Election issues win solid approval

By GEORGE H. JOHNSTON

By almost a 3-to-2 margin, Midland County voters Saturday approved a hospital district and authorized issuing up to $10 million in bonds for Midland Memorial Hospital improvements.

The voters turned out in large numbers to give the hospital district 4,774 votes for and 2,846 against. Total votes for proposition two, the bond issue, were 4,840 for and 3,021 against.

"I'm just tickled to death it passed," said Mickey Cappadonna, chairman of the board of trustees of Midland Memorial Hospital.

"The press helped to tell the story to the people and the people responded by agreeing they should share the burden for bricks and mortar and indigent care," Cappadonna added.

Hospital Administrator Wayne Ulrich said "this is indeed a great day for Midland. In behalf of the trustees and hospital staff and employes, I would like to express we are all grateful and deeply appreciate the voters..."

The proposals won their strongest victories with 7-to-3 margins at the north-central Midland box of Bowie Elementary School and the far north Midland box at Goddard Junior High.

The count at Bowie was 907, or 69 per cent of the vote, for the hospital district and 408 against. The bond issue passed with 913 votes for and 436 against.

At Goddard, the hospital district received 475 votes for to 408 against, and the bond issue received 490 votes for to 217 against.

The proposals failed at the southwest Midland box of Long Elementary School and the southeast box of Edison Junior High.

Cappadonna said the two sections provided most of the pre-election vocal opposition to the proposals.

The proposals were narrowly defeated at Long with 434 against the hospital district to 430 for, and 460 votes against the bond issue to 423 for.

At Edison, 237 voted against the district and 190 for, and 266 voted against the bonds and 182 for.

The vote of the other boxes was:

— Lee High School, hospital district 1,199 for to 688 against; bond issue 1,255 for to 718 against.

— Alamo Junior High, hospital district 305 for to 246 against; bond issue 310 for to 259 against.

— Midland High School, hospital district 366 for to 252 against; bond issue 364 for to 267 against.

— Austin Freshman School, hospital district 191 for to 153 against; bond issue 214 for to 180 against.

Cappadonna said the next step will be to take the proposed improvements to the Texas Health Facilities Commission for a certificate of need. That hearing is scheduled Oct. 25, he added.

However, Cappadonna said he is not concerned about the certificate of need because "this is something Midland needs."

He said the commission's decision will come, at the earliest, 30 days after the hearing.

"I don't see how they (the commission) can refuse it. If it is refused, we will refine the proposal and take it back until it does," Cappadonna said.

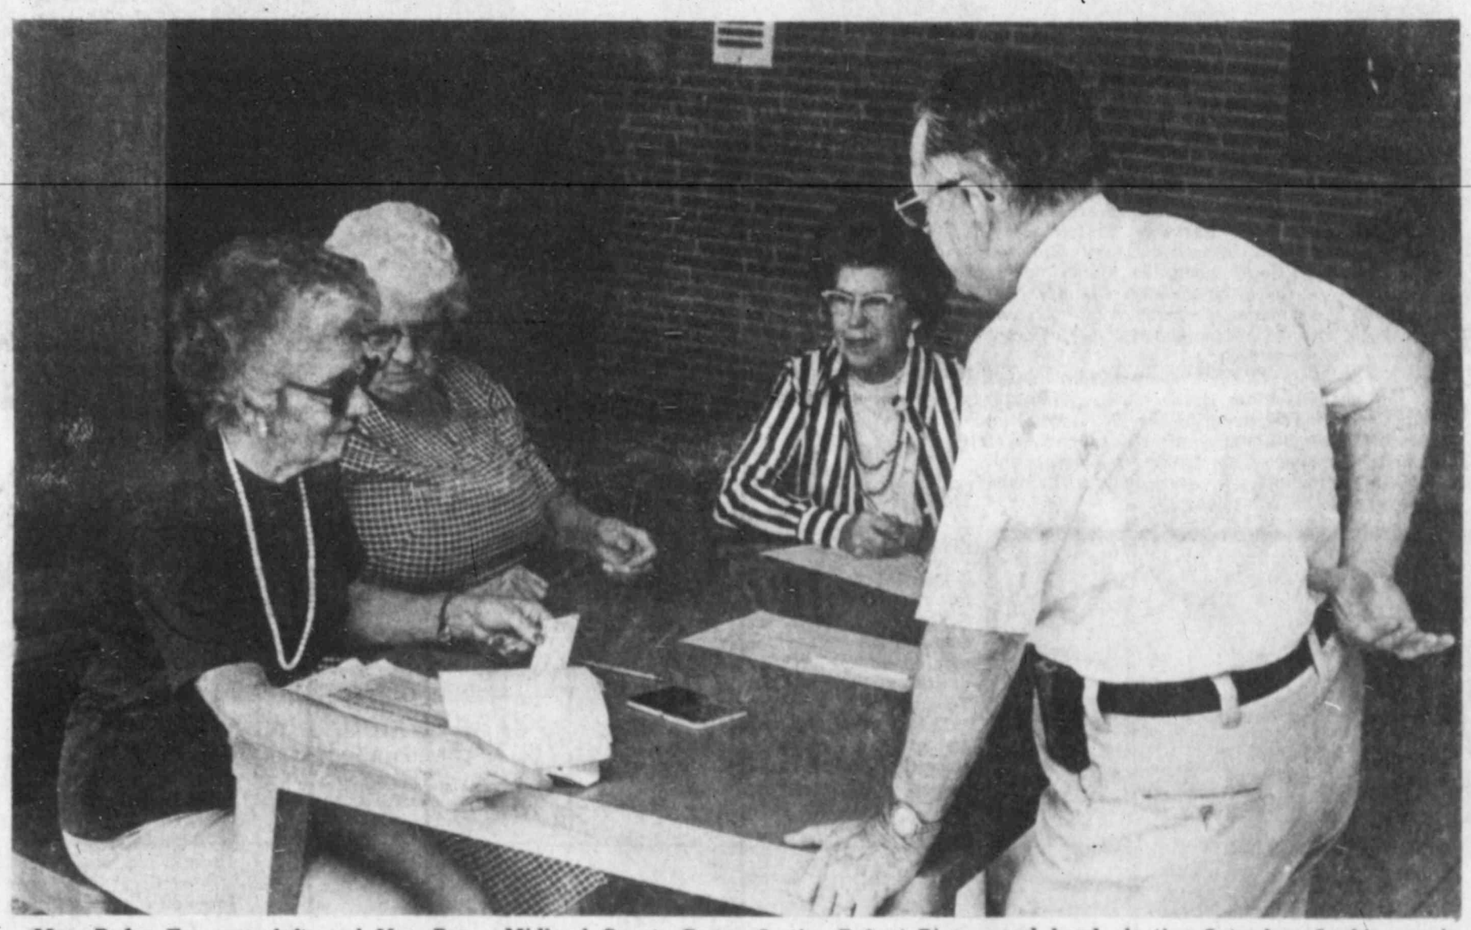

It will be at least December or January before work on the hospital addition will begin, Cappadonna said, and the trustees are shooting for a completion date of January 1980 for the addition and renovation.

He added that the new critical care unit would possibly be open by December 1978.

Ulrich said the hospital district taxes will begin in the next taxing year with funds for indigent care coming at the same time.

Cappadonna said this is the largest single bond issue ever passed in Midland County.

"It is almost twice the size of any bond issue ever passed," he said.

Mrs. Rufus Emmons, left, and Mrs. Ben Dublin check the voter registration card of Midland County Peace Justice Robert Pine before he cast his ballot in the hospital district and bond election Saturday. Looking on is Mrs. Tommy Smith.

Hospital backers expect slim win, get nice surprise

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

"When you expect it to be a slim victory and you get a big one, what can you say?" said Midland Memorial Hospital Board Advisory Committee member Carl Forest Saturday night as it became clear the proposed hospital district and bonds were going to pass by a significant margin.

Campaign workers were elated as they heard results from each polling place reported.

"I'm seldom ever on the winning side (in an election campaign)," said Don Phiffer, another advisory committee member.

"Everybody thought it would be a toss-up," said Dr. William M. Hibbitts, president of the Midland County Medical Society.

Voters approved both the creation of a hospital district and $10 million in bonds to renovate and expand Midland Memorial by a 3-2 margin.

Chamber of Commerce President Harrell Feldt said he was pleased with the voters' decision in "the most critical and important decision that was made in Midland in many years."

An intensive campaign preceded the election, with almost $20,000 spent in the effort to get people to vote for the two ballot propositions, said campaign manager Bo Baskin.

Baskin said he believed the process of winning support for the hospital district and bonds was "a gradual sort of thing. . . . the facts were on our side."

"The results reflect an awfully good job" done by volunteer workers during the campaign, said Ed Magruder, one of the directors of the newly created hospital district.

Some organized opposition surfaced during the campaign, but Magruder said he does not think it affected many votes. "The vocal and stated opposition did not have as much effect on these people who voted against as their own thinking (did)," he said.

Feldt also had praise for the "responsible citizens" who "did a good job of getting out and informing" the voters.

Most of the persons who had worked to pass the hospital district and improvements agreed there was no one turning point, that it was simply a matter of getting the information out.

Now that the issue is passed, the next step is to canvass the results and formally organize the hospital district, Magruder said.

Dr. Hibbitts said the hospital will seek a certificate of need from the Texas Health Facilities Commission within the next several days. That certificate would authorize the expansion of Midland Memorial. Dr. Hibbitts said the approval of the voters of the bond issue will help in getting that certificate of need.

He said he believes the transition from proprietary to publicly-owned hospital should be a smooth one. He anticipates no changes in the day-to-day operation of the hospital "at least for a while."

Magruder said almost all the architecture, design and engineering "had to have already been done or we couldn't have come up with the $10 million figure."

After the bonds are sold, the approximately $1 million debt currently owed by the Midland Memorial Foundation will be paid, giving the hospital district "an $8 million facility" ready to take over Magruder said.

As soon as it formally is organized, he said, the hospital district will take over the expense of indigent care. Magruder said the district probably will hire at least one social worker to screen indigent cases, and more may be needed later.

Forest said the advisory committee members have been told they will play a "major role" in the operation of the hospital. The committee will recommend hiring a patient advocate who will report directly to the board of trustees, Forest said.

Lance flew bank plane to games

WASHINGTON (AP) — Budget Director Bert Lance testified Saturday he used a plane owned by the bank he headed to fly himself, his wife and occasionally other relatives to two football games and the Mardi Gras in New Orleans free of charge because he was creating "a new image for the bank."

Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., who questioned whether Lance made improper use of the bank aircraft, quoted the comptroller of the currency as saying that Lance's use of the aircraft owned by the National Bank of Georgia contained "potential liability."

He did not elaborate.

Percy read a section from the tax laws saying the cost of trips which are not purely for business are not tax deductible in such cases. The implication was that Lance might owe additional taxes because the trips could be considered as income to him.

Percy said the Mardi Gras trip on March 13, 1976, "hardly seems the atmosphere to conduct serious business."

Lance replied amid laughter from spectators, "Some people say the same thing about Washington, senator." But he did not cite any particular bank business that was conducted on the Mardi Gras trip that justified using the bank plane without payment.

Lance said he had unlimited use of the plane because, as head of the bank, he was trying to develop new business wherever he went.

He testified at an unusual Saturday hearing before the Senate Government Operations Committee in the second week of a probe into Lance's financial dealings before he was appointed director of the Office of Management and Budget by President Carter.

Other trips cited by Percy for which Lance did not reimburse the bank were University of Georgia football games in Athens, Ga., and in Jacksonville, Fla., both in 1976.

Lance said at the close of the session that his three days of testimony before the committee had been a "personal ordeal for him and his family, but he was "satisfied that the American people know me much better."

"I shall return to my duties at OMB with even a firmer sense of responsibility and dedication," he said.

Although it was widely predicted before Lance began testifying Thursday that he might announce his resignation during the hearings, he made clear throughout that he intends to fight to retain his job.

Lance told his Senate critics they had the benefit of hindsight in their attacks on his past financial practices, which he said might appear questionable now but were good business at the time.

Dayan bumps U.S. off his travel log

By FRANK CREPEAU

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan unexpectedly broke off a trip to the United States Saturday to come home and confer with Prime Minister Menachem Begin, raising speculation about a new development in Middle East negotiations.

Dayan had spent Friday in Brussels and was expected to leave for New York Saturday. Instead he flew to Paris, spent several hours at a hotel there and then flew back to Israel.

Arriving at Ben Gurion Airport, Dayan said he returned to "perform a task in my function as foreign minister." He declined to make any further comment after meeting for more than an hour with Begin.

Dayan said he would leave for New York on Sunday and would be in Washington Monday as scheduled.

There was immediate speculation that Dayan, in talks or meetings in Brussels or Paris, had come up with new information related to his mission to the United States, where he is to take part in U.S.-mediated Middle East peace talks.

A spokesman for the Israeli Embassy in Paris said he was unable to explain why Dayan went there, but he denied rumors that the foreign minister stopped over for a secret Middle East peace meeting. The spokesman said Dayan spend several hours in a hotel in Paris.

Percy explains resignation call

By W. DALE NELSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Charles Percy said Saturday that Bert Lance's reported use of a bank-owned airplane "which may involve criminal violations" was among the reasons he told President Carter that Lance should resign.

Percy's statement was in response to an interview in which Carter appeared to suggest that Percy and Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., had relied on accusations by an admitted embezzler in calling for Lance's resignation. Percy said this was "absolutely not" correct.

Ribicoff, told of the Carter interview, commented, "That isn't the basis on which I asked for his (Lance's) resignation." However, Ribicoff did not elaborate on what he had told Carter.

Percy, the ranking Republican on the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, and Ribicoff, its chairman, visited Carter Sept. 5 and told reporters afterward they had advised the President that Lance should resign because of "serious new allegations of illegality."

Percy's statement Saturday was the first time he or Ribicoff had indicated what they told Carter.

"My call ... for Mr. Lance to resign or to step aside was based on several serious matters that were brought to the attention of the President," Percy said.

He said these included:

—"Mr. Lance's questionable use of an airplane owned by the National Bank of Georgia (of which Lance was president), which may involve criminal violations."

—"Information that appeared to substantiate allegations" that John Stokes, then the U.S. attorney in Atlanta, had improperly closed an investigation of campaign law violations in Lance's 1974 campaign for governor of Georgia.

—"The discovery of highly critical bank examination reports having to do with the Calhoun First National Bank," which Lance headed before joining the National Bank of Georgia.

—"Possible improper actions by employees of the comptroller of the currency in rescinding an agreement that placed sanctions on the Calhoun First National Bank."

Engineer corps, EPA team up

By TOM RAUM

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army Corps of Engineers, builders of dams and canals, is teaming up in an unusual alliance with the Environmental Protection Agency to help oversee water cleanup efforts.

The EPA and the corps, whose missions often have been at cross-purposes, are ready to sign a $20-million-a-year agreement under which the corps would begin overseeing construction of municipal waste treatment plants throughout the country.

The program is expected to be announced by the Carter administration later this month.

An EPA official said the agreement will enable the environmental agency to "use the expertise the corps is famous for in construction to help out with the building of sewage plants."

But the proposed arrangement appears to be generating dissatisfaction among some EPA professionals, one of whom called it "a sellout of the water pollution program."

To environmentalists, the corps has long been something of a villain, with what some see as an over-zealousness to dig, dam and turn free-flowing streams into man-made reservoirs. Spokesmen for several leading conservation groups said they are eyeing the Corps' expected new assignment with skepticism.

The decision, however, is drawing support in some quarters, including on Capitol Hill.

"It's part of the Carter administration's initiative to give the corps something else to do beside building dams," said John Freshman, a staff member for the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee. "We'll take a look at it, but we think it's a good idea and we support it."

Under the plan, the corps will review plans for new waste treatment plants, make recommendations and oversee their construction. It will not do any of the actual building.

"One of the functions of the corps will be a continuous, onsite presence during the building of the plant. We just don't have the manpower to do it," said Peter Acly, an information officer for the EPA.

Under the Clean Water Act of 1972, the federal government pays about 75 per cent of the costs of building municipal waste treatment plants. But grants have been backlogged because of numerous troubles with the program from the outset, including the decision of former President Richard M. Nixon to impound the funds.

The EPA, playing a game of catch-up, currently is overseeing about $20 billion in such grants. "Our staff is stretched extremely thin. It's been very difficult to devote enough manpower to adequately keep an eye on every project we have going on," Acly said.

The corps will help the EPA with these chores in the future under the new agreement.

But one EPA career professional, who asked not to be identified, said the decision is creating dissension within the environmental agency. Many EPA staffers feel the corps has a blemished reputation on environmental matters and should not be given such an environmentally sensitive assignment.

"There is a feeling here that it's a sellout of the water pollution program," he said. "The corps will be doing reviews on all plans and specifications that localities draft for these plants. That gives them a tremendous amount of authority."

Big Spring names Hise school chief

BIG SPRING — The Board of Trustees of the Big Spring Independent School District Thursday officially named Lynn Hise as superintendent of schools. Hise has been serving as interim superintendent.

During his term as interim superintendent Hise faced the problems of closing five Big Spring schools and merging the elementary and junior high schools.

Hize has been hired for two years at a salary of $30,000 per year.

Recreation group to think about election

The Midland Parks and Recreation Commission will consider the election of officials at their board meeting on Tuesday.

The commission meets in the council chamber of City Hall at 3:30 p.m.

The commission will also consider the request for a wedding in Wadley-Barron Park on Sept. 25 and here a report on items of commission business undertaken by the city council since the last commission meeting.

Night of flood like nightmare for Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Mary Ellen Taylor snuggled close to her parents as rain pounded their five-room home in the Leeds district of Kansas City.

It was Monday night, Sept. 12, the second night of storms drenching the city. The Taylors and their three children — Mary Ellen, 9, David, 11, and Loren, 13 — had gone to bed at 9 p.m., just missing the latest broadcast warning from the National Weather Service:

"... Heavy rains ... overloaded storm sewers ... very dangerous problem to motorists ... be prepared to move out quickly ... do not take this situation lightly ... potentially very dangerous to life and property."

Within a half hour, the family was out of bed again as the storm worsened.

In the nightmarish hours that were to follow, 23 persons were killed, hundreds left homeless and property damage soared to tens of millions of dollars.

The raging waters attacked suburban Johnson County, Kan., a wealthy area with $250,000 homes and Country Club Plaza with its fancy restaurants and exclusive shops. Modest and low income neighborhoods such as the Leeds district where the Taylors lived were ravaged as well.

Just after 9, a frightened Mary Ellen Taylor was reassured by her mother that everything would be all right.

"I know," the child answered. "I've asked Jesus to take care of my family two times."

The Taylors, who bought the house in 1965, had never experienced a flood. But their neighbors had, and they were leaving for higher ground. One after another they called the Taylors and urged them to leave, too.

About 9:30, Jim Taylor looked out his front window and called to his family. "If I'm not mistaken, that's river water."

The Taylors dressed and drove away as water swirled up near the doors of the car. The Big Blue River, three blocks to the west, was taking over the neighborhood.

Three blocks away, on higher ground, Mary Taylor persuaded her husband to return to the house for some belongings. But the waters were now chest deep as they waded nearer the home. They turned back. It was too late — three feet of water had tipped over the family piano. Furniture and a freezer full of food bobbed like corks.

Ten miles to the southwest, architect Ralph Myers watched rain-swollen Brush Creek, normally a meandering stream, from the window of his $250,000 Mission Hills home.

By 10 p.m. the waters conquered a 10-foot retaining wall and were inside the house driving the Myers to higher ground.

At the Plaza III, several blocks downstream, patrons at a bar joked as the rising waters first began to approach. The jokes stopped as the water lapped at J.C. Nichols Parkway, 50 feet away. Customers fled and bartender Larry Bodinson followed minutes later when the murky waters climbed two feet up on the windows of an adjoining restaurant. The windows shattered, waves of water rushed in, and the room became "a dirty sea aquarium," Bodinson said.

"I started running like hell," he recalled.

At the Alameda Plaza Hotel, which was Ronald Reagan's headquarters during the 1976 Republican National Convention, 300 persons were ushered out of a ground-level banquet room moments before a wall gave way and eight feet of water gushed in. Damage was later placed at $2 million.

22-year-old oilfield worker arrested in clerk's death

ODESSA — A 22-year-old oilfield worker was charged Friday with murder in the death of a convenience store clerk here Sept. 9.

Arrested about 10 p.m. Friday was Tom Wesley Clark of 1800 E. 51st St.

Odessa Detective Jerry Smith said the man was arrested after traffic Patrolman D. C. Jumper reported spotting a car with a damaged right front side parked at a man's residence.

Officers went to the residence Friday night and talked with Clark, Smith said.

The man volunteered to go to the police station to talk more, Smith said. Clark was later arrested at the police station, said Smith.

Ector County Peace Justice Harold Sligar filed the charges and set Clark's bond at $100,000.

Smith attributed the arrest to Jumper, who is the department's specialist in tracking down hit-and-run vehicles.

"He deserves the most credit to the break in the case," Smith said.

Acting on a search warrant issued by Judge Sligar, police confiscated a pair of boots. Smith said the boots would be checked to see if they fit a footprint found near the body in a pasture northwest of here.

Mrs. Phyllis Wood, 25, was abducted from the 7-Eleven store where she was night clerk about 2:45 a.m. Sept. 9.

According to police, she had called to report a noise, but when police arrived she was missing.

Mrs. Wood's partially-clad body was found Sept. 11 northeast of FM 1936 and State Highway 158. Her blood-stained 7-Eleven store smock was found near the body.

Ector County Peace Justice Manuel Valles said the woman appeared to have been run over one or more times by a vehicle.

Autopsy results ordered by Judge Valles were not available late Saturday.

Judge faces what may be final Watergate decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica, who received his first Watergate case five years ago, now faces what may be his last Watergate-related decision.

He was asked Friday to free H.R. Haldeman and John N. Mitchell from prison by reducing their eight-year cover-up sentences to the time served. Without that decision the men would not be eligible for parole until December 1979.

Mitchell, 64, told Sirica in a petition that he is suffering so severely from arthritis that he needs an artificial hip. The surgery can't be performed while he is a prisoner at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., the former attorney general said.

He also told the judge he is suffering from an enlarged heart and called attention to his motherless teen-aged daughter.

Haldeman, 50, petitioned Sirica that he has become "useless to the world, a burden on society and a great concern" to his family by being imprisoned.

And, the former chief of staff in the Richard Nixon White House, claimed he is the target of a smear campaign by the former president.

Both men claimed legal debts totaling hundreds of thousands of dollars and each said he is sorry for what he has done.

Sirica's long and intimate involvement with the Watergate case began Sept. 15, 1972, when, as chief judge of the federal court, he was handed grand jury indictments of the seven Watergate burglars.

He tried that case and many of the others that followed, including the conspiracy trial of Mitchell, Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, the three men closest to Nixon. Ehrlichman, who began his prison sentence last year, filed for a reduction of his eight-year sentence in June. His case will be considered with the other two.

Sirica presided over most of the other big issues raised by Watergate — the question of forcing Nixon to give up his tapes, whether one tape was deliberately erased and if others were destroyed on purpose.

In those five years, Sirica has steadfastly refused to comment on any Watergate matter because of the possibility that he might yet have to render a decision on some aspect.

He has, in the past, reduced the sentences of Watergate figures John W. Dean III, Jeb Stuart Magruder, James W. McCord Jr., and Herbert W. Kalmbach.

'Back to basics' approach to mark '78-79 textbooks

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Parents will find next fall that their high school and junior high youngsters are using English textbooks very much like the ones they used in the 1950s.

Oh, there are superficial differences, such as color illustrations, from school books of the Fonzie era. But, overall, the new texts will reflect a "back to basics" approach.

The State Textbook Committee saw to that in the books they recommended to the State Board of Education last week. The board will make final adoptions Nov. 10.

Parents might love the new books, but don't expect most high school students to rave about their English composition texts. They probably mean more drudgery, more plain old hard work.

"Four out of five are basic grammar books that have the old, old diagramming you used to have in high school. They have spelling, grammar, all the basics, the way English used to be taught," said Klaus Driessen of Arlington, one of the more vocal members of the committee.

Dorothy Davidson, associate commissioner for general education in the Texas Education Agency, said the new books will be an improvement.

"We think these books will be sounder in the teaching of writing than the ones we now have. There will be more emphasis on expository writing, more controlled writing. . . . Youngsters will be writing more — we hope," Miss Davidson said.

Junior high literature anthologies will have few "controversial" selections, leaning more toward such tried and true tales as O. Henry's "The Ransom of Red Chief" and Edward Everett Hale's "The Man Without a Country."

Conservative textbook critics such as Norma Gabler of Longview aren't entirely satisfied, however, since there also are such stories as "The Monkey's Paw," "The Most Dangerous Game" and Poe's "The Telltale Heart," which they regard as too gruesome for 12- and 13-year-olds.

One book, Scott Foresman's "Counterpoint in Literature" for eighth graders should satisfy the most traditional-minded soul. It has an "American Heritage" section that includes Oliver Wendell Holmes' poem, "Old Ironsides" and Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, not to mention a section called "Our Heritage from Rome." It contains selections from Virgil's Aeneid and the story of "How Horatio Held the Bridge."

Driessen characterized the junior high anthologies as "of high literary merit. Nothing way out. No modern stories that would be questionable. No four-letter words, hells or damns."

There aren't as many selections by black authors as in the previous adoption, Miss Davidson observed.

"It is difficult to get black authors in because of the use of 'street language,' violence and subjects that are not suitable for some of our districts," she said.

She said the board had told publishers, in essence, "Texas is in a mood for more conservative material."

"This is what they gave us. It is not as experimental, not as innovative and does not give as much attention to 'cultural relevance.' But we are not returning to McGuffey's Reader and the extreme moralistic tone of years ago," Miss Davidson said.

Seventh grade Texas history books and books for elective "free enterprise" courses in high school reflect the conservatism about which she spoke. There were few protests against the history books, and the committee approved the four least controversial "free enterprise books."

This isn't to say the committee was conservative to the core.

It refused to delete an explicit chapter on "Human Sexuality" from a second-year biology text, reasoning apparently that the material wasn't too heavy for the 8,000 to 10,000 high school students who will elect to take two years of biology.

And it urged the state board to instruct publishers in the future to abandon the use of "he" when referring to someone of either sex — something for which the National Organization for Women has campaigned for years.

Miss Davidson said the board, the TEA and the textbook committee takes protestors seriously, both those from NOW and those with a "conservative" slant such as Mrs. Gabler.

But in taking a "back to basics" stance, the protests of Mrs. Gabler and those with a similar viewpoint "have not been as substantive as the hue and cry we are getting from the districts about falling test scores," she said.

Puerto Rico hit by dengue fever

ATLANTA (AP) — More than 1,700 cases of dengue fever, a viral disease transmitted by a mosquito, have been reported in Puerto Rico in the past six weeks, the national Center for Disease Control reports.

The CDC, in its weekly Morbidity and Mortality Report released Friday, said 1,744 cases of the disease had been reported as of Sept. 7. That exceeded an outbreak of the disease in Puerto Rico two years ago that affected 1,382 persons.

Dengue, transmitted by the Aedes aegypti mosquito, is characterized by a sudden onset of high fever, headache, joint and muscle pain and rash. The rash usually appears three to four days after the onset of the fever.

The disease usually is mild, but patients may experience a prolonged recovery with fatigue and depression for several weeks.

The report also said:

—No common source of infection has been identified in the six cases of Legionnaires disease reported in Columbus, Ohio, from July 29 to Aug. 29.

—Seventy-five cases of whooping cough were reported in Atlanta from April 24 to Aug. 28. No deaths occurred and 31 per cent of the cases involved babies less than five months old.

Interior walls have been removed to form one large classroom out of several smaller ones at West Elementary.

More choosing open classrooms

By KAY HORD

Five years after the open-classroom pilot programs began at Rusk and Long elementaries, the furor seems to have subsided.

"I've had some people take advantage of the transfer policy both ways," said Manuel Carrasco, director of elementary education. The policy allows parents to transfer their children into a school that has the open-classroom program or into a school with a traditional classroom situation.

"I've had more transfers in than transfers out, though," Carrasco said.

"It's really a matter of where the parent wants his child to go. I think that's very important for parents to realize. They have a choice in Midland," said Bryant Saxon, director of program development and research.

There are 919 students currently enrolled in the open classrooms at Burnet, Crockett, Long, Milam, Rusk, Washington and West elementaries.

The classroom concept involves a non-graded structure. At West Elementary School, interior walls were removed in the kindergarten and first grade classrooms, making one large room, and a large portion of two walls were removed in the second to third grade room.

According to Ann Donaldson, teacher at West, the room is structured but there is somewhat more freedom in the structure. "Because we do have so many, it takes more discipline," she said.

"The children are free to get up and move around and get what they need. In the mornings we work on language and reading, and in the afternoon we have motor development and interest centers," she said.

The four teachers and two aides working with the 5-, 6- and 7-year-olds may find themselves sitting on the floor, working in groups or working with an individual.

"It's whatever the children need," said Mrs. Donaldson. If the kids get bored we can stop and go on to something else. If we have kindergarten children who can work on the first grade level, they can, and if we have a first grader who in unable to handle first-grade work, we give them kindergarten-level work until they can handle first-grade work.

"Another advantage is that the children work together and help each other. Sometimes they pick up things from other children faster than with a teacher," she said.

Listening centers where childfen will work during the afternoons are chosen by the child. The centers reinforce language, mathematics or reading, Mrs. Donaldson said.

The language center has the child creating short stories or poems or using puppets in dramas.

"I've worked in the traditional classroom and the open-space classroom, and I prefer the open-space classroom," said Mrs. Donaldson.

"We've had very good parent attitude toward the program, and the kids have a good attitude for the most part relating to school," said West Assistant Principal Mrs. JoAnn Riggs.

Mrs. Sharon Clemow has a kindergartner in the program at West. "I think it's pretty good. The kids get more of a one-on-one situation if they need help in a particular area.

"There are a few aspects I don't care for," she said. "There's too much going on in one area. It seems too easy for a kid to get distracted, but my child likes it. And that's what's important."

A report conducted approximately three years ago by the College of Education at Texas Tech University showed that student attitude in the open-classroom situation was slightly better than the attitude of students in the traditional classroom, according to Saxon.

"The study found that academic achievement and social achievement were comparable in both situations, but the attitude of the youngsters (in the open-classroom program) seemed to be somewhat better," Saxon said.

"I don't think configuration has near as much to do with it, though, as the quality of the teacher," he said. "We have some who are doing especially well and some that are doing mediocre, and there's not much difference in the open classroom.

"When they made the report, we had some mothers presented a case with the opposite view. It seemed like we were pretty well balanced on the pros and cons," Saxon said.

"At that time, we planned to expand the program, but the board voted to keep it as it was," he said.

"I've had requests from a couple of principals who want to expand their program from kindergarten and first grade to second-third, but they have not been approved," said Carrasco.

"There are no plans to expand the program further," he said.

Hillcrest Manor sets open house

There will be an open house today from 4 to 6 p.m. at Hillcrest Manor, the city's public housing project for the elderly and handicapped.

Located at the corner of Pecos Street and Scharbauer Drive, Hillcrest Manor is a 100-unit complex that began taking renters in late August.

After the open house, there will be a 6 p.m. ribbon-cutting ceremony with representatives of the Midland Housing Authority, the city and the county on hand.

Hillcrest Manor was a $2 million project paid for with funds from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and was a result of lenghty negotiations.

Construction began on Aug. 1, 1976.

Waldschmidt fund initiated

The Bill and Gracie Waldschmidt student loan fund has been established by the Permian Basin section of the Colorado School of Mines Alumni Association.

The fund is designed to aid students from the Permian Basin attending the Colorado School of Mines and who are having financial difficulties.

Contributions or inquiries may be sent to the Colorado School of Mines Foundation, Golden, Colo., 80401, or to Larry Melzer, Box 2083, Midland.

QUEEN of the 16th of September Fiesta for 1977 is Suzanne Carrasco, escorted by Bobby Lozano. Miss Carrasco's coronation was Saturday night at the Midland County Exhibition Building.

Accused man out on bail

BIG SPRING — Big Spring resident Raul Garza was released on bond Saturday after being charged with murder in the death of Dimas Garcia, 23, of Big Spring, Big Spring police said Saturday.

Garcia's body was discovered Friday in Glasscock County. Law enforcement officers believe he had been dead several days.

Temperatures have begun drop

Although summer officially will be with us several more days, temperatures are beginning to drop a little to signify the approach of fall.

Fair skies are predicted through Monday, with a high today near 90 and a low tonight in the lower 60s. Monday's high is expected to be in the upper 80s.

Winds today and tonight should be from the south at 10 to 15 mph today and tonight, the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal said.

Partly cloudy and warm weather was reported Saturday night in Andrews, Lamesa, Crane, Stanton, Rankin and Big Spring.

Lance affair has little budget office impact

By R. GREGORY NOKES

WASHINGTON (AP) — The controversy involving Budget Director Bert Lance appears to have slowed decision-making at the White House, but apparently has had little impact at Lance's own budget office.

Officials of the Office of Management and Budget maintain they are more concerned about what might happen if Lance were to resign.

One career OMB official, who did not want to be quoted by name, assessed Lance's impact on budget decisions at the White House and declared: "It would be hard to find anyone with as much influence as Lance to speak up for us in the White House."

A chief concern of this official is that Carter's commitment to a balanced federal budget by 1981 will waver if Lance is not around to push for it, since Lance had become the chief advocate of balancing the federal budget, along with Carter.

There already are signs the administration is backing away from the commitment. Charles L. Schultze, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said in a speech last week that the administration's economic policy "is not based on putting balanced budgets ahead of everything else."

Lance has been considered as more conservative than the administration's other two top economic policymakers, Schultze and Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal. But he apparently has not been as successful in pushing his fiscal arguments since his personal finances became the center of controversy.

Lance was primarily responsible for killing Carter's $50 rebate proposal last spring, something that Schultze favored and which might well have gone into effect had not Lance blocked it.

Those who favor Lance's more conservative outlook toward economic policy are worried that his departure from the budget post would result in a shift to more liberal economic policies. They say this would give more emphasis to reducing unemployment and less to controlling inflation than the administration has heretofore given.

For the same reasons, those who favor a more liberal policy would welcome Lance's departure.

There is some evidence that Lance's problems have slowed decision-making at the White House, especially on the Carter tax reform program.

The program was supposed to be sent to Congress by the middle of September, but it has been delayed at least until the first week in October. Key decisions on changes in business taxes, designed to increase incentives for investment, had not yet been made.

Lance, who has continued to give speeches in recent weeks despite his problems, said in one speech that Carter has been presented with conflicting recommendations on how best to decide the business tax question.

But others in the administration say decisions are slower coming from the White House now than before, and the Lance controversy is the chief reason. "It's taking up time that should be spent on other things," said one official.

OMB spokesmen say the Lance affair has had little impact on OMB's budget-making operations thus far because summer is traditionally a slow time of year for the agency. Planning for the fiscal 1979 budget is under way at low levels, and has not involved Lance in the past two months.

However, they indicated that if Lance were preoccupied with his problems for too much longer, it could cause some difficulties since the director's review of agency budget requests for 1979 are scheduled to begin in early October.

French left lacking unity despite votes

By DAVID ZIMMERMAN

PARIS (AP) — For the first time in decades, the French left apparently has the votes to win power, but another essential ingredient — unity — has so far eluded the Socialists, Communists and Radical Leftists.

Recent polls have consistently given the leftist parties a combined 53 to 54 per cent of the vote in elections to the National Assembly next March. If they can weld a common front, the next French premier will come from their ranks.

But the divisions among the leftist partners run deeper than the disputes within the governing conservative-centrist front.

The three leftist parties are at odds not only over campaign promises, but the Socialists and Communists are also widely divided over basic ideological tenets. And their bickering is in full view of the voters.

The disunity was dramatized when the tiny Radical Left party walked out of a leftist summit — though not out of the alliance — last week. The meeting had been called to update the left's five-year-old "Common Program."

The walkout was a telling demonstration of how important even the Radical Left's 4 per cent would be in winning a majority. Separately, the Socialists are expected to get 30 per cent of the vote and the Communists 20.

Communist leader Georges Marchais, who promised to come to the talks "without a knife on the table," promptly accused his Radical Left counterpart, Robert Fabre, of endangering their chances to win.

Fabre said he is firmly opposed to setting up a society "slipping inevitably toward a state-dominated system or irreversible collectivism."

Socialist leader Francois Mitterrand admits the public bickering is "a situation that we highly deplore," but says the only way his party will continue discussions is if all three partners are present.

So, for the moment, unity talks are suspended.

Fabre walked out protesting Communist demands that more than 1,000 French businesses be nationalized, rather than just nine large corporations.

The Radical Leftists and Socialists also oppose Communist insistence on immediately hiking the minimum monthly wage from $360 to $440 and clamping a ceiling on executive salaries equal to five times the minimum wage.

In addition, the Socialists want a national referendum to decide how France should proceed with its civilian and military nuclear programs. The Communists insist France must maintain its nuclear strike capacity unless there is general disarmament, and that all this should be decided before the elections, not after.

Even as Marchais works for a victory that could bring Communists into the government for the first time in 30 years, he must keep one eye trained on the hard-line right wing of his own party that is suspicious of cooperation with others.

Before the summit, the Communist daily, L'Humanite, circulated six million copies of a tract slamming the Socialists and Mitterrand for advocating too moderate a stance against President Valery Giscard d'Estaing's programs.

All is not rosy either with the conservative-centrist politicians who have been running this country for 20 years, despite the fact that they publicly signed a joint political platform the same day the leftist alliance began unraveling.

The platform contains little more than ethereal campaign principles, which fail to mask differences between Jacques Chirac's Gaullist Rally for the Republic, the largest majority party, and the center-right Republican party of Giscard d'Estaing.

Chirac accuses Giscard d'Estaing of not moving forcefully enough to block Socialist-Communist advances. But Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber of the tiny Radical party says Chirac is "demagogic" and short-sighted, and that the Radicals and other groups within the majority will run candidates against Chirac's choices in March.

Servan-Schreiber's main complaint is that Chirac is concentrating solely on the leftist threat and disregarding the main issue — the economic problems facing France.

Giscard d'Estaing, whose term runs until 1981, remains president even if the left wins a majority in the assembly. But the new premier would probably be chosen from the dominant Socialist party, creating instant friction.

The constitutional arrangement designed by the late Charles de Gaulle presupposed that the president and premier would be from the same party. But neither office is clearly dominant and there is no provision for a president and premier who see things differently.

Dayan makes unscheduled stop in Paris, goes home

PARIS (AP) — Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan, scheduled to travel to the United States this weekend, made a surprise stop in Paris for several hours Saturday and then unexpectedly flew back to Israel on an El Al flight, the Israeli Embassy in Paris said.

An embassy spokesman said he was unable to explain why Dayan came to the French capital, but he denied rumors that the foreign minister stopped over for a secret Middle East peace meeting. The spokesman said Dayan spent several hours in a hotel here.

Israeli radio reported earlier that Dayan had flown from Paris to New York for next week's crucial talks on the Arab-Israeli standoff in the Mideast. Before that, it had been reported from Brussels that he left the Belgian capital on a Sabena flight for New York.

The Israeli minister was expected to meet with President Carter and Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance early this week and later to take part in indirect, Vance-mediated negotiations with Arab statesmen.

Dayan had flown to Brussels Thursday for meetings with European Jews, Common Market officials and Israeli ambassadors in Europe.

Israeli radio said security considerations were the official reason given for Dayan's not flying to New York on Friday as scheduled. His wife, Rachel, flew to New York from Brussels Friday night.

Israeli Foreign Ministry spokesmen had no immediate explanation for the new change in travel plans.

1978 political picture takes shape rapidly

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Although filing deadlines for Texas politicians are almost five months off, Texas voters are beginning to get an idea what the 1978 ballots will look like.

From recent and expected announcements, it's apparent the big race of the Democratic primary will be for the governor's chair, followed closely by an intraparty tussle for the U.S. Senate nomination.

In November, attention will switch to the U.S. Senate race when the Democratic challenger tries to take away Sen. John Tower's job.

The general election also may feature a strong two-party race for governor and maybe even an unusual Democratic-Republican contest for auttorney general.

The Democratic race for governor fills out Monday when Atty. Gen. John Hill holds four news conferences over the state to make his long-awaited announcement that he will challenge Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

Briscoe announced for a third term back in June and has a million-dollar campaign well underway. He's predicting he will win without a runoff.

Former Gov. Preston Smith brought up the runoff talk when he got in the governor's race last week with a special bid for rural conservative voters.

Retiring State GOP Chairman Ray Hutchison says he will represent Texas Republicans in the governor's race if he can raise the $600,000 grubstake needed for a real general election campaign.

Two Democrats are in a hot race for the U.S. Senate nomination although only one has announced formally. Rep. Bob Krueger, D-Tex., let his intentions be known last July 4th and has been on the road since. Joe Christie, former State Insurance Board chairman, plans an announcement in October, possibly at an Oct. 18 fund-raiser party in Austin. Dallas attorney Barefoot Sanders decided not to get in the race on Aug. 3 after much soul-searching.

Tower, who succeeded Lyndon B. Johnson as a Texas senator in 1961, says it will be January before his official announcement, although he spends every spare moment traveling in Texas.

Former Texas House speaker Price Daniel Jr. started off the attorney general's race this month with a four-city announcement party similar to the one planned by Hill. However, Daniel denied he would be teaming up with Hill in the primaries.

Secretary of State Mark White has traveled extensively in recent months but has not given a defenite decision yet on the attorney general's race.

Houston attorney Jim Baker, a campaign director for former President Gerald Ford, is being urged to make the GOP try.

Another Democratic primary contest will be for state agriculture commissioner. Rep. Joe Hubenak, D-Rosenberg, is already off and running. Reagan Brown, former Briscoe assistant who was appointed to succeed U.S. deputy secretary John White, plans to announce formally about Thanksgiving.

Former Congressman Bob Price is considering the race for the Republicans.

So far, there is only one announced candidate for state treasurer and he is a Republican, Houston oil engineer Don Johnson. However, there likely will be plenty of Democratic opposition later.

State Treasurer Jesse James, 72, who has been in ill health for some time, has made no announcement but has told friends he will be seeking another term on top of the 36 years already served.

Lowell Lebermann, former Austin city councilman, has a campaign organization formed and apparently is waiting to hear from James before making an announcement.

Three statewide elected Democratic officials appear to be headed for little or no opposition in either the primaries or the general election.

Comptroller Bob Bullock gave up any ideas of a 1978 governors race long ago and announced for re-election. He is a strong supporter of Briscoe.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby also gave up earlier plans for a 1978 governor's race and plans to seek re-election.

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong also has no opposition in sight for another term.

785 'boat people' stranded in Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese shores meant hope for many Vietnamese who fled their homeland in small boats after the 1975 Communist victory, but it has been a hope unrealized.

After months and even years of waiting, they still do not know where to go. They know they cannot settle here.

There now are 785 "boat people" from Vietnam in Japan, waiting for the United Nations High Commission for Refugees (UNHCR) to find a country that will take them. Earlier, 340 left for the United States, Canada, France, Switzerland, Paraguay, Australia and other countries.

The Japanese government did not sign the 1951 convention relating to the status of refugees. It permits them entry on a temporary basis only, and then only when they are picked up at sea by a Japanese ship or by a ship whose country of registration makes guarantees for them.

There is no government organization in Japan responsible for refugees. The U.N. commission has an office in Tokyo consisting of two full-time employes and one part-time worker. It is charged with housing, feeding and finding a country that will take the temporary visitors off Japanese soil.

Many of the refugees who reached Japan after South Vietnam fell in April 1975 have come to like this country, its peoples, and some have learned its language.

But government policy is firm: none will be permitted to remain here on a permanent basis.

For their first few months, or until they've mastered some of the language, the refugees are confined to religious-run dormitories in outlying areas. They cannot take jobs, and their children cannot go to Japanese schools.

Each refugee is given 900 yen (about $3.35) a day for food, a sum that will buy a moderate lunch at most restaurants, but can be stretched to cover three meals if shopping and cooking are done communally.

Officials maintain Japan is not being unduly severe toward the Vietnamese refugees, but acts in the context of its overall immigration policy.

'In a dream world'

The Carter Administration's national energy plan, now awaiting Senate action, will fail to meet its 1985 target for energy consumption and production unless some major revisions are made.

This sounds like a statement which might have been made by a West Texas oilman — but it is the comment of three University of Texas scholars who have examined the proposal.

The energy plan will produce a shortfall by 1985 that could lead to U.S. oil import requirements more than double those of President Carter's objective of 7 million barrels per day, states a study published last week by the UT Council on Energy Resources.

Dr. William L. Fisher, Dr. Walt W. Rostow and Dr. Herbert Woodson, spokesmen for the study, said their findings do not represent an official position of The University of Texas.

But they didn't hesitate to spell out the results of the study as their own position in the matter. Their factual findings form an excellent official position for most any institution or organization, insofar as we are concerned.

Dr. Fisher, director of the Bureau of Economic Geology and chairman of the Council on Energy Resources, outlined other objections to the energy bill which passed the House earlier this summer.

The distinguished geologist said that while reserves and resources of oil and natural gas in the United States are sufficient to meet the plan's production target, its pricing policy is not.

This very definitely is one of the plan's major faults and, as Dr. Fisher said, the House bill will not generate sufficient cash flow to sustain the massive drilling effort required to meet the energy plan's goals for oil and gas production.

He predicted exploration and development expenditures 40 to 50 per cent greater than those set forth in the House bill are needed to meet the proposal's goals.

The three scholars call for the deregulation of new natural gas and a tax on excess profits to supplement the proposed well-head tax.

Dr. Rostow, professor of economics and history at the university, said, "The marginal cost of getting energy is high. How much longer are we going to live in a dream world?"

This is a very good question — one which should be put to President Carter and his energy advisers, as well as to every House member who voted for the Carter energy package. It also should be directed to members of the Senate as they prepare to vote on the measure.

Yes, how much longer are we going to live in a dream world?

Dr. Rostow suggested the creation of regional development banks to help spur investment in some areas of energy development now considered too risky.

Such banks, which could be set up by any three contiguous states, would have equity funding from a combination of state and private sources and federally guaranteed bonds, Dr. Rostow explained.

Dr. Rostow and Dr. Fisher said such accelerated investment could boost employment and expand energy production into new regions of the country.

Dr. Woodson, director of UT's Center for Energy Studies, criticized, and justly so, administration provisions which restrict faster development of nuclear energy.

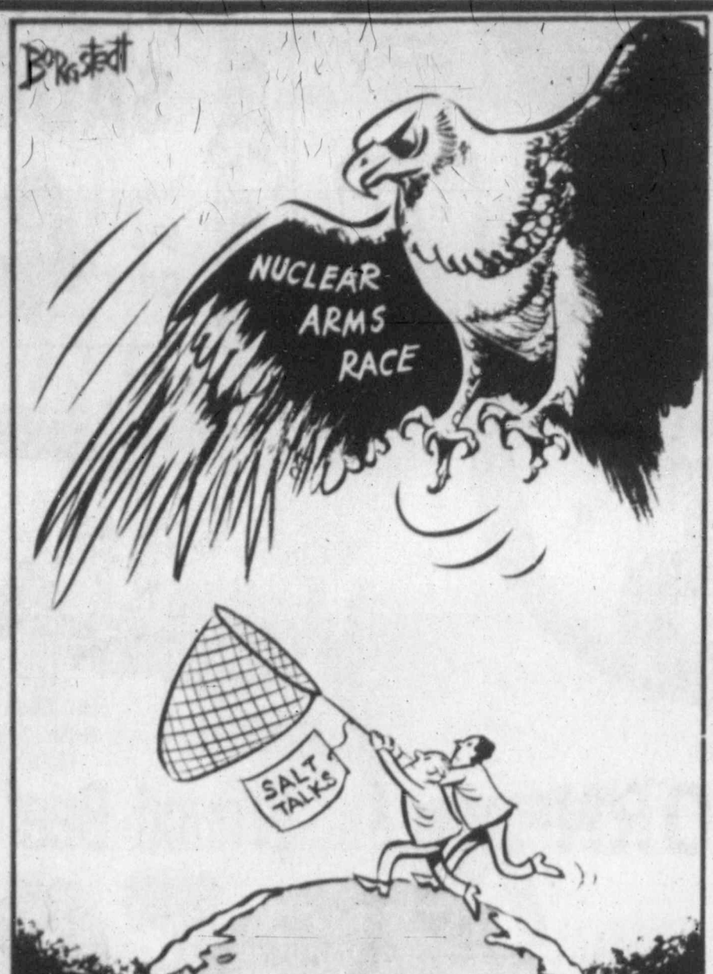

"There is a strong body of opinion that without decreasing the safety of nuclear plants we can decrease lead time (for licensing and building nuclear power plants)," Dr. Woodson emphasized. "It is right now overly long because of red tape."

Mr. Carter would do well to give serious consideration to the study made by the three distinguished scholars of The University of Texas instead of listening exclusively to his present advisers, most of whom perhaps never will be as well versed in energy matters as are the three Texans.

Meanwhile, let's give our attention to the Senate, which can and hopefully will erase some of the energy plan's most obnoxious provisions.

HEMISPHERE REPORT:

Quiet diplomacy is preferred by Latins

By WILLIAM GIANDONI
Copley News Service

William Giandoni

Latin Americans think that there is a struggle going on in Washington over U.S. policy toward the hemisphere republics.

As some see it, there are two forces at work within President Jimmy Carter's State Department.

One, in the view of the prestigious Brazilian daily, O Estado, of Sao Paulo, is the group personified by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance; the other, headed by Ambassador to the United Nations Andy Young.

Vance represents those who "seek to conduct U.S. foreign policy professionally, without Young's idealistic and diplomatically unorthodox outbursts.

"For Vance and his advisers, diplomacy must be understood primarily as a field in which one must act cooly, based on reason, without taking into account pretty words and actions based on idealism," O Estado said.

"Young's group thinks and acts according to different principles. This group conveys much of Carter's messianism and, considering the freedom with which it acts, it is clear that it is supported by the President himself."

Most Latin American countries prefer the more traditional, professional approach to inter-American relations, over that of the missionaries who pay them 24-hour visits to preach the latest word from Washington.

Mexico, Chile, Argentina and Brazil have all made that clear recently.

Mexicans let it be known that they found Young's quick trip to their country something less than necessary.

Brazil asked the United States to postpone the visit of Ambassador Allard Lowenstein, one of Young's assistants in the U.S. delegation to the United Nations, until early next year.

At the same time, approval was expressed in both Argentina and Chile of the quiet diplomacy practiced by Terence Todman, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, during his swing around the Southern Cone.

Of course, the newspaper El Mercurio, of Santiago, did point out that the steady stream through Chile of U.S. diplomats and members of Congress was reminiscent of the early 1960s when President Kennedy was bringing pressure on Latin America in favor of his Alliance for Progress.

El Mercurio likened President Carter's human rights campaign to the Alliance and said that "like the Alliance, it is a penetration in the internal sphere of sovereign nations, that is not limited to demanding respect for the rights of man but which also interests itself in the political decisions of the countries and urges them to follow the road that seems most adequate to the North American experts."

Generally, though, Chileans were heartened by Todman's statements to the effect that Chile's image abroad has often been distorted and that Communist Cuba is one of the worst violafors of human rights.

However, as Brazilians see it, Todman, a career diplomat, is the prime target of liberal-leftist groups in Washington and his future is not certain.

O Estado recalled that one of the Washington pressure groups, the Council on Hemispheric Affairs (COHA), which has received financing from the United Auto Workers, had been backing a UAW official for the position that Todman eventually obtained. COHA has been the principal critic of Todman.

However, O Estado reported that Todman's "first contacts with the Brazilian government elicited favorable reactions. He is regarded as a diplomat who knows how to say unpleasant things without creating discomfort, always leaving an escape door open to the other party."

Although the Brazilians do not sound optimistic about Todman's future, they are encouraged by reports of Secretary Vance's plans to visit their country in October.

Their reasoning is that Vance would not hazard such a trip to Brazil were "the White House to be taken over by a group of inexperienced or impractical leftists," as the Rio de Janeiro daily, Jornal do Brasil, said is the fear in some Latin circles.

INSIDE REPORT:

Carter's deepening troubles cited

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

Evans

Novak

WASHINGTON — The possibility that Alice Rivlin may be Bert Lance's replacement as budget director is one clue that his departure from the Washington scene, now fervently desired even by his old friends, will by no means end President Carter's deepening troubles.

Economist Rivlin, director of the Congressional Budget Office, is being pushed for the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) by Congressmen and labor leaders convinced that only dramatically increased federal spending can save the faltering economy. The end of Lance, they feel, is a golden opportunity for somebody — Mrs. Rivlin, say — less committed to a balanced budget. Lance has vigorously championed the business community's view that opening the federal spending taps invites disaster.

Not only will the coming economic-political crisis be more difficult for the President to handle without Lance, but he may have to do it in a political atmosphere polluted with suspicion and accusations. The President's mishandling of the Lance affair has whetted post-Watergate blood lust with talk of other coverups and claims that the Carter presidency is permanently tainted.

Lance feels the certainty of his departure may be a shade premature at this writing. "You won't believe this," he told a colleague early this week, "but I'm going to win this fight." However, nobody at the White House believes that, and one insider personally close to Lance puts it this way: "The President will fire him if he doesn't quit."

Assuming Lance is a goner, Mr. Carter must immediately face economic problems of a kind uncongenial to Presidents.

A mythology has originated among the administration's middle-level officials and spread into the press: the reason for the soggy, sluggish economy is Lance's sucessful opposition to an individual tax rebate and heavy federal spending.

With Lance partially immobilized the last six weeks, the spenders have attacked. The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) is pushing a new budget whose excess over Lance's ceiling, in the words of one OMB official, is "one of the biggest people here have ever seen."

This may merely reflect the strong-willed Patricia Roberts Harris, Secretary of HUD, but the implications are wider. With Lance no longer the watchdog, HUD is coming up with spending figures that — if duplicated throughout the government — would transform Carter economic policy. Other departments will be watching closely.

Obviously, the ultimate success of Mrs. Harris and her colleagues will be significantly influenced if not determined by who succeeds Lance. Mrs. Rivlin is the choice of both the bureaucracy and Capitol Hill and has substantial support in the Treasury. White House aides report that Robert Strauss, the President's trade negotiator, strongly opposes that selection. But the political push will be toward a more permissive voice at OMB, whether Mrs. Rivlin or not.

Indeed, that push is so strong that key Democratic operatives are certain that an un-Lanced administration will forsake a balanced budget and go on a spending binge before the 1978 election. But how to camouflage such a program to make it faintly palatable to the business community?

Some staffers at the White House and Treasury think a moderate "incomes policy" — wage and price guideposts — may be the answer. But here the camouflage may be worse than what it hides. Besides, Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal is adamantly opposed to guideposts.

A more realistic camouflage would be retaining Dr. Arthur Burns for another two years after his term as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board expires next January. There was no chance whatever of Burns's reappointment until the Lance affair; now, the White House is at least considering keeping Burns on as a reassurance to business that will be all the more necessary if the spenders take over here.

To Bert Lance and business-oriented economists, the worst of all possible worlds beckons: heavy spending that will not cure unemployment while a compensatory tight money policy at the Fed conducted by Burns drives up interest rates and depresses the bond market. Blumenthal and Strauss, rivals who have been at odds with each other, are the only administration officials who might avert this course.

Fiddling over the Panama Canal while the economy threatens to burn, Jimmy Carter has shied away from the difficult questions of money. But what has been unpleasant up to now may become impossible when, having drawn first blood, the wolves descend on Mr. Carter determined not to let the Lance affair end so quickly.

NICK THIMMESCH

A deserved moment for Charles Percy of Illinois

Nick Thimmesch

WASHINGTON — Charles Harting Percy, the senior senator from Illinois, is a fellow Fortune smiles on regularly, but only after he toils for his reward.

This certainly is true now that Percy has triumphed in the Bert Lance case and finds himself in the enviable role of being slandered by the Carter White House. Republicans and most of the knowing public now salute Percy for persevering on Lance to the point of causing excruciating pain to Jimmy Carter.

"We tried in every way to avoid this," Percy, the ranking Republican in the Senate investigation of Lance, told me in his office last week. "I told the President there was more important work to do, that I didn't come to the Senate to be engulfed in investigations like this.

"But the President decided to let it drag on, and let Bert Lance have his day in court. So now the White House is engulfed in it, too.

"This experience has raised serious questions in my mind about the operation of the White House and its top team. I do not feel that the vast improvement we looked for in the White House is there.

"We were deceived by the White House, whether by intention or by ignorance — I don't know. The luster is off, and the heavenly wings have been clipped.

"I didn't want to see it go this way. After Watergate, it is the last thing we needed. We hoped the Congress and the Executive would be impeccable in their dealings. The country has been let down too much.

"When the Presidency is hurt, we're all hurt. We're diverted from important problems by the Lance investigation, and now we're diverted again by the (Jody) Powell episode."

Percy claims he and his colleagues should be focusing on questions like the budget, inflation, nuclear proliferation, the Panama Canal, SALT negotiations and world economic recovery.

"Along comes Lance and the Kansas City flood and wipes all these out," he says solemnly.

Percy and Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, chairman of the Senate Government Affairs Committee, are proposing creation of a Senate Office on Nominations which would collect and evaluate information on presidential nominees who must be confirmed by committees. The hope would be that this office would relieve Senate committees of the hurry-up chore of checking nominees out, and thus prevent future Lance cases.

Percy came off as a bulldog in the new hearings on Lance partly because of his own 28 years in business and in dealing with bankers. Percy knows what "inside" banking is, didn't detect it in the Lance situation earlier this year, but certainly spotted it this summer.

Percy has childhood memories of what banking tribulations can mean. His father was the prosperous official of a bank when the stock market crashed and the depression of the Thirties hit.

The bank went broke, and Percy's father used his own savings to pay off depositors. The Percy family became impoverished, was forced to move to a smaller house, had its electric power and telephone turned off. Percy's father was reduced to a job as night clerk in a cheap hotel, and the family went on relief for a short time.

Ah, that's when Charles H. Percy began his celebrated climb, selling his mother's cookies door-to-door, then succeeding as a $10,000-a-year entrepreneur in college days ("I could hardly afford to graduate") and finally becoming the boy president (he was 29) of Bell and Howell.

He had breaks at Bell and Howell, but he worked for them, and he had breaks in politics, but he had to struggle before being elected through a losing gubernatorial campaign in 1964 to senator in 1966. He easily was re-elected in 1972, and there's no reason to think he won't run agagin in 1978.

There are occasional mutterings in this town that Jimmy Carter, given the pedestal he put himself on in the past year, might readily topple, and that means a one-term Presidency. Naturally, that is of special interest to Republican aspirants.

"No," he says when asked that question, "1976 was my year for President. But the Nixon-Ford phenomenon eliminated it. I have absolutely no thoughts about 1980."

Maybe, as Sen. Ribicoff observed this week, "after Nov. 1, Bert Lance will be a footnote in political history." For the moment, however, Charles H. Percy must be grouped with the other Republicans mentioned for the big try in 1980.

Mark Russell says

Reporter: I'd like to ask a question about Rhodesia.

Jody Powell: Thank God. Finally a question about something besides Bert Lance.

What is your question?

Reporter: Does Bert Lance have a bank in Rhodesia?

Parking space dilemma

WASHINGTON — As the fall college term is about to begin, faculty members in every part of the country are asking the same question: "'Will I get a decent parking space at my school this year'?"

It is not generally known outside of academic circles, but most professors are more concerned with their place in the Reserved Faculty parking lot than they are with any of the educational problems they have to deal with during the school term.

One of the reasons for this is that a faculty member's standing at his or her university is usually based on where the professor is assigned to park.

I heard of a tragic story that took place the other day at a leading Eastern university. A professor, I shall call him Rubloff, came back to school to discover that he had been assigned to Faculty Parking Lot B, which was 1,500 yards from the Administration Building. For five years, Rubloff had a space reserved for him in Faculty Parking Lot A, which was only 100 yards from the Ad Building. He couldn't believe it, so he immediately demanded an appointment with the chancellor of the university.

"I want to know why I've been placed in Parking Lot B when I've always parked in Lot A," Rubloff said.

The chancellor said, "It was not my decision, Rubloff. As you know, we have a Faculty Parking Lot Committee, and they make all the assignments."

"On the basis of my seniority, I have the right to keep my car in Parking Lot A."

"That's true," the chancellor said. "But seniority no longer plays a role in parking lot assignments."

"That's ridiculous," Rubloff said. "What other standard can be used?"

The chancellor said wearily, "We've had to change the criteria. It seems most of the women faculty members found they had to park in Lot B. The Women's Faculty Caucus demanded equal parking privileges with the men. They said if they didn't get it they would sue the school. We had no choice but to change the system of assigning places. I'm sure you'll be very happy in Parking Lot B. The longer walk will be good for your health."

"But why me? I notice Seagram is still in Parking Lot A and so is Teetotaler. They got their tenure three years after I did."

"If you want me to be frank with you, Rubloff, the committee discovered you hadn't written a scientific paper in several years. They felt you're more interested in writing letters to the New York Times than you are in furthering your academic research. There was also the question of the unfavorable book review you wrote on Professor Carstairs' 'Root Canal Work of the 14th Century.' Carstairs is chairman of the Faculty Parking Committee."

"So that's it," Rubloff shouted. "Carstairs is getting back at me for saying his book had no bite to it. I stand by my review."

"And Carstairs stands by your parking lot assignment."

"Don't you realize what you're doing to my academic standing?" Rubloff asked. "When the students find out they have a professor relegated to Parking Lot B they'll laugh me out of the classroom. Those kids can be cruel when they want to be."

"Rubloff," said the chancellor, "if it were up to me you could have my reserved parking place which is covered and also up against the building. But I'm only the chancellor, and I cannot interfere in faculty parking matters. Your peers are the only ones who can decide what kind of sticker to put on your car."

"Don't I have a right of appeal?"

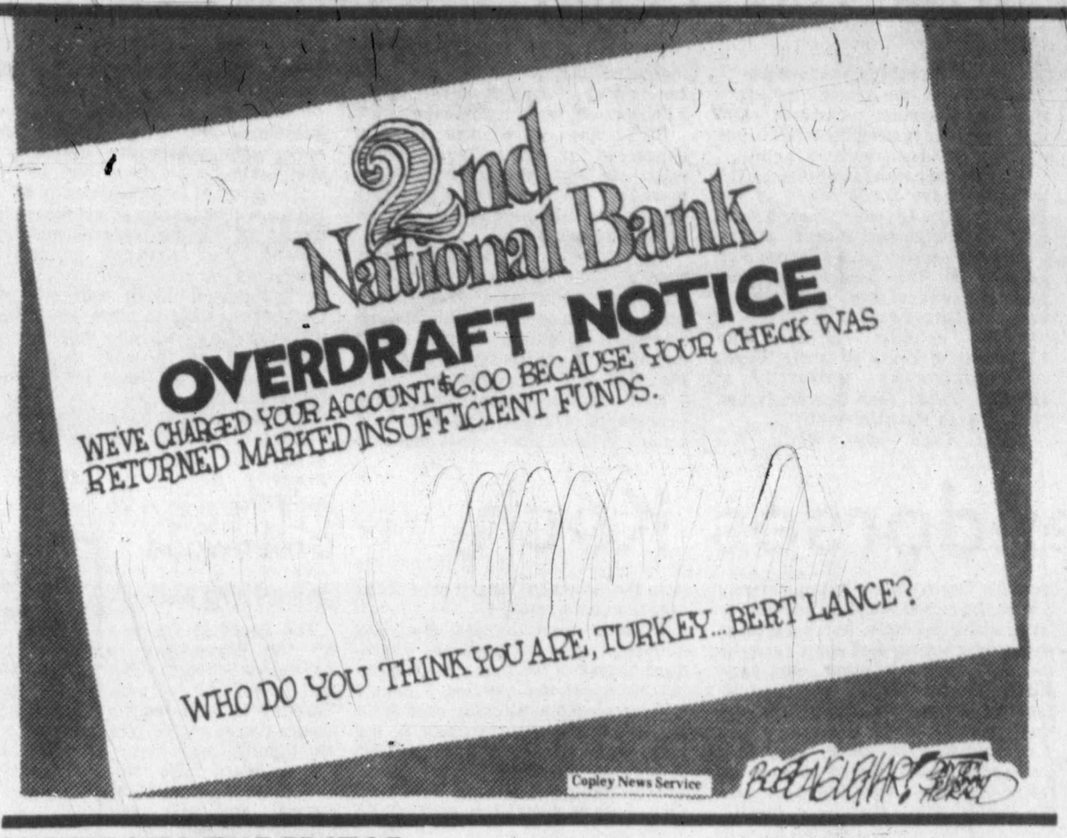

"It's too late for this term. Your place has been given to Dr. Mary Ogelthorpe."

"But she's only an associate professor."

"She also happens to be in charge of the Faculty Tow Truck Pool."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Greenwood great

To The Editor:

Many people have felt that it is their place to tell how unfair Greenwood School is, many of these people don't have kids going to Greenwood, and probably have never toured the school, never talked to the kids, and never talked to the faculty.

As a parent who has had children attending Greenwood from 1968 to 1977, two graduates (we didn't have a high school in time for my first two) I think my children got the best education possible. Greenwood has top academic ratings and outstanding athletic programs and I credit this to the good work of our school board. I have voted for them before and would do so again.

Mrs. Roy Brewer

Who's to blame?

To The Editor:

Mr. Thomas Flournoy in his letter of September 11, 1977, surmises that he has no authority to vote YES for the hospital bond as to do so would place a burden on the shoulders of his neighbor, a burden the neighbor might not want.

Well maybe he has a point. Thomas, are you the guy that saddled me with Peanuts Carter?

Paul is OK

To The Editor:

I think it is about time someone came out in support of Paul Domowitch. The poor fellow has been dragged through every mud hole in town. The letter from Mrs. Luttrell in Sunday's paper was good for a hearty chuckle if nothing else.

Mrs. Luttrell, if you're going to knock someone, at least have the courtesy to spell their name properly. Domowitch is right, you know. Friday night football doesn't exactly rank up their with starving kids in India, or a flood that wipes out half a town. The unfortunate part is that too many people think it is.

There is simply too much preasure on winning a game. And don't lecture me on how football is like the game of life — that's a bunch of hooey. High school football should be no more than a game — something to keep the kids occupied. In college and the pros it becomes a job, but not in high school, for goodness sakes!

I used to stay as far away from a Paul Domowitch article as possible, but I have read the last few concerning Lee, District 5-4A and the UIL and have gained a new respect for him. He has proven he can write good prose without four letter words in every sentence.

In my personal postscript to the editor, I'll say that I don't really care if this letter is printed or not, so I will not resort to blackmail. I will not send copies to Jack Cowan, Max Howard or the school board. Just tell Domowitch that there is at least one person in town who is not going to set fire to him.

Thank you for your time.

POSITIVE THINKING

How to make your dreams come true

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

A friend of mine became one of America's outstanding public speakers. He could not possibly accept all the speaking engagements offered but when he did speak, his audience was always spellbound by his eloquence.

Few people know that this man, as a boy, could not utter a complete sentence. He stuttered so badly that he could not talk in school; instead, he wrote his lessons in a notebook or on the blackboard. Other boys would annoy him in baseball games by calling him out when he was really safe. They wanted to hear him stutter.

He knew exactly what he wanted to say, but the words piled up below his throat and left him mute. He became the butt of the unthinking, childish cruelty of his friends. As a result, he was underweight, extremely nervous and vastly over-sensitive.

One Sunday afternoon, he went to a meeting at a Y.M.C.A. in Chicago to hear the late Sen. Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana. The senator was one of the most famous orators of his day and, on that particular occasion, he was trying to teach the boys in his audience one of the greatest lessons of this life — how to have confidence in themselves.

"Until this very day," says my friend, "I can close my eyes and see the senator standing there with his finger pointed straight at me as he said, 'Young man, there isn't a thing in the world you can't do if you believe you can.'"

To this nervous, unhappy, stuttering lad in the audience that day, it seemed that the finger was pointed directly at him and that the words were meant especially for him. And, for the first time, he actually believed he might overcome the handicap that had made life so miserable for him.

That night, at home, he told his mother about the new hope that had been born within him. She was a very wise woman and, from her own experience, knew something of the heartbreak that comes from over-expectation, so she said gently: "Be patient, son."

The boy, deeply stirred, knelt by his bed that night with the first real feeling he had ever had that God understands. To his astonishment, when he started to pray out loud, he hardly stuttered at all. It was a tumultuous outpouring of his deep inner feelings, and he says, "I felt then, and I feel now, that my prayer went straight to the heart of God."

But no miracle happened. He still stuttered and the other kids still laughed at him. However, something inside him seemed to have changed. For on that day he stood up and talked straight out in class, struggling hard and refusing to give up. He took courage because he seemed to hear the voice of the senator saying, "Have faith," and the voice of his mother adding, "Be patient."

Then he read about a great Greek orator named Demosthenes who was said to have overcome a speech impediment by speaking with pebbles in his mouth. For days after that, he went to the windy shores of Lake Michigan, his mouth filled with small stones, trying to speak. He tried again and again, using a few pebbles each day, falling on his knees in desperation and crying out, "Oh, God, please let me talk."

He says, "I think God must have listened to my words and known the pain and hunger in my heart, for one day, as I knelt, a calm came over me and I knew I would win this battle. I knew that my dreams would come true if I continued to believe in God and in myself."

Years of effort followed. He took lessons in public speaking and worked and struggled and prayed and believed. Then, one day, he was able to make a complete speech and was applauded by his audience. That was one of the happiest days of his life. His voice has never failed since. He has continued to make speeches whenever the opportunity offers, telling people how they can overcome every difficulty if only they will believe in God and have confidence in themselves.

When I asked him how he explained his success in making his great dream come true, he answered, "When we adapt ourselves to God's laws, changes occur within ourselves that seem miraculous."

AUSTIN NOTEBOOK

1978 governor's race taking shape

By BILL KIDD
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Some possiblities hardened into certainties over the past week as far as the 1978 gubernatorial sweepstakes are concerned — but the overall picture remains as murky, or more so, as before.

Former Gov. Preston Smith ended whatever suspense there was on his political plans by making his announcement by mail — leaving reporters wondering if they should send their questions to him by postcard (at the time Smith's announcement was arriving on editors' desks, his Austin campaign office had offices but no telephones).

State GOP Chairman Ray Hutchison called a press conference to announce his desire to get back into public service, too, so he's leaving the party chair to do just that.

"Hutch" will be making the race on the GOP side; hints to that effect have been circulating through various rumor mills for months (as was true of Smith also).

Attorney General John Hill had a reception at Austin's municipal auditorium; his announcement is due any time.

And "the present governor" (as Hill likes to call Dolph Briscoe) held a press conference — a sort of "showing the flag" to the political insurgents around the Capitol and in the hinterlands.

Everyone now, naturally, is trying to decide just what effect the various factors in the political equation will have, come voting day.

Smith is expected to take some six per cent of the vote (by estimates from aides to other gubernatorial contenders) but whether he'll help or hurt John Hill in the Democratic primary is the big question.

Two schools of thought exist on that matter.

One holds Smith may strip away some conservative votes from Briscoe.

Another, holds Smith will strip away some protest votes from Hill.

One observer feels some liberals may vote for Smith to tell Hill he's not liberal enough for them.

And Smith should get some votes from people who just want to vote for Smith (after all, they did that several times in the past).

Just how many votes Smith gets may depend on such matters of chance as where his name falls on the ballot — and what the weather is like on primary day.

Hutchison may attract some conservatives who otherwise would be voting for Briscoe, but unless the Dallas bond attorney gets some opposition, the GOP primary likely will be a ho-hum affair.

Some opposition among the Republicans is possible, of course, and former Gov. John Conally reportedly has been working to stir up some interest there.

Rumor has it the GOP would like to see former Ambassador to Great Britain Anne Armstrong in that gubernatorial race — which would provide for a lively primary.

Nor would Mrs. Armstrong be an opponent Briscoe could simply ignore (as he more or less did with his last woman opponent).

But it was Smith's entry that created the most speculation on causes and effects in political circles this week.

Smith himself put his decision on the basis of wanting to serve the state again, but that explanation wasn't acceptable to most observers around the rotunda.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Point proven

To The Editor:

It was considerate of Mrs. Don Luttrell to write you to help prove Paul Domowitch's point, that high school football is dominated by rabid adults living out their fantasies through their children, while ruining the game for the kids themselves. Her 650 words certainly illustrate the type of adults he — and I — deplore!

It is a shame that she does not understand the difference between reporting a sports event in a news story, and expressing an opinion in a signed column, but it is amusing that she refers to Jack Cowan, an excellent writer, who has expressed much the same sentiments in his column. Cowan's most telling remark was to the effect that he believed Coach Acree actually did not know the rules, because no one would be stupid enough to violate them on TV, but that someone being paid a very good salary to do nothing more than teach a game to children had damn well better know the rules!

Mrs. Luttrell implies Paul accused someone of stealing the TV film, but on rereading his excellent column, I find he actually said, "reproducing private tapes without permission." Is this not exactly what Mrs. Luttrell admits was done?

Mrs. Luttrell complains that Paul did not consult her before writing his column, certainly an oversight on his part — but then he didn't consult me, either, and I forgave him that transgression immediately.

Joe Hathaway

P.S. Mrs. Luttrell will note that I've taken care to spell her name correctly, a courtesy she did not extend to Mr. Domowitch.

Principles misplaced

To The Editor:

On Tuesday, September 13, I attended a West Texas Geological Society meeting at the Hilton Hotel and heard Mayor Angelo speak on the state of the city. It was an interesting speech. I learned that the city is in great financial shape; improvement projects abound.

Later in the day I discovered that Mayor Angelo and three other Midland City Council members voted to refuse nearly a million dollars in federal money because $66,000 (14.3 per cent) of it would have been used for rent subsidy. This million-dollar federal grant primarily went to help the disadvantaged and elderly of Midland, and was predominantly used on the south and east sides of Midland. And apparently the mayor and the council have turned away this grant because the principle of rent subsidy and the large welfare state it symbolizes galls their collective sense of morality.

Too much government interference, they say. The federal government is not our brother's keeper, they say; we should be our brother's keeper. A fine principle, a Christian principle.

If they and the westside of Midland really believed that fine, upstanding Christian brother's keeper business, then Chicanos in this city would not have been denied admittance to local restaurants, little black girls would be able to take ballet lessons with little white girls, school facilities on the southeast corner of town would resemble schools in the lily-white, manicured-lawn northwest quarter, all the Midland streets would be paved. Don't be naive. Government money is essential to improve the quality of life east of Big Spring Street.

They state that "a vote against HUD's domination is not a vote against the poor of our community." They should have grown up dark skinned in a two room shack on a gravel road, with those "Tall City" skyscrapers looming over their shoulder. They should have been raised on pinto beans and burritos, and grown up realizing that those young white folks sit at their desks and make ten times as much money as you ever will, in your peak earning year. Then I don't think they would quibble over principles. Put the shoe on the other foot. It might pinch a little — but Midland might have its federal grant.

Mary Van Der Loop

A volunteer

To The Editor:

In recent months, a small amount of oil and a lot of gravel has been scattered on the streets in the north central part of the city, mostly at intersections. This spot treatment may have something to do with proper maintenance which our streets surely need.

There are, however, locations of excessive amounts of gravel dumped by city trucks or accumulated by passing traffic. These mounds of gravel are wasteful and dangerous.

I would like to volunteer my services to chauffeur an inspector around on the back of my motorcycle to check on this situation. The inspector will know where the excess gravel is when (a) the motorcycle skids and we crash, or (b) when a passing car throws gravel in our face, or (c) when we almost crash and I curse in a loud voice.

If we survive the survey, the excess gravel could be swept up and used in other parts of the city, thereby rendering our streets more safe and saving taxpayer money. Wouldn't that be a switch?

Agitators vocal

To The Editor:

Congratulations to the Greenwood School Board members for enforcing the dress code rules.

One might assume they are self-appointed dictators after reading Mr. Nelson's letter of Sept. 11. But they aren't. They were selected by a majority. Their opposition who ran against them held the same views.

I have talked to many people in the Midland school district, most say they wish Midland schools would adopt the same dress codes and enforce them.

There are too many agitators writing letters to the editor who don't live in the Greenwood school district and certainly don't know what they are talking about. One critic went as far as to say there are no "minorities" in Greenwood. How true! They are all young American kids. No one is shown any special privileges.

I haven't seen any minorities there at all. However, you may have been talking about different colors, races, religion etc. Well, there sure is different colors and races there. The kids don't seem to know the difference. They all play, eat and study together. (One race doesn't gang up and fight the other race as they do in the Midland schools). As far as religion, the kids there have just about every kind of religious preference I know of. Some have none. Greenwood is not a one-religion private school. It never has been.

Most all of the old-timers around Greenwood will give you the shirt off their back and food off their table if you are in need of it. If your house burns down they'll help build it back and if you're short on money to do so, they'll help here also. How many of you people who love to criticize so much would do the same?

The Nelson's seem to be the type of people who wouldn't be satisfied if they succeeded in getting the hair code rule changed. There would be something else to go against the grain.

As for Marshall W. Wilburn, he doesn't know what he's talking about. I have never read such a gob of nothing. The only dirt is in his mind. His pencil writes and his brain idles.

If Greenwood is so bad, how come the residents of Valley View Community voted 100 per cent for to annex with Greenwood school district a few years ago? Of course, Midland schools would not let Valley View do this.

How can the children learn to obey and respect the law, morality, discipline, when their parents teach "Rebellion?"

Sign me as backing the members of the Greenwood School Board.

Scholars rebuked

To The Editor:

I am writing in regard to the blasphemous and slanted lead article you carried on the church page, Sept. 10, entitled, "New theories of incarnation as old as theology, scholars say," by John Dart.

I object to the language of this article because it presents a very liberal view of the Scriptures as though this was the last word on what the Bible says. The "scholars" Dart consulted actually revealed their ignorance of the Bible in the statements they made.

Also, they obviously are ignoring a large number of conservative theologians and their views. The article said a John Hick told a news conference that virtually all scholars agreed that Jesus had never referred to himself as divine. I attended two graduate schools in the department of religion, Eastern New Mexico University and Pepperdine University, and all of the professors I studied under (each holding a Ph.D.) agreed that Jesus did claim to be divine and, in fact, was divine.

If he did not claim to be divine, what did He mean when He said He was God's "only begotten son" (John 3:16)? Also, on another occasion He said, "I and my Father are one," and again, "I am the Son of God." (John 10:30,36)

One "schoiar" is quoted as saying, "Paul himself says literally nothing about the details of the resurrection." Is he ignorant of the fact that Paul wrote in I Corinthians 15:3-7: "For I delivered unto you first of all that which I received, how that Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures; and that He was buried, and that He rose again the third day according to the Scriptures; and that He was seen of Cephas, then of the twelve: after that He was seen of above five hundred brethren at once; of whom the greater part remain unto this present, but some are fallen asleep. After that, He was seen of James; then of all the apostles." How much detail does the man want?

The only way these so called scholars can come to such a position is by discarding the Bible and its teachings. In fact, they "interpret" away the truth and meaning of the Bible.

One Edward Hobbs is quoted as saying that the clergy are afraid to disclose the things they know. I suppose it never occurred to him that most of us simply do not accept his liberal hogwash.

Colleges vie for coal research

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — There is quite a bit of intercollegiate scrambling going on this fall and it's not all on the football fields.

Several of the state's major universities are vying for federal dollars to establish a coal research laboratory.

It may be possible for one of the interested institutions to be designated as the "lead university" — the school to which the federal dollars would flow under Title VIII of the federal Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977 and from which the money would be funneled out to the other participating universities in consortium fashion.

Then again, the Energy Research and Development Administration may decide to restrict the funds to one university and one research facility.

"It's unclear right now what ERDA will do," says David White of the Texas Energy Advisory Council.

White notes that several of the universities which have expressed an interest in the funding proposal already have coal study progrsams of varying degrees underway.

These schools include The University of Texas at Austin, Texas A&M University, University of Houston, Texas Tech University and North Texas State University.

Texas Tech, says White, has indicated that it would prefer to function as a "support university" in a consortium-type arrangement.

Only this week was interest expressed by North Texas, White says. He adds that it is possible, however, that other state learning institutions may want to put their bid in for the federal cash.

The energy council has agreed that once a single university prevails in the selection process, the council will put its full moral, political and financial support behind that school despite any chauvinism members may feel for other institutions.

ERDA, White explains, is now in the process of drafting guidelines and setting criteria that a coal research program must meet to receive funding.

"We'll have to wait until those guidelines are out before we can make any substantive decisions," White says.

He adds that criteria which he feels ERDA will be looking at includes such things as ongoing research and the strength of present graduate programs.

The council likely will set an October meeting to allow any other universities which might be interested in a coal research laboratory to put their institutions into contention.

Smaller schools however, may be resluctant to face off the state's scholastic superpowers which already have coal programs underway.

Bus service ready to roll

The Roadrunner Senior Citizen Bus Service will make stops at laundromats, and grocery stores on Monday.

On Tuesday, the bus service for the elderly and handicapped will make trips to shopping centers and to the senior center between 9 and 12 a.m. for blood pressure checks.

On Wednesday, blood pressure checks will be given at the Central Fire Station between 2 and 4 p.m. and there will also be trips to shopping centers.

On Thursday, the bus goes to the public library and other stops in the downtown area. On Friday, the Roadrunner will go to beauty shops and grocery stores.

Beame endorses Koch

The Los Angeles Times

NEW YORK — In what could become a pivotal event in New York's Democratic Party runoff primary, Mayor Abraham D. Beame Friday endorsed Rep. Edward I. Koch (D-N.Y.) to succeed him at City Hall.

Former Rep. Bella Abzug was all set to give her support to Koch's opponent, Secretary of State Mario M. Cuomo. But when Cuomo failed to appear at the appropriate ceremonies, the fiery feminist angrily stalked from his Times Square headquarters.

With the runoff Monday, and with a large undecided vote, hurried efforts were under way in the Cuomo camp to cool Mrs. Abzug's anger. The candidate was debating Koch on a radio program while Mrs. Abzug was sitting around waiting.

Beame finished third, just one percentage point behind Cuomo, in the primary Sept. 8 and failed to make the runoff. Mrs. Abzug ran fourth. Koch was the winner, but he did not gain the necessary 40 per cent of the vote to avoid a runoff.

"I have spent the past few days deliberating on my choice as a standard bearer of the Democratic Party in the upcoming election," Beame told a crowded news conference at City Hall. "There is no doubt in my mind that the man who emerges victorious in Monday's super-primary will be the next mayor of New York City. I have decided to endorse Ed Koch ..."

Greenwood meeting set

The Board of Trustees for the Greenwood Independent School District will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday to hear reports on bus routes and drivers and liability insurance.

The board also will consider approval of payroll and bills and cafeteria expenditures.

Police checking theft

Midland police are investigating the theft of a color television and an Indian rug from the residence of a northwest side residence late Friday.

Robert B. Holt, of No. 1 Willow Ct., told police that the missing television, worth about $480, and the Indian rug, worth about $1,500, were taken from an open cabana.

TAPE RECORDER STOLEN

A $400 tape recorder was stolen from the residence of a Midland resident late Friday night.

Bob Russell of 3217 Kessler St. reported that a $400 tape recorder was missing from his residence. Police could find no point of entry, according to reports.

College awarded grant

BIG SPRING — A $38,401 grant from the Texas Education Agency has been awarded to Howard College. The grant will be used to train adults in industrial job skills and to help the college alleviate the impact of the closing of Webb Air Force Base.

The funds will be used to train welders for Lubbock Manufacturing, which is one of the new industries that will be at the base. Possible trainees must apply through the Texas Employment Commission.

Howard College also has applied for a grant of $19,106 in Federal Action Funds, after the approval Wednesday of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, which will begin its sixth year of operation.

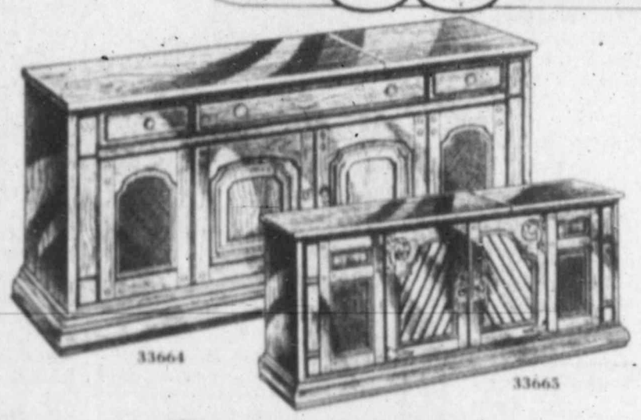

Midland man gets 5 years

A Midland man, Danny Lee Baker, 19, of the 800 block of Goliad Street, was sentenced Thursday to five years in prison after he pleaded guilty to two counts of theft over $200.

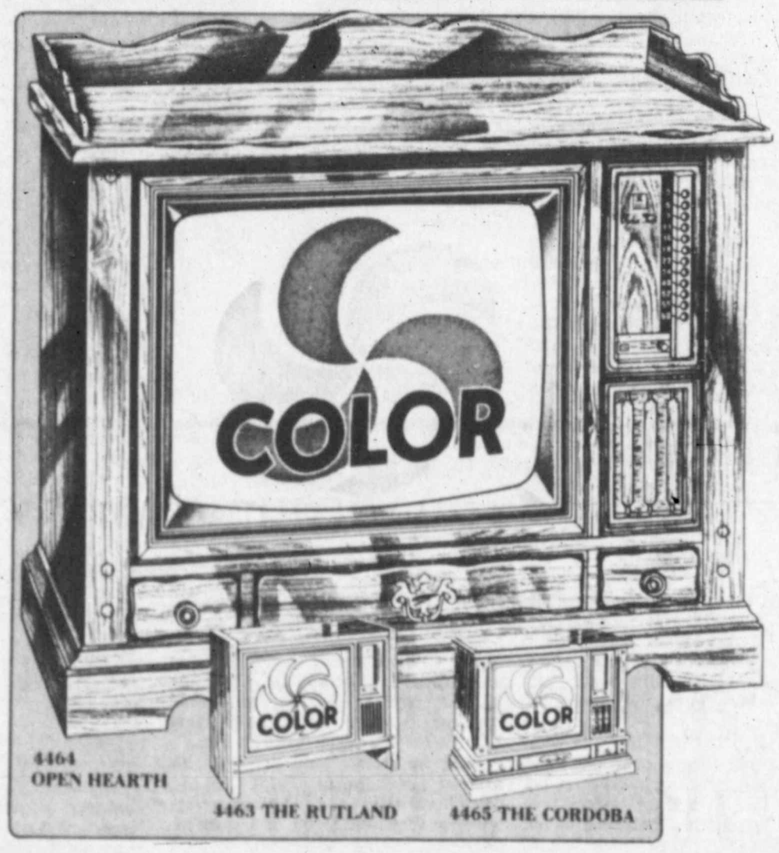

He was sentenced by 238th District Judge Vann Culp to two concurrent five year terms. The incidents took place April 10 and May 7.

Baum to seek Congress seat

BIG SPRING — Democrat Jim Baum, 40, a Big Spring resident the last 12 years, formerly of Midland, announced this weekend that he will seek the post of U.S. congressman from the 17th Congressional district, which presently is held by retiring Rep. Omar Burleson of Anson.

Jim Baum

Baum, in seeking election from the 33-county district, pledged a vigourous campaign which will involve his wife and four children.

"I intend to emphasize the needs of middle income families," he said. "I'm talking about small businessmen, wage-earners ... farmers and ranchers. I'm concerned that our society has made it almost mandatory that both husband and wife have to work just in order to scratch out a family existence."

He said the blame for this rests with increased government spending, inflation and rising taxes.

Baum, a native of Abilene, is manager of Radio Station KBYG here. He is a 1954 graduate of Abilene High School where he played baseball and was an all-district outfielder. He attended college in Alpine and Abilene.

He launched his career in radio broadcasting in Abilene in 1958, and was with Station KCRS at Midland in the early 1960s before returning to Abilene.

Baum is active in civic, church, youth welfare, health welfare, sports and other groups here.

His wife is the former Margaret Stewart of Beaumont, Comanche and Midland. She formerly was associated with The Midland Reporter-Telegram, in the society department.

Swine flu claims number 800-plus

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 800 damage claims already have been filed and they continue to come in at the rate of about 20 a day as a result of the defunct swine flu vaccination program last year, the Justice Department says.

Neil Peterson, in charge of the swine flu claims at the department, told a House health subcommittee Friday that 2,500 claims may eventually arise from the vaccinations.

The program, announced with fanfare by then President Ford last year to head off a possible flu epidemic which never occurred, was canceled after some of those given the shots contacted Guillain-Barre Syndrome, an illness causing temporary paralysis.

The government agreed on a government-backed liability program after vaccine manfacturers found that they could not get full coverage independently.

The government must defend any lawsuit arising from alleged injuries or deaths from the immunization program. The government could then seek recovery from the vaccine manufacturer or other party if negligence is found.

Meanwhile, two congressmen who had been early critic of the immunization program, said Friday that insurance companies stand to make large profits as a result of the program.

Reps. Andrew Maguire, D-N.J., and Henry A. Waxman, D-Calif., conducted Friday's hearing. Waxman said the price tag on the immunization program, including legal actions, could surpass $1 billion.

A representitve of the General Accounting Office, Gregory J. Ahart, told the committee that insurance companies might be able to pocket the entire $8.5 million premium paid by vaccine manufacturers for $220 million worth of insurance.

T. Lawrence Jones, president of the American Insurance Association, disputed the claim. He said the insurance companies do not yet know what legal action the government might take against them for patient claims.

The swine flu program was the government's first attempt to immunize the entire population. More than 46 million persons received the shots before the program was halted.

Press group names four

SAN ANTONIO — Four Midland women were granted full membership in the association of Texas Press Women, at a meeting held here this weekend.

Approved were Kay Hord, a news reporter for The Midland Reporter-Telegram, Linda Schaffrina, also a news reporter for the Midland Reporter-Telegram, Joy Runion, an advertising account executive for The Midland Reporter-Telegram, and Sharon Turner, a Midland resident who has two novels under contract.

Approved on a provisional basis were Janine Green, a copy editor for The Midland Reporter-Telegram and Marlene Ray, a news reporter for The Midland Reporter-Telegram.

Texas Press Women is open to all qualified women in the communications industry.

Computer spots fake jewelry

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Arizona chemist has invented a test to determine the authenticity of turquoise stones used primarily in American Indian jewelry pieces.

Dr. Michael Parsons of Arizona State University at Tempe says about half of the hundreds of stones he has analyzed turned out to be fakes or lowgrade stones of little value. Parsons' technique involves bathing the stones in a powerful electron beam, stirring up radiation which is analyzed by a computer. He says every kind of stone has a chemical makeup as dinstinctive as a fingerprint.

Much of the jewelry sold as authentic American Indian handicraft is made of low-grade stones.

New signal lights due

ODESSA — A $156,000 contract awarded by the state highway department for new traffic signals will place six along U.S. 80 in Midland.

The new signals will be placed along Wall Street on the intersections with Big Spring Street, Midkiff Road, Marienfeld Street, Lamesa Road, Thomason Drive, and Williams Street, spokesman of the highway department said Friday.

Construction will be completed in the next four to six months, the spokesman said.

Texas gives you 8 good reasons to take a cruise this Christmas.

Convenience.
You'll be sailing from Galveston—natural gateway to the western Caribbean and beyond. (We've even arranged a pre-cruise hotel and parking package at the Holiday Inn there.)

Completeness.
You'll be taking a self-contained vacation holiday. One price pays for almost everything—your room on board, your dining on board, your entertainment on board. (Including special Christmas & New Year's Eve celebrations.)

We say "almost" because you'll probably want to take our optional, reasonably-priced shore excursions at each of our fascinating ports of call, you may want wine or spirits during your voyage, you may want to tip our staff and crew for a job well done.

Concept.
You'll be travelling with Sun Line—a cruiseline with a unique concept of travel that makes us different from the others. We offer you a perfect blending of the European tradition of excellence with the American tradition of comfort.

Stella Solaris.
You'll be on board the flagship of the Sun Line fleet, the magnificent Stella Solaris—back in Texas for a third consecutive season. Here is one of the most beautiful cruiseships afloat, designed to provide an ambiance of casual elegance for a quality clientele. Look at it this way. You can sail almost every ship sailing the Caribbean any day of the week. But you can only sail the Stella Solaris in the Caribbean once a year. And only from Texas.

Service.
You'll be watched over by an all-Greek crew. This crew is hand-picked in Greece, where in the maritime, to work for Sun Line, is considered to be working at the top in your profession. And it is known throughout Europe that Greeks have a wonderful sense of hospitality. You'll experience this hospitality from the time you come on board and are greeted by the Chief Steward and his entourage.

Cuisine.
You'll be able to jog each morning before early-bird coffee by the pool, followed by a full breakfast, bouillon and biscuits at 10 a.m., buffet luncheon and afternoon tea.

At dinner, you'll have your choice of everything from Beluga caviar to prime ribs of beef to flaming Baked Alaska. Then, you're off to see the merengue dancers from Santo Domingo and the new Robert Redford movie. And you'll still have time to get to the lavish Midnight Buffet before having a nightcap.

Fun.
Of course, it's Happy New Year with noisemakers and merriment and friends. In addition, you'll meet the Captain when you're introduced at his Cocktail Party. You'll learn to dance the syrtaki at Greek Night—the Salon is turned into a taverna, with candlelight and bazouki music. You might win a prize at the Masquerade.

We could go on and on—but half the fun of your cruise will be the surprises we have in store for you. And what could be nicer than a surprise?

Itinerary.
You're on your way to islands and hideaways chosen carefully by Sun Line—we have a reputation for choosing most fascinating ports of call.

Our 14-day Christmas/New Year's Cruise sails Dec. 20 to San Juan, St. Maarten, Guadeloupe, St. Croix, Santo Domingo, Montego Bay, Grand Cayman and Playa del Carmen. (The cost? $1245 to $2260*) So see your travel agent and join us. And start the New Year right!

P.S. Here is a listing of all our other cruises from Galveston—just in case you'd like to go after the holidays.

Court stays execution scheduled for Monday

By JOHN VAN GIESON

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — John A. Spenkelink is a moody, cautious man, an obscure criminal whose name became nationally known this past week when a date for his execution — Monday — was set.

Handsome, lean, with wavy black hair graying slightly in front, the 28-year-old condemned murderer won a indefinite stay from his appointed date with the electric chair from a federal judge on Friday.

He would have been the first man executed since Gary Gilmore died before a Utah firing squad in January, thus far the only death row inmate to be executed since the U.S. Supreme Court upheld the death penalty laws of Florida and two other states last year.

Unlike Gilmore, who wanted to die and was often profane in publicly admonishing others not to interfere with his sentence, Spenkelink wants to live, but he's so far left it up to his lawyers to argue his case.

He spoke guardedly in interviews before the death warrant was signed, leaving others to speculate how he feels and what went wrong to set him on his trail of criminal conduct.

He reads — the Bible and psychic Edgar Cayce are favorites.

"I'm not unusually religious, but I'm not playing for sympathy," he said recently. "I'm not using religion for sympathy. It's my own personal thing."

He draws — sometimes Spenkelink's artistic talent was put to use on death row in drawing pictures on stationery for other inmates. One design is a pair of praying hands.

He sent his mother, Lois Spenkelink of Buena Park, Calif., a sardonic red, white and blue sketch of the electric chair entitled "Spirit of '76."

Spenkelink was born in Plymouth County, Iowa, and his family moved to California when he was about 8.

Relatives say he was a good boy who turned bad after his father committed suicide when Spenkelink was 12. He discovered his father's body in the family car with a hose connected to the exhaust pipe.

"When John's father committed suicide, this made an extreme impact on John's life and seemed to be a point of failure for John," said the Rev. David Gabel of Columbus, Ohio, Spenkelink's first cousin. "He has suffered greatly from the act of his father."

Spenkelink had little regard for theories that he turned bad because of the suicide. He said in a parole interview: "I don't like people feeling sorry for me. I don't beg of people for nothing, no matter what."

A family friend, Lura Darrah of Buena Park, remembers Bernard Spenkelink as a "charming man with a weakness for the fleshpots and good things in life."

"He would take John with him and taught him to smoke and drink and thought it was cute that a 9-year-old could 'hold his liquor,'" she said.

Quiet chanters gather at Kent building site

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Workmen using a backhoe began transplanting trees Saturday from the site where a Kent State University gymnasium annex is to be built. About 50 policemen in riot gear and six on horses looked on as demonstrators chanted peacefully.

Construction began as U.S. Supreme Court Justice William Brennan in Washington rejected yet another attempt to have it delayed.

About 25 somber demonstrators opposed to the construction stood in a dawn drizzle and occasionally heckled police, but there was no confrontation.

The protest group, the May 4th Coalition, says the gym site is too close to the area where four students were killed and nine wounded in an antiwar demonstration May 4, 1970.

More than 200 arrests, mostly for trespassing, had been made in July after coalition members had camped on the construction site for nearly three months. The coalition has filed numerous court actions seeking to block construction.

Earthmoving equipment is expected to roll on the site this week.

University officials say the $6 million gym will be no closer than 120 feet from the site of the shootings.

The university says it cannot relocate the gym because it does not have the money and the state hasn't offered any fund assistance.

The university has said the gym would be in memory of the guardsmen at the university during the 1970 protests against the bombing of Cambodia as well as the slain students.

China's tests 'success'

TOKYO (AP) — China set off a successful nuclear test explosion Saturday, its first in 10 months, the Hsinhua news agency reported. U.S. officials said in Washington the blast was above ground and its yield was a relatively small 20 kilotons.

The test was China's 22nd since October 1964. As in previous announcements Peking declared that the purpose of its nuclear program is defensive and that it intends to break the "nuclear monopoly" of the superpowers.

The Energy Research and Development Administration said in Washington that U.S. monitoring devices detected the blast at 3 a.m. EDT in the vicinity of the Lop Nor test site in northwest China.

The reported force of the blast was only a fraction of the force of the last test explosion, on Nov. 17, 1976, which was in the four-megaton range. A kiloton is equal to the explosive force of 1,000 tons of TNT, and a megaton is equal to the force of a million tons of TNT.

A test blast last year spread low-level radiation as far as the United States, particularly in Pennsylvania where significant traces turned up in milk. The radioactivity never reached levels considered hazardous to humans.

In Washington, a spokesman for the Environmental Protection Agency said that the agency has activated its nationwide air-monitoring system to detect any fallout from the new explosion.

Park reportedly offered immunity

The Washington Post

SEOUL, South Korea — Tongsun Park's lawyer said Saturday night that President Carter had once offered Park immunity from prosecution if he would return to the United States and give testimony in the congressional influence-buying scandal.

William G. Hundley told reporters the offer was made "a long time ago" and no longer is "worth discussing."

Hundley also said that he will discuss with Park the possibility of moving to another country and added, "I am hopeful that we can work it out."

The Washington attorney arrived Saturday night to confer with his client shortly after the news media here began quoting official government sources as saying that Carter had offered Park immunity in exchange for his presence for testimony in Washington. The government sources were also quoted as saying that Park had rejected the offer.

Park, a South Korean businessman and once prominent Washington social figure, was indicated for conspiring to bribe congressmen in an effort to obtain continued American aid for South Korea.

He had left Washington a year ago when the news of an investigation of his activities was first published. He lived in London until late last month, when he returned to this country. He has said he will not return to Washington's "emotionally charged" atmosphere.

Neither Hundley nor the quoted Korean sources indicated precisely when the offer of immunity was made. The U.S. embassy had no comment.

Hundley told reporters that the offer "would not apply to present times as far as I know."

The government sources were quoted as saying that the offer was made in Carter's letter to South Korean President Park Chung-hee, who passed it along to Tongsun Park.

Hundley was met a Seoul's Kimpo Airport by several of Tongsun Park's business associates, who drove him away after two brief airport encounters with reporters. Tongsun Park himself has been seen around town on several recent evenings, but did not show up to greet his attorney.

Hundley did not say which country he hopes his client will go to, but he is believed to be urging Park to return to London.

Early this month, after initial news of the secret indictment had been published, Hundley said that Tongsun Park would be willing to return to London and face extradition proceedings if they were brought by U.S. officials. The United States has an extradition agreement with Great Britain but not with South Korea.

Some observers here believe that the South Korean government would not be willing to let Park leave the country. However, its official position is that Park is a private citizen free to go where he chooses. Park is reported to be under government surveillance, although he has appeared to move freely about the country.

Hundley was asked if his trip here was timed for a possibly simultaneous visit by Leon Jaworski, special counsel for the House ethics committee investigating the case. The committee has discussed sending Jaworski here to question Park if he refuses to go to Washington at any time.

Hundley said he knew nothing of Jaworski's plans and had not talked to him about a visit to South Korea.

Rookie Houston policeman says he feared retaliation

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A rookie Houston policeman testified last week that it was fear of losing his job that kept him quiet for three days about the beating of a prisoner by five fellow officers.

Carless Eugene Elliott, appearing in full uniform, told a state court jury that he was also thinking about the retaliation of other officers during the three days between the beating and the discovery of the body of Joe Campos Torres.

"You don't go squealing on your fellow officer," Elliott, 20, said. "He's your partner and you don't go telling on him."

Elliott is one of the prosecution's key witnesses in the trial of two former policemen, Terry Denson, 27, and Stephen Orlando, 21, Elliott's partner the night of the death, in the drowning of Torres.

Torres' body was pulled out of Buffalo Bayou on May 8, only a few blocks from Houston police headquarters.

Defense attorneys probed two inconsistencies Friday in the testimony of Elliott, the only officer of the six at the scene of the beating who was not fired from the force.

Elliott acknowledged that in his original statement to police he said he couldn't remember which officer had said, "Well, let's see if the wetback can swim."

On Thursday, Elliott said Denson made the statement.

"When I gave that statement, I was pretty shook up," said Elliott, who gave the original statement to police the day after Torres' body was recovered.

The trial is being held in this Southeast Texas city, about 60 miles north of Houston, because of a change of venue.

Labor leaders assemble after strike in Colombia

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Labor leaders met today after a nationwide strike that turned into Colombia's worst urban violence in more than 20 years.

Calm returned Friday to Bogota, focus of the violence in which at least 18 died and hundreds were injured during the curfew, and tourists and businessmen lined up at airport counters for free cups of Colombian coffee.

Truckloads of troops armed with automatic weapons patrolled streets in the downtown area, but no incidents were reported Friday.

Labor leaders called a 24- hour general strike that began at midnight Tuesday to protest the government's freeze on salaries and its inability to halt skyrocketing inflation. They are seeking 50 per cent wage increases.

Aficionados pay respects to opera goddess Callas

By DAVE ZIMMERMAN

PARIS (AP) — Critics, performers and culture officials paid tribute today to Maria Callas, the American-born soprano whose dramatic portrayals made her queen of the opera in her time.

"She was 'the' diva. Goddesses never die," said Paris Opera administrator Rolf Libermann after learning of Miss Callas' death of a heart attack in her Paris apartment Friday.

The 53-year-old performer collapsed in her bedroom and was dead when doctors arrived, her artistic director Michael Grotz said. Her death followed by three days that of another musical giant, conductor Leopold Stokowski.

"Callas enters by right into the legend of opera," said Carlo Maria Badini, superintendant of Milan's La Scala Opera House where the soprano made her breakthrough in 1951 with a masterful "Aida" and went on to lead a revival of the 19th century bel canto operas.

"A whole generation of singers followed her lead," wrote New York Times critic Harold Schonberg. "In a way ... Joan Sutherland, Beverly Sills, Teresa Berganza and Marilyn Horne are her children."

Italian soprano Giulietta Simionato, recalling the battles with managers, conductors and other performers that gained Miss Callas notoriety as "opera's bad girl," said: "She was a fragile woman despite her character that deserved her the titles of The Tiger, The Lioness, The selfish, aggressive and fierce Maria."

Harold Rosenthal, editor of Opera magazine, said Miss Callas "was undoubtedly the greatest singing actress this century. She had the ability to sing a piece, however hackneyed, and make you feel you were hearing it for the very first time."

Miss Callas was born Anna Sofia Cecilia Kalogeropoulos in New York in 1923, and started singing lessons when she was 8.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Use of estrogens requires caution

Dear Dr. Solomon: I'd like very much to know if you think it's a good idea for a woman to take estrogens during menopause. Friends of mine seem to have done awfully well with them. But now there is this big scare about their possibly causing cancer. I keep wondering how much truth there is in all that. Are they really dangerous? — Sheila G.

Dear Sheila: There is definite evidence by now that prolonged use of estrogen during and after menopause does increase your risk of getting cancer of the uterus. On the other hand, estrogens are very effective drugs in helping women through a difficult period of life. So both the doctor prescribing estrogens and the patient will want to carefully weigh risks against benefits.

We now have from the Food and Drug Administration, some valuable guidelines about these drugs which are going to be printed on labels for both doctors and patients. Here are the points the FDA makes about estrogens and the menopause:

If estrogens are used for more than a year in treating meonpausal symptoms, there is an increased risk of cancer of the uterus. The longer the estrogens are used and the higher the dose, the greater the risk seems to be.

So women take them in the lowest dose that will be effective, and only as long as needed.

If you are taking estrogens, you should be examined by your doctor at least once every six months, and he should re-evaluate the need for continuing of the treatment at least that often.

Estrogens should not be used to treat simple nervousness during menopause as they have not been proven effective for that. Also, there is no proof that they keep the skin soft or women feeling young.

Estrogen drugs should not be taken by women with breast or uterine cancer, abnormal vaginal bleeding, or clotting in the legs or lungs. Nor should they be taken by women who have had heart disease, angina or a stroke.

Dr. Alexander M. Schmidt, former commissioner of food and drugs, sums the matter up this way: Estrogens are valuable drugs needed when "change of life" symptoms become severe, but overuse and misuse should be avoided. Women should be well informed about the drugs so that they can decide for themselves if the risks are worth the benefits.

What about a woman who has been on estrogen therapy for a long time? A number of authorities feel she should be checked periodically for any signs of endometrial (uterine) cancer with a procedure such as the new aspiration curettage. This removes a sample of the lining of the uterus, which is then examined under a microscope. The simpler Pap test is highly reliable for checking the cervix (neck of the uterus) but not nearly as accurate for the endometrium (mucous lining of the uterus).

Appeals could delay Bell payoff to winning plaintiffs for years

By RICK SCOTT

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., its image soiled in a sixweek, mud-slinging court trial, is preparing for a long legal battle to overturn a jury's $3 million award to two slandered former executives, one of whom killed himself.

And it may be years, if ever, before fired Bell executive James H. Ashley and the widow of T. O. Gravitt collect any of the $3 million the jury recommended the company pay.

The suit asked $29 million damages from the company when it was filed nearly three years ago.

The state court jury's verdict last week was "extremely disappointing" to Bell officials who had defended the company's 1974 internal investigation challenged in the suit.

The jury found the internal probe slandered the two executives by questioning their sexual conduct and their outside financial dealings.

The slander, the jury also decided, drove Gravitt to insanity and suicide. He took his own life by carbon monoxide poisoning at his Dallas home Oct. 17, 1974, in the midst of the investigation.

At the time, Gravitt was earning $80,000 annually as Bell vice president for Texas, the highest company position in a state which provides more than half of Southwestern Bell's revenues.

Eight days before Gravitt's suicide, Ashley had been suspended from his $55,000-a-year management job with Bell in San Antonio.

Company officials said he was suspected of sexual misconduct with female subordinate employes. He was fired Oct. 31, 1974.

The suit, based largely on a suicide note left by Gravitt, attacked the telephone company and accused it of numerous wrongdoings including operation of a political slush fund, using two sets of books to get higher rates and wiretapping its own employes.

"Watergate is a gnat compared to the Bell System," Gravitt wrote.

Testimony from dozens of witnesses and sworn depositions, many from present or former Bell employes, tended to support some of Gravitt's allegations. Some women employes testified they felt pressured into sex with Gravitt and Ashley.

The suit, filed Nov. 15, 1974, contended that Ashley and Gravitt had become critical of company practices and were targeted, by the investigation, for removal from the Bell management power structure.

After the verdict against Bell last week, the company's lawyers prepared to ask State District Court Judge Peter Michael Curry to issue a judgment in Bell's favor, the verdict notwithstanding.

Curry could set aside the jury's findings and recommendations if he found legal cause.

More likely, however, was that Bell would have to take its case to the Texas Court of Civil Appeals and, beyond that, to the state Supreme Court.

A Bell official said the company would take its appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary and if a constitutional question could be found.

Already, a company spokesman said, Southwestern Bell has spent $1.5 million on the case and appeals will push the final cost even higher.

Many lawyers never believed the case would get to trial, that the suit was aimed at gaining an out-of-court settlement from the telephone company.

But company sources said Bell had to fight the allegations in the suit to vindicate itself to its own employes and to the general public.

Roping, art show slated near Post

POST — The seventh annual OS Ranch Steer Roping and Art Exhibit will be held Oct. 1-2 at the historic OS Ranch near here.

Jim Prather, chairman of the event, said this year's roping and art exhibit, which benefits the West Texas Boys Ranch, again will be preceded by an invitational art preview party on Sept. 30.

Besides the traditional steer roping on the afternoon of Oct. 2, featuring 34 steer ropers, spectators will be treated to a special 10-calf match roping between reigning world champion calf roper Roy Cooper of Monument, N.M., and former champion Phil Lyne of Artesia Wells, on the afternoon of Oct. 1. Fifty invited calf ropers also will compete in the arena that afternoon.

More than 100 original pieces of art and sculpture will be on display and for sale in the old OS Ranch house on both days.

In addition to the calf and steer roping events, there also will be a barrel race and a cutting horse contest.

Old-fashioned outdoor cooked barbecue will be served at noon both days. An old-timers' breakfast is scheduled before church services Sunday (Oct. 2) in the historic chinaberry grove, where Garza County was organized in 1906. A benefit dance is set for the previous night in Post.

A number of local citizens will host boys from West Texas Boys Ranch in their homes for the weekend.

The OS Ranch Steer Roping and Art Exhibit was originated in 1971 by Prather, a professional steer roper himself, with the art exhibit and sale added the following year.

CUTTING UTILITY BILLS

Here are some good ways to cut down on your gas and electric bills.

If your kitchen lighting is incandescent, consider replacing it with fluorescent lights. One 40-watt fluorescent tube provides more light than three 60-watt incandescent bulbs. That alone can save almost $1 per month off your electric bill.

If you have an air conditioner, set the thermostat no lower than 78 to 80 degrees. If this setting is, say six degrees higher than the one you used last summer, your cooling costs should go down about 47 percent.

For heating, set the thermostat between 65 and 68 degrees during the day, and between 55 and 60 degrees at night. If theses settings are six degrees lower than those you used last winter, heating costs should run almost 15 percent less.

Next to heating and cooling units, your electric hot-water heater is the most expensive home appliance to operate. Don't set the water-heater thermostat too high-between 140 and 160 degrees is adequate for most households.

Monkeys kill two children

KUWAIT (AP) — Seven crazed monkeys escaped from their cage in the Kuwait zoo and killed two children in a panicked holiday crowd, police reported Saturday.

A zookeeper was seriously bitten before police shot and killed one of the monkeys and captured the others in a long chase.

The tragedy Friday occurred as crowds of Kuwaitis filled the zoo, relaxing for the Moslem feast of Eid, a four-day holiday ending the annual 30-day Ramadan period of fasting.

Marketing specialist calls cattle situation confusing

By CHARLES GREEN
Midland County Extension Agent

A little cooler weather during the past week eased stress on plants and livestock, but the drought situation still exists over a broad area of West Texas. The time is here to plant small grains for grazing and cover crops, but soil moisture supplies are generally too low to establish stands, except under irrigated conditions.

The cotton crops is over 50 percent open, with some fields 100 per cent open. Some chemical desiccation is being used to prepare open fields for strippers harvest.

According to Ed Uvacek, livestock marketing specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the current cattle situation is somewhat confusing. The July cattle on feed report pointed toward a fed cattle marketing level for the Oct. -Dec. quarter in the neighborhood of 5.5 to 5.8 million head. In contrast, the seven state cattle on feed report, released in August, showed an increase of 29 percent in July placements. This represented not only a substantial gain, but also a record high in placements for that month.

Many analysts believe these new cattle will be sold before the end of the year. If, in fact, such placements do continue large into September, cattle marketings this fall and winter could increase substantially. An estimate of the expected breakdown of cattle slaughter for the remainder of this year suggests we should still look for a substantial reduction in fed beef availability. This will occur along with a severe drop in non-fed cattle slaughter and a greatly lowered cow kill.

Such reduced slaughter means less beef production which will, in turn, yeild a substantial lowered beef consumption. By the Oct. - Dec. quarter, for example, the consumption of beef may be at the lowest level since mid-1975.

Uvacek forecasts some price improvement is still likely this year in the cattle market. While October may record some price weakness as non-fed cattle slaughter increases, beyound that point, lower beef supplies could easily cause price improvement. Beef, Uvacek opines, will not be in overabundance. However, broilers and pork will still be in large supply.

Uvacek expects prices of feeder cattle to continue to follow the pattern set by the slaughter cattle. The lower prices for grains, however, will allow the price level of feeder types to move closer to finished cattle.

Swiss chard is nothing more than a beet without a bottom. It is known by many names including spinach abeet, leaf beet, sea kale and Swiss beet. Its large, glossy, dark green leaves are borne on fleshy stems which can either be white or red. Chard is a very decorative plant and is commonly found in gardens throughout Texas.

Swiss chard is an easy vegetable to grow. Planting can occur at almost anytime of the year. It prefers cool temperatures but will also do quite well during warm periods. For best production chard needs fertile, well worked soil with good drainage and a high organic matter content.

When planting seed, sow the seed about one inch apart and cover them about one-half inch deep. After the young plants emerge and are up to a good stand, thin them to 6-12 inches apart.

Chard needs plenty of moisture so avoid letting the soil dry out. When the plants are about 4 to 6 inches tall, a light siderdressing of fertilizer will stimulate growth and keep the plants rapidly producing tender leaves.

Chard is remarkably free of most diseases and insects although aphids will sometimes be a problem. In most areas of Texas, chard will be ready to eat in about 60 to 65 days after planting. The succulent dark green leaves, which are usually crinkled, are eaten as cooking greens.

Oftentimes, the fleshy white leaf midribs are separated from the leaf blade and prepared like celery or asparagus. When properly grown, chard will produce about one pound of tasty greens for each foot of row. Chard can be harvested when the outside leaves are about 3 inches long. These leaves should be harvested before they get much over 10 inches long or they will get tough and taste earthy. Some of the best varieties for culture in Texas are Luculus, Fordhood Giant and red leaf variety, Rhubard Swiss chard.

Senate probers pressing inquiry into allegations on Panama Canal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite denials from both U.S. and Panamanian officials that any such thing occurred, Senate investigators are pressing ahead with an inquiry into allegations of eavesdropping and blackmail in connection with the Panama Canal treaty talks.

Adm. Stansfield Turner, director of the CIA, and U.S. treaty negotiator Sol Linowitz will be summoned early this week to testify before a close-door session of the Senate Intelligence Committee.

Other "appropriate members" of the U.S. intelligence community will also be called, Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, the committee chairman, told reporters Friday after the panel met for three hours.

Mystery shrouded the origin of the report that U.S. agents had electronically spied on Panama's canal treaty negotiators, and that after discovering the eavesdropping, the Panamanians had "blackmailed" the American officials into making concessions on the treaty.

One intelligence source said the report is related to complaints by Panamanian dictator Brig. Gen. Omar Torrijos last spring that his telephones had been tapped.

Sources close to congressional opponents of the treaty said, however, that it may refer to events dating back to early 1974, when then-Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and Panama's foreign minister, Juan Antonio Tack, signed a preliminary agreement outlining principles for the treaty talks.

According to this version, Torrijos discovered shortly before then that U.S. agents had been conducting electronic surveillance of his home and offices, and had compiled a dossier on his personal habits.

He was said to have confronted U.S. officials with this information, threatening to make it public unless they agreed to certain terms in the treaty.

The sources said Inouye recently obtained details of this and his panel began its own inquiry. They said Inouye himself informed President Carter, who previously hadn't known of the alleged bugging.

An intelligence committee spokesman said there would be no comment on any of the allegations. Inouye earlier told reporters he was barred by law from commenting on intelligence matters.

President Carter and Torrijos last week signed the treaty, under which the United States would gradually relinquish control of the waterway by the year 2000. The agreements face a tough battle in the Senate, however, where a two-thirds vote will be required for ratification.

Some critics of the treaty have charged that Torrijos used threats of violence or sabotage to coerce U.S. negotiators into agreeing to some terms of the pact.

Chess masters discuss match

EAST DETROIT, Mich. (AP) — Viktor Korchnoi, former Soviet chess grandmaster, says he and Bobby Fischer, the American chess master, have discussed the possibility of a $350,000 match in West Germany.

Korchnoi, who defected from the Soviet Union last year, played 34 simultaneous chess matches after lecturing at a local chess club.

Unordered packages major problem

If there is a Collect on Delivery (C.O.D.) package waiting for you at the Post Office and you don't remember ordering it, there's a good chance you are about to be gypped.

Cases involving unordered packages are among the biggest problems the Postal Service has, D. E. Holster, postmaster, says.

A northwest Midland woman reported last week that she received a C.O.D. package from a St. Louis, Mo., firm that she did not remember ordering. She was about to pay the $22.40 due on the package when, she saw through a tear in the cover that it contained pornographic material — something she was sure she didn't order. However, had she paid for the package, she would have been forced by postal regulations to seek a refund from the St. Louis firm.

"It's possible the firm figured the person would be too embarrassed to bring back the material," Holster said. He said he noticed that there are two or three other C.O.D. packages from this firm at the Graves Station, 3304 W. Wadley Ave.

Holster added that the Postal Service is in the process of investigating two violations of the law in connection with this incident. One of them involves sending pornographic materials through the mail, the other involves sending unordered merchandise on a C.O.D. basis.

Frequently persons are put on lists for sexually oriented materials without their knowing it as their name is sold on various mailing lists.

However if this does happen, there is a remedy, he said.

By requesting Form 2201, persons can ask that their name be withdrawn from the mailing lists of the senders and that the parcels must be stopped within 30 days — or the sender will face heavy fines.

"The form is no good if nobody uses it," Holster said.

Tutoring program volunteers needed by Casa de Amigos

Volunteers are needed for the tutoring program at Casa de Amigos, according to Marcia Ingram, director.

"Our program has been in existence six years," she said Saturday. "There have been other tutoring programs, but I don't know of any tutoring program other than ours that is still in existence.

"However, our aim is to enroll 24 children this year, and that means we need 24 tutors," she said.

The program at Casa de Amigos, a United Way agency, is designed to tutor disadvantaged children from low-income families in reading and sometimes in mathematics.

"We concentrate on homework and things like that," Marsha Samponaro, a tutor and assistant supervisor, said.

Mrs. Ingram stressed that tutors did not need to be teachers or have any special training.

"We give them their training here before the tutoring sessions start Oct. 3. We will have an orientation session for tutors Sept. 27.

"We need tutors and substitute tutors. The program involves working on a one-to-one basis with a child for one hour two times a week," Mrs. Ingram said.

"The tutor works with one child during the entire year, which pretty well follows the school calendar," said Helen Cronberg, supervisor for the program. "The tutors really develop very strong bonds with their students."

Florence Mailey is the other supervisor for the program.

"All it requires to be a tutor is a willingness and the liking of children," said Mrs. Cronberg.

Students for the program are recommended by teachers and sometimes parents.

"Last year we pre-tested and post-tested the children," Mrs. Samponaro said. "The tutors are always interested in their student's growth, and we're trying to prepare the student for achievement tests given in school.

"Last year we made one and a half months progress for every month in the program," she said.

"We had one boy last year that knew only three words when he started, and when I tested him last week he was four-six (reading at the fourth grade, sixth month level)," Mrs. Samponaro said. "Of course, all our students' improvements are not that dramatic."

Volunteers for the program may call Casa de Amigo at 682-9701.

Texas Press Women to sponsor publicity workshop here Oct. 1

Speakers with experience in radio, television and newspaper will be featured Oct. 1 at the publicity workshop, "News Is My Bag," sponsored by Texas Press Women, District II.

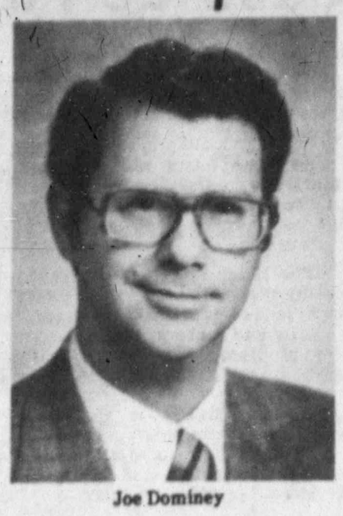

The workshop is designed for publicity chairmen of all organizations, including church, civic, women's and service, in Midland and towns throughout the Permian Basin.

The session will start at 9:30 a.m. in the Midland Room at Midland National Bank, and will be over by noon.

Heading the workshop will be Joe Dominey, vice president for marketing and business development for The Midland National Bank. Other speakers will be H. A. Tuck, public relations director and sports information director at Midland College; Dick Baze, program director at KCRS—KWMJ radio, and John Foster, promotion director for KMID-TV. A representative from The Midland Reporter-Telegram also will speak.

Dominey received his bachelor's degree in television/radio broadcasting from The University of Texas-Austin. He worked in radio news and programming until 1963, when he moved to Midland as a staff reporter for KMID-TV. He held several positions with the television station, including operations director until 1972, when he joined Midland National Bank in his current position.

He is responsible for the bank's advertising, public relations, business development, correspondent bank relations and community relations.

Joe Dominey

He has served as president of the United Press International Broadcasters Association of Texas and president of the Permian Basin Ad Club.

Tuck will be speaking on how to plan campaign coverage for an organization or drive. He received his bachelor of arts degree in journalism from Texas Technological College, where he was assistant public relations director as a student.

He has held positions as assistant news editor of a Lubbock television station, news editor of the Moore County News in Dumas, news editor of the Hereford Brand, owner-publisher of the Fritch Observer and managing editor of the Morton Tribune. Before taking the MC position in 1975, he was public relations director for the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

Baze has been in radio broadcasting 11 years, starting at a Midland radio station when in high school. He started with KCRS in 1969 as announcer and worked as news director before moving to his current post.

Booklets titled "News Is My Bag" will be given each representative at the workshop. It outlines guidelines for all local media.

Advance registrations of $4 per person must be submitted by Sept. 26. Registrations of $5 per person will be accepted at the door as space and materials permit.

Registration forms may be picked up in the Women's News Department at The Reporter-Telegram. Further information may be obtained by telephoning Luanna Crow, 683-4540 or Tricia Shelton, 683-6437.

Air Force probes crash

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Investigators probed the wreckage of an Air Force jet Saturday, trying to determine why it slammed into the Manzano Mountains east of Albuquerque, killing all 20 persons aboard.

The aircraft crashed on the Army's Manzano Base, a high security nuclear weapons storage facility, at 11:48 p.m. MDT Wednesday — three minutes after takeoff from Kirtland Air Force Base.

An air traffic controller said he tried to warn the pilot his plane was about to hit a ridge moments before the aircraft slammed into the ground and exploded.

The traffic controller, who declined to be identified, said he radioed the pilot that the plane was too low. But he said he was unable to raise the cockpit crew of the communications plane based at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base in Goldsboro, N.C.

"The first indication we had he was in trouble was when the radar showed he was too close to the mountain and flying too low," said the controller.

"We hit him on the guard frequency and told him to turn right and climb...but he never did," the controller said.

The controller said the pilot, identified as Capt. D. M. Hicky, 29, Colorado Springs, Colo., didn't respond by radio or with a signal indicating he had received the tower transmission.

Communication never was established with the plane after takeoff, the controller said.

The plane hit with tremendous impact, scattering debris over a 10-acre tract.

"One big fireball and that was it," said one witness who saw the jet plunge into the ridge and explode.

The bodies of all the victims were recovered. Capt. Ben Orrell, Air Force information officer, said all those aboard were military personnel.

The co-pilot was identified as Capt. Lee Eggericks, 27, Orchard Lake, Mich.

News reporters and photographers were barred from the crash site for what Orrell said were security reasons.

When asked by a reporter how close the plane came to any bunkers loaded with fissionable materials, Orrell said "about half a mile."

But Orrell then said he "couldn't say" whether there were nuclear materials near the crash site.

Met veteran Coscia dies

WATERTOWN, Mass. (AP) — Silvio Coscia, a french horn player and voice coach with the Metropolitan Opera for 36 years, has died at his home here. Coscia, who was 77, suffered an apparent heart attack on Thursday.

Relatives of convicted Ugandans forced to watch public executions

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Weeping relatives of 15 Ugandans convicted of plotting against President Idi Amin were forced to watch a firing squad shoot the men one by one, an eyewitness said Saturday.

"The silence between executions was punctuated by the sobs of grief of the relatives although they had been warned not to cry during the executions," he recalled.

Ugandan soldiers rounded up the relatives before the Sept. 9 executions and took them to the execution site in the Ugandan capital of Kampala, said the witness, who asked not to be identified.

The 15 condemned men — including former government officials, businessmen and teachers — arrived for their executions in a prison van wearing the same clothes in which they were arrested, he said.

Each man, the witness recalled, was tied by sisal ropes to two oil drums filled with sand and water and placed one on top of the other, and his face was covered by a black blindfold.

"When everything was ready the officer commanding the firing squad shouted 'One, Two, Fire'," he said.

"Then all the 15 executioners fired at one victim at the same time, meaning each man was shot by 15 bullets. This meant the others could see the fate that awaited them before their turn to die," he added.

After the commando-uniformed firing squad was finished, officials discovered that one man was alive, though his body was riddled with 15 bullets. The commanding officer ordered a second firing, the witness said.

A doctor confirmed that each man was dead, he said. After the executions, the bodies were placed inside roughly made wooden coffins, loaded into prison vans and driven away.

Twelve of the condemned men were convicted last month of plotting to topple Amin in an abortive coup. The other men were sentenced in July on treason and murder charges.

The executions had been ordered by Uganda's Military Defense Council and were approved by Amin.

Home maintenance worries? Here are answers

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — We have wood siding on our house. It hasn't been painted for several years and is in need of it. When I examined the siding a few days ago to see whether any repairs had to be made before painting, I noticed that the heads of many of the nails were rusted. I assume that if I paint right over them, the rust will show through again in a short time, but I can't see pulling every one of those nails and putting in new ones. Is there any other solution?

A. — Yes. It won't be easy, but it will be a lot easier than trying to replace the nails. You will have to use a nail set to drive each nail a little below the surface. With a tiny brush, touch up each nail head with a rust-inhibiting paint. When the paint has dried, fill each indentation with wood putty. When the house is repainted, the repaired spots won't show. The bad news in this explanation is that you must do this with all the nails, not just those which are rusted, otherwise you will have the same problem again within a year or two, perhaps less.

Q. — Can you tell me what is meant by "wet storage" of paint brushes? I saw the expression in a magazine, but nobody I asked seemed to know what it meant.

A. — "Wet storage" is merely the common practice of leaving a paint brush immersed in the proper solvent if you intend to use it again in a day or two. Those solvents are turpentine for paints and varnishes, denatured alcohol for shellac, and lacquer thinner for lacquer. The exception is when the label on the container specifies some other solvent or thinner for a particular finishing material. In every case, the brush must be suspended in the solvent, not rested on its bristles.

Q. — I recently bought some plywood, which I now notice has the letters DPA stamped on the back of each sheet. What do they stand for?

A. — Department for Product Approval. It is placed on plywood that meets the specifications of the American Plywood Assn.

Q. — I sometimes use a hacksaw to cut pieces of pipe, but I can never seem to master the knack of making a clean cut. Is there some secret to it?

A. — No. That's why plumbers use pipe cutters these days.

Argentina puts terrorist gangs into deep hiding

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Some of the American businessmen who fled Argentina a few years back to escape left-wing terrorists are back, and some of their colleagues who stayed behind are relaxing security measures and even giving parties again.

And residents in the suburbs where skirmishes between army troops and guerrillas were a daily occurrence now say they haven't heard shooting in their areas for months.

These are some of the changes in Argentina today as security men claim that they are finally liquidating left-wing terrorism some 10 years after it flared into one of the most violent in the world.

However, critics say the methods used against the guerrillas have been so harsh that the nation's freedoms have been eroded. And Argentina's 17-month-old military regime has become a target for international charges of human rights violations.

A three-man junta headed by Gen. Jorge Videla, commander of the 90,000-man army, came to power on March 24, 1976, when labor-backed President Isabel Peron was overthrown and arrested in a bloodless coup. Shortly after the coup, Videla, 52, pledged that his government's No. 1 priority was to restore civil peace in Argentina.

And after months of almost daily clashes which took a toll of hundreds of guerrilla suspects and dozens of security agents, military officials and diplomats believe that the terrorist movement is now under control, and may be fully wiped out in 1978.

According to semi-official figures, there were between 15,000 and 20,000 armed guerrillas operating in Argentina in 1974. Now, less than 1,000 are believed to be holding out.

"Up until a year ago, my wife and I kept two 12-gauge shotguns by our beds at night, with the safeties off," said a high-ranking American businessmen. "Now, we still have the shotguns, but they are stashed away in a bedroom closet and the safeties are on."

Once the guerrillas were able to murder or kidnap foreign businessmen and government officials with ease. At one time they were powerful enough to seize whole towns or attack military facilities.

Now, they are largely committed to isolated bombing attacks against police stations or the killing or kidnaping of lowlevel police or military officers, the security experts say.

In the late 1960s, there were about 1,000 top American business executives here running the more than 300 U.S. companies based in Argentina. Then in the early 1970s terrorists began kidnaping executives in exchange for multimillion dollar ransoms. That started an exodus of U.S. business men and their families to neighboring Uruguay or Brazil. The businesses were left to Argentine executives to run with the foreigners slipping back into Argentina periodically to supervise the operation.

A top U.S. business official said that in the last four months, at least 10 or 15 of those executives have returned. He also said major U.S. companies are making plans to send everyone back soon.

Regents may slow building

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — University of Texas regents decided Friday to take harder, more careful looks at proposed building projects before approving them.

Construction, financed from bond proceeds or student fees, has been a target of legislative criticism, with some lawmakers accusing UT of throwing money away on unneeded buildings.

The regents also decided to give teachers official standing at regents meetings by inviting the president of each campus family senate or comparable body to sit in.

Chairman Allan Shivers cast the lone dissenting vote on that decision.

Henceforth, meetings of the UT system's governing body will be rotated among the campuses, trying to reach each school at least once every two years.

Following up on a July 29 decision, the regents conferred the title of president and chief operations officer of the UT system on E. D. Walker, who held the title of deputy chancellor until Friday.

Dr. Charles LeMaistre will remain chancellor. Shivers issued a statement saying he had refused for the second time to grant LeMaistre's request to step down and return to "duties more directly related to medical education and administration."

"I know of no other individual who can perform the difficult and sensitive assignments of the chancellor as well as Dr. LeMaistre," Shivers said.

Walker has been chief operating officer of the system for two years, while LeMaistre has dealt more with the area of development.

Shivers said the chancellor's role "has increasingly become an external one designed to ensure and enhance the governmental, business and philanthropic climate in which the University of Texas system could continue to develop and attain the standards of excellence to which we are all committed."

It was, perhaps, concern with the "governmental" climate as well as UT's financial position that prompted the regents' decision to analyze proposed construction more closely.

In the future, the regents will meet as the committee the day before their regular meeting to allow "more time and better environment for in-depth consideration" of building projects.

They said they intended to evaluate each proposal not only in terms of need and cost, but also with regard to whether the money could be spent more wisely on something else.

One consideration will be source of funding and the impact on the system's debt capacity and it "resources available for our mandated pursuit of 'academic excellence,'" the regents' resolution said.

Graduate center to start three courses this week

Registration for three courses, which will begin this week, offered by the Permian Basin Graduate Center (PBGC) are being accepted from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the graduate center office at 104 Gulf Building.

Introduction to Oil and Gas Taxation will be offered from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Thursdays in classroom three in The Metro Building, 119 N. Colorado. The course is for staff accountants, independents and oil operators who need a complete review of the tax laws with regard to oil and gas. Instructors are A. Frank Kubica, Billingsley, Johnson, Kubica and Stewart and Michael D. Kropper, Turpin, Smith Dyer and Saxe. Fee is $140.

Principles of Land and Leasing will be offered from 7 to 10 p.m. Tuesdays in classroom three. The course is taught by selected land, right-of-way and legal experts in the Permian Basin. Registration for individual sessions may be made. Fee for the course is $140 or $20 for each individual session.

Dr. Jack Elam will instruct Prospect Evaluation for Non-Geologists Wednesday evenings in classrooon three. The course covers various petroleum goelogical techniques used in building a prospect. An exploration game will be conducted throughout the course.

Further information can be obtained by calling the graduate center at 683-2832 or 563-2311.

Mystery sleuths read for prizes

Students ages 6 through 14 can become mystery sleuths by participating in a read-a-thon for multiple sclerosis Oct. 3 through Nov. 4.

Participants will be considered mystery sleuths because they will be aiding in solving a mystery crippling disease.

Registration for the read-a-thon begins today with forms available at the Midland County Library, in today's Reporter-Telegram or by calling 683-5444. Kits will be sent by return mail.

The third annual read-a-thon is sponsored by the Reta Omega Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha. Participants in the read-a-thon are encouraged to get as many sponsors as possible to pledge 10 cents or more per book read.

First graders who are unable to read may have parents read books to them.

Grand prizes will be given to those with the largest sum of money brought in, the largest number of sponsors and the largest number of books read.

Grand prizes include bicycles, television electronic games and savings bonds.

Other prizes include gift certificates, banana splits, and free meals.

Deadline for turning in kits and money is Nov. 11. Prizes will be awarded Nov. 18.

Playday winners named

Sixty-two horseback riders raced against the clock during the Tall City Youth Horse Club's September Playday in the Midland County 4-H Arena.

Each age group, boys and girls competing separately, participated in the barrels, poles, flag and goat-tying contests. However, ages 6 and under, both boys and girls, did not have to rope the goat's legs. They had to collar the animal.

Also, best all-around rider was chosen. The winners for this month's playday were:

Ages 6 and under, girls: Lori Bloodworth and Tori Harris, both of Midland.

Ages 6 and under, boys: Chad Olson of Midland.

Ages 7 through 9, girls: Shelly Hodge and Sue Thompson, both of Midland.

Ages 7 through 9, boys: Johnnie Casbeer and John Brenneman, both of Midland.

Ages 10 through 12, girls, Sande Miller of Odessa and Traci Hodge of Midland.

Ages 10 through 12, boys, Bryan Dixon, David McCain and Gary Otwell, all of Midland.

Ages 13 through 15, girls: Pam McCain, Terri Otho and Angie Caabeer, all of Midland.

Ages 13 through 15, boys: Terry Glover and David Askew, both of Midland.

Ages 16 through 19, girls: Ann Menzenmayer, Trisha Hall and Tanna Hutchison, all of Midland.

Ages 16 through 19, boys: Danny Otwell of Midland.

Ages 20 and over, women: Candy Tolbert of Midland.

In addition, Bill Griffin of Midland won the stereo tape deck the club gave away.

The club's last playday of the year is set for Oct. 7, also at the 4-H arena.

WASHINGTON OIL

Energy development may find way into bill

By CLYDE LA MOTTE

WASHINGTON — There is an increasing possibility, now very close to a probability, that the final energy legislation will contain more emphasis on increasing domestic energy resources than was called for in the administration's original energy plan.

In fact, the administration itself may alter its proposals to provide for more effort to develop domestic supplies and may be willing to accept other changes approved by Congress.

Administration officials are well aware of the mounting criticism of the proposed crude oil equalization tax which would increase U.S. oil prices to imported oil price levels but which would not earmark any of those monies for domestic energy development. Critics of this approach say the President's plan is a tax bill, not an energy bill.

Federal regulation of the wellhead price of natural gas is also an issue, with the current outlook that the administration may be forced to accept deregulation or, more likely, a higher ceiling price than the $1.75 level proposed by the White House. And phasing out of controls over a period of three or four years is a definite compromise prospect.

The natural gas issue will reach a showdown this week when the Senate takes up that portion of the energy package. The Senate Energy Committee divided, 9-9, on a proposed amendment to deregulate new onshore gas and to phase out offshore gas price controls. As a result of the split, the committee is sending the bill to the Senate floor without a recommendation.

If outright deregulation of new, onshore gas fails — it may do so by a margin of three to five votes — there will be compromise proposals for a higher ceiling or for a phaseout, or a combination.

Advocates of decontrol, or at least higher prices, point out that natural gas from Canada and Mexico and imports of liquified natural gas from overseas will be necessary to bridge the supply-demand gap and that this gas will be much more costly than the price currently being allowed domestic producers and higher than the new ceiling proposed by the Carter administration.

There has been no indication that the administration is willing to give any ground on this issue but it's unlikely there would be a veto of an over-all energy bill containing a deregulation or an increased price provision.

Nor does the administration appear willing to budge on crude oil price controls unless Congress forces it to do so.

However, there is the prospect that the administration may be willing to earmark some of the crude oil equalization tax funds for domestic energy development, particularly for development of supplemental sources of supply.

In last week's hearing by the Senate Finance Committee it became evident that many of the committee members feel the administration's plan does little or nothing to encourage development of domestic resources.

Sen. Herman Talmadge (D-Ga.) questioned Energy Secretary James

Nation's gasoline consumption rate continues to log increase

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP)—The growth rate is somewhat slower, but gasoline consumption in the United States continues to climb.

Gasoline demand last year hit a record 7 million barrels a day, an average that was 4.3 per cent above 1975.

The American Petroleum Institute has estimated gasoline demand the first six months of 1977 at 7,022,000 barrels a day. While the average represents a record level, the growth rate was only 2.6 per cent above the comparable year earlier period.

Hydrocarbon Processing, a monthly trade publication, noted in its annual market data report that domestic refineries the first six months of the year operated at 91.5 per cent of capacity compared with 88.1 per cent the same 1976 period.

Gulf Coast refineries were averaging 94.6 per cent of capacity.

"Historically, a 90-plus percentage operating factor has signaled the construction of more refining capacity in the United States," the publication observed.

"In view of the increasing dependence on crude oil and the increasing refinery operating factors, expansion of U. S. refining capacity cannot be delayed much longer without serious damage to the U. S. economy."

An annual U. S. Bureau of Mines survey placed domestic refining capacity as of Jan. 1 at 15,870,935 barrels a day compared with 14,867,529 in 1976, 14,696,750 in 1975, and 14,220,316 in 1974.

The new Hydrocarbon Processing report said firm refinery projects should boost U. S. refining capacity 970,000 barrels a day.

"About 415,000 barrels daily should come on stream during 1977, which would leave 565,000 barrels a day to be completed during 1978 and 1989 if no more U. S. refining expansion is announced. There is another 518,000 barrels daily announced, but activation of these projects depends upon getting site clearance which is highly dubious at this time."

The publication noted there is much talk currently of developing energy sources other than petroleum refining.

"The fact remains, these alternate energy sources are generally more expensive, less convenient and insufficiently developed to handle the energy demands now satisfied by petroleum products," the report continued.

"As a result, crude oil continues to supply more and more of the world's energy demand. The present growth trend in refining capacity bears out the increasing use of crude oil as the world's preferred energy source."

The industrial areas of North America, Europe, and the Far East, the report said, increased their combined share of world refining capacity from 77.2 to 80.4 per cent during the seven-year period ending in June.

"Their 25.4 million barrels a day capacity increase amounted to 85.2 per cent of the total worldwide increase of 29.8 million barrels a day during this seven-year period," the report said.

"Europe, with an increase of 15.9 million barrels a day of refining capacity, was the number one gainer. Heavy contributors to Europe's increase in refining capacity were the USSR and the nations of Eastern Europe."

George F. Weis

Alan J. Daniels

ERG adds two to staff

Energy Reserves Group has announced the addition of two persons to its Midland office.

Alan J. Daniels was assigned as division geophysicist for the the West Texas Division, and George F. Weis is senior staff geologist for the division.

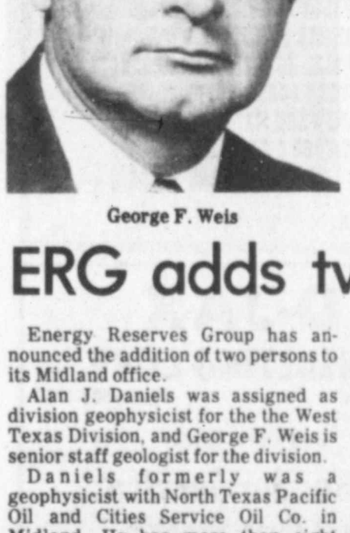

Daniels formerly was a geophysicist with North Texas Pacific Oil and Cities Service Oil Co. in Midland. He has more than eight years of experience in the Permian Basin.

Daniels holds a B.A. degree in Geology from the University of Iowa. He is a member of the Society of Exploration Geophysicists and the Permian Basin Geophysical Society.

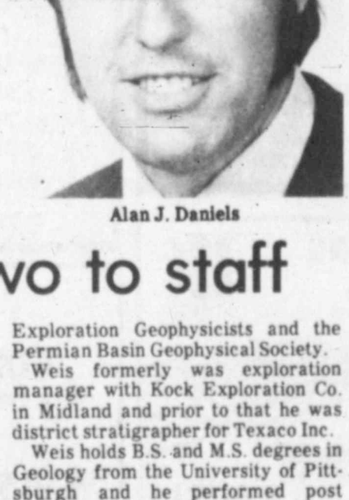

Weis formerly was exploration manager with Kock Exploration Co. in Midland and prior to that he was district stratigrapher for Texaco Inc.

Weis holds B.S. and M.S. degrees in Geology from the University of Pittsburgh and he performed post graduate study at the University of Caracas, Venezuela.

His professional memberships include the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, the Society of Exploration Geophysicists and the West Texas Geological Society.

Area oil, gas office opens

The Harrisons Interests has opened a West Texas Area exploration office in Midland, 1226 Western United Life Building.

The office is staffed by Vincent F. Scury, formerly with Dow Chemical Co., and by Robert C. Schlagal who has been associated with the company for the last three years as West Texas Area engineer.

The Harrisons Interests is headquartered in Houston under the management of A. E. Woodard.

Owners include Dan J. Harrison Jr., Dan J. Harrison III and Bruce F. Harrison.

The Harrison family has operated as independents in the oil business since 1903, with most of their activities and producing properties along the Texas and Louisiana Gulf Coast.

During the last three years, The Harrisons Interests has operated in West Texas, mainly in Crockett, Edwards and Sutton counties.

Sessions scheduled

A former Federal Administration auditor who is serving as a consultant to the Energy Consumers and Producers Association will be in Midland Monday and Tuesday to confer with association members who are facing FEA audits.

Lowell Branum and J. M. Fullinwider, both of Midland, association board members arranged for the consultant to conduct individual conferences with members in the conference room of The First National Bank of Midland.

"Non-members who want to meet with the former FEA auditor should contact Mr. Fullinwider," Bud Stewart of Seminole, Okla., executive director of Energy Consumers and Producers," said.

Marshall Mason Jr.

M. Mason joins MGF

Marshall Mason Jr. has joined MGF Oil Corp. in Midland as a vice president.

Mason, who formerly lived in Midland, will coordinate the exploration program of the company and serve as technical assistant to R. O. "Jack" Major, president and chief executive officer.

Mason, a 1947 graduate of Texas Tech University with a B.S. degree in Petroleum Engineering-geology option, began his professional career with Geotechnical Exploration Co. in Dallas as a seismic interpreter.

In 1949, he joined Union Oil Co. of California as a seismogram interpreter in West Texas and Southeast New Mexico. Beginning in 1951, he worked as an area geologist and in 1955 was promoted to district geologist for Union in the Midland District. In 1958, he was appointed geological-geophysical coordinator for Union in the West Texas-Southeast New Mexico area.

In 1960, Mason was appointed assistant geological coordinator of Union's United States and Canadian exploration operations in Los Angeles and he was named geological coordinator of the United States for the company in 1962.

He received a Master of Divinity degree in Berkeley, Calif., in 1966 and served as a clergyman of the Episcopal church from 1966 to 1977 in Southeast Texas.

Tuesday and Wednesday will be devoted to various committee meetings and the annual meeting of the IADC board of directors.

The annual meeting will close following a brunch at 11:15 a.m. Friday.

RRC names Bob Harris

AUSTIN — Bob R. Harris, a 22-year veteran of Railroad Commission of Texas service, has been named chief engineer of the commission's Oil and Gas Division.

He had been serving as the acting head of the division since July.

Harris served as director of research and inspection from 1963 until he was made acting chief engineer. He joined the commission in 1955 as a field engineer in the division's Corpus Christi District and transferred to Austin as a technical hearings examiner in 1956. He was the division's chief gas engineer from 1960 to 1963.

Immediately prior to joining the RRC, he was a field engineer for Phillips Petroleum Co. in Borger.

Piotrowski promoted

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Joseph Piotrowski, acting director of the railroad commission's gas utilities division since January, was promoted Monday to promoter.

Piotrowski, 30, has been with the commission for eight years, serving in the transportation division as rate auditor, rate examiner and rate director.

He is a native of Wilmington, Del., and has a bachelor's degree from St. Edward's University here.

Jay P. Simpson

Mud, sense SPE topic

"Drilling Mud-Ecology-and Common Sense" is to be the topic presented by Jay P. Simpson, Distinguished Lecturer for the Society of Petroleum Engineers, at the Tuesday meeting of the Permian Basin Section of SPE.

The meeting will begin at 6:30 p. m. in the Ranchland Hill Country Club in Midland.

Simpson is manager of technical services for Baroid Petroleum Services, NL Industries, Inc., in Houston.

He is an active SPE member, having served on local section and national committee assignments. A 1947 graduate of Rice University, Simpson holds a B.S. degree in Chemical Engineering.

In his present position at Baroid, he is responsible for technical development and support for drilling and production services in the company's worldwide operations.

He has written and presented several papers for a number of technical societies, including several papers published in SPE's Journal of Petroleum Technology.

Permian Basin rotary count tops 300-mark

Reed Drilling Equipment reported in its Friday survey of rotary rig operation, that 301 units were working in the Permian Basin Empire.

The count rose four from the tally two weeks ago of 297, while one year ago in a similar week of September, only 249 rigs were in operation in the two-state area.

Eddy County, N.M., with 30 rigs continued the leader in drilling operations, followed by Pecos with 28. Lea, N.M., and Ward tied for third spot with 21 rotaries reported in each county.

Crockett and Reeves counties each had 13 rigs operating, Upton had 11 and Gaines and Hockley 10 each.

Wheat under government loan nears record total

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers are well on their way to having the most wheat put under government price support loan by the end of the year since at least 1971.

The Agriculture Department says that as of Aug. 31, some 326.3 million bushels of wheat from the 1977 crop were stored under the loan program, compared with only 21.6 million a year earlier from the 1976 harvest.

When wheat prices are down, as they have been, it is common practice for farmers to borrow money from USDA, by using their grain as collateral. If prices go up, they normally pay off the loans and sell their crop for cash. If the loans are not repaid, USDA eventually assumes ownership and the grain is the property of the government.

The Aug. 31 wheat figures were released Friday in a monthly report.

Officials said the 326.3 million bushels in the loan program were the most for that date since Aug. 31, 1958.

But grain tied up under loan — farmers cannot sell it unless the loans are settled — has been much more than that many times later in the year. On Dec. 31, 1971, wheat under loan totaled 486 million bushels, and on Dec. 31 totaled 706 million.

Thomson denies sending objectionable photograph

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Gov. Meldrim Thomson says he had no part in a mailing of a picture depicting a badly burned white child as a victim of the "black power" movement.

Thomson also said he would not apologize, as New Hampshire's black leaders have demanded, for his statements against the late Martin Luther King, Jr. or U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young.

Thomson, head of the national Conservative Caucus, said he was not aware that a photograph of a burned white baby accompanied a mailing of the caucus' attack on Young as one who endorsed black power and who sided with Communist causes.

Thomson confirmed that the picture accompanied a letter by him. The picture was "mailed without my knowledge or approval ... the letter had my approval," Thomson said.

He said at a news conference Thursday he has been assured by the staff of the Conservative Caucus that it was "unfortunate" that the picture was included in the mailing.

McAlister gets award

V. G. McAlister, production superintendent with Continental Oil Co.'s Production Department in Midland, recently was presented with an award for 40 years service with the company.

McAlister began his career with Conoco in 1937 with the Geophysical Department in Baytown.

Following service with the Air Force in World War II, he returned to Continental's employment in 1946. He worked in Louisiana, Oklahoma, Kansas and Mississippi and the Gulf Coast Area of Texas in various capacities with the Geophysical Department. He was transferred to the Controller's Department as inventory engineer in Wichita Falls in 1948.

He was moved to Midland in 1950 and then was transferred to the Production Department in Hobbs, N. M., in 1957 as production foreman.

He later worked at other locations in New Mexico, Odessa and Big Spring before returning to Midland as production superintendent in 1963.

Energy

Schlesinger about earmarking some of the tax revenues for such programs as shale oil development.

Talmadge noted that an Atlantic Richfield Co. official had testified that at present world oil prices, with a $3 a barrel tax credit, his company could produce oil from shale.

Talmadge wanted to know if such a tax credit wouldn't be better than increasing the amount of imports.

Schlesinger responded that such a move appears to be "a useful option." He said he would discuss it with President Carter to see if the President would approve. "It's very attractive," Schlesinger said, although he warned that it would take a long time to develop substantial shale oil production.

Talmadge also mentioned that the energy bill as it came from the House offers no incentives for developing what he termed as "huge" methane deposits in the Gulf Coast area. He asked whether some tax revenues shouldn't be earmarked for such development.

Schlesinger said the administration can review the situation to see if some funds could be used for that purpose.

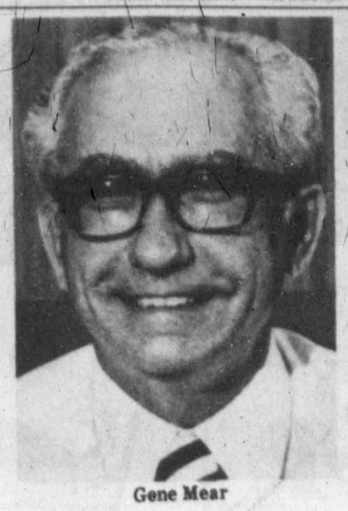

Sen. Russell Long (D-La.), chairman of the committee, said flatly that his committee will not approve its bill unless the tax funds are earmarked for energy development.

Schlesinger and other administration spokesmen have been arguing that the energy bill provides adequate incentives for efforts to increase domestic production. But an increasing number of critics say there is too much emphasis on conservation and not enough on increasing supply.

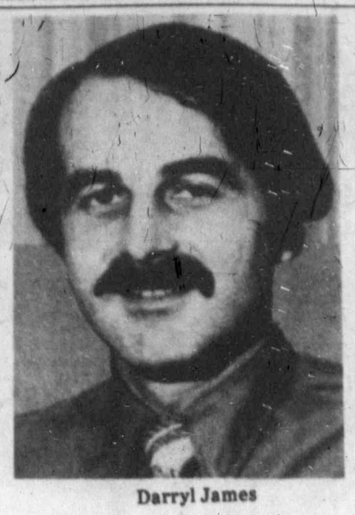

Therefore, the prospect that is now emerging is that some mid-ground approach will have to be reached that will include more effort to spur supply increase efforts. Otherwise, there may be no energy bill at all this year.

Southland makes three changes

Robert Schumaker, exploration manager of Southland Royalty Co.'s Midland office, has been promoted to vice president of geology and geophysics and transferred to the company's headquarters in Fort Worth.

Southland Royalty also announced the promotion of Gene Mear to exploration manager in Midland, replacing Schumaker, and the promotion of Darryl James to district geologist in Midland, replacing Mear.

Schumaker joined Southland in April 1976 as exploration manager of the Midland office which is responsible for the company's operations in the Permian Basin of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico.

He previously worked seven years for Tenneco as geologist and division geologist in the Rocky Mountain, Midcontinent and West Texas areas. Before that he worked three years as an exploration geologist for Sinclair.

Schumaker will be responsible for coordinating the geological and geophysical activities and staffing of the company's district offices involved in oil and gas exploration in the United States and Canada.

He is a graduate of Wichita State University with bachelors and masters degrees in Geology.

Mear joined Southland Royalty in May 1976. In his new post, he will be responsible for the overall management of the company's expanded operations in the Permian Basin.

Before joining Southland Royalty, Mear worked as an exploration manager for Louisiana Land and Exploration Co.

He holds bachelors and masters degrees in Geology from The University of Texas. He is a former vice president of the West Texas Geological Society.

James has been with Southland Royalty since November 1976 when he joined the company as a staff geologist.

He worked in oil exploration in the United States and Europe for Exxon Corp. before joining Southland.

James will direct the company's district geological staff from the Midland office. He earned bachelors and masters degrees in Geology from Rutgers University.

Accountants to meet at RHCC Wednesday

William S. Stinson of San Antonio, treasurer of Tesoro Petroleum Corp., will be the speaker for the Wednesday meeting of the Petroleum Accountants Society of Midland.

The meeting will get under way at 6 p. m. in Ranchland Hills Country Club. The dinner and program will begin at 7.

Stinson, a graduate of the University of Houston, has done graduate work at the University of Tulsa and The University of Texas.

He joined Tesoro in 1970 as a systems analyst and served as assistant to the treasurer and assistant treasurer before becoming treasurer.

Prior to 1970, he was with Sun Oil Co. in the Treasurer's Department.

A member of the Financial Executives' Institute and the American Petroleum Institute, Stinson is a guest lecturer at The University of Texas at San Antonio.

Gulf hands mark anniversaries

Service anniversaries have been observed by four Gulf Energy and Minerals Co.-U.S., Southwest Division, employes.

J. C. Newland of Crane completed 40 years with the company last Thursday, D. M. Woods of Midland chalked up his 30th year the same day, V. L. Hagler of Crane marked his 30th year with the company Saturday, as did W. G. Rabb of Midland.

Newland, a well tester in the Crane Area of the Production Department, started woking for Gulf in 1937 as a cable tool dresser in the McElroy Area. He also has served with the company as a connection man and lease pumper.

Woods, regional geophysicist in the Midland headquarters office of the Exploration Department, started his Gulf career in 1947 as a tech trainee. In addition to his present position, he has been a party chief and staff geophysicist.

Hagler went to work for Gulf in 1947 as a roustabout in the McElroy Area. He currently is a lease operator in the Odessa Area of the Production Department. He worked as a connection man before becoming a lease operator.

Rabb, a senior clerk in the Midland headquarters of the Comptroller Department of the Southwest Division, joined Gulf in 1947 as a general clerk. In addition to his present assignment, he has served as a clerk.

Applications refused

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Applications to drill for oil and gas in Great Salt Lake and Bear Lake have been turned down by by the Utah Land Board.

It was the second time Ed Pendleton of Denver had been turned down in his application to drill in Bear Lake.

He said he intended to turn leases on 35,095 acres over to Hunt Petroleum Co. of Dallas, Tex., if they were granted.

Donald G. Price, assistant state lands director, said his staff reviewed the application and saw no reason for the board to change its July 21, 1976, rejection of Pendleton's proposal.

The board withdrew the Utah portion of the lake from mineral leasing, contending it would upset the lake's fragile environment. Part of the lake is in Idaho.

The board denied a lease request from O.W. Gushee Jr. for hydrocarbon leases on 9,826 acres on the west shore of Great Salt Lake.

Board members said they feared a possible conflict with surface operations by NL Industries in the area.

The board also heard from Rich County officials, who said drought caused a nine-foot drope in the level of Bear Lake, creating a strip of beach belonging to the state instead of beachfront property owners.

The county officials have asked for an attorney general's opinion on whether county or state officials should police the strip.

"There have been people camping in front of beach homes, partying, making noise and otherwise disturbing the peace," said Sheriff Thad Mattson.

"We've tried to keep the vehicles off the beach and when they've returned, we've threatened to run them off, but we still don't know where we stand," he said.

The board decided to wait for the attorney general's opinion.

In other action, the board formalized an agreement allowing Gulf Oil Corp. to lease 31,000 acres of oil shale land in Uintah County.

Wildcats, field wells, tests reported in WT areas

Five field area wells, three field area locations and a wildcat project have been reported in West Texas oil and gas areas.

CROCKETT WELLS

A pair of oilers have been completed in the Wyatt (Grayburg) area of Crockett County, 15 miles northwest of Ozona, by Amoco Production Co.

The concern's No. 10-A J.S. Todd was finaled ½ mile northwest of other production for a daily plumping potential of 80 barrels of 24-gravity oil, plus 41 barrels of water, through perforations from 1,384 to 1,424 feet after a 1,500-gallon acid treatment. Gas-oil ratio was 512-1.

Location is 660 feet from south and 2,030 feet from east lines of section 30, block WX, GC&SF survey.

Amoco No. 11-A J. S. Todd, ⅝ mile northeast and northwest of production, was completed for a 24-hour pumping potential of 121 barrels of 23.2-gravity oil, no water, through perforations from 1,226 to 1,282 feet after 2,000 gallons of acid. Gas-oil ratio was 330-1.

Wellsite is 1,880 feet from south and 2,200 feet from east lines of section 30, block WX, GC&SF survey.

UPTON OILER

Gulf Oil Corp. No. 18-M McElroy Ranch Co. is a new well in the King Mountain, North (Bend) field of Upton County, 11 miles southwest of Crane.

Operator reported a 24-hour flowing potential of 325.5 barrels of 41.3-gravity oil, plus 13.6 barrels of water, through a 17/64-inch choke and perforations from 9,908 to 9,954 feet. The pay zone had been washed with 1,000 gallons of mud acid and acidized with 10,000 gallons.

Gas-oil ratio was 1,573-1.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and 1,320 feet from east lines of section 143, block E, CCSD&RGNG survey. It is the ninth producer from the Bend in the field.

COKE WELL

Corpening Enterprises of Fort Worth has announced the assurance of the fourth well in the Meadow Creek (Canyon) field of Coke County.

Five-eighths mile north of other production from the Canyon, the well flowed 56 barrels of oil in 11½ hour.

The flow was through an 8/64-inch choke and perforations from 5,284 to 5,258 feet. Testing continues.

Location is in section 320, block 1-A, H&TC survey. The project is No. 1-A Bird.

MIDLAND WELL

Ashland Oil, Inc., of Houston No. 3-4 R. S. Davenport has been completed as a ⅝-mile southeast extension to the Midland County portion of the Calvin (Dean) field.

The recompleted project, formerly a Spraberry producer, is 22 miles southwest of Garden City and 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 3, block 37, T-5-S, T&P survey.

On 24-hour potential test, the well pumped 86 barrels of 39.6-gravity oil, plus 15 barrels of water, through perforations from 8,572 to 8,896 feet. The zone had been acidized with 2,750-gallons and fractured with 107,000 gallons.

Gas-oil ratio was 1,407-1.

RUNNELS WILDCAT

John W. Barbee of Abilene amnounced location for a 4,000-foot wildcat in Runnels County, 11 miles northeast of Ballinger.

It is No. 2 Charles W. Glass, 280 feet from south and 1,800 feet from east lines of Austin-Williams survey No. 263.

Drillsite is ½ mile south of the Gardner gas opener and ½ mile southeast of the Jennings discovery in the Crews, Southwest field.

OFFSET TEST

John W. Barbee of Abilene No. 1 Arthur Kerby will be drilled one location north of Barbee No. 1 Faubion, lone producer in the Dos Hijas (Fry) field of Runnels County, 10 miles northeast of Ballinger.

Scheduled for a 4,000-foot depth, it is 6,094.6 feet from southeast and 1,959.6 feet from northeast lines of Antonio Losoyo survey No. 515.

SUTTON TRY

HNG Oil Co. of Midland No. 2-77 Wallas is to be dug as a 5,000-foot operation one mile east of Canyon gas production in the Sutton County portion of the Sawyer multipay field of Sutton County.

It is 15 miles southeast of Sonora and 933 feet from south and 1,083 feet from east lines of section 77, block 14, TW&NG survey.

IRION TEST

Tucker Drilling Co., Inc., of San Angelo announced site for a 6,800-foot test in the Christi (Canyon oil) area of Irion County.

It is No. 2-36 Cravens, one location south of production and two miles southwest of Mertzon.

Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 36, J. H. Lindley survey.

Concern developing in economy slowdown

By KRISTIN GOFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Now that the widely expected economic slowdown is under way, a number of economists are concerned that the downturn may be headed on too steep a track.

President Carter, in an interview this past week, stood pat, declaring that the country is "not facing a recession."

There is "every indication" that the economy can achieve the government target growth rate of 5 per cent to 6 per cent for this year despite a slowdown in the second half and maintain moderate growth next year, he said.

While the predictions of recession do not seem to be widespread among economists, many have adopted a more pessimistic view about the scope of the slowdown based on a number of factors.

"I don't think things are going so well at all," says Michael Evans, an Chase Econometrics economist known for his bearish outlook.

"There is sluggish growth in personal income, unemployment is starting to rise fairly steadily ... growth in real disposable income is not very strong, and consumers don't have money to spend."

Evans, who feels that consumer spending "is the whole ballgame," is predicting a lower level of growth than most of his cohorts this year and close to flat performance — 1.6 per cent growth — for 1978.

At the other end of the spectrum are economists from Citibank of New York, who declare "the recovery is still very much alive, although probably a bit tired by now of trying to prove its existence."

"Short-term swings in many economic indicators include a large content of irregular meaningless noise. This is especially true of retail sales and the leading indicators index," Citibank economists wrote in their Economic Letter.

As positive signs, they cite such things as a slower rise in the government's Consumer Price Index — which signals a slowing of inflation — and growth in housing and business capital spending.

And they point to historical trends as a partial explanation for the forcasting fraternity's growing pessimism just now.

"The average span of a peace-time recovery is just under three years. It is now about two-and-a-half years since the economy bottomed out," they note.

But they discern a difference in the current business cycle because the duration and the depth of the 1973-75 recession.

In the case of that recession, they say, there was enough time and enough slack in the economy for policymakers to pursue various and somewhat conflicting objectives.

The results of those make this business cycle different from others and, according to Citibank economists, will provide enough underlying to prevent a recession through 1978 and possibly 1979.

In other business news developments this past week:

— Embattled Bert Lance went before a Senate investigating committee to defend his performance both as a banker and as Carter's budget director. Lance denied some allegations and contended that he discussed other aspects of his financial dealings at the time of his nomination.

One point the committee is trying to establish is whether Lance misled Senators about his background when they considered the nomination.

— The prime rate charged by the nation's major banks was increased ¼ point, 7¼ per cent, in response to tighter federal credit policies. Chase Manhattan Bank, the nation's third-largest, was first to announce a higher prime interest rate but by Friday most major banks in the country had followed suit.

The prime rate is the interest rate charged to preferred corporate customers and isn't directly tied to rates for consumer loans, but analysts note that it can exert a psychological effect on other interest charges.

— Congress approved a $458.3 billion spending plan with a $61.3 billion deficit for the new fiscal year beginning Oct. 1. Republicans strongly opposed the compromise budget ceiling, saying it would force Democrat Carter to raise taxes or abandon his goal of a balanced budget by 1981.

— President Carter's proposals to provide consumer rebates from a new tax on domestically produced oil ran into flat opposition in the Senate Finance Committee, where leaders said a rebate plan would have to be scrapped or the legislation would not be approved.

— A minimum wage bill to raise the base hourly rate from $2.30 an hour to $2.65 and $3.05 by 1980 passed the House and was sent to the Senate. But the measure did not contain some major items backed by the unions. The House exempted about 3.8 million workers now covered in small businesses and rejected a labor-backed provision setting up a formula for automatic cost-of-living increases after 1980.

business beattitudes™

by Bill Beattie

There should never be the thought of finishing, for "aiming at the stars", both literally and figuratively, is a problem to occupy generations. No matter how much progress we make, there should always be the thrill of just beginning.

Henry Ward Beecher tells us, "We should so live and labor in our time that what came to us as seed may go to the next generation as blossom, and what came to us as blossom may go to them as fruit." — This is what we mean by progress."

To be satisfied with partial or delayed success is to be willing to have a lower standard than striving for perfection. It is wrong to accept slow or "pretty good" progress; — it is always right to strive for perfection by always doing the very best we can.

Mankind in general appears to be satisfied with something far short of excellence. In school, government, and even in the business world, progress of an inferior quality is frequently tolerated, although excellence should be the goal of all of us. The problem arises when we do not aim high enough, if, indeed, we have a goal at all.

The vast progress we have made is only a symbol of the progress that is possible by our constantly striving towards new horizons in all our activities. Who can say what new horizons lie before us if we can but maintain our initiative and develop the imagination to penetrate these new horizons in government, in economics, and in social change! In fact, new horizons are expanding in all directions around us. If we meet their challenge, there will be greater degrees of well-being enjoyed by everyone, everywhere.

Mankind never loses any good thing until it finds a better thing to take its place, and then the loss is gain. There is no standstill or backward step in human history. What is gained by one man is always invested in all men and is a permanent investment for all time.

PROGRESS depends on the enterprise of thinking people who are ahead of the times in their ideas.

Seminar on hedging scheduled in Lubbock

LUBBOCK — A down-to-earth, one-day program designed for livestock producers who are interested in hedging on futures markets will be presented in Lubbock Oct. 3 by the Chicago Mercantile Exchange in cooperation with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Formally called Farm Forums, the hedging seminars are being offered to help farmers and ranchers learn how to cope with fluctuating prices that frequently work to the disadvantage of cattle producers.

Representing the CME will be William Sullivan, director of educational services, Pete Stubben, education specialist, and Ronald J. Frost, vice president of public information-marketing.

Sullivan describes the seminar series as a "reach out" project through which the CME carries its educational effort to rural areas that otherwise would not have the benefit of learning about futures markets.

The Farm Forums have won the cooperation of leading agricultural economists from state universities in each state, Sullivan said.

The seminar in Lubbock is one of 11 planned in Texas. Beginning with registration at 8:45 a. m., the forum will be held in the Big Texan Steak Ranch.

The agenda will include "Your Profit in Futures, a film in hedging; a livestock outlook by Dr. Ernest Davis of Lubbock; a hedging seminar conducted by Pete Stubben; a panel discussion chaired by Kenneth Cook, Lubbock County extension agent; a hedging workshop, including a discussion of hedging strategies, and a concluding session outlining 17 key points to remember in hedging.

Church returns

PASS CHRISTIAN, Miss. (AP) — The 36-member Pineville Church congregation, which in 1974 withdrew from the Presbyterian Church in the U.S. to join a new break-away denomination, the Presbyterian Church in America, has returned to the former denominational fold.

Residential permits feature new building

The average price of 16 new residences for which building permits were obtained last week was $52,500.

Although the average selling price of a new home in Midland is just a little over $45,000, if last week's trend continues, it looks like that $45,000 house is a dream of the past.

The total value of permits issued for new residential construction last week came to $841,000, out of the $1,072,330 issued for building permits by the Midland Inspections Department last week.

Last week's figures bring the total value of permits issued for the year up to $26,899,962 on 759 permits.

Residential permits were issued to Mark Langston for $65,000, at 2819 Emerson Place; Wallace Construction Co. for $55,000, 1005 Shirley Lane; Wallace Construction for for $55,000, 1007 Shirley Lane; Wallace Construction for $55,000, 1009 Shirley Lane; Simpson & West for $42,000, 3507 Gulf; Larry Stroud for $48,000, 4410 Princeton; Les Lane for $45,500, 1115 Andrews Highway; Allen Construction for $50,000, 3006 Goddard Place; Allen Construction for $60,000, 3002 Goddard Place; Trend Homes for $66,000, 2514 Lockheed; Paul Noel for $75,000, 3311 Haynes; Les Proctor Construction for $50,000, 4207 Ferncliff; Clyde C. White for $42,500, 210 Ferncliff; Clyde C. White for $42,500, 4216 Ferncliff; Clyde C. White for $45,000, 4208 Nelson Rd.

Two permits were issued for new commercial construction for a total value of $195,000.

They were issued to Gene Sledge Drilling for $45,000, for a new commercial drilling rig shop at 1210 S. Midkiff Drive; and to Plaza Inc. for $150,000, for a new commercial restaurant at #45 Plaza Shopping Center.

Twelve permits were issued for residential rennovation for a total value of $58,330.

They were issued to Thomas L. Piper for $1,500, enclose garage at 3316 Mariana; Duke Jimerson for $9,180, add swimming pool at 2006 Shell; Julian Reyes for $3,200, add den to existing residence; Andres Ybana for $500, residential alterations at 1403 Lynn; Mrs. Mildred Ford for $2,850, adding den to existing residence; 411 W. Dengar; Andrew Stephenson for $500, adding roof to patio at 2807 Roosevelt; Ruben Garcia for $200, 1307 E. Walnut Lane; Janell Gibson for $1,500, enclose garage for bedroom, 3404 Hill.

Four permits were issued for commercial alterations for a total value of $20,400.

They were issued to Katio Lineban for $10,000, 404 Andrews Highway; E. A. Velina for $10,000, 308 S. Colorado; Wall Towers West for $200, 201 W. Wall St.; and Ruben Garcia for $200, 1307 E. Walnut Lane.

Verner resigns

LUBBOCK — A. C. Verner, president of the First National Bank of Lubbock, will retire effective Oct. 1 and he will be succeeded by Howard L. Yandell in the top position at Lubbock's biggest bank.

Verner will remain active as vice chairman of the board of directors and as a stockholder.

Preference would cost consumers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cargo preference legislation now before Congress would cost petroleum consumers twice as much as estimated by the Carter administration, the Federal Trade Commission says.

The legislation, supported by the President and already approved by the House Merchant Marine Committee, would require 9.5 per cent of oil imported into the United States to be carried by U.S. ships by 1985.

The Carter administration has estimated that such a requirement would add $110 million a year to the cost of oil imports because shipping would be more expensive.

However, in a letter to Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., the Federal Trade Commission said a cost increase ranging from $190 million to $290 million as predicted by the General Accounting Office would be more "reliable."

The FTC said it had not made its own analysis of potential cost increases, but from examining other estimates there is "practically no chance" that the increases would be significantly lower than the General Accounting Office estimates.

The commission suggested that there might be alternatives to cargo preference which would also achieve the goal of developing a larger U.S. merchant fleet.

"Cargo preference creates simultaneously a subsidy to the U.S. merchant marine industry and a tax on U.S. consumers of oil," the FTC said in the letter to Griffin.

Griffin had requested the commission's opinion on the matter.

BUSINESS NOTEBOOK

Insurance board's future prime topic

By BILL KIDD
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN—What will happen with the State Board of Insurance under the chairmanship of Hugh Yantis has been a prime topic of speculation lately — but Yantis himself is indicating no plans for any great changes, at least immediately.

An interoffice memorandum, signed by Chief Clerk Bill Harding, is informing SBI staffers that Chairman Yantis is taking "great pains" to assure employes with whom he talks that there aren't any plans for great changes — and that staff members who are working diligently need have no undue concern.

Industry officials are taking a wait-and-see attitude, but initial reaction has been favorable from some.

At Yantis' first meeting with industry officials, he spent considerable time going through proposed regulations with them line by line — and often word by word.

Such judicious review may be viewed as nitpicking by some — but at least one industry official indicated he was glad to see it.

"This," he told Yantis at a break, "is what we've been trying to get the board to do."

Whether the pace of regulatory activity, and speed of implementing innovations will change under Yantis won't be known for a while — but indications are that things will slow down at least during the initial period.

While Gov. Dolph Briscoe wasted no time in appointing Yantis to the opening created by Joe Christie's resignation, the governor has shown little haste in replacing or reappointing Durwood Manford, who continues to serve although his term expired Jan. 31.

Rumors circulating around the Capitol indicate that at least some employes of the board weren't at all unhappy to see Christie leave — and the insurance industry indicated no collective broken heart, either.

Meanwhile, the SBI's relatively new job classification system apparently ran afoul of the state auditor's office's classification division.

That office, it seems, has informed the board the proposed revisions in job descriptions have been reviewed and were found not to be in compliance with the job classification law enacted in 1961, or with the current appropriations bill.

Department officials will say only that a "problem does exist."

That problem includes withholding of salaries from employes whose classifications are found to be improper.

So it appears that Chairman Yantis may not exactly have leaped from the frying pan into the fire—but he may not have landed in any bed of roses.

•

Then applications to sell a total of $5,229,800 in securities in Texas were filed with the State Securities Board in the past week, Securities Commissioner Richard D. Latham reports.

The applications include those of May Petroleum, Inc., Dallas, for $1,105,000 and Recognition Equipment, Inc., Irving, for $132,000.

The board granted four applications for a total $3,870,771, including an application by Commercial National Crop., Brady, for $1,420,771.

•

The regional administrator of national banks for the 11th National Bank Region, Michael Doman of Dallas, has advised the Office of the Consumer Credit Commissioner that federal officials will take corrective action against national banks in Texas which issue two credit cards — and charge a borrower maximum interest on both.

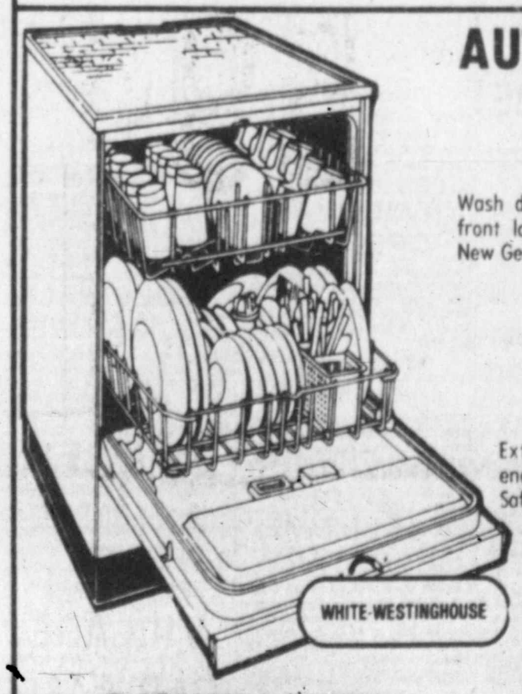

OCCC head Sam Kelley had raised the issue that such charges could violate Texas usury statutes — and Doman agreed.

Doman said his office would be working with the Federal Reserve Board and Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. on the matter.

Kelley notes there's no problem with banks issuing two credit cards — the problem is only when maximum interest rates are charged on both to the same user.

1978 AMC FULL 12-MONTH 12,000 MILE NEW CAR WARRANTY

When you buy a new 1978 AMC car from an AMC Dealer, American Motors Corporation* guarantees to you that for 12 months or 12,000 miles from the date of delivery or first use, whichever comes first, it will, except for tires, pay for the repair or replacement of any part it supplies which proves defective in material or workmanship.

All we require is that the car be properly maintained and cared for under normal use and service in the fifty United States or Canada and that guaranteed repairs or replacements be made by an AMC dealer.

No other express warranty is given or authorized by American Motors. American Motors shall not be liable for loss of use of vehicle, loss of time, inconvenience or other incidental or consequential damages. Some states and provinces do not allow limitation or exclusion of incidental or consequential damages so the above exclusion and limitation may not apply to you. This warranty gives you specific legal rights, and you may also have other rights which vary from state to state or province to province.

HOMER WINGER
Import Car Specialist

Today we have these Honda models available and ready to sell!

Now: the bad news. These are the only models we have in stock. Hondas are in extremely short supply these days because the demand has been phenomenal. And, at the rate they're going, the cars we have now aren't going to last long. So please come see us soon — while we can still sell you a Honda for immed-ate delivery.

GARAGE SALE

Patio Sale, Yard Sale — whatever term you use, it's an enjoyable and profitable experience. It's your opportunity to "clean up" while you "clean out." You'll become re-acquainted with your neighbors and meet new friends, and the fresh air is good for your health.

Check your attic, basement, garage and closets for good, but no-longer-used items - furniture, tools, . . . the list goes on and on. Every item should be priced, of course. You may want to combine your sale with a friend or neighbor. Choose your days, get your signs ready and place your ad in the Classified section. Your ad should list a few key items, give the date, time, and good directions.

A friendly Classified Ad-Visor will help you word your Garage Sale ad for maximum results.

The Capp Finish-It-Yourself House™

THE HOME YOU WANT-AT A PRICE YOU CAN AFFORD

Finish-It-Yourself means just that. By doing the finishing work on your new dream home, you can save thousands compared to the cost of having a contractor build the same house on your lot. Capp homes are custom-built by craftsmen who take pride in their work and use the finest quality construction materials. The result is a home you'll take pride in for years to come. Here's how it works.

YOU DECIDE WHERE TO LIVE.
First, select the area where you'd like to live, then find a nice piece of property. If you already own a lot, you're all set.

CUSTOM DESIGN YOUR FLOOR PLANS.
You can select from our collection of over 50 models, and you can customize any of our plans or we'll build from your plans. Either way, your home can be completely personalized.

SELECT YOUR OWN FEATURES.
Capp provides you with the quality materials you specified to complete your Finish-It-Yourself House. You select the roofing, siding, and all the interior features. Kitchen and bathroom accessories, doors, windows, flooring, lighting fixtures — the works. You plan your new home exactly the way you want it.

WHAT WE DO.
Capp custom-builds your home on your foundation according to the plans and Capp specifications. We install sub-flooring, interior partitions and exterior doors and windows — so you wind up with a home that's enclosed and ready for you to finish.

WHAT YOU DO.
What's it like to finish a house yourself? Things like plumbing and wiring aren't all that tough with the help of Capp instruction manuals. But even if you need outside help, you'll still save money by being your own general contractor and eliminating the middleman. Remember, the more you do, the more you can save. And when you're finished, you have a home that's worth a lot more than you paid for it.

CAPP QUALITY — NO COMPROMISE.
Capp maintains an old-fashioned dedication to quality. The proof is, we've been building homes for 30 years. And today over 50,000 families are living comfortably in Capp custom homes.

CAPP OFFERS FINANCING ASSISTANCE.
Your Capp Representative will help you arrange financing through a local bank or savings and loan. Or Capp can give you the financing assistance you need provided you own a lot, meet our minimum qualifications and put down a small deposit. Either way, your Capp Representative can help.

Ranchers from $17,210 to $35,450*
THE MORNING STAR
This roomy rancher features 3 bedrooms, 2 baths and a large L-shaped living and dining room that offers easy access to the kitchen.

Two-stories, splits from $24,220 to $42,170*
THE SAN CARLOS
This unique 3 bedroom, 2 bath home has everything an active family could want. Convenience. Space. And sloped ceilings for added drama in the living room, dining room and foyer.

SEND FOR YOUR CAPP HOME PLANNING GUIDE TODAY.
Our 96-page Capp Home Planning Guide tells the entire Finish-It-Yourself story and is filled with exciting design ideas. Call your Capp Representative for a free copy. Or mail the coupon below.

*Prices shown are for the house, semi-constructed on the owner's lot and foundation and include materials to finish the interior. State and local taxes, landscaping, septic tanks, sidewalks, driveways, masonry, brick, paint, and certain appliances are not included.

Cougars lose Davis as Lions post 31-14 win

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — Quarterback Chuck Fusina completed 15 of 23 passes for 245 yards and one touchdown Saturday as 10th-ranked Penn State dumped ninth-ranked Houston 31-14 in an intersectional college football game.

Matt Suhey's 53-yard run keyed a Penn State touchdown scored from the one by Mike Guman only two minutes, 20 seconds into the first period.

Houston Coach Eill Yeoman lost more than just a football game. Quarterback Danny Davis, the key to the Cougar's Veer offense, suffered a shoulder separation late in the game and in expected to be lost for six or seven weeks.

Houston came back to tie 7-7 on a five-yard run by Alois Blackwell, but Matt Bahr's 28-yard field goal, his first of three, sent Penn State ahead to stay.

In the second period, Fusina threw a 28-yard touchdown pass to Scott Fitzkee, completing a 55-yard touchdown drive, and Bahr booted a 38-yard field goal to boost the lead to 20-7.

Houston, a winner on national television Monday night over UCLA and playing its second game in six days, cut the lead to 20-14 by halftime with a lightning-like, 80-yard drive featuring three pass completions by quarterback Danny Davis and a 21-yard sprint by Blackwell. Blackwell scored from the one.

Unbeaten Penn State completed its second victory of the season with a 25-yard field goal by Bahr and a 14-yard touchdown run by Ed Guthrie in the third quarter.

The Penn State defense frustrated Houston's Veer attack, holding the Cougers scoreless in the second half. It was the first loss of the season for last year's Southwest Conference champions and Sugar Bowl victors.

Suhey's early 53-yard burst up the middle gave Penn State a first down at the Houston 20. Cougers' safety Fred Snell dragged Suhey down from behind.

Steve Geise then picked up a first down at the nine on two running plays, and an off-side penalty against Houston moved the ball to the four. Geise cracked for three and Guman dove over for the score. Bahr kick the first of his two conversions.

Houston tied it with the help of a fumble by Suhey at the Penn State 24, recovered by Ross Echols.

Davis ran for eight and Blackwell for three for a first down at the Nittany Lions' 13. After Davis lost two, he passed to Blackwell for 10 to the five, from where Blackwell scored on the next play. Ken Hatfield converted and it was 7-7 with 7:12 left in the opening quarter.

Penn State started from its 20 after the kickoff, and advanced to the Houston 11 on nine plays, but had to settle for Bahr's 28-yard field goal and a 10-7 lead. A 40-yard pass from Fusina to Mickey Shuler was the key play in the drive.

Later in the first quarter, Penn State started a drive that ate up 55 yards on seven plays, with Fusina passing 29 yards to Fitzkee for the touchdown shortly after the start of the second period.

Bahr's conversion made it 17-7.

The Penn State defense again curtailed Houston's quick-striking attack and forced a punt that gave the Lions possession at their 28. Fusina completed passes of 10, 16, and 16 to the Cougars' 21. Houston held and Bahr kicked a 38-yard field goal for a 20-7 Penn State lead.

It took little more than three minutes for Houston to battle back into the game. The Cougars picked up five first downs on six plays to reach the Penn State four. Davis completed passes of 14, 18 and eight yards and Blackwell ran for 21 in the nine-play, 80-yard drive. Blackwell scored from the three to make it 20-14.

Penn State completed the game's scoring in the third period. Houston's split end, Don Bass, caught a 32-yard pass from Davis early in the third period, but Penn State defender Gary Petercuskie jarred the ball loose and the Lions' Neil Hutton fell on it at the State 20.

Guman picked up 28 yards and a first down on his 48. Fusina hit Bob Bassett for 27 yards to the Houston 25. State reached the Houston 14 before the Cougars stiffened and Bahr delivered a 25-yard field goal.

Penn State drove 82 yards on seven plays later in the period, with Fusina passing 41 yards to Shuler for a first down at the Houston 30. A one-yard running gain and a 14-yard completion from Fusina to Suhey carried to the 15. Ed Guthrie accounted for the touchdown from the 14.

Penn State accounted for 521 yards — 276 running and 245 passing. Houston gained 138 on the ground and 154 through the air.

Tech batters Lobos, 49-14

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Crafty quarterback Rodney Allison triggered a 21-point scoring flurry in a frantic third quarter Saturday night to propel eighth-ranked Texas Tech to a 49-14 non-conference victory over New Mexico.

Twice trailing and tied at 14-14 as the second half opened, the Red Raiders struck for three touchdowns in a span of 10 minutes to torpedo the pesky Lobos' upset bid.

Allison, the Associated Press' All-Southwest Conference quarterback last year, broke the deadlock on a 16-yard keeper, then conspired with Sammy Williams on a 49-yard pass play to secure the second verdict for Tech in the young season.

New Mexico is 1-1.

The victory unfolded before a record opening game crowd of 45,208 and set the stage for a classic SWC duel here next week between the Raiders and unbeaten seventh-ranked Texas A&M.

New Mexico quarterback Nol Mazzone staked the Lobos to 7-0 and 14-7 leads in the first period with touchdowns shots of 13 and 32 yards to tight end Chris Combs.

But a 34-yard scoring run by Mark Julian and a six-yard touchdown scamper by fullback Billy Taylor enabled the shaky Raiders to gain a 14-14 standoff at halftime.

Don Kelly's fumble recovery at the Lobos' 22 set up Allison's touchdown and Olin Tisdale retrieved a second New Mexico miscue at the enemy 18 to lay the groundwork for the third period uprising.

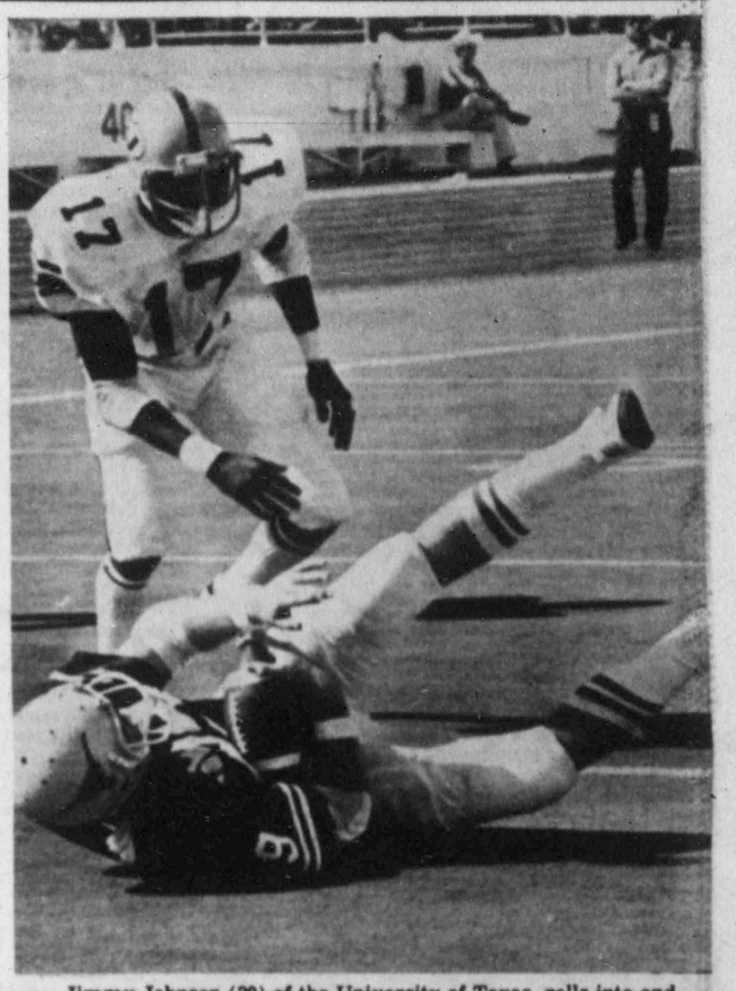

Taylor banged five yards for the fifth Tech touchdown and, with Allison gone and the reserves running things, Sam Bailey and Eddie Monaco ended the rout with one yard scoring bursts.

The Raiders contributed mildly to their early woes, collecting two 15-yard face mask penalties to assist the Lobos on their initial 80-yard scoring drive.

And then, after forcing a Lobo punt, the Raiders were flagged for another 15-yard violation that gave New Mexico new life at the Tech 31 and led

Raiders wake up for big victory

By TED BATTLES
R-T Sports Editor

LUBBOCK—There had been enough Houstons, Marylands, Norte Dames and Alabamas earlier in the day to make the nightmarish first half and the possible consequences entirely believable.

Texas Tech took the field for its opener on a bright, new green rug with dreams of a Southwest Conference championship, maybe an undefeated season and, yes, perhaps even a national championship.

And here it all was evaporating before their very eyes as New Mexico, with a history as a spoiler of Texas Tech aspirations, jumped to 7-0 and 14-7 leads.

All this and the big one with Texas A&M was still a week away.

Well, as you know (49-14), Tech awake from its slumber in time and made it look so easy in the second half most fans went home forgetting there had ever been a scare.

Tech tied it on a Billy Taylor TD after an 80-yard drive with 59 seconds to go in the half and then won it with a three-touchdown burst during a five-minute span in the third period.

Two were set up from 22 and 18 yards away on fumble recoveries by Don Kelly and Olan Tisdale. The other was a legitimate 77-yard Rodney Allison engineered hike.

Terry Anderson, 222-pound senior center from Wichita Falls, shed some light on Tech's first half offensive woes.

"New Mexico came out in a different defense and we just weren't blocking the right man. We expected an even defense and they came out in a 50-slide weakside defense. That put the nose man between me and Greg Wessels and Greg Mahoney. As a result someone in their defense was always open."

Anderson went on, "At half Coach (Rex) Dockery charted the defense on the board and straightened out our blocking assignments and we were

Longhorns stampede hapless Virginia, 68-0

AUSTIN, Tex., (AP) — Swift Johnnie Johnson sped 52 yards with a punt to score and Earl Campbell bruised Virginia defenders for 156 yards and two touchdowns Saturday as Texas crushed the Cavaliers 68-0.

No. 18-ranked Texas gave Virginia a shocking introduction to Southwest Conference football, rolling to a 41-0 halftime lead before a half-full stadium of 41,000.

Texas quarterback Mark McBath fumbled at the Virginia 5 on Texas' first possesion, but two minutes later Johnson took Russ Henderson's 40-yard line drive punt on the run, bounced off a tackler near the right sideline and sprinted across the field to score.

Campbell, 220-pound senior who is closing in on Texas' all-time school rushing record, scored from the 3-yard line and had runs of 20, 19, 17, 13 and 15 in piling up 115 yards in the first quarter.

Campbell's brother, Steve, hampered by injuries for two years, scored his first touchdown on a 1-yard run and later tacked on a 2-yard score, both in the second quarter.

Virginia, playing a SWC team for the first time, did not get a first down for nearly 14 minutes and had only two first downs and 51 yards total offense at halftime.

Johnson, a 180-pound sophomore, had 106 yards in the first half on returns, including a pass interception and 8-yard return that set up Texas' fourth touchdown.

Second team quarterback Jon Aune directed scoring drives of 40,41, 39 and 50 yards and scored on dashes of 22 and 10 yards.

Coach Fred Akers jerked his starters a few minutes deep in the second quarter but put them back in to start the second half, and they drove 80 yards for a touchdown, with Campbell running 10 yards untouched up the middle for the score after McBath had sprinted 43 yards on a keeper.

Texas did not have to punt until the third quarter, and Keenan Moore blocked Russell Erxleben's kick at the Texas 35.

A late hit call on Texas' Ron Bones moved the ball to the Texas 16 for Virginia's deepest penetration. But two Texas freshman linebackers—Robin Sendlein and Bruce Scholtz — sacked quarterback Ted Manly, and Texas took over at its 28.

Campbell's 126 yards in 19 carries gives him 2,942 yards for his career as he moved past Roosevelt Leaks into second place as the all-time Texas rusher. Leaks had 2,923 yards in 1972-74. Former All-American Chris Gilbert holds the record with 3,231 in 1966-68.

Gottfried still alive after scare

By PAUL DOMOWITCH

They say you don't really appreciate life until you've come within an inch of losing it. Larry Gottfried is one man who isn't going to argue that point.

Gottfried, the top-seeded singles player from Trinity University, saw his life in this, the 17th annual Invitational Tennis Tournament pass before his very eyes in Saturday's fourth round, and he knows better than anybody just how fortunate he was to have survived.

The 19-year-old tennis prodigy survived a genuine scare from SMU's Drew Gitlin in the fourth round, later won his quarterfinal match in straight sets over Tut Bartzen of TCU, and led a quartet of players into Sunday morning's semifinal round, which will be played at the Midland High courts.

Gottfried will face Trinity teammate Eddie Reese in one of the 9 a.m. men's singles semifinals, while TCU's Randy Crawford will face yet another Trinity netter, Erick Iskersky in the other semi.

Trinity, the collegiate net dynamo from San Antonio, also placed three players in the girls singles semis, which are also scheduled for 9 a.m. at MHS. Top-seeded Carrie Fleming of Trinity will face SMU's Vicki Saraga, while Lori Oberheide and Ann Schroeder, both of Trinity, will clash in the other women's match.

GOTTFRIED, WHO had an embarrassingly easy time in his second and third round matches, was more than reimbursed against Gitlin, the top-ranked Californian who transfered to SMU last year from UCLA.

Gitlin took advantage of several Gottfried mistakes to win the first set, 6-4, and then had him 5-0 in the second, but just coudn't finish the job.

Later, when he was still up 5-3 and stood at double match point, Gitlin was a volley away from eliminating him, but a miraculous passing shot by Gottfried gave him that second life and turned the match around. The Florida-born netter came back to win that set, 7-6, and cruised to a 6-1 final set win to move into the quarters.

"IN A situation like that, when you're faced with match point, and the other guy's at the net, you either got to be lucky or do something unbelievable," admitted Gottfried after the death scare.

What he did certainly qualifies as unbelievable. Gitlin was up at the net and hit a forehand volley that Gottfried had no chance of returning. But he did. And he not only returned it, he ran it by Gitlin for the point.

Gottfried didn't wait until he was on death's door in his match with Bartzen. He romped to a 6-1 first set win, and then struggled in the second, before pulling it out, 7-6.

"WHEN YOU get up like I did," he explained, "you say to yourself, 'I'm going to just hold serve and everything will be all right.' You let up a little, and that's not something you want to do against a player like Tut."

In the first set and throughout the early portion of the second when he built up a 4-0 lead, Gottfried was constantly rushing the net, and when Bartzen beat him to it, he would kill the TCU junior with uncanny lob shots. But when he put on the brakes, Bartzen battled back, only to lose the tie-breaker, 5-3.

Reese, Gottfried's opponent in the semis, is the Cinderella story of this tournament. A year ago, he was the number five singles player for Trinity, and came to the Invitational without having faced tournament competition in almost a month.

But he breezed through his first two matches Friday, defeated Baylor's Paul Montoya in Saturday's fourth round, 6-7, 6-3, 6-3, and followed it up with a 7-5, 2-6, 7-6 victory over Haroon Ismail of SMU in the quarters. He won the third set tie-breaker against Ismail, 5-4.

"I'VE BEEN hitting the ball better here than I have in the last three years," said the St. Petersburg, Fla., native. "But I still need to be more mentally tough. I had him (Ismail) up 5-2 in that third set, and then had two match points when I was up 5-4, and couldn't win it."

But in the end, Reese did, and the 20-year-old who still speaks with reverence of that day three years ago when Coach Bobby McKinely telephoned him and offered him a tennis scholarship to Trinity, is in the semifinals against his teammate.

NET NOTES: With only a few exceptions, the seeding for the Invitational has been uncanny. The top

Baylor defeats Kentucky, 21-6

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Injured quarterback Sammy Bickham and running back Gary Blair capped short scoring drives as Baylor capitalized on Kentucky errors Saturday and defeated the Wildcats 21-6 in an interconference college football struggle.

Neither team was able to generate much punch offensively, but Kentucky punting miscues and a fumbled pass reception gave Baylor all it needed.

Blair scored on a one-yard run after Baylor recovered a fumbled Kentucky pass completion at the Wildcats' three. That gave Baylor a 7-0 halftime advantage.

Both teams struggled offensively again in the second half.

But Baylor began its second scoring drive from the Kentucky 12 after the ball sailed over the head of Kentucky punter Kevin Kelly on a fourthdown play.

Bickham, recovering from a shoulder separation and a dislocated finger, scored from the five-yard line three plays later.

Baylor's final tally came after Ken Griffin blocked a Kentucky punt and Michael Singletary caught the ball on a bounce and ran into the end zone from the Wildcats' eight.

Kentucky, which had two deep drives fizzle earlier with missed field goals, finally scored late in the fourth period when Chuck Servino scored on a one-yard run. An attempt for two extra points failed.

The victory raised Baylor's record to 1-1 overall after the Bears' Southwest Conference opening loss last week to Texas Tech.

Kentucky, which has not started its Southeastern Conference schedule, is even now at 11.

The game was primarily a defensive struggle in temperatures that reached 108 degrees on the artificial turf.

After Baylor's three-yard scoring drive in the second period, Kentucky had a chance to get even but the Wildcats could no deeper than the Baylor nine before being pushed back. A field goal try was wide.

Bickham was called into action after his reserve, Scott Smith, was slightly injured in the third period. Smith returned to action later in the game.

California wins again

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Quarterback Charlie Young threw two touchdown passes Saturday to lead California to a 24-14 victory over Air Force.

Air Force quarterback Dave Ziebert also threw a pair of touchdown passes, the second following linebacker Robert Chandler's recovery of a Cal fumble, to move the Falcons to within seven points with six minutes remaining.

okay after that."

Coach Steve Sloan, now 2-0 going into next week's showdown with the Aggies here, confirmed the Lobos switch in defenses since last week's Hawaii win.

"They had a good plan and did a great job, particularly in the early part of the game, and we didn't adjust very well early.

"In the second half we got good senior leadership."

Allison did little to damage his Heisman drive before a record opening game crowd of 45,208, hitting 7-for-10 and 108 yards. Of his one interception, which led to New Mexico's second TD and a 14-7 lead, Allison said, "No, I didn't get the feeling they were reading out mail. I just threw a bad pass. Early in the game we were hurting ourselves," he said referring to face mask penalties that set up UNM's first TD, "but we got some leadership and proved just how good a team we are."

Midland gridders capture openers

Midland's eighth and ninth grade football teams started the season on the right note Saturday by winning five games.

In ninth grade action, Edison Gold romped over Austin White, 20-0, in the only all Midland action and Austin Orange blanked Odessa Bowie, 12-0. Edison Purple escaped with a narrow 8-6 victory over Odessa Nimitz.

In games involving ninth grade Odessa teams, Ector lost 21-0 to Bonham and Crockett beat Hood, 28-6.

Both Midland eighth grade teams in action Saturday drew victories. Alamo whipped Odessa Blackshear, 24-8, while San Jacinto belted Odessa Bonham, 22-6. Bowie beat Ninitz, 14-12 while Hood blanked Crockett, 14-0. Midland's Goddard drew the open date.

Red Raiders win

to the second touchdown.

Allison guided the Raiders 78 yards for their first touchdown, winging a 15-yard pass to Williams for the big gainer.

The Odessa senior notched runs of 22 and 10 yards and hurled a 16-yard pass to Williams before sending Taylor six yards for the second and tying Raider score.

Allison's go-ahead romp in the third quarter came after a beautifully executed fake pitchout and he zipped through the line almost unchallenged to the goal.

Minutes later, he faked a run and winged a perfect pass to Williams streaking all alone at the New Mexico 30 and he crossed into the end zone untouched.

Allison, who completed seven of 10 passes for 108 yards and picked up 58 more on the ground, reeled off ten yards as the Raiders struck the clinching touchdown after Tisdale's fumble recovery in the third quarter.

Greenwood takes JV grid victory

ROBERT LEE—The Greenwood Rangers' junior varsity posted a 20-0 victory over the Robert Lee Steers here Saturday in football action.

Greenwood scored in the first period on a 40-yard pass from Joe Mobley to Rex Evans and added eight points in the second quarter on a five-yard run by Russell Manning. Manning also ran for the two-point conversion.

Wyoming nabs win

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — Running back Myron Hardeman broke loose on a 64-yard touchdown run late in the fourth quarter to boost Wyoming to a 27-17 victory over Texas El-Paso in the Western Athletic Conference opener for both teams Saturday.

The triumph was the first victory for new Cowboy Coach Bill Lewis after a scoreless tie with Air Force in Wyoming's opener.

The loss for the Miners and new Coach Bill Michael was the second this season following a loss to North Texas State.

UTEP's Mike McCall uncorked an impressive second half passing game, including third and fourth quarter touchdown tosses to split end Bubba Garcia. Wyoming had led UTEP 11-0 at the half.

Aggies roll past Gobblers

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP) — Senior quarterback David Walker directed three long scoring marches as Texas A&M's seventh-ranked Aggies outmuscled stubborn Virginia Tech 27-6 Saturday to spoil the Gobblers' football opener.

Walker led the Aggies, 2-0, on successful drives of 86, 71 and 79 yards, and capped the longest march with a two-yard touchdown run himself.

The Aggies' other scores came on big George Woodard's eight-yard run, Eddie Hardin's one-yard plunge and field goals of 33 and 21 yards by Tony Franklin.

Texas A&M blew another excellent scoring opportunity with only seconds left before intermission when the 283-pound Woodard failed to cross the goal line from a foot away on fourth down.

The Gobblers got on the board first when Paul Engel booted a 36-yard field goal with 6:34 left in the opening quarter.

But the Aggies went ahead for good on Walker's scoring run with 2:38 left in the first period.

Roscoe Coles, who became the first back to gain more than 100 yards since 1974, raced 50 yards on Tech's next possession to set up the Gobblers' only other score, Engel's 25-yard field goal. Coles finished with 117 yards on 17 carries.

Sophomore running back Curtis Dickey ran 17 times for 141 yards for the Aggies.

A Dickey fumble on the A&M 15 gave the Gobblers another excellent scoring chance midway the second period, but Tech quarterback David Lamie fumbled two plays later and Phil Bennett recovered for the Aggies on the 21.

Walker then marched the Aggies 79 yards in 11 plays with Woodard scoring from the eight with 4:54 left in the half.

Jimmy Kocurek's recovery of another Lamie fumble on the Tech 20 set up Franklin's first field goal with 8:44 remaining in the third period.

3Franklin booted his second three-pointer with 13:35 left in the game.

The Aggies rounded out the scoring on Hardin's short plunge with only seconds remaining.

Blevins guides Sooners past Utah by 62-24

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Dean Blevins, booed as the goat in last week's opener against Vanderbilt, led Oklahoma to a 62-24 football victory over Utah here Saturday, scoring twice and passing for another touchdown.

The senior turned in a nearflawless performance against Utah, guiding the Sooners on several long drives in strong contrast with last week when he left the game in the last quarter to a chorus of cat calls sparked by his numeross mistakes.

Blevins scored touchdowns on runs of three and one yards and hit Steve Rhodes on a 74yard scoring pass.

Fullback Kenny King opened the scoring for the Sooners with a 16-yard blast over right tackle early in the first period. After Uwe von Schamann hit a 23-yard field goal, Blevins and Rhodes hooked up on their scoring play and the Sooners were up 24-0 with only 10 minutes gone in the game.

Coach Barry Switzer sent in freshman quarterback Jay Jimeron to replace Blevins. Jimerson, last week's hero, went 54 yards around right end for a touchdown the first time he touched the ball.

Utah finally got on the scoreboard when Freddie Nixon fumbled a punt and Ute Roland Solomon fell on it in the end zone.

Then Tom McNamara hit a 27-yard field goal, and quarterback Randy Gomez teamed up with Jack Steptoe on a 24-yard scoring toss. Von Schamann hit a 35-yard field goal on the last play of the first half to give the Sooners a 41-17 halftime lead.

Oklahoma padded its lead in the second half on a 31-yard run by Billy Sims, a one-yard run by Blevins and a one-yard run by King.

Aging Vikings to test talented Cowboys today

By The Associated Press

Vince Lombardi used to say that Green Bay's frigid weather was a state of mind. Now Bud Grant will try to prove that Minnesota's advanced age fits in the same category.

Coach Grant leads a Minnesota team that is dangerously old in a number of key positions into its National Football League opener against the young, talented Dallas Cowboys today.

In the other openers, Super Bowl champion Oakland begins defense of its crown against San Diego, Baltimore is at Seattle, Cleveland visits Cincinnati, Kansas City is at New England, Miami goes against Buffalo, the New York Jets play at Houston, Detroit visits Chicago, Green Bay visits New Orleans, Los Angeles goes to Atlanta, Tampa Bay is in Philadelphia, Washington plays the New York Giants and St. Louis visits Denver.

IN MONDAY night's game, Pittsburgh hosts San Francisco.

Grant says he's not concerned about how old his players are. "Obviously, we have some older people playing but as long as they can perform up to the standards required of winners, they will continue to play," he said. "I don't care if they are 54, 44 or 34."

So the Cowboys will see some familiar faces across the field today. Faces like 39-year-old Jim Marshall, 32-year-old Alan-Page and 35-year-old Carl Eller on the defensive line, and 37- year-old Fran Tarkenton calling the signals on offense.

"Age is not a matter of concern," said Grant. "It would be if we had all old players and no young ones, but we achieved a good balance by adding young, quality players as we phased out some of the old ones."

Some of Minnesota's younger stars are flankers Sammy White and Ahmad Rashad, who are 23 and 27 respectively, running back Chuck Foreman, who's 26, and linebackers Fred McNeill, Jeff Siemon and Matt Blair, all 27 or younger.

DALLAS HAS a similiar blend with 35-year-old Roger Staubach at quarterback, running an offense that includes exciting rookie Tony Dorsett at one running back slot. The Cowboy defense is anchored by two young tough linemen, Too Tall Jones, 26, and Harvey Martin, 27, and old pro Jethro Pugh, who's 33.

Oakland, which made Minnesota look bad in the Super Bowl, returns with its veteran team virtually intact. Even place kicker Errol Mann, cut in the final week of training, is back in a strange switch.

Mann apparently had lost his job to rookie Rolf Benirschke, the 334th player selected in the draft. But then the Raiders changed their minds and placed Benirschke on waivers. He was quickly claimed by San Diego and will be kicking for the Chargers against the Raiders today.

The Miami-Buffalo game features two veteran stars who experienced vision problems during the preseason. Dolphin quarterback Bob Griese took to wearing standard glasses under his helmet to correct a double vision condition and Bills running back O.J. Simpson got a clean bill of health for his eyes from physicians at Johns Hopkins University.

CINCINNATI, HOPING an impressive defense can overtake Pittsburgh for the NFC Central Division crown, gets started against Cleveland. The Browns will have to get along for awhile without one of the best defenders, tackle Jerry Sherk, who is sidelined with a knee injury.

Washington also has injury headaches with cornerback Pat Fischer and linebacker Chris Hanburger both hurting. Against New York, the Redskins will try to extend Coach George Allen's string of 11 straight opening day victories. The Giants will introduce quarterback Jerry Golsteyn, making his first regular season start.

The Tampa Bay Buccaneers and Seattle Seahawks swap conferences in the second season for the two expansion teams.

The Buccaneers, winless last season in the American Conference, have been bolstered by a couple of new runners in Anthony Davis and No. 1 draft choice Ricky Bell. They debut in the National Conference, playing against the Philadelphia Eagles.

The Seahawks, who were 2-12 in the NFC last season, move to the AFC where they draw two-time East division champion Baltimore for their opening assignment.

Joe Namath, who left the New York Jets after a dozen seasons, will start at quarterback for Los Angeles. The Rams open against Atlanta, which has lost quarterback Steve Bartkowski because of knee surgery.

Skins opener revives memories of old days

By WILLIAM GILDEA
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Today the Washington Redskins begin another season but it's doubtful that the occasion will become quite as historic as their opener 40 years ago. The 1937 season not only was the team's first in Washington but the year a much celebrated passer named Sammy Baugh began his professional career. Baugh promptly led the Redskins to the National Football League championship and went on to play for 16 seasons, becoming one of the game's most acclaimed players and a member of the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

If the Redskin fans of 1937, a slender following compared to now, were anxious to see what the lean Texan known as "Slingin' Sammy" could do, so was his first coach, Ray Flaherty. The probably apocryphal story goes that on Baugh's first day as a rookie Flaherty said, "Look, Sammy, Wayne Millner here is going to run a buttonhook and I want you to hit him in the eye with that football. Right in the eye, understand?"

"YES, SIR," said Baugh, answering slowly, "but one question, coach."

"Yes?"

"Which eye?"

The thing about Baugh was that he did the work of three players today: he was a master of the forward pass but more than that he was an outstanding defensive back and probably the best punter ever. He set long lists of records in each category and some endure.

Now 63, Baugh lives on the ranch he's run for the last 40 years, near the west Texas town of Rotan. He says he has 22,000 acres, most of it leased, and that he doesn't spend every sunup to sundown on the range as he did for years. Now he says he plays golf "not quite" every day and, probably modestly, adds that he's "not very damn good."

He's also an armchair quarterback. "I kind of pull for the Dallas Cowboys," he says. Mr. Redskin a Cowboy fan? Which team does he root for when the two meet? "I kind of let them take their course, either one of 'em," he says. Then he added, sounding as if he thought it the proper thing to say to a Washington reporter, "But I kind of pull for the Redskins."

HE SHOULD have some allegiance, after all, for he was the highest paid Redskin of his time — made all of $5,000 that first season. "I think the big difference today," he says, "is that the players are a little money crazy, most of 'em. You take a quarterback, they want him to kick, he won't kick unless they pay him more money. That don't sound right to me. You know what I mean? It wouldn't have gone in those days."

For Baugh, it was a pleasure doing all those extra duties. "Hell," he said, "I thought it was fun." I played 'cause I liked it." On that first opening day, for example, "I was just interested in the football. Just so I was playing, whether it was Washington or any other place."

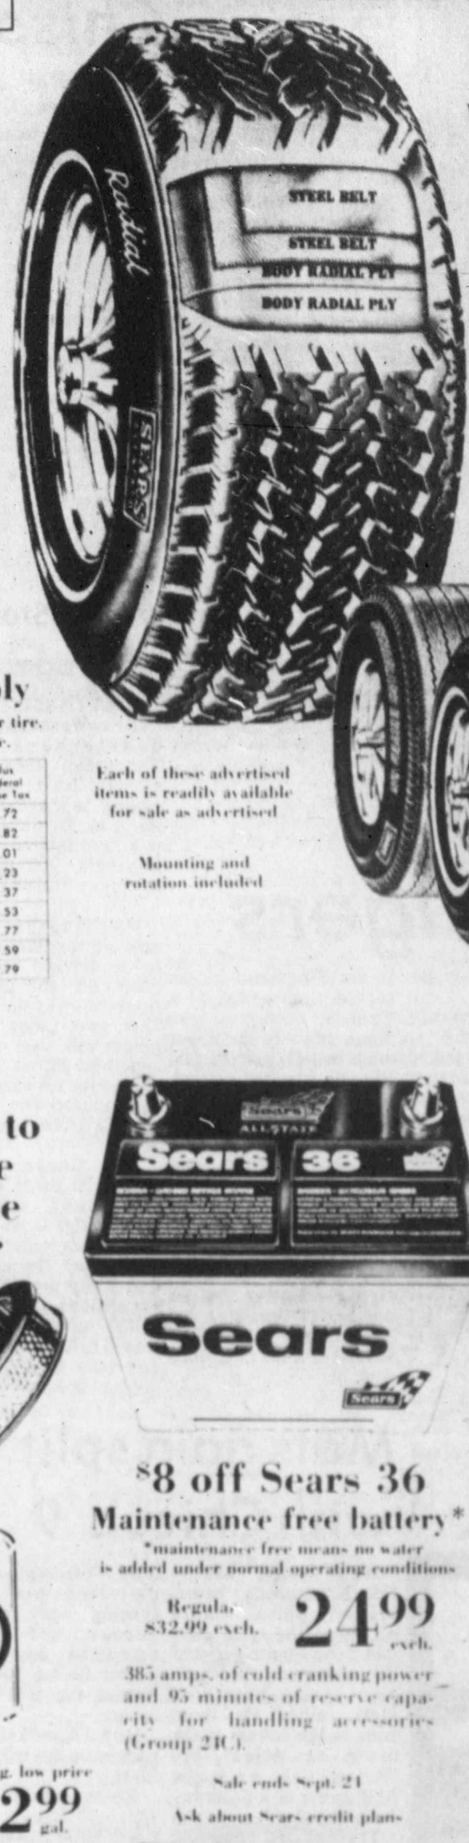

Baugh is hard pressed to come up with the identity of a coach who gave him any pertinent advice — "Can't say anybody did" — but he had two favorites. One was Flaherty, because "he was the boss of the whole damn thing ... We only had two coaches, a line coach and Flaherty, and I thought he did a hell of a job keeping everybody under control." The other was Dutch Bergman, apparently for his laissez faire policy, at least toward Baugh. "We had a little thing going," Baugh says. "He let our offense do about like we wanted."

Baltimore rips Bosox with May

BALTIMORE (AP) — Lee May drove in four runs and Eddie Murray three as the Baltimore Orioles crushed the Boston Red Sox 11-2 in a nationally televised game Saturday and stayed in hot pursuit of the New York Yankees.

Baltimore's ninth victory in 10 starts enabled the Orioles to remain 21-2 games behind first-place New York in the American League East. The Red Sox, who have lost four of five, dropped 4 1-2 games off the pace.

May, the league's RBI champion last season, increased his current total to 90 with a first-stinning sacrifice fly, a fifth-inning single and a two-run double in the sixth.

Murray had four of Baltimore's 14 hits off four pitchers and Rich Dauer added three. Eliott Maddox and Dauer scored three runs apiece after reaching base to launch rallies which produced two runs in the first, five in the fifth and three in the sixth.

Three consecutive hits made it 4-0 and chased Bill Lee, 8-4, in the fifth. May and Murray followed with RBI hits off Bob Stanley and the final two runs scored on Andres Mora's sacrifice fly and a single by Mark Belanger.

Rookie Dennis Martinez, 14-7, scattered five hits before giving up two runs in the seventh on four hits including RBI-singles by Denny Doyle and Bernie Carbo.

Angels defeat Chisox by 4-3

CHICAGO (AP)—Three California pitchers combined for a three-hitter and Bobby Bonds singled in the winning run in the ninth inning to give the California Angels a 4-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox Saturday.

Bonds' single to center scored Thad Bosley from third base with one out in the Angels' ninth. Bosley, who had four hits in four at bats, singled off loser Dave Hamilton, 4-5, to open the inning and went to second on a groundout. He advanced to third on an error.

Dyar Miller, 6-6, pitched two innings in relief of Wayne Simpson, who yielded only two hits in six innings, to post the triumph. Dave LaRoche hurled the ninth inning to earn his 16th save.

Wash. State wins again

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Washington State quarterback Jack Thompson lofted two second-half scoring passes to flanker Brian Kelly to lift the Cougars to a 23-21 interconference fomtball victory over Michigan State Saturday.

Washington State entered the third quarter in a driving rain and down 7-3, and promptly fumbled away the ball the first two times it had possession. But Thompson, who hit on 21 of 30 passes for 364 yards, then commanded two lengthy scoring drives to take the lead.

The Cougars first moved 80 yards in eight plays, with end Mike Levenseller — who made several acrobatic catches throughout the game — and Kelly providing key receptions. Thompson rolled to his left and tossed to Kelly deep in the end zone from 23 yards out for the score.

Phils top St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Garry Maddox and Bob Boone combined for five runs batted in and Greg Luzinski scored three times, leading the Philadelphia Phillies to an 8-4 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday.

Phils' right-hander Larry Christensen, 16-6, stopped the Cards on four hits and four unearned runs through six innings, before givig way to Ron Reed, who finished.

Philadelphia's victory, its ninth in 11 games and fifth in a row over St. Louis, reduced the Phils magic number to five for clinching their second straight National League East title.

Two errors by Christensen and one by shortstop Terry Harmon helped St. Louis to its four runs.

Cleveland splits two

CLEVELAND (AP) — John Scott and Gary Woods each drove in a pair of runs and scored another to back the pitching of Dave Lemanczyk in a 6-5 victory that gave the Toronto Blue Jays a split of their Saturday doubleheader with the Cleveland Indians.

Dennis Eckersley picked up his 14th victory, the most in his three-year major league career, in Cleveland's 6-3 win in the opener.

The Blue Jays jumped on Cleveland starter Rick Waits, 8-6, for four runs in the first two innings of the nightcap.

Toronto scored two runs in the first inning on a double by Woods, a walk, a run-scoring double by Doug Rader and Doug Ault's RBI single.

The Jays added two more in the second, chasing Waits with a single by Hector Torres, a sacrifice, a run-scoring single by Scott and, after a passed ball, a squeeze bunt by Woods.

The Blue Jays added single runs in the fourth and sixth, one coming home on a double by Scott and the other on a double by Woods as Toronto came up with a club record eight doubles in the doubleheader.

Yankees blast Tigers

DETROIT (AP) — Reggie Jackson led a home run barrage, slamming his 28th and 29th of the season, as the New York Yankees blasted the Detroit Tigers 9-4 Saturday.

The victory kept the Yankees 2½ games ahead of Baltimore in the American league East and opened a 4½ game lead over third place Boston.

Yankee starter Dick Tidrow surrendered consecutive tape measure home runs to Rusty Staub and Jason Thompson in the fourth inning but settled down to up his record to 11-4, 5-0 as a starter. Sparky Lyle came on in relief in the eighth inning.

All of the Yankees runs came on homers. Thurman Munson belted a two-run shot in the first after Willie Randolph had singled against loser Jim Crawford, 7-7.

In the second inning, Dave Kingman, in his second time at bat as a Yankee, blasted a long home run into the upper deck in left, scoring Lou Piniella who had singled, to make it 4-0.

The Tigers pulled to 4-2 in the fourth on the homers by Staub and Thompson.

Jackson belted a two-run, opposite field home run in the fifth to make it 6-2. Then, in the sixth, Graig Nettles lofted another two-run shot, his 35th home run of the season and his first since Aug. 31.

Mets gain split with Chicub '9

NEW YORK (AP) — Ed Kranepool's bases-loaded pinch single produced the tying runs and John Stearns scored the winner on the same play as the New York Mets rallied for three runs in the bottom of the ninth to defeat the Chicago Cubs 5-4 in the first game of a Saturday doubleheader.

Trailing 4-2 entering the ninth, the Mets loaded the bases against reliever Paul Reuschel, 4-6, on singles by Mike Vail and Steve Henderson and a walk to Stearns with one out.

Kranepool batted for Joel Youngblood and delivered his single, scoring Vail and Henderson, and Stearns continued home when center fielder Joe Wallis booted the ball for an error.

Bob Apodaca, 4-8, picked up the win for the Mets.

Kranepool's hit was his 15th in 25 times at bat as a pinch hitter this season.

Cowboys, Vikings have come long way since 60

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — When the Minnesota Vikings and Dallas Cowboys clash today in their National Football League openers, it will be a meeting of two first-generation expansion teams that have chalked up glittering successes.

Both teams received their quota of hard knocks in the early 1960s, but it took them only a few years to gain parity with the upper crust of the NFL.

The Cowboys, who were 0-11-1 in their first season in 1960, have not had a losing season since 1964 and have posted a 137-93-6 record in 17 years under Coach Tom Landry.

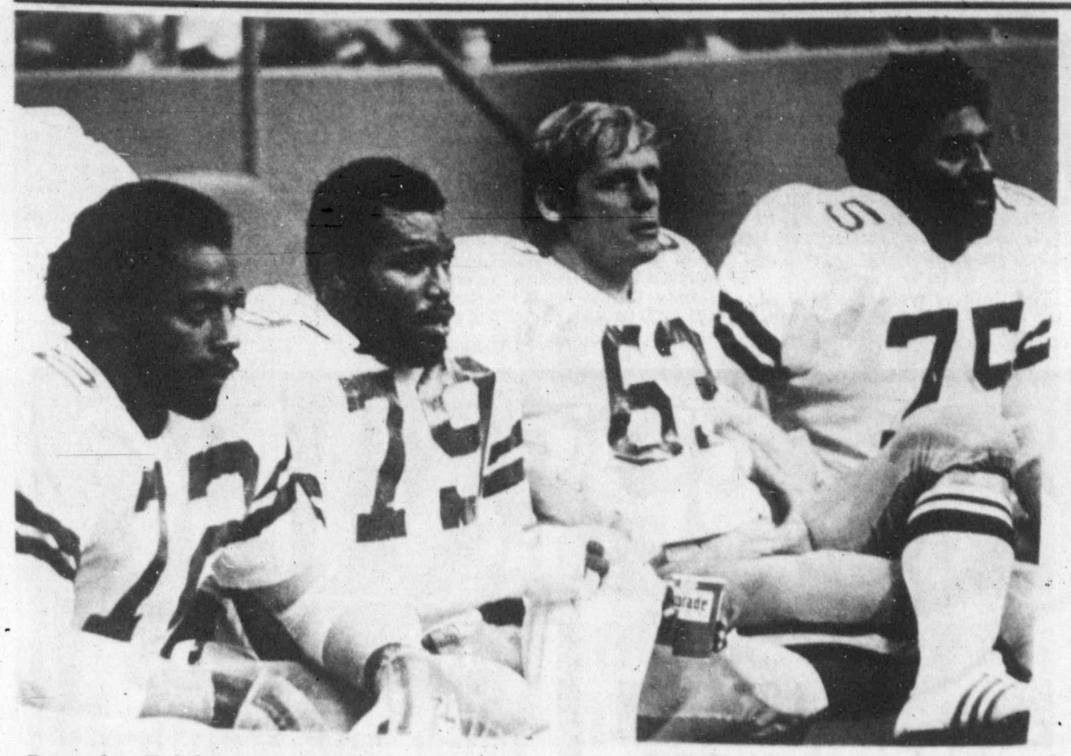

The Vikings joined the league in 1961 and set a still unsurpassed record for an expansion franchise with three victories in their first season. They have a team record of 127-89-8 and have not had a losing season since 1967, the first year under Coach Bud Grant.

The Vikings have played in four Super Bowls, all losing efforts, while the Cowboys have split in two Super Bowl appearances.

The Cowboys are coming off an 11-3 season, but were bounced out of the NFL playoffs by Los Angeles, 14-12.

Minnesota won its eighth Central Division title in nine years, won its fourth National Football Conference title, but fell to Oakland 32-14 in the Super Bowl.

The Cowboys have since added Heisman Trophy winner Tony Dorsett to put some acceleration in their running attack.

BOWLING BEAT

15-year-old rolls city high; Crites enters Hall of fame

RANDY ISENBERG

Youth bowler Paul Cox, 15, led all sanctioned bowlers in the Tall City with a sparkling 613 series. Paul bowled all summer, averaging 180 in the Air Park Junior Senior League.

This fall season kicks off in style with the induction of Ernie Crites as one of the original members of the Texas State Bowling Hall of Fame. Ernie passed away last year, and this marks the first time since 1942 that Ernie has not been with a Midland Bowling Association league.

JOHN DENTON is anxious to get back in action on the tour. The Fall PBA begins in about four weeks. John is looking for a big year. After talking with those who know, many followers of the PBA feel that Denton has what it takes to make it big on the tour. This is the year that will tell though.

John is 35, and is his fourth year on the Pro circuit. His ambitions are on the top 25 list which would put him in the 25,000 to $30,000 dollar bracket in Pro tour winnings.

Rumor has it that the number one name in bowling over the past four years is ready to retire from action on the tour. Earl Anthony is 28 PBA championships.

In local action, Newton Woods appears to be warming up fast as he cranked out a 255 game in the Midland Teachers league and a 229 in the Petroleum National league. Clint Benefield with a 612, Scott Skidmore with a 602 and James Beggs with a 601 all topped the 600 mark in this past weeks bowling league action.

Judy Cook blasted the pins for a 243 and Mary Fesler bowled consistently with two games of 200 for a 583 series.

On the League Front:

City Mixed: Henry Harper, 197-516, Jerry Bellah, 501, Randy Mertz, 193, Georgia Beauchamp, 181.; For Henry and Jerry the 500's were there first ...

Levis Mixed: Joe Diaz converted the 5-7 split.

Lightning Mixed: David Cox bowled his first 200 game 200 even and Barbar Starritt converted the 3-10 split.

Las Vegas odds-makers make the Rams the NFC favorite at 2-1 with Dallas 5-2 and Minnesota 4-1. No mention of the odds on the Vikings if they make it to the Super Bowl. If you like longshots, Tampa Bay at 200-1 is the longest of all...

Ole Miss stages upset

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Reserve quarterback Tim Ellis hit fullback James Storey with a deflected 10-yard pass Saturday to give Mississippi's fired-up Rebels a 20-13 upset over Notre Dame, the nation's No. 3 ranked college football team.

Ellis, relegated to the third team after a mediocre season last year, came off the bench with four minutes left and drove the Rebels 80 yards in five plays, including three passes for 75 yards.

The key was a 47-yard pass from end L.Q. Smith, who wormed his way to the sidelines, waited for his blocking to develop and sprinted to the Notre Dame 23.

The TD pass to Storey followed two plays later.

The Rebels, capitalizing on a fumble by linebacker Brian Moreland at the Irish 14, added a 27-yard field by Hoppy Langley two minutes later to put the game out of reach.

Ole Miss, which held a 10-7 halftime lead, blew two scoring chances in the third quarter and fell behind early in the fourth when Notre Dame's Dave Reeve kicked two field goals to put his team ahead 1310.

Ole Miss opened the scoring with a 29-yard field goal by Langley in the first quarter and followed in the second quarter with a 10-yard touchdown pass from starting quarterback Bobby Garner to Storey.

Between those two scores, Jerome Heavens ran for a 10-yard touchdown for Notre Dame.

Ohio State batters Minnesota by 38-7

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Quarterback Rod Gerald's running and passing accounted for one touchdown and set up 10 other points Saturday, leading sixth-ranked Ohio State to a 38-7 opening Big Ten football romp over Minnesota.

Bobby Weber returned a kickoff 100 yards for the only touchdown for the Golphers, 11. Minnesota' offense was never closer than Ohio State's 49-yard line.

Gerald, a lithe junior from Dallas, passed 29 yards to Herman Jones for the 2-0 Buckeyes' first touchdown before 87,799, the 52nd straight sellout in Ohio Stadium.

Gerald, who sat out a 9-3 victory at Minnesota last season, ran 36 yards to the Golphers' 10, setting up an 18-yard field goal by Vlade Janakievski four plays later for a 10-0 Ohio State lead early in the second quarter.

Gerald passed 35 yards to Jones and the Ohio State flanker stumbled at the Minnesota 12. Two plays later Ron Springs bolted eight yards to provide Ohio State a 24-7 lead midway through the fourth quarter.

Ric Volley ran three yards and substitute quarterback Greg Castignola passed 38 yards to freshman flanker Doug Donley for the other Ohio State touchdowns. Another freshman, 222-pound fullback Joel Payton, also ran eight yards for a fourth-period score.

Michigan struggles past Duke

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) Quarterback Rick Leach ran for two touchdowns and Michigan, not looking at all like the No. 1 team in the country, took a 21-9 non-conference football victory Saturday over Duke.

Duke, an underdog by as many as six touchdowns, played the Wolverines on nearly even terms until midway through the fourth quarter when Michigan drove 80 yards in four plays to score on a oneyard plunge by Leach. That broke open a 14-9 advantage to give the Wolverines their final edge.

Leach's other touchdown was on a seven-yard run in the second quarter to conclude an 89-yard, 22-play drive.

That was the first score of the game, then Michigan added a touchdown midway through the period on a four-yard run by fullback Russell Davis for a 14-0 halftime advantage.

The Blue Devils, under the quarterbacking of Mike Dunn, had possession most of the third quarter. They drove 77 yards in 16 plays for their first score, a three-yard keeper by Dunn just before the end of the period.

Dunn completed three of three passes in the march for 41 yards, including aerials of 22 and 10 yards to split end Tom Hall.

Michigan tailback Harlan Huckleby lost a fumble at his own 38 to cornerback George Gawdin and five plays later Scott Wolcott kicked a 43-yard field goal for Duke.

The Blue Devils earlier thwarted a Michigan scoring attempt when cornerback Earl Cook intercepted a Leach pass at the Duke 10 and returned it to the 43 in the closing minutes of the first half.

The interception was the 22nd thrown by junior Leach, passing the old Michigan record of 21 by Stan Nosk in the late 1950s.

The victory, before a sellout crowd of 104,072 — the 10th consecutive 100,000-plus home crowd — pushed the Michigan season record to 2-0 while Duke slipped to 0-2.

Michigan started off the game on the wrong foot when Huckleby took the opening kickoff, stepped forward to the one and then put the ball down just inside the goal. Officials ruled he had come out of the end zone and forced Michigan to take possession on the one.

Michigan punted, Duke took over at the Wolverines' 33, and Wolcott wound up missing a 49-yard field goal try.

The Blue Devils nearly scored again late in the first quarter but defensive back Derek Howard intecepted a Dunn pass at the Michigan 11.

Davis' touchdown came just three plays and 25 yards after Howard recovered a fumble by Dunn, who was hit hard by linebacker John Anderson.

Anderson also intercepted a Dunn pass at the Duke 22 in the closing minutes of the game. But the Blue Devils regained possession and, relying on Dunn's passing arm, drove to the Michigan one as time ran out.

West Virginia startles Terps

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—West Virginia built a big halftime lead with help from a pair of 54-yard touchdowns by Dave Riley and Cedric Thomas, then held off a Maryland charge and upset the 11th-ranked Terps 24-16 in college football Saturday.

The loss snapped a 15-game regular-season winning streak for mistake prone Maryland, which had a chance to salvage a tie in the late-going after trailing 24-0 at the half.

Oregon topples stubborn Frogs by 29-24 tally

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Kenny Bryant was credited with a touchdown on a 97-yard interception return cut short by an off-the-bench tackle and the Oregon Ducks held off a fourth-quarter rally by victory-starved Texas Christian for a 29-24 victory in a non-conference game Saturday.

Bryant intercepted a Steve Bayuk pass at the Oregon three in the fourth quarter and raced untouched through midfield before helmetless reserve linebacker Steve Barker came off the bench to make the tackle.

The touchdown gave Oregon, now 1-1, a 24-3 lead.

However, reserve TCU quarterback Don Harris came off the bench to toss touchdown passes of 17 yards to Tony Accomando and 23 yards to Mike Renfro to cut the margin to 24-17. Frog defensive end Barry Crayton then swiped a pass and returned it 39 yards for the tying touchdown.

Oregon won the game when, midway throught the fourth quarter, Harris was tackled in the end zone for a safety by Oregon's Neil Elshire. Roy Geiger put it away with a 39-yard field goal with 48 seconds left.

The victory was the first for new Oregon Coach Rich Brooks. It was the 12th consecutive loss for TCU, 0-2. TCU has won only two of its last 37 games.

Oregon's Reggie Grant had stampered 57 yards for a touchdown on a punt return and Geiger had kicked a 32-yard field goal to give Oregon a 10-3 halftime lead.

Kim Nutting bulled over from one yard out in the third quarter as the Ducks extended their margin to 17-3.

The Horned Frogs, who had three drives blunted inside the Oregon 15-yard line, got only a school-record 56-yard field by freshman Steve Mormon before their fourth quarter surge.

The field goal came on Mormon's first college attempt.

The bizarre off-the-bench tackle by Barker was the first such illegal tackle in TCU history.

Bryant had picked off a Harris pass early in the fourth quarter and was racing down the TCU sideline, ten yards ahead of the nearest Frog defender, when Barker jumped in and grabbed him by the legs.

Barker got up and hurried off the field into a group of TCU players.

The revamped Frogs, who had undergone a massive personnel shakeup early in the week by Coach F. A. Dry, punched inside the Oregon 15 twice in the first half, only to be stopped on fumbles by running back Jimmy Allen.

Allen, who got 93 yards on 15 carries, was one of new starters in Dry's shuffled lineup.

TCU's Cameron Young was forced to punt into a 15-mile an hour wind twice in the second quarter and Oregon capitalized on the two short punts for its 10 first half points.

Senior quarterback Jack Henderson, who has passed for more than 3,000 yards in his Oregon career, hit 12 of 22 passes for 115 yards and guided the Ducks on the 15-play, 74yard-drive that gave the Ducks a commandinr 17-3 lead with 9:12 left in the third quarter. Harris hit eight of 19 passes for 132 yards in his fourth-quarter relief appearance, but was intercepted twice.

The game was marred by penalties that cost both teams 214 yards and a brief, bench-clearing brawl late in the second quarter. No one was ejected.

Purdue romps past Ohio U.

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Freshman quarterback Mark Herrmann completed 15 of 21 first-half passes for 237 yards and John Skibinski scored twice Saturday in leading Purdue to a 44-7 non-conference college football victory over Ohio University.

Herrmann, the first freshman to start at quarterback for Purdue since Bob DeMoss in 1945, left the game with about 10 minutes to play as Coach Jim Young decided to rest him. He finished with 23 completions in 36 attempts for 339 yards and one touchdown.

Scott Sovereen booted field goals of 36, 33 and 40 yards and was three more extra points to make Young's home debut successful and even Purdue's record at 1-1.

Indiana tops LSU, 24-21

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Quarterback Scott Arnett engineered scoring drives of 88 and 70 yards within five minutes in the fourth quarter Saturday as Indiana rallied to a 24-21 college football upset over Louisiana State.

The Hoosiers, trailing 21-10 starting the final period, got touchdowns by Dave Harangody on a 19-yard pass from Arnett and then by Ric Enis on an 11-yard run with just over two minutes remaining.

Louisiana State, dropping its first game of the season, then advanced to the Indiana 40, but lost the ball on downs. The Hoosiers ran out the final 16 seconds to even their record at 1-1.

Arnett, a junior, was the catalyst to the Hoosiers' comback, completing 11 of 18 passes for 148 yards.

After the Tigers fumbled away the ball at the Indiana 12-yard line early in the fourth period, Arnett completed three straight passes to midfield. Talback Darrick Burnett then ran 20 yards, Arnett completed another pass to Keith Calvin and then hit Harangody with the score with just over seven minutes to go.

LSU had to punt on the next series, and Arnett directed the Hoosiers' final drive, with Enis and Burnett gaining most of the yardage on the ground. Another pass to Calvin put the ball at the 35, Enis ran seven yards, Burnett took two pitchouts for 14 yards and Enis gained three before running in with the go-ahead touchdown.

Duran in boxing win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Roberto Duran applied relentless pressure and pounded out a tough but unanimous decision over Edwin Viruet Saturday at the Spectrum to retain his World Boxing Association lightweight championship.

For the first time in 11 title defenses, Duran was unable to score a knockout. But the Panamanian was a clear winner.

There were no knockdowns in the rough battle that was televised nationally, but Viruet appeared almost ready to go down in the 12th round when with five seconds to go Duran buckled his knees with a long right hand to the jaw.

Referee Isidro Rodriguez of Venezuela scored it 73-68 for the champion, judge Servio Lay of Panama 73-65 and judge Frank Adams of Moscow, Pa., 71-65.

The AP had Duran ahead 70-65.

Duran came blazing out of his corner in the first round in a bid for a quick knockout over his Puerto Rican opponent. The two men have shown little respect for one another ever since Duran scored a unanimous decision over Viruet in a non-title fight Sept. 30, 1975.

Duran, who weighed 134½ pounds, one-half pound less than Viruet, kept the pressure on throughout but the cagey Viruet was able to weather the storm.

Nebraska trips 'Tide

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Runningback Rick Berns somersaulted into the end zone from one yard out with 7:12 remaining to hand Nebraska a 31-24 upset victory over fourth-ranked Alabama in a turnover-plagued college football game Saturday.

Defensive back Jim Pillen intercepted two passes in the final 4:14 of the game to ice the Cornhusker win over the Crimson Tide before a regional television audience.

The score was tied at 24-24 in the fourth quarter when the Huskers launched the 15-play, 80-yard drive that ended in Berns' tally, ending the Crimson Tide's hopes.

In the first half, two touchdowns for each team were sandwiched between an early field goal by Nebraska and a Bama field goal with ten seconds left to knot the score 17-17 at intermission.

The Huskers grabbed a 24-17 edge two plays after Bama quarterback Jeff Rutledge's pass was intercepted at the Nebraska 39. Curtis Craig tallied from 17 yards out after back-to-back interceptions.

Tony Nathan tied it for the Tide with 12:34 left in the game on a one-yard plunge capping a 55-yard drive.

Nebraska put together the winning drive on its next possession. Pillen intercepted a Rutledge pass with 4:14 remaining and another at 1:41 left to secure the Nebraska win.

Rutledge was intercepted five times. The first was on Alabama's first play from scrimmage and set up a 3-0 Husker lead when Billy Todd booted a 29-yard field goal seven plays later.

The Tide bounced back on the next series, marching 91 yards on 10 plays with Rutledge scoring from the seven, halfway through the period.

The Huskers, abandoning Coach Tom Osborne's usually conservative ways, tallied when quarterback Randy Garcia hit Berns with a 25-yard TD pass off a fake field goal that caught the Tide unawares.

Alabama still had plenty left and the Tide proved it by rolling 73 yards on its next possession to score on Nathan's oneyard plunge.

Berns scored from the two with 3:26 left in the half to cap an 80-yard drive.

TERRY EURICK of Notre Dame loses football as he is hit hard by Mississippi's Gary Jones, on top and unidentified Ole Miss player, on the bottom during 20-13 upset victory over the Fighting Irish in Jackson, Miss. Saturday afternoon.

Razorbacks zip past Oklahoma State, 28-6

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas' cat-quick defense led by linebacker Larry Jackson shut down Oklahoma State at every turn as the Razorbacks whipped the 15th-ranked Cowboys 28-6 Saturday night.

Jackson had 13 unassisted tackles and four assists in the first half alone as Arkansas built a 21-0 half-time lead. Jackson finished the game with 20 tackles and five assists. His fellow linebacker William Hampton had 13 unassisted tackles and eight assists.

Terry Miller, OSU's All-American running back, managed only 49 yards on 10 carries in the first half. Miller, who rushed for 1,714 yards last year on his way to a fourth place finish in the Heisman Trophy balloting, broke loose a couple of times in the second half and finished with 132 yards on 24 carries.

Meanwhile, Arkansas running back Ben Cowins gained 203 yards on 21 carries and scored twice. Cowins scored Arkansas' first touchdown on a one-yard run and then broke loose on a 72-yard run that made it 28-0 in the third quarter.

Cowins, a junior who led the Southwest Conference in rushing last year, has gained 359 yards in two weeks and moved into the No. 4 spot on the UA career rushing list.

OSU did not cross midfield under its own power until quarterback Harold Bailey got loose on a 31-yard scamper with less than two minutes remaining in the first half.

The Razorbacks got on the scoreboard the second time they had the ball. Arkansas started from the OSU 49 after a 27-yard punt by David Hanna. A Cowins block sprung Roland Sales on a 45-yard gain and Cowins scored two plays later.

The defense set up the second TD when defensive end Cornelius Smith dropped off in the flat and intercepted a poorly thrown pass by Randy Stephenson.

North Texas captures 24-13 grid triumph behind Washington

IRVING, Tex. (AP) — Senior quarterback Ken Washington rifled a 20-yard touchdown pass and dashed four yards for another score to direct North Texas State to a 24-13 non-conference victory over stunned Southern Methodist Saturday night — the first win for the Mean Green over the Mustangs in 34 years.

It was only the second time NTSU had beaten the Mustangs in 23 outings that included a tie.

Washington had perhaps the best game of his career as he completed 17 of 25 passes for 184 yards and scrambled for 54 yards on 14 sorties.

North Texas kept the ball almost seven minutes on the opening drive of the game to give an indication of things to come before Iseed Khoury kicked a 30-yard field goal.

The Mustangs proceeded to fritter away two golden scoring opportunities when Paul Rice fumbled on the North Texas 14 and lost the ball and John Dunlop missed a 24-yard field goal.

Washington opened the second quarter with a 18-yard pass to Tim Loftin, nailed him again with a 20-yard touchdown pass to climax a 65-yard drive.

Washington bolted four yards for a touchdown early in the third period as the Mean Green built a 17-0 advantage before the dormant Mustang offense awakened.

A 39-yard pass from freshman quarterback Mike Ford to Emanuel Tolbert that caromed off the arms of Eagle safety Danny Whitaker set up Rice's one-yard touchdown run.

SMU had a 91-yard scoring pass to Tolbert called back because Tolbert was in motion and Mike Jones scampered 15 yards to give NTSU an insurmountable lead 24-7 early in the fourth quarter.

The Mustangs twice penetrated inside the North Texas 15-yard line in the last three minutes of the game only to fail to the determined Mean Green defense.

On fourth down from the Mean Green six, Tolbert dropped a tip pass that would have been a touchdown.

But on NTSU's next possession, Mike Jones fumbled and the Mustangs had three tries from the Mean Green 11-yard line. Kelly Fry accepted a Ford pass to put the game on ice.

Ford completed 17 of 31 passes for 241 yards.

Mike Jones was the leading NTSU rusher with 133 yards on 19 carries.

It was perhaps NTSU coach Hayden Fry's biggest victory in his five years at the school. Fry was fired at Southern Methodist and twice had lost close games to SMU.

North Texas lost 38-31 in 1976 and 7-6 in 1975.

The Mean Green now has a 2-1 season record while SMU is 1-1.

The game drew 26,097 fans in Texas Stadium.

Rebels drop two matches

AMARILLO—The Midland Lee volleyball team dropped two matches with Amarillo schools here Saturday.

The Rebels lost 15-11, 15-2 to Amarillo High in the first match while falling behind 6-0 in the second set.

Lee lost to Amarillo Tascosa, 16-14, 15-2, in the second match. Lee pushed Tascosa with a strong offense from Deb Korthauer, Julie Ochsner and Sheryl Guthrie, but again the Rebs had trouble in the second game of the match.

Hill leads U.S. to Ryder victory

BLACKPOOL, England (AP) — Dave Hill, playing so poorly he had asked to be left on the sidelines, scored the decisive point Saturday and led the United States to an expected 12½-7½ victory over Great Britain-Ireland in the Ryder Cup golf matches.

"I've been playing so bad, I asked the captain (Dow Finsterwald) to leave me out of the pairings today," Hill said after his clinching, 5 and 4 victory over Britain's Tommy Horton.

"The way I'm playing it's embarassing.

"And it's downright dangerous to the spectators.

"I changed my mind after talking with some friends and told the captain I'd play if he wanted me to, and that I just hoped I wouldn't embarass him."

He didn't. An eagle three on the sixth hole—the first eagle of the three-day matches—sent him four up and Hill took it from there in the raw, cloudy cold that settled over the dunes and bunkers of the Royal Lytham St. Anne's Golf Club.

"Dave got all choked up when Dow told him he'd won the matches for the United States," said Hill's wife, Sandy. "I havent seen him like that very often."

His victory was necessary for the Americans, who entered the final day's play with a solid, 7½-2½ lead, but managed to take only five points from the 10 closing singles matches against an outmanned but fired-up band of British youngsters.

It was the United States' 18th triumph in the 22 biennial matches that have been held since 1927, when wealthy British seed merchant Sam Ryder put up a cup for the international competition. One match ended in a tie. The United States has lost only once since 1935.

This one didn't come easily, however, as the British-Irish team showed surprising strength in the singles matches. Only the five-point lead the Americans had built in the foursomes and four ball matches enabled them to keep the old tophy.

Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson, the American aces, both were beaten 1-up in singles.

MC golfers tied for 3rd

CLARENDON—The Midland College golf team tied for third this weekend in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference tournament and won third in the Invitational Intercollegiate Tournament.

Western Texas College of Snyder won both events, winning the WJCAC tourney with a 284 score. Odessa College was second with 290 while Midland College tied for third with New Mexico Junior College with 303 totals. Clarendon and New Mexico Military Institute both had 305 and Frank Phillips 334.

Prachyl winner

Dallas' Ron Prachyl won grand aggregate honors in the registered Heavy Varmint Match at the Permian Basin Rifle and Pistol Club range Saturday.

Prachyl posted a score of .3976 to win the honors in the match approved by the National Bench Rest Shooter's Association.

Action will continue today at the club range with an unrestricted match. Shooters will be able to use any gun they wish with no restrictions on weight or form used in shooting. Action will begin at 8 a.m. today, and the match is open to the public. Over 40 shooters were entered in Saturday's Heavy Varmint shoot.

Lewis James of Dryden won second place with a .4150 while Levelland's Larry Baggett took third and Dallas' Donna Hall was fourth.

Prachyl also won the 200-yard competition while James took the 100-yard victory. Prachyl was second in the 100-yard match, and was the dominate force in the meet.

Mrs. Hall placed second in the 200-yard competition.

100 Yards: 1. Lewis James, Dryden, .3212; 2. Ron Prachyl, Dallas, .32.72; 3. Scott Hunter, Wichita Falls, .3364; 4. Larry Baggett, Levelland, .3498.

200 Yards: 1. Ron Prachyl, .4680; 2. Donna Hall, Dallas, .4821; 3. Larry Baggett, .5025; 4. Lewis James, .5087.

Grand Aggregate: 1. Ron Prachyl, .3976; 2. Lewis James, .4150; 3. Larry Baggett, .4260; 4. Donna Hall, .4550.

Houston is ready

WASHINGTON (AP) — Allpro safety Ken Houston will take on new duties today when the Washington Redskins meet the New York Giants in an NFL season opener. He'll be the defensive quarterback.

Houston was named defensive captain after linebacker Chris Hanburger underwent an emergency appendectomy and then suffered from an infection, returning to the hospital. Hanburger will miss the Giants game.

Even though he has been calling the defensive signals in only three exhibition games, Houston says he is going into today's game very confident he can do the job, despite the Redskins' complex system.

Florida Gators whip Rice, 48-3

HOUSTON (AP) — National hurdles champion Willie Wilder and Terry LeCount, starting his first game at quarterback, highlighted a 24-point second quarter Saturday night and ignited the 19th-ranked Florida Gators to a 48-3 rout of the outmanned Rice Owls.

Rice took a 3-0 lead at the end of the first quarter on Wes Hansen's 42-yard field goal but the Owls then self-destructed the rest of the game with seven turnovers that led to 21 Florida points.

Florida freshman quarterback Chris Collinsworth spiced the fourth quarter when he completed his first collegiate pass, in a play going 99 yards, to senior split end Derrick Gaffney to establish a Southeastern Conference record.

Florida, with one of the fastest backfields in the nation, misfired in the first quarter behind LeCount, pressed into quarterback this season after playing at safety a year ago. Florida drove to Rice's 12-yard line on its first series before Earl Carr fumbled at the goal line and Rice's John Stroman recovered.

The Gators reached the Owl 17 early in the second quarter before Tony Green fumbled and Rice's Charles Graden recovered.

Rice's only scoring play of the game was set up in the first quarter when LeCount attempted a pitch out which was deflected into the air by cornerback Don Parrish.

Rice's Don Rutledge grabbed it in mid-air and returned it 42 yards to Florida's 24. After two losses and an incomplete pass, Hansen booted his 42-yarder.

But the Gators got the lead for good on the first play of the second quarter when Cooper gained two yards to his own five before he fumbled and DuPree recovered it in the end zone.

Cooper, who started the game as the Southwest Conference's leading rusher, fumbled on Rice's next possession. Florida's Scot Brantley recovered at the Rice 35 to set up Yepremian's field goal.

LeCount finished with 90 yards rushing on seven attempts and completed 5 of 12 passes for 65 yards and two touchdowns. The Gators rolled up 302 yards rushing and 199 passing against the Owls.

Cooper, who rushed 167 yards a week ago, was held to 64 yards on 19 tries against the Gators.

HUNTING AND FISHING REPORT

Fingerlings do well in spence

Volume eased off but the variety span was steady in fishing reports from Lake E.V. Spence last week.

Recently, technicians of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission ran a series of checks at the lake and found that the striped bass fingerlings, which were hatched originally at the lake and then returned after being raised to fingerling size at the San Angelo hatchery, are making good growth. Thus, the outlook for continued striped bass fishing appears good.

Reports from the lake also reflected that white bass are beginning to school, which means fishermen will have a sharp eye out for gulls who follow the schools. Trolling through the schools sometimes produced excellent yields.

Among reports from the lake this week: Cozie Draper, Midland, 7 ½ pound striper; Jerry Cox, Midland, 9 ¾ pound striper; Martin Minjavez, Odessa, 3 ½ pound striper; and Randy and Ricky Chambers, Odessa, two yellow catfish, 6 ¼ pounds and two black bass.

JOE SIMENOK, Midland, fishing with a rod and reel caught a 23-inch long channel catfish and an eight incher at Lake Colorado City. Chal Strickland of Big Spring caught 35 perch while Mrs. Lorene Boss, Big Spring, caught a seven-pound yellow catfish.

In New Mexico, catfishing is good at the north end of Elephant Butte Lake on cut baits and also is good on the river between Caballo and Elephant Butte Lake.

Fishing also is good for catfish on cut bait at Carlsbad Municipal.

DOVE, GROUSE, squirrel and band-tailed pigeon hunting seasons opened this month in New Mexico. The white-winged and mourning dove seasons run until Sept. 30 and then resumes Nov. 24-Dec. 23. Daily bag limit is 10 birds.

The band-tailed pigeon season in southwestern NM runs from Oct. 1-20. All band-tailed hunters must have a special permit.

Grouse and chickaree and tassle-eared squirrel seasons in the northeastern part of the state run until Sept. 20 while in the southwest, it will be from Oct. 1-Oct. 20. Duck season, including mergansers, in the Pacific Flyway will run Oct. 1-Jan. 1. Goose season in the southern portion of the Pacific Flyway is Oct. 1-Dec. 11.

SPORTSMEN'S NEWS

Officials miss college contest

SAN MARCOS, Tex. (AP) — Some 5,000-6,000 football fans showed up Saturday at Southwest Texas State's Evans Field to watch their team play Cameron State, Okla.

But the game officials didn't show up and Cameron elected not to play.

"This is ridiculous," said Southwest Texas Coach Bill Miller. "I assume they think they't gonna get a forfeit out of it. I'm damn sure not gonna forfeit."

Miller said he had substitute officials available, but the Cameron team voted not to play the game without the scheduled arbiters.

An athletic department spokesman said the game time had been moved up to noon to fit into the schedule of a chilicooking celebration beind held in San Marcos.

Ex-boxing contender wins battle of life

NEWCASTLE, New Brunswick (AP) — Yvon Durelle, the north shore fisherman who came within a few punches of winning the world light heavyweight boxing championship in 1958, won the battle of his life Friday when he was acquitted of a charge of second-degree murder.

Durelle, of nearby Baie Ste. Anne, was charged with the May 20 shooting death of Albain Poirier, also of Baie Ste. Anne. The incident took place in the parking lot of Durelle's Fishermen's Club night spot in the community.

Poirier, 32, was shot five times in the head with a .38caliber revolver.

The jury of eight men and four women deliberated for 50 minutes before returning with the verdict Friday night.

Durelle, 46, burst into tears at the announcement.

"I'm happy, I'm glad it's over," Durelle said as he left the courtroom amid applause from spectators in an upstairs gallery.

The defense had based its case on the contention that Durelle had been provoked to an act of self-defense through long and continuous harrassment by Poirier.

Durelle had testified that he had nearly been run down by Poirier in the parking lot on the night of the killing.

Durelle was Canadian and British Empire light heavyweight boxing champion and had two cracks at the world title before retiring to his home town.

The high point of his career was a 1958 fight in Montreal against Archie Moore for the world light heavyweight championship.

Seven ranked prep teams suffer losses

By The Associated Press

Fifth-ranked Midland Lee was upset in Class 4A and top-rated Yoakum toppled from the unbeaten ranks in 2A as most high school football teams continued their non-district schedules Friday night.

Seven teams ranked in The Associated Press schoolboy poll were beaten. Five squads took the weekend off, and several more games were scheduled Saturday night.

Plainview's 21-14 victory over Midland Lee was one of two surprises in Class 4A. Ninth-ranked Killeen, in its first week as a Top Ten team, fell 17-13 to Abilene Cooper.

TOP-RANKED Sherman remained undefeated as it blasted Greenville 42-27, and Port Neches-Groves boosted its season record to 3-0 with a 36-3 win over West Orange Stark.

In 3A, top-rated Mount Pleasant had an open week and No. 2 Gregory-Portland faced Corpus Christi Ray Saturday night. The only upset among AP-ranked teams in 3A was No. 10 Gainesville's 14-6 loss to Waxahachie.

Third-ranked Humble boosted its mark to 3-0 with a 21-7 win over Houston Strake Jesuit and No. 4 Silsbee was idle.

CBS radio special designed as autobiography of industry

By JAMES BROWN
The Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES — On Sept. 18, 1927, the Columbia Broadcasting System connected its web of 16 radio stations for the first time, going on the air with a six-hour musical program that included, among other things, Deems Taylor's new American opera, "The King's Henchman."

Thus began the CBS Radio Network, ranging from New York to Council Bluffs, Iowa. Relatively humble beginnings, to be sure, but you do remember that the medium itself was only seven years old, if we're to chart radio's birth at Pittsburgh's KDKA in 1920. The golden years of the '30s and '40s were yet to come, and then TV, that rude invader, came along to dim the lights. Radio changed, adapting itself to the visual age. Formats replaced programs. Disc jockeys replaced entertainers.

Today we look back at it all and remember how good it used to be. And, for many, continues to be. And today CBS looks back at its own 50 years with a three-hour retrospective, "CBS Radio at 50 — An Autobiography in Sound," airing over the network's 270 affiliates.

The broadcast, produced by the CBS news department and anchored by Walter Cronkite, explores the history and growth of the network through the various news, sports, entertainment, music and dramatic programs that have been heard during the 50 years.

To list but a few of the scheduled highlights, there will be an interview with William S. Paley, chairman of CBS Inc., reminiscing about the early days as well as contemporary radio's role today. There are segments of Robert Trout's coverage of the 1932 election of F.D.R., Ted Husing on the 1936 Olympics, Agnes Moorehead's riveting performance in that classic, "Sorry, Wrong Number," and Andre Kostelanetz conducting "Your Hit Parade."

We'll hear the voices of CBS News — from H.V. Kaltenborn and Elmer Davis and Lowell Thomas to Edward R. Murrow, Eric Sevareid and...Lowell Thomas, who presided over the longest running news broadcast ever on CBS.

There'll be the radio dramas: Lux Radio Theater, Suspense, the CBS Mercury Theater, Shakespeare's "Richard III" and Norman Corwin's monumental "On a Note of Triumph."

And comics Burns and Allen, Jack Benny, Bergen and McCarthy and so many more. Not to mention the serials, live sports events, soap operas -and political commentaries by such disparate figures as Will Rogers and Father Coughlin.

"In our lives, growing up with radio, you could sit by your set and be truly terrified by a Lights Out," said Charles Reeves, executive producer of the special. "People really listened. People remember the news events and where they were on that particular day. You look back at the radio drama, the great orchestras... this was radio. And I think it's good to pause and recall some of these things."

Emerson Stone, vice president of CBS Radio News, said he hopes the program will "give the listener some sense of the history of radio, as well as the history of our times as radio reflected it."

Stone said the program was structured into categories of sports, entertainment, music and drama — all self-contained charting a 50-year course. The news segments, being so extensive, had to be broken into two 25-year periods — 1927-52 and then 1952-77.

For many, this program promises to be a succession of reference points — looking back on specific programs or events, connecting an individual memory to a time, way back then, when radio touched their lives.

Of course there are those who know very little of radio's past, who missed out on those family gatherings around the old Atwater Kent, whose earliest media memories are of Howdy Doody and those rare occasions when your parents let you stay up and watch Milton Berle. Here, this "Autobiography in Sound" will perhaps serve as an introduction. There was life before television after all.

British troupe will perform

ODESSA — The Oxford and Cambridge Shakespeare Company of Britain will bring its production of the Bard's shimmering fantasy, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," to the Globe of the Great Southwest for a single performance Oct. 18.

Tickets for the performance, priced $5 each, are now on sale at the Globe box office and mail orders should be sent to the Globe Theater at 2308 Shakespeare Road, Odessa 79761.

The Oxford and Cambridge Shakespeare Company currently is on a three-month tour to cities across the U. S. The company's version of "Midsummer Night's Dream" is lavishly sprinkled with music, with instrunentation ranging from bongoes and congoes to saxophone, accoustic guitar, flute, viola, piano and tubular bells.

The production, which draws upon professionals as well as student actors from a number of British universities, is directed by Peter Farago. Born in Hungary and subseqùently educated in Britain and the United States, he has been associate director of the Gateway Theater in Chester and the Royal Lyceum in Edinburgh. He also has served as artistic director of the Watermill Theater in Newbury and as assistant drama director of the British Arts Council. Currently, he is associate director of the Birmingham Repertory Theater where he has directed more than 50 productions, including a rock musical version of "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

ENTERTAINMENT

THE OAK RIDGE BOYS, award-winning country music group, will perform at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Odessa College auditorium. Folksinger Allen Damron will be the show's opening act. Tickets for the concert are on sale in advance at the college bookstore and will be available at the doors on performance evening.

'Biggest movie mogul' holds network position

By JERRY BUCK

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The biggest movie mogul in Hollywood doesn't smoke cigars or keep a casting couch in the office. And there's no drinking with the boys after work.

As a matter of fact, this movie mogul isn't even one of the boys — she's Deanne Barkley, NBC's vice president for TV motion pictures and mini series.

Ms. Barkley has been on the job 14 months now, juggling more movies than any studio in Hollywood while overseeing publication of her recently written novel and heading a household that includes four of her six children.

Ms. Barkley, who came from ABC where she guided its Movie of the Week, says it's tough being a woman in a field dominated by men, but adds:

"Actually, I've been incredibly lucky. Always in shark-infested waters I've had good pilot fish, guys who had no problem working with women."

With more than 200 hours of movies in production or development, she says, "I feel like I'm not in television but in movies. They just happen to play in someone's home."

There is no question that NBC is heavily committed to movies and mini series, more so than either ABC or CBS. Its schedule is so constructed that it has a six-hour block available every Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Nor does there seem to be any question that television is claiming the attention of major filmmakers. Television, they are finding, allows them one freedom they don't have in the theater — unlimited time to tell their story.

"People who work in the movies who would like to have a longer form to tell their stories are coming to me," says Deanne. "Box office movies are limited in length because they have to move people in and out of theaters. We don't have those limits."

Jan Kadar, the Academy Award-winning Czechoslovakian director, currently is directing the three-hour "The Next Howling Wind," starring Alan Arkin.

"I think it's a breakthrough for movie directors when they see he's doing one and that we're giving him the time to do it with his vision," says Ms. Barkley.

"There's now a back and forth of writers, directors and actors which we didn't have before. Movies for television have been outstanding, and with the hours we can offer it seems to be really appealing to creative people."

Ms. Barkley, a native of New Orleans, wanted to be a police reporter when she was graduated from Northwestern's Medill School of Journalism, but she wound up at a television station doing public affairs. She went on to become head writer of Dick Cavett's morning show on ABC, then produced syndicated talk shows for Virginia Graham and Helen Gurley Brown.

In 1972 Barry Diller, then an ABC executive and now chairman of Paramont Pictures, hired her as vice president in charge of the Movie of the Week. She was the first woman vice president in programming at a network.

"I think the producers and writers were nervous about a woman being in such an important career position for them," she says, "but I'm pretty good at what I do, so it's helpful."

Ms. Barkley pushes for movies with substantive themes and has dumped that old standby, the disaster movie. "People are tired of them."

In movies she says she looks for "a good concept, a good log line. Many good movies are concept movies and can be summed up in a line in a TV log. 'Jaws' was a concept movie. So was 'Black Sunday' and 'Star Wars.'"

She says she also considers the creative people behind the film and whether it can be cast with appealing stars. "Then I ask, 'is there really any reason for making this?' If I can feel satisfied on those things, we plunge ahead."

When she was at ABC she told Barry Diller that she had a housekeeper but as a single parent she really needed a wife. "He said, 'That's a movie.' So we did 'The Couple Takes a Wife.'

About a year ago she began to feel a creative yen of her own.

"I decided that as an employe you have very little control over your own destiny. I wanted to do something, and, of course, thought of a script. But I knew how hard it is to get a feature script sold. So I decided on another form, the novel."

The book, due out next May, is "Freeway," about the effect of a freeway sniper on the lives of five people.

Pair of concerts starts Lubbock symphony season

LUBROCK — The Lubbock Symphony Orchestra initiates its 1977-78 season with a pair of gala concerts Oct. 3 and 4 in the new Memorial Civic Center theater.

The opening events will feature acclaimed young American baritone Lenus Carlson as guest artist. Carlson maintains a busy schedule as operatic singer, recitalist and concert artist with symphony orchestras throughout the U. S. and elsewhere in the world.

Carlson, of Danish ancestry, is a native of North Dakota. He began his musical training in Minneapolis and later studied at Juilliard in New York City.

In addition to the pair of season-openers, the Lubbock Symphony will have four additional pairs of subscription concerts during the year. The second pair, on Nov. 14 and 15, will feature the winner of the quadrennial Van Cliburn piano competition now under way in Fort Worth. The third pair of programs next Feb. 13 and 14 will present acclaimed violinist Eugene Fodor as guest performer with the orchestra. Then, on March 6 and 7, baritone Kyung W. Shin and pianist Judith Burganger will be featured artists. The season will close with annual "Pops Nite" concerts on April 24 and 25.

All concerts will be under the baton of William A. Harrod, the founding conductor of the Lubbock Symphony Orchestra.

Season tickets are now on sale at the LSO office, 1721 Broadway. They are priced $30, $25 and $20, depending upon location of seating in the Civic Center theater. Tickets in a special student section are priced $12.50. Additional information on the season is available from the symphony office, 806-762-4707.

Adams to be day-governor

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Sen. Don Adams, D-Jasper, becomes governor for a day on Oct. 15, Senate officials said Friday.

The traditional ceremonies will honor Adams' selection and other senators as president pro tempore, or assistant presiding officer, of the Senate.

The dean of the Senate, Sen. A.M. Aikin, D-Paris, will officiate at the ceremonies in the Senate chamber. Also attending will be Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace.

The swearing-in ceremonies will be followed by a reception in the governor's reception room and a lunch on the Capitol grounds.

Performances in final week

ODESSA — A matinee at 2:30 p.m. today will initiate the final week of performances of "Carousel" at Permian Playhouse, Odessa's community theater.

The Rodgers and Hammerstein musical will have performances at 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday and a concluding presentation at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Tickets for all remaining performances are on sale at the Playhouse, 310 W. 42nd St., and may be reserved by telephoning the box office, 362-2329.

Wildlife artist exhibiting works in Midland museum

Widely-known wildlife artist Clay McGaughy is represented with paintings in a new exhibition at Midland's Museum of the Southwest.

The collection will be on view here for a limited time only — through Sept. 26. The museum's Turner Memorial Gallery at 1705 W. Missouri Ave., is open to the public between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays, and from 2 to 5 p.m. Sundays. Admission is free.

Recognized as one of the outstanding "artist-outdoorsmen" of the nation, McGaughy's paintings reflect technical mastery of his medium as well as the special knowledge of one who is constantly associated with the world of nature.

But painting what he sees is not enough for McGaughy. As he expresses it, "Painting is not simply seeing, for vision is only the mechanism by which one paints; instead, it is the 'feeling' of a particular situation. To portray my intellectual and emotional reaction to a stimulus — that is my concern as an artist."

McGaughy, born in Tupelo, Miss., moved to Texas as a child with his parents. He received his degree in art from The University of Texas. He is represented with works in galleries throughout the U. S., and his paintings are in many private and corporate collections. He is a member of the Texas Association of Professional Artists and the Society of Animal Artists and is a past president of the Texas Watercolor Society. In addition to his paintings, he has done illustrations for a number of nationally-known magazines and special publications. He has published "Reflections," a series of limited-edition fine art prints of the outdoors. McGaughy has won numerous awards in juried art exhibitions throughout the Southwest and elsewhere and has been singled out for recognition in the book, "The Cowboy in Art," by Ed Ainsworth.

Artist-outdoorsman Clay McGaughy of San Antonio has an exhibition of his wildlife paintings at Midland's Museum of the Southwest, 1705 W. Missouri Ave.

Navajo textiles on display

LUBBOCK — Both brilliant and subtle colorings characterize the Navajo weavings included in a new exhibition at The Museum of Texas Tech University.

More than 100 examples of the Navajo weavers' art from the extensive and important collection of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Harmsen of Denver are included in the exhibition which opens to the public this afternoon. The display will be on view here through Oct. 30.

Charles M. McLaughlin, acting director of The Museum, says the exhibit is one of the most noteworthy to come here. "We are fortunate in being selected as one of the exhibiting institutions," he added. "Not only is the collection remarkable, but its presence here indicates to some extent the stature which The Museum of Texas Tech University has gained in recent years."

The 102-piece collection will be exhibited in seven Western and Southwestern museums before being returned to the Harmsens. The Tech museum is the only institution in Texas to have the show.

The earliest dated piece in the exhibit is a Saltillo sarape, produced in about 1750, which shows the skilled spinning, dying and loom work characteristic of the finest pieces in the display. The sarape illustrates the origin of later Navajo work.

The simplest pieces in the collection are Hopi garments, typifying the ancient Pueblo craftsmen from whom the Navajos learned the art of weaving.

In the new exhibit are choice pieces from the early Navajo period of the last century — Bosque Redondo weaving, Pan Reservation rug styles and Germantown blankets. There are items with designs taken from sand paintings, yeis and yeibechais. Other weaving styles include representations from Gandado, Klagetoh, Two Gray Hills, Crystal, Tee Nos Pos and Wide Ruins. There also are Navajo twills, pictorial rugs and novelty weaves.

The Harmsens are noted not only for their vast collection of western Americana but for their dedication to authoritative researching cataloging and documenting of the items in their possession. Mrs. Harmsen is the author of two books on western American art. Her first volume was "Harmsen's Western Americana," a prize-winning overview of original works by Western artists in the Harmsen collection. The newest book, "American Western Art," is the result of years of research and preparation.

Noted jazz artists to open community concerts season

The best traditions are to be enjoyed, and there are few that are more enjoyable than traditional New Orleans jazz as played by a group of artists who helped create this great sound — the famous Preservation Hall Jazz Band.

The band brings its incomparable music to town Tuesday night for presentation before members of the Midland Community Concerts Association as the opening attraction of the MCCA's 1977-78 season. Admission to the 8:15 p.m. program in Midland High School auditorium will be by season membership card only, with no single tickets sold.

In the Preservation Hall Jazz Band are musicians who not only made musical history with New Orleans jazz, but are perpetuating it as well. Their music is alive and bouncing at ancient, unglamorous Preservation Hall in New Orleans' French Quarter, where the ensemble holds forth when not on tour.

When the band travels, it brings the same vitality to this sweet-sad-gentle, but always exuberant, music. It is music born of turn-of-the-century street parades and saloons, from the river boats and from the hearts of people who laughed and danced and cried. It is music played by men who worked on the docks by day, but weren't too tired to blow their horns for most of the night.

Most of the Preservation Hall Band members have made and played this music for 50 years or more, and it's a part of them. Their music, while dated in origin, attracts enthusiastic fans of all ages. (Indeed, there are no greater foot-stomping fans of New Orleans jazz than young people, an it's from the young that a long future for New Orleans jazz is assured. Young musicians from all over the world come to Preservation Hall to learn the techniques and patterns of this distinctive and very human music.)

Group prepares for Jazz Parties

The chartering last month of the Midland Jazz Association as a non-profit Texas corporation has paved the way for an annual jazz festival in Midland.

The first festival, or Jazz Party, as it will be known, will take place in the ballroom of the Midland Hilton Nov. 15 through 20. Seating for the six-concert series is limited to 450 chairs and tickets are going fast, according Max H. Christenson, president of the Midland Jazz Association.

Christenson emphasizes that tickets, (or, actually, buttons for admission) are being sold for the entire series only, with no single-performance admissions to be available. The cost is $100 for the series and persons interested in attending are invited to contact Christenson at 602 Petroleum Building in Midland, telephone 682-5334.

Christenson also points out that Midland will be among only a handful of cities in the nation with such an ambitious jazz festival. He said the Gibson Party held in Colorado Springs each year is the oldest of this kind of jazz event, and many of the musicians coming to Midland for the November festival have played in the Colorado festival for years.

Among performers booked for the Midland party are trumpeters Ruby Braff, Ed Polcer and Pee Wee Erwin; trombonists Carl Fontana, Bill Watrous and Ed Hubble; Flip Phillip saxophonists and Ed Miller; guitarist Bucky Pizzarelli; bassists Milt (Judge) Hinton, Jack Lesberg and Mike Moore; pianists Dick Hyman, Dave McKenn and Derek Smith; clarinetists Kenny Davern and Johnny Mince; drummers Cliff Leeman, Jake Hanna and Mousey Alexander; xylophonist Red Norvo and vocalist Mavis Rivers.

In organizing the jazz festival, directors of the Midland Jazz Association decreed that any surplus funds from ticket sales will be used to help finance the second jazz event next year, and to establish music scholarships. No board member receives any monetary compensation for his work on behalf of the jazz association or the festival.

Master potters' work on display in Canyon

CANYON — An important exhibition of Pueblo Indian pottery goes on view this afternoon at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum here.

The exhibition, titled "The Made Being," is so named because of the Pueblo belief that each piece of pottery has a spirit. The collection in the show here spans a period of 1,000 years, from such pre-historic cultures as the Anasayi and the Mogollon, to the finest work of modern Pueblo artisans.

Zuni and Acoma pottery of the late 19th Century and a variety of pieces from the early 1900's are among the finest pieces on view in the exhibition here.

The show will open with a preview and reception between 2 and 4 p.m. today in the museum annex.

Matinee to complete performances of play

ODESSA — The Mansion dinner theater offers a final performance of its current attraction, "Catch Me If You Can," this afternoon.

The matinee will begin at 2:30 p.m., followed by supper for playgoers at the end of the performance.

Opening Tuesday night for a month's run at the new dinner theater on the east outskirts of Odessa is British playwright Alan Ayckbourn's hilarious comedy, "How the Other Half Loves," starring Alvey Moore, best-known for his portrayal of Mr. Kimble in the long-running TV comedy series "Green Acres."

How Texans voted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here is the way Texas legislators voted on key issues before Congress last week.

In the Senate, an amendment to require federal employes to pay for parking was rejected 56-25. Sponsors said it would help conserve energy by encouraging employes to use mass transit. Voting against the amendment were Sens. Bentsen and Tower.

The Senate rejected, 73-15, an amendment by Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., to require rationing of gasoline. Voting no were Sens. Bentsen and Tower.

The Senate rejected, 56-42, an amendment by Sen. Edward Kennedy that would have allowed the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare to require health warnings on television and radio ads for products containing saccharin. Voting against the amendment: Tower. Voting for it: Bentsen.

The House adopted, 221-183, an amendment by Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Tex., to increase the size of retail businesses exempt from federal minimum wage laws from those with gross revenues of $250,000 per year to those with revenues of $500,000. Voting for the amendment were Reps. Brooks, Burleson, de la Garza, Gammage, Hall, Hightower, Kazen, Krueger, Mahon, Mattox, Milford, Pickle, Poage, Roberts, Teague, White, Wilson, Wright, Young, Archer and Collins. Voting against were Eckhardt, Gonzalez, and Jordan.

The House defeated, 211-210, an amendment that would have allowed employers to pay 85 per cent of the minimum wage to teenagers.

Ringing the bell

With BOB TIEUEL

A Bellringer Writes: "At the St. Louis convention this year, I made a number of modest proposals to the NAACP board of directors that I hope to implement in the coming year. Among these proposals was the establishing of a department of church work so that we of the NAACP can strengthen and re-establish, in some instances, our historical links with the black church.

"Historically, the black church has been our staunchest ally. It has been our Rock of Ages, a tower of strength in our terrible time of need. When the 'poor, bewildered and heartsick African slave was unloaded of chains at Jamestown, Va. or Annapolis, Md., in the dawn of our national history, he was a lost soul in an alien world. His naked body bore the cruel scars of the lash, but his soul was more deeply lacerated and numb, yanked as he had been from his familiar physical and psychic moorings.

"So what emerged was thhe peculiar soul of Christianity. Its hauntingly beautiful spirituals, its colorfully imaginative interpretaion of biblical lore and his energetic and soulful "dancing before the Lord with all his might.

"Thus the black church has been historically our center for social entertainment and spiritual interaction. It has been, and is, the quiet refuge in our stormy lives; it is a way station to which once or twice weekly most Black Americans repair for spiritual and psychic refueling so that we are strengthened to face the slings and arrows of another week in the turbulent secular world...We also plan to reach out in fellowship and love to the white churches of America for support in our endeavor to make America whole."

Signed, Benjamin L. Hooks, Executive dir. NAACP.

Worldwide study on diabetes seeks answers

By GIL BROYLES

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Why is there a higher incidence of diabetes among Oklahoma Indians much higher than among villagers in East Pakistan?

Why are Japanese spared some tragic complications of the disease?

Pursuing answers to these questions, and raising others, is the aim of a worldwide study which culminates its first phase Oct. 1 with a meeting in Geneva.

The multi-national endeavor is coordinated by the World Health Organization of the United Nations. Scientists will gather to review the results of a three year international study and plan further work on the disease which knows no national boundaries.

Dr. Kelly West, clinical professor of medicine at the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center, is a member of the planning panel of the study and planning chairman of the International Diabetes Federation.

"It could be that the standard diet of diabetics is not well conceived," he says. "Carbohydrates may not be bad for diabetics. But the study suggests that certain old truths will hold up well. For instance, fat diabetics should reduce their calories."

Diabetes, characterized by insulin deficiency and excess sugar in the blood, affects 10 million Americans and causes 300,000 deaths in this country each year, according to the American Diabetes Association (ADA).

The only U.S. group in the study is Oklahoma Indians, selected because of their high incidence of diabetes and because tribal rolls are available.

The study is focusing on diabetics' susceptibility to blindness, heart attack and other coronary disorders, kidney failure and gangrene of the foot leading to amputation.

"We are finding that differences among societies are greater than had been thought," West says.

For instance, studies show that the incidence of diabetes among some American Indian tribes is 20 times greater than that of the population in East Pakistan.

One goal of the multi-national effort is to resolve the old scientific argument of how much "genetic and environmental" influences lead to frequency of diabetes.
