Sex Scandal Arrest Rocks British Govt.

LONDON (AP) — A socialite osteopath claiming acquaintance with the royal family was arrested Saturday in the government's sex scandal. He was accused of living off prostitutes' earnings.

Unable to make bail, Dr. Stephen Ward, 43, was held in jail for a hearing Monday. It was Ward who disclosed relations between ex-War Minister John Profumo and Christine Keeler, pretty, 22-year-old redhead described in Parliament as a call girl.

The disclosure led to Profumo's resignation Wednesday and touched off the scandal that has shaken Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Conservative government and might imperil its future.

FORMALLY CHARGED
Ward, who says he has treated former Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill and half the British Cabinet, formally was charged with living off prostitution from Jan. 1, 1961, until now. No names of prostitutes were mentioned in the charges.

Ward was arrested in a north London suburb by Chief Inspector Samuel Herbert and Detective-Sgt. John Burrows of Scotland Yard. They have been leading a vice investigation that is reported to stretch into the British government and to Paris and New York.

A talkative man, Ward had disclosed in a television interview this week that he was the target of an investigation. He denied that his activities might be considered as procuring.

Ward says he is the son of the late Canon Arthur Evelyn Ward of Rochester, England, who died in 1944.

QUALIFIED OSTEOPATH
He claims that he qualified as an osteopath in America and is on the osteopathic register in that country.

In addition to prominent persons he met in his practice — he has said they also included movie actress Elizabeth Taylor and U.S. millionaire Paul Getty — Ward claimed to have had a number of prominent sitters in his second vocation as an artist.

Ward has named his sitters as, among others, Prince Philip, husband of Queen Elizabeth II; Princess Margaret, the queen's sister; Lord Snowdon, Margaret's husband; Princess Marina, the queen's aunt; and Princess Alexandra, the queen's cousin.

As Ward was arrested, Conservative legislators spoke out frankly about the embarrassment the Headed, 22-year-old Christine Keeler is escorted from her London residence by Robin Drury, who has been her bodyguard the last few days, on her way to a court appearance. She is a figure in a sex scandal which has shaken the British government, and which has brought the resignation of the minister of war.

Profumo scandal holds for Macmillan and the government.
John Cordie, Tory member, told constituents:
"We cannot afford to have had security risks in high office in this country."

Kennedy Gets Down To Real Politics

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Kennedy blasted away for his tax cut and racial equality Saturday in a downright political speech to cheering Democratic women.

Kennedy also brought Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana to his side for a conference on the touchy civil rights question during a jet flight to Hawaii Saturday night.

The two took off for Hawaii at 7:12 p.m. and will be calling

Brothers Die In Plane Crash

DENISON (AP) — Two Denison brothers were killed Saturday when their light plane crashed on a farm in east Grayson County.

They were Thomas Lynn Watkins, 26, and Marland Carter Watkins, 24.

The plane crashed on the farm of Shirley Washburn near Ida, east of Sherman.

Washburn, who saw the crash, said the plane was coming in for a landing when it suddenly pulled up again, went into a stall and plunged nose first into the ground.

The Taylorcraft plane came to rest upside down. It was demolished.

When Washburn reached the scene, one of the men was dead. The other died a few minutes after Washburn cut his seatbelt and removed him from the wreckage.

90th Men Train In Brush Country
NORTH FT. HOOD (AP) — Hardened by a week of training, the 90th Division will bed down Sunday in the rocky hills of this fort for a four-day bivouac.

The summer camp will end next Saturday. In the brush, they will train under conditions the American fighting man may face in combat.

Showers Fall Generally Over Howard County

Howard County's portion of rugged weather which battered the southern plains counties Saturday night was restricted to cool temperatures and occasional light rain-showers.

Heavily overcast skies loomed a drizzle around 8 p.m. which was continuing intermittently as the night advanced. There was no lightning or wind and the moisture was only enough to dampen windshields and create small puddles on the streets.

MORE TODAY
The same sort of weather which has prevailed most of the past week is in store for Sunday. Scattered showers are possible this afternoon and tonight. The temperatures will be above 90 both this afternoon and Monday.

Most of Howard County got rains early Saturday morning but the amounts varied from light sprinkles in the Elbow community to as much as an inch and a half west of the Wilkinson Ranch. Knott, Ackery and the northwest segment of the county had from 3/4 to an inch. The heavier rains extended southward to Fairview where 7/8 inch was gauged.

The showers broke the heat which had made Friday night oppressive.

LOCAL READINGS
In Big Spring, the U.S. Experiment Station reported the rain at 34 inch Texas Electric Service Co. gauge at its switch plant showed .09.

Farmers in the Ackery community were pleased with the inch of rain most of them received. They had not shared too generously in the rains earlier in the month and in May.

Rufus L. Stallings in the Knott community said that his gauge showed .90 inch. D. F. Bigony in Fairview said his rain measure was .70.

WEST OF TOWN
Bill McVain on the Wilkinson Ranch west of town had an inch on the home place and a mile south, an inch and a half fell. He said that he was told heavy rain and damaging hail struck some farms west of his place.

S. R. Parum, Lomax, reported the rain there at 30 inch. McKinnon grocery in Elbow said that the rain there was just a sprinkle.

Moss Creek lake area had 3/4 inch according to Morgan Martin. L. J. Davidson, who lives a few miles northeast of Big Spring, gauged 2 1/2 inch.

In the extreme southeast corner of the county, Chalk had just a trace of rain.

McVain said that there was more runoff from the Saturday morning rain than usual and that stock tanks were beginning to fill.

Little Damage From Twisters

By The Associated Press
Turbulent weather that spawned several tornadoes erupted again in storm-battered areas of Texas Saturday, but caused little damage.

Tornadoes swooped down near Ropesville, Edmondson, Earth and Levelland. Several other unconfirmed twisters were reported.

Heavy rains mixed with hail fell from boiling thunderstorms that moved erratically throughout the Texas Panhandle-South Plains country.

The Ropesville tornado hit the James Means farm about 6:30 p.m., destroying several small buildings and damaging the farm residence. No one was injured.

Three farm houses were damaged as another funnel swept to the ground northwest of Edmondson, which is near Plainview.

A third twister touched down at Levelland missed the transmitter of Radio Station KLVY by about 50 yards as it twirled its funnel southwest of the station. Three utility poles were leveled.

Pampa, Borger and Amarillo all received heavy rains and hail, whipped by strong winds.

A tornado churned harmlessly on the ground near Earth, northwest of Lubbock.

Horseman's Club Slates Meeting

The Howard County Youth Horseman's Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the south show barn of the Rodeo Grounds, according to C. H. Harrison, president. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

Several horses will be brought to the meeting for a demonstration of the proper way to shear and trim them. A show will be held afterward and the horses will be judged. If possible, a demonstration will be given in riding reining and western pleasure horses for

Tight Guard Net Over Tuscaloosa

Race Showdown At School Tuesday

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace said in a telegram to President Kennedy Saturday night that he will call up 500 National Guardsmen for standby duty to keep law and order in next week's integration showdown.

Confirming reports from other sources, Wallace said his summoning of troops was aimed at fulfilling a pledge to preserve the peace.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George Wallace reportedly ordered National Guardsmen into this university city Saturday and laid a tight security net over the Huntsville branch in steps aimed at preventing mob violence in next week's integration showdown.

Sources close to Wallace said he assigned an estimated 600 guardsmen to standby duty in Tuscaloosa to back up, if necessary, a massive force of 825 state, county, city and campus policemen.

There was no immediate indication whether Wallace will send National Guard units to the

Ordered Only To Restrain Violence

Unlike Little Rock, Ark., and Oxford, Miss., where guardsmen or state police stood in the paths of Negro students, the troops and officers here are under strict orders only to prevent violence and keep mobs from forming.

However, guardsmen can be federalized by President Kennedy who had such an order drawn May 13 after calling in Army troops to two Alabama bases following violence in Birmingham. He has not yet signed the order.

About 2,000 federal soldiers remain on standby at Ft. McClellan,

Federal Troops May Move In

Government sources in Birmingham said U.S. marshals escorting the Negroes probably will make no effort to force their way past the governor. If he refuses to yield, these sources said, the federal officers will withdraw and federal troops probably will move in.

A Washington spokesman said earlier in the week there would be no shoving match between marshals and state officers and whatever force needed would be used to enroll the students.

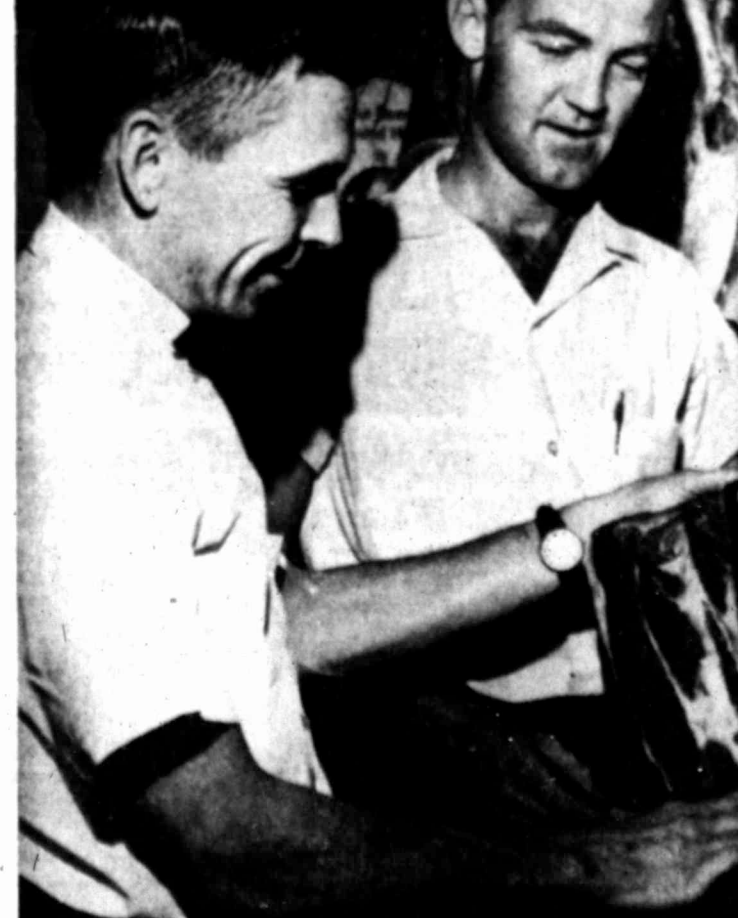

Gleaming yellow barricades went up at midnight Friday, putting the grounds off-limits to all except students, faculty and accredited visitors.

Barricades were erected across heavily traveled U.S. 11, running through the campus, and traffic was rerouted.

In Montgomery, Wallace issued another appeal for law and order. He will make a statewide radio-television broadcast Sunday to urge people to keep away from the university.

There were no injuries from the shootings.

Three Negroes and two white persons who sought service at a cafeteria in downtown Atlanta Saturday were pummeled and pushed by two white men.

Scholarship Barbecue

Don Newsom (left), who annually prepares the barbecue for the local A&M Club scholarship feast, shows the material for this year's menu to Doug Clements, club president. Tickets are on sale for the 11th annual event, to be held in the amphitheatre of City Park, beginning at 7 p.m. Thursday. Duets are $1.50 for adults and children under 12 will be admitted free. Highlight of the program will be announcement of the club's scholarship winner. The Aggies expect some 2,000 people to participate.

WELL, THERE ARE TWO SIDES TO ALMOST ANY PROPOSITION

LEWISTOWN, Mont. (AP) — Publisher Woody Laughan of the Lewistown Daily News in going through files of the frontier days Lewistown Argus found this headline on a story about the opening of a trial:

"Dirty Horse Thief Caught Red Handed With The Goods
"Will Probably Be Strung Up And Good Riddance
"Stole Horse From Defenseless Widow"
A jury acquitted the man the next day and the headline read:
"Highly Respected Citizen Wrongly Accused Of Theft
"Stupid Charge Embarrasses Man
"Widow Was Out To Get Him On False Charges."

MACMILLAN IN TROUBLE

President Risks Failure On Trip

By JOHN HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has committed himself to a personal venture in Allied diplomacy this month which holds greater risk of failure than promise of success.

But as administration officials assess the outlook this weekend, the gamble is one that had to be taken because in their view cancellation of Kennedy's plans to visit Italy and Germany would have produced a worse failure than any the President risks by making the trip.

The decision, announced Friday, to visit British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan seems to raise the hazards with the certain prospect that Kennedy will become directly involved in the British struggle for power between Macmillan and Labor party leader Harold Wilson.

URGED BY MAC
The explanation offered in administration quarters for Kennedy's offer to see Macmillan is that the prime minister had urged him not to bypass London on his flying tour around the borders of France.

Administration officials are aware that while plans for the President's trip have been buffeted by the winds of adversity, French President Charles de Gaulle has displayed the image of a major European ally standing calm and confident amid a tempest of politics and diplomacy.

But administration officials consider the contrast misleading and many, indeed, regard De Gaulle's unruffled calm less as a product of strength than as a cover of the semi-isolation into which his plans have been put by his European neighbors.

NO RESULTS
Some of Kennedy's most influential advisers insist that the President does not seek any concrete results from his trip. But the impression is strong that he would certainly welcome agreements with Macmillan and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in support of his proposal for a jointly owned and manned navy armed with Polaris missiles.

The nuclear force proposal has several thorns against it. While De Gaulle cannot veto it as he vetoed Britain's bid for the Common Market last January, he can and has argued that it would be only an extension of U.S. power and not a real European force.

The real reason for going through with the trip seems to be that Kennedy and his advisers felt a cancellation or major postponement would have had results in Europe and shown weakening Allied unity to the Communist world as well.

Crash Fatal To Banker's Wife

DALHART (AP) — A prominent Tyler banker was injured and his wife killed Saturday when their car and trailer turned over five times on Texas 385 south of this Panhandle city.

Mrs. John M. Stephens was dead on arrival at a Dalhart hospital.

Hospital officials said her husband, chairman of the board of Peoples National Bank in Tyler, was not believed to be seriously injured.

The highway patrol said the house trailer apparently caused the Stephens car to go out of control. The highway was blocked for some time with the trailer contents. Mrs. Stephens was driving, officers said.

Hope Dim For Trapped Man

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — Rescue crews held little hope today that their round-the-clock efforts would save a construction worker trapped in a railroad tunnel near here.

Harry Nichols of Bartlett, Ohio, was believed buried under tons of rock. He was working on a construction gang Thursday night enlarging a Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tunnel 20 miles southeast of Parkersburg.

Two other workers were pulled out alive Friday after several hours of effort by volunteer firemen and rescue squads.

Arthur Boggs, 24, remained in critical condition with internal injuries and shock. Robert Airhart, 19, was treated for bruises at a hospital and released.

The men were trapped about 500 feet back into the tunnel when the roof gave way. Police said workmen had been using dynamite in the tunnel.

This and several other B&O tunnels in the area are being enlarged.

Reviewing The Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

There might be a summer lag in some areas, but the old community spirit was on the move this past week, with all the verve of a crisp autumn. Merchants groups and others were taking to the "Try Big Spring First" program, which hopes to build up a sentiment in all quarters to examine everything Big Spring has to offer — in professional services, manufacture and wholesaling, in addition to local retail inventories — before going elsewhere.

And perhaps the biggest thing to come along yet is the industrial promotional activity which caught fire the other night, when more than a third of a wanted $100,000 was subscribed. By now, the amount accounted for may be up to $50,000. This is money that will be used exclusively to "sell" Big Spring to any reliable company that might want to locate in this part of the world, and bring some capital investment and payroll money with it.

The Colorado River Municipal Water District is still looking ahead, too. Directors approved another $25,000 for continuing studies on the prospective lake in southern Mitchell County. There remain big engineering matters and the salt solution problem, but the sights definitely are set on another mammoth reservoir to insure more important water for this growing area.

The days pass on, and already the United Fund is getting ready for its annual performance. Agencies which participate in this overall fund raising effort were notified to bring budgets in on June 25-26-27, for a UF committee's look-see. The sentiment is for some closer corner-cutting this year.

Another rodeo passed into history, and this one may have the dubious distinction of being the first money-loser. Rains — which were welcome on every other

Joey Gets To 'See' The President

Joey Renzi, 11, who has been blind since soon after his premature birth, has the attention of President Kennedy as the youngster has his wish fulfilled. "Boy," said Joey after the meeting in San Diego, "I got to see the President." Kennedy holds a statement, which Joey typed in Braille, thanking the President for "letting me see you at the Marine Corps recruit depot." Leaning into the group at left is Joey's mother, Mrs. Alfred Renzi, and in the center is Joey's brother, Johnny, 9. (AP Wirephoto).

Traditionalist, Modernist? Cardinals Must Make Choice

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Two cardinals mentioned among the possibilities for the new Pope of the Roman Catholic Church stood out Saturday as symbols of the task before the conclave set for June 19.

John Myers Gets Hospital Check

John Edwin Myers was taken to the Big Spring State Hospital Friday afternoon for a routine psychiatric examination. Myers, held here on a charge of murder with malice, is slated to go to trial in Lynn County, sometime this summer of fall. He was tried in March, 1962, and found guilty and his punishment set at death. The criminal court of appeals reversed that conviction, and remanded the case to be retried.

Gil Jones, district attorney, said he ordered the examinations of the defendant. He said it was just a routine step to keep him advised on the status of the prisoner.

More Volunteers Sign For Summer

Seventy-three junior volunteers have registered and received their orientation, making them eligible to participate in the program at the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital. An even dozen showed up Friday for a make-up orientation session. Others will receive their orientation in smaller groups, as they register for the work. There are still many vacancies which can be filled by junior volunteers. Mrs. Cunningham pointed out. Included are posts in various offices, housekeeping and the engineering department.

innovator like the late Pope John XXIII. The other, Giuseppe Cardinal Siri, is one of the recognized leaders of the traditionalists.

They symbolize the basic question of policy which will confront the conclave of cardinals when most of the 82 princes of the Church meet in the Sistine Chapel to name the new pontiff.

The cardinals will have to decide: Does the Church need as its next Pope an innovator or a traditionalist? It is believed here that whichever way this decision goes will have an influence on world diplomacy.

Pope John in his 4½-year reign sought to ease the stresses of the cold war. He also called an Ecumenical Council to seek ways of reuniting Christians. His work was warmly applauded by a modernist wing in the College of Cardinals. A traditionalist group wondered, however, whether the Church was getting into dangerous waters by moving too fast.

A middle group, larger than the other two, remains to be convinced what path the Church should take now.

While there is, of course, no indication who will be the next pontiff, the contrast of Cardinal Montini and Cardinal Siri served to point up the job ahead.

Cardinal Montini, 65, archbishop of Genoa, has stressed in previous speeches and pastoral letters the need for the removal of social injustices. He long has been considered a likely prospect to succeed Pope John.

Cardinal Siri, 57, archbishop of Genoa, was considered a possibility as the successor to Pope Pius XII. Like Cardinal Montini, he is a powerful speaker.

In the Vatican, the feeling is that historic precedent will be followed in the selection of a successor for Pope John—that is, that he will be an Italian.

Salvation Army Launches VBS

Vacation Bible School begins Monday at the Salvation Army Post. Classes will meet from 6:30-8:30 p.m. each day through Friday. Mrs. Robert L. Short, superintendent, said.

Classes will be divided into three age groups. Mrs. Nella Stevens will be in charge of beginners, ages 5-6 years; Mrs. Short will have the juniors, ages 7-11 years; and Maj. Robert L. Short, commander, and Mrs. Berva Kirby will have the teen-age group. In charge of handicrafts will be Mrs. Cleo Jackson, assisted by Mrs. Irma Jean Moore. Mrs. Beverly Thompson and Mrs. Wanda Scoun will have charge of refreshments. A nursery will be attended by Mrs. Ella Morrell and Mrs. Carrie Holder.

The school will be capped with a picnic at the Citadel Saturday, weather permitting.

Space Men Study Weightlessness

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — U.S. space researchers are thinking about ways to counteract weightlessness on long flights and reduce the hazards it creates for astronauts.

Capt. Duane Graveland, a physician of the Aerospace Medical Center, Brooks Air Force Base, Tex., reports that creation of artificial gravity is under consideration.

Graveland, who is assigned to Project Mercury, discussed weightlessness at the space biology symposium of COSPAR, the international Committee for Space Research.

"It doesn't mean much if the heart beat and blood pressure are normal during weightlessness up in space," Graveland said. "It's when the man comes down and must function efficiently during re-entry that we are worried about."

Graveland has been studying effects of weightlessness on the body's adjustment to the renewed tug of gravity.

The circulatory system's ability to get blood back to the heart is attuned to gravity, he explained, and, during disuse in weightlessness, the mechanism for boosting blood pressure with quickened heart beat becomes sluggish in its responses.

"Anybody who has been on bed rest knows this — how dizzy they feel for a time on standing up," he said.

Graveland said several U.S. and Soviet astronauts showed this effect after their flights.

"The problem can be overcome for flights of even up to three weeks or a month through muscle exercises in flight or drugs," Graveland said. "But unless we come up with an entirely new approach, when you start talking in terms of months, you had better start thinking in terms of artificial 'g'-gravity."

Inquiry Ends

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP) — A Navy court of inquiry has ended its investigation of the loss of the nuclear attack submarine Thresher after eight weeks of hearings in which 1,700 pages of testimony were taken from 120 witnesses. The investigation began at New London, Conn., April 11, the day after the Thresher sank some 220 miles east of Boston with 129 men aboard.

Graham Hopes New Pope Will Think Like John

BONN, Germany. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham said today it would be a tragedy if the next Roman Catholic pontiff does not show Pope John XXIII's desire to reconcile all Christians.

"I admired Pope John tremendously," Graham told a news conference at the start of a preaching mission in West Germany. "I felt he brought a new era to the world."

"It is my hope that the cardinals elect a new Pope who will follow the same line as John. It would be a great tragedy if they chose a man who reacted against John, who re-erected the walls."

The Protestant evangelist held his news conference shortly after meeting for 40 minutes with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, a Roman Catholic.

"We talked entirely about theology and spiritual matters," he reported. "We found ourselves in quite a lot of agreement."

Mechanization Killed Bracero Program

DALLAS (AP)—Congress may think it killed the Mexican contract worker program last week. All it actually did was write the obituary.

This is evident in the sharp decline in requests for Mexican workers—braceros—by U.S. farmers in the last few years, and by the changing pattern of farm work.

Farmers plunged home the finishing stroke when they turned to mechanization to harvest crops which once required "stoop labor" to gather.

The bracero program started during the Korean War. A shortage of labor caused farmer to cry for workers.

Mexico and the United States signed a treaty permitting the contracting of laborers by farmers under strict conditions of employment.

At one point, almost a half million Mexicans poured in to work. Last year it was half that figure and falling.

Farmers in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, one of the big areas of Mexican employment, claim the minimum wage demanded by treaty, plus the red tape of providing housing, insurance and the like caused them to turn to native migrant workers, or to machines.

The minimum wage as set by the Labor Department amounted to 70 cents an hour in Texas, 60 cents in Arkansas and about $1.00 in other states—based on prevailing wages.

Cotton picking brought about $2.50 a hundred pounds.

Rep. Charles Gubser, R-Calif., in arguing in the House last week against extension of the program, said farmers prefer domestic laborers. He said growers will pay U.S. workers 5 to 10 cents an hour more to avoid the red tape and rules involved in hiring Mexican contract workers.

Arguing against extension of the program were religious and humanitarian groups, asserting the Mexicans are exploited. Union and native Spanish speaking groups said the program depressed wages and took jobs away from U.S. workers.

Rep. E. C. Gathings, D-Ark., arguing for an extension, said he doesn't think the nation is ready to deny farmers "the right to have some labor."

The AFL-CIO estimates Texas alone has about 340,000 farm laborers, most of them migrants. They work in Texas and fan out over the nation in crop seasons, returning to winter along the Rio Grande.

Mechanization long ago struck the wheat fields. Now cotton picking, one of the great consumers of man hours, soon may be equally mechanized.

The Agriculture Department says 92 per cent of the nation's cotton was harvested by hand in 1950. This year the percentage will drop to about 33.

Farmers can hire their cotton picked by machines for around $2.00 a hundred pounds. Or a farmer can buy a machine for $20,000 and save the profit made by the commercial operator of the machine.

As the wheat harvesters began doing years ago, operators of mechanical pickers are starting at the southern limit of the growing belt and working northward as the crop ripens. This means fewer workers are needed, whether they are Mexican braceros or native migrants.

Other harvest jobs once done by stoop labor are being mechanized. One big vegetable company estimates 75 per cent of the peas it cans are harvested mechanically now. About 60 per cent of the snap bean harvest is mechanized.

Even oranges and grapefruit some day may be "picked" by machines—wind machines which blow the fruit from trees.

The bracero program is credited by the House Agriculture Committee with stopping the flood of wetbacks (Mexicans illegally in the United States).

The Immigration Service seized 1,022,267 wetbacks in 1954 and sent them back to Mexico. The number dropped to 221,674 the next year and now is only a trickle.

The wetbacks and braceros are lured by what, to them, are the sky-high wages in the United States. The minimum wage in Mexico is 88 cents a day.

The U. S. dollars taken back to Mexico by braceros has been considered an important part of Mexico's economy.

Nearly 400 Sign For Summer Fun

Leaders for the annual Citywide Summer Recreation program will have their hands full this year. At the end of registration Saturday afternoon 399 persons were enrolled in the program at the main YMCA and sign-up will not be complete for North Side residents until Wednesday, Joe Leach, coordinator, said.

"This is three times the number we had sign up by this time last year," he said. "We are overwhelmed, but very happy about the response."

By Saturday 119 had registered for fun club activities, 173 for the learn-to-swim program and 107 for arts and crafts. Although registration at the Lakeview Branch Y has not officially begun, 31 persons have already signed up there and another hundred or more are expected.

In spite of the load, registrations will be accepted next week to insure that no one wishing to participate is left out, Leach said. The program is sponsored jointly by the City of Big Spring, the United Fund, the Big Spring Independent School District and the YMCA. Entry fee is $1 to cover costs of swimming and $1 to take care of a part of the cost of materials. However, no youngster is turned away because of inability to pay.

The program gets under way Monday. Registrations for north-side residents will be at Lakeview Y Monday at 9 a.m. At Kate Morrison school it will be Tuesday at 9 a.m. and at that hour Wednesday at Bauer Elementary school.

Forsan Man Hurt In Truck Mishap

Charles Wash, 31, vice president of the Forsan Oil Well Service Inc., is in Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital as result of injuries received early Friday when a backing truck pinned him against a trailer. His condition is not believed serious. He suffered no broken bones but additional examination is being made to determine if there were any internal injuries.

Officials of the oil service company at Forsan said that the accident occurred in the company yard at 8:30 a.m.

Wash was standing at the rear of a truck. The driver, peering into his rearview mirror, as he backed the truck, could not see Wash, who was below the mirror vision line. Wash was pinned against a trailer.

FOR BIRD LOVERS
... from Ascension Island

Native Birds On New Definitives

By HAROLD C. PERDUE
A new definitive series has been released by Ascension, a small island dependency in the British Empire. It is located near the west coast of Africa, near St. Helena, scene of Napoleon's exile. The Crown Agents Representatives in Washington noted that all 14 of the stamps feature native birds and include a portrait of Queen Elizabeth with St. Edward's crown. Like most stamps of this kind, the series is lithographed in multi-color and issued in sheets of 60 stamps.

From around the world, there is news of many new issues. Uruguay has honored native birds on a set of four bicolors just released. A 30 yen pictorial of the Emakaku-Ji Temple has been re-issued as a coil stamp. New Zealand has re-issued both a 2½d and a 3-stamp overprinted for official use.

Bolivia has issued four, for the South American Football Championship. Korea has released a multicolored single plus a small imperforate sheet to publicize the Asian Oceanic Postal Union. Guatemala has released a new stamp for the Spring Festival, and overprinted two stamps previously issued for UNESCO and another to honor the recent President's Conference in San Jose.

The 100th anniversary of the Universal Postal Union, recently honored in the U.S.A. with the Montgomery Blair airmail, is being honored by other nations of the world as well. Denmark released a blue 60 ore stamp May 27. Earlier in the month, Austria issued a 3s stamp May 3 and Italy had a 70 lire commemorative May 7.

Another topical stamp issue of this year are those for the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Red Cross. Australia issued a 5d stamp May 8; May 1, Papua and New Guinea, and another 5d issue; and Afghanistan placed eight multicolored on sale for this anniversary featuring fruits and flowers of the land.

Sweden is honoring the fields of engineering and industry with a 50 ore and a 105 ore issue. Spain has released three multicolored for 1963 Stamp Day. And Morocco has a single new issue in honor of King Moulay Ismail.

In Japan, one of the Hakusan National Park issues has overprinted "Mihon-Kite" in order to promote stamp collecting through the schools of that country. Perhaps more of us could learn this lesson. Children and youth with an interest in a hobby, and stamp collecting is a good one, seldom become delinquents. Not only can they be occupied, but they are also learning history, geography, biography, government, and many other things, when they are collecting and mounting stamps. If your child is already becoming bored this summer, give him a good album and a packet of stamps and let him set to work.

Dr. Koenig New President Of Local Heart Council

Dr. R. E. Koenig was chosen to head the Howard County Heart Council at the annual banquet and meeting held Friday evening at Cosden Country Club.

Other officers selected were Charles Dunnam, treasurer, and Mrs. Tommy Hubbard, re-elected secretary.

Dr. Saul Appel, a member of the board of directors and a vice president for the Texas Heart Association, was guest speaker for the occasion. He is the son of Dr. Frank Appel, a member of the staff at the Big Spring State Hospital.

Elected to three-year terms on the board of directors for the Howard County group were Mrs. Charles Rainwater, Dr. Frankie Williams, Dr. Bruce Sanders, Col. Mont E. Frantz, Dr. Amanda Keelyn and Chester Cathey. Twelve other directors continue on the board.

Numerous awards were distributed for service to the council during the past year. Receiving Heart Fund Certificates of Appreciation for outstanding service were Mrs. Rainwater, Mrs. Bernard Gier, Mrs. Ralph White, Charles Dunnam and the Herald.

Mrs. Dorothy Williams and members of her committee which planned a Nursing Institute held here in February were presented pins. Achievement medallions went to Dr. Jack H. Burnett and Mrs. Hubbard. Past-president medallions went to Mrs. Imogene Lloyd and Dr. Fish.

Toastmaster for the banquet was Maj. Charles Smith. The invocation was by the Rev. Donald Hungerford.

To Attend Meet

Dr. H. C. Ernsting, chief of staff at the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital, will attend the annual meeting of the American Medical Association to be held at Atlantic City, N.J., June 16-20. During his absence, Dr. H. J. Zinn will be acting chief of staff.

Local Youths Leave Today For Boys State

Four Big Spring youths journey to Austin today to take part in Boys State activities at the Texas Capitol.

Representing the Big Spring American Legion Post will be Larry Jones, Dick Irons, Robert Goodlett and DeeRoby Gartman. They joined other young men representing Legion posts in West Texas for the trip to Austin this morning by chartered bus.

During their week's visit to Austin they will stay in dormitories at the University of Texas. Mornings will be allotted to study of city, county and state governmental operations, with designated recreation for the afternoons. All expenses are being paid by the local Legion.

For study purposes they will be aligned with one of two party systems. Friday they will assume state offices. In three of the past four years Big Spring representatives have captured at least one of these elective posts. Also, the local candidates will be trying for election to represent Texas in Boys Nation activities to be held at the University of Maryland.

Main purpose of the program, according to Dr. Halvard T. Hansen, member of the Legion Americanism Committee, is to train the young men in the functional aspects of citizenship. They will learn that a Democracy needs an intelligent citizenry and clean, honest, impartial administration responsive to the will of the people.

Local Woman's Nephew Killed

Mrs. W. U. Lawrence, 1201 East 6th, has received word that her nephew, Jimmy Ralph Scott of Silver City, N.M., has been killed in an airplane crash.

Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Scott of Silver City, was on an Air Force plane that crashed on Monday off the coast of British Columbia killing all 101 aboard. Scott was born in Big Spring but did not attend school here. Memorial services will be held in Silver City on Monday.

Discrimination Clause In Post Office Contracts

A new regulation promulgated by the U. S. Post Office Department provides that where a business establishment operates a post office substation on its premises, in order to keep its contract, the business must halt any racial discrimination toward employers and patrons. Failure to comply will cost it the substation contract.

E. C. Boatler, postmaster here, said he had heard of the order but that so far he has had no official word in regard to the matter.

He said the three substations in the town have already officially signed new 3-year contracts for the new fiscal period which begins June 30. However, he said, the contracts signed do not include the reported new requirement. They do have a paragraph in which the establishment agrees not to discriminate against any employee because of race, creed or color.

The three agencies here which have contracts for substations are Hemphill-Wells Department store, Wacker's variety store in 11th Place and Edwards Heights Pharmacy on South Gregg.

Hemphill's carries on the postal service for $1 a year as does Wacker's. Last year's contract with Wacker's was $600. Current contract Edwards Heights Pharmacy has is for $900 a year.

Annual Reunion Planned For Marlin County

STANTON (SC) — Marlin County's most elaborate event—the annual Old Settlers Reunion—will be celebrated this year July 8-9.

A planning group assembled last week to look over the details for the coming event. There will be another meeting to discuss the final items if M. S. (Fiddler) Estes, president, finds it necessary. Attending the first meeting were Mr. and Mrs. James Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Estes, Mrs. Margaret Moffett, Billy and Sammy Houston, Hoot Tom, Mary Prudie Brown, Neal Estes, Jendo Turner, and Ohmer Kelly.

The reunion will feature a parade as in the past, but there will be no queen contest. There will be a float entered in the parade this year by the Old Settlers Association and residents having lived in Marlin County for more than 50 years will be eligible to ride on it.

The real celebration will start July 8 when all storekeepers are urged to dress in old style costumes. There will be prizes awarded for the most outstanding costumes. The prizes will go to the most colorfully dressed, most elaborately dressed, best dressed clerk, most stylishly dressed.

Places of business will again display old-fashioned relics. Some stores will hold sidewalk sales and feature some real values. A memorial service will be conducted on the final evening of the reunion.

Water Usage Hits Peak For Year

LAMESA (SC)—Lamesa water consumption during May jumped to its highest point of the year and recorded the best single daily usage rate of 1963.

Consumption during the month was 67,455,000 gallons with the peak day listed at 3,871,000 gallons. The low consumption was 1,027,000 gallons.

Usage for the year is 267,924,000 gallons.

Penney's Promotes Davenport To Odessa Store

J. D. Davenport Jr., assistant manager of the Big Spring J. C. Penney Co. store, has been promoted to the same position at the J. C. Penney store in Odessa, effective June 24, the company has announced.

"He started with the Penney company on a part time job while he was in the Clinton, Okla., High School," Paul Hathaway, local manager said. "He went to a store in Dallas as a salesman in 1953, and then to Midland as department manager in 1957, where he remained until his transfer to Big Spring in December, 1960."

Davenport is a native of Clinton, Okla. He is married and the Davenports have three children. They live at 3308 Cornhill.

He has a two-week vacation coming and will be at the new store June 24. He left his employment in Big Spring Friday.

Hathaway said no replacement for Davenport had been named, but that an announcement would be made shortly.

Major Holds Base Record For Extension Courses

When Major Alfred K. Halverson, organizational maintenance officer of CAM Squadron at Webb AFB, enrolled in the Extension Course Institute for a course in munitions specialist, it didn't occur to him that he had already established a base-wide record. But Joe Inton, chief of the base educational services, insists that the Major not only holds the base record for number of ECI courses completed, but, in all probability, the Air Training Command record as well.

Major Halverson has completed 12 courses in the past three years. These include: 1960: Aircraft Reciprocal Engine Mechanic, and Squadron Officer's School; 1961: Aircraft Maintenance Officer, Ground Equipment Maintenance Officer, and Guided Missiles; 1962: Command and Staff College, Ammunition Officer, Armament Systems Officer, Aircraft Engine Mechanic (Jet), Intelligence Fundamentals; 1963: Intelligence Officer, and Intelligence Operations. The major's files show that 88 was his lowest grade on any one of the courses and his general average for all courses was 91.2.

The major is a veteran of nearly 20 years service in the Air Force. He entered primary pilot training in 1942 at Thunderbird Field, Phoenix, Ariz. He took his basic at Minter in 1942 and received his wings at Luke Field, Phoenix, Ariz.

In 1944, the major was ordered to the European Theater of Operations and participated in the European and African Campaigns, returning to the U. S. in 1945. In the spring of 1947, Major Halverson was again sent to the European Sector, at Wiesbaden, Germany.

He graduated from Washburn High School in Minneapolis, Minn., in 1939 and entered the University of Minnesota at Minneapolis in the fall of the same year. He left the University in his sophomore year to enter the pilot training program as an Aviation Cadet.

Major Halverson is a native of Minnesota, as is his wife, the former Nancy Larson. They have four children: Michael, 20, Kris, 14; Rex, 10; and Dan 8. He is a member of the Lutheran Church, a Mason, and a member of the Sojourners. He is a member of the Maintenance Coordination Board.

The major wears the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal with three Clusters, the European-African Campaign Medal, the American Defense Medal, the Germany Occupation Medal, the Armed Forces Reserve Medal with Hour Glass, the WWII Victory Medal, and the Longevity Medal with three Clusters.

New Mrs. Rocky Passes First Test

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's new wife passed her first political exposure test with ease. But no solid returns are in yet on the impact of his remarriage on his prospects for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., a Rockefeller booster, gave a reporter this estimate of the favorable reception New York's new First Lady got in appearances at state Republican affairs this week:

"The governor is placing great store on Mrs. Rockefeller's making a great impression on the people she meets. He is confident that she will do so. Because of that, he seems to be more determined than ever before to remain available for the nomination."

DIDN'T PROVE MUCH

However, a Rockefeller strategist who declined to be quoted by name said that what GOP National Chairman William E. Miller called an "extremely enthusiastic" reception for the governor's wife didn't really prove much.

He said Mrs. Rockefeller was appearing before sympathetic and friendly audiences. The real tests would come later, he said, when the governor and his wife face possibly hostile audiences in other states.

There was new evidence that Rockefeller's divorce from his wife of 31 years and subsequent marriage to the divorced mother of four children has raised serious opposition in some party quarters.

SHARP ATTACK

The Rockefeller camp met with silence a slashing attack Friday by former Sen. Prescott Bush, R-Conn., on the governor's course.

Bush told the graduating class of a Connecticut girls school he hopes matters have not come to the point "where the governor of a great state—one who perhaps aspires to the nomination for president of the United States—can desert a good wife, mother of his grown children, then persuade a young mother of four youngsters to abandon her husband and their four children and marry the governor."

Javits said that as a former colleague, he didn't want to comment directly on Bush's stand. He said, however, he remains convinced that the governor's chances for the nomination would not be materially affected by the marriage.

He added he thinks unfavorable reaction is temporary and that Rockefeller's appeal as a candidate who could win the general election will give him the nomination.

The Bush attack was not unexpected. Rockefeller's supporters had known for some time how the former senator felt. They had made unsuccessful overtures to him not to discuss the issue publicly.

The Bush attack was not unexpected. Rockefeller's supporters had known for some time how the former senator felt. They had made unsuccessful overtures to him not to discuss the issue publicly.

Communist subversion already has become a problem in that isolated and backward region.

Purpose of the massive SEATO effort is to test the ability of a joint army to fight under conditions most likely to exist in case of a Communist attack from across the Mekong River frontier.

An eight-day exercise opening Tuesday will pit the SEATO army against a mock aggressor force. Defensive, delaying action—including an airborne strike by U.S. paratroopers flown directly from Okinawa to plug a hole in the line—will be followed by a counter-offensive.

Making up most of the SEATO army will be a 7,000-man U.S. task force. It is built around two Army battle groups, including the paratroopers, 1,300 jungle fighters from the Commonwealth countries of Britain, Australia and New Zealand, and 16,000 Thai troops.

Texas Tech's Feature Twirlers

Claudia Terrazas, left, Big Spring, and Vicki Keene, right, of Levelland, have been selected as the twirlers for the Texas Tech band. It is the first time in history that the Raider band has had two featured twirlers. The girls were selected at elimination contests early this month. Miss Terrazas is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Terrazas, 1001 Bell.

Federals Acted In Dallas Post Office Racial Issue

DALLAS (AP)—A spokesman asserted Saturday that federal postal officials took a hand in the employment policies of the Dallas post office, because other post offices in the Southwest were stripping it in the promotion of Negroes.

A regional postal official made the utterance after the latest round of charges about the promotion of three Negroes to employment jobs in the Dallas office, although outranked by 54 white workers.

"Apparently, the national post office executives suspected that there was some discrimination here," the spokesman added. "Houston had its first Negro supervisor in 1949 and there are now 112 Negro supervisors there. New Orleans has 12 or 14 and Fort Worth has 3 Negroes in supervisory capacities."

The post office source said that by making promotions "out of line," he meant leap-frogging candidates for supervisory jobs over other candidates ahead of them on a merit promotion list.

Says Business Men Must Push Peaceful Integration

WASHINGTON (AP)—The president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce said Saturday it is urgent that businessmen give leadership and support to prompt and peaceful racial integration.

Edwin P. Neelan, Wilmington, Del., banker who became head of the country's largest business organization last month, gave his views in a telephone interview which may foretell a major new policy stand for the chamber.

He said he believes the chamber's 64-member Board of Directors, which meets here June 28, should give serious consideration to such a declaration of belief. The Chamber never has taken an official position on the issue.

Chamber policies normally are adopted by delegates voting at annual meetings but emergency declarations can be made by the board acting alone.

SHOULD TAKE INITIATIVE

Despite the hazard of boycotts and reprisals, Neelan said, local business leaders should take the initiative in joining with Negro spokesmen and representatives of other segments of community life in drafting plans to end segregation in business places and public facilities.

"And I believe the timetables should not be too slow, with integration deferred unduly," the banker added.

"They should move fast enough to avoid the buildup of emotional pressures that can result in hostility and violence."

Approval by the directors of Neelan's stand, even if not in the form of an official policy statement, would bolster support for President Kennedy's appeal last Tuesday for business leadership in the orderly desegregation of stores, theaters, restaurants and other business establishments.

Until the recent spread of racial strife beyond the South, Neelan said, the issue never was deemed national in scope and thereby subject to national chamber action.

GOOD EXAMPLES

But Neelan moved on his own this week. He issued a statement urging upon businessmen the "good examples" given by businessmen in Birmingham, Ala., and other troubled cities in seeking moderate solutions to explosive problems.

"The field must not be left to the extremists," he said. "The 58-year-old financier, president and board chairman of the bank of Delaware, spoke in more specific terms Saturday of what he regards as the responsibility of businessmen."

"Businessmen must take a very definite interest in bringing the counsels of moderation to bear on the problems involved in integrating the races in their communities," he said.

"This can become a human, very emotional problem in many communities, and that means the businessman must have courage. He may be subject to hostile attitudes and even reprisals, in the form of boycotts of his business establishment."

"But businessmen are directly involved in the economic life upon which most of these racial problems center; because of that, it is not only proper but urgent that they take a hand."

GIBREL® MAKES EXTRA 6¢ COTTON

You don't need many bales of 6¢ cotton to boost your profits plenty. Decide this year to get your share of this low-cost lint. Spray at least once with GIBREL. You'll get earlier growth, more branching and provide a broader framework for building more bolls with a heavier boll load. Four years' experience with GIBREL shows increased cotton, with top producers getting up to 200 pounds extra per acre. In 1962 the average was 68 pounds per acre with a cost of only 6¢ per pound.

You can't increase your cotton allotment but you can increase lint per acre with GIBREL. In actual dollars, GIBREL for spraying costs $4.00 per acre. Fifteen extra pounds of lint pays for the program. You stand to average 68 pounds extra and may get up to 200 pounds extra. What other production practice gives you a better payoff?

Spray versatile GIBREL by airplane or ground rig. If you spray once use ½ to one pint of GIBREL per acre when squaring starts. A spray lasts up to three weeks so it's generally better to use GIBREL a second time and get six weeks of continuous growth in spite of drought or just plain crop-load stress.

Now just one more word of plain talk. If you're like most cotton producers, you won't be able to see the extra cotton in your fields. But it sure shows up at the gin! Remember GIBREL—the nontoxic growth-stimulant, chemically related to the naturally occurring growth hormones. It's fully field-tested to provide: earlier cotton maturity; cheap insurance against early freeze-up; and plenty of 6¢ cotton. Check your dealer about GIBREL. Then show your neighbors how to overcome the allotment handicap.

Counseling Training Begins

Student Ministers Begin Counseling Training Here

By JOHNNIE LU RABORN

"It's as though their souls were naked to their environment," says Noland Pipes, seminary student from the University of the South School of Theology.

Because they are more accessible, Pipes, along with Angus McGregor, Union Theological Seminary, in Virginia, and Robin Boone, Union Theological Seminary in New York City, hope to see things in these people the ministers will see later in themselves and the people with whom they will work.

The students will be working with patients at the Big Spring State Hospital this summer. The three are in a 12 week program of sermon seminars in each of the wards, plus Sunday services.

The original program started in the late 1920's but did not become widespread until after World War II. The pastoral counseling program has been in effect here four years.

The program gives the students a practical outlet for the theoretical training of college.

"It's the only time of the school year that we live around people not directly connected with the ministry," Boone said.

Twenty-four year old McGregor, whose home is in Hopkins, S.C., is a Presbyterian student whose Southern drawl keeps his listeners hanging onto his words. The lanky senior brought along his wife, who has a degree in Christian education from Clemson.

Because of local hospital Chaplain Max Maguire's reputation among students and upon a recommendation from Bill Branch, former participant in the program here, McGregor requested Big Spring for his summer work. Both of the summers during the three years of school are obligated for field work in order to graduate.

Last summer his field work was pastoring a small town church in Virginia. He will give sermons at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church here June 16 and 23.

Scholarly Boone, 25-year-old student, has one year of seminary work. The Episcopalian's home is Yonkers, N.Y., but he attends an interdenominational seminary in New York City.

He received a bachelor's degree in English from Princeton University and a master's degree from Brown University. He taught one year at Virginia Union University, a Baptist College.

"I want to pick up counseling skills and at the same time help patients put their self concern at rest," said the easy talking Boone. After graduation, he plans to enter missionary work in Africa.

From Louisiana comes Pipes, 26. Although Rayville is his home, Pipes attends school in Sewanee, Tenn. Also an Episcopalian, Pipes graduated from the Virginia Military Institute with a BA degree.

While serving in the Air Force, he was stationed in Phoenix, Ariz., and liked the Southwest so much that he requested seminary assignment in the same vicinity. As a serviceman, he was information officer and later aide to the general at Travis Air Force Base in California.

The three students hope to gain

Ft. Worth Woman To Be Speaker For Demo Club

Doris Cates, Fort Worth, legislative director for the women's division of the State AFL-CIO organization, will be guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Howard County Democratic Club on Monday night.

Roscoe Cone, president of the Club, said the meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the Howard County Court room. Mrs. A. G. Goodson is program chairman for the evening. She will introduce the speaker.

Miss Cates is to discuss the accomplishments of the legislative sessions just ended and evaluate certain legislation which was enacted.

Rainfall Total Climbs To 1.59

LAMESA (SC)—Rainfall in the Lamesa area last month was the best recorded for May since 1959. The U. S. Weather Bureau reporting station here logged 1.59 inches from four separate rainfall periods, the largest of which was .95 inch. May rainfall in 1959 was 3.80 inches. The average for the period is 2.10 inches.

Junior Reading Program Gets Good Response

Summer reading program, for boys and girls from the first through sixth grades, is proving one of the most popular enterprises of the Howard County Library has attempted in some time, according to Opal McDaniel, librarian.

The sign-up period for the reading club began last Monday. Through Friday, there have been 169 youngsters enroll in the club. The reading program goes through Aug. 15. On that date, the boys and girls who have completed reading at least 12 books, including one on travel and one biography in the fields of literature applicable to their age, will be presented with a certificate from the Texas Library Association.

Mrs. McDaniel said the reading club is causing a heavy demand for children's books and as a result, many volumes which have been in slow demand are now in the hands of readers.

She said the plan is to continue to enroll reading club participants throughout the remainder of June — if the applicant feels he can read 12 books in the time from that date through Aug. 15. She said that to enroll in the reading club, the child's mother or father should accompany him to the library.

As a result of this requirement, she said there has been a brisk increase last week in the number of library cards issued. Starting last Feb. 1, the library has been in the process of cancelling out all old cards and issuing new cards. During the past week 296 new cards have been issued. Since the program of issuing new cards began, 4,000 patrons of the library have been served.

Construction Is Showing Increase

LAMESA (SC)—May construction here helped boost the 1963 total well in advance of the pace set last year.

Building last month totaled $265,105 to give the city a total of $1,211,740 for the first five months, a gain of $195,365 over the same period last year. For the same period, however, the total number of new homes in each of the past two years amounted to 45. In May, 1962, seven new homes were constructed for $70,000. Last month nine residences were built for $186,850. An addition to South Elementary school, estimated at $38,000, was included in May's total.

Blair House Is Shut Down For Repairs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Blair House, where official guests of the President are housed, closed its doors to kings and potentates this week to be refurbished and air-conditioned.

When the president of India left a few days ago, the basement kitchen that had prepared his vegetarian meals made ready for modernization during the summer lull in state visits.

A Blair House Fine Arts Committee has been formed, with Jacqueline Kennedy as honorary chairman and chief consultant; and Mrs. Angier Biddle Duke, wife of the U.S. chief of protocol, as chairman.

Mrs. Duke, whose husband is in charge of visitors who stay at Blair House, said the aim is to preserve the quiet, traditional atmosphere of the house, and to rescue it from its present "hodgepodge" of furnishings and outmoded facilities.

Congress agreed that kings, queens, prime ministers and heads of state who come here should have the advantages of modern air conditioning and they concur that it is no longer a good idea to haul in a basement kitchen and cook the food by dumbwaiter to the dining area. So they provided funds to bring Blair House up to date in those departments.

Blair House was built in 1824.

Austin Tops State In Rate Of Growth

AUSTIN (AP) — Figures from the University of Texas show Austin leads the state in growth of business activity over the last 10 years.

The university's Bureau of Business Research said Saturday it has begun computing an index of business activity in Texas' 20 largest cities.

The index is similar to the bureau's index of Texas business activity based upon bank deposits in the 20 cities. The index is adjusted for seasonal variation and price fluctuations from a base of 100 for business during 1957-59.

The bureau said publication of the index becomes possible with access to electronic data computers.

Austin showed a growth of from 64 in 1953 to 145 in 1962, the highest for 1962, an increase of 126.9 per cent. Dallas' growth during 1957-1962 doubled its 1953-57 growth rate, going from 74 in 1953 to 142 in 1962, the second highest index.

Houston showed a steady growth of 30 per cent during the 10 years to a total of 128 in 1962, sixth highest in rank of index. Texarkana, fourth highest in index for 1962 with 130, dropped 6 per cent during 1957-62. Laredo, ranked third highest in 1962 with an index of 132, increased 12 per cent during 1953-57 and 38 per cent during 1957-62.

Behind Austin in growth is Abilene, with a 96 per cent increase from 63 in 1953, the worst for that year, to 124 in 1962.

Third in growth rank is Dallas with a 98 per cent gain. Fourth is Lubbock, which held the lowest spot in 1957 with 87. Lubbock increased 48 per cent from 1957-62 to total 129 last year.

Galveston ranked third highest in 1953 with an index of 89, rose to first with 107 in 1962 but dropped to 104 in 1962 to show an overall growth of 17 per cent, the lowest growth rate. The next to lowest growth rate was posted by Corsicana, which increased 20 per cent from 68 in 1953 to 106 in 1962.

Port Arthur posted the lowest index for 1962, 98, a drop from the second largest index in 1957 of 102. Beaumont also lost its 1957 prominence during the five-year interval. Beaumont was third in 1957 with an index of 101, but increased only to 115 in 1962 for a 13 per cent increase.

The bureau said that the 1953-57 period was one of "rapidly rising business activity fueled by a post-war boom in construction and in manufacture of consumer durables."

"These forces are generally considered to have spent their life span by the end of 1957. During the 1957-62 period, economic growth depended on replacement demand and continued population growth."

Other cities' indexes and growth percentages include (first figure 1953 index, second figure 1962 index, third figure percentage increase 1953-62):

Amarillo 71, 119, 67;
San Angelo 78, 110, 40;
Tyler 74, 115, 54;
Waco 81, 120, 47;
Wichita Falls 82, 110, 34.

Yanez Infant Taken By Death

Sylvia Yanez, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Yanez, 610 N. San Antonio, died Friday evening in a local hospital about nine hours after she was born.

A funeral was held Saturday at the Sacred Heart Catholic Church, with the Rev. Patrick Casey, pastor, officiating, and burial was in City Cemetery under the direction of Valley-Pickel Funeral Home.

Survivors include the parents, one brother, Victor J. Yanez, paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Yanez, and maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Juan Robles, all of Big Spring.

Talks Held On Long Strike Against Shell

HOUSTON (AP) — Leaders of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, the Shell Oil Co. and the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service met Saturday in an effort to settle the 10 month OCAW strike against Shell.

William E. Simkin, director of the mediation service in Washington, met in Houston Friday with O. A. Knight of Denver, president of the OCAW, John Quilly of New York, vice president in charge of labor relations of Shell, and negotiators.

James O. Hubbard, mediation service commissioner in Houston, said the group was prepared to meet through the weekend and that Simkin would stay into next week if necessary.

The OCAW AFL-CIO local 4-367, which represents about 2,200 employees, has been on strike at Shell's two plants in suburban Deer Park since Aug. 19, 1962.

The main issues are job security, work rules and seniority and Shell's giving maintenance work to private contractors.

The union believes the work should be done by Shell employees. Management says it needs more voice in employing its labor forces to be more competitive.

Forsan Board Of Equalization Meets Monday

FORSAN — Forsan board of equalization will be in session all day Monday at the Forsan school. Mayor C. J. Lamb said in session the board comprises G. L. Moncrey and C. B. Long, city councilmen, and J. D. Gilmore.

All property owners in Forsan who have complaints on their assessments or who feel they are entitled to a tax adjustment are invited to attend the sessions.

Lamb said that insofar as he was aware the tax rate will remain unchanged and valuations remain the same as last year. The tax rate has been 65 cents per hundred dollar valuation for a long time.

Scout Hikers Due To Enjoy Some Special Food

Big Spring's walking Sea Scouts on their long trek to the Boy Scout Camp near Balmorhea were camped 22 miles west of McCarney Saturday night and planned to camp tonight 14 miles east of Fort Stockton.

Visitors from Big Spring who were at the camp at noon Saturday said the youngsters were in good spirits and that three who had dropped out temporarily from blistered feet were back in the line of march and doing well.

Five or six families from Big Spring plan to drive out to visit the Scouts today. Special tidbits for the travelers were being cooked up and will augment the limited cooking efforts of the accompanying Sea Scouts.

Tom's Sea Scouts voiced appreciation to Hull and Phillips. Newman's, Roberts' Grocery, Furr's and Vaughn Sweetshop for food gifts sent them.

Another friend, who insisted on anonymity, has sent the Scouts a sizable money gift.

Car Is Damaged

Francis Martinez, 607 N. San Antonio, Saturday evening told police that his car was struck by another which left the scene of the accident. His car was damaged only slightly. The incident occurred about 7:30 p.m. in the 700 block of Lamesa Drive.

BATTLE BREWING

Says PASO Must Leave Teamsters

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Dr. Hector Garcia, national chairman of the Political Association of Spanish-Speaking Organizations, said today PASO must break its ties with the Teamsters Union and stand on its own.

The Corpus Christi doctor added sparks to a brewing convention battle for control of the state organization now headed by Albert Pena Jr. of San Antonio.

Garcia endorsed Pena's opponent, William Bonilla of Corpus Christi, said the only solution to a split in PASO is to take the state chairmanship out of San Antonio.

Albert Fuentres Jr. of San Antonio, state executive secretary, reminded Garcia that PASO took his advice and endorsed former Gov. Price Daniel in the 1962 primary, and Daniel did not make the runoff.

"Don't let us down that same path again," Fuentres said.

Fuentres is leading the fight for Pena, a Bexar County commissioner who has said he will seek a unanimous draft. Delegates vote Sunday.

Fuentres, business agent for a hod carriers union and formerly on Pena's county payroll, is the main rival for the control battle.

BOBBY KENNEDY AIRS VIEWS Fears Race Crisis In North

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy sees the racial situation in the North as potentially more explosive than in the South—especially among the ghetto-confined, jobless Negroes of the great Northern cities.

North or South, he regards summer as a danger period because of rising Negro impatience with long-standing racial barriers. An added unsettling factor will be thousands of untrained and disillusioned Negro youths who will be looking fruitlessly for jobs.

In Alabama next week, Kennedy sees the issue as clear: Negro students are entitled to enter the University of Alabama and they "will do so; whether troops are used is up to Gov. (George C.) Wallace."

The attorney general believes the racial disturbances at Birmingham, Ala., last month were a turning point because they "disturbed the conscience of the country."

But he feels that a real solution to the racial problem will come only when all Americans—not just the federal government—try to private contractors.

The union believes the work should be done by Shell employees. Management says it needs more voice in employing its labor forces to be more competitive.

Recognize civil rights as their problem and become personally involved in solving it in their daily lives.

Kennedy and Burke Marshall, assistant attorney general in charge of the civil rights division, gave their views on a copyrighted interview with a Hearst Headline panel of newsmen. The panel consisted of William Randolph Hearst Jr., editor-in-chief of the Hearst newspapers; Frank Coniff, national editor of the Hearst newspapers; Warren Rogers, chief Washington correspondent; and Milton L. Kaplan, Washington bureau chief of the Hearst newspapers.

Following is a partial text of the Q. and A. interview:

Q: ...Do you think you could take stock for the American people now—tell what has been accomplished, what needs to be done, how we are going to do it?

A: (Kennedy): First, I think a good deal of progress has been made in the last two years.

The most basic civil rights problem is voting ... It has been the sustained policy of this administration to bring legal action only after efforts to win voluntary, peaceful compliance fail.

This policy has met with particular success in the voting field. We have had some encouraging results. In Macon County, Ala., for instance, the Negro registration has risen from 1,000 to more than 3,000 since the courts ordered an end to discriminatory practices in March 1961. In Haywood County, Tenn., it went from none to 2,000 and in Fayette County, Tenn., from 58 to 3,000.

There have been major steps in the field of transportation. More than 200 railroad terminals have been desegregated, more than 100 bus terminals. All airports have been desegregated.

Q: How about equal opportunity in employment?

A: (Kennedy): We've done a good deal in employment within the federal government. There are 500 key policy-making jobs which are held by Negroes now, below that, the increase is about 30 per cent.

There also has been tremendous improvement in Negro employment with contractors who do business with the federal government.

Progress has been made. There were 70 or so school districts desegregated last September and there was no violence or disorder. Q: Is the danger of an explosion as great in the North as in the South?

A: (Kennedy): It can be more difficult, because the problems in the South, at least temporarily, are more easily resolved. The Negroes are concerned in Birmingham about being able to sit at a lunch counter, employment, taking the signs off the drinking fountains and taking the signs off the rest rooms. Well, you can do that and release a valve—

Q: But for how long?

A: (Kennedy): Well, for some time. ... But in the North, in Chicago or Los Angeles or San Francisco, ... what steps would you take to release that valve? What you have to do is really take some drastic action, so you could have a more serious situation in the northern cities than you do in the South.

Space Program No Boondoggle, Says Lyndon

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson vigorously defended America's space program Saturday as "a boon, not a boondoggle."

Replying to those who predict that "we are sure to be overtaken and destroyed by the advance of science," Johnson said:

"We are talking superstition—not sense—when we talk of machines overpowering men. We are selling ourselves short when we show the white feather to nuclear fission."

"We are not reaching for prestige in space, we are reaching for peace. And it is considerably more urgent than many realize or others will yet admit."

"We would be naive indeed if we failed to recognize how bleak the future would be if this new dimension became the realm of tyranny. For your children and your children's children an iron curtain would be drawn across the pathway to the stars."

Johnson, who also is chairman of the Space Advisory Committee, was commencement speaker at the University of Maryland, where he also received an honorary doctor of laws degree.

Sinclair Dealers Of Area Attend Meeting Here

Sinclair dealers from Big Spring, Lamesa, Odessa, Midland, Rankin, Andrews, San Angelo, Ozona and Coahoma attended a sales meeting at the Wagon Wheel restaurant here Friday night. Meeting was arranged by Lindsey Marchbanks, Carson Miller, district manager, conducted the meeting and J. C. Huntsucker, division manager, and Dennis Rossion, lubrication speakers.

A new gasoline line and the group told of its unusual features.

Art Kern, who has a station at 700 West 3rd, won a new uniform in a special guessing game which marked a part of the program.

Actress Dies

Zasu Pitts, famous for her look of comic dismay and her flutery hands, died Friday in a Los Angeles hospital, victim of cancer.

She was 63. The veteran actress was the wife of John E. Woodall, Los Angeles businessman.

Flags hung at half staff. Black bordered posters eulogizing the pontiff appeared on walls.

By government decree, all schools, museums, theaters, cinemas, night clubs, amusement parks and sports arenas were closed the day after the pope died. Even the two golf courses shut down.

Forsan Trims Bonded Debt

FORSAN — City of Forsan has paid off $4,000 of its $50,000 bonded indebtedness, according to C. J. Lamb, mayor.

He said the city paid the $4,000 plus about $2,000 accumulated interest on June 1. This was the first bond retirement since the bonds were voted.

The original $50,000 provided by the bonds was used to provide the town with a water system. Revenue from the water department is being used to pay off the debt.

Forsan, Lamb said, has 65 water patrons. The new system is working fine, he added, providing 40 pounds pressure in the mains. "I am the water department, at the present time," said Lamb. "I read the meters on the 28th of each month and prepare and mail the statements. I handle the collections."

The next interest payment will be due in November.

Rome Cancels All Its Normal Gaiety

ROME (AP) — Normally gay and festive, this city of saints and ascetics, of princely prelates and rascally pickpockets, is in "lutto" complete mourning for its pastor, Pope John XXIII.

The bustling city of two million outside the Vatican walls wore a somber air in respect for the memory of one whose tiny tomb in the crypts of St. Peter's Square counted just over 1,000 citizens.

Flags hung at half staff. Black bordered posters eulogizing the pontiff appeared on walls.

By government decree, all schools, museums, theaters, cinemas, night clubs, amusement parks and sports arenas were closed the day after the pope died. Even the two golf courses shut down.

Cafe owners unplugged their juke boxes and sent their piano players and jazz combos home.

Except for news broadcasts and coverage of events in St. Peter's Square, all programs were cancelled on Italian television, and radio stations played only sacred music all day long, so that Romans seeking lighter fare had to turn to the British Broadcasting Corp. or Radio Luxembourg. Then they turned their sets low so as not to shock the neighbors.

In some movie houses, the picture went off as soon as word was flashed that the Pope was dead. Rome's picture magazines swiftly banished the pinup girls from their covers and came out with whole issues devoted to the death.

Later in the week all stores closed for an afternoon. The Pope's death affected many phases of Rome's tourist life. Some sidewalk cafes had the little flags on their tables lowered to half staff. A six day fiesta, marking the opening of the new Cavalieri Hilton Hotel and reputedly costing $200,000, was cancelled.

Rome is still the eternal city, and some things never change. Traffic seemed more chaotic than ever, with everyone seemingly trying to get to St. Peter's Square the same time to file the square bier.

And, with thousands crushed in to St. Peter's Square day and night, pickpockets had a real Roman holiday.

3 Hospitalized After Mishaps

Three persons were hospitalized following two automobile accidents which occurred Friday afternoon, but none of the injuries were considered serious.

Mrs. Virginia Rocha, 603 NE 8th, and Mrs. Gracia Rivera, 1510 W. 2nd, were hospitalized after an accident about 1:45 p.m. at 801 N. Gregg. Mrs. Rocha is still being held in Howard County Hospital Foundation, where she was taken by River ambulance, for treatment of a cut on the left hand and other minor injuries.

Drivers of the vehicles which collided were Mrs. Rocha and Rafael G. Rivera, 1510 W. 2nd, and Susan Rae Gibbs, 511 Johnson, was taken to Cowper Clinic-Hospital about 7:40 p.m. Friday following a three-car accident at Fifteenth and Gregg. She was treated and released.

Drivers of the other two vehicles involved were Larry Gene Chandler, 205 Benton, and Wayne Ray Johnke, 1101 Northeast 12th.

Four other minor accidents were also reported to police Friday afternoon. Locations and drivers are: at Fifteenth and Goliad, Mary Baker McBride, 1807 Alabama, and a parked car belonging to Guadalupe Cisneros, 405 NE 11th; at Fifth and Abrams, Gary Lee Anderson, 2204 Runnels, and John L. Mundell, 811 W. 8th; at Northeast Third G. Rivera, 1510 W. 2nd, and Susan Rae Gibbs, 511 Johnson, was taken to Cowper Clinic-Hospital about 7:40 p.m. Friday following a three-car accident at Fifteenth and Gregg. She was treated and released.

Welcome TO BIG SPRING

WEBB PILOT TRAINING CLASS 64-H

Big Spring and all its people extend the friendly hand of a West Texas welcome to the student pilots of Webb's Class 64-H. These young men, here for a complete course of primary and basic jet-flying instruction, become citizens of our city for more than a year, and it is our earnest hope that they will find here a helpful, cheerful and hospitable atmosphere; and that when they must leave, they will do so with a kind feeling in their hearts for Big Spring, its business establishments, and all its population.

May we urge our new student pilots, as time permits them, to become acquainted with our town, to know about the churches and the schools, the facilities for leisure and enjoyment, the shops and the service establishments.

Particularly do we ask them to drop in and see us, just to let us get acquainted, and say in person what we are saying here. There's no obligation to buy at any time . . . we want to be of service, and of assistance if we can.

Yes, it's all wrapped up in one wholesome, hearty word . . . "WELCOME!"

A "HOSPITALITY GIFT" For New STUDENT PILOTS

If the Webb student pilot or his wife will call within the next 10 days at the store or service establishment whose name appears with his under his picture (bringing this page with him for identification), he will be given a "welcome gift" by that firm. There is no obligation, and we simply ask that the visit be for getting acquainted. Be our guest!

Labron Harris, Bob Dickson Assume Lead

By TOMMY HART
The Sooner State combination of Labron Harris Sr. and Bob Dickson moved into the lead after the first day of play in the annual Big Spring Golf Open with a low ball score of six-under par 65.

Harris, golf coach at Oklahoma State University and the father of Labron Harris Jr., the National Amateur king, had his troubles with the long course and the wind that blew unceasingly from the south but Dickson fairly took apart the course with a medal score of 66. Harris fashioned only one birdie for the day.

OUT IN FRONT OF PACK
Bob Dickson (L), Labron Harris

The two were out in 32 and in 33.

The Oklahomaans led two tandems by a mere stroke, however, and three other teams are a mere two strokes in arrears.

Deadlocked for second place are Luke Thompson, an El Paso pro who grew up here, and his fellow townsman, Bill Crombie; along with two Midland linksters, Bill Munn and R. Geiselman.

Breathing on the necks of those contingents are Big Spring's best hopes, W. O. Maxwell and Bobby Wright, along with Dick Turner and John Gandy, both of San Angelo; and Roland Adams, Lubbock, who paired with Charley Hopkins, Post.

Not far removed from the top are five other twosomes, each in at 68. Brownwood's David Boies combined with J. C. Leach, Lampasas, to register that score. Two El Paso men, Orville Moody and Ed Schuman; Horace Moore and Jack Williams, both of Plainview; Big Spring's Frank Powell and Jack Montgomery; Fort Worth; and Boyd Huff and Larry Newell, both of Midland, are the others who came in at that figure.

Three teams made the halfway point at 69 and are still in contention. One is composed of Charles Coody, Stamford, and Frank Mackey, Fort Worth. Pro Frank Freer and Rock Thompson, both of Wichita Falls, comprise another of the group.

Another combination in at 69 is composed of Bobby Blumh, La Mesa, and Big Spring's Eddie Don Harris. Blumh formerly resided in Big Spring.

Dickson played the local course as if he had toured it all his life and wound up with the best medal score of the day.

Second low amateur was Wright, who pieced together a very respectable 69. Wright said the wind was a constant bother.

The low pro was Roland Adams, the golfing plumber from Lubbock, who registered a 33-35-68.

He beat out Thompson and Turner by two strokes. Thompson was out in 36 and came home in 34. Turner sizzled on the front nine, which he played in 32, but settled for a 38 on the second nine for his 70.

A total of 292 players entered the meet, a remarkable figure in view of the fact that this is the inaugural tournament.

Open flight players will start teeing off at 12 noon today. True Amateur flight entries start playing at 7 a.m.

Pace setters in the True Amateur division is the Post combination of Jim Hayes and O. C. Garner, who used their handicaps to excellent advantage in stringing together a 39.

They lead the Midland tandem of J. C. Davis and Vernon Runestrand by a mere stroke, however, so anything can happen in that flight today, too.

In all, 28 pros are on hand for the two-day show.

The team of Charles Coody, Stamford, and Frank Mackey, Fort Worth, isn't too far off the pace in the Open division. Coody, newly turned professional, and his amateur partner wound up with a 69, as did Wichita Falls' Frank Freer and Rock Thompson.

The pro on the winning team gets $400 in cash. If he also posts the low medal score in his division, he qualifies for an extra $100.

Other cash prizes for the pros on the low teams trail off to $300, $160, $120, $80, $40 and three each for $20.

Second low medal score among the pros returns the winner $50. Two other cash awards for $35 each will be given the third and fourth low pros.

Merchandise awards go to the amateurs on the low ten teams in each flight. They range from sets of irons and woods to golf bags, pull carts and umbrellas.

Two Discoveries Picked Up In Lea And Eddy Counties

A pair of wildcats in New Mexico have paid off with production, one with gas from the Cisco Canyon and the other a Pennsylvania oil.

Ralph Lowe of Midland No. 1-M Indian Hills Unit, West Eddy County prospector, has proven for a gas-condensate discovery from the Cisco Canyon and is now checking more possible pay in that horizon. It also has indicated production in the Morrow sand and likely will be dually completed.

The Cisco Canyon interval at 7,410-20 feet was perforated and acidized with 1,000 gallons. After cleaning up a gas flow developed with a rate of 18.5 million cubic feet daily. There was also an unreported amount of condensate. Size of choke and other details have not been reported.

Operator is now testing another Cisco Canyon section at 7,316-32 feet.

The Morrow sand showed prospects for commercial production in a series of drillstem tests between 8,162-725 feet.

The wildcat is 14 miles northwest of Carlsbad and spots 660 feet from the south and west lines of section 21-21-24e, and four miles east of the same operator's three-well Indian Basin (Cisco Canyon and Morrow) gas-condensate field.

Artec Oil and Gas Company of Dallas No. 2 Northeast Maljamar Unit, West Lea County explorer, proved production from the Seaman section of the Pennsylvania, about six miles east of Maljamar.

The project originally started out as a confirmation test to Artec No. 1 Northeast Maljamar, a Wolfcamp discovery. That horizon was barren and the test was carried on down as a wildcat. Location is 1,980 feet from the north and west lines of section 5-17-33e.

A four-hour drillstem test was taken at 11,628-645 feet, with gas surfacing in five minutes and oil to the top in 19 minutes. Flowing through a one-half-inch choke it produced 40 barrels of oil in one hour. The section then was flowed three hours on a three-eighths-inch choke. During the first hour the yield was 32 barrels and in each of the second and third hours production was 38 barrels. After the tool was closed 32 barrels of additional oil was reversed out of the drillpipe.

A second drillstem test in the Seaman was run at 11,649-665 feet. Tool was open 3 1/2 hours. Gas surfaced in five minutes and oil in 17 minutes.

It flowed 26 barrels of oil in 30 minutes through a one-half-inch choke. In the next 30 minutes, on a three-fourths inch choke, 33 barrels of oil were produced.

Then the zone flowed 59 barrels of oil in 2 1/2 hours through a one-fourth inch choke. After the tool was closed 68 barrels of oil was reversed out. There were no signs of water and gravity of the oil on both tests was 38 degrees.

The operator is now pulling a core from 11,665-685 feet. In North Ward County, James K. Kennedy of Monahans will attempt to complete a Wolfcamp discovery at No. 1 George Sealy Estate. It is four miles northwest of Wickett and on the west edge of the shallow Magnolia-Sealy pool.

It is the former discovery of the now depleted Sealy (Pennsylvania) pool from pay at 10,820-899 feet. Location is 660 feet from the south and east lines of section 57-F, G&MMB&A survey.

Originally completed in 1960 by Mobil Oil Company, the project showed possible gas and oil production in the Wolfcamp on five drillstem tests between 9,626-10,436 feet. Kennedy plans to plug back from the old total depth of 11,321 feet to 10,440 feet for the tests of the Wolfcamp.

RUSSIA STILL SECOND

Growth Rate High

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP)—Russia's oil production growth rate may have slowed down a bit but it still is spectacular.

Estimated oil output by Russia and her satellites increased 262 per cent in 10 years to March.

World production increased 101 per cent. Countries outside the Soviet bloc had an 84 per cent increase. The United States increased 15 per cent.

Russian controlled production rose from 1,178,000 to 4,272,000 barrels a day. Total world output climbed from 12,752,000 to 25,644,000 barrels a day.

Non-Communist areas boosted their output from 11,573,000 to 21,372,000. The United States moved from a daily average of 6,464,000 barrels to 7,449,000.

Soviet bloc oil amounted to 18 per cent of U.S. output in 1953 and 31 per cent in 1958. The daily average in March was equivalent to 58 per cent of U.S. production.

Russia and her satellites had 9 per cent of world output in 1953, 14 per cent in 1958, and 16 per cent in March. Their March production was equivalent to 22 per cent of the total output from non-Communist areas, compared to 16 per cent in 1958 and 10 per cent in 1953.

A survey by the Oil and Gas Journal gives this breakdown for the Soviet bloc's 4,272,000 barrels a day—3,940,000 for Russia and 332,000 for the satellites.

It was in September, 1960, that the Journal reported Russia had firmly re-established itself as the world's second-ranking oil producing nation with an output of 3,027,000 barrels a day. This put Russia ahead of Venezuela, which had dropped to 2,895,000.

Headquarters will be at the Mayo Hotel, with visitors expected from throughout the United States and Canada. Haden J. Upchurch, vice president of Texas Eastern Transmission Corp., Houston, will head the meeting. At the session he will be succeeded to the presidency by James A. Walker, manager of lands for Kern County Land Co., San Francisco.

Convention activities include a golf tournament, board of directors meeting, and several luncheons.

Commission Report Shows 135 Oilers

AUSTIN — The Railroad Commission said Saturday that 135 oil and 33 gas wells were completed during the week.

Oil completions for the year total 3,649, compared to 4,495. To date, 1,138 gas wells have been completed, compared to 1,472.

Three wildcat oil and one gas well were reported. A total of 140 wells were plugged, 84 of them dry holes.

The average allowable was 2,819,995 barrels, an increase of 9,912.

May New Oil Sinks To Lowest Mark In More Than Two Years

By JOE BEYER

The lowest mark in 2 1/2 years was recorded in area potential during May, despite an average number of completions and a lot of drilling.

There were 36 field wells and one wildcat finished for a total of 2,492 barrels, down by 1,681.25 barrels from a month ago. The last time operators finished less than 3,000 barrels in one month was in December, 1960. That year operators had four months in the 2,000-plus barrel range.

On the final day of the month Standard completed an explorer for 91 barrels to break the two-month drought of discovery oil. No. 1 Charles C. Canon was completed as a Fusselman strike about 15 miles east of Lamesa in a hitherto barren area.

For the first time in many months Howard County paced the eight-county area. It led with 15 oilers totaling 804 barrels of new oil. Howard County also led in new drilling sites with 15. Second in potential was Dawson County, with four oilers producing 706 barrels. It too was second in locations with 10.

There were 12 dusters, five of these at exploratory drilling sites. A review of the month's activity in each of the counties of the area follows.

BORDEN

Gordon Knox and associates completed the No. 1 L. B. Conrad in the Von Roeder field for 96 barrels, only production in the county during May. Two ventures, one a wildcat and the other in the Good, Southeast field, were plugged and abandoned. Replacements were staged for the wildcat and the Good, Southeast site.

DAWSON

Five oilers brought in 706 barrels to put Dawson County into second place. One is the Standard discovery and there were single completions in the Ackery, Lamesa, West and Jo-Mill fields. A Tex-Hamilton site and a Breedlove project were dusters.

Of the 10 new sites filed, three are wildcats, five are in the Ackery field, one is in the Tex-Hamilton field and the final site is in the Lamesa, West field.

GARZA

Garza County earned the distinction of plugging more dry holes during May than any of the other seven counties. It had three dusters—one a wildcat, one in the Teas field and another in the Kirkpatrick field.

There were five completions for 145 barrels. The Duffy Peak (Gloria) picked up three small oilers, the Post another and the Dorward field one.

Locations filed were one wildcat, three Rocker "A" sites, and singles in the Duffy Peak and Kirkpatrick field.

GLASSCOCK

Only activity in Glasscock County during May for record purposes was staking of five locations. Four are Spraberry Trend Area sites which are being worked over and another is a wildcat.

HOWARD

Fifteen new oilers finished for 804 barrels of new potential to put the county in the top spot. Fourteen of these were in the Howard-Glasscock field and the other is in the Iatan-East Howard.

The Howard-Glasscock field also picked up 11 of the 15 new projects. Three sites were set in the Iatan - East Howard field and another will try to make the Luther, Southeast field pay.

One project trying to re-open Canyone reef pay in the Modesta, Southwest field was a failure.

MARTIN

Initial potential on completions sagged to a new low for the year, with only one project, in the Ackery field making new oil. It made 151 barrels of oil. One wildcat and one Spraberry Trend Area test were plugged and abandoned. There were three new sites filed. One is a wildcat and two others are in the Spraberry Trend Area.

MITCHELL

Completions were second high for the counties, with nine, but potential of 441 barrels was down in third place. Five wells were completed in the Iatan-East Howard field, two in the Westbrook and one in the Iatan and Turner-Gregory fields.

Operators spotted five new sites, one a wildcat and four in the Iatan-East Howard field.

STERLING

The Herrell field picked up two new Clear Fork wells and a duster during May to account for the 149 barrels of new oil chalked up by operators. Another failure was a wildcat which was plugged. Two prospectors were filed.

Rig Count Picks Up Over Nation

The nation-wide count of drilling rigs in operation in the United States for the week ended June 3 showed 1,559 rotary rigs in operation, according to a report by Hughes Tool Co.

The county for the previous week, ending May 27, was 1,546 rigs. A month ago the number was 1,507. Activity was still 64 under the 1,623 of a year ago.

Texas, with 505 units making hole, led the states. Almost half this was recorded in West and West Central Texas, where the counts were 102 and 119 units, respectively, for a total of 221.

Breakdown on Texas drilling showed: South Texas and Gulf Coast inland water, nine; South Texas and Gulf Coast land, 148; South Texas and Gulf Coast, offshore, none; North Texas, 52; Texas Panhandle, 41; and East Texas, 34.

Louisiana was in second place with 268 rigs making hole, down four from the 272 of a week ago and one under the 269 of a month ago. A year ago the tally was 250.

Oklahoma moved up by one to 178, compared to 177 a week ago, 172 a month ago and 161 last year.

Landmen Set Annual Meet

Harold Vance prominent Houston banker, and William H. Keown, professor of business at the University of Oklahoma, have been named speakers for the American Association of Petroleum Landmen Ninth Annual Meeting opening in Tulsa June 19.

Vance will address the morning session June 21 on "The Outlook For The Domestic Oil Industry." Keown will address the landmen on "Is Land Management a Career, a Stepping Stone, or a Profession?"

Headquarters will be at the Mayo Hotel, with visitors expected from throughout the United States and Canada. Haden J. Upchurch, vice president of Texas Eastern Transmission Corp., Houston, will head the meeting. At the session he will be succeeded to the presidency by James A. Walker, manager of lands for Kern County Land Co., San Francisco.

Petrofina Stakes Two In H-G Field

American Petrofina Co. has staked a pair of new locations in Howard County, both in the Howard-Glasscock field but seeking different pay formations.

No. 1-B H. R. Clay will test the San Andres at a total depth of 2,900 feet. It spots 330 feet from the north and 1,650 feet from the east lines of section 15-29, W&NW survey, on a 160-acre lease about four miles east of Forsan.

The No. 6-C Roberts is contracted to 1,400 feet by rotary tool as a Yates check on an old well. It is on a 240-acre lease about two miles east of Forsan and spots 2,312 feet from the south and 1,657 feet from the east lines of section 12-29, W&NW survey.

PENN TEST

In Ector County, J. C. Maxwell of Fort Worth will drill No. 1 Helen A. Williams as an 8,400-foot Pennsylvania wildcat about 25 miles southwest of Odessa. It is in the southwestern part of the county.

Location is 660 feet from the north and 1,980 feet from the east lines of section 15, block B-15, PSL survey.

Locations have also been staked for two wildcats in Tom Green and Runnels counties.

Angle Oil Company of Dallas No. 1 Emil F. Machann is planned as a 5,500-foot test about four miles northwest of San Angelo in Tom Green County. The drillsite is 469 feet from the north and 4,911 feet from the east lines of section 170, W&CR survey, about 5 1/2 miles west of the Harriett (Strawn) pool.

W. W. West of Midland will drill No. 2 Emmie D. Michaels as a 2,700 - foot McMillan sand venture, about one-half mile east of

COMPLETIONS

DAWSON

Adobe Oil Co. No. 1 V. A. Smith, spotting 1,513 feet from the north, and 1,607 feet from the east lines of section 18-28, Y&P survey, produced 98 barrels of oil on initial potential as a Westbrook field well. It had a gas-oil ratio too small to measure and it was finished after treatment with 300 gallons of acid and fracturing with 20,000 gallons. Elevation is 3,138 feet, total depth is 3,999 feet, pay was picked at 3,962 feet and 5 1/2-inch casing set at 3,099 feet was perforated at nine intervals between 2,963-3,079 feet. It is on a 220-acre lease.

MITCHELL

Coastal States No. 1 L. E. A. Smart, spotting 1,513 feet from the north, and 1,607 feet from the east lines of section 18-28, Y&P survey, produced 98 barrels of oil on initial potential as a Westbrook field well. It had a gas-oil ratio too small to measure and it was finished after treatment with 300 gallons of acid and fracturing with 20,000 gallons. Elevation is 3,138 feet, total depth is 3,999 feet, pay was picked at 3,962 feet and 5 1/2-inch casing set at 3,099 feet was perforated at nine intervals between 2,963-3,079 feet. It is on a 220-acre lease.

STERLING

L. E. Foster No. 6-C TXL is an old well which was re-worked for completion in the Herrell field. It pumped 80 barrels of 20 gravity oil, plus 40 per cent water, on initial potential. The gas-oil ratio was 179-1. The well was finished with 250 gallons. Elevation is 2,890 feet, total depth is 3,265 feet, pay was topped at 2,631 feet and 5 1/2-inch casing set at 2,618 feet was perforated between 2,485-26 feet and 2,526-26 feet.

"Ted" Conway, a native of Goldthwaite, had moved here as a lad and graduated from the old Moore High School. After two years in the Navy, mostly in the Philippines, he returned here to farm. Then Cosden beckoned.

Six years ago he put his trade to work for himself in the hours off-duty at the refinery. The Conways had selected their home site three miles south of town, on the San Angelo Highway, allowing spacious grounds to accommodate horses and a Shetland pony. Within six months an attractive three-bedroom brick home took shape under Conway's hands. When an accident with an electric saw temporarily interrupted his schedule, his coworkers at Cosden went out to roof the house.

The interior decorating was the work of Mrs. Conway, the former Jacquelyn Flynn whose father, C. A. Flynn, was a long-time Cosdenite before his retirement.

Piano lessons and basketball engage 14-year-old Valynia, who will be a ninth grader at Forsan this fall. But horses are the primary interest, which she shares with her father. With her parents' support she participates in the junior rodeos in Big Spring and neighboring towns.

For diversion Conway prefers horseback riding, but also likes spectator sports, fishing and water skiing. The family is active in Birdwell Lane Church of Christ.

CAN YOU PLAN REMEDIAL WELL WORK BY GUESS AND BY GOSH?

You can. But it's expensive that way.

Successful and economical oil recovery operations depend on a thorough analysis and appraisal of down-hole conditions. That's where the Western Company comes in. Through its "Well Evaluation Service" Western will check everything before hand: the competence of the cement, permeability of the formation, effectiveness of previous treatments and possible gas, water or oil zones. That way you know where to put your rework dollars.

Six years ago he put his trade to work for himself in the hours off-duty at the refinery. The Conways had selected their home site three miles south of town, on the San Angelo Highway, allowing spacious grounds to accommodate horses and a Shetland pony. Within six months an attractive three-bedroom brick home took shape under Conway's hands. When an accident with an electric saw temporarily interrupted his schedule, his coworkers at Cosden went out to roof the house.

The interior decorating was the work of Mrs. Conway, the former Jacquelyn Flynn whose father, C. A. Flynn, was a long-time Cosdenite before his retirement.

Piano lessons and basketball engage 14-year-old Valynia, who will be a ninth grader at Forsan this fall. But horses are the primary interest, which she shares with her father. With her parents' support she participates in the junior rodeos in Big Spring and neighboring towns.

For diversion Conway prefers horseback riding, but also likes spectator sports, fishing and water skiing. The family is active in Birdwell Lane Church of Christ.

CITY OF BIG SPRING POLICE DEPARTMENT

CHIEF

BIG SPRING, TEXAS

June 5, 1963

Dear Big Spring Citizen:

This is a plea to all of you who drive automobiles in the city.

Vacation time is here. Our children are out of school and will be moving about on foot and riding bicycles. Many of them will be playing with groups of other kids in their neighborhood. Often times when the small fry are having fun, they forget to be careful. At such times they may do unexpected and foolish things, such as dashing into the street without looking.

We are all anxious about the safety of our own, and certainly we do not want to injure someone else's child. Won't you join me in resolving to exercise that extra bit of caution. You won't miss the little time you lose. Let our kids have a chance. Drive slow and let 'em grow!

Sincerely,

Jay Banks

Miss Harvey Bride Of Bobby Darrell Grant

Tapers in arched candelabra lighted the nuptial scene for Miss Peggy Ann Harvey and Bobby Darrell Grant Saturday evening at 7 o'clock. Vows were pledged in a double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. W. Fred Swank in the Sagamore Hill Baptist Church, Fort Worth.

Altar arrangements of white gladioli and palms formed a background for the rites, and a program of music was provided by Raymond Underwood, organist. He accompanied Donald McKnight who sang "One Alone," "We'll Walk With God" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Harvey, Fort Worth, and Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Grant, Route 1, are parents of the couple.

Wearing a gown designed and made by her mother, the bride was given in marriage by her father. The bridal dress was fashioned of embroidered organza over tulle into a belted skirt with a basque bodice. The rounded neckline and elbow length sleeves were detailed with satin cording. The double tiered circular silk organza chapel train, marked with embroidered appliques, revealed beneath a trio of graduated bows. She wore an appliqued organza pillbox with bubble veil of silk illusion, and carried a white lily bouquet with a white orchid in a cascade of stephanotis.

ATTENDANTS
The bride's sister, Mrs. Raymond Pierce of Fort Worth, matron of honor, wore a peach-tinted dress and carried a bouquet of gladioli florets in matching peach shade. Her veiled pillbox headpiece was also of matching hue. Lee DeLozier, Lubbock, served as best man. Stanley Griffin, Big Spring, and Don E. Harvey, the bride's brother, Tulsa, Okla., were the ushers.

Dona Len Harvey, Tulsa, the bride's niece, was flower girl, and ring bearer was Donald Ray Pierce, Fort Worth, nephew of the bride. Tapers were lighted by Miss Dorothy Hardin, Prairie Hill, a cousin of the bride.

RECEPTION
A reception was held afterward at Fun-In-The-Sun Country Club, Lake Arlington. In the receiving line were the couple, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Grant and Mrs. Raymond Pierce.

The white draped table, featuring the three-tiered wedding cake, was centered with tapers and bouquets of the bride's attendants. White Jordan almonds in white net were given with lilies as good luck favors.

Guests were registered by Mrs. Delbert Reed of Clarendon. Others in the house party were Mrs.

MRS. BOBBY D. GRANT

Don E. Harvey, Tulsa; Mrs. Craig Protz, Roswell, N.M.; and Mrs. Ronald E. Moore, Fort Worth.

Out of town guests invited were Mr. and Mrs. V. M. Hardin, Prairie Hill; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thompson, Wichita Falls; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Harvey, Mrs. L. A. Harvey and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Doss Simons, all of Waco.

WEDDING TRIP
The couple left afterward for New Orleans, La. The bride wore a softly tailored dress and long coat ensemble of pale pink and rose linen. The A-shaped silhouette of the coat featured wing sleeves, above elbow length. Pearlized white patent shoes and pink hat and gloves were her accessories. She wore the orchid from her corsage.

BIG SPRING HOME
The Grants will make their home in Big Spring where both will be teaching next year in the public schools.

The bride is a graduate of Texas Technological College. She also attended Cranbrook Academy of Art in Bloomfield Hills, Mich., and Texas Christian University. She taught school in Lubbock for two years and taught this year at North Side High School in Fort Worth.

Grant graduated from Texas Technological College and has done graduate work there. He is a teacher at Runnels Junior High School and a YMCA director.

Marriage Solemnized At Richardson Church

Miss Claudette Stephens and Danny James Anderson exchanged nuptial vows Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in the First Methodist Church, Richardson. The Rev. B. W. Middlebrooks, pastor, officiated, and a program of traditional music was presented by Mrs. H. K. Handy.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. N. Stephens, Richardson. Anderson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Anderson, 1419 11th Place.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of pure silk peau de sole combined with French Chantilly lace. It was designed with three quarter sleeves edged with lace, closely fitted bodice, baroque neckline outlined in lace and belted skirt. Scalloped lace edged the hemline of the skirt which also featured a detachable chapel length train. A crown of seed pearls secured the tiered veil of French silk illusion. The bride's bouquet was a cascade of white roses centered with a white orchid.

ATTENDANTS
Miss Geni Tate, maid of honor, Miss Jeanene Harville, Miss Paula Geers and Miss Cindy Snyder were the bride's attendants.

A reception was held in Fellowship Hall of the church, after which the couple left on a wedding trip to San Antonio. The Andersons will return to make their home in Richardson at 423A, East Polk Street.

RECEPTION
A graduate of Richardson High School, the bride attended Kilgore College and North Texas State University. She was a member of the Kilgore Rangerettes, and her sorority is Chi Sigma Delta.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Big Spring High School, attended Kilgore College where he was vice president of Kappa Sigma Lambda fraternity. He also attended North Texas State.

STANTON SENIORS Return From Trip

STANTON (SC) - Twenty-seven members of the senior class went to Six Flags Over Texas near Arlington, Texas. The class also toured Love Field at Dallas and went sightseeing and shopping in downtown Dallas and Big Town, a shopping center outside of Dallas.

Sponsors for the trip were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Robnett and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mott.

Faith And Love Theme For OES Installation

"Faith and Love" was the theme of the installation ceremony of the Laura B. Hart Chapter No. 1019, Order of the Eastern Star, Saturday evening at the Masonic Hall. Pink, green and silver decorations plus the emblem, Broken Column, carried through the theme that saw Mrs. M. C. Lawrence installed as worthy matron.

The program included a musical selection by soloist, Addison Cotten, the worthy matron's son-in-law; lighting of the candles by Mary Ruth and Mike Cotten, grandchildren of the worthy matron; and presentation of the Bible by Mary Evelyn Cotten, daughter of the worthy matron and Stephen Cotten, her grandson.

Other officers installed were Arthur Eitzen, worthy patron;

Pitzer-Gilmore Vows Pledged In Evening

Nuptial vows were repeated by Miss Ruby Pearl Gilmore and Preston Kenneth Pitzer Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in the Church of the Nazarene. The Rev. W. M. Irwin, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Sand Springs, officiated in the double ring service. The altar was centered with an arch of fern and a memory candle, flanked by candelabra and baskets of pompon mums.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Gilmore, Route 1, are parents of the bride. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. P. K. Pitzer, Route 1.

The Rev. W. M. Dorough, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life," with organ accompaniment by Mrs. Bob Spears who presented a program of traditional music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of Chantilly lace over white satin. It was fashioned with a Queen Ann collar, long tapered sleeves, a molded bodice and full skirt which extended into a chapel train. The waist length veil of white tulle was secured with a tiara of pearls. Her flowers, a nosegay arrangement centered with a white orchid, was carried with a white prayer book, a gift of the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Melvin Gilmore.

Miss Mary Kay Wennik, maid of honor, wore a blue organza dress, a blue veiled hat and white accessories. She carried a nosegay of feathered mums. Mrs. Knox Pitzer, Houston, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Richard Davis were the bridesmaids, and bridesmaid was Miss Joyce Thomas. Their dresses were identical to that of the maid of honor.

Benny Pitzer, the bridegroom's brother, was best man. Ushers were Knox Pitzer, another brother of Houston, William Mikusek, Houston, and D. V. Pedigo, the bridegroom's brother.

Tina Kay Pedigo and Denise Beck of Midland and Odessa, nieces of the bridegroom, were the flower girls, while Leslie Gilmore, nephew of the bride, was the ring bearer.

RECEPTION
The church parlor was where the guests were received afterward by the couple, the parents and the bride's attendants. They were registered by Mrs. Richard Gilmore and Mrs. Melvin Gilmore, both sisters-in-law of the bride. Blue and white were the colors carried out for the reception table.

Couple Weds In Lamesa

LAMESA (SC) - Miss Linda Helen Robertson and Donald Joe May were united in marriage at 7 p.m. Saturday in the First Baptist Church. The Rev. Milo B. Arbuckle, pastor, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Helen Robertson and the late W. A. Robertson. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond May of Hermleigh. Traditional wedding music was presented by Miss Dee Ann Logan, organist with Ed Wittner presenting vocal selections.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Wayne Robertson. Her street-length dress of embroidered cotton batiste was styled with a scooped neckline fitted bodice and waistline pointed into the back of the full pleated skirt. A pearl tiara held her shoulder length veil of silk illusion. She carried an orchid on a white ribbon.

Mrs. Richard Haggard, Lubbock, cousin of the bride, served as matron of honor, and Kenneth Wink of Robert Lee was best man. Out-of-town guests attending a reception in the church parlor were from Boise, Idaho, Fort Worth, Sweetwater, Snyder, Odessa, Lubbock, Hermleigh and Albuquerque, N.M.

For traveling the bride chose a three-piece beige linen suit with brown patent accessories. The couple will make their home in Alamogordo, N.M., after June 18. The bride is a graduate of Lamesa High School and attended Texas Tech. The bridegroom is a graduate of Hermleigh High and Texas Tech.

Miss Denton Is Married

Miss Judy Denton became the bride of Airman 2C Lawrence R. Duda in a double ring ceremony performed in St. Mary's Episcopal Church at 8 p.m. Saturday. The Rev. Donald Hungerford officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mort Denton, 2904 Parkway Road. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Joseph J. Duda of Munhall, Penn.

The ceremony was performed before altar vases holding white carnations and chrysanthemums. During the wedding prayer, the couple knelt on a white prie dieu.

Miss Elsie Willis, organist, played nuptial selections including "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," "Reverie" and "Blessed Jesus at Thy Word."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street-length dress of white tulle with lace, featuring a scooped neckline, short cap sleeves and a belted skirt. She wore short white gloves and white silk pumps. Her single-shoulder pearl necklace was a gift from the bridegroom.

The bride's bouquet was formed of white cymbidium orchids showered in picot satin and carried atop a small prayer book.

ATTENDANTS
Mrs. Allen Stumpf, matron of honor, was attired in apricot linen with matching accessories. Her bouquet was of bronze-toned gladioli.

Serving as best man was Almeron O. Hayes Jr. Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The refreshment table, covered with a floor length white satin cloth, featured an overlay of ruffled white net. The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with white roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. Stumpf presided at the punchbowl.

Out-of-town guests were Harry Stalcup, Brownwood, Tex., grandfather of the bride and George Denton, Amarillo, Texas, an uncle of the bride.

WEDDING TRIP
For a wedding trip to Fort Worth, the bride wore a muted beige and white checked dress of cotton, designed with a jewel neckline and short sleeves. Self-covered buttons extended to the back waistline. Upon returning, the couple will make their home at 104 W. 8th St.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School. Now stationed at Webb Air Force Base, the bridegroom attended Homestead High School in Munhall.

Webb Windsock

By MARGE LYNCH

A "swinging" group of gals hit the golf links early Tuesday morning for a round of Bingo, Bongo, Bongo. For those of us who didn't understand this game, it was explained thus—the first ball on the green is a bingo, the first ball nearest the cup is a bango, and the first ball to go into the cup is a bongo. Each bingo, bango and bongo is worth so many points and the highest score is the winner. Mrs. Alfred Halverson was first, with Mrs. R. H. Hillen as runner up. Anyone seeking more information on the golf group should call Mrs. Richard O'Leary at AM 3-4060. It meets every Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock, the new hour for the summer months.

Thursday was the last luncheon for the season with the out-going OWC board as the hostess group. The monthly luncheons and business meetings will resume on the first Thursday in October. The new OWC budget for the coming year was approved, as well as the welfare budget.

A farewell tea will be held on Sunday, June 23 from 3 to 4:30 p.m. at the Officers' Club honoring Mrs. Wilson H. Banks, our base commander's wife. Col. Banks, who is now in Washington, D. C., and his family will be leaving for New Delhi, India, later this summer. All officers' wives should plan to attend this function.

SUMMER LUAU
A summer luau at the O' Club pool and patio is scheduled for August 17. Mrs. Lewis Vale is making the arrangements for this OWC party. We'll keep you posted on the details as they come in.

The medical group has been vacationing lately. Recently returned from Paris and other spots of interest in Europe are Capt. and Mrs. Daniel W. Whitmer. New York was the choice of Capt. and Mrs. Morris Kresel. And Capt. and Mrs. Al Lindsey visited Las Vegas, Nev.

Saturday, June 8 at the O' Club, the medical group gathered at the farewell cocktail party to bid adieu to several of its members. Capt. Dorothy Fleming, Capt. and Mrs. Robert Frost, Capt. and Mrs. John Schubert and Capt. and Mrs. Mathew N. Smith.

Col. and Mrs. George E. Franks were in New Orleans recently for the graduation of their daughter, Virginia Anne. Miss Franks was graduated from Sophie Newcomb College, receiving a bachelor of science degree.

VISITORS
Mrs. T. Normie and Mrs. L. Vale were the happy ones when their husbands, Capt. Thomas Normie and Capt. Lewis Vale, paid them a visit last weekend.

Capt. Normie and Vale are TDY at Maxwell AFB attending Squadron Officers' School.

Lt. and Mrs. Robert Sandner are enjoying a visit from their mother, Mrs. L. M. Sandner, from Clearwater, Florida. While she is here they plan a visit to Dallas and Six Flags Over Texas Park.

Lt. and Mrs. W. E. Holcomb and family enjoyed their recent leave in their home state, Mississippi, where they visited friends and relatives. Lt. and Mrs. Holcomb took a side trip by themselves to Biloxi and other points along the Gulf Coast where they swam and dined on seafood.

The PTG wives had an unusual meeting last month. They met at Cosden Refinery and Mr. Robinson, of personnel, gave them a tour. Afterwards, they lunched at Cosden Country Club. The newcomers to the group were Mrs. John Bartlett, Mrs. Stuart D. Howarter, and Mrs. Frederick Parent Jr. The guests were Mrs. Rex Fryer, Mrs. Bill Hillen and Mrs. Harvey Kimsey.

The Family Services Orientation Course will be held at the John Lees Service Club on June 18, 19 and 20. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, from 8:45 to 11:30 a.m. All those attending will have free child care at the base nursery.

'Get Acquainted' Coffee At Webb

Mrs. William Largent and Mrs. William Daoust are to be the hostesses for a "Meet Your Neighbor" coffee at 9:30 a.m. Monday at 53-A Chanute Drive. All women who live on the street are invited to attend.

MRS. LEO WILLIAMS

Miss Morgan Is Married

The marriage of Miss Betty Gay Morgan and Leo Williams was performed Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Westside Baptist Church by the bride's father, the Rev. Noel D. Morgan. Vows were pledged in a double ring ceremony before a background of white gladioli and huckleberry. Candelabra, entwined with huckleberry and fern, flanked the arch of greenery centering the altar.

Parents of the couple are Rev. and Mrs. Morgan, 1011 Main St., and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Williams, Route 1, Knott.

The bride's sister, Mrs. George White, sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "I Love You Truly," with organ accompaniment by Mrs. Ralph Walker.

Rev. Morgan gave his daughter in marriage. She was attired in a formal gown of bridal satin and Chantilly lace designed with scalloped neckline, long tapered sleeves and belted skirt. Her veil of illusion was secured by a tiara of pearls. She carried a white bouquet with a bouquet of white carnations and a white orchid. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls which belonged to her great-grandmother.

Mrs. Williams served as matron of honor and Mrs. Bill Land of Knott, bridesmaid. The bridesmaid was Miss Gloria Smith. All were attired in pastel shades and carried single pompon mums.

Bill Williams of Knott, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Groomsmen were Bill Layman of Loveland and Bill Land.

Rodney Cline, the bridegroom's cousin, and Darrell Morgan were the ushers. Tammy Lynn Land, his niece, was flower girl, and the ring bearer was Tab Morgan, the bride's brother.

Tapers were lighted by Randy Morgan, the bride's brother, and Sandra Williams, niece of the bridegroom.

RECEPTION
Guests were received and registered by Miss Peggy Watkins in Fellowship Hall, where the couple, their parents, and the attendants formed the receiving line.

A white cloth with overlay of beige lace covered the refreshment table which was centered with the attendants' bouquets. Pink tapers in crystal holders flanked the bride's cake, based in pink and white flowers.

Members of the house party were Mrs. Larry Morgan of Midland, Mrs. C. L. Kirkland and

Vows Are Taken By Couple

LAMESA (SC)—Miss Sara June Gregston and Freddie Lee Doshier were united in marriage at 8 p.m. Saturday in Sunset Baptist Church. The Rev. R. W. Blackmon, pastor, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Gregston, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Doshier.

The double ring ceremony was read before an arch of greenery and red and white gladioli flanked with baskets of gladioli. White candelabra with white tapers completed the altar scene.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of cotton satin with long tapered sleeves coming to petal points over the hands. Her gown featured a scalloped neckline with pleated skirt coming to a train in the back. Her headpiece was accented by a tiara covered with a veil of silk illusion, and the bouquet consisted of red and white roses.

Mrs. C. W. Beard, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Miss Sharon Russell of El Paso, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. Jerry Dean Doshier, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

RECEPTION

A wedding reception was held in the Fellowship Hall following the ceremony. Guests were registered from Lubbock, Lamesa, Odessa, Big Spring, El Paso, Snyder, San Angelo and Stanton.

For traveling the bride wore a mint green suit with pleated skirt and jacket with three-quarter length sleeves. She also wore a blouse of print material with a jacket lining of the same material. She chose white accessories. The couple will reside in Lamesa after a short wedding trip to Carlsbad, N.M.

A graduate of Lamesa High School the bride is employed at the Dawson County Public Library. The bridegroom, also a LHS graduate, is presently employed by his father in a pump service.

Mrs. Shine Philips Visiting In Austin

Mrs. Shine Philips left Saturday to visit in Austin with her daughter, Mrs. Garth Jones and family. She will stop in San Angelo to visit with her husband, in the hospital there, and return here Tuesday.

MRS. EDWIN M. MYRICK

Father Reads Ceremony

LAMESA (SC)—Miss Linda Lee Igo and Edwin Michael Myrick were united in marriage at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Second Baptist Church here with the Rev. Clifton F. Igo, father of the bride, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Igo while the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ed Myrick of Lubbock.

The double ring ceremony was read before an altar arched with greenery and tapers. Two baskets of white gladioli marked each side of the altar. Miss Sandra Peterson of Plainview presented traditional wedding music at the organ. Soloist, Dick Amos, presented three selections.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Johnny F. Igo. She wore a gown of Chantilly lace and illusion featuring a tightly fitted basque bodice. The dress was accented with a scalloped Sabrina neckline and long tapering sleeves ending in petal points over the hands. The bouffant skirt of alternating tiers of lace and finely pleated tulle ended in a chapel train. Her shoulder length veil was attached to a pearl and rhinestone tiara.

She carried a bouquet of white rosebuds atop a white Bible.

Rites Read For Couple

LAMESA (SC)—The North 14th Street Church of Christ was the scene Saturday at 7:30 p.m. for the exchange of nuptial vows between Miss Judy Kay Chiles and Guy DeWitt Edmonson.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Chiles of O'Donnell, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Willis Edmonson of Lamesa.

John Gipson, minister, read the double ring rites before an archway entwined with greenery and pink and white carnations. The altar was flanked with branched candelabra entwined with greenery and pink gladioli.

BRIDAL GOWN

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal gown fashioned from silk organza, designed with a fitted bodice. Her gown was accented with a scoop neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. The A-shaped skirt featured an apron front for a detachable train in the back. The gown was detailed with three-dimensional, hand-made silk organza flowers which trimmed the bodice and skirt front.

The bride's headpiece of silk organza petals, outlined with seed pearls and pearlized sprays of florettes, formed her elbow-length veil of imported silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of cascading white roses.

These Two Fat Cats Are Real Cool Kitties

By JO BRIGHT

Would-be burglars be warned—It would not be wise to attempt entry at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Brooks in Sand Springs. Trouble would not come from "Little Bit," the curious canine result of a fleeting flirtation between a miniature dachshund and a chihuahua—but don't try to pet the cats.

"Snafu" and "Pawnee" are felines of the Siamese breed. Their slight tendency toward evil dispositions, when in the company of strangers, has been encouraged and cultivated by Brooks.

"These two cats are the best watchdogs we've ever had," said Mrs. Brooks. "We saw an example of their protectiveness first hand as they attacked an intruder who broke into our home in Colorado." Although easily provoked by strangers, the big cats act like affectionate kittens when with their masters.

Mrs. Brooks was born in Virginia and reared on Slaton Island, N. Y. Following graduation from Port Richmond High School, she worked as a dental assistant and part-time waitress.

Accepting a job at the Arizona Biltmore Hotel in Phoenix led to a full-time career in the restaurant business. Entering the dining room one morning, the new chef invited her to share a steak breakfast with him. They've been sharing breakfast ever since.

CATALINA HONEYMOON
At the time of their marriage in 1957 Brooks was using his spare time to train horses for P. K. Wrigley of chewing gum fame. Wrigley's wedding gift to them was an expensive honeymoon on Catalina Island.

Brooks acquired his knack for handling horses back in his home town of Hayfork, Calif., which was called home by only about 400 other people. That was where his grandfather made a business of raising mules for the Army and young Brooks worked with him to learn the horse-training trade.

Later, in Los Angeles, he attended the Franklin Institute on a two year art scholarship.

NAVY SERVICE
In the Navy during World War II, Brooks remembers vividly his service with the 82nd PT Division, operating with the Asiatic Fleet out of Brisbane, Australia. Two of the patrol torpedo boats, with 32 men aboard, were trapped for 18 months on the Yangtze River where they had been sent on patrol. They were joined and Brooks said literally saved, by McDonald's Scottish division out of Hong Kong. An estimated 180 men of the division stayed with the patrol boats for many months while Gen. Chennault had supplies dropped to them. During the summer months when the river was almost dry 80 or 90 men would pull the boats by hand over the rocky bed.

Mr. and Mrs. Brooks managed restaurants in Denver, Colorado Springs, Albuquerque and Roswell before moving here to operate the Western Restaurant, 1101 Gregg St. Living with them and working in the restaurant is his niece, Miss Shirley Turnbow, who described her job as "anything they want me to do." Miss Turnbow is a dimpled, 18-year-old brunette who says she likes what teenagers like—music, dancing and friends.

The Brooks are active members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. Miss Turnbow attends the Church of Christ.

Course In Sewing To Be Offered At School

Runnels Junior High is offering a free sewing course to the public June 10, 11, 13, 17 and 18. Mrs. Florence Lenox, homemaking teacher, will be the instructor.

Since fundamental sewing will be stressed, a simple shirtwaist type blouse and simple pleated skirt will be made in class. Items needed in the instruction will be a pattern, correct amount of fabric and notions, such as thread and buttons. For the skirt, a nine-inch zipper will be required.

The course will consist of five lessons: Monday — organization, preparing fabric for blouse, fitting pattern and cutting garment; Tuesday — basic construction processes: stay stitching, seams and facings; Thursday — button holes, fitting garment and setting in sleeves.

Monday (June 17) — finishing blouse, starting pleated skirt, putting in zipper; Tuesday (June 18) — pleating for perfect fit, blind hemming by hand or machine, finishing, and putting on waist band.

Essential principles that will be emphasized are grain perfection, accuracy in preparing, cutting and marking fabric, cutting to fit, perfection in stitching and pressing plus attaining a quality look.

For additional information or advance enrollment call Mrs. Lenox at AM 4-2713 after 5 p.m. or before 8 a.m., or call Runnels Junior High School.

SQUADRON SCROLL

Officer Arrives To Command Class

By NANCY FRANCO

Class 64-H reported to Webb Wednesday with Capt. Harold E. Cooper as class commander and Capt. James Marlin as tactical officer. Capt. Cooper has been in the Air Force for eight years and received his commission and navigator wings after graduating from aviation cadets at Harlingen AFB, Capt. Cooper, his wife, Anna Marie, their two sons, Johnny, age five, and Mark, two, and their dog, Teddy, came to Webb from Wichita Falls, where Capt. Cooper served as a navigator in B-52s. The Coopers have been married for six years and call Puyallup, Wash., their home.

The couple enjoys water skiing, and Capt. Cooper hopes to complete the 16-foot outboard boat he started to build last October. There are 51 members in the new class and we welcome the men and 25 wives to Big Spring.

The wives of Class 64-A held a baby shower Wednesday evening for Mrs. William O'Neill III at the home of Mrs. Neil Hansen. Mrs. Larry Nichols, Mrs. Joel Rosen and Mrs. Hansen were co-hostesses for the shower. The gifts were hidden in various parts of the house and Mrs. O'Neill had to search for them, following poetic clues which had been placed in balloons. Mrs. Cletus Meyer and Mrs. Bruce Thornton were prize winners. The girls enjoyed fruit punch and angel food cake covered with pineapple-banana whipped cream.

BACK FROM IOWA

Mrs. Paul Benz and her children, Liz and David, traveled to McGregor, Iowa, with Mrs. Gary McNitt to visit Mrs. Benz' parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Lovig, recently. Mrs. Benz' sister, Miss Susan Lovig, returned to Big Spring with the two women for a week's visit.

Class 64-G wives surprised Mrs. M. M. Whitten Thursday evening with a kitchen shower at the home of Mrs. George Brower. Mrs. Richard Johnson and Mrs. Clement Twiford served as co-hostesses of the shower for the new bride.

ENGAGED

Two bachelor members of Class 64-A announced their engagements recently. Lt. David Pederson, formerly of Rochester, N. Y., became engaged to Miss Sally Semming of Midland on May 31. The couple will be married at St. Anne's Catholic Church in Midland on Aug. 10, following Lt. Pederson's graduation from pilot training. Lt. Dennis Strojny, from Yonkers, N. Y., will marry Miss Gay Aldon of Baltimore, Md., on August 17. Our congratulations and best wishes go to the two couples.

Engaged

Miss Pat Saunders' engagement and approaching marriage to Loyd Underwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Underwood, Luther, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Saunders, Sterling City Route. The wedding is planned for Aug. 16 at 8 p.m. in the Berea Baptist Church.

Meet Madame President

Mrs. Louis M. Wolfson, a member of Mu Zeta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi since 1961, is the chapter's newly elected president. She has just completed a term of office as chapter secretary. A charter member of the Opti-Mrs. Club, she is a past vice president of that organization. During Mu Zeta's summer recess, Mrs. Wolfson plans to work with the Volunteer Service at the state hospital in the program, "Operation Hope." Louis Wolfson, manager of Pelletiers, Mrs. Wolfson and their two-year-old daughter, Sydney, reside at 2613 Lynn Drive in Kentwood.

Texas Joins In Attack On High Court

Texas has given legislative approval to two amendments to the nation's Constitution, designed to diminish power of Chief Justice Earl Warren and his fellow justices on the Supreme Court.

The legislature, without fanfare or debate, approved two proposals recommended by the Council of State Governments, composed mainly of legislators and officials of the 50 states.

Texas approval of each of the two amendments means, in effect, that this state joins in a call for a national constitutional convention to act on the amendments.

So far, 24 state legislatures have approved the plan for one or more of the amendments. Texas stands out as a leader among the states, its legislature having approved two of them.

This effort to limit the Supreme Court's law-writing activities and to give added power to the states has made quiet but rapid progress among legislatures. Chief Justice Warren says the effort affects "the stability of the U. S. Constitution."

Reacting in sudden and shocked amazement, Chief Justice Warren publicly chided the American Bar Association because the nation's lawyers passively had permitted success of the Council of State Governments' plan to alter the American judicial system.

Mindful that consent of 36 states would diminish power of the Chief Justice and the entire Supreme Court, the chief justice also recognized that power once held by the court would be yielded to the individual states.

The proposed amendments:

ONE—To end all constitutional restraints on the way states apportion their legislatures. This would return to state legislatures the power of apportionment of state legislative districts, a long-honored power until last year when the Warren court (against bitter opposition of Justice Frankfurter) decided that the Supreme Court had the power to approve and disapprove the character and boundaries of state legislative districts.

TWO—To permit amendment of the Constitution by state legislatures alone, without congressional action.

THREE—To establish a Court of the Union, made up of 50 chief justices of state supreme courts. Its jurisdiction would be superior to that of the United States Supreme Court concerning questions dealing with relationships between federal and state governments.

The Texas Legislature has approved the first two but the Court of the Union proposal was not introduced.

It was the Supreme Court's decision last year that sparked the beginning of counter-action.

When the high court took from the legislatures apportionment of state legislative districts, the court stepped with force upon members of legislatures in all 50 states, as well as upon state officials. The court's extension of its powers into state lawmaking bodies, never previously subject to Supreme Court action, provoked a strong wave of resentment.

Hostility among the states erupted last December when the General Assembly of States was held in Chicago.

"We believe that grave imbalance now exists," representatives from the several states declared. "Some federal judicial decisions . . . are bringing about a strong shift toward the extension of federal powers and restraint of state powers."

With this as a background, officials and legislators of the several states resorted to the amendments proposal to regain state rights and to halt Supreme Court invasion of such rights.

In this procedure, the North and the South are joined in a common attack on the court. The wedding band was the court's action in assuming power to reapportion legislative districts within the states.

For the first time, then, Southerners, who bemoaned the 1954 court reversal in segregation decisions, found new North allies, equally disturbed and angered.

All this started less than six months ago, when representatives from 37 of the 50 states approved the procedure to recapture time-honored state authority. Only four states opposed it; four abstained and five were not represented.

To prevent the movement from being labeled a Dixiecrat or states rights movement, the Council of State Governments placed the campaign in hands of a committee composed largely of Northerners. It is known as the Volunteer Committee of Dual Sovereignty. They talk about "dual sovereignty," but never of "states' rights" nor "civil rights."

As a matter of tactics, the committee recognized strong support for the asking in the South, where bitterness over school desegregation has brought military might to enforce a Supreme Court decision. Hence, the committee has more to gain by rallying the North on a straight-out conservative economic argument.

Thus it is that only one Southerner is on the national committee, headed by W. Stuart Helm, speaker of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives. Further, to avoid political imbalance, six vice presidents were chosen—three Republicans and three Democrats.

These six include Republicans Warren Wood, four times speaker of the Illinois House of Representatives; Robert Hesse, speaker of Wisconsin's lower house; and Lt. Gov. Harold H. Chase of Kansas.

Democrats serving as vice presidents include J. D. McCarty, William V. Chappell Jr., former speaker of the Florida House; and Frederick Hauser, speaker of the New Jersey House.

That such strategy is getting results is indicated by greatest success of legislative approval of the amendments outside the South. This includes, among others, Idaho, Illinois, Kansas, Missouri, Montana, New Hampshire, South Dakota, Washington, Wyoming, Utah and Nevada. Success in the South has been in South Carolina, Arkansas and Florida, plus Texas.

Legislative approval in Nebraska was vetoed by the governor. Ohio defeated the proposal by a bare majority. The new Jersey Legislature reportedly is ready to approve the amendments.

Approval by states in the Old South is taken for granted.

Supporters of the plan declare confidence that by the time other legislatures meet next January it will take but a short time to acquire approval of the needed 34 states, to force upon Congress a convention call for final approval.

The road, however, to final passage may be rocky. The opposition is organizing. Chief Justice Warren's appeal to the bar association got immediate response.

The board of governors, siding with the court, spoke for the nation's 100,000 members in voting unanimously against two amendments. In the meantime, recommendations are being drafted on the proposal concerning legislative redistricting, for action when the bar association meets at Chicago in August.

The chief justice has found other allies, too. These include President Kennedy and a prospective Republican president candidate, Gov. George Romney of Michigan.

The Warren appeal was that "Any serious effort to amend the Constitution should provide for a great national debate."

Supporters of the amendments say the great debate is going on in the state legislatures and point to successes in the various states. Furthermore, they say the Constitution is only what the court holds it to be. Their decisions, often by a 5-4 majority, is said, determine the law of the land. Actually, they point out, the changing whims of a single justice makes the law of the land.

The court is reminded that the body in 1912, held that income tax levied on the wages and salaries of citizens not only was null, void and unconstitutional but that it was the most iniquitous tax ever devised. Just 10 years later the court reversed itself and found the income tax to be constitutional.

Of more recent interests is the Plessy case, in which the court ruled on legality of "separate but equal" concepts, reversed in the 1954 Brown case that prompted the Little Rock dispute and has carried on in Birmingham, Oxford, Jackson and other points in the South.

The committee cites Article I of the Constitution, that all legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress.

The amendment backers say that to this day Congress has passed no law requiring desegregation in public schools; nor a law forcing an individual to serve one with whom he does not care to do business.

The controversial 14th Amendment also is cited, it being pointed out that it was approved in Texas and the South only by a military-appointed legislature, after duly elected legislatures rejected its approval. Yet, they say, it provides only for "equal protection of the laws."

The appeal from Chief Justice Warren and the maneuvers of the Volunteer Committee for Dual Sovereignty are mixed to bring about a great national debate, but confined to the legislatures. The debate and battle have been partially completed in Texas.

The Three Proposals

ONE—To enable states to amend the Constitution without having to get a vote in Congress.

TWO—A Constitutional amendment to bar the federal government from ordering reapportionment of state legislative districts.

THREE—Establishment of a "court of the union" with power to override decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Area Men On Estes Case Committees

PECOS, Tex. (AP)—Two chairmen were announced by the Department of Agriculture Friday for the Billie Sol Estes and Bobby Frank Estes cotton allotment hearings. Both previously served on hearing committees.

They are D. L. Adcock Jr. of Lamesa and D. C. Jeffries of Seminole. Both were on committees which found in favor of the department. Nearly all the other cases were decided in favor of the farmers.

The Estes hearing is scheduled here June 11-12.

Adcock will be chairman of the Billie Sol Estes case, Jeffries in charge of the brother's case.

On the Adcock committee will be Charles Nance of Seminole, O. V. Buck of Odessa. On the Jeffries committee will be Raymond Pribyla of Tarzan and Robert Hunn of Dryden. None has been on a committee before.

The hearing is on appeal from previous rulings, most of which went against the Estes. However, Billie Sol Estes now has no part in the hearing, with the company which bought his assets, The American Grain Co., pressing the appeals.

Queen Contest Plans Announced

STANTON (SC) — Mrs. L. E. Rowden was named committee chairman for the Lakeview community in the Martin County Farm Bureau queen's contest for August.

The winner of the county contest will be entered in the district meet at Lamesa Aug. 26. The district winner will be sent to the state convention in November.

To be eligible, the candidate must be a daughter or sister of a Farm Bureau member (who receives 50 per cent of his income in farming or ranching), single, and between the ages of 16 to 22.

Mrs. Owen Kelly is the county chairman. Other committee members are: Mrs. Tom Smith, Mrs. W. E. Howard, Mrs. M. L. Graves, Mrs. S. J. Foreman, Mrs. Bruce Key and Mrs. J. M. Payne.

LEGISLATURE IGNORED ONE SUPREME COURT RULING

This year's session of the Texas Legislature struck one-two punches at the U.S. Supreme Court, ignoring one of its major decisions as flagrantly as areas in the Old South evade desegregation rulings.

First of all, the legislature approved two proposed amendments, each aimed at curbing powers of the Supreme Court.

Then, the legislature refused to reapportion congressional districts, in direct violation of the Supreme Court's law-of-the-land order a year ago.

Well-Known Texans Attended Confab

Ten widely known members of the Texas Legislature were delegates last December to the Chicago meeting of the 16th biennial General Assembly of the States and the Council of State Governments.

It was at that time that approval was given three proposed amendments to curb power of the Supreme Court and to give additional power to the states through their legislatures.

The 10 included retiring Speaker of the House James A. Turman, an unsuccessful candidate for lieutenant governor.

The other nine carried over membership in the Texas Legislature and held high posts in the session just ended.

These included two members of the Senate, George Moffett of Chillicothe and Culp Krueger of El Campo, who hold powerful committee assignments.

Both senators are members of the committee on legislative, congressional and judicial districts, which took on added importance in 1963 in not redistricting despite Supreme Court rulings making such action mandatory. Both also are members of the committee on interstate cooperation, with Sen. Krueger as chairman. The House members attending the Chicago conference included: Rep. Ben Barnes of DeLeon, whose district extends west to include Runnels County. He is chairman of the important House rules committee and serves on such bodies as revenue and taxation, banks and banking, agriculture, and oil, gas and mining. Rep. Gus Mutscher of Brenham, member of the appropriations and bank committees and chairman of the claims committee.

Rep. Max D. Carraker of Roby, on the House, common carriers and livestock committees.

Rep. Jim Markgraf of Kaufman County, member of such House committees as banks and banking, livestock and aeronautics. Rep. James E. Nugent of Kerrville, a member of the strong labor committee and also serves on the committee that handles municipalities and private corporations.

Rep. Clyde Haynes of Vidor, on such committees as highways and roads, livestock, motor traffic, and public land and buildings.

Rep. Will Smith of Beaumont, vice chairman of the committee on counties, and on the committees handling federal relations and claims.

A Devotional For The Day

The statutes of the Lord are right, rejoicing the heart: the commandment of the Lord is pure, enlightening the eyes. (Psalms 19:8.)

PRAYER: We thank Thee, Lord, for the revelations of Thy will and grace in the Holy Scriptures. Help us to feel at home in Thy Word that Thy Word may make us feel at home with Thee. We ask this in our blessed Savior's name. Amen.

(From The 'Upper Room')

New Industry Pays Off

What may be the most far-reaching program this community as a whole has ever undertaken is that to establish an operating fund to promote Big Spring as the site of new businesses, industries and payrolls.

The Chamber of Commerce has set its sights on a $100,000 fund to be subscribed over a three-year period, and the fact that more than a third of the sum has quickly and enthusiastically come into the till indicates that success is ahead.

The need for the money is simply explained. The competition between areas, and cities, this day and time for the substantial businesses and industries that are dispersing their capital investments is almost beyond description. You can hardly think of any town of population 10,000 and up that has not gone aggressively into the community selling game, and most of them are well financed.

The industries that a community wants don't generally go around making off-the-cuff selections. They have to be sold on the merits of a community. They want to know about its taxes, its utilities, its transportation, its labor market, its distribution facilities, its raw materials sources, its water supply, and indeed they want to know about its schools, churches, recreational facilities and general atmosphere for wholesome living.

Wholesome living is what answered can only be answered by accurate, complete and comprehensive material.

This material has to be planned, it calls for much research, it has to be put together into presentable form, and then it has to be taken to the key executives of the interested industry.

The first requirement to do all this is financing. The only place Big Spring or any other town is going to get this financing is from the business and professional people who want to make such an investment for the future growth and even stability — of the community.

One person who has come into the industrial development program said the other day, "this sounds expensive, but if we landed one good payroll, it would all be more than repaid."

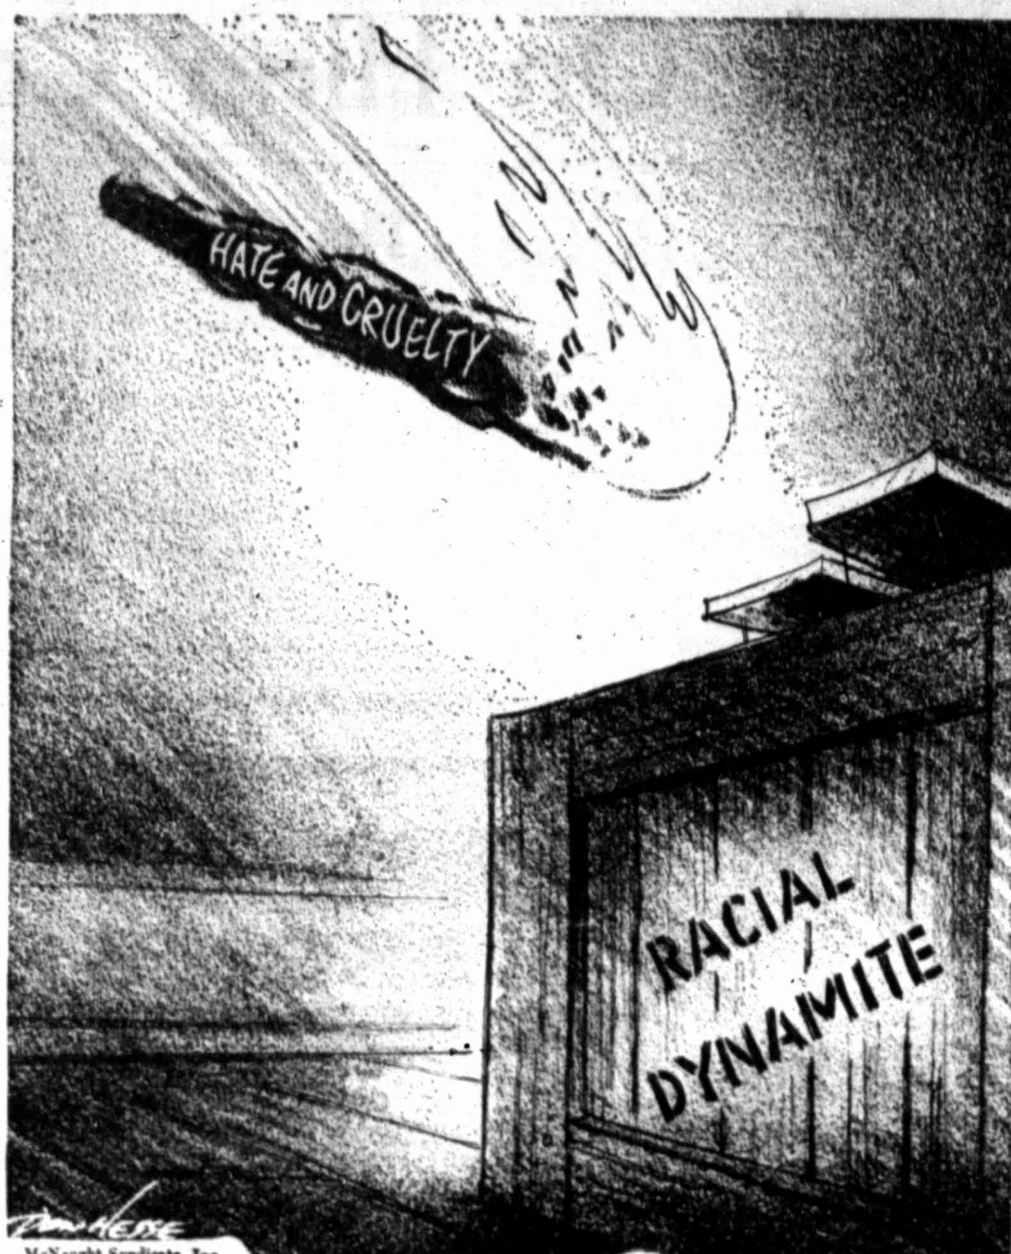

He's right. Statistics have been prepared to show what an industry employing 100 people brings to a city. This study shows that the 100 employees will bring in 359 more people, 100 more households, and 65 more jobs in non-manufacture.

Also, it means 91 more school children, $710,000 more personal income each year, $331,000 more in annual retail sales, $229,000 more bank deposits, 97 more passenger car registrations, and three more retail establishments.

This is rather a striking report to show how growth follows industry. It shows why raising an adequate promotional fund is very vital to Big Spring.

The people who have investments here, the people doing business here, the people living here benefitting from community growth — all these must surely want to have a part in the program.

If we want more business investment, we've got to get it. To get it takes the money.

CAN HAVE ONLY ONE RESULT

J. A. Livingston Corporations Are Building Their 'Image'

Miriam Beard introduces her recently-republished "A History of Business" (University of Michigan Press, paperback $2.95) with this comment:

"If it is a little strange that writers have not yet provided a history for the business man, it is still more curious that he, himself, remains so unconcerned in the matter."

"ARISTOCRATS, dictators and priests have long appreciated the beauties and uses of history, for without emphasis on continuity, they would be lost; they need the apparatus of some emblem, legend and ceremony which connects them with a venerable past, to allow their persons and sustain their powers."

"Many of the professions have acquired a respectable patina through reinterpretation of the past. Thus physicians are now wrapped in such dignity that the public forgets how recently they occupied the status of barbers."

"NOT SO THE business man; he still struggles on, unfathered and unadorned, lacking a shell of myths in which to creep."

When this was written in 1938, the business man was still in the depression doghouse. He had let the country down. The era of the "public image" and the corporate biography had not arrived.

TODAY, PATINA is all over the place. Such books as "Catalogs and Counters" by Sears, Roebuck, "Concept of the Corporation" by General Motors, "By My Guest" by Conard Hilton, "Endless Frontiers" by McGraw-Hill, "The Equitable" by Equitable Life Assurance Society, "The Landlords" by men who made and lost in real estate, "Brimstone" by the story of sulphur and the sulphur companies, "History of the Philadelphia Electric Co." and biographies of Baruch, the Rothschilds, Morgan, Rockefeller, and others.

The men who run our corporations are called on to make speeches at commencements, deliver lectures before schools of business administration, and receive honorary degrees. The corporation has become the subject of doctoral dissertations and The Organization Man has become part of our sociology.

NOT ONLY do 170,000 to 18,000,000 stockholders palpitate to profits and dividends, but production and employment revolve around the corporation. Government depends on corporate well-being for taxes, workers for jobs, and you and I—as consumers—for products.

The corporate nameplate follows us around the house. In the cellar perhaps is a General Electric oil burner or a Philco washer. In the kitchen will be a Kelvinator refrigerator or a Frigidaire stove. In the bedroom will be a Simmons mattress or a Sears, Roebuck chest of drawers. And on the highway are GM, Ford, Chrysler, American Motors, and Studebaker cars.

MORE THAN HALF — 53 per cent to 55 per cent of our national income originates with corporations (see chart). That includes the Fords, the Boings, the Westinghouses as well as the incorporated corner grocer and the small manufacturing company.

However, a group of 600 of the largest corporations, compiled by Fortune magazine, consisting of 450 industrial, 50 transportation, 50 utility, and 50 merchandising companies, accounts for 85 per cent of all corporate assets and about 90 per cent of total sales.

TO DRAW A conclusion from the foregoing is to gild the obvious. It explains why Sen. Estes Kefauver (Dem. Tenn.) can make headlines by calling on executives from steel, automobile, and drug companies to explain themselves and their companies. It accounts for the future over the 50-ton price rollback in April, 1962. Here was a struggle of titans—the President of the United States versus the chairman of U. S. Steel.

WHEN THE Securities & Exchange Commission demands information on the salaries of executives; when the House Ways & Means Committee debates rules for regulating stock options; when the Department of Justice fights mergers and prosecutes price-fixing; when the Interstate Commerce Commission holds extensive and intensive hearings on railroad mergers; when the Food & Drug Administration and the Federal Trade Commission worry over business practices, you need no elaborate explanation of why.

The big corporation dominates business. And, unless we—as people—are to be dominated by the corporation, it has to be supervised and regulated. As a corollary, the corporation must comport itself with decorum and discretion. It's so influential, it dare not become too powerful.

To Your Good Health Compulsive Eater May Have Psychological Problem

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Perhaps you could explain why my husband eats so much.

He leaves for work early and only wants a bowl of cereal for breakfast. He carries his lunch.

He works at a desk all day.

For example, last night at dinner he had seven pork chops, mashed potatoes, corn, broccoli, bread and butter and two pieces of banana pie with whipped cream.

He read the paper for half an hour and said he was starved. From then until bedtime he consumed four roast beef sandwiches and...

Then he was angry because I wouldn't fix sausage and eggs at bedtime. Said he went to bed hungry. It's the same story every night.

He is 27, 6 feet tall, weighs 183. I'm sure there must be a reason for his eating so much. He couldn't really need so much food, could he? He has an annual check-up and is healthy.—M. R. G.

I cut off your list of the evening snacks, not that I doubt it—but it would be worth the price of admission just to see somebody eat that many fill pickles, cookies, ice cream bars, apples and extra slabs of pie.

Hunger and appetite are not the same. Hunger is the demand of the body for food. Appetite is the wish for it. Babies can experience hunger, but no great appetite for any particular food.

In a big boy like yours, I'd suspect that this problem is probably psychological. How long has he been nibbling so prodigiously? I'm surprised he weighs only 183.

One thing strikes me oddly: Wanting only a bowl of cereal for breakfast. That's carbohydrate. Maybe if he had protein instead (eggs, with or without meat) it might stay with him better. His lunch also ought to contain protein: Meat, fish, cheese.

He might have an overactive stomach which empties rapidly, or low blood sugar.

Whatever, since he has an annual physical, I would get the doctor's ideas on this extraordinary eating. Maybe your husband hasn't thought it worthy of mention.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there danger of contracting a disease from washing diapers of a sick person who is bedfast and unable to control the kidneys? They have an odor. What causes this?—E. S.

It is usually due to ammonia which is formed by bacterial action in the urine. If infection is present, there will be germs! You can protect yourself by using rubber or plastic gloves, or by using long forceps of some sort.

A container with a weak chlorine solution (the basis of many household bleaches) can be used to sterilize the diapers and decrease the odor until they are ready to be laundered.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please write about astigmatism.—R. B.

Astigmatism is just a way of saying that the curvature of the part of the eye through which light passes (the lens) is not correct. This in turn distorts what you see. An exaggerated example would be looking at something through the curved glass of a bottle, instead of through a carefully ground magnifying glass.

The distortion in the eye is not nearly that great, and it is easily compensated by wearing glasses.

Hemorrhoids can be cured! If troubled with fissures, fistulas, itching and other rectal problems, write to Dr. Molner in care of the booklet, "The Real Cure for Hemorrhoids," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim Battle Against Nature (Continued)

Nobody asked for it, but it's time for another periodic report on the entomological and horticultural situation at our mortgaged household.

If those words went by you, they cover broadly the continuing struggle that goes on between me and the bugs and the blight.

TO BE SUCCINCT about it, the bugs and the blight are winning again.

Oh, but I struggle. I have not yet found out how all the neighbors have such attractive, well-kept, no-problem lawns, shrubs and gardens, while my own are just one jump ahead of wild pasture. Weeds which would have no part of the neighbors' property just snicker up to me, and bugs which have never before been encountered in all West Texas as team on my property.

Well, to itemize:

GRASS—Came out this year very sickly and spotty. I watered, I fertilized, I poisoned, I scratched and dug, I pulled weeds, I kept a faithful watch and have been a devoted servant, even begging and pleading aloud for just one more blade to come on through.

Nothing happened—in spots, that is. One expert was called in and said the freeze of 1962 was taking its toll. Another expert was called in, and by some close scrutiny, found varmints that weren't supposed to exist south of the Mason-Dixon line. I put some supposedly-lethal dope on those critters, and you could hear them laughing all the way to the next grass root.

Some of them by now may have departed, but they have left the lawn looking as spatchy as a piece of abstract art.

SHRUBS—Never did come out at all.

and here went more money down the drain to get 'em all cut back. I will be ready for the Bennett House before they ever recover. What few survivors there were have of late spread out their little branches to a breed of worms, and the worms now outnumber the branches. More spray, more poisoning, more amused low-life waxing fat and happy off my money.

TREES—Ah, here's the sad chapter. Last year, you know, my peach crop was zero because of the freeze. This year, the blooms turned to buds in profusion, and the buds looked like they wanted to turn into peaches. But hail, or heavy rain, or wind, or darkness of night, or something, has managed to mar every little peach on the trees, and it looks like they have had the chicken-pox.

This, you know, opens the way for the birds and the June bugs and assorted other wild life that dislike me just for kicks, and even if I sit out under the trees with my salt shaker and my sling shot, I fear a losing battle. The latest inventory is that I may salvage about 67 scrawny, grizzly, ill ome peaches.

A COUPLE of pecan trees also started out blithely enough this Spring, but have gotten the impression that I didn't care for them, and are now losing all interest in bearing their fruit. I am not noted as a pecan man, and I believe the record for any year is 43 nuts. This year, unless there is a new combine of forces to bring about complete devastation, I can look forward to 16 pecans.

I used to dislike winter. Now I look forward to it. That's the season when nothing is expected to flourish.

Holmes Alexander Wrong Approach To Automation

WASHINGTON — "Whatever happened to the U.S.A.?" asked the Returning Traveler. "The parks are all full of old philosophers feeding the squirrels of middle-aged technicians studying blueprints and young folks loafing in the sun. They all look well-fed, well-clad and well-housed. But nobody's working."

ALL THIS, he was told, is what happened to America because it failed to make the right adjustments to the Automation Age. The Government spent billions of dollars on higher education, but that merely produced an over-educated class of intellectuals for which there was no practical use. The middle-aged people studying blueprints are among the millions which the Government put into retraining programs—a sort of Commodore Credit stockpile of unemployed who keep retraining for jobs that don't exist. The young people, of course, have been taught in school to enjoy leisure, provided by the Labor Department, with no-work programs, and by the Interior Department, with vast tracts of playgrounds.

"BUT IF PEOPLE don't work, the machines must," ejaculated the Returning Traveler. "And yet I see surplus machinery and digital computers rusting in vacant lots and back alleys. Wasn't there supposed to be a triumph of mechanization and of mechanized — thinking called cybernation?"

It was a triumph, all right, he was told. After the machines of the Fifties disemployed millions of persons, the machines of the Sixties started disemploying the older machines. As a result, one black box can do what a hundred black boxes used to do. Again, this is the result of applying wrong solutions to the automation problem.

"BUT WEREN'T there any right solutions?" the Returning Traveler demanded to know. "Wasn't there anything that anybody might have done to prevent this wholesale stagnation?"

Why, yes, there was, he was informed. "For example?" demanded the Returning Traveler.

Well, Government might well have curtailed foreign aid, stopped promoting the European Common Market, which became our chief industrial rival, limited the export of American know-how, and based its Jobs for Americans on a careful, continuing census of job opportunities and job aptitudes.

EDUCATION and retraining should have been selective, not wholesale. These crash programs had the result of making do-gooders happy, of training too many dumb clucks who could never be useful in modern industry, of disillusioning many people with the hope of jobs that didn't exist or that they couldn't handle.

Automation might have been conserved and controlled by better business and labor practices and by wiser Government tax deduction incentives. Instead, it was over-stimulated. It's a grave question as to whether private enterprise has the right to automate against the national interests. This question might have been tested if the President had laid down a conservation policy for Automation or if Congress had written conservation laws for Automation.

"WRONG THINKING about Automation in the Sixties proved a calamity," said the Returning Traveler sadly. "Jefferson once said it was better for people not to think at all than to think wrong."

Marquis Childs Our European Unity Is Fading

PARIS — You do not have to be long in Europe to discover that conflicting currents are running deep on opposite sides of the Atlantic, threatening the unity built up so painstakingly in the years since 1945.

A heady new nationalism is rampant in France and it is a contagion which may not be confined to this rich and beautiful country. But, nationalism to one side, Europeans are increasingly irritated by what they regard as the American habit of determining the destiny of the West and then setting out to impose it regardless of European sensibilities.

WHILE EUROPEANS seem totally unaware of it, there is in the American side a growing sense that America is no longer wanted and that the movement toward unity and Atlantic partnership has come to a full stop. If we are not wanted, then maybe the time has come to go home.

These are still undercurrents with relatively little open expression. But European policy and American policy are diverging in a dozen different ways.

THE LIST of strategic goods embargoed against sale to the Communist bloc is increasingly ignored as Britain and West Germany compete for industrial contracts with Moscow and with Red China.

Last week the European Economic Community — the Common Market of the six powers — raised the tariff against American frozen chickens by two cents whereas a drop of two cents had been hoped for. This made the tariff three times what it was one year ago. It means the virtual exclusion of the American product as Germany and France build up their own mass-produced chicken business.

EUROPEANS, including those most dedicated to the concept of an Atlantic partnership, consider the American preoccupation over chickens absurd.

This is an illustration of the failure to understand the sensitive nerves that have been exposed as increasing strains are put on the Atlantic alliance. Much of the strain grows out of President de Gaulle's go-it-alone nationalistic policy bent on achievement of a nuclear deterrent independent of American nuclear power. For the foreseeable future Britain, with an election impending, is excluded.

BELIEVING SO resolutely in an Atlantic partnership as he eloquently expressed it in his speech of last Fourth of July, President Kennedy with his principal advisers has been seeking ways to halt the fraying-out process. You can hear in Europe almost as many prescriptions as there are Europeans. One most frequently advanced is to be patient, to accept this as a waiting time, to ignore De Gaulle and his ultranationalism and to maneuver in anticipation of changed circumstances providing a new beginning for weaving together the Western partnership. With a change of command in Germany and an election in England everything will in any event soon be altered.

BUT THIS RISKS the continuing and even more rapid erosion of the structure of the alliance. It is a risk that Kennedy, as an activist having inherited a primary responsibility for the alliance, was simply unwilling to take. That explains the European trip planned many weeks ago with the intention of making the first public joint step toward a multilateral force of ships manned by sailors of the Western powers. That force was conceived in the first instance as a political rather than essentially a military instrument.

THE PRESIDENT is now being told that he should call off or postpone this trip. One reason given is that the race problem in America is so menacing that he should not leave the country but devote his full attention to this problem in its present acute phase.

If that were to happen at least one European would be overjoyed. The man who rules over France in lonely grandeur would see this as another piece in his own grand design. For De Gaulle has long prophesied that America, concerned with its own internal difficulties, must withdraw from Europe.

HISTORY WILL surely note that the clamor of disunity and the rise of a new nationalism comes at a moment when peoples everywhere mourn the death of that great and noble man, Pope John XXIII. In the short space of four years the Pope had become the symbol of the unity of all mankind. His was a voice that spoke to the hopes and heartfelt desires of untold millions, and part of the real and pervasive mourning is that this voice is stilled.

David Lawrence Employed Citizens Do Not Riot

WASHINGTON — Back in the depression days of 1936, a prominent Negro politician in Pittsburgh told this writer why he had changed from being a Republican to a Democrat. He had previously served for a few years as an assistant U.S. attorney general in Washington. The appointment had been given him by a Republican administration.

"Make no mistake about it," he said. "Don't be fooled by all the talk about social equality. We really don't want it. But what we do want is economic opportunity for the Negro — and you can't have that with millions of persons unemployed."

THESE WORDS came to mind on reading this week a sharply worded statement by C. Wilson Harder, president of the National Federation of Independent Business, Inc., which claims to have the largest individual membership of any business organization in the United States. In a letter to President Kennedy, Mr. Harder — one of the many white men in the business world sympathetic to the cause of jobless Negroes — says in part:

"All this race strife is engendered, not because of differences in schools, or differences in any other facilities. The real root can aptly be termed 'belly' racism. If the free-enterprise system were working in America as it should be operating, there would be full employment, opportunity for all, and there would be an end to race disturbances. After all, the American Negro, comprising ten per cent of the nation's population, is also a market of consumers."

"THIS IS NOT a problem of the South. The flames of violence are being fed in the North, and the fuel that feeds these flames are economic in nature. In any major metropolis of the North to which the Negroes have migrated, the relief load is high, the relief costs are creating more and more of a burden on the taxpayers. This, in itself, will create more and more animosity, and feelings engendered by economic considerations, as history shows, are the most violent of all. Employed citizens are not rioting citizens."

Dr. Kenneth B. Clark, a prominent Negro spokesman who is professor of psychology at City College in New York City, says this week in a copyrighted interview in "U.S. News & World Report":

"NEGROES ARE protesting against racial discrimination in jobs that is as insidious in the North as throughout the South — in spite of state laws against discrimination in employment. New York City is offered as an example of liberal legislation and practices on this subject. Yet the fact of the matter is that even here the overwhelming majority of Negroes and Puerto Ricans are relegated to menial, low-paid jobs and are exploited by labor unions as much as by employers."

"The job discrimination against Negroes has been so widespread and has continued for so long that you may have to engage in some kind of compensatory positive discrimination to overcome the effects of this long-standing injustice. I think that employers will have to go out and actively recruit Negroes as Negroes."

"OBVIOUSLY, AN employer cannot employ an incompetent Negro merely because he is a Negro. But, if it is necessary for business and industry to develop specialized training programs in order to be able to employ a representative number of Negroes in skilled managerial and executive positions — then this must be done."

As America continues to increase in population, the problem of finding jobs for competent individuals in all races will grow. The politicians may think that their chatter about "civil rights" will win them votes, but they will find out in time that only full employment in an expanding economy will reduce the basic discontent which is really aggravating the race problem in America today.

QUESTION: My husband does not make enough for us to live on and I have recently taken a job. Now we find that our absence from home is affecting our children. We are caught in the middle of two dilemmas. What should we do?

ANSWER: Yours is a problem faced by many people and our society is being adversely affected by it. When you say your husband does not make enough for us to live on, do you really mean that?

Is it possible that you are demanding for your family a living standard which is too high? Also, if your children are being affected by the absence of both parents from the home, it is obvious that you must make a decision and make it very quickly. If you do not give the proper home life to your children, no one else will. They need, and are due to have, that sense of security which comes from a home and parents to whom they may turn.

It is possible that you can make some adjustment so that you will be away from home only that part of the day when your children are in school. Otherwise let me urge you to put first things first. What profit for your family if the combined wages you and your husband receive should make it possible to have a lot more comforts and gadgets than otherwise, only to lose your children and that warm love and fellowship which is to be found only in a Christian home.

CONTRACTS: Lockheed Aircraft Corp. tops the list of military contractors with more than $1.4 billion worth of defense work awarded this year, the Defense Department has told Congress.

General Dynamics Corp. ranked close behind, and stood No. 1 among 2,042 contractors handling experimental, test and research work for the Pentagon.

The figures were made public in testimony released by the House Military Appropriations subcommittee.

The Defense Department said Lockheed received 56 per cent of the military prime contracts awarded in fiscal 1962. Other firms receiving more than $1 billion worth of prime contracts: General Dynamics at $1.2 billion, Boeing Co. at $1.1 billion and North American Aviation, Inc. $1 billion.

STILL GOING: Old Echo I, wrinkled and shrunken, is still looping the earth after having covered more than 378 million miles.

The balloon type satellite, launched 33 months ago, can be seen as it glides across the sky at night although it is now half the 10-story height it was.

Surprisingly it is still being used for the passive relay of messages by Collins Radio Co. between Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and Richardson, Tex. The firm said voice communications by way of Echo I are "exceptionally clear."

ORIN HARDENBROOK

Old Time Camp Meeting Scheduled

GAIL—Religious services with the preacher, the singers, and as many of the congregation as possible on horseback will be a feature of the Borden County Camp Meeting June 16.

The Camp Meeting opens June 14 and closes the evening of June 16. The morning services—the horseback event—will be at 10:30 a.m. on the last day in the Gail Arena.

Mrs. Ralph Miller, Fluvanna, chairman of the arrangements committee, said the preacher will be the Rev. Orin Hardenbrook, a cowboy preacher from Sturgis, S.D. He is the originator of the horseback services and has made such events popular in the Dakotas. He is editor and publisher of the Quarter Horse Digest and pastor of his church in Sturgis. Invitations have been extended to riding clubs and mounted posses in other counties and towns in the area to take part in the services, Mrs. Miller said. A number have indicated they will be on hand.

Another feature of this unusual camp meeting will be a quarter horse show, with American Quarter Horse Association approval, which is to be Saturday, June 15. It will be in the arena and start at 9 a.m. Entry blanks are available from V. W. Ogden, Rt. 1, O'Donnell. A barbecue dinner will be served noon Saturday at $1 per plate.

Another unusual feature will be a calf roping Sunday June 16 at 2 p.m. Two calf average and team roping events are slated.

Night services are to be held in the Gail High School Auditorium at 8 p.m. all three days.

Singing for the services in the auditorium as well as at the Arena will be under the direction of Elmo Payer, well known in the county and a native of Scurry County. He lived in Borden County for many years. In addition to his musical abilities, Payer is widely known as a cutting horse trainer. He devotes much of his time to working with revivals.

Mrs. Miller said the event is being arranged and sponsored by Borden County ranch families.

She listed the sponsors as Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Riley Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Newton, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Borden Gray Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Shorty Farmer and Glenn Coombes.

Mrs. Miller said if the event proves as popular as sponsors hope, it will become an annual event.

She said a special invitation to all persons who have horses has been extended. However, she said ample seating arrangements for others who wish to attend the services and do not have horses will be provided.

Webb Requests Bids For New Base Taxiways

Approximately $200,000 has been made available to Webb AFB for construction and replacement of concrete slabs, concrete aprons, and apron access taxiway.

Bids for the work will be received until 2 p.m. July 1. All bids must be submitted to the purchasing and contracting office at Webb, Building 262.

The work consists of furnishing all plant, labor, materials, and to perform all work in connection with the replacement of concrete slabs, operational aprons, and apron access taxiway, in accordance with the specifications. Principal features include excavation of existing concrete pavement, subgrade, and disposal of all excavation, preparation of subgrade, placing new concrete pavement, sealing construction joints with jet-fuel resistant joint sealer.

Contractor will be required to begin work within 20 days after date of receipt of notice, and to complete all work within 70 calendar days.

Contracting officials advise that if future invitations for bids are desired, a request in writing should be submitted. Requests for bid sets must be in the office of the purchasing and contracting officer on or before June 25.

AT LAMESA

Growing Industry Is Help To Ginner

LAMESA (SC) — Bruton Manufacturing Co., owned by Charles Bruton, is a small but rapidly growing Lamesa industry. The company has expanded from a one-employee operation to one of the city's largest manufacturers in five years.

Bruton Manufacturing primarily produces a varied line of sheet metal items for cotton gins and cotton oil mills, with most of the products used in conveying cotton between machinery in the mills.

Marketed under the trademark "The Sentinel System," it is the first controls ever perfected to govern the precision feeding of cotton into various machines in a gin. Research and development was conducted by Joe Jones, an engineer with Bruton, and Gene Slover, an associate and electronics expert. Testing was conducted at Weaver Gin Co. and Lamesa Co-Op Gin, both of Lamesa.

The system regulates the amount of cotton inserted into various cleaning and drying machinery, so as to avoid "flooding" or "starving," Bruton explained. "These choke-ups, as they are known in the trade, have plagued ginners since the invention of the cotton gin itself," he added.

In addition, the Sentinel System employs automatic controls that may eventually prove to be as beneficial to the ginner and his customers as the elimination of choke-ups. Volume controls are provided so that the ginner can select the most efficient rate of ginning for his own particular plant.

Since coming to Lamesa in May of 1958, Bruton has extended a local market into sales ranging from the Texas Valley to Alabama and Arizona, and next year the firm will be selling on a national scale. Present volume is more than five times larger than the level it reached in the first year of operation.

Bruton came here after running a similar firm in Hobart, Okla., where he was in business eight years. Before that he worked for his father in a metal shop. When the importance of the cotton industry fell in Oklahoma, Bruton moved to cotton, West Texas.

The Sentinel is not the first big cotton gin invention that Bruton Manufacturing has developed. Many South Plains ginners are familiar with Bruton's high capacity green boll catcher which was developed about 3½ years ago. Practically all new gins placed on the South Plains have one or more green boll catchers. The machine separates foreign matter from cotton before it reaches the cleaning and drying machinery.

Bruton said that the problems of the cotton ginner are becoming more complex with the advent of more machine harvesting due to the increased amount of foreign matter absorbed by automatic harvesters.

Farm Bureaus To Meet Here

Representatives from all counties in District 6 of the Texas State Farm Bureau are to assemble in Big Spring Tuesday, June 17, for a dual-purpose meeting.

At 10 a.m. the presidents, vice presidents and secretaries of the county farm bureaus will meet at the Settles Hotel for a regular conference on Farm Bureau problems.

At 1:30 p.m. a meeting will be held, open to the public, at which legislation dealing with farm problems now before the Senate will be reviewed and explained.

The program deals with cotton, wheat and feed.

Claude Anderson, Eola, District 6 director, will preside at the meeting. Ed McKay, Texas Farm Bureau assistant legislative director, Waco, will be the principal speaker.

Measures to be reviewed include SB 1458, the Ellender Bill on cotton; SB 1617, the wheat and grain bill offered under bi-partisan sponsorship; and the Cooley bill, due to be brought before the House on June 17.

Other measures dealing with cotton, wheat and grain will be reviewed by McKay and possibly by others.

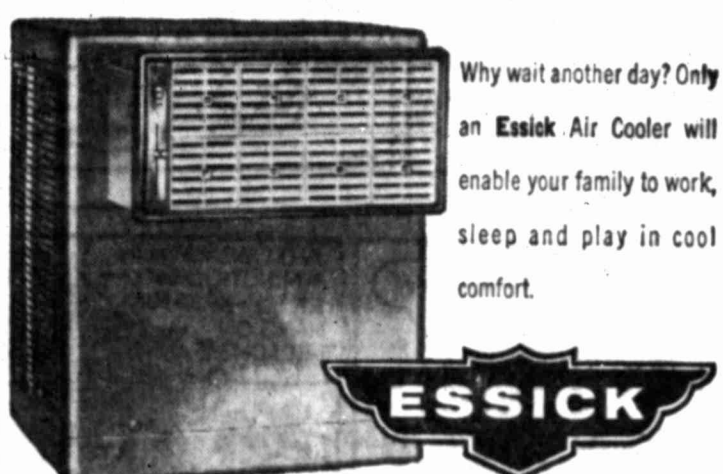

Counties in District 6 include, in addition to Howard, the following counties:

Coke, Concho, Culberson, El Paso, Fisher, Gaines, Hudspeth, Martin, Menard, Midland, Nolan, Pecos, Reeves, Tom Green, Mitchell, Scurry, Dawson and Glasscock.

West Side Story

Natalie Wood and Richard Beymer are lovers in the award-winning musical, "West Side Story," which shows beginning today at the Ritz Theatre. Based on the original Romeo and Juliet story, the film is modernized and placed in a setting of New York's East Side youth.

A Good Man

Eva Gabor knows a good man when she sees one. In this case it's Glenn Ford, in a scene from "It Started With A Kiss," showing Wednesday at the Jet Drive-In Theatre. Debbie Reynolds isn't going to like this.

Musclemen Are Co-Starred In Epic

"Duel of the Titans," a motion picture epic concerning those legendary twin brothers, Romulus and Remus, opens today at the State Theatre. Starring Steve Reeves ("Hercules") and Virna Lisi ("Tarzan"), Scott as the powerful and power-hungry brothers, the spectacular production was made in CinemaScope and Eastmancolor, with a cast of thousands.

In the telling of the story about the founding of Rome and the titanic struggle for its control, there are many scenes of adventure and action in which Reeves and Scott have an opportunity to display their physical prowess. Romance, as well as derring-do, figures in the film, which its director, Sergio Corbucci, describes as an "historical western." Italian star Virna Lisi plays the daughter of the king of the Sabines, who falls in love with Romulus and runs away with him, thus bringing her father in pursuit, determined on vengeance. Ornella Vanoni, another Italian star, portrays the sweet heart of Remus, a woman of vengeance and passion.

The leading men have become identified to countless fans as "Hercules" and "Tarzan." Reeves who admits he was one of the scrawniest kids in school, with the aid of barbells and weights built himself into the first prize winner of the "Mr. Pacific" physical culture contest. From that point it was merely a matter of time before he became "Mr. Universe." He has since achieved fame as the motion picture world's "Mr. Muscles" following his appearance as "Hercules."

Scott, on the other hand, was taught by his parents to be an all-around athlete. The biggest "Tarzan" of them all (he was the 11th in the line), Scott, who had had no previous motion picture experience, made "Tarzan's Hidden Jungle," subsequently making four additional films.

"Duel of the Titans" furnishes an abundance of spectacular scenes which include: numerous sword-and-spear battles; an episode relating to the legendary rape of the Sabines; a fight between Steven Reeves and a gigantic bear; and many other action scenes that finally culminate in a fight to the death between Reeves and Scott.

Three More Girls Sign Up For Local Beauty Pageant

Three more girls have been announced by the sponsoring Jaycees as contestants for the title of Junior Miss Big Spring of 1963. They are Cheryl Wilbanks, Frankie Cherry, and Darlene Thomson.

The pageant will be held the evening of June 15, with winner of the Miss Big Spring title going on to Fort Worth to try for the Miss Texas crown. These events are part of the annual Miss America competition, to be held in Atlantic City, N.J.

Winner of the local senior title will receive a $100 cash award, a trophy, and an expense paid trip to Fort Worth. The pageant in that city will be held Aug. 1-4 in the Will Rogers Coliseum. Winner of the junior division here will receive gift certificates, as will runners-up in both classes.

Women between ages 18-28 are eligible for the senior pageant. They must be on high moral character, have beauty of face and figure, possess charm and personality, and must never have been married, divorced, or had a marriage annulled.

Junior division is open to girls between ages 16-18, with same rules applying. Junior winners, however, do not go into a state contest, as this pageant is strictly a local enterprise, aimed at training girls for participation later in the Miss Big Spring contest.

It is hoped that Big Spring some day will, like neighboring cities, produce a young woman who will win the Miss Texas crown.

Prospective contestants may obtain further rules and entry blanks from Edith Gay at the Chamber of Commerce, or from Jack Orr at the First National Bank.

Age as of next Sept. 2 is the determining factor in listing of age for eligibility. Those on the "brink" at age 18 may enter either junior or senior divisions.

Contestants will be judged, in both divisions, on evening gown and bathing suit appearances, and poise and personality during interviews, the night of the pageant. Seniors, however, will be required to demonstrate a talent either on stage or by film. (The latter is for such as cannot easily be staged in the City Auditorium.)

Talents need not be limited to the song and dance variety. Indeed, almost any talent is acceptable, and a large portion of winners have demonstrated their skills in such things as swimming, horseback riding, sewing, etc.

Closing date for acceptance of contestants is June 13.

Vital statistics of the three latest entries:

Miss Wilbanks, 16, is the daughter of the G. L. Wilbanks and lives at 553 Hillside. She is a junior in Big Spring High School and has had training in dance. She stands 5'6", weighs 110, has blue eyes, blonde hair, fair complexion, and measurements of 36-25-34.

Miss Cherry, 17, is the daughter of the Ed Cherrys of 1613 Indian Hills, and also is a high school junior. She has had training in dance and music. She has green eyes, brown hair, fair complexion, weighs 115, is 5'6" in height, and measures 37-24-35. Miss Cherry was rodeo queen in 1961.

Miss Thomson, 17, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Horton of 1603 W. 4th, and is a 1963 graduate of Big Spring High School. She has had voice and music training, and won a gold medal in music during school competition in Odessa. Miss Thomson measures 36 - 24 - 36, stands 5'5", weighs 122, has brown eyes, brown hair, and fair complexion.

Cops Dislike That Kind Of Jazz

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Police have broken up a jazz combo—but not because they don't dig jazz.

Officer Jim Guido said six juveniles under arrest and another still sought stole the instruments from 40 different schools and had been meeting daily in a field for practice. The boys were not named.

One, Guido reported, got so good on bongos that he felt he was ready for bigger drums and the youths were getting set to steal a set when they were caught.

Father Of Any Film Land Year --Dennis Day

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The father of this or almost any year in Hollywood appears to be Dennis Day, Jack Benny's madcap tenor who has made a serious business of raising a family.

"We've never been out of diapers at our house," says Dennis, who seems somewhat astounded himself at the size of the Day (McNulty) tribe.

Here's how they will line up on Father's Day Sunday June 16.

Patrick James, 14.
Dennis Eugene, 13.
Michael Joseph, 11.
Margaret Mary, 10.
Eileen Maria, 8.
Paul Thomas, 7.
Thomas Francis, 5.
Mary Kate, 2.
Daniel Gerard, 6 weeks.

During a rehearsal break at the Jack Benny Show, Dennis rattled off the names and numbers with confidence—until he arrived at Thomas. He made several stabs at the middle name before arriving at Francis. I checked with his wife later and discovered he was correct.

How do they manage such a crowd scene?

"It's my wife Peggy who gets the credit," said Dennis. "The burden is on her, because I'm out of town six months of the year; that's the way it is with performers nowadays."

"We have one live-in help and a day girl, but we've never had a baby nurse. Peg has done it all herself. Nine babies, and every one of them has had the colic for the first six months. We've tried every formula and every preparation that is made. You name them we've had them."

Dennis admitted that the logistics for a family of nine children can be staggering. They manage to find room for sleeping accommodations in their expanded Mandeville Canyon home—now five bedrooms. The three oldest boys board at military school in Anaheim, so that's a help.

When the family goes for a weekend at their Palm Springs house, it's a regular caravan. Sleeping bags are a must.

Outfitting the nimble nine is a major operation.

"Shoes!" muttered Dennis, shaking his head. "We're always buying shoes. I got the boys shoes with a guarantee the soles wouldn't wear out in six months. Know something? They beat the guarantee."

"I was in New York recently, and I looked up some wholesalers I know—I haven't worked for Benny for 24 years without learning some tricks. I went through the racks of girls' dresses and said, 'I'll take this and this and this.' That's the way we shop."

Dennis was one of six children, who have now produced 31 of their own—sister-in-law Ann Blyth has five. "I think large families are closer," said Dennis, an obvious advocate.

Any hazards to rearing children in Hollywood?

"It's no different from other towns," he said. "You can't let other people raise your children. You've got to know your kids and keep the lines of communication open."

"I tell mine if they ever have any problem to bring it to me; I won't belt them if it's something they've done wrong. So far we've done pretty well on that system."

Annual Borden County Horse Show Slated

LAMESA (SC) — The annual Borden County Quarter Horse Association show will be held at Gail June 15 with two divisions, halter classes and performance classes, scheduled to compete.

The competition is approved by the American Quarter Horse Association and the Golden Spread Quarter Horse Association. Judge for the event will be Weldon McConnell of Dalhart.

There will be 20 classes of halter horses with a trophy and six ribbons given in each class. Trophies will also be awarded to the grand and reserve grand champions.

Nine performance events will begin at 1 p.m. with a belt buckle and six ribbons going to the winners in each class. The halter classes will be judged starting at 9 a.m. Prize money from $15 to $30 will be offered.

Performance events include junior and senior reining, barrel race, junior and senior roping, western pleasure, junior and senior cutting and NCHA cutting.

Two-calf average calf roping and team roping events will be held at 2 p.m. June 16.

As an added attraction Borden County old-time camp meeting and revival services will be held nightly June 14-16 at 8 p.m.

Church Schedules VBS This Week

Vacation Church School for the North Side Methodist Church will begin Monday and continue through Friday.

The daily Bible classes are open to children between the ages of 4 to 15 and last from 8:30 to 11 a.m. Discussions on Christian living, Bible stories, songs, games and other activities will be part of the program.

Mrs. Benny Marquez will serve as director, assisted by Mrs. Bobby Marquez, Mrs. David Navarro, Mrs. Ramon Navarro, Mrs. Rosario Moreno, Rosa Flores, Margaret Haro and Eunice Navarro.

DEAR ABBY

Try Loving Patience—

DEAR ABBY: Is there a way to cure a person of talking constantly? When my mother comes to visit us for a week every summer, she doesn't shut her mouth for one minute unless she's asleep. She's always been this way. No matter who is talking she takes over, and changes the subject to something SHE wants to talk about. I am getting so I dread her visits. I'm a nervous wreck when she goes home. It's not because she's lonely as she lives with another one of her married children, who also has a family. Heaven help them! They should get a medal! If I sound bitter, I am.

TIED OF MOTHER'S BABBLING
DEAR TIED: Your mother is apparently a "compulsive talker." But if others are able to tolerate it, perhaps you should exercise more patience and understanding. We all have to put up with a certain amount of "babbling" from strangers to whom we owe nothing but common courtesy. Don't you think your mother is entitled to at least that much? And perhaps a little more?

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and very mature for my age. I have been dating since I was 12. I am going steady with a real doll of a guy who is 16. There is only one thing wrong with him. He doesn't know how to kiss. Should I just act like I don't know how to kiss any better than him, or should I tell him he needs a few kissing lessons?

FRUSTRATED
DEAR FRUSTRATED: Don't tell him he needs kissing lessons unless you're prepared to tell him how you got to be such an expert!

CAPT. S. H. FIELDS

Capt. Fields Joins 331st At Webb

Capt. Samuel H. Fields has been assigned to the 331st FIS from the 27th FIS, Loring AFB, Maine. He came to the 331st via Homestead AFB, Fla., and McIntire AFB, S.C., where he completed F-104 requalification training. He had previously flown the "Starfighter" at Westover AFB, Mass., in 1959-60. Capt. Fields will be "A" flight commander and will be helping check out pilots of the 331st in the F-104.

Capt. Fields graduated from the U.S. Military Academy in 1954, and received his wings at Webb in 1955. He is senior pilot with 2,120 flying hours, of which 1,720 has been logged in jets.

Capt. Fields, his wife, Sandra, and their three children live in Webb Village.

DEAR ABBY: This might help some of your readers. There was a couple who were married six years, wanted family and could not seem to have any. They both went to doctors and took all the advice their friends offered, but nothing helped. Finally, an old Norwegian woman told them to drink goat's milk. They were amused at the idea, but said, "What can we lose?" So they got a goat and started drinking goat's milk. (Both of them!) Within six months the lady became pregnant. They kept on drinking the goat's milk, and in the next four years they had three more babies. Then they got rid of the goat and haven't had a baby since. This is no joke, Abby. The lady is me.

"MOMMY"

(Note to readers: Check local laws before acquiring a goat.)

DEAR ABBY: At the office where my husband works they have dancing during the noon hour. My husband is participating. There are married women, divorcees and single girls working at his office. He made the excuse that he needs the exercise. I don't like the idea. Should I express myself?

WIFE AT HOME
DEAR WIFE: By all means. Tell him if he needs exercise during his lunch hour to take a brisk walk.

For a personal, unpublished answer to your letter, write to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Don't put off writing letters. Send one dollar to Abby for her booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."
