CRUISER RESCUES 465 FROM SHIP

Nearly 100 Lives Are Lost in Memorial Day Accidents

MORE THAN HALF TOTAL DEATHS REPORTED FROM MIDWEST AREA GREATER NUMBER AUTO VICTIMS

(By The Associated Press)

Nearly 100 lives were lost as the nation observed Memorial day. The death list, one of the heaviest in years, was attributable in large part to rainy weather with resultant automobile accidents.

But few heat deaths were reported and drownings played only a small part in the death roll.

More than one-half the toll was taken in the middle-west.

Eleven persons were killed in Indiana, focal point for thousands of race-going motorists. Five were fatally injured when their machine was struck by a train at Berne, Ind. Three others, Chicago residents en route to the race, met death near Lebanon, Ind. The others were killed in separate accidents.

Three race-bound airplane passengers met death when their plane cracked up near Madison, Wis.

Washington Pays Homage

WASHINGTON, May 30. (AP)—The roar of a giant fleet of airplanes above and the boom and blare of drum corps and bands below today gave a martial touch to the capital's homage to its warrior dead.

All day, processions and pilgrimages centered on national shrines and cemeteries where the soldiers are buried. Arlington cemetery

PINCHOT SPEECH ON UTILITY ISSUE THREATENS STORM

Governor's Conference Program Arranged For Harmony

REBELS AT ATTEMPT TO GAG HIM ON VITAL ISSUE

Four Presidential Possibilities to Be Watched At Conference

FRENCH LICK, Ind., May 30. (US)—A bombshell in the form of a speech by Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, on the public utilities issue threatens to shatter the closely restricted program for the 23rd annual governors conference opening here on Monday.

The Pinchot speech is distinctly an added and unexpected feature of the innocuous agenda for the conference prepared by the executive committee, headed by Governor Case of Rhode Island.

There was considerable discussion today as to whether the Pennsylvania executive would be permitted to deliver it, but no one in authority knew exactly how to prevent it.

The "practical" program drawn up by the executive committee excluded all controversial questions as well as federal problems. It provided for discussion of state control of expenditures of local governmental units, land utilization and state planning, executive powers and duties and motor safety and regulation.

Governor Pinchot, former chief forester of the federal government was put down to deliver a lecture on "timber needs of the future." But the independent Pinchot who has been kicking over the traces ever since he made war on Secretary of the Interior Ballinger in 1910 to prevent the exploitation of Alaska by the Guggenheimer interests, rebelled against this attempt to gag him on vital issues. So he prepared what is described as a red-hot speech dealing with the

Reno Grinds Out 331 Divorces And More on Dockets

RENO, Nev., May 30. (AP)—A weary county clerk and his hard worked staff checked back over their files today and found that 331 divorces had been granted and 517 suits filed here during the first month's trial of Nevada's new six weeks' residence law.

Attorneys do not look for the pace set this month to keep up, although they do anticipate at least 200 new suits will be filed each month.

The May rush for decrees, it was pointed out, took care of at least 100 persons who were making a three months' resident under the old law and of others who had come here in March or April and whose six weeks' residence expired this month.

It was estimated that at least 1,000 more divorces will be granted annually in Reno under the new law than under the old. Last year there were 2,109 divorces and annulments in Washoe county; in 1929 there were 2,150, and in 1928 there were 2,141.

Mercury at 88 And Crowds At Beach Resorts

NEW YORK, May 30. (US)—The mercury shot up to 88 degrees again today, establishing a new record for May 30. The heat caused three prostrations and sent vast throngs to the nearby beach resorts.

From 1 a. m. until noon 24,196 automobiles passed through the Holland vehicular tunnels, breaking the record for 12 hours by almost 8,000.

At Coney Island police estimated more than 400,000 persons visited the resorts. Police said 75,000 went swimming.

FIVE INJURED TRAIN WRECK

Rail on Each Side of Track Loosened

PUEBLO, Colo., May 30. (AP)—Five persons suffered minor injuries in the derailment of the Santa Fe Colorado express near Fowler, Colo., early today.

The injured were Jean Ryan, Kansas City, Mo., bruised left hip, wrenched back and bruised elbow; Myrtle L. Johnson, Seal Beach, Calif., head and eye injury; George Lamont, Denver, the engineer, wrenched and bruised knee; Mrs. Lucy Morgan, negro, Kansas City, Mo., head laceration, and an unidentified Pueblo woman, whose eye was injured.

Railroad officials said there were 28 passengers on the train.

One rail on each side of the track had been loosened and burrs had been removed from "fish plates" on both sides of the track. After the wreck, the burrs bolts from which they had been removed, and the plates were found on one side of the track.

The engine, three baggage and one mail car were derailed and overturned. Two coaches were derailed but remained upright. The rear end of the heavy locomotive slid down an embankment and caused the engine to go over on its side. Eight Pullmans and a dining car did not leave the rails.

The train was bound from Chicago to Denver, but most of the passengers were from towns in Kansas and Missouri.

SCHNEIDER WINS SPEED CLASSIC ARNOLD BARELY AVERTS DEATH

GREATEST AIR MANEUVERS IN HISTORY END

THOUSAND FLIERS TAKE PART IN DEMONSTRATION

Military Circles Proud Of Record Established For Safety

WASHINGTON, May 30. (US)—The greatest aerial maneuvers in history were brought to a close here today when 672 army airplanes, forming a column 20 miles long, passed in review over the Potomac river and dipped in salute to the nation's dead in Arlington national cemetery.

Prior to this Memorial day celebration, which was witnessed by numerous government officials and tens of thousands of civilians, the planes staged an hour's demonstration over the city.

The spectacle was one of the most colorful the capital has seen in years, as every squadron bore its insignia of battles and victories in France and of glowing achievements in peace time aeronautics.

More than 1,000 pilots and flying cadets participated in the demonstration which revealed the efficiency and alertness of the aerial arm of national defense.

The final review formed over Alexandria, Va., moved up the Potomac river as the shadows of squadron after squadron flitted

BIG GERMAN SEAPLANE READY FOR LONG TRIP ACROSS SOUTH ATLANTIC

PORTO PRAIA, Cape Verde Islands, May 30. (US)—Germany's 50-ton flying boat, the DO-X, landed here this afternoon on a flight from the African coast and tonight is poised on the edge of the old world ready for its long-delayed hop to the new.

The giant airliner splashed down on the bay here at 3:25 p. m. Greenwich time (11:25 a. m. eastern daylight time) after a leisurely flight from Bufague bay, near Bolama, Portuguese Guinea. Before it is the 1,600-mile cross south Atlantic hop to Fernando do Noronha, island outpost of the Brazilian republic, 200 miles off the South American coast.

Captain Freidrich Christiansen, commander of the 12-motored metal giant, indicated that nothing but poor flying weather would delay the next stage of the voyage which began at Fredrichshafen last fall.

Congressman Williams Will Not Be Candidate for Re-Election—Several Mentioned as Likely Aspirants

HON. GUINN WILLIAMS
Congressman 13th District of Texas

Guinn Williams of Decatur, congressman from this district since 1922, will not be a candidate for re-election, it became known Saturday.

Mr. Williams' health which, though recently improved, is such as to make retirement from active work advisable, is responsible for his decision to retire.

It is expected that his decision will result in a number of candidates for his seat.

Mr. Williams was elected to congress in 1922 at a special election following the death of Lucian W. Parrish. He has served continuously since that time. Previously he represented Wise and neighboring counties in the state senate. He is now ranking Democratic member of the house committee on insular affairs, and will be chairman of that committee if the Democrats organize the house next December.

In local political circles Saturday, several names were mentioned as likely candidates for the place Mr. Williams will vacate. Walter Cline is listed among the possibilities, and friends of Ben G. Oneal, state senator, are known to be ready to urge his name. Judge B. D. Sartin, twice

Wage Cuts Would Make Bad Times Much Worse Writes Gov. Al Smith

By ALFRED E. SMITH

NEW YORK, May 30.—Daily discussions in the press of probable wage decreases are at present still in the rumor and protest stage. Workers accuse and employers deny. Economic maladjustment is emphasized by endeavors to find some easy and short-sighted adjustment at the expense of the workers. To my way of thinking general wage decreases would be unfortunate for the very simple reason that everybody must be able to understand that a decrease in wages means a decrease in the purchasing power of the great army of our workers. When that purchasing power is lowered it means an addition to the length of time before we will be able to see our way out of the present dilemma.

Al E. Smith

When the workingman's income is curtailed it means that he must begin to curtail in order to live within the decreased income. That has for its immediate effect the removal of money from the channels of trade and business. These business depressions are like a snowball going downhill. It gathers size and force as it moves. Pay the American workingman less wages and through sheer force of necessity he will have to purchase less. When he purchases less the retailer's income is cut. When that income is cut profits in business of the manufacturer are cut. That means more men laid off so that the vicious circle keeps moving around.

Scotland Yard's Big Five Search For Educator For Questioning In Strange Death Wife and Daughter

BELVEDERE, KENT, England, May 30. (AP)—Scotland Yard's "Big Five" tonight were pooling their efforts to find Charles Frederick Lewis, 60-year-old schoolmaster. They wanted to question him regarding the finding of the bodies of his wife and foster-daughter beneath fresh concrete in a fish pond in the back yard of his home last night.

The mystery of the disappearance of Lewis and the finding of the bodies promised to be one of the most sensational with which Scotland Yard has grappled in many years.

Lewis is a prominent educator, tall and distinguished, one of the assitant directors of education for the county of Kent, choir master at the local church and an active participant in civic affairs.

Mrs. Lewis was 50 and her daughter, Freda, was a lovely, vivacious girl of 20 whom they adopted after her parents had gone down with the Lusitania.

The women were buried in their night clothes under the fresh concrete and beside them was in-

Spectacular Crash at North Turn Provides Thrill Of 500-Mile Event

1930 Victor Escapes Serious Injury When Machine Bursts Into Flames

By WARREN BROWN
Universal Service

SPEEDWAY, INDIANAPOLIS, May 30.—The whirring wheels of the participants in the 19th annual 500-mile race ground out drama, and near tragedy Saturday, and the story, it seems, is not so much of the man who won, ultimately, Louis Schneider, driving a Bowes Seal Fast Special, as of the man who lost, Billy Arnold, of Chicago.

It was Arnold's spectacular crash on the north turn, just after he had led the field for practically all of 400 miles, that sent his Miller-Hartz Special hurtling through space, a mass of flames, and ended his spectacular career in this particular race, miraculously with no more severe injuries than a few bruises and some slight burns.

Arnold, driving the same car with which he had won the 1930 race and which carried him through to the American championship on many speedways, seemed well on the way to an achievement that only Tommy Milton had accom-

POSSE HUNTING TRUCK FARMER

Kills Aged Man and His Son With Shotgun

WICHESTER, Kan., May 30. (INS)—A posse of farmers was searching the hills and brush east of here today for William Hunsucker, 63, a truck farmer, who fled after slaying Charles Richardson, 60, and his son, Charles Richardson Jr., 23, with a shotgun.

The double slaying was precipitated by an argument between Hunsucker and the elder Richardson over the opening of a gate that separated their adjoining farms.

According to Marvin Mallory, a farm hand, Hunsucker wanted the gate open and Richardson wanted it kept closed. In an ensuing argument Hunsucker fired on the elder Richardson, killing him. Charles Richardson Jr., was shot and killed by Hunsucker when he attempted to aid his father, Mallory said.

Authorities expressed belief that Hunsucker was hiding in the heavy brush that surrounds his farm.

PARTY EXCURSIONISTS RESCUED AFTER STEAMER GOES AGROUND ON ROCKS NORTH OF SAN PEDRO

SAN PEDRO, Calif., May 30. (AP)—The cruiser Louisville arrived here at 6:10 p. m., with all passengers from the coastwise steamer Harvard, which went aground early today on the rocks near Point Arguello, north of here. Disembarkment of the passengers began at once.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., May 30. (AP)—On a sandy pit near Point Arguello, "the graveyard of the Pacific," the coastwise steamer Harvard went aground at 3:30 a. m. today but all of her passengers, 465 holiday excursionists, were rescued without so much as getting their feet wet.

The steamer, bound from San Francisco to Los Angeles, dug her hull into the treacherous off-shore sands of the point as she crawled through a choking fog, sirens blaring and engines turning at half speed.

As the 3,800-ton craft, 25 year old veteran of the seas and once a wartime transport that carried the boys "over there," struck bottom and trembled from stem to stern, SOS messages flashed up and down the coast.

Discover Eighth Death in Probing History Woman

CHICAGO, May 30. (US)—The strange fatality which has fallen upon those associated with Mrs. Margaret Summers, suspected as the operator of a "death house" here, was found today to have extended its sinister influence to still another.

In her cell at the county jail the drab, hysterical widow, after denying that she had been married more than twice, was confronted with a photograph of Stanley Korzen and admitted reluctantly that he, too, had been her husband and had died within a few months after he had married her in 1917.

This discovery increased to eight the deaths which the authorities are investigating. A chemical analysis of the bodies of four men who died after living at her home revealed evidence of prolonged arsenic poisoning in each case. These asserted victims were her third husband, Thomas Summers; her nephew, Thomas Meyer, and two boarders at her house.

Authorities state that in these deaths, as well as in others in which investigation has not been completed, Mrs. Summers was the beneficiary of the insurance policies. Altogether, they say, they have discovered that she stood to collect from 19 insurance policies on the lives of 10 persons.

CONVICT SHOT PRISON BREAK

Attempt Escape Maryland Penitentiary

BALTIMORE, May 30. (AP)—A convict was shot today as he and others tried to escape from the Maryland state penitentiary here. A police riot squad sped to the scene.

The prison, near the downtown section, was the scene of the fatal stabbing Sunday of Frank Allers, who as a state's witness helped convict four men of a holdup murder. They were given life sentences in 1922.

A prison guard was shot last year in the attempt of nine convicts to flee, and all were re-sentenced to terms of from 25 years to life. A number of other escapes have occurred there.

Charles Carey, member of the group whom Allers' testimony helped to convict, was hanged in 1928 for the slaying of a guard in an escape attempt.

The convict shot was Irvin D. Limper, sentenced last year to 20 years for a series of holdups. Officers said he probably would die.

Limper and two others wrested a gun from a guard, prison officials said, and Limper then was shot through the head by another guard.

Others who tried to escape included Frank James, 29, serving 13 years for robbery and Chas. Cramer, 21, serving 20 years for robbery.

Concreting of Highway No. 30 in Haskell County Starting Monday To Give Wichita Important Link

Work is to start Monday on the laying of concrete on 15 of 32 miles to be paved in Haskell county on state highway No. 80, according to the announcement here Saturday at the offices of L. E. Whitham & Co., contractors.

The first of the two projects making up the sections of the highway in Haskell is that situated between the north county line and the town of Haskell. The contract for the paving of the second link of 17 miles, between the town of Haskell and the south county line, will be let about the middle of June, according to notice given at the state highway department.

The entire 32 miles, it was estimated here, should be completed within 50 days and be open to traffic within about 70 days, barring unusually unfavorable weather., Sections of the pavement, however, will be opened as finished.

Highway No. 30 is rated by local business leaders as being one of the most important serving Wichita Falls, and the completion of the one section in Haskell county will provide an unbroken strip of concrete from Wichita Falls southward through Abilene and beyond San Angelo, with only one unpaved link remaining to Del Rio.

The grading and bridge work on the highway in Haskell county was done by the Stuckey Construction company.

Graham Suicide Pact Victim Admits Lover 'Framed' Her Husband

DALLAS, May 30. (AP)—Believing herself dying from a bullet wound self-inflicted in a suicide pact with her clandestine sweetheart, Mrs. Fannie Anderson, 25, today made a statement seeking to make amends to her husband for a "frame-up" attempt to send him to the penitentiary.

Thomas E. Davis, saxophone player, died almost instantly yesterday from a pistol shot inflicted as he lay in bed in a hotel room here. Shortly afterward, Mrs. Anderson ran screaming from the room, seriously wounded.

In a signed statement made today, she told how Davis had friends "plant" a quantity of whisky at Graham, Texas, at the home of her husband—Gus Anderson, former professional wrestler.

"It was a frame-up, Gus," she told her husband today, "and I want to help you. Tommy had that liquor left in the yard, then called the sheriff. Tommy told me in Fort Worth he was going to get you. I want to live now, because I have found out he was nothing and I don't want to see you made a victim of a frame-up."

In her signed statement, taken by Owen George, assistant district attorney and witnessed by two hospital nurses, she said:

Liquor Planted

"Two weeks ago yesterday I was in Fort Worth with Thomas Davis and we got back home about 8:15 p. m. The sheriff followed us home and then came back out and found a box of liquor and some other liquor that was not in boxes.

"Davis told me in Fort Worth

French Immigration Officials Firm In Decision to Bar Guinan's Gang After Hearing Stories of Parties

By ADELAIDE KERR

HAVRE, France, May 30. (AP)—Texas Guinan and her "gang" of girls and musicians will be sent back to America on the steamer Paris, sailing next Wednesday, a spokesman for the French immigration bureau said tonight.

Their return will be by order of the French government and they will not be permitted officially to enter France.

A member of the immigration bureau here said the decision not to permit the noted American night club hostess and her "gang" to enter was made on the ground that Tex has "no working permit or contract."

The bureau member said: "We have been criticised because others slipped through the ports without contracts and we refuse to let Miss Guinan do it. It is sometimes possible to let in one artist to compete with French amusement talent, but she is trying to bring in a whole troupe."

The immigration bureau had heard about parties conducted by Tex and her "gang" on board the steamer Paris.

"The second-class passengers told us about these parties," he said, "and I don't think her type of amusement is our type."

RITES SET FOR COUPLE KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Funeral services for Mr. and Mrs. Earl O'Hara of Sherman, who were instantly killed when the automobile they occupied was struck by another car near Durant, Okla., Friday night, will be held at the First Baptist church in Sherman Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, according to word received by friends here late Saturday.

Mr. O'Hara was the brother of Cecil O'Hara, manager here of Jno. F. Clark & Co. He left for Sherman soon after receiving word of the accident. Mr. and Mrs. Earl O'Hara had been visitors here frequently.

According to press dispatches, E. J. Berry of Oklahoma City, driver of the car which struck that occupied by Mr. and Mrs. O'Hara and a number of friends, has been charged at Durant with murder in connection with their death. Berry was reported critically injured and four others less seriously hurt.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Hara, the reports added, were sitting with friends in a machine which was parked at the approach to a bridge when it was struck by the other car. Mr. and Mrs. O'Hara, according to the dispatches, were knocked from their automobile and were crushed beneath the other machine when it overturned.

Two cases of whisky were found in the machine driven by Berry, authorities at Durant were quoted as saying.

U. S. STEAMSHIP GOES TO RESCUE

ship San Anselmo and the steamship Marsodak and the U. S. S. Louisville, newest of the navy's fighting forces, picked up the call and raced to the rescue.

The passengers climbed from their berths and walked to the decks. There was no panic or excitement. In the words of Capt. L. B. Hillsinger, commander of the stranded vessel, radioed in a message to the Associated Press, his passengers "kept their shorts on and enjoyed themselves immensely."

Eighteen lifeboats were quickly filled and the passengers were lowered into a calm sea, where Captain Hillsinger ordered members of the crew manning the boats to stand by and await the rescue ships. The rocky shores of the point threatened any attempt at a safe landing.

Lifeboats Roped Together

The lifeboats were roped together and with the festive spirit of a holiday prevailing among all, the passengers sat and waited, laughing and joking while the dark waters of one of the most dangerous points along the coast lapped the boat hulls and wreaths of dense fog swirled over the heads of the passengers.

With the arrival of the San Anselmo, the passengers were taken aboard and a short time later the Louisville, the sea foaming from its prow as it sped toward the Harvard at a 30 knot pace hove alongside at 7:30 a. m.

Shortly before 11 o'clock, the passengers transferred once more, this time to the decks of the naval cruiser and with an unexpected adventure behind them they set sail again for their destination, Los Angeles harbor, 130 miles distant.

The crew of the Harvard, 119 men remained aboard to await the arrival of a tug and high tide late today for an attempt to refloat the steamer. The extent of damage to her hull cannot be estimated until she has been pulled clear.

The fire room was flooded purposely to keep her on an even keel and a line was thrown ashore to anchor her.

This congressional district includes the counties of Cooke, Denton, Wise, Montague, Jack, Clay, Archer, Young, Throckmorton, Baylor, Wilbarger and Wichita.

TIMES NOT HARD LAST MAN SAYS

WASHINGTON, May 30. (US)—Times can't be so very hard when "we are burning up millions of dollars of gasoline riding around in expensive automobiles," according to Capt. Charles W. Lockwood, survivor of Minnesota's "Last Man club."

The 88-year-old civil war veteran, in a broadcast over the Columbia system tonight, declared furthermore that people today don't know what privation really is. They should have been with him in the war and when he homsteaded in the West, he said.

NEARLY 100 LIVES TOLL OF ACCIDENTS

became a flower field of poppies and roses.

President Hoover and Vice President Curtis went out of the city for Memorial day addresses and other government officials also were absent. Those remaining and members of patriotic organizations participated in the ceremonies.

The nation's military chiefs, Secretaries Hurley and Adams, met on the Memorial bridge linking Arlington's white headstones with the marble stateliness of the Lincoln memorial, and reviewed aerial tactics of the army air corps mobilization.

Mingle Among Graves

Across the Potomac from the Grecian columns erected to the civil war president, hundreds mingled among the graves of those he led, and the grey-clad soldiers of the South.

The tomb of the unknown soldier attracted pilgrims of every age and a constant stream of wreaths, though only that from President Hoover was permitted to remain on the marble slab.

Around another tomb to unknown soldiers, where rest 2,111 dead gathered from the battle ground of Bull Run, flags were draped by a procession of women marching from the mansion that housed Robert E. Lee for 30 years.

Spanish war veterans stood grouped in tribute about the tall mast of the battleship Maine, earlier, they joined Indian war survivors and world war veterans in a parade up historic Pennsylvania avenue.

Flowers for Wilson Tomb

The tomb of Woodrow Wilson, war-time president, under the vaulted roof of the Washington cathedral, was decked with floral tributes, including those from President Hoover and the Woodrow Wilson foundation.

Opposite on the north wall of Bethlehem chapel of the cathedral, the tomb of Admiral George Dewey was honored similarly by Spanish war veterans.

Several hundred braved the broiling sun of the Arlington amphitheater to hear patriotic addresses by James A. Drain, past national commander of the American Legion; Representative Royal Johnson of South Dakota, chairman of the house veterans committee; Representative Sol Bloom, New York, and Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Capt. Charles Lockwood, 88, only survivor of the Last Man's club of Stillwater, Minn., was on the platform when Drain and Johnson spoke. Later over the Columbia Broadcasting system, he told of his impressions of the civil war.

PINCHOT SPEECH THREATENS STORM

highly controversial power issue and the dire necessity of federal and state control of this gigantic monopoly before it controls the lives of all the American people.

To Avoid Row

Since every governor is a sort of law unto himself at the conference, which has no hard and fast rules, it is probable that the other state executives will permit Pinchot to tear into the power trust rather than invite a grand row which would only serve to magnify the lack of harmony.

Thus, even before it starts, the governors' conference was given a distinctly political tinge. Pinchot is regarded as a possible candidate for the Republican presidential nomination and if he does enter the race against President Hoover it is apparent that he intends to make the power question his paramount issue.

Among the three dozen or so state executives expected to attend the conference are three Democratic presidential possibilities — Governor Roosevelt of New York, Governor Ritchie of Maryland and Governor White of Ohio.

Three Democrats

All three, and especially Roosevelt and Ritchie, will be closely watched because of the political significance attached to their activities at the meeting. Governor White is regarded more as an ally of Newton D. Baker, war-time secretary of war, whose name is prominent in the discussion of Democratic candidates.

Whether Roosevelt and Ritchie will follow Pinchot's lead and inject the discussion of other live national questions such as prohibition, taxation and political expenditures into the conference remains to be seen. Ritchie feels keenly on the subject of prohibition and states' rights, while Roosevelt has recently triumphed in his power fight in New York.

The three-day conference will be opened by Governor Case as chairman of the executive committee, after which the visiting executives will be welcomed by Gov. Harry G. Leslie of Indiana.

Tuesday is to be the big day. Pinchot, Roosevelt and White are scheduled to speak as well as Governors Wilson of Vermont, Dern of Utah, Gardiner of Maine and Shafer of North Dakota.

Roosevelt will speak on "land utilization and state planning."

Governor Ritchie will preside at the informal round-table discussion on the third day, which will close with a business session and trip to Bedford and Bloomington with a banquet in the evening with Governor Leslie presiding.

FRENCH OFFICIALS TAKE FIRM STAND

after, and in spite of, the receipt of cables from American Legion officials asking that Tex and her troupe be permitted because of her service as an entertainer of the soldiers in France during the world war.

Texas was forced to interrupt a luncheon at the Hotel Frascati today and to return hurriedly to the Hotel Transatlantique because the girl members of her "gang" began to break down under the strain.

Anne Boleyn, one of the "gang," became hysterical and ran out of the hotel when a newspaper man attempted to question her. A member of the troupe brought her back, but other members then began to shed tears, wailing:

"We'll never get to Paris! I want to go home!"

Tex herself said that she had not yet given up hope of reaching Paris.

"There are lots of strings to my bow yet," she said. "I am not licked. Channing Pollack, the author, offered me the use of his house while I was in Paris. His secretary telephoned today asking when I would come. I told him 'I can't say yet. I will draw a couple of more cards first.'"

The calmer members of the party unanimously declared: "We'll bet on Tex. She'll get us to Paris yet."

Tex said she was awaiting a call from her manager, John Stein, who is in Paris, to learn whether he had gained permission for her to go there to plead her own case.

across the Lincoln memorial and on to Mt. Vernon. There the long line turned back toward the city and crossed to Arlington cemetery, where each squadron dipped in honor of the heroes buried there.

One outstanding fact which caused much pride in army circles was that the maneuvers were carried out without a serious accident.

The combat tactics demonstrated by the crack squadrons during the maneuvers revealed the supremacy of new methods of attacks and defense by whole squadrons acting as a unit.

Airports Inaccessible

WASHINGTON, May 30. (INS)—Vivid illustration of the old saying —"flying saves a lot of time between airports"—was given the 1,400 officers and men who made up the personnel of the army air corps' 672 plane formation engaged in this year's field exercises.

At Dayton, where the maneuvers started, at Chicago, second point on the route, in New York and New England, officers and men were faced always with the problem of transportation from flying fields to and from cities. In several cases the giant formation of planes moved from base to base in less time than it took the personnel to get into nearby cities after landing.

In Chicago it was more noticeable, where nearly 300 planes of the attack and observation groups were quartered at Curtiss-Reynolds field, about 40 miles out of the city.

A long taxi ride to the nearest depot, and an hour's ride on the train were on the route to the city proper. Other airfields in and around Chicago were not so distant but all were far enough.

U. S. Supreme in Air

WASHINGTON, May 30. (US)—The army air maneuvers demonstrated that the United States leads all other nations in the operation of large air units, Assistant Secretary of War for Air F. Trubee Davison declared today. He added:

"I doubt if any air maneuvers have ever been more productive than the present ones from the training and technical standpoint.

"The record of the past two weeks stands as the highest possible tribute to the personnel and equipment.

"The record of safety covering more than 500,000 plane miles could not have been accomplished but for the superior equipment produced by American aircraft industry, the excellent staff work, careful training and rigid discipline."

BEST GIRL OBSERVER OF HOLE-IN-ONE SHOT

TAMPA, Fla., May 30. (AP)—Here's a break for you—making a hole-in-one while the best girl looks on.

It happened to Rudolph Batson, who is 12, and a student in junior high school here.

Young Batson and his mother were playing his particular girl friend and her mother on a municipal course here when the foursome reached a short, 120-yard hole.

Young Batson selected a mashie for his tee-shot. The ball arched up and disappeared. It was found in the cup. Did Rudolph strut?

Although neighbors said everything seemed normal at the Lewis home on last Tuesday, they noted the home was silent on Wednesday. Yesterday friends of the family began to receive mysterious letters one of which said the two women had been killed in an accident.

The letters were turned over to Scotland Yard and an investigation resulted in finding of the bodies.

A post-mortem indicated that the women had died of poison, but this was unofficial until after an inquest.

One of the letters said:

"They have been buried with all reverence in a pretty spot, with flowers over them. I shall soon join them."

that he was going to frame my husband and get the law after him.

"Last Monday at the Hilton hotel in Dallas Thomas Davis told me he had the liquor placed at our place and that he called the sheriff and told him if he would get out to Anderson's he would find some liquor, that Anderson was coming in with a load. He said he would do it again and again if he had to get rid of my husband. He said he had two fellows do it who would do anything for him. He said Friday afternoon in Fort Worth there wasn't anything he would stop at to put Anderson in the penitentiary."

The statement was signed "Fannie Anderson," and witnessed by Vesta Fouts and Irene Tackett, nurses at the hospital.

Gus Anderson reached Dallas early today and immediately went to the hospital where his wife was.

"I am sorry she did this," he said. "She was a good woman and if that man had left her alone, we would never have had any trouble."

He told Dallas police and newspaper men how he had tried to persuade Davis to let his wife alone and stay away from her.

Firestone Tires Prove Stamina In Classic Auto Race

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 30.—The gruelling 500-mile Indianapolis classic was a test of tires more than ever before. The racing machines were heavier, more powerful, and capable of greater speed. The performance of the Firestone tires, on the first 10 cars to finish, is the greatest proof of the advancement in tire engineering. Some of the drivers who finished in the first 10 did not make a tire change, although they could do so without any loss of time—in 15 seconds, while getting gasoline. Firestone tires have equipped the cars of the winner for 12 consecutive years, but never before so outstandingly and under such trying conditions.

In the 500-mile grind, the continuous flexing of the tires tends to generate disastrous internal friction and heat and centrifugal force often increase the circumference of a tire by more than 10 per cent at top speeds.

Firestone engineers studied how internal friction and heat eats tire vitality at high speeds, and developed the patented gum-dipping process in which pure liquid rubber penetrates every cord and coats every fiber, minimizing internal heat in Firestone tires on highway and speedway.

Similarly the patented double cord breaker was perfected, providing 56 per cent stronger union between tread and cord body and 26 per cent greater protection against blowouts. It is constructed of gum-dipped cords in a more open construction. Two plies of this material form the union between tread and cord body as the big cars, with smooth tread to allow skidding on curves, roar and pound the 500-mile course of hot uneven bricks. Without these Firestone features tires could not be expected to carry the drivers over the entire course with the assurance of safety at speeds necessary to win the victory.

Mr. Car Owner

Here is what Race Drivers with Life and Victory at Stake have decided about Tires

FOR twenty-one years the Indianapolis two and a half mile circular brick track, surrounded by a concrete wall to keep the cars from dashing off, has been the crucible where at white heat automobiles and tires have been tested. Thousands of men have risked and some have sacrificed, their lives, and manufacturers have spent millions of dollars to the end of making better automobiles and better tires.

Louis Schneider and mechanician yesterday won this race in a heavy 8 cylinder car. He made an average speed of 96.629 miles per hour—on the straightaways and in passing cars he touched 140 miles and better. He drove on 6.00-20 Firestone High Speed Tires with racing treads. He had no tire trouble.

He used Firestone Tires because Firestone experts and engineers have through twenty-one years taken this race as a challenge to tire making. From this race they have developed these vital improvements which have given to Firestone Tires the world leadership in safety, mileage and endurance.

1. Gum-Dipping. Tires had to be stronger and able to stand the heat of a hot red-brick track at high speed. Firestone met this by developing and perfecting the dipping of cords through a rubber solution to insulate each fiber of every cord to overcome heat and give the cord greater strength — and 58% greater flexibility. This is the Patented Gum-Dipping Process used in the making of every Firestone Tire.

2. The Balloon Tire was developed by Firestone to permit greater speed with comfort and safety by increasing road grip and absorbing shocks. It was made possible by the added strength and flexibility given by Gum-Dipping. In the 1925 race, some of the drivers tried the then new Firestone Balloons. The others stuck to high-pressure tires. Peter de Paolo on Firestone Balloons made a world's record. All the prize winners came in on Firestone Balloons — Now the balloon tire is everywhere the standard.

3. Double Cord Breaker. The higher-powered cars and the step-up in speed demanded still more tire toughness. At one hundred miles an hour, the circumference of a tire increases by more than 10%, and this, added to the centrifugal force, tends to throw off the tire treads. Firestone met this by developing the Patented Double Cord Breaker which gives a 56% stronger bond between the tread and the tire body and also gives a 26% greater protection against punctures and blowouts.

These are some of the great lessons that Firestone has learned on this racing track. And so the men whose lives and fortunes depend on knowing tires always buy Firestone Patented Gum-Dipped Double Cord Breaker High-Speed Tires.

There were 72 entries. Of these, 40 survived the elimination trials —and every one of them was on Firestone Tires. And every tire was bought and paid for.

We give you the benefit of all the lessons Firestone has learned from these races. You can get from us all the strength and safety in tires that the racing drivers buy.

—were on the G.M.C. Truck, carrying a two-ton load, that hung up the coast-to-coast endurance record.

—were on the Studebaker car which on a board track in Atlantic City in 1928 went 30,000 miles in 26,326 minutes.

—on 125 buses of the Washington Electric & Railway Company, ran 3,674,266 bus miles during 1930 with only 13 tire delays.

—on 150 trucks of the Safeway Stores, Inc., ran 1,500,000 miles in one year without one single hour of delay on the road.

Take advantage of our liberal trade-in plan. Avoid the risk of blow-out, accident or delay. Prices on these World's Record Tires are the lowest in history.

WAGE CUTS WOULD BE WORSE--SMITH

The secretary of the treasury in his recent address to the foreign bankers said, "purchasing power in so far as America is concerned is dependent to a great extent on the standard of living which obtains in this country. That standard of living must be maintained at all costs." That means no reduction in wages, because the present high wages of the American workingman is what has fixed the standard in America.

The statement has often been made that because of the introduction of machinery new forms of work and labor will have to be discovered in order to prevent unemployment as a result of progress which displaces man power by machine power. Following the business slump of 1907, the automobile began coming into its own and the manufacture of automobiles on a large scale turned the wheels of industry in all lines manufacturing or producing any of the parts or materials required for the construction of an automobile.

Cheaper grades of automobiles even absorbed quantities of cotton for cushions. Rubber, steel and iron and all of the various accessories, large and small, that make up part of the equipment of a motor car, even the clothing manufacturers, were benefited by the early development of the automobile. Those were the days of dirt roads for the most part and every autoist had to be equipped with a duster. Following the business depression of 1920 and 1921 the radio and the airplane came into their own and the two new industries stimulated various lines of manufacture and absorbed a goodly number of the unemployed.

Why not revive an industry? If we have a scientific and intelligent definition by law of what constitutes an intoxicant and permitting the sale, manufacture and distribution of light wines and beer, nobody can gainsay the fact that such a change would increase employment. It would likewise give business to the railroads. It would enhance real estate values. The farmer would be a beneficiary because his grain and malt would be in demand. That means that he would require additional help.

When I discussed the economic outlook a few weeks ago I made the prediction that there was little that I could see in the immediate future that was calculated to encourage anybody. In January I discussed unemployment and expressed a willingness to take the most optimistic view possible. We are at the door of June, and if there is any change for the better in the economic or unemployment condition I am not aware of it. Personal appeals to me and the character of my mail indicate that unemployment and lack of opportunity to work are just as prevalent as they were three months ago or, for that matter, as they have been since last October.

My warning that public improvements were not to be counted on for any speedy relief is justified. It must be remembered that so far as public work is concerned there is a wide stretch between the point of appropriation and the beginning of construction. Public officials cannot be blamed for this condition. We build everything by law and the requirements of the law are such that the very carrying out of these alone means delay. It may be that the opening of country residences and summer hotels will offer a small temporary degree of relief to the present unemployment situation. Agricultural improvement is certainly slight and wholly seasonal. But so far as the basic trouble is concerned I see no change for the better.

In the statement I have just made I seem to be borne out by the report of the federal department of labor with respect to unemployment as of May 17, 1931, which indicates that the basic industries, such as iron and steel and their products, structural iron work, foundry and machine shop products, hardware, tools, have not increased their percentage of employment in April over March and as compared with April a year ago the decreases are startling, ranging from 10 to 20 per cent. There are small seasonal increases in employment for April over March in some of the less important industries and a few building products, such as cement and brick, show slight increases.

Whatever may be said for increases which always occur at this time of the year in some industries, until the basic industries move we have not made the upward turn. When you see that employment in the manufacture of agricultural implements has again fallen off in the last month and is about 50 per cent of what it was a year ago, that auto tires and tubes dropped eight per cent in a month and almost 20 per cent in a year, we are clutching at straws when we point to the very faint indications of increased employment that out of the total percentage of people unemployed is almost negligible.

There is no doubt that the business of the country will emerge from the despair in which it has found itself for more than a year and a half. In guarding against a repetition of our present unemployment dilemma, perhaps the American people will not forget the long night through which they have passed and will use the experience they gained in hardship. From the standpoint of government itself future planning of public works as laid down in one of the Wagner bills should be adopted so that when the crisis of unemployment makes itself apparent it will not be necessary to lose so much time in the preparation of plans.

Business, large and small, must likewise study methods of planning so as to keep a steady flow through the channels of trade and commerce. Overproduction is just as disastrous as no production. Employers must have the full cooperation of labor in such planning because the present business depression indicates that they both suffer alike from lack of proper planning.

Our history indicates that we are quick to forget. When everything is going well the sky is the limit and nobody thinks of the bad times that they all believe have passed forever. When we emerge from this business depression we will remember that while elections of one or the other party will not guard against business slumps, we can be ready to meet such situations so that their full force and effect will not come as a single blow.

CLEARS RECORD AFTER 60 YEARS

BELOIT, Wis., May 30. (AP)—Today was Carlton C. Olin's day.

For 60 years he had stood by to watch his comrades of the civil war parade on Memorial day, unable to march with them because the government said he was a deserter.

But he wasn't a deserter and a special act of congress, passed at the last session, made it possible for him to join the marching ranks today.

Olin, now 84 years old, joined the Union ranks as a boy and served with credit in the fourth United States infantry. At the end of the war an officer sent him to a Missouri town for his baggage. Unable to find it, he left for home, and was subsequently listed as a deserter.

WICHITA FALLS IS FAST BECOMING PLAYGROUND CENTER

THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE COME TO WICHITA FALLS TO VISIT PLAY PARKS AND GO FISHING

By FRED L. HASKETT

The playground of Northwest Texas centers around Wichita Falls and thousands of people from West, Northwest, North Central and North Texas, as well as Southwestern and Southern Oklahoma gather here for the week-ends. There are amusements of almost every character but those that attract the most visitors are the wonderful fishing, boating and camping places that abound around the three great lakes—Lake Wichita, Lake Kemp and Diversion lake.

Lake Kemp Draws Many

The most attractive resort at Lake Kemp, which draws many hundreds of people during the summer season, is Cara Blanca park, owned and operated by the Waggoner estate. This resort is equipped with boats for fishing and pleasure. The park is equipped with camping facilities and there is also a wide area in which to hunt.

The resort can be reached from either Wichita Falls, Electra, Seymour or Vernon. This past winter many improvements have been added and already the spring business is greater than was accorded the park last spring. Some wonderful catches of fish have been reported, states the management.

Diversion Lake park, located on Diversion lake, is also owned and operated by the Waggoner estate. It is an ideal fishing place and there are plenty of boats. One feature of this resort is the shallow water which covers a large area of brush. In this water crappie abound and the fisherman who likes to fish for them can be kept interested any time during the summer. The park company has erected a new pier and camp houses can be rented.

Lakeside park, located at the dam at Lake Wichita, is the largest amusement park in Northwest Texas. It has many kinds of riding devices, dancing pavilion, boating, theater and a large swimming pool. One of the finest roller-coasters, or figure eights in Texas is operated. The park is brilliantly lighted with electric lights. Two paved roads lead to the park as well as the street car line.

The Biggest Swimming Pool

Westmoreland Swimming pool, the largest artificial swimming pool in Texas, is now open for the summer season. This pool was created for the impounding of irrigation waters for the Westmoreland park section. The pool is fed by a large stream of pure and fresh water direct from the irrigation canal. The park is well equipped. There is also an ideal picnic ground at the park.

Sand Beach park, is a swimming and picnic park about midway between Wichita Falls and Iowa Park. The pool is constantly fed with fresh water. There are all amusement devices that make a swimming pool properly equipped.

New Haven park is a swimming park between the city and Lake Wichita on Holliday street. It is an attractive and popular swimming place and is operated so that the health of the patrons is fully protected.

Money invested in amusement places within the Wichita Falls area amounts to a considerable sum. Each year a larger number of people come to the city to visit the parks and spend the week-ends. As Wichita Falls is centrally located and paved roads lead from every direction, the number of visitors is constantly increasing, and owners of the various parks and amusement places continue to increase their investments in betterments.

Fine Park and Zoo

Nor are the parks listed the only places of interest in and about Wichita Falls. Scotland park and the zoo attract hundreds of people, many who motor from points more than 100 miles distant so that the kiddies can see the wild animals, and enjoy a place to romp and play. The park is densely covered with enormous cottonwood and other trees.

Wichita Falls has two excellent golf courses, one belonging to the country club, a private course, and the other the municipal golf park. The municipal park is one of the best courses in Texas, well kept and shaded with a beautiful grove of trees that follow the meanderings of Holliday creek.

The municipal airport, known as Kell field, also attracts many visitors and especially owners of private ships. The field is equipped to handle a large number of ships and usually on Sunday there is sightseeing service to those who wish to fly.

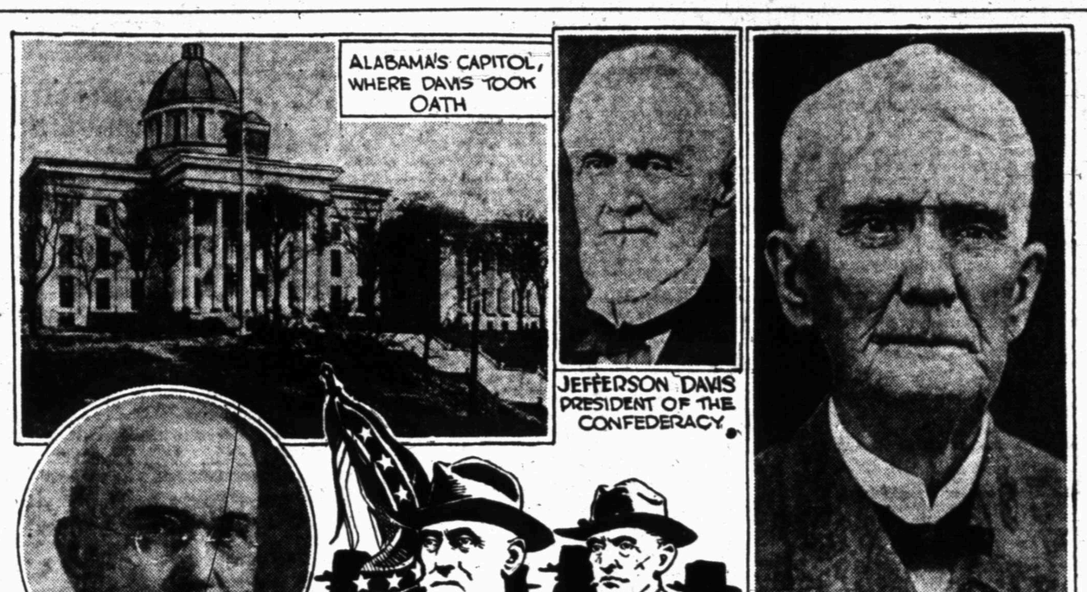

Hotels and catering places are excellent in Wichita Falls. During the summer special rates can be obtained for stays of a week or more. Reservations can be made in advance for week-end parties.

Excellent picture theaters are also operated each day and evening in the week. And last, but not least, the Spudder team can interest those who love baseball.

If wishing to get away from business and enjoy a week-end of rest, there is not better place to go than Wichita Falls. To most people in this section of Texas or Oklahoma the drive is short and not tiresome. The expense account can be kept at a minimum.

Come to Wichita Falls and enjoy yourself!

THINNING RANKS OF CONFEDERATE VETS FALL IN FOR DIXIE'S LAST REUNION

(By NEA Service)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 30.—The Grim Reaper has thinned the ranks and the march of time has enfeebled the remaining Confederate veterans who battled for secession three-quarters of a century ago. That is the main reason why it has been decided the 41st annual reunion to be held here June 2-5, will be the last.

In the '90's when the reuions were first held, from 12,000 to 15,000 of the "boys in gray" attended the gatherings and indulged in all sorts of celebrations and marches. To day, their ranks thinned down to about 2,500 and reunions are marked by easy "arm-chair" sessions.

General L. W. Stephens, one of the few living generals of the Confederate army, elected commander-in-chief of the veterans at their 1930 reunion in Biloxi, Miss., will have charge of the gathering this year. Assisting him will be Gov. B. M. Miller, who will deliver the address of welcome, the Sons of Confederate Veterans, Ladies' Memorial association, and other patriotic organizations who will make the "boys" at home.

Here at the site of the old Confederate capital, veterans will visit scenes rich in southern political lore. They will see the old capitol of the Confederacy where Jefferson Davis took his oath of office as president and where the Confederate congress met to decide policies of the South.

Entertainment will be furnished by the U. S. army military band, and a huge ball will be held at which oldtime tunes are expected to unlimber stiffened joints of many veterans and set their feet to tapping in some of the dances popular in their day.

Unlike former years, veterans will not be housed in army tents but will sleep in the Sidney Lanier high school.

WOMAN DRY AGENT IN GEORGIA ARRESTED AND FACES COURT CHARGES

MACON, Ga., May 30. (AP)—The record of Miss Helen Respess as a federal prohibition informer today included arrest of 14 persons for selling her liquor and five charges against her for alleged consumption of intoxicants.

The arrests, including five women, were made by federal agents yesterday while Miss Respess was in city recorders' court answering counts of being drunk, driving an automobile while drunk, reckless driving, violating the rules of the road, and speeding. Officers said they arrested her with a young man companion on a downtown street Thursday night. Police Judge Hatcher fined her a total of $98 on four of the charges and commited her to city court on the charge of driving an automobile while drunk.

Miss Respess worked "under cover" here for several weeks as assistant to D. W. Robertson, non-resident federal agent.

RURAL MAIL CARRIERS MEET AT MEDICINE PARK

LAWTON, Okla., May 30.—One hundred and fifty rural mail carriers of Oklahoma are assembled at Medicine Park today to attend the annual convention of the Oklahoma Federation of Rural Letter Carriers.

An interesting program is being carried out which includes an address by Congressman Jed Johnson. A luncheon was given for the visitors at noon.

The finest railroad depot in Nevada is located in the deserted city of Rhyolite.

Edna Flugrath, Pioneer Movie Star Of England, Visits City With Her Husband, Halliburton Houghton

Edna Flugrath, one of the pioneer moving picture stars of England, and a sister of Shirley Mason and Viola Dana, Hollywood notables, was in Wichita Falls for a few days during the past week, leaving Saturday for Dallas. Miss Flugrath, who in private life is Mrs. Halliburton Houghton, will be in Wichita Falls at intervals during the next few weeks, accompanying her husband, who has oil interests here.

Mr. and Mrs. Houghton only recently returned from a several months' visit to London, where movie fans greeted their favorite after 10 years' absence. London newspapers recalled her popularity, and reminded their subscribers that Clive Brook and Victor McLaglen played their first roles opposite her. She also played with such famous actors as Percy Marmont, Henry Ainley, Ben Webster and Fred Groves.

While on this recent visit to London, Mr. and Mrs. Houghton also made a trip to North Africa, where Mr. Houghton went on a special mission to buy lands for the government of Great Britain. Mr. Houghton is a cousin of Richard Halliburton and is also a cousin of Alanson Houghton, former American ambassador to England.

The trip to North Africa was only another interesting tour for Miss Flugrath, who spent three years in South Africa several years ago. She trekked across the lion country, naming her most horrible experience of that trip as the day when she was followed by a hyena. The hyena, she explained, does not attack a live person but merely follows, waiting for the person to die.

Miss Flugrath was also the first American girl in Russia after the beginning of the Bolshevik era and saw many intersting things happen there.

As an actress on the stage and also in moving pictures, Miss Flugrath not only played in command performances for the king and queen of England, but her pictures were presented in command performances. She was also presented to the court at a garden party.

She came to America in 1922, joining her sisters, Viola Dana and Shirley Mason, both of whom changed their names from the original Flugrath when they entered their profession. She lived in Hollywood for several years before she married Mr. Houghton.

Mr. Houghton is associated with William Skeen, formerly a resident of this city, in drilling a well in south Archer county.

In Insolvent State

KNOXVILLE, May 30.—Some one in the office of L. D. Smith, attorney general, made a comical error. In a brief read in Federal Judge Taylor's court on an injunction plea, "The sovereign state of Tennessee," as dictated by Smith, became "the solvent state of Tennessee." Smith is still looking for the stenographer.

RECORD CROWD EXPECTED FOR AVIATION MEET

Hearty endorsement of local civic organizations and enthusiastic statements of interest from prominent citizens indicate an unusual attendance at the National Aeronautic association air races according to officers in the Business and Professional Women's club, which is sponsoring the event here Sunday, June 14.

The air meet is the first to be held here which is conducted under the rules of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale, which means that any records made here will be counted as official records. It is also the second of its kind to be held in Texas, the first being at Brownsville.

The great variety of aircraft to be seen at Kell field during the day will be of almost as much interest as the various stunts. The stunts will include outside loops, one of the most difficult and rarest of aviation feats, delayed parachute jumps and a number of other things not seen in this section before.

Parking space is being roped off and provisions made for a record crowd. The cooperation of both the junior and senior chambers of commerce has been promised in preparing for the event.

One-third the population of the United States, or 40,000,000 persons, are transported on street cars every year.

Rajah Yogi Back In Jail Pending Payment of Check

Rajah Yogi, East Indian hypnotist who was fined $1 and costs by Judge O. L. Gibbs on a charge of vagrancy Thursday afternoon, was arrested in Olney Saturday on a capias profine and brought back to the Wichita county jail after Judge Gibbs discovered that the check given him for $14.50 to pay the fine and costs was "hot."

The check was not given by the Rajah but was signed by another man and was marked on the face as being in lieu of part of the hypnotist's salary.

Sheriff Perry Browning said under the capias issued by the justice court the prisoner would be held in jail until the $14.50 plus mileage to Olney and return had been paid.

A pump has been invented that is operated automatically by a float to remove water from flooded residence cellars.

DALLAS, May 30. (AP)—Fort Worth's building permit total of $617,576 for the week marked the peak of new building in that city this year and total of other cities for the week reflected considerable activity in new construction.

Included in the Fort Worth total for the week was $550,000 for a new Masonic temple, the remainder of the total being made up chiefly of residential permits.

SAN ANTONIO CHOSEN FOR 1932 CONVENTION OF DISTRICT CLERKS

DALLAS, May 30. (AP)—San Antonio was selected as the 1932 convention city of the County and District Clerks' Association of Texas at the closing session today of the organization's annual convention here.

L. Emet Walker of Coleman, Coleman county clerk, was elected president to succeed Miss Belle Wellborne of Abilene.

Other officers elected were Hart McCormick, San Antonio, Bexar county district clerk, first vice president; W. E. Blackburne, Amarillo, Potter county clerk, second vice president; W. E. Alexander, Fort Worth, Tarrant county district clerk, third vice president; W. E. Burleson, Brownwood, Brown county clerk, secretary-treasurer.

The convention adjourned at noon.

SINGERS OF DISTRICT TO ORGANIZE AT DUNCAN

DUNCAN, Okla., May 30.—Visitors from every section of Southwest Oklahoma are expected here June 6 and 7 for the organization of a singing convention for the nine counties in this congressional district.

S. R. Murphree, president of the Stephens county organization, hopes to form a permanent organization in the district to hold regular singing conventions. He expects more than 1,000 delegates to the first meeting.

Officers will be elected Saturday and the singing convention proper held Sunday. Meetings will be held at the Duncan fair grounds.

Heavy Rain at Laredo

LAREDO, Texas, May 30. (AP)—A slow rain which began here late yesterday had amounted to nearly two inches precipitation at noon today and gave indications of continuing through tonight. The region about Laredo has received more than six inches of rain during the month of May.

A 1931 JULES VERNE LEAVES OUR EARTH!

This graphic chart shows the upper regions to the earth's atmosphere which Professor Auguste Piccard, a modern Jules Verne, and his assistant, Charles Kipfer, penetrated by flying higher than any human being or bird had ever been before—their goal being 52,500 feet (or about 10 miles) away from our world.

Professor Piccard set out to beat the world record for altitude established by Lieutenant Apollo Soucek, U. S. navy, who soared 43,166 feet over Washington, D. C., in a small seaplane on June 4, 1930. This beat the high mark for balloons, established by Captain Hawthorne C. Gray of the U. S. army who paid for his fame with his life. Captain Gray ascended Nov. 4, 1927, from Belleville, Ill., and a day later the balloon, with Gray dead in the basket, was found in a tree near Sparta Tenn. He had perished when his oxygen tanks became exhausted in the thin air of the upper spaces, but the balloon's instruments showed he had reached 42,270 feet.

Above the five-mile line the illimitable reaches of outer space begin, for no mountains or clouds exceed this height—higher on is nothing but the bitter cold and gradually darkening regions of the great void. Mount Everest, highest mountain in the world, does not penetrate above this line and even the highest cirrus clouds—those white, fleecy wisps formed by the tiny ice particles—never go above it. The cold is intense, reaching 148 degrees below zero in the higher altitudes. Only a little less than two miles above the earth, the temperature is always freezing even on the hottest of July days.

YOUTH ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF ROBBING STORES AT ELECTRA

The fact that a certain youth did not smoke cigarets was one of the clues which led to his arrest in connection with two Electra burglaries, according to Roy Hart, night chief of police in that city.

A complaint charging the prisoner with burglary was taken by Sam B. Spence, district attorney, and Mike Anglin, assistant, when the youth was brought to the Wichita county jail Saturday night by Mr. Hart and W. C. Suttle, another Electra officer. The complaint cannot be filed until Monday, however, when local justice courts will be open.

The two Electra officers arrested the young man in connection with the robbery of Austin's Dry Goods store of about $125 in clothing on May 19 and of Parker's Cash Grocery last Wednesday night.

The fact that no cigarets were taken in the Parker robbery was one of the things that made him suspect this prisoner, Mr. Hart said, as the youth does not smoke. Only $2.25 in cash and a few small articles were taken from the grocery store.

The Electra officers recovered part of the dry goods store loot in the prisoner's possession, part of it in his room and most of the rest in Durant, Okla., where it had been shipped by express. Mr. Hart and Constable O. E. Whisnand went to Durant Saturday and returned the goods to Electra.

The defendant is a former Electra citizen and was visiting friends there after completing his freshman year at an Oklahoma college earlier in the month.

DRY LAW DIRECTOR TO VISIT RENO WEDNESDAY NOT SEEKING DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, May 30. (US)—Col. Amos W. W. Woodcock, national prohibition director, left here tonight for Phoenix, Ariz., after a short stay in Los Angeles.

Colonel Woodcock will pass Wednesday in Reno.

"Don't get me wrong," he explained. "I'm not going to take up residence there as I'm not looking for a divorce. That's unnecessary as I've never been married."

From Reno Colonel Woodcock may proceed to Washington, or he may return to San Francisco for a day. He was undecided today as to his plans.

Research Secretary of Methodist Board of Temperance Strikes Blow In Defense of Women of America

WASHINGTON, May 30. (US)—A blow in defense of American women was struck today by Deets Pickett, research secretary of the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals, who says nine out of 10 girls are adhering to the ancient standards of chastity and honor.

A letter addressed to "Dear Bill" is printed in his organization's clip sheet. In it he contends that the prevailing opinion that moral standards have broken down are due to impressions gained from many motion pictures, cheap fiction and "organized anti-prohibitionists who, to overthrow prohibition, have said that it has debauched American youth."

Of the American girl of today Pickett says:

"Take them as they come down any shopping street of an American city, nine out of 10 women and girls will be found adhering to the ancient standards of chastity and honor.

Wonders How Long

"I wonder how long the people of the United States are going to tolerate this slander of American women? It's a poor man who won't strike a blow in defense of his mother or his sister, and a poor society which will not deal effectively with wanton accusations against its women.

"One is very much tempted to bring these accusers of the American girl on the carpet and demand that they answer yes or no to a few pertinent questions:

"Is your mother the kind of a woman pictured in your magazine?

"Is your sister or your daughter an 'amateur competitor.'

"Is it your wife who consents so readily and happily to personal degradation at the suggestion of any casual proposer?

"If so, why don't these magazine editors and scenario writers confine their defamatory campaign to the women of their own homes and immediate social surroundings?

"We challenge such methods of fighting the prohibition law."

TUNNEY RETURNS FROM NEAR EAST TALKS OF RUSSIA

NEW YORK, May 30. (US)—Gene Tunney arrived today on the North German Lloyd liner Columbus, accompanied by his wife, the former Polly Lauder. The former heavyweight champion is returning from a four months' tour of the Near East.

Tunney had nothing to say concerning prize fighting, but was voluble on the subject of the Soviet five-year-plan. The former fighter and his wife spent several weeks there this spring, and he admitted that the Russian situation bewildered him. He said:

"Like so many newspaper men who have been in Moscow for a much longer time than I, I find myself unable to form any proper opinion about the Russian experiment. Perhaps it will work—at any rate, it's in an awful mess now. The ruble isn't worth the same amount in any two cities, and the government officials are not all they should be. Just because of this unstable money, I think they will monopolize world trade within the next 10 years."

LONDON, May 30. (INS)—Eleven years after his abdication as German emperor, former Kaiser Wilhelm II was discharged from the Spanish army today.

GUNMEN INVADE HARLEM BRONX MAN SHOT DEAD

NEW YORK, May 30. (AP)—Gunmen today again invaded the Harlem neighborhood where two were killed by machine gun bullets Thursday night. Today they shot to death a man believed to be Peter Coll of the Bronx.

The victim, cornered in his automobile, jumped out and began firing in self-defense, but the answering fusillade of bullets wounded him in the head and body. He died almost instantly.

Thursday's killings was blamed by police on either a beer price cutting war or trouble among police racketeers.

PRESIDENT RESTS AT WHITE HOUSE FOLLOWING SPEECH-MAKING TOUR

WASHINGTON, May 30. (US)—Arriving back from Valley Forge shortly before 3 p. m., President Hoover decided to spend the week-end in the White House instead of at the Rapidan camp.

The chief executive found his Pennsylvania trip, during which he made two speeches, rather fatiguing. After lunch he took a short nap on the train.

The usual week-end conferences on affairs of government will be omitted while the president enjoys a brief respite from his work.

SPUDDERS NIP PANTHER RALLIES TO TAKE 5 TO 4 THRILLER

Athletic park Sunday should see its biggest crowd since opening day, for what more tempting morsel could be spread before the fans than a double-header with Fort Worth on a sunny Sunday in May? The answer is "they aint no sech animal." With the Spudders knocking along at a winning stride and showing little respect for the teams above them in the standing column and with Fort Worth's Kittens trying mightily to sew up another Texas league championship, the setting is all but perfect. The only improvement we could offer would be for the Spudders to be on top and the Panthers in the challenging position.

Another thing is that this Sunday double-header is the last chance to see the Spudders at work until June 20. Monday is an off-day, the scheduled game being played as a part of Sunday's twin, and then follows the meanest road trip of the year. Starting at Shreveport Tuesday the club visits each of the enemy ports and is slated to play 21 games in 18 days before returning to Athletic park. Visits to each of the three North Texas cities precede the second invasion of South Texas territory. Included in the Spudder itinerary are three double-headers, one scheduled and the others the result of postponements. One rain-out is hanging fire at Dallas and probably will be played off in a double-header next Sunday. Two games are scheduled with the Indians at San Antonio the following Sunday and a postponement on the books at Beaumont will be played off June 16, 17 or 18.

The trip is one of the killing kind that has meant the doom of many an ambitious ball club. If the Spudders survive it, they will have been established as a team that must be watched for the remainder of the race. If there is to be a split season, which, by the way, is hardly the cinch that some of us may think it is, it will come shortly after the Spudders get back from this jaunt. If the boys can maintain their relative position with the leaders through this trip, they cannot by any stretch of the imagination be kept out of the reckoning in a full-season pennant race. If the race is split, then the Spudders will loom as a formidable contender for the second half championship. Wichita Falls clubs of the past have shown no particular fears for road trips, long or otherwise. The 1931 Spudders' road record is almost as good as that of their home games, so we doubt seriously if there is any quaking of knees in the Spudder camp on the eve of the year's roughest voyage.

There is a growing sentiment in the Texas league—among those who cast the votes that decide such things—against the split season. We don't know that the sentiment has reached the growth of preventing a split this season. It probably hasn't, but more than one Texas league clubowner who in the past has voted for split races in an effort to boost his gate receipts has learned that the reaction from the fans is anything but a business stimulant. On the other hand, a clubowner who finds the fans have lost interest in his team because it is out of the race and sees the chance by voting for a split to revive interest even for only a few weeks has to be endowed with plenty of intestinal fortitude to vote "against his pocketbook."

At least a part of Wichita Falls' baseball depression this season may be traced indirectly to the split race of last season. Wichita Falls undoubtedly would have won the pennant last year if the race had not been divided, but that's just one of many split seasons, and as a whole Wichita Falls has profited from split races. At least an immediate profit was shown in the last half championships of 1928 and 1929. Wichita Falls might have won one or both of these races if they had been straight through affairs, but it is extremely doubtful. We have a hunch, though, that the club and the league as a whole is now paying the fiddler in lax interest that at least in part is due to the fans' reaction to the many split races of the past. The Texas league will do well to think twice before it splits this race, regardless of the standing of the teams or the losses that are being incurred by individual clubs. If it is true that fan confidence has been more or less shaken by split races, the league can well afford to pass up the added patronage of a few weeks and play this race straight through.

Every day that J. Alvin Gardner serves as Texas league president it becomes more apparent that he is THE boss of the circuit. He does not let precedent interfere with his judgment and when he bobs up with an idea that he thinks is for the betterment of his league, he gives little thought to the past. His latest decree has done away with the automatic fine that has been levied against every player and manager ejected from a game by an umpire. It has been customary for the league president to impose a fine of $5 or more in every instance of a players' expulsion, regardless of circumstances. Friday Gardner declared he had not fined a player this season and announced a new policy in dealing with the athletes who so shock the dignity of hizzoner, the um-pirate, as to be bounced from the game. Except in extreme cases no punishment other than a reprimand from the president's office will be dealt out to first offenders. The player, however, will be placed on probation and repeated offenses will bring more drastic action from the prexy. Gardner believes that such a policy will go further toward reducing the infractions of players and managers than by imposing fines, and unless the average player proves to be a queer type of the human species, we believe Gardner's deductions are correct.

Hillin Weathers Late Storm For Well Earned Win

Williams Colts Close Home Stand With Two With Cats Sunday

The bigger they are the harder they fall has become the battle cry of the Spudders as they fight their way nearer the peak in the Texas league race. The league leading Panthers were whittled down below the hopefuls' fifth place rating Saturday afternoon as the Williams colts hung up a 5 to 4 victory for their third straight over the Cats.

Ashley Hillin was forced to battle with his back to the wall to stave off Fort Worth rallies in both the eighth and ninth, but he was equal to the occasion and scored his sixth triumph of the campaign. His victim was Dick Whitworth, who sustained only his second loss of 1931—and the Spudders are responsible for both these blemishes.

Sunday's double-header with the Cats, starting at 3 o'clock, offers fans their last opportunity to watch the Spudders for nearly three weeks. Monday's scheduled game is being played as half the holiday double-header and Tuesday a 21-game road trip starts at Shreveport. Bob Cooney and Lester White are the prospective Spudder pitchers, while Dick McCabe and Henry Hardaway are the likely Fort Worth chunkers.

Battle of Thrills

Thrills came thick and fast in the latter half of the game after Hillin and Whitworth had remained in full control during the earlier portions. A splurge of three runs by the Spudders proved decidedly necessary in the seventh when the Cats followed up with three in the eighth, and it was only by the narrowest of margins that Hillin pulled through the ninth, "Scoop" Scharein ending the game with a sensational dive into second base to retire a Panther runner by a matter of a few inches with the tying and winning runs speeding toward the plate.

While Hillin was blanking the Cats in the first three innings, the Spudders staked him to a one-run lead. A pass to Stanton proved harmless in the first, but Badgro's eighth triple of the season opening the second was good for a run. Scharein delivered a single to right after Whitworth had fanned Fuss.

Further damage was averted when Moore went to the green boards for Bradbury's long poke into the wind.

The Panthers put one runner on in each of the first three rounds. Gribble walked in the first, Krause singled in the second and Moore doubled in the third. The latter provided the only threat and Hillin squelched that by forcing Fowler and Brown into infield outs. In the fourth he disposed of Brown, Baker and Cox on three easy chances.

Whitworth tightened up his belt or whatever it is that makes pitchers pitch and removed the Spudders in quick succession in the third and fourth, retiring Hillin, Euller, Allday, Stanton, Gullic and Badgro without pushing his defense to extreme measures.

Panthers Tie It

Hillin's support got him into deep trouble in the fifth and then pulled him out. After Euller had come up with a neat stop to retire Krauss, Dalrymple singled to center. Whitworth socked a perfect double play ball to Allday, but both runners were safe when the Bear chunked too high and too hot for Scharein. Stanton dug Moore's smash out of the dirt to force Whitworth and Scharein tossed out Gribble on another nifty play.

Hillin almost, but not quite, pulled out of another tough spot in the sixth after Fowler had started with a double. Brown and Baker were shoved aside, but Cox shot a single past short, scoring Fowler and tying the count at 1 and 1.

The home gang passed up a chance in the fifth. Fuss singled and was sacrificed along by Scharein, but Bradbury and Hillin left him at second. The tie was broken in the next round without hitting the ball out of the infield. Euller walked and Allday sacrificed. The usually reliable Dalrymple booted Stanton's grounder, landing Euller on third. Gullic beat out his bunt between the box and third, scoring Euller. The rally ended as Badgro popped to third and Fuss rolled to second.

The seventh was uneventful for the Cats, but produced three runs for the Spudders that at the time seemed superfluous but before it was over proved to be just what the doctor ordered. With one out Bradbury singled to left and Dalrymple's second error landed Hillin on first. A pass to Euller filled the bases. Cox made a splendid catch over his shoulder of Allday's fly, Bradbury scoring and Hillin moving to third. Stanton and Gullic singled into right field, scoring Hillin and Euller.

The Storm Breaks

The Cats' big storm broke from a clear sky with two out in the eighth. Baker walked and Cox singled to right. On Cox's hit, Umpire Tullos ruled Baker had been hit by the ball, retiring the side, but when the Panthers protested Umps-in-Chief Colfer reversed it, and Krauss, Dalrymple and Yaryan, the latter hitting for Whitworth, singled to score three runs and leave the tying counter on third.

Again in the ninth two were out when the Kittens made their last stand, singles by Brown and Baker and a walk to Cox filling the bases. Krauss made a noble effort that was nipped only when Scharein scooped up his "hump-backed liner" and dived into second ahead of Cox.

Harris Fans 11 to Turn Back Foe; Buffs and Sports Win

GALVESTON, May 30. (AP)—Black Bill Harris made the inaugural of Moody stadium's arc lights auspicious Saturday night by turning back the slugging Beaumont Exporters, 2 to 1. It was the first time this season that Galveston has defeated Beaumont and the game thwarted Exporter hopes of moving into a tie for first place with the Fort Worth Cats. About 3,000 fans witnessed the game.

Harris allowed the Exporters only four hits and whiffed 11 men, striking out Fritz, Holley and Lorbeer in the ninth to end the game. Beaumont got their only tally in the fifth by bunching three singles. Score:

First Half Race In Amateur Loop Reaches Climax

Important Contests This Week in Commercial League Finish

By MACK TURNER

The heated Commercial league first half pennant race will be brought to a blazing climax this week with three clubs still in the fight right down to the wire, and but one with only a remote chance for victory. The Malone's Beauty shop team, led by the sensational pitching of Harry Geyer, has battled its way to the top of the heap and starts the final week with a one-half game lead over the Texas Electric Service company Frigidaires and a game and one-half lead over the Banks.

The league has two play off games on its schedule for this week, and both may have a direct bearing on the league race. It is likely that both will be played, though one has not been definitely scheduled. The first will be played Sunday afternoon on Harrison field between the Frigidaires and the scrappy little Dixon Sign company team. The other postponed game is between the Banks and First Presbyterian church.

The Frigidaires have a hard task ahead of them to down the little Dixon nine, which seems to have taken a new lease on life since being joined by Dutch Chatterton and the return of their pitching ace, Phillip Powell. Powell showed that he was at last ready to go again with his shutout victory last week over the bankers when he whiffed 14 men.

Monday Battle

Harrison field will again see an important battle Monday afternoon when the Electrics face the Noble-Little Hardware company nine. Noble-Little has a fighting chance to rise out of the cellar and has developed a complex for beating the league leaders of late. With the addition of Cotton Eubanks to the pitching staff, the hardware team looks like a tough contender for last half honors.

The Presbyterians will meet Dixon Sign company on Debus field Monday afternoon where they will make an effort to keep out of the cellar. On Tuesday will come the feature game of the week, with Malone's facing the staggering banker aggregation. The bankers' last hopes now will rest on the good right arm of their ace, Carroll "Big Boy" Ridling, to keep them in the race.

The schedule for Thursday brings out two games of interest. Malones meet the Dixon kids on Harrison field while Texas Electric Service company takes on the Banks the same afternoon on Debus field.

The final game of the week very likely will decide just who will rest in the cellar for the first half with Presbyterians and Noble-Little clashing on Harrison field. The opening date for the second half will not be announced until after the league heads know if a playoff for the first half will be necessary.

Malones and the Electrics can tie at the end of the first half by both clubs sweeping their remaining games, with the bankers holding the fate of the league in their hands. Three victories this week by the bankers and Malones and Frigidaires winning their other games, will throw the final standing into a three-way tie.

Leading Swatter

Larry Robertson still bids fair to lead the Commercial league hitters for the first half, but is being closely pressed by several others. John "Babe" Horsley, skipper of the Presbyterians, Rabbit Gordon, Malone's leading hitter; Earl Keith, Sid Stanfield and Glenn Coolidge, of the Frigidaires, Deal, Corbin, Norris, Keyes and Mann of Noble-Little all have chances to bid for hitting honors in the first half race.

The Commercial league race has been a battle of pitchers from the start. In this department Geyer has stood head and shoulders above the rest of the league, leading in games won and strikeouts by wide margins.

Big Everett Blue stands alone as the only undefeated pitcher in the league. Blue has registered four wins for the Frigidaire cause. Ridling ranks second in strikeouts, but is closely pressed by Powell, who has been in less games than the banker ace. Following are the records of Commercial league pitchers who have won one game or more:

ANOTHER CRAM LOOMS IN SOUTHERN TENNIS

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 30. (AP)—There's more than one tennis star in the Cram family of Nashville.

Kendall Cram, brother of Donald, tennis coach at Columbia university, has won the southern interscholastic tennis championship by defeating Billy Reese, youthful player of Atlanta, 6-1, 10-8, 6-4.

The younger Cram is ranked ninth among the nation's junior players, and shines on the court with his forceful backcourt driving. He is a student at the Hume-Fogg High school here.

Both are sons of Rev. W. G. Cram, who was for several years a missionary in India, and the boys began learning their rackets in that country.

EMPIRE PAPER COMPANY BESTS BALL BROTHERS

The Empire Paper company defeated the Ball Brothers baseball team, 13 to 1, on the York street diamond Saturday afternoon. McGinnis limited the losers to three hits while the victors hammered out 14 safeties off Stanfield and White. Four errors by the Ball Brothers team contributed to their defeat.

WOMEN'S TICKETS FOR WEEK-END GAMES ARE REDUCED TO 25 CENTS

The biggest bargain Wichita Falls' feminine baseball fans have been offered in many moons is possible Sunday, when the Spudders and Panthers mix it in a double-header, as the result of action of the Texas league Saturday in adopting a minimum price of 25 cents to be charged women on Saturdays and Sundays.

The minimum of 25 cents was put into effect immediately here, Secretary Guy Airey announced, and until further notice, the charge for women on Saturdays and Sundays will remain at that amount.

The old league rule that established the minimum women's admission on Saturdays and Sundays at 75 cents was erased by unanimous vote of the league, President J. Alvin Gardner announced.

FLORIDA'S GOVERNOR VETOES BETTING BILL

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 30. (AP)—Proponents of horse and dog racing with pari-mutuel wagering sought Saturday to add 10 senators and seven representatives to the original number voting for the race track bill that Gov. Doyle E. Carlton vetoed.

The bill passed the house, 55 to 38, and the senate, 20 to 15, and seven more votes are required in the house and ten more in the senate for the two-thirds majority necessary to override a governor's veto. Whether all the original supporters of the measure would vote for it again was not known. The bill was the first of its kind to pass the legislature in 20 years.

Cardinals Take Long Lead With Twin Win

ST. LOUIS, May 30. (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals took a lead of a game and a half in the National league race Saturday by winning both ends of a double-header from the Cincinnati Reds, 12 to 4, and 5 to 4.

The sudden flight of the Redbirds was due partly to a double drubbing administered to the Giants by Brooklyn. In the first game here the Cardinals pounded Ray Kolp and Eppa Rixey, Cincinnati pitchers, for 15 hits.

Five runs in the seventh inning did the trick for the Cardinals in the second game.

Robins 5-18, Giants 2-8

NEW YORK, May 30. (AP)—Before 60,000 fans, the largest crowd ever to see a National league double-header, the Brooklyn Robins won two games from the Giants Saturday. The Robins took the first 5 to 2 in 10 innings, then hammered out an 18 to 8 decision in the second.

In the opener, Carl Hubbell's pitching had the Robins almost stopped up to the ninth inning. Then Bressler's pinch single with two out tied it up and Bissonette clouted a homer with two on base to win. Bissonette also hit a homer in the second game. Scores, first game:

Phillies 10-12, Braves 0-2

PHILADELPHIA, May 30. (AP)—Magnificent hurling by Ray Benge in the morning game and by Clise Dudley in the afternoon game gave the Phillies a double triumph over the Boston Braves today. The scores were 10 to 0 and 12 to 2.

While the Braves were helpless, the Phillies pounded the offerings of the Boston hurlers to all corners of the lot. They combed the visitors for 30 hits. Chuck Klein led the assault with his 10th and 11th home runs of the year, one in each game.

Benge allowed only four hits in the morning encounter, while Dudley limited the Braves to three in the nightcap.

LEWIS FOXHALL WINS MEMPHIS NET CROWN

MEMPHIS, Texas, May 29.—Lewis Foxhall won singles honors in the first annual city tennis tournament on the country club court here this week. Foxhall defeated Gordon Walker in the finals, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3. He had recently paired with Walker to win the doubles. The singles matches were hard fought and were by far the most interesting of the tournament.

RAPID CHANGE OF LEADERS MAKES THRILL OF RACE CLASSIC

Showers Prevent Speed Aces From Setting Records

plished before him, that of twice winning this Indianapolis 500-mile race.

Both Kinds of Luck

And at the same time, Arnold seemed assuredly on his way to something that not even Milton had accomplished, that of winning the 500-mile race twice in succession.

In more ways than one, it was an unfortunate day for Arnold, though he escaped, so luckily, with no serious injuries, and with some $8,450 in lap prizes to soothe his rumpled feelings.

The race, whose start was delayed for two hours, because the soft rainfall had made the track treacherous for speed purposes, found Arnold, after six laps, assuming the lead.

So rapidly did he wheel his car around the brick track, slippery though it was, that, at the end of 5 miles his average time was 109.125 miles per hour. The track record was shattered, it being but 106.520 miles per hour. Arnold then was on his way.

But twice, before the track was considered suitable for the limit of the speed that might be churned out of these racing cars, Barney Oldfield, the starter, waved the yellow flag, warning Arnold in particular to slow down.

Miraculous Escape

As a result his pace and the pace of the race slowed down, until all hope of equaling or surpassing the old record was abandoned.

Arnold was rounding the north turn, into the home stretch on the 161st lap when his car shed a wheel. The car spun around, and as it was broadside the track, another car, a Richards Special, driven by Luther Johnson, crashed into it, sending Arnold's car whirling across the track, a mass of flames. How the drivers and the mechanics managed to escape without death or serious injury, can be set down, I suppose, to the luck of racing. In one day, Arnold saw the whole range of racing luck, good and bad.

Schneider, in second place at the time of Arnold's crash, was closely followed by Tony Gulotta, driving a Hunt Special. Hardly had the charred remains of Arnolds once spick and span racing car been hauled from the scene of the crash, before Gulotta's car went over the wall in almost the same spot.

Schneider kept the lead the rest of the way, completing the 500-mile trip in 5 hours 10 minutes 27.94 seconds, or an average of 96.629 per hour.

Bewildering Changes

Close behind him finished the other cars, though not close enough to scare Schneider out of the $20,000 first prize. Fred Frame, driving a Duesenberg, took second place and $10,000. The others in the money, and the prizes they won, were as follows:

Third—Ralph Hepburn, Miller Special, $5,000.

Fourth—Myron Stevens, Jadson Special, $3,500.

Fifth—Russell Snowberger, Russell 8 Special, $3,000.

Sixth—Jimmy Fleason, Duesenberg Special, $2,200.

Seventh—Ernie Triplett, Buckeye Special, $1,800.

Eighth—H. W. Stubblefield, Jones Miller Special, $1,600.

Tenth—C. Miller, Marr Special, $1,400.

The race, which drew a crowd of 150,000, was in many respects, the most interesting in history.

No other went through so many bewildering changes, not only in speed, but in leadership. The Mechanical troubles, and the crashes were more numerous than ever, and there were not more than 16 or 17 of the starting field of 40 on the track when Schneider was flagged down.

JAMESTOWN RUNS GREAT RACE TO WIN WITHERS

NEW YORK, May 30. (AP)—A great juvenile champion stamped himself as a real contender for the three-year-old title as George D. Widener's Jamestown easily outran a field of seven crack colts in the 56th running of the Withers mile at Belmont park Saturday.

Speeding over the Belmont track in the fast time of 1:36 3-5, the long-striding son of St. James, winner of six of his seven starts as a two-year-old, sent out a mighty challenge to Twenty Grand, Kentucky Derby victor. The pair will settle the three-year-old battle two weeks hence when they meet in the Belmont stakes at one and one-half miles.

Five lengths of daylight separated Jamestown from Walter J. Salmon's Ladder, which ran third in the Preakness, as he flashed past the judges' stand, winner of $27,300. The purse sent his total earnings for nine races soaring to $180,235.

Another three lengths back of Ladder trailed Morton L. Schwartz's Clock Tower, a nose in front of Surf Board from the Greentree stable. Then followed Benjamin Block's Morstone, the Greentree stable's Anchors Aweight, K. E. Hitt's Sun Meadom and Fly Horse's Commuter.

DOEG AND BELL MEET IN TOURNAMENT FINAL

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., May 30. (AP)—John Hope Doeg, Newark, national singles champion, and Berkeley Bell, Austin, Texas, won their way into the final round of the Orange Lawn Tennis club's invitation tournament Saturday. They will clash for the title, now held by Doeg, Sunday afternoon.

Doeg eliminated Julius Seligson, New York, former intercollegiate champion from Lehigh, in the semi-finals today, 6-4, 6-4, 5-7, 6-0.

Bell advanced to the finals at the expanse of the home club player, J. Gilbert Hall, by scores of 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2.

WINNER AND HERO SPEED CLASSIC

Louis Schneider

Billy Arnold

To Louis Schneider goes first money of $20,000 after his victory Saturday in the Indianapolis 500-mile automobile speed classic, but the plaudits of the multitude were won by Billy Arnold, youthful defending champion. Arnold set a blistering pace for 400 miles, despite the added danger of a slippery track, and seemed to have the race won when his car lost a wheel, crashed and burst into flames. Arnold and his mechanic miraculously escaped with negligible injuries.

Panther Veteran Most Effective Moundster

Dick McCabe, veteran Fort Worth right-hander, tops the Texas league's pitchers in effectiveness for the first quarter of the 1931 campaign, with the phenomenal earned runs allowed average of .99 per game. Six of his eight starts have resulted in complete games and three were registered as shutouts for the Panthers. The official statistics include games through May 22.

Second in the list of regulars is Bill Harris of Galveston, with an average of 1.26 earned runs for each nine innings he has pitched. Two Houston right-handers, Tex Carleton and Dizzy Dean, follow with averages of 1.89.

Harris also is the hardest working pitcher, with 85 innings to his credit. Murray of Dallas has appeared in the greatest number of games, 12. Chagnon of Fort Worth leads in strikeouts, 39, and Moulton of Shreveport in walks, 39.

The following include all games up to and including May 22, official except for Shreveport-Galveston game May 22, for which newspaper box was used. Only pitchers included in all or parts of five or more games.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, May 30. (AP)—Richard Ballafant, Corpus Christi High school track man, will leave here Wednesday for Chicago to enter the national amateur track and field meet. The Corpus Christi athletic council, which was sponsoring his entry, was attempting to obtain the services of Coach Clyde Littlefield of the University of Texas to coach Ballafant at Chicago.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA WINS THRILLING MEET TO RETAIN ITS CROWN

PHILADELPHIA, May 30. (AP)—The Trojans of Southern California answered Stanford's track and field challenge Saturday with a sensational counter barrage of record performances and won the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. championships for the second straight year in a dazzlingly close battle for points.

Six record feats were achieved, five of them by Southern California stars, as the Trojans barely beat their Pacific coast rivals in as brilliant a succession of performances as the classic 55-year-old college meet ever has witnessed.

Southern California finished with the victorious total of 46 6-7 points. Stanford, giving battle every step and inch of the route, amassed 44 22-35 points. The scramble of fractions and places was so close the outcome was undecided until Bill Graber, Trojan pole vaulter, outdid himself to lead to a new meet record of 14 feet, one-half inch in the 15th and final event of the day.

Graber's record vault was the crowning climax of probably the greatest exhibition ever given by any team that has won this blue ribbon event of intercollegiate athletic competition.

ROQUE TEAMS COMPETE IN BRECKENRIDGE MEET

Cochrane Bounces Into Lead Among League Swatters

Buzz Arlett Sets Fast Pace For Veterans of National Circuit

NEW YORK, May 30. (UP)—Mickey Cochrane, Philadelphia Athletics catcher who wants to become an outfielder because he believes the change would improve his hitting, is doing pretty well in his present position.

In fact, major league averages and including games of Thursday, May 28, show that Cochrane is leading both leagues in hitting with an average of .414. Mickey has made 58 hits, including 10 doubles, two triples and eight home runs in 140 times at bat and is tied with his teammate, Al Simmons, for run scoring honors with 33.

Buzz Arlett, a converted pitcher and leading contender for recognition as the outstanding rookie of the year, is setting the pace in the National league with .378. He also leads both leagues in home runs with 10 and tops the National league in runs batted in with 37.

Roettger Slumps

Al Simmons, last week's American league leader, was dropped to second place with .410 while Wallie Roettger, of Cincinnati, who topped the National league last week has slumped to .342 and has been passed by Hornsby, Chicago, .370, and Stephenson, Chicago, .347.

National league honors in the various offensive feats are widely scattered with Chuck Klein of Philadelphia, leading in runs scored, 38; Lloyd Waner of Pittsburgh, in hits, 52; Rogers Hornsby of Chicago, in doubles, 15; Bob Worthington of Boston, in triples, 7; and Adam Comorosky of Pittsburgh, in stolen bases, 8.

Joe Cronin of Washington, topped the American league in runs batted in with 43 and in triples with seven. Earl Averill, Cleveland, secured the most hits, 59; Earl Webb, Boston, the most doubles, 22, and Al Simmons the most homers, nine; while Roy Johnson, Detroit, led the base stealers with 11 thefts.

Brandt Leads Tossers

Ed Brandt, Boston Braves southpaw, has the best record among major league pitchers with eight victories and no defeats for a perfect average. Brandt has finished every game which he started, working 69 complete innings, allowing 48 hits, and issuing 23 walks. He also tops the National league in strikeouts with 40.

Rube Walberg and Bob Grove, Philadelphia left-handers, head the American league twirlers with seven victories and one defeat each, although Ted Lyons of Chicago, and Bob Burke of Washington, head the percentage column with two victories and no defeats each. Grove has the best record of the group, working 63 innings in 12 games and allowing only 49 hits. He issued only 14 walks and tops both leagues in strikeouts with 47.

ACME CAPTURES CLOSE BATTLE WITH QUANAH

ACME, Texas, May 30.—One of the most interesting ball games seen in this section recently was played between Acme and the Quanah North Side team, the final score being 1 to 0 in favor of Acme. It was a close pitcher's battle all the way, with Bostwick for Acme having a shade the advantage over Donohue for Quanah. Two hits, a walk and a hit batsman forcing in a run for Acme in the first inning proved to be the only serious damage inflicted on either pitcher.

JAPANESE BALL PLAYERS SHOW RARE POLITENESS

CHICAGO, May 30. (AP)—Tennis is usually considered the "most polite" of sports, but Japanese collegians have made their version of baseball as Chesterfieldian as the most courteous tennis play.

Members of the Hosei university nine touring the United States amazed their American opponents by doffing their caps and smilingly apologizing when they collided with other players.

And when they wished to differ with an umpire's decision they first begged his pardon, then asked permission to give their opinion.

Fuss Moves to Front Texas League Hitting

A new batting leader appeared on the Texas league horizon last week in Bob Fuss of Wichita Falls whose batting streak, lasting through 18 consecutive games up to Friday in which he has not failed to hit safe, has swept him to the .390 mark, easily leading all of the regular swatsmiths. Homer Peel dropped back after a slight slump and the closest rivals of Fuss developed into Krauss, Fort Worth, .369, and Todd, Dallas, .366, both catchers and in less than 100 times at bat. Other Texas league leaders—runs—Schuble, Beaumont, 37, White, Beaumont, 34, Stanton, Wichita Falls, 33; hits—Stanton, Wichita Falls, 61, Hock, Houston, 56, Peel, Houston, 54; doubles—Stanton, Wichita Falls, 19, Cotter, Dallas, Brown, Fort Worth, Peel, Houston, and Fritz, Beaumont, 12; triples—Badgro, Wichita Falls, 7, Moore, Fort Worth, Garms, Wichita Falls, Stanton, Wichita Falls, and White, Beaumont, 6; home runs—Gullic, Wichita Falls, 8, Radcliff, Shreveport, 6, Cox, Fort Worth, 5; runs batted in—Gullic, Wichita Falls, 35, Fritz, Beaumont, 34, Stanton, Wichita Falls, and Easterling, Beaumont, 30; stolen bases—White, Beaumont, 13, Schuble, Beaumont, and Easterling, Beaumont, 11, Flaskamper, San Antonio, 10.

Of the pitchers, McCabe, Fort Worth, remains undefeated with seven victories to his credit, while Dean, Houston, and Whitworth, Fort Worth, also have seven wins. Payne, Houston, and Murray, Dallas, have appeared in the most games, 14, but Bill Harris, Galveston, finishing all of his 10 starts, has been in the most innings, 94. The strikeout leaders are Chagnon, Fort Worth, 47, and Carleton, Houston, 44.

Wichita Falls is the best batting club with a .280 average, and leads in hits and triples, Beaumont in runs scored and batted in and in base thefts, Dallas in doubles, Shreveport in home runs. Club batting, pitchers credited with win or loss, and individual batting through day games of Thursday follow:

CITY LEAGUE CANCELS TWO SUNDAY TILTS TO BOOST SPUDDER GAMES

Two-thirds of Sunday's City league program has been postponed in order to allow players and fans to attend the Spudder-Panther double-header at Athletic park Sunday afternoon, it was announced Saturday by Dr. Fred Gross, secretary. Postponed games are I-O Boosters vs. Star Transfer company and Bailey-Moline Hardware company vs. R. D. Q.

Sullivan Grocery company and the Modern Woodmen meet Sunday afternoon on the Ball Brothers diamond in a double-header. The second game of the double-header will be a playoff of the protested game of a few weeks back. The first game likely will find Smokey Franklin on the hill for the Sullivan team, with O'Dell McDuffy on the firing line for the Woodmen.

The second game will be played from the point of protest, the Woodmen holding a 4 to 2 lead in the last half of the seventh.

ARIZONA-TEXAS LEAGUE FACES SHORTAGE FUNDS

TUCSON, Ariz., May 30. (AP)—The Arizona-Texas Baseball league, a class D circuit, Saturday was less than $20 short of going on the rocks financially and its president, Wilford Sullinger, has tendered his resignation.

A meeting was called here Sunday in an effort to save the six-club circuit.

"We have less than $20 on hand," Sullinger said, "and the salaries of the umpires have not been paid for some time. There isn't enough money on hand to pay traveling expenses when the umpires change assignments after Sunday's games.

"Under no circumstances will I consent to remain in office. I'm no collector. If money owed by Globe and Tucson was paid, the league could tide over until the next assessments are due."

Whether the league can see its way clear to go on or not, Sullinger said it would have to do so under a different president. The financial report will be submitted to the board of directors Sunday.

FRANCE AGAIN KEEPS NET CROWN AT HOME

AUTEUIL, France, May 30. (AP)—Once more, although this time against more moderate opposition, France has kept its men's singles tennis championship away from the foreign challengers.

In all the history of the French championships, no foreigner has been able to break through and win the singles crown. Sunday Jean Borotra, the only physically able member of France's "three musketeers," will play Christial Boussus, one of the rising youngsters, in the final round for the championship Henri Cochet could not defend because of illness.

Boussus defeated G. P. Hughes, the Irishman who eliminated George Lott Friday, in five sets of one semifinal, 6-1, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3, while Borotra had a bit more strenuous time beating Jiro Satoh 10-8, 2-6, 6-1, 6-2.

Miss Betty Nuthall, England, will play Fraulein Cilli Aussem of Germany, in the final for the French title. Fraulein Aussem defeated Senorita Elia de Alvarez, of Spain, 6-0, 7-5 Saturday as Miss Nuthall easily disposed of Hilda Krawinkel, another German girl, 6-1, 6-2.

Columbia Crew Wins

PRINCETON, N. J., May 30. (AP)—Columbia's undefeated varsity crew easily won the feature race of the Child's cup regatta here Saturday, defeating Penn by five full lengths and Princeton by five and one-half.

Wisconsin Takes Meet

MINNEAPOLIS, May 30. (AP)—Wisconsin trounced Minnesota in a dual track meet Saturday, winning eight firsts and piling up a point total of 82½ to the Gophers' 52½.

Qualifying Play To Open Tuesday On Dallas Links

Willie Hunt, Victor Last Year, and Former Champs Entered

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, May 30.—Golf, as stroked by a polished stylist like Willie Cutter Hunt of Houston, and as a chance-taking battle of the fairways as played by Bud McKinney, Del Rio, will be featured at the Brook Hollow Country club here from June 2 to 6, when Texas' finest shot makers gather for their 25th Texas Golf association state championship.

Last May at River Oaks Country club, Houston, where Willie C. Hunt's 73-75—148 gave him medalist and his one up victory over Gaston Peek, Galveston, gave him the 1930 state crown, only 96 entries left the starting tee. The field this year is expected to be near 140 and will carry some of the biggest golf names in the state.

Difficult Course

While a medal score of 167 was good enough to qualify last year, tournament directors predict that a card as low as 163 will be presented to make the title flight this week. Eighteen holes of the qualifying test will be played Tuesday, and the remaining 18 holes Wednesday. The 32 low shooters will form the championship flight and start match play Thursday of 18 holes each until the finals, which will be 36 holes. Brook Hollow is a difficult par out 35, par in 35—70 course.

It is a course with long, winding fairways, water holes, several dog-legs and well trapped greens.

Playing to stage a comeback this year over his favorite course will be Dennis Lavender, who in 1929 won the state championship at Brook Hollow by defeating Lanham Connor, Dallas, 2 and 1. Lavender, formerly of Abilene, is now a student at Southern Methodist university.

Willie Hunt, Houston veteran, who played in a steady rain to lead the field last year at Houston, will be here to defend his title.

Collegiate Star

Gaston Peek, who carried Hunt to the 36th hole last year, arrived here Friday and played two rounds at Brook Hollow.

Bud McKinney, the former caddy who eliminated Lavender in the first round last year, 2 and 1, will represent Del Rio Country club.

Glen Crisman, 1925 Southern champion, will also be among the contenders.

A new entry to this year's tournament will be O'Hara Watts, Southwest conference champion, from Southern Methodist university. Watts, a long hitter off tee and deadly putter, is expected to go far.

Former champions who probably will seek another title include Tommy Cochran, Wichita Falls; George Rotan, Houston; C. L. Dexter, Dallas; Dennis Lavender, Dallas; O. S. Carlton Jr., Houston.

Willie Maguire, Houston Country club professional, will be the official tournament starter.

SUTTER WINS FINAL OF SINGLES TO GIVE U. S. CLEAN SWEEP IN MATCH

WASHINGTON, May 30. (AP)—A dramatic four-set victory by Clifford Sutter, New Orleans, making his Davis Cup debut, Saturday enabled the United States team to score a clean sweep of five matches to go over Argentina in the final American tie.

By stamina and cool-hededness he came from behind to wear down the 28-year-old second ranking Argentine player, Guillermo Robson, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3.

Earlier, Frank X. Shields, New York, easily defeated the giant Ronaldo Boyd, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

With the Davis cup scalps of both the North and South American continents, the youthful United States team tonight prepared to leave for New York and then to practice on the Orange, N. J., Lawn Tennis and Cricket club courts before sailing for Europe.

Only Shields and Sidney B. Wood Jr., New York, now are scheduled to join Johnny Van Ryn and George Lott in Europe, Capt. Bernon S. Prentice said Saturday Sutter might possibly be added to this quartet.

OKLAHOMA TOWNS TO HANDLE MAMMOTH CROP OF GRAIN

RAILROADS JOIN WITH GRAIN DEALERS TO ASSIST FARMERS WHEN CROPS START TO MOVE

By FRED L. HASKETT

Cutting of oats under way and binders ready to start in the wheat fields brings the marketing problem of the spring crops at hand. Farmers have been given promise by railroad officials and grain dealers that no stone will be left unturned to see that the movement of grain will be as rapid as possible. The railroads have already provided thousands of cars and locomotives are in "white lead" ready to be called into service.

Biggest Crop Known

The small grain crop in Northwest Texas and Southwestern Oklahoma, and especially in the area tributary to Wichita Falls, is the largest and best in quality that has ever been grown. The farmers, following a year of severe drouth, were forced to plant heavily of small grain to provide winter pasture for cattle, hogs, poultry and livestock. Most of the grain was supplied through Red Cross sources and the cost was very low to the farmers. The railroads moved the seed grain into the territory at an exceedingly low rate.

As a result of the efforts of bankers, merchants, railroad and Red Cross officials, and through necessity, the farmers planted more heavily of small grain that would have otherwise been done. But nature favored them with bountiful moisture through the winter months and with exception of the army worm scare, there has been an almost perfect season for winter growing grains in the area from Denton county westward to the caprock of the Plains, and south to the Texas and Pacific railroad north into the central section of Oklahoma. It is estimated that this area alone will produce over 100,000,000 bushels of small grain.

Crop Ripening Rapidly

Binding of oats and wheat started in Denton county last week and is progressing northward. Grain is being cut in Young and Jack counties and this coming week the binders will be at work as far westward as Childress, Cottle and Collingsworth counties in Texas, and Harmon, Jackson and Tillman counties in Oklahoma. The grain crop will give employment to many hundreds of men but no outside labor is needed. The federal government is opening a labor office in Wichita Falls and will be able to make rapid distribution of unemployed men wherever they are demanded. This office was located in Wichita Falls upon solicitation of officials of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce.

From Frederick comes the report that broad fields of Tillman county wheat ripple under the wind as busied farmers, elevator operators, railroad men and others connected with the grain industry rush preparations to receive the deluge of grain that shortly will flood the cannels of disposal.

It is reported that everything was in readiness Saturday night to handle what promises to be Tillman county's greatest grain crop, and the buying, storing, loading and transportation machinery has been set to operate at peak capacity when the harvest hits in full blast within the first 10 days of June.

Empty Cars Are Ready

On the Frisco line, every foot of sidetrackage is filled with empty grain cars, more than 150 in all, according to C. L. Hord, agent at Frederick.

The Katy railroad has between 2,500 and 3,000 grain cars on the sidings between Burkburnett and Keys, said Ray Birkhead, Frederick agent.

Birkhead says that Katy officials have figured closely the probable yield and production along its territory and that there will be no shortage of grain cars to move the crop rapidly.

Elevator men have completely rehabilitated their plants and all report that they are ready to receive the new grain crop. It is believed by grain men that in event of an embargo at the ports of Galveston or Houston, there will be sufficient cars available to load from the elevators, thereby not causing local elevator embargoes, which would handicap the growers.

The Northwestern Elevator company's giant plant at Frederick is prepared, and the Northwestern will operate elevators at Loveland and Manitou, it has been announced.

Carl Cassidy has purchased the old Calvert and Abercrombie elevator on the Frisco railroad at Frederick and completely overhauled the plant in preparation for opening of the season.

Wichita Company Active

J. E. Hines has been named manager of the Wichita Mill and Elevator company's plant in Frederick near the Katy depot.

Another plant in Frederick is that operated by the Farmers' Cooperative Grain and Cotton company, making four in all.

Two elevators in Loveland include that of the Northwestern and another owned by A. D. Windsor.

In Hollister, two plants, one of the Wichita Mill and Elevator company and the other owned by G. G. Black of Norman, have been repaired for the season.

There are three elevators in Grandfield, all of which are in readiness for opening of the season. One is that of the Farmers' Cooperative Grain and Cotton company and the other two are owned by R. I. Helton and the Wichita Mill and Elevator company.

At Tipton there is another owned by the Wichita concern and one operated by the Newsom Grain company.

Farmers are busy completing repairs to harvesting equipment, anxious to get into the fields.

Denver Territory Prepared

Elevators on the Southern railroad are in good order and will be the first to receive new grain. The Wichita Valley lines report elevators ready and machinery tuned to move the grain into the storage bins as rapidly as possible.

The Wichita Valley will handle considerable grain from the Waurika section in Oklahoma, as well as from the northern portion of Clay county, where it is claimed the finest grain in Texas is maturing.

The Denver road has it equipment ready and elevators at Electra, Oklaunion, Vernon, Chillicothe, Quanah, Goodlett, Kirkland and Childress are ready for the new grain crop. The South Plains line of the Denver road reports dealers and elevator men awaiting the new grain. Thousands of grain cars are in storage.

The movement of grain will cause operation of many extra freight trains, also much more switching by local freight trains. In some of the larger receiving centers it is probable that switching crews will be put on. This means employment to many train and engine men, also other employes, such as car repairers and engine watchmen.

Grandfield Secures New Bank; To Start Business on June 1

The First State bank of Grandfield, Okla., will open for business Monday morning June 1. The officers of the bank follow: Mrs. R. I. Helton, president; Frank Lawrence, vice president; R. I. Helton, cashier; C. M. Crawford, assistant cashier and R. M. Helton, assistant cashier.

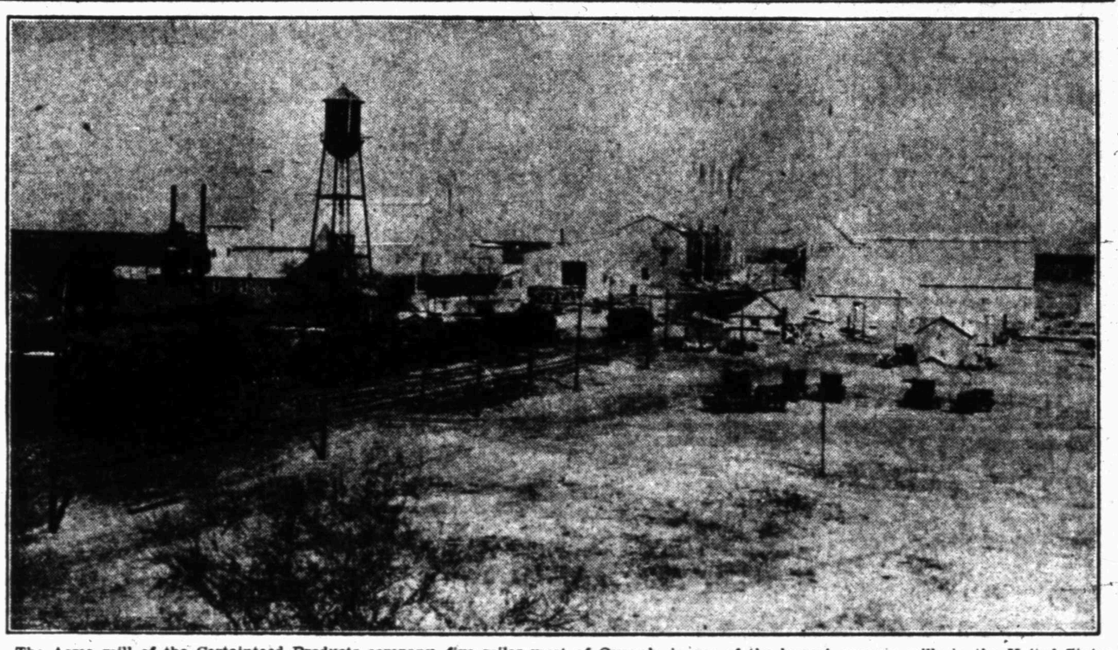

The new bank will be housed in the building formerly occupied by the Tillman County bank. All is in readiness to begin business Monday morning.

Grandfield has been without a bank for some months. There is now a record grain crop to be harvested and as the crop has been made at a small expense most of the farmers will have some cash within a few weeks.

Crop conditions are excellent in Tillman county and most citizens feel that the worst part of the business depression is over in that section of Oklahoma.

Grandfield is northwest of Wichita Falls on the Katy railroad. The town is situated in the heart of one of the greatest grain growing areas of Oklahoma.

QUANAH GYPSUM MILLS AMONG THE LARGEST IN AMERICA

The Acme mill of the Certainteed Products company, five miles west of Quanah, is one of the largest gypsum mills in the United States. This view shows the gypsum mills only. There is also a large plant, oone of the largest in America, that manufactures gypsum board, better known as sheet rock. Recently the Frisco railroad completed a new rail line from Quanah to the plant. Products of the gypsum mill and sheet rock plant are shipped to many countries in Europe, South and Central America. When in full operation the two plants employ a large number of workers. The gypsum plant handles both gypsum and gypsite. The former mineral is mined from underground and comes in white rock form. Gypsite is the free or earth mineral, and is mined from the surface with drag lines.

East Texas oil goes lower in price, but perhaps bootleg crude will sell no lower than it has been going.

Ten million barrels a month is now being produced. That means 120 million barrels a year, but with new production coming in fast the amount may reach as high as 150 millions of barrels within the coming year.

At a rate of 10,000,000 barrels a month, the field is estimated to have a life of eight years. Pushing production shortens the life of the field and means lower prices.

East Texas cities have failed to prosper as they should, all because the man with money does not care to invest in such an area that is wrecking its natural resources so rapidly. Good investments are those that will bring in revenue for a longer period than 10 years.

East Texas oil is going to Europe by shipload. France bought a million barrels for 50 cents a barrel the other day. That price was aboard ship at Houston.

The writer spent several weeks in Europe last summer. In Germany, Italy, France, Switzerland, Holland and England, new tank farms were under construction. Europe, today, is in position to store many millions of barrels of cheap oil from America.

Crude stored now can be used in the future, four or five years from now. In the meantime it can be used to beat down the price of crude from America, South America and Russia. It is one way to pay the debts of European nations to America.

Barnum said there is a sucker born every minute. At the present time in America the birth rate has increased to four or five per minute. Americans are opposed to cancellation of European war debts, but they are willing to give of our natural resources a sum that will pay these debts within a few years.

The war debts are scattered over a long period. No one generation is expected to bear the burden. But it looks like the present business generation in America is going to pay them within a period of a few years—maybe months.

All that goes to keep business depressed. What America needs today is some real thinkers and a ways and means committee to put good business into effect. The American, individually, seems to think only of himself. And that thought is mostly one of "getting mine while the getting is good."

Farm Land Sells Quite High

That good farm lands well improved are worth considerable money is best evidenced in a sale made in the Tipton community, Tillman county, Oklahoma, a few days ago by Byron Viele. The farm of 160 acres was sold to A. Z. Pinson and L. B. Pinson for $20,000, or in excess of $162 per acre. Viele filed on the land in 1901, and was one of the few original settlers in the Tipton community. When the land was settled it is doubtful if it could have been sold for $5 an acre. There is money in good land and an investment that is the safest in the world.

According to experts, now is the proper time to enter business. The market is yet one of the buyer and good terms are being made by manufacturing concerns.

The grain farmers are losing no time in getting small grain of every kind cut and shocked. The threshers will be going by June 10.

The biggest Fourth of July celebration to be held in Northwest Texas will be in Wichita Falls.

Business goes where it is invited and will keep on visiting so long as well treated.

EARNINGS FOOD FACTORIES SHOW BETTER FIGURES

Excellent Business Now Being Recorded by Food Concerns

INFLOW NEW MONEY TO BETTER LOCAL BUSINESS

For Past Six Months It Has Been Going Out to Eastern Points

A study of 122 concerns for the first quarter of 1931 shows that 22 made gains and 100 made losses, although in many instances the amount was small.

The survey shows that food concerns are doing well considering general business conditions. Concerns manufacturing confections have no complaint to make. This may be taken as a guide that the public is beginning to spend more for luxuries, a thing that many denied themselves of for the past 18 months.

American Chicle's earnings increased from $475,000 to $485,000 over the previous quarter. Beech-Nut Packing reported a slight loss from $556,000 to $536,000. Canada Dry Ginger Ale gained from $447,000 to $468,000. Lower prices have been established in their item, a soft drink, and that did not enter into the earnings for the first quarter.

Coca-Cola Gains Profit

Coca-Cola reported gains from $2,849,000 to $2,902,000. Continental Baking earnings dropped from $1,182,000 to $822,000. Corn Products Refining fell from $3,152,000 to $2,389,000. Cream of Wheat made a downward move of $530,00 to $468,000.

General Foods corporation, one of the largest, declined from $5,990,000 to $5,572,000, while Standard Brands climbed from $3,496,000 to $4,054,000. Hershey Chocolate earnings went from $2,320,000 to $2,670,000. Loose-Wiles earnings dropped about 10 per cent from $560,000 to $515,000. National Biscuit gained from $4,665,000 to $4,840,000. United Fruit earnings fell off, $3,800,000 to $3,087,000. William Wrigley company profits declined from $2,643,000 to $2,365,000.

People Are Still Eating

A list of these food lines shows that the people are still eating. Generally earnings have been good with firms manufacturing food products. Sales of major companies have declined not more than 15 per cent, in most instances far less, under April a year ago.

Signs now point to more encouraging times. Business in Northwest Texas is expected to show better for June than in May. Crop movement, small grains and farm produce, is now under way and new money is coming in from the east-earn markets. During the fall and spring months money from this area poured eastward.

The inflow of money always betters conditions locally. The business firm that stays awake and never loses a chance to gain business will show better sales at the end of June.

Development of the irrigated valley in Wichita county is a big job and will bring many millions of dollars of revenue into Wichita Falls when fully developed.

A hard surfaced highway should be constructed into the Petrolia community. Those farmers want a good road into Wichita Falls.

Leslie Farmer Uses Gyp Rock Build Houses!

R. B. Bewley, who lives one mile south of Leslie, has just completed construction of a large poultry house, milk house and the walls of a garage out of gyp rock. Bewley has been working on the structures since last year. He states the material is made by procuring ordinary gyp rock and crushing it into small particles and mixing water with it to form a substance similar to cement. He has found that after allowing the mixture to set and dry, it forms a substantial wall, economical to build and serving the same purpose as a cement wall.

He obtains the gyp by digging it out of his field. He got the idea by seeing his boys play marbles made from the gyp rock. The roofs of his structures are made of cement and his buildings have proven to be just as strong and substantial as though they were made of concrete.

Floydada Growing Regardless Slack Times Over Nation

The business depression apparently is having little effect upon construction of buildings in Floydada, according to the Floyd County Plainsman.

L. L. Jones is completing a large granary and barn at his farm. Roy Fawver is the contractor.

C. V. Lemons is building a five-room modern stucco home in Floydada. Bill Moody is the contractor.

The Cedar Hill teacherage is being repaired and enlarged. The job is being superintended by Bob Willis, who is using labor from the community.

The Floydada High school senior class is building a concrete curb around Athletic park. More improvements are to be made during the summer months.

The Denver road has several hundred cars in condition for shipment of small grain. The officials state that the locomotives are in tiptop condition to handle the big grain crop.

Wichita Falls should become the center of all Northwest Texas and Southwest Oklahoma development. Amarillo has an organization that devotes much time and expense in the upbuilding of the North Plains counties.

Wichita Falls business men are keeping their eyes on the business indicator and are not losing an opportunity to create more business.

Marketing Plan Is Provided Growers Melons Wise Area

Growers of cantaloupes and watermelons in Wise county are going into a genuine business organization to marekt the crop this summer.

B. D. Cook, of Wichita, Kan., and two expert packers from Rocky Ford, Colo., have arrived at Decatur. These men, Harry Rarick and W. H. Meriot, have superintended packing of cantaloupes in Arizona, California and Colorado districts, and their work will be of value to the growers in Wise county.

The expert packers will make a complete canvass of Wise county and inform the growers how the fruit should be handled before reaching the shipping depot.

M. B. Oates, agricultural agent, and O. M. Smith, special agent, both connected with the Denver road, have been in Decatur conferring with A. B. Farrington, president, and Cliff Cates, secretary, of the Wise County Cantaloupe Growers association. Plans are now under way to install equipment for grading, packing and loading, which will be placed in the freight depot at Decatur.

Frank F. Tubbs of Yakima, Wash., has been engaged to direct the distribution of cantaloupes and watermelons. He is an expert in this line of marketing and will be of great value to the growers.

It is said that the expected profit from cantaloupes and melons this year will not be as much as last year, but is hoped that through a more systematic plan of marketing the farmers will receive better returns than in past years.

All-Steel Elevator Under Construction Chillicothe Plant

An all-steel grain elevator with a capacity of 25,000 bushels, 30 feet in diameter and 30 feet high, also a warehouse adjoining, is under construction at Chillicothe by the C. M. Moore Milling company.

The foundation was poured this past week and it is expected the steel work on the storage elevator will be completed within a few days. It is probable that other all-steel elevators will be erected at other points along the Denver road to take care of the big wheat crop.

A representative of a paint factory in Dallas reports business improving and that orders from Wichita Falls are better now than for any period during the past 12 months.

The cotton oil mill at Quanah is said to be one of the largest in capacity of any similar plant in Texas.

DENVER ROAD OFFICIALS BACK PLAN OFFERED BY PANHANDLE BANKERS FOR HOME FARMING

Letters have been sent to all county agents in counties served by the Denver lines, telling of the plan of the Lower Panhandle Bankers association in the farm financing program for 1932, according to M. B. Oates, agricultural agent for the railroad.

The Lower Panhandle Bankers association is composed of all banks in Hall, Donley, Collingsworth and Childress counties, and the plan adopted by the banks is to make no loans to farmers to make 1932 crops unless they prepare themselves to live at home.

Dairy cows, hens, sows and grain crops must be provided in the scheme of farming. The bankers believe under this system that the farmers can soon become independent and not require the borrowing of money each spring to make crops.

The plan is also believed the solution to make farming more profitable in many other ways. By living at home the farmers will not need to purchase food items that are produced in some other section of the country. The banks have not set a limit on cotton planting but have said that dairy cows, hens, sows and feed crops are necessary to secure a crop loan.

The bankers are the only business men who can really force this plan upon the farmers. It may seem harsh, but it will prove the thing to do, and within two years the farmers will be thanking the bankers for the good that has been done them.

CENTRAL PANHANDLE SERVICE STATION IS LEASED TO SHEPHERD

Management and operation of the Central Panhandle Service station, Ninth and Travis streets, will be taken over by R. E. Shepherd, public relations director of the Panhandle Oil and Refining company during the past two years, on Monday morning, June 1, according to information obtained Saturday.

Operation of the service station will be handled by Mr. Shepherd as a private enterprise, it was learned, although ownership of the business still will be vested in the Panhandle Oil and Refining company, with which he is connected.

Three complete lines of merchandise for the motoring public are included in the stock to be sold by Mr. Shepherd, it was announced. The station will handle all Panhandle products for the automobile, including the green Nox-less and white gasoline, lubricating oils, and greases. The tire department will be the local retail distributor of Hood tires. The battery division of the business, established several years ago, also is local distributor for the U. S. L. batteries. The station is also equipped for a complete battery repair and recharging service, as well as sales and exchange, it was said.

According to the new manager, the station is modernly equipped for general service to automobile owners. Washing and polishing, vacuum cleaning, pressure greasing, and tire repairing will be featured, he said.

All of the present staff of attendants and salesmen at the station will be retained, it was announced. The station has a wide entrance on both Ninth and Travis streets, its entire service area being under roof.

There is an enormous overproduction of sake or cheap beer in Japan. There is now 67,200,000 gallons of sake in storage and unless sold soon will spoil. The brewers placed a price of five cents a bottle to get rid of it. It is said the price does not pay cost of bottling, let alone government taxes. Hard times in Japan has caused less beer drinking.

Wichita Falls is the greatest amusement center in Northwest Texas. Come to Wichita Falls and spend the week-end.

PLAN TO START BUILDING ROAD TO PAMPA SOON

Denver Officials at Work Securing Right of Way Entire Distance

SEVERAL BIG BRIDGES NECESSARY FOR LINE

Believed Section to Red River Will Get First Consideration

Evidence of the Denver road's desire to proceed quickly with construction of the Denver and Northern, new branch line from Childress to Pampa, was shown this past few days when Gen. John A. Hulen and other officials paid a visit to Childress to inspect the first three miles of grade completed out of the Childress terminal toward Wellington.

The grade work is almost finished over this distance and it is expected work on the crossing over highway No. 5 will be resumed within a few days. The crossing is an overhead one and of concrete.

It will not require more than 60 days to complete the dump to the Red river. Considerable material must be provided for the bridge which will be approximately 3,000 feet long. It is believed steel will laid to the bridge site before material is moved for construction of the structure.

Other Bridges Necessary

The Denver and Northern has Buck creek to cross in Childress county and a short distance north of the Red river. North of Wellington the road will cross the Salt fork of Red river, and just south of Shamrock a very deep creek, called Mulberry, must be bridged. Between Shamrock and Pampa two streams, North fork of Red river and McClelland creek, will require strong and long bridges.

J. M. Crews, vice president of the First National bank in Childress, is chairman of the committee named by the chamber of commerce to secure right of way through Childress county. As the new road belts the city there is no expensive real estate to purchase. Much of the line in Childress county passes through ranch property and the cost will be low. Many land owners are expected to contribute right of way.

An invitation has been extended the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce to run a special train over the new railroad next June, 1932, when it will be officially opened. The invitation was issued by Gen. John A. Hulen and E. B. Abington, president of the chamber of commerce at Childress.

New Outlet for Wichita Falls

Construction of the Denver and Northern will give jobbers and manufacturers of Wichita Falls a direct and one-line haul into the northern Panhandle counties, something the city has never enjoyed. This city will also be the nearest large elevator center for the grain area of that section of the Panhandle. It is expected many millions of bushels of wheat will move through Wichita Falls that has not moved in this direction in the past.

Officials of the Denver road have issued a statement that local labor in the counties through which the new railroad will build will be given preference in employment. When construction is under full force some 1,500 to 2,000 men will be given employment. Nearly $5,000,000 will be spent.

Harvest Season to Bring Change in Business Conditions, Say Those in Charge of West Texas Utilities Co.

Generally improved business conditions and encouraging crop prospects are in store for West Texas, according to the monthly business conditions survey of the West Texas Utilities company, made available from the offices of the company at Vernon, Saturday. The report covers 48 West Texas and Panhandle counties served by the company.

Crop and business conditions in the Panhandle region continue better than those reported from other sections of the company's properties, although considerable improvement has been noted in the territories adjacent to San Angelo and Quanah.

The report shows a satisfactory condition of wheat and feed crops throughout the territory, and points out that much cotton has already been planted and is doing well. In the southeastern portion of the territory served by the company in the neighborhood of Lawn, Coleman and Santa Anna—cotton farmers report a good "stand," with every indication of a crop far above normal.

Although trade and collections are considerably below normal, optimism regarding future prospects has stimulated general business to a considerable degree. Widespread improvement is expected within the next 90 days.

Conservative estimates place the feed and grain yield at from 20 to 25 per cent above normal, although the cutworm has been noted at various points throughout the properties.

The report concludes with the observation that "as harvest time approaches, and increasing numbers of men find employment, a general improvement in business of all kinds is expected."

The monthly business conditions survey made available through the West Texas Utilities company is made up from reports submitted by each of the nine districts operating superintendents of the company, who gain first-hand information in covering the widespread properties of the company.

Quanah Merchants to Conduct Sales Day Monday, June 1; Big Crowd Is Due to Shop and Witness Contests

The third monthly trades day will be held at Quanah Monday, June 1. One of the feature events will be a display of 100 home made dresses by members of the various community clubs over Hardeman county.

To the winner of the best dress display a free trip will be given to the short course to be conducted by Texas A. & M. college at College Station. Quanah dry goods firms are also offering many special prizes for dresses that are made of materials purchased in local stores at Quanah.

There will be an interesting entertainment program, consisting of foot races between boys and girls. There will also be an apple-eating contest. Apples will be suspended by strings along the street awnings.

Fifty-four Quanah merchants have entered into the monthly trades day plan. The first two events proved very successful and brought many shoppers into the city, and some from long distances. Quanah has a live-wire chamber of commerce and leaves nothing undone to bring trade into the city.

Geo. A. Sager, manager of the chamber of commerce, is expecting a record crowd Monday, unless weather conditions be adverse.

BUILDING PERMITS

Building permits for the week ending May 29, totaled $555 bringing the total for the month to $6,774 and for the year to $47,150, it was announced by City Engineer F. M. Rugeley.

The permits follow:

Academy Mary Immaculate, repair academy, 810 Holliday, $300.

J. H. Allison, repair business, 710 Indiana, $355.

Good business may not be around the corner but there is a more optimistic feeling, to say the least. When the people begin to think more of better times there will be a change for the better.

DEEP TEST LOCATIONS WICHITA AND ARCHER HOLD INTEREST

Developments of Past Week in Pools Of Wichita Falls Oil District Fail to Bring Happenings of Importance

By JIMMIE MAXWELL

Development throughout the different fields of the Wichita Falls district and other pools in North Texas during the past week failed to bring to the fore any interesting happenings. The usual number of wells were in actual drilling, new locations were staked out, and several producers in Young county, after picking up the pay, were shut in.

In north Archer county, another deep test was spudded in, the Lewis and Marshall No. 1 W. P. Ferguson, which is drilling at 500 feet after setting surface pipe at 120 feet. This test is contracted to drill to 4,000 feet and is located in the southwest part of S. P. R. R. survey, abstract 1148, and is about one and a half miles southeast of the Shappell deep test in W. P. Ferguson land, E. Patterson survey.

Foard county's deep test, the Texas company No. 1 L. Johnson in section 56, block 1, S. P. R. R. survey, is pulling pipe to abandon as a dry hole. The well was drilled to a total depth of 4005 feet. At 3296 to 3298 feet it encountered two feet of sand which showed approximately 6,000,000 feet of gas. Regardless of failure in this test, the same company has staked out its No. 2 location to be drilled 440 feet south and 560 feet east of the southeast corner of section 38, S. P. R. R. survey, block "L," but will be located in the Christopher Choate survey. This is a 3,000-foot cable tool test.

Southwest of Iowa Park in Wichita county, another deep test to be drilled to a depth of 4000 feet has spudded in. It is Mid-Continent Holding company's No. 10 Burnside in the northeast corner of J. M. Sharpe survey, abstract 262, and two miles northeast of the Deep Oil Munger No. 1 producer.

Young county activities consisted during the week of the usual spudder tests going down on the various shallow areas, and the drilling of a few deep tests to the north of Graham. Several dry holes were completed, which were offset by one or two producers in the Orth pool.

Cooke, Montague, Jack and other pools reported the usual number of tests drilling.

Crude movements in the various lines of the district for the week ended Saturday showed an average of 55,259 barrels daily, a loss of approximately 753 barrels per day as compared with the runs of the previous seven days. All pools showed varying losses despite the completion of a few nice wells.

PRIMROSE COMPANY COMPLETES GUSHER GREGG COUNTY AREA

Another big producer was added to Primrose townsite in Gregg county late Friday when the Primrose Refining company brought in its No. 1 Blackstone, estimated at 20,000 barrels.

The well, which is rated as the largest producer in the pool, when washed in from the usual 3650-foot pay flowed natural 350 barrels per hour open through the tubing. Later, when placed under an eleven-sixteenths inch choke, the well flowed at the rate of 132 barrels each hour. The well, which is of special interest to the local fraternity, was drilled in by Barkley & Meadows of Wichita Falls and was brought in under perfect control.

East Texas Oil

LONGVIEW, Texas, May 30. (AP)—Setting a new record for completions in the Lathrop pool, 21 producers were brought in this week, adding an estimated 384,000 barrels daily open flow to the potential of the pool.

Twelve tests also were on the sand and were expected to be completed tomorrow, in order to give them a place in the new proration schedule effective Monday, June 1.

The Lathrop pool now includes 98 producers, among 151 in Gregg county, the Lathrop pool embracing only that portion of the county north of the Sabine river.

SHERMAN, Texas, May 30. (AP)—Reports received today from Preston Bend said the F. H. E. Oil company's No. 1 Potts well, 20 miles north of Sherman, which blew out of control late yesterday and caught fire, probably would have to be extinguished with a charge of dynamite or nitroglycerin.

Boyd Troop, tool dresser of Madill, Okla., seriously burned yesterday when the well caught fire, was resting well in a hospital here today, as was Clyde Ready of Madill, who also was burned on the face and arms. Two other men injured were able to be taken to their homes.

Cementing the pump and other means today had proved ineffectual in extinguishing the flames at the well.

FOSTER RECONCILED TO SENTENCE IN COLORADO FACES DEATH BY HANGING

GREELEY, Colo., May 30. (UP)—James V. Foster, legally sane and convicted of burning to death his wife and three small daughters, was reconciled today to his fate—death by hanging.

Although protesting nobody in his right mind would do the act to which he confessed, he announced through his attorney there would be no appeal to the supreme court from the verdict handed down by a jury of farmers.

Finding Foster guilty of murder, the jury voted the first death penalty ever meted out in a Weld county court. Decision not to appeal leaves only passing of formal sentence and fixing the date of the hanging before the convicted man is taken to the state penitentiary at Canon City.

Foster was arrested May 5 a few hours after he had saturated the bed clothing of his wife and three children with gasoline and applied a match. The following day he confessed, declaring "the devil made me do it."

The defense of Allen, who was in St. Louis a year ago and lost an eight months' fight against extradition to Louisiana, was that the physician was shot accidentally by a white man named McBee.

WILDCAT WELL IN SCHLEICHER REACHES SAND

Test Near Eldorado Gets Good Showing of Oil And Gas

THREE NEW PRODUCERS IN WARD DURING WEEK

Second Largest of World's Deepest Drills Past Tubing

SAN ANGELO, Texas, May 30.—Striking of sweet gas estimated from 250,000 to 1,000,000 cubic feet and 30.9 gravity oil that rose 1,800 feet in J. D. Wesner's No. 1 W. R. Nicks, Schleicher county wildcat, 1¼ miles northeast of Eldorado, the county seat, attracted most attention in West Texas oil operations this week.

Other developments included the addition of three more wells in Ward county with another spraying oil under heavy gas and the shooting into production of Lockhart and others' No. 1 Bell and the striking of oil in Eppenauer Drilling company's No. 2 Allen, both in Loving county. Group No. 1 Oil corporation's No. 4-B University, second largest of the world's nine deepest producers in Reagan county, drilled by cemented tubing to 8587 feet, the equivalent of its old total depth, and began flowing 200 barrels of oil hourly when testing started Wednesday.

Wesner's No. 1 Nicks in Schleicher county was scheduled to clean out and to begin running 8¼-inch casing Friday to test oil and gas bearing lime which was topped Monday night at 4000 feet. The oil rose 300 feet the first three hours and continued to rise at the rate of about 50 feet hourly until it reached a level of 875 feet. An increase in oil was o btained apparently in the last two feet of drilling, in sandy lime, from 4002 to 4006 feet Wednesday afternoon. The column rose to 1800 feet within two hours when the hole bridged 200 feet off bottom.

The hole was open below 1215 feet, where 10-inch casing was set and one bailer of salt water hourly was being carried from 2900 feet when the oil and gas were struck. A packer was to be attached to the 8¼-inch casing to shut off the small amount of upper water, also a perforated joint to permit entrance of the oil. No. 1 Nicks was credited with running about 200 feet higher structurally than Phillips-Interstate's No. 1 J. A. Whitten, four miles to the west and two miles to the north. It has an elevation of 2,408 feet. No. 1 Whitten, with an elevation of 2333 feet, encountered a good showing of oil from 4110-37 feet, to which the present showing in No. 1 Nicks was believed to correspond. No. 1 Whitten's best bid for production was at 4912-25 feet in August, 1929, when it headed oil for three days. At 6300-35 feet in May, 1930, it struck one bailer of 50.1 gravity oil every three to four hours and gauged 735,000 cubic feet of gas daily. Salt water was struck at 6880 feet and the test was abandoned dry. Wesner's No. 1 Nicks is 2310 feet from the north line and 2362 feet from the east line of section 77, block LL, T. C. Ry. Co. survey, on acreage secured from Humble.

Ward County Well

Alex Bradford and C. C. Dorr's No. 1 Carson, among the latest Ward county tests to make oil, struck an estimated 3,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily from 2135-45 feet and at 2147 feet encountered an increase in gas to an estimated 10,000,000 cubic feet with an oil spray estimated at 10 barrels daily. The well is in section 28, block 5, H. & T. C. Ry. Co. survey, one-half mile north of Grandfalls production.

Simms Oil company's No. 1 Himmell, in section 30, block B-29, public school land, made two small heads of oil in drilling from 2324 to 2356 feet. It struck oil showings at 2245 and 2275 feet and an increase in oil at 2295 feet accompanied by gas that blew tools up the hole. Bell & Weir's No. 1 Boogher, in section 11, block 5, H. & T. C. Ry. Co. survey, flowed 25 barrels of oil daily in drilling to 2250 feet in sandy lime. It topped the pay at 2187 feet and had an increase in oil and gas at 2230. Alpine Oil and Development company's No. 3 Boogher, also in section 11, block 5, H. & T. C. Ry. Co. survey, topped the pay at 2147-55 feet, had an increase at 2195 feet and developed heads in drilling to 2212 feet in grey lime.

Lockhart & Co.'s No. 1 Bell, in section 91, block 1, W. & N. W. Ry. Co. survey, in Loving county, gauged 336 barrels of pipe line oil the first 16½ hours after it was shot Sunday with 180 quarts. Eppenauer's No. 2 Allen, in section 90, block 1, W. & N. W. Ry. Co. survey, topped the Delaware lime at 2468 feet, 1536 feet below sea level, somewhat higher than in nearby producers, and in coring to 4300 feet was making a bailer of oil hourly. It had not reached the producing Delaware sand which is encountered in the area about 40 feet below the top of the black lime. Eppenauer's No. 1 Salisbury, producing 75 to 100 barrels daily through tubing early in the week, was scheduled to pull the tubing and deepen.

Continental Oil company's No. 1 Brindley, in Howard county, made three bailers of oil hourly from 3168-75 feet in drilling to 3197 feet in lime. It showed the first oil at 3155 feet. The test is one mile north of Continental's (formerly Marland and Group No. 1 Oil corporation's) No. 1 J. B. Harding, a discovery well seven miles southwest of Big Spring, which pumps about 15 barrels of oil daily from 3173-88 feet. No. 1 Brindley is in section 18, block 38, township 1 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey.

Stanolind Oil and Gas company's No. 1 W. H. Williams, in southeastern Irion county, had drilled to 5925 feet in shale. In Schleicher county, Eastland Oil company and others' No. 1 Joe Tisdale began drilling plug at 2509 feet in shale, where it cemented 10-inch casing, intended to shut off water.

ONE DRILLING WELL ACCOUNTS FOR ALL STEPHENS ACTIVITY

DUNCAN, Okla., May 30.—One drilling well accounted for all of the activity in Stephens county at the end of the week, but some improvement was noted in the amount of work in surrounding counties.

RECORD TIME MADE IN TRIAL OF CHICAGOAN BY KILLING OFFICER

CHICAGO, May 30. (AP)—Twenty-nine days after slaying Traffic Officer Anthony Ruthy in crowded Michigan avenue, Carl Carlson, alias Frank Jordan, Rock Island, Ill., was found guilty last night and sentenced to die in the electric chair.

Carlson, who also fatally wounded Policeman Patrick Durkin, grinned when the jury returned its verdict. He was still grinning as he was led out of the courtroom.

The conviction was believed by court authorities to establish an all-time record for Chicago justice. They said that in no other case where an accused slayer offered a defense had a conviction followed so quickly on the heels of the crime.

Jurors, who were given the case shortly after the defense waived its chance of final arguments, took little more than two hours to return the verdict.

Mid-Continent Oil Activities

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 30. (UP)—Proration orders for the Oklahoma City field were extended until July 1 today while the corporation commission had under advisement a plan to divide the field into zones for proration purposes.

The order of April 20 which was extended for another month provided for a 6 per cent flow of an arbitrarily estimated potential production of 2,000,000 barrels daily with allowable under production to amount to a total of about 160,000 barrels daily.

The commission is unable to reach a decision at this time on Wirt Franklin's petition and takes the matter under advisement for further study," Chairman Paul Walker's report said.

Franklin's application asked for division of the field for proration purposes into four zones. Lime and Simpson sand formations, the longest developed structures, would be allowed greater flow. Geologists testifying for about 30 independent operators opposing the plan contended that oil production was from a common stratum and unequal production would rob wells in one area while benefiting others.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 30. (UP)—Nine Oklahoma counties reported 16 new locations for the past week. The previous week there were 16 first reports.

Okmulgee county led with three. Creek and Oklahoma counties tied for second place with two each. Atoka, Cotton, Latimer, Murray, Muskogee and Pittsburg counties each had one.

SEMINOLE, Okla., May 30. (UP)—Magnolia Petroleum company was expected to bring in its fourth producer on the Wood lease in the southwestern part of the Konawa field next week. Its No. 4 Wood, NW NE SW, 29-6-6e, had a good showing of oil in corings from 2716 to 2780 feet.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 30. (UP)—A lively court battle for Monday was in prospect before the Keene-Okla Oil company's presents its "jubilee over the crown block party" for several hundred shareholders in its Ohio No. 1 well in the city field.

A district court order granted on petition of citizens near the well in the western part of the field near many residences restrains the company from letting the well flow over the crown block. The petition set out that such a spectacle, while contributing to the joys of stockholders, would menace property.

Hearing on the suit is scheduled Monday morning. Completion as a large gusher is expected Monday noon. Frank Argood, president, said he would flow the well open or "know the reason why."

Work in the field was not slackened for the holidays. Several wells were due for completion over the week-end.

Phillips Petroleum company continued to lead other companies in completions with the bringing in of its No. 1 Perry, NE NW SW 10-11-3w, for a flow of 1,184 barrels of oil the first hour. Gas volume was estimated at 25,000,000 cubic feet daily.

With 73 wells flowing, field production yesterday was 124,430 barrels. Pipe lines took 125,428 barrels.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, May 30. (AP)—The Saxet field west of Corpus Christi had its second outlaw well within a week when tremendous underground gas pressure early today blew out casing from the Maggie Harrell No. 1 being drilled six miles west of the city by the Saxet Oil company.

The well caught fire and burned the derrick but workmen succeeded in extinguishing the blaze and brought the well under control shortly after midnight. No one was injured.

The Houston Oil company's No. 2 Lawrence wild gasser, which has raged for a week since it blew out of control, was expected to be harnessed today.

JULIAN TO FACE TRIAL ON KIDNAPING CHARGE

LAREDO, Texas, May 30. (AP)—C. C. Julian, Oklahoma City oil operator will face trial at Laredo Monday on a charge of kidnaping and assault with intent to rob.

ECONOMIC DISTURBANCES ABROAD RESTRICT U. S. BUSINESS

Stimulation of Retail Trade By Active Buying Principal Bright Spot in Business for Past Week

NEW YORK, May 30. (UP)—Signs of economic and financial disturbances abroad, coupled with the usual preholiday influences restricted general business activity in most sections of the country during the last week. More actual retail trade was the principal bright spot.

Difficulties abroad, while not directly influencing domestic business, were a source of uneasiness in commercial circles and resulted in further sweeping declines in stock and bond prices. Commodities continued their downward trend, several reaching further record low prices.

Among the adverse foreign developments were prospects of a reduction in reparations payments, state aid for the Austrian creditanstalt, default of interest payments by Peru and possibilities of a moratorium on the Brazil external debt. Political troubles in Spain and further inflation of its currency were other points of unsettlement.

Industrial lines in various sections of this country suffered the usual seasonal influences and the closing down for the two-day holiday. Steel mill operations fell slightly to the lowest level since the second week of January following the passing of the spring peak in automobile production.

Commodities Decline

Retail trade was stimulated by the active buying of vacation lines, aided partly by substantial price concessions. As a result profits of most mercantile establishments are small. Commodity prices in general continued their long decline, copper and cotton breaking to new lows. Unsettlement in grain prices was created by prospects of a record breaking wheat crop in this country.

Increasing attention is being attracted by the agricultural situation and the future course of general business is believed to depend to a large extent upon prices that the farmer receives for his crops this year. A smaller yield in foreign countries would result in good returns to domestic producers and pave the way for increased prosperity in industrial lines. Livestock prices, however, have fallen to the lowest levels in 23 years.

Employment conditions in general have shown comparatively little improvement and the wage cutting campaign has spread further, several additional large companies slashing payments this week. Much labor continues on a part time basis, strikes have continued in scattered sections.

Many Suggestions

Discussions of ways and means out of the present depression continue to consume a large portion of newspaper space. The annual convention of the National Foreign Trade council here this week attracted widespread attention. According to leaders at this gathering, an essential necessity of the present economic situation is an advance in commodity prices, which would stimulate buying and consumption and bring a return of prosperity.

Government leaders are more confident regarding the future. President Hoover's personal chart of business shows a stable condition since early April, while Secretary of Labor Doak believes that May showed a "slight and gradual" upswing in employment. This increase was not large, he said, but there "is nevertheless a definite improvement."

Weak stock and bond prices failed to prevent confident statements by economists. Colonel Ayres of the Cleveland Trust company believes that improvement will develop after Labor day and similar views are held by other leaders. Nevertheless, the persistent decline in security prices has uncovered several weak situations which may retard improvement.

Southwest Review

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 30. (UP)—A general decline of prices in the livestock industry was the outstanding feature of business conditions in the southwest during the past week.

Hogs sold at $5.90, the lowest price received in local markets for 23 years. Fat cattle experienced about the same decline, hitting a new low since 1912.

The agricultural industry's outlook was reported promising. Although moisture was somewhat limited early in the spring, conditions of all classes of fruits and crops was reported excellent.

It was announced that wheat in the region around San Angelo, Texas was about ready to be cut. About 35 bushels to an acre was expected to be harvested from this area.

Corn planting was half completed and the Ozark strawberry movement was well underway.

Further decreases in loans and discounts in 56 reporting member banks on May 14, showed a decline of 16.9 per cent as compared with the corresponding period of last year. Net demand deposits increased 14 per cent for the same time, but showed a decrease of 8.8 per cent for the entire year.

Farm commodities, such as eggs, butter, milk and poultry, were still touching record low price levels last week. Prices of eggs and milk which slumped weeks ago continued at low levels. Poultry prices were also lower.

Retail and wholesale trades were in a fair state, with stocks on hand in good condition.

Zinc and lead prices were still in a depressed condition, selling $13 and $35 per ton respectively under the price of last year.

WASHINGTON, May 30. (US)—"God bless Missouri," declared the methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals in an editorial today commenting on that state's prohibition laws that caused Mabel Walker Willebrandt to warn her grape concentrate clients to stay out of that state. The comment follows:

"Press dispatches say that Mrs. Willebrandt has advised her clients to 'stay' away from Missouri' in their nation-wide campaign to popularize grape concentrate for the production of wine in the home. God bless Missouri for an honest state."

NEW YORK, May 30.—The first half of a double holiday was observed in Wall street today, with business suspended until Monday morning because of Memorial day. The New York stock and curb exchanges, commodity exchanges and banks were closed.

A study of the cycles of general business and textile activity since the war, made by the Tubize-Chatillon corporation, indicates that the next peak in the general business cycle will be recorded in 1932. The study shows the general business cycle reaches its peak every third year and the textile cycle every other year.

Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust company is to discuss "A new index of industrial activity" at the opening session of the 23rd annual convention of the Special Libraries association in Cleveland June 10 to 12.

Development of the natural gas industry has progressed so rapidly during the last four years that at the end of 1930 it had attracted investments totaling more than $2,500,000, a survey by Ford, Bacon & Davis says.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, May 30. (AP)—With Liverpool and New York closed and all the Texas markets and some southern markets observing Memorial day, there was little incentive to trade in today's cotton market. The close was quiet and steady showing net losses for the day of one to two points.

No weather map was posted owing to the national holiday but the long distance forecast for the coming week was issued promising fair and warmer weather with showers considered favorable for the crop. October closed at 9.00 down one point net for the day and December closed at 9.20 down two points net.

Port receipts 1,250; for season 5,730,054; last season 5,553,217. Exports 26,073; for season 6,199,270; last season 6,294,604. Port stocks 3,256,215; last year 1,704,382. THOMAS ASH JR. POSTPONES START OVERSEAS FLIGHT

SAMUSHIRO BEACH, Japan, May 21. (Sunday) (AP)—The monoplane Pacific failed to lift its heavy load of gasoline fuel from the beach here today and Thomas Ash Jr. postponed until tomorrow his 4,400-mile solo fight to Seattle, Wash.

Weighted by 1020 gallons of gasoline, about 3,000 pounds, the plane would not rise from the one-mile runway along the beach, although given impetus on the 200-yard plankway erected by friendly Japanese for the American flier.

Reluctant to give up his attempt to start today, Ash ordered 20 gallons of precious fuel taken from the plane, decreasing the load by 130 pounds and prepared to make another attempt to take off.

The time, however, was 7:30 a. m. (5:30 p. m., eastern standard time, Saturday), three hours later than he had planned to begin the longest flight ever made over water. He, therefore, decided to wait until tomorrow for further efforts, planning meantime to make any improvements possible of plane and runway.

Physically trained to go without sleep during the 40 to 50 hours of ceaseless piloting of an awkward plane, Ash planned to be in Seattle before dawn of his third day out. He hoped to have two moonlight nights of flying.

THIRTY-SIX HURT AT YOUNGSTOWN IN COMMUNIST RIOT

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, May 30. (AP)—At least 11 policemen, including Traffic Commissioner Carl Olsen, and 25 demonstrators were injured and more than 40 demonstrators were arrested here tonight as a result of a pitched battle between police and members of the young Communist league.

The clash occurred when police broke up a Communist demonstration in downtown Youngstown.

One of the demonstrators is near death in a Youngstown hospital with a bullet in his abdomen. Two policemen also are in a hospital with serious injuries and at least eight or 10 policemen suffered injuries.

Among those arrested were four women, and one 6-year-old boy. As the trouble started, a man, dressed in a khaki suit, jumped on top of an automobile, drew a gun from a holster and shot the windshields and windows from several cars owned by the demonstrators.

Many of the women wore red bandanas and men and children wore red berets, and others who had participated in baseball games this afternoon, wore small red, green and black caps. Others wore red ties and red ribbons.

Police snatched the colored headgear from heads and threw it to the ground.

MOHAMMEDAN MARRIAGE IS LEGAL IN WISCONSIN

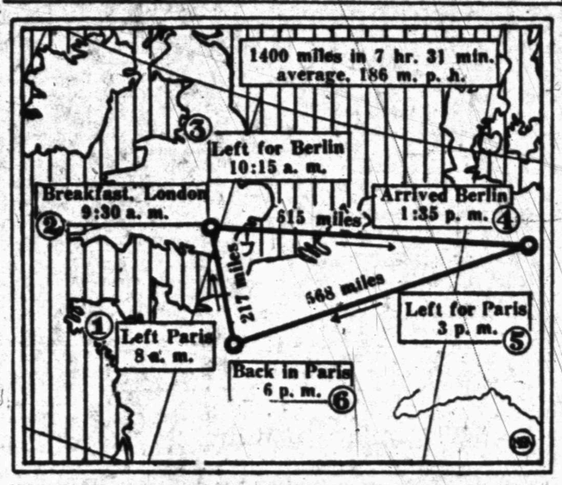

MADISON, Wis., May 30. (AP)—A Mohammedan marriage is legal in Wisconsin, Circuit Judge A. G. Zimmerman, ruled.

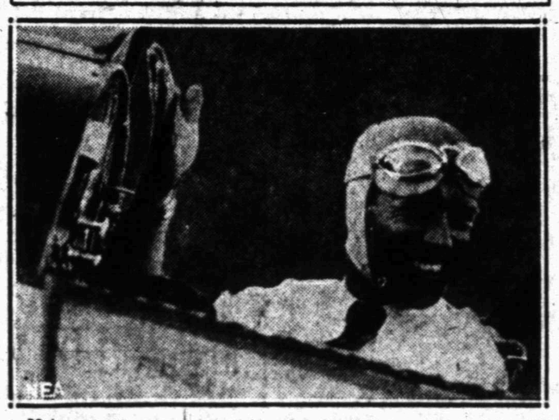

The judge upheld a similar decision by the state industrial commission, in an award under the workmen's compensation law to Mrs. Rozella Black Williams, Milwaukee. She married Wilfred Williams in a Mohammedan ceremony.

Williams was killed while in the employ of a Milwaukee corporation, and the industrial commission's award of damages was contested on the ground that the marriage was illegal.

HAWKS' THREE-MEAL TOUR OF EUROPE

Not so many years ago visionaries dared to predict that by 1950 aviation might be developed to the point where a flyer could breakfast in London, have lunch in Berlin, and dine that night in Paris. But Captain Frank Hawks, American "Meteor man" who here is pictured in the cockpit of his plane during his present European trip, already has bested that prophecy by completing the triangle with a pre-breakfast flight from Paris to London. The map above shows the progress of his record-breaking round trip between the European capitals. A 9:30 breakfast, a 1:30 lunch, and at 6 o'clock he landed at Le Bourget field to find that Mrs. Hawks had been so confident of his success that she had bought tickets to a theater.

Cotton's Rebound From Low Levels Leads to Belief That Accumulation At Current Prices May Be Profitable

WASHINGTON, May 30. (AP)—Cotton's rebound from new low price levels has led to some trade belief that accumulation of contracts around current quotations might prove profitable during the next 90 days.

On May 27 values went to the lowest point touched so far this season when the average of the 10 markets for middling ⅞-inch stood at 7.94 cents. The price had climbed back to 8.09 by May 29. December deliveries touched 9 cents, which meant about 7 cents for the farmer.

The break was credited to the absence of important trade or speculative support and liquidation by tired longs. The recovery was said to have resulted from fear of unfavorable cotton weather over the holidays while all except New Orleans markets were closed.

Trade operations are not of a character to cause violent fluctuations and outside interest is notoriously small. Consequently, some believe the market will become steadier and when it does many buyers will come into the market at the same time.

Inquiries Numerous

Next week will see national cotton week in full dress, the government joining the encouraging new business. Advices from Charlotte, N. C., said the week has turned up considerable inquiry for cotton and New Orleans reported some improvement in the demand for spot cotton. Spartanburg, S. C., said the basis on raw cotton continues firm. Greenville, S. C., that the present schedule of mill operations seemed likely to continue and Houston, Texas, that cotton was not being crowded on the market.

It was reported at Memphis that spot transactions increased about 1,000 bales a day in the south last week and New York said cotton under 9 cents was tempting mills "in view of the very fair degree of cloth consumption."

Dr. Julius Klein of the department of commerce said April was the best month in the last five years in the volume of merchandise distributed by stores. M. L. Rothschild, Chicago merchant, said his May sales were 45 per cent ahead of last year. The $17,500,000 merger of 300,000 spindles in 14 Gaston county, North Carolina, cotton mills has been affected.

Acreage Reduced

The department of agriculture reported that inquiry for carded yarns was said to have improved but that buyers were trying to purchase at prices below those asked by spinners, that low dry goods quotations were not attracting business and that there was sime inquiry for staple of certain lengths which were said to be in strong hands with the mill idea of prices considerably below that of the holders.

A private report now estimates the reduction in cotton acreage at 11.1 per cent, centering largely in Alabama, Texas, Oklahoma and the minor states of the western belt. The best parts of the belt are said to be in southern Texas where the crop got a fairly early start. The report said that about 86 per cent of the intended acreage had been planted and about 69 per cent of the planted acreage was up to a stand.

While the crop start is much later than the last five-year acreage, there is still time to make up lost ground if clear, warm weather is experienced.

HURLEY LAUDS WORK OF ARMY IN PEACE TIME

WASHINGTON, May 30. (US)—The peace time work of the army was described tonight in a radio address by Secretary of War Hurley, who spoke over the Columbia broadcasting system in the series of addresses being broadcast by members of the cabinet.

The secretary said the returns from the revenue-producing activities of the army are greater now than ever before.

In discussing what the army has done for industry he cited the canalisation of the Ohio river and said:

"Army engineers spent $120,000,000 on this piece of work and spent it well. They opened up for year-round traffic a 1,000-mile waterway from Pittsburgh to Cairo and gave it a premanent nine-foot channel. The shipments on that river are over 20,000,000 tons a year where in 1922 they were around 6,000,000 tons.

"The great lakes are being improved for increased transportation. The federal government has taken over the Illinois waterway from the state of Illinois and is proceeding rapidly in the work of connecting the great lakes with the Mississippi through the Illinois waterway and through the Mississippi to the gulf. With this connection, Chicago, Milwaukee, Duluth, Detroit, Cleveland and Buffalo will have water transportation to the sea.

"There is now a six-foot channel up the Mississippi as far as Minneapolis and St. Paul. Its depth is being increased to nine feet.

"The engineers are also at work on the establishment of reliable navigation on the Missouri. Eventually the Missouri will have a six-foot channel from the Mississippi through Kansas City, St. Joseph and Omaha to Sioux City.

"Steady progress is being made toward the completion of the intercoastal canals system, on the Atlantic and gulf coasts as far as Corpus Christi, Texas. Surveys beyond that point have been authorized."

YOUTH ADMITS HE KILLED POLICEMAN THREE BOYS HELD

CHICAGO, May 30. (AP)—A 13-year-old school boy admitted tonight, police said, he had slain policeman Edward Smith, when he and two companions were surprised by the officers while swimming in the pool at the John Marshall High school.

"I thought the 'cop' was going to shoot me, so I shot him first," police said the boy, Varner Corry, told them.

Varner, his brother, Earl, 11, and Schuyler Pearson, 13, were seized soon after the shooting upon information furnished by the son of a policeman, who lives near the school.

Smith was the father of four children.

"We were swimming in the pool when a woman and the policeman ordered us to come out," the Corry boy told them, police said. "He said he was to take us to the station. I got out and started to put on my clothes. My .22 caliber pistol dropped out of my pocket, and the policeman saw it. I though he was going to reach for his own gun and shoot, so I shot him first."

Officials said the policeman had been shot three times and his head and shoulders crushed. A blood stained baseball bat was found lying near the body.

Stratosphere Air Lane of Future Designer of First Over-Air Plane Says Piccard Balloon Flight Proves

(Copy't, 1931, by Universal Service, Inc.)

BERLIN, May 30. (US)—The balloon flight of Prof. Auguste Piccard and Dr. Charles Kipfer confirmed his own belief that the stormless stratosphere is the air lane of the future, Herr Asmus Hansen, designer of the first stratosphere plane, said today.

Hansen, a young German aircraft engineer, whose new plane is now nearing completion at the Junkers works in Dessau, declared:

"The stratosphere, 10 to 20 miles above the earth, will be the lane for fast, long-distance, transocean and round-world air travel before many years.

"Piccard's wonderful balloon flight and his meteorological observations in the stratosphere confirms the theory on which my plane is designed. He also demonstrated that the pressure-less space can be safely entered by mortals in properly constructed craft and with necessary safeguards of oxygen, heat and normal pressure. All these are provided for in my plane."

Though almost unknown, Hansen for four years was attached to German meteorological stations and has quite a record as an altitude flyer. He is certain that Piccard's achievement has brought aviation nearer the goal of a Berlin-to-New York flight in from eight to 10 hours.

Talks Reluctantly

Extremely reluctant to talk about his plane, Hansen said:

"Prof. Piccard achieved a feat of the greatest scientific importance to aviation, while I have not done anything that would justify my commenting.

"I am happy, however, that Piccard's results bear out my theories and studies and experience in lesser altitudes."

Hansen's plane has a wing spread of about 52 feet and a 19-foot propeller, the largest propeller of any plane in the world. The undercarriage is so tall that the front end of the fuselage is more than 12 feet from the ground.

Details of the plane's construction are being closely guarded, but it is known that the glass-windowed cabin is double-walled and that the glass has been specially treated to withstand pressure from within and little pressure from the outside.

The Piccard-Keifer flight served not only to encourage stratosphere aviation's school of thought but added impetus to inter-planetary rocket idea enthusiasts, who recently formed a league with headquarters in Berlin. Germany is the only country which has a rocket airdrome for test flights.

In Trinidad, there was four times as much petroleum produced last year as there was 10 years ago.

POPE PIUS XI HAS BIRTHDAY

Head of Catholic Church Will Be 74 Sunday

VATICAN CITY, May 30. (AP)—Pope Pius XI will be 74 years old tomorrow. The vigorous head of the Catholic church who, once an Alpine mountain-climber, still retains much of the strength of his youth, intends to celebrate his birthday quietly in the midst of a few relatives and the papal court.

Telegrams and cables of congratulation, including many from the United States, have begun to arrive. Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, will reply to them on the pontiff's behalf.

CONFERENCE TO SEEK AIR LINE EXPECTED SOON

High Hopes Held Here Of Obtaining Century Concern Service

MANAGER OF CONCERN PLANS EARLY RETURN

City and Chamber Officials Meet Executives During Wichita Visit

Conferences were expected to be held here during the latter part of this week between officials and members of the aviation committee of the chamber of commerce, city officials and interested business men and W. F. Bliss of Chicago, general manager of the Century airlines in connection with plans of that line to establish air service between Dallas and Chicago with possible inclusion of Wichita Falls on the route, according to information given here late Saturday.

Following a brief conference here Friday afternoon, Mr. Bliss departed for Chicago with the announced intention of returning probably during the week to further discuss plans of the airlines with particular reference to Wichita Falls.

Officials of the chamber expressed optimism following the conference Friday that the Wichita Falls chances of being made a stopping point are excellent, should the line be established.

The Century lines, it was explained, are controlled by E. L. McCord, president of the Auburn Motor company, which operates the plants in which Stinson airplanes and Lycoming motors are manufactured. The plane in which Mr. Bliss traveled was an 11-passenger Stinson powered by three Lycoming motors.

Plans of the Century lines, it was said, are to operate seven 11-passenger Stinson planes each way each day over the line at fares equaling or lower than those charged over railroads.

The plane in which Mr. Bliss was traveling was piloted by Robert Cantwell, former chief pilot of the Safeway lines and son of the late Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of city schools here for many years.

Order Disbanding All Catholic Youth Societies Extended to All of Italy Following Charges of Fascist Press

ROME, May 30. (US)—All Catholic youth organizations throughout Italy were ordered disbanded by Fascist authorities today.

The order followed recent charges by the Fascist press that the church organizations were preparing to take an active part in politics.

It placed an entirely new and more serious aspect on the two-month-old disagreement between the vatican and Fascismo, which during the early part of the week precipitated numerous Fascist attacks on Catholic individuals and church buildings.

Angered by this sudden and unforeseen development, Catholic leaders conferred with the papal nuncio accredited to the quirinal and were later received in special audience by Pope Pius XI. It is understood that the pontiff discussed the entire situation in detail, but if any decisions were arrived at they could not be learned.

The Fascist decree was followed in Rome by prompt police measures to see that it was enforced. A number of Catholic organizations were raided, their premises thoroughly searched, and an inventory made of all archives and documents. The doors of the buildings were then sealed.

Officials Silent

Both government and vatican officials were reticent to discuss the new development tonight.

It is the opinion in many quarters, however, that the vatican will regard the government's action as an abrogation of the Lateran treaty of 1929, by which the 50-year-old breach between the church and the Italian state was bridged and Pope Pius withdrew from the voluntary imprisonment in the vatican which four of his predecessors had assumed.

One road of protest open to the pope, one which Universal Service three days ago learned he is considering, is to order the gigantic bronze gates opening on the court of St. Damascus closed and to retire into at least a partial state of the voluntary imprisonment which he broke on the signing of the Lateran treaty.

The bronze gates, which connect the court of St. Damascus with the plaza of St. Peter, were first closed by Pope Pius IX, the first of the pontifs to go into seclusion.

Comedy by Felicia Metcalf Is Little Theater Guild Offering

By MABEL C. CLEMENT

"All Night Long," a comedy by Felicia Metcalf, to be presented by the Little Theater guild at the Little Theater playhouse June 3, 4, 5 and 6, as a benefit for the Woman's auxiliary of the Church of the Good Shepherd, promises the best of vacation entertainment. Those buying tickets for Monday and Tuesday evenings may use them on the above dates, it is announced. It affords excellent diversion and relaxation for brain-fagged clubwomen and tired business men at this season of the year.

The cast has been chosen from members of the Little Theater who have done outstanding work in performances the past year. Miss Olive Humphrey and Jack Chedester in the parts of Alex Vandeventer and Ted Blake Jr., sweethearts determined to escape an irate father and an equally angry president of the girl's boarding school long enough to get married complicate life for Mr. and Mrs. Smith played by Miss Avalon Rines and Woody Benher, a young couple just moved to the city to seek fame and fortune. Meek little Mr. Monroe, played by J. W. Thorne, and his shrew of a wife, Mrs. Edwin Bebb, further involve the Smiths in an all-night session with strangers. The Monroes are searching for diamond rings left when they vacated the house into which the Smiths have moved.

Harold White, the boarding school head, and Sidney Waghorne, the pompous father storm into the scene searching for the girl, Louis Bond, as a burly cop who gets locked up in a coal room for his interference in the affairs of youth. The play is being directed by Sidney Waghorn.

Every moment the play affords laughter and excitement. Mrs. A. K. Presson, an intimate friend of the author says:

"I have known Felicia Metcalf for a number of years and am delighted that the Little Theater guild has selected one of her plays for the next performance. Felicia Metcalf is a director as well as a writer of plays. She directed plays, pageants, etc., quite a while before she began the writing of plays. Writing and directing plays are her hobbies. Teaching is her profession and English is her specialty.

"Her enthusiasm for whatever work she is in is so marked that one can not help but feel it. Her personality is of that sparkling nature which one cannot forget. I do not suppose there was ever a student in Miss Metcalf's room who did not fall deeply in love with her and always maintained the greatest affection for her. Her belief and encouragement in the young people is unusual. She is one of them.

"It was largely through her encouragement that Lillian and Vera Reynolds got their start in Hollywood. It was in one of her plays that Vera got her first experience on the stage.

"Miss Metcalf is a young woman and will always be young for the spirit of youth and fun are a part of her. No play she has ever written has failed to reflect her sparkling interest in the joy of living. The play, "All Night Long," is no exception.

"I am so happy that the Little Theater people selected her play and I know that the citizens of Wichita Falls will enjoy every minute of it. The splendid cast will contribute its part toward making every performance a success."

Then follows a program of beautiful and varied singing and dancing; famous selections from grand and light opera; favorite romantic and popular ballads, giving a most interesting contrast. Brilliant and colorful costumes enliven the scene and add to the reality of the program.

Herbert), with Baldwin Montgomery of Wichita Falls. Miss Ralston will wear beautiful floral silk costume, varicolored, with very full skirt and beautiful lace jackets. Mrs. C. W. Coppock and A. C. MISS RUBY FAYE MYRICK HONOREE AT SHOWER

Complimenting Miss Rubye Faye Myrick, whose approaching marriage to Glenn Ross is announced to take place June 3, Mesdames Bert King and David Erickson entertained with a pretty party and miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. King Wednesday afternoon.

Roses and other garden flowers were used profusely in the decorations carrying out a color scheme of pink and gold, and the chair of the honoree was also beautifully decorated with the blossoms. Mrs. W. L. Ponder presided at a dainty bride's book where the guests registered as they arrived.

In the dining room the table was covered with a handsome gold lace cloth over pink satin and centered with bride's roses in the pink and gold. Lighted pink tapers tied with gold tulle were at each end.

The honoree was attractive in an afternoon gown of gold georgette over satin with gold slippers; her mother, Mrs. R. L. Myrick, wore black georgette with accessories to harmonize; Mrs. King wore a gown of blue and white georgette, and Mrs. Erickson wore a black and white model.

An entertaining program was opened with Mrs. J. M. Baber playing Lohengrin's Wedding March on the piano as Miss Myrick and her mother entered, after which he played Lasson's Crescendo. Little Miss Constance Clark gave two amusing readings, "Romance of a Hammock" and "The Bride's First Call on the Butcher." Mrs. Baber then played Shubert's Serenade. Mrs. F. L. Powell gave a clever toast to the bride-elect who responded in an appropriate manner.

After the program Constance Clark and Artie Neva King rolled in a doll buggy containing a prettily decorated box for the honoree containing many useful and beautiful gifts. Among them was a friendship quilt with the names of her friends embroidered on the squares and quilted by them.

An ice course carrying out the chosen color scheme was served and favors were rosebuds. The plate of the honoree was marked with a dainty cut glass bud vase containing pink rosebuds.

Those present were Miss Myrick, Mesdames W. L. Ponder, B. O. Howle, J. M. Baber, Maude Flowers, C. H. Fooshee, Glenn Dixon, J. D. Thweatt, Ross H. Pressley, F. L. Powell, Fred Morris, J. L. Fooshee, L. H. Franks, C. A. Gillaspia, Esta Beck, C. H. Foley, J. C. Mytinger, R. L. Myrick and Misses Nettie Maxine Baber, Jane Fooshee, Constance Clark, Nell Foley, Roberta King, Lucille King and Artie Neva King.

WICHITA FALLS RECORD-NEWS PATTERNS

There are two indispensable fashions every woman who is well dressed should include in her wardrobe. First a soft, graceful frock, for luncheons, bridge or afternoon teas, made of sheer silk or cotton and preferably a print. A model like the one sketched may even be smartly worn to informal suppers. Second, what is known as a sports frock, but is really a simple, washable moder suitable for mornings or for spectator as well as active sports events. These crisp dresses are particularly delightful this season in one of the cottons—dimity, broadcloth, shantung, pique, percale or linen. White, the pastels and tiny, separated prints are good. Of course, it is fine if one can have many frocks of each kind and the woman handy with her needle is blessed with this opportunity.

Pattern 1120

For every type of figure this lovely dress will prove just right. The flattering cowl vestee, the scalloped seaming of skirt flare and the graceful capelet sleeves are features new and interesting. Tiny, horizontal, waistline tucks replace a belt, although you may wear one if it is more becoming. Pattern 1120 may be ordered only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch material.

Pattern 1121

A youthful model, simple in detail and smart in effect, has pointed yoke with V neck front and back. These points are repeated in the joining of the skirt flare. A leather belt chosen to match the color of the printed design, adds a chic touch. Buttons are a favored trimming. Pattern 1121 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 2⅞ yards of 36-inch fabric.

Pattern 1074

The junior miss also has distinctive frocks for summer, especially lovely made of the sheer cottons in vogue. Pattern 1074 with its gracefully flared collar and tiered skirt may be worn with or without a sash, and by the way, either velvet or grosgrain ribbon is smart for belts. This model makes up beautifully in eyelet-embroidered batiste, organdie, georgette, lawn or swiss. It may be ordered only in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14. Size 10 requires 3⅛ yards of 36-inch fabric.

These models are very easy to make as each pattern comes to you with simple and exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern ordered.

Send for the spring and summer catalog of fashions. It features a wide assortment of delightful afternoon models, house dresses, lingerie, pajamas, clothes for the kiddies and accessory patterns. The catalog is 15 cents when ordered alone. Catalog and pattern together, 25 cents. Address all mail and orders to The Record News Pattern department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

Her sister, Miss Mary MacAtee, will be maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Grace Moffett Stewart, Miss Margaret Olmstead, Miss Ida Louise Raymond of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Jennings Bailey Jr.

Welcomed to the ranks of diplomacy will be H. O. Chalkley, who will arrive in town the latter part of this week accompanied by his wife and their son and daughter. Mr. Chalkley will succeed Sir John Joyce Broderick as commercial counselor of the British embassy. For the past 10 years Mr. Chalkley has been serving his country as commercial counselor at Buenos Aires.

The ambassador of Great Britain, Sir Ronald Lindsay, will be host at dinner Wednesday evening in celebration of the birthday anniversary of King George V of England.

ZOE BECKLEY'S CORNER

She Could

"Dear Zoe: The first time I met her she seemed to care a lot. Then I saw her three times in two months and she acted differently. Could she possibly be made to care for me any more? And how? —DISAPPOINTED."

I love to answer this question; it's so nice and easy, and Saturday is a half-holiday!

ZOE BECKLEY

I mean it's easy for a boy to win almost any girl who isn't tied up definitely to some one else.

He has only to be (1) immaculate in clothes and appearance. Nails nice, collar fresh, shoes shined, and smell of a bath tub. (2) Attentive. A fellow need be nothing at all to look at and no shining light in conversation either. He may not be a Henry Ford nor yet a William Shakespeare. Money and brains aren't in it with lovemaking. Girls love to be loved. Now this doesn't mean slobbered over and squeezed to a pulp. It means the look. The politness. The thousand and one little services and sweetnesses women adore. (3) He must be dependable; any boy can be that. He must keep dates scrupulously, work, save—and know how to spend sensibly.

Now go ahead and win.

Pre-Marital Spanks

"Dear oZe: I am 19 and engaged. What worries me is that my fiance recently got mad because I was 'over-painted.' Another time he saw me kiss a boy, argued, quarreled and finally actually spanked me. This may sound childish, but I love him. He doesn't seem cruel, is kind to me and loves children. —PATTY."

If you really loved him, and were grown up enough to contemplate marriage, I should think you could avoid doing things that rouse his ire and result in your eating your meals from the mantel-piece. I've seen many a girl I thought needed a few good, healthy spanks. But somehow the idea of them being administered by a fiance isn't quite pleasing. I sense something a little wrong with the picture. You're a kid, I fear, who is not yet ripe for marriage. Trouble ahead. Detour!

Oh, Not So Very

"Dear Zoe: I am influenced in everything by my mother. She has taught me it is degrading to let a young man kiss you. I sometimes wonder if she is always right. Do you think—if he is a very nice young man—a kiss is wrong or harmful? —V. W."

Pre-war standards have altered. Mother is thinking and measuring by pre-war standards. Much of her advice and teaching is splendid, I'll guarantee. But I'd be laughed at from here and there if I shook an angry finger at you and said, "Naughty, naughty! Never kiss." Young folks do kiss. It's all in the way it's done, who does it, and how much, that matters. Trust your conscience and intelligence. The harm in kissing is when it is extreme. Kiss and run. Atta girl!

Wagon to a Star

"Dear Zoe: I had to leave school at 14. Can a girl 19 return and work her way to the end? How could I get a part time job, or a job for board and room? I do odd painting. Could I use this somehow to help pay for books? I've had a hard home life and want to be something besides a factory girl or store clerk.

—KNOWLEDGE THIRSTY."

Fine, old kid! Grand! You'll get there! Most certainly a girl can go back to school and work her way to the end. Consult the high school principal for suggestions. Get a half-day job at some bakery or other shop that's busy in the afternoons. Take care of children evenings, when parents are out, etc. Colleges have extension courses. Your painting might help in many ways. Inquire of the dean or supervisor. Don't give up. You'll land.

Troubles Enough

"Dear Zoe: My father is my worry and problem. He has served a term in jail, has always been a drinker, often cruel to mother and generally a nuisance. Now he has taken to smoking some sort of dope. Things are so awful home that although mother is a darling, and cries and begs papa to be good for our sakes, I shall leave home the minute I am 18. Father is handsome and magnetic but weak. —D. H."

Pretty hard to deal with dishonesty, drink and drugs. Have you tried "begging father to be good for your sake and mother's?" Often a bad man longs to be good and can be helped by having some one to be good for. Try to get at him through your natural love and sweetness. Tell him you believe in him and want him to be strong, as he was meant to be. Don't get discouraged if there is no result immediately. Stick.

On no account be disheartened. No matter what your home life is now, remember you are young, healthy, intelligent and able to carve out a future for yourself full of success and happiness. Often a girl's unhappiness at home stimulates her to reach out and become whatever she longs to. Why not join mother in dreaming a little dream for yourselves? In case dad should fail you (which I don't think he will) why not you and mother make the fight together and work for freedom and a home?

But see what you can do with dad first.

by MARGERY HALE

© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC

When Sue saw Sybil standing over her, with a revolver in one hand and a flashlight in the other, her first impulse was to scream. But she quieted that. If she did Sybil would shoot.

"At last, Sue Merryman, I have you where I want you," Sybil said. "You can't get away. Your game is up. So you thought you would marry Jack, did you? That is one of the dreams that can't come true!

"He's going to die. I don't know about you. Life might be harder for you without him. Still . . . I think on the whole it would be rather nice to send you trailing after him."

"Sybil, you're crazy. Put down that gun!" Sue said, wondering from where she was getting her boldness. "Don't do anything idiotic. You'll have to die for it." Curiosity, a strange, freakish kind, got the better of her for a second. "Where did you hide after you shot Clifford?"

"In the basement. I leaned through the window of the sun porch to do the work. Then I slid down the basement window. And nobody looked. Blind of the detectives, wasn't it? Stupid work. I'll keep you covered, but if you don't mind I'll stop being sociable. I want to spot the right man when he comes. I would hate to shoot the wrong one."

Sue didn't answer. She stood up, though, straight and slim in the pink and blue dress.

"Leander and Hero died together when the Hellespont marathon didn't get across," Sybil's voice went on spinning sinister witchery. "Maybe you are thinking up some sort of stunt to do after Jack gets his bullet. You might be like Dido, the queen that couldn't get Aeneas. She burned herself to cinders. Or Cleopatra. She used an asp when Anthony forgot the muddy road up the Nile. Take your choice."

Sue could tell by the very carelessness of Sybil's words that the girl was delirious or demented. Maybe both. She was trying to be melodramatic. She was enjoying her role.

And down the road the lights of a car flashed, and went by in a minute, but Sue couldn't scream for she knew that there would be a click from the revolver and she would be the second to die from Sybil's weapon. She would have to wait until help was near, then throw herself on Sybil, very quickly, trusting and hoping that the revolver would not go off. She counted on her own slim strength against Sybil's weakness to help her carry off the battle. Sybil was still convalescing from her flesh wound.

Sue wondered where the girls had gone. They should be back by now. Then she saw them through the living room windows. She hoped that they would miss her and search for her.

"I think we will go into the basement. There's a window that will make a good shooting spot," Sybil said finally. "Follow ahead and go where I tell you to or I'll shoot. My revolver happens to be soundless so nobody will know where you are."

Sue walked in front of her through the garden, down the steps to the basement, through the recreation room with its ping-pong table, billiard table, fireplace and all the other things which made it a social center. The long fruit cellar was next, and finally they came to the laundry. Sybil took up her station and Sue sat down by the wall. She tried to get near the window but Sybil refused to let her. As it was, Sue couldn't see Jack when he came.

Her eyes searched the room frantically. Then suddenly she saw the thing she wanted.

Next Sue struggles with Sybil.

FAST FRISCO TRAIN HITS LARGE BOULDER

ST. LOUIS, May 30. (AP)—The Meteor, fast Frisco passenger train from Oklahoma and Texas points, struck a large boulder which fell on the tracks from the bluffs near Mincke, a Meramec river station today but serious damage was averted by prompt action of the engine crew. No one was injured.

Fireman Sam Yanskey caught sight of the boulder as the train, traveling about 45 miles an hour, rounded a curve. He shouted a warning to Engineer W. J. Donohoe, who applied the emergency brakes and reduced the speed before the locomotive struck the boulder which was about 20 feet long and 10 feet in diameter. The locomotive pilot split the rock. Passengers were shaken by the short stop.

WAR, POLITICS, UNNECESSARY GARMENTS, DISEASE, AND CRIME NOT IN GLOOMY DEAN'S UTOPIA

LONDON, May 30. (AP)—The Very Rev. William Ralph Inge, "gloomy dean" of St. Paul's cathedral, hopes that in a thousand years England will be a land in which there are neither rumors of war nor politics nor disease nor crime nor many clothes.

In fact, he told the Royal institution last night, "if we want it" there will in 3,000 A. D. be a population of only 20,000,000, living mostly in towns and villages, physical perfection will be the hallmark of social prestige, national taxation will be almost nil, hours of labor will be at a minimum, radio will be the principal method of education—but the common cold still will be a menace.

The vision of a Utopia was introduced into a scientific lecture, he said, "chiefly in self protection, because there is a legend, quite without foundation, that I am fond of finding fault with society as it is without having anything better to suggest in place of it."

"No persons are allowed to have children without certificates of bodily and mental fitness," he said continuing his forecasts. "But since inheritable and mental defects have been almost eradicated and since there is no recklessly breeding submerged class, very little interference with personal liberty is necessary.

Rational Costume

"Physical perfection is cultivated and a rational costume for both sexes—cheap, becoming and scanty, at least for the young—enables beauty to be recognized in the body as well as in the face. The ordinary male dress is a tunic, over which a cloak may be thrown in cold weather. In summer sunbathing is encouraged and no idea of indecency is attached to it.

"War has been entirely abolished and all tariff walls. The nations of the world remain distinct and independent but their emulation is friendly, like that of the countries at cricket or the public schools. Since there are no wars, no army or navy, no national debt, no foreign politics and no doles or class-bribery by taxation, the functions of the central government are almost nominal."

Other predictions were: There are no lawyers. Crime is very rare and is never punished by imprisonment. Wireless (radio) has partially superseded lectures and concerts. Distant lands may be visited during a week-end by airplane.

WATER SPORTS CLOWN WILL DO STUNTS SUNDAY

Jukes, widely known clown of water sports, will perform at Westmoreland swimming pool this afternoon, in a program starting at 5 p. m. The program is planned in connection with the opening of the pool for the 1931 season. The pool was opened Saturday, with a number of swimmers braving the inclement weather.

Music by Paul Seeds' band will also be a feature of today's program, to which the public is invited.

In addition to a number of comic stunts, Jukes performs a feat said to be undertaken by no other swimming expert. It is a 30-foot dive, with the diver's hands tied and his eyes blind-folded.

Less spectacular but equally entertaining are his demonstration of "how to get drowned easily," his take-offs of other divers and swimmers and his demonstration of life-saving stunts.

PARISIAN TO OPEN WEDNESDAY IN NEW LOCATION ON NINTH

The Parisian, woman's ready to wear shop, closed its business on Indiana avenue Saturday night and Wednesday morning will open its store in the new location, 711 Ninth street, or in the building formerly occupied by the Lovelace Book store.

Mrs. Augusta South, owner of the Parisian, stated Saturday that the new store will open with absolutely new merchandise. The shop's buyer, Miss Jess Wilson, has just returned from New York City, where she spent 10 days purchasing new merchandising. It is said by Miss Wilson that the new creations will be of interest to women who prefer the smartest things to wear and that indications are that the store will be crowded with many out-of-towns buyers on its opening day and throughout the week-end.

The new store building has been completely overhauled and redecorated. New fixtures have been installed, and the store will be much more modern than the old store and merchandise will be displayed to its best advantage.

Officials said about 20 changes would be made soon.

PITTSBURGH, May 30.—The Presbyterian church in the U. S. A. virtually was cut off from the Federated Council of Churches today when the assembly here eliminated from the budget $18,500, representing their participation funds in the council.

The action followed voice disapproval of the council's attitude toward birth control.

NEIGHBOR SOUGHT FOR DUAL KANSAS SLAYING

WINCHESTER, Kan., May 30. (AP)—Charles Richardson, a farmer, and his son, Charles Richardson Jr., were shot to death today and William Hunsucker, truck farmer, was sought by sheriff's deputies and police as the slayer.

Marvin Mallory, a young farm hand employed by Richardson, said the double killing resulted after the Richardsons quarreled with Hunsucker about leaving gates open.

TWO KILLED EN ROUTE TO DECORATE GRAVE

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., May 30. (INS)—On their way to a cemetery here to decorate the grave of a relative, Mrs. Edward T. RICHARDSON WINS SUIT FOR TAXES ON ARCHER ROYALTIES

OLNEY, Texas, May 30.—A tax suit which has attracted considerable interest in the North Texas oil district was settled in Judge Ollie Newton's court at Seymour this week when Archer county lost its suit against J. T. Richardson, prominent ranch and royalty owner of Young county.

The suit involved a sum of $14,000 for taxes on the Richardson properties and was first tried before Judge P. A. Martin, acting as special judge of the 30th district court at Archer City last year. Before the decision was rendered by the judge, attorneys for Archer county took non-suit and the case was refiled and transferred to Baylor county.

The defense claimed the assessment was unjust and unequal as compared to the assessed value of land and livestock and the case was submitted to the jury on special issues. The jury answered all the issues in favor of the defendant and the judge ruled in favor of Richardson. The case was watched with keen interest, as its outcome was important to all royalty owners of Archer county.

Judge Martin sat on the bench for the original trial when Judge Allan Montgomery disqualified himself because of having previously served as counsel for one of the litigants in the case. Testimony in the original case was heard at Archer City and arguments were made before Judge Martin in Wichita Falls.

Bandits Wound Victim to Show Meant Business

PITTSBURGH, May 30. (AP)—Twenty-five men were lined up, their faces to the wall, by three robbers in a Renton pool room early today.

One of the holdup men singled out George Pokuski, 23, and shot him in the throat.

As Pokuski lay writhing on the floor, one of the robbers announced: "That's just in case any of you guys think we don't mean business."

Then the trio took money, jewelry and other belongings, even lead pencils, from the men.

As they were leaving, John Ronaco, 22, remonstrated with the holdup men. One of them turned and shot Ronaco.

Pokuski and Ronaco are in a serious condition in a hospital.

The robbers fled in an automobile.

Police were unable to learn the amount of the loot, but yesterday was payday at the Renton mines and all of the men were carrying considerable sums of money, detectives said.

In the United States last year, the chemical exports and imports balanced for the first time in many years, each being valued at approximately $172,000,000.

Six Cardinals Head Pious Procession Of Atonement in Honor of Joan of Arc Through Crowded Streets of Rouen

ROUEN, France, May 30. (AP)—In honor of St. Joan of Arc, the girl in her teens who liberated 15th century France, and who was burned at the stake for heresy, the high clergy of the Catholic church and the leading civic and military authorities of France today united in a pious procession of atonement.

For the first time in a quarter of a century, since the separation of church in this country, 80 ranking prelates, each accompanied by two canons, trod their solemn way through the streets of Rouen in full ecclesiastical regalia before crowds of men who bared their heads and women who made the sign of the cross.

After them came the representatives of the central government, the municipality, the "constituted corps" such as the magistrates, generals, admirals, mayors of nearby townships, and patriotic societies.

Six cardinals, in "cappa magna" or ceremonial capes, led the line of march. France was represented by their eminences of Paris and Lille, Verdier and Lienart. Belgium was there in the person of Cardinal Van Roey, archbishop of Malines, successor to the late Cardinal Mercier.

As a crowning touch came the pope's own legate, Cardinal Bourne, archbishop of Westminster and primate of British Catholicism.

At twilight, the "sacred flame" below Joan's monument will be rekindled by the Rouen school children. In the course of the evening the municipality will convey to the French naval cadets a commemorative plaque to be affixed to the cruiser Jeanne d'Arc.

The government of Argentine has prohibited the exportation of scrap metals, in an effort to establish an iron and steel manufacturing industry.

The first country hydro-electric plant was built in Crisp county, Georgia.

TWO DROWN WHEN HEAT DRIVES CALIFORNIANS TO SWIMMING POOLS

MARYSVILLE, Calif., May 30. (AP)—A man and a woman were drowned in Sutter county last night as the heat drove many to swimming pools.

Mrs. Dolly Anderson, 20, was drowned at Meridian when she leaped into the Feather river to rescue her small son. The boy was saved.

James Wrenn, 25, a laborer, was drowned while swimming in a canal near Robbins.

ROOSEVELT THE YOUNGER

Governor Theodore Roosevelt of Porto Rico seems to be edging farther and farther toward the center of the Republican picture. With the Republican leadership realizing that Vice President Curtis is not exactly an asset to the party, the younger Roosevelt is prominent among the possibilities for second place on the 1932 ticket. As a New Yorker, he would be a logical choice, from the regional point of view, as running-mate of a Californian. Ostensibly a dry, he has not been earnest enough or active enough in behalf of prohibition to give offense to the wets. It is not at all unlikely that 1932 will see him given the nomination his father was given 32 years before.

He has made an excellent record as governor of Porto Rico, and his sojourn in that colony has kept him out of the entanglements that have been so embarrassing to other prominent Republicans. Even if he were not a man of considerable ability, his name would be an asset to the party.

In the only race for office he ever made, he didn't make an impressive showing. He was the Republican nominee for governor of New York in 1924, and he ran 300,000 votes behind Coolidge. True, Al Smith was his opponent, but that fact does not account fully for Roosevelt's poor showing. He spoiled whatever chance he may have had by making charges for which he could offer no proof.

It was as assistant secretary of the navy, however, that his ghastliest blunder was made. The Elk Hills oil lease deal, with all the rottenness that it involved, was consummated right under his nose. There was not the slightest suspicion that he was a party to it; he emerged unsullied. But he failed utterly to sense what was going on, until too late. He muffed a glorious opportunity to block the deal when he viewed it as a perfunctory and routine matter. It was a chance to live up to the name he bore, and he let it slip.

The truth about him is that he has his father's ambition, without his father's courage or his father's ability to lead. It is to another Roosevelt that the country is looking.

OUTGROWING A JOB

Men who are too big for the jobs they hold are scarce. Usually, the man who is as big as his job gets a bigger one. The job has a way of growing with the man who is big enough to let it.

Paul L. Tyson, football coach at Waco for many years, has decided that his job is too small for him. It is one of the rare instances in which such a decision is a correct one. He is going to study for a year and then try for a college coaching job. Most students of football would say that a coach whose teams have won as many championships as Tyson's have is ready for college coaching. Tyson doesn't think so.

One imagines that real estate values in Waco dropped appreciably when the news of Tyson's departure became known. He has been one of the biggest assets that city has had. Partly because he knew how to train winning teams, partly because of the wholesome influence he exerted upon the city's youth.

We hope that he finds a job big enough. He isn't a small man.

THE GANGSTER MOVIE

It is occasion for neither surprise or tears that the type of movie which deals with the gangster and racketeer is losing its box office appeal and that Hollywood is turning to other devices. We have seen a number of the gangster pictures, finding none that were noteworthy, none that differed importantly from the one we had seen the week before. The gangster pattern of movies is much like the western pattern. There may be variations of the main theme, but the theme itself is as standardized as steel rails.

One big trouble with the gangster stories, it seems to us, is that so few of the characters coincide with the popular conception of underworld chieftains. We never saw a real live gangster, so far as we know, and neither did 99 per cent of the movie's patrons. But we know what we think a gangster or racketeer should look like, and it is something quite different from the screen portrayal. Somehow, the producers and directors never succeeded in making Slugs Bolloni or Pineapple Pete look mean enough. These characters always gave the impression of being bookkeepers, or soda dispensers or something like that, instead of conforming to the accepted pattern.

In a western thriller, anybody with a Stetson hat, chaps and a pistol is an acceptable cowboy. Racketeers are different. Perhaps that is one reason why Hollywood is turning its attention to other types of pictures. Whatever the reason, there should be no regrets.

INEVITABLE

We trust the French are not too resentful of the fact that an American mayor violated the beautiful custom prescribed for visitors to the tomb of the unknown soldier. The custom is to maintain silence; to deposit one's wreath, render one's gesture of reverence in one's own way, and say nothing. But when the mayors visited the tomb, one of them just had to make a speech.

It was embarrassing to the French, of course, but they should not take it too seriously, especially after having had the mayors in their midst for several days. For if there is one thing that the average mayor loves to do, it is to orate. Under changing methods of municipal government that is about all that is left for many mayors to do.

It was inevitable that, with all the visitors that the tomb has, the rule should be broken, sooner or later. It was scarcely less inevitable that an American would be the one to break it.

A CITIZEN WHO WASN'T ONE

Michele Schirru, who was executed at Rome Friday morning, following conviction on a charge of plotting against the life of Mussolini, was an American citizen. Apparently he held his citizenship rather lightly. He continued an active interest in Italian affairs, was more concerned about his native land than about his adopted one. Whether he was actually guilty of the crime with which he was charged is open to some doubt; the fact remains that he continued, after being naturalized, to be more of an Italian than an American. That fact must serve to temper the regrets occasioned by his fate. Citizenship is not for those who divide their allegiance.

Seven Deadly Sins

By GLENN FRANK
President of University of Wisconsin and Former Editor of the Century Magazine
(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

Margery Lawrence, in a recent issue of Brittania and Eve, suggested a modernized version of the anèient list of the seven deadly sins.

The ancient list ran: (1) gluttony; (2) sloth; (3) avarice; (4) pride; (5) lust; (6) wrath; (7) envy.

Miss Lawrence—a little too gibly, I think—suggests that most of these sins are today comparatively easy to avoid.

Vanity, she suggests, has put gluttony to rout as far as the feminine contingent, eager for slenderness, is concerned.

The tempo of modern life makes sloth difficult to practice.

And in days of world-wide depression, avarice, lust and pride cost too much money to be generally popular sins.

In place of the ancient list, Miss Lawrence suggests the following modernized list:

(1) Self-advertisement.
(2) False vice.
(3) Self-pity.
(4) Cheap cynicism.
(5) Laziness.
(6) Wanting something-for-nothing.
(7) Restless lack of concentration.

Miss Lawrence brilliantly indicts the modern individual for those seven deadly sins, but they interest me as sins the nation will do well to shun in its national thought and action.

Now, as never before, the natien cannot afford the luxury either of self-pity or of cheap cynicism. There is no need to cry over milk that has been spilled. The economic follies of 1929 and before is a show on which we must ring down the curtain for good and all; we must not waste one moment or one mite of energy on self-pity; we must devise a new plot, and put the new show into prompt rehearsal; and now, as never before, we must shun the suicidal mood of cynicism; we must become great believers in the possibility of great and fruitful national action.

We have certainly learned by now—thanks to our experience with the groundless hopes we held in our orgy of speculation—that neither as individuals or as a nation can we expect to get something-for-nothing.

And, finally, we must pull ourselves together for sustained concentration on the task of evolving a coherent economic plan for the nation, for with our magnificently efficient machine order, if we really put our wits to it, we can assuredly whip our economic order into shape to take full advantage of our machine order's efficiency.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Woe unto you that are rich!—St. Luke 6:24.

Riches, honors and pleasures are the sweets which destroy the mind's appetite for its heavenly food.—Bishop Horne.

ROUGHLY SPEAKING

The Difference

The graduate, full of ambition,
With hope and with fervor athrob,
Who thought he'd accept a position
Is ready now to take a job.

The difference being, roughly speaking, about two hours a day and fifty dollars a month.

The U. S. treasury deficit has passed the billion dollar mark. It takes the Republicans to do things in a big way.

The little boy who was called a hypocrite because he pretended to like to go to school has grown up into the man who has to pretend that he enjoys recitals.

Service

One of the consistent aims of this colyum is to be helpful and instructive. Its chief purpose, of course, is to amuse. But if, as a by-product, it can render a service to its customers, its conductor finds joy in the serving.

It has occurred to us that, in a time like this, when everybody has to economize a little, we can be helpful to those who are planning automobile trips this summer. Our idea is to show how one can have practically all the experiences of an automobile trip, but without leaving home. This would save a great deal of time and money, to say nothing of wear and tear on the disposition. It is possible, by means of this plan, to leave the remaining 13 days of one's vacation free for such diversions as cleaning out the garage, painting the back porch and performing the other tasks that husbands are always going to do but never getting around to.

We have worked out this plan carefully and systematically, from both observation and experience, and we believe that those who adopt it will find that it meets the problem. No doubt there are many readers who can suggest changes and additions in the plan and we will be glad to have such suggestions and to pass them onto our patrons.

The Equipment

The equipment for this vacation plan, which, when we work it all out in detail, will be patented under the name of the John Gould Stay-at-Home Vacation System, is very simple. It involves nothing that cannot be found in the ordinary home.

Take as many chairs as there are members of the family, less one. That is, if there are five in the family, use four chairs. Arrange these, two in front and the others just behind them, to represent the seats of an automobile. In between the front and back chairs place two suitcases and a handbag, a thermos jug, two sofa cushions, a basket, some assorted toys. Do not be afraid of putting too many things into the space, because it detracts from the realism of the adventure to put too few. The general idea is to put enough so that there is no chance of anybody being able to put his or her legs in a comfortable position.

When the chairs have been arranged and the other things put in place, get the house ready for the suppositious departure. That is, make a stab at getting it ready. Then have everybody get into their seats. Spend five minutes explaining to little Oswald why it is out of the question for him to take his tricycle. This explanation should be interrupted at intervals by the wife saying, "O, come on! Let's get started."

The start is then made and for five minutes the members of the party imagine that they are on their way. Then the wife suddenly gives a little shriek and says, "Are you sure you turned out the gas under the heater?" And the husband says, "Why, no, you said you were going to," followed by an argument as to who said they would, and winding up by turning around and pretending to go back. Then it is discovered that the gas, somehow or other, got itself turned off.

Just a Little Imagination

The second imaginary start is made and 10 or 12 imaginary miles are covered, before Ermintrude discovers that she has forgotten her camera. Another argument, another imaginary turning around and several minutes elapse when it is discovered that the camera is in the car, right behind the vacuum jug.

Without going too much into detail, we shall set forth some of the happenings that must be staged in order that the make-believe may have all the earmarks of actuality.

The water jug is emptied, partially by drinking, partially by spilling, and is refilled with some lugubrious-looking water which looks, tastes and smells as if a bunch of typhoid germs were having an Old Home Week reunion in it.

Every few minutes, one of the children should speak up and say, "Daddy, will you stop at that place yonder and buy me a nice cream cone?"

Also every few minutes, the wife wants to know if you are sure this is the right road, and didn't that man back at the filling station say to turn to the left after you passed the big white house, and are you sure you had the spare pumped up before you left, and she just knows the kids from next door are trampling all over the flowerbeds and why didn't you remind her to phone about the missionary meeting? This part of the make-believe need not be worked out too fully in advance. Just leave it to her disposition and temperament.

At Night

After as much of this as you can stand, you pretend to stop for the night at a wayside tourist camp. The ordinary bedroom can readily be converted into a tourist camp by putting some empty bottles under the bed, and scattering a centipede or two casually amid the furniture. Imitation centipedes will do, the important thing to remember being to have the youngest child try to pick one up and being rescued just in time. A meal of unusually greasy hamburgers and luke-warm soda pop should precede retiring.

There is a lot more to our plan, but this will suffice to give the general idea. One thing not to be overlooked is to have plenty of Graham crackers along; we were about to forget that, and it is important. One day of this imaginary trip, calculate, is enough to demonstrate its advantages. And just look at the saving!

The oil business needs more prorating and less orating.

Bamboo Shoots

There are a number of foods which have been used since time immemorial in China and Japan which have not yet attained much recognition in this country. Among the most valuable of these may be found bamboo shoots which are a favorite succulent vegetable in both China and Japan. The young shoots of the larger varieties of bamboo are usually selected for eating. They resemble in appearance, though much larger, the shoots of the asparagus plant. Large specimens may be several inches in diameter and weigh several pounds. The most tender part grows underneath the surface, and for this reason they are usually dug out and broken off. They may be banked with earth in a similar manner to asparagus to produce a greater length of underground shoots.

The flavor, which resembles the artichoke, and the firm, solid flesh, are highly attractive, making these shoots a valuable addition to the ordinary non-starchy vegetables. There are a number of different methods of preparing them, the simplest manner being to boil them in plain water. Afterwards they may be flavored with butter or other sauce. They may also be cut into thin slices and "French fried" in oil until cooked. They may also be added to soups and stews, boiled and salted and dried, or pickled or candied.

The bamboo is really a tree of the grass family and in its native country a grove of the large type may resemble a forest. The smaller species grow bush-like in the shade of the larger trees. The edible fruits of the different species may differ greatly, some having the appearance of grain, others nuts, and others fruits. Seeds of some species are edible. In this country they rarely develop into maturity.

In any of the larger cities of America it is possible to secure the canned bamboo shoots, and in those cities where are are Chinese markets it is possible to buy shoots in a variety of forms.

Bamboo shoots make an interesting addition to our common foods, and although they are more expensive than most of our non-starchy vegetables, I think it is a good plan to use such foods occasionally in order to vary the diet and keep our meals as interesting as possible.

Those who try living on diets which I suggest in this column will often feel a lonesomeness for foods such as the starches, but those who substitute a sufficient quantity of the non-starchy vegetables will not notice the loss of starches so much. I believe that one of the greatest dietetic errors which practically every one makes is to use too large an amount of starchy foods. You will find it easier to stay on a well balanced diet if you will try to vary the kinds of vegetables used. This will make it easier to keep down the quantity of such foods of high caloric value, as the proteins and starches.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Blepharitis

Question: R. K. Asks—"What causes the eyelashes, eyebrows, etc., to fall out and the eyelids to remain more or less inflamed?"

Answer—There is a disease called blepharitis which affects the glands and follicles of the eyelashes with itching and scaling. The usual causes are: Unhygenic surroundings, acidosis, exposure to dust, gas fumes, lack of sleep, lack of cleanliness of the eyes, nasal affections, and the need of glasses. Of course there are a number of other diseases which may affect the eyelashes in the manner you describe, but I could not determine this without an examination. Only an examination would tell whether the condition is caused by local disease or some systematic affection, as from the thyroid gland, etc.

Sulphur and Molasses

Question—W. B. F. writes: "I would appreciate your advising me whether or not the old-fashioned remedy of sulphur and molasses is good for constipation and purifying the blood and if it is injurious in any way?"

Answer—The mixture of sulphur and molasses is a sort of laxative but cannot be considered particularly beneficial. The fruit fast is far superior for cleansing the blood stream and can be considered a good natural tonic.

Blue Spots

Question—B. F. H. writes: "What would cause blue spots to appear on my flesh, even when I am not conscious of having been touched by anything which would cause a bruise?"

Answer—You should have a careful examination, as the tendency to turn blue is often a very serious condition denoting a weakness of the walls of the blood vessels. You surely need a diet rich in vitamins and organic salts, such as are found in the non-starchy vegetables, especially when used uncooked.

DAILY HEALTH TALK

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

There are many diseases that constantly occur in the mouth. In addition, the mouth is subject to the effects of diseases affecting the body generally.

Diseases that are particularly mouth diseases include pyorrhea, which usually begins about middle age and which may be responsible for the loss of most of the teeth; dental decay, which may be particularly a disease of children and young adults; abscesses at the roots of the teeth, which occur at all ages; Vincent's disease or Vincent's angina, sometimes called trench mouth.

The studies that have been made on dental decay in recent years indicate that if the teeth are kept clean, if the person eats a proper diet with adequate amounts of vitamins A, B, C and D, and if suitable dental care is given to the teeth at least once each year, dental caries is extremely unlikely to occur.

Pyorrhea is an infectious condition caused by a germ which gets into the spaces between the teeth, which develop in decomposing particles and which attack the gums where the defense is broken down by injury or abrasion.

Germs getting into the teeth through cavities may form abscesses at the roots of the teeth. It is quite possible for such germs to be brought to the roots of the teeth by way of the blood and thus to set up disturbances.

Trench mouth is ulceration of the tops of the gums caused by germs which live best where there is no oxygen. For this reason, one of the best methods of prevention and treatment of trench mouth is the proper use of sodium perborate, which is mildly antiseptic and which develops oxygen.

In addition to the conditions that are particularly diseases of the mouth, many general diseases, such as tuberculosis, cancer and syphilis, and various forms of poisoning, such as from lead, mercury and bismuth, may affect the mouth, causing the teeth to fall out and associated with the development of ulcers.

Thus the person who attempts to treat diseases of the mouth must have not only a complete knowledge of the structure of the mouth, jaws and teeth, but also of diseases in general. For this reason, a specialty has developed in medicine called stomatology, dealing particularly with diseases of the mouth. Moreover, good dentists and good physicians work together constantly to control conditions which demand the special knowledge that both may apply to the situation.

Many Seek Licenses

WASHINGTON.—A report from the medical division, aeronautics branch of the U. S. department of commerce, shows that 8,459 applicants for pilots' licenses were examined during the three months of 1931 ending March 31. Since the service was inaugurated, 110,225 applicants have been examined.

Frank Seals of Hartley county has gotten 88 cents per bushel for wheat fed to pigs. Skim milk valued at 4 cents per gallon balanced the ration, and the hogs figured seven cents per pound. Demonstrations up there show it still pays to feed wheat to hogs, even at the low prices hogs are bringing.

IN NEW YORK
with Gilbert Swan

NEW YORK.—It may or may not interest you to know that Vivian Gordon, "Legs" Diamond and "Two-Gun" Crowley share honors this year among the figures in Coney Island's "waxworks" show.

This is one carnival enterprise that always manages to keep pace with the newspaper high spots. It is, in fact, as mercurial as a headline. Today's murder is today's headline and tomorrow's wax-works show.

Each gory incident is recorded for those cash customers who season after season are drawn by presentations of the most morbid and brutal events. Don't ask me why the public pays its money to gaze upon grisly reproductions of hangings, electrocutions, stabbings, carvings and shootings. The fact remains that the wax-works goes unmerrily on, while many a merrier show gives up the ghost.

Fickle, too, is this public. Two seasons ago the crowd thronged to see a waxen replica of the Snyder-Gray case. Gangsters came along to provide a never-ending change. The St. Valentine's shooting of a dozen persons in Chicago is still a prize touch. Jake Lingle's end was memorialized almost overnight.

For there is a stockroom what is a stockroom at the wax-works. Any one from a president to a gangster can be reproduced almost on a moment's notice. A false mustache here, a beard there and a little twist of the hair; a newspaper picture of the scene and—presto—the Sunday crowds are greeted by gaudy banners announcing the latest shocker.

And even at a date so early in the season, consider that 500,000 people hit for the Coney sands and walks.

This is multiplied by two or more when the days get warmer. Quite a sizeable population—a million or more persons turned loose for a day's carnival.

But alas and alack, today's crowds grow annoyed at Barnumesque devices. The "sucker born every minute" notion has been attached to the freak show world for many a year. Now officials snoop around in search of patent fakeries.

The first blow of the season has fallen upon the head—or rather the two heads—of Carlotta, the "two-headed girl . . . two heads on one body, ladies and gentlemen."

Now, according to the expert who supplies me with useless information, no "two-headed" person ever lived beyond 11 days, or 11 hours, or something like that. All the two-headed babies are in bottles, if I am correctly informed.

Wherefore, others having been similarly informed, the Coney Island officials began to wonder if they were seeing double when they beheld two heads on Carlotta. Could it be possible that they did it with mirrors?

At any rate, so early in the season the barkers and showmen sigh and ask what will happen if the public no longer can stand a little illusion. They shudder at the prospect of applying a literal world to the side-show business.

However, the case of Carlotta may bring an end to the "blow-off," which is the very lifeblood of the side-show business. A "blowoff" in carnival vernacular, is that extra extra attraction for which an extra dime is charged and you are invited to "step right behind this curtain and see the wonder of wonders!"

CLUB GIRLS GO IN FOR PLANTING TREES

WELLINGTON, Texas, May 30.—Two hundred Chinese elms from the experiment station at Chillicothe and about 200 seedlings from the 4-year-old trees at the River Crest Country club have been distributed to 4-H club girls, home demonstration club women and five schools, according to the report of Miss Paralee Brock, home agent of Collingsworth county. In addition the 80 club girls have planted 60 vines, 108 shrubs, 85 trees and 76 beds of flowers and they have cleaned their yards 132 times.

Comal county farmers are showing feeding sense by cutting for hay yellow annual blooming sweet clover that has infested the country around about New Braunfels for several years. Yields are running nearly two tons per acre and farmers find cows like it.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—Instead of becoming that "model city" in law enforcement promised by President Hoover, Washington insists on remaining a typical American community with an underworld, crime waves, racket murders, corruption and other phases of municipal life which keep police reporters skinny.

Washington is now having more murders in proportion to population than Chicago.

Thus far this year we have averaged 5.4 murders a month, which is an annual rate of one murder per 7,500 of population. Latest available studies of homicides in American cities cover 1929 and show Chicago had a murder per 8,400 population. The murder rate per 100,000 population was 10.1 for the larger American cities and 11.8 for Chicago. The nation's capital, plugging along now at a rate of 65 murders for 1931, is setting a mark of 13.3 per 100,000.

Public Aroused

The surprising way people get killed off here, so frequently and so publicly, and the extent to which the police turn out to be involved in crime has everybody all stirred up again after a crime wave in which 10 persons were shot within a few days, nearly all fatally.

One suggestion is that the situation could be cleaned up by putting all cops in jail at once, but it might be difficult to catch them. Perhaps a more effective method would be for all good citizens to start biting bandits and crooks, as suggested by Senor Carlos Leiva, the Salvadoran charge d'affaires, who implored police protection for legation's liquor and then was badly beaten up by thieves whom he found looting it.

Leiva lies in a hospital with a fractured skull, boasting that he bit a bandit's finger "to the bone" and that such bites "often prove poisonous." He says the Washington police are the worst in the world and that a few good poisonous biters would be more efficient in guarding the embassies and legations.

One of the latest murders, that of a police stool pigeon, has turned up a policeman who has been hijacking, just as the Beulah Limerick murder found a cop who was operating whisky stills in his basement. Sixty-three cops have been fired from the force for misconduct in the last two years.

Only three persons in the District of Columbia have permits to carry pistols, but 3,304 have been sold here in the past 16 months and twice as many are estimated to have been shipped in by mail or express. One newspaper has just printed a police map which purports to show 567 known speakeasies, 158 gambling houses and 40 disorderly houses.

Hoover Is Mayor

Washington has a different setup than that in most cities. President Hoover acts as mayor, although, of course, he has a lot of other territory to think of. It was Hoover who decided Washington should become a model town and set a good example to all other cities. So he appointed Major General Herbert B. Crosby, chief of cavalry, as one of the three district commissioners, apparently expecting Crosby to clean up the town.

Nobody can vote here, so the citizens have to take what they get from congress, the president and the police. Theoretically, the police force is clean and free from graft, untouched by influence because there are no municipal politics. And the city is free of aliens, who are supposed to be such a crime problem in other big cities. The only aliens are in embassies and legations. Thanks to them, this is the one community where policemen are charged with guarding liquor supplies and where the government has to make good if liquor is stolen. The Levia case raised the question whether the state department would have to indemnify a legation in actual liquor or its value in cash.

Wave of Banditry, Too

An unusual outbreak of banditry preceded the recent murder crop, which was climaxed by the shooting of two labor leaders at lunch in a restaurant near A. F. of L. headquarters. A union lawyer blames the district attorney for the latter crime because in April he dismissed charges against four persons who had assaulted a union official in front of his offices.

Prior to the last few months of crime there was a gaudy procession of murders and unsolved mysteries which used to attract national attention—the Mary Baker, Virginia MacPherson and Buelah Limerick cases among them.

Washington does seem to be setting an example to the rest of the country. But not the kind of example President Hoover meant. Not at all.

Miners' Air Service

WINNIPEG.—A new air transportation service for miners has been organized at Edmonton, with a sub-office here, to transport miners and supplies to the new mineral area of Great Bear lake and the Coppermine river in the northwest territories. The company, capitalized at $160,000, will run four seven-passenger planes, one four-passenger and one two-passenger plane on the line.

COLLEGE GROWS IN INFLUENCE AROUND WICHITA TERRITORY

Wichita Falls Junior college, with an enrollment already greater than in any previous summer, is looking forward more and more to taking its rightful place in usefulness to the city and the surrounding territory, according to Registrar A. K. Presson, director of the summer session. Monday, the final day for summer registration, a number of other students are expected to enter, with requests for admission having already been received from students of senior colleges who can complete further requirements at Wichita Falls Junior college as well as elsewhere, including students from the University of Texas, Southern Methodist, College of Industrial Arts, Colorado university, and others. Every year more students realize the possibilities of summer study right at home in Wichita Falls.

A major reason for increased attendance in Wichita Falls Junior college is the fact that this year more than ever a broader course of study is offered with more choices possible. In addition to the regular courses in English, mathematics, education, and psychology, there are offered college courses in government, economics, and chemistry, the last two for the first time here. Especial attention is called to students or to industrial chemists helpers to the possibility of doing a full cource in college chemistry.

In the high school enrollment is also up with last year. Here regular courses are given in English, history, mathematics, civics, biology, chemistry, and Spanish.

Junior high school enrollment is slightly behind former years. An efficient faculty has been assembled for junior high school work just as in other divisions and students are urged to consider opportunities either to make up work in which for some reason they are behind or to advance in new work. Regular graduation exercises will be held in the junior high school division just as in the senior high and college divisions.

Friday enrollments thus far included 65 in college, 169 in senior high school, and 67 in junior high school. All students planning to enter are urged to present themselves for enrollment Monday morning at the junior college building.

The meeting will continue through Friday.

FLASHES Of LIFE

GUADALUPE CALVO, Chihuahua, Mexico.—Primitive natives of the heart of the wild Sierra Madre have returned to normal after great excitement caused by a monster bird from which they fled in terror when it alighted. Now they are very curious about the operation of a mining company's airplane.

NEW YORK.—Twenty distinguished plombiers are in town. They are master plumbers from France and Switzerland here to get some tips on their trade and incidentally big league baseball.

NEW YORK.—Disturbance by janitors of delicate apparatus in one room of the Bell Telephone laboratories has ended. Requests for care in cleaning up operations were not heeded till a scientist posted this sign: "Caution, 1,000,000 ohms." A fly shouldn't worry about billions of ohms.

HICKMAN, Ky.—James Wilson Badger, 4 years old, can name all the states and their capitals and spell them.

NEW YORK.—George Arliss, actor, has returned to England unable to find wild life in Hollywood. "It may have been a wild place back in the days of silent pictures," he said, "but you must have a clear head to memorize dialog."

NEW YORK.—Now comes the Association for Improving the Condition of the Rich. It's a new organization duly incorporated. H. Hardcastle Pennock, one of the sponsors, explains the purpose is to make members thrill again to their own boyhood dreams and ambitions by seeing them develop in others. No particular pogram has been formulated, but the members, all of means whose names are kept secret, will contribute to job finding, hospitalization or any other selected field.

Offer Prize for Typical American Boy and Dog Pair

A contest to locate the typical American "dog and boy combination" is being staged by the Chappel Kennel foundation of Rockford, Ill. A cash prize of $250 and the placing of their portrait on canvas by a famous artist await the winning pair.

The boy and dog will also probably have a chance to become known over the radio and in the news reels. To be eligible for nomination the boys must be not less than four nor more than 14 years of age and the dog must be his own.

KINSTON, N. C.—Oscar Dawson, airplane pilot, experienced considerable difficulty in the air with his plane. He landed and examined one of the wings which acted badly in the air. He found a large section of fabric loose and, on cutting the wing open, found a mouse comfortably enthroned in a nest of threads ripped from the fabric.

When You Get Mad—Do Something About It -:- By Kathleen Norris

MRS. NORRIS

When you get interested in some political point, and the meaning isn't clear to you—write some one a letter about it.

When you see a play that is blasphemous or unclean—write the management a letter of protest.

When your newspaper prints something that you believe to be unfair or untrue, write the editor.

When you like a book, write the author. When you like an article—say so. This doesn't mean you are a crank; it means you are a citizen.

We don't use this power of the pen half often enough. We think—the average busy housewife, or absorbed business woman, thinks that her one voice is an unimportant voice.

But that's all any one has—one voice.

We women are new to civic responsibility and political interest. We are a little like middle-aged persons learning to read and write. And we forget that in the last analysis the will of our government is the will of ourselves, and the power that moves our civilization is only such power as we delegate to our writers, editors, representatives, teachers, players.

When a movie has some palpably ridiculous or offensive feature in it 200 good mothers walk home from it, in 2,000 small towns every night, and discuss it. They become very eloquent, pointing out what they don't like about it.

But not one of them writes to the manager and the producer. Not because she isn't interested enough, and mad enough, but because she thinks it isn't worth while.

"What do they care what I think?" she argues.

Well, perhaps they don't care what you think, all alone by yourself. But mothers have a way of feeling the same emotions when the purity or decency or national loyalty of their children is threatened, and if 100 mothers wrote in the same protest, then they would care, even though those mothers were scattered all over the union. Those letters would be discussed, would be sent to headquarters at Hollywood or New York, and would have their weight.

And if 1,000 mothers and teachers protested, then there would be a change. "Look out for those doubly-qualified women!" producers would groan. "They're on the rampage over 'Kissable Knees.' Go easy on that stuff for awhile!"

Some years ago I wrote an article begging mothers in small towns to get together about plays and movies, to read reviews—and when possible see reviews or previews, and to make suggestions to their managers, telling them what plays they liked. In reply hundreds of mothers wrote me, several scores of theater managers, and no less a person than Will Hays himself told me that this procedure would be enormously appreciated by the profession. In New York I happen to know an unusually wise and gifted woman who is seeing pictures, making reports, and generally superintending exactly this branch of educational service, all the time.

But what are you doing, except saying that things get worse and worse, and that you personally don't know what the world is coming to?

It is coming to exactly what you desire and decide, by the way. But women who merely wring their hands and say they don't know what the world is coming to rarely expect any answer to that question.

Everything that has ever been changed, or bettered, in this world, was changed or bettered because somebody cared enough to protest. You don't know it, but thousands of other mothers feel the way you do.

They may be waiting for you to start something.

That movies are improving with a rapidity that puts all other educational branches to shame is quite obvious. The big films, the pictures that we love today, are almost without exception clean, educational, amusing.

But plays are in a horrible state. Even a quite excellent play will be marred by the perfectly unnecessary introduction of a coarse or abnormal strain, and several that I saw in New York this winter had blasphemy strewn all through. To hear the Name we love and venerate above all others screamed and shouted and whined and whispered throughout an entire evening is very offensive; how many of us wrote and said so? I did; and had disarmingly humble letters from more than one author. They want us to like them just as much as we want them to please us.

And so with politics. Write and protest. Your congressman will get your letter, and you'll get his reply. If he doesn't reply at least the experience will educate you to the point that will cause you to look at his campaign differently next year. "That's the man who didn't answer us. Let's vote for the other one."

When the front page of your newspaper is filled with vile details of a chorus girl's love-balm law suit—write. News is news—but filth is also filth, and some of it sticks to the growing minds and souls about the table.

A prominent church charity took up a collection, after a sensational "hard times" drive last winter, collectly nearly a million dollars, and gave no accounting of it whatsoever. After awhile some of the women of the parish did get up their nerve to question, and were blandly told that half of it had gone for relief, and half for the "building fund." Now, this particular money had been collected for emergency relief, and the women were angered by this answer.

My advice to them was to get a big strikers' sign; "what became of the relief fund?" and get volunteers to stand up in the back of a car, in the public square, until somebody explained.

But of course it never came to that. The misunderstanding—it was called a "misunderstanding," was explained, and adjusted, and all the money went to the suffering and unemployed.

A teacher in a certain New York town used to keep her class after hours. The children got out at 4 instead of 3. Two mothers wrote in—no reply. They went over her head, to the board. No reply. Then they had dodgers printed, at $2 a thousand, and passed them out at the doors of movie houses. Then there was a reply.

It seemed that the teacher liked a certain young man teacher upstairs. He and she had "conferences" in the early afternoons, and had to keep their respective classes later, to make up.

Another case. A certain weekday afternoon Sunday school demanded the children's attendance one afternoon each week, at 3:30 for "half-an-hour." Parents were reminded from the pulpit that their children could spare "half-an-hour for God's work." The teachers never arrived until 4, many came not at all, and the superintendent kept them all there, squirming, bored, breathing the heavy bad air of a basement, until almost 5, or after 5, time after time. Sometimes he got preaching, and preached for half-an-hour. They were helpless.

But their mothers weren't helpless; they only thought they were.

Everything that has ever been changed, or bettered, in the world, was changed or bettered because somebody cared enough to protest. You don't know it, but thousands of other mothers feel the way you do.

They may be waiting for you to start something.

Kings and Courts and Overdrafts

By WILL ROGERS

Well all I know is just what I read in the papers.

I was just reading in the papers about the Girls who were presented to the King and Queen. Over in London just a year ago now, when I was over to the Dissarmament Conference Ambassador Dawes was telling me about that, they have it I think twice a year, and the King and Queen receive just so many from each country. Well of all the planning, scheming, conniving, Politics, and even blackmailing, they work to get Daughter presented at Court!

And they say over there that we are the worst Nation of all for it. The greatest Democracy will go to the greatest length to get somewhere just for the add. They live on it the rest of their lives. Its the congressional Medal of Society. "Lizzie Bean as a Debutante was presented at Court." And the social home town papers always say, "She was the most beautiful one there." Now maby there was 12 Chinese Girls presented that looked as good.

This time there was 400 received, so you see its not exactly what you would call exclusive. The King of Spain ought to figured something like that out and then there would have been enough Socially ambitious to keep him in office. England is a smart Nation they know that there is just so much Hooey required by people and they very wisely supply it.

We ought to have a "Social President" or "King of the Drawing Room" or "Master of the Teacup" or some Title on some person that would fill the place of what Royalty supplies over there. Let him give the dinners and stand the gaff of the arguments over who was going to eat next to who, and he could lay the Corner stones, touch the buttons to open the new Night Clubs for the local Chamber of Commerces. There just aint any end to what he could relieve Mr. Hoover of. I know no one would be more tickled than Mr. Hoover, for I don't think he relishes all that junk. Mr. Coolidge is the only one that ever really seemed to relish em. He had em doped out, they never worried him. He had the same expression, and the same conversation for Queen Marie as he had for Senator Moses. "Hello" when they come in and "Goodbye" when they passed out. He just went about his eating and they went about theirs and nothing dident mean nothing to him.

I can't think off hand who would be a good man for that position. Get a man and his Wife with good dijestions, good dispositions, good to look on, and Masters of Emily Post, I will look around Hollywood here and see what we got left. Pretty near all the socially prominent that come out for the films have starved out and gone back. Its just practically us riff raff that are hanging on. We are just drifting from one Gang Picture to another.

Oh yes, say Charley Chaplin would be the one for this new job we are trying to create. He is over in Europe studying the King Business. He has got in to all the more notorious homes and knows what is really required. Course he got in bad with some, but one good picture will square all that. Little Charley would be just the Boy to dedicate the Bridge, or head the Dining Table and make merry with the Guests, and he is a smart little Rascal too, dont make any mistake about that. He is a socialist but then everybody is becomming that in Society anyhow, so he will have an advanced break where the King was going to be, and he turned it down. He claimed it was just the Manager that asked him, and that it wasent the King at all. So Charley bawled em all out, and told em that over there 17 years ago none of them wanted him, and wouldent give him a job, so he come over here and made good, and at that time he was just as good an Artist as he is today, so he dident owe them a thing.

So after that we are liable to have to use him over here, so he might be just the fellow for my job. Course he hasent got any Wife, (right now) but he can remedy that any minute, and speaking of Washington and our Government what is going on there during these early hot days?

Mr. Hoover has been going out to his Camp on the Rapidan every week-end and it hasent been all for pleasure either. Every week-end he takes a different Gang with him. For instance one week-end he took Pat Hurley, Secretary of the Wars, and told him, "Pat, Mellon has gone and let the Politicians overdraw our Bank balance 950,000,000 million, thats just 50 million under a Billion, that holds the record for an overdraft. Now we got to all get together and help the old Boy try and make it up some other way. Now how about lopping part of your Army off? Cant you leave some spurs, and some Sam Brown belts or something off and help save Andy's record, so that it will stand up with Alexander Hamiltons? So your go back to your office and see who would be the least needed in our next war, and give em their two weeks notice. We got to be prepared, but see if we cant be prepared a little cheaper. What we want now is cheaper preperation. Course soon as we get used to this overdraft why it wont be so bad, but its just while its new that everybody's attention is focussed on it. You know a Billion is getting so its a lot of dough, even in these hard times. So we all got to pull together and get this thing kinder hushed up before November, '32, comes on us. If we can just stall this all off till after then, why we can get back to normal again, and you can have all the help you want. But right now, You Boys got to help get Andy out of the Red. Take some oats away from those Army Mules or something. I am going to the Navy row out to the Camp here and make them do what they can, make Secretary Dave Ingalls quit flying to Cleveland every day to get his mail. Then those Virgin Islands we got to cut down on them, they are living too high. Then we ought to try to catch Sandino for less money this year than we tried to catch him last year. But we all got to pull togeather like one big happy family and get Andy out of the Red, cause a Billion dollars worth of Red is Some Red. We got to stop Alexander Hamilton from laughing in his grave."

BELIEVE IT OR NOT . . . . . By Robert L. Ripley

EXPLANATION OF LAST SUNDAY'S CARTOON—"Nous Reviendrons," the Famous Algerian Prophesy: Emperor Charles V made an abortive attempt to conquer the city of Algiers, fully three centuries before France finally succeeded. Charles' troops were compelled to withdraw from before the walls of the old corsairs' nest, due to a sudden and violent sea storm which shattered the Christian fleet. Among the troops bringing up the rear of the Christian armies was a Frenchman, Chevalier Ponce de Savignac, standard bearer of the Knights of Malta. It was a highly dramatic moment when the chevalier advanced for the last time to the Azuna gate of the city and stuck his dagger into the wood, exclaiming "Nous reviendrons." The words turned out to be prophetic, for the French general, Count Bourmont, who took Algiers 300 years later at the head of a French expeditionary army, was a direct descendant of the chevalier. The story is contained on a marble plaque, which is located on the site of the ancient Bab Azuna at Algiers.

Maurice Breslau Has Had 22 Bone Fractures in Five Years: Little Maurice Breslau, who lives at 144 South Robert street, St. Paul, Minn., suffered his twenty-second bone fracture early in February, 1931, when he fell down in a schoolroom and fractured his thigh bone. Maurice is now 9 years of age, and during the last five years he has had 14 fractured legs, seven fractures in his left arm, and once he suffered a broken collarbone. Because of the extreme brittleness of his bone tissue a fall that ordinarily would not be noticed sends Maurice to bed in a cast.

WICHITANS RELIVE DAYS OF OLD WEST ON TURBEVILLE RANCH

CALF BRANDING FEATURES VISIT ARCHER RANCH

LOCAL YOUNGSTERS TAKE GREAT PART IN STUNTS

Calves' Excellent Condition Shows Effect of Favorable Winter

By ELEANOR FLEMING

Colorful characteristics of the old-fashioned West, gradually vanishing from reality to the confines of leather book-covers, were revived in a thrilling round-up and calf branding at the John Turbeville ranch near Archer City last week, when the veteran ranchman invited his friends of this section to participate in the one-day resurrection of the old days.

There was a round-up of all the unbranded calves, totaling about 210, the branding of the calves with the two "Lazy J" marks that distinguish the Turbeville cattle, a real baby beef barbecue at noon, and a general good time as some of the men who first settled West Texas turned time backward in its flight for just one day.

The ranch which furnished the setting for the celebration, generally known as the "Persimmon Spring ranch," is eight miles southeast of Archer City, covering about 13,000 acres of the Jefferson county school lands. About 700 cows and calves are kept there. On another ranch owned by Mr. Turbeville, northwest of town, are the steers, about 500 in number.

It was a rare occasion in more ways than one, for the calves that were brought in showed by their sleek hides and bulky heft that the winter just passed had been the best in years. Very little feed was given any of the cattle this winter, according to Mr. Turbeville, because the grass was better for grazing than it has been since 1919. As the beautiful white-faced Herefords were herded into the branding pen, the visitors from Wichita Falls and other nearby communities were impressed by their unusual excellence of condition.

Boys in Their Element

Mr. Turbeville was probably the only person who got a thrill from the day's events in any way superior to that received by four Wichita Falls boys who were transported to a world that had previously been a sort of storybook fancy to them. Carter McGregor Jr., and Jack O'Donohoe, each of whom is 13 years old, together with Bobby Burns, 9 years old, and John McMahon Jr., 8 years old, spent a red-letter day throwing the smaller calves, riding some of the fine horses on the ranch and watching the branding processes.

Mr. Turbeville himself was but 12 years old when he began his life on the range. Today, after practically 50 years in this part of the country, he still rides a horse and swings a lasso with youthful vigor.

The two brands used on the Turbeville ranch are varied from year to year so that they tell the age of the cattle. Both the J's are "lazy"—that is, slanting in one direction or the other—and their slant and position determine the year in which the brand was put there. At present, the oldest cow on the ranch is 5 years old. All of Mr. Turbeville's Herefords are fine registered, blooded animals.

About 50 or 60 persons were present for the celebration—once a routine in this country, but now an event—including a score or so of Wichitans. J. S. Bridwell, Ed Howard, John McMahon, Oral Jones, Grover Bullington, W. M. McGregor, Cy Bates and the four boys were among those present.

It was a gala occasion at the John Turbeville ranch near Archer City last week when a few friends and neighboring ranchers were invited over to see an old-time round-up and calf branding. The upper left picture shows several of the women who were enjoying the day's most popular feature—a baby beef barbecue at noon. Among those in the picture are Mesdames Bert Herron, G. B. Purcell, John Turbeville, W. H. Taylor, L. C. Herron, W. E. Forgy, Sam Cowan, Claude Cowan, Charles Abercrombie and Misses Gay Hardeman, Ruby Range and Ruth Hutcheson.

The center bottom shows Charles Abercrombie, another Archer county ranchman, herding a few of the beautiful Herefords that were branded during the day.

The cameraman for the occasion was Lester T. ("Bobby") Burns of Wichita Falls, who secured a splendid collection of pictures with a small camera.

On th' Fountain o' Youth an' th' Beauty Parlor

"I shall live! I shall live thru' th' centuries!" cried Bulwar Lytton's seeker after eternal youth, comments some newspaper. Then it goes on t' say "that all down th' ages human bein's have sought th' Fountain o' Youth." But o' course nobuddy's found it. Folks go t' French Lick Springs, Cedar Lake, Sulphur Springs, Wawasee, an' Bass Lake, but they all come back lookin' worse'n they did before. Some folks come home from Atlantic City actin' a little younger, but it soon wears off. But science has got some kind of a scheme o' installin' goat glands in th' human body, declarin' that youth lies in th' intestinal processes o' these animals in th' functional activitiec o' glandular formations in man, although Dr. Mopps roubts it very much. "However, says the doctor "somethin's comin' over th' people a' t'day. When I wuz a young man a feller used t' drop out o' th' procession at 30, raise a bunch o' whiskers an' retire t' th' background an' stay till he shuffled off. It wuz much th' same with woman. They were marked down at th' age o' 28 an' soon disappeared from th' market altogether. They just kind o' gave up an' pined away.

In th' discard at 25 in 1850 an' a pippin at 60 in 1930.

In that day folks didn' seem t' realize—didn' seem t' know anythin' about that beautiful, sweet, mid-season o' life between golden youth, an' silvered ole age—between th' wild, irresponsible, carefree age an' th' age o' neuritis an' regret. Th' long stretch o' years between 25 an' 70 are sensible years, mellowin' years—years when we should be active an' alert t' all th' beauties an' joys o' life. They should be full years. But th' middle aged folks have changed. They're certainly makin' th' most o' these years t'day —Sundays an' all. Th' determined effort o' some folks t stay in th' game is pathetic, but commendable. I seen five ole ladies, none o' 'em under 80, all perfumed an' slicked up, git out of a closed car th' other night an' scramble int' see 'Blizzard Bob" at th' picture Palace. I kin remember when if you wanted t' see an ole, ole friend yer had t' go out t' ther house, but t'day all you've got t' do is stand on th' corner. Look at Tell Binkley at 70. He'd look like a high school boy if it wuzen' fer his walrus mustache. O' course it takes a lot o' steamin' an' powderin' an' dumb-bellin', but it's worth it. It's a fine thing fer th' seasoned, experienced folks t' cling t' th' activities an' joys o' life an not take a back seat fer th' flippant an' untried youngsters that are leavin' ther nurseries all too soon. I don't think there's a goat gland or a hidden spring in this community, but ther's somethin' workin' wonders amongst our prehistoric people. I've an idee that it's th' beauty parlor over th' livery stable—an' th' way they're cuttin' clothes!

PEEPING AT NEW BOOKS

LITERARY KNOT-HOLE

By LORENA DRUMMOND

Plaudits for Southwest Literature

Hilton Ross Greer has again edited a series of Best Short Stories of the Southwest, a book which should interest all lovers of good stories, and which should prove invaluable to students of Southwestern culture. For here are honest and dignified portrayals of the Indian, the Mexican, the negro, the tenant farmer, of fear of drouth, of prayer for rain—in short, of the stuff that life in the Southwest is made of. Moreover, the tales are done with skill and penetration, not only with a mastery of materials, but with a feeling for narrative art.

There is much variety, and the stories are not of equal merit. Stanley Vestal, Paul Eldridge, Karle Wilson Baker, Margarot Belle Houston, Helen Moran and Isabel Campbell stand out above the average. Berdsall Briscoe does the conventional western story better than the usual pulp-paper performance. Paul Everman finds an excellent median for his romantic love tale with cowboy trappings, in a rhythmic prose which suggests Dunsany, except that the cadences are short, like the hoof-beats of a horse.

The editor has done his work well. I think, however, he should have included a sketch from George Milburn's Oklahoma Town and Philip Stevenson's "The Shepherd," published in the autumn issue (1930) of the Southwest Review. They could well have displaced "Street Keeper."

While Good Housekeeping and Century have furnished markets for two first-rate stories, it is interesting to note that the stories published locally are as a group of greater merit than those published in highly commercialized periodicals. Several deductions might be drawn. One is that the national journals are too insistent upon a standardized product. Another is that our local journals and publishers are maintaining a high literary standard.

Paper Doll Racketeers

When he wrote Here's Luck and subtly subtitled it A Social Footnote for the benefit of the obtuse, Stephen French Whitman made a valiant effort to take the tide of timely topics at the full, but somehow, just missed writing a first rate novel.

The blurb on the jacket tells us that this is "an original, serious, and tensely dramatic piece of work." Good as Mr. Whitman's intentions may have been, his delineation of the "life and loves of Nick Sassotti, master racketeer of them all," at times verges ever so slightly on the burlesque.

The impression is that Mr. Whitman sat himself down to write an up-to-date novel about this "new type of industrial hero," a Cinquecentto feudal lord who by right of might makes himself master of law, order, men and money in this year of grace and government of, by, and for the people. All the usual reinforcements are provided, including the beautiful sister who is the apple of her racketeer brother's eye, the society woman and her friends looking for thrills in glimpses of life's other side, ambitious and crooked politicians, bought-and-paid-for municipal administration, numerous gun-men lieutenants, rival gangsters, and plenty of remorseless and matter of fact homicides.

Mr. Whitman is a firstclass craftsman and a thorough master of the technique of plot structure. His tale is well-proportioned and neatly presented. His description is just a bit on the florid side, his colors too exotic. His characters are all types a little exaggerated and he fails to make them live and breathe. They are not quite human, merely paper dolls. Still more unfortunately, the hero is somewhat overshadowed by two of the women who are secondary characters.

In spite of this major defect, the book remains readable and entertaining. It is hardly thrilling enough to keep the reader up past his usual bedtime but will serve nicely to while away an evening when the radio is out of order and one has already seen the three best movies in town.

LIFE OF DOROTHEA DIX WILL BE DESCRIBED IN TALK OVER RADIO CHAIN

As a post-memorial day talk, Dr. Howard W. Haggard, associate professor of physiology at Yale university, speaking over WABC and the Columbia Broadcasting system at 6 p. m., central standard time, Sunday May 31, will describe the life work of Dorothea Lynde Dix.

Miss Dix brought about the era of humane care for the insane and also won national renown for her splendid work during the war of 1861. For this service she frequently has been mentioned as the American Florence Nightingale.

HARRIS COUNTY WOMEN PLAN PLANT YEAR'S VEGETABLES

HOUSTON, May 30.—More onions and potatoes for storage, and more beans and peas for drying than has heretofore been the custom are included in the 1931 plans of the 4-H pantry demonstrators and cooperators in Harris county, according to the report of the county home agent, Miss Opal Roberson. The pantry work in the county has gone forward with great enthusiasm inspired by the proved value of the pantries made in 1930, and every phase of the demonstration as outlined by the extension service is being worked on by the demonstrators. Canning budgets and plans to produce the food to fill them and to use in a fresh state during the productive months have been made and are being worked out.

Mrs. J. G. Pledger of the Alief Home Demonstration club reports that she already has 52 cans of meat and 93 cans of vegetables toward filling her 1931 food budget, and that as adequate storage space is a part of the pantry demonstration her husband has promised to make some shelves upon which the cans can be arranged and classified conveniently. She had onions, spinach, endive, lettuce and radishes ready for the table by the middle of March. Mrs. Pledger learned to can in tin by using the cooker and sealer which her home demonstration club bought for community use.

Winnipeg, Canada, has a municipal central heating station to heat the homes of its citizens. The plan has been tried out for the past six years and has been so successful that vast extensions are now under way.

Many Millions if Not in Billions Will Be Spent by Tourists in U. S. This Summer Is Detroit Estimate

By ROBERT M. ROSS
Universal Service Automobile Editor

DETROIT, Mich., May 30.—America is literally on wheels today. Out of 26,500,000 automobiles in this country, tourist agencies estimate that more than 20,000,000 have taken the road in an unprecedented movement of traffic.

The changed character of automobile touring and the fact that a Saturday holiday gave workers an extra day's grace accounts for the heavy volume of travel. Whereas in previous years motorists have favored long drives, it is indicated from early inquiries at tourist bureaus that vacationists will concentrate on shorter although perhaps more frequent trips.

The larger resort centers likely will suffer. Ed Matheson, head of the travel bureau of the automobile club of Michigan, chief disseminator of highway information in this section, reports that thus far this year he has received only two requests for Yellowstone park routes. Normally, at least 30 have asked for the log.

Within 400-Mile Radius

"We have found the majority of our inquiries concern directions to resort cities within a 400-mile radius," he says. "Last summer and in the winter this was not true. In fact we recorded the heaviest Florida and California business in our history. Perhaps this was because many, out of work, sought to evade the burdens of coal bills."

While the amount American tourists will spend this year remains a trifle vague, it will undoubtedly run into billions. The American Automobile association estimates the figure at $400,000,000,000 and although this guess seems exhorbitant, undoubtedly the true figure assures travel of retaining its position as the world's greatest industry.

Government statistics recently released show it is possible that every one in the United States could be carried on motor tours at the same time. Figures reveal one gasoline vehicle to every 4.63 persons and with buses and trucks involved the entire population could easily be moved.

Contrary to the impression gained from city traffic, smaller communities boast lower ratios in comparing cars and population. If one could accept the cold figures, San Diego, Calif., would have the knottiest traffic problem in the United States. This city of 148,000 has one car to 1.91 persons and heads the list of all cities of more than 100,000 population.

After San Diego, according to deductions from the latest registration figures, comes Los Angeles with 2.39; Miami, 2.75; Long Beach, Calif., 2.84; Des Moines, Iowa, 2.85; Grand Rapids, Mich., 2.88; Spokane, Wash., 2.95; Toledo, Ohio, 2.98; Oakland, Calif., 2.99; Washington, D. C., 3.11; Indianapolis, Ind., 3.28; Portland, Ore., 3.32; and Oklahoma City, 3.37.

Population Groups

Breaking down the cities into population groups, Los Angeles shows to best advantage in cities above 500,000. Detroit with 3.71 persons to each vehicle follows and then San Francisco, 4.01; Cleveland, 4.04; Buffalo, 4.15; Milwaukee, 4.49; St. Louis; Boston, 6.72; Baltimore, 6.95; Chicago, 7.19; Pittsburgh, 8.17; Philadelphia, 8.48; and New York, 9.21.

Between 200,000 and 500,000, Toledo, Oakland, Washington, Indianapolis and Portland, lead with these figures; Denver, 3.49; Seattle, 3.62; Syracuse, 3.68; Dallas, 3.70; Minneapolis, 3.73; San Antonio, 3.74; St. Paul, 3.77; Columbus and Akron, Ohio, 3.78; Rochester, N. Y., 3.79; Omaha, 4.28; Houston, Texas, and Memphis, Tenn., 4.36; Kansas City, 4.53; Cincinnati, 4.54; and Atlanta, 4.73.

San Diego, Miami, Long Beach, Des Moines, Grand Rapids, Spokane and Oklahoma City top in the 100,000 to 200,000 class with other leaders as follows: Tulsa, Okla., 3.44; Fort Worth, 3.50; Fort Wayne, Ind., 3.51; Tacoma, Wash., 3.65; Wichita, Kan., 3.66; Salt Lake City, Utah, 3.69; Canton, Ohio, 3.72; Evansville, Ind., 3.77; Kansas City, Kan., 4.03; South Bend, Ind., 4.18; Lynn, Mass., 4.25; Chattanooga, Tenn., 4.26; Erie, Pa., 4.34; Jacksonville, Fla., and Youngstown, Ohio, 4.36; Elizabeth, N. J., 4.38; Reading, Pa., 4.62; Peoria, Ill., and Trenton, N. J., 4.73.

MUSKOGEE DEDICATES MUNICIPAL BUILDING

MUSKOGEE, Okla., May 30. (UP)—More than 10,000 eastern Oklahomans attended the dedicatory program last night for Muskogee's new $300,000 municipal building.

Construction of the building had been delayed more than two years by litigation involving the bond issues.

Gas Tax for Airport

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—A bill has been introduced in the state house which provides that proceeds from gasoline taxes, levied on gas sold to airplanes and other aircraft, shall be used for building and maintaining emergency landing fields in Florida. If passed, the bill would invest the authority to build such landing fields in the state road commission.

Aviation demands Twin-Ignition!

NASH OWNERS CALL IT INDISPENSABLE!

Air Commerce Regulations, issued by the United States Department of Commerce, absolutely require two spark plugs per cylinder on all commercial aircraft motors of over 40 horse power.

Aviation demands perfection in power. And so two spark plugs, twin sparks, are employed in aircraft motors—to burn the gasoline more efficiently—to provide power, speed, safety and economy beyond the reach of single ignition.

For the same reasons, Nash engineers, in Nash Eight-90 and Eight-80 motors, also provide Twin Ignition.

Of course, you can get along without Twin Ignition. But here, in engineering figures, is what you are missing:

The same motor, with Twin Ignition instead of single ignition, produces 22% more power, 5 miles an hour more top speed, and 2 extra miles of travel from every gallon of gasoline.

And, the prices of these Twin-Ignitioned-motored Nash Straight Eights are no higher than the prices of other cars without this important improvement!

Richard Crooks, operatic baritone, will sing varied concert numbers during the General Motors program over an NBC-WEAF network at 7:30 p. m. Frank Black will direct. Archie Birkenholz, violinist, and Mathilde Harding, pianist, will give the first of two joint sonata recitals over the same network at 5:05 p. m., and immediately after, at 5:15 p. m., James G. The verbal antics of Weber and Fields will be heard in the Webster program at 6:15 p. m., and A. & P. Gypsies will present a light concert featuring Veronica Wiggins, contralto, Frank Parker, tenor, and Harry Horlick's orchestra at 6:30 p. m., also over an NBC-WEAF network.

From the works of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle has been drawn the "Adventure of the Pince-Nez," the Sherlock Holmes story to be dramatized for NBC-WEAF listeners at 8 p. m. This will be followed by the Symphonic Rhythm Makers, Hugo Mariani directing, interpreting popular music in classical form.

Erno Rapee will direct Roxy Symphony orchestra in Malipiero's "Impression del Vero" for NBC-WJZ listeners at 5:45 p. m. Works of Flotow, Mozart, Schubert and Wagner make up the Stromberg-Carlson program which the Rochester Civic orchestra, Guy Fraser Harrison conducting, will broadcast at 8 p. m. The Empire Builders will dramatize "La Rosa del Oro" over an NBC-WJZ network at 8:30 p. m., and the Russian singers are to revive scenes of their native land in a program at 9:30 p. m., central standard time.

The closing hours of the evening will be devoted to dance band broadcasts.

SENATOR C. C. DILL TO GIVE ADDRESS ACROSS ATLANTIC

United States Senator Clarence C. Dill, Washington, who is making a tour of the European cities to gain first hand knowledge of broadcasting conditions abroad, will be the speaker in Columbia's international broadcast Sunday, May 31, from 10:30 to 10:45 a. m., central standard time. His talk, under the title, "Radio in Europe," will be heard through WABC and a nation-wide network.

Co-author of the radio act which provided congressional authority for the federal radio commission and regulation of broadcasting throughout the United States, Senator Dill has been interested in radio from the governmental aspect for a number of years. During the last congress he introduced amending legislation which will be taken up during the next session. Senator Dill has been spending two weeks in London, inquiring into the governmental monopoly system of radio control which is in force in England and has been in close touch with the British Broadcasting corporation. In the next few days he will leave on a tour of the European capitals.

GEN. SMEDLEY D. BUTLER TO BROADCAST JUNE 16

Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, stormy petrel of the marine corps, will speak over an NEC-WJZ network on the eve of Bunker Hill day, at 8:30 p. m., central standard time, Tuesday, June 16.

NEW MUSIC SERIES WILL OPEN MONDAY OVER RADIO CHAIN

The premier performance of the new six-day-a-week Camel quarter hour series featuring Morton Downey, Anthony "Tony" Wons, and Jacques Renard and his new orchestra will be broadcast over WABC and 62 associated Columbia stations on Monday, June 1. For eastern listeners the program will begin at 5:45 p. m., central standard time, while for western and Pacific coast listeners it will be on the air at 9:30 p. m., central standard time.

One of the unusual aspects of the program will be the gathering together on a single 15-minute broadcast three outstanding entertainers who heretofore have been featured individually on the Columbia network.

Downey's daily recitals and his guest appearances with the Paramount-Publix programs have made him the radio sensation of 1931. Wons, although not a newcomer to the radio, rose to new heights during the past year with his daily broadcasts of "Tony's Scrap Book." Renard and his orchestra for nine years have been favorites with New England radio audiences. Only recently, however, has their music been routed over the nationwide Columbia network.

The gala premier performance will include the introduction by Morton Downey of his new theme song "Carolina Moon," which supplants "Wabash Moon."

FOUR CONCERT GRAND PIANOS INSTALLED IN RADIO CHAIN STUDIOS

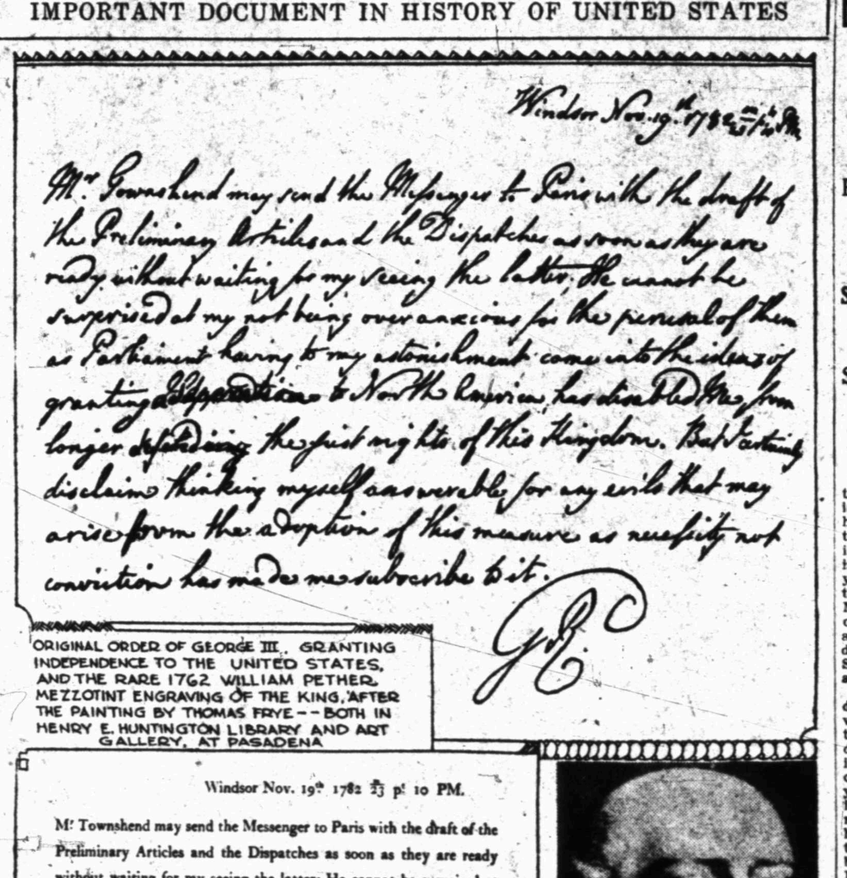

Four concert grand pianos have been installed in one of the Chicago studios of the Columbia Broadcasting System for one of the most novel radio acts on the air—a weekly piano string quartet series.

Four of the city's best known concert pianists are providing this network novelty, each Sunday, 4:45 to 5 p. m., central standard time. Leon Bloom, who has appeared on the concert stage throughout the United States and Europe, and who now directs the concert orchestra at WBBM, Columbia's Chicago key station, is director of the piano quartet.

Appearing with Bloom are Howard Neumiller, director of the WBBM artists bureau; Harry Sosnik, composer of "Out of the Night" and Wilmot Mossberg.

The census of 1930 gave Alaska a population of 58,758, which is an increase of 6.8 per cent over the figure of 1920.

PASADENA, Calif., May 30.—One of the most important though almost unknown documents in American history—the letter of George III, granting independence to the United States—was made public here today by the Henry E. Huntington Library and Art Gallery.

It will be noted in George III's letter, reproduced above, which is in effect an order, that the king first wrote the word "independence" and evidently not liking the definiteness of that word applied to the dismemberment of the empire wrote "a seperation" over it, misspelling the word at that. In the same way he first wrote the word "sustaining" and, evidently not being sure that he could sustain the British power in America substituted the word "defending."

Thomas Townshend, secretary of state in Lord Shelburne's administration, transmitted the articles mentioned to John Adams, Benjamin Franklin and John Jay, the commissioners of the United States in Paris, on Nov. 25, 1782, and the articles were embodied in the preliminary articles of peace between the United States and Great Britain, signed Nov. 30.

EVERETT MARSHALL WILL SING DURING SUNDAY BROADCAST

Baritone of Metropolitan Opera Company to Be Radio Artist

STARTED AS ARCHITECT BUT CHANGED TO MUSIC

Says Double Chins Are No Longer Popular for Great Soloists

Silvery tones cascading from the top of a terrace of chins are taboo in modern opera, whose heroes and heroines have not only got to look the part but act like human beings, if they want to remain public idols in these modern days, declares slim young Everett Marshall, baritone of the Mertopolitan Opera company. Marshall, in response to hundreds of requests, will appear again as artist with the concert orchestra, directed by Joseph Pasternack, Sunday evening, May 31, over WGN, at 7:15 p. m., central standard time.

Queens of song who pretend to die of consumption in the last act, when their avordupois indicates that high blood pressure, instead, is doing the trick, get only laughter instead of tears from the sophisticated opera goers of today, the youthful baritone indicates. Training for the business of holding high notes by swimming, and learning how to get along with temperamental prima donnas, male and female, by managing an Indian canoe, Mr. Marshall feels that his experience on the operatic stage of Europe and America—and in singing motion pictures gives him authority to speak out in public on this subject.

A native of Lawrence, Mass., and long a resident of Worcester, young Marshall really started out in life to become an architect—to please his family. Music was his ambition, however, and no opportunity was neglected for its study. As swimming and canoe instructor at the Lake Placid club during vacations, and as an humble attendant at the famous Worcester music festivals, the promising baritone kept himself physically fit and in an atmosphere of music and poetry and romance.

A couple of years at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music and several years more in London prepared him for his grand opera debut in Palmero, Italy. He scored a hit and followed it with operatic triumphs in other Italian and European cities. The Metropolitan's European scouts heard him and he was signed up for the great New York temple of music for the season of 1927-28. Since then his progress has been steady. He has several times appeared as an Atwater Kent hour artist and has been in three elaborate film productions.

WAGNER OPERA NUMBER WILL FEATURE PROGRAM

The entrance of the gods to Valhalla, from Wagner's "Gotterdammerung," will be the feature of a concert by the Detroit Symphony orchestra, Victor Kolar conducting, during the program at 7:30 p. m., central standard time, Sunday, May 31, over the Columbia network.

Some critics have said that to call "Gotterdammerung" Aeschylean is to be over-flattering to Greece. It is a lonely and tremendous thing, the music striking from the start and maintaining throughout the whole wide-ranging score, the note of impending doom, of intangible, cumulative dread.

Other features of the program include a soprano solo by Muriel Magerl Kyle of Cadman's "From the Land of the Sky Blue Water," one of the most popular songs taken from American Indian themes, and a poetry reading by Edgar A. Guest.

'MILEAGE HOG' CALLED SERIOUS MENACE SAFE DRIVING BY ZIHLMAN

"Every man who drives a car knows what a 'road hog' is," remarks J. E. Zihlman, local distributor for Kelly-Springfield tires. "There are plenty of them in every community. They're always in a hurry to get somewhere and they're always taking chances by trying to drive on more of the road than belongs to them. And it causes plenty of accidents. No question about that.

"But the 'mileage hog' is almost as serious a danger to safe driving as the 'road hog.' He runs his tires till the last breath of life goes out of them—and it's apt to blow out, not go out.

"I don't blame any man for wanting to get his money's worth out of a set of tires. But when I hear some of my customers bragging about how many miles they've gone, it makes me shudder.

"Smooth, worn tires, even if they've got a good many more miles in them, are one of the most serious hazards to safe automobiling today. With worn treads there is danger of losing control—skidding, sliding forward with all brakes set, even blowouts. And while you may have had all three happen and gotten away with it so far, the next time may not be so fortunate.

"Every man who is driving on his last year's tires should have a man who knows tires look them over and find out how safe it is to use them this summer. It may save his life—or his family's.

"And with tires costing as little as they do, (naturally thinking of Kelly-Springfields in particular) it's a pretty cheap way to buy safe miles for your summer motoring."

Rosa Ponselle to Broadcast Radio Bill in London

Opera will be broadcast from across the Atlantic over the WABC-Columbia network a second time, Monday, June 1, when Rosa Ponselle, American-born prima donna, will be heard from 3 to 3:45 p. m., central standard time, in "La Forza del Destino," by Verdi. The performance will be on the stage of the Royal Opera house, Covent garden, London, from which portions of "Magic Flute" were broadcast in America May 13.

Since her Covent garden debut in 1929, Miss Ponselle has been one of the outstanding attractions of the London opera season, and has appeared there three years in succession. In "La Forza del Destino" she takes the part of Leonora, in which she made her operatic debut opposite Caruso in 1918.

There are more people of German extraction in Wisconsin than there are people of Swedish and Norwegian extraction combined.

BEETHOVEN COMPOSITION WILL OPEN SYMPHONIC PROGRAM BROADCAST

Second in order of composition of the four overtures which Beethoven wrote for his only opera, "Fidelio," the one now known as "Leonora, No. 3," will open the symphonic hour to be heard over the WABC-Columbia network from 1 to 2 p. m., central standard time, Sunday, May 31.

Beethoven was not satisfied with his first overture for the opera, and in the work scheduled for this concert there is abundant evidence of the drastic self-criticism, elimination and compression which he used in remolding his thematic material.

Mozart's Jupiter symphony, No. 41 in C major, is one of the group of three symphonies which the 32-year-old genius composed in a period of two months shortly before his death. Probably the greatest of all his works in the classical form, the "Jupiter" is distinguished for its statuesque dignity and unperturbed grace.

Toscha Seidel, virtuoso of the violin, will be heard with the orchestra under the direction of Howard Barlow, in Vivaldi's A major concerto.

SOFT BOILED - - - By James J. Montague

Uncle Silas left me all that coin, but he made the mistake of leaving it without any strings on it.

"The trouble with me," said Bill, sadly, "is that I'm soft boiled. I'm an incurable comeon. I knew it before Uncle Silas left me all that money—that's why I was worried instead of pleased when I got it. But I wasn't worried long. You know that. Usually when a young fellow who was raised poor comes into sudden money he gets some sort of a run for it, and has a good time while it lasts. I didn't. I was too sympathetic. I used to think that these tough business men ought to be ashamed of themselves. Now I know they have to be tough or they wouldn't be business men. I'd be one of them myself, if I could. But you can't change yourself. You were born to be some kind of a person, and I was the kind who could never listen to a hard luck story without practically bursting into tears, or a sales talk without getting hypnotized. Of course it doesn't matter now that it's all over. Still, I do wish Uncle Silas had put me on a sort of a dole, or given me a manager to keep that cash till I at least got me a canoe out of it. I always wanted a canoe with a little three-cornered sail on it, so I could cruise up a creek some time and cook my meals on the bank, and anchor it afterward in the stream and go to sleep on it with the gurgle of the water under me. But all I got was a motor yacht, and four or five automobiles and a country place where I was scared of the butler and bullied by the gardener and bluffed by the chauffeurs, and robbed, I guess, by the bird I hired to run the establishment. And all because I was born without any sales resistance.

"When I was a kid all the other boys would trade me out of my best marbles because I believed them when they said that theirs were a better kind and would shoot straighter. Our barn was full of white mice and lame dogs that I had bought with the money I made selling papers before school hours. Down cellar were a lot of half filled bottles of medicine that doctors had prescribed for the fathers and mothers and sisters and brothers of boys I knew. The boys would trade them to me for my Christmas presents or whatever I had, telling me that they would cure anything I might catch. Two or three times I got pretty sick taking strong stuff that was meant for other folks, but right away afterward I would be swapping kites or skates for more bottles.

"By and by along came the stamp collecting craze, and I sawed and split fire wood for a lot of the neighbors so I could buy three-cornered stamps from the Cape of Good Hope, and a lot of other kinds I forget. The fellows that sold them to me told me that if I got enough of them I could sell them for a fortune to some museum. I got about a thousand, altogether, I guess, but every time I tried to sell them to anybody I found that the kinds I had would bring their value as fuel and nothing else.

"It was that way till I got to be 21, and then Uncle Silas left me all that coin, though I never knew why. I suppose he knew something about the tough time I'd had, and thought I deserved better luck. But he made the mistake of leaving it without any strings on it. The whole thing was printed in the papers, and after that I was just plumb miserable. Men would drive up with big new cars, and just by looking at me sternly make me get into them and ride around the country. All the time they kept talking about what swell cars they were, and when we got back from the rides they would hand me slips of paper and I would sign my name to them.

"Once I bought me a ticket to Paris, so I could be where everybody didn't know about my legacy, but before I got on the boat Bill Higgins, who used to go to school with me came to the house and told me that ocean travel was terrible in a big ship, and that foreigners were frightfully dishonest and would take advantage of me at every turn. He said the thing to do was to buy a yacht and cruise around the home waters, where I could speak the language and get the kind of food I was used to. He knew a man that had a fine yacht that he would practically give away for eighteen thousand dollars. It was already for a cruise, captain, cook and everything, and he had planned a trip for me down to Florida and back. So I bought the boat without seeing it. It wasn't such a bad boat, either, but I always got sick as soon as I went out in it, and besides that as soon as we got out of sight of land the engine would get out of order, and we'd have to hail a tug, if any showed up, to tow us back to port.

"After the third cruise which was longer than the others, lasting two days, I sold the boat for two hundred and fifty dollars. Higgins bought it back from me. He said that cruising had gone out of fashion since I was a yachtsman, and I was lucky that he knew of somebody who would pay that much money. I kicked at first, but he said that he was threatened with eviction because his rent was overdue for two years, and if he didn't get the commission for the re-sale he would be sent to the poor house. I felt sorry for him, and I didn't want the boat, so I sold it.

"Bill was around the next day with a real estate man who wanted to sell me a big country place. He started to do the talking, but the other man waved him away, and did it himself. In 10 minutes he had convinced me that I never had lived at all, that my life had been completely wasted because I didn't have this 25-room mansion with wide sweeping lawns, a private six hole golf course, and the barns and stables stocked with blooded cattle and horses, not to mention sheep and cows and chickens. I went out to see the place, and got all heated up over it, and the next day I went to the bank and found out how much money I had. It was a hundred and nineteen thousand dollars. I paid eighty-five thousand down on the place right away, and went out there to live. It wasn't a bad place, but nobody would come out to see me and I pretty near died of loneliness. So I sold it for twenty-five thousand and went back to town. Then another school friend came around and sold me a quarter interest in a show that somebody was going to write and somebody else was going to produce and that took all but five thousand dollars.

"That and the cars I had, I traded in for some stock that a bright young fellow sold me, and the assessments on the stock took the rest of it. So now I am back where I was. I don't feel so bad about losing the money, for I certainly got some excitement out of it, but I do wish I could have hung onto about a hundred dollars so I could have bought that canoe and enough grub to last for a week's cruise.

MRS. WILLIAM R. HEARST TO BE RADIO SPEAKER

Mrs. William Randolph Hearst will be heard over a nation-wide hookup of the Columbia Broadcasting system during the well babies and children program of the Radio Home-Makers' club at 3:45 a. m., central standard time, Tuesday, June 2. She will introduce Dr. William H. Parks, head of the research division of the New York City department of health.

Mrs. Hearst is a trustee and active worker for the New York Infirmary for Women and Children which arranged the broadcast.

THE WICHITA VALLEY FARMER

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF THE FARMER, DAIRYMAN, POULTRY RAISER AND FRUIT AND TRUCK GROWER

Irrigation Water-Users Expected To Speed Up to Rate of One Acre Two Hours, District Officials say

Users of irrigation water will be expected to irrigate this summer at the rate of at least an acre in two hours, according to an announcement from the district offices. Where the land has been properly prepared for watering and the ditches properly constructed, there should be no difficulty in complying with the rule, district officials believe.

Records on length of time required to distribute the water were kept last season and showed an average, for the district, of 5.35 hours per acre. The effort will be made to greatly improve this showing this summer.

In a letter to water-users, General Manager G. A. Remington of the water district says:

"On all well governed and well regulated irrigation canal systems those in charge have placed a limit of some kind on the quantity of water that a user may apply to his crops in order to properly irrigate them. On some systems such a regulation is necessary by reason of the fact that their irrigation water supply is scarce and on others because the cost of pumping is too great to permit even a small waste. On other systems the capacity on the canals and laterals is too small to carry an extra supply of water. On canal systems where the courts have decreed the water rights the usual procedure is for the district to make deliveries continuously and require that 80 or even 100 acres of land be irrigated with each second foot of water. Such a requirement makes it necessary for the canal organization to install expensive measuring devices. On canal systems where a demand or rotation method of water delivery has been established it is a common practice to limit the time. In the Modesto irrigation district in California the users are required to irrigate an acre every 30 minutes and the supply is rotated to each farm every 30 days. This is one system where an irrigation water supply does a very high duty.

"On our old canal system from Lake Wichita a rotation method of delivery under complete charge of the ditchrider was established about four years ago and the users are irrigating a large area of garden crops with a small water supply. On the larger system from Lake Kemp a rotation delivery has not been established by the district and probably will not be until such time as the area to be supplied exceeds the capacity of the canal. When we have a large area devoted to an intensive and diversified system of agriculture, which will come with the production of special crops and the establishment of good markets, it will be necessary to rotate the water supply between farms or groups of users but in the meantime the present system of making water deliveries to users on demand can continue. We have an abundant irrigation water supply but this should not excuse its wasteful use. Wichita county has provided ample surface drainage along its highways but this does not excuse a user in wasting irrigation water into road gutters. An excessive use or waste of water is a direct cause of a waterlogged condition and a further rise in the ground water plane should be avoided if a more careful use of our irrigation water supply will help. Advance preparation and levelling of the field so that the border or corrugation methods of irrigation can be practiced by the user makes the application of water an easy task.

"An adequate irrigation water right has been well defined as the least quantity of water necessary to produce a maximum crop. No water user should demand more than the supply covered by this definition of a full right and every canal organization should endeavor to furnish its users such a supply at such times throughout the year as may best meet such a demand We all understand, of course, that some rules regarding water deliveries are necessary on a canal system, such as we have here in the Big Wichita river valley. From the beginning our district has required a written notice of three days from the time a user orders his water supply to the time that the district must begin deliveries. Such a rule is necessary by reason of the fact that it is 46 miles by canal from Diversion lake to the last farm in the district.

"Locks are maintained by the district on all headgates leading away from the north and south side canals in order that a supply of water may be delivered to every farm on the system as it is ordered without interference or interruption by other users who may not have ordered their supply or who may not have given the required notice. All users are required to construct large ditches from the district canal or lateral system to and through their farms and to maintain such ditches fit to use at all times. It is just as necessary that the user have a good farm ditch system as it is for the district to construct and maintain a good system to carry water to the user's farm. The user is required to have one or more irrigators stay in the field with the head of water continuously both night and day when the supply is being delivered to him in order that he may get the greatest use in the shortest time.

"From a detailed survey recently made from the record of all our water deliveries for 1930 we find the average for the whole district was an acre irrigated every 5.35 hours. These figures indicate a very wasteful use and one that we feel can be very greatly improved. We feel that any good farmer or irrigator with a reasonable supply of water with good large farm ditches and with the land preparation that has already been made here can irrigate an acre of any kind of crop in less than two hours. Some of our users have such a record for 1930.

"Beginning with the irrigation season of 1931 the district shall require that the water users make an effort to irrigate an acre every two hours and do this continuously from the time that the water is delivered. We respectfully ask our water users, both land owners and tenants, to cooperate with the district in this new requirement so that the largest area of our irrigated fields may be supplied with the required moisture throughout the coming summer months in the least possible time and without waste."

Every Day Life of the Farmer's Wife

Well, folks! What we need on the farm is more pay days, and I have figured out how we Wichita county people can have a generous pay check next March if I can only get a few farmers and their wives interested.

I suppose most all of you noticed they were offering 24 cents per pound for capons that would weigh eight pounds or over. Now folks, there is no excuse for this section not having a car of capons to sell next spring. Fryers, baby chicks and hatching eggs are cheap. From all prospects we will have a bumper feed crop this year, we already have a bumper crop of wheat, it is too cheap to sell so why not feed a bunch of capons to sell next spring when all farm folks are in dire need of cash.

Farm women, did you know you could make a bunch of capons do the same thing in March that your turkeys do in November. It is comparatively easy to make 9 and 10-pound capons out of any of the large breeds of chickens. Did you ever stop to figure what a 10-pound capon would bring at 24 cents per pound? I believe Texas should raise more capons. Capons don't require expensive houses, and are not so much trouble or expense to to raise as turkeys. All they require is a dry shelter. Even we tenant farmers could have a bunch of capons to sell next spring, and just think how nice that extra cash would be next February or March. That is just about the time when farmers usually have to go to the bank and beg for a loan, and he may get it and he may not. Think of the humiliation of having to beg for a loan. I think it would be much nicer to go to a little trouble this spring and summer and get a bunch of capons ready to sell next spring. To get along on a farm one has to plan a long time in advance, but it pays.

Now, folks, don't say to yourself, "Oh, times will be better next spring, something will turn up, I can get by without going to the trouble of raising capons." This is one of the farmer's worst troubles, he is always figuring on some sort of miracle next year. Let me tell you right here the only miracle that will ever happen on the farm is what we farm folks make happen. Every one who has ever lived on a farm knows that farmers can always use extra cash about the first of March. That is about the time we have to buy field seed. The kiddies' school clothes wear out about then and have to be replaced and we have to have garden seed, mother and the girls would like to have a new spring hat, Easter is just around the corner, and, of course, they will want a new dress by that time. We usually want some baby chickens, and a thousand other expenses come along about that time so why not prepare for them now.

If any of the farm women read this who have husbands whom you simply can't interest in anything new, why not try at least 25 capons on your own hook? Surely you can easily use $50 next March and you will never miss the 25 fryers you make into capons. It won't take much feed for that number and surely you can find some place on the farm that you can use to shelter them. Mr. McGown, the county agent, has assured me of his hearty cooperation in this project, and I want every one who is willing to join it to drop Mr. McGown a card telling him how many capons you will agree to raise, just any number from 25 up. I will start the list by signing up for 100 light Brahma capons, and if we get this thing started right I may agree to raise 200 capons. We would like to get enough for a car, then we could get a buyer to come here, Mr. McGown told me he tried to get this started two years ago but no one seemed interested. I hate to admit it, but as long as we farmers have a dime we are mighty hard to interest in anything new. Two years ago we all had a few laying hens, we were getting a fair price for eggs, our cows were bringing in fair returns, so we just let our county agent's advice go in one ear and out the other. Very few offered to help him with a project that could and should be making the farmers of this section several thousand dollars each spring. When we are broke we are all interested in anything that will make a dime, so now I have hopes of getting this new project started.

When once the people see how easy it is to have a cash crop for sale the first of March I believe every one will be interested. I am sure there are enough broad minded women in this section to see the advantages in having a bunch of capons to sell each spring. Let's get away from the habit of running to the bank every time we need money, let's plan ahead and have more than one pay day each year. I really don't know how many capons it would take to make a car, and I don't know how late chickens can be hatched for capons but you can drop G. C. McGown, county agent, Wichita Falls, a card and he will tell you.

All of you women who have been longing for a bath room, a kitchen sink, a living room suite, a washing machine or a new stove can have them next spring if you will give a little of your time to raising capons now. This is a mighty good way to start towards getting what you have wanted so long. Maybe you are one of those women who, every spring about house cleaning time, has longed for a can or two of paint to do over the furniture. We all know that with a little paint we can make old furniture look gay and modern. A lot of us will need new curtains next spring and probably a new linoleum for the kitchen. Well you can have it all if you will just be a little far sighted and raise capons now. Let's start right now and arrange our business so we can have a few of the things we want. The person who plans his business ahead is the one who has a bank account.

I am sure that if we will raise enough capons we can get a market. I see where the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce has a marketing committee and I am sure they would cooperate with us in securing a market for anything that helps the farmers of this section helps Wichita Falls. I would also like to know if the poultry buyers of this section would not be willing to cooperate.

Now folks, if you live in this county or in the trade territory of Wichita Falls and are willing to help in the least, drop Mr. McGown a card and tell him so. If you have chickens tell him how many you will caponize. If you don't have chickens but are willing to help by securing the market, tell him that.

I wonder if you farm boys and girls who graduated from high school this spring, and who are wearying yourselves sick trying to plan some way to get money to go to college have ever thought of raising capons. On most of the farms this year there is not a chance for the graduate to go on to college on account of financial conditions, but by following the plan I have explained you could raise 200 capons this summer, sell them next February and enter college. You would not lose much time.

I have been watching the capon market for years and they always have been around 25 cents per pound each spring. I believe 200 good capons would bring close to $400. You know that would help a long way toward a college education, and did you know you could buy 350 baby chicks now for about $25. If you want the Barred Rock breed I can tell you how you can buy all roosters. Select the lightest colored baby chicks with the yellow shanks and 95 per cent of your chicks will be roosters. The Barred Rock pullets are darker when they are hatched and have dark shanks too. Probably if your mother has the chickens already hatched she would be glad to give you 200 roosters to make into capons and to pay your college expenses, and I am sure if dad makes a feed crop he would be glad to donate the feed. Then all you would have to do is the work, and if you are not willing to work you don't deserve a college education and probably wouldn't study if you were sent there. But remember, boys and girls, that in working to pay for your education you will naturally acquire a lot of common sense, which is something we all need. All the education in the world won't make a person intelligent if he doesn't have common sense.

You boys and girls who will graduate next spring might take a hint from this and raise capons this summer, then next spring when you graduate you could go right on to college. If you don't care to raise 200 capons you could, at least, raise 30 or 40, then you will have money for the numerous things that the seniors must buy each spring when they graduate.

Now folks, let's work together and make Wichita Falls the first capon producing section of Texas. Mr. McGown will give you all the instructions you need if you will write him.

ALFALFA BIDS FOR A PLACE ON THIS COUNTY'S FARM PROGRAM

Wichita county this year has the largest alfalfa acreage in its history, and results of the first cuttings point to excellent yields in most fields. The above picture shows R. H. Preston harvesting his 17-acre alfalfa patch east of Burkburnett. Mr. Preston expects to get about 19 tons from the 17 acres. This is fall-sown alfalfa.

NEW LAW CURTAILS PRODUCE PEDDLING BY TRUCK OWNERS

The law signed by Governor Sterling last Wednesday, imposing a heavy occupation tax on produce peddlers, is expected to affect the local marketing situation to some extent. The law does not go into effect until late in August, however.

Under the law, truck operators who haul and sell produce which they did not raise themselves will be subject to an occupation tax, which varies according to the size of the load. This tax is expected to put many truck owners out of business. In any event it is likely to curtail the practice of bringing loads of fruit from the Rio Grande valley and tomatoes from East Texas, and flooding local markets with them.

Passage of the law was supported by local wholesalers and by local truck growers in the belief that partial elimination of the peddlers would improve local produce marketing conditions.

No Remedy for Root Rot Yet Found But Bulletin Tells of Several Ways Lessening Damage From This Cause

Despite long and studious efforts to find a remedy for it, root rot is still causing millions of dollars loss to Texas farmers annually. An experiment station bulletin just issued No. 423, entitled "Cotton Root Rot and Its Control" tells of some of the ways that have been tried to combat the fungus, but also makes it plain that there is not yet any specific cure.

Root rot is one of the most destructive plant disease known. Annual losses from root rot to the cotton crop of Texas are estimated at 10 to 15 per cent. This direct reduction in yield results from the early death of large numbers of plants, which thus produce few or no bolls. Even on infected plants which mature some bolls, the lint may be of a quality inferior to that of lint from normal plants and hence may lower the value of the entire crop. Further loss may arise from the difficulty of harvesting cotton from plants killed by root rot, since the cotton is hard to pull from the hardened, undersized, and often only partly opened bolls of such plants. This has resulted in some instances in the abandonment of the crop in some fields with many dead plants. To the losses to cotton must be added damage to legumes, which are so severely injured as to interfere with their use in systems of rotation in places where the disease occurs. Including the damage to the many other kinds of plants on which root rot occurs, the average aggregate annual loss from the disease in Texas is estimated at around $100,000,000.

Disease Widespread

So far as is known, root rot is not an introduced disease, but originated in Southwest United States or in Mexico. It is common now on native plants even in virgin land in typical semi-arid regions, in the prairies, in sub-humid regions, and in the humid regions along the gulf. The disease exists unsuspected on the roots of native plants in virgin soil, and is then discovered when the land is cleared and susceptible crops are grown.

Damage from root rot is most conspicuous when it attacks important cultivated crops such as cotton or alfalfa, or large trees and shrubs such as peaches, figs, elms and rose bushes. However, it is not limited to such a relatively small number of plants. About 550 kinds of plants are now known to be susceptible to the disease.

Some plants are not attacked by root rot. Among these may be mentioned all members of the grass family, which includes the grain crops such as corn, sorghum, wheat, oats, rice, et cetera. Most of the plants of the melon, onion, lily, mint and asparagus families also appear to be highly resistant to the disease. The live-oak, hackberry and sycamore trees are resistant after the seeding stage. Cabbage appears resistant to root rot; and many other truck crops such as carrots, spinach, beets and lettuce are susceptible to root rot but usually escape infection when grown as fall, winter or spring crops.

Root rot is characterized by sudden wilting of the foliage, followed by rapid death in the case of tender plants and gradual or delayed death of shrubs and trees. Plants may recover from the first attack only to succumb eventually to further infection. The roots of diseased plants are decayed as a result of the attack of the root rot fungus.

Root rot is not only an important disease in the blacklands, but occurs in almost every soil type found in Texas. It has been found in soils of at least 30 soil series. Root rot occurs more abundantly, spreads more rapidly, and is more destructive in soils that are neutral or somewhat alkaline than in soils that are acid. This relation has been proved to be true by experimental tests as well as by extensive field observations.

Inoculation experiments and field excavations indicate that the fungus spreads from plant to plant chiefly along the roots rather than independently through the soil.

Lives Through Winter

The root rot fungus over-winters in an active condition on the living roots of infected plants, and in a dormant condition. Cotton roots survive the winter even though the tops are killed by frost; the root rot fungus has been shown to continue spreading on these roots during the winter; and, infected, over-wintered roots served as inoculum to infect normal plants. The results of numerous experiments indicate that the vegetative strands of the fungus die as the root tissues decay. The roots of perennial weeds in cultivated fields, fence-rows, and stubble land may carry the disease over winter; and the disease may also be carried over to a somewhat lesser extent on roots of winter annuals.

Experiments to test various methods for the control of root rot are in progress. Some of these are soil disenfectants, fertilizers and manure, deep plowing and subsoiling, rotation with non-susceptible crops and clean culture to check spread, and the testing and development of resistant varieties.

Tentative recommendations for the control of root rot are given by the authors of the bulletin. Methods are suggested for field crops, particularly cotton, for orchards, nurseries, truck crops, and public and home plantings. The methods suggested are rotation with non-susceptible crops for at least three years, combined with clean culture to destroy weeds. Rows of sorghum are suggested as barriers to prevent the spread of root rot into fields free of the disease. Resistant plants are recommended for citrus, grapes and ornamental plantings. The bulletin may be obtained from county agents or by writing the Texas agriculture experiment station at College Station.

INTEREST AROUSED IN FEEDING OUT OF MORE CALVES HERE

A much larger number of farmers and stockmen are expected to feed out calves next winter, as a result of a meeting held here last Tuesday at the Wichita club. The occasion was the visit here of D. Burns of the cottonseed crushers organization, who told of the success that had been attained in other counties by farmers who marketed their feed crops on the hoof.

It is planned to induce a number of farmers who have had experience in feeding out calves to feed half a carload to a carload each next winter. Tentative arrangements have been made for financing the purchase of the calves.

Mr. Burns visited the Martin and Keith farms while here.

In Lamb county, where large numbers of calves were fed last winter, farmers netted in many instances $2 per ton more for their feed than could have been obtained by selling it direct.

RENTER FINDS PASTURE IMPROVEMENT PAYS

SHERMAN, Texas, May 30.—"If every one had to pay rent on pasture land, we'd have better pastures," declares Herbert Taylor, Grayson county farmer, who has improved two acres of pasture that he figures will be worth $150 to him this year. Mr. Taylor became interested in the pasture demonstrations of B. F. Gray, county agent, because a little study showed him that he had to pay about the same rent for grass land that he did for corn land—an average of $5 per acre. He sowed a mixture of sweet and burr clover and black medic on land grown up to volunteer wheat, oats and barley. Five head of livestock can't keep the growth down, which is knee high, and Mr. Taylor declares he could pasture twice the stock he has on this small pasture.

By feeding it to five pigs, Fred Wolter, DeWitt county demonstrator, made a market of 96 cents a bushel for 20 bushels of corn that was worth only 50 cents on the local market. County agent says it took $2 worth of home mixed protein supplement to balance the corn, the whole fed in self-feeders. Pigs sold for seven cents per pound at the farm.

MARKETING GROUP STUDIES WORK OF OTHER COUNTIES

Plans for marketing the three crops included in the local growers' association program—onions, cantaloupes and watermelons—are being formulated. It will be about a month before the first of these crops, onions, is ready for the market.

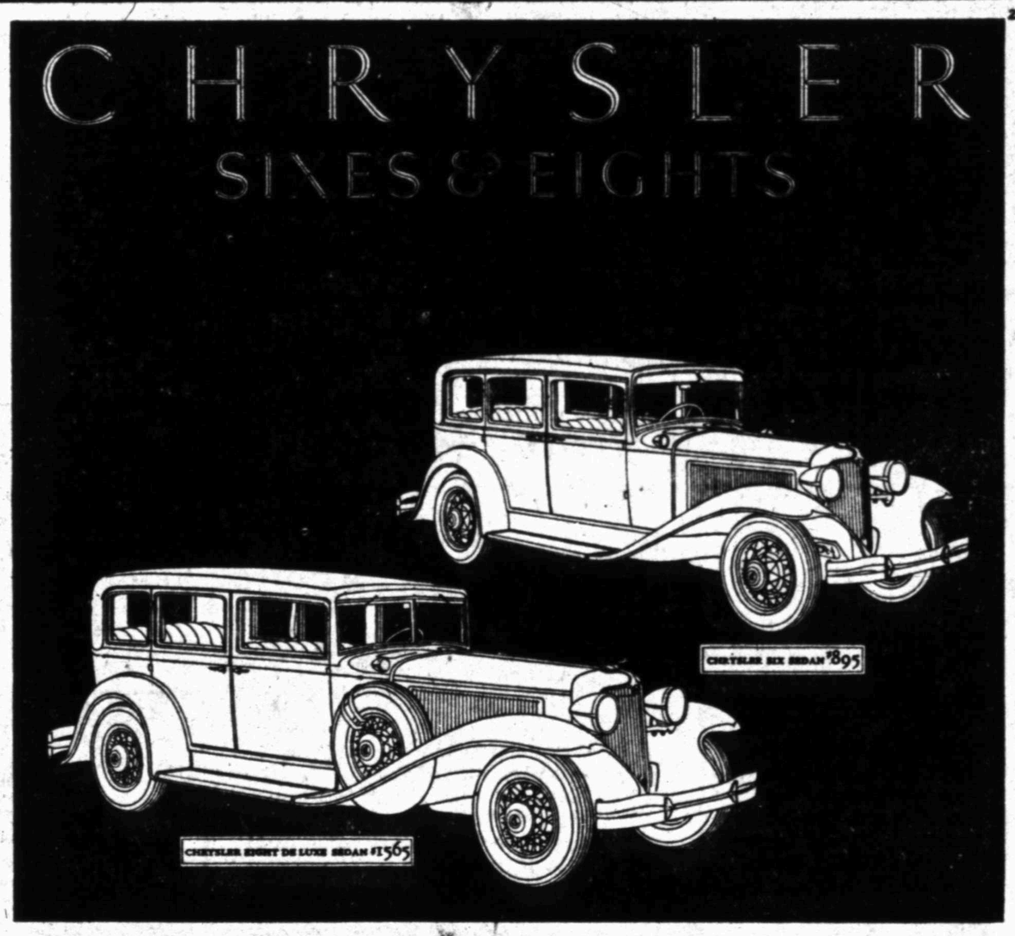

J. N. Sherrill of the chamber of commerce agricultural committee, G. A. Remington and Paul Tyson of the irrigation district, went to Collin county recently to study the onion marketing situation there, and obtained much information that is expected to prove helpful. Collin county has about 2,500 acres in onions and the crop has proven a profitable one in most seasons.

The backward spring has prevented many cantaloupe growers from getting a good stand in their plantings so far, and the crop will be later than usual. Messrs. Sherrill, Remington and Tyson are planning to visit Chico and other Wise county points shortly to study the cantaloupe situation there.

CROCKETT FARMERS SELL SYRUP AT PREMIUM

CROCKETT, Texas, May 30.—That the public will pay a premium for superior products if it can be assured of getting what it wants is the experience of a Houston county farmer who sells his ribbon cane syrup in wholesale quantities for as much money as ordinary syrup brings on the retail market, C. E. Bowles, county agent, reports. W. H. Anderson, who lives near Ratcliff, has learned to make a heavy bodied syrup of uniform quality that he sells with a special label on which is printed a guarantee that the syrup must please the customer or money will be refunded. In 10 years he has replaced only 17 buckets out of 10,000 sold, and these had only slightly sugared while on a merchant's shelf.

There has never been a time when more care was needed in making up livestock rations. When prices are high, errors in judgment may only shrink profits, but right now anything short of skillful feeding turns slight profits into losses. Good farmers are worth watching these days.

A Difference that's Fascinating

CHRYSLER engineering is quite different from other engineering—therefore Chrysler performance is quite different from other performance, joyously different — more animated — smoother — more effortless to drive.

Simply drive a Chrysler and learn the difference between Chrysler and other cars.

Drive a new Chrysler Six. A fine, big Six of 116-inch wheelbase; a staunch double-drop frame and low center of gravity; a 70-horsepower engine; safety bodies of steel; positive self-equalizing internal hydraulic brakes.

Drive a new Chrysler Eight De Luxe. A de luxe car, outside and inside. Smart divided windshield. Luxurious appointments. A 124-inch wheelbase. Low center of gravity. Great stamina and sturdiness. A 95-horsepower engine—80 miles an hour if you want it, and always smooth.

Drive a Chrysler Imperial Eight — finest, fastest, largest Chrysler ever built. 145-inch wheelbase. 125-horsepower. Winner of twelve official A.A.A. Contest Board speed records for one to five miles.

The new De Luxe Eight and the Imperial Eight both have an exclusive Dual High transmission. TWO high gears — and you can shift from either to the other, at any car speed, without clashing. One high gear for flashing action in traffic. Another still higher gear gives faster speeds at slower engine speeds.

Drive a Chrysler—any Chrysler—and learn for yourself the better value Chrysler offers.

Wichitans Raise Strawberries to Five-Inch Girth

If Luther Burbank were living today he might easily be credited with having worked his wizardry into the mammoth strawberries being grown in the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Taylor, 3600 Crescent in City View district.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Saturday exhibited two boxes of freshly picked berries declared by many the largest they had ever seen. The biggest of the berries measured exactly five inches in circumference and were perfect in conformation and coloring.

The Taylor garden is on the irrigation system and the plants until this season have been watered. Irrigation has been unnecessary, however, this spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor also have been successful in producing an exceptional quality and quantity of currants.

LARGE CROWDS ATTEND SHOW FORD MODELS

The display of the complete line of Ford passenger and commercial cars and trucks, and exhibits showing how they are made, are attracting large crowds to the Ford show presented by Northwest Motors, Inc., local dealer, in cooperation with nearby dealers. The show is being held in a tent at Tenth and Lamar and will continue through Tuesday being open to the public from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.

A feature of the show is the moving picture depicting the manufacture of the Ford from the production of raw materials to the finished car. This picture gives one a comprehensive idea of quantity production and of the extent to which waste and by-products are utilized.

The Fords, resplendent in their various colors and lustrous rustless steel trimmings, attracted attention from all. Attendants were kept busy answering questions and explaining the features of the new body types—why it is that rustless steel retains its luster permanently without polishing, how the double acting shock absorbers work, how the drivers' seats in closed cars are adjusted, and so on.

By means of a cut away body and chassis, explanations of features of body construction and mechanical details were made so plainly that even the layman could understand them. The body is cut practically in half, revealing the construction of the steel body panels, roof and seats. Portions of the chassis are cut away to disclose moving parts in the transmission, brakes and rear end. There is also a cut-away chassis of the model AA truck.

Explanations were further illustrated by special displays of Ford parts, such as rustless steel, shatter-proof glass, ball and roller bearings, forgings and accessories.

Straight Answers to Everyday Questions About the Problem of Family Protection

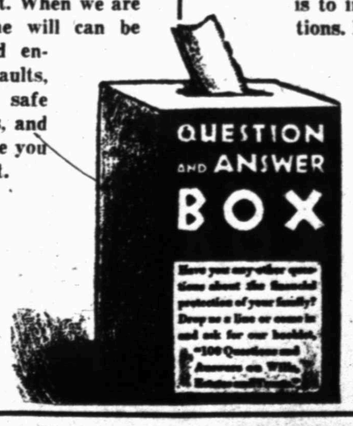

Who should keep my will after it is made?

You may keep it yourself, but be sure that it is in a safe place, such as a safe deposit box in your Bank. Be sure that somebody in your confidence knows where you keep it. When we are the executor, the will can be kept in a sealed envelope in our vaults, free of charge, safe from prying eyes, and available any time you wish to consult it.

May my will be changed or cancelled during my lifetime?

Yes; you may cancel—that is, revoke—it whenever you please, and change it as often as you like. But you should not undertake to change it by erasures or interlineations, for to do so is to invite contests and other litigations. If you wish to change your will, have your lawyer rewrite it entirely, or have him prepare a codicil executed with the same formality with which you executed the original will itself.

Through a codicil you can appoint us as your executor with the knowledge that we will always be here to carry out your expressed wishes.

Permanent Protection

It is distasteful to the average man to consider the duty of disposing of his estate, and oftentimes he thinks the necessity remote.

However, it is every man's duty to assure his family permanent protection and care in the event of his death. This is best accomplished by making a will and naming this bank as executor and trustee.

"Give Me INFORMATION"

If the information you are seeking refers to the most desirable way of handling your estate, you're on the right line when you talk with us.

Everyday we are called upon for such information as: "How much ready money would it take to settle my affairs?" "My wife dreads the thought of making investments—how can I avoid this for her?" "My son's going to be a doctor. I want him to be sure of a certain income until he establishes a practice." A talk with our Trust Officer usually settles such questions satisfactorily.

We invite you, too, to draw on our experience for suggestions. Make an appointment with us over the telephone for a personal talk.
