SNYDER SPOTLIGHT

By WACIL McNAIR

The "editorial we," a sort of trade mark of the fourth estate, for lo, these many years, has gone out of style, according to some sources. Others, who draw a finer line of distinction, maintain that "we" as used by many newspaper writers is outmoded in some cases, but still pertinent in others.

Cases in point are "by lined" columns, such as this one, and it stands to reason that no purpose is served when the writer's name appears at the top of a column and everyone can see for himself that one person wrote it.

"We" have always liked the editorial "we" for various reasons, one being that "we" never seemed able to use the pronoun "I" without sounding monotonous. Some writers can do it, others fall flat on their respective faces every time.

But it appears that everyone is trying it these days.

* * *

"We" have not surrendered unconditionally, but in the interest of progress a compromise appears practical.

In the future, for a trial at least, the pronoun "I" may be used whenever the personal touch is indicated. For impersonal reference it will be "this department." Never did particularly like the expression "this corner."

* * *

There was a bit of irony in the recent announcement that Snyder is to receive a certificate from the Texas Safety Association, seeing that it came close on the heels of a rash of traffic accidents in the area. Technically, the mishaps were outside the city limits, but city residents are and should be as concerned about them as they would had they happened in the middle of town.

* * *

There is a brighter note on the area agricultural front. Cotton measuring crews report that cotton stalks have about doubled in size during the past week or 10 days. Insects are a likely threat now, but it is not difficult to remember that Scurry County fields had little to attract the pests a year ago.

* * *

You will hear a lot within the next few weeks about the county projects proposed recently be Snyder Jaycees. A considerable amount of deliberation may be expected before specific projects are singled out. This is a wise procedure, of course, because no individual or single group has all of the answers. The Jaycees have advanced the general idea and have let it be known that their organization is ready to work on it. At the same time, they are seeking not only the support, but the counsel of other organizations and interested individuals. If they get the response they deserve, our county stands to benefit considerably.

President Of Guatemala Is Slain By His Palace Guard

GUATEMALA, July 27 (AP) — A rifle bullet fired by a palace guard drilled President Carlos Castillo Armas through the heart last night and he toppled dead before the eyes of his horror-stricken wife.

The assassin took his own life after mowing down the 42-year-old army colonel who three years ago booted out the nearest thing to a Communist government ever to spring up on the American continent.

The guard, who presented arms to Castillo Armas at the palace, then lowered his rifle and fired four shots, was identified as Romero Vasquez Sanchez. An official statement said Vasquez Sanchez was a Communist.

A state of siege—modified martial law — was imposed on Guathroughout the country, the northernmost and most populous of the Central American republics.

Luis Arturo Gonzalez Lopez, 56, vice president, took over the duties of president. He is a well known anti-Communist attorney who headed the country's first constituent assembly in 1954-55.

Congress announced that elections would be held in four months to choose a successor to Castillo Armas, whose term was to have expired in March 1960. Congress announced its decision after an all night session. The cabinet also met throughout the night.

Members of the Castillo Armas government were grief-stricken. In Washington President Eisenhower referred to Castillo Armas as a "personal friend of mine."

Castillo Armas paid a state visit to the United States in October and November of 1955. He visited Eisenhower at his hospital in Denver while the President was recovering from a heart attack.

The assassination occurred as Castillo Armas and his attractive wife, a former school teacher, were on their way to the palace dining room after attending a reception for a group of businessmen. The reception was the climax to a week of conferences on Guatemala's economic problems.

After the assassin fired and took his own life, Mrs. Castillo cried out: "Carlos is dead."

She asked that the minister of defense and congress be summoned to do "whatever is necessary."

Officials were stunned. There had been relative quiet in Guatemala in recent months following some student unrest that flared into violence in June of last year when six persons were killed.

8 Killed In South Texas Crash

KENEDY, Tex., July 27 (AP) — Two 1957 model automobiles collided headon about four miles south of this South Texas farming center today, killing eight persons and injuring one other.

Five were killed outright when the two cars smashed into each other on Highway 81. Three others died a short time later in a Kenedy hospital.

Four were members of an Ingleside, Tex., family. They were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Henry Moas, 37 and 34; a 2-year-old daughter; and Moas' 15-year-old stepson, James Lee Michael Acron.

Another daughter, Leslie, 5, was critically injured.

Also killed were Marvin Hardy, 31, Beatrice Hardy, 41, Joe Barrientes, 66, and Jesus Jimenez, 57, all of San Antonio. All the San Antonio persons except Jimenez were killed instantly.

Mrs. Moas and her daughter also were killed upon the impact. Moas and his stepson died at the hospital.

Police said the Moas car was traveling north and the other car was headed south.

Kenedy Chief of Police Ross Schuster said both cars were demolished. He said they were 1957 models (Fords).

Schuster said a motorist who was following the Moas car told him that the Hardy car pulled out of its lane to pass another car and met the Moas car head on.

Schuster said the two vehicles came to rest about 18 inches apart, parallel with the highway, on the left hand lane going south.

Traffic was blocked on the route for about an hour and a half.

Schuster said he thought Moas was employed by Shell Oil Co. in Ingleside. He said identification on the San Antonio person's bodies indicated all resided at 239 Beach Haven Drive in San Antonio.

Argentina Is Preparing For Vote Sunday

BUENOS AIRES, July 27 (AP)—Argentina's heated campaign cooled off tonight—the eve of an election to choose a constituent assembly with the job of establishing a democratic government. Peronistas are urging followers of ousted dictator Juan D. Peron to cast blank ballots.

The only oratory left is to come tonight from Provisional President Pedro Aramburu who has ruled this rich nation since Peron was deposed in September 1955. Gen. Aramburu is neither a candidate nor connected with any political party. His aim in speaking at the last minute is to urge nine million voters to cast their ballots.

Aramburu called the election to establish a legislative body to rewrite the constitution of 1853, which replaced Peron's of 1949. Specifically, the rewriting would entail guarantees against dictatorships by limiting executive powers of the president.

Brithish Were Right, Federal Judge Says

LONDON, July 27 (AP) — Britons were told tonight by a U.S. Federal judge that they were right in the Suez crisis.

Judge Whitefield Davidson of the Federal District Court in Dallas told a meeting of the Anglo-Texas Society:

"I have never met a Texan yet who doesn't believe you and France shouldn't have been left alone with the Suez Canal."

The judge spoke at a meeting given by the Anglo-Texas Society.

Editor To Speak At Banquet Here

Clayton Rand, editor of The Dixie Guide at Gulfport, Miss., and owner of the Dixie Press, will be speaker Sept. 10 at the annual businessman-teacher banquet here.

The speaker was announced by the Chamber of Commerce merchants committee, headed by Gene Thompson, which is arranging the banquet in cooperation with the Snyder schools.

Snyder businessmen will be hosts to teachers of the Snyder school system at the banquet. Tickets for the event will be on sale later.

Rand was born in Wisconsin but Mississippi-reared. He worked his way through Mississippi State College as a peanut vender and through Harvard selling cooking utensils. After attending Harvard Law School, he was admitted to the Mississippi bar and practiced law.

In 1919, Rand bought a country weekly newspaper. He has owned five newspapers. At the present time, he owns the Dixie Press and is editor of The Dixie Guide at Gulfport, Miss.

Rand has won two national editorial awards and in 1928 was sent on an expense-paid tour to Germany by the International Press Conference, which was held at Cologne.

The Mississippi editor is widely recognized and is past president of the Mississippi State Press Association, National Editorial Association, Mississippi State Alumni Association, and other organizations. At one time he was field secretary for the Press Congress of the World.

Rand has authored four books, "Abracadabra: One Democrat to Another," "Men of Spine in Mississippi," "Ink on My Hands," and "Stars in Their Eyes." He is editor of a daily syndicated newspaper feature which was started in 1949.

During the summers of 1949, 1950, and 1952, Rand spent time in Europe to get a slant on socialism and communism. He made an extensive tour of Yugoslavia in 1952. In 1955, he spent two months touring South America.

Rand now has speeches scheduled as far ahead as 1958.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce, after surveying all trade associations in the country to set up a file on speaking talent, found Rand among "the ten convention speakers mentioned most frequently."

Dulles Sent To Talk On Disarmament

By WARREN ROGERS JR.

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP) — President Eisenhower today directed Secretary of State Dulles to fly to London tomorrow to take a hand in the long-drawn disarmament negotiations, which so far have produced no agreement.

One big purpose of the trip, it was reported, is to work out a precise "open skies" plan for Europe that the European allies would support.

The open skies plan calls for aerial inspection to check up on whether any arms reduction or control agreement is being faithfully carried out.

Officials said what Dulles learns in his face-to-face consultations may decide whether the disarmament talks should continue or recess.

But they said that was not the main purpose of his trip. They said a good many reasons lay behind the dramatic move, the primary one being a need to designate proposed zones of disarmament inspection in Europe acceptable to the nations involved.

Harold E. Stassen, who continues as head of the U.S. delegation, would present whatever detailed plan evolves to the Russian delegation. The Soviets are expected then either to request a recess to study the idea or respond immediately with a counter proposal.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, or at least Adenauer's Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano, might turn up at London for the allied consultation, informed sources speculated.

Likewise, French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau might sit in. Officials said Dulles expects to consult top flight British authorities, including Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

A White House announcement said Dulles, now in Canada, will leave Ottawa tomorrow night, arriving in London Monday afternoon. He will stay "a few days," the announcement said.

It also said:

"The President has requested the secretary of state to go to London to join the consultations related to the work of the disarmament subcommittee.

"The President considers that the problems under consideration in London are of such importance as to require the secretary's personal review and judgment."

Tied Bodies Are Found

BROCKTON, Mass., July 27 (AP) —The nude, charred bodies of two young brothers—roped together at the wrists—were found today in a burned wooded area of a public park.

All Brockton police were ordered to duty after the bodies of Edward Paul Logan, 11, and his brother, John, 12, were discovered partly covered by unburned tree branches.

Police said one had been stabbed in the stomach. Autopsies were ordered.

The bodies were found some 18 hours after Jean L. Logan Jr. of Stoughton reported his sons missing while on a visit to a swimming pool in the park Friday. The pool is about a mile and a half from the small burned area.

VICTIM—Catherine Marie Elvins, 19-year-old socialite, was found dead in her Burlingame, Calif. apartment, apparently slain with a flat-iron. Police who are holding her roommate, Elaine Soule, 19, of Freeport, N.Y., said they are dissatisfied with her story that she killed the girl because she wanted a $160 check made out to the dead girl. They said they are more interested in a report of repeated quarrels as a motive for the slaying.

Discharge Of Profs Called Closed Issue

ABILENE, July 27 (AP)—The chairman of the Texas Tech College board of directors tonight said the board considers the recent dismissals of three professors a closed incident.

W.D. Watkins, board chairman, made the statement in a formal release to newsmen.

He said there had been no violation of Constitutional rights and that the board's action in a secret session July 13 was unanimous. At that meeting the directors voted not to renew the contracts of Dr. Byron Abernethy, Dr. Harold Greenberg and an adult education program headed by Dr. Per Stensland.

Abolishment of Dr. Stensland's project also did away with the latter's job.

The Lubbock Avalanche Journal had said the action against Abernethy and Greenberg was taken because of their political and social views. The newspaper said J. Evetts Haley, Canyon, Tex., ranchman, historian and defeated candidate in last summer's Democratic gubernatorial primary, was the "guiding hand" behind the dismissals.

Dr. E.N. Jones, Tech President, conferred about four hours with Watkins yesterday. Earlier, he had asked for an open hearing for the three faculty members.

The three instructors and Jones were not immediately available for comment.

The Southern Assn. of Colleges at Altlanta, Ga., yesterday said it was "concerned" with the firings and would take up the matter at its December convention. The organization said it was asking further information from the college.

Jones promised yesterday that the administration would cooperate with the association's probe.

Watkins statement read:

"Upon my return from vacation, I, as chairman of the board of directors of Texas Tech, visited personally with each member of the board and consulted with many friends and ex-students of Texas Tech regarding the action of the board at its last meeting on July 13.

"After careful study and due deliberation and with the approval of the board I wish to make the following statement as promised:

"The board's unanimous and carefully deliberative action in refusing to renew the contracts of the professors in question was carried out in compliance with its legal obligation to citizens of Texas, assumed under oath of office, with the firm conviction that it was for the best interests of Texas Technological College.

"Inasmuch as no one's constitutional rights have been violated in any way and since the board has not received any additional information which would cause them to change their prior unanimous action, we therefore consider the incident closed."

MMM!

Snake Steak Served.

WARRIORS MARK, Pa., July 27 (AP)—Zzzzzzzzzzzzz! It's rattlesnake time again in the hills of central Pennsylvania.

And for the Ancient Gastronomic Order of Rattling Reptiles it means eating rattlesnakes.

Ever try rattlesnake? It's a delicacy.

Like it or not you've got to eat it to be a member in good standing of the Rattling Reptiles.

Simple?

Sure: if you can eat rattlesnake meat and at the same time watch two live ones wiggle in front of you.

It's all part of the initiation into the organization formed about 12 years ago by three Huntingdon County sportsmen.

Each year the group, now totaling 50, meets at Fairbrook Manor, a rambling 30-room stone house built in 1834 near Pennsylvania Furnace to rattle and tattle some tall tales.

The grand imperial rattler is Bob Harpster, one of the founders of the organization. He loves rattlesnake meat.

Dr. Eric Walker, president of Penn State University, was initiated last year.

This session, Dr. Fred Bolman, president of Franklin and Marshall College, will be initiated.

Wives of the members prepare the menu.

It includes a four-inch piece of rattlesnake meat, a hunk of groundhog and fresh trout.

Jr. College Plan To Be Discussed

Plans were being made this weekend for a meeting of committees of various civic clubs, the Chamber of Commerce, and school officials with Dr. E. G. Colvert of the University of Texas, who works with junior colleges which have partial support from the state.

A special committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce has called the meeting, set for 10 a.m. tomorrow in the county courtroom on the third floor of the courthouse.

The meeting is a part of a study being made here on the needs of Scurry County. No bond election has been called for any of the projects being studied. The Jaycee committee, along wth groups from other organizations, is only making surveys to see what projects are feasible and what is needed and wanted by Scurry Countians.

School board president and superintendents or principals from school systems in Scurry and surrounding counties are invited to the meeting. The meeting will be open to any persons interested in the discussion on the possibilities of a junior college here.

Those who called the meeting said they would like to have as broad a cross-section of the area as possible in the discussion, which will cover information on how junior colleges are formed, what communities are desirable for junior colleges, and other data.

Battle Against Flu Epidemic Planned

CHICAGO, July 27 (AP) — A nation-wide preparedness program to combat a possible epidemic of Oriental flu in the United States was announced today by the American Medical Assn.

Working with the U.S. Public Health Service, the AMA launched a special project to alert the nation's physicians — and the public — to the dangers of any epidemic of the Asiatic influenza.

The AMA acted after outbreaks of the Oriental flu in several cities, but stressed that so far there is "no immediate cause for alarm."

A special AMA committee on influenza was set up today by its board of trustees to handle the flu alert project.

Dr. Harold C. Lueth of Evanston, Ill., chairman of the special flu committee, said:

"Rapid onset of the epidemic makes it mandatory to have plans prepared well in advance and to see that the 1,911 medical societies in the country are cognizant of the magnitude of the problem before the epidemic strikes."

An AMA spokesman estimated that a widespread Oriental flu attack rate "would run between 15 and 20 per cent of the population of any cities where the disease reached epidemic proportions."

Dr. Lueth said the AMA and the U.S. Health Service plan to carry on a cooperative public education program with the help of newspapers and radio and television stations.

"The epidemic may never strike this country," said Dr. David B. Allman of Atlantic City, AMA president, in a statement.

"But the American Medical Association is anxious to have practicing physicians mobilized and alerted in case an outbreak does occur.

"Thousands of persons have been stricken with the disease in the Far East during the last few weeks and it is only good medicine to deal in probabilities now when we have the time.

"In that way, the American people will be best served from a medical standpoint."

The Oriental flu is reported to be caused by a new virus and has been relatively mild. It usually has been marked by a short period of fever, from three to four days, and sometimes by sore throat, aching, a dry cough and other symptoms of typical influenza.

No verified deaths from the disease have been reported in the United States, the AMA said. Several drug manufacturers are producing a vaccine to combat the strain of flu virus from the Far East.

OIL ROUNDUP

Oil Imports Cut Is Being Studied

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP) — reports circulated today that the President's oil imports cabinet committee shortly will recommend that imports be restricted to about one million barrels a day.

The issue has been pending for months, with domestic producers urging a curtailment. The State Department has been concerned because of the effect of such a curtainment would have on Venezuela and the Middle East.

Under the plan the cabinet committee is reported ready to recommend to President Eisenhower are these three features:

Imports by major shippers for the three-year period 1954-55-56 would be averaged up. The resultant annual average then would be cut by 10 per cent to reach a new import quota.

A second group of importers, as distinguished from the major companies, would be those bringing 20,000 barrels or less per day into this country. This group is made up largely of newcomers in the business or small independent concerns. Under the reported plan this group might receive some slight increase in permissible imports.

The Pacific Coast would be excempt from the import restrictions. Thus Canadian producers could continue to send into that area as much as they desired.

It was reported the cabinet committee might suggest that the importing companies be given a final chance to curb their imports voluntarily before import quotas were imposed. Imports now are reported to be averaging about 1,100,000 barrels per day and increasing at a rate which would bring the rate to about 1,200,000 barrels by Jan. 1.

Domestic producers contend increasing shipments have forced cutbacks in this country and curtailed exploration for new reserves. They argue that this is a threat to the national security, justifying the requested action by the President.

410 Completions In State

AUSTIN, July 27 (AP)—The Railroad Commission said today 410 oil wells were completed during the past week, making a total of 9,111 for the year compared to 9,717 in 1956.

Dean Acheson Is Consulted

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP) — Word that Dean Acheson acted as consultant to sponsors of the latest jury trial amendment to the civil rights bill today stiffened some Republican senators in their opposition to the amendment.

Acheson, secretary of state under former President Truman, has been a target of Republican criticism for years.

The amendment would provide for jury trials in all types of criminal contempt cases, except for contempt committed in or near a courtroom. It would not be limited to civil rights cases.

The amendment was offered by Sens. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), Kefauver (D-Tenn.) and Church (D-Idaho).

O'Mahoney said he consulted Acheson, now a Washington alwyer, Benjamin V. Cohen, former New Deal brain truster, and others. He said they were consulted "not only in their capacity as lawyers but in their capacity as liberals who want to preserve free government."

Big Amount Of Money Is Saved From Blaze

Hugh Casey, fire chief at Graham, said the money was in bonds, greenbacks and silver. He said some of it burned but he was sure more was saved than was lost.

Mrs. Ethridge said she didn't know how much money she had.

Reds Reject News Trade

MOSCOW, July 27 (AP)—The Soviet Union tonight in effect turned down an American proposal to exchange censor-free radio and television broadcasts under present conditions.

It said it would agree to the exchange only if the United States would agree to remove all barriers to economic, cultural and scientific exchanges between the two countries.

In a note delivered to the State Department in Washington Friday, and released in Moscow tonight, the Soviet government proposed a Soviet-American conference to negotiate an agreement on all such exchanges.

The note blamed the United States and particularly the immigration Department's fingerprinting requirements for the present estranged cultural relations between the two countries.

Omura and Isahaya were most severely affected by rainfall which amounted to 32 inches in 24 hours at some places. Water remained three feet deep in the streets.

Texas Company Net Income Is Increased

NEW YORK (AP)—The Texas Co. said today its net income for months was $165,145,982, equal to $3.01 a share compared with $138,088,709, or $2.52 a share in the first half of 1956.

In the June quarter net income of $78,721,713 compared with $68,130,366 last year.

Net income in the first half included dividends from domestic and foreign non-subsidiary companies totaling $27,741,866, compared with $49,625,133 from such sources in 1956.

Lawyers Forbidden To Practice Law

HOUSTON, July 27 (AP)—Three Houston lawyers, already under 90-day suspension by the State Bar of Texas, were forbidden yesterday to practice in Federal Courts until next March 1.

They are Arthur Mandell, Herman Wright and Ben Ramey. The State Bar suspended their licenses for three months July 7 on accusations of soliciting clients for accident law suits.

Police Shake-Up

MEXICO CITY, July 27 (AP)—The police department will undergo a complete shake-up Aug. 1 and add 300 cops to combat the capital's growing underworld.

Natural Gas Bill Backed

HUNT, Tex., July 27 (AP)—Texas' only statewide organization of gas and oil independents today gave what was called a "reluctant go ahead on the pending natural gas bill.

The decision came after an analysis of ballots received by mail from more than 200 of the organization's directors over the state who were almost evenly split on the measure. No other details on the vote were announced.

A 40-man executive committee of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Assn. discussed the gas bill in a day long session in this Hill Country town west of Kerrville.

The committee described the bill as "definitely not an independent producer's bill." But they said the independents agreed to back the bill on the belief that Congress would provide "whatever safeguards as necessary to prevent any possible tendency toward monopoly."

Independents want an anti-monopoly clause to prohibit gas pipelines from paying themselves more for their own gas production or that of their affiliates than the lowest price they pay independent producers in the same field for gas.

The bill calls for federal price regulation on interstate gas, based on market value rather than the present standards of public utility price regulation. An early August House vote is expected.

The organization also was critical of the administration's plan for limiting crude oil imports. It said it believed the plan was nearing release.

Opposition was based on contentions it would not limit imports sufficiently to restore domestic oil exploration; no limit is provided on importation of oil products; no enforcement machinery is provided, leaving import reductions generally to voluntary action on the companies; and TIPRO also said the plan may exempt imports into the west coast.

Mother, Son Okay, Father Recovering

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) — Mrs. George R. Parnell and her brand new son were doing just fine at Lynchburg General Hospital today. Papa Parnell was making a painful recovery.

In his excitement in getting his wife to the hospital to have the baby, Parnell saw what he thought was a door and walked right through it. The "door" turned out to be a plate glass window.

While Mrs. Parnell was in the delivery room giving birth to their son, Papa Parnell was in the emergency room being treated for severe cuts on his arm.

Patterson Wins First For Store Planning

R. E. Patterson, owner of Snyder Drugs, has been named a first place winner in a drug store planning contest sponsored by the National Wholesale Druggists Association.

Patterson's top place came for the remodeling of the store two years ago.

As a first place winner, he will receive a $100 bond from the Southwestern Drug Corp.

PRIEST'S ARMS BLOCK DEATH — Arms of the Rev. Ignacio Zulueta reach out to grab Juanita Marrero, 20, to prevent threatened death leap from ledge of six-story building in the New York Bronx. The priest, summoned from nearby church when the Puerto Rican girl was seen standing on ledge, talked to her in Spanish for half an hour and then grabbed her as she reached for the rosary he offered her. Policeman, who also had talked to girl in drama-packed 77 minutes on the roof, watches priest make life-saving rush to save her.

Gangsters 'Sold Out' Union Members, McClellan Claims

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP)—Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) said today Senate Rackets hearings starting Wednesday will show that gangsters "sold out" union members and fattened on their dues in corrupt alliance with some New York City labor leaders.

McClellan said his special investigating committee also will explore deeply into reported relations between New York racketeer Johnny Dio and James R. Hoffa, Midwest boss of the Teamsters Union recently acquitted of bribing a lawyer to spy on the committee. Dio's true name is John Dioguardi.

Chairman McClellan's prepared statement said the committee will question "more than 100 witnesses" in televised hearings he expects will last several weeks.

Robert F. Kennedy, commtitee counsel, refused to say whether Hoffa will be among these witnesses. Dio is on the witness list, he said, but the other names he kept secret.

"These hearings will show the methods by which known hoodlums and racketeers have muscled into the labor movement — and how some of the top leaders of labor have used these underworld forces in grabs for power," McClellan said.

He said the inquiry will show "how unscrupulous gangsters have used thousands of working men and women as their pawns, siphoned off their dues to the payments of officer salaries, sold out their rights and failed to gain them any advantages in either wages or working conditions."

McClellan said the committee will scrutinize what he termed Hoffa's "now successful attempt ...to gain control of the New York Council of Teamsters, the most important ruling body of that union in the New York area."

Hoffa is known to command teamster votes across the country, which has made him a powerful contender to succeed union President Dave Beck. Beck is retiring under charges by McClellan's committee that he misused union funds.

"The committee," McClellan's statement said, "will also inquire into whether Hoffa and other Teamsters Union leaders used John Dioguardi, twice convicted labor racketeer, Anthony (Tony Ducks) Corallo, narcotics rackets figure, and their followers in the grab for power to control all trucking in the city of New York."

The hearings opening next week follow nearly a year and a half of undercover work by investigators for this committee, and the Senate Investigations subcommittee also headed by McClellan.

The undercover inquiry was halted briefly at the request of District attorney Frank Hogan in New York lest it collide with his own efforts that led to Dio's indictment in the 1956 acid blinding of labor columnist Victor Riesel.

US Foreign Policy Hit By Legion

HOUSTON, July 27 (AP)—Texas Legionnaires said today the nation's foreign policy is based on a "philosophy of fatalism."

Delegates to the 39th annual convention of the Texas American Legion adopted a resolution suggested "that our government embark on a more dynamic foreign policy . . . positive, not pessimistic." They called for a policy "that expresses the faith and confidence which the American people have in themselves to meet today's challenges."

Other resolutions adopted at the convention's annual Americanism forum called for the repeal of the status of forces treaties and opposed any invitations for such Communists as Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia and Marshal Zhukov of Russia to visit the United States.

The Earl S. Bailey post 430 at Odessa received the convention's highest honor, the R.C. Gusmans trophy for Americanism Activities.

Rogers Kelly of Edinburg and Arturo Benavides of Laredo presented the foreign policy report, while William R. Lowry of Odessa presented the Americanism report.

The foreign policy resolution said current policy is "predicated on the basic assumption that the cold war must continue in its armed forces strength in Korea.

"The violation of the Korean armistice terms should provide reason to meet the military build-up by Communist forces in North Korea," the resolution said. "We urge the government to persuade the united nations to carry out its announced purpose in this regard immediately."

Another resolution opposed any relaxation of the embargo against trade with Red China "or with any other country behind the Iron or Bamboo curtain."

The status of forces resolution protested the action of the United States in agreeing to permit Japanese civil authorities to conduct the murder trial of William Girard, who is charged with killing a Japanese woman on an occupation forces firing range.

False Alarm Phoner Donates Big Check

DENVER, July 27 (AP)—A retired Houston business executive whose long distance telephone calls sent fire trucks out on false alarms July 8 has given a $1,000 check to the Denver Firemen's pension fund.

Fire Chief Allie Feldman said yesterday he had received the check from Gordon Harwell, former president of Converted Rice Co. "with my apologies for causing you unnecessary trouble."

Harwell said he called the Denver Fire Department as a joke to awaken his daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Van Fleet, after they hung up on him.

Wiener Roast Gets A Little Expensive

DALLAS (AP)—Raymond Asheraft, 17, crawled under a car with a pop bottle to drain some gasoline to start a fire for a weiner roast yesterday.

A friend, Vernon Stovall, lit a cigarette.

The car exploded in flames.

Ashcraft was treated for burns on his arm and hand. The car, within one payment of being his, was a total loss.

Javelin Hits Track Judge

LONDON, July 27 (AP)—Stan Cox, who during his career was known as the unluckiest man in track, was stabbed near the heart today by a flying javelin while serving as a judge of the spear throwing event.

Cox, a marathon runner who represented England in the 1948 and 1952 Olympics, was taken to a hospital in a critical condition. Although Cox was standing some 180 feet from the throwing line, the pound and a half steel-shafted spear hit his chest with such force that a rib was broken. The chest was pierced.

Doctors said later that he would live.

The accident happened during the Junior Amateur Athletic Assn. track meet. Cox was one of several men waiting to place flags, marking the distance of the throws. He was standing apart from the others.

The athletics, all of whom used the conventional style of throwing the javelin, refused to identify the competitor involved in the accident.

Cox, still lean and wiry at 39, fainted after 17 miles in the 1952 marathon at Helsinki and ran into a telegraph pole in the British Empire games at Vancouver in 1954. He was the British six mile champion in 1948.

ANY CIGARETTES?

Poles Greet Liberty Ship

GYDNIA, Poland, July 27 (AP)—An American liberty ship unloaded a cargo of wheat at this Baltic port, but chief dockside interest was in something else—American cigarettes.

The ship—the 9,000-ton Bucknell Victory—brought the wheat under agreement signed last month. Other U.S. ships are heading here with corn, cotton and other farm goods.

The vessel tied up here Tuesday after a 14-day crossing from Baton Rouge, La., and for all but one of its 43-man crew this was the first look at a Communist-controlled country. The only member who had been here before was the ship's cook. He came in 1954 with a load of Red Cross supplies.

When two of the seamen first stepped from the ship, they were stopped by a green-hatted dock guard.

"You taking any cigarettes ashore?" the guard asked. They said yes. "Fine," said the guard, "perhaps you can spare me a pack."

On shore the Bucknell Victory's seamen found Gydnia and its twin port of Gdansk (Danzig) active and seemingly prosperous. This stems both from a massive rebuilding effort and from the irrepressible trader instinct of Polish seaport people.

The streets are full of American cars, purchased by Polish seamen in Belgium for a few hundred dollars, brought here as unofficial deck cargo and sold for four times the outlay—and sometimes even more—to taxi drivers and government officials.

All this came as somewhat of a surprise to the American sailors, but they found some things not so surprising.

"The mail delivery is lousy," said the ship's skipper, Capt. Thomas Mazzella of New Orleans, "and I tried a night in a local hotel and that was lousy too. But the people here are giving 100 per cent cooperation to get the ship turned around and I'm writing my company (Central Gulf Steamship Corp.) and telling them they can send more ships in without worrying."

Mazzella expects to start his return voyage tomorrow or Monday to make room for the other American ships due here.

Need Cited For Leaders

TULSA, Okla., July 27 (AP)—Former Texas Atty. Gen. John Ben Sheppard told national officials of the Junior Chamber of Commerce yesterday communities need leaders who will bring courage into local government.

Sheppard said many men are available who want to lead "but who want to steer clear of controversial issues." He said they refuse "to get mixed up in politics or tell how they stand because they think it will hurt business or antagonize the boss or the union."

Sheppard, former national president of the Jaycees, addressed a luncheon for leaders of the U.S. Junior Chamber. Its directors are holding their annual meeting here.

Tornado And Wreck Results In Lawsuit

DALLAS, July 27 (AP)—A wreck and a tornado were the cause of a $266,250 damage suit on file today in Federal Court against the Yellow Transit Freight Lines by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dean of Lansing, Mich.

The couple claim they were driving through Durant, Okla., when a transit company truck hit their car. The Deans suffered some injuries and went to a nearby service station while the car was being reparied.

Then a tornado hit and the service station fell on them. The couple contend if the truck had not hit them they would not have been in the service station when it collapsed.

AGRICULTURE

Native Rangeland Now Growing Here

Native rangeland in the Upper Colorado Soil Conservation District here has made good growth this year, according to technicians of the Soil Conservation Service.

Gene Connor and Paul Williams, SCS men who have been observing ranges during the spring and summer, said grasses have benefited from the early rains by producing a good cover and seed crop.

It is estimated that 71 percent of the total annual precipitation returned to the atmosphere through evaporation and transportation.

Grasses should be rested during the summer months to allow storage of plant food for the following year.

During a period of two to three years, the root system of a plant is replaced, under proper conditions and management. Seventy per cent of root storage produces 10 per cent of new top growth in the spring.

The grassland in this area is already damaged beyond a point of quick recovery. When range conditions and the vigor of vegetation are low, both can be improved by well-timed rests. The best time to rest plants depends on how they grow and when they develop seed.

Often the type of vegetation makes it desirable to graze some pastures in winter and others in summer. For example, summer gains per animal are about the same for both tabosa and grama grass. But tabosa does not make as good winter grazing as does grama. Summer grazing of tabosa and winter grazing of grama, therefore, makes a good combination.

Sometimes the ranges are so mixed up with breaks and rolling uplands it is impossible to manage them so all range sites are held in excellent or even good condition. The rancher's goal should be the highest feasible method which contributes most to his net income.

Rangelands yield most when the grass is in top condition. Most ranges can be improved through proper stocking, good grazing management, and special conservation practices to fit each range site and condition.

Rangeland brought to high condition will return greater profits while saving the soil for the future.

DETERMINED HURRICANE VICTIM—Cattleman James Mequx, 56, sits on front steps of wrecked home near Creole, La. recalling how he and wife rode out storm in attic of home now leaning in background where is was pushed by waves. He lost most of herd of 700 cattle. Atop house his son, John, 23-year-old Marine home on leave, tears shingles from house to be removed before new one is built. The elder Meaux said his mother died in the house at age of 87 never told of a storm like this but added, "I our new house stands as long as this one did—that's good enough."

Big Ranch Sold

ARCADIA, Fla., July 27 (AP) — A 51,700-acre ranch was sold yesterday for $1,551,000. It was one of Florida's biggest ranch transactions. T. C. Montgomery sold the sprawling ranch to Marshall Johnson of Wharton, Tex. The ranch is mostly prairie land but has considerable planted pastures and wooded areas. It lies 20 miles southeast of Arcadia.

FOR FARM BUILDINGS

Interest In Loan Grows

A line of credit now available from the Farmers Home Administration is designed to help many farm owners improve or build farm buildings, including houses.

The new credit also is for providing water for household or farmstead use for the farm owners or their tenants, according to Jake W. Greene, chairman of the FHA committee here.

Greene's committee reviews applications for all loans made by FHA and helps the county supervisor, Joe Box, adapt the agency's program to local farmers' needs.

Greene said one farmer in this area has applied for a farm housing loan in the past seven months, and farmers are becoming more interested in ths type credit. Nationally, there have been some 1,700 such loans for $10,600,000.

In addition to being a farm owner, other eligibility requirements provide that the applicant must have enough income from the farm or from the farm and other sources to meet family living and farm operating expenses to repay the loan and other debts on schedule.

Farm housing loans are repayable over periods up to 33 years at four per cent interest and are secured by a mortgage on the farm.

Applicants get building plans and specifications from the source they choose and make all arrangements for hiring labor and purchasing materials. The FHA representative will review the plans, inspect the construction as it progresses, and see that it meets generally accepted standards of soundness.

Greene said farm owners may get further information at the FHA county office, 2405 Avenue R.

Many Crops Still Need Rain

COLLEGE STATION, July 27 (AP) —Although some good rains have fallen in Texas the last week, crops and ranges still need a good general downpour, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service said today.

"The rain came just in time to help some late crops, and revive pastures and ranges already deteriorating under high temperatures and dry surface soil," Director G. G. Gibson said, on reports from district agents. "It came too late for some corn and other feed crops."

Where rain has not fallen the outlook is dim for feed crops and grass, he added. Some corn and grain sorghum is being "salvaged" as silage. Dryland cotton is holding up fairly well despite insects.

Irrigated crops are making excellent growth. The watermelon harvest is ending in South Texas, slowing in Central Texas and on in North Texas. Vegetables are being started in the Winter Garden and are being harvested in the Panhandle. Hay baling, after a bumper harvest, has been brought to a near halt by dry weather and heat.

"A few scattered showers have fallen in the Edwards Plateaur, but all crops and ranges need rain badly. Feed crop prospects now are very poor and in some counties grain sorghum is being cut for silage," V. G. Young reported from San Angelo. "Cotton is needing rain and there's very little insect damage. Sheep and goats are suffering from grass and weed seed damage to their fleece, and some goats are being sheared early to combat the problem."

In deep East Texas showers have helped late crops and pastures, but were too late to help most corn. Early corn made a good yield. Cotton is making good growth.

More moistures still is needed after scattered showers in northeast Texas. Corn and cotton are making good growth, and watermelons and vegetables are moving to market. Farm labor is short. Cattle are fat and the market is good.

Very little benefit has resulted from scattered light showers in the Panhandle. Dry weather and rapid plant growth have depleted surface moisture. Rain is badly needed. Vegetables at Hereford are moving to market with yields and prices fair.

In the South Plains, showers helped non-irrigated crops a lot, especially late sorghum and cotton. Crops are making exceptional growth. Cotton isn't fruiting as well as preferred, and there is light insect damage.

In the Lower Rio Grande Valley cotton moved fast.

Scattered rains have helped but most Gulf Coast area counties need a general rain. Early corn, sorghum and other feed crops are mostly good, but late crops are suffering. Cotton growth is slowing and there's some bollworm damage. Early bolls are opening at Wharton. Cattle are generally good but screwworms are bad and pastures need rain.

North Texas' big acreage of seed crops need rain badly. Cotton is holding up fairly well with light insect damage, but corn is about through with low production due to dry weather. Ranges are deteriorating.

Plans Made For Cotton Congress

Plans for the Lubbock session of the 18th annual meeting of the American Cotton Congress to be held Aug. 12 have been completed, Roy Forkner, the chairman has announced.

The Lubbock session is one of four being held in Texas this year by the American Cotton Congress. Sessions have already been held in Dallas and Sugarland, and another will be held in Pecos on Aug. 18.

Theme of the Congress meet in Lubbock is "What is Quality Cotton?" Burris C. Jackson of Hillsboro is general chairman and will make the keynote address.

Speakers include Charles C. Wilson of West Point, Ga., director of research for West Point Manufacturing Co.; Levon Ray, agronomist at the Lubbock experiment station; V. L. Stedronsky, director of Southwestern Ginning Research Laboratory, Mesilla Park, N.M.; D.C. Prince, secretary of the Lubbock Cotton Exchange, and George W. Pfeiffenberger, executive vice president of the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock.

Tech Chosen For Course In Cotton Gin Engineering

LUBBOCK, July 27—Texas Tech has been chosen as one of two colleges in the nation to teach a new course in cotton gin engineering beginning this fall.

The National Cotton Council meeting in Biloxi, Miss. earlier this year selected Tech and Clemson Agricultural College, S.C., to teach the course.

Representatives who suggested that Tech be one of the two schools in the new program were Winfield D. Watkins, National Cotton Council member and Tech Board of Directors chairman; and Ed Bush, executive vice-president of the Texas Cotton Ginners' Assn., Dallas.

The Council said Tech was selected because approximately 12 per cent of the nation's cotton is produced in some 20 counties surrounding Lubbock; and more than 300 modern gins operate in the region, along with three large cotton oil mills, cotton compresses and a U.S.D.A. cotton grading service and cotton exchange.

Tech's textile engineering department with its research staff and the institution's well-equipped agricultural engineering building figured into the selection. Further, two federal gin research laboratories in Oklahoma and the Southwest Cotton Ginning Research Laboratory in Las Cruces, N.M., are in proximity to Lubbock.

The program was established by a Council resolution, "That the Council work toward the development of adequate facilities and programs for the training of gin operators to provide technically trained personnel needed to carry on research, educational and service work related to ginning..."

Tech Agriculture Dean W. L. Stangel and Engineering Dean John R. Bradford, appointed the following committee of Tech faculty members to work out the cotton ginning specilizations: Dr. A. W. Young, agronomy department head, chairman; Prof. Ray Flege, head; and Prof. Ira L. Williams, agricultural engineering department head.

The committee visited the Southwest Cotton Ginning Research Laboratory to discuss proposed training with Victor L. Stedronsky, laboratory director, and members of his staff.

In addition to the new cotton gin engineering course, courses in textile engineering and agronomy will round out a specialized sequence. Instruction in the ginning course will be given by a composite staff from the departments of agricultural and textile engineering and the Las Cruces Laboratory.

The course was officially approved by the Tech board of directors in their June meeting.

Members of the National Cotton Council estimate that 10 or 12 graduates of the course per year can be absorbed by the cotton industry as a whole for many years to come. Local cotton men estimate that Texas alone can use more than 10 cotton ginning specialists per year, according to Tech officials.

FOR JUNE

Water District Receipts Given

The Colorado River Municipal Water District had receipts totalling $130,278.75 during the month of June, according to the district's monthly financial statement.

Of that amount, $124,400.83 came form the sale of water, while the remainder came from recreational facilities, including lease rentals, recreational permits, boat launching permits and concessionaire income.

The largest single source of revenue for the month was sale of water to Odessa, which amounted to $49,931.90. Sale of water to the SACROC Unit amounted to $37,668.57; to Big Spring $23,421.73, to the Sharon Ridge Unit, $6,632.60 and to Snyder $6,495.29. Remainder was sold to smaller accounts, including rural users.

The district's revenue to date for 1957 totals $716,982.56, compared to $614,849.77 for the same period in 1946.

Expenditures for the month totalled $72,606.09, and $234,602.20 for the six-months period, compared to $291,406.69 for the first six months of 1956.

The expenditures for the month of June consisted largely of costs of operating and production costs, and usual administrative expenses.

So far this year the district has transferred to the net revenue fund a total of $480,246.57, compared to $308,995.44 for the first six months of 1956.

Water consumption figures in the three member cities lagged slightly behind those for the first six months of 1956, due largely to the spring rains which reduced demands for yard and garden irrigation. Odessa had used 1,109,312,000 gallons, compared to 1,124,614,000 a year ago; Big Spring 751,344,000 compared to 785,581,000 a year ago, and Snyder 219,469,000, compared to 265,919,000 a year ago.

Total production of water by the district for the first six months of 1957 was 3,934,653,000 gallons. Of that amount, 2,756,986,000 gallons came from Lake J. B. Thomas. The remainder came from the district's Martin County well field, and from city wells and lakes, which are used occasionally for peaking purposes.

Big Roundup Of Hungarians Held

BUDAPEST, July 27 (AP)—Uusually well-informed sources here estimated today that thousands of Hungarians—perhaps as many as 10,000—have been arrested in the latest nationwide roundup by Communist police.

The purpose of the new arrest wave was to crush suspected underground preparations for a new anti-Communist revolution like that of last October, according to a statement made Thursday by Minister of State Gyoergy Maroaan.

Informed sources said those seized are men and women of all ages, ranging as high as 80 years. Most of them have been sent directly to concentration camps. The roundup, which lasted at least a week, is the largest since the Russian army crushed the revolution last November.

The best information available here is that the arrests started Wednesday, July 17, and ended Thursday, July 23, although it still may be continuing in the provinces. The most conservative estimates are that 1,500 to 2,000 persons have been seized.

Among those arrested are people believed to have been active in, or to have had some connection with, last October's uprising. Others are people believed to have had some standing in previous governments.

Some in Budapest believe this new police activity may be a prelude to a series of public trials to be staged in September for the purpose of showing that there was "imperialist inspriation and intervention" last fall.

Another aim is believed to be to crush any hope among the Hungarian people that the recent purge in Moscow might lead to a more lenient policy by the Russian-installed regime here.

Hungarian police claim to have smashed 40 groups accused of espionage and subversion. They also announced the arrest of a group allegedly headed by Count Karoly Khuen-Hedervary and including several former big landlords and factory owners, classified as "fascists and reactionary elements" who allegedly plotted with Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty to restore capitalism in Hungary.

Texan Breaks In Bank But Gets Sleepy

ARDMORE, Okla., July 27 (AP)—A Gainesville, Tex., man succeeded in breaking into an Ardmore bank early today, but if he had burglary in mind, he apparently was just too tired to finish the job.

Ardmore officers found Lindon Johnson, 24, sound asleep beneath a teller's window in the First National Bank here. He was held for questioning later.

Officer Jim Scannell said he saw a broken front window at the bank about 3:40 a.m. He called James Cox, assistant bank cashier, who opened the bank. The two found Johnson asleep on the floor. A flash bulb roused him.

Bank officials said no money was missing and no attempt had been made to open the bank safe.

Officers said Johnson, about six feet tall and weighing 190, apparently crawled through a hole in the bank window measuring only about 13 by 14 inches.

The Carter County attorney quoted Texas authorities as saying Johnson is under two grand jury indictments at Gainesville. He was free on bond.

Encephalitis Cases

HARLINGEN, July 27 (AP)—The Cameron County health director, Dr. David Cowgill, said yesterday that one man had died and eight were hospitalized in two weeks because of encephalitis, or sleeping sickness.

Wiener Roast Ends Fatally For Trio

LIBERTY, N.C. (AP)—The small party at Ralph C. Johnson Jr.'s home near here was to be a wiener roast, and Ralph, 24, left his two guests to prepare the table while he went to a grocery store in his car.

After waiting a while, Robert H. Patrum, 19, and Alton L. Smith, 20, grew impatient and decided to drive after their host.

The Highway Patrol said the cars met headon at a curve about a half mile from the Johnson house yesterday. All three were dead on arrival at a hospital.

The two winners Tuesday will clash Wednesday for the area title. The area champ will qualify for the district tournament to be held here Thursday and Friday.

The district champ then will gain a berth in the Sectional tournament ticketed at Abilene. The Sectional champ will go to regional with the winner there to qualify for the Little League World Series in Williamsport, Pa.

The Snyder Pony Leaguers will oppose Colorado City in a best-two-out-of-three series for the area championship, starting here Monday. The entire series will be played here.

Second game of the series will be played Tuesday. If a third is necessary, it will be played Wednesday.

Winner of the area Pony title will go to Abilene next week for the district tournament. The district winner will then qualify for the regional tournament to be held in Lubbock.

The Snyder American League won the area Little League title last year but lost in the district finals at Lubbock. Snyder also won the area Pony crown and it too went to the finals of district play only to lose to Abilene.

Following are the All-Star rosters of the three Snyder teams:

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

THE TIGER GOLF prospects for next year took on a new look the other day when young Jimmy Cloud toured the local layout in a sizzling 71.

Cloud, thus, may crowd Gene Bruton for the No. 1 spot on the Tiger golf team next spring. But who cares who is No. 1 so long as both are shooting fine golf? It's thee team boners that counts most and with two lads capable of shooting in the 70's, the Tigers may come up with their best golf team in history next spring.

Bruton only recently fired a 69 on the Brownfield Country Club course. Bruton has been shooting consistenly in the 70's this summer.

If coach Hal Battle can come up with two others of even average ability, you can look for great things to come from the 1958 Tiger golf team.

Tourney Should Prove Interesting

Cloud's 71 came on his qualifying round for the "round robin" tournament that gets underway this week at the Snyder Country Club.

This round robin tourney should prove most interesting to the participants. Each entry will play seven 18-hole matches in as many weeks. Thus, a fellow can have a bad round or two and could still come out all right.

For further details on the round robin affair, consult story elsewhere on this sheet.

More Aldridges On Way

Snyder Little League has perhaps seen only the first of the "Aldridges."

Darrell Aldridge, the American Little League batting champion for the 1957 season, is graduating from LL this season.

But wait, he has three little brothers with Little League aspirations coming up, all of whom are vowed to follow in the footsteps of big brother Darrell.

One, in fact, Joe Dean, 8, played in the Farm League this season. Still farther down the line are Jack Howard, 6, and James Lenn, 2.

So, LL fans will be hearing more from the James S. Aldridge family in the future, you can bet on that.

Local baseball fans will be in a predicament the next night or two in their efforts to follow the Little League and Pony League in the tournament playoffs.

Both our Little League All-Star teams will be in Sweetwater tomorrow night for the opening games of the area tournament. And almost simultaneously, the local Pony League All-Stars will be hosting the Colorado City All-Stars in the first of a best-two-out-of-three game series for the area championship.

Well, it's for sure that no one can be at two places at the same time but we are confident that all three local teams will receive good support from the good fans here.

Ted Homers But Sox Lose

BOSTON, July 27 (AP)—Ray Narleski, Cleveland's bullpen specialist making his sixth start in four major league seasons, checked Boston 7-2 on seven hits today including Ted Williams' 28th home run.

While Narleski eased the injury-riddled Tribe pitching picture, Vic Wertz cracked out a tie-breaking single in the busy sixth inning and doubled for another run in the eighth. Wertz' efforts raised his RB production to 64.

Earlier, Gene Woodling twice pulled Cleveland into a deadlock with the Sox on his eighth homer in the fourth and a double to the right field corner in the sixth.

Cubs Whip Phils, 6-1

CHICAGO, July 27 (AP) — Jim Brosnan's six-hit pitching and home runs by Bob Speake and rookie Jerry Kindall today gave the Chicago Cubs a 6-1 victory over Philadelphia and shoved the Phillies 3½ games behind the league - leading Milwaukee Braves.

Brosnan, turning his second start into his second decision against four losses, went the route for the first time this year.

The defeat was pinned on veteran Harvey Haddix, his eighth against as many victories. The Cubs linked five different scoring spurts. Two of these featured Speake's No. 9 homer and bonus boy Ki Ialll's No. 5. Four of Kindall's homers have been off Philadelphia pitchers.

Another SW Team To Fold

LAMESA, Tex., July 27 (AP) — W. G. Perry, president of the Southwestern League, told a group of citizens here today the Midland baseball team was folding.

He said directors of the Midland club have voted to return the franchise to the league Aug. 1. Perry said the club would be moved on that date and the team would be operated by the league.

Perry said the new site for the club has not been definitely determined, but Lamesa would have first chance at getting it. He said an announcement would be made by Aug. 1.

The Southwestern League started the season as an eight-club circuit but financial difficulties caused four clubs to drop out. The present lineup is Ballinger, Carlsbad and Hobbs, N.M., and Midland.

Pirates Kayo Cardinals 4-2

ST. LOUIS, July 27 (AP) — Bob Purkey, Pittsburgh's sinker and knuckle ball specialist, gained his 10th victory today with a steady eight-hit 4-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The lanky righthander, who had lost twice to the Redbirds without a victory this season, made the job easier for himself by not walking a man. His record is 10-7.

The defeat dropped the second-place Cards a game and half from first place Milwaukee and evened the series at a game each. Purkey now is the Pirates' top winner.

The Pirates got to starter Murry Dickson, 40, the knuckle-baller, for three runs in the second inning with two singles, two doubles and a sacrifice fly.

Manassas Captures Arlington Handicap

CHICAGO, July 27 (AP)—Manassas, a 4-year-old bay colt, continued his invincibility as a grass runner by capting the $425,000, Arlington Handicap, while Poly Hi, a bargain yearling, won the $106,025 Arlington Lassie stakes in a featured twin bill closing the Arlington Park season today.

Manassas, ridden by Doug Dodson, captured his fifth straight victory on turf by a two-length margin over even-money favorite Swoon's Son in the one and three-sixteenths mile handicap.

St. Vincent, ridden by Johnny Longden, was third.

Yanks Rally To Nip Tigers, 4-3

NEW YORK, July 27 (AP)—Rookie Tony Kubek dumped a perfect one-out squeeze bunt today to score Jerry Coleman with a ninth-inning run that gave the New York Yankees a comeback 4-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Detroit relief pitcher Al Aber, called in to pitch to the left-handed-hitting Kubek, 20, had no play on Coleman, who had touched off the winning rally with a triple to right center.

Pinch hitter Elston Howard was purposely passed before the rookie crossed up the Tiger defense with a first-pitch bunt. Coleman, running on the play, touched home plate about the same time Aber got to the ball.

The Yanks, showing their best before Ty Cobb, Joe DiMaggio and more than 50 other former American greats attending an Old-Timers Day celebration, had drawn even with Detroit with a three-run outburst in the eighth on four hits and a walk.

The loser was Harry Byrd, third of four Tiger pitchers, who took over at the start of the ninth and gave up the triple to Coleman. It was the veteran righthander's first loss in four decisions since his recall from the minors.

Bob Grim, who pitched the ninth, picked up his ninth victory against three defeats.

Yank 'Old-Timers' Also Triumph, 1-0

By DON WEISS

NEW YORK, July 27 (AP)—Joe DiMaggio, greying but still graceful, responded to the roars of 45,000 and a bit of collusion today for another Yankee victory in the annual Old-Timers' Day celebration at Yankee Stadium.

More than 50 former stars of the Yanks and Detroit Tigers, immortal Ty Cobb among them, were on hand at the Stadium.

The former American League greats and guests Sam "Wahoo" Crawford and Joe McCarthy, newest additions to the Hall of Fame, were introduced prior to a regularly scheduled game between the current, much more spry 1957 Yanks and Tigers.

DiMaggio, who flew back from a tour of Europe for the big day, scored the only run of an informal two-inning game.

After discarding about two dozen pitches as not quite right and finally lifting a long fly to centerfielder Pete Fox in the first inning, DiMaggio turned up as an out-of-order hitter in the second.

His high fly to left fell at the feet of struggling Heinie Manush for a single.

DiMag made it to second on a bouncing single by Billy Johnson. He scored from second when Detroit pitcher Dizzy Trout and catcher Mickey Cochrane bumped waistlines under Bud Metheny's pop fly between the plate and the mound.

Cobb and several others of the older old-timers confined their game participation to coaching or dugout advice but there were a few players who had still retained that major league look.

Hall of Famer Charlie Gehringer, back at second base for Detroit, hit the longest ball, a high drive that bounced into the right field stands for a ground rule double.

Other stars introduced to the crowd included Hal Newhouser, Billy Hitchcock, Pat Mullin, Virgil Trucks, Schoolboy Rowe, Eldon Auker, Tommy Bridges, Doc Cramer, Billy Rogel, Dave Alexander, Alvin Crowder, Johnny Neun, Clyde Manion, Chick Shorten, Frank O'Rourke, Oscar Vitt, George Moriarity and Davy Jones.

Other Yanks were Lefty Gomez, Spud Chandler, Nick Etten, Johnny Lindell, Marius Russo, Hank Borowy, Buddy Hassett, Monte Pearson, Joe Page, Art Jorgens, Joe Page, Art Jorgens, Joe Glenn, Red Rolfe, Dusty Cooke, Sam Byrd, Lynn Lary, Red Ruffing, Bump Hadley, Eddie Farrell, Frank Crosetti, George Stirnweiss, Earl Combs, Charley Keller, Phil Rizzuto, Frank "Home Run" Baker and Russ Van Atta.

Baseball clown Al Schacht umpired, outfitted complete with dark glasses, cane and tin cup. Comedian Phil Silvers umpired on the bases until thumbed out of the game after an argument with head umpire Schacht.

Commissioner Ford Frick and Will Harridge, American League president, were introduced along with Mrs. Babe Ruth and Mrs. Lou Gehrig. Two National League greats, Dizzy Dean and Mell Ott, were on hand to telecast the ceremonies as well as the regular game—for a national network.

'Round Robin' Tournament Qualifying Closes Today

Twenty-six golfers had signed up for the "Round Robin" golf tournament at the Country Club as of noon yesterday and the list is expected to swell past the 40 mark before qualifying closes this afternoon.

Match play will begin tomorrow in the tournament with one match to be scheduled each week for the next seven weeks.

Entries will be divided up into 8-player flights with each player to meet the other during the course of the tournament.

The winner of each flight will be the player with most points at the tournament's end. Points will be awarded on a plus-minus basis.

The player winning each match will receive plus points, the number of points being the number of holes he beats his opponent.

For example if John Doe beats Joe Blow, 5-up, he will receive plus five points. Blow, on the other hand, would be charged with a minus five points.

The winners and runnerups in each flight will play 18 holes medal play, using handicaps, for the "Grand Champion." Handicap will be figured on the previous scores made in the tournament.

Any match that is not played in the stipulated week, both contestants will be given minus three on the point awards.

Dr. R. J. Kidd had turned in the low qualifying score before noon Saturday with an even par 70, close on Dr. Kidd's heels was young Jimmy Cloud's 71.

Shelby Coker, the city runnerup last year, fired a 66 "practice" round recently, carding a pair of 33's. In his round, Coker had 12 pars, five birdies and one bogey.

Entry fee for the tournament is $4. Merchandise prizes will be awarded the winners and runnerups in each flight.

PATTERSON VS. JACKSON

Heavyweight Title Match Tomorrow

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, July 27 (AP) — Floyd Patterson remains a prohibitive 5-1 favorite to thump Tommy "Hurricane" Jackson, No. 1 challenger, in his first defense of the world heavyweight boxing title Monday night at the Polo grounds.

Because Patterson whipped Jackson in 12 rounds, despite a broken right hand, June 8, 1956, and already is lined up to defend again Aug. 22 at Seattle against Olympic champion Pete Rademacher, the champ is a near unanimous choice. In fact, one source offered 8-5 he would knock out the Hurricane.

Patterson, at least five rounds heavier than he was a year ago, has been punching harder than ever at his Greenwood Lake, N.Y. training camp while Jackson, as usual, depends on conditioning, ability to take a punch and a peculiar flapping style that confuses the opposition.

For the first time in many years, the International Boxing Club is not promoting the heavyweight title bout. Emil Lence, a dress manufacturer with a boxing background at the Eastern Parkway Arena Brooklyn where both Patterson and Jackson were developed, has taken over as an independent promoter. Lence was hand picked by Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, after he split with the court-scarred IBC.

Lence says he expects a crowd of about 25,000 to pay over $300,000 to see the outdoor scrap with $125,000 already in the till from advance sales. More conservative estimates put the figure closer to $250,000, not counting the radio-TV cash.

No matter how much the show draws, Lence has a cushion of $175,000 to fall back on from the radio-TV sponsor. This would take care of the $175,000 guarantee he made to Patterson, who also has an option of 40 per cent of the gate. However, Jackson gets 20 per cent of the gate and TV cash.

The title fight, scheduled for 9 p.m., EST will be carried on NBC radio and television. The New York area will be blacked out on TV. In the event of rain, the show would be set back to Tuesday night.

As usual, in these affairs, there is a rematch contract calling for a return in September, also at the Polo Grounds, in case Jackson should win.

From the looks of Patterson in training, he has no intention of letting the fight go the limit. He won't predict a knockout outright but his heavy body punching and his mental attitude points to an effort for a quick finish.

Patterson, 22, was the youngest ever to win the title when he stopped Archie Moore in Chicago last Nov. 30. Inactive since the championship bout, except for an exhibition tour, Patterson has not let himself get rusty. He has been in camp off and on all winter, spring and summer and boxed more than 125 rounds in the last six weeks.

Braves Clip Giants, 5-2, To Up Lead To 1½

Buhl Picks Up 12th Victory

MILWAUKEE, July 27 (AP) — A nine-hit pitching performance by Bob Buhl, who lost his chance at a second straight shutout in the ninth, produced a 5-2 victory over New York and a firmer grip on the National League lead for the Milwaukee Braves.

Buhl, hurling his 12th victory against six losses, had a 5-0 lead with two out in the ninth when an old teammate, Bobby Thomson, blasted a double off the right field fence to score Ray Jablonski and Daryl Spencer.

The blow ended Buhl's string of scoreless innings at 21. On Tuesday night, he shut out Philadelphia, 1-0. Ray Crone, who went to New York along with Thomson in a June 15 trade for Red Schoendienst, took the loss today. His record is 4-4.

The game also marked the end of a streak for Schoendienst, stopping his consecutive game hitting streak at 23. This was one short of the season's longest run, 24 games, set by Wally Moon of St. Louis.

Dodgers Nip Redlegs 5-3; Regain 3rd

CINCINNATI, July 27 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers regained third place in the National League today. Two-run homers by Gil Hodges and Carl Furillo provided the margin for a 5-3 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Danny McDevitt had the Reds shut out with seven scattered hits until the ninth when a blister on the middle finger of his pitching hand brought on wildness and he was relieved.

In that inning, McDevitt walked, Roy McMillan, then uncorked two wild pitches to help set the state for a Redleg rally which fell short by a pair of runs.

The Reds picked on reliever Carl Erskine for three straight hits and it took Clem Labine to kill the rally.

Late Abilene Rally Nips Snyder, 7-6

Abilene's Rebel All-Stars won a loosely played contest from the Snyder All-Stars in an exhibition Pony League game here Friday night, 7-6.

Abilene broke a 6-6 deadlock in top of the seventh inning when they put together two infield hits for the winning run.

Snyder, thus, blew a four-run lead they held after four innings, 6-2. Abilene pushed over one run in the fifth and then tied the score in the sixth when pitcher John Weaver lost his control, the visitors pushing across three runs on only one hit.

Weaver, who had only walked three in the first five innings, gave up free transportation to the first three Abilene batsmen to face him in the sixth frame.

Weaver got Billy Monk on an infield pop fly but Jimmy Mallon, attempting to hold up on a Weaver pitch, got his bat around too far and the ball hit the bat and trickled between short and third for a two-run single, pulling the Bilenians up to within one run, 6-5. A sacrifice fly by Jerald Williamson sent the tieing run across.

Snyder missed its chance to put the game on ice when she loaded the bases with none away in the bottom of the sixth. But Don Eddington, third Abilene pitcher of the night, braced to get the next three locals without further damage.

Tommy Windham beat out an infield hit for Abilene in the seventh, stole second and then went all the way home with the winning marker on Bob Griffith's infield tap.

Snyder threatened mildly in the bottom of the seventh when third baseman Spencer Dyer led off with an infield hit. Dyer, however, was out at second when he attempted to advance on an overthrow at first on his base hit.

The locals took a commanding 6-2 lead in the fourth inning with a three run rally. With one away, Ronnie Wylie, Butch Niedecken and Steve Free drew successive walks to load the bases. Larry Patterson forced Wylie at the plate but Tommy Minton walked to force in Niedecken. Weaver then drilled a single through the box to score Fleming and Patterson for a 6-2 lead.

A total of 20 bases on balls were issued in the game, 13 by the three Abilene pitchers and seven by Weaver. Also there were 10 stolen bases, five by each team; six wild pitches, five by Abilene pitchers; two hit batsmen, and 16 strikeouts.

2 Hobbs Athletes To Play In All-Star Games

ABILENE, (Spl) — Dr. Rhea H. Williams, state athletic director for the University Interscholastic League, will be one of ten lecturers at the 1957 meeting of the Six-Man Football Coaches Assn. of Texas.

The coaching clinic will be held here at McMurry College July 29 through Aug. 2. Two-a-day workouts for the all-star football and basketball squads will get underway Monday morning, with coaches expected to arrive Wednesday. The all-star grid and cage games are slated for the evenings of Aug. 1 and 2 on the McMurry campus.

Dr. Williams, who will speak on the athletic program of the state schoolboy league, has been closely connected to athletics ever since his high school days at Clarksville where he lettered in football, basketball and baseball.

At Southern Methodist University he lettered three years in both basketball and baseball, captained both teams in 1932, and won all-Southwest Conference honors in both sports.

Included on the all-star football and basketball rosters are Doyle Hayes and George Gantt of Hobbs.

Hayes will play in the all-star football game while Gantt will play in the cage tilt, both playing for the "East."

Dr. Williams served as principal and coach at Avery High School, Franklin High School, and physical education director at Pan American College and later Southwestern University.

After four years of military service in naval aviation, he went to the University of Texas for his doctor's degree in 1947. While at Austin, he served as assistant director of the interscholastic league for 14 months. Then he became professor of physical education at North Texas State College.

In 1948, Dr. Williams was appointed to his present position as athletic director for the state interscholastic league, the oldest and largest scholastic sports organization in the world. Dr. and Mrs. Williams, the former Charlene Nelson of Dallas, have a daughter, Gretchen.

Other lecturers for the coaching school will be Bob Hardy, New Waverley; J. C. O'Neal, Haskell; William R. (Shorty) Lawson and Curly Hays, Abilene; and Tommy Ellis, Stan Burnham, Grant Teaff, Shelly Smith and Preston Clark Jr., all of the McMurry athletic staff.

P. E. Shotwell, director of athletics at McMurry, is on the coaching school committee in charge of arrangements, along with Ellis, Burnham, Teaff and the officers of the Six-Man Coaches Association.

The association officers are Claude Morrison of Enoch, chairman; Wilford Arthur of Jayton, vice-chairman; and E. A. Works of Afton, executive-secretary.

Sooners To Play Conservatively

By BOB HOOBING
The Associated Press

Defending national champion Oklahoma's conservatism, born of necessity, flavors the split-T offense which will continue to dominate college football in the coming season.

Coupled with the continued growth of the cautious, ball-control philosophy of attack will be an increased demand on the defense to make slim leads and low scores stand up.

The trend to the many variations of the split-T again reveals the bold hand of its most effective teachers — Oklahoma Coach Bud Wilkinson.

Darrell Royal, a former Wilkinson quarterback, brings the split-T to Texas where he promises to junk the wide-open, passing game for steady, grinding yardage.

Another Wilkinson pupil, former Sooner end Jim Owens, succeeds Royal at the University of Washington where he will continue the split-T movement.

Former Wilkinson assistants Pete Elliott at California and Bill Jennings at Nebraska are spreading the split-T, too.

The Wilkinson offense is suited to a power-running game because the spacing of linemen provides blocking angles ahead of the ball carrier as long as the team can provide an element of deception.

Oklahoma will enter the season with a record 40 consecutive victories over varsity collegiate opponents. Every 1957 foe has studied the Sooner movies carefully.

Wilkinson's reaction":

"We will vary our basic split-T pattern with even more deviations than last year in an effort to stay ahead of the teams which have scouted us so well."

From the 1956 Sooners who averaged 481.7 yards a game in total offense, Oklahoma has lost speedy All-America Tommy McDonald and with him the run-pass option threat from left halfback. The departed fullback Bill Pricer provided some of the finest down-field blocking in recent years.

As a result, the Sooners will be forced to forego the long gainer for short plunges. Defense and kicking will be emphasized more than ever.

The coming Oklahoma unit is expected to be more along the lines of the '53 aggregation which pounded out a 7-0 victory over Maryland in the Orange Bowl.

More teams also hope to follow the path of Iowa to success this fall. The Hawkeyes won their first Big Ten championship since 1922 last year founded on a rock-ribbed defense.

Traditionally classed as one of the nation's "have not" clubs, Iowa shut out title contenders Minnesota 7-0 and Ohio State 6-0 down the stretch to wrap up the 1956 crown.

Major offensive changes are expected at Vanderbilt and Arizona but throughout the country most of the alterations will be ones required by changes in personnel.

"We'll be able to pass more because we have quarterbacks who can throw and our ends will have more experience as receivers," says Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes. His clubs had a string of 17 straight Big Ten triumphs into the middle of last season by scorning the forward pass.

Clemson's Frank Howard must look to the air more, too, now that ace ground gainer Joel Wells is gone.

On the other hand, Purdue comes "down to earth" with the departure of Len Dawson, the Boilermakers' rifle-armed quarterback, and ends like Lamar Lundy.

Art Guepe at Vanderbilt plans to throw a melting pot offense at opponents. He promises a split-base combined with the more effective features of the standard-T, single wing and double wing.

"We will utilize the buck-lateral, the drive series, the spread passes, the draw, the trap, the run-or-pass, as well as our dives, counters, sweeps and option plays, from every formation we employ," Guepe says.

"The formations will change constantly during a drive, producing a kaleidoscopic effect.

"There is no name for the system yet. Actually, it is a variety of formations, or a variegated T-formation. I hope it will prove successful enough to be called the Vandy-T."

Ed Doherty, moving from backfield coach with the Philadelphia Eagles, has installed the professional-style "slot-T" at Arizona with multiple ball-handling as its base.

Report On Bond Sales Given Here

Scurry County residents invested $204,057 in Series E and H Savings bonds during the first half of 1957. Of this amount, $19,648 was purchased during the month of June.

"I would like to remind the people of Scurry County that there is no safer investment in the world today than U. S. Savings Bonds," said Lyle Deffebach, county savings bonds committee chairman.

"Both the principal and interest of U. S. Savings Bonds are fully guaranteed by the full faith and credit of our government. Savings bonds now earn higher interest and mature sooner."

In the mid-year report it was revealed that the four leading countries in the state already had accounted for over 85 per cent of their goal for the year. Bandera County had reached 142 per cent of its goal, Yoakum County 96.9 per cent, Deaf Smith County 95 per cent and Hemphill County 85.9 per cent.

Scurry County bond sales so far amount to 34.5 per cent of the 1957 goal.

At present, Texas ranks 25th in the nation in bond sales, with sales in the state topping the $85 million mark during the first six months of the year.

Two Bodies Are Found

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Divers today pulled the body of a Hialeah motorist from a canal and discovered his car had come to rest directly atop a second vehicle belonging to a man missing since May 25.

Sterling Lester Davis, 33-year-old airline mechanic, died in today's predawn accident. Investigators said his car crossed 125 feet of open field after it left a highway and mounted a 15-foot embankment before plunging into 20 feet of water.

Hialeah Fire department divers Gilbert Miller and John Rutz noticed the second car as they searched for Davis' body. After pulling Davis from the water, they dived again and recovered a second body from a car identified as that of Donald Revels, 31.

Blum Is On College Panel

Dr. John Blum of Snyder has been named a member of the new advisory committee of the College of Optometry of the University of Houston.

Members of the 13-man committee are drawn principally from the ranks of Texas optometrists. They will recommend policies regarding the operation of the college.

Started in September, 1952, at the request of the Texas Optometric Association, the college is the only optometric school in the Southwest.

Dr. Charles Stewart is dean of the college.

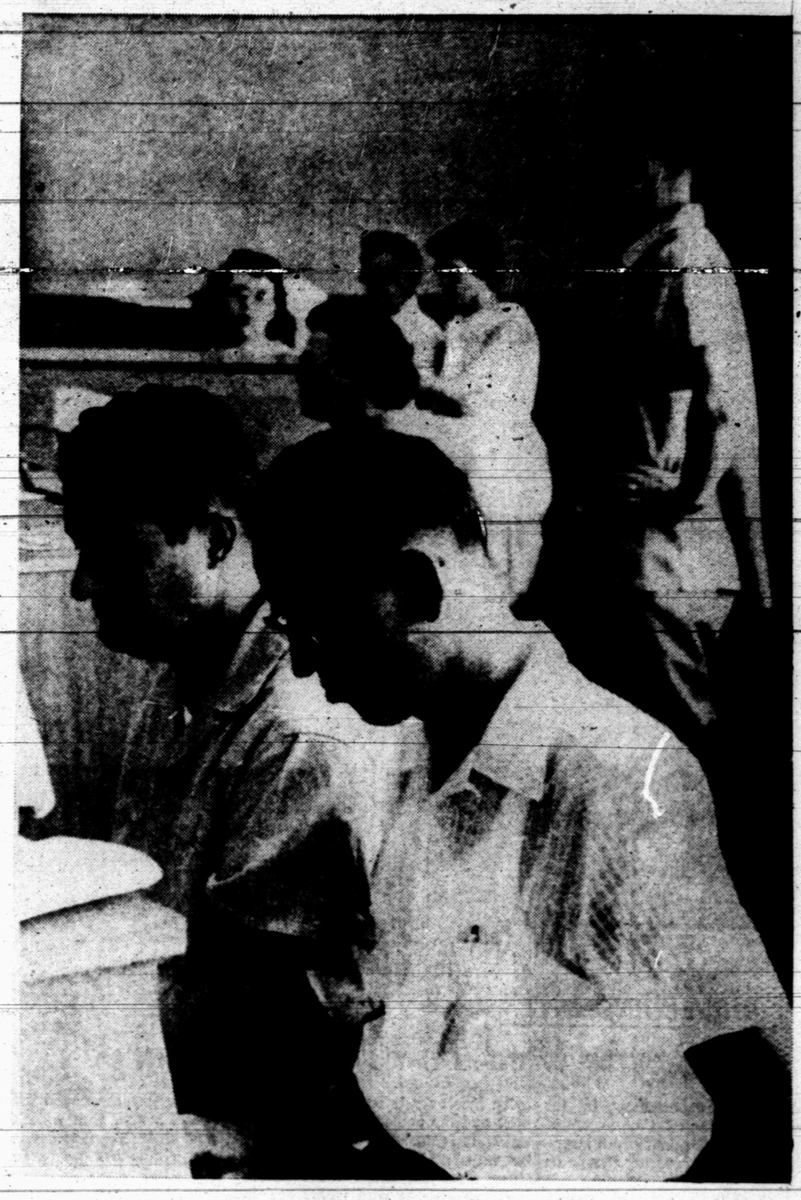
A television camera was trained on the keyboard of instructor Bob Clinton's piano at all times during the course in practical piano, which has just been completed here. Clinton is shown here at the keyboard. In the background is a monitor showing his hands on the keyboard. Student assistants aided Clinton while he was instructing.

When adults taking the practical piano course here ran into difficulty, a student assistant helped them out. Here, Barbara Josephson, one of the students, aids Mrs. W. A. McPherson. Beth Wiman was also a student assistant.



Learning many fundamentals in a five-week period which are usually taught in piano over a period of three years sometimes became perplexing, but those in piano classes at Snyder High School learned enough to use as tools for further learning. Here, Cecil Boren, left, and the Rev. T. Gerald Cates work at the same piano.

THE SNYDER DAILY NEWS

VOL. 8 NO. 76 SNYDER, TEXAS, SUNDAY JULY 28, 1957 SECTION B

Pioneering In Education

Quite a number of improvements have been made in the Snyder school system during the past few years through pioneering.

One of the pioneering projects now underway in the school system here is use of closed circuit television for classroom instruction, a part of the staff utilization experiments.

And Bob Clinton, director of choral music for the Snyder schools, this summer did a little pioneering of his own. Clinton taught large classes of adults and students practical piano through use of closed circuit television.

The five-weeks course was completed a few days ago by 76 adults and about 20 high school s[illegible]

Clinton had the adults split into three classes of about 25 each. Two sat at each piano. With Clinton or a student assistant at a piano keyboard which was shown on television monitors placed about the room, those taking the course could learn more rapidly by watching the screen.

The course was a shortcut way to learn some of the basics of playing a piano. Most of those in the class learned to read a melody line with the right hand and find the correct chord to play with the left hand.

Two high school students who are accomplished pianists aided Clinton in teaching the course, much of the time going around the room to help individuals learn how to find a chord or place fingers correctly on the keyboard. The student assistants were Beth Wiman and Barbara Josephson.

A number of the adults will go on from this course and take private piano lessons.

The class had many visitors during the course, including practically all the piano teachers in Snyder, as well as the school board.

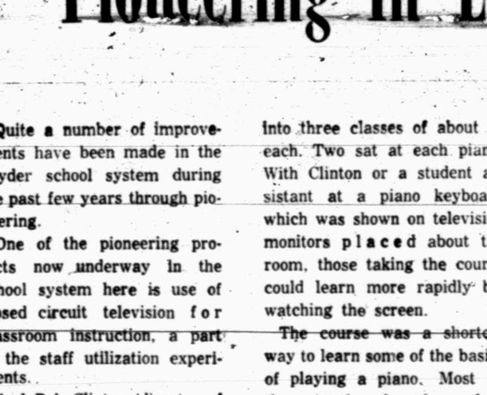
In the course, Clinton attempted to give the group enough information and understanding of the keyboard that the new pianists would have enough tools to use in actually learning to play.

In the five weeks, the group covered almost three years of regular piano instruction. That does not mean that everything given in three years of piano was covered, nor does it mean those who took the course can approach in playing skill that of a child who has taken piano three years.

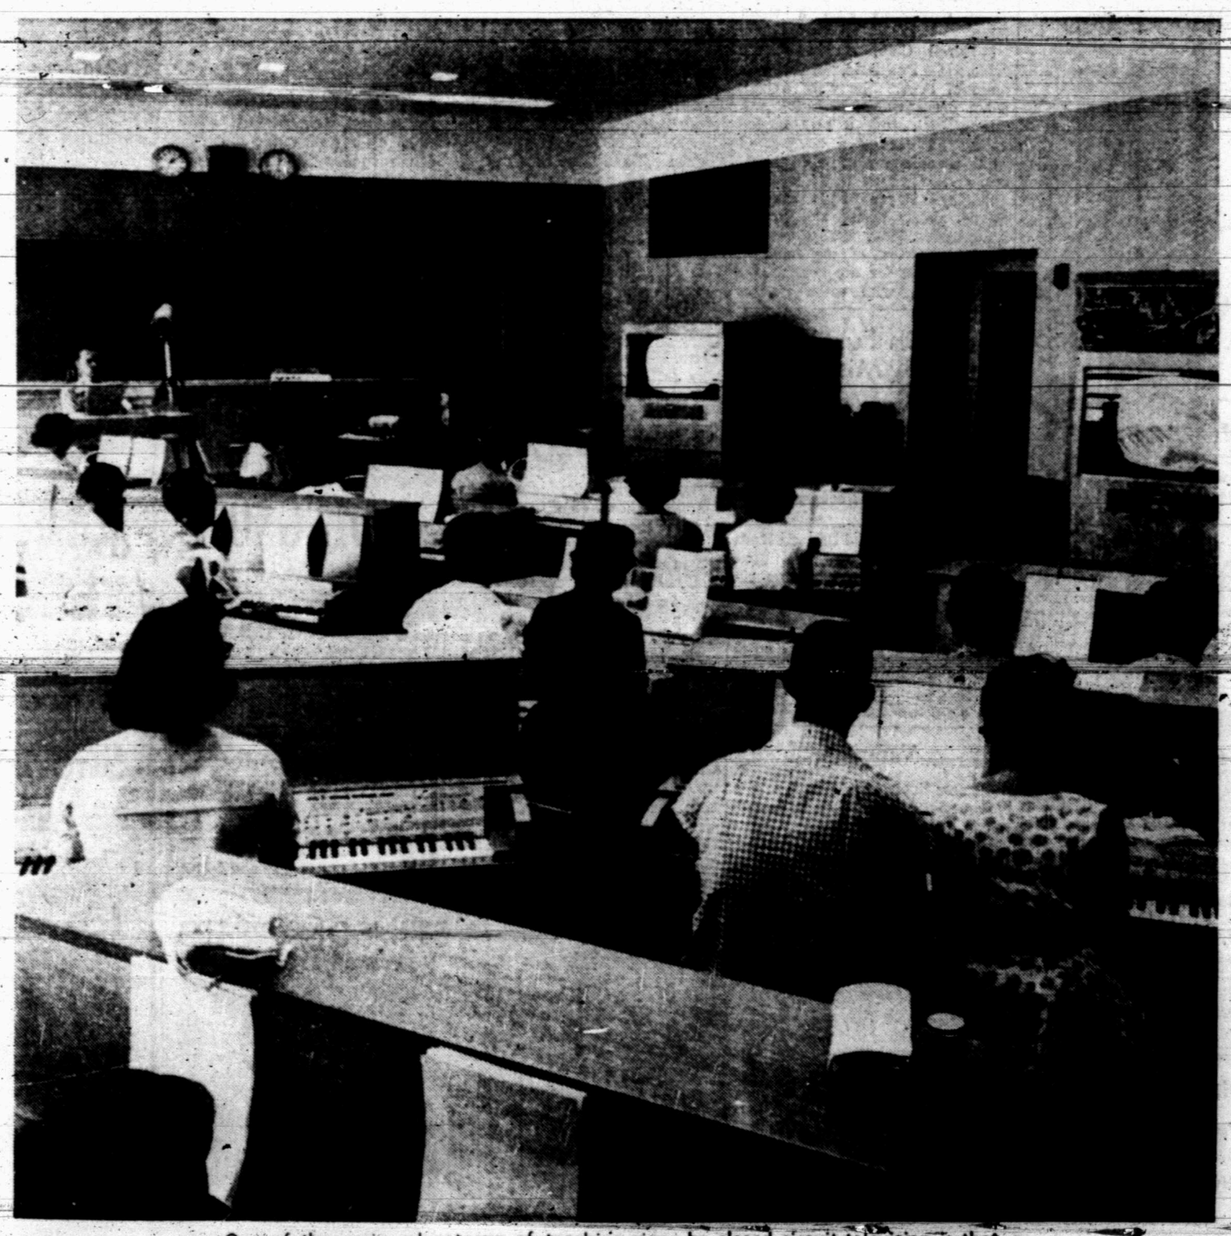
With a year or two of practice, Clinton said, most of those in the class could "catch up with themselves."

Some have expressed the desire to take an advanced course next summer if it could be offered. Many residents have shown interest in another beginning piano course here next year.

During the coming year Clinton said, the summer course will be evaluated with the idea of determining the feasibility of beginning classroom piano for students in school. Classroom piano is not yet in the plans, but it is being given thought and study, and the summer course and its results may determine whether it is offered.



Television was put to good use in teaching piano here, as shown here. Instead of having to show class members individually how to place their hands, Clinton could show them all at once on the monitor screen.



One of the main advantages of teaching piano by closed circuit television is that it allows much larger classes. Bob Clinton, who taught the course in practical piano here, had about 25 to the class, working usually two to the piano. Mare, Clinton is shown at upper left, while those in the class watch television monitors, shown at right. (Wolfe Studio photographs)

IN DOUBLERING RITES

Miss Payne Wed To Frederick Sharpe

A doublering ceremony in the Green Hill Baptist Church united in marriage Miss Mary Nell Payne of Snyder and Frederick Sharpe on July 19.

The bride is the daughter of Rufus D. Payne, 3804 Muriel Dr., and Mr. Sharp is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Sharpe, Shreveport, La.

The Rev. Cecil Rhodes, pastor of the West Side Baptist Church in Big Spring, officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a waltz-length dress of white nylon lace over taffeta, with a full skirt and the bodice pointed at the waist. It featured a stand-up collar with scalloped cut outs on either side just below the collar, and long-sleeves with points over the hands. The shoulder-length veil of nylon tulle was fastened to a tiara of orange blossoms and pearls.

For something new the bride wore the wedding dress, something old was an ivory pin the Lord's Prayer inscribed in miniature, something-blue was a garter and for something borrowed she carried a pearl covered Bible which belonged to a cousin. She carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds with feathered carnations atop a white Bible.

Moddrell Cain, cousin of the bride, of Powderly, Tex., was maid of honor. She wore a pink nylon dress with full skirt, pink taffeta sash with a bow in the back, and carried a bouquet of white carnations with pink streamers.

Shirley Payne and Dorothy Payne, sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore dresses identical to that of the maid of honor, except for the colors. One was yellow, with white flowers and yellow streamers, and the other was in acqua, with white flowers and blue streamers.

Candlelighter was Janice Sharpe of Shreveport, niece of the bridegroom, while Linda Beasley, another neice of the bridegroom, was ringbearer. Miss Sharpe wore a yellow formal, while Miss Beasley was attired in a blue formal dress. Both wore wrist corsages of white carnations.

James Sharpe of Shreveport, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Groomsmen were James Conners of Roswell, N.M. and Ronald Neighbors of Lubbock, while ushers were Jeston Corbell and Neal Dennis, both of Snyder.

Church decorations featured wrought iron candleabra and baskets of white gladioli.

Mrs. Dan Seale of Abilene, organist, played traditional wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Roland Downs of Abilene, who sang "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church. The table was covered with a lace cloth over pink, centered with a three-tiered wedding cake surround by miniature bridesmaids and bouquets.

Mrs. Herman Beasley served the cake and Mrs. Ronald Neighbors presided at the bride's book.

For the wedding trip to Shreveport and East Texas the bride wore a beige sheath dress with white accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Snyder High School and of Lamar Business College in Paris. She was formerly employed by the Texas Electric Service Co. in Snyder.

Mr. Sharpe is a graduate of Byrd High School in Shreveport, and is now an Airman 2-C, statioed at Webb AFB in Big Spring.

Following the wedding trip the couple will be at home in Big Spring.

Out-of-town guests who were here for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Graham of Houston; Mrs. Alton Payne of Saltillo; Mrs. H. C. Smyers, Miss Rita Smyers and Mrs. W. E. Dickie of Kermit; Mrs. Jack Caviness of Powderly; Lloyd Matthews of Paris; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Young of Roscoe; Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Faircloth of Clyde.

DATE DATA

By BEVERLY BRANDOW

Dear Miss Brandow:

The week after graduation I got a job and began enjoying the privileges and freedom of a working girl. I have met five very nice young men and I am nearly killing myself trying to date them all.

I rotate them, but it keeps me out every night of the week and when you date each boy just one night a week, you cannot offend his masculine ego by suggesting he bring you home before twelve.

Sleepy

You ought to write a book. You really have found the pot of gold.

Your solution is simple. Tell the boys you are now a p.w.g. (that's poor working girl, if you haven't heard and a deadhead for sleep, and though their company is fascinating, if they want to help you keep your job they'll just have to get you home by 10:30 on week nights.

After all you can leave home at seven, have a bite to eat, see a movie, and even smooch for a few minutes in that length of time. Substituting miniature golf for a movie will yield you even more beauty sleep.

Rotate your week-ends and let them suffer the rest of the time. You'll keep your job and your dates, too, I'll bet.

Dear Miss Brandow:

How can I persuade my father to let me take our car on dates? I am seventeen, have taken a driver training course, and am not reckless. My father believes that all teen-agers are wild drivers or a menace on the city streets. It's virtually impossible to get a date without a car.

Hal

It's a pity that a few square heads have to ruin the teen-age reputation for everybody else. It's now up to you and others like you to show your dad and the rest of the skeptical public that teen-agers can act grown up and can be sensible and trustworthy people.

You might begin your crusade by asking for the car only during the afternoons. Chauffeur your mother to the grocery store or beauty parlor.

Don't miss an opportunity ot express your opinions concerning senseless drivers, and learn all you can about traffic rules and regulations so you can exhibit your knowledge to your father.

If you can build his confidence in you, your battle is won.

DRESS-UP PATIO

Dramatic Espaliers Are Fun

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

THE AGE-OLD ART of training fruit trees, rose and even certain types of chrysanthemums to grow on espaliers is highly useful to a homeowner looking for a dramatic patio.

Espalier treatment of fruit trees originated in the orchards of Normandy and other French provinces as a means of conserving space. The frugal farmers found that with an espanier tree they were able to reap greatly increased profits from small acreage. Rows of trees could be painted closer together, and the special pruning of the trees induced a profusion of blossoms and fruit.

There are many varieties of dwarf trees available to lend themselves to dressing up the patio, and handsome effects may be achieved with limited space.

A good decorative idea is to use one of the new jeweltone plastic clotheslines on which to train your fruit or flowers. Then your turquoise, sapphire, tourmaline or crystal framework will be colorful even when neither fruit nor blossoms are in evidence during the year.

There are a number of recognized forms of training trees and flowers in the stylized espalier treatment. A good garden book will be sure to give you explicit directions. Once you have decided on the pattern then you can hook up your framework to support the growing plants.

Rope framing may also be used to develop espaliers along either side of a garden walk or to form a trellis against a carport. An espalier also is dramatic outside a picture window, affording a measure of privacy to a room without obscuring the view.

The preparation of an espalier tree and cultivation of its fruit is a rewarding experience for adventuresome types. Varieties of fruits that lend themselves to espalier planting include the Bartlett and Anjou pears, Gravenstein, Golden Russet and King David apples and many peace varieties. Many varieties of roses produce in great profusion and large single and semi-double types of tall chrysanthemums make a magnificent showing at the end of summer.

PATIO ESPALIER—Handsome effects can be achieved by training trees to grow in stylized patterns.

25 YEARS AGO

(Taken from the files of the Scurry County Times, July 28, 1932)

The political football was booted in all directions here Saturday, and when the dust of the first primary had cleared one new official had been crowned in Scurry County's official family, three old officials had been retained by handsome majorities, and eight campaigns had turned out to be upsets or "horse races."

"Ma" Ferguson was leading in the governor's race by a margin of more than 97,000 votes over Governor Sterling, when tabulations were made late yesterday. One of the largest votes in Texas history gave Ferguson 362,650, Sterling, 264,850, and Hunter, 196,956, with 36,400 more votes scattered between four candidates.

MRS. HARRY KEITH HAINES

Andrews-Haines Vows Are Repeated In Albany Church

ALBANY — Miss Pattsie Pearl Andrews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Andrews of Albany, became the bride of Harry Keith Haines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Haines of College Station in the First Baptist Church here July 20.

The Rev. Joe P. Self Jr., pastor of the First Baptist Church in Paducah, read the doublering ceremony.

Vows were repeated before a nuptial background of greenery crowned with a fan arrangement of white gladioli flanked by white branched candleabra holding white wedding tapers.

Crystal vases of white gladioli in tall white metal stands were on each side of the altar, centered with a white satin cushioned prayer bench. White satin bows and greenery marked the family pews.

Mrs. Leo Welch, organist, played "Always," "Wonderful One," "Oh, Promise Me" and "Indian Love Call" before the ceremony. She accompanied Mrs. Bill May of Sweetwater, aunt of the bride, as she sang "Because," "Through the Years" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown which was an original model of imported chantilly lace and blush pink tulle over blush pink taffeta. The elongated bodice of lace had a scalloped portrait neckline, draped with folds of tulle. The lace of the bodice extended over the bouffant skirt in a scalloped overskirt that cascaded to the back in a deep point. Her double-tiered veil of illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls.

The bride's attendants were Gret De Shazo of Spearman, maid of honor; Sammie Reed of Dallas, bridesmaid, and Lou Wayne Rogers of Hermleigh, cousin of the bride, junior bridesmaid.

The attendants wore identical waltz-length dresses of pink silk necklines and full skirts with bouffant net over skirts in shades of pink. They wore small picture hats of net matching their overskirts and carried colonial bouquets of pink carnations backed with net and showered with streamers matching the overskirts in colors.

Mrs. Andrews, mother of the bride, wore a waltz-length dress of pink lace, with pearl beaded neckline and matching pink floral hat and gloves. Mrs. Haines, mother of the bridegroom, wore a waltz-leng dress of silver blue lace with pink hat and pale pink gloves. Both wore pink orchids.

R. L. Haines of Lamar, Colo., brother of the bridegroom, was best man. David Haines, also a bridegroom, and Charlie Hohn of Bryan, and Langston Wood Jr. of Waco were groomsmen. Candlelighters were Frank Andrews, brother of the bride, and Tommy Edwards of College Station, nephew of the bridegroom.

Following a reception after the ceremony, the couple left on a wedding trip to Lake City Colo. The bride traveled in a costume suit dress of blue linen, blue feather hat, beige shoes and gloves and carried a beige bag decorated with flowers made of shells. She wore an orchid from her bouquet.

The bride is a 1953 graduate of Albany High School and received her BA degree in 1956 from Hardin-Simmons University. She was employed as a third grade teacher in Northeast Elementary School in Snyder last year.

Mr. Haines is a graduate of Texas A&M College, and has served in the armed forces three years.

Following their return from the wedding trip the couple will be at home in Bryan, where Mr. Haines is a stock farmer.

Among those from out of town who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond May, Donald and Romona, Mr. and Mrs. Joe May, Thomas and Janice, all of Hermleigh; and Mrs. Wayne Rogers of Snyder.

Power Tools Book Written

AP Newsfeatures

Andrew C. Lang, who writes on houses and home repair, is the coauthor, with Clarence A. Martin, of a new book, Power Tools Handbook, published by Fawcett. In it, he says:

"Anyone who has ever written or spoken a word about the do-it-yourself movement (now a part and parcel of the American way of life) has come up with an explanation, psychological and otherwise, of why it caught on. But the plain truth is that nothing did as much to popularize home repair and construction work as the portable electric drill. It was simple to use, it made difficult tasks easy, it was durable—and it could be bought without taking a second mortgage on the old homestead."

All-Male School Is Invaded By Woman

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — St. Augustine High School, which had an all-male faculty for its all-male student body since it was founded 35 years ao, now has a woman teacher.

Mrs. Ann Petlewski received the appointment just by being on the scene and available when the emergency arose. One of the instructors was tranferred.

Mrs. Petlewski was doing volunteer filing for the school. She was willing, she was qualified, and she was hired.

Avoid Going Broke While On Vacation

AP Newsfeatures

VACATIONS would be wonderful if you didn't get back home broke. This is a common plight of the returning vacationer, but, say the nation's bankers, it needn't be so.

Bank statisticians note that 85 million Americans will spend more than 12 billion dollars on holidays this year. And those are figures big enough to arouse the keen interest of bankers, who have got together and issued the following tips on how to have a carefree but solvent vacation:

1. If you haven't enough money for the trip you want, you can get a vacation loan at your bank.

2. It's more foresighted to start saving for your vacation a year ahead, working out a vacation plan, which banks also will handle, just as they do Christmas savings clubs.

3. Don't carry large sums of cash while traveling. Travelers' checks are safer—if they're stolen or lost, you don't lost the money.

4. It's a comfortable feeling to carry a letter of credit from your bank, in case you run out of funds in a strange place. This certifies your credit up to a certain amount, and makes a great difference in the attitude of creditors.

5. Don't leave valuables lying around the house while you are away. You can store jewelry, furs and paintings in bank vaults.

6. Some banks will help you plan your trip and make reservations for you.

7. Before you leave, make a vacation checklist so you'll remember to stop milk deliveries, arrange for lawn care, leave a light burning and notify police to keep an eye on your home while you're away.

Miss Block Puts On Her First Show

By JACK LEFLER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bernice Block, the newest of less than half a dozen women producers in Hollywood, has just completed her first production—"Dino," a down-to-earth story of the rehabilitation of a juvenile delinquent.

Looking down from the cloud she's been riding since release of her picture, she recalled today the struggle before she reached her goal.

Without any formal theatrical training but with a strong interest in sociology and psychology, the strikingly pretty Miss Block started trying to edge into the highly competitive producing field four years ago.

Her first venture was a television series. She had money of her own for financing and a good story but the project failed to come off.

All she got out of two years work was experience in the ways an independent producer must operate.

She learned how to acquire a story and line up a good screen writer, director and cast. With that package under her arm, she goes to a studio to persuade it that her story is worth financing, filming and distributing.

That's what she did with "Dino" and that's what she intends to do with her new undertakings.

The young producer's first picture stars Sal Mineo, who has had a quick rise to popularity; Brian Keith; and Susan Kohner. It is being distributed by Allied Artists.

"Dino" cost $300,000 to produce. Miss Block says she'll make money and be satisfied with a 1½-million-dollar gross, but feels it will go higher.

She already is deep in future production plans. She has acquired two screen plays, a biography and a novel about which she is truly excited.

Leona Pulls Biggest Hoax Of The Year

FEELS CHEATED—Mary Callie Hill, posing in her beauty pageant bathing suit, has sued the dethroned Miss USA, Mrs. Leona Gage Ennis, and sponsors of the Miss Maryland contest for $30,000 in Baltimore, Md. She contends they did her out of her rightful place in the Miss Universe contest by "fraudulently scheming" to conceal Mrs. Ennis' marriage Mrs. Ennis, the Maryland representative, was ousted from the contest and the Miss USA title when her marriage became known.

By JACK F. DAVIS

BALTIMORE, July 25 (AP)—The long-legged beauty in short shorts and tight sweater stood at the downtown Baltimore intersection, passing out leaflets on automobile mufflers.

A couple of months later, the beauty, Mary Leona Gage Ennis, parlayed her shapely looks and a staggering lie into the biggest hoax of the year and the fame and fortune she's been seeking all her life.

Mary won the title of Miss United States and went into the finals of the Miss Universe pageant at Long Beach, Calif.

The "miss" meant she wasn't married. She couldn't be, under contest rules.

Back in Maryland, word started around that she wasn't single. One fellow said he saw her at the beach two weeks ago with her husband and two children.

A reporter at Long Beach asked Mary about it. She denied it vehemently. No serious romance for her, she declared, until she was 26—eight years away.

Then she broke down and sobbed.

Air Force Sgt. Gene Ennis was called in the middle of the night at his Manhattan Beach, Md., apartment. Was he married to Mary? No. Definitely not. Never heard of the girl.

Endless checking brought word that Ennis' mother Mrs. Clarence Long at Crisfield, Md., was babysitting with a child that might be Mary's.

Mrs. Long confirmed the marriage without hesitation.

"Anything you get by cheating is not worth having," she said.

Did she know her son had denied [illegible] married to the beauty queen?

"No, I certainly didn't. It seems like everybody has turned out to be a liar."

Back went the reporters to Mary. She denied it again, but under persistent questioning broke down and told all.

"Well, almost all. She saved until she returned to Baltimore the disclosure that she had been married before—when she was 14. But that marriage lasted only a month and was annulled.

After the tears and reluctant revelations, what is left for Mary Ennis?

$1,000 for her appearance on the Ed Sullivan Show last Sunday.

A four-week September booking at a Las Vegas night club at $500 a week.

A starring role in an NBC play next Tuesday.

And numerous television and night spot engagements.

Just who is Mary Leona Gage Ennis?

Here she is, pieced together from descriptions by various friends and interests — all unsworn:

She grew up in Texas. At 14 she was out on a date with another couple who were getting married. Why don't you two do it with us? They did. The marriage was annulled a month later.

Three months later — in February 1954—she married Ennis, an airman with seven years in the service.

About four months ago, Barbara Mewshaw, a Baltimore model who poses under the name of Barbara Gates, was looking for another model to help her on a certain job. She knew a friend in a dress shop in nearby Glen Burnie, and dropped by to ask her if she wanted the work.

The friend wasn't in. Mary was. Barbara asked her if she would like the job. Mary said yes. She took it.

Barbara and Mary struck up a friendship. Barbara got her several other jobs.

When time rolled around for the Miss Maryland pageant, the two entered Mary's name.

Mary won, hands down.

(Here, the accounts vary. Barbara and Mary contend they told the director of the Maryland pageant, William J. Adams, also director of a modeling agency, that Mary was married. They say that Adams told them not to worry about it.

(Adams, on the other hand, denies this. He said the application showed that Mary was single.

(At any rate, he had a car waiting for her at the airport when she returned to Baltimore and a press conference arranged.)

Off the two went to Long Beach for the Miss U.S.A. contest. By this time, Barbara was Mary's cousin.

All went well until the disclosure.

As Barbara described it, "She had to repay her debt to society by telling the truth."

The girls had a wonderful time in Los Angeles after the truth was out. Screen test offers on the spot. But they didn't aceept them then. They wanted to get back to Maryland to check on the home front.

Back home, all was well. Mrs. Long still was opposed to the deception and resulting furore, but Ennis didn't seem to mind. The youngsters were glad to see mommy.

"I'll never lie again," Mary vowed.

Last Thursday, a new wrinkle developed. The girl who placed second in the Miss Maryland contest sued [illegible] of the contest for $30,000 in Superior Court.

The complainant, Mary Callie Hill, said at the time of Mary's disclosure that "I think it was downright mean of that woman to cheat me of the big chance. I have no Hollywood tryouts or night club offers."

Mary, from the depths of deep sofas in her New York hotel, did not comment.

Mocking Bird Sings Tune Little Off Key

GREENVILLE, Miss. (AP)—The mocking bird, official bird of "dry" Mississippi, staggered, sang an off-key tune, fluttered to a boat under a persimmon tree and then repeated the performance.

John Fox, retired manager of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce and a bird lover, was curious. His investigation showed several fermented persimmons floating in a couple of inches of water in the bottom of the boat.

Tennis Gets Boost From Miami Girl

PHILADELPHIA, July 27 (AP)—A 23-year-old blonde who likes to call herself "The Golden Goddess" is trying to add some glamor to women's tennis.

Karol Fageros, a former model from Miami, Fla., has the necessary equipment for both tennis and her role as beauty queen of the courts.

A statuesque 5-7¾, she weighs a well distributed 130. Her tennis outfits are not designed to conceal her attributes as staid Wimbledon found out this year.

Miss Fageros received a mixture of applause and frowns when she played in the famed tournament. And it wasn't for her tennis which took her to the round of 16.

"I wore a Grecian silk jersey, very decollete but draped," she said. "I had on a stole with embroidered gold tennis rackets over the outfit. When I took off the stole, well . . ."

Karol explained that her outfit was a low cut, clinging dress that hugs the curves

"Of course, I received some criticism," she admitted. "But I got some wonderful letters saying they thought tennis needed a boost in the glamor department and they admired me for having the nerve to wear something different."

Another American named Gussie Moran parleyed a pair of lace panties at Wimbledon into thousands of dollars through pro tennis and endorsement once. Karol is not altogether unaware of the parallel.

After-Hunt Outfit Added By Designer

FLORENCE, Italy (AP)—After-dinner costumes, or after-swimming costumes, or even after-ski outfits all are part of Italian fashion's casual collections.

Now they have a new addition: the after-hunt outfit.

Emilio, of Capri fame, last night showed his version of what the lady of fashion would wear after the hunt or after the horseback ride. It's inspired by traditional Italian cowboy suits, not unlike gaucho garb. Narrow pants and silk shirts are topped with flowing capes and wide-brimmed hats.

Another Emilio creation for post horseback riding was black velvet jodhpur pants and vest with cerise shirt.

Sports-conscious Emilio also presented a zippered windbreaker and thick pleated skirt of emerald velvet for golf.

Silk jersey pants were Emilio's new idea for skiing. His street-wear costumes varied from unfitted slacks to tight-bodiced, full puffed skirts drawn into narrow hem bands, all in gaily printed cotton.

Mirsa, master knitter of Milano, was at her ease working toward the winter sports season. She showed, heavy-hooded, ribbed sweaters in brilliant colors with white jersey pants. Additional touches included soft boots and slipper socks to match after-ski tunics.

GENTLEMEN AT THE BEACH—George de Witt, television emcee, models the last word in beach hats for the American male, as designed by Harry Rolnick of Dallas. The hat with the face (left) is called "Garbo," the confection in the middle is "Robin Hood" and the number with built-in cocktail glass is known as "The Crazy Horse Saloon." Rolnick swears these hats are being sold in a lot of upper bracket stores around the country

Bunny Motif For Nursery

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

A PRETTY ROOM is important even to a very young lady. And when her room combines whimsy, pretty colors and wide-eyed bunnies with pink ears, she'll look forward to nap time.

It's easy to make gay and unusual decorations for a child's room, according to local sewing center experts. If freehand art work isn't your forte, use a standard pattern for a crib cover, pillow cover, curtains and valance which includes a transfer pattern for 24 bunny heads.

Colored sheets are easy to cut down for the crib cover and other decorative items, launder beautifully and eliminate the necessity for seams. The pattern suggests a checked fabric for trimming, but you also could use one of the pretty flower prints cut from a bordered sheet.

Follow pattern directions to make the curtains, crib cover and pillow cover, but cut the transfer pattern bunnies an inch larger all around. Baste in place. If you own one of the new slant-needle automatic sewing machines, simply set the dial for a close satin stitch and put the stitch length regulator at the "fine" marking. If you have a standard automatic machine, use the satin stitch disc. Or if your machine is not automatic, use the automatic zigzagger attachment, inserting the satin stitch pattern. Stitch around bunny outlines and trim away excess fabric.

The bunny ears form a zigzag edge on the curtain valance, and curtain rings are attached where bunny ears join.

The same bunny motif may be used for a laundry bag, a shoe bag, toy bag and garment covers. And just for fun, why not make a single bunny face to frame and hang on the wall?

BUNNY DECOR—Crib cover, curtains and valance are made from colored sheets, with gay bunny appliques.

Soap Opera Pitch Works

BENSON, Ariz. (AP)—Fred Becchetti, an English teacher at Benson High School, took his cue from the advertising world to induce his pupils to attend a Shakespearean play in Tucson.

He wrote on his blackboard:

"The ghost of your murdered father demands that you kill his murderer. Your girl friend becomes insane and drowns herself because you have killed her father by mistake. You have a chance to kill the murderer as he kneels in prayer. What decision would you make? See how Hamlet meets these problems on Friday."

Forty pupils succumbed to the soap opera pitch and journeyed some 50 miles to Tucson to see the Shakespearan classic.

Library Is Helped By Pretty Girls

By IRWIN FRANK

DALLAS, July 27 (AP)—Two good-looking girls working behind the counter of your public library will do more to boost book reading than the purchase of a thousand new volumes.

If you really want to get the whole town using the public library, do what Dallas did—put the library staff in a well-lighted, comfortable building.

Dallas followed that formula and increased library book borrowing by 154 per cent in 2 years and upped the number of card holders by 282 per cent.

"The nice thing about it all," says library Director James Meeks, "is that it's a lot easier now getting money from City Hall to run the place."

The "place" is a marble-glass-aluminum structure in downtown Dallas.

Meeks says his library "is as comfortable and swank as any bank here—and they set the standards." The building is air-conditioned, lighting is excellent, chairs are comfortable, the staff is good-looking, well-dressed and trained and readers may smoke any place in the building.

Staff members are expected to be well-dressed, pleasant and helpful.

Meeks said he wants an attractive staff because "books are supposed to make you smart and when people walk in here we want them to feel—after looking at the staff—that it must pay to read books."

AT HER AGE

Madcap Is Idol

NEW YORK, July 27 (AP)—Madcap Marthy, Broadway's outlandish new stage sweetheart, unexpectedly finds herself something new in show business — a matinee idol.

"The way those girls buy the part," she marvels,"—they all must want to wear old sweaters and let their hair down. It bewilders me."

Marthy—otherwise Thelma Ritter, standout character actress of Hollywood films — is wrecking the traditional matinee-idol pattern as an amiably disreputable and elderly delinquent of the lively musical "New Girl In Town."

Wearing an outsize cardigan of outrageous hue, sloppy boots and a look of raffish abandon, tiny Miss Ritter is the center of the show's complexities.

"New Girl In Town" is both her first musical show and her first starring part on the stage. In fact, she fled Broadway 18 years ago after a series of flops.

Mention this to her, however, and she quickly insists that top credit belongs to Gwen Verdon, of dancing fame, who plays the title role.

It was Miss Ritter's movie activities—including an unprecedented four consecutive Oscar nominations for roles in "All About Eve," "The Mating Season," "With A Song In My Heart" and "Pickup On South Street"—which led to her current stage triumph.

G I BILL schooling developed Rod Steiger for stardom. Steiger enrolled in a dramatic school under the G I Bill after five years in the Navy, and now he is starring in such pictures as "Run of the Arrow," also with Sarita Montiel and Brian Keith.

Organized Strippers

NEW YORK (AP)—Burlesque queens and chorus girls are being organized by the American Guild of Variety Artists. Previously they had a union of their own, but its 20-year-charter was revoked for failure to organize the show field sufficiently and failure to protect performers adequately.

SAYS JACK DOUGLAS

Still Plenty Adventure

By JACK LEFLER

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Theres still a lot of new adventure to be squeezed out of this world, says television's Jack Douglas.

He's done a lot of squeezing himself in nearly 200 films of the "I Search for Adventure" series, which goes into its fourth year next week.

But, he says, the surface has barely been tapped.

To emphasize, he came up—with practically no prodding at all—with a list of what he considers the world's 10 greatest unfilmed adventures.

Some of these have been filmed with still cameras and some by governmental organizations, but there have been no motion pictures of them seen by the public as far as Douglas knows.

1. Life on Pitcairn Island among the descendants of the men who staged the mutiny on the Bounty.

2. Ascent to the rim of Mt. Izalco in El Salvador. This volcano has been erupting every 15 minutes for 175 years.

3. A North Pole-to-South Pole airplane flight.

4. Underwater exploration of the Sea of Galilee and the Dead Sea.

5. Exploration of the vast French caves in the south of France.

6. Exploration of the top of Devil's Mountain in Venezuela which was the locale of Arthur Conan Doyle's book, "Lost World."

7. A voyage through the Northwest Passage.

8. Climbing Mt. Kilimanjaro in Africa.

9. Exploring the Afghanistan Jungle, the meanest and least-known jungle in the world.

10. Life with a Gypsy caravan in Spain or France.

"I'd just about give my right leg to get any three on that list," says Douglas.

But, he's not about to finance any expeditions to get them.

"That isn't the way we handle the program," Douglas explains. "Our films come from amateurs and in that way we are able to maintain the personal touch on which our appeal is based."

Sandburg Is Outspoken About TV

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Carl Sandburg, the poet and biographer of Abraham Lincoln, aroused a good deal of attention recently when he expressed some strong personal views about television, before the General Federation of Womens' Clubs in Asheville, N.C.

Today he amplified his views in a filmed interview with Arlene Francis on NBC-TV's "Home" program. Here are his principal remarks:

"More than half of the advertising on TV if filled with inanities, assininities, sillinesses and cheap tricks. Television itself is a miracle in the sense that air and sunlight are old miracles with a use to them that we don't know.

"I can name the items on TV that for me are priceless. The personalities that I have come to know. The travel that I've had—scenes that I'll never have time to visit. . . . The Laplanders that I saw on TV a few evenings ago—and their way of living. In a newsreel, this big proud ship, that foundered on a little reef down there at Bermuda—the pathos of that modern invention, the modern steamboat just helpless. . . .

Christmas Present Comes In Advance

NEW YORK (AP)—A musical that won't reach Broadway until Christmas week already has an advance Yule present in the box-office. Theater parties have purchased nearly a half million dollars worth of tickets for "The Music Man."

The show, with music and lyrics by Meredith Wilson, will be brought to town by Kermit Bloomgarden, producer of the long-run hit "The Most Happy Fella."

OSCAR WINNER Dorothy Malone returns to the screen starring with Fred MacMurray in "Quantez", and with James Cagney in "Man of a Thousand Faces." Her Oscar came for the pictures, "Written on the Wind."

Hat Putting Ross On Road To Career

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Joe E. Ross is headed for a bigtime movie career because of a hat.

The name Joe E. Ross may not mean much in Dubuque, Iowa, or Snow Shoe, Pa., unless you identify him as Mess Sgt. Rupert Ritzik, the No. 1 pigeon of Sgt. Bilko on the Phil Silvers' TV show.

Ross, a character right out of Damon Runyon, just completed his first movie in Hollywood. He's costarred with Hal March and Merry Anders in "Hear Me Good" a comedy written, produced and directed by Don McGuire. Here's where the hat comes in.

"Paramount wanted Art Carney to do the part," Ross explains, "but McGuire wanted me. McGuire argued that Carney isn't funny without a hat on. Paramount argued that I always wore a hat on the Bilko show so how could I be funny without one."

The part, of course, doesn't require funny hats so to settle the argument, McGuire and the Paramount brass decided to watch the next Bilko show.

"Just by luck," says Ross, "it was the show where my wife threatens to leave me if I don't quit losing bets to Bilko. Most of it was shown in our quarters and I had no hat on. I got the part. Isn't that funny how a little thing like that could determine a break in a career? I hate to think of what would have happened if Carney had ever come in Gleason's apartment on the Gleason show and taken his hat off."

Ross scored in "Hear Me Good" and now Paramount wants him back to play Yul Brynner's comedy sidekick in "The Buccaneer." It's a role which is all through the picture.

Show Rights Granted By Direct Approach

NEW YORK (AP)—The direct approach won Producer David Merrick the eagerly sought Broadway rights to Peter Ustinov's London comedy hit "Romanoff and Juliet."

Ustinov, arriving here to start in the Gotham production due in the fall, recalled how Merrick just walked into his dressing room during the tryout tour, handed him a business card and explained he wanted the overseas rights. Merrick, producer of "Fanny" and "The Matchmaker," said he would wait at a hotel until Ustinov had time to check up on him.

Completely disarmed, Ustinov instead asked Merrick to stay to supper and closed the deal then and there.

Safe 'n Sound

By JOHN BOREN

Have you ever had that helpless feeling of seeing a fire fan out with incredible speed racing forward and destroying valuable property? It's a feeling we hope you will never experience if you follow these few simple precautions.

Never burn on a dry, windy day. Always burn against any wind for it acts as a natural brake.

Always get a fire permit from your fire department or fire warden. Let your neighbors know when you're going to burn.

In burning off a field, plow or clear a fire lane around the field.

If you are just going to burn a little rubbish use a good stout incinerator. Don't be afraid to call the fire department if the fire is in any danger of getting out of control.

Make sure that you have adequate Fire Insurance on your property by calling BOREN & WEST INSURANCE AGENCY, 2607 Ave. S, Phone 3-3651.

NEW GOAL ESTABLISHED

Farm Policies Formerly Geared To Parity Prices

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Reporter

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP)—For nearly a quarter of a century government farm policies have been set up to emphasize prices.

Policymakers took the view that if farmers could be assured good prices, agriculture would be prosperous. They established a price goal, which was called parity. This is a standard for measuring farm prices, declared to be fair to farmers in relation to prices charged them.

Crop control, subisidy, price support, surplus disposal, land retirement and other programs set up to help farmers had the parity goal in mind.

The Eisenhower administration is trying to take the emphasis off price and put it on a new goal. That target is volume. That is, efforts of farmers and government should be directed toward marketing the largest possible volume of farm products.

What's good about high prices if you can't sell much? Asks Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

A campaign to sell volume rather than price as the major goal of farm programs is getting under full swing with the appointment of Dr. Don Paarlberg as assistant secretary of agriculture in charge of marketing. Paarlberg is an economist who believes firmly in the mass production, low-price, efficiency philosophy of the modern industrial world. He thinks this philosophy must be adopted fully by agriculture.

"We stand," he said, "between two policies, one aged and weakening, and the other waiting to be born. On one hand is the one-dimensional approach which focuses almost exclusively on price. On the other hand is a two-dimensional policy which would focus on volume as well as price."

Paarlberg came to the department in 1953 from Purdue University, where he was a professor of economics. Benson has leaned heavily on him for advice on economic policies.

The Benson-Paarlberg school—which currently has the full endorsement of the White House—argues that the advent of mechanized agriculture foists volume supplies on the nation whether it wants them or not. Consequently, policies must be fashioned to take that situation into account.

When the government entered the farm economic field in the 1930s, crop control or production adjustment was seized upon as the main device for boosting farm prices. It was agreed by farm leaders that too much production had helped pull farm prices and income down.

A measure of success was obtained from time to time in curtailing production, particularly in the earlier years. But since World War II success has been scant. The accumulation of record-breaking surpluses in the face of production control measures attests this.

Experience has shown—say administration farm leaders—that if production is cut one place in agriculture, shifts are made to bring about overproduction elsewhere. Much of this can be attributed to technological progress.

Paarlberg says, "We are discovering that despite efforts to check output, farm products are likely to continue abundant.

"Last year we had acreage allotments and marketing quotas in operation for all basic crops for which they were eligible. We had the beginning of a soil bank (land retirement) program and we had a severe drought in the Southwest. Yet over-all farm production reached an all-time record."

The government has been buying up the extra production under price support programs and storing it at great cost to taxpayers. Much of it is given away eventually.

The administration contends that agriculture should adopt "progressive" steps to market the abundant production at home and abroad. One of the best ways of doing this, it says, is to reduce prices to a point where the production will move into use rather than into government storage.

IN MEXICO CITY

Statue Needed For Pedestrian

By INEZ ROBB

MEXICO CITY — This is a vast and beautiful city of courteous people, broad avenues opening on splendid green vistas, flower-filled parks and many monuments. But one thing is missing: one monument, that is.

In a capital that has dedicated noble monuments to motherhood, for example, and to the expropriation of oil from British and American interests in the 'thirties, there should surely be a monument to the pe trian. It might well bear the legend and admonition: Jack be nimble, Jack be quick." One thing is certain: either he's quick or dead.

That is to say, Mexico City has a traffic problem, too, and I seem to be in the center of it, and fighting valiantly not to be its dead center. My problem is simple: I am housed in the Hotel Plaza, a resplendent hostelry just one block, as the crow flies, from the Hotel Continental Hilton, where some friends are in residence. And I now know why the crow flies.

Last night at the cocktail hour (in this Latin country at approximately the same time the home folks in the U.S.A. are dialing in the Late Late Show), I started out blithely for the Hilton to join my friends. Thirty minutes and two heart failures later, I made it; but just barely.

The hotels are separated by a great traffic circle, obiovusly the most popular in the Western Hemisphere and so awesomely engineered that I crossed eight intersections, all high-speed arteries, before I reached the sanctuary of the Hilton.

It was only then that I learned that this is known as Suicide Circle. Well, sir, even Liza had to cross the ice only once, and when I went back to the Plaza, I took a taxi.

I hope the American oil men and interests that are so furious with me, only because I hanker to share their 27½ percent depletion allowance for tax purposes, will forgive this mention of the expropriation monument. As a matter of fact, a city with monuments is so purty I am thinking of starting a public subscription to put up a statue back home to the depletion allowance, with a simple legend reading: "Them as Has, Gits."

If the traffic probelms of this city of approximately 4,250,000 persons seem as complex and insoluble as those of New York, the Mexican capital has New York licked to a standstill in one important matter. Mexico City is one of the most spotless metropolises I have ever seen. And no matter how often and how much New York officials congratulate one another on the cleanliness of my home town, the largest city in this hemisphere by comparison is just plain dirty.

The streets in Mexico City must be swept every hour on the hour. There is not dirt, no litter. A walk through the city's avenues and parks is a pure pleasure, except at crossings.

Mexico City offers the tourist a fascinating contrast of the old and the ultra new. In Chapultepec Park, ancient Aztec sculptures are carefully preserved while the center of the city is dotted with modern skyscrapers of glass and chrome.

Our good neighbors are content that their tallest skyscraper, the Banco del Pais, which rises 43 stories, is the highest building on the continent. They point out that it rests on a 7,300-foot base, the altitude of Mexico City itself.

This city does reach a mile and a half into the sky, which accounts for its dry, milk climate, and also for one of its favorite Jose Millers to the effect that tourists, for the first 48 hours, are apt to breathe in short pants.

SAD STORY

Boy's Black Friday

SAN ANTONIO, July 27 (AP) — It was a Black Friday for Walter Rodriguez, 17.

Troubles began when a police radar net caught him speeding.

He tried to flee and patrolman Jack Fleisher ran him down. Rodriguez didn't help his cause when he showed the officer a drivers license issued to a man, 64.

The water got hotter when the youth admitted the car he was driving had just been stolen from a nearby bar, and that the drivers' license was found in the glove compartment.

Fleisher took him to the tavern and returned the vehicle and license to Ignacio Vargas, who had just discovered the loss.

Rodriguez's lot became more unhappy at jail. There officers discovered his true identity, plus the fact that he is a soldier and A.W.O.L from Fort Wood, Mo.

When they issued him tickets for speeding, running a red light, and driving without a license, Rodriguez thought it was severe.

After officers booked him for theft over $50, and put holds on him for auto theft detectives and military authorities, he figured it was too much.

So Rodriguez told officers he's decided to commit suicide.

They found a solution for that. Guards stripped him of clothing and placed him in a private cell under close supervision.
