'Tis Christmas For All The World!

Bitter Sobs And Joyous Laughter Picked From The News Of The World Xmas Eve

Americans Visit Bethlehem

(By The Associated Press)

BETHLEHEM, Dec. 24.—Hundreds of Americans are celebrating Christmas in the Holy Land amid familiar scriptural surroundings.

They are tourists on a world cruise abroad the liner Empress of Britain, and arrived in Jerusalem today.

Tonight automobiles carried these tourists and pilgrims to worship at the cradle of Christ's birth here.

Above them was a starry sky which recalled the actual night of the nativity 1932 years ago, when three wise men of the east came to the manger bearing gifts of frankincense and myrrh for the newly born savior.

Thousands of worshippers by tomorrow night will have moved and prayed on the very soil where Jesus Christ breathed his first few hours on earth at the first Christmas nearly 20 centuries ago.

Man Makes His Family Happy By Returning Home

PORTSMOUTH, O., Dec. 24. (AP)—George L. Law, 68, former owner of a group of theaters here, made this Christmas the happiest his family has had for three years.

Law came home last night from Lady Lake, Fla., after being missing three years. He left October 29, 1929. No trace of him was found and the rivers and streams about Portsmouth were searched for his body. A letter from a Lady Lake hospital several days ago said a man giving the name of George Law was there, a victim of amnesia. Miss Julia Law went to Florida and identified the man as her father. Law recognized his daughter and they returned here last night.

Men And Women In Texas Prison Will Enjoy Xmas

AUSTIN, Dec. 24. (AP)—The more than five thousand men and women behind Texas state prison walls and scattered on penitentiary farms will have a "cheerful" Christmas.

Lee Simmons, manager of the system, here today, is authority for the statement. He said arrangements had been completed to give the convicts as much freedom as possible on Christmas day.

A bountiful Christmas day menu has been arranged for the inmates, dinner to consist of turkey with the other things that one usually finds on family reunion dinner tables at this season, Simmons stated.

Santa Claus Is Just Suspicious Person To Fido

STONINGTON, Conn., Dec. 24. (AP)—Frank Miner may be an excellent Santa Claus to the children of the lower Pawcatuck school, but he's just a suspicious person to Ernest Mellon's dog.

St. Nick was about to enter the school house as a climax to the Christmas party when the dog spotted him and growled. Santa Claus right about faced and made for the nearest tree.

School children shooed Fido away, and only then did Santa Claus deem it wise to put on his climbing act—but this time he climbed down a tree rather than a chimney.

Child Is Badly Burned While Playing Santa Claus

YORK, Pa., Dec. 24. (AP)—While enacting the role of Santa Claus in a school play, Louis Neff, 10, of Yoe, near here, was burned severely today as his clothing became ignited at a fireplace.

Two teachers, Miss Grace Manifold and Miss Pauline Seaks, carried the boy out of the room and extinguished the fire by rolling him in the snow. Miss Seaks was burned about the hands.

Death Defeats The Greatest Wish Of Aged Woman

BEAUMONT, Dec. 24. (AP) — Death defeated by one day the greatest wish of Mrs. Florence A. Weaver of Hanmaker. For years she had looked forward to the celebration of her golden wedding anniversary on Christmas day, 1932. She died shortly after midnight today.

Instead of celebration, funeral services for the pioneer woman of Liberty county will be held Christmas afternoon at her home at Hankamer. Mrs. Weaver was 70 years old and came to Liberty county from Alabama at an early age.

President-Elect Roosevelt Has Christmas Party

Man Steps Up To Kettle And Drops In $500 Bills

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Dec. 24. (AP)—A well-dressed, middle-aged man stepped up to the Salvation Army kettle at the post office corner here yesterday and, without a word to the lassie in charge dropped in the kettle two bills folded in small squares so the denominations would not show. In the evening, when Adjutant Verner M. Van Syckle emptied the pot he found two five-hundred dollar bills.

John D. Rockefeller Enjoys 93rd Christmas Today

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Dec. 24. —John D. Rockefeller, Sr., who celebrates his 93rd Christmas tomorrow, started his holidays today by playing golf and dispelling rumors he had abandoned the game because of his health. He had not played since his arrival six weeks ago.

In a brief yuletide message, the man who has given many millions to benefit his fellow men, said: "Good will and best wishes of the glad holiday time for all mankind."

Organ More Than 100 Years Old To Again Be Heard

GALVESTON, Dec. 24. (AP)—A little hand-made organ, believed to be more than 100 years old and long unused, will peal out Christmas music tomorrow at St. Joseph's Catholic church here.

The old organ, which had lain in the organ loft of the church unused for the past 10 years, has been put in shape again and will be heard at the Christmas high mass.

Much of the history of the instrument is lost, but it is believed to have been brought to Texas from Mexico some hundred years ago by monks. It was changed around from church to church, some Catholic, some protestant, in the days when Texas was young, and finally found its way to Galveston, just how, nobody knows.

Boy Gives Father A Dog And His Mother Dog Collar

CLEVELAND, Dec. 24. (AP)—H. K. Ferry, county dog warden, told this story today.

A small boy asked his father if it was impolite to give away Christmas presents.

"Very impolite," his father assured him, "very".

Today the boy presented his father with a dog and his mother with a dog collar.

Old Melodies Of Dixie Roll Forth As Xmas Funnin' Starts

Wrinkled Faces Of Darkies Glow As Plaintive Tunes Of Long Ago Are Sung

(By The Associated Press)

ATLANTA, Dec. 24.—A handful of former slaves, their dusky faces creased with wrinkles and their eyes glazed with the film of a hundred years, gathered here at dusk today for a little Christmas funnin'.

Each Christmas eve they assemble at the Holmes institute to receive presents and sing and dance and eat until their weary old bodies plead for rest.

Big Day In Lives

It's the only big day in their lives—these old folks who were human merchandise and manned the plows of the cotton country while white man harangued and fought over their servitude.

"Hyah 'tis Chris'mus agin," said one of the former slaves whose hair is as white and kinky as cotton in the bottom lands, "and de folks is a 'gruntin' 'bout hard times. De been a 'gruntin' a hun'nad years—since I wuz a boy. And dey'll keep a 'gruntin' as long as dey think mo' 'bout gettin' then dey does 'bout givin'."

Old Bones Are Weary

They danced a lot today. It's their natural way of expressing happiness. It wasn't the gay "coonjiggin" of their youth. The old bones couldn't stand such punishment, but the negroes shuffled around a bit, clapped their hands and "stomped" while the youngsters danced a coonjig and cut some fancy wing bucks.

They sang and hummed the old songs of their childhood—"fo' de wah" songs they call them. These melodies are their only heritage. The rhythm was pagan. It rolled like the echoes of tom-toms on the Congo. But the words were about Galilee and Jordan and Jericho.

Bodies Sway With Music

Of course they sang "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot." It started spontaneously. "I looked over Jordan and what did I see"—an old woman's voice carried the treble. "A band of angels comiig after me — a'coming for to carry me home."

The negroes' bodies swayed as they sang. The men's voices were deep, sonorous and after each line came a lonesome wail—"oh, lordy Lord."

"Swing Low, Sweet Chariot"—it was soft and low now. The old men blinked back their tears. Younger persons wept openly. "Coming for to carry me home"—the volume swelled until it sounded like surf waves. "Swing Low"—softly again. "Coming"—it was a sob—"for to carry me home."

The song ended, an old negro chanted: "Oh lordy, let me die easy when I die."

They all knew the chariot is waiting for them just beyond the horizon.

Twelve Gallons Of Christmas Whisky Taken In Raid Here

About 12 gallons of Christmas whisky were confiscated by the sheriff's department and city officers Saturday afternoon in a raid at a residence in the 2100-block of Avenue Q.

Two men were arrested. Two cases of half-gallon jars of whisky were found, and it was said a third case had been broken in a bathtub.

Another man was arrested while making an alleged delivery of a half gallon of liquor. The two arrested at the Avenue Q address probably will be released to federal authorities, who will file charges, Sheriff Wade Hardy said.

Entire World Bows In Homage To Birth Of The Christ 1932 Years Ago; Services Planned

Kiddies Awake To Find Santa Claus Has Come And Gone And Left In His Path Happiness And Joy; Christmas Party Is Held Here Saturday For Poor Children; Giving In Order

HOPE which sprang from the "City of David" 1,932 years ago welled anew last night as the Christian world laid aside burden and toil, heartache and sorrow for Christmas.

The message brought to the shepherds so long ago will echo wherever men, women, and children gather today to worship.

"—Fear not: For behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."

Words Bring Cheer To Troubled World

These words, bringing surcease to a trouble-wracked world, also will be chanted in the languages of every civilized people and in the dialects of many others—"Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace, good will toward men."

In Lubbock, first service was conducted last midnight at St. Joseph's Catholic church, where First Mass was said by the Rev. Fr. Gabriel, S. A., pastor. Masses also will be conducted at 8:30 and 10 o'clock this morning.

Church Services Today

Lubbock protestant churches will hear Christmas music and sermons this morning. Virtually all churches will dismiss the evening service.

The day-before Christmas program began at 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning when about 1,000 unfortunate children were guests at the Lindsey theater at three comedies and a big party. The Rev. R. C. Campbell, First Baptist church minister, had the role of jolly Kris Kringle.

Toy For Every Child

There was a toy for every child under eight years of age. Wm. H. Evans, chairman of the Lions club, which sponsored the party, said. Everyone had candies, fruits, and nuts and some were left. The surplus was given to the Salvation Army for distribution. Boy Scouts and fire department members also aided in the affair.

Last night three dances, at Hotels Lubbock and Hilton and at the Uptown Dance palace drew hundreds

Mrs. J. S. Hill, 46, of McDonald, N. M., was in a critical condition at Lubbock sanitarium last night and her husband was less seriously hurt, as a result of an automobile collision on a hill near Plains, Tex., early last night.

With the husband on an operating table and Mrs. Hill unable to talk, details of the crash could not be learned. The Hills, it was said, were en route to spend Christmas with a daughter living between Crosbyton and Petersburg.

Wounds Are Serious

Mrs. Hill suffered a deep gash, on the right knee, a fracture of the cap, the left side of her chest was crushed, and she also had a deep scalp wound. Mr. Hill's left knee was gashed open and the cap broken in two.

Persons named Dalmont were said to have been in the automobile, bound for New Mexico, with which the Hill machine collided at the top of a hill. E. Dalmont and members of his family, of Tatum, N. M., were in Lubbock Saturday, and it was understood that it was this group which was involved in the accident. Whether they had been hurt, also, was not known here.

Officers Believe Aged Woman Was Slain By A Dentist In Frenzy Of Rage; No Bodies Reported Found

(By The Associated Press)

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 24. — After 30 hours' investigation of the slaying of Mrs. Josephine Stark Elder, 71, Chief of Police Joseph Gerk said tonight he believed the elderly woman was slain by her dentist, Dr. Squire P. Bevier, 60, in a frenzy of rage during a quarrel over the quality of dental work he did for her.

Chief Gerk said he also thought the dentist ended his life by jumping into the Mississisppi river from a municipal bridge.

The theory of a quarrel over a dental plate made by Dr. Bevier was strengthened when Conway Elder, son of the slain woman and a former judge of the Missouri supreme court, said his mother was dissatisfied with Dr. Bevier's work. When she left home for his office Thursday she said she intended to have the dentist "make it right," Elder said.

Friends of Mrs. Elder said that despite her age she was able to express herself in biting English when aroused. An acquaintance of Dr. Bevier said he was easily aroused to anger.

Farmer Borrower Given Chance To Save; Cut Is One-Half Of One Per Cent; Effective For Six Months

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24. — The Reconstruction Corporation today deposited a reduced interest rate in the Christmas stockings of banks, financial institutions and railroads.

The cut was one-half of one per cent on all forms of loans, the farmer borrower from the agricultural credit corporations being given a chance to save even more if appraisal costs are less than one per cent.

The corporation, sole government agency to keep open on Christmas eve, revamped its interest rates for the first time since it began operations last February. The reason given was the "prevailing low rates of money" in the open market.

The reduction is effective for six months beginning January 1, 1933. It is effective on the balances of old loans and on new loans maturing not later than Dec. 31, 1933.

Woman Is Drowned While 17 Are Injured As Cable Snaps

PARSONS, W. Va., Dec. 24. (AP)—Plunged into the icy waters of swollen Otter creek last night when a swinging bridge cable snapped as they returned from a Christmas entertainment in a rural school house, one woman drowned and 17 men, women and children were injured.

Mrs. Julia Carr, 55, drowned. Her body has not been recovered.

Minister Gives Statement Telling Version Of Death

LINDEN, Dec. 24. (AP)—Coy Oakley, 25, itinerant minister and purported divine healer, made a signed statement to officers today relating his version of the death of Bernice Clayton, 3, during an attempt by Coy and his brother, Paul Oakley, 20, also a minister, to "drive out the devil" which they believed caused partial paralysis of her body.

Paul Oakley told newspaper men that his hands were on the girl's throat when she died. He continued to act strangely today in his cell and was under the observation of physicians.

Emergency Morgue Is Prepared On Christmas Eve As Rescuers Work Feverishly At Rock Wall

Fear-Stricken Wives, Children And Friends Huddled About Mouth Of Pit Hoping Against Hope That Loved Ones Will Be Saved; Rescue Squads Are Driven From Mine By Gas

(By The Associated Press)

MOWEAQUA, Ill., Dec. 24.—They prepared an emergency morgue in this mining town of 1400 on Christmas eve.

Fifty-two men, workers in a co-operative mine, were trapped by shale and rock some 700 feet under ground in a coal mine.

Rescue squads, working feverishly in shifts of 20 since morning when an explosion buried the men, struck gas late this afternoon. Driven out, the squads donned gas masks and went back to the frantic burrowing in an effort to bring the victims alive to the mine opening, nearly a mile from where they were entombed.

Christmas Is Subdued

Huddled about the pit mouth were the wives, children and friends of the trapped men, quiet, but fear stricken. Christmas was completely subdued by tragedy.

They took some heart at the words of John Millhouse, director of the state department of mines and minerals, in charge of the rescue squads.

"If," he said, "the men were fortunate enough to have barricade themselves, they may escape the deadly mine damp and we can get to them in time."

Arrange For Morgue

But Millhouse and others, not telling the relatives, arranged for the emergency morgue in a vacant store. Also they saw to it that the town's tiny 30-bed hospital was ready to receive any who might be rescued.

The relatives believed Millhouse. He with several others had been "down there." He was among the dozen or so overcome with gas and brought outside as rescue squads prodded their way to the tunnel where the men were imprisoned, once out. Millhouse and his helpers were revived, put on gas masks and went back to their task.

No Sounds Are Heard

Millhouse, however, said it might be hours yet before they could reach the men. So far there were no sounds forthcoming from the place where they believed the men were trapped. Nearly 120 of the most

Much Work Looms Ahead For New Regime; Politics In Flux As Roosevelt Takes His Post

Control Of Power Passes To Democrats After 12 Years Of Republican Rule; Debts Biggest Question

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24. (AP) — Dawning of a new year fraught with realization of the greatest political overturn in the nation's history shows only fragmentary glimpses as to what the infant 1933 will bring as the result of that sweeping transfer of party power and responsibility.

Along with the presidency and congressional control that will pass to their hands after 12 years of Republican domination, the Democrats won a half score of Republican governorships, placing more than three-fourths of the states under Democratic administrations.

Already the actual political transition is getting under way in many capitols, but not until March 4, when Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York takes the presidential power from the hands of Herbert Hoover of California, will the full effect of the verdict rendered by the voters on November 8 have been felt.

Election Shadows Congress

And up to that hour, the development of the new administration's plans must await what is to happen between now and then in the hold-over session of congress, already struggling with budgetary and unemployment problems.

Over that current session of congress hovers the shadow of the election. Of the total of 531 members of house and senate, 175 have retired voluntarily or been voted out of office. Yet this "lame duck" session holds the key to what the incoming President and the next congress, with its powerful Democratic majorities in both houses, must do.

House Speeds Business

The old congress virtually lunged into its work.

Within three hours of the opening of the house a roll-call vote on a prohibition repeal resolution had been recorded—and showed failure by only six votes of the necessary two-thirds majority.

In less than 10 days the first huge budgetary supply bill for the next fiscal year had been rushed from committee to the floor of the house.

From totals already pared deeply by the last Hoover budget's effort to slash some $800,000,000 from government costs in the face of an ever-growing and stupendous indicated deficit, the committee proposed new cuts figured in tens of millions.

Much Work On Program

Spread on the legislative program for the first work of the new year were such big matters as legalization of beer for its revenue value.

Before congress, also, were presidential proposals for a further cut in federal civil pay scales. A drastic program of inter-departmental shifts and transfers of big government bureaus and commissions also had been made effective by the President.

Unless congress acts affirmatively to stay these executive orders before February 9, they go into effect; yet almost every one of the 50-odd changes outlined has its controversial aspect in congress.

Before the senate loomed a Democratic proposal to block confirmation of virtually all presidential appointments until after March 4.

Roosevelt Labors Multiply

Meanwhile Governor Roosevelt as president-elect found himself deep in a triple problem of leadership. His post-campaign trip to Warm Springs, Ga., was cut short that he might call the New York legislature into special session for an emergency involving the financial condition of New York City.

At the same time his days and nights were divided between state affairs and conferring with party leaders at Washington on each succeeding emergency of the hold-over session of congress.

War Debts Rumble

Through all these purely domestic aspects of the great impending change in party power ran the thread of the war debts, with threats of default punctuating arguments for revision.

Whatever the immediate status, as the old year waned a strong impression prevailed that this matter, too, like most of the questions arising in the hold-over session of congress not strictly confined to the shaping of the federal budget for the next fiscal year, seemed destined to be shoved over beyond March 4 and land on the shoulders of the incoming administration.

Manuscripts Are To Be Exhibited

Beginning Wednesday and continuing through Saturday there will be an exhibition of illuminated manuscripts on display at the Tech engineering building. The showing is to be open to the public from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m.

The exhibit is being sponsored by the Lubbock Art association and the departments of engineering drawing and architecture at the college.

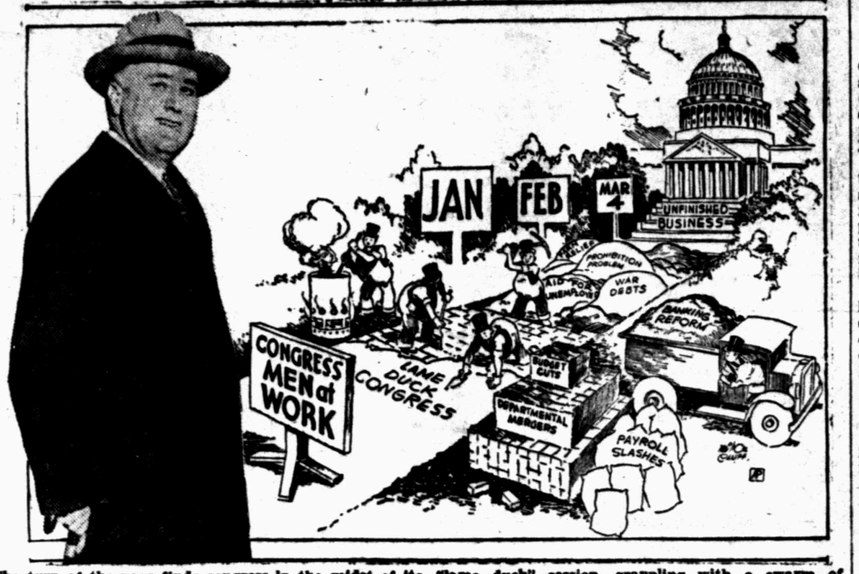

The collection of fifty original leaves and thirty reproductions present in historical sequence the various phases in the development of manuscripts from the classical period through the high renaissance. Miniature painting, decoration, music notation and writing are to be illustrated.

In connection with this exhibit Carl Lars Svenson, head of the Tech engineering drawing department, is to lecture on "The Art and Evolution of the Alphabet" on January 10 at the auditorium.

The manuscripts are to be placed on display at the auditorium again from January 2 through January 15.

Enough telephone wires are used in New York City to reach 35 times to the moon.

Will Roosevelt's Pathway Be Cleared By March 4?

The turn of the year finds congress in the midst of its "lame duck" session, grappling with a swarm of momentous and puzzling issues, and its success or failure in disposing of these problems will have a vital bearing upon Franklin D. Roosevelt's first year in the White House.

Lindy Kidnaping Clue Is Offered

New Highway Is Planned

Western Tier Of Counties In Panhandle To Get North And South Route If Plans Of Commission Perfected

(By The Associated Press)

HEREFORD, Dec. 24.—The extreme west rn tier of Panhandle counties has been promised a new highway, provided the counties interested will furnish a right-of-way 100 feet wide and grade it before turning it over to the state for maintenance.

The highway, 90 miles long, would run from Channing, in Hartley county by way of Vega and Hereford to Dimmitt, traversing four counties. It might later be extended by way of Littlefield to Lamesa.

Designation Ordered

The state highway commission has ordered designation of the road when, and if, its specifications have been met. Counties along the route already are seeking the right-of-way.

These counties, which until recent years have consisted largely of big ranches, have no north and south highway. At the present time, for instance, it is necessary for those traveling between Vega and Channing to go almost 100 miles by way of Amarillo. The new road would shorten the distance to about 40 miles.

William Eilers Rounding Out Fifty Years As Inspector Of Schools And Is Still At Job

GAINESVILLE, Dec. 24. (AP)—Rounding out 50 years as an educator, William Eilers, inspector of rural schools for the state department of education of Texas, is still very much on the job.

Eilers spends five days a week traveling over the highways and by-ways of Texas, searching out rural schools which have applied for state aid, in order to determine whether they have met the requirements to qualify for additional funds. He visits an average of six schools a day, and approximately 500 each term.

Began At Age Of 18

Eilers began his teaching career at the age of 18 in the Mule Spring school, now known as Boethel, seven miles north of Hallettsville, Texas. He taught school for 25 years, and for the past quarter of a century has engaged in other types of educational work.

He was employed in the office of the state superintendent for four years, under R. B. Cousins, served as county superintendent of Lavaca county schools for eight years, and for the past nine years has been a school inspector for the state department.

He is author of a handbook for superintendents and trustees and he sponsored the movement for establishment of teacher-ages or homes for teachers, owned by school districts and conveniently located near school buildings served.

Corsicana Sets The Stage For Title Battle With Masons

Town Is Agog Over Prospect Of A Victory

Orphans To Invade Corsicana Today; State Championship At Stake When Teams Meet Tomorrow Afternoon

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

CORSICANA, Dec. 24. (AP)—The biggest and best athletic even in history of this busy little city will be held Monday afternoon when the local high school Tigers battle the invading Masonic home team from Fort Worth for the 1932 Texas Interscholastic league Class A football championship. At least ten thousand people are expected to see the game. The gates will be thrown open at 1 o'clock Monday. Both teams have announced ready with their full strength. That means it is a battle to the finish between two scintillating offensive teams, and one really fine defensive team — that being the Corsicana Tigers.

Pierce Has Great Team

After being eliminated in the bi-district semifinals of 1930 and 1931, the Corsicana Tigers have finally reached the final round. Coach Johnny Pierce boasts one of the finest teams to yet represent Corsicana on the gridiron.

After winning the Class B regional championship for several years, Masonic Home was admitted to the Class A division this year. The Masons' success in reaching the final round has been phenomenal.

It is the first time in several years that the final championship game has not been played in a big city like Fort Worth, Dallas or Waco. The Abilene High school Eagles won the title last year by beating Beaumont, 13-0.

Corsicana is a slight favorite for the championship. Well balanced from wing to wing, strong defensively and stout offensively, the Corsicana boys have what the wiseacres call an advantage — that of playing in their back yard.

Put Hopes In McCall

It is the consensus that the Masons' hope for victory will rest on the ability of big Scott McCall, quarterback and all-round star. He is being referred to as the league's greatest football star. He scored the touchdown and booted the placement point last week that defeated Amarillo, 7-6. He is slow but powerful. It is the consensus that if McCall thunders Monday, the Masons will strike like lightning, but if he plays a mediocre ball game, the Masons will resemble an ordinary ball team. That's exactly how good McCall is alleged to be.

There isn't much difference in their weights. Masonic Home has a five-pound advantage. The Masons average 172 pounds to the man. The Tigers average 167. Remove the 225-pound Kelsey from the center position on the Masons' team, and the weight will stack about even.

Special Rules Govern

In the event of a tie game, the championship will be determined on the same rules as bi-district combats. That is, 20-yard penetrations, then first downs, and then yardage gained. Coach Pierce of Corsicana and Coach Russell of the Masons have agreed on this standard scholastic league rule.

The Masons planned to embark late Sunday afternoon for Corsicana. They will rest in the Navarro county city Sunday night, and be ready for their crucial test with the state championship in the balance.

Tigers Drill On Running And Aerial Grid Attack

CORSICANA, Dec. 24. (AP)—Emphasis was placed on a running and aerial attack today at the daily workout of the Corsicana Tigers who play host Monday to the Masonic Home football team from Fort Worth in the state high school championship game.

Warm, clear weather sent football enthusiasm upward and ticket sales increased rapidly. If present conditions continue, the field was expected to be in good shape for the titular clash.

Railroad officials announced that a special train would be run from Tyler Monday, bringing East Texas fans. A large number was expected from Athens. In addition to special trains from Fort Worth and interbans from Dallas, an extra train from Waco was being considered.

SPYING ON SPORTS

BY COLLIER PARRIS

ANOTHER ATTEMPT WILL BE made to get Lubbock in organized baseball. This time it looks like a good prospect. All that is needed is a bit of cooperation, which does not mean that the hat will be pased.

* * *

Marty Fiedler, owner, president and manager of the Albuquerque club, which was in the Texas-Arizona league last year, is in Lubbock to study the prospects. He has a good proposition. It sounds better than any we've heard. Mr. Fiedler, who once played baseball at Amarillo in the days of the West Texas league and who knows his baseball vegetables, will remain here through Monday, and will be glad to advance his proposition to business men who are interested and who will meet with him at Hotel Lubbock tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Mr. Fiedler tells us that Lubbock is very much desired as a member of the proposed Texas-New Mexico league, which may include Amarillo, Pampa, and San Angelo, as well as El Paso and Albuquerque. It is planned to make each team a farm for Pacific Coast and American League teams. With such support behind them, Lubbock baseball enthusiasts should be hopeful of greater baseball days here. We hope the Monday morning meeting at the hotel will be attended by a large number of business men.

Football Still Here; Colored Teams To Play

Lubbock Black Panthers Meet Frederick, Okla., Colored Gridders At Fair Park Tomorrow Afternoon At 3

The 1932 football season isn't over in Lubbock by several black eyes, yet, or for that matter, several black faces, limbs and torsos.

For at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon, tomorrow, the Lubbock Black Panthers meet the Frederick, Okla., Black Tigers in a gridiron contest at Fair Park.

Coach C. R. Sedberry of the Lubbock colored school team announced yesterday that negotiations with the Frederick club had resulted in agreement for the game here tomorrow.

Early For Panthers

While many schools and most teams have laid aside and most galla for the season, the Panthers' season is relatively young. Fields of white cotton constituted the fall and early winter training grounds for the Panthers, who were forced to remain out of school during the cotton harvest. Coach Sedberry gathered his crew about him several weeks ago, however, and started a practice campaign that finds the dusky athletes ready to get going.

Masonic Home and Corsicana High school are playing for the state schoolboy championship tomorrow at Corsicana, but it is doubtful if the players on either side will struggle and fight any harder or provide more real entertainment than will the Panthers and Tigers when they clash at the Fair Park gridiron.

Some More Sedberrys

The darky coach announced his probable starting lineup as follows:

Jack, left end; Archie, left tackle; Leo Sedberry, left guard; Douglas Sedberry, center; Frank, right guard; Boots Childress, right tackle, John Childress, right end; C. Sedberry, quarterback; Almo Sedberry, left halfback; Johnson, right half and Chock, fullback.

"Us Sedberrys are an athletic family," observed Coach Sedberry in naming his lineup. "I guess if there were seven more of us we'd just about have a Sedberry team."

Need Big Crowd

Admission to the game will be 40 cents and 20 cents.

"We want a big crowd of white people out there Monday," the mentor said. "We aren't trying to make any money, but we've guaranteed Frederick a couple of hundred dollars to come here, and we've just got to get that much. I can promise that the fans will not be disappointed.

ADKINS BOBS UP

Grady Adkins, former Chicago White Sox and St. Paul pitcher, has been purchased by Knoxville, in the Southern Association.

A Sweetwater, Tex., hunter was fined $31 for having in his possession a turkey hen with a beard. He thought it was a gobbler.

These Blazed Their Way Into 1932 Headlines

These seven were supreme in their specialties during the 12-month sport campaign just ending. Sarazen won both the British and American open golf crowns; Phar Lap won the $50,000 Augua Caliente Handicap, only to die on the eve of additional triumphs; Vines was supreme in world tennis; Foxx led the home run hitters of both leagues, setting an all-time record for right-handers; Harry Newman of Michigan was the year's outstanding footballer, and Jack Sharkey, the "Squire of Chesnut Hills," won the heavyweight title from Max Schmeling.

East And West Teams Workout

Pop Warner Looks On As East Squad Drills At Stanford; Dana Bible Works Western Squad At Berkeley

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 24. (AP)—On two neutral fields, far from the scene of their charity game here January 2, football stars of the East and West launched heavy practice programs today.

The day before Christmas was just another day of work. Coaches Andy Kerr of Colgate and Dick Hanley of Northwestern established headquarters at Stanford university and sent their Eastern charges through a stiff session this afternoon. Coaches Dana X. Bible of Nebraska and Orin Hollingbery of Washington State worked out the West team at Berkeley.

Warner Watches Workout

Coach Glenn Warner, who leaves Stanford to go to Temple university next year, was on hand to look over the talent assembled by his former assistant, Kerr, and his friend, Hanley. Warner was particularly interested in Harry Newman, Michigan quarterback, and Paul Moss, Purdue end, and offered the opinion "if that combination starts clicking it might make a bad day of it for the West."

Pending recovery of Joe Crowley, Yale half back laid up with a wrenched knee, the East lacks one man for two complete elevens. Because of Crowley's injury Jack Manders, Minnesota fullback who was scheduled to play a guard position for this game, was switched into the backfield lineup yesterday.

Babe Didrikson Is Silent About Plan For Future

CHICAGO, Dec. 24. (AP)—Mildred Babe (Mysterious Mildred) Didrikson, by a vote of the experts ranked as the world's greatest woman athlete, was located in Chicago tonight—just as she left for another unannounced destination.

Since she left St. Louis yesterday "going west," the Texas cyclone had managed to keep out of sight as she went about her business in Chicago, presumably the business of lining up professional contracts.

She was found at a loop hotel, accompanied by her sister, Esther, and had nothing but "hello" and a large grin as responses to questions. She had no further comment to make on her difficulties with the amateur athletic union and declined to be photographed. She had an appointment at the offices of a chain radio broadcasting company, but did not keep it and gave no explanation as to why she hadn't.

Babe, who captured two championships in the games of the tenth olympiad at Los Angeles, was suspended by the A.A.U. about three weeks ago for alleged violation of rules prohibiting endorsement of commercial products. The suspension was lifted this week after she had declared her intention of becoming a professional.

American Athletics Is Successful In Battle With Depression Through 1932 And Plans Big Doings In Coming Year

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 24. —Summed up for 1932, the Associated Press sports poll indicates the business of American athletics has successfully survived its most difficult period of depression and deflation, even though there won't be much in the way of dividends to be plucked off the Christmas tree tomorrow.

By weathering the financial storm, however, observers throughout the country seem to be convinced that sports in general have readjusted themselves already, on firmer footing, and that the new year will see a distinct revival of confidence, even if no substantial financial gains. The widespread program of retrenchment has demonstrated that operations can be conducted just as satisfactorily on a less elaborate and expensive scale than during the boom times.

Will Not Curtail Football

One of the certainties in prospect for 1933 is that the move to curtail intercollegiate athletics, especially football, in preference for intramural or "house" competition, will be discarded altogether.

Minor sports will be curtailed only because of any changes in policy by the colleges. Yale's advocacy of a "five-game" football slate, publicized last spring, has been dropped by the new Eli administration and the 1933 football schedules, in general, have been framed with an eye to box office appeal.

Here is a roundup of the results obtained in the several phases of the nationwide poll among sports editors and writers:

Leading performer—Men.

Gene Sarazen Leads

1. Gene Sarazen, golf, 53 votes; 2. Ellsworth Vines, tennis, 36 votes; 3. Eddie Tolan, 34 votes.

Leading performer—Women.

1. Babe Didrikson, track, 77 votes; 2. Helen Madison, swimming, 45 votes; 3. Helen Wills Moody, tennis, 21 votes.

Leading team performance.

1. New York Yankees, 100 votes; 2. Colgate, football, 33 votes; 3. Southern California, football, 28.

Biggest upset.

Here's Big Upset

1. Pittsburgh's defeat of Notre Dame, football, 43 votes; 2. Bill Carr's victories over Ben Eastman, track, 20 votes; 3. Notre Dame's victory over Army, football, 15 votes.

Sports best surviving conditions:

1. College football, 65 votes; 2. Professional baseball, 48 votes; 3. Golf, 35 votes.

Chief trends or developments:

1. Better shows for less money; 2. Economy programs; 3. Rules legislation to safeguard or better such sports as football and basketball.

THAT'S CUTTING DOWN

Charley Phil Rosenberg, in training down to fight Eddie "Cannonball" Martin for the bantomweight crown in 1925, went from 155 to 116 pounds.

Teams in the Knights of Columbus basketball league in Chicago where some of the fastest basketball in midwest independent ranks is played, have decided not to adopt the rules changes ordered for this season.

No Horsemen
Panthers' Ride Is Hurt To Pride

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 24. (AP) There are no "four horsemen," nor even one horseman on the University of Pittsburgh football squad.

Ten of the players slipped from their hotel this morning while Coach Sutherland was engaged and went horseback riding.

Warren Heller, who plunges opposing lines fearlessly, was described by his mates as "scared to death" in his first attempt to ride.

The lark ended abruptly after John Luch, reserve fullback, was dismounted unceremoniously landing on a cactus. He was pricked a bit, but not injured seriously.

Caretakers then demanded their horses, politely informing the players the animals were being treated too roughly.

Sutherland issued orders for no more horseback riding.

Davis Cup Team To Follow 1932 Practice Course

NEW YORK, Dec. 24. (AP)—A defense of methods used in training team and the prediction that the the 1932 United States Davis Cup cup will be won back from France in a year or two were made today by Bernon V. Prentice in his report to the United States Lawn Tennis association on his chairmanship of the cup committee.

"I am optimistic enough to predict," Prentice said, "that our players will win the Davis Cup for the United States within the next year or so if we adhere to the principles and practices advocated by your Davis Cup and executive committee with certain refinements that refinement that recent experience has indicated are both desirable andnecessary.

Stick To Old Schedule

"Your chairman is not of the opinion that our players were either over-trained or over-tennised last season and with certain amendments the committee is included to recommend a general adherence to the scheme and schedule of 1932.

Prentice and others charged with the conduct of the 1932 team were criticised rather widely for entering the team of Ellsworth Vines, Wilmer Allison, John Van Ryn, and Frank X. Shields in the Wimbledon tournament preceding the Davis Cup matches and in scheduling a rigorous training program right up to the date of the international contests. Some criticism also was directed at the committee for not taking the team abroad earlier in the summer to acclimate them to the soft French courts and ball.

Praises Sportsmanship

Prentice paid tribute to the sportsmanship and amendability of the United States players and dismissed with one sentence the charges of poor officiating by the French in the challenge round.

"Honest differences of opinion are bound to occur,' he said ". . . and your chairman and your players are disposed to dismiss this particular angle of our 1932 Davis Cup campaign without further comment."

Marty Fiedler Here To Hold Meeting Monday Morning

Lubbock may become a member of a Class D baseball league next spring if it accepts a proposition which will be made tomorrow morning by the president and owner of the Albuquerque Baseball club and a representative of the Pacific Coast league, Marty Fiedler.

Mr. Fiedler arrived here yesterday and soon succeeded in putting his proposition across to several prominent business and professional men. A meeting of all interested parties will be held in the ball room of Hotel Lubbock at 10 o'clock Monday morning, at which time Mr. Fiedler will explain in detail the plan he has been informed to explain.

A Six-Club Circuit

A baseball league composed of clubs in Albuquerque, El Paso, Amarillo, Pampa, Lubbock and San Angelo will be organized if the plan goes through. Each of the other towns has expressed a willingness to cooperate. Each club will serve as a farm, receiving farm support as other minor league clubs, for teams of the Pacific Coach league and probably of the American League. Representatives of the New York Yankees and Detroit Tigers have encouraged the project and have hinted of using certain clubs of the proposed league as farms. The farm system will be optional, however, to any club in the organization.

Major league clubs probably will take a definite step toward installing farms in this section as a result of the major league conference in New York last week at which time the "chain system" was given an official "o.k."

Want Big Attendance

Formation of the new league is an outgrowth of the Texas-Arizona league which operated last year with clubs at Albuquerque, El Paso, Bisbee and Tucson. It is held by Pacific and American league representatives that West Texas would prove a more flourishing spot for baseball.

It is hoped that a large number of business and professional men, prominent in Lubbock, will come to the meeting tomorrow morning.

FAR FROM HOME

Earl E. Leslie, alumnus of Oregon State College, is the new basketball coach of Penn State College this year.

WELL FIXED FOR 1933

Northwestern had four 200-pound tackles on this year's freshman team who will be ready for duty on the varsity next season.

PRETTY GOOD RECORD

Dr. F. C. Allen, coach of Kansas University's basketball squad for 16 years, has brought that school 10 Big Six basketball championships.

Clyde Usina, jr., shot a 485-yard par-five hole in two strokes at the West Palm Beach, Fla., country club golf course.

Coach Howard Jones Not So Cheery Today

Trojan Mentor Fears Boys Are Forgetting Power Of Pitt; Believes Outcome Of Game Hinges On Mental Attitude

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 24 — The night before Christmas found football Coach Howard Harding Jones of the University of Southern California team in anything but a benevolent mood so far as Pittsburgh and the Rose Tournament game were concerned.

But Troy's head man is a bit afraid that come January 2 his players still will be clinging to the spirit of yuletide and perhaps will present the game to the Panthers.

"It's pretty hard to figure the moods of thirty or forty players," said Jones. "But if they have the same attitude my boys did a year ago against Tulane we'll take a licking." He hastened to add that the breaks helped out his eleven last New Year's day.

"No Mood Last Year"

"The boys certainly were in no football mood a year ago, but they better be when we meet Pitt because the Panthers are every bit as good as was Tulane."

Coach Jones knows Pittsburgh is going to administer some of his team's own medicine in the way of quick-kicks. Both teams have used this weapon to advantage this year.

He realizes bothe teams are in possession of remarkable defensive ability and have offenses which strike quickly and accurately when the breaks come.

That leaves the situation, in his opinion, pretty much of a toss up with the outcome hinging on the possible mental attitude of the opposing players.

Pitt Coming Primed

"Pitt is coming here prime for revenge after that 47 to 14 defeat three years ago," Jones pointed out. "There will be no over confidence on its part. So far as phychology goes, we are in the hole as the result of the pre-game setup, and are in a fine position to take a beating."

Which feeling was echoed by Homer Griffith, Troy's great quarterback.

"I know we will be up against a tough team," said the modern Homer, "but I'm afraid most of the boys don't feel that way about it."

Jock Sutherland Wants Good Luck In Stockng

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 24. (AP) — When John Bain Sutherland hangs up his sock tonight it will be in the hope Santa Claus brings him a big package of good luck.

For it appears the University of Pittsburgh football coach believes only good luck will enable his Panthers to beat the Trojans of Southern California at the Pasadena Rose Bowl, January 2.

"Pittsburgh has as good a team as its record indicates," Sutherland said today. "But Southern California has a better record—and a better team. They deserve to win."

Ties On Record

Sutherland called attention to Pittsburgh's two scoreless tie games this season, against Ohio State and Nebraska, while the Trojans won all their games. Bill Kern, assistant coach, interposed to say he believed Pittsburgh found Notre Dame on an "off" day when they defeated the Irish 12-0.

Heavy work on the University of Arizona gridiron was the schedule for the Panthers again this afternoon. A third string eleven, using Southern California plays as reported by scouts, was sent against the regulars. This same method was used Friday afternoon and the result apparently was not pleasing to the big chief.

"They should have done better," Sutherland complained when he came away from the secret session.

Tomorrow morning the Panthers will go to church. In the afternoon they will be taken on a sightseeing trip into the desert. Their day will close with Christmas dinner.

Houston All-Stars Leave For Dallas For Big Game Monday

HOUSTON, Dec. 24. (AP) — The Houston all-stars, 38 players from the city's five high school football teams, will leave tomorrow for Dallas to meet a similar eleven in a post-season charity game Monday. The locals wound up their training today with a light drill, and the team was declared in top condition.

Coach Arnold Krichamer announced he would use a two unit system of play, with the units, each a complete team in itself, alternating quarters.

After playing in Dallas, the Houston squad will return here to meet Boys High of Atlanta, Georgia state champions, next Saturday in the fourth renewal of the annual post season charity game sponsored by Arabia Temple shrine and the Houston public schools. Proceeds will go into a fund for needy school children.

Chamber Raps School Action

Littlefield Chamber Adopts A Resolution Criticizing The Recommendation Of Committee To Legislature

Copies of the resolution which was adopted recently by the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce protesting changes in the character of Texas Technological college, have been received here.

M. B. Drake, publisher of the Lamb County Leader, has suggested newspapers and chambers of commerce get together and pass resolutions along this line.

Following is a copy of the resolution:

"WHEREAS the so-called Economy Committee of the Texas Legislature has recommended to the Legislature the wrecking of Texas Technological college at Lubbock by reducing its rank to a school of Liberal Arts, taking away all its agricultural and engineering courses, and giving them to Texas A. & M. college in South Texas, and giving its pre-medical and pre-law courses to Texas university at Austin, in South Central Texas;

"AND WHEREAS Texas Technological college was established in West Texas only after the imperative necessity of such a school in this territory, which had been evident for many years, and was forced upon the Texas Legislature by public-spirited citizens of West Texas after a long and determined campaign;

"AND WHEREAS all Texas should be and is proud of the record and growth in enrollment and prestige of Texas Tech in the seven years of its existence, it having had the most remarkable growth of any school in the United States during this period, and if left alone to develop and grow, with the vast empire of West Texas, which it serves, seems certainly destined to rank eventually as the greatest Technological school in America.

"AND WHEREAS the actual figures show that it costs less per pupil to maintain and conduct Texas Tech than any other school giving the same courses in Texas.

"AND WHEREAS the recommendations to wreck Texas Technological college is but another of the countless examples of selfish and flagrant discriminations against West Texas in every government department of the State.

"THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED:

"That the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce most emphatically, and with all the force at its command, condemn as obviously unfair to West Texas these recommendations, and demand that Texas Tech be permitted to continue to serve its vast territory unmolested, and that a copy of this resolution be sent to other chambers of commerce and newspapers in West Texas with a request that they join in a consistent movement to obtain a square deal for West Texas in this matter."

Garner Predicts Quorum Of Members In House Tuesday

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24. (AP) — Speaker Garner told newspapermen today he believed a quorum of house members would be present Tuesday for the first session following Christmas.

Garner said, however, that a call of the house would be ordered Tuesday and if it failed to establish a quorum, he would issue warrants for the arrest of absentee members.

"We have plenty of business to do," Garner said, "and the members should be here to do it."

The names of absentee members will be made public through a roll-call, he said.

Organization Of Four "Wing" Church Groups Of Asbury Church Is Started

First steps in the organization of four "wing" church groups, composed of members of the parent congregation, have been taken by the Asbury M. E. church here, with the organization of two congregations at school houses west of Lubbock.

Four young men of the Asbury church, all of whom are now studying to become ministers, will do the preaching. The young men are: Wilton Lynn, Noel Bryant, Buster Thompson and C. T. Jackson.

Southwest Ward Has Unit

One group has been organized at the school house known as the Southwest Ward school, south and west of Lubbock. Wilton Lynn preaches there every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. At Northwest Ward, on highway No. 7, Noel Bryant preaches at the same hour.

"Sunday school work has been going on at these schools and also the southeast and northeast wards for some time," Rev. O. W. Carter, pastor of the church, explained. "We are continuing this work and the other will supplement and strengthen it.

Plan Other Groups

"All of the work is being done under the supervision of our congregation. Our members in these sections are cooperating in every way. With the two already going we plan to start the other groups."

Once a quarter Reverend Watson plans to preach to each congregation. He is working with the four ministerial candidates and is aiding them in their work.

Rev. J. W. Watson, executive secretary of the Sunday school work in the Northwest conference, in speaking of the plan of the local church, said it represented what may be the solution to the problem of holding together church congregations with widely scattered members.

Rev. C. A. Bickley, presiding elder of the Lubbock district and other church leaders, also highly compliment the work.

Per capita lumber consumption in Tennessee in 1930 was 195 feet.

BERLIN, Dec. 24. (AP) —Forgetting elections, new chancellors, reparations and economic crises, Germany, home of the beaded St. Nicholas, the Christmas tree and many another holiday custom, plunged into the season this year with accustomed good cheer.

On Christmas eve youths go about the streets in many towns enacting the legend of St. Nicholas, who used to be the ill-tempered Wotan, major god of ancient Saxony, until old age mellowed him.

In Bavaria and the Tyrol the good old saint is accompanied by weird looking "budenmaneln." Going about a week or so before Christmas, they scare youngsters, but St. Nicholas reassures the children, telling them all will be well if they behave until Christmas.

Picture Stolen At Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 24. (AP) —With guards stationed at every door and a number of spectators walking through the long galleries, a thief cut a large prize-winning oil painting from its frame in the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and walked unnoticed from the building with the canvass.

The painting was "Portrait by Night," by Hilda Belcher, New York artist and magazine illustrator, who lent it to the academy after it won the Lippincott prize.

It is about four feet high and three feet wide, and shows a girl in a red dress, with the light of a fireplace reflected on her.

Police said the thief used a sharp knife which cut the canvas on a clean line, close to the edge of the frame. Detectives called ever guard and employe of the academy into a conference to compare notes on persons they had seen entering and leaving the building. Police refused to discuss the outcome of this meeting.

Philadelphia critics who have seen "Portrait by Night" said it was distinguished chiefly by the artist's treatment of light and shades. It is not, they said, an extremely valuable work.

Two Freed Of Fraud Charge

Another Defendant Enters A Plea Of Guilty And Is Given Prison Sentence From Federal Judge Wilson

FORT WORTH, Dec. 24. (AP) — Federal Judge Wilson today instructed a verdict of "not guilty" in the mail fraud cases of Arthur Heeman, attorney, and his co-defendant, Howard Lee, 24.

William S. Bailey, another defendant who had pleaded guilty to seven counts of mail fraud and one to conspiracy to commit fraud, was sentenced to two years in Leavenworth penitentiary on the first mail fraud charge and three years on the remaining six counts. The latter sentence was suspended.

Judge Wilson instructed a "not guilty" verdict in the conspiracy charge although Bailey had pleaded guilty to it. The charge against a fourth defendant, Walter B. Dow, was previously dismissed.

The men were charged in connection with a stock selling scheme of the organized investors company. The government had contended the company had received money for which no stock was returned.

Bailey told the court that it had not been his intention to commit fraud, but that bad breaks in the bond market had made it impossible to fulfill the obligations. He said the total loss was only about $3,500.

Laymen Assisting In Church Work In Lubbock Territory

Laymen of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A. in this section are assisting in the holding of services in localities where there are no regular pastors, as well as keeping up their own church work without a full time pastor, according to Rev. G. D. Robinson, field missionary for home missions, who lives here.

"Sunday schools are going on and laymen are managing them," Reverend Robison said. "Over at Brownfield, for example, they do not have a pastor but W. H. Dallas, a banker and an active layman, is superintendent of the Sunday school. At Littlefield laymen hold the morning service often in addition to the school work."

Held In Schools

In Hale county the Plainview church looks after the church at Runningwater, west of there while the Hale Center church looks after the Stoneback church. Services are held in school houses.

Rev. James Rayburn, pastor of the Slaton church, besides holding his own church services, frequently and regularly preaches at Posey and Morgan. In those communities there are a number of members of the Presbyterian faith. Services are held at school houses.

In the North Panhandle, particularly at Perryton, a similar work is going on. Solon Johnson, a layman, is heading the work, serving in the several communities around there.

Down at Post the church is without a regular pastor, but there are hopes of getting one. Laymen are carrying on the work. At Fluvanna and Snyder there are also churches.

The construction industry of the United States is the second largest in the country. In good times it was capitalized at $6,000,000,000 and employed 4,000,000 persons.

Babson Says Advertising And Selling Campaign Needed For 'Econo-Mania'

Expert Cites Chance For Increases In Business Now

BY ROGER W. BABSON
Copyright for Avalanche-Journal

BABSON PARK, Florida, Dec. 24. —Business is suffering from a new disease, which I call "Econo-mania"—a craze for economy. The effects are just like creeping paralysis, and unless checked, just as fatal. The cure a strong antidote of hard-hitting advertising and selling. Anybody who preaches "economy" today is just as crazy and dangerous as those who were preaching extravagance in 1929. To start the wheels of business rolling we must provide people not only with the purchasing medium but with the purchasing desire.

Roger Babson

Admittedly a great many people cannot buy more than they are now buying; but there are a great many others who can buy and won't. The reason they won't is because they have acquired the "economy complex". It has become fashionable now to stint and scrape, just as it was fashionable in 1929 to spend and splurge. The present attitude is like that of the rich woman who discharged her chauffeur in order to save his wages to give to the unemployment relief fund.

Advertising Campaigns Needed

Advertising has a great opportunity and an urgent duty to change the public fashion from false economy to constructive spending. The argument that you can't sell now because purchasing power is low is an argument of "defeatism." We can never bring back prosperity by such talk. The only way to increase purchasing power is to use the purchasing power we now have.

The way to pry loose hoarded dollars and put them into circulation and service is to create a strong desire to buy. That is the advertiser's and salesman's job. It is more than a matter of business profits; it is a matter of the well-being and prosperity of 123,000,000 people. Advertising in 1933 must be encouraged, expanded and improved. People must be inspired to buy the most at lowest prices instead of waiting to buy less at higher prices.

About the only things that have been thoroughly advertised for the past two years are "economy" and "depression." Now is the phychological time, with business gradually starting on the uptrend, to advertise "profitable spending" and "business recovery". If people can't be induced to buy more as a public duty to the unemployed then appeal to them on the basis of their own self-interest. Wholesale commodity prices are stabilizing preparatory to a real upturn. Current low prices for finished goods will be marked up as replacements have to be made at higher raw material prices.

A year from now consumers will recognize that advertisers gave good advice when they urged them to buy before prices rose instead of afterwards. Prices of clothing, food, furniture, automobiles, electricity, household appliances, drugs, and miscellaneous goods and services are now far lower than at the bottom of the 1921 depression and in many instances the lowest since 1915.

The dollars spent now are dollars of swollen value, but dollars hoarded now will shrink in value. The way to get the most for your money in this period is to spend it. As prices rise, goods, houses, land, securities and nearly everything else will appreciate, but mere money will depreciate.

Faster Circulation Required

"Purchasing power" is a much misunderstood term. Many think it means the amount of money in the country. They therefore argue that the only way to increase purchasing power is to print more money. I say that there is plenty of money in the country. The trouble is that much of it is not circulating. It is piled up in the banks, or hidden away in homes, and hence lost to active circulation. To get this money back into industry where it will start production and pay wages is the big job before the advertising and sales forces of the nation.

If every person with a job in the United States could be induced to spend only one dollar more per week during the coming year, the volume of business would be increased $10,000,000,000. Banks would release billions more to finance the purchase of commodities and equipment; industry would step up its rate of employment and production; payroll totals would increase, purchasing power would advance, and prosperity would return.

Hence I say that the real job before this country now is an advertising and selling job. It is so important to business recovery and to the nation's welfare that the Government would really be justified in subsidizing advertising and selling. These are certainly the two things the government should subsidize if it subsidizes anything. More people should be put onto sales and advertising work and a general movement should be started to induce those who can buy to do so. I cannot too strongly emphasize that purchasing power is dependent not on the amount of money, but on the rate at which it circulates. Increase the rate of circulation and you increase business, employment, earnings and purchasing power.

Use Idle Men To Sell

If I were the unemployment Mussolini of this country, I would organize and train an army of men and women now unemployed to present a nation-wide educational campaign to create a legitimate demand for goods. Some may say that most of the unemployed are unable to sell. I deny this statement. Such people are perhaps unfitted to influence business men; but they may be better able to influence their own neighbors than the business men are. Yes, give me a small portion of the money which public officials are today spending upon charity and let me use this money in giving a group of the unemployed supervised promotional work, and the demand for goods would immediately return. Before long business would be back again to normal.

Business as registered by the Babsonchart now stands at 16 per cent below a year ago.

Hattie Caraway Knows How Santa Feels With All His Request Letters

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24. (AP) — Senator Hattie Caraway knows just how Santa must feel—getting all those letters asking for things.

She herself gets as much mail as anybody else in the senate office building—100 to 300 letters a day—and they aren't much different from the ones written to the Christmas saint.

Take the one that the Caraway office chuckles most about, for instance: "I want to join the secret service. Please send me gun, badge, and handcuffs by return mail. I know something."

Some Get Results

And there's a large pile neatly labelled "clothes"—most of which can only elicit a sympathetic letter in reply, but some of which get more tangible results.

In a half dozen cases, Mrs. Caraway, touched by a human interest plea, has set her secretary, Garrett Whiteside, to assembling layettes for babies starting life in the cold weather.

Whiteside, who served 12 years as secretary to Senator Thaddeus Caraway before his wife took over the office, heartily cooperates, but said he didn't think any senator's secretary ever had such a chore before.

Thad Caraway first set the family record for large amount of mail. His correspondents kept right on writing to his wife—piling up in the office files, among other things 14,000 ex-service men's "cases."

First Woman Senator

To the general requests from the Arkansas constituency was added all those which arose by virtue of Mrs. Caraway being the first woman senator. Most of them concerned the forwarding of feminism, and they come from every state and nation.

A Democrat, she also is decidedly in the avalanche of letters asking for jobs with the coming change of administrations — "everything from ambassadorships to a place as a messenger boy."

The writers want everything changed, from postal rates up—and one man protesting 3-cent postage sent his letter air mail, without a stamp!

"I can't see how the raise in postage bothered him!" commented Mrs. Caraway as she paid the "postage due."

Patiently, she goes through her mail, and receives her reward in letters, perhaps with some words misspelled, and on rough paper, that tell some man or woman's life story with a compliment to Mrs. Caraway as being "sympathetic to the poor and needy."

YEAST FOR COWS

It has been found that feeding cows on irradiated yeast or other good scurces of vitamin D increases the vitamin D content of the cows milk fifteen to thirty times.

Youth Is Charged In Robbery Cases

DALLAS, Dec. 24. (AP) — Raymond Hamilton, 19, was indicted by the county grand jury today in the robbery with firearms cases and was no-billed in a fourth.

The true bills charged him with two robberies, on Nov. 25 and Oct. 8, of the First State bank at Cedar Hill, when a total of $3,219.02 was taken, and the robbery of Joe Neuhoff of $400 on Aug. 1 at a packing company office here. The no bill was returned in connection with the robbery of the interurban station at Grand Prairie, west of Dallas, for which he had been charged formally.

Hamilton was returned to Dallas recently from Bay City, Mich., where he was arrested with a companion at a skating rink.

China Worried By Intrigues

Recognized Government At Nanking Has Had Most Stormy Twelve Months In Its Existence

By MORRIS J. HARRIS

SHANGHAI, Dec. 24 (AP)—China, involved in the pressing world problem invoked by Japan's action in Manchuria, looks back over a year of constant domestic intrigue.

With political chieftains from Canton to Peiping concerned chiefly with their own fortunes, the recognized government at Naning had the most stormy twelve months of its existence.

Has Five Provinces

Today Chiang Kai-Shek, premier militarist of the country and nominal head of the government, dominates only the five provinces embraced in the lower Yangtse Valley. But he has 400,000 troops and, has the advantage of customs receipts here at Shanghai.

In the south General Chen Chi-Tang, as dictator of Canton and Kwantung and controller of the immensely valuable Pear river trade, is decidedly not pro-Nanking. In the last half of 1932 he has made his domain independent of any central government.

In North China, Chang Hsiao-Liang, erstwhile war lord of Manchuria, holds forth in Peiping. As the year neared an end there was talk that he and other leaders of that section might achieve a combine against Nanking for control of the territory north of the Yellow river.

of merrymakers. A German dance will begin at 12:05 a. m. Monday at the Hilton, and another is scheduled for Monday night at the dance palace.

Youngsters Curious

With the first light in the east this morning, Lubbock and South Plains youngsters skipped from their beds to see what Santa Claus in his annual migration from the North Pole had brought them.

Families at noon will gather for Christmas dinner, and relief agencies have seen to it that small indeed will be the number of families who will not have something savory for today.

Seventy bags of foods were distributed by the Lubbock corps of the Salvation Army Saturday afternoon, Mrs. W. T. Wilson said. Besides enough for Christmas dinner, the bags contained food for several days. In each bag these articles were placed: Roast or chicken, sack of potatoes, two sacks of meal, butter, coffee, canned milk, syrup, salt pork, bread, and a can each of tomatoes, corn, peas, and beans, lard and sugar. Last year 56 bags were distributed.

Scouts To Be Active

Boy Scout "good turns" today will bring food and gifts for several needy families. Most troops here have arranged for at least one family.

All United States veterans or their widows were remembered on Christmas by the Lubbock chapter of United Daughters of the Confederacy.

The city was arrayed in holiday garb, with downtown streets gayly lighted and store windows decorated in season. Sidewalks were lined with Christmas trees.

Holiday Here Monday

Monday will bring an additional holiday to hundreds here. Many stores, barber shops, offices of county officials, and other places of business will be closed. No window service will be offered at the postoffice.

The celebration, universal in its scope, centered in Bethlehem, where thousands of pilgrims made their way to the church of the nativity, there to kneel over the spot where the infant Jesus lay when the three wise men came bearing gifts of myrrh and incense.

In other parts of Europe and in the United States the activities assumed various complexions.

Has Especial Message

King George made plans to deliver a special message to his people from London in the afternoon of Christmas day, and in Paris thousands gathered to take part in the feasting and merrymaking that lasts from midnight to dawn. In Germany children gathered everywhere to talk of the toys and other presents they hoped to get, while in Australia the Parkhill Progress association ridiculed the Santa Claus idea because, the association said, the character impersonating St. Nicholas is "vile and despicable" in that he gives in abundance to those who have plenty but neglects those who have nothing."

The United States prepared for its usual cheery celebration, but almost everywhere this spirit was tempered by a desire on the part of those who have to share with those who have not.

Relief organizations worked feverishly getting together baskets of food and clothing for the needy — and in many cities children promised to share their toys with the less fortunate.

Clear Night In Texas

In Texas it was a clear night, after weeks of snow and rain, and it was a lot easier to point out the window pane that was just cold enough to get frosted when warm noses were pressed against it, and tell the story nearly 2,000 years old about the bright star that appeared in the heavens over the city of David.

And a chorus of thirty Temple business men found it such a fine Christmas eve night they walked the streets from midnight 'til dawn singing carols, while nurses trod gently through hospital corridors carrying lighted candles and singing. There were many ill with [illegible]. Elsewhere in that city [illegible] were made happy with [illegible] by the "Santa Pals." # Baby Key To Mother's Liberty

Baby Rita, holding the keys to the cell in which her 19-year-old mother, Mrs. Rita Bennett, shown with her, faced imprisonment, in Chicago, as a gun-girl proved to be a key to her mother's freedom. When Mrs. Bennett appeared before Chief Justice John Prystalski for sentence on her plea of guilty to helping rob a clothing store, the baby caused the court to temper justice with mercy. The mother was placed on probation for two years.

World's Largest Postoffice To Have Railroad Trains Running Through Its Basement, Planes Landing On Roof

CHICAGO, Dec. 24. (AP) — The world's largest postoffice had railroad trains running through its basement, a provision has been made for airplanes to land on the roof—and it is costing $21,000,000 to build.

A trip through the nearly completed building revealed that Uncle Sam has been no laggard in making things modern. For instance, there are 15 miles of wide conveyer belts capable of distributing 19,000,000 letters a day through the building.

Not until just before the Christmas rush of 1933 will decorators apply the finishing touches to the huge building, but postal employes will start working there in a few weeks.

Incidentally, efficiency experts have estimated the government would save in 10 years as much money as the building cost. Much of the economy will result from the proximity of the railroad trackage.

Architects and engineers hailed the building as representing the ultimate in public construction.

Here's what will happen to a letter that goes through the new postoffice: dumped from a truck or a train on a conveyer belt eight feet wide, taken to the ninth floor, thence started down on another conveyor, picked off by one of several hundred employes along the line, and tossed on another conveyor which eventually deposits it in the proper mail sack.

And there's even a device to close the mail sack and place it on a truck.

The entire structure has been built with the plan that some day small airplanes will carry mail from the municipal airport 10 miles away to a landing field 800 feet long and 300 feet wide—the size of the building—on the roof.

in Dr. Bevier's office yesterday, and the unexpected appearance of Dr. Bevier at his home Thursday with scratches on his face, a bruise under his right eye, and a torn necktie gave evidence Mrs. Elder had put up a fight for her life.

A note was found in the dentist's desk which read in part: "This d--n blackmailer got hers—me for river," and upon this note Chief Gerk based his theory the dentist drowned himself.

A toll collector on the municipal bridge told police a truck driver reported a man leaped from the bridge into the river yesterday. The truck driver's name was not known and police were seeking him tonight. The truck driver said the man wore a brown hat and coat, which corresponded with the description of Dr. Bevier's clothing. No report of a body in the river was received today, police said.

Daughter Of Baylor Prexy Wed At Belton On Saturday

BELTON, Dec. 24. (AP) — Miss Martha Hardy, daughter of President and Mrs. J. C. Hardy of Baylor college for women here, and Dr. D. R. Anderson, president of Wesleyan college, Macon, Ga., were married at noon today at the home of her parents here.

Rev. E. G. Townsend, dean of Baylor college, performed the ring ceremony in the presence of only the immediate families of the couple. Dr. and Mrs. Anderson will make their home at Macon.

Chimes in the gothic towers of the First Methodist in Fort Worth and the old First Presbyterian spire rang out with carols and there was cheer in the gaily lighted streets of San Antonio, varied tongues spoke a merry Christmas on the port docks at Houston and Mexican voices called out "feliz navidad!" in El Paso.

Miners Buried

skilled mine rescue men in the area were doing their best to dig through the coal, shale and rock separating them from the miners.

When the explosion occurred at 8:15 a. m., several workers near the opening heard the rumble and rushed to the open.

Less fortunate were the 52. Their avenue of escape was cut off by an avalanche of debris. The structures holding up the ceiling of the tunnels apparently crumpled. The trapped men ducked for protecting holes in the sides of tunnels and waited.

An Agonized Wait

It was an agonizing wait. First their comrades had to locate them. Then they must bore and chop their way through tons of debris to reach them.

The mine has the underground pattern of a huge "T." The opening is at the bottom of the "T" and it was somewhere near the intersection with the cross tunnel that the explosion occurred. Dirt, coal and rock obscured the intersection. It was through this wall of debris the rescue workers labored.

"It's terrible down there," said George Kenney, one of the rescue squad from Springfield. "You can hardly breathe, the air is so thick."

Telephone Set Up

A field telephone was set up, to give the underground rescue workers communication with those on the top. Eagerly the waiting crowd jammed near the field telephone.

"What do you hear? What do you hear?" was the incessant cry from relatives of the imprisoned men. Always came the answer, "nothing."

As workers on top pumped air into the shaft to benefit the rescue squads, officials expressed hope that some of the fresh air might seep through to where the trapped men were.

Yesterday there was a fire in the mine, but, mine officials said, it had nothing to do with the explosion today. The mine was adequately inspected, they said.

Mine Was Inspected

The mine, officials said, was inspected 30 minutes before the explosion this morning. Yesterday's fire was reported completely walled up and it was believed the place was safe for the workmen.

Shortly after 6 p. m., rescue squads tunneled to the intersection and met mute evidence of tragedy. Buried in debris they found two "mine trips," cars used for transportation by miners. Apparently the cars were the last to go in this morning and their human cargo was missing. Whether the men fled back in the recesses of the tunnel to safety was conjectural. No bodies were discovered.

Flares of light stabbed the gloom at the mine opening as the search went on in the darkness. Giant search lights were brought in to aid the workers.

But as hours passed with no signs of life from beneath the ground, Millhouse became pessimistic—unofficially. He wouldn't tell the relatives what he thought, he didn't want to break their forced bravery, but to newspaper men he said:

"I doubt if they'll come out alive."

Said J. E. Hickman, superintendent of the mine:

"There's not a chance."

Wichita Falls Man Seriously Injured In Street Car Crash

FORT WORTH, Dec. 24. (AP) — B. H. Brown, 38, Wichita Falls, was seriously hurt at 9:15 o'clock tonight, when his automobile collided head-on with a west bound Riverside street car.

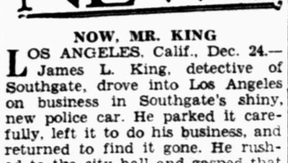

Brown, an insurance salesman, was alone. He received a deep gash on the left cheek, which almost touched his eye. His left arm was broken and he received a gash at the base of the skull and cuts on the chin.

Dr. and Mrs. E. Krueger of Austin arrived Saturday to spend the holidays with their son, Dr. J. T. Krueger and Mrs. Krueger, at 2219 Broadway.

Oddities in the NEWS

NOW, MR. KING

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 24.—James L. King, detective of Southgate, drove into Los Angeles on business in Southgate's shiny, new police car. He parked it carefully, left it to do his business, and returned to find it gone. He rushed to the city hall and gasped that his police car was stolen. Sirens shrieked as radio cruisers got on the job. And then King, remembering he was a detective, decided to sleuth himself. He returned to the scene of the crime and there, in all its newness, was the car, apparently untouched. King is still wondering whether he was dreaming.

WATCH THE DOGS

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 24. If you see a dog on your golf course, keep your eye on your golf balls. Players at Nibley Park course found a new racket involving a boy and a dog recently. The boy had trained the dog to run after balls that had been hit out of sight by players. The dog would bring the balls back to the boy and he'd pocket them. When a foursome caught the pair in the trick, both disappeared and haven't been seen since.

LAY OFFA OSCAR

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 24. — If you have any robberies coming up, see Oscar Ulmann, 21. Oscar is a good bet to stop them. In six weeks Ulmann has foiled three would-be robbers, and saved more than $10,000 thereby. His last heroic effort was his most exciting one.

He thwarted a pair of robbers who tried to take $3,000 from him in a rough and tumble battle. To escape he rolled under a moving auto, grabbed the running board with one hand, and was dragged up the street, clutching his money bag with the other hand.

SINGING IN THE RAIN

LONDON, Dec. 24. — St. John's church, Great Clacton, is in a bad condition. The roof leaks so badly that when it rains the congregation must either leave and seek shelter or stay and get wet.

The Rev. E. H. Shaw says he'll let church members bring umbrellas and raise them in church if they stay. So far no one has done it.

OINK! OINK! OINK!

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 24. Traffic in the heart of this city's business section came to a sudden halt. Automobile brakes squealed as policemen held up restraining hands. Not a driver knew what was the trouble—until down the middle of the street came a herdsman with 49 hogs and 75 or 100 goats in front of him. Street cars and automobiles waited several minutes for the animals to pass.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Dec. 24. — Bow-legged men owe a lot to Mrs. Mineola Koehne. It was revealed at the Indiana Federation of Business and Professional Women's

Stocks Firm Moderately Saturday As Pre-Holiday Movement Gets Underway

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 24. (AP) — Stocks firmed moderately today, in what looked like a routine pre-holiday technical movement.

Nevertheless, net gains ranging from a fraction to more than a point represented the market's best performance of the week. Although Wall street has had livelier Christmas parties, this one was probably as good as could have been expected under the circumstances.

Light short covering lifted shares at the opening and kept them higher through the sluggish two hours. With volume at 329,690 shares it was evident that professionals had provided most of the business; their covering for the three-day vacation probably accounted for a large percentage of this volume.

Freight car loadings, off 4,420 for the week ended Dec. 17, held up better than had been expected, though a sharp rise in coal shipments, which were 25,343 cars larger than in the previous week, took up slack elsewhere. Railroad stocks improved with other groups, Santa Fe and Union Pacific rising about a point while New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Southern Pacific, Canadian Pacific and Lackawanna returned fractional gains.

Grain

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Dec. 24. (AP)—Fair demand for wheat but slow for other offerings was reported on the Fort Worth cash grain market at the week-end.

Quotations ranged as follows, basis car loads on track at Fort Worth, freight paid to destination, delivered Texas Gulf ports, export rate, or Texas common points:
Wheat, No. 1 hard according to protein and billing 49 3-4@50 3-4. Barley: No. 2 nominally 31@32; No. 3 nominally 30@31.
Sorghums: No. 2 milo per 100 pounds according to color 60@65; No. 2 kaffir according to color 52@55.
Delivered Texas common points: Oats, No. 2 red 24 1-2@25 1-2; No. 3 red 23 1-2 @24 1-2.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 24. (AP) — Confronted by cold wave predictions for domestic winter wheat territory and by reports of continued crop deterioration southwest, grain markets averaged higher today.

In some quarters, stress was put on assertions that sellers of wheat future deliveries in Chicago were virtually giving away 5 cents a bushels for the privilege of being short. It was contended that Chicago May wheat should normally be at a premium of 5 cents over the cost of wheat from Kansas City laid down here. Instead, however, wheat available for immediate use brings 5 cents premium over Chicago futures.

Wheat closed from, 1-8 off to 3-8 up, compared with yesterday's finish, corn unchanged to 1-4 higher, oats at 1-8 decline to a shade advance, and provisions varying from 5 cents setback to a rise of 2 cents.

NEWS BRIEFS

Mrs. Clarence Symes' parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Clinton, of Waco, and her brother, W. B. Clinton, and Mrs. Clinton of San Angelo, are guests in the Symes home at 2405 Thirteenth street.

Dates Set For Hockley County's Poultry Exhibits

LEVELLAND, Dec. 24.—(Special)—Dates for the second annual Hockley County Poultry Show have been set for January 13-14, C. M. Elder, secretary of the Levelland chamber of commerce, states. The local civic group is behind the show this year and has invited poultry breeders in the county to enter birds.

H. B. Lansden of Lubbock, who judged the show last year, has been secured this year. Mr. Lansden will probably lecture to breeders and others on poultry topics.

The chamber of commerce, W. T. Magee, county agent and Miss Nannie Lee Hill, home demonstration agent, are cooperating in the show. Local poultry supply dealers and others also are cooperating.

"Our show last year was one of the best on the plains," W. J. Baldwin, editor of the Hockley County News and a strong supporter of the show, said. "It was an index of the rapid development of the poultry business in this section. Almost every farm in the country now boasts of blooded, high producing chickens and the income has reached an amount each year that has materially aided the farmers in the matter of producing a living during this period."

When you pick up this newspaper and read the announcements of Lubbock's merchants, or those of national advertisers, you need never think to question the sincerity and honesty of their statements.

This reliance on Advertising has been brought about by Advertising, and is one of Advertising's greatest contributions to the satisfaction and ease of modern living.

An advertiser deliberately attempting to deceive takes the quick, short road to ruin. The insincere or extravagant statement may have its brief day. But the greater the attention it attracts, the sooner the public will discover and destroy its deceit.

The cornerstone of successful shopkeeping always has been "keeping faith with the public"; give honest values and truthfully represent the merchandise and its service. This principle had to find its expression in Advertising—for Advertising is nothing more than the owner of a store or a factory talking with people in their homes about such things as shoes and soap, radios and rugs, blankets and bloomers.

It pays to read the advertisements. They are first-hand news of what is being invented, fashioned, and perfected in the workshops of the world for your well-being, comfort and convenience.

We do not desire to interrupt any of this but just to briefly say in all sincerity a real Merry Christmas—May you have Many More of Them.

Contest Moves Toward Climax

Three Of Five Democrats In Race For Speakership Of House Thought To Have A Lead; All Optimistic

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24 (AP)—The race for the speakership of the house in the 73rd congress appears to be moving toward a climax about the middle of January.

Already indications are the quietly conducted contest is centering upon three of five Democratic candidates but all are expectant of success.

Developments Awaited

State delegations are being canvassed by friends of the candidates. Although favorable reports are being received by each, a majority of the members are hesitating to make any definite commitment pending developments expected next month.

Usually in such races a perceptible swing toward one candidate develops several weeks before the Democratic caucus which selects a nominee. It generally is accepted that Representative Arnold, of Illinois, chairman of the party caucus, will assemble the membership of the new house about March 1, to make the selection.

The three members who apparently are in the lead and running an equally strong race are Representatives Rainey of Illinois, Democratic floor leader; Byrns of Tennessee, chairman of the appropriations committee, and McDuffie of Alabama, Democratic whip.

Representatives Rankin of Mississippi, chairman of the veterans committee, and Crosser of Ohio, who has the support of his state delegation, are other announced candidates. There is some talk about "dark horses" but unless a deadlock occurs among those already in the field, there is considerable doubt whether any other members will be entered.

Each of the candidates hopes to be successor to John N. Garner, who leaves the house in March, to become vice president and presiding officer of the senate. Garner was Demorratic leader before he ascended to the speakership in the present congress. He has said he intends to remain aloof from the speakership race, since he will not be a member of the new house.

All of the candidates are actively campaigning.

Representative Snell of New York, the Republican leader, is unopposed for the speakership nomination of his party but in view of the big Democratic majority in the next house there is no possibility of his election. In the next house there will be 313 Democrats, 117 Republicans and 5 Farmer Laborites.

Turkey By Ton Provided By Uncle Sam For Soldiers And Sailors Christmas

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24 (AP)—Turkey by the ton has been provided for Uncle Sam's soldiers' and sailors' Christmas dinner in far flung parts of the world.

Up the strange Yangtse river in China, under a summer sun in the Philippines and Panama canal zone, as well as in shivering Alaska, the doughboys, the bluejackets and the leathernecks are whetting their appetites to feast on Sunday on all the holiday good things shipped thousands of miles for their special benefit.

Have Trimmings, Too

Allowances were made months ago for from a pound to two pounds of turkey alone for every member of the forces in addition to all the traditional Christmas dinner trimmings.

Roughly, the army and navy dinner order this year, at home and abroad, calls for 220 tons of the bird which the Plymouth pilgrims started on the road to fame back in 1621.

Uncle Sam's bill for turkey this Christmas will approximate $100,000. And this is a saving compared with other recent holiday bills. For example, five years ago, the army and navy Christmas turkey cost nearly twice that sum.

By Government Edict

Turkey does not appear on the holiday menu just by chance or because of custom. It is put there by government edict.

Both the army and the navy regulations specify that turkey must be served Christmas as well as Thanksgiving day whether the cook likes it or not. While the turkeys are supplied by the government, many of the extras are furnished by the men themselves or from funds available through other sources.

A composite Christmas army and navy menu Sunday will be something like this:

Olives, sardines, celery, pickles.
Oyster stew, tomato soup.
Turkey, goose, roast beef, sliced ham.
Cranberry sauce.
Macaroni and cheese.
Sweet potatoes, baked potatoes.
Jam, apple butter.
Plum pudding, pumpkin pie, ice cream.
Nuts, candy, tea, coffee, chocolate, lemonade.

Approximately $1,500 Spent For Unemployment Last Week

Despite inclement weather last week, Reconstruction Finance corporation funds provided employment for about 370 men in Lubbock, it was said at the chamber of commerce.

Approxmately $1,500 was expended. Exact figures were unavailable because work cards of some of the men employed yesterday had not been turned in.

A record of the services of every man is kept at the chamber of commerce, including the place he worked, the time employed, the amount paid, and the check number. These records are open to the public, it was pointed out.

Highly Decorated Sword Is Owned By San Marcos Family

SAN MARCOS, Dec. 24. (AP)—A heavy, highly decorated sword given by the state of Kansas to one of its pioneer day United States marshals in appreciation for service, is a prized possession of the Donaldson family here.

I. B. Donaldson several years in Kansas after the civil war as a marshal and when he quit his post the state presented him the sword. He willed it to the male members of his family.

The handle and blade are lavishly decorated with gold. It is encased in a decorated scabbord and mahogany case.

Donaldson died several years ago at the age of 99.

Food Supply Program Of Farm Women Is Outstanding During Year In Extension Activities

Year's Report Is Compiled By Miss Isla Mae Chitwood To Show Results Of Work; Many Projects Followed

FARM food supply projects of Lubbock County Home Demonstration clubs were outstanding in the program for 1932. This has been indicated in the year's report of work compiled by Miss Isla Mae Chitwood, county home demonstration agent, during the last few days.

In these projects, 367 county club women preserved foods by home demonstration methods. Through these women and others in club work, 1,591 farm families, or 86.01 percent of the total number of farm families in the county, were helped during the past twelve months, according to her records.

The farm food supply program was not all of the home demonstration work for the year. There were wardrobe improvements, home interior improvements, home gardens and yard improvements and the establishment of a market for standardized products that the club women produced.

In the farm food supply program, county women worked on budgets, raising and preserving the foods their families would need during the year. While all of the county women did not produce and preserve enough to supply their needs, there were many who did.

The 367 following the outlined program preserved foods valued at $65,584.40. Their pantries now contain canned fruits and fruit juices, canned and dried vegetables, jellies, pickles, relishes, meats and other products to supply balanced rations for their families.

Many Sell Products

Many women sold farm products during the year. Seven women in the county, known as home industries demonstrators, received $1,-063.90 with a profit of $582.43. Their sales included fresh and canned vegetables, eggs, cookies, butter, meats and other farm products—all of which met certain standards required certain standards required of the extension service.

Women designated as demonstrators in the county extension program are certain ones who agree to follow a prescribed program and who work with the county agent,

Patou Says Color Study Helps Frock

Two colors are far more than twice as effective as one, when Jean Patou uses them. (Left to right) In this beguiling gown, Patou uses two tones of gray, with the dark color skilfully continuing down the skirt to supply the illusion of length. It also caps one arm, slenderizing the shoulders. For a formal evening gown, Patou touches up a mediaeval brown satin gown with his tea rose tone. He uses the tea rose to deftly mark his new long waist line which caused such a sensation this fall. In this evening gown of violet crepe de chine, Patou uses fuchsia crepe de chine to enhance the cut and line. The fuchsia fashions the V neckline, continuing down the back to slant down across the front hipline, thus slendering it. It also flashes the side flaring lengths of the skirt.

Two Colors Are Twice As Effective As One, Says Style Expert; Almost Any Effect May Be Created By Coloring

By JEAN PATOU

Written for NEA Service

Paris, Dec. 24.—Color has always played a very important part in the creation of my models. The fact that I study every season, sometimes as far ahead as six or eight months, the choice of two or three colors in unusual shades, yet in prefect harmony, is the best example I can offer. Generally speaking, however, color occupies the same place and is equally as important in style creation, though perhaps under a less oc? tentatious form than I give to it.

I have always considered that a gown fashioned of a plain and unicolored fabric corresponded, if it is not too daring to establish here a parallel between art and dress creating, a line drawing whereas the adjunction of color assimilated the result to a painting. As in a painting, the effect of adding color gives a dress something more than a merely decorative touch. If, on the other hand, color in a painting strives to produce a third dimension which actually is present in a dress, it very obviously sets the latter off considerably.

The color scale is a pretty complex one. Colors may be so mingled as to make their harmony the paramount subject of interest, or again, the use of color may be considered in a less important role as the element supplying the touch of "spice" to a dress which otherwise would present a somewhat flat appearance, but as such it must be dosed with a great sense of measure.

In some cases a touch of contrasting color will be sufficient to give the model the indispensable note of gaity. In others, color offers the possibility of underlining with greater force the details and technique of cut and confirming the characteristics of the dress in a more forcible manner. Conjugated with the cut, the general effect is increased tenfold.

The possibility in this field of color and color combinations are vast, but it also presents almost as many pitfalls. It is in the avoidance of the many dangers and in the accomplishment of something successful and beautiful that a courturier finds the satisfaction of his art.

Many models in my present collection evidence this extensive study of color. The novelty presented by my new line is enhanced and underlined in a great measure by combining two and sometimes three colors. So are the intricacies of cut and study of dimensions.

Daytime Soft Shade

Daytime is a soft shade of pure beige created especially, so a clerk said, for the new beige tones and is excellent with blues and coral colors.

Sundown is a tannish tone with a hint of yellow. It is recommended in sheer styles for evening wear. It should be good as a contrast to white and light colored ensembles.

Twilight is a subtle skin tone with a light tan caste suitable for wear with all the new pastel colors and the brilliant tones of blue, red and green. This is also a good evening shade.

Dusk is a deep sun-bronze shade, recommended by a local hosiery salesman for the deeper beige. It is the one shade of all the spring colors that is suitable for those who are not blessed with dainty little legs. Dusk is the best all round tone of the bunch because it goes nicely with black as well as white and the pastel colors.

Gray Is Good Tone

Gray is the firth shade. It is designed to match the deluge of gray ensembles that has swept the country. Gray will be good all spring, according to local saleswomen, and although the beige tones are a nice contrast for grayish frocks—especially those trimmed in pastel colors—gray hosiery is excellent with dresses and suits of the same color. Gray is also a popular combination with certain shades of light blue.

The new shades are apparently away from the purplish element found in the darker winter tones which turns the stockings into a sick looking pink color after a few washings. One clerk's opinion was that the color change was due to a certain pigment used in the dying process rather than to the quality of silk.

She had heard complaints on her more expensive stockings in this respect. That is good news to those of us who find one dollar, or less than a dollar, hosiery practical. Now the problem is to detect that certain purple color element that refuses to stand up in the laundry!

Patent leather, in accessories will try to replace suede for spring. Patent leather regent pumps, bags, belts and hat trimmings are scheduled to meet with great popularity, said a buyer for a local ready-to-wear department.

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

BEST you forget what this day is and how long it has been celebrated and where some of the Christmas customs originated, some information has been gleaned for today's column.

Christmas is the festival of the nativity of Christ observed by the Christian church yearly on December 25. When the first efforts were made to fix the period of the year when the advent took place, there were, as we learn from Clement of Alexandria, advocates for the 20th of May and for the 20th and 21st of April. The Oriental Christians generally were of the opinion that both the birth and baptism of Jesus took place on January 6. Julian I., Bishop of Rome from A. D. 337-352, contended for December 25, a view to which the Eastern Church ultimately came round, while the Church of the West adopted from the brethern in the East the view that the baptism took place on January 6.

When the festival was at length set in December, it affored a substitute to the various nations who had observed a festival of rejoicing that the shortest day of the year had passed, besides spanning over the great interval between Whitsuntide of one year and Good Friday of the next. Coming to the Roman Christian converts, in lieu of the saturnalia, to which they had been accustomed while yet they were heathens, its purity became sullied almost at the first by revelry which had crept into it from this source.

ORIGIN OF CUSTOMS

THIS custom we have of giving gifts at Christmas is said to be very ancient and is believed to be of Teutonic origin. In Latin countries gifts were exchanged at New Year in past ages, according to those who have made a research.

The decoration of churches and homes with mistletoe and holly is a survival of pagan days and several other customs are supposed to survive from pre-Christian eras.

Carol singing is an old British custom—the waifs, or strolling street musicians having first done this singing. The Yule log and other symbols of Christmas are relics of Druidism.

The "Christmas Tree" has its origin in Germany. The dark-leafed fir trees have flourished for many centuries in North Germany and it was in this section that Christmas trees were first used. However, the use of trees for festivals dates back to the pre-Christian days. The early Egyptians used to employ decorated trees in their festive season celebrations. England did not adopt the Christmas tree until the middle of the last century.

It is said that the custom of hanging evergreens in the house during the Christmas season originally had a purpose beyond that of decoration. In former days each kind of evergreen was thought to confer a special blessing on those who passed beneath its boughs. Holly insured good fortune throughout the year, bay meant victory, while laurel was supposed to impart a spirit of beauty and poetry.

One hundred years ago people were not receiving Christmas cards as you have been doing recently. The first card is supposed to have been sent in 1843.

A card, which was printed for Sir Henry Cole, first director of the South Kensington museum in London, is supposed to have been the first one issued.

HAS MANY NAMES

OUR Santa Claus has many names in many lands. In Germany and Norway he is old Kris Kringle and he hides gifts for children in many out of the way places. Christmas day is spent chiefly in hunting for them. In Holland Saint Nicholas dispenses Christmas cheer. In Sweden Santa Claus is much like he is in America but he does not come down the chimney. In the night he comes into the room where the Christmas tree is and leaves gifts for all. His name is not Santa Claus, however, for he is called "The Christmas Man."

Santa Claus is a contraction of Saint Nicholas, according to one source of information. Nicholas was a bishop of Myra or Smyrna in Asia Minor in about 300 A. D. He was the patron saint of old Russia and was believed to offer special protection and comfort to "sea-faring men, thieves, virgins and children." His affection for children was based on the assertion that he brought back to life three schoolboys who had been murdered.

So your Christmas and mine, one of our Christian festivals, has in it the elements of paganism. Much of the origin of the celebration is veiled in mystery. Customs today have come from many countries and many people. Combined, these elements mean happiness and good will—things I wish for you today. A Merry Christmas!

'Adoption By Religion' Controls Waifs' Futures

There are hundreds of foundlings, like these above, left on door steps, sub way stations and check rooms in New York City annually. And it is for these that religious precautions have been taken.

BY HELEN WELSHIMER
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—Adopting a baby in New York isn't the simple process that most people think it is. You can't walk into a ward at a children's home and say: "I'll take that one, please!"

But you must prove that your religion is right as well as your character, bank book, inheritance and other salient factors.

If religion and adoption didn't have so much in common little Susan Gill, whose birthdays still are counted in weeks, would not have caused such a controversy over Manhattan adoption laws.

Susan Gill, of course, isn't her real name, for she is a foundling left on the doorstep of Mrs. Hugo Connor's home. Mrs. Connor is a Jewess, and once she had turned over the child to the Department of Public Welfare, could not adopt the child because little Susan already had been baptized a Catholic.

Must Be Ticketed

Back of that baptism there is a story of social procedure.

Last March welfare organizations worked out a ruling whereby Jewish institutions receive infants of Semitic origin. The others, when a month or so of investigation fails to reveal their own religious background, are ticketed alternately Protestant and Catholic. When a baby is christened in one religion it may not be adopted into a home of the opposite faith.

Little Susan, being christened a Catholic, therefore could not be adopted by Mrs. Connor, a Jewess, unless the courts decided against the welfare group rulings.

The foundling problem is a severe one in New York. The survey made by the Department of Public Welfare shows the number of foundlings, abandoned babies, and children from unmarried mothers, totaled 1952 for the year 1931. There were 1678 of them in 1930, and 1185 in 1929.

Infants usually are abandoned during the night. Once in a while a baby has on a dress with some embroidery or lace. As a rule, though, there isn't even a plain unadorned frock. Just a blanket. Sometimes the children are left in subway trains.

If a baby is found in Manhattan, the Bronx, or Richmond it goes to the New York Foundling Hospital, which is a Catholic organization. If it is found in Brooklyn or Queens it becomes the immediate problem of the Brooklyn Nursery and Infants' Association, which is Protestant. Both institutions follow the rule of alternating Catholic and Protestant baptisms.

So far in December 20 families have come to the adoption committee to find children. And there are many, many more demands for girls than for boys!

"The state law for charities provides a shelter in institutions that are either Roman Catholic or Protestant, so waifs must be christened one or the other to be entered," Miss Sophie Van S. Theis, secretary of the State Charities Aid Association explains. "That is why a foundling whose parentage is unknown is arbitrarily baptized by the city as Catholic or Protestant, turn about and fair play for each faith.

Applies To All

"It makes no difference whether the child is white or Negro in deciding its religion, and we cannot turn a child over to the Jewish charity organizations even if it looks obviously Jewish to us and the rabbi, too."

As a rule there is no trouble about adoption. Anybody wanting a child goes to the institutions where those who have his religious convictions—real or thrust upon them—are housed. But when an infant appears on a doorstep and the mistress of the house wants it—that is a different matter.

A. V. Appleton, statistican at the New York Foundling Hospital, does not approve of permitting Mrs. Connor to adopt Susan.

"She would be reared as a Catholic but she would be aware that her mother followed a different religion. In time she would grow confused of any kind," he says.

"Futhermore, the State Board of Social Health made this rule. It is never broken. It isn't even possible to board a child in a family of another religion after it reaches a couple years of age."

Miss Eudora Davies, a director of the Department of Welfare, likewise wouldn't change Susan's religion. If an exception were made this time, she insists, the Jewish group would claim any child it wanted, thus exercising the power of selection, a privilege which Catholics and Protestants do not have.

The New York Public Welfare Law protects a child's religious faith once it has been given to it. It cannot be changed.

taking much that they learn back to the club women in their communities.

Other projects of club women included wardrobe programs. Women of the county made garments valued at $8,175.65 as a part of their club projects. This work, too, was done with the aim of meeting the needs of families—supplying them with the garments they needed and in keeping with the family income.

Farm homes have been made more comfortable and convenient in the club program, also. One hundred and thirty-three farm women improved their bedrooms during the year. Walls and woodwork were refinished or cleaned, floors were varnished or waxed or in other ways improved. Closets were made or furnished and furniture was renovated.

Specialists Conduct Classes

Several home industries specialists came here during the year and conducted short courses for the benefit of county women. There was a rug making school early in the year in which the women learned how to make various types of rugs. There was a baking school in September and there were specialists here to help with the establishment of the farm women's market.

In addition to helping the women bring their products up to specified standards for sale, they helped the women to make their home consumption products better.

Women's home demonstration clubs in the county and the enrollments are as follows: Becton, 23; Broadview, 17; Carlisle, 28; City Line, 20; County Line, 27; Hardy, 20; Hurlwood, 21; Idalou, 77; Liberty, 26; McClung, 11; New Hope, 19; Union, 21; Wolfforth, 25; Acuff, 27.

There were 4-H club girls in the county working through an extension program during the year, in addition to the women.

Profit On Gardens

A total of 137 girls had garden projects and made a profit of $9,147.81. This sum included the amount consumed, sold and canned from their gardens. The profits were estimated after the sum of $1,215.40 had been subtracted for garden costs.

Girls' club members entered a program of yard improvement, planting shrubs and trees and making other improvements according to landscaping plans that they have drawn up to cover a period of years.

Girls' clubs in the county with their enrollments are as follows: Acuff, 20; Becton, 21; Center, 22; County Line, 11; Foster, 18; Hardy, 7; Hurlwood, 11; Liberty, 13; New Hope, 16; Shallowater, 19; Union 16.

Women in the county, outside those in the clubs, were reached through an expansion program of the county council, an organization made up of representatives from the clubs.

Christmas

CHRISTMAS is upon us once again, another milestone in the varied journeys that we take as we press on to varied goals.

The years no longer loaf in their passing as they did when we were children. They speed by now and leave their marks upon us. So busy are our hands and heads in the eternal task of finding means to provide food and warmth and shelter, that time has become a mill-race that sweeps us on to the end of our course. There are many stations along the way. And the most hopeful of all of them is Christmas, for it is the Christmas spirit that descends upon us and saves us from ourselves.

The grind of business wearies our brains. The disappointments make heavy our hearts. The greed we nuture within us makes us selfish. Our ego, prompted by our longings, destroys our concern for others. And then comes Christmas and purges us of our hates and our lack of faith in our kind. Without this season of good will we would become sordid indeed.

The most hopeless, hapless, helpless individual in all the world is the unbeliever—the unbeliever in everything that is worth while—the individual who does not believe in man; who does not believe in woman, who frowns at ideals, who mocks at faith; who scorns love as a weakness and who worships at the shrine of Self. He goes his lonely, unlighted way, snatching at gems and discovering that they are only dross when he finds them in his hand. For happiness does not depend on what we wrest from the world. Happiness depends upon ability to enjoy. And we can enjoy the things we have only to the degree in which we are permitted to share them with others.

The writer chanced to study faces in this Christmas shopping season.

Did you see that white-haired old man, whose step was slow, whose hands were palsied, but whose eyes were bright with a light that was but a reflection of the spark of gladness that nestled in his soul and warned him and made him content. A grandfather, perhaps! Some place a child was standing by a window, dreaming of the generous-hearted Santa Claus concerning whom Grandpa had told wonderous stories. How slowly the days must have crept by for this child!

You know how it is. You know if you ever had a child in your home at Christmas time.

The old man in the department store was dreaming of that child as he inspected a doll or a wooly little dog or this or that. Before so very long, perhaps, a shadowy figure—the figure of death—will stand at his bedside and touch his forehead and say, "Come, come with me." But that day he lived. No king in all his glory has ever wrung from life a joy that was deeper than his joy as he stood in a tiny city of toys and chuckled at a vision of Christmas morning.

What if the road he had traveled had been hard? Has he not found a reward in a child who runs her fingers through his soft, white hair as she snuggles in his arms when story-telling time has come? Perhaps there has been days when his tongue was sharp, when his heart was hard, but whatever venom there may have been on his tongue is dissolved now, and a song sings in his heart. For Christmas is here, "Good Will Toward Men," and good will toward boys and good will toward little girls who stands at windows and dream of Santa Claus.

Thus are we reclaimed at Christmas time—reclaimed from ourselves, our worst enemies. Thus is the course of our sordid selfishness interrupted, so that we emerge from the Christmas season better equipped morally to go our way.

It isn't the gift that we give that counts. It's the gift that we receive through giving that makes of Christmas a season of joy.

Debt Action Aids England

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—England is the one country which seems likely to profit in the long run, from France's deliberate default in payment of current interest on the Gallic war debt to the United States.

Charles P. Stewart

America naturally does not profit by it.

It already is apparent that France will not. French securities slumped simultaneously with announcement of the chamber of deputies' vote to repudiate Dec. 15's national obligation to Uncle Sam. Germany's leading newspapers hasten to advance the argument that the Paris government's disregard of its financial pledge nullifies the treaty of Versailles. Repercussions to the disadvantage of French credit are noticeable in every direction, the world over, in short.

IN THE MIDST of this situation English integrity is all the more obvious by very reason of such a contrast.

True, the Italian bill, too, was paid on the nail, as were Czechoslovakia's, Finland's, Latvia's and Lithuania's, but the amounts, none exceeding a million and a half, were too small to attract attention in comparison with England's thumping $95,550,000 item, in solid gold.

On the opposite hand Belgium, Poland, Greece, Hungary and Esthonia, which defaulted, as well as France, virtually escaped criticism, on the theory that they doubtless really were unable to help themselves; whereas no one questioned that the $19,261,432 due from them was a mere trifle to the French, the richest people on earth, per capita.

THE ENGLISH, while far too reliable folk to stoop to anything like repudiation, themselves were exceedingly anxious to have a stiff reduction in their $95,550,000 payment accorded to them.

And indeed, if any nation is entitled to a modicum of consideration on account of its war debts, it is England.

Not that the British did not get a liberal settlement. They did; very liberal. Still, it was not nearly as liberal as the French secured, or the other members of the allied group of countries. Comparatively, maybe they have a little justification for feeling that they were discriminated against.

Nevertheless, congress has shown no inclination (there is no knowing what hints President Hoover may have thrown out, but they are worthless minus congressional indorsement) to grant further reductions, let alone cancellation.

THE ENGLISH, then, clearly were in the position of wishing earnestly for some development of a nature to force a war debt discussion.

They must have been aware (the press has mentioned it often enough) that many Americans think it a trifle unfair to make them pay off at a higher rate than the French. Probably they reasoned that, a discussion once being started, they would be advantageously placed to demand cuts at least down to the French level.

Their great difficulty was to get the discussion a-going—the American attitude being, "We have discussed war debts all we care to."

Of course it was plain to be seen that repudiation of its war obligations by one of the major debtor powers would open up the whole subject, immediately and unavoidably—but it is not hard to guess that the astute English did not choose to incur the odium of repudiating.

IT IS NO SECRET that the English and French were in closest confabulation relative to one another's war debt policies up almost until the date for the recent payment to be made.

The English affected to be rather shocked at the course the French finally adopted, but it is a bit surprising if they had no davance inkling of it.

Anyway, the French did renege.

And it is as plain as print, who if anyone, will get the benefit of it.

Not the French; surely few folk will contend that the American people are now in a frame of mind to yield anything to them—or have much more to do with them unless and until they redeem themselves.

But England? There she stands, the same old beacon light of financial dependability, except about 1,000,000 candle-power brighter by contrast.

If we fail to slash HER debt to the bone, we are pretty unappreciative.

One has to take one's hat off to British diplomacy.

A YEAR OF 135 "WEEKS"

A magazine has listed and classified 135 "dedicated weeks" in a year. Since the holidays, Easter week and a few others are regarded as undesirable for purposes of propaganda because of their traditional observance, it is probable that every week with these exceptions is trebly distinguished by the high purposes to which it is dedicated. That, of course, includes every day as well, and the calendar of events is further encumbered by legal holidays and "special" days.

The consequence has been that no proclamation or appeal, however meritorious, arrests much attention any more. So greatly has this originally clever and effective idea been overworked that such worthy institutions as "Fire Prevention Week" suffers a loss of public interest.

EXPLANATION OF SATURDAY'S CARTOON

FACE TO FACE WITH SANTA CLAUS

I felt very solemn when only a month ago I stood silently before the tomb of the great patron of children in the Church of San Nicola in Bari, Italy. Here beneath the silver altar of the church are buried the bones of Saint Nicholas, who died at his Bishopric in Myra, Asia, on December 6th, 342 A. D. The mortal remains of the Saint were carried away on May 9th, 1087, and brought here to be interred in the crypt. The patron saint of many picturesque and varied vocations is chiefly remembered for his association with Christmas, but here in his adopted home town, the Day of Santa Claus is curiously enough not Christmas, but May 8th, when great crowds of pilgrims celebrate his festival with splendor and piety.

MUSSOLINI'S RECORD

The present dictator of Italy, who left his native country in 1904, had many unpleasant encounters with the police of Switzerland, France, and Austria, in addition to the police authorities of his native Italy. For "fomenting strikes", for being a "tramp without any means of subsistence" for "falsifying his passport", and for political delinquencies, Mussolini was arrested eleven times. In addition to minor terms, he served a year in the jail of Forli and five months in Milan. He was expelled from Switzerland five times, and from Austria and France once. Not until he was Prime Minister of Italy did the authorities of Zurich remove his likeness from the Rogues Gallery to make it possible for him to come to Lausanne.

SANTA CLAUS THE FIRST IMMIGRANT

In 1623 thirty Walloon families living in Amsterdam arrived in what is now Greater New York in the good ship "Nieuw Nederland", under Captain May, skipper. They were the first immigrants to settle permanently in this part of the New World, but they were preceded into the harbor by the figurehead of their ship, representing the well-known Santa Claus (Saint Nicholas) of Christmas fame. He came and saw and conquered, and now is our annual guest on the Eve of the Festival of Peace.

THE NEW BOOKS

Booth Tarkington, Phillip Gibbs, Prince Von Bulow, Somerset Maughan And James Hilton Contribute To Week's Offering Of New Books; "Ill Wind" By Hilton Is Ingenius Yarn

A brace of novels as different as well could be bobs up this week. First arrives Booth Tarkington's "Walton Mally"; (Doubleday, Doran & Co.); close behind is "The Anxious Days" (Doubleday, Doran) by Philip Gibbs (of the writing Gibbses).

"Wanton Mally" is not the name of a person, but of a place. And the book is not the usual Tarkington opus detailing the day-by-day life of day-by-day Americans, but a costume affair of velvet upholstered cavaliers, unpredicatable ladies, and some of the Zounds! 'sdeath! atmosphere.

Is In Style

Like everything Tarkington, it is ingratiatingly written and carried off in style.

Mr. Gibbs ushers through the recently contemporaneous scene the charming English commander of middle age (all English commanders in English books are charming), his puzzled but brave daughter and her brave but puzzled friends. By now it should be obvious that Mr. Gibbs is out to show what the depression has done to good old damp England, and that is true.

Alas, so good a novel deserves less hackneyed inhabitants.

Volume Four Memoirs

THE first three volumes of the "Memoirs of Prince von Bulow" were highly valuable for the revelations they made of European politics. As chancellor of the German empire before the war, Bulow was in a position to tell secrets and to make pungent criticisms, and his writings were of vast importance.

Volume Four is now available; and it dips back to tell the first part of the late chancellor's story, the part which the other three volumes passed over—the story of his boyhood, his young manhood and his early years as a fledgling diplomat.

Humanly Interesting

It lacks, consequently, the historical importance of the other books. But in some ways it is more humanly interesting, for it gives a sentimental picture of an era that has vanished, the era when the German empire was young and lusty, when young officers could be sure that to serve the kaiser was the greatest privilege a man could ask.

Bulow was a child of his time. He gives the most entertainment, perhaps, in describing his experiences in the Franco-Prussian war. Here we get a story-book war—gallantry, self-conscious heroism, gay trappings and inspiring bugle calls.

The atmosphere that shaped Bulow's youth is extinct as the dodo now. But it exists in this book, romantic, rather wistful, appealing.

Volume Four of the Memoirs, published by Little, Brown and Co., is priced at $5.

From Far Away Malay

IN "The Narrow Corner," Somerset Maugham, takes a straightaway story of a somewhat stupid young man's entanglement with two women and gives it an exotic and romantic appeal by setting it in the faraway islands of the Malay peninsula.

In its essence, "The Narrow Corner" is simply the story of young Fred Blake, son of an Australian politician. Fred gets entangled at home with a married woman twice his age; a horrible creature who clings to him like grim death and who sacrifices her husband's life, her own reputation and Fred's future to her devouring love.

Wrecks His Life

Breaking away, Fred wanders through the eastern islands; and there, slowly regaining his self-respect, he casually engages in an easy-come-easy-go affair — and brings down a calamity which completely wrecks his life.

Probably no one but Somerset Maugham could make this tale into a first-rate novel, which is just what "The Narrow Corner" is. He does it partly by means of a brooding and thoughtful narrative style which is a delight on every page; and partly by presenting the whole story through the eyes of a roving doctor, who looks on all the vagaries of human life with a serene detachment.

The result is that "The Narrow Corner" is a rather remarkable book. It is Maugham at, or close to, his best.

Published by Doubleday, Doran & Co., the book is priced at $2.50.

Because A Hat Blew Off

THE amazing effect of a chain of accidents on the lives of human beings forms the theme of "Ill Wind," James Hilton's new novel.

The most casual happening, says Mr. Hilton, can have an ultimate significance too profound for human understanding. In "Ill Wind" he sets out to cite an example to prove it.

A planter's hat blows off on the shore of an island off the Malay coast. An unimportant event? Surely; but because of it there is a murder, which causes a lynching, which leads to an armed insurrection. Because of this, an English school ma'am vacationing in Switzerland pesters the daylights out of a London business man. Because she pestered him, the business man gives a hearing to a Rumanian inventor.

Because he got this hearing, the inventor is moved to go to Hollywood and crash the movies—and, ultimately, to die in a South American jungle. Because he hid that, a Russian emigre goes balmy, and that causes the emigre's sister to shoot a Bolshevik delegate to a peace meeting in Geneva — which, in the end, menaces the peace of the whole world and paves the way for a new war.

It's an ingenious yarn, told with irony and intelligent insight. It's a trifle disconnected, unfortunately, and the thread of the story is hard to follow. But it's not bad reading.

Published by Morrow, it retails for $2.50.

Much Business Is Disposed Of Here In First Ten Days Of Federal Court

Sixty-three civil law suits and one equity suit were heard in United States district court here, besides the criminal matters, during the first 10 days of the term. In addition one equity case was continued for the term and in another a decree is to be handed down on agreement, making 66 cases in all disposed of by Judge William H. Atwell.

The law suits included 37 brought by the receiver of the Plainview National bank. Of these, 21 judgements were for the receiver; one the defendant won: eight were dismissed, four consolidated two nonsuits entered and one case reset. Judgments for the plaintiff amounted to $115,456.46.

Wins Seven Suits

Receiver of the Floyd County National bank won all seven of his suits. Judgments amounted to $7,523.81.

The receiver of the City National bank, Spur, had one suit and a jury found for the defendant.

Ten suits on contract of insurance against the United States were on the docket. One case was won by the former-service man; four the government won; one was dismissed and four were continued.

In one action by the United States against the F. W. D. C., the government was given a judgment of $400.

Seven other actions were heard; four resulting in verdicts for the plaintiffs, with judgements amounting to $18,931.06. One was dismissed and one continued.

Total judgements, not including the insurance case, amounted to $142,311.33.

"Divided They Fall" Not Always True In Case Of Screen Teams

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — United they stand—if fate is kind—and divided they don't necessarily fall.

JANET GAYNOR

The old motto must be revised in some such fashion to apply to Hollywood's screen teams, which come and go in talkies as frequently as they did in silent pictures.

Charles Farrell heeded what he calls "the handwriting on the wall" and left Fox, incidentally halting, for the time at least, his seven-year co-starring career with Janet Gaynor.

In this case Janet was the star of the duo, her box-office strength enhanced by appearing with Charlie, but not dependent on such appearance—and Charlie knew it, saw where his career was going, and became a free-lance, to prove to himself what he could do if given the right to select his vehicles as any free lance does.

Janet Goes On

JANET will go on, but Charlie's future hangs in the balance, and he knows it.

In the same way, Marie Dressler has proved her ability to "carry" starring vehicles alone, while her team-mate, Polly Moran, is content with featured roles in the films between their co-starrers.

MARIE DRESSLER

The one-time team of Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton dissolved with the result that Beery became the star of today while Hatton remained in character roles. In the case of Karl Dane and George K. Arthur, the disruption of their team was the beginning of the departure of both from the Hollywood scene as stars.

A New Team

A NEW one is that of Buster Keaton and Jimmy Durante, although not intended as a permanent teaming project. Durante appeared in support of Keaton in one picture, then had his roles built to equal importance. In such pictures as they adorn together it is a question whether Keaton's established following can outweigh the novelty of the Schnozzle's appeal.

BUSTER KEATON

With such standbys as Laurel and Hardy there is no question about the comparative strength of each. Stan Laurel was a comedy star, writer and director but was losing his draw when burly Oliver Hardy, just another actor, was paired with him. The team was a "natural", and has shone for six years, with increasing luster. Zasu Pitts and Thelma Todd, periodically teamed by Hal Roach, each have good individual followings.

One Use For Stocks

COLLEEN MOORE has found a use for those gilt-edged stocks and bonds that looked so pretty in days before 1929. Pasted on a screen and neatly shellacked, they serve double as decoration and sober reminder for the future.

COLLEEN MOORE

A medal for a new high in impromptu movie-making should go to the studio which, nearing the finish of a feature, let an important character actress acquire a beautiful tea gown for a scene which required her to walk out in street garb. The reason was that the script hadn't been completed yet—in fact, nobody yet knows how the story is to end.

Meaning no harm, but it sounded suspiciously as if that 73-year-old Mississippian who wrote me the other day about chances to become a screen writer was citing qualifications when he mentioned he was "poor" and "uneducated."

SEEK BAND LEADER

TATUM, N. M., Dec. 24.—(Special)—The Tatum band is now seeking a director. Organized several weeks ago, there are now 14 in the group. A number of other musicians have announced intentions of joining the band soon. Several directors in West Texas have been approached to direct the band.

Fifteen Stars To Be Seen In Lindsey Movie

"If I Had A Million" Starts Run Today; "Under-Cover Man" And "The Conquerors" Coming This Week

BY VESTEL LOTT

IF it's stars you want you can see them in "If I Had a Million" which starts a two-day run at the Lindsey today. Fifteen—count 'em—prominent screen players appear in the Christmas day feature. It is said to be the largest number of film stellarites ever cast in one picture.

The story concerns an eccentric millionaire who distributes his fortune among nine persons whose names he picks at random from a city directory. The cast includes Gary Cooper, George Raft, Wynne Gibson, Charles Laughton, Jack Oakie, Frances Dee, Charlie Ruggles, Alison Skipworth, W. C. Fields, Mary Boland, Roscoe Karns, May Robson, Gene Raymond, Lucien Littlefield and Richard Bennett.

GARY COOPER

What each of the nine persons does with his share of the fortune is the basis of the film.

George Raft plays the leading role in "Under-Cover Man," a drama set in the uppercrust of the underworld, which will be screened at the Lindsey Tuesday and Wednesday. Nancy Carroll, Roscoe Karns, and Lew Cody head the supporting cast. Raft is seen as a big-time crook who gambles with his own life and the life of the girl he loves to hunt down the slayers of his father. Realizing he will be doomed if his underworld cohorts discover his connection, he becomes an under-cover for the police. Miss Carroll joins him in his search and they are taken through a series of breath-taking experiences.

To those who are down-hearted and have lost faith in the economic stability of the United States it is recommended that they see "The Conquerors", scheduled at the Lindsey Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Starring Richard Dix and Ann Harding, the film depicts, on an epic canvas, the economic growth of the nation through three periods of depression. It seeks to demonstrate the greatness of America and to prove that it can, as it has in the past, hurdle all obstacles. It seeks to show that a depression is only a temporary affair.

Against this timely background has been woven a romantic story of a courageous couple who dares the dangers of a backwoods trading post to advance the cause of commerce.

The old year will be ushered out and the new one in at a New Year's Eve party at the Lindsey Saturday night. Noise-makers, confetti, balloons, streamers and other novelties will be provided. "The Penguin Pool Murder" will be the screen attraction. "You Said a Mouthful", starring Joe E. Brown, will start at the Lindsey New Year's day.

"Sherlock Holmes", based on one of Conan Doyle's most thrilling tales, starts the three-day run at Palace today. Clive Brook, who plays the part of the detective, finds himself pitted against the arch criminal, Moriarty, and a band of gangsters recruited from both sides of the Atlantic. How Moriarty sets his traps, which are quickly sprung by Holmes, and how the detective finally exterminates the gang and sends Moriarty to the death cell form the basis of the story. Miriam Jordan and Ernest Torrence head the supporting cast.

STUART ERWIN

Stuart Erwin plays the role of a young man with $50,000,000 and a lot of book knowledge who nevertheless has never been kissed in "He Learned About Women", scheduled at the Palace Wednesday and Thursday. Alison Skipworth, Susan Fleming and Grant Mitchell also are featured. Amusing and dramatic complications develop when Erwin starts out to see life after inheriting a great fortune.

"The Boiling Point", starring Hoot Gibson, is scheduled at the Palace Friday and Saturday. The story concerns a cowboy who is looked on as a coward during a 30-day probation, ordered by an uncle, to keep him from fighting. How he wins back the admiration of the other cowboys and the affection of his girl forms the basis for the plot.

Duck Killed Near Ralls Was Banded In Kansas During '28

RALLS, Dec. 24—(Special)—Early in November C. W. West, who lives at Old Emma, south of here, killed a duck on a lake there that on investigation was found to have a band about its leg.

J. M. Rankin, superintendent of schools, who was given the band, sent the number to the U. S. biological survey at Washington. He was told that the duck was branded March 1, 1928 at Ellinwood, Kansas. It was a pintail duck, a male bird.

"The duck did taste as though it was getting kinda' ancient," Mr. West said when told of the date of the banding.

Because the Hungarian government refused permission for them to keep cows, nudists abandoned plans to establish a colony near Budapest, Hungary.

Lee Tracy, pictured above, appears in the leading role of "Washington Merry-Go-Round", which starts a three-day run at the Lyric today.

County Agent's Aid Beneficial To Many Farmers In Past Year's Work

Varied Projects Prove To Be Profitable; D. F. Eaton Gives Report Of Year's Activities

Eleven Different Activities Are Listed In Agent's Review Of Year's Work; Facts And Figures Presented

BY J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

NOT ALL of the benefits of extension service can be set down in black and white, but a glimpse can be attained by viewing annual reports of county agents.

Lubbock county has been fortunate in having experienced, well-trained and practical agents to lead farmers in a program of diversification on the farm. Many activities have been carried on; not all of the cooperators and demonstrators completing their records. But, enough have done so to indicate what can be done.

Report Is Made

D. F. Eaton, who served until November 15, has been here for several days working on his annual report up to the time he left. The remainder of the report is the work for a month and a half of O. G. Tumlinson, his successor. R. N. McClain, assistant county agent, has been on the job all year.

Below are some of the facts and figures taken from the annual report. Others will be run from time to time. Not all of the totals have been completed.

Dairy Demonstrators Make $8,500 Net On Projects

More than $11,000 was received by 25 Lubbock county farmers and dairymen who acted as demonstrators and cooperators of modern dairy methods the past year in connection with the extension service. These farmers netted $8,500 over and above feed costs, to take care of other expenses and still leave profits.

There were 10 demonstrators and 15 cooperators who worked with D. F. Eaton, county agent until the middle of November and since then with O. G. Tumlinson, but under the direction of R. N. McClain, assistant county agent.

Have Registered Stock

Twenty-three out of the 25 dairymen now have registered bulls in their herds, Mr. Eaton commented. The other two use rpgistered animals from other herds.

The 10 demonstrators, all tested and had 100 cows in their herds, while the 15 cooperators had 153 cattle. Milk produced was: demonstrators, 576,436 pounds; cooperators, 688,527 pounds; butterfat, 22,-299.5 pounds and 30,982.5 pounds, respectivelly.

All Had Pastures

Demonstrators spent $1,229.80 for feed and cooperators, $1,535. Seven of the ten had permanent pastures of 121 acres while in the 15 permanent pastures there were 536 acres. All had temporary pastures; demonstrators having 209 acres of sudan and 327 acres of wheat and cooperators 225 acres. Both groups had animals 180 days each on the two kinds of pasture.

Receipts were: demonstrators, $4,-302.47 for butterfat and $711.66 from by-products, a total of $5,014.13; cooperators, $5,355 from butterfat and $918.50 from other products a total of $6,273.50. Grand total of receipts was $11,287.63; expenses of feed, $2,-764.80, leaving a net over feed costs of $8,522.83.

Demonstrators owned 11 silos and had 660 tons of feed. One cooperators had a silo with 50 tons of feed.

Lubbock County Farmers Make Hog Raising Profitable

Lubbock county farmers demonstrated during the past year that hog raising can be made profitable.

Fourteen farmers, acting as demonstrators, raised 436 pigs from 72 brood sows. The animals weighed 98,770 pounds. Feed costs were $1,-838.98, value of the pork on current prices, $2,974.60, leaving a net profit of $1,135.62 over feed costs.

Eleven cooperators, with 18 brood sows, raised 40 pigs that produced 9,680 pounds of pork. Receipts were $2980.7; feed costs, $185.73, leaving net profit of $94.97 over cost of feed.

There were 130 farmers who built self feeders for their hog herds this past year. These 130 farmers raised a total of 1,858 pigs by this method of feeding.

At the same time 250 farmers used the extension service plan of pastures for hogs. Hogs treated for worms numbered 122.

Twelve farmers had not completed their records on their swine demonstrators. In hog illing demonstrations, 24 animals were killed.

Total Of 3,500 Acres Gone Over With Poison Grain

On 635 farms in the county the past year 3,500 acres were gone over with poison grain for the killing of prairie dogs and rabbits.

Cost of the grain was $200, which was paid by the commissioners' court. Net savings to farmers was estimated at $1,750.

The U. S. biological survey cooperated in the work.

Keeping Of Records Show Possibilities Of Industry

Poultry demonstrators and cooperators, by their records in 1932, showed that the keeping of records would reveal possibilities of the industry. During the past year ten demonstrators made a total of $2,-485.85 over feed costs, while three cooperators made $254.15 over expenses.

Multitude Of Duties Are Performed By Office

There are a multitude of duties for the county agent to perform during a year. A record of the activities of field and office is kept and completed for the annual report.

During the year just closed, D. F. Eaton and his assistant, R. N. McClain, kept a record of their activities. Mr. Eaton wss agent for ten and a half months and O. G. Tumlinson a month and a half, while Mr. McClain served the entire 12 months.

Combined statistics include: farm visits, 965 an 465 different farms; 3,890 office calls; 2,070 telephone calls; 148 days for the office work and 439 days in the field; news stories written, 35; letters written, 960; circulars mailed, 25; bulletins distributed, 325; road tours, one.

Methods of killing and curing hogs as developed by the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college were adopted by 75 Lubbock county farmers the past year.

These 75 farmers killed, butchered and cured 225 hogs by these methods. Some of the killing was done during the summer and the farmers reported excellent results. Sixteen farmers killed and butchered beef by methods approved by A. and M., Mr. Eaton also reported.

Four Farmers Keep Records On Sheep In Past Year

Four Lubbock county farmers the past year, acting as demonstrators, kept records on their flocks of sheep.

There were 1,520 animals in the four flocks, that cost $4,197.12. Feed costs were $1,209.80, making the total cost $5,406.92.

Weight of the animals was 118,015 pounds. Sale price was $6,118.08, making the net income over feed costs, $711.16.

While no records were kept on the cost of storing the grain, many farmers report average cost of cutting and filling the trench ranged around 35 to 40 cents a ton.

CROSBYTON, Dec. 24.—(Special)—Robert Harkins, county treasurer-elect of Crosby county, has purchased the Jake Mabe home here. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Harkins, will live with him. They plan to move into the building by the first of January.

Farmer Boasts Of Three Twin Calves Within One Month

Since no one has come forward to dispute his record, Joseph Baker, a farmer of Delaware, O., believes he holds a unique championship for 1932, and nearly every other year—the twin calf producer! Three sets of twin calves were born in his herd of 16 Shorthorn cattle within one month in each set of twins, shown in photo, above, there was a heifer and a bull calf.

Hog Feeding Programs Being Carried On In Area; Hockley Farmers Feeding 800; H. C. Pearson Has Large Project

LEVELLAND, Dec. 24. (Special)—Approximately 800 head of hogs are being fed out in this section of Hockley county on a cooperative deal with hog raisers of Hereford, Deaf Smith county. The plan was worked out by W. T. Magee, county agent.

Farmers are trading feed for hogs, receiving 40 cents per hundred pounds for the grain and paying $2.50 per hundred pounds for the animals. Hereford raisers, with a short feed crop, decided to trade their animals for feed at the above rates.

Among those who are feeding hogs, secured by a trade of feed are:

Beakley Has 100 Head

George C. Beakley, northeast of town, who has 100 pigs on the Highland Seed farm.

Pete Fields, 40 head; H. R. Rogers, six miles west of town, 100 head; W. S. Harp, Clauene community, 100 head; J. W. Poage, Whitharral community and a merchant there, 50 head; W. H. Rodgers, also Whitharral, 50 head.

Bettie Sue Howard and Dick Alexander both have litters for the Lubbock show.

Charley Sealey, Spearman, has leased the E. M. Roberts farm near here and will feed out 300 head. He has a farm near Spearman says the crop is short there. He has been engaged in hog finishing for some years.

Lorenzo Man Has One Of Largest Projects In Area

LORENZO, Dec. 24. (Special)—One of the largest hog breeding farms on the South Plains is that owned by H. C. "Clay Pearson, well known farmer here.

Mr. Pearson has at this time some 300 registered Hampshire hogs on his place south of town. He has five tenants on the farm he owns and on one of them raises the hogs.

Diversify Crops

Besides cotton, thetenants raise feed and diversify crops, so as to insure a full time income throughout the year. Most of the men on these farms have been here for several years.

Mr. Pearson has a dozen breeding pens for his brood sows, in which they raise their young. Later the pigs are taken from the sows and placed in feeding pens. Mr. Pearson raises his own feed.

Average Car Per Week

Buying of hogs and shipping to market is a side issue of the farmer. He and his partner, under the name of Pearson and Lott, averaging throughout the year, a car load of hogs or better per week. The Lorenzo market is recognized as one of the strongest small town markets in this section.

Farmers are more and more demanding better bred hogs, Mr. Pearson states. He hashad a steady sale of his registered animals to farmers of the area. Within the past two or three weeks he has sold four or five hogs to farmers near Lubbock and Levelland.

BEGIN NEGRO SCHOOL

BROWNFIELD, Dec. 24.—(Special)—J. C. Coger, teacher of the negro school here, has begun school work with the negro children. There are 12 students so far.

Abernathy Carrier Claiming Longest Record On Plains

ABERNATHY, Dec. 24—(Special)—E. P. Settle, rural carrier on route No. 1 has celebrated the close of his 12th year as carrier here. He has had two mail routes in 25 years of service with Uncle Sam.

The first route was out of Forestburg, Montague county, where he served 13 years. December 1 he began here. Settle claims the longest record as a carrier on the plains.

CHICKENS STOLEN

AMHERST, Dec. 24 (Special)—Some 400 chickens were stolen recently from four Amherst residents. At each place it was found that there were dead chickens, killed presumably when the birds began to squark when disturbed.

Places visited were: T. H. Pennington, O. G. Waggoner, Tom Williams and Mr. Jeffries. Mr. Waggoner reported loss of a 140 pound hog.

Tracks of car tires were discovered but later lost in traffic.

With Breeders And Feeders

LEE Cooper, who lives in the northeast part of Cochran county, is reported feeding about 300 head of cattle. He is one of the largest farmer-breeders in that county.

John Scott, Cochran county farmer living near Morton, has between 5,000 and 6,000 head of sheep on feed at his ranch. He also has a good sized herd of cattle on feed.

Cope and McAlister, Lamesa cattlemen, sold 56 steers at Fort Worth last week. Twenty-five of the animals, that averaged 1,023 pounds brought $4 per hundred while 31 others averaging 820 pounds brought the same price.

Ray Griffiths, Muleshoe grain and cattle shipper, had 25 head on the Fort Worth market the early part of the week. Ten yearlings brought $2 per hundred for animals averaging 397 pounds; a 1,240 pound cow brought $2.25 per hundred three 858 pound bulls brought $1.50; one 945 pound bull the same; one 1,430 pound bull $2; four 901 pound steer $2.75 and seven yearlings that averaged 581 pounds, $2.65 per hundred.

Elmer Johnson, Lam county 4-H club boy from Sudan, who won a trip to the Chicago International show in 1931, has been adjudged one of the best club boys in Texas according to word received by D. A. Adam, county agent. Elmer fed out in 1931 some 16 baby beeves and made a profit of $68.25. He is not feeding this year because of dry weather conditions in his section.

Horse Collar Business Is On The Up And Up And Better Conditions Seen

BUFORD, Ga., Dec. 24. (AP)—The horse collar business is on the up and up.

And that, says ictor Allen, is an unerring sign of changing business conditions.

About 7,800 horse collars a week are turned out at the Allen factory here. These collars will be used chiefly for farm animals, Allen said.

The increased demand for collars is accompanied by a growing need for horse and mule harness, and a force of 1,700 is busy making sets at the factory.

Operating a shoe factory in addition to the harness plant, Allen said the output of shoes has been doubled this year.

Reports from Atlanta's stockyards indicate that three to four times as many mules are being sold this season than heretofore in several years.

Crosby Youth's Hog Record Good

CROSBYTON, Dec. 24—(Special)—Two years ago Herschel Stockton, now a senior in the high school and a vocational agriculture student, began a hog project with one bred gilt.

In spite of reverses he now has 21 hogs, including 17 pigs, two brood sows and two gilts ready for breeding. Besides this he has furnished the family with four hogs for killing, valued at $65; sold $17.50 worth of pigs and has a herd valued at $100.

Wheat and sudan pastures during most of the year, provided a feed supply costing $70, including other home grown feeds. Scrap lumber was used for building pens and houses.

The commercial apple crop of Canada this year is expected to total 3,428,500 barrels, a decrease of approximately 364,000 barrels from last year.

Directors Of Proposed Cheese Plant In Levelland Hear Talk

On Auto Row In Lubbock

Brief Bits Of News About Autos And Auto Dealers

LETTERS TO SANTA

LUBBOCK automobile dealers probably were in favor of a form letter something like this last week:

Dear Santa: Please send me some new 1933 model automobiles like the samples I have so I can sell them to local Santa Clauses to give for Xmas presents. The samples are very nice, and I appreciate them, but I need a few to deliver. Your little friend, Marlis Ratliff. Also, George Kuykendall, Hub Jones, A. L. Scoggin, et al.

Prospects point, however, to arrival of new cars in time for January 1 delivery to a few early buyers. New Buicks, Oldsmobiles, Chevrolets, Pontiacs and Chryslers are en route to Lubbock in carload lots, and they'll be welcome when they arrive.

NEW PONTIAC HERE

Auto Row was given a private peep at a new Pontiac over at the Scoggin-Dickey Motor company's rooms yesterday. It is a fine piece of workmanship, and will make its official debut next Wednesday, provided the promised shipment of additional cars arrives. The new Pontiac is something really new in the automobile world. It is strictly an "8" henceforth, the six-cylinder job having been eliminated. It's a straight eight at that, the new motor replacing the V-8 introduced a year ago. Free-wheeling is eliminated entirely, the manufacturers theorizing that there are some buyers who prefer the old style movement.

Body lines of the new Pontiac conform to the new General Motors features, which emphasize the beaver-tail rear, side-wall fenders and new type front splash, with the new ventilating system seen in the Buick and Chevrolet. The windshield is stationary. The car is lower, more graceful and, in fact, more beautiful than any preceding Pontiac. Formal appearance and announcement will be made later this week.

NEW CHRYSLERS COMING

There'll be another newcomer to Lubbock's auto row along about New Years day. The Hub Motor company will announce the arrival of new Chryslers at that time. The Chrysler line will carry four models next year—the standard six-cylinder, the Royal Eight, the Imperial Eight and the Custom eight. Prices have been lowered but the new car embodies all of the newest features, new silent transmission, floating-power, coincidental starter mechanism, down-draft carburetor and other new features are included, as well as improved body designs. The six-cylinder job will deliver for about a thousand dollars. The other models range upward to above $4,000 for the custom job.

CHEVROLETS GOING FAST

Enough of the new Chevrolets arrived last week to make eight deliveries before Christmas. Kuykendall Chevrolet company announced that eight carloads of new Chevrolets were enroute to the local distributing point, and that deliveries on early orders would be made before January 1.

Six new Chevrolet coaches were sold last week. The first 1933 model Chevrolet buyer was H. T. Wiley. Hurley Carpenter, B. R. Bryant, G. H. Hrckerson, V. E. McCoy, and Lonnie Sanders bought coaches. A sedan was sold to R. W. Flanagan. The City of Lubbock purshased a new Chevrolet sedan.

Nine used cars were sold by the company last week.

TWO NEW PLYMOUTHS SOLD

The Hub Motor company delivered two new Plymouths last week. A sedan went to Clyde Mahle, and a coupe to A. G. Tusha of Ralls. One used car was sold.

Ratliff-Rogers Buick-Olds company, awaiting shipments of Buicks and Oldsmobiles for delivery, sold four used cars last week.

The Scoggin-Dickey Motor company delivered four used machines.

Lubbock Auto company moved five new Fords last week and sold five used cars.

One used car was sold by the [illegible] Motor company, dealers for International trucks.

More than one-fourth of all August automobile fatalities in Tennessee were blamed on liquor.

Here's A.B.C. Of "New Allotment Plan" For Aid To Farmers Of U.S.

By NEA Service

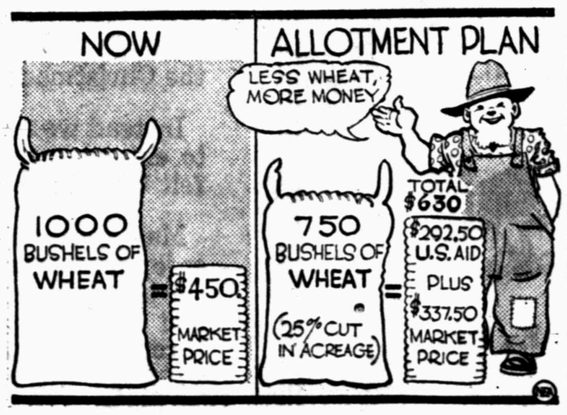

HERE'S the A B C of the "voluntary allotment plan" now before Congress, newest and most discussed proposal for farm relief. It would raise farm prices by the payment of an "adjustment fee"—sometimes called a bonus—on crops grown for domestic consumption, the fee being equal to the import tariff charged against similar foodstuffs imported from abroad.

By vote of 60 per cent of the farm producing a given crop, the federal government would declare the plan operative. The Government would then determine the amount of production required for domestic needs, and apportion this figure among the states and counties. Farmers who joined the plan would agree to reduce their acreage proportionately.

Money for the payment of the "adjustment fee" would be collected by the government by means of special taxes on food processers. In the case of wheat, for example, the miller would pay a tax of 42 cents a bushel (equal to the tariff) on all the wheat he used. Three cents of this would be charged off to administrative expense, leaving 39 cents for the fund, to be distributed among farmers who joined the plan.

Farmers who reduced their acreage would receive this 39 cents a bushel for their wheat, in addition to the market price. Farmers who did not join the plan and reduce acreage would receive the market price only. It is estimated that in the case of wheat an annual fund of $250,000,000 could be built up for distribution among the farmers. Advocates of the plan declare it would increase the price of bread less than one cent on the loaf and solve the problem of overproduction of farm products.

Announcement Of New Ford Model Is In Quandary

Due perhaps to the delay in placing the 1932 model on the market, the Ford Motor company has not announced an entirely new Model A for 1933. At least, no announcement has been received at the Lubbock Auto company here.

It might appear that Ford is willing to continue producing the present model, since the Ford passenger car sales has led those of any other make since 1927 when the Model T was discontinued, according to a tabulation by the Ford Motor company reported yesterday by Mr. Harry Morris, manager of Lubbock Auto company.

Share Is 26.4 Per Cent

In this period from January, 1927, to and including October, 1932, the latest month for which reports have been compiled, Ford sales total 4,001,384, as compared with 3,705,827 for its nearest competitor and total sales of all makes of 15,183,824. Ford's share of all business in these six years was 26.4 per cent.

This record, it was pointed out, was made despite the fact that Ford production was halted twice during this six-year period in preparation for the Model A and the V-8 Ford cars. Ford was out of the market from May to December of 1927, after the Model T was discontinued, and again for the first five months of 1932 until volume deliveries of the new Fords began last June.

County farm agents are employed in 72 out of 95 counties in Tennessee.

Boots Swept Into Popularity At High School; Varied Kinds Are Being Worn

"Best foot foremost" seems to be the new slogan around the high school campus. The best foot, however, is the one clad in the shiniest boot.

Boots are the shoes of the day—black boots, dark brown and tan boots, old boots, worn boots, and new ones—but all boots!

Riding boots are favorites of the fairer sex. Black ones lead the race with tan ones running a close second. Miss Personality has discarded her mirror since the shiny black boot has come into style. The more fastidious girls are seen clad in boots shined to the "nth" degree, while the girls of a more practical turn of mind usually wear the regular hiking boots, most of which have seen a great deal of service.

Sheiks who walk within the walls of the school domain are usually seen wearing German field boots; but many who are not wearing their first cherished pair, come to classes wearing boots that look as though they have carried some happy lad up some steep mountain side or across a muddy field to a duck pond earlier in the fall.

Declamations Are Already Selected

Students going out for declamation already have made their selections and many have memorized them, according to Dan W. Powers, declamation coach.

Practice on the declamations is to begin immediately after the Christmas holidays. Students will be allowed to give their declamations in study hall and in the public speaking classes.

An elimination contest will be held here, and the winner will compete in the district meet held in the spring.
