

WEST TEXAS RAMBLER

By MEL KING

(Doyle Hesters Big Trip)

We arrived in New Delhi, India August 6th. Had a bus tour of the city. Have never seen such poverty, it is a city of several million people, cows roam all over the streets, people lying around on concrete walkways, in most every nook and cranny. We flew from there to a resort in the Vale of Kashmir, and from there to Agra.

(We saw in the newspaper that the plane we flew to Agra in crashed at the next stop.)

In Agra we visited the legendary Taj Mahal. In a city tour we saw the Dbhi people doing laundry by the same method they have used for hundreds of years, beating them on rocks, scrubbing by hand and laying them out on the grass to dry. We were told they do 150 pieces for $2.00.

From Agra we flew back to New Delhi and then on Bombay. Among things we saw there was a museum and Mahatma Gandhi's old home with pictures of his life.

From Bombay, flew to Aden, Saudi Arabia, rich desert, and from there to Nairobi, in Africa.

This is the capital of Kenya. From Kenya we were driven by bus to the mountain lodge on the slopes of Mt. Kenya and spent the night there, went back to Nairobi and spent the night there.

We went back to Nairobi and were driven by mini bus to the country to view wild animals. Saw ostrich, antelope, lions (one with four small cubs), lots of zebra, giraffe, leopards, many beautiful birds.

From Nairobi we flew to Addis Ababa, which is the capital of Ethiopia. Friendly people, a very modern, clean city, it and Nairobi are both in the mountains—beautiful and cool.

We arrived in Cairo, capital of United Arab Republic of United Arab Republic August 19th. It is built on the Nile River. There are a lot of famous mosques besides modern buildings. The next day all group rode camels to see the Pyramids and the Sphinx. We walked down into one pyramid, had a very narrow sloping passage having to stoop going in and out. The stones weigh 5000 pounds and are laid together, with no mortar or cement. One of the smaller pyramids had a floor of alabaster. In Cairo the people are 85 percent Moslem and fifteen percent Christian.

From Cairo we went to Athens, Greece. There we visited the Acropolis, Mars Hill, the Parthenon, the Erechtrion and Odeum and the Temple of the Wingless Victory; also the Theatre of Dionysos, built in 3 AD, the Temple of Hephaestus, the ancient Agora, the star of Attalos, and the Tower of the Winds.

ATTEND SCHOOL CONVENTION

Tom Harkey, Hubert

Meadows and Ronald Bruce attended the Texas Association of School Administration and the Texas Association of School Boards Annual Convention the 26 and 27 of September in San Antonio.

Topic discussions were: Ronald Bruce attended a session on school insurance and a session on Accountability. The word "accountability" denotes that teachers and administrators should be held accountable for what students learned or failed to learn in the class room.

Hubert Meadows attended sessions on public relations.

Tom Harkey attended sessions on financing of the "Minimum Foundation program in Texas schools.

On August 22 the group we were with left for New York and we flew to Istanbul, Turkey. Had an enjoyable trip up the Bosphorus by ferry boat to Sanier. People were very friendly.

After a few days there, we flew to Zurich, Switzerland and from there to London, where we stayed several days. We flew to New York from London, arriving there Sept. 2.

Flying from New York to Louisville, Ky., we visited a few days with friends and then home. The best part of all was getting HOME!

35-14

THE BULLDOGS ARE FOR REAL!

The Colorado City B team came over from the town that "has everything" and tasted defeat at the hands of the Lorraine Bulldogs. A sweet victory it was, too--the only good Wolf is a defeated Wolf.

The eleven Wolves were really impressive in their huddle as they controlled the football in the early stages of the game. They ran out of their huddle each time--I was impressed. They looked like they had been through their plays enough times to really execute them. Nice thing happened, though. The Bulldogs and their coaches seemed to figure things out and the time came in the second quarter when the Bulldogs were pushing the Wolves back consistently.

Then the time came for the first half touchdown. The touchdown was followed by a two-point conversion made by Robert Darnell and the Bulldogs rested for a few minutes during halftime with a narrow lead.

The third quarter saw only one touchdown to strengthen Lorraine's lead to 15-0. But it was the fourth quarter that brought on a rash of scores--20 by the Bulldogs and 14 by the Wolves, coming at a time when the local coaches were substituting freely.

Robert Darnell led in the scoring for Lorraine with two touchdowns and two extra points. Mike Jones, Tanis Moreno and Cleon each scored a touchdown. David Minton threw three touchdown passes and kicked for one point after touchdown.

Though the CC team showed a great deal of poise in the first half, the Bulldogs didn't lose their cool. They tackled hard from the very beginning and the blocking was from boys that sure do appear to love the game of football.

Statistics were: First downs--Lorraine 17, CC 12; Rushing Yardage--Lorraine 123, CC 159; Passing yardage--Lorraine, 225, CC 59; penalties--Lorraine 9 for 85, CC 2 for 44. The Lorraine penalties were costly because they came at times when more scores might possibly have been made. Oh, well--35-14 is indicative enough, bring on the Jim Ned Indians. The Bulldogs and their supporters will travel to that great metropolis in Friday evening to show them that the Bulldogs are for real.

WHAT A BACKFIELD!

It was noticed by many in Lorraine this week that four of the five leading scorers in the conference the Bulldogs play in were Bulldogs of the local variety.

LORRAINE HIGH SCHOOL HOLDS NHS INSTALLATION OF NEW OFFICERS

Gina Boyd, a senior and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Boyd of Lorraine, was installed as president of the Lorraine High School chapter of the National Honor Society. The NHS Chapter was chartered on March 5, 1967.

The chairman of the candle-lighting ceremony was Gerald Guthrie, head coach of the Lorraine Bulldogs.

Other officers installed were Glenda Ellington, vice-president; Becky Merket, secretary; Belinda Sheffield, treasurer; Rita Barron and Irene Munoz, historians; Debbie Belvin and Cindy Hackfeld, reporters; and Jesse Vallejo, parliamentarian.

Eight new sophomores were inducted. There were Robert Alvarez, Frankie Bennett, Edna Galvan, Cheryl Hill, John Lee, Rick Lucas, Sylvester Rose and Nancy Smith. One new junior member, Ponciana Pantoja, was also inducted.

Eddie Puckett gave the invocation and Tim Green led the audience in the Pledge of Allegiance. Teresa Walker presented the purpose and aims of the NHS. Mr. Vance Dickenson, principal, explained the method of selection of candidates and presented each new member with a membership card.

A short business meeting followed the ceremony.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

BY VERN SANFORD

Up in the Panhandle of Idaho is Pend d'Oreille, the state's largest lake. Its tributaries provide boating waters from the western boundary of Montana completely across the state and into Washington.

Pend d'Oreille is a fabulous lake with 111 miles of shoreline. It flows between towering cliffs that rise 1000 feet above the surface of the lake. Water depth is another 1000 feet.

Pend d'Oreille compares in surface size with some of our Texas lakes, like Whitney, Falcon or Livingston. But that is where the comparison ends. It has different fish and the method of fishing for them is different.

There are a few black bass in the water, but Lake Pend d'Oreille is famous for its lunker trout--Kamloops by name. I learned the unusual story about this lake on a very enjoyable visit up there only recently.

Something like 400 million years ago a small lake was created by the upturn of geology. This lake was first seen by white men about 1800 when they went into the area to compete with the Indians in fur trapping. These French-Canadians named the lake after the Indians, who wore ear pendants. Hence the name Lake Pend d'Oreille.

For many years this lake provided wonderful rainbow trout fishing, plus Kamloops, that small land-locked salmon which virtually infests the impoundment. Although the rainbows were beautiful and productive fish, some of the sportsmen came up with the idea of stocking it with Kamloops from British Columbia. This was done around 1941.

The Kamloops is an outside rainbow itself, but it had gained this enormous size in its own waters in British Columbia. At first it was not known whether they would even reproduce in the waters of the Idaho lake. But they did. And with the millions of Kamloops for food fish they began to take on size.

By 1945 one was caught that weighed 32 pounds eight ounces. This was a new world's record. The next year, the largest fish caught was a 31-8. But in 1947, an angler took out a 37 pounder on rod and reel, a record which still stands. Top fish in 1969 weighed 31-7.

These fish, as well as the Kokanee, usually are taken by trolling in big waters, although many are taken on rod and reel. The Kokanee, which produces something like our sand bass, and usually weighs about the same, are taken on trolling rigs behind big boats. The creel limit on them is 50 per day for sports fishermen. Commercial fishermen can take 200 a day for the first five months of the year.

Those fishing boats usually are equipped with two motors... a large one for getting there fast, a small one from trolling. Rods are carried on the back of the boats in outriggers.

Most of the boats also are equipped with "fish finding" devices. Schools are located and their depth determined with this electronic gear. Then, with 20 pound test line on salt-water equipment they troll through the schools and it is no trick for them to catch the limit in an hour or so once they locate the school.

Like the Texas coast there also are party boats, where tourist fishermen can have all the fun they want pulling in these little salmon, with the everlasting hope they may get one of those big Kamloops. Non-residents pay $5 for a 7-day license. Full information is available from the Chamber of Commerce at Sand Point, Idaho.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Fat Bus

Harvey never knew what hit him until they told him about it afterward in the hospital. He had been standing on a sidewalk near the curb, gazing to the north, when a bus approaching from the south moved in for a stop. The front corner of the bus, which overhung the curb, struck him a glancing blow on the forehead.

Under these circumstances, was Harvey entitled to collect damages from the bus company? In a court test, the company said no. The driver had a right, argued the company, to drive as close to the curb as his wheels would allow.

But Harvey won a substantial judgment. The court said the driver should have realized that, since a bus is faster than its wheels, it can extend over the curb and smite an unsuspecting pedestrian standing on the sidewalk.

In the eyes of the law, a sidewalk is a safety zone in which the pedestrian reigns supreme. As the court put it:

"A pedestrian is entitled to assume there is no danger from traffic as long as he remains on the sidewalk." "Would it matter if the pedestrian had actually seen the bus coming toward him? That should make a difference, claimed the bus company in another injury case, because it would have been so easy for him to take one step backward—to be safe. But again the court ruled in the pedestrian's favor. The court said he simply had no reason to expect that the bus would intrude where it had no business intruding. Still, there is always the possibility that at the very moment of impact, the pedestrian may have been leaning over the curb into the street."

One woman was struck by a bus while she was standing on the sidewalk between a fire hydrant and an electric light pole. Yet, even though both the hydrant and the pole were at the very edge of the curb, neither of these objects was even scratched. Applying common sense, the court concluded that the woman herself must have been at fault. The judge said that, at least for a brief instant and a brief distance, she must have leaned out of her safety zone on the sidewalk, into the danger zone on the street.

Sound Trucks: Bane or Blessing?

To one bystander, a blaring sound truck is a form of noise pollution, fouling the public air. But to another, the same truck is a healthful exercise in the right of free speech.

Which view is correct? With increasing frequency, our courts are being called upon to decide.

They begin with the proposition that freedom of speech is not an absolute, unlimited right. In one case, a city ordinance forbade sound trucks from making "loud and raucous noises." A local union, embroiled in a labor dispute, challenged the ordinance as an unconstitutional interference with free speech.

At your service: Enough electricity for today... and tomorrow.

Planning and building ahead to provide our customers with enough reliable electric power to meet all their needs is the challenging responsibility being met by Texas Electric Service Company. It's what we mean by being "at your service."

To be sure plenty of electricity always will be on hand at the flip of a switch, we will nearly double our generating capability within the next five years. Additional strength and dependability throughout our system comes from our high-voltage transmission interconnections with other power sources. We must continue to plan and build ahead because we serve a growing area of the nation, and because our customers continue to use more electricity. For example, 25 years ago the average residential customer served by Texas Electric used around 1,000 kilowatt-hours a year. Today, the average residential customer is using about 8,500 kilowatt-hours a year. During this same period, the average selling price per kilowatt-hour has decreased about 43 percent, in spite of continuing inflation.

To us, "at your service" is not only a responsibility and a challenge. It's our commitment to you, our customers.
