels held quiet during a nine-hit shutout.

Showing the frustrations of their losing streak, Texas coaches Tim Foli and Tom House were ejected with two outs in the ninth inning Tuesday night, just before the Angels completed a 4-0 victory over the Rangers.

Both were tossed without any apparent arguments. Foli, the third base coach, was ousted without warning by plate umpire Derryl Cousins for commenting on the size of the batter's box.

Before play could resume, first base umpire Jim Evans ejected House, the pitching coach, who was arguing from the dugout.

When play did resume, it was for only one pitch, as Geno Petralli flied to center to end the game.

"We hit line drives and the grass sucked up a lot of ground balls," said Texas Manager Bobby Valentine, whose club had weathered two earlier three-game losing streaks. "We didn't have anything to show for it. But things will start falling in for us, I guarantee it."

Witt, 8-4, managed to retire the side in order only twice in going the route for the sixth time this season. He walked one and struck out five, and his second shutout was repeatedly protected by the California defense.

The biggest assist belonged to second baseman Bobby Grich who, after Scott Fletcher's two-out double in the fifth, smothered Oddibe McDowell's single in short right-center. Fletcher had rounded third and was easily erased in a run-down after Grich threw the ball in.

"This was more a defensive shutout, than a pitching shutout," Witt said.

But Mahler, 0-2, suffered the loss because of Brian Downing's first-inning double, which scored Dick Schofield, who had walked.

With right-hander Jeff Russell taking over for Texas in the fifth, Doug DeCinces added a three-run homer following singles by Reggie Jackson and George Hendrick.

Sue C. Boggs, 62, was pronounced dead at the scene according to the accident report filed by the Tampa police. Boggs' 82-year-old grandmother, Hahie Graham, suffered a broken leg and cuts. She was listed in stable condition at Tampa General Hospital.

According to the police report, Dennell Taylor, a 31-year-old work release inmate, was driving the truck. He was charged with failure to stop at a red light.

CYCLING

BELLINZONA, Switzerland (AP) - Guy Nulens of Belgium won the seventh leg of the Tour de Suisse cycling race on a penalty to first-place finisher Giuseppe Calcaterra of Italy. Andrew Hampsten of the United States retained his overall lead, with three legs to go.

Nulens and Calcaterra were among the pack of eight that finished first, in 3 hours, 57 minutes and 19 seconds. Nulens' average speed on the 88-mile course was 32.74 mph.

42 die in South African violence

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Reporters were taken in mesh-protected police buses on a conducted tour of Soweto, but saw no signs of unrest in the vast black township outside Johannesburg.

The tour Tuesday took the 20 local and foreign journalists through several neighborhoods in the black community of 1.5 million, but the buses did not stop and the reporters were not allowed to speak with Soweto residents.

Press restrictions imposed since a state of emergency was declared Thursday bar journalists from black townships, prohibit reports on the activities of security forces — which means no violence can be reported without official permission — and forbid the dissemination of "subversive statements."

The government reported Tuesday that 11 blacks were killed during and after a strike by millions of blacks on Monday's anniversary of the bloody 1976 Soweto uprising, bringing to 42 the number of people killed since the emergency declaration.

The daily average of eight deaths compares with 2.4 per day last year and five this year before the emergency.

Anglican envoy Terry Waite arrived to investigate the plight of clerics among an estimated 2,000 people jailed without charge under the sweeping emergency powers.

Waite, representing Archbishop of Canterbury Robert Runcie, toured Soweto with black Anglican Bishop Desmond Tutu. Emergency regulations prohibited reporters from accompanying them.

A report released Tuesday by the Institute of Race Relations, an independent monitoring body, said 213 people were killed during May in anti-apartheid or related violence.

That was the highest monthly toll in the riots and protest that began in September 1984 against apartheid, the racial policy with which South Africa's whites maintain supremacy over the 24 million voteless blacks. The institute says the violence has cost 1,782 lives.

The Institute of Race Relations, which compiles its figures from police and press reports and some independent sources, said killings by security forces dropped to 22 percent of the total in May, compared with more than half last year.

It rejected government claims that blacks killing other blacks account for about two-thirds of recent fatalities, but it said black-on-black violence was responsible for 41 percent of the May deaths. The institute could not fix responsibility for the others.

Many blacks have been killed by others who see them as sellouts to the white authorities, and violence has occurred between such conflicting groups as militant foes of apartheid and conservative black vigilantes.

Police have been accused of arming and supporting vigilante groups, but deny it.

A cameraman for the American CBS news bureau, Wim de Vos, left Tuesday night after a court upheld a deportation order issued last week.

De Vos, a Dutch citizen who lived in South Africa for 11 years, was escorted to Johannesburg's Jan Smuts Airport immediately after a judge described the order as harsh but legal. The order gave no reasons for the expulsion.

Irving dad heads for Soviet Union

DALLAS (AP) — The father of a Texas girl hospitalized in Moscow was in Washington early today, where he planned to get a visa to travel to the Soviet Union to see his daughter, the girl's mother said.

Gordon Riggs, father of Lisa Riggs, 17, traveled to Washington Tuesday afternoon to secure a visa and head for Moscow.

"A representative from (U.S. Rep.) Martin Frost's office will go with him to the State Department to help expedite the visa. He will head out this evening for Moscow," said Cheryl Riggs, Riggs' ex-wife.

Their daughter, who was part of an Irving high school tour of Eastern block nations, suffered an asthma attack and cardiac difficulties after climbing to the top of a circus arena Sunday in Moscow. She was in satisfactory condition early today, Ms. Riggs said.

With help from Frost's officer and a direct call to the American embassy, the girl's parents finally learned about their daughter's condition late Monday. Riggs also received an emergency visa sooner than usual with help from Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas.

Riggs, a Dallas computer consultant with the Federal Reserve Bank, said he would stay with his daughter about a week, until she could travel.

"If she's improving as rapidly as we are told she is, he will be bringing her home rather quickly," Ms. Riggs said.

The Riggs, who first heard of their daughter's plight Sunday afternoon, did not know how serious the attack had been until late Monday. They said they were unable to learn of anything through the State Department.

"I'm still amazed at how I could get through to the embassy and yet the State Department, their emergency services, indicated that they could not," Riggs said. "I have a real hard time understanding that — how I can get through and the State Department emergency cannot. Its real frustrating."

A spokesman for Frost, D-Texas, said staff members also had difficulty getting assistance from the State Department.

The case has been referred to county juvenile authorities for further action.

In other action Tuesday, city officers jailed two suspects on misdemeanor charges including one for driving while intoxicated and another on warrants for unpaid traffic citations issued by the Department of Public Safety in Scurry County.

Supreme Court appointments...

Confirmations predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman and a liberal member of of the Senate Judiciary Committee today foresaw untroubled Senate confirmations of Supreme Court Justice William Rehnquist as the nation's next chief justice and staunch conservative Judge Antonin Scalia to take Rehnquist's place.

"We anticipate no particular strong opposition," to Reagan's surprise nomination of Rehnquist to succeed Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, Judiciary Committee Chairman Strom Thurmond said, anticipating hearings by the middle of next month.

A few Democrats expressed misgivings on ideological grounds — Rehnquist is often thought to be the court's most conservative member and Scalia fits the same mold — and Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., another Judiciary panelist, said questions would be raised about Rehnquist's health.

The justice suffered psychological disorientation a few years ago and had to be hospitalized after being taken off a drug used to ease back pain.

"I think that that's something that, when you hold a confirmation hearing, it would be a legitimate question, and I suspect Justice Rehnquist himself would want it answered," Leahy said. "I can't even believe he would even have accepted the president's appointment if he didn't think that was something that could be solved."

Thurmond said he did not anticipate roadblocks to Reagan's plan to elevate Scalia to the high court after the Senate acts on the Rehnquist nomination.

Scalia, 50, a legal scholar most of his life, has been a member of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals — considered the nation's No. 2 courtroom — since Reagan put him there in 1972. He would become the youngest justice and the first one of Italian-American descent.

Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., a Judiciary Committee liberal, went along with Thurmond's forecast of relatively easy confirmation proceedings on both nominations. Both appeared on the NBC "Today" show.

"Both men are quality people," said Simon. "There undoubtedly will be some questions, oparticularly to Judge Scalia, but everything I hear is very favorable about these men of quality."

Thurmond said hearings would probably begin in mid-July, days after the end of the court's current term. Burger's retirement will take effect upon the confirmation of his successor.

Thurmond said Rehnquist "is highly respected and, in my opinion, will make a great chief justice." He praised Scalia's reputation for "fairness and integrity."

Despite Thurmond's prediction, Democrats likely will voice opposition to both men because of their conservatism.

Sen. Donald Riegle, D-Mich., said Rehnquist "has not demonstrated ... the extraordinary capacity for leadership one expects in a chief justice."

Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., said Scalia has passed a conservative "litmus test and I find that frightening."

Scalia's presence is not expected to alter significantly the court's ideological balance, but his youth and his recognized intellect could give the court a powerful conservative voice for decades to come.

As an appeals court judge, Scalia has voted for the right of the U.S. Park Service to bar demonstrators from sleeping in Washington parks and for a requirement that criminal defendants claiming insanity undergo examinations.

He also wrote an article calling the Freedom of Information Act, the law that defines the public's right to obtain government documents and attend meetings, "the Taj Mahal of the Doctrine of Unanticipated Consequences, the Sistine Chapel of Cost-Benefit Analysis Ignored."

Burger, saying "17 years is long enough for anybody," said he is retiring to devote full time to running the national commission coordinating the 1987 celebration of the Constitution's 200th birthday.

Burger, who in retirement will receive his full annual salary of $108,400, is serving as the bicentennial commission's chairman for no pay.

Burger told Reagan about his retirement decision on May 27. For the past three weeks, it remained one of Washington's best-kept secrets.

The chief justice stunned aides during a dinner in his office late Monday night when he revealed his plans to retire.

He said his fellow justices also were surprised.

Burger, 78, was appointed chief justice in 1969 by President Nixon, an admirer of Burger's tough "law and order" views.

In a 17-year tenure he helped lead the court away from the liberal paths it had pursued in the 1960s into an era of caution and conservatism.

Scalia, 50, was named to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia by Reagan in 1982. He had been a law professor since 1967, most recently at the University of Chicago.

Scalia would be the first American of Italian descent to serve on the court.

He would also be the court's youngest member. Without Burger's retirement, the present court would have become in November the oldest in history.

The court's average age is 71. With Scalia, the average age would be 68.

Scalia is a Roman Catholic and the father of nine children. He is an avid jogger and is active in Washington social circles, where he and Justice Sandra Day O'Connor became friends.

O'Connor is the only justice Reagan has placed on the court so far.

Rehnquist, 61, for 15 years has ranked as the court's leading conservative. Known for his wit, charm and informal style, Rehnquist likes to discuss cases pending before the court while strolling the court's grounds with his law clerks.

Achille Lauro hijacking...

Defense: accused fighting for cause

GENOA, Italy (AP) — The trial of 14 men charged with hijacking the Achille Lauro cruise ship, killing a crippled American passenger, and holding more than 300 people hostage opened today under heavy security in a Genoa courtroom.

Only four of the defendants in the case are in custody. Ten others, including the alleged mastermind behind the Oct. 7 hijacking, Palestinian guerrilla leader Abul Abbas, are being tried in absentia.

The 14 defendants are charged with hijacking the ship, murdering 69-year-old New Yorker Leon Klinghoffer, and holding 194 passengers and 189 crew members who were on board when the ship was seized between Egyptian port calls.

Conviction on all the charges could result in life prison terms.

Sixteen men originally were indicted in the case, but Judge Lino Monteverde today ordered charges against two of them dropped for lack of evidence. They had been accused of playing minor roles.

However, the prosecution added a Greek man, Petros Flores, to the list of those on trial, alleging that his passport was used by one of the defendants to board the ship when it set sail from Genoa. Flores was indicted on the lesser charges of aiding and abetting.

A helicopter of the paramilitary police circled over the courthouse, and the public, primarily journalists, underwent X-ray screenings and metal detector searches before entering the courtroom.

Italian authorities assigned 600 police and paramilitary police to guard the court in this northern port city.

About two hours into the session, two men and two women were dragged out of the courtroom after shouting "we are for the Palestinian revolution." The judge ordered a temporary recess.

Defense attorney Gianfranco Pagano, in an interview Tuesday, said the defense would argue that the defendants are not terrorists, but fighters for the Palestinian cause, and that Klinghoffer's death was not part of their plan.

Pagano said the defense also will argue that only Youssef Magid al-Molqi, the hijacker accused of shooting Klinghoffer, should be tried for murder.

AJRA finals to draw state TV eye be filmed Thursday and Friday night also to provide "backup" footage for the Saturday live coverage. Competition events related to the AJRA finals will be conducted the entire week of Aug. 11-16.

Negotiations are also underway to sell the broadcast rights to the national all-sports network, ESPN, as well as the independent national network for youngsters, Nickelodeon.

"We'll want to insure that the name "Snyder" is displayed in large signs throughout the coliseum and that a good sized crowd is there during the filming," Miller said.

To encourage attendance, she noted she will be making appearances before civic groups and senior citizen centers in communities surrounding Snyder.

The sale of group tickets will be encouraged, she said.

The planning includes also an effort to keep individuals associated with the AJRA "in Snyder" through the end of the rodeo Sunday.

As part of this, a reunion of AJRA alumni and boosters is planned to include an "exes rodeo" on Sunday, Aug. 17.

An AJRA parade is planned in the city Saturday, Aug. 16, also.

Regarding sponsors for the television filming of this year's national finals, she said they have already signed GMC, McDonalds, Walls, Barq's Root Beer, Stetson and the area business Abilene Boot Company.

The week of the AJRA is traditionally viewed by local merchants as one of the best weeks for sales in the city — described by some as second only to Christmas.

Following Miller's presentation, the chamber board voted unanimously to fund an additional $3,000 to help with preproduction costs associated with the filming.

The local chamber expense, which now totals $5,000, will be returned from initial profits derived from the television production.

Under the chamber's agreement with Accolade Inc., the chamber also stands to receive a share of any additional profits from the television rights.

Once the chamber's expense is paid back, Accolade is due the next $4,000 in profits. All amounts earned above this will be shared with 20 percent going to Accolade, 40 percent to the chamber and 40 percent to the national AJRA association.
