Dodd Says Commies Threatened Death

Concessions Offered By UN To POWs

TOKYO — (P) — Gen. Mark Clark, supreme United Nations commander, said tonight the U. S. Eighth Army agreed to stop screening Red prisoners of war on Kojima Island in return for the release of Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd.

Clark, who succeeded Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway today as UN commander, listed the ransom demands by North Korean prisoners on Kojima Island and told which demands were accepted to in order to secure Dodd's release.

Clark's statement said Brig. Gen. Charles Colson, new commander of the POW camp, agreed to:

1. Do all within his power to eliminate future violence and bloodshed on Kojima Island.
2. Allow the organization of a POW representative group or committee consisting of North Korean and Chinese prisoners.

Clark said:

"The reply by General Colson to the Communist prisoners was made under duress at a time when the life of General Dodd was at stake. The Communist demands were unadulterated blackmail and any commitments made by General Colson as a result of such demands should be interpreted accordingly."

Clark did not say whether the commitments would be honored.

Georgia Twister Hospitalizes 3

ALAPPAHA, Ga. — (P) — Vicious winds of tornadoic force leveled sections of this town of 600 persons yesterday and caused heavy property damage. No one was killed.

The brief twister flattened dozens of homes and businesses, smashed the huge community water tank and wrecked all the school property. But despite the blow, only three persons were hospitalized.

Mayor Julian P. Paulk estimated property damage would near a half-million dollars.

"It's unbelievable that a lot of people weren't killed," he declared.

The tornado struck the farming-pulpwood-turpentine community at about 6:15 a. m. (CST). Alappa is in Bertie County, about 35 miles north of Valdosta.

Grand Jury Investigations To Start In Duval County

SAN DIEGO — (P) — With Texas Rangers at hand a special Grand Jury to investigate political conditions in bloc-voting Duval county was to begin operations today.

The group was called back into session by District Judge Sam C. Reams whose 79th District takes in Jim Wells, Duval, Brooks and Starr counties in South Texas.

The Grand Jury met April 7 to probe "elections, election frauds, and any intimidation of voters." Later seven members of the group told Reams the law had been violated and added:

"We do not feel that the sheriff's department of Duval county will co-operate with us and we are also of the opinion that the district attorney is reluctant to submit to us law violations that have been committed in Duval county."

The continuing probe by the jury is another step in the developing fight against the power of George Parr, former Duval county judge, presently Duval county sheriff, and long-reputed South Texas political boss.

DICK PEPIN

Pepin Gets New Hat In Last Tribute

In a brief and simple ceremony this morning in the City Hall Palm Room, City Manager Dick Pepin was given a West Texas hat by the Chamber of Commerce as a going away present during the weekly board of directors meeting.

"I don't believe any city manager in the United States ever had a better mayor," city commission and chamber of commerce to work with," Pepin said in a talk that lasted 39 seconds.

Pepin, who will be city manager of Odessa by the close of this week said he had enjoyed the past five years in Pampa as city engineer and city manager.

Charles B. Cook, president of the chamber, told Pepin he had made the city a good administrator and added, "we certainly appreciate the cooperation you have shown us in the chamber."

During the meeting Gen. Fatheree announced that Dr. Alfred P. Haake, economist and business consultant to General Motors, had been obtained as principal speaker for the Oct. 28 celebration banquet of the Chamber of Commerce.

Haake, a veteran of the speakers' platform over the nation, was on the programs of "International Understanding" sponsored by Rotary clubs several years ago.

Outside of setting the dates for Gray county's birthday celebration, the going away message still has a long way to go before anything definite can be lined up. M. K. Brown, general chairman announced, he said the committee would ask the churches to cooperate by starting the celebration with services of thanksgiving and commemoration of the pioneers who opened the land.

W. B. Weathered and Howard Buckingham also urged every member of the chamber to make an all-out effort to attend the meetings of the 22nd Annual Highway 60 Association.

The annual membership drive will be conducted from May 26 to 30, it was announced by Cook.

WSB To Seek Oil Strike Truce Tuesday

DENVER — (P) — With a major settlement for background, strike oil worker and company officials got ready for tomorrow's showdown meeting with the Wage Stabilization Board. The government goal: To halt the nationwide strike with its world-wide effects.

The United States and Britain asked all nations to conserve dwindling supplies of aviation gasoline. The warning global restrictions may follow.

Military flying is down to essentials. More civilian flights are suspended each day. Motorists are feeling the growing pinch. Three disastrous fires heightened the shortage.

O. A. Knight, president of the CIO Oil Workers International, largest of the 22 unions striking for higher wages, flew to Washington yesterday to prepare for the meeting called by the WSB.

Knight said that, after months of postponement before the walkout started 13 days ago, the striking refinery and pipeline workers are determined to work without a contract. There was no sign they had changed their stand.

Scattered agreements have been signed through the industry. But the first major agreement which set a settlement pattern was okayed by workers yesterday.

It is between the Independent Union of Petroleum Workers and Standard Oil of California. It provides a basic wage increase of 18 1/2 cents an hour. That's the compromise figure Knight said.

He said the union would accept the 25-cent raise sought originally on the current $2 to $2.10 hourly rate.

Charles B. Cook, president of the chamber, told Pepin he had made the city a good administrator and added, "we certainly appreciate the cooperation you have shown us in the chamber."

Life Endangered If Force Was Used

SEOUL, Korea — (P) — Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd said tonight Communist prisoners of war who held him hostage on Kojima Island four days last week threatened to kill him if the U. S. Eighth Army tried to rescue him by force.

Gen. Mark W. Clark, new supreme commander, said in Tokyo the Red POWs were granted some minor concessions. He termed their original demands for Dodd's release "unadulterated blackmail."

He seemed to hint they would not be honored. Clark said the reply to the prisoners "was made under duress at a time when the life of General Dodd was at stake."

"Any commitments made... as a result of such demands should be interpreted accordingly."

Dodd read a statement to correspondents saying he was convinced the United Nations' command threats to use force "had a decided effect" in obtaining his release Saturday night.

The correspondents were not permitted to question the general.

It was the first time they had been allowed to see him.

Dodd said he was well treated by the Reds while a captive in Compound 76 on the island, the UN No. 1 camp for tough prisoners. He seemed healthy.

The general said demands made by the prisoners in exchange for his release were "unadulterated" and that concessions granted by the camp authorities were "of minor importance."

Newsman were permitted to visit Kojima today for the first time since the Wednesday seizure of Dodd. They found the general in a prison camp camp number three.

Shocktroopers said the prisoners apparently had planned the capture at least a week in advance. Within minutes after they seized Dodd, the Reds broke out banners saying:

"We captured Dodd. If our problems are resolved his security is guaranteed. If there is any brutal act or shooting, his life is in danger."

Clark said a full investigation of the incident and the circumstances surrounding the negotiations and his ultimate release is under way.

Brig. Gen. Charles Colson, Charleston, S. C., was placed in command of the Kojima camp on Thursday, the day after Dodd was seized.

The general, reading from a four-page statement, in a clear, strong voice, said demands made by the POWs are "unadulterated" and that concessions granted by the camp authorities were "of minor importance."

Dodd read his statement to the press after being held behind a wall of screens for a hour. He wore a pistol on his hip and a holster with a gray silver buckle.

Oil goes through the rim down tanks in the intermediate refining process.

One of the tanks had a 1000-gallon capacity and one a capacity of 1000 gallons.

For a time the tanks endangered the Consolidated Chemical Industries, Inc., plant which adjoined the refinery.

Company officials said they could not give an estimate of the damage until the fire is finally out.

The big problem all night in fighting the fire was to prevent its spread to two large tanks of kerosene and a dozen storage tanks filled with high octane gasoline.

At a time the pit of burning oil threatened to overflow into the Houston ship channel. Two patrol boats from the Coast Guard and the fireboat of the Houston Port Commission fought the fire from the channel.

The fire started about 8:45 p. m. (Sunday). Second and third alarms were turned in within a matter of minutes and finally broke the all-out general alarm.

$3 Million Train Wreck; Fire Put Out

CORSONA, N. J. — Fire fed by $3,000,000 worth of oil, chemicals and 35 railroad freight and passenger cars burned itself out near today.

The blaze started early yesterday when a Fort Worth & Denver freight train, pulled by four diesel units, slipped a faulty rail and sent the cars into the ditch.

Four tank cars filled with high octane aviation gas, doubly dangerous in view of the nation-wide strike by cars of fuel in relation to the strike.

Black and ammonia were among the spilled equipment. About 27 remained upright.

C. C. Cunningham, FW&D division superintendent, set the damages at $3,000,000. General Manager W. O. Frame, Fort Worth, said it's one of the worst wrecks of the line.

Describing the wreck Brokenman G. E. Hullman said the train was moving about 40 miles an hour. "We felt hardly a jar at first," he said, "and then all hell broke loose."

One spectator who saw the dense cloud of black smoke in the darkness remembered the warnings in recent days and thought one of the vicious twists was bearing down on his train.

Another said the cars "looked like a bunch of crumpled tin cans and orange crates."

Big Refinery Fire Rages In Houston

HOUSTON — (P) — One of Houston's biggest refinery fires in years destroyed eight fire towers today Sunday night at the Ford Shell Refinery.

Three firemen were injured fighting the fire, but none seriously.

The fire was still burning Sunday night at 11 p. m. The cause has not been described.

Housing Credit May Be Eased

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sentiment is growing in some government circles for an easing of down payment requirements on houses in the medium and upper price brackets, which have not been selling too well.

Several members of the Federal Reserve Board, which administers regulation X over housing credit, favor the move, it was learned today.

The board is surveying the prospects and will talk things over with Raymond Foley, housing and home finance administrator, who would have to concur. The housing agency was reported cooler toward the proposal than some reserve board members.

A final decision is expected in the next few weeks.

Invisible Guest In War Talks Seems To Be 'World Opinion'

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The invisible guest at the Korean truce talks ever since they began last July has been that intangible thing called world opinion.

Both sides were fully conscious of it, appealed to it, and were careful about it through more than 320 meetings filled with bickering, crises and hair-splitting.

They had to be careful about it because of their own peculiar position. They were involved not only in a shooting war but in an ideological one, too.

Each represented itself to people everywhere as the guardian and advance agent of the good life for all people while condemning the other as the enemy of it.

Men continued to die on both sides while the talks went on, but not in full battles. If the talks accomplished nothing else they at least had provided a pause in the full war in which more men would have died.

And so long as the talks continued the rest of the world could hope there might not be a resumption of that war which might lead to world war.

So because the world had a stake in the outcome, each side knew what the opinion of the invisible guest would be toward the side which broke off the talks and let the war begin for any trivial reason.

Only a few weeks ago there was hope here that the talks would soon reach a successful conclusion with a cease-fire. But suddenly the Communists met a terrible setback in world opinion.

It was on the matter of prisoners. The Communists have about 12,000 U. N. prisoners, about 7,000 of them South Koreans. The U. N. has 173,000 prisoners: 100,000 North Koreans, 20,000 Chinese, and 53,000 South Koreans.

Before there could be a cease-fire agreement the communists wanted an exchange of prisoners. They'd hand over their 12,000 for 173,000 held by the U. N.

But the U. N. said: Suppose some of the 173,000 don't want to go back?

The U. N. remembered that many Russians, taken prisoner by the Germans in World War II, committed suicide rather than be returned to Russia after the war.

The U. N. polled its prisoners and 53,000 South Koreans who reported that only 70,000 out of the 173,000 would go back willingly. The U. N. said it would not force the rest to return.

This was a shocking blow to Communist prestige in Asia and everywhere. They refused to accept the U. N. position on prisoners. Wednesday the talks had reached their most critical point in 10 months.

If the talks broke off now and full war was resumed, this country was in a good position to appeal to world opinion to blame the Communists.

This was done by President Truman, Secretary of State Acheson, and Deputy Defense Secretary William C. Foster in a series of statements.

The President summed it up: He said an armistice would not be bought at the price of 103,000 prisoners who didn't want to return to Communist control where they might be killed.

It was a triple statement of the American position, in case war starts again, in language that people on both sides of the Iron Curtain can understand.

signed to "get George Parr." A former friend of the reputedly gigantic write-in campaign, most of it in Duval county, two years ago after falling out with Parr.

Later, the write-in candidate declined the office. Secretary of State John Ben Shepperd refused to certify the write-in votes, and Reams took office.

This year, when Reams announced for re-election, he asked citizens to help him break the one-man political control which had held the South Texas area in its grasp so long.

Parr and the late Senator Archie Parr, his father, reputedly have controlled a large section of votes in the area for more than 25 years. Parr has been hailed for "delivering the vote."

Soon after Reams made his appeal, a new political group — calling itself the Freedom Party — was formed. It has announced a slate of candidates to contest county political races, and said it was designed to break "one-man political domination."

On May 6, Democrats in county convention in adjoining Jim Wells county at Alice passed a resolution condemning "one-man political control" and welcoming Rangers to the area.

Questioned by the Associated Press, Judge Reams said he did not want to go into specific cases of citizens being molested but added:

"If you want to come down here and look at it, I'll show you." Parr, like his father, has been called "The Duke of Duval."

When Former Gov. Coke R. Stevenson and then Rep. Lyndon B. Johnson found themselves locked in a neck-and-neck run-off primary election, the results finally hinged on the late returns from Duval county.

The bloc-voting county gave Johnson a tremendously one-sided majority, and Johnson nosed out Stevenson by 87 votes after a recount of votes in box 13 of neighboring Jim Wells county.

Stevenson's loud but vain protest was one of the first against the Parr regime.

Supreme Court Opens Review Of Steel Case

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Arguments on the legality of President Truman's seizure of the steel mills began before the Supreme Court at 10:22 a. m. CST today.

John W. Davis, speaking for six major steel companies, led off for the industry in its efforts to have the high tribunal uphold district Judge David A. Pine's ruling last month that the seizure was unlawful.

Philip B. Perlman, solicitor general and acting attorney general, waited his turn to plead for a reversal of Pine's decision.

The court's ruling, whenever it comes, will be of historic importance.

But the big question — whether the President has inherent powers under the Constitution to seize private industries in national emergencies — may go unanswered because of the various alternative courses open to the high tribunal.

The industry is asking the Supreme Court to uphold the April 29 decision of Federal Judge Davis A. Pine. Pine ruled that Truman's steel seizure order of April 8, issued to head off a strike, was unconstitutional. He ordered the mills returned to their owners.

The Justice Department, supported by the CIO Steel Workers Union, is asking that Judge Pine's injunction against seizing the mills be reversed. The department contends that although the law does not spell out emergency seizure authority such as the President exercised his action is supported adequately by the Constitution.

11 and Eisenhower four as 86 delegates were selected in party meetings in Nevada, Utah, Michigan, Missouri, and Virginia. Republicans chose 24, Democrats 82, most of whom were uncommitted and uninstructed.

Briefly here's how the weekend delegate gathering shaped up:

Missouri — Taft and Eisenhower picked up two delegates apiece and four were uncommitted in district meetings.

Virginia — two delegates for Taft were elected and two not yet tied down were said to be leaning toward Eisenhower.

Nevada — Republicans chose 12 uninstructed delegates. A poll of the delegates by the Associated Press showed seven for Taft, two for Eisenhower and three undecided. The Democrats picked a 10 vote delegation of 20 men and a poll of 16 of them showed seven for Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia, one each for Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois and Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma and seven undecided.

Michigan — a 40-vote Democratic delegation was pledged to their Gov. G. Mennen Williams, as a favorite son candidate.

Utah — a 40-vote Democratic delegation was chosen but none would express a preference to newsmen. Favorable opinion was expressed for Kefauver, Kerr and Mutual Security Administrator Averell Harriman.

The Wyoming and Rhode Island conventions touch off a politically packed week with activity also scheduled in West Virginia, North Dakota, Vermont, Oregon and Hawaii.

Tomorrow's West Virginia primaries will elect 20 Democratic and 16 GOP delegates and North Dakota Democrats open a two-day convention to complete that state's eight-vote delegation.

Mother Released, Sent To Families

NEW YORK — (AP) — Magistrate Joseph A. Martinis looked at the 41 women standing before him yesterday, and remembered that it was Mother's Day.

The women, arrested Saturday night in three Bronx gambling raids, all said they were mothers. So Martinis dismissed disorderly conduct charges against the 41 and sent them home to their families.

The greatest cause of failure of structural steel or other metal surfaces is by corrosion or — as it is commonly called — rusting through. Allied Paint can prevent this "rusting through."

There are several theories as to the causes and mechanics involved in the corrosion of steel, and it has been found that fundamentally it is caused by the metallic iron combining with oxygen from the air in the presence of moisture to form iron oxide and hydroxide, which is the red rust found on most unpainted metal structures.

Once the rust begins to form on unpainted metals, it will absorb moisture and air and hold them in close contact with the rusted metal surface underneath. This in turn will rust and so the corrosion will progress until the entire structure has rusted through.

You can prevent this corrosion by excluding all air and moisture from contact with the metal. Therefore the first function of a metal primer or other protective coating for steel is to coat the surface with a waterproof film that will be impervious to the passage of air and moisture through it.

The interaction of iron in steel surfaces with oxygen and moisture to form rust is a chemical one. Like all chemical reactions it can be accelerated by some substances and retarded or inhibited by others.

Some steel surfaces which come in contact with some of the pigments like graphite, carbon black and certain blues, rust more rapidly. These pigments should never be used in metal primers. The Allied line contains many metal primers. All of them follow the basic principle of rust inhibiting pigment. Most primers will cover from 400-600 square feet per gallon on large metal surfaces such as buildings and tanks. Structural steel will average about one gallon of primer to every four tons. This figure may vary greatly, however, dependent on the weight and design. For steel sash, estimate one gallon per 1000 square feet of light one coat inside and out.

The Allied paint carries all types of paints, whether it is for industrial or mechanical work, many types of paints for your home painting needs. Allied also carries about five different brands of wallpaper for you to pick from. They carry all types of painting needs such as brushes, tinner's, etc. to make your painting job easier for you. One of the largest variety of colors to pick from is one of the things Allied offers Allied also features custom picture framing. If you have a picture that needs a suitable frame and you can't seem to find one that suits the picture, bring it to Allied Paint Co., and they can build you a frame that will add so much to your picture's looks and life.

Congress Can Serve Consumer

Congress is expected to begin action soon on the so-called "fair trade" legislation.

The Supreme Court last year knocked out the Fair Trade Act. This act had the effect of excluding from liability the anti-trust laws those retail stores which agreed to sell certain goods at prices fixed by the manufacturers.

Texas, fortunately has not been suckered into passing the legislation although an attempt has been made to put it over at nearly every session of the Legislature in recent years. If Congress passes a new law, we can expect new efforts next year.

In the action it takes on legislative measures now before it, the House of Representatives, which will be the first of the two branches of Congress to act, can either over-ride the court or stand by its decision.

Speaking solely in the interest of the country's 150 million consumers, it would certainly appear that Congress in this case can best serve the people by taking no action at all. In other words, by letting stand the decision of the Supreme Court.

Among the principal commodities whose prices are fixed by fair trade laws are some, but not all, liquors, drugs, electrical appliances, cosmetics, sports equipment and clothing. Fair trade laws are in effect in 45 states.

What the fair trade laws mean in the way of higher prices is indicated in a survey taken a few years ago by Fortune Magazine. Summarized, the survey showed:

"1. A comparison of 117 branded drug items showed that 35 cost about one-third less in Washington, D. C., than in New York, where no fair-trade law, than in Maryland, where the law is strict, and 29 cost one-seventh less.

"2. Fifty-four fair trade drug items cost an average of 16.2 per cent more on the east bank of the Mississippi (Illinois), where fair trade is legal, than on the St. Louis side (Missouri), where it is not."

Forest Walker, economist for Macy's department store in New York, for years a leader in the fight against fair trade laws, testified before a congressional committee in February:

"Private price-fixing invariably and inevitably works against consumers. Public policy requires the protection of millions of consumers, not the self-interest of a handful of manufacturers and retailers."

The Late Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, of the Supreme Court, stated in connection with the case of the United States v. United Fruit Co., 338 U.S. 243 (1950):

"The complainant having sold its products at prices which are not competitive with those of its competitors, it is entitled to whatever advantages may be derived from competition in the subsequent traffic."

In other words, Chief Justice Hughes was backing up the opinion of many an American that since our economy is based on the competitive, free-enterprise system, let's allow that system to function unfettered by restrictions favoring a few.

Congress has legislated to insure healthful competition among manufacturers. Let it act now to insure the same kind of competition among retail stores, with the consequent price benefits to consumers.

Attention All Men! Handy Men Around The House Are First In Women's Hearts

By HENRY McLEMORE

Every man has a dream. A Pampa man is the first to look on the peak of Mount Everest and plant the flag of their country. Some want to corner the hen feather market and be known as the Chicken King of America. Others want to be a new trout fly that catch any fish with scales as hard as diamond. I've had more than twenty years, I wanted to be President, but I want to be a handy man around the house.

I dreamed of being the old man who could take an old hand saw and make it into a modern coffee table. I that once, with a rosewood that stood nearly chest high, wound up with a four-legged table that was so unbalanced it would fall over like a see-saw.

I am supposed to love men around the house. I mean any other type of man who can hang a curtain, fix a faucet, or change a light bulb. I wish to goodness I had a nickel for all the times I heard women boast that their husbands had tool shops in their heads and could make any repair job needed. I have invested more money in tools than I have in a shower.

It is just the right kind of sport for women. You move every part of the body, the muscles, and it keeps the body beautiful.

Yesterday a door fell off one of the kitchen cabinets. I went in action like a young fireman at a four-alarm fire. I came up with hammers, screws of all denominations, hatchets, buzz saws, two tape measures, and a gleam of determination in my eyes. I recalled everything I had read about handy men around the house in magazines. Working slowly, I first thing I did was to break four cups and saucers.

Then a pile of plates, trying to escape, fell on my right foot with a result which you can imagine. I lifted the door into place and everything would have been perfect had I not forgotten to put the hinges on. The door fell and landed on one of my cats. Duffy. This meant I had to call the vet to treat Duffy for a possible fractured tail.

The superintendent of the building came up and asked what was going on, as he had had several complaints concerning the noise in 10-F. I told him I was just putting up a kitchen cabinet door and would appreciate no interference. He said that he didn't mind my putting a door up, but just please leave some of the apartment, as there were others living in the building. This sassy remark resulted in a fist fight.

The door is still off, the cat limps, and my dream of many years has again been shattered. I'm just not a handy man around the house.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. MOILES

Even The Los Angeles Times Questions Results Of Public Education

I was rather surprised to learn that the Los Angeles Times on May 1 had an editorial raising the question of the results of public schools.

The editorial page of the Los Angeles Times is so insipid that I seldom turn to it. It does not seem to have any columnists who stand for a definite limited government.

Not does its editorial policy or for the principles on which this government was formed. In fact, I cannot tell the difference between their ideas of government and those of Joseph Stalin or other degrees. Both of them believe in initiating force. I doubt whether the editors or the publishers of the Times can themselves tell the difference other than degrees. So, when a friend of mine called my attention to this editorial, I turned to the page to read it. I was very much surprised that they would even suggest that public schools are not doing a good job.

Under the sub-heading of "Schooling No Panacea," they write: "Public schools are by no means an American monopoly nor has near-universal school proved the cure-all its earlier champions anticipated."

"In 1880 President Garfield was able to assert without contradiction that next in importance to freedom and justice is popular education, without which neither freedom nor justice can be permanently maintained."

"Today popular education is hailed as an accomplished fact in America, an American heritage, yet freedom and justice seem to many thoughtful citizens far less secure than they were 72 years ago. Recent years have seen mass schooling employed effectively by dictators of the right and left to suppress both justice and freedom. The Communists, as evidence in many countries attests, rely on classrooms and textbooks as confidently as our democratic forefathers."

"At the same time there is a strong current of dissatisfaction with public schools on a more down-to-earth basis. Parents and prospective employers are not always pleased with the product of our multi-billion-dollar educational plant. High school graduates too often cannot add, scan or spell; worse, they seem to have small sense of morality and its diminutive manners."

"These indictments are valid and disturbing. They are also, as educators on the defensive angrily counter, baseless and destructive attacks on the sacred ramparts of public schooling. They are advanced by very conscientious and concerned citizens."

"The Republican party would be glad to have them, and welcome them wholeheartedly, if they would come with some semblance of cooperation. There would naturally be differences to iron out and which could reasonably be done in a spirit of give-and-take. They simply do not want to cooperate, they are bent on taking over. The same group was going to elect Dewey, Wilkie too. Remember? Sure winners you know. Now it is Eisenhower. The general is a popular figure, but all of the high honors have made him popular were conferred upon him by the New Deal administration. How could one logically expect him to repudiate them?"

"Some of us would like to have a choice. New Deal, Fair Deal, General is a popular figure, but all of the high honors have made him popular were conferred upon him by the New Deal administration. How could one logically expect him to repudiate them?"

"The issue here is not a question of right or wrong. Mr. Taft's honesty and integrity are not questioned. He is conceded that, but the paramount idea of the New Deal wing of the party is a winner. They believe because of the personal popularity of the general he can win, principals or not. That has been the argument of the New Deal group through three campaigns. The same group is saying the same thing now. They have attracted the Democrats who do not know where else to go, since they are assumed to be identified with the Truman wing of their party, and do not have the intellectual fortitude to line up with the States Righters."

"The true independent is another thing entirely. For the most part they are honest by nothing but a conscience and love of country. They would be welcomed by any party."

"The Democrat that gets up in a Republican meeting and says he or she has always been a Democrat, and that their turning Republican this year is nobody's business, is doing nothing, except perhaps satiating an ego. They swig with the wind as the wind blows. How many of them would abide by the pledge they signed if the general should repudiate the Democratic nominees?"

"Some of us just want a chance to know what the general believes about a number of things. A man named James Roosevelt was doing four years ago what several men and women with very familiar names are doing today. Remember? It might be fun to see if he would repudiate the Democratic nominees."

"But it is very disappointing. Some of us want to see a chance to see inside before investing all. Is that too much to ask?"

So many things are being said and written about the "Old Guard" Republicans, one would think that to be associated with them is something a little shameful, or at least, hide bound.

Some of us who are Texans, with ancestral lineage of many generations of Texans, are proud to be identified with the "Old Guard". We have been voting that way for twenty years.

The group of "so-called" Republicans who are now in control of the numerical strength of the party in Texas are for the most part, people who have no party of their own. They are ashamed of the Democratic party as it is today, and would not be identified with it. This seems like a Republican year, and there are always a number of band wagon people around. They say they are going to infuse the party and give it new strength. What they actually mean is that they plan to take control of the party. They can't understand why we don't get down on our knees and thank the Good Lord that He sent them to lead us out of the fog.

The Republican party would be glad to have them, and welcome them wholeheartedly, if they would come with some semblance of cooperation. There would naturally be differences to iron out and which could reasonably be done in a spirit of give-and-take. They simply do not want to cooperate, they are bent on taking over. The same group was going to elect Dewey, Wilkie too. Remember? Sure winners you know. Now it is Eisenhower. The general is a popular figure, but all of the high honors have made him popular were conferred upon him by the New Deal administration. How could one logically expect him to repudiate them?"

"Some of us would like to have a choice. New Deal, Fair Deal, General is a popular figure, but all of the high honors have made him popular were conferred upon him by the New Deal administration. How could one logically expect him to repudiate them?"

LOOKING SIDWAYS

By WHITNEY BOLTON

About as close as I ever get to television is when my bride comes from being one around and says: "Well, we caught the ringer again tonight," she being a heroine of the crime classics of television, but I continue to hear about the amazing and successful exploits of a pair of old friends whose courtship and marriage coincided with my first knowing them. These would be Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz. The information is that they are mulling up a succulent bundle of money making comic films for television and that Ad Agency row on Madison Avenue uses them as an example every time a producer begins to spend too much money on a show.

I say the information, because I am 3,000 miles away from California and everything that happens there comes to me via hearsay, an extremely unreliable means of communication. But hearsay tells me that they thought up their own show, laid out their own budget, determined to make good comedy at low prices and pass the profits, if any, on to their sponsor and themselves. What they didn't want to sit around waiting for the telephone to ring with job offers at prices set by whomever happened to telephone. They wanted to be their own bosses and slice the melon with the fat and of it on their table. No one alive can throw rocks at them for that.

An early actor in their clown series was John Emery, who came back from California stunned and awed by the apocryphal which the Arnaz family was showing, both in the money and the idea departments, and months ago I could have guessed that these two would come upon a 1952 means of finding gold in California.

What is more important than money, or the place that they now seem to be occupying in the show business, and this increasingly large audience, and this present clutch at fame and fortune is only an extension of a marriage that has been good right from the start.

They married after meeting on a picture and promptly put as much as $5,000 down on a ranch. It wasn't a large ranch and with a power cutter you could get in all day but there was in about 15 minutes. But they were dungarees and straw hats and loaded the station wagon with as much as two bales of alfalfa and took the bales to market. I fully expected Desi to start wearing a straw in his mouth and talking Vermont farm talk with a Cuban inflection. In between these momentary hayings, Desi would put together a steaming hot rumba orchestra and take off for five hours of 15 cities, coming back in 15 weeks with a wallet load. Meanwhile, Lucille would make a picture and between them had a nice life. She collected milk glass and he developed a passion for building money walls.

They lived about a mile or so from us and used to drop in from time to time, their dungarees covered with straw and their hats with a Cuban inflection. National Whirligig.. SACB Expected To Rule Reds Must Register As Enemies

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Democratic leaders now believe that they may be able to get the President to sign a bill of health on the charge of codding Communists as a result of the President's quiet reversal of policy on an important phase of this issue.

They dismiss as inconsequential the fact that, as Alger Hiss, he was forced into reform by Congressional critics. They count on the voters to forget certain lapses. Without any fanfare, Truman has dealt the official Communist Party and allied front organizations a damaging thrust. He has reorganized the hitherto pinkish Subversive Activities Control Board by naming as chairman a hard-hitting legal realist in Peter Campbell Brown of Brooklyn.

Although no red-baiter, Brown has frequently dashed when his predecessors showed an amazing tolerance of the defendants' rowdy tactics at official hearings.

EFFECT — Brown follows such easy-going board chiefs as Seth W. Richardson of North Dakota and ex-Rep. Charles M. La Follette of Indiana. They were apparently named by Truman in an attempt to soften or minimize the effect of the law creating this sort of Supreme Court on Communist activities in the United States.

Indeed, he vetoed the original measure, only to have it passed over his objections by a large majority.

Richardson, for instance, was charged with whitewashing the administration's part in the Pearl Harbor disaster when he served as counsel for a Capitol Hill investigating committee. He is a partner of Joseph E. Davies, former ambassador to Russia and author of the pro-Stalin book, "Mission to Moscow."

La Follette was forced out of the chairmanship because the Senate Judiciary Committee refused to approve his nomination. He once headed the liberal Democratic Hyde Park faction known as Americans for Democratic Action.

Thus, the anti-Truman, McCarran bloc was really responsible for transformation of SACB from a partisan and ideological agency into a realistic, semi-judicial body.

Its decision in this matter will deeply affect our national security, if the "cold war" should flare into a global conflict in which the enemy would rely on "fifth column" more effective even than Hitler's.

SACB must decide whether the Communist Party and kindred cliques must register as foreign agents, thus keeping the government informed of their financial resources, membership and activities. SACB passes judgment on the basis of citations supplied to it by the Department of Justice, which acts as complainant.

ADVERSE — Before his enforced resignation, Atty. Gen. J. Howard McGrath gathered damaging evidence against all these Red organizations. Although the defense is still to be heard, and the "Commies" counsel, ex-Rep. Vito Marcantonio of New York, says he will need two months for presentation of his case, data so far submitted points toward a decision adverse to Stalin's agents and admirers.

It is expected that they will be ordered to register.

ASSET — Since the board's ruling should be handed down before the November election in accordance with usual procedure, anti-Kremlin holding would be a valuable asset to the Democrats.

Together with the operations of Thomas F. Murphy and Judge Harold Medina in the Hiss and other trials involving alleged subversion, the incumbents and their November nominees could maintain that they had erased the Red stain.

The GOP's principal countercharge, in view of the disastrous effect of our Far Eastern policies in China and Korea, would be that contrition and retribution came too late to be effective. Truman's belated action will be characterized as a "deathbed repentance."

JUSTICE — The realistically reorganized SACB can meet needs acutely felt at the start of World War II, and which may be more demanding in the event of another global conflict.

From the standpoint of security, it will have a record that will serve as a rogues' gallery of Reds. It will be a repository of information that has been sifted and analyzed. Moreover, the defendants' testimony, as always in cases of this kind, will be of great value.

Pink Stone Used To Decorate Mrs. Vollmert's New Home

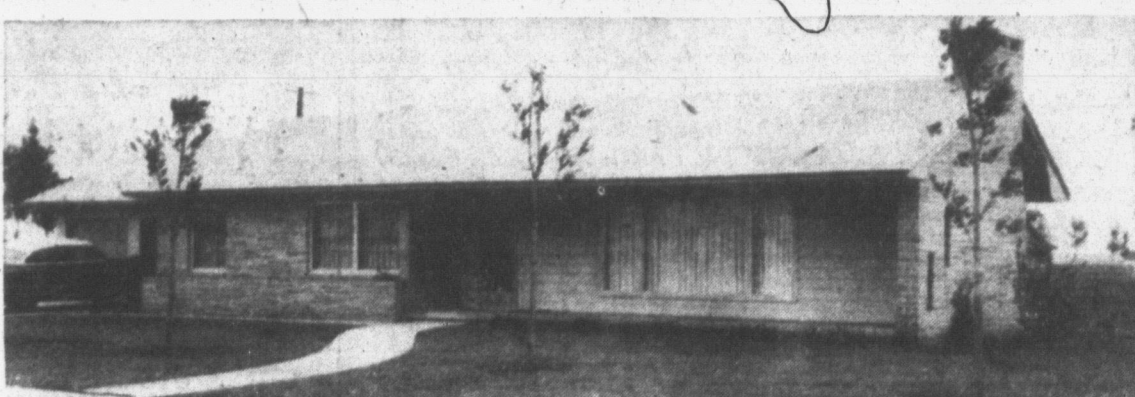

By DOLORES DAVIS
Pink stone from the Grand Canyon in Colorado combined with a delicate gray-green trim makes the exterior of the J. C. Vollmert's new home, 1902 N. Charles, one of the most attractive in Pampa and hints of the lovely interior.

Mrs. Vollmert rearranged the architect's plans to a spacious floor plan that can truthfully be called "her own."

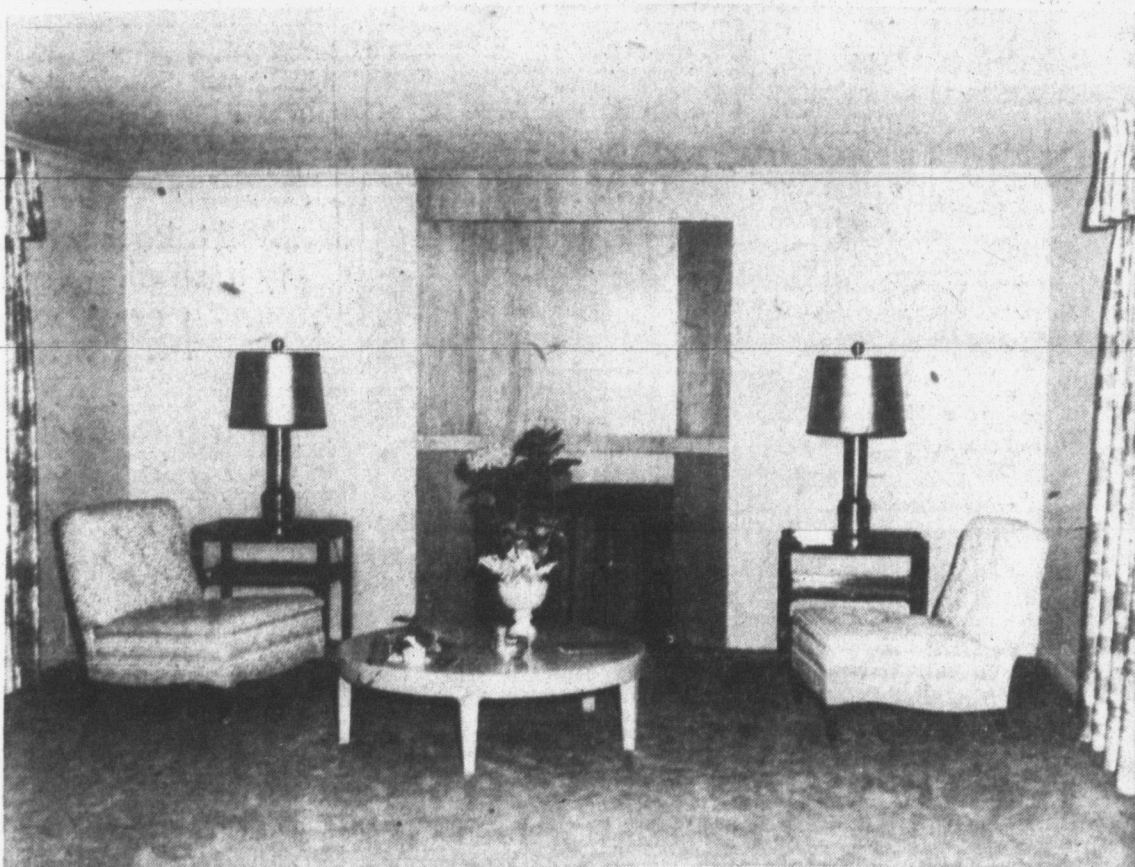

On the right from the entrance hall is the airy living room. Walls and ceiling are a delicate green as is the carpeting. A 13-foot expanse of drapes in two shades of green combined with a muted rose extends along the west wall. On the east wall are more window groupings. Baker furniture is mahogany. A bleached mahogany cocktail table is low and round set between matching chairs upholstered in a modified wide stripe of brown, pink and green.

The fireplace is black marble with mahogany finished mantel and reaches the ceiling. On either side of the fireplace are handsome tables topped with gold Paul Hanson lamps with a narrow black stripe. Cut flowers in a large vase set on the cocktail table balance with the spacious room. A spinet is against the north wall.

Unique paper is the feature of the dining room. From a Chinese motif of gray, gold, black and green Mrs. Vollmert has added touches of yellow and Chinese red. The ceiling and a wainscoting is of the same color as the living room walls. Drapes are of an eggshell shade with a gold tint. Furniture will

Better House For Less Cost Is New Aim

More and more families are turning to modernization for the answer to their housing problems. New ideas and modern materials, remodeling specialists report, make it easy today for the owner of an old house to increase its comfort, convenience, beauty and value.

Modernized homes, they point out, frequently offer advantages not found in newly built houses. They contain much more space than do new homes of comparable cost, they often are located in well established neighborhoods and they have landscaping features that take years to develop.

The first step in modernization is to check the building for structural defects. If any are found, they should be remedied. Then the work of rehabilitation can begin.

Asbestos Siding Popular
Many dilapidated appearing houses can be made to look like new by covering the exterior with modern siding materials.

Among the most popular for frame houses are asbestos-cement siding shingles. Besides giving the home a greatly improved appearance, they provide increased protection against weather and fire.

Asbestos-cement siding shingles can be applied over old wood siding or stucco. They are unharmed by extremes of weather and they will never rot. Since they do not require painting for preservation, they keep sidewall maintenance costs to a minimum.

Savings in upkeep will pay for this type of improvement.

A few structural changes frequently will take years from the looks of an old house. Judged by today's standards, many older residences are over-ornate. Removing false caves and "gingerbread" will bring out simple lines more in keeping with today's standards.

Color can work wonders in exterior modernization. Roofs can be made to appear lower if reshingled in dark shades, while keeping the walls light. Too much color in the trim around eaves, doors and windows usually has a distracting effect. A simple color plan, accentuating the horizontal lines, generally is most effective.

The addition of a picture window or the enlargement of small windows will give a modern feeling.

Roof Enhances Beauty
A good-looking roof will bring out the full beauty of a well modernized home. Roofing materials should be selected for durability and fire-safety as

Outdoor Furniture Needs That Spring Treatment

By MR. FIX
Distributed by NEA Service
Spring being the unpredictable season it is, and housewives being slaves to the spring cleaning habit, indoor and outdoor activities of home handymen are limited about now.

For want of "more important things" to do, why not closet yourself in the workshop, out of broom's reach, with a job you put off last year — renovating porch and lawn furniture. When guests come to call this summer, you'll be glad you did.

A little paint and varnish will go a long way on weather-beaten outdoor furniture and will increase its life's span, too.

There's no problem in refinishing painted wood furniture. Your job will very likely look better than the original, if — you counter-sink nails that have worked outward, fill nail holes with a putty and sand out rough spots and areas where the grain has swollen from dampness.

Clean the piece thoroughly with a strong washing solution. After it is dry you have only to dust and paint it, being certain to use a hard, gloss enamel, never an exterior house paint.

If the painted surface of your metal furniture is not more durable than most, it is scratched and chipped. Unless you spend a few minutes more to take all the paint off, you probably won't be completely satisfied with the job.

Use a paint solvent and a scraping tool to bare the metal, then follow it up with steel wool to remove all rust. The surface is well as appearance. Asbestos-cement roofing shingles are a popular choice because they are both permanent and incombustible.

Other opportunities for modernization will be found inside. An up-to-date kitchen, with new equipment and appliances, will trim years from the age of the house. Old fashioned bathrooms can be given a modern look by refinishing walls with modern enameled or plastic covered wallboards. Removal of unneeded wood trim in other rooms will give them new youth. Attics and basements can be made into recreation rooms and extra living quarters.

Remodeling costs can be spread out over a number of years through FHA-approved modernization loans.

Initial linoleum in the kitchen is spider print. Natural finished built-in cabinets were white-wiped. Marble oatmeal tile was used for the cabinet counter-tops. Walls and ceiling are yellow. Exceptionally handy is a work space enclosed with folding doors. All available space was converted to cabinets and making housework easier are the garbage disposal, dish washer and vent hood over the stove. Windows in the kitchen and utility room are steel casements. Throughout the rest of the house double hung steel windows were used.

The utility room, opening off the east end of the kitchen has plenty of storage space, a wheel-mounted soiled-clothes cabinet receptacle and the door to the basement. A sliding door opens to a small sewing room fully equipped.

Woodwork with the exception of the bedrooms and back hall are oak.

Entrance to the den is through louvered doors on the south side of the house. Natural Dunbar furniture is combined with boucle drapes that have been fitted so they can be drawn over an outside door, too, for a complete wall of curtains. A floor to ceiling magazine rack is on the west

Unusual decoration was used in the back southwest bedroom. Papered walls have a white background with linear designed in pink and gray. The fourth wall has the same pattern with a lilac design overlaid. Bleached mahogany furniture combines with pink boucle curtains with a delicate gold stripe at the windows. Carpeting is pink cotton twill. Pickering up the purple of the lilacs are a rocker and chair upholstered in a purple nubby fabric.

Bath for this bedroom is tiled in pink with a partitioned dressing table and large combination chest and dressing room adjoining. White fixtures in the bath are combined with pink curtains. Fluorescent lighting was used.

Powdermaker French Provincial furniture is in the northwest bedroom. Gold walls harmonize with antique gold cotton carpeting. Double closets in both bedrooms have sliding doors. To complete the decoration of the northwest bedroom Mrs. Vollmert plans to use gold rooster based lamps with gold silk shades.

Bath off the hall has aqua-green tile, yellow curtains and yellow fixtures. Walls above the wainscoting are papered in a black background with yellow pattern paper. White shade has a pleated valance.

From the front hall to the back hall is a large walk-through closet room. In this room are linen closets and a cedar lined closet. Plenty of shelves, clothes racks and other storage space takes care of the "closet-space" problem.

In the basement a storm cellar with a cement top has been placed. In the basement too, is the combination heating and air-condition unit by Kerbow Heating Co.

The Vollmert home was built by Osborne Const. Co. and wiring was by Davis Electric.

Landscaping is not yet complete but grass is out and work is begun. A black iron picket fence on the side is to be joined by a redwood backyard fencing.

The 2000-square foot floor space home of the Vollmerts is spacious and comfortable with high decorative style used to make it a completely livable, exceptionally attractive home.

Large Closets Need Electric Lighting
All closets with more than 9 sq. ft. of floor space, or deeper than 24", should be equipped with electric lights.

A switch in the door jamb, similar to that on a refrigerator, will turn on the light automatically when the door is opened.

A bullet was found in an ivory billiard ball which had no hole in its surface. The bullet had been shot into the tusk of an elephant, and the ivory had closed over the hole, leaving no trace of the bullet.
