FRITTS GIVEN 99 YEARS FOR HASKELL MURDER

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

Now comes Archer City with a townsite oil well. It is true that the Bo Minnick No. 1 Covington is just outside the corporate limits of Archer City but it is close enough to insure drilling within the townsite itself. Early reports are to the effect that the well promises to be a good producer.

Down at Olney the townsite pool is proving to be a highly productive one and a lot of drilling is in progress there. Business is flourishing at Olney in response to the development which is being handled in an orderly and economical manner. The excitement and the crowds that marked the Burkburnett boom of 10 years and more ago are lacking and nevertheless good profits are being made by a number of operators.

The Oklahoma supreme court has upheld the new run-off primary law in that state. Like the Texas law the Oklahoma law provides that where no candidate receives a majority in the first primary that the two candidates receiving the highest numbers of votes shall enter a run-off primary.

In a number of states where no candidate receives a majority the nomination is thrown into a convention, where it has frequently happened the leading candidate in the primary does not receive the nomination. In a Republican convention in a northwestern state recently the low candidate in a field of six was made the nominee.

A petition signed by 30 Hunt county citizens has been forwarded to the secretary of the Democratic state executive committee asking that the name of Lynch Davidson be placed on the ballot as a candidate for governor. A good many voters have urged Mr. Davidson to become a candidate but he has made no statement of his intentions. We could wish that petitions were required for any candidate and that the initiation of candidacies was with the people rather than the candidates. That's one advantage the old convention system had—the convention could go out and choose somebody to nominate whether he was a candidate or not. In the primary we are limited in our choice from amongst those who are running on their own volition.

If petitions bearing any large number of signatures were required maybe we wouldn't have so many candidates. And then again the plan might be unworkable or have just as bad defects as our present system. Some things are fine in theory but very poor in practice.

Harris county has celebrated its accession to first place in population rank in the counties of Texas by adopting the provisions of the Texas stock law which places a penalty on owners of livestock who permit them to run at large. One would have thought that a populous county like Harris would have long since adopted the stock law but in repeated elections the proposal for its adoption was defeated. It was only last week that the law was adopted. Wichita county adopted the stock law so long ago that the event has been almost forgotten.

In these days the man who permits his cows and horses and other animals to run out does so at great risk to his livestock and to the lives of those who travel on the highways. There is very little of this practice in Wichita and other counties in this section of the state.

Resolutions that will be presented before the convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at Abilene this week, we are told, will carry a recommendation for a tariff on agricultural products of this section. It is safe to predict that the recommendation will carry. What might provoke debate would be a proposal that body ask President Hoover the veto the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill, if and when passed.

The census gives Fort Worth a population of 160,892, a gain of

Abilene Dressed Up

Abilene was in holiday regalia as its visitors streamed in from all directions. State officials, politicians and chamber of commerce leaders mingled on the flag lined streets with ranchers sporting "10-gallon" hats and men to whom West Texas oil had brought wealth.

Although the chamber decided at its convention at El Paso last year to have less merry-making and more business, a survey of events planned for the next three days showed delegates would have plenty of entertainment intermixed with

Negro's Body Adds Mystery To Fatal Blaze

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 28. (UP)—E. G. Cooper, deputy state fire marshal, tonight announced investigation of the City Coliseum fire which killed five men and did damage upwards of $300,000, had centered upon three clues.

The clues are: 1.—Possible incendiarism; 2.—Attempts of robbers to hide thefts of storage batteries from cars stored in the building; 3.—That an unidentified negro found dead in the building was connected with an incendiary plot.

Witnesses told Cooper they did not see the negro in the building while they were attempting to remove automobiles. The negro's crushed body was discovered late last night. Authorities tonight fixed the death toll at five believing all bodies had been removed from the wrecked building.

Zeppelin, Flying Leisurely, Crosses Equator on Journey to Havana

South Americans Given Last View of Giant Ship as It Leaves Coast Line for Cuban City

NEW YORK, May 28. (UP)—The Graf Zeppelin passed over the equator at 8 p. m. E. S. T. on its way from Pernambuco, Brazil, to Havana and Lakehurst, N. J., according to a message from the dirigible intercepted by the Mackay radio station at Sayville, L. I., tonight.

The equator was crossed at 40 degrees west, or 150 miles north of the nearest Brazilian coastal point, Acarahu. The position indicated that the Graf was taking a fairly direct course to the West Indies instead of following the Brazilian coast.

WRITER DESCRIBES SHIP'S PROGRESS

NEW YORK, May 28. (AP)—The New York American tonight received a copyrighted dispatch from Karl von Weigand, its special correspondent aboard the Graf Zeppelin en route to Havana and Lakehurst, N. J., the dispatch said:

"Under a partly overcast sky the Graf continued its steady northward flight towards the equator. We are completely out of sight of the Brazilian coast line.

"The sea is at its smoothest and it appears that we are at last working into a dose of fine weather. Earlier this evening we were making our way toward Havana through heavy weather and a fine drizzle that made the visibility poor.

"We caught our last glimpse of South America at 3:15 p. m., (1:15 p. m. E. S. T.) about an hour after we had passed Natal. With only four motors running, the Graf

ROAD GROUPS CONFER HERE

Waurika Visitors Guests of Wichita C.-C.

Members of the highway committee of the chamber of commerce of Waurika, Okla., were guests of the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce highway committee at the Wichita club Wednesday night, when proposed highway improvements between the two cities were discussed informally.

Waurika is desirous of completing a hard-surfaced highway to the Red river to connnect directly with Wichita Falls by an improved highway on the Texas side of the river. Highway No. 70 leading eastward from Waurika toward Ardmore and highway No. 81 entering Waurika from the north would make advantageous connections with such a highway at the Jefferson county town, it was pointed out.

Pavement from Comanche to Waurika already is provided for, members of the visiting delegation said. Completion of a highway enabling Waurika to connect more directly with Wichita Falls, the discussion revealed, probably would involve the building of a free bridge across Red river.

QUANAH MAN CONVICTED IN KNIFE SLAYING

Jury Returns Verdict After Four Hours Debate On Case

NEW TRIAL SOUGHT

Hedgcoth Tells Jury He Did Not Intend to Cut Burnett

Ed Hedgcoth, 23, of Quanah, was found guilty of murder without malice and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary by a jury in the 89th district court shortly after 8 o'clock Wednesday evening at the close of his trial for the fatal stabbing of R. D. Burnett, 19, at a dance at a home near Iowa Park on the night of last April 16. Judge P. A. Martin submitted the case to the jury at 4:25 o'clock Monday afternoon at the conclusion of arguments of attorneys for both sides.

Although the defense had filed an application for a suspended sentence, the jury refused the petition. The suspension could have been granted for any sentence of less than five years, Judge Martin explained. T. A. Hicks of defense counsel stated immediately after the reading of the verdict his intention of filing a motion for a new trial, which may be presented at any time within two days.

Instructions to Jury

In delivering his charge, Judge Martin instructed the jury as to three possible verdicts: one to find Hedgcoth guilty of murder with malice aforethought, with punishment fixed at any length of penitentiary confinement not less than two years or by death in the electric chair; the second to find the defendant guilty of murder without malice, with imprisonment of from two to five years, and the third to find him not guilty.

Following the delivery of defense arguments by T. A. Hicks and C. C. McDonald, attorneys for Hedgcoth, the arguments for the state were presented by George W. Anderson and Mike Anglin, assistants, and Sam B. Spence, district attorney. The district attorney urged a verdict of guilty with malice aforethought and attacked the defense argument of self-defense and lack of malice.

Hedgcoth on Stand

Hedgcoth took the stand in his own defense Wednesday morning. He told the jury the wound which killed Burnett was inflicted accidentally and that he struck at Burnett after having been struck himself, not intending to wound him at the time. He testified he did not know until his arrest more than 12 hours later that Burnett had been wounded. Mr. Spence attacked with vigor the statement that Hedgcoth had held an open knife in his hand but had struck without intending to wound.

Heels Of Slippers Aid Suicide

Oklahoman Kills Self by Using Woman's Footwear

ALVARADO, Texas, May 28. (AP)—The pointed heels of a pair of woman's slippers and the weight of two bed posts were used eerly today by Frank R. Daniel, 35, Muskogee, Okla, to take his life while stopping as a guest at the rooming house of Taylor Burroughs.

Lying on the floor partly clad, the heel of each slipper in his mouth and the bed posts supporting the weight of the beds against the shoes, the body of Daniel was found by the rooming house owner. Justice of the Peace John Prestridge returned a verdict of self-administered death by strangulation.

By means of the license plate of his automobile which stood on the town square, the identity of Daniel was traced through a sister who resides in Muskogee.

Several piano owners said Daniel visited their homes yesterday afternoon to solicit piano repair work.

LIFE SENTENCE ASSESSED FOR YOUTH'S DEATH

Earl Hamilton's Slayer Hears Verdict After Long Deliberation

JURY OUT 43 HOURS

Vote Stands 11 to 1 for Death Before Final Vote Taken

EASTLAND, Texas, May 28. (AP)—Convicted of slaying 17-year-old Earl Hamilton, witness against him in a liquor case, Will Fritts, 37, was sentenced to 99 years imprisonment here today.

The jury, which had been reported standing 11 to one for the death penalty, was out 43 hours, having received the case late Monday.

Hamilton was slain with his father, D. W. Hamilton, in Haskell county, Oct. 24, 1928. Fritts was tried for the elder Hamilton's death in Fisher county and was given the death sentence.

A like sentence was assessed Fritts in Jones county in the youth's death. Both cases, however, were reversed because the indictments did not read "with malice aforethought."

After the sentences were reversed the case against Fritts in the youth's death was transferred here. The case in the father's death is pending at Roby.

Mrs. Hamilton was the star witness for the state. She testified that on the night of the slaying Fritts came to her home and asked to talk to her son. She said that both her husband and son went out on a porch to talk to Fritts.

A few minutes later, the witness testified, she heard a shot and found her son lying on the floor near a back door.

The defense offered several witnesses who said Fritts had behaved peculiarly at various times.

Hambone's Meditations

Vice President and James J. Davis Fall Hard for College-Boy Hoax

WASHINGTON, May 28. (INS)—Amid roars of uncontrolled laughter the senate today listened to a newspaper clipping telling how Vice President Curtis, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis and other Republican leaders had been hoaxed by the editors of the Cornell Sun, student publication. The Cornell men sent them letters asking if they could be present at a sesquicentennial dinner to "Hugo N. Frye founder of the Republican party in New York."

Senator Pat Harrison Democrat, of Mississippi, asked that the replies to the students be read. Curtis, Davis and others declined the invitations but praised the mythical Frye's services to the party. As the reading clerk of the senate started to comply, Harrison added:

"The name is pronounced 'you go and Fry' and I would like to have it so pronounced as the item is read."

The clerk obeyed, to the amusement of the senate and the galleries. Curtis, red of face but smiling, occasionally gave half hearted taps with his gavel, which were ignored by the laughing senators, especially when his own reply to the Cornell jokerters was read in full. At times he half hid his face behind his left hand.

"It is a good name for the Republican party, 'You Go And Fry,'

Amarillo Ranchman to Champion Texas G O. P. in Governor's Race

HOUSTON, Texas, May 28. (AP)—Republican strength has grown so much in Texas that Democratic leaders will have a scrap on their hands this year in the governor's race.

Such was the challenge flung out today by Republican leaders gathered here for the postmaster's convention after a political powwow which culminated in the announcement that H. E. Exum, wealthy Amarillo ranchman, would be their champion for the G. O. P. nomination.

Having polled more than 100,000 votes in the state in the last election, the Republican party is required to hold a primary this year in order to put forth a ticket. Heretofore nominations have been made by convention.

Mr. Exum, a towering, massive man of the rugged Western type, declared that if nominated he would make an aggressive campaign. He said that he was heartily in accord with President Hoover's efforts to enforce the dry laws.

The candidate said he believed in the Republican doctrine of a high protective traiff and favored the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill now pending in congress.

"Prospects for a Republican victory seem very good," he stated. "There seems to be a division of the Democratic ranks and besides I think the sentiment of the people is changing. I believe we will hold much of the ground gained in the Hoover victory of 1928, though perhaps not all of it."

Lubbock proposed to put the gathering on a strictly business basis by eliminating parades, band concerts and the like. After the Mineral Wells Chamber of Commerce heard of the Lubbock provision, the "health city" decided to cast its hat into the ring.

Charles E. Coombes of Stamford, head of the important program of work committee, and John Perkins of Alpine were considered in the forefront of presidential candidates to succeed W. B. Hamilton of Wichita Falls, who will preside over sessions starting tomorrow.

54,466 in 10 years. Fort Worth retains rank as the fourth city in Texas and its citizens may well be proud of its growth. Its gain in population did not come in one big jump but rather has been result of a steady and persistent growth, which is continuing. In many lines of activity and business Fort Worth ranks in importance among the cities of Texas above its rank in population. Its advance in the last 10 years has been much greater in many of these lines than has its advance in population.

A newspaper man, prominent in his day, in trying to give an illustration of the essence of news said that when a dog bit a man, that was commonplace but that when a man bit a dog that was news. By that standard the story of a maddened cow biting 40 persons in a Jugo-Slavian village was news of the first importance. The story is news but probably not so important, or interesting either for that matter, as other items of more commonplace happenings and events. Our standards of judging news are changing and the story of a man biting a dog would be just another "freak" story today.

"Marriage," says Clara Littledale in the Household Magazine, "does to men or to women only what life itself would do. It reveals their true selves. If they are selfish, mean, unworthy, they will be all this in marriage. If they are generous, fine, honest, marriage will intensify these qualities. What an astounding, utterly revealing, much-desired, and all but incredible institution it is anyhow."

Although Moody has anonunced that he has decided what he will do, he has withheld anouncement of his intentions. When the Democratic committee meets June 9, it also will decide whether a referendum on prohibition will be submitted to Texas Democratic voters in the primary.

HUNT CITIZENS 'DRAFT' DAVIDSON

GREENVILLE, Texas, May 28. (AP)—A step to draft Lynch Davidson of Houston as a candidate for governor in the Democratic primaries was made here today when L. J. Taggart, prominent Hunt county farmer, sent to Albert Sidney Johnson of Dallas, secretary of the Democratic executive committee, a petition signed by 35 Hunt county residents that the Houstonian's name be filed for the office.

Taggert sent along with the petition a check to cover the fees for registering Davidson's name. In his letter to the secretary, Taggart said he hoped that the Democratic voters everywhere who desire a safe and sound business administration would join "we petitioners in urging Davidson to make the fight."

Davidson was endorsed for the governorship at a mass meeting attended by a large number of farmers here more than a month ago. Three-fourths of the petition signers also were farmers.

DAVIDSON SILENT ON DRAFT MOVE

HOUSTON, May 28. (AP)—Lynch Davdison had "no statement to make" about the attempt of 35 Hunt county citizens to draft him as a candidate for governor.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, militant in his new found Republicanism as senatorial nominee responded that he considered it an honor to "testify to the career of a sturdy patriot who first planted the ideals of our party," etc., and that if Hugo were alive today "he would rejoice that our government is still safe in the hands of the people."

Vice President Curtis wrote that he was glad Republicans were paying respect to Hugo's honor.

It finally became too good to keep, so "Hugo N. Frye" was revealed as an adaption of "You Go And Fry."

FIRE DESTROYS WICHITA HOME

Ray Massie Home Causes $3,000 Loss

The first fire of large proportions to have occurred in Wichita Falls within the past several weeks Wednesday afternoon destroyed the home of Jack Austin on Amber street in the Ray Massie section just beyond the city limits off the Iowa Park highway. Loss was estimated at $3,000, according to reports of fire department officials. Firemen were hampered by lack of nearby water plugs and by the time long lines had been laid to the nearest fire hydrant, the blaze had gone beyond control. The house was a total loss.

A small blaze in the roof of a house at 2312 Fillmore street about 1:40 o'clock Wednesday afternoon caused about $5 damage, according to reports at Central station. The fire was quickly extinguished.

SPURIOUS BANK NOTES SEIZED

$1,000,000 in Counterfeit Money Captured

NEW YORK, May 28. (UP)—Approximately $1,000,000 on counterfeit gold bank notes was seized and three men arrested in a raid on an apartment at 1726 Eighty-fifth street, Brooklyn, the United States secret service announced today.

The seizure was the largest ever made in this state and probably the greatest in the history of the country, according to Allen G. Straight, principal operator in charge of the New York district.

Materials were on hand, he said, for the printing of at least $5,000,000 in counterfeit bills.

According to Straight, the raids were made within 48 hours before the bills were to have been distributed.

Those arrested gave the names of Percile Mannerini, Joseph Negris and Mattie Mattera. Each denied guilt.

The tip that led to the raid came from under cover sources, Straight said. The notes were of such fine character that detection by other than bank employes or bill specialists would have been difficult, said.

AS YOU COOK DICED CARROTS YOU CAN EMPHASIZE THEIR FLAVOR DELICIOUSLY BY ADDING

a dash of Sugar

OFTEN carrots are tasteless because their original sugar content has been lost by keeping them too long. By adding a dash of sugar at the same time that you add salt, you will restore this goodness. This rule applies to peas and tomatoes as well.

A dash of sugar will heighten the flavor of many familiar, nourishing foods. Use sugar this way in preparing children's meals. You will find the youngsters relishing cereal, stewed fruits and vegetables much more when these foods are flavored with sugar.

Sugar is nature's supreme seasoning. And when used in wholesome desserts, such as puddings and custards, it fills an important place in the diet of young and old. Just ask your doctor about this. Sugar promotes the necessary flow of gastric juices and makes digestion easy and more complete. The Sugar Institute.

Special to The Record News

HOLLIS, Okla., May 28.—What is hoped will be the largest gathering of veterans of the war with Spain ever held in Southwest Oklahoma is planned for Hollis on Memorial day, May 30, when a program and picnic will be given at Spring Lake park two miles east of Hollis, when the veterans of '98 and '99 from the 11 counties of the seventh congressional district will meet here.

The 11 counties of the seventh congressional district are Ellis, Dewey, Roger Mills, Custer, Beckham, Washita, Greer, Kiowa, Tillman, Jackson and Harmon. Invitations have been sent to members of all camps to gather at Hollis for the Memorial service and picnic at Spring Lake park. Spanish-American war veterans in all counties in the seventh district are expected to be present.

McElhoes, chief counsel of the Southwestern Light and Power company, and a lieutenant in a Nebraska regiment in the Philippines during both the Spanish war and Philippine insurrection, has been invited to deliver the principal address for the occasion. Judge C. H. Madden, county attorney, will give the address of welcome to visitors from outside Harmon county. There will be other entertaining features.

The committee on arrangements is composed of the eight known Spanish-American war veterans resident in Harmon county. They are Judge C. H. Madden, A. N. Powell, C. W. Williams, H. M. Newberry, Joe Newberry, A. O. Kimball, J. W. Middleton and J. Warren White.

At least 200 veterans are expected.

Girl's Abduction Like 'Fox's' Case

LOS ANGELES, Calif., May 28. (INS)—Possibility that another "fox," like William Edward Hickman, was holding a 10-year-old Los Angeles school girl, missing for three days, today spurred on police search for a suspected kidnapper.

Police Captain Haubs, directing the search; announced that the police net was being cast for a man who had been seen with the girl, according to police reports.

'Psychologist' Does Enormous Business

CHICAGO, May 28. (INS)—The state department of registration and education cooperated with police today in an investigation of a $150-a-day business conducted by John Galandak, "practical psychologist." A powerful dynamite bomb which partially wrecked Galandak's home and office yesterday brought the inquiry.

More than 200 women "patients" have been patronizing Galandak, police assert, and it is believed by authorities that the bombing was done in behalf of some patient. That many of the psychologist's patients were wealthy was attested by neighbors. His method of cure consists in "the laying on of hands," he told police.

It was learned that Galandak, through his study of "practical psychology," rose from a $15 a week worker in a pickle factory to his present income.

The New Gillette Blade

THE NEW Gillette Blade has restored thousands of damaged, old type Gillette Razors to active shaving service.

These veteran razors had become damaged through years of daily use. They were dropped on the floor. The corners of the razor caps and the guard teeth were bent. Poor shaves resulted, for the bent corners forced the blade out of alignment.

The New Gillette Blade remedies this defect

The dented corners of the razor caps and the bent teeth can no longer spoil the shave.

A glance at the illustrations will show you how this sweeping improvement has restored thousands of these discarded razors to useful service.

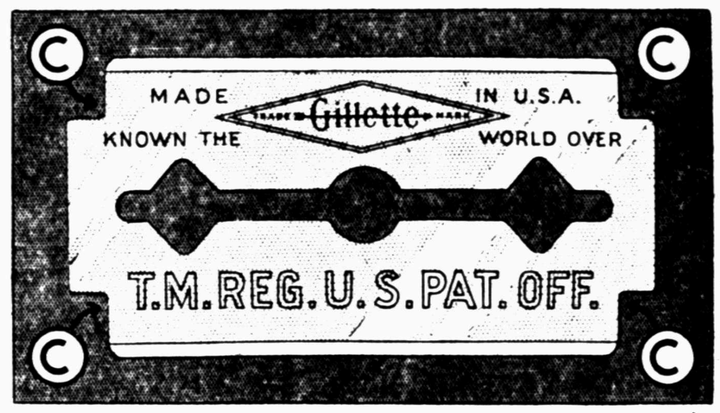

But of course the New Gillette Blade in a New Gillette Razor is the best shaving combination.

Mr. Filene's Plan Would Spend in Europe Ford Has Tried It Lord Melchett's Moan

By EMILE GAUVREAU

America, wealthiest of nations, independently rich in natural resources, over-producing in its major industries, and probably too rich for its own good in its youthful development, receives a suggestion from Edward A. Filene, famous Boston merchant.

Mr. Filene recommends the transportation of vast quantities of American gold to Europe in the pockets of a great new horde of American tourists as a means to restore Europe's ability to buy America's surplus production. Mr. Filene's proposal is presented at a luncheon before a gathering of the heads of the big steamship agencies, presided over by the able Mr. O. H. Cheney, vice president of the Irving Trust company.

Mr. Filene is an American business man who thinks beyond his immediate circle of trade. He has concerned himself for many years with international affairs. He does not see much hope for an improvement in American business unless we can do something to help out the economic situation of the world. There is great wealth in this country. The contrast between riches and poverty is greater than in any other part of the globe. Millions are squandered by the well-to-do. Not much thought for the poor, who are left to shift for themselves, and that selfishness is beginning to have its effects.

The suggestion of Mr. Filene is worth trying out. We cannot consume what we produce. Our goods must be sold abroad even if they have to be bought with our own money. Henry Ford, great master of mass production, knows the theory, having multiplied small units of profits into staggering sums. On the same basis, steamship companies could build up European travel on a year-round low cost basis, until American tourists abroad ran into many hundreds of thousands. You would then find crowded cabins in the "off season" instead of the present movement of nearly empty vessels. That is what big business calls "unit sale profits." The traveling public should be educated to it. Having brought the steamship companies and Mr. Filene together, perhaps the astute Mr. Cheney can work out the rest of the problem, which is one of good publicity and education.

Lord Melchett, British industrialist, will tell you something about taxation in England which will make your income tax burden seem small. "An individual," he says, "sees the reward of his work disappear in the maw of the chancellor of the exechequer (Mr. Philip Snowden). I figure I spend at least six months of the year working for nothing at all."

The rich industrialist probably knows that a nation cannot engage in a world war without paying for it, and the money for the damage comes from the individual, rich or not. Although he may not realize it he is also paying for the costs of the Napoleonic wars. Some day he will learn that war usually is a proceeding that ruins those who succeed in it.

Television, which within five years will completely revolutionize your idea of entertainment, presenting in your home everything from the world of music and the stage, offers an inkling of what will come at the General Electric laboratories. An orchestra in a theater is led by the life-size radio television image of its conductor, in a laboratory miles away, but who wields his baton as he receives the music of his men by telephone. The musicians play under his direction as well as if he were present in the flesh. An amazing triumph of science, but some day it will appear as crude as the first flickering movie does today.

The senate passed a bill to reduce Mexican immigration. There's nothing like taking a step now to make our inauguration safe in the future.

Gutzon Borglum, sculptor, who took the liberty to delete certain words from Cal Coolidge's history of America to be carved on a mountainside, probably thought he would knock a chip off his boulder.

Scarface Al Capone gave a children's party at his Florida estate the other day. You just can't keep that fellow away from a racket.

A Star for the Legion

IF YOU'RE inclined to think that the American Legion is simply a social organization in which former army men get together to talk over old times, hold conventions and dabble in politics, it might open your eyes to look into things a bit and examine some of the jobs that the legion undertakes on the side.

In the village of Otter Lake, Mich., the Michigan department of the legion is quietly and faithfully going ahead with a task that never gets a great deal of publicity but that provides, all by itself, a thoroughgoing answer to all of the critics of the legion.

At Otter Lake the Michigan legionnaires have built a modern hospital and a group of cottages, on a 97-acre tract of land in pleasant, rolling country.

This institution they call the "Children's Billet." It is home for some 80 children, who otherwise would be having a pretty tough time of it in this world.

Some of these children are orphans—children whose fathers, war veterans, and mothers are dead. Others are the children of veterans who have run into tough luck. Perhaps the father was left a cripple by the war. Perhaps he has contracted tuberculosis or some other disease that has ended his career as a breadwinner. The mother, in some cases, is dead; in other cases the father is dead and the mother is left with children she cannot support.

The Michigan legionnaires make it their business to look out for such children. When they find them they bring them to Otter Lake. There the youngsters are given homes. The dreary, soul-killing air of the ordinary "orphan asylum" is missing. Instead the children are made to feel that they are loved. They have good, home-like rooms to sleep in. They have good food, expert medical attention, broad fields where they can play and scamper about and build up their bodies.

If one or both parents are alive the legion does what it can to make it possible for a normal home life to be resumed. Where the father or mother is entitled to a pension the legion sees to it that the pension is paid. If hospitalization is needed, it is obtained. If it is a job that is needed, the legion does its best to supply one. Wherever it is possible things are arranged so that the children's stay at Otter Lake can be short.

But where both parents are dead, or the home for any other reason is hopelessly shattered—then the legion sets itself to give the children a break throughout childhood.

The Otter Lake billet is an inspiring place to visit. It is an inspiring place to read about. It is one of the finest things that any organization in America is doing. You might just keep it in mind the next time you are tempted to think that the legion is just another social or political organization.

A Way to Save Lives

THE 243 Lions clubs of Texas will petition legislators from their districts to support a law requiring all motor vehicle drivers to obtain state licenses, under action of the Lions convention in Austin last week.

The proposal was sponsored by Austin Lions and won unanimous approval of the delegates.

It was urged as the greatest single step that can be taken to cut down the toll of around 2,500 lives a year in Texas lost in automobile accidents, and to reduce the toll of about 7,500 serious injuries to persons every year in the state by similar accidents.

In such a law Texas would follow the lead of some of the most populous states, those in which the problem of congested motor traffic was met long before it arose in Texas.

It has been found the penalty of a money fine usually small, for reckless driving of automobiles, or for speeding, has had little effect upon the individual so convicted.

Those who have studied psychology of traffic law violations are convinced the best way to impress the lesson and reform the offender is to lock the car up, rather than fine the driver.

Take the speeder away from the wheel. Banish the reckless driver from the highway. Make the right of driving a car a valuable one and one dependent upon safe driving and observing all the laws, and Texas will find all those who have any business driving cars entitled to do so and those morons, those reckless, incorrigible chance fakers, the habitual law violators, prevented from risking other people's lives as well as their own.

Such laws have been upheld by courts of other states. No state that has the universal license law has ever repealed it.

The End of a Cruise

ALAS for the frailty of heroic aspirations! A deep pit has been digged beside the pathway that leads to a romantic achievement, and nothing is sadder or more melancholy than the way in which those who try to follow that pathway keep tumbling into it.

Sometime ago one Nicholas George Gongopolus of Miami, Fla., decided to sail back to his native Greece. He contrived for himself a 16-foot cutter, sent the Greek flag fluttering to the masthead and set sail. It was to be a gallant, glamorous cruise—one man in a skiff defying the Atlantic. Ulysses himself, or Jason, might have approved of this sturdy countryman.

But now the voyage has ended. It ended three days out, when Gongopolus asked a tramp freight steamer to pick him up and abandoned his cruise. He was not out of supplies or in danger from the elements—but he was horribly seasick!

On Broadway

Man About Town

It has probably happened to you, too. And it is a devastating feeling. So imagine the plight of two Salvation Army workers who are in New York for that worthy organization's annual convention. He seemed to be about 50, and she looked about 45. At any rate, they both appeared a little frightened as they entered Dinty Moore's famously known restaurant on Forty-sixth street.

Moore's is one of the rendezvous in the Bulb Belt for the sportsmen and their "hearts." The tariff is within their means, and they think nothing of $1.50 for a dish of ham and eggs, or $2.50 for this and $1.75 for that. The Salvationists, however, must have mistaken Moore's recently renovated windowless white front for Childs or the other moderate priced restaurants, as they ankled in, and were plated at a pavement table for two.

We paused to watch them study their menus, for we wondered how Salvation Army preachers could afford the steep fees exacted by Mr. Moore. And it was a touching scene. He paled as he followed the fare bill, obviously seeking a dish for less than half a dollar. They must have studied their menus for at least 15 minutes, and the waiter patiently stood by with his pad and pencil poised. The uniformed old gent finally looked at his companion for counsel. Their orbs met, and you could sense their embarrassment.

He turned to the waiter. "We just wanted a bite," he said apologetically, "and I do not see the sort of sandwiches we wanted. Just bring us coffee for two, please." The waiter went to the rear and soon returned with the java. They merely sipped some of it and then called for the check. "Fifty cents," said the waiter.

"Yes, I know," answered the Salvationist, as he hid his tiny coin purse in his lap from the stares of the curious. He extracted two quarters and a dime for the waiter. "Thanks very much," whitefibbed the sympathetic plate-juggler, whose tips average plenty daily, "but we are not permitted to accept tips here."

It's little things like that that make big paragraphs like these.

Then add things that burn you up and knock you cold. One of the columnist's truer pals unfolded it yesterday eve. In the forenoon he passed a colored femme mendicant on Broadway near Forty-fourth street. She caned her way along the walk and her eyes were masked by dark spectacles. On her bosom she featured a placard reading: "Blind."

He tossed two-bits into her cup. "Bless you, bless you, bless you," she said. That sundown he patronized an Eighth avenue butcher's with his wife, and recognized the woman's voice.

She was giving the butcher a call-down because the chicken she had just purchased still contained "pin" feathers!

In Carl Laemmle Jr.'s excellent chu-ema version of "All Quiet on the Western Front," the grandest of the spellbinding thrillers, Raymond Griffith, one of the better Hollywoodmen, has a smart part. He plays the role of the dying French soldier. A legend from the West Coast has it that Laemmle Jr. sent for Griffith and said: "It would please me greatly if you would play an unimportant role in this film. I want you because I know you will play it right. How much would you want to do it?"

"Just $2,500 a week," said Griffith.

"Oh, we had no such price in mind, Raymond," said the stunned producer. "I couldn't pay that much for a small part."

"Then I'll do it for nothing," Griffith is supposed to have gallantly answered. And, according to the tale-tellers, Griffith worked sans fee.

Only to serve as target for the New York critics, some of them pointing out that "Raymond Griffith, who very recently was a great star, has slipped and is now playing minor roles in pictures."

When almost anyone'll tell you that the very fine movie's outstanding few moments are those supplied by the dying French soldier.

One of the better sillies swiftly making the round of the Squares was started by Webster, the grand crayonist, who pinned it on his character, "The Timid Soul." In case you missed it: A chump without an umbrella or other covering is standing in a fierce downpour of rain. A friend pauses in amazement. "Why, you big fool!" he scolds, "you'll catch your death of cold standing in all this rain getting soaked to the skin!"

"I know," replies the yap, "I've been waiting for four hours now, and and if that guy doesn't show up in another 10 minutes, he can go and borrow that hundred dollars from somebody else, by golly!"

"Dutch," the former East Side character who now is one of the Times Square crowd. He makes a living daily with this trick. He seeks a four-horse race mentioned in the rags and then goes to four racetrack followers who live in different parts of the town, giving each the name of a different nag. "You can slip something to me tomorrow if you play Soandso to win the fifth race today."

Thus, he makes a "killing" when there's a four-horse race."

"Dutch" was the late Arnold Rothstein's "bodyguard" for several years. Rothstein always feared a certain East Side gang and was under the impression that "Dutch" was a part of it. One day he met "Dutch" and the timid Rothstein curried favor with him. "I like you," said Rothstein, "will you be my bodyguard?"

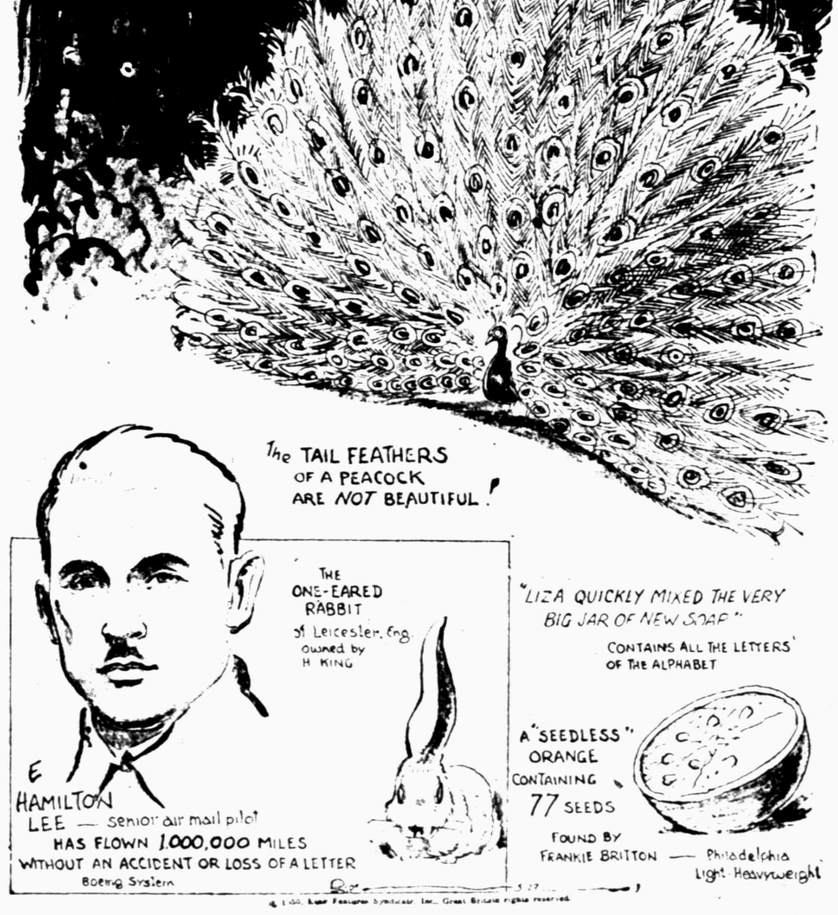

"Dutch" agreed and for many years was on Rothstein's payroll, but never was called on to protect Rothstein.

One night "Dutch" and Rothstein were in Reuben's for a sandwich. An intoxicated man stumbled over the "bodyguard's" outstretched foot. It infuriated the drunk, who punched "Dutch" off the nose. "Dutch" cried like a baby, and held his smashed face.

"Well, I'll be damned!" ejaculated the amazed Rothstein, who was so sore at himself for being a sucker for "Dutch" all those years that he fired him on the spot, without even giving "Dutch" the customary two minutes' notice.

"SHEILA"

Love and Mystery Humor and Tragedy
A Story of Wichita Falls
By GORDON TURNER

"I heard thy enchanting voice, Edna, my love, and the wings of love wafted me to thee," Andy declaimed.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Joseph Hedley, assistant prosecuting attorney of Wichita county, receives a telephone call from his fiancee, Sheila Wilber, informing him that the safe in the laboratory of her home on Speedway, has been burglarized and requesting him to come there at once, because her father, William Oliver Wilber, wishes to consult him about the robbery. On his way to the residence Hedley passes the scene of an auto accident and recognizes Andrew Masters, Sheila's cousin, as the driver of the wrecked car. Master's face is cut and scratched, but otherwise he is uninjured. He accompanies Hedley to the Wilber home where Sheila receives them. While Masters is dressing his wounds, Sheila conducts Hedley to the laboratory. She leaves him there with her father. A tin cashbox has been stolen from the safe. It contained a red, leather-bound diary which had been kept by Wilber's wife, now dead. Wilber reluctantly confesses to Hedley that the diary would reveal a secret of Sheila's birth, a secret so far unknown to Sheila or the world. "My wife was not Sheila's mother, nor am I her father," he tells his astonished auditor.

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER II

Hedley started to his feet. Incredulity and amazement were written in his face. Sheila not Wilber's daughter! The man must be crazy.

"You don't mean . . . ?" he stuttered.

"Yes, Joe, just that and more than that," Wilber answered. "Sheila is not even an adopted daughter. She came to us in a strange way. There was the necessity of absolute secrecy which precluded adoption.

"Understand, there was and is nothing that reflects upon Sheila in any way, or upon any of us, for that matter. But Sheila does not know. Perhaps it would have been better had she been told, but she had intertwined her dear self so firmly in our heartstrings, she had become so thoroughly our own, we could not bear to have her know or think otherwise.

"And after Frances . . . Mrs. Wilber. . . . died, the door was closed. You can understand that. Sheila's memory of Frances is as that of her own mother. She knew no other. Could I tell her now that the dear love of a mother and had been equally adored in turn, was an imposter? Unthinkable!"

"No," agreed Hedley. "Sheila must never know. She fairly worships her mother's memory."

"I knew you would see it that way," Wilber said eagerly. "Some day I shall tell you the whole story. Not now, it would take too long. Now, for Sheila's sake, we must act quickly. The diary must be recovered." His speech halted.

"I suppose" he went on slowly, "I suppose I should have destroyed it. Had I faintly suspected this could have happened I would have done so, but it was a precious memento of Sheila's babyhood and of a mother's joyous love. I love it and guarded it as a miser his gold. Always it was kept locked in the cash box and the box locked in the safe. Often, since Frances died, I have taken it from the box just for the sight of her beloved handwriting, or to dip into his pages. It was a communing with her in spirit, a relieving of my happiest days. As much for my sake as Sheila's I must get it back!"

"But what could a burglar want or do with the diary?" Hedley asked.

"That's the question," Wilber replied. "It has no intrinsic value, but it is potential dynamite as long as it is out of my possession! What if the thief tossed it carelessly away after breaking open the cash box and finding nothing else? It might fall into other and more dangerous hands. It was filled with names and dates and details. It might bring us all into the glare of a hateful publicity."

"Professional burglars, I understand, all have their peculiar methods of operation," Hedley interjected. "The police might be able to trace this one after seeing how the job was done."

"The police, no," exclaimed Wilber. "They must not be called in. That, above all, must be avoided. They would pry and poke. They would have to be told too much."

"You are right," rejoined Hedley. "We must work it out ourselves as best we can. Could it have been anyone in the house—any of the servants?"

"Impossible! No woman could have done it and, as you know, this is a woman-operated household—Mrs. Hendricks, the housekeeper Clara, the cook, and Lena, the maid. When Sheila entertains in an elaborate manner she calls in a caterer, but we were not entertaining last night. The gardener who cares for the grounds is an odd-job man, here only as needed. He is a slow-wit of a fellow who could not conceive of a burglary, let alone carry one out. There is no chauffeur; Sheila and I drive our own cars. But you know all of this."

"Didn't the burglar leave any clews—something by which he might be traced?" Hedley asked.

"Only this," said Wilber. He opened a drawer of the desk and gingerly lifted out a soiled red bandanna handkerchief. "I found this under the open window, but I cannot see that it gets us anywhere; there is nothing distinctive about it. The safe, as you see, was not blown open; the combination was worked. There are no marks on the window sash or frame. There are footprints in the flower beds under the window, but they easily could have been made by the gardener and

. How long have drums been used?—T. E. J.

A. The drum is among the very earliest instruments for the making of musical sounds and has been found in some form in all nations and ages. An actual drum with two curbed sticks was found in some of the earliest Egyptian excavations made in Thebes.

Q.—How large is the lock on the North Sea canal at Ymuiden?—A. H.

A.—The North Sea canal's lock is the largest in the world. It is 1,312 feet long and 164 feet wide. The Gatun lock in Panama is 1,000 feet long and 110 feet wide. Lock eight of the Welland canal is 1,380 feet long and 80 feet wide. The Sault Ste. Marie lock is 1,350 feet long and 80 feet wide. In lock construction greater engineering problems are related to width than to length as the width determines the size of the gates.

Q.—If China is so densely populated along the coast, why don't the people move inland?—H. H. B.

A.—The soil of China through deforestation has become exceedingly poor in great part. The transportation facilities also are exceedingly primitive and inadequate over the greater part of the country. For this reason it is at the present time more thickly populated on the coast. It remains to be seen whether science can devise improved agricultural methods and transportation facilities, which would enable China to support its rapidly increasing population.

Q.—What is the name of the thing an Indian mother places her baby in, and then straps to her back?—J. D.

A.—The Indian office says that the carrier in which the Indian papoose reposes is called a baby carrier or Indian cradle. The exact Indians words for these phrases would vary with each language.

Q.—How long does it take to digest bread?—B. K.

A.—There has never been an accurate experiment made for determining the length of time necessarry to digest bread. Different systems naturally require different lengths of time, and the age and composition of the bread must be taken into consideration. At one recent experiment a professor ate a certain amount of bread on an absolutely empty stomach. By means of certain tests and X-ray pictures it was decided that it took him about two hours to digest the bread.

Q.—What is the difference between pure silver and sterling silver?—J. H.

A.—Pure silver is 1.000-1.000 parts fine; coin silver is 900-1.000 parts fine; and sterling silver is 925-1.000 parts fine.

Q.—Has the coinage of silver dollars been stopped?—D. J. B.

A.—The coinage of the silver dollar was discontinued in 1928. There is no existing law that authorizes further coinage.

Q.—When was the Lincoln memorial in Washington, D. C., dedicated?—M. H.

A.—It was dedicated May 30, 1922.

Q.—Was the first Steinway piano made in the United States?—F. S. H.

A.—This piano was first made in Germany.

Q.—What part of a plane is called the empennage?—H. L. T.

A.—The empennage is the arrangement of stabilizing planes fixed at the stern of a dirigible and functions as feathers do on an arrow; also, a fixed stabilizing tail on an airplane.

Q.—When did the plague visit Oberammergau which caused the inhabitants to promise to give the Passion play?—A. L.

A.—In 1633 the plague visited the valleys of the Bavarian highlands, and finally claimed about 40 victims in the village of Oberammergau. The vow was taken that if the scourge was turned from their homes the villagers would give once in 10 years a play commemorating the life and passion of Christ. The scourage abated and since that time the Passion play has been given.

Q.—How long has the Pole star been used for calculations of direction?—V. K. N.

A.—Polaris was known to the ancients and was spoken of as the "star at the end of the tail of the little bear." The constellation of Ursa Minor, which includes the Pole star, was mentioned by Thales in the seventh century B. C. The Greeks referred to it as the Cynosura and the Phoenicians as Phoenice. Observations of this constellation were used in navigation.

MOVE TO HALT BRIDGE MADE

Toll Span Interests Plan to Seek Injunction

MUSKOGEE, Okla., May 28. (AP)—Counsel for receivers of the Red River Toll Bridge company of Texas today had prepared a petition asking an injunction against the Southwest L. E. Myers Construction company, building a bridge across Red river for the states of Oklahoma and Texas.

The application was held by a group of attorneys, headed by W. E. Utterback of Durant, counsel for S. C. Boswell of Durant and J. R. Handy of Denison, receivers. The attorneys have not decided whether it will be filed. They first intended to file it in United States district court here today before Judge R. L. Williams, but Judge Williams announced he did not wish to hear further action in the Red river cases. Simultaneously he said Judge John C. Pollock of Kansas City would continue the case.

Joseph Bailey Jr., of Dallas, also of receivers' counsel, said that the attorneys had not decided where the application would be filed, but probably it would be in Texas courts.

Old Contract Cited

The bill of complaint by the receivers, accompanying the application to file which Judge Williams did not pass on, is based on a contract given by the Chickasaw Nation in 1876 to B. F. Colbert to build a toll bridge over Red river. Attorneys claim that the document carries with it exclusive bridge rights within one and one-half miles of each side of the present toll bridge. The Red River Toll Bridge company of Texas acquired the lease in 1906, the bill of complaint sets out.

The suit would enjoin the states of Texas and Oklahoma from building a bridge intended for free travel on a location near the present bridge.

Another suit has been filed by Attorney General J. Bery King for Oklahoma, to condemn land for the bridge site owned by Eugenia Rhea and others. It was filed in federal court here two weeks ago.

Judge Williams allowed counsel to agree on a date for hearing of this suit, which was answered and objected to by counsel for the bridge company receivers. It will be heard before Judge Pollock on June 16 at a court point yet to be designated.

The application for a temporary injunction against the states building a bridge also will come before Judge Pollock after the hearing on the condemnation suit.

High Blood Pressure

Often Due to Intestinal Poisons

High blood pressure is usually traced to one of four causes. Arterio-sclerosis, Bright's disease, tertiary blood poison or to some faulty condition of the digestive tract or organs that have to do with digestion.

The greater number of cases can be traced to the gall bladder and to intestinal poisons.

Wasserman blood tests are of the highest importance in all cases of high blood pressure.

Aside from the four general causes looked for by the physician, there are naturally many contributing factors to high blood pressure.

It is a fact that proper treatment will reduce high blood pressure to a point of safety in the majority of cases.

Every pile sufferer, every man or woman with an infected gall bladder or stomach trouble should make it a point to have early treatments. The Health Service Institute, whose offices are in the Kahn Bldg., 727½ Indiana Ave., is having marked success in the treatment of these conditions.

While the average person is more easily alarmed over high blood pressure with its apparent danger of apoplexy, hemiplegia, etc., there are thousands in every community who are shortening their days through neglecting low blood pressure.

In nearly all cases of sytemic catarrhal and lung conditions we find low blood pressure. The hyperacidity that causes chronic laryngitis throat troubles, etc., finds the same lowered resistance.

Many such conditions are being successfully treated by the Health Service Doctors.

With their enlarged quarters they offer every modern facility for the treatment of stomach and intestinal troubles, diseases of the blood, nerves, rheumatism, diabetes, high or low blood pressure, diseases of the rectum and special diseases of men and women.

Wasserman blood tests are only $3. Consultation is free. The Health Service Institute is permanently located in Wichita Falls. Office hours daily 9 to 5; Wednesday and Saturday evening 7 to 8; Sundays 10 to 12 only.—Adv.

they may have been there for days."

"No much to go on," commented Hedley, "and heaven knows I'm no detective." He leaned forward in his chair suddenly, his eyes glowing.

"A detective!" he exclaimed. I know just the right man. What's the matter with my head? Why didn't I think of that long ago? Frank Sheridan, of course!"

"Frank Sheridan?" Wilber repeated. "The only Frank Sheridan I know of is a lawyer. Not much of a lawyer, either; I never heard of his trying a case. More of an idler, I should surmise, and certainly no detective."

"That's the fellow," said Hedley "but you've got him wrong. He is no idler and he is a mighty good lawyer, tho he does not practice. He is immensely wealthy and is kept fairly busy managing his investments. He has offices in the Waggoner building and he is on the job every day. Let me tell you about him."

"Go ahead," said Wilber, "but I can't see—"

"You will in a moment," Hedley interrupted. "Frank Sheridan is about my age, 28 or 29. We were classmates in the law college of the University of Texas and became close friends. He is a whimsical sort of fellow, intensely alive and interested in every phase of life.

"Sheridan has a keen, analytical mind, with almost uncanny power to go to the bottom of a knotty problem. A mystery, a puzzling situation is a challenge to his mind; he cannot rest until he has probed it. His hobby is the psychology of crime. He is intrigued by the queer twists in the brains of men that lead them to break the rules of society.

"In his leisure hours he haunts the police courts and attends the major criminal trials at the court house. This has thrown him in close touch with me and my work. He often sits with me during the progress of a trial and his whispered suggestions in cross-examination many times have given me the cues to important evidence hidden in the minds of stubborn witnesses. The processes of the human mind seem to be an open book to him. I have consulted him with great profit in the preparation of difficult criminal cases, and sometimes he has voluntarily made personal subrosa investigations which have changed the whole trend of a case.

"Frank Sheridan could be either a great trial lawyer or a great detective if necessity ever should compel him to earn a living. As it is, he plays the game only as he chooses and only for the fun of it; he never accepts a fee. But present to him a problem that strikes his fancy and he is off like a hound on the trail, barking joyously.

"With it all, he has an extremely attractive personality, a rare sense of humor and a violent dislike for personal publicity. He is the soul of honor, a man you could trust with your most carefully guarded secret. If we can interest him in the recovery of the lost diary, your worries on that score soon will be at an end. If there is any way of unmasking the burglar, Sheridan will find that way."

"You have made out a good case, but would Sheridan be interested in such a commonplace burglary?" Wilber asked.

"Commonplace!" Hedley exclaimed, "you don't call the story you have told me commonplace! Frank will eat it up. Let me call him." His hand went out to the extension phone on the desk. "Trust me in this, Mr. Wilber," he said gravely, "you will never regret it."

Sheila had no more returned to the living room from the laboratory than a small coupe swung into the driveway and came to a stop at the veranda entrance. A pair of shapely, silk-clad legs, supporting a lissom body in a smart summer frock, backed out of the car, and a bareheaded girl ran lightly up the steps.

"'Lo, Sheila, old thing!" she called, banging the screen door and catapaulting herself into the room. She pounced upon Sheila and planted a vigorous kiss upon her cheek.

"That's just like you, Edna," said Sheila with a laugh. By the way, are you trailing Andy?"

"Andy, who said anything about Andy? For the love of Pete, is he here?"

"Uh-huh, he's upstairs now, repairing the damage to a lacerated heart . . . well, not that, exactly . . . but just wait till you see him," Sheila said darkly and continued in mock alarm, "I think I hear stealthy footsteps approaching."

Andy, his cheek sporting a wad of cotton held in place by a long strip of adhesive plaster, came down the stairs, three steps at a time.

"I hear thy enchanting voice, Edna, my love, and the wings of my ardor wafted me gently to thee," he declaimed, striking an attitude. "No, no!" he continued as he noted a startled expression on Edna's face, "don't you dare ask who hit me. 'Tis nothing! I walked into a door in the dark."

"Yes, and I suppose you beat up the door," retorted Edna.

"Sarcastic one, I refuse to explain, but have no fear. Sheila will give you an earful. And I must be on my way, much as I long to bask in thy charm. A rapacious garage man, not to mention the police, are awaiting me. Sheila, where's my hootch? Ah, there you are, come to papa, baby."

Andy lifted the Gladstone bag from the floor and was out of the door in a flash.

"Poor Andy," Sheila said, gazing after his retreating figure. "I wish he would settle down. It is all right to be modern, but Andy overdoes it."

"Oh, Andy'll be all right when he grows up," Edna replied. "He's all right now when he's sober, but give him a few highballs and . . ." Her voice trailed off. "Nevertheless," she continued slowly, "I do like that boy."

"I'll say you do," remarked Sheila significantly.

Edna Rogers was Sheila's closest friend. They had been chums thru high school and at the university, though not in the same classes. Edna, barely 20, was two years younger than her friend. She lived with her widowed mother in a fine, old home on Brook avenue. Her father a business man, had been dead a number of years, but he had left his widow and only one child in more than comfortable circumstances.

There was a striking likeness in the two chums, despite Edna's brunet coloring and smaller stature. "They have been so much together, they have grown to look alike," Edna's mother often said.

After Andy's departure the girls settled down for a chat. Sheila detailed the exciting news of Andy's accident and the laboratory safe robbery.

"But you mustn't say anything about the burglary," Sheila cautioned. "For some unfathomable reason papa wants it kept quiet. He hasn't even notified the police. And he won't tell me a thing! Though he says nothing valuable was stolen, he is deeply worried. When he was so long in the laboratory this morning, I went to look for him. He was sitting in a chair near the safe with his head in his hands, and as I stepped to the door I heard him say in the strangest voice:

"'Frances, Frances, can you forgive me?'

"You know, Edna," Sheila explained, "my mother's name was 'Frances'."

How I fry fish . . . . . without smoke

[and with an improvement in the flavor]

1 I prepare the fish. Then I put Crisco into a cold frying pan. To cook the fish without smoke or scorching I fry slowly. I use enough Crisco to partly cover it. It does not require the constant attention frying would if I were to use only a little fat.

2 I put the frying pan over low heat. As soon as Crisco is melted, I put in a small piece of bread.

3 As soon as the bread starts to brown, I put in the fish. Cook slowly until the fish is nearly done; then turn to brown the other side. With plenty of Crisco in the frying pan, I can turn the fish easily without breaking, if I wait until it is almost done.

4 I strain the Crisco back into the empty can through cheese-cloth or a fine sieve. Then I can use the Crisco for the next thing I want to fry. Crisco doesn't carry the flavor of one food to the next. Furthermore, Crisco itself tastes sweet and fresh, just as it comes from its air-tight can. And, when you come to think of it, should you ever fry in a fat you are unwilling to taste?

COOKING SCHOOL NOTE by Mrs. Frances Northcross

In the cooking school I conducted under the auspices of the Times and Record News last week I stressed modern methods of cooking. Naturally, then, I use and recommend CRISCO—for it's a modern shortening.—Mrs. Frances Northcross.

*An investigation conducted by the Association of Life Insurance Medical Directors and the Actuarial Society of America revealed the fact that the death rate increases practically 1% for every pound of excess weight carried between the ages of 40 and 44 years. In other words, a man 40 pounds overweight at this age has only 60% of the expectancy of life of a man of normal weight. We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky instead," you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

Pretty Y.W.C.A. Luncheon Honors Dallas Executive

Miss Julia Hogan, director of general education of the Y. W. C. A., Dallas, was honor guest Wednesday at a pretty luncheon given in the local Y. W. C. A. parlors, Mrs. C. W. Snider, president of the association, presided and introduced the speaker.

Miss Hogan talked with enthusiasm on the new idea to be developed in adult camps in the Southwest. She will act this summer as executive of the Y. W. C. A. camps at Glenrose, where a program adapted to the climate of Texas will be an innovation.

Covered wagons and old fashioned buggies will be drawn by horses when parties wish to go on trips. It has been found that in the warmest season, hikes are too strenuous for the average camper. "Taking time" will be stressed and old-time grub boxes will be packed with lunches when trips are made.

An out-door theater is to be arranged and handicraft and drama will be built on marionettes. Miss Hogan was a member of the Little Theater cast that won the Belasco prize and knows her subject when drama is talked.

The table was lovely with larkspur and pink roses used luxuriantly and tall blue tapers in dainty holders emphasized the pastel motif.

Seated with the honoree were Misses Glenna Miller, Mamie Kubfuss, Agenia Edgar, Maude Bartholomew, Cleo Bowers, Ethel Glasgow, Zula McKay, Catherine Walker and Erma Schnelle and Mesdames C. W. Snider, Finley Weldon, F. E. McConnell, Fred Schmann, Joella Terrell Butler, Mary Lyons and Rose Tickell.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Wide open windows at this season let in the songs of mocking birds and cardinals early in the morning. We wake with their trills in our ears and lie listening and thinking how glorious a walk or ride or a drive would be before the world is abroad. Then we turn and take another nap.

Before we go to sleep at night, we make plans for rising early. Seeing the sunrise is seeing a picture more beautiful than any on the screen; the dew on the grass does not linger long. But when we do rise the birds shame us. They are immediately so busy that our dalliance with the hours is a mute reproach.

But the break of dawn does not only bring promise of another day and another trial. It is mute witness to long vigils of the night, it brings recollection of hours when we could not sleep and when daylight was welcome because with its coming others waked and moved about.

Beauty wakes with the sunrise; but when one may lie down and rest after a weary day, nothing is of so much comfort as a good bed. Why leave it then to enter again on a race which one must enter in due time?

We know the old "Early to bed," etc.? not forgetting the part about rising. But we are content to let some one else wait upon the morning so long as lying abed does not rob us of health. Wisdom is a thing concerning which we would dispute with the old rhymester. We have found more of what wisdom we have by burning the midnight electricity. At that time, there is no one about to disturb our search for gems of truth.

We may sleep on our rights. Reading Frederic Haskin's assertion that in 1920 there were 15 acres of land to each American, makes us believe that many Americans have done so.

Even allowing for so great an increase in the population that each man's allotment would only come to 10 acres in 1930 leaves us wondering how many have that much.

Dividing up the material wealth of the world on paper has its drawbacks. What good would even 10 acres do a person if he could not choose its whereabouts?

Early in the spring when life first comes back to the things of earth, land is a magic thing. Men and women have a passion for digging in the dirt and planting. Later on, so many gardens are neglected and grow into patches of tall weeds.

Land is not all a person needs. If a division of "application" and the ability to follow routine and an abiding ambition to finish what one has begun could be distributed, it would mean more than 10 acres to a person.

Poor Manners Put Modern Marriages Under Handicap

What's the matter with marriage? First, lack of good manners. Husbands and wives consider that even common civility is not an article intended for home consumption and a daily diet, but a hors d'oeuvre, like caviar, that should be kept for company. They say crude, rude, brutal things to each other that they would not dream of saying to any other human being on earth.

No man would address his stenographer in the tone of voice he uses to his wife, nor would he treat any other women with the utter lack of courtesy and consideration he shows his wife. No woman would speak to a servant as she does to her husband, nor would she show the same disregard for the feelings and susceptibilities of any other man that she ruthlessly displays toward her husband.

Husbands and wives will take from each other the service of a lifetime; they will accept from each other the most heroic sacrifices and the most priceless devotion and never once even say "thank you," or give any sign or indication of appreciation.

Why a man feels that it is no longer incumbent upon him to treat a woman as if she was a lady if she is his wife; why a woman feels that she is free to insult her husband; why husbands and wives feel that they do not have to be polite to the women and men to whom they are married, nobody can explain. But it is the lack of good manners to lubricate the domestic machine that makes it squeak and groan and break down so often.

The second thing that is the matter with marriage is that it has too many home truths and not enough diplomacy in it. Courtship is conducted on the hot-air basis, and marriage is run on the deflation principle, so it is no wonder there are so many punctured pink balloons lying on the divorce court steps.

When a man is trying to win a girl he tells her how beautiful and wonderful and how superior to all other women she is, and only too often after marriage he devotes his leisure hours at home to calling her attention to her shortcomings and telling her that she is too fat or too thin, and wondering why she can't look like Mrs. A., or be a brilliant conversationalist like Mrs. C., or look like a flapper.

And friend wife retaliates in kind by criticizing hubby's table manners and telling him he is a false alarm as a humorist and wondering why he can't make money like Sally's husband does.

Both husband and wife have married thinking they were going to get a claque and they naturally feel that they have been taken in and gypped when they discover they have acquired an anvil chorus. Moreover, in some strange and inexplicable way, it is more necessary to a man to be a hero in his wife's eyes than in any one else's, and it is more important to a woman to have her husband's admiration than that of any other human being. Hence home truths are just as dangerous in the family circle as loaded bombs would be, and the truer they are, the more full of TNT they are, and the more certain they are to explode and blow all domestic happiness to Kingdom Come.

It is no part of a wife's duty to tell her husband of his faults and weaknesses, and if she wants to keep him she must keep hands and tongue off them. Nor is a husband called upon to criticize his wife's every action, nor will he do so unless he is spoiling for a fight. In the days of courtship men and women may use utter frankness in dealing with each other and discussing each other's characteristics, but after marriage candor is suicidal. Marriage is the place where diplomacy must do its great and perfect work.

The third thing that is the matter with matrimony is that neither men nor women try to make it attractive. They start in thinking it is going to be a sort of heaven on earth and when they find that it isn't, and that it is filled with trials and tribulations, they cry out stung, and quit cold. They don't try to ameliorate the situation, nor to touch up their palace of dreams with a little gold paint when the veneer has got knocked off.

Very often both husband and wife slump. They don't think it worth while to dress up for each other or to try to entertain each other or to amuse each other. Home life is dull because they don't put any pep into it. Husbands run off after other women because the other women try to vamp them and their wives don't. Wives hunt up some other men to kiss them when husbands cease to bestow anything but a ham-and-eggs peck on their cheeks. Homes tumble down into wrecks because nobody kept them repaired by mending the breakage and the leaks with little attentions, little pleasures, little tenderness.

The fourth thing that is the matter with marriage is that too many husbands and wives make of it a jail. The motto over many a newlywed's door is: "Abandon freedom all ye who enter here." Husband considers that he has a right to boss his wife's every thought and action and to dictate to her what clubs she shall belong to, the length of her skirts and her hair, whether she shall use cosmetics or not, and to tell her generally where she gets on and off. Many women after they are married never have a cent of money that they can spend as they choose. They can't even visit their mother without asking husband's permission, and husband considers that they are derelict in performing their duties if they have any interests outside the home.

Many women believe that marriage gives them a right to police the incomings and outgoings of their husbands, to edit the husband's list of friends, to dictate to husband what he shall eat, how he shall have his hair cut, whether he shall smoke or not, and what sort of ties he shall wear. There are thousands of husbands who have to give up all of their old friends when they marry, who cannot even visit their mothers without a row, who tremble with fear if they are five minutes late in punching the home timeclock, and who do not even have a servant girl's privilege of one evening off a week.

None of us love our jailers, and these slave wives and slave husbands hate their tyrants, and form the bulk of those who hasten to the divorce court in search of freedom or who else form the host of reconciled widows and widowers that we see all about us.

And, finally, the thing that is most the matter with marriage is that there is not enough love in it. Given plenty of that, nothing else matters. —DOROTHY DIX.

Out in Hollywood they have a wonderful recipe for a lotion that quickly reduces large pores, removes blackheads and makes the skin nice and smooth.

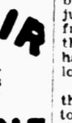

The very minute you pat it on the face it gets down deep into the skin and cleans out the dirt. It removes blackheads, closes the pores and makes the skin smooth, good-looking and youthfully fresh. You'll notice, too, that the skin is not oily or disfigured with perspiration that streaks makes-up.

If you want a smooth, soft, beautiful skin free from large pores, blackheads, crow's feet and oiliness, just get 3 ounces of Orchard White from your druggist and mix it with the juice of 2 lemons. Then you have a full quarter-pint of the finest lotion you have ever used. Try it.

Note: During the summer months this amazing lotion is indispensable to the outdoor girl. It keeps the skin smooth and free from freckles, and guards against that leathery, aged-worn look caused by sun and wind.—Adv.

Mahaffey Recital Offers Selection Of Lovely Music

Perusal of the detailed program announced for the student voice recital to be given by the Mahaffey studios at the First Presbyterian church Friday night reveals an unusually wide and interesting range of theme and musical form.

With few exceptions, the entire program will be given by adult voices, making possible the inclusion of numerous arias from well known major operas, as well as substantial concert numbers. Favorite composers of program songs whose numbers will be heard Friday night include Oley Speaks, Liza Lehmann, and Rasbach—whose setting for Joyce Kilmer's exquisite poem, "Trees," has been eagerly adopted by scores of concert artists during the past few years. Charles Wakefield Cadman selections also will be given by two soloists and by the Bluebonnet ladies' quartet.

Lightly romantic and melodic elements will be featured in several of the earlier numbers on the program, while Louis Bond, bass, will sing Feiman's arrangement for Rudyard Kipling's "Boots," one of the most stirringly dramatic songs in use on the modern concert stage.

Operatic arias will include the uniquely popular "One Fine Day," from Puccini's "Madame Butterfly"; Delilah's declaration to Samson in Saint-Saens' "Samson and Delilah"; the well-known prolog to "I Pagliacci," for baritone; Rudolph's proffer of both aid and love to the suffering Mimi, from Puccini's "La Boheme"; and the aria, "O Paradise" from Meyerbeer's "L'Africaine."

Ensemble numbers will include the Cadman "Chinese Flower Fete," for ladies quartet, Dudley Buck's "On the Sea," and a hunting song by Spence, for male quartet, and the ensemble of recital voices on the "Bridal Chorus" from Cowen's "Rose Maiden."

The recital Friday night will begin at 8:15 o'clock, and is open to the public.

Altrusans Honor President With Farewell Dinner Party

With ships a'sail and baggage tags suggesting faraway lands, an original and lovely decorative motif was stressed in the dinner given by the Altrusa club at the country club Tuesday night honoring Miss Lucia Powell, president of the Altrusans, who will sail in about two weeks for an extended trip abroad.

A lighted ship made the attractive center and lavender and white larkspur with tapers in the same pastel shades, suggested the spring season. Guest's chairs were covered with baggage tags; little suitcases filled with candy were favors and place cards were pictures of miniature steamers with original verses for each member.

Misses Frances Brooks, Ruth Downing, Olive Olson, Anna Belle Farquhar and Mrs. Leslie Huffines were hostesses who planned the unique party and Miss Juanita Kinsey, who acted as captain of the ship and toastmistress, composed clever verses to fit each guest, adding much gayety to the evening. Miss Frances Brooks toasted the departing president beautifully and Miss Anna Belle Farquhar presented her, for club members, with a handsome gift.

Through the past year, members of Altrusa have drawn names and shown secret courtesies to other members. In the course of the dinner, these unknown friends were revealed to one another.

The dinner served carried out the theme of travel. Cocktails were banana boats filled with fruit; cucumber boats held the salad course and the ice cream featured airplanes and steamships with cakes in the shape of a boat with the red, white and blue trimming.

Seated with the honoree were Dr. Maude Lindsay, Misses Anette Coffield, Olive Olson, Judith Mann, Mineola Harding, Juanita Kinsey, Frances Brooks, Susie Downing, Mary Coffield, Ruth Downing, Anna Belle Farquhar, Fleta Woolsey, Myrle Neely, Catherine Walker and Maude Thomas and Mesdames Kathleen Nelms, Elizabeth Weldon, Gelda Matson, D. G. Whitney, Alta Cornelius, Sarah Kinsey, Elwyn Lomax, Wayne Holmes and Leslie Huffines.

Eddleman, agreed in the extension to accept a continuance of the trust and of the management and distribution of the properties or proceeds for an additional two years, dating from Oct. 1, 1930, and ending Sept. 30, 1932. R. M. Waggoner, W. T. Willis, W. M. Priddy, P. P. Langford, M. J. Bashara and N. B. Chenault were named as the original partners in the American company.

Motor Company Sues for $500 Month and $4,000

Actual damages of $500 a month and exemplary damages of $4,000 are asked in a suit filed Wednesday in the 89th district court in behalf of the Victory Motor company against the Southwestern Bell Telephone company because of the alleged omission of the motor company's name and telephone number from the regular telephone directory listing and the incorrect listing of the address and number in the classified section of the directory.

The motor company claims its business to have been "destroyed or greatly damaged" by reason of the omission from the regular listings, leading persons to believe the company had gone out of business. It was stated the omission had been called to the company's attention by a creditor who believed they were no longer in business since no telephone number was listed. It was further claimed the motor company's address in the classified section of the directory was listed as 115 Indiana avenue, when it should have been 517 Indiana avenue, and the telephone number was given as 2-5681, alleged to be a dead number, when it should have been 9150.

$8,000 Awarded In Compensation Suit

A jury in the 78th district court Wednesday awarded compensation amounting to more than $8,000 when it declared the plaintiff totally incapacitated in its findings at the close of the trial of the suit brought against the Texas Indemnity Insurance company by James B. Farren on a claim to total disabilities resulting from an accident while Farren was employed by the Skelly Oil company. The award was made in a lump sum instead of at the rate of $20 a week for 401 weeks as asked in the petition.

In order to hear a motion for a new trial in the case, Judge W. W. Cook Wednesday afternoon ordered the present term of the 78th district court extended to June 1. The regular term will end May 31.

MEXICO SEEKS JAKE FLEAGLE

Colorado Desperado Hides South of Rio Grande

MEXICO CITY, May 28. (AP)—A nation-wide warning has been sent out by radio in Mexico for police officials to be on the lookout for Jake H. Fleagle reported to have headed into Mexico after committing a holdup in Del Rio, Texas.

Fleagle's description was broadcast and was printed throughout the country at the instance of the Mexico City police.

Sheriffs of Otero and Prowers counties in Colorado came here recently seeking Fleagle, wanted for the holdup of the First National bank of Lamar.

FLEAGLE RAIDS GAMBLING HALL

Advices from Villa Acuna, Coahuila, said that five men who were in a Mexican gambling hall when it was held up there last Sunday night had identified a picture of Jake Fleagle as that of an American who robbed the gambling game of $1,000. An automobile was set on fire in front of the hall before the holdup to divert attention. The robber waded across the Rio Grande and escaped into Texas in the vicinity of Del Rio.

Fleagle is alleged to have been the leader of the bandit gang that held up the Lamar bank and killed four men. Other members of the gang have been rounded up, but Fleagle has succeeded in eluding his pursuers for months.

WARRANT ISSUED FOR EXTRADITION

WASHINGTON, May 28. (AP)—On request of the governor of Colorado, the state department has issued a presidential warrant for extradition from Mexico of Jake Fleagle, Lamar, Colo., bank bandit.

The state department was without details, but said the warrant was based on charges of murder, robbing and kidnaping.

High Tariff Advocates Answer Charges Made by Economists

WASHINGTON, May 28. (AP)—Friends of the $630,000,000 revenue producing tariff bill struck back at its opponents today as the conferees awaited a meeting tomorrow to negotiate a new flexible provision that would be impregnable against further points of order.

Senator Hatfield, Republican, West Virginia, asserted in the senate that the 1,000 college professors and economists who recently protested against the Hawley-Smoot measure "seem to be more concerned with the prosperity of the foreigners than the welfare of our own people."

Letter Read

The West Virginian had read a lengthy letter from Matthew Woll, head of the American Wage Earners Protective conference, replying to the economists's appeal for a presidential veto.

"The position of the economists and college professors on tariff legislation is generally well known," the letter said. "With few exceptions they are free traders. They are neither producers nor creators of any commodity or article of trade. They are generally cloistered in the atmosphere of the school room and their mental wares do not enter into competition with producers where lower wage levels and longer working hours prevail and where standards of living are not only lower but in other respects much inferior to the standards built up in our country under the American tariff policy."

Earners "Forgotten"

"Here, indeed, we have a frank and eloquent appeal for international capital and capitalists for international industrialists and commercialists, and not a word of sympathy for America's wage earners," the letter continued, adding:

"In many cases investments of American capital have been used to promote industries in foreign countries simply because they can dump the products of the foreign countries on the American market and receive from the sale of these products a larger profit than is obtainable through the sale of similar products produced in their American factories."

Meanwhile, it became known that the state department has received approximately 160 communications from more than 30 foreign nations containing protests and observations on the bill. Only a small fraction, the remainder embracing contentions of foreign trade organizations and individuals.

Tick Eradication Progress Shown

WASHINGTON, May 28. (AP)—The United States department of agriculture today issued this official statement on the cattle tick:

Mississippi's splendid progress in eliminating cattle-fever ticks from the 17 counties remaining under federal quarantine makes it probable that this territory will be released from quarantine before the close of the year, says Dr. R. A. Ramsay, head of the tick eradication division of U. S. department of agriculture. It would be the 11th state to get rid of the tick embargo.

The cooperative tick eradication work carried on by the federal government and the state of Florida and Texas, Dr. Ramsay says, is rapidly crowding the tick out of those states. Fifteen counties in Arkansas and 42 parishes in Louisiana have not undertaken tick eradication. Work in Louisiana is practically at a standstill, 42 parishes remaining tick infested and under federal quarantine.

Of the 14 states in the South and one on the Pacific coast quarantined in 1906 because of fever ticks, all but five have been freed of the parasite and of tick fever. With the completion of tick eradication in Mississippi, only four states will remain in the quarantine area—Florida, Texas, Arakansas and Louisiana.

Facing the Cruelest Test a Skin can meet

9 out of 10 screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap to keep their skin exquisite for the merciless close-up

A GLARING blaze of light, flooding the screen star's face. Light so intense that it reveals everything. There mustn't be even the tiniest flaw in the skin.

No actress, according to 45 leading Hollywood directors, has ever been able to win and hold the heart of the public unless her skin showed simply exquisite in the close-up. And in the talkies there are more close-ups than ever before!

This is why 511 of the 521 important Hollywood actresses use Lux Toilet Soap. In addition, all the great film studios have made it the official soap for their dressing rooms.

The Broadway stage stars have long used this daintily fragrant white soap, too—and now the famous European screen stars have adopted it as their own.

By using Lux Toilet Soap you can keep your skin just as petal-smooth as nine out of ten screen stars keep theirs. Do order several cakes—today.

"Lights!" A turn of the switch—and the glare from the giant incandescents pours down on the screen star's face. The cruelest test a skin can meet—this test of the close-up.

HELEN TWELVETREES, charming Pathé star, has no need to fear that her skin will not register flawlessly perfect on the highly sensitized film—for she has long cared for her skin with Lux Toilet Soap.

She says: "Smooth skin is one of the most important assets a screen star has. I always use Lux Toilet Soap to guard my skin—it certainly is a lovely soap."

MARY NOLAN, lovely Universal star, also uses Lux Toilet Soap. When the blaze of the close-up lights floods her face and shoulders and arms, she knows that the camera will register a petal-smooth skin—for like 511 of the 521 important Hollywood actresses, she guards her skin carefully with this daintily fragrant white soap.

She says: "I have tried innumerable French soaps—but never have I had anything like Lux Toilet Soap for keeping my skin fresh and smooth."

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.
(Copyright, 1930, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Dressing for Health

Since we are required by the dictates of custom to wear clothing, we should learn how our clothes may affect our health, and which kinds of clothing are the least injurious. You know that in some of my previous articles I discussed how the skin is a living organ which requires light and ventilation to be in the best of health. There is no doubt that in mild climates the less clothing the better. However, it is bad taste to display certain purely physical parts of the body, and we are therefore confronted with the problem of wearing attractive clothing which will at the same time, admit air to the skin and enough light to supply the body's needs.

The old-fashioned idea of wearing thick, heavy, dark clothing, whether summer or winter, is wrong, and should be discarded. The clothing should be adapted to the season.

The innermost clothes, worn next to the skin, should be loose enough to admit air and soft enough not to irritate the skin. For this reason, cotton, silk, or the new wood-fibre imitation silk are preferable to wool or linen. Oddly enough, loosely worn undergarments are often warmer than tight ones, as the air between the meshes is a poor conductor of heat and therefore retains the warmth of the body. This type of underclothing may be worn the year round. In cold weather wear more of the outer wraps to retain the body's heat, so that when you come indoors where it is warm, you may remove your coat or sweater to suit the temperature. For the outer garments during the cold weather there is no doubt that woolen materials are the best. It has also been found that the darker clothes allow the heat rays of the sun to penetrate better than light clothes. For this reason it is better to wear dark clothes in winter and light clothes in summer.

During the cold weather special care should be used to protect the legs and arms from cold because the limbs have many large blood vessels near the surface and if these parts become too chilled the blood vessels are contracted and drive the blood into the internal organs, including the respiratory passages so that colds may more readily develop.

It is better always to have your clothing so that it does not bind or constrict. Most clothes can be arranged so that they are supported from the shoulders. One should not wear tight garters or tight belts. During the warm weather the outer garments should be as light in weight as possible. If too many clothes are worn the skin is overheated and the body is fatigued.

Whenever possible, one should wear clothes which are neat and attractive. The style of your clothes might not seem to be a health problem, but it is a fact that if you are well dressed you feel a self confidence which you never feel in shabby clothes. Correctly fitting and well chosen clothes reflect the wearer's good sense and judgment. Choosing the right clothes is therefore important from the mental as well as the physical standpoint.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Removal of Thyroid Gland

Question: Mrs. W. H. asks: "When all of the thyroid gland is removed does the patient become prematurely senile? I am deeply concerned about my daughter who was operated on for goitre. Her health has been failing since then. She has suffered a complete nervouse breakdown, followed by fits of insanity and despondency. She has become gray, shuns amusements, is often fretful, and has developed the slow movements of a very old person. I do so want your advice?"

Answer—If all of her thyroid gland is removed the patient generally dies within a short time, but if only a portion is removed it is possible that enough remains to supply the need. However, a lack of thyroid secretion does produce premature ageing and may cause some mental disturbances. Your daughter may have some other condition as well as the thyroid trouble but, of course, it is impossible for me to diagnose her case without first having the opportunity of examining her.

X-Ray and Adhesions

Question: H. B. asks: "Would the fluoroscopic X-ray show up definitely a growth from an adhesion?"

Answer—It is seldom possible to see an adhesion with the X-ray, and likewise just as difficult to see the average tumor. However, the doctor making the flouroscopic examination can usually discover the presence of adhesions and tumors by his examination. The intestines are made visible in the X-ray through being filled with a mixture containing barium sulphate. The X-ray operator examining his patient is able to find adhesions through attempting by manipulation to move the organs from one position to another. When certain organs are grown together by adhesions the examining physician can tell this because he cannot separate the organs one from the other and because of this arrives at his diagnosis regarding the existence of adhesions.

FLOOD DANGER GROWS HOURLY

Louisiana Overflow Near 1927 Proportions

SHREVEPORT, La., May 28. (UP)—With five towns under water and more than 4,000 persons homeless, a flood condition comparable to that of the 1927 disaster was predicted tonight for sections of Louisiana.

Only one death, that of William Laffon, Grant parish, who was drowned in the swirling waters of the Red river, has been reported.

Thousands of refugees are huddled on hilltops and are being cared for in emergency camps, reports said. A scarcity of food and clothing exists throughout the stricken territory.

"The conditions are more grave than in 1927," State Representative James Aswell said tonight. "Relief funds are needed badly."

Five villages—West Dale, East Point, Critchton, Armistead and Abington—all are inundated partially and residents have been forced to flee their homes, leaving behind property to be ravished by the muddy waters.

Workers tonight swarmed the levees at Natchitoches and Alexandria where rich farm lands are endangered by the rising Red river.

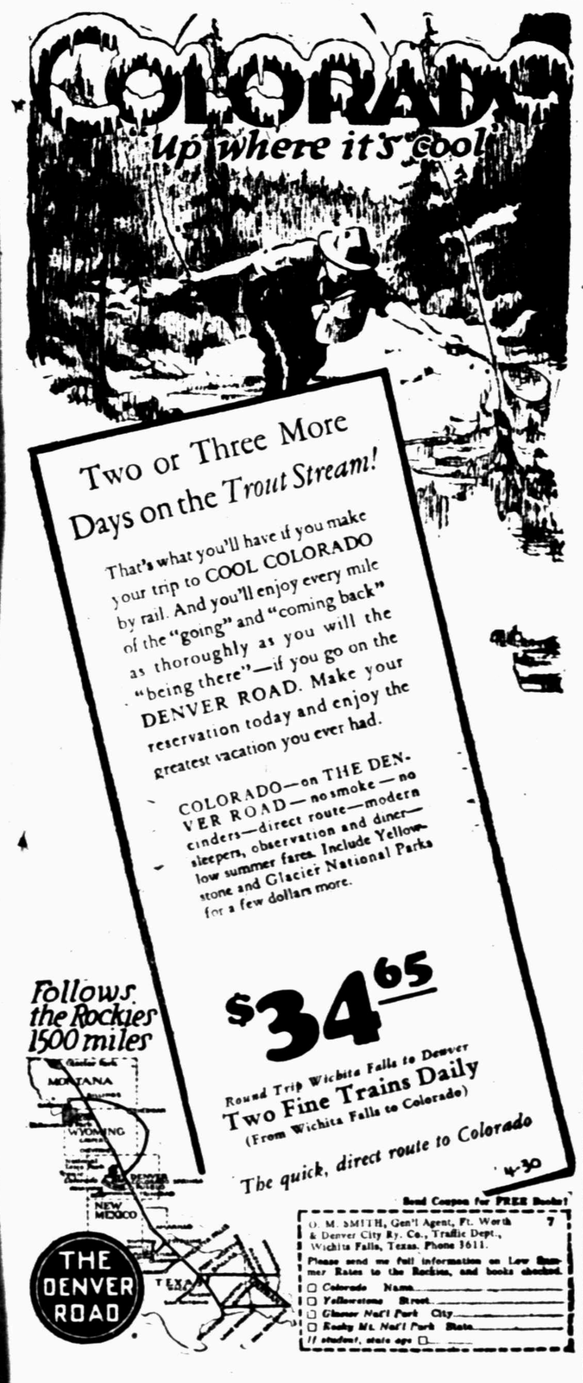

Communication lines into the devastated sections have been washed away and with highways flooded, releif work has been made difficult.

Senator Would Force Dry Agents to Make $10,000 Bonds

WASHINGTON, May 28. (INS)—All prohibition agents will have to put up a $10,000 bond to insure payment of damages for "wrongfully or negligently causing personal injury or death or damage to or loss of property for trespassing" under a bill introduced by Senator Hawes, Democrat, of Missouri, in the senate this afternoon.

BIBLE CLASS HOLDS BANQUET

Judge John Kay Gives Chief Address

Members of the Kay Bible class, numbering about 150, Wednesday evening held the annual banquet of the class in the basement of the old First Methodist church building with Oral Jones, president, presiding and Judge John Kay, founder of the class, as principal speaker of the evening.

The speakers and numbers on the program were introduced by C. A. Rogers, acting as toastmaster. Judge Kay's address was on the subject "Our Better Selves," and the message it contained was given in the words that "every man can reach up and grasp his higher self.' Oral Jones gave the invocation. The first of the entertainment numbers was a "magic act" by Judge H. J. Bruce, who demonstrated a number of amusing tricks.

The most novel feature of the program was an address given by "Abie Goldfish," who presented his impressions of America and Americans by means of a "radio hook-up." Abie was in reality E. F. Bohmfalk and the radio hook-up was a system of wires and a loud speaker leading into the banquet room from a room in another part of the building. Abie's personal remarks about various of the members of the class present and his wise-cracks provided for many laughs.

Mrs. Victor Lowrey presented a number of vocal selections, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr. John Daniel Barron, who leads the class at its meetings each Sunday morning, made a brief impromptu talk and Mrs. Bohmfalk led the entire gathering in several songs. The dinner was served under the direction of the B. O. P. class of the First Methodist church.

Warehouse Swallows 4,500 Bbls. of 1916 Booze

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 28. (UP)—Four thousand, five hundred barrels of whisky, manufactured in the spring of 1916 through the fall of 1917, were rolled today, under heavy guard, into the warehouse of the Frankfort Distilling company.

The shipment was made from the Gelmore distillery in Owensboro, where there still remains 20,000 barrels (not gallons) in stock. Each barrel originally contained from 50 to 52 gallons but recent regauging revealed the contents had dwindled to 26 and 27 gallons.

At retail bootleg prices, the shipment received was worth nearly $3,000,000. That remaining in storage would be worth $14,400,000.

100 Enjoy Picnic Of Episcopal Groups

A crowd of about 100 persons Wednesday afternoon and evening took part in the annual gala picnic of the Episcopal church school and parish held in a wooded section of Weeks park. The affair began about 4 o'clock.

A variety of games in which persons of all ages took part were played, with Frank Creighton and Miss Phyllis Creighton directing the play. Other entertainment features were enjoyed in what was described as one of the most interesting picnics ever held by the church. Mrs. J. H. Allison was in charge of the primary department at the picnic grounds.

U. S. Crew Rewarded For Italian Rescue

WASHINGTON, May 28. (AP)—The navy department was informed today that Capt. George Fried, his chief officer, Harry Manning, and eight members of the crew of the steamship America had been awarded medals by the Italian government for their rescue of 32 men from the Italian steamship Florida in January, 1929.

Captain Fried previously had been awarded a navy cross for rescuing the crew of the British steamship Antinoe.

REQUISITION ISSUED

AUSTIN, May 28. (AP)—Governor Moody today issued a requisition on the governor of California for J. H. Brewer, wanted in Menard for embezzlement and held by officers of Kern county, Calif.

Court Affirms 99-Year Sentence Against Ellis County Slayer

AUSTIN, May 28. (AP)—There cannot be a review of a sanity verdict by an appellate court, the court of criminal appeals ruled today in dismissing the appeal of Cleve Griffin of Ellis county from a jury holding him sane.

At the same time the court affirmed the 99-year sentence given Griffin for the murder of his father-in-law, D. G. Swofford, May 16, 1929. After the homicide an affidavit alleging Griffin to be insane was filed but a jury found him sane.

The court reversed and remanded cases against Stanley Hawkins and Lee Bob Smith of San Saba county, who had been given four years and two years respectively for assault to murder for their alleged part in a mysterious attack on Doss Moor at San Saba several months ago. Moor was tortured in various ways.

Claude Spicer, McLennan county, given eight years for the murder of Martin Uptmor on April 15, 1929, won a new trial because the indictment did not allege malice aforethought, the court having interpreted the new murder law some time ago to limit imprisonment to not over five years where malice was not proved.

Bert Dellingar, convicted in Dallam county for assault while disguised and sentenced to 25 years in the penitentiary, was denied a rehearing, the court previously having affirmed the judgment.

Blanton Vote Data Refused

Secretary Declines to Accept Returns From Son

AUSTIN, May 28. (AP)—Returns from 16 counties of the 17th congressional district in the special election called to elect a successor to Congressman R. Q. Lee of Cisco, who died recently in Washington, were refused today by Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum, secretary of state, when presented by Thomas L. Blanton Jr., son of Thomas L. Blanton of Abilene, who opposed Mrs. Lee for the post.

Unofficial returns gave Blanton a majority but congress refused to seat him without a certificate of election. The returns were brought to Austin by his son in an effort to speed the canvassing. Mrs. McCallum refused the returns and declared they must come to her through official channels.

Blanton Sr., is in Washington awaiting issuance by the state department here of a certificate of his election.

No decision had been reached today as to whether the canvassing board was required to wait 40 days from the date of the election before counting the votes.

Church Head Styles Mitchell 'Dryest Ever'

WASHINGTON, May 28. (UP)—Attorney-General Mitchell was termed "by far the dryest attorney general we have ever had," by Deets Pickett, research secretary of the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition, and public morals before the senate lobby committee today. Pickett denied the board tried to raise a religious issue in the 1928 anti-Smith campaign and also asserted that all of the speeches made then by Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the organization, were in Methodist churches.

Bride Arrested After Prisoner Escapes Train

LOS ANGELES, May 28. (AP)—Mrs. Ann Fernekes, 21-year-old wife of Frank Fernekes, fugitive check forger, was arrested today as she left a train arriving from El Paso, Texas. Fernekes, who was being brought here from El Paso to face forgery charges, escaped from the train near Phoenix, Ariz., last night by leaping through a window.

Police officers said disposal of Mrs. Fernekes depended upon what information they gained concerning Fernekes' escape. They said she would be held under technical arrest and that charges of aiding a prisoner might be brought against her.

Naval Pact Debate Comes to Swift Close

WASHINGTON, May 28. (AP)—The pummeling of the London naval treaty came to a swift termination in the senate relations committee today and Chairman Borah announced the pact would be taken up early next week to consider sending it to the senate. Advocates were confident of a large majority to report it favorably. At the same time, Chairman Hale of the naval committee announced he expected to conclude hearings by his group tomorrow.

HAMLIN HEARS CLINT SMALL

Candidate Urges Complete Prison Overhauling

Special to The Record News.

HAMLIN, Texas, May 28.—Complete rehabilitation of the Texas prison system and self-supporting labor for convicts was advocated here today by Clint C. Small, candidate for governor, as his plans for ameliorating conditions in our penal institutions.

The candidate is on a tour of West Texas counties which will wind up Friday at Abilene. He plans next week to return to East Texas to continue the campaign inaugurated there early in his campaign.

In his address here he said that poor management of the penal system was responsible for importation of meat, dairy and farm products for prison use when the institution had 75,000 acres of fertile soil and thousands of inmates available to raise this merchandise. He classed as economically unsound any plan to remove the present penitentiary and predicted that still another institution for housing convicts would be needed before many years.

WILLIAMSMEN DEFEAT STEERS, 8 TO 6, IN SERIES OPENER

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

You learn something new about a town every day, and it has just occurred to us that the Spudder rooters in this town have been spoiled. Have you ever noticed that when they go down to welcome a team home they don't yell? They leave all the noise making to the band. Now the band usually is able to raise enough noise, but a human shreik is worth more to a ball player than a carload of bands. The band is supposed merely to furnish a good tonal, or otherwise, background , for the yelling mob.

Now that the welcoming the city gave the Spudders yesterday. The fact that about 2,000 people turned out for that brief ceremony was wonderful testimony to the support we in this town give our ball team. But if there was a voice raised above a whisper while the team was passing through the crowd we did not hear it. Excepting our own halloos, of course. We defiantly assert we were the only person down at the choo-choo yard who made any effort to greet the boys. And people all around stared in our direction when we burst forth in a war whoop.

This is not as it orter be, now. Something ought to be done about it. The cause of it, as we see it, is that the Spudder fans here are pampered. They won't cheer unless a guy hits a home run. They've gotten so used to seeing and hearing about our team sock the pill, that anything less than a home run or a three-bagger is just every day stuff to them. To which we say baloney.

Furthermore, yelling is good exercise. A yell a day keeps a pound away.

A funny thing happened down at the welcoming. The Dallas team came in with the Spudders. The reception nearly took some of the Steers off their feet. They must have wondered whether the town had gone crazy and started rooting for Dallas.

Larry Bettencourt and Jack Crouch didn't come in on the train with the rest of the boys. They took a plane out of Dallas this morning and got here about 10 o'clock. They were down at the station early, with the rest of the welcomers.

The news comes that a former Spudder, Hal Carlson, died Tuesday night in Chicago. He was an outstanding pitcher for the Chicago Cubs, and back in the old days he was the mainstay of the Spudder mound staff. In 1923, he won 20 games and lost 10 for a losing machine. Many here will remember the pitcher.

His death came at a time when his former team was leading the Texas league in the pennant chase. Carlson was busy with a pennant chase himself, and doubtless he paid but passing attention to the good fortune of the team he once served. We in Wichita Falls feel for the Cubs in their loss, just as we feel deep sympathy for the wife and child that Carlson left behind.

Somehow in thinking of baseball players, we 'ofttimes forget they are subject to frailties just as all of us. We cannot picture a player being seriously ill. Most of the time we think of them as healthy youngsters, oblivious of everything except the fascinating game that has become their calling. We see them get old and lose their effectiveness, but it comes as a distinct shock to us to learn that a brief illness has taken one of them away.

Carlson was ill only a short time before his death. In the Cub training camp this spring his physical condition was pronounced excellent. It is this fact that makes his death a shock to us.

Another pitcher will replace Carlson on the Cub staff, and the game will go on. The cycle of life will go on, just as it always has. It is one of the official rules of the game of life that never has failed to be observed.

STORTI'S HOMER STARTS RALLY

White and Florrid Hold Herd in Check

The Spudders, back from their long road trip, celebrated their homecoming Wednesday by administering an 8 to 6 defeat to the Dallas Steers in the opening game of the series. Storti's home run at the opening of the seventh and a costly error by Willingham, Steer shortstop, resulted in three tallies and a last run in the eighth put the home towners in a lead the Atzmen were unable to overcome. The Spudders pounded three Steer hurlers, Danforth, Grimm and Tauscher, for 11 hits; while the Steers, showing peculiar vivacity at bat, drove Lester White from the box in the eighth after touching him for 10 hits, and managing two more hits off Florrid, the brilliant little relief hurler who has figured so strongly in the last several games. Florrid held the Mavericks scoreless in the last two-thirds of the eighth, and the ninth, despite a determined attempt at a rally.

Kloza Stars at Bat

Kloza, with two doubles and a single in five trips up, starred at the plate for the Spudders.

The Steers failed to score in the opening frame but the Spudders put over one in their half. Levey walked, then took second on Kloza's single to center, and scored when Burns singled past first. In the third Levey scored again on his double to left, Fitzgerald's infield out and Kloza's double to center. In the fourth, Bradbury took second when Brown, Steer third sacker, threw wild to first, and scored on Euller's double to right. Euller stopped at third when White doubled to left, but scored on Storti's Texas leaguer behind short.

The Spudders went scoreless during the fifth and sixth, but Storti jolted a high homer over the right field boards to open the seventh. Fitzgerald flied out to center and Kloza struck out. Burns doubled to right, Bettencourt walked, and both advanced a base on a passed ball. Bradbury tapped to the infield, and when Willingham muffed it, Burns and Bettencourt scored. Euller singled past short, and on a second passed ball, Bradbury and Euller advanced. White flied out to center to close the inning. Levey walked to open the ninth. He stole second and Storti walked. Tauscher then relieved Grimm, and Fitzgerald hit into a double play, Morse to Willingham to Brown. Kloza doubled to center, and Levey scored. Burns flied out to right to close the inning.

Steers Score Early

The Steers tallied first in the second on Brown's double. Blackerby's infield out, and J. Moore's single. Again in the third, Morse reached first on Levey's error, went to second on Eggert's single, and scored on Brown's single to center. They were held scoreless in the fourth, but Morse beat out a roller to third to open the fifth. He took second on Eggert's single to right, and scored on Willingham's single to left. They bunched the remaining three runs in the sixth. Blackerby opened it with a double to center. J. Moore walked. Winsett grounded out, White to Storti, who covered first, and Blackerby took third. Tesmer grounded to the box, and White chased down Blackerby between third and home and tagged him out. G. Moore, batting for Danforth, doubled to center, scoring J. Moore and Tesmer. Morse singled to right, scoring G. Moore. Eggert fouled out to Burns to close the inning.

The two teams meet today in the second game of the series.

Buffs Beat Cubs Before Brenham Mayfest Crowd

BRENHAM, Texas, May 28 (AP)—With Mishkin, Hunt, Selph and Hock playing inspired baseball, the Houston Buffs here today gave a colorful Mayfest crowd of 4,000 a treat by whipping the Waco Cubs, 7 to 5. ## Crowd of 2,000 Greets Spudders As Team Returns From Road Trip

Amid the howling of steam whistles and the blare of a brass band, the Spudders came home yesterday and were welcomed down at the Fort Worth and Denver depot by approximately 2,000 people.

Banners bearing greetings to the Spudders, and a fusilade of tunes by the Lions' club band under the direction of Leo Underwood furnished the fireworks for the reception, which was necessarily brief, the game with Dallas being scheduled at 4 p. m. The train arrived at 2:20 p. m., 20 minutes off schedule. The welcoming was arranged by Jim Galloway, former Spudder manager and Gene Montgomery, both of the sports and recreations committee of the chamber of commerce.

The team came here from Dallas, where it arrived last night from Shreveport. The homecoming marked the end of one of the most successful road trips ever undertaken by a Texas league club, the Spudders having won 14 and lost six of 20 games played.

Tires and tubes on the average car cost from six-tenths of a cent to nine-tenths of a cent per mile of travel.

The basis of leadership

READ AGAIN the familiar message on the back of the Camel package. . . . Camel, introduced in 1913, when other cigarette brands were offering all sorts of premiums and similar inducements, jumped into leadership solely on the basis of its built-in goodness.

That statement, spread throughout the world each day on millions upon millions of Camel packages, stands as your guarantee of the maximum in smoke pleasure. It reaffirms on every package of Camels the steadfast aim to give smokers a cigarette in which every possible bit of the cost is put into real smoke-quality.

The delightful natural fragrance of Camel's choicer tobaccos, combined in the smooth, mellow harmony of a blend beyond imitation—that's what made Camel the world's foremost cigarette—and keeps it just that.

FOXHALL AND WALKER SURVIVE QUANAH TEST

TITLE BATTLE STARTS TODAY

Defending Champion Goes To Finals

By AL PARKER
Staff Correspondent

QUANAH, Texas, May 28.—Two players long familiar in Green Belt Golf association championship meet here tomorrow in the 36-hole final round for the 1930 title. That the Green Belt championship will not have an entirely strange owner was assured in the semi-finals this afternoon when Frank Foxhall of Memphis, defending champion, defeated Raines V. West of Memphis, 5 up and 4 to play, and L. S. (City) Walker, of Quanah, champion in 1926 and 1927, beat Jack Parr of Electra, 3 and 1.

The first 18 holes of the championship will be played at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning and the second 18 at 1:30 in the afternoon. Foxhall won his quarter finals match from W. A. Blanton of Childress, 7 and 6; West from Roy Farrell of Vernon, 7 and 5; Walker from John Marriott of Electra, 3 and 2; and Parr from Whitney Anderson, Vernon, one up, 21 holes.

No Favorites for Title

There is no favorite in tomorrow's final. Both Foxhall and Walker have established reputations in Green Belt circles that prevent either from being a popular choice. Both are steady, consistent, heady match players and battlers all the way.

Walker's comeback over his home course is one of the outstanding features of the entire tournament. After winning the first Green Belt championships in 1926 and 1927, he has not lasted past the second round in the last two titular events. Today he topped off a big day's work by defeating Parr, who played brilliantly through the earlier stages of the match. He shot one-third of his holes on the outside nine in better than par figures to make the turn two up on the Electran. Parr, whose putter had guided him through his previous victories, lost its uncanny accuracy this afternoon, and though he missed no short ones, the long ones wouldn't drop.

One of the few mistakes that Walker made in the 17 holes of play cost him a hole at No. 10. He missed a four-foot putt for a par four to bring his score to one up.

Parr Misses Putt

The 11th was halved regulation fours and Walker again became two up at No. 12, when Parr pulled his approach to the side of the green, pitched short and missed his 10-foot putt for a five. The next three holes were halved. Parr missing a fine opportunity when Walker went over Par on the 579-yard 13th. On the 14th Walker dubbed his chip past the pin, but got down a six-footer to halve it.

Going into No. 17, Parr sliced his iron from the tee into the edge of the rough and encountered a near impossible lie. He had no alternative but to try to get out with a brassie. Two more attempts to climb out of the rough failing and Walker getting his first two straight down the middle, Parr conceded the hole and the match.

The other semi-finals match produced little excitement. Neither Foxhall nor West was shooting the golf that characterized their early play and the former ended it on the 14th green with a par four. The champion finished the first nine one up and won four of the five holes played coming in. The left-handed Memphisian has come through the lower bracket to the finals with hardly the necessity of drawing a deep breath. He has not been forced to put on full steam in a single one of his four matches, but tomorrow's final promises a far stiffer test. Finals in the other flights also are scheduled tomorrow, all over the 18-hole route.

Second flight semi-final results: C. E. Haynes, Frederick, beat George D. Norman, Paducah, 3 and 2; Ira Merchant, Clarendon beat E. Zumwalt, Frederick, 7 and 6. Third flight semi-finals results: E. P. Hicks, Vernon, beat J. T. Hughes, Quanah, 4 and 3. J. T. Nuckles, Chillicothe, beat C. L. Clement, Shamrock. Fourth flight semi-finals results: Fred Staggs, Shamrock, beat R. M. Barkley, Shamrock, 3 and 1; T. D. Griffith, Quanah, beat J. H. Gilliland, Quanah, 6 and 5. First flight consolation semi-finals results: Al Cooke, Clarendon, beat James Parr, Electra, two up; R. C. Holt, Altus, beat C. F. Johnson, Iowa Park, 5 and 4. Second flight consolation semi-finals results: W. K. Long, Vernon, beat Jack Chambers, Chillicothe, one up, 19 holes. W. S. Pendleton, Shamrock, beat L. A. Pelley, Altus, two and one. Third flight consolation semi-finals results: John McAnear, Crowell, beat Tom Harrison, Memphis, 6 and 5. H. R. Swindle, Altus, beat A. N. Holmes, Shamrock, one up. Fourth flight consolation semi-finals results: H. Clifton, Estelline, beat Ted Rogers, Shamrock, 2 and 1; Gordon Bell, Crowell, beat Vernon Bagwell, Estelline 5 and 4.

Dramatic Match

A more dramatic Green Belt match has never been played than the quarter finals just played between the brilliant youngster, Jack Parr and Whitney Anderson. Better golf has been played than that which Parr used to eliminate the Vernon champion, but none more courageous in the annals of this or any other golf association. Anderson, too, took advantage of a chance to display his gameness when he overcame Parr's advantage of two up and won on the first four holes. Anderson took the lead when he won No. 7, but three-putted the ninth green and they turned all square. Anderson soon regained the advantage and brought the match to dormie two when he won the 16th. The 17th Parr won with a holed putt from the edge of the green. At No. 18 Anderson provided an opening when he sliced out of bounds. Parr's second was slightly past and to the side of the green. His chip shot went down kerplunk, but bounced out and he took a four to Anderson's five to square the match. The latter missed an excellent chance when he failed to go down with a 10-footer.

The first extra hole was halved in regulation fours and Anderson missed another great chance at the next. Parr's second rolled into a hard lie in a trap and he did well to get out at all. Anderson was well up with his second, but his approach was strong and to the far edge of the green. Parr pitched to within 10 feet of the cup and downed the ball after Anderson had missed his long putt. Both were well up the fairway on the 21st, Parr going past a dozen feet with his second and Anderson was wide and past into the rough. It was all over when Anderson failed to get out of the tall grass for Parr laid dead to the pin.

Marriott Defeated

No such fireworks was produced in the other three matches. Marriott gave Walker a hot battle most of the way, but finally weakened and went down 3 and 2. The Quanah veteran had to overcome Marriott's three-hole advantage, won on the first three holes, but he did it before the turn and stayed up the rest of the way Incidently, Walker's victory must have been a much cherished one, for it was Marriott who eliminated him in the 1928 tourney at Memphis.

Foxhall and West, who battled in the lower bracket of this afternoon's semi-finals, played the best golf of the morning, the former to annihilate Blanton and the latter to eliminate Farrell Each was shooting in subpar figures when the two matches ended, each with five holes to go. Both Farrell and Blanton were down from the start and neither of the winners would give his support a chance to recuperate their games were so deadly.

Second flight, third round results: George D. Morman, Paducah, beat H. B. Kerbow, Clarendon, 2 and 1. C. E. Haynes Frederick, beat Frank Thwing, Quanah, 3 and 2. E. Zumwalt, Frederick, beat R. D. Oswalt, Crowell, 1 up, 19 holes. Ira Merchant, Clarendon, beat R. G. Henderson, Quanah, 2 and 1.

Third flight, third round results: J. T. Hughes, Quanah, beat W. R. Harper, Frederick, 6 and 5. E. H. Hicks, Vernon, beat R. R. Gilliland, Quanah, 3 and 2. L. J. Nuckles, Chillicothe, won from A. W. Shanafelt, Electra, by default. C. L. Clements, Shamrock, beat J. D. Michie, Childress, one up, 19 holes.

Fourth flight, third round results: R. M. Barkley, Shamrock, beat R. E. Lewis, Wellington, 3 and 2. Fred Staggs, Shamrock, beat F. O. Griffith, Quanah, 4 and 3. T. D. Griffith, Quanah, beat A. B. Carlos, Quanah, 6 and 5. J. H. Gilliland, Quanah, won from Allen Kemple, Electra, default.

Browning, young West Texas mathematics professor who outside of classrooms goes by the name of "Lefty," has reported for mound duty at Athletic park and soon will be an active performer, President William E. Huff announced Wednesday. Browning was signed early in the spring by Carl Williams, Spudder manager, but was unable to leave his teaching duties until the close of the school term. it was reported. ### St. Louis Catcher Fined for 'Dub Play'

ST. LOUIS, May 28. (AP)—Rick Ferrell, catcher for the St. Louis Browns, was fined $50 today by Manager Bill Killefer for what the manager termed a "dub play" in yesterday's game with the Detroit Tigers.

It was the seventh inning, the Tigers were at bat and runners were on first and second when Sorrell, Tiger pitcher, bunted. The ball rolled outside the foul line and then back into fair territory. Ferrell picked it up in time, Killefer said, to force a runner at third but held the ball until all runners were safe.

Killefer said he would fine all players for "dub plays."

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 28. (AP)—Trading in cotton was comparatively quiet again today. The undertone was steady on covering or scattered buying promoted by some of the unfavorable features in weekly reviews of the crop situation and an apparent scarcity of contracts. Advances of some 6 to 14 points met considerable realizing. After selling up to 14.87, the new October contract closed at 14.82. The general market closed steady, net unchanged to 9 points higher, with July relatively easy.

The opening was steady at an advance of 1 to 5 points relatively easy Liverpool cables evidently failed to stimulate selling. There was some buying on unfavorable private crop reports. The detailed weather reports were called generally favorable over the greater part of the belt with temperatures higher than they were earlier in the week, but the outlook for showers in the Southwest was considered generally unfavorable although some moisture is supposed to be needed in Northwest Texas.

One private report today said that this season was now about 4 to 5 days later than normal and that on the whole, dry warm weather is needed. Moderate sales of cotton cloths were reported in Manchester to the home trade and South America. Yarn sales were said to be running below the limited output. Port receipts today 10,230. U. S. port stocks, 1,726,112, exports, 4,800, making 6,451,451 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 28. (AP)—The cotton market ruled rather steady today with moderate trading and narrow price fluctuations. July closed at 15.79 up 1 point net for the day. October closed at 14.81 and December at 14.89 up 9 points net.

Market Leaders Continues to Hold Their Own Against the Bears

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, May 28. (US)—Bearish drives on vulnerable stocks failed to exert more than temporary influence on the main body of the market today and continued improvement was witnessed in the better grade stocks. Utility stocks as a group again furnished the most encouraging performance and at one stage were virtually the only stocks to resist selling pressure. Betterment in the farming implement stocks, however, improved sentiment but a drive against the railroad stocks on additional unfavorable income statements was started by the bears with a view toward unsettling the market. In this the bears failed, the market suffering only temporary weakness and closing with prices generally above the previous day. Volume continued around two and one-quarter million shares. Money was available in supply at 3 per cent.

United Biscuit was a feature of strength advancing four points to a new high for the year. The stock has been under accumulation by interests associated with the First National bank who were attracted by its relative low price compared with other food shares. The stock this year may enjoy earnings of over $5.50 per share. The second quarter is understood to have shown a substantial gain over the first three months. Management of United Biscuit is recognized as one of the most capable in the food industry. United is desired by other food companies, particularly Loose-Wiles for merger purposes. Like National Biscuit, United is a beneficiary from the low prices for sugar and wheat.

Steel common ignored another stand-off review by the Iron Age which reported a fair degree of buying but with prices easing. Strength of farm implement stocks followed disclosure here that banking buying had begun in Case on the theory the stock's decline had discounted the slackening in demand. This stock is held chiefly by banking and investment interests who believe that any recession in the company's growth can be only temporary. They are the same people who have witnessed the company's steady growth over the last few years from one showing hardly any earnings to above $27 a share annually. At the rate of income for the first half of 1930 the net-per-share this year might easily exceed that showing. Denial was made that a leading Chicago interest in Harvester had been liquidating the stock. Selling has been professional in character although there was one large block sold by an investment trust. American Can rose to a new high on the present move in recognition of continued expansion of earnings during the first half of this year.

Radio's performance attracted considerable notice in important quarters, the stock achieving a new high. No attempt apparently has been made to attract a following but the buying obviously has been of high grade. It is said to be more of banking character than the last run-up in the stock. The buying, it is understood, is based on belief that the government suit against the Corporation, General Electric and Westinghouse will fail to prevent the proposed consolidation of their radio activities. As a matter of fact the companies are stated to have virtually completed all details of the transaction, awaiting only definite outcome of the suit to consummate the last official step.

Atchison failed to rally from the selling pressure, but other leading railroad shares had a fair comeback. The railroads spent abnormally large sums during the first half of 1930 for maintenance as their contribution to the prosperity revival movement instituted by Washington. Their net income naturally has suffered, particularly in view of the sharp decline in gross. During the coming six months, however, the railroads undoubtedly will reduce substantially their maintenance expenditures so that with fair stability of gross the net will show sharp recovery. Railway equipment companies, however, will hardly welcome such a trend, which explains persistent selling of such stocks. Pullman, the best of the equipments, went to a new low for the year. Lambert was also under pressure, a statement by its president of reassuring character bringing about only a small rally in the stock. Continental Can reflected resumption of activities by a group always identified with the stock, and who regard the stock as being out of line with American Can in view of the latter's recent strength. Eastman Kodak continued to be absorbed by strong interests.

Wheat and cotton maintained a firm tone while foreign exchanges were higher in a dull market.

DRYGOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, May 28. (AP)—Cotton goods in light demand with prices holding barely steady. Wool goods sales of a filling in character. Burlaps slightly firmer. Raw silk low and unchanged, silk goods sold moderately.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, May 28. (AP)—Wheat was sharply higher on the cash grain market here today but demand fell off at the advance and few sales were reported. Mills nominally bidding $1.14½@1.16½, basis No. 1 ordinary hard wheat delivered Texas common points, but taking little of the grain. Sorghums were in good demand at slight gains and corn and oats fairly well taken.

Bids and offers on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carload delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn—No. 2 mixed 94½@95½c; No. 2 white 98½@99½c; No. 2 yellow 98@99c.

Oats—No. 2 red 55@56c.

Barley—No. 2 milo per 100 pounds $2.03@2.05; No. 2 kaffir $1.69@1.70.

Dealers also quoted as follows, basis delivery Texas group one points. No. 2 mixed corn 91½@92½c; No. 2 white corn 97@98c; No. 2 yellow corn 96@97c; No. 2 white oats 51½@52c, to which add 1c for delivery group three.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 28. (AP)—Notable upturns in wheat values took place today but the markets reacted later because of selling to realize profits. Unfavorable crop advices from the Southwest and Northwest, and from Ohio and Indiana as well, had a stimulating effect. Much wheat southwest appeared to be making less progress than improved weather would warrant.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ⅛@¼c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed irregular, ranging ⅜@⅝c decline to ⅛c advance, with oats a shade off to ⅛c up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 12c.

With the Liverpool market leading the way wheat here showed early gains. Private messages indicated that the Canadian growers' pool had made large sales of wheat to Europe, and there were estimates that a fair amount of other export business in wheat from North America had been put through. After receipt of fresh adverse crop reports from Kansas the market here advanced in earnest.

Northwest Texas counties will yield not to exceed 25,000,000 to 30,000,000 bushels compared with earlier estimates of 45,000,000 bushels. Texas reports said rain now would be too late to do much good.

Prospects of continued large receipts of corn here made the corn market relatively heavy today, toward the last particularly. Oats derived firmness from the action of wheat.

Provisions averaged higher, response to upturns in the value of hogs.

Closing indemnities: Wheat: July $1.06⅝@⅞, $1.08⅞@1.09; Sept. $1.08⅞@1.09; $1.11⅜; Dec. $1.13⅞; $1.15⅛; Corn: July 79⅝, 80⅝@⅞, Sept. 70⅝, 81⅛, Dec. 75⅛, 76⅛.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, May 28. (US)—While there is undoubtedly better support in the wheat market on the setbacks, the buyers show a disposition to accept moderate profits as soon as they appear. Commission houses generally continue to suggest just such a policy of market action.

May corn turned very weak under belated liquidation. There was a good steady demand for the rather heavy arrivals of corn, but demand is not sufficiently pressing to follow advances when it is apparent that there is considerable corn in the country which is waiting to take advantage of the hard spots.

The usual fears of possible heavy liquidation with the May delivery nearly over were in part responsible for the desire of holders to take their wheat profits on yesterday's advance.

Despite the wires from Canada to the effect that moisture is needed in some localities, the Northwest Grain Dealers association in its summary said that reports received as of May 26 show wheat growing conditions all over the prairies are ideal. All seeding is said to be completed and moisture is called ample.

Broomhall says that a large wheat crop has been confirmed in India and it is believed there will be a fear exportable surplus, whereas last year it was necessary to import.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, May 28. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Hog trade around the 11-market circuit was moderately active at 10@15c higher prices. Chicago had a top of $10.50 while at Kansas City and St. Joseph choice offerings, 190-225 pounds exceeded the $10.00 mark. Aggregate receipts, estimated at 91,300, were 5,000 short of a week ago, and 19,500 heavier than a year ago.

Spring lambs registered further upturns of 25@50c but old crop lambs ruled steady to 25c lower. Mature classes of sheep were unchanged. Choice native springers in Chicago scored $13.25 while Arizonas at Kansas City made $12.25. Choice 78-pound fed clipped lambs in Chicago brought $10.50. The supply approximated 44,000 against 46,624 last Wednesday and 38,459 a year ago.

Total offerings of cattle were around 335,000, a decrease of 7,000 from a week ago but 3,000 heavier than the same day last year. Killing classes were unevenly steady to 25c higher. Medium and good grades of fed steers are materially higher than the low spots two weeks ago but choice quality offerings do not show any material change. Light mixed yearlings and fed heifers continue to fluctuate considerably with packers taking advantage of every increase in supplies to hammer values, but with short receipts purchasing freely at high rates. Best weighty steers in Chicago brought $13.60 while choice light weight yearlings went at $13.00.

TEXAS LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, May 28. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—The few loads of slaughter steers included in today's cattle receipts were plain grades that failed to interest buyers. Most of these cattle were offerings of value to sell in the $7.00@8.00 ranges.

The better grades of fat yearlings were wanted at fully steady prices and two loads of well finished cattle averaging 700 pounds topped at $11.75. The market for she stock, low cutters and bulls appeared rather dull, but remained nearly steady. package lots of good fat cows were reported up to $7.25 and butcher grades changed hands around $6.00 with low cutters listed from $3.50 to $4.00. Several loads of well-bred heavy-stock steer calves moved out at $10.65 and other sales of stock calves, including heifers, were made around $9.00 to $9.25.

Prices for slaughter calves proved rather uneven, showing a weak to lower trend, and medium weight vealers brought $11.50. Two or three small lots of choice light and $11.75 and some good heavy fat calves ranged up to $10.00.

Salesmen collected slightly higher prices for hogs. Rail butchers scoring advances of 10 to 15 cents. Most sales of truck hogs denoted firm values. Smooth butchers in car lots topped at $9.95 and best truck hogs brought $9.25.

Another sharp advance of 50 to 75 cents occurred in the market for spring lambs, although prices for other classes of sheep and lambs remained unchanged. Spring lambs were reported from $8.50 to $10.00 and good shorn fed lambs moved readily from $8.00 to $8.50. Shorn fed wethers 2 year olds, sold from $6.25@6.50.

Hogs—Receipts 800; rail hogs 10@15c higher, truck hogs steady; rail top $9.95, bulk medium to choice 175 to 210-pound rail hogs $9.90@9.95; truck top $9.25; better 170 to 240-pound truck hogs $9.15@9.25; packing sows, smooth and rough $7.75@9.85.

LOT OWNERS WISH TO DRILL

Oklahoma City Properties Believed in Pool

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 28. (INS)—Small property owners today had won the right to drill for oil within the city limits.

They won the first tilt in what promises to be a long controversy by forcing the city council to extend the oil zone to including the east half of Capitol Hill, comprising about 640 acres.

The council decided in favor of the property owner after futile attempts had been made to place the chamber of commerce on record against the drilling inside the city limits.

The council, however, limited drilling to one well to each city block. Until the preponderance of opinion that the small property owner should be allowed to reap from the wealth of oil manifested itself, the city council has held the upper hand in the oil battle.

The council has held as a club the fire danger and loss of civic beauty. Local insurance dealers have added the argument that eastern companies have threatened to cancel all policies.

The drive of the property owners for the right to drill was given impetus Monday when the Hall and Briscoe company brought in a 1,000-barrel-an-hour well within a stone throw of the city limits, throwing gas and oil fumes over the entire city.

The decision of the council to allow one well in each block is believed just a beginning of the battle. One operator has threatened a court action after being denied a permit to drill a well with only six city lots.

Many residents crave to throw the entire city open to drilling and one operator is seeking a way to build a derrick on a lot 25 by 100 feet, and is offering stock in the project to the public.

Joe I. Cromwell, discoverer of the south field, reputed the largest in the world, is of the opinion the field extends across the city to the very doors of the state capitol on the north side.

Palatial home owners are already apprehensive of derricks arising to endanger their beauty.

CHICAGO, May 28. (INS)—The largest fleet of civilian aircraft ever assembled today took part in an aerial parade over this city.

One hundred planes, in three flights, flew in formation over the downtown section as throngs of spectators, their attention attracted by the concerted roar of the motors, watched from the crowded streets below, and from roofs, windows, fire escapes and the parks.

LIONS PICNIC SET JUNE 20

'Turks' Celebrate Victory in Contest

Members of the Lions club, upon assembling at the Kemp hotel for their weekly luncheon Wednesday noon, were greeted with the unusual spectacle of an elaborately appointed Turkish harem, peopled with a bevy of buxom maidens, veiled, and held in bond by a band of cruel-looking Turks.

Pronouncements delivered by the baggy-trousered male who obviously was sultan revealed the fact that the "Turks" had won a three-months' attendance contest from the "Greeks" and were consequently in command of the day. He added that their benevolent purpose was to release the captive women from evils and bonds, which was done immediately by a summoned attendant, that they might return to their households. The ladies proved to be wives of the defeated Greeks.

Nominations for officers of the club were submitted Wednesday by a nominating committee, preparatory to the annual election to be held June 11. The following were proposed for the various offices.

President—Frank Cripliver and Dr. W. D. Folding.

Vice president—Chester Baum and Dr. Gaines B. Hall.

Second vice president—James Lyle and L. V. Abernathy.

Third vice president—Paul Woodward and Pete Peeble.

Correspondence secretary — Cecil Metzner and L. O. Shidde.

Financial secretary—K. C. Spell and Walter Taylor.

Tail twister—L. O. Albritton and W. C. Krause.

Lion tamer—Tom Vagne and Roy Mann.

Two directors—R. O. Kenley, Dr. W. B. Adams, Ralph Fidler, Dr. S. P. Crane, Judge J. P. Marrs and A. B. Maples.

Lions clubs of the county will hold their annual picnic near Iowa Park on Friday, June 20, at 4 p. m., it was announced Wednesday. The usual program of baseball, horseshoes, races, novelty athletic stunts, etc., will be held, and numerous prizes for winners already have been donated by various merchants in cities of Wichita county. Competition in singing and instrumental music also will be staged.

Entertainment Wednesday was furnished by a quartet composed of Claude Young, W. P. Lacy, Leo M. Underwood, and Erwin F. Bohmfalk.

"Modern" Marriage

LONDON—To be modern nowadays and to be married, it is necessary to have the knot tied without the conventional wedding ring. The West End registrar found that out when he married a young couple recently. Asking for the ring, the bride explained: "Yes, you see, we are modern, and wedding rings are so old-fashioned." He performed the marriage without the ring.

At the Theaters

By W. L. UNDERWOOD

MAJESTIC: Billie Dove and Edmund Lowe in "The Painted Angel." It's in a night-club, so Billie has to sing. Charles Chase comedy. Novelty, "Wanderlust." Paramount news.

STRAND: "The Big Pond," with Maurice Chevalier and Claudette Colbert. Last day. Equally fit for the children and grandfather. Sound news.

STATE: "Men Without Women," dramatizing scenes and experiences in sunken submarines before life becomes extinct. All-star cast. Comedy shorts. Sound news.

GEM: "Behind the German Lines," all-star cast. "Don't Worry," comedy.

During those long intervals when Billie Dove's pretty face cannot be kept near the camera in "The Painted Angel" (Majestic), one may amuse himself with contemplation of the machinery of story-building employed in constructing a screen-play for high-priced but delectable beauty. Texas Guinan may not draw any royalties from this tale—does she need them?—but the dependence of "The Painted Angel" upon the Guinan legend shouts its presence vociferously, even if prolific Fannie Hurst did pen the original.

The story brings a square-shooting beauty from the great West to become queen of a metropolitan night-club, to wangle fortunes weekly out of the amorous suckers to strive in vain to pluck for themselves her brunet loveliness, to support a shiftless flock of relatives, but, most Guinanish of all, to watch with tender care night and day over the "love-'em-and-leave-'em" girls who wander into the great city. This being a play, a romantic element must be supplied, hence Edmund Lowe's constant presence with that recently-acquired look of extreme boredom on his very masculine countenance. As one might expect, however, the picture stands on the beauty of Miss Dove, and finds an amazing number of opportunities to use close-ups.

Anent the night-club scenes: Billie must sing and dance. One recalls the biblical quotation about "the voice of the turtle was heard in the land." Now in those arid, unirrigated areas inland from the Red Sea the word "turtle" could safely and rightly be used as short for "turtle-dove" for with traveling accommodations somewhat less extensively developed than at present, many of the nomadic sons of Abraham doubtless never saw a turtle. Consideration of those historic and philological factors seems to have been omitted by Miss Dove's directors, however, for this voice which is now being heard in the land certainly appears to emulate the turtle rather than the dove. Any other conclusion would be a downright reflection on the widely respected bird.

The dances don't tax Billie's capacities quite so severely, for they were designed to resemble the joyous gait of a seasoned cowboy at liberty in the corral on a frosty morning. Just a free, swinging sort of a canter, with a fine spirit of abounding energy, and an occasional swing of the big 10-gallon felt.

Mr. Lowe has nothing to do but carry a left arm constantly in a lazy, limpid state, indicating that its heroic interception of a bullet out there 'neath the Rockies is why he no longer is a great violinist. He does a very commendable job of letting the arm hang useless at his side for 57 minutes.

Exemplifying the old adage, "Them as has gits," further distinctions are to be heaped Friday afternoon by the Strand management, upon all red-heads among the fair sex in the city. From the hour of 1 to 5 p. m., every girl above three years of age (up to 100) who not only admits but boasts of having flaming red hair will be guests of the Strand at the opening performances of Clara Bow's "True to the Navy." Merely to afford ample company for Clara's burning-bush-bob.

24 TO ATTEND W. T. C. C. MEET

Wichitans Leave for Abilene Convention

Marking a more active participation in West Texas Chamber of Commerce affairs than Wichita Falls has taken in any former year, and honoring W. B. Hamilton of this city, who will lay down the gavel as president of the regional organization Saturday afternoon, 24 Wichita Falls business men left in special Pullman coaches at 2 a. m. Thursday for Abilene to spend the day in attendance at the annual convention being held there Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Declaring here Tuesday that the satisfaction of being made president of such an organization as the West Texas Chamber of Commerce was equalled only by the satisfaction of turning the office over to another, Mr. Hamilton praised the work accomplished by the organization's manager, D. A. Bandeen of Abilene, in putting the chamber's finances in excellent condition during the year. He also expressed his anticipation of witnessing one of the largest and most interested conventions in the history of the organization in the Abilene session.

Those who return from Abilene Thursday night will leave that city at 7 p. m. and arrive here at 12:35 a. m. Friday. The delegation which entrained Wednesday night was as follows: Joe Witherspoon Jr., George D. Fairtrace, A. T. Bryce, R. E. Shepherd, J. S. Bridwell, A. H. Britain, Ed Howard, O. Abernathy, John Boswell, A. E. Kelly, L. H. Estes, D. B. Foy, Walter D. Cline, Orville Bullington, W. B. Hamilton, A. E. Miller, Lester Jones, Earl Jones, J. A. Aldrich, E. O. McCord, O. M. Smith, R. E. Penick, Dr. Everett Jones and J. B. Price.

The promissory note dates back to 2,100 years before the birth of Christ and was invented by the Babylonians.

McDonald Lectures Optimists On Virtues of Pessimism

Virtues of pessimism were delineated and extolled before members of the Optimist club Wednesday noon by Charles C. McDonald, who announced in his opening remarks that he is a confirmed pessimist.

Pointing his rapid-fire delivery of humorous play on the terms, Mr. McDonald said: "I'm a pessimist because I don't want to be disappointed and I don't want my neighbors to think I'm a fool."

Referring to Satan "whose realm one is commonly supposed to enter upon becoming idle," Mr. McDonald remarked the unusual popularity gained by such indolence, citing the general conclusion of the clergy that at least nine-tenths of the world follows him.

Naming over-production as the curse of the present day world, Mr. McDonald proclaimed the complete innocence of all pessimists of any part in bringing about the plague of too much goods.

Musical numbers by Miss Lorene Tucker, and a singsong led by Arch Smith, completed the program arranged by Bob Flechtner.

Max T. Junker, president, appointed Dr. George E. Singleton, Joe Collier, Dr. C. L. Bailey and Jess McLarry as a program committee for July.

Mr. Graffe, the grocer, telephoned early every morning, about the time Mother was making the beds upstairs.

"Junior, you answer the 'phone!" Mother exclaimed, as the telephone downstairs rang. "The list's on the telephone stand. And we want—"

But Junior was halfway down the stairs. His thin treble floated back.

"A pound of butter," he was telling Mr. Graffe, "and . . . Mother! What's this word? R-u-t-a —"

"I'll talk to him, Junior!" She hurried down the steps to the telephone and repeated the remaining items on the list.

"Oh, dear," she sighed, hanging up the receiver. "These stairs will be the death of me, yet. I wish we had an 'extension' telephone upstairs."

Telephones where you need them save time, steps and trips up and downstairs.

Few know that the extra cost of an "extension" is between two and three cents a day.

By a wisely-placed "extension" or two, an expert telephone man can often double the convenience of the telephones in your home.
