Anti-Demo Solid South Grows Dim

WASHINGTON (AP) — From all the signs, the South is not about to rise again with anything like solidarity against the Johnson-Humphrey ticket.

Those Democrats who run campaigns are not kidding themselves about the difficulties they face in what is becoming a two-party South in national elections.

They already have scratched Alabama and Mississippi from their list of states whose electoral votes they expect in President Johnson's column.

But while they fear the November election news might be bad in Louisiana, South Carolina, Florida, Virginia and Texas, they think they have a fighting chance to keep these states in line.

No small part of this is due to the detailed preparations made by Johnson to smother the civil rights controversy that might have flared into an open revolt and a Dixie walkout at this week's Democratic National Convention.

CIVIL RIGHTS

Both Johnson and GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater have expressed hope that civil rights will not be an issue in the campaign.

But they both recognize it is there—either in open opposition to integration or in covert backlash against it—and is likely to remain there.

Johnson took extraordinary measures during the Atlantic City convention to placate all of the party conservatives, including the Southern die-hard segregationists. Those among the latter who came to the convention to get thrown out, and thus publicize their beliefs, found themselves thwarted at every turn.

Johnson took the extraordinary course of directing the National Committee to suspend for 30 days its requirement that members sign a loyalty oath to support the national nominees.

NO ISSUE

This left Eugene (Bull) Connor, the national committeeman from Alabama, no chance to make an issue of it in the final meeting connected with the convention. Connor, who had walked out when he was denied a convention seat, said he was going home to think it over.

Any announcement from Alabama that he was bolting would lack the national attention Connor might have received had he been able to raise a ruckus with the President on hand.

Johnson told his convention agents he wanted a moderate, middle-of-the road program that offered something to everyone and made no one mad enough to stand up on his hind legs and shout about it.

That was exactly what he got.

The civil rights plank was a mild one, which differed only in wording from the one Republicans had adopted in San Francisco after a great deal of uproar and internal party bleeding.

When Johnson was majority leader of the Senate, he used to get things done by what is called "unanimous consent." If no member shouted an objection, a bill was passed.

The Atlantic City convention was strictly one of "presidential consent." Committees drafted platforms, seated delegates and went about other business only when they had White House clearance.

The message, of course, was that Lyndon Johnson is a man with compassion for the voters everywhere, the incipiently rebellious South included.

U.S.-Linked Civilian New Chief In Viet

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A civilian with close links to the United States took the reins Saturday as acting premier of South Viet Nam for two months.

The government said that Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, the leader since January, fell mentally and physically ill under the strain of a week of rioting and was under medical care.

In the sixth government change in 10 months, Dr. Nguyen Xuan Oanh, a Harvard-educated economist, assumed temporary leadership by appointment of a military triumvirate that was established Thursday.

Oanh, 45, stressed at a news conference that it was still Khanh's government and he had no plans to reshuffle it.

STILL PREMIER

"He is still the premier," Oanh said. "He is incapacitated. He is not well."

Troops in battle regalia maintained a tight guard around Saigon and other trouble spots to prevent rioting that has been almost unchecked for a week.

At least nine persons perished in the rioting, two Friday, and scores were hospitalized with injuries.

Oanh comes to the fore apparently with full approval of the United States, which is pouring men, material and money into the war against the Communist Viet Cong.

To many American officials, Oanh is affectionately known as Jack Owen. This is a play on the similarity of pronunciation of Oanh and Owen. Oanh speaks fluent, American-style English.

10 Months, Six Saigon Changes

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—In 10 months, the government of South Viet Nam has changed half a dozen times.

Nov. 1—President Ngo Dinh Diem, leader since 1955, was overthrown and slain in a military coup. Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh took over as premier.

Jan. 30—A bloodless coup led by Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh ousted Minh, claiming his government favored neutralism. Khanh was named premier.

Aug. 16—The revolutionary council named Khanh president with greater powers.

Aug. 25—Protests and rioting forced Khanh to resign as president.

Aug. 27—A triumvirate was named to lead the nation. It included Khanh, Minh and Lt. Gen. Tran Thiem Khiem.

Aug. 29—The triumvirate named Dr. Nguyen Xuan Oanh, a deputy premier of finance, as the nation's acting premier for two months.

Fresh Violence Erupts In Torn Philadelphia

Over 150 Injured In Negro Uproar

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Negroes in a strife-torn section of North Philadelphia continued looting shattered stores Saturday night and harassing police in the second straight night of rioting.

Things appeared calm for a time Saturday afternoon, but as night fell, police radio began broadcasting reports of store and car windows being broken in the 125-block area.

Police were pelted with rocks and bricks when they answered a call that stores were being broken into. A dozen police cars sped to the scene and dispersed a crowd. The situation was reported under control in five minutes.

Destruction of trolley cars also was reported.

MINISTERS

A group of white and Negro ministers, dressed in full religious garb, began riding in police cars through the area. They hoped the sight of them would keep people off the streets.

Earlier Saturday, Mayor James H. J. Tate issued an emergency proclamation ordering all unauthorized persons off the streets in the area where more than 100 stores were looted and nearly 300 persons injured or arrested Friday night and early Saturday.

Saturday night, Tate went on television to urge cooperation with the proclamation — issued under an 1850 law which subjects violators to a penalty of up to two years imprisonment.

It will be in effect 24 hours a day till further notice.

"We are not going to tolerate this kind of disorder and we are going to take every measure we can against it," said the mayor, who cut short a vacation because of the rioting.

Negro leaders said the rioting and looting was not connected with the civil rights movement and police Commissioner Howard Leary agreed, saying it was "the work of hoodlums."

12-HOUR SHIFTS

Leary deployed 800 patrolmen and park guards throughout the area on 12-hour shifts, four hours longer than normal. All police vacations were cancelled.

A group of Negro and white ministers and civil rights leaders held an emergency meeting and said they would support Tate if he decides to ask Gov. William W. Scranton to mobilize National Guard troops.

The group, headed by the Rev. William H. Gray Jr., a Negro minister, also recommended that the mayor deputize large numbers of Negro citizens to help enforce the law.

In the area swept by the riot, most store windows were smashed during the night by roving bands of looters, most of them teenagers of both sexes. they found easy access to the shops, a majority of which are owned by whites.

DIVERSION

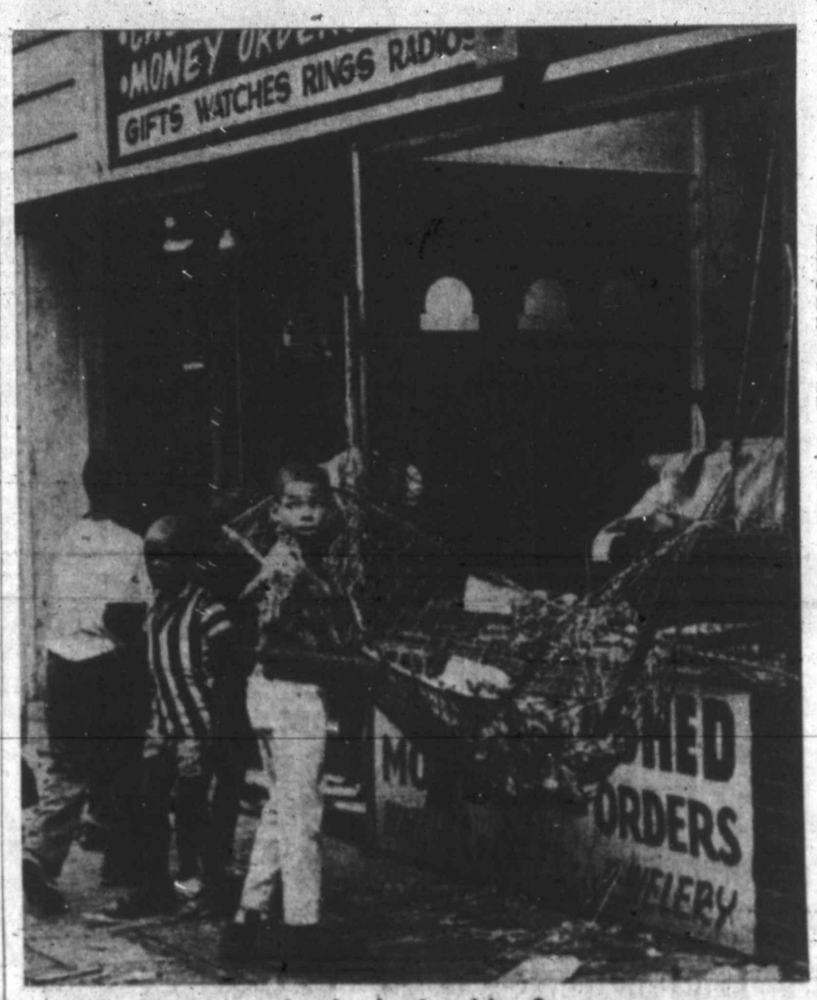

The looters would create a diversionary incident at one point and when police moved there in force the gang would pillage somewhere else.

Thirty-five policemen and 117 civilians were injured during the rioting which began around 10 p.m. Friday.

Arrested were 102 adults and 5 juveniles, all Negroes.

Most of the injured were released after treatment in hospital emergency wards. One policeman suffered a skull fracture.

It was first major Negro disturbance in Philadelphia this summer and erupted over a comparatively minor incident. In this it followed the pattern established previously in Negro rioting in New York City's Harlem and Brooklyn sections; in Rochester, N.Y., in Jersey City and Elizabeth, N.J., and the Chicago suburb of Dixmoor.

Caprock Reveals Rate Reductions

STANTON — Caprock Electric Cooperative, meeting at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Stanton High School auditorium, announced rate reductions, total payments on indebtedness of $734,000, and announced capital credit returns to members of $171,600. Three directors were also re-elected to three-year terms.

The 25th year of service, ending with the fiscal year of 1963, saw 364 net connections, to 165 rural residents, 128 irrigation units, 64 small commercial and seven large commercial units, and a net increase in revenue for the year of $30,890.

The meeting opened with Manager O. B. Bryan presiding. The Rev. Claude LeMond gave the invocation, and the business meeting was called to order by Glenn Cantrell, president of the board of directors. Entertainment was provided by The Plainsmen from Midland.

The report for all the 1963 program, included building of new lines costing $590,000; purchase of power from Texas Electric Service Co., costing $560,000; payments to REA on principal $114,790; advance payments on principal of $622,000 and interest payments of $98,000. Refunds on capital credits to members, for the 25 years of operation, has been $836,900.

Rate reductions announced were: Residential rate approximately 6½ per cent; irrigation horsepower charge reduced 25 per cent giving an overall horsepower and kilowatt hour rate reduction of 6.2 per cent. Jim Eiland, business manager, said the amount of savings to members would run to between $60,000 and $70,000 per

Reviewing The

Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

It's back to school starting Monday for all Howard County schools, and by mid-week all area schools will be in operation. In Big Spring, enrollment outlook is something of a mystery. Some pre-registration pointed to declines, others to sharp increases. A week hence Howard County Junior College will start, and the outlook here is for another record total.

* * *

While the ugly cloud rolling from the northeast on Wednesday evening produced little here in the way of moisture, the storm was not without its benefits. A strip across the north fourth of the county got an inch or more, and most of Borden County came in for heavy showers, which helped solve the crucial stockwater problem in many places. The

Turkey Eases Tense Spot With Troop Movement Delay

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — One threat to the nervous peace on Cyprus eased Saturday as Turkey agreed to delay for a short period sending replacement troops to its Cyprus garrison.

But there was no easing of the basic crisis. Archbishop President Makarios went to Egypt seeking military and diplomatic support from President Gamal Abdel Nasser. Four jet fighters, believed to be Turkish reconnaissance planes, roared over this island. And in Turkey there were anti-American and anti-Greek demonstrations for the third day in a row.

Police used clubs to fight back about 2,000 demonstrators in Ankara as they tried to march on the American, Greek and Soviet embassies. The Greek Embassy was stoned. At least one person was injured and several were arrested.

ANTI-AMERICAN

A crowd estimated at more than 5,000 assembled at the University of Istanbul for anti-American speeches. Then, led by students, it marched through the main business district, where Western consulates are located. Members carried placards and banners reading "Yankees, go home," "ugly American Johnson," and "if you have a friend like America it's equal to an enemy."

They ignored warnings by Turkey's interior minister that demonstrations are illegal.

Prime Minister Ismet Inonu's government has deplored the demonstrations as not being in the best interests of the nation and has apologized to Greece for damage to its embassy.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Ismail Soysal told newsmen that a note from the Kremlin said the Soviet government has "exercised efforts in trying to have the Greek Cypriot government act more humanely toward Turkish Cypriots."

Soysal said the note was delivered Friday night by a Soviet Embassy official and that it rejected Turkey's charges that the Soviet government sided with the Greek Cypriots and "did not mind the killings of Turkish Cypriots."

TEMPORARY

Turkish public opinion has been aroused by newspaper reports of alleged American requests for Turkey to accept a solution to the Cyprus problem which would include joining Cyprus to Greece. American officials have been silent about Cyprus talks being held in Geneva.

Glafcos Clerides, acting Cyprus president, accepted the Turkish troop rotation postponement with cool reserve, saying, "If this is only temporary, it does not solve the problem, which will crop up again in a few days."

OLD FRIENDS HELP FUND

Four faithful friends who have supported the Bible Class fund in years past kept it alive with gifts Saturday, but the fund is in serious if not desperate straits unless others join quickly and generously in its support.

As of Saturday, the total was $920, less than a third of what is required to assure more than 100 high school students an opportunity to take this course. Funds must be raised voluntarily. The time is drawing near for closing the campaign, so please don't delay sending in your contribution.

Friday's acknowledgments should have shown the TEL Class of First Baptist and Mrs. Cauble's gifts as memorials to Mr. H. H. Squyres:

Tornadic Wind Rocks Loraine

LORAINE—A part of a drive-in theater screen was blown down, cotton trailers were upturned and a barn roof sheared off here Saturday night by a strong wind which some Loraine residents believed to be a tornado.

An inch of rain fell as the gale roared. Heavy hail pelted the community.

Wylie Walker reported that the wind flipped over his cotton trailers and tossed a grain bin a hundred yards.

C. M. Duke reported that the roof was whipped off his barn by the wind and it was reported the drive-in theater had lost a good part of its screen.

No one was reported infured by the storm.

Mourning Procession In Saigon

Catholic children, dressed in traditional Vietnamese white as a sign of mourning, file in procession Saturday through a Catholic refugee settlement of Tan Sa Chau, a suburb of Saigon, to view coffins of six Catholic victims. Two Boys Jailed After Intensive Hit-Run Hunt

DALLAS (AP) — The most massive hit-and-run investigation in Dallas police history ended quietly Saturday with the arrest of the two suburban boys who were in the car that struck down Cheryl Howard, 10, almost a week ago.

The boys — a 16-year-old from Hutchins and a 13-year-old from Balch Springs — were held by juvenile authorities late in the day.

The exhaustive investigation ended Saturday morning when the father of the 13-year-old boy for the first time since the Monday accident noticed fresh damage on the once-mashed front fender of his compact station wagon.

Neither boy had mentioned the incident to his parents.

"I'm convinced the parents of the boys did not know what the boys had done," said deputy police chief Ray Lunday who was on hand when the case broke at the home of the 13-year-old boy.

The traffic bureau chief said had the fender not had previous damage the father would have notified police earlier.

The 16-year-old boy, who police said admitted driving the car, told officers he had only recently received a letter from the Department of Public Safey regarding his bad driving record.

Chief Lunday said the father called his son outside and asked him about the newly wrinkled fender.

"I think a car backed into us while we were at the swimming pool, the boy was quoted as saying.

The father was not satisfied and called an acquaintence who is a police officer — Sgt. Dave Holcomb.

Both boys then told their fathers and the police what had happened and were taken downtown to police headquarters for further questioning, officers said.

Chief Lunday said the boys related they had been at an apartment house swimming pool and had left. They said they had just topped a hill in the alley when they struck the Howard girl on the bicycle.

The young driver said the girl was knocked into some bushes.

"I got out and took her out of the bushes and put her on the grass," the boy was quoted as saying.

The father of the Howard girl, L. J. Howard, said he was pleased that the boys were caught.

"I really don't know what should be done with them," he said.

County Reverses Trend On Sales

Texas, state-wide, has registered five per cent more motor vehicles this year than last, but Howard County has a paradox situation—fewer vehicles registered but more money collected for tags.

Texas has registered 5,632,373 vehicles in 1964. Total gross fees for all types brought in $120,833,000.

In Howard County, the records show the total number of vehicles registered this year is 22,268. Total fees for the licenses on these vehicles is $512,253.

Of the $120,833,000 fees collected in the state for motor vehicle licenses, $84,180,000 has been allocated to the state and $27,862,000 to Texas counties. The county commissioners have been allotted $2,310,000.

Of the $512,253.11 collected in Howard County, $175,000 has been turned over to the county and $337,253 to the state.

Harris County leads the Texas counties in the number of registrations—747,734. Low county is Loving, in far West Texas, with 185 registrations.

Other high ranking counties following Harris are Dallas, 628,323; Tarrant, 338,003; Bexar 327,585; El Paso 141,989; Jefferson 131,955; Nueces 112,153; Travis 111,359; and Lubbock 111,130.

The state shows a gain of 251,316 vehicles this year over last. This brought an increase in gross revenue from current licenses of $5,808,000 over last year.

Here in Howard County, the records show a decrease of 632 in the number of vehicles registered but an increase in receipts of $22,547 over last year.

The state has registered 4,016,467 passenger cars; 752,214 commercial trucks, 204,263 farm trucks; 383,735 trailers; and 129,949 farm trailers. The remainder of the total of 5,632,373 vehicles includes house trailers, truck tractors, farm truck tractors, motor buses, city buses, tractors, machinery, motorcycles, heavy oil machinery.

Vehicle registration in Howard County for the current year (with 1963 totals in parentheses): Passenger cars, 16,018 (17,317); commercial trucks 3,829 (4,012); trailers 1,425 (1,908).

Webb Requests Paving Bids

Contractors interested in bidding on the repair and maintenance of airfield pavement at Webb Air Force Base and the Colorado City Auxiliary Airfield, are invited to obtain copies of the invitation to bid and plans and specifications from the base procurement office.

Bids will be received until 2 p.m., Sept. 15.

The work consists in furnishing labor and materials and performing all work: to seal cracks in existing pavement on runway at Colorado City Field, placing emulsion and painting approximately 6,000 square feet of airfield markings.

The contractor will be required to seal cracks and place approximately 93,792 square yards of emulsion rejuvenator material and paint markings for taxiway at Colorado City Field, and place approximately 86,847 square yards of emulsion rejuvenator material and paint markings on existing pavements for taxiways at Webb AFB.

Sealing cracks, placing approximately 16,667 square yards of asphalt emulsion, and painting approximately 6,000 square feet of markings on pavement for the north and south overruns at Webb AFB will be required.

The request for bid sets must be received in base procurement on or before Sept. 11 to be considered.

Good Chances Of Promotion

Airmen second class and airmen first class at Webb Air Force Base hoping to gain an extra stripe in the October promotion cycle will find their chances more than double that of June.

The base quota for October is 16 to staff sergeant and 56 to airman first class. The June quota here was seven to staff sergeant and 25 to airman first class.

Airmen third class expecting to move up also face improved prospects, but not on the scale of the two higher grades. The Air Force quota released this week by Headquarters shows 8,000 to staff sergeant, 25,000 to airman first class and 19,000 to airman second class.

'Don't Waste My Time, Mac!'

Probably one of Texas' youngest cotton pickers, Cruz Oliveras, aged 3, was busy as a bee on the Dunnigan farm southwest of town last week. Cruz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Oliveras, Edwards Ranch, his teenaged brother, Antonio Jr., and his mother, were pulling cotton for Oliver Nichols. It wasn't a game for tiny Cruz—as rapidly as he filled his wrinkled grocery bag and emptied in his mother's big cotton sack, he was back on the job. His height made pulling bolls from the stunty cotton easier for him than for his mother and brother. (Photo by Sam Blackburn)

Eight Bales Have Now Been Picked

By SAM BLACKBURN

Regardless of what the 1964 cotton crop may total — eight bales of Howard County cotton have already been ginned. Two other bales of cotton, from Glasscock County, have also been processed in this county.

Additional cotton, being picked from the skimpy plants, is expected to trundle into gin lots this week.

PICKING

Picking is under way in numerous fields. So far, the yield has not been exciting. However, some cotton growers, particularly in the northeastern and north central parts of the county, are happier this week than they were a week ago. Rains of last week, especially in the Luther, Vincent and Vealmoor areas, were sufficient to help some fields. The rains, though, were accompanied by hail in some areas and the stones were big enough to do some damage.

No rain fell south of IS 20 and the fields in that half of the county are still losing ground to the hot days and cool nights.

In some parts of the southwestern segment of the county, farmers say that rains of sometime ago have improved the cotton outlook to some degree. There are some fields where the prospects for a third of a bale or more can be anticipated. Such fields are mostly sandy land.

READY

Meantime, the 13 gins in the county are ready for business. Lomax Gin, through Friday, was tops in number of bales ginned —three. Two of these, however, were from Glasscock County. They were produced by Ernest Newsom. Cecil Long, ginner, said there were other farmers in his district who probably will be bringing in cotton this week.

First bale ginned at Lomax was brought in by Oliver Nichols, who lives half a mile west of Elbow. This bale was the product of picking over 10 acres of dryland cotton planted last April. The bale, ginned from 2,100 pounds of raw cotton, turned out a 620 pound bale.

Co-op Gin in Big Spring, which ginned the first and second 1964 bales, has had no further calls for its service. The Fairview Gin has already handled two bales and anticipates two or more Monday.

G. C. Broughton Jr., who had the first and second bale this year and is also manager of the Guitar Gin in Big Spring, said he ginned a bale Thursday for C. M. Weaver.

TWO BALES

At Coahoma, Wendell Shive, operator of the Guitar Gin, said he has handled two bales so far, and that others are reported being picked. Both bales were ginned by C. C. Wolf, Coahoma farmer.

Up in the northwest corner of the county, the three Knott gins have handled no 1964 cotton. The same story was told in Ackerly, where neither gin has turned a wheel.

"We do not expect any cotton for another two or three weeks," the operators reported.

Co-op Gin in Vincent is still idle but that section has had good rains which are vastly improving the cotton outlook. It may be several weeks before any cotton comes into the gin there.

Planters Gin at Luther is ready to go but so far has not had any cotton to handle. Some is expected after Sept. 1. It was in this area that heavy rains and some hail occurred last week and farmers are still waiting to evaluate the benefits and damages.

The few bales which have been ginned so far have been gathered over sizeable areas. Some ginners said the average bale now being brought in, represents the pickings from 10 or more acres.

PROBLEMS

Farmers are also faced with another problem—will the cotton plants, dwarfed by the hot weather and drouth, grow enough height to make satisfactory machine harvesting possible? Some growers point to the stunted plants and are wondering if the strippers can be dropped low enough to get what cotton there is.

"We may have to get what cotton we have with hands," they said.

Meantime, all of the 13 gins in the county will probably be operating, it was said.

"We'll be running," said one gin manager, "even if it does look like we won't have too much to do."

Dear Abby

Figuring Relatives

DEAR ABBY: Is it considered good taste to send a wedding invitation to relatives who live a great distance from where the wedding will take place, knowing perfectly well that they will not attend the wedding? Please put this in the paper as I would like to settle a difference of opinion.

"PLANNING TO WED"

DEAR "PLANNING": The "planner" should know her own relatives and anticipate THEIR reactions. Some relatives would interpret the invitation as a "notice" that a gift was expected. And if they sent no gift, they would appear cheap. Other relatives would feel "hurt" if they knew a family wedding were taking place and they received no invitation even though they couldn't attend. Almost every bride has both kinds of relatives. The trick is to be able to tell which is which.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: It is bad enough to live in a neighborhood where there are several dogs and cats, but my husband is just as bad. When one of these dogs starts to bark, my husband barks back and sets up a chain of barking that disturbs the whole block. If a cat meows, my husband meows back at them, too. Then the dogs start up and you never heard such a racket. My husband thinks he is being funny, but last night I thought the top of my head was going to explode. He is just like a big kid. He says, "Well, THEY started it." Have you got any advice for me?

HEAD COMING OFF

DEAR HEAD: If the dogs bark at night, report their owners to your police department. If they bark during the day, report them to the S.P.C.A. If they still bark, muzzle your husband.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a daughter who tells her own mother she'll gladly pay to keep her at the finest senior citizens' home (or anywhere else the mother wants to live), but her PSYCHIATRIST advised her against letting her mother continue to live with her? Well, that's the kind of slap in the face I got this morning. I could write a book about how I sacrificed my whole life so this ungrateful child could have the best clothes and get the best education. She married a rich man and has everything she wants now. I lost my husband a year ago and have lived with my daughter ever since. We've had a few disagreements, but nothing serious. She started seeing a psychiatrist and, if you ask me, I think he is only mixing her up, but she thinks he's God. Maybe I should ask the psychiatrist what my daughter has against me. I think she's crazy. What should I do?

CAST-ASIDE MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Move out quietly, quickly and without questions. Perhaps if you were to talk to your daughter's doctor you would gain a better understanding of her problem. Since your "whole life" was sacrificed for your daughter, sacrifice a little more and be patient.

Hayden, Phillips Are Named To FHA Committee

Lee R. Tunnell, county supervisor for the Farmers Home Administrationn has announced that Edgar L. Phillips and Robert E. Hayden have been appointed to serve three year terms as FHA county committeemen.

Phillips will replace Hudson Landers on the Howard County committee, and Hayden replaces Roscoe Schafer on the Glasscock County committee.

Milton A. Stinson, FHA area supervisor, held an area training meeting for FHA supervisors and county committeemen Thursday morning in the Chamber of Commerce Conference room. Stinson discussed the agency's accomplishments and gave a preview of the new policies. A film entitled "Turning Point" was shown.

Those attending the meeting were Lee R. Tunnell and Edgar Phillips, Howard County; James G. Johnson and Robert Hayden, Glasscock County; and D. M. Costlow, Martin County supervisor with four of his committeemen.

Ideas Win Base Cash

Three Webb Air Force Base airmen first class and two base civilian employes received cash awards for suggestions in the civilian - military incentive awards program.

Airman 1.C. Joseph W. Edmiston, in the office of the deputy commander, Materiel, had two $20 suggestions accepted. His first one was for a more expeditious delivery of supplies to organizations on base. The second was an improvement in the methods used to prepare non-operational ready supply reports.

Airman 1.C. Donald G. Mitchell, USAF Hospital, received $25 for his suggestion that ellminated a hazard in the hospital.

Airman 1.C. Harry Grimley, Air Police, received $15 for his idea to clearly mark all Webb AFB fire lanes.

William Varnadore, a civilian in the deputy commander for Materiel office, received $40 for his idea of an improvement in procedures used to check battery circuits in the T-38 aircraft without the engine having to be installed.

Mrs. Ellen B. Wineinger, civilian personnel, received $15 for her suggestion which improved methods used to annotate position classification standards.

Honor Airman

Airman 3.C. Robert E. Farwell was selected as Air Policeman of the Month for August for his unit at Webb AFB. He has been in the Air Force six months, four months of which he has been assigned at Webb AFB. His home is in Belfast, N. Y. His father, Richard D. Farwell, is a sergeant in the New York State Police.

THE DOG DAYS

Justice Asked For Old Rover

DEAR BOSS:

I have run into a condition which I believe merits corrective publicity.

You've heard folks commenting on the current hot weather and describing the season as "the dog days"? And when you ask them how come they're called "dog days," they'll tell you that it is the season of the year when dogs are prone to fall victim to rabies—the theory, presumably, being that the intensely hot weather makes such outbreaks more likely.

Well, Boss, being of a scientific mind, I have done a little research and have come up with proof that (1) the season ain't called "dog days" because of any real or existent dog; and (2) dogs are no more prone to become rabies infected in the depth of summer than at any other time.

In fact, Boss, Dr. Akin Simpson, veterinarian, points out that reports of rabies are extremely rare in the so-called "dog day" interval of the year. The majority of proved rabies cases are in the fall and spring of each year.

Furthermore, the phrase had no application to earthly dogs in its origin.

It is an ancient designation of the hottest 40 days of the year and owes its name to the fact that at the time it was coined, Sirius (the dog star) rose just ahead of the sun. The ancients attributed the oppressive heat to the conjunction of this brilliant white star with the sun—a completely unmerited assumption, by the way. The expression still hangs on but, scientifically, the time we call the "dog days" no longer coincides with the rising of Sirius in relation to the sun. Something, Boss, called the "progression of the equinoxes" has knocked that connection out of the picture.

Anyway, I think that the dogs are entitled to be cleared of the smear that the "dog day" tag has given the canine family.

It may be well that part of this idea of heat and rabies and dogs stemmed from the possibility that Fido is a little bit touchy when the mercury is high up in the tube. Maybe he is more likely to snap at an annoying human than when things are cool and comfortable. If so, believe me, Boss, I cannot criticize. (You ain't been in too good a humor yourself the past 40 days or so. All of us are short-tempered when we are uncomfortable.)

Dr. Simpson, by the way, said this year has been exceptionally free of rabies cases—regardless of the temperature. About four years ago, we had a near epidemic of the disease — skunks and foxes, in particular, falling to the disease in numbers. This occurred in the winter and the spring and not during "the dog days."

Meantime, Boss, when you refer to the present warm interval as "the dog days," do not cast a reproachful eye toward old Rover. It ain't his fault.

Lewis Builds Chain Of Stores Locally

"I just couldn't get it out of my system."

Thus Jim Lewis, owner of the four Lewis 5 & 10 stores in Big Spring, explained how he began his own business while stationed here with the U. S. Air Force 12 years ago.

JIM LEWIS

Before he was inducted into the service in 1944, Lewis was manager of a retail store in Terrell for a large chain organization. He was making plans to branch out on his own when he got his draft call.

Although the service interrupted his plans, it did not thwart them. Lewis saw service at a number of Air Force bases including a two-year stint at the Canal Zone. He was transferred to Webb AFB when it was reactivated in 1951.

While stationed here, he opened the first Lewis 5 & 10 store — 1005 Eleventh Place. The store opened 12 years ago in 1952. Recalling the event, Jim said, "I got $300 worth of lumber from Cecil McDonald and hired a carpenter to build some shelves."

Considering the economic development of Big Spring, it is a good thing that Lewis remained here after his discharge. The firm has grown to include four stores. The second store was opened at 1712 Gregg in the summer of 1956. Store No. 3, at 503 Lamesa Highway, opened in 1958, and two years ago, Jim opened the store in the College Park Shopping Center.

His business provides employment for 25 persons and he spends about $150,000 each year, all of which goes into the local economy. Lewis carries a number of lines in each store, including gift wares, toilet goods, school supplies, sewing notions, dress materials, hardware, baby goods and toys.

Lewis managed retail stores for seven years before his induction. He spent nine years in the service, attaining the rank of captain. Now he has operated his own firm for 12 years.

Asked the difference in managing his own firm rather than a store for someone else, he said:

"When I worked for another owner, I didn't have to worry about getting the money to pay for the things I bought. There are more worries now, but also there is more satisfaction."

A native of Clarksville, Lewis is a past director of the Chamber of Commerce. He and his wife reside at 702 Marcy. They are parents of seven children, ranging in age from seven to 21.

Spindle-Legged Space Prober Due For Firing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The largest scientific satellite ever launched by the United States will be sent into orbit possibly as early as next Thursday, if hurricane Cleo did not disrupt preparations too much.

This first Orbiting Geophysical Observatory will have the appearance of a huge, ungainly, spindle-legged winged insect—with its assortment of booms, antennas, control jets and the broad solar panels designed to extend into position after the craft is in orbit.

Designated OGO-A, the satellite will carry more scientific experiments than any other satellite to date—29 of them, contributed by scientists from seven government laboratories and nine universities.

LOOPING ORBIT

It will be aimed for a great looping orbit, ranging from 170 miles above the earth out to 92,000 miles, to gather data on the atmosphere, the magnetosphere and interplanetary space beyond reach of the earth's magnetic field.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration, announcing launch plans Saturday, said it will, if successful, "mark another milestone in NASA's program of scientific space exploration.

"It also will inaugurate a series of standardized observatories capable of conducting many related space experiments simultaneously," NASA said.

"It represents a new concept in satellite engineering since it has been designed to use the same structure, power supply, attitude control, thermal control, telemetry and command systems and provide space to carry up to 50 different experiments in the main body or on booms."

Police Press Traffic Tickets

Warrants have been issued and are being served by Big Spring police on approximately 100 persons not answering citations issued for traffic violations, Warrant Officer D. W. Day said Friday afternoon. Several more are being issued for later service.

Day said persons receiving citations must appear within 10 days of issuance. If they have not appeared in 15 days, a letter is mailed reminding holders of delinquency. At the end of 20 days if holders have not appeared, either before corporation court, or before the court clerk, warrants for arrest are issued, and $5 additional cost is added per warrant.

"We are going to try to keep current on these warrants in the future," Day said. "We hope those who are delinquent will appear before warrants are served, to eliminate the embarrassment of arrest at home, on the street, or in their places of business, and save the additional cost."

Veterans' Pension Raise Faces Opposition By LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill raising veterans' pension payments at least $72.6 million in its first year faces the Johnson administration's opposition.

But Senate Finance Committee sources say privately it nevertheless is far from a dead issue in this election year, post convention Congress session.

Veterans' Administrator John Gleason Jr., in a letter to committee Chairman Harry Byrd, D-Va., warned of the administration's unhappiness with the bill.

If Congress intends to liberalize the pensions despite this, Gleason wrote, he would suggest that the boosts be geared to increased living costs.

The bill would eliminate the existing requirement that a veteran over 65 may draw a pension only if he is 10 per cent disabled and unemployable.

Among other things the House version would:

—Add $5 to $10 a month to the pension payments of veterans in the lowest income brackets and increase in varying amounts the payments of some other beneficiaries by adjusting limitations on other income they may receive.

—Authorize several new exemptions from other sources of income which must be counted in determining eligibility.

—Revise sharply the degree of disability which shall be construed as total disability in various age brackets.

—Provide safeguards so that a proposed increase in social security benefits, now pending in the Senate, would not lead to reduced veterans' pensions.

—Authorize more free drugs and medicines for disabled veterans and more liberal allowances for the employment of attendants for veterans severely crippled or confined to their homes by disabilities.

Gleason said amendments he suggested could bring the bills costs down to $42.7 million in the first year. He estimated the costs would rise annually to $132.192 million a year by 1969.

IT TAKES A LITTLE PUSH

There are many ways to earn a good living today. There will be as many—if not more—tomorrow. With one difference. In tomorrow's good job, you'll be using different methods, working with new machines.

You won't get tomorrow's jobs with yesterday's skills

Tomorrow's jobs will demand more. New skills. New abilities. The men who fill those jobs will have to have more to offer. They'll have to be qualified.

You can qualify for the good jobs of tomorrow by re-training. Today. It might mean taking a few courses at night school. Or some time practicing a new skill, boning up on new techniques.

Is it worth the trouble? It is if you want to make a better living—tomorrow, and in the years to come. The local office of your state employment service can provide some helpful advice. Why not take it?

Train now for tomorrow's jobs

WHO SAYS FRUIT WON'T GROW HERE?
Fat apples ripening near Sand Springs intrigue Gary Merrick, 3

Fruits, Vegetables Enrich Alston Acres

By SAM BLACKBURN

Gary Merrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Merrick, Moss Creek Raod, is only 3. He is probably too young to realize how lucky a boy is to live next door to a man like L. C. Alston and have a carte blanche to the wonderland of fruits and melons that Alston grows in lush abundance.

As it is Gary more or less takes things as they are. Later, when he has added a few years, he will find the lure of the Alston acres increasingly appealing.

For Alston is truly a man with a green thumb.

A neighbor was heard complaining recently that the pecan trees he had planted were doing poorly. "Why is that?" queried another neighbor. "Mr. Alston has a forest of pecan trees and they're doing fine."

The first man replied:

"Oh, that's different — Alston could stick a dry limb in the ground and it would grow."

MORE THAN THUMB

It does seem that way but Alston says there's a lot more to it than just a "green thumb" whatever that may mean.

Alston is a retired pumper for the Continental Oil Co. For 33½ years, he pumped for that company on the Settles A Lease near Forsan living most of that time in a company house on the lease. When he retired in 1963, he and Mrs. Alston moved to a home they had built for themselves just off IS 20 on the Moss Creek Road.

Alston began planting the 2-acre tract. He has three wells, two of which he is using for irrigation. One of these, he says, is 26 feet deep and he pumps it with a 15-gallon per minute rig and it never shows the strain. "I don't know what its capacity is," he observed.

In the interval since he bought the land in 1955, he has planted the following assortment of trees on the land:

Peaches — nine varieties. This year and last year, every tree had a lush quantity of fruit.

Apples — two yellow delicious and one red delicious and one King David. This year and last year, apples on every tree.

NECTARINE

One nectarine which this year was so loaded with fruit that its limbs were bent to the ground.

Plums — Miracle, All - red, Bruce, Sapa and Burbank, all producing liberal quantities of fruit.

Pears — two varieties. Plenty of pears each year.

Grapes — Delaware, Concord, More Early, Nigeria, Thorpe Seedless and Red Carmen. "They are all producing well— I don't know which is the best. They all look good this year."

Cherry — one black cherry. "This is our one failure. We have not been able to get any fruit to stay on this one. We are now planting a sour cherry near by and hope that cross pollination will help."

Apricot trees — three in all produced more than three bushels this summer.

Other fruits and trees, — blackberries, doing well along the fence and in the corner, strawberries, now planted in a strawberry barrel but next season to be put in the ground, fig trees, loaded with fat figs.

TOO CLOSE

He has 58 pecan trees, including the Western Sleigh, Garner and Mahan. "They produce a lot of good pecans but I made a mistake. I planted them too close together. "Last year the Alstons harvested 110 pounds of pecans. The pecan begins bearing in its seventh year — the trees he has are just now moving into their best season.

Three English walnuts are unusual trees on the Alston plot. "This year," he points out, "we have five walnuts on one of the trees. It's the first year they have ever born nuts." There is a big Thompson black walnut nearby, "the big juicy, tasty kind."

He grows black-eyed peas, yams, okra, carrots, squash, green beans, watermelons and cantaloupes in his garden.

His pride is his asparagus bed. This tract, about 20 feet square, yields a big crop each year. He has had two exceptionally big seasons in 1963 and 1964.

Mrs. Alston canned 150 jars of peaches last year. Their deep freeze is crammed with vegetables, including the fat sheafs of tender asparagus.

TAKE CARE

"Don't tell me stuff won't grow here," says Alston. "Take care of it, give it water and it will do fine. You have to work at it though."

He fertilizes his land with commercial fertilizer. ("I also hauled in 30 or 40 loads of rich black Forsan dirt.") He sprays his fruit trees to combat the insects. He waters and waters again.

His worst problem? Birds. They hit his fruit trees a hard blow and he uses assorted scarecrows to keep them away.

What does he do with all the stuff?

Well, other than for what he and Mrs. Alton use, he gives the rest away.

NOT COMMERCIAL

"When I retired," he explains, "I meant just that — I retired. I like to grow things but I don't intend to go into the business commercially. I just like to see what I can get to grow and produce. It's my hobby — just like golf is the hobby of other fellows."

On alternate years, he devotes one-half of his garden land to oats for the fattening of one or two calves. When these are ready, he has them slaughtered and stored in the deep freeze. "A couple of calves about every two years just about keeps us supplied with meat," he says.

"They tell me my place is a show place," says Alston. "I know a lot of folk stop by to look at it. I hope they get some pleasure out of what they see for I get a lot of fun out of working on it."

Handicapped Workers Should Check With SS

A severely handicapped worker who puts off making his claim for social security payments risks losing all or part of the social security payments that may be due him, according to Erven Fisher, 700 Runnels, Social Security district manager in Big Spring.

Disability payments under the program may be made retroactive for a maximum of 12 months before the month a claim is filed, said Fisher. No disability payments are made for the first six months a worker is disabled.

To get disability payments, a worker must meet a special disability work requirement of the Social Security law. This requirement, Fisher explained, is that the worker have five years of work under Social Security in the 10-year period before he is disabled. A claim for benefits must be made soon after the disability begins.

In some instances; a worker who delays his claim more than 18 months after he is disabled could lose out completely on disability payments.

Fight With Cars, Burglars, Stolen Purse Investigated

A stolen purse with $168 in cash, a burglary at Bolinger's Grocery, boys "fighting with cars," and several other thefts, and complaints were investigated by Big Spring police Friday night and early Saturday morning.

Mrs. Martin Howell, Forsan, called police shortly after 1 p.m. Friday and reported her purse, containing $168 in currency, had been taken from a dressing room in a store in the College Park Shopping Center.

Some one broke the plate glass from a window at Bolinger's Grocery, in the 300 block of Northwest Third Street, around 4 a.m. Saturday, and the owner, O. R. Bolinger, reported two .22 calibre pistols, and two cases of beer missing, along with $15 from the cash register. Total value of stolen items was $51.

A two-car collision, at Seventeenth and Main, at 9:37 p.m., resulted in the arrest of three persons. Driver of one vehicle was charged with having no driver's license Friday night, and on two former occasions, speeding, simple assault, and placed in the city jail.

Driver of the other vehicle was charged with following too closely, resulting in a collision, and for disregarding a stop sign. He was released on bond. A third boy, 16, was arrested for drunkenness, turned over to his parents, and ordered to report to the juvenile officer at 9 a.m. Monday.

According to statements from the arrested men, one driver pulled up beside the other, jumped out, and slugged him in the face. The two cars then "raced" around town, with each "banging" the other, until the accident happened on Main. One driver told officers he had formerly been troubled by the other.

Other investigations were: Report of a Hertz Rent-A-Car being driven away and not returned to the office, resulting in charges of theft by bailee; reported shoplifting at Wacker's on Eleventh Place and a boy turned over to his parents; boy attempting to sell some new football pants for $1; report of stolen billfold at City Park swimming pool; theft of hubcaps, valued at $32.50 from a car owned by Charles Ogle, 2404 Marcy, and theft of hubcaps valued at $29 from a car owned by Donnie Thompson, Stanton.

A car was reported, at 2:18 a.m., as stolen from the First National Bank parking lot, but it had been picked up from a ditch near the Rec Barn when reported abandoned. Highway Patrolman A. N. Henry investigated.

Mason Workshop Set For Coahoma

Officers and members of five Masonic Lodges in this area have been invited to attend a workshop which will be held at 7:30 p.m., Sept. 21, in Coahoma and the two Big Spring lodges are invited.

The workshop is being held to enable Masons to study common problems of Masonic Lodges and their operations. It will be conducted by M. George Lane, Odessa merchant and chairman of the Masonic workshop area covering 11 nearby counties.

Sept. 17 Date Of March For Muscular Dystrophy

A house-to-house march, in the interest of raising funds to fight muscular dystrophy, will be held in Big Spring Sept. 17, beginning at 6:30 p.m. Dan Shockey, director of the local chapter campaign, said worker recruitment would begin Aug. 31, and that workers would be given their instructions and kits Sept. 14-16.

Last year's drive in Big Spring brought $1,700, Shockey said, and the chapter has spent since March 31 over $3,200 in the patient service program of providing wheelchairs, lifts, diagnostic examinations, and physical therapy. Around $3,700 has been sent, from the Midland-Odessa-Big Spring chapter, to the Institute of Muscle Diseases, for research work.

"The causes of muscular dystrophy are still not known, other than that it may be hereditary," Howard Wright, field representative from Lubbock, said. "We know the national foundation spends over $1.5 million a year on research, and this money can come only from donations from interested people."

Volunteers interested in participating in the drive may contact the recruiting chairman, Mrs. J. C. Williams, at AM 4-6866. They may also choose the blocks in which they desire to work.

Local Ambulance Service Gets Under Way Tuesday

The Big Spring Ambulance Service today is announcing the beginning of Tuesday operations in Big Spring.

Devoted exclusively to invalid coach or emergency ambulance service, it will supplant this type of service formerly provided by River-Welch and Nalley-Pickle Funeral Homes.

O. D. Majors, who comes here from Plainview, has spent virtually all of his adult life in ambulance service. He will operate from 306 Goliad, where he and his family will live. He also will have two other drivers on duty at all times.

Instead of calling funeral homes as in the past; the public is urged to call AM 4-4316 instead for any type of ambulance service.

Majors has three vehicles, two for emergency duty and a third for invalid coach service. The fleet will be increased as demand warrants. In addition, if an emergency of great enough proportions arose, both of the funeral homes would provide backstop service to make sure that enough equipment was available for any eventuality.

The operator of the new service has a long experience in the field at Clovis, N. M. and at Plainview. He is married to the former Delores Ray, Plainview, and they have three children, Rickie, 11, Tommy, 10, and Teresa, 8. They are Baptists, and he is a member of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Judge Announces A Civil Docket

Judge Ralph Caton, 118th District Court, has ordered a jury panel to report to his court at 1:30 p.m. Monday to serve in the trial of a civil docket he has scheduled this week.

The judge will sound the docket Monday at 10 a.m. He said he had no information on how many cases would go to trial, but that he had hopes some of those on the list will report ready.

Senator Says Town Suffered No Losses

AUSTIN (AP) — Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., asserted Saturday that citizens of the East Texas town of Crockett suffered no losses in attempts to obtain a manufacturing plant through a federal program.

Yarborough thus replied to a magazine story entitled "When the Bubble Burst in Crockett, Texas," which told of the failure of efforts to locate a plant in Crockett in coordination with the Area Redevelopment Administration. (ARA)

The magazine said Yarborough announced the project with White House authorization, and said "because people believed that their senator's 'White House announcement' of the ARA loan to the company guaranteed the firm's soundness, several Texans invested in it and lost all."

Yarborough made public a telegram from Allen Rogers, president of the Crockett Community Council, which said:

"Contrary to the impression given by the article . . . the people of Crockett have not lost faith in our federal government, the agencies of our government, or our elected representatives."

NO MONEY

Yarborough asserted, of the Crockett venture:

"Not one cent of federal money was loaned or lost on the project. It was approved by the ARA, but when the company failed to do its part, the loan was not completed.

"The people of Crockett advise me that very little money was put in the electronic company stock by the people of Crockett. The company was formed and had raised its money in Houston, Tex. efore the ARA approval was ever made.

"The Houston County (Crockett is the Houston County seat) Development Foundation of Crockett bought a 40-acre tract of land on which to build the plant. The plant was not built. The foundation still owns the 40 acres, which has increased in value and Crockett has lost no money on it. They have made money on the investment.

"Furthermore, as a result of ARA activities, the Crockett people have been able to obtain the location there of a furniture company which employs 85 persons.

"I have no knowledge of or information about the people in Houston, Tex., who founded Audio Electronics in an effort to build a plant at Crockett.

BOUGHT LAND

"Neither the federal government nor the people of Crockett were responsible for the formation of the Houston company looking for a plant site.

"The people of Crockett took the $60,000 they raised and bought land for industrial development. They used part of that land for the location of the furniture plant and have been offered a 33 1-3 per cent profit on the tract that was reserved for the audio electronics plant which wasn't built."

In Crockett, H. B. Knox, owner of a furniture store and president of the development foundation at the time of the negotiations, said that the East Texas town is not a depressed area.

Knox said that when the company was unable to go through with its proposal to build a plant in Crockett, the foundation gave the 65 persons who had subscribed more than $58,000 an opportunity to get their money back and only $850 was reclaimed.

He said the foundation bought the 40 acre tract for $30,000, has refused several offers to buy it and believes it will eventually make a profit of $10,000.

Of the remaining money, Knox said $12,000 was spent to level ground and build a railroad spur for a furniture plant that located in Crockett through the town's own efforts.

The rest, he said, is on deposit in a savings account with the Grapeland State Bank.

THE WEEK

Colorado River Municipal Water District got a lift, too, with about a foot and a half increase at Lake Thomas — about a six weeks or two months supply.

Unless response to appeals for funds for the high school Bible Class steps up sharply, the campaign will come to an end with the goal not half met. If you plan to have a part, do it as promptly as possible.

Howard County Commissioners Court announced four new voting boxes last week. There is one for each of the commissioner precincts, and they represent that part of some city boxes which lies outside the corporate limits. No places have been announced.

The city fogging crews have not been sleeping in the wake of the flare of sleeping sickness in Houston, Plainview and possibly a few other points. This service has been stepped up, along with pool and puddle treatment, in an effort to wipe out the suspected carrier-mosquito.

The Chamber of Commerce Managers of West Texas paid our manager, Carroll Davidson, its highest honor last week by naming him president. Among one's peers, it is a testimonial to be so chosen. Twice before, Big Spring managers have been honored with this top job.

Time for getting your season tickets for football is at hand. Nearly 400 have secured the five tickets for home games so far. On Thursday the Quarterback Club is having its traditional barbecue honoring the squad. Take out your QBC membership and attend.

Twenty-five years ago Cap Rock Electric Cooperative was organized. The following year initial construction was effected and on a cold winter evening north of Big Spring the first power was switched in. Since then membership has grown to over 5,500 in nearly a dozen counties, and members have acquired one-third equity in a $6,500,000 system. Saturday the 25th annual meeting was held at Stanton.

There was dirty-work when "Dirty Work at the Crossroads," a Little Theatre production was staged at the City Park amphitheatre last weekend. A few young folk sought to cause trouble by throwing bottles and sounding car horns, but police intervened. Once upon a time those of such ilk were known as smart-alecs.

The grand jury (a lot of the regular panel didn't bother to show up in court) had a busy and long session, grinding out 27 indictments. Half of the bills involved checking offenses of one kind or another, grades of stealing, and DWI.

Mrs. H. G. Towle, sister of Mrs. J. H. Greene and a frequent visitor here, was killed in a tragic mishap at Snyder, her hometown, last weekend. Mrs. Towle had a hand with her sisters in giving Ruddick Park to Colorado City, gave the 200-acre Towle Park to Snyder, gave a site for an Episcopal Church and all the pews for the new First Methodist Church in Snyder. Certainly a spirit and a heart like that will be missed.

year, and the new rates will go into effect Oct. 1.

Two scholarships, given to a boy and a girl, chosen by the scholarship committee from among applicants, went to Keith Howard, son of Mrs. A. J. Howard, Star Route, Lenorah, and to Delores Bender, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Bender, Rt. 1, Big Spring. The scholarships cover tuition fees and books to Howard County Junior College for two semesters.

Three directors, whose terms expired, were re-elected. They were W. D. McDonald, Midland; Paul Adams, Ackerly, and Mrs. Lee Castle, Rt. 2, Big Spring. During the business meeting the membership voted down a proposed amendment to limit directors to two consecutive terms of three years each.

Awards, presented by J. W. Broughton, co-op member who lives north of Sand Springs, were: Pin to Paul Adams for 15 years of service on the board; plaques to Glenn Cantrell, Mrs. Lee Castle, and Miss Arah Phillips, for 25 years of board service since Cap Rock was organized. Broughton also spoke briefly on problems facing electric cooperatives.

Five hundred adults and 130 children attended the meeting Saturday afternoon. A cash attendance award of $500 went to Mrs. Billy Louder, Stanton. three smaller awards of electric appliances were given others.

Surgery Set For Mrs. Sirotiak

Mrs. Joe Sirotiak, the former Merlene Stevens of Big Spring, is to undergo major lung surgery at 7:45 a.m. Monday morning in the hospital at Lackland Air Force Base.

Her husband, T. Sgt. Joe Sirotiak, has arrived in San Antonio from Viet Nam and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Flowers, are with her there.

Mrs. Sirotiak's address is Wilford Hall, Ward 6-B, Room 5-B, Lackland Air Force Base Hospital, San Antonio.

Cub Leader Training Set

A Cub leader's basic training session is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Personnel Conference room, Cosden Refinery entrance, W. D. Broughton, commissioner, has announced. The first session will include a film, "Boy From Hickory Street," along with the first section of basic training "What Cub Scouting Is."

This training is the first requirement toward the training award, but it is not necessarily limited to these, said Broughton. The basic series tells what the Cub Scout program does, and shows results of Cub Scouting. It will familiarize parents and potential leaders with all aspects of the program. All Cub packs are organizing for the Frontier Roundup, and the basic training will be an excellent way to hurriedly acquaint parents with the responsibilities. Adding Cubs to the pack will require additional leadership, Broughton said.

"The final session of the basic training will be offered Sept. 14. The basic training will be offered again in November," he remarked. "Cubmasters are reminded that the pack having the largest number of registered adults completing the basic training by December will be awarded a pack . . brary."

At Dealers' Conference

Big Spring School Bus Routes Listed

The tentative schedule of all bus routes of the Big Spring Independent School District is listed here today.

Officials pointed out that in several instances not all bus stops have been given, but enough information is listed so the pupil may know the general neighborhood that his bus will serve.

Pick-up times as shown will be adhered to as closely as possible, although adjustments may be made during the year.

All routes which indicate two trips will be arranged so that the children picked up on the early (or first) run in the morning will also be the first to ride the return trip home in the afternoon. Similarly, those picked up on the later morning trip also will ride the second trip on the return in the afternoon.

First trips home in the afternoon will leave at 3:30 p.m., the second ones at 4:15 p.m.

Two Major Texas Papers Endorse Johnson Candidacy

By The Associated Press

Two of the largest newspapers in Texas — The Dallas Times Herald and the Houston Post — are announcing in Sunday editorials that they will support the election of Lyndon Johnson as President this fall.

The Times Herald supported Richard Nixon in 1960 and the Post has not supported a Democratic nominee since Franklin Roosevelt.

The Times Herald said in part:

"It is the studied conviction of the Times Herald that Lyndon Baines Johnson is possessed of the strong threads that make a president. We feel that he should be retained by the people in the November election.

"Lyndon Baines Johnson is tough, but he is tolerant. He is loyal to party, but he has been a bi-partisan giant in the darkest hours.

"No one has ever accused Lyndon Johnson of being afraid of anything. But neither have they accused him of impetuous, impulsive action in the fire of controversy. He acts quickly, but he acts with knowledge and with tactical skill.

"He is a man who sponsored the civil rights legislation, but he is also a President who stood before the nation and warned that he would bring down the federal fist upon lawless forces who wantonly violate those rights in illegal mob violence.

"He is a man dedicated to peace. His record is long and brilliant in that endless quest, both as Senate Majority Leader, Vice President and President."

The Post said:

"The choice between the two presidential candidates that the nation will make in November," the editorial said, "is nothing less than a choice about the whole basic quality of our national life in the next four years.

"The choice is a clear one.

The Post believes that President Lyndon Johnson is the best qualified to lead this country.

"Virtually all of President Johnson's career as a public servant has fitted him to exercise this leadership.

"One of the basic yardsticks by which any administration is judged is the success of its economic policies. In this field, the present administration has had remarkable success. It can point to a 42-month period of economic expansion, unmatched in peacetime history.

"President Johnson's record of accomplishment is outstanding by any standard. Were no other considerations involved in this campaign, this record would be the strongest reason for endorsing President Johnson." The Post concluded.

Carters Home From Funeral

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Carter, 1602 Avion, and daughter, Sherry Carter of Abilene, returned Thursday night from Purcell, Okla., where they attended the funeral of his sister, her husband, and two children. The four were killed in a two-car accident in which six died.

The dead were Mr. and Mrs. Tim Foutch, their son Bobby, 12, and daughter Tammy Kay, 3, and Foutch's sister, Mrs. Rosie Girdner. Also dead was the driver of the second vehicle.

Surviving were twin boys of the Foutch family, Donnie and Ronnie, 7.

Carter said the Foutch family died in the head-on collision about 11:30 p.m. Aug. 22.

They formerly lived in Big Spring where Mr. Foutch was employed as a painter by the E. C. Smith Construction Co. Their home was in Purcell. The twins remained with their grandmother, Mrs. Billie S. Carter, in Purcell.

Farming, Ranch Outlook Improves

COLLEGE STATION (AP)— Welcome rains over many sections of the state improved the farming and ranching outlook the past week. Soil moisture is still very short in many counties and the shortage of stock water is a problem, said John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Recent rains brightened grazing prospects and young cotton and late peanuts will benefit, Hutchison added.

All but two Panhandle counties have a moisture shortage. Some showers fell but ranges are still below average.

Most dry land cotton and sorghum in the South Plains have burned up in the drouth. Corn and other silage crops are being harvested. Livestock are being marketed as ranges wither.

Moisture improved in the Rolling Plains but more rain is needed. Hauling water for livestock is necessary in some counties. Recent rains helped younger cotton. Boll weevil and bollworm damage has been reported.

GREENING

Some greening of pastures in North Central Texas came after recent rains. Scattered spots got very little moisture. Cotton is opening rapidly.

A general improvement in moisture in Northeast Texas brought improved pastures and slowed cattle marketing. Isolated areas still need rain. Vegetables look good.

Scattered light to heavy rains fell in most of far West Texas. Ranges and late field crops were helped. Some cotton harvesting is beginning. Insect damage was noted in a few areas. Light clips are reported in sheep and goat shearing. Feeding is necessary where ranges lack rain.

More rain is needed in West Central Texas. The drouth is still on despite beneficial rain areas. Goat shearing is on and feeding has started.

Scattered rains in Central Texas gave temporary relief. Moisture is short to adequate. Pasture grasses are short but greening. Peanuts are showing progress due to rains. Harvesting of sorghum and corn is near completion, the cotton harvest is starting. The main livestock problem is a shortage of stock water.

GENERAL RAIN

Most of East Texas got light to heavy showers as a general rain swept the area. Stock water is still very short in some sections. Ranchers are increasing feeding and marketing. Some cotton and corn harvesting is on. The hay crop is short. Armyworms have been reported.

Unpaved Streets Get Surfaces

A stabilization program for several unpaved streets in Big Spring is now under way, Director of Public Works Ernest Lillard said Thursday afternoon. Under this program, a stabilizing oil or asphalt is mixed with the soil, watered, and rolled, to form a coating to prevent washing during heavy rains, and to hold down dust.

Lillard said East Fifth Street, between Owen and Benton; Owen, from Fifth to Sixth; Northwest Sixth, between Aylford and San Antonio; North Lancaster, from Northwest Third to Northwest Fourth, and San Antonio (south), from West Fourth to West Eighth would be done this summer. Some of the work was completed Thursday.

The work being done on the North Side is new work, Lillard said.

Lake Thomas Has Increase

Lake J. B. Thomas had come up slightly Saturday morning as more water from Wednesday night showers trickled in.

With the rise apparently about over, the lake had gained 1.41 feet, making the new elevation 2247.32. The increase in water volume was approximately 8,400 acre feet or around 2.8 billion gallons. At the rate of recent consumption, the increase represents about a six weeks withdrawal and evaporation loss.

Infant Dies Of Suffocation

Six-months-old Gregory Lee Stewart, son of A.I.C. and Mrs. James H. Stewart, 1005 Wood, was found dead in his crib shortly after 8 p.m. Saturday. Death was apparently caused by suffocation.

Big Spring police, called to the home by neighbors who heard the mother screaming, said the child was found face down in one corner of its crib by the father, after the parents noted it had been sleeping an unusually long time.

The child's body was transferred from Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home to the Webb AFB mortuary Saturday night.

Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter, called to the scene, said he would withhold a verdict for further information in the case.

Mrs. Stewart was taken to the base hospital in a state of shock.

Zoning Board Sets Hearings

The planning and zoning commission of Big Spring will hold public hearings on two zone change requests in the city commission room of the city hall, at 5:15 p.m. Tuesday.

The first request is for a change from one family residence to neighborhood service on four lots along Marcy Drive, just east of Goliad. This triangular tract, south of Marcy, consists of Lots 1-4, Block 3, of the Choate Addition.

The second request is for a change from a 1F-1, or one family residence zoning, to a 1F-2, one family residence on all of Highland South Additions Nos. 3 and 4.

The lots in the two additions do not conform to the 1F-1 requirements of a minimum of 16,000 square feet, but do conform to the minimum requirements for a 1F-2 zoning.

Dr. Hightower To Pasadena

Dr. Gene Hightower left Saturday for Pasadena, where he is to set up practice as an orthodontist.

He has been in Big Spring since July, 1961, serving a residence practice with Dr. Lee O. Rogers. He came here after graduation from the University of Texas Dental School.

Dr. Hightower was active in Jaycee work and other civic endeavors while in Big Spring. He had been Jaycee secretary, and was named one year by the organization as its outstanding Jaycee.

Mrs. Hightower and two young children had preceded him to Pasadena, and they are residing at 4810 Holly Park Drive.

Friends in the Permian Building gave an informal "going-away" party for Dr. Hightower Friday afternoon.

MILLARD ROY MEEK

ROBERT LEE MYRICK JR.

Two New Patrolmen Join Local Police Department

Two men have been employed as police patrolmen following examinations and record checks during the past week. They will fill two of three vacancies in the department.

Robert Leon Myrick Jr., 28, 1218 Mulberry, started his service this morning. He is a native of Kansas City, Kan., but has lived in New Mexico for some time where he was employed as a heavy equipment operator, and transport truck driver. He is a graduate of New Mexico Military Institute and attended the University of New Mexico for one year, where he studied business administration.

Myrick was self employed as a horseshoer and rodeo performer for three years. He is a member of the Masonic Lodge. The new patrolman is married.

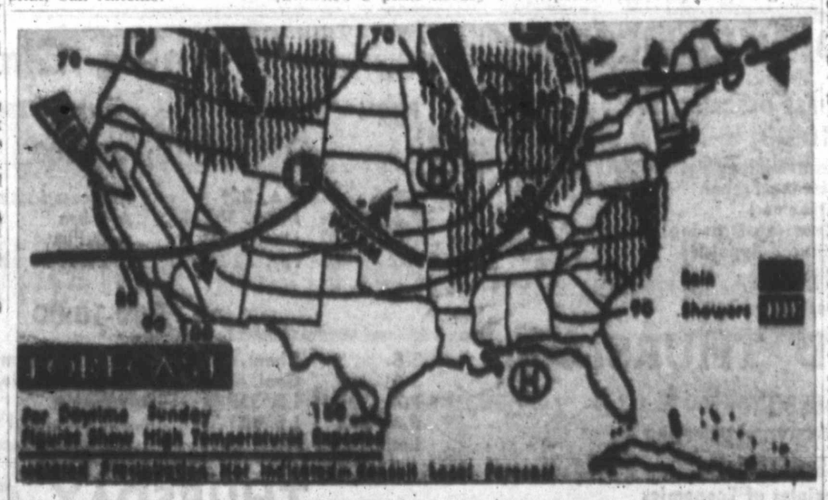

Millard Roy (Mickey) Meek, 21, was graduated from Big Spring High School in 1960. He enlisted in the U. S. Air Force in 1960 and was discharged in April of this year. He was a supply clerk.

He was born July 10, 1942, in San Angelo, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Ray Meek of 3205 Eleventh Place, Big Spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Meek and one child are living on East Highway 80, Big Spring. He will begin work with the Big Spring police department today.

'Don't Quit School,' Area's Youth Urged

Community leaders today urged high school youth in the Big Spring area to return to high school this fall.

"As the trend toward industrialization continues in Texas, education becomes increasingly important for the success of the individual and the nation, said S. M. Anderson, superintendent, Big Spring Independent School District.

He pointed out that the Texas Education Agency estimates that one-third of the ninth graders in Texas high schools will not graduate.

"This is a startling statistic, and every citizen of the community should do everything possible to encourage our youth to remain in school," Anderson said. "The future holds few job opportunities for the uneducated," he added.

Leon Kinney, manager of the Texas Employment Commission office here, said employment opportunities for skilled workers with a sound basic education are expected to exceed the supply of educated manpower as the state's industry continues to expand and become more technical.

He emphasized the importance of education to the economy and to the student. "The demand for unskilled workers rapidly is decreasing," he added, "and it will become increasingly difficult for the school dropout to find a job."

Kinney pointed out that the TEC attempts to find part-time work for students who must work to remain in school, and he solicited the cooperation of employers in finding part-time work for students.

R. L. Tollett, local civic leader, cited the recent report of the Governor's committee on school as evidence of the critical nature of the dropout problem:

"Unless the number of trained persons increases significantly, we face the bleak prospect of having huge segments of our population becoming literally unemployable, the victims of technological revolution," the report said. "Paradoxically, in an era in which training and knowledge are at a premium, the problem of dropouts in the elementary and secondary schools is serious and continuing."

"Perhaps there are steps we can take in our local community to reduce dropouts," Tollett said. "Other cities have formed committees on youth education and job opportunities to attack this problem directly through the cooperation of civic groups, school officials, the employment service and the business community."

(Ed. note: The Optimist Club has organized a committee whose members counsel with students who are considering dropping out of school. The Club suggested a larger committee, including a cross-section of the community, be organized to combat the dropout problem.)

BUT LAD IS JAILED

Makes Sure Borrowing Tractor Not Repeated

"If I had not disconnected the wires, someone might have stolen the tractor," Adolfo Salaazer Jr., 18, explained to A. G. Mitchell, deputy sheriff.

Mitchell agreed with Adolfo in principle but was puzzled over something else.

"But," he said, "hadn't you stolen the tractor yourself earlier?"

Adolfo grinned, showing white teeth.

"Si," he said, "but that was different."

Mitchell scratched his head.

"Yes," he agreed, "that was certainly different."

The tractor and Adolfo and the deputy sheriff all got together Saturday morning.

NEAR FAIRVIEW

Carl Grant, who lives about two miles west of Fairview, found his tractor, which he had left in a field, gone Saturday morning. He reported the matter to Sheriff Miller Harris who sent Mitchell and Deputy Ed Cherry, to investigate.

"We tracked the tractor from the field to the paved road," Mitchell said. "It seemed to have turned west and we went that way."

About five miles onward, the tracks were again picked up turning onto a dirt road. Mitchell acted as tracker, with Cherry driving. After another five miles or so, they came upon the tractor neatly parked beside the road. It was in good shape except that all of the ignition wires had been disconnected.

"The nearest house was about three-quarters of a mile away," said Mitchell. "There were footprints leading from the tractor to the house, which was east of where the tractor had been left."

At the house, the residence of Adolfo Salaazer Sr., the officers asked questions. Adolfo Jr. did not appear. Another youth was there but his footprints did not match those leading from the tractor. The officers patiently waited and finally who should show up but Adolfo Jr., wearing shoes which exactly matched the footprints?

At first he insisted he knew nothing of the tractor and had walked all of the weary way from town to his home Friday night.

Later though he shrugged his shoulders and admitted he had taken the tractor.

The youth told Mitchell he had been in town until about 11 p.m. Friday. He set out walking home. About 1 a.m. Saturday morning he was passing the Grant field.

"It was very dark," he explains, "and I was afraid. Someone or something was following me."

Anyway, he left the pavement, started the tractor and drove it on past his house about three-quarters of a mile.

"I took the wires off so no one would steal it," he said.

BACK TO FIELD

Neither Mitchell nor Cherry had checked out as tractor drivers. So they had Adolfo rewire the machine and drive it back to Grant's field. They trailed along in the squad car.

Grant filed charges of tractor theft against Adolfo and Jess Slaughter, justice of peace, set his bond at $2,000.

What does Adolfo do for a living?

Why, he drives a tractor, to be sure.

Chemical Farming Studies Offering Hopes For Future

By BUCK SITTON

Experiments which could revolutionize farming and greatly increase the yield of crops are being conducted at the U. S. Agricultural Experiment Station here.

Dr. James E. Box, director of the station for the U. S. Soil and Water Conservation Service, said current experiments, being conducted at the station, concern chemicals, which ultimately may increase the water-use efficiency of cotton and other plants.

A studious looking man, Dr. Box is similar to other scientists in that he likes to qualify his answers. At no time would he give a definite answer concerning the experiments.

WORTH LISTENING

"We hope to . . ." or "there is a tendency . . ." is about as positive a statement as he will make. Yet, what the expert has to say is well worth listening to. For after a short while, it becomes evident that the experiments being conducted here could have a big effect on the future of farming in this country.

As explained by Dr. Box, government experimenters hope to increase the yield of cotton by increasing the efficiency of the plant's use of water. Two types of chemicals were used to treat cotton plants last year and this year at the experiment farm.

The results are inconclusive, according to Dr. Box, but there is an indication that these chemicals may eventually result in more efficient use of water with a resultant increase in the yield of each stalk.

The two chemicals referred to are herbicide derivatives—atrazine and phenylmercuric acetate. Both come in powder form. The experimenters mix the powder with water and spray it on the plants.

In addition to cotton, the government also is experimenting with grain sorghum in a similar effort to increase that plant's water-use efficiency. The results here have been less exciting than the experiments with cotton, according to Box.

He said these two types of plants—cotton and grain sorghum—were used because they represent the two major morphological types of all food-producing plants. That is, the grain sorghum is adicotyledon or two-leafed plant, whereas cotton is a monocotyledon or single-leafed. The grain sorghum is more of a grass - type plant. Also included in this general category is wheat, since its morphology is grass-like. Sugar beets and citrus fruits belong to the other category of plants, Dr. Box explained.

If the chemicals work on cotton, they may also work on similar types of plants; and if the chemicals increase the water-use efficiency of grain-sorghums, they also may be of value on wheat.

TAKE YEARS

"We are not sure of anything definitely," Dr. Box emphasized. "It may take years before we can definitely say that we can increase the water-use efficiency of plants."

Back of the experiments is the overall objective of finding more efficient uses for water. The population of the United States will be about 280,000,000 by 1980, according to Box. A greater population will require more water, he said.

And, already, there is beginning to be a keen competition between industry, the population and agriculture for water.

"It's not noticed so much here in a dry-farming area," Dr. Box explained, "but up on the Plains and near Lubbock where wet-farming techniques are used—the competition is more noticeable," he said.

Some day water may be in short supply. The government has foreseen this need and already has begun experiments to alleviate the situation.

Thunderbirds, Col. Yeager Due At WAFB This Week

An aerial demonstration of precision flying by the U. S. Air Force Thunderbirds, and a talk by Col. Charles E. (Chuck) Yeager, world's first supersonic pilot, will highlight activities honoring Class 65B at Webb AFB this week.

The Thunderbirds will fly aerobatics above Webb Wednesday at 10 a.m. during the graduation day program. Col. Yeager will be speaker at a dining-in Friday at 6:15 p.m.

Col. A. F. Taute, wing commander, will present certificates of aeronautical rating to the graduating students Wednesday. Col. Edwin J. White Jr., deputy commander for training, will present the silver wings. This ceremony will take place at 9 a.m. on the flight line.

Following the presentations, there will be a wing review and parade of units assigned to Webb AFB. Col. Taute will be the reviewing officer. On the reviewing stand will be Col. White, Col. Elmer L. Masters, Air Base Group commander; Col. George E. Franks, deputy commander-Materiel; Lt. Col. Mount E. Frantz, Webb AFB Hospital commander; Lt. Col. Herbert H. Dahnke, commander of the student squadron; Lt. Col. Thomas J. R. Preston Jr., commander of the 3560th Pilot Training Squadron; Lt. Col. Charles N. Wahl, commander of the 3561st Pilot Training Squadron.

Six officer members of the Thunderbirds make up the flying phase of the exhibition. They fly F-100 Super Sabre jets. The Thunderbirds were organized in May, 1953, and they have performed before 57 million persons in 40 countries.

Following the activities on the flight line, Col. Taute will preside at a coffee to be held at the Officers Open Mess for the graduating pilots, their wives, families, and other guests.

COL. CHARLES E. YEAGER

After a tour of the base Wednesday afternoon, there will be a formal reception at the Officers Mess at 7 p.m. for parents, wives, the graduating class, instructors and guests. A buffet dinner will be served, and a graduation ball will highlight the evening affair.

This will be Col. Yeager's second appearance at Webb AFB. In January, 1963, he was speaker for class 63-D. He is commandant of the Aero-Space Research Pilot School at Edwards AFB, Calif.

Col. Yeager enlisted on Sept. 12, 1941, in the Army Air Corps as a private. He completed basic training at Ellington Field, Texas, and was selected for pilot training in July, 1942. He was graduated at Luke Field, Ariz., March 10, 1943, and was promoted from corporal to flight officer.

His first assignment as a pilot was with the 363rd Fighter Squadron, 357th Fighter Group, Tonopah, Nev., in P-39s. The squadron went overseas to England in November, 1943.

He flew P-51s in combat against the Germans, shooting down one ME-109 and downing an HE-111K before being shot down on his eighth mission, March 5, 1944. He evaded capture in Occupied France with the help of the French Underground and was interned in Spain. He was released to the British Gilbraltar and was flown back to England in July, 1944.

Col. Yeager returned to his squadron, flew 56 more combat missions, shot down 11 more German aircraft. During the months of July to October, 1944, he had three promotions. He returned to the United States in February, 1945, and was married to the former Glennis Faye Dickhouse of Oroville, Calif. He participated in a series of test projects while assigned to the Flight Test Division at Wright Field, Ohio.

On Oct. 14, 1947, Col. Yeager flew the experimental Bell XS-1 aircraft past the sound barrier to become the world's first supersonic pilot.

Scout Wins West Award

CLEVELAND — Charles Wayne Cranfill, 618 Grosvenor Boulevard, San Antonio, Tex., 18-year-old Boy Scout, is 1964 winner of the $500 James E. West conservation scholarship given by the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Announcement of the winner was made by Mrs. William Campbell, president, at the national convention of the auxiliary being held here this week. The award is a memorial to the late chief scout executive.

Chosen for his qualities of character, leadership, scholarship and for his scouting activity, especially in conservation work, the 1964 winner is an Eagle Scout, a member of the Order of the Arrow and holds the God and Country award.

Past president of Explorer Post 289, Alamo Area Boy Scout Council, he has given numerous conservation talks and demonstrations to Boy Scout troops; to scout camporees and to adults at community meetings. He has instructed in conservation practices for three summers at Indian Creek Scout camp, Kerr County, Texas. At McCollum high school, San Antonio, he was a student council member, won public speaking awards and was active in dramatics and athletics.

WINGS OVER BIG SPRING

Better Flight Schedules, Air Tour Due Oct. 3

By M. A. WEBB

Welcome news came in this week for all interested in flying. The first was the definite schedule of Trans-Texas Airways flights in and out of Big Spring starting at 6:03 a.m. Sept. 1. The second was the overnight stop of the All-Texas Air Tour set for Oct. 3, when up to 100 private aircraft will fly in and "tie-down" for the night at Howard County Airport.

• • •

Trans-Texas flights, with Convairs, will leave Big Spring at 6:03 a.m. and arrive in Dallas at 7:53 a.m., in Austin, 9:32 a.m., and in Houston, 10:38 a.m. The evening flight will leave Big Spring at 7:29 p.m., and arrive in Dallas at 9:06 p.m., and Houston, 11:32 p.m.

Return flights: From Austin at 6:10 p.m., and arrive Big Spring at 8:52 p.m.; leave Dallas 8:45 a.m. and 7 p.m. and arrive Big Spring at 10:38 a.m. and 8:52 p.m.; leave Houston 5 p.m., arrive Big Spring at 8:52 p.m.

A full schedule, including connections to other points in the United States, is printed elsewhere in today's Herald.

• • •

The air tour will be led by Tony Bingles, USAF, retired, now assistant director of the Texas Aeronautics Commission, stationed in Austin. The tour is under the sponsorship of Texas State Aviation Association, Texas Flying Farmers, Texas Ninety-Nines, and the Texas Wing of the Civil Air Patrol. It will leave Temple at 1 p.m. Oct. 3, and make West Texas stops at Brownwood, Big Spring, El Paso, Kermit - Wink, Lamesa and Snyder, on a week-long tour covering more than 3,000 miles.

Big Spring will be host for the first overnight stop. The planes will leave Big Spring Oct. 4, and head for El Paso for a day across the border at the races and another overnight stop. They leave El Paso Oct. 5 for Kermit-Wink, Lamesa and Lubbock stops before lunch at Hereford. In the afternoon the flyers will stop at Amarillo and Borger, and spend the night at Plainview.

Snyder and Quanah will be morning stops Oct. 6, with a lunch stop at Wichita Falls; then brief landings at Graham and Cleveland before spending the night at Arlington. Sulphur Springs and Tyler will come Oct. 7, and a lunch stop at Lufkin to include a national forest tour and overnight stay.

Austin will be the first stop Oct. 8, with Castroville the next stop before an overnight stay at Fort Clark guest ranch at Bracketville. Laredo and Kingsville will be visited Oct. 9, and the pilots will fold their wings for the night at Port Isabel. Oct. 10 will see flight stops at Sinton, Palacios, Victoria and San Antonio, where the flight ends.

Pilots may register for the tour until the day it begins, Bingles said.

• • •

Flying club members have not been too busy with most airplanes during the week. Howard County Flying Club's Colt carried D. Long and E. Long for eight flights each; McClure for five, Allen for one and a cross country, and Green for one.

Webb Aero Club's Cessna, carried Simmons and Casey for one flight each; the Colt took Barrington up once, and the Mooney was with Brown on a cross country, while the Tri-Pacer didn't make a flight.

Big Spring Flying Club's Colt is down for a major overhaul, but the Skyhawk was busy, after Norton returned from a long cross country, flown by Marchbanks twice, Weaver four times, and Charles Neefe, Joe Clark and Simmons once each.

• • •

New items noticed Friday at the airport were: a metal guard rail along the south side of the terminal building to keep car bumpers away from the siding; and a starting, or battery-charging motor for the Convairs coming in for the first time Sept. 1 on Trans-Texas Airways flights.

Cub Pack Sets Meet

Cub Scout Pack 46 will kick off its fall roundup Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the John H. Lees Service Club, at Webb Air Force Base. All registered Cubs and their parents should attend so that a roll can be established for the new charter.

The present pack charter expires Oct. 31 and must be renewed 60 days before that date. Any boy between 8 and 10 years of age who desires to join the Cub Pack is invited to attend and apply for membership.

Registration fee for Cub scouting is 50 cents, and if the boy desires to subscribe to Boy's Life Magazine, it will cost an additional $1.50. Registration and the magazine are for one year.

Parents must accompany sons, since Cubbing is a parent-son endeavor designed to familiarize both with the Boy Scout program. Thursday's program will be a full hour of entertainment for the Cub Scouts and the new applicants.

The parents will attend a presentation directed by the Pack committee chairman, Capt. Niles A. Carter. He will be assisted by den mothers and cubmaster, Lt. Col. Thayne L. Thomas, deputy commander.

A special feature of this year's roundup will be the awarding of a badge to each registered Cub who brings in a new boy to the pack. The award is a tri-colored patch which the Cub will wear on the right pocket of his shirt.

Drowns In Pond

KERRVILLE (AP) — John Gamble, 13, a Negro Boy Scout, drowned Saturday in a pond on a dairy near Camp Verde. He was practicing swimming with his troop from Kerrville.

Killed By Shock

PORT ARTHUR (AP)— Harold Norris, 30, a Port Arthur ship fitter, was killed by electric shock Saturday while unplugging an extension cord to an aluminum trailer house.

State Building On Upswing

AUSTIN (AP)—Large residential projects in city areas caused a steep rise in Texas construction during July, a new business survey says.

The University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reported Saturday the value of nonresidential permits issued in July was $70,196,000—56 per cent over June.

Total new construction, including residential, was 21 per cent ahead of June, with permits valued at $140,627,000, compared with June's $116,198,000. Residential permits totaled $70,431,000, down one per cent from the $71,091,000 worth of new homes and apartments authorized in June.

The bureau said apartment authorizations were valued at 12 per cent less than those of July 1963, and the number of new units fell 13 per cent.

Construction in 1964 is 2 per cent ahead of last year, the report said.

Bob Nichols Is Carling Leader

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP)—PGA champion Bobby Nichols outshot Arnold Palmer in a head-to-head birdie duel Saturday with a blistering 66 and took a two-stroke lead through the third round of the $200,000 Carling World Golf Championship.

While rookie George Archer, leader through the first two days, collapsed in a wave of bogeys, Nichols zoomed into the lead for the $35,000 first prize with a 54-hole score of 206. Palmer had a 67 and a 208 total.

They were the only players still under par after three days of wrestling with the Oakland Hills course, a 6,907-yard monster with a par 70.

The field of 78 survivors of the original cast of 156 goes into the final 18 holes Sunday.

Closest to the two leaders was Dick Sikes of Springdale, Ark., a pro of less than six months, who fired a 70 in the threesome with Nichols and Palmer for 210.

Gary Player of South Africa was another shot back at 211, firing a brilliant 67 despite unsettling news that his 3-year-old son Mark, was seriously ill in Nassau.

Shortage Of Sophs Worries Steer Coaches

Ninety boys, more than 10 under the number expected, reported for initial football workouts at the local high school Friday.

Coach Don Robbins expressed some concern over the shortage of sophomores in the gathering. Only 35 first-year people reported, or an average of less than 12 for each of the city's three junior high schools.

"For the money we're putting into the junior high school program," Robbins remarked, "we are not getting enough return. We've got to do something to sustain the interest of the boys after they leave junior high."

Of the 11 starters with last year's Goliad Junior High club, seven are no longer in school here. Most have moved from town since last football season.

Six of the sophomores who reported for initial drills have never before played the game in organized circles. Robbins lauded their enthusiasm.

Thirteen lettermen were in the initial turnout. The Steers can't don pads before Tuesday.

The Steers worked out twice more Saturday but the coaches kept the afternoon drill short because of the heat. The boys, for the most part, have been working on offensive and defensive assignments, techniques in ball carrying, etc., and conditioning.

The locals go to Levelland next Saturday morning to scrimmage Burl Bartlett's Amarillo High School Sandies. It will provide the Steers with their only opportunity to test their mettle against an outside opponent prior to their season's opening game with Lamesa there the night of Sept. 11.

Among Top Receivers

Pictured above are four boys who give indication they will develop into top pass receivers for the Big Spring Steers, who are now in the midst of fall workouts. Sitting is Terry Fields. Kneeling behind him are Johnny Hughes and Bobby Griffin. Standing in the back is Rickey Earle.

Baltimore Orioles Kayo Chicago Behind Pappas

BALTIMORE (AP) — Rookie Sam Bowens knocked in three runs in support of Milt Pappas' six-hit pitching as the Baltimore Orioles whipped the second-place Chicago White Sox 5-0 Saturdas night and increased their American League lead to 1½ games.

Pappas settled down after allowing singles to Tom McCraw and Don Buford on his first two pitches of the game and didn't allow a Chicago runner past second base the rest of the way.

The 27-year-old Oriole right-hander, who has won seven of eight decisions since June 16, increased his record to 12-5 while hurling his fifth shutout of the season.

Juan Pizarro, the winningest pitcher in the American League with 17 victories, started for the White Sox. He gave up two runs in the first and left in the fifth after two more runs came in.

By winning, the Orioles clinched the season series with a 10-7 record against the White Sox. Pappas has a 14-4 lifetime mark against Chicago.

Awards List Firmed Up For Tournament

Winner of the 33rd annual Big Spring Invitational Golf tournament, which starts Friday at the Country Club and continues through Labor Day, will be rewarded with $100 in merchandise prizes.

The runnerup in the championship flight earns $75 in wares while the consolation round winner in the title division comes in for $50 in merchandise.

In all other flights, the winner earns $75 in merchandise, the runnerup $50 and the consolation round winner $35.

Medalist for the tournament will be gifted with a big, 21-inch trophy.

Friday is the official qualifying day for the tournament. Only these posting qualifying scores on that day will be eligible for the medalist's trophy.

The annual Cosden Fina Cup Matches, with a radically different format, will be played starting at 1 p.m. Friday. Three teams, rather than two, will compete this year.

The Country Club team, consisting of ten players, will be captained by Jimmy Patterson, defending titlist in the Invitational itself; and W. E. Ramsey, the Club champion.

The out - of - town delegation will be led by Gus White Jr., of Lamesa. The lineups of both teams have been announced.

The third team will be made up of members of the City and Webb Golf associations and will be masterminded by Charles Bailey and Col. Gus Taute.

Players are qualifying for places on that team at the Country Club this weekend. Among linksters who are bidding for positions on the squad are Donald Lovelady, George Adams, Sgt. Joe Thompson, Bill Patton, Novis Womack, John Burgess, Marvin Williams, Billy Swindell, Farris Hammond and Rickey Terry.

Absolute deadline for players competing for spots on the third cup team to complete their required 54 holes of medal play is Wednesday evening.

In all, 30 players have registered for the tournament and tournament officials hold out hopes that as many as 200 will enter the competition.

Patterson won last year's tournament in a medal play meet. The tournament will revert to matched - play this year, after taking a poll among linksters.

Entry fee is $20 per player. A Friday night buffet dinner will be served to contestants. A dance is scheduled for Saturday night.

600 DUCATS SOLD HERE

An estimated 600 season tickets to Big Spring High School home football games had been sold through the School Business Office late Saturday.

The ducats, priced at $7.50 each and good for five games, will go on sale to the general public on a first-come, first-serve basis Monday morning at 9 a.m.

Don Crockett, who is in charge of the ticket sales, has his office at 602 E. 13th St.

Of the 600 tickets distributed to date, Crockett said he had about 250 through telephone solicitation.

The Steers do not open their home season until Sept. 25, at which time they oppose Snyder.

Big Spring will also oppose Odessa, Lee of Midland, Odessa Permian and Abilene High here.

Quarterback Club Plans To Feed 1,000 Thursday

Officials of the Quarterback Club are making preparations to feed 1,000 people at the Thursday night barbecue which will honor members of the 1964 Big Spring High School football team and their coaches. The hour is 7 p.m., the site the amphitheater in the City Park.

The $5 membership ticket will permit a man and his wife to gain admission to the barbecue, along with their 12-years - and - under children. The ducats have been on sale for several days now and the response has been excellent.

Last year, 800 pounds of meat was ordered for the party and the supply was exhausted before all callers were fed. The QBC has ordered 1,000 pounds of prime beef for this year's fan powwow.

In addition to beef, the menu will include bread, beans, onions, pickles, potato chips and beverages.

Women members of the club will be in the city's three banks again Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, pressing the sale of membership ducats. Other women volunteer workers will invade the super-markets to aim their ticket sales talks to the public.

The booster club's officials have written letters to many football fans and have gotten a surprising response—about 50 per cent of those contacted returned signed checks.

If anyone has no plans to participate in QBC endeavors but would like to attend the barbecue, he can purchase the $1.50 ticket at the gate Thursday night. There is no advance sale of that particular ducat, Burl Huffman, Texas Tech coaching aide, will be the principal speaker at the barbecue.

Huffman is well known for his wit and oratorical style.

A QBC work party will go out Wednesday evening to find wood for the fires needed to cook the meat. The actual barbecuing will start shortly before daylight Thursday. Co-captains J. D. Stiehl and Frank Sabbato will head up the group of a dozen club members who will serve the gathering.

Final plans for the annual party will be wrapped up in open meeting of the QBC, scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the High School Cafeteria.

Cincinnati Reds Inflict Two Defeats On Houston

CINCINNATI (AP) — Deron Johnson's seventh inning homer snapped a 7-7 tie, giving Cincinnati an 8-7 victory over Houston Saturday and a sweep of a doubleheader. The Reds won the opener 2-1 on Steve Boros' run-producing single in the 11th inning.

The Colts had tied the nightcap with three runs in their half of the seventh. Walt Bond doubled home one run, Bob Aspromonte singled in another and Bond scored on a grounder.

Johnson then came up with two out in the seventh and slammed his 19th homer over the center field wall.

The Reds scored the decisive run in the 11th inning of the opener after Robinson opened the inning with a double and took third on a wild pitch. A pair of walks preceded Boros' game-winning hit.

Pepitone Hot As New York Sweeps Pair

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Pepitone drove in seven runs with two homers in the first game and added a homer in the nightcap as the New York Yankees swept Boston 10-2 and 6-1 in a twi-night doubleheader Saturday.

Roger Maris belted three singles in each contest, knocking in three runs in the second game.

The sweep left the third-place Yankees four games behind the American League-leading Baltimore Orioles, who defeated Chicago 5-0.

Ten Veterans Are Back At Forsan

FORSAN — Coaches Oscar Boeker and James Blake build their football hopes this fall around ten returning lettermen.

The Buffaloes, who will play four 11-man and six eight-man games this year, are defending co - champions in District 6 (eight-man) and represented the league in the playoffs last fall.

The Bisons scrimmaged Flower Grove Friday afternoon under a broiling sun and Boeker said he was well pleased with the way the boys looked. Oscar is starting his third season as the Forsan coach.

Boeker and Blake will have to find replacements for such standouts as Kenneth Soles, Donnie Gooch, Mack Henderson and Jackie Howard. Those boys helped Forsan forge a 7-4 won-lost record in 1963.

Lettermen back with the Buffaloes include Jim Alexander, 190-pound guard, a three-year letterman and two times all-district player; David Roberson, 195-pound fullback, linebacker on defense, also a three-year letterman; Dick Ross, 185-pound center, linebacker on defense, two - year letter winner; and Kent Sneed, 140-pound end, all-district honorable mention in 1963. All those boys are seniors.

Junior monogram winners returning are Doug Franklin, 150-pound end, one letter; and Jackie Shoults, 140-pound guard, also winner of one letter.

Sophomores who won letters last year include Ray McKinnon, a 130 - pounder who is tabbed to replace Soles at quarterback; Larry Callihan, 135-pound halfback; Jack Ellis, 135-pound guard; and Freddy Willis, 150-pound halfback.

OSCAR BOEKER

In all, 28 boys are undergoing workouts with the Buffaloes.

Others out include Tommy Chrane, 145-pound end; Tommy Girdner, 140-pound guard; and Phil Burcham, 170-pound center-guard, all sophomores; Bill Seal, 125-pound junior end, out for the first time; and the following freshmen:

Alexander Moreno, 140-pound fullback; Bill Crutcher, 180, center; Carl Clanton, 140, end; Johnny Dolan, 135, guard; Steve Park, 105, end; Robert Winn, 135, center-guard; Don Prescott, 116, halfback; Tommy Kirkpatrick, 145, end; Mike O'Brien, 130, guard; Mike Mundel, 125, guard; Randy Banks, 125, guard; Dennis Jones, 100, halfback; Doug Carder, 140, end; and Gayland Reed, 125, end.

Boeker says the Buffs appear to have a stronger running game than last year. The attack will be spearheaded by Roberson, who has gained about nine pounds.

The Buffs' passing is spotty but is bound to improve once McKinnon adjusts to the position Ray, incidentally, suffered a slight ankle sprain in Friday scrimmage. Boeker thinks highly of the boy's chances.

Flower Grove returns the scrimmage Friday evening at 7:30 p.m.

Forsan's 11 - man games will be with Jayton, newly promoted from eight-man ball; Grandfalls, Coahoma B and Rocksprings.

The Forsan physical plant has been improved and more seats have been added. The grass in the Buffalo Stadium should be at its best in early October. Forsan home games are invariably well patronized by area people and all attendance records for the school could fall this year.

Schedule:
Sept. 11 — At Dawson.
Sept. 18 — At Gail.
Sept. 25 — At Jayton (11-man).
Oct. 2 — Smyer here (Homecoming).
Oct. 9 — Grandfalls here (11-man).

Jim Ray Hart Leads Giants To 7-2 Win

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Rookie Jim Hart, robbed of an extra-base hit because of fan interference his first time up, slammed a key double and his 22nd homer as the San Francisco Giants whipped Milwaukee 7-2 Saturday.

The victory kept the Giants seven games behind National League-leading Philadelphia.

Hart doubled in the Giants' first run in a three-run fourth inning uprising after Willie Mays had walked and Willie McCovey singled. Then he and McCovey scored on a single by Orlando Cepeda. Hart hit a bases empty homer in the eighth off reliever Warren Spahn.

In the first inning, Jesus Alou's single, a triple by Mays and McCovey's grounder had produced two runs off Braves' starter Bob Sadowski when Hart lashed a long drive to the left field bleachers.

A fan reached over and touched the ball, and umpire Doug Harvey ruled Hart out because of interference.

Ron Herbel got the victory for a 9-8 record by keeping seven hits well scattered.

Phillies Romp Past Corsairs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Richie Allen drove in four runs and Johnny Callison knocked in three, powering National League-leading Philadelphia to a 10-8 triumph over Pittsburgh Saturday.

Allen tripled across two runs in a four-run second inning and slammed his 24th homer, a two-run blast, in the sixth.

Callison batted in Allen with a single in the second and brought in Tony Gonzalez, who had singled, with his 23rd homer in the eighth.

Despite the Phillies' offensive fireworks, right-hander Art Mahaffey, now 12-6, was unable to finish. He was taken out in the eighth inning when the Pirates rallied for four runs.

John Boozer rescued Mahaffey but needed help himself when the Pirates erupted for four more runs in the ninth. Jack Baldschun replaced Boozer with a runner at third and two out and retired Dick Schofield on a game-ending fly ball.

Sizzling Cards Deflate Howie Reed, Dodgers

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bob Skinner's pinch three-run homer and Bob Gibson's pitching carried the sizzling St. Louis Cardinals to their fifth straight victory, 4-1, over the Los Angeles Dodgers Saturday.

Skinner was called in the Cardinals' four-run second inning when Julian Javier was forced out of the game by an upset stomach. The homer off Howie Reed was Skinner's fourth of the season, but his first for the Cardinals since they obtained him from Cincinnati in mid-June.

Ken Boyer opened the big second inning with a double, stopped at third on Dick Groat's single and scored on a fielder's choice. Then Skinner unloaded.

The triumph was the Cardinals' 23rd in their last 33 games.

Gibson, bringing his record to 12-10, lost a bid for a shutout when Derrell Griffith homered with one out in the ninth. Gibson allowed seven hits.

Do-It-Yourself Q'backs Now Legion In Football

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — All-Americas Roger Staubach and Jimmy Sidle will again execute many plays they call this season — a continuation of college football's era of the do-it-yourself quarterback.

Yes, there will be more specialists under the liberalized substitution rule — but the emphasis is still on the quarterback who gets the big job done.

Navy's Staubach, attempting to become the first man in history to win the Heisman Trophies, is the scrambling escape artist who packs a battlewagon's punch on a destroyer frame. The Middies have lost experienced line strength but will always be a threat with Roger the Dodgers.

Sidle, the Auburn ace, lost the nation's major college rushing crown by a mere 10 yards with a 1,006 output last year. He's back now to lead that breed of field general who would rather fight than pitch for his yards.

Bob Schweickert of Virginia Tech is in the same category along with Pitt standout Fred Mazurek, Pat Screen of LSU and Army's Carl Stichweh, the lad who almost upstaged Staubach in the service academy thriller of '63.

Among the pass-masters are Jerry Rhome of Tulsa, Bob Berry of Oregon, Tom Myers of Northwestern, Craig Morton of California, Scotty Glacken of Duke and Wyoming's Tom Wilkinson.

Joe Namath draws "best-in-the-nation" praise from Bear Bryant, the man who suspended him from the Alabama squad part of last season. When it comes to versatility, Coach Buff Donelli of Columbia says Archie Roberts outranks 'em all because he's also his squad's best defensive back.

Look to the midlands and Southwest for the cream of the halfback crop, which includes second-team All-America Gale Sayers of Kansas and third-teamer Tom Vaughan of Iowa State. Sayers was the nation's third best ground-gainer as a junior with a 6.95-yard per play average and is a southpaw passer. Vaughan has been moved from fullback but still will be the Cyclone workhorse.

Johnny Roland, sidelined by disciplinary action, is back in good graces and ready to romp for Missouri. And don't forget Donny Anderson of Texas Tech, who ran for 609 yards, caught for 199, returned kickoffs for 448 and punted for a 40.1 average. Also in the area are Texas tailback Ernie Coy, Arizona's Floyd Hudlow and Houston's Joe Lopasky.

As for flankerback specialists, start with national pass catching record-holder Lawrence Elkins of Baylor and move to Fred Biletnikoff of Florida State.

The Far West offers Mike Garrett of Southern Cal, Tom Blanchfield of Cal and Washington State's Clarence Williams, tabbed better at this stage than was Keith Lincoln.

There will be no better blocking halfback than Auburn's Tucker Frederickson or defensive backs than Mickey Bitsko of Dayton and Charlie Migyanka of Michigan State.

Ken Willard of North Carolina, Jay Cunningham of Bowling Green, Kentucky's Roger Bird and Maryland's Darryl Hill command attention.

At fullback start with the big six — Indiana's superb Tom Nowatzke and Oklahoma's versatile Jim Grisham, plus Junior Coffey of Washington, Pat Crain of Clemson, Mike Curtis of Duke and Princeton's Cosmo Iacavazzi.

Nowatzke is a bull. Grisham has speed, strength, elusiveness, is the team's best linebacker and a fine blocker.

Texan Champion In Army Meet

FORT BENNING, Ga. (AP)— Dick Canon, a star amateur golfer at San Angelo, Tex., is the all-Army champion.

Canon, a lieutenant in the Army, won the title Friday when he finished with a 280 for 72 holes.

He beat runnerup Nat Starks of Atlanta by three strokes.

Nix's Credentials Are Among Finest

By PAT WASHBURN

COLORADO CITY — If the Colorado City Wolves suddenly become a football powerhouse this fall and come out of nowhere to turn in a fine winning season, don't be surprised. It might not be an accident.

Winning has not been the tradition in the last several years for the Wolves, but for their new coach, it has. Whether he can transfer his winning ways to Colorado City, though, is a major question.

"The people in this town and even the boys on my team have had a defeatist attitude," head coach Truman Nix said Saturday morning. "I'll have to admit that everyone is slowly coming around and a few people are actually daring to believe that we might win more than one or two games. The process is terribly slow. But the boy's have good spirit—they may not have confidence in their ability to win—but they have good spirit. I think in the end, that will make the difference."

Nix is not an optimist looking through rose-colored glasses. He doesn't try to disguise a good team, either, by throwing in the crying towel, but he'll be the first to admit that the Wolves have a long way to go. It's like he said:

"We're having to teach the boys everything from how to put on their socks to how to score touchdowns."

Before coming to Colorado City, Nix was one of Texas' winningest high school coaches. The opponents of the Wink Wildcats between 1957-1964 can attest to that fact. During Nix' seven-year reign at the head of the Cats, he lost only four district games, never had worse than a 7-3 season record, won five district and bi-district titles, and reached the semi-finals of the state one season.

Now Colorado City, as Nixon puts it is, "a new challenge."

A challenge is definitely there. Among Wolves' foes this season are Winters, Phillips, and Merkel, and all three are rated in the top 10 teams in the state, the first two in Class AA, and the Merkel Badgers in A.

So far, Nix has been living with nothing but problems since he arrived on the Colorado City practice field. Sickness has surprisingly been his biggest foe to date as five boys have bowed out of practice via this route, and two more have gone to the sidelines with injuries. When the first game rolls around Friday night, five boys are expected to be out of uniform—some are starters.

Another problem of equal proportions has been teaching a new offense to the Wolves. Last year and all during Sam Christie's reign as head mentor of Colorado City, the Wolves ran a winged-T. Now Nix has arrived on the scene and the Lobos suddenly find themselves with a balanced line and an unbalanced backfield, meaning simply that opponents of the Wolves will see a lot of men in motion and wingbacks. The I-formation will also be used on occasion—Nix likes to pass from it and the Wolves can be expected to throw this season, according to Nix.

A third problem, probably the easiest to correct, will be the fact that the Wolves have no boys back from Christie's deep defensive secondary. But hard work seems all that is necessary to correct this important loophole.

Star Performers For Wolves

The three backfield aces above could mean the difference between victory and defeat when the Colorado City Wolves hit the gridiron trail Friday night against Phillips there. Left halfback Perry Milsap is kneeling and holding the ball while David McKay, the starting quarterback, and Roger Proctor, the starting fullback, are standing left to right in the background. Head coach Truman Nix is kneeling at the left.

Cubs Turn Back New York Mets

CHICAGO (AP) — Ellis Burton, who came up from the minors shortly before the game, singled across the winning run in the 10th inning, lifting the Chicago Cubs to a 4-3 victory over the New York Mets Saturday.

Burton's single to right-center field off Galen Cisco knocked in Jimmy Stewart, who had doubled with one out.

Ponies, Cats In Scrimmage

ACKERLY—The Sands Mustangs of Ackerly, back in eight-man circles after trying their luck in the 11-man game a couple of seasons, scrimmaged Garden City here Friday.

The Ponies, coached by Eddie Gill, are working to get ready for their opening game of the season. Sands goes to Three Way Sept. 11 for its debut.

Two boys, Eddie Herm and Roy McCaslin, are competing for the quarterback's job on the Sands club.

Several boys in the Sands camp are favoring injuries, among them Marvin Beal, Jesse Cavazos, Mike Grigg, Alfonso Calvio and Leon Russell. Most have leg miseries although Beal is having to take it easy with a sprained arm.

Sands goes to Garden City Sept. 4 to return the scrimmage.

Club Schedules Monday Meeting

Members of the Jayhawk Athletic Club, an organization to support the athletic program at HCJC, will meet at the Wagon Wheel restaurant at 7:30 o'clock Monday evening.

Officials will take up the business of formulating plans for the year. Membership rolls in the organization are still open.

LOCAL WINNER OF "MISS COLT 45" CONTEST
Mary Margaret Gary, age 19

Local 'Miss Colt 45' Winner Is Determined

Mary Margaret Gary, 19-year-old daughter of Mrs. Cornelia D. Gary, was declared the local winner of the "Miss Colt 45" beauty contest Friday.

The contest entries, sponsored by radio station KBYG, reached its climax at Friday's meeting of the American Business Club in the Settles Hotel.

Miss Gary, who currently is reigning as Howard County's Maid of Cotton, was formally crowned by Charles Dunnam, president of the ABClub, and presented with a bouquet of roses by Bob Rogers, emcee of the program.

As the local winner, Mary Margaret will be flown to Houston Thursday, Sept. 10, where she will compete with 25 other entries from around the Southwest for the title of "Miss Colt 45." She will stay at the Shamrock Hilton Hotel through Sunday night. During their stay in Houston, the girls will take part in personal appearances at the Colt 45's ball park and elsewhere. All their expenses will be paid.

The statewide winner of the "Miss Colt 45" contest will receive the following prizes:

(1) A four - year scholarship to the college of her choice; (2) a trip to the New York World's Fair via American Airlines; (3) 200,000 trading stamps, valued at $500; (4) a one - year contract for personal appearances around the state; (5) a modeling course offered by Patricia Stevens; (6) a complete western outfit; (7) a diamond wrist watch; (8) other gifts.

Joanna Patterson, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Patterson, was chosen as the first alternate and will get to represent Big Spring in event Miss Gary cannot go.

Other candidates included Barbara Ann Thompson, 18, daughter of Sgt. and Mrs. Joe T. Thompson; and Darla Moore, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Miles E. Moore Jr.

Mrs. Ray Dabney provided a musical background at the piano when the girls appeared before the ABC members, first in bathing suits and then in semi-formal dress.

Guests of the club included Jim Memmons, Jack Lewis, Bill Tidwell and Bill Wellman.

Johnson Leader In Cards' Win

CHICAGO (AP) — The aerial combination of Big Spring's Charlie Johnson to Sonny Randle struck for a 24-yard touchdown pass in the second quarter and the St. Louis Cardinals made it stand up for a 7-3 National Football League exhibition victory over the Chicago Bears Friday night.

Randle's touchdown romp with 4:21 left in the first half climaxed a 72-yard drive in which Johnson completed two other passes and John David Crow ripped off a 15-yard gain followed by an 11-yard gallop by Joe Childress.

Randle, who caught 11 touchdown passes from Johnson during the 1963 campaign, took a 40-yard touchdown heave from Johnson on St. Louis' first series of plays, but an offside penalty nullified the score.

Late in the final quarter, Johnson whipped a 28-yard touchdown pass to Bob Paremore, but that also was called back because of a penalty. The Bears, playing with five regulars sidelined because of injuries, never could get rolling much to the dismay of the Soldier Field crowd of 50,173.

Quarterback Bill Wade completed seven passes for 39 yards in the first half and Rudy Bukich was less effective the second half.

Making of an Expert

You've probably been seeing a lot of good golf this summer and you've wondered why the experts make it look so simple while it's so tough for you. Could it be that a few of the differences between the expert and you are: (1) The expert hits with his hands. you lunge at the ball. (2) The expert keeps his head steady. You wobble around so you seldom have a pivot for your swing. (3) The expert adjusts his grip at address so he is holding the club mainly with his fingers and aiming the club precisely. You clutch the club with a stiff grip so you've choked the life out of your swing before you get started.

Along Coast, Outlook Good For The Birds

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Sports Writer

There's good news for hunters from the Texas Gulf coast area.

Ducks and geese, say observers, will find ideal conditions in most coastal wintering areas.

The open season on ducks begins Nov. 25, continuing through Jan. 3. The goose season is Oct. 31-Jan. 13.

C. D. Stutzenbaker, wildlife biologist, said growing conditions have been so good, particularly in the southeast, that rice farmers are trying for up to three crops. "This means they will keep the fields flooded and where they aren't able to squeeze in the maximum cutting, it means a bonus for birds," he said.

He called conditions at Sabine Pass "extremely good."

Snakes have a knack for surprise.

A motorist pulled his car off the highway near Goliad at night recently. Checking his tires, he kicked one of the rear wheels, and felt pain in his ankle. It was a rattlesnake.

Another rattler, this one near Borger in the Panhandle, met his match in four rock-throwing boys. The snake was 5 foot 1 inch long, weighing 15 pounds and had 17 rattlers.

L. B. Phillips and his son, Phillip, of Austin used a hammer to subdue a coral snake. Phillips said the 36-inch coral was the largest he had ever heard of.

Just when hot and dry weather was about to bring a halt to good fishing at Lake Texoma, two hard rains hit and anglers raced for the water. Bill Rogers of Irving took a 7-pound 4-ounce black bass, the best in weeks. Walter Mangum of Dallas got six blacks of up to five pounds.

For year - round fishermen, there's an all-weather fishing marina at Inks Lake State Park in Central Texas. Still not quite complete, the marina will accommodate 400 fishermen when it's finished.

Some think not, but the Parks and Wildlife Department says gar is fairly good eating—if you have the right recipe for cooking.

The right way, the department says, is to brush the fish with olive oil to which has been added the juice of a lemon. Then place the fish over white-hot coals, brushing the fish lightly with a mixture of melted butter and cooking wine. And, the department adds, "serve with tomatoes, pickle slices, a salad, fried cornbread and iced tea."

Newsom Is Shuttled To QB By Woodley

GARDEN CITY—Coach Jack Woodley has problems with the Garden City Bearcats but they are the kind most eight - man coaches in the area would like to have.

Woodley lost his regular quarterback, Earl Plagens, two days after workouts began this fall. Plagens moved to Bryan with his mother. He had won two varsity letters and had been described as "one of the biggest" 150 pounders in West Texas.

Vernon Newsom, a 162-pound halfback, has moved to quarterback and apparently will fill the bill.

Newsom worked at that position in a scrimmage Friday night at Ackerly and showed to advantage.

Playing back of Newsom at the position will be Taylor Etchison, moved over from left end; and a 115-pound freshman named Ronnie Hirt, who has been showing to advantage.

Coach Woodley took 20 boys to the Sands scrimmage and expects to pick up another six candidates when school begins this week.

Newsom was a guard in 1963 on a team that won five of ten starts and wound up with a victory over co-titlist Forsan.

Out for the left guard spot on the Bearcat team are Tommy Dobbs, 180; Bert Hilger, 140; and Jim Dubose, 200.

All - district performer Riley Chandler, a 170-pound junior, is back to play the right end position for Garden City, back by Tony Chandler, his brother, a freshman who weighs 130.

Baylor Pruitt, 155-pound senior; and Jerry Schafer, 120-pound freshman, have also been running at left end.

Dennis Seidenberger, a fleet all - district senior who weighs 160, is manning the right halfback spot for the Cats, backed by Gary Vaughn, 140 - pound soph; and Alton Hilger, 120-pound soph.

Gary Pagens, 220-pound senior; honorable mention on last year's all - star team, will play right halfback for the Cats, backed by Buddy Henrichs, 155-pound soph; and John Wycoff, 120-pound freshman.

The Bearcats open their 1964 season against Flower Grove here the night of Sept. 11.

King, Farquhar Lead Qualifiers

DALLAS (AP)—Fifty-two players will be seeking five spots in the national amateur golf tournament in sectional qualifying at Brook Hollow Golf Club Tuesday.

Included are a former national finalist, Rufus King of Wichita Falls, and John Farquhar of Amarillo, who has been a top contender for years.

The national tournament will be Sept. 14-19 at Cantebury Country Club, Cleveland, Ohio.

Troop 146 Triumphant In Scout Swim Meet

The Webb AFB-sponsored Boy Scout Troop 146 participated in the Big Spring Boy Scout swimming meet Friday night at the city swimming pool. Troop 146 senior Scouts, ages over 14, won the first place ribbon, while the junior Scouts, ages 11-13, won second place red ribbon, for the night's events.

Star Scout James (Jim) DeVore won three first place ribbons; First Class Scout Albert (Al) Steel won a first place ribbon, and First Class Scout Danny Boyce won a second place ribbon for individual events in the senior Scout class.

Second Class Scout Thomas (Tommy) Smith won two second place ribbons, Second Class Scout David Boyce won a second place ribbon, and Second Class Scout Dale Seiler won a third place ribbon for individual events in the junior Scout class.

Other Scouts from Troop 146, participating in the swimming events, were First Class Scouts Rex Halverson, Charles (Chuck) Levenduski, T. L. Thomas, and Richard Lilley; Second Class Scout Pete Carlisson, and Tenderfoot Scout De Diego Garcia. The Scouts were accompanied to the event by Scoutmaster David F. Thomas and Assistant Scoutmaster Charles Levenduski.

Six More Enter At Fort Worth

FORT WORTH (AP)—Sixteen players are in the field for the Colonial National tennis tournament Sept. 16-20.

Six entered Saturday, including Graham Stillwell and Keith Wooldridge, ninth and tenth ranked players of Britain, and America's John Newman, Al Hill, Ronnie Fisher and Don Walraven.

Hill Is New Blockbuster

FORTH WORTH (AP) — The trend in professional football is big backs and the Kansas City Chiefs must be considered conformists.

Coach Hank Stram, a faraway look in his eye, has spoken frequently of his two hefty ground-gainers, Jack Spikes and Curtis McClinton.

Then there was Bert Coan, the talented but tempestuous young bulldozer who talked and walked his way into an early retirement — at least this year.

Now emerges a powerful young blockbuster named Mack Lee Hill, a 225-plunger whom the Chiefs pounced upon as a free agent. He ambled into camp after a collegiate tenure at Southern University in Louisiana.

With McClinton nursing a broken hand, Hill burst forth with 70 yards last week against the San Diego Chargers. To prove it was for real, he topped that performance Friday night against the Denver Broncos.

Hill was the rushing spark in two chief touchdown drives that earned them a difficult 14-10 triumph over the Broncos in an American Football League exhibition.

He netted 80 yards on 14 carries, caught a pass from alternate quarterback Eddie Wilson for 18 yards and generally trampled Denver defenders throughout the evening.

Wilson darted four yards for Kansas City's first touchdown and sneaked a yard for the second as the Chiefs were forced to overcome a 10-point deficit.

Hill plowed 9, 19, 9 and 3 yards to boost the first thrust and contributed 33 in the second, the big gainer coming on a 20-yard scamper that left him shaken up for several minutes.

Collegians Slated To Pick Up Feet

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — College football this fall may be a trifle more confusing to the ordinary fan, but it almost certainly will be better from a technical standpoint and likely it will be a swifter, livelier game.

That's mainly because of the 1964 changes in the rules which stop just short of a complete revival of the platoon system which was abandoned in 1952.

When most college teams resume practice within the next few days, they'll be operating under a substitution rule which permits the use of two or three units and the liberal employment of specialists. Last year's rule permitting free substitution only on certain downs proved unworkable and unpopular.

The general opening day for practice is Sept. 1, though a few teams have been able to make early starts under a NCAA provision which permits teams to begin practice two weeks before the first day of classes or 16 days prior to the first scheduled game. Navy, for instance, had its first workout Thursday.

A few scattered games are scheduled as early as Sept. 12 — among them the season's first nationally televised game, between UCLA and Pitt. Most colleges won't start playing until Sept. 19.

Backtracking from the severe substitution limitations immediately after 1952, the rules-makers this year reached the point where a coach now can send in a full team any time the clock is stopped. When it is running, each team is limited to two substitutions at any one time.

The result is that virtually all players will be required to learn at least the elements of two-way play, but the coaches will be able at most times to make good use of players with special skills.

Coach Paul Dietzel of Army is the leading exponent of the three-unit system. Most others plan to use two units, each more or less specialized.

Fans learned back in the 1940s that it can be puzzling when a new group takes over before they've learned to recognize the players who were on the field. But they've had several years of gradual changes to get used to the wholesale changes.

The only other rule change of much significance to spectators is one designed to discourage deliberate out-of-bounds passes to stop the clock or to avoid yardage losses. On such plays, the clock will be started again as soon as the ball is spotted, instead of when it is put in play.

A number of coaching shifts at major colleges since last season, many with consequent changes in playing systems, also should add to fan interest in the coming season.

The biggest names involved are Oklahoma and Notre Dame. When Bud Wilkinson, college football's winningest coach, retired to enter politics, the Oklahoma job went to his top assistant, Gomer Jones.

The retirement of Wilkinson also made Johnny Vaught, coach of Mississippi's defending Southeastern Conference champions, to the No. 1 spot on the list of active, winning coaches. In 18 seasons, Vaught's teams have won 137 games, lost 32 and tied nine. Ohio State's Woody Hayes ranks second.

At Notre Dame, where there hasn't been a winning team since 1958, dynamic Ara Parseghian came from Northwestern to take command. Line coach Alex Agase was elevated to the top position at Northwestern and immediately abandoned Parseghian's pro-type T formation for the straight T.

Other new major college coaches include Ray Willsey at California, Bert Clark at Washington State, Doug Dickey at Tennessee, Vince Dooley at Georgia, Marv Levy at William and Mary, Charlie Tate at Miami of Florida and Tom Hudspeth at Brigham Young. Dickey tossed out Tennessee's traditional single wing formation and Hudspeth dropped the Y formation at BYU.

Other new features this season include the withdrawal of Georgia Tech from the Southeastern Conference to assume an independent position and the addition of two more former Pacific Coast Conference teams — Oregon and Oregon State — to the Athletic Association of Western Universities.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Why not call the 1964 Big Spring Invitational Golf tournament the Bill Craig Memorial in honor of the Colorado City linkster who died recently? . . . Craig was one of the best friends the Country Club here had and invariably did famously in the Invitational . . . Some said he played the local course better than he did his home layout . . . Craig was easy to get to know and very popular with his fellow linksters . . . Johnny Vaught, the former TCU All-American who now is coach of the highly successful Ole Miss football team, makes his home on a cattle ranch about six miles outside of Oxford, Miss., where the school is located . . . Vaught has the best coaching record among active coaches in the nation, now that Bud Wilkinson has retired at Oklahoma to devote his time to politics . . . His teams over 17 seasons have won 137, lost 32 and tied nine . . . Vaught has had only one coaching change among his assistants in 17 years and that fellow left for a better-paying job . . . Two-ton Tony Galento once belted comic Jackie Gleason around at a Newark night spot after Gleason had stopped his act and invited Galento outside for heckling him . . . Galento always liked to fight, in or out of the ring and with a modicum of polish could have taken out Joe Louis . . . Joe Newbill, the Midland Lee coach, says he'd rather be lucky than good . . . Memphis State may not be able to maintain its claim as the No. One football team among independents in the South now that Georgia Tech has departed the Southeastern Conference . . . The NCAA and the AAU are supposed to be holding off their all-out war until after the 1964 Olympic Games . . . Some of the members of the Big Spring High School football team haven't grown as much as their coaches reasoned they would but then not many of those who turned out for initial drills were carrying an excess of avoirdupois, either . . . A South African golfer named Sewsunker Sewgolum is coming to this country to try the pro circuit.

CHUCK CONERLY

Cougars Tops Against Longhorns

Clovis Riley, Abilene Cooper's able football coach, says the best defensive game his Cougars played last year was against Big Spring while the club mounted its best offense against crosstown rival, Abilene High . . . The Cougars blunted every drive against Big Spring and the Steers were lucky to escape with a 6-0 victory. . .The Coca-Cola company is installing a scoreboard in the old stadium here. . .The junior high teams used the stadium for all games. . .All the games involving high school teams will be unreeled in Memorial Stadium. . .The Green Bay Packers are expected to play before 300,000 paying customers in exhibition games alone this season. . .The Packers, although they yielded to the Chicago Bears in their own division last year, remain pro football's best drawing cards. . .Back in 1921, Curly Lambeau purchased the Green Bay franchise in the NFL for $100. . .Look for a lot more offense in college football and a lot more defense in District 2-AAAA this fall. . .The new substitution rule will open up college ball. . .Presence of men like Don Robbins and Bradley Mills in 2-AAAA means that the conference teams will again specialize in rugged defenses. . .Everett Vinzant, who has been serving as assistant golf pro at Lubbock's Westlake course, plans to hit the pro circuit soon. . .Big Spring's Charley Johnson will, no doubt, be better than ever but John David Crow must come back in a big way if the St. Louis Cardinals are to contend for NFL honors this fall. . .Crow's chief replacement, Bill Triplett, who performed so nobly last year when Crow was out, has a lung infection and may not be able to play before 1965. . .They say Johnson's chief weakness is in holding the ball too long while looking for a receiver. . .Johnson and his team mates will appear in Dallas against the Cowboys the night of Sept. 12 for the season's official opener.

Bulldogs In For Lots Of Traveling

Harold King, the Midland High grid mentor, says he plans to use 217-pound Ross Montgomery as a tailback rather than a fullback this fall . . . King also remarks that his chief worry during the first part of the season is that the Bulldogs will "suffer from car sickness" . . . The Bulldogs go to Ysleta, Amarillo and Lubbock for practice games before opening at home Oct. 9 against Abilene High . . . There's no doubt but that Coahoma has a rugged test awaiting it in its football opener next Friday night . . . The Bulldogs, with new mentor Spike Dykes at the controls, catch Rankin at home . . . The Red Devils have one of the best quarterbacks in West Texas in Roy Winters, along with nine other lettermen. . . . Rankin is counting on improving on a 5-4-1 record . . . Four of the team's victories last year came in conference play. . . . The game could attract the largest crowd ever to see a Coahoma opener . . . Charley Conerly, the former quarterback of the New York Giants, is currently employed by a major manufacturing concern, runs his own shoe store in Clarksdale, Miss., and owns 225 acres of land in his home state, which he has in cotton and soybeans. . . . Conerly said recently he doesn't miss pro football and has no desire to coach . . . Bradley Mills, coach of the Odessa Bronchos, says San Angelo, Midland High and Permian—along with his own team—should be regarded as chief contenders for the District 2-AAAA football crown . . . One of West Texas' best known football mentors makes enough risking his money on his own golf game to pay for his vacations each summer . . . Roger Maris likely will be gone from the New York Yankee roster after this season . . . He's suing United Press International for one million dollars and the Yankee brass isn't at all sympathetic.

Purple Hoss

Texas Christian University's all-around halfback, Jim Fauver, could be the purple hoss this season. The 185-pound senior from Houston is regarded as one of the finest backs in the Southwest Conference and could be the key to the Frogs' success. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Aussies Face Big Problem

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Australia's Davis Cup stars face a difficult change of courts when play begins in the 83rd National Tennis Championships Wednesday.

The Aussies are playing Sweden in the Davis Cup interzone final on composition clay courts at Baastad, Sweden, this weekend. Then they must get accustomed to the slick, fast grass surfaces at the West Side Tennis Club for the Nationals and, if successful in Sweden, they'll have to play on the special fast-drying clay in the Challenge Round against the United States at Cleveland Sept. 24-26.

Roy Emerson, the Wimbledon champion, is top-seeded in men's singles and he has made the switch often enough that he should have his game well adjusted before he faces serious opposition. It may be a bit more difficult for Aussie teammates Fred Stolle, seeded fifth, and John Newcombe and Tony Roche, who weren't seeded.

The first two days of the tournament, which runs through Sept. 13, will be devoted mainly to qualifying play in men's singles and to first-round women's singles. With a huge field, including nearly 100 foreign players, there will be 64 players trying to qualify for 16 places left open in the men's draw. The women's entries came out to an even 124, of whom 55 are foreigners.

Seeded behind Emerson were Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., who has moved to the top in U.S. tennis this year; Mexico's Rafael Osuna, the surprise winner here last year; Chuck McKinley of San Antonio, Tex.; Stolle, Manuel Santana of Spain, Nicola Pietrangeli of Italy and Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va.

If play goes strictly according to form, the quarter-finals will send Emerson against Ashe, Ralston against Stolle, McKinley against Santana and Osuna against Pietrangeli.

The women's singles has 14 seeds but the ones who are expected to reach the final are Maria Bueno of Brazil and Margaret Smith of Australia. They met in the final here last year and at Wimbledon this year and each time Miss-Bueno won. The husky Australian girl has been dominant in other tournaments.

The white-clad tennis players have a tough act to follow into the usually sedate Forest Hills Stadium — the Beatles. But the athletes will stir up their share of excitement, if not as much noise.

There May Be Something To Rumors About Mele

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Sam Mele is sitting on a hot seat, but he can't move.

Despite denials all around, there may be substance to a report out of Boston Friday that the Red Sox will bid for Mele's services next year.

Mele avows he is happy as manager of the Minnesota Twins. But the clubs president, Calvin Griffith, isn't saying out loud whether the Twins are 400 per cent happy with Mele.

Griffith doesn't say yes and he doesn't say no. He has said the Twins' failure to remain in the American League pennant fight is not Mele's fault. But it is an age-old axiom that, when things go badly, the manager is the first to go.

Mele's home is in Quincy, Mass., not far from Boston's Fenway Park. Mele played four years with the Red Sox during his career. It wouldn't be terribly hard for him to take a shift from Minnesota to Boston.

Mele and Griffith said Friday night they will not talk contract for 1965 until the end of the season.

"That is Mr. Griffith's policy," Mele said, "and that's the way it will be this year."

Mele is working under a one-year contract, reportedly for about $32,000.

Both Mele and Griffith denied that anyone from Boston has contacted either of them about Mele managing Boston next year.

"All I know," Mele said, "is that no one has contacted me, and I certainly haven't contacted anyone else about it. I'm very happy in my job and I'm happy with the Minnesota organization."

Emory Bellard Faces Big Rebuilding Job

SAN ANGELO — After three successive years in the District 2-4A throne room, the glitter and glory of those Cinderella seasons may turn to pumpkins for the San Angelo Bobcats of 1964.

Hit a tremendous lick by graduation, the Bobcats of coach Emory Bellard return only two offensive regulars and another part-starter while the defensive unit can boast of only two regular returnees.

But among the 10 lettermen back, coach Bellard has some fine quality and if a line and a little depth can be developed, the burnt Orange and Blue could be right up among the contenders once again. In fact, everyone but the coaches of their own circuit have rated the San Angeloans as the team to beat for the loop crown and one magazine placed them as high as fourth in the state. The 2-4A mentors, in a poll taken at the Texas Coaching School, tabbed the Bobcats to finish as runner-up to a veteran Odessa Broncho squad.

Gone from last year's team which finished with a 9-1-2 record, losing in the state quarterfinals to Amarillo Tascosa on a 3-2 penetration count after tying 13-13, are such top names as tackle A. Z. Drones, rated the district's most valuable lineman, all-loop center Jim Grissen, all-district defensive end Kemper Aylor and all-loop defensive linebackers Bob Paschal and Ronnie Henson. Drones also made all-circuit defensive tackle.

Other departed regulars from the backfield include Paul Bean and Jimmy Bihl. And from the line are the likes of Robby Scott, David Drake, Philip Straach, Bill Gould, Marshall White and Tex Browne.

A GREAT ONE

In fact, only one line regular returns but he's a great one. Drew Darby, at around 200, is a two-time all-2-4A performer who made it both ways last year, at offensive guard and interior linebacker Darby moves over to offensive tackle this year and will pair with Ronald King, 195, at his usual linebacking spot. King will run the other offensive tackle. He's a letterman.

The club was hit a blow where it could least afford it even before the season opened. Don Ashley, 173-pound center up from the B team and counted on as No. 1 at that spot, broke a shoulder in a car-truck collision early in August and it is indefinite when he will be able to resume play. The Bobcat team physician indicated it might be as long as eight weeks.

Mike Wills, another B-team grad at 170, will get the first call at the center spot now.

Pat Reed, who did not become eligible until around mid-season of 1963, will put 180 pounds into one of the guard spots. He earned a letter last fall. Grady Roe, 195, and Ken Canada, also 195 and both B-team grads, will likely battle it out for the other guard spot.

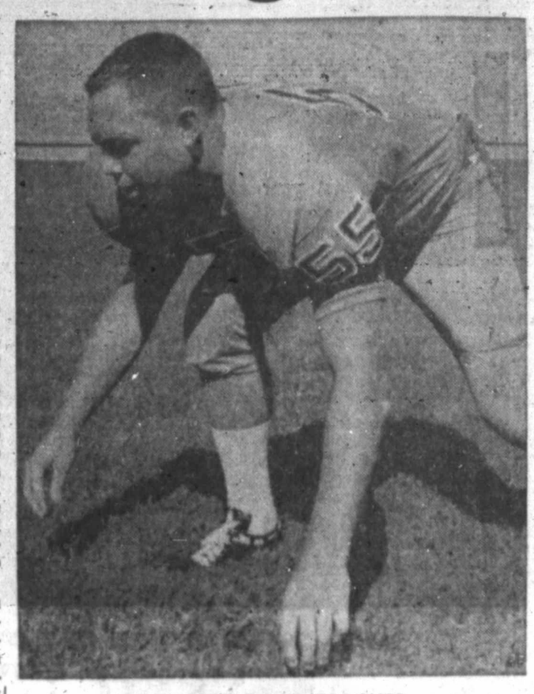

Donnie Young, 170 and a letterman, will likely be at one end with Bobby Montelongo, 170-pound B-team graduate, at the other terminal.

Quarterback should be in good hands with 175-pound Pascual Piedfort, a letterman and regular defensive halfback, giving promise of developing into a great one.

Coach Bellard and his staff, attempting to take advantage of added speed over last year, have made some major shifts in the backfield. Jim Rich, 178, only unanimous all-district choice and the leading ground gainer in 2-4A in 1963, has been moved from fullback to left half. The right halfback spot currently goes to Frankie Stringer, a 150-pound B-squad grad.

In the deep spot of the Diamond-T offense—so dubbed by one of the assistant coaches—will be Julio Guerrero, 155, a part-time starter last fall as a sophomore.

Backing up Wills at center will be Roland Howard, 195-pound B-teamer, and Ashley when he returns. Darby could be moved to the spot if needed but the coaches want to keep him at tackle if at all possible.

Drilling May Show Decline During 1964

Drilling rates in the Free World outside of the United States and Canada are expected to decline slightly—by 3.8 per cent—in 1964 with the completion of 4,690 new wells as compared with the 4,875 completions in 1963.

In Mexico, Pemex expects to drill 651 new wells by year's end, 17.5 per cent more than the 554 total recorded in 1963. In Trinidad, a marked 10.2 per cent increase over 1963 drilling activity is expected to result in the drilling of 260 new wells. South American drilling activity, it is expected, will increase slightly this year in Colombia and hold steady in Venezuela.

Although Middle East completions dipped to 254 last year, when the Neutral Zone's Wafra Field was practically drilled up, increased activity is predicted for 1964. This rise—from Abu Dhabi, Kuwait, Iran, and Turkey—is expected to boost the Middle East's total this year to 269 new wells.

In Africa, Nigeria and Libya continue to brighten drilling activity prospects. With 610 completions forecast in Africa for 1964, Libya is expected to account for 350.

New completions in India should continue to increase—from 102 in 1963 to about 135 this year. Ankleshwar oil field of Western India now has 107 oil wells out of the 125 drilling efforts, and the Oil and Natural Gas Commission plans on at least 25 more wells in the field by the end of this year. Vigorous drilling also is under way at Navagam and Kalol fields in Gujarat state, in the same basin with Ankleshwar. This drilling is being done largely with Russian equipment. O&NG has 33 drilling rigs for development rigs for development drilling and full - hole wildcats, and has contracted with Russia for 6 more of these rigs for late 1965 delivery.

In Indonesia, private oil companies are working as contractors under supervision of government oil agencies. These firms are increasing drilling operations this year, therefore, the total of new wells in Indonesia is expected to increase from 67 in 1963 to at least 100.

In Australia, continued interest in the current series of new discoveries should boost the completion total to 150 this year, a marked increase of 20 per cent from the previous year's level of activity.

LOCATION OF MAJOR GEOLOGICAL BASINS IN THE U.S. (SHOWN IN DARK AREAS)

Ancient Seas Determined Distribution Of Petroleum

By THE HUMBLE WAY

What caprice of nature gave six states nearly 85 per cent of all oil and gas found in the U.S. to date, and dribbled the remainder through 27 other states? Next to water, petroleum is the most plentiful liquid on this planet, but 17 of our states still have no commercial crude oil and gas production. What caused this haphazard distribution?

Geologists say the location of ancient seas largely controlled the distribution of our petroleum deposits. Practically all petroleum comes from, or is closely associated with sedimentary rocks laid down in the depositional basins of ancient seas. These saline bodies of water covered portions of our continent during various periods of geologic time, much as the Persian Gulf and Caspian Sea today cover parts of the Asiatic Continent.

The land mass of the United States, for example, underwent many changes before it arrived at its present form and shape. It continues to change, but so slowly that it goes almost unnoticed. Geologists tell us that over hundreds of millions of years the earth's crust has buckled and cracked many times. Great mountain ranges have been uplifted, only to be eroded away and disappear beneath the waves. Vast areas subsided creating troughs and basins which eventually became shallow seas and inland saline lakes.

BASIN SITES

The locations of these basins even shifted about and their outlines were altered and sometimes obscured during various geologic periods. There is evidence that during some periods in early geologic time much of the interior of the U. S. was one vast sea rimmed with comparatively narrow strips of land.

Eventually, most of these depressions or seas filled with sands, silts, muds, and other sediments eroded from the bordering highlands. Some basin areas, however, such as South Florida today, were far removed from bordering highlands. As a result the waters were clear and warm and organic sediments such as limestones filled the basins. Paradoxically many of the sediment-filled basins were themselves lifted up into mountains during later periods, and some subsequently were destroyed by erosion. The basins which survived contained the source beds for our petroleum.

Most geologists and other scientists believe some petroleum was formed in the sedimentary basins in the following manner: The seas which filled the basin area teemed with animal and plant life. As these organisms died they settled to the bottoms of the seas. In order for this organic matter to be converted into petroleum it had to be preserved from destruction. In some areas where seas were shallow and sedimentation slow, oxidation and bottom - feeding scavengers such as crabs and fish destroyed the organic materials before they could be covered and protected.

MATTER SETTLED

Some of the organic matter, however, settled in stagnant water of low oxygen content, and escaped destruction by oxidation. In some instances organic material was buried quickly beneath layers of sediment and the oil-forming organic matter was preserved.

As the old layers containing this organic material were buried deeper and deeper, through thousands of years, heat and pressure converted the organic debris into compounds of hydrogen and carbon we know and use as oil and gas. Probably other factors such as chemical and bacterial action also contributed to the conversion. Meanwhile the weight of overlying sediments compacted underlying sediments into hard shales, sandstones, limestones, and other rocks formed of loose particles cemented or compacted together.

Geologists generally believe that after the organic matter was converted into oil droplets and gas, through compaction it was squeezed out of its source rocks and filtered into adjoining porous formations along with some of the original sea water.

Undoubtedly much of this oil and gas continued to move through porous rock until it reached the surface. But not all escaped; much accumulated in structural and stratigraphic subterranean traps.

Structural traps created by the folding and buckling of the earth's crust, include arches and domes. Oil and gas, being lighter than the associated water, tended to collect in the crests or tops of these folded or uplifted anticlines where it was contained by overlying layers of non-porous rock. There are also faults or vertical displacements of underground formations which block further movement of fluids by sealing them against non-porous layers.

Stratigraphic traps are found in areas where the nature of the porous rocks carrying oil and gas becomes non-porous and limits lateral and upward movement of underground liquids. This type of trap usually is found around the flanks or edges of uplifts.

PERMIAN BASIN

An example of an area where oil traps are numerous is the Permian basin of Western Texas and Southeastern New Mexico. Sediments in the basin reach a maximum thickness of about 30,000 feet. Its fields have produced oil from rocks of many different geologic ages for a cumulative total of 10 billion barrels in the last 42 years. The 115,000-square-mile basin is so huge that it has five smaller basins and even several buried mountain ranges within its broad outlines.

It had its beginnings several hundred million years ago. At that time mountain ranges began to grow to the south and southeast of the basin, and smaller uplifts formed within the depression. Warm, shallow seas alternately advanced and retreated through long periods of geologic time. Sometimes when seas retreated, erosion carried away some of the newly deposited sediments.

Toward the end of the Permian period, 240 million years ago, the seas began to retreat, leaving behind huge inland bodies of saline water. Thick deposits of sediments were laid down in these salty waters as the surrounding mountains eroded away. As the seas continued to evaporate they left behind great thicknesses of salts. Tremendous barrier reefs of limestone also developed in various places along the fringes of these inland seas.

Later in geologic time the area eventually became dry uplands, and the surface of the earth above the subterranean basin was shaped into its present form which high plains, level prairies, sand dunes, and lesser mountains and hills.

Earth scientists work daily to unravel the complex geology of buried sediments in the Permian and other major subterranean basins in the U. S. They construct geological and geophysical cross - sections and maps that depict the basins as they were during the various geologic periods in the misty past. In this manner they acquire new knowledge about the origin of oil and the most likely places for its accumulation.

SLOW WORK

This type of geological exploration is slow, tedious work. States that have oil production today were the most obvious places to begin the search. For the future, geologists are looking not only at such states as Oregon, Washington, Nevada, Arizona and Florida, but also at the continental shelves off our coasts. These states and the undersea shelves have large areas of sedimentary rock, but to date little exploratory work has been done. As more wells are drilled in the years ahead the geologists' knowledge of underground formations in these areas will grow. And as their knowledge grows so does the possibility that commercial oil production will be found.

Film Is Available On Loan Basis

"The Challenge", a 20-minute sound strip film which describes the American Petroleum Institute's vocational training program, is available on a loan basis from the Dallas office of the API.

The film was produced with the cooperation of the Petroleum Extension Division at the University of Texas. It dramatizes the personnel training problem and explains the materials available from API for use in intra-and inter-company training, and in individual self-improvement programs.

Demos' Platform Is Uncontroversial

HOUSTON (AP) — The new Democratic national platform includes one sweet and one bitter pill for the oil industry.

Otherwise, the Atlantic City document practically ignores the industry when compared with the party's 1960 platform.

There had been some speculation President Lyndon B. Johnson believed such action would be politically wise in view of his former Senate role as a consistent defender of the industry.

Since becoming President on Nov. 22, Johnson has confined his public remarks about the oil industry to a Dec. 9 announcement he wants the Interior Department and not the White House to set national oil policy.

The new platform, unlike the 1960 document, ignores such controversial issues as oil imports controls and the industry's 27½ per cent depletion tax allowance.

The natural resources section, however, promises to "sustain and promote strong, vigorous domestic minerals, metals, petroleum and fuel industries."

But the platform's preamble includes what amounts to an endorsement of the Federal Power Commission's authority to control the wellhead prices of natural gas sold wholesale into interstate commerce.

Goldwater, like Johnson, also supported the ill-fated natural gas price decontrol legislation.

WANTED!
MEN—WOMEN
from ages 18 to 52. Prepare now for U.S. Civil Service job openings in this area during the next 12 months.
Government positions pay as high as $446.00 a month to start. They provide much greater security than private employment and excellent opportunity for advancement. Many positions require little or no specialized education or experience.
But to get one of these jobs, you must pass a test. The competition is keen and in some cases only one out of five pass.
Lincoln Service has helped thousands prepare for these tests every year since 1948. It is one of the largest and oldest privately owned schools of its kind and is not connected with the Government.
For FREE information on Government jobs, including list of positions and salaries, fill out coupon and mail at once—TODAY. You will also get full details on how you can prepare yourself for these tests. Don't delay—ACT NOW!

C. A. McDONALD

C. A. McDonald is well into his second career. He had been a fuel oil pumper for the Texas & Pacific Railway Company for twenty years when he joined Cosden on January 17, 1949, as a yardman.

During his fifteen years with Cosden he has been at the loading rack and assistant pumper. Being a dispatcher for the products pipeline has been his assignment for the past two years.

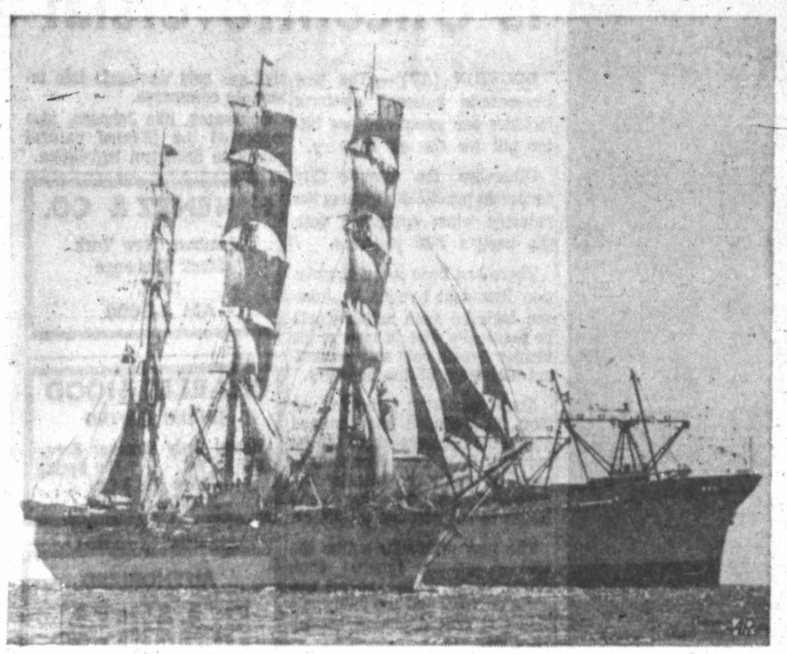

A Louisianan by birth, he hails from Evangeline Parish. In his native state he became associated with the railroad, transferring to Big Spring in 1930.

McDonald devoted considerable leisure time to hunting and fishing until a flurry with his heart dictated that he become a television fan. He and his wife, the former Martine Simmons, who was a Big Spring girl, thrive on reading. She is an LVN at the Howard County Hospital Foundation. Their home is at 2006 Eleventh Place.

A Mason, both he and his wife are active in the Order of Eastern Star. They are members of St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

MAJ. C. R. LILLIE JR.

Maj. Lillie Transferred

Maj. Charles R. Lillie Jr., aviation physiological officer at Webb AFB, departs next week for an assignment with the 6510th USAF Hospital at Edwards AFB, Calif., the home of the Air Force space pilot training program.

Maj. Lillie has been stationed at Webb AFB since April, 1960, and has been in charge of the aviation physiological training. In his new assignment, he will assist in training pilots in the USAF space pilot program and will be associated with the X-15 project, the air pressure indoctrination program and will serve as supervisor of the overpressure chamber.

The overpressure chamber is used in treating air crew members who may on occasion suffer from nitrogen gas bubbles in the blood system. This condition is caused by too rapid an ascent during flying.

Maj. Lillie was born in Athens, Ohio. He has 15 years service, with four of them spent in overseas tours of duty. He served in England from January, 1944, to July, 1945, and in Alaska from February, 1951, to February, 1953.

During World War II, he served as an enlisted laboratory technician. He attended Ohio State University and was graduated with a bachelor of science degree in 1950. In November, 1950, he received a direct appointment as a second lieutenant in the Medical Service Corps.

Maj. Lillie is married to the former Elna Jane Howden of Olex, Ore. They have three children: Gretchen, 14; Richard, 12; and Janet, 7.

Paul Ausmus Gets Master's Degree, To Join HCJC

Paul D. Ausmus received his master of science degree at commencement exercises at Abilene Christian College on Aug. 21 and is joining the faculty of Howard County Junior College.

Ausmus received his bachelor of arts degree from St. Mary's University in 1961 and was employed in the social service department of the Big Spring State Hospital for one year prior to his post graduate studies. He was reared in Big Spring and was graduated from Peacock Military Academy in 1956.

Mr. and Mrs. Ausmus and daughter, Stefanie, will reside in the Silver Heels Addition (Box 175, Sterling City Route). They are members of the Episcopal Church.

He is to teach biology and chemistry at Howard County Junior College during the coming school year.

Lieutenants To Get Promotions

Twenty-four first lieutenants at Webb Air Force Base were notified last week of their selection for promotion to captain. The announcement was made by the Officers Section of Base Personnel.

Effective dates of the promotions range from Oct. 29, 1964, to Sept. 24, 1965. Selected for temporary captains are 1st. Lts. Hubert L. Blake, Guy F. Casey, Louis Dunlap, Gilbert F. Dunne, Thomas H. Edge, William D. Hales, John E. Hassmann, Walter E. Kowalik, E. J. Legendre III, Thomas L. Legler, Edward R. Maney, Ronald McKinley, Jerry E. Pankonen, Robert E. Price, Neal T. Reavely, Jerry L. Sapp, Ray A. Seidel, Jerry B. Smiley, Ludwig A. Soder, William P. Stewart, Franklin D. Strickler, Paul M. Sullivan, Eugene H. Vieh, and Robert W. Wright.

Road Deaths Up

AUSTIN (AP) — State police said Saturday 1,776 traffic deaths have occurred in Texas this year, a 13 per cent increase from the 1,572 a year ago.

Cooper's Plane

WASHINGTON (AP) — Astronaut Gordon Cooper has bought a new airplane. Beech Aircraft Corp. said Friday its Houston distributor sold him a four to six passenger Beechcraft Baron. It retails for $59,000 to $65,000.

Early Flight Schedule To Start Monday

The long-awaited early morning and late evening flights of Trans-Texas Airways Convairs between Big Spring and Dallas are set to begin at 6:03 a.m. Sept. 1.

Flight 424, first to arrive, will get passengers to Dallas at 7:53 a.m., with one stop at Abilene. A return flight, No. 197, will leave Dallas at 7 p.m. and arrive in Big Spring at 8:52 p.m.

An evening flight will leave Big Spring at 7:29 p.m. and arrive in Dallas at 9:06 p.m. A morning flight to Big Spring, arriving at 10:38 a.m., leaves Dallas at 8:45 a.m.

A hospitality hour, sponsored by Trans-Texas Airways, will be held at the Webb AFB Officers Open Mess at 6:30 p.m. Monday, to commemorate the first new Convair flight the next morning.

Chamber of Commerce President John Taylor has notified those invited to the event, including the Chamber board of directors, aviation committee, Ambassadors Club, Big Spring mayor and city commissioners, Howard County Judge and commissioners, all news media, the wing commander, and depty commanders of Webb AFB.

The new flights, with connections in Abilene for Austin, and in Dallas for all major northern and eastern cities, will enable air passengers to reach their destinations without long lay-overs. Big Spring business men may leave Big Spring, attend to a day's business in Dallas, and return home the same night.

NEW ADVENTURE FROM HARLEY-DAVIDSON
*f.o.b. Milwaukee

Meet the M-50. New from Harley-Davidson. Continental styling, American standards of quality. Under an all-steel, welded frame, the M-50 packs a spirited 50 c.c. engine that's so easy on fuel it puts nearly 300 miles between filling stations. Take a test ride. Glide through the gears, level off at 40 m.p.h. for some of the smoothest cruising on two wheels. Husky internal expanding brakes bring you back down safely, swiftly. And its personality? Adventuresome, undemanding, but definitely split — one side for fun, the other for low-cost, practical transportation. One ride and you'll agree — the Harley-Davidson M-50 is the greatest new go on wheels. See it at:

Additional Family Member

Klaus Limbacher (seated left) has been added to the R. J. Ream household, 508 Highland Drive, for the coming school year as a student under the American Field Service International Scholarships. Members of the family who are looking on as Klaus shows them where Wesel, West Germany, his home, is, are Jimmy (left), Mrs. Ream and Ricky (right).

Exchange Student Finds New Experience Enjoyable

Klaus G. Limbacher likes color television, New York skyscrapers, wide - open spaces, turnpikes, American food, and soccer. But not necessarily in that order.

He speaks precise English with ever-so-slight accent, thinks Americans are "unexpectedly so friendly," finds cars in the United States large, wears continental-cut slacks, is unaccustomed to air conditioning and is an ex-bricklayer.

Klaus is a 17-year-old gangling young man with black horn - rim glasses, a bushy blonde haircut, and shy personality. But he's quite fascinating.

He is German, but from appearances he could be the young man next door, or the lad you saw playing the trumpet in the high school band, even a college student home for the summer.

SPEAKS WELL

Although he speaks excellent English, he says he knows only about 80 per cent of the words he hears in a conversation. The other 20 per cent are largely idioms and slang.

Klaus is in Big Spring as the city's first foreign exchange student. He is staying with the R. J. Ream family, 508 Highland Drive. A Klasse 10 student at the Staatliches Gymnasium in Wesel, West Germany, he will be here until the third week in June when he will return to complete the 13th form of his school.

The American Field Service International Scholarships is the program responsible for bringing Klaus to Big Spring, the purpose of the venture being to expose him to as nearly a normal experience in school and in a home as is possible.

The Ream family was selected from among applicants by AFS to take Klaus into its home. It was selected on the basis of information developed in interviews and questionnaires filled out by both the family and the student.

JOINS FAMILY

Klaus has already become a regular member of the household, although he has been with the Reams less than two weeks. It had originally been planned that he would have his own bedroom, but he insisted on staying in the same room with Ricky, the Ream's oldest son who is a senior at Big Spring High School. The two boys, who have become close friends, work as a skillful team during an interview. Klaus does the talking and Ricky helps if interpretation is needed.

So far, Klaus has been spending a great deal of his time in the Ream residence getting accustomed to American home life. He has gone to several shows including the melodrama in the City Park, "Dirty Work at the Crossroads," and Thursday he attended one of the high school's student council meetings.

To Klaus, the United States is a different experience. In Germany, all advertising on television is done between 7:15-8 p.m. with two stations running from 5-11 p.m. on weekdays and beginning at 11 a.m. Sunday. All television is the pay variety, with each family paying seven marks a month for it.

Klaus is used to eating one big meal a day, but around 1 p.m. instead of the evening. At 8 p.m. a light snack in Germany is the custom, being comparable to our noon meal.

DIFFERENT SYSTEM

In Germany, students pay only for their books while the rest of their education is government subsidized. Many of the students go to vocational schools, with only a select few, who can pass certain tests, getting the opportunity to continue in higher education. Klaus would like to be a lawyer or writer after he completes two years of army service and receives his degree from a German university.

Klaus had never heard of Mickey Mantle before he came to Big Spring. But then no one here probably ever has heard of the sports stars that are big names in Germany, either. Soccer and bicycle racing are the two biggest European sports, with big names getting good salaries, the same as in this country.

When it comes to language, Klaus is well-versed. He speaks German and English fluently, and reads French and Latin. He has been studying English six years.

Committee Meets

The public health and safety committee of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, after a two-months vacation, is scheduled to meet at 5:15 p.m. Thursday in the Chamber conference room. Charles Weeg, chairman, requests the presence of all members.

Army Boss Says Weapons Far From 'Conventional'

CLEVELAND (AP) — Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus R. Vance has declared to label tactical nuclear weapons as "conventional" — a description used by Sen. Barry Goldwater —is "dangerously misleading and totally inappropriate."

Vance asserted that typical battlefield nuclear weapons now have destructive power several times greater than the strategic bombs which wiped out two Japanese cities in World War II.

His address was prepared for the Veterans of Foreign Wars convention, at which the Republican presidential nominee spoke Tuesday.

The particular target was Goldwater's proposal that a way should be developed to provide the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) "with its own stock of small, tactical nuclear battlefield weapons."

Goldwater told the veterans that "these small conventional nuclear weapons are no more powerful than the firepower you have faced on the battlefield."

Vance zeroed in on this portion of Goldwater's speech. He did not directly mention Goldwater or his speech, arriving at the issue by saying there were 291,000 American battle deaths in World War II and in case of all-out nuclear war the toll of "Americans alone would be equal to 300 World War II's."

"But I have been speaking, to this point, of strategic weapons," Vance said. "Some have suggested that tactical nuclear weapons are another matter, that they should be considered 'conventional' weapons, no more deadly than the weapons of earlier days, to be used without special safeguards...

"How 'conventional' was the 'small' weapon over Hiroshima? The typical tactical weapon has several times its yield, and the nuclear firepower available to a single infantry division is hundreds of times the destructive force of the bombs which destroyed both Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

"The largest blockbusters of World War II are like hand grenades compared to these infantry support weapons of today.

He cited statistics on this nation's strength in planes, missiles, Polaris submarines and other fighting power as well as nuclear force.

"Since 1961 there has been a 150 per cent increase in the number of nuclear warheads and a 200 per cent increase in the total megatonnage in our strategic alert forces," he said.

THE PERFECT SETTING for an old-time melodrama is the spacious city amphitheater. This month's production, "Dirty Work at The Crossroads," was staged there Aug. 21-22, with two newcomers, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Shaver in the lead roles. As "Nellie", blonde Mrs. Shaver protected "Adam", played by her husband, from the villianess, left, played by Mrs. Robert Tatum.

LOCAL SUPPORT is vital for the continued function of any theater group. Among the generous patrons who have continued to support the local productions are community leaders shown above. Seated are Mrs. R. V. Middleton, Mrs. R. L. Beale and Mrs. W. Earl Ezzell, and standing, Middleton and Beale. Their patron memberships for unlimited admissions makes it possible for the theater to plan a full year's program.

"THE PLAY'S THE THING"

A HEAVY HAND with the grease paint is sometimes needed to turn a pretty girl into one that isn't. The magic of make-up contributes to illusion, always the backbone of theatrical drama, and two who are talented with its use are Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Economy. Here they determine the make-up application necessary for a character portrayed by Mrs. John D. Arnold.

THE WORLD'S A STAGE and fantasy is fun at any age. Board members for the Little Theater of Big Spring spend their days with jobs, families or community affairs but in the evenings they relax in a world of make-believe. Most have had several years experience as actors, producers or directors. Bob Lewis, right, makes a point as scripts were scanned last week. From left are Mrs. Harold Davis, Chaplain Max Maguire and Ron Carr. Mrs. Jack Burnett is seated.

CURTAIN CALLS are not for behind-the-scene workers such as Mrs. Jimmy Ray Smith, Mrs. Morris Robertson and Mrs. Bob Lewis. However, the success or failure of opening night depends on how well they have provided publicity. As members of the poster committee, these three tell the town when a new production is in rehearsal.

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, AUGUST 30, 1964

MRS. MACK WAYNE ALEXANDER

Miss Joyce Shoults Marries At Forsan

The wedding of Miss Joyce Anita Shoults and Mack Wayne Alexander was solemnized Saturday evening in the Forsan Baptist Church. The Rev. Mack G. Alexander, father of the bridegroom, performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Shoults, Forsan, and the bridegroom's parents are the Rev. and Mrs. Alexander, Rt. 2.

Clydel Chapman sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "Because" accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Mac Robinson. Mrs. J. L. Overton played "The Lord's Prayer" on the organ at the close of the ceremony.

The vows were repeated before a wedding arch accented with a background of palms and emerald foliage, and candelabra holding cathedral tapers completed the arrangements.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in a formal dress of Chanfilly lace over satin. The fitted bodice was accented with tiny covered buttons and had long petal point sleeves. The full-length skirt featured a V-shape line accented with lace ruffles at the hem. The bridal bouquet of white orchids and feathered chrysanthemums was tied with satin picot ribbon and carried atop a white Bible.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Beverly Cisna, Odessa, maid of honor, was dressed in an orchid street - length frock of whipped cream styled with a full skirt and draped neckline. She wore an orchid net pill box hat, and carried a nosegay of white pompon chrysanthemums with white satin streamers. The bride's sisters, Mrs. C. C. Gardner Jr., Spur, and Mrs. C. G. Grigg, served as matron of honor and bridesmaid respectively.

The altar tapers were lighted by Mrs. Jimmie Shoults, sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Wanda Alexander, sister of the bridegroom. All the feminine attendants were identically dressed.

Jim Alexander served his brother as best man, and groomsmen were Jackie Shoults, Forsan, brother of the bride, and Maxey Mullins, Abilene. Ushers were Jimmie Shoults, brother of the bride, and Lynn Mattis, Abilene.

For a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N. M., the bride wore a three-piece linen suit of brown and beige with beige accessories and the orchid corsage from her bouquet.

The couple will make their home in Eunice, N. M., where he will be associated with the Geophysical Corporation.

The bride is a graduate of Forsan High School where she was a member of the Honor Society, Future Homemakers of America, Spanish Club, Student Council, and valedictorian of her graduating class. She attended Hardin-Simmons University and was a member of the Texas Student Education Association and the Cowgirls.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Big Spring High School, attended Hardin-Simmons on a football scholarship and was a member of Sigma Delta Sigma and the Geology Club. He received his B. A. degree in geology.

RECEPTION

A reception was held in Fellowship Hall following the ceremony. Guests were received by the bridal couple, the parents and the feminine attendants.

The bridal bouquet and the attendants' nosegays formed a centerpiece at the refreshment table. White tapers in crystal candelabra and a crystal punch bowl completed the appointments. The three - tiered wedding cake was adorned with roses and orchid accents and topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Miss Orveta Fryar registered guests, and house party members were Miss Nell Ganner and Mrs. A. O. Jones, Mrs. J. H. Cardwell and Mrs. J. W. Overton, all of Forsan.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Adams, Abilene, were out of town guests.

REHEARSAL DINNER

The bridegroom's parents entertained with a rehearsal dinner Friday evening in their home at Elbow for a wedding party of 25. The wedding attendants were presented gifts by the bridal couple.

Little Theatre Opens Membership Drive

Since the mid and late forties, "little theater" has hovered over the Big Spring scene. At times it was a vigorous movement, at others just a ripple. The present group, The Little Theatre of Big Spring, began in 1960 with a top to bottom reorganization. Since then, there has been a period of steady growth.

What had once been the city museum in City Park was acquired by the theater group several years ago. It has been renamed the Prairie Playhouse, and at the moment is used to house equipment and sets and as a sometimes rehearsal area. It has been partially converted for use as a small theater, but at the moment is lacking in heating and cooling facilities, resulting in many a search for rehearsal space. The Cosden Country Club, Howard County Junior College and the Chamber of Commerce have many times come to the rescue. The future fate of the Playhouse is undecided, but for now it's all the Little Theatre has to call home.

ON BOARD

Presently serving on the board are Bob Lewis, president; Ron Carr, vice president of production; Mrs. Harold Davis, vice president of business; Chaplain Max Maguire, treasurer; Dr. Milton Talbot, secretary; and Mrs. Jack Burnett and Art Clonts, members at large. The board is spearheading the current season ticket drive. It will include an intensive mail-out campaign and concentrated effort through all news media. Already a number of patrons have renewed their support as a result of the mail campaign.

For a number of years, the Little Theatre presented the Easter Sunrise Pageant, staged at the park amphitheater. The most recent innovations undertaken are the yearly children's play and the summer melodrama. On occasion, a complete summer season has been offered very successfully. Last season's plays were "Dial M for Murder," "My Three Angels," "The Emperor's New Clothes" and "George Washington Slept Here." The 1965 season will include a fifth play at no increase in season ticket prices.

FALL SCHEDULE

The plays and their dates are "The Solid Gold Cadillac," (comedy) Oct. 2-3; "Hansel and Gretel" (children's play) Dec. 11-12; "Bus Stop" (light drama) Feb. 12-13; "All the King's Men" (drama) April 2-3; and "The Man Who Came to Dinner" (comedy) May 14-15. Season membership tickets are now on sale and may be purchased from Dr. Talbot, membership chairman, or from any theater members.

Tryouts are being held today at 2 p.m. at Prairie Playhouse for "The Solid Gold Cadillac." Director is to be Mrs. Norman Spencer, who holds a BA degree in directing from Tulane University. Any interested person is urged to come and read for a part.

Miss Johnson, W. D. Pate Wed In Church Ceremony

MRS. WILLIAM DEXTER PATE

Wedding vows were pledged by Miss Kathryn Mae Johnson and William Dexter Pate Saturday evening in the First Christian Church. The Rev. James A. Puckett, pastor of the Baptist Temple, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Johnson Jr., 406 Birdwell Lane, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William E. Pate, 1703 Johnson.

Mrs. Bob Simpson, organist, played traditional selections preceding the ceremony and accompanied Mrs. Carl Bradley who sang "Because" and "Whither Thou Goest."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, approached the altar down a bridal aisle decorated with tall tapers entwined with huckleberry and satin streamers. Behind the altar a background of emerald foliage and huckleberry was illuminated by seven-branched candelabra. Baskets of white gladioli, stock and daisies accented the setting and candelabra flanked the altar and the choir loft.

The bride's formal gown of bouquet taffeta was designed with a sheath silhouette featuring a Sabrina neckline bordered with Guipure lace. The lace was repeated on the bracelet-length sleeves and edged the divided overskirt that swept into a chapel-length train. She wore a caplet covered with a handmade rose and lilies of the valley and a tiered veil of English illusion.

The bridal bouquet of stephanotis and gardenias was styled in a cascade arrangement showered with picot ribbon and was carried atop a satin and lace covered Bible.

She wore a gold engagement bracelet belonging to her paternal great-grandmother, the late Mrs. Daisy Cook, a blue friendship garter and her traditional borrowed item was the veil belonging to Mrs. Tommy Rutledge.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Karon Koger was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Jeanie Johnson, sister of the bride, Miss Deane Mansfield, Mrs. Don E. McCown, Mrs. Rutledge and Mrs. Bob McAdams.

The feminine attendants were identically dressed in floor-length dresses of primitive green peau de soie. The gowns were fashioned with fitted bodices featuring rounded, scooped necklines and short sleeves. The A-line skirts were accented in the back with a bow and watteau panels. Their headpieces were matching tulle bows covered with seed pearls, and they carried cascade arrangements of white daisies decorated with satin leaves, maline bows and white satin streamers.

Laura Leigh Hansen, Odessa, cousin of the bride, was the flower girl and wore a white empire style dress of silk organza styled with a bow in the back. She wore a headband of daisies and carried a white basket of daisy petals.

The bridegroom's father served as best man, and groomsmen were Jack Wilson Jr., Greg Pate, brother of the bridegroom, Delbert Vaughn, Eddie Stokes of El Paso, and Jimmy Johnson, brother of the bride.

For a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the bride wore a two-piece royal blue knit suit with a beige crepe blouse and beige accessories. Her corsage was from the bridal bouquet.

Following the honeymoon, the couple will make a home in El Paso where both will attend Texas Western College for their junior year. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority and he is affiliated with Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. Both are graduates of Big Spring High School.

RECEPTION

A reception was held at Big Spring Country Club following the ceremony. Guests were greeted by the bridal couple, their parents and the feminine attendants.

Miss Mozelle Groebl registered guests, and house party members were Miss Judy Jones, Miss Linda McNew, Miss Ann Heith, Miss Kay Slate, Mrs. Joe Bond, Mrs. Bob Lewis, Mrs. Frank Dowdy of El Paso, and Miss Vicki Wall of Odessa.

The refreshment table was decorated with a candelabrum arranged with white daisies and stock. The cloth was white linen overlaid with green net, and the appointments were silver and crystal. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Out-of-town guests were Tommy McNutt, Miss Nancy Ulig and Ed Sullivan, El Paso; Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Blain and son, Jimmy, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hansen and children, Gary, Sally, Scott and Laura, Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Pate, grandparents of the bridegroom, Sanger; Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Telford and daughter, Susie, Greenville; Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Eldridge, Mr. and Mrs. Buster Palmer and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Telford and son, Scott Allen, Fort Worth.

Also, Mr. and Mrs. Jackie Dunn, Weatherford; Mr. and Mrs. Allen Faulkner and children, Richard, Bobby and Gary, and Mrs. C. L. Faulkner, grandmother of the bridegroom, Nixon; Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Barnard and Miss Cathy Colligan, Midland; Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Starling and children, Mike and Margaret, Houston; Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Archer, grandparents of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. T. D. REHEARSAL DINNER

The bridegroom's parents were hosts at the rehearsal dinner held Friday evening in the Blue Room at Cosden Country Club. Gifts were presented to the attendants, and 25 guests attended.

Party Compliments Mrs. E. L. Masters

Mrs. Elmer L. Masters was the guest of honor at a tea Thursday afternoon hosted by members of the NCO Wives Club. The party was held in the new lounge at the NCO Open Mess at Webb Air Force Base.

Guests were received by Mrs. Masters, Mrs. Lorn Kenitzer and Mrs. W. A. Wheeler. They were presented corsages of bronze chrysanthemums centered with yellow roses. Also, Mrs. A. F. Taute, a special guest, was presented a corsage.

Other guests were Mrs. Edward J. White Jr., Mrs. M. U. Shareck Jr. and Mrs. George E. Frank.

A get-acquainted session was held as guests were served at the punch table presided over by Mrs. Arthur Sanders. An ecru lace cloth covered the table, and an arrangement of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums and roses completed the decorations. The floral arrangement was presented to the honoree following the affair.

Tea and coffee were served from a silver service at a second refreshment table. Mrs. Johnny Clements was in charge.

Welcoming Party Held

An informal party Friday evening for Klaus Limbacher, foreign exchange student from Germany, and members of the high school student council and annual staff was held at the Big Spring Country Club. Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Ream, 508 Highland, were hosts. They were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Good, Midland.

The refreshment table was centered with an arrangement of gold chrysanthemums accented with a "Welcome" banner. Punch, chips and dips were served from silver appointments.

About 50 young people took part in a game session and joined the guest of honor in playing the German Basket Game. A dancing session followed, and Limbacher demonstrated dance steps that are popular in his country.

Trip To Temple

COAHOMA (SC) — Mr. and Mrs. Ralph White left Monday for Temple where Mrs. White will be admitted to Scott and White Clinic.

Party Held For Bride

COAHOMA (SC) — A bridal shower was held Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m. for Mrs. Danny Stoker, the former Miss Bessie West, in the home of Mrs. F. M. Holley, 213 N. 4th.

Hostesses were Mrs. W. C. Phillips, Mrs. Harvey Newsom, Mrs. A. K. Turner Sr., Mrs. W. R. Morrison, Mrs. Clovis Phinney Sr., Mrs. Jack Lindermon, Mrs. Fred Adams, Mrs. M. A. Lilly and Mrs. Ruth Shive.

The refreshment table was laid with a white cutwork cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow roses. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

About 40 guests called to honor the new bride.

Girl Scout Course Set Wednesday

Girl Scout training for troop organizers will be held Wednesday from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Girl Scout Hut. Plans will be made for the year regarding the organizing of troops and Mrs. James Howard, Abilene, will conduct the course.

Mrs. Tricy Butler, 603 E. 18th, will be in charge of the free nursery for those attending the session.

Miss Sherry Kay Stevens Marries Freddie C. White

Miss Sherry Kay Stevens and Freddie Cad White exchanged wedding vows at 8 o'clock Saturday evening in a ceremony performed at the East Fourth Baptist Church. The Rev. Billy D. Rudd, associate pastor, officiated.

The double ring rites were read before an altar where seven-branched candelabra, holding cathedral tapers, flanked basket arrangements of white chrysanthemums, gladioli and carnations. Emerald fern trees formed a background for white standards with satin roping which marked the bridal altar. Pews were marked with white satin bows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Stevens, 606 Aylford, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. White, Silver Heels.

MRS. FREDDIE CAD WHITE

TAFFETA GOWN

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of white silk taffeta, the neckline outlined with rose and leaf appliques of Alencon lace complemented by three-quarter length sleeves and short, white lace gloves. The empire bodice was enhanced by hand run Alencon lace and was fastened in the back by tiny, self-covered buttons. The bouffant, princess paneled skirt was accented with the lace appliques in center front, and the wide, chapel train was veiled in lace. Her veil of imported French silk illusion extended in tiers to waist-length from a crown of seed pearls. She wore the traditional bride's items that were old, new, borrowed and blue.

The bridal bouquet was a white orchid surrounded with white feathered carnations adorned with picot streamers.

A program of traditional wedding music was presented by Mrs. Keats Watts who accompanied Mrs. Richard Grimes as she sang "Whither Thou Goest." As the couple knelt at the altar on a white satin prie dieu, Mrs. Grimes sang "The Wedding Prayer."

Miss Judy Stevens, Dallas, attended her cousin as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Emma Lee White, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Beverly Womack. All were identically attired in street-length dresses of pale green peau de soie styled with fitted bodices and shadow veils, and their jewelry was single strands of pearls which were gifts from the bride. Each carried a nosegay of lime green asters showered in matching satin.

Dressed similarly were the flower girl, Raina Hamby, and the altar taper lighters, Joy Stevens, sister of the bride, and Tama Green, Seminole, cousin of the bride.

The best man was Ronnie Crownover, and groomsmen were Don White, cousin of the bridegroom, and Cliff Creighton. Ushers were Jimmy Lee Stevens, Dallas, cousin of the bride, and Terry White, cousin of the bridegroom.

WEDDING TRIP

For a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the bride wore a three-piece brown wool suit with matching accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. Upon returning, the couple will reside in Lubbock where both will attend Texas Tech.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School where she served on the Student Council, was class officer and favorite, an area officer of the Future Homemakers of America and active in YMCA activities.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Big Spring High School, was class president, president of the Student Council, member of the National Honor Society and Who's Who, and served for two years as president and district officer of the Future Farmers of America. He was named to the Dean's List during his first year at Texas Tech where he plans to major in veterinary medicine.

RECEPTION

The reception for the honored couple was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church. The bride and bridegroom were joined by their parents and attendants in greeting guests who were registered by Miss Nancy Haralson and Miss Sandra Phillips.

Others in the house party were Mrs. Neal Bryant, Mrs. Novis Womack, Mrs. LeRoy Findley and Sara Lee.

The refreshment table was covered with floor-length ruffled white net over white satin and was centered with the attendants' bouquets. Crystal and silver appointments were used. The three-tiered, all-white wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom, and was served by Miss Nancy Easley and Miss Peggy Spier.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Riley Green, Seminole, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Stevens, Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Barber and Mr. and Mrs. Mel Peacock, Midland; Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Leonard, Ruidoso; Mr. and Mrs. Ransom Galloway, Spur; Mrs. B. F. Williams, Hico; Mr. and Mrs. Rennis Kauffman, Plainview; Mr. and Mrs. W. L. White, San Angelo; and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Robertson, Colorado City.

REHEARSAL DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. White were the host couple for a rehearsal dinner held Friday evening for members of the wedding party. Guests were entertained at Lamars Restaurant where the couple presented gifts to their attendants.

PARTY

The bride was honored earlier in the week at a party held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Novis Womack, 608 Aylford. Beverly Womack served as hostess.

During the evening refreshments were served and guests prepared miniature rice bags to be used at the wedding.

Meet Madame President

MRS. JACK PRICE
Barr Photo

The Opti-Mrs. Club, auxiliary organization of the Optimists, has as its president, Mrs. Jack Price, 604 George. During her year's tenure, which began in July, she will coordinate the club's activities with its brother organization.

For seven years she has assumed the varied duties connected with the job of room mother at Boydstun school where two of her boys were in attendance. She is an active supporter of the Parent-Teachers Association and will serve this year at Washington Elementary School.

Mr. and Mrs. Price have three children. They are Jerry, 13, a sports fan who will be in the 8th grade at Goliad this year; Terry, 11, a Little Leaguer and Gray Y player who is in Washington Elementary School, and Shirley, 5.

Mrs. Price serves her husband as bookkeeper and assists him in his work as agent of the San Angelo Standard Times and the Dallas Morning News.

She is a native of Montague but spent much of her youth in Big Spring and is a graduate of the local high school.

Duplicate bridge is one of her favorite leisure pursuits. However, 90 per cent of her spare time is spent with the family. In the summer the lake is their favorite site where they fish and water ski.

By JO BRIGHT

At this stage of the game, when people are inclined to take their politics even more seriously than usual, it was refreshing to hear one of the ladies wonder if there wasn't SOME WAY she could vote for Adlai!

Personally, after viewing both conventions, I could be persuaded to cast by ballot for Harry Reisner. This is despite the fact that I would no doubt alienate a number of younger friends who have already jumped on the Ringo bandwagon. (Please, no protests to the publisher — only kidding. We're still free to do that in this country, aren't we?)

I'll admit that a lot prettier candidates were the finalists in the Miss Colt .45 contest who were judged Friday at the ABC luncheon. Talked with Mrs. Elmo Phillips, who was one of the judges, too, and she has pretty daughters of her own to brag about but found some very nice things to say about those we viewed.

Dr. and Mrs. G. Edward Williams are sharing the observance of their fifth wedding anniversary with their little daughter, Jane Ann. The three left Thursday evening for Dallas where they planned to see "Camelot," visit old friends and shop. They'll return today, and coming home tomorrow are Mr. and Mrs. Charles McKaskle and Mr. and Mrs. Mon McKaskle who formed a foursome for a vacation southern-style. They were to be in Biloxi, Miss., then to the coast for deep sea fishing and in Louisiana to visit relatives.

An absolutely charming Big Spring visitor has been Mrs. Maggie Zachariah, who has been with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Zachariah. She was lunching last week at the Spanish Inn and kept the attention of diners at surrounding tables with her gay banter. She makes her home in Baton Rouge, La., and uses her hands as expressively as the French people in that area do.

Rev. Robert McDermott is back from a long-awaited month's leave spent in the New York state area. He said he has "lots and lots" of relatives there and got to visit most of them. Of course, he saw the World's Fair and historical spots in Virginia, Tennessee and Washington, D. C. He saw the musical, "Hello, Dolly," and loved it.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Heith have found it necessary to stay close to home this summer but are not going to miss much of New Orleans when they go there in October.

Mrs. W. N. Brown, sister of Mrs. Ralph Baker, is visiting in the Baker home and was a guest at the Altrusa Club patio party held at the G. T. Orenbaun home Thursday evening. Talked with Mrs. M. V. Stratton who was planning on a fishing trip to Bernice Whitmire's ranch. Another trip she's mapping in her mind is one to England to see her daughter's family, the James L. Anthonys. They're hardly gone but she's lonesome already. At the same party, Mrs. Modesta Simpson said that she and Mrs. Roy Bruce will leave today to scan the gift market in Dallas. Be gone all week.

Joy! Two of my young friends have gifted me with another cat. It's an impossible creature. Thin, weak-eyed, narrow-faced long-eared. My friend says it's a very valuable animal—probably the only one in town that's bound to be part dog. Any offers?

Young Set Has Neat, New Look

It's fashion — fashion all the way — for the much younger generation this fall.

Enchanting for their variety and orginality, these designs will make little girls and their mothers sparkle with delight.

Pleats take a multitude of turns — in dresses with high yokes, in jumpers, in blouson outfits. The A-line silhouette is a continuing favorite, as is the low-waisted look.

New fabrics have played an important part in all this fashion excitement. "Orlon" acrylic and rayon have arrived in a rich array of colors and patterns.

In the family of fabrics made of "Dacron" polyester and cotton, there are new variations such as a full - bodied whipcord. Something novel in play wear for bouncey little ones is a sturdy denim made of cotton and Du Pont stretch nylon.

Vacations Under Way

WESTBROOK (SC)—Mr. and Mrs. Ozro Allison, Otis Chalk, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Dora Fowler, Westbrook, have been visiting in Austin.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hutchins and children of Post spent part of last week at Lake Colorado City with his parents, the W. C. Hutchins, and visited in the Altis Clemmer home in Westbrook.

Jim Sexton returned to his home in Weatherford Tuesday after a month's visit with his cousin, Eddie Ranne.

Mrs. Otha Conaway, accompanied by her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Dickson, Big Spring, will make a business trip to Oklahoma this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller, Coahoma, visited his mother, Mrs. C. J. Miller, Sunday.

Mrs. Elbert Clemmer returned to her home in Cisco Saturday after a week's visit with her son, Altis Clemmer, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Robinson and daughters of Lamesa spent Tuesday and Wednesday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charley Oliver.

Mrs. Pete Ellis, a former resident now living in Andrews, visited Mrs. Frank Oglesby Monday.

MRS. DON ELLIS PETTY

Feaster, Petty Vows Repeated Saturday

Miss Orinea Fay Feaster became the bride of Don Ellis Petty in marriage rites conducted Saturday in the First Presbyterian Church at Colorado City. The Rev. Fred O. Brewton officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orin Feaster, 1030 E. 10th, Colorado City, and Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Petty, 1442 Dallas, Colorado City, are the bridegroom's parents.

Mrs. Harold Loveday, Lubbock, cousin of the bride, sang traditional wedding selections accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Glenn R. Robinson.

The bride's father escorted her to the altar and gave her in marriage. The bridal gown, fashioned by the bride, was of ivory brocade satin designed with a fitted bodice featuring a Sabrina neckline and elbow-length sleeves. The full-length, semi-belled skirt extended in a chapel train. Her veil of ivory tulle was attached to a cluster of nylon leaves and seed pearls adorned with a white velvet bow. She wore tulle mitts and carried a bouquet of gardenias and stock atop a white Rainbow Bible. Traditional items included jewelry belonging to immediate members of her family.

Miss Myrna Rae Feaster, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Miss Marilyn Doelp, Big Spring, and Miss Shannon Petty, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. They wore peach cotton satin frocks, similar in style to the bride's dress, and short jackets. Their veils of peach tulle were attached to a gardenia headpiece and they carried bouquets of gardenias and stock.

The bridegroom's cousin, Nancy Burns, Odessa, and Steve Shawn lighted the altar tapers, and Cheryl Ann Miller, Big Spring, served as flower girl. The candlelighter was attired in a dress identical to the feminine attendants.

Conard Dean Miller, uncle of the bridegroom, served as best man, and groomsmen were Phillip Bates, Denton, and Phillip Dye, Breckenridge. Royce Feaster, Kingsville, brother of the bride, and John Merritt ushered.

RECEPTION

At the reception in Fellowship Hall after the ceremony, guests were greeted by the bridal couple, the parents, the feminine attendants, Mrs. Cecil K. Miller, maternal grandmother of the bridegroom, and Mrs. H. D. Womack, maternal grandmother of the bride.

The bride's table was covered with an ivory lace cloth over peach and appointed in silver and crystal. The traditional three - tiered wedding cake, topped with satin ribbon and wedding bells, was encircled by the attendant's bouquets. The groom's table was covered in brown satin and decorated with white gardenias. White candelabra flanked the cake and a copper coffee service completed the appointments.

For a wedding trip to Colorado, the bride wore a maroon and black suit with matching accessories. Following the honeymoon, the couple will be at home at the Lubbock Mobile Lodge in Lubbock where they are students at Texas Tech.

The bride, a graduate of Colorado City High School, is in the school of home economics education, a member of the American Home Economics Association, Alpha Lambda Delta and served as a legislator in Knapp Hall. The bridegroom graduated from Colorado City High School, and is a senior student in the field of range management at college. He is a past president of Carpenter Hall and a member of Saddle Tramps.

During the summer, the bridegroom has been affiliated with the U. S. Agriculture Experiment Station in Big Spring, and the bride has served as crafts director at the Colorado City Community Center.

REHEARSAL DINNER

The bridegroom's parents were hosts at a rehearsal dinner in the Villa Inn at Colorado City. Mrs. Glenn R. Robinson played organ selections and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Loveday.

MRS. LARRY D. BROCKMAN

Brockman, Peacock Wedding Solemnized

Miss Linda Peacock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Peacock, 3623 Dixon, became the bride of Larry D. Brockman Friday evening. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Brockman, Woodson. The double ring ceremony was held in the Church of the Nazarene with the Rev. William Dorough officiating at the ceremony.

The bride was presented at the altar by her father. The white wedding arch was entwined with white bridal wreath and accented with a sunburst arrangement of white gladioli. A background arrangement of fern trees and seven-branched candelabra completed the setting.

As the couple knelt on a priedieu, Miss Brenda Mize sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "I Love You Truly." The organ music was presented by Mrs. Bob Spears.

The bridal gown of white nylon organdy was styled with a full skirt enhanced with Chantilly lace appliques. The fitted lace bodice featured a scalloped neckline, re-embroidered with pearls and crystals, and long organdy sleeves. The finger-tip length veil of tulle cascaded from a crown of pearls and crystals.

Her bouquet of white glamelias was centered with a white orchid and was styled in a cascade arrangement. She carried a white prayer book.

The bride's twin sister, Miss Kay Peacock, was maid of honor and wore a blue satin brocade frock styled with a flowing skirt below a long-waisted bodice featuring a scalloped neckline. Her blue net headpiece was topped by a satin rosette. She carried a cluster of white roses tied with blue satin streamers.

Miss Joyce Thomas and Mrs. O. K. Fortune Jr., Lubbock, were bridesmaids.

Bettina Davis served as flower girl and carried a white basket filled with blue petals. Robert Daws was ring bearer. The rings were presented at the altar on a white satin heart-shaped pillow.

John C. Brockman, Odessa, was best man, and ushers were Ray Peacock, Midland, and Larry Peacock, Dallas. Groomsmen were Robert Brockman, Wichita Falls, and George Brockman, Graham. Dale Peacock, brother of the bride, and Stephen Lavender lighted the altar tapers.

For a wedding trip to Red River, N. M., the bride wore a three-piece brown and white suit with beige accessories and the orchid from the bridal bouquet.

The couple will make a home in Wichita Falls where he is employed at the A&P Food Store and is a senior at Midwestern University. Their home address is 1909 Keeler.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and attended Howard County Junior College where she was a member of the Lasso Club, Women's Recreational Association and the volleyball squad. The bridegroom is a graduate of Woodson High School.

RECEPTION

A reception was held in the church following the ceremony with the bridal couple, the parents and the feminine attendants in the receiving line.

House party members were Mrs. John Brockman, Odessa; Mrs. Robert Brockman, Wichita Falls; and Mrs. Ray Peacock, Midland. Mrs. Jesse Morrell, Stanton, had charge of the register.

The bride's table held a crystal pedestal vase arranged with white pompon chrysanthemums and blue carnations. Crystal candelabra holding blue tapers accented the centerpiece. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom and was adorned with wedding bells and blue roses.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ben Daws, Gallup, N. M.; Mrs. Jim Hulse, Farris, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Whitaker, Henrietta; Mrs. George Brockman, Graham; Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy D. Peacock, Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Peacock and Wanda, Hobbs, N. M., and Mr. and Mrs. Don L. Meade, Dallas.

Style For Stoles Continues In Fall

Fashion's love affair with stoles goes on and on. Pauline Trigere attaches them as part of slim, body - skimming daytime wools.

Backs of the dresses are smooth but through intricate tailoring the stoles become separates in the front. Fringed, they're meant to be worn hanging loosely or looped across front bodices.

"A Potpourri of Antiques and Fine Possessions"—that is what is in store for the luncheon Sept. 3. The luncheon will begin at 12:30 p.m. in the Officers' Open Mess. Dress will be casual. Sponsors for the luncheon will be Classes 65-C and 65-E. If you have something you would like to have shown, please contact Mrs. Kenneth Monroe, AM 3-6185; Mrs. Ray Rider, AM 4-6048; or Mrs. Tom Hensley, AM 3-3102. You may be assured that anything you loan will be well cared for.

Reservations for the luncheon must be made by noon Tuesday Sept. 1. Call Mrs. D. L. Fredrick, AM 3-4769, or Mrs. W. B. Blackwell, AM 4-2960.

Another event which will take place on the day of the luncheon is the opening of the bids for the silver service. The Officers' Wives Club has a silver service which it no longer needs and any member is welcome to present a sealed bid to buy it. There are some damaged places on some of the pieces. The OWC Board will reserve the right to refuse any bid it does not consider appropriate.

HATCHET FLIGHT

Wives of members of Hatchet Flight were hostesses for a meeting of the wives of 3560th Pilot Training Squadron. There were approximately 20 women attending the meeting held in the Officers' Open Mess. A cosmetics demonstration was presented. Mrs. Robert Jerman was given the centerpiece in recognition of her service as past chairman of the group. New members welcomed were Mrs. R. W. Hunter, Mrs. Glen Young, Mrs. R. L. Hurst, and Mrs. J. I. Sorensen. Mrs. T. J. B. Preston won the attendance prize.

The Bowling League will have a meeting Sept. 3 at 7:30 p.m. in the Officers' Open Mess. There will be an election of officers. Rolloffs will begin the second Wednesday in September. Anyone who is interested in bowling is urged to attend this meeting.

Lt. and Mrs. G. W. Green have spent the weekend in Dallas and will be staying for several days this week.

The Thrift Shop will hold a sale Sept. 9 and Sept. 11. The shop will be open from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m. on both sale days. Prices will be reduced as much as possible. There will be no new merchandise received during these sale days.

A pool party was held Aug. 24 at the Park Hill Terrace. Hostesses were Mrs. Leon Whitehead, Mrs. Robert Zeller and Mrs. Robert Myers. Wives of members of Class 65-H attended.

Miss Debbie Atchley from Knoxville, Tenn., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Robert Myers.

BRIDGE

Immaculate Heart of Mary School is presenting its Annual Bridge Marathon starting in mid-September. It will be partnership play. Each team will play approximately twice a month. The marathon will last from September to April. Prizes will be awarded for the first four places. For information or registration call Mrs. Tim Thomas, AM 4-2450, or Mrs. Leland Pierce, AM 4-6585.

If you are interested in beginning sewing classes please call Mrs. Gary Heartsill, AM 3-6334. These classes will begin in October if you girls show sufficient interest.

Mrs. A. F. Taute will be conducting knitting classes beginning Sept. 14. Mrs. Taute will help those who have no experience in knitting ahead of time if you wish. For registration in this class call Mrs. James Keihle, AM 3-4344.

Mrs. John Parkhurst and Mrs. Donald McDowell were hostesses for a shower honoring Mrs. Warren Stuart who was married Aug. 15.

W. A. Bell Family Has Houseguests

WESTBROOK (SC) — Guests in the W. A. Bell home during the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Gambill and children, Clinton and Sheryl Wayne, Big Spring; Mrs. Charles Walker and daughter, Virginia, Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. John Bell, Colorado City; and their daughter, Mrs. Harold Scaief and sons, Steve, Randy and Hunter, San Benito.

Carolyn Bryant accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Kampbell and son, Timmy, and Janie Smith of Victoria to Carlsbad, N. M., where they visited the Caverns last Friday.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT RAGAN AND BECKY

Weekend Wrangler Wins Roping Event

By JO BRIGHT

On weekdays Robert Ragan is a field representative for the Security Engineering Division, Dresser Industries, Inc. Early each morning he packs the car with sample catalogs and an order book and begins his travels within a 200 mile radius to service customers who have need of his company's rock bits and tools for the drilling industry.

When the weekend rolls around, it's a horse of a different color. Matter of fact, it's a registered quarter horse — a five-year-old sorrel named Redbird. Ragan bought the Texas-raised horse from Leroy Spires and the two make a pretty good team when it's calf-roping time at area rodeos. He won a saddle several weeks ago in Snyder.

Roping is only a hobby with Ragan but it has the enthusiastic support of his wife, Charlene, and novice cowgirl, four-year-old Becky. The family resides at 203 Jefferson and are not exactly newcomers even though they did recently move here from Hobbs, N. M.

He is the son of Mrs. Dorothy Ragan, owner of a local children's wear store, and was reared here, graduating from high school in 1951. He attended Sul Ross State College and Arlington State College.

Reagan met his wife, who is from Sweetwater, while she was working as a medical record librarian at Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital. It was not a matter of love at first sight. They were introduced on a blind date and promptly forgot each other. It was a year before they met again and took a second look. They were married in 1959 in Sweetwater where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Shuff, still make their home.

Mrs. Ragan attended Baylor University and the school for medical record librarians at the University of Texas, Medical Branch, at Galveston. Her hobby is being a homemaker when she is not engaged in her profession as a registered medical record librarian. However, her interest in rodeo is increasing.

"When I first met Robert the only thing I knew about horses was that they were things to be left alone," she explained. She still follows that policy but likes to see her husband compete in roping events if her home schedule allows it. Becky is learning to ride now and helps take care of Redbird and another family friend, a boxer dog named Jody.

The Ragans had been away from this area for seven years when they returned this month.

His grandfather, Ira Wasson, was a well-known rancher and Ragan feels that this association contributed to his desire to have enough acreage to enjoy rural living some day. This is their future plan and Becky is looking forward to having a horse of her own.

The family attends services at the Christian Science Church.

Junior Woman's Forum Holds Patio Party

Mrs. Paschal Odom, 1321 Tucson, was hostess Thursday morning at a soft drink party for members of the Junior Woman's Forum and their guests.

Among the 20 members was Mrs. Dean Armbrust, who joined the forum recently. Guests were Mrs. James Kenny, Mrs. Clyde McMahon Jr., Mrs. John Davenport and Mrs. Roy Hughes.

Mrs. Odom, president, led the discussion concerning the Neiman Marcus fashion lecture which the group is sponsoring Sept. 19 in the ballroom at Cosden Country Club. Ann Randals, fashion consultant, will be the guest speaker, and tickets are being sold for $2 each.

A brunch was announced for 9:30 a.m., Sept. 10 in the home of Mrs. Don Wiley, 3203 Cornell.

Refreshments were served on the patio from a table laid with a brown linen cloth and centered with a natural mesquite log holding an umbrella plant and purple dahlias.

Shiny Legs Out For Latest Hose

A shiny nose used to be a social sin which was quickly remedied with a dab of powder. Now a shiny nose is acceptable, but shiny legs will not be if one hosiery manufacturer puts his style idea across.

His nylon sheers have a matte finish-absolutely no silken sheen whatsoever. It is the closest to a bare-legged look since bare legs.

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

Nothing whacks off the end of summer like the first day of registration at school. It's a day of great excitement for the tenth graders as well as one for the seventh level. . . Nothing exceeds it more than the first day for the first year students. Of course the younger students don't try as hard to hide the thrill of starting a new thing like the older ones do. But it is fun and something to look forward to. Don't we old folks wish we could get the message through?

It was such a pleasure to visit with the C. W. HEADS Thursday as they terminated their vacation here. The family had been on a 'birthday' trip for Mrs. Head which had most naturally taken them to Colorado Springs, Colo., where their son, Bill, is an airman at the USAF Academy. The daughters, NANCY DENISE and CATHEY stayed with their buddies here and renewed numerous friendships. Denise and Nancy, both active in school activities here during their residence, have both qualified for cheering squad work at their San Antonio school and were looking forward to getting back in the school swing. The family left Friday morning.

The Cauble family turned out in full force during the past week to attend the Sul Ross College graduation ceremonies at which JEANNINE CAUBLE received a BS degree in elementary education. Attending were MR. AND MRS. J. P. CAUBLE, MR. AND MRS. B. J. PETTY, MRS. C. M. GRISSAM, MR. AND MRS. BUSTER CAUBLE of Ackerly and MR. AND MRS. ROB ETHRIDGE and Robin Kim of Coahoma.

While they were in the vicinity, the party made a sightseeing swing around the Davis Mountains and visited the McDonald observatory as well as other points of interest.

A large number of business associates of J. D. LEONARD honored him Friday evening at Hogan Park in Midland to observe his anticipated retirement. Mr. Leonard has served the Continental Oil Co., for 38 years and will retire Sept. 1. The party for him was a barbecue given by employees from the West Texas district.

Leonard's son, the REV. WM. D. LEONARD, his wife and sons, James and John, who had spent their vacation here from Dalhart, extended it over Friday in order to be present for the big affair that honored his father.

Other than the thrill of seeing their son, AVERY (JIMMY) FALKNER JR., the next biggest point on the trip to New York for the Falkner family was seeing Mickey Mantle hit a home run.

The Falkners and her parents, MR. AND MRS. S. E. SMITH, drove to the big city and enjoyed a good stay with their eldest son and grandson who has completed his art training and is now teaching private lessons. He shares an apartment with two friends and lists as points of interests the Russian Embassy which is not far away, and for celebrity buffs he mentions the residences of Ava Gardner and Peter Lawford which are in the vicinity. Incidentally, the family did spend a day at the Fair.

BUTCH STOUTENBURG has arrived at his home in Yakima, Wash., after spending his vacation here in the home of his grandparents, MR. AND MRS. S. P. JONES, and with other relatives.

KLAUS LIMBACHER who is the German student making his home for the school term with MR. AND MRS. R. J. REAMS, is a pleasant young man who is learning a lot about American home life and is teaching his hosts in a round-about way. For instance, he had never tasted shrimp until he came here. The family was so surprised that he didn't know anything about it, Mr. Reams looked up shrimp in the encyclopedia and found that actually there is no shrimp in the European countries. I didn't know that either. . . just supposed the whole world had access to that good old delicacy.

HD Clubs Hear Talks This Week

Home demonstration club meetings held in the community this week featured a workshop and 4-H Club demonstration.

AIRPORT CLUB

Mrs. J. F. Skalicky was guest speaker and demonstrator at the Tuesday meeting of the Airport Home Demonstration Club. Members met in the home of Mrs. Marshall E. Brown, 1503 Robin, to see a demonstration on the making of artificial grapes. Also, the hostess showed the technique of making plastic leaves.

Seven members attended, and Mrs. Henry Cravens won the special prize.

The next meeting will be held Sept. 1 in the home of Mrs. A. N. Standard Jr., 504 E. 15th, when new officers will be elected.

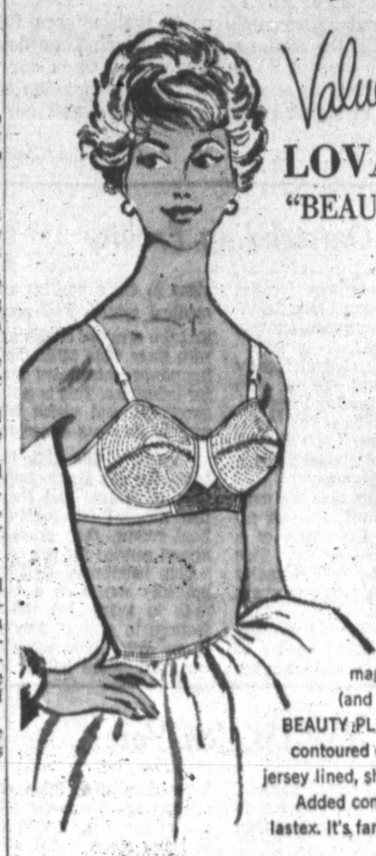

FORSAN CLUB

Kathy Shaw, assisted by Carol Parchman, gave a demonstration on making jellies from a quick and easy recipe for members of the Forsan Home Demonstration Club this week. The guest demonstrators are 4-H Club members.

Mrs. Alice Spurgin gave the club collect and secret pal gifts were exchanged.

Shrink Seam Tape Before Stitching

Always shrink narrow cotton seam tape before using it on a garment other than washable cottons. To shrink the tape, let it stand in warm water for 10 minutes. Squeeze out, then lay it flay on an ironing board and press with a pressing cloth and a hot iron until it is dry.

A Devotional For The Day

And the Word became flesh and dwelt among us, full of grace and truth. (John 1:14. RSV.)

PRAYER: Eternal Father, help us to realize more fully that Thy Holy Word is the medium through which Thou dost speak to us. Open our eyes to its inner meaning. Open our ears to hear and our hearts to accept Thy counsel. May the whole of life be growth in high adventure; through Christ our Savior. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

Outstanding Facility

Open house this afternoon for the new Malone and Hogan Clinic building marks another milestone for this community and area.

There is no purely clinical facility like it in West Texas. To be sure there are many outstanding hospitals, hospital-clinics, and clinics, but for a plant devoted purely to medical purposes this new unit establishes a new standard for the area.

The new unit means that the most modern equipment and physical facilities are put at the hands of a growing staff of specialists. This means that except for rare maladies or malfunctions, area people need not go away from home.

As this is another stone in the steady progression of unexcelled quality of care for patients, so it is another stone in city's position as a regional medical center. Few persons realize that the array of clinics and hospitals, with their wide utilization and drawing power, constitutes one of our major industries. This is a field in which excellence and vision will open the way to limitless opportunities.

Opening of this clinic building, also opens the way for revamping the first floor of Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital into sorely needed patient rooms, thus providing another urgent service for the community.

This handsome, striking structure not only stands as a testimonial of faith in today, but the design and footings to support four more floors is an extra affirmation of faith in what the future holds.

How Do You Vote?

After two weeks of urgent appeals, the Bible Class fund has raised little over a thousand dollars, or less than a third of its goal.

This appeal can't be held open indefinitely. Soon other traditionally and equally urgent appeals will move on to the stage at their traditional times, and Bible Class fund drive will have to step aside.

Long ago state courts held that Bible courses, even though non-denominational and dealing with the great moral literary and ethical values of the Book, could not be supported by tax funds.

For approximately 15 years, people here have felt a Bible course worth supporting voluntarily and have always come through with ample funds. It takes about $5,000 a year to do this; $3,500 of it to be raised by appeals through the Herald. There is no direct solicitation.

The issue is simple. If the public wants the course continued, individuals and private groups must support it. There are two ways to vote — "yes" by sending in contributions; "no" by not having a part, however small.

If you vote "yes", please do it promptly.

Legislative Report

Congress Stalled On Re-Districting

WASHINGTON — "When can we go home?" will be the big question on Capitol Hill when Congress goes back to work Monday.

Congressional leaders are loath to hazard a guess as to how long the post-convention session will last. The imponderables are the length of the fight over attempts to overturn the Supreme Court's state reapportionment decision, and the time needed to complete action on the remaining priority items on President Johnson's legislative agenda, several of which promise to stir up partisan fights.

THE PRESIDENT already has been sent 20 of the 30 items he has listed as "must" legislation for this year: Civil rights, mass transit, debt-limit increase, excise tax extension, juvenile - delinquency control, water-resources research, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration authorization, food - stamp extension, federal pay raise, military-construction authorization, highway programs, public defenders, wilderness system, Securities and Exchange Commission amendments, the poverty program, interest - equalization tax, housing amendments, nurses' training, hospital-construction - aid extension and automation commission establishment.

OF THE 10 bills left, a few are close to final action, and some have little chance of enactment this year. The reapportionment bills, of course, were not on the President's list.

The reapportionment fight is the major stumbling block to adjournment. Senate Minority Leader Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., is leading a fight to win Senate approval of an amendment, offered to the pending foreign-aid authorization bill, to delay the effect of the Supreme Court's June 15 ruling that both houses of state legislatures must be apportioned on the basis of population.

Dirksen hopes that the delay will provide time for approval next year of a constitutional amendment overturning the decision.

THE JOHNSON administration is in uncomfortable position over the reapportionment fight, for it is not a party-line dispute, but an urban-rural issue. The administration may try to skirt the whole issue by dropping the foreign - aid bill and winning from Congress instead a resolution allowing foreign-aid spending at the same level as the last year.

This maneuver would require tabling of the pending Dirksen amendment, and it is questionable that enough votes could be found for such a move.

THE SENATE will therefore temporarily lay aside the foreign-aid-reapportionment problem when it reconvenes. While other legislation is worked on, the search will continue for a solution to the reapportionment tangle.

OTHER LEGISLATION on President Johnson's priority list is close to final action.

Both the House and Senate will take up an administration bill to authorize federal funds for economic development of the 10-state Appalachia region.

Another attempt will probably be made to win final House approval of a bill to implement an international agreement regulating imports and exports of coffee.

The House is also scheduled to take up a bill extending the "Food for Peace" program, which has been passed by the Senate. Final action is forthcoming on bills passed by both the House and Senate to establish a federal Land and Water Conservation Fund, and to extend the National Defense Education Act and "impacted" areas school laws.

—By Congressional Quarterly

Billy Graham

I feel uneasy when I attend services at a certain church. I don't understand why I have a feeling of guilt. Can you explain this please?—H. P.

I think I know what your problem is. You are possibly hearing the Gospel in this one church, and the preaching of the Gospel always gives us a feeling of guilt. This is as it should be until we have our conscience cleansed through the blood of Christ. It is when we come to Christ with our sins and accept Him as our Savior that we find a release from these times of guilty feeling. If you were at peace with God, this would not likely happen. Rather than to leave off attending that church, I would suggest that you give special attention to the message and to your own personal need. Let Christ take over in your life and the peace of God will take the place of the guilt consciousness. This uneasy feeling is possibly the convicting presence of the Holy Spirit. You should be thankful He is bothering you. Without this conviction no man can come to God.

In Pantry

HONOLULU (AP) — For the first time in the history of Wheeler Air Force Base near Honolulu, a woman is supervising the pantry.

Wheeler's new food service officer is First Lt. Rilly A. Griffee, who has a home economics degree from Western Michigan University.

Passionate

SOUTH MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Firemen are painting the city's fire hydrants green, orange and red.

It isn't that the city decided the fireplugs were too drab. But inspectors are checking the output capacity of the plugs. Green means more than 1,000 gallons per minute; orange, 500 to 1,000; and red, under 500.

Poland Pushes To Increase Exports To U.S.

WARSAW—Even in adversity, the Poles trade jokes. They never tire of the oldie about the gingerbread Palace of Culture and Science, the gift from Josef Stalin which towers above the city and is a directional landmark.

"Where's the most beautiful view in Warsaw?"

"From the top of the Palace of Culture."

"Why?"

'You can't see it."

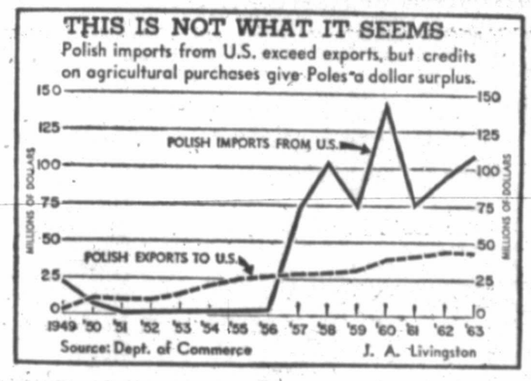

Because production hasn't been going exactly according to plan, one caricaturist draws a proud factory manager collecting his bonus for over-fulfilling his 100-ton quota in nails. Beside him is the factory's annual production, one huge 20-foot nail, weighing 191 tons.

IN HIS REPORT to the recent Party Congress, Wladyslaw Gomulka, first secretary, conceded that planning had its minuses as well as pluses. In such critical items as beef, pork, sausage, ham, potatoes, beans and vodka the per capita total available to Polish workers was less in 1963 than in 1958.

Of course, there were offsetting gains, especially in clothing. This is apparent as you stroll along Novy Swiat (Main Street). I was here less than two years ago. It seems to me there is more color, better styling and higher quality in women's dresses. And men look as if they have more than one suit.

THE DECLINE in per capita availability of food is not because production has dropped. Rather, it's because Poland must export or wither economically. "Ours," say Polish officials repeatedly, "is a poor country. To industrialize, we have to import raw materials. And to import raw materials, we must export our finished goods."

The best ham is sent to the United States—about $18,000,000 worth last year. And large quantities of bacon and butter are shipped to England. This deprives the Poles at home, but provides the cash to purchase machinery, metals, chemicals and textile materials from abroad.

A detested word in Warsaw is "satellite." Don't use it. Poles like to think that their country is independent, not a satellite orbiting politically and economically around the Soviet Union. The facts make this hard to support.

ABOUT A THIRD of the nation's foreign trade is with the Soviet Union—a reversal of the pre-World-War-II pattern. Then trade with Russia was virtually nil. This dependence on the U.S.S.R. is not to the Polish liking.

And so the Poles, while insisting that theirs is a socialist state, cling ardently and desperately to the West—especially to the United States. In the political rivalry of the Soviet Union and the United States, the Poles play one country off against the other. This is natural.

BUT IT'S MORE than a game. It's a necessity for a prideful people, conscious that, in the post-war redistribution of geography, the Soviet Union grabbed off Poland's most productive farmland.

Consequently, Polish planners have been pushing to increase exports to the United States. And they've been reasonably successful, as the statistics indicate.

In the years immediately after the war, the destroyed Polish economic system shipped next to nothing. But starting in 1949, exports to the U. S. rose from three million dollars a year to eleven million in 1950 to more than 20 million in 1954 and now are above 40 million (see chart).

IMPORTS HAVE been higher and more erratic in recent years, ranging from a low of $73 million in 1957 to a high of $143 million in 1960. This would suggest that Poland helps the U.S. balance-of-payments deficit by providing gold or other foreign exchange. That is not the case.

Most of the imports from the U. S. have been grains, shipped on credit under Public Law 480. In terms of cash—real money—the Poles have earned dollars.

But soon, starting in 1967, they're going to be faced with these credits falling due. Every Polish official in the Ministry of Finance or Ministry of Foreign Trade or the Bank Handlowy is acutely conscious of the coming need for dollars.

Heel Spurs Caused By Calcification

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has spurs on the inside of his heels. X-rays have been taken and ultrasonic treatments have been tried but they don't seem to give any relief. What do you suggest?—A. W. K.

When an injury occurs, either from a sudden, severe trauma, or from slow, persistent irritation, or from repeated, small incidents, and the body has to heal it, nature uses a good bit of calcium in the process.

This may be the knitting of a bone, or the formation of a scar. Either way, calcification —this accumulation of calcium —takes place.

Heel spurs are calcifications of a tendon attached to the under side of the heel bone. The spur itself may not be the whole story. The tendon may be torn. Or there may be bursitis, or some faulty aspect of posture or balance which puts too much pressure on a sensitive point. Being overweight is a common factor in painful spurs. For, you see, many people have spurs without any discomfort.

Here are some methods of relief:

1 — If the patient is obese—reduce!

2 — A sponge rubber cushion for the heel, inside the shoe, is a good solution for some people.

3 — Shifting the point at which you carry your own weight may make a difference. A suitable arch support, or possibly raising the heel of the shoe, may help.

4 — Hot soaks of the feet are often helpful in reducing inflammation of the bursa (bursitis) if that is a factor. Aspirin or other forms of the salicylates can be taken for pain.

5 — Occasionally soft - soled or ripple - soled shoes ease the discomfort.

6 — Injection of the area with procaine or hydrocortisone will relieve the pain.

7 — Ultrasonics, infrated, or other such applications of "deep heat" are worth trying in suitable cases.

8 — In very severe cases, surgical removal of the spurs may be necessary. This is usually successful, but new spurs have been known to form. After all, something caused the spurs in the first place! So faulty posture, overweight, or improperly fitted shoes should be corrected if any or all of these are present.

An orthopedist (bone specialist) or podiatrist (foot specialist) should be consulted to ascertain the causes and proper treatment if the simpler remedies do not ease the discomfort.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am trying to recall if I read in your column once that taking one of the B vitamins regularly will repel mosquitoes. — MRS. C. J. J.

I have mentioned that thiamin chloride, which is one of the B group, causes an odor that repels mosquitoes. This vitamin contains a sulfur radical which probably is the source of the odor. I have also had readers say it does not work for them. There's no harm in trying, however. (Insect repellants applied to the skin are effective, of course.)

For facts about the total health of you and each member of your family, Dr. Joseph G. Molner's new book, "Stay Well Every Year Of Your Life," ($5.95) is now available at your book store.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

All Lashed Up To Begin With

So what if there were one more roving reporter seeking out more delegates at another convention:

R—We are going out on the boardwalk, folks. That is where the sidelash is. Here is a representative who has agreed to answer some of our questions.

R—Tell me, sir, are you a delegate to the convention?

D—NOT YET, but I'm gonna be, in a minute.

R—How will you manage that?

D—They're passing out the curdentials.

R—Curdentials?

D—Yeah, you know, the ribbon that gets you in the door.

R—Would you say that there seems to be more credentials than delegates?

D—I DON'T think there is more of anything than delegates.

R—How about people who had a chance to be delegates but wouldn't accept?

D—They ain't tired enough yet of singing and carrying placards. When they get tired, they'll become delegates.

R—Do you imply that there is no work to being a delegate?

D—Not after you once get a chair.

R—BUT WHAT if you are not legitimately entitled to the chair?

D—Oh, you sit there saying that you will have to be carried out.

R—Has anybody been carried out yet?

D—Course not. This is a harmony convention.

R—Then why are all the people on the outside of the hall?

D—BECAUSE that's where the TV cameras are. By the way, are you sure we're on camera?

R—Yes, sir. Why?

D—Because if we're not, I'm not authorized to talk to you.

R—Authorized?

D—Sure, the rules of the caucus. We were pledged not to give out any information on our delegation's views.

R—BUT if you are in front of TV?

D—Oh, that's different. Then it's time to tell the people how we feel.

R—How do you feel?

D—Well, if you're sure this is on the network, our Governor is a louse.

R—Isn't he the head of your delegation?

D—I CAN'T talk publicly, but some of us think he is, and some of us think he isn't.

R—But you're not saying?

D—No, this is a harmony convention.

R—Do you see any signs of a backlash?

D—No, but I sure suffered once from a whiplash. Matter of fact, still do. Suit hasn't been settled yet.

R—NO, I refer to the political issue.

D—Oh, that. We can't reveal our plans, but we're planning our own frontlash.

R—What if this were ineffective?

D—Well, there's always the elevator lash.

R—I believe that might be a new one?

D—I'm not authorized to speak for the delegation—are we on camera?—but this is the one where you pick the people up and then let them down.

R—THAT'S NEW?

D—Maybe not, but it's never been called that before.

R—But you don't know what you will do finally?

D—I have been instructed not to release any information. Where is the camera? Yes, we know what we will do. We will lash up a victory—and not by an eyelash. That on the network?

R—I'm afraid so, sir.

What About Foreign Policy?

ATLANTIC CITY—As one sat listening to the emotional memorials for a few departed statesmen of recent years, so solemnly presented as a part of the last day's session of the Democratic national convention, there came to mind sad thoughts about some other Americans who seem to have been forgotten on this all-important occasion. For the omitted memorial concerns those 275 American boys who have died in the conflict in Viet Nam since 1961.

WHAT SHALL be said to the mothers and fathers, the sisters and brothers, the wives and children of the brave soldiers who gave their lives to a cause nobody here thought to honor even momentarily with silent prayer? Maybe American sacrifices in the war in Viet Nam have never been particularly related in the public mind to our own safety. Indeed, there are many people who think the loss of lives in Viet Nam has in truth been in vain. But even as the convention delegates enjoyed their carnival here on the convention floor, waving banners and tooting horns and otherwise manifesting their exuberant spirits, so by contrast, in the homes of those 275 American soldiers, there must have been the very opposite feeling—a questioning as to how many parents of other young men now in uniform may someday suffer the same anguish and heartbreak. For there are at least 17,000 American troops in Viet Nam today.

UNLIKE MOST of the issues so flamboyantly proclaimed in campaign phrases, the problem of what is or is not a sensible foreign policy touches closely the homes of millions of American citizens with sons of draft age. This, however, is typical of political strategy. The boast in high-sounding speeches always is that peace will be preserved and war avoided, that prosperity will be maintained and a depression averted. The exhortation is that the candidates named here should be accepted as men not only of great wisdom but of unbounded experience in the handling of national and international questions.

BOTH PRESIDENT JOHNSON and Senator Humphrey are earnest, able and dedicated men who would like to serve their country effectively. So also are Senator Goldwater and Representative Miller, the nominees on the Republican ticket. All politicians claim these virtues. The test is whether the candidates, upon election to office, yield to the temptations of expediency because votes may be at stake again. Few politicians are willing to go down fighting for a cause when the principle is unpalatable, though sound, if by chance votes in the next election may be imperiled. Ambition too often outweighs all else.

To overcome fears and doubts and apprehensions, public speakers today use the same devices that have won elections time and again. Utopia is promised, and when adverse tides start running, the opposition is, of course, blamed.

CONVENTIONS, unfortunately, provide few answers to public questions. Nor do they point the way to solutions of the complex problems of modern life. Now that both conventions have been held, the campaign, with its misleading dialogue, is about to begin—and in November the question will be which party has done the better job of "brainwashing" the electorate.

Procedure In Picking A Veep

ATLANTIC CITY—An embarrassment of riches complicated President Johnson's task of selecting a vice-presidential candidate. On his initial list were the names of 14 men who by a reasonably objective standard could have filled the bill, both as political partner in the campaign and as President should fate decree it.

None of the possible selections could be entirely divorced from party factionalism — pro-South, anti-South, pro-Kennedy, anti-Kennedy. All the factors of religion, race and records were weighed by the President again and again and again in reaching what could be the most important single decision of his entire career.

IF HE ACTUALLY employed his great political skill to insure a consensus for Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, which he could then appear to be ratifying, this was done with the private sleight-of-hand that is part of the President's artistry. Whether this was merely a piece of the mystification or a fact, White House staffers down to within a few hours of the announcement were saying that the choice was still between three or four names.

Except for the Mississippi - Alabama squabbles, factionalism was little in evidence at the convention.

MARK TWAIN once said of his mother that she was so kind-hearted that when she had to drown a litter of unwanted kittens, she always warmed the water. This was President Johnson's technique in the great Robert F. Kennedy elimination. With the Attorney General he blanketed everyone in the Cabinet and those who sit regularly with the Cabinet, by way of softening the blow.

Some of the ablest potential candidates for second place on the ticket went down with the Attorney General.

Adlai Stevenson would have brought a wealth of experience in both foreign and domestic policy out of a career that has seen him carry the load in times of dire adversity.

SARGENT SHRIVER has demonstrated his remarkable capacities as administrator of the Peace Corps and as a sympathetic and appealing public figure. While Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has been frank in acknowledging the severe handicap of his lack of political experience, it would be hard to match his mastery of administration as shown in how he has coped with the tangle of the Defense Department and the rival war lords and their conflicting claims.

These were among the victims in the Kennedy drowning. With the exception of Stevenson, they lacked experience in elective office, and understandably the President in casting and recasting the threads of his difficult decision, has put the emphasis on the ballot box and the hustings as a road to success.

AMONG THOSE shoved overboard a month ago as well as those who remained on the President's tote board, Humphrey was outstanding. He qualified in both departments—as a practical politician who knows what it takes to get elected and as a mover and shaker in high policy. With the possible exception of the late President Kennedy—and his contribution came in the final stages—no one can lay greater claim to the achievement of the nuclear test-ban treaty.

He put years of effort into building up the case for disarmament with a guaranteed inspection system. He has a quick, ready mind, and yet he is capable of long and serious concentration on difficult and complex problems.

College Fever Spreads Among Young Big Springers

Students Head For Campuses

Go Collegiate

Getting in the proper spirit to conquer the world of higher education are hundreds of area students who will be college bound during the next week or so. Already loyal to their chosen colleges are Larry Jones, Texas Tech; Gregg Gossett, Southern Methodist University; Wayne Baird, Texas A&M; and Jane Tamplin, Baylor University.

By JANICE NELSON

Hundreds of Big Spring students are making last-minute plans, with mixed emotions of excitement and sadness, for entering college. Many are headed for familiar surroundings; others are anticipating a new experience. A large number of Big Spring's high-school graduates have chosen to remain close to home and attend Howard County Junior College.

HCJC

Students planning to remain in Big Spring to attend Howard County Junior College for their first year are Sandra Lee Perryman, daughter of Mr .and Mrs. J. H. Perryman, 508 Benton; Sarah Ann Puckett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olen Puckett, 1207 Runnels; Jean La Voice Randell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert L. Ice Capades Booked For Odessa Showings

The 1965 edition of Ice Capades opens its engagement Sept. 16 at the Ector County Coliseum in Odessa. The six performance run will close with the Sunday 2:30 p.m. matinee performance on Sept. 20.

Six production numbers grace the ice stage. "Masquerade", featuring the music of Aram Katchaturian, opens the show; there's a delightful "Kiddie Circus", and a "Salute to Cole Porter" spotlighting many of his great hit songs. The "Annapolettes" honor the U. S. Naval Academy; "Viva Italia" presents a joyful Italian festival, and the musical talents of Vincent Youmans afford a "Hallelujah" finale, combing twin surprises in stage setting and effects.

Headlining these productions, as well as the many specialty acts, are such superb skaters as Barbara Roles, 1962 U. S. Champion; the Canadian team of Revell and DesJardins; the exciting adagio team of Jeanne and Dick Maxfield; flashing Richard Garrett; plus Doug Austin and Tia and Martin; ice-comedians Belliveau and Mueller, Freddie Trenkler, Jan Tors and Terry Head; international skating stars Gisela and Ann-Margret Frei from Sweden, Oslo's Per Larsen, and from Garmisch, Germany, lovely Gabriele.

The costumes are the creations of Billy Livingston and Celine Faur; numbers are choreographed by Ron Fletcher. The fine musical score, arranged by James Peterson, is conducted by Hal Saunders. James Trittipo, designer for Hollywood's Academy Awards presentation, is responsible for the unique sets.

Box offices for the ice extravaganza are open. In Odessa tickets may be purchased in the lobby of the Lincoln Hotel, and in Midland at the Dellwood Plaza Shopping Center. Mail orders may be obtained from Chuck Wagon Gang, 412 N. Lincoln, Odessa.

Baptist Choir To Give Concert

The Birdwell Lane Baptist Church choir will present a concert Sunday at 6:30 p.m., and this will serve as the evening worship service.

There will be several hymns and anthems, plus quartets and special numbers. The junior choir also will perform. Charles Grizzard is the director, and Mrs. Grizzard is piano accompanist and Mrs. Cal Sims, wife of the pastor, is the organ accompanist. The church is located at 16th and Birdwell Lane, and the public is urged to attend.

Lemmon Back With Comedy 'Sam' Showing

Jack Lemmon returns to the Ritz Theatre today in "Good Neighbor Sam," as a helpful young husband with two "wives" in a hilarious marital romp.

Involved are Viennese beauty Romy Schneider as the girl next door, and lovely blonde Dorothy Provine as Lemmon's wife.

The setting is a San Francisco suburb and the reason for all the excitement—and there reportedly is an amazing, and hilarious, amount of it—is the fact that Miss Schneider will inherit a multi-million dollar fortune if she is living happily with her husband. Since she has just quarreled with him, and he has moved out, Lemmon as her "good neighbor Sam" volunteers for the role. The masquerade not only upsets his own marriage, it also effects his career as an advertising man.

Edward G. Robinson guest-stars in "Good Neighbor Sam" as the proprietor of a dairy company, Lemmon's biggest account, who insists the people working for him be as wholesome as the products he sells. Hoping to pick up a million dollars for posing as Romy's husband, Lemmon also has to keep Robinson from discovering he is engaged in what looks suspiciously like wife-swapping.

Also starred in "Good Neighbor Sam," which was produced and directed by David Swift, are Michael Connors as Romy's husband who returns to his wife and is forced to move in to the Lemmon menage and pretend to belong to Dorothy; Edward Andrews, as Leminon's jelly-backboned boss; Louis Nye, as the private eye who tries to prove Romy is not happily married to Lemmon so the inheritance can go to his clients instead of to her; and Robert Q. Lewis, as a suburbanite neighbor who watches Lemmon's increasingly complicated insanities with growing confusion and concern.

Marnie

Sean Connery persuades Tippi Hedren to return the money she has wrongly taken in this scene from "Marnie," playing Wednesday through Saturday at the Ritz Theatre.

Boone, Kwan Do Switch In 'The Main Attraction'

The fans of Pat Boone and Nancy Kwan are in for a surprise when they see MGM-Seven Arts' "The Main Attraction." For in this exciting emotional drama, set against a backdrop of a small traveling Italian circus, both Boone and Miss Kwan make a complete about-face from their previous characterizations. It opens today at the State Theatre.

Boone abandons his scrubbed-face roles to play a cynical young American drifter in leather jacket and jeans, while Miss Kwan leaves behind her Oriental roles of "Suzie Wong" and "Flower Drum Song" to portray an Italian gamin who rides bareback in a trick horse act.

Also playing leading roles are Swedish star Mai Zetterling, who recently scored opposite Peter Sellers in "Only Two Can Play," Yvonne Mitchell, Kieron Moore and John Le Mesurier.

While "The Main Attraction" features the famed Boone vocalizing in four songs, offers the color and vitality of circus life, and is highlighted by a spectacular avalanche in its climactic scenes in the Italian Alps, it is primarily the story of the love of a boy and girl complicated by the interference of an older woman and the girl's brother-in-law.

Boone is seen as Eddie, beatnik singer in an Italian cafe, who is hired by Gina (Miss Zetterling) to sing in accompaniment to the circus act of her dummy and to entertain her between times. He meets the owners of the circus, Tessa (Miss Kwan), her crippled sister, Elenora (Yvonne Mitchell) and the latter's husband, Ricco (Kieron Moore), as well as the clown, Bozo (John Le Mesurier).

When Eddie and Tessa fall in love, all of these people play a part in attempting to thwart their young romance. Circumstances force the young lovers to run away from the circus, and the climactic sequence finds them trapped in an abandoned mountain chatlet threatened by a dangerous avalanche.

China Republic Shows Island's Popular Fruits

By The Associated Press

The popular fruits of Taiwan Island are depicted on a colorful new set of four stamps issued by the Republic of China, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency. Full views of the banana, orange, pineapple and watermelon appear on the new adhesives.

Also issued by China is a set of two new stamps honoring its Navigation Day. The stamps, carrying a common design, show the span of China's achievements on the high seas. Its history of early navigation is recorded in the expeditions of Cheng Ho whose treasure ship is seen on the stamps. Cheng Ho made seven expeditions to the South Pacific and along the Indian Ocean.

Eire's special Europa stamp sponsored by the European Conference of Postal and Tele-communications Administration (CEPT) will be issued Sept. 14. The stamp commemorates the fifth anniversary of the founding of CEPT. The new Irish stamp comes in two denominations, 8 shillings and 1 shilling 5 pence. The basic design represents the 22 member countries in the form of a flower encircling the CEPT emblem.

Collectors in this country wishing first-day covers may write to Irish Cachet Covers, 947 E. 32nd St., Brooklyn, N. Y. 11210. Cost of the complete set on cover costs $1.

Denmark has announced it will issue two new stamps with surcharge on behalf of the Danish Red Cross Society. The values are 35 ore plus 10 and 60 ore plus 10. The design common to both stamps will feature the portraits of the successor to the throne. Depicted will be Princess Margrethe and her sisters Princess Benedikte and Princess Anne-Marie. A Red Cross appears at the lower left.

Two new stamps have been issued by France. One stamp commemorates the 20th anniversary of the death of George Mandel (1885-1944) who served in the cabinets of both Clemenceau and Daladier. He was arrested and imprisoned following the invasion of France by Germany in World War II. Also issued by France was a stamp of 50 franc denomination honoring the 1964 Olympic Games to be held in Tokyo. It was issued in Paris on July 4.

Japan soon will issue five stamps honoring the 1964 Olympics to be held in Tokyo. A 5-yen stamp will feature the Olympic Flame and five participants. A 10-yen will depict the main stadium. The 30, 40 and 50-yen will illustrate new buildings. Each of the stamps will also bear the official Olympic five ring symbol.

Hairbow Serves Dual Purpose

AP Newsfeatures

MT. VERNON, N. Y. (AP)—Pianist Van Cliburn is thankful that women are never without hairbows these days. The fad helped him out of an embarrassing situation.

Shortly before he was to perform here, Cliburn discovered he had lost his white tie, a necessary formal accoutrement for a concert appearance.

But in the audience was Miss Diane DeSousa with a white bow in her hair. She gave it up willingly, and with two safety pins from an anonymous donor, Cliburn was able to anchor it firmly at his collar. And the show went on.

Teeners Get Tips On Togs

What's the right thing to wear if you're spending the summer as a camp counselor . . . a girl Friday in a big city . . . a salesgirl . . . a baby sitter?

The flowered shift that's perfect for a baby sitter at the beach is all wrong for a counselor at a western ranch camp, says a teenage magazine. Here are some tips on what to wear where:

A camp counselor needs clothes that can take rough, tough treatment. One of the most useful—and pretty at the same time—would be a color-drenched cover-up sweater in boucle knit. Cotton knit shorts and tops work well for almost any activity, and a vinyl-coated cotton madras parka takes to the waterfront.

A girl Friday at a big-city magazine must look cool and polished at all times. Sleeveless dresses in easy silhouettes are perfect: a red overblouse and skirt, sharp green blouson, bright yellow skimmer. Jacket dresses come in handy, too.

A salesgirl should stick to solid colors and simplicity. Relaxed silhouettes go here, too, but as a rule little sleeves and slightly darker colors are called for.

A baby sitter at the beach is in and out of the water all day, with side trips to playgrounds and snack areas. For this kind of life, bright swimsuits with cover-ups are perfect. Some of the newest coverups are cotton knit turtleneck sweaters, and long-sleeved short shifts with pleated hems.

Sleep Tights Set For Fall Wear

Sleep tights are the vogue-est thing in bedtimewear. They are currently promoted by the loungewear industry hopefully in time to pack away plenty into the trunks of next fall's college-bound coeds.

The pajamas look like leotards in vivid colors, stripes, or shadowy black, topped by blousons, old-fashioned-looking striped maillots, low-waisted Roaring '20s jerseys.

In any event, baggy pj's are not for sleeping stylishly, and warmly in winter next year. The word is sleep "tights."

PRESENTING THE NEW

Malone and Hogan Clinic

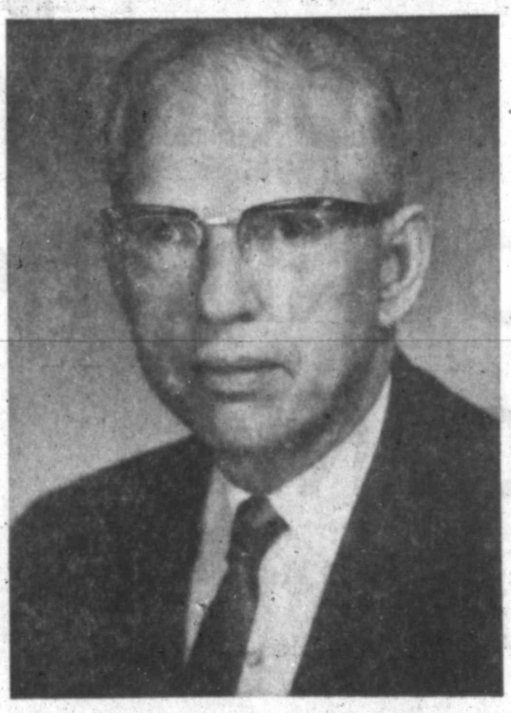

Dr. Malone's Unchangeable Choice Proved Happy One

Dr. P. W. Malone didn't have to ponder about burning bridges behind himself when he came to Big Spring. With $2.54 left out of a small sum he had borrowed to make the trip here, he was irrevocably committed to Big Spring when he arrived the afternoon of June 26, 1930.

A friend had painted a glowing picture of this West Texas city to the young Tennesseean who was just completing his internship, but by the time Dr. Malone got here, the great depression had set in and the oil boom bubble had burst.

Now, 34 years and one month later as the new Malone and Hogan Clinic, of which he is co-founder, observes its formal opening, he's grateful he didn't have money to catch the next train home.

DR. P. W. MALONE

He managed to open an office in the Petroleum Building, and gradually his practice began to grow until 1938 when Dr. J. E. Hogan approached him with a proposal that they acquire the Bivings Hospital. Out of this came the expanded hospital-clinic bearing their names, and eventually the Malone and Hogan Hospital Foundation, and now the new clinic building.

After the staff was enlarged, Dr. Malone settled to his specialty in eye, ear and nose, steadily concentrating on treatment and surgery. Moreover, he found time to work in an unbelievably large number of fields. A private pilot, he owned planes and used them in community enterprises. He served as president of the Chamber of Commerce in 1938 and has been a director many times. He headed the Downtown Lions Club in 1932 and saved it from collapse. He was president of the West Texas Memorial Museum when this was established in the early 1930s. He is the only original member of the Howard County Junior College board of trustees still serving and has served as board president several years.

Made a deacon in the First Baptist Church in 1934, he served several years as chairman, also headed the finance committee, has taught a Sunday School class for years, and is on the building committee. He also has been program chairman for many years. He is on the board of Wayland Baptist College and the board of the Baptist Memorial Geriatrics Hospital in San Angelo. He also is a member of the Knights of Pythias, Knights of Khorhassan and the Elks.

Although he no longer flies (he is a past president of the Air medics—examiner for the CAA—and holds one of the first thousand numbers in the Flying Physicians Association of America), Dr. Malone finds time for other hobbies, among them photography and high fidelity sound. His photographs of the Holy Land taken on a trip in 1952 have been shown 151 times to church and other groups. Pictures of a mission trip to Alaska and more recently to Japan (in 1963) also have been widely shown. He also is an expert in rifle and pistol matches and as an avid sportsman has hunted large game in Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico and Old Mexico.

Dr. Malone is a native of Wilson County, Tenn. and did his pre-medical work in Carson Newman College in Jefferson City, Tenn., then earned his M.D. from the University of Tennessee Medical College in Memphis in 1929. During the next year he interned at Baptist Memorial Hospital in Memphis. In 1935 he did post graduate work at the University of Indiana and in 1936 at Washington University.

He is a member of the American Academy of Opthalmology and Otolaryngology, the American Laryngological, Rhinological and Otological Society, the Texas Otolaryngology and Otological Society, and has a specialty in opthalmology and orolaryngology surgery.

For a staunch Baptist, it is of note that he met Inez Milligan at a meeting of the Epworth (Methodist) League in Memphis, Tenn., and they were married in 1926. They have one daughter, Mary Frances, and reside at 503 Edwards Blvd.

OPEN HOUSE TODAY

New Medical Facility Outstanding In Area

Open house this afternoon will present to the public the largest and most modern facility in this area for purely medical clinical purposes.

The Malone and Hogan Clinic, Ninth and Main, across the street from the original hospital unit from which the new clinic structure evolved, marks the realization of a dream of the founders 25 years ago.

From 2 p.m. to 5 p.m., the public will be invited to inspect the three-story concrete and steel structure which embodies new concepts in construction, materials, design and operation.

Brief ceremonies will be held promptly at 2 p.m. at the Main Street entrance with John Taylor, Chamber of Commerce president, presiding. Joe Pickle, long-time friend of the founders, will speak; Fred Kasch, representing the builders, will give the keys to Dr. P. W. Malone and Dr. J. E. Hogan, and in turn they will present them to Dr. Carl Marcum, clinic president. The Rev. Robert F. Polk, First Baptist pastor, will give the dedicatory prayer before Mrs. Boone (Peggy) Powell and Mrs. Janet Brigman and Mary Frances Malone, daughters of the founders, cut the ribbon symbolic of the opening.

The building houses seven distinct departments, which will accommodate 15 physicians with a dozen specialties. Each of the departments has its own waiting room. Also in the plant are spaces for X-ray, physiotherapy, records and storage, mechanical facilities, and a hydraulic elevator.

Moreover, the clinic is designed for extensive expansion as needed.

The building has 27,000 square feet of space in a ground, first and second floor arrangement. Construction is of concrete and steel frame with exterior walls of concrete slab with exposed green quartz aggregate fitted to the frame. Interior walls are vinyl and floors are asbestos tile on slab. There are no air conditioning registers, for air descends from porous, acoustical ceiling tile. Each department is zoned independently for heating and cooling. Special plate glass reduces solar radiation for the interior.

From a large records center on the ground floor, pneumatic tubes will transport records and messages to stations in the clinic and to the adjacent hospital.

Main entrance of the clinic faces west on Main Street. This opens into the reception area, from whence patients are sent to the proper departments. A large rest area with snack bar is adjacent, plus general offices, the departments for pediatrics and general surgery. From this floor, there is an entrance to the parking area.

On the ground floor are clustered the laboratories, the records room, doctors' and nurses' lounge, orthopedic and physiotherapy, X-ray and radiology departments. A 7 x 7-foot tunnel under Ninth Street connects this floor with the Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital to the north across Ninth Street.

The second floor contains the eye, ear, nose and throat, the internal medicine, the urology and the obstetrics and gynecology departments.

The building is designed and has footings so that four additional stories may be constructed as needed. Decks can be added to the parking area so that it may parallel the clinic growth. On the present two decks, more than 100 cars can be parked.

Dr. Hogan Began Service At Clinic's Original Hospital

One dream of Dr. John E. Hogan has taken on new dimensions with completion of the Malone and Hogan Clinic building, but he has not forgotten another—that of a new, larger hospital facility for the community.

The idea of a clinic was part of a proposal to Dr. P. W. Malone that they form a partnership in 1938 and purchase the Bivings Hospital. The ultimate goal, he told Dr. Malone, was a first class clinic, else he would not want to take the step. They were in perfect agreement.

Dr. Hogan might have stayed in Houston to practice after his internship at Southern Pacific Hospital (1934-35) and residency at Jeff Davis Hospital (1935-36). He had opportunity to be associated with some of the leading specialists of the state, but he was recently married and felt the need to launch out on his own. Through one of his associates, he came to Big Spring to visit Dr. C. K. Bivings and he decided to move here. His practice got started in high gear on Dec. 29, 1936, for in the evening when he walked into the small hospital, Dr. Bivings, weary from handling the load alone, remarked: "Am I glad to see you? There's two days of deer season left. You take over." And Dr. Hogan did.

He's been busy at the hospital-clinic and in the community ever since. Besides having served as president of the clinic organization, he has devoted energies to outside affairs. For seven years he was a member of the Big Spring Independent School District Board of trustees, serving as vice president and during a ticklish time when teachers almost walked out because the town wouldn't approve sufficient taxes to operate. He played a key role in preventing this disaster.

He also served as president of the Chamber of Commerce, and it was during his tenure that the idea of a Master Plan was agreed upon, leading eventually to the $4,300,000 city improvement program. He also initiated studies toward a community hospital. Incidentally, he took over the presidency when the Chamber was out of money but managed to leave it in healthy condition and pointing toward a building fund. He also served as campaign director of the United Fund in 1951, and he headed the Downtown Lions Club.

DR. JOHN E. HOGAN

Dr. Hogan has served on the board of directors of the YMCA and on the Big Spring Country Club board. He has been vice president of the Private Clinic and Hospital Association of Texas. Over the years he has worked in numerous campaigns for youth and other community agencies. One of his prime projects has been the beautification of the city.

A native of Nacogdoches, where he was reared on a farm, he took his high school work there and then earned his bachelor of science degree at Stephen F. Austin State College before entering the University of Texas Medical College in Galveston. Earning his doctor of medicine degree in 1934, he did his internship and residency at Houston, and while at Jeff Davis Hospital met a pretty young assistant supervisor of nurses from Magnolia, Ark., Dixie Dudney. They were married Jan. 1, 1937 and reside at 509 Westover. One daughter, Mrs. Boone Powell Jr., resides in Abilene, the other, Mrs. Janet Brigman, is working toward her degree at Texas Tech.

Dr. Hogan is a member of the American College of Surgeons, of the Permian Basin, Texas and American Medical Societies, of the Southern Medical Association, and he has taken numerous short post-graduate courses in surgery. He served many years as city health officer.

At the outset of his career here, he was engaged in general practice, but later he specialized in general and gynecological surgery.

Unusual Method Of Distributing Air

An unusual system of distributing fresh air through small holes clustered in ceiling panels —replacing conventional air conditioning ducts—is part of the new Malone and Hogan Clinic.

The clinic's air conditioning system provides a complete turnover of air in the building twice each hour.

Use of the ceiling panels as air ducts will make possible a more even distribution of fresh air through rooms than with a single normal air conditioning opening in each room.

Another unique part of the air conditioning system is an automatic temperature control which during mornings will provide air for the east side of the building, facing the sun, cooled at lower temperatures than for the west side, away from the direct rays of the morning sun.

As the day progresses, the process will be reversed, with the west side receiving cooler air than the east side.

East, central and west portions of the building will be maintained at the same degree of coolness throughout each day by the automatic system, preventing any one part of the structure from becoming overheated by the sun.

Conditioned air will be supplied through ducts above the corridor ceilings into the air spaces between the room ceilings and the floor above.

The air then moves into the room through the small holes clustered in the ceiling panels, which are made of acoustical tile. The tile is fireproof and made of gypsum.

The arrangement both does away with use of ceiling grilles and lessens noise normally resulting from the passage of air into rooms.

Cooling for the building is through two 50-ton electric reciprocating compressors, with air-cooled condensers situated above the machine room, where the compressors and all other heating and air conditioning equipment is located. The room is constructed of concrete and is adjacent to the rear portion of the clinic's ground floor. A fire wall separates the machine room from the clinic.

The clinic will be heated by air circulated through the system. Hot water coils from the central hot water boiler in the machine room will supply the heat.

The system includes nine air handling units. Each of the three zones on each floor has separate controls, making it possible for each department to have a satisfactory temperature.

An additional advantage of the new system is that it will automatically change from cooling of air to heating it when temperatures drop below a desired level, or from heating to cooling when the air becomes overheated. The same units will serve the building during winter and summer.

A single central electrical control panel will operate the entire system. Fresh air intakes and exhaust valves will be located above the mechanical room.

Windows in the clinic are also designed to conserve air conditioning, with all windows of light gray filtering plate glass. The type of glass transmits only 46.6 per cent of total solar radiation.

The air conditioning system itself will draw in fresh air from outside the building, filter it and then move it into the system's distribution lines in a selected percentage, providing a continuous supply of fresh air.

He's Doctor's Doctor Here

The doctor's doctor on the staff of Malone and Hogan Clinic is easily Jack M. Woodall, pediatrician.

Second only to the founders in seniority, the quiet, unassuming physician is habitually the last to leave the clinic and hospital. Rich or poor, white, black or brown, the legion of youngsters he has served are all his babies, although some of them have babies of their own now.

DR. JACK M. WOODALL

Born and reared in Hillsboro, he completed his high school work in Dallas and earned his B.S. degree in 1932 from Southern Methodist University. Even then he really had no intentions of becoming a physician, but with job opportunities practically nil at the depth of the great depression, he decided to apply to Baylor Medical College in Dallas. His strong grades in science subjects swung the issue, but he more than burnt the midnight oil trying to make up for what he had missed in a regular pre-med course.

From 1936-38 he interned at Harper Hospital in Detroit, Mich., and in 1938-39 at the Louisville (Ky.) City Hospital. During the next year he was in residency at the State University Hospital in Oklahoma City, Okla.

Drs. P. W. Malone and J. E. Hogan had just completed a new wing to their hospital here, and Dr. Woodall was one of two added to the staff. It was almost a short-lived association, for within little more than a year, he was called into service only to be released soon afterwards due to a physical ailment. So he resumed his practice in internal medicine at Malone and Hogan.

He became interested in pediatrics, because this was practicing his specialty of internal medicine on little people. Soon, this was his whole field and it has been his consuming interest since. He did post-graduate study in the field at New York Post Graduate Hospital in 1948.

He is a member of the Texas Pediatrics Society, the Permian Basin, Texas, Southern and American Medical Associations.

Dr. Woodall was married in 1938 to Jean Meredith of Hillsboro, and they reside at 808 W. 14th. They have one daughter, Mrs. Jimmy (Linda) Simmons, who is completing her masters degree requirements at Baylor University where she also instructs two freshmen classes in English while her husband completes his BBA work. They have two children, Susan and Lisa.

Dr. Woodall has been president of the Howard County Tuberculosis Association, on the polio advisory board, and was medical director of the Sabin Vaccine program last year. He also has been an officer in the local medical society and served the state pediatrics society. He is a Presbyterian and has served as a deacon.

Search Found Green Quartz

That cool green look of the new Malone and Hogan Clinic did not come about by accident, nor is it the kind of construction a prospective builder can easily purchase.

Interested in using the exposed aggregate panel construction, the search began for a suitable material. All the doctors took notice of new clinics they visited around the country. From these, ideas began to take shape.

While visiting Estes Park, Colo., Dr. P. W. Malone saw a new clinic using the green quartz found along the Colorado-Utah border. He investigated and found the firm that crushed and graded the beautiful quartz at Canon City, Colo.

Picking up some samples, he carried them to Fort Worth and made arrangements for the huge concrete panels that were to become the exterior walls for the new clinic. Almost 100 of these giant monoliths were trucked here and bolted into place.

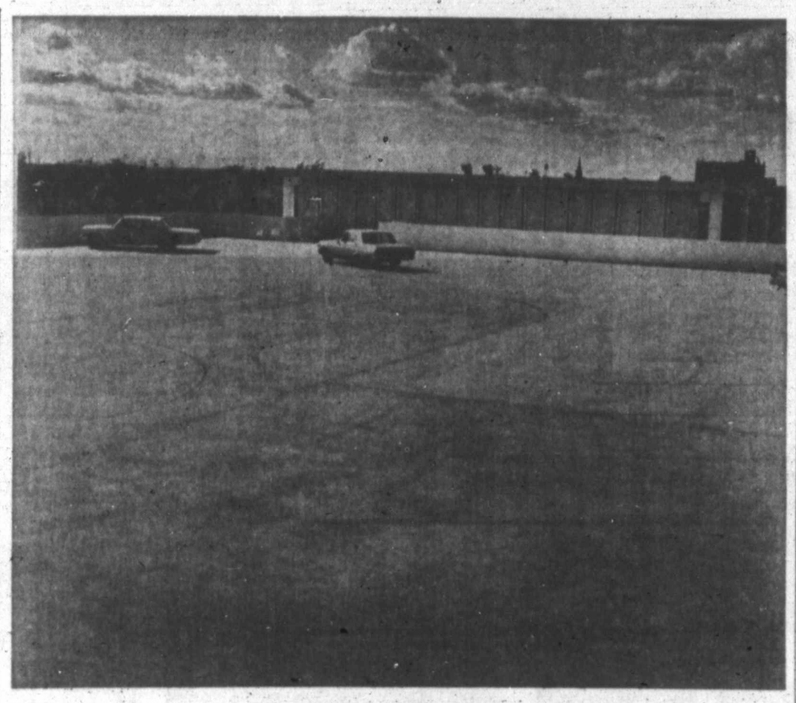

Waiting Area

The waiting area in the new Malone and Hogan Clinic is like none normally seen in a clinic or hospital. Soft, comfortable chairs ring a specially designed carpet with the initials of the founders woven into the material.

Fast Processing

Dr. W. B. Cashion can see the results of an X-ray in just a few minutes due to the rapid processing by this new machine. The exposed film is placed in the machine from inside a dark-room behind the machine. The completed plate drops into the receptacle a few minutes later, ready to be used by the doctor.

Medicine Was Always Goal

DR. F. W. LURTING

A career other than medicine really never occured to Dr. Fredrick W. Lurting. His father, the late Dr. C. W. Lurting, had been a physician, packing over 50 years of practice into his busy span. Consequently from the time he was a lad, being a doctor was his goal.

Completing Perry High School in Pittsburgh, Pa., he took his B.S. degree at the University of Pittsburgh (1940) and his doctor of medicine degree at the University of Maryland (1943). Internship and residency followed at St. Joseph's Hospital in Baltimore (1944-46).

At this point, he entered military service and served with the Army Medical Corps in Japan (1946-47), returning to practice for a year in Pittsburgh before continuing residency in McGee Hospital there. In 1950 he resumed practice and also was instructor in gynecology at the University of Pittsburgh (1951-1953).

For a second time, however, he was called into military service, (1953) and was assigned to Fort Benning, Ga., and upon his separation, he joined the staff of Malone and Hogan in practice of obstetrics and gynecology.

Dr. Lurting is a fellow in the American College of Surgeons and of the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology, is a member of the Permian Basin, State and American Medical Associations, and the Pennsylvania Medical Society. His surgical specialty is in obstetrics and gynecology.

He was married to Lillith Rever, whom he had met in the medical center at Baltimore, on May 4, 1946, and they have two daughters, Sherry (Mrs. Frank Powell) and Pamela, 16, who is going into high school. The family attends First Presbyterian Church. They make their home at 3 Highland Cove.

Dr. Lurting has held virtually all offices in the Permian Basin Medical Society, including that of president; he is president of Howard County Tuberculosis Association, a member of the state obstetrics and gynecology society and on the state maternal mortality committee.

Active in civic affairs, he is chairman of the Chamber of Commerce aviation committee; has his private pilot's license and is on the national board of the Flying Physicians Association of America. Flying has become a family habit, too, for Mrs. Lurting has her pilot's license.

Looks Like Patio

It looks like a patio with flagstone giving it long wearing appearance. But it's the lobby of the new Malone and Hogan Clinic, with a floor of specially acquired stone called Tennessee Craborchard.

Patients Come From Big Area Of West Texas

The Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital receives patients from a wide area of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico, and the average length of stay through the years has dropped from seven—eight days, to three—four days.

Patients come from as far away as Sweetwater and Shyder on the east, Pecos and Hobbs, N.M. on the west, Sterling City and Fort Stockton on the south, and Lubbock and Seagraves on the north.

In 1941, there were 541 admissions; by 1963, there were 3,879. Patient days in 1941 totaled 4,081, and this climbed to 15,625 by 1963. Surgical procedures for in-patients totaled 264 in 1941, 1,574 in 1963. In addition in 1963, there were laboratory procedures for 19,823 and X-ray work for 3,795.

As the hospital work increased, so did the size of the staff. The current totals, with 1941 comparative figures in parenthesis, include: registered nurses 19 (7), practical nurses (LVNs) 41 (10), housekeeping and maintenance 16 (3), dietary 12 (6), laboratory and X-ray 7 (2), clerical and administrative 12 (4); Totals 107 (32).

Brings A New Specialty Here

DR. G. M. HILLIARD

Dr. George M. Hilliard, a recent associate in the Malone and Hogan Clinic, brings a new specialty to the clinic, that of orthopedics.

He is another of the several doctors on the clinic staff who came into the profession through the influence of a doctor-father, Dr. G. M. Hilliard Jr. who today practices at Jacksonville where George Hilliard completed his high school work.

He took his B.S. and pre-medical training at Baylor University in Waco in 1954 and his doctor of medicine degree from Baylor University Medical College in Houston in 1958. His internship was at the University Hospital in Madison, Wis. 1958-59 and his residency at Baylor University College of Medicine in orthopedic surgery from 1959-62 and from January, 1964, until July when he joined the Malone and Hogan staff. There was a break in the residency while he was in service, being stationed in the orthopedic department at Fort Bragg, N.C.

Dr. Hilliard is a diplomat of the American Board of Orthopedics. He also is to be a member of the Permian Basin, Texas and American Medical Associations.

He was married Aug. 29, 1959 to Carmen Huggins of Freeport, who was in nursing service when he was in training. They have a son, George IV, who is 3, and Julie, 1. They are members of the Methodist church and reside at 107 Canyon Drive. As he has time, he pursues the hobbies of golf and hunting.

Prepared For Power Failure Emergency

Should emergency conditions occur, the new Malone and Hogan Clinic is prepared to continue functioning without major interruption, as is the foundation hospital.

Included is emergency battery-powered equipment for lights in the operating rooms and in the corridors of the hospital and clinic. The ground floors will also be able to maintain lighting during any power failure, with use of battery-powered equipment.

Since only minor operations will be carried out in the clinic itself, emergency conditions would not present a major problem there. Major operations will continue to take place in the hospital. Operating rooms in the hospital contain provision for continuing work during emergencies, such as power failures.

Firewalls at either end of the tunnel connecting the new clinic and the hospital will be an additional advantage should an emergency occur in either building, such as fire. Thus either structure can be sealed off from the other in such an emergency.

New Member Of Clinic Staff

Newest member of the Malone and Hogan Clinic staff is Dr. John P. Darby, whose separation from the Air Force becomes effective tomorrow (Aug. 31).

He will be associated in the practice of internal medicine, with specialties in allergy and ento-gastrology.

During his years in service, Dr. Darby has engaged in research projects and has written papers for medical publications. One of these deals with his work in the field of snake bites, and particularly in testing the effectiveness of recovering venom through suction. While stationed in Hawaii, he also did research on shark repellants.

Although his father and grandfather were not doctors, just about every other male member of his predecessors were. Consequently, he was in medicine almost from the time he could remember. A native of Columbia, S. C., where he finished Dreher High School, he obtained his B. S. degree at the University of South Carolina at Columbia in 1950 and his medical degree from the university's medical college at Charleston in 1954. His internship was at Methodist Hospital at Gary, Ind.

DR. J. P. DARBY

(1954-55), from whence he entered the Air Force with traning in Alabama and Randolph Field before going to Hickham Field near Honolulu in November, 1955. This proved more or less an operating base, for he flew to assignments all over the Orient during the next two years. In June, 1957 he was sent to Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio for his residency (1957-60), then to Walter Reed in Washington, D. C. from 1960-61. Then he was assigned to the Philippines in July, 1961, and finally to Keesler AFB, Biloxi, Miss., in July, 1963. Preferring practice to increasing administrative duties ahead, he decided to return to private life.

Dr. Darby was married to the former Audrey Graham, Dec. 8, 1953 in Savannah, Ga. She was in nurses training at Charleston at the time. They have three children, John Preston III, Steven, 6, and Catherine, 3, and Mrs. Darby and the children already are at home at 2713 Rebecca. He is amember of the American Medical Association, Air Force Society for Internists and Allied Specialists and was in the Aerospace Medical Association. He is a diplomat on the American Board of Internal Medicine. His hobbies include flying (he has his private pilot license), scuba diving (which may suffer in West Texas), and sailboating (from which he also is temporarily retired).

DR. GEORGE F. DILLON

Took Long Way Around

Dr. George Franklin Dillon took the long way around to get to Big Spring and the Malone and Hogan Clinic staff. In fact, his training and service touched both the East and West Coasts before coming here in 1947.

Dr. Dillon is a native of Wichita, Kan. and attended Friends University, earned his B.S. degree at the University of Indiana and his masters at Kansas State in parisotology and zoology before entering the University of Tennessee School of Medicine at Memphis where he received his medical degree in 1942.

His internship took him to the Tacoma (Wash.) General Hospital where he spent a year before entering military service. Cross country he went with the Air Force to Atlantic City, N.J. From 1945-46 he was in residency at Newark City Hospital. Back across the country he went to Tacoma General where he was on the staff, also serving at St. Joseph and Pierce County Hospitals prior to joining Malone and Hogan.

Dr. Dillon is a member of the Permian Basin, Texas and American Medical Associations, of the Washington State Medical Association, and the Western Section of the Urological Association. He is a diplomat of the American Board of Urology, has his surgical specialty in urology, and is a consultant at the Veterans Administration Hospital, Webb AFB Hospital and Big Spring State Hospital.

He married Billie Hoffman of Anthony, Kan. in 1933, and although they have no children, they reared a nephew and niece.

He is a member of the Masonic order, the Shrine and York Rite, is a former president of the Big Spring Rotary Club, and a member of the Friends Society. Bowling is his chief hobby, although he gets in considerable golfing, a field in which Mrs. Dillon is expert.

DR. G. F. DILLON

Progress...

Yes, the new Malone And Hogan clinic is another milestone in the continuing progress of medicine. This splendid new clinic is dedicated to those it will serve.

We at A. P. Kasch & Sons are proud to have served as general contractor on this new building. It is a privilege to add our invitation to you to inspect it during open house hours today. We think you'll agree with us that it is indeed a very worthy addition to Big Spring's skyline and a facility that will keep our city in the forefront of medicine in West Texas.

To Dr. P. W. Malone and Dr. J. E. Hogan, we say congratulations on the formal opening of the clinic.

Modern Waiting Room

Plush furnishings, a specially designed carpet featuring the physicians' staff with the initials of the founding doctors, and soft glow from overhead lighting, make the lobby of the new clinic a pleasant place to wait. Members of families who do not care to accompany a patient to the department where he will see a doctor, may wait in this area. There is a snack bar adjacent.

Born To Work As A Doctor

The president of the Malone and Hogan Clinic, an association of physicians that operates the facility which today observes open house in its new physical plant, is another of the staff members born and bred to a career in medicine.

Carlo B. Marcum Jr. can hardly remember a time when he was not going with his father, C. B. Marcum Sr., on his rounds in the hill country near Berea, Ky., or when he was not helping his father during summers.

"There were days when we never saw him," he said of his general practitioner-father. "He often went night and day, or got in after we went to bed and left on a call before we got up."

Carl Marcum was born in Big Creek, Ky., was graduated from Berea High School, took his B.S. from the University of Kentucky in 1940 and his doctor of medicine degree from the University of Louisville in 1943.

Immediately he was pressed into service as an interne at the 5,000-patient United States Navy Hospital at Portsmouth, Va. In September, 1944, he boarded an attack transport at Seattle, Wash., and spent the next year and a half in the Southwest Pacific supporting landings on Saipan, Iwo Jima, Guam, Okinawa and other points.

Returning to the States, he spent a year in surgery at the Navy Hospital in San Diego, Calif., being separated from service in 1947.

For a year he was in general practice at Berea, Ky., then became a resident in surgery at Louisville General Hospital. From 1949-51 he was chief resident in surgery at Jefferson Davis Hospital in Houston, serving also as instructor in surgery at Baylor Medical College. Dr. Marcum joined the Malone and Hogan staff in 1951 and now also is consultant in surgery at Big Spring State Hospital, Veterans Administration Hospital and Webb AFB Hospital.

He is a member of the Permian Basin, Texas and American Medical Associations; is a fellow in the American College of Surgeons, a diplomate of the American Board of Surgery, a member of the Southwestern Surgical Congress and of the Texas Surgical Society.

Dr. Marcum also has found time for civic affairs. He is immediate past president of the Chamber of Commerce, past president of the local chapter of the American Cancer Society, past director of the Big Spring Country Club, former Lion, a member of the Masonic Blue Lodge at Berea.

He was married Nov. 16, 1946 to Veronica (Mickey) Maloney, a Navy nurse at San Diego, Calif., but a San Antonio girl who once had lived in Ireland. They have three daughters, Erin, 16, Candy, 13, Pamela, 11, reside at 1506 Dayton Road, and attend Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church.

History, Roots Of Clinic Go Back Over 25 Years

The history of Malone and Hogan Clinic goes back over a quarter of a century; its roots go still further.

The clinic itself grew out of a partnership between Dr. P. W. Malone and Dr. J. E. Hogan in 1938, but the physical properties came into being in 1929 when Dr. Charles K. Bivings and Dr. Jim Barcus came together to put up the Bivings & Barcus Hospital, 811 Main. Dr. Barcus withdrew in 1931 to establish a practice in Kilgore during the East Texas budding oil boom.

Dr. Bivings continued in the practice, supervising the operation of the nine-bed hospital as well as his duties as physician, but the load grew too heavy and late in 1936 he became associated with Dr. Hogan, who officially joined the staff Jan. 1, 1937.

Meantime, Dr. Malone had come to Big Spring in July, 1930, to establish a practice. He assisted in surgery in the existing hospitals (Bivings and Barcus and the Big Spring Hospital Corporation) and did certain surgery and practice, but he was desirous of having his own hospital.

When Dr. Bivings decided he would retire from medicine, he offered the hospital to his own associate, and Dr. Hogan joined with Dr. Malone to acquire the property effective Nov. 1, 1938.

The two doctors had high hopes but little capital; nevertheless, they managed to pay out the original plant, then known as the Malone & Hogan Clinic-Hospital. With the limited bed space something had to be done, so in 1940 they added a south wing toward the east along Ninth Street.

"This increased the bed capacity to 15 patients and greatly expanded the nursery and delivery room facilities together with considerable increase in clinic and office facilities. The stage was set for enlargement of the staff, and in 1942 Dr. Jack M. Woodall and Dr. R. O. Beadles joined the clinic.

World War II came along, and both the new doctors were called up, but after being accepted, Dr. Woodall was separated on his physical. Dr. Beadles did not return after the war.

With the location of the Bombardier School in Big Spring and the mounting demand for petroleum products, Big Spring began a period of boom. There was such a desperate need for hospital space that the War Production Board issued a certificate of necessity for construction of a major addition, consisting of the main portion of the building to the north and east of the original plant. This was s ed in July, 1944, and finished July, 1945, and the new unit had foundations to carry six stories and had plumbing roughed in on the roof (which will become the floor of the next story.)

Both personnel and patient load continued to grow, and in 1951 the Malone & Hogan Foundation was set up to take over ownership and operation of the building.

This continued until 1961 when the clinic and hospital were completely separated. The hospital became the Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital, and with the organization of the physicians into an association, the clinic became known as Malone and Hogan Clinic.

There has been no financial connection between the two since that time except that the physicians rent space for the clinic, laboratory and X-ray. They have used the facilities of the hospital as any other physician might have the privilege to do.

As the community continued to grow and the area of patient service expanded, still another unit was added on the south side of the plant in 1962. Other members were added to the staff, until now there are 14 physicians and surgeons.

Again bed space had become critical, and some means of expansion was urgent.

At this point it was decided to give substance to a dream of the founders to have a building designed exclusively to the modern conception of a first class clinic.

In July, 1963, plans had been completed and construction started on a three-story clinic building with off-street parking on one-half block of Main Street just across Ninth Street from the foundation hospital location. A tunnel was built under the street to connect the two buildings for convenience of transportation of patients and personnel.

The new building has facilities for 20 physicians. Plans have been completed and a contract has been let to remodel the space in the foundation hospital (which has been occupied by the clinic) into rooms for patients. When completed, this will provide for 86 beds in the hospital.

The clinic is planned for future additions, for the foundations will carry four more floors. The adjacent parking, now more than adequate for present facilities, can be increased with addition of decks.

Decided Early To Follow In Grandfather's Footsteps

When his grandfather, James H. Burnett, drove over the winding roads of Bosque County to visit his patients, Josh Burnett frequently accompanied him. Long before he went to college, he had decided he wanted to follow after the venerable practitioner.

DR. J. H. BURNETT

Dr. Jack Henry Burnett Jr. has been since 1957 a member of the staff of Malone and Hogan Clinic, specializing in the practice of internal medicine.

A native of El Paso, he attended Austin College but was graduated from Baylor University in Waco with his B.A. in 1946, taking his major in biology the following year for his M.A. He then completed his requirements for his doctor of medicine at Emory University Hospital in Atlanta, Ga. in 1951, then doing his internship at Emory University Hospital (1951-52). His residency at the hospital was interrupted by military service with the Army Medical Corps (1952-55) and a continuation (until 1957) at Emory Hospital where he had a fellowship in internal medicine. He then joined the Malone and Hogan staff and in addition to his duties, he also served for three years as county health officer.

Dr. Burnett is a member of the Permian Basin (secretary), Texas and American Medical Associations, is on the state board of the Texas branch of the American Heart Society.

Besides a medical tradition, he has followed another in the family, that of Masonic work, having been a member of Blue Lodge No. 1111 for 22 years.

He finds time to do much community work, serving as vice president (in charge of booking programs) for the Big Spring Concert Association, an organizer of the Foreign Film Club, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce cultural affairs committee, a past president of the Howard County Tuberculosis Association, and president of the Volunteer Council of the Big Spring State Hospital. Few are aware that he has perhaps the greatest number of hours of volunteer service in the hospital of any man.

In his church, St. Mary's Episcopal, he has served as senior warden and has been the Sunday School superintendent.

He and Sue Tipps, who had been a student with him at Baylor, were married May 20, 1947 in Waco, and they have three children. Steve, 11, now graduating from Cubbing (where the Burnetts were active), Chris, 5, and Lis, 8. The family resides at 2500 Morrison.

Hospital Belongs To The People

Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital belongs to the people of Big Spring and Howard County.

In order to perpetuate the hospital, Dr. P. W. Malone and Dr. J. E. Hogan, its founders, gave it in toto to the people in 1951. For 10 years the clinic-hospital foundation was the administrative agency for staff and hospital, but in 1961 the separation of staff and hospital was made complete. From that point the physicians rented office, laboratory X-ray and other facilities from the hospital.

The hospital is administered by a board of trustees headed by Truman Jones, president, and with Dr. M. A. Porter as chief of staff. D. S. Riley is the hospital administrator.

DR. D. F. TERRY

Specializes In Diseases Of The Heart

One of the newer members of the Malone and Hogan Clinic staff is Dr. Donald Franklin Terry, whose practice is in the field of internal medicine with specialities in cardiology and pulmonary diseases.

Dr. Terry is a native Texan and a graduate of Paschall High School in Fort Worth. Following his pre-med work and B.A. degree at Texas Christian University in 1953, he entered Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis, earning his medical degree in 1957.

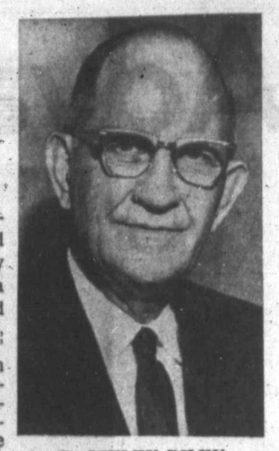

Internship was at the Washington University Medical Center in St. Louis (1957-58), followed by residency at the center (1958-59). From 1959-61 he was in the Army Medical Corps, being stationed at Forf Richardson, Alaska, near Anchorage, serving as commander of the 514th Medical unit.

Upon separation from service in 1961, he became a part of the staff of the Veterans Administration Hospital at Dallas in the practice of internal medicine for three years, specializing in cardiology during the last year.

Dr. Terry is a member of the Dallas County Medical Society, Texas Medical and American Medical Associations, and of the Nu Sigma Nu Medical fraternity.

He and the former Ruth Rosa were married in St. Louis on May 16, 1958, and they have two sons, Richard, 4, and David, 1, who make things plenty interesting around the family home at 2607 Rebecca. When he has time, Dr. Terry relaxes with a hobby of photography, confining himself to taking pictures rather than processing them.

D. Schley Riley Is One Of The Hospital Veterans

D. SCHLEY RILEY

Although he has no connection with the new clinic facility, one of the veterans of the Malone and Hogan organization is D. Schley Riley, administrator of the Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital.

Next year, he will begin his 25th year of service as a key staff member. Since Jan. 1, 1960, he has been administrator of the Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital, the top executive in directing the operation of the facility.

Riley is directly responsible to the board of trustees which is composed of K. H. McGibbon, president; Clyde Angel, vice president; Truman Jones, secretary-treasurer; Dick Simpson, R. H. Weaver and J. R. Hensley. The hospital itself has belonged to the people of Howard County since 1951 with the trustees responsible for its direction.

A native of Putnam in Callahan County, Riley came as a small lad to Coahoma and was graduated from high school there. He entered Abilene Christian College in 1922 and helped earn his way through. With his B. A. degree in 1926, he went into business with an Abilene clothing firm, later moving to Clovis, N. M. before coming to Big Spring in 1933 with Collins and Garrett, the predecessor of Security Finance Company. He gave up this post in February of 1941 to become business manager for Malone and Hogan.

Subsequently, the title was changed to administrator and he was responsible not only for the operation of the hospital but also the clinic during the great period of expansion.

He was married March 28, 1927, to Maxine Allen of Stephens, Ark., whom he had courted while in ACC. They reside at 505 Hillside and are members of the 14th and Main Church of Christ.

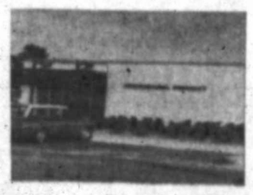

Riley is a past president of the Downtown Lions Club, a past governor of then-district 2-T-2 of Lions International (1948-49), is past president of the Big Spring Toastmasters Club, former director of the Chamber of Commerce, past president of the Big Spring Credit Executives Club, formerly on the United Fund board and active in many other civic affairs. He is a member of the Texas and American Hospital Associations, is past president of the Texas' group's Central Permian Basin Hospital Council, a past president of Northwest Texas Hospital Association, and is presently a member of the state board of hospital licensing.

TOLBERT GRISHAM

Handles Final Adjustments

Among the special services connected with the Malone and Hogan Clinic is that of Tolbert Grisham, who handles the final fittings and adjustments on optical and hearing aids.

An experienced optician, he has been engaged in the field 16 years. He joined the clinic July 27, 1963 after an association of 11 years with three Lubbock physicians. Grisham began his training in 1948 as an apprentice in Abilene, later going to Lubbock where he worked with a prescription service for two and a half years.

He also has done considerable technical study in the field of hearing aid adaption. Although he is qualified, he does not actually grind lens, but rather he fits frames, the lens to them, and adjusts them on the individual. This also applies to contact lens, and for matching and adjusting artificial eyes.

Grisham is a graduate of Blackwell High School and pursued technical studies over the years. He is married to the former Billye Myrhl Corley of Shep, and they have three children, Carla Jan, 14, Roger Van, 11, and Paide Ann, 4. The family resides at 504 East 23rd and is active at the Baptist Temple where he is co-superintendent of the Sunday school and she is a teacher in the young adult department. She attended Howard County Junior College last semester and plans to take a full time course this semester, with an objective of home economics, and he has his eyes on some courses, too. As for hobbies, he spends considerable time with woodworking and in home gardening.

Few Will Ever See Basement

There is a basement in the new Malone and Hogan Clinic, but few persons will ever see it.

The entrance is in one of the stairwells and a trapdoor conceals it. About the only thing in the basement is the machinery to operate the elevators. All other machinery, however, is in a ground floor room, for easy access during maintenance.

For all practical purposes of the patient then, the clinic has no basement.

Complex Tubes Carry Records

A complex system of interconnecting tube passageways will provide the new Malone and Hogan Clinic with rapid movement of charts and records among various departments.

The system is operated by an air turbine located in the ground floor mechanical room behind the clinic.

Twelve stations are included in the system. Attendants can insert cylindrical carriers into any of the stations, with the carriers then being carried through the pneumatic tube system to any other desired station.

The stations, which are mounted in the walls, are located at 10 centrally-located spots in the clinic and at two points in the adjacent hospital. The hospital sites include the first and second floor nurses stations.

A central unit is located at the central chart and record room, on the ground floor of the clinic and directly underneath the main reception lobby.

When a patient registers at the lobby, an attendant will drop the registration slip through a chute leading to the chart room underneath. There, an automatic machine process will sort through the alphabetical chart system and provide records on the patient. An attendant will insert the registration slip and records or charts into the tube, placing the tube into the dispatch slot and dialing the station to which records need to be sent.

After a doctor or technician completes use of the records, they will again be inserted in a tube and returned through the system to the chart room.

Clinic officials say the new system, developed by a Detroit, Mich., firm, will speed the processing of records for some 275 persons a day who register at the clinic.

Each departmental reception area will have a station for sending and receiving records, charts, laboratory specimens, medication and other items. A station will also be located in the business office.

Units are set into the walls and contain a control panel on which the attendant dials a desired station, with an insert opening to send tubes and another for arrival of tubes.

While the system contains 12 stations at present, it can be expanded to include 18 units. The tubes are four inches by 14 inches.

When a tube arrives at a station, a red light flashes and a buzzer sounds. An attendant sending a tube merely inserts it, dials the station desired and pushes a button.

A central control panel contains a series of colored lights for the system, showing which stations have carriers in transit, the destinations and the moments of arrival.

Tubes moving to and from the hospital pass through pipes in the tunnel between the hospital and clinic, underneath Ninth Street.

New Clinic Meets Needs, Provides For Expansion

The new Malone and Hogan Clinic, which is open to public view today, was designed to meet current needs for space as well as allow for future expansion.

The building occupies the entire half-block between Ninth and Tenth streets on Main, including a two-story parking garage that will handle more than 100 cars. The clinic building is 122 feet long and 81 feet wide, and is three stories tall. One floor is below ground level, and two are above. There are 27,000 square feet of available floor space.

In addition, the designers employed a reinforced concrete web in the structure with footings capable of handling four additional floors if growth ever demands it.

The clinic is connected with the Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital by a tunnel beneath Ninth Street, so that patients may be moved between the two facilities without being exposed to the outside weather. This tunnel is seven feet wide and seven feet high.

A mosaic slab type of construction marks the exterior of the new clinic and makes it unique in Big Spring architecture. Basically, this consists of a reinforced concrete slab with an aggregate-exposed surface.

The Malone and Hogan slabs were developed after a long search for the proper aggregate. In Colorado, a green quartz was found where it is mined near the Utah border. It is crushed, screened and graded near Canon City, Colo.

A formula was developed using this cool, green colored quartz in a matrix of white cement. Granules of the quartz were selected, ranging from very fine to very coarse. An Arlington, Tex., firm, Texcrete Company, made up some samples and was later given the contract. The firm supplied 96 of these slabs, each measuring four feet wide and 22 feet long.

The slabs were shipped here from Arlington, hoisted into place by giant cranes, and bolted into place on the concrete structural framework of the building.

Visitors will get an opportunity to view these unique slabs today.

Cutouts were made in the slabs for window openings. All windows are of a light-gray filtering plate glass, designed to conserve air conditioning, and it transmits less than half—46.6 per cent—of solar radiation.

The interior of the building is of dry-wall construction, including two-by-four steel stud framework, covered with gypsum board walls. Walls go completely through the floors above and below, to prevent, as far as possible, sounds from carrying between rooms.

Although all doors are wood, the door frames are steel. The finish on the interior walls are vinyl-covered in corridors and reception areas, as well as some work areas. Most others are painted and decorator pastel colors are used throughout.

Precast concrete channels support the floors. These were cast in Austin and trucked here. On top of these channels, the reinforced concrete floors were poured and a vinyl tile floor covering is employed in most areas. Some office areas have carpeting.

The most unusual area in the clinic, however, is a flagstone floor in the main lobby. The stone is Tennessee Crab-orchard. The large lobby is fronted by aluminum frame doors and gray glass.

The terrace in front of the building is made of alternate five foot squares of plain concrete and concrete of exposed aggregate. Blocks were left out in places for planting trees and shrubbery.

The exterior of the building will be illuminated with two wide-light mercury vapor flood lights, which will be turned on and off by time clocks. Other trees and shrubs will round out the exterior landscape.

Elevators, hydraulically operated, will move patients between floors. Only one will be in use at first, and the second will be added later if the traffic demands. In addition, there are two stairways adjacent to the elevator shafts.

A concrete deck has been poured in the roof area which will be the floor of the next story, if it is later added. The roof is built up of felt and asphalt material.

Roof drainage for the clinic is also unique. The water flows to the center of the roof, goes down through internal downspouts, and is exhausted into the street through the concrete curb.

Heating and cooling of the building is controlled through centrally located units. The ceilings of the entire building is acoustical tile, and air conditioning and heating is accomplished by supplying the warm or cool air through the holes in this material. Fresh air is drawn from outside, filtered, then fed into the air circulation system.

There are nine air handling units in the building with special zones to regulate the temperature inside the building in relation to outside temperature. This control is sensitive enough to match the movement of the sun, providing more cooling on the side facing the sun during the summer, and less warm air on that same side during the winter.

As the sun moves around the building, the system adapts interior temperature to account for this change in heat from outside.

By using acoustical tile for letting the air conditioning into rooms, the need for ceiling grills is eliminated, and this also reduces the noise caused by passage of air into the rooms.

Fluorescent lighting is used throughout the building. These are hidden by giant ovoid fixtures in the lobby, which give a soft glow of light in this area.

Communications are handled two ways in the new building. A telephone system is more than adequate to handle all the present departments. Any department in the clinic or the hospital may be called by any other by dialing three numbers.

Probably the most unusual equipment in the clinic is a tube system for transporting records, etc. This automatic, pneumatic system connects all departments with each other and the records room and business office. The large tubes carry a patient's records in just a few seconds from the storage room to any place requested. This saves time and effort. There is ample room for expansion of this system if it ever becomes necessary.

Jacob E. Anderson, Dallas architect, designed the new clinic building. His contract was signed July 2, 1962. He has done other medical facilities, including the new Medical Towers Building at Dallas.

A. P. Kasch & Sons had the successful bid to build the clinic, and the contract was let July 18, 1963. It is valued at several hundred thousand dollars.

Key To Career For Dr. Porter

ASTP may not mean much to most people, but to Dr. Melvin A. Porter, it meant the key to an M.D. degree.

As a Norton, Kansas youth, he entered the Army in 1943. One day he took the Army's standard placement test and this showed such promise in medicine that he was sent to John Hopkins University under the accelerated training program. After separation from service, he went to George Washington University, earning his doctor of medicine degree in 1949. He had barely completed his internship at Northern Permanent Hospital in Vancouver, B.C. when the Korean campaign came on and he was called back into service. Returning to civilian life in 1952, he spent three years in residency at the University of Texas at Galveston, and during the last year he was instructor in obstetrics and gynecology at the University's School of Medicine.

For the next three years he was on the staff of the Memorial Hospital in Ardmore, Okla., resigning to become associated with the Malone and Hogan Clinic.

Dr. Porter is a diplomat of the American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology and has his surgical specialty in this field. He is a member of the Permian Basin, Texas and American Medical Associations, the Willard R. Cook Obstetrical and Gynecological Society in Galveston.

In the fall of 1946 he was married to Norma Cranston in Washington, D.C., and they reside at 1608 Indian Hills with their three children, Scott, 14, Patricia, 10, and Hugh Allen, 6. They are Presbyterians, and Dr. Porter has served as an elder. His main form of relaxation is flying, and since 1962 he has had his pilot's license. He was a charter member of the Big Spring Aeronautics Club.

DR. M. A. PORTER

Family Had A Long History In Medicine

It was assumed that Milton W. Talbot Jr. would become a doctor—and he did. There was every reason for this, because his father had been a physician in Louisiana, as had two of his uncles. When Milton Talbot finished high school at Leesville, he headed straight for Harvard University to do his pre-med studies.

Armed with his B.S. degree in 1943, he entered Tulane University's College of Medicine, obtaining his doctor of medicine degree in 1946. He did his internship at Charity Hospital in New Orleans from 1946-47, then put in two years of residency there (1949-51). During 1947-48 he was stationed at Itami AFB, Japan with the 38th General Hospital Group. This proved a happy assignment, for there he met the daughter of the flight surgeon of the 38th Bombardment Wing, Col. J. H. Conley. As a consequence, he and Judy Conley were married Aug. 5, 1950 in Marietta, Ga.

DR. MILTON W. TALBOT

They have four children, Anne, 12, Martha, 9, Paul, 8, and Emily, 10 months. They reside at 1508 Dayton Road.

Upon his return from service, Dr. Talbot was assistant in pediatrics in Tulane, then in 1950-51 was instructor there in pediatrics before doing postgraduate study in pediatric endocainology at Harvard Medical School. In 1951, he became a part of the staff of Malone and Hogan Clinic.

He is a diplomat of the American Board of Pediatrics, a fellow in the American Academy of Pediatrics, is a member of the Texas Pediatrics Society, and is a consultant in pediatrics at Webb AFB.

Flying is a hobby, and he is a member of the National Association of Flying Physicians, serving as its state disaster officer and head of the pediatrics section for the national organization. He also is on the cultural affairs and the aviation committee of the Chamber of Commerce, and has been a director of that organization. He is a past director of the American Heart Association.

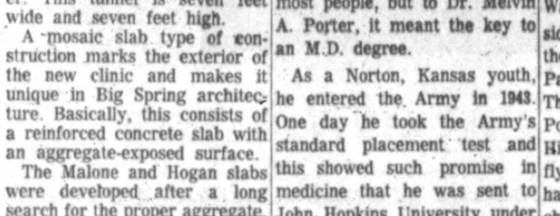

Another area of activity is his church, St. Mary's Episcopal, where he has been junior and senior warden, a former vestryman, lay reader for seven years, chairman of the (parochial) school board and chairman of the Parochial Day School Commission of Northwest Texas diocese.

More Features Still To Come

Some of the outstanding features of the new Malone and Hogan Clinic are still to come. The outside grounds will be landscaped, front and back.

On the front terrace, large concrete squares were left out to accommodate trees and shrubs which will be planted later. The same type of landscaping will round out the grounds in the rear of the building.

Hospital Launched Here In 1928

Thirty-five years ago open house was held for "the first and most modern sanitarium between Abilene and El Paso."

Today, from this foundation, a magnificent clinic building, to which similar designation for its purposes could be applied, is having open house on an adjacent site.

The first unit was known as the Bivings & Barcus Hospital.

Announcement of plans for this structure had been made Aug. 16, 1928. An item in the Herald noted that "plans are under way, according to Dr. Charles K. Bivings, for construction of a modern two-story brick hospital to be erected at the corner of Ninth and Main Streets. It will be called the Bivings and Barcus Hospital."

At that time, Dr. Bivings, who had set up a modest hospital over Cunnihgham & Philips drug store in connection with his practice, was being joined by Dr. Jim Barcus of Fort Worth, who was to become part owner and manager of the new facility. Within two years Dr. Barcus sold his interest to Dr. Bivings and moved to Kilgore.

Peters and Strange, a new Big Spring architectural firm, designed the plant, and little time was lost in erecting it. A story on March 1, 1929, on the eve of the open house, had this to say:

"The building is two stories in height, is of brick and concrete construction.

"The basement contains the kitchen, staff dining room, boiler room and small isolation ward for infectious diseases.

"The first floor contains a handsome entrance hall and reception room with information desk and telephone switchboard, tastefully finished in gold and white.

"The remainder of the first floor is given over to operating room, office, laboratory, X-ray and doctors and nurses quarters.

"The second floor has private rooms and wards with a capacity of 20 patient beds, and the elevator leads up to the room garden which will be used as a pleasure and sun ward for convalescent patients.

"The building throughout embodies all the latest practical ideas in hospital craft, and is the first and most modern sanitarium between Abilene and El Paso."

There were five people on the staff—the two doctors, Bonnie Kirby and Jean Loughridge (now Mrs. Robert Stripling Sr.) nurses; and Mrs. Florence McNew, secretary.

Coincidence Of Tennesseeans

Tenessee gave Malone and Hogan Clinic one of its founders, and it also provided another member of the staff. Dr. James W. Tipton, specialist in ear, nose and throat. Dr. P. W. Malone is a native of Tennessee, and by coincidence Mrs. Tipton was named Malone (no kin).

DR. J. W. TIPTON

Born at Jackson, Tenn., James Tipton was graduated from Columbia Military Academy at Columbia, Tenn. Although his predecessors had all been lawyers, he was determined to train in medicine. He took his pre-med work at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville, then earned his doctor of medicine degree at the University's School of Medicine in Memphis, Tenn. in 1956, interning during the next year at Richland County Hospital in Columbia, S.C. During 1958-59-60 he did his residency in ear-nose-throat at the Kennedy Veterans Administration Hospital in Memphis. Then in 1961, he became associated with Malone and Hogan Clinic here.

He is a diplomat of the American Board of Otolaryngology and has been certified by the American Academy of Otolaryngology.

Dr. Tipton was married Jan. 29, 1955 to the former Sara Malone at Corinth, Miss. (she was in nurses training at the time). They have three children, Diane, 8, Jimmy, 6, and Steve, 4, and reside at 2706 Lynn. They attend St. Paul Presbyterian Church where he is a deacon.

Working around the home occupies most of his spare time, but he is a member of the Downtown Lions and of the Chamber of Commerce.

CARVER PHARMACY

Cars Can Be Parked On Two Levels

More than 100 cars can be parked in the new off-street parking facilities of the Malone and Hogan Clinic.

The concrete, two-story parking building, just south of the clinic, will include entrances-exits from Main Street onto the first level and from Tenth Street onto the second floor level.

Located on the south half of the 300 by 140 foot lot, the parking structure will accommodate 54 cars on the first floor level and 56 cars on the second floor area.

The second floor parking area, of reinforced concrete, will connect to the ground floor level by stairs at the north end. The entrance to the ground floor parking area will be adjacent to the south entrance of the clinic. The parking entrance will therefore serve for loading and unloading of patients.

The exit for the ground floor parking area is in the center of the structure, opening onto Main Street, thus avoiding problems of cars entering and leaving the parking area at the same point.

Persons parking in the upper level will walk down the stairs at the north end of the parking area and enter the south entrance of the clinic.

An additional advantage of the parking building will be distribution of traffic load onto two separate streets, Main and State, rather than having all cars entering from and leaving to a single street. The arrangement is possible due to the location of the new clinic near the hillside upon which Tenth Street is constructed.

The new parking facility will provide 110 spaces for cars which previously would have had to park along nearby streets around the hospital and clinic.

Clinic's Parking Area Convenient

No matter which level of the Malone and Hogan Clinic parking garage you use, it is about the same distance to the door at the south end of the lobby.

The upper level has a stairway leading down to the entrance. Residents who park on the lower level enter the lobby at the same place. However, the automobile entrance to the lower level is off Main Street, near the front door. The entrance to the upper level is off Tenth Street.

Remodeling Work Begins

The Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital will be extensively remodeled, now that the doctors have occupied their new clinic quarters across the street.

Plans were drawn by Olen Puckett, local architect, and A. P. Kasch & Sons submitted the low bid of over $100,000 for the construction, which will give the hospital building more than 80 patient rooms.

The remodeling work will include adding 26 patient rooms on the main floor, where the doctors have previously had their offices and clinic. These rooms will have private baths and lavatories, as well as television and radio sets.

Also to be added on the main floor will be a new nurse station, nurse treatment room, two emergency rooms, sterilizing facilities and other auxiliary space.

On the second floor, all patients' rooms will be wired for television as well, plus there will be renovation and rearranging of some rooms and the nurse station.

Fire doors will be added in the corridors and present stairs of all three floors, with the addition of another inside stairway with fireproof doors and external exit. These arrangements meet the latest hospital and fire protection recommendations, and afford protection against the possibility of fire and its spreading to other parts of the building.

The ground floor, which contains the surgical suite, will be considerably remodeled. Grounded conductive tile will be built to eliminate as far as possible, the hazards of static electricity and anesthetic gas.

Rooms will be rearranged to provide a laboratory for pathology — specifically for use in frozen section work, in which the surgeon removes tissue to be examined and classified by the pathologist regarding the possibility of cancer or malignancy.

A recovery room will be provided as well, where a patient may be moved following surgery. Modern facilities will be available here to care for the patient until he can be returned to his room on the upper floors.

The kitchen and dining areas, located on the ground floor, will be renovated in order to handle the increased patient load caused by the increased bed space.

The hospital is connected with the new clinic by a tunnel under Ninth Street, and fire doors were installed in it to prevent the danger of fire spreading from one building to the other. The tunnel enables patients to move between buildings without the necessity of being exposed to weather conditions.

All new patient rooms in the hospital, as well as those renovated, will have vinyl covered walls as they are easier to maintain, sanitary, and eliminate the need for frequent paintings.

The exterior of the hospital building will be sandblasted and the masonry will be sealed with silicone to restore original color of brick and stone. Exterior wood surfaces will be painted as well.

Cashion Has Son Becoming A Doctor

Dr. William R. Cashion, radiologist, has reversed the process on several of the professional staff of Malone and Hogan Clinic. Whereas, a number of them have followed their fathers in medicine, Dr. Cashion has a son who is training to become a doctor.

DR. W. R. CASHION

A native of Bonham, Dr. Cashion was graduated from Texarkana High School and did his pre-med work at Rice University before earning his doctor of medicine degree from Baylor University College of Medicine in 1932. He interned at Baylor Hospital the following year and was in residency at New Rochelle (N. Y.) Hospital from 1935-38. Then from 1939-52 he was on the staff of several hospitals in the New York area as radiologist, among them Jamaica on Long Island, Creedemore State Hospital in Queensvillage, and Manhattan Eye and Throat Hospital. He held a fellowship in St. Johns Hospital in Brooklyn (1938-39).

From 1952-61 he was with the Borsh Radiology Clinic in Lubbock, then was at Midland for three years until he became associated with Malone and Hogan Clinic here in February of this year.

Dr. Cashion is a member of the Permian Basin, Texas and American Medical Associations, the American College of Radiology, the Radiological Society of North America, and the Texas Radiological Society. He is a consultant at Webb AFB Hospital.

He was married in 1960 to Margaret Scaling and they live at 804 Edwards Blvd. He has four children by his first wife: William R. Cashion Jr., who is a junior medical student at the University of Texas Medical School at Galveston; three daughters, Mrs. James McDuff, Hanover, Md., Mrs. Bill Richards, Dallas, Mrs. W. B. Harris, Lubbock.

While at Lubbock, he was president of the Hub City Kiwanis Club and has affiliated with the club here. He served as lieutenant governor of the Texas-Oklahoma Kiwanis district in 1958. He is on the advisory committee of the Howard County Tuberculosis Association. For relaxation, he sometimes golfs, but his latest pleasure is oil painting, a field in which he is becoming rather proficient.

HIT A WELL

Elevator Units For Five Floors

The elevator system in the Malone and Hogan Clinic will be operated with a piston moving some three floors into the ground.

In drilling the wells for the hydraulic jacks and pistons, workers struck a stream of water near the bottom of the four-floor shaft. The flow of water made it necessary to put casing in the holes as the shaft was drilled, with the jacks being placed inside the steel casing at the bottom.

Although only one elevator has been installed at present for the clinic, the hydraulic equipment and shaft is already in place for a second elevator when needed.

In addition, the elevator units are designed and installed for use in five floors, whereas the present clinic contains three. The elevator design is part of the overall construction idea of making future expansion possible.

With the present system, serving three floors, the elevator moves some 46 feet up and down. However, the hydraulic jack apparatus is designed to move as much as 60 feet, allowing for the service to two additional floors.

The hydraulic system will utilize a fine grade of oil with a piston more than a foot in diameter used to move the elevator up and down. The elevator system's equipment is installed in a concrete room below the ground floor of the clinic.

The elevator now in use has walnut-designed metal walls and stainless steel accessories.

For those who prefer not to ride elevators, two stairwells have been provided for each floor in the clinic. The stairwells and elevators are located in the central portions of the structure.

Patients will enter the main reception lobby and go to various floors from the elevator. Signs on each floor at the elevator entrance will point to various departments.

The elevators have been located within the overall design of the building to aid in the planned traffic of more than 270 persons who register at the clinic each day. Each floor has a central corridor, onto which the elevators and stairwells open, which in turn leads to various departments which also have separate work corridors. The elevators will also be within a few steps distance from the clinic entrance of the tunnel under Ninth Street, leading to the hospital.

Modern Departments Divided

The various departments of the new Malone and Hogan Clinic are divided among three floors, each arranged so patients will not have to walk through one department to get to another.

The clinic has three entrances: two through the main lobby on the first floor and the other through the tunnel connecting the building with the Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital.

The main entrance is from Main Street, across the spacious terrace and into the lobby at the registration desk. For visitors parking on either level of the two-story parking garage, there is a separate entrance at the south end of the lobby, and it is only a few steps from the car to the doorway.

The tunnel connecting the two facilities enters the clinic at the laboratory on the ground floor. It was designed this way so that patients would not be exposed to the weather when going from the hospital to the clinic, or vice versa.

Opening off the main lobby at the south end is a snack bar and a small room for wheel chairs and stretchers. A waiting area, with comfortable chairs and a custom-made carpet with the insignia of the doctor, coupled with the initials of Dr. P. W. Malone and Dr. John E. Hogan, is just inside the main entrance. The registration desk is at the north end of the lobby, and behind this are the business offices, such as for bookkeeping, insurance, accounts, as well as the executives' offices.

Every department in the clinic has its own reception area, where patients may wait their turns. Adjacent to the reception areas are the nurses' stations for that department.

On the northeast corner of the first floor is the department of pediatrics—Doctors J. M. Woodall and Milton W. Talbot. Besides his office, each doctor has an examination and treatment room. Also, there are eight treatment rooms for small children and four for larger ones. In addition, there is a sterilizing and treatment room. With a view toward future expansion, there is a spare office and treatment room should another doctor join the staff at some future time.

At the southeast corner of the first floor is the department of general surgery — Doctors John E. Hogan and Carl B. Marcum. Each of the surgeons has an office, plus two treatment and examination rooms. There is room where the physicians may perform minor surgery, and another room is set aside as a central sterilizer. Looking again toward future expansion, there is an office and treatment area for the accommodation of another surgeon if the staff is ever enlarged.

The first floor also has public rest rooms, opening off the main lobby.

On the ground floor, at the northeast corner, is the X-ray area, for both diagnostic and therapeutic uses. Dr. W. R. Cashion is in this department of radiology, which includes radium therapy. The therapy room, with its giant machines, includes walls of lead — one-eighth inch thick—and lead on the ceiling is a quarter inch thick. Controls for the equipment in this room are outside, and a window of one-inch thick lead-glass allows the doctor to watch his patient being treated. All persons working in this department wear film badges for safety. There are two X-ray diagnostic rooms, and six dressing rooms for patients being treated here. A developing room for negatives includes other equipment for handling the film. Dr. Cashion has an office, an examining room, and a proctoscopic room. The X-ray storage room will handle records for 15 years.

At the northwest corner of the ground floor is the laboratory, which serves all departments. There is a room for the blood bank, a gastric analysis room, a radioisotopes and electrocardiographic room, office area and bacteriology room.

The giant central chart room is located adjacent to the lab in the center of the building.

At the southeast corner of the ground floor is the Department of Orthopedic Surgery and physiotherapy—Dr. George M. Hilliard. In addition to his office, he has an examining room, a cast room, and storage area. In the physiotherapy area, he has facilities for diathermy, using short wave and ultra sound.

At the southwest corner of the ground floor is located the physicians' lounge and library, with wall-to-wall bookshelves and a conference area. The nurses' lounge is also located in this area. The central supply and storage room for the entire clinic is located on the ground floor as is the mechanical room, where utility connections, air conditioning units, and other building support facilities are housed.

On the second floor, the department of urology—Dr. G. F. Dillon—is located at the center of the east side. In addition to his office, there is a treatment and examining room, a recovery room, a cystoscopic room, plus an extra office and two extra treatment-examining rooms for expansion.

At the north end of the second floor is the Department for Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat, with Dr. P. W. Malone and Dr. J. W. Tipton. This department includes complete facilities for the treatment of disorders of the eyes, including fitting of eye-glasses; ears, including hearing aid fittings; nose and throat. Each doctor has an office and there is an extra one for another doctor if one is later added to the staff. In addition, there is an optical and hearing aid dispensary and laboratory; refractory room for both doctors, a minor eye and treatment room, an audiometric room for hearing tests, two ear and nose treatment rooms, a sterilizing area, plus several other treatment rooms. One of the unique wall treatments in the clinic is Dr. Malone's office—he has Japanese Dynasty White Silk wall covering duplicated in vinyl. A blue carpet rounds out the decor.

On the southeast corner of the second floor is the department of obstetrics and gynecology — Doctors F. W. Turfing and M. A. Porter. Both doctors have offices and examining-treatment rooms, plus a sterilizing room and other auxiliary rooms.

The largest department in the clinic is the department of internal medicine—Doctors E. V. Swift, Jack H. Burnett, D. F. Terry and J. P. Darby. In addition, Dr. Terry has specialty in radioisotopes, and Dr. Darby has allergy as a specialty. This department has offices for each of the doctors and each has two examining - treatment rooms. Also, Dr. Darby has a room devoted to his allergy work.

From the lobby, patients may take the elevator to either of the other floors. Or there are two stairways either side of the elevator shafts for those who prefer. Ample corridors service all three floors between departments.

Planned A Group Of Specialists Here

When Dr. P. W. Malone and Dr. J. E. Hogan became associated in the formation of the Malone and Hogan Clinic-Hospital on Nov. 1, 1938, the basic philosophy in the organization of the clinic was to provide a specialized group of physicians and surgeons who would be able to treat almost all of the medical and surgical problems of the people of this section of West Texas.

It was realized that in a population center this size that certain specialties probably never could be adequately covered but it was felt important to add specialists to the clinic as demands occurred so as to make it possible for people to get specialized treatment without the necessity of going to the larger cities of Texas which, of course, are considerable distance from Big Spring.

Consequently specialists have been added in the various fields until at the present time the staff consists of 15 men specialized in their various fiejds of practice. There are two men doing general surgery; one in orthopedic surgery; two in pediatrics; four in internal medicine; one in urology; two in obstetrics and gynecology; two in eye, ear, nose and throat; and one in X-ray and radium therapy.

Another major point in the formation of the clinic was to develop not only a specialized group of physicians to render medical and surgical treatment to the people of this community but to develop an institution which could be used for the training of medical and medical auxiliary workers. The clinic has worked in close cooperation with the Howard County Junior College for several years in the Licensed Vocational Training program. In addition, 12 physicians have worked and trained at this institution and are practicing elsewhere at the present time except that one died after leaving the clinic and one died while practicing with the group.

Long Connection In Clinic Facility

R. L. HEITH

R. L. Heith, clinic manager for the new Malone and Hogan Clinic facility, has been with the organization for over 14 years, but he has a sentimental and personal connection dating back much further.

Before even the original unit of the Bivings and Barcus Hospital (later to become the Malone and Hogan Hospital) was built, Dr. Charles K. Bivings attended the birth of R. L. Heith at the family home between Vealmoor and Luther communities in northern Howard County.

Heith had a career in electrical engineering in mind when he joined Malone and Hogan May 2, 1949, but he's happy fate turned as it did.

Attending Gay Hill elementary school, he was graduated from Big Spring High School in 1944. He entered Texas Tech, but after three semesters dropped out to join the U. S. Navy during World War II. He did a year's work at Howard County Junior College, then transferred to the University of Texas to begin work on a degree in electrical engineering.

Before he was able to complete work on it, he took a job with the U.S. Corps of Engineers supervising electrical work at the VA Hospital being built here. One Friday he received a call to come talk with one of the doctors at Malone and Hogan, and as a result the following Monday morning he was at work on outside collections. Two years later he became an associate in the business office, assisting Schley Riley, administrator. When the hospital and clinic were separated in 1960, he became clinic manager.

Heith is a member of the National Medical Group Management Association, the first to be named executive vice president of the Private Hospital Association of Texas.

He is past president of the Big Spring Junior Chamber of Commerce, second vice president of the American Business Club. He was married June 9, 1947 to Dolores (Peetie) Gage, and they have three children, Lynn, 16, Anne, 14, and Bobby, 12. The family has membership in the First Baptist Church and the residence is at 1711 Yale.

Modern X-Ray Equipment Included In New Clinic

X-ray equipment in the new Malone and Hogan Clinic can photograph parts of the human body in 1-120th of a second—so fast the heart is pictured standing still.

In addition, the photograph can be fully processed in a single compact machine—about the size of a home washer unit—in seven minutes.

A radiologist, or X-ray technician, can thus examine films seven minutes after they are taken.

Doctors can have an X-ray made and moments later explain the results to patients, showing the results to the patients through view boxes, located in various departments of the hospital. A doctor can send a request to the X-ray laboratory through the clinic's tube carrier system and then minutes later receive the finished film through the tube system.

The X-ray system is clustered in several rooms on the ground floor of the new clinic. The machines themselves are in rooms lined with lead, both on walls and ceiling, for protection of workers. Some of the lead installed in the new X-ray rooms was taken from the rooms in the Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital.

Two X-ray therapy machines are located in separate rooms. One is a 140,000-volt machine for superficial and intermediate therapy. The other machine, a 250-000-volt unit, is for treatment of deep malignancies.

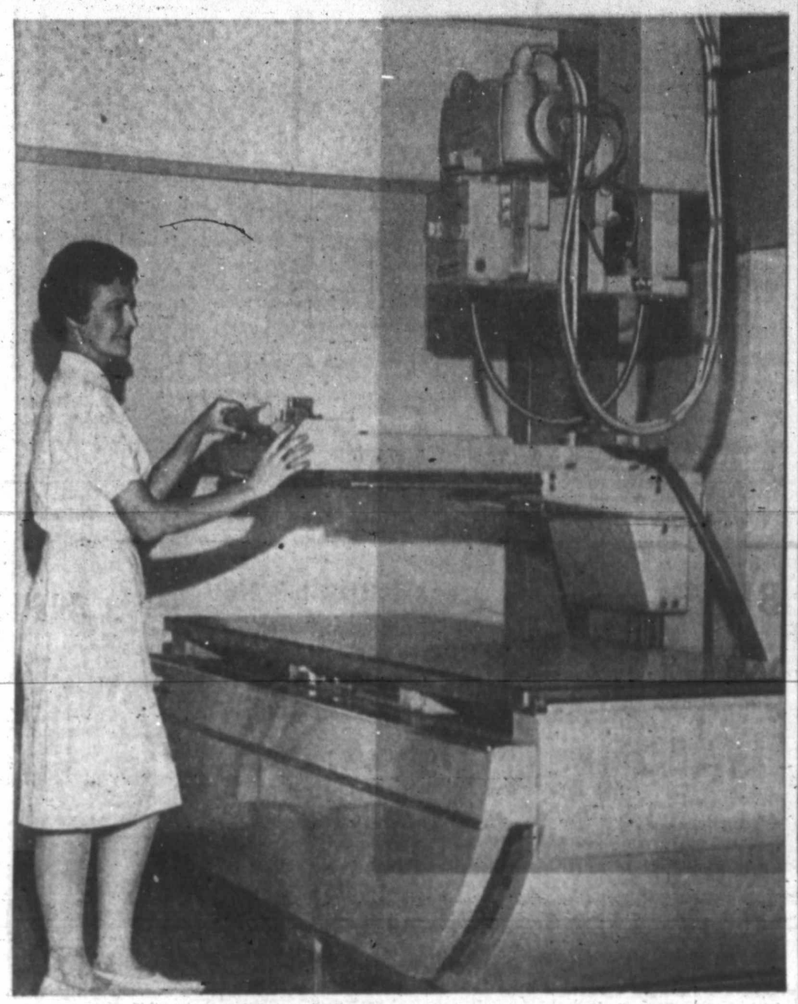

In other rooms in the X-ray area are a General Electric 200 milliampere machine, in use at the present clinic for about three years, and a new unit, a 300 milliampere machine purchased and installed recently.

Separating the two X-ray areas is a darkroom and developing facilities. Adjacent to the darkroom and located in the work corridor outside the X-ray rooms themselves is the developing machine, a Kodak X'omat unit. The unit will develop, fix, wash and dry film in the seven minutes. Directly across the hallway is a view box, where the radiologist can see the results of the X-ray.

Directing the X-ray program is Dr. W. R. Cashion. The program includes X-ray diagnosis, X-ray and radium therapy. An additional physician may later be added in radiology when needs justify it.

During 1963 the clinic handled 3,795 X-ray procedures for inpatients of the foundation hospital.

The X-ray system installed in the new clinic is such that an additional electrical transformer had to be installed on the power poles behind the clinic, in addition to the transformer serving all other electrical

Clinic Made Up Of Group Of Physicians

An association of physicians make up the Malone and Hogan Clinic.

They name their own officers and direct the operations of the new clinic building and otherwise plan for the clinic. (They do not have any connection with the Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital, which is across Ninth Street to the north, except that as other physicians might, they have privilege of practice in the hospital.)

Dr. Carl B. Marcum is president of the association of physicians; Dr. Edward V. Swift is vice president; Dr. F. W. Lurting is secretary; and R. L. Heith is the business manager. Doctors on the staff rotate as officers and members of the board.

Tunnel Helps Transfer Patients In Comfort

Part of the planning which went into the design of the new Malone and Hogan Clinic included a tunnel between the new structure and the present Foundation Hospital — now a reality with the opening of the new facility.

The tunnel will make it possible for patients to go from either building to the other, or to be moved by wheelchair or stretcher, without exposure to weather conditions. Physicians, nurses and other personnel can also move from building to building without going outside.

The tunnel connects the ground floor of the clinic with the corridor of the ground floor across Ninth Street in the Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital. The entrances to the tunnel are located within steps of the elevator units of the two buildings.

In addition, the tunnel carries the tubes for the automatic carrier service connecting various departments. Tube carriers will move from stations in the clinic building to and from two stations in the present hospital through the tunnel pipes. The two hospital stations are at the first and second floor nurses stations.

The tunnel itself is painted with colors blending with the overall color scheme of the new clinic, with Vinyl asbestos tile floors. Fire doors are located at the two ends of the tunnel, making it possible to seal off the buildings from each other in case of fire or similar emergencies.

The tunnel is seven feet wide, with a ceiling height of seven feet. The same fluorescent lighting is in use in the tunnel as in other portions of the buildings.

Broke Family Law Tradition, Determined To Be A Doctor

Edward V. Swift broke a family tradition in law to become a physician. His father and three generations before him had been lawyers, but when Edward Swift completed his high school at Palestine, Texas, he was determined to become a doctor.

DR. E. V. SWIFT

He completed his pre-medical work at Texas A&M College and obtained his B.S. degree in 1929, then took his doctor of medicine degree at the University of Texas School of Medicine in 1933.

After his internship at Parkland Hospital in Dallas, he went to the Mayo Foundation for residency from 1935-38 then had an assistantship at Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., from 1938-39. He had embarked upon a staff assignment with Breckenridge Hospital in Austin when he entered military service in 1940. He saw extensive duty in the United States and France and was chief of medical service for for the 2041st Hospital Group which had three major units at Sisson Village near Paris.

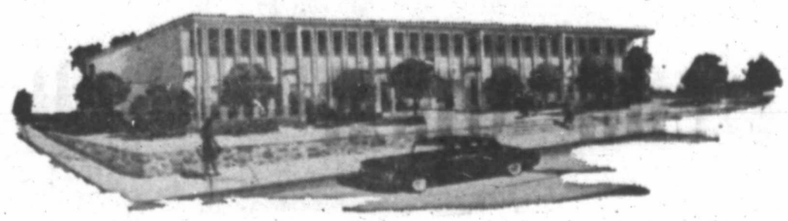

Following his separation from service in 1946, he came to Big Spring to join the Malone and Hogan Clinic staff in the practice of internal medicine, the field in which he has his board certification.

Dr. Swift is a fellow in the American Heart Association, is a member in the Permian Basin, Texas and American Medical Associations, and is in the Alumni Association of the Mayo Foundation. He has served as president of the Permian Basin Medical Society. In addition, he has been a Chamber of Commerce director and has taken part in numerous civic enterprises with his wife, the former Anne Peck, who was a nurse at Mayo's when they were married in Rochester in 1938.

They have two children, Gina, 12, and Charles, 10, and make their home at 603 Edwards Circle. The family attends First Christian Church, and the hobby for all is fishing and boating, much of it at Granite Shoals where they have a cabin.
