Judge Caton Mulls Jurisdiction Case

Judge Ralph Caton, 118th District Court, delayed ruling Friday afternoon on a plea of jurisdiction relative to the Gay Hill-Center Point annexation appeal.

The judge said he would take the matter under advisement. He set no date when he would rule but it was believed that a decision would probably be handed down sometime this week.

The jurisdiction plea hearing, initiated by the Howard County School Board, was an all-day business. It opened at 10 a.m. Friday and was not terminated until around 6 p.m.

The county board had assailed the validity of an appeal in the 118th District Court on the grounds that the annexed school districts had already filed an appeal with the Texas Commissioner of Education before the district court appeal was filed here.

The hearing was marked by prolonged legal tiling by attorneys for both sides. Burden of the annexed districts' defense was in the hands of Bill Kerr, Midland, Both Gil Jones, Big Spring, and J. C. Hinsley, Austin, representing the county board, took part in debates which were precipitated by nearly ever development of the hearing.

Other attorneys for the annexed districts were Harvey Hooser Jr., Hartman Hooser, and Newton Steele.

LAW POINTS

Most of the day was consumed in citation of law and recital of other similar lawsuits already heard by the appeals courts.

Walker Bailey, county superintendent, was one of three witnesses called during the day. Bailey identified three resolutions adopted by a 3-2 vote of the county board through which Center Point and Gay Hill districts were annexed to the Big Spring Independent District. He said the resolutions were adopted in this order—annexation of Center Point; annexation of Gay Hill and a third resolution defining the new boundaries of the Big Spring district.

He also identified a copy of a notice of appeal filed by the annexed districts with the Texas Education Commissioner and said this document was handed him at 11:15 a.m. on May 9. He was shown copies of letters from Texas Education Agency which Jones said related to the motion of appeal on file in that office. Introduction of these letters brought on a strenuous legal battle between the attorneys which terminated when Judge Caton declined to permit the letters to be entered.

ARCHER TESTIFIES
George Archer, principal of the Gay Hill District, was called. He told of making an airplane trip to Austin on May 9 and of handing a copy of the notice of appeal to H. W. Edgar, commissioner of education around 10 a.m. on that date.

Joan Watkins, deputy district court clerk, identified copies of an appeal petition filed by the annexed school districts in the 118th District Court. She said they bore a filing stamp showing they were received at 3:40 p.m., May 9.

When Bailey was on the stand, Kerr managed to get into the record a fairly complete account of all of the steps which the county board followed in its May 4 annexation proceedings. This was achieved in the face of repeated objections from Jones and Hinsley who contended the facts being aired were a part of the appeal proper and had no bearings on the plea of jurisdiction.

HOPES OF PLEA
The county board, by its plea of jurisdiction, hopes to send the consideration of the county board to the Texas Education Commissioner for review rather than keep it in the 118th District Court.

The board argues that the annexed districts elected to make their appeal to the commissioner prior to the time their appeal was filed in the district court, and that such election binds them to that course.

Jones and Hinsley cited numerous similar cases where the courts have held an appeal has to be made in this manner. If the commissioner should uphold action of the county board, the next step would be before the Texas Education Agency. An appeal from that point would be to the district court in Travis County. Beyond that, it would make its way to the Civil Court of Appeals.

Shivers Hints Political Fight

KERRVILLE (AP)—Former Gov. Allan Shivers, who has disclaimed further political ambitions, left Democrats here wondering if he might yet change his mind.

Some thought Shivers cautiously left the door ajar Thursday night when an interviewer asked if he might consider running for U. S. senator.

The former governor, who completed his last term in office in 1956, was here to address the Kerrville Chamber of Commerce.

A reporter inquired whether Shivers would think of being a candidate should Sen. Lyndon Johnson win the Democratic nomination for president and be elected in November—thus leaving a Senate vacancy.

"I have no political aspirations at this time," Shivers replied, and after a pause, he repeated "at this time."

The next question was whether Shivers could be drafted as a candidate.

"I don't think any man ever is drafted to run for public office," he said. "All of the drafts are cleverly engineered by the candidates themselves, and in any case, such a candidate has already made up his mind to run—doesn't need to be pushed."

Did this mean Shivers could be "pushed" into making the race, he was asked. He smiled broadly and replied: "I've been pushed before."

Two Incentive Awards Made

Clyde Cantrell and Leonard E. Burks, both Big Spring residents, have earned incentive awards from the Webb Management Improvement board.

For suggesting a new method of adjusting clutch pedals on crash trucks, Cantrell received $15, his sixth award in a short period. Fire trucks are his specialty. He is assigned to the transportation squadron as an automotive equipment repairman.

Burks, who was earning his first incentive award, has paid $10 when authorities adopted his idea for installing a manifold vacuum to break the starter contact on tractors. Also with the transportation Squadron, he works in the motorized vehicle maintenance section. He served in the Army, 1953-55, before coming to Webb.

Goods Recovered

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Detectives have recovered five crates containing some of the $30,000 in valuables taken from the home of singer Eartha Kitt.

Development Has Private Swim Club

Coronado Hills will feature a swim club for the private use of the residents of the area and their guests. Conveniently located in the center of the development, the club is to utilize the pool acquired from the Big Spring Country Club. It will feature a club house of modern architectural design and a decorator designed interior as well as beautiful landscaping with a parklike atmosphere.

Leonard F. Crockett, architect of Odessa and a partner in the development, designed the club. Mr. Crockett stated that the primary function of the club is to provide the residents of Coronado Hills facilities for recreation and enjoyment. He further stated that the club was so designed as to fit into the basic idea of the development . . . to provide the people of Big Spring the finest in a custom residential area. He feels the club will serve an important facet in the quiet, unhurried atmosphere that Coronado Hills offers its residents.

The swim club features a club house, a snack bar, and a fenced heated pool. The pool is large enough to accommodate large swimming parties. The club house is so designed as to offer the perfect spot for community meetings and social events. It is to be the property of the residents. Each purchaser of a home site will receive a share of stock in the club. Regulations and management of the club will be directly controlled by Coronado Hills residents. (adv.)

Owners Protected By Restrictions

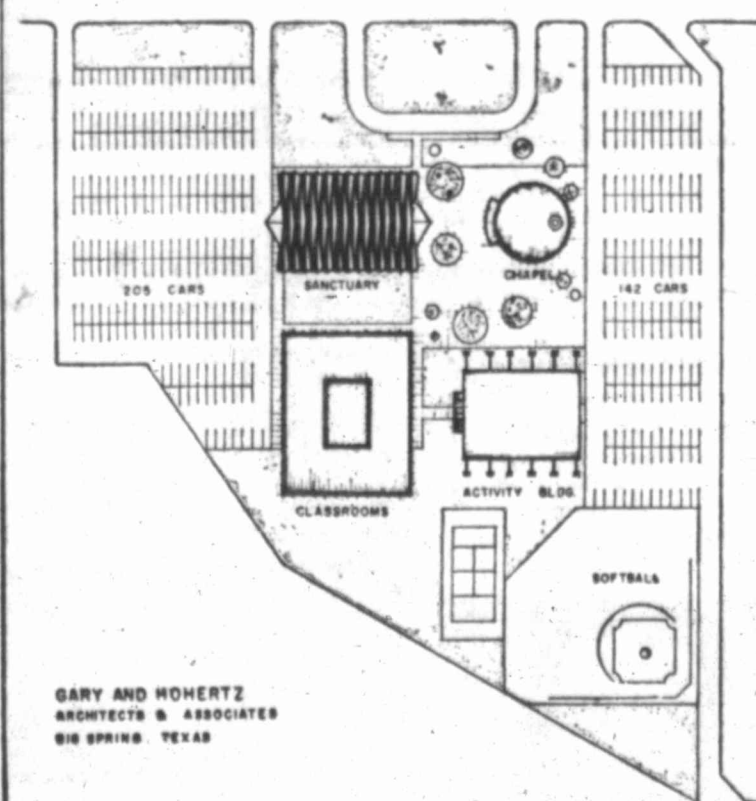

An important facet of any residential area is the protection of the resident's investment. In other words, a person purchasing a home site or home needs some assurance that the other homes in the area will be comparable to his own in size, architectural design, and value. This insures that his own investment will hold its value and probably increase in value as the area develops.

The developers of Coronado Hills have taken special care to insure each resident that his choice of a home site in the area will be a real investment, and one that will grow as Big Spring grows. A special Architectural Control Committee has been set up to determine rules and regulations for the protection of the residents of Coronado Hills. A set of restrictions has been drawn up and each purchaser is presented with a copy before he commits himself to the purchase of a home site.

These restrictions, or restrictive covenants, as in any development, set the size, and in general the type of structure that can be built in Coronado Hills. They also list the types of fences, driveways, etc. that can be built. All limitations are flexible, but strong enough to protect the residents who wish to live in an exclusive area.

Mr. Bob Bourland, sales manager for Gage and Cochran, states that the idea behind the restrictions, particularly the ones limiting the types of structures, is for the complete protection of the purchaser. Two restrictions dealing with a time limit on building a home and keeping of the lots free from trash and debris have been included to make this protection complete. This is to make sure lots do not remain vacant for years and until their unsightly appearance is a burden on the residents.

Mr. Bourland further states that it is the intention of the management of Coronado Hills to enforce the restrictions for the complete protection of the purchasers' investment in Big Spring's most beautiful and exciting residential area. (adv.)

1st Baptist Church Purchases Tract

The First Baptist Church of Big Spring has purchased 8.2 acres out of the Coronado Hills addition as a potential home for the church.

The acreage faces on Marcy Drive and extends eastward from Westover Drive for approximately three blocks.

This is a long range development aimed at placing the 75-year-old institution near the population center of the city and where there will be ample ground for parking and expansion.

A building committee has been appointed by the church, and an architectural firm has been consulting with the committee. Together, they will make recommendations to the church as to the type and scope of a modern church plant. The committee, in earlier meetings, indicated that planning would include provision for expansion to accommodate a congregation at least twice the size as the one today.

First Baptist members voted to enter into contract with Gage & Cochran, Inc. for the site as the first step toward a master plan that will provide for the uninhibited growth of the congregation. (Adv.)

City's Most Distinctive Home Area

Coronado Hills is Big Spring's most unusual residential area. It is designed to accommodate people desiring a custom home site for homes of single or split levels. It features a private drive, curving streets, unusual sizes and shapes of home sites, and a swim club for the exclusive use of the residents. Mr. Fred Gage of Gage and Cochran Real Estate of Odessa, management firm for the development, has this to say about Coronado Hills: The success or failure of Coronado Hills will depend on the long range effect it has on the residents within its boundaries and on the city as a whole. Big Spring is a dynamic, growing city . . . full of promise for the future. The primary concern of the developers of Coronado Hills is to see that the area will increase in prestige and value and take its rightful place as the center of the social and cultural world of Big Spring. We intend to do everything in our power to make this an area that will be an asset to the city. We feel confident that Coronado Hills fills a need for an exclusive residential area in Big Spring and that the people will welcome this new addition into the life and future of the city.

The developers of Coronado Hills, lead by Gage and Cochran, are a group of men experienced in the business of land development. Gage and Cochran Real Estate of Odessa are managers of the development. The firm was first organized in 1945. Since that time the name of Gage and Cochran has been synonymous with the growth of Odessa through the development of well planned, quality residential developments. Since 1945 the company has been responsible for a major portion of the new residential areas of Odessa. In the order of their development they have built: Kelly Addition, Normandy, Normandy Heights, Park Place, Park Place Annex, Ridgecrest Addition, and six segments in Sherwood.

In addition Gage and Cochran are responsible for the million-plus dollar Sherwood Village Shopping Center which contains fourteen stores and shops. At the present time they are developing Lawndale, a new residential area to be comprised of 2,500 home sites on the northern outskirts of Odessa. In this same northern area they have a suburban development, Gardendale, that consists of ten sections of land for individuals seeking a home in the true tradition of country living. Gage and Cochran's reputation and foresight for developing land that becomes an asset to the community is evident in Coronado Hills.

Ray Parker, Odessa, is another of the men behind Coronado Hills. Mr. Parker is president of Parker and Parker, Inc., one of the largest dirt moving and paving contractors in Texas. His various business interests include oil, construction, major highway construction, and banking. His firm is responsible for the paving and development improvements for Coronado Hills.

Mr. James Doss, another partner, is active all over Texas. For the past six years he has been devoting a great deal of his time to the building business. He has developed land and built homes in Beeville, Del Rio, Hurst, Arlington, Odessa and El Paso. At the present he is in the Austin and Dallas areas. His firm has been entirely or at least partly responsible for 3,000 homes in Texas to date.

Prior to his entrance in the building field, he was active in ranching and still maintains some interests in this field. His background includes many years in banking . . . and this financial experience lends itself to his present real estate development endeavors. (Adv.)

This Deed Record Reads Like A Historical Novel

By SAM BLACKBURN
... The Indians have crossed over again into Texas and have already commenced their fiendish atrocities. They killed the stage driver and one passenger Saturday night between Fort Quitman and Eagle Springs. Last week in all they killed eight Mexican soldiers. A few days before I passed through Baso's Canon, they killed a woman (Mrs. Sherman) and two men between Eagle Springs and Van Horn Wells. About two months ago, they killed and mutilated 29 men, women and children, near Corral in the Candelaria Mountains. Their objective point now I am informed is the Guadalupe Mountains—the very place I am going to work. I have gone so far in this business that I cannot now back down with either honor or self respect and must go through with it...

Strange as it may seem, these lines are not from the diary of some early day settler nor from some novel of life in the frontier west.

FROM DEEDS

They are from the Warranty Deed Records of Howard County—Page 482 of Volume 154 on file in the office of Pauline Petty, Howard County Clerk.

RUGGED SCENE OF EARLY DAY TRAGEDY

... Guadalupe Peak where Fate awaited former Civil War General, J. J. Byrne.

As a general rule, Warranty Deed Record books are about the last place one would look for love letters, romance and the shadow of terror. Page after page of the many fat volumes which make up the Warranty Deed Records of this county can be scanned and only dry, tiresome legal jargon be encountered.

Volume 154, however, thanks to two letters, (from one of which the opening quotation above is taken) is the exception.

It contains two letters written on Aug. 4, 1880 in Ysleta which offer all of the elements of human drama.

The letters were written by J. J. Byrne, who at that time was working for the Texas & Pacific Railroad, local railroad owned lands in the undeveloped west. This was two years before Howard County was organized and four years before the last Indian depredation was recorded in Texas.

WRITTEN TO WIFE
Byrne, erstwhile major general in the Union Army during the Civil War, more recently a U. S. Marshal in East Texas, was writing to his wife, Lilly Loving Byrne who was in Fort Worth. Byrne had a premonition that his span of life was nearing its end. The two letters, stripped of their other features, were the ex-soldier's last will and testament.

Byrne was going into the Guadalupe Mountains to pursue his assignment of locating railroad lands. Apaches from Old Mexico had swept across the border and were, as he records in his letter, ravaging the area. They were concentrating, he was told, in the Guadalupe Mountains.

So he sat that day in the rugged little frontier community with its ancient mission, and wrote these two long letters—love letters in essence and his will in final court analysis—to his young wife. He felt that fate was closing in—that somewhere in those rugged peaks death waited for him.

KILLED
He was right.

Nine days later, Byrne was dead. Some books show that he was killed by Geronimo, renegade Apache chief. The facts indicate it more likely he died at the hands of Vittorio or one of his desperate band of cutthroats. There is no record of Geronimo being in the area in 1880; there are plenty of bloody pages in frontier history to establish Vittorio's presence.

Byrne's body was found and eventually shipped back to Fort Worth. It is buried in a cemetery there just as he asks in his pathetic last letters to his beloved Lilly.

Why are these letters in the Warranty Deed Records of Howard County? Well, it seems that in 1950, some of the holdings which Byrne bequeathed to his wife were for sale. The sale required the formal establishment of title. Litigation developed and attorneys made rather elaborate stipulations. Upshot of these was the demand that the full record of how General Byrne's last will had been established and the action of the probate court be filed in the Howard County court.

NOT IN HOWARD
It is not clear in his letters if any of the extensive land holdings he had were actually in Howard County. Some were relatively near here, however.

The first letter reads, in part: "My darling, my beloved wife, I have just completed a postscript to my letter of last night to you, and you may imagine from the cramped and irregular formation of the lines, and incoherence of ideas, that I have been dissipating. I have not, my Darling. But if I ever human nerves were strung to the greatest tension by emotions, too sad for words to tell, mine are at this moment."

Byrne then explains that he endeavored in his earlier letter to conceal the fear and anxiety which gnawed at his soul. He is fearful that his feelings will be revealed and that they will cause his wife distress.

"I will leave here tonight with my party," he continues. "If accident should befall me this will be my last goodbye to all I love upon this earth. If God's mercy and protecting care should avert the danger by which I am surrounded then you will never see these lines and the remainder of my life will be offered in devotion and praise—to prove my worthiness of your love... But if it is my fate to die without again meeting you on earth, my spirit will be with you as you read these lines and will remain and abide with you forever if such privilege is granted to our immortal souls."

ATROCITIES
He then writes of the atrocities the Indians have committed in the immediate area and that he is too deeply committed to back down from his plan to go into the treacherous Guadalupe Mountains.

What follows is a meticulous listing of all of his holdings and of all phases of his estate. In all he owned nearly 20,000 acres of West Texas land. Certain moneys were due him. He finally estimated his estate at $25,000 "a sum sufficient to meet all your expenses."

The second letter is an out-right love letter. It reads as though it was postscript to the first.

"My own, my beloved, my darling wife: Sweet companion of my happiest hours on earth; my hope of everlasting joy in the great hereafter, these last few parting words; the offering of a love that's more than earthly. I know will be sacred with you. They may be the last on earth, but if the spirits of the dead can hover around and protect the loved ones left behind, mine will be always with you and will forever be breathing thoughts like these in your ear."

NO CONDITIONS
"If aught befalls me, darling, and when your grief has been assuaged by Christian resignation to the inevitable, I want you to calmly consider my last bequest. Never having imposed conditions in life I will not do so now. I do not expect you to devote your days to grieving after me. Your years, temperament and perfections of head and heart will crave a kindred companionship, and if you determine to form another earthly tie, I only ask and, dying, pray that you will counsel your best judgment, to enable you to make a choice in all things worthy of you."

"I did not believe I could ever bring my heart to dictate the words I have written to you. If I had left you children I could not. But as it is, if it should so please you from the spirit land I'll pray and invoke God's choicest blessings on your union. But in death as when living I will claim your spirit as mine—as mine was, and is and always will be yours."

Byrne goes on to express regret that he cannot be buried beside the body of a child (who died earlier) and asks that his wife spend a "modest sum" for a simple stone to mark his final resting place.

He enclosed both of these letters in an envelope addressed "to Mrs. Lilly L. Byrne, care of Major Fairfax." On the reverse of the envelope is written "Ysleta, Aug. 4, '80. This letter is to be delivered to Mrs. Byrne in the event of my death. J. J. Byrne."

LETTERS DELIVERED
Apparently Major Fairfax delivered the letters.

And Mrs. Byrne, assuming that she was the only surviving heir to the property, made no effort to probate the will or otherwise establish her title. As time passed she sold some of the land to Joseph Brown and M. Harold.

About this time a claimant to the estate of Maj. General Byrne appeared—a minor who said her name was Mary F. Byrne and that she was the daughter of the slain man by a former marriage. This was in April 1886. She filed a claim in Tarrant County court to get her share of the estate.

In the meantime, Mrs. Byrne had remarried. Her name became Mrs. Max (Lilly) Esler.

On Sept. 10, 1887, a hearing was held in Tarrant County and A. M. Carter and F. W. Bell, deposed they knew Byrne well in his lifetime and that the "letters presented were in his handwriting."

COPIES FILED
In May 1890, pursuant to the litigation over the sale of the lands in this area, Mel Paulk, clerk of the Tarrant County court certified that no appeal was ever perfected in Mary Byrne's case. The copies of the letters and the record of the probate hearing of 1886 were ordered filed in full form in the Howard County clerk's office.

This was done by Lee Porter, then Howard County clerk.

Since that date, no addition has been made to the record. It stands alone in Vol. 154, Warranty Deed Records, a fleeting, fascinating vignette of another era in the history of West Texas.

Convention Due
AUSTIN (AP)—Candidates for all state offices except governor will be named by the Constitution Party in a convention opening here Sunday.

Final Campaign Week For Runoffs

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Staff Writer

Runoff candidates in the second Democratic primary next Saturday began their final campaign week trying to arouse interest of both election officials and voters.

Gov. Price Daniel made a special appeal in an effort to help. One statewide and 41 district contests for Democratic nomination will be settled June 4. The winners will face Republican opposition, if any, in the November general election.

The Texas Election Bureau estimates next Saturday's balloting will produce between 600,000 and 700,000 voters, compared to the 1½ million voting in the first primary May 7.

One candidate who took a post-card poll said he found 25 to 30 counties where officials indicated they may not hold a runoff election.

State election laws require each county to hold runoff primaries but in past years it has not been unusual for several counties to ignore the statute without any following penalty.

"I hope the people of Texas will turn out in good numbers for the second primary and elect representatives that will really represent them and not leave it up to a minority of any type," Daniel said.

"I think the runoff races for senators and representatives will be very important in the makeup of the 1961 Legislature."

The one statewide race pits Judge Lloyd Davidson, candidate for re-election to the Court of Criminal Appeals, against Bryan District Judge W. T. McDonald.

There is one race for the state Senate — Sen. Henry Gonzalez against state Rep. R. L. Strickland in San Antonio.

Runoffs were certified for 35 state representative races. In the 27th District Mrs. Johnnie Ballard of Neches withdrew, leaving the nomination to Rayford Price of Frankston.

Gromyko Hits America As Peace Enemy

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko Saturday called the United States an enemy of peace and said it was planning an aggressive war against the Soviet Union. He said President Eisenhower's administration could not be trusted in international negotiations.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge declared Gromyko's charges were part of a worldwide propaganda campaign, and that the United States—far from planning aggression—was simply trying to guard against surprise attack by the Kremlin.

The two diplomats exchanged final blasts at news conferences in the wake of the week-long Security Council debate over the U2 spy plane incident.

Gromyko appeared virtually to slam the door against any top level negotiations with the United States while Eisenhower remains in office.

But Lodge said he did not believe politics entered into the picture, and that no matter who occupies the White House the Soviet Union would run up against basic U.S. foreign policy.

WARNING OUT

In a bristling mood, Gromyko lashed out at both Eisenhower personally and U.S. Allies. He warned that blows would be struck at any country participating in or providing supply bases for intelligence flights over Soviet territory.

The Soviet Union and its armed forces have one reply for those who like to reach into our house for such information," he said. "The reply is simple—cut off such hands."

He gave pointed warning to Japan that use of its territory for spy flights over Red China might invoke the mutual defense treaty between Moscow and Peiping.

Gromyko's words reflected deep bitterness over failure of the Security Council to condemn the United States for aerial spy flights over the Soviet Union.

"All that transpired during the consideration of the question raised by the Security Council—the statements of the United States representative as well as the speech made by President Eisenhower on May 25—confirms the fact that the United States government is an enemy of peace," he said.

SEEK CONDEMNATION

He said the Soviet Union would seek condemnation of the United States in the U.N. General Assembly, but declined to say whether it would be in a special session or the regular fall meeting.

Asked if the Soviet Union would enter into top level talks with the United States while Eisenhower is in office, Gromyko replied: "We assert that a government which engaged in a policy of breach of faith toward the Soviet Union cannot be regarded as a reliable party in negotiations."

He recalled Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's statement that a new summit meeting might be held in six to eight months from now if conditions improved. That would be after the U.S. elections in November.

Gromyko also said that the dispatch of 120 planes by the United States to Southeast Asia for training exercise would only heighten tension in the Far East.

Lodge said that the decision to put the aggressor label on the United States was in line with the Soviet custom of adopting slogans, "somewhat with the Madison Avenue technique."

He said that Soviet charges that the United States collected military information for warlike purposes is "a reverse of the truth."

"It is the country that will never attack that would like to know when the attack is coming," he added. "It is the country that is capable of surprise attack that is indifferent to the preparations of the other person."

In reply to a question, Lodge said: "I do not think there is a single responsible Russian official who has the slightest fear that the United States is going to attack the Soviet Union."

As to Gromyko's criticism of the U.S. action in dispatching planes to the Far East on a training mission, Lodge snapped: "He hasn't got the slightest idea of why we sent our planes out there."

Mystery Object Probably A Hulk

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—The Navy denied Saturday it was searching for a foreign submarine and said the object found on the ocean floor near this base probably was a sunken freighter.

"The object is not a submarine," said Capt. Sam Loomis, Key West naval base chief of staff.

"However, we are continuing the investigation and will continue until we find out what it is in the interest of the study of underwater phenomena."

The search was in 430 feet of water 25 miles southeast of Key West and 10 miles southeast of the American Shoals light.

The object was located by sonar equipment and Rear Adm. Lloyd Mustin, commanding the Key West naval base, recalled that the 5,000-ton freighter Lake City sank three miles northwest of the spot shortly after World War II.

The Lake City cannot be located with sonar equipment now, Mustin said, and it is assumed the wreck was moved by ocean currents.

Contact with the object was made Tuesday by the sensitive detection apparatus on a minesweeper. The submarine rescue vessel Penguin and two minesweepers were detailed to investigate.

Mustin said the sonar equipment, which bounces sound impulses off any solid object, showed the approximate location of the target but only investigation by divers could reveal what it was.

Divers can work at that depth only 10 minutes and it requires two hours to bring them to the surface slowly enough to guard against the bends, the painful and sometimes fatal result of quick release from pressure.

Loomis' statement indicated divers will remain at the scene over the weekend.

A Miami television station said Friday night that Navy craft were seeking a foreign submarine in the area.

However, Loomis told a Miami

radio station — WCKR—that lack of movement indicated the object, instead of being a submarine, might be a sunken wreck or coral pinnacle. Loomis later told The Associated Press it was not a submarine.

Four Variances Approved By Zoning Board

All four requests presented to the zoning board of adjustment at its meeting last week were granted, including a request for commercial parking space in a "B" residential zone.

Bob Spears, manager of Piggy-Wiggly store at 11th and Maple, was given an okay to use two lots behind the store for parking lots.

Restriction on the residential zoning in the area prohibits such parking.

The board ruled that since rezoning of the property is pending under the Master Plan and because parking facilities at the store are "grossly inadequate," the case should be considered as hardship and granted.

Spears gave the board understanding that a fence would be erected between the parking area and the residential properties.

The board also granted Spears' request for a variance of the front yard set back of 15 feet to allow parking to extend to the front property line on Wood St.

Mrs. Annie Lea Sanders, 905 Nolan, requested variance to the side yard set back requirements of five feet in the "C" apartment district zoning. She will build an addition to a garage.

B. E. Winterrowd, 805 Runnels, asked a variance of the side yard set back requirements in a "B" residential zone of five feet for construction of a carport.

However, Loomis told a Miami

Before Committee

Chairman William Fulbright (D-Ark), right, talks with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter at the witness table in Washington, D. C., at a Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearing into events leading up to the summit conference breakdown.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) said Saturday he still is trying to find out what information was of such importance as to "justify the risk of the U2 flight only two weeks before the summit."

If this information is classified secret, Gore said, he would "abide by all security requirements."

Gore sits on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which Friday heard Secretary of State Christian A. Herter's explanation of the handling of the spy plane failure.

"Perhaps the first thing the United States should ask itself is how it came about that a summit conference was being held without precise planning and without some assurance that a minimum agreement could be reached by the heads of state," Gore said.

Of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's performance at the summit, Gore said "only time will tell whether this is a temporary tactic or an intensification of the cold war Communist strategy of force."

The family is living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. McCluskey, 1907 Nolan. They have one other child and Mrs. Becker is expecting a third.

Pressed for funds, the Beckers have faced many problems in seeing that the youngster receives proper care.

"If it is the latter, then we must guard ourselves for a Berlin crisis in due course and for crises in other areas where a recession of United States or Western Power invites Communist muscle," he added.

"One heartening concept is apparent—unity to persist in businesslike negotiations with the Soviets."

As the committee took a week-end recess in the investigation, both Republican and Democratic members said they doubted the U2 incident would be a major campaign issue this year, or even bring out many facts not already known.

"It's pretty risky business from which to try to make political hay," Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) said.

Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) agreed with Aiken that there is likely to be no partisan advantages.

Fulbright said Allen W. Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, will testify Tuesday when the closed-door sessions resume.

The record of American deaths in the battle for Bataan was preserved by the devotion of a chaplain. The original register of the fallen was hidden in the massive walls of Corregidor fortress. At war's end, they had disappeared. But a chaplain made a duplicate register and kept it hidden on his person throughout more than three years in a prison camp.

More than 15 years after the last World War II combat in North Africa, two men recently were lost for a week in the Libyan Desert. They were Army specialists seeking the remains of four crewmen of an American bomber that crashed landed in 1943. The two specialists, who vanished in a blinding sandstorm, were finally rescued by a helicopter.

On the other side of the world, many years after the war had passed over New Guinea, another Army team made its way to a remote jungle valley to match names with remains of another plane crew.

Of such deeds of danger and detection is compiled the story of the Graves Registration Service that have given rightful names to 97 per cent of the 281,982 recovered remains of the 360,819 Americans who died in overseas combat areas during the Second World War.

BETTER RECORD The World War II identification record bettered that of the 1917-1918 conflict by one half of one per cent. This was an achievement considering the radically different nature of the two wars.

One was mostly fought in a relatively small area of civilized land, the latter over oceans, massive mountains and steaming jungles.

Despite the near disaster and bitter retreats of its early phases, the Korean War produced the smallest proportion of unknown dead, 2.9 per cent. But it also left a major task for graves registration teams whenever in the future North Korea is opened for a dedicated search for the unrecovered remains of 8,184 American dead.

Though nations from the times of ancient Greece honored their warrior dead with state funerals, it was not until the American Civil War that any government formally assumed the obligation to identify and bury in registered graves all who lost their lives in a war.

POOR RECORD American battle deaths in the 1848-49 war with Mexico totaled 1,783 but only one-tenth were ever identified. Some 750 of these dead were given temporary burial on the road between the Gulf Coast and Mexico City. When their bones were exhumed for permanent interment at the foot of a monument in the Mexican capital, the official U. S. Army record stated that "not a single remains could be identified."

The Union established a national cemetery system before the end of the Civil War, but there was no formal requirement to meet the desires of next of kin as to where the dead would be buried.

In Civil War, 42 per cent of the Union dead were buried as "unknowns." This was the first, amateurish attempts to examine teeth and dentistry as a means of identification.

The Spanish-American War recorded a further drop in the number of unknowns. Of the 385 battle deaths and 2,061 fatalities from other causes, only 13.6 per cent were unidentified.

This second of the nation's foreign wars also established the policy of burying military dead at government expense in the place of the family's choosing.

Army experience in the Philippine insurrection produced major aids to identification. Quartermaster Corps officers succeeded by 1913 in requiring graves registered and marked as soon as militarily possible after an action, and the preservation of all significant information in a sealed bottle to be buried with the casualty.

An Army chaplain in the Philippine insurrection recommended the greatest boon to identification, the metal disc. Wearing of the tag became mandatory shortly after the United States entered World War I.

The chaplain also insisted upon assigning to a central agency the task of receiving, correlating and preserving records of death. The Quartermaster Corps became this agency for the Army.

War Dead Hunters Give Names To Many Nameless

After the war in China, rumors filtered through that a reputedly savage tribe of Lolo aborigines in the western mountains was holding American soldiers as slaves. Army investigators penetrated the remote area and made friends with the Lolos. They found no slaves but did pick up clues that led to the recovery and identification of the bodies of several victims of an American plane crash.

Near the end of the war in Europe, AP photographer William C. Allen made a picture of a roomful of Americans in a newly liberated prison camp. An American mother imagined she recognized her son in the picture, even though the boy was listed killed in action. The Army spent two years tracking down and identifying all men in the photograph, including the imagined son. He was somebody else.

Ronnie Hamby Gets Assignment

Family tradition, an urge to travel, and anticipation of adventure were the deciding factors for Ronnie Hamby, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Hamby, OK Trailer Park, Big Spring. Fireman Apprentice Hamby is now home on his recruit leave, and received orders for duty aboard the Aircraft Carrier Hornet, which is based at Long Beach, Calif. Ronnie entered the Navy through the local Recruiting Station on March 5, following in the footsteps of his father, who served in the Navy during World War II.

New 'Town' For Howard County?

A general view of some of the residential development in Sand Springs. A petition is on file for an election on whether the community shall become an incorporated town.

Sand Springs Community Rapidly Gains Residents

By SAM BLACKBURN

Probably no community in Howard County can boast a more rapid growth than Sand Springs in the past decade.

Today, the community, which sprawls along the north and south sides of U. S. 80 for approximately three miles, has at least 70 residences. Estimates on the population vary. Some of the more enthusiastic boosters for the pleasant little settlement claim there are 700 or more men, women and children in the general area regarded as the "town." Other more conservative observers set the population at 450 to perhaps 500.

Cap-Rock Electric Service supplies the area with electricity. There are 70 meters in service.

J. C. Collins, who runs one of the three stores in the community, says that everyone has electric service. He believes that 70 is a fair estimate on the number of houses.

WATER, PHONES

Sand Springs residents get their water from Coshoma. Coshoma in turn buys its water from Big Spring. Natural gas is provided by Pioneer Natural Gas Co., and the phones are a part of the Coshoma system.

Geographically Sand Springs is six miles east of Big Spring. Its residents are employed by Coshoma, Cabot, Reef Field's, Webb Air Force Base and in business establishments in Big Spring. Its eastern boundary, as established by accepted limits on the community, is about three miles from Coshoma.

Children in Sand Springs attend school at Midway and Coshoma. Midway school is a short distance southwest from the community. School buses operated by the Coshoma district provide transportation.

There are two active churches in Sand Springs. One is the Church of Christ and the other the Sand Springs Baptist Church. There are two garages, a cafe, a welding shop, and three grocery stores.

LAND VARIES

Land in the immediate vicinity brings a good price when sold. Some has sold for as much as $1,500 an acre. The homes in the community range widely in size and design.

"We have some houses which probably didn't cost over $1,500," said Collins Saturday. "And we have others which cost $15,000 or more."

Sand Springs is divided by U. S. 80. The highway at that point travels on a high embankment. Two points to leave the highway are available. The eastern point to enter Sand Springs is the Salem Road intersection. The western entry is at Moss Creek Lake Road.

Sand Springs has an active Boy Scout Troop which has its own building. This is Troop 136, sponsored by Coshoma Petroleum Corp. Considerable real estate development has been pushed in the area in recent years. At present Rocco Inc., Harold Heaton and other developers are selling lots and building houses in Sand Springs.

MERRICK LAND

Sand Springs is largely located on land which originally formed the holdings of J. R. Merrick. It incorporates portions of at least three sections running east and west along U. S. 80.

Merrick was probably the first "settler." In the early 30's he began to sell tracts. W. H. Gillett established the first business in the community. He opened a Gulf service station and grocery store around 1935.

As time passed, more and more families bought building sites and set up homes. H. C. Hooser Sr., was one of the earlier residents of the community.

Sand Springs gets its name from a small spring which seeps out of a ravine which cuts through the area. This spring is a persistent yield of water. When the seasons are wet, it thrives; when droughts hit, its water diminishes.

Demo Hotel Plan Called Childish

HOUSTON (AP)—The chairman of the Harris County Democratic Executive Committee charged the state committee Saturday with what he called "childish and arbitrary" actions in handling hotel reservations for the party's June 14 convention at Austin.

Woodrow Seals, who heads a liberal-delegation that booted the May 14 Harris County convention, quoted Clyde Johnson of the state committee as saying no rooms would be available to any group that held a rump county convention.

Law Disrespect Gets Daniel Ire

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Price Daniel told a group of lawyers Saturday that one of the state's greatest challenges is "a growing disrespect for the law itself."

Daniel spoke to the first meeting of the new State Bar of Texas Advisory Council made up of local and district bar leaders. He urged the attorneys to participate actively in public affairs.

U.S. Lost Little Through Banning Of U-2 Flights

President Eisenhower's announcement in Paris that U-2 flights over the U.S.S.R. has been cancelled meant little in reality—the numerous flights of such aircraft since 1956 had provided the United States with a complete photographic map of all of the U.S.S.R. territory with exception of a few remote areas.

Prior to the time when these photographic maps were provided, the United States had only old Russian road maps, many years out of date. Had a bomber set out for a target and had to depend on these faulty maps, he would never have found it. Lieut. Glenn Boggs, Webb Air Force Base, told the Big Spring Kiwanis Club Thursday, that these and other matters relating to the spectacular spy episode which shattered the Summit Meeting were from releases supplied the Air Force. They are comments by high officials in government and in the Air Force and represent the final information available on the subject. He also said that the U. S. is ably provided with defense weapons and mechanism to forestall an attack; that there is an ample supply of nuclear weapons stockpiled. He said that starting of an "accidental war" seems remote and is not regarded as a major threat by those charged with the defense of the nation. He did add that the cold war will go on for an indefinite time.

He was presented to the Kiwanis Club by Capt. Alan Robertson, public information officer for Webb Air Force Base. In a question and answer period which followed his address, Lt. Boggs and Capt. Robertson shared time.

DEAR ABBY

PLENTY OF BOOKS

By Abigail Von Buren

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I am stupid but this question has to be answered and I am depending on you.

My daughter is 11 and she is maturing rapidly. I developed early, too, so I suppose she is taking after me. I just can't bring myself to tell her the facts of life. I have tried, but I can't seem to find the right words. She is a bright girl and I think it would be easier if she would read it in a book. Are there any books for 11-year-olds on this subject?

DEAR TONGUE-TIED: Ask your local librarian. You will be delighted with the assortment of books written especially for the Junior Miss on this subject.

DEAR ABBY: To make a long story short, I am engaged to a guy who said he lives in Chicago. But I don't know his address. He was in the Navy and we met in Florida when I was on my vacation. I would like to get a hold of him to find out if he still wants to get married. I have some of his clothes he left at my place. Please hurry your answer. I don't have all year.

JEANNIE IN THE POLKA DOT BIKINI

DEAR JEANNIE: I think you can consider yourself "disengaged." A man who seriously intends to marry a girl doesn't have to be tracked down and asked to repeat the proposal.

DEAR ABBY: I doubt if there is a woman in the world who is a worse cook than I am. I am perfectly capable of running a household and I am not lazy. But how I hate to cook!

Do you suppose there is a man somewhere who would marry me and overlook this one fault? I am, very easy to get along with. I love children and animals. I don't mind cigar or pipe smoke and I am not the jealous type.

Every man I talk to about this seems to think that if a woman can't cook, she isn't worth marrying. I'd like some opinions on this. CANT COOK

DEAR CANT: Anyone who can read can cook. What you need is an inspiration. Don't advertise your faults. Find the man first: If you love him, you'll learn. If he loves you, he'll be patient. Few women are fortunate enough to get a man who will not only bring home the bacon but will cook it himself; or hire someone to do it.

Checking Promotional Supplies

Looking over the promotional supplies for the Big Spring Aquatennial are, from left, Miss Edith Gay, Mrs. Morris Sewell, and Mrs. Sam McComb. The Chamber of Commerce employees were unbundling the Better Buys banners which will be put up in more than 50 stores this week. They also selected a Skipper pin, which is the official badge of the Summer Fun Days promotion. The sales program will be held June 2-4.

Final Plans Being Made For Aquatennial Program

Progress on the Big Spring Aquatennial, slated for Thursday through Saturday, was gaining momentum Saturday as more merchants were reported signing up for the promotion. More than 50 are on the list.

Contestants in the Miss Big Spring contest are selling Skipper Pins throughout the city and these pins are fast becoming the official badge of the Aquatennial.

The pins sell for 50 cents and give their wearers special prices at the city swimming pools, the Ritz Theatre and in all the stores of participating merchants.

The pins may be used only during the three-day sale.

Another feature of the celebration is a Square Dance Jamboree, scheduled for Friday at 8 p.m. The dance will be held on Main Street, between 3rd and 4th. Jim King and his Cosden Playboys will supply the music.

Lawn Displays Catch Interest

Interest in the outdoor displays of merchandise, a feature of Aquatennial Summer Fun Days for the past two years, is at the highest in history of the event, according to Bill Quimby, manager of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

Quimby said that 20 business establishments have already reserved space on the court house lawn for the outdoor showing of merchandise slated for June 2, 3, and 4. The displays will be in operation from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. daily. The general public will be invited to visit the court house square and inspect the exhibits.

Fred Gebbert, chairman of the outdoor merchandising feature of the event, met with merchants interested in reserving space and at the termination of the meeting announced the following reservations:

Big Spring Hardware, Cecil Thixton, Davis Feed & Seed, Dewey's Marine Supply, Dibrell's Sporting Goods, Good Housekeeping Furniture, Goodyear, Knox Boat Co., Montgomery Ward, R&H Hardware, Sears Roebuck, Sherwin Williams Paints, Thompson Furniture, Wasco, Wasson-Tranham, Western Auto, White's, Gibson's, KBST and McCrory's.

Most of the entrants have already been assigned their specific space. Others will be assigned Monday.

In addition to the displays on the lawn, motor car dealers of the city plan to display new model automobiles along the curb. Quimby said that the number of applicants for space this year is much larger than last year.

Surgeon Named To Demo Panel

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democratic Advisory Council named Dr. Michael DeBakey, Texas heart surgeon, head of an advisory committee on health policy Saturday.

The committee, the 11th advisory group created by the council, will prepare a health insurance plank for the party's platform.

Dr. DeBakey is chairman of the department of surgery at Baylor Medical School at Houston, and a native of Lake Charles, La.

Figures Show Albuquerque Grows

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—The population of Bernalillo County, New Mexico's most populous area, is listed at 260,318 in a preliminary report by the Census Bureau.

The Albuquerque population is 128,856.

The county total is an increase of 114,000 over the 1950 figure of 146,014.

Albuquerque has more than doubled from the 97,012 persons listed in 1950.

40 Squares Expected For Aquatennial

Square dancers from the Western Square Dance Association will be on hand Friday, June 3, for a big square dance exhibition between 3rd and 4th on Main street.

The attraction will begin at 8 p.m. and is sponsored by the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce in connection with the Aquatennial.

Dusty Randall, who will be master of ceremonies and square dance caller along with Harold Graves, estimated that about 30 or 40 squares will participate.

The music will be furnished by Jim King and his Cosden Cowboys.

Randall said that the square dance association covers the areas west of Abilene, practically all of West Texas.

Farm Trade

AUSTIN (AP)—The possibilities of freer agricultural trade with America's allies as well as Communist-ruled countries should be thoroughly examined, Agriculture Commissioner John White said Saturday.

NOW LOOK WHAT CORVAIR'S GONE AND DONE!

The same Corvair that tallied a thumping 27.03 miles per gallon* in the Mobilgas Economy Run... went right on to climb Pikes Peak earlier in the spring than any car has ever tried!

We wanted to show you what the fabulous traction of Corvair's rear-engine design and the sure-footedness of four-wheel independent suspension really mean. So the identical Economy Run car went right on to 14,110-foot Pikes Peak—and right up to the top of that savage mountain, on April 15, still deep in winter's snow and ice. No other car—even specially equipped—had ever been able to conquer that nightmare alpine road so early in the spring. But Corvair (with United States Auto Club officials aboard to certify that not one nut or bolt was changed) purred right to the summit without chains or even snow tires! That just underscores the fact that Corvair is totally unique. But you'll find that out the first five minutes you're at the wheel!

Texas GOP Meets Monday To Pick Slate

McALLEN (AP) — Texas Republicans meet here Monday to pick state candidates to challenge Democrats in the November general election.

They also plan to announce the largest number of contenders in recent history for congressional and legislative posts.

Republican leaders who feel the GOP has another good chance to carry Texas in the presidential race said the November emphasis once more would be in that area, but that "vigorous" campaigns will be planned Monday for U.S. senator, governor, other high state offices, and many district posts.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) had no opposition in the Democratic primary. The Republicans are watching his presidential nomination drive with special interest this year. They feel their chances of carrying Texas if Johnson is the Democratic nominee are not as good as they would be with some other candidate.

State GOP Chairman Thad Hutchison said Monday's state convention here would officially concern itself very little with presidential politics however. He expected no official repercussions from New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's announcement that he would be available for the nomination in case of a draft. Texas Republicans generally favor Vice President Richard Nixon.

"The June 14 convention is the one designated by law to name Texas' national convention delegates and presidential electors," Hutchison said. "We will have plenty of business on the state and district candidate level to keep us busy Monday."

Election law changes by the last Legislature are expected to draw fire.

These changes, adopted over strong protests from Republicans, require the GOP to hold two state conventions within two weeks. The new law also requires a Republican executive committee session on Sunday preceding Monday's state office nominating convention.

"I feel the Legislature has done the Republicans a series of disservices," Hutchison said.

"At least we were able to decide for ourselves what hour on Sunday we could meet. Therefore we set it at 2 p.m., which will permit the members who wish to go to church."

TRADE WINDS

Teen-Agers To Find Jobs Hard To Get

This week a host of school boys will be job-hunting, and present indications are that some of them will have a long and futile hunt. Jobs are not plentiful, at least not enough so for several hundred boys and girls to find work.

At the Texas Employment Commission, Leon Kinney says job placements have picked up a lot this last week, but there are still not enough for everyone. He thinks the situation will get better before mid-summer, as several projects, such as highway construction, will get under way by then.

The farm labor picture is also bleak. Jack Hatch, who handles the agricultural end at the office, says the only farm laborers needed now are a few irrigators. These are mostly Martin County. Most of the farmers use bracero labor but would prefer to hire native workers.

Hatch says a good general rain would possibly open up some farm jobs. But until it rains, farmers don't have enough to keep them busy, much less hire it done.

NEW ADDITION

The Robb has announced letting of contracts for considerable improvement on Highland South, a quality residential development on the slope of South Mountain.

He said work is to start this week on paving of all streets, for curbs and gutter, and for other utility work, in one segment of the addition. This is an area just to the south of FM 700 and just east of Goliad extension, and, located as it is on the plateau below the brow of South Mountain, offers a striking scenic view.

The Highland South area has been brought into the city limits. It represents several years of extensive planning, and completely integrated development has been perfected by professional planners.

CAR SALES DOWN

Used car sales are down considerably in Texas, according to a recent news release. One reason has been the popularity of the compact, which cut into the sale of good used cars.

Locally the situation seems about the same as elsewhere. Used car dealers report that sales are slow, although they have picked up somewhat in recent weeks.

Jack York, who runs a used car lot on West Fourth, says the real old cars are selling quite well, though some of them stay on the lot several weeks before finding a buyer.

"We try to get cash for these old cars," said York, "but it's almost impossible. The man who buys a $200 automobile seldom has that much in cash. Everybody nowadays, it seems, wants to buy on credit."

EARLY CARS

An interesting item about early-day automobiles was recently handed to us by John W. Cadzow of Big Spring. It was a yellowed page from the Rocky Mountain News for December of 1917.

Among the used car ads there were some red hot bargains. One nearly new Maxwell Electric was listed for $350.00. There was one called a Detroit, which no one seems to remember, and also an Everett car along with the still popular Studebaker. Other leading cars of that age were the Willis-Knight and the Packard.

Still others this writer can remember which long ago went to the automobile graveyards were the Stutz Bearcat, the Franklin, Pierce Arrow, Overland, Reo, Saxon and Whippet—and the most popular of all, Henry Ford's immortal Model T.

BOAT SALES UP

Boat owners are going in for bigger and better models, just as car owners were doing a year or so ago. Dewey Yates, who operates Dewey's Marine Supply on West Highway 80, says large 75-horse power motors are the best sellers. These have automatic chokes and will push a boat along at a 40-mile per hour clip.

Boat styles are changing too. Last year, Yates sold about one aluminum boat for each three of fiber glass, but this season all sales were for fiber glass models.

Out-of-town customers have shopped off somewhat since last year. Yates attributes this to the fact that many boat owners are selling their craft to other users, which cuts down on new boat sales.

NEW OPENINGS

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Rainbolt will open their Wagon Wheel Drive-In at the west intersection of Third and Fourth Street in about two weeks. Originally they had planned to have it ready for the rodeo, but must postpone the opening date a few more days.

The quick loan companies, of which there are at least four in Big Spring, are a bit tired of the adverse publicity seen on TV, particularly where strong arm methods are used for collection.

"It's usually the other way around," contended one manager. "We're the ones that are gyped. If a man just won't pay or can't pay, we take the loss. So far as I know, there has never been a firm in this area that used anything except legitimate means of collection."

BUSINESS DOWN

Business for the quick loan companies is down considerably from a few months ago. When business is slack, people can't get loans. If a man is out of work and has no assurance of getting a job, no one will loan him money.

Most loans are for 90 days, though a few are made for 12 months. Some local companies have a maximum of $100 and a minimum of $10 and make few loans outside of these figures.

People borrow for a variety of reasons—to pay for sickness, income tax, car tags, to take vacations and for buying something they need. Occasionally a fellow goes on a weekend spree and tries to raise the money to pay for it.

Most borrowers are low-income, working people who pay regularly pay day. Nearly all loans are paid back on the installment basis. Men borrow more than women, however a few working girls borrow occasionally.

Collections are the big problem for all loan companies. Letters, telephones and office visits are used. When a person ignores such requests, he is visited by a company man, who tries to get a promise of payment. If he refuses to pay, then there is not much the company can do about it.

INTEREST RATES

And this brings up the problem of interest rates. Not many companies will publish their rates, which are somewhat higher than the banks charge. Yet the losses are much higher also, since the

Passenger Held In Bus Assault

NEW YORK (AP)—"Don't tell me where my bus stop is," said the woman passenger to bus driver Samuel Walpert.

Then, said Walpert, after he explained that 66th Street no longer was a stop: "She came storming down the aisle, took off a shoe and told me she was going to hit me with it. Suddenly she hit me twice with the shoe."

It happened Friday on a bus headed south on Lexington Ave.

The woman passenger, Ruth Anturley, 49, a Negro domestic, was brought before Magistrate Walter J. Bayer. She pleaded innocent and was released for a hearing June 2 on a simple assault charge.

Meanwhile, ordered the magistrate, no bus riding for Mrs. Anturley.

Joe Carr Clobbers Cochran In Finals

By JOHN FARROW
Associated Press Sports Writer

PORTSMOUTH, Northern Ireland. (AP) — Joe Carr, a calm, long-driving Dublin haberdasher, broke the heart of 47-year-old Bob Cochran of St. Louis with par-shattering golf Saturday and won the British Amateur Championship for the third time in seven years.

The lean, lanky Irishman clobbered his American rival 8 and 7 in the 36-hole final with one of the finest exhibitions of amateur golf seen in this ancient championship in many years.

His winning margin over the tight, 6,842-yard Royal Portrush course was the biggest since Lawson Little crushed Scotland's Jimmy Wallace 14 and 13 at Prestwick in 1934.

Carr, 38 years old and a Walker

Cup player since 1946, became the first player to win the British Amateur more than twice since Harold Hiley of England marked up his fourth victory in 1913. John Ball, who won eight times between 1888 and 1912 is the only other player to win three times or more.

Carr had a 4-under-par morning round of 69, and went to lunch 6-up. By the 25th hole he was 10-up with 11 to play.

Cochran, who claims to be nothing more than a weekend golfer, made a last gasp effort and prolonged the match until the 29th. He rammed in a putt of 24 feet at the 27th to win with a birdie and he holed a 15-footer to take the 28th.

On the short 29th, the American was at the bottom of the green, some 60 feet from the pin while Carr's tee shot was 30 feet away.

"If I hole this one, Joe, will you put it?" Cochran asked. Then he coiled it up 25 feet from the cup. Carr knocked the ball away and conceded the putt. Cochran then conceded a 3-footer for a half that ended the match after Carr lagged up within easy distance. The crowd of 6,000 cheered wildly.

"It's just like hitting your head against a stone wall trying to beat Joe," the St. Louis paper salesman said.

"I played par golf for eight of the nine holes on the homeward half this morning but didn't win a hole. I found myself having to sink putts of 20 and 30 feet to get one hole back."

Carr previously had won the British Amateur in 1953 and 1958. But he described Saturday's victory as "the best of them all because I won it in my own country."

On his form in the final, Carr would have been a hard man for anyone to beat. He outdrove Cochran by as much as 20 to 30 yards. He made only two mistakes on the morning round, three-putting the third and seventh greens. And even when he found himself in the rough, in the sand or short of the green, he usually pulled off a perfect shot and got down in regulation figures.

Cochran won only three of the 29 holes played, the 3rd, 27th and 28th. Carr was 4-up after nine holes, 6-up after 18 and 9-up at the 23rd. He played the 11 holes of the afternoon round in 1-over-par figures.

Cochran, usually very accurate off the tees, had trouble with his drives and visited the rough more often than he had during the first five days of the championship.

Dennis Cairns, captain of Portsmouth, presented the cup to Carr and said: "The greatest gentleman of British golf played the greatest gentleman of American golf, I think."

"Mr. Cochran has endeared himself to us all."

In reply Cochran said: "If Joe Carr is not the greatest amateur golfer in the world—as I believe he is—then he is one of the great."

Nabors, Webb Split A Pair

Bob Elsberry scored the run that enabled Webb AFB's Dusters to defeat Nabors Paint Store, 1-0, in the second game of a softball doubleheader at Webb Friday night, after Nabors had copped the opener, 7-2.

Cotton Mize, the Nabors' hurler in the second game, gave up only two hits but those came in succession in the fourth inning and produced the victory.

Spec Franklin pitched the opening win for the Painters, scattering six hits. James Tidwell collected two of Nabors' eight hits.

Joe White Here To 'Sell' Clinic

Binky Mitchell, finalist in the 1956 Big Spring Invitational-Golf tournament, was the only amateur among six players to qualify for a sectional berth in preliminary play for the U. S. Open tournament at Spokane, Wash., last week.

He posted a 148 for 36 holes. The sectional round takes place at Seattle.

Binky is a resident of Fort Worth and a graduate of Texas A&M who is now in the Air Force, studying meteorology at the University of Washington.

The American Football League perhaps doesn't want to advertise it, but 33 of the players Sid Gillman has signed on for his Los Angeles Chargers fellows he had previously fired from the Los Angeles Rams.

Joe White visited here Friday in connection with a tour to promote the Southwest Baseball Clinic, which will be conducted at Baylor University in five two-week sessions, starting June 6 for boys eight through 19 years of age.

Joe, former big league scout, is director of the school.

enrollment cost is $25, for a session and that fee includes meals, room, instruction, insurance, medical care, swimming, bowling, movies, tennis and other group entertainment.

A total of 787 boys were in the school last year (one of those was Preston "Pidge" Daniels, Big Spring) and White expects more than 1,000 to enroll this year.

His mailing address is 5205 Vickie Lane, Fort Worth.

DeWitt Coulter, the Texan who made the All-America football team while attending the Military Academy, has been named director of a Canadian soccer team.

Gerald Stockton, basketball coach at Murray A&M (a two-year school) in Oklahoma the past five years, recently resigned that position to take a similar job at Cameron A&M.

He succeeds Ted Owens, who was named assistant to Dick Harp at the University of Kansas.

Big Spring High School will probably lose another of its varsity football coaches to a South Texas city.

Everett May Attend Baseball School

Don Everett, lone Big Spring player named to the 1960 All-District 2-AAAAA baseball team, probably will accompany San Francisco Giant scout Claude Dietrich to Artesia June 11 for a try-out camp.

Dietrich resides in Dallas.

The camp opens in the New Mexico city June 13 and extends through the following day.

R. L. Lasater, Big Spring's great sprinter, was clocked in 10.5 seconds in the first 100-meter sprint he ever ran here.

The world record is 10.1, shared by three individuals, while a 10.4 or better is required to qualify for the Olympics.

The family of Buzzy Brewer, Stanton's stellar all-around athlete, now resides in Midland.

Buzzy is bound for University of Houston.

Julian Presley, Odessa High School baseball coach, heads up a baseball clinic, which starts in Odessa Monday for youngsters in the 8-14 age group.

The fee is $15 for a two-weeks' course.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Emmett McKenzie, the Big Spring football coach, says he thought his players looked better the second half of their intra-squad contest here the other night than in the first two periods.

Little Emmett Kent Morgan gave the spectators more than one thrill while carrying the ball in the contest but the coaches were more pleased with his defensive play.

It's no secret he's got to help a lot on defense next fall, if the Steers are to break into the win column occasionally.

Bobby Pryor, one of the defensive standouts in line play, had been moved to his new position only the week prior to the contest.

Emory Bellard of San Angelo and Ted Dawson of Odessa Permian were among the head coaches who watched the intra-squad game.

Dawson's club is supposed to have the finest backs in 2-AAAAA next fall and is listed by some as the conference favorite.

McKenzie says he probably will assign all incoming sophomores to the B team, which means that the Steers may field a better B squad than any time in several years.

Some of the sophs could conceivably gain promotion to the A squad, however.

Ralph Miller, new president of the HSU Cowboy Band which played here the other night prior to the National Junior College Track and Field Meet, is a native of Big Spring.

His parents now reside in Deming, N.M.

Bud Wilkinson, the Oklahoma University football coach, rates the University of Texas as his team's toughest 1960 foe and puts Kansas University right behind the Longhorns.

Many had thought Northwestern would rate ahead of Texas but Wilkinson lists the Wildcats third, in a tie with Pittsburgh.

Bennett Watts, the one-time Coahoma resident, was quarterbacking OU's No. 1 unit at the end of spring workouts.

Billy Maxwell, the ex-Big Spring, is winless 16 months now on the pro golf circuit but his cash earnings top $40,000 during that time.

One can only conclude that the Midland golf pro did absolutely nothing to help Big Spring's John Pipes promote the Sectional Round for the National Public Links Golf Tournament.

The tournament will be held there June 6 under Pipes' supervision but no Midland player is entered.

A conservative estimate would be that a thousand different players use the Midland public course each month.

DeWitt Coulter, the Texan who made the All-America football team while attending the Military Academy, has been named director of a Canadian soccer team.

Gerald Stockton, basketball coach at Murray A&M (a two-year school) in Oklahoma the past five years, recently resigned that position to take a similar job at Cameron A&M.

He succeeds Ted Owens, who was named assistant to Dick Harp at the University of Kansas.

Big Spring High School will probably lose another of its varsity football coaches to a South Texas city.

Tuttle Homer Gives A's Win Over Sox

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Kansas City Athletics came from behind on Bill Tuttle's two-run homer in the seventh inning Saturday and shaded the Chicago White Sox 4-3.

Tuttle, hitting an anemic 212 at game time, rifled one of Dick Donovan's pitches over the left field wall with Russ Snyder, who had batted for pitcher Bud Daley, on base. It was Tuttle's second homer and pinned the first defeat of the season on Donovan, who had won one game.

Marty Kutyna pitched the eighth inning and protected the slim lead but he got into a jam in the ninth after two were out and Leo Kiely was called from the bullpen.

Daley, who got credit for the victory, held the Sox to eight hits in his seven innings. Al Smith hit a solo home run off him in the fifth inning after the Sox had notched a pair in the fourth.

Hegan, Rice Added To Chicago Staff

CHICAGO (AP)—Veteran catcher Jim Hegan, a free agent, was signed by the Chicago Cubs Saturday and Del Rice, another long-term receiver, was taken off the active list.

The Cubs said Rice could have his outright release or be optioned to Houston of the American Association. Rice said he would take his release.

Hegan, 39, played with Philadelphia and San Francisco last year. He has been working for a Cleveland trucking firm this year.

Devils Get Seven In Third To Win

The Devils overcame a two-run lead built up by the Braves with a seven run third inning and win on to win an 8-4 National Little League game here Friday night.

The Devils sent 11 batters to the plate in the third and collected their tallies in that round with the help of only three hits. Those were singles, all in a row, by David Harmonson, Dennis Knoop and Charles Russell.

Keith Howze, who rationed out four hits to the opposition and fanned ten, was the winning pitcher.

Wayne Bogan drove out two of the losers' hits.

In the minor league game, the Cubs decided the Aces by a score of 12-7.

Dueitt Is Signed

DALLAS (AP)—Larry Dueitt, who played halfback for Rice for two seasons but sat out his senior year because of ineligibility, has signed a contract to play with Dallas of the National Football League. He was on a Southwest Conference championship team in 1957.

Wing Hqtrs. Wins Commander Award

Wing Headquarters staged the comeback of many a season as they edged 3561st Pilot Training Squadron, Section II, to become the Webb 1959-60 Commander's Trophy champs.

Basketball season had ended with Wing trailing the Big Section by 271 points, and when volleyball play was over, the bulge had widened to 874½ counts. With bowling and shuffleboard left in the schedule, Wing was faced with the stupendous task of winning Webb's Classic and B leagues, and then gaining insurance tallies in the small-game event. And that's exactly what they did.

With men like Capt. Tom Seebo, Capt. Jim Greene, A.I.C. Jack Nickell and A.I.C. Joe Herceg coming through down the stretch, they grabbed the Class "A" title.

For the final heave Wing counted on Class "B" pinsters as S.M.Sgt. Harry Combs, S.M.Sgt. Clements Amundson, M. Sgt. Harold Kain, S.Sgt. George Jean, A.I.C. Vilas Topp and A.I.C. Anthony Padilla. They also triumphed, and when their schedule ended, the count read: Wing, 2,391; Section II, 2,381½.

By then Squadron Commander Capt. Gregg Smith, and Unit Athletic Officer Lt. Hank Nottingham were hearing the Wing aggregation referred to as "Silky Sullivan."

The battle for the trophy (a symbol of sports supremacy at Webb) was decided a couple of days ago when Nottingham took first and Lt. Michael Ryder fourth in shuffleboard for a total of 115 points.

This year's finish was but a carryover of last year's down-the-wire (2245 to 2243) decision eked by Section III over Wing.

Listed among Wing's point gainers is Col. Donald W. Elsenhart, who, along with Maj. Joseph R. Costure, T.Sgt. Bill Stratton and A.I.C. Jack Starnes, copped the base golf (team) crown for 125 trophy points.

Third place in softball earned Wing 253—A.I.C. Jack Long being their work horse. In track Lt.

Frison led them to a second-place win (113 points). A.I.C. Hugh Butler MacCauley brought in 40 points in tennis and handball; and in horseshoe pitching Nickel helped with 40.

Wing then fattened on handball as Nottingham and A.I.C. Ed Rosenberger triumphed in singles and doubles competition for a 210-point haul. Wing took in Tug O' War (60) points. Tugging for Wing were: Capt. Seebo, Lt. George Soderquist, M. Sgt. Fred Bierchwald, T.Sgt. Junnel Gary, T.Sgt. Charles Reeves, A.I.C. Ervin Elliott, A.I.C. Ralph Winterrowd and A.I.C. Bill Meunier.

In handball Lt. Col. Carey B. McCoy and A.I.C. Rosendo Chavez supplied 60 counts; and in physical fitness tests Lt. Nottingham added 80 points.

Beaten by Section II in touch-football, Wing took in 416 points for second position. Wingmen included Lt. Jim Powell, Lt. Ryder, Lt. John Trimpe, A.I.C. Nat Moulden, Frison, Meunier and Topp.

SC Elections Climax Year

This year is gone; it doesn't seem possible.
All the studying, homework, tests, and wonderful school activities are over for another year and the whole summer lies before us. This week has been filled with excitement and anticipation. The exams were given Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday. No one really minded the tests though, and everyone especially enjoyed the two hours each day for lunch.

It's more fun that way. Dave and I have a traveling band. We play in a variety of places. Bobby almost gave director Murphy a heart attack. Rick invited Murphy to a circus in Honolulu in which Dave Nelson was featured as the champion in the track and field events. He was supposed to fight and flying through the air.) School Fairs Criticized

Some of the elaborate displays at school fairs are actually the work of parents, not students, says a Turner Falls high school teacher. Charles Galvin told school officials science fairs are overrated and publicity gimmicks for schools. He said some exhibits in such fairs are beyond the capacity of high schoolers, and apparently are intended to draw the work of interested parents.

Shockley, Shelburne Top 1960 Graduates

By KAY LOVELAND
Beverly Shockley and Joe Dell Shelburne were announced as valedictorian and salutatorian of Harris County Junior College's graduating class Thursday night. Beverly's average was 2.69, and Joe Dell's, 2.46. This will place them in the top 10 percent of the class receiving either As or Bs in their transcripts. According to the college's records, only 10 percent of the class received either As or Bs. The Red Ravens of Coffeyville, Kansas, were first in the meet with 93% points, and Phoenix, Arizona, came in second with 90%. Thirty-nine teams from across the country participated in the meet, and that HCJC may play host to the meet again next year.

In his book, "The Cultured Man," anthropologist and lecturer Ashley Montagu supplies 1,500 questions which readers may use to check their competence in specific fields of knowledge. Questions are based on the knowledge a broadly cultured person should have. The person who scores well, Montagu suggests, is less lonely in the world because he has a starting point for communicating with many other people. The answers are found on page 10.

Webb Racing Enthusiast Flaunts Hexes, Gets 2nd

Maj. M. A. Cappiello, Webb's leading auto racer, has added another second-place win to his string of sports car victories—his latest triumph being the Old Raton Pass hill climb at Raton, N. M.

The major, known all over this country for winning against all odds, was turning in another "adverse conditions" performance at the Raton test. Major "Cappy" gives this account of his latest experience:

"After a hot 450-mile drive from Webb, I arrived at Raton late Friday night, May 13. My racing number being 13, my arrival date (Friday the 13th) took on added significance. Saturday morning I registered at Race Headquarters, and put my car (Fiat Abarth Record Monza 750 cc DOHC) through a strict technical inspection.

"About 12 noon I was ready for my brake test and that's where my headaches began. For as I stepped on the brakes a short resulted in the electrical fuel pump, causing the wires to burn and melt under the dashboard. After three 'long hours' the damage was repaired. At 4 p.m. I headed for the hill for a practice run.

CHAIN REACTION

"I had gone half a block when the car went dead. We pushed it back to the garage to find that the fuel pump was not working—being burned out when the short occurred in the wires. Finding a new pump and installing it, used up another hour and a half, so that by the time the car was ready to run, it was too late for practice.

"Early Sunday morning, I talked race officials into giving me two practice runs. Not being familiar with the hill, I turned a 2:07.7 on the first run and 2:06.5 on the second try. The top car in my class, a Porsche 1600, had clocked 1:57.8.

"Discouraged, I enlisted the aid of a would-be mechanic to adjust my carburetors. He only succeeded in messing them up worse and the car would hardly run up the hill. Another mechanic was called in; he managed to adjust the carbs a little better, but they still were not what they should have been.

"During all this time the other cars had made their runs—three each. Looking at the scores I found I had to better my time by at least 5 seconds in order to be in the running.

"Chopping off 5 seconds is pretty rough, especially when the car is not running right. So I roared up in second gear and stayed in second in order to get better speed. Of course, this required my over-revving the motor to 8,000 RPMs. At 7,000 it is redlined, but I had no alternative.

"My second run was 2:05.3, which was not close enough to contend. On my next try I wound up to 8,500 RPMs and went in on a 2:01.5. I clocked 2:01.3 the last time to take second place by three-tenths of a second."

Villanova First In IC4A Games

By ED CORRIGAN
VILLANOVA, Pa. (AP)—Villanova won the IC4A track and field championship Saturday by a half-point margin and a big assist from an unknown Manhattan relay runner.

The Wildcats finished with 38 points to 37½ for defending champion Penn State and the torrid battle raged right down to the mile relay, final race on the 15-event program.

The spirited struggle for the team championship overshadowed John Thomas's 23rd high jump over seven feet. The little Boston University sophomore cleared 7 feet 1½ inch, only a quarter inch under his own world record, which he set only a week ago.

The former meet record was 6-10, set by Phil Reavis of Villanova two years ago.

Here was the picture going into the final event of the meet:

Villanova was the favorite in the mile relay, so Penn State set its sights on a second, which would have meant the title.

With Villanova well in the lead, Manhattan anchor man Larry St. Clair took the baton with a lead of about two yards over Penn State's Don Davies in the battle for second.

In the stretch Davies seemed ready to overtake St. Clair. But the slim Manhattan runner let go with one final surge and Penn State had lost the meet.

Manhattan, one of the pre-meet favorites, finished third, with 23 points followed by Penn with 21½ and Yale with 21.

Louis Applauds Floyd's Efforts

NEWTOWN, Conn. (AP)—Joe Louis watched Floyd Patterson box four rounds against four different sparring partners Saturday and said "this is the best yet."

The Brown Bomber met with Patterson and his trainer, Dan Florio, for 15 minutes before the workout. Patterson then boxed one round each with Billy Tisdale of Bridgeport, Conn., Oliver Wilson of Hartford, Conn., Julio Mederos of Cuba and his brother, Raymond Patterson, of New York.

Patterson will box Sunday and Monday and then will rest Tuesday and Wednesday. His rematch with Heavyweight Champion Ingemar Johansson will be held June 20 at New York's Polo Grounds.

13th Round Homer Defeats Phillies

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Third baseman Don Hoak's two-run homer in the 13th inning Saturday gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 4-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

The triumph enabled the second-place Pirates to stay within one game of the league-leading San Francisco Giants, who beat St. Louis 4-0.

Jim Umbricht, third Pirate pitcher, picked up his first victory.

KO Will Be Even Quicker: Champ

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (AP)—Ingemar Johansson said Saturday he expected to knock out Floyd Patterson "faster than last year" in their June 20 heavyweight title rematch.

"I'm in better shape than this time last year," said the champion. "I expect to knock out Patterson even faster than last year. But if the fight goes the distance, I'm sure that my power and strength and boxing skill will give me the decision."

The champion planned to continue boxing through Monday, substituting Tuesday for Monday as his day off because of the crowds expected for the holiday weekend.

Maxwell Blast Downs Indians

DETROIT (AP)—Charlie Maxwell broke up a wild struggle Saturday with a leadoff home run in the 10th inning that gave the Detroit Tigers a 4-3 triumph over the Cleveland Indians.

The veteran outfielder, struggling to get his batting average above the .200 mark, socked one of Johnny Kippstein's pitches into the upper deck in right field.

The game-winning blow gave the victory to relief pitcher Pete Burnside.

The Tigers, winning their fifth in a row and their 11th in the past 15, should have wrapped it up for starter Jim Bunning in regulation time. Bunning allowed a two-run home run to ex-teammate Harvey Kuenn in the first inning—then didn't permit another runner as far as third base until the ninth.

Mays Is Hero In Giant Win

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Willie Mays drove in five runs with two homers and Bill O'Dell contributed shutout pitching Saturday as the league-leading San Francisco Giants defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 8-0.

Knocking out Ray Sadecki, St. Louis southpaw making his second major league start, the Giants pounded out 15 hits which included Willie Kirkland's eighth homer and Mays' fifth and sixth.

O'Dell, gaining his second National League victory in six decisions, did not walk a batter, fanned five and permitted only one runner to pass second base. Alex Grammas was thrown out by Kirkland as he tried to score from second in the eighth inning on Bill White's second hit.

20-1 Outsider Is Withers Winner

NEW YORK (AP)—John William, a 20-1 outsider, scored a head victory Saturday over Count Amber in the $117,000 Withers Mile at Aqueduct and then withstood a foul claim before the result was posted as official.

In a major upset, the 21-20 favorite, Francis S., finished third, a half length behind Count Amber, who went off at 15-1.

Jockey Larry Adams, astride Reginald N. Webster's Count Amber, claimed that John William, ridden by Hedley Woodhouse, interfered with him in the stretch with less than an eighth of a mile to travel. Woodhouse along the rail was whipping John William, owned by the Merrick Stable of New York, and the colt seemed to come out a bit and brush Adams' horse.

After viewing the movies, the stewards said that the patrol judge could see no logical interference and the result was allowed to stand.

John William, a son of John's Joy-Velaine, by Polyneesian, paid $42.20, $16.30 and $5.40. Count Amber returned $15.40 and $5.60 while Francis S., ridden by Eddie Arca, and owned by Louis Wolfson, paid $2.50. The time on a fast track was 1:35 2/5.

13th Round Homer Defeats Phillies

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Third baseman Don Hoak's two-run homer in the 13th inning Saturday gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 4-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

The triumph enabled the second-place Pirates to stay within one game of the league-leading San Francisco Giants, who beat St. Louis 4-0.

Jim Umbricht, third Pirate pitcher, picked up his first victory.

KO Will Be Even Quicker: Champ

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (AP)—Ingemar Johansson said Saturday he expected to knock out Floyd Patterson "faster than last year" in their June 20 heavyweight title rematch.

"I'm in better shape than this time last year," said the champion. "I expect to knock out Patterson even faster than last year. But if the fight goes the distance, I'm sure that my power and strength and boxing skill will give me the decision."

The champion planned to continue boxing through Monday, substituting Tuesday for Monday as his day off because of the crowds expected for the holiday weekend.

Mexican Ace Loses To Darlene Hard

PARIS (AP)—Darlene Hard, America's second-ranked tennis player from Montebello, Calif., scored her greatest victory Saturday when she chopped down Mexico's Vola-Ramirez 6-3, 6-4 in the women's final of the French International Championship.

The French championship is regarded as the equivalent of the world clay courts title. The 24-year-old California girl, whose nearest approach to a major title had been when she lost to Brazil's Maria Bueno in the final at Wimbledon last year, dominated the match from start to finish.

A TRADITION OF EXCELLENCE

The Eiffel Tower and the first Peugeot motor car were both built in the same year — 1889. Twelve months later, Peugeot adopted the 4-cycle gas engine — the first automobile maker to do so. Six years later, Peugeot cars placed first, second and third in the world's first automobile race. From the day of its introduction "Peugeot" has been synonymous with automobile achievement and excellence; and the finest product of this great name is the Peugeot 403. Here is a motor car which combines brilliance of performance with purity of design. Here is a motor car which provides unusual economies. Here is a motor car which instills an abiding pride of ownership.

Peugeot is "One of the Seven Best-Made Cars in the World" according to John Bond, editor of Road & Track Magazine. Yet it costs from $642 to $11,745 less than the other six! Peugeot is also a very economical car to operate. It delivers 30 mpg on regular gas. Upkeep is remarkably low. And service is no problem — there are more than 500 specially-trained Peugeot dealers throughout the United States, Mexico and Canada. Peugeot is a remarkably responsive car. Owners say it restores a long-lost sense of road rapport (you drive this car—it does not drive you.) It is extremely nimble and alert in traffic. And thanks to Peugeot's compact size and concise turning radius, parking is easy. Peugeot seats 5 to 6 adults — in comfort! Its 4 doors open a full 90 degrees — that means passengers need not squeeze into this car, they can enter it. Peugeot has no fins and no unnecessary trim. Its conservative style is distinctive. It looks like a car.

Bass Catches Getting Bigger At Lake J.B.

By JACK RADER

Bass fishermen continue to haul in at Lake J. B. Thomas, although reports from lakeside lodges indicate that catfish and crappie are holding their own.

During the past week, bass catches were averaging over two pounds on more than one lodge scale. Several channel cats of the seven-pound variety were also hooked.

While the water level in the lake remains at the lowest in a long time, the crowds are flocking in for fishing and boating in sizeable numbers.

At Lakeview Grocery on the south side of the lake, Mr. and Mrs. Zeddie Long of Big Spring hauled in a couple of channel cats 13 and 14 pounds, and L. R. Cleaver and George Eppner caught their limit in crappie.

Betty Crenshaw and Mrs. James Vines, Big Spring, caught 12 large white bass. Mr. and Mrs. Phil Thompson, Brownfield, brought in a nice string of white bass averaging 3 to 4 pounds. Roy Anderson, Vealmoor angler, weighed in a 7½-pound yellow cat.

Dave Poyner, Odessa, caught a 5½-pound blue cat, and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hyden, Big Spring, hooked 12 pounds of channel cat and bass. Gam Minton caught a 7-pound yellow cat.

J. C. Burchett from Big Spring, claimed his biggest catch was a 3½-pound black bass. Walton Morrison also hooked a black bass at 5½ pounds, and a party composed of Mr. and Mrs. Sonny Shroyer and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Dickson caught 20 white bass in a two day stint of fishing.

Over at Sportsman Paradise, Tommy Long, Wayne Tyler and Dave Payner, Odessa fishermen, teamed up to latch onto a 9-pound channel cat and a 21-pound yellow cat on a trotline.

Bill Payne and Dooley Nall, Big Spring, caught their limit of white bass, averaging ½ to 1½ pounds, and several nice crappie.

Mike McDonald and James McDonald of Big Spring landed 32 white bass, and Jack Graham and party from Vincent and Coma hauled in 100 white bass.

Joe Cramer from Coahoma caught a lot of white bass and pulled in 2 carp at the same time. Mr. and Mrs. Lee Wainwright, up from Dallas, landed several nice crappie. Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Barr, Vincent, pulled in their trotline loaded with 31 pounds of yellow catfish.

Around at Shady Grove, M. C. Rowell, Odessa, reported catching a 2-pound bass and nine catfish which averaged a pound. Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Snow of Lamesa tied shrimp to catch eight catfish averaging 1 to 4 pounds.

Johnny Brownlee, Lamesa, caught 15 cats which went up to 4 pounds.

At Jinken's Grocery, black bass were reported hitting very good. Aubrey L. Gay, William

Mr. and Mrs. Zeddie Long, Big Spring, are shown with a 14-pound catfish they pulled out of the waters at Lake J. B. Thomas recently. The catch was made near Clyde Montgomery's Lakeview Grocery.

Bingham and Billy Bob McMillan, Snyder group, brought in 15 bass weighing from 2 to 6 pounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shaw of Lubbock landed 11 bass from 2 to 5 pounds and 17 channel cat from 2 to 4 pounds. Charlie Earl, Seminole angler, used a trotline to latch onto 19 channels weighing 2-6 pounds.

The Dawger brothers from Wofford, got their limit in big crappie and also landed five bass and 9 channel cat. Roy Newland, Lamesa, caught 17 fighting carp, 2-10 pounds.

Mr. W. G. Addison and Mrs. Elzie Pieper, from Lamesa, fishing all week, landed crappie, black bass, cats and carp. Averages were from 2 to 6 pounds.

Henry Russell, Welch, had good luck also, bringing in 2-4 pound black bass and catfish and some 5-6 pound carp.

Fishermen at Halley Browne's Lakeside Grocery reported several nice catches, both bass and catfish. M. V. Brothers of Hobbs caught a 5½-pound cat and F. R. Childers, Odessa included a 4-pound bass in his catch.

G. H. Brown and Perry from Brownfield, got a lot of fish, as did R. L. Vannaman of Midland. Activity at Lem's Bait House was picking up, with a lot of nice catfish and black and white bass catches reported.

Lawrence Robinson, Lamesa, hooked 10 pounds of channel cat, and H. C. Jones and party from Sundown captured a good number of channels averaging 2½ pounds, several black bass and came up with 31 white bass from 1 to 2½ pounds.

Merle Sandel of Lamesa caught a 4-pound black bass and 15 crappie off the pier, and Turner Morrisett of Lamesa caught a 4-pound black bass and several nice channel cat. Betty McKinny, Lamesa, hauled in a 2-pound channel off the pier, as well as a couple of crappie.

Boyd's Lodge patrons, both from the dock and out of the boats, are reporting good luck with the big ones.

L. C. Robinson, Lamesa, landed 6 channel cat and the biggest one hit 10 pounds. C. M. Payne, Odessa picked up a good string of bass and channel cat weighing from 3 to 4 pounds.

At Lake Thomas Lodge, Billy Cates from Post, hooked a 2½-pound black bass, and Mrs. Casey Bishop and Mrs. T. J. Sterling, of Snyder, landed a 16½-pound string of catfish.

W. D. Berry, Big Spring, landed a 2½-pound black bass, and a party composed of J. F. Leach, A. D. Whitney and Randy Whitney, of Odessa, captured a sizeable string of sand bass and crappie.

Wish U Well Is To Run Monday

RUIDOSO, N. M. (SC)—A short but select field has been named to go in the 11th and featured Hilton Fiesta Queen Invitational handicap on Monday's holiday card at Ruidoso Downs. Racing Secretary Russ Sanders extended an invitation to many of the top thoroughbred-owners to compete at the distance of seven furlongs. Seven chose to accept the weights offered.

Top weights of 117 pounds go to Bang's Victory from the Dexter, N. M., stable of Hal Bogle; and Wish U Well. From the estate of the late Jess Wilbanks of Big Spring, Texas, Bang's Victory scored a sharp win in a feature race here last year while Wish U Well turned in four wins for his efforts in 1959. Bill Luke's (Phoenix, Arizona) Little Eddie a winner of the first division of last week's Inaugural Handicap; and three other races this year, has drawn 116 pounds; Glyndon L., 115; Rey Ethics, 113; Whoopin Crane (winner of the Jock Mahoney Allowance), 108; Rumm'n Trail, 107, round out the field.

On the Quarter Horse side of the Memorial Day card, we find 46 of the nation's best short horses well divided among five top quarter races. These include two AA events, a three-year-old AAA race and a $50-yard dash with a full gate of ten.

The co-featured 10th race will see seven of the world's fastest Quarter horses going at a 400-yard distance. With conditions of this race—written to exclude only the fabulous Vandy's Flash, trainer L. G. Culver will send post-ward the Flash's stablemate, 7-year-old Vannavear.

While the old saying "Never send a boy to do a man's job" is often true, in this case, Vannavear is no "boy." Graded AAA plus, the highest grade obtainable in Quarter Horse racing, and with the veteran short horse rider, Emil Armstrong named to the riding assignment—this California speedster is an obvious power to consider.

The balance of the entire field, with no less than one local outing each to their credit this season, includes First Cat, who finished second to Vandy's Flash last Saturday; Breeze Bar, who ran a close third; Lena's Bar, who finished fourth; Ida Louise, a winner of four last year; Blonde Joan, always a threat, and Kaystorm, winner of five last year. This will be one of the great races of the season.

Ted Kirby Leaving Staff To Take Job At Kermit

Ted Kirby, the Rannels Junior High School coach for the past two seasons, has announced that he will leave the Big Spring position in favor of a similar post at Kermit.

Kirby has been teaching eighth grade math at the junior high, along with his football and track coaching duties.

He says he plans to work for the local YMCA in their summer program before moving to Kermit approximately July 27. Kirby anticipates relatively the same teaching duties in Kermit at the junior high school there, in addition to his coaching chores in the overall program.

Kirby graduated from Howard Payne College and became head coach at his home town in Goldwaite for two years after graduation. He left the class A school and spent three years as head man at Eldorado.

He later took his family to Crane, where he held the head coaching job for one year. "We liked the setup in Crane very much," says Kirby, "but at that time I decided to go into the sporting goods business in Abilene. While I was at Crane, Johnny Johnson was the basketball coach there." Johnson later became head basketball coach here.

After spending one year in the business angle of athletics, Kirby hit the coaching trail again, when he took the head job at Rankin High School.

Views Of Nimrods Sought By SCOT

AUSTIN (AP)—The president of Sportsmen's Clubs of Texas urged hunters Saturday to give their views on possible new shooting dates for the mourning doves.

Henry LeBlanc Sr. of Port Arthur asked local SCOT clubs to cooperate with a Game Commission plan to get advice on changing the season.

Commission Secretary Howard Dodgen said efforts will be made to get the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to extend the overall season in Texas from 47 to 60 days for doves, within the Sept. 1 to Jan. 15 limits.

Only six days after accepting the position in the Kermit Junior High School, Kirby was offered the head job at Winters. "It was a good offer," says Kirby, "and Winters has some fine football prospects coming up. But my wife and I have been wanting to go to Kermit for quite some time now, and this is the opportune time."

"We have had some other offers from Kermit, but they seemed to come at the wrong time as our plans were concerned."

Mrs. Kirby is currently a teacher at the Park Hill Elementary school and she will be employed in the home economics department at the Kermit High School. "As far as predictions for the Big Spring picture," adds Kirby, "I sure wouldn't want to put the pressure on anybody. But I do feel like the outlook is bright for Big Spring."

"Coach McKenzie is certainly a hard worker and that's exactly what Big Spring needs right now. He has the energy and the drive to get a good program going."

"He has some talented sophomores and juniors this coming year, and with his kind of coaching, he should turn them into real fine ballplayers. And, too, Rannels is sending some of the best junior high prospects I've seen, up there and when those boys get a little experience, they're going to be real tough."

Hiller Leading Hitter In Loop

By The Associated Press

A half-dozen fellows have higher averages but Charley Hiller of Rio Grande Valley is the real batting leader of the Texas League.

Hiller has gone to the plate 162 times and pounded 58 hits for a .358 average.

Jay Van Noy of Rio Grande Valley is batting .421 but has been up only 57 times. Kal Segrist of Victoria is clouting .390 but has been up there swinging only half as many times as Hiller.

Producing the most for his club is Layton Ducotte of San Antonio, who leads in homers with 16, runs with 34 and runs batted in with 38. He is hitting .283.

Hiller tops in doubles with 21. Artie Burnett of Tulsa and Bill Thomas of Austin are tied in triples with 5 and Joe Arenivar of Amarillo leads in hits with 59.

The top pitcher is Ron Herbel of Rio Grande Valley, who has a 5-0 record. Bobby Bohn of the same club leads in strikeouts with 62.

Tulsa sets the pace in club batting with .283.

New Welter Champ May Fight Latin

By PATRICK McNULTY

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The confused welterweight division today had a new champion, Cuba's Benny (Kid) Paret, who ended Friday night Don Jordan's lackluster reign as the 147-pound kingpin.

But there was still confusion aplenty.

Paret's first defense of his crown is expected to be against Federico Thompson of Argentina.

Jordan's buddy, Mickey Cohen, still shuffled in the wings. And there is the question of who gets Jordan's $65,000 purse for his third defense of the title.

A crowd of 3,692 here, plus a national TV audience, watched the one-time sugar cane cutter whip Jordan in 15 unspectacular but hard-fought rounds.

"Paret's first defense will be against Thompson and the winner of that meets Luis Rodriguez," said NBA President Anthony Masoni. "That has been the NBA's plan for some time and that is the way it is going to be."

Jordan, ex-street fighter from Los Angeles' East Side, had a 90-day rematch agreement with the Paret camp. But Paret's manager, Manuel Alvaro, said "We will only fight for a promoter who guarantees us as much as Jordan got this time—$85,000."

Most ring observers feel that after Friday night's uninspired showing, such angels don't exist.

That Good Old Summertime

School's out and the thermometer is rising — and that good old summertime is moving in. Summer fun's best of all if you get into the swing of things like these young people. Besides the swimming, golfing, tanning, and water skiing, there are numerous other ways to live it up such as picnicking in the back yard, fishing, boating, playing tennis — or just lazing in a patio hammock or soaking up the evening's breeze in a comfortable outdoor lounge chair. Any way you take it, it's summer fun!

... to have open house today

Newburns To Observe Anniversary Today

Friends will gather this afternoon from 2 to 4 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Newburn, 200 Brown, to honor the couple on their 50th wedding anniversary.

A romance of one month blossomed into the marriage, which took place on May 28, 1910, in West Frankfort, Ill.

The bride of 50 years ago met the bridegroom because of his sister, who was a co-worker with the young lady. Both agreed that each was the first person considered as a life mate and that it was love at first sight.

The couple repeated wedding vows in the home of the bride's sister and left the same year to make a home in Fredonia, Kan., where Newburn engaged in brick work.

When the oil boom began in Big Spring in 1929 and oil refineries were being built rapidly, the couple moved to this Texas town, which to Mrs. Newburn "looked like a ghost town." He was a worker on the Great West Refinery and the Howard County Refinery, working both as a welder and with the brick work.

Buying a lot at what was then a great distance from town, the couple proceeded to build the house in which they live now. During the day, when Newburn was at his regular work, Mrs. Newburn would distribute stacks of the tile of which the house is made and other materials to be put in place in the evening when they both joined forces in the building.

For 17 years they have lived in the seven-room home and proudly announce that not one penny was

Designer's Dander Up Over Paris Fashions

By DOROTHY ROE

America's worship of anything imported may sink the American fashion industry, says Oleg Cassini, designer, dress manufacturer and man-about-town.

"I expect my business to fall off one million dollars next year, just because of the hysteria of American stores over French copies," says the suave Cassini.

"All over the country stores are displaying French fashions—some are copies of couture designs and others are French ready-mades. Within a month of the Paris openings you'll see copies selling for as low as $14.95."

"Some stores even have the nerve to ask well-known American designers, like me, to make French copies. That's the ultimate insult."

Cassini points out that U.S. stores now can buy French ready-made clothes at much less than they would cost here, even including import duties. And the glamour of a French label continues to dazzle the American public, even if it's sewed on a gunny sack.

Cassini announces that he is tired of the American custom of following every new fashion silhouette introduced in Paris.

"No matter how ugly, grotesque and unflattering a new style may be, Americans rush to buy it and copy it, if it's first shown in Paris."

The rage for French labels is more widespread now than ever before, says Cassini. And if American designers don't take a firm stand, he says, many of them are going to find themselves out of business.

"The public can help, too," he observes. "And of course, now that French clothes are becoming so common and so inexpensive all over this country, they'll soon lose their value as status symbols. That's when women will rush back to American designers—but it may be too late."

Reading Round-Up Set For Summer In Lamesa

LAMESA—The Texas Reading Round-Up Summer Reading Club for 1960 will begin in Lamesa Wednesday. It is announced by Mrs. Lex Brock, librarian for the Dawson County Public Library.

Sponsored by the Texas Rural Library Service of the Texas State Library, registration will be at the local library continuing through the summer months. The Round-Up is to close Aug. 29. Children must have been in school for one year to be eligible to participate in the club's program, Mrs. Brock said, and signing the club roster constitutes membership.

Each child who joins is given a reading log on which to record the author and title of each book he reads. Although he may read any book he wishes, he will be required to read books suitable to his age level to be eligible to receive a state library reading certificate.

Children are required to read 12 books; teen-agers, 10 books. State library certificates will be awarded at the Dawson County Public Library as soon as they can be prepared after the program ends Aug. 29.

Mrs. Brock said that the library hopes to receive a loan of approximately 500 books for children and teen-agers in time for the summer reading program; presently there are some 3,000 volumes of children's and teen-agers' books in the library.

Last year 280 children participated in the reading roundup. It is hoped that 400 will be enrolled this summer. A special invitation is being issued to children who participated in the program through the Texas State Library Bookmobile at its stops last summer. They will read through the local library this year.

Summer hours begin at the library this week. Because Memorial Day is a holiday, the library will be open from 8 to 10 a.m. only on Monday. On Tuesday the regular summer schedule will go into effect: 8 a.m. to 12 noon Monday through Friday, and from 1 to 5 p.m. each Saturday.

Former Lamesa Girl Is Wed Saturday In San Antonio Chapel

LAMESA — In a candlelight ceremony at seven o'clock Saturday evening in San Antonio's Woodmen Chapel, Billie Ruth Fleniken became the bride of Dennis Elton Oldham, David Caskey, minister of Desdemona Church of Christ read the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Herbert Fleniken and the late Mr. Fleniken, formerly of Lamesa, and Oldham is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Oldham of Dalhart.

Pink and white gladioli formed a sunburst arrangement with other spring blossoms before a wrought iron pedestaled candelabra which held pink tapers. Flanking the focal point at the altar were seven branched candelabra in graduated heights.

Mrs. Lavoy Miller of Lamesa was organist. The bridegroom's cousin, Doris Newhouse sang "Whither Thou Goest" and in a duet with Joe W. Andrews of San Antonio sang "Through the Years" and "Be With Us, Lord." Andrews sang "Because" in answer to Miss Newhouse's solo.

Escorted by uncle, Vernon Fleniken of Lamesa, the bride was given in marriage by her mother. She chose a gown of white silk organza designed with fitted bodice terminating in points at center front and back. The softly rounded neckline and bracelet sleeves were traced with sprays of tulle leaf applique and the fully gathered skirt was garlanded with the leaf applique and swept to an aisle-wide court train.

Her waist length veil cascaded from a coronet of organza leaves and flowers dotted with tiny rhinestones. The bride's bouquet was a crescent arrangement of white butterfly orchids centered with a large white orchid carried on an ivory fan.

Linda McPhaul of Lamesa was maid of honor. She wore a dress of blue pink organza over tulle with elbow sleeves and rounded neckline deeply scooped in back and billowing street length skirt. The waistline was defined with a crushed cummerbund of matching fabric. Her shoes were crimson satin, and she wore a single strand of pink pearls, the gift of the bride.

The bridesmaids, Marilyn Cox and Mrs. Ronald Houston of Lamesa and Sherry Oldham of Dalhart, sister of the bridegroom, were dressed identically to the honor attendant. The four feminine attendants had shower bouquets of blue pink carnations centered with pink butterfly orchids, styled on crimson fans.

The flower girl, Denise Burrus, Jal, N. M., cousin of the bride, wore a dress of pink organza over tulle with rounded neckline and full skirt with sash of self material.

Candlelighters were Sharon Fleniken of Lamesa and Noble Seely of Dimmitt, cousins of the bride. Miss Fleniken's dress was fashioned similarly to the flower girl's except a cummerbund was used at the waistline. The ringbearer was Kirby Oldham of Dalhart, brother of the bridegroom.

Kenneth Dye of Pleasanton was best man. Groomsmen were Danny Anders of Seagraves; Joe Wayne Danchak, Pearsall; and Bobby Byrd, McKinney.

Greeting the wedding guests and assisting them to be seated were the ushers, Weldon Burrus of Jal,

MRS. DENNIS ELTON OLDHAM

N. M., uncle of the bride; Charles Nelson of San Antonio; Tommy McKinney of Pleasanton and Tommy Prince of Conroe.

WEDDING RECEPTION
The portico of Woodmen Chapel was the setting for the wedding reception. The receiving line began at the fountain decorated with pink and white asters and larkspur. Hurricane lamps lighted the area.

Laid with a pink cloth, the serving table was appointed in crystal and silver, and silver candelabra with pink tapers and greenery entwined formed the featured arrangement.

Members of the houseparty for the reception were Bobbie Wright, Lamesa; Ray Wheeler, Robstown; Ovella Bruner, Bowie; Joan Hudson, McGregor; Kay Allen, Beeville; Jan, Loney, Temple; Carla Richey, Lamesa; Cathryn King of Dimmitt, cousin of the bride; Mrs. O. L. Simpson, great-aunt of the bride; Mrs. Jim Minnick, Jal, N. M.; aunt of the bride; and Mrs. DeWitt Tilleson, San Antonio.

Guests were present from Lamesa, Dalhart, Pleasanton, Colorado City, Dimmitt, Baytown, Mission, Odessa, Amarillo and Jal, N. M. For traveling, the new Mrs. Oldham selected a two-piece raw silk suit of beige with jeweled collar. Her accessories were bone, and her corsage was an orchid.

A graduate of Lamesa High School, she attended Abilene Christian College where she was a member of Omega Rho Alpha, freshman English fraternity and Ko Jo Kai social club.

Oldham graduated from the Dalhart schools and is attending Abilene Christian College where he is majoring in business psychology.

Upon the return from a wedding trip to an unannounced destination, the couple will reside at 2475 Church, Abilene.

Another safe crossing

When a telephone man drives, safety comes first

Two little girls dart into the street, unaware of an approaching telephone truck. The driver, on his way to install a phone for a new family in the neighborhood, slows to a stop as they cross. Not until the youngsters are safely on the other side does he drive on.

This quiet drama of safe driving doesn't make front-page headlines the way a major accident does. Yet it is the biggest story of all—the kids who aren't hurt crossing the street, the accidents that don't happen... because good safety habits prevent them from happening.

Driving safely is everyone's duty. But for telephone men it is more than that. It is a way of life. It is part of that special sense of responsibility that goes with telephone work: what we call the Spirit of Service.

A newspaper editor recently paid tribute to telephone drivers when he wrote:

"We salute the drivers of telephone company trucks. They never drive fast or recklessly; time and again we've seen them yield the right-of-way. They seem to apply the rule that the other driver is always right."

"It is nothing short of inspiring to see an entire corps of drivers display the courtesy and friendliness that are habitual with telephone company drivers."

Norman Crugers Like Dogs, Collect Ivory

It's a dog-gone family that lives at 1612 Cardinal now.

When you knock on the door of the Norman Cruger home your attention is immediately caught by a plaque that is captioned "The Kruger Doghouse." Three dogs, labeled Norman, Winnie and Tammy, hang on hooks on the rack. They are able to be moved when necessary to the doghouse that is featured on the left end of the plaque. When Norman comes home in the evening from his position with the air police at Webb AFB, he is able to tell whether he is in disfavor with the female members of his household.

Sgt. Cruger has a love for dogs that has been enhanced since coming into the Air Force. In the air police he has been a sentry dog handler and trainer.

"While in Korea during the Korean conflict, a dog once saved my life," relates Norman. The native of New Jersey was on duty at a POL (fuel post) when he decided to take a coffee break. As he started to enter the mess tent, the sentry dog alerted his master. Standing on a bomb rack immediately inside the entrance of the tent was a Korean holding a lead pipe as his weapon. The man was taken prisoner and turned over to the proper authorities.

The Cruger family has one pet dog, an African dog called a be-sengi. They acquired him while spending three years on Okinawa.

"We still haven't given up the hope of getting him to the United States. When we came back we left him with some friends," says Mrs. Cruger.

"We loved Okinawa," the Crugers agree. The trio hopes to return there someday.

One of the features Winnie misses is the maid, who lived with them and was paid $17 a month.

"I didn't realize how much help she was, especially with 18-month-old Tammy, until we came back," says the brunette housewife.

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

SEC. D BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, MAY 29, 1960 SEC.

OLD BUILDING WAS MOVED IN... but it will be replaced by entirely new structure

Unexpected Boost Pushes City Into Clean Up Drive

With an unexpected boost from volunteer workers, the annual Clean Up, Paint Up, Fix Up Campaign got off the ground Saturday when agreement was made to build an entirely new building for the Crippled Children's Society.

And throughout the city Saturday, Big Springers with a day off began piling trash and debris in the alleys for city pickup crews to collect.

Bruce Dunn, director of public works, said extra trucks would be called into duty as they are needed in order to handle the large volume of garbage expected to be cleaned out during the campaign.

Firemen were driving up and down city streets Saturday making periodic inspections, seeking out fire hazards. Fire Chief H. V. Crocker and Fire Marshal A. D. Meador are planning to make inspections when requested by residents.

Lige Fox, sanitarian, is standing by to assist in health inspections during the campaign. He pointed out that standing water and debris are public health hazards and should be eliminated during Clean up Week.

Businessmen throughout the city announced that residents are buying paint and yard equipment in order to make necessary repairs to homes and gardens.

Here and there, folks with green thumbs could be seen Saturday braving the lusty winds in order to clear the weeds from garden beds. And even a few ladders were spotted, waiting for the painter's bucket and brush.

Arnold Marshall, chairman of the civic development committee of the Chamber of Commerce, called on all Big Springers to join in the annual clean up campaign which is a beautification project for all citizens.

"By joining together, we can make Big Spring even more beautiful and healthful than it is," he commented.

Crippled Tots To Have New Building

By JACK RADER

It started as a kick-off promotion of the Clean Up, Paint Up, Fix Up campaign. But Friday, the idea had blossomed into a full scale program to build a new structure for the Howard County Society for Crippled Children.

"You don't know what this means to the children," Miss Bowen, county health nurse, said. "We have worked for this a long time. I can hardly believe our dream is coming true."

Local men of the building trades decided Friday to combine efforts and build an entirely new home for crippled children. The new structure will be across the street from the YMCA on land leased to the organization from the city at a token fee.

CHAMBER WORK
The civic development committee of the Chamber of Commerce originally proposed renovating the section house and began contacting local unions to request cooperation. From that point, the plan gradually developed into the current proposal of a completely new structure.

The long-time dream of the Crippled Children's Society will be realized Tuesday when community work on the Big Spring treatment center begins.

The group of contractors, local union representatives and other interested citizens met Friday to initiate the plan and lay ground-work for construction.

The meeting was held in the Chamber of Commerce council room with Sam Anderson, vice president of the society, presiding. The project is to be a part of the chamber's clean-up week promotion activities. Bill Quinlity, chamber manager, explained to the group.

GRATITUDE
Miss Bowen and Anderson concurred in an expression of gratitude to those present for their interest and help in the city center.

Crippled children, as well as adults seeking treatment in Big Spring, have to be taken to Midland for treatment since there are no adequate facilities for a therapist here.

E. C. Smith, local building contractor, was elected chairman and coordinator of the project. He will be assisted by brick masons, carpenters, electricians, plumbers and other contractors who will donate materials and labor.

The floor plan for the center is being drawn up by Daryle Hohertz, architect, volunteering his services. Hohertz, along with Miss Bowen and Smith, worked out a tentative plan for the building and presented it Friday night.

The project, a new building from the ground up, replaces original plans to renovate a T&P railroad section house as a treatment center. The house was given by the railroad to Cosden, which in turn gave it to the society.

MOVED IN
The house was moved into the city Wednesday. It was the decision of contractors and the society that rebuilding the house would not be as satisfactory as building a new structure.

The new plant will be located on the same lot. Proximity to the YMCA gives therapists ready access to the Y's heated swimming pool. The society bought the heater for the pool for use in therapy work.

Boy Watkins, of the local union of operating engineers, pledged volunteer support to the project from his group, as did Bob Pearson, local brick layers' union, and John Roemer, carpenters' union.

Concrete for the structure in the form of blocks is being donated by Clyde McMahon, painter for the interior by Cactus Paint Co., masonry work by R. L. Crowell, and cement work by Charlie Campbell.

WOMEN'S CLUBS
The city women's clubs will work interior decorating and the garden clubs will landscape.

Bruce Dunn, director of public works, said that the city will do anything requested, although he pointed out that the project should be kept on the "community" level as much as possible.

The foundation will be staked out Tuesday and poured Wednesday. By Saturday the walls should be up and electrical and plumbing systems roughed in. The following weekend, June 11, the building should be nearing the finished stage, all agreed.

Dunn said that the railroad house planned as the center would now be moved to the North Side and rebuilt as a Negro recreation house.

The pavilion in the North Side park was destroyed by fire and Dunn said a replacement for use by residents of the area is needed.

Volunteer work for rebuilding of that structure will be called for after completion of the treatment center.

GARDEN TALK

That Helpful Bee Can Also Be Dangerous

Bees are supposed to be the gardeners' friend, and in their proper place they do a fine job of pollinating some types of plants where the seed crop is important. But there is more.

Recently I had a call from Cecil Hamilton about a swarm of bees that had taken up in the tail section of one of his airplanes. He said he tried to shake them out and did a fair job of scattering bees all over West Texas, but still he had bees living in the rear part of the craft. I have an unwanted hive in the wall of my home, and I remember some once in the walls of the First Baptist Church here. These bees are somewhat of a problem.

The aggravation of a hive of unwanted bees is bad enough, but they are more of a problem than just a bother. In the news we hear about deaths from bee stings. This is not too uncommon. Some people react violently to bee stings, and deaths from bees are much more common than deaths from snake bites. Last year more than twice as many deaths occurred from bee stings than from snake bites. Wasps also have occasionally deadly stings. The Bible may have reference to this in the quotation: "Death where is thy sting?" We have heard the old saw, "I am not afraid of a bee hurting me as much as I am afraid of one making me hurt myself." This is the case of the man who this week bumped into a hive on his moving machine and in his haste to leave the tractor he fell into the rotary mower and was killed. I know of another man, who with a team of mules, was killed by a swarm of bees. The team ran over a hive, and the multiple stings killed both driver and the team. While bees are very nice in their place, they are not without their own darker side. Knowing both sides of the coin may be well worth while. It could even save a life.

If you have garden questions, write Bruce Frazier in care of The Big Spring Herald.

A Devotional For Today

Having gifts that differ according to the grace given to us, let us use them. (Romans 12:6, RSV.)
PRAYER: Our Father, help us to place our lives in Thy hands to follow Thy leading wherever it may take us. Help us to show by our everyday living that we are doing our best to follow the teachings Thou hast given us through Thy Son. In His name we pray. Amen.

Nothing New-But It's Important

Our annual cleanup campaign is now under way.
There's not much new one can say about such efforts, but all the old appeals are valid. Neat and clean premises are healthy and safe premises.
A clean and neat city not only is a safer and healthier city, but it advertises that here is a city with civic pride and some git up and go.
Living in a clean city gives you the feeling of well being like crawling between clean sheets. The city that is not content to tolerate trash and untidy appearance is a city that is apt to do something about other things.

It is axiomatic that the success of such an effort is dependent on you. No one else can tidy up your place, can paint the weather beaten walls of a house or burn, or chop your weeds. Everyone else on your block can go all out to clean up and you'll spoil the whole thing if you don't do your part.
Be a beaver this week, not a spoiler. Roll up your sleeves and get at it. Let's break all records of loads of trash to be carried away when the city begins its traditional free hauling service.

Better To Grow Than Shrink

Sand Springs, that elongated but rapidly growing community between Coahoma and Big Spring, is petitioning for an incorporation election.
What will become of it remains to be seen, but the move to incorporate is an evidence of a desire to enjoy some of the advantages of municipal protection and service. These do not come free, but in the long run they do offer considerable comfort and sometimes other benefits in better loans, lower insurance, etc.
Growth always brings its problems. Coahoma, another of our family, has enjoyed substantial growth in the last decade. One reason for this is that in the last few years, Coahoma has stepped out to do something first about its water and then about its sewage. As a civic enterprise street signs and house numbers have gone up, and the always homey community is becoming an even more desirable place.

Big Spring is not immune to making choices in such matters. If you have been following some of the suggestions City Planner Marvin Springer has introduced in his first phase of long range charting for city progress, you are well aware that Big Spring is going to have to decide whether and how it wants to expand its municipal services. Most of us, however, would rather worry about growing pains than shrinking pains.

David Lawrence Contrast In Manners And Diplomacy

WASHINGTON—What a contrast there is between the ill-mannered and abusive outbursts of a personal nature emitted by Nikita Khrushchev in the last 10 days and the calm and restrained address which President Eisenhower delivered on Wednesday night to the American people.
Forbearance in the face of an adversary's insults is a Christian virtue that is not always easy to maintain. But the President showed he was above the sort of controversy indulged in by the Soviet premier in his unprecedented attack on the chief executive of another state.
Never in the annals of diplomacy, so far as this writer can recall, has any international conference yielded such in-temperate language and such utter disregard of the amenities of states in their relations with each other.
But Mr. Eisenhower, while not conceding this, plainly decided not to allow any sensitiveness because of an affront against him personally to be influential in setting a course that might lead to an estrangement as between the people of the United States and the Soviet people.

THE PRESIDENT frankly told the full details of the U-2 incident and explained why, in the interest of possibly saving the life of the pilot, it was necessary for a few hours to cover up some of the facts. Certainly this should brush aside many of the criticisms and focus attention on the main issue, which Mr. Eisenhower described when he said:
"Our safety, and that of the free world, demand, of course, effective systems for gathering information about the military capabilities of other powerful nations, especially those that make a fetish of secrecy. This involves many techniques and methods. In these times of vast military machines and nuclear-tipped missiles, the ferreting out of this information is indispensable to free world security. This has long been one of my most serious preoccupations. It is part of my grave responsibility, in the over-all problem of protecting the American people, to guard ourselves and our allies against surprise attack."

THE PRESIDENT stressed the fact that Soviet Premier Khrushchev knew about the U-2 flights when he visited the United States last September but raised no question then. As for discontinuance of the flights after Francis Powers was downed, Mr. Eisenhower made it clear that this particular type of operation now is no longer necessary. Obviously the new satellites currently in the latest stages of development can take care of the same needs of aerial inspection. Evidently the Soviets have never objected to space satellites because they themselves use them.
The President, moreover, answered effectively the question of why the flights were made just before a "summit" meeting. He said:
"The plain truth is this: When a nation needs intelligence activity, there is no time when vigilance can be relaxed. From Pearl Harbor we learned that even negotiation itself can be used to conceal preparations for a surprise attack."

The tragedy of Pearl Harbor is still fresh in the minds of the American people, so many of whose sons were lost in the war which we were compelled to enter in December 1941. Proper collection and use of intelligence information might have frustrated the conspiracy of the Japanese militarists.

BUT MR. EISENHOWER said something even more to the point as he declared it was obvious that Mr. Khrushchev was bent on torpedoing the "summit" conference and upon cancelling the invitation for the President's visit to the Soviet Union.

But, notwithstanding all the boorish diplomacy of Mr. Khrushchev, the President still wants to "continue businesslike dealings with the Soviet leaders on outstanding issues, and improve the contacts between our own and the Soviet peoples, making clear that the path of reason and common sense is still open if the Soviets will but use it."

Thus, the President announces that negotiations for a ban on nuclear tests and for some disarmament agreement will be continued at Geneva. Also, the President appeals to the American people and Congress when he says that "the zigs and zags of the Kremlin cannot be allowed to disturb our worldwide programs and purposes." He favors a continuation of the military and foreign-aid programs, particularly economic assistance to smaller countries which can become victims of Communist infiltration if they are not able to meet their economic crises. For the Communists exploit economic distress and foment discontent for their own political purposes.

THE SPEECH WAS A model of restraint under conditions that might otherwise have increased rather than decreased world tensions, especially if there had been a reply in kind to the provocative outbursts of Mr. Khrushchev in Paris.
Mr. Eisenhower's address will please our allies because he has remained firm, polite and yet forceful in expressing our over-all purposes and in describing so earnestly the goals of peace which the Western world seeks to attain.

CHANCE TO PROFIT FROM ANOTHER

J. A. Livingston

The Simple Laws Of Economic Self-Interest

Dr. Andre Tunc, professor of law at the University of Paris and formerly in the legal department of the International Monetary Fund, makes this revealing comment about life in America:

"The front pages of your newspapers tell a great deal about Russia and Communism. Day after day they describe military developments. Naturally, the summit conference gets full treatment. But anything about the underdeveloped countries appears on the back pages. Yet, that is the greater problem of the future."

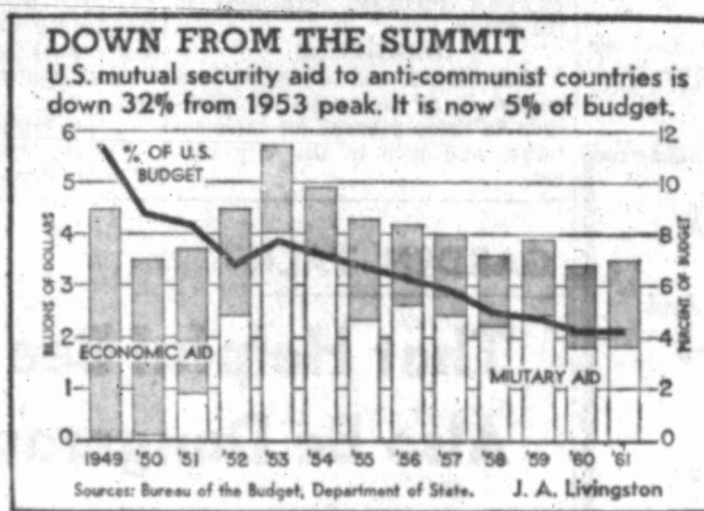

Prof. Tunc, who has been on leave to the University of Pennsylvania Law School, insists that the "have" nations of the Western World are doomed to defeat in the struggle with Communist Russia if they do not help satisfy the "rising expectations" of the people of the underdeveloped world. Americans, Frenchmen, Englishmen can't expect to live in comparative splendor while millions upon millions of persons haven't enough to eat.

INTERNATIONAL "NEW DEAL"
Prof. Tunc cites data of the United Nations. Some 2,000,000,000 people live on a per capita income of less than $300 annually; 1,500,000,000 live on less than $100 a year—if that can be called living. Gradual destitution is more expressive. Contrast that with America's $2,000 a year per capita spending power!

The ultimate political loyalties of the "have nots" will determine the victor in the struggle with Soviet Russia, not nuclear weapons or military might, says Prof. Tunc. As the result of greater literacy, people of Asia and Africa have an understanding of how the other few per cent live. The times call for an "International New Deal."

SELF-INTEREST
Prof. Tunc argues that the United States, France, Great Britain, and other nations of the West must increase their foreign economic assistance—not purely out of sympathy, the desire to help those who are in misery, but out of self-interest.

What would happen if the vast majority of people in the United States had an income of $100 per capita per year and a comparatively few had $2,000 a year? There'd be a revolution, a forcible take-over of wealth, says Prof. Tunc. This is what will happen in the world—in the form of a swing to Communism.

These ideas are not unique. They have been expressed by Paul G. Hoffman, the first administrator of the Marshall Plan. They have been published by Barbara Ward, a contributing editor to the London Economist. They have been enunciated over and over by officials of the State Department and President Eisenhower himself.

MUTUAL PROSPERITY
America can expect to prosper only if the rest of the world prospers. Yet, every time Mutual Security aid legislation comes up in Congress, there's an outcry. Charity begins at home.

This year the president asks a little more than $4,000,000,000 for MSA. It's a small outlay in the massive struggle against Soviet power and propaganda.

Mutual Security Aid has been split about 60 per cent military and 40 per cent economic. Current plans call for about half and half. But the total is only 5 per cent of the U. S. Budget (see chart). It constitutes less than 1 per cent of the total output of goods and services. And it's down sharply from the 1953 peak of $7,700,000,000.

Around The Rim Letters That Haven't Been Written

Letters the editor hardly expects to receive:

Dear Sir:
Why is it you put so much news in the paper about young people's accomplishments? We get sick of reading so much stuff about this boy winning a scholarship award, and that girl being made president of her honor society. It's mighty monotonous to read about the rural youth organizations, the home makers, the Scouts, the YMCA groups.

Why can't you give some more honest-to-goodness news about juvenile delinquency? After all, anybody knows the percentage of delinquents is higher than that of honorable kids. Why do you always speak up for the minority? Give us the meat of the news. Quit trying to pat the kids on the back. Anybody knows about their triumphs. It's their defeats and troubles we want to know about. Haven't you got any guts?

Yours truly,
OLD CRONY

Mr. Editor:
I think you ought to know that Senator Phogbound is my first cousin, and has been responsible for getting me a soft job. One I have been able to hang onto all these years. But that doesn't influence me one bit. I wanted you to know that your editorial calling for Senator Phogbound's defeat on the ground that he is ignorant, incompetent, a pompous old jackass and very like a crook, is right up my alley. I like editors who print this sort of thing about my cousin. Even if I disagreed with you, I would admire your thorough presentation of the subject. Just keep up the good work.

Sincerely,
ADDLE PATED

To the Editor:
Just wanted you to know that I have not missed reading a copy of your paper since it was established in 1904. There were days when I might as well have missed, but I just did not want to break the habit. I cannot see where your paper is getting much better, but it is different from what it was in 1904.

Incidentally, I have saved all the copies of your paper, without exception, since 1904. The collection is beginning to get a little large for our storehouse. I was wondering if you would like to buy the entire files of your paper. I will let you have them at the same price you sold them to me in the first place. Then you would have a complete file.

Your FAITHFUL READER
Mr. Editor:
I don't want you to think that I am a publicity seeker, but you have overlooked putting my name in the paper. I was arrested yesterday on a DWI charge, and feel that members of my family, my friends and my business associates should know about it. I have looked in two issues of the paper, and you have not carried one word about this. Will you please do so? And, please, spell my name right.
Sincerely,
TIPSY

To the Editor:
Somebody has been writing in another paper about a scientist trying to grow square peas, so that they will not roll off your knife. Can you tell me if this is so, and how far along is the 'scientist'? The reason I want to know is that I am working on a patent for a knife that has a groove that will hold regular round peas. I figure that if the square peas are perfected, there will not be a market for my slotted knife. Therefore there is no reason for me to pay the cost of the patent.

Norman Vincent Peale How To Get More Out Of Life

I have often wondered why some people seem to get so much more out of life than others. I think I have discovered at least one reason. It is the mental attitude they take toward each new day. They start the morning on a happy, positive note and this sets the tone for the whole day.

Years ago I was a friend of the late Hattie McDaniel, the much loved movie star. She was a person of radiant character despite lots of hardships and physical suffering. When she was a child dreaming of being an actress, her father, a Baptist preacher, told her she could serve God in the theatrical profession just as in any other, if she was a dedicated person. "There is so much trouble in the world, Hattie," he said. "I hope you will pray that through you the Lord will make people happy." And she did.

HATTIE McDANIEL developed the habit of stepping out each morning into the open air, taking several deep breaths, then throwing out her arms in a gesture of joy as she cried out, "Hello, there, good morning!"

"And," she would say, with that wonderful smile of hers, "that good morning just smiles right back at me. Then I go about my job of making people happy. And I'm happy doing it."

One of the greatest of all the laws of living is that life gives back to us what we give to it.

EVERY DAY THAT might seem hopelessly dismal can become a bright day if one approaches it optimistically. One morning last February I happened to be at St. Louis. Winter was in full force that gray, overcast morning. The temperature was pushing zero. The snow lay thick upon the ground and new snow filled the air. Traffic was practically at a standstill. I went to Union Station to take a train for Kansas City. A howling wind surgled under the train sheds, scooping up snow in long spirals and dropping it down people's necks. The walks were slippery with ice. The elemental forces seemed bent upon trying everybody's patience. People moved glumly along, grumbling about the "terrible day."

Then I noticed a big fellow striding up the platform, hatless, with his coat open and flapping in the wind. His face was ruddy and wreathed in a big smile. Seeing me, he boomed out, "Hello there! Isn't this a glorious bad morning?"

WHAT A PHRASE — "a glorious bad morning!" Suddenly I too caught something of the might, the thrill, the glory of that rugged winter morning. The man's attitude changed the aspect of the day. Later, on the train, I engaged him in conversation. "Where did you ever get that glorious bad morning idea?" I asked.

He chuckled, "I have read your book on positive thinking. You don't say the same thing in so many words, but the idea is there. It is to think positively about anything life brings and to see the good in it however hard it may be."

"I ASSURE YOU I have not always believed all that. In fact, I used to be the world's greatest sourpuss. I was unhappy and I made everybody else around me feel unhappy and I knew it. Finally I decided I would have to change. So I started changing my thoughts from gloomy to optimistic—from negative to positive as you say in your book. Change your thoughts and you change everything."

I am glad I met that dynamic man. The buoyancy of his mind affected my own thinking. My whole day was a better one as a result. Here was yet another demonstration that you can make your life zestful and happy—if you will only take your thoughts in hand. That is how to get more out of life.

Marquis Childs Another Dulles During A Crisis

WASHINGTON — As they sat in the garden of the British Embassy in Paris, looking out at the lovely prospect of the smooth greenward walled away from the city's surging traffic, President Eisenhower told Prime Minister Macmillan something of the ordeal he had been through over the shooting down of the U-2 espionage plane.

It was the first opportunity that they had to talk reflectively about the fearful events which had destroyed the hopes of both men for the beginning of a peaceful settlement between East and West. Among other things the President told the Prime Minister was that at the height of the furor over the U-2 Allen Dulles had offered to resign as director of the Central Intelligence Agency if this would make the President's task of decision any easier.

BUT THE PRESIDENT, as he explained it to Macmillan, put aside this offer. Many elements in a complex relationship were involved in the decision. Loyalty to Dulles was one. More important was the President's emotional reaction involving his own necessity to take responsibility before the world for what had happened.

In actual fact, inquiry in Washington suggests that the President in his talk with the British prime minister rather overstated the case. Dulles did not offer to resign as head of CIA, since he believed this would be running away from responsibility. What he did propose was in a sense more dramatic.

Dulles told the President that he was prepared to accept full and public responsibility for the U-2 flight if this would simplify the President's problem on the eve of the summit conference.

THIS AVOWAL WOULD have unquestionably brought down a storm on Dulles' head, with attack at home as well as abroad. It could even have forced his resignation from the CIA. But whatever the risks involved he was willing to accept them if this could in any way alleviate a crisis as grave as any the United States had faced since the end of the war.

By one of those strange coincidences of history the involvement with Allen Dulles came just one year after the President had gone through perhaps the greatest emotional wrench of his tenure of the White House with the illness and death of John Foster Dulles, then secretary of state. Having delegated more authority over foreign policy to Dulles than probably any other Secretary of State has ever exercised, the President found it difficult to reconcile himself to his disappearance from the scene. It was grudgingly and almost by default that Eisenhower named Christian A. Herter, Dulles' deputy, as his successor.

AGAIN AND AGAIN — over Indo-China, Quemoy and Matsu, Suez, Lebanon and Iraq—the President found himself on the brink, with his loyalty to "Foster" unshaken. When Dulles died on May 24, 1959, the President ordered a state funeral for him such as has rarely been accorded any American citizen. Ironically, as it must seem in retrospect, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko came for the funeral and there was speculation at the time that he might in a private talk with the President seek means to break the deadlock that paralyzed the foreign ministers' conference at Geneva.

It was natural then that the President in this latest and gravest crisis should find a Dulles at his side. The remarkable success in fighting off congressional watchdog committees that would monitor the activities of his far-flung agency. The proposal of Sen. Mike Mansfield (D, Mont.) for such supervision was defeated, 59 to 27, four years ago.

THE LONDON OBSERVER published recently a searching profile on Dulles that was on the whole favorable. But it stated that it was only said in private here—that the CIA runs its own foreign policy in many parts of the world.

In the history of the times both John Foster and Allen will have a prominent part, but it is too early to appraise their respective roles. And certainly it is too soon even to guess at how Allen Dulles will look when, and if, the whole picture of the U-2 is finally known.

To Your Good Health Some People Seem To Be Natural Worriers

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has high blood pressure, 210 over something. He has had a heart attack for two years, and it goes down when he takes tranquilizers. A complete physical examination last week disclosed no reason for the pressure, and the doctor says it comes from tension. Is there any way he can be helped through diet?"—Mrs. L. N.

I doubt it unless, of course, he is overweight, in which case dieting is likely to be of some real help, although it probably won't be the entire answer.

Tension—which gives every indication of being a very important factor in blood pressure for some patients—seems to have little if any relation to diet.

It is, rather, based on the individual's emotions, his attitude toward life. Some people seem to be natural worriers. Or then again, maybe some people worry and fret because they have just gotten into the habit of worrying, and never have taken the time to ask themselves, "Why do I worry? Is the fretting I do really important? Or am I worrying over nothing?"

Since the advent of the tranquilizers, we at last have a drug (or a variety of drugs) which dull the impulse to worry. Yet, as you know, they are artificial. They don't change the individual's basic attitudes. This he must do for himself.

Habit, I think, is probably one of the most important of all human characteristics. Indeed, it may well be that (for example) whole nations become victims of habit. Isn't it possible that some of the so-called "warlike nations" of the earth are warlike only because, as nations, they have gotten into the long-term habit of thinking in a certain way?

Habit—that of eating too much, of worrying, of being lazy, of being bossy or of being kind and gentle, of being friendly or remote — is something we can change if we want to change, and if we recognize that we have a habit. But usually we don't even recognize things as habit.

No, don't expect a change in diet to change a way of thinking. Render unto Caesar the things that belong to Caesar. And seek in the mind the things that spring from the mind.

Ask your husband to read this carefully, and see if, in his good time, he can't begin to observe that tension is something that springs from his thinking, from his attitude, and can be changed only by going to the source—his thinking.

Yes, I know it's not easy. But see if he's interested in pursuing this thought for a time. Let me know, oh, say a year from now, whether he can see some results.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What about vitamin pills for a diabetic? Can a diabetic drink beer, wine, etc. in moderate amounts? The person is taking insulin.—W.B." Vitamins have nothing to do with diabetes. If a diabetic needs vitamins, he should take them. As to the "beer, wine, etc.," all contain sugar—especially the "etc.," if you mean what I think you mean. Therefore anyone with diabetes is much better off to leave alcoholic drinks alone.

NOTE TO V.R.: I know of at least one case in which a child had nephritis and his identical twin did not. You certainly have no reason to think that because one child fell victim to the disease, that other children are bound to have it, or even likely to. You have been torturing yourself by needless worry.

Hemorrhoids can be cured! If troubled with fissures, fistulas, itching and other rectal problems, write to me in care of The Big Spring Herald requesting a copy of my booklet, "The Real Cure for Hemorrhoids," enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover handling.

Dr. Molner, welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Galatians	5	1
Monday	Psalms	119	44-48
Tuesday	I Peter	2	13-20
Wednesday	Romans	8	31-39
Thursday	Romans	12	1-9
Friday	Romans	12	10-21
Saturday	Romans	15	1-7

Our future presidents and prime ministers — from what spiritual heritage shall they arise?

The ultimate giants of science and industry — what faith will they profess?

The fathers and mothers of our grandchildren and great-grandchildren — what convictions will be taught in their homes?

All this we are deciding today... in our churches... in our families.

For one generation can bequeath only to the next that which it, itself, possesses.

Our own religious life, our own determination to provide our children with thorough spiritual training, our own faithfulness in filling our churches with families — these positive purposes, expressed Sunday after Sunday, will mold TOMORROW'S LEADERS.

Brynnner, Kendall In Smart Comedy

Yul Brynner demonstrates, in the new Stanley Donen production, "Once More, With Feeling," that he is as much at home in modern sophisticated comedy as he is in swashbuckling spectacle.

His performance as a temperamental music maestro may be seen in the film showing Tuesday and Wednesday at the Ritz. Lovely Kay Kendall co-stars with Brynner in the Columbia release in color by Technicolor. The actress appears as Brynner's equally temperamental wife, matching his flights of emotional fancy with some delightful pyrotechnics and madcap antics uniquely her own.

Screenplay for "Once More, With Feeling" was penned by Harry Kurnitz from his own successful Broadway stage play, the happy comedy of musical genius whose eccentricities are kept in check by his wife . . . until she discovers him "auditioning" a sultry young pianist. She walks out on him, and his career promptly starts skidding.

In time, the maestro decides to forgive her, only to discover she now is in love with an atomic scientist and is determined to marry him once her divorce comes through. "Once More, With Feeling" was produced and directed by Stanley Donen with Paul Radin serving as associate producer. Gregory Ratoff is importantly cast as Brynner's manager, and Miss Kendall's friend.

Sheilah Graham Has Recipe For Dieting-Knitting

Sheilah Graham boasts a three-fold career as nationally syndicated columnist, actress and knitter. Miss Graham has appeared in other films as "herself," but now plays her first character role as a Sister in a home for wayward girls in "Girls Town."

However, she lets neither her activities as a writer nor her career as an actress interfere with her knitting. She started a few knitting chores just prior to her move to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for her role in "Girls Town." Now completed, they add up to the following:

A pullover sweater and a jacket for her daughter. Another sweater and jacket for her son. Three sweaters, a dress and three scarves for herself. Miss Graham has an explanation for this industrious undertaking. It seems she is on a diet. "It keeps my hands out of the cookie jar!" she says.

Williams Story Burns Ritz Screen

An explosive combination of star and writing talents promise to see the Ritz Theatre screen Thursday through Saturday when Marlon Brando, Anna Magnani and Joanne Woodward open in Tennessee Williams' shattering drama, "The Fugitive Kind."

The stars are all recent Oscar winners. Maureen Stapleton, Victor Jory, R. G. Armstrong and John Baragrey head the strong supporting cast. A United Artists release, "The Fugitive Kind" was directed by Sidney Lumet from a script by Tennessee Williams and Meade Roberts, produced by Martin Jurov and Richard A. Shepherd.

The unmistakable ingredients of excitement and earthiness which Tennessee Williams manages to stir into all of his works is present in "The Fugitive Kind" in a strong brew of violence and romance in a small Southern town. "The Fugitive Kind" is an adaptation of Williams' own Broadway smash hit "Orpheus Descending."

The Last Voyage

Andrew and Virginia Stone's suspense masterpiece, "The Last Voyage," returns to the Jet screen Sunday and Monday. The film tells the story of human drama against a background of ocean disaster.

'Glen Miller Story' Is Screen Tale Of Bandsman

"The Glenn Miller Story," Universal-International's Technicolor production of the great bandleader's life-story, plays Sunday and Monday at the Ritz.

Of the top 27 speaking roles in the picture only three are fictional—a pawn-shop operator, a girl singer whose lackadaisical style spoiled the public debut of Miller's celebrated "Moonlight Serenade," and the officer in the Army dispatcher's office at Orly Field, France, who first revealed that Major Glenn Miller was missing on that ill-fated military flight across the English Channel in December, 1944.

James Stewart, the popular choice of Miller fans for the title role, plays Glenn Miller, with June Allyson co-starring as his wife, Helen Charles Drake, portrays Don Haynes, Miller's manager, and Henry Morgan acts the role of Chummy MacGregor, Miller's piano-playing pal. The real-life Haynes assisted on the script and MacGregor acted as technical advisor. Ben Pollack, the band-leader, Gene Krupa, Louis Armstrong, Frances Langford, The Archie Savage Dancers and The Modernaires make appearances in the picture as themselves.

Miller Men Recording Aids

The unique orchestral style which gave Glenn Miller his distinctive "new sound" was followed in recording nine of Miller's all-time hits for "The Glenn Miller Story."

Seven members of the original Glenn Miller Orchestra took part in the recording sessions for the picture, conducted by Joseph Gershenson, director of U-I's music department. They are Chummy MacGregor, piano; Babe Russin and Willie Schwartz, reeds; Dick Fisher, guitar; Rolfe Bundock, bass; Zeke Zarchy, trumpet; and Paul Tanner, trombone.

The perennial Miller favorites featured in the picture include his signature song, "Moonlight Serenade," "String of Pearls," "Pennsylvania 6-5000," "Tuxedo Junction," "In the Mood," "American Patrol," "St. Louis Blues March," "Chattanooga Choo-Choo" and "Little Brown Jug."

Mahalia Jackson, Earl Grant Sing In Film Classic

Two reigning song stars are heard — and one of them seen as well — in "Imitation of Life," Universal's new version of the famous Fannie Hurst novel Sunday through Tuesday at the Sahara.

Unseen, but very much heard, is Decca star Earl Grant, who does the title song. The music is by Sammy Fain, with words by Paul Francis Webster, and Decca also issued a "single" of the number.

Also singing in the picture — and very much seen as well — in one of the dramatic highlights of the production, is the famed Negro spiritual songstress, Mahalia Jackson. It is Miss Jackson who sings "Trouble of the World" during the elaborate funeral services for beloved "Annie" in the picture.

A third song, a sultry blues number newly written by Arnold Hughes and Frederick Herbert, also is performed in the picture. It's done by Susan Lohner in a New York night club sequence. The new version of "Imitation of Life" brings Lana Turner, John Gavin, Sandra Dee, Dan O'Herlihy, Robert Alda, Juanita Moore and Miss Kohner in the principal roles. The picture is in color and was produced by Ross Hunter and directed by Douglas Sirk.

GROWTH

Is soaring inflation the inevitable price of economic growth? The relationship between prices and growth was the question 64 representatives of education, labor, business and government put to themselves recently at a meeting of the American Assembly. Their answer: we can indeed have dynamic growth with reasonably stable prices and low unemployment. But there is only one way this ideal can be translated into reality—through a continued effort by all of us to achieve a steady rise in productivity.

Take a look at the facts about America's future—they're important to you! Write today for the free booklet, "Prices, Growth and You," to: American Assembly, Columbia University, New York 27, New York.

CINEMA COMMENT

By Bob Smith

Yul Brynner has a lot going on under his big dome in "Once More, With Feeling." Mostly Machiavellian.

He's a symphony conductor who uses all around him ruthlessly to keep himself on his pedestal (or podium), including his wife and his business manager.

Soon his wife, played by the late Kay Kendall, has had enough, and she wants a divorce. The only trouble is, they had forgotten to get married years before, when they should have. Brynner's sudden change to sweetness and light won't help him with the symphony's board of directors should this piece of information get out.

It is upon this premise that "Once More, With Feeling" is built, and it is well built. Stanley Donen, producer and director, chose his cast wisely, and he put Harry Kurnitz to work on a movie script of his own successful stage play. It was a happy event all around.

The comedy never falls into clowning, although there is plenty of well-timed slapstick. The actors obviously enjoyed themselves, and you will, too.

Producers Jurov and Shepherd rocked Hollywood on two fronts in announcing the production of "The Fugitive Kind." They achieved the near-impossible in gathering such three first magnitude stars as Brando, Magnani and Woodward for a single motion picture. The producers also decided to steer clear of Hollywood itself by taking their production crew on location in Milton, New York, a sleepy Hudson River Valley town which with only a bare minimum of "make-up" was transformed into a perfect replica of a Mississippi Delta hamlet.

Marlon Brando plays Val Xavier, toting a guitar and wearing the snakeskin jacket that is the symbol of his individuality. He is running away from himself. Anna Magnani portrays the sordid Lady Torrence, unhappily married and rebelling against the encroachments of age.

For

MARSHALL

J. Arnold Marshall is not a "joiner." He does not hold membership in a great number of organizations — due mainly to lack of time — but those he has chosen are given his constant support and sincere enthusiasm.

As chairman of the civic development committee of the Chamber of Commerce, he has campaigned recently to make every citizen aware of Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up Week now in progress. This is an annual effort made for the general improvement and beautification of the city.

Arnold came to Big Spring in 1940, accepted a position with Cosden Petroleum Company and remained with them for the next 17 years. For the past three, he has been vice president of H. W. Smith Transport Company, Inc. In the past, he has served as president of the American Business Club and been a director of that organization.

"The YMCA is definitely my pet project," says Marshall. "For the good it can do our youth of today, it is the greatest asset we have!" He is a past president of the local YMCA, is a vice president of the Southwest area council, presently serves on the area and local boards besides being a member of the international committee.

Mrs. Marshall is the former Rachel Ford of Honey Grove. They live with their daughter, Nancy Jo, a sophomore at Big Spring High, at 1303 Pennsylvania Avenue. Sundays find them attending the First Methodist Church where Arnold is a member of the board of stewards.

TV Contract Is Extended

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The contract between Hollywood actors and major producers of television films has been extended 30 days. The Screen Actors Guild contract with the Motion Picture Producers and the Alliance of Television Film Producers now will expire on June 30.

It originally ran out April 30, but was extended once earlier. Producers have been busy negotiating with the Writers Guild of America, on strike for 19 weeks.

The Writers Guild Tuesday night turned down a new contract offer, and the producers' association Thursday night withdrew the offer — a move guild spokesmen termed a "propaganda move."

No negotiations are now set between the writers and the producers.

Wedding Uses Setting, Cast

DETROIT (AP)—Raymond Givewick, 28, the concertmaster of the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra, and Lolita San Miguel, 25, a soloist in the ballet troupe, were married here last week.

The cast of 325 singers, dancers and musicians watched the wedding.

The 90-piece orchestra played the wedding march. Stage props from the first scene of the opera "Andrew Chénier," one of the Met's Detroit productions, were used for an 18th-century French chateau setting on the stage of the Masonic Temple Auditorium.

Robinson Grabs Lead In Top Rodeo Award

DENVER—Harry Tompkins of Dublin (Texas) lost the lead for the all around cowboy championship last week at Las Vegas, Nev., to Bob A. Robinson, fast charging three-event rodeo pro from Rockland, Idaho.

Figured on total money won, the all-around title is professional rodeo's highest honor. Tompkins the lead since February and was $1,300 ahead of Robinson in early April.

Then the two locked in a bitter head-on battle at major rodeos at Winnipeg and Edmonton in Canada and at Las Vegas. Each time Tompkins, 1952 titleholder, won well. But each time the consistent Robinson ground out more money. At both Canadian rodeos Tompkins, 32, won the bareback riding contest, but lost ground as Robinson totalled $820 at Winnipeg and $1,019 at Edmonton.

Going to Las Vegas, Tompkins was ahead by $148. He took fourth in bull riding there, but the Idahoan stayed hot, winning the steer wrestling and placing on both saddle broncs and bareback horses. Robinson's $1,050 win moved him $17 in front of the Texan, $12,572 to $12,555.

Robinson bids to become the first cowboy to qualify for the National Finals Rodeo in three events. The top 15 men in each event at Dallas next December to decide the championships, and Robinson is among the top 10 in all three.

Among the top ranking cowboys in various events are:

All-around cowboy—Bob Robinson $12,572; Harry Tompkins $12,555; Guy Weeks, Abilene, $9,846. Saddle bronc—Guy Weeks $6,138; Enoch Walker, Cornville, Ariz., $5,889; Marty Wood, Brownsville, Alb. Can., $5,810. Bareback bronc—Jack Buschbom, Cassville, Wis., $6,384; Harry Tompkins $5,065; Walt Mason, Las Vegas, Nev., $4,995.

Bull riding—Harry Tompkins $7,490; Duane Howard, Minnewaukan, N. D., $6,297; Bob Wegner, Poncha City, Okla., $4,304.

Calf roping—Dean Oliver, Boise, Idaho, $8,624; Glen Franklin, House, N. M., $7,045; Grady Allen, El Campo, $5,880.

Steer wrestling—Bob A. Robinson, $5,993; Jim Painter, Jenks, Okla., $5,670; Jim Bynum, Fort Worth, $5,376.

Team roping—Benny Jacobs, El Roy, Ariz., $3,154; Gene Rambo, Shandon, Calif., $2,676; Duane Reece, Winkelman, Ariz., $2,490.

Thomas Lists Qualifications For Benefits

If you are disabled, cannot work and are between 50 and 65 years of age you may be qualified to receive disability benefits under the Social Security Act.

Qualifications for disability payments include employment for five of the last 10 years before becoming disabled and a physical condition preventing substantial gainful activity, according to H. P. Thomas, manager of the Odessa social security district office.

Thomas pointed out that those persons under 30 may qualify for a freeze of their social security earnings to protect their own and their dependents' future benefit rights.

To receive disability benefits, you must make inquiry at the social security office, file a claim, submit medical evidence of disability and meet the requirements, Thompson said.

Tech Research Indicates Recharging Will Pay Off

LUBBOCK—Will recharging the water from wet weather lakes pay off for High Plains farmers? Will the long-term investment pay dividends?

Dr. Ray Billingsley, Texas Tech associate professor of agricultural economics, figures storing such water will pay off $45 per acre-foot for each $3 per-acre-foot it costs when used to irrigate cotton land.

"What collects in playa lake depressions over the High Plains after a rainy season is potentially the biggest source of added ground water for this region," he said.

Noting that the technical problems associated with artificial water recharge are being solved, the economist suggests the cost of recharging and expected returns must now be considered. Of course cropping practices, the area cultivated, managerial skill, and crop prices are variable factors in expected income.

FIGURING COSTS

"But, the cost of recharged water can be estimated quite accurately if you know the cost of installing the recharge equipment, the length of time that the ground water in the aquifer will last without recharge, and the cost of money or interest rate," he said.

Billingsley explained how such costs may be figured in terms of a hypothetical farmer who grows cotton in this area.

Suppose Farmer Jones has a half-section of land, 300-acres of which is irrigated cotton land and 50-acres of which is a playa (wet-weather) lake that collects more than 50-acre-feet of water each year. An acre-foot of water equals 325,829 gallons.

Jones invests $1,500 into a recharge well. His present supply of ground water lasts an estimated 20 years.

$3 PER ACRE FOOT
During the 20-year period, the recharge well in the playa lake collected and placed 1,000-acre-feet of water into inventory for future use. In the meantime, the interest charged to the original recharge installation has increased its value to $3,000.

To find how much the recharge water costs, said Billingsley, you take the total investment cost plus interest ($3,000) and divide it by the total amount of water recharged (1,200 acre-feet).

Thus, when Farmer Jones starts using recharged water, his total compounded cost amounts to $3 per acre foot.

Jones now must know how much income he can realize from the use of each acre-foot of water if he is an average farmer and produces cotton (assuming costs and prices do not change), his income from the irrigated cotton (using recharge water) over dryland yields will amount to about $45 per-acre-foot of water used, the economist said.

GOOD RETURN

"Certainly, other costs will continue, but the $45 represents income the farmer would not have had otherwise. And, you get $45 income for a $3 investment in 20 years," he said.

The Tech teacher's cost factor charts show that for a given playa lake, the compounded cost of water per acre-foot decreases up to about 30 years. From that time on it increases, but the change in cost is slight.

His study was done under a cooperative research agreement between the Texas Agricultural Experiment Service and Texas Tech. A bulletin on the "Economics of Artificial Ground Water Recharge on the High Plains" will be available soon from the T.A.E.S.

Volunteer Duty For Teen-Agers Slated By VA

Something new in junior volunteer service will be attempted this week at the Veterans Administration Hospital.

An orientation or indoctrination course for young people of high school age will be held Wednesday starting at 9:30 a.m. in the hospital recreation room.

This is a prelude to an opportunity to serve as volunteers at the hospital this summer. Plans are to assign young people to the various departments such as nursing, recreation, occupational therapy, corrective therapy, recording, dietetics. They would serve under the supervision of the chiefs of the departments and would have an opportunity to gain experience through association with the professional staff.

Young people will be welcomed by V. J. Belda, manager of the hospital. Greetings will be brought by Dr. Robert Margolis, acting director of professional services; Bessie Love, chief of nursing service; Gwen Molzahn, representing dietetics; Phil Hanigan, chief registrar; Rex Bishop for corrective therapy; Mrs. Ara Cunningham for volunteer services; Tolford Durham for social services.

During the afternoon, there will be a tour of the VA Hospital. Young people of high school age who would like to train in active service for others during the summer are urged to take part.

Pre-Rehearsing

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It wasn't long ago that it was unheard of to rehearse an entire movie script before filming.

Director Delbert Mann claims much of the credit for starting the practice. He began it with "Marty" and now is on his sixth film, convinced that pre-production rehearsing saves both time and money.
