Yanks Capture Hill On Bloody Okinawa

More Islands Are Seized; Fall Of Baguio Imminent

By RAY CRONIN
Associated Press War Editor

AMERICAN Army troops, smashing against furious Japanese opposition all along the flaming Okinawa southern battle front, have captured an important position on high ground near Ishin village.

As the Yanks dented the stubborn Japanese line warships of the Pacific fleet used their big guns to seal off caves and wreck pillboxes and trenches in the bloody battle area.

Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, reporting late Tuesday on Okinawa action, disclosed that Yank Marines have taken over three additional islets — Yagachi and Kouri, off the northwest coast, and Heanza, off the east coast. The only opposition, on Yagachi, was being liquidated by the Leathernecks.

Luzon And Mindanao

In the Philippines, Yank doughboys made progress on both the Luzon and Mindanao fronts. Baguio, the war-wrecked summer capital, was close to being under American control. The Americans were within 2,500 yards of the city's outskirts on the northwest.

Two Yank columns were spreading both north and east from Kabacan, road junction on Mindanao. The column headed east was spearing toward Davao, important port city. Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported the Japanese in that region have not been able to concentrate for effective resistance.

American planes from the Philippines blasted Formosa and bombed the naval base at Saigon, French Indo-China. Hitting heavily against shipping, the airmen wrecked eight merchantmen off Formosa, at Saigon and on the China sea.

B-29s Pound Tokyo

American Superfortresses from the Marianas returned to the attack on Tokyo district war industries. Between 100 and 150 of the big planes pounded the Hitachi aircraft engine and other plants in the Tachikawa industrial section immediately west of the city.

Tokyo acknowledged that between March 1 and April 15 the B-29 attacks on Japan made 3,140,000 persons "disaster victims" and resulted in destruction of 770,000 homes in Tokyo, Osaka, Nagoya and Kobe.

Flying to Okinawa, Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz declared the island, only 325 miles south of Japan-proper, "will permit us to

Doubt Hangs Over Fund-Sharing Plan

AUSTIN, April 24. (AP) — The fate of two separate proposals for financing building programs at the University of Texas and Texas A. and M., and at all other state-owned colleges, remained in doubt tonight after lengthy Senate and House debate.

The House passed on second reading, by a vote of 66 to 56, a resolution for submission of a congressional amendment permitting all state-owned colleges to share in the university permanent fund income—for permanent improvements—which is now held exclusively for the University of Texas and Texas A. and M. college.

Texas And A. And M. Funds

The Senate laid on the table, subject to call, another proposed constitutional amendment under which the University of Texas and Texas A. and M. would be permitted to pledge income from the permanent fund for postwar building, and under which the legislature would be authorized to establish a university of the first class for negroes.

This proposal was left dangling by the author, Sen. H. L. Winfield of Fort Stockton, when it became apparent he could not muster the necessary 21 votes for final passage. It can be called up again on any day during which the Senate is considering senate bills or resolutions, however.

The fate of the House proposal to split the university permanent fund was in apparent jeopardy since 100 affirmative votes would be required on final reading to pass it and send it to the Senate. This proposal was by Rep. Preston Smith of Lubbock.

Property Tax Proposal

A similar situation is faced by another resolution passed on second reading in the House last week, 70 to 63, authorizing a state property tax of 5 cents per $100 valuation to finance permanent improvements at all state-supported schools, except the University of Texas and Texas A. and M.

Debate on the plan to finance post-war buildings at the university and at A. and M. brought a heated review of the smoldering University of Texas controversy in the Senate. While this argument was flaring, the House was killing a new effort to force committee action on a natural gas tax bill.

The Senate's discussion of the proposed amendment centered around echoes of the dispute that led to the discharge of Dr. Homer P. Rainey as president of the university.

Funds Said Unjustified

Sen. A. M. Aikin jr., of Paris asserted the board of regents of the university had asked for improvements not justified by present enrollment at the university.

"The regents saw a good chance to spend some more money, and A. and M. got on the bandwagon," Aikin declared.

To this, Sen. H. L. Winfield of Fort Stockton responded that while he had great respect for Aikin's judgment, he felt it had been influenced by Aikin's feelings in the university controversy. Aikin then retorted:

"If my judgment has been warped, it is because the board tried to take over and ruin one of the best faculties in the nation. There is no reason why the University of Texas should not be administered in the same manner that

Confidence Is Keynote Of World Parley

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—The four sponsoring governments of the United Nations conference have agreed to support specific proposals that international disputes be settled "with due regard for principles of justice and international law."

This was made known to reporters today by Secretary of State Stettinius, chairman of the American delegation and temporary presiding officer of the conference opening tomorrow.

Britain Backs Russia

The announcement came soon after all the British commonwealth lined up behind a Russian demand for three votes in a general assembly of a proposed United Nations organization.

The Chinese originated the suggestion to include references to justice and international law in the proposed charter of the organization.

An American delegate, Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich), also had been hammering for a pronouncement specifically embracing the word "justice." Standing behind Stettinius at a mammoth news conference in a hotel, Vandenberg uttered one sentence:

"I'm very happy to welcome justice in its first appearance, in this instance."

Polish Situation Evaded

Stettinius batted back a host of questions on the touchy Polish situation—one of the major issues on the eve of the meeting of 46 nations seeking to guide the world into the ways of permanent peace.

Nor did the secretary of state care to express himself on whether the American delegation would support three votes for the Soviet Union in the general assembly. Previously the Americans had felt themselves committed by decisions at the Yalta meeting of the Big Three to lend such support. They had been hopeful, however, that Russia might not press the issue.

But the British, in the words of Deputy Prime Minister Clement Attlee, had promised, that "oh, yes" the United Kingdom would back Russia on this point. Subsequently it was learned that India, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and Canada intend to follow suit.

Chinese Suggestions

Two additional Chinese suggestions, to be submitted to the conference, also won endorsement of the sponsoring nations—China herself, Britain, Russia and the United States.

These were:

"The assembly should be responsible for initiating studies and making recommendations with respect to the development and

Powerful Soviet Armies Meet In Berlin Wreckage

By ROMNEY WHEELER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Wednesday, April 25 — Two great Soviet armies united in Berlin yesterday, seized fully half the burning city and effectively cut it off from all reinforcement.

A Moscow communique announced the junction of the First Ukrainian and First White Russian armies in southeastern Berlin in a single phases of coordinated drives which captured the Schlesischer (Silesian) railway station and all the districts north and east of it, within a mile of the center of the city at Unter Den Linden.

Wheeling Movement

The First White Russian forces of Marshal G. K. Zhukov simultaneously executed a great wheeling movement north and northwest, which severed the Berlin-Hamburg railway and came within two and one half miles of the Berlin-Hannover railway. The latter, useless because it leads only to a dead end at the lines of the Western Allies, already is under heavy shellfire, Moscow related in an early-morning supplement to the communique.

While the Russian account that in actual miles the city still lacked some 14 miles of being entirely surrounded, severance of the Hamburg railway and interdiction of the other lent confirmation to a German account which said the flaming German capital was "practically surrounded."

Escape Corridor Useless

This German report, circulated by the Nazi-controlled Scandinavian Telegraph bureau, said there was a three-mile escape corridor to the northwest but that it could not be used because it was blanketed with Soviet heavy artillery.

The Russian communique, supporting the probable total isolation of Berlin, said that Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukrainians had speared up from the south to a point four miles due east of Potsdam.

Deprived of outside aid, the German defenders fought viciously, hurling in repeated counterattacks which the Russians said failed at a cost of more than 6,000 German dead Tuesday alone. The dying German airforce, striving vainly to compete with Soviet airpower over the heart of Berlin, lost 26 planes shot down Tuesday, Moscow reported.

Junction of the two Russian armies inside Berlin's limits completed the encirclement of a tre-

PROBABLE POINT OF YANK-RED JUNCTION—While Soviet troops continued to tighten a strangle hold on Berlin, the world was awaiting official announcement of a juncture by Russian and American troops. Bavarian Front Crumbles Before Powerful Drives

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Wednesday, April 25 — Whirling down on Hitler's Bavarian mountain retreat, three mighty Allied armies curved the tips of a giant pincers within 25 miles of Austria's borders last night.

In the far north, the British opened the final assault on Germany's second port of Bremen, and along the Elbe river valley the Russians drew ever closer to an historic union with the waiting Americans.

Berlin blazed in its final agonies and Nazi propagandists said Hitler himself was within the crumbling capital, directing military operations. Other European sources, however, expressed belief that he already had fled to his Berchtesgaden redoubt toward which the American Third and Seventh and French First armies were beating a triple drive.

Million Captured In April

Supreme headquarters, reporting the Allies had captured more than a million Germans in the west since April 1, heard that resistance on part of the Bavarian front was crumbling while along the Elbe river German soldiers were racing with civilians to surrender to the Americans before the Russians catch them.

The U. S., Third Army led the sprint toward Austria with a 23-mile leap from Cham to the vicinity of Arnetsried, 35 miles from the border city of Passau. At the extreme other end of the line, French and U. S. Seventh Army men moved shoulder to shoulder toward the alpine foothills that shield Munich.

Thus the pincers was formed. Patton's men above Passau were ready to nip from the east; the French, at Althausen, north of Lake Constance, just 25 miles from Austria's western tip, ready to squeeze in from their side.

Allied headquarters, like the rest of the world, was awaiting an official announcement that American and Russian troops, last reported barely 20 miles apart between Dresden and Leipzig, had joined forces and split the Reich in two. Some correspondents here believed a preliminary junction already had been made.

The French press agency, quoting "reports from Moscow," said American and Soviet troops had met at Eilenburg, on the Mulde river nine miles northeast of Leipzig.

Nazis Slay Former Austrian Premier

By THOBURN WIANT

FLOSSENBURG CONCENTRATION CAMP, Germany, April 24 — Austria's former Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg has been slain by the Nazis and Germany's finance minister, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, has been taken to the notorious Dachau concentration camp, freed prisoners told the U. S. 90th Infantry division today after it liberated this camp.

Schuschnigg, held in custody by Hitler since Germany took over Austria in 1938, was reported killed—probably by hanging—on April 15. Schacht, Germany's most famous financier, was reported taken from Flossenburg to Dachau along with some 13,000 other captives at the time Schuschnigg was slain.

Arrested After Plot

The prisoners said Schacht was arrested after the plot against Hitler failed last July.

Among those taken to Dachau, liberated prisoners said, were Schuschnigg's wife, the former Countess Vera Fugger von Babenhausen, and their small daughter and Col. Jack Churchill, famous British commando officer captured while fighting with Marshall Tito's partisans.

The 90th freed 1,600 political prisoners at this camp nine miles northeast of Weiden but was told there were 15,000 in the camp just a week before. Survivors said 12,500 prisoners had been starved to death, hanged, shot or killed by injection since the camp was established in 1938.

Frenchman Tells Story

Pierre Bertrand, French underground worker who was arrested in Paris in January, 1943, and was employed in the Flossenburg records office for the past two years, told of Schuschnigg's death.

The one time Austrian leader and his family were brought here six months ago and given special quarters and special privileges. Bertrand said Schuschnigg aged greatly under his confinement.

The night of April 15, Bertrand said, Schuschnigg and Schacht, handcuffed together, were led into the camp's administration building. Later Schacht returned alone.

Bertrand said he did not know how Schuschnigg was slain but that evidence pointed to hanging.

13 Americans Hanged

The prisoners said 13 American paratroopers were hanged near the camp April 1 and their bodies burned in the camp crematory.

Some prisoners who previously had been held in the notorious Buchenwald camp near Weimar declared that Flossenburg was much worse because the food ration was less.

The Flossenburg camp was discovered by a patrol from the 358th regiment commanded by Lt. Col. Jacob W. Bealke, jr., Sullivan, Mo. Leader of the patrol was Lt. William B. Kilpatrick, Paris, Tex.

The patrol found the crematory ovens still burning, with eight bodies alongside waiting their turn.

The camp was surrounded by three barbed wire fences, the outer one electrically charged.

Aged Petain Is Awaiting Trial

PARIS, April 24 (AP)—Tired, old Marshal Petain entered Switzerland today—his 89th birthday — and tonight the French government announced that formal arrangements had been completed for returning the Vichy chief of state to France to stand trial on charges of treason.

"For reasons of decency" the government communique said correspondents would not be permitted to witness Petain's surrender to the French government and for that reason the place and date of his surrender would not be announced.

Laval, Deat Turned Back

Two of Petain's Vichyite leaders—Pierre Laval and Marcel Deat —sought sanctuary during the day in neutral countries but were refused. Laval, chief of government, appeared at the frontier of Liechtenstein. Deat, Petain's minister of state and labor and ardent pro-German, was denied admission by the Swiss.

King Leopold of Belgium, who surrendered to the Germans in May, 1940, was expected to arrive in Switzerland soon, indicating that the crumbling Nazi regime was permitting many of its famous hostages to leave—possibly through some understanding with the Allied governments.

Gen. de Gaulle, once sentenced to death in absentia by a Vichy military court in Clermont-Ferrand, may testify against Petain. At the time of the verdict against De Gaulle the present French leader declared: "I consider the act of the Vichy men as void. I shall have an explanation with them after the victory."

Before the Allies invaded France De Gaulle publicity had termed the aged Petain an "evangel of decadence," and branded Laval and other Vichyites a "band of traitors."

The French foreign office announced that Switzerland had notified the De Gaulle government of the Marshal's arrival and that Petain had requested permission to pass through Swiss territory in order to surrender himself as a prisoner at the French frontier.

His trial is set for May 17.

A government spokesman disclosed that the Germans originally applied to the Swiss government for permission for Petain to pass through Swiss territory.

Nazi Anchors In Italy Are Taken

ROME, April 24 (AP)—U. S. Fifth Army troops poured across the Po river today and other Allied troops captured La Spezia, Modena and Ferrara, shattering a 125-mile German defense line across the Italian peninsula.

Forty thousand prisoners and large quantities of supplies and material have fallen to the Allied spring offensive.

The German position in Italy appeared critical tonight with the swift Allied drive keeping the enemy "confused and his communications disrupted," an announcement said. Allied warplanes and armor cut to pieces German troops and transport trapped in pockets back of the swiftly moving Allied troops.

Security Blackout

A security blackout prohibited designation of the Po crossings but the Fifth and British Eighth armies were known to be at the river along a 50-mile front stretching from Ferrara west to Borgoforte.

The important Italian naval base of La Spezia on the Ligurian sea fell to Fifth Army troops. Other units of the Fifth striking from captured Bologna in the center of the battle line took Modena.

Italian troops of the Eighth Army including the Garibaldi partisan brigade captured the town of Cadigoro.

In addition to capturing Ferrara, eastern anchor of the German line south of the Po, Eighth Army units took Bondeno, nine miles northwest of Ferrara.

Cannibalism Of Japs Cited Anew

MELBOURNE, Australia, April 24. (AP)—Cannibalism among the Japanese troops on New Guinea was the subject of a story written today by Fred Aldridge, war correspondent for the Melbourne Sun. He reported:

"It can now be revealed that Australian forces collected evidence of the practice of cannibalism among the Japanese soldiers in New Guinea.

Flesh Found Stewing

"In the Finnisterre ranges last year I gathered facts of the horrible story in two Japanese-held villages where the bodies of Japanese lay in improvised butcheries and human flesh was found stewing. What I saw myself in the presence of another correspondent and what I heard and checked with Australian soldiers left the facts in no doubt.

"The captain commanding a company of Australians which took one village just as the Japanese were preparing an evening meal was so appalled that he ordered every man to examine the grisly evidence. Hardened men, conditioned as they were to bloody savagery of battle, were nauseated.

"Mutilated bodies were found and it was reported that Japanese were shot while actually in the act of carving flesh from their dead comrades. Documents were found proving the butchers were given detailed instructions on the best parts of the human bodies to use."

Air Force Announces Command Changes

BRYAN, April 24 (AP)—The 77th Flying Training wing will be located at Bryan Army air field effective April 29, officials announced today.

The wing, formerly at Foster Field, Victoria, Tex., will be under the command of Col. Jos. B. Duckworth.

Brig. Gen. John F. Egan, former commanding general of the 77th, will assume command of the 33rd Flying Training wing April 29.

Gholson, Fonville Quit OPA And Rumors Say Two Others To Resign

Announcement at noon yesterday of the resignation of Howard R. Gholson as director of the West Texas District of the Office of Price Administration, late Tuesday was followed by resignation of Ely Fonville as district rationing officer, and by rumors that at least two other top-flight district executives would resign within the near future.

The other two resignations anticipated at OPA district headquarters in the Lubbock National building are those of Owen McWhorter, chief of the legal division and principal advisor to Gholson on matters of policy; and Earl Kerr, supervisor of boards in the 71 counties of the district.

Gholson's resignation has been officially handed to William A. Orth, director of the six-state Dallas OPA region, and Fonville's resignation is in the hands of Gholson as district director.

The Morning Avalanche has known for some time that all four men desired to return to private business, but the Gholson resignation followed recent differences between the Lubbock and Dallas offices over matters of policy. The break came when the Dallas office filed misdemeanor charges against the three-man gasoline panel in El Paso, which touched off almost a community-wide revolt in the Border City and resulted in El Paso business and civic leaders appealing directly to OPA Administrator Chester Bowles, in Washington, to veto action of the Dallas regional office.

El Paso newspapers described the El Paso panel as being composed of three of the best citizens of that community; charged they were unjustly dealt with and printed statements by leaders and civic clubs upholding the men and condemning the action of the Dallas office. OPA officials here felt that while the men of the El Paso panel did not keep all records as prescribed by OPA regulations, there was no intent to misuse their power.

Miller Expected Here

Indications were that Gholson's successor, temporarily at least, would be J. Bryan Miller, executive officer of the regional set-up in Dallas. Miller temporarily filled a similar vacancy in Fort Worth some months ago. He served as city manager here from May 9, 1930, until Apr. 14, 1931. His resignation as city manager here was described at the time as "mutually agreeable to both Miller and the City commission." Later he was city manager at Wichita Falls and at least one other Texas city. He is third ranking official in the regional office, Orth and Charles Braun, board operations executive, being the other two. Orth and Braun were WPA executives in the days of that government bureau.

Gholson said his resignation would become effective on May 12 and that he would return to the oil business, in which he was

History's Greatest Harvest Of 'Grapes Of Wrath' Moves Endlessly Over Europe

By KENNETH L. DIXON
Associated Press Staff Writer

IN GERMANY — It isn't new or original to say that history's greatest harvest of human "grapes of wrath" is moving slowly in endless streams along every road in central and western Europe.

Kenneth Dixon

American doughboys have said it so often that perhaps it should be put on record for that reason alone. But until you've seen it, you find it impossible to believe.

Like the chief characters of John Steinbeck's famous book, these literal millions of homeless waifs of war are wandering in hopes of finding some place where they will have a chance for food, shelter and livelihood.

They are slave laborers, freed prisoners of war, political convicts and homeless civilians of many countries. Some are returning to their homes after years of war and imprisonment. Many are well acquainted with Nazi concentration camps and internment stations.

They differ from Steinbeck's characters in that they do not have even decrepit wheezing cars or trucks on which to pile their belongings—and their belongings are so meager most of them can carry them on their backs or pull them along in small carts and wagons.

They're all walking. At first you don't think so much about it as you ride eastward in a jeep, meeting the endless streams flowing westward. But after you ride hundreds of miles for hours, and even days, you begin to realize the extent of the footsore journey ahead of these people.

It would be bad enough if they were healthy and if this were warm summertime. Unfortunately, neither is true.

They're weak and emaciated. Many were half-starved for months or years. They're terrifically hungry—which is an immediate pain. Many are sick or wounded. Their clothing is tattered patchwork, the remnants of uniforms of a dozen different armies.

It becomes painfully cold at nights. You can sleep under two

Plain People Hold Highest Stakes In World Conference

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

EN ROUTE TO SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—With the highest hopes, the plain people of this country and the world look to the United Nations conference opening in San Francisco Wednesday.

The plain people suffer most from the wars. They give their sons; they have their homes bombed; they wander desolate and hungry, as I saw them recently in Europe; they are imprisoned in foul places and die like animals, as they did under the Nazi tyranny just revealed in all its horror.

It is these people who will be watching when the world's diplomats gather.

Their voices must be heard.

The political leaders and the diplomats assemble under auspices outwardly propitious on several counts, much more so than for those who met in the gilded halls of Versailles a quarter century ago, and failed to find the answer.

It is fortunate, for example, that this conference is being held now, in the flush of victory, before the war is over and disillusion has wormed its way into the weary souls of the people and their fighting men.

It is an advantage, too, that this conference meets after long preliminary preparation, after full public discussion of the necessity of an organization among nations to quash future aggression at its source, after a process of education such as did not precede the Versailles conference.

It is good, too, that this confer-

House Group Urges Ruthlessness If Needed Against War Criminals

WASHINGTON, April 24. (AP)—The House Foreign Affairs committee called upon the government today to use arms and ignore treaties if necessary to pursue any Nazi war criminals who seek safety in neutral countries.

The committee adopted a resolution expressing the sense of Congress that no perpetrator of atrocities be permitted to find sanctuary behind neutral borders, as the Kaiser did after the last war.

Warning To Neutrals

The resolution must be approved by both branches of Congress. It does not have the force of law, but is strongly-worded advice to the executive branch of government.

"This," said Rep. Luther Johnson (D-Tex), acting chairman of the committee, "is a warning to neutral countries not to shelter Nazi criminals."

Written by Rep. King (D-Calif), the resolution came out of the committee after a group of Congress members went to Europe to inspect Nazi atrocity camps.

A clause pointed at Hitler and other leaders of the Nazi party, says no one should escape punishment on the ground that his crimes were committed as "acts of state."

In its strongest paragraph the resolution calls upon the government to make it an expressed policy to cross neutral borders, if necessary.

Use Any Necessary Means

It asks the United States to join other Allies "in the use of such means as may be necessary —irrespective of the limitations of any treaties of extradition—to secure the person or property of those persons determined to be war criminals who have already fled or who may hereafter flee to any neutral nation, or any other nation that may harbor them or afford them a place of asylum."

The committee killed, by tabling, a resolution offered by Rep. Celler (D-NY) which would have requested the President to appoint a special commission to work with the United Nations War Crimes commission in defining war crimes.

GI Joe Has No. 1 Priority On Nurse Service, Lt. Says

"The GI Joe who has paid the price of battle injuries has No. 1 priority on nursing service," 1st Lt. Isabelle Diehl, who has served overseas 26 months and now is an Army procurement nurse of the Eighth Service command, said in Lubbock Tuesday afternoon.

The need for nurses is desperate and the Army is calling for 60,000, she said.

The surgeon-general's office and the American Nurses association have proclaimed that, "Nursing is now a rationed service."

260,000 In Nation

There are sufficient nurses in the nation, the latest figure on Jan. 1, 1945 giving the total as 260,000, exclusive of those in the Army and Navy nurse corps, Lt. Diehl said.

In order to make enough nurses available to care for returning battle casualties and to go to the battle areas, "It means that every operation that can be should be put off until after the war; those who can stay home from hospitals should do so; and that volunteer organizations, the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and nurses aides, should be used in hospitals," said Lt. Diehl said.

"The need is going to continue. If the Armistice could be signed tomorrow, we still would need nurses because of reconstruction work being done to return soldiers to civilian lift as nearly the way they left it as possible." Skin grafting, plastic surgery and nerve treatment require months, for instance, she said.

To Stay Until Sunday

Lt. Diehl is to remain here until Sunday. She may be reached at the Red Cross office or the Hilton hotel.

The primary qualifications for enlistment in the nurse corps are that a person be under 45, with no dependents under 14, be registered as a nurse in some state, and be a graduate of an approved school of nursing or having satisfactory supplemental experience.

Lt. Diehl talked before a meeting of district 18, Texas Graduate Nurses association, Tuesday night.

Lt. Diehl served in New Zealand and the Fiji islands from June of 1942 to last fall.

She has found the Army considerate of its nurses. "We were the first ones to get showers, the first to get grass huts, ahead of the officers," she said of the Fiji island service.

Plan Okinawa Developments

(By The Associated Press)

YONTAN AIRFIELD, Okinawa, Ryukyu Islands, April 23 (Delayed)—There's more room for American military development on Okinawa for the offensive against Japan than U. S. commanders had expected to find, Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz said here today at the conclusion of a two day visit.

Development will get underway immediately and "proceed very rapidly" the naval commander said.

Nimitz said that between B-29 raids on Japanese aircraft plants and Nipponese aerial losses in the Okinawa operation "we are at last destroying more planes than they are building.

"The Jap surface force, though still capable of making an attack, is not a serious threat. These forces will be hunted by air as soon as we get fields to base the planes we now have ready."

"Acquisition of Okinawa will permit us to project our sea and air power to the China coast and the Japanese homeland and will speed up future operations.

"We fully expect help from Europe as soon as fighting there permits the withdrawal of forces. We will welcome B-17s and B-24s but we must build fields first. We have planes waiting in rear areas already to be used as soon as fields are available."

Nimitz said the purpose of his visit was to confer with "the three top commanders here."

Number Of Burials Is Less At Belsen

BELSEN CONCENTRATION CAMP, Germany, April 24 (AP)—Life was beginning to overtake death here today—but only just beginning.

The burial pits were still receiving their mounds of nameless dead, but by the hundreds now instead of thousands.

Yesterday approximately 1,600 persons were buried.

However, authorities estimate that between 300 and 400 persons still are dying daily from the effects of starvation deliberately imposed upon them by the S.S.

It is still not possible to walk 50 yards without seeing dead and dying and you still can not escape the stench of burning rags and rotting flesh and the evil smell of sickness. But long huts and the earth around them, once covered with corpses and filthy rags and an unimaginable collection of trash, have been swept clean.

Negro In Jail On Burglary Charge

LAMESA, April 24 (Special) — A 28-year-old negro, L. I. James, is held in Dawson county jail in connection with a charge of burglary Friday night of S. J. Jordan Trucking company in Lamesa.

Twice he had served penitentiary terms,, from Tahoka and Pecos, officials said, and Sheriff Buck Bennett indicated possibility of an habitual criminal charge against him.

Tires taken in the burgary had not been recovered, it was announced.

More Applications Filed For Drilling

AUSTIN, April 24 (AP)—A total of 1929 drilling applications for this year to date was reported yesterday by the oil and gas division of the railroad commission. This compares with a total of 1855 for the same period in 1944.

There was only one wildcat drilled last week, bringing the total this year to 42 against 53 for 1944.

There were 83 oil well completions and 26 gas well completions last week, making a total of 1202 oil well and 196 gas well completions for this year as compared with 978 oil and 71 gas wells for the same period last year.

How to catch RED POINTS with a can opener!

WHEN YOU OPEN a can of sardines for sandwiches or snacks, pour the oil into the fat-salvage can. (Every drop of fat and oil is vitally important!)

DO THE SAME with the canned salmon you open for your salad or casserole. (Too little to count? Don't you believe it.)

HOT DOGS DE LUXE! Save the water you cook them in. Chill it and scoop off the congealed fat. (Every bit of fat you can save is wanted.)

YOU NEED THE RED POINTS—your country needs your used fats to help make medicines, military and civilian soaps, tanks, explosives, paints and other essentials. So, whether you cook for one or six, save every drop every day! When the can is full, take it to your meat dealer and collect your 2 red points and 4 cents for every pound. This message has been approved by WFA and OPA and paid for by Industry.

Put your car on a pedestal!

THE LADIES, bless 'em . . . so frequently placed on a pedestal themselves . . . are playing a most important part in seeing that the family car gets regular lubrication and maintenance service.

American wives, experts in balancing the family budget, know that the war effort requires careful budgeting of every mile remaining in both cars and tires. They realize that "Care for your car—for your country" is more than a slogan; that it is an absolute must, if the threatened breakdown in homefront transportation is to be prevented.

That is why they so regularly remind Friend Husband to change oil, to check tires, to get regular and complete chassis lubrication.

And we'd like to remind you that your Phillips 66 Service Man is waiting and ready to do his patriotic part to help make your car and tires last longer and go farther.

Second Soviet-American Junction In Bavaria Takes Shape On Maps

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

A second Russian-American junction — before the first has been formally announced — is fast taking shape on the war maps.

Indicated to occur in Bavaria, it would slit the dismembered German Reich apart north and south from the Elbe estuary to the Alps as it is now bisected for all practical purposes from east to west on the middle Elbe.

SIMPSON

Just where or when it will come, whether near the Hitlerian mountain lair of Bechtesgarden or north of that in the valley of the upper Danube, is not clear. There can be small doubt, however, that a friendly Russian-American foot race is on to be first to clamp a steel trap on the Salzburg-Berchtesgaden Nazi citadel and perhaps snare the master Nazi himself.

Beyond Regensbury

That can be read into disclosure that General Patton's lunging Third Army advance guards have reached beyond Regensburg, Danubian transportation hub less than 100 miles air line from Salzburg.

Once over the Danube there are no serious terrain obstacles except the Danube tributaries, the Inn and the Isar, to hold up a swift Third Army dash to Salzburg and Berchtesgaden, a half score miles south of that city in the Bavarian Alps.

Nazi bulletins placed the southern prong of a twin Russian thrust could be either Salzburg and Berchtesgaden, or a junction with Patton's men somewhere south of the Danube.

That would split all that is left of Hitler's Reich in German hands into three major segments, north, central and south, for final mopping up purposes. It would also end any possibility of a prolonged last Nazi stand in the Bavarian redoubt.

North-South Bisected

So far as the Allied front from the Elbe estuary to the Regensburg area on the upper Danube can be traced at this moment, it represents a north-south bisection of Germany on a more or less straight line of which a Russian-American junction south of the Danube at Salzburg or some point north of it would be an extension.

Yalta terms appear to have something to do with delay in the awaited official three-power announcement of the first Allied-Russian junction in Germany. Press advices from the American fronts indicate observer belief it has already been achieved. There seems no other logical explanation of the delay except that agreements reached at Yalta as to Russian and Allied agreed zones of occupation in Germany have some relation to the matter.

Lubbock Flier Aids Blinded Pilot Back To Safe Landing

Mrs. Arthur T. Cocanougher of 1711 Fourteenth was overjoyed to learn by press and radio Tuesday of another of her Navy flier-son's feats—but was happier over getting some sort of news from him.

Pulling out of a dive on a Japanese-held airfield, Lt. Ralph K. Cocanougher and Lt. C. J. Chambers of Bakersfield, Calif., saw a carrier plane flying aimlessly in a dangerous area. They approached and found the pilot had been temporarily blinded by blood from flak wounds.

Cocanougher flew ahead of the flier, who was not identified, and Chambers took the rear position. The wounded pilot was guided by their plane radio to Yontan airfield on Okinawa, since they felt a carrier landing would be impossible. Although he made a crash landing he was not injured further.

Mrs. Cocanougher told The Avalanche that she had had no mail from Ralph for the past 24 days and was becoming worried about him.

Lt. Cocanougher is on his "second time out" in the Pacific, having previously served with "The Bombing Seventeen" of Task Force 58, last year before returning to the States and transferring to a fighter squadron.

Graduating from Lubbock High school, he had attended Texas Tech two years before entering service on June 1, 1942. He received training at Grand Prairie and Corpus Christi, receiving his wings and commission, Feb. 26, 1943.

He wears the Air Medal and three major battle stars on his ribbons. The Air Medal was awarded for sinking a Jap ship, Feb. 16, 1944.

Views Given On Nazi Prisoners

LONDON, April 24. (U.P.)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill confirmed today that the Allies' intention is to keep in internment all German commissioned officers and known Nazis as long as any guerilla warfare is carried out against allied troops in Germany after the war is officially declared ended.

The confirmation was made in Commons when a member asked Churchill if he would recommend such a procedure to the Allies.

"I have never heard that the Allies have ever had any other intntion," Churchill replied.

Rejects Retaliation

War Minister Sir James Grigg, meanwhile, rejected what he said were suggestions in Commons that the Allies take retaliatory measures against Nazi prisoners of war.

Grigg said a large number of British and Allied prisoners still were in German hands. He emphasized that Britain intends to adhere to the Geneva convention in the treatment of all prisoners.

"I think it would be very doubtful whether the house would wish to imitate the Germans or the Japanese in repudiation of international obligations," Grigg said in answer to a question.

A member of the nationalist party had asked the war minister to "take notice" of a strong feeling in certain parts of the house that the British should make themselves like the Germans in the treatment of war prisoners.

Cheer...
When you taste this better Kind of Coffee

What a difference . . . a different coffee . . . can make!

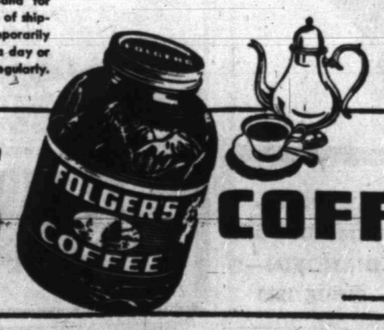

YOU may not realize what a gloom chaser — what a spirit-lifter — coffee can be—until you taste the miracle of flavor in Folger's! It's so good—so wonderfully delicious—you feel cheered and exhilarated when you taste it!

Your very first sip of Folger's Coffee tells you it's not just another brand—but a special kind of coffee. The special Folger Flavor is created by unique blending of rare coffees from tropical mountains—from the coffee growing Paradise of the world—where sun and soil and rainfall develop richer flavor in coffee.

You cheer your family at every meal by serving this vigorous-flavored, mountain grown coffee. Folger's is loved and looked forward to in many thousands of homes where they say no other coffee has a flavor quite like Folger's.

So flavorful you should try using ¼ less per cup.

NOTICE—Due to the increasing demand for Folger's Coffee and temporary shortages of shipping materials, your grocer may be temporarily out of Folger's—but please ask again in a day or two as Folger's Coffee is being shipped regularly.

CHANGE ABOUT — When a movie star is definitely typed, it is extremely difficult for him to convince his producers and his ever loving public that he can play any other role. That was what Dick Powell ran up against when he decided he wanted to cast off the burden of musical comedies and play the role of a hardened private detective in "Murder, My Sweet," which was shown at the Palace early this week.

So successful was Mr. Powell in his picture which is hitting a new high in box office receipts around the country, he may be signed for a new radio suspense show, which will be based on the currently popular theme of violence.

It's too bad if you missed that hard-boiled picture if you care for a murder mystery depicted in modernistic surroundings by complicated folk and with dialogue as fresh as this morning's headlines. We haven't cared for Dick Powell's voice since that fateful night years ago when he lost it in the middle of a song over a national network. Something was lost in the recovery of his voice. He sings, yes, but his voice lacks that fresh and pure quality that once characterized it. We honestly believe he has successfully broken with his moon, june, croon roles and from now on will get a deserved break in the blood thirsty department.

If you missed the picture this week, we suggest you catch it on the re-run. Dick Powell in his role of dective Marlowe reminded the Woman's Angle of a few clever and perhaps "uppity" reporters we have known; the sort of a fellow you alternate in wanting to commend and to use brass knuckles on.

FATE INTERVENED

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S death cut short the plans of President Harry S. Truman to visit Texas within the near future, it was divulged in Dallas Tuesday. W. H. Kittrell, sr., Dallasite now assigned as transportation officer for the world security conference at San Francisco, said in a brief stopover there, that Truman would have left for Texas within a few days had not Mr. Roosevelt's death elevated him to the presidency.

Kittrell said that the then-vice president was to have been a guest of Arch S. Underwood, Lubbock and Athens cotton man, at the Underwood lake home near Athens.

When President Truman visited Lubbock last April he was a guest in the Underwood home.

Rubinoff was at the base to play three week end concerts for the field personnel.

WHICH IS YOURS? — John Frederics says you can change your facial contour by a clever combination of light and dark foundation creams. His rule: Light lengthens and reveals. Dark shortens and conceals. Thus, if you have a triangular face, use a light foundation cream on chin and lower cheeks—dark or medium on the rest of the face. This adds fullness.

If your face is round apply dark foundation to lower cheeks tapering toward the chin, for a desired oval shape. If oblong—spread entire chin and jaws with dark foundation. The result is a foreshortening of the lower features. If your forehead is too deep, use a darker base than you do on the rest of your face.

Playing Auditions To Start Today

With Dean Clarence Burg of Oklahoma City university as judge, annual piano playing auditions for student pianists will open today at Hotel Lubbock. Mrs. B. H. Meskimen is local chairman of the auditions which are being held in 176 music centers from Maine to California also. Auditions for this area will run through Saturday. Hundreds of student pianists of various ages and stages of advancement from beginner to young artist will have auditions with Dean Burg, eminent music educator. The students will be honored on the basis of individual merit.

The country-wide movement is sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers with the local chapter in charge here.

Speculation On Adolf Continues As Reds Batter Way Into Berlin

By JAMES M. LONG
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, April 24.—Adolf Hitler apparently has abandoned the crumbling shell of his former capital, Berlin, for the hideaway safety of Berchtesgaden, the nearest thing to a seat of government the Reich has left.

The Hamburg radio boasted that the fuehrer remained in Berlin directing the fight against the crushing Russian armies.

That was unlikely—how unlikely is best demonstrated on the American front where the whole weight of the assault shifted abruptly to the southeast and already is battering against the outer ramparts of Nazidom's final fortress in the mountains from Lake Constance to Berchtesgaden itself.

May Cut Off "Snakes Head"

The changed direction of the assault reflected clearly a belief that by getting into the Nazi nest there now, it might be possible to cut off the "head of the snake" and thus sooner stop its tail from thrashing in western Holland, the north German ports, Denmark and Norway.

It was regarded as hardly likely that Hitler would have stocked his southern redoubt, moved his government there office by office, and ordered his henchmen and war criminal-doomed SS (Elite Guard) members to rally there unless he expected to make it his final stand.

Weeks ago government agencies and offices were moved to Thuringia but the American drive through the middle of the Reich forced them to flee again. This time the whole administration went into the Bavarian redoubt.

Source Of Rumors

Most rumors came from Stockholm, Zurich and continental radios.

Moscow took it calmly. Dispatches from Stalin's capital said the Red Army had orders to take Hitler alive if possible—if he was found in Berlin. The Moscow radio indicated a belief that Hitler had gone to Bavaria to gather in the remaining Nazi faithful and organize a "childrens army."

"Hitler received the Hitler youth leader, Arthur Axmann, at his secret headquarters a few days ago," said this Russian broadcast, "and ordered him to recruit at once 50,000 children who are to be brought to the Bavarian redoubt and there trained and organized into death battalions.

The Stockholm newspaper Tigningen, said Hitler still was in Berlin Sunday night and indicated belief in reports that he would stay there to the finish.

Said Gone To Salzberg

The Swiss press said Hitler had gone to Salzberg.

The Nazi version was reiterated today by propagandist Dr. Otto Kriegk on the Hamburg radio.

"Everybody knows," he said, "that the fuehrer is standing in the midst of the German capital commanding defense forces which the Russians cannot yet estimate."

If Hitler has gone to his Bavarian hideout it is doubtful whether he will flee again. There is no place else to go.

There, in the final collapse of the mountain fortress, he may be: Captured and brought to trial before a world tribunal of justice; assassinated in a final breakup of his cornered henchmen; or found dead by his own hand in a last bid for martyrdom.

PRISONER SOUGHT

SAN ANTONIO, April 24 (AP) Bexar county deputy sheriffs and FBI agents were searching the Medina river section near Thelma, 17 miles south of here, today for Pfc. Paul Gora, German prisoner of war who escaped from the camp at Fort Sam Houston last Friday.

Problems Confronting Conference Discussed At Lions Luncheon

A discussion of the problems confronting the United Nations conference opening today in San Francisco was heard by members of Lubbock Lions club in their luncheon at the Hilton Tuesday noon.

Speakers who discussed four questions involved in the problems, were: Robt. H. Bean, Judge G. V. Pardue, Paul Castleberry and Rev. Floyd Dawson. Geo. Young was program chairman.

Bean opened the discussion by pointing out that the Jap invasion of Manchuria, the Italian conquest of Ethiopia and the Spanish civil war were all preludes to the present conflict and declared that machinery must be set up in the conference to carry out the declarations of the Atlantic Charter.

Pardue said it was just as necessary that we have an international organization or police force to maintain peace as it is for us to have a local police force to maintain peace as the peace of a neighborhood may be likened to the peace of the neighborhood of nations.

Castleberry declared that two alternatives have been suggested in place of the Dumbarton Oaks plan, one the creation of a world state and the other the creation of a world federation but that it was doubtful if the world was ready to go as far with the proposals as to give away certain sovereignties in the creation of the world organization. He said the entire situation hinges on the ability of the Big Three to get along.

Rev. Dawson pointed out "that if we're going to have a world organization of any kind, we're going to have to pay for it." He suggested a world court setup similar to our Supreme court but declared that we will have to accept the judgment of the court of nations instead of trying to be the judges ourselves.

Prior to the talks, Lt. Richard Chamberlain sang two numbers, accompanied at the piano by Sgt. Alice Ward. Alvin F. Hamm of Lorenzo and P. C. Harbour of Odessa were out-of-town visitors at the luncheon. F. K. Luther and Julian E. Ward were introduced as new members.

Prayers For Success Of Conference Will Be Given Tonight

The First Presbyterian church will remember the United Nations conference, which opens today in San Francisco, at a special prayer service tonight at 7:30 o'clock, Dr. J. M. Lewis, pastor, announced.

Dr. Lewis said the church decided to have the service in response to a call today from Dr. Charles L. King, pastor of the Houston First Presbyterian church and moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church of the United States

"Church people everywhere should call fervently upon the great God of the nations that He might bring to a successful and far-reaching conclusion the actions of this body," Dr. Lewis said.

The public is invited to the special service. The Presbyterian church will be open all day so that those who desire may enter for a moment of private prayer and devotion.

Rev. John A. Winslow, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church, said no special prayer service was planned but there would be Holy Communion at 10 a. m. A special prayer for success of the conference will be offered.

At a regular prayer meeting of the Broadway Church of Christ tonight, special prayers will be offered in remembrance of the conference.

St. Elizabeth's church will be open, as usual, and anyone wishing to offer special prayers for the conference may do so. The regular services will be conducted at. 7 and 8 a. m.

Telephone Workers Here Get Pay Hike

Introduction of a new wage scale for employes of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company in Lubbock is expected with acceptance by the company of a War Labor Board order raising wages of non-supervisory employes, C. H. Cale, manager, said Tuesday.

The new wage scale will mean approximately $4 a week increase for employes on the weekly rate, ten cents an hour for employes on an hourly basis and approximately $17.50 for employes paid on a monthly basis.

The increase will be retroactive to Aug. 29, 1944.

LAMESA, April 24 (Special)—Patrolman R. M. King of Lamesa, a member of the Texas Highway patrol, has returned from Austin where he completed a six-day course in traffic control offered under auspices of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Eighty-Three Wells Completed In Week

AUSTIN, April 24. (AP)—Completion of 83 Texas oil wells, but one of which was a wildcat, during the past week boosted total for the year to 1,202, the state railroad commission reported today.

The aggregate compares with 978 finished during a similar period in 1944. Of the total, 24 were completed in North Texas, 21 in West Texas and 18 in Southwest Texas.

During the week 26 gas wells were completed, making a total of 196 in 1945 to 71 for a comparable period last year. Forty-three dry holes were drilled, making 557 this year to 168 in 1944.

Plane From Berlin Arrives In Sweden

STOCKHOLM, April 24. (AP) — A Lufthansa German commercial plane arrived as schedulde from Berlin today but Swedish authorities expressed the belief it probably was the "last plane from Berlin."

The plane, carrying three passengers, departed from a field northwest of Berlin, Aftonbladet said.

ORDINANCE NO. 708

AN ORDINANCE TO BETTER PROTECT THE PUBLIC HEALTH, AND PARTICULARLY TO PREVENT THE INTRODUCTION AND SPREAD OF MURINE ENDEMIC TYPHUS FEVER AND OTHER RAT-BORNE DISEASES, BY PROVIDING FOR THE RAT-PROOFING OF ALL BUILDINGS, OUTHOUSES, SUPERSTRUCTURES, STABLES, LOTS, OPEN AREAS AND OTHER PREMISES, SIDEWALKS, STREETS, AND ALLEYS; DEFINING CERTAIN TERMS; PROVIDING FOR PENALTIES FOR THE VIOLATION THEREOF; PROVIDING THAT THE INVALIDITY OF ANY PART OF THIS ORDINANCE SHALL NOT INVALIDATE ALL OF SAID ORDINANCE.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COMMISSION OF THE CITY OF LUBBOCK:

SECTION 1. DEFINITIONS: For the purpose of this ordinance, the following definitions shall apply:

(a) The term "business buildings" shall mean any structure, whether public or private, regardless of the type of material used in its construction, located within the boundaries of the City of Lubbock that is adapted to the occupancy for transaction of business, whether vacant or occupied, for the rendering of professional services, for the display, sale or storage of goods, wares or merchandise, or for the performance of work or labor, including hotels, rooming houses, beer parlors, office buildings, public buildings, stores, markets, restaurants, grain elevators and abattoirs, warehouses, workshops and factories.

(b) The term "opening" shall mean and refer to any opening in the foundation, side or walls of any business building, including roof, chimney eaves, grills, windows, sidewalk grates and sidewalk elevators, through which a rat may pass.

(c) The term "rat-stoppage" means a form of rat-proofing designed to prevent the ingress of rats into business buildings. It is essentially the closing or protecting of all openings in exterior walls and foundations or the grates in a sidewalk of business buildings with rat-proof materials installed in such a manner as to prevent rats from gaining entrance.

(d) The term "rat harborage" shall mean any condition found to exist under which rats may find shelter or protection, and shall include any defective construction which would permit the entrance of rats into any business building.

(e) The term "premises" shall include all business buildings, outhouses, sheds, barns, garages, docks, wharves, piers, grain elevators and abattoirs, whether public or private, and any and all other structures used in connection with the operation of any business building as herein defined.

(f) The term "person" shall include owner, occupant, agent, individual, partnership or corporation, or any other person in custody of any business building as defined herein.

SECTION 2. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to construct within the corporate limits of the City of Lubbock any business building, curb or farmers' market, unless such construction shall render the business building rat-proof in accordance with the regulations prescribed by this ordinance.

SECTION 3. From and after the passage of this ordinance, the City Health Officer, the Director of Public Health of the City of Lubbock, or his representative, is authorized to make frequent and unannounced inspections of existing business buildings within the corporate limits of the City of Lubbock for the purpose of determining any rat infestation, and order by written notice either the owner, occupant, agent, or any other person in custody of any rat-infested business building to protect said business building by rat-stoppage as herein provided, regardless of the need for the remodeling of or repairs to such business buildings, and further order that such other rat control methods be employed as may be deemed necessary by the Public Health Officer or his representative to maintain business buildings free from rats. The written notice and/or order shall specify the time, in no event less than fifteen (15) days, for completion of such work and improvements. Unless said work and improvements are completed in accordance with the written order and/or notice by either said owner, whether individual, partnership, corporation, occupant, agent or any other person in custody of the business building within the time so specified or within the time to which a written extension has been granted by the Public Health Officer, or his representative, then, in such event, the owner, occupant, agent or any other person in custody of the building shall be deemed guilty of an offense under the provisions of this ordinance.

SECTION 4. That from and after the passage of this ordinance the Public Health Officer, or his representative, is authorized to make inspections during the course of and upon completion of any such construction, repairs, remodeling or installation of rat-control measures to business buildings to insure compliance with the provisions of this ordinance, and no person shall interfere with or refuse to permit such inspection.

SECTION 5. That for the purpose of obtaining maximum rat-stoppage at a minimum cost to the owner or occupant of business buildings, the following regulations are set forth as the minimum requirements for applying rat-stoppage to business buildings:

(a) The Public Health Officer or his representative shall approve all materials used and the method of installation.

(b) Solid sheet metal, expanded metal and wire cloth specified in these regulations shall have a rust-resisting, protective coating, preferably galvanized.

(c) All foundation wall ventilator openings shall be covered for their entire height and width with perforated sheet metal plates of a thickness not less than fourteen (14) gauge, or with expanded sheet metal of a thickness not less than eighteen (18) gauze, or with cast iron grills or grates, or with any other material of sufficient strength and equal rat-resisting properties. The openings therein shall be small enough to prevent the ingress of rats, and in no instance shall be larger than one-half (½) inch.

(d) All foundations and exterior wall openings, excluding those used for the purpose of ventilation, light, doors, and windows, such as those openings around pipes, electric cables, conduits, openings due to deteriorated wall, broken masonry or concrete, shall be protected against the ingress of rats by closing such openings with cement mortar, concrete or masonry, or close-fitting sheet metal or suitable size pipe flanges or other material with equal rat-resisting properties, which shall be securely fastened in place.

(e) All exposed edges of the lower eight (8") inches of wooden doors and door jambs, serving as front, rear or side entrances into business buildings from the ground, basement or cellar floors, and other doors accessible to rats, shall be protected against the gnawing of rats by covering said doors and jambs with solid sheet metal of not less than twenty-four (24) gauge thickness. The same material shall be used on door sills or thresholds, or such door sills or thresholds may be constructed of cement, stone, steel or cast iron.

Doors, door jambs and sills of coal chutes and hatchways that are constructed of wood shall be covered with solid sheet metal of twenty-four (24) gauge or heavier, or they may be replaced with metal chutes of twenty-four (24) gauge or heavier installed in such manner as will prevent the ingress of rats.

All doors on which metal flashing has been applied shall be properly hinged to provide for free swinging. When closed, doors shall fit snugly so that the maximum clearance between any door, door jambs and sill shall not be greater than three-eighths (⅜") inch.

Door jambs and sills constructed of metal, concrete, masonry, stone or cement mortar, or cast iron and steel, when fitting closely to exclude rats, are not required to comply with this provision of the ordinance.

(f) Windows — All windows and other openings for the purpose of light or ventilation located in the side or rear of exterior walls and within thirty (30") inches above the existing ground level immediately below such opening, shall be covered for their entire height and width, including frame, with wire cloth of nineteen (19) gauge or heavier, having a mesh of not larger than one-half (½") inch.

All window and other openings for the purpose of light or ventilation in the exterior walls that may be accessible to rats by way of exposed pipes, wires, conduits and other appurtenances, shall be covered with guards of wire cloth of nineteen (19) gauge or heavier, having a mesh of not larger than one-half (½") inch, or, in lieu of wire cloth covering, said pipes, wires, conduits and other appurtenances shall be blocked from rat usage by installing sheet metal guards of twenty-four (24) gauge or heavier. Such guards when used on horizontal pipes, wires, conduits or other appurtenances shall be placed in a vertical position, and shall be snugly fitted around the pipe, wire, conduit or other appurtenance. Said guard shall measure not less than twelve (12") inches beyond and on all sides of the pipe, wire, conduit or other appurtenance where the intervening space between the wall and pipe permits, and shall extend thirty (30") inches in an upward direction and twelve (12") inches in a downward direction, and shall be securely fastened to the pipe, wire, conduit or other appurtenance and also to the adjacent wall wherever practicable so that the guard will remain in a vertical position at all times.

Such guards when used on vertical pipes, wires, conduits or other appurtenances shall be fitted snugly around the pipe, wire, conduit or other appurtenance, shall be placed in a horizontal position, right angle to pipe, etc., and shall extend horizontally from the pipe, wire, conduit or other appurtenance for a minimum distance of twelve (12") inches beyond and on all sides of the pipe, wire, conduit or other appurtenance, where the intervening space between pipe and wall permits, and shall be securely fastened to the pipe, wire, conduit or other appurtenance and also to the adjacent wall wherever practicable in such manner that the guard will remain in a horizontal position at all times.

(g) Light wells with windows in exterior walls that are located below the out side ground level shall be protected from the ingress of rats by one of the following methods:

(1). Installing over light wells cast iron or steel grills or steel gratings, or other material of equal strength and rat-resisting properties, with opening in grills or gratings not to exceed one-half (½") inch in shortest dimension.

(2). Installing securely to and completely covering existing metal grills that are broken or have openings larger than one-half (½") inch in shortest dimension, or otherwise defective, with expanded metal of eighteen (18) gauge or heavier, having openings not greater than one-half (½") inch in shortest dimension, or with sixteen (16) gauge or heavier wire cloth with one-half (½") inch mesh.

At the option of the owner the opening in the wall of the building below the grade may be entirely closed with brick or concrete or partially closed and the remaining open space covered with nineteen (19) gauge or heavier wire cloth with mesh not to exceed one-half (½") inch.

(h) Business buildings constructed on piers having wooden floor sills less than twelve (12") inches above the surface of the ground shall have the intervening space between floor sill and ground protected against the ingress of rats by installing a solid masonry, or concrete not less than four (4") inches thick or solid sheet metal curtain wall of twenty-four (24) gauge or heavier around the entire perimeter of the business building and extending said curtain wall to a depth of not less than thirty-six (36") inches below the surface of the ground level and fastening securely to the exterior wall of the business building, in such manner as will prevent rats from entering the building.

In lieu of the installation of curtain walls, all ground floors of wood construction may be replaced with concrete of not less than three (3") inches in thickness with the exterior walls protected for a height of twenty-four (24") inches above the concrete floor with masonry, concrete or solid sheet metal of twenty-four (24) gauge or heavier. Exterior wall protection shall be securely tied into the concrete floor at all points.

Business buildings constructed on piers having wooden floor sills greater than twelve (12") inches above the ground level shall have the intervening spaces between floor sill and ground protected against the ingress of rats by installing curtain walls in accordance with the preceding paragraph or by protecting said business buildings against the ingress of rats by installing solid sheet metal coverage of twenty-four (24) gauge or heavier snugly around each pipe, cable, wire, conduit or other utility service passing through wooden ground floor. Said metal coverage shall not be less than eight (8") inches in diameter larger than diameter of pipe, cable, wire, conduit or other utility service, and shall be securely fastened to the wooden floor. All other openings in wooden ground floors through which rats may gain entrance into double walls or the interior of business buildings, such as openings that may exist in floors and double walls above floor sills, shall be closed with twenty-four (24) gauge or heavier solid sheet metal or sixteen (16) gauge or heavier wire cloth of one-half (½") inch mesh or with concrete or masonry. Wood frame constructed business buildings having concrete or masonry foundation walls shall have ventilators in foundation walls protected as herein provided in Section 5 (d). All miscellaneous wall openings, doors and windows shall be protected in accordance with this ordinance.

SECTION 6. Curb or farmers' markets in which fruit or vegetables or any other food products are exposed and offered for sale, on racks, stands, platforms and in vehicles outside of business buildings, shall have floors paved with concrete or asphalt for the entire surface area of the market. Display racks, stands or platforms on which fruit or vegetables or any other food products are displayed or offered for sale shall be of sufficient height that all such fruit, vegetables or other food products shall be kept at a distance of not less than eighteen (18") inches above the floor pavement and be so constructed that rats cannot harbor therein or thereunder.

SECTION 7. or the purpose of eliminating all rats that may remain in any business building or place of business after rat-stoppage shall have been carried into effect, all store rooms, warehouses or other business buildings in the City shall be provided by the owner, occupant, agent or any other person in custody of such business building with one or more traps, which shall be kept set and freshly baited at frequent intervals and maintained in good working condition, and shall be inspected daily, and any rat or rats caught therein shall be killed, removed daily and disposed of in a manner acceptable to the City Health Officer or the Director of Public Health, and such trap or traps reset and rebaited.

Rats may also be destroyed by poisoning and fumigating in the manner approved by the City Health Officer or the Director of Public Health, or any other authorized agency of the United States Public Health Service, or the State Board of Health and subject to applicable laws and ordinances relating to poisonous substantances and fumigators.

SECTION 8. In order to protect business buildings from what is commonly called the climbing or roof rat, it shall be unlawful to permit fishing poles, ladders, or any other object that a rat could climb on in order to reach the roof of any business building, to lean against the side or walls of such business buildings.

The owner of business buildings shall also protect elevator shafts, fire escapes and guy wires in such manner that rats will not be able to gain ingress into any business building.

It shall be the duty of any person in charge of a business building as herein defined to trim the branches of all trees extending over and against any business building, and same shall be cut and trimmed and kept trimmed and cut so that no part of any branch or any part of said tree shall be closer than ten (10') feet to any business building, and the tops of all trees shall be cut back ten (10') feet from a line extending perpendicularly from any exterior wall of a business building.

SECTION 9. When the City Health Officer or the Director of Public Health shall find any building, structure, or premises so heavily infested with rats resulting in a present menace to public health, he shall have authority to close the same to any occupancy or use, until rats have been eradicated, or, while rats are being eradicated.

SECTION 10. It shall be unlawful for any person to use or maintain any business buildings or premises in such manner that a rat harborage is brought into existence or maintained.

SECTION 11. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to dump or place on any land or on any water or waterway within the City, any dead animal, butchers' offal, seafood, or any waste vegetables, animal matter or any food products whatsoever.

SECTION 12. No garbage, rubbish, waste or manure shall be placed, left, dumped, or permitted to accumulate or remain in or on any building or premises in this City so that same shall or may afford food for or a harboring or breeding place for rats. Rat burrows and other exterior harborage shall be treated under methods directed by the City Health Officer or the Director of Public Health.

SECTION 13. It shall be unlawful for any person to permit any premises, improved or unimproved, and all open lots and alleys in the City of Lubbock, to accumulate lumber, boxes, barrels, bricks or stones and similar materials that may be permitted to remain thereon and that may be used as a harborage by rats, unless same shall be placed on open racks and elevated not less than eighteen (18") inches above the ground, with a clear intervening space underneath, to prevent the harborage of rats.

SECTION 14. Penalty: Any person who shall violate any provision or provision of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished by fine of not more than One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars. Each day of violation shall constitute a separate offense.

SECTION 15. Repeal Clause: All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed to the extent of such conflict only.

SECTION 16. Savings Clause: If any section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase of this ordinance is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, void or invalid, the validity of the remaining portions of this ordinance shall not be affected thereby, it being the intent of the City Commission of the City of Lubbock in adopting and approving this ordinance that no portion hereof or provision or regulation contained herein shall become inoperative or fail by reason of any unconstitutionality or invalidity of any other portion or provision or regulation.

Passed and approved by the City Commission of the City of Lubbock, Texas, this 22nd day of March, 1945.

Passed and approved by the City Commission of the City of Lubbock, Texas, second reading, this 13th day of April, 1945.

Lease Of Surplus War Plants Is Recommended By Attorney General

WASHINGTON, April 24. (AP)—Attorney General Francis Biddle today recommended the lease of surplus war plants rather than their immediate sale in order to make a fairer determination of their ultimate price and to encourage bidding by small business.

Biddle emphasized that "the disposal of surplus property involves much more than merely an attempt to get the best price for the government or to sell the property to the highest bidder."

The value of the property should be determined by its facilities for providing employment and opportunity for new enterprise, he said. The bid of a purchaser who intends to close a plant to keep it out of competition should be rejected, he maintained.

Makes Recommendations

The attorney general's recommendations were made in his third report to Congress on the disposition of government-owned property. They included:

1. Immediate formation of a program to dispose of surplus war plants to alleviate uncertainty as to peacetime production.

2. An immediate economic and engineering survey by the surplus property board of war plants which have been or may be declared surplus.

3. A program permitting "as little speculation as possible" by independent enterprise or by the government as to the price to be paid.

4. Organization of local committees to survey their needs and opportunities for business development.

Options Suggested

5. Lease rather than early sale of surplus plants. He suggested that leases contain options for sale at a price based on leasehold earnings or to be fixed by arbitration. He also asked that bids be required to state in detail the proposed future use of plants and an estimate of the number of persons to be employed and articles to be produced.

The report was accompanied by a survey on the disposition of the $2,441,000,000 worth of surplus machine tools owned by the government. It revealed that this supply comprises 75 per cent of the most modern and efficient machine tools in the U. S.—approximately 555,000 in 10,000 plants.

City Falling Flat On Clothing Drive

Lubbock as a whole is falling flat thus far in the used clothing drive.

Its citizens have contributed only one-tenth of the 250,000-pound goal, according to F. A. Kleinschmidt, chairman of the drive.

This is the last week of the collection, the campaign to close Monday.

Kleinschmidt said that he hoped to see Lubbock ship two carloads of garments. He suggested that old, seldom-used clothing could be sorted out when moth balls are put in closets for the summer.

Clothing that will protect the wearers against the elements is what is wanted, Kleinschmidt said. Some people, he said, have given such items as open-toed shoes and straw hats.

People are urged to bring their bundles to the drive headquarters at Ninth and Texas, Lubbock Auto warehouse. Other collection points are Sear's, Ward's, the postoffice and Hilton and Lubbock hotels.

Hunters Kill 7,448 Predatory Animals

SAN ANTONIO, April 24. (AP)—A total of 7448 predatory animals, including 6592 coyotes, 665 bobcats and 191 wolves, were killed by hunters working through the federal government, state livestock sanitary commission and predatory animal control association in Texas during the first quarter of 1945, L. R. Landon, agent in charge, reported here today.

A total of 2163 head of livestock and domestic fowl was destroyed by predatory animals according to reports made by hunters and other reliable sources, Landon said.

In addition the report estimated that between 7000 and 8000 coyotes were destroyed by cooperatives in a poison campaign in South Texas counties not included in the official count.

ORDINANCE NO. 706

AN ORDINANCE TO BETTER PROTECT THE PUBLIC HEALTH, AND PARTICULARLY TO PREVENT THE INTRODUCTION AND SPREAD OF MURINE ENDEMIC TYPHUS FEVER AND OTHER RAT-BORNE DISEASES, BY PROVIDING FOR THE RAT-PROOFING OF ALL BUILDINGS, OUTHOUSES, SUPERSTRUCTURES, STABLES, LOTS, OPEN AREAS AND OTHER PREMISES, SIDEWALKS, STREETS, AND ALLEYS; DEFINING CERTAIN TERMS; PROVIDING FOR PENALTIES FOR THE VIOLATION THEREOF; PROVIDING THAT THE INVALIDITY OF ANY PART OF THIS ORDINANCE SHALL NOT INVALIDATE ALL OF SAID ORDINANCE.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COMMISSION OF THE CITY OF LUBBOCK:

SECTION 1. DEFINITIONS: For the purpose of this ordinance, the following definitions shall apply:

(a) The term "business buildings" shall mean any structure, whether public or private, regardless of the type of material used in its construction, located within the boundaries of the City of Lubbock that is adapted to the occupancy for transaction of business, whether vacant or occupied, for the rendering of professional services, for the display, sale or storage of goods, wares or merchandise, or for the performance of work or labor, including hotels, rooming houses, beer parlors, office buildings, public buildings, stores, markets, restaurants, grain elevators and abattoirs, warehouses, workshops and factories.

(b) The term "opening" shall mean and refer to any opening in the foundation, side or walls of any business building, including roof, chimney eaves, grills, windows, sidewalk grates and sidewalk elevators, through which a rat may pass.

(c) The term "rat-stoppage" means a form of rat-proofing designed to prevent the ingress of rats into business buildings. It is essentially the cloding or protecting of all openings in exterior walls and foundations or the grates in a sidewalk of business buildings with rat-proof materials installed in such a manner as to prevent rats from gaining entrance.

(d) The term "rat harborage" shall mean any condition found to exist under which rats may find shelter or protection, and shall include any defective construction which would permit the entrance of rats into any business building.

(e) The term "premises" shall include all business buildings, outhouses, sheds, barns, garages, docks, wharves, piers, grain elevators and abatoirs, whether public or private, and any and all other structures used in connection with the operation of any business building as herein defined.

(f) The term "person" shall include owner, occupant, agent, individual, partnership or corporation, or any other person in custody of any business building as defined herein.

SECTION 2. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to construct within the corporate limits of the City of Lubbock any business building, curb or farmers' market, unless such construction shall render the business building rat-proof in accordance with the regulations prescribed by this ordinance.

SECTION 3. From and after the passage of this ordinance, the City Health Officer, the Director of Public Health of the City of Lubbock, or his representative, is authorized to make frequent and unannounced inspections of existing business buildings within the corporate limits of the City of Lubbock for the purpose of determining any rat infestation, and order by written notice either the owner, occupant, agent, or any other person in custody of any rat-infested business building to protect said business building by rat-stoppage as herein provided, regardless of the need for the remodeling of or repairs to such business buildings, and further order that such other rat control methods be employed as may be deemed necessary by the Public Health Officer or his representative to maintain business buildings free from rats. The written notice and/or order shall specify the time, in no event less than fifteen (15) days, for completion of such work and improvements. Unless said work and improvements are completed in accordance with the written order and/or notice by either said owner, whether individual, partnership, corporation, occupant, agent or any other person in custody of the business building within the time so specified or within the time to which a written extension has been granted by the Public Health Officer, or his representative, then, in such event, the owner, occupant, agent or any other person in custody of the building shall be deemed guilty of an offense under the provisions of this ordinance.

SECTION 4. That from and after the passage of this ordinance the Public Health Officer, or his representative, is authorized to make inspections during the course of and upon completion of any such construction, repairs, remodeling or installation of rat-control measures to business buildings to insure compliance with the provisions of this ordinance, and no person shall interfere with or refuse to permit such inspection.

SECTION 5. That for the purpose of obtaining maximum rat-stoppage at a minimum cost to the owner or occupant of business buildings, the following regulations are set forth as the minimum requirements for applying rat-stoppage to business buildings:

(a) The Public Health Officer or his representative shall approve all materials used and the method of installation.

(b) Solid sheet metal, expanded metal and wire cloth specified in these regulations shall have a rust-resisting, protective coating, preferably galvanized.

(c) All foundation wall ventilator openings shall be covered for their entire height and width with perforated sheet metal plates of a thickness not less than fourteen (14) gauge, or with expanded sheet metal of a thickness not less than eighteen (18) gauge, or with cast iron grills or grates, or with any other material of sufficient strength and equal rat-resisting properties. The openings therein shall be small enough to prevent the ingress of rats, and in no instance shall be larger than one-half (½) inch.

(d) All foundations and exterior wall openings, excluding those used for the purpose of ventilation, light, doors, and windows, such as those openings around pipes, electric cables, conduits, openings due to deteriorated wall, broken masonry or concrete, shall be protested against the ingress of rats by closing such openings with cement mortar, concrete or masonry, or close-fitting sheet metal or suitable size pipe flanges or other material with equal rat-resisting properties, which shall be securely fastened in place.

(e) All exposed edges of the lower eight (8") inches of wooden doors and door jambs, serving as front, rear or side entrances into business buildings, from the ground, basement or cellar floors, and other doors accessible to rats, shall be protected against the gnawing of rats by covering said doors and jambs with solid sheet metal of not less than twenty-four (24) gauge thickness. The same material shall be used on door sills or thresholds, or such door sills or thresholds may be constructed of cement, stone, steel or cast iron.

Doors, door jambs and sills of coal chutes and hatchways that are constructed of wood shall be covered with solid sheet metal of twenty-four (24) gauge or heavier, or they may be replaced with metal chutes of twenty-four (24) gauge or heavier installed in such manner as will prevent the ingress of rats.

All doors on which metal flashing has been applied shall be properly hinged to provide for free swinging. When closed, doors shall fit snugly so that the maximum clearance between any door, door jambs and sill shall not be greater than three-eighths (⅜") inch.

Door jambs and sills constructed of metal, concrete, masonry, stone or cement mortar, or cast iron and steel, when fitting closely to exclude rats, are not required to comply with this provision of the ordinance.

(f) Windows — All windows and other openings for the purpose of light or ventilation located in the side or rear of exterior walls and within thirty (30") inches above the existing ground level immediately below such openings shall be covered for their entire height and width, including frame, with wire cloth of nineteen (19) gauge or heavier, having a mesh of not larger than one-half (½") inch.

All window and other openings for the purpose of light or ventilation in the exterior walls that may be accessible to rats by way of exposed pipes, wires, conduits and other appurtenances, shall be covered with guards of wire cloth of nineteen (19) gauge or heavier, having a mesh of not larger than one-half (½") inch, or, in lieu of wire cloth covering, said pipes, wires conduits and other appurtenances shall be blocked from rat usage by installing sheet metal guards of twenty-four (24) gauge or heavier. Such guards when used on horizontal pipes, wires, conduits or other appurtenances shall be placed in a vertical position, and shall be snugly fitted around the pipe, wire, conduit or other appurtenance. Said guard shall measure not less than twelve (12") inches beyond and on all sides of the pipe, wire, conduit or other appurtenance where the intervening space between the wall and pipe permits, and shall extend thirty (30") inches in an upward direction and twelve (12") inches in a downward direction, and shall be securely fastened to the pipe, wire, conduit or other appurtenance and also to the adjacent wall wherever practicable so that the guard will remain in a vertical position at all times.

Such guards when used on vertical pipes, wires, conduits or other appurtenances shall be fitted snugly around the pipe, wire, conduit or other appurtenance, shall be placed in a horizontal position (right angle to pipe, etc.), and shall extend horizontally from the pipe, wire, conduit or other appurtenance for a minimum distance of twelve (12") inches beyond and on all sides of the pipe, wire, conduit or other appurtenance, where the intervening space between pipe and wall permits, and shall be securely fastened to the pipe, wire, conduit or other appurtenance and also to the adjacent wall wherever practicable in such manner that the guard will remain in a horizontal position at all times.

(g) Light wells with windows in exterior walls that are located below the out side ground level shall be protected from the ingress of rats by one of the following methods:

(1) Installing over light wells cast iron or steel grills or steel gratings, or other material of equal strength and rat-resisting properties, with opening in grills or gratings not to exceed one-half (½") inch in shortest dimension.

(2) Installing securely to and completely covering existing metal grills that are broken or have openings larger than one-half (½") inch in shortest dimension, or otherwise defective, with expanded metal of eighteen (18) gauge or heavier, having openings not greater than one-half (½") inch in shortest dimension, or with sixteen (16) gauge or heavier wire cloth with one-half (½") inch mesh.

At the option of the owner the opening in the wall of the building below the grate may be entirely closed with brick or concrete or partially closed and the remaining open space covered with nineteen (19) gauge or heavier wire cloth with mesh not to exceed one-half (½") inch.

(h) Business buildings constructed on piers having wooden floor sills less than twelve (12") inches above the surface of the ground shall have the intervening space between floor sill and ground protected against the ingress of rats by installing a solid masonry, or concrete not less than four (4") inches thick or solid sheet metal curtain wall of twenty-four (24) gauge or heavier around the entire perimeter of the business building and extending said curtain wall to a depth of not less than thirty-six (36") inches below the surface of the ground level and fastening securely to the exterior wall of the business building, in such manner as will prevent rats from entering the building.

In lieu of the installation of curtain walls, all ground floors of wood construction may be replaced with concrete of not less than three (3") inches in thickness with the exterior walls protected for a height of twenty-four (24") inches above the concrete floor with masonry, concrete or solid sheet metal of twenty-four (24) gauge or heavier. Exterior wall protection shall be securely tied into the concrete floor at all points.

Business buildings constructed on piers having wooden floor sills greater than twelve (12") inches above the ground level shall have the intervening spaces between floor sill and ground protected against the ingress of rats by installing curtain walls in accordance with the preceding paragraph or by protecting said business buildings against the ingress of rats by installing solid sheet metal coverage of twenty-four (24) gauge or heavier snugly around each pipe, cable, wire, conduit or other utility service passing through wooden ground floor. Said metal coverage shall not be less than eight (8") inches in diameter larger than diameter of pipe, cable, wire, conduit or other utility service, and shall be securely fastened to the wooden floor. All other openings in wooden ground floors through which rats may rain entrance into double walls or the interior of business buildings, such as openings that may exist in floors and double walls above floor sills, shall be closed with twenty-four (24) gauge or heavier solid sheet metal or sixteen (16) gauge or heavier wire cloth of one-half (½") inch mesh or with concrete or masonry. Wood frame constructed business buildings having concrete or masonry foundation walls shall have ventilators in foundation walls protected as herein provided in Section 5 (d). All miscellaneous wall openings, doors and windows shall be protected in accordance with this ordinance.

SECTION 6. Curb or farmers' markets in which fruit or vegetables or any other food products are exposed and offered for sale, on racks, stands, platforms and in vehicles outside of business buildings, shall have floors paved with concrete or asphalt for the entire surface area of the market. Display racks, stands or platforms on which fruit or vegetables or any other food products are displayed or offered for sale shall be of sufficient height that all such fruit, vegetables or other food products shall be kept at a distance of not less than eighteen (18") inches above the floor pavement and be so constructed that rats cannot harbor therein or thereunder.

SECTION 7. or the purpose of eliminating all rats that may remain in any business building or place of business after rat-stoppage shall have been carried into effect, all store rooms, warehouses or other business buildings in the City shall be provided by the owner, occupant, agent or any other person in custody of such business building with one or more traps, which shall be kept set and freshly baited at frequent intervals and maintained in good working condition, and shall be inspected daily, and any rat or rats caught therein shall be killed, removed daily and disposed of in a manner acceptable to the City Health Officer or the Director of Public Health, and such trap or traps reset and rebaited.

Rats may also be destroyed by poisoning and fumigating in the manner approved by the City Health Officer or the Director of Public Health, or any other authorized agency of the United States Public Health Service, or the State Board of Health and subject to applicable laws and ordinances relating to poisonous substantiances and fumigators.

SECTION 8. In order to protect business buildings from what is commonly called the climbing or roof rat, it shall be unlawful to permit fishing poles, ladders, or any other object that a rat could climb on in order to reach the roof of any business building, to lean against the side or walls of such business buildings.

The owner of business buildings shall also protect elevator shafts, fire escapes and guy wires in such manner that rats will not be able to gain ingress into any business building.

It shall be the duty of any person in charge of a business building as herein defined to trim the branches of all trees extending over and against any business building, and same shall be cut and trimmed and kept trimmed and cut so that no part of any branch or any part of said tree shall be closer than ten (10') feet to any business building, and the tops of all trees shall be cut back ten (10') feet from a line extending perpendicularly from any exterior wall of a business building.

SECTION 9. When the City Health Officer or the Director of Public Health shall find any building, structure, or premises so heavily infested with rats resulting in a present menace to public health, he shall have authority to close the same to any occupancy or use, until rats have been eradicated, or, while rats are being eradicated.

SECTION 10. It shall be unlawful for any person to use or maintain any business buildings or premises in such manner that a rat harborage is brought into existence or maintained.

SECTION 11. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to dump or place on any land or on any water or waterway within the City, any dead animal, butchers' offal, seafood, or any waste vegetables, animal matter or any food products whatsoever.

SECTION 12. No garbage, rubbish, waste or manure shall be placed, left, dumped, or permitted to accumulate or remain in or on any building or premises in this City so that same shall or may afford food for or a harboring or breeding place for rats. Rat burrows and other exterior harborage shall be treated under methods directed by the City Health Officer or the Director of Public Health.

SECTION 13. It shall be unlawful for any person to permit any premises, improved or unimproved, and all open lots and alleys in the City of Lubbock, to accumulate lumber, boxes, barrels, bricks or stones and similar materials that may be permitted to remain thereon and that may be used as a harborage by rats, unless same shall be placed on open racks and elevated not less than eighteen (18") inches above the ground, with a clear intervening space underneath, to prevent the harborage of rats.

SECTION 14. Penalty: Any person who shall violate any provision or provision of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished by fine of not more than One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars. Each day of violation shall constitute a separate offense.

SECTION 15. Repeal Clause: All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed to the extent of such conflict only.

SECTION 16. Savings Clause: If any section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase of this ordinance is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, void or invalid, the validity of the remaining portions of this ordinance shall not be affected thereby, it being the intent of the City Commission of the City of Lubbock in adopting and approving this ordinance that no portion hereof or provision or regulation contained herein shall become inoperative or fail by reason of any unconstitutionality or invalidity of any other portion or provision or regulation.

Passed and approved by the City Commission of the City of Lubbock, Texas, this 22nd day of March, 1945.

Passed and approved by the City Commission of the City of Lubbock, Texas, second reading, this 13th day of April, 1945.

Lease Of Surplus War Plants Is Recommended By Attorney General

WASHINGTON, April 24. (AP)—Attorney General Francis Biddle today recommended the lease of surplus war plants rather than their immediate sale in order to make a fairer determination of their ultimate price and to encourage bidding by small business.

Biddle emphasized that "the disposal of surplus property involves much more than merely an attempt to get the best price for the government or to sell the property to the highest bidder."

The value of the property should be determined by its facilities for providing employment and opportunity for new enterprise, he said. The bid of a purchaser who intends to close a plant to keep it out of competition should be rejected, he maintained.

Makes Recommendations

The attorney general's recommendations were made in his third report to Congress on the disposition of government-owned property. They included:

1. Immediate formation of a program to dispose of surplus war plants to alleviate uncertainty as to peacetime production.

2. An immediate economic and engineering survey by the surplus property board of war plants which have been or may be declared surplus.

3. A program permitting "as little speculation as possible" by independent enterprise or by the government as to the price to be paid.

4. Organization of local committees to survey their needs and opportunities for business development.

Options Suggested

5. Lease rather than early sale of surplus plants. He suggested that leases contain options for sale at a price based on leasehold earnings or to be fixed by arbitration. He also asked that bids be required to state in detail the proposed future use of plants and an estimate of the number of persons to be employed and articles to be produced.

The report was accompanied by a survey on the disposition of the $2,441,000,000 worth of surplus machine tools owned by the government. It revealed that this supply comprises 75 per cent of the most modern and efficient machine tools in the U. S.—approximately 555,000 in 10,000 plants.

City Falling Flat On Clothing Drive

Lubbock as a whole is falling flat thus far in the used clothing drive.

Its citizens have contributed only one-tenth of the 250,000-pound goal, according to F. A. Kleinschmidt, chairman of the drive.

This is the last week of the collection, the campaign to close Monday.

Kleinschmidt said that he hoped to see Lubbock ship two carloads of garments. He suggested that old, seldom-used clothing could be sorted out when moth balls are put in closets for the summer.

Clothing that will protect the wearers against the elements is what is wanted, Kleinschmidt said. Some people, he said, have given such items as open-toed shoes and straw hats.

People are urged to bring their bundles to the drive headquarters at Ninth and Texas, Lubbock Auto warehouse. Other collection points are Sear's, Ward's, the postoffice and Hilton and Lubbock hotels.

Hunters Kill 7,448 Predatory Animals

SAN ANTONIO, April 24. (AP)—A total of 7448 predatory animals, including 6592 coyotes, 665 bobcats and 191 wolves, were killed by hunters working through the federal government, state livestock sanitary commission and predatory animal control association in Texas during the first quarter of 1945, L. R. Landon, agent in charge, reported here today.

A total of 2163 head of livestock and domestic fowl was destroyed by predatory animals according to reports made by hunters and other reliable sources, Landon said.

In addition the report estimated that between 7000 and 8000 coyotes were destroyed by cooperatives in a poison campaign in South Texas counties not included in the official count.

Lubbock Repeats As Track Champs Of Regional Events

Two Records Fall, Two More Are Tied

By MACK TURNER
Avalanche Sports Editor

On sand blown Chapman field, the Lubbock Westerners repeated as the track and field kings of Region One of the Interscholastic League in a meet that saw two old records shattered and two more tied in the greatest shakeup of the record book since the memorable 1935 meet.

Coach Marlin "Shorty" Hayhurst's Westerners rolled up 44 points in the meet to cop first place honors in the race. The Amarillo Sandies finished second, and did this without ever winning a first place. The Sandies totaled 20½ points, just one point ahead of Panhandle.

Canadian and Pampa tied for fourth place with 11 points, barely nosing out W. C. Harrison of Denver City, whose ten points placed his team fifth in the meet.

Hensley Top Man

There were only two double winners in the meet, and Lubbock furnished one of these. There were two records broken, and Lubbock broke one of these. There were two records tied, and Lubbock tied one of these. Lubbock's double winner, G. W. Hensley, copped the high point honors of the meet with first places in the low hurdles and broad jump and finished third in the high hurdles for 12 points.

Harrison's first places in the 220 yard and 440 yard dashes gave him runnerup honors, and the only other double victory of the day. Harrison wasn't even pushed in the 440 yard dash.

Clay, Dean Deliver

The two records that went off the books were the pole vault and discus, and were erased by two of Texas' best in these departments. The records tied were in the half mile and the high jump.

The oldest record in the books, the 11 feet, 6 inches that Schultz of Tell went in the pole vault in 1934 was knocked off the books when Cliff Dean of Lubbock went 12 feet for the sixth time this year under fire. Jack Dyke of Amarillo pushed Dean all the way up the ladder to the regional mark, and the Amarillo boy equalled the old record.

year, on the basis of meets held state's best discus thrower of the year, on the basiis of meets held to date, warmed up with his best throw of the year in the preliminaries when he heaved the plate 139 feet. He came back in the finals to hit 141 feet and 2 inches, two inches less than the regional record set by May of O'Donnell in 1942. In his last attempt at a regional record, he heaved the discus 142 feet, 3 inches for the new record.

Lowrey's Great Gallop

In the 880 yard run, Jim Lowrey broke fast with the gun, and never slowed down. He had a good lead by the time he moved into the first back stretch, and was never pushed as he tied the mark set in 1938 by Lambert of Muleshoe as he did the distance in 2 minutes, 4 seconds.

Jay Hammond of Vega tied the high jump record set by Smith of Tell in 1935 with a leap of 6 feet.

That was all of the records to be broken or tied, but there were some thrilling shows put on during the afternoon. Perhaps one of the highlights of the meet was the blazing finish in the mile run when Harold Sutton of Panhandle and Bill Baucum of Amarillo battled down to the tape for first place, with Sutton nosing out by inches in a brilliant gallop timed in 4 minutes, 51.7 seconds.

In the 100 yard dash came another thriller as W. C. Johnson of Hale Center blistered the runway in 10.1 seconds, just one tenth second over the mark set in the regional by Jones of Hedley in 1935. Johnson's first position wasn't threatened, but George Brewer supplied an added thrill with his tape stretch to nose out Avon Flanikan of Amarillo by inches for second place.

The 440 yard dash also provided some thrills for the fans in the battle for second place. W. C. Harrison didn't leave any doubt of his right to claim first place, but it was only a matter of inches between the next four boys in the race.

Windy Nicklaus, director of the meet, announced his thanks to the judges, timers and other officials who helped to put over the meet, and paid special tribute to Lt. Holmes, Lubbock Army Air field athletic officer, who did a great job as starter for the events. E. J. "Pinkey" Lowrey of Lubbock schools also extended his thanks to those who helped him get Chapman field in readiness for the meet on so short a notice as was given him, less than a 12 hour period for getting ready for the meet which was moved here from Canyon because of adverse weather conditions in the Panhandle.

Baylor Netters Beat Horned Frogs, 5-To 1

FORT WORTH, April 24 (AP)—Sweeping the singles matches, Baylor's tennis team beat TCU 5-1 here today. Two weeks ago in Waco the two clubs tied 3-3.

Ray Robbins and Vernon Mayfield copped the lone point for TCU, besting Baylor's Langly and Cox, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4 in the No. 1 doubes. In the other doubles match, Mason and Oates of Baylor beat Bill Robinson and Richard Chu 6-4, 6-3.

In singles competition Oates defeated Robinson 6-2, 6-2; Cox defeated Mayfield 6-4, 6-2; Langly defeated Robbins 3-6, 10-8, 6-1; and Mason defeated Chu 9-11, 7-5, 6-2.

O'Donnell Girls Win In Doubles

CANYON, April 24. (Special)—O'Donnell High school's girls tennis doubles team of Peggy Cummins and Edna Edwards repeated here today as tennis queens of Region One, sweeping aside all opposition to again win the right to represent West Texas in the girls doubles at the state tournament in Austin, May 3-4.

In other matches in the meet, Panhandle netters from Amarillo took the measure of South Plains players to win the other three titles at stake, and carry off the team honors of the meet.

Lubbock's David Hester battled his way into the finals of the boys singles, only to fall before the potent racket of John Allen of Amarillo in the payoff battle.

Again the "finals jinx" dogged the footsteps of Johnnie Gilmer, Seminole's great little tennis star in the girls singles, and Amarillo's Pat Jackson won the title in the final round. The two were cofavored in this event, and both came through much as expected.

O'Donnell barely missed the chance to share the tennis honors with the potent Amarillo squad, but the O'Donnell boys doubles team of Pearce and Tomlinson were unable to nose by Amarillo's Jack Laing and Hayden Hardin, after reaching the finals with a potent display of tennis power.

Texas Semi-Pros Set Dates For Playoffs

WICHITA, Kan., April 24 (U.P.)—The National Baseball Congress today announced that the fourth annual New Mexico-West Texas championship baseball tournament would be the first of the 49 sanctioned playoffs to start in the United States at El Paso, May 20. The finals will take place on June 3, with the winner automatically qualifying for the 11th annual national championship tourney at Wichita, Aug. 10 to 22.

Camp Luna of Las Vegas, N. M., is the defending champion.

The event will be under the supervision of Rex M. Wilson of El Paso, New Mexico-West Texas commissioner.

The National organization also announced that the Texas State baseball tourney would be staged at Waco, starting July 27, under the supervision of A. H. Kirksey, Waco, Texas Sate commissioner.

Hunt Pioneers Take Pair Over Bean Tens

Hunt's hard hitting Pioneers pounded out a pair of softball wins in the Lubbock grade school conference race Tuesday afternoon, winning handily over the Bean Bronchos in both games.

Charles Guy Wright and Wayne Stroud teamed together to pitch the boys to a 30 to 5 win, while Marie Buckner was coasting in with an easy 36 to 5 win for the girls.

Race Discrimination In Baseball Charged

WASHINGTON, April 24 (AP)—Congress will be asked to look into the question whether negroes should play in the big leagues and other organized baseball circuits.

Representative Marcantonio (AL-NY) said today he will introduce a resolution, probably Thursday, calling for a study "of racial discrimination in our national game."

Giants Win On Ott's 2 Homers

NEW YORK, April 24. (AP)—Mel Ott's first two home runs of the season, each with a man on base, shepherded the New York Giants to a 5 to 2 triumph over the Philadelphia Phils today. The victory lifted the Ottmen a full-game above the second place Chicago Cubs, idle because of rain.

Ott's round trippers, the 490th and 491st of his 20-year career, boosted the Giant manager to within three of Lou Gehrig's lifetime mark of 494.

The performance of Andy "Swede" Hansen, a lean loose-jointed youngster from Lake Wales, Fla., probably gave Ott more satisfaction than his own slugging as the 20 year-old rookie turned back Freddy Fitzsimmons' men with five hits.

Counted as the No. 3 man on the Giant's staff behind Bill Voiselle and Van Mungo, Hansen did himself proud in earning his second straight starting decision.

"Win One For Joe" Becomes Bosox Chant

WASHINGTON, April 24 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox have a new slogan: "Let's win one for Joe."

Joe is Joseph E. Cronin, manager and player until he broke a leg last week.

The Sox have lost all games played—six—in the 1945 season.

A. B. "Happy" Chandler Is Named As Baseball's Czar

BASEBALL CZAR—Sen. A. B. "Happy" Chandler has been named as the new czar of baseball, to succeed the late Kenesaw Mountain Landis, and has announced his acceptance of the position, and soon will take over in the new role of guiding the National sport.

CLEVELAND, April 24. (AP)—Owners of the 16 major league baseball clubs today selected Sen. A. B. (Happy) Chandler of Kentucky to succeed the late Kenesaw Mountain Landis as high commissioner of baseball. The club executives said Chandler had been notified and had accepted the position.

The magnates said Chandler accepted a seven-year contract at $50,000 annually. He is scheduled to take over his new duties as soon as a suitable date can be arranged.

Leslie O'Connor, veteran secretary to the late commissioner and secretary of baseball's advisory committee, announced that the owners named Chandler, former governor of Kentucky, in the only ballot they cast. They were in session about six hours.

The league chieftains left the conference room enmasse about half an hour before their decision was announced. Observers concluded it was during this interim that they reached Chandler and received his acceptance.

Chandler Expects To Be Available Early

WASHINGTON, April 24. (AP)—Senator Albert B. Chandler (D-Ky) will be "immediately available" as baseball's new high commissioner.

"Now that the war with Germany is virtually over, I can conscientiously leave my other duties," he said. "A few months ago, I could not have done so."

The stocky, jovial Southerner who has been known as "Happy" ever since his college days, told a reporter that "it's a big job, and a tremendous amount of good can be done."

The first thing that baseball should do after the war is "help to see that all the surplus athletic equipment the government has is distributed to youngsters throughout the country."

"Give the kids a ball and bat and a corner lot and you don't have to worry about juvenile delinquency in that neighborhood," he said.

The game faces "another trying period" during reconversion, "the same as after the first World War," he said, adding that "we'll have to keep a close watch to see that nothing goes wrong."

The new commissioner had in mind the Black Sox scandals which threatened baseball's future a quarter of a century ago.

Chandler has been interested in baseball ever since he was old enough to play on the corner lot.

His boyhood idol was Ty Cobb, and he was so ambitious to become a big leaguer that his playmates at Corydon, Ky., called him "Ty Cobb."

But his friends in high school and college gave him the nickname "Happy," which has stuck with him through the years.

In high school, he started out as a catcher, but switched to pitching and the outfield at Transylvania college, Lexington, Ky.

One year Chandler had the modest batting average of .467 and pitched his little school to a 10-4 victory over Tennessee university.

He also played semipro and organized baseball. He was with Grafton, N. D., in the Red River Valley League in 1920, winning 12 of 13 games. In 1922, he joined organized ball with Lexington in the Blue Grass League.

"One thing I left in the record book was a homerun with the bases loaded against Maryville," he recalled.

O'Connor To Stay On If Chandler Desires

CLEVELAND, April 24. (AP)—Leslie O'Connor, secretary to the late Kenesaw Mountain Landis throughout the latter's 24-year reign as commissioner of baseball, said today his future would depend on whether Senator A. B. "Happy" Chandler, the new czar of the sport, wanted him to stay on the job.

O'Connor, chairman of the three-man commission ruling baseball since the judge's death, said he would remain at his post until the new commissioner took over but after that it was "strictly up to Senator Chandler."

K. Carter Softballers Win From Guadalupe

The K. Carter Coyotes softball teams turned in wins Tuesday afternoon, both the boys and girls teams winning over Guadalupe in a twin bill in the Lubbock grade school conference.

The Coyote battery of Don Sharpe and Travis Hammer turned in a good ball game to down Guadalupe 7 to 4 in the boys game. Behind the robust hitting of her mates, Katie Julian coasted in with a 22 to 3 victory over Guadalupe in the girls game.

Firemen Hurt In Downtown Blaze

Three firemen were injured, only one of them apparently seriously, and thousands of dollars of damage occasioned early Tuesday when a two-alarm fire, starting by an explosion in the kitchen of Ben's cafe, at 913 Thirteenth, quickly spread to other offices and business establishments at Thirteenth and Texas Ave.

Woodrow Quinn, 32, of 703 Ave. L, and W. B. Williams, 39, of 1603 Twenty-first, were taken to Lubbock General hospital after a second explosion had toppled part

RUMOROUS INCIDENT OCCURS

Humorous incidents occur even in fighting fires.

E. L. Wallace, night man on duty at West Texas Gas company's mainline station three miles east of town, answered the telephone early Tuesday about the time the fire which destroyed Ben's cafe was at its height:

"We've got a gas fire in town and need some help," came the voice on the other end of the line.

Wallace told the party that the best thing to do would be to call the fire department.

"By golly, this is the fire department," the voice answered.

Two gas company employes were quickly dispatched to the scene of the blaze to cut off the gas.

of a wall of the cafe. Dr. J. W. Rollo, city health officer, said Williams suffered a back injury, and Quinn a broken foot. Other injuries were not believed serious.

The blast hurled a part of the firewall of the building backward onto a skylight of Kelner Furniture and Appliance company, at 1305 Texas. The heavy steel framework sagged into a deep L-shape under the weight, and water rushed into the back of the store. Kelner was continuing business, however.

Draughon's Loss Heavy

Draughon's, a business college that maintained an office at 1303 Texas, on the ground floor, and the entire second story of the building, extending from Texas 125 feet eastward to the alley, counted heavy damage. The entire accounting department was destroyed, and much of its floor had fallen in. G. C. Stewart, principal, said approximately 100 typewriters were damaged, and total loss would have to be listed for calculators, adding machines and other equipment.

One hundred twenty-five Draughon's students were standing around wondering when they could return to class. Stewart, however, said the new Draughon's classrooms soon would be ready in the Ferguson building, under construction at Fifteenth and Texas.

Built In 1917

The entire building, built about 1917 for the Woodmen of the World lodge and other tenants, was to have been remodeled for White Auto stores, it was learned. White's lease was to have become effective July 1. Other tenants said they had planned getting other business locations.

A. V. Weaver, owner of the structure, was out of the city, but a brother and business partner, Sam Weaver, said he "was sure a new building would be constructed on the location." He said the building was "covered" by insurance.

(Shook Tire company, at 1301 Texas, had surveyed and obtained a building permit for a new building to be built on the parking lot at Fourteenth and Texas. Contract calls for 75 days for completion.

(Shook store will be open for business today. Only water damage was counted there, "unless the building is condemned," said J. M. Wells and G. V. Fulton, managers.

Toy Factory Burns

(The Evans company, manufacturers of toys, was a heavy loser. Cloth monkeys were swimming about in water, and thousands of other toys, much raw materials and machines were damaged.

(Standing outside the building with two toy cannon under his arms, George F. Peterson, manager, said his loss probably would be $5,000, "none of it insured.

Finberg Trading company, at 911 Thirteenth, was the other place burned out.

Cafe "Partly Insured"

Ben Kinard, proprietor of Ben's cafe and two others bearing his name, said his loss would be $6,000 to $7,000, "partly insured." He said a stove had exploded and that Billie Walker, a waitress, turned in the alarm. Two other employes, he said, were on duty: C. E. Ryne, a night chef, and Code Roddy, a dishwasher. Neither was injured. He said he would move to another location.

OPA Men Resign

engaged before taking charge of the OPA district here at its opening in October of 1942. He will be associated with his brothers, John D. and Charles B. Gholson, with headquarters in Jackson, Miss. For same years prior to 1941 he was president and manager of a woman's apparel shop, Craig-Gholson Co., here.

Expresses Appreciation

In announcing his resignation, Gholson expressed his appreciation for the "fine spirit of co-operation I have received from the people of West Texas and especially from the rationing boards in the 71 counties of the district. The services of the latter," he said, "have contributed greatly to the program of rationing and price control made necessary by the war."

Owen McWhorter, longtime Lubbock attorney, declined to make a definite statement regarding rumors of his impending resignation. "I have been desirious of getting back to private practice of law, and to full time attention to my own business, for the past 18 months," he said. Beyond that he said he had no statement.

Earl Kerr was out of the city on OPA business, but was expected to return by Saturday.

In announcing his resignation to become effective on April 30, Ely Fonville said he would enter the insurance business and continue to make his home in Lubbock. He joined OPA here in June of 1942, has been active in civic affairs. He came here from Borger where he formerly was president of the Rotary club and a member of the city commission.

STOCKS CONTINUE CLIMB

NEW YORK, April 24 (AP)—The stock market today continued its climb to new high levels for the past eight years on expanding volume.

The list was forced to absorb considerable profit cashing from the opening until the approach of the final hour. Lightness of liquidation then inspired bullish forces to lift their bids.

Again it was a case of investment demand based on the belief the new administration would foster post-war prosperity and that reconversion problems following the collapse of Germany would be less difficult than generally expected.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .4 of a point at 64.8, another peak since August, 1937.

Prominent on the swing were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, N. Y. Central, Santa Fe, Northern Pacific, Chrysler, Nash-Kelvinator, Willys-Overland, International Telephone, Allied Chemical, Engineers Public Service, U. S. Rubber, American Can and Eastman Kodak.

U. S. Steel directors, after the close, declared the regular $1 dividend and reported first quarter net of $1.94 a common share against $1.23 in the first three months of 1944. Results were about in line with forecasts.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, April 24 (AP)—Evening up operations in the May position prior to first notice day Wednesday dominated activity in the cotton futures market today which closed 35 cents a bale higher to 5 cents lower. Strength in the May position had a firming effect on the entire list although activity in the new crop months was retarded by uncertainty over the government cotton program next season.

The growing belief in trade circles is that the cotton purchase program will be abandoned on its expiration June 30, but that some form of support will be continued if the staple goes below parity.

the nation's other great institutions of learning are administered, preserving the proper relationships between board and administration."

Sen. Weaver Moore of Houston took up the fight, telling Aikin:

"They did have a fine faculty—with some parts that smelled—but it is better since the smell was removed. They have just about cleaned it up. Let's don't backbite because somebody wanted to remove a pervert from the faculty. I want to make it clear for the record I am not referring to Dr. Rainey, but to those who were guilty of perversion."

Homosexual Charge

This was in reference to some of the testimony brought out before the Senate's committee investigating the university situation. To a charge that there were a number of homosexuals on the faculty during the Rainey administration, Rainey responded that he had promptly called on the department of public safety to investigate and remedy the situation when he learned of it.

"Do you think the board of regents were the only ones who objected to the perverts?" Sen. Wardlow Lane of Center asked Moore.

"Certainly not," Moore replied. "I am not charging anybody with favoring that. I am just charging those who were guilty."

The proposed amendment in issue before the Senate—to be submitted to the people if approved by the legislature—would permit the University of Texas and A. and M. to pledge, with legislative approval, revenues from their permanent fund for permanent improvements totalling $9,000,000. Of this, the University of Texas would be eligible for $6,000,000.

Improve Negro Facilities

The resolution was amended, before the university row angle was injected into the discussion, to open the road for improving the state's higher educational set-up for negroes. An amendment by Sen. Penrose Metcalfe of San Angelo, adopted by a vote of 26 to 1, provided that the legislature be authorized to establish, provide and maintain "a university of the first class for training and educating" colored youths, to be known as Prairie View university.

The waltz, most popular of the 19th century dances, came from Germany though several other countries claim it.

project our air power to the China coast and the Japanese homeland and will speed up future operations." He said development of Okinawa as an American base will be pushed immediately and rapidly even though the Japanese are making a bitter stand on the south. The Yanks already hold the northern three-quarters of the island.

The admiral said Japanese planes are now being destroyed faster than they can be replaced and that what is left of the Nippon fleet is "not a serious threat."

Japanese reverses in the three-pronged drive against the American air base at Chihkiang, in China's western Hunan province 250 miles from Chungking, were reported by the Chinese high command. A Japanese strike along a highway toward Kaosha, 75 miles from Chihkiang, was repulsed. On the right flank the Chinese were battling fierce Japanese resistance at the gates of Yiyang while on the left brisk fighting was in progress near the Hunan-Kwangsi border.

In Honan province the Chinese pressed the fight for the fortress city of Nanyang. American fliers, supporting operations in the area north of Laohokow, blasted the Japanese from strong positions which the Chinese occupied unopposed.

Soviet Armies Join In Berlin

mendous area 60 miles long and 30 miles broad stretching clear back east and southeast to the Oder and Neisse rivers, trapping untold numbers of Germans.

Closing in quickly on the far end of that pocket, other White Russian units took the stubborn fortress of Fuerstenberg on the west bank of the Odor and Guben on the east bank of the Neisse just south of the confluence of the two streams.

Far south of Berlin the Russians announced capture of Grossenhain, 20 miles northwest of Dresden.

It was in that area that Soviet and American forces were approaching an historic junction on a broad front.

First Denies Linkup

The French press agency said without confirmation that a union already had been reached at Eilenburg, nine miles northeast of Leipzig, but dispatches from the U. S. First Army said no linkup had yet been made.

The expected simultaneous announcement of the junction from Washington, Moscow and London had not been made, but field dispatches from both sides of the front left little doubt that Adolf Hitler's Reich was being quickly and irrevocably cut in two.

German radio accounts persisted in reporting that Hitler himself still was in Berlin, personally directing its ruinous defense, even to the disposition of various troop units, but the best Allied sources held to the belief that he had immured himself in his Berchtesgaden retreat in the south.

Drive For Berchtesgaden

The Russians were driving toward Berchtesgaden, too. The German high command said that Red Army troops had slashed halfway across Austria to Eisenerz, 90 miles east of Hitler's home, and the Americans were closing in fast from the northwest.

The throes of Berlin held the spotlight, however, both in the Soviet communique and in German broadcasts.

Moscow announced officially that the great looping drive of the First White Russian Army north and northwest of Berlin had taken the towns of Kremmen, Flatow, Welten and Nauern—38 miles east of the American Ninth Army positions on the Elbe river west of Berlin.

In this sickle movement the First White Russians took the Berlin city districts of Tegel, Wittenau and Reinickendorf inside the northern city limits.

Forces moving directly from the east took the Schlesischer station, five miles from Reinickendorf, threatening to slice Berlin into at least two parts.

City Districts Taken

On the south the First Ukrainian forces took the Berlin city districts of Marindorf, Lankwitz, Ostdorf and Stahndorf, the latter four miles east of Potsdam.

The First White Russians crossed the Dahme river southeast of Berlin, took the borderline suburbs of Adlershof, Rudow, Alt-Glienicke and Bohnsdorf and joined there with the First Ukrainians, Moscow announced.

The bitterness of the struggle was evidenced by Moscow's listing of 48 tanks, more than 200 field guns, 2,550 trucks and 88 locomotives seized in the Berlin battle Monday, plus more than 3,000 Germans captured.

On all fronts on Monday the Germans lost 110 tanks, Moscow added, and lost 6,000 prisoners on the front near Dresden.

ence meets in San Francisco, on our own soil. It gives us an added sort of responsibility, it demands our full leadership, it provides a background sane and wholesome and free of the taints of war too close at hand. It is a place where our national idealism can express itself more easily. For other nations, too, it should be virtually neutral ground, for we are asking nothing material for ourselves.

Knotty Problems

There are some knotty problems which this conference must face, some for which a solution yet has not been found in the lengthy preliminary negotiations. Most of them involve national interests still selfishly adhered to, revealing still a lack of faith in one another.

They should now, however, be insolvable, if there is good will all around. They should yield to adjustment through patience, and patience is going to be a very necessary quality at San Francisco. It above all should be cultivated.

Unless the leaders and the diplomats do settle these problems, do arrive at a formula for some international organization, they are likely to find the people of the world most impatient.

Leaders On Trial

The political leaders and the diplomats are on trial here. The average citizen is not inclined to be too tolerant of the diplomat and diplomatic processes, of convolutions and involutions. He is ready for plain and straight thinking.

He will watch the conference through eyes that have seen what I have recently seen—

Skeletons of once proud cities like Cologne which, come another war, might be Pittsburgh, ghosts of smaller cities like Julich which, come another war, might be anyone of the towns in our own Middle and Far West which we passed on the trip from the East Coast to San Francisco;

Homeless and hungry people who were whipped into war by a dictator and now are paying for their folly;

Innocent Get Caught

Innocent people who got caught within the vise of opposing armies in Italy and Germany, in Belgium and Holland and France and Austria and Czechaslovakia, and in Russia and Romania and Greece and all the others;

Great, gapping holes in Antwerp and London where the V-bombs struck, those V-bombs which, come another war, would be developed to the point where they could be turned loose on New York or Washington or Chicago or New Orleans or San Francisco.

San Francisco is a challenge that cannot be denied.

or three blankets inside a building and still shiver. These people not only have no buildings and no blankets, most of them have insufficient clothing for normal daytime temperatures.

How they survive the nights only they can tell. Of course there are some "DP"—displaced personnel—camps along the roads, but there aren't enough. Many times drifters purposely avoid them because they get involved in disorganized red tape which delays their drifting.

As you drive along they often hail you with victorious smiles and signals which leave you with a strange feeling of humility.

There's pride among many of them, too—French, Polish, Russian, Greek and Hungarian—so much pride that they refuse to beg.

They keep filing along the roads in never-ending thousands. This generation's grapes of wrath—sown in five years bloody warfare—has made its grim futile crop and the harvest is rolling along every highway.

berg and important communications center on the Danube, fell to the combined assault of the American Seventh and French First armies.

The U. S. Third Army, continuing its spectacular drive southward from the boundary of Czechoslovakia, battled within four miles of the big traffic hub of Regensburg and within 35 miles of the Austrian border. Traveling fast under a partial news blackout, Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's famed armored forces were closing in relentlessly on Regensburg from three sides and slicing hourly nearer the ramparts of the enemy's southern "fortress."

Several Bridges Seized

Patton's 26th Infantry, taking advantage of the enemy's disorganized state, seized several bridges intact across the Regan river, which flows northwest from Regensburg, and sped across into the towns of Wacherling and Nittenau, 14 miles northeast of Regensburg. Other doughboy columns drove into Rechberg, 12 miles northwest of the city, and to the vicinity of Etzenburg, eight miles to the west.

The 11th armored division raced eastward for a 23-mile gain and reached the vicinity of Arnesriedt, 40 miles east of Regensburg and 11 miles north of the Danube. It was there that Patton's fighters were within 35 miles of Austria and about 93 miles due north of Hitler's Berchtesgaden hideout.

Seventh Crosses Danube

The Seventh Army's 44th division slashed across the Danube at Ehingen just southwest of Ulm after capturing that city of 60,000 with the assistance of French forces. The 12th armored division expanded its bridgehead across the Danube near Dillingen, 50 miles northwest of Munich, to 10 miles wide and six deep and began probing into the foothills of the Alps.

Fanning out along the north bank of the Danube, the 10th Armored division reached Erbach, six miles southwest of Ulm, Polsingen, 36 miles north of Augsburg, was captured by the 42nd Infantry division in a 10-mile thrust.

Twenty American and French infantry divisions and eight armored divisions were participating in the mighty offensive to crush the enemy's vaunted southern redoubt. Munich, birthplace of the Nazi party and possible site of its ultimate destruction, was being caught in a mammoth nutcracker by more than 375,000 Allied fighting men.

Pockets Compressed

By-passed enemy pockets north of Ulm and south of Stuttgart were being compressed by Seventh Army troops. Southeast of Stuttgart they captured a V-bomb plant covering 80 acres which had operated up to last Friday with 2,500 slave laborers.

French forces, driving east well beyond their Danube crossing at Sigmaringen and 20 miles beyond their last reported positions in the area between the Danube and Lake Constance, captured Baltringen and Ochsenbausen, 15 to 22 miles south of Ulm. Other French units pushed five miles south to Bellingen and Llel, within 10 miles of Basel, Switzerland.

Mrs. Speck To Head ACE Group

Mrs. E. B. Speck of Sanders school was elected president of the Lubbock branch of the Association for Childhood Education in the business session of the annual dinner meeting Tuesday night in Lubbock hotel.

Mrs. Speck succeeds Mrs. J. T. Shaver of Central Ward.

Chas. A. Guy, editor of the Avalanche-Journal, was the principal speaker, citing the importance of the world security conference beginning today in San Francisco and calling for a universal dedication to the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Pearl Jackson, Dupre, vice president; Miss Marian Bray, Dupre, secretary; Miss Katie Belle Crump, public relations representative. All were installed last night.

Mrs. John Watson, coordinator of music in Lubbock elementary schools, sang a solo number.

Invited as guests were school officials and members of the board of trustees and their wives. In attendance were Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Hutchinson, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hardwick, Mr. and Mrs. Guy, R. F. Bayless, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Allen and Superintendent R. W. Matthews and Mrs. Matthews and Schools Business Manager A. C. Jackson and Mrs. Jackson.

revision of the rules and priciples of international law."

"The economic and social council should specifically provide for the promotion of educational and other forms of cultural cooperation."

The exact language of the "justice" proposal:

"The charter should provide specifically that adjustment or settlement of international disputes should be achieved with due regard for the principles of justice and international law."

Tone Of Confidence

Stettinius' news conference did little either to increase or dispel a general tone of confidence and determination that big and small nations alike "must not and will not fail" in their task of erecting a world peace structure.

American delegates showed no disposition of alarm at Russia's request for three votes—although the unspoken wish was that it be withdrawn in the interests of harmony. Nor did they seem disturbed any more than they have been in the past that the British commonwealth has a combined power of six votes in the assembly.

The United States view on that point is that the commonwealth nations are, by function, independent, and that they are not to be expected to vote as a bloc.

Smaller Nation Members

The main importance of the assembly votes is that they help determine the biennial changes of membership of smaller nations on the powerful security council which is the heart of the proposed world organization.

Delegates arrived throughout the day. Tonight the roster of representatives of 46 nations, pledged to produce a plan for peace, was almost complete.

Late tomorrow afternoon Secretary of State Stettinius will call them to order in San Francisco's magnificent Opera house, open the conference formally, and introduce President Truman, speaking by radio from Washington.

Mrs. Ella Barclay Dies At Fort Worth

Mrs. Ella Barclay, about 80, former long-time resident of Lubbock, died at Fort Worth Tuesday morning, according to information received here.

Her body is expected to arrive here by train this morning, Rix Funeral home said.

Mrs. Barclay moved to Fort Worth about a year ago. She was making her home with a nephew, Frank Barclay, and Mrs. Barclay. The Barclays also formerly lived in Lubbock.

Funeral services have been set tentatively for Thursday afternoon. They will be held in First Baptist church, of which she was a member. She was also a member of the local Eastern Star.

A brother, Pony Andrews, lives at 1915 Main and operates a small business in 800-block Main.

A Momentous Occasion

San Francisco Conference Opens

ALTHOUGH the best informed of our national leaders have warned their fellow-countrymen not to expect any miracles growing out of the discussion, the United Nations conference, opening in San Francisco today, is a momentous occasion in the annals of civilized man. It marks, we hope along with every thoughtful human being, a new era in co-operation of world governments—an era which can lead to permanent peace and more global amity than could have been imagined a quarter century, even a decade, ago.

Doubtless there will be many matters brought up in San Francisco which cannot be immediately solved by the delegates of 46 governments gathered there.

From the meeting there may arise some new indications of avarice and difficult-to-defend ambitions upon the part of some nations. All suspicion and distrust will not disappear as a morning haze before the sun and it is entirely possible that some new dissatisfactions will be engendered. Yet the over-all picture is a promising one because the fact that 46 of the world's nations are displaying willingness to discuss global problems around the council table marks a new sort of thinking around the globe.

The American people, along with the people of all nations represented at San Francisco, will do well to remember as the conference goes along—and in the months following it—that even though it may not be 100 per cent successful, it is a start in the right direction. We, together with all other civilized peoples, must be satisfied, if need be, with the barest sort of advancement in world co-operation and accord.

As individual representatives must be patient, so must the people for whom they act. There is too much at stake for hair-trigger decision on the part of any of us.

It is significent, we think, that the people of the U. S. view the opening of the conference prayerfully and anxiously. We hope, we believe, other peoples share our own attitude. History is being made at San Francisco starting today. May it be the kind of history of which all mankind may be justly proud.

AS the delegates convene in San Francisco, well may the words of a student of international affairs be ringing in their ears. It would be fitting and proper, we think, if his words were emblazoned on posters to meet the eye everywhere it turns at the United Nations parley.

Said Dr. Everett Case, president of Colgate university:

"Victory won't terminate our obligations. It will mean, rather, that having disposed of the pretenders who tried to impose their own quack remedies, we will have earned anew the right and the obligation to discover and apply solutions better adapted to human needs."

That is the No. 1 need of the postwar world.

The "Pinch" Is On Japan

ALTHOUGH the liberation of the Philippines is not yet complete, one of the greatest dividends expected to result from that campaign has already been largely realized. Since the establishment of American air bases in the islands the flow of rubber, tin and fuel oil from the Malayas and the Dutch East Indies to Japan has been cut an estimated 90 per cent.

Rear Admiral Frank D. Wagner, commander of the Seventh Fleet Air Force, is the authority for this estimate. He ought to know what has happened to this vital Japanese lifeline because his own pilots, who have been cooperating with Army fliers based in the Philippines, can no longer find shipping to attack in the waters of the South China Sea. To keep busy they have been bombing troops trains and bridges along the arterial Indo-Chinese coastal railroad.

Credit for this happy state of affairs goes to the Army's Fifth and Thirteenth Air Forces, says Admiral Wagner. Their bombers have been destroying enemy convoys almost to the last ship. And he adds: "You can answer the question of what it means to the Japanese. The enemy has to have these vital supplies and he isn't getting them."

This successful aerial blockade has attracted little public notice. Because it goes on day after day, and the accomplishments of any one day are usually not spectacular, it is far less dramatic than troop landings, sea-air battles, and campaigns ashore. But the pilots blasting Japanese shipping out of the water are paving the road to final victory in the Far East. That belongs in the record in big type.

The One Minute Sermon

Watch therefore: for ye know not what hour your Lord doth come.

But know this, that if the good man of the house had known in what watch the thief would come, he would have watched, and would not have suffered his house to be broken up.

Therefore be ye also ready: for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh. —St. Matthew 24:42-44.

LOUIS PLEYEL BRINGS NEWS

Jozef Elsner's new quarters were not as desirable as No. 27 Boulevard Poissoniere. In fact they were not desirable in any way. Still it was not a question of desirability; it was a question merely of some place where Jozef Elsner might put his head at night and keep warm in the day, and his new room was furnished with a cot and also with a coal stove which, if he used it sparingly, he could afford to burn on the coldest days to take the chill away. The room was also equipped with a piano, an absolute necessity for a teacher of music. It was not exactly a new instrument, but a tuner had put it into such shape that you could stand the sounds without your nerves becoming too jangled.

Jozef Elsner let it be known that he was the teacher of Frederic Chopin, a man now of no little renown. People listened to him but few, if any, believed him. There was no doubt, however, that he was a teacher of music, and a few neighborhood families—"We cannot afford very much, Monsieur"—sent their children to him for their musical education.

The old master wobbled his head and worked his jaw as one of his young students labored over the simple scores. "—One and two, yes—three and four. Every note must dance and sing—"

"—Tch, tch," he said. "No, no; it's very uneven, my dear. Let's try it again. Maybe you sit too low, Albert."

"I can't reach so high," Albert said.

"—We'll fix that." Jozef Elsner looked about for something for little Albert to sit on. He found some books. "There. How's that?"

"Now I can reach—"

"—Certainly. No trouble at all. I should have thought of that before. Well, now, let's try it again. One and two, yes—"

There was a rap at the door.

"—Come, Albert! Play."

"There's somebody at the door, Professor."

"—Eh?" He looked toward the door. "Well, come in!"

The door opened. Louis Pleyel stood on the threshold.

"Come in—come ...in, please! This does me great honor." Jozef Elsner grabbed the hand of Monsieur Pleyel. He pulled him into the room.

Louis Pleyel saw at a glance, as he could not help but see, the change in Jozef Elsner's condition. "I had difficulty in finding you, Elsner."

"Eh?" Jozef Elsner removed his spectacles. He held them to the light, then put them back on his nose.

"I don't want to interrupt you," Louis Pleyel said, conscious of the boy at the piano. "I didn't mean to interrupt—"

"—Humph. Albert is very glad you did. Aren't you, Albert?"

"Yes, Professor."

"Exactly. Do you think Elsner doesn't know? Well, that will be all, my boy. Friday. Same hour."

"Yes, Professor."

"—Umm. Practice! You hear?"

"Yes, Professor."

Albert had his music under his arm. Jozef Elsner saw him to the door. He closed the door. "A nice talent, Louis. Maybe some day for you. Who knows. Sit down."

"Only for a minute." Louis Pleyel sat down. "You might have told me you had moved."

"As a matter of fact, Louis—in another day or two. It's exactly what I was going to do. But there are so many little details when you are getting yourself established. Now, Louis, you will have a glass of wine? Eh?"

"No, thank you." Louis Pleyel eyed the cot, the bare floor, the cold stove. "Establish yourself—in a neighborhood like this?"

"Neighborhood? Tch, tch—who thinks of a neighborhood?"

"Elsner, I could help. I could recommend important pupils."

"Important?" Jozef Elsner rubbed his hands. "Neighborhoods? What has that to do with talent? Nothing! Absolutely nothing, Louis. Tch, tch—I am ashamed of you, Louis, I am glad to see you. A cup of tea?"

"No. Nothing. Thank you Elsner, I came to tell you — Chopin is back."

"Frederic!" Jozef Elsner's jaw shot out. "When? Where? Where is he?"

"He came back—two days ago. He is not in Paris!"

"—Then he is not back? Eh?"

"He is back. He is at Nohant."

Jozef Elsneh put his hand to his head. He rumpled his hair. "Umm. But why didn't he tell me?" Then suddenly: "Ah! Tch, tch—Elsner, you are getting more stupid every day. Where would he find me? Still—if he had gone to Madame Mercier—"

He was at a clothes closet. He pulled off his coat.

"—Elsner! What are you doing?"

"What do you think I am doing? I'm going to Nohant—Yes, immediately—"

"Maybe you ought to write a note first."

"—Notes! Tch, tch. Who has time for notes! Louis, there's no time to waste. So much to do! Now that he's back, you will see about the concerts, won't you? No time to waste—none! We've wasted too much already. It's time now for work. Louis, you agree?"

"Yes, Elsner; I agree."

"—Louis, your'e not drinking! Help yourself to wine. Don't be bashful. You'll find a jug—" Josef Elsner was now in his great coat. "There's a glass—look around, Louis—you'll find everything—" At the door he paused, "Oh, yes! Good day, Louis! And thank you!"

Then he closed the door on a startled Monsieur Pleyel. He hurried down the stairs, and only his legs which were not so firm as they once were prevented him from taking two steps at a time.

Approval Of Peace Plan Is Predicted

SALT LAKE CITY, April 24 (AP) —Senator Connally (D-Tex), a delegate to the San Francisco conference, expressed confidence today the Senate will ratify the peace plan worked out by the United Nations.

"The American people are convinced that they want no more wars," said the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee during a stopover here. "We are going to devote our ideas to an international peace organization and that sentiment is reflected in the Senate."

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

THE reason I am telling you about this is because you may have had the same experience recently.

Billy had promised me faithfully to be at my house last Saturday at ten to help me with the garden work.

Ten came, eleven came, twelve came, — no Billy, no phone call.

So I called Billy up at 12:30.

"Oh, I forgot" he said, "but I'll surely be there next Saturday."

BRANDEIS

Things being as they are I didn't blow up but I hope that he will be here when Saturday comes.

* * *

Joe was to be here at eight this morning to build me a new drive-way from the road to my barn. We had gone all over the project and I got up an hour earlier than usual to receive him.

It's noon now and Joe hasn't shown up or let me hear from him.

I called up his place and his wife told me she didn't know where he was.

"He never tells me" she said, "maybe he'll be there later."

I doubt it.

The painter also was to be here first thing this morning. The winter has been pretty rotgh on my house and the paint is peeling off in a number of places.

I had made all arrangements with him about ten days ago and he said he'd be here without fail.

He just called me up and told me he couldn't come for at least three weeks. A "big hurry-up" job had come along, he said, and that would keep him busy. It might even be a month.

SO here I am, stuck, and only one out of three even had the decency to let me know that he couldn't keep his promise.

I understand it's the same all over.

I know there is a labor shortage and that everybody is very busy.

But why does there have to be a decency-shortage as well?

Why can't people observe the common rules of courtesy and good business even now when the demand is so much greater than the supply?

How about Billy and Joe and the painter when the war is over and labor plentiful again?

And who do you think will kick the loudest about unemployment? we jam the brakes.

Truman Hope Of South

"Better Break" Seen For Area

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

WESTERNERS on Capitol Hill believe that the first true-blue President from beyond the Mississippi river will give them in the postwar era a larger share of the national riches than they have had under any of his predecessors. Despite Herbert Hoover's Iowa birth and California residence, they do not regard him as one of their own because his interests were predominantly Eastern.

TUCKER

regards himself akin to Dixie. Inevitably, though gradually, they think, he will give a better break to that area.

They realize that FDR inaugurated a conservation program which benefited the West and the South. But the war's outbreak curtailed the expansion of vast power systems, irrigation of desert acres and similar projects. Moreover, as a pioneer, Mr. Roosevelt did not concern himself with such bread-and-butter questions as railroad rate revision, land and water difficulties, cattle and oil interests etc.

He entrusted these extremely vital matters to Secretary Harold Ickes, whose sometimes bureaucratic and tyrannical manner antagonized prospective beneficiaries. Harold wanted the federal government to hog everything, as evidenced in his attempt to confiscate the Jackson Hole country in Wyoming, and he insisted that all control rests in his hands. The "curmudgeon" became virtually an absentee landlord.

What the West wants most from President Truman is retention of the vast industrial plants built there in the war effort. They had seen signs that New York groups were scheming to wrest their gains from them in the postwar period.

FAIR: A Missouri editor has forwarded an especially quotable report on the President's humanity, honesty, friendliness and spirit of tolerance.

"Here's a slant on Harry Truman you may find useful. I've known the man since before he was United States senator, for he lived only two counties south of us.

"Here's how very human he is. For years I had seen former Sen. Bennett Clark of Missouri as a guest at the Association of Newspapers Editors' banquets, through his brother-in-law, then a New Orleans publisher, and I thought it would be nice to invite Harry Truman.

"Last year I wrote him and asked him to be my guest. He replied: 'I have always wanted an invitation to that affair, but never could get one.' He accepted, and then either he or I suggested that we drag Bob Hannegan in, too.

"We had one extra ticket, and guess whom we took to the dinner? Joseph Pulitzer, publisher of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Joe had little use for either Bob or Truman, and had never met Hannegan personally, although Bob had been Collector of Internal Revenue right there in St. Louis. I seated Pulitzer between Truman and Hannegan, and he had a grand time.

PENDERGAST: "As evidence of Truman's broad-mindedness, you might like to know that his last recommendation as senator, so far as I know, was for the appointment of a Catholic as a federal judge. He recommended and Roosevelt named Albert Ridge, Kansas City Knight of Columbus, as successor to Merrill Otis of the Western District of Missouri. So far as we know, Ridge is the first Catholic federal judge ever to serve in Missouri. Truman is a high-ranking Mason.

"I am terribly fond of Harry Truman. He's a human being. But don't make the mistake that he'll be another Harding simply because he likes poker and an occasional drink. Harry Truman can see through people as Harding never could.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S endorsement of an extension of the Hull reciprocal trade pacts gives fresh impetus to the tariff fight raging in Washington and dividing the business world into two warring camps.

His firm stand satisfies a fast growing segment of industrialists, bankers, importers, retailers, farmers and labor leaders who believe that international trade is a "two-way street."

The group includes many Republicans besides those who followed Presidential Candidate Dewey in accepting the Hull agreements in 1944. This combination is convinced that we must buy from abroad if we hope to sell 10 billion dollars' worth of our goods and thereby provide five million extra jobs.

LEMAN

The President's statement dismays the r anks of the protectionists still strongly entrenched in the chemical, leather, wool, drug and other important fields of manufacturing. Its champions are resisting any further lowering of the bars. New York and Washington spokesmen for it forecasted that the new President would junk the cornerstone of the Roosevelt-Wallace-Clayton trade program.

That such predictions were ever made seriously seems strange to informed Manhattan businessmen.

In their opinion Mr. Roosevelt would never have suggested Mr. Truman as his running mate—as he did in his Chicago letter—had he thought he would sabotage his economic platform, and they maintain that Mr. Truman, as Vice President, would not have worked so assiduously behind the scenes to win congressional support for the trade agreements had he been antagonistic to them.

TRADE: New York executives give many reasons for the present favoring of tariff bargaining. Primarily, they think the movement will stimulate foreign trade and thus keep the factories of businessmen running.

Several of our basic industries depend on exports to maintain high levels of employment and profits. Firms marketing machine tools, cotton, tractors, sewing machines etc. normally dispose of one-fifth to one-half of their output abroad.

Large-volume, low-cost industries hold their position by sending their surpluses overseas. All sorts of other enterprises pick up extra change in Europe and South America and the benefits flow to our mines, transport and farms.

Without adequate foreign trade we may take another financial tailspin. "The depression was foreseen by a decline in our exports as early as 1926," asserts Dr. Paul H. Nystrom, professor of Marketing, Columbia university. "When these slumped our manufacturing, cotton and wheat industries began to suffer. We cannot be greatly prosperous again without an export trade."

INDUSTRIES: But other peoples cannot buy from us unless we buy from them. One means of payment is the industrialization of farm and forest nations.

Howard Coonley, former president of the National Association of Manufacturers, has just returned to Manhattan after an extensive survey in the Far East. "Unless China is industrialized, the future safety of the East is in jeopardy," he warns. "When I was there, less than 6,000 trucks were operating in all of free China. She will need electric power and transportation equipment."

Peru wants to buy 5,000 motor craft for her rivers. The Dutch seek nine million dollars' worth of hydroelectric machinery, pipes, pile drivers, pumps and motor vehicles. But they all expect us to take goods in return.

IMPORTS: Analysts point out that the term "two-way street" is a limited definition. Successful trade often makes a triangle. For example, Great Britain is our best customer for cotton, tobacco, gasoline, fruits and motion pictures. English companies ern dollars to pay for these by selling machinery, textiles etc. to tropical countries. These nations in turn ship rubber, tea, coffee, cocoa, fibers, fruits etc. to the U.S.A. This "wheel" cannot revolve if

We've Got To Pull Up The Old Belt Tight!

Pacific Supply Job A Vast One

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The American people might as well know now that they've got to keep the old belt tight.

The end of the war in Europe, which can't be long off, naturally will cause exultation and naturally also will provoke a general desire for relaxation of restrictions and a demand for more of the ordinary things of life.

STOKES

But that just can't be and it won't be.

The war in the Pacific will require more and more. It's simple arithmetic. A large part of the Army in Europe is to be moved to the Pacific to finish off the Japs as quickly as possible. That will be a mammoth job of transport such as we have not yet seen. Redeployment, as it is called, is beginning already in a small way. Later, troops and supplies will move in endless convoys.

Supply Problem Great

Recently I had the opportunity to study the problem of supply in Europe. That is problem enough, as is demonstrated by the strain to keep up with the armies advancing swiftly across Germany, and the necessary occasional halt for the supply lines to catch up.

But that is comparatively simple as compared with the Pacific supply problem. It is about 3,000 miles from the Atlantic seaboard to the front lines in Germany. It is 6,000 miles from the Pacific coast to the Philippines. But the task of moving men and supplies from Europe to the Philippines is something else again. That is roughly 13,000 miles.

GREAT quantities of supplies must be moved. About 70 per cent of the supplies left in Europe are in condition to be used and will be transferred to the Pacific.

This will take great fleets of ships, and ships use oil. Naval operations in the Pacific require lots of oil. So do bombers, which literally drink up gasoline, and a stepped-up program of bombing is in prospect.

Consequently there will be no extra gasoline for civilians here with the end of the war in Europe, or so at least says Gen. Brehon Somervell, commander of Army Service Forces, despite recent promises by Secretary of Interior Ickes. General Somervell just does not see how it will be possible.

Food, Shoes To Be Tight

Food still will be a problem. Meats and fats will continue to be scarce. The food problem is complicated by the needs not only for our Army, but for the Philippine army and others fighting with us, for civilians in Europe, for peoples of other nations enslaved by the Germans, and for the hordes of German war prisoners.

Supplies of shoes are going to be tighter still. Many millions of pairs are needed for the Army and 90 per cent of available leather already has been earmarked for that purpose. Rayon hose and other rayon articles of clothing for women will be reduced in quantity because of the need for rayon for mosquito netting for our troops in the Pacific. These nets cannot be made of cotton because it rots to quickly in tropical climates.

WE are going to equip Chinese armies for their operations against the Japs on the mainland, and that will require much stuff of all kinds. The better able the Chinese are to fight, the easier it will be on our armies.

Additional facilities of all sorts will be needed for the knock-out blow in the Pacific. Manila, for example, was badly shattered. A literal fleet was sunk in the harbor to block it. Power plants and gas plants were put out of commission.

Supply for the Pacific, both in the movement from Europe and from the mainland, will require a vast quantity of shipping. Cargo ships are now being reconverted on a large scale for moving troops from Europe. They will take wheat and other supplies over and bring troops back.

This country still faces a tremendous job, requiring still further sacrifices. The end of the war in Europe will be only a phase.

Former Texan Is To Head Training Bureau

LANSING, Mich., April 24 (AP) —George F. Fern, director of the state board of control for vocational education, will resign May 7 to become chief of the training bureau of the office of secretary of war.

Fern will direct the in-service training of more than 1,200,000 civilian employes.

Fern has been director of adult education for the state of Texas and was on the staff of Texas A. and M. college.

Vet Recovers $1,000 And Faith Renewed

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 24. (AP) — Mitchell Freeman, a war veteran, has nearly $1,000 back in his pocket today and a renewed faith in human nature.

Freeman reported to police yesterday he had lost a wallet containing $950 in cash, a $33 check and a $10 postal order. A little later the finder, Isaac Litten, turned the wallet over to police, and today Freeman reclaimed his property.

Buses are overburdened as never before. A crisis is near. With more men, tires and gas going to war, present service can barely be maintained. Each day brings greater loads. When you must travel locally, let this be your creed:

1. Do Not Ride in Rush Hours, except to and from your job.
2. Have Exact Fare Ready, saves time and fuss.
3. Move Back When Driver Asks, speeds your ride.

This simple creed will work wonders.

Senate Approves Draft Extension And 6-Month Youth Training Plan

WASHINGTON, April 24. (AP)—A bill extending the draft law for a year but banning the use of 18-year-old draftees in combat without six months training was passed today by the Senate.

The measure, approved on a voice vote, now goes to the House for action on amendments.

The amendment relating to 18-year-olds was passed, 50 to 25, over the objections of the high command. Twenty-three Democrats, 26 Republicans and Senator La Follette (Prog-Wis) voted for it. Against were 19 Democrats and six Republicans.

Over 31 Ban Rejected

Another amendment offered by Senator Brewster (R-Me), to prohibit the drafting of men over 31 after May 1, was rejected 57 to 11.

The current Selective Service law expires May 15. The legislation extends it for one year beyond that date or until the end of the global war, whichever is sooner.

In another development relating to military manpower, the War department announced that enlisted men 42 years of age or older will be discharged from the Army upon their request. About 50,000 men are eligible for such discharges.

Overseas Releases

Overseas soldiers who apply for release under this new policy will be brought back to this country "at the earliest possible date." However, discharges will not be given to such oldsters if they are being disciplined or are in need of medical or surgical treatment.

The prohibition against use of 18-year-old draftees in combat without six months training was sponsored by Senator Stewart (D-Tenn), Johnson (D-Colo), Revercomb (R-WVa) and Wilson (R-Iowa).

In the form finally approved, it would not apply to volunteers—only draftees—and senators disputed whether it affected the Navy at all.

Addition Accepted

At the request of Chairman Walsh (D-Mass) of the naval committee, the sponsors accepted an addition to the language of the ban. This reads:

"This proviso shall not be construed as preventing the assignment of enlisted men of the Navy or Coast Guard and the reserve components thereof to duty for training on combat vessels of the Navy or Coast Guard and at naval bases beyond the continental limits of the United States."

Senator Hill (D-Ala), acting majority leader, argued that the "practical effect of this language is to eliminate the Navy." But Revercomb disputed this. The Navy, the West Virginian said, could not send men into combat without six months training, no matter where they were trained.

Marshall Opposition

Asking defeat of the whole proposal, Hill recalled that General of the Army George C. Marshall had opposed it and had advised that the Army planned, as soon as military conditions permit, to send no soldiers under 19 overseas.

"Let us stand by our military commanders," he pleaded.

Senator Magnuson (D-Wash), who served a tour of duty in the Pacific as a naval reserve officer earlier in the war, urged the Senate to go slow in cutting down on Selective Service.

"No matter how optimistic we may be about the situation in Europe we should remember that this war is far from over," he said. "Westward lies our most formidable enemy, Japan."

Hill said the amendment would "slow down the momentum of our forces in Germany" and tend to prolong the war and increase loss of lives through limitation on combat replacements. Senators Chandler (D-Ky) and Johnson (D-Colo) disputed this.

The amendment's approval would be no reflection on Marshall said Senator Johnson, but reassurance to "the mothers of America."

Revercomb declared this country and China are the only Allied nations without legislation on the subject. England permits no boy to be sent from the British Isles until he is aged 18 years, six months, Revercomb said, while Canada and Australia keep them at home until 19, New Zealand until 21, and Russia's conscription age begins at 19.

Tax Reductions Might Be Made

WASHINGTON, April 24. (U.P.)—Chairman Robert L. Doughton, D., N. C., of the House ways and means committee, said today after conferring with President Truman that some tax reductions might be possible after V-E day.

Doughton was Mr. Truman's first caller this morning. He said his visit was purely for courtesy, but he discussed taxes with reporters as he left the White House.

A joint special committee of House ways and means and Senate finance members has been studying the tax situation, Doughton said, in order to get as much advance information as is possible on tax problems.

"I hope taxes for both business and individual tax payers will go down, because I certainly hope they wont' have to be any higher," Doughton said.

Doughton is one of the few rivals of President Truman as an early bird. He usually gets to his office on Capitol Hill anywhere from 6:30 to 8 a. m.

Much Mileage Saved By Stock Industry

A war-time saving of 3,435,200 truck-miles a year by the livestock industry in the Lubbock district of the Office of Defense Transportation was announced today by Nettles F. Nelson, district manager of that organization.

The saving is being accomplished through plans worked out by 45 committees within the industry under sponsorship of the ODT. Collection routes have been rearranged to eliminate duplications and avoidable use of trucks, tires, gasoline and manpower.

This cooperative saving is only one of the many ways savings are being made to keep wheels turning on the home front while battle fronts are being supplied.

Nelson said an annual saving of 135,640 truck-miles is also being made through a dairy industry plan in the Lubbock district.

No Light Shed On Status Of Hopkins

WASHINGTON, April 24 (AP)—A White House news conference failed to shed any light today on the governmental future of Harry Hopkins, special assistant to the late President Roosevelt.

Eben Ayers, acting White House press secretary who conducted the conference, was asked by a reporter: "what is Harry Hopkins' status now"

"Status quo I think," Ayers replied.

Ceilings Set On Frigidaire Models

DALLAS, April 24. (U.P.)—Retail and wholesale ceiling prices have been set on frigidaire models of household electric ranges to be produced this year, Office of Price Administration announced today.

The ceilings are based on March, 1942, levels. The lowest retail price for model B-17 is $175.35 for sales in the zone nearest Dayton, O.; the highest for the same model is $189.31 for retail sales on the west coast. Retail ceilings for model B-17-LL are about $5 less. The price includes delivery, installation and federal tax.

OPA said nine electric range manufacturers have now applied for ceilings since War Production board has permitted production of a limited number of ranges this year.

Promotions Approved For Patton, Hodges

WASHINGTON, April 24. (AP)—The Senate military committee today approved promotions to the rank of four-star general for George S. Patton, Third army commander, and Courtney H. Hodges, commander of the First army.

Both promotions, from lieutenant general, were made by President Truman, who said two such excellent fighting men should have the increased rank.

Safety Association Elects New Officers

DALLAS, April 24 (AP)—Directors of the Texas Safety association elected M. E. Brooks of Houston president for the coming year, at a meeting here today.

Vice presidents named included A. F. Allen of Dallas, C. A. Miller of Houston, A. W. Breeland and C. J. Rutland of Dallas, Oscar Burton of Tyler, Noah Dietrich of Houston and Clyde Stephens of Sherman.

E. E. McAdams of Austin was elected treasurer and R. O. Smith of Austin was reelected managing director.

Heartburn—Gas?

At the first sign of acute distress put a teaspoonful of Neutracid in half a glass of hot water and drink slowly. There is positively nothing faster or better than Neutracid to bring fast relief to the sufferer of stomach distress, acid indigestion, gas pains, sour stomach or other stomach upset when caused by excess stomach acid. Ask for Neutracid.

View On Tariffs Given By Wallace

WASHINGTON, April 24. (U.P.)—Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace said today that "a fighting chance to prevent world war III" was at stake in the current controversy over low tariffs.

Wallace clashed again with Republican members of the House ways and means committee as hearings were resumed on legislation to extend the reciprocal trade agrements act. The bill would permit reduction of present tariff rates by 50 per cent.

Rep. Bertrand W. Gearhart, R., Calif., argued that the claims originally advanced in behalf of the trade agreements had not been justified by subsequent events.

Gearhart asserted that unemployment had not been eliminated in the 1930's and that war had not been averted. He asked what promises were being made now.

"We have a fighting chance," Wallace replied, "to prevent world war III."

TO CONTINUE OBSERVANCE

NEW YORK, April 24 (AP)—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis will continue observance of the late President Roosevet's birthday, Jan. 30, with the march of dimes fund campaign, Basil O'Connor, foundation president, said today.

Mrs. Wright Is Named Home Nursing Leader

Chairmanship of the home nursing committee of the Lubbock county Red Cross chapter has been accepted by Mrs. I. B. Wright, it was announced by Mrs. J. H. Stiles, executive secretary.

Mrs. Wright, who lives at 2320 Twenty-sixth street, is a graduate of All Saints hospital in Fort Worth. She has lived in Lubbock since 1935. She has been active in nursing groups here and is a member of the Business and Professional Women's club. She has been chairman of the Red Cross nurses aid committee.

She has received promises from four graduate nurses they will teach classes in home nursing and classes are expected to begin soon. No home nursing courses have been offered here recently.

ALLEGIANCE PLEDGED

CHICAGO, April 24 (AP) — A pledge of the allegiance and cooperation of the Methodist church in the form of an official greeting was made to President Truman yesterday by the church's council of bishops.

Dallas Catholics To Pray For Conference

DALLAS, April 24 (U.P.)—Dallas Catholics will gather at Sacred Heart cathedral tomorrow to pray for a successful meeting of world diplomats at San Francisco which will ultimately lead to a lasting peace with good will among nations.

Bishop Lynch will preside at the services to be attended by all the Catholic clergy in the diocese who can attend.

In an aside, Catholic Rector Very Rev. W. J. Bender expressed concern about what he called the "forgotten promise" of the Atlantic Charter. The priest said that religious leaders were wondering why no mention was made of the four freedoms—from want, fear, of worship and speech—at Dumbarton Oaks.

"The world has heard too little of these ideals," Rev. Bender said.
