Senator Taft Endorses Hall As GOP Head

WASHINGTON, April 7—UP—Senate Republican Leader Robert A. Taft said Tuesday Leonard W. Hall of New York would be "entirely acceptable to me" as the new GOP chairman.

But he said the national committee, which meets Friday to select a successor to C. Wesley Roberts of Kansas, should appoint a subcommittee to discuss the choice with President Eisenhower and Republican congressional leaders in advance of the voting.

Taft's statement apparently cleared the way for Hall's selection.

"I have no choice among the candidates for chairman," Taft's statement said, "and I look forward to working harmoniously with anyone who is elected by the committee next Friday."

"Need Dynamic Organization"
"It is essential that we set up a dynamic organization to assure full publicity and organization for the re-election of a Republican Congress in November, 1954," Taft said.

The game being played with selection of the chairman resembled musical chairs more than national politics. Hall, a former congressman who is now surrogate judge of Nassau county, N. Y., has been the likely choice almost from the moment that Roberts resigned under fire 11 days ago.

But some of Hall's backers diligently spread the story of an old break between Hall and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, boss of the New York Republican organization.

1. To persuade Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) that Hall's election would not deliver the National Committee machinery to Dewey for manipulation in the 1956 presidential campaign.

2. To assure President Eisenhower (See TAFT, Page 2)

Bills Confront Commission

Money matters — paying bills and estimates — confronted the City Commission this morning, meeting in the Chamber of Commerce conference room because election officials had taken over the commission's meeting room.

Between paying the regular bills and approving the estimates the commission awarded Lee Kreis the contract for moving the 230,000-gallon water storage tank from the S. Hobart pump station to the N. Hobart pump station at a cost of $1,783.

Kreis was the low bidder of three companies Atlas Tank and National Tank being the high bidders.

Two ordinances, companion measures, approving recent installation of parking meters and providing for leave outs at driveways, loading zones, were passed, on their second reading.

Then the commission got into the dollars and cents end of the business.

Monthly bills amounting to $33,870.74 were approved. Almost one third of the amount, $10,025 was for 10 carloads of cement purchased ahead of time to beat the price hike now in effect.

Estimates for running curb and gutter were approved for payment to W. R. Colville out of three separate funds, $2,326.75 out of the current paving fund; $1,491.61 out of the street improvement fund; and $1,053.98 out of the general fund. The latter two projects were in and around city property near the swimming pool.

Water and sewer refund payments were also approved for payment to William T. Fraser for the Fraser Annex addition. The refunds were made on the number of houses constructed or near completion. The three payments were for: sewer outfall line, $910; sewer lateral lines, $475; and water lines, $675.

Senators Move To Speed Up Debate On Tidelands Issue

WASHINGTON, April 7—UP—The Senate has shifted to daily sessions to speed debate on its controversial tidelands bill.

Republican Leader Robert A. Taft called for the speed-up. The debate is expected to run into next week and perhaps longer.

Opponents were doing plenty of talking in an effort to slow action on the measure. The House already has acted.

Sen. Spessard Holland (D-Fla.), chief sponsor of the Senate bill, was the lead-off speaker Tuesday.

First Vote Report Finds Slow Start

Voting in the city election today got off to a slow start and the pace didn't seem to increase near the noon hour as less than 100 votes were cast in Ward 1 by 10:30 a.m.

The same was true in the other boxes contacted this morning where voters were choosing a mayor and commissioner from the respective wards.

By 9 a.m. only 35 votes were cast in the City Hall box - Ward 1. At the same time, Ward 2, voting in the Tom Rose Ford Co., reported 27 ballots cast while Ward 4 in the IOOP Hall reported 18 votes cast.

Ward 3 was unable to be contacted.

Balloting, however, was expected to jump a bit over the noon hour with the big rush, if any, coming between 5 and 7 p.m., the time the polls close.

At stake in today's city election is the majority, and four city commission seats — one from each of the four wards.

Tom Rose Jr. and B. E. Ferrell are running for the chief executive's chair.

But, it's a game of solitaire in Ward 1 where Gene Fatheree has no opposition to replace City Commissioner Crawford Atkinson who "did not choose to run."

With City Commissioner Bob Thompson moving from Pampa, the field there was wide open.

For sometime it appeared as if the ward would go without a candidate — then in rapid succession...

Call Armed Truce... Big Labor Unions Attempt To Organize Unified Bloc

WASHINGTON, April 7—UP—The AFL and CIO, grant rivals of organized labor, called an armed truce Tuesday to make a new attempt at merging their forces.

Top-level union committees led by Presidents George Meany of the AFL and Walter P. Reuther of the CIO met here Tuesday morning for the first peace negotiations in nearly three years. Five previous tries since 1937 ended in failure.

Both Meany and Reuther were publicly hopeful that differences could be put aside this time to permit the CIO and AFL to unite "under one roof" in a 17-million-member labor bloc that could provide a more forceful front politically and in dealings with management.

The conference excluded John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers and other independent unions, which could be brought in later if a merger was achieved. Lewis has frequently called for a unified labor movement and has taken the position "the can be no unity without the mine-workers."

Reuther said the CIO representatives were "going into these meetings in good faith with a sincere desire of achieving an honorable and intelligent merger."

"The prospects are good if the AFL goes in with the same intent," he declared.

However, union officials conceded privately that the odds were heavily against a merger, even more now than when the discussions were set up several months ago.

Gulf Geologist Reviews Quinduno Work In API Meet

Development in the Quinduno Field, newly opened oil producing area in southern Roberts County, will be outlined during the first spring meeting of the Panhandle chapter of the American Petroleum Institute April 14.

The API group, meeting in the Palm Room at 8 p.m., will hear W. D. Blackmon, geologist for Gulf Oil Corporation, describe development of the field which his company opened early last year.

To date, Gulf has drilled approximately 20 wells in the field which has found oil production around the 4,100-foot level.

W. Graham, superintendent of Kewanee Oil Company, Pampa, is president of the API group.

Communies Volunteer Return Of Prisoners

Peiping Forecasts 'Early' Armistice

PANMUNJOM, Korea, April 7—UP—The Communists agreed Tuesday to voluntary repatriation of all ailing war prisoners, even exceeding United Nations demands, and Peiping radio said "an early armistice can be achieved."

The Communists agreed to the voluntary return of even prisoners suffering minor disabilities.

They had brought up the question at the first meeting Monday and clarified it Tuesday, going beyond the Geneva Convention covering prisoner return which had been the UN goal in the long truce talks.

The Peiping radio broadcast was a straight forward review of Monday's talks on exchange of sick and wounded and predicted an early armistice if the Allies show the same good-faith in discussing an armistice as in working out the present exchange.

If the Reds are willing to apply the same principle of voluntary repatriation to all prisoners of war, the way will be cleared to resume full-dress armistice talks leading to a possible end of the three-year-old war.

The United Nations truce team announced the Red agreement after morning and afternoon meetings with the Communists in this truce village. It was the second day of renewed talks. Another meeting will be held Wednesday.

UN Ready to Swap in Week
Rear Admiral John C. Daniel, chief UN negotiator, said the Allies were ready to begin the prisoner swap within a week, but he did not believe the Communists were set up to move that quickly.

Daniel said the Communists showed a "very favorable" attitude to three major points. They were:

1. Voluntary repatriation of all sick and wounded prisoners, including those less seriously disabled.
2. Under the Geneva convention, the latter could have been sent to new imprisonment in a neutral nation.
3. No sick or wounded prisoner would be forced to return to his own country.

Spokesman Says... Army To Rush U.S. Prisoners Back To Homes

WASHINGTON, April 7—UP—An Army spokesman said Tuesday the first group of sick and wounded U. S. prisoners from Korea can be expected home within a week to 10 days after an actual exchange begins in the battle area.

Maj. Gen. S. E. Hayes, deputy surgeon general of the Army, said all the men able to travel will be flown to the U. S. almost immediately.

Developments at Panmunjom, meanwhile, stirred optimism here that the Communists' ready agreement to exchange of ailing and sick prisoners would lead to early end of the Korean war.

Reports Held Encouraging
The White House hailed the Panmunjom reports as "encouraging." Asked about President Eisenhower's reaction to the latest news, Press Secretary James C. Hagerly said:

"The President and the government of the United States are, of course, following the negotiations very closely. Every act and deed leading to the humanitarian exchange of ill and wounded prisoners of war is encouraging."

Hagerly said the White House had no information on exactly how many prisoners will be involved in the exchange.

No Answer on Number
At the Defense Department, queries on the actual number of U. S. military men held prisoners by the Communists were not answered.

Skies Clear Over Pampa

Pampa was drenched again today — but with sunshine following heavy fog Monday night. But the area can expect more rain tonight from a cold front bearing down on the state which is expected to bring scattered thunderstorms and a five to 10 degree drop in temperatures.

More rain, following a one inch downpour Saturday and Sunday in the county, is just what local farmers and cattlemen are looking for to boost optimistic crop expectations for 1953 to a new high after a two-year drought.

The precipitation-laden cold front had pushed to a line extending from Nebraska, Northwest Kansas, Central Colorado and into Arizona early today and was expected to enter Texas late today.

Prior to the cold front, temperatures remained moderate in the area with a 55 degree high Monday and a 42 low Monday night. Yet in advance of the predicted drop at 11 a.m. today the mercury read 54 degrees.

Widow Says Dying Husband Told Her To Shoot Officer

SAN ANTONIO, April 7—UP—A sergeant's widow, who shot her dying husband told her Tuesday that she did it because her husband commanded her to before he died.

The matron said the sergeant's widow, Mrs. Mabel Van Fleet, 44, said her dying husband told her: "The doctor murdered me. Take care of him."

Wilson, whom she shot, is chief of medical services at Lackland Air Force Base hospital, where Mrs. Van Fleet's husband, Laurence, died eight months ago. Records at the hospital said he died of lung cancer.

In Critical Condition
Wilson was in critical condition Tuesday. Mrs. Van Fleet shot at him four times in his home Monday night with a .25 caliber pistol. Two bullets missed. One grazed his head and the fourth went into his upper right chest.

He never intended to kill him, Mrs. Van Fleet said. "I wanted him to live and suffer like my husband suffered."

She spoke of a "raw deal" but would not tell about it. But she said the story of what happened to her husband in the hospital "will come out now... it's enough to curl your hair."

Her attorney, William Church, was asked whether she was trying to say that medical negligence killed her husband.

"More Than Negligence"
"It was more than negligence," he said. "I believe she charges they murdered her husband, neglect and several other things. She has already told her story to Sen. Lyndon Johnson and the Senate Armed Forces committee."

He did not say whether she told her story to the committee as a whole or only to Johnson, who used to be chairman of the committee.

Church said she had been brooding since her husband's death, eight months ago last Sunday. He said Brooke Army Hospital and Lackland Air Force Base, Adv.

Ray Evans Resigns City Engineer Post

In his surprise move, Evans stated merely that he intends to enter business "here in Pampa."

His letter, addressed to City Manager B. H. Cruce, said:

"I could not leave the city without expressing my appreciation of the excellent cooperation I have received from every citizen in Pampa, and from the employees of the city. It has been a pleasant four years."

Evans first went to work for the city as city engineer Feb. 23, 1949, succeeding Dick Pepin who was named city manager a few days before. Evans retained the title city engineer until recently.

Bloodmobile Arrives Here

First pint of blood in a 300-pint goal Red Cross 1953 drive in Pampa was to be taken at 2 p.m. today in the American Legion - VFW Hall.

Scheduled as the first donor was A. A. Schumaker.

And following opening of the drive, approximately 200 donors were to contribute before the first day's operations closed at 2 p.m. Collected blood was sent to Ft. Worth military headquarters via plane which left Perry LeFors field at 8:30 p.m.

The high number of donors slated the first day caused Lewis Chamberlain, drive chairman, to predict the goal would be reached for 1953.

Prior to the drive opening, Mrs. Cozier Barnett, Red Cross nurse in charge of the bloodmobile which arrived in Pampa at 9 a.m. today, conducted an orientation class for approximately 80 volunteer workers. She assigned duties and explained workings of the bloodmobile program.

Local doctors on duty were Dr. Carl M. Lang and Dr. D. P. Bonner.

Also aiding in the blood drive today was Mrs. C. E. Jeffries who handled last-minute telephone appointments for late donors.

"The appointment schedule for Wednesday is not yet completely filled," Mrs. Shotwell, Pampa Chapter executive secretary, said, "consequently drop-in contributors are encouraged anytime during the 2 p.m. until 8 p.m. time limit."

Canadian Jury Probe Into Murder Enters Second Day

Canadian's grand jury inquiry into the fatal 30-day-old poker party was in its second day today with at least 23 persons believed slated for questioning before its conclusion.

Ten persons gave secret testimony Monday to the jurors assembled downtown in Canadian's courthouse to probe the March 8 murder of Arthur Bernard Smith, 58, of Sanford, and the subsequent suicide of Leonard Woodward, 42, of Canadian.

District Attorney Tom Braly said the grand jury is expected to be tied up through Wednesday.

In charging the empaneled jury, District Judge Lewis M. Goodrich made it apparent that the inquiry was not necessarily confined to the murder: "If your sheriff (Clyde Risley) is not conducting the proper kind of investigation here... or if he is tied up with the liquor traffic... you should find out."

"The place for issuing search warrants is in the Justice of the Peace office," Goodrich continued, in referring to the county's current bootlegging problems, and added: "There have been rumors that the JP office here cannot be trusted."

Kick-off of the current investigation came from Wednesday's regular meeting of the Canadian Ministerial Alliance which drafted a double-barreled resolution asking inquiries into the murder itself and the conduct of the official investigation.

And the six Alliance members were among those questioned Monday in the murder. First since 1918 in Hemphill County — and first in Canadian's history: They are Reverends Tom Gray, Taft Holloway, Carter McKemy, Hugh Adkisson, Arthur Kendall and Olan Beauchamp.

Others who entered the jury room Monday were Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hoover, D. N. Wilson and Mr. Terrell, both believed to be Pampans.

Reliable sources indicated that others in line for grand jury testimony include Pat Crawford, Fuzz Hanna, Hank Mathis; Ray Mowles, one of the two who discovered the murder; Steve Spurline; Mrs. Woodward, widow of the suicide; Bill Murray; Nathan Nelson, Amarillo News reporter; Ben Ezzell, Canadian Record publisher; V. L. Hamlin; Lipscomb Sheriff E. J. Tarbox; and Hollis Spill. (See CANADIAN, Page 2)

Sabrejets Hit 10 Enemy Jets

SEOUL, April 7—UP—Rampaging American Sabrejets destroyed or damaged 10 Communist MIGs Tuesday while protecting UN dive bombers in hard-hitting attacks against enemy railways and power installations.

The F-86s shot down two MIG-15s, probably destroyed one and damaged seven for their first claims in three days and their biggest score in two weeks.

While the swirling dogfights were going on, F-84 Thunderjets flew to within 12 miles of Manchuria to attack a key rail line, destroying 20 boxcars and ripping up rails on the Sinsung-Namsidong route.

Hit Eight Rail Bridges
Other groups of dive-bombers hit eight rail bridges and a transformer station near Chinnampo, the port for the North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

On the ground, South Korean troops launched new counterattacks to push Chinese Communists off an outpost east of the Pukhan River, which they lost three days ago.

The ROKs wrestled control of the position from the Chinese for a brief while early Tuesday, then got it back.

Open Hearing Held On Gas Price Bill

A public hearing was slated to get underway today on the controversial Texas Senate minimum gas price bill sponsored by Sen. Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo.

Hazlewood was to make his case for the bill before the Senate Oil and Gas Conservation Committee at 2:30 p.m.

According to the Hazlewood measure, the Texas Railroad Commission was to be granted power to set a minimum price for natural gas at the wellhead for the Texas Panhandle portion of the vast Hugoton Field. The huge reservoir extends into the Oklahoma Panhandle and on into Kansas. Both Kansas and Oklahoma have enacted laws setting minimum prices for gas in their portions of the field. To date, the Panhandle has no such ruling.

Proponents of the bill say because of this, Texas gas is being wasted and producers and royalty owners are being discriminated against in prices paid for their natural gas.

Opponents contend such a bill would increase the price of gas to the consumers and prove an intrusion on private enterprise.

A similar measure has been introduced in the House sponsored by Rep. Guy Hazellet and Rep. Geisinger McElvaine.

"You are not to allow them

Referring to the members of aid, "I have heard a lot of criti-ism of these preachers who organized to fight the liquor trafthem if they were not against

"They (the preachers) have told me some of the things they have heard," the judge pointed out.
If some of these things are

"I have been called by the

Reserve Unit Making Plans For Training

Plans are being carried out by the local reserve unit for the annual unit training period slated at Fort Sill, Okla., June 7-21. According to Capt. Carl E. Hoskins, commander of the unit, Battery B, 80th Armored Field Artillery Battalion, there is still ample time for any Pampa reservist to join the group. Capt. Hoskins said a number of openings exist in the unit. Most recent addition to the unit are Pvt. Ronald B. Hudgens and Billy Joe Richardson. Promotions in the unit include Cpl. Jimmy W. Welch, promoted from private first class, and SFC Clifford W. Hill, promoted from sergeant.

that choice of Hall should not front Taft by reason of any Dewey-Hall tie-up.
Overdid The Job
They overdid it. The Hall-Dewey rift story was spread so far, wide and well that Mr. Eisenhower heard more of it than was intended. Anxious for harmony, the President shell shocked the Hall boomers by suggesting that if Dewey did not like him, they had better look elsewhere.
Taft, meantime, was not saying
"no" to Hall's election, but he was not saying "yes," either.
As the story now unfolds in a chuckling capital, it looked for a time there that Mr. Eisenhower had vetoed Hall because his supporters outsmarted themselves with their own strategy.
It was at that point in the developing situation that Dewey announced last week that he and the New York Republican organization were for Hall for chairman all the time.
Taft Silent on Hall
Dewey's announcement sounded fine at the White House where Mr.
Eisenhower long had been friendly to Hall's election if the politicians could agree on him.
It did not sound so good to Taft.
He had cause to wonder why Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, a member of the President's cabinet, had been telling him emphatically that the old rift between Hall and Dewey still existed. He began to sum up the telephone calls from politicians over the country, all assuring him that Hall was not Dewey man.
The senator, no pranksman himself, maybe is wondering if he was being kidded—and why. And he has not said "no" yet nor "yes," either. Chances are he will go along —unless Mr. Eisenhower gets the idea that someone might be offended by Hall's election merely because of Dewey's enthusiasm therefor.

LABOR

ago. At that time, Meany and Reuther had just been elected to office and union officials believed the new leadership might inspire a successful drive towards unity.
Bickering Precedes Meeting
But several events since then have caused the optimists to back-track.
First, Reuther demanded that the AFL fulfill four conditions prior to merger: cleanup of "waterfront racketeers" in the AFL longshoremen's union; new machinery for solving jurisdictional disputes; end of racial discrimination within unions; and a provision to keep industrial unionism intact.
The AFL called Reuther's statement a "publicity stunt. . . that doesn't aid unity," and Meany said "before we really get together we may have to have a cease-fire of some kind."
There also has been increased
"adding" activities between rival AFL and CIO unions, particularly in the textile, electrical and railroad industries. This has led to frequent and bitter clashes and presents the biggest problem faced by the unity conference.

Here's Packard's new medium-priced car!
The New Packard CLIPPER
Here's your opportunity to own and drive a really fine automobile at only a few hundred dollars more than you'd pay for a car in the lowest-priced field!
In ALL truth, the new Packard CLIPPER is enjoying public response—far beyond expectations—and has, since the first day it was shown!
Because the value is there, and the price is right.
How can Packard do it? Deliver so much big-car value and performance at medium-car prices?
FIRST: It's Packard engineering—traditionally fine, historically dependable.
Packard, you remember, is the oldest maker of fine quality cars in America.
SECOND: Packard occupies a unique manufacturing position, for Packard alone with 54 years' experience in fine car building, combines craftsmanship of the highest character, and modern mass production techniques, to produce greater dollar for dollar value.
In addition to greater values, you get Packard's contour styling that is setting the new trend in automotive design. Contour styling means not only a handsomer car, but better visibility —any way you look! You get the smoothness and comfort of the famous Packard ride, too—real big-car ride!
You get the unforgettable kitten-smooth, whip-quick pull and zoom of the Packard Thunderbolt-8 Engine—real big-car power!
In all, you get more than 70 big-car features!
If you plan to buy a car in the $2500 price-class be sure to see and drive the new Packard CLIPPER and compare it with other medium-priced cars. Surprisingly enough the CLIPPER costs only a few hundred dollars more than cars in the lowest-priced field. And, of course, there's a wide range of new beautiful CLIPPER models, any one of which will give you a lift, as well as a ride, anytime you drive it!
In addition to the new CLIPPER, Packard of course continues to build one of the finest cars in the world, sold under the single name PACKARD—America's new choice in fine cars. Now—Ask the man who owns one!

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Behind the Screen: Hollywood's mad scramble to change the shape and sound of movies in its struggle against television competition has taken on the plot twists of a radio soap opera with a them song titled:

"Polish Up the Round House Doors, Nellie, Movies Aren't Square Anymore."

What's going to happen tomorrow? Will Mr. Exhibitor marry Cinerama or 3-D or will he leave both of them waiting at the church while he elopes with CinemaScope?

Even Hollywood can't answer the questions. And Mr. Exhibitor is confused.

Confused? Yipe! He doesn't know whether he should install a kidney-shaped screen in his theater, or buy 3,000,000 polaroid glasses, or trade his sound horns for eight bugles, a clarinet and a midget, or put a "Closed Until Hollywood's Science-Fiction Thriller in Terror and Suspense. It's a Nightmare in Technicolor."

Preview Flash: Paramount's "War of the Worlds" tops all of Hollywood's science-fiction thrillers in terror and suspense. It's a nightmare in Technicolor.

One of my spies reports he's found the answer to why there are no embarrassing moments when Arlene Dahl wears those low-cut gowns.

Just before Arlene was to do a bending-over scene in "The Diamond Queen," my spy whispered, "A roll of Scotch tape was delivered to her dressing room!"

No Hope Now
Marilyn Maxwell, a tremendous hit in her Las Vegas night-club debut, cracked to her opening-night audience: "I usually work with Bob Hope but who needs Hope after this reception!" Then she added in small type, "I do. But she doesn't."

How-to-get-rich note: A $1000 investment in the 3-D movie, "Ewana Devil," just brought a Hollywoodian a check for $8000, with more to come!

Three little Indian boys in blue jeans and plaid shirts were watching the filming of "War Paint" at Death Valley when a Hollywood extra, in make-up and full-feathered Indian dress, stepped out of a station wagon.

"Gee," said one of the Indian boys, "Look at the INDIAN."

MGM and Fox are bidding for "African Fury," a big-a-me-hunting movie filmed in color by George Michael... Liz Taylor and Michael Wilding are still laughing over the false radio report that they are expecting the stork for the second time.

Shelly Winters on the changes wrought by mamahood:

special projection lenses being dreamed up at MGM and at Paramount.

Better stories, too? Sorry, Hollywood's too busy with its technical revolution.

What will tomorrow bring? Don't ask me. Maybe triangle-shaped movies viewed through cellophane popcorn bags and 4-D movies for people with two heads.

Television stole Hollywood's audience. And now Hollywood is out to lure back the cash customers via something colossal.

As one industry brass-hat summed it up for me:
"Even our good movies failed to make money. Now we're trying gimmicks. If the gimmicks don't work, we're dead."

Hmmmm! How about movie screens in the shape of Marilyn Monroe?

John Barrymore Jr., and his sister, Dee Dee, are raising eyebrows with their quarrels. They live in the same Hollywood apartment house... Fernando Lamas is having the last laugh, now that MGM has renewed his contract and upped his salary, at prophets who predicted that he was through in Hollywood after his tiff with Lana Turner... Giro's orchestra leader, Dick Stabile, deserves a lion's share of the credit for bringing Dean Martin and his wife together.

Pravda Blames Two For 'Wrong' Arrests

MOSCOW, April 6—UP—Pravda, the newspaper of the Russian Communist party, put major responsibility for the "wrongful" arrest of 15 Moscow doctors on two high Soviet officials Monday.

Pravda announced in a first-page editorial the arrest of a man identified only as Ryumin—the assistant minister of state security—for falsifying documents which "accused Soviet citizens unjustly."

Semyon Deisovich Ignatiev, former minister of state security who was elected a secretary of the Central committee of the Communist party after Josef Stalin's death, was blasted for "political blindness and gullibility."

The 15 doctors, six of them Jews, were arrested in January and accused of plotting against the lives of Soviet leaders. It was announced Saturday that they had been accused falsely and had been freed.

A Taxi Just In Time

TOLEDO, Ohio, April 2—UP—A cab driver saw George Upchurch standing with upraised arms and thought he wanted a ride.

The driver didn't see the man standing behind Upchurch holding a gun in his back. When the cab stopped, the would-be robber took to his heels.

"Can't say again I couldn't get a cab when I needed one," Upchurch said.

Thousands of thirsty citizens kned the streets near the breweries to cheer the trucks on their way.

In taverns across the country anxious malt guzzlers waited for the first "real beer" to arrive. When the deliveries were made shortly after midnight the crowds settled down and stayed all night.

Oldtimers in this beer capital remember how Milwaukee's seven breweries vied for the honor of sending the first truckload of legal beer away from their plants. No one could quite remember who won but all seven breweries claimed the victory.

At one minute past midnight April 7, 1933, "3.2" beer went on sale legally in 21 states and the District of Columbia after the long, parched years brought on by the 18th Amendment.

For millions of persons wallowing in the mire of a major depression the return of the brew was the first good news in months, and they celebrated it in noisy, jovial style.

One Chicago liquor store is observing the anniversary by offering to sell six bottles of beer at only one cent each, along with the purchase of a quart at regular prices. "This one cent sale is our way of observing this 20th anniversary," their advertisement said.

Thousands of thirsty citizens kned the streets near the breweries to cheer the trucks on their way.

In taverns across the country anxious malt guzzlers waited for the first "real beer" to arrive. When the deliveries were made shortly after midnight the crowds settled down and stayed all night.

Oldtimers in this beer capital remember how Milwaukee's seven breweries vied for the honor of sending the first truckload of legal beer away from their plants. No one could quite remember who won but all seven breweries claimed the victory.

No Question About It—It's Folger's Coffee

Such a Different and Wonderful Flavor!

Folger's Coffee is cheer, and comfort too, heartening and heart-warming. It is cheer captured from the brilliant sunshine of far-away mountains. It is cheer nourished in the tingling mountain air, fed by the rich volcanic soil and warm, soft rains of nature's magic wonderland. Yes, famous Folger's Coffee—Mountain Grown—is different, with a flavor apart from all others. Its difference is measured in the depth of satisfaction it gives to those who linger gratefully... and sip slowly and fully of its incomparable goodness. You'll cheer your whole family with a new kind of coffee pleasure when you first serve Folger's, the Mountain Grown coffee.

So extra rich in flavor you are urged to TRY USING 1/4 LESS than with lesser flavored brands

MISS MONTE HILL DAVIS

Miss Monte Hill Davis Will Be Featured In 8-Piano Symphonic Ensemble Concert

Miss Monte Hill Davis will be featured soloist at the North Texas State College presentation of the Eight Piano Symphonic Ensemble here Friday evening at 8.

The concert to be held in the Pampa Junior High School is sponsored by the Business and Professional-Women's Club. Dr. Silvio Scionti is conductor of the ensemble.

Daughter of Mrs. Cornelia Davis of Nacogdoches, Miss Davis began music work at the age of five in Nacogdoches under Mamie Middlebrook in 1937 and gave her first recital that year.

At the age of eight she appeared with the Houston Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Ernest Hoffman. On the recommendation of Hoffman, Miss Davis moved to Denton in 1940 to study with Dr. Silvio Scionti and Dr. Isabel Scionti.

In 1948, while a senior at the NTSC Laboratory School, she won the Houston Symphony contest sponsored by the Texas Board of Education; the Texas Federation of Music Clubs' contest in district competition between Oklahoma and Texas; and the Civic

RUTH MILLETT

Are you bored, lonely, hurt, or unhappy? If those words sum up your feelings today you aren't alone in your misery. Most people have days when they feel sorry for themselves.

But that only makes them feel worse. So don't give in to self-pity. Instead do something for yourself. Something that you'll be bound to enjoy in spite of your troubles. And once you start enjoying what you are doing, you'll forget that you have a right to feel blue.

What can this something be? That depends on you. If you like gardening buy yourself some plants to set out in the yard, something that is blooming right now. If you can't do that get a potted flower in full bloom for your kitchen window.

If being with others cheers you up, invite a friend or two for lunch. Or arrange to go shopping with a friend.

KEEP BUSY

If accomplishing something gives you a lift, get out the material for that dress you've been meaning to make for a month. Cut into it and get going.

If you get real pleasure out of reading, give the house a lick and a promise and settle down with a book. Don't worry about being lazy. Playing hooky now and then is good for a grownup. "That's all very well" you may be thinking, "but what are you going to do if there are small children you've got to look after?"

You can figure out something to do if it is just inviting a neighbor over for coffee.

Mrs. Douglas McKay, Cabinet Wife, Thinks Being Housewife Ideal Career

By PATTI SIMMONS
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Mrs. Douglas McKay may not look like the beaming kind, but Washington social life has driven her to it. It's the stag parties that are getting her down.

Mable McKay is a grandmother who after 36 years of marriage still looks forward to spending her evenings with her husband. And it isn't fair, she complains, for husbands who work hard at the office to have to go out and discuss more business at parties while their wives, who haven't seen them all day, stay at home.

But she's begun to realize that parties in the nation's capital are more than social-get-togethers, and often take the form of important decisions over a dinner table instead of a desk.

The day Douglas McKay heard about his appointment as Secretary of the Interior, he came home and found Mrs. McKay, a great gardener, waiting excitedly to tell him that she had just finished putting in hyacinths, daffodils and unpeeled tulip bulbs.

Before he could get in a word she told him proudly, "I put in more bulbs today than I ever put in in my life." Her husband never said a word about the cabinet post until the next day.

"He didn't have the heart," she relates. Brown-eyed Mrs. McKay, who wears no nail polish and does her own cooking, won her own fame in Oregon — an angel food cake recipe which has won her State Fair ribbons. The secret? Probably the careful beating she gives the batter with a flat wire whip. Hundreds of Oregonians acclaim the cake at the open houses Mrs. McKay used to hold once a week when her husband was governor.

MRS. DOUGLAS MCKAY

"Heavens, no, I don't plan to hold open house in Washington," she says. "In the first place, we are sixth down the line in cabinet rank. Besides, we are not equipped to entertain that way in an apartment."

Favorite topics with Grandmother McKay are those five grandchildren and, naturally, her own two daughters.

She's still surprised by women who say apologetically, "I'm only a housewife."

"Can any woman find a bigger, a more exacting, more challenging career than that of making a real home, of rearing a fine family, of being the balance wheel for her husband both in prolonged success and in momentary failure?" Mrs. McKay declares.

All this from someone who's no slouch with a shorthand pad and typewriter, herself. But there's a difference, Mable McKay considers taking dictation from her husband on weekends something like, say mending his socks.

Loose Talk On Vital Atomic Secrets Makes Spy Work Easy At Albuquerque

EDITOR'S NOTE: NEA Reporter Douglas Larsen, who has covered atomic energy activities for several years, first got wind of the startling facts about atomic security, reported below, when he was covering recent nuclear tests at Yucca Flats. To dig deeper, he teamed up with Doyle Kline, managing editor of the Albuquerque Tribune, and his staff. Both checked their information with the most responsible sources. This is the second of their four dispatches.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN and DOYLE KLINE
ALBUQUERQUE, N.M.—(NEA)—It's safe to assume that Moscow has gathered a mass of detail about how America's nuclear weapons are stored, moved around the U.S. and transported to bases overseas. That information is available to any casual visitor to the Santa Fe-Albuquerque area.

Two events which took place within a 12-hour period recently show how loose tongues blab secrets: The "Fasten Your Seat Belt"

White House Staff Plagued By 'Friends'

WASHINGTON, April 6 —UP—Backstairs at the White House: The staff of any President is always plagued by people who try to garner personal prestige by claiming they are "just like that" with the man in the White House.

Washington characters who try to give this impression have dropped the time-tested technique of saying "I knew him when" about President Eisenhower. The current vogue is "I played with him at..."

A lobbyist around town has earned the reputation of being a "club dropper" even though he doesn't play much golf. This is the fellow who buttonholes important contacts to tell them, "I saw Ike at Burning Tree Saturday."

Marvin McIntyre, FDR's famous secretary and adviser, once said that almost overnight Mr. Roosevelt's slight acquaintances became "Franklin and me." McIntyre observed that the self-styled "schoolmates" of FDR would have filled all the public school buildings of New York City.

and lead them on the bomber right over there. You can take some interesting pictures of the whole place from the terminal." One of these reporters who overheard this fascinating recital was invited that evening to a small neighborhood get-together in the home of a friend in an Albuquerque suburb.

One of the guests said: "Pete and I were stopped on the way home from Santa Fe last night by another of those convoys carrying atom bombs. Probably in connection with the tests in Las Vegas."

The speaker described the trucks, their markings and their route. Another guest added: "Yes—and you know they're not using that old lot near Menula School for overnight parking any more. They're parking at..." (The writers omit the new location because it is new enough information that it might not have gotten into the hands of spies.)

That speaker then filled in the details of the firm that had the hauling contract, about how many trips per month he had figured out they made, and the names of some of the persons working for the outfit. He told about the time a tarpaulin had blown off the top of a truck, giving everyone nearby a look at what he thought was an atomic bomb. He described it.

Discussion of this information with an official of one of the projects here brought a sorrowful shake of the head and the statement: "Well, we try to get them to keep their mouths shut. And of course our policy is neither to confirm nor deny such information. But the sad truth is that enemy agents don't need complete sets of accurate plans to find out what they want to know. A fragment here, a bit there. They're plenty shrewd enough to figure out the whole thing from little bits."

A few days later, casual conversation in the city airport bar revealed that components of atomic weapons were being shipped out of Kirtland Air Force Base for points around the world, wherever major U.S. bases are maintained.

A shocked official, confronted with this, could only reply:

LOOKING EAST — From Albuquerque, air view shows Sandia Base, Kirtland Air Force Base and municipal airport, all grouped together (arrow). In background are Sandia Mountains.

Wife Admits Burning House; Husband In It

HOUSTON, April 6 —UP—Mrs. Hazel McManus, 24-year-old brunette, was charged with arson Monday after admitting setting fire to the frame apartment in which her husband, M. E. McManus, 48, was asleep.

McManus, a painter, was rescued from the burning structure by firemen. Investigators said the blaze had been started by Mrs. McManus who had soaked a room with kerosene and touched a match to it.

The blaze was halted after it had done some $1,000 damages to the structure. McManus was unhurt and was jailed on a charge of drunkenness.

Mrs. McManus said she set the place afire after a quarrel with her third husband during which he accused her of going with another man.

The Pampa Daily News

One of Texas' Five Most Consistent Newspapers

We believe that one truth is always consistent with another truth. We endeavor to be consistent with truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

Should we, at any time, be inconsistent with these truths, we would appreciate anyone pointing out to us how we are inconsistent with these moral guides.

Published daily except Saturday by The Pampa News, Atchison at Somerville, Pampa, Texas. Prices 60¢, all departments. Entered as second class matter under the act of March 3, 1879.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By CARRIER in Pampa 30¢ per week. Paid in advance (at office) $3.50 per month, $12.50 per six months, $25.00 per year. By mail $10.00 per year in retail trading zone, $12.50 per year outside retail trading zone. Price for single copy 5 cents. No mail order accepted in localities served by carrier delivery.

An Opening Wedge

The price fixers are still at it. Again this year, as in many other legislative years, up has popped another price fixing measure. This year it has the euphemistic title, "Clean Competition Bill." A better title perhaps would be the "Clean Cut Competition Bill."

At the present time an effort is being made to persuade the Texas Legislature the fair-trade price measure is aimed at only one feature of one type of retail business.

But the bill would affect business of all retail firms, from the smallest village to the biggest city.

It would prohibit retail sale of merchandise "below cost" plus mark-up, and it applies to all merchandise in all types of stores.

Its effect would be to prohibit a merchant selling as cheaply as he might be able and willing to sell. It would result in increases of costs to the consumer, and would destroy an element of competitive merchandising.

Further, this bill, if enacted, would be a big opening wedge toward the long-sought goal of the standard "fair trade" bill which would enforce manufacturer-fixing prices on all retailers, when one retailer in the entire state contracted to comply with manufacturer's prices.

Advocates of legislation to fix or sustain prices have been before every session of the Legislature for two decades with measures in the present form, or others, all having the practical end effect of raising the price of goods available to the consumer.

The question before the people of Texas, and the Legislature, is how far statutory price control would be carried if the principle is adopted as law in any form.

Sponsors of the Zivley bill say it is designed to abolish the practice of "loss leader" selling; but its terms are as wide as a merchant's inventory, and it covers the department store, the hardware store, the clothing shop, just the same as it applies to the retail grocer.

The bill was set for hearing before the House state affairs committee the night of April 1, when opposing business groups were to reiterate old arguments for and against legislative price regulation. But left in between is the consuming public of Texas, which would pay the bill; and the fact this would be a big bill is obvious from the intense and determined efforts to secure price legislation.

Disability Racket

One of the seamy sides of bureaucratic corruption is to be found in the disability retirement racket, which has been worked by too many grasping Americans for a number of years. The disability retirement system has been exploited by tens of thousands of healthy Americans, and this racket is costing every American taxpayer today.

When one considers that about six billions of dollars are spent on veterans and veteran benefits every year — one of the largest chunks in the budget — the conclusion is usually reached that they are being adequately cared for. But the Veterans Administration no longer handles the disability retirement payments to former members of the Armed Services and so additional money is appropriated for these payments to the services themselves.

Perhaps this makes the spending of these large sums appear more justified to the taxpayers, but the real story is not so pleasant. For many years smart dealers have been taking advantage of the law to grab monthly disability retirement payments of as much as two, three, four or five hundred dollars a month! And some draw much more. Some former members of the services have been drawing such sums, monthly, for a period of years — termed disability money. Many are actually not disabled to any extent, carry on a full time working schedule in their private business.

The sad part of this tale is that there are many former veterans who are actually in desperate need for care, and if the government wasn't paying out countless sums of money to the undeserved, funds would be available for their care. There are many cases where ex-service men are dying — actually dying — of tuberculosis, or some other disease, and where the VA hospitals cannot care for them. VA officers have said recently that it is practically impossible to get former veterans suffering from TB or mental disorders into a VA hospital in most sections of the country at present, if the disease was contracted after release from service.

The excuse for this is that these unfortunates acquired their diseases when out of the service. In other words, it was not a service-connected disability. This reasoning sounds pretty thin when one sees a number of fat-cat former officers in his community drawing several hundred dollars a month from the government, while they pour a full schedule in their own business. The excuse for this is that they received some disability while on active duty.

On the other hand, a poor fellow suffering from TB, and dying, might have served ten years in the service, all of it overseas, and yet he isn't even able to get medical care. In theory one can see how the law was written, but in actual practice the system stinks.

Proposed Amendments To The Taft-Hartley Law

Here is more on the amendments Senator Taft has introduced to the Taft-Hartley Act.

I quote from the National Economic Council Letter:

Non-Communist Affidavits

"A basic aim of Communism is and always has been to infiltrate and dominate trade unions and to use them, 'come the revolution' or in time of war, for the Communists' purposes. Before Taft-Hartley, Communists controlled at least twelve important unions. Taft-Hartley therefore provided that unions could not enjoy the privileges and exercise the powers that the law gives them unless their officers swear they are not Communists or fellow-travelers.

"There is no evidence that Communists have succeeded in infiltrating and controlling management. Employers do not have the statutory power over employees that the law gives to unions as their 'exclusive bargaining agents.' It therefore is silly to require corporate officers and business managers to sign non-Communist affidavits. Nevertheless, Mr. Eisenhower fell for his advisers' nonsense, and said employers, too, should sign the affidavits. Senator Taft, evidently feeling bound by Mr. Eisenhower's statement, proposes in S. 655 to require employers to sign in order to use procedures of the National Labor Relations Board.

Boycott, A One-Way Street

"Two of Senator Taft's amendments deal with 'secondary boycotts.' Unions frequently 'organize' employees of one employer by inducing employees of other employers to refuse to supply material he needs or to handle goods he makes unless he forces his employees to join a union and pay initiation fees and dues to it. In these situations, a union may become the 'representative' of employees although none of them wishes it to represent them.

"In other situations, a union that has struck one employer will cause employees of other employers who have no dispute with their employer to refuse to handle or work on materials for or products of the struck employer.

"Unions engage in this tactic when employees of the struck employer are so unsympathetic to the strike that the union cannot win it without the help of employees of other employers, who force their employers to stop doing business with the struck employer. In the other employers stopped doing business with the struck employer by agreement between themselves, they could be sent to jail and sued for treble damages for restraining trade.

"Taft-Hartley forbids secondary boycotts. In response to a claim, which the courts hold is not true, that the present law permits struck employers to farm out work to other employers and forbid employees of the other employers to do the struck work, Senator Taft proposes an amendment in S. 655 that goes far beyond any legitimate criticism of unions. Unions should be permitted to engage in a secondary boycott only if (1) the primary strike is legal and is authorized by the certified bargaining agent of employees of the struck employer; (2) the employees of both the primary and secondary employers have the same union; (3) the contracts between the union and the secondary employers permit the employees of the secondary employer to refuse to do the struck employer's work; and (4) the struck employer has farmed out the work to the secondary employer who are doing the work for the struck employer's account.

"Senator Taft's amendment should be deleted or greatly revised. The law now requires the General Counsel of the Labor Board, when he has reasonable cause to believe a union is engaging in a secondary boycott, to apply for injunctive relief. When employees discriminate against employees, the National Labor Relations Board can force them to pay back pay. But the Board does not award damages to employers who are the victims of secondary boycotts. Consequently, injunctive relief is the only effective relief for such employers.

"Senator Taft now proposes that the General Counsel be permitted, but not required, to seek injunctive relief against secondary boycotts. Since the General Counsel does not seek injunctions unless the law requires him to or unless a situation has an important effect on our economy, it is obvious that adopting Senator Taft's proposal would deny relief to most employers and to all small employers."

Success Secrets

By ELMER WHEELER

Somebody else's mistake has proved a windfall to State Rep. J. B. Walling of Texas. The young man from Wichita Falls has diligently dug up facts which let him show that a surveyor's error left about 2,500 acres of West Texas land unclaimed.

While he was in Austin, working on his master's degree at the University of Texas, Walling spent a good deal of time pouring over charts in the state land office. During this same year he hired a surveyor in Loving County to check boundary lines.

Since then, Walling has spent much of his available time in West Texas. He gained the support of

Without The Crutches

National Whirligig... End Of Highjinks Era Seen In The Departure Of Perle Mesta

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower's casual and unexpected acceptance of the resignation of "Call Me Madame" Perle Mesta as minister to Luxembourg marks the end of the "highjinks" and "highballs" spirit which characterized both the outer and inner circles of the Roosevelt and Truman administrations.

Kansas and Army simplicity have supplanted the Democratic carnival at the nation's Capital. Homburgs have replaced high silk hats, and mink coats are selling at bargain prices at the F-Street shops. The per capita consumption of liquor has fallen already.

The social lobby exerted tremendous personal and political pressure for retention of "the hostess with the mostest." On her behalf — she had entertained many of them here and abroad — the society writers described the swanky parties she had tossed for inhabitants of the tiny duchy, visiting celebrities and touring G.I.'s as evidence of the "good will" she was building for the United States.

Mrs. Mesta herself, after the election, recalled that she had once feted the Eisenhoweres when he commanded SHAPE.

NOT SMART ADVERTISING — But it was these very citations of cocktail diplomacy which were her undoing.

With Europeans complaining bitterly about the high living of American diplomats, military officers and soldiers, MSA administrators, and even stenographers, and with Congress demanding sharp cuts in our lavish overseas expenditures, Mrs. Mesta's effort to emulate her stage personality was not regarded by Eisenhower or the chairman of the State Department — John Foster Dulles — as smart advertising for the United States.

It made excellent propaganda for the Russians in their attacks on "wealthy American imperialists. Like American tourists who spend too freely and unwisely, she helped to create the impression that Uncle Sam had so many billions that he could afford to be a "sucker" forever.

Moreover, strategically situated Luxembourg, in the right hands, can be an important diplomatic asset. It is the duty of the State Department to establish and fix the disputed boundaries there.

The survey proved that the old surveyor was wrong, and Walling filed claim on two strips of unclaimed land. Several ranchers filed good-faith claims on much of the land, but Walling came out with 991 acres which he bought for $3 an acre. From sections of his claim, he has a pleasant view of producing oil wells.

A lot of hard work and study went into Walling's discovery. He gives much credit to his wife, who, while remaining at home caring for their two children, found time for a job to help provide the necessary cash for the project. Walling has four partners in the venture, who helped him finance the research.

BID FOR A SMILE

After lavishing untold wealth in money, furs, cars and jewelry on a beautiful blonde show girl, a certain old New York playboy finally made her his wife.

Friend — (shouting) That old relic! Do you suppose that could be a love match?

Second Friend — Heck, no. The old coot married her for his money!

Wife — I witnessed an accident at Twelfth and Grand this afternoon. A man started to cross without waiting for the traffic policeman's signal, and his wife — Of course a motorcar knocked him down and ran over him?

Wife — No, nothing happened to him. That is why I say it was an accident.

A farmer bought a parrot for ten dollars and then asked the auctioneer: Farmer — Can this bird talk intelligently?

Auctioneer — You ought to know. He's the only one that was bidding against you.

These are good questions, but too often they cannot be answered to the complete satisfaction of the patient and his family. The reason for this is that no two people react exactly alike to the same disease or operation. Also, a single disease varies a great deal in its effects on different patients.

Thus, even in most mild diseases there will be a few patients, perhaps one or two out of a hundred, who may develop serious complications. About all the doctor can do in such cases, therefore, is to state that the vast majority recover without difficulty.

When the proportion of those who do not recover from a disease is high the problem of forecasting the outcome is particularly difficult. At the beginning of an illness also, it is more difficult to tell what the result will be than it is later on when the physician has had a chance to observe the disease and its effect on the patient and the ability of the patient to withstand its ravages.

Consequently, it is often the case that the more experienced the doctor has, the more reluctant he is to tell a patient or the patient's family something definite when there may be a fifty-fifty chance of being wrong.

The same problems exist when it comes to the question of how long an illness may last. A few diseases like chickenpox, for example, almost always take about the same length of time. Many other conditions, however, vary so much that it is extremely difficult to say how long it will be before complete recovery takes place.

FORECAST OFTEN IMPOSSIBLE — Generally, when complete recovery does not take place, it is often impossible to tell in advance what the effect will be on the patient's customary occupation and activity until the disease has reached its later stages.

The outcome of illness, therefore, depends on many factors, such as the age of the patient, the family history, state of health at the time when the illness developed, and the mental attitude of the patient. For all these reasons physicians often seem reluctant to answer what seem like perfectly simple questions, and when they try to do so the forecast may err on one side or the other.

Considered Immature, But... The Dig Boys Are Always Out In Front When U. S. In Danger

By HENRY McLEMORE

NELLIS AIR FORCE BASE, Nev. — He told me his name was Alexander Tom Alexander. I asked him what he flew. He told me he flew a sabre jet. I asked him if he was flying it for me. "No," he said, "I'm flying it for myself."

Must get rough up there every once in a while. "Yes," Mr. Alexander said, "but there's nothing nicer in the world than to take a try for my country. Suppose I lose? I'm still a winner. Suppose I win? Then I can go back to Wheeling, West Virginia, and act like a man."

To look at these boys flying for us, is not given to many of us. To see them put on those ridiculous suits, put a dog before they go up, and then take off, is enough to make a gentle man cry. I would cry forever unless I had seen them come down and tell me how lovely it was, close to the moon, close to the stars and the high blue heaven.

When they land they have made the full pitch. I wish they would brag. I wish they would tell me how it felt to turn over at forty thousand feet. I wish they would tell me how it feels to stand straight up and see nothing but yourself. That is sweetness in my book. That is strength. That is manhood. That is why boys are born.

I wish you could stand with me at Nellis Air Force Base and see jet wing to jet wing. Oh, so close. One slip and it's all over. What do you think they are doing that for? Must be for us. Must be for us Americans.

Who will fly the skies if we are not?

Did you hear about the television set who got up one morning, turned on the radio by mistake and thought he'd gone blind?

One little boy to another: "It was a swell party, Freddie. I'm sick as a dog." — Bill King in This Week Magazine.

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JOE, M.D.

One of the most difficult problems facing physicians in their care of the sick is to try to calculate what the outcome of an illness will be. It is, of course, relatively easy in the case of some minor ailment, such as a common cold, but it is extraordinarily difficult to forecast the outcome in many of the more complicated diseases.

Whenever anyone is stricken by a serious illness or is facing an operation, both the patient and the patient's family want to know whether recovery will take place, how long it will take to get well, and if recovery is not complete, how much interference there will be with future activities and health.

These are good questions, but too often they cannot be answered to the complete satisfaction of the patient and his family. The reason for this is that no two people react exactly alike to the same disease or operation. Also, a single disease varies a great deal in its effects on different patients.

Thus, even in most mild diseases there will be a few patients, perhaps one or two out of a hundred, who may develop serious complications. About all the doctor can do in such cases, therefore, is to state that the vast majority recover without difficulty.

It seems to me that religious leaders during the course of American history and perhaps at present have taken the time to build the Churchman's case behind Americanism, and that the writings of some of these men must contain positive answers to the loose thinking to which I refer. Perhaps also there were religious leaders whose teachings were accepted in the framing of the Declaration of Independence and in the promulgation of that distinctly American

LOOKING SIDeways

By WHITNEY KOTON

As a long-time student of the wiles of a spindling little man with a shrewd eye for a buck, it is interesting to see that the Comrades have taken a minor fall out of Pablo Picasso. This is the painter who has been nicking educated American gullibles for $22,000 per copy of his scrambled oils and turning the fat proceeds over to the Communists. He is also the artist who three summers ago began scribbling unintelligible messes on clay plates and selling same for fancy prices to entranced tourists from America. All monies from these platters went to the Communists without deductions of any kind.

There is a credo knocking around somewhere that an artist is above politics and, therefore, not be bierched for getting himself involved with parties, platforms and programs. It is nonsense. Any person more than 18 years old who hornswooges the people out of vast sums and turns these over to a given political group must of necessity be identified with that group. Particularly when the group starts cheering and yelling because the artist has accomplished a picture of a very routine pigeon which he calls, "The Red Peace Dove."

Picasso, of Vallauris, France, not only emptying his pocket for his chosen cause but, also, donating a picture which in New York and along 57th Street would fetch him about $15,000. I don't expect ever to be able to understand why Picasso boys lure that kind of cash, but they do.

And what has happened to this happy bill of the Soviet? He has drawn a childish picture of the late Stalin and had his knuckles rapped for it. How the comrades ever got up enough courage to rap a citizen worth $50,000 a year or better in the party purse is not clear, but they did. They have told Pablo that they love his money but not his drawing of Stalin.

Admittedly, the picture is terrible. But, then, I think all his works are terrible. I know a man who has one frame in his bedroom and I don't admire it. I know another man who shelled out $22,000 for something that looks as though a drove of sheep had been driven over some wet paint. The drawing of Stalin is something that almost any 8th Grader could have done between supper and bedtime without even trying and I know seven-year-old nippers who could do better with their right hands tied behind them.

Picasso, the fair-haired fount of gold for the Communists, has drawn Stalin looking like an idiot, which plainly the late dictator and assassin never was. Stalin could be charged with a lot of things, most of them dire, but no one could ever describe him or limn him as being an idiot. Picasso has chalked in a mane of roached hair, a pair of slightly in-turned eyes and a fat chin. The celebrated madman looks droopy and without character. I am not amazed that Moscow hates the picture — I am only amazed that they had the gumption to say so. I am also amazed at Pablo's reaction: "If my drawing does not please, that's just too bad."

It is a major parlor game among governments these days to try to read significance into idle sentences uttered in Moscow. Let's try to read something into the sentence of Vallauris. Does it mean that Picasso isn't going to send Moscow another cent? Does it mean that he is breaking away from his chosen group? I don't think so. I think he means it's just too bad he would have liked to have them like it.

Picassoists are going to rise up in fury at this piece. They are going to call me a peasant, a thachick, a peasant and a fool. I'll tell you about Picassoists: one of them hangs a $20,000 canvas flat on the ceiling and puts a mirror-top coffee table under it so you can sit there and sip coffee and drown yourself in veneration of an authentic Picasso item. Me, I always sit across the room.

I have seen the adored plates and think they are awful. I have seen the drawings in LIFE made with a flashlight and I think they are awful. I have seen all of Picasso I ever want to see and the controversial drawing of Stalin is the one that puts the lid on the box. It, too, is awful. On that one and only one issue I agree with WHALE OF A JOB—One of the possibly few men in the world owning a whale, Leif Soegaard takes a Jonah's-eye-view of the big city as he and his 75-ton sea monster arrive in New York. Soegaard will accompany the 75-foot whale on a nation-wide tour.

Abbott-Costello Eye Anti-Commie Gags

HOLLYWOOD, April 7—UP—Bud Abbott and Lou Costello Tuesday announced that with the approval of President Eisenhower they've launched campaign to "infiltrate" anti-Red gags on radio and television shows.

On a set where they are filming their half-hour television movies, portly Lou proudly waved a letter from the President to prove this is no gag itself.

The letter, signed by Mr. Eisenhower, said "I am indeed grateful to you for your generous offer to personally assist in America's fight against Communism."

Bud and Lou had written the White House: "We have become interested in your plan to wage psychological warfare against the menace of Communism."

"The contribution we should like to make concerns the possible beaming of anti-Communist jokes via the Voice of America to enslaved peoples... during World War II these bitter political jokes made the Nazis squirm..."

Somehow you don't connect Abbott and Costello with politics, but this was the way fast-talking Lou put it:

"We figure this would be a wonderful stunt, doll. A lot of guys have been putting that Commie talk in to do it, too, only anti-Red jokes and rush those guys all over the joint."

"You know what's going on out here with these Reds, trying to slip things in scripts. So we want to put these things in our TV movies and really mock the Commies. We hope to God the other comics will do the same thing, and combat these guys their own way."

He then produced the script of their current half-hour TV movie to show one anti-Red gag inserted in it:

"An American fisherman visited Czechoslovakia and made a beeline for the best Czech fishing spots. But the fish weren't biting. He asked a forlorn Czech fisherman what was the matter."

"Over here," answered the weary Czech. "Even the fish are afraid to open their mouths!" "Great joke, doll," insisted Costello, and ran back to the set.

Dormant Insurance Policy Pays Pampam

A Pampa woman today was several figures wealthier courtesy a Texas life insurance company. The woman, Mrs. Harry J. Frost, whose husband died on Feb. 22, 1952, uncovered a life insurance policy taken out by her husband in 1937 with the Great Southern Life Insurance Co., Houston. But on closer examination found the policy had been allowed to lapse in 1945.

A local insurance salesman advised her to write the company and see what she could get out of it since it was an "extended policy." Yesterday Luke Reid, agent out of the company's district office, called on Mrs. Frost and paid her the full amount of the policy she thought had lapsed. The policy actually had lapsed, but because of the extension insurance provision was good after all.

Round-Robin
FLINT, Mich.—UP—Water started a fire in an unoccupied house here; then put it out. The water pipes froze and burst, the water pump overheated and set fire to the house. The blaze melted the ice in the broken pipes and fast-leaking water put out the fire.

Yet Yet
HARRISONBURG, Va.—UP—Dr. E. J. Willis, 83, has treated sick animals for 57 years without a bite, kick or scratch. His only occupational injury came when a horse fell on his foot dislocating his ankle.

Although paper was used in China at a very early date, it became available to the rest of the world about the middle of the 8th Century A.D.

WANTED

Reliable Men and Women Who Can Qualify

National concern, member of Chamber of Commerce, Banks, etc., is looking for ambitious, reliable men or women who have the time (and desire) to supervise a business requiring only 3 or 4 hours work a week.

No headaches, no selling. Physical condition or education not important. Business pay you a profit starting the first day.

This is not a get-rich-quick scheme. But, hundreds of people in many walks of life are today making a steady, sizable income from this business — and are darn proud of it!

You must be able to invest $600, which is secured by equipment. Locations for these new, nationally advertised coin merchandising machines are obtained for you. You merely service them. Possible income — $5,000 a year. Sound good? It is. Write, giving address and phone number to Box D-10, c/o Pampa Daily News.
