Judge Rules Delay

SELMA, Ala. (UPI) — A federal court issued an order today barring a scheduled mass march of the Alabama capital, but Negro leaders said they would go ahead with the demonstration anyway.

SELMA, Ala. (UPI) — A massive "freedom march" on the Alabama capital at Montgomery hit a snag today when a federal judge ruled that Negroes should delay the demonstration pending a further court hearing Thursday.

The ruling in Montgomery by U.S. District Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. came as Negroes chanted in churches and hundreds of churches—white and Negro—banned the march from all parts of the nation to take part in the protest.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was to have led the march to protest alleged discrimination against Negro voter applicants. The Alabama state highway patrolmen used tear gas and clubs to halt a similar march last Sunday.

White House Watchdog President Johnson was reported to be in "hour-by-hour" touch with the tense situation. Negroes had asked Judge Johnson to restrain Gov. George C. Wallace, highway patrol Director Al Lingo and Dallas County Sheriff Jim Clark from interfering with today's march.

But Johnson ruled that Negroes would have to go through the normal judicial processes in order to protect the integrity of the courts and to prevent the judicial processes from being frustrated.

He noted the temporary restraining order had been requested without a hearing and without formal notice to the state officials.

U.S. marshals served Wallace in his office with papers notifying him that Negroes had been enjoined from attempting the march.

A spokesman for King said bluntly, "we are preparing a statement."

King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference headquarters said it was dispatching three chartered buses from Atlanta to Selma, loaded with delegations from as far away as San Francisco, Chicago and Washington who flew in by plane.

A spokesman said indications were that close to 1,000 persons from all over the United States (See DELAY, Page 3)

Appalachia Bill Signed Into Law

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson signed into law today the first of his "Great Society" programs—a $1.1 billion measure aimed at rejuvenating the 11-state Appalachian region.

The Chief Executive's signature signaled the beginning of an intensive campaign of economic rehabilitation for picturesque but poor Appalachia, a mountainous area with residents from northern Pennsylvania to central Alabama.

South Viet Says Red Raid Failed

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese military authorities claimed today that government troops killed more than 100 Communist guerrillas in a battle at a U.S. Army Special Forces camp in the jungles 5 miles northeast of Saigon.

Five U.S. Army advisers were reported wounded, one of them seriously, when a Viet Cong battalion attacked the camp Monday with mortar and recoilless rifle fire.

Vietnamese losses were placed at 33 killed and 27 wounded.

Most of the guerrilla casualties were found impaled on barbed wire barricades surrounding the camp after the attack was repulsed, according to a report distributed by the official Viet Nam Press Agency.

The raid was part of a continuing Communist offensive in mountainous Binh Dinh Province, an area of increasingly bold guerrilla activity aimed at cutting South Viet Nam in two.

Another group of U.S. Marines, part of a 3,500-man combat force ordered to South Viet Nam by President Johnson, took up positions today around the American air base at Da Nang. More than 2,000 Marines landed at Da Nang by sea and air Monday.

Vietnamese intelligence and psychological warfare experts said today the arrival of the Marines "tremendously boosted" civilian and military morale.

The Marine landing produced new threats of retaliation by Communist North Viet Nam. A spokesman for the Hanoi regime was quoted by the Communist Chinese New China News Agency as saying guerrilla forces in South Viet Nam were "now able to annihilate the enemy by active, successive attacks in mountainous areas, plains, cities and rural areas."

The news agency attributed the claim to Nguyen Minh Long, head of the so-called "National Liberation Front," the political arm of the Viet Cong military movement.

Pravda, the official newspaper of the Soviet Communist party, charged today that the Marine landing was "one more step in widening the imperialist intervention in Southeast Asia."

North Viet Nam charged early today that six U.S. jet planes bombed and strafed a village north of the 17th parallel Monday.

Sen. J.P. Word of Meridian cited rule 9-A which prohibits debate on money matters until after the general appropriations bill has been approved, or until the 121st day of the session. He sought to have Hardeman's bill derailed, but Smith ruled him down.

The House tentatively okayed Rep. Ben Atwell's water safety bill. Atwell boasted it was "the best water safety act in the nation," providing fines of up to $500 for violation of boating safety rules.

Sen. Sorsby Hardeman of San Angelo won final approval of his meat labeling bill by accepting an amendment tacked on in the house. The amendment did away with a requirement that retailers of imported fresh meat post a sign saying "imported meats sold here."

Instead the retailers are required merely to label their wares as imported.

Coaching Staff Resigns From Schools at Miami

MIAMI — The entire coaching staff of Miami High School and Junior High resigned last night in a body, head coach Lawrence Overcast announced this morning.

Overcast said that he, assistant coach Bill Stovall and junior high coach Bill Thomas submitted their resignations, effective with the end of this school year, at a school board meeting last night.

Overcast declined to make public the reasons for the mass resignation, saying only that "we felt like we had been here long enough, that we had given all that we had to give, and that we had done all we could do."

Overcast, since coming from Canadiah to take over the head basketball coach's job in 1962, established one of the most successful Class B basketball records in the state. In 1962-63, the Miami Warriors ran up a 30-4 record, losing by two points in the regional finals to state champion McAdoo. In 1963-64, the Warriors ran up a 23-8 record, finished second in district 2-B, and set the best defensive mark of any team in the state. Last season the Warriors again finished second in district, with a 22-9 record.

Overcast also produced one of the finest girls basketball teams in the state, winning district in 1962-63 and 1963-64, going to the regional playoffs in 1964 before losing to defending champion Roosevelt of Lubbock. The Warriors lost the district title this year in a playoff to Briscoe by one point. Briscoe currently playing in the state finals.

Last year Overcast was also appointed head football coach and trach coach upon the departure of coach Bill Hines to another school. The Warriors, playing the season with only 15 men, most of them sophomores and juniors, posted a 1-8 mark.

Stovall was appointed last year to the assistant coaching post in all three sports, his first year of coaching.

Thomas, a popular official as well as coach, has been at Miami seven years, the last two as junior high basketball coach, winning a boys' district championship.

All three coaches said they plan to continue in the coaching profession, and all have applied for other coaching openings.

The little school (student body 65) is also well-known for turning out outstanding athletes, especially in basketball. Best known is Jimmy Flowers, all-regional cager, all-district football player and state record setting high jumper, who has just sparked Howard County JC into the NJCAA playoffs. Overcast has also helped produce Big Ray Guerrero, two-time all-star.

Television Cable and Water Rates Due Commission Study

City commissioners will meet Thursday in executive session to study a couple of problems in need of solution.

Principally, the commission is expected to discuss several applications for a TV cable franchise in Pampa and the proposal to establish a special water rate for the summer months of June, July and August.

At today's regular commission meeting, Fred Hutchison asked the city for help in getting a telephone pole removed in order to make way for a driveway into his property on Alcock St. He was advised by City Atty. Bob Gordon that under the city's franchise agreement with the telephone utility, expense of removing the pole would have to be borne by the property owner.

The commission passed on first reading an ordinance providing for annexation of the 1600 and 1700 blocks of Grape St.

Final passage was given to legislation granting a sidewalk easement for the construction of a stone front on a building owned by Ray Duncan in the 100-block of E. Kingsmill.

The commission approved for payment city bills amounting to $24,535.04 and library bills totaling $657.93.

City Manager Jim White told commissioners the city's proposed highway improvement program was being brought into shape so that it can be coordinated with plans of the State Highway Department for improvements in the Pampa area.

The city manager also notified commissioners of an invitation to local officials for the Region 2 meeting of the Texas Municipal League to be held Thursday, March 18 in Amarillo.

Cargo-Laden Ships Leave West Gulf

HOUSTON (UPI)—Traffic in ship channels along the West Gulf coast picked up today as cargo-laden vessels moved out to other ports.

Monday was the first full day of work with full crews as swarms of longshoremen moved cargo to and from ships in West Gulf ports. It was the first day for crews to report at full strength since the strike started at midnight Jan. 10.

The strike's end Saturday came in its 55th day.

When members of the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) voted approval Saturday of new contracts with maritime management, a few men were able to go to work the same day.

A longshoremen's union official of a Houston local said Monday, "we were not even able to get as many men out as needed. If we had, we would have had to get a thousand extra men out today."

"Hey buddy, ya' got a quarter for a fuel line freeze-up?"

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst
For three years the United States withheld economic aid from British Guiana out of a conviction that Cheddi Jagan, its East Indian-descended premier, intended to establish it as the first Marxist nation on the mainland of South America.

Geographically, British Guiana is hardly more than a dent on the northern South American coast, but it borders both Brazil and Venezuela, which are important targets of Communist infiltration, and it has easy access to Castro's Communist Cuba.

Jagan, who makes no bones about his Marxist leanings, also is an admirer of Castro and received important help from the Cuban leader in his running battles with the colony's Negro population and the British.

Jagan is the leader of British Guiana's East Indian group which makes up about 42 per cent of its population.

In three years of rule, Jagan not only had wrecked the colony's economy but also had succeeded in setting East Indians and Negroes at each other's throats.

Negroes make up 38 per cent of the population. The remainder is a mixture.

Last December, in general elections held under new rules of proportional representation imposed by the British colonial office, Jagan lost his job.

Into office went Negro leader Forbes Burnham, regarded as a moderate, in coalition with a smaller party led by Peter D'Aguilar, a Portuguese businessman.

Burnham, like Jagan, demands early independence and, like Jagan, he is unlikely to get it. But he tackles his job with the best wishes of the United States and Britain.

U.S. Aid Ready
The United States is reported about ready to extend $5 million in economic aid and the British government has pledged $7 million in development funds.

Much of the money is expected to go into public works with the immediate objective to relieve unemployment. Public buildings will be restored and roads built. Private investors also are showing renewed faith. They have purchased more than $3 million in government bonds and the Reynolds Metals Co. is reported considering expansion of its bauxite operations.

In his government, Burnham has included all elements of British Guiana's population, and a state objective is to gain the faith of the East Indians.

Unfortunately, he divisive elements remain.

Rift Fails To Heal

Jagan's party still controls 24 of the colony's legislative seats but continues to boycott the legislature.

A visit by British Colonial Secretary Anthony Greenwood made no progress toward healing the rift.

During his visit more than 100 acres of sugar cane and more than 100 telegraph poles were destroyed as a sign of protest. And there are threats that the violence which in pre-election months took more than 170 lives may be renewed.

Economically, British Guiana depends upon sugar, rice, bauxite and hardwoods. Even with peace restored there is little hope that it could become self-supporting.

And with Jagan's East Indians now restored there is little hope that it could become self-supporting.

To Play Female
Private Eye

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Sultry Anne Francis, the luscious blonde whose eyes would melt Alaska's Matanuska Glacier, has picked up a murderous judo chop, a bejeweled revolver and a cop's badge.

Annie has spun off a television pilot titled "Honey West," in which she plays the feminine counterpart of Amos Burke in "Burke's Law."

It was the latter series, in which Anne cropped up as a guest star in the role of Honey West, that inspired the proposed new series. If it makes the grade next season, felons will be begging to be arrested.

The leggy beauty has devoted much of her career in video and movies—most recent of which is Warner's "Brainstorm"—to playing heavy dramatic roles; maniacs, tainted cuties and psychopaths.

In the new show, she will play it for laughs. And sex appeal. "I think viewers will accept a spoof on a female detective," Miss Francis said during a leisurely lunch.

"Honey will be an interesting girl with lots of romances and adventures. She'll have a pet ocelot named Bruce and a male sidekick named Sam Bolt played by John Ericson.

"When she gets in trouble Honey will use her femininity to rescue herself. When that fails, she'll use violence."

To bring a touch of reality to the part Anne is taking judo and Karate lessons. So far producer Aaron Spelling plans on at least one good brawl per half-hour segment.

Viewers may get a look at Anne in her new role April 7 when the spinoff is beamed on ABC-TV's "Burke's Law." One look at Anne may make all male detectives obsolete.

STRANGE "CAREER"—People make their livings in all sorts of ways, but Horton Ellerbach's way is among the oddest. Ellerbach is a specialist; his job is to be kicked in the face. Horton is a movie stunt man, and he has been kicked in the face about 250 times a year for the last 15 years. Currently, he's working with Jerry Lewis in "The Family Jewels."

'Drowned' New Yorker Found Five Years Later

NEWCASTLE, Wyo. (UPI) — "drowned" in a reservoir near his home almost five years ago. The fantastic story of Briggs, married and the father of two, end of Hollister, the drifter, was unfolded Monday by his family in New York and friends in Newcastle.

But Hollister, the cowboy, was really someone else—33-year-old Norman H. Briggs, a Troy, N. Y., insurance man who out of sight, although it was believed he still was on the Kenneth Atkins ranch, a sprawling spread near this northeastern Wyoming community of 4,300.

The man known as Briggs disappeared near Troy July 17, 1960, after telling his wife, Gail, he was going skin-diving in the Tom-Hannock reservoir near Troy.

His boat, glasses and trousers were found in the water. There was no sign of the body.

His wife, who presumably collected $120,000 in insurance policies after his disappearance, obtained an annulment in Alabama and later remarried. An attorney said she planned to repay the money.

Briggs' two children, Charles, 8, and Barbara Jean, 6, now are living with their stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Koenig of Wynatskill, N. Y.

Briggs—by now Hollister—was first noticed last summer while working as a surveyor in Colorado ski resort areas of the Rocky Mountains. He met a Denver school teacher — now Mrs. Hans Bruckert of Aspen, Colo. — who became curious about his past.

"He told me he remembered coming out of a lake at one time," Mrs. Brucker said. That was giving me clues right along."

Mrs. Brucker called Briggs' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hollis W. Briggs, of Brunswick, N. Y., to tell them their son was alive.

"He told me he worked in Salt Lake City and I think he said he's been in California,"

"stunned," she said.

Watch it, Finks Can be Quite a Few Things

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fink-manship — the art of calling somebody a fink without getting punched in the nose — has been growing by leaps and bounds in this country.

In the absence of statistics on the subject, it can be estimated that approximately 3-17ths of the population, or roughly 33,682,351 persons, engaged in fink-manship during the past 12 months.

Of these, probably as many as 31,475,307 did so without having a very clear picture of what finks are exactly.

Therefore, as my good turn for today, I am offering what I trust will be a definitive answer to the question: What is a fink?

For one thing, a fink is a bird; specifically, a finch, which is a member of the fringillidae family. In fact, this is the only definition that Webster's Second International dictionary recognizes.

According to the genealogy section of the Library of Congress, the proper name, which also is spelled Finke, Finck and Fincke, originally meant "dweller at the sign of the finch."

In German, it has several other meanings, among them "ein lustiger mensch," which can be translated as "a merry man." So far, so good.

It is obvious, however, that fink-manship as practiced in the United States implies something besides finches and merry men. Otherwise, there would not be that risk of a punch in the nose.

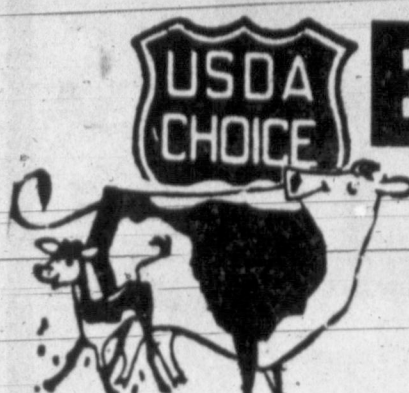

When Bernard Fensterwald Jr., counsel of a Senate judiciary subcommittee, used the term at a recent hearing, he had in mind a different type of bird. To wit: The stool pigeon.

This usage is recognized by Webster's Third International, which defines "fink" as "1. Informer, squealer; 2. Strikebreaker."

Shortened Form

Some authorities theorize that the stool pigeon type of fink came from the underworld as a shortened form of "finger," as in putting the finger on someone.

The strikebreaker type of fink definitely came from the famous homestead strike of 1892, when the Pinkerton national detective agency was retained by a steel company to help recruit workers to replace the strikers.

CONVICTED — Mrs. Lucille Miller, center, is led from the courtroom in San Bernardino, Calif., following her conviction for first degree murder in the auto fire death of her dentist husband. The pregnant mother of 3 was charged with killing her husband in order to collect double indemnity insurance.

Russia's Zond-2 Cosmic Probe
Is Still Quite Alive in Space

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)—Russia's Zond-2 cosmic probe, once reported dying in space, is today quite alive and headed toward a spectacular pass within 900 miles of the planet Mars next Aug. 6.

That is the word from Soviet academician Mstislav Keldysh as relayed by Dr. Charles S. Sheldon II, a member of the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Council.

Marines Braced
For Final Push

In Mythical Battle

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (UPI)—Three Marine units totaling 20,000 men linked up Monday to begin a final push to save the mythical nation of Lancelot from guerrillas in Exercise Silver Lance.

Silver Lance, the largest Navy-Marine maneuvers ever held, began Feb. 23 when the first of a task force of 60 ships and 50,000 men sailed from San Diego, Long Beach and San Francisco for the 18-day exercise.

On March 5, some 6,000 Leathernecks were landed by helicopters and ships to try to save Lancelot from attacking guerrillas from Merlin, being supported by Modred.

The oldest of the 31 bridges crossing the Seine in Paris is called "Pont Neuf," or New Bridge.

The U.S. Mariner-4 probe and Zond-2, launched last Nov. 28 and Nov. 30 respectively, are racing toward the mysterious red planet. The American entry, equipped with a television camera to take the first pictures of another planet, will get their first — next July 14.

But the Russian probe will reach much closer to Mars. Mariner-4 will pass about 5,400 miles from the planet on its photographic expedition.

In addition, Sheldon Monday night quoted Keldysh, a top-ranked Soviet space scientist, as saying Zond-2 weighs about 2,000 pounds — four times as much as the delicate U.S. probe.

Sheldon, considered one of the nation's foremost authorities on interpretation of the Soviet space program, speculated that Zond-2's considerable weight could mean "it may be doing something more than a simple fly-by" of Mars.

He did not elaborate. But one possibility is that the Soviets may attempt to drop at least part of Zond-2 through the Martian atmosphere.

This is a trick the United States has decided to put off until 1971, when it will launch at least two "Life-Searcher" payloads named Voyager to a landing on the Martian surface. If Zond-2 manages any of this, it will mark a significant "return from the space grave" to which U.S. experts had assigned it after getting the word from Russia last December that the probe had run into communications troubles.

EXPECT MANY VISITORS

BUY FERTILIZER

ROME (UPI)—Communist China contracted to buy $5,472,000 worth of fertilizers from ANIC, a subsidiary of the Italian state oil company ENI.

Several are ill at home and in local hospitals including F. M. Heaton and Mrs. Myrtle Smith, both in Worley, and Mrs. Romilda Nolen, Mrs. Birdie McKinney, and Thomas Solomon, all in Highland General. Mrs. Mullin was not able to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Burnett were here from Wheeler Wednesday shopping and visiting friends, among them Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Davis. Saw them at the grocery store and had a nice visit.

Mrs. Helen Daugherty of Denver, Colo. is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Norman and other friends. Mrs. Norman and Mrs. Daugherty called on this reporter Friday morning.

Mrs. Kate Humphrey was missing from her usual four some at the Center Thursday.

Altrusa Club was hostess and presented gifts to those having birthdays in March. The table was centered with a beautiful arrangement of fresh flowers furnished by Mrs. Ann Kay. The centerpiece was sent to Mrs.

Dear Abby....
This Slap in the Face
Was Well Received

DEAR ABBY: I am a college junior. Last night I was out with a girl I thought a lot of. Naturally I tried to see how far I could get when she suddenly hauled off and slapped my face. Then she said "Behave yourself!"

Abby, I never knew a slap in the face could feel so good. I almost thanked her for slapping me. Tell more girls to use that technique. Just because a guy puts up a little fight doesn't mean he wants to win.

SLAP-HAPPY
DEAR SLAP-HAPPY: Thank you for your letter. If you're lucky enough to get another date with this girl I hope you behave yourself. Some guys who see how "far they can get," get the air.

DEAR ABBY: This is regarding the dilemma of the minister who was invited to a social function and was not asked to bring his wife.

Assuming the wife hadn't performed a strip tease at some previous party or something equally inappropriate, I suggest that her husband do the same thing the late Will Rogers once did.

A wealthy man threw an elaborate party to which Will Rogers was invited. Rogers attended and entertained the guests with his witty stories and jokes. Afterwards, Will sent his host a $1500 bill for "services rendered."

The host protested wildly, saying Rogers had been invited on a social basis, not professional. Will explained that had it been a "social" invitation his wife should have been invited. The party-giver paid.

WALDO BAKER

DEAR ABBY: Re the minister's wife who was left sitting at home while her spouse attended social functions without her because she was not invited. I wish to say that the same problem exists in other types of work. In my case, my wife is the one who gets the invitations. Her company is always having mixed golf and bowling matches on Saturday nights, which is our only night out. Only employees may participate which doesn't help the relationship between husbands and wives. In fact, it is the cause of plenty of trouble. How do you feel about parties and sports events for employees which exclude husbands and wives?

DEAR ABBY: After hours one's time is his own, and no one is compelled to participate in the company's sports events or social functions. If your wife prefers to spend her Saturday nights socializing with her co-workers, while you sit at home take it up with her.

DEAR ABBY: The letter in your column about the lady who had her name on two tombstones with two different husbands probably made your readers wonder how nutty people can be. But I know of a woman who has her beat.

She bought three plots in a cemetery, one for herself, one for her husband, and one for her lover! In her will she stated: "When I die I want to be laid between the two of them. They shared me in life, and it is my wish that they shall share me in death."

"SAW THE LETTER" IN DAYTON

CONFIDENTIAL TO "VERY DESPERATE" in Clintwood, Va.: Send me your name and address immediately and I will help you.

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700 Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WHAT NEXT? — A Viet Cong prisoner contemplates his fate in South Viet Nam while a government soldier examines a Russian carbine being used by North Vietnamese forces.

Texas Birchers Hide From Commie Newsmen

ODESSA (UPI)—Georgi (the card-carrying Russian communist) Kurnetsov was still looking for a card-carrying John Birch society leader today. His Texas visit has been spectacularly unsuccessful in this respect.

"I wouldn't care to talk to him under any circumstances," Charles O. (Buck) Mann, Odessa area coordinator for the Birch Society said.

It was the same story last week in Houston.

After five years of saying we should not co-exist with the Russians how could I have dinner with one?" Phillip Blair Jones, the Birch leader in Houston said.

He hid out during Georgi's visit there.

Yesterday in Odessa Georgi had trouble finding anyone who would talk with him.

"He is likely a hard-core communist," Mann said.

"I just want to see what a Birch leader look like," the thickly accented Russian news paperman pleaded.

He got to meet a member of the Communist-hating group in Houston, Mrs. Eloise Liles, last week. She said she was behind in her dues.

He also got a bunch of anti-communist literature. It said the Communists controlled the U.S. Supreme Court and the United Nations.

"I only wish it were so," Georgi told newsmen.

The 37-year-old correspondence for "Trud" has been in America for four years but had not been allowed to travel to Texas until recently.

He Burst Out of His Corset And the Store Window

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—Kenneth Mooran, a chubby 27, tried to bust out of his corset Monday.

In the process, he did $200 worth of damage to a store window. But a magistrate's court found him innocent after hearing this story.

"I had tried dieting and a health club, but it did nothing for me, so I decided to get a corset. But I did not want anyone to know."

Then I went to a pool and had some rum and points of beer. In the pub my stomach was getting tighter and tighter — almost unbearable.

"I could have gone to the gents' (washroom) to loosen it, but it was under my shirt, buckled in at the back and I did not want anyone to see that I was undressing to get at a corset."

"I had to go home and could hardly walk because of my poor stomach."

"On my way home I became desperate, and I realized that I had to get the corset off. It was dark and I went into the doorway of the shop."

"I was by the window and I just tore away at everything and violently tackled the buckles of the corset when I got to them. As relief suddenly came, the window just shattered."

"I don't know how it broke, but I had no malicious intent at all." The whole problem was caused, Mooran said later, by poor fitting in the corset shop.

"The man in the shop said I needed a 36 but in fact I should have had a size 38," he said. "The flipping corset nearly crushed me."

WHAT NEXT? — A Viet Cong prisoner contemplates his fate in South Viet Nam while a government soldier examines a Russian carbine being used by North Vietnamese forces.

Texas Birchers Hide From Commie Newsmen

ODESSA (UPI)—Georgi (the card-carrying Russian communist) Kuznetsov was still looking for a card-carrying John Birch society leader today.

His Texas visit has been spectacularly unsuccessful in this respect.

"I wouldn't care to talk to him under any circumstances," Charles O. (Buck) Mann, Odessa area coordinator for the Birch Society said.

It was the same story last week in Houston.

"After five years of saying we should not co-exist with the Russians how could I have dinner with one?" Phillip Blair Jones, the Birch leader in Houston said.

He hid out during Georgi's visit there.

Yesterday in Odessa Georgi had trouble finding anyone who would talk with him.

"He is likely a hard-core communist," Mann said.

"I just want to see what a Birch leader look like," the thickly accented Russian news paperman pleaded.

He got to meet a member of the Communist-hating group in

He Burst Out of His Corset And the Store Window

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—Kenneth Mooran, a chubby 27, tried to burst out of his corset Monday.

In the process, he did $280 worth of damage to a store window. But a magistrate's court found him innocent after hearing this story.

"I had tried dieting and a health club, but it did nothing for me, so I decided to get a corset. But I did not want anyone to know."

"Then I went to a pub and had some rum and pints of beer. In the pub my stomach was getting tighter and tighter—almost unbearable."

"I could have gone to the gents' (washroom) to loosen it, but it was under my shirt, buckled in at the back and I did not want anyone to see that I was undressing to get at a corset."

"I had to go home and could hardly walk because of my poor stomach."

"On my way home I became desperate, and I realized that I was dark and I went into the doorway of the shop."

"I was by the window and I just tore away at everything and violently tackled the buckles of the corset when I got to them. As relief suddenly came, the window just shattered."

"I don't know how it broke, but I had no malicious intent at all." The whole problem was caused, Mooran said later, by poor fitting in the corset shop.

"The man in the shop said I needed a 36 but in fact I should have had a size 38," he said. "The slipping corset nearly crushed me."

Ponies Nip UT For SWC Crown

WACO (UPI)—The Southern Methodist Mustangs had a date with Wichita in the NCAA Mid-west regional playoffs today and they can thank Denny Holman and Bob Begert for making it.

The Mustangs jotted down the notation in their date book last night with a 80-78 victory over the University of Texas. The playoff game to pick the conference representative to the NCAA tournament was needed because the two clubs finished deadlocked in the conference race.

The contest was tied 78-78 with only seconds remaining last night at the Heart O' Texas coliseum. The Mustangs had the ball, but the pressing Longhorn defense caused a pass to go astray.

Holman reached out one big paw, and slapped the ball to Begert, who was all alone under the basket. Begert banked

Kenny John On All-State Tourney Crew

AUSTIN (UPI)—Houston Jones and Dallas Thomas Jefferson grabbed four of the places on the AAAA all-state basketball selections and San Marcos had three players on the AAA squad announced Monday by the Texas Sports Writers Association.

Jones was the AAAA champ, defeating Jefferson 64-57 in the finals, and San Marcos walked to the AAA crown whipping Waxahachie 87-63.

The AAAA selections were Ronnie Arrow and Barry Lewis of Jones, Larry Smith and Richard Scallhorn of Jefferson and Kenny John of third place El Paso.

On the AAA team were Ron Roadwine, Gordon Klunk and Dan Overall of San Marcos, and Paul Clark of Waxahachie and James Harris of fourth-place Brownwood.

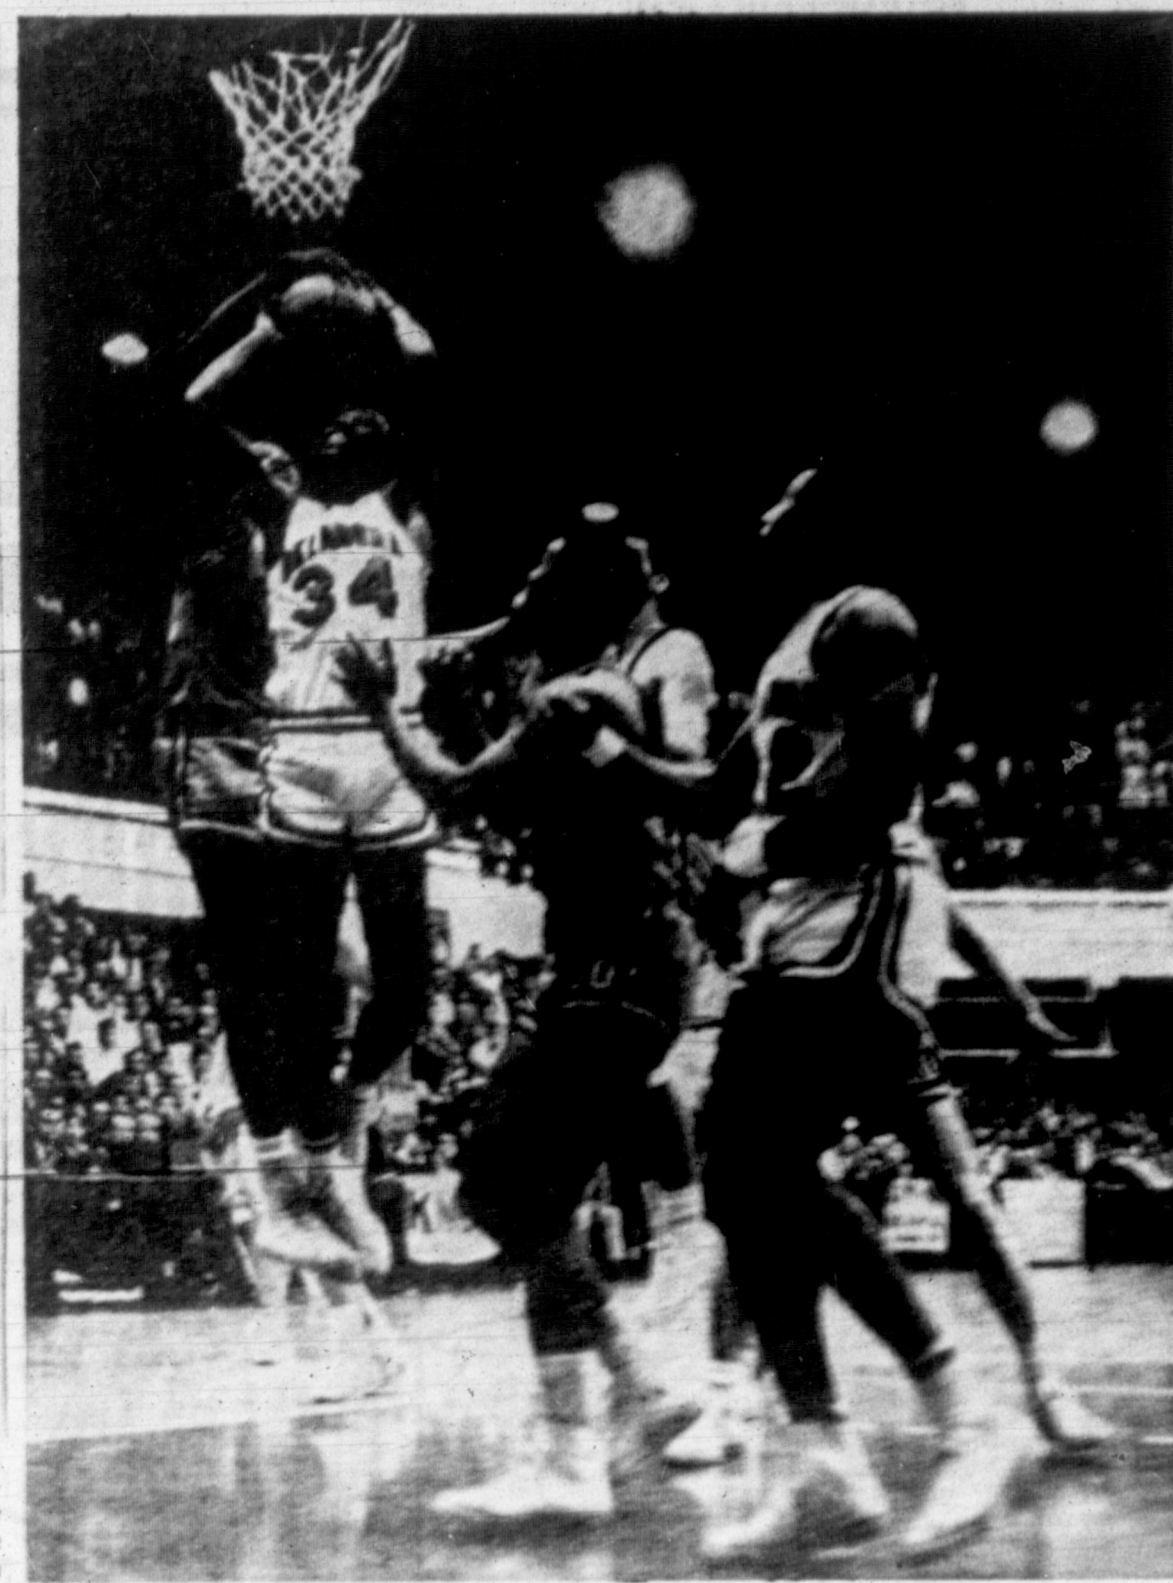

Selections in classes AA, A and B will be announced Wednesday.

Aggies Nip Sul Ross, 3-2

COLLEGE STATION (UPI)—Right-handed Billy Crain and Tommy Chiles allowed Sul Ross only three hits Monday and pitched the Texas A&M Aggies to a 3-2 baseball victory.

Crain pitched six innings of shutout ball before Chiles relieved him.

Chiles put out a last inning rally. The Lobos had the tying run on third and the go-ahead run on first when the last man popped out.

SHOT-STOPPER — James Gatewood (34) of Oklahoma tries a shot, but it is blocked off by Oklahoma State's James King in a swarm under the basket. OSU won to shove the Sooners into the Big Eight cellar last night.

Cowboys Stomp Sooners

By JEFF COHANE, News Sports Editor
NORMAN, Okla. — The Oklahoma State Cowboys waded through a sea of debris last night to wrap up their Big Eight championship season with an 85-66 win over Oklahoma, shooting the Sooners into the Big Eight cellar despite 13 fouling arms and crowd assault of the hostile crowd that jammed the 5,300-seat Sooner Fieldhouse.

The Cowboys opened a 7-0 lead and never looked back, spending most of their time looking out for flying paper wads and coins or looking at the floor while on the seats of their uniforms in a rough, tough and loosely-called foulout.

Smooth OSU showed why they had a 12-2 conference record as they led all the way, chiefly in the playing of their "little men," headed by 6-2 Larry Hewes and 6-3 Fred Moulder, and the shooting of 6-5 James King.

OSU's big man, 6-7 Gene Johnson, picked up four fouls in the first half, and fouled out early in the second half, but the sharp shooters kept going as the pressing Sooners fouled constantly while almost completely unable to hit their free throws in the first half as the Cowboys and their fans reined with similar rough treatment.

OSU closed the gap to 1-6 in the opening minutes behind the shooting of Bill Whitlock and James Gatewood, but that was as close as they ever came as the Aggies slowed it down and moved the lead to as much as eight points.

OS rallied to within four points in the closing minutes of the half, but Moulder apparently broke their backs as he made good on a 30-foot basket at the buzzer for a 45-35 lead.

The Sooners were still shell-shocked as the second half opened, and OSU quickly ran it to a 52-point margin and never looked back as both sides fouled out in droves.

The fans got a measure of satisfaction as the freshman Sooners muddled the far short-run on third and the go-ahead run on first when the last man popped out.

Richard Drug came from behind for a 68-56 win over First National Bank in the nightcap. The Sooners led through the first half while the Druggists lurked on the sidelines, fouling it up at 47-all after three quarters and breaking it open in the final frame. After Kaiser had 26 points, Ray-Joe Stevens had 16 for the losers.

MCADAMS HONORED — Oklahoma linebacker Carl McAdams of White Deer is awarded his All-American certificate by sportscaster Ross Porter. The Big Red ace was honored last night between halves of the OU-OSU basketball game.

Cougars, Chiefs Move Up

LUBBOCK (UPI)—The University of Houston Cougars and the Oklahoma City Chiefs won places in NCAA regional tournaments Monday night with a pair of narrow upset victories.

OCU defeated Colorado State in the final second of play 70-68 to win a trip to the western regionals at Provo, Utah, and Houston earned a ride to the midwest regionals in Manhattan, Kan., with an overtime 99-98 win over Notre Dame.

The big hero for the Chiefs was lanky Charlie Hunter, who worked loose along the baseline, and popped in a jump shot with only a second left on the clock.

Sonny Bustion, a 6-7 forward, kept Colorado State in the game most of the night and tied the game up with 50 seconds left. Bustion finished the night with 30 points, easily leading all scorers.

The Chiefs built up several nine-point leads in the first half, but mainly through the work of Bustion. Colorado State rallied to lead 36-34 at the half.

Notre Dame had its big chance to win the game against Houston when the Irish's Jay Miller was fouled with 41 seconds left. Notre Dame was trailing at the time 88-87, Miller connected on his first try, but missed his second. That left things at 88-88 and the score remained that way until the final gun.

The Irish shot to a quick 94-90 lead in the overtime period, but then suddenly got cold. Houston built up an insurmountable lead of 99-96 with only seconds remaining and allowed the Irish to score a final basket untouched.

Both clubs featured well-balanced scoring attacks, with four Irish scoring between 13 and 18 points. The Cougars placed six men in double figures, Wayne Ballard leading the scoring with 22 points.

The Cougar-Irish affair was a loose ball game and the referees were calling it tight. The two teams paraded to the line for a total of 67 free throws, compared with only 34 tries by Oklahoma City and Colorado State in the first game.

Carter Choice

LONDON (UPI)—Hard-working Rubin (Hurricane) Carter is the 3-1 favorite to add Harry Scott of England to his list of knockouts tonight at sold-out Albert Hall.

Carter, who has 22 victories in 27 professional fights, scored his 14th knockout against Italy's Fabio Bettini on Feb. 22.

However, Scott may be a hard man to stop. Only once in 38 bouts has he failed to finish, and he has a 21-13-4 record.

Groom 'Flops' Host Newsboys

GROOM — Anything can happen, and probably will tonight, as the long-delayed game between the Groom Faculty Flops and the Pampa Newsboys finally takes place at 8 p.m. in the Groom High Gym, with coach Sobbin' Jack York determined to win at any cost.

"I don't know how we're gonna beat 'em, but we'll do it, if I have to use my Mother for the referee," warned the cry-baby coach. "That ol' Jeff Cohane's got a pretty tough crew there, but nobody's gonna beat us on our home court if we have to sew up the other basket!"

In addition to his crew of veteran, but somewhat elderly school cagers, the shiny-domed Tiger skipper has recruited a Pandemonium throughout the Pandemonium, grabbing off former pros, collegians and high school stars to make sure that the youthful Newsboys will be playing in vain.

Michigan Top College Basketball

NEW YORK (UPI)—Michigan was named the 1964-65 major college basketball champion today by United Press International and Coach Dave Strack said he has a sure-fire convincer for anyone who doubts it.

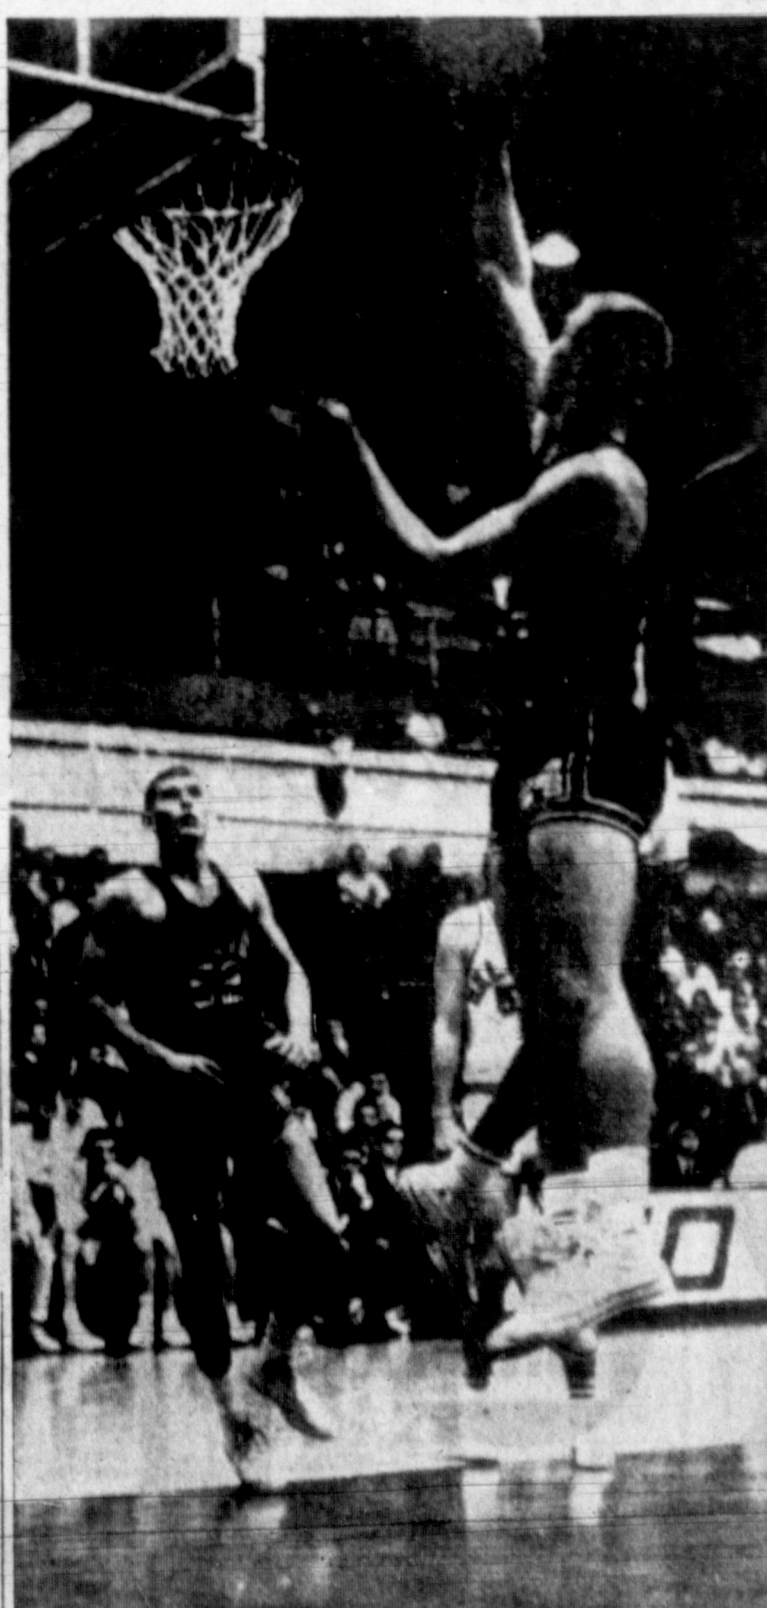

"We have one final goal," Strack said after learning of the honor his Big Ten Conference champions earned. "That's the NCAA title. There's where you prove on the court what the coaches' ratings have been saying about you all season long... (that you're No. 1.)"

Michigan, which ranked second to defending champion UCLA in the final ratings last year, got 26 from the 35 coaches on the UPI rating board, compared to six for UCLA and three for St. Joseph's (Pa.), the No. 3 team.

The Wolverines' season record (21-3) is the best in the school's history and the national title is the first for Michigan. The school will receive a permanent championship trophy from the UPI Board of Coaches.

(The 1-2 finish by Michigan and UCLA exactly matched the coaches' pre-season predictions, which succeeded in naming seven of the top 10 finalists.)

FESTIVAL CONCLUDES 18th YONKERS, N.Y. (UPI)—Yonkers Raceway's fourth annual Adios Spring Festival, including three $12,500 elimination events this week, will conclude with the $25,000 grand finale March 18.

LEAPING LONNIE — Lonnie Richardson of Allison goes high to heave in a bucket for the OSU Frosh in their losing effort against the OU Boomers last night at Norman.

The Pampa Daily News

A Valuable Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all his precepts, can he develop to his utmost capabilities. We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Supreme Court Critics

There are times when any one who criticizes the rulings of the august members of the U.S. Supreme Court, labeled by Earl Warren, as "extremists".

Professor Paul C. Bartholomew of the University of Notre Dame in a recent issue of National Review did a study of statements made by some of the members of the court relative to the court. He finds in dissenting opinions of eight past and present justices of the Warren Court about as strong words of condemnation as has come from any source. The dissents are by such stalwarts of the court as Justice Black, Clark, Frankfurter, Harlan, Stewart, White and Whittaker. Apparently the only non-critics on the bench are Warren, Douglas, Brennan and the AFL-CIO representative, Justice Goldberg.

The article "The Warren Court by the Warren Court" is well worth reading in its entirety. However, a few quotations are of especial interest. We reproduce a few.

Justice Frankfurter, joined by Justice Harlan, in Baker vs. Carr (1962): "... In effect, today's decision empowers the courts of the country to revise what should constitute the proper composition of the legislatures of the fifty states. If state courts should for one reason or another find themselves unable to discharge this task, the duty of doing so is put on the federal courts or on this court. ... There is nothing judicially more unseemly nor more self-defeating than for this court to make its reputation by way of a threat to promulgate, to indulge in merely empty rhetoric, sounding a word of promise to the ear, sure to be disappointing to the hope. ... To find such a political conception legally enforceable in the broad and unspecific guarantee of equal protection is to rewrite the Constitution."

Justice Stewart in Escobedo vs. State of Illinois (1962): "Supported by no stronger authority than its own rhetoric, the court today converts a routine police investigation of an unsolved murder into a distorted analogue of a judicial trial. ... I think that court prevents those precious constitutional guarantees, and frustrates the vital interests of society in preserving the legitimate and proper function of honest and purposeful police investigation."

Justice Harlan in Westberry vs. Sanders (1964): "... The Constitution does not confer on the court blanket authority to step into every situation where the political branch may be thought to have fallen short. The stability of this institution ultimately depends not only upon its being alert to keep the other branches of government within constitutional bounds, but equally upon recognition of the limitations on the court's own functions in the constitutional system. ... What is done today saps the political process. ... Justice Harlan in Reynolds vs. Sims (1964): "I know of no principle of logic or practical or theoretical politics, still less any constitutional principle, which establishes all or any of these exclusions. Certain it is that the court's opinion does not establish them. ... What is done today deepens my conviction that judicial entry into this realm is profoundly ill-advised and constitutionally impermissible."

Justice Black in Hamm vs. Rock Hill (1964): "... I do not find one paragraph, one sentence, one clause, or one word in the 1964 act on which the most strained efforts of the most fertile imagination could support such a conclusion."

State Medicine Is Here

How far along the road to socialized state medicine has the United States come?

With all of the talk about Medicare, Medicaid, Elder Care, the Kerr-Mills Act, and all of the rest, quite a number of persons are becoming aware of the threat of completely socialized medicine.

A recent issue of U.S. News & World Report discloses that one fourth of all health care already is provided by federal, state and local government.

Using statistics of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the publication discloses that in 1964, a total of $35.4 billion of dollars were spent for health and medical care, of which $26.4 billion was in private spending by the various governmental agencies. State, federal and local taxes thus are paying 25.5 per cent of the total health care bill of the United States.

Since 1935, private spending for health care has increased to 10 times as much — from $2.6 billion to $26.4 billion — while government spending has jumped to 18 times as much — from $500 million to $9 billion. The big jump, of course, is in federal spending, which has gone from $100,000 to $4.6 billion; federal agencies are spending 46 times as much as they were 30 years ago.

According to U.S. News & World Report, more than 30 million persons, almost one-sixth of the U.S. population, now are eligible for treatment in federal hospitals or clinics. These include war veterans, members of the armed forces, and their dependents, as well as the aged, blind, and disabled.

Congressional Opposition to Large-Scale Foreign Aid Signaled in Stricture on Inter-American Bank Loans

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — A little noticed but highly important precedent is being established in that bill for another $750 million U.S. "subscription" to the Inter-American Development Bank, making a total of $825 million this country has poured into this "soft loan" institution since it was set up in 1961.

Over strenuous White House opposition, Congress has written a provision into this measure specifying the terms under which the U.S. member on the bank's board can approve loans for economic and social development projects in Latin America.

This is the first time Congress has succeeded in enacting such a restriction.

A number of previous efforts have been made to do that in legislation dealing with multilateral international banks to which the U.S. is the biggest contributor — the World Bank, International Monetary Fund, International Finance Corporation, International Development Association, etc. But all have been blocked by presidential pressure.

This powerful resistance has been based principally on the argument that the U.S. is only one of the contributing members, and cannot tell the other countries what to do.

Most significantly, this time that contention didn't work.

It was forcefully challenged on the ground that while the U.S. may not have the authority to lay down rules for other Bank members, Congress most definitely does have the power to define the terms and conditions under which the U.S. representative on the bank shall act on loans.

The Senate approved this stand, in the form of an amendment by Senator Wayne Morse, D-Ore., leading foe of large-scale foreign aid spending, by an overwhelming 60 to 22 vote. A few days later it was accepted without dissent by the House — which previously had bowed to the administration and voted the legislation without curbs.

Under the Morse amendment, the U.S. member on the Inter-American Bank is required to veto any loan to a country that seizes U.S.-owned property without providing adequate compensation "within a reasonable time."

FOREBODING PORTENT — President Johnson and his foreign aid advisers are decidedly unhappy over this precedent-setting rebuff. But they have no alternative. They have to take it, or get no bill at all.

That's only part of their grief. Equally significant is what this unusual slapdown portends in the approaching battle over the President's $3.38 billion foreign aid budget. That outlook is stormy and distinctly unpromising.

The nearly three to one vote for the Morse amendment indicates strongly that powerful bipartisan opposition has crystallized against continued heavy foreign aid spending.

That's the inside meaning of one-third of the Bank's loans

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Tuesday, March 9, the 68th day of 1965 with 297 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

Amerigo Vespucci, the Italian navigator for whom America is named was born on this day in 1451.

On this day in history:

In 1832, Abraham Lincoln ran for his first political office, the Illinois legislature, and lost.

In 1862, the warships "Monitor" and "Merrimack" battled for four hours off Hampton Roads, Va., in a highlight engagement of the Civil War. It ended in a draw.

In 1947, one of the longest strikes in U.S. history ended after 440 days when the United Automobile Workers came to terms with the Case Manufacturing Company of Racine, Wisconsin.

In 1962, 31 miners were killed in a coal mine explosion in West Germany.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES — Representative Vernon Thompson, R-Wis., has uncovered the fact that the foreign aid agency bought 3,900 bugles, at $9.45 for villages in remote jungle sections of South Vietnam. When Thompson, member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, demanded an explanation for this extraordinary $40,000 expenditure, foreign aid officials told him the bugles were intended to sound alarms in the event of Viet Cong attacks; also to "boost morale and esprit."

... House Ways and Means Committee members, now drafting a medicare bill, are telling colleagues the chances are strong the measure will be virtually what the administration wants. According to the committee, Representative Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman, who long opposed this legislation, is now expediting it. The inside word is the committee will report the measure late next week. ... Andrew Hatcher, assistant press secretary under President Kennedy, is in Washington trying to land a government job. His former chief, Pierre Salinger, is endeavoring to help Hatcher, but so far without results.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

Self-Defense

Law, like psychology, pays all due respect to the instinct of self-preservation. To defend yourself from danger, you have a legal right to force. If the emergency is dire enough, you may even slay your assailant.

But, like all rights, this one has limits.

Here are some warnings:

1. Your right, broadly speaking, is no greater than your need. A minor counterattack. Thus, a man who reacted to a slap by slapping the other man five times was held to have exceeded his right of self-defense. So was a woman who shot another woman for merely pulling her hair.
2. Of course, in measuring your peril, the law will take into consideration the surrounding circumstances. Obviously a woman has more to fear from a furtive grab on a dark street than from a rude nudge in a crowded elevator.
3. Your right is only to defend, not to punish. If an intruder lies wounded and helpless on the floor, you have no right to kick him in the head to teach him a lesson. Punishment is the law's job, not yours.
4. Before arming yourself with a weapon, check with the police. Possessing it may be unlawful even though you never put it to use. For example, switchblade knives and tear gas squirters are permitted in some communities but not in others.

Now, here is some reassurance:

You are not required, in the heat of the fray, to act with perfect judgment and nice restraint. "Detached reflection cannot be demanded," wrote Oliver Wendell Holmes, "in the presence of an up-lifted knife."

Moreover, the law makes fair allowance for the normal human emotions that such an occasion may arouse.

quarters in Vienna).

Eastern Europe— End of the Satellite Era

By K. C. THALER
and Franz Cyrus
United Press International

The monolithic East European "satellite" empire the late Josef Stalin built on blood, conquest, terror and ruthless political exploitation after World War II is undergoing startling changes. To some extent it already has disintegrated.

There is no drift from Communism. The changes are economic, political and nationalistic. All the major countries still remain very much allied with the Soviet militarily, and dependent on Russian arms and manpower for their own security.

But in Poland, Hungary, Romania and Czechoslovakia there has been a marked backing away from doing everything by Kremlin fiat. The governments are as Communist as ever but each in their own way. Only Bulgaria and East Germany still dance almost entirely to strings pulled in Moscow. And two more satellite, Yugoslavia and Albania, have broken away entirely from the Soviet Union's rule. Yugoslavia under President Tito was an early rebel and was checked out of the Red bloc by Stalin himself as early as 1948. Albania, siding with Red China in the Sino-Soviet ideological split, broke formally with the Kremlin in 1960.

When the Iron Curtain came down in Europe after the war the Kremlin had imposed dictatorial rule over more than 90 million people living in an area of some 400,000 square miles.

The Red Army enforced Stalin's power on Romania, Hungary, Albania and Bulgaria. In Czechoslovakia the Democratic government of Jan Masaryk was toppled, and in shattered, bleeding postwar Poland a Moscow-trained government backed by Soviet troops took over. East Germany came under Soviet control by virtue of its military occupation.

With the sole exception of Yugoslavia, all these manufactured satellites were kept under the Kremlin fist until Stalin's death in 1953, and continued with little change until 1956. Already, however, the breath of independence from Moscow was blowing. It exploded in Hungary in the abortive revolution that year that brought Russian tanks to the rescue of the local regime and forced a liberalizing change in leadership there and in Poland.

Crushing of the Budapest uprising was the last real blood-letting by the Soviets to maintain their rule of force, and the breath of independence continued to blow.

Part of the breath came from Moscow itself in the rise of Nikita S. Khrushchev who, as he loosened the screws in the U.S.S.R. with his more liberal policies and the dramatic "de-Stalinization" campaign, evoked an echo in the satellites.

The gains to self-rule made in Eastern Europe have come after long and difficult struggle and most experts on the subject doubt the new Kremlin rulers can turn them backward. They have shown no inclination, so far, to try.

Communist Split

The biggest boost to the satellites efforts to shake themselves free of Moscow's grip has been the split between the Russians and Red China. Peking's challenge to Soviet authority over the Communist world severely undermined the Kremlin's prestige throughout the Red bloc and nowhere more than in East Europe.

Khrushchev, fighting a rear-guard battle with Red China, allowed the Eastern European countries the chance to develop their own types of communism—so long as they remained allied with the Soviet Union in ideology, in foreign policy and in the military sphere.

What has happened and is happening is shown by looking quickly at the countries most involved in the breakup of the satellite "empire."

Hungary is one of the best examples of the years of change.

Under party boss Janos Kadar, who came to power in the wake of the 1956 abortive uprising, Hungary is working hard to improve living standards and has taken some unorthodox—unorthodox in the sense of Stalinism—steps to accomplish this. No longer is it required that an expert in any given line—be it agriculture, industry, science or exports—also be a card holding Communist. If he can help the economy he is entrusted to do it.

Kadar has taken other steps to erase the bitterness and failures of 1956. Virtually all political prisoners have been released and the resistance fighters who fled the nation have been urged to come back under guarantees they will not be arrested.

Hungary still goes along in most things with Moscow. Not so with Romania which today is pursuing not only an independent economic course but choosing its own policies in the international area. Several months ago Romanian leaders started both the Communist and Western worlds by making an unannounced trip to Peking, an act of independence that could not have been thought of only a few years ago.

At the same time Romania has turned westward for much needed trade expansion. A high level Romanian trade group journeyed to Washington and concluded new trade agreements. Its diplomatic missions in a number of Western countries have been raised to embassy status.

Czech Changing

Although Romania and Hungary appear to have set the pace in gaining the most independence from Moscow, observers in the Vienna East European listening post are inclined to believe that Czechoslovakia, long entirely subservient to the Soviet Union, will produce the most interesting political developments in the next few months. Once the most highly industrialized country in East Europe, Czechoslovakia has deteriorated to such a degree that the last two winters it has had to ration electricity.

The Czech Communist rulers, headed by President Antonin Novotny, have blamed the West for the country's troubles. But they and the Czech population have long recognized that their economic troubles really stem from Czechoslovakia's enormous commitments of supplies to Russia, to Cuba and to the African under-developed nations.

Poland's current situation reflects the conflicting currents in the satellites. There has been a tightening of internal control that has shown itself in one way by a new campaign against the Roman Catholic Church in what is a predominantly Catholic country. The government has been in a running fight with the church, headed by Cardinal Stefan Wyszyński who has been outspoken in charging that the regime is trying to stifle religion. His main target has been government efforts to curb religious instruction of children.

Nevertheless most of the liberalizing reforms as a result of the 1956 rebellion, which brought Wladyslaw Gomulka to power, are still in effect. And although Gomulka seems to be drawing a closer rein of government over the people, he can not be dictated to by the Kremlin. The respect the new Soviet leaders have for the Polish head of state was shown when they went personally to the Polish frontier after Khrushchev was overthrown, to explain it to Gomulka.

Poland still, among the major East European countries has the most intimate relations with the west despite the tightening up of internal Communist control. By way of example, Poland was the only East European Communist country to admit the John F. Kennedy exhibition of private papers and mementoes.

Least progress in shaking off Kremlin dictatorship has been made by Bulgaria. Poor in itself, still backward and economically under developed, Bulgaria is not in position to agitate for any radical changes. Also, the country's political leaders are insecure and there are many contesting party factions with none of them strong enough to act upon any bold policy. One desperate Bulgarian need is for money. It is trying to improve the flow of Western currencies into the country with a drive to encourage more Western tourists.

In the present world situation, East Europe continues to feel the need of strong ties and cooperation with the Soviet Union and this is not likely to undergo much change in the foreseeable future. But the "monolithic" empire of slave states Stalin created no longer exists. The breath of independence, the wish for more of the good things of life, blows strong.

THE MARINES HAVE LANDED—U.S. Marines splash ashore from a landing vessel at a beach about 10 miles north of Da Nang, South Viet Nam. The leathernecks are part of a 3,500-man force ordered to South Viet Nam to protect the Da Nang air base. The Marines will relieve South Vietnamese troops now guarding the base, freeing them for combat duty against Communist Viet Cong.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The letters of Fred Allen, who died nine years ago, provided the basis Monday for a nostalgic and sometimes delightful segment of NBC-TV's "Today" program.

The lengthy feature on the daily morning show was prompted by the coming publication of a book of the humorist's correspondence, "Fred Allen's Letters," and was a reminder of the blessed wit he brought to radio listeners for so many years.

It was almost natural that the various readings of funny selections from the book could not be too successful, first because it is impossible to read Allen material without breaking up, and second because his special dry voice added so much to it.

Those not fortunate enough to remember Allen at work will surely enjoy reading his letters anyway, with their touches of wild visual images; but those who do remember him will probably want to devour the book in deep privacy where they inevitably will be carried joyously into the past as they imagine him speaking the words.

Although Monday's readings could not hope to be excellent because of this deep personal imprint of Allen, so easily remembered, nevertheless they brought forth some isolated recollections of his wit, though it is best in context with its building effect.

There was, for instance, one of the reasons he said he didn't frequent nightclubs: "I can meet a better class of people in the subway." There was his famous declaration concerning California: "California is a great place to live if you happen to be an orange."

As I say, however, isolated samples do not do justice to Allen's flavor. Thus the best part of Monday's remembrance was an informal conversation with his widow, Portland Hoffa, and the editor of the book, Joe McCarthy. Miss Hoffa noted that Allen spent parts of two days each week writing letters.
