3rd prison's chances reviewed

State Rep. Rob Junell of San Angelo said Tuesday that a number of factors are at work in determining if the wheels will be set in motion next year for the construction of a third state prison here.

Speaking to 200 people who attended a 5 p.m. appreciation dinner for him at the County Ag Barn off West Hwy. 80, Rep. Junell said the state is paying counties to hold 4,000 state prison inmates who are "backed up" in county jails.

That number is not unmanageable, he said, but the impetus for new prisons will grow if it increases.

The representative said all available prison construction funds have been expended, but the State Legislature in Austin might put a bond issue on the statewide ballot for approval in November 2001 if it decides more prisons are needed.

He said Colorado City is "second in line" to Karnes City in South Texas for the Texas Department of Criminal Justice's next high security unit.

Rep. Junell predicted that the bond issue will be in the vicinity of $500 million to cover the TDCJ's construction needs for the next 10 years.

Hospital bond firm hired

Mitchell County Hospital Board members Tuesday night voted to employ an Abilene and Dallas bonding company to handle its bond issue to build a new hospital, doctors' offices and nursing home.

Following an hour and 10 minute presentation by Senior Vice President George Williford of the First Southwest Co. in Dallas, board member Dale Geiger moved to use Williford's company and was seconded by Kenneth Beasley.

Williford said he worked for many years in Abilene with First Southwest executive Joe Smith, who recently handled the City of Colorado City's interim financing for its water wellfield project.

Council hopefuls declare

Two more Colorado City City Council candidates filed for the Saturday, May 6, election last week, and longtime Westbrook Mayor J. L. "Bill" Rees said he had decided to seek another two year term.

Incumbent District 3 Councilman Gary Redwine filed for another term.

He will face Christmas in April leader Bertie Kidd, who filed for the office on the first

Absentee balloting starts

Contested Democratic primary races for district judge and two Mitchell County commissioner's seats got absentee balloting off to a strong start Monday.

County Clerk Debby Carlock reported 20 Democratic votes in person and three mail in Republican ballots.

Ms. Carlock said 11 votes were from Colorado City's Pct. 1, where incumbent Ed Roach faces challenger Bill Muncrief, and three were from Pct. 3, where incumbent Wendy Inman of the Spade Community and Bruce Rich of Westbrook are vying for a four year term.

"We have two contested commissioner's races, and that's what may be bringing them in right now," she said.

APPRECIATION DINNER HONOREE Rob Junell was joined by Marcelene Cox, left, and Emabeth Thompson Tuesday afternoon at the County Ag Barn, where 200 people attended to thank him for his service since 1989 as the 72nd District state representative.

Amtrak will be making local stops

The railroad "made" Colorado City in the 1880's, and the romance of railroad travel will apparently return here in 2002.

Amtrak, the national railway passenger company, is moving its Sunset Limited Route from South Texas and bringing it to West Texas, apparently including Colorado City.

The news came from Washington, D. C., on Monday, when Amtrak officials announced that they will end service to Alpine, Del Rio and Sanderson and send their trains through Pecos, Odessa, Big Spring, C-City, Sweetwater, Abilene, Cleburne and Dallas.

The route will lead from Los Angeles, Calif., to Chicago, Ill.

Morgan Creek Plant to stay, TXU says

Rumors about the demise of TXU Electric Co.'s Morgan Creek Plant may have been exaggerated.

Month after month and year after year of pasture burning, creek cracking drought have raised the specter of "What if it never rains?" said TXU spokesman Sandy Smith of Dallas Friday.

"If it never rained, electricity would be only one of the millions of problems we would have," she said.

"We would die of thirst and die of starvation, and we would get real dirty.

"It's going to rain."

Ms. Smith, commenting on the Colorado River Municipal Water District's (CRMWD) diversion of Lake Spence water into Lake Colorado City, said TXU would be loathe to abandon the plant because its summertime demands are hard to meet with every generating facility it has.

Asked if the company is taking the Morgan Creek Plant operation "season by season," she said, "I wouldn't necessarily say that because during the hot summers, we're running everything we can run.

"Everything's critical."

The plant on the southeast side of Lake C-City has 44 employees.

Ms. Smith said the fast moving, hard hitting thunderstorm that brought hail, high winds and .33 of an inch of rain here about 1:30 a.m. Friday only needed four hours to reach Dallas, where it gave an identical performance.

TXU and CRMWD officials announced on Tuesday, Feb. 22, that they had begun routing three million gallons of water a day into Lake C-City to cool the plant as it produces electricity.

"On Friday, Feb. 18, the CRMWD began delivery of water to Lake C-City," said TXU Senior Vice President of Fossil Generation John Carlson of Dallas in an amended news release Friday.

"The three year agreement will allow TXU Electric to request up to 5,000 acre feet of water per year. The initial delivery of water, approximately three million gallons a day, is from a six inch outlet on an existing district pipeline that crosses the upper end of Lake C-City.

"By mid March, when construction of a pump station at Moss Creek Lake and a new

FORMER RECORD PUBLISHER JOE BELL, center, received the Colorado City Jaycees' Distinguished Service Award in 1955 from his friend Jay Craddock, who had won it the previous year. With him is his wife Madge.

Like many newspapermen's, former Colorado City Record Editor-Publisher Joe Bell's life is as interesting as many of the stories he covered.

The 80 year Brownwood native and his wife Madge are now retired in Austin and have been dealing with health problems.

Bell has had Parkinson's Disease since the 1970's and later developed diabetes and had a heart attack.

He was just getting over a bad cold that had gotten into his lungs when he was interviewed by telephone recently, and Mrs. Bell was in a hospital recovering from surgery to stop brain hemorrhaging that resulted from a stroke on Dec. 17.

She was expected to be released by now.

Bell edited the Record from '52 to '72.

He came here with Roy Fox, who had been publishing the paper at San Saba, and bought Fox out a year later because the paper here "wasn't doing enough to keep two families."

Fox moved to California to buy into an underground irrigation company and finished his career as printing manager for the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees in Washington, D. C.

Fox died last year in Georgetown.

Bell graduated from Brownwood High School in '37 and enrolled at his hometown Howard Payne College, where he was an indifferent student until one day when he was reading the sports section of the college paper and a journalism student heard him exclaim, "I can do better than that!"

Challenged to do just that, he found himself working alongside young Blackie Sherrod at the paper and realized he had found his niche in society.

"Blackie Sherrod was there with me," Bell said. "He wasn't like me. He was a pretty good student. He played trumpet in the band. He couldn't make the football team."

Bell had worked his way up to managing editor as a senior

Kiwanis pancake supper Friday

The Colorado City Kiwanis Club's primary fundraiser, its annual pancake supper, will be from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Friday, March 3, in the Colorado Middle School Cafeteria.

Proceeds will go in part to finance the club's $400 Sonja Lawson Memorial Scholarship, which was awarded to Colorado High School senior Kristen Browning last spring.

Miss Browning is now a student at Texas Tech University in Lubbock, having received $200 for each of her first two semesters in college.

Tickets for the supper are $5 for adults and $3 for children 12 and under.

Prepared by a cross section of the membership, the meal includes bacon, sausage, coffee, milk and, of course, succulent pancakes.

Four hundred people attended the supper last year.

Bill Crockett is the project chairman.

All money raised locally by the club is spent locally, but the membership privately donated $6,000 last year for Kiwanis International's iodine supplement program for children in poor countries.

The IDD (iodine deficiency disorders) program to date has ensured that eight million children in Somalia and other impoverished nations were born free of mental retardation, and altogether it has affected the lives of 500 million people, a Kiwanis International spokesman in Indianapolis, Ind., said.

A few drops of iodine are also able to prevent blindness and eventual death in children who were born without the nutrient that is found in common table salt.

"It's in liquid form," said C-City Kiwanis Club President Alfred Lynch Monday. "Just a few drops for each kid, and it saves a life.

"It starts out as blindness. Without the iodine, they just die."

outlet are completed, water deliveries should increase to approximately seven million gallons a day.".

The water is being piped northwest from Lake Spence, west of Robert Lee in Coke County south of here, to Moss Creek Lake east of Big Spring and the Barber Lake area northwest of C-City.

It is running south from there down Morgan Creek and under the creek's Interstate 20 bridge into the lake.

"We are pleased to enter into a partnership agreement that is good for the CRMWD and for our customers," Carlson said.

"This is a prudent measure akin to buying insurance for the future.

"We want to be prepared for all contingencies, and given the dry winter we've experienced, this agreement will help ensure that customers have the energy when they need it."

CRMWD General Manager John Grant of Big Spring said the water is being supplied to TXU through the diversionary water system the district uses to keep "highly mineralized low flows" from the Colorado River and Beals Creek from entering the Spence Reservoir.

"The diversion system pipelines can be used for part of the year for their original purpose, and the rest of the time we can use them to move water to Lake Colorado City for TXU," Grant said.

Lake C-City stood at 39 percent of its capacity and Lake Champion at 10 percent in December.

Morgan Creek Manager Alvin Goodman said Tuesday that the percentages have probably not changed by a whole point since then.

"It's been cool, and they haven't dropped a lot," he said.

Goodman estimated that Lake C-City is down by three or four inches and Lake Champion by two or three inches since mid December.

Deadline ends for well sign-ups

The new Lone Wolf Groundwater Conservation District reported a flood of last minute well enrollments on Tuesday prior to the Wednesday, March 1, deadline.

Director Windi Fuller, who also heads the Mitchell County Board of Economic Development, said 1,500 enrollment forms had been received and more were expected.

She had mailed notices of the new district's spacing rules for wells that are not enrolled and "grandfathered" into the system by the deadline to 5,500 county landowners.

"It has just been phenomenal," Ms. Fuller said. "It's overwhelming, the number of people who are coming in.

"The public has responded very well to this program."

You do not have to have your form to the district, in the same office as the Economic Development Board at 136 E. Third St., by Wednesday if it is postmarked by then.

Ms. Fuller mailed out more than 2,000 enrollment forms to landowners who asked for them in response to the mailing of notices late last year.

After the deadline passes and all the forms are in, she said, it will take at least three months to process all the information.

"Probably tomorrow morning, I'll have a line going out my door of people waiting to turn it in," she said.

She is available for more information at 728-2298.

County grand jury reports 10 indictments on Thursday

Two men were indicted on burglary of a building charges and one for endangering a child when a county grand jury issued 10 true bills last Thursday.

Michael Chumley, 19, of 741 Vine St. was true billed in connection with a Jan. 21 break-in at Quick Stop grocery at 1801 Hickory St.

An undisclosed amount of cash was taken, and he was arrested the next day by City Police Investigator Charles Rice.

Chumley remained in custody at the county jail on Tuesday.

Calvin Hunter, 25, of the Colorado City Apartments on North Hwy. 208, No. 21, was indicted for breaking into a building owned by Thomas Mize last May 27 on County Road 141 north of town.

A four wheel drive recreational vehicle was stolen.

Hunter was arrested by Mitchell County Chief Deputy Sheriff Mike Redwine last June 5.

He was released on a $2,000 bond.

Arlice Hamby, 59, of Midland was true billed for endangering a child in connection with his arrest on Dec. 19 near Loraine by Deputy Sheriff Felix Pantoja.

He was arrested for driving while intoxicated with a 6 year old girl in his vehicle, Sheriff Patrick Toombs said.

Hamby is free on a $3,000 bond pending the disposition of his case.

Other true bills include four for possession of marijuana and three for DWI.

West Central Texas Interlocal Crime Task Force Agent Marc Fletcher of Abilene took all four drug possession suspects into custody following stops on Interstate 20.

They are Everardo Chuca Jr., 29, of Fabens, who was arrested Jan. 19; Maria Aragon, 43, of Albuquerque, N. M., arrested Oct. 29; and Israel Palma, 22, and Christoval Ureste, 19, both of Fort Stockton, who were taken into custody on Jan. 20.

Chuca was released on a $2,500 bond, Ms. Aragon on a $1,000 bond and Palma and Ureste on a $10,000 bond each.

Based on the amount of narcotics Agent Fletcher reported finding, Chuca and Ms. Aragon were charged with third degree felonies and the two Fort Stockton men with second degree felonies.

A third degree felony carries a possible prison sentence of two to 10 years and a second degree from two to 20.

City policemen arrested all three DWI suspects.

Officer Mellisa Butts took 60 year old Luis C. Pineda of 638 Elm St. into custody on Dec. 12, Officer George Oliver arrested 56 year old Guadalupe Corona of 1820 Colorado St. on Feb. 7 and Officer Tommy Dill arrested 36 year Victor Allen Huff of 1132 Westpoint on Dec. 25.

They were each released on a $2,000 bond.

Abilene is planning a depot in either its Convention and Visitors Bureau, which is in the old 1908 vintage depot building downtown, or in the new Fort Trails Center that the bureau will open alongside the Union Pacific Railroad in 2003.

Bureau Executive Director Nanci Liles told the CCR Tuesday that even if C-City does not build a depot, passengers here could get on and off the train in a "flag stop."

Ms. Liles explained that a flag stop, or just stopping by a town and letting passengers on or off on steps, may be arranged with a telephone ticket purchase with a credit card.

"I think the romance of rail travel is just great," she said. "The railroad is how we're all connected, and that's what we've been missing."

Under the Amtrak plan to become more profitable in the next two years, Texas will be one of 21 states with expanded, improved passenger train service.

The Chicago route will run through Arkansas and Missouri.

BELL

and was in line to run for editor when the school offered him a job as sports information director.

He let Sherrod run for editor instead and took the job for 50 cents a night, announcing Yellowjackets' games, keeping statistics and serving as official scorer.

He married HPC Band Sweetheart Madge Bennett, formerly of Valera in Coleman County, in '41 -- a "Brownwood beauty" who took up a modeling career in her 50's in Dallas after the couple left C-City.

They have two children, journalist Brenda Bell of Bainbridge Island, Wash., and Austin city planner Craig Bell, and three grandchildren.

Bell left HPC before graduation and started to work for the Brownwood Bulletin as a sports reporter, making $12 a week with 80 cents deducted for Social Security.

He was classified 4-F because of an infected heart valve when World World II began, but he enlisted as a combat correspondent with the Marine Corps and spent the war in the South Pacific.

He covered the landings at the Gilbert Islands and Tarawa, among other invasions, and was one of two correspondents to report the ocean rescue of World War I flying ace Eddie Rickenbacker in '44.

Rickenbacker's plane had gone down, and he floated for 27 days in a lifeboat before he was found.

Bell waited offshore on a Navy ship, awaiting an invasion of mainland Japan at Nagasaki, when the atomic bombs were dropped on Nagasaki and Hiroshima, ending the war.

He could not see the mushroom cloud.

He was looking to buy a paper in West Texas after the war, and he worked briefly in Lamesa before Sherrod called from Temple, where he was the editor, and told him the afternoon Fort Worth Press needed reporters.

Competitor to the much bigger and more prosperous morning Fort Worth Star Telegram, the Press is one of the best remembered newspapers in the history of Texas journalism, although Bell says there has been some embellishment.

Sherrod, the longtime Dallas Morning News sports and editorial columnist, later arrived at the Press and was joined by Bud Shrake, Dan Jenkins and other less renowned but no less colorful writers.

"It's part legend," said Bell, who enjoyed the rambunctious Press in part because he was able to cover his favorite beat, the county courthouse.

"I called them 'The Roadshow,'" he said. "They wrote the best obits of themselves, better than anybody.

"We were a different bunch. We had been to war. We partied all night sometimes and worked all day -- every night till Sunday."

He was at the Press for two years, eventually covering most of the news beats and ending up as assistant city editor.

Sherrod had left newswriting to become a sportswriter, but Bell went in the opposite direction "because I had already figured out there was more to life than sports."

He took a news job at the Star Telegram for an extra $10, progressing from $65 to $75 a week.

He became friends with Star Telegram editors and writers Jack Douglas Sr., George Dolan and Bill Durham and Dallas Morning News columnist Paul Crume, who often visited Madge and him in C-City in the '60's and '70's.

"I was from the Brownwood Bulletin and knew very little, but I wasn't a dumbass," he said.

Asked if he saw Sherrod later, he said, "Blackie doesn't come to you. You go to Blackie's."

He said Douglas, who is credited with helping to make the Star Telegram the leading newspaper in the state in the '50's and '60's, "was like a mother hen -- always worrying about the outcome and trying to cover everybody."

Bell has not had good luck with his health, but it could have been worse, he says, because he has had Parkinson's Disease for 30 years and has been relatively unimpaired by it.

It is a progressive nervous disease characterized by muscular tremors, partial facial paralysis, weakness and impaired muscular control.

Ironically, two of his friends who also worked in the downtown area, Ford dealership co-owner Jay Craddock and oilman Bob Robinson, turned up with the disease during the same period that he did and afterward succumbed to it.

He was an dedicated golfer, and Craddock was his No. 1 partner.

City's water contracts with WISD, MCU are discussed

The Colorado City City Council might take up its dispute over water contracts with Mitchell County Utility Co. and Westbrook Independent School District at its Tuesday, March 14, meeting, City Manager Steve Shutt said Tuesday.

Council members voted on Jan. 11 to give the utility company and school district 60 day notices of the city's intent to terminate their water supply contracts.

"There may be an item on the agenda for Westbrook," Shutt said. "We have not heard from Mitchell County Utility.

"They have a separate source of water which we have no control over. It constitutes a cross connection, which is not acceptable under state rules."

Shutt said it "remains to be seen" if the city will block its lines to MCU and WISD and withdraw as their state required secondary source now that MCU has drilled its own wells and become WISD's main supplier.

Westbrook Supt. Tommy Hancock said Tuesday afternoon that he has talked to Shutt and MCU head Mike Hemphill about the contracts, which run to Oct. 31, 2002, for the school district and June 30, 2001, for the company.

"Everything is still kind of in limbo until my board meets and decides what they're going to do," Supt. Hancock said.

He said the WISD Board will probably meet later in the same week that the C-City Council does.

Hemphill declined to comment.

The two former customers went to independent sources during water rationing the city undertook last summer while completing a wellfield near Loraine and a six mile pipeline into town.

City Finance Office Connie Ponko estimated that the city will lose $150,000 in water revenues during the current fiscal year as a result.

Mayor Pro-tem Bob Reily said the city is concerned that it is spending $3.5 million in the two phase water project and MCU was once its biggest customer.

City Attorney Tom Rees Sr. said after an executive session on Jan. 11 that the city is being deprived its its ability to control the water supply because the two systems commingle.

BALLOTING

Absentee voting will continue from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. on weekdays through Friday, March 10, in the county courthouse lobby.

Ms. Carlock said people who want to vote by mail may call her at 728-3481 and request an application to be mailed to them.

Mail in ballots must be returned to the clerk's office by Tuesday, March 7.

Payment assistance planned for first time home buyers

Mitchell County commissioners Tuesday enacted a resolution supporting a proposed new homebuyers' down payment assistance program.

County Judge Ray Mayo explained that the West Central Texas Council of Governments (WTCOG) in Abilene is preparing a grant application for the Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs in Austin and is asking the counties in its jurisdiction to approve it.

Thomas Mann, WTCOG's director of economic development, had told Judge Mayo in a letter that the program will be an addition to the organization's First Time Homebuyer Program.

"This will be over and above the four percent assistance provided by the basic low interest bond program and should be of considerable help to homebuyers within our 19 counties," Mann said.

The resolution says assistance will be given to people who earn less than 80 percent of the area's median income.

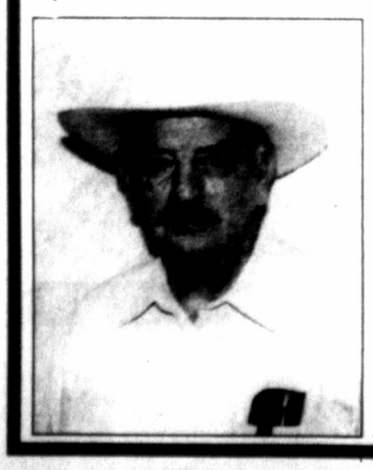

"If it'll help anybody, I'm for it," said Pct. 3 Commissioner Wendy Inman in moving to approve it.

Other business in the 9 a.m. called meeting, which lasted five minutes with all members present except Pct. 2 Commissioner Carl Guelker, included approving a $1,000 budget amendment for the county library.

The money is from an anonymous gift, Auditor Susan Buckalew said.

Differences between Chile and the U.S. told by foreign exchange student

Chilean students work harder at school and are much less likely to have part time jobs than their American counterparts, an exchange student at Colorado High School says.

Boris Papic, 17, of Santiago, Chile, has only been studying English for a year and struggles some with the language, but he enjoys the friendliness of the students and helpfulness of the teachers at CHS, he said.

"We work pretty hard," he said, explaining that Chilean students attend classes from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. five days a week.

"The kids don't work there. They concentrate on school."

The second oldest in a family of five children, his father is a lawyer and his mother a former nutritionist who operate an animal breeding farm as an avocation.

Boris owns an iguana, two dogs and a bird, and he intends to extend his fondness for animals into a career as a veterinarian.

In a nation with rich mineral deposits and 95 percent literacy, it is common for public school graduates to attend college, he said.

Santiago, a city of about five million people in central Chile on the Argentinian border, has a number of universities including Universidad Catolica, or Catholic University, and Universidad de Chile -- his father's alma mater and the institution he plans to attend.

It takes eight years to become a veterinarian in Chile, including a year of residency.

"I like the people here," said Boris, who will return to Chile after school dismisses in May and begin his senior year this fall.

"They are very friendly and nice, always trying to help me."

He speaks Spanish and is doing well with English, generally needing a translation only when you talk too fast or string too many unfamiliar words together.

He says Chilean Spanish is different from Madrid Spanish and is difficult for neophytes.

He has two brothers, 20 and 12, and two sisters, 13 and 10.

His older brother is studying English and French in London, England.

Having arranged his American sojourn through a program called Experiment Chile in his hometown, Boris's host family are Aaron and Nancy Thompson and their four elementary and middle school age children, James, Desirea, Nikki and Samantha, of 1530 East Interstate 20.

He is an enthusiastic soccer player in Santiago who was disappointed to find that CHS does not have a competitive soccer program.

He also plays basketball and volleyball and is considering trying out for the CHS track team, being a dedicated runner who often runs in the afternoon after getting home from school.

Lying in south southwestern South America with Peru on the north and Cape Horn and the southern tip of Argentina on the south, Chile has a 2,700 mile Pacific coatline and a population of 15 million.

Only 100 to 250 miles wide, it covers 292,135 square miles, compared to Texas' 268,601.

Boris said C-City teenagers don't know much about Chile and are curious about it.

He tells them Santiago is a modern city with shopping malls, movie theaters and tall buildings.

Chile features the Atacama Desert in the north, where most of its minerals, iron, coal, oil, salt, manganese, molybdenum, salt, sulphur and the world's largest copper deposits, are located, and it is rainy with forests in the south.

The Andes Mountains rise into the clouds along its eastern border.

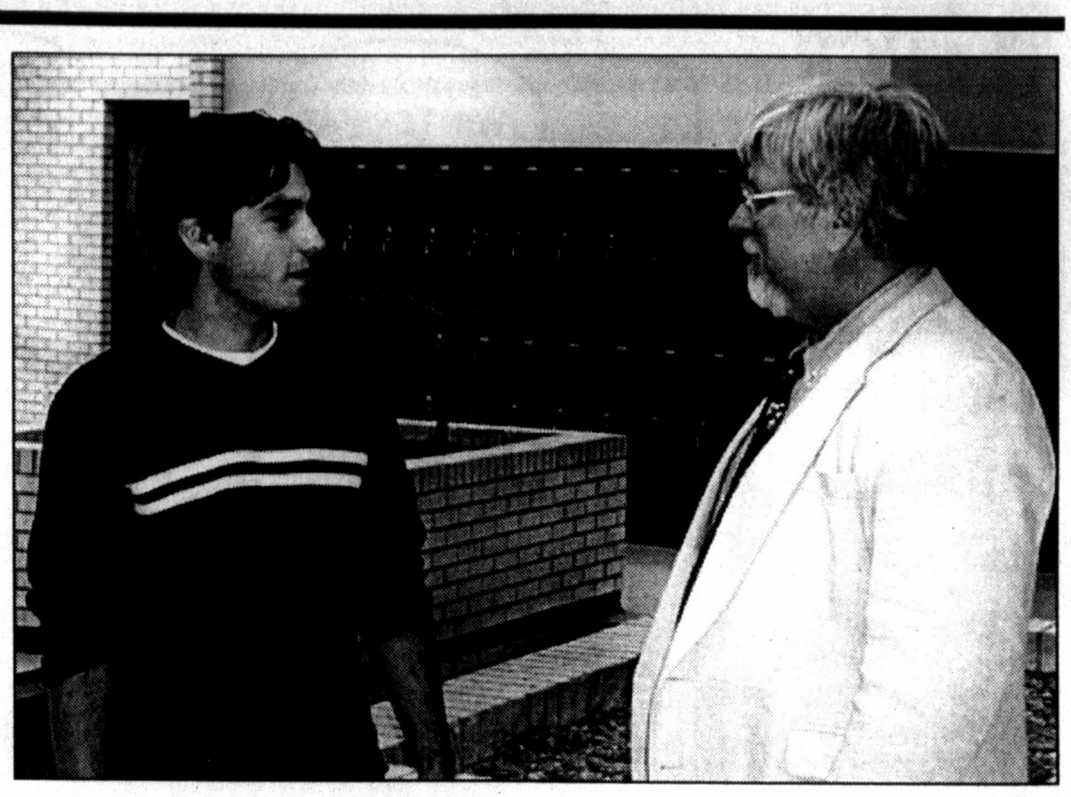

The coastal city of Arica is in the far north, and Chile's third major population center is Concepcion, south of Santiago, the capital.

It has a representative government headed by newly elected President Ricardo Lagos, whom Boris likes.

The Papics raise cattle, horses, cats and dogs on their small acreage inside Santiago and sell them.

Other than his older brother, he is the first member of his family to study outside Chile.

He applied to be a foreign exchange student in the United States six months prior to his assignment last year.

CHILEAN FOREIGN EXCHANGE STUDENT Boris Papic talks with CHS Counselor Cliff Vlasin, who scheduled his curriculum of English, Spanish, American government, art and other subjects. Boris's father is an attorney in Santiago, Chile.

Century Men miss Grammy, plan new album and tour

A choral group to which a Colorado City man has belonged since the 1960's didn't win the Grammy it was nominated for last week on national television.

But it wasn't much of a disappointment because the CenturyMen were gratified just to be among the six nominees.

Charter member John Bullock, one of 100 Southern Baptist songleaders who made the nominated Christmas album "Beautiful Star," thought his group might be mentioned during the 7 p.m. Wednesday broadcast on CBS TV.

Because it was in the somewhat obscure category of "Classical Crossover," however, the name of the winner was only run across the screen and the other nominees were not mentioned.

The winner was "Schickele: Hornsmoke" by the Chestnut Brass Co.

"We would have loved to win that, but it was pretty exciting just to be nominated," Bullock said Friday.

"So we're not going to worry about it. Everybody had a good attitude because we never thought we'd be nominated in the first place."

He and the other members received a congratulatory e mail message from CenturyMen President Tom Smith of Mauldin, S. C.

Led by Director-Producer Beryl Red of New York City, the group will convene on Sunday, June 11, for the Southern Baptist Music Conference in Atlanta, Ga., and then go on a weeklong tour of the South.

They will stop at the First Baptist Church in Knoxville, Tenn., where they recorded "Beautiful Star" two years ago, to make another album and will finish the tour on June 18 at Ridgecrest, N. C.

Bullock is music director of Oak Street Baptist Church.

Marines need to toughen up

By Bob Campbell

Judging from a documentary I watched the other night on the modern Marine Corps, the Corps is quite a bit softer than it used to be.

It was a politically correct, "feel good" segment on A&E, narrated by a former Marine, Bill Kurtis.

It had the opposite effect on me because it looks like the standards have slipped.

I know we still have a lot of tough Marines who are ready to fight, but I got the impression that that applies more to the elite units, like the snipers and Force Recon, than to the Corps in general these days.

One thing that dismayed me is that the recruits only have to do three chinups and run three miles in 28 minutes to earn the Globe and Anchor.

In 1942, when my dad became a Marine prior to serving on Guam, Treasury Island, Pago Pago and islands, their final exam was to march 50 miles with a full pack, a rifle and a half canteen of water.

They built up to it by going 25 miles on a full canteen and 35 miles on three quarters of a canteen. Middle aged officers led the way.

That was one of their motivations. If a 50 year old full colonel could do it, there was no way a bunch of 19 and 20 year olds couldn't do it, too.

Twenty percent of the modern recruits wash out in boot camp, but it would be a lot more if they had to do that.

Some of the reforms have been good because they don't allow the drill instructors to punch them in the belly anymore, and they can't put a bucket on their heads and hit it with a nightstick.

Of course, there is the question of whether or not you can be too tough going into a war.

It takes very hard resolve to keep moving through combat zones no matter what is happening.

You get extremely tired, and you can face unexpected trauma when, for example, another Marine is trying to get through the line at night but can't remember the password.

My dad's main concern was ammunition, and he did everything he could to keep a plentiful supply.

He once threw a submachine gun over the side of a ship and reported it stolen because it was unreliable.

He took a chance on being courtmartialed but got an M-1 rifle.

He could throw hand grenades farther than average and became a specialist at it, going around in the middle of a group of Marines and throwing grenades at cave holes until he would roll one in.

The best grenades were the ones with three or 10 second fuses.

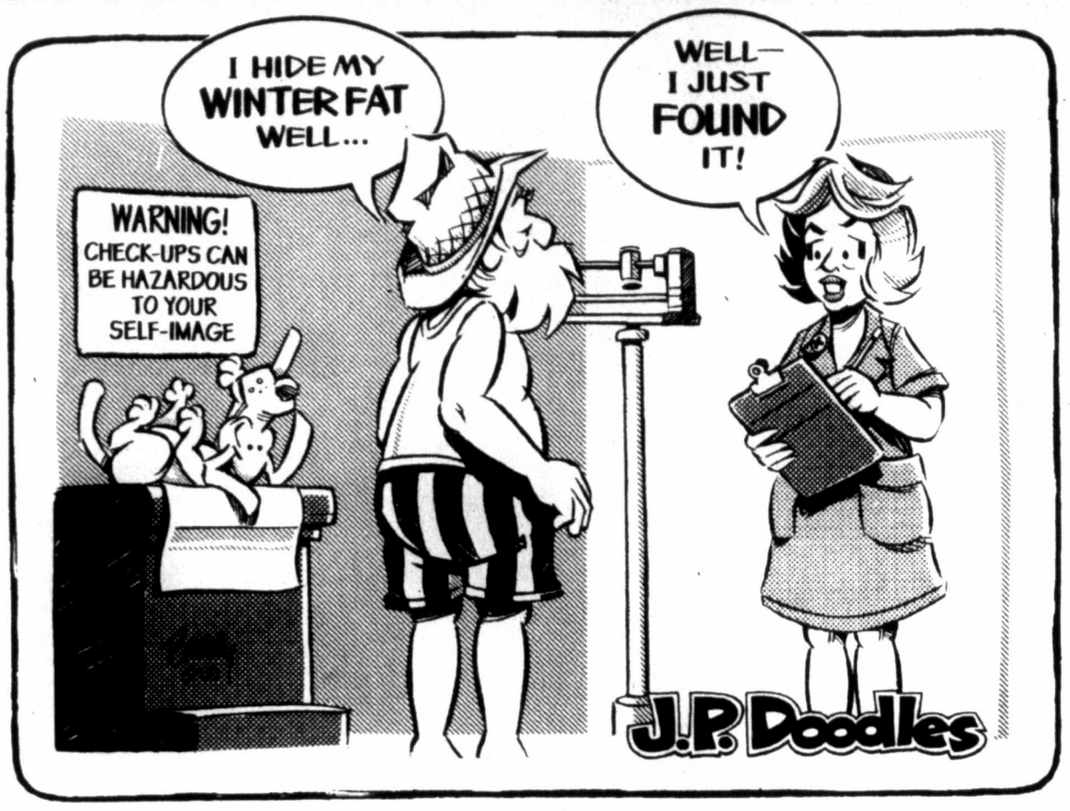

He didn't like the ones with 30 or 60 second fuses because a Marine "with a good watch" had to count down to three or four seconds before he could throw it.

The farthest he ever threw one and made it count was 80 yards.

I didn't see any recruits on A&E who looked like that they could throw a grenade that far, much less complete a 50 mile forced march with a half canteen of water.

It's pertinent because the Marines are our Spartans, our first and last lines of defense.

Their purpose is too serious to be playing PC games with them.

Hospital questions answered

Q. It has been stated that the hospital district will be able to save 40% on utilities with a new facility. Please explain how this figure was arrived at, and how can anyone determine utility costs when no one knows what size the heating and cooling system will be?

A. Utility costs as well as construction costs are projected. All of these figures are based on actual values that have been found in previous construction projects. While we do not know the exact size of the heating and cooling system, we do know the relative size of the facility and how much it costs to heat and cool each square foot of it.

Q. It appears that the hospital board is making decisions based on Brad Burnett's figures. Who is Brad Burnett and has he ever been associated with the construction of a new hospital?

A. Brad Burnett is the chief financial officer of MCHD. The information he has given the board that was used in making our decision was based strictly on his knowledge of how much it now costs the hospital to operate. He is quite knowledgeable about utility costs and has used projected figures from Bob Cox and others to compare our current costs to those of a new facility. His figures are supported by the fact that they are audited every year.

Q. Statements have been made that the general obligation bonds would be paid back by tax dollars currently in our tax rate (39.6). If for some reason the federal government changes Medicare or Medicade payments to rural hospitals and the hospital district cannot make the necessary debt reduction payments, where will the money then come from?

A. First it will come from our savings. After they are used, the rest will have to come from the tax rate.

Q. The hospital is already supported by tax dollars. How much does the average taxpayer pay now and how much will he pay should a new hospital not be able to make payments on a new building?

A. The current rate of taxation for the hospital district is 39.6¢/$100 valuation.

Q. It's my understanding that a $10 million revenue bonds would cost approximately $770,000 per year for 20 years. Can these bonds be paid off early? And if so, give me an example of the interest savings?

A. Yes. With the current interest rate near 6%, the amount of savings would depend on how early the bond was paid off.

Q. Do you think that Rick Rickard has an ulterior motive in wanting a nursing home built since his wife is the administrator of the other facility?

A. Rick Rickard is responsible for all branches of MCHD. This includes the lodge. However, the decision to build a new nursing care facility, as well as the rest of the hospital complex, was not made by Rick. That decision was made solely by the seven members of the hospital board.

Q. How many empty beds does Valley Fair Lodge have on average and how many empty beds does it have now?

A. As of February 24th, there were eight empty beds at the lodge. It is at 84% capacity.

Parole officers soon to be high-tech

Parole officers who supervise the state's highest risk prison releases will soon have the assistance of high tech eye-in-the-sky to track parolees' every move 24 hours a day.

The Texas Department of Criminal Justice said recently its new global satellite tracking system will give parole officers unprecedented instantaneous information about parolees' movement and location.

Parolees will be electronically linked by tamper-proof ankel transmitters to a global constellation of 24 Department of Defense satellites, according to Victor Rodriguez, director of TDCJ's parole division.

"This is another milestone in our continuing effort to further improve public safety through the use of improved technology," Wayne Scott, TDCJ executive director, said.

Rodriguez said TDCJ will consider expanding the use of satellite tracking after full implementation of an initial order of 25 of the units. TDCJ is contracting with a Florida-based company, Pro Tech Monitoring Inc., for an initial 25 tracking units at $13 a day each.

Band Trips

By Tumbleweed Smith

I started playing trumpet when I was in the seventh grade in Fort Worth. Once I was playing a solo before the entire student body. The song was "My Happiness." Back then, school auditoriums were not air conditioned, so the windows were kept open. A stiff breeze swept across the stage and blew a page of the sheet music off the music stand. The sheet landed right at the feet of the female first chair violinist. While taking a breath during my solo, I sort of whispered to her out the side of my mouth, "Pick it up." She just sat there. I was at the point where I needed the sheet that was on the floor, so I kept on playing, reached down and picked it up. I managed to finish the solo and got hearty applause along with some giggles.

I loved playing the trumpet. It was one of the first skills I could call my own. I played it all through Arlington Heights High School. My girl friends told me they could hear my trumpet playing during half-time shows at football games. Made me feel real good.

One year we took a band trip to Amarillo when our high school football team went to the state playoffs. It was so cold they canceled the half-time show because band officials were afraid our mouthpieces would freeze to our lips. Band members retreated to the school buses and still froze. It was cold.

When I was in the all-city high school orchestra in Fort Worth I was first chair trumpet and had to play three extremely high notes as a solo to start a diffcult piece of music. And the notes were to be played on a cold lip. That means the music started after a long speech. I worried all during the speech, concentrating on playing the high notes, fingering the valves and taking my mouthpiece off the horn to keep it warm. When the conductor raised his baton, looked at me and brought it down, I performed flawlessly. It was a great moment in my music career.

Band trips were so much fun. A few of us smoked cigarettes and little cigars on the bus enroute to various events where we played. As I recall, Mr. Carson, our band director, didn't seem to mind. He never lectured us about smoking. He just wanted us to play good. And we did. We won all sorts of medals and trophies in contests.

Once we took the band bus to Waurika, Oklahoma for a contest. There were band kids there from several nearby states. We swarmed all over that small town. Some of us owned our own cars back home and were accustomed to getting around on wheels and didn't like to be without them.

We found ourselves in a residential neighborhood near town and I saw a nifty little Ford coupe sitting in a driveway. I knocked on the door of the house and a lady came to the door. I told her we were in Waurika for a band contest and needed to borrow her car to drive around town. It sounds crazy, I know, but she got her keys and we took off in that lady's car. We went to the center of town and pulled up to a bunch of our fellow band members. They were impressed to see us in a car. We drove around for about an hour or so. We got out of the car to go in a drug store and a man came in. I just felt that he might be the husband of the lady whose car we had borrowed. Sure enough, he was. He was very nice, just asked us for the keys and said he hoped we enjoyed our ride. That's all there was to it. Life was so simple back when I made band trips.

Q & A
Substance Abuse Trends

(In response to a growing concern among parents, educators and other members of the community, Colorado City Record, in cooperation with Al-Anon support groups and the Snyder Area Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse, is devoting this column to your questions about the increasing threat of substance abuse.)

COMMUNITY RESOURCE COORDINATION GROUP

If you work with youth or adolescents, either as a parent or as a professional, there are times when the needs of these youth are not being met by one specific agency. Reasons for this are maybe the youth don't have the "right" diagnosis for certain services or programs or maybe they are being shuffled back and forth between different agencies. This can be very frustrating and you find yourself wishing that everyone involved with the youth could meet at on time to find assistance before the youth falls through the cracks. Some people wonder if a group or a committee such as this even exists. Well, there is one ... it's the COMMUNITY RESOURCE COORDINATION GROUP or sometimes known as CRCG's.

What is CRCG's? CRCG's originated when the Texas Legislature passed Senate Bill 298 into law in 1987. The bill directed state agencies serving children to develop a community based approach to provide better coordination of services for children and youth who have multi-agency needs.

How does it work? CRCG meets in partnership with the youth's family to plan for needed services and to provide follow-up, both short and long term. A service plan is developed that addresses all the needs identified by family and CRCG members. Follow ups are done to insure implementation and appropriateness of the plan. This also allows for needed changes in the service plan.

Who can be staffed? Referrals for staffing are taken through any of the CRCG member agencies. The case is screened for appropriateness. The lead agency will assist the family in securing release of information forms, and presenting case information requests to the group. There are no fees for staffing a case at CRCG; however, families are expected to attend and participate.

CRCG's are composed of members from agencies and citizens from:

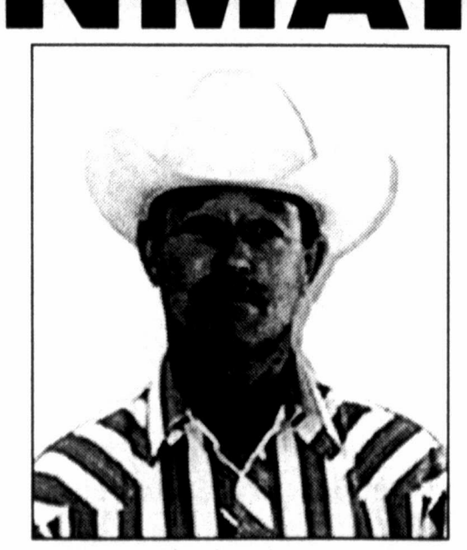

- West Texas Center Mental Health
- West Texas Center Mental Retardation
- Texas Education Agency
- Harmony Family Services
- Little Lives – ECI (Early Childhood Intervention)
- County Hospital
- Juvenile Probation
- Texas Department of Protective and Regulatory Services
- Alcohol and Drug Abuse Council
- Texas Department of Health
- Texas Youth Commission
- Texas Commission for the Blind

While Mitchell County has not had an active CRCG since 1997, a group of concerned agencies and individuals have seen a need and are working towards restarting the local CRCG. Nolan and Fisher county CRCG groups are joining forces to help the inception of a Mitchell County group. These groups will join forces to have a "regional" CRCG. If you have any questions regarding the group, contact Donita Lea at 1-800-852-2193.

Please send your questions on drugs or addiction to P.O. Box 695, Snyder, Texas 79550. All questions and personal inquires may be submitted anonymously. Twenty-four-hour confidential information is available by calling (915) 573-1141 or 1-800-658-6722. In a wide ranging 7 p.m. called meeting, the board heard Williford say an $8 million issuance with a 20 year maturity, for example, would necessitate a $703,000 annual payment.

With its healthy $338 million tax base, he said, the district would need to dedicate 21.6 cents of its 39.6 cent property tax rate to paying off the bonds.

He said a $10 million issuance over 25 years would cost $801,000 a year and need 24.7 cents in tax support.

The district currently gets $1.3 million of its annual $11 million in revenues from taxes, and Administrator Rick Rickard said the board plans to pay for the bonds without a tax increase.

Rickard said Austin architect Bob Cox is working on a plan to specify the project's exact cost and should have it in time for the board's March 28 meeting.

Williford said the amount must be stated on the ballot and cannot be exceeded and the proposal could be divided into its three phases on the ballot for each to be either approved or defeated.

When it sets an election, Williford said, the board should allow at least 60 days to hold meetings and educate the public so that opponents, who are likely to vote early, will be less able to carry the day.

He said the election could be held as early as May 6, but Board President Kent Boyd said that would be too soon to make all the necessary preparations.

Geiger and board member Lee Roy Miller Jr. said, however, that they support that date.

After the city council, school board and hospital board elections on May 6, Williford indicated, the next available date will the state's Uniform Election Date in August.

"Summer elections bother me," he said, explaining that many people are out of town on vacations and the ones who are still in town are generally less attentive.

"You don't want to have an election around April 15," he said. "Attitudes are just not good."

Boyd proposed having each board member proffer three names of interested citizens who would advance the new hospital complex's cause as a steering committee.

Geiger and Miller indicated they did not support such a plan because the steering committee members might split into various factions.

However, board members said they will discuss the steering committee idea further at the next meeting.

day of filing, Tuesday, Feb. 22.

Incumbent District 4 Councilman A. W. Rowe filed and so far does not have an opponent.

District 6 Councilman Faye Ross has indicated that she will seek another term but had not filed Tuesday.

Candidates have until March 22 to declare their intentions.

Meanwhile, the colorful octogenarian Mayor Rees announced that he will seek to extend his 10 year tenure on the Westbrook City Council.

However, neither Mayor Rees nor the other Westbrook Council incumbents had filed Tuesday.

No candidates had filed for the Westbrook School Board, Loraine City Council, Loraine or Colorado School Boards or Mitchell County Hospital District Board, officials said.

All Saints' pancake supper is Tuesday

Pancakes "made from scratch," bacon, coffee and milk will be served at All Saints Episcopal Church's annual Shrove Tuesday Pancake Supper from 5:30 to 8 p.m. Tuesday, March 7.

Church members are selling tickets for $3.50, or you may call Church Treasurer Shirley DeLaney at 728-5187 and she will deliver your tickets.

Many people also simply go to the supper and pay for their tickets when they arrive.

Prepared by Larry Beavers, Jack Strain, Ed Walls and Kenneth Dockrey, the meal will be served in the parish hall on the north side of the Third and Locust Street church.

Celebrated as "Fat Tuesday" with a parade and feasting in New Orleans, Shrove Tuesday is the day before the austere Ash Wednesday, which begins Lent.

Excluding Sundays, the 40 day Lenten period commemorates the time Jesus Christ spent in the wilderness in preparation for the beginning of His ministry.

It leads up to Holy Week, Maundy Thursday, Good Friday and Easter Sunday on April 23.

"Shrove Tuesday is the day before Lent starts, when traditionally people would get rid of all the fat in the house," said Episcopal Minister Monte Jones of Colorado City.

"Lent is the penitential season, when people are supposed to take on added spiritual disciplines."

The Rev. Jones, formerly of Sonora, was interim minister at the church here and at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Sweetwater prior to the appointment of the Rev. Dennis Bosley of Sweetwater to serve them.

The Rev. Jones is now the interim minister of St. Mark's Episcopal Church in Abilene.

He also said a correctional officers' training center should be opened in this area to make training more convenient for CO candidates for whom going to the TDCJ center in Beeville in South Texas is inconvenient.

Addressing the issue of raising CO's pay, he said he and State Sen. Bill Ratliff of Mount Pleasant want to institute more steps in their career ladder, specifically to create a CO 4 grade to provide immediate advancement to the many officers who are stymied at the CO 3 level.

Although Texas' crime rate has declined, he said, the parole rate has been so dramatically reduced that no one is being paroled for aggravated offenses and only 20 percent of eligible inmates are being set free overall.

That factor is another plus toward getting C-City its third prison, which he said is likely to be a high security unit like the one recently opened at the Smith Unit in Lamesa.

The barbecue, beans and potato salad meal was prepared by men of the C-City community and served in a setting decorated with balloons and a speaker's stage festooned with red, white and blue bunting and artificial grass footing and plants.

Mayor Jim Baum began the event by introducing Pct. 3 county commissioner's candidates Wendy Inman and Larry Johnson and district judge candidates Glen Harrison and Jim Wilks, both of Sweetwater.

Wallace-Ware Units Warden Rodney Cooper introduced Junell, saying he "has been a great friend to TDCJ since long before I go to know him about six years ago.

"I'm sure you're very aware that the prisons would not be here if it had not been for him."

Woody Anderson, chairman of the Mitchell County Board of Economic Development, said Junell helped Mitchell County diversify its economy at a time when it needed more than oil and agriculture.

He also praised the Democratic representative for helping the City of C-City get its new water wellfield project approved, providing 22 acres northeast of the Wallace-Ware Units for the construction of a new county hospital and giving the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation crucial support during the 1999 legislative session.

Junell said "some people are hard to help," but Mitchell Countians have always been easy to help because they have worked with him as a team.

He said the statewide water situation "is an absolute ditch" and West Texas representatives are going to have to prevent cities like San Antonio and Corpus Christi from buying water rights and draining rural areas of their water.

"This is not something that is going to be solved by a good two weeks of rain,"he said.

He said Warden Cooper has been an asset to the community in many ways, particularly in his example as a Christian and his leadership for TDCJ employees to be model citizens.

Referring to his role as chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, Rep. Junell quipped, "Every time they try to move him, I threaten to cut their budget."

He said he and Sen. Ratliff mandated a $23 billion state health care endowment over the next 25 years from the state's settlement with the tobacco industry, $2 billion of which will be for counties and rural hospital districts.

Asked if a new hospital will be necessary for C-City to get a third state prison, he said the issue "is for y'all to decide.

"If you don't have a hospital at all, you couldn't have a prison," he added.

Supplements That "Beat Arthritis Pain"

What they are: Glucosamine and chondroitin- compounds that are found in the shells of crabs, lobster, and shrimp- may relieve the pain of osteoarthritis.

The benefits: Chondroitin inhibits the enzymes that destroy your cartilage in the first place, says David Hungerford, MD, of Johns Hopkins University. Glucosamine stimulates tissue regrowth in damaged cartilage.

The research: When people with osteoarthritis were given 500 mg. of glucosamine and 400 mg. chondroitin twice a day, more than half of them had less pain and more mobility. "I've prescribed them as a first line of treatment for arthritis of the hip and knee for 3 years, and they've been effective," says Dr. Hungerford..

The above headline and article is from the September 1999, Men's Health magazine. Less well known, but fast gaining in recognition, is MSM (methylsulfonyl-methane), a supplement that is also used for arthritis pain and joint conditions.

"Within a few hours the pain was gone."

Personally, I have been using Glucosamine Sulfate for just about 4 years. I was diagnosed with arthritis in my hip at the age of 48. My tennis partner, who is a naturopathic physician, recommended that I try glucosamine. I tried it and the pain in my hip diminished and ultimately went away after about 4 to 6 months.

In the last 6 months I become less compulsive about taking my daily 1500 mg. of glucosamine. After coming back from a week-long vacation and not having taken the glucosamine bottle with me on the trip, I began to experience the same some recurring pain.

About a week before, a friend gave me a bottle of a new product called Liquid Health Glucosamine. It contains glucosamine and chondroitin sulfate plus MSM, all in liquid form. With the pain recurring, I felt this would be the perfect test. The results for me were absolutely amazing. Within a few hours the pain was gone. I've been using Liquid Health Glucosamine for 3 weeks and I am still pain free. What stunned me was how fast it worked; usually it would take several days for my pain to subside. If you are looking for pain relief from osteoarthritis pain, I would recommend you try this product.

COOK'S CORNER

By Sheila Plagens

If you are reading this column, I am going to assume you like to cook. Even though you like to cook, there are times when you either don't want to spend much time in the kitchen or you don't have the time to spend.

This week, I searched through some cookbooks and found some recipes for main dishes that you can prepare in a short amount of time. Hope you enjoy them!

CHEESEBURGER LOAF

1 lb. ground beef
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 can (10 3/4 oz.) condensed tomato soup, undiluted
1/2 tsp. garlic salt
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1 loaf (1 lb.) French bread
1 Tbsp. butter or margarine, softened
8 oz. process American or Mexican-flavored cheese, sliced

In a saucepan over medium heat, cook beef and onion until meat is no longer pink; drain. Add soup, garlic salt, salt and pepper; simmer for 5-10 minutes. Meanwhile, slice the top third off the bread. Hollow out bottom half of loaf, leaving a 3/4 inch shell (discard removed bread or save for another use). Spread butter on cut side of bread. Place loaf on a baking sheet and broil until lightly browned. Spoon beef mixture into shell; arrange cheese slices on top. Broil until cheese is melted, about 2-3 minutes. Replace bread top.

HURRY-UP HAM 'N' NOODLES

5 to 6 cups uncooked wide egg noodles
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 cup whipping cream
1 1/2 cups julienned fully cooked ham
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1/4 cup thinly sliced green onions
1/4 tsp. salt
1/8 tsp. pepper

Cook noodles according to package directions. Meanwhile, in a skillet over medium heat, melt butter. Stir in cream. Bring to a boil; cook and stir for 2 minutes. Add ham cheese, onions, salt and pepper; heat through. Drain noodles; add to ham mixture and heat through.

ITALIAN HAMBURGERS

6 Tbsp. dry bread crumbs
1/3 cup chopped onion
1/3 cup chopped green pepper
1 garlic clove, minced
3/4 tsp. dried oregano
1/4 to 1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 to 1/2 tsp. pepper
1 lb. ground beef
6 Tbsp. grated Parmesan cheese, divided
1 can (15 oz.) tomato sauce
3/4 tsp. Italian seasoning
Hot cooked spaghetti, optional

Combine the first seven ingredients. Add beef and 3 tablespoons of parmesan cheese; mix well. Shape into six patties. In a skillet, brown patties for 2 minutes on each side. Combine the tomato sauce and Italian seasoning; pour over patties. Reduce heat; cover and simmer for 10-15 minutes or until meat is no longer pink. Sprinkle with remaining cheese. Serve patties and sauce over spaghetti if desired.

CHICKEN QUESADILLAS

2 1/2 cups shredded cooked chicken
2/3 cup salsa
1/3 cup sliced green onions
3/4 to 1 tsp. ground cumin
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. dried oregano
6 flour tortillas (8 inches)
1/4 cup butter or margaine, melted
2 cups (8 oz.) shredded Monterey Jack cheese
Sour cream and guacamole

In a skillet, combine the first six ingredients. Cook, uncovered, over medium heat for 10 minutes or until heated through, stirring occasionally. Brush one side of tortillas with butter. Spoon 1/3 cup chicken mixture over half of unbuttered side of each tortilla. Sprinkle with 1/3 cup cheese; fold plain side of tortilla over cheese. Place on a lightly greased baking sheet. Bake at 475° for 10 minutes or until crisp and golden brown. Cut into wedges; serve with sour cream and guacamole.

Book sale planned at county library

The Friends of the Mitchell County Library met recently with President Mabel Merritt, presiding.

The group will be having a Book Sale on Mar. 23 and 24 in the Hesperian Room of the Mitchell County Library. This sale will be held during regular library hours. The purpose of this event is to raise funds for the use of the library.

The week beginning April 9 will be observed as National Library Week. On Wednesday, April 12, Open House will be held at the library with refreshments being served from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m.

We urge everyone to remember these dates.

By Jeremy Lelek

During his life, my grandfather, Ernest Lelek, spent countless hours serving others in Colorado City and surrounding areas.

Whether he was ministering to people in the county jail or offering a pat on the back to someone who needed encouragement, his burden to help those less fortunate was evident throughout his life.

In the summer of 1995, as he waged a courageous battle against cancer, I was fortunate to spend some quality time with him as the family prepared for his passing.

This was my inspiration to schedule the free "Redeemed -- a Homecoming Celebration" concert for 7 p.m. Saturday, March 18, in Colorado Middle School Auditorium.

Entertainers will be the three woman group Southern Charm, the Jubal-Heirs of Mesquite, His Grace from Dallas, the 12 member Zambian Acappella Boys Choir from Africa and the Peters Family.

It will be three hours of top quality Gospel entertainment, so come early because seating will be limited.

Some of the groups will also perform on Sunday, March 19, at local churches including the First Baptist Church and the Christian Temple.

It was the music presented on Bill Gaither's Homecoming video series that caused many of my grandfather's memories to come alive.

It was evident as we listened to songs like "Sheltered in the Arms of God" and "The Unclouded Day" that his mission of servanthood had been completed and the time for his departure was at hand.

It was inspiring to see the joy in his eyes as the message in the lyrics of these wonderful songs brought a deep serenity to his soul.

It is to him that I dedicate this homecoming celebration as a memorial to his faithfulness to God and his family.

In September of 1995, I found myself in Louisville, Ky., with 25,000 other people, waiting to hear some of Gospel music's legends on the stage of the National Quartet Convention.

I saw face to face many of the people I had watched on television with my grandfather just a few months prior -- the Gaither Vocal Band, the Kingsmen Quartet, the Happy Goodmans, the Speer Family and the Cathedrals.

The evening was phenomenal, and the heritage of Gospel music passed down from my grandfather was deeply ingrained into my personal life.

It was my decision to join a Gospel group and travel throughout the United States that proved as rewarding as anything I have ever done.

Southern Gospel music is one of the richest forms of expression today.

Though it has endured various transitions throughout its century old history, the message of this powerful music has remained the same -- the message of hope and faith rooted in someone much greater than ourselves.

This same message will resound in C-City on March 18th as five of Southern Gospel's finest assemble at the Colorado Middle School Auditorium for a night that is sure to uplift and inspire.

In addition to this dynamic lineup, I have invited some of C-City's own to take part, including Barbara Monroe and Barbie Lelek, to name a few.

It has taken more than a year to assemble all of this talent in one place at one time.

It is a homecoming of sorts as I am bringing some of my dearest friends to share with those of you who made a lasting imprint on my life.

(Editor's note: Jeremy Lelek is a 1991 graduate of Colorado High School who is completing his master's degree at Amber University in Garland. He and his wife Lynne live in Arlington, where he works at a Christian radio station.

He has been doing concert promotion in Dallas-Fort Worth.)

Students in grades 9 through 12 from Kent, Mitchell, Nolan and Scurry counties should enter a preliminary contest to be held in Colorado City, Mar. 22, 2000. Entries should be brought to Colorado High School by Mar. 20.

Other regional shows will be held in Abilene, Big Spring, Graham, Mineral Wells, San Angelo and Stephenville. Winners from the entire 32 counties of the 17th District will be announced at an awards brunch in Abilene on Apr. 15. Charlie and Cindy Stenholm will host this honors brunch.

Kristi Lee Manor & Loraine Manor

I have been asked by Rick Rickard to stop making allegation against the hospital district. I called Rick Rickard last Thursday and suggested that we meet. I told him I would like to try again to settle some of our disputes. Rickard said he would be happy to meet with me and Gary White, the administrator of Loraine Manor. He suggested a restaurant for us to eat lunch. On Monday I received a letter from Mr. Rickard stating "upon reconsideration of your request to meet with me, I have decided against such meeting" [sic]

So, in the alternative, let's address last weeks newspaper quoting hospital personnel regarding the issue of discharges that have come from Mitchell County Hospital to the three area nursing homes. They stated that 240 discharges were sent to Kristi Lee Manor and Loraine Manor and that 94 went to Valley Fair Lodge. These numbers are very misleading because they are counting every resident that was discharged from the hospital, including residents of Kristi Lee Manor and Loraine Manor who were sent to the hospital. Of all the admissions being referred, Kristi Lee Manor received only 21 new admissions from the Mitchell County Hospital and Loraine Manor received only 5 new admissions during that 3 year period. All of the remainder of the discharges which they are counting were already residents of one of our facilities that went to the hospital and then returned to us. These numbers are also misleading because Valley Fair Lodge is usually full and it is hard to take an admission when you don't have an empty bed.

According to their radio announcement they stated "there were only 5 residents who came from Kristi Lee Manor or Loraine Manor" after being discharged from the hospital. Some of these are the very ones I spoke to Mr. Rickard about on more than one occasion, some of these residents and/or their families were told they should transfer to Valley Fair Lodge because they would receive better care. It is interesting to note they also reported on the radio that 44% of their residents came from Mitchell County Hospital and that is almost twice as many as we received. We have only had one former resident of Valley Fair Lodge transfer to directly to Kristi Lee Manor, and one to Loraine Manor in the same time period, and have only had a total of three transfers from Valley Fair Lodge in the last 12 years. On the other hand, in that same 12 year period there have been 26 residents from Kristi Lee alone transferred directly to Valley Fair Lodge.

As to the comment on the radio that their attorneys have "written a letter to Mr. Moody basically to ask him to report things in a factual manner or cease and desist," I have not received any letter from any attorney. I did receive a letter from Mr. Rickard before the one mentioned above stating that I am incorrect about the Stark Law. The letter addressed no other issues. These are the only letters I have received from anyone connected with the hospital district.

I stand behind and am able to verify the statements that I have made, and in clear conscience, I cannot ignore the wrongs I feel we have suffered. I am willing to continue to address these issues to the hospital board at any of their meetings, and continue to be willing to meet with Mr. Rickard in an attempt to reconcile our differences. Failing this, I may have no alternative but to resort to using the media. However, I have been asked by a member of a group of Mitchell County citizens working for a new hospital to stop our media campaign and let them take the issue to the public and see what the residents of Mitchell County want. I will be happy to comply with this request so long as Mr. Rickard and all the employees of the Mitchell County Hospital District also comply.

I want to thank the many, many people of Mitchell County who have shown their support to us in the last few weeks. I am truly sorry that we had to go public with these problems, but felt as though we were making no progress concerning the Mitchell County Hospital and Valley Fair Lodge. To date we find that they are still unwilling to cooperate.

Hopefully, there will be no further need for my public statements. I would again like to encourage everyone to vote AGAINST a large medical complex which includes a nursing home and will surely raise our taxes, and in the alternative, vote FOR a new small and efficient hospital building that the taxpayers can afford.

Thank You
Clark Moody

Insurance discount deadline nears

Ronald L. Berryhill, Director of the Risk Management Agency's Regional Office in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma reminded farmers that they only have until March 15, 2000 to take advantage of an estimated 25 percent premium discount on higher levels of crop insurance protection.

"We're trying to make higher levels of protection affordable," said Berryhill. "Farmers should contact an agent immediately to discuss coverage options on crops insurable in their county."

Farmers who need more information about sales closing dates or their insurance options should contact a CRP insurance agent. A listing of crop insurance agents is available at local Farm Service Agency offices at http://www.rma.usda.gov/tools/agents.

CHS track team boasts 36 participants starting

The millennium version of the Colorado Wolves track team has one thing many CHS teams don't, lots of returning participants.

"We only had two seniors last year who went to regionals," said boys' track coach Dan Gainey. "The others, for the most part, were freshmen and sophomores who contributed -- they're all back.

As the Wolves get ready for competition, 36 athletes are currently planning to participate in either running or field events, and Gainey is hopeful. "They're showing up every day and working real hard," he said.

While some chose to only participate in track, most CHS athletes are involved in the sport not only for the sake of track, but as an extension of other sports - working to improve their speed and strength. "That's what we try to sell the program as - an extension of the off-season program, "Gainey said. "If you are going to be a better football player or basketball player, whatever sport you do, the faster you are, the better off you're going to be."

Returnees Chase Phariss Andrew Spear, Rodney Green and Danny Torres are expected to contribute, not only in relays but in individual events as well. In addition, senior Heath McGaha will stay busy, participating as a hurdler, and then moving to jumping events.

Sophomore Marquise Lenard will also be a big part of the CHS track picture as he, along with Rodney Green and senior Greg Green, showed what they could do last fall in cross country. Lenard finished third in the district cross country meet and Gainey expects him to make a strong showing in the 400 meters.

"You get a kid to run a three-mile race, it's a lot easier to get them on the track and tell them to circle that thing once," Gainey said. "Running the quarter is a lot easier than running three miles."

Not that anyone considers the 400 to be an easy race. Gainey knows from experience, so he can help his charges. "I've run the quarter in 70 seconds and I've run them in 50 seconds," he said. "Both of them hurt, so if you're going to hurt anyway, you might as well run really fast."

Gainey says the Wolves will also rely heavily on the jumping pits for success. "We don't have a lot of older kids out there - we're not going to line up in the 100 or 200 and outrun a lot of people, so last year we started working hard in the jumping events and field events so hopefully we'll come on this year and next year and do a little better," he said.

"They had fun jumping last year, and they competed real well. Rodney Green and Adan Leanos, and Mario Quintero - McGaha - they all did real well, but I don't think they understood early last year exactly what we were looking for. Now they're really coming on and doing a good job," Gainey said. "I think we've got a lot of good jumpers - it's just a matter of working on their techniques. If they have fun like they did last year, I think they are going to be okay."

In shot and discus, the Wolves have a dozen prospects with Bo Everett showing well in early practice. Seniors Leon Molina, Will McAdams, and Lee Williamson are expected to contribute.

Chase Phariss will be back to try the pole vault again while McGaha and Lenard will try to earn points for the Wolves in the high-jumping pit.

The Wolves will begin competing against other schools when they travel to Roscoe March 4. Due to a UIL ruling designed to limit competition during UIL Academic competition, the district track meet will be held at an unusual time, on a Monday and Tuesday, April 10 and 11 in Lamesa. This, in effect took away one weekend of competition, which just happened to be the only weekend for the Lone Wolf Relays. The local event will return, however. "They'll be back," Gainey said. "Don't run me out of town yet - we don't like it either. I think it's vital to your program that you host a meet and you run at home to try to generate a little excitement."

And building is what Gainey feels track is about. With good numbers at the junior high level and plenty of underclassmen competing, the future looks good, not only for track but other sports as well as the Wolves build stronger and faster athletes.

Anderson named MVP

Colorado City's Kendra Anderson was named tournament MVP last weekend at the American Southwest Conference women's basketball tournament in Marshall, Texas.

Anderson, a freshman at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene, had 9 points and five rebounds Saturday against McMurry and 14 points and eight rebounds in Friday's game against East Texas Baptist.

HSU has a first round bye in the Southern Region of the NCAA Division III tournament that begins this week. The Cowgirls will play the winner of the game between Roanoke, Va. and Shenandoah, Va. on Saturday night at the Mabee Complex on the campus of Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene.

Young Lady Wolves come home 3-3

The young Colorado Lady Wolves softball team began its 2000 campaign in a "baptism by fire" tournament in Midland last weekend. While many of the teams in the tournament were from Class 5A and 4A schools, the Lady Wolves bring a team with little varsity experience.

The end result was an encouraging 3-3 record in the tournament that took them all the way to the consolation final.

The Lady Wolves opened against Abilene Cooper, dropping a 17-0 decision, but rebounded Friday with a strong game against Odessa Permian JV. Permian managed to come out on top, 5-3, but strong play gave the young Lady Wolves some encouragement.

They capitalized on this confidence, slapping Coahoma 16-8, El Paso High 11-10, and Amarillo High 5-2.

The three consecutive wins put them into a consolation championship game with Andrews where the fun came to an end in a 10-1 defeat.

Coach Denise Farmer was pleased with the showing, especially considering the relative inexperience of the team.

Beginning this week, the Lady Wolves will add to their experience base with the addition of Coach Jarold Epperson. Coach Epperson felt that, despite the lack of experience, there was certainly something to work with.

"There's a lot of talent on this team," Epperson said. "They have good speed, they can field, and they can throw."

When asked about the Lady Wolves skill with the bat, Epperson said "We're going to find out today if they can hit. I told them, 'if you can't hit, I'm going to teach you to bunt, but we're going to get you on base somehow."

CHS GOLFER Toni Joiner drives through the ball at the #3 tee box at Wolf Creek Golf Links during the Colorado City girls Golf Invitational held Tuesday. Joiner was the second place medalist with a score of 85. Sixty-two girls competed in the event.

CHS team has room for improvement

The Colorado Wolves have found the transition from a big orange ball to a small white one to be difficult, at least in the early going. While the Wolves seem to be hung up on the number four, their opponents have looked to higher numbers, like 13, 26, and 14.

In their first three encounters, the Wolves have dropped a 13-4 decision to Greenwood and a doubleheader defeat at the hands of Sweetwater, 26-4 and 14-4.

The good news, from coach Brandon Collins' point of view, is that the problem is fixable. Defense, an area he expected to be fairly solid going into the 2000 campaign, has some rust on it.

"The pitchers are throwing strikes," he said, "We're just not making plays behind them.

The Wolves actually jumped to an early four-run lead in the Greenwood matchup, but costly errors allowed the Rangers to tie it up, and then still more errors gave them a healthy lead.

The first of the two games in Sweetwater, while a vivid illustration of the problem, was the most frustrating to watch. Eight errors in one inning gave the Mustangs and easy victory.

Collins is hopeful that time and practice will help to heal the defensive difficulties, and that the pitchers will continue to work hard.

Danny Torres and Andrew Spear drew high marks from their coach for their hitting prowess in the first two games.

The Wolves now prepare to host the Big Country Classic beginning Thursday in Colorado City. They will play Midland Christian at 6:30 in their first contest in front of the home folks..

CHS tennis team brings home two trophies

The Colorado High School Tennis team traveled to Forsan last weekend where two third-place trophies in doubles headed up another strong showing. The girls' doubles team of Tasha Wyrosdick and Christy Hull won three of four matches after drawing a bye in the first round.

The third-place match was a hard-fought match with the CHS girls finally overcoming a team from Wall in a third-set tie breaker 6-3, 6-7 (3-7), 7-6 (7-2).

Also taking third was the team of Oscar Rodriquez and Jeremy Raymond who won in similar fashion after a bye in the first round. They also went three sets in the third-place match.

In other doubles action, the girls' team of Bridget Callaway and Samantha Maberry and the boys' team of Greg Heipler and Michael Hembree both advanced to the quarterfinals. Callaway and Maberry lost a tough match to Mueller and Beene of Wall after defeating teams from Ozona and Forsan in the first two rounds.

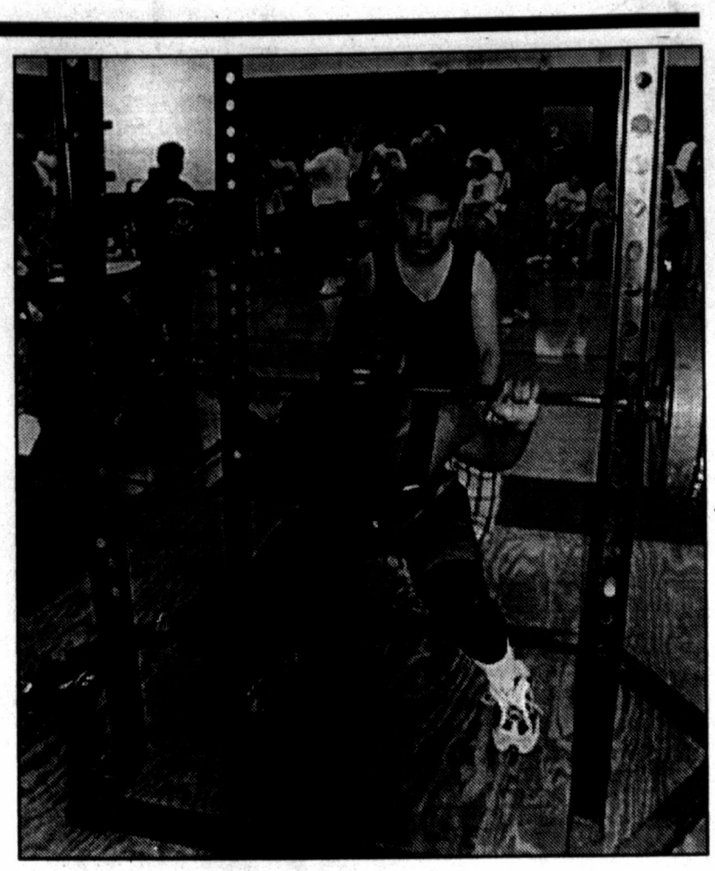

Heipler and Hembree knocked off teams from Ozona and Winters before falling in the third round to a strong team from Reagan County.

In singles competition, Justin Gross and Simon Moreno both advanced to the quarterfinals, eliminating two opponents before falling in the gusty wind.

Jami Thackerson won two of her three matches in girls' singles while Jennifer Wilking split two matches.

This was a strong showing for the CHS tennis team in a tournament that featured 25 and 27 teams in boys' and girls doubles respectively, and 33 boys entered in the boys' singles competition along with 36 girls in singles.

The team will travel to Brownfield Friday for the Regional Team Tournament.

loraine news

By Bessie Ann Vaughn

Greetings. We hope you had a good week with interesting things to do.

They are b-a-c-k! In a few days rattlesnake hunters will be out and about looking for the rattlers and rollers.

You might want to make room in your freezer for your yearly quota of snake.

At this time I can't imagine eating the white meat that supposedly tastes like chicken, but if my hunger was severe enough and prolonged, I feel sure I would say grace and eat it with gusto.

If our drought doesn't end soon in West Texas, we may all be out with our boots on, carrying a stick and "toe sack", looking under rocks.
