Floyd Morton Dies Sunday After Surgery

Floyd Morton, long-time car agency owner in Wellington, died in Groom hospital Sunday, Feb. 14 at 11:15 p.m. several days after undergoing major surgery.

Mr. Morton was associated with his son, Richard, in the Morton Motor Co., here until last summer, when they disposed of the business and he retired. At that time he and Mrs. Morton moved to Clarendon.

Prior to that time he had lived in Wellington 34 years. For a number of years before he entered business for himself, Mr. Morton was in charge of mechanical departments of other car dealers here.

He was an active worker in the Baptist Church and was one of the group from First Baptist Church which helped with the organization of Faith Baptist Church. He served as Sunday School superintendent of the latter for several years.

Floyd Dexter Morton was born July 28, 1901 in Collin county, and before coming here, he lived in Whitesboro.

He was married to Miss Rudean Wood here on May 14, 1927.

Funeral services for Mr. Morton were conducted at First Baptist Church Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. by the Rev. Russell Pogue of Petersburg, former pastor here, and Minister John Gay of Bowie Street Church of Christ.

Burglars Enter Lucky Corner

Burglars entered Lucky Corner Service Station and took between $10 and $15 in silver from the cash register Wednesday night, Feb. 10, Sheriff John Rainey reported.

Robert Owens, manager, reported the break-in to officers and said the cash register had been left slightly open.

Rainey said entry was gained by breaking a window in the men's wash room, which has a door leading directly into the office. It is believed the burglary occurred during the latter part of the night.

Injunction Hearing Set for Monday

The hearing on a permanent injunction by which a group seeks to enjoin the members of the commissioners court from certain actions in regard to the county road department has been set for 10 a.m. Monday, Feb. 22, in 100th district court.

Plaintiffs in the suit are Dr. Chas. B. Jones, Cal Sugg and James Doneghy. The individual commissioners and county judge are named as defendants: Judge C. C. Bishop, Jack Brewer, Alfred Knoll, Pat O'Hair and W. R. Breeding. O'Hair has joined the plaintiffs in the suit.

In the meantime the commissioners met and rescinded a number of orders dating back to September 1959, to meet the provisions of the temporary injunction ordered Feb. 5 by Judge Luther Gribble.

Orders rescinded were those dated January 13, to advertise for bids on two maintainers; part of an order January 11 in which the auditor would be paid $150 to prepare the county budget; to employ a "representative" to be paid out of the funds budgeted for election expense; an order September 14 approving a road employee; one October 12 approving road work; two orders concerning bridges, one over Elm Creek, and another order to send a maintainer to Marella to maintain roads and one approving emergency labor. Mr. O'Hair voted against part of these and did not vote on others. The other commissioners voted for them.

Also rescinded was an order transferring $2289.64 to "miscellaneous fund in the road and bridge fund." The order did not show where the money was to come from.

The commissioners tabled the recommendations of the county road administrator, Gene Jenkins, and also a petition signed by a group of Dodson farmers regarding a road.

Jenkins' recommendation on the purchase of oil, gasoline and diesel oil and fuel was accepted.

In another order, the commissioners said that petitions filed by Mr. Doneghy and others requesting an election on the question of issuing county warrants to buy road machinery is a mute question by reason that the temporary injunction was issued by the district court and the commissioners court had rescinded the order in question.

Court Tables Recommendations of Road Dept.

Nine recommendations on a proposed program for the county road department were submitted to the Commissioners Court by Road Administrator Gene Jenkins Feb. 12.

The commissioners tabled the recommendations for further study on a 3-1 vote, with Jack Brewer, Alfred Knoll and W. W. Breeding voting for the motion and Pat O'Hair against.

The recommendations were that the county qualify for $28,500 assistance offered through the Civil Defense and Disaster Office for emergency road work, and use its government excess equipment on this emergency work to prevent possibility of loss of the machinery.

Transfer of $8,300 in the lease purchase item of the budget to emergency operation was recommended. Jenkins also recommended that a new motor grader not be bought. An emergency agreement with local citizens to work roads when needed was suggested.

The types of county roads were enumerated and priority on road work was suggested, as: school bus routes, mail routes, other roads in proportion to traffic.

The last recommendation was that the road administrator maintain a public record of his work in the county clerk's office.

Templeton Rites Held Here Saturday Feb. 13

Funeral services for Mrs. Cleo Templeton, member of a pioneer Collingsworth family, were held Saturday, Feb. 13 at the First Methodist Church in Wellington. Mrs. Templeton died in St. Joseph's Hospital at 11 a.m. Thursday. She had been incapacitated by illness for several years prior to her death.

Mrs. Templeton, the daughter of Judge E. H. and Olivia Furr Small, was born in Dawson, Ala., on May 16, 1886 and moved to the Aberdeen community in Collingsworth county in 1891 with her parents one year after the organization of the county.

After schooling at her mother's knee and the schools of those days, she graduated from Goodnight college with the degree of Mistress of English Literature and worked in her father's general store in Shamrock until her marriage with R. L. Templeton of Wellington on July 15, 1912. After the wedding the couple was driven to Wellington by C. W. Roberts and the next morning her husband, later to become Judge Templeton, went over the legislative district to conduct his campaign for state representative. Later he was appointed by Gov. Pat M. Neff to serve as the first judge of the 100th Judicial District of Texas, a position he still occupied until his death in March of 1927.

Play Hedley Here

Norwood Wins Dist. 12-B Tourney Sat.

Samnorwood's boys won the District 12-B basketball tournament held at Quail this past week end by beating Quail in the finals 55 to 47. Norwood must now play Hedley the best two out of three games to be played at Wellington Tuesday, Thursday and if a third game needs to be played Saturday night. Game time will be 7:30. The winner will advance to the bi-district against the winner of District 11-B.

To get to the finals Norwood side-tracked Claude 68-42 and Groom 57-52. Quail pulled the major upset of the season by beating Hedley 50-47, playing inspired ball. Only the week before Hedley had shown little mercy for Quail in slaughtering them 75-16.

In the finals, before a jam packed crowd Norwood held a 13-10 first quarter lead but Quail battled back to tie Norwood at the half 26-26. Norwood's pressing defense began to tell in the third quarter and Norwood led 41-38 at this point and then quickly pulled into a 10-point lead early in the fourth quarter. Bobby Boyce scored all of Quail's 9 points in the final quarter but it was not enough as Norwood slowed the game down in the final four minutes and won 55-47.

Leading scorer for Samnorwood in the final game was Randall Murry with 25 points but he was matched by Quail's little Bobby Boyce, also with 25. Samnorwood's scoring for the 3-game tournament was as follows: Kenneth Martindale 38, Joel Lowry 35, Randall Murry 47, Jackie Boyd 35, Bill Bentley 17, Dean Marchant 4 and

For Cotton Growers

Plans Made to Develop Flame Cultivator Suited to Area

Development of a flame cultivator to meet the special needs of Collingsworth county cotton growers will be made here by the manufacturer of this type equipment.

The announcement was made by County Agent Bob Lynch following the visit here of J. W. Gotcher of Clarksdale, Miss., who is currently working on flame equipment for the Plainview area.

Arrangements were made for Gotcher to return in about two weeks, with an engineer, to develop a flamer that can be attached to a go-devil and used on cotton not more than four inches high.

Approximately 30 farmers met with Gotcher and Lynch when the former visited here a short time Monday. Earlier several Dodson area farmers observed his equipment at the Hi-Plains Experiment Station and were making plans to build their own.

"Normally cotton is flamed for the first time when it is from 7 to 8 inches tall, but with us, weeds come up almost as soon as the cotton, and we need to get them out when cotton is not more than four inches tall," Lynch said.

That is the purpose for building a flamer that can be attached on the go-devil. It is believed such a flamer will be useful in killing Johnson grass.

None of the units developed here will be sold until it is known they will work, Gotcher told Lynch. Actual manufacture of the flamers, after they are developed, will be in the company's plant elsewhere.

Gotcher is president of the Gotcher Engineering and Manufacturing Co., Inc., of Clarksdale, Miss., designers and manufacturers of agricultural equipment.

Survey Uncovers Gross Ignorance Among Younger Voters of Nation

One of the voids in our public school system of today is in the field of pragmatic civics. Students in grammar and high school grades should be taught not only the rights and duties of citizenship under our Constitution. They should be given opportunity to read about and discuss the men in action who make our government work. From the President down, the names of members of Congress, of the Supreme Court, and of the President's cabinet should become familiar. By this means, the student will develop a more active curiosity: he will be trained to watch more closely how our laws are made.

That such training is needed was brought out clearly by one of our national magazines which recently conducted a survey among 500 young voters from all parts of the country. The result showed an appalling ignorance on the part of these voters as to the leading candidates in both Republican and Democratic parties for the presidential nomination.

Fewer than 240 could identify Sens. Hubert Humphrey and Stuart Symington with the Democratic party, and most of them were unable to tell from what states they served in the Senate. Only 34 per cent expressed the belief that Adlai Stevenson was a "liberal" and while Senators Symington and Humphrey have consistently voted the line of Americans for Democratic Action (A.D.A.) fewer than one out of three considered them "liberals" or knew anything more about their voting records. Few could identify any of the candidates as men of considerable wealth.

This ignorance is discouraging. It is indication of a mental lassitude which is unforgivable. These are the people who are gong to vote for a new President in November. They are going to vote for members of Congress. How can we get an intelligent choice out of those who are too lazy to inform themselves as to the worth of the men running for office?

Venezuelan's Appraisal of U. S. Should Shame Many Citizens

"The United States has been the greatest military power of the world, has decisively won the two greatest wars in history, and it is the only country that has made no colonial acquisitions in the shadow of such great victories, when innumerable countries of much less military and economic might have immediately transformed their military victories into territorial conquests."

Was the speaker an American Fourth of July orator? No. He is Sen. Arturo Uslar Pietri, who arose in the Venezuelan congress to reply to an attack on the United States by a Communist senator. Sen. Pietri continued:

"The United States is a country which was founded in the name of principles respected by all men. Those principles are liberty, respect for human dignity, representative government, observance of law, repulsion of violence, acceptance of justice."

In this day when quite a few Americans (not so many, really, it seems so because they get into the public print and onto radio and television so often) seem to be almost ashamed to be Americans, it remains for a Latin American to tell us the truth about our own country. To continue with Sen. Pietri's splendid statement:

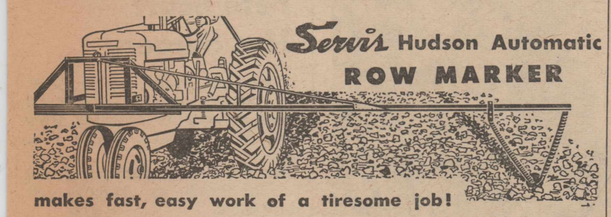

"The history of the international life of the United States is extraordinarily clean when compared with any other great power."

True, every word of it!

But how long is it since you have read or heard such words from those voluble Americans who wish to surrender portions of our national sovereignty to some international organization?

Or from those strange creatures who would have us quit nuclear tests permanently, and unilaterally, in the vain hope that Russia would then follow suit?

Or from those Americans who, appearing to be suffering from an inexplicable guilt complex because this country is so far advanced beyond others, feel that we should tax ourselves heavily in perpetuity to help the remainder of the world?

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

I see where President Ike says some of his generals have got a parochial viewpoint and think they know more than their bosses.

And you can't hardly blame him for being sore when this inferior brass gets to telling it around that he is a bad guesser.

My cool boss neighbor says his help criticizes him all the time, too, but he forbears them and never gets mad when they say he is wrong, unless they are right.

I see where more people are buying cars with automatic transmissions, and it is getting so our clutch legs just go along for the ride.

My worrying neighbor says on account of folks nowadays live, eat, bank, court, and frequently die in cars, our left legs are surplus and will likely wither away.

Says we will have these shiftless cars to blame for it if our great-grandchildren are born unipeds and can only count up to 15.

I see where one school of discord among the Washington brass says we can whip anybody, but another element says we are sitting ducks if we don't get busy and spend some more money.

Ernest Griffith, B. L. Knowles, E. L. Fleming, F. C. Moore, C. T. Donnell, C. M. Coursey, W. R. Clubb, F. B. Thomas, O. C. Dickson, P. H. Thomas, E. W. Cocke, W. R. Brewer, A. M. Wright, J. C. Alexander, W. R. Riley, O. O. Bryant, L. D. McMinn, W. E. Davis, C. Fuson, A. E. Tipton, G. D. Stewart, O. S. Creed, C. H. Worley, R. L. Seale, L. D. Winders, D. M. Hobbs, Dick Richards, O. A. Fennell, L. J. Driskill, T. W. Hyde, R. W. Scott, A. S. Thompson, A. B. Newberry, G. E. Hunt, E. J. Cox, J. W. Seale, D. J. Bulls, J. E. Scott, J. G. Hunt, C. C. Maston, W. E. Akin, J. W. My nervous neighbor says he don't know who is right, but he sees in the papers that the Army has only got enough fatigue uniforms on hand to last 10 years.

Says if the Russians knew of this weakness, they would likely attack now and try to lick us before we have time to arm ourselves with a massive 20-year supply of overalls.

I note that when some schoolboy drowns his grandma, or some bank official steals a wad to help the poor, people wonder who is to blame when a citizen acts like this.

My old style neighbor says in his day folks thought a criminal was just a bad egg.

But says we are now enlightened and go easy on the sinner, because no doubt he would be 99.44 per cent pure if society hadn't dealt him a non-progressive school teacher, or a one-car father.

I see where cigarette sales went up again last year, and my bullheaded neighbor says this is because people have been warned against them.

Says it used to be a man could relieve his craving to live dangerously by going out and irritating an Indian, or robbing a stage coach, but civilization has made these activities impractical.

Says about all a fellow can do nowadays to flirt with peril is to smoke cigarettes, eat cranberries or black jelly beans, or sample lipsticks.

My thankful neighbor says he has just sent off his last hopes for a new car, along with one of the new simple tax forms which the Internal Revenuers have blessed us with.

Says he appreciates all that these boys have done for him, such as simplifying Old 1040, firing the Collectors and hiring Directors, converting their old Bureau into a Service, etc.

But says while all of this tender regard for his convenience and his sore spots makes him a little happy, but they could thrill him a lot more by just taking a smaller bite.

R. L. Templeton Says

According to Dr. C. B. Jones, one of the three members of the "Tax-Payer's Group," and the only one who still signs his name, I should hang my head in shame for having the audacity to even so much as announce for the office of County Attorney.

Look at all the little children, yet unborn, who will be destined to a fate worse than death! They'll probably starve!

That is practically what the good doctor says. Well, I disagree. In announcing for County Attorney I assumed that a supposedly well-informed doctor would know that some people other than the County Attorney had some part in helping this county improve it's finances.

For one thing, the County Judge, who is the Budget Officer for the County, is usually credited with the blame when the finances are poor, so why should he not be credited at least a little bit when the finances are good?

I don't take the credit, ask the credit, or accept the credit for the general improvement in county finances that we enjoy today, and I venture the present County Judge feels the same way.

The voters of Collingsworth County, who voted the 30c increase in the county tax rate, by themselves, without assistance from any body, in two years made a $40,000.00 increase in county finances, and the high valuation on El Paso Natural Gas Company's 200 gas wells in the north part of the county in the last two years made another $64,000.00 improvement in county finances. These improvements took place while I was County Judge, but one was made by God in his infinite wisdom and the other was made by the people of this county, and no man or group of men can claim the credit.

There was one thing I did do while I was County Judge to improve the County's finances that has been strenuously over-looked by the Tax-Payer's Group, and that was to collect 6 years delinquent taxes owed by James Doneghy, one of the members of the Tax-Payer's Group. I was an unpaid attorney in three suits involving over $6,000.00 in delinquent taxes. In cause No. 3684 in the District Court of Collingsworth County, styled THE STATE OF TEXAS VS. JAMES DONEGHY, another local attorney and my self, working for the fun of it, obtained judgement for $2,382.85 in delinquent taxes owed by James Doneghy for the years 1947 and 1948, and we did this AFTER the present County Attorney disqualified in this suit and wrote the Commissioners Court a written opinion (found in Vol. 8, page 73 of the Commissioner's Court Minutes in the County Clerk's office) saying these taxes owed by James Doneghy COULD NOT BE COLLECTED. Well, within the year me and another local attorney obtained judgement for these $2,382.85 in delinquent taxes, with interest thereon at 6 per cent! This judgement was upheld on appeal in the Amarillo Court of Civil Appeals on Feb. 15, 1960.

This means that James Doneghy will pay his taxes just like you, plus penalty, interest, court costs and attorney fee, and I will have had a hand in making more than a $2,500.00 improvement in county finances in dollars and cents, and thousands of dollars improvement in fairness and justice for the small taxpayers of this county.

Due to ill health and the desire to spend as much time as possible with my "new" family and the necessity to stay in my office to make a living, I had hoped to not be forced to make an active campaign. But that is all over. You'll hear plenty from me between now and May 7th.

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held in the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Robinson, 515 Avenue J. Co-hostess was Mrs. Cleo Robinson of Amarillo.

The bride's table was laid with an imported hand embroidered cloth and centered with an arrangement of peppermint, white and red carnations, centered with a red lace and net heart. The three tiered wedding cake carried out the bride's colors of white and pale pink, and was topped with a miniature bridal couple.

Mrs. Cleo Robinson, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. George Olson of Hereford, cousin of the bridegroom, presided at the bride's table.

Miss Beth Bialowski of the Panama Canal Zones, kept the guest register.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Crabtree Observe 47th Wedding Anniversary Tuesday

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Crabtree of Quail observed their 47th wedding anniversary Tuesday, February 16. There was no celebration and the couple planned to spend the day going about their usual duties.

These beloved citizens are now in their 41st year as owners of the Quail Mercantile, a business in which both have participated actively.

Mr. Crabtree was working for Brown Shoe Company in St. Louis when he came to Quail to visit a sister in 1910—with no intention of staying. He found a number of family friends, and he and Alex Shields agreed to farm for the late W. W. Shields. In June 1911, Mr. Crabtree went to work for Dr. Ed Beck in his mercantile store.

He and Mrs. Crabtree were married at Hobart, although her home was at Granite. They moved to four miles southwest of Cordell where they farmed. Later they lived six miles west of Granite and also north of Mangum.

In December 1919, the couple bought the J. R. Self General store and moved to Quail. Coming to work for them was C. B. Overstreet, who had introduced them at a Thanksgiving program at Cordell.

"After I was at Quail a few months, I realized the need of more capital, which I readily received, and in 1920 the store was incorporated under the name of Quail Mercantile," Mr. Crabtree said.

He had the privilege of buying any or all the stock at par value. Associated with him were P. E. Starr, V. D. Atkinson, C. B. Overstreet, W. R. Coffee, J. R. Petty, and W. I. Atkinson.

"One at a time along, I bought all the stock, and in December 1927 paid off the last one, the late Keith Trimble who had bought someone out. Mrs. Crabtree and I have operated as a partnership."

"I have enjoyed my life at Quail and we have had a prosperous business," Mr. Crabtree added.

The business has been in the same location during the entire time the Crabtrees have owned it, and they built the comfortable home in which they live in 1925.

Both are civic minded and Mr. Crabtree served for many years on the Quail school board.

Want to catch big bass the year around?

Want to catch them when the other fellows are going home empty handed?

Here are some tips, relayed to us by experts, that may help you fill out your stringer with whoppers.

The average black bass fisherman gets his greatest thrill out of snagging a big black on a top-water lure.

Chances are he's going to catch some good bass on those surface plugs, all right. But it will be mostly luck, rather than skill, unless he has made some kind of study of the bass and its feeding habits.

Fact of the business is, the black bass prefers deep water, and he would stay there all the time, except for two things.

One is that the bass must follow the minnows, small bream, shad and other food he eats. When the water temperature gets uncomfortable for these little fish down deep, they come to the top —so do the bass, naturally, in their search for food.

Also in relation to food, the bass will come to the surface when there is a chance for him to catch baby birds that fall out of nests, insects on top of the water, frogs, mice, and whatever else is available that suits his fancy.

Otherwise the largemouth will seek shallow water, six to ten feet deep, only in spawning season, which might last for several weeks in the spring.

Now we've accounted for maybe five per cent of the time when the big bass are within ten feet of the surface. The rest of the time they are deeper, and if the fisherman wants to be successful, he's got to get down where they are. How deep?

Depends on the size of the bass you want. Conditions vary, of course, but as a general rule, you might say that in a suitable hole, there will be a school of small ones maybe 15 feet down, At 20 feet, there will be a school of 1¾ and 2 pounders. Go down to 25 feet and you'll find the 3-pound fish. The lunkers are there—at 30 to 40 feet.

If a bass could select his own habitat, he would look for a place along a ledge, where the water drops off to 40 feet, and where there are tall weeds growing all the way to the bottom. He has a place to come up and feed along the bank where the minnows are, but most of the time he stays down deep in his green weedy home.

So he's 30 feet down, and you're fishing with surface lures, and you get nothing.

You change to a "deep diving" lure, maybe one that has a spoon bill on the front to make it dig into the water while being retrieved. Well, that lure reaches a depth of 10 or 12 feet for a brief bit of its journey, but at no time does it get anywhere close to the big ones.

Okay, so they're deep, are they? You tie on a sinking lure, cast it out and give it time enough to reach the bottom. Then you begin retrieving. And nothing happens. You begin to wonder what's the trouble. You can think of lots of reasons, most likely, but the real one probably is this.

Even when you used that sinking lure, you didn't give it time enough to get really deep. It seemed like a long time, but you were a little impatient. And you thought about losing a lure along the rocky, weedy, brushy bottom, so you started reeling in too fast.

You remember what the experts told you about fishing with surface lures? Cast one over by an old stump and let it sit until all the ripples have disappeared. Then give it a very slight twitch and forget it for a while. Work it slow. The same principle applies in deep water, and the experts know it. You must use the right technique.

Toss a good lure—black jig, black eel, spoon with pork chunk, lead-headed plastic worm — into good bass water and leave it alone until you get slack in your line, meaning that the lure is really and truly on the bottom. Now wait a while. If the bass is nearby, he'll be looking at the thing, speculatively or angrily or hungrily.

Give him time to speculate and get madder or hungrier. Give him lots of time. Then imagine the way a shad moves when he's just ambling along the bottom. Move your lure that way — slowly, just a foot or two, and let it rest. If nothing happens, repeat the performance, at long intervals.

Now you're jigging along the bottom. You're fishing for bass, and if you don't catch more by using this method than you ever did any other way, you can sue 98 per cent of the experts who ever expressed an opinion on the subject.

Buske & Porter to Hold John Deere Day at Ritz Theatre Wednesday, Feb. 24

This coming Feb. 24, will be John Deere Day in Wellington, according to Buske & Porter, local John Deere farm equipment dealers.

"We'll have plenty of snacks ready for the crowd," they said, "and there'll be plenty of seats for everybody to have a good view during our film program."

One film item that's expected to draw a lot of interest and favorable comment will be a report on the new John Deere 435 Diesel Tractor, shown above. There will be big news, too, on development in 8-row farming and grain drying.

The whole farm family will enjoy the varied entertainment schedule in this year's John Deere Day program. Nationally famous TV commentator Walter Kronkite will MC the film presentation which includes musical numbers, the popular "Oddities in Farming" and an eye-opening visit to the John Deere plow works to see precision automatic production of high speed plow shares.

"Oddities in Farming" will take the audience from Arkansas to Minnesota, to see types of agriculture as unusual and varied as these states are far apart. The big feature of the unusual rice farm near Brinkley, Ark., is the rotation crop; carp of a size that would make any angler proud.

The youngsters especially will like a visit to the Halvorsen Christmas tree farm in Duluth, Minn. They can watch the interesting steps by which tiny seedling trees grow to become the principle decoration of the Christmas season.

Novelty numbers and musical features round out the show to make it a day everyone will enjoy and remember.

Group Here for Templeton Rites

A large group of out of town relatives and friends were here to attend the funeral of Mrs. Cleo Templeton Saturday morning, Feb. 13.

These included Mr. and Mrs. John Walker, John, Winifred and Scott of Midland; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wofford and Martha, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wofford and Ben Wofford of Wheeler; Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Fuller, Henry Holmes and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Small of Lubbock;

Dr. and Mrs. E. K. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Mount Sr., W. S. Mount Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Neal Ware, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kromer and Horace Small Sr., of Amarillo; Mrs. Annie Hugh Lyle of Dumas;

Mrs. Hester Holmes, Mrs. Cabot Brannon, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Benson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Holmes, Mrs. W. S. Pendleton, Mrs. H. P. Mundy, Mrs. George Stanley, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Clay and Jack Hurt of Shamrock;

Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Powell of Lawton, Okla.; Senator and Mrs. C. C. Small of Austin; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Kromer and Mrs. Shelton Kromer of Vinson.

Norwood Team Plans Contests

Samnorwood land judging team under the direction of Jim Jacobs, agriculture teacher, has made plans for contests this year. The team members are Pete Smith, Butch Tate, Don Amerson and Bob King. The team placed first in the Salt Fork SCD judging contest at Wellington. The team was also the first place team in the Greenbelt FFA District in 1959.

The team will go to Plainview April 12. They must be in the top five to go on to the state meet. At the state meet the top two teams go on to the National Land judging contests.

The boys have agreed to work hard and will try to get qualified to go to the national land judging contest later this year.

Electricity sparks the... 60s
NATIONAL ELECTRICAL WEEK
FEB. 7-13, 1960

"WHADDYA MEAN ELECTRICITY WILL BE A BARGAIN IN THE '60s?"

"Look at this bill. It's higher than it was last year, isn't it?"

Yes sir—it is. But let's see why. Do you have a new appliance, perhaps? A present for your wife?

"Well, yes. I got her a dishwasher and a new automatic washer last summer."

Lucky wife. Is there anything else?

"Well, yes. We've got a new TV set, too—and I guess we've been watching it a good deal."

Yes. In other words, you've been putting more electricity to work for you, and getting more value out of it than ever before?

"You're right. I guess we have. Never looked at it that way. Why, maybe electricity is a real bargain."

No doubt about it, sir. It is.

Electricity COSTS SO LITTLE— YOU CAN USE LOTS OF IT!

Rocketts Win 5-AA Basketball Title

Both boys and girls basketball teams went to Perryton Friday night Feb. 12 to play the Perryton teams. This was the last game of the season for the boys, which they won by a score of 50 to 43.

The girls also won their game which won them District. The final score was 71 to 54. Joline Groves was high scorer with 33 points, 25 of these being made on free throws. Betty Jo Sanders was second in high points with 29 and Sharon Campbell was third with 9 points.

The first quarter of the game ended with Wellington 21 to Perryton's 12. Things picked up in the second quarter with play nip and tuck all the way, ending the half with Wellington 38 to 35. Wellington gradually gained on them in the third quarter and ended the fourth quarter with the final score 71 to 56. This gives Wellington a chance to play in bi-district which will be played soon.

Coach Clement was in Hamlin Tuesday to find out when the bi-district game will be played and who the girls will play. He also announced the girls will play Mobeetie here on Friday night, Feb. 19 at 7:30 in a practice game.

Charles Starkey

He then chose farming as his new career.

Recognition for his work in becoming a successful farmer in spite of many obstacles came only a few weeks ago, when he was chosen to represent Salt Fork Soil Conservation District as its nominee for Comeback Farmer in the state-wide Save the Soil and Save Texas Awards program.

Mr. Starkey began dairy farming at Divine in 1936 and two years later moved to Goodnight, where he and Mrs. Starkey lived until 1945, when they returned here and again built an outstanding Grade A dairy herd. For the last two years he had gone into beef cattle and hog operations.

With rare courage, Charley Starkey refused to accept blindness as a handicap and did much of the heavy work about his farm, which included putting up buildings and the operation of machinery. He cared for his own livestock. He designed and built equipment to make his work easier and put up his own fences and stacked bundles. He had no special equipment, only that used by the seeing.

He was active in Quail Baptist Church, and several years ago while living at Wellington taught a Sunday school closs of junior boys.

He is survived by his wife; one daughter, Mrs. David Davis Jr. of Amarillo; two grandchildren; and five sisters and three brothers: Mrs. Pearl Brooks of Abernathy, Mrs. Henry Brown of Levelland, Mrs. E. B. Morgan of Perryton, Mrs. W. M. Boston of Goodnight, Mrs. Raymond Powell of Amarillo, Bert Starkey of Shamrock, Grady Starkey of Quitaque, and Oran Starkey of Wellington.

National Guard

Division was assembled at local armories on Feb. 15. This year's alert is to involve the entire 36th Division the headquarters said.

No one knows just when "Operation Awake II" will take place. It is known only that it is to be ordered some time after February 15 and before February 28.

The order for the alert is to come from Austin, the headquarters of the 36th Division. The 36th Division makes up about half the strength of the Texas National Guard. Other organizations will not be affected it was learned here.

This is the first 36th Division practice alert since the sweeping reorganization last March that gave the 36th a streamlined, atomic age organization. The Division is now organized under the "pentomic" concept for maneuver on the atomic battlefield.

As soon as the order for "Operation Awake II" is out, unit alert plans will go into effect. Included in the alert plan of each unit is a detailed system for chain notification of individuals.

Spot announcements have been prepared for broadcast on local radio and TV stations as part of the alert plan. For a practice exercise such as this one, the announcements will stress the fact that this is a "practice" alert, so the population will not become alarmed, local officials pointed out.

Floyd Morton

Pall bearers were Carl Estes, Elmer Hiett, Ben Hurst, Lawrence Warrick, Earl Keller, and Raymond Patton.

Burial was in North Wellington Cemetery under the direction of Kelso Funeral Home.

Surviving Mr. Morton are his wife; a son, Richard Morton of Wellington; and a daughter, Mrs. Junior Kellison of Amarillo. He is also survived by three brothers and two sisters, W. E. Morton, Jack Morton and Delmer Morton of Levelland; Mrs. Newt Hays of Sherman and Mrs. Frank Tucker of Clarksville. There are three grandchildren.

Mrs. Alvin Horton has returned from Paris, where she was with her sister, Mrs. E. J. Owens, who is ill.

Mrs. Templeton

While her young husband was rising in politics, Mrs. Templeton was equally as energetic in civic affairs. She was a charter member of the Domestic Science Club which was organized in 1915 and is the oldest study club in Wellington. Her family were Presbyterians, but she transferred her membership to the Methodist Church soon after her marriage and was an active worker in the First Methodist Church as long as her health permitted. She was a member of the Dorcas Sunday School class taught by the dedicated Mrs. A. V. Cocke and was given an honorary life membership in the W.S.C.S.

She is best remembered for her quiet understanding and her work for other people. Following her husband's death, she felt a great responsibility in rearing her two daughters and was happy to see her desire for their college education fulfilled.

She was an active leader in Red Cross work for many years as well as school activities and was voted a life membership in the P.T.A. of Wellington school, and was a member of the B.& P.W. Club.

Mrs. Templeton was administrator for the State Welfare Office for five years and showed a keen sense of responsibility for the people it was her duty to help. A soft spoken daughter of the Old South—both of her grandfathers served in the Confederate Army — her friends in Wellington and the Panhandle consisted of people in all ranks of life. She was always kind, gracious and devoted to others.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Frank Weir, Rev. J. F. Michael, and Dr. J. Edmund Kirby.

Burial was made in the West Wellington Cemetery, under the direction of Kelso Funeral Home. Pall bearers were Cliff Campbell, James Sullivan, John Sherman, A. J. Fires, Rube Crawley, John Forbis, Barney Glenn and Emory Hunter.

Surviving relatives are two daughters: Mrs. John Walker of Midland and Mrs. L. C. Hill of Wellington; four sisters, Mrs. Temple Atkins of Cottonwood Falls, Kan., Mrs. Fred Holmes of Shamrock, Mrs. Walter Mount of Amarillo and Mrs. Earl Kromer of Amarillo; three brothers, Clint C. Small of Amarillo, Horace Small Sr. of Amarillo, and Hugh Small of Lubbock, and five grandchildren.

Mrs. J. T. Martin flew to California Sunday night to be with her brother, Howard Ellis, who was seriously burned in a butane explosion. She called her son-in-law, Merle Whitfield, later in the week and said his condition was critical, as pneumonia had developed. Ellis is the son of Rev. and Mrs. I. M. Ellis, an early day pastor of the Nazarene Church here.

Good Samples Needed for Soil Tests

COLLEGE STATION.—The use of fertilizer on Texas crops and pastures will pay big dividends in the areas where plant food is needed to boost yields. The cheapest, easiest and best method for determining fertilizer needs is to test the soil. But, adds W. F. Bennett, extension soil chemist, the soil test is no better than the soil sample from which the test is made.

In fact, points out Bennett, chemical tests based on poorly taken soil samples may actually be misleading. Here are suggestions from the chemist on how to take a good soil sample:

A spade, probe or auger can be used for taking the soil sample. Sampling should be done to a depth of six inches. If a spade is used, dig a v-shaped hole to the six inch depth and take a half inch slice of soil from the smooth side of the hole. Then cut away all but the center one inch of the slice and place it in the container being used for collecting the individual samples from which the composite sample will come.

Take a composite sample from each type of soil in the field. For example, take a sample from the level ridgetop and another from the slope. In getting the composite sample, from 10 to 15 individual samples should be taken from over the area. These should be collected in a clean container and thoroughly mixed before the soil for the composite sample is placed in the sample box. In taking the random samples, Bennett says field depressions, old fence lines or unusual areas within the sample area should be avoided. Too, separate samples should be taken from areas that have been cropped differently.

In numbering the sample boxes, make sure the box number corresponds to the number shown on the information sheet and keep a record of the sample numbers and the area from which each was taken. The soil sampling sheet — it's available from the local county agent—should be filled out as completely as possible. The samples along with the information sheets may be mailed directly to the laboratory at College Station or taken to the county agent's office or community leader for transmission to the laboratory. The test results should be back to the sender in three weeks.

Norwood Wins

Gene Sherwood 4.

The Samnorwood girls basketball season came to a close at Quail as they were derailed by the eventual tournament champion, powerful Claude, 55-41. Samnorwood, winners of the Shamrock, Samnorwood and consolation winners of the Wellington tournament ended the season with a 26-7 record. Of the 12 girls suiting out only Kay Schaub, who has done an outstanding job at guard, will be lost.

The Samnorwood boys, winners of the Shamrock, Samnorwood and Wellington tournaments besides the district tournament take a 29-6 record into the playoffs with the favored Hedley Owls. Hedley has a 28-4 record, losing to Hartley twice, Quail and Roswell, N. M. Hedley, winner of regional one last year, will probably average 6 ft. 2 in. per man while Norwood with only one 6-footer in the lineup will average only 5 ft. 9.7 in.

Miss Carolyn Keller of Amarillo visited here over the week end in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Keller.

Glen Reeves of WTSC, Canyon, was home over the week end visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Reeves.

Build Center to Study Religions

Harvard University will build in 1960 a center for the study of world religions where graduate students and visiting scholars from all over the world can live while they study. It will be a modern 2-story structure near the Harvard Divinity School in Cambridge. The new center will provide a meeting place for these visiting scholars and American students at Harvard who are studying foreign religions. It will mean that a graduate student in Indic studies might gain firsthand knowledge of his subject by exchanging ideas with a Hindu scholar from India well-versed in that field. A Buddhist monk from Burma, a Shinto priest from Japan and a Muslim scholar from the near East all may be living in the center, meeting informally and exchanging views with students studying for degrees at Harvard Divinity School.

Citrus Fruits Big Aid to Nutrition

Citrus fruits are available in so many forms that anyone can manage to have some every day, and should, according to extension foods and nutrition specialists.

The importance of a daily serving of citrus fruit—fresh, frozen or canned—cannot be stressed too much, especially in winter when fresh fruits and vegetables may make up a little less of the daily diet than in summer. In most cases, an orange, a half grapefruit or a serving of tomatoes daily will give you the vitamin C needed for good health.

Vitamin C serves as a cement to hold body cells together. Failure to get enough vitamin C causes walls of tiny blood vessels to collapse, causing hemorrhaging; gums become spongy and bleed, causing teeth to loosen; cartilage and connective tissue is weakened and nerves are damaged. Bones lose calcium because their connective tissue is unable to hold it. Wounds fail to heal and bones break easily and the body generally comes unglued.

There are some special substances in the membranes separating the pulp and the white part under the peel called bio-flavonoids and protopectins. These aid digestion and regularity and work with vitamin C to keep the walls of the tiny blood vessels strong. For this reason, specialists suggest you eat the whole orange occasionally including some of the white part that covers the pulp.

Week end guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Saunders were her mother, Mrs. W. B. Laurence and brother, Clyde Laurence both of Claude.

Unity Besought

"Now I beseech you brethren, through the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak the same thing, that there be no divisions among you; but that ye be perfected together in the same mind and in the same judgment." (I Cor. 1:10.)

The Bible teaches unity of God's children. In the verse above we are taught to have unity of speech, unity of organization, unity of mind and judgment. Anything less than this is sinful.
