OIL WORKER AT MEXIA PLEADS ACCIDENT ADMITTING HE KILLED PARENTS AND FIRED THEIR HOME

MEXIA, Texas, May 4. (AP)—Lloyd Davidson, 34, oil field worker, son of W. T. Davidson, signed a confession here today that he killed his father and stepmother, Mrs. Ella D. Davidson with a stick of wood Friday at their country home and then set fire to the house.

The confession, witnessed by a citizen and the chief of police, said Lloyd Davidson was at his father's home and an argument arose. The stepmother hit the youth over the head with a flashlight and he grappled with her, it continued.

W. T. Davidson then interfered and Lloyd Davidson struck the father with a stick of wood. After the elder Davidson was knocked down, Mrs. Davidson was killed, the statement said. A can of oil then was obtained and the house was burned.

After the confession was obtained, young Davidson was taken to jail at Groesbeck to await grand jury action Monday.

The county attorney said an axe was found near the seared bodies.

MEXICAN REBELS APPREHENDED WITH $700,000 IN CASH

BELIEVED ABSCONDING TO SPAIN WITH LARGE SUM

U. S. Government Official Former Official Were With Accused

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—A former paymaster in the Mexican rebel army and his secretary who slipped through the fingers of the law in Kansas City, were arrested here today in possession of a black bag containing approximately $700,000 with which officials believed they were absconding to Spain.

With them were found a United States government official and a former U. S. government official.

The one considered the biggest catch is Salvador Ateca, former rebel paymaster, who until recently held the gambling concessions in the Mexican state of Chihuahua with the rebel general Marcelo Caraveo, former governor of Chihuahua. His secretary is Antonio Maques.

The others were Russell Mathews, assistant director of immigration at El Paso, Texas and W. H. Fryer, former assistant United States attorney at El Paso.

Pay Bond and Travel

Ateca and Maques were arrested in Kansas City Wednesday by secret service operatives as fugitives from justice from El Paso. Their bail was set at $5,000 each, which

Court Sets Aside $100 Libel Fine Against Editor

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 4. (UP)—The criminal court of appeals Saturday set aside conviction of Howard A. Tucker, Oklahoma City newspaper man, on a charge of criminal libel for having published a story concerning J. K. Wright and Tom Cavener in which Tucker said "Mule kick puts klan sheriff in hospital."

Wright was county attorney at the time the story was published in Tucker's paper, "The Record," and Cavener was sheriff.

The story alleged that Wright and Cavener had had a personal encounter and that Wright had kicked Cavener in the stomach. Both Wright and Cavener had denied there was any personal encounter.

Tucker was fined $100 but the court reversed the Oklahoma county court and ordered the charge dismissed.

THREE CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH AND WIFE AND ANOTHER CHILD MAY DIE

NEWCASTLE, Pa., May 4. (UP)—Already heartbroken at the death of his three children in a fire which destroyed his home, William Stevens sat with his oldest daughter, Margaret, in the ante-room of a hospital here tonight, while physicians sought to save the life of his wife and youngest daughter.

Mrs. Stevens and Eleanor, 4, were seriously burned in the fire which started when a gasoline stove exploded.

Dorothy, 14, William, 13, and Virginia, 9, asleep in an upstairs room when the fire broke out, were burned to death.

TEXAS YOUTHS HELD IN CONNECTION WITH SLAYING OF MARSHAL

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, May 4. (AP)—James E. Jones and Charles Baker, Texas youths, were held here today while their possible connection with the killing of town Marshal William Echols at Van Alstyne, Texas, last March, was investigated, officers announced.

The two were charged today with burglary of a theater at Murray, Utah, near here, last Monday. Officers said Jones has confessed two burglaries and has implicated himself and his companion in the theft of an automobile.

CHARGE HOLDING UP SIDEWALKS

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 4. (UP)—C. Sloane was charged with "rolling up the sidewalks at 6 p. m.," in a complaint filed at county court today. It was charged he was rolling away the bricks in a wheelbarrow from a sidewalk at night and building a wall at his home by day.

HUGH GIBSON TO GIVE AMERICA'S VIEW TO LEAGUE

Will Continue Build Cruisers to Round Out Navy Is Program

WENT INTO CONFERENCE TO REDUCE ARMAMENT

Address of American Envoy Is Expected to Be Delivered Monday

WASHINGTON, May 4. (U.S.)—The United States will withdraw from the League of Nations preparatory conference in armaments, it was learned today.

This will be done after Hugh Gibson, chief of the American delegation and ambassador to Belgium, delivers a final address in which he will outline the American view. In this he will express the viewpoint that this country may become involved in European intrigue if the negotiations proceed along the lines of the last few weeks.

The address of the American envoy will be delivered Monday. In it, he will make the position of the United States clear. He will point out in the first place that this country has no interest whatsoever in Europe's squabble over land armaments. Officials here are unable to reconcile the statements attributed to Ambassador Gibson with those which emanate from the French government.

These utterances have represented the United States as agreeing to weigh her land armaments with those of France. The president of the United States has made it plain from the first that this country has no land army, as armies are measured in Europe, and that this

WALSH WANTS FACTS ON PAPER OWNERSHIP

WASHINGTON, May 4. (AP)—A resolution directing the postmaster general to inform the senate of the names and addresses of all editors, publishers, magazine editors, and stock and bondholders of papers in which the International Paper and Power company claimed an interest was introduced today by Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana.

AMBASSADOR MORROW TO COUNTRY HOME WEEK-END

MEXICO CITY, May 4. (UP)—Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow went to Hiso country home at Cuernavaca this afternoon for the week-end accompanied by a dozen guards. The highway between Mexico City and Cuernavaca was patrolled by soldiers.

The ambassador was not alarmed by reports prints here that Catholics had heard rumors of a plot to assassinate him.

Rediscount Rate Raised

WASHINGTON, May 4. (AP)—The federal reserve board announced today that the federal reserve bank of Kansas City has raised its rediscount rate from 4½ to 5 per cent, effective next Monday.

Founder's Grandchild Crowned Queen of 45th Annual Doan's Picnic

VERNON, Texas, May 4.—Miss Ines Igou, granddaughter of C. F. Doan, founder of the Doan's picnic, was crowded queen of the 45th annual celebration at the picturesque Watts Grove on the banks of Red river, 25 miles north of Vernon Saturday. Mr. Doan himself attended the picnic and took part in the pageant portraying the development of Wilbarger county and Texas.

Costumes and fashions of pioneer days were represented by a number of Vernon women, including Mrs. Bertha Ross and C. W. Igou, daughters of the founder of the picnic and Mrs. C. C. Smith of Fargo and Mrs. J. E. Luts of Vernon.

Speakers of the day included Rev. L. A. Foster of Vernon, County Clerk J. E. Collins, County Tax Collector C. D. Greene, James E. Stafford, Mrs. C. S. Smith and the founder, Mr. Doan. A. P. Howard and a group of old time fiddlers entertained with breakdown selections at intervals during the day.

THREE REPORTS TO BE FILED IN FIGHT STAGED ON MELLON

WASHINGTON, May 4. (AP)—The right of Andrew W. Mellon to serve as secretary of the treasury although he is a stockholder in various enterprises was upheld today by eight of the 17 members of the senate judiciary committee but a poll failed to develop a majority and three separate reports will be submitted to the senate for its decision.

Fifteen members of the committee were recorded tonight. They divided 8 to 7 in favor of the report of Senator Steiwer, Republican, Oregon, holding that Mr. Mellon's stockholdings do not violate the statute forbidding the secretary of the treasury from an interest in carrying on trade or commerce.

The senate will have to decide, from the three reports, what course it will take in Mellon's case.

DAUGHTER W. C. DURANT IS MARRIED THIRD TIME

NEW YORK, May 4. (UP)—Mrs. Margery Durant Daniel, daughter of W. C. Durant, automobile manufacturer has embarked on her third matrimonial venture, Mayor William T. Congleton of Newark, N. J., admitted today he married her to John Hampton Moore of New York and Palm Beach at the Newark city hall.

The former Mrs. Daniel was divorced from her first husband, Dr. E. R. Campbell, and last September obtained a Reno divorce from her second husband, Robert W. Daniel, banker.

FAVORABLE REPORT HOUSE COMMITTEE STATE INCOME TAX

AUSTIN, May 4. (AP)—The state income tax proposed by Rep. T. N. Maurits of Canado, was voted out favorably by the house committee on revenue and taxation last night. The count was 7 to 5.

The bill was drawn to produce revenue heretofore obtained through the ad valorem tax. It would fix a five per cent on corporations. Individuals would be taxed 1½ per cent on the first $4,000, three per cent of the next $4,000, and all above $8,000 at five per cent.

CREW OF STRICKEN LAKE STEAMER REPORTED SAFE

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 4. (UP)—Nine men comprising the entire crew, were rescued today from the stricken freighter, O. E. Parks, which foundered in a heavy gale off Thunder Bay island in Lake Huron, according to advices received here at district headquarters from the Thunder Island bay coast guard station.

The rescue of men was affected in towering seas that constantly imperiled the lives of the rescue party, the message said.

CLINE TO MAKE CHIEF ADDRESS AT RALLY HERE

Lions' Band and Chorus of Girl Reserves to Provide Music

OFFICIALS OF JUNIOR CHAMBER ARE PLEASED

Varied Program Scheduled For Presentation at Auditorium

Civic appreciation week will close Sunday afternoon with a citizens' mass meeting to be held in the Memorial auditorium at 3 o'clock.

Walter Cline will deliver the principal address at 3:30. Music will be furnished by the Lion's Club band and Paul Seeds' band. A chorus of 300 Girl Reserves directed by Miss Emma Schnelle will sing several numbers. It will be accompanied by Miss Mildred Anderson at the piano and Miss Matilda Donnell and Miss Thelma Norvell on the violin. R. E. Shepherd will sing several selections.

Officials of the Junior chamber of commerce, which sponsored and staged the week's program, said Saturday that they were well pleased with the results of the movement.

Citizens entered into the spirit of the week willingly and assisted members of the organization on fostering a revival of the "faith" spirit that built Wichita Falls, they said.

Appreciation week opened last Sunday with special sermons from all pulpits in the city on the subject. Monday was enlistment day and the Girl Reserves distributed Appreciation week buttons downtown. A keynote meeting, attended by 300 persons, was held in the Wichita club.

Tuesday was dedicated to schools, hospitals and clinics. A May fete attended by 5,000 school children was staged in Scotland park in the afternoon and Wichita Falls artists gave a musical program at the First Methodist church in the evening.

A downtown prade featured Wednesday, which was government and civic institutions day. Thursday was industrial and labor day with 52 factories and plants holding open house.

Friday was set aside as recreation day. Features were a polo game, the opening of the golf tournament and an art exhibit and bridge tournament at the Woman's Forum. Saturday was merchants' day with special sales at all stores.

SEVERAL BELIEVED CRUSHED TO DEATH BUILDING COLLAPSE

CHICAGO, May 4. (INS)—Between 12 and 15 men are believed to have been crushed to death and eight are known to have been seriously if not fatally injured when a three-story brick building being razed by workmen, suddenly collapsed.

The men were imprisoned beneath tons of steel, plaster and wooden beams.

Firemen rushed to the scene and succeeded in liberating eight men, all of whom were rushed to hospitals. Others could be seen pinioned by girders. The structure served for many years as Democratic headquarters on the west side.

THREE PERSONS KILLED IN CROSSING ACCIDENT

ASHLAND, Ohio, May 4. (UP)—Three persons were killed here tonight in a grade crossing accident six miles west of Ashland.

The dead are:

Grover C. Lockhart, 45, Richland county farmer.

Belle Nelson Lockhart, 45, his wife.

Dora Lockhart, a daughter.

The Lockhart automobile was struck by a westbound Erie passenger train. The bodies were brought to an Ashland morgue.

HUSBAND RICHEST INDIAN GETS DIVORCE FOR CRUELTY

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., May 4. (UP)—The husband of "the richest Indian girl in the world" was granted a divorce here today on a charge of cruelty.

Harry Bowles, the husband, obtained the divorce from his wife, Mary Elkins, full blooded Osage Indian, when he charged she beat him so severely and so often that he was ill throughout the past year. Mrs. Bowles who was not in court during the trial, is said to have an income that exceeds $100,000 a year, derived from oil property. Bowles was her chauffeur before he married her.

YOUNG WIDOW UNCONCERNED AS SHE WAITS IN OLD SONORA JAIL TO FACE MURDER COUNT

SONORA, Calif., May 4. (INS)—Arraignment of pretty blonde Eva Rablen, 32, "mail order" bride on a charge of murdering her husband, Carroll Rablen, who died outside a dance hall after drinking a cup of coffee, today went over until next week, when Tuolumne county authorities announced decision to employ E. O. Heinricks, nationally known criminologist, in an attempt to solve the death mystery.

Preliminary report indicated no poison had been found in the young man's stomach.

Decision to call Heinrich into the case was reached at a conference between District Attorney Grayson and Sheriff Jack Dambacher, both natives of this mother lode country which was aroused to a high pitch by the death of one of its natives.

"Even the stomach does not reveal any trace of poison, we will retain Mr. Heinrich to work on other features of the case," the officials announced after their conference.

Old Steve Rablen, bereaved father, who played his fiddle at the dance while his son died outside the hall, and signed the warrant charging Mrs. Rablen with the crime, sat in his pioneer ranch home on historic Blanket Creek today, a broken man.

His only solace now is the violin on which he still fiddles at dances that are but echoes of the "rip-roarin' hops" of '49.

THREE MEN KILLED IN FAMILY BATTLE OVER FENCE LINE

ROY, N. M., May 4. (AP)—Three men were killed and two were injured here today in a gun fight which resulted from an argument over a range fence.

The dead:

Pat Le Doux, 41, his son, David, 19, and Philip Spurlock, 35. F. Coldiron, Spurlock's father-in-law and another son of Le Doux were injured.

Both families had lived here for years and the dispute over the fence was said to have been of long standing. Spurlock was survived by a widow and five children and Le Doux by a widow and seven children.

WICHITA FALLS NEGRO KILLED AT FORT WORTH

FORT WORTH, May 4. (AP)—A Mexican is dead and a negro is in a dying condition as a result of railroad accidents here last night and early today.

L. J. Hudgins, 34, negro, Wichita Falls, was run over and both legs mangled by a freight engine of the Texas and Pacific railroad.

Ehrasmo Alvarez, 45, Mexican laborer, was decapitated when he fell under a switch engine while crossing the Fort Worth and Denver City railway.

TOPEKA, Kan., May 4. (UP)—Persons who indirectly profit through violation of prohibtion laws or knowingly aid another in such violation is guilty as a principal, the Kansas supreme court held today.

TWELVE HUGE BAGS LIFTED INTO SPACE FOR BALLOON RACE

Seek Eligibility International Contest to Be Held at St. Louis

TAKE-OFF IS POSTPONED BY WEATHER CONDITIONS

Three Balloons in Air Longest Will Be Eligible for International Race

PITTSBURGH, May 4. (UP)—Seeking eligibility for the international balloon race to be held at St. Louis, Mo., 12 huge bags lifted into the air from the University of Pittsburgh stadium tonight and drifted eastward in the 1929 national elimination race.

The three balloons which remained in the air for the longest time and drifted the greatest distance from their starting point will be eligible as the United States entries in the international race.

Fast army and navy planes dipped in salute and three "blimps" of the Goodyear Rubber company, of Akron, Ohio, soared majestically overhead as the first bag, a Detroit balloon entry, lifted clear of the stadium and floated eastward.

S. W. A. Kickoff, piloted the balloon. His aide was Thorwald Larsen. The two balloonists waved farewell to the spectators at 6 p. m. as Lieut. Charles Bauch, of the U. S. navy, who is operations official of the race, gave the signal to clear.

Every five minutes for the next hour, Lieut. Bauch gave the signal which sent another hydrogen filled bag with pilot and aide into the air.

The last of the 12 balloons had been weighted off and cleared the stadium shortly before 7 o'clock.

A drizzling rain which began a short time before the first balloon left continued to fall, but none of the balloons encountered difficulty in taking to the air. A brisk breeze was blowing at an altitude of a few hundred feet and the bags drifted rapidly toward the east.

Weather conditions made several conferences between field officials and pilots necessary later in the

DALLAS THEATER CENSORS CANNED

DALLAS, May 4. (AP)—A new mayor who came into office hailed as the "hot dog" campaigner has removed from Dallas theaters the threat of the official censor.

Mayor J. Waddy Tate announced that he had faith in the "moral integrity" of Dallas shows and their patrons, that he believed the paid censor and board of appeals unnecessary, and that he consequently was abolishing them.

Manslaughter Is Most Serious Charge Can Be Brought Against Self-Confessed "Torch" Slayer

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 4. (UP)—The most serious charge the state can bring against Earl F. Peacox, dapper radio technician and self-confessed "torch" slayer of his wife, Dorothy, is manslaughter, according to his attorney.

So far, the district attorney's assistants have admitted, they are not in possession of sufficient evidence to warrant a first degree murder indictment.

Sidney A. Syme, Peacox's attorney, conferred with his client in the Westchester county jail today. He said Peacox told him there was "absolutely no premeditation" in the killing.

"She taunted me because my inability to earn enough money to support her in the manner to which she aspired," Syme quoted Peacox as saying.

Eugene Bussey, Baltimore college student, was held without bail as a material witness in the case, according to District Attorney Frank H. Coyne. Bussey has admitted "petting" with Mrs. Peacox.

Frances Newman, also known as Frances Murray, was detained as a material witness soon after arrest of Peacox, with whom she is said to have been friendly.

Detectives, who visited her apartment in Manhattan last night, discovered a third name for her. Packages, addressed to Frances C. Meekson, containing clothing and several old letters, including some that were torn, were received from C. C. Meekson, of Sharon, Pa. It was said a university medical student and a son of a prominent Baltimore physician, may be questioned by District Attorney Coyne.

Street is alleged to be the owner of an automobile seen frequently in front of the Bronx rooming house where Dorothy Peacox lived after her estrangement from her husband. Members of the district attorney's staff refused to comment on this angle.

AMARILLO MAN SLAIN HAD MARRIED DAUGHTER OF ATTORNEY ACCUSED

AMARILLO, May 4. (AP)—R. H. Hamilton, a former judge on the commission of appeals of the Texas state supreme court, today shot and killed his 21-year-old son-in-law, Thomas Walton Jr., and explained the slaying only by saying: "I had rather be dead than kill a man, but I had to protect my family."

The shooting occurred in the law office of Hamilton, where the boy was reported to have gone to disclose his marriage to Hamilton's daughter, Theresa, 19. Both Walton and his young wife formerly attended Texas university.

Although Mr. Hamilton, after the shooting, denied that his daughter was married, records in the county clerk's office at Georgetown, Texas, near Austin, site of the university, revealed that Theresa Hamilton and Thomas Walton Jr., were married last Feb. 12. Justice of the Peace Bryan Blalock said he had performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Hamilton had been in Austin with the daughter since January, it became known after Walton's death. Mrs. Walton had been a patient in an Austin hospital for a period recently, friends there said, but efforts to find her and her mother tonight were unavailing, and it was assumed they had left for Amarillo.

Walton, whom friends said had

Man Who 'Kissed and Told' Jailed As Material Witness in Slaying Of Girl by Estranged Husband

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 4. (INS)—Eugene Bussey, the man who "kissed and told," was under arrest on a material witness charge today, the latest sequel to the killing and cremation of Dorothy Peacox by her husband, Earle Peacox. The latter is held for the grand jury on a murder charge.

Bussey was taken into custody at the Hotel Biltmore in New York a few hours after District Attorney Frank A. Coyne had stated his belief that the Johns Hopkins university student's story was of no importance. Bussey had related stories of "petting parties" with Peacox's wife before she was slain and burned by the jealous husband.

Coyne believes he has obtained two important admissions from Peacox that will strengthen the premeditation theory now being built up against the young radio expert.

Peacox admitted that he lured his wife to their Mt. Vernon apartment and struck her over the head one minute after she entered. Coyne said, thus nullifying his previous story that he had struck her in a moment of jealous rage.

Peacox also abandoned his story that he strangled his wife after she had pointed a pistol at him, Coyne said, and admitted that there was a safety catch on the pistol of which he was aware, although his wife was not.

HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE IN EARTHQUAKE IN RUSSIA

MOSCOW, May 4. (UP)—Heavy loss of lives, an enormous property damage was inflicted by a strong earthquake which destroyed several villages on both sides of the Turkoman-Persian border Thursday night, according to reports reaching here today.

A message from the soviet representative in Turkoman said 20 soviets were known dead, but indicated the casualty list was much higher.

BOTH SIDES CLAIM VICTORY IN BATTLE EXPORT DEBENTURE

WASHINGTON, May 4. (US)—Leaders of both sides in the fight over the debenture plan of farm relief skurried around today in search of recruits for the showdown on the issue next week.

Both sides were claiming victory, but apparently there has been no change in the situation since the senate poll which showed 47 to 46 against the debenture scheme, which has been denounced by President Hoover.

Republican leaders are depending upon the refusal of the opponents of the debenture to "pair" with absent Democrats, who favor the proposal. These "dead pairs" would assure them victory.

From present indications the vote will be deferred until Tuesday or Wednesday. Once the debenture is out of the way, the fight has ended and passage of the administration plan will be accomplished quickly.

After a flare-up of the question of including fresh fruits and vegetables as commodities to be dealt with under the bill, Senator Capper Republican of Kansas, made a plea to stand by the president and defeat the debenture plan.

"I believe that under the leadership of President Hoover we can develop a sound plan for farm relief which will establish a milestone of progress for this great industry," he said.

Detroit Times balloon, E. J. Hill, pilot, and Arthur G. Schosser, aide.

"Good Year VII," Ward T. van Orman, pilot, and Alan C. McCracken, aide.

Navy No. 1, Lieut T. G. W. Settle, pilot, and Ensign Wilfred Bushnell, aide.

C. G. Andrus, government airways weather expert from Hadley Field, N. J., reported weather conditions favorable for the race as the first Detroit Balloon club entry lifted from the ground.

Basing his opinion on weather reports received at the stadium directly from 100 observations stations throughout the country, Andrus announced that the bags probably will drift east and north from Pittsburgh.

HUGH GIBSON WILL GIVE U. S VIEWS

question cannot be considered. Ambassador Gibson will make this plain.

But the real discord with Europe, as will be revealed in the Gibson address, will be over the futile efforts to agree on sea armaments.

Ambassador Gibson will declare that this country went into the conference willing to reduce naval armaments, rather than to fix a limit up to which countries might build. The United States also sought to have the powers agree on a new method of establishing the fighting, or offensive, value of a warship instead of tonnage.

In all of these efforts, it will be pointed out, the United States was balked by one nation or another and that an agreement seems impossible. Ambassador Gibson will then say that the position of the United States remains unchanged. That this country will continue to build cruisers to round out the navy, and will always be willing to enter a conference.

Calles Reaches Nogales

NOGALES, Sonora, Mexico, May 4. (UP)—Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, minister of war, arrived here today from Hermosillo, capital of Sonora, where he quartered the federal army he led up the west coast to aid in crushing the recent revolution.

Adolph Marshall Dies

FREDERICKSBURG, Texas, May 4. (AP)—Adolph Marschall, 69, retired Texas cattle baron whose forebears were of the German nobility, died yesterday at his Cherry Springs ranch home and will be buried Saturday.

HEARING QUANAH WOMAN DELAYED

Meanwhile the woman betrays no concern over the plight she finds herself in. With golden blonde hair and trim figure, she presents a strange picture in the old Sonora jail built in the days of Mark Twain.

"If she has any emotion, she hides it within herself," said Sheriff Dambacher, who has lived in these hills all his life.

No Word at Quanah

QUANAH, Texas, May 4.—Relatives here were still seeking information Saturday surrounding the filing of charges at Sonora, Calif., against Mrs. Eva Rablen, who is held there in connection with the death of her husband, Carroll Rablen.

No word has been received by relatives or authorities here since a telegram was received several days ago announcing Rablen's death. The telegram was sent by Mrs. Rablen's sister, Miss Effie Brandon, who accompanied her to California about two years ago, to another sister, Mrs. Ida Preston, here. Mrs. Preston has kept in close touch with officers here in the hope that some story or information on the case would be received by them. Sheriff G. P. Hawkins said Saturday night that he had received no notice or inquiry from the California city.

Mrs. Rablen, who until her marriage in California, was Miss Eva Brandon, left here about two years ago with her sister, Miss Effie Brandon. Prior to her removal to California she had lived in Quanah for many years. In addition to her sisters she has two brothers, Tom Brandon, who is a farmer near Quanah, and J. W., who is a Childress county farmer.

Free Clinic Will Be Held Monday Carrigan School

A pre-school clinic will be held in the Carrigan school at 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon. All children who will enter school next fall are eligible to take this free medical examination.

The following physicians will be in charge of the clinic: Dr. A. D. Pattillo, Dr. Bailey R. Collins, Dr. O. W. Wilson, Dr. M. I. Garrison and Dr. N. H. Coleman.

A committee from the Carrigan P.-T. A. will assist the doctors as clerks in giving these examinations. The committee is composed of the following women: Mrs. M. E. Sansbury, chairman; Mrs. G. J. Galmeich, Mrs. Paul Davis, Mrs. C. B. Clements, Mrs. O. B. Allred, Mrs. F. W. Michael, Mrs. A. Kepley, Mrs. T. L. Fisher, Mrs. J. B. Hubbard, Mrs. R. Monarch and Mrs. Gilland.

Mrs. J. Z. Steinkoenig is general chairman over committees from all schools which are working with the free clinics.

GEN. CALLES ARRIVES AT NOGALES BY PLANE

NOGALES, Sonora, May 4. (AP)—General Plutarco Elias Calles, commander of the Mexican federal army, accompanied by General Abelardo Rodriguez, governor of Baja California, arrived here today by airplane from Hermosillo, capital of Sonora.

The Mexican generalissimo immediately established headquarters in the former rebel stronghold and was busy receiving callers, both Mexican and American.

General Calles declined to be interviewed on Mexican internal affairs, saying his reports must be submitted only to President Portes Gil. He smiled when he was asked if, in his opinion, the revolution was over and with a twinkle in his eye said: "Events speak for themselves."

Crash Proves Fatal

FORT WORTH, May 4. (AP)—Injuries received when an automobile he was driving crashed into a post after colliding with another automobile last night proved fatal to Virgil Vilkening.

H. J. Hutcheson, who was with Wilkening, received a broken leg.

The other automobile in the collision was driven by Dr. H. C. Eargle, Wellington, formerly of Wichita Falls and Burkburnett. With him wer his wife and his mother, Mrs. Louis Eaargle, also of Wellington.

DEATHS

Miss Mary Graham

TYLER, Texas, May 4. (UP)—Miss Mary Graham of Greenville, a sister of Mrs. Daniel Upthegrove, wife of the president of the St. Louis Railway lines, died in a San Antonio hospital Friday evening following an operation, it was learned here Saturday.

Miss Graham is survived by four sisters and one brother. They are Mrs. W. E. Thompson and Mrs. O. P. Herndon, Dallas; Mrs. Shelby Sinclair, Greenville; Mrs. J. A. Douglass, Austin, and J. S. O. Graham of Chicago.

The funeral will be conducted from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Thompson, Dallas, Sunday afternoon.

Preparations Going Forward Rapidly Spring Ceremonial of Maskat Temple To Be Held in Wichita Falls May 14

WALTER H. CALDWELL

ED PETERSON

Plans are going forward rapidly for the spring ceremonial of Maskat temple to be held here May 14, according to an announcement made Saturday by Walter H. Caldwell, potentate, and Ed Peterson, chief rabban of the temple.

Preparations are being made to entertain hundreds of Shriners from all parts of Northwest Texas. A class of 50 novices is expected for the ceremonial.

The nobles and their ladies will attend the baseball game between Wichita Falls and Waco at 2:30 p. m. and then will stage a downtown parade. The two sections of the ceremonial will be held at the Memorial auditorium. The day's festivities will end with a dance in the Maskat temple auditorium on the top floor of the City National bank building.

NEW ORLEANS.—Pictures of society girls and statements attributed to them will continue to feature advertisements of cigarets without interference by the Junior league. In annual convention it voted not to dictate in the matter.

NEW YORK.—A Belgian war refugee is on her way to realize her ambitions and be a sculptor. Miss Merga Margolies, who had to leave home in 1914, came to New York and supported herself and the family by working as a typist. She also went to college and studied sculpture in spare time. Now she has won a scholarship for a year's study abroad with all expenses paid.

LONDON.—Sixty-four women are running for parliament. The largest political classification is labor—28. There are three Communists.

NEW YORK.—Uncle Sam's boys have been shooting at Guantanamo with shells that show their colors as they hit. As described by men on the returned fleet a chemical in an exploding shell colors the water. Each ship uses a different color. Ships firing simultaneously at the same target can check their range easily.

HAVANA.—The road to a certain place is paved with good intentions and a saloon here owned by an Englishman is paved with United States silver dollars. World war veterans want the American embassy to ask the Cuban government to compel the saloonkeeper to change the tiling.

Around Town

Miss Arnie Smith, president of the Business and Professional Women's club, was summoned Saturday to Glenwood Springs, Colo., on account of the death of her father.

Sheriff Swade Hardy of Lubbock county, and Chief of Police J. W. Lemond of Lubbock, were visitors at the office of Police Chief Frank Burns Saturday. The two officers had been to Fort Sill where they took into custody a man wanted in Lubbock for car theft. The prisoner was left in the Wichita Falls city jail while the officers visited friends here.

A. E. Kelly, manager of the Texas Electric Service company, was a proud grandfather Saturday, following the receipt of a telegram announcing the birth of a son to his daughter, Mrs. Betty Huffman, and her husband, Charles Huffman, in Tulsa Friday night. The boy was named Donald Kelly Huffman.

YOUTH FOUND DEAD IN ORCHARD TO BE BURIED AT HESTER

ALTUS, Okla., May 4.—Funeral services will be held at Hester, Sunday afternoon for Clark Smith, 20, who was found dead early Saturday in an orchard at the home of Jack P. Potter, one mile northwest of Hester.

Smith is believed to have taken poison late Friday night which caused his death. A note was left to his parents and another one to the Potter family explaining that unhappiness caused him to end his life. No reason for his unhappiness was given. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith of Hester, and has been staying with the Potter family working on the farm about two years. He is survived by his parents, four sisters and one brother.

FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY SAM HOUSTON COLLEGE CLOSED WITH BANQUET

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, May 4. (AP)—The 50th anniversary celebration of the Sam Houston State Teachers' college closed here today with an ex-students' banquet.

R. L. Bobbitt, Laredo, representing Governor Moody, and Mrs. P. V. Pennybacker, member of the first graduating class of the college, spoke at dedication services at the new library today. Both speakers lauded Dr. H. F. Estill, president of the school, a member of the first graduating class and connected with the school ever since. He was a professor until 1908 when he became president.

Jeff Hamilton, former negro slave of Sam Houston's, came from Belton for the ceremony. "It was 40 years ago when I left Huntsville," he said. "I know I haven't long to stay in this world and I wanted to come back to see the place of my old master once more."

MEXICAN REBELS ARE APPREHENDED

Thinking, officials believe, they had outwitted the secret service, Ateca and Maques, with Matthews and Fryer, took quarters in a prominent hotel awaiting a chance to leave the country.

This afternoon Assistant United States Attorney George Mintzer, several detectives, and a group of secret service men closed in on the hotel and when they knew their men were there walked into their room with a pass key.

There are two charges against Ateca at El Paso. He is charged with violating the presidential neutrality proclamation by smuggling an airplane to the Mexican rebel forces across the border, and there is a civil action filed in the Texas city by the republic of Mexico and the state of Chihuahua seeking to regain funds allegedly appropriated from the Juarez city treasury.

Held Without Bail

Pending hearing on extradition to face these charges the gambler-rebel and his secretary were held without bail by a United States commissioner. The two others were permitted bail of $2,500 each on the conspiracy charge, but this time no hand was allowed to reach into the bulging black bag to pay bail.

Besides the bag with its golden cargo a mass of documents were seized, including a notebook bearing references to J. Gonzalo Escobar, former Mexican rebel generalissimo. United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle told the commissioner before whom the four prisoners were arraigned that Ateca was charged with violating the neutrality proclamation "in that he sought to import into Mexico munitions of war without the consent of the secretary of state of the United States."

Tuttle said he also had been informed by the Mexican consul general who joined in this additional charge, that Ateca and Maques had looted banks and the public treasury of the state of Chihuahua. It was not said whether the pair had taken this money with the sole intention of fleeing to Spain with it, or whether they had taken it, with or without rebel assistance, for the purpose of buying munitions for the rebels in the United States and, when they found themselves hampered in this design, deciding to use the money themselves.

Details of the sale are said to have been put in the hands of the commandant of the Philadelphia navy yard, where the Mayflower is now tied up.

LAWTON PIONEER FOUND DEAD FROM GUNSHOT WOUNDS

LAWTON, Okla., May 4.—The dead body of Deunna D. Lindsley age 67 years, was found in the bathroom of his home by his wife at 1:30 Saturday afternoon. A charge of shot had torn its way through his heart and a .12 gauge shotgun lay at his feet. No inquest was held.

Mrs. Lindsley had only been absent from the home about one hour and had been shopping.

Mr. Lindsley came with his family to Lawton at the opening and was one of this county's best known and most highly respected citizens. He has been one of the city's most active real estate men for 20 years. He is said to have worried over the condition of his health, having been seriously ill for several months. Besides his wife, he is survived by one son, in Pittsburgh, Penn. Funeral arrangements await word from his son.

Married at Austin

AUSTIN, May 4. (AP)—Thomas Walton Jr., shot to death in the office of R. H. Hamilton at Amarillo today, was married to Miss Theresa Hamilton in Austin on Feb. 12, according to records in the court clerk's office at Georgetown, where the license was taken out. Justice of the Peace Bryan Blalock said tonight he had performed the marriage ceremony.

Both Walton and the Hamilton girl were attending the University of Texas.

Mrs. Hamilton had been here with her daughter since January, it became known today. The young woman was a patient in a local hospital for a period recently, friends said.

An effort to locate Mrs. Hamilton and her daughter failed. Their apartment was closed and it was said they probably left town today.

POLICE COUNT 34 KNIFE WOUNDS IN DEAD MAN'S BODY

FORT WORTH, May 4. (AP)—Belief that Lang Looper, 39, was reaching for a gun was given today by S. R. McCluskey, 37, as the reason for the fatal stabbing of Looper in a hotel here last night.

McCluskey, who resides at the hotel, was in jail today facing a charge of murder. Looper's body was taken to Cleburne this morning.

McCluskey said he had known Looper for about three years. He said he formerly owned a half interest in a hotel at 1401½ Houston street, and that about six months ago Looper came to the hotel, telling McCluskey he had purchased it. McCluskey then moved to the address where the slaying occurred.

He said that last night he was in his room when Looper came in. An argument followed, he related, during which Looper made a pass as if reaching for his gun. McCluskey said he grabbed Looper's right arm with his own left hand and with his right reached for his knife. Police said Looper was stabbed 34 times.

Dress Seizure In Border City Still Mystifies

The mystery of the Electra burglary and the 105 recovered dresses still remained Saturday to be solved.

Sheriff W. G. Bralley and Miss Loma Walker, proprietor of an Electra shop which was robbed recently returned Saturday from Cleburne where some of the recovered property was inspected without a definite identification of the garments being established. They plan to return to Cleburne Tuesday, when they expect that the entire allotment of 105 dresses recovered recently in Eagle Pass, Texas, will be there. Belief was expressed by Mr. Bralley that probably a considerable portion of Miss Walker's property will be among the garments and Miss Walker was quoted as declaring that she can positively identify her dresses.

Meanwhile the situation growing out of the seizure of the clothing at Eagle Pass several days ago was characterized by the sheriff here as being one which has provided most unusual developments. First it was thought that the garments belonged to Miss Walker. That was before any actual inspection had been made by persons here, the only descriptions being supplied from Eagle Pass by telephone. Then it was decided that the garments came from a store at Burleson, near Cleburne, due, Mr. Bralley said, to a statement attributed to one of the men arrested when the seizure was made. Still later, with more adequate descriptions available, officers became convicted that part of the property, at least, belonged to Miss Walker, and her trip to Cleburne followed.

The dresses were taken to Cleburne by the sheriff there after he had gone to Eagle Pass to inspect it. On his return with some of the dresses, Mr. Bralley said, the owners of the Burleson store said that they were not the garments stolen from them. Others of the garments were left in Eagle Pass because the Cleburne officer had no descriptions to fit them. The Cleburne sheriff expressed the belief, however, that some of the dresses he had brought back with him belonged in Electra.

Mr. Bralley was of the opinion when he returned here Saturday that the garments, included loot probably from several stores. One of the suspects, he said, made a statement that the entire lot had been purchased in Fort Worth for $280.

Arrangements were made while he was in Cleburne, he said, for sending the entire seizure there for the inspection of Miss Walker and the Burleson store owners.

GRANDFIELD STUDENTS HOLD FIRST COMPLETE REHEARSAL FOR FETE

GRANDFIELD, Okla., May 4.—The first complete rehearsal for the Grandfield High school May fete, to be held May 8 on Bolton field, was held Thursday afternoon. Hundreds of high and grade pupils took part in the dances, folk games, etc., rehearsal Thursday.

Princesses from nearby schools, who were elected to represent their respective school, were not present at Thursday's rehearsal.

The dances and other entertainments are to be presented at "The Court of Flowers," the name selected for the court at which Miss Ruth Tant, May queen, and Walter Dykes, king, will preside. Hundreds of people are expected to attend the event next Wednesday.

JURY FAILS TO VOTE VERDICT IN ACCIDENT

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., May 4. (UP)—Circuit Judge J. S. Maples late last night dismissed the jury in the case of Miss Viola V. Mayes of Rogers, Ark., charged with involuntary manslaughter as the result of an automobile accident in which Maynadr Jaynes of Tulsa was fatally injured.

After deliberating 18 hours, the jury reported itself unable to agree. It was understood the members stood eight for conviction and four for acquittal.

DALLAS BAR CONDUCTS MEMORIAL TO BAILEY

DALLAS, May 4. (UP)—Tribute to the late Senator Joseph Weldon Bailey, who died in the midst of a law suit at Sherman last month, was paid here today by more than 200 members of the Dallas Bar association and lifelong friends of the noted Texas statesman.

Memorial services were held in a district court room. Mayor J. Waddy Tate and the four newly elected commissioners were present. Tribute was paid the dead statesman by leaders of the bar and prominent figures in state politics.

A formal resolution, prepared by a committee of the bar association was read by Judge Nelson Phillips, ex-chief justice of the Texas supreme court.

THIRD TRIAL REBECCA ROGERS SCHEDULED LA GRANGE MONDAY MAY AGAIN BE CHANGE OF VENUE

LA GRANGE, Texas, May 4. (UP)—That Becky Bradley Rogers, convicted as a girl bank robber, never will go to prison is the confident declaration of Otis Rogers, her lawyer husband, after more than a year's successful battle in her behalf.

If she is ordered re-tried here Monday it will be the third jury she has faced. A first jury found she set fire to an untenanted house at Round Rock, Texas, as part of a plan to rob a bank there while the townspeople fought the fire. The jurors disagreed on whether she was mentally responsible and a mistrial resulted.

The Texas court of criminal appeals found the prosecutor's plea to the jury inflammable and ordered a retrial. It is the trial schedule for Monday.

Many believe the case will have to be transferred because of inability to get an unprejudiced jury in a county where the trial attracted so much interest before.

Case Freely Discussed

In case of removal, the location of a new trial is doubtful. The case was transferred from Hays county, where the bank was situated, because of local feeling. In Williamson county, the arson trial is still fresh in memory and in Travis county, the case is even more discussed—for Becky was a trusted employe of Gov. Dan Moody, then attorney general, when the Buda bank was robbed.

Travis county also witnessed a virtual trial of the case when habeas corpus proceedings were held to force Becky's release on bond by Hays county officers. The state university is in Travis county and Mrs. Rogers was a student there and instructor's assistant. Her husband was head of the student council.

Rogers, a few months before, had completed his law course and was starting practice at Amarillo. None at the university knew that he and Becky Bradley had been married. They were keeping it secret until he got a start. When news of the bank robbery reached Amarillo it had no special interest for him. Then followed the flash that Becky Bradley, assistant in the attorney general's office, was held for the daring holdup.

Leaves Sick Bed

Rogers left a sick bed, hurried to Austin, announced the marriage and took up the defense of his bride.

Pneumonia resulted from his trip to her aid. For months he lay at the point of death. It was her turn then to aid. She nursed him back to health until he was able to go to Carlsbad and enter a sanitarium. To be near him she worked as a telephone operator at San Angelo until her trial.

If the new trial is held, many believe she will fling aside the former defense of dementia praecox. Her husband has always contended for her innocence and was reluctant to make the mentality plea.

According to the theory offered by the state at the former trial, Becky was the slight girl who entered the Buda bank one rainy Saturday, represented herself as a reporter gathering crop planting data.* "The reporter" was given permission to "come inside" to use a typewriter, and then with a revolver, she backed the cashier and assistant into the bank vault, locked them in, grabbed up $1,000 in currency and fled.

Becky Bradley's car on a wash rack at Austin attracted the attention of officers searching for the coupe in which the bank robbers had driven away. The money was located in the Austin post office. It had been placed in a box and mailed to a sub-station.

SINCLAIR TO GIVE UP TO AUTHORITIES FOR TERM MONDAY

NEW YORK, May 4. (UP)—Harry F. Sinclair is expected to travel without ostentation and to leave his private car behind when he goes from New York to Washington Monday to start serving the three months' jail term imposed for contempt of the senate.

The multi-millionaire oil man has been with his wife and mother here the last few days. Although he has not divulged his plans, it was understood he would slip quietly aboard a train and travel in a drawing room.

On May 15, while Sinclair is serving his sentence, the annual meeting of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation, of which he is executive head, will be held here. Sinclair is understood to have gathered enough proxies to guarantee domination of the meeting, thus avoiding any difficulties in opposition to his leadership develops.

PEGGY HOPKINS JOYCE PLANS TO BE RESIDENT OF FRANCE IN FUTURE

NEW YORK, May 4. (INS)—Vivacious and beautiful Peggy Hopkins Joyce came through what she declared will be her last encounter with the customs officials with flying colors when she returned from France on the Cunarder Aquitania, last night.

The next time she returns from Europe, Peggy confided, she will be listed as a "foreign resident." Her explanation:

"I have just purchased one of the cutest villas you ever saw on the riviera. It's so cosy. I've named it 'Doll's House.' I have had so much trouble every time I have returned from Europe explaining this purchase and that, that I have decided to give up my American residence and become an American resident of France. Give up my citizenship? No, sir! But I will give up my American residence.

"My only trips to America hereafter, will be to visit my mother down in Virginia."

Peggy announced she came back from Europe, heart free and without any annoying "engagements" hanging over her.

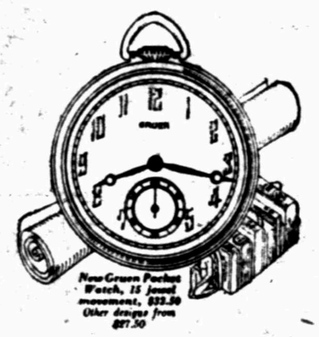

FEDERAL ATTORNEY WILL QUESTION MISS MURRAY

FORT WORTH, May 4. (AP)—Elizabeth Murray, removed from San Francisco to Amarillo where she will stand trial on mail fraud charges, will be questioned probably Monday by Alex Mood, Fort Worth, assistant federal district attorney.

Mood will leave tomorrow with Federal Judge J. C. Wilson for Amarillo. Court will open there Monday. A grand jury will convene on that day.

Elizabeth Murray is under indictment in Amarillo on allegations that she devised a scheme to defraud Mrs. Lela Mae Barnum, prominent Amarillo woman of $1,000. Elisabeth Murary is known as a writer and poet.

MANY STUDENTS IN CITY SCHOOLS NEED BETTER BREAKFASTS

Several months of work in city schools by Miss Mary E. Sutherland, nutritionist with the Wichita County Red Cross chapter, have revealed that many students do not eat the proper breakfasts and some do not even eat anything before going to their class rooms in the morning, she said Saturday.

When school started last year there were about 40 per cent of the children eating insufficient breakfasts but this condition has improved somewhat, Miss Sutherland said. While visiting two sixth grade classes last week Miss Sutherland found that many of the students were eating a breakfast that contained between 700 and 900 calories, which is very good.

"Many of the students are eating entirely too much candy and this is very bad, for it will lead to serious ailments," Miss Sutherland said.

Miss Sutherland suggested that parents of the students might help materially in bettering the condition of the children by having them go to bed early and then arise early in order that they may take some sort of exercise and then eat the proper breakfast before going to school.

A. M. DUVALL HEADS NEWLY ORGANIZED WELLINGTON CLUB

WELLINGTON, Texas, May 4.—Wellington now has an active Kiwanis club. Walter C. Humpton of Boston was in Wellington during the greater part of last week and this week looking after the details incident to the organization of the local club, and when he left Wellington Wednesday night all plans for the organization of the Wellington Kiwanis club had been perfected.

The charter will be granted June 12, at which time District Governor L. A. McDonald of Denton will be in Wellington to supervise the proceedings. The Wellington club is sponsored by Hollis Kiwanians who will be in charge of the program the night of the charter presentation. There are three charter members, whose names will be announced when the charter is granted.

The first meeting of the organization was held Tuesday night at the Wellington hotel when a banquet was served, and officers for the ensuing year elected. They are as follows: A. M. Duvall, prsident; E. C. Cayton, vice president; Frank L. Emanuel, secretary; Earl M. Hunter, treasurer; and C. C. Small, district trustee. Directors are H. A. Phillips, R. L. Gillentine, Joe B. Baumgardner, Chas. D. Slay, E. W. Jones and Cecil J. Callahan.

The officers of the Wellington club will be guests of the Hollis Kiwanians next Monday at a luncheon there.

WICHITA FALLS RHODE ISLAND RED LAYS EGGS OF RECORD PROPORTIONS

A hen's egg believed to be of record size was exhibited in The Times office Saturday by H. C. Donohoo of 2011 Pearl.

The egg is 7¼ inches in diameter longitudinally, and 5¼ inches in girth, being almost twice the size of the average egg. It was laid by one of Mr. Donohoo's Rhode Island Red hens.

MORGAN'S PLANS REVEAL TREND OF DEBT PARLEY

BERLIN, May 4. (UP)—A report that J. P. Morgan had decided to leave Paris May 8 persisted on the Berlin bourse today, and was taken to mean that the reparations experts will have finished their work by next Wednesday.

Morgan, the report said, planned to come to Berlin and negotiate a loan to the Reich bank similar to the revolving credit granted to the Bank of England.

25 Passengers Landed

CLEVELAND, May 4. (AP)—The 25 passengers of the steamer City of Buffalo, who spent 20 hours on it after the boat was crippled in one of the most violent storms in the history of Lake Erie, were landed here safely today from the steamer City of Erie which rescued them earlier today from the disabled vessel. The City of Buffalo with a crew of 80 men aboard, its engines disabled and rudder gone, was towed into port at Astabula harbor.

Moody Grants Parole

AUSTIN, May 4. (INS)—General parole was granted by Governor Moody today to Corbett Swinney, convicted in Hunt county of forgery and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. Clemency was recommended by substantial citizens of Hunt county, part of the trial jurors and the board of pardons. It was stated that the prisoner has a wife and two children in destitute circumstances.

Wichitans Invited to Visit Art Exhibit at Woman's Forum

By W. L. UNDERWOOD

Members of the art department of the Woman's Forum are extending urgent invitations to the citizens of the community to visit the Appreciation Week art exhibit at the forum building Sunday afternoon from 2 to 6 o'clock.

There are numerous men and women in Wichita Falls who have striven quietly and inconspicuously to foster a growth of cultural interests here while the city's population doubled and trebled on the crest of rapidly developing prosperity; who have planted, nurtured, and patiently watched the slow ripening of those refining influences by which the human senses become attuned to the manifold beauties along the path of daily existence.

To those in whom this particular phase of Wichita Falls' "faith" abides, there comes now the same exultant satisfaction which the parents of a child experience when the first definite evidences of a hoped-for talent are displayed. The exhibit of artistic creations of local persons, and the uniformly increasing interest in the higher planes of musical expression, are the immediate occasion of just pride.

Wichita Falls, a young city in a young nation is witnessing now the first fruits of recently sown seed, in the collection of oils, sketches, sculptured figures and handicraft comprising an extensive array at the forum.

One of the sections of the exhibit which has proven surprising and satisfying to scores of visitors is that of the Junior college and high school art students, representing work done under the tutelage of the Misses Ima D. Pendergrass, Jennie Roberson, and Lois McGaughy. There are plaques and panels and conventional designs of perspective, foreshortening and which reflect not only a command of perspective, foreshortening and symmetry, but a skillful use of colors. Among the specimens shown are numerous items which in a home lend an intimate charm, diffusing the beauties of color and rhythm with the often material atmosphere of chairs and tables. Scarfs tastefully figured by means of block-printing, and in rich batik finish; attractive, brilliantly colored studies in "reliefo" work are among the pieces so acceptable in home decoration.

Oils Surprisingly Good

The display of oil paintings, complimenting the local "esprit d'art" both in the quality and number of pictures exhibited, will prove surprising to many who had been unaware of the city's wealth of creative talent. There are a number of studies in still life by Miss Ethel Chamberlin, flowers usually a furnishing the subject, in which subdued tones of truthful color produce a peculiarly tender, restful beauty. Detail merges softly into a background suggestive of the mystic effect of twilight.

A group of landscapes and flower studies by Mrs. Polly Hoffman constitutes an interesting section. Two Texas scenes have occasioned particularly favorable comment. In one a number of sturdy yucca plants, adorned with their strange lilies, stand boldly in the foreground, guarding the arid stretch of plain which fades away behind them into the distant purple of the horizon. The other has the mesquite trees of the Wichita valley, caught in the period of their springtime glory, profusely draped in festoons of delicate green lace. The mesquites, humbly supporting their one rare beauty, are framed in a brilliant foreground of flowering yellow coreopsis and the unfailing recedence of Texas prairie.

Clare Holt's group of impressionistic landscapes, unique in the combination of blues and white, marked by a predominant rhythm, and with snow that is cold, represents a distinct school of strong modernistic leanings.

For the lovely coloring offered by the Southwest to those "who, having eyes, see," none of the local works excels the two landscapes of C. R. Haworth. One was taken from the Country Club estates here, faithfully reproducing the lake at the southern extremity of the esplanade, and the gently rising terrain beyond, rich in every possible hue of gorgeous greens as they are at the present time. The other presents a view in the Wichita mountains, with equally effective treatment.

And then there are the works of Emil Hermann. "Sunset," only recently completed, in which every Texan will recognize the western skies, singing with the flower-bedecked plains in a moving harmony of majestic grandeur. "Morning Haze," the suggestion of chill just before sunrise; the dew on the grass; the low murmur of the little brook; the first notes of the birds in the waking woods,—they are all vividly present in the picture. "After the Rain," in which the lightened clouds still drip, the trees shake out their clean leaves, and the shadowed water of the lake splashes in its wetness. And "Sunrise," another exquisite expression of the sleepy half-light which first discovers the straight trees against the rippling water.

Variety of Themes

A variety of themes features a group of seven or eight studies by Voyle N. Armstrong. Two colorful scenes on the Ohio river, depicting the lumbering river steamers, and a veiw of mountain winter in the same country. "Autumn" presents a natural bower in which the endless variety of color-shades accomplished in the drying leaves is delightfully reproduced. Mr. Armstrong's "Mystery," in somber browns, barely illumined by a lone candle, proved fascinating to many visitors.

The work of Miss Lois McGauhy, art instructor in Zundelowitz Junior high school, particularly in Japanese studies; Mrs. Mary Lou Sanford's portraits; promising still-life numbers by Miss Dorothy Campbell; and an impressive, richly colored landscape in which the depth and distance are remarkably portrayed, complete a commendable display of painting.

Conspicuous in the handicraft exhibit is the wood carving of Mrs. Frieda Van Emden, who mastered the art in Holland. Several pieces, reflecting the accuracy and patience in detail which comprise technique in this field, are on display. Wichita Falls' sculptor, William Ort, has three busts at the forum, including his recent likeness of Herbert Hoover. The handicraft section also includes a number of exquisite productions by Miss Alice Welty. The sketch of a "Bride's Door," with its lacy design, is a melody in grace.

"Texas Bluebonnets," received recently as a gift from the author, Adrian Brewer, has been added to the increasing collection of art belonging to the Woman's Forum.

At a meeting of the art department of the Forum held Thursday afternoon, it was decided to make the exhibit of local artists' work an annual affair, and to ask that new material be displayed. Many of the pictures shown this year have been included in former exhibits, and the action taken Thursday was designed to stimulate local talent to new endeavors.

Those in charge emphasized the fact that the Forum building will be open Sunday afternoon to the general public, and expressed the hope that many will familiarize themselves with the progress being made in this field of cultural development.

ROSENDAHL REMOVED AS LOS ANGELES PILOT

WASHINGTON, May 4. (INS)—The navy's big dirigible, Los Angeles, is to have a new commander.

Orders were issued by the navy department today, relieving Lieut. Com. Charles Rosendahl of command of the ship, and naming Lieut. Com. Herbert V. Wiley, who has been executive officer of the craft, to succeed him.

Rosendahl will come to Washington to head a new bureau of lighter-than-air development in the department.

Revival Meet Begins

MEMPHIS, Texas, May 4.—A three weeks revival was opened at the local Nazarene church on North Tenth street, Friday night. The Rev. Lon R. Woodrum of Lubbock is the evangelist selected to hold the revival. He is known in Memphis, having spoken here about two years ago at the tabernacle of the First Baptist church. Jack Carter, another well known evangelistic worker who is known widely in this city, will be in charge of the music, and will be assisted by Mrs. Carter.

RECALLING HERE OF GRAND JURY MAY BE DELAYED

Uncertainty existed Saturday as to when the April grand jury would be reconvened in special session to resume investigations into recent burglaries here, although Sam B. Spence, district attorney, announced that it probably would be next Friday and, at the latest, the following Tuesday or Wednesday.

Judge W. W. Cook of the 78th district court, by whom the order reconvening the jury must be issued, announced that he intends to abide by the district attorney's recommendations in the matter.

Nine indictments were returned by the grand jury several days ago in connection with recent burglaries here. Five charged T. O. Cagle with burglary in the night time, one made a similar charge against C. A. Wright, and another of like nature named Cagle and Wright jointly. Two others charged Mrs. Mae Hart with receiving and concealing stolen property. Mrs. Hart has been released under bond and Cagle and Wright are held in jail here.

Mr. Spence said he had first planned to ask that the grand jury be reconvened next Wednesday. Delays since have occurred, he asserted. At least three days' notice will be given the grand jurors before they are reconvened, according to Judge Cook.

MASTER'S DEGREE WILL BE CONFERRED BY LODGE NO. 635 WEDNESDAY EVE

Members of the Wichita Falls lodge No. 635, A. F. and A. M., will confer the master's degree on one candidate next Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, George W. Lawler, lodge secretary, announced Saturday.

The degree will be conferred by the past masters of the lodge.

The lodge held a stated communication last Friday night when Frank Collier, past master, presented a past master's jewel to A. D. Magner, who served as master of the lodge in 1888-89.

WEATHER UNFAVORABLE TO FLOYD CO. CROPS

LOCKNEY, Texas, May 4.—Weather conditions in Floyd county have been unfavorable for small grains the past 10 days and equally unfavorable for the planting of row crops. Dry winds have been blowing and the ground has been too cold to germinate either cotton or grain sorghum seed. The lack of moisture is also beginning to be felt. Late freezes have not damaged the growing crops and fruits, however, gardners say that some of their young plants have been bitten by the frosts.

KANSAS CITY-CALIFORNIA TRAVEL TIME SHORTENED

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 4. (UP)—Travel time between Kansas City and California will be shortened 14 hours on the Rock Island railroad, officials of the road announced here today in revealing an air-mail hook up with the Maddux Air lines between El Paso and Los Angeles.

In addition the road plans an air mail service which will enable passengers to go from Chicago to California in one day and night, transferring to planes here for a 14-hour flight to Los Angeles.

Grave in Potter's Field to Hold Body of Woman Who Concealed Sex and Masqueraded as Man

OAKLAND, Cal., May 4. (AP)—A grave in potter's field yawned today for "Peter Stratford," a woman who for years masqueraded as a man, married another woman and worked at jobs varying all the way from heavy manual labor to writing critical essays with a sufistic tint. No one claimed the body.

"Peter Stratford" revealed his secret to a physician before death Thursday. Dozens of letters found among her effects at Niles, California, showed glimpses of a personality deeply immersed in the lore of sufism, a Mohammedan cult.

"Peter Stratford" it was believed, was born in New Zealand, the daughter of a member of the British Royal Guards. Several years ago she appeared in New York as Deresley Morton, writer and literary critic, and then "Peter Stratford" appeared, wooing Mrs. Elizabeth Rowland as "Stratford" lay in a Kansas City hospital. "He" and Mrs. Rowland were married in 1925.

Wooed By Letters

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 4. (AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Rowland, actress and screen writer and "wife" of "Peter Stratford," today revealed how the written word of the masquerader had drawn her into "his" life.

"I was working at Unity school in Kansas City, in the healing department," Mrs. Rowland, explained, "when I found a letter asking prayer for a man by the name of Peter Stratford who lived at Hillsdale, N. J. The letter interested me to the extent of causing me to break the rules of the institution, and I replied personally."

Mrs. Rowland said she previously had been married and once wrote "Stratford' she would "never again enter into a physical marriage. The very thought of marrying again was utterly abhorrent to me, but because of 'his' pitiful condition and the idea of love that had been built up in a long correspondence I felt I had to go through with it."

Learns 'He' Is Woman

Mrs. Rowland said that at Niles, California, for two years she prepared "his" meals and nursed "him" while he was alternately working or ill in bed. Despite their constant close association, she declared, it was not until five months ago that she learned "he" was a woman.

"I came to Hollywood intending to get an annulment from this strange contract," she said, "but the reaction of my suffering with him made me ill, and I was unable to seek employment.

"I wrote 'Peter Stratford' twice after my arrival in this city, when I discovered he was corresponding with a woman friend. Finally disgust caused me to break off all communication."

CHILLICOTHE PASTORS ASK FILLING STATIONS TO CLOSE ON SUNDAYS

CHILLICOTHE, Texas, May 4.—The pastors of the local churches at a recent meeting voted that a petition be presented to the owners of filling stations and garages of the city to close their doors between the hours of 10 a. m. and 1 p. m. on Sunday. This plan was decided upon because of a marked decrease in the attendance at church and Sunday school in the past few months. The pastors believe there should be at least 1,000 in Sunday school each Sunday morning.

Rev. R. B. Stanton was elected to fill the unexpired term of president. Rev. R. H. Young, pastor of the First Methodist church, and Reverend O'Dowd, minister of the Church of Christ, were accepted as new members.

OKLAHOMA GINNERS ASSOCIATION ELECTS

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 4. (UP)—The twelfth annual convention of the Oklahoma Cotton Ginners' association closed here today with a business session.

The following officers were elected: J. C. Brown, Shawnee, president; W. F. Rayburn, Marlow, secretary, and Harry V. Kahle, Oklahoma City, treasurer. Judge Robert M. Rainey was selected general counsel.

VERNON INTERESTS OFFER SUPPORT TO FRISCO EXTENSION

VERNON, Texas, May 4.—Representatives of Vernon business interests Friday passed a motion pledging the support of the chamber of commerce to the Frisco Railway company in extending the line from Vernon to Seymour. F. G. Jonah, chief engineer of the Frisco system, was assured that a right of way will be secured by this city on a portion of the proposed extension Mr. Jonah asked the city of Vernon to furnish a right of way from the end of the trackage of the Frisco to the Waggoner ranch, a distance of about eight miles. A committee, headed by U. S. Davis, was named by B. A. Williams, president of the Vernon Chamber of Commerce, to cooperate with the railroad company in securing the right of way. Other members of the committee are A. M. Bourland, J. M. Napier, Cy Long and George Wilson Jr.

AUTOMOBILE CLUB BEING ORGANIZED AT GRAHAM

GRAHAM, Texas, May 4.—Officials of the Wichita Valley Automobile club and American Automobile association have been in Graham the past week organizing an automobile club. A board of directors chosen from the prominent citizens of Graham has been selected and a touring and information bureau is expected to be opened the last of the week, maintaining a 24-hour service to its members.

BERLIN QUIET AFTER RIOTING DEATH TOLL 21

More Than Two Hundred Are Injured Result of Disturbances

SECTIONS OF BERLIN RESEMBLE BATTLEFIELD

Armored Police Cars With Machine Guns Patrol The Streets

BERLIN, May 4. (UP)—With at least 21 dead and more than 200 injured in the rioting which began on May day, Berlin had quieted down tonight and it was believed that further bloodshed might be averted.

For three days, certain sections of Berlin resembled a battlefield. Police with rifles, bombs and machine guns, ranged through the streets, firing into windows that were open in violation of police orders, and raking housetops with bullets to dislodge the snipers that were firing that every uniform visible.

Armored police cars, with machine guns, patrolled the streets, and airplanes flew overhead to spy out the positions of the snipers.

The latest official list issued tonight gave the total killed in action or died from wounds as 21, but there may have been other deaths unrecorded by the police. The dead included five women, of whom three were killed when they appeared on balconies of their homes in the Neukoelln district yesterday in violation of a police order for everyone to keep under cover. Despite reports that three policemen were killed, none were recorded officially.

A thorough investigation was being made to discover leaders of the disturbance, which authorities believed was planned and directed by a central organization. It was rumored that sensational arrests might be expected.

The house to house search of the Neukoelln and north end disturbance, chief center of disturbances, was investigated this afternoon. In Neukoelln the search netted 18 bayonets, 20 pistols and automatics, with dumdum ammunition. In the north end, police seized seven bayonets, four pistols and 25 rounds of ammunition.

No shots have been fired in the north end district since Friday morning. Nevertheless, the ban on vehicular and pedestrian traffic between 9 p. m. and 4 a. m. will continue in force until Monday.

Now that the situation is calmer the press, especially the more liberal newspapers, have begun to urge a more lenient attitude on the police.

Eye-witnesses claimed that the casualties of the second and third days of rioting were mainly bystanders.

New York Hears Lindy's to Marry Anne in France

NEW YORK, May 4. (UP)—New York was interested today in a rumor that Miss Anne Morrow and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh would be married in Parish next month.

The report added another possibility to the unannounced wedding plans of the couple, earlier speculation having named North Haven, Maine, and Englewood, N. J., as probable marriage scenes.

Lindbergh motored to the Morrow estate in Englewood again last night and took his financee for a short automobile ride. The estate was still being protected by police.

Lindbergh's Curtiss Falcon biplane has been fueled for a take-off from Mitchell Field, L. I., but the flier's plans were not known.

IOWA PARK CHURCH TO SEND DELEGATION TO ARCHER CITY MEETING

IOWA PARK, May 4.—The following delegates to the Wichita Falls Methodist district conference which convenes at Archer City May 7-8, have been chosen by the Iowa Park church: Rev. O. P. Kiker, pastor; Rev. C. C. Davis, Rev. Orville P. Kiker Jr., T. J. Pace, Mrs. M. L. Hines, John C. Murphree, Mrs. J. E. Keller, Mrs. A. D. Bishop, W. B. Minnick, Mrs. O. P. Kiker, Chas. W. Coppock, Mrs. Chas. W. Coppock, and Curtis Sewell. The following are alternates: Mrs. John Maeir, Mrs. S. L. Denny, Mrs. C. C. Burrows, J. P. Sunday, A. H. Smith, O. M. Jones, Mrs. A. D. Butcher, and Mrs. J. N. George.

CONFIRM NOMINATION COL. STEPHEN FUQUA

WASHINGTON, May 4. (US)—After a two-hour battle in secret session, the senate today confirmed the nomination of Col. Stephen O. Fuqua to be chief of infantry, with the grade of major general.

The fight against the confirmation was lead by Senators Black, Democrat, of Alabama, and Robinson, Republican, of Indiana.

The principal objection was based on the fact that Fuqua was being jumped some 165 grades in the promotion list. The law permits the appointment to chief of any branch of the war department of any officer on the list of colonels, regardless of grade.

Maj. Gen. Robert A. Allen, retiring chief of infantry, was raised more than 100 files when he was appointed.

Cravens Must Face Trial

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 4. (INS)—Walter Cravens, former president of the Kansas City joint stock land bank must go to Boston to answer indictments against him in connection with the sale of stock in companies he organized, the United States commissioner ruled here today. Attorneys for Cravens declared they would file habeas corpus proceedings Monday.

First Book on Law of Insanity in 30 Years Written by Wichitan

Of perhaps 12 major volumes on law accepted for publication during the last year, one is by a Wichita Falls attorney and three are by Texans.

This was disclosed by friends of George A. Smoot, senior member of the law firm of Smoot and Smoot here, with the receipt of word that his work on the "Law of Insanity" will be ready for distribution within a few days after having been in the hands of the printers, the West Publishing company of St. Paul, Minn. ,and the Vernon Law Book company of Kansas City, Mo., for more than a year.

Of the other two volumes of which Texans are authors, one is by William H. Atwell of Dallas, judge of the federal court for the northern district of Texas, who spends an average of more than two months each year in Wichita Falls while holding court. Judge Atwell's work concerns federal criminal law, with procedure and forms. It is the fourth edition of the work and brings up to date the changes in law since his third edition was published in 1922.

The other major volume written by a Texan is by Judge A. J. Thuss on "Law of Texas on Oil and Gas."

Mr. Smoot's volume is described by local attorneys as being one of the most important contributions to libraries on law in many years. It is the first law book dealing extensively with insanity in more than 30 years, it was said, the last having made its appearance in 1896.

Attains Cherished Goal

The distribution of the work will achieve for Mr. Smoot a goal toward which he has been aiming for more than 20 years. The determination to prepare such a work was reached, he related, while he was a student at the University of Texas, from which he graduated in 1908.

The idea was born while Mr. Smoot was a student of the university law school, of which the late Judge John C. Townes was dean. On several occasions, Judge Townes told of the need for a new volume on insanity to bring questions of law on that subject up to date.

Mr. Smoot first decided he would make "The Law of Insanity" the subject of his graduation thesis. Research convinced him, however, that the subject was too broad for treatment in a thesis. Then he decided upon the eventual preparation of the volume which Judge Townes suggested.

The volume which will make its appearance soon is dedicated to Judge Townes.

Following graduation Mr. Smoot came to Wichita Falls and began the practice of law. Much of his spare time has been devoted to the gathering of material for the volume. His manuscript was not completed until about a year ago.

The work treats of almost every conceivable phase of the subject, and is the type of volume to serve as an authoritative text anywhere in the United States or its possessions. Local attorneys explained that its authority is attested by the fact that it was accepted for publication by perhaps the nation's leading publishers of law books.

Insanity Increasing

Beginning with the usual introduction and a history of insanity, the volume contains 16 chapters, 611 sections and approximately 750 pages. Several thousand decisions from courts of every state are cited.

From his research work, Mr. Smoot said, he has ascertained that insanity undoubtedly is on the increase, and he attributes the increase very largely to the hurry of modern life.

"People of today live under a constant tension," he observed. "They take too little time for relaxation. Shattered minds too often are the penalty."

If bootleg liquor is a prime contributor to insanity, he has been unable to discover it, he said. Formerly, during days of the open saloon, he said, alcoholism was a major cause of insanity. Prohibition has reduced the consumption of intoxicants, and the number of cases of insanity from that source.

An advertising campaign already has been launched by the Vernon Law Book company to announce Mr. Smoot's publication. Literature announcing the volume has been sent to most of the licensed attorneys in the land. A picture of the volume and a sketch of its contents are contained in the announcement.

CHAPTER OF DELPHIANS ORGANIZED AT GRAHAM

GRAHAM, Texas, May 4.—The Graham Delphian chapter was organized the past week in Graham under the direction of Mrs. B. V. Nafziger, national organizer. The chapter is a unit of a national organization.

The programs are outlined by nationally known educators and includes the study of literature, history, art, music, poetry and drama. The officers for the Graham chapter are Mrs. W. N. Varble, president; Mrs. H. E. Griffin, vice president; Mrs. C. H. Atkinson, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. G. Stewart, chairman of advisory board; Miss Nell Sammons and Mrs. W. A. Morris assistants. The chapter will meet on first and third Tuesdays of each month, the first to be held May 7 at the Methodist church. National headquarters will continue to direct the work along the developed plan.

COTTON GROWERS TO MEET IN GRANDFIELD

GRANDFIELD, Okla., May 4.—The Grandfield Chamber of Commerce is to have as guests Monday, May 6, delegates of the Oklahoma Cotton Growers' association from Tillman and Cotton counties, at a noon-day lunch in the basement of the First Christian church.

Speakers from Frederick are to be present at the meeting as well as a number of speakers from this city. R. P. Reagan, president of the chamber of commerce, will preside.

The business meeting of the organization will be held at the tabernacle on West Third street, beginning at 10 o'clock Monday morning. After the luncheon the delegates will convene again for the election of officers.

For several years the delegates of the Cotton Growers' association have chosen Grandfield for their convention city.

Gin Stockholders Meet

GRANDFIELD, Okla., May 4.—At a meeting of the stockholders of the Farmers' Cooperative Gin company of this city held Wednesday evening, Alton Morton and Art Rasmuson were elected directors of the organization for another year. A number of business matters were also discussed at the meeting. A meeting of stockholders was also held Thursday evening at the Gem theater.

Kansas State Cash Till Tinkles Heavy With Oklahoman's Silver As Border Auto Fee Row Goes On

TOPEKA, Kans., May 4 (AP)—Instead of war debts, Kansas is finding its "border auto license war" with Oklahoma profitable, A. E. Cornell, secretary of state, announced today.

Already the Cornell forces have collected approximately $2,000 from "unlicensed" Oklahomans in Cowley and Sedgwick counties.

Yesterday the battle front was extended to Butler county and today the Kansas license inspectors were working in Montgomery county.

Every Oklahoma truck and commercial car is being seized and held until the owner or driver obtains a Kansas license.

"The report that a truce was declared is just one of those unreliable war rumors," Mr. Cornell said today. "This border war has just begun, and we are going to stay in the battle all summer if the Oklahoma officials do not show a more neighborly spirit and show our Kansas citizens the same courtesies we have been extending to business visitors from that state."

For a long time Oklahoma has been pouncing on every Kansan who crossed the border with a truck load of furniture or a drummer expedition, and compelling the Kansans to pay for the privilege of traveling over Oklahoma soil.

When nothing else was successful the state legislature enacted a law providing that Kansas would extend the same license tag courtesies to visitors from other states that the officials of these states extend to Kansas visitors. Even this law didn't bring the Oklahomans to a neighborly way of looking at the matter and so Kansas declared war.

Cornell sent every deputy license inspector in the service to the border counties with instructions to arrest every Oklahoma commercial vehicle crossing the state line without a Kansas tag. William A. Smith, attorney general, pledged his assistance in helping to carry on the fight, and county officials in every border county are taking the field to help.

High school enrollment is declining in Germany. In 1903 50 per cent of all boys were listed; the number has dropped to 44 per cent.

SOUTHERN STORM AREA BEGINS WORK OF REHABILITATION

ATLANTA, May 4. (INS)—Rehabilitation in the scattered storm damaged sections of the South had begun today, following a check up of the casualties.

Windstorms, which were "spotty" throughout seven southern states from Maryland to Arkansas took a death toll of 48 persons, injured more than 400 and caused property damage estimated at $3,000,000.

Physicians, nurses and volunteer workers were still engaged in caring for the injured. Some are not expected to recover.

All of the children in the school at Rye Cove, Va., which the building was levelled by a cyclone, were believed accounted for. Sixteen are known dead, more than a hundred badly injured, and a number suffering from minor hurts.

Property and crop damage was vast. Cotton and peach crops in Georgia and Alabama were virtually destroyed.

230 Members of Kay Bible Class Pose for News Photographer

GRANT METHODIST REVIVAL MEETINGS EXTENDED TO MAY 12

The revival meeting of the Grant Street Methodist church will be continued for another week, according to an announcement made by Rev. Patrick Dacus Moreland, pastor.

The meeting opened April 21 and was originally scheduled to close on May 5. The revival has been well attended even during bad weather, however, and more than 35 new members joined the church during the first two weeks, so it was decided to extend the time of the meeeting.

Day meetings are held 10 o'clock each morning, prayer meetings at 7:15 p. m. and the evening services start at 7:45 o'clock. Rev. T. H. Browning, of Byers, has been musical director during the revival.

Plans have been made for providing extra seats during the next week as the church auditorium has been more than comfortably filled at several of the meetings.

HOSPITAL HEAD WILL SPEAK SUNDAY NIGHT SIBLEY-TAYLOR M. E.

Rev. F. B. Wheeler, assistant superintendent of the Dallas Methodist hospital, will preach Sunday evening before the congregation of the Sibley-Taylor Methodist church, according to Rev. Ben Bell, pastor of the church. The service will be opened with a concert given by the church orchestra.

FREE ENTRY POLICY WILL BE CONTINUED BY CUSTOMS FORCE

WASHINGTON, May 4. (INS)—New complications in the controversy over "freedom of the ports," arising from reports that members of congress frequently bring liquor into the United States from abroad, developed at the treasury today.

A ghost slipped out of the musty files in the nature of regulations signed by former Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo in 1913, which drastically restricted the granting of orders for expeditious examination of baggage of travelers arriving from foreign countries.

Under these regulations, technically still in effect, although not observed owing to liberalization of the practice of the treasury, the so-called "expedites" were limited to the following cases:

1—Those involving imperative emergency, such as where a passenger was accompanying the body of a deceased person, was seriously ill or was summoned home by news of affliction or disaster.

2—To delegates to international conventions in this country or those returning from such conventions abroad.

3—To senators and representatives in congress.

4—To women traveling alone.

This order was issued by McAdoo "in order to obtain uniformity of practice and to avoid the possibility of abuse." It construed the "expedites" to mean nothing more than speedy examination of baggage.

Gradually the restrictions against this form of courtesy were modified until they were issued by the hundreds. The question of curtailment has been discussed within the last month, but restrictions were held inadvisable both by customs collectors and the treasury.

Customs authorities are studying the international and domestic law under which "free entry" of the port is granted. A New York federal grand jury demanded that these privileges be withdrawn from American officials, but there seemed no indication that such drastic action would be taken.

Attorney General Mitchell may be asked or an official opinion on the legality of free-entry and under what law it could be authorized. Treasury officials, however, expressed the opinion that owing to the fact that this international custom has been followed for years specific statutory authority is unnecessary.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman declared that unless congress prohibited free-entry to American officials by legislation there would be no change in treasury policy.

FIRST CHISTIAN CHURCH ANNOUNCES A 'BUILDERS' SERVICE SUNDAY NIGHT

As a close to the Appreciation week programs, the First Christian church Saturday announced a "Builders' Service" for Sunday night at 8 o'clock. The program of the church service will be built around the theme, "Temple Building," according to the announcement of Dr. Floyd Allan Bash, pastor.

Masons and their families and Kiwanians and their friends are especially invited to attend. Several members of the local Kiwanis club will sing the Kiwanis "Builders' Song." Eight men will assist Dr. Bash in the following symbolic service:

R. E. Shepherd will sing "Open the Gates of the Temple," (Knapp).

A men's chorus will lead the congregation in the praise service. Dr. Bash will speak on "Using the Plumb Line." The use of colored lights and of the ruby cross will add to the beauty of the service.

CAPPER OUT AGAINST DEBENTURE FEE PLAN

WASHINGTON, May 4. (INS)—Appealing to congress to stand by President Hoover, Senator Arthur Capper, Republican, of Kansas, this afternoon endorsed the new farm relief bill, opposed the export debenture plan and predicted brighter days ahead for American agriculture.

Capper charged congress with the duty of enacting a farm bill based upon "the promises of the last campaign." He said these promises were being carried out in the debenture-less Hoover farm bill.

HEAVY FIGHTING FOR AFGHANISTAN THRONE

PESHAWAR, India, May 4. (AP)—Reports here today confirmed news of heavy fighting near Lohgarh, Afghanistan, between 3,000 troops of the deposed Emir Amanullah and twice as many followers of Bacha Sakao, usurper of Amanullah's throne.

Troops back of Sakos were said to be gaining the upper hand after four days of incessant fighting. Very heavy casualties were reported on both sides.

HI-Y CLUB TO HOLD ANNUAL FATHER AND SON MEET MONDAY

The work of the Wichita Falls Hi-Y club for the current school year will be concluded Monday, May 6, with a Father and Son banquet to be held at the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club, according to Clay Underwood, vice president of the organization.

Moulton B. Harrison will be the toastmaster at the banquet, for which an informal program has been arranged. R. E. Shepherd will lead a singsong, and special musical numbers also will be given. A talk to the fathers present will be made by Homer Lee, with Hubert M. Harrison responding with an address to the sons. The principal speaker of the evening will be J. H. Allison. New officers of the organization will be installed by Rev. Patrick Henry, pastor of the Highland Heights Christian church.

FORT M'INTOSH ARMY BOARD PROBES INTO SLAYING OF SOLDIER

LAREDO, Texas, May 4. (UP)—Fort McIntosh military authorities today investigated the death of Sergt. William Perrin, 50, of company C, eighth engineers, who died Friday in the post hospital after 18 hours of unconsciousness.

He had been beaten over the head with a blunt instrument some time Thursday and was found on the porch of the barracks in a dying condition.

Private Lee Main of company C has been placed under arrest and is in the guardhouse.

Perrin had been in the army 20 years and is a native of England.

Private Main is 32 and enlisted at Fort McIntosh last year. He is from Nebraska.

SCHEDULES FOR DENVER TRAINS CHANGE SUNDAY

SERVICE IS SPEEDED TO FORT WORTH AND DALLAS

11 Passenger Trains in Local Section Are Affected

Schedule changes for nine passenger trains on the Fort Worth and Denver City railway and the Wichita Valley serving Wichita Falls went into effect at 12:01 Sunday to give faster service between here and all points on both lines.

In addition, schedule changes to give faster service went into effect at the same time on the Stamford-Spur branch of the Wichita Valley.

Purposes of the changes were announced as being to arrange more convenient service to most travelers on both lines in addition to the faster time.

Of the trains affected, five are on the Fort Worth and Denver, four on the main line of the Wichita Valley and two on the Spur branch of the Valley.

Perhaps the most important changes affect trains Nos. 5 and 6, the West Texan, on the Denver. While the arrival and departure times here are no more convenient than in the past, service to Amarillo, Panhandle and Lubbock is speeded up by an hour and 20 minutes on train No. 5. Service from Dallas and Fort Worth is a little faster than at present.

The change in the operating time of southbound train No. 6, it was said, may prove unwelcome to some travelers here because it removes the early daylight train from Wichita Falls to Fort Worth and Dallas. Travel, however, has not justified its retention, it was said. In the past, train No. 6 has arrived from Amarillo at 2:45 a. m., and has waited until 7:10 the following morning to resume its journey. According to the new schedule, the train arrives at 3:55 a. m. and departs 10 minutes later. The running time between Amarillo and Wichita Falls is thus reduced 15 minutes, and from Wichita Falls to Fort Worth 20 minutes.

The running time of other trains of the Denver affected by the changes is slight.

Faster service likewise will be given on the Wichita Valley between here and Abilene. Train No. 1 will make the journey to Abilene 25 minutes faster than in the past. No. 2 will make the journey from Abilene 15 minutes faster. No. 5 to Abilene will speed up the time by 40 minutes. Ten minutes is sliced off the time of No. 8 from Abilene.

New and former schedules of trains affected by the changes follow:

Fort Worth and Denver

From Fort Worth and Dallas to Amarillo, Lubbock, Plainview and Denver:

No. 1. (new schedule)—Arrives Wichita Falls 2 p. m., departs 2:15 p. m.; (former schedule)—Arrived 1:55 p. m., departed 2:05 p. m.

No. 5. (new schedule)—Arrives here 1 a. m., departs 1:10 a. m.; (former schedule)—Arrived 11:40 p. m., departed 11:50 p. m.

From Denver, Amarillo, Lubbock and Plainview; No. 2 (new schedule)—Arrived here 12:25 p. m., departs 12:40 p. m.; (former schedule)—Arrived 11:45 a. m., departed 11:55 a. m.

No. 6 (new schedule)—Arrives 3:35 a. m., departs 3:45 a. m.; (former schedule)—Arrived 2:45 a. m., departed 7:10 a. m.

No. 8 (new schedule)—Arrives 1:45 a. m., departs 2 a. m.; (former schedule)—Arrived 2:30 a. m., departed 3 a. m.

BURIAL SERVICES FOR TAD HELD SATURDAY

GREAT NECK, L. I., May 4. (INS)—In the same house from which he sent forth his daily cartoon that brought merriment to millions, simple funeral services were held for Tad today.

Only members of his family and a few who knew him best and were able to attend were present in the Great Neck home where for eight years Tad watched the world from his front windows, found it jolly and passed his impressions on to others while death hovered over him.

He was born Thomas Aloysius Dorgan, but he was just Tad to those who paid their final respects today, as he was to his public of 90,000,000 persons.

The chameleon is the only member of the reptile family that can focus both eyes upon the same point.

INTRODUCES

SCREEN-GRID RADIO

THEY'RE SAYING that the new Atwater Kent Screen-Grid Radio is the biggest advance in radio since the advent of house-current sets two years ago.

They're saying that the twenty-seven years of Atwater Kent leadership in electrical engineering have never been more clearly demonstrated.

They're saying that at last pure tone comes out of this set just as it goes into the microphone at the broadcasting studio.

They're saying, "This new Atwater Kent is IT!" Saying it so clamorously that the 31-acre Atwater Kent factory—just doubled and now doubly the largest radio factory in the world—is now devoted to satisfying the demand for the new Screen-Grid set.

In your own home—try it!

EXPORTERS TOPPLE SPUDDERS IN EXTRA INNING STRUGGLE

THE LOOKOUT

BY AL PARKER

Remove from almost any minor league club its regular first baseman and second sacker, and you won't have much of a team left. That's the condition the Spudders are in. They'll likely remain that way for 10 days or two weeks, and during that period there's no telling what might happen. After the Beaumont series ends Sunday, two games are slated in Waco and three in San Antonio. Including the Sunday tilt, they have six more road games and then return to Athletic park for a long home stand. That might help some and Stapleton and Turgeon ought to be able to return to the game after a week or so of home play.

Beaumont has had just as much hard luck as the Spudders. Two of the Exporters' regular outfielders, Lyman Lamb and Paul Easterling are on the sidelines with injuries. The team had been using handy Elmer Hanson, normally a pitcher, at first, but when both Lamb and Easterling went out, it became necessary to place Hanson in the outfiled and return Burt to first base.

Houston and Fort Worth were not long in matching the two pitchers they had exchanged during the winter. In the very first meeting of the season between the two Paul Wachtel was on the firing line for the Buffs and Dick Whitworth for the Panthers. It resulted in an actual victory for Whitworth, but morally it was hardly a Whitworth conquest. The Buffs rapped their former relief expert for 13 hits, but lost the decision, 8 to 7, though Wachtel was not charged with the defeat. Both tossers have done well enough against other clubs thus far.

Few Texas league fans will remember the National league's leading pitcher to date. Percy Malone, who was more commonly known before he became one of the elite as simply "Pat," was with Beaumont a few years back. But Percy really wasn't the kind of boy to have such a name, and his love of a good time probably kept him from showing something to the Texas league hitters. At any rate, the fellow who this week leads the National league flippers and is considered one of the best chunkers under the big top, didn't linger but a month or so with the Beaumont club.

If the Waco Cubs don't set a new record this season for home runs, it will be because they will suddenly slacken the pace they have set so far. In the first 18 games of the season 75 homers were socked in the league as a whole. No less than 22 of these belonged to the Cubs. Approximately half the total of 75 was amassed in Waco's miniature park. Every regular of the Cubs has hit at least one homer.

Attendance down at Houston has been distinctly disappointing so far this season. The crowds at each of the Spudder games were unofficially announced as 700 to 800—not many customers for a team in second place in a city the size of Houston. Houston will never be the baseball town Dallas and Fort Worth are, but there is something else wrong. The spirit of civic pride that makes baseball possible in the smaller cities is missing, for the simple reason that the Buffaloes, owned by the St. Louis Cardinals, cannot be looked upon as a home institution.

More important in the apparent lack of interest is the fact that the Cardinals, in the operation of their extensive farm system, take players away from Houston as speedily as they are developed into fan favorites and drawing cards at the gate. Houston may have the best ball club in the world, but the Buffs for the greater part are strangers to the fans and haven't the appeal of the stars who were established last year and the year before and were removed to other parts. Outside the battery men, the Buffs have only one regular of last year in their every-day lineup, and only one holdover pitcher and one catcher. Pennant winners usually have to be rebuilt to an extent the following season because of the inroads of the big leagues, but never before was a Texas league pennant winner wrecked so thoroughly as the Buffs of last season.

Houston's trio of regular outfielders of 1928 are performing in great style in higher class leagues. Homer Peil is playing center field every day for the Philadelphia Phillies, which may or may not be something to boast of, and is doing a good job of it. Red Worthington and "Boilermaker" Watkins are regulars in Rochester's outfield in the International league. For the first 10 days of the season Worthington hit considerably above .350 and Watkins was just a few points below that mark. Houston's 1928 outfield undoubtedly was one of the finest in recent Texas league history, and the fact that all are delivering in faster company this season is pretty good evidence of that fact.

The Chicago White Sox are out to fool a lot of folks, including the conductor of this column, who predicted their best race would be with the Red Sox for the American league cellar. So far, the Comiskey clan has prospered. Prominent in the successes of the Sox have been Bud Clancy, famous mainly because he succeeded the well known Mr. Shires, and Alex Metzler. Clancy has hit something like .400 since the start and the former Spudder has been around the .275 mark. Thomas, Lyons and Adkins may continue to pitch well enough to keep the Sox out of the basement, but they won't have as many runs to work with when Clancy and Metzler and some of the others with inflated batting averages drop back to normalcy.

Sooners Drubbed

LINCOLN, Neb., May 4. (UP)—Nebraska's Cornhuskers drubbed the Oklahoma track team 78 1-3 to 52 2-3 Saturday in the first dual meets defeat handed the Sooners since 1923. The Cornhuskers made two "grand slams" and scored men in every event.

Lamb's Clout in Tenth Paves Way To Beaumont Win

Payne Is Victim of Overtime Loss by 7-6 Score

BEAUMONT, May 4.—Bill Huber's single in the tenth sent the Spudders down to defeat Saturday, the Exporters winning the second of the series, 7 to 6. After the sixth inning George Washington Payne had pitched hitless ball, but three singles before a man had been retired proved his undoing in the extra canto. A former Spudder, Lyman Lamb, paved the way to the winning run with a double to open the tenth.

The Spuds on the other hand batted Walter Newman to the showers in the fifth inning, collecting five singles for three runs before young Rufus Smith, southpaw, took charge. An error by Hanson allowed the Spudders to tie it in the ninth and, strictly speaking, the game should have ended 6 to 5 in the regulation distance.

Benton opened the game with a sharp single to left and before three men were out the visitors had counted two runs to take an early lead. Gordon grounded out to short, Benton taking second, and Fitzgerald clouted a double to left to produce the first tally. Bennett then smashed a grounder at Newman, who knocked it down and fumbled it, eventually picking it up and throwing wide to first, Fitzgerald scoring and Bennett taking second. Snyder and Swenson followed by popping to the catcher and lining out to left, respectively.

Exporters Take Lead

A double by Akers and a single by Philbin off Gordon's shins gave the Exporters a run in the first and in the second they tied it up on Robertson's single to left, a walk to Newman and Philbin's single to center after Akers had skied out. To this the locals added two more in the fourth after Petrie had singled to left and moved to third when Gordon booted Robby's grounder. Newman dumped a slug bunt in front of the plate, which Lapan scooped up and threw to first, retiring the pitcher. Akers grounded to Swenson, who threw to first and while Akers was being retired Petrie scored. Philbin then came through with another single to center and Robby counted.

Here it was that the Spudders disposed of Mr. Newman, Benton, Gordon and Fitzgerald all getting singles and Bennett drawing a pass. Snyder hit to short and Akers started what became a completed double play, Gordon scoring from third after Benton had scored on Fitzgerald's single to center. Swenson followed with a single to center, scoring Fitzgerald with the third run. Eldred singled and Lapan walked, but Payne grounded out to end it.

But the lead see-sawed back into Beaumont's favor in the home half, when Lamb and Easterling singled, Huber sacrificed and Hanson doubled to the right field fence. This made the count 6 to 5 and thus it remained until the ninth when the Spuds tied it up.

Error Helps

Fitzgerald grounded to the box, Smith fielding the ball perfectly and then waiting until the last second to throw it. The result was that Hanson became confused and failed to touch the bag. Bennett popped out to Hanson in an attempt to sacrifice, but Snyder bounced a single off Philbin's foot, the ball caroming into center field while Fitzgerald raced to third. Swenson sent a grounder near the box which Smith had trouble fielding and Fitzgerald scored, although Swenson was out at first. In the tenth with one away Payne singled to right but the next two were easy outs.

Then came the finale, with Lamb hitting a double against right field fence to open the tenth. Easterling tried to sacrifice but his effort went for a hit when Payne fielded the ball near third and tossed to Swenson to catch Lamb, the former Spud being safe on a close play. Then Huber mauled the first pitch into left to end it.

The greatest play of the day was contributed by Bennett who made a back-handed stab against the fence to rob Huber of a double in the seventh. Bennett then doubled Lamb off second.

Indications are Saturday night that Turgeon will be out of the lineup perhaps three weeks.

ROUTIS AND CANZONERI TRAINING FOR BATTLE

CHICAGO, May 4. (AP)—Andre Routis, world featherweight champion, and Tony Canzoneri, former titleholder, Saturday began putting on a final polish for their 10-round non-title bout at Chicago stadium next Friday night.

Canzoneri and the champion arrived Friday, both almost in condition for the battle which is to be fought at 130 pounds. The meeting will be the third between them, Routis having won the title from Canzoneri after losing their first engagement.

LEADS LEAGUE IN WHIFFING FOES

—... by S. and S. Commercial Studios

HAL WILTSE

Left-handers long have been supreme as strikeout artists in the Texas league, and it appears at this stage of the race as though the Spudders might have the man capable of taking the places of Bill Hallahan, Slim Love and Fred Fussell, left-handed whiff specialists of the last few years.

Hal Wiltse, who has won three games and lost one for the Spudder cause, is the league leader in this department through games of Thursday. The chunky left-hander ran his strikeout total to 21 in his losing game at Houston Thursday and is several swings ahead of the rest of the pitching field.

STEERS END LENGTHY LOSING STREAK BY NOSING OUT CUBS IN 6-5 TILT; HOUSTON WINS

DALLAS, May 4. (AP)—Dallas broke its losing streak of seven consecutive games Saturday by taking the measure of the league-leading Waco Cubs, 6 to 5, in the second melee of their three-game series here. It was the first victory for the herd since last Saturday and coming on a day when the Fort Worth Cats were going down to defeat at the hands of the Houston Buffs, it enabled the Stockmen again to climb into a tie for fifth place with the Atz crew. It also marked the fourth loss for Waco this season. Score:

BANKERS' LEAGUE TO START TUESDAY WITH SECURITY VS. WICHITA

The Bankers baseball league is scheduled to get under way with much ado Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock on Wilson field, Brook avenue and Speedway. Security National and Wichita State banks are to blast open the pennant race, but before they get their chance George D. Fairtrace, city manager; W. E. McBroom, city clerk, and C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent, are to officiate in opening day ceremonies.

C. G. Moore has been elected president of the league, with H. A. Kinkead as secretary-treasurer.

SIMPSON AGAIN BEATS RECORD FOR CENTURY

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 4. (AP)—Beckoning with his flying spikes, George Simpson, sprinting darling of Ohio State's track team, showed athletes from 60 colleges the way to glory Saturday by breaking the accepted world record for the 100-yard dash in the feature event of the sixth annual Ohio relays.

Two weeks ago Simpson dashed off the century in :09.5 in a dual meet with Pittsburgh, and Saturday he did it again, winning by two yards from a fleet field. Officials of the meet said his mark probably would be recognized.

The 2,000 athletes in the university, college and high school events lent themselves to the shattering of another world record in the 480 yard shuttle hurdle relay, the national collegiate record in the 440-yard relay and 14 records of past Ohio relays.

WILMER ALLISON LOSES IN DAVIS CUP TRIALS

PHILADELPHIA, May 4. (AP)—Francis T. Hunter of New Rochelle, N. Y., and John Van Ryn of Orange, N. J., were victors in the first two singles matches of the American Davis cup tennis tryouts Saturday at the Huntingdon Valley Country club.

LONGHORNS EVEN SERIES WITH WIN OVER FROGS

FORT WORTH, May 4. (AP)—The University of Texas defeated Texas Christian university, 17 to 10, in a wild baseball game here Saturday. Batteries were Railton, Browning and Carr, for Texas, and R. Walker, Chapel, Cox and Buckley, for T. C. U.

Gehrig Lambasts Three Homers to Put Champs Over

Distance Clouts Subdue White Sox in Wild Skirmish

CHICAGO, May 4. (AP)—Three home runs by Lou Gehrig enabled the Yankees to outlast the White Sox, just long enough to win a groggy game here Saturday by a score of 10 to 9. Gehrig's three big blows ran his total for the season to six. Score:

DALLAS WINS THREE OF FOUR STATE CROWNS IN TOURNAMENT AT AUSTIN

AUSTIN, May 4. (AP)—Dallas garnered all but one of the state tennis titles in the interscholastic league meet here which ended Saturday.

When Charlotte MacQuiston, 14, of North Dallas High school triumphed in straight sets in the finals of the girls' singles, she became the youngest girl ever to hold the state championship.

Doc Barr of Oak Cliff high, Dallas, had easy sailing in the boys' singles finals. He did not drop a game in three sets, beating James Adkins of Brady, 6-0, 6-0, 6-0.

Barr and his teammate, Hugh Freazier, trounced the doubles contingent from San Jacinto, Houston, 6-3, 8-6, 2-6, 6-4 to win another title.

West Texas sisters proved better netters than South Texas sisters, when Josephine and Virginia Martin of Eastland beat Mary Virginia and Edla Lee Clatt of Pharr, 6-2, 6-2, in the girls' doubles finals.

SAN FRANCISCO SEALS DROP THREE PLAYERS

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4. (INS)—Three players were released Saturday by the San Francisco Seals in a move to reorganize the club, which has been a disappointment to fans here this year.

Those released were Dick Moudy, pitcher, to San Antonio of the Texas league; Ben Turpin, pitcher, returned to Little Rock, Ark., on option, and Sam Langford, outfielder, sent in part payment for Earl Averill last year, returned to Cleveland.

Moudy had been handicapped this year by an injury suffered in January while working on the docks at San Pedro.

Langford has been in a batting slump with the Seals, who can now claim $7,500 cash or another player from Cleveland.

ARMOUR-CRUICKSHANK PLAY BRITISH STARS

EDINBURGH, Scotland, May 4. (AP)—Five thousand Scotch golfing enthusiasts flocked to the Dalmahoy golf course Saturday to see a 36-hole four-ball match between Tommy Armour and Bobby Cruickshank, American players, against the English golfers, Henry Cotton and Charles Whitcombe. The match created greater interest than any contest of its kind in the Edinburgh district in recent years.

Armour and Cruickshank, having retained British nationality and being ineligible for the American Ryder cup team in consequence, are considered to represent Scottish golf against English golf.

Larman and Dick Cox Leading Swatsmiths

Shreveport Takes Lead in Club Batting; Hal Wiltse League's Best in Whiffing Opposition

A couple of Cox boys crown the Texas league batting lists after two weeks of play, Larman of Fort Worth hitting .447 and Dick of Shreveport .408. Eleven players still hover above or around the .400 mark, and the terrific spring hitting is reflected in club clouting as three teams rap better than .300. Whelan, Shreveport, leads in runs with 22, two better than his teammate, Hutson. Larman Cox is the base hit leader with 34 to the closest 29 of Whelan. Other league leaders are: Doubles, Larman Cox, 10; triples, Martin and Burrus, Houston, 4; home runs, Sanguinet, Waco, 7.

Waco leads club batting and home runs, Shreveport runs and hits, Houston doubles, and stolen bases. Caldwell, Waco, is the only undefeated pitcher with four victories. Wiltse of Wichita Falls leads in strike-outs with 21. Club batting, players batting .200 or better in 10 or more games, and pitchers' records through Thursday's games follow:

OLNEY CUBS WIN FINAL SPRING GRID CONTEST

OLNEY, Texas, May 4.—The Olney High school Cubs triumphed over the Graham eleven by a 20 to 0 score on the Graham field in the closing game of the spring football training season. Coach Acker played about 20 men from the first and second string during the game, and many new players showed up well. Touchdowns were scored by Scott Wix, George Lee Ellis and Rankin Goode.

One of the interesting features of the game was the improvement shown by Capt. Love Perkins in his new position as end.

Perkins was on the receiving end of a number of forward passes that netted good gains. The Cubs made 20 first downs, the backfield gaining ground almost at will, and the line held the opposition to two first downs.

CHILDRESS LIONS WIN FROM CHILLICOTHE, 5-1

CHILLICOTHE, Texas, May 4.—The Childress Lions club baseball team defeated the Chillicothe Lions at Childress Friday in a close battle, 5 to 1. Naylor tossed for the winners and Thurman for Chillicothe. A return game will be played here May 12.

SAN ANGELO HIGH CAPTURES STATE TRACK CHAMPIONSHIP

Four Records Are Set As Athletes Battle Old Marks

Houston School Second and Two Others Tie For Third

AUSTIN, May 4. (AP)—Scoring 19 points, San Angelo High school captured the 19th annual University of Texas interscholastic track meet Saturday over a field of competitors whose entries shattered four state records.

The victors were responsible for lowering the one-mile relay mark of 3 minutes, 30.5 seconds made by Vernon in 1925 when they sped the distance in 3 minutes, 26.9 seconds.

San Jacinto High school of Houston placed second in team scoring and Grand Prairie and Temple tied for third. Houston was responsible for 11 markers and Grand Prairie and Temple counted 7.

High Point Man

Hardman, Grand Prairie's one man team, who placed third in the 120-yard high hurdles and first in the low hurdles in the record time of 24.4 seconds, was high point man.

Other state marks broken during the afternoon's performance were the 880-yard run, won by Brothers, San Angelo field, and in the pole vault. Baxter soared 12 feet, 2⅝ inches in the latter event to better the previous height of 12 feet, set by Jackson of Dalhart in 1920.

Four Masonic Home High school speedsters of Fort Worth who pressed San Angelo hard in the relay were timed in 1½ seconds faster than the former state record.

Roberts of Friendship school in Kaufman county proved the iron man of contestants from small rural schools, finishing first in the pentathlon.

Track Events

The summary:

Mile run—Simmons, Slaton, first; Blakeney, Karnes City, second; Brown, Central of Fort Worth, third; Storm, Austin, fourth. Time—4 minutes, 36.4 seconds.

120-yard high hurdles—Hooper, Olton; Kroschell, San Jacinto of Houston; Hardman, Grand Prairie; Acker, Knox City. Time—15.5 seconds.

100-yard dash—Russell, Hereford; Haley, San Angelo; McJunkin, Woodrow Wilson, Dallas; Gunn, Masonic Home, Fort Worth. Time—10.1 seconds.

880-yard run—Brothers, San Angelo; Archer, Brownwood; Schultze, Temple; Cox, Corpus Christi. Time—2 minutes, 1.2 seconds (new record).

220-yard low hurdles—Hardman, Grand Prairie; Kroschell, San Jacinto of Houston; Ablowich, Greenville; Jones, San Angelo. Time—24.4 seconds (new record).

440-yard dash—Coker, Temple; Phillips, Woodville; Garretson Woodrow Wilson of Dallas; Holloway, Lufkin. Time—51.4 seconds.

One mile relay—San Angelo (Jones, Brothers, Haley, Morrison); Masonic Home of Fort Worth; Abilene; Setphenville. Time—3 minutes, 26.9 seconds ⅝new record).

Managing Cardinals No Different From Old Job, Southworth Avers

NEW YORK, May 4. (UP)—Managing the St. Louis Cardinals—a job which Hornsby, O'Farrell and McKechnie found too much for them—is no different from running a class AA penhant winner.

That is, if you can take Billy Southworth's word for it.

Southworth, who has what many consider the toughest job in baseball as manager of the 1928 National league champion, is using the same system with the Cardinals he used to win the International league at Rochester last season.

No Strict Rules

"I have no strict rules," the National league's youngest manager said. "In bed at 12. Practice in the morning for the players who are not to play that day when we are at home. Twenty-five cent limit on poker games. All our rules are about the same as any club has.

"I try to use common sense in every decision I make. I will not tolerate any player who quits. Hustling every minute whether ahead or behind is what wins ball games. That's the way we expect to win them. I couldn't expect any better spirit than the players have shown so far.

"Today's game is what counts. I send my team out to win that game. Yesterday and tomorrow don't count. If this system finds us on top at the end of the season, it will be the fulfillment of all my desires and ambition—manage a major league pennant winner."

Likes His Pitching

Southworth said that he had entire charge of making every decision regarding the play of the Cardinals on the field.

"I have entire charge of the club and use my own judgment in making every decision," he said. "There is no outside interference."

Southworth does not think badly of his team's prospects.

Alexander, Haines, Sherdel and Mitchell are considered the Cardinals' most reliable pitchers by Southworth. He expects one of the four youngsters—Hallahan, Haid, Johnson or Bell—to develop into a regular soon.

Charley Gelbert has made good at shortstop, according to Southworth.

Cub Pitcher and Outfielder Lead National League

Stephenson Tops Hitters And Malone in Victories

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—J. Riggs Stephenson, the Chicago outfielder, moved into the leadership of the National league batters for the period ending with Wednesday's games, according to unofficial averages, and Percy Lee Malone, also of the Cubs took the top perch among the pitchers. Stephenson boasted an average of .442 for 13 games, and Malone showed three victories and no defeats for a percentage of 1.000.

Stephenson had the greatest number of hits in his league, 23, and was tied with his teammate Hack Wilson, and Hughie Critz of Cincinnati for the lead in scoring. Each showed a total of 13 runs. Frank Frisch's six doubles put the St. Louis star ahead in this useful specialty, but the three-base leadership remained in dispute. Rogers Hornsby and Kiki Cuyler of Chicago, Delphage Bissonette of Brooklyn, Lloyd Waner of Pittsburgh, and Curt Walker of Cincinnati each had two.

Hack Wilson and George Harper finished the week in a tie for home run honors, each having four. Wilson led by himself in batting runs across the plate with a total of 17. Jake Flowers of Brooklyn showed the way in base stealing with five thefts.

Regulars following Stephenson in the batting table were: Gilbert, Brooklyn, .435; High, St. Louis, .433; O'Doul, Philadelphia, .425; Harper, Boston, and Jackson, New York, .400; Frisch, St. Louis, .388; Herman, Brooklyn, .388; Dressen, Cincinnati, .385; and Hogan, New York, .375. This list includes only players who have appeared in six games or more.

Following Malone in the pitching table were five men with two victories and no defeats: Carl Hubbell of New York, Burleigh Grimes, of Pittsburgh, Guy Bush of Chicago, Bob Smith of Boston, and Jesse Haines of St. Louis. Six others had a single victory apiece, without a reverse.

The team batting table displayed the Cubs out in front somewhat alone with a handsome mark of .310. The Reds were second with .293. The Braves led in team fielding with .983, and the Cubs were second with .972.

Reform Needed in Timing 'Century'; Five Hold Record

New Mark Sure If Tenth-Second Watches Adopted

NEW YORK, May 4. (UP)—If nine men can run the 100 yard distance in 9 3-5 seconds it is only logical to assume that one of the nine, under favorable conditions, can better the mark, at least by a tenth of a second.

This argument will be placed before the next meeting of the International Amateur Athletic federation, the body that puts the stamp of official recognition on world track and field records.

Last summer the federation met during the Olympic games to consider application for records. At that time a mark of 9 5-10 seconds, made by Charles Paddock under championship conditions, was placed before them for their approval.

The approval was denied under the assumption that a watch, timed to tenths of a second, might not be infallible. As a result the record book shows five men an official record holders while Paddock is recognized as having equalled the 9 3-5 mark six times.

Lengthy List

The other joint holders, officially, are D. J. Kelly, H. P. Drew and Chester Bowman of the United States and Cyril Coaffee of Canada.

It would be a hard task to enumerate the number of record equalling performances recorded since the last meeting of the I. A. A. F.

In the record books of the A. A. U., the 100 yards dash is the only flat distance race in which more than one record equalling performance is recognized.

Unless action is taken at the next meeting of the I. A. A. F. it may become necessary to issue a special supplement to the record books, containing nothing but the names of those who have run 100 yards in 9 3-5 seconds.

Almost Every Day

Only last Saturday the record was equalled four times — twice by Frank Wychoff and once by George Simpson at Philadelphia.

On the preceding Saturday Simpson, in a dual meet at Ohio State, was timed in 9 5-10 under apparently normal conditions.

Claude Bracey, Rice Institute star, has been timed at 9 2-5, 9 3-10 and 9 3-5, on various occasions this year. He had a wind at his back when the clockers caught him at the first time.

The present world record was set on June 23, 1906 when Kelly startled the track world by breaking the existing mark. Kelly's record was unchallenged until 1914 when Drew succeeded in tying him.

Paddock was the third to gain the once select circle and he ran the distance in record time four times during 1921. Coaffee broke in in 1922 and Paddock equalled the mark again in 1924 and 1926. Bowman, the last to be officially recognized, ran his record race in July, 1927.

PROSPECTS POINT TO RENEWAL THIS FALL OF ARMY-NAVY GAME

WASHINGTON, May 4. (UP)—New negotiations for resumption of athletic relations between the U. S. Military and Naval academies may be started soon, Chairman Britten of the House Naval Affairs committee said Saturday.

"There is now a bright prospect that the Army and Navy football game can be played this fall," he said. "High officials of the army and navy are anxious that the two academies renew their relations.

Britten suggested that the secretary of war, the secretary of navy, and an uninterested third party, familiar with all athletic rules, should get together and draft a set of rules to apply to the academies and their athletic contests.

Jameison Slumps But Still Ahead In Junior League

Sammy Gray Leads Tossers With Four Wins in Succession

CHICAGO, May 4. (AP)—Charlie Jamieson's batting average dropped 87 points within one week, but he still kept an edge over the field in the race for American league clubbing honors, unofficial averages including Wednesday's games reveal.

The Cleveland outfielder's mark at the end of the second week of the campaign is .437 compared to .524 a week ago, but his chief rivals also slumped. Lou Blue of St. Louis, who clung to second place, dropped from .500 to .435 in seven games.

Several hitters made great gains, especially Marty McManus of Detroit, who lifted his average from .324 to .410 to go into fourth place. Bud Clancy of the White Sox gained nine to take third with a .426 average. Other leaders were: Foxx, Philadelphia, .409; Goslin, Washington, .405; Simmons, Philadelphia, .400; Judge, Washington, .382; Hale, Philadelphia, .381, and Metzler, Chicago, .380.

Sammy Gray, sturdy right-hander of the St. Louis Browns, hung up two more victories during the week and went into the lead in the pitching race with four straight triumphs. In 37 innings Gray has allowed nine runs. Uhle of Detroit and Hoyt of New York had three victories each.

Feeding upon Boston pitching, the Philadelphia Athletics jumped to the top of the heap in team batting with an average of .326. Detroit was second with .317, while the Yankees were in eighth place with .255. Washington clung to the top in fielding with a .985 percentage.

Philadelphia led in runs with 95 in 12 games and the White Sox were the hardest to score on as only 41 have been tallied against them in 12 games.

Other leaders:

Home runs, Philadelphia 14; double plays, Cleveland 18; triple play, Chicago, one; runs, Blue, St. Louis, 19; runs batted in, Alexander, Detroit; stolen bases, Fonseca, Cleveland, and Averill, Cleveland, four each; strikeouts, Gray, St. Louis, 16.

Baptists-Methodists Tie

WHITE DEER, Texas, May 4.—The baseball season opened here in dead earnest Thursday when a fast game was played between the teams of the Baptist and Methodist churches. It resulted in a 10 and 10 tie in seven innings.

Disoway Leading Shoe Flinger in Ringer Averages

Monday's Matches Mark One-Third Way in First Half

With Monday night's play, one-third of the first half will have been completed in the Wichita Falls Horseshoe Pitchers' league. First Presbyterians, with 41 wins and but one loss, lead the league; eleven and one-half games ahead of the Katy railroaders, who have won 26 games and lost nine.

It is hard to pick any one outstanding player in the league, but Disoway, Presbyterian chunker, has a secure hold on first place in ringer tossing. He has chunked 15 games and looped the peg 135 times in that number of games for an average of exactly nine ringers per game. If the tosser continues the pace he is now traveling it will take some pretty steady, consistent looping on the part of any other one player to head him off. Hogan, Presbyterian chunker, is close behind him with an average of approximately eight ringers per game.

Cooper and Reed, with Municipal Gassers, are leading their team in ringer tossing. Kromer, Litzenberg, King, Emerson and Weist, Katy railroaders, also have proven consistent ringer throwers.

The five leading ringer counters follow:

Disoway, Pres.	15	135	9
Hogan, Pres.	11	87	7.9
Balthrop, Meth.	15	118	7.86
Reed, Gas Co.	18	123	6.83
Cooper, Gas Co.	11	75	6.81

Monday night's pairings are:

First Presbyterians vs. Panhandle Steel.

First Methodist vs. Bailey-Moline.

GOLF MATCH PLANNED FOR PLAINVIEW LINKS

PLAINVIEW, Texas, May 4.—A golf tournament between the directors of the Plainview Chamber of Commerce, and members of the board of city development at Plainview has been arranged as a result of a challenge from the first organization.

The match will be played before May 15 on the Lena Ware golf course at Plainview, and the losing organization will be host to the groups at a dinner.

The purpose of the tournament, according to Presidents Bill Gouldy and Charles Reinken, is to create a better acquaintance between the members of the two organizations, and at the same time enjoy the splendid golfing facilities at Plainview.

TWO WORLD RECORDS ARE BEATEN IN COAST MEET

KEZAR STADIUM, SAN FRANcisco, May 4. (UP)—Two world records were bettered here Saturday afternoon in the annual Pacific association games, but under such conditions that they may not be recognized.

Russell Sweet, running for the Olympic club, sprinted 100 yards in 9 2-5 seconds, one-fifth of a second faster than the world record. There was a stiff breeze at his back.

Gloria Russell of the Northern California Athletic club threw the baseball 262 feet 11 inches, bettering the old record of 252 feet 4 inches.

DERBY DARBS

CLYDE VAN DUSEN

Man o' War never was started in a Kentucky Derby, but there is a gelded son of this famous thoroughbred entered for the race this year that may lead Blue Larkspur, Roguish Sye and other favorites to the finish. Clyde Van Dusen is the entry with Man o' War blood. Owned by H. P. Gardner, he is considered a most dangerous entry. There were periods when he ran poorly as a 2-year-old, but this was offset by brilliant showings, especially his victory in the Kentucky Jockey club stakes. He won this mile event in 1:38 4-5, with the track slow. He started 17 times as a 2-year-old, winning eight races, finishing second thrice, third twice and being unplaced four times. He was listed as a 10 to 1 shot in the winter books.

Lord Braedalbane's Fast Running Provides Sensation in Derby Dope

LOUISVILLE, May 4. (AP)—The reason why Lord Braedalbane, colt owned by Desha Breckenridge and training at Lexington, Ky., suddenly leaped from a 200 to 1 shot into one of the Kentucky Derby favorites, is out.

It has been told that Lord Braedalbane worked a mile over the old Kentucky association course at Lexington recently in 1:40 2-5, the fastest trial from a time standpoint ever recorded by a Kentucky trained horse at this season of the year.

As a result of this performance, odds on the Breckenridge colt suddently came dashing down in the winter books, and some bookmakers went so far as to refuse bets on him.

Lexington, when fast, is a much faster course than Churchill Downs, probably being about two seconds to the mile faster. Even at that, a mile over Churchill Downs right now in 1:42 2-5 would be a mighty fast mile. Two years ago the famous Osmand and Chance Shot, working in April, turned the mile in 1:42 3-5 at the Downs and were all tuckered out at the effort.

Blue Larkspur has been backed down from eight to one to four to one in a number of the big winter books.

Roguish Eye and Clyde Van Dusen will be close up in favor.

TEXAN TO PARTICIPATE IN SENIOR TOURNAMENT

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—A Texan will be a member of the team of the U. S. Senior Golf association to play in international triangular matches against Great Britain and Canada at St. Andrews, Scotland, July 5 and 6.

He is Hugh Halsell, Dallas, said an announcement Saturday.

Indian Tracksters In State Meet at Ft. Worth Monday

Baggett to Place Well Rounded Team in Competition

Wichita Falls Junior college this week completed its training for the state junior college track and field meet to be held Monday in Fort Worth. Coach E. A. Baggett planned to depart Sunday for the scene of the competition, with approximately 20 athletes who make up a well rounded team that is expected to make a creditable showing.

Bill McMillan is captain of the Indian thinly clads and he is expected to capture some points in the dashes. Ensign Rexford is another, who has done well in practice in the sprint events.

220-yard dash—McMillan, Rexford.

120-yard high hurdles—G. Stephens, Scott.

High jump—Scott.

Shot put—Hutto, H. Barton.

Discus—Hutto, H. Barton.

Javelin—H. Barton, J. T. Barton.

LEGION POST TO SPONSOR BOYS' SANDLOT COMPETITION

Meeting Is Slated Tuesday Night to Plan Organization

All Youngsters Under 17 Years Eligible to Participate

Rally around, boys, if you won't be 17 years old before midnight of September 14, 1929, and like to play baseball. A trip, with all expenses paid, to the world series this fall is the goal ahead. And all you have to do is to play on the national championship boys' baseball team!

Pat Carrigan Post No. 120, American legion, is to sponsor boys' play here this summer, selecting a Wichita Falls city championship team and sponsoring the team in national championship competition.

Wichita Falls legionnaires, with William S. Parks, post athletic officer, in charge, are joining in the national legion organization's move in sponsoring sandlot baseball for the youngsters.

The initial move toward organizing the youngsters here will be made Tuesday night at 8 o'clock when a meeting will be held at legion headquarters in Memorial auditorium. The plan of organization and competition will be worked out at this time, and all those interested are urged to attend.

Two Backers Read

Pat Carrigan post and the Wichita Falls chapter of the 40 and 8 already have been pledged to enter teams in the city competition. The legion athletic committee now is seeking other backers and hopes to have in the field within the next few days at least 8 or 10 teams. After the organization is completed, it is likely that a schedule calling for three or more games for each team will be adopted, with the city champions determined not later than July 15.

The plan of the national organization divides Texas into 17 districts, with the district winners meeting in a tournament late in July to decide the state championship. The state winners go into the regional championship, each region comprising four states. Texas is in region six, along with Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana. The regions are split into two divisions, eastern and western, and the divisional champions clash for the national championship.

Backed by Majors

The national movement was launched by the legion several years ago and has grown to the extent that more than 200,000 boys participated last year. The American and National leagues contribute $50,000 annually to the legion fund that defrays all expenses of teams after state championships are decided and of the winning team in its trip to the annual world series.

Strict eligibility rules govern the competition and these will be adhered to by the Wichita Falls members. All boys of the city, who will not be 17 years old before midnight of April 14, 1929, will be eligible to compete, provided they are bona fide amateurs. Teams must be formed and their rosters of eligible players of not more than 14 boys each mailed into national headquarters not later than May 15. This time limit is necessary, according to Parks, to prevent juggling of players that would permit cities to enter all-star teams.

San Antonio Champs

A San Antonio team won the state championship last year and was eliminated by the Shreveport, La., state champs. Oakland, Calif., produced the national champion.

Pat Carrigan post is entering the movement for the first time, but hopes to create sufficient interest among the youngsters and the grownups, whose support will be necessary in backing the teams, to produce a city champion that will make a good showing in the district competition.

"But winning championships is a side issue," Parks explains. "We have gone into the movement with the thought of reaching as many youngsters in Wichita Falls as possible, providing them with clean, healthful sport and entertainment, and winning is secondary. That the national legion is accomplishing much in its baseball project is evidenced beyond doubt in the support that is being received from every source, and the continued growth of the movement."

BLACK SPUDDERS LOSE TO FORT WORTH, 4-2

The Black Spudders opened their season Saturday at Athletic park with a 2 to 4 defeat at the hands of the Black Panthers from Fort Worth. After the Spudders had scored two runs in the first, the visitors registered three in a sixth-inning rally to win the decision.

The second game in the Texas-Oklahoma-Louisiana league will be played between the same two clubs at Athletic park Sunday afternoon, starting at 3:30 o'clock.

The score:

OKLAHOMA AGGIE FROSH GRID MENTOR RESIGNS

STILLWATER, Okla., May 4. (UP)—Vernon "Puny" Wahl, for the past four years freshman football, basket ball and baseball coach at Oklahoma A. & M. college will quit his post at the college this week, he announced Saturday. He will retire from coaching to enter the automobile business, he said.

Athletic Director E. C. Gallagher announced that a full time successor would probably not be secured until the coming football season.

UMEK WINS ANOTHER LAP IN CORN DERBY

MUSKOGEE, Okla., May 4. (AP)—Giusto Umek of Trieste, Italy, trotted in Saturday to win the longest lap of C. C. Pyle's bunion derby. Umek led the field into the control station here by more than an hour, covering the 73.4 miles from Chelsea, Okla., in 9:42:20.

Two Records With Feather Balls

By O. B. KEELER

All innovations are met by opposition, hither and yon. The proposed new standard golf ball, larger and lighter than the 1.62 ball under the present standard, is meeting furious opposition among the duffers, who imagine, with no very good reason, that it will curtail their range on the infrequent occasions when they manage to get the club and the ball in approximately correct contact.

The rubber-cored ball, which made its appearance about 1902, was opposed bitterly until Sandy Herd espoused it—and won his first and only British open championship with it. The gutta-percha itself was opposed, when it was first presented—in a crude, hand-marked form—in the days when Allan Robertson was king of the professional realm in Britain.

Allan Robertson was born in 1825 and died at the age of 34, in 1859, the greatest golfer of his day. He looks much older than he could have been, due to a fine fringe of whiskers, in the reproduction of an old lithograph I saw the other day in Golf Illustrated.

And he set two records, with the old feather ball, or "featherie," in use in his era. He was the first golfer to break 80 for 18 holes, which he did with a 79 in 1857. And he was never beaten in a set match.

Indeed, there is a third record to his credit, though not on the golf course. He was a maker of "featheries;" and as player and manufacturer he despised the "gutty" and never approved it. The "featherie" was made largely in Holland at that time, by a slow and laborious hand process. A leather cover was sewn up, all but one small opening, dampened, set in a frame with spherical hollow the size of the ball, and feathers—of all material!—packed in tightly with a mallet and a packing-tool, the sewing then being completed. As the cover dried it contracted somewhat, making a fairly hard and durable ball, unless it got wet, when it went lopsided and began to sprout feathers.

And old Allan Robertson in a single year turned out by himself 2,456 "featheries!" That, I think, ought to be a third record.

Qualifying Rounds Scheduled Monday For British Open

American Players Show Real Class in Final Practice

MUIR FIELD, Scotland, May 4. (UP)—With memory of the recent Ryder cup defeat still rankling, 22 American golfers went through their final tuneup rounds at Muir field and Gullane Saturday, determined to make a better showing in the British open championship, which starts Monday.

A field of 242 professionals and amateurs will play the first qualifying round Monday and the second on Tuesday, alternating between the championship course here and the municipal links of Gullane.

By nightfall Tuesday, the field will have been reduced to 100 golfers who have qualified for the 72-hole medal play for the title now held by Walter Hagen.

British confidence of regaining the open championship, which was virtually non-existent before the Ryder cup matches, now runs high, with George Duncan, Archie Compston and several other leading home breds counted upon to break the American string of five successive victories.

Hagen Feared

Walter Hagen, thrice winner of the British open and defending champion, is the most feared of the Americans. Leo Diegel is another whose chances are regarded highly, while some fancy Young Horton Smith, the Joplin, Mo., pro, whose victory over Fred Robson in the Ryder cup singles, was one of the few bright spots from an American viewpoint.

Of the American amateurs, George Von Elm has been doing well in practice, while among the professionals who were not included on the Ryder cup team, Bobby Cruickshank and Tommy Armour, native Scots, are rated highly.

Final practice rounds indicated Saturday that the championship of 1929 probably will be decided upon the greens, which continue tricky and treacherous.

Smith Shoots 70

Saturday afternoon Horton Smith and Jose Jurado, the diminutive Argentine star, beat "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn and Gene Sarazen, 2 and 1.

The opponents were about equal off the tee, but Smith's putting proved a deciding factor. He was very steady, and shot 70 on the championship course.

"I'm afraid that's a good round wasted," remarked the youthful Missouri pro. "I may need that one next week."

Jurado, who led in last year's open for two rounds, had 41-35—76, being still uncertain in his putting.

It is believed that the winning score in the coming championship will be about 300.

Americans Profit

EDINBURGH, Scotland, May 4. (INS)—Bobby Cruickshank and Tommy Armour, American golfers who will compete in the British open championship tournament at Muir field on Monday, took the British players, Henry Cotton and Charles Whitcombe, for a beating Saturday in a practice foursome of 36 holes.

The Americans, with $2,500 in side bets on the game, won by four up and three to play.

GRAGADOUR REMAINS FAVORITE FOR DERBY

LONDON, May 4. (UP)—Lord Astor's Cragadour, despite his defeat by Maj. Dermont McCalmont's Mister Jinks in the two thousand guineas at Newmarket, still reigned favorite for the Derby Saturday at the odds of 6 to 1.

Mister Jinks, who nosed him out in the guineas, was on the board at 100 to 12.

Six-Mile Record

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—Harry Chauca, a brown-skinned Sherman Indian, established a new world's record in the six-mile run at the annual Southern Pacific A. A. U. championship track and field meet at the coliseum Saturday afternoon. Chauca running like a machine, lapped his field and won as he pleased in the time of 29 minutes, 44 seconds.

Varner and Hall, Dundee and Scott In Fight Features

Electra Youngster Gets Real Test Against Eastern Vet

Two ten-round bouts, featuring Walter Varner and Cyclone Hall in one and Midget Mike Dundee and Howard Scott in the other, are slated for Wednesday night at the Palace theater. It was announced Saturday by Promoter Alec B. Ross.

Though the Varner-Hall match is scheduled as the final, Wichita Falls fisticuffs followers probably will be more interested in the first of the feature bouts. Dundee is a veteran eastern scrapper who has tangled with the best bantamweights in the profession, and Scott, a popular favorite hereabouts returns to the ring after several weeks absence because of an injury.

Varner, the Baird middleweight, has been idle for two weeks because of failure of his opponents to appear, but the reliable Hall will be on deck this week, and fans are assured of seeing Varner in action this time.

Golf Entries Remain Open Through Sunday

Tommy Cochran Shoots 78 on Weeks Park Links to Lead Early Qualifyers in Appreciation Week Event

Time for qualifying in the appreciation week golf tournament sponsored by the junior chamber of commerce has been extended through Sunday, it was announced Saturday by the tournament committee. Original plans called for closing the entries Friday, but in order to get in another week-end for qualifying, the time has been extended. The 18-hole preliminary round may be played any time Sunday at the Weeks park course, with match play getting under way as soon as possible thereafter.

The tourney is open to all residents of Wichita Falls and the only requirement is payment of $1 entry fee. This fee also cares for greens fees for players not members of the Weeks Park Golf club.

Tommy Cochran, Wichita Falls Golf and Country club star, and former Texas amateur champion, registered the low medal score for qualifying play up to Saturday. His 78 is believed likely to win medal honors.

Three flights of 16 players each are to qualify, if there are sufficient entries, and the extension of the time through this week-end is expected to add sufficient entries to make three flights possible.

Entries may be made with Professional Phil Hesler at the course or with Ted Woolridge or J. L. Randel. The competition is a handicap affair.

Blackwell Cup Races

DERBY, Conn., May 4. (AP)—Undefeated for six years in a Blackwell cup regatta, the sweep swingers of Yale Saturday face their sternest opening test in recent years from the pupils of Dick Glendon at Columbia and Coach Rusty Callow's oarsmen from Pennsylvania. When the varsity crews are sent away on a two-mile pull up the Housatonic river late Saturday afternoon the New York entry will be a slight favorite.

HENDRICKS COMES BACK AT EXPERTS WHO REFER TO TOSSERS AS "VETS"

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—Jack Hendricks, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, has two grievances against the so-called "experts" in baseball. He objects to his pitchers being referred to as "veterans" and wishes to file a minority report to the classification of the Red Legs as a "second division club."

"If you experts who have picked my team for the second division don't know any more about that than you do about the age of my pitchers, I have nothing to worry about," said Jolly Jack.

"There are only two pitchers on the staff who are 30 years old," he continued. "Eppa Rixey and Adolf Luque are the alleged 'veterans.'

"Why almost every club in the two major leagues has older pitchers than we. Look at the Pirates and the Cards. I don't hear anything about their veteran pitching staffs nor second division clubs either.

"Pete Donohue? Why he's a mere youngster, won't be 29 until November. Red Lucas was 27 just the other day. Why, my son is older than either.

"As for that second division stuff. Understand that I am making no claims for a pennant, but we have a good ball club and should finish in the first division."

GRANDFIELD, Okla., May 4.—Grandfield High school spring football practice is well under way at this time, under the coaching of Harry Chambers and Assitant Coach Barney Hendrickson.

SECOND SESSION OF LEGISLATURE ALMOST CERTAIN

AUSTIN, May 4. (AP)—Belief seems to be general that this legislature is about at the end of the row. Even Governor Moody's most optimistic friends have little hope, now that t..o weeks have passed with the symptoms unmistakably indicating that the membership is still in the mood that characterized it during the regular session.

Governor Moody, himself, although he will not admit it publicly, is said to have decided that the legislature is in the humor only of passsing the appropriation bills and going home. In fact, it is rumored that he may decide to submit appropriations this week and let it go at that. Even though he should submit them there is some doubt if the bills would be ready.

Senator Pollard, chairman of the senate finance committee, said his side of the legislature could pass the money bills in four days. However, the greatest time is likely to be consumed in free conference since indications are the house and senate will be far apart on the educational, department and eleemosynary bills.

Also, the gasoline tax and automobile registration fee bills are yet to be disposed of, all of which would indicate that irrespective of anyone's keen desire to see the state's imperative business attended to within the constitutional 30 days of a special session, a second session seems unavoidable.

Yet, surprises sometimes come thick and fast in the legislature as proved by action of the house with but two dissenting votes a penitentiary concentration bill after it seemed there would be a three-way split over where the centralized plant is built.

WEST ROADS MEET REDUCTION OF EAST GRAIN EXPORT RATES

WASHINGTON, May 4. (AP)—Voluntary reduction in grain export rates, announced by eastern railroads at the suggestion of the federal administration Friday, will be followed by like reductions in the same rates by western railroads and will be extended to wheat flour, it was indicated today after conferences of members of the interstate commerce commission with traffic vice presidents of several western trunk lines and representatives of the Hoover administration.

Conrad E. Spens, vice president of the Burlington system and chairman of the railroad committee, announced at the termination of the meeting that he had summoned representatives of all western lines to meet in Chicago Tuesday to act on the request for export grain rate reductions made by the administration.

"The reductions, if made," he said, "will apply on grain moving to St. Louis and Chicago from all western territory, and will at least equal the cut announced by the eastern lines on export grain movement east of Chicago and St. Louis." "Also, if reduction are granted by the western roads they will apply to wheat flour as well as wheat."

First Skirmish In Ma Kennedy's Suit Wednesday

SEATTLE, Wash., May 4. (UP)—The opening encounter in the suit of the Rev. H. H. Clark against Mrs. Minnie "Ma" Kennedy, in which the middle-aged pastor seeks $50,000 heart balm, will be staged Wednesday, when motions of his attorneys to strike part of Mrs. Kennedy's answer will be argued.

The motion and a demurrer were filed in court late today.

The pastor, through his attorneys, hit particularly at Mrs. Kennedy's claims that his suit was part of a blackmail and extortion attempt, and described them as immaterial and frivolous, "apparently set out for the purpose of encouraging sympathy through publication in newspapers."

Air Mail Pilot Injured

CHEYENNE, Wyo., May 4. (UP)—Frank Yaeger, air mail pilot, was injured seriously here late today when the plane he was flying crashed to the ground in a tail spin. Yaeger was testing the plane and when it went into the spin he was unable to right it. He fell 4,000 feet. Physicians said he probably would recover.

Sleeveless Blouses Diversify Costumes

Right—Chiffon blouse costume for evening.

Fashions offer much this season in the way of variation, diversity and a studied completeness. A strongly influencing factor in this respect is the jacket idea, far from new but one with constant new developments. An outgrowth of this is the blouse, now incorporated in every type of costume.

Scarcely a special sort of dress, whether for sports, general day wear or evening, but is rounded out with a jacket of some description. After this the blouse follows naturally all the way from the prim type of tailored mien to the frilly, ultra-feminine kind in soft, sheer stuffs.

All of which is no trifling matter in regard to the normal waistline, toward which couturiers seem steadily to be working and which clearly is in evidence in the three widely differing costumes pictured.

Sponsored by one of the avenue shops is the charming sports suit of navy blue woolen, its tucked-in blouse of tailored precision in a conservatively striped flannel.

Elaborating on this theme is the second costume of ensemble aspect. This of the so-smart navy blue pin dot silk has a blouse, without sleeves, of white silk ornamented with rows of navy blue dots embroidered on the silk, and a flaring jabot collar.

Both the blouse and sleeveless vogue as well as jacket are high points in the evening ensemble shown, its blouse, portion of still more formal line in a draped flesh chiffon which blends with the colors of the printed chiffon making the jacket and trailing skirt.

ANNOUNCE PLAN CONTINENTAL AND MARLAND MERGER

NEW YORK, May 4. (UP)—Formal announcement of a plan to merge the Marland Oil company and the Continental Oil company was made today in a letter D. J. Moran, president of the Marland Oil company sent to its stockholders.

The letter stated that Marland and Continental have entered into a plan of reorganization, subject to approval of stockholders, whereby the former will acquire all the assets and properties of Continental and will issue in exchange 2,317,266 shares of Marland stock.

Upon the approval of the merger, the name of the Marland Oil company will be changed to Continental Oil company and provision will be made for representation in the management and on the board of directors of interests now represented by stockholders of Continental Oil.

A special meeting of stockholders of the Marland Oil company will be called soon to vote on the reorganization and to vote an increase in outstanding stock.

REPORTS CURRENT ATTEMPT IS MADE TO MURDER CALLES

NOGALES, Ariz., May 4. (U.P.)—Reports were current here tonight that an attempt to assassinate General Elias Plutarco Calles was made during a reception given the commander-in-chief at Hermosillo, capitol of Sonora, Friday night.

According to the reports, the attempt on Calles life was made by the son of the late Rafael Izabal, governor of Sonora, who embraced the general holding an open knife in his hand.

General Rice, who participated in the battle with rebels at Mazatlan, is said to have seen the flash of the knife in time to disarm the youth.

It was said here that young Izabal was regarded as mentally unbalanced.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS BASTROP CO. HOLDUP

AUSTIN, Texas, May 4. (UP)—Mystery surrounds a reported payroll holdup at Calvin, Bastrop county, reported by telephone to the state rangers headquarters here.

According to the report, four men held up the office of a Lignite company and escaped with the payroll amounting to $7,000.

No report of a robbery had been made to the sheriff's office it was revealed when rangers called that official. Inquiry of the four Lignite companies operating in and about Calvin met the response they had not been robbed.

CUSTOMS INSPECTOR SEARCH U. S CRUISER

NEW YORK, May 4. (INS)—The U. S. cruiser Richmond, flagship of the scouting fleet, which arrived here Thursday, was searched by customs inspectors for liquor, it was learned today.

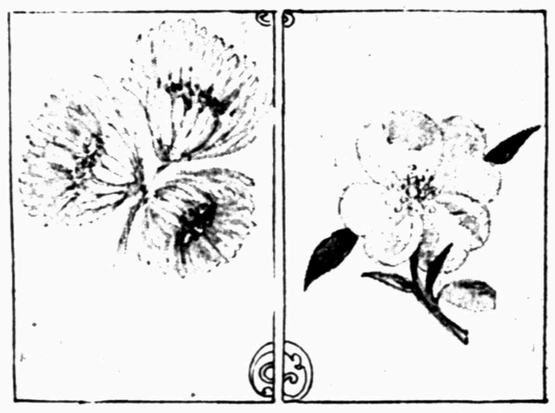

Ten inspectors made the search acting on an anonymous letter sent to prohibition officials.

Hotel Builder Dies

TULSA, Okla., May 4. (UP)—Alvin C. Johnson, 53, builder and owner of the Alvin hotel here, and formerly an insurance man, died early last night at a hospital here following a three weeks' illness. A heart attack was given as the cause of his death.

Flowers Give Color Note

Twin camellias of chintz in such lovely colors as pale rose, yellow and blue, with shiny, patent leather leaves, are very chic and springlike on the collar. Some of these are seen in two shades of one color, or in contrast such as yellow with brown or blue with pink.

For sports the tweed straw flower clusters are enticing. They come in various colors—black and white, brown and beige, blue and white, with bright solid colored centers.

Shredded cotton velvet marguerites are novel, and the morning glory cluster, one leaf of red felt with traceries in black and white, and the other with the color scheme reversed, is very new.

Whether one has chosen a coat or a dressmaker suit for spring, a cluster of bright yellow daffodils or one of narcissus will add a correct color accent. Whatever the boutonniere, the type of flower and the color is naturally influenced by the costume.

In passing, there is the brilliant black posy of patent leather posed with a blossom of white felt, to carry out the modish black and white note. Stunning with the black coat trimmed in shiny black furs is the small cluster of three Jacqueminot roses set among brilliant green leaves.

Wichita Falls and Iowa Park in List of Winners at Austin Meet In Boys' and Girls' Declamations

AUSTIN, May 4. (AP)—Frank Knapp and Jesse Villareal of Brackenridge High school, San Antonio, defeated Morris Glass and Benno Schmidt of Abilene in the boys' debate finals of the annual interscholastic league meet here today.

The "Huizache" staff of Main Avenue, San Antonio, and the "Times" staff of Brackenridge, San Antonio, tied for first in the school journalism contests. In the individual competition, Jack McLellan, Brackenridge, was first; Betty Wendover, Main Avenue, second, and J. J. Deiss, Amarillo, and Mary McKenzie, Abilene, tied for third.

Majorie Norrell of Main avenue was elected president of the Interscholastic League Press conference for next year. Hollis Schriber of Amarillo was chosen vice president, and Loomis Nolen of Abilene, secretary.

Results of the speaking contests follow:

Girls' declamation, Beatrice Young, Temple, first; Ruth Stegall, Beaumont, second; Joleita Cherry, Iowa Park, third. Extemporaneous speaking, J. J. Deiss, Amarillo, first; Albert Beisel, Brackenridge, San Antonio, second; Iladene Madeley, Temple, third. Boys' declamation, Lury Nesbitt, Mineral Wells, first; Lyle Lenman, Mission, second; Louis Bond, Wichita Falls, third.

Central high of Fort Worth won the one-act play tournament. The all-star cast selected after the tournament consisted of Albert McCleary and Margery Lake Clevenger, Fort Worth; Jack Cantrell and Marjorie Wimberly, Tulia, Margaret Maguire, San Jacinto, Houston, and Neal Craig, Brackenridge, San Antonio.

JURY FAILS TO AGREE FIGHTING BOB'S TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, May 4. (UP)—Indications that the second trial of Rev. R. P. "Fighting Bob" Schuler on charges of criminal libel of the fourth degree Knights of Columbus mights result in a hung jury were seen tonight when the jury was announced as disagreeing, eight to four.

The report was made to Municipal Judge James Pope by Gordon Barratt, foreman, when the eight men and four women were called into court after deliberating since shortly before noon. After announcing the stand of the jury, Barratt said there "was little likelihood a verdict can be reached."

ROSE DEVILO TO TRY FOR ENDURANCE RECORD

DETROIT, April 4. (AP)—A 98-pound mother, who before her marriage two years ago was an aerial trouper, a carnival stunt performer, will attempt here tomorrow to surpass the endurance flight record for women, established recently by Miss Elinor Smith, 17, of Freeport, N. Y.

Mrs. "Pep" Malone, known professionally as Rose Devlin, will use a 125-horsepower open cockpit plane.

Mrs. Malone met her husband by stepping from a speeding car at Daytona Beach in 1926 to a rope ladder attached to a plane overhead. Malone was the pilot. They have a 7 months' old daughter, Margaret, who already has flown with her air-minded parents from Buffalo to Havana and back. Mrs. Malone is 21 years old.

The record established by Miss Smith is 26 hours, 21 minutes, 32 seconds.

FUNERAL OF "TAD" HELD IN NEW YORK ON SATURDAY

NEW YORK, May 4. (UP)—The funeral of "Tad," as T. A. Dorgan, day from the Dorgan home on cartoonist, was known, was held to-Long Island. About 40 close friends attended the private services. They included Jack Johnson, former heavyweight champion; "Philadelphia" Jack O'Brien, fighter; Jack Doyle, head of the National Billiard association; Gene Buck, song writer, and former associates in the newspaper profession.

In the procession to the cemetery "Duck" and "Spensi," two Chinese boys the Dorgans had adopted several years ago, rode with the mourners.

DECATUR INDIANS WIN IN NINTH TO REGAIN TOP PLACE

DECATUR, Texas, May 4.—The Decatur Baptist College Indians regained their usual position at the top of the heap in the western district of the Texas Junior College conference here today by nosing the Weatherford College Coyotes out in the ninth inning to take the game 13 to 12. Spicey Fulps, Baptist hurler, twirled great relief ball to get credit for his third win over the Coyotes in five days. Besides his pitching act, he collected a home run, double, and single, out of four trips and scored the winning run.

Captain Boley showed the way in the Indian attack by driving in the winning run and collecting a home run, double, and two singles out of four trips. Pace and Peden homered for the visitors.

Score:

Decatur	1	0	3	3	0	0	2	0

DENVER WILL ASK PERMIT TO BUILD LINE INTO PAMPA

CHILDRESS, Texas, May 4. (AP)—The Childress chamber of commerce tonight made public a telegram from W. E. Williamson, president of the Burlington lines, saying that the Burlington was preparing to ask the interstate commerce commission for a writ of public necessity for construction of a railroad line from Childress northward through Wellington and Shamrock to Pampa.

J. H. Barwise, special attorney for the system, was to arrive in Fort Worth Monday or Tuesday in the interest of the proposed line, a message to A. J. Fires here said.

THREE PERSONS INJURED IN AN AIRPLANE CRASH

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 4. (UP)—Three persons were seriously injured in an airplane crash at Braniff airfield here at 4:30 p. m. according to attendants at the field. They were rushed to a hospital where the extent of their injuries had not been determined at this early hour.

The injured were: Dick Bodine, pilot of Oklahoma City, and Arthur G. Head, 33, Oklahoma City insurance man. The third victim had not been identified.

Attendants at the airfield said that Bodine was flying at a low altitude and made a sudden rise. Then he crashed. He was flying a Steerman plane belonging to the Ramsey Petroleum company.

Physicians at Wesley hospital where Bodine and Head were taken, reported that the condition of the men was critical, both suffering fractures of the skull and internal injuries. Miss Emma Bodurtha, 26, was at the City General hospital also in a critical condition.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH OF WOMAN IS INVESTIGATED

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., May 4. (UP)—The mysterious death of Miss Helen Quinn, less than 24 hours after she had filed a $50,000 breach of promise suit, was under investigation tonight. Indications were that she had been poisoned.

Miss Quinn sued Robert F. Miller, member of the St. Clair county board of supervisors, charging he had married another woman while still engaged to her.

Search of Miss Quinn's room, after her death, revealed an empty glass, but no traces of poison, according to John Quinn, a brother. An autopsy was ordered by the coroner.

Miss Quinn returned home last night from work and went to bed early. She awakened members of her family early today, complaining that she felt ill. Before a physician arrived she died of hemorrhage.

ARCHIE ROOSEVELT ASKS TO SEE WRONG HOOVER

WASHINGTON, May 4. (US)—Archie Roosevelt, son of the famous "Teddy," came to his old home today and asked for the wrong Hoover.

He announced himself at the White House door and said that he wished to see Mr. Hoover, with whom he had an engagement. He was about to be ushered into the presence of the president when he protested that his appointment was with "Ike" Hoover, major domo of the White House.

Archie explained that he wished to have his wife and two children shown through the White House. Ike, who came into the White House in the Roosevelt administration, personally showed them through.

WANTS TO EXTEND INQUIRY INTO "FREEDOM OF PORT"

WASHINGTON, May 4. (UP)—Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Loman was asked today by Senator Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, to extend the scope of his inquiry into "freedom of the port" privileges to include extension of "courtesy of the port."

Vandenberg, in a letter to Loman, commended his investigation of the "freedom of the port" situation, which he declared, "invites abuse" reflects "special privileges" which are at war with "American principles."

The extension of "freedom of the port" privileges has become a matter of public interest as a result of charges against congressmen of importing liquor under its immunities.

To Continue Proration

AUSTIN, Texas, May 4. (UP)—Continuance of the present oil proration of 150,000 barrels a day in Winkler county and retention of present rules for another six months, was determined upon today following completion of a hearing on the proposal by the railroad commission. The rules would have expired Sunday without extension.

DAWSON COUNTY PASTOR GOES TO TRIAL MONDAY ON CHARGE OF MURDER

WITHHELD ETHER AWAITING CHECK

NEWTON, Kan., May 4. (UP)—Although he was severely injured in an automobile accident, Otto Koerner claimed today doctors and nurses delayed placing him under an anesthetic until he wrote and delivered a check to pay for the gravestone of his wife, killed in a motor accident two months ago.

Child Sees Parents Die

INDIANAPOLIS, May 4. (UP)—In the presence of his three-year-old daughter, George Sluder, 32, shot and killed his wife and then committed suicide.

LAMESA, Texas, May 4. (AP)—The Rev. W. E. Duke, circuit pastor, will go to trial here monday for the slaying of J. A. Cox, filling station operator, in the Klondyke community near here in March. State and defense have announced ready.

Cox was killed with a shotgun in front of a general store operated by the Rev. Duke at Klondyke. The pastor surrendered, waived examining trial and declined to make a statement. He and Mrs. Duke were said to have been the only witnesses to the slaying.

The impending trial has attracted wide attention in this section as both Cox and the pastor were widely known. The Rev. Duke formerly was pastor of a church here before assuming the pastorate of several rural churches near Klondyke.

MORE THAN 250 HEAR OKLAHOMA HUMORIST AT ANNUAL BANQUET LOCAL TEACHERS ASSOCIATION

"Education does not make a fool out of any one; it sometimes shows one up!" Such was the general theme of Josh Lee, noted convention speaker and head of the public speaking department of the University of Oklahoma, in another of his inimitable presentations before the grand annual banquet of the Wichita Falls Teachers association at the Wichita club Saturday night. Two hundred fifty city teachers and guests were gathered to enjoy the outstanding social event in the history of the local teachers association.

Lee, who was the principal feature of the evening, kept the audience entertained for nearly an hour with his rapid fire of humor, philosophy, and banter so well known to Wichitans who have heard him at the chamber of commerce banquets. He took many clever stabs at the value of college education as compared with other interests, saying that "some think that college bred is four years loaf; it's mainly no dough and lots of crust."

Preceding the main event a series of clever toasts and responses kept the audience in a constant stream of humorous sallies. S. H. Rider, dean of the junior college, was toastmaster. A toast to former board members, given by Principal W. E. Walker was responded to by Carter McGregor, speaking for Judge W. B. Chauncey who was out of town. A toast to present board members, spoken by Registrar A. K. Presson, was not responded to as the present chairman of the board, C. H. Clark, was unable to attend. A toast to the only woman member of the board, given by Roy Daniel, was ably responded to by Mrs. W. W. Silk. The final toast, to vacationers, given by Dr. J. W. Cantwell, was responded to by Miss Bennie Works.

Music was furnished by the high school orchestra, directed by Leo M. Underwood, with Sheerilldean Smith giving special xylophone solos. Games of bridge and forty-two followed the main program.

Home U. Y. Crain Wrecked by Fire Saturday Night

The home of U. Y. Crain, 1309 Bluff street, was wrecked by flames which broke out about 10 o'clock Saturday night. Damage was estimated at $5,000. There was no one home at the time.

The blaze had gained considerable headway and the entire rear end of the house was in flames when firemen reached the spot.

Rehearing Plea Filed

AUSTIN, Texas, May 4. (INS)—Obbie Davis Jr., sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary for the slaying of Chapman Jarrell in Panola county on Sept. 19, 1928, filed a motion for rehearing today in the court of criminal appeals. The case was tried in Harrison county on a change of venue.

Fire Murder Suspected

SMITHVILLE, Tenn., May 4. (UP)—The partially burned body of Mrs. Calnie Smith, 77-year-old widow was found in her home here today with the head and shoulder thrust into a fireplace. Police said she had been murdered and the killer had evidently tried to destroy the evidence of his crime.

COURT TO ENFORCE MANDATE SINCLAIR MUST SERVE TERM

WASHINGTON, May 4. (AP)—The supreme court today formally directed the District of Columbia supreme court to enforce the three months' jail sentence on Harry F. Sinclair for his refusal to answer questions asked by the senate oil investigating committee.

The order of the supreme court, placed in the mail late today will reach Frank E. Cunningham, clerk of the District of Columbia supreme court Monday. It is the last judicial step in the commitment of the oil man to prison except the actual imposition of the sentence by Justice William Hitz, trial judge.

Whether the district supreme court on Monday will order the enforcement of the sentence and set the time for Sinclair to begin his jail term was not determined today by that court's officials. Several farmalities will be necessary before the commitment order can be promulgated.

PASSENGERS OF STEAMER SAFE

Spend Two Hectic Nights In Raging Waves of Storm

CLEVELAND, May 4. (UP)—After two hectic nights in a disabled ship tossed and buffeted by the raging waves of stormy Lake Erie, passengers of the steamer City of Buffalo tonight were safe on land, after being taken off the disabled liner by her sister ship, City of Erie, and brought to Cleveland.

Wives, sweethearts and relatives waited at the pier to greet the 25 weary passengers, many of whom were seasick as the result of two nights and one day on the rough lake. When the boat docked a joyous shout went up from passengers and greeters.

Mrs. Lucille Thompson of Buffalo, N. Y., had to be helped across the gangplank to the docks. Nervousness from the long ordeal had completely exhausted her. In company with her 4-year-old son, Jack, she was en route to Cleveland to visit her husband, Clifford H. Thompson, an automobile salesman.

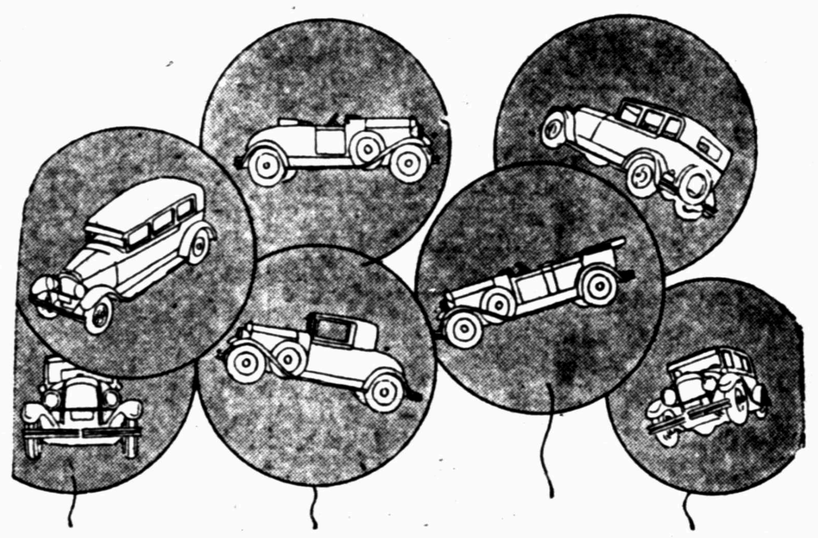

Other passengers stepped gayly down the gangplank. Many of them enjoyed the experience on the lake. All expressed deep appreciation for the freighters Calcite, Frans and Bilkey, who stood by to give aid.

With the rescue of the passengers, tugs made fast to the City of Buffalo and towed her into harbor at Ashtabula, Ohio.

The Kind of Girl That Men Prefer

LINDY'S Sweetheart, John Coolidge's Fiancee, Gene Tunney's Bride—Unbobbed, Unaffected, Home-Loving and Literary—Examples of the Glorified Old-Fashioned Girl That World's Prize Bachelors Choose in Preference to Now Nearly Obsolete Flapper Brand of Femininity

America's premier sweethearts, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and Anne Morrow, again prove that the feminine virtues most cherished by man remain unchanged through the ages

By Kathleen Read Coontz

NOWADAYS flappers are asking themselves if there is not something after all, in this old-fashioned femininity. That is, old-fashioned from the viewpoint of flapperdom—unbobbed, unaffected, homeloving and inclined toward the literary.

At least, this type of girl must have a "line" highly capable of landing big catches. They argue, for haven't the three most eligible bachelors in the country been attracted by this sort of girl? First it was Gene, then it was John, and now it is Lindy! And in each instance their choice has been a glorification of the "old-fashioned" girl.

Two years ago if an invisible auctioneer of the matrimonial market had been asked by Cupid fans to "trot out the three bachelors in whose marriages we are most concerned" he would have straightway introduced Charles Lindbergh Gene Tunney and John Coolidge—the first the national "idol," the second a splendid king of sportdom and the third the son of the then President of the United States, and all three young men of pronounced sensibilities and laudable bearing projected against backgrounds of national interest.

WHAT type of girl did he choose, this "Gentleman Gene," who preferred solitary walks and hours of meditation to the "whoopee" of clubrooms, who numbered not on his literary shelves those "only books that are woman's looks"; who could wear his opponent down in the ring in such a "mean" fashion and could a few hours afterward be found discussing Shakespeare with his trainer? Many and varied were the reports that went out about this strange mixture of prizefighter and student. He was contemplating a life of celibacy, etc. His fan mail from women was said to be enormous. "Any girl that gets Gene will have to lasso him," no other than the late Tex Rickard once said. Yet it was not long before he fell a victim to the type of girl who never has to resort to a lasso. Josephine Lauder was enthusiastic about sports and talked sports with Gene, but it was not sports but their mutual interest in books that was said to be the strongest tie. "Old-fashioned charms send Gene down for longer than seven counts," was the caption of one of the newspapers in recounting the engagement.

John Coolidge ran true to form to his New England training and backturned away and murmured to her friend: "Well, it does my heart good to see a girl not covered up in warpaint! Young Coolidge is bound to be happy—they say she knows how to cook!"

The announcement of Colonel Lindbergh's engagement to Miss Anne Morrow—St. Valentine seemed to have a finger in the pie—brought satisfaction to John Coolidge in that he saw a chance for his own love affair to recede a little into the background. The three "eligibles" have all been alike in their aversion to the publicity given their engagements and marriages. Which goes to prove they are not actors and have no axes to grind, as Will Rogers says. While Lindy's engagement brought satisfaction to John as a "smoke-screen," it also brought a thrill to the entire world. The world sighed because the many were to lose Lindy to the one, and it smiled because once again that type of woman which belongs to no age or time had triumphed.

"Lindy chooses a model for American womanhood"—so ran news and editorial columns gleaned from a knowledge of the fiancee from friends.

"You've never disappointed us yet, Lindy, and you haven't now. In the announcement of your engagement, we, the old-fashioned folks on the back seats of life, who have looked on at the passing show of femininity for going on fifty years, are applauding you today. A young head, yes, but on old shoulders!

"Perhaps you knew that you could make that momentous flight across the ocean best with just yourself for company and guidance, but in that longer and more intricate flight called life you have realized that you could fly swifter, stronger and surer with the right mate by your side—one who will fly with you into the clouds, but one who will yet hold you to earth by the strength of womanly virtues beloved by every one.

"She must be the right one, boy, for they say she doesn't drink nor smoke, wears her crowning glory unabbreviated, finds content in home, friends and books.

"Colonel, again we salute you!"

The applause from the press came from far and wide.

"We are relieved that Mrs. Lindy is the type to be at home long enough to hand

A king of sports and his bride—Mr. and Mrs. Gene Tunney, whose marriage was another example of an outstanding bachelor selecting as his mate an "old-fashioned girl" with literary tastes ground when he chose Florence Trumbull, but, as the son of the President, John had an opportunity for varied selection in Washington's exclusive society, and it would not have been surprising had he chosen a very different type of girl. When Florence Trumbull visited the White House at the time of the general convention of the D. A. R. society last spring and served as one of the pages of the president, Mrs. Brousseu, a thousand opera glasses were focused upon her. One old lady noted in the annals of this patriotic organization gave a satisfied sigh as she her husband his parachute when he hops off," comments an Ohio journal.

"Lucky Lindy! She shines and shines brightest at home, which looks encouraging for the domestic hangar," flits a paper from far Japan.

While the women are busy sighing "Lucky Anne," the men are joining in the "Lucky Lindy" chorus. It looks very much as though, as the flappers say, there must be something to this "old-fashioned type." At least for want of a better name, this seems to be a type that gentlemen prefer, and it has nothing to do with blond or brunette beauty. Poets seem to have been particularly insistent about it for lo, these many years.

MILTON referred to the type men preferred when he wrote "Love, sweetness and goodness in her presence shone." Wadsworth stopped to sing of "Womanliness—ah, what is it? Inward, not outward, beauty. Paired with simplicity, it walks along bearing the key to Paradise." Shakespeare has one of his characters in "Taming of the Shrew" say, "Kindness, not woman's beauteous looks, shall win my heart." Byron dreamed of one who "walked in beauty," and "the light of love, the purity of grace, the mind, the music breathing from her face." And Carlyle in "Frederick the Great": "Her life was busy and earnest; she was helpmate, not in name only, to an ever-busy man."

But it was left to Victor Hugo to leave this matchless picture of the "ideal woman" in his immortal "Les Miserables":

"Every graceful and generous quality of womanhood was harmoniously blended in her nature. All her face, all her person breathed an ineffable love and kindness lightened by a swift and beautiful intelligence. Her entire person was simplicity, ingenuousness, whiteness, candor and radiance. She produced a sensation of April with the tender wisdom of October * * * she walked with a light and free step, so little suggestive of the burden of life, quite as though there was some lovely goal toward which her steps were bent * * * hers was the kind of beauty not of the face, but that which confers a benefit upon the onlooker. To behold her is to live * * * her presence lighted up the home; her approach produced a happy warmth; she passed and many were content—she stayed awhile and they were happy.

"The glance of such a woman resembles certain wheels which are apparently gentle but formidable. * * * You come, you go, you dream, you speak, you laugh, and all in a minute you feel yourself caught * * * and held * * *"

It might be a difficult thing to try to collect the virtues embodied in this type and put them down in black and white. At least her virtues don't seem to have anything to do with the blondness or the darkness of her hair, whether she is grave or gay, short or tall; but men seem to recognize her when they meet her. At least three men gathered around the fire at the Congressional Club in Washington had recognized it in Anne Morrow as they commented upon her engagement to Colonel Lindbergh.

"LINDBERGH is only running true to form in the type of women most celebrities choose," commented the student. "Kings and Princes are in the habit of selecting, and having selected for them, wives with a view to the exalted position they are to occupy, but I have noticed that there seems to be a certain type that appeals in a greater or less degree to the 'Man of the Day.' Read the current biographies that are going the rounds and you will find that in nine cases out of ten the women who have walked side by side with the celebrities have been very much on the same order. It doesn't seem to have to do with disposition, but rather with her fundamental womanliness."

"What of it?" said the man-about-town. "Of course Lindy would choose that type of girl; we all do when we are in our right minds. Mankind may have asked a modification of many other things, but he has never cared for a modification of his womankind. Why should celebrities be any different from the rest of us? There are certain qualities in women that men love and revere and will continue to as long as there is a man and a woman left—virtues that are not affected by the age in which we live. Her ideas and her style may undergo a change, but these never—not in this type of girl. Believe me, some girls may become old maids because they had no admirers, but many more become so because they had too many."

Then up spoke the psychologist:

"My class asked me this morning if there was such a thing as 'a type of woman men preferred,' and I answered, 'There is—in wives, undoubtedly, and as that type is getting rarer the demand is getting stronger.' Psychologists object to the word 'type,' but certain women have what might be termed the 'woman complex,' which doesn't mean a complex for women, necessarily, nor yet a complex for men. It just means that she looks at life through distinctly feminine eyes and that her actions are prompted by a feminine heart. It doesn't make any difference whether she has lived in the hoopskirt age or the sheath-skirt age, the fundamental qualities of womankind are pronounced in her cosmos. These women are undoubtedly the world's most superb wives and mothers."

NOW that we have placed, or rather that they have placed themselves—the three choices of these famous bachelors—in this envied class, it is interesting to note that quite apart from their similarity in type, they emerge from a very similar background. All were born into homes of wealth and position—which has spoiled many—and with every opportunity to be brilliant society women. None of the girls, however, was what might be termed the society type.

Anne Morrow, the fiancee of Lindy, is a gifted young poet with a number of lovely verses to her credit. Already the world knows that Anne loves wings as much as does her aviator, and that she has stood as often with her young head in the clouds. Her poems are full of such lines as, "The fluttering of wings in silver flight"; or, "And sometimes standing in a crowd, my lips are cool against a cloud," and the last lines of "Unicorn" might be almost literally translated in the light of the aerial courtship which came months later:

And I shall kneel each morning
To polish bright his hoofs,
That they may gleam each moonlight
As we ride over the roofs.

However, it is not in Anne Morrow as a poet or in Anne as an aviator that those interested in the all-absorbing question of the analysis of selection are interested. Just how human is the girl who has captured the heart of the "American idol" comes to us when we read a paragraph from her story, "Lida Was Beautiful," which won for the author the Mary Augusta Jordan Prize while she was at Smith College. Jane, the heroine, envied her cousin Lida her scintillating beauty, but life was sweet to Jane because she was attuned to the beauty in little things of everyday living.

"Upstairs dressing, Jane was happy. She could not remember why. It was just that the fog was coming in, shutting out all the world except the black boughs at her window, and shutting her in in this warm, numbing atmosphere. It was not just the room where her lamp was smoking comfortably on her dresser, making a halo on the ceiling. It was not just the pleasurable and customary sounds of that hour before dinner; the crackle of paper as some one started a fire in the living room; the dull knock of plates being placed on the table; the click of a latch on the cupboard door and upstairs the running of water for a bath. Sometimes—this afternoon, for instance—she had minded hearing all the inside workings of a house as clearly as one might see the inside workings of a watch, the back lifted off, but now they shut her in and enveloped her in their comforting familiarity like an old wrapper."

And so Anne and Lindy pass out of the picture to "live happily ever afterward," for haven't we the word of the psychologist that Anne's type makes the superb wives of the world?

But—there, little girls, don't cry! Romance isn't all dead even if Lindy and John are spoken for and Gene is "took." And cheerio, bachelors all! In spite of the rather alarming statement of the psychologist about the rapidly disappearing species of woman designed to please men the most, the woods and even the sidewalks are still full of girls who win by winsomeness rather than worldliness and tact rather than tactics.

SEVERAL GOOD COMPLETIONS IN WICHITA AREA PAST WEEK

By JIMMIE MAXWELL

Completion of several unusually good wells in Jack, Wilbarger and Wichita counties due to the increased drilling programs inaugurated in these pools, the promise of further additions to the producing areas in Jack and Cooke counties, and the number and importance of new locations marked the progress of another week's development in the various fields in the Wichita Falls district.

While many good wells were brought in, the district's premier producer was furnished by the Bryson pool in Jack county, the Panhandle-Morrissey No. A-1 J. M. Daugherty, located in the north portion of the Isaac Hughson survey, flowing 27 barrels per day from the sand at 3090-96 feet.

In addition to the bringing in of the well, this means the additional proving up of a good scope of new land, the well being in wildcat territory one mile southwest of the original Liedecker-Loving producer, and northwest of the Harper producer one and a quarter miles.

In the same pool a number of other tests, both in the proven and wildcat sectors, are fast approaching the different pay depths and the next week may find many acres of what is now rank wildcat territory added to the ever expanding productive pools.

In the pool southwest of Iowa Park, the result of the week's drilling showed the completion of two good wells, with others due for completion by the first of the week. Among these the best was the Riner, Bailey & Omohundro No. 2 Mrs. Michie in the J. T. Lewis survey, swabbing at the rate of 650 barrels from the sand at 1770 to 1790 feet. In the same survey, Riner, Bailey & Cotton No. B-2, Mrs. Michie farm, is also swabbing 350 barrels from the same pay depth. Two other wells here which have encountered the sand in the past few days and which are swabbing are the King Royalty and Barkley-Meadows No. 3 Mrs. J. F. Boyd in the Lewis survey, and Heydrick-Stump's No. 2 Michie in the Lewis survey, both wells partly completed in the 1780-foot sand and showing for producers.

Wilbarger County

Development of Wilbarger county's oil resources during the week went ahead of the usual brisk manner. Some nice wells were brought in by the Staley-Wynne, the Easter Oil and on other productive areas of Rock Crossing and Greyback. New locations were staked out and a number of new wells were spudded in.

That the Wilbarger oil properties and production are still in demand was evidenced during the week when the Fain-McGaha corporation purchased from the W. T. Waggoner estate its half interest in a number of leases in the Greyback and Rock Crossing pools out of the Waggoner lands, comprising 800 acres, paying for them an approximate price of $2,000,000. The property acquired has 4,000 barrels of oil per day.

Northwest Cooke county continued to show plenty of activity, especially in the Bulcher pool and the surrounding territory, and as a result, one or two nice wells were finished. Promise of an extension to the Bulcher field of about six miles to the southeast was looked for by the showing of oil in a sand at 1261-64 feet in the Benson Brothers' No. 1 Hy Gibson, located in the Clubb survey, abstract 279. The well, which is a wildcat, is resetting the seat after losing it while bailing.

Speed Up in Archer

Archer county operations speeded up to a great extent over those of the previous week and a number of producers were brought in. Two of these were located on the A. D. Thompson land in section 20, A. T. N. C. L. survey, P. F. Gwynn and Archer Drilling company's No. 1, and the Archer Drilling company's No. 1 A. D. Thompson, both completed in the 1590-foot sand with an estimated output per day of 60 barrels each. North of Megargel in the southwest part of the county the Freeman-Grebin pool added another well by the bringing in of the Freeman-Grebin No. 4-A Hemmig in block 20, Meade pasture, swabbing 125 barrels from the sand at 1430 to 1440 feet.

Young, Clay and Montague counties, although doing considerable drilling, failed to bring forth anything of a sensational nature. In northeast Young, several pumpers were added from the shallow sands, but the deep tests in the south portion so far have not reached the interesting depths.

Pipeline runs from the district showed a gain of 653 barrels as compared with the previous week's runs, Wilbarger, Iowa Park, Cooke and Jack pools each registering gains. The daily output for the week was 95,723 barrels, the preceding seven days' total having been 95,070 barrels daily.

HEAVY TRADING IN OIL LEASES AT BIG SPRING

CONCERN IS FELT OVER AFFECT ON PRORATION

World Company's Producer Holds Limelight in Area

(Special to The Times)

BIG SPRING, Texas, May 4.—Unquestionably the most important discovery in either Howard or Glasscock counties since the Roberts and Settles pools were opened came early this week when oil filled the World Oil company's No. 1-C McDowell, northern Glasscock

> BIG SPRING, Texas, May 4.—As operators began testing the World Oil company's No. 1-C McDowell, discovery well of a new pool in northern Glasscock county, crude oil started flowing slightly from the three-inch tubing.
> Corrected gravity of the oil at the well this morning changed the rating from 26 to 27.3, according to men making the tests. A production gauge probably will not be available before Sunday morning.
>
> No. 1-C McDowell is 2310 feet west and 1650 feet south of the northeast corner of section 31, block 34, township 3 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, and is the discovery well of a new pool seven miles southeast of former production.

county wildcat, from pay topped at 2385 feet and penetrated to a total depth of 2398 feet.

No. 1-C McDowell is 1650 feet south and 2310 feet west of the northeast corner of section 21, block 34, township 2 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, and is fully seven miles, airline, southeast of nearest production in southern Howard county.

Of slightly less importance, but as closely watched, was the Plymouth Oil company's No. 2 Kloh, Rumsey, and Abrams, an offset to the Howard County Oil corporation's No. 1 Kloh, Rumsey and Abrams, a 1,400-barrel producer which had reached the pay late this week between 2236 feet and 2250 feet. At that depth the well was standing 1700 feet in crude oil.

No. 2 Kloh is located 990 feet south and 1650 feet west of the northwest corner of section 5, block 32, township 2 south, T. & P. Ry. Co., survey. One reason for the interest manifested in this test is the anxiety felt over the effect two or three wells producing from the same horizon will have on individual production.

Plymouth's No. 3 Kloh, Rumsey and Abrams, another offset to Howard County Oil corporation's producing well, was drilled below 2155 feet Friday and was expected to reach the pay lime soon. No. 3 Kloh and others' is located 1650 feet south and 990 feet east of the northwest corner of section 5, block 32, township 2 south, T. & P. Ry. Co., survey. No. 3 Kloh is located approximately 22 feet higher structurally than the company's well showing oil.

The first actual new development near the northern Glasscock county discovery well was announced by the Murchison Oil company which staked a location in the southeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 19, block 34, township 2 south, T. & P. Ry Co. survey. The company is understood to have paid $250 per acre for the 40-acre lease and to have included a drilling contract but the landowner retained one-sixteenth overriding royalty.

High Prices for Leases

Other deals in the area have ranged from $250 base for royalty within one-half mile of the well to $500 per acre for leases on acreage as far as two miles from the producer.

The anticipated increase to 55 or 60 per cent of potential production in Howard and Glasscock county deep pay areas failed to materialize, according to the new proration sheet order issued by E. E. Andrews, umpire.

As was the case last month, the deepest sand at 3000 feet rated the largest potential being 48,960 barrels as compared with 43,540 barrels from the same depth last month. The middle pay at 2800 feet showed another gain this month, increasing to 5,402 barrels over 5,099 barrels from the same horizon April 1. The shallow sand at 2200 feet gauged a total potential of 19,719 barrels as compared with 15,697 barrels daily from the same depth the preceding month.

Totaled, the potential from Howard and Glasscock county deep horizons registered 74,081 barrels, which is 9,745 barrels daily over the 64,336 barrels potential of April 1.

By allowing each company to produce their wells at 50 per cent potential, the three horizons in Howard county will develop 39,591 barrels daily. According to rules adopted by producing companies and accepted by the oil and gas division of the Texas railroad commission, the two counties are allowed to run 37,500 barrels daily. The allowable runs, according to May's proration order, will exceed the figure set as a maximum by both oil companies and state officials. However, many of the wells rating a high potential in an hour's test will fail to make their allowable production in a full 24-hour test. Furthermore, the natural depletion of wells will reduce the daily average production to a point below 37,500 barrels daily sufficient even to care for new production developed during the month, Mr. Andrews has found through seven months experience in this field.

Mid-Continent Oil Activities

MIDLAND, Texas, May 4.—Wells completed in the West Texas Permian basin this week numbered eight. Four of these completed were producers, three dry holes and one abandoned. The four oil wells completed produced 2221 barrels, a decrease from the preceding week of 41,200 barrels.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 4. (UP)—Activity in Oklahoma oil fields was sustained last week, according to first reports giving 85 wells as compared to 87 of the previous week.

Thirty-nine wells were listed, with an initial production of 14,169 barrels. Three gas wells were listed, with a total initial production of 27,750,000 cubic feet.

PERMIAN BASIN HAS NEW POOL GLASSCOCK CO.

World Oil Company Finds Hole Full of Oil in Wildcat

NORTH PECOS WELL IS COMPLETED AS GASSER

Mid-Kansas Fails to Get Production in Coke County Test

Special to The Record News.

SAN ANGELO, May 4.—The encountering of a hole full of oil in the World Oil company's No. 1-C L. S. McDowell in Glasscock county, apparently assuring the opening of a new pool approximately seven miles southwest of the nearest production on the line of Howard and Glasscock counties, proved the outstanding oil development this week in the Permian basin of West Texas.

This offset the failure of Mid-Kansas Oil and Gas company's No. 1 W. E. Lackey in northeastern Coke county to show an increase in oil in deepening from 3,756 feet, where it was not over one foot in the pay, to 3,785 feet. Salt water, which bailing could not lower, was encountered at 3,785 and 5 3-16-inch casing that had been landed on top of the pay was drawn to straighten to the bottom, shut off the salt water and deepen. Nevertheless, the operators believed the well to be good for 125 to 150 barrels daily if pumped, and will plug back unless production is obtained further down. The oil tested 40 gravity but was sulphurous instead of sweet, as first reported. The pay was free from water but showed little gas.

Completion as a gasser, at least temporarily, of O. J. Perren and others No. 1 H. J. Eaton in northern Pecos county was followed by active leasing in the area by major companies, reflecting favorable opinion of the possibilities of oil production. The gasser is 150 feet from the northwest and southwest lines of section 27, block 3, H. & T. C. Ry. company survey, slightly more than one mile east of Pecos Valley Oil company's No. 2 fee, a producer. The world's deepest well, Group No. 1 Oil corporation's (Texon) No. 1-B University in Reagan county, fluctuated downward in production, its daily average for the week ending April 30 being 2,36.86 barrels of oil, 40.78 barrels daily less than the week before, and 22,930,143 cubic feet of gas compared with 23,298,429 cubic feet the week before. Peaks remained 2,473 barrels of oil on April 19 and 23,673,000 cubic of gas on April 18. Total oil recovery from Dec. 1, when the well began flowing from the fourth pay entered 8,523 feet, through April 30, according to official figures was 266,275.92 barrels, representing a downward correction of several thousand barrels. One of four tests being drilled for the deep pay by Big Lake Oil company immediately west of No. 1-B University had passed the one-mile depth. It is Big Lake No. 151 University.

Well "Slops Over"

The World Oil company's No. 1-C McDowell in Glasscock county began slopping with oil Tuesday morning, after drilling Sunday to 2,398 feet, 13 feet in a second pay, and running 8f rods and 3-inch tubing was begun. Testing of the well on the pump was delayed, however, by the moving of storage tanks from Reeves county, and it appeared that such a test likely would not be made until Saturday. The well headed oil 10 feet above the top of the casing, following the bailer, after tools had been run late Tuesday for cleaning out. A control head was on and whenever opened the oil slopped over.

Oil from the first pay from 2,349-60 feet in line was black and tested only 26.5 gravity; that from the second paytopped at 2,385 feet was green and apparently of better grade, but owing to the mixture accurate gravity tests could not be made, none being higher than the first. Both pays had been free from water and there had been no gas. Absence of gas was not surprising as there is little gas in producing wells in the Howard-Glasscock district, the majority of which are produced by pumping. Wells in the Henshaw western extension of the Roberts-Settles pool produce oil of around 33 to 34 gravity, which is three to four degrees higher than that of production from the 2,900-3,000 foot pay in the main field.

World's No. 1-C McDowell is 1,650 feet south and 2,310 feet west of the northeast corner of section 21, block 34, township 2 south, T. & P. Ry. company's survey. It is about six and one-fourth miles west and three and one-fourth miles south of Plymouth Oil company's No. 1 Kloh, in section 5, block 32, township 2 south, T. & P. Ry. company's survey, farthest southwest producer in the Henshaw extension. The World well has a surface elevation of 2,544 feet (corrected from 2,556) and is credited generally with having topped the big lime at 2,220 feet, although it had three lime sections above that point, from 2,065-85 feet, from 2,095-2,115 and from 2,130-55 feet. Its lime top is higher than in the Gulf and General Oil company's tests drilled on the McDowell ranch south of the World well a number of years ago and in each of which some oil was found but no production developed. Top of the lime is lower than in the Plymouth and other farthest southwestern wells in the Henshaw extension, but this was expected since the World well is farther down the dip.

World Gets Strike

The strike in No. 1 McDowell is the World Oil company's first since it drilled in Crockett county's discovery producer on the L. P. Powell ranch on June 8, 1925, although the company since has drilled a number of wildcats in various parts of West Texas. Chester R. Bunker of Fort Worth, president of the firm, also heads an affiliated group engaged in mining and publishes a weekly newspaper, the Western World, devoted to oil and mining exploration and development, and a magazine. H. E. Granville of Fort Worth, vice president, was on the lease when World No. 1-C McDowell struck oil.

This well was drilled on 160 acres out of lease holdings on about 800 acres unsold in the area. A number of major companies have protection around the prospective producer. Atlantic has the east half of the northeast quarter and the west half of the northwest quarter of section 21, being tracts on both sides of World's 160 acres. Empire has the east half of the southeast quarter, Tidal the west half of the southeast quarter and Shell the east half, and Moutray the west half of the southwest quarter. One of the first tests reported contracted in the area after the World well encountered oil was by the Murchison Oil company of Dallas, on land owned by W. P. Edwards, Big Spring banker, about three-quarters of a mile west and slightly north of No. 1-C McDowell. It was understood that Edwards received a cash bonus of $250 an acre for 40 acres—the southeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 19, block 34, township 2 south, T. & P. Ry. company survey, and a one-sixteenth overriding royalty.

While World's No. 1-C McDowell promised the opening of a new pool, another Glasscock county well was abandoned as a failure at 3510 feet, R. R. Penn and Empire's No. 1 Hughes-Johnson, in the center of the northwest quarter of section 45, block 30, W. & N. W. Ry. company survey. Sulphur water had been struck several weeks earlier. Gibson & Johnson of Abilene, and Empire made a location for No. 1 Hodges and Dean, about eight miles southeast of Garden City and four miles east of Gibson & Johnson's No. 1 B. C. Mann, recently plugged. This test will be 2,310 feet from the north and west lines of section 2, block 33, township 5 south, T. & P. Ry. company survey.

Deepen Ward Well

In the Ward county discovery area, L. C. Harrison and others' No. 1 S. F. Hayzlett, a short distance southeast of the discovery Shipley No. 1 Hayzlett, had deepened from 2478 to 2510 feet without material increase in production above its daily average of 55 barrels from pay topped at 2455 feet. Unless a few feet more drilling brought a gain, the well was to be shot. Shooting on April 17 of Atlantic-Delmar's No. 1 Hayzlett, northwest offset to the Shipley well, from 2473 to 2500 feet with 80 quarts, increased its yield from a daily average of 58 to around 280 barrels. Harrison and others' No. 2 Hayzlett was drilled to 2275 feet the middle of the week. The discovery Shipley well was to re-cement casing to shut off salt water, coming through a bad casing seat above, before deepening, followed by shooting unless deepening increases its daily average of 50 barrels. All the wells are in section 17, block 5, H. & T. C. Ry Co. survey.

Fifteen miles to the northwest, Gulf Production company's No. 4 O'Brien, which recently opened Ward county's second pool, showed slightly declining production from its initial production of 1320 barrels of 35.5 gravity sulphur oil daily from 2565 to 2631 feet. Through two and one-half inch tubing and under 400 pounds back pressure, the well flowed 1098 barrels of oil during 24 hours ending Tuesday morning. The hole was thought to be sanded up, difficulty having been experienced in keeping it clean immediately after it was drilled in about three weeks ago. The well is in the center of the northwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 19, block F, Gunter, Munson, Maddox Brothers and Anderson survey.

One test will be drilled within 30 days near Perren and others' No. 1 Eaton gasser in northern Pecos to 2275 feet the middle of the county as the result of leasing in that area. Independent Oil and Gas company will make the test, having leased from the Iowa Park Realty company of Newton, Iowa, 110 acres out of section 23, block 10, H. & G. N. Ry Co. survey, or all the southeast quarter excepting 50 acres. Independent's lease corners with section 33 and is about one-half mile south and a little east of the Perren gasser. Shell Petroleum corporation bought from A. R. Jones of Santa Marie, Calif., the lease on 200 acres, being the northwest quarter and the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 49, block 10, H. & G. N. Ry. Co. survey. The tract corners with section 33 on the south and is about two miles southeast of the Perren well.

Humble Gets Lease

Humble bought from Mrs. E. M. Young of Mitchell, S. C., the lease on 1080 acres in sections 49 and 33, being all of those sections except the 200 acres leased by Shell. Jones held an old lease on the land, it is understood, and last week effected a compromise with Mrs. Young, whereby he received the 200 acres and she took the 1080. The Perren well was deepened four feet to 1506 feet without increase before being completed as a gasser temporarily. It tested over 15,000,000 cubic feet of gas. A Yates field completion included McMan Oil and Gas company's No. 5-C Yates, 2600 feet from the south line and 1740 feet from the west line of section 25, block 194, G. C. & S. F. Ry. Co. survey. It struck oil and gas from 1639-43 feet, got an increase from 1665-75 feet and was completed at

Wilbarger, Wichita, Jack and Cooke Gains Boost Production of District

Pipeline runs for the week ending Monday, April 29, 1929, from the pools in the Wichita Falls district averaged 95,723 barrels daily, an increase per day of approximately 653 barrels as compared with those of the previous week.

Completions due to continued activities in the Bulcher field in the northwest part boosted Cooke county runs during the week 156 barrels per day since the last figures.

Jack, Wilbarger and Wichita counties also reported varying gains during the week, these offsetting losses in a number of the other pools. Below are the runs by pools:

SIXTY-EIGHT DRILL PERMITS ISSUED IN APRIL AT ELECTRA

(Special to The Times)

ELECTRA, Texas, May 4.—Sixty-eight permits to drill, exceeding by three the total number for the first 15 days, were issued during the last 15 days of April by J. Lon Martin, oil and gas supervisor for this district. This is the largest number for a single month in some time and indicates renewed interest in the fields. Thirty-nine of the permits for the last half of April were issued for Wichita county, while 29 of them were for Wilbarger county, part of which is comprised in this district. By courtesy of J. Lon Martin, the permits are published, as follows:

OIL ACTIVITY IS QUIETER IN CENTRAL AREA

Two New Wildcat Tests in Jones and Nolan Are Spudded In

BRADSTREET WELL TO BE DRILLED TO 4,000 FEET

Four New Locations Are Announced Past Week In Shackelford

(Special to The Times)

ABILENE, Texas, May 4.—The oil activity in the Central West Texas district was quieter during the past week than during any other similar period for more than a year. No feature developments were reported from any sector of the territory.

The new wildcat operations, one in Northwest Jones county and the other in Central Nolan county, were spudded. Location for another wildcat, to be in Central Fisher county, was announced.

The Jones county test that started drilling duirng the past week was White Eagle Oil & Refining company's No. 1 Teague, located 933 feet north and west of the southeast corner of lot 12 in the Austin and Williams survey No. 339. This operation is approximately nine miles east and two miles south of Hamlin.

L. G. Bradstreet company et al's No. 1 Kuteman, at the center of the northwest quarter of section 95, T. & P. survey X, in Central Nolan county and about 15 miles south and a little west of Sweetwater, was spudded during the early part of this week and is now drilling ahead.

The contract for this test calls for a 4,000-foot hole. If commercial production of oil or gas is not found by the time the drill reaches the 4,000-foot depth, the test probably will be carried deeper, officials of the Bradstreet concern say.

Mid-Kansas Oil & Gas company and Phillips Petroleum company's new location, for their No. 1 Stevenson in Central Fisher county, will be, local oil men say, a highly important test. It will be located 330 feet from the north and east lines of the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 26 in the El Paso county school land, survey No. 317.

Northwest of Dry

This location is a mile west and a little north of a dry hole drilled several years ago by the California company on the Maggenheimer fee, in which some interesting finds were made. The test is on a well-defined sub-surface structure and some unusual prices have been paid for royalty rights on acreage in that immediate area during the past few months.

The Stevenson test will be about four miles south of Roby and approximately the same distance north of Longworth.

At mid-week Union Oil company-Sedgwick Oil & Gas company's No. 1 T. J. Routh, in northwest Jones county, two miles south of Hamlin was being measured up, preparatory to abandonment. The contract depth of 3250 feet had been passed, the total depth having been reported as 3261 feet by the drillers.

The Routh operation was located 1250 feet north and 2500 feet west of the southeast corner of the 299-acre Routh tract in the Austin and Williams survey No. 355. It found both the Noodle Creek lime and the Fisher county horizon, but got nothing of value in either of them. It has a hole full of water in the bottom now from a pure sand.

Another Jones county test that is to be plugged is Grisham-Hunter corporation's No. 1 Tiner, located in the southeast corner of the Gabriel Zumwalt survey No. 279, a quarter of a mile north of the Tiner pool and a half-mile west of Texas-Cosden's No. 6 Carter, which last week discovered commercial production around 2730 feet in the Fisher county lime.

The Grisham-Hunter No. 1 Tiner was originally drilled as a test of the Noodle Creek lime. It had only a small amount of oil in that horizon, around 2460 feet and the owners were preparing to plug it as a dry hole when the new producing formation was discovered in the Texas-Cosden No. 6 Carter. They re-rigged the derrick and drilled down to test for the new pay, but found only a show in it around 2770 feet. The hole has been drilled to 2849 feet and will probably be abandoned.

Drilling Deeper

Atkinson-Sandefer Oil corporation's No. 1 Hudspeth, 330 feet south and at the center of the north line of lot 22 of the Edward Miles survey No. 219, and two miles northwest of the Tiner pool, which has been producing around 30 barrels of oil and 100 barrels of water a day from a total depth of 2585 feet, is being drilled deeper to test the pay found in the No. 6 Carter.

Grisham-Hunter corporation's No. 1 Hester, in central west Jones county, located 330 feet north and east of the southwest corner of the east half of lot 12 in the Louis Kratz survey No. 335 is in a hole full of sulphur water at a total depth of 2848 feet. The owners plan to let the test set for a few days and then drill deeper, possibly.

Roeser-Pendleton's No. 1 Haught, in eastern Fisher county, located 440 feet south and 1320 feet east of the northwest corner of southwest quarter of section 191, B. B. B. & C. R. R. survey, has abandoned a fishing job at 1965 feet and will shoot the pipe off bottom, skid the rig and spud another hole.

Texas company and Phillips Peroleum company's No. 1 Hall, in the southeast part of Fisher county and 330 feet north and west of the southeast corner of section 6, T. & P. survey No. 20 is drilling below 2650 feet.

Considerable attention is being given to Oyster & Rife's No. 1 W. Y. & R. A. Davis, western Callahan county wildcat, located at the center of the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 15, T. & P. survey 14, which is drilling below 1010 feet.

That test is about two miles west of the Davis ranch pool, in which gravity production is found around 1600 feet and is approximately the same distance south of the Harvey pool which has two pay horizons between 1,600 and 1,800 feet.

In north Callahan county, about five miles north of Baird, Oyster and Rife's No. 1 H. W. Ross in section 86, B. B. B. & C. R. R. survey has set pipe at 1,275 feet and will shortly resume drilling.

Four new locations for Shackelford county have been announced during the past week. They are:

McBest et al's No. 1 Issenouer, 150 feet from the east and 350 feet from the south of the west half of the Issenouer farm in the N. R. Brister survey.

TEXAS COMPANY RENEWS LEASES IN THROCKMORTON

(Special to The Times)

THROCKMORTON, Texas, May 4.—Representatives of the Texas company were in Throckmorton county this week renewing some leases that had expired. They made a new lease with Zack McWhorter on survey No. 3020 T. E. & L. company at a price of $3 per acre. The company drilled a deep test on this survey about four years ago and had let the lease expire.

Several leases have changed hands in the territory where Henry Hobbs is drilling on survey No. 225 B. B. B. & C. R. Co. at prices of from $2 to $3 per acre.

Shasta Oil company No. 1 R. L. Moore, located in Cotton county, Oklahoma, about three and a half miles northeast of Walters, was completed in the sand at 2100-18 feet, and in the first three hours swabbed 45 barrels.

Texas company No. 9 H. L. Dennis in the Bulcher pool is located 1705 feet south and 476 feet east of the northwest corner of T. J. Hutchinson survey in the northwest part of Cooke county.

Freeman and Grebin completed their No. 4 A. Hemmig well, located in block 20, Meade pasture subdivision in the Freeman-Grebin pool north of Megargel in Archer county, and it is swabbing at the rate of 125 barrels. The sand, which was penetrated nine feet, was topped at 1431 feet.

C. W. Clark and associates No. 1 W. T. Waggoner, located in section 25, block 4, H. & T. C. R. R. survey, Wilbarger county, is completed in the 1900-foot sand with an estimated production of 200 barrels.

Paul B. Scott and associates have made location for their No. 1 J. B. Miller test to be drilled 290 feet east and 580 feet north of the southeast corner of block 2, section 20, A. T. N. C. L. survey in the new Gwynn pool, Archer county.

United Producers company No. 1 L. F. Wilson is a location 631 feet north and 750 feet east of the southwest corner of block 7, H. & T. C. R. R. survey, section 1, Archer county.

The Kewanee Oil and Gas company made location for its No. A-18 R. J. Timmis to be drilled 235 feet south and 438 feet east of the northwest corner of its A. lease in E. T. R. R. survey, abstract 363, Bulcher pool, Cooke county.

The Gulf Production company made location for its No. 1 B. F. Block test to be drilled 330 feet south and west of the northeast corner of northwest quarter of section 111, block 4, I. & G. N. survey in Carson county.

The Panhandle Refining company will put down its No. 1 John Rater test 450 feet north and 450 east of the southwest corner of the John Rater land in I. R. R. survey, abstract 851, Archer county.

Easter Oil company No. C-2 W. T. Waggoner, located in section 25, block 4, H. & T. C. R. R. survey, is completed as a 300-barreler at a depth of 1915-24 feet.

Texas company No. 1 H. C. Shanafelt, located northwest of Bryson in Jack county, in the Isaac Hughson survey, is drilling along at a total depth of 3270 feet.

Hi-Land Oil company No. 1 E. M. Birdwell will be drilled in the southwest corner of the E. N. Birdwell 200-acre tract out of the C. Wright survey, abstract 666, in north Archer county.

Joe L. Art and associates will put down a deep test on their lease located 300 feet north and 300 feet east of the southwest corner of the north 50 of the east 100 acres, of the west 200 acres out of the Raley 333-acre farm in the Isaac Hughson survey, northwest of Bryson, abstract 256, Jack county.

Bowen and others No. 1 Fassett-Tuttle, located in the southwest corner of the J. Bradford survey, and to be drilled in M. M. Templeton survey, abstract 543, is drilling at 600 feet.

The L. G. Bradstreet company is drilling at 1050 feet on its No. E-1 W. T. Waggoner test, located 1350 feet south and 550 feet west of the northeast corner of the southeast quarter of northeast quarter of section 13, H. T. & B. R. R. survey, abstract 137, south of Electra in Wichita county.

Kelly & Barr made location for a test to be drilled 150 feet north and west of the southeast corner of the west half of the northwest quarter of section 22, block 4, H. & T. C. R. R. survey, W. T. Waggoner lands in Wilbarger county.

The Wilson Drilling company has made a location for its No. 5 J. A. Kemp test, 150 feet north and east of the southwest corner of the northwest quarter of section 57, W. V. F. L. in the Beaver Creek area of Wichita county.

Sumner & Massey's No. 1 W. T. Waggoner is a location 150 feet each way from the northwest corner of the west half of northwest quarter of section 8, block 4. H. & T. C. survey in Wilbarger county.

W. L. Hawkins made location for No. 2 J. C. Owen to be drilled 300 feet south of No. 1, located in the J. C. Owen farm in B. B. B. & C. R. R. survey, 35, north Young county. No. 1, completed a few days ago, is showing as one of the best shallow wells brought in from this area for some time, making 100 barrels from the 700-foot sand.

McLaughlin Brothers made location for No. 1 Justice to be drilled 3350 feet south and 850 feet west of the northeast corner of W. H. Patton survey, abstract 343.

The Roberts Oil corporation has purchased from the W. T. Waggoner estate a tract of 80 acres out of the east half of the southeast quarter of section 17, block 4, H. & T. C. R. R. survey, east of the Lewis-Payne wildcat well in southeast Wilbarger county. The consideration was $100,000.

The L. G. Bradstreet company made location for its No. 1 L. T. Richardson well to be drilled 1820 feet south and 1570 west of the southeast corner of O. W. Mathews land, but in J. G. Maupin survey, abstract 1403, north Young county.

Drilling has started on the C. W. Boller and associates No. 1 Guy Williams test, located 1777 feet south and 450 feet east of the northwest corner of T. E. L. survey in section 155, north half of Young county.

WELLS IN GRANDFIELD AREA BEING STIMULATED BY GAS REPRESSURING

(Special to The Times)

GRANDFIELD, Okla., May 4.—The Bell Oil and Gas company is attempting an experiment in the river bed under the direction of John Schroeder, field superintendent of production. Lines are being run to about 15 wells and by the latter part of next week they hope to increase oil production by repressuring the oil sand with gas.

This method has been used in the Tulsa section, but no effort has ever before been made here to increase production by the aid of the pressure test.

The company has entered into a contract with all the operators in the river bed and the experiment will be watched with interest.

PRORATION IN WINKLER COUNTY FIELD EXTENDED FOR PERIOD SIX MONTHS

AUSTIN, May 4. (AP)—Extension of proration rules in the Winkler county oil field was authorized for a period of six months on petition of the citizens advisory committee by the railroad commission today. Production is limited to 150,000 barrels daily. There was no opposition to continuation of the rules, which expire tomorrow.

GRAHAM MILL REOPENS FOR BUSINESS AFTER SHUTDOWN OF MONTH

GRAHAM, Texas, May 4.—The Graham Mill & Elevator company is again operating after a month's shutdown for repairs following a fire which caused damage of $8,000. The fire was discovered on the third floor and heavy damage was caused by both fire and water. The mill has a daily output of 250 barrels of flour and 100 of meal. The elevator capacity is 250,000 bushels of grain. The company has several branch elevators in this and adjoining counties.

Piano Recital

BURKBURNETT, Texas, May 4.—Mrs. Tom Word presented her class in a recital at the First Methodist church on Friday evening. A full house enjoyed several classical numbers of songs and music, old fashioned songs by the entire class, and piano solos by students of the class. The Central Christian church orchestra played several classical numbers. Piano accompanists included Misses Pauline Patterson, Marjorie Baker, Virginia Sides, Oleta Mounts, Ima Joe Bryant, Jeanne Draper, Katherene Exley, Bessie McNeill, and Leslie Lois Brannon.

DAILY MARKETS

ADVANCE IN PRICE IN COTTON MARKET AND CLOSE STEADY

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—Predictions of further showers over Sunday were apparently responsible for a continuation of the covering movement in cotton today. Prices advanced further with some buying believed to have been promoted by a show of stability in the Liverpool market. More or less profit-taking appeared on the advances but offers were well taken and after selling down to 19.78 July advanced to 19.94 and closed at 19.91. The general market closed steady at 11 to 16 points net advance.

The opening was steady at 4 to 12 points higher on steadier Liverpool cables than had been anticipated and on further private reports indicating crop deterioration. When the official weather forecast was published there was general buying on the prospect of renewed showery conditions.

It was generally admitted that dry, warm weather was desired over the belt with the exception of Western Texas.

Realizing sales carried May down to 19.53 and December to 19.05, but buying developed on the declines and these positions rallied to 19.70 and 19.15, respectively.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, May 4. (AP)—Owing to fairly favorable Liverpool cables today's cotton market further improved. Other factors responsible were continued reports of damage to crops from low temperature and a forecast for unsettled and showery weather except for West Texas where rains are needed. The general trend was upward and the close showed a moderate net advance, although there were some reactions on week-end realizing.

After gaining 13 points at 18.90 in the early trading July eased off 12 points to 18.75 and later advanced 15 points to 18.90, closing at 18.88 or 10 points net higher for the day. The general market closed steady at net gains of 5 to 10 points.

In the late trading July and October went up to 18.90 and December to 19 or 10 to 12 points up from the lows, and 9 to 16 points above the previous close.

On a little realizing at the end, prices eased off 4 to 5 points, July closing at 18.86, October at 18.85, and December at 18.96 or 5 to 10 points net higher for the day.

Port receipts 5,875, for season 8,904,356, last season 7,960,594. Exports 13,506, for season 7,137,082, last season 6,323,260. Port stocks 1,345,097, last year 1,453,159. Combined shipboard stock 77,104, last year 122,768. Spot sales at southern markets 8,932, last year 6,191.

Liverpool Cotton

LIVERPOOL, May 4. (INS)—Cotton spots were quiet today; prices steady. Sales 6,000; bales; receipts 10,000 bales, including 8,700 American.

An extensive burial place dating back to the third century has been discovered in Germany. It was used by the Goths.

WIDE ASSORTMENT OF STOCKS PUSHED INTO NEW GROUND

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—A flood of week-end profit-taking was checked before the close of today's short session of the stock market, and a wide assortment of issues were pushed into high ground, although a sprinkling of net losses remained at the close.

The selling was swelled early in the session by a rather unnerving break in the advance Rumely issues, which have been subject to violent pool manipulation. News of improved prospects of a settlement of the reparations tangle and heavy dumping of oil shares strengthened the market later.

The Associated Press price indices of 50 industrials and 20 utilities, which broke through their record highs of mid-March yesterday, were sent still further into high territory. The day's transactions fell but a little short of 2,000,000 shares.

The upturn of the call money rate yesterday, interrupting the gradual improvement from the acute money situation which developed a week ago, was rather discouraging to traders who had been looking for substantial improvement in credit with the passing of the month-end requirements, and inspired profit-taking. Friday's rates carry over the week-end.

Banking quarters, however, held out some hope of easier credit next week, much depending upon the demands of the stock market.

Advance Rumely common and preferred, which on Wednesday reached record prices of 104⅞ and 119, respectively, broke to 80 and 78, but rebounded to 90½ and 84 at the close, off 13⅞ and 5⅞ from last night. Wild trading in the stock has been influenced by conflicting reports emanating from various financial circles as to plans for refinancing and settling accumulated dividends of more than $30 due on the preferred. The company had earned nothing on common stock for more than a decade.

A noteworthy strong point was Goodyear tire, which rose more than 7 points in buying on the prospect of resumption of dividends, and apparently, short covering. Chesapeake and Ohio was sent up 8 points to a new high price at 230.

In the oils, Atlantic refining and the Pan American issues were sent to new high levels, and Standard of New Jersey rose 2 points to within a fraction of its peak. A few of the motors were well bought on reports of April sales. Hudson and Packard advanced 3 and 4 points, and Marmon again went to a new high.

Conspicuous soft spots were American and Foreign power, Electric Auto Lite, General Electric, National Biscuit and Radio. General Motors closed steady after an early tendency to heaviness.

Commodity markets were irregular, wheat breaking about 18 cents a bushel to a new low level for the year and cotton losing a cent or so. Cotton sold up more than 50 cents a bale.

Foreign exchanges remained dull but fairly steady. German marks were a shade higher, and Sterling cables were steady at $4.85 5-16. The Spanish peseta, however, touched a new low for the year at 14.30 cents.

LOWER QUOTATIONS FOR GRAIN MARKET LIVERPOOL SLUMPS

CHICAGO, May 4. (AP)—Instead of helping to uplift grain prices, cuts in railroad freight rates on export shipments did the opposite today. The cuts resulted in lower quotations on wheat at Liverpool, and largely as a consequence the wheat market here plunged downward below the bottommost level heretofore reached by nearly all the active deliveries. Other grains too were weak, though not showing as big declines as was the case in wheat.

Closing prices for wheat in Chicago were decidedly unsettled at 1⅛c to 2⅛c a bushel under yesterday's finish. Corn closed ½c to 1⅛c off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 30 cents.

Corn and oats gave way with wheat, although delay to corn planting was regarded as becoming serious in some sections.

Provisions were responsive to downturns both in hog values and in grain.

Livestock

Livestock Weekly Review

KANSAS CITY, May 4. (AP)—(United States Department of Agriculture)—Cattle trade around the circuit this week was less active and light to moderate. Declines were effected on most all classes. Strictly choice fed steers and yearlings held about steady, but the less desirable grades ruled weak to unevenly. Lower. Receipts were around 203,800, an increase of 5,500 over last week, but 28,000 short of the corresponding period a year ago.

Hog prices fluctuated considerably during the week, but on closing sessions shipping demand narrowed and packers inforced sharp declines. Current values are 20@75c lower than a week ago. Chicago had a top of $11.50. Total offerings were around 517,500, compared with 496,568 last week and 471,748 a year ago.

Continued liberal receipts and a narrow demand for dressed lambs and mutton resulted in another slump in sheep prices. Old crop lambs received a jolt of $1.00@1.75. The supply approximated 296,700, an increase of 16,800 over last week and 42,000 more than a year ago.

CHICAGO, May 4. (AP)—Hogs—Receipts, 4,000; market, 25c lower; top, $11.50 for 200-pound choice butchers; packing sows, $9.60@10.40.

Cattle—Receipts 300. For week: $14.00 for light yearlings and medium weight steers new high for season; most fat steers, $13.00@14.25; stockers and feeders, 14.25; stockers and feeders $11.75@13.25; best yearlings $12.50; fleshy Montana hay fed largely $12.25@13.50.

Sheep—Receipts, 7,000. For week: Tops woolskins, $16.65; shorn lambs, $15.00; short ewes, $9.50; bulk woolskins, $15.25@16.00; shorn lambs, $14.25@14.75; shorn ewes, $7.00@7.50.

FORT WORTH, May 4.—Hogs—Receipts, 400; market 10 to 15c lower, quality considered.

Cattle—Receipts 725; today's trade nominal. For week: Slaughter steers about 25 to 40c lower; better grades fat yearlings, steady; others weak to around 25c lower; butcher cows, 50 to 75c lower; desirable beef cows and low cutters about 25c lower; bulls unchanged; slaughter calves mostly steady; stock steers and yearlings, 25 to 50c lower.

Sheep—Receipts 25; today's trade nominal. For week: Killing classes $1.00 to $1.50 lower; feeder lambs and yearlings, around 75c to $1.00 lower; feeder wethers, weak to 50c lower.

FORT WORTH, May 4. (AP)—Hogs—Receipts 400; 10 to 15c lower; medium to good 166 to 190 pound rail hogs $10.25@10.35; packing sows $8.50@9.00.

Cattle and Calves—Receipts 725, including 25 calves; nominal; week's tops: Light slaughter steers $13.50; good heavies $12.50; grassers $11.50; fat yearlings $14.00; fat cows $10.00; heavy bulls $8.75; heavy slaughter calves $12.50; stock yearlings $13.25; good to choice feeder steers $12.50.

Sheep—Receipts 25; nominal; bulk spring lambs $13.00@14.50; medium to good shorn fat lambs and yearlings $10.50@11.50; week's top fat lambs and yearlings $13.50; shorn fat wethers $8.25@9.00; feeder lambs and yearlings $9.00@10.00.

KANSAS CITY, May 4. (AP)—Hogs—Receipts 3,000; 10@25c lower; top $10.90 for choice 180 to 210 pounds; packing sows $9.25@9.85.

Cattle, 400; calves, 500; week's tops: Yearling steers $14.75; mixed yearlings $14.60; yearling heifers $14.35; medium weight and heavy steers $14.50; vealers $15.00.

Sheep—Receipts 500; week's top: Springers $17.35; bulk $16.00@17.25; wooled skins $16.60; bulk $15.00@15.70; clippers $14.75; bulk $13.75@14.65; two-year-old wethers $9.50@11.00; California full shorn ewes $9.00@9.35; most clipped ewes $8.75 down.

PERMIAN BASIN HAS NEW POOL

Geyer and Frates' No. 1 B. F. Smith, 1320 feet out of the northeast corner of section 8, block 145, T. & St. L. Ry. Co. survey, Pecos county, plugged to abandon at 1605 feet after encountering sulphur water from 1365-67 feet. Taylor-Link Oil company of San Angelo awarded a contract to Harry Adams company to spud a 2,000-foot test by May 10, 330 feet from the south and west lines of the southwest quarter of section 30, block 18, University land. The wildcat will be about three and one-half miles northwest of George Anderson's No. 1 University, in the center of section 11, block 17, which was completed as a gasser at 1963 feet.

Sulphur water, instead of production, which would have extended the McCamey pool in Upton county approximately one and one-fourth miles southeast, was encountered in Sun Oil company's No. 1 Long, located 2310 feet each way from the south and west lines of section 3, Rusk Transportation company survey A-358. With an elevation of 2696 feet, the test topped the line at 2029 feet and set six-inch pipe at 2032. It encountered a half bailer of sulphur water hourly at 2150 feet, which increased to two and one-half bailers hourly at 2165 and to 600 feet in the hole at 2170-80. Hourly abandonment was expected.

J. D. Wheeler's No. 1 State in Crockett county, east of the Yates field and 744 feet south and 1250 feet east of the southeast corner of section 73, block 1, I. & G. N. Ry. Co. survey, began plugging at 1719 feet, after getting a hole full of sulphur water from 1717-19 feet. With an elevation of 2326 feet, the wildcat topped the salt at 492 feet, got the base of the salt and anhydrite at 1660 feet and was credited with topping the lime at 1670 feet. W. A. Moncrief and others' No. 1 J. S. Todd deepened from 1383 to 1400 feet where it encountered sulphur water, and began plugging back to test thoroughly a showing from 1365-69 feet, which for awhile promised production that would have opened a new pool 18 miles southeast of the Powell field. The well is 660 feet from the north and east lines of section 35, block WX, C. C. & S. F. Co. survey.

Get Sulphur Water

Failure loomed for Greene Oil and Refining company's No. 1 Slaughter in Borden county in striking four bailers of sulphur water hourly at 3190 feet in lime, which was topped at 3040 feet, 519 feet below sea level. The test is 1320 feet from the south and west lines of section 32, block 31, township 3 north, T. & P. R. Co. survey. Westhyde Investment company's No. 1 Beall, in the center of the northeast quarter of section 14, block 31, township 3 north, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, while drilling below 3200 feet in gray lime, was carrying 600 feet of sulphur water struck shortly after the test had a light showing of oil from 3038-40 feet. Gibson & Johnson's No. 1 Higginbotham, in the center of the south line of section 8, block 31, township 3 north, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, topped the lime at 2875 feet, 428 feet below sea level and had drilled to around 3000 feet.

R. R. Penn and others' No. 1 Bowles in section 36, block 50, township 3, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, in southeastern Reeves county, continued to drill ahead slowly in search of a seat for 6⅝-inch casing, the running of which necessitate straight reaming from 5002 feet. At 5299 feet the test was in sandy lime and shale. It was doubtful whether it had reached the Delaware. Early in April the well looked like a producer in the making until a 4900-foot column of fluid from 5175-77 feet was found upon bailing to be largely sulphurous water.

In the Hutchings-Walton area in sections 47 and 48, block 26, about two miles east of the north central part of the Hendrick field, which until recently produced only tremendous gassers, Southern Crude No. T-90-3 Hutchings was averaging almost 300 barrels of pipeline oil daily. Two shots, one with 160 quarts from 2923 to 3115, the other with 138 quarts from 2792 to 2912 feet, raised its flow to this figure from a daily average of only 68 barrels. Humble was preparing to spud No. 1-A Walton, in the northwest corner of the south half of section 48, almost an east offset to the Southern Crude producer.

Die at Crossings

AUSTIN, May 4. INS)—Eleven persons were killed and 56 injured in 37 railroad crossing accidents during the month of February it was disclosed by the railroad commission in a statement released today. All of the deaths and 51 of the accidents were caused by motor cars. Five of the injuries were caused by street cars.

Boston Wool Market

BOSTON, May 4. (AP)—The demand for wool has been very moderate during the past week. The bulk of sales were on 58, 60's and 64's and finer quality. Some further easing of prices has taken place on the active lines. Weeks of 60's and 64's, 90's quality were very scarce and quotations were irregular and prices lower.

EAGLEROCK BUILDS REVOLUTIONARY 'BULLET' AIRPLANE

Four people and a dog are accommodated in this low-wing cabin monoplane, the Alexander Bullet, which has just made its debut to the flying public. It is manufactured at Colorado Springs by the Alexander Aircraft company. Powered with the Wright Whirlwind J-6 165 horse power motor, this plane has a top speed of 150 miles per hour. The landing gear can be drawn up into the under side of the fuselage, reducing air resistance and adding to the speed. In the background is seen Pikes Peak and the Barrier range of the Rocky mountains.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., May 4.—A "family" monoplane carrying four people and a dog at a top speed of 150 miles per hour is being placed in production by the Alexander Eaglerock factory here, one of the leading commercial aircraft companies in this country.

The Alexander Bullet, as the new plane is named, is a semi-flying wing, achieving a phenomenal speed by the removal of every possible structural member, including the landing gear, from the air flow in flight.

Two of the first models were flown to the All-American Aircraft show at Detroit, April 6 to 14, and back to Colorado Springs. Both planes cruised the 3,000 miles at an average speed of 130 miles per hour. Six men and one dog made the flight.

The Bullet uses the full-cantilever, internally braced wing and tail surfaces. It is America's first light land plane equipped with a completely disappearing landing gear. To drop the gear for a landing, the pilot simply releases a trigger. Aeronautical engineers estimate that removal of landing gear resistance adds from 10 to 12 miles an hour to the speed of the plane.

Powered with the 165 horsepower, five-cylinder, Wright Whirlwind J-6 motor, the Bullet has a guaranteed top speed of 150 miles per hour. With the 100 horsepower Kinner motor the Bullet will carry four people and a dog with baggage at a top speed of 130 miles per hour. It cruises at 111 miles per hour on a gasoline consumption of 20 miles to the gallon.

The Bullet is a low wing monoplane, the fuselage resting on top of the wings. Pilots and passengers are seated over a broad wing section. There are no heavy structural members overhead.

Another safety feature of this type of plane is the proportionally low landing speed, due to the cushioning effect of the air under the low wings when skimming over the ground. The wing center section bears most of the important stresses, enabling the engineers to lighten the fuselage a corresponding degree and thus give the plane more carrying capacity per horsepower. Use of the low wing so lowers the center of gravity of the plane as to minimize possibility of a noseover.

Airplanes such as the Bullet will revolutionize the cost of cross country travel, Alexander officials believe. A 600-mile flight would cost each of four passengers, for fuel, a sum not exceeding $2.50. The trip could be made easily in six hours.

Attention was paid in the designing of the plane to the reduction of parasitic resistance, the chief retarding factor to the speed of an airplane. In addition to the retractable landing gear, frontal resistance has been reduced by careful streamlining. Even the navigation lights are streamlined into the wing tips and the handle is inset into the door.

Consideration was taken by the designers for the comfort of travelers on long flights, by allowance of ample leg and head room. The two rear seats may be so adjusted that the occupants can sleep.

In smooth air the Bullet flies "hands off" the controls. The plane will be marketed this year by the Eaglerock sales organization, consisting of 176 pilots distributed geographically over the United States, Canada and Alaska.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Reverence

By FRANK B. CREIGHTON
Wichita Falls Boy Scout Executive

This is the last law of the Boy Scouts, but that does not mean that it is the least for, since the writer has written the discussions on the others, he has come to the full realization that each law is part of a dovetail and to remove any one would weaken the whole scout law.

The law reverent is one of the two laws that have been added by the Boy Scouts of America, for the English scouts do not have the law of reverence. However, in studying the situation, we can see where the United States would have more need of this law than England, because in England one church predominates, while in the United States we have the Catholics, Jews and Protestants in great numbers. The boys play together there is need of a distinct line in our religious worship on account of our parents' religious belief.

Great men and near-great men pray. I really believe they are great because they recognize God in the everyday affairs of their lives. I am thoroughly convinced that belief in God is necessary in the life of every human being and I am further convinced that when a scout is grateful in his heart to God and is anxious to do the things which God tells him about in the Bible, then the Scout is truly reverent.

"The recognition of God as the ruling and leading power in the universe and the grateful acknowledgement of His favors and blessings is necessary to the best type of citizenship. It is a wholesome thing in the education of the growing boy. No matter what the boy may be, Catholic, Jew or Protestant, this fundamental need of citizenship should be kept before him." The above is part of an address given by a man who was stressing God in citizenship and truly fits our case.

The entire responsibility of a boy's religion is not assumed by the scouts. Neither does it assume the responsibility of teaching the boy all his school work, but we have found that the Boy Scout movement is a great supplement to the school and to the church, for the church realizes the need of outside help, for they, as a rule, have one day a week with the boy and they have found that church clubs are sectarian, while the scout movement is of the gang.

Patrol leaders, ask yourselves, "Am I reverent?" You are the only person who can answer that question. I contend that a patrol leader must be concerned with being reverent seven days in the week. A scout does not, and will not, permit ridicule of or interference with another scout who worships in a different way than he does. A scout respects the devotion of the other scout to his church and his God.

On nearly all important subjects folks are inclined to hold varied opinions. This causes our rival political parties, rival organizations of all kinds, and seems to make rival religions but such is not the case, for the main object in all religions is God. The main objective in all religion is the belief in God. Different faiths have different ways of worship but they all worship god, all have a deep belief in the hope of eternal life as given through the teachings of God.

Troop 12

Troop 12 held its regular scout meeting at 7:15 o'clock Friday night at the Grace Methodist church. The meeting was opened with the flag ceremony and the scout oath and laws. Following the reading of the weekly bulletin, a demonstration on safety first was given by Orby Hodges, assistant scoutmaster. Bonner Barton, one of the deputy fire marshals, gave a talk on safety in a crowded theater. Levi Price won first place in a flint and steel contest, with Donald Williams taking second place and Clay Gray, third place. Donald Williams won first place in a knot tying contest. An airplane contest was held, judged on taking off, stability in the air, and endurance. The meeting was closed with the flag ceremony.

Board of Review

Six scouts made application for their star scout badges at the board of review held at scout headquarters Monday evening. Twelve boys passed the requirements for second class badges and seven boys finished the requirements for the first class badge. In addition to this, a total of 54 merit badges was taken. Although this sounds as though there was a good representation from all the troops, only eight troops were represented. The next board of review will be held Monday evening, May 27. It is hoped that at this time every troop in the city will be represented both in merit badges and advancements.

Troop 14

Troop 14 opened its regular meeting Friday night with the scout oath. Following the collection of dues six boys were presented merit badges. I. R. Sheldon, expert examiner for several nature merit badges, visited the troop and gave an interesting talk on nature, followed by a short star study. Mr. Sheldon promised to accompany the troop on an overnight hike in the near future. J. C. Horton, troop fourteen's bird boy, demonstrated his ability to mock the mocking bird. Following short patrol meetings Arvel Norman and Lavern Caurson were given a short investiture ceremony and presented with their registration cards and tenderfoot badges. G. W. Pierce, assistant scoutmaster, who was in charge of the meeting, promised a surprise to the patrol or patrols that are up with their dues by June 1, re-registration time for the troop. Mr. Pierce also gave a short discussion of the parents' night which will be held Thursday night, May 9. The meeting closed with the scoutmaster's benediction.

Field Day

The last field day proved such a success that, upon the request of a number of scoutmasters and boys, plans are being made for another field day to be held at Weeks park Friday and Saturday, June 7 and 8. Events will be announced later. As before, every scout in the area council will be invited to participate.

Troop 13

Troop 13, John H. Kauffman, scoutmaster, held its regular meeting Wednesday night at the First Methodist church. The meeting opened with the scout oath, led by Rhea Smith, and the flag ceremony. Dues were collected and roll was called. The Scoutmasters' Bulletin was read and the scoutmaster discussed several business matters of the troop. Prizes were presented Elvin Baker, R. J. Byrd, Oneil Taylor, and the troop's antelope race team, all of whom won first place in events in the field day. The troop is proud of the fact that it took second place in the field meet. The inter-patrol contest was checked up. Several new pieces of handicraft were presented the troop. Vernon Reesby treated each boy to a bar of candy and was given a yell to show the troop's appreciation of his kind deed. A hike was planned for Sunday afternoon. The meeting closed with the allegiance to the flag and the lowering of the flag.

Camp Repairs

A number of men from Burkburnett, under the leadership of C. C. Knox of that city, will spend Sunday at Camp Ephraim Griffin, at Diversion dam, repairing the tables in the mess hall, bracing them so there will be no danger of their upsetting as they have been known to do in the past. Each week-end between now and the time camp opens in June there will be men and boys at the camp preparing it for the opening of the summer session.

Troop Four

Troop four, John Tevis scoutmaster, held its regular meeting Friday night at the First Christian church. The meeting was opened with 20-minute patrol meetings, followed by assembly, which was sounded on the bugle by Edwin Sutton, assistant scoutmaster. The scout oath, laws, motto and the pledge of allegiance to the flag were repeated. Patrol calls and yells were followed by reports on patrol meetings. Patrol inspection resulted in a tie between the Beaver and Rattlesnake patrols. An airplane demonstration was conducted by the scoutmaster and G. W. Simpson. An aviation club is being organized, each member of which must make a plane that will fly a certain distance. The standing of the various patrols in the inter-patrol contest was announced, with the Raccoon patrol, Dean Harrison, patrol leader, in the lead. Thurmon Conrey, who won first place in the flint and steel contest at the field meet, made a fire by this method in seven seconds. J. D. Woodward, Ike Lanier, John Elliot, G. W. Simpson and A. G. Fletcher also participated in this demonstration. The scoutmasters' bulletin was read. Taps was blown by Ed Sutton and the meeting was dismissed with the scout benediction.

Scout Leaders School

Sixteen men enrolled in the scout leaders school which was held every night during the past week at the scout office. Several of these men came as far as 48 miles each night to attend the sessions. Each session was in charge of an experienced scoutmaster. At the Friday night meeting plans were made for the outdoor session to be held at the scout camp Saturday night and all day Sunday. This meeting will be held for the purpose of taking outdoor tests.

Troop Three

Troop three opened its meeting Friday night with the scout oath, laws and the pledge of allegiance to the flag. Roll call was followed by the reading of the scoutmasters' bulletin. A discussion of first aid was held and several games were played. The meeting was closed with the scoutmaster's benediction.

Burkburnett Jamboree

A jamboree of the Burkburnett scouts, composed of nine different troops of scouts, will be held at the American Legion hall in Burkburnett Friday night, May 10. The Wichita Falls scouts and their scoutmasters are invited to attend this jamboree and it is hoped that a large crowd of Wichita Falls boys will be present.

Troop Eight

Troop eight, the Bulldogs, new scout unit being organized at the Grant Street Methodist church, met Friday night with 11 present. Five of the troop members are old scouts, three tenderfoot and two second class. The other six plan to take the tenderfoot test this month.

The troop will take its first hike as soon as eight members are registered, the scoutmaster announced at the meeting. One of the aviators from Don Ross' troop was a visitor at the meeting.

Games played included "poison" and relay race. The meeting was forced to break up early because of the revival being held at the church.

Troop Sixteen

Troop 16, Kenneth Erwin scoutmaster met Friday night at the First Baptist church. The meeting was called to order by the scoutmaster. The pledge of allegiance to the flag was repeated. Mr. Erwin read the law reverent, made several important announcements, and presented the prizes that were won by members of the troop in the recent field meet. An hour was devoted to patrol meetings and test passing. An exciting game of "pullova" was played, followed by the dismissal.

Troop Committeemen's Conference

Thursday, May 16, at 8 p. m., a troop committeemen's conference will be held at the scout headquarters of this city. Troop committeemen of Wichita Falls and Burkburnett will be invited to attend this meeting and 50 men are expected to be present.

Patrol Leaders Meeting

Saturday afternoon, May 25, at 2 o'clock the patrol leaders of this city will meet at scout headquarters and discuss their various problems. Every patrol leader is urged to attend this meeting.

STORMS IN EIGHT SOUTHERN STATES TAKE TOLL OF 39

ATLANTA, Ga., May 4. (AP)—Burial scenes at Rye Cove, Va., today with mourners standing near wrecked houses, and fields of ruined crops, were typical of the general aftermath of the southern storms that took 39 lives in eight states the past week.

Ministers of the circuit rider type officiated at the funerals at Rye Cove and vicinity, where 16 lives were lost in a school house collapse Thursday. Six other deaths in Virginia, six in Arkansas, four in Maryland, three in Tennessee, and one each in North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Florida completed the death toll.

Several of the Rye Cove dead were buried in a graveyard nestling under the "lonesome pine" of song and story.

More than 100 of the children hurt at Rye Cove were in hospitals at neighboring towns tonight, several with legs or arms amputated, and others feared close to death.

Crop damage as well as damage to buildings was great in the areas hit. Especially in Georgia was damage to fruit trees great. Many peach orchards were hard hit by the high winds.

Dallas 'Ice War' Gets Too 'Warm' For City Council

DALLAS, May 4. (AP)—The state attorney general's department has been asked by Dallas city officials to send a representative here to investigate an "ice war."

For the past few weeks two prices have been maintained, Dallas proper paying 20c a hundred pounds for ice, while Oak Cliff patrons have been forced to pay double this amount.

Mayor Tate maintains this is unfair, and has asked the city attorney to have the state department investigate to see if anti-trust statutes are not being violated.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS OPENING OF NEW SCOTT STORE HERE SATURDAY

Large crowds attended the opening of the new Scott store, located at 813-15 Scott avenue, Saturday. W. T. Burke, manager of the new store, stated that he was highly pleased with the attendance at the formal opening. Favorable comment was voiced on the arrangement of the store and the ease with which one could find the articles desired. This new store handles all kinds of hardware, radios, electrical supplies and sporting goods. The merchandise is displayed on open counters of uniform height.

TWO APPOINTMENTS ARE ANNOUNCED BY HOOVER

WASHINGTON, May 4. (UP)—President Hoover virtually disposed of two important administrative appointments before leaving for nearby woods for an afternoon's outing with Mrs. Hoover and a small group of friends.

George H. Bond of Syracuse, N. Y., has been agreed upon for solicitor general according to department of justice officials. The White House announced that the nomination for solicitor-general would be sent to the senate Monday or Tuesday.

Robert H. Lucas of Louisville, Ky., is to be commissioner of internal revenue, to succeed David H. Blair, who has expressed a desire to retire.

Gangster Slayer Convicted

CHICAGO, May 3. (INS)—George Maloney was found guilty by a jury here this afternoon after more than 20 hours deliberation of the murders of Hugh "Stubby" McGovern and William McFadden in a night club gun battle. Punishment was fixed at 14 years in the penitentiary. The state had demanded the death penalty.

168. LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE OF application of guardian to ratify lease.—All persons interested in the welfare and estates of the minors, Lois Baber, William Forest Baber and Wilma Ruth Baber, are hereby notified that W. A. Baber, guardian of the estates of said minors, has filed with the probate court of the county his petition for authority as temporary guardian to ratify and approve execution of oil and gas lease executed by J. M. Bentley, et al, under date of March 7, 1924, to the Electra Dome Oil and Gas Co., and its assigns, the title to which is in some manner questioned contrary to intent of original lease, said lease being tract of 20 acres north of the south 60 acres of the P. Corrigan survey in Wichita county, Texas, and extending westward from the right of way of the W. F. & N. W. Ry., south boundary line running westward from northeast corner of south 60 acres said survey 922.58 feet; thence northward 963.6; thence eastward to right of way of railroad 853.48 feet; thence along west line of railway right of way southward to place of beginning 986.50 feet as recorded in volume 318, page 286, deed records, Wichita county, Texas, and to appear at hearing before the judge of the county court, May 13th, 1929, 10 a. m., to make known their objections if any there be, said guardian alleging that said lease should be ratified and approved in all things in accord with the terms and conditions recited in said lease, and this notice being given therefor as required by law.—W. A. Baber, temporary guardian estates of said minors.

THE STATE OF TEXAS—To the sheriff or any constable of Wichita county, greeting: You are hereby commanded to summon Ross J. Terrell by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the 78th district court of Wichita county, to be holden at the courthouse thereof in Wichita Falls, on the first Monday in June A. D., 1929, the same being the third day of June A. D., 1929. Then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 4th day of May A. D., 1929, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 23661-B wherein, Mildred Terrell is plaintiff and Ross J. Terrell is defendant and said petition alleging, that plaintiff sues defendant for divorce upon the grounds of harsh and cruel treatment, in that he continued to nag and abuse plaintiff until it threatened to break her health and plaintiff left defendant in order that she might regain her health and strength; that defendant left Wichita Falls and has not supported or communicated with plaintiff since said time and plaintiff does not know of his whereabouts. Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same. Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 4th day of May A. D., 1929.—Eunice Jackson, clerk district court, Wichita county, Texas. (SEAL).

OPTIMIST CLUB SPECIALIZES IN WORK FOR BOYS

By V. N. ARMSTRONG

The history of the local Optimist club dated back to the month of June, 1924, at which time Grady H. Gaston, field director, organized the club. Mr. Gaston is now connected with the Better Business bureau at Dallas. The charter was delivered at a banquet held at the Kemp hotel July 11, 1924, by C. E. Hall of Oklahoma City, then governor of the seventh district.

The following have been the presidents of the club since its organization: Lewis G. Stogner, 1924; Bert King, 1925; Solon R. Featherston 1926; B. D. Sartin, 1927; James V. Allred, 1928, and Tom Glass, 1929. Ira D. Brown has been the club secretary since it started. There were 58 charter members and of that number 21 are still members of the club. Bert King is now governor of the seventh district.

The club has been an association of men learning leadership through cooperation and fellowship, assisting and promoting the civic happenings of this community on every occasion. Besides the civic angles of the club it is worth the time, money, the effort if nothing else be thought of than the redeeming of many valuable boys who are swerving on the brink of disaster and ruin. The street urchin once said "Mister, do not cuff me around; they sometimes make men out of boys like me." What greater challenge can come to a red blooded man that the privilege of making a man out of a boy like that?

It has been the aim of the Optimist club during its five years' existence to be a friend to the boy. During that time the club has taken care of 11 boys, feeding them, clothing them, sending them to school and developing them into useful citizens.

At the present time under the personal supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Snider at the Municipal Golf club, the club is taking care of two boys.

With a broader vision for being a greater help to more boys who need assistance in their problems of life, the Optimist club will stage a musical comedy, "Sunshine," at the Memorial auditorium Friday evening, May 17. This production is being ably directed by Mrs. Virginia Street Orr, assisted by her sister, Miss Minnie Lee Street. The proceeds from this show will be used in the furtherance of the boys' work program of the local club.

Bone of Mammoth Is Discovered in Gravel Pit Here

A wonderful specimen of the lower jaw of a mammoth was uncovered last week in the gravel pit of C. P. Fore, located about four miles north of the city.

The jaw bone was brought to the city and cleaned of all dirst by Tom Hill, negro, who has spent a number of years in the study of bones of prehistoric animals.

Hill, who worked at the Texas A. & M. college for about 12 years, spending most of this time working on such bones, said the specimen found here is one of the best he has ever seen.

The bone has been placed on display in the window of the Davidson-Hamilton Motor company at the corner of Seventh and Travis. It will later be placed in W. B. Ward's scout troop's museum in the basement of the First Presbyterian church.

CUTTING THE WIRES at a Critical Moment

Messages interrupted . . . News delayed . . . Business transactions halted . . . this is what happens when a sudden storm interrupts the telegraph service

TO have the administration of an estate interrupted through the death or illness of an executor is much like having the "wires down" in an emergency.

A new executor or administrator has to be approved by the Court; serious expense may be added to the cost of administration; and the settlement of the estate and action on important matters may be greatly slowed up and hampered.

Such interruption, resulting in loss of time and possibly of money, will never take place if you appoint this institution as your executor and trustee. Our existence is continuous; we are never on the sick list; never take vacations.

Appoint us in your will and be assured that an executor of your own choice, and one of recognized ability and responsibility, will be here to serve through the entire period required for the administration of your estate.

No "wires down" when you appoint us under your will. No "interruption" in our service to your family at the critical time when they will need us most.

WEALTH and WISDOM

"By wisdom wealth is won,
But riches purchased wisdom
Yet for none!"
—Bayard Taylor.

Your wealth you can leave to others, but your wisdom passes with you. What of the "riches" then?

Too many—far too many—estates that were built up by years of planning and toil, disintegrate and disappear when once the guiding hand is removed.

You can arrange now to have a skillful business pilot take the helm of your affairs when you are called away. By naming this Bank as executor and trustee you can insure wise management of your estate.

MRS. CLARA S. BABER

IN THE PICTURES — Mrs. F. W. Davis is a recent bride and before her marriage was Miss Jimmie Howell. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Howell of 2308 Tenth street. Mr. Davis is with the North Texas Building and Loan association in San Angelo, where the couple will make their home.

Mary Jo Ellis and Mabel Edmonds Hines will take part in the musical comedy, "Sunshine," to be presented by the Optimist club at the Memorial auditorium on the evening of May 17 at 8 o'clock. Mary Jo Ellis will take the part of Mandelia McCann, the 10-year-old daughter of Mrs. Bunch McCann of Detroit, and Miss Hines will play the role of "Sunshine." The comedy is being sponsored by the club for the benefit of under-privileged boys.

Leta Mae Trevathan is one of Wichita Falls' younger artists. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Trevathan, 1409 Twelfth street, and is an expression pupil of Miss Marguerite Fisher and took part in the spring recital given recently at the First Methodist church.

Mrs. Clara S. Baber is presenting three of her piano pupils in recital at the Episcopal parish house Thursday evening. This week has been designated music week and the recital is a feature among the entertainments to be given. Mrs. Baber has been an instructor of piano in Wichita Falls for 13 years and is sponsor of the Frank Renard class in this city. She is a professionally active member of the Musician's club and has studied with Mickwitz, Julius A. Jahn and Frank Renard.

Outstanding Social Event of Week Was Wedding of Ray C. Arnhold and Miss Margaret Duncan Saturday Eve

BEAUTIFUL simplicity marked the wedding of Ray C. Arnhold and Miss Margaret Duncan, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Duncan, at the First Baptist church Saturday evening, one of the outstanding social affairs of the week-end. The ceremony was read by the pastor of the church, Dr. O. L. Powers, at 8 o'clock in a setting of white calla and Easter lilies. A color scheme of white and green was carried out in the decorations of flowers, woodwardia ferns and southern smilax. In the background were clusters of candelabra holding cathedral candles. Pews were also marked with cathedral candles embedded in greenery. The pre-nuptial musical program was opened with an organ recital played by Mrs. F. R. Collard and numbers given as follows: "Dawn," by Cyril Jenkins; "Meditation," by d'Evry; "Spring Cong," Mendelssohn; "The Bells of St. Anne de Beaupre," by Alexander Russell, and Liebestraume, by Liszt. Mrs. Albert E. Smith of Dallas, aunt of the bride, sang "Ave Maria," followed by Bach-Gounod used with the wedding words with violin obligato played by Mrs. Jouette Bonner and organ accompaniment by Mrs. Collard; a violin solo, "O Promise Me," by DeKoven, played by Mrs. Bonner; "O Perfect Love," by Burleigh, sung by Mrs. Smith. The Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin was played for the processional and Mendelssohn's Wedding March for the recessional. While the ceremony was being read Mrs. Collard played softly "Traumerei."

The bride, who entered on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage, was charming in an ivory satin gown modeled in the long circular skirt and tight fitting basque style, with tulle veil caught with

Choral Club Will Give Concert at Church Monday

The Women's Choral club's final concert for the year will herald the coming of spring with a program entirely of spring music at the First Baptist church Monday evening, May 3. A special feature will also be a group of negro spirituals.

A sextet composed of voices from the club will sing "A Flower Wreath" written by the Texas composer, W. J. Marsh, of Fort Worth. Mr. Marsh is recognized as a musician of real merit and is outstanding as a Texas composer. The words and music in this composition truly typifies the joys of spring.

The Choral club members will sing their numbers in three groups opening with a message in song from the far north expressed in Swedish, Norwegian and Finnish folk songs. "The Two Clocks" and "Let the Fiddles, Flutes and Brasses," are bright and descriptive numbers. The second group is made up of four of the most tuneful and singable negro spirituals which may some day be called the folk songs of America.

The third group includes two numbers full of the spirit of spring also, the beauty and delicacy of which are enhanced by a violin obligato. Violin parts to be played by Mesdames J. E. Hall, F. B. Sharp, J. V. C. T. Christensen, and Jouette Bonner.

A mixed quartet composed of Mesdames A. G. Holmes, Luella B. Thompson, and Messrs. R. E. Shepherd, and L. Aldrich will sing "The Morning of the Year;" a cycle of spring words and modern poets, music by Charles W. Cadman.

D. Ireland; Messrs. Wilbur Presson, Cassie Bingham, Harry Gibbs, Willie Hewell, Clyde Ellis, Earle Deen, D. T. Jinks, Morrell Trevathan, Virg Mills, M. C. Baumgardner and W. L. Bass.

Peggy Piedmont Says

TIRED and weary from a week of literal "gadding," I will try and tell you, Kitty, about some of the interesting places I have been and about some of the women I have talked to. Beginning with the fullest day (socially speaking) some of my friends and I first attended the Blue Bird luncheon given at the Zundelowitz school cafeteria by members of the city P.-T. A. council. We thought we had seen plenty of prettily decorated tables and rooms, but decided that the artistic talent and work displayed at this luncheon was almost beyond comparison. Guests at the luncheon were requested to note the numerous blue birds suspended from the ceiling of the cafeteria and which hovered over and among the myriads of roses and honeysuckle. These were all announced to have been hand made, cut from a pattern and fashioned by members of the council. Looking at the effect as a whole, few pause to think how much tedious work it is for some one or for several in arranging these things that it takes to bring about such a transformation in a mere room, a transformation that gives it the appearance of a spacious garden filled with flowers and birds, signifying that springtime is really here.

❖ ❖ ❖

THEN next we visited the Strand where we were entertained with the Wolf Song starring Gary Cooper and Lupe Velez. We liked Lupe and decided that she has "It" especially in this particular picture. But was somewhat disappointed in the part that Gary took in which he is never seen what we call "dressed up" and we think that he is entirely too good looking to appear at his worst all through the picture. It seems to be a one-person picture, and that is Lupe.

Our next attraction for the day was "The Passion Play."

As a whole we enjoyed the production. The sad story of the life of Christ, his crucifixion and resurrection, the colorful costumes and realistic stage setting all combined to mark the production one to be long remembered by all who saw it.

THE next day we attended the annual luncheon given by the Musicians club at the Woman's Forum clubhouse, and again we decided that the last word in decorations had been said. Pink roses were used in profusion here, and were banked in the stage and all over the room where individual tables were arranged. The effct was beautiful and exceedingly dainty. Mrs. Ben Bell was given credit for the idea and arrangements and in talking to we told her how lovely we thought everything looked and she was really surprised herself at her own ability we think. She said all the experience she had ever had along this line was that one time she arranged the decorations for a funeral. But we have decided that she needs no further experience in decorating, she surely has what is commonly called "an artistic eye."

AND all this gadding about has been mixed with my other work at the office. Entered just in time to hear the telephone ringing and just about the time I was about to get an idea to write to you I answered and someone at the other end of the line said, "I want to ask about getting a picture in this week's society page." A few moments of silence, just time enough to collect my thoughts again. Another telephone ring. "I have a program of Italian music to give you. Won't you take it over the phone? I can't get down to the office in time to get it in."

Went over to the photographers to select some pictures for a Mother's day page. Became engrossed in the interesting mother types I found there. Almost loitered too long. Reported back to the office in a few minutes. Rushed out to the Woman's Forum clubhouse to lok over the Appreciation week program consisting of an art display, luncheon and a bluebonnet bridge tournament. It was a lovely party. Everything decorated in roses with the hostesses designated by their headdress of crepe paper bluebonnets. Back to the office again and found desk stacked high with work. Home later for a few moments rest and on to a show in the evening. Home again, sleep; another day, another rush. I like to be busy. I enjoy my work. What is there to complain about even though I do seem exhausted of a new idea with which to fill this letter. There is nothing new under the sun anyway, some sage has said.

PEARL MOORE STEVENS, a charming young local matron says in the forntispiece of her book of poems, "The Singing Soul" recently released by the Stratford company: "The purpose of this book is to bring new vision to the eyes that see not the glory of mortality, new throbs to hearts that grow weary with disappointment. If I have given anything to the world worthwhile, it has been through the influence of my dear mother, whose teachings are enshrined in my heart. Neither the heartaches or hardships of childhood could blind me to the compelling beauty of the world in which we live, or hide from me the more significant of the beauty of soul to be found not seldom in the humblest of persons. I have tried to see beauty everywhere, and have made it my earnest task to recreate it in verse, that others may see and enjoy."

❖ ❖ ❖

THEMES for verses in the Singing Soul are not new material. In fact they are all based upon the every day things of life, portraying home, mother, nature, friendship, deity and love—subjects we all understand and are all interested in—the old that is ever new. One cannot read these poems without wondering how such a young author gleaned so much feeling and knowledge of the important things of life in so short a length of time. Speaking of the book, a friend remarked "I think it is wonderful that we have a woman in our midst that can write such lovely things."

❖ ❖ ❖

Could rave on indefinitely about the talent to be found in Wichita Falls, but must sign off for the present and give my wardrobe the "once over" to prepare for the program of gadding to begin early next week. The first affair will probably be the annual breakfast of the Woman's Forum to be given Tuesday at the clubhouse at which among those present will be

Copped the Prize

A crowd was telling tales. They were becoming more and more incredible, and at last only two raconteurs were left.

Said one of them: "When I left New York last month, a fellow dived in off the harbor and followed the liner all the way over, arriving at Southampton five minutes ahead of us."

And the last man said, with a nod: "He's right. It was me."—Tit-Bits.

orange blossoms on one side. Her gown was trimmed in a pearl ornament and she carried an arm bouquet of calla lilies. She wore white satin pumps. Her mother, Mrs. Duncan, was her matron of honor and wore a handsome gown of white lace over chiffon, trimmed in a crystal ornament. Her bouquet was of Easter lilies and snapdragons. Miss Maude May McDowell of Dallas, cousin of the bride, was her junior bridesmaid and wore a lovely white georgette frock, made bouffant style with petal skirt. Bridesmaids were Misses Gene Nelson, Anabel Couper, Mary Jo Kell, Ethel Moran, Becky Coleman of New York City and Gertrude Sims of Bryan. All wore dainty gowns of white chiffon and carried bouquets of lilies.

Little Misses Carolyn McDowell of Dallas, cousin of the bride, and Helen Louise Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Anderson of 1400 Grant street, were flower girls and strewed rose petals in the path of the bride. They were dressed as miniature brides in lovely white taffeta costumes with tulle veils caught with white flowers on one side in exact likeness of the bride.

Mr. Arnhold had for his best man Lamar Fain. Groomsmen and ushers were Messrs. Malcolm Putty, J. Wilkie Talbert, Joüette M. Bonner, T. P. Duncan Jr., Tim Thompson and Dr. N. H. Coleman.

The bride and her father were met at the steps of the altar by the bridegroom and his best man. The groomsmen formed a semi-circle for the bridesmaids on the platform. The ceremony was read before an altar embanked in flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnhold left for a trip through New Mexico including Taos and Santa Fe, and will be at home at Dunmar court.

Miss Kell Hostess

Culminating a series of lovely parties inspired by the announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Margaret Duncan, was the rehearsal dinner given at the country club Friday evening by Miss Mary Jo Kell.

Roses and larkspur were the flowers chosen to beautify the dinner table and they were arranged in charming color combinations.

Handsome Prizes Awarded Winners In Forum Games

A formal spacing of baskets of pink roses placed in banks of flowering privet and each basket handle tied with fluffy bows of pink tulle, made an exquisite setting on the Woman's Forum stage Friday during the Bluebonnet game tournament, and a lovely floor lamp, a large automobile tire and three tables loaded with lovely gifts to be distributed during the afternoon formed the background.

The hostesses were quaint in little blue bonnets just the color of the Texas flower and the score pads and pencils were covered with the same color. Tiny bluebonnets framed the faces that capped each pencil.

In the afternoon there were 60 tables of bridge and two of 42. The 42 prizes awarded were to Mrs. A. B. Maples, Mrs. V. E. Wratten and Mrs. J. S. Minton. The bridge games were divided into 10 divisions and in these, the 10 high score gifts were awarded to Mesdames R. N. Hamilton, J. H. Campbell, Lloyd Taylor, Horrace Robbins, Geo. Bedel, O. L. Carrico, John Young, A. G. Lupus, J. H. Durnal and Maurice Weatherly. The second high in each group were Mesdames R. K. French, C. O'Neill, M. A. Rutis, J. D. Woodburn, J. H. Castary, W. L. Olmstead, H. L. Lupus, J. D. Parnell, Clyde Murph and C. W. Pond.

The high prize of the afternoon was won by Mrs. T. D. Moore, a tire given by the Dixie Tire company.

In the evening, there were 40 bridge tables. The 10 men who won high were Messrs. Calender, Powers, Timberlake, Young, Haney, Killingsworth, Holmes, Clough, Bernard Martin and Spencer. The ladies scoring high and winning first high prizes, were Misses Harding and Kuhfuss, Krojch and Mesdames Fred Weeks, Mariowe, Bowler, Goddard, Clough, Pate and Hodges. Those awarded second high prizes were Misses Modifeete and Brothers and Mesdames Maxson, Weissler, Haney, Van Wormer, Terrill, Montgomery, Eddleman and Spencer. Mr. John Rhea won the Cadillac tire given by Fritz Motor company, the grand prize of the evening and T. A. Moore, the consolation, a box of handkerchiefs. The blue bonnet picture by Adrian Brewer, the grand sweepstakes prize, was won by Mrs. T. A. Moore.

Mrs. F. L. Mercer was awarded a prize for selling the largest number in the afternoon.

Austin Children Present Pretty Operetta Friday

An operetta, "The Enchanted Garden," was presented Friday afternoon and night at Austin school to an appreciative audience. The cast included the Music club, under the direction of Miss Frances Smith, and the Dramatic club, directed by Miss Oma King, while the younger children, from the first grade, were trained by Miss Floy Tacker.

Much comment was heard on the beauty of the music, which accompanied the performance, and on the harmony of youthful voices in the cast. Miss Smith at the piano, with Roberta Lincoln and Arthur Davis, violinists, made up the orchestra.

The cast included 36 children who showed the result of much careful training by instructors. The costuming was especially pretty and effective. Queen Josephine of the house of Willis, wore a beautiful white and silver gown with a two-yard court train, which was carried by two small pages in white, Otho Hendricks and Stanley Benton. Constance Clark, the little girl in fairy-land, wore ruffled pink organdie and pink garden hat. Little June Cameron, dressed in blue, was a demure forget-me-not. The costumes of the butterflies were especially striking with their small brown bodies and big yellow wings. They were worn by the following small misses from the first grade: Diana Cloughley, Wanda Sherrill, Alice Hanley and Violet Wilson.

The choruses of flower fairies, dressed in pastel shades to correspond with the flowers they represented were Joyce Eason, Louise Davis, Freida Kolb, Nathalee Smith, Madeline Hayes, Frances Lyon, Virginia Rogers, Ruth Smith, Bonnie Jean Lincoln, Virginia Woodyard, Olive Daugherty, Treva Wallander, Jane Jones, Frances Courtney, Margaret Staniforth, Helen Bates, Ella Marjorie Walker, Benty Carl Dooley, Shirley Langston and Mary Catherine Peeler. Peter Pan was played by Billy Adams, while Floyd Bash and Billy Walker made very realistic elves.

The stage setting for the operetta was a garden scene, the center of interest being the fairy queen's throne, which was a high fan-backed chair covered with frills of a pastel shade. The garden furniture was supplied by the Wichita Floral company. The vines, flowers and plants were provided and arranged by Mesdames R. P. Willis, H. B. Hayes, J. G. Clark, W. J. Howard and H. R. Cloughley.

REAGAN SCHOOL P.-T. A. TO HOLD MEETING

The last meeting of the Reagan Junior High Parent-Teacher association for this semester will be held at the school on Tuesday evening, 6:30 o'clock.

It is planned to call this meeting a "Pollyanna Picnic," and all fathers and mothers attending are asked to bring a picnic lunch consisting of all the good things liked at an open air affair.

Reagan school teachers will be honor guests and invitations are especially extended to all parent-teacher members at Bowie, Barwise, Travis, Fannin, Austin, Huey, San Jacinto and Carrigan school P.-T. A.'s so that those who will have children entering Reagan next September may meet with the teachers and members of Reagan and get acquainted with the older members.

There will be an installation of the new officers of the executive board for the coming year's work by Mr. W. A. Franklin, principal of Reagan Junior high and the following program will be rendered which has been especially prepared by Mrs. R. D. Bone, program chairman, and Mr. Franklin. Music by Reagan High school orchestra; glee club songs under the direction of Miss Minnie T. Baker; declamation by Margaret Covington; piano solo, "The Rosary," by Paul Barnett Jr.; poems by English students; installation of officers for coming year, W. A. Franklin.

MRS. BARNETT GIVES PRETTY P.-T. A. PARTY

Honoring out-going officers of the executive board of the Reagan Junior High School P.-T. A., Mrs. Paul Barnett, retiring president, was hostess Friday at a beautifully appointed luncheon at her home on Marshall street.

The rooms were fragrant with pink roses in flower baskets, vases and bowls and the color motif of pink and green predominated in the pink and green tarlatan covers, dainty place cards and green crystal table service. The motif was emphasized in the dainty napkins rolled and tied with fluffy pink tarlatan bows.

Various toasts were given the executive board complimenting its work for the past year. These were in four line rhymes written by Mrs. John M. Fox, publicity chairman and recently elected Reagan P.-T. A. president for the coming year.

With Mrs. Fox, the newly elected officers are Mrs. Ed Napier, first vice president; Mrs. Floyd A. Bash, third vice president; Miss Jean Paden, recording secretary and Mrs. J. A. Lamance, treasurer.

Plans were discussed for the P.-T. A. Polyanna picnic to be given on Tuesday evening, May 7, the regular monthly meeting day which will be the final meeting of the year before the vacation begins. The invitations to this picnic are in clever verse, the work of Mrs. Fox.

Those who enjoyed Mrs. Barnett's hospitality were W. A. Franklin, Misses Effie Savage and Jean Paden, Mesdames O'Neal Taylor, J. B. Hubbard, O. S. Deaton, E. W. Napier, R. D. Bone, John M. Fox, W. S. Gullihorn, R. T. Sloan, W. G. Bentley, R. C. Johnson, Floyd A. Bash and E. D. Trevathan.

BURKBURNETT SCHOOLS HOLD CHILD CLINICS

Forty-four children were examined at the recent pre-school clinic which was held at the high school under the auspices of the P.-T. A. These children will enter school next fall.

The executive board voted to thank those who helped in this work, and Mrs. Carter, chairman of the health committee, was instructed to remember suitably Drs. L. D. Russell, W. P. Martin and O. E. Egdorf, physicians, and Drs. Morrison and Thompkins, dentists, and also Miss Olsen, our county health nurse.

Thanks are also due to Mrs. A. L. Gregg and the mothers who assisted in the work.

MRS. FRIBERG HOSTESS TO O. P. B. BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. Alfred Friberg was hostess to members of the O. P. B. Bridge club at her home at 1 o'clock luncheon Friday. Spring flowers were used in the decorations and a four-course menu was served. In the games, Mrs. J. F. Friberg received the high score favor among the members, and Mrs. S. H. Squires received the high guest prize. Mrs. E. F. Eubanks was consoled for low.

Those present were Mesdames M. H. Seale, Eubanks, J. F. Friberg, C. E. Flowers, F. W. Greer, L. A. Litzenberg, Henry Porter, Claude Thornton, R. P. Thompson, S. H. Squires of Dallas, A. P. Perry and J. L. Webb.

Fishes that live near the surface of the water have large eyes; those that belong in deep water have small eyes and poor eyesight.

BI-MONTHLY CULTURE HAS LOVELY LUNCHEON

A lovely rose and green color scheme made rooms and dining table beautiful in the luncheon given Friday at the Angelina tea room by the Bi-Monthly Culture club. Place cards were smart and original; each was a cartoon recalling the program the member had given. Favors were tiny green flower pots with a living pink or red rose and the center decoration was a lovely bowl of red and pink poppies. Green lustre candle sticks were used with shaded green candles.

Mrs. Nathan Persky gave an opening prayer. The toast to the last year's president was given by Mrs. Eugene Leopold, and Mrs. J. W. Ginsburg who had efficiently filled that office, made a very clever response, given as a newspaper account of the future development of the club.

Mrs. Max Shain gave a review of the past year's program written in verse and purporting to have been an account of each program as she encountered it in a European country.

The toast to absent members was given by Mrs. Sam Kruger and the answer was given by the toastmistress Quicksilver.

Quicksilver reading letters from absent members.

The next feature of the program was a debate, "Resolved that Mrs. J. W. Ginsburg be elected a life member of the club." Mrs. J. Emold took the affirmative and the negative was supported by Mrs. Sam Quicksilver.

A talk over two telephones by Mrs. Samuel Egger and Mrs. Milton Katz was interesting.

Mrs. Ben Newman, an absent member, wrote a letter in verse, taking off the members of the club as they appeared before St. Peter and made their pleas for entry into heaven.

Visitors present were called on and made very gracious responses.

The program for the coming year was discussed and the year books distributed to the members. Mrs. Louis Franklin was chairman of program committee with Mrs. Max Shain and Mrs. Sam Quicksilver working with her.

Those present were Mesdames Sam Kruger, Max Shain, Rose Jaffee, Will Quicksilver, J. Cohen, Abe Sandler, Burkburnett; I. Sandler, Fort Worth; B. Brettler, F. Fagadau, L. Horwitz, Milton Katz, J. W. Ginsburg, Louis Franklin, Sam Quicksilver, J. Emold, Herbert Rupnow, Sam Egger, Eugene Leopold, David Persky and Nathan Persky.

The following out-of-town circles were invited to the all day and evening meeting on May 17 when the state supervisor will be present: Henrietta, Petrolia, Electra, Iowa Park, Vernon, Quanah, Burkburnett, Charlie, Ringgold and Bellevue.

The following received presents from the friendship box: Mesdames Lora Clark, Louise Scott, Marie Yarbrough, Cora Jackson, Evona Wallace and Lucy Faubion. The friendship box was discarded and refilled on accoudnt of the new members. The grove closed with officers and team practice.

Dixon, "The Sign Man," Endorses Orgatone

"It Was Just the Medicine for My Case, I Feel Fine Now," Says Wichita Man

Orgatone has simply taken Wichita Falls and surrounding towns by storm. Remarkable as it may seem, over 20,000 bottles have been sold to Wichita Falls people during the past few months. On last Saturday alone over 200 people, by actual count, came into Allison's Drug store for Orgatone, and told what it had done for them.

Among the large number of statements given was L. B. Dixon (the sign man) of 1406 Smarsh street, Wichita Falls. Mr. Dixon is well known here and is well liked by all. He says:

"It is certainly wonderful what Orgatone has done for me. It was just the medicine for my case, and I feel fine now," continued Mr. Dixon. "I have been nearly down for about two years, and suffered terribly from indigestion and chronic colic, and cramps. I didn't have any life or energy in me at all, and was nervous and didn't rest well at night.

"My appetite had left me entirely and I got to where I couldn't relish anything. I just had to force myself to eat, in order to keep going and what little I did eat failed to agree with me and made me feel dull and sluggish. Food soured on my stomach, and gas would form and I would bloat up until I could hardly breathe. I was very bilious and dizzy, and was constipated. I had tried almost every kind of medicine but never got any relief.

"Orgatone was recommended to me by a friend and I began taking it. I began to eat better right away, and feel fine now. I eat anything, without having gas or bloating spells and my dizzy and bilious spells are gone. I don't have colic or cramping any more, and my constipation is reilved. I have gained in strength and have more pep and energy than I have had for the past two years. I want to recommend Orgatone to others, because it has done so much for me."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific bile preparation, and is sold in Wichita Falls exclusively by Allison's Drug store, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative.—Adv.

Thorough chilling gives fruits—and drinks—new flavor, new deliciousness

GENERAL ELECTRIC Refrigerator

Just an ordinary grapefruit, after a brief stay in a General Electric Refrigerator, becomes a real treat! Just a simple salad has a festive air when it is chilled to the proper point of crispness! In fact, ordinary meals assume somewhat the nature of a function when thorough chilling has given food new flavor.

Just a quiet machine with all its moving parts enclosed in one hermetically sealed steel casing. It doesn't even need oiling. This is the refrigerator for the home of today.... and for the future.

The range of models and prices is wide. Come in. Make close comparisons between these refrigerators and all others. Your interest will be welcome, your questions will gladly be answered.

Time payments can be arranged if desired.

VARSITY NEWS

By HAROLD C. WRAY
University of Texas

AUSTIN, May 4.—For three days, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Austin has been host to delegates to the annual University of Texas Interscholastic league meet. The visitors, selected at some 220 county and 27 district meets, represent 5,268 schools of Texas. University officials prepared the reception and lodging of approximately 2,000 delegates to the nineteenth annual meet.

Thursday afternoon the first and second rounds of the boys' and girls' tennis doubles were played under the direction of Dr. D. A. Penick, who has handled the state tennis tournament for 17 years, and his entire squad of varsity tennis players.

Friday morning about 750 athletes participated in the preliminary track and field events. Eliminations in tennis, debate, declamation and extemporaneous speaking tournaments were continued through Friday afternoon. The three-R, typewriting and art contests were held in the afternoon. Four high schools competed in the one-act play contest Friday night.

The following were entrants in the track and field events—Archer City: Marion McKee, C. Haigood, T. Wigington and F. Brewer; Bellevue: M. Johnson; Burkburnett: Greer Harrison, Edgar Blair and Julian Wellingham; Childress: Jack Taylor and Wilford Cooper; Chillicothe: E. C. Creighton, W. Grammer, C. Price, R. G. Kilgore and G. Creighton; Crowell: E. Spears, E. Lankford, G. Todd, Arthur Bell and Bill Bell; Electra: Larry King, Robert Cloninger, Hall Cloninger, Estil White, Robert Smith and George Whitesides; Estelline, Roy Mabery; Holliday: Worth Watkins; Iowa Park: James Williamson, Walter Davis and Lloyd Copeland; Lubbock: Yancey Price, J. J. Creighton, B. Kittrell, H. A. Castleberry; Paducah, Pete Lee; Seymour, B. Hooser and W. Lee; Vernon: Coffee, Wood, Emerick and Massie; Clarendon, Bill Dillard; Wichita Falls: Morris Lee, Ensign Rexford, Ross Saye and Howard Scott.

Contestants in boys' debate were Preston Rittig and Jim Allee Hart of Crowell, district 3; and Carnye Kemp and Boyer Price of Graham, district 4.

Contestants in girls' debate were Ethel Carter and Verna Mae Hudgens of Paducah, district 3, and Dell Hatchitt and Marjorie Vincent of Wichita Falls, district 4.

Harrel Read of Memphis, district 3, and Maurice Monroe of Iowa Park, district 4, were contestants in extemporaneous speaking.

Jack Lott of Weeth school, Iowa Park, represented district 4 in the rural school division of boys' declamations. Sylvia Walsh of Murray school, Murray, represented district 4 in rural girls' declamations.

Clara Balch, Maurine Le Neveu, Hollis Schriber of Amarillo, represented region 1 in the typewriting contest. Phylis Pool, Lubbock, Jessie Mae Wood, Floydada, Imogene Cox, Midland, were representatives of region 2. Abbye Parker, Clarendon, J. K. Abernathy, Iowa Park, and Lola B. Holmes, Shamrock, were representatives of region 3.

In the boys' tennis doubles Woodrow Carter and C. P. Sanders Jr. of Childress represented district 3. Theo Cheeves and J. Detlefs of Iowa Park represented district 4. In the girls' doubles Vera Basham and Bertha Hendrix of Roaring Springs represented district 3. Beulah Fambrough and Joyce Tucker of Byers represented district 4. Boys' singles contestants were Gilford Scott of Lubbock, district 2, Harrison Creed of Quanah, district 3, and J. Detlefs of Iowa Park, district 4. Girl's singles contestants were Ruby McMinn, Kirkland, district 3, and Wynona Gregg of Wichita Falls, district 4.

Virginia Allen and Ellen Wright of Wichita Falls were among the senior students staying at the Scottish Rite dormitory who were honored by the traditional garden party given by the dormitory staff last Thursday.

On next Tuesday, May 7, the spring election of 20 officers in the student government will be held. There are 44 candidates for the 20 offices, varying from president of the students' association to head yell leader. The position of editor-in-chief of the Longhorn, official university literary magazine, is being sought by two Wichita Falls students, Kingsley Davis and James Commodore Cumley.

Davis bases his qualifications on his experience as a columnist and feature writer on the Wichitan staff while he was in high school and his journalistic and literary work in the university. He has been in the university for three years, has made a distinguished record in the English department, and has been a steady contributor to the Longhorn. Last year Davis won the essay prize given by the Longhorn, and received special mention in the Atlantic Monthly college essay contest.

Cumley has been in the university for three years and has been engaged in literary and dramatic work since his first year. He has contributed to the Texas Ranger, comic magazine of the student publication, and, as associate editor on the present staff, to the Longhorn. Cumley has written a one-act play and a three-act; the first play was presented by the Experimental Theater last January. He has had parts in seven campus productions, including an important part in the Curtain club presentation of "The Melting Pot" to be given this week. Davis and Cumley are the only candidates for the office.

Thelma Fisher, Maxine King, J. P. Davidson, Frank Rugeley and Bert Ripley of Wichita Falls, and Ernestine Barkley of Childress were guests of Delta Theta Phi at its annual spring dance.

Barker Chunn of Electra has withdrawn from the university on account of the illness of his father. Chunn was secretary-treasurer of Alpha Epsilon Delta, honorary premedical fraternity.

Ray Bland was among the 12 new members initiated by the Delta Sigma Rho, honorary public speaking fraternity, at a banquet held Friday, April 26.

Edgar Ellis of Wichita Falls and George Lake of Electra attended the spring banquet of the Theta Lambda Upsilon, honorary chemistry fraternity.

The contract for the construction of the student union auditorium-gymnasium at a cost of $500,000 has been signed by an El Paso concern, and ground-breaking ceremonies for the construction of the first building of three to be built by the student union will be held this week. It is the realization of the first phase of a dream for a greater University of Texas.

Miss Juanita Kinsey, sponsor of Wichita Falls High school and junior college public speaking activities, is in Austin with Dell Hatchitt, Marjorie Vincent and Louis Bond.

May Breakfast Will Be Lovely Forum Function

Approximately 300 guests are expected to attend the May breakfast at the Woman's Forum clubhouse Tuesday at 11 o'clock. This breakfast particularly honors the out-going and incoming officers and is limited to club members and their out of town guests.

Mrs. J. Truman Stevens, chairman of the social committee, assisted by Mesdames Charles E. Watson, R. H. Peterson, C. M. McFarland, James L. Duffy, Sam Kruger, Q. B. Lee, R. C. Honea, Charles R. Daniel, C. C. Jones Jr., H. F. Weldon, W. J. Morgeridge, A. C. Camp, J. H. Massie, W. P. Lowry, A. G. Holmes, Arch Dawson, Chester Wynne and Joe Carrigan are working on details for a rainbow breakfast.

Pastel shades in tulle and flowers will furnish the decorative motif. At the tables, a corsage of rose and white tied with pink tulle, will be a favor at each guests place.

The program will be short, but promises to be interesting. Dean D. M. Wiggins of Simmons university will speak on "Why Is the Service Ideal Fundamental?" Mrs. P. P. Langford will serve as toastmistress. Mrs. C. Y. Tully and Miss Modena Howell will sing a duet.

Mrs. G. L. Shapard will toast Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, the out-going president, and Mrs. Arch Collins will toast the new president, Mrs. C. P. Burton.

Mrs. R. D. Kennedy, 9292, Mrs. C. C. Jones Jr., 7825, and Mrs. R. H. Peterson, 9820, will take reservations until 4 o'clock Monday afternoon.

ELLA PANCOAST WIDENER DIES AT FAMILY HOME

PHILADELPHIA, May 4. (INS)—Mrs. Ella Pancoast Widener, wife of Joseph Widener, multi-millionaire, and one of Philadelphia's most beautiful society matrons, died suddenly early today at the family home, Lynnewood hall, Elkins park.

Mrs. Widener had not been ill and news of her death came as a shock.

The group eliminated a storage house and refrigerating plant from the girls' training school budget and allowed $221,415 for expenses.

POLICE CHIEF MOORE RECOMMENDS BECKER

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 4. (UP)—Police Chief Moore today endorsed his assistant, Charles Becker, for his office as he submitted his resignation to the city manager. Becker was picked for Moore's place several weeks ago, but the official appointment has not been made.

Moore recently was cleared by a city council investigation of "wide open vice." The former chief will quit his office May 15 to go into railroad detective service.

Clark Trial Near End

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 4. (INS)—Impeachment trial of Justice J. W. Clark of the state supreme court probably will end sometime next week, it was indicated by today's announcement of defense counsel that the accused judge would take the stand Monday as his own final witness.

TIMES BOOK REVIEW AND LITERARY LANTERN

Heyward's Perfect Characterization Makes New Book Like True Story

Reviewed by
GERTRUDE E. DATSON

In "Mamba's Daughters," a novel of unusual scope and wide variety of character selection, DuBose Heyward has presented a picture of life in Charleston, S. C. during the three early decades of the twentieth century. Dealing with the intermingling of the lives of the "white folks" and the negroes Heyward has drawn a picture which becomes universal upon application, and has done it so well that it is difficult to realize that the work is largely a product of the imagination and not all reality.

Two distinct plots may be traced throughout the book, each centering around the family unit. The Wentworths, a family of aristocratic white folk greatly impoverished by the Civil war and a series of misfortunes, represent the Caucasion angle of the question; while Mamba, her daughter Hagar, and her granddaughter Lissa, represent the Negro race, and in the unfolding of the lives of the children of the families the author has cleverly brought out the shifting status of the Negro race during the past 25 years. The narratives naturally run together in stretches, but either one would have been complete without the other.

Scheming Darkey

Mamba appears as an old woman at the beginning of a new century. Coming out of the Catfish Row underworld to the Wentworth home at an inevitable moment when Polly, the young daughter is on the verge of tears because she has no flowers to carry to her first soiree, Mamba is pictured as "a woman of medium height, frail almost to a point of emaciation. She was not a full-blooded African negro, but her prominent nose, and the coppery cast to her dark skin suggested a strain of American Indian rather than an admixture of white blood in her veins. Her face had reached the point at which it tells nothing of age. As it looked now with its multitudinous wrinkles, it would still look at her death. She smiled a little timidly and revealed a lonely yellow fang in the middle of her lower gum. Then she took a step forward into the full light of the kerosene lamp and looked into the face of the slender blonde girl. From the networth of wrinkles the woman's eyes, large and of a peculiar live brown brilliance, looked startlingly out, bright with the fire of indomitable youth. Standing directly before Polly she curtesied again and brought from behind her back a large shower of Dorothy Perkins roses." And in just such an amazing fashion Mamba insinuates herself into the Wentworth family until she has finally accomplished her goal and become attached to the Atkinson family and is regarded in much the manner of a family heirloom. And all of this scheming and planning to become a "white folk's negro" is to protect her own daughter and to realize a future for her granddaughter. Just how well Mamba succeeds is shown when Hagar, her Amagon daughter with too much physical vitality and too little sense to keep out of trouble, gets into a most serious scrape. Hagar, with her usual strength and powerful bulk, hurts a negro rather seriously in a row over an unpaid laundry bill. The police locate Hagar and she is brought in court for trial. Here Mr. Atkinson appears as a legitimately interested party and succeeds in getting Hagar off with a two-year suspended jail sentence, but with the provision that she is to leave Charleston. Mamba is left with Lissa, the grandchild, in her case, and Hagar sets out for the phosphate mines.

Parallel Lives

At this point the story of Saint Wentworth begins to run parallel with that of Hagar. Saint has been a failure in school, a failure in whatever business he has undertaken and has decided to go "into phasphates." At the phosphate mining settlement he is in charge of a company store operated by an old sweetheart of his mother's, Mr. Raywood. It is here at the phosphate settlement that Mr. Heyward has some of his best pages of descriptive negro life. Quite a number of effective minor character are introduced and portrayed vividly. He brings in Gilly Blutis, a negro "nark," who spies on the colored folks at their crap games and betrays them to the magistrate. Gilly plays a very important part in the lives of both Hagar and Lissa. Hagar saves him from death when all others have deserted him, only to strangle him to death years later for an injustice to Lissa. Another minor character of interest is the Rev. Thomas Grayson, an intellectual manner in lieu of the negro's highly emotional conception of the Deity. He fails in this community, but before returning to New York he leaves an address in the front of a hymnal which he gives to Hagar, and this address furnishes Lissa's home while she is in New York continuing her voice culture.

Hurried Ending

The final pages of the book are somewhat of a disappointment. The story seems hurried and the character detail is overlooked. However, the rest of the book is so beautifully handled and so rich in characterizations, incidents, and shifting values that one feels that the ending is of little consequence. Mamba, shrewd, cunning, and diabolically clever is a character well worth remembering. The contrast of the three generations of negroes, each with its shifting values and manners is forcefully and impressively drawn. The dialogue of the story is excellent, and while it is rich with human emotions it never verges on the sentimental and sardonic. The story is so pleasantly told and so filled with humorous and droll incidents, and is withall so satifying that it creates an illusion of absolute reality. The author himself says, "I desire to stress the fact that the work is purely imaginative and is concerned only with certain social and spiritual values existing in Charleston and its environs. For the purpose of the novel the material has been subjected to an intense synthesis. . . With the exception of allusions to people whose correct names are used, and who will be readily recognized, the characters who appear in the book are fictional creations and are not intended as representations of actual characters either living or dead."

Glimpses Into The Magazines

By ROBERTA CLAY

This, our monthly review of magazines, we are beginning in the hope that you—and you, and you—will be helped to choose for your reading those things which you will most enjoy and profit by, from among current literature.

Sometimes we wonder if our juvenile reading was really so good as we then thought, or if our tastes were simply undeveloped. And we usually decide that we simply didn't know enough to realize how impoverished our reading was.

But we got hold of the last two copies of The American Boy, a night or so ago, and decided we still liked the same old stories. We started a new continued story, a mystery-adventure by Howard Pease with the engaging title of "Shanghai Passage," and we didn't stop till we'd read the first two installments. A lot of adult readers with whom mystery and adventure are still favorite reading (and we believe President Hoover is reported to be one), could go farther and do worse than by hunting up some small boy's copy of that magazine and keeping up with the stories published therein.

In the May issue, "The Chelsea Mystery," by John A. Morse, is sufficiently well done to give both young and old a thrill. "The Builder of the Dam," by William Heyliger, is an adventure of real work, and "Be Yourself," an article by H. G. Salsinger, will be of interest to every baseball fan, of whatever age.

One of the most charming character sketches we've read in a long time is that entitled "Fathima the Cook," in the May Harper's. Leland Hall, the author, was introduced to readers of Harper's some two years ago, when he wrote some studies of the natives of Timbuctoo. His this month's story is based on a trip to Marrakech in Morocco, and gives a delightful picture of the natives there, particularly of the cook Fathima and the errand boy Omar.

"The Unsocial Christian" is the thought-provoking title of the leading article in Harper's, with Katharine Geroud as the author. Mrs. Geroud does not refer to those Christians who foregather in churches, but to that unsocial Christian "who ponders the gospels by himself," whose tribe, she says, numbers thousands, if not scores of thousands. For the cursory student of American literature—we would suggest it as a high school English assignment—is a critical article by Harvey O'Higgins, entitled "Alias Walt Whitman." It will probably make the ardent admirer of Whitman a little hot under the collar, and will give a joyous satisfaction to the non-conformist student who did not like "Leaves of Grass," no matter how many appreciations he had to write. In any event, it will bring on talk. John W. Vandercook, whose "Black Majesty" was the choice of one of the book-buying clubs a few months ago, if we remember rightly, has contributed a story about "East Africa, The No-Good Coaster." Lola Jean Simpson writes interestingly of work being done at Cooper Union, in an article on "People Who Want to be Educated," Emily Newell Blair discusses the question, "Must Our Children Start Where We Did?" Margaret Culkin Banning and Henri Duvernois share with Mr. Vandercook the honors in fiction.

A few years ago it was tonsils. Now it's teeth. Harper's contains an article entitled "Teeth and Health," by Louis I. Dublin, Ph. D., and Thaddeus P. Hyatt, D. D. S., and The American a less scientific, more lightly written article by Philip Curtiss entitled "The Dentist Made Me What I Am Today—I Hope He's Satisfied."

The lead article in The American is by Harry Emerson Fosdick, who discusses his idea of "America's Biggest Problem." Dr. Fosdick believes that America needs most to guard against the misuse of her great power, and he illustrates his points very nicely with historical references and natural comparison. The American contains also the second installment of a Zane Grey story, a typical article by Edgar A. Guest with the typical title, "You Can't Have Fun Alone," another Scattergood story by Clarence Buddington Kelland, and two contributions by Agnes Sligh Turnbull, a story entitled "The Best Things," and an article on "The Great Adventure of Adopting a Baby."

Spring is as distinct a season among the magazines as in any place. Better Homes and Gardens has a gay spring picture for the cover design, and the contents include several articles of special interest to springtime gardeners. "Let's Go Down the Road to Meet the Spring," is the title of an article by Archibald Rutledge in The American. And Child Life, another of our favorites among juvenile magazines, is full of little stories about May and spring.

All of which reminds us—as if we needed to be reminded—that spring always brings us an itching foot, which is bad enough without being aggravated by such stories as one finds in Asia Magazine. One finds, for instance, in an article by Anita Iden-Zeller about a fishing and hunting trip up the Lena river to the far north, such descriptions as this: "A vision of unearthly beauty surrounded us. To the left the tiny, willow-covered islands nestled among blue ice-blocks like a sunken world. To the right were the lonesome pine forests. Behind the dark hill on the horizon rose the fragile peaks of the snow-capped Verkhoyansk mountains outlined in silver." Who wouldn't want to "rise and go," as Stevenson says? And, once started, this traveling by proxy is not so bad. One gets over a lot of ground, too. In the May issue of Asia, one goes back into another day with the Russian Cossacks, one visits the Bedouins of the desert, one ventures into the jungles of Ceylon, and one gets glimpses of other fascinating lands of the Orient.

Scanning New Books

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK

NEW YORK, May 5.—The Hohenzollerns gave little thought to the people. Karl Marx gave almost all his thought to them.

That contrast between a dynasty and one of its subjects never was more marked than in two new biographies, "The Hohenzollerns" by Herbert Eulenberg and "Karl Marx" by Otto Ruhle.

There were 24 Hohenzollerns from the birth of Frederick I, elector and margrave of Brandenburg, in 1372 to the abdication of Kaiser William II in 1918. And it was a noble house, says Eulenberg, a German republican, even if the family trait seemed to be the tendency to despotism.

"The chief reproach we, as Germans, have to bring against them," he writes, "is that most of them took very little interest in their people, either in great matters or small. Few Hohenzollerns cared a straw for the intellectual and esthetic history of the German race."

This scorn for the German character and people, he thinks, was the eventual cause of the dynasty's downfall.

"He was," says Eulenberg, "like a splendid firework that dumbfounds the beholder for a brief moment without leaving any lasting impression. He took a fleeting interest in a thousand projects without thoroughly mastering a single subject. With the shallowness of the true dabbler and dilettante he occupied himself with trifles in all spheres, and did no lasting work in any."

He was a sabre-rattler, brutal to the court he tried to impress with his "divine right," until disaster sent him fleeing "to live in banishment in a foreign land empanoplied in all his earthly vanities."

Genius of Socialism

Marx, on the other hand, was a preacher of world brotherhood—although himself a jealous egotist. His "immense achievement," his biographer says, was in making socialism a science, instead of a dream.

Ruhle goes further than that. Psychoanalyzing Marx in the modern manner, he finds his achievement to have been the result of an "intense sense of inferiority" produced by three characteristics — persistent poor health, Jewish origin, which he felt as a social stigma, and the fact that he was first-born and therefore was expected to do big things.

The great socialist also is found to have been a neurotic: capricious, depressed, spiteful; lacking discipline, a sense of order and a feeling for the proper relation between income and expenditure, so that most of his days were passed in troubled poverty.

Because of his character, however, his work was all the greater, in Ruhle's estimation.

"Had Marx," he says, "as a neurotic, been content with the semblance of achievement, his work would have crepitated in the void, and he himself would have been a figure tragical in its futility.

"As things were, however, he performed a supreme task in the history of his own time and of subsequent times. That is why the (proletarian) class, which he thus helped to become conscious of its own life and of the future which history holds in store for it, honors him as its greatest genius."

Poetry and Fiction

Perhaps her still recent death leads one to read in the latest volume of Elinor Wylie's verse, "Angels and Earthly Creatures," a deeper, more somber note than one has been accustomed to hear. A series of 19 sonnets entitled "One Person" opens the selection with this thought:

Time has prepared us an enduring bed
Within the earth of this beloved land;
And, lying side by side, and hand in hand,
We sleep coeval with the happy dead
Who are ourselves, a little earlier bound
To one another's bosom in the ground.

The second section, comprising a number of tuneful lyrics, has a lighter note.

HUTCHINSON'S NEW NOVEL

For four years the public has been wondering if and when there would appear another novel by A. S. M. Hutchinson, author of "If Winter Comes." This autumn his enthusiastic readers will be more than satisfied with "The Uncertain Trumpet" which will be published by Little Brown & Co.

NEW DONN BYRNE NOVEL

"Ireland: The Rock Whence I Was Born," a second posthumous work of Donn Bryne's, will be published by Little, Brown & Co. on July 5. "Destiny Bay," published after his sudden death, appeared last fall and has since gone into its sixth printing.

COAT WITHOUT SEAM

Maurice Barings' new novel, which will be published May 17 by Alfred A. Knopf, is the story of a young Englishman whose life is profoundly affected by the holy 'coat without seam' for which the soldiers cast lots on Calvary. Mr. Baring has called his book "The Coat Without Seam."

THE LITERARY LANTERN

The Literary Lantern burns weekly in the Sunday Times and is intended to throw light on writing around and about the South. Communications for this column should be addressed to the Editor of the Literary Lantern.

Discouraged as this column has occasionally been on the subject of southern poetry, it is only fair that it should now proclaim in its usual trumpet tones that it has at last assembled on one shelf a collection of volumes of verse which do not give the reader the spiritual jimjams. If the muse is grieved with our past remarks, we make amends. We proclaim from Virginia to Texas that we have come upon poetry that is poetry and not mere rhymed sentiment. It is true that some of our collection has only a tangential relation to Dixie, but then, some of the others are about poetry, if not poetic, and, as they are the product of southrons, we hold the balance is even.

To begin with, the closest connection between the South and the late Elinor Wylie is that for a long time she lived in Washington. Washington, we submit, is practically a southern city—at least southerners displayed considerable eagerness to get there from 1861 to 1865. Furthermore, in "Miranda's Supper" Miss Wylie wrote a thoroughly southern masterpiece on a thoroughly southern theme. Now is published "Angels and Earthly Creatures" (Knopf, $2.50), alas! a posthumous volume, put together just before her lamentable death, and now published with that exquisite taste in book-making which Mr. Knopf displays at his best. The rich and magnificent intelligence, the imperial beauty displayed in this collection make one cry out against a fate which cut the poet off in the maturity of her power. The opening series of 19 sonnets, alone among hundreds of attempts at love poems in sequences, have the right Shakespearian ring. The meditative and mystic poems which follow, though they pay their debt to John Donne who furnishes the name for the volume, are of surpassing interest, and strange, individual, music. Only once or twice, I think, is there a falling off from the high level of the opening poems; and good as the "Trivial Breath," I am not sure that "Angels and Earthly Creatures" does not surpass it.

Worth Reading

Different in degree but excellent in their kind are the "Poems" of Charles Norman (Knopf, $2.00). A rich rhetoric informs this volume, which, however, is usually intelligently controlled, and though a part of the collection seems to me rather bookish, Mr. Norman at his best is a bard worth listening to. Take the first lines of the opening poem as an instance:

Teeth of the rain nibble the night,
In alleys of midnight, window-shades are drawn;
Shadows lean over table still the dawn;
Shadows bulge in chairs, or like tall fear,
Stalk the dark corridors.

Not only is this shrewdly written, the handling of the rhymed couplets is masterly and assured. He sees how "the wind lunged against the trees," he speaks of "the fleet, immortal moments of the wise," he knows of rowers that "they chanted as they rowed over the hissing waters." Would that other poets could see the thing in itself as it really it!

Then there is Flora Bishop Hendricks with "Bowls of Phantasy" (R. Packard & Co., Chicago, $1.50), a slighter book, but one filled with crisply seen and definite images, and a book in the main unspoiled by sentimentality. There is more emotional spill-over in Lucia Trent's "Children of Fire and Shadow" (Packard, $2.00), which rises here and there, however, to the true lyric rhapsody, but Miss Hendricks, if she can avoid triviality, is worth watching. It is accurate, but not "poetical" to write: "The smoke from the factories was like the panting of a tired dog," through it is merely trivial accuracy. Miss Hendricks of course gives us better things, as in "By the Cool Green Spring."

Of Caroline Giltman's "The Veiled Door" (MacMillan, $1.50), one does not know quite what to say except that she is uneven; that when she is good, she writes moving lyrics that have something of the quality of Emily Dickinson, and when she is bad, she is merely commonplace. There is too much vague, unregulated cosmic emotion in some of her flatter pages. But she can also write like this:

Not in the glare of sunlight
But in the shelter of trees
Or under crowded grasses
Known to the bandit bees;
So should a grave be hidden
When a soul has found release.

This, barring the bad rhyme, is deft and sure.

Lindsay's New Books

Vachel Lindsay has two new volumes of interest to southerners. One, "Johnny Appleseed and Other Poems" (MacMillan, $1.75), is a selection from his collected work intended to interest older children, and in it are favorites like the moon poems, "The Congo," "The Chinese Nightingale" and "The Santa-Fe Trail." The illustrations are unfortunately commonplace; some of Mr. Lindsay's own drawings would have been better. "The Litany of Washington Street" (MacMillan, $3.00) is mostly prose, and unclassifiable volume, largely a rhapsody, in which Mr. Lindsay indulges the noble pleasure of praising, the general theme being that of his poem, "The Virginians Are Coming Again." Mr. Lindsey writes English as though he had just discovered it, and the result is a vigorous, prophetic volume. I am not quite clear why the passage from Whitman stud the text, since Mr. Lindsay writes very well himself, but he wants them there as part of the show, and that should suffice.

And then there is "Islands of the Blest and Other Poems" (Oglethorpe University Press, $3.00) by Thornwell Jacobs, and if the format of the book is a little crude, one must remember that Mr. Jacobs loyally had it printed by the boys at Oglethorpe. Mr. Jacobs is an intelligent person with considerable gift of song, but my impression is that he writes (or at any rate) prints too much and is too easily content with frayed and old poetic devices. On the other hand he thinks that poetry ought to be philosophical, and that is a good thing.

Prof. W. M. Forreat has written on "Biblical Allusions in Poe" (MacMillan, $2.50), but as my copy is unfortunately defective, I cannot do more than call attention to what seems to be a painstaking job. And as the Spiral Press (New York) has just issued a limited edition of Poe's poems, edited by Howard Mumford Jones, an item in a series of fine editions of Americana, Poe is still very much a publisher's poet.

Craft of Poetry

Mr. Clement Wood, who doesn't like our own views on verse, has issued "The Craft of Poetry" (Dutton, $3) which, however, barring one or two things, we like very much, indeed. Mr. Wood has a complex on college professors and another on Amy Lowell, but, these aside, he has written an invigorating manual on the art and practice of poetry which we heartily recommend to all practicing bards, laureates, poets, and versifiers whatsoever. What Mr. Wood has to say on the vocabulary of poetry is very much needed. We advice poetry societies to buy in quantities.

Much more philosophic, in fact a leviathan of a book, is "The Garment of Praise, the Necessity of Poetry" (Doubleday, Doran, $5), by Eleanor Carroll Chilton and Herbert Agar, a book which laments the passing of great poetry and demands its return to contemporary life as an offset to scientific materialism and religious doubt. Since the authors define poetry in terms of Platonic philosophy, they have some difficulty in discovering many great poets. Shelly is the latest bard they unreservedly praise. In the contemporary section, by concentrating on Aldous Huxley, T. S. Eliot, and the intellectual school, and by omitting to discuss E. A. Robinson and Robert Frost they set up a picture of contemporary poetry which is totally false. In fact, thier peculiar theory of what constitutes poetry leads them to such amazing judgments as that Chaucer is not a great poet; they omit John Donne altogether, although poetry of his type has an important bearing on their discussion, and generally do some weird things. Nevertheless, "The Garment of Praise," ultra conservative and occasionally eccentric though it is, is an important and thoughtful pronouncement from the conservative reaction which seems now to be upon us, and it sticks sturdily to its central point, the importance of poetry as an organizing factor in life.

Said the Prudent Lover

(By Robert Booker Hunt)

There is a land wherein the expectant seed
Nourish a harvest for that yellow time,
Muted and fused and ripened and sublime,
That glorifies the flower and the weed.
There ladders climb into the fruited trees.
Sun-arrowed apples plop upon the ground,
The days are murmurous with brooding sound
Where beat the gold waves of those wheaten seas.

Oh, let us hasten, dear, beyond the spring
If we would find a love above desire.
Let us erect, for our remembering
This holy sonnet which to us shall be
A monument to mellowed blood and fire—
A marker for the grave of ecstasy

NEW ATHERTON NOVEL

Gertrude Atherton, whose two latest books, The Immortal Marriage and The Jealous Gods, both dealt with the Golden Age of Greece, will tell another story of the ancient world in a new novel which Horace Liveright will publish this fall. The theme of the new book will be the love story of Dido, immortalized by Virgil, and Mrs. Atherton is writing it as her contribution to the Virgil B-Melenium celebration in 1930, sponsored by the American Classical association.

MISS WYLIE'S LAST BOOK OF POEMS FINEST

Louis Bromfeld Furnishes Most Funereal Group of Tales in Months

By GENE COHN
NEA Service Writer

The last poems of Elinor Wylie must surely insure her a place among the Olympians.

The sonnets, it seems to me, are certain to go on singing through time beside the best to be found in our mother tongue.

In reading the selections of Miss Wylie for "Angels and Earthly Creatures" (Knopf) one is clutched by a sort of despair that she died so young. For her she has soared high above the fine perfection of many of her earlier writings and, so I am told, most of the poems were written during her stay in England, where she died from injuries received in an accident.

There is, in these lyrics, an absolute magic, a capacity for deep and penetrant thought so lacking in even first rate poets and a beauty of words which seemed never to fail Miss Wylie. They seem to reveal an absolute limitlessness of growth. What she might yet have done—but there's small use in such ponderings.

ELINOR WYLIE

In one moment, I have come upon some lines which might well become her epitaph:

"Meanwhile I swear to you I am content
To live without a sorrow to my name;
To live triumphant and to die the same,
Upon the fringes of this continent."

From Edward Arlington Robinson, who has taken his place among our major poets—and our very popular ones, as well—comes as this season's contribution, "Cavender's House" (Macmillan).

Here, more than ever, Robinson's method, which is distinctly his own, provokes analysis. There is nothing of the singing poet in this man. He is somewhat of a philosopher and a great deal of a mystic. He seems often to be talking to himself, with doubt and a vast tendency toward introspection. Again, his lines often suggest rhythmic prose more than poetry. They hang somewhere between prose and poetry, as a matter of fact.

He dwells musingly on the inscrutability of life on the elusive quality of happiness, on irony and fate and the curbs placed upon free will, on the torments humans inflict upon each other and the destructive quality of love.

Strange, it has often seemed to me, that Robinson should become a best selling poet in America—considering his brooding moodiness!

And, while on the subject of poets, let me hasten to introduce two new names: Robert Nathan's "The Cedar Box"—this young man surely is a poet, even when he writes prose—and Alice Mary Kimball's "The Devil Is a Woman," which merits your most careful attention.

Also don't forget to watch for anything which comes from a man out California way—Robinson Jeffers, by name.

◆ ◆ ◆

The most funereal collection of tales to come my way in many a month may be found in Louis Bromfeld's "Awake and Rehearse." At the end of half a dozen stories we had lost count of the various deaths and burials. Having become a best seller with his last two novels, young Mr. Bromfeld may lose a number of his best customers with this volume.

LOUIS BROMFELD

However, there was one tale which could be boiled down to a rather funny after-dinner story—that is, if you like that sort of story.

Anyhow it concerns a woman whose husband died in Europe. She had the body cremated and was bringing back the ashes in an urn. One morning she found the stewardess cleaning out the place and dumping ashes out of the porthole.

"What are you doing, idiot?" asked the widow.

"Madame, I am merely dumping the cigaret ashes out."

"Cigaret ashes? You fool, that's my husband."

Robinson Tells Deeply Tragic Story In Epic Poem 'Cavender's House'

Reviewed by
MRS. BENTLEY NELSON

It is a deeply tragic story, "Cavender's House," telling of a murderer's return at midnight to the home where he and the wife he had murdered—either by throwing her over a precipice nearby or causing her, by continued goading, to throw herself over—once lived, loved, sinned and doubted. Here he meets her—Laramie's—ghost and in their conversation (as told in Edwin Arlington Robinson's fine blank verse) they develop the story I have outlined for you, bringing it to the natural conclusion—which I shall not divulge—because there is no break in the logic of the story.

For those who like their muse in somber and not too transparent dress, we recommend "Cavender's House." Here is food for thought, and in a perfect mold that the poet has evolved after the somewhat stilted form of his earlier work. How long it seems since a friend wrote, "I met at dinner a taciturn young poet, Edwin Arlington Robinson," though, in reality, but 13 years have passed since that time when I searched for the "young poet's" latest book, which chanced to be that most penetrating work, "The Man Against the Sky." "Cavender's House" is more like the author's earlier poems than his comparatively recent "Tristram"; and for those who anticipate, in "Cavender's House," another glamorous tale, only disappointment waits. From its opening lines where Cavender returns to the old house—

". . . because
The world he wandered was a world too small
Where there was not that house."

(This, of course, is the idea that a criminal invariably returns to the scene of his crime) to the end, a suggestion of tragedy and horror permeates its 100 odd pages.

"Into that house where no man went he went
Alone; and in that house where day was night
Midnight was like a darkness that had fingers.
He felt them holding him as if time's hands
Had found him; and he waited as one waits
Hooded for death, and with no fear to die."

Such a story should be filled with opportunities for colorful writing, and, observed objectively that would be the case; but Mr. Robinson tells his tale from the inside. It is a subtle work, a story within a story, and for those who have more to give to the interpretation, there are many thoughtful questions possible of solution, many modern ideas suggested, for instance

". . . We might be like two squirrels
Having a home in a large hollow tree,
More to be judged than those who have no tree
Like ours, and had not our exclusive store
Of nuts and acorns—which are necessary,
No matter how much the squirrels love each other,
Or with what constancy.

"And having poured the vinegar of suspicion
On food that once we found so appetizing,
Why in the name of Heaven are we amazed
To find it not so sweet?

"Why must we look so viciously for spots
Where we must find them, even if we must make them?
The spots you found on me would have surprised a leopard."

Edwin Arlington Robinson is a great American poet and worth knowing whether you make his acquaintance through this story of a murderer's conscience or any of his other works.

LYLE SAXON AT WORK ON TWO MANUSCRIPTS

Lyle Saxon, author of "Fabulous New Orleans," reports that he is hard at work on two manuscripts, both of which The Century Co. will publish in the fall. One is a book on old Louisiana plantations—a subject he is familiar with through having been born and bred on one. The other is a boys' life of Robert E. Lee.

THE NEW SAINT AND SINNER

Harry Blaine had promised to telephone Crystal on Monday in regard to the temporary job he hoped to land for her on his paper, The Press, but Monday passed without a word from him. George Pruitt arrived promptly at 2 o'clock, to work on the picture for which she was serving as a model—George insisted that it was not merely a portrait.

During the third short rest period for both artist and sitter, Pruitt started toward her impulsively, a strange expression on his kind, ugly face. "Listen Crystal—" he began with husky urgency, then checked himself with an obvious effort. "No—guess I'd better not say anything till the picture's finished. . . Ready again? This light is too gorgeous to waste."

The old Crystal would have palpitated and fluttered her lashes and begged him, with prettily clasped hands, to tell her what he meant.

The new Crystal, who had been born out of suffering, sat very still and pondered, without elation or vanity, just what it was that George Pruitt wanted to tell her when the picture was finished. Tony, Cherry, even Nils had teased her about George Pruitt and Harry Blaine. Cherry's remarks, not untainted with malice, had pointed out the economic advantages of a marriage with the son and heir of Lincoln Pruitt, president of the largest wholesale hardware company in the middle west, as opposed to the expectations of a girl marrying a salaried reporter. But Crystal, afraid of stumbling into one of the pitfalls of her old life, as an unpopular girl trying desperately to get a man, had refused to consider the possibility of George Pruitt's falling in love with her. It had been easy to tell herself that he belonged to Faith, that he was essentially a one-woman man, that not even Faith's happy marriage with Bob Hathaway could discourage George's beautifully steady devotion.

But now she could not blink the fact that the first crisis of her new life was almost upon her. Love—perhaps not the high flame which Faith Lane had unintentionally kindled in his heart, but real love for all that—was to be offered to her when he had finished this picture. It was not difficult to understand why he chose to wait. Cherry had once said of George Pruitt that he was predestined to be disappointed in love and to be married for his money. It was no secret that she had tried to do that very thing, and that her flamboyant beauty had failed in competition with her sister's quiet serenity and goodness. It was one of the things for which Cherry had never quite forgiven Faith.

"Well, I haven't tried," Crystal told herself. "But even if I haven't it would be terrible to hurt him. He's so kind, so good, so real. The woman he loved and married would be wrapped in a cloak of tenderness and devotion for the rest of her days. It should be easy to love George, but—Faith didn't. I wonder—"

Cherry came in then, with little Hope pattering after her, clutching for the hem of the brief skirt which was almost out of her reach. George laughed and there was no more time for heart-searching. And the next day before she had arrived at any conclusion at all as to her feelings for George Pruitt, Harry Blaine's delayed telephone call came, filling her with such joyous anticipation of a new work life that there was small place in her thoughts for George Pruitt.

Next: Harry Blaine in a new role.

Dorinda's Diary

IT WAS "whispering dawn" and the camp fire smelled so good, with its sharp tang of leaves and grass, I stood on the running board of a car and recited Helen Anthony's "Spring Fires" in a grandiloquent voice and manner. (For years I have been trying to use that word "grandiloquent." . . . It sounds unreal, though, since I have written it down, like the marvelous stories of renowned ancestors we hear told by people we know to be little and common. . . .) Jezica, sprawled on the cushions from a car, wrapped in so many blankets she looked like a bundle of bedding with a head, regarded me with scorn-filled eyes.

It was the opening of the fishing season a few years ago. We had driven in to this East Texas lake the night before. Our husbands—mine and Jezica's—had been gone some time and we were waiting for their return with fish for breakfast. It was too early for mosquitoes to be very bad and the beauty and mystery of early morning lay over trees and water and the voices of hundreds of birds filled my ears and the odor of woods and rotting leaves and ferns mingled with new growth and the wild flowers made an indescribable fragrance that went to my head. . . . So behold me standing on the side of the car being regarded by the scornful eyes of Jezica.

My voice boomed out and went sailing way down to the end of the lake where a blue haze had swallowed the boat containing our husbands. Out of his haze a voice answered me, but the words were indistinguishable. Probably better so, as it might have been My Family telling me to shut up and put the coffee on and I hate to be told to shut up on such a heavenly occasion, although next to the odor of the wood fire I love to smell coffee cooking over it. "What did he say?" said Jezica. ". . . Anything about eating? I'm starved to death . . . but what's that to him? . . . I know it was Tom . . . any man who likes to get up at this unearthly hour and go fishing, would be hollering at an old woman who likes to get up and go to spouting poetry about greening twigs and smoke from burning grass. . . . It isn't my nose that's filled, it's my eyes, and your greening twigs have already torn my stockings to shreds and if I don't have blood poison from these punctures they left in my legs, I'll be surprised. . . . A week of this and I'll go mad. . . . I'm freezing and these trees and this dense undergrowth smother me. . . . And listen! If those two men think I am going to cook, they are badly mistaken. . . . I tried to get Tom not to come . . . he knew it was nearly time for my bridge club to entertain, but he thinks all the little fishes would die of grief if his face didn't look down at them the day the season opens . . . that's all I hear all the year . . . and then to get up at this ungodly hour after staying awake all night!"

A frisky young squirrel that was running up and down a thick grapevine stopped and gave me a pitying look as I stepped down from my platform and picked up the coffee pot. . . . But why should he pity me, since I come to think about it? On a fishing trip, unless you fish, you are excess baggage . . . even spouting poetry to the four winds. . . . But the sun is rising over the lake and I stop thinking and hold my breath. A great golden ball, it is held on the tips of the fingers of the tall green pines for a breath-taking space of time, then as it is flung, it breaks into a thousand golden bubbles on the waters of the lake.

I am brought back to the coffee pot in my hand by Jezica's voice, "Well, did you ever see the sun rise before? It's the same old sun you've been looking at and raving over the past 65 years. For heck's sake, put on the coffee!" I defended myself, weakly. "But the sun always looks different, Jezica, no matter how many times you see it. . . . Sometimes I think there must be a thousand suns! One couldn't look so many different ways. . . ." Jezica sat up and drew the cover tighter about her. "Oh, piffle," she said, "you might as well say the electric light bulb on your front porch looks different every time you look at it. . . . Put on some bacon, too, I'm hungry as a wolf and those fool men will fish until it's time for lunch."

"My gosh!" said Tom, about night, as he sat cleaning the fish. "I tried to get you not to come, Jezica . . . what'd I care what time it was. . . . I was catching fish, woman! Why didn't you fix you some lunch? . . . We took some with us. . . . I hollered to you this morning and told you we were going down the lake and wouldn't be back until late . . . we came to stay a week. . . ."

But we didn't. Jezica always went, and no matter who they were with, they came back after three days at the longest. If she couldn't get Tom to leave any other way she would get sick. Once he got off without her; how, I never knew, but in two days she had gotten a message to him she was sick and he had to come home. She's the same way about his playing golf or going to a ball game. She doesn't play or go to ball games, so he mustn't. I heard her mother talking to her once. "Jezica," she said, "don't you know it is just as natural for men to want to go places without their wives as it is for wives to want to go without their husbands? . . . How would you like for Tom to go with you to your bridge parties or other places you're so crazy about going? Why, child, men want men company sometimes, same as you want women company . . . and they think more of you when you let 'em go . . ."

"Oh, piffle," said Jezica, ". . . got anything to eat? . . . I'm starved to death." My Family always says, "If Jezica's going, I'm not"—but—

IT WAS "whispering dawn" and the camp fire smelled so good with its sharp tang of leaves and grass, I stood on the running board of a car and recited in a grandiloquent voice a verse from Mrs. Finley Weldon's "As a Young Son Views the Seasons," published in the Golfer magazine—

"When Dad comes chargin' in the house
About the first good thaw,
And says, 'Where are my fishin'-clothes,
An' fishin' things,' to Ma,
An' talks of casts and rods and spinners
An' wonders where he'll get his minners;
An' asks us where his waders are;
An' says, 'Does no one want the car?'
An' sniffs the air and whistles clear—

Jezica, sprawled on the cushions from a car, wrapped in so many blankets she looked like a bundle of bedding with a head, regarded me with scorn-filled eyes.

IT WAS the opening of the fishing season. We had driven in to Lake Kemp the night before. Our husbands—mine and Jezica's—had been gone some time and we were waiting for their return with fish for breakfast. The beauty and mystery of early morning lay over the hills and water and the voices of hundreds of birds filled my ears. . . . My voice boomed out and went sailing down the lake where a blue haze had swallowed the boat containing our husbands. . . . Jezica's voice was rumbling along in the same old line of how long she is not going to stay and for heck's sake to put on the coffee pot and fry some bacon . . . everything the same—the eternal mystery of the dawn. . . . "Tom didn't wait for the first good thaw to get his clothes ready . . . he stays ready and all he talks about is casts and rods and spinners . . . and the excuses that man can think up to get off from me with the car. . . . A week of this and I'll go mad . . . no trees out here and the sun beating down will cook me. . . . And listen! If those two men think . . ."

A rabbit sat and regarded me with a pitying look and jumped off into a patch of young mesquite as I stepped down from my platform and picked up the coffee pot. . . . But why should he pity me, since I come to think about it? On a fishing trip—unless you fish, you are excess baggage—even spouting poetry to the four winds. . . . But the sun is rising over the lake and I stop thinking and hold my breath. A great golden ball, it rises up, up, like a giant hand was holding it . . . at the edge of the bank it bursts, falls and drifts off into a thousand golden bubbles on the waters of the lake.

ZOE BECKLEY'S CORNER

Stirring Up Life

"Dear Zoe—When you are utterly sick of your surroundings, home, office and whatever friends you possess, what to do? I have never had the chance to go out much nor much homelife as my parents don't make friends. I have grown bitter. I have no close friends and am in a rut. I am not an 'old maid' but very young and quite goodlooking. —A. R. L."

Shake, Sister!

I've been in the same boat—or should I say rut? So has almost everybody. It's inevitable; it's human. And it mustn't make you bitter, for you can snap out of it. All you need is a tiny bit of willpower and initiative.

In London last spring I ran across a girl, born in Denmark, who was working her way round the world "with her needle." She was a milliner but her job in the little home village grew dull and uninspiring. She yanked her savings out of the bank and started forth, working her way. Her next scheduled stop was Paris where she expected to get chic enough to make some Fifth Avenue shop in New York fairly sit up and beg for her services.

In Bucharest, Roumania, believe it or not, I met a woman who had started as a stenographer in a Texan town. Having a passion for travel, she dug around till she found a place in Houston, then New Orleans, then Washington, D. C. Through the civil service she climbed to a government position and thence into the diplomatic service. She had been in U. S. embassies in no less than five countries, and I swear to you she is now in Havana, and if it bored her and she decided to skip, there would be a dozen other jobs yammering for her. An expert doesn't go jobless.

Take me, even. If I hadn't got into the deepest rut ever carved by a weary stenographer in a dreary law office, I would never have seen what I have of this beautiful, thrilling old world. There's a lot I haven't seen but I'm not through yet. And I want to tell you, A. R. L., and every other girl who finds life monotonous and prospects dull, to pick up and move. If I can do it, anyone can.

Take the first step, if it's only reaching for the telephone and calling a number. Then the second step, whatever it may be, from finding a new job to buying a railroad or steamer ticket. You'll find an immense thrill in self-reliance, a glorious adventure in hitting the new trail. Fear nothing. Smile. Start.

That Kiss Question

"Dear Zoe—Is there any harm in a goodnight kiss when a young man has taken you to a show and supper afterward and behaved in every way respectfully?

—SMILES."

Haven't I aired by views sufficiently on the kiss question? Have I not said that while kisses are a ticklish business, an occasional one, managed rightly, does no harm? Haven't I? The harm is in the girl and not the kiss. Some girls just naturally know how to bestow or take one with delicacy and restraint. Others lose that most precious of all things, self-control, and then there's the mischief to pay. The beauty of a kiss lies in the sentiment behind it.

More Heartbreak

"Dear Zoe—My boy friend and I had a misunderstanding and parted. Without him I am so miserable that I cry myself to sleep. He is stubborn and goes with other girls, I think, just to make me jealous. I go with no one, just wait for him to call. Please help me.

HEARTBROKEN."

If you were in the wrong, make the first move. If he was, let matters alone, and repay him in kind—that is, snap out of your crying spells and skip around with other boys like a mountain goat hopping from crag to crag. Moping is silly and harmful. Save your tears for real troubles.

◆ ◆ ◆

Mercy, Are We Dreaming!

"Dear Zoe—What is your opinion of a fellow who is always trying to impersonate a girl? And of a girl who smoke a cigar?—S. H."

The boy with the flair for girl imitations may be only an aspirant for a stage career like Julian Eltinge or—what's that other chap who wears a girls' clothes? But if I saw a girl smoking a cigar I'd have someone pinch me to see if I were dreaming—or ring for the police and have her pinched. But I think you're kidding me; there's no such animal.

Question Maire

"Dear Zoe—I am 16 and go steadily with a boy 18. Is that too young to be thinking of love? Can a girl 'get' and still be respected by the boy? If you don't go out with him will he still care for you?

—SUSIE."

Yes. Few girls of 16 know love when they meet it. In fact, few of any of us do. But give yourself a fair chance. Only by experience can one come anywhere near judging what one wants in the way of a mate. You can't have enough experience at 16.

"Petting" is not a practice that inspires respect in anybody, least of all the boy who shares in it. Don't do things your on conscience warns you against. Keep sweet, little girl. You'll be thankful later.

Go out with him only occasionally. Let him come to your house to call and meet all the folks.

Futility of Lies

"Dear Zoe—I met a girl through 'chance acquaintance.' When she asked where I came from I told her from a western state. Our friendship grew and mutual fondness developed, but when she found I lied concerning where I came from she stopped liking me. Is that what you'd call true love?

—B. SPEED E."

True love is of slow growth. It thrives on truth and withers under disappointment. It was silly of you to lie when the truth would have served you quite as well. You have disillusioned the girl and handicapped yourself. If you really admire her, make a manly little speech telling her you are sorry for substituting fiction for fact and that she can count on you for nothing but the truth in future. If she takes you back, see that your promise is kept.

◆ ◆ ◆

The Ice Man

"Dear Zoe: He takes me to all the formal dances and treats me beautifully, but never asks for a single kiss. I'm the quiet type and not a petter but I'd enjoy the evening more if he seemed to want to kiss me. —CURIOUS."

He likes you because you are different from the rest. But you don't attract him physically. Be tempting. Be less the pal and more the siren. But don't go far. Kiss—and run. That's the artistic way.

TAKE your mother down to Joza Dickson's and buy her a pretty new hat for Mothers' Day. She'd love it!

I PICKED out that beautiful china pattern, "Acacia," at Bailey-Moline's as an ideal Mothers' Day present. She would adore the fresh newness of it. How proud she would be to set the table for company occasions and special family dinners.

The gift ware department at Bailey-Moline's is full of beautiful wares collected from many lands. Odd little pieces mothers like to have to lend charm and individuality to their homes.

I wouldn't be surprised if—

But that's a pleasant surprise I'll let you find out for yourself when you go to Bailey-Moline's and ask for prices.

let FLOWERS say that you remember!

OF COURSE you remember. Who could forget the years and years of thoughtful care and kindness. The only thing some of us forget is to express the appreciation we feel so deeply.

Right now is a good time to phone Wichita Floral Company, 3300, and place an order to be delivered next week-end. They wire or write for flowers to be delivered any place your mother happens to be, (and the prices stay the same as any other time). This year a Bebb bouquet would be a mighty sweet way of expressing your dearest thoughts to your dear mother.

LOVELACE'S Book Store always has the prettiest cards, but their cards for Mothers' Day are exceptional. The delicate sentiments you feel so strongly and are at such a loss to express are beautifully worded for you on these cards.

May I suggest a nice book from Lovelace's as a very appropriate Mothers' Day or graduation gift?

THE Orchid Shop is displaying interesting gifts for Mothers' Day. Lovely pieces of costume jewelry, lingerie, unusual bags. Besides the lovely things they suggest, the Orchid Shop prices are always so reasonable.

HAVE you heard about Baby Week program at P. B. M.'s? A real community event, I think.

WHO would enjoy a little more leisure time than mother? Not a single soul I can think of. Mother has a thousand and one little things stowed away in that sweet mind of hers that she is going to do "when I get time."

Now if you want to give her this time that she would enjoy so very, very much go down to the Texas Electric Service Company, 904 Scott and buy her an electric appliance. Did I say one? I meant several.

Because you know the more electric servants a woman has working for her so efficiently and effectively the more time she has to do the things she enjoys most.

Perhaps it's a beautiful coffee urn your mother wants so that she can serve her friends right on the table and not have to hop up and run to the kitchen every few minutes because she is ashamed to bring the old time coffee pot to the table. Maybe it's a toaster or a new iron she needs . . . or maybe . . . IT'S A FRIGIDAIRE!

Have you tried to find out what she wants? The chances are if you pin mother right down to it she'll say it's something from The Texas Electric Service Company, 904 Scott.

EVEN mother can't wear her usual sweet expression if her eyes are tired, strained and aching. Improper glasses or, perhaps none at all, make the tell-tale wrinkles that are the arch enemy of beauty.

Dr. Duval at the Faith Optical Company, 910 Scott, tells me that "proper glasses can bestow more lasting benefits than a beauty specialist."

How about your mother's glasses?

IT'S a real treat to drop in at Nunn Electric Company, 917 Scott, each week and ask what the hit of the week is, so I can tell you. It isn't that I like to spread news, but I like so very much to have something new and a bit newsy to tell you each week. The Columbia record that seems most popular just now is:

I'm Still Caring
Love Me or Leave Me
Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians.
Columbia record 1782 D.

Nunn Electric Company delivers records to any part of the city. Dial 8118. To keep up with their Columbia releases is to be up to date with the most popular hits of the day.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS

Guardians Meeting

Guardian association will meet Tuesday evening at 7:30 at local headquarters. Each guardian is requested to take her list of points on contest and check it over carefully and report the points her group has earned in April at the meeting Tuesday evening; also the monthly reports are due and local headquarters request the guardians to please bring them Tuesday evening.

Board Meeting

Executive board meets Wednesday at 12 o'clock at local headquarters. The luncheon is to be served by the guardian association. All council members are cordially invited to attend.

District Conference

Attention is here called to the first district conference of district No. 4, including Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas, on May 29 and 30. Lester F. Scott, national executive; Miss Edith Kempthorne, national field secretary; Miss Helen Biggart, symbol editor and chairman of the national honor committee, and Miss Ruby Lattimore, one of the associate field secretaries, will all attend the conference. The Texas hotel will be headquarters for the conference, which will open Wednesday, May 29, with a general meeting about 1:30.

The banquet will be held Wednesday evening. The conference will close with the morning session on Thursday. Other details of entertainment have not been received. All council members, executives, guardians and any others interested in Camp Fire in the four states are urged to attend the conference. It is hoped that a large delegation will attend from the Wichita Falls district. A big exhibit will be held and Wichita Falls will be well represented in the exhibit. The national training course at Camp Grayson will follow the conference, opening Saturday, June 1.

Appreciation Week Field Meet

Local headquarters wishes to express appreciation to the Camp Fire Girls who helped with the Junior chamber of commerce appreciation field meet at Bellevue park Friday evening. It is an inspiration to see our Camp Fire Girls developing such fine leadership and splendid cooperation. Those who took active part were Edith McClure, Frances Hyland, Ethel Tasker, Clarice Clark, Charlotte Kennedy and Margaret Davis. A large number of other Camp Fire Girls came out and assisted in various ways. The evening was declared a success. Plans are already formulating to make it a bigger and even better occasion next year.

First Aid Course

Camp Fire Girls Red Cross first aid course will begin Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock at local headquarters with Miss Winifred Elrod in charge.

Park Work

All Camp Fire Girls who want to give volunteer work in the parks during June, July or August please get in touch with Mrs. Bartholomew at local headquarters. A special recreation honor will be given to all girls giving a certain number of hours in the parks and all those who do not put in enough hours for special honor will be allowed to count time on service honor. The park programs will be from 8:30 to 11:30 in the morning and from 4 to 5:30 on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and the programs will be so planned that girls giving service will get splendid training in directing games, races, dramatics, hand work and songs.

Wihetonga Group

Wihetonga group met Friday afternoon with their guardian, Mrs. Anna Barnhill, for a business meeting. After the usual opening service and transaction of business the girls discussed ranks. Ten girls in this group have passed their wood gatherer rank since March 1, and have started working on the second rank of fire maker. Those present at the meeting were Lois Fisk, Hilda Rose Bergolfsky, Virginia Word, Dorothy Bash, Maggie Jo Bell, Anita Clark, Daisy Combs, Helen Gardner, Catherine Goen, Dorothy Helen Johnston, Pauline Sloan, Mary Florence Cowden, Helen Eaton, Mabel Green, Mary Jo Hooper, Mary Ossenbeck and Mrs. Barnhill. The girls voted that when a girl just comes to the meeting and stays only a few minutes without really taking any active part they would not be counted present.

Alahi Group

Alahi group met Tuesday afternoon at K. C. hall for a business meeting. After the usual opening business plans were discussed for the summer meetings and a hike planned.

Wokonna Group

Wokonna group of Zundelowitz Junior High school met Tuesday afternoon with Mary Vernon, president, in the chair. Plans were made for girls who were to be in the parade to wear middies and skirts, the Camp Fire Girls service uniform. The girls were to meet after school Wednesday and decorate cars for parade, the cars representing this group to be furnished by Mrs. Gentry Worley and Mrs. O. W. Largin.

Final check was made on the six or more girls planning to go before the committee of awards Saturday to pass wood gatherer's rank.

Those present were Mary Vernon, Jean Worley, Hesteline Wilson, Juanita Holmes, Audrey Skelton, Thelma Simmons, Mary Elizabeth Largin, Virginia Green, Frances Nell Ellis, Ida Weaver, Ruth Jones, the guardian, Miss Rebecca McCrary, and the group mother, Mrs. O. W. Largin.

Yakoma Group

Yakoma group met Friday afternoon with the new officers in the chair. During the business meeting a committee was appointed to arrange for ceremonial meeting to be held soon. A picnic was planned for girls and families for the near future. The hike planned for May 4 was postponed to the 12th. Work is progressing fast on ranks. Those present were Mary Rosalie and Myrle Murphy, Rose Mary Cate, Margaret Davis, Evelyn Van Emden, the guardian, Mrs. J. A. Davis, and two visitors, Martha Pastusek and Eleanor Cate. Most of the other members of this group attended the Passion play, so were unable to attend the meeting. This is the first time in over a month this group has failed to have 100 per cent attendance.

Kewanhi Group

Kewanhi group met Friday afternoon at the home of their guardian, Mrs. A. W. Ayres, and planned a bake sale for May 11. Words and motions for "Mammy Moon" were practiced. This is one of the Neidlinger songs to be learned for passing rank. The members are planning to pass wood gatherer rank before the committee of awards in June. Those present were Helen Black, Theresa Bell and Sylvia Elam, Frances Vinning, Emily Coleman, Pauline Davis, Mrs. Ayres, a new member, Louise Gilliland, and one visitor, Mrs. H. H. Vinning.

Ihaha Group

Ihaha group met Tuesday afternoon at the home of their guardian, Mrs. Anna Barnhill and spent the entire meeting working on their handcraft project for their Mother's day surprise.

Adi-Iwah Group

The council fire which was planned by the Adi-Iwah group for Friday evening, was postponed, due to the program at Bellevue park, of which the Camp Fire Girls had charge. Clarice Clark, Ethel Tasker and Edith McClure of this group were three of the five girls taking the most active part in planning the games and helping to help put them over on Friday evening, and Miss McIlheran wishes to express her appreciation to these girls for their splendid cooperation. The group will have a meeting in their club room at the First Presbyterian church on Wednesday to make plans for the council fire and the next month's activities.

Watanopa Group

Watanopa group met at the home of their guardian, Mrs. R. Arrington Friday afternoon and planned a hike for May 11. It will be a bacon and egg hike, with each girl taking and cooking her own bacon and eggs to be made into a sandwich. Clarice Clark, assistant guardian, will demonstrate how to cook an egg on a hot stone and the girls will do it to earn camp craft honor No. 306. Honor 305 will be earned by having two girls blaze the trail and the rest to track them. The girls practiced "Mammy Moon" and "Walking Song" towards their three songs required to pass wood gatherer rank. Many of the girls attended the matinee of the Passion play instead of coming to the meeting. One new member, Emmie Taylor, was welcomed into the group.

College Players To Present 'The Brat' on May 9

"The Brat," by Maude Fulton, a three-act comedy presented by the Blue Curtain players of Wichita Falls Junior college last Dec. 18, is to be given a second presentation at the college auditorium Thursday, May 9, according to plans announced by the Blue Curtain players.

The performance last fall was pronounced by many who have seen Blue Curtain performances for a number of years as the outstanding piece of dramatic work ever put over by the college players, whose reputation has been an enviable one ever since the organization of the group four years ago.

Constance Castile, a prominent member of the cast and now since the second semester a student in Baylor university, has just wired that she thinks enough of the play to return to Wichita Falls for several days next week to appear in rehearsals and in the final performance Thursday night. A splendid cast of players was assembled in the fall performance and arrangements have been completed to have all original actors return for this performance, according to Miss Kinsey, director. Mrs. Woodard Bass, formerly Harriet Peterson, Blue Curtain officer and a leader in college dramatics, has also expressed her desire to return for this performance.

After the performance last winter many requests were received from students and town people for another presentation, but the closeness of the Christmas holidays made a repetition then impossible. The contemplated presentation is planned to give a number of Blue Curtain members a final opportunity to apepar before the college groups before they receive their diplomas in a few weeks. Almost the entire cast is composed of graduating seniors.

BIRTHS LEAD DEATHS BY 19 DURING APRIL

Births reported in Wichita Falls during the month of April led the deaths by 19, according to the regular monthly report issued Saturday from the office of the city health department at the Memorial auditorium.

There were 50 births and 31 deaths reported to the department during the past month.

GOOD BUSINESS GAINS SHOWN IN REPORT OF SHERWIN-WILLIAMS CO.

The Sherwin-Williams company has enjoyed a highly satisfactory business, with all factories and departments going at top speed during the seven-month operations of the current fiscal year, according to information received here by A. M. Howard, manager of the company's local store, located at 818 Scott avenue.

The company's dyes, chemicals and color department shows a gain of over $1,000,000 to March 31 and March showed a gain of $547,000 over last March, Mr. Howard was advised. The report further stated that the company's sales to March 31 showed gains of well over $2,000,000 and with the present weekly gains the increase should be better than $2,500,000 by April 30, last.

Mr. Howard reports the local company is having a splendid year, showing good gains in the entire Wichita Falls trade territory.

NOTED AIRMEN VISIT STALEY AIRPORT HERE

Fourteen aviators, two of them well-known in national air circles, landed at Staley field, airport of the Wichita Falls Air Transport company on the Henrietta road, during the last 10 days.

Randolph Page, who, with Eddie Stinson, held the world's endurance for several years, flew here in a Stinson Wasp, headed for Fort Worth from Detroit. Mr. Page was also one of the first air mail pilots in this country and has a war record.

Larry Fritz and W. Porte, of Los Angeles, landed here in two Lockheed-Vega planes, which they were taking from Los Angeles to Tulsa for delivery to the Southern Air Fast Express, the new line opened from Dallas to St. Louis by Erle Halliburton of Duncan, Okla. Fritz is head pilot for the Maddux airlines, which operate on the Pacific coast.

The other arrivals follow:

W. S. Mitchell, Monocoupe, Big Spring, Texas, and return.

A. Lynn Clark, Travel Air, Long Beach, Calif., to Enid, Okla.

G. Wines, Waco 10 whirlwind, Milwaukee, Wis., to Dallas.

D. L. Francis, Eaglerock Ox-5, Houston to Fort Worth.

E. W. Williams, Eaglerock whirlwind, Colorado Springs to Greenville, S. C.

R. S. Johnson, Hisso Cannuck, Dallas to Mangum, Okla.

CITY MAKING TWO MORE DIAMONDS FOR SANDLOT BASEBALL TEAMS HERE

Work is progressing rapidly on two additional baseball diamonds being arranged for the sandlot teams this year, according to C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent.

AUCTION BRIDGE

By MILTON C. WORK
The International Authority

Mr. Work has prepared a booklet giving detailed information concerning the correct way to play progressive auction bridge. This booklet will be sent to all readers without charge. Mr. Work will also answer without charge any bridge questions. Requests must be accompanied by an addressed, stamped, return envelope, and addressed to Mr. Milton C. Work, care of this newspaper.

In this article I shall answer a number of the questions which are most frequently contained in the queries I receive.

The cut is completed by the dealer. The laws provide that the dealer, after the cards have been shuffled by the adversary on his left, presents them to the adversary on his right who cuts them by lifting off the top portion and placing it toward the dealer, beside the bottom portion. The dealer then places the bottom portion on top. Each portion must contain at least four cards.

There is no such thing in either auction or contract as "reserving" a bid. The dealer must either bid or pass, and if he passes and the next three players do likewise, the deal is thrown out and the dealer gets no second chance. In neither auction nor contract is a player ever forced to bid. When his turn arrives he may always pass if he wishes to do so. After three passes there is nothing in the laws that compels a fourth hand to bid; nor is a player legally compelled to bid after the partner has made an informatory double. It may be advantageous for him to do so, but he has the legal right to pass. Everything in this paragraph applies to all forms of bridge, including duplicate.

The declarer is the player who first for his side names the declaration that becomes the contract. It does not matter in the least what other bids may have been made either by the original bidder or his partner, nor which of them makes the final bid. When the final bid is passed by three players in succession, the question of which of the two partners who obtain the contract is the declarer is settled by which of them first named the declaration selected. Suppose a dealer should start by bidding one spade, that it was overcalled by the adversaries—with clubs, the dealer then bid hearts and that the final bid was spades made by the partner of the dealer. In such the dealer, not the player who made the last bid, would be the declarer. There is no such thing as a player's "abandoning" his declaration and thereby losing his standing as declarer.

After the final bid, the play is started by the adversary on declarer's left who leads a card. After that lead is made, the dummy hand is exposed. If the dummy is not required to expose his hand sooner, the first lead is frequently spoken of as the "blind" lead. There is no penalty for a dummy who sees fit to aid the leader by prematurely exposing his hand or any part thereof, but he would be foolish to do so. There is not and never was any law that requires a dummy to expose his aces when the contract is no trump or his trumps when there is a suit contract.

A game in auction bridge is 30 points made for tricks. In contract it is 100 points made for tricks. In either game, when the adversaries double (a voluntary act), they double the value of each trick. Consequently in any case in which a declarer makes enough points for game due to the double, when he would not have made them without the aid of the double, the declarer wins the game because he has made the amount thereof; if playing progressive he receives the recognized bonus for winning a game in one hand.

When a declarer makes the amount of his bid in auction bridge, he counts below the line the full value of all tricks won. For example, with two spades the contract and four spades made, declarer would count 36 below the line and go game; but in contract, declarer counts below the line only the amount of his bid, and gets a premium above the line for extra tricks. Consequently in the above case, spades being worth 30 per trick at contract, he would count 60 below the line and would not go game because at contract game is 100.

When a declarer is doubled and makes more than the amount of his contract in auction bridge, he counts below the line the double value of all tricks made. In contract he counts below the line the double value of his bid, and above the line a double premium for his extra tricks. Suppose two spades to be bid and doubled and four to be made; in auction bridge the declarer would count 72 below the line and a "bonus" above the line—50 for doubled contract and 50 for each trick. In contract he would count 120 below the line, the value of two spades doubled (60 per trick), and above the line a "premium" for making contract and for each extra trick. The size of this premium would depend upon whether declarer was vulnerable.

In auction bridge a declarer counts the bonus allowed for making a slam, regardless of whether he bids for a slam or not. If he bids to take 13 tricks and goes down one, he still counts the bonus of 50 for making the small slam; but in contract no slam premium is counted unless it be bid for.

C. B. M'CONNELL IS ELECTED NATIONAL DELEGATE M. W. A

C. B. McConnell, 1800 Tenth street, was elected a delegate from Texas to the national head camp of the Modern Woodmen of America for the ninth time at the state camp which was held in Waco last Thursday. He received a unanimous vote from the delegates of this district.

The 10 delegates from Texas and the state officers will take a special car from Dallas to the national camp, which will be held in Chicago, June 4 to 8.

On Jan. 1, 1928, Mr. McConnell succeeded former Gov. Pat Neff as state lecturer for the Modern Woodmen and he still holds that position.

At the state meeting in Waco Mr. McConnell responded to the address of welcome. The national camps and the state camps are now held every four years. The next camp will be at Brownwood in 1933.

Mr. McConnell finished his 32nd year as a member of the organization Saturday. During that time he has attended the following national head camps: Kansas City, Mo., 1899; St. Paul, Minn., 1901; Indianapolis, Ind., 1903; Buffalo, N. Y., 1911; Chicago, Ill., 1912; Toledo, Ohio, 1915; Chicago, Ill., 1917 and 1928.

Mr. McConnell served as police desk sergeant and clerk of the corporation court during the administration of Police Chief George Hodgins and had served as court bailiff of Wichita county prior to that time. At present he is office clerk of the George Hodgins Bureau of Investigation here.

There are about 3,000 wood ties to the mile on a railroad.

High School and College Doings

When the 1928-1929 school year is brought to a close May 24, the largest graduating classes in the history of the high school and junior college will receive diplomas.

The list of prospective graduates this year totals 328 in the high school and 61 in the junior college. Forty-four students graduated from the high school last January, the second largest mid-term class in the history of the institution. The highest total ever completing school numbered 63 the previous January. Including the mid-year graduates and the two lists of prospective graduates in May from both school divisions, the total is 328.

The next highest number of graduates completing the courses in the high school and college was last year when 293 students received diplomas. Sixty-three graduated at mid-term, while 175 completed the high school courses and 65 from the junior college in May.

Program cards will be distributed among students Tuesday morning during the half-hour period for the purpose of signing for the courses desired when school begins next September, according to E. H. Rider, principal of the high school and dean of the college.

Members of the Junior College Writers' club are now working on material for a magazine section of The Wichitan, the junior college weekly newspaper, for the last edition of this school year which will be distributed on Wednesday, May 22. The issue will mark the first magazine section ever to be added to the school paper, according to Prof. A. F. Edwards, sponsor of the publication.

Election of officers for the rest of the school year and the beginning term of next year will feature the weekly meeting of the junior college which will be held Tuesday night from 7:30 until 8:30 o'clock.

The election was previously scheduled for last week, but due to the presentation of "The New Poor" by the Blue Curtain Players organization, no meeting was held.

Work was started on the plowing and sodding of the athletic field in the rear of the junior college building during the latter part of last week. The field is now being scraped and plowed in readiness for the returfing.

The work is being sponsored by the board of education.

Two additional tennis courts are being added to the campus on the east side of the building so that they may be used during the summer by the city park department. The two courts are to be located on the east side of the building just north of the two already standing.

A YEAR AGO THIS WEEK
(From the Files of The Wichitan)

William Cason won first place in the state oratorical contest with an original oration at Jacksonville Baptist college, Jacksonville, Texas. Representatives from each of the four districts of Texas were entered in the contests.

Mack Thomas Jr. was selected editor-in-chief of the 1929 Wal-Kun and Jim Tom Barton as business manager when the election of officers for the college year book took place at college assembly. Harold Diggs was elected managing editor and Gaylor Giles, head of the photograph committee.

Suffered For Twenty-five Years With Ringworms. Healed by Cuticura.

"For twenty-five years I suffered with ringworms on my face. They broke out in a rash and itched and burned, causing me to scratch. After scratching them they would spread, and disfigured my face.

"I tried several different remedies but none of them seemed to help me. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment so purchased some, and after using them as directed I was completely healed in thirty days." (Signed) Mrs. Mary D. Perry, Alert, North Carolina.

Home builders prefer these interior walls

USG

THE Sheetrock Metal "A" System is an outstanding success. Made in Texas to precisely fit Texas needs, home-builders designate it as the satisfactory way to build interior walls and ceilings—walls and ceilings that stay permanently smooth and flat, and that take and retain any type of decoration.

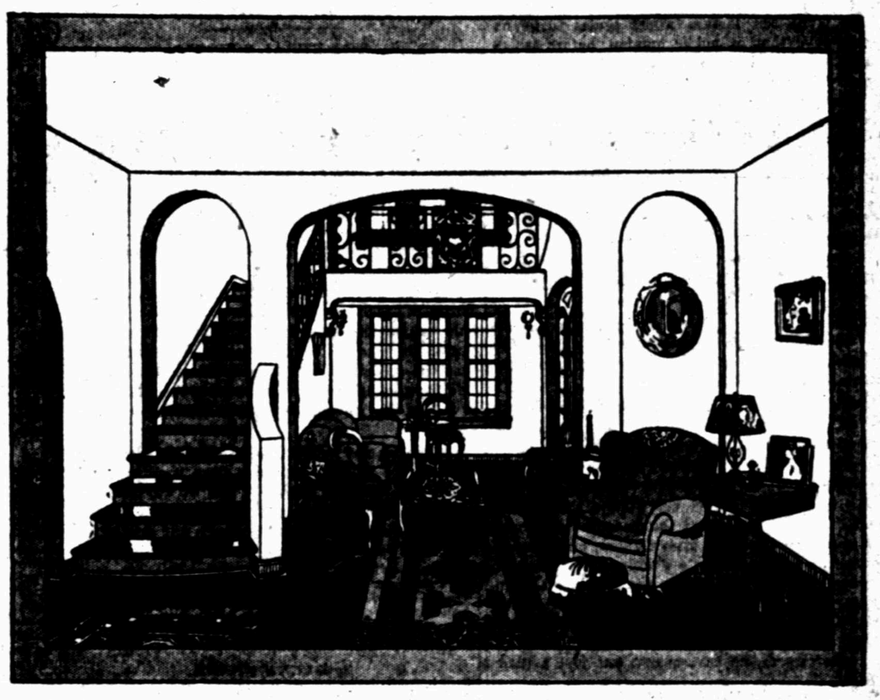

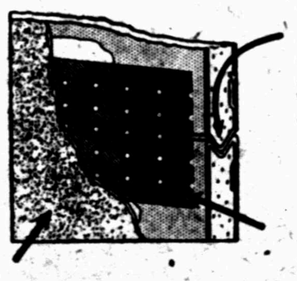

ILLUSTRATION DRAWN FROM PHOTOGRAPH OF DALLAS HOME. METAL "A" SYSTEM USED ON WALLS

2 Patented Sheetrock Metal "A" joint reinforcement

3 Textone, The Plastic Paint, or any other type of decoration.

Evidence of the success of the Sheetrock Metal "A" System is found in the fact that such walls and ceilings have been installed in more than 1,000 Texas homes, many in Wichita Falls.

The preference for Sheetrock Metal "A" is based on the many advantages it provides. Over such walls and ceilings, for example, any type of decoration may be applied—wall paper, paint or Textone, The Plastic Paint.

And wall paper applied over these interior walls and ceilings does not loosen, wrinkle and "bag," but bonds tightly, and stays smooth and unfaded. Painted decoration, or beautiful texture effects, obtained with Textone, The Plastic Paint, retain their beauty unmarred by cracks.

Sheetrock Metal "A" does not bulge, warp, buckle or crack. It is both fireproof and verminproof. In addition, such walls and ceilings are sealed against the penetration of wind and sand. They provide stout bracing for the building frame. They do not deteriorate. And they are no more expensive than ordinary construction.

The Sheetrock Metal "A" System consists of Tongue and Groove Sheetrock, one-half-inch thick; Metal "A" Joint Reinforcement (patented metal strips applied over the Sheetrock joints to make the wall crackless); and the decoration—wall paper, paint, or Textone, The Plastic Paint. The manner in which the system is formed is illustrated at the left.

Tongue and Groove Sheetrock, Metal "A" Joint Reinforcement, and Textone, The Plastic Paint, can be supplied by your lumber dealer. Or write us.

New Sheetrock Tile Board. Sharp, deep indentations provide beautiful tile effects in bathrooms, kitchens, restaurants, stores, etc. The square tile design can be easily decorated to resemble the best ceramic tile. Low in cost.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

But if the wicked turn from his wickedness, and do that which is lawful and right, he shall live thereby.—Ezekiel 33:19.

It is no sin to be tempted: the wickedness lies in being overcome.—Balzac.

ENFORCEMENT BY GUNFIRE

Whenever a member of the federal prohibition enforcement forces wounds or kills somebody, there is an immediate alignment by editors, congressmen and others. On one side of the line stand those who want the officers considered as wanton murderers, regardless of the circumstances of the particular case. On the other side stand those who seem to believe that any shooting done in behalf of prohibition is justified, regardless of who is shot or of the justification for the use of fire-arms.

The list of persons shot down by prohibition enforcement officers in the past two years is a long and grim one. To say that all of the shootings were justified is sheer idiocy. To say that none were justified is no less idiotic. There seems to be no tribunal, save that of public opinion, before which the merits of such cases can be tried out. Some persons whose innocence of wrong-doing has been clearly established have been the victims of the officers' activities. In some other cases, the shootings were clearly justified. There ought to be some way by which officers can be exonerated when they are justified, and sternly dealt with when they are not. The dry cause suffers when leading advocates of prohibition rush blindly to the defense of the officers in every case, regardless of the facts.

THE PROGRESSIVES AND FARM RELIEF

Senator Norbeck of North Dakota is a Republican who, for a time, was numbered among the progressives of the senate. He has been an ardent advocate of farm relief measures.

Speaking in the senate the other day, Mr. Norbeck defined his attitude toward the president's views on farm relief. He wasn't complaining, so he said. But he wasn't able to keep a somewhat querulous, fretful note out of what he said.

"He (Mr. Hoover) has not been a disappointment to me. I expect great things from him, especially in law enforcement, disarmament, efficient reorganization of departments and in these things I am going to support him. His attitude on the farm problem is not what I wish it were, but after the Kansas City convention I had no right to hope for anything better."

In other words, he isn't angry, but just a little bit hurt.

Whether he expresses the general progressive viewpoint toward Mr. Hoover is something for the other so-called progressives to answer. The fact is, all of the progressives, except Senator Norris, have been maneuvered into a very unhappy situation. They were led to accept Mr. Hoover as a candidate. Now that he has upset their farm relief plan, they would like to do something about it, but can't. Probably the soreness which they feel will break out more openly before Mr. Hoover's term ends.

THE OPEN WATER DITCH

The cleaning-out of the main supply ditch between Lake Wichita and the city has been interrupted at the behest of farmers along the ditch, who contend that the dredging increases seepage and adds to the danger of water-logging. With one damage suit already on its hands, as a result of water-logging, the city is forced to watch its step. It will damage land-owners if it cleans the ditch, and it will have additional troubles at the pumping plant if it doesn't.

The situation emphasizes the necessity for abandoning the open ditch altogether. Even assuming that the open ditch is satisfactory from a standpoint of cleanliness, Wichita Falls should undertake to substitute a conduit to bring the water from the lake.

It is not generally known, but it is a fact, that in normal seasons more than half of the water that flows down the ditch is used by irrigation farmers. Lake Wichita is this city's only source of supply for water that is relatively soft. The irrigated tracts could just as well use the harder water, from Lake Kemp, and if a conduit were built, and the open ditch connected with the Lake Kemp canal system, which could easily be done, all of the Lake Wichita supply would become available for municipal purposes, there would be no loss by evaporation or seepage and the water would be more satisfactory in every respect.

The city manager estimates the cost of the conduit at $350,000. It appears to us to be much the cheapest and most efficient method of conserving the supply from Lake Wichita. Such an improvement ought to be first on the list of projects undertaken when the taxpayers are ready for another bond issue.

MORE AND MORE CIGARETS

Government taxes on cigarets increased nine per cent during the first nine months of the current fiscal year, over the same period in the previous fiscal year. There was no increase on cigars and cut-plug, but the total government revenue from tobacco was increased by the users of cigarets.

Agitation and propaganda against cigarets seem to be becoming more active, but those who would put tobacco in the same class with alcohol have a long way to go.

A REGULAR IS REWARDED

The job of state commissioner of insurance, one of the juciest plums at the governor's disposal, goes to W. A. Tarver of Corsicana. Mr. Tarver is a staunch prohibitionist, but in the campaign last year he stood steadfastly with the regulars. He fought Tom Love at both the Beaumont and Dallas conventions and he zealously supported Smith and the straight Democratic ticket.

Whether this appointment means that the bolsters are out in the cold, so far as state positions are concerned, remains to be seen. It is the first appointment involving a job with any emoluments that the governor has had to make since the campaign. Perhaps he felt that it was in order to extend some recognition to the regulars after his veto of the bolster bill had offended some of them; perhaps he feels that the regulars are the only ones entitled to places in his official family. His course with regard to positions to be filled later will determine.

A RIGHTFUL PROTEST

One hundred New York citizens have pledged themselves to deliberately violate the law. They are going to each obtain a copy of the sex pamphlet written by Mrs. Mary Ware Dennett, and send it through the mails.

A federal court jury recently declared the pamphlet to be obscene and found Mrs. Dennett guilty of violating the law forbidding the sending of obscene matter through the mails. Now the same court will be called upon to punish 100 other citizens.

The 100, of course, are not of the law-breaker class. They want, first, to register their protest against the smugness and prudishness which has been written into the law and which prevents the dissemination of frank information on sex matters; and second, to find out if the jury's verdict was just an accidental one or if it represents the attitude of the government on such matters.

The pamphlet in question was originally prepared by Mrs. Dennett for the instruction and guidance of her own sons. It later came into use by religious and welfare organizations and by some school systems. If the government really means to put a stop to such instruction, and to require boys and girls to depend on what older children, usually with doubtful motives, tell them, it now has a chance to definitely embark on such a policy.

THE RURAL SCHOOLS

The educational opportunity of the rural child has improved materially in Texas in recent years, recent statistics reveal, but there is still much room for improvement. Thirty-nine per cent of Texas' million and a quarter school children are in common school districts. Thirty per cent of them are attending schools where three teachers or less are employed. There are still 3,900 one-teacher schools in Texas, and there are 107,000 children enrolled in them.

Of the 1,340,000 children of scholastic age in Texas, 782,300 live in common school districts, but only 480,000 attend school. The educational facilities of the average common school district are such that the incentive is lacking to keep on at school. The average school term in common school districts is 143 days, having increased 12 days over two years ago.

A program of legislation designed to develop and improve the rural schools has been pending in the legislature for two years. A few of the billls embodied in it have been passed, the great majority have encountered the indifference and selfishness that have held back rural educational facilities in this state in the past.

Focused but Not Fixed

Lately I have been bootlegging certain biographies into my boy's library, hoping he might, without too obvious direction from me, catch their significance.

All of these biographies I have been leaving about in my boy's room tell of men whose minds managed to be unusually effective without becoming chained to a specialism.

I want him to become acquainted with Benjamin Franklin, who somehow managed to be a craftsman, an inventor and a few other things, and withal a very effective man.

I want him to become acquainted with Leonardo da Vinci who somehow managed to be an artist, a scientist, an inventor, a philosopher, a canal builder, a writer and several other things, and withal a very effective man.

I am leaving the biographies of such men lying about in my boy's room because I want to inoculate him against the worship of specialization I know he will encounter when he outgrows boyhood and enters a modern university and later when he leaves the university and enters business or a profession.

I do not expect him to be another Leonardo, but I want him to catch something of Leonardo's spirit, for I am convinced that by the time he must take his place in the affairs of his adult world, he will find that there will be no place for the narrow specialist save among the regimental routineers who will be ordered about by the few leaders who have managed to rise above the religion of specialization that grips our time and become men who can see things in their relation.

I want his mind to be like a searchlight—focused but not fixed.

The capacity to concentrate upon the job in hand is something far different from slavery to a narrow specialization.

At any given moment the light of the searchlight is concentrated upon the thing that needs illumination, but it can sweep the countryside as well.

Unless man can combine specialization of mind with sweep of mind, specialization will mean suicide in this complex age.

Turn the Gas Up Higher

The merry month of May is here,
That is, they call it merry,
But if we didn't have a calender near,
We'd think it was February.

Some women, noting that a Montague county woman who killed her husband got a suspended sentence and $20, would say they would have given back $19.98 in change.

We didn't realize how serious the local crime wave had become until the other day, when we discovered that some fiend had swiped our entire supply of dowiagacs.

We believe that if we were in the United States senate, we could have prepared a suitable resolution for the Heflin incident. Something like this: Whereas, somebody in Brockton, Mass., threw a bottle at Senator Heflin, and whereas, it missed him, therefore be it resolved that we regret it very much.

We wish this morning to renew the offer which we made when we first learned about this new currency soon to be issued. We feel that something should be done to keep the old-style currency, with which many of us are more or less familiar, from entirely disappearing. We never had much of it, and we never kept that very long at a time, but we developed an affectionate feeling toward it that we would not willingly let die.

It occurred to us that specimens of the old money should be collected for museums and like institutions. We are willing to undertake the task of collecting it. We stand ready, with the cooperation of our readers, to see to it that all of the museums are supplied.

All that is asked of our readers is that they send, or bring, specimens of the present currency. We would like for the collections to be complete, that is that specimens of all denominations of currency be included in them. The gifts from our readers, therefore, should not be confined to any one denomination. This means extra work for us, of course, but it is a public duty, and we shoulder it bravely.

When the currency is received, we will assemble it in collections for each of the museums on our list. If there is any surplus, we shall keep it, because there is no telling when somebody will open up a new museum, and want a supply.

We shall of course forego any thought of personal profit. It is our plan to furnish the bills to the museums at actual cost, payable in the new currency, specimens of which have no value as curios.

The worthiness of this undertaking should at once be apparent to all persons of sufficient intelligence to be patrons of this colyum. We hope that the response will be such as to enable us to take care of all the existing museums and to have something left over for those established in the future. In order to facilitate the collection, we are willing to accept valid checks for the amounts given, and will exchange these checks at the banks for currency of the denominations desired.

The legislature has changed the name of Vavalla county to Zavala. We thought it was about time somebody was knicking L out of that county.

The straw hats, last Wednesday, were showing which way the wind blew.

Appreciation Week

When, and if, in the course of human events, it ever becomes expedient for our city to hold another Appreciation Week, we want to suggest that it be undertaken in a somewhat different way than was followed recently. The idea is a worthy and wholesome one, but we believe it would be productive of better results if it were put over in reverse, so to speak. Next time we have an Appreciation Week, let it be a week in which the citizenship is instructed, not in what Wichita Falls has, but in what other communities have.

Our theory is that the more Wichitans see of other places, the more they will appreciate their own home town. Instead of stimulating their appreciation with fiestas and such at home, let them be taken on a tour of other places. It would serve the same purpose, to better effect.

They would find for example, that our own is not the only city that has to inhale a full ripe smell when the wind is right, that other cities have their malodors, too. Amarillo has its smelter plant, Fort Worth has its stockyards, Houston has its bayou. Dallas has its baseball club. The legislature is in session at Austin.

They would find that there are other cities in which the street car seats should be equipped with stirrups. That ours is not the only city in which the burglars occasionally foregather for an Old Home Week. That restaurant shortcake in Wichita Falls is just about the same as it is in other places; oh, there may be some towns in which you get six strawberries instead of only five, but there is no material difference. That barbers who chew gum are not peculiar to Wichita Falls, but may be encountered almost anywhere.

They would find also that there are some points in which our community excels others. Nowhere that we have ever been can a car be double-parked with less danger of police interference, than in Wichita Falls. It has seemed to us that the practice of spitting on the sidewalks has been developed to a higher degree of proficiency here than almost anywhere else. In number and extent of mis-paved streets, our own city would certainly stand very near the top.

Our town has things that rouse our ire,
And some that we can't proclaim;
There's lots of things we don't admire,
But we love her just the same.

Why don't they offer a prize, on May 1, for the biggest fish story? The fact that a woman found a $175 diamond in a can of spinach ought to provide an idea for the canners of spinach.

The Texas legislature's attitude seems to be that it can't trust anybody, not even itself.

Health And Diet Advice

A Stitch in Time

What would you think of the business man who refused to have his business checked over occasionally, or the automobile owner who refused to have his automobile checked over, or oiled, until it developed a pronounced creaking or knocking? You would undoubtedly regard either of these individuals as being extremely careless.

I have had thousands of individuals inquire of me, either in my practice or by mail, as to some method they can employ for curing themselves, or be cured, of the diseases from which they are suffering. But it is a most unusual thing for any person to ever inquire as to the best means of maintaining health and preventing disease. Human beings are so careful with most of their possessions, but are apt to be very careless when it comes to their own health, the most precious possession of all.

It is undoubtedly true that many of the most serious diseases may develop to an incurable degree without great pain or suffering. The dentist, by filling a small cavity, may prevent the decay of the entire tooth. May not the same rule hold good with the rest of the body? If a particular organ shows indication of overwork, why wait until it has been partly destroyed before reforming your habits? If you knew that your liver, kidneys, or lungs showed indications of weakness or of congestion, you could then take the necessary means of restoring them to their normal functions. But if you are unaware that anything is wrong with them, you are apt to continue with the same destructive habits which were responsible for their deterioration.

Would it not be a good plan for us to occasionally have our body mechanism checked over to determine deficiencies? There will undoubtedly come a time when every human being will have himself examined once or twice yearly, not only as a check upon his health, but as a stimulation toward better health.

I know that many people are afraid to consult doctors for fear they will advise operation, but this attitude of mind is certainly foolish. Ignorance is not a safeguard. I cannot give accurate advice to those writing in about symptoms alone, but if a doctor's report is included with the name of the disease or diseases from which the patient is suffering, it is then easy for me to send articles or advice based upon the inquirer's needs.

It is not unusual for invalids to live to a much riper age than a healthy individual. This is because they realize their own limitations and take the best of care of themselves.

Deaths from heart disease are not nearly as frequent as they were at one time, simply because doctors can recognize heart disease in its early stages and warn the patient against extreme exertion; and tuberculosis is actually decreasing in severity because a tubercular tendency can be recognized in patients before the disease has actually obtained its foothold, and the patient can be warned against becoming overtired.

The man who thinks he is too busy to have a health examination is the man who will probably die at an early age from some entirely preventable disease. A few hours now spent in learning the condition of your health and the right methods of living may result in adding many years of happiness and health to your life.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Electricity in Body?)

Question—S. S. asks: Could you tell me the cause of excess electricity in a person? Almost everything they touch, especially the hot water tap and electric light keeps them on the hop."

Answer—What you have felt is probably static electricity which is often generated by your shoes as you walk across the carpet. Just try this experiment: shuffle across the room without your feet leaving the carpet, then touch the door knob and you will find you will be able to get a spark from your fingertips. This is also true if you touch a water faucet or any other metal. It may be possible that your electric light socket is defective, and you may be getting a spark of real 110-volt alternating current. Better have an electrician examine the wire. If there is a "short" in the light socket, you may get a severe shock if you touch the metal of the socket and the water faucet at the same time. Many people have been killed from turning on a light while standing in the bathtub.

(Mixing Vegetables)

Question—W. G. S. asks: "What vegetables may be eaten at the same meal, and what does the word 'protein' mean?"

Answer—All vegetables may be mixed together at the same meal with the exception of potatoes and Hubbard squash. A protein is a certain complex combination of carbon, hydrogen, oxygen and nitrogen, with a larger amount of nitrogen than found in most other foods. Most of the proteins are meat, fish, eggs, nuts and cheese.

(Thumb Sucking)

Question—Mrs. J. B. asks: "How can I break the thumb sucking habits in my small son?"

Answer—I would suggest that you purchase aluminum mittens for your little boy. You will be able to get these mittens at a surgical supply house.

I have no quarrel with the man
Howe'er from his my thoughts may vary,
If he lives out as best he can
And shapes his actions to the plan
That stamps him stubborn and contrary.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Frank B. Lord, who has worked with the Democratic national committee through six campaigns and was assistant to the national chairman in 1916 and 1920, has blossomed out with a novel and drastic proposal which he believes will enable the Democrats to elect a president in 1932.

Lord says the best thing for the party ot do is to hold no national convention before the election. He expects that the Republicans will renominate Hoover and that Hoover will be re-elected if the Democratic opposition follows its old methods and holds a convention to nominate a candidate to oppose him.

The Democrats of the country should offer a score or more candidates, he says, a different one in 25 or more states. In each case the man nominated for the presidency by the Democrats of his state would be the strongest Democratic vote-getter in his state or section. Each state convention would simply nominate electors favorable to his candidacy.

Many Strong Candidates

Thus, New York Democrats might nominate Governor Roosevelt, Massachusetts Senator David I. Walsh, Maryland Governor Ritchie, Virginia Governor Byrd, Kentucky Senator Barkley, Texas Governor Moody, Montana Senator Wheeler or Senator Walsh, South Dakota Governor Bulow, Colorado Governor Adams, Washington Senator Dill, Wyoming ex-Governor Ross or Senator Hendrick and so on.

Lord contends that no Democrat from another state could possibly run as strong as such men as these in their own states. His theory is that hardly any of the states would turn down their favorite office-holders, and figures out a combination of states and statesmen which ought to net the Democratic candidates a combined total of at least 275 electoral votes. Then, says he:

"Let the successful Democratic electors hold their own national convention, and, between the time of their election and the day fixed by law when they must meet in their respective capitals to cast their ballots—a period of nearly two months—let them agree on a candidate for whom all of them would vote. An elector may vote in the electoral college for whomever he wishes."

Lord says this plan presents a prospect of success where the old plan of naming a candidate "guarantees defeat before the campaign opens." Now that the party has been unable to win with either an issue or a personality, let's try strategy.

The scheme is more ingenious than practicable and most certainly will not be adopted, but there is some sound theory behind it.

Lord estimates the 8,000,000 votes cast for John W. Davis in 1924 as the bed-rock minimum strength of the party, bereft of independent support. He says analysis shows that at least 3,000,000 of those votes were cast against Al Smith in 1928, reducing the number of actual Democrats among the Smith voters to something like 5,000,000, plus perhaps 2,000,000 new voters.

"The remaining 8,000,000 votes which Smith received were obviously cast by independents, independent Republicans, progressives and liberals," he says, and asks how this independent vote can best be held.

Small Vote in South

The South is no longer the backbone of the party; that backbone has been broken. Numerical disparity between southern Democrats and Democrats elsewhere is too large to warrant their control of party policies and destigies. Smith received 64,000 votes more in Massachusetts than in the entire six southern states he carried, Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, South Carolina and Mississippi. The 11 states of the once solid South, including also Florida, North Carolina, Texas, Virginia and Tennessee, cast a total vote for Smith which was 350,000 below the vote for Smith in New York. The total Democratic vote of the so-called solid South was 1,737,000 and the total Democratic vote of other states was 13,262,497."

The last campaign and election, Lord says, decentralized the party. He cites the disparity between its numerical voting strength and congressional representation, pointing out that the South has 23 Democratic senators and 87 Democratic representatives, whereas the other states, with eight times as many Democratic votes, have only 13 Democratic senators and 79 congressmen. National policies must be largely defined and limited by the action of the congressional membership, he says, so that it is likely to be impossible for the Democrats to harmonize their differences nationally.

Not a New Plan

Thus the proposal to keep the party decentralized until after the election without giving the defeatists a chance to wreck it with their wrangling before the campaign begins.

In 1836, when there were only 26 states, the Whigs tried a plan similar to Lord's suggestion in an attempt to defeat Martin Van Buren, the Democrat. They nominated Daniel Webster to carry New England, Senator Hugh White of Tennessee to carry his own and one or two other southern states, Gen. William Henry Harrison and Judge McLean to carry Pennsylvania and a few western states and vice presidential candidates to carry New York and other states. The plan to keep Van Buren from an electoral majority almost worked. A majority was 148 and Van Buren polled 170. A switch of 2,000 votes in Pennsylvania would have beaten him.

How to Lose Friends

Whenever I visit a high school and walk through the corridor of look into the classrooms it appears, on the surface of things at least that everybody is happy. And popular. But when I open my mail bag I realize that "unpopularity" is feeling possessed by many, many, boys and girls.

Here's a typical letter: "I am losing my friends and I am very unhappy about it."

Well, that's too bad—and so unnecessary. Some easily corrected mannerism or lack of consideration for others is usually at the bottom of it.

I was once helpful to a boy who insisted on dragging in his favorite topic among comrades, interested in something else, starting off with "As I was saying" accompanied by an air which seemed to say that "this group is too stupid or too ignorant to follow me." When he corrected that fault friends again came his way.

Another type is the "Let me show you how" chap who takes the center of the stage and holds it, against all comers even after his audience has drifted away. More consideration for his companions is needed.

Then there is the wet blanket young man who introduces his thought with the phrase, "I used to think so a while back, but—" That makes every listener realize that he is antiquated and that the speaker is superior—and how we all love that! The correction of this cause of unpopularity is clearly indicated.

Still other people who acquire unpopularity minimize other people's accomplishments. If they play an instrument before him he may be able to say, "That's pretty fair, but did you ever hear so-and-so play? That repells friendship.

And finally, to be very effectively unpopular always be right, and be so often right and so nearly perfect that everybody will wish you were out of sight.

Consideration for others, a recognition that some pride is the common heritage of all of us plus mutual interests and liveliness make friends.

OUR CONVERSATION CORNER

Yours for Service

As a mother I refer to your article every night. Many of the problems which are sent in for you to answer are also my problems. Since I have three lively boys you may see how this is true. In our study circle we refer often to your articles. On our bulletin board we post "Your Boy and Your Girl" along with other items of interest.

As a study circle leader I have recommended these articles many times. In parental education you are rendering a very real service, for you are assisting those who have immediate problems and you are helping to bring about a mutual understanding between parent and child—the very first essential in a fine family fellowship.

A Little More Co-Operation

I am young, 17 years old, but mother makes me wear clothes that are too old for me. I don't get many clothes, usually they are cast-offs from older sisters which are styles not fitted to my age. I have tried to reason with mother and told her how other girls dress, but she will not get me other clothes nor will she make them over. What can I do? I like to look young and stylish just as other girls do?

—TROUBLED.

Answer—Perhaps she would make them over if you'd help. Just a little appreciation of what your parents are up against financially added to an understanding on the part of your mother of just how a girl naturally feels about cast-off clothing will, I am sure, correct this condition which is troubling you so much.

Amusements

Scene from "Simba," with Martin and Osa Johnson; not a staged movie, but natural, as God made it. Four years to make. Now showing at the Strand.

'Simba,' Picture African Jungles Thrills Audiences Strand Theater Four Years Required for Making

Young Violinist Here Was Winner In Radio Contest

Joseph Rabinowitz, the young violinist who is to be presented in concert May 16 at the Junior college auditorium by the Council of Jewish Women, will be remembered as having won the honor of representing Wichita Falls in the radio contest conducted at the Dallas fair during 1926. The Olympic theater conducted the local contest and Rabinowitz was sent by this city to appear in the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation radio contest, competing with 12 contestants from as many cities in Texas, all of whom appeared before station WFAA in Dallas.

During the three years since the contest, Joseph has made remarkable progress and the public is eagerly awaiting an opportunity to hear him before he leaves for the Walter Damrosch Musical institute of New York. Tickets are being sold at 50c each, and the entire proceeds of the concert will be used toward placing the young artist in the Damrosch institute, where he can further his musical ambition.

A single peony may produce 3,800,000 grains of pollen.

The last 15 minutes of "Simba," the motion picture record of four years in the African jungles by Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson, which is the attraction at the Strand theater, are exciting enough for an evening's entertainment. The spectacle of a handful of African natives, armed only with spears and shields, facing and slaying full-grown lions, will thrill anyone to the core. The courage of these blacks who are determined to destroy the ravagers of their flocks is something that could not be believed if it were not recorded by the camera.

And all the rest of the film is on a par with these last minutes, for this picture is the greatest ever made of big game hunting. Martin and Osa Johnson, with their cameras and the native escort—"Safari," is the native term—trudged through jungles of British East Africa and Tanganyika, their travels radiating from their base camp at Lake Paradise, for the better part of four years. Not many animals of that section escaped their cameras.

There are zebras, giraffes, hippos, rhinos, enormous elephants, leopards, antelope, ostriches and a host of others. One of the great scenes of the picture is the stampede of a herd of elephants, terrorized by a jungle fire. This, incidentally, gave the Johnsons a real thrill, because they too were in the path of the flames and narrowly escaped being trampled by the elephants in their rush for safety.

'The Letter' Great All-Talking Film Now at Majestic

Jeanne Eagels registered a triumph here at the opening performance of "The Letter," Paramount's all-talking picturization of the W. Somerset Maugham stage success. The picture will be the featured attraction at the Majestic theater through Thursday. "The Letter" is an ideal all-talking picture presentation and Miss Eagels, supported by an exceptional cast, will seldom be seen to better advantage on stage or screen.

Miss Eagels, as a lady who loved neither too wisely no too well, gave a characterization of a woman scorned that will not be forgotten easily by local theatergoers. Her magnetic personality holds the audience in suspense from the opening scene to the closing one. Her voice registers well and proved aptly suited to the new form of screen entertainment. Little wonder that the superb actress has been worshipped by lovers of the drama in two hemispheres.

O. P. Heggie, brilliant portrayer of many characterizations on the stage, has the important role of the lawyer who saves Miss Eagels from conviction of a murder charge by sacrificing professional ethics. Reginald Owen, as the outraged husband, has a strong role.

Miss Eagels Praised

"The Letter' at the Criterion, is the best all-talkie melodramatic movie yet produced. It should convince the remaining skeptics there's a lot to this 'picture with applied dialog' business. Jeanne Eagels, the star, is in a large measure responsible for the film's terrific appeal. Miss Eagels, in her liar-wanton-murderess role, gives one of the most goregous portrayals that has ever been caught on the silver sheet. Her apathetic moments are delicately drawn, her emotional ones simply superb. Yes, Jeanne reaches those intangible places indefinitely termed 'the heights' in this one."—N. Y. American.

Plays Small Part

Dorothy Huston, young daughter-in-law of Walter Huston, the stage star, plays a small part as a restaurant guest in "The Lady Lies," talking picture in which Huston is featured as leading man opposite Claudette Colbert. Young Mrs. Huston, the wife of the actor's son, John, went to the studio for the day's experience of acting before the camera. She played in stock companies on the legitimate stage.

Has Role in "Thunderbolt"

Robert Elliott, who for four years played opposite Jeanne Eagels in the original cast of the stage play, "Rain," has been signed for a role in "Thunderbolt," talking picture. He is to be the prison chaplain. Richard Arlen and Fay Wray head the supporting cast and James Spottswood, Eugenie Besserer, Fred Kohler and Richard Carle are also in the cast, which Elliott joins in "Thunderbolt."

Beery Has Picturesque Role

Wallace Beery will play the picturesque role of General Orlando Jackson in the forthcoming elaborate talking film version of Booth Tarkington's "Magnolia." Charles "Buddy" Rogers will play the romantic lead in the colorful story of plantation days along the Mississippi in pre-civil war days. Mary Brian will be his leading woman and June Collyer will have a prominent role.

George Jessel in 'Lucky Boy' Here Next Wednesday

It is strange what the introduction of sound can do to the emotions of a movie fan when that sound is the heart-throb of a stirring human interest story.

Tiffany-Stahl has performed a unique accomplishment in their latest feature production, "Lucky Boy," starring George Jessel which comes to the Strand Wednesday. They have combined a powerful photoplay, one fraught with laughter, heart-ache, romance and adventure, with all the sounds that go along with these emotional experiences in real life. The sound sequences follow straight through the picture. There is heard talking, sobbing, laughter, singing. George Jessel, whose greatest gift is his wit and his ability to portray his emotions through his voice, loses none of the dramatic force that has made him famous on the speaking stage, for his jokes and heart-throbbing songs are faithfully voiced.

The picture is the story of an East Side boy who has melody and rhythm in his soul, but little else to distinguish him from hundreds of boys born in poverty. His mother's love and faith in a son she believes to be different, gives him his first chance at fame and fortune. He fails, and in disgrace goes to California and fights his way painfully to a place in the theater. It is one of the five songs he sings —"My Mother's Eyes," the theme song of "Lucky Boy," which first brings him notice. He falls in love with a society girl, and courts her against the opposition of her aristocratic family. The solution to all his problems and his rise to fame follows.

'Show People' at Olympic Theater Starting Sunday

"Show People," a film of life in the movies, which opens at the Olympic Sunday for three days, has one scene in which Marion Davies and William Haines, co-stars of the piece, are helped out by William S. Hart, Douglas Fairbanks, Norma Talmadge, John Gilbert, Mae Murray, Rod La Rocque, Renee Adoree, Leatrice Joy, George K. Arthur, Karl Dane, Aileen Pringle, Claire Windsor, Estelle Taylor, Dorothy Sebastian and Polly Moran.

There's another sequence in which Charlie Chaplin does his bit in making realistic this peep into the inner circles of cinemaland. Law Cody and Elinor Glyn also are among the atmosphere players.

Why other well-known players were not included in the crowd scenes, has not been stated officially. It may be because they didn't need the extra's daily wage of $7.50 which Fairbanks, Chaplin and the rest collected for their labors.

All the stars named were perfectly willing to give their services for friendship's sake, but there was some rule governing actor's pay that made it necessary for them to take their wages for doing their jobs.

THE WICHITA VALLEY FARMER

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF THE FARMER, DAIRYMAN, POULTRY RAISER AND FRUIT AND TRUCK GROWER

MANAGER ISSUES RULES FOR USING IRRIGATION WATER

Instructions to Ditch Riders Give Much Information

FARMERS ADVISED NOT TO WAIT FOR MOISTURE

Condition Ground Should Be Guide to Requests For Water

Instructions which have just been issued to the irrigation ditch riders by G. A. Remington, general manager of the district, contain so much information of value and interest to irrigation farmers that this paper is publishing a number of excerpts from them.

William Hickman, S. J. Gilbreath, Joseph L. Crawford, C. J. Byrd, G. F. Gray, M. L. Hines, Fred S. Roop and Joseph W. Tyson constitute the ditch-riding crew for this year.

General Instructions

The demand for irrigation water during 1929 may be heavy and it is important that the manager, water master and ditch riders, in charge of the distribution of water, make every effort to give to the water user the very best possible service. The coming irrigation season promises to be one when our irrigation project, constructed at heavy cost, will have an opportunity to prove its true worth.

When demands for water are made by a user for water service, it is your duty to make deliveries from the canal or laterals with the least possible delay. A farm ditch is one serving one user. A community ditch is one serving two or more users. Where deliveries are made from the canal or lateral of the district into a farm or community ditch, the responsibility of the district stops and the responsibility of the water user, or group of water users, begins at this point. When demands for water are made by a water user, or a group of water users, from a lateral owned, operated and maintained by the district, it is your duty to first turn the water into the lateral of the district from the canal and follow the same through to the point of delivery into the farm or community ditch, removing all weeds, fences in the water, and other obstructions. A piece of brush or a large weed remaining on the canal or lateral bottom for a considerable time will start silt to collect and will often require considerable expense to remove the accumulated material. Remove all dead weeds and brush from the ditches on your ride promptly at all times. Puddle in all structures that may need your attention and watch the banks carefully for leaks. Begin with a small head in the lateral, especially if the lateral has been recently constructed and increase the flow daily until you have the required head of water to serve the demand. Breaks often occur in ditches by failing to observe this important rule. Arrange to patrol dangerous sections of your ride first each day and start each morning at 7 o'clock a. m., and be as regular as possible so that the water users may know when and where to meet you. Patrol your entire ride daily.

The first duty of a ditch rider must be to the district. You will be subject to call at all times during the day or night. Be prepared to actually stay on your ride eight hours or more each day.

You will be furnished a complete list of the water users and the area of their holdings to be irrigated from each delivery gate on your ride. Should you find errors in these lists, we hope that you will report the same to the office or superintendent promptly in order that correction may be made on the office copy. Do not make deliveries of water to users outside the district or to users not on your list, until notified from this office to do so. We shall require that all land owners in district No. 1 and No. 2 make application for water and specify the crops on which they intend to use the water supply. In district No. 1, in addition to the application, it will be necessary that a payment of $2 per acre, as a water service charge, be made with the application for 1929. Do not make deliveries of water in district No. 1 until you have been notified that the application and payment have been made.

Your duties as a ditch rider will be very trying at times. You will meet all kinds of men. Some will be discourteous and abusive. You must be as kind and courteous to all users as possible. Let the water user display his or her temper and do the loud talking if he or she is so disposed, but always remember that it is an important part of your duties to keep cool and collected. You will find that a very large per cent of the patrons on your ride will cooperate with you and the district in putting into effect any rules for the best interests of the system and only a very small per cent of the users will oppose such a system. It is your duty to get along with this small number that is found on every canal system with the very least possible friction.

So long as you continue as a ditch rider for the district we shall expect, of course, that you work for the best interests of the district and the individual water user and cooperate at all times with the management.

Require the users on your ride to file the necessary application for 1929, signed by the owner of the land, and indicating the crops that are to be raised on the land as required by the Texas law regarding water deliveries. Always require the water user to sign a request card prior to and following each water delivery during the irrigation season. You may take three days time in which to make such deliveries, if such a period of time is necessary. Where rotation schedules have been established on laterals patrolled by the district, the water users will be divided into groups and the number of hours in the week divided between them, which will make it unnecessary for notice to be given by the water user as all such rotation deliveries will be under the control of the rider and he will notify the users when their time to use water commences.

Rotations

For the year 1929 we will continue to make deliveries of water on demand. Require your users to take their supply continuously for time required. As the demand for water increases and exceeds the capacity of any lateral owned, operated or maintained by the district, we will inaugurate a rotation system between the users on any such lateral and permit each user to take the supply each week according to the number of acres that he owners or irrigates. For example if Mr. "A" has 50 acres and Mr. "B" has 70 acres, we will make deliveries of water to Mr. "A" for 70 hours and to Mr. "B" for 98 hours each week, commencing at the head of the lateral.

Seepage

Seepage conditions due to a rise in the ground water table are affecting certain areas of the best lands on our irrigation project. Seepage usually follows the application of irrigation water after a time on any canal system. It will be necessary to do some cooperative drainage work in order to cure these conditions as they develop. During the past three and one-half years and particularly during the past year, our district has gathered considerable data regarding the rising ground water plane. The information gathered is available for any of our land owners in the district. It is unfortunate that large portions on an irrigation project usually becomes seeped and incapable of producing crops before the owners of the affected areas realize the necessity of drainage and before they will organize themselves into a drainage district for this purpose.

The water user who wilfully wastes a valuable water supply and allows the same to run into lake beds, creek channels, road gutters and other depressions is a very large contributor to rising ground water. The careful use of water for irrigation after the delivery has been made to the user or users by the district will aid materially in preventing a water logged condition. It is your duty as a rider to caution your users against taking larger heads of water than they are able to use to advantage during the full 24-hour period each day. When the water user is through irrigating, he must order his supply shut off promptly.

Stealing Water

It is your duty as a rider to report to the district office any cases where you find a user interfering with headgates or delivery gates in order to obtain a larger supply of water. It is not often that a user will appropriate the water of the district or of another user with malicious intent. He usually acts because he is angry or because he is ignorant of his rights and fails to understand the necessity of delay in getting his supply of water to his land from Diversion reservoir. The general irrigation laws and penal code of the state of Texas provide heavy fines and jail sentences for unlawfully taking, diverting or appropriating irrigation water, for unlawfully interfering with any headgate or water box, for unlawfully wasting water and not applying same to beneficial use, for destroying or injuring any gate, canal, reservoir, flume, etc., which is the property of an irrigation district, or for depositing dead animals, tin cans, garbage, offal, etc., in any canal, lateral, reservoir or lake which might obstruct or pollute the water. Up to this time it has not been found necessary to make any arrests for stealing water and we hope that it may never be necessary on this project.

Crawfish and small pocket gopher seem to be the only burrowing animals that are proving a menace to the canal system here. Breaks in the ditch may occur from the work of these pests and you must use great care in stopping any leaks that may occur from their work.

Fences on Rights-of-Way

Farm fences across our rights-of-way must be permitted but they should not be allowed to interfere with the flow of water in the canals. When fences are built across the canals or laterals of the district, we must insist that the land owners leave a wire gate on each bank wide enough to admit a team and wagon. Employes of the district must see that these gates are kept closed at all times. Ask the users on your ride to remove all fences across the canal rights-of-way that are not absolutely necessary. We have adopted a standard form of fence across our ditches for the use of the property owners, but these are simply for their assistance in building their fence. Any form of fence will be allowed so long as the necessary gates are provided in it and so long as the fence does not interfere with the flow of water. Fences on the canal banks or so close to the canal banks as to interfere with cleaning work with our teams or dredge must not be permitted.

Land Preparation

All users of water should level or smoothe and otherwise prepare their fields in order to obtain the best possible results from the water applied. An inexpensive homemade land leveler can be used for this purpose with splendid results. All high spots should be removed with a fresno or tailboard scraper and the material deposited in the low places. Land should be so prepared to irrigate that a limited head of water can be used to advantage during the full 24 hours of the day. The corrugation or border method of using water should be the common practice of our users rather than the wild flooding method which is commonly practiced here. These corrugations or borders must be made immediately following the leveling of the land and the seeding of the crops. Corrugations or borders in a field following the lines of greatest slope tend toward a better use of the irrigation water supply.

You will find it necessary at times to employ a few men or teams to help you. When hiring such men, you should give the water users, especially the taxpayers residing in the district, preference of any work on your ride. When working small crews, it is the desire of the district that you act as foreman and work with your men.

A Dozen Don'ts

1. Don't start a single water delivery without a signed request card.

2. Don't make deliveries to water users outside the district or for oil well drilling purposes until you have been notified from the office that they are entitled to service.

3. Don't deliver water into a farm or community ditch until such ditch has been thoroughly cleaned.

4. Don't allow delivery gates to be left unlocked or permit users to carry a key.

5. Don't allow deliveries to stop at night and start again the following morning.

10. Don't permit delivery gates to be set by users without supervision by the district.

11. Don't tell a user that he must do things. You will succeed better if you ask him to do it and reason things out with him.

12. Don't get angry if a user occasionally "airs" his opinion concerning you and everyone in authority.

Conclusion

Generally speaking it can be said of our water users on the project that they are making better use each year of the valuable and adequate water supply that they have stored at so much expense for their use. Occasionally we find a land owner who does not realize the importance of leveling or smoothing his land in order that irrigation water may be easily applied and sometimes we find one who applies too much water to the crop when less water and more cultivation would answer the purpose better. And again we occasionally find a land owner who is paying for a water right but who fails to use the water when he actually needs it.

It is quite probable that the application of irrigation water during the dry winter months will become a common practice on this project. Such winter moisture in addition to the rainfall the following year will probably make summer irrigation less important. Our water users should acquire the habit of watching the moisture in the soil rather than watching the clouds for rain that sometimes does not come. On some irrigation projects, where the rainfall on an average is less than one foot per year, the application of irrigation water for growing crops becomes almost a mechanical process and the water user knows that about every 15 or 20 days he must irrigate his land, but on this project where heavy rains interfere with his plans it is much more of a scientific matter for the irrigator to judge when to apply and when not to apply the required moisture.

Sometimes we find a water user who makes no complaint regarding his water service until time to pay his irrigation taxes. It should be understood that the delivery of water is a matter that must be complained about at the time the delivery is being made. No adjustments can be had or made regarding irrigation service if the water user fails to take the matter up with the office during the time of delivery. Our users should not expect an adjustment through their tax accounts when these accounts have been placed on the tax rolls after having been equalized by the equalization board.

We will find that the Big Wichita river valley will require irrigation water at certain periods every year in order to raise maximum crops. The highest agricultural success depends upon an adequate water supply. It is therefore important that water for irrigation be delivered as needed. Good ditch riders tend toward larger yields of crops and all ditch riders should realize their importance to the public.

LAWTON DELEGATION HERE TO STUDY DAIRYING

APPROPRIATION MEASURE TO BE VOTED ON AGAIN BY COUNCIL MONDAY EVE

The appropriation ordinance of $1,056,415.85 is expected to be passed on its second reading when the city council holds its regular weekly session Monday night.

The ordinance was passed on its first reading last Monday night although it was originally intended to pass it as an emergency. This could not be done because one alderman was absent. If all the aldermen are present Monday night it will probably be passed on the emergency reading.

The $1,056,415.85 appropriation provided for in the ordinance is the same amount as the total budget recently approved by the council. The city charter specifies that that appropriation ordinance be passed immediately after the budget is approved.

KNOX COUNTY WILL SEND DELEGATION HERE ON THURSDAY

A group of farmers and business men from Knox county will be in Wichita Falls next Thursday to visit local dairy and poultry farms and the irrigation system. C. L. Wilson, county agent, will be in charge of the party.

This is the sixth visit of the kind to be made to Wichita Falls recently, the others coming from Archer, Baylor, Haskell, and Foard county, Texas and Comanche county, Oklahoma.

The Knox visitors will be taken to the Johnson poultry farm, Weeks colony, glass factory and to a number of points in the irrigated valley.

J. L. HAIR IS AWARDED CONTRACT ON OKLAUNION AUDITORIUM-GYMNASIUM

J. L. Hair of Wichita Falls was awarded the contract Friday to build a new school auditorium and gymnasium at Oklaunion, according to an announcement Saturday from he office of Voelcker and Dixon, local architectural firm, where plans for the ro'ect were prepared.

Awarding of the contract on a school auditorium and gymnasium and two residences for the teachers at Rock Crossing was postponed from Friday until some time this week.

Moran and Mack

"Backstage Blues" is announced as the title for the first talking picture to be made by Moran and Mack, the Two Black Crows. The story is an original by Octavus Roy Cohen, writer of numerous amusing tales by Birmingham's Darktown. Lawrence Leslie, who is now playing in "The Doctor's Dilemma" in Los Angeles, was engaged for a principal supporting role in "Backstage Blues." He played the hard-boiled reporter, "Red" in both the stage and talking film versions of "Gentlemen of the Press."

SCOTLAND CIRCLE FORMED DAIRYMEN GET FINE HEIFERS

ARCHER CITY, Texas, May 4.—Grady Bell, secretary of the Archer County Chamber of Commerce, and County Agent McNeil met with the Scotland people at the home of Frank Luig last Monday night for the purpose of organizing a bull circle for the Scotland section. Those present at the meeting were: Frank Luig, H. A. Huerer, Felix Ordner, Dick Weinzapel, John Schenek, and S. C. Evans of the A. & M. college.

Talks were made by those present with reference to improving the dairy industry in the county. It was definitely decided that five Jersey bulls would be bought and one each will go to H. A. Muerer, John Schenek, Bill Weinzapel, Felix Ordner and Frank Luig. Each bull not to cost more than $250 and must be out of a dam that produced 500 pounds butter fat per year.

John Schenek will buy eight registered heifers costing not less than $150 per head. Bill Weinzapel will buy eight registered heifers not to exceed $150 per head. Felix Ordner will purchase three heifers not to cost more than $150 per head. H. A. Muerer will buy two heifers not to exceed $250 per head and his two heifers will come out of cows on test that have produced 500 pounds of butter fat per year.

The Scotland people this week will deposit $4,600 in cash in a local bank for the purpose of buying these dairy cattle.

John Schenek of Scotland, Ed Berend of Windthorst and County Agent NcNeil will leave this month for Michigan, Indiana and Ohio to buy the cattle. Windthorst will get 12 bulls in the shipment in addition to the five bulls for Scotland and the 21 head of registered heifers.

PLOWING UP GRAIN IN SOME SECTIONS, TO PLANT COTTON

Continued dry weather has reduced the wheat prospects in some parts of the county to such an extent that the grain is being plowed up, preparatory to planting the land in cotton. The same precedure is being followed in other counties in Northwest Texas and in Southwest Oklahoma. Some oat fields are also being plowed up.

The result will be a big increase in cotton acreage. Owing to lack of season, many farmers have not yet planted their cotton, but the first good rain will be followed by much planting.

Grain fields under irrigation are going splendidly where the water has been judiciously applied, but conditions on unirrigated land are not at all promising. An early rain would be of benefit to some of the crop, but much is at a stage where where rain would not help matters.

Observations

By the Desk Farmer

Comanche county, Oklahoma, which last Tuesday sent a group of dairy farmers to Wichita Falls to study dairying conditions, already has more than twice as many cows as are to be found within a 25-mile radius of Wichita Falls. With that large a cow population, and with a smaller city than Wichita Falls to be supplied with milk, there is of course a big surplus supply. The Oklahomans came here to study the question of the best means of disposing of this surplus.

At present, most of it goes to the creameries, the skim milk being used for hog and poultry feed. Dairy farmers have been wondering if it would not be better to have a market for the whole milk. The question of whether it is best to separate the milk and sell the cream or market the whole product is one that has never been conclusively answered. You can find plenty of experienced men on both sides of the question. The central point in the argument is, what is skim milk worth as feed? Forty cents a hundred pounds, some will say. Not over 25 cents, others declare. There is no categorical answer. Some farmers know how to use the skim milk to such advantage, as feed, as to make up for the difference between what cream brings and what whole milk brings. The farmer who figures that skim milk is worth less than 30 cents a hundred pounds can't be blamed for seeking a market for whole milk.

There is more or less dissatisfaction throughout Texas and Oklahoma, over the cream market. There are scores of farmers in these states who say that it pays them to ship their cream by express to Missouri, Nebraska, Iowa and other states. It is very difficult for an outsider to understand how these distant creameries can pay better prices for cream than local creameries can, and still pay express charges on the cream and on the returned cans. Texas creameries contend that they are meeting the outside price, but they certainly are not getting all of the cream.

One important fact in connection with a market for whole milk, such as is offered by a cheese factory, condensery or powdered milk plant, is that the manufactured product can be stored for indefinite periods. Butter and ice cream must reach the consumer fairly promptly. Cheese, condensed milk and powdered milk can be kept for months. The result is that whole milk is not subject to seasonal changes in price to the extent that cream is. Sentiment among dairymen generally seems to be more and more for the whole-milk market. Whether that is a good thing, in the long run, for dairying, remains to be determined.

County Agent McGown is puzzled. Part of his job is to be accommodating to agricultural visitors. Recently he received a letter from the horticultural editor of a farm magazine, stating that the editor would visit Wichita Falls sometime in June, and that he wanted to get in touch with one of this section's leading apple-growers, also with a successful potato grower. Mr. McGown would like to help the visitor out, but he doesn't know how. Apple-raisers are lacking, in these parts. And as for potatoes, after last year's rock-bottom market, there aren't any, except a few little patches for home consumption.

Apples have never done well here, for some reason. They are raised with fair success west of here, in Wilbarger county, and east of here, in Wise and Montague, and north of here, in Oklahoma, but Wichita county doesn't seem to be the place for them. The state experiment farm near Iowa Park has been trying to raise them. Last year's crop consisted of one little warty apple.

Pictures of county agents of nearly all the neighboring counties have appeared on this paper recently, but we've never had a picture of McGown. Just failed to get one, until recently. We have a nice photo now, nice, that is, considering everything, and we are going to run it pretty soon, the first good chance he gives us. When he gets that second bull circle organized, at Iowa Park, would be a good time. We aren't going to run it until we have a good real news item to run it with.

The experiments now being conducted in this county with flax may lead to the establishment of that crop as a profitable one for this section. There seems to be the assurance of a good demand for it, if it will grow here. Recent statistics show that this country produces only about 40 per cent as much flax as it uses.

The experiments being made with the soy bean are much more important, in our opinion, than those with flax. The soy bean is a dry country crop. It provides excellent hay, and there is always a market for the beans. Scarcely less important than these facts is the one that it is a soil-builder of the very finest kind. It seems to offer interesting possibilities as a money crop, in place of cotton.

California just now is offering an object lesson in what organized effort, can do in improving dairy herds. The extension service in that state started out, in 1910, to build up the average butter-fat production to 265 pounds per cow. The average was 183 pounds in 1920, so that there was a long way to go. The average had been built up to 240 pounds when the last figures on the subject were compiled, and while it is doubtful if the 265-pound mark will be reached, there is no doubt at all that the figures for 1930 will show a very great improvement.

Proper breeding, proper feeding and culling have brought about the increase. Proper breeding means bull circles. Culling means cow-testing associations. Proper feeding involves the interchange of information on the best feeds. California now has 70,000 cows on regular test. Thousands of unprofitable animals have gone to the butcher. Hundreds of purebred bulls have been acquired. By these means, the average butter-fat production per cow has increased 57 pounds since 1920.

Some recently published figures on livestock population may be of interest. They show that the population of the country has something more than doubled in the last 60 years. During the same period, the number of beef catle declined 33 per cent and the number of hogs declined about three per cent.

U. S. DEPARTMENT STUDIES PROBLEMS OF RABBIT RAISING

Breeders Can Get Much Help From Official Bulletins

EXPERIMENT STATIONS MAKING MANY TESTS

Plant at Fontana, California Making Exhaustive Studies

By WILLIAM L. SMITH
Correspondent American Rabbit and Cavy Breeders Association of Texas

There is a very distinctive work being carried on at the United States rabbit experiment station at Fontana, Calif., according to a bulletin issued by the bureau of the department of agriculture. The activities of the U. S. rabbit experiment station are concerned chiefly with the gathering of facts affecting those engaged in the production of rabbits for meat and fur. Closely cooperating in the solution of the problems confronting rabbit breeders are the national and state organizations, scientific societies and institutions, as well as agricultural colleges, whose object is to develop rabbit raising. The efforts of each, in its field, are encouraged by the biological survey since it is recognized that forward movements, whether by large or small units, are nearer approaches to the coordinated nation-wide policy that is desired by all who have the interests of rabbit raising at heart and the same end in view.

As a public service institution, the biological survey seeks to be a good cooperator, not only to state and national agencies that are working for the same ends, but also the individual who is engaged, or who contemplates engaging in rabbit raising. Rabbit breeders should never hesitate to call upon the survey for information bearing on the many problems of their business. The funds for operating the station are provided in annual appropriation made by congress to the United States department of agriculture, for expenditure by the bureau of biological survey in its investigations, experiments and demonstrations in connection with rearing fur-bearing animals.

The prime object of the U. S. rabbit experiment station is to determine the best methods of producing meat and fur. The farm is not run for commercial profit through the sale of either breeding stock, meat or fur, all energies being directed to developing the best methods for producing meat and fur of fine quality, insuring sanitary surroundings, and preventing diseases and parisites.

Surplus animals are turned over to a committee representing the cooperators in Fontana to be sold and the proceeds derived from the sale of animals and pelts is deposited in a revolving fund. This fund will be utilized for the furtherance of the work of the station. No live animals, carcasses or pelts are sold from the farm by the government for any purpose.

The breeds of rabbits donated by rabbit breeders with which experiments are being carried on at present, are white and red New Zealand, blue and white American, Flemish, Chinchilla, French Silver, Havana, American Sable and Polish. Other breeds may be included, as the work develops and funds permit.

The equipment of this station consists of a site of a five-acre orange grove, an administration building of white stucco with a red tile roof, containing a large reception offices and accommodations for laboratories. Various open and closed type of houses shelter hundreds of hutches; a sprinkler system cools these houses on hot days. An attractive residence has been provided for the superintendent and his family. Hay and grain are stored and prepared for consumption in a large feed house. A carpenter shop and a garage complete the layout.

Peace on Earth—and War in Brockton!

By WILL ROGERS

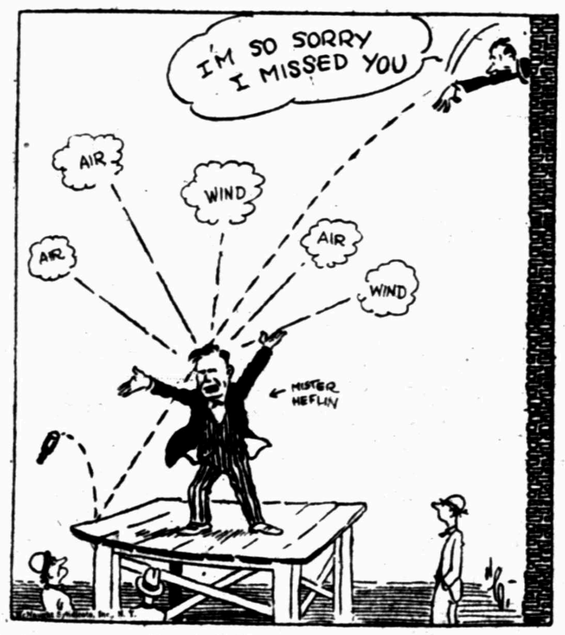

All I know is just what I read in the papers. Now lets see what has taken place since I communed with you last week. Tom Heflin lost his encounter with the "Heirachy." Tom wanted the senate to go on record that it condemned the action of the Town of Brocton Mass for not paying strict attention to one of his addresses. Well he could have come nearer getting the Senate to go on record that they sympathized with Brocton. For Lord the Town of Brocton only had to listen to one, while the Senate never gets over em. Well anyhow this longwinded drawnout thing afforded the one best line and laugh that has been pulled in there for this season. Senator Gillette of Mass told Tom, "The State of Mass regrets it. The Town of Brocton regrets it. The Mayor regrets it, the Police regret it, and the Man that threw the bottle, and MISSED you, regrets it."

Well farm Relief would get a little help in between. Grundy would try to get some higher tarriff on anything Manufactured in Pennsylvania. But Tom would bob up the next day during lull and say, "You've got to make this Country safe for United States Senators to speak in."

Well we finished our Theatrical engagement up in Boston and are moving over to Philadelphia for a couple of weeks, then one week in Detroit and one more in Pittsburg and then on the old Plane and out "Where Men are beginning to be heard." We had some laughs in the Theatre in Boston last week. One night Babe Ruth was in and I introduced him and his new Bride, and then sitting near him was Charles Francis Adams, our new and very distinguished Secretary of the Navy, a real blue blood. The only living American that has had two American Presidents that he descended from, John Adams, and John Quincy Adams. Then I introduced them to each other and Babe got up and went over and shook hands with Adams. It was a big laugh and applause, then I told the audience you wouldent think after having the two men as great as these. One a Descendant of two Presidents and the other the greatest Sports favorite that we ever produced, you wouldent think we possibly could have a BIGGER man here tonight than either one of them, in fact, BIGGER than both of them put together. Well I just want to introduce you to the Giant of the Ringling show, and sure enough there he was. The Circus was to have opened there the next day. He was sitting in the back of a Box and no one had noticed him. It was one of the biggest laughs I ever heard in a Theatre. These Adams'es and Lodges, and Lowells, they are just about the whole thing in the way of Tradition up there.

Well I see where we have offered some plan at a disarmament conference over in Geneva and everybody is all excited about it. So I suppose we will be kidded into entering into another sinking. We are just about to live down the humiliation of that last one in 23, I told the Secretary of our Navy right from the stage, that I wished we had the biggest Navy in the World, the biggest Army, and by all means the biggest Aeroplane force, but have it understood with the taxpayers that they are ONLY TO BE USED ON THE HOME GROUNDS. Now how in the world will you tell me is there a better way to prevent war than that, Be ready for it and stay at home. When they know they cant lick you they certainly are not coming away over here to try it. He applauded it, and I believe he thought it was allright. In fact it looks like the League of Nations could just about prevent war by deciding "Who starts a war." Well just have the League pass the following resolution, "We consider the first Nation that sets military foot on the other is the starter of the war." Now you put that on 'em, and they wont be in such a hurry to grab up a lot of men and start prancing into Belgium, or somewhere. Then they can be sore at each other as they want but they will know that the first one that invades the other is the starter of the war, and they will be leary of that, and as long as each one will be waiting for the other to start it, why neither one will want to carry the ultimate blame, so the first thing you know they will calmed down and meet on the line and have a drink. Personally I cant think of anything that would encourage a war more than for a couple of Nations to know that they have Equal Navies. If you know your Navy is equal to the other fellows, you will always figure that your men are superior to theirs, so you are ready to go to any time with him. There is enough sportsmanship in every Country to want if they knew they had an equal break to take a try at the other. So this old thing of regulating Navies so they are equal is the Houle.

Everybody Was Legislation About It.

Did you ever notice how much more pepceful it is all-around when our Marines are at home instead of prowling around? Why if we keep at home awhile why we are liable to get out of the habit of wanting to send em away off every time we hear that some little Nation was about to pull off a local Amateur Revolution. I believe this fellow Hoover has been around the World so much that he wont think its any novelty to have them away off in all those places.

Say here is one that Coolidge pulled when someone was telling him about Mr. Hoover moving the six White House saddle Horses away, and sending them back over to the Army Post. You know it had been reported How much this move of Hoovers would save, the feed and care of the Horses, and when the fellow got through Coolidge said, "Guess they will quit eating when they get to the Army Post." So as a matter of fact it dident save anything, and also the Mayflower going out of Commission, the Government has to pay all those men just the same, they are all Navy men. They just as well be on the Mayflower as the "Robert E. Lee." We kinder thought Calvin might come down and see our show while in Boston, But I guess the prices scared him out.

When Your Husband Outgrows You and Meets Somebody Else

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

MRS. NORRIS

The tragedy of Jane Moore is the old, old tragedy of the woman who feels that her husband has outgrown her, has outdistanced her—the woman who feels that the coming years are going to see her only more and more separated from the man she loves, rather than more and more closely united to him.

Jane and Billy Moore have been married for 16 years; they started life poor, but they are prosperous now, and some day they are going to be rich. Billy has gotten handsomer, gayer, younger, more popular, with the busy, happy passing of the years; Jane had grown older, duller, quieter, less attractive.

"Is it fair?" her letter asks me bitterly. "Is it fair that life should have carried me away from everything I know and love, everything I can do, and like to do, and has forced me to share the success of a man whose friends despise me, and who will come to despise me himself sooner or later?

"Junior is 14, now, and David 12. They are already beginning to take my place as their father's companions. Junior drives the car, plays golf, and has made a good start at bridge. His father is perfectly devoted to him. He took both boys off for a two weeks camping trip last year, leaving me at home. Both boys are going to go to college in time; their father, their grandfather, their uncles are not college men.

"I married a poor man, for love. I kept the three little rooms in which we started housekeeping comfortable and clean, I cooked and washed, contrived and saved. We began on $22.50 a week—when Billy was making $30 a week I had my two babies to raise.

"We were so happy! Money kept getting easier and easier, the boys were so good—our Sundays, when Billy could use the company car, and when we used to go out with picnic lunches, and talk about how happy we were, were, just Heaven on earth.

"Now, a hundred other persons, and a hundred other claims, are taking Billy away from me. We have a handsome 10-room house in a development, and I have two maids. The boys run off to school in the morning and lunch there, Billy is gone from 8:30 to 6 and often away in the evenings, and I have nothing to do.

"I'm rather pale, and I have straight, dark-brown hair. I'm the sort of woman who looks best in a good, fresh kitchen apron, or off on a picnic, in a sweater and skirt. Of course I feel myself at a disadvantage now, I know perfectly what Billy's friends think of me, and that makes me duller and less popular even than I might be.

"Is it my fault? Isn't it partly his, that we are growing further and further apart?

"Please don't tell me to groom myself, study French and learn to play good bridge. I am always clean and neat and dress real well, but I look like an idiot if I crimp my hair or put on lip-red. I've no card sense, and it wouldn't make the slightest difference to Billy Moore if I spoke six languages like a native.

"All this has been breaking my heart for years—four or five years. But the reason I'm writing is that a divorced woman, several years younger than I, is going about a great deal with my husband. She isn't pretty, but she's very smart. My boys are invited down to the shore, to visit her boy in the summer vacations. She and a couple of Billy's men friends come to our house to dinner now and then, and I arrange as nice an evening as I can and wait until their card game is started, and then go up to bed.

"There must be some way for the woman who loves to hold even the most successful of men. Billy is mine, after all, not hers. The children, the home, the sacred, happy past belongs to me, not to her. I've loved him for half my life—it doesn't seem to me that I could live without him.

"Tell me, what shall I do?"

And the answer is: there is no answer.

For this is one of those maddening, unfair, perplexing situations for which there is no rule. In some cases one thing might work, in some cases another. And there is a third class of cases where nothing will restore justice and happiness to the wife.

This sort of riches and plenty and prosperity are harder on a loving woman than poverty and hard work. She can deal with service, she cannot bear idleness. She can do anything, while she is loved and necessary; she can't bear being superfluous and ignored. . . . Young wives, young husbands, overworked and happy and none too rich, this Sunday morning, just remember that there are harder situations than the one you are in, and that Jane Moore has found it out!

How can one possibly advise Jane Moore to study a language, get a permanent wave, join a bridge class, read up on topical subjects and make herself a fascinating conversationalist? She might have begun all that six or seven years ago. She can't compete now with the brilliant, younger, smarter, more fascinating woman who has gotten her husband away. Long before things reach this pass she, Jane, has lost him, and if one clever grass widow didn't get him, another would.

What will happen now depends more on the man than on Jane. Either he will press her for a divorce until, half desperate, she concedes it, or he will decide for the sake of his position, his sons, his mother's religious prejudices, or some other reason, that things had better go on as they are. What Jane feels won't count.

There is no use in her appealing to his old love for her, or to his sense of justice, for when a man's love is dead any reference to it merely bores him, and when a man finds a new love he feels that the only justice he owes is to that wonderful, tender, misunderstood woman friend.

Jane could probably get her boys, and get an alimony, and start afresh somewhere. But even that is not the ideal solution, for the children will naturally continue to love and to remember their father, and even if she throws charity and dignity to the winds, and appeals to them for their loyalty, and succeeds in convincing them that dad was all wrong, and mother all right, their father will only have to take them to one football game, and send her home a box of candy, to undo everything that her weeks of prejudicing them have carefully built up.

That is, she can't win on the old terms, of happy confidence and trust. You can't put new wine into old bottles, and Billy just now is drinking deep of new wine; success, popularity, social position, wealth.

So there's no solution, exactly. But Jane, there is still mother love; generosity, charity to Billy and happiness and companionship with your boys. There is a little place somewhere with a garden, there are books, concerts, walks, roaring sunsets, winter snow which are yours to enjoy.

And if Billy chooses the usual course, and continues his amusements, his love affairs with no reference to you, with no need for you, still there is a rich, full life for you—as there is for anyone of us who finds her old hopes and ideals shattered, and has to pick up the pieces and begin all over again.

In 10 years more, the quiet, always-kindly dignified wife will be or can be, a far more interesting personality than is excited, spoiled, indulged, undisciplined Billy. The tide does turn, although sometimes it is a long time turning. Nobody ever really lost anything by bearing injustice patiently, and by biding her time.

Sometimes I wonder why these glib pseudo-scientists who babble about evolution, and who will spend years tearing some reputed Christian miracle to pieces, don't face the real miracle, the greatest miracle of all, I mean the fact that a Voice spoke in the world 2,000 years ago, and all their strident shrieking has never succeeded in silencing one whisper of it.

This Voice had a special message for Jane Moore. It said, among other things, "blessed are the meek, blessed are they that suffer persecution, and hunger and thirst for justice, they shall be filled. He that would be first among you, let him be as one who serves."

Another Record! over 500,000 New Six Cylinder CHEVROLETS since Jan. 1st

Again, Chevrolet Surpasses Its Most Brilliant Record of the Past by Producing over 500,000 Six-Cylinder Chevrolets in Four Months—a Greater Number of Six-Cylinder Cars than Any Other Manufacturer Has Ever Built in an Entire Year!

Even with such an impressive record to focus attention upon the outstanding value of the Chevrolet Six, many people still do not appreciate what "a Six in the price range of the four" actually means!

Here, at prices so low as to be within easy reach of anyone who can afford any automobile, are afforded all the smoothness, reserve power and quietness of a great six-cylinder valve-in-head motor. In its speed, its acceleration, its absence of vibration and drumming and, above all, in its economy of better than 20 miles to the gallon it completely revolutionizes every previous standard of performance in the low-price field.

And in beauty and comfort, as well as in performance, the new Chevrolet Six ranks as an outstanding achievement.

Its new Fisher bodies are beautifully finished and luxuriously appointed. Steering is delightfully easy, due to a full ball bearing steering mechanism. And the newly-designed 4-wheel brakes are powerful, quiet and unusually easy to apply.

If you are in the market for an automobile—come in! You owe it to yourself to learn why over 500,000 people have chosen the Chevrolet Six since January 1st!

HOOVER'S APPEAL, MORAL DISARMAMENT CLEVER STRATEGY

Considered as Giving Sound Basis for Reduction—Next Move Is England's, Much Depends on Attitude of London

By FRANK H. SIMONDS

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Not since Woodrow Wilson, by notes composed on his typewriter in the White House, drove William II a discredited exile into Holland, has there been so successful a diplomatic operation as that conducted by President Hoover in the matter of naval armaments. Viewed purely and simply as a diplomatic gesture it met instantly and completely all the accusations leveled at us by Europe and based upon an alleged purpose to seize naval supremacy. And, concomitantly, it appealed instantly to every political group and every unorganized mass of Europeans who are seeking peace through disarmament.

Politically, too, the moment was chosen with keenest appreciation. The Tory government, which has been dominated by the admiralty and is too weak to venture upon any policy of real parity, is very shortly to go before the people of Britain for a general election. Its handling of the American naval question has been violently denounced by both opposition parties and even by one fraction of its own membmership. Thus Mr. Gibson's challenge put the Baldwin government in a position where it must fish or cut bait.

When one turns from the diplomatic and political to the practical aspects of the Hoover proposal, it is necessary to perceive at once that, while it does clearly open a new door to settlement, provided there is an equal desire for settlement on both sides of the Atlantic, it just as dearly provides a practically inexhaustible supply of opportunities to prevent agreement by employing technical arguments.

Put quite simply the Hoover proposition is double: In the first place, it envisages not limitation of armaments, but actual reduction. Mere limitation would amount to an agreement to accept a maximum total of tonnage which might or might not be in existence.

And, in the second place, Hoover's proposition meets squarely the difficulties which wrecked the Geneva conference by a common-sense proposal of compromise. At Geneva in 1927 we said that we would build only 10,000-ton cruisers, since they alone would satisfy our requirements. We proposed, therefore, a solution of the problem of equality by the allotment to each nation of a fixed tonnage of cruisers. The two countries could build the sort and size boats they desired, within the standard 10,000-ton limit fixed at Washington. And we suggested totals ranging from 250,000 to 350,000 as the maximum.

British Need Many Boats

The British, on their side, declared that they needed many boats, because of their problem of communications, but that they also required as many 10,000-ton boats as we should have, because otherwise we should have a fighting advantage if all of our boats were 10,000 tonners and most of theirs much smaller. If, for example, the limit were fixed at 300,000 tons and we had 30 10,000-ton boats armed with eight-inch guns, while the British had 20 10,000-ton boats and 20 5,000 tonners, the latter unable to carry guns above six-inch caliber, our fighting supremacy, if the fleets met, would be undeniable.

In the debate which followed the British proposed that we should agree with them to fix upon a certain number of 10,000-ton boats, armed with eight-inch guns, that we should agree that all other boats should carry only six-inch guns, but they were prepared to agree that the size of the balance of our quota should be as we might decide. We rejected this proposal because our experts argued that this would give the British an enormous actual superiority in tonnage, since for war they had many merchant steamers available and equipped to carry six-inch guns, which could be employed in cruiser warfare.

Why Geneva Broke Down

The real breakdown of the Geneva conference was thus due primarily to the fact that the two countries, because of their peculiar problems, required different kinds of navies, and no balance could be struck between the two requirements.

Now the Hoover proposition amounts to the suggestion that some system of adjustment be struck between the two national standards. It is clear, for example, that if we have 30 10,000 ton boats, while the British have only 20, together with 20 5,000-ton boats, we shall have an advantage. On the other hand, there might be some rough and ready method of measuring the thing by which the British could have, say, 25 or 30 of the smaller boats, and thus have an offset to ours.

Technically the problem turns on the question of the purpose of the fleet. Under our proposals we should have had battle supremacy, but under the same circumstances the British would have had a superiority in the patrol field; their more numerous smaller ships would have enabled them to cover the seas, to control shipping, neutral and enemy, as ours could not. A perfect solution would be an agreement upon so many 10,000-ton boats with eight-inch guns and so many smaller boats carrying six-inch guns. But, because of our widely separated naval bases, we cannot use smaller boats and, because of their more numerous bases and more extensive sea lanes, the British do not need the larger ships in great number and do require the smaller in considerable number.

Now it is perfectly clear that men who actually desire to reach an agreement and are equally prepared to recognize the right of the other nation to equality can sit down and work out a system of adjustment. They can bring in all of the many factors, not alone tonnage and caliber of guns but speed, armament and age of ships, number and value of naval bases and all the other technical elements, and strike a balance.

Hoover Sees Pitfalls

But, on the other hand, it must be seen that, even if the conferees are animated by the best of wills, it is going to be excessively difficult for them, charged as they are with guarding national security, to agree upon the various percentages.

This difficulty Mr. Hoover has seen all along. He has, therefore, as Mr. Gibson's speech indicated, insisted that the first step must be moral disarmament. In his judgment the great question turns upon whether Great Britain sees and will continue to see our naval policy as identical with the German; that is, whether the British people will see in our course the disclosure of a repetition of the familiar circumstances of traditional imperialism. Obviously if the British people see our fleet as a prospective foe and our policy as a political challenge, agreement is going to be out of the question.

On the other hand, if the notion of conflict between the two nations is dismissed, then technical details lose their larger value and a give and take adjustment becomes possible. Actual mathematical parity in every direction is impossible. One party will have more ships, the other bigger boats, one will have more bases and more auxiliaries, the other will have greater inherent security. A balance must be struck between not the same, but different, circumstances.

Here, of course, lies the real danger in the Hoover plan. If the Tory government should succeed at the polls this month, if the admiralty group in the Tory party which has hitherto dominated should retain its hold, then the discussion of technical details might be prolonged indefinitely and the actual difference in views and in necessities might be employed to inflame public opinion on both sides of the Atlantic. Then we might hear again the familiar charge that actually each side was seeking supremacy while talking of parity.

It's a Gamble

Mr. Hoover has chosen to gamble on the possibility that despite the admiralty and the "die-hard" wing of the Tory party, the majority of the British people desire both a reduction in the costs of naval programs and the abolition of the existing dispute with the United States. And he believes that it is reduction, not limitation, which appeals to all peoples, as it certainly does to the American.

But while the American gesture at Geneva certainly opens a new phase in the discussion, it is certain to be a long phase. And success must turn first upon the character of the naval issue, as it is shaped by the British election, and secondly on the practical response that the new British government makes to the American proposal.

What is most important and most hopeful in the Hoover gesture is the fact that it represents an appeal for a new deal all around, it asks for a new spirit in the discussion and it discloses a complete rejection of all the familiar hypotheses of bad faith. In effect, it invites the British government to come forward with a proposal setting forth its conception of parity in the secondary categories, since the American proposal of Geneva proved unacceptable. It indicates American readiness to include other factors than those of tonnage and, in fact, to join in any square deal based upon the principle of equality. And from whatever angle, domestic or international, the Hoover gesture is viewed, it must be perceived that it is at once good diplomacy, good faith and good sense.

ALL ABOUT THE MARKET

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

Being a Business Man Maybe You Could Tell Me About This Ctock Market Stuff.

Willie—Pop, teachers says you being a business man maybe you could tell me about this stock market stuff so's I could explain to the school about it. Willya?

Father—It would be just as well if your teacher would tell you not to call me "Pop," not to call her "teacher" not to say "stuff" and not to say "Willya". What is it you want to know about the stock market?

Willie—Well, she said about this federal board business and the loans on speculators and everything. She said it was a puzzle to her but maybe you being in the real estate business you could tell me and I would tell her, and then all the class would understand it.

Father—You must make yourself a little clearer. Now what is the thing the teacher is most puzzled about.

Willie—Well it come up when we was studying in the arithmetic about usury, and it said that anybody who soaked people more than the regal rate of interest—

Father—You probably mean the legal rate of interest.

Willie—Sure, the legal rate of interest. And how is it that when a guy gets stuck and has to borrow money off this reserve board he has to pay 20 per cent when that is against the law and a pawnbroker gets in jail for it?

Willie—No, what is it for. I'll bite.

Father—Please cut out the slang. Your teacher might have taught you that at least.

Willie—Oh all right. Give me the dope. What is the federal reserve for?

Father—Well, the federal bank is established to create a federal reserve. Do you understand that.

Willie—It sounds reasonable.

Father—There was a time when a serious shortage of money would cause a panic, and so—

Willie—But what caused the serious shortage of money? Ain't there always the same amount of money?

Father—We will not go into that. I will only say that sometimes it is hard to get.

Willie—According to what I overheard you say to mother the other day when you were talking about having the house painted it is always hard to get.

Father—Don't be impudent, and get over your habit of eavesdropping. Do you want me to explain the federal reserve, or not.

Willie—Sure. Shoot.

Father—You must stop talking in that vulgar way, or I will not waste any more time on you.

Willie Where do they get it?

Father—The government gives it to them.

Willie—And can they do anything they want to with it?

Father—Certainly not. There are safeguards and restrictions.

Father—If you will listen and not ask so many idiotic questions I will tell you.

Willie—I'm listenin'.

Father—The federal reserve, when there is a shortage of money gives credit to the banks.

Willie—Does it take mortgages off of them like you did—

Father—Be quiet.

Willie—Well what does it do then?

Father—When the banks need money for loans they go to the federal reserve and borrow it.

Willie—And pay 20 per cent?

Father—Of course not.

Willie—Then how much do they pay.

Father—The regular interest charge.

Father—Don't say "ain't."

Willie—All right. Don't they have all the money they need?

Father—This is pretty hopeless. They don't want to use all the money they have for loans to the brokers. They have other uses for the money in regular business.

Willie—Do they stick the federal bank for it then?

Father—They do not. The trouble with you is that you are abysmally ignorant of the fundamentals of business.

Willie—I know. But how do the banks or who ever it is get the nerve to soak the brokers or whoever they are for 20 per cent, when the arithmetic says that six per cent is all they dast charge?

Father—Well, you see, it is this way.

Willie—What way?

Father—Well, the banks, I suppose have an arrangement with—

Willie—With who?

Willie—All right, with whom?

Father—I mean to say, that in business emergencies—

Willie—What's business emergencies, panics?

Father—Of course not. Only when a bank is asked by a customer for a loan, and the customer is disposed—that is when the customer desires or is willing—well, the loan goes through several hands and I haven't followed it out exactly, but it is my understanding that the prevailing rate of interest is fixed according to the value of money at the time. Is that clear?

Willie—No.

Father—There really is no use talking to you. You don't listen.

Willie—I've been listening and listening hard, honest I have, father, but you ain't told me nothin'.

Father—If you mean I haven't told you anything you're wrong. I have told you everything you asked.

Willie—But I don't know anything more than I did before. What am I going to tell the teacher?

Father—Tell her just what I have told you.

Willie—What was that?

Father—Finish your breakfast and go to school. And tell your teacher if she will put her questions in writing to me I will answer them so she can explain them to your class. But when she sends you here with a lot of idiotic questions I shall refuse to answer every one of them.

DEMOCRATS IN DIFFICULT POSITION TARIFF REVISION FIGHT

Major Parties Seem to Differ Only In Detail, With Part of Minority Steadfastly Against Increased Rates

By MARK SULLIVAN

(Copyright, 1929, by New York Herald Tribune)

In the lower house on the opening day of the present session the Republicans nominated Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio, for speaker; the Democrats nominated John M. Garner, of Texas. Longworth, of course, was elected and became speaker; Garner, by virtue of receiving the unanimous vote of the Democrats for speaker, became leader of that party. In accord with the customary formula of courtesy, Garner presented the successful Longworth to the house, saying, among other things:

SULLIVAN

"He (Longworth) is beloved by the entire membership of the house, regardless of party affiliation."

Longworth thereupon made a speech (an excellent speech, by the way, charged through and through with common sense). Among other things Longworth spoke of his defeated opponent, Garner, of Texas, the Democratic leader, saying:

"The gentleman from Texas (Garner) and I entered congress 26 years ago. . . . During all these years our friendship has been continuously abiding and our affection, esteem and respect the one for the other is and has been, I am proud to say, mutual."

Then Longworth turned to the tariff. He said there ought to be "a modification of certain tariff rates, as few in number as possible." Having put himself on record in favor of keeping the tariff changes down to very mild basis, he turned to the relation of the Democrats to the proposed tariff changes, saying: "The line of cleavage between the two great political parties would seem to have crumbled in the last few years almost to questions of detail. I apprehend that under the leadership of the gentleman from Texas we will hear resounding from his party no clarion call that the American consumer," etc.

Guileless But—

Now, all that was as free from guile as anything could possibly be. (Probably a careful estoppel should be made at this point; it is not meant to say that Speaker Longworth is incapable of guile—merely that he was obviously and spontaneously free from guile on this occasion). Mr. Longworth was speaking as sincerely and simply as a man remarking that the weather is fine. All that he said was well known by every member of congress to be true. Mr. Longworth and the Democratic leader, Garner, of Texas, are intimate friends. And it is a fact that the Democrats came close to the Republican point of view about the tariff in their platform last year and in the campaign utterances of their presidential candidate Governor Smith.

What Speaker Longworth did was as unargumentative and as unpolitical as a remark about the lateness of the spring. Nevertheless it had an effect. The effect was put in words a few days later by Frank R. Kent, of the Democratic Baltimore Sun:

"Speaker Longworth split the minority, split it without intending to split it; split it in a way for which he cannot be blamed, split it when it wasn't looking, started dissensions in the Democratic ranks, caused one Democratic leader to sling a brick at another, practically removed any chance of effective opposition to his house machine. . . . It was the simplest thing in the world. He split the Democrats by merely being sincere. All Mr. Longworth did was to state the obvious fact, proved up to the hilt in the last campaign by both Democratic candidate and platform, that, in the matter of the tariff, the two parties differ now only in detail. Therefore, he thought there should not be much difficulty in getting together on a bill this time. He followed this perfectly sincere remark by a touching tribute to the Honorable Jack Garner, Democratic leader, speaking of their long and intimate acquaintance, the deep affection between them, the high value he placed on the Garner friendship. . . . It was from the heart out. Yet had there been sinister purpose back of every word, they could not have been more Democratically devastating."

Hull's Protest

The following day another Democrat spoke up, Cordell Hull, of Tennessee. His remarks were obviously inspired by what Speaker Longworth had said, by the intimacy between Republican Speaker Longworth and Democratic Leader Garner, and by Speaker Longworth's assumption that the Democrats would "go along with" the Republicans; or, at the least, put no formidable obstacle in the path of the Republican program on the tariff. If Congressman Hull's words seem strong, that is due to the seriousness with which the situation is taken by him and such Democrats as believe with him. Congressman Hull is a most mild-mannered man, a gentleman and scholar in the liberal sense, and not at all in the ornate sense. His knowledge of the tariff is not exceeded by that of five other men in both branches of congress. Congressman Hull is, in short, as far as possible from a mere heaver of partisan bricks. In his comment on Speaker Longworth's address he said:

"The most amazing thing in our political annals is now transpiring, and that is the attempt of the ultra standpat and embargo tariff forces in this country to unify the two leading political parties behind a fixed and permanent policy of super-protection and narrow nationalism. Speaker Longworth possesses Pickwickian rather than Machiavellian traits. He bordered on the Machiavellian in cunning, however, when on yesterday, with the boldest impudence, he practically assumed to speak for both political parties with respect to existing prohibitive tariffs and to proclaim their complete unification. I assure the speaker that this undertaking is not so simple as that. . . . I denounce and challenge this proposed course as an outrageous libel on the great historic Democratic party and on sound economics. I admit that, as always, there are some Democrats who are undertaking to effect arrangements for the unconditional surrender of the Democratic party to the forces of high tariff greed and privilege, and they may think that such surrender is now assured. I predict, however, that in this they will find themselves as badly mistaken as was Benedict Arnold when he felt cocksure that he had arranged for the certain surrender of West Point. . . . I prefer to hold fast to the tested economic wisdom and philosophy of Jefferson, Jackson, Tilden, Cleveland and Wilson, than to follow supinely those who would now make the great Democratic party subservient to the most corrupt partnership between politics and vested interests in American history."

The Two Sides

Now all that constitutes (as respects the lower house, where the tariff bill now is) the standing of the tariff fight—if it can be called a fight. Here is Speaker Longworth, with substantially every Republican member of the lower house standing by him, favoring a tariff revision which, in the main, consists of raising upward such tariff rates as are not already high enough to suit the beneficiaries.

The tariff revision favored by Speaker Longworth—he does not call it a "revision," but a "modification," must be read, of course, in the light of the existing Fordney-McCumber tariff bill of 1921, of which the pending changes will be a supplement, so to speak. That tariff bill, the existing Fordney-McCumber bill, is (I here quote Congressman Cordell Hull) "by far the highest rate in the history of the country either in peace or war . . . an average rate of 55.3 per per cent." Since the main purpose of what the house is now doing to this bill consist of raising some of its rates, it follows that the tariff, as altered by the house will be, if the Republican program is carried out, the super-highest, so to speak, tariff in the history of the country.

So much for the Republican side of the fight—again one uses the qualification "if it is a fight." On the Democratic side we have a Democratic leader — unanimously chosen by the Democrats for that office—who is believed not to entertain any very stout-hearted assistance to the Republican program. Putting it this way is not meant to jeer at Congressman Garner nor further to stimulate such scattered suspicion of him as exists among the few Democrats who do not approve his course.

If Democratic leader Garner does not get all heated up with ardor to revise the tariff downward, he but reflects the prevailing attitude of most of his Democratic followers. He but reflects also the attitude the Democratic platform-makers took at Houston last summer, and the attitude the Democratic presidential candidate, Governor Smith, took during the campaign. In short, one fails to find, among the Democrats in the lower house, any united, whole-hearted, fighting determination to oppose the theory or practice of protective tariff duties.

The exceptions among the Democrats are represented by Congressman Hull, who has been quoted above. What remains to be seen in this session is just how many adherents Congressman Hull can command. He is an earnest man and an able one, but has not the particular kind of temperament, nor the particular technique of oratory to debate that would readily amass a following, either within congress or throughout the country.

Also, one feels that even Congressman Hull is a little intimidated by the increasing disposition of his party either to look with tolerance upon the protective tariff or at the least, to "duck" the function of fighting earnestly against it. The writer of this article has observed Congressman Hull as a spokesman of low tariffs for a good many years, and one gathers the impression that even with him, time and events have blurred the sharpness of his position.

Congressman Hull still says, it is true, that "the tariff is the most inequitable of all taxes." But in the most recent of his statements of what he thinks should be the Democratic tariff position he has had an effect of mildness. Last month he said: "The opposing view" (that is, the Democratic view—or more accurately, Congressman Hull's view of the Democratic view) "would work in the direction of a tariff and commercial policy calculated to avoid restaliation, promote a sounder domestic structure, augment our exports . . . and secure more equitable taxation. To this end there should at once be substituted a policy by which the trend of tariff revision would be downward to a level of moderate or completitive rates."

That does not sound like a compact fighting slogan behind which masses can rally; does not look like a clear, sharp contrast, such as is necessary to make a battle.

For several years events and tendencies have been making it increasingly difficult for the Democrats to stand by the low tariff position—to offer united, thoroughgoing opposition to the policy of protection.

First of all, in the present tariff revision, now under way, the farmer is to be taken care of. It is to benefit the farmer that the session was called, and the common point of view is that, as respects the tariff, the farmer is to be given substantially everything that he wants or asks for in the way of protection. There are plenty who believe that protection can do little for the farmer when 90 per cent of the American acreage raises crops that are sold abroad. But this does not alter the fact, that as respects the tariff, the principal program of the present session is to give protection, or more protection, or both, to the farmer.

This fact makes it somewhat more difficult for Democrats representing southern farmers—where diversified farming has come to raise miscellaneous crops—to oppose the theory of protection. Some of the most vehement demands for protection, in the present revision, come from Texas farmers raising early vegetables, and Florida farmers raising fruits and early vegetables, against the competition of Bermuda and the West Indies.

Furthermore, to a greater and greater degree, manufacturing is penetrating the south, and factories arising there. With manufacturing comes zeal for protection. The most rampant protective tariff periodical coming before the eyes of the writer of this article is a weekly that speaks for southern business from Virginia all the way to Texas, "The Manufacturers Record." Increase of manufacturing in North Carolina, with some other causes, has caused that state to pay the second highest internal revenue tax among all the states. There are, in North Carolina, business men so confident about the growth of manufacturing there that they say it will become a kind of "Pennsylvania of the South."

Up to the Senate

As respects northern Democrats in the lower house, most of them come from states like Massachusetts, where textiles are a leading industry and protection is indispensable; or from scattered communities elsewhere, where steel or other industries demand protection.

All of which tends to support what Speaker Longworth said, namely, that as to the tariff the two parties differ only in detail. Nearly every Democratic member in the lower house has in his district at least one industry or commodity as to which he is under pressure to be a protectionist. The Democrats are very few who, like Hull, of Tennessee, can step out in front and take the old Democratic low tariff position all along the line.

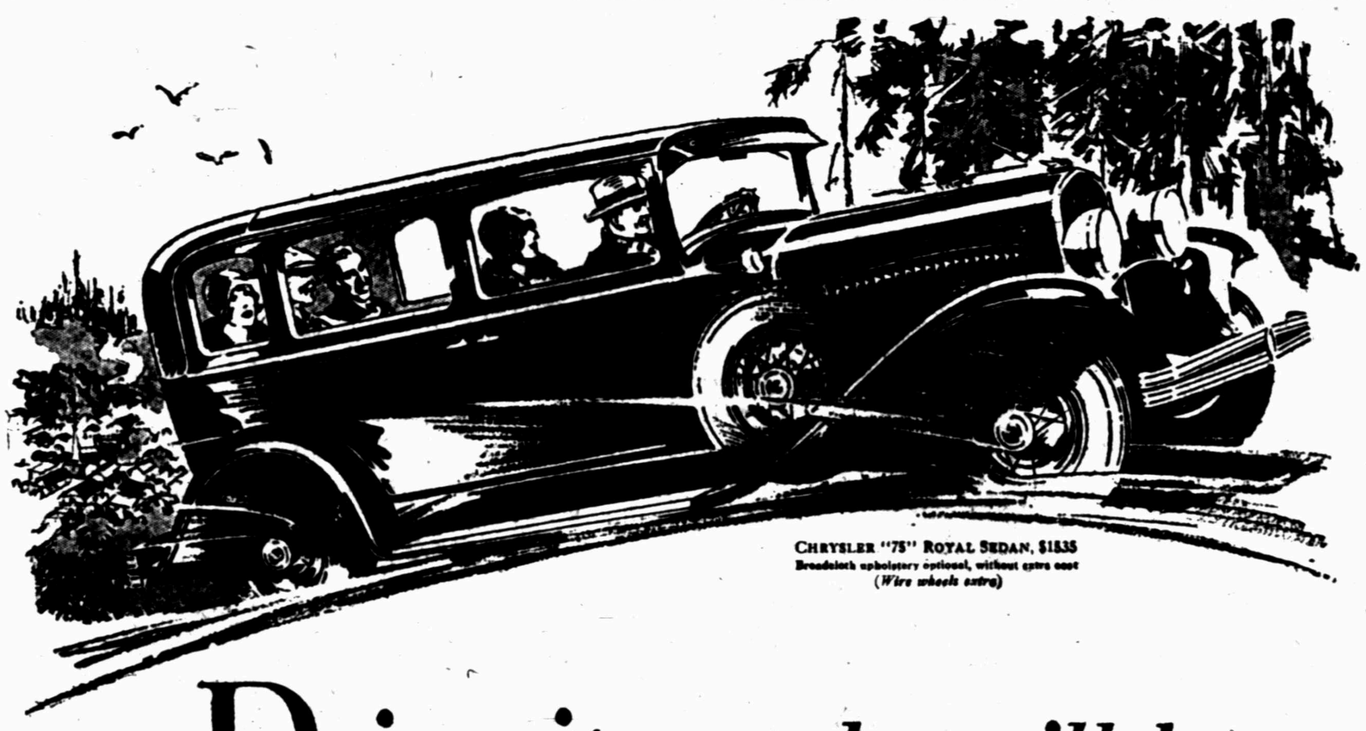

All this is not meant to say, with finality, that there will be no tariff fight in the present session of congress. There may be one, a real one. But if it comes it will come in the senate. It will be initiated probably less by Democrats than by western Republicans.

There is no other motor car performance quite like Chrysler performance—so silky in power, so flashing in pick-up, so steady in speed, so untiring to drive, so disciplined in control.

This is understandable when you check the list of Chrysler engineering developments included in both the "65" and the "75"—chassis and body features, and combinations of features, to be enjoyed only in Chrysler cars.

Chrysler offers, in the final analysis, something more than just a motor car. It affords, in reality, a delightful new phase, a thrilling new experience, in motoring performance.

You can pay more and still not equal the performance or the intrinsic value that Chrysler "65" and "75" both give you at their remarkably moderate prices.

THE first Studebaker Eight, The President, was introduced at the auto shows last year.

A few months later this great President Eight electrified the motor world by setting eleven world and twenty-three international records, including the greatest feat of endurance and speed in the history of transportation—30,000 miles in 26,326 consecutive minutes!

Get behind the wheel of a Studebaker President or Commander Eight, and you will know at once why Studebaker has won enthusiastic endorsement over all other eights, regardless of type, or price, or years before the public.

If you know and enjoy fine cars, these Studebaker champion eights will win you, just as they have won multitudes of others by their flexible power, comfort and beauty.

The upholstered center arm-rest becomes part of the back cushion, at your pleasure.

I LOVE MAY

The Month in Which the Annual Exercise Is Taken

By DONALD OGDEN STEWART

I love May.

May is the month in which I take my annual exercise.

Every year, when May comes around, I get that feeling that I ought to take some exercise. Not that I need exercise—I mean, not that I'm taking on weight or anything. A hundred and ninety-two is just a nice weight for a growing boy of thirty-four.

And not that I don't think about exercise during the winter. I think about skating and playing squash and long walks over the snow. Why, there's nothing I like better than to sit in front of a good roaring radiator and think about a long walk over the snow, with my faithful dog Gyp plowing along behind me. Here, Gyp—good fellow.

But May is different. Something happens to me along about the first of May. I get the feeling that I ought to Get Outdoors and Do Something. I feel that I ought to Take Up Some Sport.

Last year, for example, I took up riding—horseback riding, that is. I took it up on May 5th and put it down on May 6th. In between those times I had quite a number of interesting experiences and quite enough exercise to last me for the fiscal year of 1928. That also, I imagine, applies to my horse whose name, by a curious coincidence, was Rover (out of Sloan's Liniment by Twitch).

I selected Rover as my first "mount" by going to a fortune teller who looked into a crystal ball and told me that she seemed to see me on a tall black horse named either "Paw Down and Go Boom" or "Rover" and by a process of elimination I chose Rover and off we went—or, rather, off I went. I pluckily got up again, however, and tried mounting her on the other side just to change my luck. But (as the saying goes) "Lucky at love, unlucky at riding" horses named 'Rover'," and so I finally gave the whole thing up and was carried home unconscious. So much for that form of exercise.

Then, the year before, I tried golf—or, rather, golf tried me. A friend of mine (whom, for the sake of anonymity, we shall call Charles A Lindbergh) suggested that I "take up the game."

"Well," he replied, in a conversational tone, "it gets you outdoors."

"I can get 'outdoors,' as you call it," I suggested, "without having to knock a little ball towards a red flag."

I'm afraid I laughed, and that laugh is the last thing I remember, except that I do remember my friend starting towards me with his driver in his hand.

"Some of the flags are white," he argued. I considered.

"Are you sure?" I asked, feeling the ground slipping out from under me.

"Positive," he asserted, "and in some courses I've even seen flags that were green."

A look into his eyes convinced me that he was not "spoofing" me.

"Come on," he urged, "just try it once."

Well, it was the old, old story, and at last I gave in. And on the following Sunday two figures were to be observed striding boldly towards the first tee of the Old Kidney Hunt and Golf Club—one of whom was my friend and the other of whom was I. I was distinguishable from my friend by a slightly aggressive look about my eyes and a bit of old chewing gum on my left heel. Both of us, however, were in golf "togs" and sported "caddies."

"I feel as though I was going to go pretty well today," remarked my friend. "I shouldn't be surprised if I broke 80."

"Yes?" I said.

"This," explained my friend, as we reached the tee, "is our number one and is called 'Valley Ho'."

"Why?" I asked.

"Because that's its name," was his reply. "Now, you take your driver—"

"Does every hole have a name?" I asked.

"Of course," he replied. "Now this is your driver—"

"What are some of the other names?" I asked.

"Well, I might want to play some other hole first," I replied. "Maybe I'd like some other name better—"

"It is customary," he said, rather icily for such a warm day, "to begin with number one."

"Oh, all right," I agreed. "Now what?" and I took the driver from my caddie.

"Your own," was his reply. "You keep your eye on the ball—your left arm stiff—hug your body with the right—break the wrists at the top shift the weight gradually to the left foot—"

"That doesn't seem to leave much time for reading," I objected, "or writing letters home."

He made no reply other than a slight biting of his lips and a somewhat tighter clutching of his own club.

"Perhaps you had better go first," I suggested, "and show me just how it is done."

Without another word he stepped up, addressed his ball, and swung. The ball hopped along the top of the tee and came to rest in some very tall grass about twenty-five yards ahead.

"This can't be a very long hole," I suggested politely. He gave me another of those quick looks. I smiled and stepped forward.

"Now let me see," I mused. "I keep my eye on the ball—hug my left arm—shift my weight to my right tonsil—and—"

"Oh, for heck's sake," he hissed. "Will you drive?"

"Oh, all right," I said and swung. And by a curious coincidence the ball went steaming ahead about a hundred and seventy-five yards.

"Well, well," I remarked comfortingly, "that was probably just luck."

"Oh, no," said my friend. "Oh, not at all."

I watched him as he took four strokes to get out of the tall grass. I watched his ball eventually come to rest behind a tree on the opposite side of the course. I watched him take five more strokes—and then I took my second shot. Once more the ball miraculously sailed forward and landed on the edge of the green.

"That's two for me," I announced.

"Oh, is it?" said my friend.

I took, of course, four putts—but won the hole.

"Now where?" I asked.

In silence we walked over to the second tee.

"What's the name of this one?" I asked, cheerfully. My friend made no reply, so I looked it up on the score card.

"'Lover's Leap'," I read—and drove. It wasn't as good a drive as the first—but it wasn't bad. About a hundred and fifty yards, I should say, if anybody asked me. Nobody asked me, but I said it anyway. And I said it, unfortunately, just as my friend was addressing his ball.

"Would you mind shutting up?" he demanded, looking up.

"Of course not," I replied—with another of my winning smiles. And then he drove.

It was a very strange drive. It started forward—and then hooked quickly to the left. And then it plopped suddenly into a small lake.

I'm afraid I laughed—and that laugh is the last thing I remember, except that I do remember my friend starting towards me with his driver in his hand. At any rate, I came to in the clubhouse and my friend was bending over me and there were apologies and a drink or two and I decided then and there that perhaps golf was not my game, either.

So this May I think I'll take a shot at fishing. I don't see how that can do me any harm—or the fish, either, for that matter.

ABE MARTIN ON DIAGNOSTICIANS

Too many folks jumps into new activities, new jobs an' positions, after they've reached forty-five or fifty without stoppin' to take stock of their reserve force, without havin' ther hearts an' livers examined an' tuned up, ther kidneys gone over, an' ther spines kneaded. A feller 'll take up the cornet at forty-five, or start to raise squabs fer the market at fifty, or begin to study law at fifty-five, jest like he intended to live ferever. He knows enough to have his car inspected an' overhauled, his shoes half-soled, an' his straw hat cleaned, an' mebbe, if they hurt too much, he'll have a tooth or two yanked or plugged, but he never gives a thought to his gizzard. He keeps right on eatin' red meat, macaroni, p'taters, white bread, condiments, an' cocoanut cream pie, an' dreamin' o' th' day when he'll thrill the world with his cornet, or be the envy of all criminal lawyers. It's amazin' what all we kin eat after we've been closeted with a diagnostician—celery, charcoal tablets, fish, butternuts, fish eggs, whole wheat muffins guardedly, mutton broth, kale, spinach, an' carrots. A diagnostician told Leslie Pine, fifty, that he might easily master a second alto horn if he cut out catsup, spaghetty, red meat, bread, coffee, p'taters an' lard. Any time after forty, or at most forty-five, is a critical stage o' any man or woman, jest the same as the second year is the critical age of a car that's been raffled off at an Elks' fair. Any recognized diagnostician with improvised X-ray apparatus, lung-tester, searchlight, an' rubber hammer, kin check up a forty-year-old human machine fer more easily than the most skilled mechanic kin find out what's wrong with a used car. It's estimated that at least 50 per cent o' people are too cowardly to be tinkered with. They're afraid they're goin' to die an' they don't want to know it. "Oh, I'd rather die than cut out fried p'taters," a feller 'll say. Others feel the same about smokin', chili sauce, round steak, fried messes an' hot, bakin' powder biscuits, but now an' then diagnosticians find that we may indulge temperately in all o' these things. Personally I'd hate to give up stewed tomatoes, but I'd willin'ly attempt it if I thought I'd live eighteen or twenty years longer. I think a feller owes it to his creditors, if not his family, to have a good diagnostician look into him at least once a year, instead o' droppin' off owin' ever'buddy in town when he could have cut out fried mush, or somethin', an' paid his debts an' educated his children. Some folks are really indispensable to ther communities, an' it would well repay such communities to stand the expense o' overhaulin' such folks an' extendin' ther usefulness. Ther's no more excuse fer droppin' off at sixty than ther is o' junkin' a wheel-barrow the second summer, but too many people want to stay in the parade, instead o' standin' quietly on the curb an' reachin' eighty-four. One o' the commonest expressions we hear these feverish days is, "You don't mean it! Why, I ate lunch with him jest a day or so ago an' he looked like a million dollars!"

You can't compromise with Pride of Ownership

The owner of a De Soto Six has a sound basis for his pride of ownership—he is driving exactly the car he wants to drive—a Chrysler-built car.

Cars of lower price attracted him not at all. He knows they lack many of his essential demands. And he didn't need to buy a more expensive car because he found complete satisfaction—full realization of his personal standards of performance, comfort, economy and durability—in the De Soto Six.

Here is a car that is literally built to order for those whose budgets are not unlimited—a car that even the most discriminating motorist can own without either sacrificing his pride or straining his pocketbook.

Before deciding on your purchase, give the Chrysler-built De Soto Six your most critical inspection. You will find all the advantages and comforts, all the zestful driving, and all the pride of ownership that are associated in your mind only with cars of much higher price.

How a Woman Who Preached Efficiency Found Content

By... Fannie Hurst

Highest Paid Short Story Writer in the World

There was not a detail in modern housekeeping that Luella Morse had not figured out with power and simplicity. She was honored not only in her own community, but the country over.

LUELLA MORSE was one of those girls who turn efficient, so to speak, owing to the demands of circumstance.

She had not been educated toward that end.

A girls' finishing school in the East and a pretty sound musical training had endowed her with the comfortable veneer of one whose life seems destined for easy places.

Luella's life, however, did not turn out that way at all. When she was twenty-one, satisfactorily returned to her snug home from her smug finishing school and living the busy life of the society girl in her middle West city, fortune suddenly turned a cold shoulder. Within four months she was not only orphaned, but found herself seated among the ruins of family splendor that had apparently been only papier mache.

Luella's father, who, ever since she could remember, had maintained a pleasant, large household, sufficient servants to relieve his wife and daughter of creature concern, two automobiles at least and plenty of hospitality for visitors, left an estate which, after the debts were paid and a thousand undreamed obligations met, netted his startled daughter just seven hundred dollars.

It was a rather appalling situation, because if any girl seemed unfitted for the strenuous procedures of a business woman's life, that girl was the pretty and frail Luella.

She had always blended so congenially into the pattern mapped out for her by socially ambitious parents. She had done just the right and normal things for a girl in her position. She had never been a problem; never been one of those girls filled with mystifying desires and unrests.

BUT like so many human beings who, under pressure, show undreamed of possibilities, Luella responded to the change of circumstances in a fashion that fairly took away the breath of the community.

After a month or two of inevitable collapse and bewilderment, the troubled young woman, refusing various offers of friends to tide her over the immediate future confronting her, took matters upon her own shoulders, so to speak.

And of all enterprises for a girl of Luella's gentle breeding to enter! Within six months after her parents' death, Luella was in the real estate business. Not, it is true, that she had selected it; more specifically, it had selected her. That is, after weeks of aimless searching she had finally stumbled across an opening in a real-estate office where, on no salary, but a commission basis, she was given the opportunity to prove her fettle and her nettle in salesmanship.

Her whirlwind career as a real-estate promoter in a district covering her own city and the countryside within a twenty-mile radius, was one which was to make local history. How it all came about, how her enterprise, her aggressiveness and her incredible tenacity focused themselves on real estate values, immediate and future, has already become legend.

Unexplainable, least of all to herself, except that her dogged determination to make good gripped her from the first day of her entrance into this business, was the fact that within five years the Morse "family house" had become one of the dominant architectural features of the city.

BEFORE she was thirty, Luella Morse was undoubtedly the foremost real estate promoter in her part of the country. Hundreds of modern apartment houses, built along lines originally designed by her, dominated the streets of the city. Her fame as a sociologist had transcended far beyond her own state and, in making possible these tabloid homes for families in moderate circumstances, she was declared by many to have emancipated the family from many of its creature oppressions and woes.

The Morse Homes, which were designed in units graduated to the needs of families of various sizes, were the last word in efficiency. Everything in them was modeled along lines calculated to destroy the deadly and deadening effects of household drudgery upon women. The living rooms were models of comfortable efficiency and rounded corners. A minimum number of dust-catching surfaces. Bedrooms with disappearing beds. Kitchenettes that were electrical marvels.

There was not a detail in modern housekeeping that Luella Morse had not figured out with power and simplicity. She was honored not only in her own community, but the country over. She had made possible economy, comfort and luxuries for the middle class.

WHEN Luella Morse was thirty, she was worth two million dollars. She was one of the outstanding success-stories for women of her time, and characteristically enough, she herself occupied a Morse home, her life narrowing down to the simplicity she loved. She kept no servants. In a Morse home, they were superfluous.

She was the modern efficient woman, all right. She had reduced housekeeping to its lowest terms. Women said prayerful things of her; the real-estate industry bowed to her undoubted financial genius and did honor to the service she had done to humanity.

When Luella was slightly past thirty a situation, which had chiefly been deferred by the unusual trend of her life, arose. For the first time she might be said to have found time to let the business of living wedge its way into her manifold activities.

Through her work, she met a sociologist in a local university named Elmer Brown and fell in love with him. He was a man about thirty-eight, a dreamer, an idealist and imbued with much enthusiasm for the achievements of Luella Morse. An enthusiasm which had not to do with her financial success. He frankly regarded her as a sort of Messiah to women. His respect for what she had done was without limit; and he loved Luella.

They were married.

The Morse Home by now has become a national institution. Indeed, it is spreading to all parts of the world. The work of Elmer Brown has long since transcended the confines of his university and he now joins his wife in propounding their fine and humanizing schemes.

Meanwhile, the Elmer Browns have found time to give thought and consideration to their own lives.

They live in a beautiful old farmhouse which they have bought on the outskirts of the middle Western city. It has fourteen rooms and its upkeep is intricate and exacting.
