A total of 11 SHS students qualifiifed for individual competition in academic events at the regional meet set April 24-25 in Brownwood.

Speech students led the scoring Saturday by qualifying five for regionals.

Advancing to regional in speech events are: Kirsten Miller and Jeff Franklin, first and second place in poetry interpretation; Robyn Fambro, second place, prose reading; Mark Hargrove, first place, informative speaking; and Elaine Smylie, second place, Lincoln-Douglas Debate.

For District 4...

Second candidate 'out' of ISD race as of early today

The Snyder school board election lost another candidate Monday morning as Wayne Monroney indicated he would like to withdraw his name from consideration.

Monroney, 64, a retired Sun employee, was one of three candidates seeking the District 4 single member district seat.

"I'm just not generating the enthusiasm to make me want to continue in the race," he said Monday.

On the Saturday ballot, Monroney's name will still be listed since the ballots were printed last week.

"I wish I could have had my named removed, but they told me it was too late," he said.

With his withdrawal, he also wished luck to both candidates remaining in the race. As listed on the ballot, these include:

—Ben Wilcox, 35, of Rt. 3, a production foreman for Chevron who has lived in the district 16½ years.

—Glen McGuire, 36, who lives in the Round Top Acres subdivision south of the city. He is a purchasing agent for SACROC and has lived in the district 1½ years.

Court set to offer tax collection plan

County commissioners voted Monday to offer a tax collection proposal to the county's three school districts, which now have their taxes collected by the Scurry County Appraisal District.

Court members say consolidated tax collections for all six jurisdictions would save county taxpayers some $60,000.

They added that the collection fee now assessed to the jurisdictions could be cut to three-tenths of 1 percent of collections with such a consolidation.

Although commissioners indicated the cost for collections made by both the tax assessor and the appraisal district is the same, Chief Appraiser L.R. Peveler, contacted after the meeting, noted the district's fee is already at three-tenths of 1 percent.

He said this is the actual cost after the district returns at the end of its budget year all monies not spent in the district budget.

Local 6th grader spells 16 rounds

West sixth grader Drew Wilson inadvertently misspelled the word "eyewitness" at the regional spelling bee Saturday, disqualifying himself in the 16th round of the Lubbock meet.

Drew, who won the Scurry County spelling bee Feb. 27, skipped over the "i" in the word, then corrected himself. Under contest rules, however, he had to be disqualified.

Local spelling bee sponsor Dr. Tom Scannicchio noted his advancing to the 16th round was still the highest gained by any Scurry County speller in the last 12 years.

"We're real proud of him," Scannicchio said. With 13 contestants entered, Drew placed fourth at the meet overall.

Both the winner and the runnerup at Lubbock were from neighboring counties. The overall winner was Carvell Q. Nguyen of Howard County, who went through more than 20 rounds before successfully spelling the words "phew," then "startle" to defeat runnerup Frank Garcia Jr. of Mitchell County.

Nguyen is a sixth grader at Big Spring and Garcia is a seventh grader at Loraine.

WTC class phaseout due board discussion

Plans to phase out an electronics program at Western Texas College will be discussed during a meeting of the board of trustees Monday.

The session will begin at 5:45 p.m. at the campus administration building.

As part of the electronics program agenda item, students currently enrolled in the course have asked to speak with the board.

Currently, there are seven full time and five part-time students enrolled in it.

Plans to phase out the program have been prompted by net operating losses connected with it over the past several years, college officials note.

The agenda item Monday is listed as an information and discussion item.

Also at Monday's meeting, the annual contract renewal for WTC personnel is slated.

The board will also consider bids to purchase four large electric transformers which serve the campus.

College officials say the replacement has been prompted by the age of the current transformers as well as the energy savings expected with more modern equipment.

At the beginning of Monday's meeting, the board has scheduled an executive session to discuss personnel.

Other agenda items include:

—Accepting the resignation of Jean Smith, assistant director at the senior center.

—A discussion related to the college's tax collection agency.

Vandalisms occur here

Vandalism incidents at two Snyder businesses were under investigation Monday morning.

Employees of Kalko Industries called police at 6:06 a.m. and reported the vandalism of three company vehicles.

Tires on all three vehicles were said cut or punctured and each vehicle had at least one window or windshield broken out.

The vandalism — which police say will likely be a felony offense due to the dollar value of damage — is thought to have occurred sometime over the weekend.

Hoyt Dillard of Hoyt's Furniture filed the second vandalism complaint Monday morning.

Dillard reported tires on company vehicles parked at his store — in the 2100 Block of 25th St. — punctured sometime over the weekend.

Tax value news due with April 7 meeting

Representatives from each of the county's six taxing jurisdictions will learn April 7 what to expect this coming budget year as estimates for oil-related tax revenues are offered.

These projections will come from valuation engineers with the Dallas firm Thomas Y. Pickett and Associations. Their report will include estimated oil production totals and the price per barrel figure which will set a taxable value for these minerals.

Grant Hammond and Bill Smith, engineers with Thomas Y. Pickett, will discuss oil prices and the county's depletion rate and their effects on the 1987 ad valorem tax rate.

Chief Appraiser L.R. Peveler noted that he could "make no predictions regarding set price (per barrel) to be used this year."

With the price of oil set in 1986 at some $23 per barrel, down from the previous range of $27, local residents saw an increase in property taxes equaling some 40 percent.

This equated to approximately 20 percent linked to an overall decline in production for the county and 20 percent linked to the drop in the price of oil.

Oil prices during 1986 dropped as low as the $11 range with the quoted futures price for West Texas intermediate crude listed Wednesday at just over $18.

The April 7 session is set for 6 p.m. at K-Bob's Steak House. It will be held in conjunction with the regular April meeting of the appraisal district board.

Ask Us

Q. — Is it true that the county might have to pick up the tab in the event of bankruptcy of a private prison?

A. — Only if the contract is with the county. The local committee has never proposed county involvement. Snyder's proposal, should it be a private prison, entails a contract between a private firm and the state of Texas.

For Contra aid...

Fundraisers used White House lure

WASHINGTON (AP) — A private Contra-aid operation, assisted by Lt. Col. Oliver L. North, touted access to President Reagan and the White House to raise millions of dollars from wealthy Americans, documents show.

At least one contributor believes that North, then a White House aide, was controlling how the funds were spent, according to the internal documents obtained by a former employee of fundraiser Carl "Spitz" Channell.

A $100,000 check to Channell's tax-exempt National Endowment for the Preservation of Liberty — some of the more than $7 million raised in 1986 — was sent by Pennsylvania contributor Bruce Hooper. The check was accompanied by a note telling Channell's staff, "Please have Ollie contact me to let me know what he's going to do with it."

The note, dated May 27, 1986, was among documents that Jane McLaughlin, who worked as a fund-raiser for Channell, has turned over to Lawrence E. Walsh, the independent counsel investigating the secret sale of U.S. arms to Iran and the possible diversion of payments to Nicaraguan Contra rebels.

The documents, which were reviewed by The Associated Press, indicate a more active role by North in Channell's program than previously acknowledged by Channell.

Channell, whose activities are under scrutiny by the independent counsel, has maintained that North did not raise or control money for Channell's projects, which included a speaker program featuring Nicaraguan Contras, a $1 million pro-Contra television campaign and humanitarian aid contributions estimated at some $3 million during the two-year congressional ban on military aid to the Contras.

Hooper acknowledged sending McLaughlin the note and $100,000 check. But he declined in a telephone interview to elaborate on Channell's relationship with North other than to say, "I had a sense that ... they were cooperating between each other about those funds."

Channell spokesman Jared Cameron said "there would be no comment on stolen documents."

He said North was simply a resource of information for Channell since both worked for Reagan's policy of backing the Contras.

Cameron has said the two met as many as 14 times, only during White House briefings that Reagan sometimes attended, where North spoke to Channell contributors about Central America.

However, the documents show North wrote to donors to thank them and encourage support.

North was fired from his National Security Council job last November for his role in the Iran-Contra affair.

The presidential commission that investigated the Iran-Contra matter said North was deeply involved in raising private funds for the Contras and in getting weapons to them during the congressional ban on military aid from 1984 to 1986.

Letters from McLaughlin to donors state, "We met with the president" or "Spitz met with the president" and cite Reagan's support for Channell's efforts.

The documents also include what a knowledgeable source described as the transcript of a tape recording made by McLaughlin during a Channell staff meeting.

Federal officials failed to notify state of hazardous waste move

HOUSTON (AP) — Mexico will be transporting hazardous wastes through Texas and other U.S. border states under an agreement with the United States that has angered some Texas officials because it apparently includes no notice to the states, The Houston Post reported in a copyright story.

"This damn stuff is coming through this state, and the federal regulations don't require them to notify state agencies about it," a state official who asked not to be identified told the newspaper.

The U.S.-Mexico agreement allows hazardous wastes to be shipped from one country to the another for processing and disposal, the Post reported in a story published on Sunday.

Environmental Protection Administration officials said Texas authorities may be misconstruing the agreement's language and regulations for enforcing it.

The Post said state officials discovered the agreement by accident earlier this year. University of Texas graduate students doing research on hazardous wastes shipments and materials were routinely given a copy of the EPA regulations during a trip to Washington.

The U.S.-Mexico agreement, signed last November, is an "annex" to a treaty on the environment signed at La Paz, Mexico, in 1983. Under the revised agreement, before a company in this country can ship hazardous wastes to Mexico it must find a firm in Mexico willing to accept it.

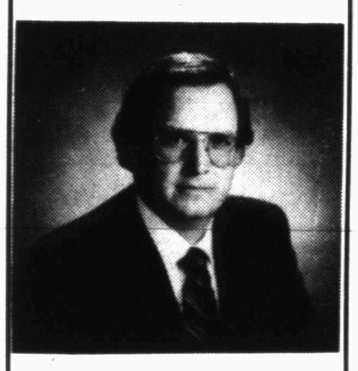

Mexico's government has to approve the deal and notify the U.S. embassy in Mexico City. The embassy tells the State Department, which notifies the EPA, which, in turn, tells the company it can export the material.

The process would work much the same way for hazardous wastes shipped from Mexico to this country.

An export permit lists names and addresses of those involved, the wastes and destination. But it can cover a series of shipments over as many as 12 months without separate, detailed permits for individual truckloads, freight cars of barges of wastes southbound for disposal, an EPA official told the Post.

Such procedures, the unidentified official agreed, would make it virtually impossible for officials in Texas or other states to be alerted in advance about specific shipments. It might be up to the Texas Legislature to require such advance notification, she said.

Dear Abby

Readers Debate If Gift Is Quid That Requires a Quo

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1987 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am constantly amazed at some of the nitwits who write to you. I refer particularly to "Burned Up in Butte" whose son received a card for his 16th birthday with this handwritten message: "Sorry, Billy, no money this time because we received no thank-you for the money we sent last year. Lots of love, Grandma and Grandpa Jones."

"Burned" complained: "Although these grandparents are retired and living on a fixed income, they are far from poor, and it wouldn't have hurt them to have enclosed a $10 bill."

Abby, instead of taking offense, "Burned" should have boxed Billy's ears all the way to the desk and forced him to write his grandparents a long letter of apology.

You asked your readers how they felt about Grandma's message to Billy. How did they feel?

MRS. GLENN R.

DEAR MRS. R.: "Burned" lost to Grandma in a landslide. Some typical letters:

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to nominate Grandma Jones for Grandmother of the Year. I wish I had the guts years ago to do what she did. I have seven grandchildren whom I've outfitted lavishly every Easter and Christmas. On their birthdays I have sent them all sizable checks and became so accustomed to not receiving any kind of thank-you, I would have fainted had one arrived. From now on, I'm going to follow Grandma Jones' lead.

ANOTHER GRANDMA,
MOLINE, ILL.

DEAR ABBY: If children have no manners, whose fault is it? Their parents'. Listen to this: Every year, our 42-year-old daughter-in-law has acknowledged our carefully chosen Christmas gifts in the following manner: "Thank you for the lovely silver bowl for us; for the nice jacket and sweater for Jane (age 18); for the stereo for Dick (age 16). Love, Betty." Period. The least she could have done was to have added: "We are fine. How are you? Dick and Jane broke their right arms so they are unable to write."

ANONYMOUS IN ROSWELL, N.M.

DEAR ABBY: Can you top this for ingratitude? After her birthday last year, our 23-year-old niece phoned us from Los Angeles — not to thank us for our card with money enclosed, but to complain because it wasn't enough!

PHLABBERGASTED
IN PHOENIX

DEAR ABBY: About gifts and no thank-yous: For years I have sent generous birthday checks to my granddaughter — increasing the amount every year, even though I had to wait until I received the canceled check to be sure she received it.

On her 21st birthday, I figured she was old enough to acknowledge my gifts, so I enclosed a little note with my check, saying, "How about a simple thank-you so I'll know this arrived?"

Do you know what she did? She sent back the check — torn in half. I wonder if this has ever happened to any other grandma?

BEWILDERED GRANDMA

DEAR ABBY: When my children were little, I sat them down with crayons and paper before they even knew how to write and said, "Copy this!" Then they would "draw" a picture of the gift they had received and copy their names, after which they placed X's for kisses. People shouldn't be so hard on kids. They learn what they are taught.

MINNESOTA MOM

DEAR ABBY: You are mistaken. A gift is something that is given without expectation of anything in return. If one expects something in return — it is not a gift.

I am sure Grandma Jones went down a few pegs in love and respect in the eyes of her 16-year-old grandson and his mother.

NAMELESS IN MANVEL, TEXAS

DEAR NAMELESS: Aw, c'mon! A simple "thank you" is not too much to expect in return for a gift. Show me a person who, for the sheer joy of giving, continues to give to someone who shows no sign of appreciation, and I'll show you a sap — or a saint.

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

Take charge of your health

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My blood pressure was high and the doctor put me on medicine. When it gets to 107/70, he takes me off the medicine. What worries me is I get short of breath when I go upstairs. My heart checks out OK. I weigh 200 pounds and am 5 feet 3.

DEAR READER — You raise two interesting questions.

To begin with, your doctor is not doing you any favors by using blood-pressure medicine in an on-off cycle. Most hypertensives need some type of medicine for years. The fact that your blood pressure becomes low with treatment indicates that the drug is too strong or you don't have the type of hypertension that requires drug therapy.

Second, you are overweight. Your obesity is a probable cause of your elevated blood pressure and is almost surely the reason you have trouble climbing stairs. Your primary goal should be to lose weight. Ask your doctor to put you on a diet, or go to Weight Watchers. Once you trim down, you may be surprised at the change in your ability to exercise. Your blood pressure may drop and you'll feel better, too.

To get you started on a weight-loss program, I'm sending you a free copy of my Health Report WINNING THE BATTLE OF THE BULGE. Other readers who are interested should send their name, address and $1 to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am 35, male and get daily exercise, eat very little red meat and consume small amounts of low-fat dairy products. How can I determine if I have arterial blockage due to fat? What can I do to clear out any blockage or reduce the chances of developing it?

DEAR READER — Short of having an arteriogram (a type of X-ray study) there is no direct way to determine whether you are developing fat buildup in your arterial linings. Of course, doctors can order indirect tests, such as a stress cardiogram, to investigate your vascular system. However, it would be unusual for a healthy, active and prudent 35-year-old man to have accelerated arteriosclerosis — unless one or both of his parents had it.

Your best approach is to be examined by a doctor with whom you can share your concerns about health. You should have some testing done — a serum lipid study, at least — but I doubt that you will require any expensive or dangerous lab analyses. Unfortunately, most of the aging process is built into your genes, and neither you nor your doctor has any control over that.

You seem to be doing the right things (by eating wisely and exercising regularly) to retard arteriosclerosis. Ask your doctor for specific recommendations concerning your life style.

Your Birthday

Tuesday, March 31, 1987

A secret career desire that you have only discussed with a few intimates has excellent chances of being realized in the year ahead. Soon it'll be safe to talk about it openly with others.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Before proceeding with a commercial involvement, be certain it doesn't have greater costs attached than you had considered. Double check your figures. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you are too concerned with your self-interests today, it might cause an associate to behave likewise. This could create a stalemate where neither will benefit.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) When dealing with loved ones today, you'll feel better if you let your compassion govern your actions, even if it calls for some type of sacrifice on your behalf.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It could spoil the day for you, as well as for your friends, if you take social situations too seriously. Keep everything in perspective, and just relax and enjoy life.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Gratification and recognition should not be more important to you today than playing the game in accordance with your usual high standards. Keep your ideals in mind.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Bolster your beliefs in things spiritual today by seeking inspiration from the proper sources. Don't be influenced by doubters.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You will have to be on constant guard if you hope to do well in commercial involvements today. Take nothing for granted.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In order to maintain harmony today, both you and your mate will have to make some concessions. Don't wait for your spouse to make the first move.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If your instincts warn you against doing business today with a certain firm or individual, acknowledge your hunches. Your perceptions are pretty sharp in these areas.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Being around groups today may not provide you with the fulfillment it usually generates. You'll be happier in quiet pursuits with a close friend or two.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It's best not to invite people whose company your mate doesn't enjoy into your home today. Before you spring anything on him or her, check it out first.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Today, associate with friends whose topics of conversation are light and inspirational. Avoid a pal who likes to argue about heavy issues.

TSTA threatens to boycott

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Dallas may lose the 1988 Texas State Teachers Association convention unless it rescinds a policy that forced almost half of the city's 52 delegates to miss the annual meeting.

Pauline Dixon, president of the Dallas TSTA affiliate, said Dallas' delegates to the convention were told they could not use professional-leave days to come to Lubbock despite a Dallas school board policy that authorizes such leave.

On a unanimous vote at the 108th annual TSTA gathering Saturday, more than 1,000 delegates gave the Dallas Independent School District six months to reverse the decision.

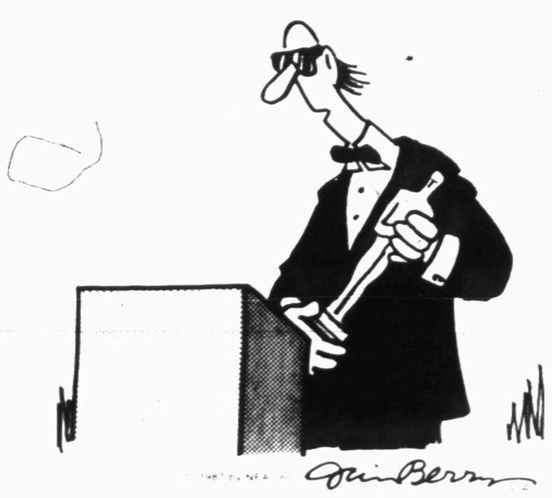

Otherwise, they said, TSTA will begin proceedings to relocate the group's 1988 convention away from Dallas. TSTA officials said $750,000 is a conservative estimate of the direct economic impact the group's convention has on a city.

Thirty of the Dallas' Classroom Teachers of Dallas delegates made the TSTA convention by using personal leave days still due them.

Ms. Dixon, president of the Dallas TSTA affiliate, said Dallas superintendent Linus Wright expressed personal support for the TSTA members, but followed legal advice in denying them a day off to attend. He said the district could be liable for improper use of tax money, she said.

City officials oppose change in dance law

ANSON, Texas (AP) — Some parents and teen-agers believe it's time city fathers tossed out a 1933 ordinance that prohibits dancing in this West Texas town.

Violation of the law carries a $15 fine, and the Rev. Bob Evans, a Baptist minister, wants to keep it that way.

An action group called Footloose, after a 1984 movie about a fictitious town that also outlawed dancing, is trying to get city officials to drop the ordinance, which bans public dancing in favor of carefully chaperoned hops.

Footloose sponsored two recent dances in a corrugated metal barn which each drew more than 200 local teen-agers. To comply with the ordinance, no admission was charged and parents paid for the band and disc jockey.

The group campaigned at the City Council's March 12 meeting for a law that would permit public dances that charge admission.

City Secretary Dottie Spraberry said the request for legalized dancing was tabled indefinitely.

Anson, a town of 2,800 people, is 23 miles northwest of Abilene, and the makeup of the City Council is such that a change in the law isn't likely soon.

Four of the dry town's six elected officials attend the Anson Church of Christ, which opposes any change.

"There are people who don't like cards and who don't like prostitution," said Councilman P.B. Middlebrook Jr. "Dancing must fit in between there somewhere, but we just don't know for sure where yet."

Evans and Leon Sharp, a Church of Christ minister, strongly oppose relaxing the rule.

"In counseling youth for 31 years," said Evans, "I've talked with unwed mothers and unwed fathers. I've asked them point-blank many times where they date the beginning of their downfall toward a road of sin. And nine times out of 10, it was on the dance floor."

Footloose organizers want dances policed by parents and off-duty cops to safely channel youthful energies.

The community's skating rink, owned by the mayor, has been closed for years. The Palace movie theater and the 1907 Opera House have been closed for decades.

"On Saturday nights," said high school junior Joane Nichols, 17, "you sit up at the Church of Christ parking lot if you're with someone or you drive to the crossroads and watch the blinking lights from the highway and the Stamford Airport. There's just nothing to do."

Public dances are allowed only once a year.

Stretching for game

By James Jacoby

Now why should South, with a minimum opening of 11 high-card points, accept a game invitation? For starters, South's hand has an attractive 4-6-2-1 shape. Furthermore, his 11 points are two aces and a king — the highest quality points. The final plus is that North's two-diamond response matched South's two little diamonds. If opener had held a single diamond and two small clubs, he would have passed the three-heart invitation like a shot.

With a spade lead, how should you play? Declarer saw that the game would be easy if both red suits split 3-2, and did not see any simple way to guard against any other distribution, so after playing low from dummy and winning East's spade queen with his ace, he played A-K of hearts. Now there was a problem. He cashed the diamond A-K and trumped a diamond as East discarded the club five. If he now led a heart and East was kind enough to cash both heart tricks before playing either clubs or a spade back, everything would be just fine. That was not going to happen. Since he needed to get rid of his club loser, declarer led to the king of spades and played a good diamond. East trumped in immediately as South shed his club. Now, because the spades were 3-3, declarer made his game contract.

Is there a lesson here? Only one. Instead of leading a low spade from a three-card holding, West would do better tabling a club at trick one. "Leading from longest and strongest" may be an old wives' saying, but usually it's the best approach.

A new book by James Jacoby and his father, the late Oswald Jacoby, is now available at bookstores. It is "Jacoby on Card Games," published by Pharos Books.

Western claims team trophy at West Texas State Rodeo

CANYON -- Western Texas College's men, who scored just 35 points in their first spring rodeo last weekend, put together a 285-point effort at the West Texas State University Rodeo here.

"That's a big help," said WTC Coach Bob Doty. "We've got to have four more like this. This is a start. We've go to have it every weekend now."

Keith Hudson, Wesley Henderson, Steve Roberts and Adam Brewster authored the point total, which won the rodeo by 60 points over Odessa College.

Southwest Region action now moves to Big Spring for the next rodeo, scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. Thursday, April 2.

Hudson, defending Southwest Region and national calf roping champion, had a fine outing in the calf roping here. He won the average with an 18.7 combined time after clocking a rodeo-best 8.4 in the finals. He was second in the long go with a 10.3.

Henderson, competing in the saddle bronc event, tied for second in the long go with a 72, was fourth in the short round with a 66, and finished in a tie for third in the average with a 138.

Roberts also got his points in the saddle bronc. He won the short go or finals with a 72. His 65 in the long go left him out of the running in the average, however.

Brewster tied for first place in the average of the bareback with a 140 on two head. He tied for first in the long go with a 71 and tied for third in the finals with a 69.

Brewster, a Snyder native, did not fare as well in the bull riding. He was fifth in the first go with a 75 but took a 64 in the finals.

No other designated team member compiled points, including any women's team member. Wendy Lunsford made the finals of the barrel racing in sixth place but a penalty-hampered 20.15 there took her out of the running.

A couple of other WTC students, Jeff Gilbert and Todd Small, were fourth in the short-go of the team roping with a 13.5 clocking.

Snyderite Kenny Riley, competing for Tarleton State University, won the average in the steer wrestling here. His times were unavailable.

In addition to WTC's 285 and Odessa's 225, Tarleton and Sul Ross State both scored 205 in the men's division. Texas Tech and Howard scored 95s.

Tarleton won the women's division with 223.33 points. Second was Texas Tech with 220.

Scorecard mistake costs Lady Tigers

BIG SPRING -- A scorecard mistake will cost Snyder some strokes and could knock the Lady Tigers' Leslie Light from a chance at repeating as District 2-4A medalist, but Coach Jan Kruse said she believes the squad will recover.

Snyder either placed fourth with a 390 total or second with a 375 at the first girl's 2-4A meet held here Saturday, but officials were turning the problem over to the University Interscholastic League.

A ruling on the matter is not expected until Thursday morning.

Light had an 82 going until the last of 18 holes here. She had a five on the final hole for a total 87, but a miscommunication led to the scorecard problem.

"She (Light) told the girl she had a 43 and of course she meant for the back nine holes, but that's what the girl wrote down for the 18th hole - a 43," said Coach Kruse.

Light had shot a 39 over the first nine holes and had a 38 through eight holes of the back nine. The 39 and the 38, added to a 43 written down on the 18th hole added up to 120. Light signed the scorecard without checking it.

"Leslie was at fault because she didn't check the card but the girl who wrote the score down was at fault, too," said Coach Kruse.

Light's card would normally stand at 120 regardless of the error because she signed it, but the district usually imposes a 10-stroke limit per hole. If the UIL rules that the 10-stroke limit was in effect, then Light's score will be a 92 instead of a 120.

Andrews won the single-day event with a 361. Assuming Light's score stays at 120, Fort Stockton would take second place with a 383, followed by Big Spring with a 386, Snyder with a 390, Snyder No. 2 with a 464, Monahans with a 466 and Andrews No. 2 with a 484.

"We're not in bad shape," pointed out Coach Kruse. "We're just seven strokes out of second place. It will probably mean that Leslie can't repeat as district medalist, but if she plays well I think she could still make the all-district team."

Individually for Snyder No. 1, Lee Ann Thompson shot a 92, Camille Reed a 96, Angie Lay a 100 and Kristi Neill a 102. For Snyder No. 2, Rachel Everett turned in a 108, Missy Trull a 109, Jamie Leatherwood a 114 and Tara Krueger a 133.

Snyder hosts the second 2-4A tournament, scheduled for Saturday, April 4 at Snyder Country Club.

NCAA championship...

Hoosiers battle Syracuse tonight

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Only one step remained to a national championship.

"We've earned what we got all year," senior guard Steve Alford of Indiana said. "The next goal is tomorrow night."

"We're not just content to be here," senior forward Howard Triche of Syracuse said. "If we win tomorrow, this will mean a lot more."

Third-ranked Indiana, 29-4, and 10th-ranked Syracuse, 31-6, meet tonight (8:12 p.m. EST) in the finale of the NCAA's college basketball tournament. Indiana will be trying for its fifth national title and third under Coach Bob Knight. Syracuse has never won the championship.

The two teams took a day off Sunday after winning their semifinal games on Saturday. Indiana defeated top-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas 97-93, and Syracuse beat Providence 77-63.

Those semifinal games saw the demise of the nation's top two 3-point shooting teams and set up a final between two more traditionally structured offenses.

Indiana is built around the guard play of Alford, the school's career scoring leader, while Syracuse has come to rely heavily on the front-court play of Rony Seikaly and Derrick Coleman.

Indiana has averaged 92.2 points a game in five tournament contests, with Alford averaging 23, one more than his regular season average. Alford had 33 points against Nevada-Las Vegas.

In its five tournament victories, Syracuse has averaged 85.2 points, with Seikaly, a 6-foot-10 junior center, averaging 25, 10 more than his season average.

"My expectations for him are much higher than anybody else's," Syracuse Coach Jim Boeheim said of Seikaly. "He can, and will, bring much more to the game than he has. No one ever disputed his athletic skills. It was his experience, which you can't teach."

Seikaly had never played organized basektball before coming to Syracuse from his home in Athens, Greece.

Boeheim, who said his club would have to play great defense to beat Indiana, watched the Hoosiers' victory over UNLV, then looked at the tapes.

"When Alford plays the way he did, I don't know if they are beatable," Boeheim said.

Boeheim said he also was concerned with Indiana's big men, junior-college transfer Dean Garrett and Rick Calloway, point guard Keith Smart and the Hoosiers' bench, including forward Steve Eyl and guard Joe Hillman.

Boeheim said Indiana's quickness on defense probably would force Syracuse into a half-court game.

Sherman Douglas led Syracuse with an average of 17.3 points per game this season, including an 18-point average in Big East play. While he scored only 12 points against Providence, the 6-foot Douglas had 11 rebounds.

Knight called Boeheim's teams "difficult to play against."

The matchup of the 6-10 Garrett against Seikaly should be a key.

Both teams have all five starters averaging in double figures.

"When it's all over," Coleman said, "I hope I can look back and say I was a national champion as a freshman with Syracuse."

STEPHANIE MCKNIGHT

McKnight 2nd-team all-state

Snyder senior Stephanie McKnight has been named Second Team All-State by the Texas Girl's Coaches Association.

McKnight, a 5-3 point guard, averaged 18 points, six assists and four steals for Coach Ken Housden's Lady Tigers.

She has been a two-time All-District 2-4A selection.

AHS holds big edge in 2-4A golf action; Tigers ninth overall

ANDREWS -- Andrews' Mustangs staked themselves to a big lead in the District 2-4A boy's golf race here Saturday.

The Mustangs, who had already won the first district tournament this season, shot a 310 Saturday to claim an 11-stroke victory in the second event.

The 2-4A race moves to Pecos this Saturday, April 4, for the third of five district tournaments.

Andrews now holds a whopping 30-stroke advantage after two tournaments - 36 holes of play. The Mustangs boast a 628 total in two tournaments while Sweetwater is in second with a 658. In third is Monahans with a 682.

Sweetwater took second in Saturday's 18-hole event, carding a 321. Big Spring was third with a 340.

Snyder, which was only 10 strokes out of second place going into last weekend's event, stumbled here. The Tigers shot a 369 for 13th, and are ninth in the two-meet standings with a 716 total.

Snyder junior varsity shot a 384 and holds an 833 total after 36 holes.

Mike Trull led Snyder A team with an 86. Mark McQueen and Wade Hatter put together 94s while Chad Sellars shot a 95 and Ken Meckely turned in a 100.

For the junior varsity unit, Jason Polk shot an 85, Brett Morton a 95, Coy Berryman a 100, Robin Kraatz a 104 and Mike Forshee a 119.

Dusters honored at reception set for this Thursday

A reception to honor Western Texas College's Dusters will be held at 11:15 a.m. Thursday in the college Student Center, it has been announced.

The Dusters won conference and regional basketball titles, and placed fourth in the nation in the NJCAA National Tournament earlier this month.

Refreshments will be served at the reception and the community is encouraged to attend.

Thinclads score a handful but showing improvement

SAN ANGELO -- Snyder boys scored just nine points here Saturday, but that didn't stop track coach Kevin Wiseman from being encouraged.

"We did well but the competition did well, too. We had several kids who just missed qualifying for the finals but who had their best times of the season," said the coach.

Snyder got its points on a fifth place finish by the 1600 meter relay team and Chris Garrett's 6-2 effort in the high jump.

The relay team of Michael Riggins, Jeff Rose, Craig Watkins and Dan Krenek clocked a 3:33.8.

"We had run a 3:28.9 in the prelims Friday and that was the fastest Snyder has run it in several years," said Wiseman. "It's the 10th best time in school history. Our kids were real excited about it."

Snyder's 400 meter relay team - made up of the same four students - ran a season best of 44.8 and just missed qualifying.

Garrett tied for third place with his 6-2 in the high jump. He lost the medal on a coin flip.

"Our two pole vaulters both cleared 11-6 and that's a seasonal best for them so we hope they are coming on a little bit now," said Wiseman of Vyron Clay and Mark Green.

"And Trey Tippens threw the discus 126 or 127 feet which is a personal best for him. Also, our freshman miler (Louis Alaniz) ran a 5:02. We had several kids like that who ran well but just not well enough considering the competition," noted the coach.

Big Spring won the meet with a runnaway total of 164 points. Monahans was second with 70.

Snyder will compete in the relays at Big Spring this Saturday, April 4.

"It ought to be a good preview before district. Most of the district teams in this half of the district will be there, along with Levelland," Wiseman said.

The District 2-4A Track and Field Championships are scheduled for April 10 in Andrews.

UT-Arlington hires Midland's Jerry Stone

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Midland College Coach Jerry Stone has been hired as head basketball coach at the University of Texas at Arlington, athletic director Bill Reeves announced today.

Stone, who led his team to a 32-4 record during the past season, replaces Bob "Snake" LeGrand, whose contract was not renewed last month.

Court offer due to districts

"If we (the appraisal district) combined all six jurisdictions, we could collect taxes at about 2.5-tenths of 1 percent," he said.

Currently, the county tax assessor-collector's office collects taxes for the City of Snyder and for Western Texas College as well as for the county.

Taxes assessed by Snyder ISD, Hermleigh ISD and Ira ISD are collected by the appraisal district.

"To collect for all is no more cost or time. We can collect for one or all six (jurisdictions) for the same cost. No extra help would have to be hired and I see no increase except a little postage if we had to send out more than one receipt," Tax Assessor Rona Sikes told the court.

Pct. 3 Commissioner C.D. Gray, who offered the proposal, said he believes local residents would rather pay all taxes in one place.

The city, college and school districts could consolidate under the appraisal district by majority vote of their governing bodies. However, county taxes could not be collected by the district unless authorized by the tax assessor. Sikes indicated she would not authorize a move "unless the people want it."

Court members will meet with each school board during their first meetings following next Saturday's election.

In other action, commissioners agreed to add maternity benefits to the county's health insurance plan for the wives of county employees. The spouse must be covered by the plan for at least 10 months before she becomes eligible for the benefit.

Court members also tabled renewal of a maintenence contract with Esco Elevators, Inc.

Elderly are still in poverty

WASHINGTON (AP) — While America's elderly are in increasingly better financial shape as a group, more than one in 10 still live in poverty, according to a study issued today.

Citing the "need to dig beneath the averages," the report found that two out of 10 elderly women who live alone exist in poverty and that three out of 10 elderly blacks fall below the federal poverty standards.

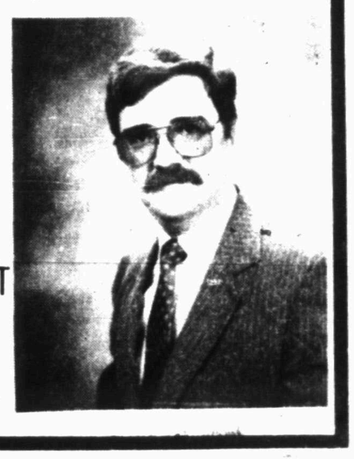

Moreover, more than one-third of the nation's disabled adults below age 65 also are officially poor. All told, about 13 percent of the elderly are poverty stricken.

The poverty line for a single person over 65 is $4,775 income per year and $6,023 for an elderly couple.

The report by the Urban Institute outlined a range of options to finance increased benefits for the elderly poor and disabled adults under the federal Supplemental Security Income program established in 1974.

Con games victimize elderly West Texans

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — Con games such as the Jamaican Switch, in which bank customers are tricked into withdrawing bank funds, are increasing in West Texas, authorities say, with the elderly among many victims.

The quick-cash con games have grown from a reported average of about six incidents per year to 10 or 12 scams annually, said Bianca Brister, a police detective who investigates "buncos", or confidence and swindling games.

The Jamaican Switch "is becoming more and more prevalent in West Texas," Ms. Brister said.

In it, a man approaches a customer leaving a bank, asking in accented English for directions to an unknown street.

When confronted with a bunco player, "The best thing you can do is tell them to ask the police," Ms. Brister said. "They'll leave you alone."

Victims are often offered a large roll of money, called a "flash pack," for help in finding the nonexistent address, she said. The scheme unfolds "like a play where everyone knows the lines but the victim."

Next, a "passerby" invariably joins the foreigner and victim in advising the lost "foreigner", who distrusts banks, to deposit the cash. To convince him, the passerby makes a cash withdrawal to show U.S. banks are dependable.

The foreigner remains doubtful and offers to match dollar for dollar any cash the victim withdraws. The foreigner then puts it and the matching cash he has bet into an envelope or bank bag and hands the container to the passerby.

Then the passerby offers to help the foreigner find the unknown street and hands an envelope back to the victim. But when the victim opens the envelope, it will be full of papers, not cash, said Ms. Brister.

The pigeon drop, the bait and switch, the Texas Twist and the Three-card Monte are among variations of the cons familiar to authorities, she said.

"But like a lot of other crimes, they're moving into Texas, too," she said. "All over Texas, it's becoming a bigger problem in the last two years."

The arrest and indictment last November of several members of a bunco gang probably slowed the rate of such cons in Odessa, she said.

Assault case said possible

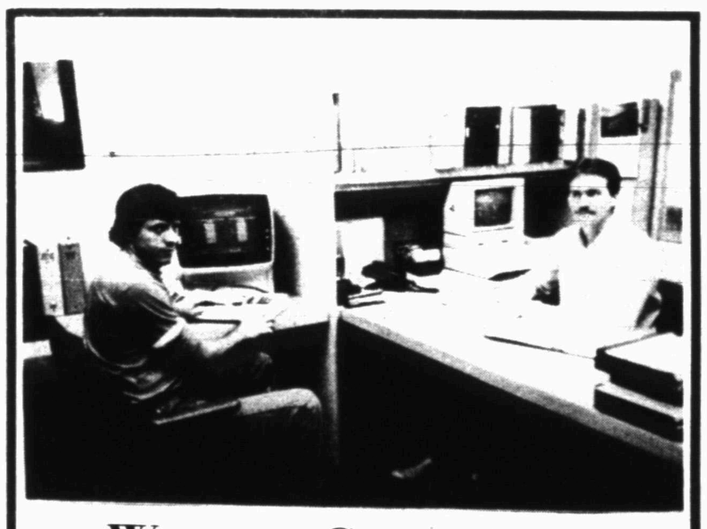

Police are investigating a possible case of sexual assault on a child reported Friday night.

Police were called into the case at 10:31 p.m. Friday by personnel at Cogdell Memorial Hospital who reported having a 4-year-old girl at the hospital emergency room who might have been the victim of a sexual assault.

Physicians examining the child did not determine that a sexual assault had actually occurred and no formal report was taken until Saturday morning.

Arrests noted

In weekend action, police jailed four misdemeaor suspects Saturday night including three charged with driving while intoxicated and one charged with public intoxication.
