Definite Move Now Awaited By Officials

County Judge Confirms Rumors That Petition Asking For Election Being Expected

Will Lubbock county vote on whether beer may be sold legally within its boundaries?

Judge J. J. Dillard of county court confirmed rumors this morning that the commissioners court had expected a petition asking a beer election Aug. 23, when the electorate goes to the polls to ballot on state amendments.

Petition Is Reported

"It was unofficially understood there was likelihood the petition would be given to the court last Monday, when commissioners conducted a regular semi-monthly session, but it was not presented," said Judge Dillard.

Is there further indication such a petition may be filed?

"I haven't been definitely informed," said Judge Dillard, "but expect to hear something more this afternoon. Names of those identified with passing it were not announced.

Political influence was read into possibilities a petition may be filed "at the eleventh hour, just in time to have the election ordered within the prescribed legal period," said others who had been talked with concerning possibility of such an election. Lubbock county votees a strong dry ticket.

Law Is Explained

County Attorney Robert J. Allen, who had not been informed a beer election might be asked, said the law provides under amendments to section 20, article 16 that beer elections may be ordered for a date not less than 10 or more than 20 days ahead.

Before such an election can be ordered, a petition bearing the names of 10 per cent of the qualified voting strength cast by the county for the governor in the last election must be presented.

Since Lubbock county was dry as a unit when prohibition went into effect, there can be "no piecemeal" division of the county on the wet and dry question, the law provides. Lubbock county must be en-

Contests Will Be Held Here

Swimming meets at Lubbock City pool in Mackenzie park at 7 o'clock tonight, at Spur tomorrow afternoon and Brownfield August 3 will bring to a close district contests to choose contestants in the council area Boy Scout meet here August 12, according to Earl M. McClure, Scout executive.

Approximately 100 boys have entered each of the district meets, to chose the 125 to 150 contenders for the council event.

Contests here tonight are for all troops in the county except those in Slaton, who will compete at Brownfield.

Barbecue To Be Held

The Spur meet will start at 3 p. m. and be followed by a barbecue at 6:30 p. m. and a court of honor at 8 o'clock. A beef will be killed for the barbecue, sponsored by the Rotary club and American Legion post. In charge of arrangements will be Maurice Golding, assisted by Ned Hogan, Lester Ericson, W. D. Starcher, S. T. Clemons, W. R. Weaver, E. S. Crider, L. E. Lee, A. M. Wofford, Luther Powell and E. O. McGee.

O. B. Wadsack has charge of the swimming meet there and O. L. Kelley will preside at the court of honor. Troops participating will be from Lorenzo, Ralls, Mt. Blanco, Crosbyton, McAdoo, Afton, and Spur.

Participants will be divided into three class ages: juniors, 12 and 13 years of age; intermediates, 14 and 15; and seniors, 16 and 17. There will be seven events for each division, those in charge pointed out.

Winners Eligible For District

First, second, and third place winners in all the events and divisions will be eligible for a council-wide swimming meet to be held here at

CONGRESS PROGRAM SET

Paths Cleared For Vote On Labor Plan

Drastic Changes Are Written Into Measure In House But Quick Action Is Expected

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 29—Agreements to defer two controversial side issues cleared a path today for a quick senate vote on the administration wage and hour bill.

It faced a further obstacle, however, in the house, whose labor committee wrote in drastic changes.

Senate debate was curtailed by Senator Vandenberg's decision not to press for a vote on his rider, which would have increased union responsibility under the Wagner labor relations act.

To Hold Hearings

Chairman Black (D-Ala) assured Vandenberg the labor committee would hold hearings on his proposal as soon as possible.

In return for a promise by Majority Leader Barkley to consider action at this session on anti-lynching legislation, Senator Copeland (D-NY) agreed not to continue his efforts to tack the Wegner-Van Nuys anti-lynching bill onto the wage and hour or other measures as a rider.

Proponents of the labor legislation, however, predicted a disagreement between the house and senate.

Amendment Approved

The house labor committee approved yesterday an amendment empowering an administrative board to fix minimum wages not higher than 70 cents an hour and a maximum work week of not less than 35 hours.

The work week could not be made longer than 40 hours except under special circumstances.

Under the senate bill the board could not fix a minimum wage higher than 40 cents nor a maximum week of less than 40 hours. Both measures apply only to industries in interstate commerce.

Per Capita May Be Cut Next Monday

AUSTIN, July 29. (AP)—Foiled in efforts to hold a special meeting to reduce the school per capita apportionment, a bare majority of the board of education may achieve such reduction at the board's next regular meeting Monday.

Ben F. Tisinger of Dallas, one of the members favoring a cut of the unprecedented $22 state aid allotment, said his faction had abandoned an attempt to muster a quorum here last Saturday or Sunday.

Tisinger explained that he and other members had found fixing of the apportionment after Aug. 1 would be legal.

Ghent Sanderford of Austin, president of the Board, took the position the figure could not be changed. He said it had not yet been decided whether the board would meet at Dallas or Austin.

One-Year Suspended Sentence Given Woman In Shooting

PARIS, July 29. (AP)—Three justices in criminal court today gave Mme. Madeline La Perriere a one-year suspended sentence after a speedy trial on charges of shooting Count Charles De Chambrun, who she accused of breaking up her friendship with Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy.

The judges, who had barred part of the trial to the public and press, also fined the woman 100 francs ($3.75), then ordered her freed under the suspended sentence.

Theater Man Is Convicted For Misconduct In Beauty Judging

LOS ANGELES, July 29. (AP)—Boirs Posner, theater manager, was convicted on a morals charge today for allegedly misconducting himself while judging bathing beauty contest entrants.

He was sent to jail without bail pending sentencing tomorrow.

Posner denied the girls' charges. "Girls entering bathing beauty contests must be measured, and none of the girls appeared at the time, to resent the manner in which I measured them," Posner testified.

Enraged Farmer Kills Couple And Himself After Robbery

(By The Associated Press)

FREDERICK, Md., July 29—The rage of a mountain farmer, who claimed he had been robbed of $2,100 by two women who "took the money from under my pillow," left all three dead today.

Sheriff Roy M. Hiltner said the farmer, Charles Martin, 58, shot and killed the two women in the Blue mountain section 12 miles from here, then, as an officer approached Martin's home to arrest him, committed suicide.

Officers found the body of Mrs. Hannah Hahn, 38, more than a mile from her home. In the Hahn home, they found Mrs. Mary Albright, 36, of Gettysburg, Pa., fatally wounded. Her young child, unharmed, was seated in her lap.

William H. Green, a farmer who lived near the Hahn home, told Sheriff Hiltner Martin came to his home late yesterday and said:

"I just shot those women. They took me home Monday night and robbed me of $2,100. They took the money from under my pillow."

Sheriff Hiltner said a preliminary search for the money Martin claimed was stolen from him was unsuccessful.

Strike Situation Over Country Quiet Today

(By The Associated Press)

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 29.—Groceries rushed to empty store shelves as 1,000 truck drivers, on strike for eight days, return to wheels at higher wages and with preferential shops; strike of 1,000 union butchers continues.

PITTSBURGH — Twenty-two hundred miners resume work at three Bethlehem Steel corporation mines, ending two-week sympathy strike; union prepares to negotiate on new working agreement.

CLEVELAND — Police consider double shift duty to check assaults and window smashing at Republic Steel corporation strike scenes.

Hotels Restore Order

SAN FRANCISCO — Hotels rush to restore normal operations after 89-day strike ends with pact to preclude strikes and lockouts the next four years; settlement provides for arbitration on wage increases and 40-hour week.

WASHINGTON — Senator Nye (R-ND) reiterates statement that federal labor agents shows "undue preference" for CIO; Assistant Secretary of Labor McGrady replies he is taking no sides in settlement of Apex hosiery mill strike at Philadelphia; Senator Bailey (D-NC) in committee minority report says "army itself should have been called out" to guard mail during steel strike; path cleared for speedy senate vote on wage-hour bill.

ELKINS, W. Va. — Strike leader announces plan to picket majority of Montgomery Ward stores because of freight movements through picket lines at plant here.

New Demonstration Area Is Designated

FORT WORTH, July 29. (AP)—The Soil Conservation service of the department of agriculture today announced approval by the secretary of agriculture of a new demonstration area covering approximately 25,000 acres in Wilbarger county.

The new area, the fourteenth established in Texas, includes the watershed of Adams creek.

H. H. Bennett, chief of the service, said land conditions and erosion problems in the area were typical of those existing in a large part of the rolling plains soil region of Texas and southern Oklahoma.

Memphis, Tex., Man Is Found Shot To Death In Oklahoma

MUSKOGEE, Okla., July 29 (AP)—J. R. Middleton, Memphis, Tex., about 65, was found shot to death in his hotel room here today. A pistol was found near the body.

Middleton, a World war veteran, had come to the veterans hospital here for treatment, J. F. Beavers, assistant county attorney, said a note was found in Middleton's room asking that S. B. Smith, Lakeview, Texas, be notified.

Food Poisoning Case Probed In Los Angeles; 95 Are Ill

LOS ANGELES, July 29. (AP)—County relief and health authorities today began an investigation into the cause of the food poisoning of 95 men at Tuesday night's dinner at the American home, a project operated by the county charities department.

Eleven of the victims were recovering at the general hospital and the 84 others, in various stages of illness, were being treated at the home.

"Present Mess Will Do The Nation Good"

(By The Associated Press)

DETROIT, July 29.—Henry Ford will be 74 years old tomorrow but he plans no special observance of the occasion. He said today, however, that he is looking forward to a wedding anniversary eight months hence.

"I have never really celebrated a birthday," Ford explained. "I guess I never gave the occasion much thought. I always kept myself so busy with my work that I had very little time to celebrate.

"We'll save the celebration until Mrs. Ford's birthday next year," he added. "Then we can also celebrate our golden anniversary. We were married on her birthday 49 years ago."

In the interview, Ford expressed optimism for industry, predicted that the "present mess" would do the country "more good than most people expect," and observed that disillusionment can be an excellent teacher.

Battle For Madrid Lapses Into A Deadlocked Lull

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, July 29. (AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco's eastern army was reported today to have driven across the Teruel-Cuenca provincial border, poised like a scalpel over the Spanish government's Madrid-Valencia lifeline.

While the battle for Madrid lapsed into a deadlocked lull, the insurgent chieftain's legions, some 100 miles east of Madrid, were reported thrusting slowly south from the rocky Albarracin sector toward the provincial capital, Cuenca.

Child Rallies After Reported Dead From Rattlesnake Bite

SAN ANTONIO, July 29. (AP)—After having been reported dead, five-year-old Ernest Rauschauber rallied and was given a "slight" chance to live at the county hospital where he was being treated for a rattlesnake bite this afternoon.

He was bitten on his father's farm ten miles southeast of the city this morning.

Leaders Plan Quick Action On Proposals

Wage-Hour, Housing And Court Bills Head The Schedule; Adjournment Date Not Set

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 29—Congressional chieftains took back to the capitol from the White House today a determination to pass as much of the administration program as possible before yielding to adjournment demands.

The wage-hour, housing and court bills headed the schedule agreed on by house and senate leaders after a two-hour canvass with President Roosevelt.

No Date Mentioned

They were understood to be hoping for an adjournment by mid-August but would not mention any specific date.

Their refusal to fix a tentative time was designed to head off filibusters and to block "pressure moves" for troublesome legislation.

Blocs were organized in both houses to bring about a vote on a sugar quota law to replace the expiring Jones-Costigan act. In the senate there were demands for action on anti-lynching legislation, which the house has passed.

Conference Is Set

President Roosevelt arranged to confer today with legislators from the sugar states in an effort to work out a bill which could be passed without too much delay.

Speaker Bankhead and Democratic Leader Rayburn of the house and Democratic Leader Barkley of the senate listed back of the wage-hour, housing and court bills, a group of measures on which they said they hoped to obtain action, including the sugar bill, legislation to plug tax loopholes, and crop insurance.

In a highly doubtful category they placed government reorganization and general farm legislation. The house agriculture committee decided yesterday to defer the farm bill until next year.

Court Bill Next

Tentatively, Barkley said, it was the intention to take up the new court bill after the housing measure.

Barkley said there had been no discussion at the White House of the proposal by Senator Minton (D-Ind) to amend the court bill by requiring that two thirds of the supreme court concur to invalidate acts of congress.

Except for this proposal, senate leaders were confident the new bill to speed up lower federal courts would go through quickly. In fact, they apparently were holding back the measure to forestall the adjournment rush expected to develop after its approval.

Il Duce Celebrates Birthday With Review Of Huge Fleet

RICCIONE, Italy, July 29. (AP)—Premier Mussolini celebrated his 54th birthday today with a review of the first squadron of the Adriatic fleet anchored here.

The review, however, was not considered by Il Duce as a celebration but as part of his job as minister of the Italian navy. Il Duce does not celebrate the fact that he is getting older.

Texans Make Up Their Minds On Vacation And Stick To It

(By The Associated Press)

SALT LAKE CITY, July 29.—Getting out his newspaper don't stop J. H. Willard, publisher of the Tyler county Booster, Woodville, Texas, from taking a Rocky mountain vacation.

Not Mr. Willard nor Mrs. Willard, who back home in Woodville is the star reporter of the Booster.

"It was easy when we made up our minds that nothing was going to spoil our vacation," explained the publisher upon his arrival here today.

"We just printed the paper two weeks ahead, got it ready for mailing and hopped into our car for the trip north.

"But how about the local news," the star reporter was asked.

"Oh, I knew all about who was going away and where and what social events were scheduled," replied Mrs. Willard. "So I wrote all about them in advance."

Willard says he is the original "Mrms" editor. The familiar style no longer appears in the Booster—nowadays it's Mrms. Jones instead of Mr. and Mrs. Jones.

The Willards are accompanied on their tour by Mr. and Mrs.—beg pardon—Mrms. L. H. Jennings and Jean David, all of Tyler county.

Another Term Being Hinted For Allred

Adviser Of Governor Declares Work Of Next Session Will Determine Future Course

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, July 29—Edward Clark, secretary of state and adviser of Governor James V. Allred, reiterated today he believed a strong possibility existed that Allred would try to shatter precedent and obtain election to a third term.

Clark intimated, however, that the governor probably would decide against such a course if the legislature at its fall session enacted the major points of his program. He listed these points as provision for balancing the budget, financing a broad social security program and state regulation of public utilities.

Prepared To Run

"The governor is prepared to run if it's necessary," Clark said. "However, accomplishments of the fall session or sessions may change the whole picture."

The secretary of state said that in his recent travels over Texas he had found little opposition to a governor serving three two-year terms.

"The national precedent," he said, "is that presidents serve only two four-year terms. Many congressmen, state and local officers are chosen for three or more two-year terms. The Fergusons between them were elected to four terms as governor."

Farm Problems Are Discussed By Central Texans Today

WACO, July 29. (AP)—Agricultural problems were discussed informally in hotel lobbies and on street corners this morning by farmers from North and Central Texas, here for a meeting sponsored by the Texas Agricultural association.

The meeting, called by H. G. Lucas, president of the association, for a discussion of farm legislation, was scheduled for 2 p. m. in the auditorium on the Cotton Palace grounds.

New King For Egypt Today

(By The Associated Press)

CAIRO, Egypt, July 29. — A stalwart, firm-chinned youth of 18, His Majesty Farouk the first, was invested today as the first king of an independent Egypt since the Mameluke rulers were conquered by Turkish hordes in the 16th century.

With a dignity far beyond his years, the husky shouldered monarch took oath before his assembled chamber and senate.

Has Several Titles

He became king of Misr, lord of Nubia and the Sudan and sovereign of Kordofan and Darfour to the wild acclaim of 15,000,000 subjects and a display of fanfare and ritual within this ancient capital.

He vowed "by Almighty God to respect and obey the constitution and laws of the Egyptian people, safeguard my country's independence and defend its territory."

Shouts of "yehia el malek!"—"long live the king!" — throughout his land echoed the acclaim that broke out among the select assembly in the parliament building.

No Crown In Egypt

There is no crown of Egypt and the ceremony was an investiture rather than a coronation in the western sense. The suggestion that Farouk should be crowned with the 3,000-year-old diadem of Tut-Ankh-Amen had been overruled because the actual crowning of a king is not in accord with Islamic law.

Farouk is the first invested king of Egypt. His father, Faud, the first, had changed the title from the traditional one of sultan to king.

Boost In Surtaxes On Holding Companies Is Being Talked

WASHINGTON, July 29. (AP) — Members of a senate-house tax committee talked today of boosting surtaxes on personal holding companies to as high as 70 per cent to restrict their alleged use for tax avoidance purposes.

The present surtaxes vary from 8 to 48 per cent, with the income of the corporations.

The committee met today to discuss taxation of non-resident aliens and perhaps the question of foreign corporations and insurance companies.

Former Rector Is Rescued From Lion By Young Girl

SKEGNESS, Eng., July 29. (AP) — Harold Davidson, defrocked vicar of Stiffkey, probably owed his life today to Rene Somer, a 16-year-old sideshow attendant who saved him from an enraged lion.

As it was the 65-year-old former rector was dangerously injured. Davidson was delivering a speech yesterday from the lion's den as a sideshow attraction when the lion started mauling him.

The girl seized a whip and an iron rod and drove the animal back while she dragged Davidson from the cage. Then she fainted.

American Lives Are In Danger During Battle

(By The Associated Press)

The lives of Tientsin's many Americans were imperilled today by a literal death struggle between the Chinese and Japanese armies in North China.

The Japanese army, in a drastic effort to route a Chinese attack that threatened to drive it from Tientsin, its North China stronghold, loosed a devastating aerial bombardment on the city.

Japanese officers declared the acute situation compelled them to ignore "earlier assurances not to expose the city's foreign residents to peril."

Wave on wave of bombing squadrons set many of Tientsin's principal buildings afire, particularly the railroad center, and burned the international bridge connecting the foreign concessions and the Chinese city.

Bombs rained on densely populated Chinese quarters. One village, on Tientsin's outskirts, was an inferno.

Both at Tientsin and Peiping, Americans huddled in the cellars of the foreign concessions and swarmed for safety in embassy compounds, spurred to shelter by memories of the wave of foreign slayings during the Boxer rebellion of 1900.

Evacuation Is Delayed

American commercial investments in the area total about $25,000,000, mostly in Tientsin. In Washington, Secretary of State Cordell Hull said a wholesale evacuation of Americans would be undertaken only in a grave emergency.

Three Chinese armies—the 26th, 29th and 40th—attacked in concert to gain the strategic Tientsin area and cut Japanese communications with the interior.

Striking at Japanese entrenchments along a 95-mile front, the Chinese carried out their offensive from Tangku, Tientsin's port 20 miles to the east, to Pengtai, Japanese field headquarters west of Peiping.

Attack Is Sudden

The attack was sudden, swift and strong. It drove the Japanese from Tientsin's three key railroad stations and the Japanese concession, precipitating furious Japanese aerial and artillery bombardment of the city.

The 37th division of the 29th army mysteriously withdrew from Peiping, where all but about 15 of the 675 American residents were quartered in emergency encampments behind the embassy compound gates.

Not a Chinese soldier remained within the former capital or its environs. Peiping's lacework of barricades was ripped down and newly-dug trenches in the main streets were filled in.

One report ascribed the withdrawal to a pre-arranged Sino-Japanese understanding to end the crisis without loss of face. Another suggested the 37th division had made a strategic retreat to join the main Chinese forces toward Tientsin.

Newspapers Angered

Chinese newspapers at Shanghai, angered by the sudden collapse of Chinese resistance at Peiping, accused leaders of a "coup d'etat which betrayed the nation." Unconfirmed reports said a "peace conference" was under way.

Chinese shore batteries opened fire on Japanese destroyers off Tangku, Tientsin's port. The Japanese naval force sheiled the port city and land forces attempted to silence the Chinese batteries.

Japanese war planes couted the Chinese coast. Chinese sources said seven Japanese warships were seen in the Formosan straits.

General Gen Sugiyama, Japanese war minister, intimated to the parliament in Tokyo that a clash might come with the central Chinese army and that the conflict might spread beyond North China.

Wholesale reinforcements were being dispatched to China and the lower house passed legislation revising conscription and extending military secrets protection laws.

Health Program In State Is Mapped

AUSTIN, July 29. (AP)—The state board of health will complete plans for a district health program in August or early September.

Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, is preparing recommendations for the program which will have six administrative units and be financed by a $97,500 yearly appropriation for the next biennium.

The health officer said the board had not decided upon its next meeting date but the district setup would begin operations shortly after Sept. 1.

More than 20 cities he said, were seeking to become headquarters for the six districts. He abandoned plans for an inclusive tour of prospective headquarters sites but will visit some East and North Texas points next week and San Angelo on Aug. 20.

The health department will assign to each unit a medical director, a sanitary engineer, a food, drug and milk inspector, two nurses, a clerical worker and two sanitarians.

DOG HAS BEEN WAITING

DODGE CITY, Kas., July 29. (AP)—For three months now a brown and black dog has sat under a sign three miles east of here-waiting.

For what? No one here knows, but the prevalent theory is that a faithful animal is waiting for a master to return.

Polar Flight Is Believed Under Way

Silence Shrouds The Plans Of Russians But Huge Ship Is Believed To Have Started

(By The Associated Press)

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, July 29 — Daylight around the clock and ideal weather conditions most of the way lay ahead of a projected third Soviet transpolar airplane flight from Moscow today to an unannounced destination in America.

An American-trained pilot, Sigismund Levaneffsky, known as the "Lindbergh of Russia," was reported scheduled to take off a 5 a. m., Pacific standard time, with three to five other persons in a four-motored plane.

Delay Is Recalled

Absence of word of a takeoff after the announced time recalled delay of Moscow in announcing previous transpolar flights. The first venture was not announced for 24 hours.

Fairbanks was listed as a refueling stop. A group of Russian engineers hastily completed setting up the refueling station here, where the plane can land, take on gas and then fly on possibly to Chicago or New York.

Radio Network Busy

The U. S. signal corps' giant northland radio network was busy again long before the flight started, sending out reports of good weather most of the way and of ideal temperatures prevailing on the American side o fthe pole.

From here to within 1,500 miles of Moscow, it is daylight 24 hours a day at this time of the year.

The two preevious Soviet north pole flights were made in single motored planes over longer nonstop flights.

Woods Speaks Here Friday

Expectation that Dr. L. A. Woods, state superintendent of public instruction, will be greeted Friday by crowds aggregating more than 2,000 school officials and teachers when he visits and speaks in South Plains district of the state department was expressed this morning by Joseph R. Griggs, Lubbock county superintendent.

Woods will speak at Plainview at 10 a. m., in Lubbock Senior High school auditorium at 2 p. m. and at Lamesa High school auditorium at 8 p. m.

Ao Accompany Visiter

Griggs and G. D. Holbrook, deputy state superintendent for South Plains district, officially designated as "No. 2", will greet the state superintendent at Plainview and accompany him to Lamesa following the address here. Holbrook probably will introduce Dr. Woods at Plainview and Lamesa and Griggs in Lubbock.

Subject of Woods' address will be "Recent School Legislation and Other Problems Relating to Public Schools," and will be the first authoritative discussion here of measures enacted during the last session of the legislature.

In the audience here will be practically all of the city and county teachers now in Lubbock, a considerable representation from Texas Technological college and large delegations of superintendents, principals, teachers and trustees from Cochran, Hockley, Crosby and Dickens counties.

Later they will go to San Antonio and to Monterrey, Mex., to attend a Great American Insurance company convention. Riggs is manager of the Great American office here. Enroute home they will visit in Corpus Christi and will go by Camp Mystic at Hunt, where their daughter, Miss Marilyn Riggs, is spending a vacation. Miss Riggs will accompany her parents home.

Campbell Elkins, law student at the University of Texas, arrived Wednesday to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde F. Elkins of 1805 Thirteenth street.

Mrs. Grace Garrett of Mineral Wells is visiting relatives here.

English Princesses, Behavior Models, Have Amazing Freedom Of Conduct

BY HELEN WELSHIMER

When I was a little girl, how different it was! I wasn't allowed to stare over my shoulder at anyone, even a man with a very red nose or a boy who could wiggle his ears.

I couldn't ask questions — not dozens of them, one right after another, I mean — though there were all sorts of things that I wanted to know.

Little girls always wore hats, in the sun, grownups said, so their faces wouldn't get freckled.

And little girls didn't climb trees, play leap frog or marbles!

But I'll bet if England's Princess Elizabeth wanted to take away a page's mibbs she'd go back to the nursery with the pockets of her sweater spilling treasures.

The candid camera, that has been chasing King George's elder daughter, has revealed that she turns her head to stare, she points — right in front of people, too—and she will not wear a hat.

When I was a little girl any child who acted that way had to go without a new hair-ribbon or stay home from a birthday party. We were told that we must pattern after the princesses. Since we had none in America, we looked into the palaces of London town. Princesses never, never stared; never, never pointed; never, never made nuisances of themselves asking questions endlessly.

What are we coming to? Who are the models for child behavior?

Princess Elizabeth, right in the eye of the public, points, twists, squirms, talks. If she does these things, everyone else may, too, according to the old standard.

But when I was a little girl, I wouldn't have been allowed to play with Princess Elizabeth for fear I would act that way, too, which goes to show that times have changed.

Looking over your shoulder is bad luck — if you fail; but Princess Elizabeth (left) and Margaret Rose defy misfortune.

Benefit Party Planned By VFW Auxiliary Tonight

The woman's auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars is to sponsor a benefit bridge and forty-two party at 8:30 o'clock tonight at the Hilton hotel. Prizes for each table have been donated by Lubbock merchants, the president, Mrs. Ira Womack, announced.

Mrs. J. J. Smelser and Mrs. Ray Allen and daughter, Shirley Jean, returned Wednesday from two weeks' vacation in Christoval.

Truth Seekers Class Elects Mrs. Burgess As President

Mrs. H. J. Burgess was elected president of the Truth Seekers class of the First Baptist church at a covered dish luncheon given Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ted Barnett, eight miles east of town. She will succeed Mrs. Joe Pridmore, who resided.

Miss Margaret Gowan of Memphis is the guest of her brother, C. R. Gowan at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Tarleton, 2017 Fourteenth street.

Three Are Honored Here At Picnic Served At Park

Mesdames E. F. Lovell and J. J. Southard and Miss Vera Ballew were honored at a birthday picnic given at Mackenzie State park Tuesday night by members of the East Side Home Demonstration club. Gifts were presented to the honorees. Thirty-six persons attended.

Dorcas Society Meeting Held In Martin Residence

Mrs. W. F. Martin, 1115 Thirty-fourth street, was hostess to the Central Baptist Dorcas society Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Ran Smith read a scripture lesson, Mrs. E. R. Morris led an opening prayer, and Mrs. J. D. Welch presided over a business meeting.

Members present were Mesdames J. C. Cox, Osa Wilbanks, J. B. Wages, J. N. West, Welch, H. A. Harvey, Smith, G. R. Morris and A. J. Allcon. No more meeetings will be held by the society until after the church revival beginning the second Sunday in August.

Mrs. McGuire Gives Supper For Club

Mrs. Fraser McGuire was hostess to Rendezvous bridge club members Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. F. R. Friend, 2005 Broadway, with a bridge supper.

High score was made by Miss Willie Merle Sumner and second high by Miss Opal McMahon.

Others attending were Mesdames J. D. Jenkins, Raymond Cone, Woody Rodgers, Misses Winifred Hay, Mary Florence Knox, Virginia Newton, Lalla D'Spain, Julia Blackwell, Marjorie Scott, members, and Miss Jorga Barkham, a special guest.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Henly, Mrs. Ed Ainsworth and grandson, L. E. Stotts, jr., returned late Wednesday night after a trip through the Carlsbad caverns.

Jim Milam, associate lawyer with Crenshaw and Dupree, is to return next week-end from 10 days' vacation near Denver, Colo.

Granary Bill Is Approved

Endorsement of the ever normal granary bill now pending in congress was enthusiastically given by 1,500 northwest Texas farmers who gathered in mass meeting at Amarillo municipal auditorium yesterday, according to South Plains representatives who attended.

Probably 800 of those participating were from South Plains counties.

The meeting also went on record as favoring congress "staying in session until this bill is acted upon." Likewise, this action was nearly unanimous, although probably 50 voted against it.

Forty-Two Counties Represented

Forty-two counties were represented at the meeting. Nearly 100 car loads of South Plains farmers were represented. Hale county reported 10 car loads; Lamb, 13 cars; Motley, 10; Terry, eight; Yoakum, Crosby and Swisher, six each; Lubbock and Lynn, four each; Hockley, Dickens, Bailey and Garza, three each and Parmer, two.

J. R. Hogue, president of the Potter County Agricultural association, presided over the session and in a brief talk welcomed the visitors. He introduced two state association directors: E. H. Grimes, White Deer, district 1 and W. M. Kennedy, Muleshoe, district 2.

Speakers Are Heard

A committee of some 25 or 30 named on a resolutions committee reported at the close of the talk by Donald Kirkpatrick. H. G. Lucas, Brownwood, president of the state group, spoke on objectives of the meeting. He read three paragraphs from a letter from President Roosevelt to the senate agricultural committee, urging passage of the proposed bill. Cliff Day, Plainview, vice president introduced Kirkpatrick, legal counsel for the American Farm Bureau federation, who flew from Chicago Tuesday to Amarillo.

The act which was introduced in both house and senate recently, was the product of a series of conferences participated in by 100 or more farmers, representing all the national farm organizations and also nearly every branch of the industry. "It was written by the farmers themselves," he pointed out, "and it was drafted 15 times before it was finished."

National base acreages for the basic crops are set in the bill; wheat 64,400,000 acres; corn, 102,500,000 acres; about 30,000,000 cotton, and other figures for rice and tobacco. Provision is made for new land coming into cultivation also and plans for taking care of acreages destroyed by drouth, floods, etc.

Would Continue Three Years

The national totals are broken down into state totals for all crops, with state totals broken down into county totals. Those are allotted to farms. The program would continue for three years.

Commodity loans up to 85 per cent of the price in normal years would be made, with a parity price of 15 per cent. An insurance feature is to take care of drouth losses.

Cotton was not accorded a commodity loan directly, but there would be certain conditions attached. A parity price, with domestic and foreign consumption totals, is planned.

The cost would not exceed that of the present soil conservation program. That type of work would be included in the act at a cost of $235,000,000 and $375,000,000 set aside for parity prices.

Day presented the resolutions, as drafted by a committee headed by W. M. Deck.

"We favor a program to provide an ever normal granary as a matter of public interest," one resolution read. "We insist it not be done at the expense of producers.

Must Provide Parity Prices

"Parity prices in years of normal supply must be provided for if agriculture is to absorb its share of the rising costs of industry and labor. In years of abnormally large production, direct control of surpluses must be available and a permanent system of commodity loans be put into effect as a price stabilizer.

"We further favor positive controlled production."

Among the Lubbock county delegation were: George Eklund and V. L. Cade, Union; E. L. Wheeler and L. M. Hargrave, Wolfforth; Travis Tubbs, Isom Tubbs, C. C. Johson, county agent; H. E. Thompson, assistant county agent and W. R. Killian, Idalou, president of the county association. Dr. J. O. Ellsworth, Texas Tech, who has been with the soil conservation work in Amarillo, also was present.

Methods To Eliminate Dodging Of Taxes Being Outlined

TEXARKANA, Ark., July 29 (AP)—Revenue collectors of five states reached an agreement here today to exchange information on interstate cigaret shipments in an effort to eliminate "bootlegging."

The conference was attended by representatives of Arkansas, Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Tennessee.

Newt E. Shuffield, head of the cigaret tax division of the Arkansas department, described the meeting as "very satisfactory."

"The chief purpose of the meeting was to get wholesalers and state collectors together to devise some plan to halt bootlegging of cigarets," Shuffield said.

REVIVAL IS PLANNED

LAMESA, (Special)—The Midway Baptist church will conduct a revival from July 25 to August 8, with Rev. A. L. Shaw, pastor of the First Baptist church of Lockney, doing the preaching. H. M. Findley, evangelistic singer of Big Spring, will conduct singing at the revival.

Stern Lesson In Rioting

Waving "Old Glory" and singing "The Star Spangled Banner" in a futile effort to avoid arrest in New York, more than 100 men and women teachers who had just recevied their pink dismissal slips from WPA tangled with police reserves who were breaking up an attempted sit-in strike at Federal Education Project headquarters. There were more than 100 arrests and a score of teachers suffered head wounds, bruises and bloody noses.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, lumbago, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

FELT LIKE SHE WOULD DOUBLE UP WITH PAIN

Had Awful Attacks Of Gaseous Indigestion And Miserable Cramps Due To Gas; But Now Van-Tage Has Relieved Her And She Feels Fine.

Thousands in this city and section say: "VAN-TAGE gave me real relief. I never saw anything act like it does!" This is the Amazing Compound of Natural Roots and Herbs and Other Splendid Medicinal Agents now being introduced in this city at the Mark Halsey Drug Store, 1221 Broadway. Widely-Known people throughout this entire vicinity are publicly endorsing this Great Medicine. For instance just a few days ago, Mrs. Emma Gresham, of 118 W. 7th St., Dallas Texas, stated:

MRS. EMMA GRESHAM

Had Regular Attacks Of Nervous Indigestion

"I had regular ATTACKS of what I would call 'nervous' indigestion after meals, caused by an acid gassy condition of my stomach. I would have severe pains and sometimes I had spells of cramping so bad I felt like I was going to double up into a knot! The papers had been full of statements from people about the relief they got by taking Van-Tage so I decided to try it, and it seemed to start clearing the gas and acid from my stomach in no time at all, and the first thing I know I was beginning to eat big meals and enjoy them, and the terrible gas pains and cramping spells were relieved. I am so well pleased with Van-Tage that I urge everyone who suffers with troubles like mine to get this medicine and start taking it."

Is Like Taking Several Medicines At Once

VAN-TAGE contains over 30 Ingredients. So it is like taking several medicines at once. Brings forth gas and bloat, helps cleanse bowels, and invigorates sluggish kidneys, so that people declare it made them feel different ALL OVER. And—due to the immense volume in which it sells, the price of Van-Tage is reasonable. So get it—TODAY—at the Mark Halsey Drug Store, 1221 Broadway. —(Adv.)

LUBBOCK EVENING JOURNAL

LUBBOCK, TEXAS, THURSDAY, JULY 29, 1937

Gas House Gang Rides The Skids

SPORTOMETER by COLLIER PARRIS

Copyright, 1937

IT HAS NOT BEEN our pleasure to go out on a wild party with Mr. W. B. Irvin, the new superintendent of schools in Lubbock. In fact, since Mr. Irvin arrived to take over the duties relinquished by our friend, Dr. Kenneth Oberholtzer, this reporter has been so busy running down baseballs fouled over the fence that we haven't had occasion to meet and converse with Mr. Irvin.

But we like him.

We think a heap of him.

Mr. Irvin, we were advised some time ago, is a strong believer in scholastic athletics, a real football fan and a true supporter of athletes. This shows that he is broad minded, smart and modern.

So it was no great surprise, though of considerable significance and certainly of pleasing consequence, when yesterday's Journal carried the story about the proposed summer training camp for Coach Weldon Chapman's Westerner gridders.

Superintendent Irwin looked to his athletic department right away after moving in, realizing the value of the department to the school system, to the town and to the boys themselves, and right away he announced that the Westerners would hie themselves off to the hills for a period of conditioning before launching the 1937 grid campaign.

The Lubbock High school athletic council members also deserve a big hand for cooperating in this measure and for voting to help finance the deal. Superintendent Irvin's okay had to be signed, but there was no delay in this.

Mr. Irvin used to do a few odd jobs, such as teaching classes, supervising schools, etc., at Pampa. Mr. Irvin caused the Pampa High school athletic teams and athletes to be named "Harvesters." It was his idea, and it stuck.

The Harvesters are on the other side of the fence, now, and Mr. Irvin has adopted the Westerners as his own.

From the looks of things, he's going to take mighty good care of them.

Going to a summer camp may not make district champions out of the Westerners, but the benefits to be gained thereby are obvious. The Westerners did not go camping last season. They would have been a better team if they had gotten off to themselves for a week or so to talk over and prepare for the contests to come.

Thanks to you, Mr. Irvin. We'll get along.

BASEBALL FEVER RUNS HIGH NEXT SUNDAY

The tournament's over, but baseball isn't.

A classic is coming up Sunday when the Phillips "66" Oilers of Amarillo—remember them? — come to the local park for a double header. They oppose the Hubbers.

Beaten by the Phillips boys in three games, all of them here, this season, the Hubbers are pretty well steamed up over Sunday's contests. The game originally was scheduled for August 8, but the tournament champions said "bring 'em on as soon as you can," so they're coming a week earlier.

They're trying to get baseball back on its feet in Amarillo. Since the park burned down late last season, there has been no baseball in the town to speak of. But the hPillips boys have located a vacant lot, and they're going to play on it for the benefit of Amarillo's baseball fans. There'll be no grandstand, no fence. It'll be like Lubbock's accommodations were for four years until the new park was built here last summer.

But Amarillo wants baseball back, and the Hubbers are invited to come up and play ball. They may get around to it next Sunday week, but nothing definite has been agreed upon.

GOLF TOURNAMENT RAGES AT MEADOWBROOK

Out of one golf tournament and into another, that's Lubbock. Week before last it was the City Open. Last week it was the Women's invitation, and as that ended, the Meadowbrook Open started.

Match play begins today, and there'll be some warm matches over the Meadowbrook layout from now through Sunday. They'll be worth watching, in case you're a golf fan.

It's hard to pick a favorite out of that field. Some true and trusted golfers are going to be at work, although youth dominates the championship flight. John Bell, the medalist; Edgar Doherty, the defending champion; Rufus Ryan, the Texas Tech hotshot, along with Bob Hale, his playmate; Alfred Holton, swarthy young championship golfer of many campaigns; Kay Bradshaw, former City champ and one of the hottest things on a golf course when he's right; Joe Bihl, a former young hotshot who is coming back, and Manson Allen, making a try for his first tournament title of the season after years of sensational behavior with a set of sticks—they're all dangerous, and any one of them is

Jack Hagen Is Mat Villain

Jack Hagen of Shreveport lived up to his own advance notices last night, went villain in a big way and, overruling the weak protests of Referee Allen Plummer, put away courageous Gus Johnson of Minneapolis in the main event of Sied Allen's weekly show.

Johnson, whose clean but hard forearm smashes matched the illegal slugging of Hagen, took the first fall in 17 minutes after topping a series of wallops on the Shreveporter's jaw with a slam and smother, but it was the second fall, won by Hagen in 24 minutes, which decided the whole match. Plummer's officiating was as full of lapses as a drunkard's dream and the corporal's guard of the faithful which sprinkled the hall booed the Tech gridster roundly. Although his illegal tactics —fully apparent to everyone but the referee—had the game Johnson out on his feet for fully 10 minutes, Hagen continued to punish his rival to assure an easy win in the third stanza. In addition to his manhandling of Johnson, Hagen also took time out to push Plummer's face in once and smack him on the jaw a brace of times. Heart punches won the fall for Hagen after his once famous headlock failed miserably to get the job done.

Plummer Makes Come-Back

Plummer, apparently goaded by the crowd, came back in the third fall and actually took charge of the situation, even removing from Hagen's wrist heavy tape which the ugly Louisiana lad had been using to great advantage, and swapping punches with the grappler. Johnson's spirit was willing but the terrific drubbing he got in the second fall had him badly weakened. Hagen won in seven minutes with right crosses to the jaw and heart, body slams and a pin.

Tarzan Krause, Milwaukee mute who looks like he ought to be good but who can't win anywhere near regularly, lost the semi-windup to John Nemanic in 18 minutes of the scheduled half hour tussle. The match was slow starting but ended fair supporting go.

Mex, Erickson Draw

In the preliminary, one "El Poupo," from Mexico City, gave a poor imitation of a bad man in his first appearance. He and Oley Erickson, Seattle, stumbled to a draw in 20 minutes.

All the contestants in last night's bouts were middleweights with the exception of the Mex and Erickson, who are light heavies. Plummer drew all the officiating assignments —instead of the openers as usual— due to the absence of Referee Ray Clements who has turned grappler and who Tuesday night was disqualified in his first try at Sherman.

HEAVY HAIL DAMAGE

LEVELLAND, (Special) — The hail storm of July 20 did about 75 per cent damage on 2,000 acres between Smyer and Ropes. The acreage was spotted.

Outstanding Players In Local Tourney Shown

Official check of the records, compilation of batting and fielding averages and a general review of the fifteen games played bring to light the outstanding individuals who competed in the Lubbock baseball tournament last week.

To be eligible for prizes offered by local business men, players had to compete in at least three games. Some of the findings follow:

Batting champion of the tournament was young Jack Doran, who worked behind the plate for the luckless Cosden Oilers of Big Spring. In three games, the young Texas A. & M. college catcher came to bat 11 times, got six hits, for an average of .545, to win the Avalanche-Journal cash award. Big Spring had some other hotshot ball players, most of them young men. These include young Pat Stacey, pitcher and outfielder; Tommy Hutto, sensational second baseman who became ill after the first game, and Carmon Brandon, rugged outfielder.

Some Nifty Fielding

Second in the hitting was Lubbock's Lefty Bettes. The veteran first sacker for the championship Hubber nine came through with 10 hits in 19 trips for a .526 average. He fielded .967, handling 61 changes with two bobbles. He made 57 putouts to win the prize offered by West Texas Gas company for the most putouts at first base. He barely nosed out Lefty Barrett of the second place Amerada Oilers, who made 55 putouts, fielding .983.

Numerous other players batted in high figures, complete list of all over .300 shown below. There was some clever fielding, as well, and the players with 1000 fielding averages are quite numerous. In a "drawing" for the prize, Manager Tip Gressett of the runner-up Ameradas won the prize, offered by Sears-Roebuck. Others fielding perfectly during the tournamgnt were Kelly, Rowden, L. Parker, Hardy and T. West of Brownfield, the third place club; Evans, Edwards, H. Wells, Johnson, all of Tahoka; Simmons and Weaver of Ameradas; J. Addison, Ted Rogers, E. Duncan and M. Sullivan of New Moore; Charley Presley and Jerry Blanchard of the Hubbers; Jake Morgan, Doran, Stacey, Pepper Martin, Chuck Morgan, and Skeet West of Big Spring, not to mention the numerous other players who competed in only two games or less.

Morgan Wins Prize

In the extra base hitting department, Simmons of Hobbs slapped out three home runs over the fence, winning three prizes. He lashed the first homer of the tournament, and got the largest number. Prizes were offered by Walton's Men's store, Southern Auto Stores and Mallory's.

Jake Morgan of Big Spring's Cosdens and Jack Thompson of the Hubbers each hit two triples, and Morgan of Big Spring won in the "draw" and is eligible to collect a pair of sport shoes at the Hub Clothiers.

Del Coppage, voted the most valuable player in the tournament, receives a prize for that, as well as for lashing out four two-baggers. Several players had two, Bettes and Thompson of the Hubbers and Hinson of Brownfield getting three each. Coppage knocked two in one game, one in each of two others. Coppage also knocked in the most runs, a total of eleven during the tournament, and he crossed the plate six times himself. His fine catching, his never-ending chatter, his continuous encouragement to his pitchers, all were considered in the vote by a quorum of managers and close ob-

Professional Boxing Moving Ahead; Card Is Offered

BROWNFIELD, July 29 (Special) —Professional boxing moves ahead in Brownfield Friday night when Promoter Cye Tankersley offers his second card at the Venetian Auditorium.

The six-round preliminary scrap between Woodie Windham, Brownfield veteran who will be seeking his 96th consecutive win, and Johnny Lang, 142 pound leather-tosser from Frederick, Okla., may steal the four-bout show. Windham has fought 245 ring battles.

In the special event, Lynn Stephenson, 180 pound puss-pusher from Eunice, New Mexico, tangles with Ray Griffin, of Tahoka. A. C. Pace and Howell Steen, two welterweights open the show.

Fort Worth sends a popular fighter to the main event in the form of Milton "Killer" Coffey, former Texas Tech boxing coach. Coffey takes on Jack Kirkland in the ten-round main go. Ringside chairs go at 75c; general admission at 40c; and children's ducats bring 25c. The curtain lifts at 8:30.

Heavy Losing Streak Seen For Outfit

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Add major mysteries: What ever happened to the gas in the gas house gang?

Except for Ducky Wucky Medwick, who hasn't changed a bit from the villain role, the rough, tough and nasty boys from the other side of the railroad tracks appear to have become a bunch of empty bags.

In fact, without Dizzy (Sore Toe) Dean, there isn't enough pitching and pep to get a rise even out of themselves.

In their last complete circle of the league, facing every one of the other seven clubs, they have lost 13 games while winning eight, for a .381 percentage, putting them three games out of fifth place.

Cliff Melton of the Giants yesterday let them pile up three runs in the opening frame, and then proceeded to stop them cold with six hits through the last eight innings. Meantime, Mel Ott and Wally Berger belted out homers as the Giants clubbed Lon Warneke to the showers and went on to an 8-4 win.

The victory didn't help the Giants much as the Cubs clouted the Dodgers, 7-5, to hold their three-game lead on the National league pack.

The Yankees found their bats shackled by the right-hand offerings of Elden Auker and went down to their most humiliating defeat of the year. Auker allowed them just two measly singles, and the Tigers came through with an 8-1 victory.

Since the White Sox were given a thorough going over by the Senators and lost 11-8, the victory of Detroit put the Tigers in second place, although still leaving the Yanks with a six-game lead.

The Athletics put on some astonishing batting fireworks to club the Cleveland Indians, 11-7. The Boston Red Sox came from behind twice to top the Browns, 5-4.

Peaches Davis turned in a nine hitter and the Reds whipped the Bees, 6-1. Pep Young's bat 168 the Pirates to a 6-4 win over the Phillies.

Suspense Getting Stiff In Texas League Race

(By The Associated Press)

The suspense must be getting a bit stiff for the San Antonio and Fort Worth entries in the current Texas league scramble.

For a week or so the Padres and Panthers have been trying to settle who is entitled to fourth place in the standings, a position which would give the teams a chance at the championship in the Shaughnessy playoff series. Today the teams remained in their deadlock. They again played off loss against loss last night, the Cats yielding to Houston's humble Buffs 5 to 3, and San Antonio dropping a 4-3 game to Oklahoma City.

Keane Is Poison

Third Baseman Johnny Keane, who hasn't been much of a hitter this year, suddenly proved to be poison to the Fort Worth club. He rifled out his first homer of the season and added to that a couple of singles, accounting for the winning runs in the eighth.

Dallas sailed along for seven innings against Galveston, a two-run lead indicating victory. In the eighth the Buccaneers bunched five hits to shove across four runs. The score was 5 to 3 for Galveston.

Beaumont trod on Tulsa's second-place heels, taking a 4-3 thriller from the Oilers. A game and a half separates the two.

Statistically-minded fans could note the symmetry of the scores last night: 4-3, 4-3, 5-3, 5-3.

PUBLICATION DATE ADVANCED

MATADOR, (Special) — Publication of the Matador Tribune has been advanced from Thursday to Wednesday so that complete distribution may be accomplished Thursday. Because the rural route service does not make delivery on Friday, subscribers often did not receive their paper until Saturday under the old publication date. The new deadline is set at Tuesday, Douglas Meador, publisher, said.

ACCEPTS POSITION

BROWNFIELD, (Special)—Walter Bond, son of Mrs. J. C. Bond, has accepted a position with the Johnson company of New Jersey, largest manufacturer of surgical dressing in the world. He will travel in several western states for the company. Bond is in Fort Worth.

Smith Implement Company Is Victor Over Slaton Club

The Smith Implement company softball team registered its ninth victory of the season, against five losses, last night by defeating the Santa Fe club of Slaton, on the latter's lighted field, 5 to 3.

Lefty Sollis, pitching for the Lubbock team, gave up four safeties.

The Smith team was "coming back" after dropping a 20-4 game at Plainview Tuesday night. Pitch Mabry's Lions club team was the winner. The clubs are due to clash again next week.

Manager Earl Ince of the Smith club said his team would line up as a member of the Slaton City Softball league next week. The locals play at Lamesa next Wednesday night.

Sixty-Four To Seek Honors In Tourney

Sixty-four golfers, most of them regular players at Meadowbrook, launch match play in the second annual Meadowbrook Open tournament this afternoon, four full flights of 16 players each setting out in quest of honor and a stack of valuable and practical prizes.

Nobody threatened John Bell's 64 in the final day of qualifying yesterday, and the big youth who has missed the last few summer golf campaigns here was officially declared the medalist after posting his six under par score on Monday.

The medalist, however, was not considered a favorite by Calcutta party enthusiasts last night, Edgar Doherty, the defending champion and winner of the recent City Open championship, who qualified with a 74, was made the favorite; and Kay Bradshaw, former City champion, who fired a 68 to qualify, and Al Holton, winner of the recent Ruidoso tournament, were popular favorites.

So warm were the qualifying scores that one of the five 74 shooters failed to make the championship flight. Nine of the first sixteen shot par or better to qualify for the major honors. An 80 was required to "make" the second flight, and there were fourteen scores better than 80 in this bracket.

Four Full Flights

The qualifying scores indicate some furious battles, beginning today in all flights. First round is to be played today, the second round Friday, semi-finals Saturday and finals Sunday.

There was a shortage of out of town players, only one, Ray Pinson of Abernathy who plays regularly at Meadowbrook, making the second flight. None made the championship likely to win.

Missing from the Meadowbrook Open are the Country Club stars, and a large number of out of town golfers who were invited and expected. It's almost a home town affair, but the field is fairly large—largest of the season. Sixty-four men fill up four flights, and there'll be battles in every flight, except the fourth, which should be a runaway for Sam Rosenthal.

Country Club golfers may be charged with an oversight in not taking part in the Meadowbrook joust. There should be more intra-city golf competition here. Some of the Country club boys are away on vacations, others have made their apologies. Two are entered. W. F. "Bill" Helwig, who likes tournament play and the spirit or competition, and who can be counted on to co-operate in any tournament, and E. T. Daniel, the veteran who has missed a lot of golf due to illness this season, carry the Country club banners at the tournament. Helwig qualified with a 77, Daniel with a 76, and they landed in the second flight.

Main reason Country club players are not found in larger numbers at Meadowbrook is that they do not like to play the sand green course, after catching on to the mysteries and delight of playing good grass greens and a more interesting course.

Meadowbrook, we urge again, should wake up to itself, do a lot of dressing up, changing up. It could easily be the most popular golf course on the South Plains, if not in this entire section of West Texas, if it went in for improvement.

LEASE ANNOUNCED

BROWNFIELD, (Special)—E. O. O'Neal, Seminole representative of the Eagle Clay company, has taken a 20-section lease in east Terry county belonging to A. M. Brownfield. The "finest bed of driller's and miner's clay in this section of the country," he said of the conveyance.

DEPOSITS ON CLIMB

BROWNFIELD, (Special)—The First National and Brownfield State banks lack less than $15,000 reaching the million dollar mark in deposits. Officials said it was not common for the deposits to go over a million dollars during the cotton harvesting months, but that this year's mid-summer business is the best in Brownfield history.

Loans at the banks are higher than in several previous years, but funds and reserves substantially back the loans, bankers said.

servers making him the most valuable player of the tournament, and eligible for the pair of baseball shoes offered by Sherrod Brothers. Coppage won the Jarrett-West prize offered the catcher making the most putouts. He made 47 during the five games the Hubbers played, 20 of them on the day Jerry Blanchard struck out 20 batsmen to hang up his no-hit, no-run performance. The Hubber catcher also won the stolen bases prize, in a draw, offered by Anderson Bros. Jewelry store.

Blanchard was without doubt the outstanding pitcher of the tournament, giving up the least number of hits, earned runs and winning the most games.

Other prize winners were:

T. West, Brownfield, for making the most putouts in the outfield, prize, a fielder's glove, offered by Terry & Childress Hardware company.

Most infield assists: Red Greer, Amerada shortstop, with 17, winner of baseball shoes offered by Terry & Childress.

As manager of the winning team, Sport Wooldridge wins the gasoline prize from Ross McWhorter's Goodyear Tire company store.

Following are the "300" hitters, and better, of the Seventh Annual Avalanche-Journal invitation baseball tournament which ended Tuesday when the Hubbers defeated the Amerada Oilers in the second game of a double-header. Only players who competed in three games or more are listed who hit .300 or better but all batting and fielding averages have been compiled and are available on request:

Holton Cards 65

Second to Bell in the qualifying round was Alfred Holton, with a 65. He was followed closely by Rufus Ryan, Texas Tech athlete, who fired a 66. Bradshaw's 68 was next, and Burnett's 69 followed. Hinson, Carl Nail, Jack Trammell and Manson Allen each had par 70s. Manson Allen, returning to the tournament wars for the first time this season, was looked upon with favor, although little interest was displayed by more than a few persons at the Calcutta.

J. EDD McLaughlin of Ralls, governor of 41st district Rotary clubs, was in Lubbock the other day soon after his last Saturday return from a three months tour of Europe. Accompanied by Mrs. McLaughlin, Edd went over for the Rotary International convention at Nice, then the two stayed and stayed and stayed until they had their fill of foreign scenes and people.

While across the pond they visited various points in Italy, France, Switzerland, Belgium, Germany, Austria, Czecho-Slovakia, England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales. They kept going day and night, had a whale of a good time and picked up a treasure store of information.

Just as soon as he saw Edd, The Plainsman sat him down and started piling him with questions concerning his findings and his opinions of Europe. And the Ralls banker had returned with plenty of both.

Through New York banking connections he arranged to talk with representative business men in every European city he visited. In each of those many cities he talked not only to natives but to Americans who had resided there for a period of years.

As a result, Edd had plenty of interesting views, some of which we are privileged to pass along. Here goes:

AS far as war is concerned, everyone in Europe knows war is coming. What they don't know is when it will come. They frankly say it may start tomorrow, next week, next month or next year.

Reaction toward the United States: General opinion is that everyone in this country is rich, owns an automobile and has absolutely no troubles of any kind. The United States is the richest country in history, has potentialities beyond imagination. A public debt of 100 billion dollars in this country wouldn't be nearly as bad as 100 million in any European country. The average American tourist is a good fellow, easy going, good spender and happy-go-lucky and most Europeans like him. The only worry in Europe is that whenever England goes to war the U. S. will automatically join John Bull. (And while The Plainsman doesn't approve of the idea, we must all admit that England probably will flim-flam us into doing just that.)

About the only resentment Edd found toward this country is the fact that we keep our immigration bars up. The critics on that score, however, largely excuse us, since they realize with the bars down we immediately would be over-run with millions of Europeans. A great percentage of Europeans frankly say the thing that would make them happies would be to move to this country.

Mere ... Mussolini is looked upon by 90 per cent of the Italians as the greatest man who ever lived and the absolute saviour of his country. While Italians don't enjoy the loss of many of their erstwhile personal liberties they realize they had to lose them in order for Mussolini to save Italy from decay. Therefore, there's no hard feeling on the part of either poor or once rich.

Il Duce's great public works programs is building a new era in the boot shaped peninsula and by a system of supervised recreation young people all over Italy are frequently cheaply transported on visits in parts of the country other than where they reside. As a result, geographic in Italy means nothing. Italians are united to the nth degree.

HERR Hitler "der furore" is not as universally admired and as greatly loved by his people as Mussolini is by his. But Germany is also striding ahead in nationalism under the impetus of a one-man government.

Germans and Italians do not care much for each other, yet view with satisfaction the co-operation between the two dictators. In spite of talk about synthetic foods, Germans generally are healthy and well fed. In fact, in no place did Mr. McLaughlin see any traces of undernourishment.

For his part, Mr. McLaughlin liked the Scotch better than any other people of the Old World—which is to be expected from one with considerable Highland ancestry. His second choice is the Swiss.

Unlike practically every other European traveler The Plainsman has talked to in recent years, the Ralls man said that while he liked the German people he was not carried away with them. But like all the rest, he reports that the French are the least agreeable and polite, that they act like they resent Americans being in their country; that many of them will cheat a visitor and in general measure up poorly with other Continentals.

AUSTRIA is the most depressed of all the countries Mr. McLaughlin visited, although he said the very atmosphere of most of Europe is so charged and supercharged with apprehension and hatred that the American visitor feels as if he is forever about to be closed in upon.

Incidentally, in Vienna Edd saw the duke and duchess of Windsor and was able to get a candid camera shot of the duke. The royal photographers do well by Edward, Mr. McLaughlin says. In person he appears much older, he has a hunted look and the "over-night bags" under his eyes are almost as big as steamer trunks.

It's no wonder the man looks hunted, however, since everywhere he goes he and his dashing, if somewhat mature, bride are nearly mobbed by the curious.

The way crowds rush the couple is a disgrace, Edd says, and because she has been threatened so much the duchess runs from car to building with an arm shielding her face. She fears an acid-thrower will attack her.

All in all, the Ralls couple had a great and instructive trip, even though they had to do a good deal of flying in order to cover as much territory as they wished.

A jaunt through Europe, however, will convince any American that this nation is the haven of liberty and democracy and is "the only place to live", Mr. McLaughlin says.

That Man on Avenue Q says big issues puzzle us because we have grown too lazy to devour anything unless somebody squeezes the juice out for us.

What's in a name? It used to be considered vulgar to appear in public in an undershirt—and then somebody named them polo shirts!

* * *

THE National Labor Relations board may be, as the President insists, absolutely fair and unbiased. But what a very considerable percentage of our people want to know is this: can a man still legally operate his own business in this country, even when a labor boss who doesn't even work for him says he cannot?

Aye, Mr. President. There's the rub!

"Flame Trail"

BY MARIE DE NERVAUD
(Copyright, 1937, Marie De Nervaud)

SYNOPSIS: Fire destroys Kay Crandon's Lazy Nine ranch house and barn. Josh Hastings, owner of the Flying Six, tries to buy her ranch and court Kay. She hates him and is determined to keep her ranch and rebuild. Ted Gaynor, a puncher she impulsively hired, fights Scrap Johnson, a cowhand who molested Kay. They shoot it out, wounding each other. Hastings finds them unconscious and kills Scrap with Ted's gun. Ted crawls to a shack where a girl named Marion nurses him. The gun is found and Sheriff Farley hunts Ted. Kay finds the shack, sees Ted and Marion together and rides off in jealous agony.

Chapter 32
Unconcious Betrayal

Realizing the suicidal chances she was taking, but refusing to heed them, Kay urged Flicker on, in obedience to the compelling desire for speed that possessed her.

Relief at knowing Ted was safe and not badly hurt was completely overshadowed by her frustrated sense of loss. Her feeling was none the less bitter for her violent self disgust. Fool that she had been, to let herself care for a man who had obviously just been playing with her!

Probably Ted had been flattering her, and kidding her along just the way she did Tom Runyon! And she had taken it all seriously, and allowed herself to dream about him, and imagine all sorts of vague and delightful future possibilities.

"Thank goodness that's all over, Flicks!" She declared fiercely, finding relief in voicing her torturing thoughts out loud. "I've got his measure now, and I'll never think of him again. Let them hang him for murder if they want to!" She broke off with a horrified sob. "No, no! I don't mean that!"

She pulled Flicker in as they came to a sharp curve in the trail and started up a steep rise. Flicker stopped gratefully, but stood blowing and stirring restively, as though the contagion of his mistress's mood had spread to him, setting every nerve aquiver.

Twilight was almost gone. Kay noticed, coming out of her concentration on her inner feeling to a startled realization of the present. She must at least get down across the valley between the two divides before night overtook her. Fording the stream that raced between the two ridges was no easy thing in full daylight, and to attempt it in the dark would be an insane risk.

"What do we care, Flicks?" Kay demanded rebelliously, in answer to her thought. She gave Flicker a sharp click of her heel, and urged him up the slope, then headed down again at a break-neck pace that was even more perilous than before, in the half light.

Suddenly Flicker stumbled and almost pitched headlong, but recovered in response to Kay's steadying pull on the reins. Before he was able to come to a halt on the steep descent a large rock, loosened from the cliff above them, clattered down at his feet.

This proved the last straw for Flicker's strained and quivering nerves. With a terrified bound sideways, he plunged and went down on his knees, pitching Kay over his head onto the rocky trail.

Scrambling to his feet, Flicker jumped over the prostrate form lying motionless in the trail before him, and raced on in a mad rush of terror.

Tom Considers Matrimony

For some time after Kay left him, Tom Runyon watched her as she threaded her way along the trail.

"Some girl!" he observed aloud with an admiring appraisal of the perfect poise of her lithe figure on Flicker's back. "The first girl I've seen in a long time that I reckon would be a good bet to corral into matrimony!"

He watched for Kay's reappearance around a curve in the trail, and added complacently, "Yes, sir-ee! I've a good mind to make her Mrs. Tom Runyon, damned if I haven't! I could go a heap farther and fare worse. Even if her ranch house is burnt down, she's got a pretty piece of property there," he went on, ruminating aloud. "And she's some looker into the bargain!"

Turning away, as Kay at last passed out of sight, Tom Runyon went back to where he had left his horse, a smile of fatuous satisfaction on his face. He never doubted Kay's acquiescence to the flattering prospects he was entertaining of her future, as he went on to plan his campaign to win her hand.

"Looks like she's kind of struck on this Gaynor guy," he confided to his mount, as he headed down the trail. "But I reckon he's pretty well out of the picture now. And if he isn't, I can soon fix that up!"

He gave a conceited chuckle, then went on with his soliloquy. "All's fair in love and war! As soon as I get off tomorrow, I'll go up the way she asked me to, and then I'll hightail it over to the Lazy Nine with my findings! And oh, boy, they'll be some findings!"

Planning to stick around on the chance of seeing Kay on her way back, Tom Runyon spent a good part of the afternoon on the lookout for her, as well as scanning the ridge for a telltale smoke column.

Ever since he had come to patrol this region, the fires had ceased. Today was the first glimpse of smoke he had had, and he grinned with a satisfied memory of the cause of it.

"Reckon that firebug isn't taking any chances now he knows I'm on the job," he observed, as he drew his mount in on a promontory of rock that gave a good view of the trail that Kay would soon be descending. "I've half a mind to ride back with that little red head and pop the question, now!"

After impatiently waiting an hour or more, Tom Runyon's good humor began to be strained. He had not wanted to take a chance of missing Kay by going back to his camp to get a bite of supper, and the pangs of hunger were decidedly affecting his temper.

The sun dipped behind the central divide, and the afterglow flamed across the sky, but no Kay appeared on the distant trail.

Anxiety finally got the better of Tom's ill temper, and he decided to ride on and meet her. As the twilight deepened, he found himself headed down the west slope of the eastern divide. By the time he reached the stream at its foot, it was nearly dark.

Pulling his mount in, he weighed in his mind the possible causes of Kay's delay. There was the chance, of course, that she had headed along the ridge, after coming through the pass, instead of coming back this way at all.

If that was the case, it would be a crazy wild goose chase to go up the central divide at night looking for her. The harvest moon could still be depended on to light up the last half of the night, but he didn't relish the idea of following up Kay's trail by dark if she was already safely back at the Lazy Nine.

In Flicker's Wake

A distant clatter of hoofs brought him out of his musing to alert attention. With puckered brow, he listened intently, and as the sounds came nearer, he let out a puzzled oath. Kay surely wouldn't be crazy enough to take the trail at that pace, even if she was trying to beat the gathering darkness.

Putting spurs to his horse, Tom forced him into the dark waters of the stream, and made his way across, just in time to meet Flicker, wild-eyed and riderless, racing toward him. Flicker wheeled abruptly at the sight of the horse and rider waiting to block his path, and whirled to one side, but Tom Runyon rode him down, and grabbed the bit. With wary skill, he checked his plunging, and at last brought him to a quivering halt.

Tom was sure now that something had happened to Kay. He lost no time in tying Flicker to a tree beside the stream, and took the trail at a run. He figured that Kay must have been thrown at

MAYBE WE'VE "GOT SOMETHING THERE"!

While The Journal does not take seriously the suggestion by former Governor James E. Ferguson that his wife, former Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, may again be a gubernatorial candidate in 1938, never-the-less we cannot think of anything that would do more to make the next Texas political derby one of the hottest—and most interesting—in the history of the state.

Already students of politics are forecasting a bitter battle between Col. Ernest O. Thompson, Amarillo, chairman of the Railroad commission, and Attorney-General William C. McCraw, of Dallas. Toss the issue of "Fergusonism" into that political pot and, as the boys on the corner say, "you've got something there!"

While the Fergusons are not as strong as they were a decade ago, as long as "Farmer Jim" is able to withstand the rigors of traveling the length and breadth of Texas, and as long as he is able to climb up on a stump, just that long will there be "lots of votes for Pa and Ma". It is entirely conceivable that entrance of the Fergusons into the 1938 campaign could change the trend that otherwise might be followed by the electorate.

We repeat, we don't believe the Fergusons will be in the race, although Mr. Ferguson upon three occasions has sent out trial balloons. Yet stranger things have happened and the possibility is intriguing to those who like their politics dished up steaming, and with plenty of pepper!

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, July 29.—If you were to walk up to Basil Rathbone and ask the identity of the worst male heavy on the entire English-speaking screen, he'd say, "I am!"

And the funny thing is, he'd mean it. At least, he'd like to believe it. You'd never get an American movie actor to talk that way about himself. But Englishmen seem to be different. Englishmen take their acting seriously; so seriously that they even grow critical of themselves.

Mr. Rathbone happens to have a sneer. A sneer and a sinister and sardonic mien which photograph more menacingly and hatefully than any others on the screen.

Anyway, because of these things, together with a certain knack for whistling ominous sibilants through his teeth, he receives a larger salary than any villain in Hollywood.

If you wanted to rent Mr. Rathbone, complete with sneer, your whim would cost at least $2000 a week.

Salary Awes Him

Of course he appreciates the money which producers insist upon paying him for looking the way he does, and for his supercilious and careful enunciation, yet he believes he does the job very poorly.

"I'm lousy at it," he insists, relishing the Hollywood idiom. "I'm lousy at it because I have no—no courage at all. I'm perhaps the most cowardly actor who ever made himself prominent in films.

"I feel that I'm a very poor villain, and I tell everyone who engages me the same thing. I told Mr. Goldwyn I wasn't worth anywhere near what he is paying me for this 'Marco Polo' thing. All he said was, 'It's my money'."

In "The Adventures of Marco Polo," Rathbone is Ahmed, prime minister to Kublai Khan and an oily, suave, thoroughly unprincipled scoundrel who plots against the throne.

"Don't get the idea that I scorn the salary they pay me for sneering and making life miserable for everyone in a picture. The fact is, I look with awe upon each check I receive.

"I say, 'Rathbone, you scoundrel, you are doing very well for the limited talent you have to sell! Maybe you are a villain after all, because you certainly are receiving money under false pretenses.'

"But there is a conflict within me. My commercial sense tells me to shut my mouth and begin sneering at the producers when they offer me jobs, and to tell them I'm not getting enough. But my artistic instincts rebel against my being carried on in a type of role for which I am neither psychologically nor physically fitted.

"You see, I used to do romantic things on the stage. I would embrace charming ladies in the final acts and retire, after curtain fall, to a convention of somewhat less charming ladies who wanted my autograph.

"Gushing young interviewers pleaded for my 10 points on the art of making love. Once I had my love life written—an epic fiction which embarrassed me for years. But secretly I loved it. Those were the grand days.

"Now, because I am a villain, the autographs are fewer and the young ladies who stare at me do so out of curiosity. I am an exhibit—a horrible example. I long to cry out: 'I'm a lousy villain, my dears!'"

And there, my dears, you have the story of a thwarted romanticist. The line forms on the right.

Movie "Town" Revamped

Besides Aaron Iverson's ranch, about which I had some notes recently, there is another place where movie sets are allowed to stand for years, some of them to be used again, all of them to be gawked at by tourists.

This is the region of the isthmus on Catalina Island, a favorite location spot for South Seas pictures.

By now the town at the isthmus consists mostly of movie sets which the natives have arranged and remodeled until the whole effect is that of an equatorial island village. The local cocktail lounge is a set left by the "Mutiny on the Bounty" company, and a sign on the front reads:

"CHRISTIAN'S HUT—
PITCAIRN ISLAND

Here's The Court Fight Story, Beginning To End; Robinson's Death, Garner Main Factors

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 29 — This isn't the entire secret history of the complete collapse of the Roosevelt Supreme court plan. But it's an essential part of it.

The inside story begins with Attorney General Homer S. Cummings. It was he who sold the spectacular plan to Roosevelt and persuaded Roosevelt it should be kept secret until popped, lest the sensational story be leaked.

The original draft of the Roosevelt message to congress on the plan was written by Cummings and Donald Richberg. Cummings had the bill written by a brilliant young lawyer who has been identified to your correspondent under oath of secrecy.

Dutcher

The Department of Justice had charge of liaison work with Congress on the bill, the job being assigned to Assistant Attorney General Joe Keenan, who had to work with the late Senate Leader Joe Robinson.

Robinson was dying. For four months he was on a buttermilk diet and often in agony. He wasn't enthusiastic about the bill, and was wounded because he hadn't been consulted. In 15 years he had built up a personal organization, carrying all trades, debts and other data in his head. Other leaders didn't fight for the court plan because of apathy or because Joe insisted on doing the job himself.

Administration Handicapped

Senators had no one to talk to because Joe was ill so much of the time. The opposition was well-financed, backed by a great propaganda effort and aided by such shrewd old heads as Borah and Hiram Johnson.

The administration, unable to use party funds or — in most cases — party machinery, kept up its end with Roosevelt's radio speeches, efforts of cabinet members and behind-the-scenes efforts, although Judiciary Chairman Ashurst's "all or nothing" attitude grated on many nerves. The sitdown strikes and the wage-hour bill helped the opposition gain recruits, but the administration was doing fairly well until Justice Van Devanter's resignation.

After the court's favorable Wagner act and Social Security decisions, many advisers urged Roosevelt to put the court fight off to the end of the session and hold it as a Damoclean sword. They argued he had achieved his chief aim — liberalised decisions. After Van Devanter's resignation the pressure for holding the fight off and keeping the bill buried in committee became terrific.

Robinson's Handicap

But the Van Devanter resignation brought up Robinson's name and demand for his appointment to the court — a longtime ambition with Joe — from all but the progressives. Roosevelt implied to Robinson that he couldn't put him in the court without adding a couple of liberals at the same time. Joe and many of his friends insisted on action.

And perhaps the high point of this story is the fact that about two months ago it would have been easy to pass a compromise bill adding one more judicial circuit to the nine now existing, making an 11 justice court, having the chief justice serve over all, with a justice from each circuit. This would have

ON FAIR PLANS

Dear Plainsman: I notice in recent paper that the plans are in the making for the South Plains fair next month.

I am wondering if the great lottery idea will again be in vogue at this coming fair in the manner of free automobiles, shetland ponies and electric refrigerators. This age old racket that the fair management has been pulling for the past several years to inflate the attendance seems to have the earmarks of being something that is in violation of the written laws that govern most of our people.

Theatre bank nights, slot machines, wagering on races, drinking beer without a prescription label on one of the bottles, have been decreed law violations, so why is it not the same fracture of the law for the fair management to conduct their lottery.

I hope they do not plan to make themselves targets as law violators this year but if they do conduct such as they have in the past it is my sincere hope that some of the ones in charge of enforcing the laws as their elective offices carry their sworn oath to do, will cause the arrest and prosecution to the fullest extent any and all that have a part in this Lottery plan.

What is your opinion?
Yours truly,
L. O. N.

(Dear L. O. N.: Like you, I hope there will be no horrible crimes permitted at the fair this year. In fact, it wouldn't surprise me if between now and fair time there is a law making it a felony to smile while on the grounds. If the fair management has to have something to take the place of the terrible, soul-destroying lotteries it has featured for the past 10 years, I suggest a good, oldfashioned witch-burning—providing, of course, that there's no law against it. Thanks for your letter. The Plainsman.)

DIZZY SPELLS
How To Help The Passing of Women's Most Critical Years —40 to 50

"I suffered from dizziness for years and decided to try Kruschen. Of course I know it is my age that is the cause of it all. I am 47 but I have been told this and that I should not be so nervous. I would not still have the same old dizziness. Now I'm on my 3rd jar of Kruschen and don't get dizzy nearly so often. I used to get so muddled at times. Now I feel different in altogether much stronger. There must be hundreds of women like me. They must stick to Kruschen every morning." Mrs. L. B. N., August 31, 1936.

Kruschen Salts is sold the world over—millions of jars a year. If you want to help avoid headaches, dizziness, smothering spells, weakness, fits of depression—if you want to keep feeling more healthy and happy—up and about your work—take a third teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water first thing every morning.

Take it for 30 days and if not joyfully satisfied get your money back. Adv.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION
THE STATE OF TEXAS
To the Sheriff or any Constable of Lubbock County, Greeting:
You are hereby commanded to summon Marshall Box, by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in the nearest county where a newspaper is published, to appear at the next regular term of the 99th District Court of Lubbock county, to be holden at the Court House thereof, in Lubbock, Texas, on the First Monday in September, A. D. 1937, the same being the 6th day of September, A. D. 1937, then and there to answer Plaintiff's first amended petition filed in said Court on the 12th day of July, A. D. 1937, in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court as No. [illegible], wherein Ina Box is Plaintiff, and Marshall Box, is Defendant, and said petition alleging: Being a suit for a divorce; that on or about February, 1932, plaintiff and defendant legally married, and lived together as husband and wife until about May 1st, 1936; plaintiff would show to the court that defendant [illegible] unkind and cruel treatment towards plaintiff, and on April 15th, 1936, the defendant struck her with his fist and kicked her and threatened serious bodily injury, and that defendant failed to support plaintiff; wherefore plaintiff prays for judgment for divorce and custody and control of her said children, and for such other relief that she may be justly entitled.
Herein fail not, and have you before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.
Given under my hand and the seal of said Court, at office in Lubbock, Texas, this the 13th day of July, A. D. 1937.
FLOYD JACKSON, Clerk, 99th District Court, Lubbock County.
(Seal)
By U. BROWN, Deputy.

FIELD IN CONDITION

RALLS, (Special)—Through the efforts of Bill McWilliams, Ralls High school grid coach and former Texas Tech star tackle, the Ralls football field is in better condition for playing than ever before.

McWilliams has spent much of his time behind a lawn mower along with H. H. Nicholson, keeping the grass in excellent condition.

Speed Limit Law Upheld

AUSTIN, July 29 (AP)—The supreme court today upheld validity of a law fixing the speed limit in unincorporated towns at 20 miles an hour, thereby overturning a decision of the El Paso court of civil appeals.

The El Paso tribunal ruled the statute was void because it was uncertain. No one could say where the boundaries of an unincorporated town were, it said, and each driver would be left to his own judgment as to when he should slow down.

In vitiating that opinion the supreme court pointed out that "a motorist must determine at his peril when he crosses an unmarked corporate line of an incorporated city."

Protection Of Public

The speed limit law affecting unincorporated villages was passed for the protection of the public, not motorists, it asserted, and should be sustained unless compelling reasons existed for declaring it void.

The question arose in a personal injury suit brought by Jim Brown against the Oriental Oil company after a collision between Brown's truck and one driven by an agent of the company. The collision occurred on the Eagle Ford road in Dallas county March 7, 1932.

The supreme court decided for the oil company, citing that the trial jury found Brown was driving more than 20 miles an hour and his speed contributed to the collision.

Traxler Faces Texas Return

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 29. (AP)—Fred Cunningham, state pardon and parole attorney, said today he believed Roy (Pete) Traxler, Oklahoma desperado, would be returned to Texas to complete a life prison sentence.

Three county attorneys of this state, hearing of the expected action, said they vigorously would oppose the extradition. Ben Carter, Durant, Bryan county attorney; W. V. Stanfield, Ada, Pontotoc county attorney, and Sam Y. Colby, Madill, Marshall county attorney, all of whom have filed charges against Traxler, said they believed they had a stronger claim.

Up To Governor

"The extradition is up to the governor," Cunningham said. "He has indicated, though, that he will not stand in the way if Texas wants him. I am sure the extradition will be granted.

"All Texas needs to do is to put up the $2.50 to pay the secretary of state's office for issuing the papers, and I received a wire today saying the fee was being forwarded.

"Traxler is alleged to have committed offenses in Oklahoma which carry the death penalty as a maximum—armed robbery and kidnaping—but it is pretty hard to give a man the electric chair when no one was hurt or killed."

Carter said he had filed two charges against Traxler, one of robbery and the other of kidnaping, both of which he said bear the death penalty.

"I want to try him before Texas gets him," Carter said. "I'll appear at any extradition hearing if I'm notified and I don't think they'll extradite him without consulting the counties that have a claim on him. He is charged in Bryan, Pontotoc and Marshall counties."

Special Action Is Needed For Funds

Application for WPA funds for new dormitories at Texas Technological college was not on the preferred list and it must be given special approval by the president if granted, Col. Horatio Hackett told directors of Texas Technological college in Washington Wednesday, the Associated Press reported.

The directors and Dr. Bradford Knapp, Tech president, are seeking $200,000 loan and grant for construction of two dormitories, one for boys and the other for girls.

Senator Sheppard and Representative Mahon of Texas accompanied the delegation to confer with Col. Hackett.

Advance estimates regarding need for housing accommodations for students are that approximately 1,000 places for boys and 500 for girls will be necessary by mid-September.

"In the fall semester of 1936, we had 1,679 men students in Tech. Of these 426 were registered from Lubbock and Lubbock county and 317 lived in the dormitory. That left 936 students from out of the county who did not live at the dormitory," said Dr. Knapp.

"In the same fall semester, we had 1,024 girls, of whom 317 lived in Lubbock or Lubbock county, leaving 370 out-of-county girls not in the dormitory.

"With a greater enrollment than ever expected this fall, more housing space on the campus will be needed."

Prospects also are bright for owners and operators of rooming houses who accommodate college students, it was pointed out.

Watermelon will be served to scouts after the contests. The affair is free to the public, directors said.

Floydada Is Winner Of Meet At Plainview On Wednesday

Floydada was winner of a district swimming meet at Plainview last night, with B. F. Tunnell, jr., of Matador, scoring 25 points for individual honors.

Troop 87, Floydada, won first; Lockney, troop 50, was second and Matador, troop 61, third.

Marion F. Peters, Plainview, was director. There were about 125 boys present at the pool.

Winners will go to the all-council contest in Lubbock August 12, said Lyndon T. Grant, assistant scout executive.

Silverton, Tulia and Kress troops comprised the northern district; two Plainview troops and one from Olton, the north-central district and the two Floyd and the Motley county troops northeast district.

Tingley Confers On Projects In State

WASHINGTON, July 29. (AP)—Governor Clyde Tingley of New Mexico said after a White House conference today he had urged President Roosevelt to approve allocation of additional federal relief funds to complete three projects in his state.

The projects, he said, were the airport and state fair grounds at Albuquerque, both now about 40 per cent complete, and the Spanish American normal school at El Rito, 75 per cent finished.

Asked if he endorsed Sam G. Bratton, former New Mexico senator and now federal circuit judge at Albuquerque, for the Supreme court vacancy, Tingley said he did so in a letter some time ago, but did not renew the recommendation today. He said he would leave for New Mexico Friday.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, July 29 (AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady, 2 to 5 lower under hedge selling and on a private crop estimate of 15,610,000 bales. Oct. 11.02, Dec. 10.09; Jan. 11.00; March 11.06; May 11.14; July unquoted.

The first private end-July crop estimate to appear was considerably above recent ideas which had seemed to center around production figures of 14 1-2 million bales. Sentiment was correspondingly discouraged.

There was considerable foreign selling through Liverpool at the start.

December eased from 11.00 to 10.87 and shortly after the first half hour prices were at the lows thus far, representing net losses of 9 to 14 points.

A private condition figure of 80.8 per cent of normal represented a slight gain from the end-June condition by the same expert and compared with the government's August 1 condition last year of 72.3 per cent and an average 1923-32 condition of 67.7 per cent.

Liverpool ruled steady with speculators cautious awaiting crop developments.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, July 29. (AP)—Cotton opened quiet but steady today and first trades were 2 points lower on all months on the execution of a few overnight selling orders.

Foreign markets were about as expected and there was nothing in the news reports to stimulate trading on either side.

Oct. opened at 11.01, Dec at 11.06, Jan. at 11.11, Mch. at 11.17 and May at 11.23. There was sporadic selling of near months after the start and towards the end of the first half hour these positions were ruling 12 to 13 points under the previous close.

Protest Hearings Opened But No Rush Is Being Reported

Despite the fact that more than 1,800 notices were sent out that tax valuations had been altered from figures rendered by owners, opening of protest hearings by members of the city equalization board this morning failed to develop any rush.

Hearings, to continue probably three days of next week, are being held in City hall commission chamber. Members of the equalization board are W. E. Baskin, W. E. Inmon and Rufe Williams.

Completion of the hearings, city officials explained, will be the last step toward approval by the board of city tax rolls for the new year. That, in turn, will be followed by approval of the city budget and setting of the tax rate by the city commission.

Hearings will continue Friday when the board will recess until Monday. Notices of changes in valuations have been mailed to affected taxpayers, and board members suggested that they will save time by appearing on the day set for them.

Oil Activities Are Forecast

Prediction that Lubbock is destined to become one of the major oil centers of Texas, regardless whether production is found within the county, was made by P. H. Lipstate, treasurer of Sabine Oil Royalty corporation of Tyler, while here on business Wednesday.

His company, he said, is spending more money in West Texas than in any other part of the state.

Lipstate was here on a routine trip representing the company which has branch offices at Dallas, Houston, San Antonio and Longview.

In speaking of the proven oil fields in Hockley, Ector, Upton, Crane, Fisher, Andrews, Ward, Loving, Winkler, Gaines, Yoakum, and Cochran counties, he said, "Oil investments in proven royalties in those fields are the best investments in Texas from our standpoint."

Million Invested In Area

"Our investments in West Texas and the Panhandle amount to approximately $1,000,000." Lipstate said relative to the extent of their activity in this section. "We have invested more than $100,000 in these sections within the last month."

He said he was not well acquainted with immediate prospects for oil development in Lubbock county, but explained the City of Lubbock should be one of the most important of the oil centers in the development of the fields of West Texas. He did not hesitate to forecast rapid development in Hockley, Gaines, Yoakum, and Cochran counties.

Wants Proven Royalties

The company represented by the Tyler man deals only in proven royalties, and Lipstate pointed out the company now was ready to obtain more royalties as soon as they were offered in proven fields.

He commented that, although he was not familiar with conditions of Lubbock, the city was in need of more office accommodations. He pointed to the need for a new office building to take care of a possible rapid growth because of oil play in the entire section.

Arriving Sunday, the representative was here until last night when he left for Tyler. His trip here was one of routine inspection on which he investigated the oil development of the South Plains.

U. S. Is Second, Figures Reveal

WASHINGTON, July 29 — A navy department tabulation of the world's comparative sea-power disclosed today Great Britain was far ahead of other nations.

The British navy now consists of warships of 1,216,398 tons, the figure showed. It has under construction 96 more ships of 541,000 tons.

U. S. Building 87 Ships

The United States navy is second. It has 325 ships of 1,083,30 tons (including 212 wartime vessels of 214,100 tons considered over age). Eighty-seven ships of 335,565 tons are under construction.

Germany ranks third in ships being built and virtually will double its present navy soon.

After Great Britain and the United States, the other sea powers rank:

Japan Ranks Third

Japan, 200 ships of 745,604 tons, and 23 ships of 79,272 tons under construction; France 162 ships of 469,346 tons, and 42 of 174,143 tons under construction; Italy, 206 ships of 396,683 tons, and 67 of 147,500 tons under construction, and Germany, 77 ships of 147,632 tons and 38 of 262,482 tons under construction.

Navy officials said the figures for Japan, Italy and Germany might not be complete.

Court Action On Pensions Loses

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, July 29.—The first effort of Texans denied old age pensions to procure them through court action proved unavailing today.

The supreme court would not permit James W. Rogers, 82, and his 66-year-old wife, Mrs. Dora L. Rogers, of Throckmorton to bring proceedings to compell the state board of control to put them on the rolls.

Mr and Mrs. Rogers maintained both that they were eligible for pensions under the statute and that the statute was unconstitutional. They said they had a small home and $200 worth of furniture but no income.

Claimed Class Legislation

The legislature's restriction of grants to persons in necessitous circumstances, they claimed, was class legislation and violative of the old age pension constitutional amendment adopted two years ago.

Another contention that the law was unconstitutional was that "members of the board of control are removable by the governor and therefore subject to his control, whereby the state's entire old age pension funds are brought indirectly under executive whim and caprice, and the application of a citizen may be granted or denied without appeal to any jury, court or tribunal."

Opinions On Length Of Skirts Differ In Lubbock; Women Not In Favor Of Dictate

BY MARY HOWELL

Some like 'em high, some like 'em low—and some will wait and see what the others do.

Lubbock women, in the main, don't go in for style's dictate that they wear their skirts 16 inches above the floor.

Most of them prefer to wear hems of their dresses below their knees.

Bachelors said "the higher the better."

Business men favored "more material in dresses."

Some indjvidual answers:

A stenographer who preferred her name be withheld "would rather go down the street in a bathing suit than be seen with short dresses above the knee." An office companion said that she would wear short dresses if most all women did.

A Lubbock clothier: "I don't look at her skirt, but her eyes."

H. C. Pender, professor of government at Texas Technological college: "Personally, I prefer dresses somewhat longer than 15 inches. I remember the post-war days of dressing and how skirts went up. About two per cent of America's women have beautiful legs and they are the only ones who can wear shorter dresses."

For Simpler Dress

W. S. Posey, bank president: "Women can get around better with shorter dresses. Women are wearing more sensible clothes than they ever have. We let our women wear bathing suits in the summer and there should not be too much difference of letting her wear shorter dresses in the winter. The world's been foolish."

Barney Rushing, department store employee: "The shapliness of the woman's leg should be displayed only at the most appropriate times."

Walter Shropshire, Tech student: "I'm in favor of short shirts with reservations."

Joe Bob Johnston, drug store worker: "If they have legs to show off let 'em show 'em off."

Miss Margaret W. Weeks, dean of the dvision of home economics at Tech: "There is no set rule as to how long skirts should be to fit the individual woman."

Orders 15 To 16 Inches

A Lubbock tailor: Women are ordering suits from me that are to be 15 and 16 inches from the floor."

A Lubbock business man: "What I am afraid of is that the skirts will get started going up and won't quit."

C. D. Shaw, Lubbock barber: "Women should wear dresses longer so that some men will not find so much to talk about. Short skirts is no way of using surplus cotton."

Mildred Madera, Tech coed: "Wearing short skirts is one of the things I have dreaded in the way of coming fashions. Personally, I think that I will wear them several inches longer than the predicted change."

Got To Be A Game

Myron Hendrix, cashier at Lindsey theater: "I will wear them that short if every other woman will, but it's got to be a game."

A bookkeeper at station KFYO said she would not wear them "that short."

A young matron: I will have to reduce several pounds before I will feel comfortable to wear dresses that short. The style will be all right for these 110 pound girls, but not for women my size.

R. B. McAlister, radio station continuity writer: "Short skirts make women who are old look too kiddish. It seems to me, but I don't know. Women have better composure when they wear dresses shorter, I think."

Dutch Wiginton, store salesman: "Seventy-five per cent of the women look better in longer dresses. I would like to see more material sold."

Railroad Man Dies Of Long Illness

NEW ORLEANS, July 29 (AP) — Russell C. Watkins, vice-president and general manager of the Southern Pacific lines in Louisiana since 1923, died last night at his home here after an illness of several months. He was 62 years old.

The body will be sent to Dallas, Tex., for interment.

Mr. Watkiins was a native of Burnt Corn, Ala., but spent many years in Texas. He was a graduate in civil engineering of the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college and entered the service of the Southern Pacific lines in Texas in 1895.

He was appointed vice-president and general manager of the Louisiana lines of the Southern Pacific, succeeding J. H. R. Parsons. He was transferred here from Houston, Tex., where he had been general superintendent of the Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio divisions of the Southern Pacific.

During federal control of the railroads in the World war Mr Watkins was corporate manager of the entire S. P. system, and later supervised claims against the government arising out of this period of control.

Surviving are his widow, the former Miss Ethel Henderson; a daughter, Mrs. Bert P. Mims of Houston, Tex.; and two sisters, Mrs. Virginia Hutson of Mobile, Ala., and Mrs. John C. Burns of Fort Worth, Tex.

Precedent Cited In Tax Ruling

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Robert H. Jackson, assistant attorney general, said today the treasury had merely followed precedents in ruling that a radio contract did not result in taxable income to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Mrs. Roosevelt, Jackson told a joint congressional tax committee, "received no income for herself and was no richer directly or indirectly for her labors."

Accused Of Using Loophole

Because the contract provided that a Philadelphia charity should receive $3,000 after each broadcast, Representative Fish (R-NY) had accused the president's wife of using a tax loophole. Jackson was called at the insistence of Republican committee members to explain the ruling.

He contended there was no discrimination in favor of Mrs. Roosevelt.

"Never, under any administration," he said, "has the bureau of internal revenue considered as income the value of proceeds of services donated in good faith to charity."

Flight Permit May Be Given

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Jimmie Mattern, backed by a Texas congressional delegation and Lieutenant Governor Walter Woodul, personally sought from Secretary Roper today approval of a proposed flight from California to Russia.

Roper is expected to give an answer tomorrow.

Meanwhile officials of the bureau of air commerce this afternoon made inspection of the ship Mattern would use. The craft is a twin motored monoplane and was recently christened "The Texan."

Woodul said he was optimistic Mattern would gain approval for the flight.

Secretary Roper today indicated the bureau of air commerce would grant the application.

He said, however, three government agencies would investigate what of value might result from the flight, before any permit it issued.

The secretary, discussing the matter at his press conference, said the bureau lacked authority to withhold permits when proposed flights net technical and other requirements. This government lacks "knowledge of polar conditions," he said, and would have the navy, army and the weather bureau study possible value in the proposed flight.

Mattern told newsmen he hoped to fly over 1,000 miles of Arctic territory that has never been chartered nor mapped.

He said he was prepared to take off within a week after permission is granted, indicating the hop would begin at San Diego, Calif. He plans to refuel in the air over Alaska.

Educator Is Freed Of Assault Count

GREENFIELD, Mass., July 29 (AP) — Thomas E. Elder, 55-year-old former dean of Mount Hermon school for boys, was acquitted last night of a charge of assault with intent to kill a former school associate, S. Allen Norton, who once accused Elder of kissing his pretty stenographer.

Elder also was acquitted of a charge of simple assault on Norton.

The commonwealth had charged Elder accosted Norton, former school cashier, in Norton's Greenfield garage on the night of last May 25. Norton testified Elder had pointed a gun at him—but Elder in testimony denied he was in Greenfield that night.

Elder told the jury he was at Keene, N. H., 40 miles away, and his wife corroborated his story in her testimony.

Witnesses testified that Norton, six years ago, accused Elder of "kissing and embracing" his stenographer, Miss Evelyn Dill, but both Elder and Miss Dill denied that Elder ever had kissed or embraced her.

Elder and Norton were associates of Dr Elliott Speer, headmaster of Mount Hermon school, who was shot and killed nearly three years ago. His slayer never has been identified.

Beer Election

tirely wet, or entirely dry; the status of subdivisions not differing from the eentire county.

Judge Dillard said informal discussion brought to his attention had cited the saving in county expense that would result from a possible beer election at the time of amendments voting.

"At that time, election expenses for a beer expression of the public probably would not be more than $50," he said.

Next regular meeting of the commissioners court will be Aug. 9, which would allow "plenty of time" for calling an election.

Another rumor, that voting boundaries might be changed so that there would be a reduction of the 33 polling places in Lubbock county, was vanquished this morning when members of the commission said 20 days' notice is required by statute.

Judge Dillard, commenting on the rumor, said dthe chief advantage of such rearrangement had been described by proponents of the plan as a saving of money on election expenses. He said it costs as much as $15 for even the smallest voting places per given election.

Brief Bits Of News . .

Suffers Hip Injury — Treatment for a fractured left hip is being received at Lubbock sanitarium by Mrs. M. H. Edwards of Slaton, 62, who was reported "doing nicely" this morning. She entered the sanitarium about 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon after suffering the injury when she stepped from a moving automobile.

Rites For Child Today—Funeral services for Betty Gail Smith, 17-month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert O. Smith of Becton, were to be held at Rix Chapel this afternoon with Rev. Barnett, Baptist minister of Becton, officiating. The child died in a hospital here Wednesday after a brief illness.

Postmaster Confirmed — Confirmation of the appointment of Hattie M. Sims as postmaster at Ropesville was given by the U. S. senate Wednesday, according to an Associated Press dispatch last night.

Arrangements Made—Funeral arrangements for Mrs. J. O. Priddy, about 40, of Seagraves, who died in a Lubbock hospital early this morning, were being made this morning at a Seminole funeral home to which the body was taken. Mrs. Priddy died after a brief illness. Her husband is a deputy sheriff at Seagraves.

Firemen Answer Call — Firemen answered a call from 1501 College avenue about 10:30 o'clock Wednesday night when a garage at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Tate caught fire when gasoline fumes ignited. George Tate, jr., about 16, suffered "very minor" facial burns after striking a match in the garage, where Sammie Tate had cleaned his bicycle earlier Wednesday. Damage to the garage was slight.

Sheriff Transfers Juvenile — A Lubbock juvenile will be transferred to Gainesville by Sheriff Tom Abel, who left early this morning. En route back, he is to transfer at least one prisoner from Dallas.

Forgery Investigated— Handwriting of a Lynn county youth held on a theft charge in Tahoka was obtained by Lubbock authorities Wednesday afternoon in investigation of a case of asserted forgery in Lubbock. The youth had been arrested in Lubbock county recently and since has been arraigned in Lynn county. The handwriting was sent to Austin. Victor H. Lindsey, assistant district attorney, Bill Mabray of the police identification department, and Bedford F. Carpenter, chief deputy sheriff, went to Tahoka.

Suffers Minor Cuts—Marvin Templeton suffered minor cuts on the left forearm when a car in which he was riding, driven by L. W. McMaster of 2324 Third street, collided with an automobile driven by J. J. Lewelling, jr., of 612-B Avenue M, at Fifteenth street and Avenue Q about 7 o'clock last night. Police investigated. An original report said none was injured. Templeton lives between Third and Fourth streets on College Avenue.

Paducah Man Transferred — A Lubbock store employe thought a Paducah man's order for 25 pairs of boots unreasonable Wednesday afternoon and notified officials. Mental illness was suspected. The sheriff's department took the man in custody and later released him to the Cottle county sheriff. The man was reported to have sent telegrams from various towns to his family requesting money to return home.

Rail Men Here—Three railroad freight officials were in Lubbock this morning. They were: W. A. Hotman, Fort Worth, assistant general freight agent for the Roscoe, Snyder and Pacific; R. H. Davis, Fort Worth, commercial agent for the Atlantic & West Point and J. E. Drummond, Wichita Falls, traveling freight agent for the Missouri-Kansas-Texas.

School Bids Ao Open—Bids will be opened Monday, August 2, at Iraan, for remodeling of the high school, grade school and home economics buildings and the erection of a band hall and a garage. Cost of the operations would be approximately $25,000 said S. B. Haynes, of Haynes and Strange, architects, who drew the plans.

Flame Trail

least a quarter of a mile up the trail, before he could have heard Flicker's hoofbeats. He pushed on at full speed, trusting his mount to find his footing in the dark that now enveloped them.

After covering the distance that he judged Flicker had covered from the moment when he had first heard him, Tom pulled his horse in and proceeded more cautiously. He called Kay's name from time to time, and listened anxiously for some response.

His horse plunged with a sudden snort and refused to go on. Tom swung to the ground, ran up the trail and dropped on his knees beside Kay's prostrate form.

Pulling out his pocket flash, he examined the ugly cut on her head, and felt for her heart. It was stronger than he had dared to hope, and her pulse had a reassuring beat.

Tom lifted her head on his knee and chafed her hands in the hope of reviving her sufficiently to get her back with more ease than if she were a dead, unconscious weight.

After a few minutes, she stirred restlessly, shifting her head and muttering. Tom Runyon bent close to hear what she was saying, and a grim satisfaction spread over his face as he caught her words.

"What cabin?" he prompted gently.

"The cabin by the clearing," Kay moaned, unconsciously responding to his question in her delirium. She drifted again into unintelligible mutterings, then exclaimed in clear tones, "The black haired girl! There is a black haired girl!"

"Where is she?" Again Tom's voice seemed to penetrate to her subconscious.

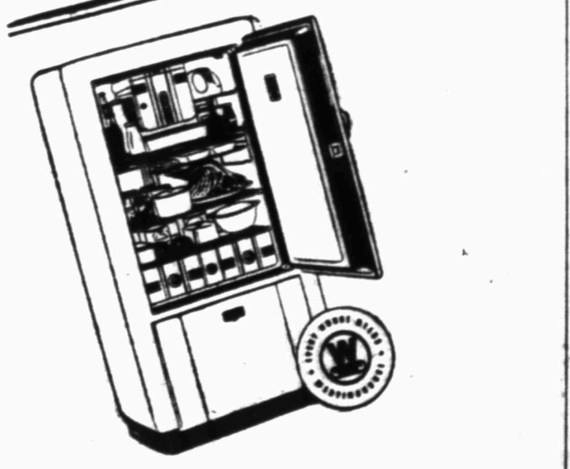

"In the cabin with Ted." A broken sob escaped Kay. "Both of them—up there in the cabin."

A flicker of triumph gleamed in Tom Runyon's hard eyes. "Never mind," he soothed. "We'll fix that."

Tom puts the sheriff on Ted's trail, tomorrow.

Dutcher's Column

been satisfactory to Roosevelt, one is told.

But Robinson couldn't take that. Many years ago the circuits were so Gerrymandered that the eighth circuit which includes Robinson's state of Arkansas also included Justice Pierce Butler's state of Minnesota. And Butler wasn't going to resign and Robinson couldn't go on to represent the eighth circuit.

Robinson insisted to the president he could get a bill satisfactory to Roosevelt if he could be allowed to handle it in his own way on a personal basis. And he could have. At one time he said he had 54 senators pledged to the Hatch amendment, which would have given Roosevelt three court appointments by January. He wouldn't have started the fight without assurance of 52.

Pledges Die With Joe

But Robinson died, and many of his pledges proved to be purely personal. They died with him. Among those who had promised Robinson were Andrews of Florida, Brown of Michigan, Bulow of South Dakota and Russell of Georgia. These joined with Overton of Louisiana, Adams of Colorado, Herring of Iowa and Gillette of Iowa — all supposedly uncommitted—in a block to demand recommittal to the Judiciary committee, which meant the bill's death.

Garner entered the picture, returning and conferring on the train back from Robinson's funeral. There is no record that Garner fought for anything but to keep the Democratic party together.

In Washington he promised Roosevelt he would get the best possible compromise if authorized to deal with the Senate. He also asked Roosevelt if he still felt the same way about organized labor, relief expenditures and the wage-hour bill, and Roosevelt said he did.

Some here regard this as a demand for a price. At any rate, Garner won no compromise but only a complete removal of all portions of the bill affecting the Supreme court. Later the "Recommittal Octette" went to Garner and announced its position. Some of these senators reported later that he seemed well satisfied and wanted only to keep the party intact.

Garner Gives In

Then all of a sudden you heard that Garner had told Senator Wheeler and the opposition to draft their own bill. Senator Barkley, the new party leader, went before the hostile Judiciary committee with Garner, and got much less than he expected.

Garner had command of the show and it was obvious to everyone that he was working for something which would satisfy more opposition senators than administration senators.

Other incidents helped smash the court bill, notably Governor Lehman's well-timed letter. But this is the best available story now of how the great court bill struggle ended almost overnight.

Life Of Suffering Changed To That Of Good Health

Freed Of Stomach And Kidney Trouble After 50 Years; Gly-Cas A Real Blessing; Now Eats And Enjoys Foods Without Fear Of Awful After Effects

"For the first time in thirty years I am able to eat and enjoy my meals without suffering afterwards," said Mr. J. J. Munholand, 625 Central Ave., Hot Springs, Arkansas.

MR. J. J. MUNHOLAND

"My stomach would sour after every meal I ate, bloated, gas would form; I would become short of breath, terribly nervous and could hardly eat anything. My kidneys got me up at all hours of the night, lumbago pains were unbearable and to do my work was out of the question in my awful condition. Then arthritis settled in my hips and knees, it was all I could do to walk and was so crippled I could hardly get up or down. I tried everything I ever heard of to get relief but met only with repeated failure until I began Gly-Cas."

"Never before have I seen a medicine do its work as well before," continued Mr. Munholand. "My entire system underwent a complete cleansing and my health is fine today. My stomach and kidneys were easily regulated, eat and enjoy the foods I want without distress, sleep good the entire night through and feel fine. Even that dreadful arthritis has been relieved and I can get around with ease again. Gly-Cas is one medicine that can be depended upon to give results."

Bird Fisher

ALLENTOWN, Pa. — Clarence Schuff, fishing for trout, caught a blue heron.

The bird dived into a creek and came up with the minnow Schuff was casting. Unable to free itself from the hook, the bird struggled in the air until Schuff captured it.

Double Trouble

POCATELLO, Idaho — Don't talk to P. B. Rees about lightning striking in the same place.

A loose metal strip on an underpass wall ripped through the fender of his auto.

Eighteen months ago, at the same place, at the same hour, while he was traveling in the same direction, the same accident happened. Neither time was Rees injured.

Law is Law

RISING STAR, Tex.—Rising Star has only one traffic light, but it gets full use of it.

The city fire truck came dashing up to the light. The light turned red.

The truck screeched to a halt, dashed on when the signal changed.

Times Have Changed

AVOCA, Neb. — Dr. J. W. Brendel of Avoca allowed his horse to be hitched up and driven to the harvest field. The animal saw the snorting threshing machine and dropped dead with fright.

Strike Victim

TARENTUM, Pa. — D. Harold Guist, union chief, called out on strike 278 automobile mechanics.

Touring the strike-beset cities, he cracked the cylinder head in his car.

Guist could not get the automobile repaired — because all union shops were closed.
