Demand Made For Lifting Credit Curbs

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A demand that the new, tighter curbs on automobile installment purchases be lifted was made by Fred L. Haller, president of the National Automobile Dealers Association.

He said people were being thrown out of work and the national economy damaged by previously announced restrictions and he called the new ones the "most drastic economic regulation ever forced upon a free people."

He made his protest in a telegram to the federal reserve board. The board Friday issued new regulations under which the pay-off limit on automobiles was cut from 21 to 15 months, with the cash down payment remaining one third. In September the board had issued regulations calling for the one third down payment with 21 months to pay.

"Automobiles are a necessity, not a luxury," Haller said, "and the drastic, premature and discriminatory installment terms the government is forcing upon those who need and must have essential transportation, particularly the lower-income buyers, represent a severe and unnecessary hardship upon the American public."

The tighter rules, going into effect Monday with only one business day's notice, affect furniture, television sets and major household appliances as well as automobiles. Down payment requirements are boosted and pay-off times shortened in all such cases.

Haller's protest was paralleled by objections from a spokesman for retail business in general. Maury L. Nee, Washington furniture dealer and chairman of the secretary of commerce's retail advisory committee, said the curbs "might precipitate a recession."

"We feel that if this would make a contribution toward heading off inflation it would be all right," Nee told newsmen.

"But prices have been leveling off and there is a falling demand. At the same time supplies are more ample at any other time in history and orders by retailers are at an all-time high."

Nee said that installment sales have declined in recent weeks, and declared that the federal reserve board makes a mistake when it lumps together bank credit and consumer installment credit.

He argued that at least three months should have been allowed to test the true effectiveness of the first round of credit controls.

Nee and other spokesmen for the retail business only last Thursday protested to government officials that even the original rules were too stiff and ought to be relaxed.

In the case of automobiles the new order sets up payment schedule as stiff as any in force during World War II. It will take $500 cash as at present to buy an $1,800 car. The monthly payment will go from $57.15 to $80, exclusive of carrying charges.

For other affected items here are the changes: Television sets, radios and other major appliances — down payment up from 15 percent to 25 and payoff time down from 18 months to 15.

GOV. ALLAN SHIVERS

Shivers to Speak For C-C Banquet

Gov. Allan Shivers will be guest speaker at the annual chamber of commerce installation banquet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the senior high school cafeteria. The subject of his speech has not been announced.

Highlight of the banquet will be the installation of the 1951 officers who will take up their duties on Wednesday, following the installation. To be installed as president is G. S. Vineyard, who will be replaced by Charles B. Cook.

Edney Inel as vice president and Aubrey Steele will take over the job of treasurer to replace F. A. Thorne.

Delbert Downing, general manager of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, will install the officers and directors. Downing is well known throughout the state as an after-dinner speaker of the late Will Rogers type.

TOKYO — (AP) — Speeding allied ground troops smashed out gains of 15 to 20 miles Saturday in a three-pronged drive towards the Red Korean capital of Pyongyang.

Cut off behind them were an estimated 20,000 Reds to be mopped up later.

The South Korean First Division struck 20 miles to Singye, 55 miles southeast of the Korean Communist stronghold.

The South Korean capital division drove 15 miles west from Wonsan, port on the east coast, to a point 70 miles east of Pyongyang.

A U. S. First Cavalry division column rumbled through captured Kumsong on the main road to Pyongyang, 70 miles northwest of Kumsong. It was pursuing fleeing Reds who, a captured Red lieutenant said, planned to set up their next defense point at Namchonjon, a little highway town.

The first cavalrymen and British and Australian soldiers who captured Kumsong trapped the estimated 20,000 Reds south of the city.

These Reds apparently were still offering bitter resistance. A spokesman for the U. S. Eighth Army said the First Cavalry had to battle fiercely to clear the highway from Kumsong back to the outfit's South Korean jump-off point of Kaesong, near Parallel 38.

Five bridges on the Yesong River just west of Kumsong were secured by the First Cavalry. Other bridges to the south, however, were still held by Reds.

Maj. Gen. Robert H. Gay, commander of the First Cavalry, said the trapped Reds "will not get out any tanks, guns or vehicles."

Nine Red tanks were knocked out in the battle for Kumsong. The South Korean First Division, the unit was operating independently of the First Cavalry. Its location before it struck to Singye was given as four and one-half miles northeast of Kumsong.

Wonsan, on the east end of the Korean allied front, developed as the split-up point for two South Korean divisions.

While the capital division was jumping 15 miles toward Pyongyang, the First Division rolled 18 miles north from Wonsan in less than 24 hours to Yonghung. That is 30 miles southwest of the North Korean port of Hungnam.

History Making Talks Finished in Two Hours

Truman Declares U. N. Can 'Surmount All Obstacles'

By the Associated Press

President Truman met for less than two hours Sunday at Wake Island with General MacArthur, then left for Hawaii declaring the United Nations can surmount all dangers.

A pooled dispatch from the island far out in the Pacific said the presidential plane left for the return flight to Hawaii at noon, Sunday, Wake time, or 6 p.m. Saturday (CST). Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross said the president left the conference, though brief, produced "quite highly satisfactory results."

The president was represented as impressed with MacArthur's perspective of the Far Eastern situation. It was the first meeting between the two.

The president was expected to arrive in his plane, the Independence, at 12:05 a.m. Sunday, (CST) at Hickam Field, Hawaii.

Mr. Truman voluntarily broke up his conference early in order to make it possible for MacArthur to return quickly to Tokyo, Ross said.

Ross told reporters he thought MacArthur did a "magnificent job" of presenting the Korean situation. The two discussed Korean rehabilitation and other matters.

Shortly before he left, Mr. Truman decorated MacArthur with a fourth Oak Leaf Cluster to the Distinguished Service Medal.

Both principals agreed not to have a press conference because of the shortage of time.

A communiqué will be issued later, the dispatch said, quoting "statements by the president concurred in by MacArthur."

Immediately after the president's arrival at 6:30 a.m., he and the general talked face to face for an hour. The formal conference with their advisers followed.

It was suspended temporarily while the president rested. It then was soon concluded and both were ready to leave, the president heading back to Hawaii and the general to Tokyo.

U. S. time, but Sunday on Wake, which is west of the international date line. The conference, at the president's bidding, embraced the reconstruction of Korea and possible American policy throughout the Far East, but Wake's scanty radio facilities prevented prompt reporting of the full details.

White House correspondents of the Associated Press, International News Service and United Press said they had received messages from Wake to Honolulu over the civil aeronautics authority radio.

Their joint account, as sent chronologically, follows:

WAKE ISLAND — (AP) — The Truman-MacArthur conference began here today shortly after the president's plane arrived from Honolulu at 6:30 a.m. local time (12:30 p.m. Saturday, CST).

The setting was all the more unbelieve considering the fact Mr. Truman was at his White House desk less than four days ago and more than 7,000 miles away.

he childlike and demagogic to allow the issues to become obscured by indiscriminate abuse and personal falsehoods.

Rogers in the radio roundtable Friday over KGNC declared:

"... It may be necessary at times to recapture the Democratic party, but never necessary to bolt it. The course for Texas is not the course of state republicanism, dim of vision and forlorn of hope, devoid of policy, destitute of program, and bankrupt in all save the desire to be in instead of out. A Republican party that blushes in shame when its name is mentioned, as evidenced in this election, has failed and refused to put its own brand of republicanism on its literature; ashamed of its very name. It will not use it to advertise its name in a bid for a seat in the national Congress."

His last, aimed at the national Republican party throughout, condemned the GOP Block in Congress for passing an income

A PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS we are now at the midway point of the Twentieth Century and therefore in a strategic position from which to survey the progress which America has made in the past 50 years and to assay the advances which may be expected in the future; and WHEREAS it has been brought to the attention of this office that October 15 to 21 has been designated as Oil Progress Week, when members of the American Petroleum Industry will cooperate to inform the public about the ways in which oil men have contributed to our high standards of living and to the preservation of our democratic freedoms while building for the future of the country in which they do business; and

WHEREAS citizens of our community who are engaged in producing, transporting, refining or marketing petroleum products desire to participate in the observance of Oil Progress Week by arranging various exhibits and engaging in other activities which show how their enterprising and competitive industry serves, and will continue to serve, the citizens of Pampa.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, C. A. Huff, Mayor of Pampa, do hereby proclaim the week of October 15 to 21 inclusive to be Pampa Oil Progress Week and do call the attention of all citizens to the many contributions and services which oil men who live and work among us make to the steady advancement of our public, social and private lives.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and seal of the seal of Pampa to be affixed.

Phone Rate Hike Disturbs Pampans

With the exception of City Commissioner Crawford Atkinson, the city commission met with little response from the general public over the proposed rate boost demanded by Southwestern Bell Telephone before committing itself to installing dial service for Pampa.

Atkinson was flooded with telephone calls Thursday morning and afternoon with the consensus being against the raise.

The Ward 1 commissioner added most people who called him said they didn't want dial service if the rates were going to be "that high."

Southwestern Bell wants a rate increase ordinance written stipulating a $7.50 rate for one party business phones now and $9 for one party business after dial is installed. All other service rates would be raised accordingly, amounting roughly to 50 percent now and about 70 to 80 percent with dial.

The citizens committee and the city commission are agreeable to a rate increase now, but want the dial rate left open for negotiations after the system is installed.

Ward 3 City Commissioner W. E. Ballard said the people who spoke to him apparently misunderstood the issue. He said sentiment was "pretty evenly divided on the increase, but added:

"Most of those who were against the hike didn't realize that an increase will be granted regardless of the installation of dial, but what amount will be granted is yet to be decided."

On the other hand Ward 2 City Commissioner Bob Thompson reported "no calls" to his home or business office over the phone hike. Mayor C. A. Huff was out of town and Ward 4 Commissioner Fred Paronto could not be reached.

However City Manager Dick Pepin said he had received "a few" calls on the issue, most of them against the rate hike.

Pepin added he was unable to get the citizens committee together by the end of last week due to the absence of Ivy Duncan, chairman. However, Pepin said he would have an announcement ready Monday morning concerning the committee's meeting.

For almost two years Southwestern Bell has been knocking on the commission's door for a rate increase and has been refused or shelved each time because the commission was dissatisfied with the company's answers to pertinent questions on toll or long distance income earned at Pampa. The company has never been able, they claimed, to give a true picture of the Pampa toll earnings because the

Fire Destroys Furniture Load

McLEAN — (Special) — A truckload of furniture, valued at $2,000 was destroyed by fire about two miles west of McLean Saturday afternoon. The furniture was the property of Ralph Evans, co-owner of the Wheeler-Evans grain elevator, Groom.

The truck with its load of furniture was enroute from Eagle City, Okla., to Groom on a privately owned truck driven by Lynn Womack, of Eagle City, when the fire occurred. Cause of the blaze was unknown, according to Boyd Meador, McLean fire chief.

The truck, a 1942 Ford, was practically destroyed, with only the cab and engine being saved, Meador said.

Newsprint Plants Boost Paper Price

MONTREAL — (AP) — The Powell River Paper Co. of Vancouver has increased newspaper prices $10 a ton. A wave of similar boosts may spread among all Canadian producers.

Most other newspaper makers are sitting tight at the moment, offering no comment for publication on the action of the Vancouver company.

Spokesmen for two Newfoundland newsprint companies did say neither plans an increase in price now but they disagreed on the aftermath of the Powell River announcement.

Such large producers as Abitibi Power and Paper Co. and Great Lakes Paper Co. follow a majority of the producers with the brief statement "no comment."

The Pampa Daily News purchases its paper from Powell River and Abitibi.

Powell River's notification to Canadian United States customers came in the midst of frequent reports that newsprint price rises are due. And it followed notification to the British press and London that the wartime newsprint ration system would be reinstated Oct. 22.

The increase in Powell River's price was from $99 to $109 a ton. It does not affect all customers. The company has a number of contracts which would not be affected at present.

Powell River's announcement gave higher production costs as the reason for the boost.

County Has 6,444 Total for X-Rays

A total of 6,444 persons were X-rayed in Gray County since the portable unit came to Pampa Oct. 9. Lefors reported 527 persons received chest X-rays last Thursday, with McLean having only 493 on Saturday. Pampa had a total of 5,424 persons reporting for chest X-rays.

The portable unit was set up in the Southwest Public Service Company, in McLean, the headquarters were in the Dysart Motors Company building. While in Pampa, the unit was located in the American Legion Hall.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Doubling Dan Foiled By Optimistic Oliver

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Optimistic Oliver looked at the dummy, guiped a couple of times and started his apology.

"Partner, I rather hoped you might have a little more. As it is we will still make our contract with a little luck, provided that old Dan has a good double for a change."

Doubling Dan said nothing but already he was sorry that he had doubled and he was going to be a lot sorer before the hand was over.

Before making his speech Oliver had decided to play Doubling Dan for all three of the missing kings. In that case he saw how to make the contract sure, provided that Dan's spade holding was not four or five to the king ten.

Oliver won the opening club lead with the ace and played a low spade toward the jack in dummy. Dan went right up with the king; it would have done him no good to play low; and led a second club. Oliver won with the jack, ran three spade tricks discarding the deuce of diamonds from dummy, cashed his ace of hearts, and ran the club suit.

He discarded down to the ace queen of diamonds on the clubs and poor Dan was squeezed. He had to hold the king of hearts and hence was forced to blank his king of diamonds whereupon Oliver's ace and queen took the last two tricks.

Dan's double of the six no-trump contract was a perfectly horrible bid. True, with three kings in back of an opening three no-trump bid he was entitled to think that he would set the contract. On the other hand it was a lead pipe cinch that his partner would hold an absolute bust and the chances were that Dan would not make all three of his kings. Hence he was doubling in an effort to gain a mere fifty points. As against this possible fifty-point gain he was giving the declarer a line on how to play the hand.

Oliver might have made the hand without the double but the chances are he would have tried the simple play of an immediate heart finesse. If that finesse worked he would have his twelve tricks easily. If it failed he would be able to make the hand only if East held king and one spade.

War, 5-Day Week Blamed as Cause For Rail Shortage

MEXICO CITY — (AP) — The president of the Association of American Railroads says the U.S. freight car shortage is due to a combination of Korean war shipping and the five-day week.

William T. Faricy said that if U.S. industry would return to a six-day week, the shortage would disappear. He said the five-day week means many cars are held over the week-end without unloading. Faricy estimated a six-day week would return about 175,000 freight cars to service daily. The U.S. shortage is estimated at over 100,000 cars.

Faricy said the railroad supply of personnel was "tight in some lines," especially dispatchers and repair mechanics.

The more serious shortage, he said, is steel for repairs and construction of the 108,000 new freight cars on order.

Faricy praised the work done during the last war by Mexican maintenance crews on U.S. railroads and said that "in case of another major war they would be essential again."

Speaking of increased use of diesels on U.S. railroads, Faricy said this change is not a threat to the U.S. oil supply.

Asked about the proposed Pan-American railroad to run from Canada to Argentina, Faricy said "I think building railroads is always a good idea."

The coal of South Korea is poor but reduces imports of other expensive fuels.

PETTICOAT RULE

For the young girls in your household, and the girls who are young in heart, (and what girl or woman isn't?), there's nothing quite like a frilly bedroom.

"But the upkeep!" you say. Put that right out of your mind. Your bedroom can look as fluffy as a summer cloud and still be a model of efficiency by using just a little forethought in planning it.

Permanent-finish organdy and glazed chintz are as dust repellent as any fabrics you can find and hold their crispness indefinitely. The fluffy white curtains in the room sketched above are permanent-finish organdy, and the ruffles are repeated in the three-tiered valances and bed ruffles. The quilted white plastic spread is durable, easily kept immaculate, and is a complementary contrast to the Mahogany head boards.

The seats of the small Mahogany chairs and the slipper chair are upholstered in matching plastic. With all its look of frilly feminine extravagance this room is practical right down to the hem of the last ruffle.

Double chests of Mahogany provide storage space so dear to young hearts and are wonderful display places for perfume collections.

Whether you are planning a frilly or a tailored bedroom, let us help you with the furnishing and decoration. That's our job.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

Q. My son-in-law has recently been sent to England. He left his wife and child with me, with the promise that he would send for them as soon as the Army made arrangements. Now he writes that because of the Korean war the Army isn't moving dependents to England. Is he trying to pull a fast one?

A. Could be. Your son-in-law will probably hate me for this, but although they're not taking dependents to the Pacific, there's no restriction on travel of dependents to the European command.

Q. I have a hospitalization plan which I have kept in force for a long time. Is it advisable to keep it going if I am called to active duty?

A. In case you don't remember from your past duty the Army gives you free medical care and hospitalization. If you have a sentimental attachment to your policy, then keep it in force by all means.

Q. I am employed at a bank and go to school at night. Will this keep me from the draft?

A. They're drafting bank clerks. And you have to be a full-time student to get a deferment.

Q. If veterans are drafted, will those who served in the Marines and Navy be taken in the Army?

A. Your guess is as good as mine.

Q. Has the government the right to send a boy to the front lines if his parents ask them to keep him out of combat until he is 21?

A. Unfortunately, yes. The Army says that if they permitted parents to make this request they'd probably have nobody at the front.

Q. Why is it that they haven't called any conscientious objectors?

A. Write to your Congressman about this. It's the law that they won't be taken.

Q. Is it true that they're drafting 35-year-olds?

A. No, but there's some talk of it.

Israel Schools Grow As Children Return

TEL AVIV, Israel — (AP) — Israeli school children, steadily increasing in numbers, are back at work for the 1950-51 term while authorities rush the construction of more classrooms. Ministry of Education officials estimated from 130,000 to 134,000 children over the age of five would receive instruction this year. The 1949-50 figure was 110,000.

About 17,000 Arab children also are attending schools in various sectors of Israel.

DARRYL WILSON reaches high to knock down a Lubbock pass as Quarterback De Wey Cudney looks on. The Harvesters stopped the Westerners' winning streak at 16 Friday night in Harvesters Park. Pampa was the last team to beat Lubbock in a scheduled game. The Harvesters stopped Lubbock, 26-19, in 1948. (News Photo and Engraving)

SPECK SPECULATES

By SPECK REYNOLDS

Don Ackerman, left halfback for Price College, displayed touchdown runs last Thursday night in Harvesters Park that is seldom seen in high school football circles. The speed merchant from Amarillo accounted for five of his team's seven touchdowns. But what sent my blood pressure up to a new high was the way the human gazelle carried the mail.

I wasn't even on my second package of cigarettes when Ackerman sped 50 yards for his first touchdown. When before I had a chance to bite my nails, Ackerman was off for pay dirt again. This time he galloped 70 yards with a punt return. At this point I thought the lad might be a fair college prospect.

His football value jumped up 50 percent when he notched his third touchdown. He scampered 95 yards with a punt return. It was like watching a tennis match trying to keep up with the flying Cardinal. Then inflation hit. He ripped off 80 yards to score number four and added his fifth TD with a 78-yard run. Ackerman traveled 373 yards, for an average of 74.6. All this information I put in my little black book.

When the whistle sounded ending the game, I hurried over to the Cardinal dressing room. I was afraid some other college scout would beat me to my prize package.

Penning up two flights of stairs, I burst into the Cardinal dressing room. "Has he signed, yet," I whispered to coach Hap Rogers. "How old is he? What's his draft classification? What's his grade point average? Does he plan to play college football?"

I was as excited as an expectant father and as hopeful as an old maid as the Cardinal coach answered each question.

Then the roof caved in. In my excitement, I didn't notice a priest standing nearby. The coach informed me that they were going to try to get Ackerman in Notre Dame.

Maryland Clicks For 25-14 Win Over Georgetown

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Maryland's footballers got the scare of their lives before they pushed over a touchdown with only three minutes left to clinch a 25 to 14 victory over a roused Georgetown.

Maryland was a four-touchdown favorite. Jack Scarbath, tricky Maryland quarterback, got in the lick that assured victory. He circled right end, faked a lateral and kept going with the ball to run six yards for the clinching touchdown.

Bob Shemonski's passing and running sparked Maryland's first two scoring drives.

Completing five of six passes, Frank Mattingly led Georgetown's 52 yards to its first touchdown. Gino Paglucia, Georgetown fullback, plunged over from the two yard stripe for the second. Maryland counted two safeties in the third period.

Vandies Whip Rebels

NASHVILLE — (AP) — The mixing, the precision passing of Bill Wade and the rushing of Jim Tabor, the air-minded Vanderbilt Commodores drove over three touchdowns on the ground to whip the Mississippi Rebels 20-14.

Louis Won't Give Up

NEW YORK — (AP) — It looks as if Joe Louis is going to keep on fighting until he gets one more shot at his old heavyweight.

From reliable sources it was learned that the Brown Bomber is planning a series of big bouts which he hopes will earn him another crack at Champion Ezzard Charles.

Pampa Comes From Behind In Second Period to Win

The fighting Harvesters bounced back Friday night to stop the undefeated Lubbock Westerners 27-21 before 6,000 limp football fans in Harvesters Park.

Trailing 14-6 in the first quarter, Pampa punched across two second quarter touchdowns to take a 20-14 lead that they never relinquished. Both teams added a touchdown in the fourth period and with one minute and ten seconds left to play, Quarterback Charles Brewer kept the partisan crowd on the edge of their seats with three desperation passes. Quarterback De Wey Cudney then used three quarterback sneaks to kill the last minute of play.

Eddie Scheig played one of his best games of the season Friday night. Scheig cut down Lubbock runners all over the field and saved the day when he nailed the fleet-footed James Sides on the Pampa 45-yard line. Scheig was the only man between the Lubbock runner and the Pampa goal.

Right End Tommy Martin broke his hand in the first quarter but the spunky Harvester remained in the contest to finish out the game. Tackle Jerry Walker was outstanding on defense. With an injured knee, the big Pampa tackle wouldn't budge when the Westerners tried to run through his tackle slot.

Cudney hit left end Jimmy Cook with three aerial toases, one good for a 17 yard touchdown. Twice the aggressive Cook took the ball away from the Lubbock pass defenders, and another time he picked the ball out of the air after it bounced out of the hands of a Lubbock defender.

Jimmy Hayes was the work horse in the Harvesters backfield. The 170-pound right halfback carried the pigskin 21 times for 149 yards.

The Harvesters won the toss and elected to receive. With the Westerners defending the South goal, Carl Kennedy took the opening kickoff and returned it 23 yards to the Pampa 48.

Hayes and Elmer Wilson alternated in carrying the ball, and the Pampans marched down to the Lubbock one-yard line. Hayes ploughed center for the last yard and Pampa took the lead 6-0. Cudney's kick was no good.

Lubbock moved out in front 7-6 in the first period. With third down and eight to go for a first down on their own 35, Brewer flipped a pass to Jones.

Down to the Pampa 40, Hayes knocked the ball down but interference was called and the Westerners kept possession of the ball on the Harvesters' 40.

On first down, Sides knifed through right tackle and scampered 40 yards to score. Jack Weldon's kick was good and Lubbock led 7-6.

Lubbock made it 14-6 when they recovered a Harvester fumble on the Pampa 40. Sides carried twice for 25 yards to move the ball down to the Pampa 15. Mack Taylor then split through the Harvesters 15 yards for Lubbock's second TD. Weldon's kick was good, and the Westerners moved into the lead 14-6.

The Fighting Harvesters made it 13-14 when Hayes slashed off right tackle and raced 55 yards for Pampa's second TD. Cudney's kick was good this time to make it 13-14.

Pampa used a Lubbock fumble to notch their third touchdown before halftime. Jesse Dykes covered the tumble on the Pampa 46. Cudney then faked back and shot a long aerial toss to Cook. Cook pulled the ball away from a Lubbock defender to make it first and ten on the Lubbock 12-yard line. A five yard penalty moved the ball back to the 17.

Cudney hit Cook again with a pass and the Pampa end raced into the end zone standing up. Cudney split the uprights to make the score 20-14 Pampa.

Lubbock offense camped in the Pampa backyard the whole third quarter. Lubbock took the kick off and traveled fifty yards to the Pampa 20. Four plays netted eight yards and the Harvesters took over on their 12.

Hayes punted after three plays netted six yards. Sides took the ball on his own 30 and brought it back to the Pampa 35. With first and ten, the Westerners fumbled and Cudney recovered on the Harvesters' 31.

Wilson swept around end for a first and ten on the Pampa 41. Hayes added four more with an off tackle play. Cudney hit Cook for thirty yards. With first and ten on the Lubbock 25, Hayes picked up 17 yards on two tries to make it first and goal on the Westerners' 8. Wilson twisted his way to the two. Hayes cracked center twice before he smashed his way into the end zone for the Harvesters' fourth TD. Cudney's placement was good and the Harvesters led 27-14.

Sides kept the Westerners in the ball game with his sensational running, and he made it 20-27 when he went through the left side of the Harvester line 27 yards for a touchdown. Weldon's kick was good and the Westerners trailed 27-21 with four minutes left to play.

After three running plays failed, Pampa was forced to punt from their own 39. Lubbock took over on their own 22. In two carries, Sides carried the ball down to the Harvester 30. With less than two minutes to play, Brewer threw three passes, all incomplete, and the Harvesters took over with a minute and 10 seconds left to play. Cudney carried three times through center to kill out the clock. Pampa had the ball on Lubbock's 27 when the game ended.

Porkers Smear Bears 27-6 in Conference Game

FAYETTEVILLE — (AP) — Ray Parks, an almost-forgotten halfback, and a fired-up line gave the Arkansas Razorbacks a 27 to 6 victory over Baylor in a Southwest Conference football game here Saturday.

Parks scored two touchdowns, one on a 64-yard sprint in the final period, to lead Arkansas from behind and put it back in the conference race. It was Baylor's first conference start.

The big Razorback line stopped the Baylor Bears cold after the don't place them very good, and rushed passers Larry Iabell and Hayden Fry off their feet. They completed only five of 27 tosses for 58 yards.

Baylor, which had led the conference in defense, yielded 274 yards by rushing and 70 by passes. The Bears were held to 79 yards on the ground.

An intercepted pass led to Baylor's touchdown early in the game. Frank Boydston lugged one misfired pitch 37 yards to the Arkansas three. Two plays later, Carpenier dived across for the score. In the second period, Arkansas held Baylor for three downs on the two. That was the Bears' last big moment.

Frank Fischel blocked a punt in the second period to set up Parks' first score from the ten. George Thomason converted to put the Porkers ahead for keeps. Bill Jurney tallied the second Arkansas touchdown in the third on an eight yard pass from Jim Rinehart. The other touchdown was scored in the final period by Bob Griffin, a center playing his first game at tackle. He intercepted a pass and jogged 46 yards for the score.

Hurricanes Blow Past Boilermakers In Upset, 20-14

LAFAYETTE — (AP) — A twisting halfback, Frank Smith, scored twice after dazzling runs to lead the University of Miami from Florida to a surprising defeat of Purdue, 20-14.

The Hurricanes smeared the Purdue offense, which Notre Dame couldn't stop last week, and kept the Boilermakers in the midfield a good part of the afternoon.

Purdue was able to score only a blocked punt and a 31-yard pass.

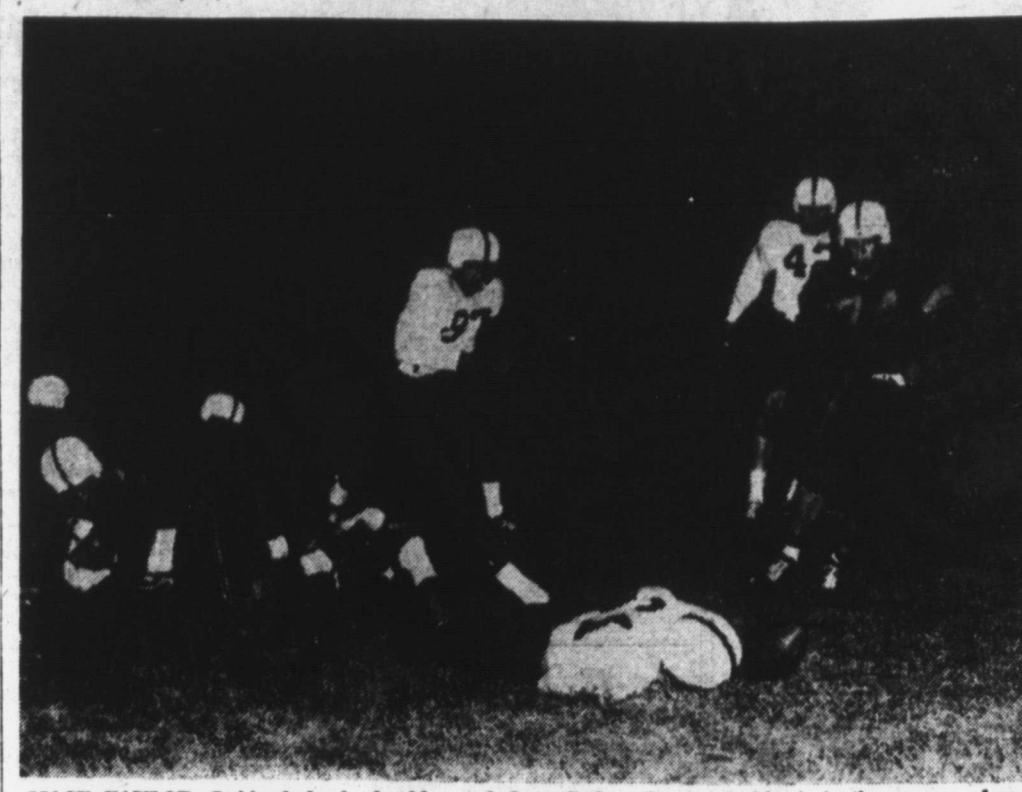

Miami's other score came on a surprising 63 yard run by Guard Joe Lyden, who scooped in a blocked pass which bounced into the air. End Leo Martin had knocked the ball into the air as Dale Samuels threw it.

Purdue's brilliant passing back, Samuels, had a bad day as the visitors intercepted six Purdue passes.

Particularly effective was the trap play which twice fooled the Boilermakers — both times for touchdowns.

It was in the fourth period that Smith exploded. One run was for 18 yards. Four minutes later he broke into the open at mid-field and ran back and forth across the field, leaving a trail of Purdue men on the ground as he crossed the goal line.

Purdue opened the scoring when End Leo Sugar blocked Elmer Tremont's kick. The Big Purdue end ran the 18 yards to the goal line.

In the fourth quarter Samuels led the frantic try of the Boilermakers with long passes. One of them hit for a score. It was to halfback Neil Schmidt, who was on the goal line, and was good for 31 yards.

Mustangs Run Cowboys Out Of Cotton Bowl

DALLAS — (AP) — The SMU Mustangs ran the Oklahoma A&M Cowboys out of the Cotton Bowl here Saturday night, scoring a 56-0 victory before 70,000 football fans.

Kyle Rote put the Mustangs out in front in the second quarter with a half-foot plunge and Bill Sullivan kicked the first of seven straight touchdowns to put the Ponies out in front 7-0. SMU added another touchdown in the second quarter to lead at halftime, 14-0.

Val Joe Walker lead the Pony attack, scoring three touchdowns. The Mustang back raced 55 yards with an Aggie punt return for his longest run. Pitching Fred Benneis unlimbered his throwing arm to score one of SMU's TD. Benneis hit Musslewhite on the Aggie three-yard line, and the Mustang quarterback went over standing up.

Sandies Stop Vernon At Amarillo, 13-0

AMARILLO — (Special) — The Amarillo Sandies stopped the Vernon Lions here Friday night 13-0 for their second straight triumph. The Sandies rolled up 16 first downs to the Lions 6. Vernon threatened three times, but ran out of steam inside the Amarillo 20. They marched to the Amarillo 18-yard line in the first half, and the Sandies' 12 and 13 yard-line the second half.

Tigers Skin Cats

MANHATTAN, Kas. — (AP) — Twice beaten Missouri opened its Big Seven football campaign with a decisive but unimpressive 28-7 victory over the Kansas State Wildcats.

The Tigers of Missouri scored a touchdown in each quarter and were in control at all times but their ball handling was bad and their mistakes numerous. A crowd of 15,900 saw the game.

Steers Fumble Game to Sooners

12 Teams Left Undeclared in Class Double A

(By The Associated Press)
Class AA schoolboy football swept through mid-October with just a dozen teams left in the unbeaten, untied class.

Big Spring fell from this bracket last night when San Angelo rolled up a 32-7 victory. Four unbeaten but tied teams tumbled and these were potent Lubbock, Longview, Sweetwater and Pasadena.

Texarkana edged Longview, 7-6, in a District Nine game, while Midland bounced Sweetwater, 21-6; Pampa knocked off Lubbock, 27-21, and Conroe clipped Pasadena, 20-12.

Pampa, Lamesa, Breckenridge, Texarkana, Palestine, Cleburne, Fort Arthur, Freeport, Galena Park, Corsicana, McAllen and Midland now sport perfect records.

Cleburne, brewing up a powerhouse in central Texas, smashed Hillsboro 40-0.

Breckenridge rolled over Crozier Tech of Dallas with ease, 47-7, and Fort Arthur, rated the class of the southern bracket of the double A division, pounded Miller of Corpus Christi, 35-0.

Palestine blanked Paris, 14-0, Freeport beat Harlingen, 20-7, Galena Park downed Port Neches, 27-6, and McAllen handed Kingsville a 34-0 beating. Corsicana, which hasn't been scored on this season, was idle this week.

Odeasa fished the power it was supposed to have this year in licking Abilene, 24-7, while the Austin Maroons crushed Bowie of El Paso, 53-13.

Temple piled up a 31-6 score on Bryan and Brownsville outclassed Corpus Christi College Academy, 39-12.

Amarillo, an in-an-out team this season, blanked Vernon, 13-0.

Lamesa took a 13-0 decision from Mineral Wells, and Waco licked Sherman, 19-14.

Skyrockets Stop McLean Tigers For 27-6 Win

WELLINGTON — (Special) — The McLean Tigers took to the air here Friday night but to no avail. Wellington stung the Tigers, 27-6, for McLean's first defeat of the season.

L. M. Watson, the Tigers' all-around back, pitched 31 passes and completed 16 of them for 237 yards, but only one of them went for a touchdown.

The Skyrockets scored in the second period when they recovered a McLean fumble on the Tiger 14-yard line. John Gibson went over from the ten-yard line for Wellington's first score.

Wellington added another touchdown in the second quarter and another one in the third to make out in front 21-0. Copeland raced 70 yards on a double reverse to wind up the Skyrockets' scoring.

McLean scored their lone tally on a pass from Watson to J. N. Smith, who made a circus catch on the goal line. The try for extra point was no good and the final score was Wellington 27, McLean 6.

Gators Tip Auburn

GAINESVILLE, Fla. — (AP) — Florida's sophomores uncovered a new weapon — a ground attack — to trim Auburn, 27-7, Saturday.

Florida's win was expected but the way the Gators scored it wasn't. Sophomore passing star Haywood Sullivan had trouble finding receivers open and completed only five tosses.

Billy Reddell, running at right halfback, stepped into the breach and did everything on the ground Sullivan had been doing in the air. He ran 14 yards for one touchdown and gained 138 yards in all.

ONE MAN SHOW
PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Francis (Reds) Bagnell, a dazzling all-America hope, set a new collegiate record Saturday by running and passing for a total of 490 yards in a spectacular one man show to lead Pennsylvania to a 42-26 victory over Dartmouth before 37,000 gaping fans.

Oklahoma Scores in Last 4 Minutes to Win, 14-13

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
DALLAS — (AP) — Oklahoma's slashing Red Shirts stormed on undefeated and untied with college football's greatest winning streak today with a breathless, last-minute 14-13 victory over Texas.

A low pass from center which Bill Porter, back to kick in the lengthening shadows of the Cotton Bowl, could only fall on and give the ball to Oklahoma on the Texas 11-yard line, was the deciding point in the Sooners' magnificent victory that was their twenty-fourth straight over a period of a little more than two years.

Billy Vessels, keyman in the lacerating ground game of the Oklahomaans, dashed around right end for a touchdown and Jim Weatherall, the Texan who plays tackle for the Sooners, kicked the extra point that threw a crowd of 75,968 into pandemonium.

Minutes before, slender Bobby Dandridge, Texas' ace safety man, had skittered 50 yards with an intercepted pass to give Texas a 13-7 lead.

Texas had 'em but they got away. Twice the Longhorns' dashed within a bean-shooter's distance of the Oklahoma goal line. Once the powerful Sooners piled up the Longhorn drive on the one-foot line. Another time, Texas lost the ball on the five with a fumble.

It was a rough, smashing game fought between the two giant, bone-crushing lines.

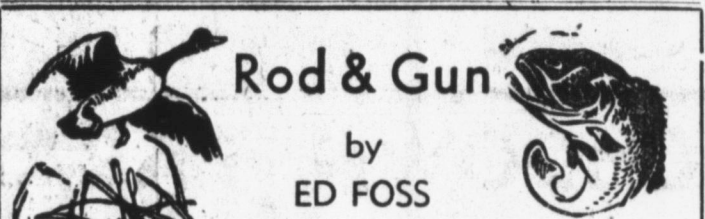

At the game's end, mad Oklahomaans swarmed onto the field and uprooted the goal posts. Wooden posts had been erected for the special benefit of Oklahoma, which is accustomed to them down in its conference.

It was the forty-fifth game in this storied gridiron series and Oklahoma's third straight victory. Texas' supporters might continue their cry of "snake-bait." The Longhorns have lost five games in two years by a grand total of 11 points. Oklahoma beat the Longhorns 20-14 last year and Texas dropped three other games by four points.

Texas got into a hole on the opening kickoff and had to fight back virtually all the way.

Oklahoma scored the second time it had the ball, slashing

Rod & Gun
by ED FOSS

There hasn't been a lot of fishing going on in this area during the past week. I have talked to a few men who did try it at some of the private lakes, but none of them did any good. This warm spell probably slowed things up a little. Once the water temperature gets down to the lower 60's, we can expect to begin catching bass and crappie again. The cat fishing is about the same as it has been all fall; no worse, no better.

At Elephant Butte Lake, bass fishing has really picked up. On Monday afternoon the plug fishing was excellent, and the top water plugs were giving the fishermen a lot of excitement. Several three to five pound bass were taken along with a good many two pounders. Crappie fishing is still slow with live bait giving the best results. Catfish are striking good on cut minnows at south Monticello Point, Black Canyon, and Dark Canyon. Weather is good, and the water is clear with a surface temperature of 73 degrees.

Live bait fishermen are catching good strings of black bass at Caballo Lake. Crappie are striking slow.

Forget about trout fishing in the Rio Grande because it's poor due to the low water.

I have a letter from M. E. Pollard, the manager at Lake Marvin. He tells me that fishing has been pretty good the past two weeks. Mr. Frazier of Higgins took an 8 1/4 pound yellow cat last week. A 5 1/2 pound blue cat was caught on worms last Sunday. Trout liners are catching good strings of cat.

The bass have also been striking. On October 1st, a 6 1/4 pound bass was caught. This past week the largest was 3 1/2 pounds. Most of them are running from 1 to 2 1/2 pounds.

Duck hunting will be allowed on the lake two days a week this season: Wednesday and Thursday. It will also be open on all legal holidays. There are cabins and camping facilities at Lake Marvin.

Starting July 1st of this coming year, we can expect to see a lot of worthwhile projects in relation to fresh water fishing get under way. This is the date when the Dingell-Johnson Act will begin to change the entire take from a 10 percent sport-fishing equipment tax to all the states and territories. These proceeds may then be used as the various state fish commissions see fit. There will be an estimated 3 million dollars a year divided among the states. This act is the best break the state fish departments have received in a long time, and should result in better fishing for all of us.

The antelope hunt in the Trans-Pecos section of Texas, which ended October 10th, was considered a success by most of the 408 hunters who took part in it, according to the Texas Game, Fish, and Oyster Commission.

A total of 375 antelope were killed during the nine day open season, making ninety-three percent of the hunters successful.

No antelope were hunted in the 1949 because of losses in the herds during the preceding winter. In 1948 nearly all applicants for permits received them and

Tar Heels Dipped By Deacons, 13-7

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. — (AP) — Little 145-pound Quarterback Dickie Davis flipped a 40-yard scoring pass to end Ed Butler with less than 10 seconds left to give the Wake Forest Deacons a shocking 13-7 upset victory over North Carolina's Tar Heels.

The victory was all the more sweet, for Wake Forest stopped North Carolina cold on the one yard line just before the winning touchdown.

It was the third Southern Conference victory for Wake Forest over the Tar Heels, and kept the Deacons at the head of the loop with Washington and Lee.

Vykukal, a tackle made eligible by being shifted to end, gained 20 yards to be the big punch of the drive. Townsend then blasted over guard for 15 yards and a touchdown. Porter converted.

As time ran out for the half, Texas had staged a drive of 74 yards to the Oklahoma 1-foot line. Oklahomaans gauged Townsend on a quarterback sneak on third down to hold him away from the goal line as the gun shot. Passes by Tompkins and the mighty line smashes of Townsend and Lew Levine spearheaded the surge.

Texas shot ahead in the game in the fourth period. Claude Arnold, the Sooners' gifted quarterback, pitched out to Healy on the Oklahoma 40 and Healy tried a pass down the sidelines. Dillon, trackman at Texas, gathered in the throw at midfield and scattered to a touchdown. Porter's try for point was wide — and that eventually was the ball game.

Fighting Irish Squeak Out Win From Tulane

NEW ORLEANS — (AP) — Notre Dame, her magnificent 39-game unbeaten string snapped last week, barely came back to victory Saturday over fumbling Tulane 13-9 with short, staccato passes by Bob Williams.

Williams' fine and often great passes set up the margin over a Tulane team which lost repeated chances to score during sags in their otherwise keyed up offense.

The Tulane line was the master of the Irish forwards from beginning to end. That big, slow line found speed and ability it hasn't shown in earlier games to blast Notre Dame's running game.

A crowd of 76,000 in hot, windy Sugar Bowl Stadium saw Tulane's line slaughter Notre Dame's running game and hold the Irish to only 34 yards on the ground.

After the Tulane line stopped the Irish forwards game early during a series of downs, Quarterback Williams turned to his own passes to gain ground, and he usually did. Sixteen of his 35 passes were completed for 225 yards.

DUKE WIN, 7-0
RALEIGH, N. C. — (AP) — Duke turned a fourth period pass interception into a touchdown and then halted a desperate rally by underdog N. S. State to defeat the Wolfpack Saturday, 7-0.

A homecoming day crowd of 17,000 saw the aerial battle between the Blue Devil's Billy Cox and N. C. State's Ed Mooney.

Pitt Scares Owls Before Losing, 14-7

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Rice Institute ran an unbeaten football string to three for 1950 and 12 over a two-year span Saturday on the throwing arm of star Quarterback Vernon Glass who pitched the Southwest Conference Champion Owls to a 14-7 win over the University of Pittsburgh.

A rain-soaked crowd of 21,061 saw the underdog Pitt Panthers step out to a 7-0 lead in the second quarter only to falter as the Texans punched out their pair of touchdowns just before and after halftime. Pitt got rolling again in a series of final quarter attacks that had the Owls reeling.

A light drizzle curbed Glass' pitching efforts. But the 21-year-old senior hit his receivers five times in 10 attempts.

Pitt's Bill Reynolds crossed the midfield stripe on a 38-yard jaunt with the opening kickoff. The Panther drive petered out on the 36. Rice got nowhere in its first efforts and Pitt returned to the attack on its own 47.

This drive ended with the Rice 35 where Chris Warriner was forced to punt. Sonny Wyatt fumbled the kick on the 13 and Bill Gasparovic recovered for Pitt.

The Owl forward wall stiffened on the 12 and Nick Vokovac tried a field goal which fell short.

Georgia Rumbles

ATHENS — (AP) — The Georgia backfield matched prowess with a fumble-snatching line as Quarterback Mal Cook accounted for two touchdowns in leading the Bulldogs to a 27-0 victory over Mississippi State.

Shamrock Scuttles Lefors Bucs, 19-0

Cadets Topple Michigan, 27-6

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Shamrock Irish continued their unbeaten string Friday nighters with a 19-0 victory over the Lefors Pirates, 1949 District 2-A winners.

After a scoreless first quarter, the Irish came to life in the second when Vaughn Terry recovered a Pirate fumble on the Lefors' 14-yard line. Four plays later Vernon Tarbet, halfback, plunged over for the TD. Harrah Dunham's placekick was no good.

Lefors, going into the third period trailing 6-0, ground out three straight first downs, and narrowly missed a touchdown from the 1, when Ray Dickerson ploughed through, fumbling and Shamrock recovering for an automatic touchdown.

In the final period, Kenneth Kildwell scored from the four when he went over from the four to climax a 38-yard drive. Dunham converted, and the Irish led 13-0.

The final Irish score came when Watson, Pirate quarterback, attempted to pass from his own end zone and Eugene Collingsworth, Irish guard, took the ball for an interception behind the goal. Dunham's kick was no good and the final score, Shamrock 19, Lefors 0.

Want a long run for your money?

Better Buy Buick!

YOU want a new car to be tops in things like style and room and comfort and power — and a thrill-packed fifteen minutes with the nimble number pictured here will show you it has all these things in abundant measure.

So you ask us—how about money? What does it cost to buy a Buick—and to own one? All right—let us ask you some questions.

Take first cost. Do you know that Buick prices start down at a level below what you'd pay for some sixes—and that every Buick, on a cents-per-pound basis, is a standout buy?

Take operating cost. Do you know that the bang you'll get from Buick's Fireball power comes from a valve-in-head engine—recognized by engineers as a thrifty saver of fuel?

Do you know that owners of 1950 Buicks are writing us rave letters, saying that this year's version is the most economical Buick ever built?

Do you know that such comfort features as coil springs on all four wheels protect the car as well as the passengers—and throw in an extra saving because they need no servicing, and are practically breakproof to boot?

Do you know that Dynaflo*—in addition to keeping you fresh as a daisy on a day-long drive—caps its convenience with savings on tires, cuts down the strain on transmissions, and engines—and eliminates all friction clutch repairs, because it hasn't any?

Take final cost. Do you know that

*Dynaflo Drive is standard on ROADMASTER, optional on others out on Super and Wildcat models.

Your Progress And Oil Progress

Between October 15 and 21, Oil Progress Week will be observed this year. The theme of the week is "Your Progress and Oil Progress Go Hand in Hand." That is not just a felicitous phrase. It is a statement of fact.

Oil has revolutionized agriculture and industry and the daily life of the people. With the automobile, it put this nation on wheels. It was a decisive "weapon" in bringing victory in two great wars. It performs a thousand vital services. The week in its highest state of development. Since the last war alone, oil companies have ploughed about $8,000,000,000 into expansion and modernization of property, plant and equipment. Its producing and refining capacity has been greatly increased. And the result is that oil men are convinced that they can meet any conceivable future demand.

There is another phase to the week which is worth emphasizing. Oil is a typically American industry in that it is intensely competitive. To take a single example, there are 400 refining companies. Competition between them forces continuous improvement in quality, line quality as each refiner tries to get the jump on his business rivals. So it goes, in every phase of the enterprise. And the consumer gets the benefits of high quality at a reasonable price.

During the week, local oil men over the country will describe the contribution their industry has made to national defense and to the comfort and well-being of 150,000,000 Americans. It is a story well worth hearing.

So They Say

It certainly will be three or four years before we have developed enough strength to regain the initiative which we threw away in 1945, and organize the world for lasting peace.

—Adm. Louis E. Denfeld.
The expression of concern for the farmers by the proponents of the cooperative movement is only a smokescreen to cover up what has developed into wholesale tax evasion.

—Sen. John J. Williams (R., Delaware).
As things now stand, most of the free peoples of Asia are wary both of the Western Powers and of the Soviet Union.

—Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, Philippine secretary of foreign affairs.
Music is like spaghetti. If you like spaghetti you do not eat it morning, noon and night. You only have it once in a while. It should be kept distant so that you have a real hunger for it.

—Dimitri Mitropoulos, conductor New York Philharmonic.

Washington.....by Peter Edson

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent
LONDON — (NEA) — British experience in trying to control wages offers a number of pointers for the United States, now toying with ideas of manpower and wage controls in those industries where any attempt shall be made to ration supplies or control prices. What this experience adds up to is the fact that holding the line on wages is difficult, even when the labor unions themselves are officially for it.

Decisions taken by the British Trades Union Council at its recent Brighton meeting gave some impression in America that British labor was ready to abandon altogether this policy of downholding, thus forcing the hand of the British Labor Party which controls the government. The record shows that it is not that simple.

NEW YORK — In the background of the word-tapestries on the world series, a faint pattern of political and patriotic embarrassment could be detected by the expert eye.

This is the picture of our new faith. We are materialistic gadgeteers with a set of puerile superstitions as a make-do for philosophy.

There is a wealth of truth in this and yet what Sokolsky tells us of the obscure wisdom of Oriental esoterics who scorn our notions, vitamins and bubble-gum, we may draw comparisons to our own consolation. These clients of his sympathy are horribly degraded by crawling on their scabby bellies through the centuries, rubbing themselves with foul corruption and propitiating serpents which fang them dead. They have no world series, no Buicks or Dodges, and the sacred version of the laundryman.

They think they are going to Heaven, but theirs is a hell of a way to get there whereas the only note of religion in our loud but innocent exercise last week was 20 seconds of meditation suddenly imposed by Happy Chandler, the baseball commissioner. His, however, is a secular office, and, though, at Derby time in Louisville, his wailing tenor be heard in smoke-filled rooms in the sentimental strains of "Old Kentucky Home," he was, for this moment, not a Guru or a Lama but a simple exhorter on a sidehill clearing back where he cum fum.

We are, do believe, a prayerful and privately religious people. Our interest in baseball, comforts and profits is quite another phase of us. The secret meditations of those present and in the unseen audience as far away as Korea were various and probably unrepeatable. But who knows that the ignominious Hindu is the surer to get where he wants to go because he never ate a hot dog or heard of the Whizz Kids?

When I was younger, the people's approach to the series was not beset by reminders that it was great to be an American. In fact, we didn't approach the world series at all. Come October, the world series came upon us.

And we knew so well that it was wonderful to be American that no fool was fool enough to remind us of the low estate of the mud-eaters under the czar. We weren't reforming the world. This was before Wilson—and we were sufficient unto ourselves, barring evidence of an idiotic inability of our statesmen to mind our own business.

That lunacy finally got us into two world wars and left us in the position formerly occupied by the people of the Americas distinguished from the damned intellectuals and the ward polities, were full content to live and love and laugh and pray and finally to climb the golden stairs. But the question would arise but for the machinations of anti-Americans who insist that our great fortune is much too good for us and ought to be divided with all the world, which doesn't surely get away in the wringer and hate us for it.

I think Al Schacht is a great clown, a fine patriot on the basis of this long and perilous war, and with the U.S.O. a better baseball man than many others holding executive jobs in the major leagues. I go to his restaurant off Park Avenue and meet great elders of the realm of professional sport. I see Joe Cronin, Eddie Collins and Joe Benjamin, an amiable whiskey-agent of the Schenley team who weighs an astounding 190 pounds yet was the best lightweight fighter of his time, bar Benny Leonard.

I observe close to the ballpark that they want $2 to park your car at your own risk on a lot as rough as a battlefield, and remember when the franc was worth 20 cents, gold, and when it fell to three cents, lead.

I see a quiet man with a round face and a gray hat upturned all around and salute Herbert Hoover, who was booted at these games in Philadelphia years ago. Booned not because the rabble blamed him for the panic, but because he had stood out against repeal of prohibition. Now I see on every hand abominable dumps with women haunting the bars, and recall the lyrical lie of the sainted mountebank, at Chicago, 1932, "the corner saloon will never return."

Russian Problem Solved

By DAVID BAXTER

Every so often my good friend, Takeo, gives out with a bit of unique philosophy. Takeo's ancestors came from the land of the rising sun but the boy himself is as typical Yankee as I am. Takeo— that is, until he begins to speculate out loud. Then I get to wondering if he isn't way ahead of the rest of the herd in some ways.

Here lately he's taken to discussing world affairs a little, which surprised me greatly since I had no idea he had ever so much as formed or held any opinions on political or economic topics. "Most of the trouble," he opined, "is because these big guys keep getting in each other's way. They try to keep up big tariffs and stuff like that and make the other guy put his tariffs down. Somebody gets his fingers jumped on sooner or later."

"Well, what do you think of the Korean situation?" I wanted to know.

"Hm," Takeo grunted, "we ain't gonna stop at that 38th parallel. We might as well go on to Moscow only I don't know just how this stuff got started and whether we'd know what we're gonna do after we got to Moscow. Me, I'm just a poor working man. I tend to my own business and like other people do to the same and we are all good friends and get along fine."

"Be nice if governments had that idea," I suggested.

"Yeah," Takeo admitted, "Only they haven't. Maybe that's because governments don't have to work for a living like you and me."

"Could be," I readily conceded, sensing that we were of one mind on that score. "I wonder why some general or government authority hasn't rounded up all the Japs on the Pacific coast and interned 'em on the ground that they look like 'Koreans.'"

Takeo wasn't sure about that one. Although American-born he had been herded off to an Arizona concentration camp during the last war. His rights as a citizen were not considered. He looked like a Jap.

"They had to do it," he defended. "There just wasn't time to find out which ones was loyal and which ones wasn't."

"Yep," I agreed, "I suppose a right ceases to be a right in case of emergency, like it's wrong to steal except on special occasions when you happen to be holding someone up and robbing them."

Takeo grinned but didn't say anything. After some apparent meditation he ventured, "know where the best beef is to be found?"

I admitted my ignorance.

"Siberia, Russians have the best beef on 'em. Cold up there."

"You mean—" I asked a little uncertainly.

"Sure, meat's meat, whether it's on a man or bull. A good, husky Russian with plenty of ham on him, raised in that cold country wouldn't taste bad if a fella didn't know what he was eatin'. Gotta have meat for an army but that takes supply lines and the longer a supply line gets the more risk you run into. A good-sized Russian could feed several soldiers for a week."

"Well, Takeo," I fumbled, "I can't exactly say the idea makes my mouth water. Somehow that doesn't sound very spiritual to me."

"Okay," my little friend shrugs his shoulders, "but meat's meat. If a guy's got a spirit it'll go where it's goin', anyway, whether his meat goes in the ground or in somebody's belly. War ain't very spiritual, either."

"But Takeo," I remonstrated, "the thing smacks of cannibalism."

"Oh yeah, they gotta have a name for everything. It ain't any worse to eat a guy than it is to kill him in the first place. When you kill him and throw his meat away or bury it, that's waste. If you're gonna commit murder you might as well commit cannibalism and not waste all that good steak."

The thing sounded logical enough. I'll admit, but it rather shocked my sense of dignity and civilized warfare. Takeo, however, could not be convinced that there was such a thing as civilized warfare and I realized he had me there, too. To him, the first consideration about anything is to be prompt and practical. The idea that a 250 pound Russian carried a week's supply of edible beef was a very practical consideration. Obviously it would be difficult to argue against such an opinion as being materialistic, for, as he said, wars are materialistic, too, and as far as morality goes, there's not much difference between murder and cannibalism.

"Soldier's gotta eat," Takeo was positive of that. "He can't carry much food with him if he's fightin'. They gotta keep supplying him all the time. Save a lot of time and transportation for a soldier to eat Russians as he goes. Sure of gettin' fresh meat, too. No ptomaine or diseased beef. They army doctors go over a man pretty good to be sure he's a prime bull before they let him get slaughtered."

Takeo had one more, bright idea before getting back to work. "Solve the Communist problem and win th' peace too," he reminded me. "You got to Moscow eatin' Russians all th' way and you ain't

WASHINGTON — Signs are not wanting that public opinion may have outleaped those Roosevelt-Acheson policies which the Department of State can thank for such tributes as "organized stupidity" and "entrenched subversion."

Should the omens prove false, it is unlikely that the opposition, at next month's election, will add still another to its catalogue of reverses.

Republicans and anti-Truman Democrats would then be blamed for having lacked courage to grasp a transcendent moral issue with which providence sought in vain to arm them.

That issue is the unholy entente of White House and Kremlin which started with frantic propitiation under Mr. Roosevelt and developed under Mr. Truman into phony war in Europe and colonial retreat in Asia.

If the record of the last ten years were understood, American would observe Nov. 7 as a day of national contrition. They would enter the polls with acute remorse for the wrongs they had been led to do. Their ballots would chastise without mercy those who brought them to evil; and who, unless checked, will lash this country on into dishonor and ruin.

Thanks in no small part to the labors of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Secretary Acheson, there is now abroad in the world a demon stronger than ancient Rome at its height, more godless than Islam and as brutish as the Mongol hordes of Genghis Khan.

This satanic power, Communist Russia, has sworn an iron oath to the United States shall die. If necessary, as a last resort, it will not scruple to murder. But its happiest choice would be for the Republic to perish by its own hand, and drag with it into a suicidal tomb whatever remained of 2000 years of Western civilization.

The current tactic in the process of self-slaughter is feverish collaboration with the Politburo in destroying the Orient's two foremost enemies of Soviet expansion. These champions of America in the Far East are Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The former, marked for extinction by the State Department since 1944, is to be disposed of finally by disarming Formosa and replacing the Nationalist delegation in the United Nations with Chinese Communists. Then Formosa, rendered defenseless, could be handed over to Mao Tse-tung under the Cairo Agreement.

In order to rid himself of so formidable a critic as Gen. MacArthur, Acheson is urging haste in negotiating peace with Japan, need for a Supreme Allied Command for a Sipleme Allied Command and the great proconsul could be summoned home.

In the meanwhile, his authority is to be paralyzed by substituting a Chinese Communist for the Nationalist member of the Allied Council for Japan, which sits in Tokyo. This is a political move representing the British Empire, China, the United States and the Soviet Union. Hitherto it has supported MacArthur three to one. With second Communist ballot there would be a permanent stalemate, or even an adverse majority in case London should side with Moscow on certain questions of Far East policy.

As if loth to abandon America after all, destiny intervened at nearly the last hour with an opportunity to lift the present campaign into the high, pure air of conscience. This is an appeal to which Americans are notably sensitive. The chance to stand up and be counted arrives with Gen. George C. Marshall's nomination as Secretary of Defense.

got nobody to feed after you win th' war. You ain't got no Communists layin' around waitin' till you get settled down so they can knif you in the back. Make very good broth—then Communists."

Quite a practical man—Takeo. We don't see eye-to-eye, exactly, but it's a bit difficult to explain just why we should disagree with him if we start out by agreeing that the principle of war, itself, is right, or that America's responsibility is to run all over the earth insisting that everyone do things the way we think they should be done. If you start with immorality, you might as well follow it to its logical conclusion, as Takeo does. After all, you have to be practical. Have another helping of fresh Russian kidneys.

For reasons apart from his virtues as man and soldier, it was impossible to regard Gen. Marshall's appointment without misgivings and alarm. Here was a wrong once more, at Potsdam, in urging Mr. Truman against irritating the Russians. Japan surrendered without conditions and most immediately after, but that was a possibility to which the Chief of Staff had closed his ears.

Again he was dreadfully wrong, as chief of the mission bearing his name, in urging Chiang Kai-shek to admit Communists into his government, and punishing his refusal with an embargo on munitions. He was probably wrong, in fathering a program handed to him by Acheson when Marshall became Secretary of State.

The fatality of the Marshall Plan was that it canceled the doctrine announced by Mr. Truman in granting military aid to Greece and Turkey. Dollars were substituted for guns in Europe, and three priceless years were lost in organizing the continent's defense.

Despite all that, only 11 Republican Senators voted to deny confirmation. Three others were paired against it. Awe of Marshall's prestige, or "me too" psychology, led 15 Republican senators to join 42 Democrats in sanctioning the appointment.

MR. ACHESON OFFERS A DEAL

(Chicago Daily Tribune)

Secretary Acheson told the United Nations assembly on Wednesday to go ahead and decide what should become of Formosa. Take advice on this question from all concerned, including Red China, he said, and by this statement implied that it will be all right with him and Mr. Truman if the prize is awarded to Red China.

Mr. Acheson and Mrs. Truman have obviously rejected the advice of Gen. MacArthur, the advice that they almost succeeded in keeping from the public when Mr. Truman ordered the general to withdraw the letter he had sent to the recent convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Chicago.

Mr. MacArthur said that if Formosa falls into unfriendly hands, the United States will be far less secure against an invasion from Asia than it now is. At present, we have a chain of bases off the Asiatic coast from which any force assembling on the mainland against us can be dispersed or destroyed. Once Formosa falls into unfriendly hands, the whole chain is weakened, for our bases can be attacked and neutralized from Formosa.

Accordingly, Gen. MacArthur recommended what amounts to an extension of the Monroe doctrine to include Formosa. We need not control Formosa or govern it. Our interest is only in preventing any hostile power from doing so.

Mr. Acheson has thrown to the winds this advice from the ablest of living soldiers and strategists. The secretary invites the United Nations to make a deal with Russia and her Chinese satellite, giving the Communists a bloodless victory in Formosa with which to save face for the failure of their invasion of Korea. As for Mr. Truman, he wants his unpopular war in Korea ended on any terms before election day.

Thus once again Mr. Acheson is helpful to the Russians and once again he is giving away a vital American interest. Needless to say, his stand has the approval of the British. They expect that their possession of Hong Kong and their China trade will be protected in the deal which Mr. Acheson is inviting.

To Americans, the Acheson proposal is nauseating. Formosa, as of this moment, belongs to Japan. America defeated Japan in a long and bloody war to which our allies contributed nothing. The disposition of Formosa is, as Gen. MacArthur has shown, of great importance to us. There is no reason at all in law or morals, why we should not decide this question by ourselves. Surely it is of great concern to us and of no concern to the Norwegians, the Iranians,

BIG BUSINESS BENEFICIAL

A short time before the shooting started in Korea, I sent out a questionnaire to a number of small-town editors inquiring as to their views on business bigness. These were mailed to newspapers of all political affiliations.

In view of the threat of a third world war that has developed, at first blush, it seemed that the squabble between the Department of Justice and certain big businesses had become his weight against Prime Minister Churchill's proposal that the second American invasion of Europe should be sent through the Yugoslav Gap instead of up the Rhine valley.

He was wrong again at the second Quebec Conference, where Mr. Roosevelt was induced to sign a cable to Chiang Kai-shek which has never been published but which is declared to have been the most savage paper ever sent by one head of state to another who was an ally. It brought about Stilwell's downfall, but was also the beginning of the end for American ascendancy in the Orient.

At the Yalta Conference, Marshall was calamitously wrong in pressing Mr. Roosevelt to purchase, at any cost, Soviet entrance into the Pacific war. He was wrong once more, at Potsdam, in urging Mr. Truman against irritating the Russians. Japan surrendered without conditions and most immediately after, but that was a possibility to which the Chief of Staff had closed his ears.

Again he was dreadfully wrong, as chief of the mission bearing his name, in urging Chiang Kai-shek to admit Communists into his government, and punishing his refusal with an embargo on munitions. He was probably wrong, in fathering a program handed to him by Acheson when Marshall became Secretary of State.

The fatality of the Marshall Plan was that it canceled the doctrine announced by Mr. Truman in granting military aid to Greece and Turkey. Dollars were substituted for guns in Europe, and three priceless years were lost in organizing the continent's defense.

Despite all that, only 11 Republican Senators voted to deny confirmation. Three others were paired against it. Awe of Marshall's prestige, or "me too" psychology, led 15 Republican senators to join 42 Democrats in sanctioning the appointment.

(Copyright, 1950, by "Our Country," A Column for Americans.)

relatively unimportant. However, on more mature thought, the question of bigness in business really takes on added importance, because the Federal Government already has signified its intention, as in two previous world wars, to call on big industries to produce the war material essential to prosecuting the war in Korea and at other points where aggression may rear its ugly head.

Some 329 editors from 45 of the 48 states, in addition to Alaska and the Virgin Islands, filled out and mailed in the questionnaires. From their answers it is apparent that most small-town editors have no fear of bigness in business; that, on the contrary, they consider big business essential to the welfare and safety of America.

To the question: "Do You Feel That Big Business Represents a Threat to the Free Enterprise System?", the 329 editors replied as follows:

25 or 8% Yes
285 or 87% No
16 or 5% Don't Know

The editors were asked to give their reasons for feeling that big business represents or does not represent a threat to free enterprise. Here are some typical comments:

From a Virginia editor: "No, the two are synonymous."

From a Massachusetts editor: "Yes, big business is too easy a target for government regulations, union tie-ups by strikes and welfare state programs."

From a New York Editor: "No, most of our big businesses had small beginnings. One has only to look around him to discover many instances of big and little businesses in competition, prospering side by side. Our current danger comes from bigness in government."

But another New York editor feels differently. Says he: "Yes, big business tends to monopoly and monopoly is the open door to socialism."

From a Missouri editor: "No big business and mass production have made it possible for the average man to own a car, refrigerator, washing machine, etc."

From a Connecticut editor: "It's the money business of big government that threatens free enterprise; not big, middle-size or little business."

From a South Dakota editor: "No, because to me, free enterprise means the opportunity to get big."

From an Iowa editor: "Big business is big because it has rendered good service at a fair price and the road is open to any small business to become big if it can give better value than its competitors."

The opposite view came from another Iowa editor: "Yes, where they monopolize and strangle small competitors."

From a Maine editor: "Yes, big businesses make more stringent controls necessary. Their impersonal dealings with employees make for more Reds and Pinks."

From a Texas Editor: "Big business is essential to our free enterprise. For instance, take my own field. Where would the little country papers be if we did not have the big city papers to make possible the supplies of paper, metal, machinery, etc., that we must have and at prices we can afford."

From a Colorado editor: "No, while big business is not above reproach and needs some regulations, it is bound through responsibility to its shareholders and to the public to be reasonably decent; whereas such labor monopolies as CIO are responsible to no one. Bigness in itself is not an evil."

In future articles I propose to give further statistics and quotes showing how the small-town editor over-whelmingly believe that Big Business is a vital necessity to our economy and is not a threat to our free enterprise system.

Naval Training Shortened, Improved at Great Lakes

(Editor's Note: This is the second of three stories on modern day military training, telling how the 1950 recruit is taught, outfitted and housed.)

By ED CREAGH
 GREAT LAKES, Ill. — (AP) — "You eyes are right. Your pants are tight."
 "You had a good home but you left."
 "Your right."
 "Sound off: one, two..."
 "You'll hear this chant, and a hundred variations of it, on the shore of Lake Michigan these days as the bluejackets march through sharp autumn air.

But the thousands of boys — all volunteers — do much more than drill. The U. S. Naval training center is making them ready for active duty with the nation's expanding fleet, just as it trained more than 1,000,000 young men in World War II.

Training is fast in these uncertain days. Fourteen weeks of basic training has been cut to 11. Your son, or your neighbor's, won't do much loafing if he comes to Great Lakes.

But he will learn a lot about seamanship, about democracy and about himself.

You'll see a change in him a few hours after he gets off the train. The Navy will give him a close-cropped haircut, a knit wool watch cap and a temporary uniform — dungarees. He won't get his regular uniform for about a month. It has to be tailored to fit him.

"The average age of these boys is 18," says Capt. Kelvin L. Nutting, who heads the recruit training command. "We give them the same fundamental training regardless of their future assignments. From here they will go on to service schools or direct to the fleet."

"Here we help a boy adjust to living in a group... teach him the fundamentals of Navy life — and of democracy... instill in him a pride in himself and in his service... help him develop a desire for self-improvement."

Today's Navy aims at being like a good father — firm but not harsh. The sailor is neither pushed around nor coddled.

Barracks are spotless. The boys sleep in double-decker bunks — not in hammocks any more — and the bunks had better be made right. Recruits wash their own clothes. If they don't know how, petty officers teach them how.

In training, there's more emphasis on how-to-do it movies and other training aids than on

'Rush Buying' Said Cause for Shortage

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The commerce department says that if any serious shortage develops in automobile tires, it will be caused by "rush buying."

Production is high enough to take care of normal demands, the department says in a special report on sharp increases in prices of rubber goods.

Price rises in the 10 months ended with August were reported at more than 25 percent for passenger tires and more than 45 percent on truck and bus tires. Natural rubber inner tube prices jumped 30 percent in the June-July-August period.

Farm and Ranch Land Boom On COLLEGE STATION — (AP) — The boom is on again for Texas farm and ranch lands.

Texas A&M College noted the market demand following a study conducted by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics and the Texas Agricultural Station.

The report shows land prices in Texas in 1949 were 151 percent higher than in the 1938-39 period, and are still rising.

The report was based on 23 sample counties and showed the 1949 average price per acre at $44.44 compared to $13.36 for the previous year.

While higher prices were recorded in 12 of the 18 type-of-farming areas in the state, the sharpest gain occurred in the wheat area of the high plains. Here the average price per acre advanced from $32 in 1948 to $52 in 1949. Other areas showing marked increases were the high plains and trans-Pecos grazing area, the Edwards plateau and central basin, the lower Rio Grande Valley and the northeast sandy lands.

Odessa Oil Show Expected to Be Largest in World

ODESSA — (Special) — A full house of 214 exhibitors, top notch entertainment and a good reception by the public indicate a successful exposition is in store for this area in the Permian Basin Oil Show October 19-22.

The affair, largest showing of oil and oil-associated equipment in the United States this year, will be held at Ector county park in Odessa with admission free to the buildings and grounds.

Tied in with the national observance of Oil Progress Week, the show will have national attention centered on it. The exhibitors, some of them among the largest names in the petroleum industry, represent 18 states and the District of Columbia. Exhibitors will come from as far east as Connecticut and Massachusetts and west to California.

U. S. BUILDING

The last public announcement, President Truman recently authorized a buildup of U. S. strength in western Europe.

Russia, which occupies the eastern portion of Berlin, is known to have many divisions within easy striking distance.

This announcement gave no hint that a Russian move in Berlin is expected. The city is regarded, however, as one of the places new Communist activity might be expected as an aftermath of the Red defeat in South Korea.

The Protestant and Roman Catholic churches, as a move to destroy the influence of religious circles in politics.

2. Further weakening of the Liberal Democratic Union and Communist party in the East zone to reduce their power further to the same puny insignificance such collaborating parties have attained in other Soviet satellite states.

3. Purge of the Communists themselves, aimed particularly at old Socialists forcibly merged into the ruling Socialist Unity (Communist) Party in 1946, and the emergence of the Red party as an admitted "dictatorship of the proletariat."

4. Completion of the state ownership program for industry and trade, which already has confiscated 68 percent of the private interests in this field.

5. Faster build-up of the mili- tary and naval "police" force, estimated now to be a corps of 60,000 officer-candidates.

PHONE RATE

bookkeeping system employed takes in the state a whole in toll earnings. The only earnings and costs they have given the commission are those dealing with strictly local figures.

The company's original request was for a rate boost from $5 one party business to $7 one party business and scaled down accordingly for other services.

When the city commission made it plain, several months ago, that no rate increase consideration would be given until the company made a reasonably definite commitment on dial the company finally bounced back with its first proposals in August.

A citizens committee first recommended a present 20 percent hike contingent upon dial installation. The company turned a deaf ear. Then the committee recommended a contingent 50 percent hike and the company came back with an almost similar figure except the two party line and residence extension; 62.5 percent and 100 percent boosts respectively.

The committee and commission want dial rates left open for negotiation until dial is operating. The company wants the dial rates written into the ordinance. There lies the deadlock even though the phone company appears destined to get what it wants whether dial is installed or not.

TRUMAN

greeted Mr. Truman, the president smiled broadly, saying, "how are you, general? I'm glad you are here."

The officers and MacArthur were all in open-throated khaki shirts in contrast with the full, beribboned uniforms of the presidential defense aides.

"I have been a long time meeting you, general."

MacArthur replied: "I hope it won't be so long the next time."

Before sitting down across the conference table the president and the general drove to a nearby quonset hut, painted white, for a personal chat before continuing to what the army has dubbed "conference house."

The president and general went into a tiny living room. The president selected a hard-backed chair and MacArthur chose a settee.

The formal conference was suspended temporarily at 9:10 a. m. Wake time (3:10 p. m. Saturday, CST), and the president went to his quarters for a rest.

They concluded their shirt-sleeved conference (time not available but this portion of the dispatch was sent about 10 a. m. Wake time), and both were expected to be airborne by noon.

Mr. Truman termed his personal meeting with General MacArthur "very satisfactory and pleasant."

The brevity of the formal conference confirmed that the basic business was done solely by the two principals in their hour's face-to-face isolated talk shortly after the president's arrival.

Even more significant was the fact that President Truman and MacArthur spent the first hour alone in intimate conversation without any staff members present.

Associates of both men were of the opinion that more actual work was done in that one hour than during the entire full conference with all 12 participants present.

The President and MacArthur left the quonset hut after their hour's talk and drove to "conference house."

As they drove across the island the president and General MacArthur appeared to be talking energetically. The president gestured with his hands and for combat duty at some fixed minimum age if need arose.

After expiration of his service period — 21 months has been suggested, the spokesman said — the man automatically would go into the military reserve, subject to call in event of national need.

Universal Military Training proposes that boys 18 years of age be called up for basic training only. As now proposed, they would get no actual service with the armed forces during this training, and would be exempt from combat duty until after they had returned to civilian life and at least reached the minimum draft age.

The present selective service draft law has some features of both UMS and UMT, but allows certain deferments. It calls non-deferrable young men 19 to 26 years old, and gives them basic training and field service including, at this time, combat overseas.

A draftee now is free to decide for himself after his discharge whether to join a reserve unit. Veterans of World War II are exempt from the draft.

Several UMT bills already are pending on Congress. The Senate armed services committee has announced plans to start hearings on the highly controversial issue about Nov. 13.

A highly placed source, declining to be identified, told a reporter "universal military service has many apparent advantages. It would involve no unwieldy changes for men already inducted under the present selective service law."

"Since men enrolled under UMS would have to serve with the armed forces anyway, there would be no need for separate training camps for them."

MacArthur nodded his head vigorously.

The entire island population (a few CAA employees and air ground crews) plus service men awaiting planes to and from the Korean battlefield, turned out before dawn to press against the tiny wire strand at the terminal's edge to watch for the first meeting of two men on whose decisions hangs the fate of the Far East and possibly the peace of the world.

Western Dinner Is Served El Progresso Members and Guests

Members of El Progresso Club and their guests were entertained Tuesday night with a Western dinner in the home of Mrs. C. P. Buckler. About 40 guests, most of them dressed in Western style, served themselves with ranch type food from a table, centered with a miniature covered wagon, horses, and cowboys grouped around a camp fire.

Mrs. Hardy Pitts introduced Mrs. G. L. Dauner, president, who gave an original poem of greeting in an appropriate drawl.

"Howdy folks, glad to see ya, been a wonderin' lately just how he ya" and with real Western hospitality, invited the guests to "light in now, and help themselves." Western music was played during the evening.

Those attending were Mrs. Louise Clark, Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Hicks, Mrs. H. H. Gull, Mrs. Jeanette Hutchinson, Mrs. Russell Snow, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Henry, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Massa, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cook, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Dauner, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Edgar, Mrs. Ediger Henshaw, Mrs. John Healey and Mrs. P. C. Ledrick.

Mrs. Warminski Is New HD Council Head

Mrs. Charles Warminski was elected president of the Gray County Home Demonstration Council at a meeting held in the HD agent's office.

Mrs. Walter Noel was elected vice president and Mrs. T. G. Groves, secretary-treasurer.

The president, Mrs. H. B. Taylor, asked that each club contribute a Christmas gift suggestion to be exhibited in the hall case in November. Standing committees gave reports.

A pattern for making a United Nations flag was shown and Council voted to order six kits of material to make flags to be displayed on U. N. Day, Oct. 24.

The Council also voted to buy 100 pamphlets on the U. N., to be purchased by HD Clubs.

Brunch in Groom Honors State Group

GROOM — The mid-year convention of the Texas Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons closed Tuesday for the auxiliary with a brunch at the home of Mrs. John L. Witt with the Groom Hospital Auxiliary as hostesses. This affair honored Mrs. A. L. Garrison, Fort Worth, president of the state auxiliary, and Mrs. Robert E. Morgan, Dallas, president-elect of the national auxiliary.

The group arrived by chartered bus, from the Herring Hotel in Amarillo, which was convention headquarters.

McLean presented each guest with a corsage of chrysanthemums in fall colors upon arrival, with special corsages for the honored guests.

The serving table was laid, with drawwork tablecloth and an unusual centerpiece of silver and gree foliage. Mrs. J. V. London, Groom, poured coffee and Mrs. J. Gordon Stewart, Clarendon, served the salad.

Mrs. J. Francis Brown of Amarillo played background music during the serving time. She also accompanied Mrs. Norman Harris of Amarillo, who gave three violin selections.

Johnny London gave a reading, "Mittens," and Lynell Witt gave "Aunt Martha Has One" and "A Colored Lady at the Telephone."

Mrs. Lewis Pittman of Borger read a poem, "The Doctor's Wife," by Mabel Becker. Mrs. Becker is a doctor's widow and the situations in the poem were familiar to all.

The bus called for the guests at 1 o'clock and they returned to Amarillo before leaving for their homes in all parts of Texas.

Tax Survey Shows 51 Dwellings Due For 1951 Taxation

At least 51 additional individual dwellings will appear on the tax rolls next year as the second week of the county's tax equalization survey came to a close.

Engineers of the Southwestern Appraisal Co., Abilene, uncovered the dwellings on oil leases near Lefors last week. They were never on the rolls before.

The tax survey firm, the same used by the city of Pampa and the Pampa Independent School District, was awarded the contract by the county commissioners in June and started the job on Sept. 29.

L. E. Loveless, chief engineer of the firm, said the field work should be completed in about three weeks, providing good weather holds out. The office work including mapping, making up cards etc. will take about two and one half months, he added.

So far engineers have encountered no difficulty with property owners in the county when they went in to gather property data from the owners.

"Most of the farmers were anxious to get their taxes included in the survey," Loveless said, "and showed no resentment whatsoever on the survey."

The survey, when finished, will pick up every piece of property in the county and get it on the tax rolls. County officials estimate that "far more" than the 51 dwelling units found so far will be picked up.

Work in the McLean area is expected to get underway next week, Loveless said Saturday morning.

T. W. Gilstrap Is Kiwanis Speaker

T. W. Gilstrap, lieutenant governor of the Texas-Oklahoma district of Kiwanis International, and guest speaker at the noon luncheon Friday, presented a talk and film on the organization, development and future of the Southwestern Public Service Co., with which he is associated.

The film included pictures taken at Amarillo, Borger, Pampa, Plainview, Lubbock and other Panhandle cities and towns and of the various industries in the Panhandle. The film also covered parts of New Mexico, Oklahoma and Kansas.

Special guests for the meeting were Messrs. Malcolm Denson, Frank Morris, George Thomas and Clyde Oswalt whose wedding anniversaries fall in the month of October.

Education Classes To Begin Thursday

Classes began Thursday afternoon in Education 341, a mental hygiene course for persons seeking further work on Masters degrees or hours in education.

To be qualified for the course, a student must have junior standing in college in education courses. Purpose of the course is to give teachers and parents more knowledge of the causes of child behavior and development.

The course is recommended for all classroom teachers, and counselors. It is being brought to Pampa through a large demand by the education department of West Texas State College in Canyon. Instructing the course is Dr. Jim Russell of the Canyon college faculty.

Classes meet each Thursday at 4:30 p.m. in the junior high school library.

Doctor Attacks Attitude on Polio

HOUSTON — (AP) — The things people don't know about polio are straining facilities available here for treatment and rehabilitation of victims of the disease, a Houston doctor says.

Dr. William A. Spencer said the average person doesn't realize his chances of dying from polio are about one-eighth or one-tenth of his chances of dying from an automobile accident. And he said insistence that a sick child be rushed to a hospital immediately when polio is only suspected not only is unreasonable but limits facilities available for victims really in need of treatment.

Isolation of persons with acute polio, he said, is rather meaningless since there are so many people in circulation with mild attacks of the disease and who are just as capable of spreading the virus.

Spencer is medical director of the Southwest Polio Respiratory Center here.

Dr. Calvin Jones Speaks to P-TA

Dr. Calvin Jones will lead a panel discussion Thursday at a meeting of the junior high school Parent-Teacher Association at 7:30 p.m.

The panel topic will be "What is Parent-Teacher Association?" Members of the panel and their basic topics are: Miss Len Lowe, "Its Purpose and Meaning to the Student;" Herman Whitley, "To the Parent;" Mrs. McHenry Lane, "To the School;" and W. B. Weathered, "To the Community."

Meetings of the Junior high P-TA were formerly held in the afternoon, but this one will be held in the evening as a trial for a larger attendance, according to Mrs. James Fitzgerald, president.

Outgoing directors are William S. Fannon, president; H. E. Carlson, vice president; and Bryant Carroway. The other two directors, who still have one more year to serve, are W. F. Parks and Charles Cook.

Baker P-TA Hears Panel Discussion

A panel discussion on "The Value of Report Cards" was featured at a meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association at the B. M. Baker school last week.

The panel was lead by Dr. Ruth Lowes of West Texas State College in Canyon. She is a teacher consultant of this area. Other members of the panel were Zella Pullman, Mrs. Aubrey Jones, Mrs. Josephine Williams and Mrs. J. F. Jernigan.

Choral numbers were presented by a choir led by Mrs. Flaudie Gallman. During the business session, Mrs. H. M. Stokes discussed the Texas Parent-Teachers Association birthday. Refreshments were served to the 125 members present by Mrs. Herbert Hyatt and Mrs. Edward Allen.

New Law Can Harm Press

NEW YORK — (AP) — A committee of the inter-American press conference reports that full enforcement of the United States' new internal security law could threaten freedom of the press.

The committee, studying press freedom, submitted its report at a panel discussion during the conference of U. S., Canadian and Latin-American journalists.

The committee's report said there is complete freedom of the press in the U. S., but added: "We believe it pertinent to remark that the president of the republic affirms that the resolution (internal security law) recently approved by Congress gives to the government of the United States the faculty to control thought."

"If this faculty were exercised, liberty of the press would be at least threatened, if not directly affected."

The report referred to the "discrepancy between two powers" which "will be resolved by the judicial authority." It apparently meant the disagreement between President Truman and Congress.

The president vetoed the security law but was overridden by the legislative body.

Full press freedom was credited

Texas Oil Industry of Prime Import to National Economy

Throughout the world when the map of Texas is displayed, the first consideration of the reader is the production of oil. Even though the importance of the state rises high in a number of fields, the rating of Texas oil production in the annals of the industry is without argument. Although competition in the state is keen, the opening of new fields and the increased development of old sources is indicative of the fact Texas is far from the saturation point in oil production.

No list of names or geographical lines can define the petroleum industry in Texas. Oil and gas permeate the whole state's life, economy and culture.

The picture of what petroleum means to Texas, based on statistics from the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association and other sources, is interesting reading.

About 183,000 Texans work in the industry for a payroll total of something like $700 million a year. Another 32,000 are employed in industries closely affiliated with oil and gas production and processing. These people are the customers of another 300,000 or so in retailing, professional, and service fields who are dependent on the demand created by employees in the basic petroleum industry.

Between 40 and 50 percent of the cost of state education in Texas is borne by oil and gas operators and about one-third of the total cost of state government, less federal aid, comes from levies on oil and gas production. Many communities have local governments and schools which are 90 percent dependent on the petroleum industry.

Investments in the industry run into the billions with an estimated $30,000 investment required for each employee.

Millions of dollars are paid out for leases on about 60,000,000 acres of Texas (roughly one-third of the state) yet actual producing acreage totals about 1.8 percent of the state's area.

Each year approximately one-third billion dollars flow to Texas landowners in royalty checks for production of oil and gas.

At the mid-century mark, Texas as operators were putting an estimated $700,000,000 in holes in the ground as they drilled 16,000 wells in search of new reserves and the development of known fields. An estimated 32,500 workers, drawing wages of about $130,000,000 annually, were doing this job.

The search for oil has been a prime factor in the economic health of Texas and the nation the past fifty years. In 1950 it resulted in crude oil reserves of 15-17 billion barrels, 8 percent of the national total. From these reserves, which have grown due to intensive search and the state's oil and gas conservation laws, Texas was producing 2.7 million barrels of oil a day in September. The year's total might hit $25,000,000 barrels giving a $2,000,000 boost to the state's economy. About 55,000 Texans were engaged in production work during September.

With 58 percent of the nation's reserves of natural gas, Texas has about 99 trillion cubic feet, a situation that has caused a downward trend in price for several years, but with the coming of markets offered by pipelines, the trend is turning upward. This was a $150,000,000 item for the state's economy in 1949.

Pipelines crisscrossing the state for a total of 41,000 miles take crude oil to market and to refineries. Other giant lines pipe gas to markets in heavily populated centers of the country.

At the 79 refineries, where some 42,000 Texans are employed at wages of about $160,000,000 a year, about 74 percent of the state's crude oil production is processed in plants representing 28 percent of the national capacity.

The shining towers of natural gasoline plants, where another 5,000 are employed, represent a new era in conservation of natural gas. With the investment of about a quarter-billion dollars, the industry is stripping gas — once wasted — of valuable liquid hydrocarbons, such as propane and butane, for the growing chemical industry and domestic consumption.

Every phase of the petroleum industry is in operation in Texas

Huff Joins in Proclaiming Oil Progress Week

Mayor C. A. Huff today proclaimed October 15th to 21st, inclusive, as Pampa Oil Progress Week.

The special week is being set aside, said the Mayor's proclamation, in order that oil men who live and work in this community may give a mid-century report to their neighbors on the many ways in which oil men and their progressive industry have served the public in the past and plan to do so in the future.

During the week designated, said the proclamation, citizens engaged either in producing, transporting, refining or marketing petroleum products will cooperate to inform the public about the many ways in which oil men individually and through the industry have contributed "to our high standards of living and to the preservation of our democratic freedoms."

Mayor Huff called the attention of all citizens to "the many contributions and services which oil men who live and work among us make to the steady advancement of our public, social, business and private lives."

A number of special events and speeches to community audiences by local oil men will mark Pampa Oil Progress Week, according to Ray F. Kuhn, Community Chairman of the Oil Industry Information Committee.

Activities scheduled include the following, he said: An address by Leo Wilmet, petroleum executive of Amarillo to the Pampa Lions Club at its Thursday luncheon meeting. Motion pictures at Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, JC's and Pampa High School.

from the search for oil through to the pump at some 15,000 filling stations manned by about 40,000 employees who service the state's more than two million registered automobiles — and also serve as a collection agency for $104 million in gasoline taxes for state roads and schools.

The luffa sponge gourd is club shaped and may be more than two feet long.

PAMPA NEWS, SUNDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1950 PAGE 17

A PROCLAMATION

The progress of Texas has been in direct proportion to the development of this state's petroleum resources by private enterprise according to rules laid down by the state's elected government.

Texas produces nearly one-half of the nation's oil supply. The petroleum industry is the largest contributor to the economy of Texas and to the support of its public institutions and government.

The oil industry in Texas, as well as in the entire United States, is better prepared today than ever before to meet any national emergency because of consistent increase in the oil industry's capacity in all phases of production, refining and proved oil reserves.

At the halfway mark of this century, it is possible to survey the progress of America in the last fifty years and to assay the advances which may be expected in the future. It is plain that our state's progress, and our nation's progress, go hand in hand with oil progress.

October 15 to 21 inclusive has been designated as "Oil Progress Week" when members of the oil industry will cooperate in informing the public about the ways in which their industry has contributed to our high standards of living and the preservation of our free democratic American way of life.

WHEREFORE, I, as Governor of the State of Texas, do hereby designate the week of October 15-21 to be

TEXAS OIL PROGRESS WEEK

ALLAN SHIVERS

Progress And Oil Said Synonymous

"Would you realize what Progress is, call it Tomorrow." These words take on added meaning with the current observance by petroleum companies of Oil Progress Week. Oil, by its vital role in this nation's growth, has cast ahead the certainty that it will loom even larger in helping build a better tomorrow.

Oil Progress Week calls for a report by the men and women of our daily needs for petroleum products. What they do can be seen just by looking about to note that oil fuels automobiles, ships, trains and airplanes, that it heats homes, that it powers and lubricates the industrial economy and that without it few of the startling wonders of the 20th Century could be enjoyed. All who depend on oil recognize its accomplishments and progress since its beginning 91 years ago.

In what the nation's oil men are doing today, is seen what is in store in the tomorrows to come. The oil which men lift from the earth is becoming an increasingly important source of a myriad raw materials for plastics, for medicines, for synthetic substances of all kinds. Just as oil-derived synthetic rubber, for example, eliminating dependence on distant natural rubber sources, so may oil-derived "wonder drugs" now in the laboratory experiment stage provide abundant supplies of healing medicines.

The new tasks will, of course, be in addition to the scores of jobs now ably handled by oil. In the fulfillment of civilian needs and desires, as in the strengthening of national defense, the oil industry's record suggests a paraphrase, "Would you realize what Progress is, call it Oil."

Pan-Islamism Gets Attack from Leader

KARACHI — (AP) — Mirza Bashiruddin Mahmood, head of the Quadiani Muslim community, has criticized proposals for a united Islamic world, calling them premature and vague. His community believes Jesus Christ was taken down from the cross by His disciples while alive and travelled to India, where He died in what is known as Kashmir.

Explaining his lack of enthusiasm for the pan-Islamic idea, the Quadiani leader declared that it was "not backed by the necessary spirit of sacrifice."

Oil Production Registers Astonishing Gain in Texas

The importance of the production of oil and petroleum products in the economy of Texas and the nation is of such magnitude that it is difficult to present a picture of clarity and depth without resorting to endless columns of statistics. However, the advent of national Oil Progress week has brought forth considerable comprehensive information designed to clarify the position of oil in the minds of the layman.

The leading source of income for the economy of Texas is the sale of oil thus making production statistics a key factor in any analysis of the state's business conditions.

Texas is the Number One producer of oil in the United States, a position held since 1928. From her 122,000 wells, located in 1,941 fields, she was producing nearly 45 percent of the nation's crude oil in August 1950.

The fields are located in every geographical section of the state with production listed in 175 Texas counties. Eight more counties have gas production.

In 1949 the total supply of Texas crude oil was 744 million barrels. This means an average calendar day production of 2.04 million barrels a day. During September 1950 the average daily production rate of yield was about 2.7 million barrels. The 1950 total production may approximate 825 million barrels.

The value of crude oil sales for 1949 is estimated to be about $1,327,000,000 (billion) according to studies by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association. $1,270 million which came from sale of agricultural products, of $787 million from livestock, two other well-known sources of money for the Texas economy.

Texas began 1950 with 115,411 producing oil wells. The state's conservation agency, the Railroad Commission, and the operators make every effort to extend the lives of the wells to the utmost.

Sixty-six percent of the wells require pumping or other artificial processes for lifting the oil to the surface of the earth. The remaining 34 percent flow as a result of pressure from natural gas or water or a combination of both. Five years ago the percentage on the pump was 59 percent.

Operators buy more than $10 million of pumping machinery a year to keep the oil flowing. Many times this amount is spent by the operators in repressuring producing formations with gas and water to make the oil continue to flow to the well holes.

The production of crude oil comes from Texas reserves which were estimated to be about 13.5 billion barrels January 1, 1950. Texas has another 2.1 billion barrels of natural gas liquids (condensate, natural gasoline, and LPG), which makes a total of 15.6 billion barrels liquid hydrocarbons. This amounts to 55 percent of the U. S. total.

The first month of 1950 saw a statewide daily allowable fixed by the Railroad Commission of 2,060,948 barrels a day. During the year the demand for Texas oil grew stronger until it reached 2,823,720 barrels a day by September. Production is usually slightly less than total allowables due to wells shut down for repairs and other reasons, causing them not to make their quotas.

The number of wells and the allowables for each of the Railroad Commission Districts change continuously as new wells are brought in and older ones abandoned.

To prevent waste of this important natural resource, the Railroad Commission limits production for the state to the amount needed to meet the market demand. This is known as the state allowable. The allowable is then divided among the fields, based upon efficient rates, so each field may have its fair share of the total state allowable. The field allowable is then prorated to the wells based upon the field's allocation formula.

Crude oil production records ranked the Railroad Commission Districts in this order for 1949: West Texas, in first place, accounted for 28.6 percent of the state total. The Upper Gulf Coast was second with 18.9 percent, and East Texas with 17.2 percent was third. Other districts — Lower Gulf Coast, 9.6 percent; North Texas, 6.6 percent; Middle Gulf, 6.3 percent; Panhandle, 4.5 percent; North Central, 2.9 percent; West Central, 2.3 percent; East Central, 1.8 percent; South Central, 1.3 percent.

A check of Commission production reports for May 1950 showed no big change in the relative positions of the districts. The Korean War put Texas' oil producing capacity in the international spotlight again. In World War II more than 80 percent of the nation's increased oil output came from Texas.

In July, 1950, when the state's wells were producing at the rate of 2.3 million barrels a day, the Railroad Commission estimated that Texas had the ability to produce 3.2 million barrels per day. For how long depended on many factors such as steel supply, transportation and other considerations which grow critical in a wartime crisis. West Texas and the Upper Gulf Coast could provide a major portion of the state's additional production.

Texas production in 1949 was 22 percent of the world petroleum output, surpassing the combined output of Russia and Venezuela, the two leading foreign oil producers.

Wildcats Bolster Showing; Sinclair Tests No. 1 Lips

Activity in the area slipped somewhat during the past week but good shows on the deepening project of Sinclair O&G on their pool opening No. 1 Chas. Lips and the staking of another test in Donley County managed to keep the Panhandle sparking.

Operators last week staked 14 new wells, completed eight oilers for a combined potential of 627 barrels and plugged 3. This compares to 13 new locations, and 19 completions for 913 barrels of oil and 40,023 MCF gas reported the week ended Oct. 6.

Sinclair recovered 110 feet of drillate and gas-cut mud on a drillstem test from 10,587 to 10,640 feet. A core from 10,613 to 10,640 feet recovered at dolomite core with fair porosity and odor in the last ten feet. A drillstem test attempted between 10,640-10,696 feet was unsuccessful when the packer failed. Operators were to core ten more feet, set the packer and attempt another test.

Lewis Welch staked his No. 1 Lazy R-G Ranch in Donley County last week and will drill to 7,000 feet. G. B. Cree plugged the No. 1 Robertson in Donley after getting no shows to 3,716 feet.

THE DRILLER'S LOG

By RUD ANDERSON

We hear a great deal these days about the American way of life, and it is all to the good. It would be difficult indeed to think of another subject so infinitely varied or so richly rewarding. Yet it is not enough simply to go on talking about it. If the American way is to have any valid meaning, we must live it. And before we can live it, we must understand it.

It is in this conviction that we welcome the arrival of Oil Progress Week, October 15-21. The men and women of oil have set aside this time to report to their fellow townsmen and the consumers of their products on their contributions to our well-being and their plans for the future.

Pampa, Borger, Amarillo, in fact every person in every city, town and community in the Panhandle, have good cause to give thanks to the oil industry.

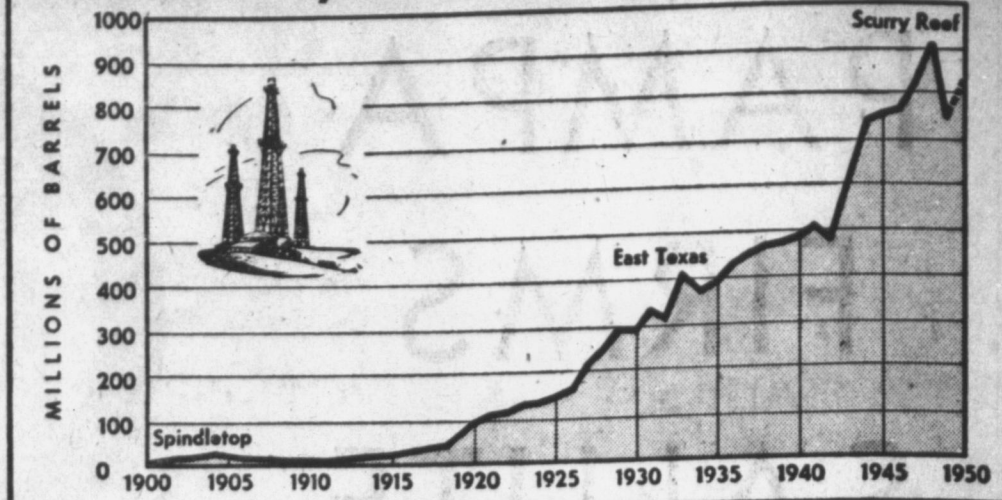

Since 1928 when the Borger-Pantex and West Pampa fields opened up some 207,963,000 barrels of crude and production from the vast gas fields here have provided shelter, clothing, food and security to countless numbers of people both in and out of the oil industry. Every person in the Panhandle owes a great debt of gratitude to the men of the oil industry.

Starting less than a century ago with only a hole in the ground, the oil men of this country have helped change the face of our civilization. They have given us the power for mobility and flight. Not only have they provided the lubricants for our vast industrial machine but today they are providing more than half of the total energy used in this country. They have helped make possible untold hundreds of good things — from lipsticks to wonder drugs. Moreover they have established comfortable reserves of oil which add greatly to our national security. They have, in short, done much to transform the existence of yesterday to the good life of today.

However, Oil Progress Week is designed not only to remind us of what the oil industry has produced, but what it has produced for the oil industry. Gasoline and plastics and wax for bread wrappers are simply the evidence of a deeper, driving force — the force that has made possible our whole industrial structure. This is the American way — the determination, the initiative, the opportunity to create more and better things for all of our people everywhere. We call it Freedom.

In setting aside this week to tell fellow-citizens about their industry, the 1,800,000 men and women of oil are performing a valuable service. In showing how progress in industry and the whole American dream have been realized, their efforts merit our attention and good will.

Texas Commission to Survey Nation's Crude Requirements

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON — (AP) — Texas officials this week are to receive a survey which will determine whether national crude oil production is to continue at current high levels.

Executives of 15 major oil companies have been asked to advise the Texas Railroad Commission Thursday the amount of crude oil they believe should be kept in above ground storage.

The average estimate submitted will become a factor in the determining of monthly crude production allowances in Texas.

The outcome will have an important bearing on the national picture in that Texas, with 1,900 oil fields and 122,000 producing wells, now is furnishing about 45 percent of the nation's crude output.

The commission wants to know the most efficient amount of crude that should be kept above ground in order to permit the oil industry to meet demand.

Storage fluctuations over or above this desired level then could be expected to go a long way in determining whether Texas crude output is increased or decreased.

No estimates of desired working stock levels have been made since start of the Korean war. The latest survey said crude storage on September 1 should approximate 245,000,000 barrels.

But on September 2 crude stocks totaled only 238,000,000 barrels and had increased to only 241,000,000 four weeks later.

Estimates to be submitted Thursday will form the commission's "target" for 1951.

The oil executives have been asked to estimate a desired working level for next April, the start of the heavy gasoline consuming summer season, and for next September, start of the heating fuels winter season.

Ernest O. Thompson, senior member of the commission, last week said the industry survey is based entirely "on a desire to have adequate but not too much crude production so we can aim at the target in 1951."

Some oil circles believe Texas crude production has been increased too rapidly since the sharp cutbacks of 1949.

Texas production approximated 2,040,000 barrels per day last year. The daily average 1 a month was close to 2,700,000.

National output climbed from a 1949 daily average of 5,041,900 barrels to 5,938,330 in mid-September.

supply of steel and skilled workers, it is declared. The magazine says that about 43,000 new wells will be drilled this year and that at least as many must be drilled during each of the next two years if a safe margin of producible reserves is to be maintained.

Strawn Production Hit in Eastland

EASTLAND — Further impetus to the revival of oil activities around Eastland has been given by the opening up of a new pool in the Strawn sand — the second recent discovery in this district.

W. W. Bradley of Gladewater has a well on the Courtney which is rated at 150 barrels a day in the 1,640-foot sand after hydrofracture treatment and it is due to cause quite a play.

This shallow strike is a mile east and a mile north of the new Briggs Owen pool, which has 13 producers, with four wells drilling. Production is coming from a deeper formation, the Lake Eastland sand. The Briggs Owen pool is three and a half miles northwest of Eastland.

Jameson Named IPAA Assistant

MIDLAND, Texas — (AP) — Minor S. Jameson, Jr., who has been economist for the Independent Petroleum Association of America since 1937, has been named assistant to the president of the association. It was announced here.

J. E. Warren, IPAA president, said the newly-created post was made necessary by increasing activity of the association and by the broader scope of independent oil industry problems.

Rotary Operation Rises to New Peak

DALLAS — Operation of rotary tools in oilfields of the United States and Canada rose to another new peak for the year, during the week of October 9, it was reported to American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors by Hughes Tool Co. The principal increase was in the Illinois area where activity was up 20 rigs. Oklahoma, Ark-La-Tex, and West Texas and New Mexico, also reflected greater activity, with the latter at an all time high. Drilling in other areas was down moderately from the week before.

The total of 2,382 rigs reported operating, compares with 2,372 for the previous week, 2,316 a month ago and with 2,025 in the comparable week of 1949. Current rig operations are ahead of the 2,364 units operating in the same week of 1948.

Oil has been ready!

Today the U. S. oil industry will be called on to supply the United States with 6,400,000 barrels of U. S. oil. It supplied that amount every day last week, and will supply it every day this week and next. It is a million barrels a day more than the peak of World War II, and it is 65% more than it was in 1940.

An increasing amount of today's oil goes to the needs of national defense, but the bulk of it supplies power for the millions of cars and trucks on American highways, the hundreds of thousands of tractors on American farms, and for the industries that make all the things that add up to a high American standard of living.

More cars, more tractors, more industries mean a need for more oil, year after year. This need has required the oil industry to look far ahead, to keep itself more than ready to supply current needs. It must be able quickly to meet increased demands.

And it is. Since World War II, U. S. oil companies have plowed back into the development of U. S. oil resources about $8 billion to find more oil, to increase oil production, to extend pipe lines and build tankers, to increase and improve refining capacity.

So the oil industry has been ready for the Korean emergency all along. It supplies today's greatly increased demand for oil in its stride. As still heavier demands are placed upon it, the industry is confident that it can supply them, too. It will be a big job. And make no mistake about it: it will involve many problems; consumers may be called on to make sacrifices; the job will require time for change and adjustment. But the oil industry is better prepared than ever before to take it on.

Texas' Production of 'Crude' Continues to Lead Nation

Celebration of National Oil Progress week serves to bring into sharper focus the importance of the oil industry in Pampa and Gray county. No true picture of the industry is possible with only a statement of its condition in the immediate territory of Gray and Pampa. However, when compared with the state-wide picture, Pampa's position, 14th in the state, assumes a mantle of great importance.

Taking stock at the half century mark, Texans will note this year that their petroleum industry has increased approximately a thousand-fold in the past 50 years.

In 1900 — the year before Spindletop roared in — Texas oil production was from relatively shallow sands around Sour Lake, Corsicana, and Powell fields. The state produced about 836,000 barrels of crude oil a year or about 13 percent of the nation's petroleum supply.

1950 is likely to see Texas producing a war-stricken United States with about $25 million barrels of crude oil, according to current demand statistics, or about 45 percent of the total domestic production, according to the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association.

Key to this half century of progressive increase in the state's producing ability has been the unceasing search for more oil and the discovery in every decade of large fields to bolster reserves that now comprise 55 percent of the U. S. total.

Lieutenant Finds Reds Play Rough

SOMEWHERE IN KOREA — (AP) — Marine Lt. Manning T. Jeter pulled his jeep up behind a small ridge and started crawling up to the crest to get a closer look at the enemy he believed to be on the other side. He heard the deafening crack of a nearby weapon and noted the blue flash of an anti-tank discharge overhead. Then he turned over to check on his transportation and saw only the twisted scrap metal of his late jeep. A few days later, Lt. Jeter was finishing a long delayed shave in another valley when a shell dropped on his shaving gear and pack a short distance away. He was left holding the remains of all his personal possessions — a bottle of shaving lotion.

The court changed its mind then and let Walbach stay in jail for three more days, for contempt of court.

Dallas Firm Makes Plans For A-Bombs

DALLAS — (AP) — Anybody want an atomic bomb shelter for the backyard?

A Dallas company is surveying demand for small prefabricated iron and concrete shelters to retail for about $600.

Test newspaper advertisements by the company indicate coastal region residents are more concerned about atomic attack than those of inland cities.

Recent tests in Houston produced 50 inquiries. Several persons signed tentative orders for the shelters if and when they are manufactured.

E. D. Reed of the company said tests inland produced only a few inquiries.

Engineers have been at work on plans for more than a year. They have produced a basic blueprint for an iron and concrete shelter with a floor area about six by eight feet. The convex ceiling would be about six feet high.

Inside, stored in special compartments, would be a folding cot, asbestos coveralls, first aid supplies, oxygen equipment and a Geiger counter to detect dangerous radioactivity.

The entire shelter would be partly buried with a top covering of about one foot of earth.

ton of meat, carved into roasts and steaks, was distributed among the poor.

Producer-Owners To Hear Cullen

AUSTIN — Hugh Roy Cullen of Houston, often described as the South's foremost philanthropist and one of its most loyal and outstanding citizens, will address a directors meeting of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association in San Antonio October 18. He will discuss the independent oilman today as a citizen and businessman.

Other featured speakers are Lt. Gen. Ernest O. Thompson, senior member of the Texas Railroad Commission, Lt. Gen. LeRoy Lutes, commander of the Fourth Army with headquarters in San Antonio, Bryan W. Payne, widely known Tyler Independent, and Dr. Paul Erlandson, member of the staff of the Southwest Research Institute in San Antonio. Dr. Erlandson, who will discuss research projects within the industry, replaces Tom Slick on the program.

An outstanding critic of unnecessary concentration of powers in the hands of Federal administrators, Roy Cullen's influence is felt on a wide range of political issues. He is the most conspicuous example of a successful "wild-catter" in the State of Texas. As such he has contributed much to the material wealth of Texas, perhaps more than any other Texan.

His generosity and his philanthropies have been front page news, not only in the nation but in the press throughout the world.

FINED NOT TO SERVE

In feudal England, a baron could pay a fine for the privilege of not serving in his lord's military campaigns, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Entrance would be through a metal door counterweighted to prevent accidental opening. The shelter — which would externally resemble a farm cyclone cellar — would not protect against a direct atomic blast.

Problems of ventilation to avoid intake of radioactive dust in the air are still to be worked out. Engineers say production of the shelters could start about 60 days after they receive the go-ahead signal.

Highschool Father Is Child Expert

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Marvin Adkins, a 26-year-old high school student under the G. I. bill of rights, brought his new son to a hospital here.

Gregory Lynn was such a small baby, just a little better than a two-pounder, Adkins explained: "You can cradle him in your two hands."

When the child was born in a mining community near here, the doctor offered little hope, but the father thought otherwise. "I started feeding him a formula that I made up myself," Adkins said. "I'd feed him a couple of drops at a time from an eyedropper and keep him well wrapped up."

Doctors at Children's Hospital say the youngster is in fair condition. His twin was born dead.

A hospital attendant wanted to know how Adkins had been able to take care of Gregory Lynn. "I was one of 14 children," he said, "and I guess I oughta know."

UNDERWATER FINLAND

Finland, which is nearly twice as large as California, is pock-marked with thousands of lakes, but it is almost without mountains. About one-eighth of the area within its borders is under water.

PREPARED—Stanley Tretick, battle-wise NEA-Acme staff photographer in Seoul, packs a rifle as well as a camera. With the percentage of casualties among newsmen already higher than in World War II, Tretick's taking no chances with Red snipers who either can't tell a camera from a bazooka or just don't care. Beside, he's already been wounded once in this war.

WHEELER COUNTY FARM

One of the best. 321 acres good land. 80 acres pasture. 40 acres in hog pasture with new net wire fence. 7 acres alfalfa, 10 acres of 2 and 3 year old fruit trees. 5 room modern house built 2 years. Granaries, chicken house, barns, 2 wells. 550 gallon butane tank, electricity, on school bus route. Owner was offered $25.00 per acre for half royalty and turned it down. Leased for oil to major company. This farm located in eastern Wheeler County where the hot oil play is. Will sell for $65.00 per acre and hold one fourth mineral, or would trade it for good tourist court well located, or would trade for good filling station, including building and lots.

Still Buy A Gunnison Home

With Less Cash Than A Car?

AND LOOK! We have one home on N. Dwight that requires no down payment. Reserved for some veteran. These Gunnison's, like some people, make friends 'cause they're cheerful, pleasant, and informal. And best of all, they're really new in design for tomorrow's living. That is! When old man Winter hits "Zero" these homes will show what real heating and insulating means. And for the lady who likes extra comfort and leisure, the Gunnison is the easiest to keep clean and tidy. We have homes complete with lots, starting at $6,250. And, by the way, down payments are due to go up again, believe it or not! Plan now at 848 W. Foster some evening for information. There's no obligation, of course.

"And THEY get all the glory!"

Red Skelton Says No Television for Him for a While

By BOB THOMAS
 HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — While nearly every other top comedian is scrambling to television, Danny Kaye is in no hurry.
 "I don't think I'll do TV for a couple of years," he remarked on the set of "On the Riviera."
 "Everything is in too much of a turmoil. I'll wait until it simmers down."

At any rate, Kaye said he would never do a weekly show. He figures such a format would expend too much time, energy and material. He has not studied the new medium, in fact, does not own a set. But that will soon be changed. His three-year-old daughter, Dana, who was with him in his dressing room, has pressured her father into ordering one. She wants to look at "Time for Beany."

Capsule review: "Two Flags West" is just a fair western, despite its big cast and handsome settings. All of the elements for greatness are there, but the whole thing tumbles into a muddy plot. It centers around a headstrong cavalry commander, who is getting to be pretty familiar in big-time horse operas. Joseph Cotten, Linda Darnell, Jeff Chandler, Cornel Wilde and some fine photography help make it passable entertainment.

Fairbanks Fire Has Chain Reaction

FAIRBANKS, Alaska — (AP) — It was one of those chain reaction things, so the sad story of Jack Courtney might as well start from the beginning. To enumerate:

1. He stopped his jeep by an empty cabin about 47 miles from here on the Richardson highway.
2. He drained the watery gasoline out of the jeep and put it into cans he found in the cabin.
3. He lighted a cigaret.
4. His gloves caught fire.
5. He tossed them to the ground where they ignited a small pool of spilled gasoline.
6. The gas and glove flames spread to the tires of his jeep and set them afire.
7. Two Fairbanks firemen on their day off drove up, stopped, and prepared to launch into some off-duty fire-fighting.
8. One hopped into the jeep to drive it away from the house — then discovered the jeep was out of gas.
9. The other fireman dashed to his automobile to get a fire extinguisher — and discovered he was out of fire extinguishers.
10. The flames meanwhile consumed the jeep, then devoured the cabin right down to the last log.
11. Courtney hitchhiked a ride back to town.

INSPIRED BOOKS
 Literally, the word "canon" means rule or measure, but in reference to the Bible, it means those books which were accepted as inspired.
