Youth Dies As Result Of Hazing

FOOTBALL RIVALRY IS CLIMAXED BY DEATH

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 22 (P).—Another name has been added to the list of football victims, but this time, Montress Freeman, a student at Birmingham Southern college, died from a pistol wound inflicted by O. H. Westbrook, student of a rival institution, Howard college, which came as a climax to intense rivalry between the two student bodies over the annual football game scheduled for Saturday.

Westbrook, heart broken, was in custody of police today, while college heads and city officials debated the advisability of cancelling the game which has been an annual feature of the football season here for many years.

Westbrook, who surrendered to police soon after firing the shot which killed Freeman, declared he shot when Freeman, accompanied by other fellow students, went to a suburban drug store where he worked, last night and attempted to force him outside to be hazed.

The youthful student said he did not see the pistol from the drawer until Freeman approached him aggressively.

Freeman died of a bullet wound in the right breast enroute to a hospital.

Both Freeman and Westbrook resided in Gadsden, Ala., and were working their way through school.

Rivalry between Birmingham Southern, a Methodist college, and Howard college, Baptist, both Birmingham institutions, has been known for many years, and just before the annual football games in the past, hazing and vandalism have been reported staged by students of the two schools.

FILM ACTRESS DRUNK, SAID

ACCUSE ALMA RUBENS AFTER ALTERCATION AT HOLLYWOOD

(By Associated Press)
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22.—A charge that Alma Rubens, screen actress, was "extremely intoxicated" and that she thrust herself into an argument over an automobile collision which led her negro maid to administer a beating to a Beverly Hills woman motorist drew an indignant denial from the actress here last night. Miss Rubens declared she would ask her lawyer to "protect my interests in the affair."

The charge was made in an affidavit filed in the city prosecutor's office by Mrs. W. N. Schoelwer of Hills. Mrs. Schoelwer obtained issuance of a complaint charging Miss Rubens' maid, Edna Clayton, with battery. The affidavit also declared that Miss Rubens threatened Mrs. Schoelwer with bodily harm during the argument. The affidavit said Miss Rubens' automobile occupied by the maid and a chauffeur, collided with Mrs. Schoelwer's car, parked at a motion picture studio in Hollywood. It was alleged that an argument ensued between Mrs. Schoelwer and a friend, Mrs. W. G. Swenson, which was climaxed by the maid seizing Mrs. Schoelwer by the throat and beating her in the face with her fist.

Miss Rubens entered the picture, according to the affidavit, when she

FRANKLIN H. PEARCE IS FATALITY HURT IN IDALOU SMASH-UP

One person is dead and two others injured, one possibly fatally, as a result of three accidents in and near Lubbock yesterday and last night.

Franklin H. Pearce, 21 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Pearce of Idalou died in a local sanitarium at about 9:30 o'clock this morning as a result of injuries sustained yesterday afternoon when an automobile collision near Idalou.

Leon Malone, 35, is in a local sanitarium suffering from injuries received yesterday afternoon when a shaft of the Shallowater gin, where he was employed, crushed the side of his face and jaw. Attending physicians this morning reported that he was not yet out of danger and that complications might set in within the next forty eight hours, which would cause the injuries to prove fatal.

Italian Is Hurt
Imeo Arty, Italian, was painfully injured last night when the car in which he was riding collided with another at the corner of 16th street and Avenue T. He was picked up by a Bynum Brothers ambulance and carried to the Lubbock sanitarium where he was reported to be resting this morning. His injuries were not considered serious.

Funeral services will be held at the Lubbock cemetery at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning for young Pearce. The Rev. G. E. Anthony, pastor of the Church of God, will conduct the services. Other than his widow, he is survived by his parents; one sister, Mrs. J. W. Williams of Carey and five brothers. Mr. Pearce's skull was fractured when the light touring car in which he, his wife and his brother, John Wesley Pearce, were riding, collided with a coupe, said to have been from Petersburg, at a filling station near Idalou. The other occupants of the cars were uninjured. But it was thought that the head of Mr. Pearce struck the steering wheel or the windshield.

GOATHAM ASTIR AS ENORMOUS ESTATE IS SPLIT

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The world's financial center, used to gild talk about millions, gasped today when it learned that the late Payne Whitney had left a gross estate of $176,893,655. This was the largest estate in the history of the transfer tax bureau.

Filing of the estate's appraisal revealed that the financier and sportsman had bequeathed more than $45,000,000 to educational and charitable institutions, including Yale University—his alma mater—the New York hospital, Cornell University medical school, the New York Public Library and others.

A residuary trust fund of nearly $26,000,000 was set aside for giving aid to charitable, educational, scientific and literary organizations, at the discretion of the trustees.

Mr. Whitney's widow, Mrs. Helen Hay Whitney, a daughter of John Hay, a former secretary of state, got the largest single share of the

WHITTENBERG SUIT NEARING END THURSDAY

PICTURESQUE GROUP AT PANHANDLE COURT TO HEAR TESTIMONY

(By Associated Press)
PANHANDLE, Nov. 22.—In the tiny Hutchinson county courtroom where a picturesque group of veteran ranchmen and fashionably dressed oil operators gathered, one of Texas' largest breach of promise suits, a $1,000,000 litigation against J. A. Whittenberg, neared its end today.

Final testimony which seemed to prove that Mrs. Denise Van Dever, 45, one time cook on the West Texas oil millionaire's ranch, had numerous associations with other men at the time of her purported engagement with the 71-year-old pioneer, featured the fourth day of the hearing.

After Whittenberg denied from the witness stand that he had ever proposed to the woman, a mother of six children, an array of witnesses was marshaled by defense counsel to substantiate his testimony that nothing other than ordinary relations between employer and employee existed between the two.

One witness asserted that Mrs. Van Dever had told of plans to "dress up for the old man and spit sugar in his ear in order to get him to propose."

Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Parks, owner of an El Estero rooming house where the plaintiff was once a guest, told

HOOPER WINS OUT IN BATTLE WITH DEEP SEA FISH AS BATTLESHIP IS HALTED OFF LOWER MEXICAN COAST

BY JAMES L. WEST
Associated Press Staff Writer
U. S. S. MARYLAND, Nov. 22 (P).—Having demonstrated his prowess as a deep sea fisherman, Herbert Hoover passed on today on his good-will tour to Latin America. The Maryland this morning was ploughing steadily through tropical waters off the Mexican coast, three days distant from Anapala, Honduras, the President-elect's first port of call.

The fishing expedition off Cape San Lucas, on the southern tip of Lower California, proved the high spot of the voyage since leaving San Francisco, Calif. The President-elect hauled in a fifteen pound dolphin and a five pound mackerel. Three other members of the party snared one fish each in 45 minutes of sport.

Dons Old Clothes
Laying aside his natix ratching costume of the yeoman's cap, blue coat and white trousers for old tops. Mr. Hoover left the great battleship which hove to five miles off shore, in a small boat. He approached the cape and went to a spot where he had been informed by radio, great fish had been hooked by friends a year or so ago. Captain Victor A. Kimberly acted as patrol captain to keep off any interference from small boats that might come from the only town along the barren stretch of rocky coastline.

Mr. Hoover rigged his reel and shed his coat and was ready for fishing by the time the boat reached the entrance to a small bay. He first used a spinner but after ten minutes had passed without a catch, he switched to a live bait. He caught a small fish, which he released. He then caught a larger fish, which he also released. He continued fishing until dark, but did not catch any more fish.

SPECIALS LEAVE AFTER CELEBRATION FEST AT GYMNASIUM

Tired and trip-worn from a three day good will excursion over the new 204 mile South Plains extension of the Fort Worth and Denver railway, approximately five hundred delegates representing Dallas, Fort Worth, Amarillo and the Denver and Burlington railway systems began homeward journeys between 9:45 and 11 o'clock last night. Arriving in the city beginning at 5:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon, two and a half hours behind schedule, the visitors from the four specials marched downtown to Texas Avenue in front of the court house square. They were carried to the college gymnasium by waiting cars under the direction of G. P. Kuykendall, chairman of the transportation committee.

THIRD OF CROP IS HARVESTED

THIS IS ESTIMATE OF FEDERAL BUREAU MAN IN CITY

One-third of the cotton crop of Lubbock county has already been harvested, according to the opinion of Frank Nelson, U. S. federal farm labor employment bureau agent, who has been stationed in this section all fall to handle the cotton picking situation.

He said this morning that sufficient pickers had been imported into this section to care for the remainder of the picking.

According to totals compiled by the Avalanche-Journal, approximately 15,000 bales of cotton have already been ginned in this county this year. Should Mr. Nelson's statement that one-third had been gathered prove correct, the total yield will be about 45,000 bales.

The prediction of the 1928 cotton crop, made by County Agent D. F. Eaton several weeks ago, placed the total number of bales at between 35,000 and 40,000. Last year's yield was 48,000 bales.

Mr. Nelson said this morning that many farmers of this section were holding back on their picking until the cotton opened more, so that one picking would suffice.

CHICAGO COPS CAPTURE AXE FIEND, BELIEF

NEGRO BELIEVED ONE SOUGHT IN OMAHA IS APPREHENDED

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—A negro hatchet-man, beaten down by his own hand axe, was held here today as a suspect in the Omaha, Neb., "hatchet" slayings.

The prisoner, confined to the Bridewell hospital, under close guard, said he was Harry Gonsha, 29 years old. He was arrested yesterday after he had robbed the home of Alfred Samuelson, city fireman. His description, even to his clothing, fitted that of the man sought for the series of Omaha attacks.

Gonsha carried a hatchet in his belt when he entered the Samuelson home. Fleeing, he was overtaken by Samuelson who wrested the hand-axe from the negro's hand and struck him several times, knocking him unconscious.

After questioning Gonsha, Police Captain James Doherty telegraphed Omaha police: "I believe your ax man is under arrest here."

Gonsha, who was not seriously injured when his hatchet was turned upon him by Samuelson, was somewhat hazy concerning his movements of the past week, Captain Doherty said.

"Where did you get the axe?" the captain asked, and the answer was: "I got it next door, in a basement."

The theft of a hand-axe from some place near his victim's home was an act of the Omaha axeman in each of his three attacks.

HOUSTON, Nov. 22 (P).—An expensive automobile and its owner were hunted today by officers following a new clue in an attempt to find the slayer of a baby, whose dismembered body was fished from a pool here Tuesday.

Rev. W. A. (Bill) Hart, for more than a third of a century an effective circuit-rider is leaving shortly for South Texas for the benefit of his wife's health. There is hardly a place on the South Plains that does not know him personally. This year he served the Lamesa Circuit.

the Lubbock district. He served Weinert in 1927.

Rev. Ed. R. Wallace, presiding elder in the West Oklahoma Conference, is attending the conference and meeting his many friends. He has served many charges in this conference.

Rev. J. W. R. Bachman, superannuated preacher, addressed the conference briefly Wednesday morning.

Rev. T. W. Brabham, pastor at Pampa, says Pampa wants the next annual conference and if enough of the preachers and laymen will vote for his town, he will show them how to entertain the body in 1929.

Rev. J. B. Anglin, pastor of Morton-Bledsoe Circuit, is transferring back to the New Mexico Conference, it is understood. He held some successful revival meetings this summer. He is a supply, but a "go-getter."

Jesse Young, lay leader of Andrew circuit, living at Higginbotham, is attending the conference. His Amarillo is the other contender.

Preachers declare that there is to be a real "turnover" of ministers in the conference this year. Many transfers are coming in. "Pretty crowded," declared presiding elders and bishops.

The following will probably be elected to deacon's orders and entered in full connection with the conference at this session: J. B. Baker, Putnam; R. O. Browder, Zylbach; C. R. Hardy, Blair; O. F. McCollum, Lubbock; E. B. Thompson, Elbert; G. C. Williams, Cross Plains; Hamilton Wright, Drew; F. O. Garner, Dora; W. J. Kroy, Stamford; Ray Lee, Tell. They will probably be ordained by Bishop Moore with the imposition of hands on Sunday morning just before or after his sermon.

Rev. Cal C. Wright, the new conference secretary, is an expert in secretarial work, having held down an assistant's post in this conference for many years. He is a popular minister and resides at Baird. Rev. J. W. Watson, Quanah, is an assistant. He was pastor at Lamesa last year.

The preaching of Dr. Paul B.

Kern, pastor of Travis Heights Church, San Antonio, has been a feature of the conference. Kern was for years dean of the theological department of Southern Methodist University and regarded as one of the most masterly preachers in Texas.

A Perfect Pass

THE BOWL is filled... the time grows short... from out of the mass an oval shoots... spins on to open arms... a perfect pass... a thrill... a game.

And when on your way home you pull up behind a powerful car... a rather fast clip... you push the accelerator down... you shoot ahead... without a knock. The motor roars... you're by... a perfect pass... a thrill... yes, it's Red Wing.

Nature made it... gave it anti-knock performance and super-power, too. Simms refined it... colored it red to distinguish it from Simms regular gasoline... and take a tip... there's many a "pass" in a tank of Red Wing.

Potatoes

JUST because we eat them almost every day we are likely to think of potatoes as a homely food. Why—they are banquet food! Really the flavor of the potato—particularly when French fried—is one of the most subtle and delicate of all flavors that inventive nature ever concocted.

But to bring out this delicate flavor it is essential that you use a sweet flavored cooking fat. And there's only one way to really test the flavor of your fat—taste it, just as you taste your milk; just as you test your eggs.

Taste Crisco as it comes from the can. Isn't it easy to understand now why Crisco's fresh sweet flavor makes fried foods taste so much better?

French Fried Potatoes

A real treat at home. When fried in Crisco they are delicious—a crisp even brown, no greasy outside and no smoke in your kitchen.

Allow one medium-sized potato for each person. Peel potatoes, cut in strips about one-half inch square. Let stand in cold water about an hour, or they can be kept in the ice-box overnight if covered with water. When ready to fry, drain, dry in a towel, and put a few at a time into hot Crisco (375° F.), or when a bread crumb browns in 20 seconds. When brown and tender, drain on brown paper, sprinkle with salt, and serve.

Fry raw or cooked sweet potatoes the same way, but do not soak them in water.

Never wait for Crisco to smoke, as it would be too hot to fry if it were hot enough to smoke.

OVER PLAN GETS SUPPORT OF GOVERNORS

EXECUTIVES WILL LEND
MORAL ENDORSEMENT
TO PLAN PROPOSED

(By Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 22.—Commonwealth governors ended their annual conference here a day ahead of schedule to lend their moral support in the roles of private citizens to Herbert Hoover's proposed $3,000,000,000 surplus to remedy slack times unemployment, up for final consideration by the American Federation of Labor today.

The governors yesterday adhered to precedent by declining to adopt resolutions endorsing the president's plan for stabilizing industry of the nation, but Gov. Ralph O. Brewster of Maine, who outlined the proposal in their conference, said that seven of the chief executives favored the movement and the plan received enthusiastic consideration in an executive session of the governors.

After gubernatorial response to the Hoover construction plan it was accorded informal acceptance in the labor convention when the address of Gov. Brewster was read before the labor men by John P. Fry, secretary of the Federation of Labor.

The Hoover industrial program was described by William Green, president of the Federation of Labor, as a full and complete endorsement of the wage policy of the federation.

Such tremendous interest was displayed in the surplus proposal that the governors terminated their annual table discussions abruptly to sit with the labor delegates during their discussions on formal consideration of the plan today and thereby saved the annual governors' banquet as the concluding social feature tonight.

Resolutions awaiting formal action before the federation of labor today were those asking approval of the multi-lateral peace treaty negotiated by Secretary Kellogg and proposing a conference to promote organization work in the South.

Officer Defends Vestris Captain

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The senior surviving officer of the foundered steamer Vestris testified at the government inquiry into the disaster today that if he had been in command he would have broadcast the SOS no sooner than Captain William Carey did.

The witness was Chief Officer Frank Johnson. He said that moderating weather a week ago Monday would have caused him to delay asking for aid until the middle of the morning, though the ship was on her beam ends and her starboard rail awash.

Stock Sales Race Past Six Million

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—With sales running above the 6,000,000 share day level, price trends on the New York Stock Exchange were divergent today, with Radio again the spectacular performer.

This stock bounded up to $77 1/2 for an overnight gain of $21, and $111 beyond yesterday's peak figure. DuPont and Case Threshing, which sold around $500 yesterday, and International Harvester which approached $400, fell $3 to $5 under yesterday's closing prices. National Biscuit and Union Carbide sold $8 higher, while Wright Aero and Keith-Albee preferred rose $6.

"This is the first time," Judge Gemmill said, "I have ever heard of a ghost being named a co-respondent, but I guess you deserve a divorce."

"POISONING NURSE" JUDGED INSANE

PROSECUTION SAYS MRS. GIFFORD SAT UP WITH SICK, THEN WATCHED THEM DIE

(By Associated Press)
UNION, Mo. Nov. 22.—The "Gooey" Starlin, Mrs. Bertha Gifford, who was always ready to "sit up" with the sick and who watched eighteen persons die writhing in paroxysms of pain caused, the state believes, by poison she administered, must spend the rest of her life in an insane asylum.

A jury last night found the "Poison Woman" not guilty of the murder of Ed Brinley "on the sole ground that she was insane at the time of the commission of the offense."

After an investigation police expressed the opinion that Arnold accidentally shot Davis as they were crawling under a fence, and then becoming remorseful shot himself.

BORGER, Tex., Nov. 22.—(AP)—J. E. Higgins, Borger city commissioner indicted Saturday on charges of alleged violation of the anti-nepotism law, was released today under $1,000 bond.

After the assassination in Sofia today said that Ivan Michailoff, Macedonian revolutionary leader, was reported to be threatening to march on the Bulgarian capital on short notice.

The population was stated to be panic-stricken. Public buildings were occupied by troops. Streets were deserted at 10 o'clock last night.

Along the approaches to Petrich, which is Michailoff's stronghold, bodies of his murdered opponents were stated to be hanging from trees on both sides of the road. The initials of the Macedonian organization were branded on their chests.

The revolutionary leaders men were said to be questioning everything they wanted from the terror-stricken population whose number was being decimated by the comitajts or irregulars.

A meeting of the Bulgarian cabinet was summoned for today. It was common knowledge, however, that the majority of troops and officials were siding with Michailoff.

Ivan Michailoff has been the prime mover of the internal Macedonian revolutionary organization—an illegal association striving to free Macedonia by force of arms—ever since the assassination in Vienna of Todor Alexandroff four years ago.

After the assassination in Sofia on July 7 of General Alexander Protogeroff, leader of a rival Macedonian group, a bitter feud between the two organizations developed.

On October 13 Michailoff pronounced the "death sentence" upon all supporters of General Protogeroff. On November 17 eleven members of the rival organization were shot to death near Petrich by Michailoff supporters. George Nandess, one of Michailoff's chief lieutenants, and Nandess' adjutant were killed recently by adherents of General Protogeroff.

Overton, city attorney of Borger, was elected special judge of the thirty-first district court by Hutchinson county lawyers. About 31 cases have been transferred to the court over which he indicated he would preside tomorrow.

The special court would have no jurisdiction over recent indictments of Borger city officials.

Bodies Of Missing
Aviators Are Found

VICTORIA, Tex., Nov. 22.—(AP)—
The bodies of Lieut. Frank V. Corson and Private James Snedaker, Army aviators, drowned in Mata-gorda Bay Friday after leaving their disabled plane in parachutes, were found today by Army planes that have been scanning the waters since the accident occurred.

Corson's body was found in shal-was expressed that Snedaker's remains would be recovered. While flying over the spot where Snedaker disappeared the searching aviators saw a school of sharks and fired their machine guns into the creatures. When the fish scattered it was seen they had been devouring a body.

Singing, Says French Star, No Excuse For Being Fat

By MINOTT SAUNDERS
NEA Service Writer

PARIS, Nov. 22.—Laugh and grow fat if you want to, but don't grow fat if you sing. This is the advice of Miss Hallie Stiles of Syracuse, N. Y., the only American girl starring at the Opera Comique here. She spends almost as much time keeping herself physically fit as she does cultivating her voice, and she is recognized here as an artist.

"It is a fallacy that a singer must allow herself to grow fat to safeguard her voice," she said as she straightened out from a series of exercises in her Paris studio. "It is true that she must protect her health, for the voice is the harbinger of health, but too much flesh is worse than too little. You never heard a fat bird sing in the spring. Why expect a fat woman to sing a song of spring?"

In Paris Two Years—Miss Stiles forsok society for the more arduous pursuit of a career as an opera singer and for two years she has won success at the famous Opera Comique in such roles as Manon, Louise and Clotilde. In her advice to young singers she said:

"Remember that Adelina Patti, who had one of the most marvelous voices of all time and a remarkably long career as a singer, was a delicate and slender woman. Mary Garden, who has been before the public for more years than it is polite to say, still has the figure of a girl of 20."

"I believe that a singer should keep her body as supple as she does her voice. Her muscles must be as pliable as those of an athlete, ready to respond instantly to the demand of the emotions, if she is to play popular roles."

"In studying for my role in 'Pe-

leas et Melisande' I had the help of Margaret Sanderson of San Francisco, who has trained such notable women as Ethel Barrymore, Blanche Yurka and other American actresses. Through daily exercises with her I am able to co-ordinate my muscles so that I can express the rhythm of the music with my body as well as with my voice.

While singing the role of Melisande, for instance, I must rise from a prone position on the floor to an upright posture with arms outstretched. If the muscles of my body did not react as easily as the muscles of my throat I could not do it gracefully.

"More harm is done to a voice by being too fat physically than from any other form of ill health. A singer should not get too thin, because she needs strength, but she should fit herself to play her part. It is a case of keeping up appearances."

Miss Stiles recommends dieting and calisthenics for a singer's body and nerves.

"The old saying that a man is as good as the sweater goes and with women, she said, 'keep the body young and the voice will remain pure."

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

TIMIDITY CAUSES TORMENT TO GIRL WHO WOULD BE LIKED

Are you timid and self-conscious? Do you blush, stammer, turn white at the moment when you would make the best impression? What do you do? There is only one thing and that is to forget yourself. You are loom up too high in your own horizon. There are many people and things much more important than yourself. Tell yourself so over and over, if necessary. The persons you are to meet are probably much more interesting. Focus your attention on them. It is not as easy as it sounds, I know, but persevere. It will be easier by and by.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: Please won't you help me? My drawbacks are a few timidities. I blush and whiten at every least little thing. I'm afraid of the company of boys—not that they'll harm me physically or mentally—but it's my being timid that makes me so, even though I've been going out for years. I've tried to overcome it, but have never succeeded. Now it has caused me wakeful nights, floods of tears and oodles of worry. I have known a certain boy about a year. He was crazy about me before he met me and a little while afterwards he said to me, 'I've invited you to a dance. I accepted. When I went out with him I had one of my timid spells and my tongue refused to move when I tried to talk and act natural. It simply drove me crazy. It was awful. He had a pretty tough time, as he's good looking and popular and therefore used to real girls, and though he tried to hide his feelings I could plainly see he was bored stiff. Mrs. Lee, I know I'll never get another chance to date up with him again unless I get busy. How, for heaven's sake, can I get over being timid? How can I attract him again? Please Mrs. Lee, if you've ever answered anyone's prayer answer my letter as soon as possible. LITTLE INNOCENCE."

Think of him, and others with whom you come in contact. Innocence, not in connection with yourself, but as interesting personalities that you want to know and understand. Put this troublesome self of yours away, way back and forget it, and go about having a good time. You are not in the least important, you know, and you are not to hear and understand all you meet in this world in order to live fully. Why not invite the young man to your home sometime soon and give him such a good time that he will forget all about the unfortunate evening—which may not have been nearly as bad as you imagined. Your wish to make a good impression on the young man helps to make you more self-conscious. Forget it, treat him as would a gift and get him to tell you his hopes for the future, his hobbies and his trials. And let me know if it works.

"My Dear Mrs. Lee: I am wildly in love with a boy and have been for three years, and he loves me a great deal. We were engaged, but he was jealous and we broke up. Now we have been talking to each other by telephone. He calls from long distance. He claims he still loves me, but will not come to make up with my family. I don't want to run off to marry. Shall I quit talking to him when he calls? I am lonely and I want to be with him. I am going to be a nun if I can't marry the boy I love. Is it all right to be a nun and forget all?

"DISGUSTED."

You wouldn't stop thinking because you became a nun. Disgusted, any more than if you stayed at home and went about your ordinary duties. The only reason one should have for becoming a nun or any-

Social and Club Affairs Are Postponed Because of Conference and Celebration

With the Methodist conference in session and the railroad celebration of Wednesday, many of the regular social and club activities of the town have been postponed to later dates or omitted altogether. With the exception of a party for Mrs. Lovie Thompson, bride, given yesterday afternoon, there was a dearth of events. The Senior high school P. T. A. meeting was postponed. In the evening the E. Y. Freelanders were hosts to members of the Hi-Lo club at their home, 2517 Paso Robles.

To Fete Visitors—Women who are here for the conference will be complimented this afternoon by the First Methodist Mary Helm society in a tea which is to be in the church parlors and will follow immediately after the afternoon session of the conference.

Miss Geraldine Smith is entertaining Sans Souci club members today in her home, 1922 9th street, and Kongential Klub women are guests of Mrs. O. E. Brashear this afternoon. The K. Carter P. T. A. is meeting at the school for a lesson on the milk problem with Mrs. W. H. Bledsoe as program leader and the Lu-Beta Delphian society will have a regular meeting in room 214 of the Tech administration building.

Christmas Theme—Red candles, mistletoe and other appointments in the Christmas motif were used by Mrs. Freeland for her party last evening. Dr. and Mrs. Gross made high score among the couples playing and were presented with a prize. Others who were guests were Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Jackson, Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Young, Dr. and Mrs. O. H. Ater, Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn E. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. McKee, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Stangel, Mr. and Mrs. Don L. Jones.

THE TINYMITES

BY HAL COCHRAN

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

Upon the moon brave Clowmy crawled and for a moment he just gazed around and almost tumbled off. Then Mister Moon Man said, "Hey! Don't be frightened! You're all right. Just sit up straight and hang on tight. I will not whirl around 'cause you'd get dizzy in the head."

Then Clowmy straightened up real quick. The others thought he looked real slick. His little feet were hanging down, and waving in the air. "All ready," said the Moon Man loud. "We're going to leave this little crowd. I'll take you way up higher, where the atmosphere is rare."

A funny swishing sound then came, and like a wondrous streak of flame, the moon went sailing into space, and Clowmy looked real scared. The Moon Man shortly noticed this, and said, "We cannot go unless I promise you're safe. Just think how lucky you have been."

"I'm always glad to furnish fun, but you will be the only one to get a ride upon my chin. My time is short, you see. The Milky Way will be our track, and then I'll have to take you back to the earth. Think that you're as ducky as can be."

Up through the milky way they sailed and several stars the Moon Man hailed. "You seem to know all of the stars," said Clowmy, with a smile. "You bet!" he heard his friend reply. "You see I'm ruler of the sky. If you would like to, you shall meet a small star after while."

They both kept quiet quite a spell. Then Clowmy heard the Moon Man yell, "It's time that we are getting back. Now watch how neat I float." The moon then drifted slowly through the air. The first thing Clowmy knew the Tinymites were shouting. And he landed near the boat.

(Security and Carry take a star ride in the next story.)

Moody Declines Special Session
AUSTIN, Nov. 22 (P)—Governor Moody said today he has declined several requests to call a special session of the legislature immediately to make provision for pay of justices of the peace in criminal cases.

The court of criminal appeals recently declared the portion of the fee law applying to justices of the peace unconstitutional, because pay of the justices depend on convicting defendants.

FRESHMEN POLISH TRAINING FOR GAME WITH YEARLINGS

CITY BASKETBALL LEAGUE GETS UNDER WAY MONDAY NIGHT

HOT CONTEST IS FORECAST IN CITY LOOP

PRODUCERS TO BATTLE PIGGLY-WIGGLY IN FIRST GAME

Two basketball games Monday night at the high school gymnasium with two men's teams and two women's teams participating will start the city league off on what is expected to be the hottest basketball race ever witnessed in Lubbock. For the first time in history women teams will enter the competition.

On the opening night in the men's class the Producers will meet the Piggly-Wiggly five, and in the women's division the Myrick Building team will tangle up with the Bell Telephone Girls.

A round robin schedule arranged last night at a meeting of league officials calls for four men's games each week and two women's contests. On Monday and Wednesday nights there will be a double bill attraction with both men's and women's teams participating. On Friday night of each week there will be two men's games. Each team entered will play the other teams one game each.

Following is the list of men's teams in the league: Super Service, Lubbock Business College, Producers, Teachers, National Guard, Montgomery-Ward, Piggly-Wiggly and Avalanche-Journal.

The women teams entered are: Bell Telephone Co., Lubbock Business College, Myrick Building, Montgomery-Ward and two local hospitals.

On Wednesday night of next week the National Guard quintet will tangle up with the Montgomery-Ward men's team and the Montgomery-Ward girls will meet the Business College.

Friday night Super Service meets the Business College quintet and the Producers and Teachers furnish the other contests.

Joe Made The Cub

The Chicago Cub machine, which appears to have been almost perfectly finished and polished by the acquisition of Rogers Hornsby is largely the creation of the astute Joe McCarthy.

Since he left the minor leagues to take charge of the Cubs the team has been almost entirely rebuilt and every move made in the rebuilding was engineered by McCarthy.

He brought Rags Stephenson back from the minors when every other manager in the major leagues couldn't see him.

He pulled a fast one on the New York Giants when he slipped in a draft claim for Hack Wilson after the Giants had forgotten that the Hack belonged to them.

He brought Woody English and Freddy Maguire up from the minor leagues, took Art Nehf when he was at Cincinnati and arranged the transfer of Hal Carlson from the Phils.

He secured Kiki Ouyler when he heard that the Pirates had decided to get rid of him, and he was the first one to the counter when a friendly tip brought the information that Hornsby was no longer considered an essential in Boston.

Who Could She Be?

Bill Tilden, who was recently declared ineligible to play amateur tennis any place in the world, will be reinstated at the annual meeting of the United States Lawn Tennis Association early next year and then the International Federation will restore him to good standing in all the other nations.

But while Tilden will be liberated from the tennis wall after serving an indeterminate sentence for a technical violation of the law, full citizenship will not be restored to him.

Tilden, it has been learned from an authoritative source, will be permitted to play tennis again as an individual, but he never will be allowed to represent the United States again in any kind of international competition.

The real reason why Tilden will not be punished more severely is an interesting story, but it never will be told because it would expose another player whom the tennis association doesn't dare to mention only in a breath of reverent admiration.

And They Were All Friends

O'Boyle, one of those ever occurring Notre Dame stars who is now playing with the Green Bay pro team, is crav about from kicking. In a number of games he bothered his board of strategy to death with remarks to shoot for the goal every time he got within shooting distance.

Finally the team framed him in one game. As usual he wanted to kick and the boys submitted meekly and went on to their positions on the line. When the ball was snapped they all stood out of position and emotionally every player but the one who was on the other side of the line crashed through and buried him.

WAGER ON TUNNEY SUCCESSOR

BY EDWARD J. NEIL

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP)—Seven of the wealthiest sportsmen in the United States, clad in evening dress, lollied behind clouds of tobacco smoke in the massive chairs in the private offices of Tex Rickard.

In through the closed doors filtered the sounds that rise from 20,000 howling fans immersed in the thrills of two smashing hockey teams were producing on Rickard Pond in the heart of Madison Square Garden.

As directors of the Garden they had just presented to the New York

Rangers the Stanley Cup, emblem of the world's professional championship, and their work was done for the evening.

"Pool" on Champion

They talked of hockey and then of fights and out of the discussion came rabid argument and finally one of the strangest wagers ever made in sport. A pool was organized on the next heavyweight champion of the world. Each wrote his choice on a slip of paper, tossed a large wad of bills or a check into a hat, and agreed that the one who had chosen the ultimate winner should gather unto himself the entire

"pot."

But stranger of all were the choices. Tex Rickard, whose name heads all the rest when it comes to the moulding of champions, placed his trust and money on the husky frame of Young Stribling, young heavyweight from Macon,

Ga.

Bowman Takes Dempsey

Jack Dempsey had a supporter in

John McEntee Bowman, hotel magnate.

Tex warned him that Jack might never return to the ring, that he had no direct knowledge on the subject, that the odds on Dempsey regarding the title were long enough without adding the uncertainty surrounding the former champion's plans. Still Bowman took Dempsey.

When the list was made up, it was found that James I. Bush, the traction magnate, also favored Stribling to win recognition as the next heavyweight title. Bush and Rickard therefore were paired in their entry and each posted the required fee. Walter Chrysler, who makes automobiles, chose Knute Hansen, the melancholy Dane, along with

Col. John Hammond, president of the Rangers Hockey club.

Gimbel Favors Uscudun

A former amateur heavyweight and firm friend of Gene Tunney,

Richard Gimbel of department store fame, placed his hopes and dollars on Paulino Uscudun, the bounding

Basque from Spain. Richard Hoyt, a Wall Street banker, chose Jack

Sharkey, while Rickard and Bush, still competing as a team, took the

"field"—all the remaining heavyweights—on the payment of four times the individual wagers.

When they had finished, they argued the matter out and then agreed to say nothing about it for several reasons, none of which mattered. But the story was too good to keep and Rickard confessed the details—all but the exact amount of the wagers.

"I'd have picked Dempsey," he said, "except that I honestly don't know whether he'll come back. He changes his mind so fast you can't keep track of him. I want to win this one just for reputation's sake

so I can't take any chances."

LOCAL JUNIOR TEAM WINNER OFF BULLPUPS

AERIAL ATTACK PROVES DECIDING FACTOR IN LUBBOCK VICTORY

Displaying a superior brand of football and completely outclassing their heavier opponents, the Lubbock Junior high school football eleven downed the Plainview Bulls 12 to 0 on the Tech gridiron Wednesday afternoon. The local lightweights coached by George Brown and Mule Davis put on a nice exhibition of football to lead the invading gridsters throughout the contest.

Plainview took the offensive in the early minutes of play and after pulling off three first downs in succession seemed headed for a touchdown but a fumble on the Lubbock 20 yard line ended the drive. The local juniors immediately kicked out of danger and recovered the ball on the visitors 40 yard line.

Two passes mixed with end runs and line smashes carried the oval to the eight yard line as the first period ended. Lawrence Cook, Archie Corley and Frank Smith were leading the Western attack.

A stubborn Bull Pup line stopped the locals cold when the second period opened and the ball went over on the Plainview 5 yard line. Plainview kicked out to mid-field and after three plays had failed, the little Westerners were forced to punt. Blazg, Lubbock left end, was down under the punt and pounced on the pignskin on the Plainview 35 yard line after a Bull Pup had failed. A drive featuring Cook and Corley carried the oval to the 10 yard line. Finding the Plainview line holding within the shadow of their goal, Corley, Lubbock quarter called a pass. "Horsey" Douglas, right end, cut back through the Plainview Bull Pups defense and received the ball on the visitors five yard line and raced across for the first counter of the game. Corley's kick from placement was blocked.

Smith Grabs Pass

Frank Smith scored the second touchdown for the Lubbock juniors less than a minute after the first had been chalked up. A substitution had brought instruction from Homer Roper, Plainview coach, to try the aerial route. They did and Smith picked out one to his liking and raced 40 yards for the second touchdown. A bad pass from center gummed up the second attempt to rain an extra point.

Cook Roper's Bull Pups came back in the second half with world's of fight.

TOO FAST ON SCORING!

By NEA Service

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 22

—The fastest game that Everett

Strupper, former Georgia Tech halfback and now noted southern football official, ever witnessed was in the recent Alabama-Tennessee game.

"In exactly one minute and fifteen seconds after the game started, both teams had made a touchdown," he says.

"Alabama kicked off to Tennessee and the kick-off was carried back for a touchdown.

Tennessee then kicked out to Alabama and after one or two plays at the line an Alabama back crashed through the entire

Tennessee team for approximately half the distance of the field and scored a touchdown. That is the fastest scoring by both teams I've ever witnessed in a game and much too fast for me."

Ineligibility Is Hinted For Forest

DALLAS, Nov. 22 (AP)—Eligibility investigations which have struck repeatedly at high school football teams throughout Texas this year loomed threateningly over the Forest team of Dallas today as the status of Frank Terranella, star quarterback, was under investigation.

Although no protest has been filed against the player, Athletics Director John Fouts admitted school authorities were checking the youth's age to determine if he was within the limit of 20 years.

On the basis of past games, Forest will be a contender for the state championship.

As Transportation was Speeded up, the Refining of Gasoline had to Keep Step

The coming of high speed, high compression motors brought new refining problems to manufacturers of gasoline. A motor fuel with new characteristics had to be made.

With no old refinery equipment to contend with or try to bring up to date, Phillips found itself in an ideal position to produce such a gasoline. It is Phillips '66'. The long experience of the Research Department of the company has made it possible. It is a gasoline in which the volatility* is intentionally controlled to give unvarying motor performance the year round—easy starting, power and mileage every day—winter and summer.

We invite you to try a full tank. You can actually notice the difference—yet it sells at the regular price.

*Liquid gasoline must be vaporized before it will burn in an engine. Volatility refers to the ability of gasoline to vaporize.

YEARLINGS ARE STRONG, OTHER GAMES REVEAL

FROSH HOPE TO STAGE COMEBACK FROM LOSS TO ROSWELL CADETS

With but two more days in which to round off training for their final game of the season here Saturday with the Canyon Yearlings, the Tech freshman football eleven will take their last heavy session this afternoon and wind up the year's training Friday with a light workout.

Starting under the sting of the overwhelming defeat handed them by the Roswell Cadets last week, the Pioneers have made every minute count this week. Beginning Monday afternoon Coaches Higginbotham and Ingerton have worked their charges at a fast clip in an attempt to rebuild a team to send against the invaders Saturday.

With the possibility of several first stringers being kept out of the contest because of scholastic difficulties, the freshman mentors have faced the task of filling the shoes of these mainstays with the reserves on hand.

According to reports from the Yearlings' camp in Canyon, the team coming here this week-end has been holding its own among the Junior Colleges of this section and smaller schools. Several members of the team are "inexplicable" from the Lubbock squad.

The game Saturday marks the last appearance of the future Matadors as freshmen players. On the team are several potential stars who will undoubtedly carry the colors of Texas Tech into the Southwest Conference games within the next few years.

"No Practice" Sign Hung Up At S. M. U.

DALLAS, Nov. 22 (AP)—Believing a complete letdown from the strenuous schedule they have played would benefit members of his squad, Coach Ray Morrison of S. M. U. hung a "no practice" sign out at Owenby stadium yesterday and announced he would do the same today.

The ponies will be back at their task of grooming for T. C. U. on Thanksgiving day tomorrow.

Nebraska Will Get Test Against Army

CHICAGO, Nov. 22 (AP)—The University of Nebraska's unbeaten football team, mid-west aspirant for national honors, was enroute to West Point today to test the mettle of the powerful Army eleven. A tie by Pittsburgh last Saturday is the only tarnish on Nebraska's record. Short workouts at Albion, Mich., late today and at West Point Friday were expected to polish off the Cornhuskers' attack.

FRANKNESS LED TO FRIENDSHIP THAT MAY NEVER BE BROKEN ON TRACK

By NEA Service

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 22.—One of the strongest friendships encountered in any phase of sport is the friendship between Jockey Jakey Heupel and his boss, Tommy Botts, owner of horses.

The friendship began years ago shortly after Botts entered a horse he had recently claimed in a race and Heupel was given the mount. Botts laid a heavy bet on the horse, but Heupel was left at the post.

"You pulled that horse!" Botts said.

"Yeah, you're right," Heupel answered. But later—"You know I didn't. I was caught asleep at the post."

The frankness of the jockey was thus part of a friendship that is the talk of turf circles around here.

"I'll ride for Botts as long as he wants me to," says Heupel.

And those who know them say that there is such a father-and-son attitude about the pair that they never will separate.

Golfers Invading Hawaiian Islands

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22 (AP)—The liner Matsushima carried fewer debutantes and honeymooners and more athletes than usual, as she steamed toward Hawaii today.

The athletic contingent consisted of fifteen leading professional golfers of the country and the football team of the San Francisco Olympic club, the former bent on their first gold digging invasion of Hawaiian links, while the undefeated Olympic club eleven was on its way to meet the Honolulu all stars on December 1.

Headed by Tommy Armour, 1927 open champion, the delegation includes Al Espinosa, Bill Mehlhorn, Al Watrous, Frank Walsh, Horton Smith, Billy Burke, John Golden, Harry Cooper and Cyril Walker.

Former Grid Star Wounded At Wink

TEMPLE, Tex., Nov. 22 (AP)—Raleigh W. Dangleisen, one of two men critically wounded when fired upon with a shotgun in a hotel at Wink, Tuesday night, was a star on the Temple high school football team five years ago. He was one of the greatest punters ever developed here and was mentioned on various All-State selections.

L. M. Smith, a rig builder, was shot through the neck and shoulders and a charge took effect in Dangleisen's head. Both were expected to recover. L. M. Barnwell was charged with assault to kill.

Lewis Whips Texan And Retains Title

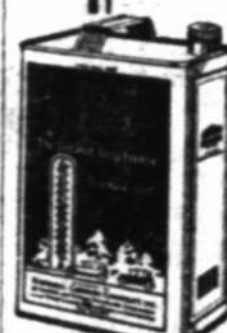

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22 (AP)—Ed (Strangler) Lewis successfully defended his heavyweight wrestling championship last night by taking the only fall in a scheduled two out of three falls match with Paul Jones, Houston, Texas, challenger.

The single fall was so severe that Jones became unconscious and remained in that condition until after the elapse of the five minute period allowed.

Fritts Trial Gets Started At Anson

ANSON, Texas, Nov. 22 (P)—The trial of Bill Fritts, charged with the murder of Earl Hamilton who, with his father, Dudley W. Hamilton, was shot to death near Rochester, Oct. 24, was to begin here today.

A continuance asked by the defendant's attorneys when the case was called for trial Oct. 24 was granted to allow counsel additional time to study the case.

Hamilton was slain after being called from his home late at night. The wife and mother of the two Hamiltons told officers the dispute arose from a liquor case facing Fritts.

The court also affirmed a Harris county district court judgment denying habeas corpus release to Nannie Hughes, or Nannie Mason, from the Harris county school for girls, from which the superintendent, Ethel Claxton, claimed the girl was "stolen away" by a man named Hughes and supposedly married.

Thought For Today

I speak to your shame. Is it so commit? No, not one that shall be —1 Cor. 6:8.

A corrupt judge is not qualified to inquire into the truth.—Horace.

Hasty?

ENITO Mussolini, dictator of Italy, declares that Europe has reached the halfway station in its post-war rebuilding process.

Within the next decade, says Il Duce, "the effects of the war will be entirely absorbed."

It would be highly comforting, in a way, if we could believe this;
comforting, yet at the same time profoundly discouraging. As it happens, however, it is not true.

To suppose that the world can in 20 years wipe out all traces of a war that cost some 5,000,000 lives, overturned three empires and burned up a simply incalculable amount of money, is to be an optimist of the highest order. It presupposes a faith in the recuperative ability of the human race that is little short of miraculous. Our own Civil War was neither so bloody nor so costly as the World War; yet in 63 years we have not got away from all of its effects. If we can heal the World War's wounds in less than half that time we are indeed, taunted.

Talented or sublimely foolish, the World War was the most impulsive object lesson in human history.
It was the price the human race paid for a long accumulation of mistakes, follies and greeds. If we can put it all out of mind within two decades, we have learned nothing by it. We are simply asking for another spanking.

But all of this moralizing is futile, after all. The effects of the war will no more be "entirely absorbed" in another 10 years than the effects of Columbus' discovery of America. The war was one of those earth-shaking facts in human history like the French Revolution, that leave reverberations for centuries afterward.

Consider the situation. Russia that was an absolute monarchy, is now a Communist experiment. The Austro-Hungarian empire has dissolved. Germany is a republic. The financial empire of the world, farmerly in the hands of England, now has its center in New York. Mussolini himself, for that matter, is a product of the war. Italy would not be saddled with him if there had been peace between 1914 and 1918.

It ought to be obvious that we have hardly begun to realize the effects of the war. A century hence they will be much clearer than they are now. Between 1914 and 1918 there came an end of one period of history and the beginning of a new one. It may be many years before the new one takes definite form, but it is here, nevertheless.

To say that we shall have absorbed the war's effects in another decade is simply to shut our eyes to the facts—and to invite another tragedy.

74 Daily

Exactly 74 persons lost their lives every day in the United States during September because of automobile accidents.

These figures come from the National Safety Council, and give more light on the astounding extent of the current traffic problem.

During the first nine months of the year our automobiles took 18, 300 lives. This is an increase over the figures of 1927; and it should be noted that the last two months of the year usually show the worst results of all.

What are we going to do about it? Will we simply ignore it and let things slide, as we have been doing? Or will we, at last, wake up and take some drastic measures that will end this national disaster?

THE PLAINSMAN

That Girl on Broadway says "all things come to him who waits—even the waiters."

Lubbock people have been up in arms for the past week or so —ever since hearing that the West Texas State Teachers college, Canyon, was to charge $3.75 per ticket at the Thanksgiving game with Texas Tech.
there. A special train is planned to Canyon and there are hundreds of people who would like to make the trip but who wouldn't consider it with a game tax of $3.75.

President Horn of Tech, called the Canyon institution on the telephone in regard to the reported price and learned that Lubbock people would be enabled to purchase the tickets cheaper—provided they were purchased in Lubbock.

Since the price charged for Tech-Buff games here in the past had always been $1 per ticket, all tickets sold in Lubbock will be priced at $1. The Canyon officials reported tickets purchased in Canyon, they say, will be three dollars and six bits.

So The Plainsman advises the Lubbock folks to buy their tickets in Lubbock. If the people of Canyon and the surrounding places want to pay $3.75 to see the game, let 'em pay it. Let them pay $10.75 if they want to but let's buy our tickets here and save the difference.

You can't expect the world to love you.

Let's you in turn can learn to love the world.

You can't expect mankind to pay you homage.

As long as you are acting like a churl.

For you must be a man with other fellows.

Must bear your share of burden on the way.

You can't be a shirker and be honored.

The world don't like a fellow who won't pay.

That Man on Avenue Q says when a fellow keeps late hours that's about all he does keep with any degree of success.

Most people have read about Mr.
William Williams of Rio Hondo, who for a couple of weeks has been busily engaged in pushing a peanut to Harlingen. Now pushing a pen-nut the distance between Rio Hondo and Harlingen would be a task, even with a broom. But Mr. Williams, individual sort of fellow that he is, has been propping the pen-nut for the entire 11 miles with his nose!

Mr. William Williams was quite certain that Governor Smith, of New York, would carry the state of Texas in an election he had awhile back. So was The Plainsman. So were most people. Williams promised to put on the peanut pushing bee if the Governor was beaten in the Lone Star State.
Then Williams started paying off the day after the election and has been paying ever since.

This writer doesn't feel a bit sorry for Mr. Williams because Mr.
Williams will get a valuable contract, or a movie contract, or will take the blindfold cigar test or something as soon as he gets through but he does have this comment to make and that is Mr. Williams is a red hot sport. He does what he says he'll do and that talent is being mentioned in this day and time. Further than that, he has brought home to most of us the fact that there is no such thing as a cinch any more.

The suggestion of Dr. Horn, made yesterday to the assembled Northwest Texas Methodists and urging that they work to include Texas Tech in the church's educational aid is a good one. From the standpoint of Lubbock, the Tech, the state and the students of the future.

The Methodists, along with a number of other denominations, have helped the faculty of the University of Texas in the establishment of a Bible chair for Methodist students. Further than that they have helped the student housing problem at Austin by the erection of a dormitory. Both of those innovations would be appreciated at Tech—and Tech needs them.

Dr. Horn has made a survey of the schools of the state and he has discovered that there are more Methodist students in Texas Tech than there are in any other college with the possible exception of Southern Methodist university.
Since such is the case the Methodists have a rare opportunity to help take care of their own by extending their work in the state's newest and most rapidly growing educational institution. The erection of a dormitory with dormitory rooms badly needed, would be more than welcome and the establishment of Bible chairs by all of the denominations would be a decided addition to the college program.

Hoover Doesn't Have To Listen To Any Group Claiming That It Elected Him To Presidency, Dutcher Points Out

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Herbert Hoover is now being compelled to listen to the assurances of apparently innumerable persons and organizations that he owes his election to them. Fortunately he is not compelled to believe any of this stuff; presumably he realizes that no one is in a position to step out and say, "I did it!"

If Hoover's margin had been small that would not be true. Then nearly everyone would have been able to show, with considerable plausibility, that if their group had been working against him he doubtless would have been trimmed. In 1918 the Democratic bosses of various states were able to boast that if it hadn't been for their work Wilson would have lost to Hughes.

If Hoover had won by a similar vote, the claimants would have included not only many politicians but also the organized dry organized big game, big business and federations of churches.

As it is, Hoover can prove that he could have done very well without any single one of these vote-swinging groups or even without a combination of them.

Now that the votes are all counted, it is possible to apply to apparent facts the same reasoning which would be applicable had the vote been very close. It is more than reasonable to suggest, for instance, that if Smith had not been a Catholic, Hoover would not have broken into the heretofore solid south and that even if Smith had been a dry Catholic the south would have remained unanimously Democratic. It is also safe to say that if Smith had been neither wet nor Catholic he wouldn't have carried Massachusetts or Rhode Island.

Of course the trouble with most of the really big states was that they had too many Republican people over wide areas, and something to be really sore about.
For the first time in several decades a majority has voted to extend a period of conservative Republican administration beyond eight years.
The cry of Prosperity may be a bunk in a political campaign, but it would appear that the installment houses will have to take back quite a few automobiles and radio sets.

When bolometric magnitudes are used throughout, instead of visual or photographic magnitudes, the intrinsic luminosities of the long period variables are probably not inferior to those of the ordinary Cepheids, according to a bulletin from Harvard Observatory.
We don't know just what that means, but think it's the reason the Solid South went back on the Democrats.

A New York woman got a divorce in Reno because her husband "sat her down hard once in a chair." Maybe he thought she was trying to be speaker of the house.

The earth is between 13 billions and 18 billions years old. And not a new song yet.

Science now gives man an accuracy of 71 years. That's no reason why you shouldn't look at the traffic lights before crossing the street.

Seek Permit For Texas Railroad

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP).— Permission to construct 10 miles of railroad in Texas was sought from the Interstate Commerce Commission today by the St. Louis, Brown-sville and Mexico Railroad, a subsidiary of the New Orleans, Texas & Mexico system.

The line would run to Weslaco, Texas, beginning at the present terminus of the St. Louis, Brown-sville and Mexico branch, and would serve agricultural territory as well as furnishing a connection between existing rail routes.

before most of the voters will believe it.

At the moment it looks as if only a panic or some pretty awful breaks on Hoover's part could keep him from running his four years at the White House into eight.

In New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Manhattan provides an endless parade of "minor immortals."

They're those people whose names one can not remember, yet who, in 1898 won the world's pie eating contest; or the dance marathon of 1928; or the loud-speaking contest of 1924; or the fellow who baked the world's largest cake.

These are the boys and girls who once brought about a percentage of the arguments that went on around the old stove in the country stores and who, for all I know, may be the bass of discussion around the drug counters at this moment.
Someone you will recall, was always ready to "bet a quarter" that so-and-so did such-and-such on some date or other. Whereupon there was a hasty searching of the World Almanac and other volumes given over to statistical records.

Such heroes, of course, are made of overnight ingredients. Their fame flashes for a few hours and is gone in the morning. Yet somewhere, somehow their achievement is recorded and rises to haunt some future challenger.

During these moments when the achievement is at hand, the movie cameras grind and the still cameras click; the reporters are out en masse and the committees sit impatiently by.

The competitive spirit in such contests is greater, of course, in the smaller communities than in Manhattan, though the number of contests in New York if placed end to end would provide those Roman holiday seekers with a hundred years of steady entertainment.

At the country fairs, unless times have changed, the pie eaters still go to it tooth and jaw; the hog callers send their shrieks out upon the still air and the sent who grew the largest pumpkin is a minor celebrity.

Gathering a few notes on such matters over a period of a few weeks, I have discovered that a young man in Minnesota was able to stow away 65 cups of coffee at a sitting, and live through it; that a famous "human fly" was able to perch on a flapole for something like eight hours; that a patriotic gentleman in New Bedford, Mass., sang "The Star-Spangled Banner" more than 17 times without stopping, which must place him in the unique position of an American who actually knows the words of the national anthem. Some 45 hot-cakes went into the gullet of a future dyspeptic. A couple of young men stayed under water in a Chicago tank until the police interfered, and thus spared the inter-taker a job. Any number of flyers have stayed in mid-air until rescue was achieved or the law of gravity interfered to cause tragedy.
Dance marathon records are as fragile as potato chips. A gent in upstate New York thumped the piano keys for 92 hours and was not shot by his neighbors. A couple of stilt walkers walked from Boston to Providence without getting down.

But why go on? They all live to tell the tale and re-tell it. Just what good it will do them I don't pretend to know. They're all at liberty insofar as I know, and no keepers from the "bug house" have,
to my knowledge, come to get them.

I assume that, behind such performances, lies some deep psychological motivation, and I'm not up to the latest wrinkles in psychology.

The last contests I remember hearing about in New York included a spare drum competition, a marathon golf solo of some 250 holes per day, a prize for the best name selected for a choline lately arrived from Norway, a croquet tournament
"down the island," and a theater attendance record.

Diet and Health

STICK TO REDUCING DIET UN-TIL FOOD TASTES CHANGE

Backsliding
"I once lost 47 pounds by Peters-ing, but am ashamed to say I have gained back 21 pounds. Am starting all over again and am going to lose at least 50 pounds."

You evidently went back to the same food habits you had before you reduced. Mrs. E., or you would not have gained. I knew you could not emphasize size strongly enough the importance of sticking to the reducing diet long enough to change the food tastes. If you persist, you can learn to prefer fruit rather than pies, cakes, puddings or ice cream for dessert, to feel no sense of loss when no bread is taken with a full meal, to really like food better without a lot of rich gravies and sauces, etc., and to wonder how you ever cared so much about candy.

By acquiring such food tastes you have automatically cut out 500 to 1000 calories a day. After you have acquired these habits, you can cease counting your calories, although it's fun to do this anyway.

Try to get at least two miles of brisk walking every day and five to ten minutes of setting-up exercises.
These exercises and the walk, as well as the new food habits, are things you should keep up for the rest of your life.

ing and gaining? If not, observe the flicted? I do not use the tobacco."

Your questions, if of general inter-

Tomorrow: Answers to Mothers

The World And All

BY CHARLES B. DISCOLL

ANOTHER FOUR YEARS

At the beginning of the presidential campaign I promised my readers that they would find no politics in this column until after election. I have kept my promise.
It wasn't hard to keep. I find other topics so much more interesting to talk about than the topics that are generally labelled "politics" during campaigns in the United States.

I did not hear a single political speech. Do you think I missed much? I heard my friends talking about the speeches, and it seemed to me that there were many other things more interesting. I have no radio, so I didn't feel compelled to listen to political addresses. When my neighbors' radios got to bray-ing too loudly, I shut the windows and picked up some good book, and so the evenings passed pleasantly.

I got through the campaign without a single political argument, too. My friends talked interestingly and heatedly about their ideas of the personalities of the candidates and the candidates' wives, and I listened, but I couldn't find any thing in all this to argue about.
None of it had the slightest relation to the science of politics, which when and if divorced from considerations of personalities and other incidental, is really a very noble science.

To me it seemed that either candidate was wholly competent to be President of the United States. I thought both candidates were far above the average of what we are wont to call "presidential timber" in this country. I couldn't see this country going to the dogs on account of the election, of either of them. I felt that we would be altogether safe with either one in the White House. So I couldn't become excited, and what good is there in a political argument if you don't get excited?

From this time on I shall consider myself at liberty to talk politics in this column. The subject was taboo with me only during the mad season. By politics, of course, I do not mean partisan politics. Nor do I mean ugly gossip about persons who hold office or aspire to hold office.

There are no political issues in this country to become bitter about.
We have such a prosperous and peaceful and well integrated citizenship that it takes a powerfully organized group of evil-minded persons to stir up even the faintest interest in hatred. We have the happiest country in the world. Let us enjoy it and appreciate it for four more years, until it is time to go foolish again. And when we talk about politics during these four years, let us talk as sensible, thoughtful folk who are weighing the welfare of their country.

"Hanging on the side of my car," the affidavit continued, "and smoking a cigarette, the film star came in and see Harry Schenck. You're not going to get away until this thing is straightened out. You're trying to frame me."

The affidavit stated Mrs. Swenson accused Miss Rubens of "being drunk" whereupon the actress came around the car and said "I'll smash your nose in." The argument was ended, the affidavit said, when a young woman came out of the studio and led the film star into the office.

A huge shaft released when the belt caught on a pulley, pinned Mr. Malone's head, gradually crushing in the side of his head. It was not thought this morning that his skull proper was fractured. Physicians reported that he would not be completely out of danger for the next 48 hours, however.

Harold Stribling, husband of the woman the killer had abducted from their home and held captive for three hours, after slashing Stribling with a hatchet, is improving at a hospital where he underwent an operation yesterday to relieve pressure on his brain, caused by four fractures from the hatchet. Funeral service arrangements are going forward for the three other victims of the slayer's hatchet. Yale Gets Millions

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Nov. 22.—Lloyd's Land's End wireless station intercepted a message this morning saying the Greek steamer, Virginia was sinking.

The message sent from Cape Finisterre wireless station at 7:48 a. m., said: "S O S Greek steamer Virginia, latitude 41:05 north, longitude 10:35 west, sinking."

The position given would place the vessel about 50 miles off Oporto, Portugal.

strike he changed to a silver minnow.

Battles With Dolphin
Scarcely had the line been reeled out when a dolphin, one of the fastest fish, struck and the battle was on. Back and forth the fish darted out after a quarter of an hour Mr. Hoover brought the fish to the surface where a naval officer gaffed the catch.

Mr. Hoover then hooked the mackerel which made one swift run and then was drawn in. In the meantime, Mark Sullivan had struck once and lost. Then Mr. Hoover and Mr. Sullivan had strikes simultaneously but their lines became crossed. The President-elect lost a fifteen pound dolphin just as the brilliant sun disappeared over the Pacific horizon.

Returns After Dark
Darkness descended as Mr. Hoover came up the gangplank of the Maryland under the glare of a searchlight. Mrs. Hoover who had been watching the jagged boat where the fishing parties were during the hour and a half they were away crowded to the side of the rail along with other members of the party, ships officers and many enlisted men.

The boats were brought on board the Maryland which turned her prow toward Central America. She set off at a speed of 17 knots which she held throughout the night.

Mr. Hoover may fish again before his visit to Ecuador, his first place to call in South America.

from the stand of statements claimed to have been made by Mrs. Van Dever in which she said that she had no grounds for instituting the suit, but that her attorney was so insistent she finally decided to give in.

Recalled to the stand today, Mrs. Van Dever vehemently denied this.

The old plainsman who became one of the country's richest men almost overnight through discovery of oil on his vast properties in Hutchinson county, was grilled for nine hours yesterday regarding relations between himself and the woman, denying that he had deserted her in 1926 after they had been engaged to be married.

He answered "I don't know" to 57 questions shot at him by attorneys.

Whittenberg came to the Panhandle in 1893 and filed on four sections of land near Borger in the heart of what is now one of the country's most prolific oil fields. By Chamber of Commerce and all of the visiting newspapers.

The speakers were unanimous in picturing the South Plains as a vast agricultural empire ready to step into an era of unparalleled progress and development.

Due to the death of one of the delegates, John W. Bradley, 43, the Wichita Falls special train turned homeward from Plainview early yesterday morning. Bradley's death was caused by acute indigestion.

Philanthropist's Gifts Likely To Come Back

LULING, Tex., Nov. 22 (AP).—Edgar B. Davis, Texas philanthropist, may be repaid many fold for his various bequests to the city of Luling.

Several years ago Davis, discoverer of the first Luling oil field, gave Luling two club houses, one for whites and another for negroes. Now that an oil pool has been found north of the city limits, Davis, company, the United North and South company, has been given leases on the negro park and another city park.

A well in the negro park is down to 2,000 feet.

preachers under him, it being a strict rule against bigotry in every shape. The tenor was that Methodist ministers should serve the whole world and be ministers to every Christian regardless of denomination. "This was possible, he asserted, without sacrificing Methodist doctrines and views."

Christ Founded Church
"John Wesley did not found my church," the astute Bishop asserted, "but a little organization I belong to. My church was founded by Jesus Christ. The trouble with the great body of our people is that they do not know the Christian church. The man who follows Luther, Wesley, John Knox or Roger Williams is likely to go wrong in some particulars. We must cling to the idea that we are members of the Christian church and follow Jesus Christ."

Failure of many preachers the bishop ascribed to lack of preaching to and for the needs of their congregations. Puns on those who refer to their Greek scholarship were executed broadly. Irreverence, repetitious prayers and other faults of ministers were scored.

Girl Quartet Sings
The McMurry College girl quartet sang impressively "Wait Till the Day Dawns."

After the reading and approval of the minutes, the bishop introduced visitors, including W. H. Barnett of the Methodist orphanage, W. C. Gray, A. C. Douglas, H. C. Stout, Texas Woman's College; W. B. Swin, J. T. Jones, D. D. Denison, H. M. Thurston, J. H. Groeschel, J. L. Willis, J. W. Cole and Dr. Paul B. Kern. Then followed seating of alternate lay delegates.

Rev. O. P. Clark, First Church, Sweetwater, arose to announce failure of newspapers to carry announcement of Sweetwater's invitation of welcoming the 1928 session. Humorous charges of the press being subsidized resulted in the bishop precipitating the vote. O. P. Clark nominated Sweetwater, seconded by Rev. L. P. Lipscomb, presiding elder of that district. Rev. L. N. Stuckey, Polk Street, Amarillo, and Rev. W. W. Pearce, presiding elder, put forward Amarillo's claims.

Rev. T. B. Brabham, Pampa pastor, and his presiding elder, Rev. W. M. Murrell and B. J. Osborn, former Pampa pastor, extolled virtues of Pampa, telling how the influence of the body next year would inspire that church to greater activities. Rev. Mr. Stuckey withdrew Amarillo after the first ballot. Rev. O. P. Clark at the close of the second ballot asked the conference to make Pampa the unanimous choice of the conference, which was done.

Dr. H. E. Stout, president Texas Woman's College, Fort Worth, and J. L. Lyon, representing the general hospital board, W. T. Gray, representing the Methodist orphanage, and Rev. J. H. Groeschel, representing the hospitals and old woman's home, each spoke in behalf of their institutions and endeavors.

Message Sent Hicks
The name of Rev. J. T. Weems, O'Donnell, was referred to the committee on superannuates for the superannuate relation. The conference ordered the secretary to 1920 he had acquired 40 sections before the flow of liquor gold began.

Federal Court To Have Heavy Docket

Further evidence that the initial docket of the first session of the Lubbock division of the federal court of the northern district of Texas to be held here December 10 will be heavy was shown this morning with the filing of another bankruptcy petition for review.

Six petitions are scheduled to be reviewed by Federal District Judge James C. Wilson on the second day of court, December 11. This will be in addition to the law and criminal dockets which promise to be heavy.

The last bankruptcy petition filed for review was that of James Campbell Whicker. The hearing was first held several weeks ago before W. D. Girard, referee in bankruptcy for this district.

Son Of Lubbock Pair Is Dead At Houston

Arthur Pearson of Ennis, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Pearson, of this city, died this morning in Houston according to a telephone message received here from his mother who was called to his bedside in Houston several days ago. The deceased is to be buried in Lubbock the latter part of the week.

Mr. Pearson was a railroad conductor and was a man of about 40 years of age. He is survived by his family, in addition to his parents here. Funeral services are to be conducted in Ennis before his body is sent here for interment and it is probable that the funeral train will arrive here about Saturday. More definite details are yet to be learned here.

Jersey Purchase For Lamb County

S. A. Debnam, of Levelland, Hockley and Lamb county agent, was in Lubbock yesterday to confer with D. F. Eaton, Lubbock county agent, concerning the purchase of some Jersey cattle.

Two carloads of registered Jerseys were placed in Lamb county last spring. Mr. Debnam reports an increasing interest in cattle raising and dairy stock in that county.

Grass Fire Brings Warning On Hazards

A grass fire in the 1600 block on 19th Street yesterday afternoon caused Fire Chief W. E. Twitty to issue an additional warning against dry grass fire hazards.

He urged that citizens wishing to burn grass report to the fire station and some member of the fire department will be sent to assist, preventing the blaze of getting beyond control.

Fines For Fighting Paid In City Court

Two fines for $15 each were paid in the city police court on charges of fighting last night for the only offenses of the entire night.

No arrests for drunkenness were made by either the police or the sheriff's departments.

Members of the law enforcement bodies report that the city was unusually quiet considering the fact that several hundred good-will visitors were here.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon Rev. H. M. Whaling, Jr., vice president of Southern Methodist University, Dallas, addressed a large congregation. At 4:15 p. m. today visiting ladies were entertained by members of the Ladies' Missionary society of First Church.

Elmer T. Clark, noted connection of Nashville will speak at 3 tomorrow afternoon. Rev. Paul B. Kern, pastor of Travis Park church, San Antonio, will preach again at 7:30 this evening. His sermon last night on "Behold the Man" was regarded as a masterpiece of exceptional merit.
