Capital Moved Back To Washington By FDR's New Deal

BY BURTON KLINE
Special Correspondent

NEW YORK, July 10. — A well known columnist periodically tells the story of the Gurka in the world war who slashed with the razor-like weapon of his breed at the neck of an enemy whom he met in personal combat.

"Never touched me!" exulted the enemy as the blade swished by.

"Wait 'til you try to turn your head," returned the Gurka.

Something like this has happened to New York. It has yet to try turning its head, but the Gurka has made the pass with his knife. And the Gurka happens to be President Roosevelt.

Everybody Will Be Happy

It may be some time before the rest of the country discovers what has happened to New York. But it will shout when it learns. How long the rest of the country has cocked a wary eye on New York has been known for years, everywhere except in New York.

The thing that has happened is that New York is no longer what it has been by assumption—deputy capital of the United States. Mr. Roosevelt has put all of the capital back in Washington where it belongs. He had the assistance of Senator Glass and others, but the deed happened in the Roosevelt Administration, and Mrs. Roosevelt will get the credit. He started the thing and deserves it.

JAMES McMULLIN has told in The National Whirligig of the shivers the Glass-Steagall Bill has sent into financial New York. That bill is the Gurka's knife. Already it has drawn hundreds of millions from New York banks and poured them over the country. And the Glass Bill is but one of the inevitable Roosevelt moves to put the finisher on New York's financial domination.

From now on New York is by way of being another Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Louis, San Francisco, or any other great American community. It may remain ahead of the others by Nature's gift of the finest port on the continent, and for the nation's convenience some one of the cities must serve as a clearing house for finance, women's styles, and the like. By custom New York has been this, and custom is likely to keep it so.

Industries Moving Away

It may keep its old rank in some lines of manufacture. New York's mile trades have for some time operated Pittsburgh steel. But already Pittsburgh itself fears a decline in steel, and already the needle trades have moved from New York to New Jersey and Connecticut. Other industries are leaving New York for other centers where rents and taxes are not so high—where labor wages, adjusted to lower living costs, are still better than New York wages.

Up to now the country has consisted of two parts—the United States and New York. To New York has consisted of New York. It ran everything. It ran over everything, including the Government. From now on the Government will do the governing.

THIS comes as the summit of a long trail of events. Something happened to New York back in 1921. Under pressure of a passing necessity immigration was cut off, and New York has been made by its immigrants. It has been built by immigrants—by their hands, their

Lindberghs Being Delayed On Jaunt

NORTH HAVEN, Me., July 10. (AP) —Fogs and minor damage to their powerful monoplane today delayed Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh on their flight northward to Greenland.

They lingered today and tonight at the summer home here of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, mother of Mrs. Lindbergh, and visited their son, Jon, and the flier's mother, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh.

Unconcerned over difficulties which prevented him from reaching Halifax, Nova Scotia, his destination, yesterday, Col. Lindbergh indicated he would take off tomorrow morning on his airway mapping flight, provided weather conditions were right.

Expectation that the famous flier would reach Halifax tomorrow afternoon came from Collector of Customs W. C. Acker of that city who reported he had received a message to that effect from Col. Lindbergh.

Production Of Wheat Lowest In Many Years

Secretary Wallace Says That Program To Cut Acreage Is To Continue Despite Report Announced Monday

Damage Is Heavy

Corn, Oats, Barley, Rye And Flaxseed Also Drop; Texas' Yield Expected To Be Near 12,012,000 Bushels

By ROY F. HENDRICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Secretary Wallace said tonight he would proceed with his program for cutting American farm production despite today's forecast of the smallest harvest of grain, including corn, in decades—the result of the worst general crop damage in 50 years.

The crop reporting board, assessing damage from excessive heat, drouth, and storms up to July 1, predicted that the year's wheat harvest would be the smallest since 1893 and more than 100,000 bushels below normal domestic needs; that the corn crop would be one of the four poorest in the 32 years, and that the output of oats would be the lightest since 1897.

Estimates Are Gloomy

Its estimates, regarded as gloomier than private reports of recent weeks, indicated an aggregate crop of corn, wheat, oats, barley, rye and flaxseed of 3,783,204,000 bushels. This would be 1,408,996,000 bushels below last year's harvest of these crops and 1,105,396,000 bushels below the average output for the five year period, 1926 to 1930, inclusive.

The board forecast a corn crop of 2,384,032,000 bushels compared with 2,876,000,000 bushels last year and a five-year average of 2,512,000 bushels for the period 1926 to 1930. It estimated that the corn crop was 70.2 per cent of normal and that 23 per cent of last year's crop, or 620,903,000 bushels was still on farms. It estimated this year's acreage at 103,022,000.

Wheat Varieties

The crop of all varieties of wheat was estimated at 495,681,000 bushels, compared with 726,000,000 bushels last year and an average of 861,000,000 bushels during the five-year period. The wheat crop was rated as 55.8 per cent of normal and its acreage at 44,879,000 with 11 per cent of last year's crop still held by farmers—78,605,000 bushels.

In 1915, the United States produced twice as much wheat as this year's indicted production. Then the output for the only time in history exceeded one billion bushels. Since 1893, the country has produced at least 500,000,000 bushels of wheat every year and had produced this quantity several times before 1893, which was a year of unusually poor grain crops.

Spring Wheat Bad

Of the wheat indicated for production, 336,767,000 bushels was winter wheat and 159,914,000 spring wheat, including 17,576,000 of Durum wheat. The condition of sprnig wheat, 52.1 per cent of normal,

Statewide Hearing On Oil And Gas Matters Proposed

AUSTIN, July 10 (AP)—An order had been prepared today for signature by the Texas railroad commission calling a statewide hearing on oil and gas conservation matters for Austin, July 27. Formal issuance of the order was expected tomorrow. It had been signed today only by Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson.

The commission will hear evidence concerning production conditions in the fields, both oil and gas, to decide if present orders are adequate or should be amended to meet changes that have occurred since the last statewide hearing.

Study Of Ways To Economize In Rail System Will Start

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP) — A study of ways to economize on the handling of freight and passengers by American railroads is to be started immediately under the administration's railroad coordination plan.

Joseph B. Eastman, the federal coordinator of transportation, announced today the freight injury would be begun immediately under the direction of J. R. Turney of St. Louis, a vice president of the St. Louis, Southwestern Railway company. Turney will be director of the freight service sections.

Speck Hamlin, Who Was Pursued For Many Miles By Frank Norfleet, Dies

(By The Associated Press)

TULSA, July 10.—Reno H. (Speck) Hamlin, 56, once pursued thousands of miles by J. Frank Norfleet, Texas nemesis of confidence men, was killed in an automobile accident at Marshfield, Mo., yesterday.

Details of the accident were lacking. The body was returned from Missouri for burial tomorrow. Hamlin's mother, Mrs. M. J. McElhany, lives here.

Hamlin, who once was arrested but cleared after a shooting scrape here and was arrested on other charges, was followed 30,000 miles by Norfleet after the latter was fleeced of $45,000 in confidence games, but boasted he "beat the rap."

Four brothers and two sisters are known to survive. The undertakers said they were informed Hamlin also is survived by a widow, his second wife. Burial will be beside his first wife, who died several years ago, here.

Virtual Unity Of Purpose Of Britain And U. S. Is Related To Help American Confidence

Neville Chamberlain Cheered As He Speaks Before House Of Commons; Americans Are Heartened By Talk

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, July 10.—A virtual unity of purpose of the governments of the United States and Great Britain was proclaimed tonight by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, in the house of commons' closing debate on the government's policy in the world economic conference.

Cheers greeted the chancellor's declaration that "there is no doubt that the avowed policy of this country and the United States are closely parallel to one another."

Price Raising Sought

"It is the declared intention of the government to pursue by all means in their power any measures which they think will tend toward raising price levels, which we believe to be the first essential," he said.

"I also agree that this country should not depend wholly upon what is done in conjunction with other countries but that we should do what we can to help ourselves. That is what we have been doing and we have met with a considerable measure of success, sterling figures of commodities having risen from the first of the year no less than eight per cent.

Signs Being Seen

"We have really at last begun to see signs that show unmistakably that improvement is not a fleeting one, that it has a solid foundation and may be expected to continue," the chancellor said.

The American price-raising program received a general, and in some instances enthusiastic endorsement during the debate which was followed with greatest interest by the American delegation.

Although Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, as the government spokesman, failed to reveal any definite steps toward carrying out a policy similar to Mr. Roosevelt's in this country, he did declare that depreciation of the American dollar is largely unnatural and artificial and revealed that a basic policy of Great Britain is the raising of wholesale commodity prices.

Americans Heartened

Meanwhile, a plea by Winston Churchill, conservative member, for the British government to follow the American policy, even at a prudent

Oklahoma Set For Beer Vote

Several Carloads Of Beer Are Held In Rail Yards; Wets Predict 2 To 1 Victory In Balloting Today

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 10. — Locked and marked "hold for diversion" as interstate shipments, several carloads of beer waited in railroad yards here today as Oklahoma prepared to vote tomorrow on a measure to legalize sale of 3.2 per cent beer in a state which has been dry 26 years.

Intensive campaigns ended tonight with beer forces confident of victory and prohibitionists declaring the result would be in doubt if the drys displayed their full voting strength.

Election officials predicted a vote of 450,000 or 500,000. R. M. McCool, state Democratic chairman, forecast a 600,000 ballot total and a 2 to 1 victory for the bill. R. C. Garland, chairman of the Oklahoma "Beer for Oklahoma League" expected a 500,000 ballot vote and expected the measure to carry by 150,000.

More than 100 federal licenses for sales of beer and wines were issued by the internal revenue department here.

Four Charged In Murder Of Three Texans

Five Men Also Face Charges Of Mail Truck Robbery In Which $72,000 In Loot Was Taken In February

Bodies Are Sought

Clothing Of Missing Trio Is Found Sunday; Believed To Have Been Killed Because Of Information Given

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, July 10.—Federal charges growing out of the February 21 robbery of a mail truck here when $72,000 was taken in loot were filed against five men late today after four of the five had been charged in justice court with murder of Jack Sturdivant, Eula; J. B. Rutherford, Dallas, and Harry Rutherford, Abilene.

Meanwhile a search of lakes on the property of one of the suspects and of a portion on Trinity river where clothing of the missing trio was found late yesterday had failed to disclose any bodies. Sheriff J. R. "Red" Wright issued a call for volunteers to start at 6. a. m. tomorrow in an effort to cover every foot of heavily wooded territory in the vicinity of the farm residences of the suspects.

Four Are Charged

O. D. Stevens, W. R. May, M. T. Howard, alias Pettijohn and M. D. "Blackie" Howard, alias Pettijohn, were charged with the murder of the three men. The same four and Weldon Routt were named in complaints drawn by United States Attorney Clyde Eastus charging robbery with a deadly weapon and conspiracy to rob the United States mails.

Bonds for the suspects in justice court were set at $10,000 in each case—a total of $30,000 for each suspect. An examining trial was set for 10 a. m. Thursday.

Federal bonds were set at $50,000 for each of the five men charged with the federal offense.

The three men missing are believed to have met their deaths as the result of information given officers in the mail robbery, officers said.

Coupe Is Sought

The coupe in which the three missing men drove from Dallas to Handley — and to their supposed deaths—is the object of a state-wide search, a clue which, if found, may lead authorities to a quick end in their efforts to complete the solution of the crime. Deputy Sheriff Frank Rimmer saw the men Saturday night talking with others on a Handley street corner — the last time they were seen. Their clothing, bundled into a crude basket of hog-wire and weighted with rocks, was found by accident Sunday near the new bridge on the road from the Randol Mill road to Birdville.

A section of the same wire was found today by deputy sheriffs on the farm of May which adjoins that of Stevens. The piece of fence wire matched exactly the portion in which the clothing was wrapped, officers said.

The clothing when found contained money, watches and identification cards. Swimmers searching the river bottom today found also Sturdivant's pocket knife at the spot where the clothing was found.

New Warning Is Sounded As Bread Prices Start Upward

WASHINGTON, July 10. (AP)—A new warning came from the department of justice today that it would stand between the consumer and profiteers who took advantage of the recovery drive for personal gain.

Discussing reports of bread price increases exceeding the fair amount new processing tax was estimated to cause, Attorney General Cummings said prosecutions under the anti-trust laws would be instituted wherever an organized attempt to increase bread prices unduly was shown.

Eight Members Of Jury For Trial Of Negro Are Chosen

DALLAS, July 10 (AP) — Eight members of the jury which will try R. T. Bennett, negro, on a charge of strangling Mrs. Leona Buchanan, were selected in district court here today.

Bennett is charged with murder for slaying the woman in her apartment. A statement attributed to the negro by police quoted him as saying he had entered her apartment with burglary in mind.

Nephew Of Demo Leaders Being Held By Kidnapers

Ransom Of $250,000 Demanded; Threat Of Death Made

(By The Associated Press)

ALBANY, N. Y., July 10. — John J. O'Connell, jr., 24, nephew of Edward J. and Daniel P. O'Connell, powerful upstate Democratic leaders, has been kidnaped and held since Friday for $250,000, police learned today.

Negotiations for his release have come to a standstill. The abductors had telephoned a warning that they would kill their captive if police were called into the case.

Snatched From Home

Young O'Connell, athlete and lieutenant in the national guard, is believed to have been snatched away from his home as he got out of his automobile at 1:15 a. m. Friday.

His parents noticed his failure to return home Thursday night, but did not suspect that he had been kidnaped until they heard of a threat Friday, telephoned to Samuel Arcnowitz, law partner of Edward O'Connel, who is Albany county Democratic chairman. Arconwitz is a former state commander of the American Legion.

Threat Is Made

"Tell Eddie (Edward O'Connell) that we've got his nephew and that he will hear from us," a muffled voice over the telephone told Aronowitz. "If he tells the police we'll kill him."

The two political chieftains made frantic attempts to get in communication with the kidnapers today through intermediaries, but were said to have been unable to reach them. Sources close to them said they were ready to pay a moderate ransom, but could not hope to raise $250,000.

The victim's two uncles and his father run the strong Albany Democratic machine which fought with Tammany Hall against the nomination of President Roosevelt at Chicago last summer.

Truett Is To Speak In City

Prohibitionists Of Plains To Gather In City Tonight For Rally; Dr. W. R. White Also Will Be Here

Prohibitionists of the South Plains and Lubbock will hear Dr. George W. Truett, southern Baptist leader, of Dallas, speak at a rally in the First Baptist church auditorium tonight. The meeting will begin at 8:30 o'clock, with George R. Bean, president of Lubbock county prohibition forces, presiding.

Doctor Truett will come to Lubbock from the Panhandle section, where he spoke in the interest of prohibition and against repeal of the 18th amendment and liberalization of Texas' Dean law.

White To Be Here

Dr. W. R. White, a former Lubbock Baptist minister, will accompany Doctor Truett here and possibly will speak.

South Plains prohibitionists have perfected an organization which is backing a fight against repeal of the prohibition amendment and legalization of 3.2 beer. The election will be conducted next month.

Texas Petroleum Council Is Formed; Resolution Passed

HOUSTON, July 10. (AP) — The Texas petroleum council, a fact finding association formed to cooperate with state agencies to secure enforcement of all regulatory measures involving the oil industry, was launched here today with Judge Robert W. Stayton, former appellate court member, as president.

The council unanimously adopted a resolution favoring a telegram to President Roosevelt and Secretary Ickes asking that the Connally amendment to the industrial recovery act, which makes it a crime, punishable by imprisonment to ship oil, illegally produced or withdrawn from storage, in interstate or foreign commerce, be declared immediately in effect by executive order.

Nobleman Who Worked As An Elevator Operator Is Dead

BERRYNARBOR, Devonshire, England, July 10. (AP)—Sir Reginald Beatty Wolseley, who worked for twelve years in the United States as an elevator operator, is dead here.

In 1930 Sir Reginald married Marion Baker, who travelled all the way from England to Waterloo, Ia., to convey his mother's last wish that he return to his native land.

Mattern To Fall 300 Miles Short

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 10 — Jimmie Mattern's solo flight around the world may fall three hundred miles short of completion as a result of his crash in Siberia.

The Texas flier now appears likely to make the stretch from Anadyr, Siberia, to Nome, Alaska, as a passenger in a seaplane of the Soviet government.

Irving Friedman, of New York, backer of the Mattern relief fliers now in Juneau, Alaska, today informed Boris Skirsky, chief of the Soviet information bureau in Washington, that he had a telegram from William Alexander, who is in charge of the relief fliers, saying that Mattern was willing to fly back to Nome in a Soviet plane and would continue from Alaska eastward in an American ship.

Repeal Boost Being Sought From Leaders

Jim Ferguson Visits National Capital; Speech By Farley And Statement By Roosevelt Will Be Asked

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 10. — A boost for repeal in the Texas prohibition struggle and also possibly for a state relief bond issue was being sought tonight from national leaders by Jim Ferguson, husband of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson of Texas.

Indications were that the former governor would make clear to Postmaster General Farley that putting his repeal manager, Charlie O. MacDonald, in the national Democratic committee post still held by Jed Adams would be a forward step toward carrying the Lone Star state for repeal in the election on this issue August 26.

Confers With Ickes

MacDonald was here with Ferguson atttnding conferences. Today both called on Secretary Ickes, public works administrator, and tomorrow they plan to see Farley.

Both were obviously nettled somewhat at the silence of Vice-president John N. Garner in the repeal campaign. They were seeking help from Farley, possibly even a Texan speech. Should it seem needed in the closing days of the campaign, there was a chance President Roosevelt might be asked for a statement.

Ferguson believed repeal would go over. He likewise predicted that the contemplated bond issue would carry. But here, too, national support for such action by states to provide their share of the federal recovery program seemed desirable.

Not Seeking Jobs

"I am not here looking for jobs," Ferguson reaffirmed tonight, as he sat back in his hotel room talking about public works and currency inflation with Representative Wright Patman.

"I am here to reaffirm our hearty support of the administration," Ferguson said. "I am getting acquainted with some officials and discussing prohibition repeal and public works."

Deadline For All Voluntary Industrial Codes Proposed

WASHINGTON, July 10. (AP)—The recovery administration is seriously considering setting a deadline for the voluntary submission of industrial codes under a plan by which if agreements were not then submitted, Administrator Hugh S. Johnson would set dates for each line of business and order its members to appear.

A definite decision on the plan, Johnson said tonight, may be reached within two or three days. Much depends, he said, on whether the slow pace of the past weeks continues or industries start submitting agreements which fall in line with President Roosevelt's wage-raising, hour-reducing purpose.

COMPROMISE SEEN

TULSA, July 10. (AP)—A compromise was reached in the mid-continent crude oil price tangle today and the Continental Oil company, leader of the group that posted a 33-cent advance to 85 cent a barrel peak last week dropped back to a 75-cent top.

Federal Cash Will Be Used For Projects

State Highway Commission Is In Session; Plans Are Told For Immediate Construction Work Over State

To Ask For Bids

Action Expected To Start By Late July; $25,000,000 Is Allowed Texas; Project In Lubbock Area Included

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, July 10. — Plans were announced today whereby a large part of the federal emergency unemployment relief fund allotted to Texas for highway construction will be used in the immediate future.

The state highway commission, in session today, said it would submit projects to the federal bureau of public roads for approval within the next few days calling for expenditure of approximately $15,000,000. Texas was apportioned about $23,000,000 for emergency relief work.

Must Be Approved

All projects must be approved by the federal bureau. The commission hoped to have this requirement out of the way in time to advertise for bids on many of the projects by the end of July. Ten days notice of the lettings must be made.

The commission said the funds would be apportioned among the various counties on the basis of their population and on the number of unemployed persons on relief rolls. It was proposed as a tentative basis that counties having a population of 40,000 be awarded contracts aggregating $100,000. The amount would vary with the population of the county and the number of unemployed.

Ratio Is Explained

W. R. Ely, commissioner, said that in many counties, this ratio would not be necessary, while in others, particularly the larger ones, it would have to be increased to meet the situation.

Under the emergency relief act, at least 75 per cent of the 254 counties

SHERROD IN AUSTIN

AUSTIN, July 10 (Special)—B. Sherrod, who is representing Lubbock county at state highway commission meetings, will meet with the state body Tuesday in the interest of paving projects in this section.

The Lubbock man will urge paving of stretches on highway No. 24 through Dickens, Crosby, and King counties, on No. 9 from Lubbock county line to Big Spring, and on No. 134 southwest through Terry, Gaines, and Andrews counties. Mr. Sherrod expressed satisfaction for the promises of the commission relative to the early paving on No. 24 in this county, No. 7 in Lamb county, and No. 9 in Swisher.

Aged Pioneer Is Hurt After Fall

Falling 25 feet when a windmill tower platform gave way, F. M. Edwards, 81-year-old pioneer of West Texas, suffered a broken left thigh at his home at 2904 Avenue P early last night.

Although there were several young men about the place, Mr. Edwards had climbed the tower to repair a sucker rod. Nails holding the platform slipped. The elderly man also suffered abrasions and lacerations on his face and possible internal injuries. He was knocked unconscious.

Ross Edwards, a son, said he was near the tower when the accident occurred, and heard his father fall. The son did not know his father was attempting to repair the windmill.

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE BEAN WILSON
Avalanche Woman's Editor

THE Cowhand Scribe, who writes for the Floyd County Hesperian, is "going to establish a country where everybody is required to sleep from 12 o'clock until 3 o'clock each afternoon. There will be no bill collectors and everybody will be on speaking terms the first of every month."

If the Cowhand hasn't already filled up his Utopia, I want to make an immediate reservation—particularly to the sleeping part of the country.

If there is any one big drawback to our modern life it is having to go to work after lunch every day. Why, that time of day no one really does any work, anyway, so we might just as well close up and take a nap. Last year this column advocated a bed for every desk so that people who work down town could cease all business at 1 o'clock and take a nap. That's something to go in the New Deal. After a rest, think how much better most of us could work and, even if we didn't, no business would be missed at that time. As a matter of fact, the plan should be instituted for safety. People who are half asleep are likely to agree to anything in the way of business. If we all slept for a couple of hours after lunch this possibility could be avoided.

PIONEER DAYS

IF YOU don't look to pictures of pioneer days in the papers that were published then, you are missing an interesting source of information.

This desk has a copy of The White Man published in Weatherford on November 15, 1860. This sheet, carrying the slogan, "The Frontier and Its Defense", is Number 27 of Volume 1. The paper now belongs to H. T. Price, who received it from Neal Johnson—both are of the Avalanche-Journal staff.

News filtered slowly into the remote posts of civilization back in 1860. Most of the news came to the editor from friends in distant places, was clipped from newspapers that reached the western offices or was passed from person to person in the occasional meetings of those days.

In contrast to the custom of devoting the front page of the paper to the latest news, The White Man has a serial story there and has news inserted inconspicuously on the other three pages. Few headlines were used.

The 1860's held the excitement of pre-war days. News of preparations for the approaching conflict was coming slowly to Weatherford for one paragraph reads: "The Telegraphic dispatches indicate that the Southern States are generally arming to resist the Black Republican rope and to protect the State sovereignties from coercion. Governor Letcher is rapidly organizing forces for the protection of Virginia. Maryland is undergoing a similar preparation. The border resounds with the clash of military movements. The chivalry of the cotton States are now in motion. The Wide-Awakes will not find the South asleep."

A column on the back page is devoted, too, to a review of "Negro Slavery—It's Past, Present and Future" by William H. Parsons and there is an urgent message for the people to read the book and help get the facts spread "in an effort to combat the fearful delusions of the day, which so imminently threaten our nationality, and the happily existing relations of the races in the very bosom of society."

Here is another story that will interest modern newsaper readers for its style alone: "We understand," record the editors, "that a difficulty occurred a few days since at Belknap, between Capt. Thomas Johnson of Fort Worth and Mr. Fisher, of that place; and that Fisher took shelter in his own house, and Capt. Johnson attempted to follow him to the house, but was stopped at the door by Mrs. Fisher, when the Capt. became so much enraged that he shot at the lady with his six-shooter. He was held to bail in a bond of $3,000 for his appearance at court.

"We cannot vouch for the correctness of the report; neither do we believe it although we have heard it from several different sources, through persons just down from Belknap, for we think Capt. Johnson a man of too much honor to be guilty of such an act."

What a help such a style would be to modern editors!

Women Of Five Congregations Attend Circle Meetings Here Monday

Baptist Units Name Officers

First Christian women are beginning a new church year and the unit meetings yesterday were given over to planning for new work. Members of the Baptist society turned their attention to election of officers who will begin their terms with the new church year in September. MARKET REPORTS

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, July 10 (AP)—The cotton market was very active and firm today and prices made new highs for a two year period on a big advance in sterling, optimistic views of the success of the acreage reduction plan, continued good business news and further gains in grains. The close was steady at net advances for the day of 53 to 58 points.

The opening was active and firm. First trades here showed gains of 23 to 29 points and prices continued to advance after the start on heavy general buying due to the advance in sterling and favorable reports from Washington as to the acreage leasing plan. October soon advanced with Saturday's close.

During the second hour prices reacted 12 to 24 points on realizing and again in sympathy with easier stocks, but midsession became firm again with stocks and grain and during the afternoon turned very active on general buying.

In the late trading prices advanced to new highs for the day and year at 10.90 for October and 11.07 for December, showing gains of 56 to 62 points over Saturday's close. There was a slight reaction at the end of 4 to 5 points on realizing, and October closed at 10.85, or 53 points net higher and December at 11.03 up 58 points net.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, July 10 (AP)—Advances of approximately $2.50 a bale in cotton today were attributed to active general buying influenced by the reported progress of the acreage curtailment campaign, further weakness in the dollar and the firmness of the grain market.

All positions made new high records for the movement, with October contracts selling up to 10.93 in the late trading or 53 points higher and closing at 10.89. The general market closed firm at net advances of 4 to 52 points.

Following opening advances of 22 to 30 points the market encountered a good deal of realizing and some southern selling, but the offerings were absorbed on reactions of some 13 to 15 points and the market firmed up again in the day on a renewal of heavy buying which found additional encouragement in the reports of continued dry hot weather in the southwest.

December contracts after selling off from 10.83 to 10.70 on the forenoon reaction advanced 11.10 in the late trading and closed at 11.05. Last prices were 2 to 5 points off from the best under realizing.

Washington advices indicating that incomplete returns received up to last Friday showed a total of 5,566,151 acres offered by farmers for lease to the government under the terms of the agricultural adjustment act, offset the bearish effect of Saturday's figures on acreage planted which were larger than anticipated.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, July 10 (AP)—Like a meteor, the rye market flamed across the speculative horizon today, and gained 9 cents a bushel, smashing high-price records right and left.

Exciting buying that accompanied the upward flight of rye resulted from belief which spread among many traders that as a consequence of new 30-cents-a-bushel taxes on wheat converted into flour, the use of rye bread might largely displace the nation's white loaf. It was figured that the new wheat tax, together the market discount on rye as compared with wheat, gave buyers of rye an advantage of 50 cents a bushel.

Under the new agricultural measures recently enacted by congress rye has no tax such as that enforced on wheat beginning today, and furthermore the present domestic stock of rye is sub-normal, with the 1933 rye crop promising less than usual requirements.

Paradoxically, the sensational action of rye closed flurried at not far from the day's top, 7 3-8@7 7-8 cents above Saturday's finish, wheat 3-4@1 3-4 up, corn 1 3-8@1 7-8 advanced, oats with 1-2@1 1-4 gain, and provisions showing a rise of 27 to 55 cents.

Closing indemnities Wheat Sept. 99 1-2@5-8, 107@107 1-4; Dec. 101 3-4@7-8, 109 3-4@110; May 105 3-4, 113 1-8@3-8. Corn Sept. 62 3-4@7-8, 68 1-4@1-2; Dec. 66 3-4@7-8, 72 1-2@3-4; May 73, bids.

KANSAS CITY REPORT

KANSAS CITY, July 10 (AP)—Moderate activity developed at midwestern markets on killing classes of cattle at strong to 25 higher prices. The chief stimulating influences to the trade were curtailed receipts and an improved tone at eastern dressed beef markets. Strictly choice medium weight steers in Chicago scored 7.25 while 7.00 was secured at the same market for heavy steers and yearlings.

Hogs were unevenly 10-25 lower than Friday's average trade, the day's extreme top of 4.65 was paid on early rounds at St. Louis.

Fat lamb trade was rather spotted with markets which were relatively high ate last week showing declines of 25 or more and some centers reporting upturns of 15-25. No material change was registered on yearlings and sheep. City butchers in Chicago paid up to 8.75 for closely sorted native lambs but bulk of arrivals ranged downward from 8.25.

Stocks

WALL STREET REPORT

By JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, July 10 (AP)—New highs in the grain and cotton markets and a new low for dollar exchange failed to inspire much sympathetic enthusiasm on the stock exchange today.

Shares displayed spotty strength, confined largely to amusement, baking and wet shares. Rails were soggy and leading industrials acted a bit weary. Utilities had a flare during the forenoon, but quiet later. The average net change, as measured by the averages, was a small simmered down. Volume totaled 4,841,065 loss. trading was active before noon, then shares.

The market's indifference to exchange fluctuations—sterling lifted to around 4.83 and the dollar dipped under 70 cents as figured against gold—or to strength in commodities contrasted with its unwillingness to rally under similar circumstances last week. Many brokerage houses, however, have been counselling caution and traders seemed willing to pocket further profits under cover of the boost for selected groups.

distance, heartened the American observers.

Indirectly he approved rejection by President Roosevelt of the currency stabilization plan broached at the world parley, asserting it was "pretty weak stuff," and was confined practically to a declaration that the interested governments would do what they could to check speculation.

He declared that while recent developments had constituted "a serious check" to the conference, Great Britain was of the opinion that "the chief troubles of the world are international in their origin and can only be solved by international agreement."

To stimulate interest in the further development and exploitation of oil fields in Germany a central oil association was formed recently in Hamburg.

FDR's New Deal Moves U.S. Capital "Gotham Gone Goslin." Writer Says

taxes, and the profits that came from their buying.

New York is now over-built. Many of its proud Manhattan towers are empty and bankrupt, and more than the depression has done this. Not only is immigration stopped., the population to fill these buildings is not even stationary. Forces are working to pull this population apart. Its people as well as its millions are being distributed.

Communications Hurting

Speedy communication is tearing at New York—the truck, the bus, the airplane. The telephone company, centered in New York helps to tear down its own home. Big business sets up branches across the country linked by telephone wires. Labor goes elsewhere. The working man is tired of taxes. Witness the important printing trades, driven from headquarters in New York.

The famous interlocking directorates that bossed the land so long are on the way out. Washington has kicked them out. From now on the tale may weg, the dog will not. New York bankers, according to James McMullin, sit up nights with the Glass Bill, figuring what it will do to them. Not to mention the Securities Act, Industrial Control and the rest of the new business method and philosophy. They fear the new Congress may be more radical than the last. "We are in a new world and must make the best of it."

IN A word, New York's smart men see already that New York is now an important trading post on the Hudson, and are "adjusting" themselves to it.

In still other ways its domination is gone. Through its throttlehold on finance it ruled about everything but Henry Ford. It has put its stamp on the movies and the magazines, on plays and publications Edith Wharton wrote a novel about a talented Westerner who came to New York and got nowhere. He refused to conform to New York standards of taste.

The rest of this country lives a life richer and more dramatic than anything imagined by Balzac. It calls for a Balzac, a Dostoievsky to paint it. A population as great as ours must be riddled with genius of every description. According to Mrs. Wharton New York would none of it. The facts seem to have proved her contention. Big men have come to New York. How many has New York produced?

New York Too Provincial

The typical New Yorker has never learned anything on travels outside his city. Everywhere else he is too busy being that important thing, a New Yorker. It is what has made him typical. His city has been hermetically sealed against outside impressions. A great national life goes on outside; New York has been wrapped in its own concerns.

Now other American cities are destined to speak up—New Orleans, Los Angeles, Seattle. Much is said of the distribution of wealth—meaning generally a new deal for the working man. Wealth in the higher brackets is by way of being spread from New York, and more than wealth is to be shared. Other cities are due to be origins of influence—publishing centers, sources of opinion and art. New York will have to lift its tastes to keep up.

FOR the 133 years since the founding of Washington, it has been a question which was the annex of the other, Washington or New York. This last election first, and President Roosevelt since then, have settled the matter. New York is the annex.

This may sound funny at first. There still are New Yorkers in business and finance who hope the big program of recovery and control is a mere New Year's resolution. Watch it come to pass.

Highway Work

in Texas must participate in the work.

The commission today started hearing applications from approximately 75 counties for a share in the relief fund. It was likely the hearings would extend through three days.

The commission ordered highway 36 extended from Cross Plains to Abilene. It now extends from Temple to Cross Plains.

Construction Urged

Immediate completion of highway 7 west of Waco was urged.

Routing highways 2 and 36 over seventh street in Temple was requested. The change would require construction of an overpass over the Santa Fe railroad. Letting of contracts on highway 2 and 36 in Bell county was requested.

The commission promised to accelerate work on the Troup-Summerfield-Rusk road in Rusk county. Improvement of highway 22 between Rusk and Mount Enterprise will be carried out with emergency funds that will be allotted to Rusk and Cherokee counties.

Completion of highway 75 in Gray counties was regarded favorably.

An Anderson county delegation evoked surprise among the commissioners when it asked that highways 19 and 43 be routed around, instead of through Palestine. Protest usually is made against any attempt of the commission to route a highway around a city. The commission said construction of highways 7 and 22 will be placed among the emergency projects.

Requests of Falls county for designation of a highway from Rosebud to Reagan was taken under advisement.

Plains Work Seen

In Lamb and Hockley counties, the commission agreed to start some work, probably on highway 7.

All members of the commission were in accord on the necessity of starting meritorius projects in the area hit by the West Texas drouth.

Action was deferred on the request of Coryell county for surfacing highway 7 from the McLennan county line to Gatesville.

Agreement was made by the commission to begin some work in Erath, Palo Pinto and Young counties to relieve unemployment.

Contracts for construction of highway 24 in Lubbock county from Lubbock to Idalou will be awarded among the first projects.

Grain Harvest

was worse than winter wheat which was 57.8 per cent.

The winter wheat crop was seriously injured throughout the plains states during the winter and was further damaged this spring, particularly in June.

A total of 13,183,000 acres of winter wheat sown last fall was abandoned.

Oats Production

The board forecast oats production at 698,941,000 bushels with the condition of the crop 49.3 per cent of normal. Oats production has excelled a billion bushels every year since 1911 and apparently will fall below a 700,000,000 bushel harvest for the first time since 1897. Hay production is also expected to be low, dropping to about the same production levels as the drouth years of 1930 and 1931.

Kansas, the biggest wheat producing state, was reported to have a prospective harvest of winter wheat of 56,696,000 bushels, compared with 106,396,000 bushels last year and a five year average of more than 153,000,000 bushels. The condition of the winter wheat crop there was reported as 43 per cent of normal.

Details Are Given

Details of the various crops, by important producing states, area planted, condition July 1st, indicated production:

Corn—Oklahoma, 3,189,000; 46 and 22,323,000; Texas, 5,308,000; 55 and 71,658,000.

Winter wheat:

Oklahoma 28,848,000 and 9.7 (bu. yield); Texas 12,012,000 and 7.0 (bu. yield).

Stocks of wheat on farms July 1: Oklahoma 4,363,000; Texas 1,331,000.

COTTON AT TATUM

TATUM, N. M., (Special —Between 700 and 800 acres of cotton have been offered to the federal government for plowing under in the cotton acreage reduction plan. This is the reported area in this section of Lea county, according to E. J. Fox, in charge of the work.

JUST HOW GOOD IS YOUR CREDIT?

This Answers It For You:

Your Credit Reputation Is Based On Three "Essentials"

FIRST ESSENTIAL: - - Character.
SECOND ESSENTIAL: - - Past Record of Promptness
THIRD ESSENTIAL - - Ability to Pay.

FIRST - - This essential is best explained by asking yourself the question, "Are you the kind of person to whom you, yourself, would lend money out of your pocket?"

SECOND - - Can the several firms of whom you purchased goods or services, report you as "Prompt Pay"?

THIRD - - In general, is your weekly or monthly income sufficient and sure enough to meet your current expenses and this new obligation promptly when due? Capital is of least importance. People who pay promptly seldom buy more than they can pay for; their judgment restrains them from doing so.

Pay your bills promptly!

It pays — many ways!

Why risk your life when blow-out protection is FREE?

Tests prove this new tire is 3 times safer at high speeds

Heat generated by friction separates rubber and fabric—starts invisible "blisters", which cause blow-outs.

The new Goodrich Life-Saver Golden Ply resists heat . . . makes the new Goodrich Silvertown 3 times safer from blow-outs at high speeds.

YOU may never go faster than 40. But that doesn't mean that you can't have a blow-out . . . or that you're safe from the awful results.

What causes blow-outs?

Today's high speeds—40, 50, 60 and 70—generate terrific heat inside the tire. Rubber and fabric separate. A blister forms . . . and GROWS. Then suddenly it happens . . . BANG! A blow-out. And a terrible drag pulls your car off the road.

But now Goodrich has perfected the Life-Saver Golden Ply. This invention resists intense heat. Rubber and fabric don't separate. Thus, blisters don't form. Blow-outs are prevented by eliminating their cause.

At gruelling speeds on the world's fastest track, the new Goodrich Silvertowns, with the Life-Saver Golden Ply, lasted 3 times as long as first quality tires that did not have this feature. These Silvertowns never blew. They were run till the tread was gone—but the Life-Saver Golden Ply refused to give.

Safest non-skid tread

The tread, too, is safer from skidding. Scientific tests prove that the new Goodrich Silvertown has the most skid-resisting tread. Its squeegee drying action gives your car extra road-grip and reduces danger of skidding to a minimum.

Goodrich Safety Silvertowns cost no more than other standard tires. Why take chances? That blister—that blow-out in the making may be in your tires right now! Put a set on your car . . . and BE SAFE!

Testimony On The Upturn

FROM time to time recently many newspapers and magazines have introduced material designed to show that business is going on the upgrade.

Most of that material, however, has been based on the opinion of some free lance writer or literarily inclined economist. Little of it has come from business channels.

But herewith, The Morning Avalanche presenting statements indicating that the long looked-for upturn is here—and these statements are those of the National Retail Hardware association's research service, an organization hoping to gain nothing and lose much should it misrepresent conditions. The material appearing below was handed this newspaper by B. Sherrod, who attests to its authenticity.

"Business has established at least one new record in 1933. Its improvement during the last three months was greater than in any similar length of time in our history.

The extent of the change since the middle of March is amazing. Paralysis of practically all business occurred during the banking holiday and the future was highly uncertain.

"Now we find a remarkable shift in both public sentiment and business figures.

"Many of our basic industries have jumped to production schedules not seen in fully two years. Steel is at 53 per cent of capacity, the best rate since April, 1931.

"For the first time in eleven years, automobile output was larger in June than in May. June was the best month since June, 1931.

"Cotton textile mills are close to record-breaking schedules.

"Furniture factories have experienced the greatest buying wave since 1895.

"A long list of business indicators are above their 1932 levels.

"Dollar wheat is here again. Prices for many raw materials have jumped and higher levels are indicated for finished products.

"Employment and payrolls are much improved. In Detroit, employment has doubled since the first of the year. Few cities can boast this showing but gains are widespread; they are expected to continue with the functioning of the Industrial Recovery Act.

"Retail trade has picked up appreciably. As late as last February, hardware sales were 27 per cent under 1932. June figures are expected to be above June of last year.

"Unless something entirely unforeseen occurs, the seasonal decline in business during July and August is expected to be less than usual.

"The short wheat crop may delay improvement in some agricultural areas even though prices have advanced so sharply. Kansas, the Dakotas, and parts of Texas, Oklahoma, Nebraska and Minnesota have been affected. Nevertheless, the general situation in farming sections is definitely encouraging. Preliminary estimates point to a gain of from 25 per cent to 50 per cent in farm income this year."

The hardware trade, at least, has perceived the increase in business and the improvement, gradual 'though it may be in some quarters, in conditions generally.

The Morning Avalanche is glad to proffer this material to the South Plains public.

HOW ABOUT THIS, TECH GRADS?

While we can't bring ourselves about to advise similar action on the part of engineering graduates at Texas Tech, The Morning Avalanche submits, for whatever interest there may be in it, the action of 1933 graduates of Villanova college.

Future empire builders from the Pennsylvania school wrote President Roosevelt a private letter asserting that they didn't want to clutter up the engineering profession or business generally at this time. They said they appreciated the government's present difficulties in finding jobs for some 13 million men and women of maturer age.

Consequently, the Villanova engineers of '33 banded together for "the common good". They are taking temporary jobs in any field they can find.

A portion of their joint earnings is being banked. When times are better this money will be split to establish the boys of '33 in their chosen profession. At present the lads are doing everything from repairing autos and hanging paper to mowing lawns and servicing radios.

The letter they got in return from FDR ie described as "powerful enough to make even a Wall Street profiteer feel a not-to-be-denied wave of patriotism"—which is something in itself!

The weather forecaster always has lots of competition.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT is toying with the idea of creating a super-advisory Board.

The men he would like to get include Herbert Hoover, Barney Baruch and Eugene Meyer.

This isn't as crazy as it might seem at first blush. Gentlemen who have an ear to inside corridors say such a superstructure may well become the crown piece to Mr. Roosevelt's recovery program.

Two prospective critics wear Republican labels. Baruch already is installed as a backstage wre-puller. All three were potent factors in Woodrow Wilson's war-time kitchen cabinet.

These men would be asked to assemble at the President's elbow for two reasons.

First, he would have the last Republican President as a potential rebutter for every seemingly radical move the administration might make. Mr. Hoover grew up with the depression and learned with exactitude how heavy is its yoke.

Also, Mr. Roosevelt would have the benefit of partisan criticism from Meyer—the man who guided our Federal Reserve system under Mr. Hoover.

Secondly, any move okeyed by this triumvirate would stand up under a lot of political sharp-shooting.

President Roosevelt would continue to cast the final vote. He has shown such a determnation a dozen times since last March.

Still he would get some pregnant opinions on policy. They would serve as a sort of governor to some of the more ambitious ideas of his Brain Trust.

Hopes of getting former President Hoover are being based on two factors: his natural patriotism and desire to help the nation out of the doldrums, and his feeling that the Republican party has dumped him.

Back of everything is the fact Baruch already is on board.

The trio has been very close in the past. If Baruch could persuade Meyer they might be able to entice Mr. Hoover.

It would be interesting to watch a Republican Congressional minority try to joust at such a setup.

JOBS: We now have Ministers to Rumania and Portugal. Both hail from Texas. Senator Tom Connally was awfully surprised when he heard about the Portuguese nomination.

Alvin M. Owsley, of Dallas, former national commander of the American Legion, is now serving at Bucharest. He was Senator Tom's personal choice.

Not so with Robert G. Caldwell, of Houston, who keeps us in touch with Portugal.

Connally had been promised two diplomatic jobs as a result of his efforts in the Chicago deal that made Mr. Roosevelt President.

When Owsley and Caldwell popped out of the bag simultaneously he was astonished and annoyed. He leaped down to the White House. How come, he asked, re Caldwell?

He had momentarily forgotten his tactics on veterans' payments and control of the oil industry while Congress was closing. Both embarrassed the White House not a little.

Caldwell, the Senator found, was a personal choice of Prof. Ray Moley, dean of the Roosevelt brain trust. Before going diplomatic, Caldwell was dean of Rice university.

But here's the payoff. Caldwell also is a cousin of the mysterious Ben Smith!

Smith is the big bear operator and pool manipulator of Wall Street who is strangely close to the administration's big wigs.

Senator Connally was mollified when he was promised that his other choice would be given a job "by December."

Texas's potential diplomat is Hal Sevier, of Austin. His wife is Democratic National Committeewoman for the state.

Connally promsed not to block Caldwell's confirmation on assurance Sevier would be cared for.

NOTES: Mr. Hoover and Baruch bought a Washington newspaper right after the war . . . This was when both political parties were courting Mr. Hoover as a 1920 candidate . . . He couldn't make up his mind in time on which side he buttered his bread . . . A tie like this might help Baruch tremendously in persuading Mr. Hoover to serve as an ultra-cousellor for President Roosevelt . . . The Treasury clerks who found phony quarters in their pay envelopes say they were fairly bad counterfeits . . . Even when solved this case will make Secret Servicemen shake their heads . . . They just can't believe fake coins could go through a bank and the Treasury too. . . . Secretary of Interior Ickes was glad to see President Roosevelt back on the job . . . Both of them go in for stamp collecting in a big way . . . The President's specialty is American . . . By virtue of his office he gets a swell break on first and anniversary "covers."

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

NEW YORK is beginning to realize that new deal prospects for established business which cooperate are nothing to cry over.

If the program works the days of fantastic dividends are done. But nobody has suggested that dividends as such are taboo. Stockholders in concerns which give labor a fair show will probably find themselves safer and happier than ever before.

All the talk about Sovietizing industry is the bunk. Capital isn't going to be murdered. It is simply going to be rescued from its own excesses and given a chance to live to a ripe old age. A surprisingly large number of influential New Yorkers subscribe to this principle and find it confirmed in their contracts with Washington.

This doesn't imply that the appetite for excess profits has disappeared. It does mean realization that assurance of limited profits is preferable to unrestrained hunger with the sword of Damocles overhanging the feast.

The depressions of 1873 and 1893 came about largely because the country went mad about building railroads. Excessive competition busted everybody. Nowadays you can't build a railroad unless you can darn well prove to the Interstate Commerce Commission that it is needed—and everyone realizes the resrtiction is wise.

In the late '20's we went as crazy about building industrial corporations as earlier generations had about building railways—with the same results. Now the same remedy is about to applied. Future industrial corporations will have to justify their existence by an argument more potent than competition for its own sake.

There are still plenty of old-timers who would like to see "the good old days" restored. Enough industrial and financial leaders have already been converted to add strength to the President's arm in dealing with these holdouts.

THE GREAT UNLIT

The Bibliotheque Nationale in Paris, the foundation of which goes back to the year 1367, contains over 4,300,000 volumes and was, until recently, the largest library in the world. It has since been outstripped by the Libraries of Leningrad, Russia and Washington, D. C.

Since its foundation, and down to 1919, artificial light was strictly barred there for over 562 years. The Salle Publique (Public Reading Rooms) closed at 4 p.m. in the winter and at 6 p.m. in the summer, or sooner, depending upon sunlight. Only in 1929 was the old severe rule against artificial lighting broken, steps having been taken for the gradual installation of electric lights.

BARGAIN BRIDE

by KATHARINE HAVILAND-TAYLOR

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BARRETT COLVIN, back in New York after four years, meets 20-year-old ELINOR STAFFORD and falls in love with her. Barrett is 35, wealthy and has made a name for himself as an archeologist.

Elinor's beautiful mother, LIDA STAFFORD, has kept the girl in the background wanting attention for herself. Lida is carrying on a flirtation with VANCE CARTER and is constantly scheming to keep in the good graces of MISS ELLA SEXTON, her husband's aunt, in order to inherit a share of the Sexton fortune. Elinor hates this hyprocrisy.

Barrett's half-sister, MARCIA RADNOR, is terrified for fear her husband will learn of an unfortunate episode in her past. Years before Barrett shielded Marcia when a youthful romance ended disastrously. Marcia had a son whom Barrett adopted. The boy is nine years old now. Marcia insists that if her husband learns the truth he will never forgive her.

HAROLD DEXTER, the boy's tutor, threatens blackmail. Barrett, hinting at knowledge of Dexter's past, frightens the man into promising he will not make trouble.

Barrett takes Elinor Stafford for a drive. She seems as attracted toward him as he is toward her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XI

Elinor rose quickly and left the room. She returned, flushed and smiling, from the telephone conversation with Barrett Colvin.

"He wanted," she said, "to know if I didn't think it would be better to take our drive tomorrow since the weather forecast is clear. We were going to go Tuesday."

"Did it take seven minutes for him to say that?" her father asked.

Elinor laughed. "Oh, but that wasn't all. He said he hoped I hadn't been chilled driving this afternoon and he said he'd never enjoyed an afternoon more and thanked me for it. And I thanked him and said I'd enjoyed it too—"

"Twenty in June, weren't you, dearest?" Bentwell asked.

"Yes, but why bring that up?" she replied lightly. She was so happy!

They moved to the room Lida called the library, arm in arm. Stafford's heart was cracking to small, sharp slivers that cut at each beat. He didn't want his little girl to grow up, to fall in love and leave him. But, on the other hand, he did want her settled and away from her mother's bold lies and frail deceptions, from his drinking himself to forgetfulness.

In the big room Elinor turned to put her arms around his neck. "You mustn't feel sorry!" she entreated. "You're first! You'll always be first with me, darling!"

He held her close, laid his cheek against her soft hair. And when she stood away she saw that his eyes were wet. "I'm so foolish!" she admitted. "And I've made you so! Aren't we being rather dramatic over nothing? I don't know what's the matter with me!"

Her father knew what was the matter and the recurring possibility of Colvin's hurting her brought color to his cheeks. "Thank God," he thought, "Lida will be out of the way for a while!" If only they could have everything settled before Lida's return — assuming, of course, that Colvin really cared for Elinor as she seemed to care for him. Then it would be all right.

If the affair were still in the air when Lida returned she could—and would—smash it if she wished. Stafford knew her — her strength, her lack of principle which made her the most formidable of foes, her willingness to stoop to and use any weapon.

Marcia had telephoned, Barrett learned when he arrived home. He called her for the second time that day — a day that had been stretched to unnatural length by worry and ecstasy. That the unpleasant interview with Dexter had occurred only that morning he could hardly believe.

"Is that you, Marcia?" he said into the telephone.

"Yes, dear. Thank you so much for calling. I wanted you to know that I've been so relieved and happy since I head from you at noon."

"I'm glad of that," he answered but he could not feel the situation as he had before; the menace of it, the hopelessness of it. He could feel only the understanding and loveliness and gentleness of the girl who had ridden beside him in the gray of the early evening and the truth that had come to him so suddenly that he was still dizzy from its strong impact.

"Dear," he heard next, "can you run up to have dinner with us? We had an engagement but we begged off."

For the first time in his life Barrett lied expertly. He couldn't talk to Marcia this evening. He had to be alone to think!

He said goodby to her and then telephoned Elinor.

"Are you dining in, sir?" Higgins questioned a short while later.

"Yes, Higgins," Barrett answered happily. Before he left the room he wrote. "Flowers, candy, pink box," on a day-by-day pad. That it was an absurd and unnecessary reminder he realized, feeling slightly a fool. Nevertheless it was a satisfaction to write it. He stood looking down at the words. She didn't think he seemed old. He had said, "I usually feel frightfully decrepit when I'm with anyone your age," and she had answered with a bluntness that had elated him, "That's the silliest thing I've ever heard!"

He had said, "Really do you mean it?" and she had replied "I certainly do!" They had talked of it for some time; he confessing his hatred of old fools who crashed in on the buds and she was saying that was "quite different." He had admitted his 35 years and she her 20.

And later, over the telephone, she had said she had enjoyed the afternoon. Her voice had been not quite steady and he had wanted to say, "You darling! You darling!" Instead he had only said, "Be sure to dress warmly enough tomorrow."

Barrett looked at the clock; tossed his cigaret into the fire. At this time tomorrow night he would be with her in that pleasant, small inn, which Marcia had said was unchanged. He'd telephone ahead and order something special. And wear the London tweeds he liked about as well as anything he had. He decided suddenly that he had been neglecting his wardrobe for a long while. Have to remedy that. See his tailor tomorrow.

Tomorrow seemed a long time away. He studied the laggard clock.

What an adventure coming home would be with her in the house! What a magnet she would be! He saw himself slipping from his coat, hurrying into the drawing room, stooping to take her in his arms. Was it fair to her to dream this way, not knowing how she felt? He must hold himself in a bit. But he had never wanted anything very much without getting it, he reassured himself. He knew he had force, and if he thought he could make her as happy as she should be he would use that force. Then—together for the rest of their lives! His lean cheeks warmed, thinking thus.

If she could ever say, "I love you!" he would ask nothing more!

Lida, in a way, had enjoyed Miami. Vance Carter had been there, as devoted as usual, and she had been amused. True, his infatuation had a few times made him difficult for even her to handle. She had had to make promises she had never intended to voice. These bothered her a trifle, although time, Lida had found, often untangled the webs that follow the first deceit. Still she did wish Carter hadn't made her say she would divorce Bentwell to marry him as soon as Miss Ella died.

She wrote Miss Ella dutifully, telling her that the cough which had forced her to leave "dear Bent and Elinor" was almost gone. She knew Miss Ella approved a mother who remembered her obligations.

At the end of three weeks Lida got reservations for the trip north. Carra and Hal were going on to Havana. They had spoken of it frequently and a bit too pointedly, with eyes fixed above Lida's head.

Lida told Carter that it was tragic how friends disappointed one. She had really liked Cara until, living in the same house with her, she had found Carra disapproving of "nothing at all," stiffening with each day and becoming more and more combative.

Carra had said, eyes narrowing, "Lida, if I were you I wouldn't play much more with Vance Carter. It's rather cruel, don't you think?"

And Lida's innocent, "But Carra—I can't think what you mean!" had done nothing but make the other woman look at her with a disconcerting steadiness, laugh unpleasantly and say bluntly, "Don't be a fool! You know damned well what I mean."

The visit had, as this continued, been rather disappointing.

Lida loathed trains and the people one saw upon them. She arrived in New York in a smoldering mood to find that the motor for which she had wired was not waiting for her. Fuming within, she gave a taxicab chauffeur the Park Avenue address and planned the stinging reprimand she would voice to Bentwell and Elinor. They should have seen that she was met!

She let herself into the apartment with her key, taken from a bag Carra had given her — forced by Lida's envious, loudly voiced admiration. Later Carra had said to Hal, "She's hopeless—completely without pride and a schemer. I can't see how I was fooled for so long!"

Inside the apartment Lida paused a moment in the foyer. Then she heard voices beyond. Elinor's voice and some man's. She couldn't place the man but she knew it was not Bobby Tolfair who had long been devoted to Elinor.

Deliberately eavesdropping, Lida stepped to the door to hear what they were saying.

New Clay Courts Champ Is Crowned

Before the national clay court tennis championships even started at Chicago, it was a foregone conclusion that Frankie Parker would win ... his real name is Pijakowski ... he was 17 last January ... got his start as a ball boy at Milwaukee Country Club ... he was chasing balls when Mercer Beasley happened across him about eight years ago ... something about the boy's style on the court appealed to the great Tulane teacher ... Beasley hopes to see Frankie develop into "the perfect tennis player."

Frank Kimbrough Sets New Record On Slaton Course With 65 To Stand Out In South Plains Golf Matches Sunday

Play will start next Sunday in both singles and doubles and will probably continue until Tuesday. Sventy-five cents entry fees will be charged for singles and doubles or fifty cents for singles or doubles alone.

Register At J. & J.

All players desiring to enter the tournament are requested to register and pay their entry fees at J. and J. Sporting Goods company. Players will be given tickets for the tourney when they register.

Drawings for pairings will be held early Sunday morning at the West Texas Gas company courts where a portion of the tournament will be staged. Other matches including finals will be played on the college courts.

Lorenzo Wins 17th Victory

Strong Crosby County Aggregation Downs Lubbock Ramblers Here Sunday In Tilt Lasting Twelve Innings

The seventeenth team to fall before the onslaught of the Lorenzo baseball team this season the Lubbock Ramblers lost to the Crosby county club in a thrilling twelve-inning affair Sunday at the College Avenue park. The score ended 6 to 3 for Lorenzo.

Lorenzo got off to an early lead, scoring two runs in the first inning when Haine and S. Suerratt walked and Gray poled out a triple.

Lubbock tied the count in the third when Thompson walked and Jack Thompson hit a home run to bring him in. That was all the locals could do in the way of scoring except in the sixth when Bill Davidson parked one out of the lot for another home run.

Lorenzo tied the count again in the seventh when H. Suerratt singled, Gray walked and Galey hit a double to bring in a score. In the last half of the twelfth, S. Suerratt singled, H. Suerrett doubled, Gray hit another single and Moody repeated the performance to bring in the winning runs.

The score:

Hubbers Lose; Abernathy And Enochs Win

With heavy hitting and poor fielding outstanding throughout the afternoon, the Lubbock Hubbers lost a 23 to 14 track meet to Tahoka Sunday afternoon in a South Plains league game.

The only luminary of the game, outside of the entire Tahoka lineup who "knocked off all the balls," was Cowboy Kyle, former Arkansas U. grid star, who connected five out of six times at bat. He hit a homer, triple, double and two singles.

Lubbock used four pitchers but they failed to stop the onslaught of the Tahoka clubbers. Heggie started the game for Tahoka but was relieved by Larkin who went the route. Hambright twirled six innings for Lubbock and was followed on the mound by Galey, Gaither and Demp Webster.

Abernathy Wins

A lucky seventh inning Sunday saved the day for Abernathy when the second game of the second half of the South Plains baseball league played with Slaton, Abernathy taking the long end of the county, 8 to 6.

A home run by Lefty Barrett, Abernathy first sacker, a double by Scott Prather and three errors by Slaton's players tied the game up in a sack.

Enochs hitters went on a rampage at Morton Sunday and Morton was badly outclassed to lose 17 to 2. Besides the visitors' hitting, the locals contributed to their scoring by making six errors.

Smokey Joe Hare With Aid Of Good Fielding Humbles Steers

BEAUMONT, July 10 (AP)—Sensational support afield and timely clouting helped Smokey Joe Hare humble the Dallas Steers 9-5 here today and as a result of this victory the Exporters hurdled the Mavericks into the first division and undisputed possession of fourth place. Hare was in trouble in nearly every frame. A double killing helped him out in the first innning, and another twin slaying in the sixth with the bases jammed brought him out of another hole. He walked eight men and gave up seven hits, one a homer by Ernie Holman inside the park.

TARZAN OF THE APES No. 32

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

A sailor grasped him by the collar and bawled into his ear: "Read it out loud, you blithering idiot!" The professor read: THIS IS THE HOUSE OF TARZAN THE KILLER OF BEASTS AND MANY BLACK MEN. DO NOT HARM THE THINGS WHICH ARE TARZAN'S. TARZAN WATCHES. TARZAN OF THE APES.

The thought uppermost in their minds was "Who is Tarzan of the Apes?" The rat-faced sailor growled out an insulting oath! The young man's face paled in anger. "You've murdered our officers and robbed us," he said. "Now shut up or I'll break your neck with my bare hands."

He deliberately turned his back upon the sailor and walked away. The sailor's hand crept slyly to his revolver. His eyes glared vengefully. . . . Two keen eyes had watched every move of the party from a near-by tree. Tarzan saw the surprize caused by his notice and now watched the quarrel.

The act of the rat-faced sailor in killing his comrade, the day before, had aroused a strong dislike in Tarzan. He liked the fine-looking young man. But now he naturally expected to see the young man murdered. Spear in hand, his mighty right arm was ready to strike.

When three things happened, almost simultaneously. The sailor leveled his weapon at the young man's back, the girl screamed a warning, and a long spear shot like a bolt from above. It passed through the man's right shoulder, and the seaman crumpled up with a scream of pain and terror.

Americans Are Held In Spain

Five Citizens Of America Are Being Held Without Bail In Prison Despite Protests Of State Department

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—Five American tourists have been imprisoned without bail since June 4 in a Spanish prison despite protests of state department officials.

Senator Bulkley (D-Ohio) said today appeals for help had been directed to him by friends of the jailed tourists.

One of the five is a woman, Mrs. Clinton B. Lockwood, 24, wife of Clinton Lockwood, a New York City artist who is one of the four men held at the Palma City jail, island of Mallorca.

The others are Rutherford Fullerton, 53, a retired Columbus, Ohio, business man; Roderick F. Mead, an artist of New York City; and Edmund W. Blodgett of Stamford, Conn., also an artist.

The matter has been taken up by the state department and Ambassador Claude Bowers has been cabled instructions to try and effect their release.

According to information given the Ohio senator by friends of the imprisoned quintet, the imprisonment followed a clash between one of the Americans and an officer of the guardia civil, the Spanish military police.

Mrs. Lockwood, Senator Bulkley was advised, has been held in "virtually solitary confinement in the women's quarters with a half-crazed Mallorcan."

Capitol Chatter

AUSTIN, July 10. (AP)—The conflict over the permanent chairmanship of the prohibition repeal convention has caused some speculation as to how wide and deep was the rift between James E. Ferguson and some of those who formerly had supported him.

Ferguson was advanced as a candidate for the chairmanship in opposition to John M. Mathis, sr., of Houston, chairman of the Texas Liberal Legion. Ferguson and Mathis have been long-time friends. Mathis was one of Ferguson's legislative leaders.

Mathis' position was supported by Senator Will Martin of Hillsboro who supported the Ferguson administration in its fight for confirmation of the nomination of F. L. Denison of Temple to the chairmanship of the Texas highway commission.

Rep. J. D. Young of Cuero and Rep. Sam Devall of Hallettsville, consistent administration men, were opposed to Fergusan as permanent chairman.

Maury Hughes of Dallas, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, also reportedly preferred Mathis to Ferguson.

Hughes has always co-operated with Ferguson and his wife, Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, but recently became involved in a controversy with Ferguson over the post of national committeeman from Texas.

Some reports are that the break was sharp and might have an effect on the administration's strength in future legislative sessions. Others believe the rift was only on the surface and that allegiance to the Ferguson standard has not been substantially shaken.

At any rate, Ferguson was the man who provided the fireworks at the convention. Many observers believe he could have been elected handily as permanent chairman had he pressed his cause to the fullest.

In a gesture of harmony, Ferguson withdrew in favor of C. C. McDonald of Wichita Falls, his friend, although many of his supporters objected to the move.

The repeal convention, according to the record, was a repetition of meetings of anti-prohibitionists of years ago wherein the leaders split and could not present a united front.

By contrast, not a ripple of dissention disturbed the placid course of the prohibition gathering. That group appeared as one on all questions.

Six Hundred Contracts In Terry County Are Approved

R. C. Reed, Terry county cotton acreage reduction chairman, in Lubbock yesterday said that 600 contracts from his county had been approved and sent to Washington for final checking. The contracts represent 21,970 acres. One hundred more contracts, representing about 5,000 acres, are to be signed.

Reed estimated there was an estimated 2,000 acres to be signed up. He said only one man had refused to sign a contract in the entire county.

The county's quota of 26,502 acres already has been reached, Reed reported. Committeemen are working to sign up 40 and one-half per cent of the present year's planting under the campaign.

The lint yield per acre for the county is being set at 120 pounds. The five-year average for the county is 122 pounds.

Guy Allen, former Lubbock business man who is operating a farm near Amherst, was here yesterday on business.

Lubbock County's Report Is Given

O. G. Tumlinson, county agent, yesterday reported to the United States department of agriculture that Lubbock county farmers had agreed in 589 contracts which had been signed at last week's end to plow under 25,328 acres of 59,309 acres they have in cotton.

For this acreage, the farmers would receive $258,689.07 in cash and an option on 2,055 and 54-250 bales of cotton.

Late Sunday Mr. Tumlinson wired his fourth report of cotton reduction contracts. It was as follows: 190 contracts, 22,214.5 acres in cotton; 9,250 acres offered to be plowed under; average yield of 156.9 pounds of lint per acre; $66,985 to be paid in cash and $25,228 in cash and an option on 807 and 24-250 bales of cotton. Total direct cash and cash under option would be $92,213.

"There will be easily 80,000 acres offered the government by farmers in this county," Mr. Tumlinson said. "We have plenty of contracts on hand.

"We expect some more contracts to come in. We hope to clean up the work we have now in the office by Wednesday. It is a lot of work to make up a summary of the contracts finally approved and it takes a stenographer half a day or more to finish the report."

Summary of the four day's reports gives the following: 589 contracts for 59,309.5 acres of cotton; 25,329 acres offered for plowing under; average yield per acre, 155.25 pounds of lint; $203,656.07 to be paid for plowing up under the cash plan; 55,034 in cash and 2,055 and 54-250 bales under the option plan.

STEADY SMOKERS TURN TO CAMELS

"A man can't fence his best unless his nerves are healthy," says George Santelli. "Fencing is one of the fastest sports there is—you've got to keep your reflexes and nerves in perfect condition. As a coach, I have fencing appointments from seven-thirty in the morning until ten or eleven at night. I can enjoy as many Camels as I want and still know that my nerves are ready and fit when fast action is needed."
