TRUSTEES FAIL TO COMPLY WITH HEW DIRECTIVE

School District On Road To Court

By JEAN FANNIN

Big Spring school trustees would prefer to be under court supervision than under Health-Welfare-Education supervision when it comes to establishing racial or ethnic balances in elementary schools, they decided Wednesday evening.

In failing to formulate or approve a plan in compliance with an HEW directive, turstees took the first step in what probably will be a year-long administrative and legal trip ending in the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans, La. This could cost from $8,000 to $15,000. Immediate adoption of a plan, on the other hand, could require as many as 17 buses, which district officials said could not be obtained under a year.

Trustees did approve a letter drafted by attorney Gil Jones requesting an extension of time.

The four-page letter contends that there is no segregation in Big Spring schools and that Mexican-Americans should be classified as Caucasian. A history of the district's voluntary integration following the 1954 U.S. Supreme Court decision that "separate is not equal" and the 1964 Civil Rights Act is detailed. The draft described Big Spring as the pioneer in voluntary desegregation in Texas.

Jones Wednesday night sketched actions the trustees could expect following receipt of the letter by the Office of Civil Rights, Health-Education-Welfare.

A board of examiners probably will be convened in Washington within about a month to study the failure of the Big Spring Independent School District to comply with the HEW directive requesting a plan to remedy "racial imbalance."

Supt. S. M. Anderson will be invited to meet with the board to present such plan as the district may have at that time or valid reasons for not presenting a plan, Jones said.

The decision of the board can be expected to follow HEW guidelines, Jones said, as can the subsequent decision of an appeal to HEW.

In approximately six months the district may receive a letter from the Secretary of the Health-Education-Welfare Department saying that all federal funds are being suspended from the district.

At this time the school district can file suit in the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

Jones reminded the trustees that the judge can impose an even stiffer plan on the district than HEW, or he can modify the plan recommended by HEW, or he can send the entire plan back to HEW for complete revision.

Jones said that federal funds (which in this year's budget totaled $300,000) can be suspended from the time of the HEW secretary's notification until the district is in compliance with a court order, at which time all back funds will be paid the district.

This creates possibly another problem. While the district may sustain current federal programs during the time of suspension (and ultimately receive payment), the district may not apply for any new programs which may be initiated during the period, Anderson said.

A major reason for being under court supervision rather than under HEW supervision, Jones pointed out, is that the courts do not require a year-by-year adjustment.

HEW could change guidelines each year as it gains judicial or political or economical support for the changes, Jones said. The courts do not require adjustments once the district is completely desegregated in compliance with the court order.

Two plans were submitted to trustees Wednesday night by Anderson, although he emphasized that he did not endorse either.

One involved grouping all sixth graders of the district into classes at Lakeview and Bauer, and distributing the first through fifth grades of those two schools among the other elementary schools in the district. Anderson said that Dr. John A. Bell, regional director of the office of civil rights of HEW, had indicated this plan would be acceptable.

The second plan involved pairing of Lakeview and Kentwood and Bauer and Marcy schools, with the first through fourth grades attending classes at a neighborhood school, the fifth grades from both schools paired at one school and the sixth grades from both schools paired at the second school. This plan also would probably be acceptable to HEW, Anderson said.

Anderson reported that at a meeting Tuesday in Dallas, he and superintendents from other school districts in a situation similar to Big Spring's were told HEW will make $75 million in emergency loans available to schools on a point basis consisting of the number of students in the district, the number of minority students, the number of students to be moved etc. There was no indication how much money, if any, Big Spring would receive, Anderson said.

The school district received notification July 13 that HEW considered enrollment at two schools — Lakeview and Bauer — to be racially imbalanced and requesting a plan for remedying the situation by July 29 (today). Subsequently Anderson and Jones met with Dr. Bell in Dallas, and Dr. Bell told them they could not be given an extension of time.

In the draft approved Wednesday night the board again requests an extension of time:

"It is the position of our board that the shortness of time from the receipt of your letter to the suggested date of submission of a plan of compliance (16 days) does not give the board nor this office sufficient time to be fully informed as to the requirements imposed by the United States Supreme Court . . . nor is this sufficient time in which to devise a plan of compliance which would afford the pupils of this district the maximum educational benefits without serious disruptive effects. Any plan we might adopt at this time would require at least 17 additional buses (which are not available for at least a year) or, alternatively, staggering hours of attendance in many of our elementary schools."

The draft also notes that:

"It has been the practice of this district to spend all compensatory education funds from the Title I ESEA at Bauer and Lakeview (and Cedar Crest), resulting in remarkable advances for these children both in academic achievement and in health and nutrition. If we should move these children to other elementary schools throughout the district, the effective use of these compensatory funds for the benefit of those children who most need the help would be adversely affected."

'Busing Case' Altered Rules For Integration

Until April 20, 1971, the Big Spring Independent School District met every HEW criteria for integration.

But on that day the United States Supreme Court handed down a decision, often referred to as the "busing" decision or the Swann decision which completely changed the criteria, attorney Gil Jones told trustees of the Big Spring schools.

The decision, in effect, Jones said, divided the states into two categories — those which never had segregation laws and those which did. Texas at one time had segregation laws.

The decision said that the law is different and shall be applied differently to states in two categories.

"It is a sad commentary for me as a lawyer that the Supreme Court has decided there are two sets of laws for two categories of states," Jones said. "If this were Big Spring, Mass., instead of Big Spring, Tex., our school situation would be acceptable."

The Swann decision says that in any state which at one time had segregation laws (which includes Texas) the district (which includes Big Spring) will be studied as it existed prior to the 1954 Supreme Court decision that "separate is not equal."

If the district had any segregation prior to that time, and if it still has any schools in which a minority or a combination of minorities which make up a majority of the enrollment, it will be presumed that the district still has segregation, according to the decision, Jones said.

The decision says the district must remove every vestige of segregation, and this can be accomplished by busing, Jones said.

Jones emphasized Wednesday night that the decision has not yet been tested, and that the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans has, as yet, made no ruling concerning any cases based on the Swann decision.

He pointed out that in the year before the Big Spring case can be resolved the Swann decision will be tested in court and could be changed or modified by subsequent decisions.

IMMUNE TO PESTICIDES

'Super' Mosquitoes

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A type of mosquito which can carry diseases is reported out of control in California because it has developed immunity to all known pesticides.

State officials say the mosquito sometimes carries a form of sleeping sickness that could be fatal to humans although no cases have been reported so far this year.

The mosquito can carry Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis (VEE), which is sweeping Mexico and Texas, and another variety of sleeping sickness often fatal to humans, Peters said.

"There is a mosquito crisis in the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys," he said. "We have a mosquito explosion in these areas and it is likely to spread to other parts of the state. We are greatly concerned."

The meeting dealt first with the threat of VEE to horses, where it is fatal about 60 per cent of the time. It affects humans less severely, somewhat like influenza. Plans were made to organize "an army of veterinarians" to immunize all of the state's 400,000 horses.

VEE has not reached California, but Peters predicted it will because of traffic from Mexico.

Culex tarsalis is known to carry two other kinds of sleeping sickness. One, the St. Louis strain, affects only humans, mostly adults, and usually is not fatal.

The other, Western equine encephalitis, is often fatal to humans, health officers said.

An outbreak in California in 1952 affected some 800 persons. Fifty died and another 50, mostly very young children, survived with permanent brain damage.

Tests for the Western strain are being conducted in all parts of the state, he said.

"The way things stand now," said Dr. Robert van den Bosch of the Division of Biological Control at the University of California at Berkeley, "animals and people are going to die."

Better water management is needed, he said, and new ways must be found to control mosquitoes through natural enemies such as insects and fish which eat the larvae of mosquitoes, he said.

Bean Picking' Kicks Off Settlers' Reunion Activities

Heaps 'n heaps of beans were picked this morning and are ready to be simmered and served along with the barbecue Friday at the 47th Annual Howard County Old Settlers Reunion at the Old Settlers Pavilion in Comanche Trail Park.

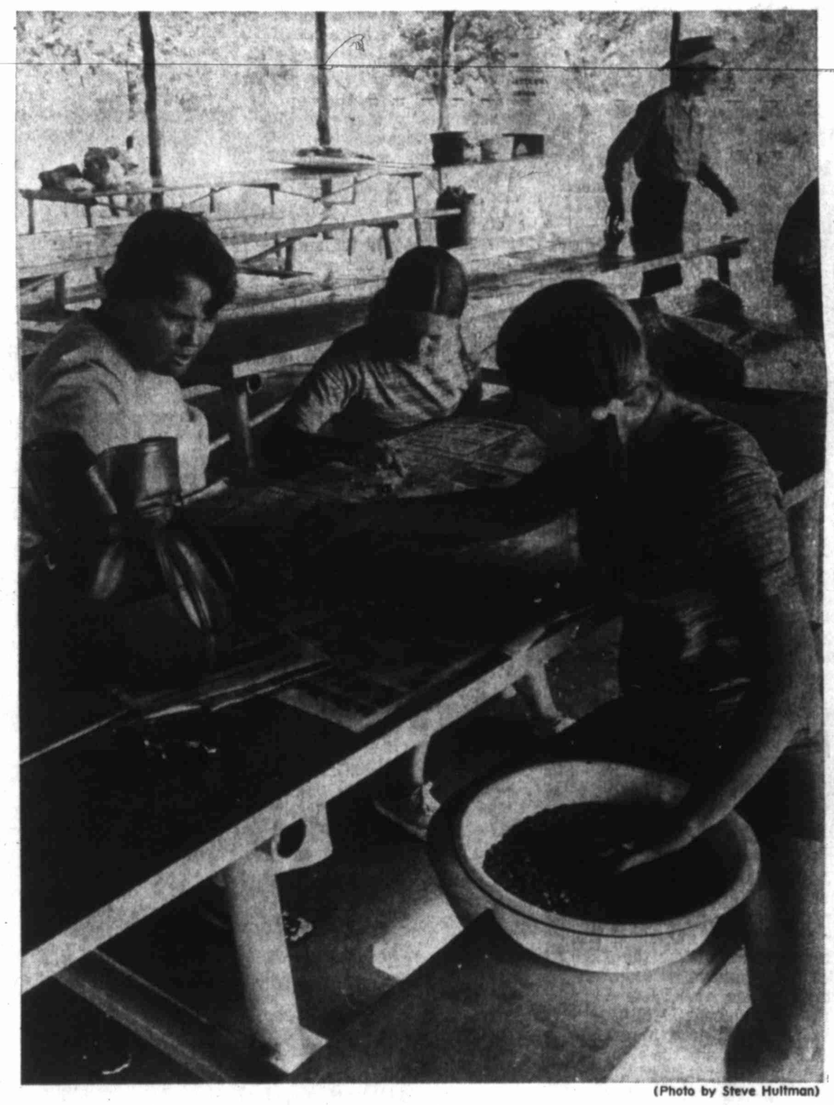

The annual bean pickin' was over in short order today as old, not-so-old and down-right-young settlers got down to business shortly after 9 a.m. The beans were soon separated from rocks and other less edible matter.

Dishpans and old enamel basins were all on hand to receive the cleaned beans. The beans will be placed in huge pots and placed over an open fire tonight in order to be tender and juicy when they're heaped on plates along side chunks of barbecue at the noon spread Friday.

In addition to plenty of good eatin,' the Old Settlers Reunion will feature ol' time, foot-stompin' fiddle music furnished by participants in the old fiddlers' contest and the band, "The Country Cousins," headed by Vandoyl and Dollie Murphree.

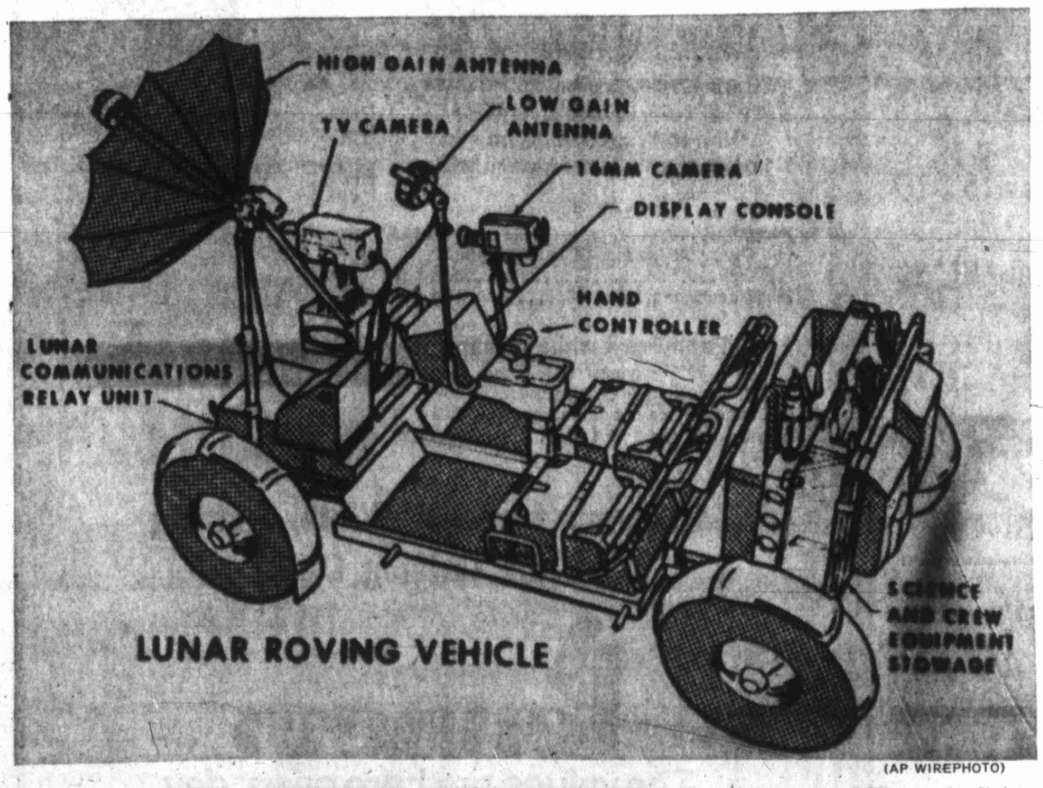

Mr. and Mrs. Murphree are serving as reunion president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, this year. "Daddy" Don Brooks, KHEM radio, will be the master of cremonies, and the Rev. Elra Phillips will present the invocation.

Special recognition will be given the oldest settlers to attend the reunion, and to the settler who comes the greatest distance to attend.

MILLIONS FOR MOBILITY — This is an artist's sketch of the astronauts moon buggy, at $8 million, the most expensive car ever built. Powered by two sets of batteries feeding motors in each wheel it has a maximum speed of 10 miles an hour. The rover weighs 480 pounds and can carry 1,000 pounds. It is 10 feet, two inches long, six feet wide, can climb over vertical obstacles a foot high or cross a 28-inch crevasse.

READY TO STREAK INTO ORBIT

Astros Zero In On Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 15 astronauts, their commander a newly qualified space plumber, zeroed in on the moon with a brief engine burst today and were ready to fire into lunar orbit using a new technique that will require split-second manual control.

The one-second course change maneuver at 10:04 a.m. CDT nudged the spaceship onto a more precise path that will take it within 65 miles of the moon's surface later in the day.

NICE BURN

Scott, who used a wrench Wednesday night to fix a water leak in the cabin, reported "I guess you can see it was a nice smooth burn."

Apollo 15 was 14,294 miles from the moon, traveling 2,691 miles an hour.

As the astronauts make their close approach to the moon, they will execute a new engine ignition procedure to shoot into orbit.

The new firing procedure is necessary to by-pass a short circuit that developed in the engine system shortly after Scott, James B. Irwin and Alfred M. Worden were launched from Cape Kennedy Monday on their moon-landing expedition.

Astronaut Richard Gordon, commander of the Apollo 15 backup crew, worked out the technique in a computer-driven simulator here and passed up instructions to Apollo 15 Wednesday night.

First trial of the procedure is set for 3:05 p.m. CDT today when Apollo 15 sweeps behind the backside of the moon and fires into orbit about 70 miles above the surface.

The short is in one of two electrical circuits which the astronauts can use to trigger the 20,500-pound thrust engine on their command ship Endeavour.

It indicates the firing mechanism on one bank has been armed and that the use of a computer to fire the engine might ig 799$it prematurely. Mission Control does not believe the engine actually is n't want to take chances. o

The second circuit is in good condition, but at least six more firings of the engine are planned and to use the second bank for all six might deteriorate it.

Under the procedures worked out by Gordon, Apollo 15 will use computer control and the good circuit for the most critical burns. A hybrid maneuver employing both circuits under manual control will be used for the firings requiring less, but still extremely accurate, precision, such as the one firing them into moon orbit.

While the astronauts were in asleep period at 1:25 a.m. today Apollo 15 quietly slipped through a so-called "twilight zone" in which the gravitational influence of the earth and moon is equal. They were 219,308 miles from home and 39,028 miles from the moon.

INVISIBLE LINE

When the spaceship passed this invisible line, the moon won the gravitational tug of war and Apollo 15's speed accelerated after slowing to about 2,001 miles an hour. The speed will increase to about 5,700 m.p.h. when the astronauts loop around the moon's backside.

BUT IT WAS DRY HERE!

Showers fell in the northeast part of Howard County Wednesday afternoon, and across the southern strip.

Rain, with some hail, poured out as much as .9 of an inch in the territory west and southwest of Vincent. At Lake Thomas, both the Snyder and the Big Spring-Odessa pump station gauged .4 of an inch, but there was little runoff.

Reports of half an inch came from the Forsan area of southern Howard County.

KEVIN RESTS — Nine-year-old Kevin Dye of Casper, Wyo., who was lost on rugged Casper Mountain for 11 days, rests on a stretcher Wednesday following his rescue.

Kevin 'Fine' After Hide, Seek Game

CASPER, Wyo. (AP) — Reunited with his mother after 10 days in the wilderness of Wyoming's high country, young Kevin Dye said he was fine. "But then," she said, "he always says fine."

The 9-year-old boy's physician said the fact that the retarded and epileptic youngster is hyperactive probably enabled him to survive chill nights on only water from mountain streams.

The youngster apparently played a game of hide and seek with search teams before his stamina gave out and he was unable to continue fleeing would-be rescuers. Search parties said he was seen at least twice but when they went to the spot, he was gone.

He was found Wednesday lying near a tiny stream 2½ miles from the cabin of a family friend where he was last seen July 18.

Two hours later he was in a Casper hospital, a bit scratched a bit bruised but too weak to have lasted another 48 hours in the open, his physician, Dr. Robert Fowler, said.

The boy is also a victim of aphasia, which limits his ability to understand and use language.

"His doctor told us that if we went about it gently, over a period of time we might get some information from him," the youngster's mother, Carolyn Dye, said.

The doctor described Kevin as hyperactive and said the unusual endurance that his constant activity has given him probably helped him survive nights on which the temperature dipped to 35 degrees.

He said Kevin had lost 15 of his 85 pounds.

During his 225-hour ordeal, Kevin managed to elude thousands of volunteer searchers, Air Force and National Guard helicopter crews, numerous tracking dogs, and for most of three days some of the top rescue teams in the Western States.

110 Military Men Convicted

JAKARTA (AP) — Military courts have convicted 110 military men in the past five years for a part in the murder of six army generals during the 1965 attempted Communist coup, an army spokesman said today.

The spokesman said 10 of the men were sentenced to death, 20 to life terms and the other 80 to prison terms ranging from 15 to 20 years. He refused to say how many of the 10 have been executed.

The coup in October 1965 was crushed quickly by Maj. Gen. Suharto, then chief of the army strategic reserve command and now president of Indonesia.

Less Icebergs

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP) — There are fewer icebergs in the heavily traveled areas of the North Atlantic this year, reports the U.S. Coast Guard Patrol.

They sighted only 61 bergs, attributing the low count to unusually frequent southern winds which affected the ocean's temperature so that the icebergs deteriorated as they drifted down Baffin Bay.

Asks Probe Of Odessa Solon's 'Railroad Job'

AUSTIN (AP)—A liberal leader in the Texas Senate has asked a House committee to investigate a possible conflict of interest in Rep. Ace Pickens of Odessa taking a job as a Congressional railroad lobbyist.

"It would appear that a flagrant conflict of interest exists," Sen. Oscar Mauzy, Dallas, said Wednesday.

Mauzy said since it is "common knowledge" that Pickens was a "loyal member" of Speaker Gus Mutscher's team during the recent legislature, the House General Investigating Committee also might want to "explore any other alleged involvement of the 'speaker's team.'"

Mauzy made no other reference to "alleged involvement" nor did he say specifically how anyone else might figure in.

Pickens, 34, has been in the legislature since 1965. Mutscher named him chairman of the insurance committee for the past session.

A letter by Mauzy to Rep. Menton Murray of Harlingen, investigating committee chairman, noted that the House adopted an amendment by Pickens May 19 to Mauzy's bill substituting comparative negligence for contributory negligence.

"In view of his employment as a railroad lobbyist, it has been speculated that Mr. Pickens' amendment was offered in contemplation of his employment by the railroad industry rather than as a member of the House of Representatives representing the citizens of Ector County," Mauzy's letter said.

Mauzy said Pickens' amendment would have exempted from Mauzy's bill cases arising out of accidents at railrpad grade crossings.

The entire comparative negligence proposal by Mauzy later died in a House-Senate conference committee. Mauzy's bill would have allowed a plaintiff in a personal injury suit to collect some damages even if he was partially at fault, while under contributory negligence a plaintiff could not recover anything if he was found even one per cent at fault.

GOP LEADERS SAY THEY WILL BE BACK

Conservatives Break With Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of conservative organizers and editors has broken politically with President Nixon, but Republican leaders say the defectors will be back because there's no place else for them to go in 1972.

"Sooner or later, these conservatives are going to look at the alternatives," said Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas, the GOP national chairman. "They certainly aren't going with any of the Democrats. And there aren't any alternatives on our side . . . Nixon's the nominee."

CHIPS DOWN

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona said he wasn't surprised at conservative dissatisfaction.

"But I don't believe this is going to amount to much, because when the chips are down, they're going to be with Nixon," Goldwater said. "The alternatives are too frightening."

"From a practical point of view, the conservatives have nowhere else to go," said Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee.

Goldwater and Dole agreed Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, the GOP figure who would loom as a potential rallying point for a conservative revolt, is a Nixon loyalist, and will remain one. This view is shared by others in the administration who say there is nobody on the right with credentials and inclination to oppose Nixon.

DIRECT COMMENT

"We do not plan at the moment to encourage formal political opposition to President Nixon in the forthcoming primaries, but we do propose to keep all options open in the light of political developments in the next months," the 11 leaders of conservative organizations and publications said Wednesday in announcing suspension of their support of the administration.

The best-known name on the list was that of William F. Buckley Jr., editor-in-chief of The National Review—and brother of New York Sen. James L. Buckley.

The senator avoided direct comment, and said through a spokesman he wasn't involved in the dissent, and wholeheartedly supports Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Sen. Buckley, elected on the Conservative ticket in New York in 1970, now lists his affiliation as Conservative-Republican. The two top men in the New York Conservative Party were among signers of the statement.

WELFARE OVERHAUL

Despite the statement issued in Buckley's behalf, the New York senator has expressed his own misgivings about some policies of the administration, especially at Nixon's planned visit to Communist China.

Goldwater has expressed conservative misgivings, too, about Nixon's proposed welfare overhaul, and about deficit spending by the administration. But the Arizona senator has guardedly endorsed the mission to Red China.

Scientists Designing New Smog Research Chamber

By BILL STOCKTON
Associated Press Writer

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Scientists, who say wrong decisions in the war on air pollution have resulted from poor smog chamber design, are building a sophisticated new model they hope will become standard nationwide.

Since the first smog research chamber was built in the early 1950s, scientists have been divided over whether they accurately simulate aerial reactions between pollutants and sunlight that produce smog.

Some chambers don't, critics say, and as a result laws have been passed and other measures put into effect to control pollution that are unrealistic.

The problem came into focus recently during a study of major smog chambers around the country in which widely varying results were obtained with known amounts of pollutants and radiation simulating sunlight.

"While there was qualitative agreement between the chambers, there was no quantitative agreement at all," said Dr. James Pitts, director of the University of California's air pollution research center.

A smog chamber usually is a box or tube — sometimes as big as a man — into which pollutants such as automobile exhaust and smokestack emissions are placed in measured amounts. The mixture is bombarded with radiation that simulates sunlight and the subsequent chemical changes measured.

Pitts and his colleagues describe the $250,000 facility they're building at the university's Riverside campus as the most advanced smog chamber in the country.

"What we are trying to build is a reference chamber that everyone will agree is a reference chamber," he said.

There still are many puzzling questions about air pollution that must be answered in such a chamber before more sophisticated pollution controls are put into use.

Such answers have been lacking in the past when important technological, economic and political decisions throughout the country were made, Pitts said.

"The decisions were made on the basis of inadequate data, misleading data, although I want to say it wasn't done on purpose."

The facility at Riverside will feature a $30,000 solar light simulator that reproduces the entire spectrum of sunlight, not just specific bands of radiation.

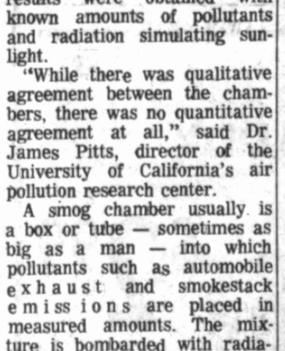

Scientists will be able to pump air from the chamber, simulating high altitudes where the polluting effects of supersonic transports can be studied.

The reference chamber will be hooked in tandem with a conventional smog chamber so results can be compared. Such a comparison can help scientists correct problems with other conventional chambers.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A state experiment that "locked in" Medicaid clients to only one doctor and one pharmacy has nearly halved costs. The Health Department adds that the participants received the same medical attention they had before the test program.

Flood Warnings In Texas Areas

By The Associated Press

A cool front which was nearly stalled along the Red River kept the rainfall spigots turned on over some waterlogged areas in Texas today.

Still more showers and thunderstorms were expected in nearly every section of the state, which less than a week ago still felt the effects of crippling drouth in many localities.

The persistent downpours caused the National Weather Service to issue a series of warnings against possible flash floods Tuesday, some remaining in force past midnight. There was no further word, however, of any severe flooding.

In most cases, the worst conditions saw smaller streams rise out of banks to cover roads in low areas and underpasses, principally in North Central and Northeast Texas.

By this morning, most of the thundershowers were moving through areas from Central into East Texas, parts of far West Texas and the north part of the Texas Panhandle.

One of the latest flood warnings covered Hansford County in the Panhandle, where thunderstorms turned loose rain at the rate of one inch per hour during the night.

Similar alerts went up earlier for rains lasting several hours in Dallas, Tarrant, Collins, Kaufman, Van Zandt, Rockwell, Hunt and Rains counties.

Dallas, for example, measured 2.27 inches of rain Wednesday, with more than an inch falling within an hour. Water closed some streets for a time.

Even heavier downpours ranged through towns east of Dallas. Wills Point received 3.10 inches of moisture in six hours, Kaufman 2.80 and Terrell 2.69.

Amounts generally were lighter in other parts of the state. Hemphill in East Central Texas received 2.05, Daingerfield in Northeast Texas 1.76, Lefors in the Panhandle 1.54 and Fort Worth and San Angelo both 1.37.

Turbulence which developed after nightfall caused a severe thunderstorm warning to remain in force until midnight for all or parts of several counties in the southeast quarter of the state. They included Madison, Trinity, Houston and Grimes counties.

While the cool front held temperatures noticeably lower in northern areas of the state, readings farther south went as high as 101 degrees at Alice. Top marks stayed as low as 78 at Fort Worth and Texarkana.

El Paso GI Slain By Cop In Alamo City

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Fellow officers said city patrolman shot and killed a soldier Wednesday while the serviceman was struggling with another policeman.

They reported Spec. 4 George Licon, 21, of El Paso was slain after he seized the gun of patrolman Lawrence Halliburton during the scuffle and it was fired three times.

Patrolman Leonard Paccione told of firing after seeing that Halliburton's pistol had been taken from him.

A medical examiner said Licon was shot three times in the back.

Dist. Atty. Ted Butler said no charge would be filed because he considered it a case of justifiable homicide, but the matter will be taken before county grand jurors.

Licon was assigned to the 78th Engineer Co. at Ft. Sam Houston in San Antonio. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Enrique Licon of El Paso. His wife Maria, 20, said the soldier had been stationed here since last August.

Police gave these details::

Licon grabbed Halliburton's pistol while it was still in the holster and one shot blew out the bottom of the holster. Halliburton's leg was bruised, apparently grazed by the bullet.

Paccione said Licon fired the officer's gun twice as he fell after being shot.

The shooting occurred in early Wednesday morning after Halliburton responded to a call about a suspicious person.

Licon was asleep at the steering wheel of a car and began fighting when Halliburton tried to awaken him. Paccione arrived as the struggle broke out.

Jerry Rubin Chile Bound

CHICAGO (AP) — The way is clear for Jerry Rubin, one of five persons free on bond pending appeal of convictions in the Chicago riot trial, to travel to Chile for research on a book on youth culture.

The 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals granted Rubin permission Wednesday to travel outside of the country.

But the court denied petitions asking that defendants David T. Dellinger, 53, and Rennard C. Davis, 29, be allowed to travel to Paris for "discussions with French and other international experts . . . with regard to issues relating to the war in Vietnam."

The court said the purpose of the trip was stated in vague and general terms.

Takes Command Of 7th Air Force

SAIGON (AP) — Gen. John D. Lavelle assumed command today of the U.S. 7th Air Force, replacing Gen. Lucius D. Clay Jr.

Clay will take over as commander in chief of Pacific Air Forces at Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii.

Lavelle, 54, a World War II fighter pilot, comes here from his previous assignment as vice commander of the Pacific Air Forces.

Couple Suspected Of Murder Held

ATHENS, Tex. (AP) — Sheriff J. W. Brownlow said Wednesday murder charges have been filed against a couple held in Ohio in connection with the June 22 stabbing death of Martin Rios, 40, a Dallas paint shop employe.

The pair, Floyd McDonald, 32, of Dallas, and Juanita Lewis, 20, was held at Sidney, Ohio.

Texas Ranger Dale Bryce and Deputy Sheriff Tom Goodell were sent to Ohio to discuss extradition with Sidney authorities

Brownlow said McDonald was arrested on a warrant charging theft by bailee, issued at Kingsville, Tex.

The body of Rios was found in a mobile home on Cedar Creek lake near Payne Springs in West Henderson County. An autopsy showed he had been stabbed more than 80 times and that other wounds had been inflicted after death. It was believed he was killed elsewhere and then hidden in the mobile home.

Rudy Vallee's Hopes Dashed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Rudy Vallee's hopes to have the street where he lives renamed "Rue de Vallee" have been dashed by city fathers, at least for the time being.

Vallee said after the council filed away the proposal Wednesday without action that the decision had been "entirely stupid, frivolous, vicious and totally uncalled for."

The singer, who also celebrated his 70th birthday on the day, vowed he would try again in about a year and give the councilman in his Hollywood Hills district "quite a fight" in 1973 for opposing the name change.

Vallee said the proposal was the idea of Mayor Sam Yorty and would eliminate confusion between his street's name and that of another similar one. The entertainer earlier withdrew his nomination as a city traffic commissioner after the name proposal became controversial. Opponents termed it unnecessary.

Two Senators Call For State To Buy Book Depository

DALLAS (AP) —Two Texas senators called Wednesday for the state to purchase the book depository from where President John Kennedy was assassinated to insure "respect, dignity, protection and importance to this most valued historical site."

Kennedy was killed by bullets the Warren Commission said were fired from the Texas Schoolbook Depository in November, 1963.

A Nashville, Tenn., business executive, Aubrey Mayhew, has purchased the red brick building for $650,000, announcing he plans to turn the seven-story building into the world's foremost "tourist attraction."

State Sen. Mike McKool of Dallas said the state should buy the building for a museum. He was joined by Sen. Charles Wilson of Lufkin who said he had at first wanted the building destroyed but changed his mind "since it is obviously going to be a museum anyway."

McKool said the book depository shares a place in history with Ford's Theatre where Abraham Lincoln was assassinated.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Dr. DeWitt C. Reddick, University of Texas professor of journalism and education, has been named a fellow of the International Association of Business Communicators.

MILITANT MAIDS SCOURING ITALY

Domestic Problem Is Two-Pronged

By ODETTE MENGIN
Associated Press Writer

ROME (AP) — Italy has a two-pronged maid problem. In the first place, there's a shortage of domestic help. And then — what maids there are have become increasingly organized and militant.

It's all very troublesome and new in a once-poor country that has leaped into the consumer age.

Other countries have had problems finding maids for half a century. The French have had to employ legions of Spanish and Portuguese girls for home chores. In the United States, a maid is usually a luxury for the wealthy alone.

But in Italy, maids were readily available just 25 years ago.

It was not unusual for rich families to have 100 or more domestic employes, living in servitude, earning meager wages and ill-protected by the law.

In 1946, Maria T., a capable young widow from the countryside, found a job as a live-in maid, sleeping in the kitchen, for 2,000 lire monthly. At the time, a pair of shoes cost 500 lire and a kilo of bread on the black market about 100 lire.

"We were treated like slaves," Maria recalls. "Even shop girls looked down on us because we were 'serva' servants."

Now the word "serva" is no longer used. A maid is known as a "donna," which in Italian means woman, or even lady. Those belonging to the Catholic workers' union, ACLI, have even chosen to be known as "collaborators of the family," COLF for short.

Wages and working conditions have improved dramatically, too. A 1958 law, revised in 1970, regulates relations between employers and servants. It guarantees social security benefits and holidays for maids.

Salaries are sometimes higher than those of a woman factory worker or shop clerk. A maid earns from $128 to $192 monthly, plus room and board. Ten years ago a good salary for a live-in maid was $48 dollars a month.

Furthermore, employers now have to give their maid an extra month's salary at the end of each year, known as the "tredicesima," the 13th month. They must pay food costs for vacations and days off, pay for social security, and give the servant half a month's wage for every year of service when she leaves.

In spite of the tremendous improvement — due to both a general raise in the standard of living and to the 1958 law — Italian families now have trouble in finding service.

Newspaper advertisements show that for every three persons looking for domestic help only one maid is offering services. Employment agencies — seldom advertising as such — are often regarded with suspicion both by servants and employers. And their fees are high.

The major reason for the shortage probably is that some still consider the job of maid as degrading.

"One of our maids left us because her fiance thought her work was beneath her," an Italian professional man laments.

Carla Faccincani, national secretary of the ACLI's COLF, says: Some working girls do not want to be maids, even for high salaries. They still have to overcome "an inferiority complex."

In a country that holds the world record for strikes, a few maids have begun drifting toward organized labor. The Italian federation of auxiliary employes, FILAI, groups about 2,000 maids out of about a million in the country. FILAI belongs to the big Communist-run labor federation.

The union presses for a national contract for maids, and helps members who believe they have been mistreated by employers.

"Strikes are one of the things we have to do," says Franco della Rosa, secretary of FILAI. "But they are a little difficult to organize." There has not been one yet.

For some, the union drive is a dilemma.

Carla Faccincani, of the Catholic workers' group, says:

"To bring unions into the home could represent a disagreeable novelty and have a negative influence on relations between maid and family. But to leave this category outside union rules could worsen the situation of some employes."

WHO SAYS? — Supak Likikul, 19-year-old Miss Bangkok, found herself in hot water when she got off the plane from Tokyo, wearing hot pants. Miss Likikul, who placed second in the Miss International contest in Tokyo, was criticised by many of her fellow countrymen, including her own mother who said that nice Thai girls don't wear hot pants. She apologized and vowed never to do it again.

Opening lead: Eight of ♠

Altho South concentrated his attentions on the wrong suit in attempting to develop nine tricks, at three no trump he nevertheless emerged triumphant when West failed to extend a helping hand in developing his partner's spade suit.

South overcalled East's third seat opening bid of one spade with one no trump for which he had the required sixteen points. When North extended an invitation to game, holding eight points, South persisted to three no trump despite his minimum high card holding because he had two spade stoppers plus an establishable five card suit.

West opened the eight of spades, the five was played from dummy and East covered with the nine, dislodging declarer's queen. Holding two stoppers in spades and three tricks in clubs, it appears that diamonds offers the best possibility for developing four additional tricks, but South chose to go after the heart suit, in the hope that he could put something over on the defense.

The ten of hearts was led at trick two and unwary West chose to follow suit with the three. East won the trick with the king and cleared the spades by playing the ace and another ten. South was in and he continued with the jack of hearts, which West ducked again as North overtook with the queen.

Dummy led the nine of hearts. West finally played the ace and attempted to reach his partner in diamonds, but South topped East's king with the ace and cashed out his winners. In all, he took three clubs, one diamond, three hearts and two spades.

Had West put up the ace of hearts when the ten was led at trick two—as he should do—he would have been able to clear the spade suit while East retained the king of hearts as entry. The defense would have taken four spades and two hearts to administer a two trick defeat to South.

Declarer could have assured the success of his contract by going after the diamonds—this appears to be a better course since East [as the opening bidder] might have held both the ace and king of hearts. Dummy is entered at trick two with the ace of clubs and the jack of diamonds is led. Whether or not East covers with the king, the defense is limited to one trick in diamonds and South establishes four tricks for himself while he still retains a second stopper in spades.

Agnew Reports To President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has reported to President Nixon on a month-long world tour largely overshadowed by a presidential aide's sprint into China.

What Agnew had to say wasn't disclosed. He chose not to follow the usual pattern of briefing his press entourage and left newsmen in isolation for the last leg of the trip.

Nixon said through White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler he "feels the vice president's trip fulfilled a useful purpose at this time."

Matters of substance were discussed in a 90-minute Nixon-Agnew meeting, Ziegler told newsmen. "It was not a trip taken as a matter of cosmetics."

National-security adviser Henry A. Kissinger, who made the historic trip into China for talks with Premier Chou En-lai while Agnew was visiting Saudi Arabia, was on hand for the vice president's return briefing at the White House. Also sitting in was Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

Agnew's refusal to brief newsmen on the flight back to Washington Wednesday from Lisbon was the culmination of deteriorating relations between Agnew and the press over the last two weeks of his 31-day trip.

A series of events, including an uncomplimentary account of his travels in Newsweek magazine, persistent questioning during a July 17 session with reporters and the reaction to his attack on U.S. black leaders, appeared to have contributed to chilling of already strictly formal relations between the vice president and newsmen.

The July 17 session was the last of the trip and, for four days during the following week, reporters housed 15 miles from Agnew's southern Spain golf retreat never saw him.

The last 10 days of the trip which included visits in Spain, Morocco and Portugal, found Agnew spending much of his time on various golf courses.

Landing at Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington, Agnew was greeted by four Cabinet members: Secretary of State Rogers, Secretary of the Interior Rogers C. B. Morton, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Elliot L. Richardson and Secretary of Agriculture Clifford Hardin. Ambassadors from 10 of the 11 countries Agnew visited, all except Spain, were on hand.

On the tour that began June 27, Agnew visited Korea, Singapore, India, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia, Ethiopia, Kenya, The Congo, Spain, Morocco and Portugal.

Preparations To Entomb Savannah

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Preparations began Wednesday to entomb the N. S. Savannah, the world's first nuclear powered merchantman, in mothballs.

The $54 million vessel has fallen victim to the spiraling cost of living in the 1970s.

Crewmen at Todd Shipyards started preparations for the actual defueling process which begins in September prior to mothballing the 2,500 ton vessel, according to R. R. Allen, project manager for the ship.

The 595-foot ship will be mothballed at Orange, probably next June, Allen said, exactly 10 years after the Savannah went to sea as the pride of the American merchant fleet.

But soaring operating costs, a dwindling shipping industry and the Savannah's tonnage limitations conspired to scuttle her.

Allen said the Savannah was too costly to operate and has been to costly to retire.

The defueling process involves removing the ship's uranium and nuclear generating plant.

There have been efforts to mothball the Savannah since 1967 but public outcry each time gave her a renewed lease on life.

Many foreign ports balked at accepting her because of her nuclear assemble.

Record Purse On Line In Cheyenne Rodeo

DENVER, Colo. — The richest rodeo in history is under way this week at the 75th annual Cheyenne, Wyo., Frontier Days rodeo, which runs through Sunday, the Rodeo Cowboys Association said here today.

A record amount of prize money, $96,700, is at stake in six association-sanctioned events. The previous high money mark was in 1970 at the Houston Astrodome rodeo, where $96,491 was up for grabs.

The closest race for the lead in an event this week is in calf roping. Ernie Taylor, Hugo, Okla., won $625 at Ogden and Salt Lake City to close in on Phil Lyne, George West, Tex.

Leaders in various events are:

All around cowboy—Phil Lyne, George West, Tex., $25,270, and Bob Berger, Norman, Okla., $23,384; saddle bronc riding — Bill Smith Cody, Wyo., $15,655, and Mel Hyland, Surrey, B.C., $13,178; bareback bronc — Paul Mayo, Grinnell, Iowa, $17,127, and Joe Alexander, Cora, Wyo., $15,299; bull riding — Bill Nelson, San Francisco, Calif., $13,448, and John Quintana, Milwaukie, Ore., $11,347; calf roping — Lyne, $13,919, and Ernie Taylor, Hugo, Okla., $12,804; steer wrestling — Billy Hale Checotah, Okla., $17,846, and Walt Linderman, Belfry, Mont., $11,759.

Reagan Says No To GOP Veep Bid

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan of California says he would not accept the Republican nomination for vice president even if the GOP denied the nomination to Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

The Californian said he thought he could do more in his present position.

"I don't have political ambitions to go any further," Reagan said in a televised interview with William F. Buckley. "Much can be done and much has been done in California. Forty-nine other states really keep an eye on California. Californi ais kind of a microcosm and has been a pacesetter."

Farmers Are Blamed For Higher Food Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher prices paid farmers for key products were the main reason for a rise in consumer food costs last month, the Agriculture Department reported today.

Cost of a selected "market basket" list of food rose 0.7 per cent in June, including retail price increases for beef, pork, frying chickens and fresh fruit. But farmers' share of the food dollar dropped from the June, 1970, level.

The farm value of the basquet of food rose 1.6 per cent from May, while middlemen collected only 0.1 per cent more, their lowest rise in four months. Over the long haul, however, rising middleman costs have been the larger factor in consumer food price increases.

On an annual basis, the entire market basket in June cost consumers $1,251 for a typical household. Of that, farmers got $481 and middlemen $770.

In May the selected list cost $1,243, of which farmers received $473 and middlemen, allowing for rounded figures, $770.

A year earlier, the June list cost $1,228 and included $480 for men who transport, process and sell the items at retail.

Thus, farmers in June, while contributing most to the one-month retail price increase, gained only $1 in their share of the market basket while middlemen boosted theirs $22 from a year earlier.

Today's report showed retail prices for market basket foods rose 1.9 per cent from a year earlier. During the same time, farmers averaged only 0.3 per cent more while middlemen prices were boosted 3 per cent—10 times the farm rate.

The Liberty Bowl, which has been struggling all these years, will be seen Monday night, Dec. 20, this year.

That's earlier in the week but later in the month than it's ever been before. For those reasons, it should get a good television rating.

Reluctantly, the NCAA okehed the change in dates. The TV people likely will offer more swag to the games' sponsors, who, in turn, will pass it on to the schools.

Sports buffs won't have any trouble deciding what to watch that night, since the NFL Monday night games will wind up a week earlier, when Los Angeles will be at home to Washington.

Abilene Christian College has recruited some pretty good football talent out of 5-AAAA.

Among the boys who have signed to play with the Wildcats are Jamie Berryhill, a back from Odessa Permian; Dan Cobb, back from Abilene High; Jimmy Patterson, defensive back from Odessa Permian; Leroy Polnick, defensive back from Abilene Cooper; and Greg Stirman, quarterback from Abilene High.

ACC recruits much more successfully in the larger high schools than it once did.

The cost of Rose Bowl tickets has been upped from $8 and $10, which will probably make them a greater collector's item than ever.

The boost means a cool million dollar gross, and that's not figuring the TV dividend for each contending team.

Rice University officials will tell you the Owls are recruiting more and more on a nationwide basis, because the school's scholastic standards keeps many a Texan from qualifying.

Only the University of Houston sends its scouting units as far afield as Rice.

Of the 46 freshman footballers recruited by the University of Arkansas this year, 27 hail from outside the state. Of that number, 14 are Texans.

Pro football's Kuechenberg brothers (Bob is with Miami, Rudy with Green Bay) had a father who made his living as a human cannon ball. He'd go from county fair to rodeo to be shot from a cannon. It was a way of life the sire didn't recommend to his offsprings.

"Go to college or be a cannon ball," he'd tell his sons.

The parent had a brother who substituted for him one day and the operation didn't turn out as planned. He was aimed over a ferris wheel but didn't quite make it. He lived, but he left a dent in one side of the carnival ride.

Bob and Rudy decided then there were easier ways to make some bread.

Forsan's Jack Woodley, by necessity, will be going to two coaching schools this summer.

An eight-man mentor last year, Jack was appointed to lecture at this year's Six-Eight Man School at Levelland. Next week, he'll attend the Texas High School Coaches Association clinic in Fort Worth, where he'll be content to listen.

Running OKed For Others

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — Sam Snead, who was winning golf tournaments when Lou Gehrig was still hitting homers for the New York Yankees, was holding forth on a variety of subjects.

"Physical condition is very important for a golfer," the old West Virginia hillbilly said.

"Swimming, bowling are very bad for you. You tighten up muscles you have to loosen up later. Very bad. Running. That's the best thing a golfer can do. Run."

And does Sam do his running?

"Only when something gets after me," the 59-year-old giant of another golfing era grinned.

Snead was still basking in the glow of his fourth-place finish, and $11,000 check, at the Westchester Classic last week before teeing off in the first round of the $200,000 PGA National Team Championship today.

"I thought maybe I really had something going there," said Snead, still sporting the brightly-banded straw hat and the smooth, effortless swing that have been his trademarks since he became a regular on the pro golf tour in 1937.

"I thought maybe I could have had a really good one, where I was hitting the ball, but these old nerves just won't hold out. You just can't win if you're taking 35-40 putts a round now-a-days."

Snead is teamed with 44-year-old Gardner Dickinson in this event in which scoring is based on the better ball on each hole by each of 64 two-man teams.

Despite the fact that they're the oldest team in the field—total age 103—they're ranked as one of the top challengers to defending champions Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, the heavy favorites.

"It's absolutely amazing that a man Snead's age is still capable of winning a tournament," Palmer said.

"But then, Sam's an absolutely amazing man."

Snead scored the last of his 84 official victories in the 1965 Greensboro Open. Putting miseries—"it's just these worn-out old nerves"—have kept him away from victory since then, but he's been a steady money-maker despite a relatively light schedule.

Lee Trevino, the Super Mex who vaulted into a dominant position with his sweep of the U.S., Canadian and British Open crowns, and teammate veteran Howie Johnson were the top threat for the $40,000 first prize behind Palmer and Nicklaus.

Other standout teams included former winners Bobby Nichols and George Archer, Australian Bruce Crampton and Orville Moody, brothers Dave and Mike Hill, CBS Golf Classic winners Bert Yancey and Tom Weiskopf, and Tommy Aaron and Masters champion George Archer.

Wilson Close To '69 Form, Says Walker

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Houston pitching coach Jim Owens said Don Wilson is about "that far" from being the outstanding pitcher he was two years ago, and held up two fingers about an inch apart.

Wilson won 39 games for the Astros in the three seasons starting in 1967. He pitched two no hitters and was rated one of the best right handers in the National League. Then he came down with arm trouble-inflammation of the tendons.

"Everybody thought it would take me at least two years to come back, if I came back," Wilson said Wednesday night after beating the Philadelphia Phillies 6-3 for his eighth victory against seven defeats.

"I'm very healthy now," he said. "My arm is in good shape. I'm satisified. Not too many people gave me a chance of coming back."

Wilson pitched scoreless ball for six innings as the Astros built a 6-0 lead. In the seventh, the Phillies reached him for three runs, but Wilson said he wasn't tired, just a little unlucky.

The 205-pound Wilson walked Deron Johnson to start the inning. He said the pitches were very close. He retired a pinch-hitter and then got a breaking pitch down to Don Money for a broken bat single.

Wilson said he jammed catcher Tim McCarver with a good pitch, but McCarver floated it to the opposite field for a double. After striking out Byron Browne, Wilson gave up a flare single to Ron Stone that scored a pair. Then he bore down to get Denny Doyle for the third out.

Phillies manager Frank Lucchesi complimented Wilson when he remarked, "He gives up a couple of hits but when the pressure mounts he gets tough. He's a good pitcher."

Owens said that Wilson should have 12 or 13 victories. "We haven't got him too many runs, he's one notch below the pitcher he was before the injury."

The coach noted that Wilson actually was overpowering in his early years with Houston. "Now he isn't as fast but he's a better pitcher in that he can throw a three ball, two strike curve ball and get a batter. He also works in and out of the batters. And there aren't too many faster than him in the league."

LAMESA WILL COME HERE

Lamesa won the right to meet the Big Spring winner in Little League bi-district competition.

The Lamesans first beat O'Donnell, 9-2, and Post, 14-7, in area competition, then sidelined Slaton, 1-0, and Lubbock Western, 3-2, in District play to earn the trip to Big Spring.

Lamesa thus will meet the Big Spring winner at 8 o'clock Tuesday in the American League park. The winner there qualifies for the Aug. 10-14 State meet in Waco.

Baltimore Rescued By Robby In Ninth

By The Associated Press

"All I ask," Oakland Manager Dick Williams was commenting before the game, "is that my players hustle and not beat themselves."

The Robinsons of Baltimore must have overheard him—with a couple of astonishing results.

Brooks Robinson, the Orioles' vacuum cleaner of a third baseman who has been voted the American League's top man at the hot corner for 11 successive seasons, suddenly turned butterfingers Wednesday night.

He commitetd three errors on a pair of two-out grounders and slapped into a pair of rally-wrecking double plays that seemed to give Oakland a 2-0 victory.

But in the bottom of the ninth inning it was Frank Robinson to the rescue.

ODOM TOUGH

John "Blue Moon" Odom had checked the Orioles on just three hits before singles by Don Buford and Merv Rettenmund knocked him out with none away.

Big Frank wasted no time against reliever Roland Fingers, who only the night before had been victimized by Brooks' two-out, two-run homer in the ninth that powered Baltimore to a triumph.

Frank pounced on his first pitch, driving it deep into the right field bleachers, catapulting the East Division-leading Orioles to a 3-2 stunner over the A's, front-runners in the West.

In other American League contests, the Chicago White Sox rallied to beat the New York Yankees 5-4, Milwaukee silenced Boston 5-0, California topped Cleveland 5-1, Detroit overhauled Kansas City 8-7 and Washington blitzed Minnesota 7-1.

In the National League, St. Louis whipped the New York Mets 6-3 and San Francisco nipped Atlanta 2-1 in afternoon action, Houston flipped Philadelphia 6-3, the Chicago Cubs bombed Montreal 10-2, San Diego beat Cincinnati 4-2 and Pittsburgh zipped Los Angeles 4-0.

"It just wasn't my night," understated Brooks Robinson, who couldn't recall ever committing three errors in an inning.

Frank, meanwhile, hadn't gotten a hit in 15 at-bats before the climactic clout, his 17th round-tripper of the year, and his average had dipped below the .300 mark, although he was among the league leaders in runs batted in with 60 going into the game.

So when the elated Orioles stormed into the locker room after the victory, Brooks kidded him about his slump.

Texans Stampede Into LL Finals

The Big Spring Texans were in control all the way in pushing past the Big Spring Americans, 7-4, in Wednesday night's semi-final game of the District 3 Little League tournament.

The largest crowd of the 11-day meet showed up for the contest and was well rewarded with outstanding play on the part of both teams.

The Americans were blanked until the final inning by Frank Rubio but threw a scare into the Texans by sending Chris Burrow, Tommy Churchwell, Clarence Palmer and Phillip Ringener across the plate in that round.

Clem Sanchez smashed three hits for the Texans, one of which was a home run. Rubio also had three safeties for the winners.

The Texans broke the ice with a run in the first and then salted away the verdict with four in the second.

Tonight's championship game, down for 8 p.m., pits the Big Spring Nationals against the Texans. Awaiting the winner will be a spot in next Tuesday's bi-district game here.

Rubio surrendered eight hits but was rarely in trouble until the final round. Lynn Dixon and Palmer each had two safeties for the losers.

Rubio and Sanchez each scored twice for the red-hot Texans, the league which provided the City champion two weeks ago.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

All-Star's Father Asks Why His Son Rode Bench

To The Editor:

In the midst of the success the National Little League All-Stars have experienced in the recent District 3 Tournament here, I would like to raise a few questions.

My son (Phil), who played second base during the regular season with the Devils, was one of five boys chosen by managers within the league who saw little or no action. You can imagine the elation they felt and their reaction when, inning after inning and game after game, the management saw fit to keep them on the bench.

Speaking as a former Minor Little League manager, I think it should be written into the rules that each of the boys picked for such a team be allowed to play at least part of the time.

My boy played in the major leagues for three years, having been a shortstop when he was 10 and 11 years of age. I feel the management could have used him at any one of several positions.

Several alternates were picked for the squad and each has clocked more playing time than some of the boys originally named to the team. Why?

League officials adopted a rule that only 12 year olds would be allowed to play in the tournament, then, without explanation, made use of the talents of one 11-year-old. That is hard for me to understand.

A boy who got fewer votes than most any of the original all-stars picked has clocked more playing time than at least five other members of the squad. Why?

And why is it that the men directing the team insisted on playing their own sons more than some of the other boys chosen by all the managers? That, to me, smacks of discrimination.

EXTRA TALENT FOR YANKEES — When the Big Spring Yankees, champions of the Teen-Age Sophomore league here, take the field this evening in San Angelo in district competition against the Midland Optimists, three boys on the left will be in uniform. All played with other teams during the regular campaign. From left, they are Billy Don Whittington and Mark Callahan, both of whom performed for the Angels; and Jody Bennett of the Giants. The Yankees batboy, Randy Bennett, is at the right.

Disosway 3rd In Carolina

At the end of 36 holes of the World Wide Armed Forces Golf tournament in Cherry Point, N.C., Wednesday, Lt. John Disosway of Webb AFB ranked third in medal play with a score of 143.

He was nine strokes behind AF Sgt. J. T. Parry, who had broken the course record on one 18-hole round with a 65.

The tournament extends over 72 holes and ends Friday.

The Air Forke team, of which Disosway and Parry are members, is leading the competition with an aggregate score of 564, followed by the U. S. Marines, 576; U. S. Navy, 582; and U. S. Army, 585.

Disosway will return here by special transportation following Friday's play and will take part in student pilot graduation ceremonies Saturday at Webb.

Bucs Topple Odessans In Senior Tournament

COLORADO CITY — Big Spring struck for two runs in the third inning and added an insurance tally in the seventh to kayo Odessa, 3-1, in first round play in the District 2 Texas Senior Teen-Age baseball tournament here Wednesday.

The Bucs, striving for a place in the State tournament next month, return to play at 9 o'clock this evening, at which time they oppose Monahans. The double-elimination tournament ends Saturday night.

Should Big Spring win tonight, it would not be required to play again until Saturday.

David Carter threw a stylish five-hitter in notching the win over Big Spring. Center fielder R. Wortham and third baseman Foote collected four of Odessa's hits between them.

The pitching loss was hung on Bill Wirwahn, who gave way to Blough in the late innings.

Jesse Olague and Robert (Jeter) Grant each hit safely twice for the Bucs and Grant scored two of the Big Spring team's runs. Carter himself crossed the plate with the other one.

Carter and Grant belted doubles.

Monahans earned the second round spot against Big Spring by blanking San Angelo, 2-0.

Tonight's Big Spring pitcher could be David Newman, Orlando Olague or Jeff Murdock. However, the three boys the Bucs picked up from other Tri-County League teams are hurlers and could be pressed into service.

They are Jackie Murray, Snyder; and Randy Hall and Randy Wright, both of Colorado City.

IN DISTRICT MEET
Bengals Launch Play At 9 P.M.

Coach Harold Davis of the Big Spring Hardware Tigers said his team got lucky in Wednesday night's drawing for first round opponents in the District Hi-Junior baseball tournament — lucky, that is, as far as the schedule of game times is concerned.

The Tigers tangle with Odessa's Harlon-Sammons in the first round at 9 o'clock this evening. By winning two games, the Tigers could surge into the finals of the five-team event.

However, Odessa is fielding a powerful team this year and might rate as a slight favorite to topple the Bengals.

A loss would mean the Tigers would have to revert to the losers' bracket, in which case the job would become infinitely harder for them.

By losing their first game and winning their way into the finals, the Tigers could play as many as six games in a period of three days and nights. That would work a hardship on any team's pitching staff.

Midland Shamrock also got a break in the pairings. It drew a first round bye and doesn't play until 10 a.m., Friday.

Tournament action will open at 6 o'clock today in a game between Floydada Lighthouse Electric and San Angelo Downtown Optimists, with the winner challenging Midland Shamrock.

The five teams are fighting for a chance to win a place in the State meet, which starts in Victoria next Tuesday.

Should the Tigers lose to Odessa, they would return to play at 1 p.m., Friday and a victory there would send them back to the field at 6 p.m., Friday. Should one team go through the tournament undefeated, the championship game would take place at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Davis has nominated Troy Kerby to pitch against Odessa.

Other hurlers on the Big Spring staff include Alan Davis, Earl Reynolds, Willie Williams and three boys added from other Big Spring squads, Greg Crawford, Bruce Felts and Cris Duron.

The West is coached by Bob Evans, a native Big Springer who now is coach at Lazbuddie. Evans was at Garden City last year.

Bob Dyess of Borden County (Gail) coaches the West Eight-Man football team, assisted by Ed Huddleston, also of Gail.

The East's eight-man coach is Gerald Boyer of Leakey, assisted by Jesse Smiley of Medina.

Among West eight-man players are Floyd Schwartz, Garden City; Joe Harding, Borden County; Jimmy Hodge, Borden County; Geary Williams, Borden County; Johnny Lopez, Klondike; Virgil Whitaker, Borden County; and Ricky Mills, Loop.

Green Bay Needs Quarterback Now

By The Associated Press

Daryle Lamonica has finally emerged from the fig orchards and taken a load off the minds of the Oakland Raiders. But Green Bay's worries have just begun with Bart Starr first coming out of surgery.

Although Wednesday's operation on Starr's throwing arm—his right one—was termed a success and he was reported in satisfactory condition today, it only meant he would not be available to the Packers for 12 weeks. Green Bay is desperate for a quarterback right now.

Without Starr, the 37-year-old, 15-year veteran who led Green Bay to two Super Bowl titles, the Packers will start their exhibition season with 39-year-old Zeke Bratkowski, coming out of two-year retirement, at the vital spot. And behind him as rookie Scott Hunter of Alabama and free agent Gary Lane.

Secondary Sometimes Plagues Chicago Loser

CHICAGO (AP) — There is a popular theory that football games are won between the lines but the recent College All Star battles indicate they are usually lost in the secondary.

The All Stars haven't knocked off the professional champions in this midsummer classic since 1963 and each year it seems that a Joe Namath, Bart Starr or Len Dawson has amazing success in passing against the collegiates.

This year, the All Stars have a host of speedy talent ready to stop Baltimore and Earl Morrall, the 38-year-old quarterback who came off the bench in the Super Bowl and led the Colts to a 16-13 triumph over Dallas.

Blanton Collier, retired coach of the Cleveland Browns, making his debut as All Star mentor, has four cornerbacks to patrol the airways and he says "they all have speed."

This speed—belonging to Len Dunlap of North Texas State, Clarence Scott of Kansas State, Isaac Thomas of Bishop College and Norm Thompson of Utah—will be on display—and on the spot—Friday night at Soldier Field in the 38th renewal of the series. The pros hold a 29-9-2 series edge. The game will be televised nationally by ABC at 8:30 p.m. CDT.

It will be up to Dunlap, Scott, Thomas and Thompson to stop Baltimore's receiving corps of Ray Perkins, Roy Jefferson and Eddie Hinton.

Dunlap and Thompson share an NCAA record for returning interceptions for touchdowns while Scott's coach at Kansas State, Vince Gibson, called his man the finest defensive player in the nation.

A man who may take exception of that remark will be safety for the All Stars. He is Jack Tatum, twice an All American and the anchor of Ohio State's defense in 1968-69-70, three seasons in which the Bucks lost only twice.

Tatum will be responsible for shutting off Baltimore's tight ends, John Mackey and Tom Mitchell.

Morall likes to throw to his backfield men and the All Star linebackers, Isaiah Robertson, the Los Angeles Rams top draft pick, Ronnie Hornsby of Southeastern Louisiana, the collegians defensive captain, Jack Ham of Penn State and Tim Kelly of Notre Dame, will try to stop him.

The Colts are listed as 10-point favorites.

Jim Osborne Upset Winner

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An upset victory over Clark Graebner in the $20,000 Buckeye Tennis Championships Wednesday did a lot for Jim Osborne's confidence, shaken earlier in the year by a fractured hand bone.

"I felt I could beat him. I sure needed it," said Osborne, 26, of Honolulu, of his stunning 7-6, 6-4 second round triumph over the third-seeded Graebner of New York City.

The top seeds, No. 1 Zeljko Franulovic of Yugoslavia and No. 2 Tom Gorman of Seattle, moved into the quarterfinals with victories.

Franulovic, who needed five straight points in a third set tie-breaker to nip Jeff Borowiak of Berkeley, Calif., 3-6, 6-4, 7-6, faced Erik Van Dillen of San Mateo, Calif., today.

Gorman, a 6-3, 6-2 victor over Boro Jovanovic of Yugoslavia, takes on Frenchman George Goven Friday.

Jim McManus of Berkeley, Calif., and Osborne, top-seeded in doubles, were to make their debut today against Rahoon Rahim of Pakistan and Borowiak, 1971 NCAA kings, in the quarterfinals. They drew a first round bye.

In other quarterfinals, Rahim faced Jim Connors of Los Angeles, the NCAA champion as a freshman this year, today and Ray Moore of South Africa battles Osborne Friday.

Already in the doubles quarterfinals are Chileans Jamie Fillol and Patrico Cornejo, Frenchmen Pierre Barthes and Goven, Franulovic and Jovanovic; Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., and Connors.

Landry Pleased With Two Backs

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — The No. 1 project in the Dallas Cowboy training camp is the passing game, and Coach Tom Landry was heartened by what he saw Wednesday in a controlled scrimmage against San Francisco.

"We just feel a lot better about our passing game now," he said.

Landry said quarterbacks Craig Morton and Roger Staubach were "farther along than they've been."

In the series of skeleton drills against the 49ers, Staubach hit 23 of 43 passes but had 10 tosses dropped. Morton completed 25 of 45 with five drops. Staubach had one interception and Morton two.

Landry said "Roger appears to do better in individual work and Morton does better in team work. What is happening now will have an influence on our final decision at quarterback. But you have to show you can perform in a game. That's what is important."

COACHES
Longley Hired By Wylie High

ABILENE — Joe Longley has been named head football coach at Wylie High School near here.

Longley is the fifth new head coach for the school in five seasons. He succeeds Charley Bottoms, who resigned to return to Corpus Christi.

Under Bottoms last year, Wylie finished with a 2-8 record. Longley comes here from Comfort High School.

ANDREWS — Randy Walker has been named head baseball coach at Andrews High School, with a starting salary of $9,275 annually. His contract will extend for one year.

In addition to his baseball duties, Walker will coach ninth grade football. He is a recent graduate of Texas Tech.

Walker grew up in Odessa and graduated from Odessa High School in 1966. He won three letters in baseball at Texas Tech.

Hargis To Fight $218,481 'Bite'

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Tulsa evangelist Billy James Hargis said Wednesday he will fight efforts by the Internal Revenue Service to collect $218,481 the agency claims Hargis' religious organization owes in back taxes.

A June 24 federal court decision in Tulsa had ordered the IRS to return $103,493 in taxes to the Christian Echoes National Ministry (Christian Crusade). The IRS had revoked Christian Echoes' tax-exempt status as a religious organization in the late 1960s, then ordered the organization to pay seven years' back taxes.

SCIENCE AIDING ARCHAEOLOGISTS

City Being Dug Out With Teaspoon

SEDOT YAM, Israel (AP) — An American archeological team is utilizing the tools of modern science to solve the long buried mysteries of the Roman city of Caesarea.

It's a race against time — and bananas.

"We have to preserve the antiquities and stop encroaching agriculture, mainly banana plantations," explains Dr. Robert Bull, expedition leader.

Caesarea was built by King Herod the Great in the first century before Christ as the capital of Roman Palestine.

It was one of the largest Roman colonial cities in the Middle East, sprawling over 8,000 acres on the Mediterranean coast, about half way between what is now Tel Aviv and Haifa. Its population may have reached a half-million.

After the Romans came the Persians and the Byzantines, who were in turn vanquished by Araby's desert warriors under the sword of Islam.

Europe's crusading knights conquered Caesarea in the 12th century and held it on and off the next 200 years until its final destruction by the Arabs in 1291.

Most of Caesarea's past grandeur lies buried under the drifting sands today. Only a few Byzantine columns and statues and the squat Crusader fortress are tourist attractions.

Except for a fine Herodian theater, excavated and partially restored by an Italian team in the mid-1960s, and a crumbling aqueduct north of town, nothing can be seen of the original Roman city.

Bull finds it incredible that there has been no real attempt — until now — to uncover Roman Caesarea.

"Lord knows what we will find here," he adds.

For it was only 10 years ago that archeologists discovered a Roman inscription mentioning the name Pontius Pilate.

It was the first archeological evidence of th actual existence of the procurator of Judea, under whose rule, from 26-36 A.D., the crucifixion of Jesus occurred.

Bull, who is director of the William F. Albright Institute of Archeological Research in Jerusalem and head of Drew University's archeological department, has collected a team of 50 volunteers, primarily students from Drew and Los Angeles' Occidental College. They receive credit for the dig.

"We are digging with teaspoons, as it were, so slowly it is agonizing," says the stocky, balding archeologist. "We're stifting everything coming out of there — gems, pottery, coins, everything that is a dating clue."

Bull hopes to write the city's history eventually, after more excavation. Among the structures buried are a gaint amphitheater and hippodrome, the locations of which are known, and a temple.

Bull also is using scientific aids in his search. These include infrared photography and measuring the earth's magnetic field and its resistivity.

Bull's team moves a fluxate magnetometer across the fields to register variations in magnet-counters any anomaly, such as a wall buried under the sand. It is the first time this instrument has been used for such exploration in the area.

Plotting the variations on a chart hopefully will yield the street patterns.

The team also plans to send an electric current through metal probes imbedded in the earth. The resistance encountered can be measured because electricity travels at one rate through sand and at another through stone.

"Hopefully, I can get still another picture of what's beneath us," Bull siad.

A third method to help find the streets will be to take infrared photos of Caesarea from the air at night as the earth cools. Sand quickly emits heat while buried stones hold it back "The photos again should give us a pattern," the archeologist said.

"We still have another ace in the hole, and I mean that literally," Bull said. "I mean the sewers."

Caesarea had a unique sewer system, flushed daily by the sea. The flooding tide would come up into the sewers beneath the city and the ebb tide would flush them out.

Some of the sewers were nine feet in diameter, "big enough to drive a Jeep through," Bull says. He has located several sewer entrances, which have been blocked by sand. Bull said he could trace the sewers back under the city to locate the streets. "Roman engineers usually built sewers beneath the streets," he said.

W'brook Water Rates Raised

WESTBROOK (SC) — Members of the City Council of Westbook have raised the price of water for the city from $2.50 per 3,000 gallons used to $4 beginning in August.

Residents have been notified by letter of the price increase.

Outside the city limits, the price will be $4.50. Garbage pick-up rates will remain at 90 cents per month, according to Mayor Kenneth Ellett.

Ex-Banker Uses Fifth Amendment

HOUSTON (AP) — The former president of the now defunct Sharpstown State Bank has refused to testify before the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission.

Joe P. Novotny, 31, took the fifth amendment when he was questioned here Wednesday. SEC attorney Robert Watson said Novotny would give only his name and adlress.

Novotny was scheduled to be questioned in Dallas last wek by the SEC but his attorney, John M. King, was granted a request to have the deposition taking here.

Novotny also has been asked to appear before a grand jury here investigating the collapse of the Sharpstown State Bank and a stock probe.

AIDES OF HOUSE SPEAKER TO TELL ABOUT STOCK ACTION

Grand Jury Calls State Demo Chairman Baum

AUSTIN (AP) — State Democratic chairman Elmer Baum and two aides of House Speaker Gus Mutscher begin telling their side of the Texas stock scandal to the Travis County grand jury today.

The battle over two banking bills rushed through the legislature in a special session in 1969 was recounted for the jury Wednesday.

'NO IMPLICATIONS'

Dist. Atty. Bob Smith said Wednesday's six witnesses were not implicated in any way in the investigation. He declined to put the "no implication" tag on today's witnesses: Baum and Mutscher aides Rush McGinty and Sonny Schulte.

Smith also wanted to present former Sharpstown State Bank president Joseph Novotny to the jury today but was unsure if a subpoena had been served on him.

In addition to these 10 witnesses, Smith wants the jury to hear Houston financier Frank Sharp and Austin lawyer John Osorio.

Sharp will not be available until after Aug. 17—the date picked by a Houston federal judge to terminate the judge's previous grant of immunity for Sharp against inquiry by state officials.

Travis County Sheriff T. O. Lang has been looking for Osorio without success "since last Thursday or Friday," Smith said.

BANKING BILLS

The grand jury issues indictments at 3 p.m. each Thursday. The district attorney said it was inconceivable that any indictments would be issued in the stock case today.

The district attorney listed Wednesday's witnesses for newsmen: state Sen. Charles Wilson of Lufkin, former state Sen. Jack Strong of Longview, Rep. Charles Patterson of Taylor, state Sen. Bill Patman of Ganado, State Banking Commissioner Robert Stewart and State Insurance Commissioner Clay Cotton.

Before they testified Wednesday, Patterson, Patman and Strong told newsmen how they remembered Sept. 8, 1969, the next to last day of the special session, when the most important of two banking bills was rammed through the legislature.

FINAL DAY

The bill authorized state banks to insure their deposits up to $100,000 with state bank insurance corporations. The second bill, spelling out how those corporations were to be formed, was passed on the final day, Sept. 9.

The main bill would make the state insurance take the place of, rather than be in addition to, insurance with the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. This would have permitted state banks, such as Sharpstown State Bank, to avoid federal bank examiners.

The U. S. Securities and Exchange Commission filed suit last January against Sharp, his bank and 26 other persons and firms, alleging manipulation of National Bankers Life Insurance Co. stock to influence passage of the banking bills. Several high state officials made quick profits on the stock after buying it with loans from Sharp's bank. The officials included Baum, McGinty, Schulte, Mutscher, Gov. Preston Smith and Reps. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth and W. S. Heatly of Paducah.

Patterson said the House Committee on Banks and Banking passed the bill in an "emergency" hearing on the morning of Sept. 8. "We weren't even provided a copy of the printed bill," he said.

PENSION FUNDS

Patterson said he telephoned lobbyists for banks and for savings and loan associations during the emergency hearing, and they told him they knew nothing about the bill.

The bill was presented to the full House that same morning and voted through on a voice vote. Patterson asked to be shown voting no.

Strong said Osorio called him off the Senate floor that morninp and asked him to sponsor the bill in the Senate. He said he thinks Osorio mentioned former Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr, Osorio's law partner. Strong had been Carr's East Texas campaign manager in the 1966 U.S. Senate race.

Strong said Osorio explained that multimillion dollar pension and retirement funds were deposited in banks only for the amount insured and that the bill would allow them to use fewer banks.

"It sounded pretty reasonable to me," Strong said, and he agreed to sponsor the bill.

Patman said Carr approached him about this time and asked for his support of the bill, but Patman said he had some questions about it and raised a point of order when Strong tried to take up the bill before it had been considered by a Senate committee, as is required by the state Constitution.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes sustained the point of order.

'TAGGED' BILL

Patman then "tagged" the bill, a device available to all senators that requires 48 hours' written notice before the committee could consider the bill.

This effectively killed the bill because the special session was drawing to a close.

Strong moved to take the tag off, but he needed two-thirds of those present and got only a 13-9 majority.

Patman said that Strong a few minutes later threatened Patman's father, U.S. Rep. Wright Patman, Texarkana: "You tell your daddy to watch out. He's going to need lots of help this next time because I'm out to get him. I'll get his on redistricting."

(Strong said Wednesday he was wrong to do this and that he had appologized to the elder Patman.)

'BIG' MONEY

Patman said he called Mutscher, who he knew was interested in the bill, and then talked with Mutscher and Shannon in Mutscher's office about 6 p.m.

They convinced him of their sincerity, Patman said, arguing that banks in small towns could use the larger insurance guarantee to draw money from big cities.

"I didn't feel I could kill the bill because I'm certainly no expert on banking legislation," Patman said in explaining why he removed the tag after talking with Mutscher and Shannon.

Patterson, Patman and Strong all said they thought the insurance was in addition to the federal corporation insurance.

The governor later vetoed the bills.

Strong said Wednesday he had never met Sharp or owned any NBL stock. His anger at Patman stemmed from earlier, unrelated disputes between the two senators, he said.

Horoscope Forecast

TOMORROW

—CARROL RIGHTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A very difficult day and evening since practically everyone appears engorssed in their own endeavor. As a result a point of view means very little and one is apt to be suspicious of the motives and activities of some people about you. Rise above these negative attributes and be happy.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) With all those responsibilities now you scarcely know where to start, so schedule your activities. Do not rush and make error. Avoid arguments with loved one and avoid trouble. Be poised.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You have good ideas you want to discuss with allies. Be diplomatic since they are in a strange mood, and might not appreciate them. Not a good day for civic work. Await a better day.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't take any action that could bring trouble to a fellow worker. Use tact and all will be fine. Use care in motion so that you do not ruin clothing. Show that you are wise.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Your mate may not be in the mood to go out for recreation and you want to run off in a huff, but have patience. All will be fine later. Do something constructive. Show a cheerful attitude toward others.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21.) There could be some disharmony at home so tread lightly. It could get worse instead of better. Fix whatever is broken at home and don't fuss. If you remain calm, cool and collected all will be fine.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Coworkers may seem distant today, but that is because they have worries. Keep busy at work and don't start any arguments. A smile will do much to reassure them. You area wise a kind person. Show it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Although financial affairs are discouraging right now, tomorrow everything will be much brighter. Forget fears and have more confidence where the future is concerned. Show that you have faith.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Look to good friends for the assistance you need if you are feeling discouraged and unhappy. Revive hope and assurance. Wait until tomorrow to get into an activity that appeals to you so much.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You must study and work out ideas you have in mind if you are to gain your goal. Eliminate any drawbacks you may have at this time. Show that you are a clever person.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You think you would like to give a good friend a piece of your mind, but it is better you review the matter. It could be your fault, after all. Learn to treat others with greater respect. Don't be such a know-it-all.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You want to lambast a bigwig now, but it is better you do things in a diplomatic fashion. Make a good friend of this individual. Follow every regulation that concerns you. Learn.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) You think the ideas you have are good, but they are actually not practical at all today, so review them and make them so. You have many allies, but don't rely too much on them. Use your own good judgment.

A LOVELIER YOU

Cures For Summer's Skin Dryness Blues

By MARY SUE MILLER

A Lovely writes: With the summer only half over, my skin looks like a prune. All over. It's my fault. I've been sunning constantly - on the terrace, the boat, the beach — in spite of all advices given against it. I really need help. How can I get rid of the dryness and scuff?

The Answer: When a girl owns up to an error, far be it from me to rub it in. "Tut-tut" comes forth involuntarily.

The place to start treatment for an acute dry condition from weathering is with cleansing. Salt and chlorinated water must be rinsed off as soon as possible after contact. A thorough-going shower tops off the day. The cleansing agent used is a matter of taste, so long as it suits dry skin.

If in doubt, consider natural protein bath gel. You are probably aware of hair and nail treatments with protein formulas. Now natural protein has been found useful in the bath or shower for softening and refreshing the skin. Why not — proteins are the building blocks of the entire body.

Just before retiring, a rub-down with a rich, dry-skin today lotion is another indispensable.. An application of sunscreen or sunblock must be made to all exposed areas every morning before you go outdoors. Otherwise, the situation can only worsen.

DRY SKIN BEAUTY

For ways to keep past-30 skin smooth and dewy, order my leaflet, "New Beauty For Dry Skin." It tells in personalized steps how to cleanse, correct, protect and make up for dryness. FLORAL TRIBUTE — Mrs. Malcolm E. Ryan Jr., right, wife of the incoming wing commander at Webb Air Force Base, is presented a flower arrangement by Mrs. Charles Walker, wife of the deputy commander for operations, at a "hail and farewell" luncheon given Tuesday by the DCO wives. The affair was held at Big Spring Country Club. Mrs. Anderson W. Atkinson, wife of the departing wing commander, was the other guest of honor but was unable to be present because of illness.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

My mother sews a great deal and came up with such a cute idea last week that I told her I was going to write to you about it.

We go picnicking a lot on Sundays in the park. There are so many people there that either one of my two little brothers, or my little sister was always straying away.

Whem mother asked me to go find them I would ask what color shirt they had on and she couldn't remember half the time. So she made all four of us children red plaid shirts and one for herself and even one for daddy.

Now when we see those red shirts all laid out, we know that we are going picnicking. It surely is easy to spot that red among a bunch of people when I have to go looking.

Don't you think mother is smart? . . .Ellen Lenox, Age 10

As smart as a big red apple. Go give her a big kiss for me. . . . Love, Heloise

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

I would like to offer a little advice (in fun) to the lady in your column who was desperate because of her "mile-high" ironing.

Bury the ironing in the backyard in a time capsule, (provided the dog doesn't dig it up), or if that doesn't suit your fancy, put it in your luggage and hide it in a locker at the bus terminal. You can always visit the ironing. It's friendly and gets you out of the house!

All kidding aside, sometimes my ironing would get so high that by the time I finished it the clothes would be out of style. I finally asked for help from the rest of the family and even "what's his name" condescended to lend a helping hand. . . . Ginger Cooksey

* * *

Dear Heloise:

I have good cure for skidding mats and throw rugs. I cut pieces out of an old coat (the kind that has foam bonded to the back of it) and sew several pieces out of an old coat (the mat or rug. (Sew the pieces so that the foam side will be next to the floor, natch!)

It works better than anything else that I have ever tried. . . . Mrs. M.A.

* * *

Dear Heloise:

I have draw drapes and every time I wanted to open or close my drapes I would inviarably pull the wrong cord.

So I painted the pull on the cord that was used to open the drapes and solved the problem quite nicely. Any method of marking the cord pull could be used but this seemed logical to me. Now I know I must pull the colored cord pull when I want to open my drapes and vice-versa. . . . Avid Fan

* * *

Dear Heloise:

I'm sure many of you have served graham crackers broken up with whipped cream for dessert.

But did you know that you can really give this old standby new "zing" by adding half a box of any instant pudding (as is from the box) to the cream before you finish whipping it?

I've used banana and mocha nut and they're so-o-o-o-o good. Try it on your family. . . . Barb Nelson

The Lalla Baird Circle will host a general meeting Aug. 3 in the church parlor.

B&PW Hears Details On Data Processing

Data processing was explained by S. R. (Bob) West, assistant secretary-treasurer of Cosden Oil and Chemical Company, when he was guest speaker for the Business and Professional Women's Club. The group met for dinner at Coker's Restaurant.

Noting that there are "as many experts in data processing in Big Spring, as there are in most larger cities," he cited Datamate, First Data Processing Company, the training program at Howard County Junior College, and Webb Air Force Base, as well as the many firms and companies using computer services.

"There are more than 100 companies in the United States manufacturing and selling computers," said West. "We have a technical society, and data processing is an extension of a person's mind."

In detailing numerous things a computer does, he first emphasized that a computer "is only a tool with which to solve problems," then said people define the problems to be solved in as many fields as science encompasses.

Mrs. Charles Summers presided for the business session, announcing that plans are underway for the District 8 fall convention slated here Oct. 16-17. Mrs. Gladys Branes, state president, will be the featured speaker.

Members were asked to call Miss Edith Gay if they can serve as hostesses at the Heritage Museum from 3 to 5 p.m. on Saturday or Sunday.

Hostesses were Mrs. Summers, Mrs. Laura Boubek, Mrs. Delphia Gordon and Mrs. Jimmie Mason of the executive committee. Mrs. S. R. West was a guest.

1 5-oz. jar cheddar cheese
½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup flour
1 12-oz. jar medium pimento olives

Mix cheese, butter and flour with pastry blender or knife until it reaches consistency of pie dough. Pinch off small amount of dough and pat out in hand to ¼ inch thickness. Wrap around an olive. Repeat until all dough is used. Freeze about two hours. Put on greased cookie sheet and bake at 375 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes, until just golden, not brown.

BANANA NUT BREAD

2 cups sifted flour
1 tsp. soda
½ tsp. salt
½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 tsp. vanilla
3 or 4 ripe bananas, mashed
1 cup chopped nuts

Sift together flour, soda and salt. Cream butter and sugar together, add eggs and vanilla and stir until thoroughly mixed, stir in mashed bananas. Fold in dry ingredients and nuts. Bake in a 9 by 5 inch loaf pan at 325 degrees for 55 to 60 minutes.

CHERRY CHEESE CAKE

1 8 oz. pkg. cream cheese
½ pint sour cream
2 eggs
½ cup sugar
½ tsp. vanilla
½ tsp. lemon extract
1 9-inch graham cracker crust
1 can cherry pie filling

Blend cream cheese until soft. Add sour cream and mix. In another bowl, beat eggs slightly. Add sugar, vanilla, lemon extract and stir. Add cream cheese mixture to egg mixture and blend thoroughly. Pour into a 9-inch graham cracker crust, and bake at 375 degrees for 20 minutes. When cool, top with cherry pie filling.

LASAGNA

1 lb. ground beef
1 med. onion, minced
1 garlic clove
½ tsp. salt
Pepper to taste
½ tsp. oregano
1 tbsp. parsley flakes
2 6-oz. cans tomato paste
3 cans water
6 lasagna pieces
8 ozs. mozzarella cheese, shredded
Small carton small curd cottage cheese

Saute meat, onion and garlic until onion is tender and meat loses red color. Add salt, pepper, oregano and parsley. Stir in tomato paste and water. Simmer, uncovered about 45 minutes to one hour. Refrigerate until ready to use. About 45 minutes before serving, cook lasagna according to package directions. Drain and rinse with cold water. Arrange one-third of meat sauce and three strips drained lasagna lengthwise in an 8 by 12 inch casserole dish. Add half of the mozzarella cheese (reserve ½ cup), and half the cottage cheese. Repeat, ending with remaining meat sauce, and top with remaining mozzarella. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

BAKING IS HER FAVORITE — There's no aspect of preparing foods that Mrs. Jim Benetz doesn't like, but her favorite kitchen job is baking. Here she cuts into a Cherry Cheese Cake which tops the list of preferred desserts by her family.

Mate's Love Of Spicy Foods Reversed Her Cooking Habits

By BARBARA LORD

With many years of cooking experience behind her, Mrs. Jim Benetz had to make a complete turn-about in her habits when she got married.

Her father was an Englishman and preferred the rather relatively spiceless and bland English foods. Her husband, S. Sgt. Jim Benetz, likes Italian, Mexican and any type of food with lots of spices. The Benetz children, Kathy, 10, and Theresa, 3, have their father's tastes, and like their food even spicier than does Mrs. Benetz.

The transition to spicier foods was an easy one for Mrs. Benetz, who has always enjoyed cooking of any kind. She remembers back to the early age of 11, when she baked bread before a crowd at a county 4-H show.

"I think 4-H helped more than any one thing to make me enjoy all phases of homemaking," said Mrs. Benetz. "I made my first dress when I was eight, and I can't remember when I last bought a dress."

At home, Mrs. Benetz estimates she prepares about five big meals a week. In the summertime she receives help from her husband who handles all of the outdoor cooking. Wintertime brings on more Mexican food, and she said they usually have spaghetti about twice a month year-round.

"I never like to have anything more than once every two weeks no matter how much the family likes it," said Mrs. Benetz. "I'm afraid they'll get tired of it, so I try to vary the foods quite a bit."

When Mrs. Benetz tastes something she thinks the family will like, the studies the taste and makes up her mind to try it.

"Cooking comes easy for me," she said. "I don't usually have to struggle much to make a dish taste the way I want it to. I just tell myself I'm going to make something, and I do it. The family is easy to please because I cook what they like."

Mrs. Benetz is always busy. If she isn't cooking, she's working on one of several projects she may have going at any given time. One of her favorite hobbies is painting, with special emphasis on landscapes. She also crochets, knits, decoupages, tole paints and makes crocheted necklaces and rings.

She is a member of the "Fad-of-the-Month" club and receives a different handicraft project each month which helps her learn about new types of creative hobbies she can enjoy.

"I can't sit still and do nothing," said Mrs. Benetz. "When someone says they don't have anything to do, I just want to tell them to come over to my house. I usually have four or five different projects going they could work on."

For exercise, Mrs. Benetz belongs to a bowling league and carries a 118 average. Also, she is secretary of Alpha Beta Omicron Chapter of Coahoma, Beta Sigma Phi. The family has lived in Big Spring slightly over one year and bought their home at 4213 Hamilton which is decorated with many items which illustrate the art talent of Mrs. Benetz.

Cottage Cheese Is Easy Stuffing

Season cottage cheese with finely chopped chives and use for stuffing fresh tomatoes. Or use to fill the center of the ring mold of tomato aspic jelly. Moisten cottage cheese with top milk and season with salt and pepper. Heap in the center of cantaloupe rings and top with pitted fresh sweet cherries. Either is an easy-to-make salad.

PANTRY PICK-UPS

You can use white or brown sugar when you are making a soft custard sauce. The brown sugar is a good choice when you are planning to serve the sauce with baked apples or pears.

* * *

Leave your coffeemaker unassembled between use of it; this way the air will get at all parts and keep all parts fresh smelling.

* * *

If you use a pan with a poaching rack for poaching eggs, you can try this trick: slip a whole egg plus a yolk into each poaching cup! You may want to try this when you need extra egg whites for a souffle or a dessert.

* * *

Don't overstir ordinary pancake batter; lumps in the batter will disappear as the pancakes are baked.

* * *

To clear homemade consomme, add a beaten egg white to the stock; bring to a boil, then strain through a very fine sieve.

* * *

To have really succulent broiled chicken, allow ample time for the broiling process. It may take as long as 40 minutes to broil small broiler-fryers that have been cut into serving-size pieces.

* * *

For a delicious sandwich filling, mix chopped walnuts with pimiento-flavor cream cheese and mayonnaise. Use brown bread when you are making up the sandwiches. Nice for the lunchbox.

* * *

Want a pretty garnish for salad or sandwiches? Cut small sweet gherkins in thin lengthwise slices from tip almost to end and spread the slices apart like a fan.

HERE'S HOW WE MAKE EXTRA SURE SAFEWAY BRAND FOODS YOU BUY ARE ALWAYS FRESH

Because our perishable foods (such as eggs, dairy and bakery foods) sell so fast at Safeway that they are off our shelves in a matter of hours, freshness is assured. But we take no chances. The perishable foods Safeway manufactures or processes carry dates which our store people use to make certain that only fresh foods are sold. Here, for example, is how the date looks on a carton of Safeway Brand eggs:

A date like this is printed on the end of each carton. When the numbers "1-15" appeared, our employees knew the carton was not to be sold after January 15. Being positive no cartons remain on our shelves after the printed date ensures that all Safeway eggs you buy will remain fresh and good for many more days with proper home refrigeration.

SUMMER SALAD PLATTER
For vacation eve rush

Moms Can Take It Easy With Fast, Nutritious Meal

When you're trying to get away for a week or two, it seems to take almost that long to get ready. Chances are, the day before you go you'll be knee-deep in unpacked suitcases with four loads of laundry still to do.

Dinner this night can be a prelude to your restful vacation! Go easy on yourself with a simple Summer Salad Platter and a buttermilk dressing.

You'd be pressed to find a platter more perfectly balanced nutritionally. Tuna is its mainstay; and you add tiny plum tomatoes and crispy croutons for color and texture, hard-cooked egg slices for added protein, and cooked sliced potatoes for those who love starch.

The whole salad can be arranged, covered and refrigerated until you're ready to eat. The refreshing tang of buttermilk blends more beautifully with seasonings if you make this dressing at least an hour ahead of time.

This Summer Salad Platter could very easily become a family ritual, especially when it's too hot to fuss or too late to rush. In the event of regular requests, there's an alternate buttermilk dressing recipe that needs to be cooked first and then is chilled like the other. It, too, is deliciously seasoned — this time with onion powder, celery salt, dry mustard and dill weed.

Summer Salad Platter may make you feel like you're on vacation — right in your own kitchen!

SUMMER SALAD PLATTER

Buttermilk Dressing
1 small head iceberg lettuce
1 (6½ or 7 oz.) can tuna, drained
8 plum tomatoes, halved
1½ cups sliced cooked potatoes
2 or 3 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
1 cup packaged or homemade croutons
Seasoned salt and pepper

Make up the easy buttermilk dressing (see recipe below). Chill all ingredients except croutons. When ready to serve, arrange a few crisp lettuce leaves on chilled platter. Top with remaining lettuce, coarsely shredded. Center the whole can of tuna on lettuce. Arrange tomatoes, potatoes, hard-cooked eggs and croutons around tuna. Sprinkle potatoes with seasoned salt and pepper. Serve with tangy buttermilk dressing. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

TANGY BUTTERMILK DRESSING

1 cup buttermilk
⅓ cup mayonnaise
⅓ cup chopped green onion
3 tbsps. chopped pimiento
1½ tsps. seasoned salt
⅛ tsp. seasoned pepper
1 tbsp. wine vinegar

Combine all ingredients, and mix well. Cover and refrigerate an hour or longer to blend flavors. Makes 1¾ cups.

(and as an extra go-along to the summer salad platter . . .)

COOKED BUTTERMILK DRESSING

2 tbsps. flour
1 tbsp. sugar
2 tsps. seasoned salt
1 tsp. onion powder
½ tsp. celery salt
½ tsp. dry mustard
½ tsp. dill weed
¼ tsp. paprika
Dash pepper
1½ cups buttermilk
¼ cup wine vinegar

Blend flour, sugar, seasoned salt, onion powder, celery salt, mustard, dill, paprika and pepper in top of double boiler. Stir in buttermilk and vinegar. Place over boiling water, and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Cover and cook 5 to 7 minutes longer. Remove from heat, turn into covered container, and chill. Makes one and two-thirds cups dressing.

PEACH DESSERT SUPREME

16 lady fingers, split
3 cups heavy cream
⅓ cup confectioners' sugar
2 tsp. vanilla
4 cups canned sliced peaches, well drained (x)

Line the bottom and sides of a 9-inch spring form pan with waxed paper, then lady fingers rounded side out. In a large bowl, whip cream and confectioners' sugar until stiff peaks form; blend in vanilla. Spread 1-3 of the whipped cream over lady fingers in pan. Reserve a few sliced peaches for garnish. Place half the remaining peaches over cream in pan. Repeat a layer of cream, peaches and final layer of cream. Arrange reserved peach slices on top for garnish. Chill until set. Makes 12 servings.

(x) To substitute fresh sliced peaches, combine 4 cups fresh peaches, ¼ cup sugar and 1 teaspoon ascorbic acid mixture.

Flank Steak Ideas For Barbecues

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Newsfeatures Food Editor

In "The Complete Book of Outdoor Cookery" by James Beard and the late Helen Evans Brown, there is an interesting paragraph on flank steak:

"Flank steak is a much misunderstood cut of meat, as most people think it has to be braised to be good. Not at all. A broiled flank steak is unbelievably delicious. It is known in good eating places as a London broil. The secret is to have a good grade of meat, cook it rare, and carve it deftly in very thin diagonal slices."

No more knowledgeable words have ever been written on the subject. We agree with them wholeheartedly.

The marinade calls for a number of pantry shelf ingredients. One of these is liquid gravy seasoning and browning sauce. This sauce really does a good job so it's well worth including.

In our recipe the directions given are for broiling in the kitchen range. To charcoal-broil "The Complete Book of Outdoor Cookery" suggests that you use a good fire and broil for about eight minutes, turning once.

SAVORY BROILED FLANK STEAK

Barbecue Glaze, see recipe below.
2½-pound flank steak

Make up Barbecue Glaze.

Trim excess fat from steak and make several shallow criss-cross slashes on both sides.

Brush with Barbecue Glaze and let stand in refrigerator for at least 4 hours.

Place steak on lightly greased rack in broiler pan. Brush with Barbecue Glaze and broil close to high heat for 4 to 5 minutes. Turn, brush with glaze and broil 4 to 5 minutes.

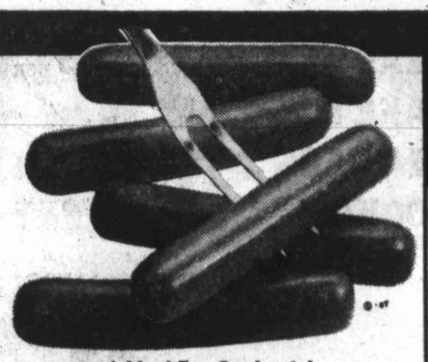

To carve, slice very thinly, on diagonal, across the grain.

Makes 6 servings.

BARBECUE GLAZE

2 large green onions, bulb part only
½ cup salad (not olive) oil
¼ cup lemon juice
½ cup catsup
¼ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1 tsp. dry mustard
½ tsp. cracked pepper
Dash of tabasco sauce
2 tbsps. liquid gravy seasoning and browning sauce

Turn all the ingredients into an electric blender; blend until smooth — a few seconds. Pour into a small saucepan and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer 8 to 10 minutes. Makes about 1 cup.

Trade In Stolen Securities Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Philadelphian who said he handled up to $50 million in stolen stocks and bonds in a 12-year carer Wednesday linked major underworld figures to the stolen counterfeit security racket.

The securities were siphoned to a large number of American and foreign banks as collateral for loans and their officers were often, but not always, aware the deals were fraudulent, the witness said.

'500 CLUB'

The witness, Edward H. Wuensche, 40, now a government informant and prosecution witness against some of his former associates, said a hard-core of 500 persons runs the stolen security trade in the United States.

He appeared before the Senate Investigations subcommittee.

Testifying under a grant of immunity from further prosecution, Wuensche said he placed $5.25 million of counterfeit bonds of Washington County, Tenn., on the Devon Bank of Chicago as collateral for a large loan. However, he did not say the bank knew the deal was illicit.

CABLE TV BOND

He said the bogus securities were placed through a Dr. Sidney DeLove who he said is the president of the Cook County Federal Savings and Loan Association of Chicago.

He said the loans were made to a Thomas H. Redmond and were based on a counterfeit $2 million sewage bond, a $1.5 million gas revenue bond and a $1.75 million cable television bond.

He said another deal, made in the fall of 1969, involved a $95,000 loan from the Long Island Trust Co. secured by a stolen $100,000 Federal National Mortgage Association bond. Again, he did not say the institution knew the transaction was crooked.

He said the loan was made to a security dealer named Emanuel Reifler.

He said other fraudulent security transactions were made in Los Angeles, Miami Beach, Philadelphia, New Jersey, the Netherlands, Switzerland, and the Sheikdom of Kuwait in the Middle East.

He did not immediately identify other financial institutions by name.

Another Onassis Gets Married

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Christina Onassis, 20-year-old daughter of Aristotle Onassis, has married 47-year-old Joseph Bolker, a Hollywood real estate man.

"I did not know who it was until I got there," said District Court Judge Carl Christensen, called to a local law office Tuesday to perform the brief civil ceremony.

"I asked, 'Is this the famous Onassis family?' and she said, 'I am the daughter.'"

There were half a dozen spectators, apparently none from the family of the Greek shipping magnate who is married to the widow of President John F. Kennedy.

The judge said the couple flew here from Los Angeles and returned after the ceremony. There were unconfirmed reports they were honeymooning in Mexico.

Suit Proves He's Got 'True Grit'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Wayne has sued Paramount Pictures for $1.7 million over the sale to television of "True Grit," which won the veteran actor his only Oscar.

Wayne's suit, filed Tuesday in Superior Court, contends that Paramount sold too cheaply, short-changing Wayne's residual share of the profits.

Paramount should have known, Wayne says, that he "stood a good chance" of winning the Academy Award for 1969, which would increase the value of the film.

But instead of selling "True Grit" separately or with a select group of films, Wayne says, Paramount let it go in the fall of 1969 to the American Broadcasting Co. with 24 other films in a $15 million package.

Migrant Problem

HAUPPAUGE, N.Y. (AP) — A total of 965 sanitary and housing violations, including widespread rat infestation, were discovered in migrant labor camps in Suffolk County during 1970.

An annual report showed 1,000 inspections at 79 migrant farming camps.

The county health department discovered 25 cases of tuberculosis among the migrant workers, 22 cases of epilepsy and 33 cases of venereal disease.

Equality Of Tax Effort

Statewide tax equalization for the support of public schools is only a subject for limited discussion groups in Texas at the present time. But its day may soon come.

Among the more than 1,200 school districts in Texas, there is little uniformity in arriving at the tax base, either by way of valuations or by rate of taxation. Some districts shoulder punishing valuations and tax rates in order to operate their schools. Others, with rich industrial or oil and gas valuations coast along on low valuations and low taxes.

But a new note has been injected in local school financing. Voters are becoming increasingly reluctant to approve needed bond issues, for the simple reason that they are resisting higher taxes, higher valuations, or both. This trend may in the end force the state, with its far greater tax resources, to take over the cost of local schools, including the construction of new buildings and the improvement of old ones.

Some hitherto "rich" school districts have also been encountering difficulties of late. They had no problems as long as oil and gas wells produced abundantly. But many fields are now becoming depleted, shrinking the tax base and forcing unpleasant economies.

But the greatest evil of all is unequal education. The disparity between both the amount expended per pupil and actual educational excellence among Texas schools can become apparent for any serious student of public education in Texas.

There can be no consistent educational equality in the public schools of Texas until each pupil can expect the same amount of money for the support of his education. Money is not the only criterion, but it is one of the first and most important ones, because most everything else depends on its availability.

Tax equalization (or equality of tax effort) throughout the state is the only means by which educational equality can be achieved. That concept has not been accepted yet — in fact it has been militantly resisted by districts endowed with vast resources — but it may come to be out of necessity.

Judicial Acumen

Dist. Judge Byron Matthews of Fort Worth has come up with a realistic decision in the name of justice.

The judge has solved the problem of miniskirted women jurors. "It's been shown that women in miniskirts spend so much time tugging at their dresses, holding down the hems, that some of them can't concentrate on the testimony and that's the important thing," Matthews said.

So in Matthew's court, miniskirted jurors must take front row seats, behind the jury box railing. This put their skirts out of sight and presumably will allow them to concentrate on the trial. It also may have a salubrious effect on general concentration on courtroom matters.

Union Power

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The administration is reluctant to tackle the problem, while members of Congress are scared of its political impact if they intervene. Yet thebiggest single thing which is blocking economic recovery in America today is unrestrained union power. With strikes and threats of work stoppages — as certain railroads are unable to operate, and telephone, steel and postal unions insist on higher and higher wage scales — the country faces a rise in costs or production that are unprecedented.

THE USUAL solution that has been suggested is "wage and price control," but this would involve an interference with the management of many companies that are getting along all right with their employes and adjusting their prices without difficulty. The real source of trouble is in those industries where extreme demands are made for contracts extending over two and three-year periods which virtually compel the employers to schedule higher prices as a safeguard against red ink.

THE GOVERNMENT will soon discover that the power of unions to upset the economy has been thoroughly demonstrated and that recovery has been delayed largely because profits have been diminished by excessive wage costs in numerous businesses.

What is happening is that collective bargaining has turned into a far-reaching pressure of many an industry. A continuation of the present system, whereby virtually no restraints are imposed on wage scales, means inevitably that prices must be raised.

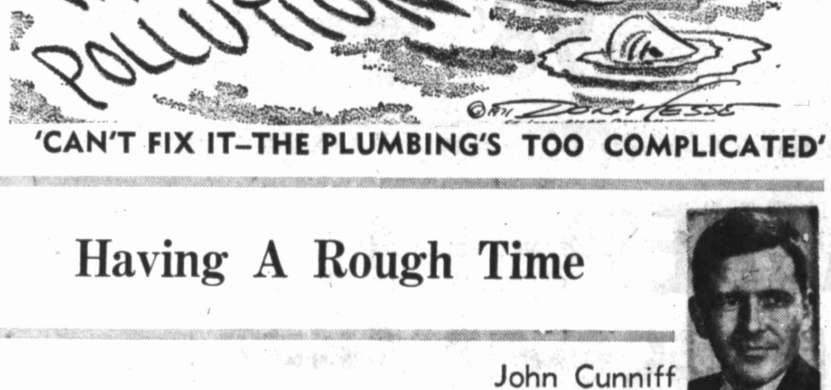

THE SITUATION obviously calls for government regulation. The unions will not do it themselves. Nor can management tackle it. The federal government has the responsibility to aid the business developments of the country and its commerce with foreign nations. Tax revenues are derived from companies that earn profits. If American producers are unable to operate without incurring losses or if they just break even, the United States treasury will not be collecting the billions of dollars in tax money that is so necessary to support the nation's needs.

THE WHOLE field of labor-management relations is in trouble. and Congress is afraid of the political consequences of dealing with the problem. Up to now, President Nixon has said that wage and price control would not be helpful. But there is need for something far more constructive than an examination of the offers made in collective-bargaining negotiations or of the prices that are set by an employer after he has concluded an agreement with his employes for higher wages.

WHAT IS NECESSARY is a system of supervision that takes into account the power of any organization in the country — whether it be a monopoly or corporations or a labor group — to fix costs of production in an entire industry and permit similiar organizations to use such agreements for the making of wage scales that are beyond the capacity of the economy to absorb.

THE LONGER the labor-management situation is left in the hands of Big Unions which can tie up an industry and push up production costs of a large number of companies, the longer will economic recovery in America be delayed. Unionization has proved of great help to the workers of America, but if union demands upon employers are carried to extremes, it can turn out to be a detriment to the private-enterprise system. The government alone is capable of applying a remedy.

'CAN'T FIX IT—THE PLUMBING'S TOO COMPLICATED'

Having A Rough Time

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — For many weeks now the nearly official line among business economists has been that the consumer has the money to spend but is lacking the willingness to part with his cash.

He fears inflation. He worries about his job. He is concerned with rising taxes. He is, therefore, in no mood to begin new endeavors. Instead, he hoards his money in fear of that proverbial rainy day.

As a result, retail outlets complain that sales are sluggish. Seldom have they had to put forth more effort to spark enthusiasm. And all the time they must fight the tendency of shoppers to buy down to lower price goods.

That's pretty much the consensus. It was recently and typically expressed this way by the Morgan Guaranty Survey, a monthly publication:

"Consumer income—buttressed both last year and this by a series of government actions, including increased Social Security benefits, federal pay hikes, and the end of the income surcharge—has been sufficient to fuel a more vigorous expansion in retail activity than has actually occurred. What's been lacking is not the means but the will to spend.

There is no shortage of statistical evidence to "prove" that the means are there. Personal income rose $6 billion in May. The rate of personal savings is at a 20-year high of 8.4 per cent of take-home pay.

That's what the statistics show. The mail suggests something else—a credibility gap involving the statistics, a growing belief among ordinary people that "they must be talking about somebody else."

Surveys show that regardless of those statistics, a lot of Americans can't discover the increase in personal income, nor can they find those big savings the statistics indicated they have.

"Did it ever occur to you that we consumers are not buying because we don't have any money left after taxes to buy with?" Thus begins a typical complaint from a writer who considers herself an "ordinary" American.

"I need a new refrigerator. Mine is 17 years old and almost shot. I can't afford to buy one. My breakfast set is falling apart after 17 years and we can't replace it.

"My husband is a teacher and makes about $15,000 a year after many years on the job. We don't have stocks or extra property. We have only a home, and we are still paying for it.

"There is nothing left after we have feed our three growing sons. We don't have any loopholes where we can escape federal income taxes, state income taxes, state tax on purchases, real estate taxes—you name the tax, there are more of them.

Youth And Age

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — My Danish friend spoke his bitter mind. "I usually take my holiday in the wintertime," he said, "but this year I just couldn't take any more of those horrible American brats who have inundated Copenhagen."

And so it goes. The Spanish police have rounded up and incarcerated hundreds of American hippies. Turkey, Greece and Italy are counting the days till the tourist season ends. Our children are earning us new contempt abroad with their drug-oriented life style, their vulgarities, their utter lack of consideration for their hosts and their resort to petty thievery as a means of self-support.

THIS IS THE new, now, aware generation. It is a generation of witless snobs, who look down their noses at their parents, a generation whose principal aim is to avoid a job of work.

The tragedy is that the older generation for the most part takes the calculated insolence of the young lying down. It is a tragedy because so much can be said in defense of that generation. Some of this was said recently by Bergen Evans, a Northwestern University educator, and his words merit inclusion in the record.

THE OLDER generation, said Evans in a radio broadcast to youth, "are the people who within the past five decades have, by their work, increased your life expectancy by approximately 50 per cent . . . They cut the working day by a third and more than doubled per capita output.

"These are the people who gave you a healthier world . . . because of this, you no longer have to fear epidemics of flu, typhus, diphtheria, smallpox, scarlet fever, measles or mumps . . . dreaded polio is no longer a medical factor, while TB is almost unheard of.

"THESE REMARKABLE people lived through history's greatest depression. Many know what it is to be poor . . . And because of this they determined that it would not happen to you, that you would have a better life . . . Because they gave you the best, you are the tallest, healthiest, brightest and probably best-looking generation to inhabit the land. And because they were materialistic, you will work fewer hours, learn more, have more leisure time, travel to more distant places, and have more of a chance to follow your life's ambitions.

"ALSO, THESE are the people who fought man's grisliest war. They are the people who defeated the tyranny of Hitler and, when it was all over, had the compassion to spend billions of dollars to help their former enemies rebuild their homelands . . . these are the people who had the sense to begin the United Nations. It was representatives of your parents and grandparents who . . . fought racial discrimination at every turn to begin a new era in civil rights."

Julie's A Jewel

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — "World, here I come. Have beaded gown, will travel."

That is the new slogan of Miss Julie Wilson, now appearing at the Rainbow Grill here, who in any popularity contest among her peers would rank as one of the best-liked performers in show business.

As a screen, television and supper club star, she has shown her skill at handling audiences. Now she has decided to see if she can handle her career all by herself.

She felt that her career had reached some kind of crisis earlier this year when there occurred a lull in it that periodically frightens most stars.

Only the year before she had starred in two Broadway shows. Unfortunately, "Jimmy" lasted only three months and "Park" only three days.

"I was ready to quit show business three months ago," Julie recalled. "Nobody called, nobody offered me a job. I hadn't been on television recently, and unless you're on television everybody thinks you are dead or retired.

"I decided that if agents can't do it for you, you have to do it for yourself. I decided to be my own agent and manager. I figured that nearly 30 years of show business must have taught me something."

After an amicable parting with her agent, the singer set out to do her own booking. She has been phenomenally successful. She has made a couple of television appearances, has signed up for a series of top supper club bookings, and is considering another Broadway show.

Her office? It's a three-bedroom ranch house she recently bought in her home town — Omaha, Neb.—where she feels her two sons, Holt, 7, and Michael, 6, will be able to grow up in a freer and less fearful atmosphere.

"The kids are my life," she said. "Anyway, all you need for an office is a telephone."

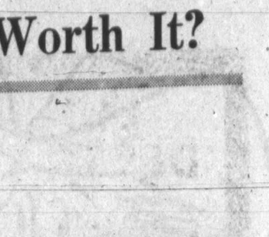

A lifelong capacity for friendship is one key to Miss Wilson's successful upsurge. Nobody who meets the breezy, down-to-earth, hazel-eyed singer is likely to forget her.

"Money you lose, friends you keep"—that is the way she sums up her philosophy. It could well sum up her career so far, too.

Miss Wilson started at $40 a week in a touring edition of "Earl Carroll's Vanities" and danced and sang her way up to the $5,000 a week bracket.

Her goal, she says, is "to learn how to accept what life offers, the good and the bad, cheerfully. For every bad night, you have many beautiful nights."

Are They Worth It?

Around The Rim

Jean Fannin

I'm not sure vacations are worth it.

ALL YEAR you look forward to those two free weeks, and then when the time comes, well, just preparing for it makes you anxious for it to be over so you can go back to work just to get some rest.

There are minor little things — like getting your car serviced — that can wreck your nervous system. Have you ever tried to get your car in for a tune-up in the middle of July? I'm beginning to think that everybody in town is going on vacation at the same time!

THERE'S also those little details like cleaning out the refrigerator and making sure there are no potatoes which might decide to take root in the cabinet.

You have to remember which bills to pay (after all I don't want my landlord repossessing my apartment while I'm gone.)

THANK HEAVEaS I don't have a pet to board out with the neighbors, but that reminds me . . . I better have someone check the mail, just in case I get one of those fabulous offers from someone willing to build a home just for me on the lot of my choice in Big Spring, Tex.

I'm glad I've already decided on my vacation route. I was going to just take off and wander — but my mother and my boss both wanted detailed itineraries with addresses and phone numbers. At least it makes me feel wanted.

I'M NOT EVEN going to think about that most important detail of all — at least not until the night before I leave. Packing. That's enough to make a strong woman weak.

I know that all the travel guides say take only the essentials. But, who decides what's essential? As sure as I leave my umbrella at home, every place I visit will get a four-inch rain. And as sure as I take cotton clothes, the Gulf Coast will get its first summer snowstorm in history. Things like that happen to me.

I THINK probably the best thing to do would be hide my car, lock the door and spend the whole two weeks at home.

Agnew Reports

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — While Henry Kissinger has been getting all the attention in the past few weeks, our own Vice President Spiro Agnew has just returned from a successful goodwill trip around the world. Its significance could affect foreign affairs for years to come.

Flying in four Boeing 707s and one cargo plane, with two bulletproof Cadillacs, the Agnew party of 141 people, paying an average of $3,000 a night for quarters, visited such unlikely places as Saudi Arabia, Ethiopia, Kenya, the Congo, Spain and Portugal.

ANXIOUSLY awaiting his report on his return was President Nixon.

"Well, Spiro, we're really glad to have you back in the country."

"Thank you, Mr. President. Say, I heard a funny thing in Spain — this will really make you laugh. Some joker said you were going to Red China to visit Mao Tse-tung. How do you like that for a kooky rumor?"

"It's not kooky, Spiro. It's true. And I don't want you to say anything to louse it up."

"ARE YOU out of your mind, Mr. President? There isn't a decent golf course in the entire country."

"I'm not going to play golf in Red China."

"You're not going to play golf? Then why would you go there?"

"I have some things I want to talk over with Mao."

"Why didn't you let me know about it, Mr. President?"

"I tried to get you several times, but they told me you were always on the golf course and you left word you didn't want to be disturbed."

"THAT ISN'T true, Mr. President. The reporters who were with me kept putting out the stories that I was always playing golf to embarrass me. The truth of the matter is I played as much tennis as I did golf."

"Never mind. Tell me what you have to report."

"The South Koreans don't like the North Koreans. President Chung Hee Park told me that himself."

"That's interesting. What else?"

"The Saudi Arabians don't trust the Israelis."

"How do you know this?"

"PRINCE FAISAL revealed this to me in strictest confidence."

"You mean King Faisal."

"Prince — king, what's the difference? I saw Jomo Kenyatta for 15 minutes in Kenya. I gave him some candlesticks and he gave me a monkey-skin robe. Haile Selassie says hello. Ethiopia has made fantastic progress in its putting greens."

"Anything I should know about the Congo?"

"MOBUTA REALLY has his blacks under control. Our black leaders could learn a thing or two from Kenyatta and Mobut, believe you me."

"I know about that, Spiro. Your remarks on our black leaders were reported back here in detail. And while I'm sure they were received well in Kenya and the Congo, they didn't go over very big with our black leaders here."

"Well, you can't please everybody when you're on a good-will trip."

What Others Say

It just can't be the same old town. Not ever again. Not when patronage workers no longer have to ring doorbells or march in parades or make "contributions" to the party treasury.

Yet that's what the Chicago Democratic committeemen have decided, and Mayor Daley himself stands behind the resolutions that "oppose and condemn" compulsory contributions and political activity.

How can discipline and spirit be maintained if all this permissiveness invades the local party? Will the faithful still turn out in such droves for the big campaign rallies without even a slight twist of the arm?

There are cynics who say this mending of the ways is related to a suit in federal court — the one charging that the party extracts political contributions and forces political work and that this is somehow injurious to rights. But the mayor says there's no connection, and that he's been against "compulsory contributions" all along. And the mayor wouldn't kid us, now would he?—CHICAGO DAILY NEWS

My Answer

Billy Graham

In your crusades you ask people to come forward and make a decision for Christ. Must one do this to be a Christian? K.R.

If you will notice in the New Testament, you will find that Jesus always told people to put their faith into action. He told the 10 lepers to "go show" themselves unto the priests in the temple. He told the man with the withered arm to "stretch it out." He told Peter, James and John to "leave" their nets and "follow" Him. Once He said, "Whosoever therefore shall confess me before men, him will I confess also before my Father which is in heaven; but whosoever shall deny me before men, him will I also deny before my Father which is in heaven."

I am not insisting that everyone come "forward" in an evangelistic meeting, but I do believe that if we are ashamed to confess Christ that we are unworthy to be His disciple. That confession can take place in many places — in church, in an evangelistic meeting, or in a meeting of friends or acquaintances. The place is not important — but confession of Christ is Almost any person that Jesus called, He called publicly! This is a day of commitment and decision in any other field — why not make public decision for Christ.

A Devotion For Today . . .

"Beware of all covetousness; for a man's life does not consist in the abundance of his possessions."

PRAYER: O Master Christ, we would be true stewards of all of life. Teach us the value of the things which have been committed to our care. Show us how we may most desirably use all of them to Thy glory for the welfare of mankind. Amen.

Parent Problem

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a wife and the mother of teenagers, but my biggest problem is my parents! They have never got along, and I hear it every day from both sides. Especially my mother. If she isn't here complaining in person, she's on the phone. She starts out with, "Now I don't want you to think less of your father, but as our daughter you have a right to know what's going on." Then she proceeds to tear him to shreds. (I'm not the only one in the family she complains to, but I am the favorite wailing-wall.)

I have sat them both down and begged them to get professional help and quit running to relatives, but they don't want help. They'd rather complain and make everyone else as miserable as they are.

Abby, I may lay awake nights worrying about my teenagers, but my parents will never hear a word. Why should I burden them with my problems? They aren't going to solve them for me. On the other hand, I try to keep my parents' problems from my husband and children. I feel like a sponge being sopped from both sides and never allowed to drip.

I know a daughter can't disown her own parents, but if only they realized what they were doing to me, maybe they would let up. In the meantime, how can I keep my sanity — or what's left of it?

DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: If you really want to preserve your sanity, you will shut off your parents' complaints in whatever ways are necessary. And don't feel guilty!

* * *

DEAR ABBY: With so much talk about controling the population by means of the men having vasectomies, I want to ask you a question: How come I had this simple little 15-minute operation done in a doctor's office in 1952 and it cost me only $25, and today they are charging $250 for the very same operation?

Just because doctors have a license to practice medicine doesn't mean they have a license to steal.

DEARBORN, Mich.

DEAR DEARBORN Nothing is as cheap today as it was in 1952. But if the doctor who performed your surgery for $25 is now charging $250, why don't you ask him?

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Because it is a habit to read the death notices in my hometown paper, I turned to the obits in the newspaper while traveling through that city.

In funeral notices I saw someone I had known died at the home of a "Sally So and So, a very dear friend, after a lingering illness."

Not that it's any of my dang business, but is it now considered proper to announce to the world that one's sleeping partner has succumbed? Or do you suppose "Sally So and So" was using the obits to let the local townspeople know that she was looking for a relief pitcher?

TEXAN

DEAR TEXAN How do you know what the sleeping arrangements were? Perhaps "Sally So and So" was indeed a "dear friend" and nothing more.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

About Your Hair

Your Good Health

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My problem is my hair. It is slow in growing in — in other words, the falling is greater than the growing. Probably that is due to my age; I am 65 but healthy and love life.

I have a shampoo about once a week, and brush and brush. Is there a tonic you could suggest? — Mrs. O.C.

Questions like this one are pretty common — and there are so many different tonics, shampoos, and home remedies for hair that I couldn't begin to count them.

Yet, when you get right down to it, there are a limited few things that will have any effect on your hair.

First, at 65 (often earlier) it is not at all unusual to have some thinning of the hair. Your glands generally, including those in the scalp, are not as active as they used to be, and there's nothing you can do about it. (Except there may be a need for thyroid or for estrogen, the female hormone. These can have a beneficial effect on the hair.)

After all, some people, and this includes more women than you might think, become bald. And there's nothing to do about that, either. Within limits, you can do what is good for your hair, but in the broad picture we have to be satisfied with our natural endowments.

The one important thing to watch for is skin disease, that is, scalp disease. That can really be devastating — but it also can be treated effectively.

But if there's really a skin disease at work, you'll be aware of it. You can see it; you may feel it. Just take a good look in the mirror, and if the scalp looks normal, forget it. If there is scaling, rash, or other such sign of a skin disease, my advice is to see a dermatologist. Fiddling around with home remedies is too hit-or-miss to be effective.

I don't mean that one should get in a panic over a few little flecks of dandruff on the collar. They are flecks of skin. But if there's an abormally large amount of dandruff, try one of the various dandruff shampoos. If that doesn't help, see a dermatologist.

Where the scalp appears and feels normal, just treat it kindly. By that I mean folks should remember that hair texture varies enormously. Some is coarse; some fine. Some is rugged; some is brittle.

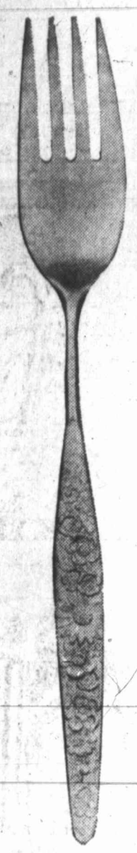

We are constantly losing hair, all the time. It averags to about 75 hairs a day, so a few in the comb don't necessarily mean anything. New ones grow in.

But brittle hair breaks off more easily. While a shampoo a week is entirely reasonable, I'd go easy on the "brush and brush." You may be breaking off more strands than need be, so limit the brushing to whatever is essential for good grooming. Don't expect a lot of brushing to grow new hair or grow it faster. So treat it kindly. Fairly gently. And watch out for disease.

And don't worry if the hair looks a bit thinner at 65. That's natural for nearly all of us.

* * *

Don't take chances with "kidney trouble." It may be only minor, but it can be dangerous. Read Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Your Kidneys — Facts You Need To Know About Them." Write to him in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Nixonites Will Pile Up Back-To-Back Deficits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is on the way to piling up the worst back-to-back deficits in federal government operations since 1945-46.

But administration officials shrug off the two deficits, expected to total more than $40 billion in fiscal 1971 and 1972, saying they are fiscally responsible.

HIGH PRIORITY

The reason, they say, is that the budget spending is pegged to the amount of tax revenues the government would expect to receive in times of high prosperity.

In fiscal 1945, the federal deficit, ballooned by wartime spending, was $45 billion. As peace returned, the deficit dropped to $18 billion the following year.

The Treasury Department reported Wednesday the deficit for fiscal 1971, which ended June 30, climbed to $23.2 billion, second highest one-year deficit of the post-World War II era.

LOOK AT LBJ

Officially, the White House says, the deficit for fiscal 1972 will be $11.6 billion. But already administration officials have acknowledged publicly it will be closer to $18.6 billion.

The largest back-to-back deficits in the past 25 years were those in fiscal 1967 and 1968 when President Lyndon B. Johnson was in office.

But the Nixon deficits are more responsible than those, say administration officials, including Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, a Democrat and close political associate of Johnson.

The fiscal 1971 budget actually showed a $2.5-billion surplus on a full-employment basis, Connally and George P. Shultz, director of the Office of Management and Budget, said. It was the third year in a row a full-employment balance or surplus has been achieved.

JOBLESS RATE

"This record is in sharp contrast to that of fiscal years 1966 through 1968, when full-employment deficits totaled more than $40 billion," they said.

Full employment is defined as a 4-per-cent jobless rate. The unemployment rate during the fiscal year averaged 5.7 per cent — and got bigger as the year went along.

As the federal budget floundered deeper in the red, so did the nation's trade position.

In June, the Commerce Department said, the nation recorded its third straight monthly deficit in trade, with imports exceeding exports by $363 million, raising the figure for the first six months of the year to $373 billion. This was the first time this had happened in the 25 years the government has been keeping trade figures on a seasonally adjusted basis.

Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans says the balance could drop to zero this year for the first time since 1893.

UF Trustees

Trustees of the United Fund will convene Aug. 12 to hear a report and recommendations from the screening and budget committee. Trustees will adopt a budget for the 1971-72 campaign, said Kenneth Perry, UF president.

Homecoming Set

Homecoming for the Williams school near Cisco has been set for Saturday, Aug. 7, at 8 p.m., according to Lorena Woods Brandon, Route 4, secretary, and Cooter Moore, president. Snacks and drinks will be served.

Controlled Cease-Fire Throughout Indochina Bid

PARIS (AP) — David K. E. Bruce, outgoing U.S. negotiator at the Vietnam peace talks, called today for immediate negotiations on a general, internationally controlled cease-fire throughout Indochina.

Bruce, 73, made the proposal at the final weekly session of the peace talks he will attend. He is due to leave Paris Sunday and is scheduled to be replaced soon by William J. Porter, U.S. ambassador to South Korea.

The cease-fire proposal has been consistently rejected by the Communist negotiators since it was first put forward nearly two years ago.

Bruce's deputy, Philip C. Habib, is to head the U.S. delegation until Porter arrives in Paris next month.

At last week's session, Xuan Thuy described the cease-fire proposal as "absurd."

Earlier, the Viet Cong charged the elections in South Vietnam are being "feverishly" rigged "under the direct supervision of the American Embassy in Saigon."

The charge was made by Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, the Viet Cong foreign minister, at the 123rd weekly session of the Paris peace talks. She said American assurances of nonintervention in the presidential election in October is "pure hypocrisy."

The session marked the final appearance at the talks of 73-year-old Ambassador David K.E. Bruce, the chief of the American delegation, who is retiring Sunday. He will be succeeded by William J. Porter, now U.S. ambassador to South Korea, and in the interim the U.S. delegation will be headed by Philip Habib, who has been chief deputy to both Bruce and his predecessor, Henry Cabot Lodge.

Neither Mrs. Binh nor Xuan Thuy, the chief North Vietnamese delegate, referred to Bruce's departure in their prepared speeches to the conference.

"In the provisionally occupied zones of South Vietnam," said Mrs. Binh, "fraudulent electoral maneuvers are feverishly being prepared under the direct supervision of the American Embassy in Saigon.

"All levels of the population and all opponents of Nguyen Van Thieu are subjected to increasing repression. The military, police and administrative apparatus and all the financial and propaganda sources with elections seeking to keep Ngu which the United States has provided the Saigon regime are dedicated to these fraudulent yen Van Thieu in power."

Angelo Firm Gets Road Bid

AUSTIN — Strain Bros. Inc. San Angelo, won the bid Wednesday in Austin for construction to complete the Big Spring-Andrews highway FM 87 into Big Spring.

The bid, let by the Texas Highway Commission, was for $721,282.

The project will begin one mile east of FM 2599 and continue east to Big Spring, a distance of 5.529 miles. Engineers have estimated the job will require 220 working days, but the length of time in Strain's bid was not immediately available.

The first stage of this project for widening the grade and structures and resurfacing a wider road from the Martin County line has carried it past the Hartwells intersection, according to Joe Smoot, resident highway engineer.

Strain Bros. is the firm which completed the FM 700 and U. S. 87 South widening projects here.
