CITY COUNCIL TO CONSIDER LAYING GUTTERS AND CURBS

Action To Be Taken Soon On Naming of Streets and Numbering

Several paving petitions having been presented to the City Council during the past month, the City Fathers Monday night at their regular monthly meeting considered the various propositions and decided to investigate the matter of paving several of the principal residential and semi-business streets of the city. Property owners on the several streets have expressed their desire to pave about thirty blocks.

The council decided to take up the matter of laying gutters and curbing with property holders on Highway No. 7. The sections of the highway on which the proposed curbs will be laid lie from the end of the brick paving just north of the Woodrow Hotel to the Roscoe, Snyder & Pacific tracks near the Santa Fe depot, and from the edge of the paving on the Dal-Paso Cavern Highway to the intersection of Highway No. 7 and Highway No. 101 leading to Colorado. No petitions have been presented by property holders on this highway, but it is the purpose of the city to cooperate with them to the end that the highway might be improved in the near future. It is thought that the property holders will be anxious to receive the cooperation of the city in this forward step in civic improvement.

Street Naming Delayed.

The Council expected A. N. Roberts of Lubbock, the engineer who has presented blueprints of the proposed street naming and house numbering system, but for some reason he did not get here for the meeting. The Council is anxious to let the contract for this piece of construuctive work, and Mayor H. G. Towle stated Tuesday that a call meeting will be held this month for the purpose of signing a contract for this job.

Novel Plan

The plans submitted by the Roberts Engineering Co. carry out a new idea in street naming. According to the plan, the streets would be numbered numerically beginning at the northern city limits and going on through the city. This would make the street running just north of the court house 25th street. Similarly, the streets running north and south would be called avenues and would be named alphabetically, as Avenue A, Avenue B, etc., beginning at the extreme eastern edge of the city and continuing on through until the letters run out. In this event, the avenues would be named, the names being alphabetically arranged, as Austin Avenue, Boston, Cleveland, and so forth.

According to the engineers, this is the system being employed in all the larger cities where re-naming is being carried out. The system eliminates the confusion caused by having the streets divided into east and west or north and south divisions, such as East 3rd Street and West 3rd Street. The system also eliminates the more or less meaningless names sometimes given to streets. Anybody would know where 13th street is if he knew where he was, (that is, provided he is sober) but he might not know where Scattergood Street is or how to get there in any event.

TO GET $17 PER CAPITA

According to State Supt. S. M. N. Marrs, who spoke twice in Snyder Tuesday, the per capita apportionment for this coming school year will be at least $17.00, $2.00 of which will be in the aballable school fund around the first of September.

Heretofore the apportionment has been only $15.00 per capita, but an increase in gasoline tax and property values in the state will raise the amount to a new high level. Mr. Marrs told the hundred Scurry County trustees Tuesday morning that it is possible that the apportionment will reach $17.50—the constitutional limit—but that if it should be granted this year, it would have to be reduced next year on account of the fact that around 100,000 new scholastics will be added next year when the six-year-old children will come under the free school laws. It was his suggestion and the opinion of the trustees present that the apportionment should be held to $17 this year so that it might be retained at $17 the following year.

Marrs is Guest of Co. Trustees Here Tuesday

Superintendent Reviews the New School Laws and Other Facts

S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of public instruction, was in Snyder Tuesday in conference with County Supt., A. A. Bullock and the members of the various boards of trustees over the county. He spoke to over a hundred trustees and some thirty or forty other citizens at the district court room on Tuesday morning at 10:00 o'clock.

C. F. Sentell delivered a short welcome address before the school trustees, and Supt. J. E. Bryant of Pyron responded. Mr. Bullock then introduced the principal speaker, Mr. Marrs, who launched into a discussion of the recent school laws and their meaning to the rural schools of Texas.

He began by saying that it was not the purpose of the state department of education to give every boy and girl an equal opportunity to get rich, but that it was the duty and privilege of the department to give every boy and girl in Texas an equal opportunity to become a good citizen. This, he said, can be done only through a good system of education supported and organized by the state government. This system naturally takes on the form of a business, which at once is recognized as the biggest business in the world today. Mr. Marrs stated that the business of educating the young people is the only business in which every citizen of the community is vitally interested. Therefore, he said, this business is supported by the state by a financial system known as taxation.

Supt. Marrs, in his preliminary explanation of the state financial system for schools, said that the per capita system of taxation was not the best method of financing the schools. This per capita tax, he said, is derived from four sources: poll tax, occupation tax, income from general school fund, and the 35-cent ad valorem tax. He deplored the fact that many people pay poll taxes only because they want to vote, not knowing what the $1.75 poll tax goes for. Of the $1.75 poll tax $1.00 goes to the public schools, 50 cents to the state general revenue, and 25 cents to the county general revenue fund. "I am ashamed of any school teacher or trustee in Texas who deliberately refuses to pay his poll tax," the speaker said.

One fourth of all the occupation tax money, including the 4-cent gasoline tax, goes to the support of the public schools. He estimated that about four dollars of the $15 per capita apportionment the past two years was derived from the gasoline tax. About $2.75 of this apportionment comes out of the income from the general revenue.

Mr. Marrs, in explaining the deficiencies of the present per capita system of supporting the schools, stated that public education is no local matter. No one knows where the citizens of Scurry County will reside several years hence. Therefore, it is necessary that all sections be given the same support. This support, however, need not necessarily be equal in dollars, but in what the dollar buys—educational opportunity. He then proceeded to show that in some instances it costs as much to educate twenty pupils as it would to give an equal opportunity to thirty students. This deficiency is being corrected by what is known as the rural aid system.

After this thorough explanation of the financial basis of the schools, Mr. Marrs explained somewhat in detail some of the new laws passed last year by the 41st legislature relative to rural aid, transfers, rural high schools, consolidated districts, and other things.

After the meeting in the court house, the crowd went to the First Presbyterian Church for lunch which was provided by the merchants and citizens of the town. An enjoyable program held after lunch, along with a round table discussion of school problems.

Dal-Paso All-State Tour Passes Through Here Friday

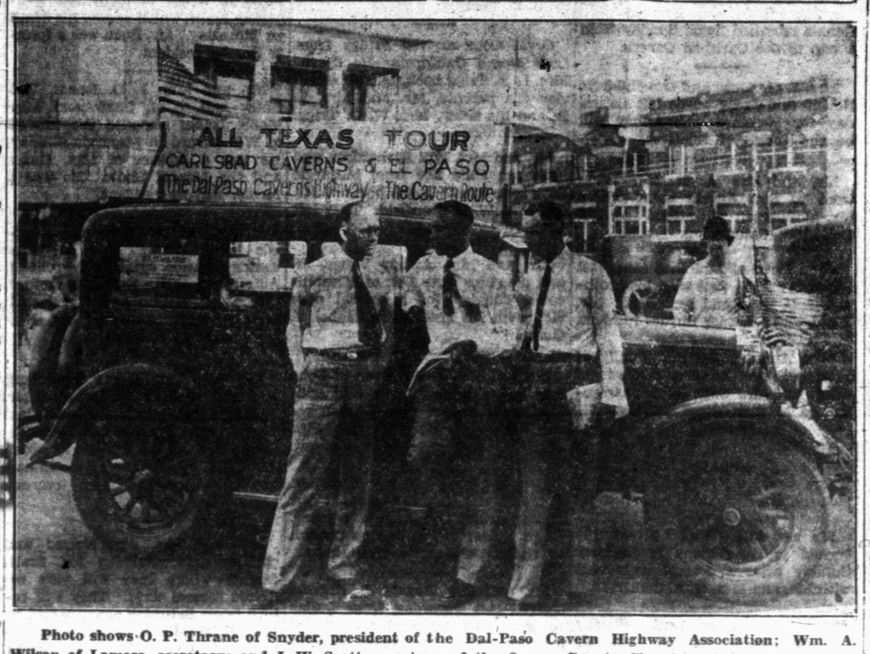

Photo shows O. P. Thrane of Snyder, president of the Dal-Paso Cavern Highway Association; Wm. A. Wilson of Lamesa, secretary; and J. W. Scott, secretary of the Scurry County Chamber of Commerce.

Snyder was host to members of the All-Texas Tour, a motorcade, bound for Carlsbad Caverns and El Paso, Friday night. The tour began Thursday morning when 15 automobiles left Marshall. Stops were made en route at all the county seats.

O. P. Thrane, president of the Dal-Paso Cavern Highway Association; Secretary Watt Scott of the Scurry County Chamber of Commerce, and 41 cars of Snyder and Scurry County citizens met the motorcade at the eastern Scurry County line and accompanied the caravan to Snyder where seven or eight hundred Snyder citizens gathered to greet the visitors.

The All-Texas Tour is being sponsored for the third year by the Dal-Paso Cavern Highway Association. William A. Wilson, secretary of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce and secretary of the Dal-Paso Cavern Highway Association, is in active charge of the motorcade.

The motorcade upon arrival in Snyder was conducted to the court house lawn where a short program was held. The address of welcome by Judge Fritz R. Smith was responded to by W. H. Kay of Fort Worth. After this program the motorcaders were directed to hotels and camp grounds where arrangements were made for spending the night, after which there was another program on the square featured by a concert by the local band and an old fiddlers contest.

Four prizes were awarded in the fiddlers contest. J. P. Gray of the Plainview community taking first; Mrs. Stokes of the Strayhorn community, second; Bob White of Fluvanna, third; and J. A. Thompson of Ira, fourth.

The motorcade formed again at 8:30 Saturday morning and continued its journey. The members of the All-Texas Tour were escorted to the western Scurry County line by a number of cars from Snyder and Scurry County, with only two cars continuing with the caravan as far as Lamesa.

The purpose of the annual motorcade is to stimulate interest in surfacing the highway along this route in counties that have not already done this.

The Dal-Paso Cavern Highway is a direct route to the Carlsbad Cavern east and west from Dallas to El Paso, and is 103 miles shorter than any other route and is on an airling from Fort Worth through the heart of West Texas.

The motorcade made stops on the trip from here west at Lamesa, Seminole, and Hobbs, N. M.

Snyder was happy to have the pleasure of entertaining the members of the All-Texas Tour, but this community failed to show enough real cooperation in that no cars joined the caravan for the remainder of the trip.

South Plains Motor Line is Formed Here

M. C. Carroll and R. L. (Bob) Terry have this week organized the South Plains Motor Line which will maintain four large trucks in operation both ways out of Snyder to Abilene and Lubbock.

Truck service will be given daily to Sweetwater and Abilene and Lubbock and intermediate points. Mr. Carroll, who recently sold his filling station to Covey and Davis, will have charge of the major part of the business of the new freight hauling firm, while Mr. Terry will continute in his capacity as manager of the Titman Egg Corporation produce house here. General headquarters for the new truck line will be at the Wilmeth rooms south of the Palace Theatre, where storage space is available for the storing of merchandise of varions kinds.

Mr. Terry organized the City Transfer and Storage Co. here several months ago, but his duties with the Titman Egg Corporation line. With the help of Mr. Carroll, who is an experienced transfer man, the newly organized company is in position to give the type of service that Suyder has been accustomed to having and which Mr. Terry has looked forward to for some time. Service to Sweetwater as offered by the Snyder Transfer Co. gives the City of Snyder a fine trucking service and will in a measure solve the freight question.

These boys have an ad in this issue of the Times-Signal in which they make official announcement of their connection. Turn to it and read it.

Revival Being Continued For Third Week

Owing to the increasing interest and many demands for continuance, the revival meeting of the Christian Church being conducted at the City Tabernacle by the local pastor, Rev. T. M. Broadfoot, with the assistance of Evangelist Paul Campbell, has been continued on through this week and will close Sunday night, August 11.

Rev. Broadfoot is bringing to the fine audiences a most unusual series of sound constructive messages, resulting in splendid teaching and the building of firm foundations. As a teacher portraying the beauties found only in the true work of God, he possesses an ability that places him along with the very best Bible scholars.

Paul Campbell, singing evangelist, is having splendid success with the young people, his booster choir numbering over seventy-five. The illustrated crayon drawings he makes every night combined with a short lecturue are features that are unusual to the inhabitants of Snyder and are creating a great deal of interest. There is an excellent spirit of fellowship existing among the congregation, and the praise service is being enjoyed and participated in by nearly all present.

Mad Dog Bites Three in Family Near Inadale

A dog known to have been affected with rabies bit Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Lipham and their son, Fred, last Thursday at their home one mile west of Inadale, according to the friends of the family who were in Snyder Monday and Tuesday raising a fund by subscription to enable the family to take the Pasteur treatment.

The dog had bitten several other dogs and several head of livestock previous to Thursday, and the animals bitten have since developed unmistakable signs of hydrophobia. The Lipman family was at once placed under treatment at Loraine and the dog's head sent to Austin to be examined by the Pasteur Institution.

According to the Inadale citizens, a general dog killing campaign has been waged there since the first case of rabies was discovered.

Simmons Band And Party To Tour Europe

Trip Will Start From Dallas in June of Next Year

Plans for a good will invasion of Europe by the Simmons Universty Cowboy Band of Abilene were completed at the general office of the United States lines in St. Louis last week. The trip will start from Dallas in the early part of June next year. The priciple cities of England France, Germany, Italy, Austria and Switzerland will be visited by the band and party. Seven weeks will be spent on the continent.

The tour will be under the supervision of Fred L. Haskett of Dallas, who will have for his foreign representative Guy Golterman, lawyer and grand opera patron of New York City and St. Louis. Mr. Golterman will sail Aug. 17 on the Leviathan of the United States lines to complete arrangements overseas. Mr. Haskett's arrangements with the United States lines is to use the Leviathan for both the going and returning voyages from Europe.

Unique Plan

Steamship officials declare the good will tour one of the most unque in history. The Simmons Cowboy Band was the official band for the Hoover Texas good will trip to Washington in March for the inauguration of President Hoover. The band participated in the parade and received a great ovation. President Hoover honored the band and members of the Texas party the following morning at the White House. While in the executive offices of the masion, Mrs. Hoover sent word requesting that the band play for her at the main entrance of the mansion. After a short concert Mrs. Hoover invited members of the band into the mansion, where she made the young college boys and girls a short talk. The band has played on Broadway.

Official Washington has been informed of the plan to visit Europe and the purpose of the tour. Highest officials of the Government are lending their aid in making the tour a success. Mr. Golterman will go to Washington in a few days, where he will give Secretary of State Stimson full information about the tour.

To Have Space at Fair

While there Mr. Golterman will receive letters of introduction to Ambassador Charles G. Dawes and other diplomats who represent the American Government in the nations to be visited. Space will be secured at the State Fair of Texas, where literature and other information will be given to visitors during the fair. It is also planned to have the band in Dallas during the State Fair contests.

The plan of the tour is to go via New Orleanes from Dallas where a Southern Pacific steamship will be taken to New York City. Two full days will be spent in the metropolis before sailing for the continent. On the return trip the band will play engagements in New York City, Boston, Cleveland Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cincinatti, St. Louis and Little Rock.

Members of th teour can return direct to their homes after arrival in New York City if they desire.

To Tour in Cars.

Another feature that will be worked out and perhaps completed within sixty days is for the entire party to tour Europe in American-made automobiles. This will enable members of the tour to see the nations and historic cities to be visited much better than by train transportation.

The tour has progressed sufficiently to state that the Texans will be greeted on several occassions by nobility or ranking Government

FARMERS URGED TO LINE UP WITH MARKET ASSOCIATIONS

A. A. Bullock Elected Head of State Body

State-wide Honor Comes to Snyder Man at College Station Thursday

County Supt. A. A. Bullock was chosen chairman of the Texas County Superintendents Conference last Thursday at its annual meeting held in conjunction with the farmer's short course.

Mr. Bullock was a member of the resolutions committee of the conference during the past year and was instrumental in the passage of a resolution favoring the enactment of a law providing "for the centralized buying of all school supplies in the representative counties as well as a bill making it optional with the counties as to appointment of the county superintendent by the county board. Other members of the resolution committee were Burl Bryant of Wichita Falls, Mrs. K. K. Robbins of Cameron.

Officers of the conference for the new year were elected as follows: A. A. Bullock, chairman; Mrs. George R. Felter, Austin, vice-chairman; Miss Etta Strickland, Nacogdoches, secretary.

Mr. Bullock stated that the meet-county superintendents and that much constructive work was done. He has planned a year of constructive work for the conference which will meet next year in connection with the annual short course at College Station.

Scurry County should be proud of having such a prominent school man at the head of her county schools. Mr. Bullock has with increasing rapidity forged to the forefront among the school men in Texas, and his recognition is not unexpected by those who are in close touch with school affairs of the county and state. His work speaks for itself, and congratulations are in order.

National Body Draft Plan of Operation at Dallas Meet

Outlining the provisions of the recent farm relief legislation before the Farmers' Marketing Association of America at its meeting in Dallas, Monday, M. H. Wolfe, veteran cotton factor of Texts urged that all farmers place themselves in position to benefit by selling through some statewide marketing association. He said that only two per cent of the cotton growers in Texas are thus aligned, leaving 98 per cent beyond the reach of the relief the government is seeking to extend.

Federal Lump of Sugar

"The federal government has dropped a $500,000,000 lump of sugar in the backyard of every farmer in the country and, if men have as much sense as ants, they will make a beaten path to it," Wolfe said.

He urged farmers to cooperate either with the Texas Farm Bureau Marketing Organization or the Farmers' Marketing Association of America, the only organization, according to him, conducted statewide marketing programs.

"The Federal Farm Board at its meeting in Baton Rogeu," Wolfe said, "suggested to the cooperative marketing associations that they use the finances of the local banks first, then to the federal intermediate credit banks; and after that to come to the federal farm board.

"That is as much as any intelligent group of men could say until the farmers are willing to put themselves within reach of the help provided for them."

Two former lieutenant governors for Texts, Lynch P. Davidson of Huston and T. W. (White) David- other speakers.

Fred Davis Speaks

Fred Davis, former state agricultural commissioner, discussed the effect of continued good prices, declaring that by stabilizing the price of cotton and providing more money for the farmer their living conditions would be improved greatly and that they would be able to decrease the amount of acreage now planted in cotton.

"All agencies except the producers who have anything to do with cotton are in a position to establish prices on this commodity," he said. "It is a challenge to the cotton farmer of the south to cooperate in the ordinary selling of his crop and he must see that he gets more for the crop than it takes to produce same."

Plan of Operation

The plan of operation drafted by the association today provides:

That farmer, merchants, bankers and others who accept the proposals agree to deliver a part, or all, of their cotton to the association for sale; that this cotton be warehoused at places designed by the association; that owners of cotton who wish to borrow against their cotton do so on terms arranged by the association; that those accepting the proposal leave $2 per bale on deposit with the association out of which all costs wil be paid the balance to remain on deposit to the credit of the owner to be used for creating a permanent financeing and marketing system for handeling the cotton.

Among others who spoke in favor of the proposals were O. P. Norman of Kaufman and I. B. Alford of Austin.

The following officers were re-president; Charles B. Metcalf of San Angelo, vice-president; and E. M. Crestman of Dallas, secretary.

Mitchell-Scurry Workers Enjoy Wonderful Day

Champion Entertains Large Crowd Tuesday; Fine Reports Given

The Mitchell-Scurry Baptist Association Workers' Conference enjoyed one of the most gratifying and beneficial meetings in its history Tuesday at Champion, southeast of Loraine, where the various phases of the denominational work of the association were discusused.

The first morning address was given by Rev. N. E. McGuire, pastor of the Loraine Baptist Church, who discussed the needs of the association. His general points were: Information, Inspiration and Consecration.

"How to Follow Up a Revival" was the subject of T. T. Wyman of Wastella. His church has recently had a great revival where about seventy-five conversions were had, and this layman gave a fine address.

Rev. W. F. Ferguson, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Snyder, had for his suubject "The Richness of Our Possessions," in which address he stressed the amazing grace of Jesus.

At the 11 o'clock hour John J. Cobb, teacher of science in Colorado High School and educational director and assistant pastor of the Colorado Baptist Church, preached a sermon on the subject, "How We Shall Salt Down the Earth," discussing this subject from a scientific viewpoint. According to Snyder attendants, this was a most wonderful hour. Lunch was served by the Champion ladies to the large crowd of delegates from over the association.

The Associational Board and the ladies' organization held simulutaneous meetings following the noon hour. The treasurer reported the association clear of debt, and the associational missionary, the Rev. Green, made a remarkable evangelistic report. Meetings have been in progress during the summer, with about sixty conversions reported during the last month.

Probably the highest hour of the day was experienced when Rev. G. W. Parks of Roscoe preached an expository sermon, using the third chapter of Philippians as a basis for his thoughts. His applications of the experiences of the Apostle Paul to present day conditions were unusual in their presentation and accuracy.

Association to Meet at Union

There will be no meeting of the Workers' Conference next month, as the regular meeting of the Mitchell-Scurry Baptist Association will be held next month at Union, five miles west of Snyder.

Members of the local church who attended the Champion meeting were Mrs. Melvis Neal, Mrs. M. E. Bibbee, Mrs. H. L. Wren, Mrs. Charley Glen, Rev. C. C. Carr and Rev. W. F. Ferguson.

SECTION IV

What One Woman's Club Achieved.
(A prize-Winning Letter)

In our town with a population of approximately 3,500, about half of which is colored, the woman's Club of Picayune has estblished a very successful Free Public Library in the following way:

Almost immediately after the organization of the club in 1923 a few women began to talk Public Library. Near the close of the club year in the spring of 1926 a committee was appointed to begin a definite movement. For a year they thought library, talked library, and, upon every available occassion had articles relative to libraries published in the local paper.

In the fall of 1927 they decided that public interest had been sufficiently aroused to make a drive for funds. They first appealed to the Mayor and Board of Aldermen who made an appropriation of $800. With this as a basis the committee set November 13th, 1927, as "Library Day," when the club women in groups of two canvassed the town. They accepted donations of any amount from 25 cents up, with the result that in cash and pledges the total receipts were $2,000.00.

We next wrote several well known publishers for book-lists and corresponded with the American Library Association and the Chairman of the State Library Commission. A merchant rented us a room in the business district suitable for our purpose, asking $25.00 for the first year. With part of the necessary furnishings in simple design, the Chairman of the State Library Commission advised us to have a trained Librarian to catalogue our books, and to instruct a local woman in the work so that we now have a most efficient librarian.

Our membership numbers 1,137, and we have 1,300 volumes in the Library. The Library is open 14 hours weekly, with a circulation of 1,123 books for the past month.

This year the city appropriated $2,500 for the Library, insuring Picayune an established institntion, financed by the people through taxes but still under supervision of the Woman's Club, which makes it a continuous community service.

POLAR NEWS

By Mrs. J. A. Martin

Our community has not been as fortunate as Snyder and adjoining communities. We need rain badly. Crops are holding up very well, but grass is short.

Every one who attended the Methodist meeting last week received an inspiration from the messages given by Brother Williamson. There was only one profession of faith.

Last Thursday R. I. Goodall Kent, county sheriff came to our community and, with the help of A. C. Cargile and Mr. Parr, captured a whisky still east of McKensie mountain. We understand that the still would hold several hundred gallons, so we give Mr. Goodall the honor of doing a big job. The parties who conducted the still got away temporarily, but will likely be made public later.

Polar school trustees attended a school meeting at Clairmont for the purpose of raising the classification of some schools in Kent county.

Mrs. Ava Ware of Quitaque spent Monday night with her brother, S. O. McFall.

W. G. Williams and wife of Snyder were business visitors at their ranch last Tuesday. They were accompanied by a friend, Mrs. W. M. Morrow of Dallas.

Sam Craig and family of the Beggs ranch were guests in the W. R. Craig home last Wednesday night.

J. I. Massingill of [illegible] a guest of J. R. Massingill this week.

Mrs. W. G. Williams of Snyder and Mrs. W. M. Morrow of Dallas were guests of Mrs. A. C. Elkins Tuesday morning.

Miss Laticia Elkins of Dermott was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Elkins Saturday and Sunday.

Little Gwendolyn Tanner of Electra has been visiting with her aunt, Mrs. E. L. Peterson, for the past week.

Joe Rowlander and family of Hermleigh were guests in the R. C. Hoyle home last week.

Rev. W. H. Harris of Fluvanna preached at Polar Sunday night.

Several visitors were present from Dermott and Snyder Sunday night. Among them were several members of the Dixie quartette.

The Kent County singing convention will meet at Polar Sunday, Aug. 11. Everybody is invited to come and hear some good singing.

B. A. Moore and wife made a trip to Fort Worth last week where they visited E. W. Clark and family.

FARMERS SHORT COURSE

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Aug. 6.—Fattening poultry for market is one phase of the farm business often overlooked and a phase that may be made profitable if gains of 12 per cent to 30 per cent in ten days time are registered, Clyde Ingram, poultry specialist of the Louisiana Extension Service, told the poultry group at the Farmers Short Course, A. & M. College of Texas, Wednesday. "A pound of gain usually results from a consumption of thre and one-half pounds of concentrated feed," he said.

The process of fattening poultry is simple, requires little equipment and the feed is easily procured and used. During fattening the water in the muscles is replaced largely by oil, the flesh is enmarbled with delicious fat, the tendons lose their stringiness and the birds become very plump and exceptionally well filled in breast and back, the speaker went on to say.

Chickens may be fattened either in a crate or in the general pen, Mr. Ingram said, but experience has shown that birds gain much faster and more economically in crates. The battery crate used in commercial plants is too expensive for the farmer producer but a home made stationary one is easily made. Scrap lumber and old wire will do to make the crates in units 10 feet long, 18 inches wide and 24 inches high, divided into four compartments. It is well to have the floor of the crate 30 inches above the ground and made of ordinary plaster lath running lengthwise. The front should be slatted vertically allowing 2 1-2 inches between them in order that birds may reach through to eat from the v-shaped trough which hangs at the floor line on the front of the crate. The crate should be sheltered, shaded and well ventilated.

The following ration has proved good under Louisiana conditions: 100 pounds finely ground corn, 100 pounds finely ground oats with hulls sifted out, 50 pounds shorts, 30 pounds meat scrap and five pounds bran. Enough sour milk should be added to make a mixture of such consistency that it will pour from a feeding bucket. Three pounds of sour milk for each pound of dry feed will usually do this.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.

H. D. Deits, publisher of the Maracaibo (Venezuela) Herald, says:

That Venezuela is one of the richest Latin-American countries and nearest South American neighbor to the United States.

Official statistics recently published by the Venezuelan government show that the total imports during the first six months of 1928 were valued at $39,228,357, of which the United States contributed 56 per cent. During the same period in 1927, 54 per cent of the total imports came from the United States.

Venezuela holds second place in world oil production. In 1924 it exported 7,000,000 barrels; 55,000,000 in 1927, and 1928 figures show that 97,900,000 barrels were exported. Most of this oil was shipped from the Maracaibo basin.

Maracaibo exported 70,455,000 pounds of coffee during 1928, of which the United States received 54,458,000 pounds. This district also consumes the major portion of imports into the country.

About 18 per cent of the Americans residing in South America live in Venezuela.

These figures prove that Venezuela, and especially Maracaibo, is an excellent market for goods of American manufacture, and an advertising campaign in that country would pay good dividends.

Insects are raised in incubators at the FLY-TOX factory. When they are fully grown and especially strong and lively they are turned loose in a test cabinet. "The Fly-Tox Chamber of Death." Less than a teaspoonful of FLY-TOX is sprayed inside. Within five minutes all are dead. But, the test isn't finished yet. The dead insects are carefully taken from the "Chamber of Death" and put gently into incubators. They remain there 24 hours in an effort to revive them. If even a wing flutters, the FLY-TOX tested does not come up to the high standard of quality and never leaves the factory. This is the quick acting insect spray you want. It is FLY-TOX. Accept no substitutes. There is nothing just as good. There is only one FLY-TOX. Developed at Mellon Institute of Industrail Research by Rex Research Fellowship. Every bottle guaranteed.—Adv. 8

Larger tires mean riding on more air, which in turn means greater buoyance and comfort. Then, too, larger tires wear longer, add much to appearance and, most important of all, give the car greater traction, a firmer grip on the road which means safety.

7,000 MILES OF FEDERAL-AID HIGHWAYS IMPROVED IN 1928

During the fiscal year 1929, the Federal Government co-operated with the states in the improvement of 7,022 miles of Federal-aid highways, bringing the total mileage of the system improved with Federal aid to 78,096, according to figures of the Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture. The year's mileage was improved in the 48 states and Hawaii by State highway departments working in co-operation with the Federal bureau. There are approximately 188,000 miles of main interstate and intercounty highways in the Federal-aid system, of which the above [illegible] approximately an equal mileage built by the States without Federal assistance is now improved.

The 7,022 miles improved include 1,056 miles of graded and drained earth roads, 563 miles of sand-clay, 1,293 miles of gravel roads, 189 miles of waterbound macadam, 728 miles of bituminous macadam and bituminous concrete pavements, 3,101 miles of Portland cement paved with pavement, and 48 miles paved with vitrified brick. Forty-four miles of bridges and approaches were also constructed.

In addition to the improved mileage, at the end of the year there were under construction with Federal aid 9,526 miles, 8,358 of which were undergoing initial improvement, and 1,168 were being given a higher type of surface than was provided in original construction. The estimated cost of the mileage under construction is $238,158,495, which includes Federal funds in the sum of $96,500,347.

At the end of the year there were also approved for initial construction, 1,833 miles of highways and a further 1,065 miles to receive a higher type of surface. The total cost of the approved milage is estimated at $61,500,674 to which Federal funds in the sum of $24,137,546 have been allotted.

PERFECT SCREEN FACE IN "TIME, PLACE AND GIRL"

The perfect screen face should be one that gives its owner the least trouble under all circumstances, and that face has been found. It is at present the possession of Grant Withers, Warner Bros.' handsome juvenile, who plays the leading male role in "The Time, the Place and the Girl," the Vitaphone talking and singing production to be at the Palace Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, August 14 and 15.

All Withers has to do to make up is shave. The skin that so many idolizing young ladies would love to touch requires no embellishment whatever to please the camera lens.

Many women who imagine their schoolgirl complexions have been retained are horrified when they see an unretouched photograph of themselves. Blotches and spots invisible to the naked eye are picked up by the camera and that is the reason nearly everybody working before a motion picture camera under strong lights has to wear a heavy grease makeup.

Withers uses no makeup whatever. He simply pushes a razor over his personable map, dabs on a little powder and is ready for the cry of "camera."

Robert Lord wrote the screen play of "The Time, the Place and the Girl" from Hough, Adams and Howard's famous musical comedy, the music, songs and dialogue of which are rendered on the screen by Vitaphone.

G. A. Hagan won the putting contest that was held at the Country Club Sunday, receiving a thermos bottle as first prize.

Hugh Boren, Jr., won consolation from Dr. Hicks, which completes the first handicap tournament in Snyder. The other prize winners were announced last week.

School begins Sept. 9.

SYYDER FALLS DOWN

To say that Snyder actually fell down on its duty to the All-Texas Tour of the Dal-Paso Cavern Highway Association might not sound like the truth, but, when the facts are looked into one can but feel ashamed of the way Snyder and Scurry County supported the tour.

True, the citizens, forty-two cars of them, went all the way to the Fisher-Scurry county line to meet the trippers and escort them back to Snyder where they entertained them with a couple of fine programs of music and speaking. The motorcaders even spent the night in our fair city. But, the next morning only two cars went with the caravan to Lamesa, these two being unable to make the entire trip to El Paso. Snyder actually was not represented in the group after it passed Lamesa. Over sixty cars met the trippers at the Dawson-Borden county line, and several of them joined the tour.

Scurry County needs the Dal-Paso Highway. It needs the traffic that this highway is bringing and will bring in increasing volume as the years come and go. Other counties have paved their sections of the highway, and have continually supported such moves as this to increase interest in the trans-state highway. Snyder and Scurry County have done much talking and boosting of a sort, but, this falling down shows a lack of active and purposeful interest in the route.

Of course, we had plenty of reason for not going on the motorcade, but such reasons as were given will not help pave the route and bring added thousands through our county. It takes sure enough support, and Snyder and Scurry County overlooked a mighty good opportunity to contribute a big share in the development of this shortest route from East Texas to El Paso and the west coast.

TO DEDICATE BAND SHELL AT COLORADO

According to a press dispatch, Rev. M. C. Bishop of Post, former Baptist pastor of Colorado, will be principal speaker at the dedication and formal opening of the new band shell in Ruddick Park, Colorado, tomorrow, Aug. 9th.

Capons Put Punch In Poultry Profits

Demand for Capons Always Exceeds Supply and Much Greater Demand Could Easily Be Created

"How about a nice capon?" inquired the butcher in an effort to be helpful. The prospective purchaser reddened slightly and shook his head. After browsing heelplessly around for an embarrassingly long time, he finally compromised on a rolled roast.

As the customer weat out, the butcher's shoulders were shaking with poorly suppressed mirth. "Darn fool!" he chuckled, "Bet ten bucks that guy didn't even know what capon meant. Did'ja notice how he blushed when I suggested it?"

I had to agree with my friend the butcher that the gentleman probably did not know what a capon was and that he chose something else in a vain effort to hide his embarrassment. I knew him to be a successful business man and one who rather prided himself on his knowledge of fine foods. Nevertheless, it was plain that capon was something entirely outside his experience. I would have been willing to wager, too, that this man's case was a typical one.

That was nearly two years ago. Today, although the market is capable of absorbing far more capons than are being offered for sale, it would still be safe to say that a great many people do not know what a capon really is. Here, in short, is a virgin field with such tremendously rich possibilities that one must grasp in amazement on realizing that it is practically unworked.

I believe that poultrymen are themselves to blame for this state of affairs. Many of them refuse to practice caponizing at all and those who do so merely produce capons as a side line. For that reason, the supply has always been too small to justify any attempt at educating the general public into appreciation of the most delectable food this old earth has ever known. At least, there has been nothing better since the catering establishment on Mount Olympus ceased serving Nectar.

Of course, this condition will not last forever. Poultry raisers are not going to stand around forever doing nothing once they realize that capons will bring 50 cents a pound or more when ordinary poultry is going for little better than half that much. Sooner or later they will get tired of seeing this golden stream slipping by them and they will start raising capons in earnest. In the meantime, if all poultry men everywhere who have never before attempted raising capons will give it a fair trial just once, there is no question but what they will be confirmed converts forever after.

Incidentally, capons make excellent foster mothers for baby chicks, that is, they can be easily taught to care for and brood a bunch of newly-hatched baby chicks and do it as well or better than a hen will. A capon, being larger, will hover from 20 to 30 chicks and they can protect their chicks from hawks, etc., much better than a hen. The capon's feathers are longer, softer and more abundant than that of a hen and his wing spread considerably greater. His amiable disposition fits him admirably for the task and releases the hen for laying.

Caponizing, which is simply removing the reproductive organs of young male birds, is a very simple operation. A ten-year-old boy could soon learn to do it quickly and successfully and failures are practically unknown once the trick is mastered. Moreover, learning need not entail any appreciable loss. The first practicing can be done on dead birds and even if one or two should bleed to death, they are just as good for the table as if killed intentionally. Even if such birds represented a total loss, however, the sacrifice would be wiped out by added profits on the first few successfully caponized. Not only does the capon weigh much more than a cockerel of corresponding age, but its flesh is so much finer in quality as to command a far higher price per pound.

It would be useless for me to give detailed instructions here. They could hardly be made clear without extensive illustrations and, besides, excellent instructions are furnished with all sets of instruments. But just a word about instruments—buy the best. The difference in cost between the very best instruments and the least desirable ones is just a few cents after all. The extra profits on one capon that would have been lost with inferior instruments will repay the added investment many times over.

Almost any breed of fowl may be used, although there would be little gained in caponizing the small breeds. The best for medium sized capons are Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds and others running about the same average size. These, when caponized, will run from 2 to 4 pounds heavier than the average fowl not so treated. Larger breeds of the so-called Asiatic strains (Brahmas) will rival turkeys in size (12 to 16 pounds) but—oh, what a difference! There never was a turkey half so tender and toothsome as even an average capon.

It is manifestly impossible, in an article of this kind, to deal extensively with the habits, or methods of feeding and handling capons, nor should it be necessary. If, however, I can arouse sufficient interest in the subject to get poultrymen—amateur and professional—thinking and talking about capons, it will not be long before the public is much better supplied with a wonderful viand that they ought to know more about.

Editor's Note—If you are interested in instruments for caponizing, write to Dr. LeGear in care of this newspaper.

THE TRUTH OFTEN HURTS

To tell a man of his good points seldom, if ever, tends toward his betterment. It may sort of perk him up a bit, but usually it makes him vain, and always lowers his resistance in the battle of doing things but throwing him off guard.

Flattery is an ensnaring quality and leaves a very dangerous impression. It swells a man's imagination, and his head as well, it entertains his vanity, and drives him to a doting upon his own person.

Some communities get so full of ego and become so puffed up from "soft soap" and blarney, handed out by individuals who usually have an axe to grind, that the residents think theirs is the essence of perfection.

"Stuck up" communities are as bad as "stuck up" people. They get so cocksure of themselves that they are blind as a bat to everybody's imperfections but their own.

When a community gets to the point that all it is interested in is conversation about its own wonderfulness, that community is due for a fall.

It is a serious mistake to court only the society of those who please. It doesn't always pay to choose friends altogether from those who flatter. The ones who are truthful will be of real benefit, for they will tell you the truth—things you ought to know.

The truth often hurts, and there are some who are not big enough to take it. Such people are small minded, they wince at the pain, get sore, sulk and pout, overlooking the fact that the real test of qualities for permanent stucuess is ability to gain by criticism. The man who seeks to better himself accepts constructive criticism as such; he offers no alibis and doesn't try to "crawfish."

Yours is a good town—no question about that. It has many fine features, many attractions, a multitude of good, hardworking boosters, in fact, it's an even chance that your community has advantages that, because you are so familiar with them, you lose sight of, under-estimate and fail to appreciate. But it is the things that repel that retard the progress—those things that invite will take care of themselves.

JIMMIE WRITES

August 6, 1929.

Dear Times-Signal:

After traveling 450 miles without a single puncture, we arrived in Albuquerque, New Mexico, and as our cabin had already been arranged by my wife's sister, we lost no time in driving to Cedar Crest which is located 20 miles east of the city in the Sandia Mountains at an elevation of 7,800 feet.

Leaving Snyder last Thursday morning we reached Fort Sumter, New Mexico, for the first day's stop and had sufficient time there to visit Billy the Kid's grave as well as meet a number of citizens there (including an old love of his) who had known him when he was alive. Beside his grave, two other outlaws also are buried, namely Charles Bowdrie, who was killed the day before Billy got his, and Tom O'Phallon. We stopped at the White Cottage Camp there which "Bill" Leatherman operates, and it's a wonder place to stay for those who travel No. 7 north from Snyder and then via No. 470 when they hit Clovis.

Roads are wonderfully good all the way, and at Willard we stopped for a time with George Alter, a great friend of D. C. Howell of Snyder, who formerly lived in this thriving little town of Willard and served as a county official of Estancia County, located in what they call the Estancia valley.

This is just a rambling letter, giving my first impressions on various data and hope it is of sufficient interest for you to place in the columns of the old home paper this week.

The hum of airplane motors, the busy activity of this hustling, bustling city and the hundreds of Texas auto license plates that I have noted here stand out foremost in my mind. The air is filled at various times of the day with the giant planes of the Western Air Express, coast to coast route and several other through east and west travel rputes that I do not know as this is being written.

New Mexico folks are just as happy and proud as we West Texans who are forever boosting our own home bailiwicks, and we do not blame them in the least. Being located high in the mountains where it has rained every night since we arrived, one gets a view of Nature that words fail in describing. In fact, as I got up at 5 this morning and stepped out the back door of the cabin and noted the white and black silver lined clouds that were rolling over the top of Sandia Mountains, I wondered to myself just how infinitesimally small we humans are and what a marvelous panoramo of all phases of human endeavor our Creator has prepared for us.

The Loop Drive and the Rim Drive, a 65-mile drive taking one across the high mesa land east of Albuquerque is a sight for any eye. Entering these mountains at Tijeras Canyon you begin the wonderful scenic portion of the trip as you enter the Forest Reserve. One leaves the Tijeras Canyon at a point near the old Mexican village of Tijeras. From this point you begin to ascend rapidly on the east side of the Sandia Mountains until you are high up in the Aspen Groves, unfolding as you travel some of the most remarkable scenery in the Rocky Mountain area. As you reach the top of the rim, the tremendous view opened up before your eyes reminds one of nothing else than the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. The city of Albuquerque lies at your feet as a small checkerboard would. The entire western point of the state of New Mexico is visible from this point of vantage. Returning by another road, you reach what is called Inspiration Point, which is the anti-climax of your drive, and from this point one looks upon the world at his feet, panorama after panorama stretching for hundreds of miles in each direction. It is so awe-inspiring that Webster failed to put in his dictionary the proper words or me to describe it all. Suffice it to say that the United States Forest Service, which is responsible for this rare treat, should be thanked by each and every traveler who passes this way.

I witnessed a ball game yesterday between the Albuquerque Grays and the Madrid Miners of the Central New Mexico League in which a Snyder boy, Wade Greene son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Greene, paved the way for one of the most sensational baseball finishes that I ever witnessed. With a score tied at 4 to 4 in the sixteenth inning, Greene, who had been playing short-stop, drove a two-bagger that brought in a score, but the Madrid players tied it up in their half of the inning. Then in the eighteenth with two out and no one on base, Greene slapped one clear over the center field fence for a home-run drive. In the Madrid half of their inning, Greene individually pulled

PRIZES TO BE MANY AT WEST TEXAS FAIR

Indications are that all exhibit departments of the West Texas Fair, to be held in Abilene September 23 to 28, will be larger and more interesting than any ever shown in this part of the state.

Agricultural displays, livestock, poultry, and exhibits from Abilene manufacturers and merchants will be offered. Cash prizes will be paid to all winners in the various contesting departments. The 1929 catalog and premium list of the fair is off the press and will be supplied to all prospective exhibitors.

Most farmers think that May sweet clover is a better soil improver than the July crop. As a matter of fact, it makes little difference. Unless the clover is plowed under in early May, however, it is better to wait until July. Plowing under in July should be started before the clover is dead ripe.

Due to the fact that the rabbit industry is a rapid developing one, two Hamlin business men have purchased breeding stock and are planning to have a "rabbit farm" of high rank in the future.

Announcement

I came to Snyder doing educational work with no other idea than a week's sojourn and on to the plains, but Providence or Chance—time will reveal which—decreed otherwise, so through the influence of a number of your citizens I have purchased the "Wilsford Tea Room" in the future to be known as

The success of my efforts depends upon your patronage, however, and I am asking you to come often to the little cottage "around the corner" just south of the square and help make for your fine little city an enterprise of which you will feel proud.

Fluvanna News Notes

Mr. Jas. H. Tate (V. P.) is the authorized correspondent for Fluvanna, and as such is authorized to receive renewal and new subscriptions. Cooperate with him in building a fine weekly news column for this thriving town.

Business Affairs

The John Truss oil test is going right along, and its backers are enthusiastic over the outlook.

Mention was made last week of proposed lime kiln about to be located at the cap rock five miles north of Fluvanna. This enterprise is rapidly expanding insomuch that the indications now are quite promising for a manufacturing plant of large proportions. At first only the burning of lime on a commercial scale was mentioned, but the talk now is to the effect that, in addition to lime, cement, asphalt and brick will be made at practically the same location. According to reports, this will mean the employment of a hundred people. In other words, it means "big business."

The latter part of last week W. C. Miller shipped two cars of sheep to Fort Worth.

On last Thursday C. B. Snyder of Baird shipped from this place three cars of stock cattle which he had purchased near Coahoma. The destination was Baird.

John A. Stavely, president of the school board, and Ab Flourunoy returned Monday night from Dallas where they had been on business relative to the school buses. It will be remembered that there will be four (three new ones) of these buses operating in connection with the Fluvanna high school next school year.

Several of our local board of trustees hied away Tuesday morning to Snyder where they were to meet the state superintendent of public instruction and other school boards for a conference.

Church Affairs

The big union meeting under the auspices of the Presbyterian and Methodist Churches, got under way last Sunday after a preliminary service Saturday night. Large and attentive audiences are in attendance enjoying the splendid gospel sermons being delivered by Dr. E. B. Surface, beginning at 10:30 a. m. and 8:30 p. m. While the two churches mentioned are in control of the meeting, all other church people are most cordially invited not only to attend but to cooperate and work in a perfectly free and natural manner. There are no doors to the tabernacle, one of the pastors stated. Let the people come and be fed on spiritual things. All other church services have been called off out of deference to the meeting in progress.

On Tuesday of this week a considerable number of people repaired to the Fluvanna Baptist cotton patch where a job of hoeing was needed. hey had dinner for all at the field. It was a sort of "three in one" proposition—lots of work, a real good time, and plenty to eat.

On last Wednesday night the Church of Christ closed its meeting which had been in progress 13 days, Brother Willis Kreaker of Burkburnett held the meeting, during which twenty-eight were baptized and three came back to their first love. This is the best meeting that the church has ever held in Fluvanna. he youngest convert was 10 years of age, and the oldest 75. Brother Kreager will hold the meeting next year at the same time of the year at the same place.

Visits and Trips

Rev. Massey, former pastor here, his father and mother, a brother-in-law, R. Jones and family, were all welcome in the home of O. S. Wills last Thursday night.

W. K. Walker and family of near Spur spent the day last Wednesday visiting in the Tate home, Mrs. Walker being a sister of Mrs. Jas. H. Tate.

Mrs. R. A. Jones and baby are spending several days visiting relatives and old friends at Fluvanna.

Mrs. J. L. Dietz of Waxahachie is here visiting relatives and friends.

J. H. and Mrs. Williamson of Cross Plains are spending a few days this week visiting their son, Rev. Robert Williamson, pastor of the Methodist Church here.

D. A. Weems and wife and baby of near Eastland are here visiting D. A.5s parents, Pat and Mrs. Weems. D. A. was reared here, hence is a fine fellow.

Glen Stephenson of Fort Worth, who was reared in this community, having been away for 17 years, suddenly appeared on our streets last Tuesday and got busy shaking hands with his many old-time friends.

Clarence Dowdy and wife and Mrs. V. L. Patterson are out on a trip this week.

Wilbur Garner and wife, after an extended visit in this section, departed for California last Tuesday.

Grandma Page is visiting at Dermott this week.

Alvin Elkins of Polar was visiting the Jno. Squyres family last Monday.

Several business people were in Fluvanna the first of the week whose names and addresses we did not get. Anyway, we will likely hear from them.

Mrs. Henry Bradford of Big Spring, a son, Burch Bradford of Las Cruces, N. M., and a daughter, Miss La Rue Bradford of Lawton, Okla., were all here a few days ago visiting relatives—H. H. Haynes and family.

Miscellaneous Notes

Dr. J. D. Clemons of Dallas, after spending a vacation of a year in California, came to Fluvanna the other day and decided that this might be a good place to practice his profession. Accordingly, he is arranging for a place to live and getting himself established as a citizen of Fluvanna. The doctor's wife will arrive after a few days. We extend to these people a cordial welcome to our midst.

Several of our farmers became very much disturbed last Monday when it was discovered that worms of two or three kinds were making considerable inroads on their cotton. Accordingly there was a rush for poison and a vigorous campaign started against the pests.

H. L. Beasley had a right sick child the first of the week.

Ted Melton's small son was right sick early this week.

A new double stall garage is going up on the school grounds this week.

JAS. H. TATE.

According to the 1920 census, 968,088 Texans were born in other states. This is approximately 20 per cent of the entire population.

CLEVER DEVICE FOR KEEPING MILK COOL IN SUMMER

C. W. Moore, a prominent farmer living on a farm northeast of Hamlin, is using a very clever and inexpensive method of keeping milk cool through the hot summer days.

He has a windmill which pumps water from a well to a stock tank. Between the windmill and the tanks he has a barrell through which he runs the water. In the bottom of the barrell is a box upon which he sets cans of milk. the cool water from [illegible] pours into the barrell around the bottom of the milk cans and in the continual flow pushes the warm water to the top and out through an overflow pipe into the stock tank.

Mr. Moore says milk is kept perfectly cool through the warmest days of summer.

Mr. Moore is a strong believer in the balanced farm program. He is milking four cows, seperating the milk, sells the cream sweet and feeds the skim milk to hogs and chickens. He has eleven hogs that were farrowed in March and a breed sow. He feeds these hogs nothing but skim milk and maize, all of which is raised at home.

He has raised some 250 chickens this year and now has above 150 hens. He has pullets that were hatched in the spring that are now laying. Skim milk is an ideal feed for chickens Mr. Moore declares.

Mr. Moore is a strong believer in terracing and running rows to a water level. He has terraced sixty acres of land. He claims that his crops on terraced land are 50 per cent better than the other crops. His cotton is almost hip-high and is loaded. Feed is standing the dry weather better than fields adjoining which are not terraced. He is cultivating 200 acres of land, 145 in cotton and 55 in feed. He declares that he raises enough feed for home use even though the dry weather has cut the crop short.

In cultivating this 200 acres of land Mr. Moore has only been out $8.25 for hired labor. He has managed a big part of it himself with a plow.

Mr. Moore says, "There are no big returns to be realized from selling farm produce every day and every week, but LITTLE amounts added together make BIG amounts."

"Stock accumulates around the farm in the course of a few years and at a little cost. "Of course", he continues, "It takes time and labor to care for stock and poultry, but I find that every farmer and business man too has to spend time and labor if he meets with success."

Mr. Moore has lived on the Culberson farm the past five years. He keeps the place up as if it were his own. "Few tenants," he claims, "will do much toward keeping a ram in good shape." Landlords are looking for good tenants. What is money to the tenant, is money to the landlord."

FARM AND HOME HOUR RADIO PROGRAM BEGINS AUGUST 12

A variety of special radio summaries of monthly reports and special outlook statements will be given the audiance of 32 radio stations associated with the National Broadcasting Company in the Department of Agriculture periods of the National Farm and Home Hour during two weeks beginning Monday, August 12. Department scientists and executives will send farmers the summaries of the general crop report for August, the August price situation report, the annual strawberry outlook statement, and the report on intentions to plant wheat.

On Tuesday, August 13, and Tuesday, August 20, two chiefs of bureau of the Department will continue the series of special broadcasting under the general title, "What's Happening in Agriculture." Dr. Henry G. Knight, Chief of the Bureau of Chemistry and Solis, will speak on August 13, discussing progress made toward industrial utilization of farm wastes. Dr. J. R. Mohler, Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry, on August 20 will survey "The Status of Our Animal Industries."

The day to day news of the findings of agricultural scientists and new Federal services in an economic way to farmers will be given by Dr. W. J. Spillman; W. R. Beattie will give the regular weekly talks for the garden fans, and Mrs. Rowena Schmidt Carpenter the homemakers' period chats.

SWEETWATER TO DEDICATE AIRPORT ON AUGUST 10 & 11

Plans are practically completed for what is expected to be one of the biggest airport events in Texas this year when Sweetwater formally opens and celebrates its $50,000 municipal field on August 10 and 11. E. F. Heinast, general chairman of committees in charge of the program, said everything was in readiness for the event which is expected to draw scores of planes and thousands of people to Sweetwater.

Advertising matter on the celebration has gone out to every airport in the southwest. Many invitations were mailed out this week to pilots, aviation concers officials, famous flyers and others prominent in the air circles of the cauntry. In addition, many towns over Texas will send planes and delagations, and representatives of many airlines and airplane manufacturing concerns will be here.

Program for the two days will be carried out as originally announced with the dedication ceremonies band concerts, dance, contests, passenger hops and oration flying making up the busy schedule for the two days.

Snyder will send her Curtis-Robin plane piloted by "Slim" Lowry to the opening, and other cities will send ships according to information reaching the board of City Development at Sweetwater.

DR. HUNT SPEAKS IN SNYDER SUNDAY

Dr. J. W. Hunt, president of McMurry college, preached in Snyder Sunday morning and evening. Dr. Hunt was at one time pastor of the local Methodist church.

Dr. Hunt spent last week in Lubbock in the interest of the $500,000 McMurry endowment drive, and is expected to have returned to Abilene the first of this week. He reported that the drive is progressing nicely in all sections of the Northwest Texas conference.

NEW SCHOOL BUILDING GOING UP AT BELL

According to Supt. A. A. Bullock, a new $2,000 school building is being erected in the Bell community. This district has enjoyed a remarkable growth the last few years, and this new building is necessary to adequately care for this live school. Two teachers are now employed at Bell.

TURNER SCHOOL MAKING IMPROVEMENTS TO PLANT

Out at Turner things are rapidly taking shape for the coming fall opening of school. A room is being added to their already commodious building. This addition will house the home economics department and the farm work shop.

The Sassafras Savant says he has noticed that about the time a man becomes fixed for life he has worried himself to death.

NEW STYLE PLANE PREVENTS DANGERS

Now comes an airplane with rotating circular wings to make its bid as a "fool proof" device for sky travel.

Ross A. Cole, its inventor claims his ship will avert dangers from tail spins and nose dives. Almost vertical landings will be possible with this innovation, he believes, by tilting the wings in rocker arm fashion.

The prineiple of sailing flat rocks, familiar to Cole as a boy, has been incorporated in the [illegible] At right angles to the orthodox fuselage are heavy supports holding slightly convex wheel-shaped wings. At intervals of each wing's edge are affixed funnel-shaped cups, designed to catch propellor currents and wind, thus revolving in flight.

Cole claims rotating wings will stabilize the plane's body, as though it were between two gyroscopes. As speed decreases the wings tilt backward. his action, Cole says, would swing the plane's tail downward preventing nose dives.

Ailerons will be added ir experiments reveal a need for them. The rudder and elevators on the tail operate as an orthodox planes. Power is provided by a gasoline motor. Cole has received or applied for patents on all novel features of the ship.

SIMMONS AND TEXAS TO CLASH AT ABILENE

A football game between teams representing Simmons University of Abilene and Texas Universities at Austin will be one of the features of the West Texas Fair, which opens for its thirteenth annual session in Abilene on September 23.

The game will be played in front of the fair grandstand on the afternoon of September 28, the closing day of the fair. Despite the fact that this contest will come at the beginning of the football season, a real battle is assured, as both schools will have a large squad of players at intensive training for several weeks before the date of the fair battle.

Some persons enjoy throwing money at the birds, but it is usually the buzzards that get the benefit of it.

Rev. J. A. Quail of Stamford, Eng., invited the young people of his congregation to use the church as a courting place.

two thrilling catches that brought the crowd to its feet and personally made the last out with a marvelous stop, and stepping on second base for the final out, winning the game. Wade with his wife are nicely located in a beautiful home on East Silver St., and they like New Mexico but surely asked many questions of old Snyder friends. As we left their front door Saturday afternoon, the old Times-Signal was being delivered at their house, further reminding us that the world is small after all.

Am writing this letter from the Chamber of Commerce where Mr. Edgar Knight, secretary, has shown us every courtesy and for which we desire to thank him through the Times-Signal. Any reader of the paper wanting specific information on this great region should get in touch with him.

The family's mail address here is Cedar Crest, New Mexico, which is a series of cabins owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Frank King. Spring water at your door with all conveniences makes the place highly sought after, and reservations should be made long in advance. It takes three woolen blankets for each bed at night, and the crisp air, coupled with the smell of the cedars, is most invigorating.

Before closing I could not help mention that hen eggs sell here for 45 cents a dozen and are hard to get, as against 25 cents at Snyder. Butter retails for 60 cents a pound, but believe also that the meat markets must still be operating on Jesse James' horse, as the price is sky-high, but one can expect those things in a resort town. Will try and write more later, and the finest best regards to you all.

Sincerely,
GEORGE "JIMMY" SMITH.

KNOW TEXAS

The largest number of Indians ever engaged in battle with Americans was at the first "Double Walls" fight in 1846, according to Judge R. C. Crane, Sweetwater historian.

Texas has 34 cities with population of more than 10,000 and is fifth among the States with an estimated population of 5,487,000.

Of the 13 sizable rivers in Texas, eight have their water sheds entirely within the State. Runoff water in the Canadian and Red goes into other rivers and then into the Gulf of Mexica; the others empty directly into the Gulf.

TLOOK BRIGHT FOR TEXAS

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 6.— With n a fair chance for the comple- n of this year's cotton crop Texas assured of unquestionable pros- rity. This is according to July op report compiled by the De- rtment of Public Relations of the uthland Life Insurance Company. is prediction is backed up not ne by crop reports but by an ex- emely optimistic tone of business d by the unquestionable optimism buyers in the Dallas wholesale arket for the past two weeks.

In general crops may be shown follows: Northwest Texas, includ- g the Panhandle, cotton normal better and row crops normal to cellent; West Texas, cotton bet- than normal and feed crops nor- al to excellent; East Central xas, all crops spotted with con- derable insect damage; Nofth xas, cotton spotted, oats disap- inting but corn and other crops omising; Northeast Texas, cotton oming, row crops in good shape; ast Texas, improvement in cotton condition, corn somewhat damaged by rain, splendid tomato crop al- ready harvested; Southeast Texas, general condition normal.

Business conditions in practically every section of the state show much progress. There is a great deal of conservativeness in the re- ports; however, even these reflect a great deal of optimism. Several special conditions are noteworthy. The Rio Grande Valley is jubilant over cotton, which is expected to run from 100,000 to 120,000 bales for the season. An unusual large crop of corn, feed and melons are re- ported, although the prices for these are somewhat off.

Northern counties in general are in need of rain while exactly the opposite applies to the southern counties. Insect infestation while appearing is likely to be less than last year.

In general the prediction of the June crop report that Texas would enjoy much better than a billion dollar crop is practically a certain- ty now.

OTTON BOLLWORM CONTROL UTLINED IN NEW BULLETIN

The cotton bollworm is known herwise, and known unfavorably, the corn-ear worm, the tomato uit worm, and the false budworm tobacco. The insect gets these mes because it is a general feed- and men identify it by the crop injures most seriously in the lo- lity in which they observe its ork. It should not be confused ith the insect known as the pink llworm, which differs in habits nd appearance.

Under the name of corn-ear orm it is known over most of the nited States, and causes enor- ous loss. In northeastern Texas, uthern Oklahoma and Arkansas, orthern Louisiana, and parts of lississippi and Alabama the same orm is know as the cotton boll- orm and causes an average an- ual loss of about $8,500,000 in cot- n.

In Farmers' Bulletin 1595-F, The ollworm or Corn-Ear Worm as a otton Pest, F. C. Bishopp of the ureau of Entomology, United tates Department of Agriculture, ummarizes the best known meth- ds of control — fall and winter lowing, clean culture, selection of eed of early-maturing cotton, pois- ning, and the use of trap crops. e also mentions several methods f control which have proved inef- ective—trapping, burning of lights n the field to attract and trap the oths, and the distribution of pois- ned sweets in pans in the field.

These worms are cannibalistic nd eat one another. They also refer corn to cotton at certain ages. To use corn for a trap crop he grower should plant it late nough so that the trap corn will e in silk and tassel about the time he main crop of field corn becomes ard—about the first of August in he area where the worms injure otton. "If it matures too early," ays Mr. Bishopp, "it will act only s a breeding place for bollworms, hich will mature as the ears hard- n and a short time later trans- orm to moths which in turn will deposit eggs over adjacent cotton fields. On the other hand, if the plants are in an attractive state, the moths, which fly quite freely, will assemble in the corn from con- siderable distances and deposit most of their eggs on the corn plants. These eggs will hatch and the young larvae, being so enormous, will destroy one another to such an extent that usually not more than a few out of the many hatching on the silk of each ear will reach ma- turity."

The wintering habits of the boll- worm afford what is probably the most effective method of reducing injury by the pest. The insects spend the winter in the pupal stage in the ground at a depth of from 4 to 6 inches. Thorough ploughing to a depth of not less than six inches late in the fall or in the winter destroys the cells in which the pupae winter, and cold and moisture kill practically all of them. Fall and winter ploughing in this section is desirable in itself and pays well in conserving moisture and putting the ground in better shape for planting.

Other farming practices, desir- able and profitable in themselves, also hamper the activities of the bollworm by speeding the growth of the plant to a point where it is difficult for the bollworm to attack it at the time the worm normally leaves the neighboring cornfields. "To protect cotton from bollworm injury," says Mr. Bishopp, "it is important that seed of early-matur- ing cotton be selected; that the crop be planted as early as is consistent with getting a good stand; and that poor land be fertilized and cultiva- tion be thorough and frequent."

Poisoning is effective only for short periods in the life of the boll- worms. If the worm is present and identified in numbers on alfalfa, vetch, or cowpeas before cotton is well matured it is possible to use poisoned bran bait scattered thinly in the fields at the rate of 10 pounds to the acre. Wheat bran, 50 pounds; Paris green or white arsenic, 1 pound, (or powdered calcium ar- senate, 2 pounds); low-grade mo- lasses, 2 gallons; and water, 3 to 4 gallons, make [illegible] When the boll weevil and bollworm are both present in a cotton field it is possible to poison both with calcium arsenate at the same time, and so effect considerable control of both pests. Mr. Bishopp gives suggestions for proper timing of the dust treatments.

Farmers' Bulletin 1595-F, The Bollworm or Corn-Ear Worm as a Cotton Pest, has just been publish- ed for free distribution by the Unit- ed States Department of Agricul- ture. It is a revision of and super- sedes in part Farmers' Bulletin 872-F. It may be obtained by ap- plying to the department, Washing- ton, D. C.

NEW TOWN IS PROPOSED, 14 MILES FROM PLAINVIEW

PLAINVIEW, Texas, Aug. 6.— Col. R. P. Smyth, pioneer Plain- view citizens who laid out the city of Plainview, this week will be call- ed upon to lay out the site of an- other town that is expected to be another winner among towns of this section of the Plains.

Edmonson, named for Pete Ed- monson and on whose land the town is located, will be surveyed by Colonel Smyth. It is 14 miles northeast of Plainview and on the new line of the Fort Worth & Denver Railroad between Plain- view and Dimmitt.

The formal ceremony of laying the cornerstone of the new $125,000 hos- pital building now under construc- tion at Slaton was held Sunday aft- ernoon at 4:00 o'clock, with Bishop R. A. Gerken, of Amarillo, officiat- ing.

Had to Remain At Home Months

"Stomach trouble and indigestion had me in a terrible nervous, run- down condition. I was weak and worn out I would have to stay in the house for months at a time. Con- stipation was helping to make my life miserable and there were times when I did not care whether I lived or died. A good friend of mine told me about Sargon and how much it helped her so I decided to try it.

"What a blessed relief it is to be free of the troubles that worried me for 12 long years. The Sargon treatment has lit- erally made me feel like a new wom- an. My stomach is now in perfect condition; my appetite is fine and I eat just anything I want, without any ill effects. My nerves are back to normal and I sleep sound and get up feeling fine. Sargon Soft Mass Pills ended my constipation without ever griping or nauseating me.

"I'M so happy over regaining my health that I'll be glad to tell any- one what Sargon has meant to me. Just have them 'phone 2--7783 if they want to know what I think of this wonderful treatment."—Mrs. W. H. Higgins, 507 W. First St., Fort Worth.

Sargon represents the dawn of a new era in the field of modern medi- cine. It is turning old-fashioned moss-grown health theories upside down and is restoring countless thou- sands by methods undreamed of on- ly a few years ago.

Did you ever stop to think

Arthur K. Remmel, editor of the Fort Wayne (Indiana) News-Sen- tinel, says:

That there is a vast difference between publicity and news. Mere publicity will not bring the desired results. Indeed, there must be an element of news in the publicity— something that will attract atten- tion. More than that, real money must be spent in real advertising.

Churches must advertise, and, of course, the most effective advertis- ing is newspaper advertising. The church not ouly should advertise, but it must advertise because it is slowly but surely losing ground in our great centers of population, which are inevitably to dominate the nation.

The right kind of advertising should increase the good will of the public concerning those matters which are little understood by the mass of people outside the church, and there are many such. A gen- eral campaign should deal with the form of government of the church. Most churches may easily lay claim to the spirit of democracy in the manner that they are governed. The subject of creed should be han- dled in a popular manner. Few outside of the church have the proper conception of the doctrines which are actually taught by the church's theology. The terms of admission should be made very plain. To many men the barriers of church membership are almost insurmountable.

It seems to me that the different denominations represent different brands of an article that should be merchandized as effectively as a soap, a food, or an article of wear- ing apparel.

"We have used Thedford's Black-Draught in our family for nineteen years. I have found it of great help in rais- ing my family.

"I have given it to all six of my children. Whenever they complain of up- set stomach, or begin to look pale and sick- ly, I make a tea of Black- Draught and begin giving it to them. In a day or two they are all right.

For several years Mr. Wilsford was with the Western Union of this city, while Mrs. Wilsford was the popular proprietor of the Wilsford Tea Room, which has been sold to iMss Dulce Ewing Jones. Mrs. Wilsford was also very active in church and social circles. The Wilsfords were also the official weather observers of this vicinity, having kept accurate record of precipitation and temperature for several years.

The citizehs of Snyder regret losing this good family and will welcome them back any time if they should decide to return.

LETTER FROM MRS. THOS. H. LEE

Hot Springs, Ark.
July 25, 1929.

Dear Mr. Smith: A crowd of guests went up to Mud Springs Canyon just southwest of the town of Hot Springs. It is a lovely scene to an eye for wildness. The casa Rocks just an erosion but lovely when the slanting rays of the sun are against it. The red and yellow clay and sand is an orange, brilliant, and the shadows are pale lavender to a deep purple, all as background to the emerald-green green-wood and sea-green sage — blue distant hills of the Black Range, all this makes the old eyes look young.

We passed the "Casa Rocks" to the foot hills of the Mud Springs Canyon, drove up the foot of the canyon to an old ranchman's camp. This gentleman, Mr. W. C. Kendall, twice sheriff of Serria county, N. M., has lived in the southern part of New Mexico for 50 years (and he still looks young). He points out the mountain ranges around Hot Springs to us. The Black Range to the west, the Cuchillo mountains, the San Marto, the Cabillo, the Sacramento, all hemming this little town in the Rio Grande Valley, several thousand feet below.

The "Mud Springs" is an old watering hole in the canyon, where the cowboys and Indians years ago used to water their cattle and horses. It was known many miles around, for this part of New Mexico is all a desert, excepting for these springs occasionally finding their way to the surface, and I am sure they were appreciated as they say now they were.

The Los Angeles Cattle Company owned and leased all this part of the state and the Iron Mountain Reef Ranges was opened and operated by this firm—getting $10,000 worth of gold, losing the vein of silver about 1887, they abandoned the mine. You can see the mine opening from the valley, where Mud Springs is.

They freighted by ox teams and horses from El Paso to Santa Fe through this part of the state making it historical as far as the state and nation's history is concerned.

Just a word, as to the states that are represented here in Hot Springs, as guests since I have been here—Texas, (by the thousands), Kansas, Missouri, Ohio, Colorado, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, California, Wyoming, Louisiana, Arizona, Oregon, Oklahoma, and Tennessee.

Yours truly,
MRS. THOMAS H. LEE.

(Next week is a visit to Panky's Ranch, then I come home.)

Chocolate that appears white on the outside has been kept in an overwarm place, so that some of the fat has melted and come to the surface. It is not injured in any way for use.

NOTICE IN PROBATE

HOG TROUBLES TOLD BY EXPERT

COLLEGE STATION, Aug. 1. — "If you had been living on a straight corn diet for months, you'd probably go to catching chickens, too," W. S. Foster, county agent of Mitchell county, smilingly pointed out in explaining before the swine section of the Farmers Short Course at the A. & M. College of Texas Wednesday why an unbalanced ration causes trouble and losses in the hog lot. "Experienced hog feeders have found that the only successful way to raise hogs is to supply protein in the form of tankage, skimmed milk or a mixed protein supplement," he continued.

"Pork is often produced at a loss when balanced rations are not fed and the owners become disgusted with the business. A Mitchell county club boy refused to feed his pig a balanced ration. He persisted in feeding maize and slop. For every 12c worth of maize fed, the pig put on 8c worth of pork, whereas a properly balanced feed would have made the pork for 6 or 7c a pound.

"Using self feeders may be a lazy man's way of balancing a ration but its getting results in Mitchell county where we have about 25 farmers using them. From careful records, both men and boys report that the gains are as good as by hand feeding and the saving in labor is considerable. Owners say their only objection to self feeders is that they can't feed their hogs 12 months—the animals reach killing weight in about half that time."

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Aug. 1.—"An overworked woman has a crying need of a hobby that for a little while now and then will lift her soul up out of the familiar ruts of the day's duties," declared Miss Lily Pearl Chamberlain of North Texas Agricultural College at Arlington, before the homemaking section of the Farmers Short Course at the A. & M. College of Texas Thursday. "A hobby should be a pleasing change from the daily routine, such as fancy work, music, painting, writing, raising canary birds, dogs, cats, rabbits or milk goats, collecting antiques, or a hundred other interesting things," she said.

"Don't let a hobby ride you, though," Mrs. Chamberlain warned, "for this may obscure the main issue in life and become a detriment. How to find time for a hobby and how to finance it are questions each individual must work out for himself. Often, however, the hobby becomes a source of income as well as pleasure, as in the case of raising animals. The measure of success for a hobby is the good it does to a person."

Agnes Durant To Spend Week With Baptists

To Lead Series of Inspirational Services in Snyder For Baptists

Miss Agnes Durant, who is known throughout the entire South as one of the most interesting and consecrated workers of the Baptist denomination, will be in Snyder for one week beginning Sunday morning, according to an announcement made by the pastor, Rev. W. F. Ferguson, last Sunday.

Miss Durant was one of the principal speakers at the Post Encampment two weeks ago and spent a week with the First Baptist Church of Lubbock the following week. She has specialized in young people's work for many years, having held responsible positions in various educational institutions in the South where her entire time was given over to social and educational work among young people.

Miss Durant has been elected to a position on the faculty of the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, for the coming year and is spending the summer leading inspirational and recreational activities in the various churches of Texas. She will have complete charge of the services at the Baptist Church Sunday morning and will be a speaker before the general assembly of B. Y. P. U's.

LUBBOCK, Texas, Aug. 6.—The Mid-summer Homesick edition of the Toreador, Texas Technological college newspaper, was released July 30, and is being mailed out to all students of the 1928-29 session of the college. It was published under the supervision of Hal Lery, editor-in-chief, and Alvin Allison, business manager of the publication for next year.

STAMFORD—The meeting of the advisory board of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at Fort Worth was attended by members of the staff as well. The meeting was held in the Fort Worth office and was attended by R. W. Haynie, Joe A. Wheat, and Ray Nichols. The statement which was issued at the close of the meeting follows:

At the conclusion of the first meeting of the Advisory Committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce since the resignation of former Manager, Homer D. Wade, held at the Fort Worth office of the organization July 29-30, it was the judgment of the Advisory Committee that a statement should be issued outlining the policies to be followed between now and the time of the El Paso convention. The meeting was attended by A. M. Bourland, president manager, R. W. Haynie of Abilene, Joe A. Wheat of Seymour and Ray H. Nichols of Vernon. Mr. Clifford B. Jones of Spur, the other member of the Advisory Committee, could not be present on account of being out of the state on a vacation.

1. It is our purpose to make effective the recommendations and resolutions adopted at the meeting of the directors in Coleman July 16, 1928. These recommendations included:

(a) A study of the organization structure by a committee composed of Walter D. Cline, Wichita Falls, R. L. Penick, Stamford, and O. P. Thrane, Snyder, which committee is instructed to study the organization set-up and make such recommendations as it may deem wise at the El Paso convention 23-24-25.

(b) A program of advertising any publicity to sell West Texas to the world, placing particular emphasis upon agricultural resources, dairying poultry raising, beef feeding, et cetera.

2. The organization as it now exists is expected to continue to function and that there is not now any expectation of any need for expansion in the personnel of the staff.

3. The Vernon Chamber of Commerce has loaned the services of its secretary - manager, Mr. Grady Shipp, without cost to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, as personal assistant to the president-manager. Mr. Shipp is not now, has not been in the past and will not be in the future an applicant for any office in connection with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. He is simply serving as personal assistant to the president-manager and continues his service with the Vernon Chamber of Commerce, and as soon as the term of office of the president-manager expires Mr. Shipp will continue to devote his time exclusively to his position at Vernon.

It is further stated that neither Mr. Bourland nor any member of the Advisory Committee attending the Fort Worth meeting has any inclination to suggest who may be selected at the El Paso convention for the position of general manager. Our sole purpose in undertaking the obligation imposed upon the committee by the directors of Abilene, June 20, 1929, is to continue the work of the organization and have its affairs in the most splendid condition possible at the time of the El Paso convention, and to this purpose the Advisory Committee have pledged themselves and call upon the friends of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to render every assistance to bring about this purpose in order that at the El Paso convention the organization will present a record of achievement equal to any year's work in the past and enjoy the most wonderful convention of all time.

4. It is to be our policy to work with and through the local chambers of commerce throughout West Texas and we earnestly solicit the active and whole hearted support of the secretaries and other officials of the local chambers of commerce.

HIGH TEMPERATURES RECORDED THIS WEEK

A heat wave of several days duration has presisted in sending the mercury to dizzy heights in the Southwest, the tempreature being above 100 mark in Snyder the first of the week. Records have been broken in several cities.

In Oklahoma City the mercury rose to 105 degrees, the highest since August 14, 1923. At Blackwell, Oklahoma, a maximum temperature of 109 was recorded and Chickasha reported 107. A 15-year mark was broken at Alva, Okla., with 111 degrees.

It was 105 at Wichita, Kan., Winfield reported 107 and Salina 105.

Texas found no relief from the sweltering conditions of last week when the mercury shot above 100 at many points and hit with 112 degrees at Brownwood. Wichita Falls reported 107. Dallas 99 and Corsicana reported a similar mark. Houston, near the gulf, reported 94.

ABOUT LUBBOCK

LUBBOCK, Texas, Aug. 6.—Plans for freshman orientation for the opening of the fall term at Texas Technological college have been worked out by the deans of the college and Roy McCullough, Y. M. C. A. secretary.

LUBBOCK, Texas, Aug. 6.—Predictions for the Texas Tech gridiron warriors are that the Matador aggregation will be full of aggression in the 1929 season, under the guidance of Coach Grady Higginbotham. The Matadors have scheduled games with two of the most powerful Southwestern Conference elevens—Baylor university and T. C. U., and intensive training for Tech's stiffest schedule will begin early this fall.

HELPING TO BUILD TEXAS

Earnest of the permanence of the dairy industry in Texts is seen in the fact that within recent months more than $2,000,000 has been invester in dairy, milk and cheese plants. A new cheese plant is at the small town of Abernanthy, Hale County, with a capacity of 1,000 pounds a day, and Denison, Wichita Falls, Denton, Valley Mills, Round Rock, Taylor and other points with several other Texas towns organizing or preparing to organize companies for cheese making. The Borden milk plant at Waco, the Carnation plant at Schulenberg (with a second plant at Sulphur Springs) the new milk plant at Tyler, Sherman, Marshall and several other cities are also new factors in the dairy business in Texas.

During the past year the East Texas Chamber of Commerce held 404 farm meetings, put on a fruit tree planting campaign that increased the number of trees by 278,000, started 236 bull clubs to aid the growing dairy industry in diversified farming that East Texas has never had before. Writing in a chain of Texas newspapers, Will H. Mayes adds another feature to the organization, saying, "It has so thoroughly sold East Texas to its own people that they have quit moving to other sections and have become East Texas boosters," which, by and large, probably is the biggest achievement of all.

In THESE Clothes A Man Can Do His BEST Work!

. . . remember the old saying about clothes proclaiming the man?

They do! . . . work clothes as well as dress-up clothes.

Notice the next man you see in overalls.

Is the name "FITZ" moulded in his buttons?

If it is, the wearer very likely is an experienced workman. Experience teaches men that

FITZ Overalls

Wear Beyond Compare!

A novice is more inclined to buy an inferior brand, costing a few cents less, thinking that all overalls are alike.

FITZ overalls wear better because they are roomier, are made of heavy, tough denim and finished with utmost care.

Being more comfortable, the man in FITZ overalls feels better and therefore can work better.

Superintendents think of this when they employ new men. They want experienced men who have good judgment and the courage to act.

They like to see men dressed properly for work . . . they notice the name "FITZ" on overall buttons!

TUG!

Some of our old readers may remember the days of teaming, when fine, big draft horses drew the brewery trucks about the streets. Of course, there were other trucks, but we particularly remember those which distributed the liquid refreshments of pre-war days—not because of their load, but by reason of the fact that the brewers certainly did have fine horses. Along the streets they trotted, the harness traces swinging loose; but out toward the brewery, where the roads were often heavy and the going hard, these great grays would lean against their colors and tug. By their extra effort they always got there and back.

For a good part of the year the wheels of business turn with little effort; usual sales endeavor and consistent advertising suffice to carry it along easily. But during the summer months—which represents the bad roads of business in the South—it behooves us to settle into the collar and tug.

Advertising is the greatest modern force to stimulate sales, and, as the selling job grows more difficult, the wise business man increases his advertising. Direct mail advertising plays a large part in bringing in customers during the hot months. Let us help you.
