Rain, Hail Deal Blow To Amarillo

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI)— A torrential rain, with high winds and hammering hail, turned Amarillo into a quagmire today and for a time water rushed down streets so hard automobiles were swept onto lawns and smashed into houses.

Dozen of persons climbed to the roofs of their stalled cars and had to be rescued by police and volunteers in motor boats.

The cloudburst, one of the worst in years, dumped nearly five inches of rain into Amarillo within three hours last night.

It came while a wide section of West Texas was under a severe weather alert. At Hereford, lightning struck an old Italian prisoner of war camp now used for Mexican dwellings, and set a barracks on fire.

But the storm seemed to zero in on Amarillo.

Only a light rain fell at Canyon, 18 miles away, and less than an inch was reported by ranchers living in a 10 mile perimeter around the Panhandle city.

Hail the size of golf balls fell and smashed windshields, plate glass windows and hundreds of neon signs.

Lightning hit a tranformer and plunged a large section of the downtown area into darkness. The lighting on the Canyon-Amarillo Expressway was out for awhile.

There were no deaths or injuries reported, but plenty of misery.

Police said that at least two cars were washed onto lawns in the southwest section of the city, and another car was carried by the swift water into the side of a house.

But a large lake located in the middle of Amarillo was taking off the drainage and police said most of the water would be drained off by this afternoon.

The municipal airport runways were flooded and for a time outgoing flights had to be halted. The water ran into the main building.

The Weather Bureau called for more thunderstorms this afternoon and tonight in northwest and part of North Central Texas. Otherwise, clear to partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures were called for.

Otherwise, the state had an almost perfect Memorial Day with only a few wispy clouds and a hot sun that drove temperatures into the high 80s and 90s over most of the state and above 100 in the southwest.

Temperatures Tuesday ranged from 105 at Presidio, highest in the state and also the nation, down to a comparatively cool 79 degrees at Galveston.

Pampa Area Rain Light

Despite a severe weather alert yesterday Pampa and vicinity received very little rainfall. Only .40 inch was recorded in Pampa, on the Daily News gauge. No damage was reported from the gusty winds.

Rain over the area, east and west of Pampa, was sporadic and totaled only small amounts. In the Miami area a tornado was seen by an unidentified Pampa man leap-frogging the hills and heading toward Wheeler. No damage was reported.

The heavy, but brief rainfalls east of Pampa stopped a number of autoists on the highways. In some instances some sought shelter at service stations along Highway 60. A report in Canadian said a creek flooded between Canadian and Wheeler, interrupting traffic for a brief spell.

The five-day forecast in Pampa calls for above normal temperatures.

RELAY STATION BLASTED — Only wreckage remains of the antenna atop a microwave relay station near Wendover, Utah, after an explosion blasted the tower. The blast wrecked the inside of the concrete station building. Two other communication stations in western Utah also were dynamited in almost simultaneous explosions. The blasts are being investigated by the FBI, state and private authorities. (NEA TELEPHOTO)

City Commission Defers Purchase Of 'Draw' Land

Action on accepting a deed for a half-mile strip of "draw" land west of Hobart St. from the Community Hotel Corp. was deferred today by the city commission pending further study of city-owned property in the area east of Hobart St.

The strip of land was offered to the city for $10 for future use as park property Considerable discussion was given to the offer on the pros and cons of the city's obligations and maintenance problems from the drainage standpoint.

Commissioner L. P. Fort said he had the feeling that "all was not out in the open" in connection with the deed.

"Why," he asked, "should we buy a ditch for $10 that could cost the taxpayers a large sum of money later on?"

Answering a question, City Attorney Bob Gordon said he thought it always is good policy for the city to have control of such property, if possible, for the prevention of problems arising because of private encroachment.

Mayor E. C. Sidwell also stated he believed it would be a good idea to own the property, but not until after the other matter of city-owned property to the east had been straightened out.

The commission today had a request from Corley C. Davis, manager of the Davis Trailer Ranch, in the 1400 block of E. Frederic St., asking that the city oil streets in his trailer park.

Davis said that city trucks oiled approaches to packing house property opposite his property and he felt he should have the same treatment.

City Manager John Koontz said the county oiled the packing house street.

Mayor Sidwell, with the consent of city commissioners, advised Davis the matter would be investigated. Both the packing house property and the trailer park are outside the city limits.

Mrs. Sam Motley of the City Improvement Club and James Morgan of the Negro Chamber of Commerce asked the commission to circulate petitions among property owners in the Negro section to start street paving improvements.

The commission also agreed to send the health inspector and city police into the district to order property owners to clean up their premises from a health standpoint wherever it was found necessary.

Geniuses Working!

Visitors at city commission meetings in City Hall always are called upon for any business they may have to transact with city officials.

One visitor today was Mike Fort.

When he was called upon, Commissioner L. P. Fort introduced his son, Mike.

"He's just up here to observe genius at work," the commissioner said.

Texan Given Real Scare By Meteor

HARLETON, Tex. (UPI) — A fireball fell into J. J. Craber's backyard early today and it scared the dickens out of him.

It was a meteor and it narrowly missed his house.

"It sorta lit up everything as it flashed down to earth, and then we heard this sort of bump as it dug into the backyard," Craber said.

He and his neighbors went and dug it up. Craber said it had embedded itself about two feet in the earth.

Craber said the meteor was about 8 inches in diameter and weighed about 20 pounds.

Pampa Student Loses In 'Bee'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 34th annual National Spelling Bee opened today with a field of 73 contestants competing.

The spellers, including a Pampan, whose ages run from 10 to 15, come from throughout the country and as far away as Hawaii. Most of them are in the seventh and eighth grades.

The contest is expected to last for two days with the windup coming before noon on Thursday when the words get tougher and tougher.

One contestant has reached the national finals for the second time. She is 13-year-old Karen Grimm, an eighth grader at Franklin Junior High in Reisterstown, Md.

Other contestants include:

Sharon Luvaul, 12, Albuquerque, N.M.; Pat Ludeman, 14, Pampa, Tex.; Stephen Smith, 12, Corpus Christi, Tex.; Joyce Conrad, 13, Dallas, Tex.; David Gilmer, 14, Las Cruces, N.M.; Cecilia Roehl, 14, Fort Worth, Tex.; Terry Margerum, 14, Houston, Tex.; Lana Gay Burkett, 13, Andrews, Tex.; Karen Lehr, 14, San Antonio, Tex.

Miss Ludeman lost out in the first round of the contest today when she misspelled "noisome" as "noisum."

Miss Ludeman, a Pampa Junior High School student, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin F. Ludeman, 806 N. Frost. She became eligible for the National Spelling Bee in Washington D. C. after winning the district High Plains Spelling Bee held in Amarillo in April with the correct spelling of the word, "otheopist."

More Freedom Riders Jailed In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—"Freedom Riders" made their first assault by rail on Mississippi Tuesday, but met the same fate as previous riders who tried to break down bus station segregation here.

A bi-racial student group, including four white Cornell undergraduates, arrived from New Orleans aboard the "City of New Orleans" train and was arrested in the white waiting room of the Illinois Central Station.

The group was jailed on the usual breach of the peace charges, as were 45 previous riders who came here by bus. Taken to city court five hours later, they had a five-minute trial and received suspended 60-day sentences and $200 fines each.

All chose jail rather than pay the fines. It was the same pattern seen in previous journeys to the Mississippi capital by members of the "Freedom Rider" movement. And, as in the other desegregation attempts here, there was no violence.

In Montgomery, Ala., a federal hearing seeking to enjoin certain Alabama officials and several anti-integration groups from interfering with interstate buses carrying "Freedom Riders" entered what may be its final session today.

Three witnesses invoked the Fifth Amendment Tuesday when questioned about the burning of a bus near Anniston, Ala., May 14. One was cited for contempt of court in the government's efforts to tie the Ku Klux Klan to the bus burning.

Robert M. Shelton, 31, imperial wizard of the Alabama klan, did not plead the Fifth Amendment but answered "I don't know" to numerous questions. He said he keeps few records of Klan affairs and "merely acts in a public relations position."

Castro Declared In Need Of Spies

MIAMI (UPI) — Radio Havana announced Tuesday night that Premier Fidel Castro needs 500,000 more spies to help him track down saboteurs and other foes of his regime.

The official radio called on Castro supporters to heed the appeal of his national directorate of citizen spies for recruits to help "stamp out criminal activity."

Trujillo Is Reported Victim Of Assassin

Dominican Republic Situation Serious, Travelers Declare

PARIS (UPI) — Dominican Republic dictator Rafael Leonidas Trujillo has been assassinated, White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said tonight.

"It is our understanding that Rafael Trujillo has been assassinated," Salinger said. "President Kennedy has instructed Secretary of State Dean Rusk to stay in Washington and keep close watch on events in the Dominican Republic in view of the assassination of President Trujillo."

The reference to "President" Trujillo was an error. Rafael Trujillo and his brother Hector both have served as presidents of the Dominican Republic. But Hector resigned Aug. 3, 1960, and was succeeded as president by Vice President Joaquin Balaguer.

In Washington, a high state department official today said the assassination report "seems to be true," but that the department could not flatly confirm the report without further proof.

A department spokesman said the reports came from "travelers arriving in a nearby country" — presumably Haiti. He said the travelers reported an "unusually tense situation" in the Dominican Republic.

Officials said there were reports the capital of Ciudad Trujillo is "under heavy military guard."

They said false rumors of Trujillo's assassination had been circulated many times in the past. Some appeared to have been started by Trujillo himself, presumably to smoke out political opposition.

Salinger said he could give no details of the assassination.

The National Broadcasting Company in New York said its reporter Bernard Diederich reported from Port-Au-Prince, Haiti, that a "traveler from the Dominican Republic" said an attempt was made last night to assassinate Trujillo. Diederich said there was no definite word on whether the attempt was successful. But he said the traveler said that people were being prevented from leaving the Dominican capital of Ciudad Trujillo, and that police were in evidence everywhere in the city.

Dominican telephone operators told NBC news that the country's dial system was out of order and that phone calls could not be completed.

Death Sets High Mark For Holiday

By United Press International

The burgeoning Memorial Day weekend traffic toll threatened today to overtake every previous summer holiday death record except the disastrous Fourth of July weekend of 1950.

Late reports to United Press International for the 102-hour holiday period from 6 p.m. Friday until midnight Tuesday showed 466 traffic fatalities.

The figure eclipsed the total of 461 traffic deaths recorded over a three-day Labor Day period in 1951. It was only a handful of lives away from the all-time summer holiday high of 491 highway fatalities, set over July 4, 1950.

The Memorial Day weekend, 1961, accidental death count:

Traffic 466; drownings 102; planes 2; miscellaneous 95; total 666.

Highway carnage took 44 lives in California, Michigan and Texas each recorded 30 traffic deaths, Illinois 29, New York 23 and Indiana 22. There were 14 highway deaths in Oklahoma, North Carolina and Maryland, and 13 in Pennsylvania, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Oly Rhode Island, Montana and Delaware survived the four-day holiday without a recorded traffic fatality.

Among the deadliest accidents of the holiday were two in Illinois and one each in Florida and Texas, each of which claimed four lives. Three persons died and seven others were injured Tuesday in a head-on collision near Orwell, Ohio.

The toll maintained a pace of one traffic death approximately every 13 minutes throughout the 102 hours. The previous high of 371 for a Memorial Day weekend was broken late Monday.

The lure of summer weather, beaches and ponds took a heavy toll of drowning victims. Violent death from miscellaneous causes boosted non-traffic fatalities into the hundreds.

State Accidents Claim 52 Lives

By United Press International

Violence took the lives of at least 52 persons in Texas during the Memorial Day holiday, which the state hardly observes.

Traffic accidents, as usual, took the most lives — a total of at least 30. They died between 6 p. m. Friday and midnight Tuesday. Eight persons drowned.

The others died in miscellaneous ways, ranging from murder and suicide to electrocution. More than half of the fatal highway accidents caused multiple deaths.

At Cleburne, a little girl drowned and it almost turned out to be a multiple Memorial Day tragedy.

Dollie Mae Cogdill, 7, was wading in the Brazos River. She stepped into a hole, screamed for help and disappeared. Her mother, Mrs. Roy Cogdill, grandfather, Claude Lee Jones and a brother, Roy, all ran to help her.

They stepped into the hole too and were trapped. They could swim and had to be rescued by three other men who heard the yells and came running. They didn't know the little girl was in the water until the family had recovered enough to tell them, and by that time it was too late.

France Greets U. S. President

PARIS (UPI) — President Kennedy began historic conferences with President Charles de Gaulle of France today barely two hours after he had been welcomed to Paris by one of the biggest crowds in recent years.

Kennedy went to the French "White House" alone for a 35-minute chat with De Gaulle before lunch. Mrs. Kennedy and Mme. De Gaulle joined the two men for the 90-minute "intimate" lunch which was to follow.

The main talk of the day was scheduled to start after lunch.

Today's conferences marked the first encounter between the U. S. President who carried the free world's hopes on his shoulders and the French leader who governs with "full powers" unknown since the days of Napoleon I.

A crowd estimated at more than 200,000 turned out to cheer Kennedy as he rode through the city from the airport. A police spokesman said it was a larger turnout than greeted either President Eisenhower or Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev when they came here a year ago.

Kennedy opened his historic peace mission to Europe with a pledge to work for "greater Western security and strength."

The day was bright and sunny as the Kennedy plane landed at 10:20 a.m. (3:20 a.m. CST.) and taxied slowly up to a red carpet where De Gaulle and his wife and other high French officials waited.

Two non-commissioned officers left the plane first, followed by Kennedy and Mrs. Kennedy. She wore a pale blue coat and matching hat. A French air force band played ruffles and flourishes and then the national anthems of the two countries.

Kennedy paid tribute to France in his airport speech as the United States' "oldest friend."

"Our goals are greater Western security and strength — the preservation of freedom and the day when France never will again be a beachhead for war, but a fountainhead of peace," he said.

De Gaulle spoke as warmly.

"My dear President, you are most welcome here in France. Everything points to it: your personality which we hold in

Mrs. Kennedy Wins Plaudits In France

PARIS (UPI)—Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy stepped out of the Quai D'Orsay today and into the spring sunshine to a spontaneous tribute from nearly 2,000 women that must have convinced her she has nothing to fear in her new role as ambassadress of American fashion.

For the second time in 2½ hours—first at her arrival at Orly Airport with her husband President John F. Kennedy and again when she left the Quai D'Orsay to attend a lunch given by President de Gaulle — French women got a chance to examine Mrs. Kennedy's all-American wardrobe.

Judging from the cheers, from the waving French and American flags, the average Frenchwoman liked what she saw. But whether this was partly due to Mrs. Kennedy's good looks and the excitement of the state visit will have to await the verdict of French fashion experts.

"Jackie is absolutely terrified," said Mrs. Herve Alphand, wife of the French ambassador to the United States. "She is afraid of what the critics will say because she, as the wife of the President, cannot be dressed any longer in the French couture houses."

"But the French people will be crazy about her."

The people seemed to be just that for they dubbed her "la belle Jackie"—pretty Jackie—and gave her cheers every bit as enthusiastic as those that greeted her husband.

She was "tres jolie"—very pretty—in a pale yellow two piece with a small hat perched on the back of her head. Mme. Charles Lucet, her "lady-in-waiting" accompanied her and Mme. de Gaulle led them into the palace through lines of guards in plumed golden helmets.

Mrs. Kennedy displayed two of the costumes designed for this trip by Oleg Cassini and Chez Ninon of New York. At the airport she wore a pale blue wool coat, single breasted with three self buttons, and a low set pointed collar.

For the lunch she wore a lightweight wool dress, diagonal closing loosely tied belt and slightly flared skirt with box pleats. Over this she wore a matching jacket, loosely fitted with notched lapels.

Gas Death Meted Killer Of Woman

PARCHMAN, Miss. (UPI)—Negro Robert Lee Goldsby died in Mississippi's gas chamber today for the 1954 murder of a white woman.

Talking and laughing with men who strapped him into the chamber's metal chair, Goldsby, 35, showed no fear. He kissed a crucifix held out to him by a Roman Catholic priest, waved goodbye to a Baptist minister and, when the chamber door slammed shut, closed his eyes to await death.

U.S Will Offer Island For Sale

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If you ever said to yourself that someday you'd like to buy an island, you'll have your chance June 26.

The Interior Department announced today that it would offer at public auction in New Orleans that day a 2½-acre island in the Gulf of Mexico.

Finding Of Anti-Cancer Drug Declared 'Exciting'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Surgeon General Luther Terry said Tuesday night that government tests of an anti-cancer drug indicates "we're on our way" toward conquest of the dread disease.

Terry described as "a very exciting thing" the results of tests in which the chemical methotrexate was used against a rare form of cancer which develops in the womb of pregnant women.

In the tests at the National Cancer Institute at Bethesda, Md., the drug cured or arrested nearly 50 per cent of such womb cancer cases. This type of cancer usually spreads rapidly and almost always has been fatal.

Other public health officials said that the success with methotrexate opens up prospects of finding other chemicals to cure other forms of cancer.

In the government tests, 63 womb cancer victims — some near death — were treated with methotrexate. In 30, the cancer was arrested or eliminated, of the remainder 25 died, one showed no improvement and seven are still being treated.

Methotrexate also has prolonged the lives of some victims of leukemia, cancer of the blood which is always fatal. The drug has been used with very limited success against cancer of the testicles.

Health officials cautioned against considering methotrexate a cure for all forms of cancer. They said scientists probably never would find such a drug but probably would have to develop a specific drug for each form of cancer.

Charge Hurled At Stevenson By Demo Solon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., has charged that U. N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson was responsible for the decision to hold the ill-fated Cuban invasion attempt "to a minimum."

Long, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told the Senate Monday that certain changes were in order among those who advised President Kennedy on the rebel landings.

He mentioned no names, but he said he was not satisfied with the testimony of Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and others before a Senate subcommittee.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., has urged that the joint chiefs be removed partly because of their role in the Cuban fiasco. Long said he agreed with some of Gore's complaints.

Long made his attack as administration leaders hit back at mounting criticism of the tractors-for-prisoners negotiations with Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., told the Senate that former Vice President Richard M. Nixon was morally and legally wrong in attacking private efforts to raise money for 500 tractors to be traded for 1,200 captured invaders.

Long said there was some doubt who was responsible for the failure of the landings. But he said whoever was responsible for giving advice on the military planning "should not be entrusted with a similar responsibility in the future."

"Apparently the decision to shave the operation to a minimum, thinner than the skin on our teeth, was advised by our representative on the United Nations," Long charged.

DOGS REUCE TAXES

NORWICH, England (UPI) — Two home owners had their property taxes reduced Monday because of barking dogs at an adjoining race track.

FIRE RAVAGES TOWN

TOKYO (UPI) — A fast-spreading forest fire Monday night swept through the town of Taro, destroyed 60 0 homes and left 2,000 persons homeless.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., ranking minority member of the Senate Finance Committee, said for DuPont to distribute its GM holdings under existing law would "in effect be confiscation."

Luncheon With Famed Dog Proves New Experience For UPI Writer

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) —"How would you like to have lunch with the queen of National Transportation Week?" said this press agent, who spoke with heavy Madison Avenue accent.

All of my instincts told me to reply in the negative. I learned long ago to beware of press agents with Madison Avenue accents. Besides that, I'm a married man.

What finally overcame my scruples was his assurance that other guests would be present at the lunch and that the transportation queen was, in fact a wholesome-minded dog named "Lady Greyhound."

That sounded innocent enough, so I joined the little group in Lady Greyhound's hotel room and took a seat at a table overlooking a fruit cocktail.

On my left was Lorrain D'Essen of New York, the dog's trainer. On my right was Sam Blake, the aforementioned press agent who represents a bus company the name of which excapes me.

"Lady Greyhound was chosen queen by the Associated Transport Clubs of America," Blake said. "She's the world's most honored dog."

"I train dogs for theatrical productions," Mrs. D'Essen said. "I have four dogs currently playing on Broadway."

"Lady Greyhound is the only dog with an honorary college degree," Blake said. "She also is an honorary member of Delta Omega Gamma, a sorority whose initials spell 'Dog.'"

"I always have about 16 dogs in my home in Manhattan," Mrs. D' said.

"Lady Greyhound is an honorary disc jockey," Blake said. "When she hears about a deejay who has done something to promote better human-animal relations, she makes him an honorary dog."

"I also own a kangaroo named Victori," Mrs. D' said. "We once brought her to Washington 'kick off' the United Givers Fund Drive."

"Lady Greyhound is making a record album strictly for dogs," Blake said. "It's called 'Music To Wag Your Tail By.' It is being recorded in hi-fido."

"I also have a llama named Llinda Llee," Mrs. D' said. "She can consume about four quarts of cocktails before she's even sleepy. Fortunately, she has three stomachs."

"Out in Hollywood they're making a picture about dogs," Blake said. "Lady Greyhound is going to write the bark-ground music."

"I once raised a lion cub named Dryfuss," Mrs. D' said. "You have to be careful how you pet a lion."

"In Clay Center, Kan., they changed the name of a street from Wall St. to Lady Greyhound Ave.", Blake said. "Maybe you could write that Wall St. has gone to the dogs."

"There's a marvelous book out now called 'Kangaroo in the Kitchen,'" Mrs. D' said. "I wrote it."

"Lady Greyhound is the only dog that has ever made an honorary cat," Blake said. "This happened during National Cat Week. She had nine honorary lives."

Throughout the lunch, the honorary queen herself slept on the couch. I was glad that Mrs. D'Essen didn't bring along her llama.

Status Of Legislation As Solons Close Regular Sessions Outlined

AUSTIN (UPI)— Status of major legislation at the close of the 40-day regular session of the 5th Texas Legislature:

Taxes — House passed a 2 per cent general sales tax, and the Senate substituted its sales tax plus temporary tax increases on gas production and corporation franchise. House rejected the Senate plan, and the two chambers failed to work out an acceptable compromise.

Appropriations — Both chambers passed record $2.5 billion budget bills, and differences were ironed out in a conference committee. Bill was never acted upon because of failure to pass tax program to support new spending.

Teacher's Pay — House passed $810 annual raise. Senators passed the bill just before the end of the session, but hinged passage on a House passage of a tax bill.

Medical Care — A $60 million state-federal program for the aged, blind and disabled passed both chambers, but without tax program state does not have money to finance its $15 million share.

Colleges — Appropriations bill had increases for the 19 state-supported schools. Both chambers also passed the bill to bring University of Houston into state system in 1963.

Loan Sharks — House passed small loan regulatory act. Senate's substitute version died in the committee.

Water — Constitutional amendment to let Texas voters decide whether the state should buy space in future reservoirs passed both chambers. House and Senate also approved bill to liberalize loan program for reservoir construction. Water pollution control passed House and died in Senate committee as did bill to reorganize board of water engineers.

Redistricting — Both chambers passed bill altering House and Senate districts. No action taken on congressional redistricting.

Traffic — Tighter driver license act passed House, died in Senate committee. A. D. W. I. chemical test bill died in both House and Senate committees, as did bill to create county and city traffic courts. A stricter driver financial responsibility act won tentative House approval, too late for final passage.

Horse Racing — House killed proposed constitutional amendment to legalize parimutuel betting.

Liquor —Both chambers pased bill to license and regulate private clubs.

Annexation — House passed bill to curb abuses of municipal annexation, but it died on Senate floor.

Unemployment — A bill to liberalize payments won preliminary House passage, but members refused to suspend rules for final passage and it died.

Abandoned Account — Measure 5 let state claim abandoned property killed in the House.

REA—House killed bill to let electric co-ops continue serving areas annexed by cities.

Migrant Labor— Five bills to improve migrant working conditions died.

Economy— Bill to create permission to reorganize state government passed House, died in the Senate.

Industrial Safety— Mild House bill was killed in the Senate.

Welfare—Both chambers passed constitutional amendment to increase ceiling on welfare payments from $4 million to $52 million. It will be submitted to the voters.

Severe weather shared curtain time last night with the presentation of the 13th annual revue of Beaux Arts Dance students. As "back-stage" hour, 7 p.m., approached it became a race between the clouds and dancers carrying frilly and fragile costumes to see which could reach the Pampa Junior High School auditorium first. When the curtain went up at 7:30 p.m., it was apparent the dancers had won. The race was a repeat performance of last year on recital date, when severe weather then posed a threat to costumes and attendance.

A capacity crowd of parents, brothers, sisters, relatives, neighbors and friends watched as approximately 173 dance students performed in a variety of numbers which included ballet, toe, tap, modern jazz, Hawaiian and Spanish numbers.

The 1961 dance recital was presented under the direction of Jeanne Willingham, dance instructress, and was sponsored by Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority, which will use the funds derived from tickets sales for projects planned under their "Children of Gray County Fund."

Making its premier performance in Pampa was the Beaux Arts Ballet Company comprised of advanced toe and ballet students. The company presented a one-act ballet, "Les Sylphides", with music by Fredrick Chopin and choreography after the original by Michel Fokine as staged by Wilson Morelli.

Performers were Misses Susie Fillman, Martha Price, Leslie Watkins, Cynthia Plaster, Paula Sealey, Judy Robison, Jane Wells, Chreyn Ammerman, Diana Meyers, Sandra Molesworth, Glennette Dawkins, Lucille Gordon, and Linda Ladd.

Miss Sara Gordon, a former student of Miss Willingham, performed in the place of Miss Pamela Christine Martin, who was ill. Miss Gordon, a 1959 Pampa High School graduate, is attending Texas Technological College in Lubbock.

The Beaux Arts Junior Ballet Company had previously performed for the Panhandle Fine Arts Club in the Panhandle Junior High auditorium in April, but its performance last night was the first for Pampa audiences.

At intermission, perfect attendance awards were presented to Martha Price, 10 years; Judy Robison, nine years; Peggy Griffin, Gerry Saum, Pam Parker, five years; Glennette Dawkins, four years; Debra Parker, Diana Kay White, Diana Goodwin, Viola Parsley, three years; Jackie Edwards, Ila Faye Grayson, Nancy Ousley, two years; Steven Edwards, Lisa Cotten, Debra Eaton, Regina Ladd, Susan Edwards, Dixie Bond, Patsy Kelley, Frana Helton and Debbie Cunningham, one year.

The dance revue was presented in four parts with the finale spotlighted on three graduating seniors, Linda Diane Moore, Verena Hunter and Kay Kotara Braddock, who have studied with Miss Willingham since 1950.

Accompanists for the revue were Mrs. Jack Edwards, studio pianist; Coy Palmer, organist and Mike Palmer, drummer.

highest consideration, your rank as President of the United States which assures you of the greatest friendship possible and the difficult circumstances in which the world finds itself and which bring our two countries to line up their action, and finally the fact that at your side is the gracious Mrs. Kennedy."

Paris seldom has seen a tighter security arrangement. Ten thousand police and guards blanketed the city against the off chance that an Algerian extremist might try to attack De Gaulle or a Castro sympathizer attack Kennedy.

Flanking the two presidents were Premier Michel Debre and Gen. Jean Olie. About 20 French and American security officers were within 30 to 40 feet of the two presidents.

Among the Americans at the airport were a large number of women whose conversation made it clear they had come not so much to see the President as to see his wife.

American children scurried from spot to spot peering between the legs of adults.

Elaborate security precautions were in effect. About 10,000 police and other guards were at the airport, along the route into the city and scattered at strategic locations in Paris.

Production Of Film Inspired By Killings

Witnessing the killing of Chinese refugees, including women and children seeking to escape Red China, inspired the production of the film "The 11th Commandment" by Hollywood producer Robert Raisbeck.

"Thou shalt not enslave thy brother, thy neighbor nor his possessions" is the basic theme of the picture, described as the "most provocative film of this or any other year." It is a full length, wide screen feature which tells the story of two young Americans, a man and his wife, whose marriage is torn apart by the struggle between two massive philosophies, Communism and Capitalistic Free Enterprise. It is starting today at the La Vista theatre.

"The film is truly a first; the first motion picture ever filmed in Formosa and Quemoy," Raisbeck stated. "I was making a TV film on the island of Macao when I heard gun fire and ran to the beach.

"I saw a speedboat circling a Chinese junk while pouring machine gun fire into it. When the speedboat left to return to the Red China mainland and the junk drifted into shore, I saw that of the 60 men, women and children aboard, 59 were dead and the last one died shortly thereafter. They were seeking to escape from Communist brutality and tyranny in Red China and trying to find freedom.

"This butchery in addition to the knowledge that 34 million people had been killed by the Red Chinese, and that in the period alone in which Khrushchev has been in power, the Russian Communists have killed seven to eight million inspired the production of the film.

"Filming was done on the islands of Formosa (Taiwan) and Quemoy under the guns of the Red Chinese who dumped 1,000 shells on the island of Quemoy during the three and a half days it took to get the sequences there," Raisbeck explained.

Most of the actors in the film were actual refugees from the China mainland, acting out the same experiences they had undergone in earnest a short time before. The star of the film is Robert Dix, son of the famous film star Richard Dix. Members of the armed services stationed in the far East also acted in the picture.

It portrays the helplessness of the Chinese people under the Communist "commune" system in which families are separated according to what is deemed "best for the state" by the Red leaders. A school teacher shown conducting a Communist classroom is a refugee who actually taught such classes under the Communist rulers.

We Like Extremists

We are very fond of extremists.

We like people who know what they like and say so in unmistakable terms.

We tend to admire people who are positive in their positions, even if we don't agree with them. At last they say what they mean and mean what they say.

One of the reasons why we don't particularly admire socialists is that in the main they don't know what they want and their position is anything but extreme. They "go along" with the popular panaceas of the day in a somewhat zombic fashion. If a majority happens to approve of something they really can't sanction, they shift their position in order to be a part of the mass.

One of the spokesmen for the mediocre turns out to be Life Magazine.

Without gainsaying the excellence of its photographic artistry, this particular publication of the Luce enterprises has an editorial policy which seeks to cut down all extremes to an indis inguishable grey mass.

In the May 12th issue on its editorial page it makes this position clear. Its charge: "The present-day radicals, left or right, bring us neither hope nor realism."

Then it goes on to list as radicals of the right the John Birch Society, Young Americans for Freedom, Wm. Buckley's "National Review" and Barry Goldwater. It finds these organizations and Goldwater distasteful in diminishing order.

Then, jumping over it castigates the "left" beginning with "Fair Play for Cuba" author C. Wright Mills, a Columbia professor of Sociology and including Bertrand Russell ("Better Red than Dead"), the Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, and the recently formed "Committee of Correspondance" featuring David Riesman and Stuart Hughes, both of Harvard.

Life's way of lumping these extremists toge her is to say: "Thus both the leading new fringe positions, left and right, are shot through with escapism and desperation. Neither is helpful to the actual American situation. Extremists have often been Utopian and inspiring: these are Utopian and defeatist."

Life editors, of course, have a right to their opinions. But we know of nothing more Utopian and defeatist than the present economic and political climate of this country which is tending to the blindfolded game of following John Kennedy, whithersoever he goes.

And at least it can be said of the rightists and the leftists Life opposes that they are not blind and know precisely where they are going. Candidly, we don't happen to agree totally with a single one of the "extremists" Life lists. Yet, we find much of what some of them say of inspiration and true merit.

In a special article in Life on the John Birch Society, the magazine makes this bland assertion: "According to Welch's writing, communism is the deadly enemy of America—an incontestable proposition—and many of the most important figures in American public life have abetted the Communist conspiracy for nearly three decades — an incontestably scurrilous charge."

The time has come for some positive thinking and some extreme convictions in this nation, however unpopular they may be. Every new conviction is extreme at its outset, and the fact of extremism is more healthy than the fact of mediocrity and engineered apathy.

Double Burden

When will we learn? Government does NOT serve the people. Government serves government. The people are supposed to look after themselves and in addition pay the governmental bills.

End Private Farming

Ever since the days of Henry Agard Wallace in the agricultural areas of officialdom, we have had a mess in food production in this nation. The matter is already a national scandal.

Subsidies are paid to producers and non-producers. Taxes are levied to put new land into cultivation; and farmers are paid to take useful land out of cultivation. Stock-piles of commodities are mountain high and range from dairy products, eggs and cheese, to grains, nuts, fruits and beans.

The total cost of our agricultural fiasco isn't known and perhaps never will be known. It is one of the most monstrous pieces of evidence ever compiled to show that governmental meddling in the areas of production and distribution cannot be made to pay off.

If ever a pattern were needed to demonstrate what men ought NOT to do to one another and to one of our most vital and major industries, a current history of the government farm program should provide it.

Having said all of the above, we are still unprepared to report the full menace in the Kennedy farm bill which was submitted to the House of Representatives last April 18 and is called H. R. 6400. Briefly, we could say that if you think things have been a mess from the days of Wallace thru the days of Benson, prepare for a shock. Things can be made worse if effort is expended. And the Kennedy braintrusters are really trying.

The "Agricultural Act of 1961," while it covers 29 pages and plows up the existing terrain with the grace of a couple of panzer divisions, is really quite simple. In essence it says: The Secretary of Agriculture shall have full power to do as he pleases with the property for the production or the lives of every agricultural worker in the United States. And as a secondary consideration it adds: If the Secretary needs money to carry out any programs he has merely to ask for it and he shall have it.

This is the sum effect of H. R. 6400.

Probably not since the days of Joseph of Egypt has so much power been placed in the hands of one man in the agricultural field as is envisioned by this bill. To all intents and purposes if this measure is enacted as draf ed private ownership of farms, private management of farms, private marketing of farm products will cease to exist in these United States. For although this is not spelled out in so many words and sta ed in so many separate paragraphs, this would be the effort of the measure's passage.

Since the measure provides for what can only be described as plenipotentiary powers to be placed in the hands of the Secretary of Agriculture, he would become a dictator over food production. And since control would be in his hands, technical niceties about titles and who pays the taxes would cease to have meaning.

There is a degree of window dressing in the measure which perhaps accounts, in part, for its presence only on the assumption that either (a) those who drafted the bill had some twinges of conscience as they went along and blushingly included some items of camouflage so you wouldn't catch them at their work, or (b) those who drafted the measure were totally devoid of conscience and are in the process of trying to pull the wool over your eyes as well as over the eyes of the legislators who will be asked to approve.

Conditions in our food producing industries today are not good. They have been meddled with until the entire market place is out of joint and limping badly. Consider H. R. 6400 the coup de grace. It will no longer limp if this is passed; it will have been slain outright.

The answer to our agricultural malaise is to chase the government out of the picture entirely, rapidly and finally. And if the absence of government doesn't create a paradise instantly, at least we will be free to continue to try to improve that which we have. With government calling the turn, our entire ability to survive is geared to political whim and enforced economic ignorance.

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK — Love letter to a red haired actress:

The news here in New York is that Helen Hayes et al., responding to a State Department request, have agreed to undertake another long tour of the three plays she and the company, you included, have been and still are touring through Europe and the Middle East. You will be in Helsinki at the time this is written and, if you can pry yourself away from the bargains in mink and sable to be found in Helsinki, I'd like to ask if you also will remain with the company and do the Latin American s w i n g from mid - August through November. I don't really know if it is through November, but it will cover 10 nations in 13 weeks.

When I was with you in Germany, I knew at that time that several members of the company felt that, come the night of June 17 in Paris, they would sign off the payroll and consider their contribution to America foreign relations d o n e and finished. Miss Hayes, at that time, was herself not certain that she wished to undertake so long a second tour so soon after finishing the present one. Who could blame her? It has been long, rigorous and demanding, not only in stamina and the sustaining of sound, impressive performances, but in the constant need to be as flawlessly diplomatic as—well, as a diplomat. Up to now not even the youngest and least of the company has violated diplomacy and the reports to the State Department from American diplomats abroad is that fantastically important gains in good will have been accomplished. Actors, apparently, are more useful than dollars.

The news, therefore, that two representatives of the State Department had flown to Stockholm to try and persuade Miss Hayes to undertake a long Latin American tour after only two months' rest was not surprising. Nor was it surprising, once it was put to her that this was a patriotic request, that she consented.

I didn't talk to you about it because I feel that this is a decision you will have to make for yourself. Selfishly, I naturally hope you decide against the Latin American tour. As a c - - -, I don't know how you can say no. As a creative person I don't know how you can say no unless something develops in New York b e t w e e n now and June that would be more interesting here and more useful to you. I say June because you will have to commit yourself one way or the other by then so they can find another actress a n d rehearse her.

Peter Witt talked to me the other night about it, when the news came that the company—certainly Miss Hayes—would go on the second tour. It was his opinion t h a t if something he knew about, but did not wish to talk about yet, became an actuality for you on Broadway this fall you should not undertake the second tour. He said he would telephone you in Helsinki and, as well, see you in Paris the last week of the present tour. That, b e i n g a professional matter, bows me out. I will not, as I never have, take part in professional decisions and maybe that is why a show business marriage that will be 18 years old this September has lasted. Among other reasons.

What I am trying to say, perhaps awkwardly, is that as a man I would not wish to see you go again—but in all simple truth I don't really see how you can refuse to go. We are at a critical point in several Latin American nations, we desperately need something more human and tangible than shoveling American dollars into waspish nations. The human value is what has made the present tour so important to the State Department.

The decision, therefore, is both professional and yours.

Another Highway Tragedy

Allen - Scott Report:

Complete Report on Huge U.S. Aid to U.A.R. And Its Use, Asked by President; New Aid Questioned

ROBERT S. ALLEN PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON —President Kennedy, on the eve of departing for his eventful talks with President deGaulle and Premier Khrushchev, has set in motion a foreign a i d inquiry that may have far-reaching repercussions in the long - explosive Middle East.

Under this unannounced move, the State Department is to submit a detailed report on the amount of U.S. aid to the United Arab Republic and how it is being used there.

—Since last July 1, the UAR has received a record total of $158,474,000 in U.S. economic aid; $127,693,000 in farm commodities. In addition, President Nasser is pressing for another $25 million in aid by June 30, end of the current fiscal year. Previous largest a m o u n t given the UAR in a single year was around $100 million.

—Despite this record assistance, Nasser has consistently opposed U.S. policies in the Middle East, the Congo, Africa, Cuba and the United Nations. His latest challenging maneuver is the sponsorship of a so-called summit conference of "unaligned nations" to be held in August at a still-unnamed place. Premier Castro is foremost among those who have been invited.

—While no publicity is g i v e n the immense quantities of g o o d and other assistance received from the U.S., economic aid from Russia is constantly fanfared and acclaimed through Egypt and Syria. Since 1952, Soviet aid totals $465 million as compared to $492,610,000 from the U.S. In addition, the UAR has received an estimated $265 million in Iron Curtain arms and munitions.

—Notwithstanding Nasser's persistent hostility to U.S. f o r e i g n policies, and those of the West in general, he is vigorously seeking a continuance of the record-high aid in the new fiscal year starting July 1. He is asking for approximately $175 million.

It was this extraordinary demand, coupled with disturbing reports that Nasser is using U.S. aid to build up UAR military capabilities, that caused the President to order a comprehensive State Department study of this situation.

INNER COUNCIL SPLIT—Opinion is sharply divided among the President's top advisers on continuing large-scale aid to Nasser. Secretary Dean Rusk is against a drastic reduction. He favors giving considerably more aid on the theory that will "soften" the UAR dictator's stand against U.S. foreign policies. The State Department chief contends a big cutback in aid would "throw Nasser into Khrushchev's lap."

Other White House advisers argue that Nasser has been consistantly anti-U.S. and has given no indication of a change in attitude. As evidence, they cite the following:

In recent months, despite the record volume of U.S. economic aid, the UAR ruler has imposed severe restrictions on the operations of the U.S. Information Agency in Egypt and Syria. Also, the USIA office in Cairo was wrecked by a mob, and one of its officials imprisoned on charges that were later dropped.

In the meanwhile, Soviet propaganda, much of it virulently anti-U.S., has gone unhampered.

These presidential advisers also are stressing Nasser's use of U.S. aid to build up UAR m i l i t a r y strength. There are a number of intelligence reports on that which are still classified.

But they contain alarming disclosures indicating Naser in forcefully preparing for large - scale military hostilities in the not-distant future.

Several months ago, c e r t a i n State Department authorities proposed inviting Nasser to come to Washington in September. T h a t was discussed with the President at eeveral metinges. But Nasser himself ended any possibility of such a trip by his vigorous support of the Soviet in the bitter clashing over the Congo, and his open courting of Fidel Castro.

BIG VICTORY — There h a s been an interesting change in the historic Congressional Record, the verbatim account of the proceedings of the Senate and House of Representatives. From now on, the two chambers will alternate in being recorded in the forepart of the Record. Previously, S e n a t e proceedings always appeared first and then the House. But at the insistence of H o u s e Democratic Leader John McCormack, Mass., the Joint Committee on Printing voted to end that traditional practice. McCormack has long advocated it, and finally won over the committee when Senator C a r l Hayden D-Ariz., veteran c h a i r man, agreed to the change. Said Hayden, "I'll support it, but I still want it known that the Senate is the upper body and the House the lower body." Replied McCormack, "Why do you demand that distinction?" "Because we are always increasing your appropriations," chuckled Hayden. "Y o u win," l a u g h e d McCormack. . . Speaker Sam Rayburn is sporting an intriguing new set of cuff links —Texas longhorns in diamonds on a solid square of gold. . .Britain is sounding out the U.S. on increasing our immigration q u o t a from the West Indies. Purpose is to cut the influx of Wet Indian to England. There is little likelihood the British will get anywhere on this move.

DR. HAROLD T. HYMAN

(First of four related columns.)

Each of us gets a bellyache at one time or another. With some, it's only an occasional complaint. Others of us are chronic bellyachers. Few of us get by the summer without an attack of the mullygrubs. Perhaps this and succeeding columns may help to guide you when your turn comes.

Most often the c a u s e for bellyache is easily discovered. A dietary indiscretion. An attack of the trots. Failure to get proper evacuation of the bowels. Menstrual cramps. The effects of a powerful cathartic. Or the aftermath on an intense emotional experience.

But sometimes the complaint defies explanation. We may draw a complete blank after extensive tests, X-ray examinations and even an exploratory operation.

I think you'll be less critical of these failures if I try to explain to you in this and the next few columns the number of structures contained within the abdominal compartment and the number of things that can go wrong with each of them.

Actually the capacity of the abdominal compartment is little greater than that of a shopping bag. Between its roof, formed by leaves of the diaphragm, and its floor of pelvic muscles and ligaments, the owner has managed to cram a four-pound liver with its gall bladder and bile ducts, a stomach with maybe a pint to a quart of gastric content, some 20-odd feet of coiled small bowel, more than a yard of large gut with the trouble-some appendix dangling from its base, several groups of lymph nodes like those you feel under your lower jaw, the urinary bladder with a pair of ureters that channel urine from the kidneys, the great arteries, veins and nerves that service the legs as well as the organs within the abdominal cavity, and, in the female, a pair of ovaries with their fallopian tubes through which the egg must travel in its momentous journey to the uterine nest.

Then during pregnancy room must be found for the growing embryo; its protective bag of waters and the placental afterbirth that joins fetal and maternal circulatory systems.

But even that's not all. For there's the glistening peritoneal membrane that lines the entire cavity, provides c e l l o phane - like wrappings for each individual structure and forms an apron - like omentum that hangs down like a drawn blind from the lower border of the stomach.

Princess Grace wasn't in Monte Carlo when we passed through. Her Highness's being in Philadelphia for a visit. But even with her gone, it's a mighty pret.y place, with uniforms to match. The girls on the Monte Carlo beaches wear next to nothing and the soldiers everything. I didn't spot a soldier who didn't have enough insignia on his shoulder boards to qualify as a two-star general in any other country.

We stopped long enough for a swim and a visit to the Casino and I must say that both are rocky. To one accustomed to Florida beaches, the sands (?) of the Cote d'Azur are on the skimpy side, being about ten feet wide and covered with rocks and pebbles that would bruise an armadillo were he to choose to stretch out on his back for a sun bath. It took me ten minutes to clear a path to the water, and I believe that miniature bulldozers would be a good beach concession to have here.

The Casino, as I said, is rocky too. There is an entrance fee, which is the same as asking a man to buy a ticket to a pickpockets' gala. It's a fine place to rest, the Casino. Silence is the watchword and even heavy breathing is frowned upon. Anyone who coughs or speaks above a whisper is liable to be handed his hat. The only sounds are the sighs of the losers, the whirr of the roulette ball and the gentle singsong of the croupier.

It's a far cry from Las Vegas, both in sound and action. My guess is that one craps table in, say, the Desert Inn, does more business in a night than the whole Monte Carlo setup does in a week.

French cigarettes are cheaper in price than anywhere else in Europe and somehow that seems only fair. I am smoking them now and, as usual, conducting a test in an effort to determine what they are made of. Last time I was here I came to the conclusion that they had dried carnation stems as their base, but now I am sure they have given up that and are using ground anchovy tails and milk bottle caps — and it's a change for the better.

The drive along the Grand Corniche is as grand as ever, and as it takes ten near misses to make an accident, we escaped without one. We had only nine and a half near misses, one with a mons er of a bus bearing a Canadian placard, and coming down hill 100 m.p.h. My guess is that Canada will never see the occupants again.

I have overheard six or seven American tourists complaining of the way the French smother their fish with sauces, and I can't understand the complaint. Name me a fish that has as fine a flavor as any of a hundred French sauces. French sauces would make a shingle appetizing.

The Belgians still hold the honor of being the worst drivers in the world. When one sees a car with a B on the back or front, one is wise to pull to the side of the road, dismount, and seek cover. And even that isn't entirely safe. Belgians will come look for you in their cars.

I haven't seen Somerset Maughom, Bridgette Bardot, the Saignon girl, or an authentic Green billionaire, but I am keeping a sharp lookout.

Pegler Says:

Billboards Are Being Maligned Mercilessly

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

As to the esthetic value of outdoor advertising I submit that billboards and neons have been condemned without due p r o c e s s through an illegal sidelong t r i c k unwor hy of a President as General Eisenhower was at the time of his offense. This refers to Ike's effort to penalize states that refused to exclude signboards from the range of fair visibility along highways which are to be paid for out of national appropriations. Ike doesn't like signboards although it could be that somebody told him not to like them.

No respectable critic of the arts could take this attitude w i t h o u t first discussing the comparable merits of signs and other means of public communication. Ike did nothing of the kind. For m a n y years those who have waged bigotry against the signboard h a v e dealt only in abusive assumptions about the signs and equally unproven assumptions in favor of newspapers and magazines.

The arts concerned in the situation are the graphic. The literary and the art or science of communication. This last is various and indefinite. It includes the heliograph, the signal bonfire, the war drum, the county fair ballyhoo, the bungle and Jack Paar. It is one of the lower forms of human expression, but it may have undiscovered merits.

One must therefore object to the Kennedy administration's tentative motion to bring radio and television under censorship. True, radio-teevy has sounded new deeps notably in nightowl commentaries issuing from boozing dens, but the Kennedys could be capable of worse. They might teach us to yearn for Ed Sullivan.

The billboard, though not exclusively American, has achieved its highest quality here and t h e propaganda that damns it out of hand without pretense of appeal to reason or justice is a resort to bigotry. This campaign assumes that the American people with few exceptions, and those few illiterates or hired subversives, are of fended by all outdoor advertising whether conventional billboards or the electric designs generally called neons. Magazines and news papers, which compete with these devices for the advertisers' dollar, seldom excell them in verbal expression, taking brevity as t h e great desideratum. Billboard writers are masters of terse persuasion.

It is a stange fact that although the journalism of ink-on-paper has treated the outdoor display ad as a commercial rival for m a n y years, the same journalism h a s meanwhile sluggishly suffered radio-teevy to grow from a germ to a dragon and has lost roughly a million of revenue to this leering rival for every thousand that it has lost to the "outdoors."

However, m a n y publications have ventured into radio - teevy with stations of their own by contrast with the fact that journalism never invested in billboards. But there has never been any public outcry against billboards except editorial clamor tainted by self-interest.

As to the relative es hetics of the printed word and picture and of outdoor advertisements, debate is necessarily windy and bootless. It does not matter which is the pret- tier and government has no authority from the people to favor one over the other on this ground. The billboards are of the press as much as any magazine and its pictures and their color effects are likely to compare well if not better. The skyline of Miami, seen at night from the causeways or the beach, is a gorgeous coruscation unrivaled by any other work of man and few of nature. Not so long ago tourists in Arizona spoke of beautiful Belasco sunsets. And today in Tucson utterly u s e l e s s and horridly forbidding jumbles of boulders and caliche on a height overlooking the city bear p r i c e tags of $3,000 and even $7,500 for a scant acre because when t h e lights come on the new frontiersmen will survey glories comparable to those of New Rochelle.

It has long seemed to me that the billboard deserved a friend in the vast army of pickets who have mutilatd the peace of a thousand cities for almost 30 years. All these relied on a contention, upheld by all the Frankfurters of the time, that they were expressing ideas and had as much right to use placards as any cosmetician has to buy pages of colorpress.

The billboard is merely a bigger placard and I am loath to abolish any means of contention on t h e mere ground, debatable at best, that someone may have missed a turn and gone off a road in rapture or anger over a proclamation about some voluptuous floor wax.

I have never met an editor of a billboard nor heard of the suppression of any message for editorial or political reasons.

And the nameless bard of Burma-Shave is still by laureate over Frost and Sandburg.

matter of FACT

During World War II, underwater s o u n d equipment proved that fish are almost as noisy as people. Here's what some of the fish sound like, as described by eavesdropping sailors — "a crew of carpenters hammering on steel," "the clicking of a one-lung engine," and "a comedian in a burlesque show when he throws kisses at the heroine."

FRUSTRATED FOUL

MASSENA, N. Y. (UPI) — A frustrated fowl here has problems which even a psychiatrist can't solve.

Pete the p e c k i n g pheasant chases after cars and pecks at their tires.

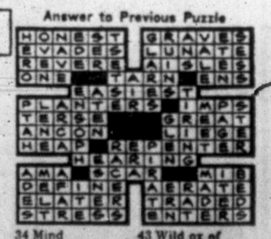

Guards at Barnhart Island State Park say he is "probably angry because he has no wife." It looks like a rough summer ahead for Pete because officials just won't release female pheasants this early in the season.

Dear Abby...

Religious Ignorance Is Not Bliss!!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We have been invited to a Catholic wedding but my husband doesn't want to go because he says we will have to go through all that crossing and kneeling, and we aren't Catholics. I say that non-Catholics are not expected to do that. Who is right? Also, we were recently invited to a Jewish wedding and we passed that up because someone told my husband that all the men had to break their glasses. What about that?

INFORMATION PLEASE

DEAR INFORMATION: Non-Catholics are not expected to kneel and cross themselves. And at a Jewish wedding, the groom breaks his GLASS (not his glasses!). There is little excuse for knowing so little about another person's religion. Ask any clergyman (or librarian) for an enlightening book on the subject.

DEAR ABBY: I am a mother-in-law who needs you to set her straight. My son married a girl whom I love very much. She is very close to her own mother, who lives near us. I try to let the young people live their own lives, but my daughter-in-law practically lives with her mother. They are together day and night.

The young couple is always over at her mother's. All holidays are spent there. They are expecting a baby and the wife's mother is gathering the baby things at her home, evidently expecting to take full charge of it. I know I am jealous, but I can't help it. Let me have it, Abby.

"THE OTHER MOM"

DEAR "MOM": If you can diagnose your own case (jealousy), you can heal yourself. Let your daughter-in-law do as she wishes. It's natural for a girl to gravitate toward her own mother. When she matures a little more, she will become as considerate of your feelings as you are of hers. Patience, Mom.

DEAR ABBY: There is a young couple in our building who has aroused our suspicions. He clerks during the day, and on week-ends he plays band jobs out of town. His wife is a real looker. Every week-end when he goes out of town to play these band jobs, she goes with him. We wives say that she goes with him because she can't trust him away from home. Our husbands say that he takes her along because he can't trust HER home alone. We would like to know your opinion, please.

THE FOLKS IN THE BUILDING

DEAR FOLKS: Isn't there a chance that she goes with him because she wants to be with him—and he encourages her because he wants her there?

CONFIDENTIAL TO EDDIE: Correcting faults is like trying to tie a necktie. You can do it much better on somebody else.

Yes, Abby will answer your letter personally if you write to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif., and enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Toasting Bridal Couple Important Moment At Any Wedding Reception

GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Wishing the new bride and groom long life and happiness together is an important moment at any wedding party. Fill the family heirloom bowl or a new one bought for the occasion with this sparkling fresh fruit and wine punch. Then "Here's to the blushing bride and the lucky groom!"

FRESH FRUIT WEDDING PUNCH
(Yield: 5½ quarts)

2 quarts diced fresh rhubarb, about 3 pounds
4 cups water
3 cups sugar
6 cups cold water
2 cups fresh orange juice
2 cups fresh lemon juice
1 22-ounce bottle port wine or claret wine
1 12-ounce bottle club soda
Fresh mint

Cook rhubarb in water 15 minutes in a covered saucepan. Strain and discard the rhubarb pulp. Add sugar to hot rhubarb liquid and stir until dissolved. Stir in remaining water and orange and lemon juices. Just before serving, pour into a punch bowl over ice cubes. Add wine and club soda. Float lemon slices and mint over the top.

WEDDING BELL COOKIES
(Makes about 40 cookies)

½ cup (1 stick) margarine
¾ cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups sifted flour
¼ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
Silver dragees

Melt margarine in a 1½ - quart (or larger) saucepan. Remove from heat. Add sugar, egg and vanilla and beat until light and fluffy, about 1 minute. Sift flour with baking powder and salt over mixture and blend thoroughly. Chill dough in refrigerator 15 to 30 minutes.

Roll out dough a small amount at a time, ⅛-inch thick. Cut with wedding bell cookie cutter. Place on greased and floured cookie sheet. Press a silver dragee into each cookie to simulate clapper. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 12 to 15 minutes.

The back of the wedding gown is as important as the front, for the back is what everyone will look at throughout the ceremony.

Conflict Is Considered Normal In Wedded Life

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is the second of three dispatches concerning factors contributing to a solid marriage.)

By R. SEYMOUR YELLIN

NEW YORK (PI) — Mistaken attitudes which many young Americans bring with them to marriage definitely can be a source of trouble, social scientists know.

It is an illusion, for example, to believe that "a good marriage is without argumen ts or differences of opinion."

There is no such thing as an engine without friction or a marriage without conflict.

Conflict in marriage not only is normal but may actually serve certain positive functions. When it serves to clear the air, conflict often can strengthen the relationship and make the spouses feel closer.

Professor Nelson Foote, a New York University sociologist, has suggested that a valuable asset for a married couple is what he calls "inter-personal competence" — that is, the ability to thresh out problems effectively between themselves.

He believes that is true because it is known that the difficulty in many marriages is not the presence of problems and difficulties but an inability of husband and wife to move smoothly toward the solution.

When a couple airs its problems, emotional arguments and name-calling are not necessarily less mature way of handling the situation than talking the situation over calmly.

Maturity may be said to occur when the heart — the seat of emotion — reinforces conclusions which already have been arrived at in ellectually, and thus to feel emotionally intense is not necessarily a sign of lack of maturity.

Name-calling at times may be perfectly accurate and called-for, as when one mate consistently fails to perform certain obligations expected to the role of husband or wife, and the put-upon spouse rightfully explodes.

However, while conflict undoubtedly plays an important part in marital hapiness, it is not yet known how much or what kind of conflict may have beneficial results.

It has been observed that in many happy marriages the husband and wife argue fiercely and frequently with each other — and yet their union endures.

Skilled marital counselors know that a marriage can be too calm, like the treacherous stillness in the eye of a hurricane. Counselors have found that when a couple claims not to have had any arguments, either the assertion is untrue or else it's a real danger sign that may indicate the failure of adequate communication in the marriage.

Happy, stable marriages seem to have husband and wife freely and effectively Communicating with each other. Each is able to "get the message across" to the other.

Texas Driver Triumphs In '500' Mile Auto Race

'Racing Luck' Aids Houston's A. J. Foyt

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Racing luck.

It waved the biggest paycheck in auto racing history in front of Eddie Sachs, at the expense of A. J. Foyt.

But three minutes before Sachs could grab the flimsy paper, luck erased his name, and scrawled Foyt in as payee.

Racing luck sent Jack Turner end over end in the air in the home stretch and set him down — unhurt — at the foot of the homestretch, in full view of more than 125,000 spectators at the golden anniversary 500 mile auto race.

Three weeks ago luck sent Tony Bettinhausen in a flip into the air at the same spot where Turner went airborne — and Bettenhausen died.

It was one of the greatest 500 mile Memorial Day races ever run, in perfect weather, temperatures in the low 70s, under fair skies, and with the fastest field in history.

Seven of the 33 drivers who started led the pack at sometime during the three hour 45 minutes grind. The field ran at a record pace until one of the most spectacular — and lucky — crackups in speedway history, and it got back to record pace later for the second fastest speed ever set down in the ancient chase.

Drama rode high all day. For the final 250 miles it was Foyt, the national driving champion from Houston, Tex., and Eddie Sachs, the fastest qualifier in the field for the second straight year from Center Valley, Pa., against the 1959 champion, Rodger Ward, Indianapolis.

Ward, the top favorite, was in front twice. Sachs, who promised to retire on his first "500" victory, set the pace four times. Foyt took charge six times.

But Foyt had the race won. With 40 laps to go, he made his third pit stop, presumably took on fuel and tires, and got back in front, ready to go all the way.

With 16 laps to go, luck stepped in. It was discovered a faulty nozzle on a refueling hose denied him any fuel at his pit stop.

If he continued without pause, he couldn't finish.

He stopped, and Sachs took over. Then Sachs made his third pit stop. He was ready to go all the way. Confidently, he confessed, he "drove too straight in the turns," wore out his right rear tire, and with 7½ miles, three more laps, he came in "on canvas," hoping he could change rubber and get back on the track before Foyt came by.

He couldn't. Foyt roared by scant seconds before Sachs zoomed into action, and he sped home in front, for a probably payoff of around $115,000 tonight.

It will be the lion's share of a record purse of about $375,000. And Foyt traveled the 500 miles at a speed of 138.466 miles per hour to win, a speed exceeded in history only by the 138.767 average boasted by victor Jim Rathmann last year.

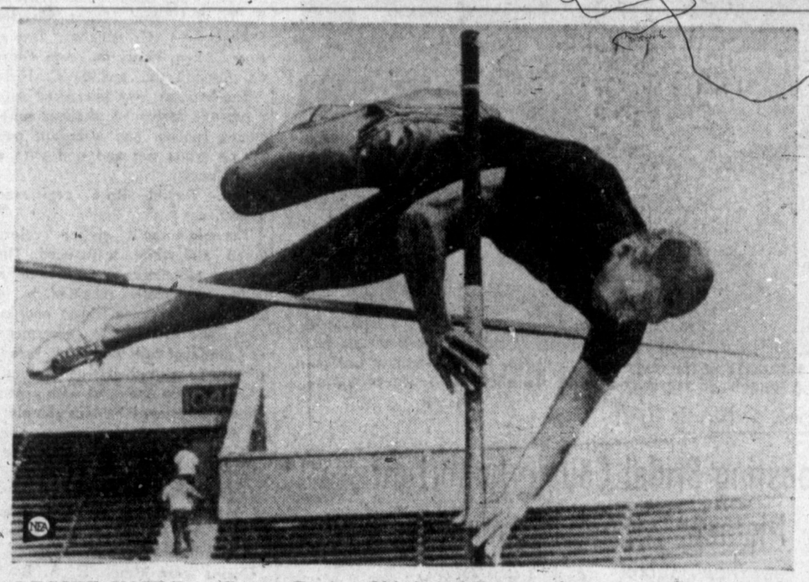

Sachs as runner-up probably will get about $50,000 and Ward, who finished third, should pick up about $25,000.

Five drivers walked away, with only minor bruises, from the heat chilling homestretch chain of wrecks.

Only 12 of the 33 starters were running at the finish, the second lowest figure in the modern history of the race. In 1951 only eight cars survived and 1953 only 12.

Sachs averaged 138.378 miles per hour and Ward 137.880, finishing more than a lap behind the front runners.

Behind them came, in order, Shorty Templeman, Chuck Stevenson, Bobby Marshman, Lloyd Ruby, Al Keller, Australian Jack Brabham, driving the British-built rear-engine Cooper Climax, Norm Hall, Gene Hartley, and Parnelli Jones.

RECORD VAULT — George Davies, Okla homa State sophomore, slips over the bar at 15 feet, 10¼ inches to shatter the worl d pole vault record in the Big Eight Track and Field Championships in Boulder, Col o. Davies went after the mark of 15 feet, 9¼, after cracking the Big Eight record. Although the bar wobbled, he made it on his third try.

Redlegs Bop Giants; Yanks Pound Red Sox

United Press International

The New York Yankees fired a prodigious seven - homer salute to Memorial Day and the Baltimore Orioles popped a pair of classy pitching performances, but with no such style or fanfare the Cincinnati Reds enjoyed the happiest holiday celebration of all.

In their inimitable scrambling fashion, the Reds dumped the San Francisco Giants in both games of a double-header, 7-6 and 6-4, and moved into a first-place tie in the National League race.

For the Yankees, Mickey Mantle, Roger Maris and Bill Skowron each hit a pair of homers to tie a major league record and lead a 12-3 bombardment of the Boston Red Sox.

This was the fifth time in major league history that three players on a team each hit two homers in a game. Yogi Berra also contributed a homer as the Yankees fell one short of tying the major league record set by their 1939 predecessors.

Baltimore, meanwhile, capitalized on a pair of pitching performances reminiscent of last season — by Steve Barber and Skinny Brown — to sweep a double-header from the Chicago White Sox, 6-0 and 2-1.

The American League race was tightened when the first - place Detroit Tigers split a double-header with the Kansas City Athletics, winning the opener, 5-3, on Norm Cash's grand slam homer, but losing the second game, 9-3.

The Cleveland Indians took advantage of this to move within 2½ games of the lead, sweeping a twin bill from the Minnesota Twins, 4-3 and 7-5. In the other AL game, the Washington Senators defeated the Los Angeles Angels, 5-1.

The Chicago Cubs pulled a surprise sweep of a double-header from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5-3 and 10-0; and the Milwaukee Braves split two games with the Philadelphia Phils, winning the first, 3-1, and losing the second, 11-4. In the only holiday night game, the Los Angeles Dodgers pulled to within 10 percentage points of the Reds and Giants by turning back the St. Louis Cardinals, 5-3.

As a result of the Memorial Day activity, the leading four clubs in the American League were separated by only 4½ games while the top five teams in the National were also separated by 4½ games.

In moving into a first-place tie with the Giants, Cincinnati collected 24 hits and ran its latest winning streak to five games.

Vada Pinson, winning pitcher Jim Maloney and Gene Freese each hit a homer that gave the Reds a 7-2 lead in the opening game. The Giants erupted with three homers in the ninth — by Hobie Landrith, Chuck Hiller and Willie Mays in a pinch-hitting role — to come within one run of tying before Jim Henry got the final out.

The second-game win was only slightly easier. Pinson hit a two-run single during a four-run third-inning rally against Juan Marichal. Jim O'Toole yielded seven hits for his fifth victory, although Manager Fred Hutchinson called in Bob Purkey to pitch the ninth inning.

In the Yankee-Red Sox game, Mantle raised his homer total to 14 and Maris to 12, each driving in four runs. Bill Stafford, who pitched four hitless relief innings, was the winner, although his shoulder stiffened and he needed help from Jim Coates over the last three frames. Gene Conley was the loser.

Barber pitched a three-hitter for his third shutout of the season and Jim Gentile hit his 13th home run with a man on base in Baltimore's opening victory. Brown pitched two-hit ball for eight innings of the nightcap before Manager Paul Richards decided to relieve him. Hoyt Wilhelm yielded a homer by Jim Landis in the ninth. Dick Williams hit an earlier Baltimore homer.

Don Dillard's pinch single drove home the winning run for Cleveland in the opening game against Minnesota, giving reliever Frank Funk his sixth victory. Cleveland overcame an 0-3 deficit to win. In the second game, the Indians jumped off to a 6-0 lead before Minnesota assaulted Mudcat Grant for five runs in the sixth. Bob Allison hit a two-run homer during the uprising. Barry Latman then pitched thee shutout innings to save the win for Grant, who now has a 5-0 record.

Cash's grand slam homer off Kansas City's Bud Daley in the eighth made Detroit reliever Bill Fischer the winner. In the nightcap, Norm Siebern hit a pair of homers for a lead that made Jerry Walker the winner.

Cubs Beat Nemesis

The Angels went down to their 13th straight road defeat when Ed Hobaugh pitched a six-hitter for Washington. Earl Averill hit a Los Angeles homer.

In the National League, a surprisingly small holiday crowd of 18,598 at Los Angeles watched Stan Williams stop the Cardinals on only three hits, including a home run by Curt Flood. Williams weakened slightly in the ninth when he walked two men and was relieved by Larry Sherry, who halted the threat. Gil Hodges homered for the Dodgers.

Korea Withdraws From International Matches

DORADO BEACH Puerto Rico (UPI) — Korea was forced to withdraw from the ninth annual International Trophy and Canada Cup gold matches today, cutting the field to 33 nations including Venezuela which also may drop out.

The Korea team of Chang Sang Hahn and Hak Young Kim notified President Frank Pace of the International Golf Association that their new government had refused them visas.

Pace said Teabaldo Perez and Francisco Gonzales of Venezuela also were having visa trouble but he hoped that IGA intervention would straighten the matter out so the golfers could come here for the international tournament.

Before the Korea withdrawal the tournament had been plagued by other troubles.

Arnold Palmer, who was to have paired with Sam Snead as the U.S. team, Gary Player of South Africa and Stan Leonard of Canada were forced to withdraw because of the PGA ruling prohibiting its members from competing in any tournament conflicting with a PGA sponsored event.

The international matches are being played the same days as the Memphis Open Thursday Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Although none of the three are entered at Memphis and will not play there, they faced a $500 fine and six months suspension by the PGA had they competed here. They were forced to withdraw when Memphis officials refused to release them from the PGA ruling.

Jimmy Demaret was substituted for Palmer while Harold Henning will take Player's place and Al Johnstone will take over for Leonard.

Had Palmer competed, the U.S. team would have been heavily favored. But his withdrawal made the team race a wide open affair with the Australian twosome of British Open champion Kel Nagle and Peter Thomson accorded a slight edge.

For the individual title, defending champion Flory Van Donck of Belgium and Snead, who won the last two tournaments in which he competed, were rated co-favorites.

Other Leading hitters for Milliron were John Franklin, 2-for-3; Eddie Hopkins, 2-for-3; and Danny Darling, 2-for-3.

Yanks Now See Healthy Tribe As Team To Beat

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK (NEA) — With the White Sox showing no early lick at all, the Yankees now consider the Indians the club to beat.

Managers and players dislike to discuss other clubs, but chatting with Ralph Houk and the American League champions you get the idea that they expect the Tigers to come back to the group behind them. And they point out that Cleveland has more established professionals than Baltimore.

Jimmy Dykes' stories get funnier when the club he is managing is winning, and the old third baseman has had audiences in stitches since the Tribe rang up six straight.

"The Indians could be tough if they stay healthy," said one of the older Yankees. "They have the infield, outfield and catching to go with fine young pitching. That's all you need."

Gabe Paul quit trying to build a National League club in Houston. And the more he sees of the Indians, the more the new general manager is convinced that he inherited a pennant winner in Cleveland.

Much depends on Jimmy Piersall, who is enjoying a fine spring at bat while behaving himself. The Indians are watching the excitable center fielder with cautious optimism, however, for his initial burst of pyrotechnics did not explode last year until Decoration Day.

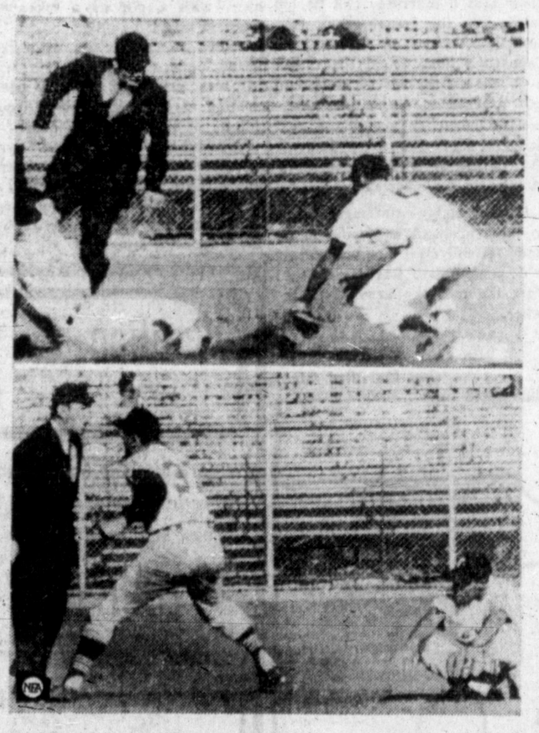

"The difference this season, we hope," said a veteran Indian, "is that Dykes can handle Jimmy, something he has done very well to date. Dykes doesn't agitate Jimmy. Joe Gordon did."

"Remember that this Cleveland club was beaten by only five games in 1959," reminded Bill Skiff, chief of Yankee scouts tracked to his favorite observation point at Yankee Stadium.

"A full measure of bad luck knocked the Indians out of it last season. Woodie Held had a growth in his back and then a finger injury which kept him out for something like 50 games. Gary Bell hurt his shoulder in early July.

"We know a lot about Held and Vic Power because, as you no doubt recall, they came out of our chain.

"Held has become an outstanding shortstop with one of the more exceptional arms and the Indians have been winning without him hitting home runs, which is one of the best things he does. There have been few first basemen superior to Power, a first rate baserunner who bats in runs.

TRAP PLAY TIFF — Caught between second and third bases in the Minnesota park at Bloomington, Jimmy Piersall is called out by Umpire Joe Linsalata as Zorro Versalles tags the Cleveland center fielder as he tries to retreat to second. Then Piersall charges the arbiter as the shortstop sits on the bag. The argument ended as per usual.

NEW TYPE CONSTRUCTION — Seen here from the grounds of the Broadmoor Hotel in Colorado Springs, Colo., is the new Broadmoor International Center, world's largest building using the hyperbolic paraboloid principle in its roof construction. The roof is supported only at its four corners and there are no interior pillars to obstruct the view. The front of the building is shown and at the left is the loft for a 35-by-38 foot stage. The building will be formally opened in June.

Supreme Court's Blue Law Ruling Stirs Up Fears

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Fanatical enforcement of blue laws across the country was predicted by opponents today following the Supreme Court's sanction of the "day of rest" statutes.

The General Assembly of Seventh Day Advenists think cities and states would strengthen their Sunday closing laws and would enforce more strictly old statues which have fallen into disuse.

"Those who have a vested interest in enforcement will dig them up and ask law enforcement officers to put them into effect," a conference spokesman said.

Of the 50 states, only Alaska has no Sunday law of any kind. The Adventists observe their sabbath on Saturday. They joined Jewish groups, whose holy day also is Saturday, in opposing the blue laws which restrict retail business on Sunday.

The Supreme Court, in a series of four cases, upheld the blue laws of Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Massachusetts. Chief Justice Earl Warren was the principal spokesman for the majority. Justice William O. Douglas was the chief dissenter.

Warren emphasized, however, that Sunday legislation in the future could be held unconstitutional if its purpose was to use state power to aid religion.

The Sunday laws were attacked by two groups — Jewish merchants who want to serve their customers on Sundays after being closed on Saturdays, and discount department stores which want to operate seven days a week.

The Constitution says "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

The Jewish litigants argued that the laws are unconstitutional because they discriminate in favor of Christians and against all others, and they hamper the free exercise of religion by those who observe Saturday as the holy days.

Besides the religious arguments the discount houses also asserted that the law unreasonably allow certain activities and forbid others.

Warren rejected all three arguments. On the issue of an "establishment of religion," he said Sunday laws have evolved over the years from religious sanctions to "legislation concerned with the establishment of a day of community tranquility."

As for discrimination, Warren said "we are a cosmopolitan nation made up of people of almost every conceivable religious preference."

"Consequently, it cannot be expected, much less required, that legislators enact no law regulating conduct that may in some way result in an economic disadvantage of some religious sects and not to others because of the special practices of the various religions," he said.

On the alleged unreasonableness of the laws, Warren said states have "a wide scope of discretion in enacting laws which affect some groups of citizens differently from others." He said the objectors failed to prove that distinctions between items that may be sold or activities that may be carried on are irrational.

Three other members of the high court agreed completely with Warren's views. They were Justices Hugo L. Black, Tom C. Clark and Charles G. Whittaker.

Concern Over Food Vexes Fidel Castro

MIAMI (UPI) — Fidel Castro's government today showed signs of increasing concern over food shortages and renewed anti-Castro sabotage in Cuba.

Havana radio Monday night warned housewives that hoarding is a "counter-revolutionary act." A conviction for counter-revolutionary activities can result in the death penalty.

The radio quoted Commerce Minister Maximo Bergman as blaming current shortages in Cuba as due primarily to "the criminal blockade by Yankee imperialism" and hoarding.

A government crackdown on black marketeers, hoarders and speculators has been going on in Cuba the past week. Over the weekend 34 merchants were given summons to appear in revolutionary courts on criminal charges.

Havana radio also took official notice of "a new wave of attempted assassinations and sabotage." It said a Castro army lieutenant and his son were critically injured Monday when a bomb attached to the ignition of their car exploded.

The broadcast said the campaign was under the direction of Manuel Ray, a former Castro cabinet member in exile who withdrew this weekend from the Cuban Revolutionary Council which sponsored the April invasion.

Others heading the sabotage wave, it said, are Aureliano Sanchez Arango, a former premier in the regime of ex-President Carlos Prio Socarras, and Eusebio Mujal, labor boss in the Batista administration.

The radio said the U. S. Central Intelligence Agency was behind them.

Nevertheless, the radio said Cuba still was willing to go through with the exchange of 1,214 prisoners for 500 American tractors. It said Cuba had "voluntarily renounced" the right to execute the invaders.

MOSCOW (UPI)—Boston heart specialist Dr. Paul Dudley White, the man who treated former President Eisenhower, has been elected to membership in the Soviet Academy of Medical Sciencs, the Tass news agency said today.

Tass said White and six other foreign scientists were elected at the 15th session of the academy's general meeting which ended here today.

Full-Page Ad Asks Protests To Castro Trade

DALLAS (UPI)— An unidentified group took out a full-page advertisement in the Dallas Morning News yesterday to enlist Texans against Fidel Castro's proposal to trade tractors for about 1,200 prisoners-of-war.

The prisoners are men captured by Castro's men while they were trying to invade Cuba. Castro sent a delegation to the United States last week to try to promote the trade, which President Kennedy and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt support.

The advertisement urged all persons opposed to a trade to sign a petition against it.

"We, the people of Texas, will never support submission to blackmail in any form!" the advertisement said. "Surrender to Castro's treachery is treason to the cause of freedom and our United States of America.

"Those captured in Cuba chose the possibility of death to give life to freedom. A man who would choose to die to preserve honor, dignity and responsibility would hardly sanction the use of his soul as barter for tyranny and cowardice."

The advertisement carried spaces for objectors to the trade to sign their names. It said the petition will be sent to all members of Congress and to the executive branch of the government.

U.S. Will Stick To Laos Parley

GENEVA (UPI) —The United States will stick to the Laos peace conference despite Soviet stalling until "we get a breakthrough one way or another," an American spokesman said today.

"We are not going home. We are waiting for some hopeful sign," the spokesman said.

He said the "hopeful sign" would be Moscow's approval for the 14-nation conference to send the new orders requested by its cease-fire truce commission in Laos.

The Soviets blocked a scheduled session Monday when they refused to have the conference even discuss sending the orders.

Constitutional Rule Ended By Korean Junta

SEOUL, Korea (UPI) — The republic of Korea officially had no constitution today and was being ruled by decrees issued by the military junta which seized power.

The junta, headed by ROK army chief of staff Lt. Gen. Chang Do-Young, kept enough of the constitution intact to maintain the legality of President Posun Yun's position, even though it was just a figurehead one. This eliminated the necessity of seeking new diplomatic recognition from other nations.

But the junta suspended, in decree No. 24 issued Monday night, other portions of the constitution and announced it would be replaced by a "basic law of national reconstruction."

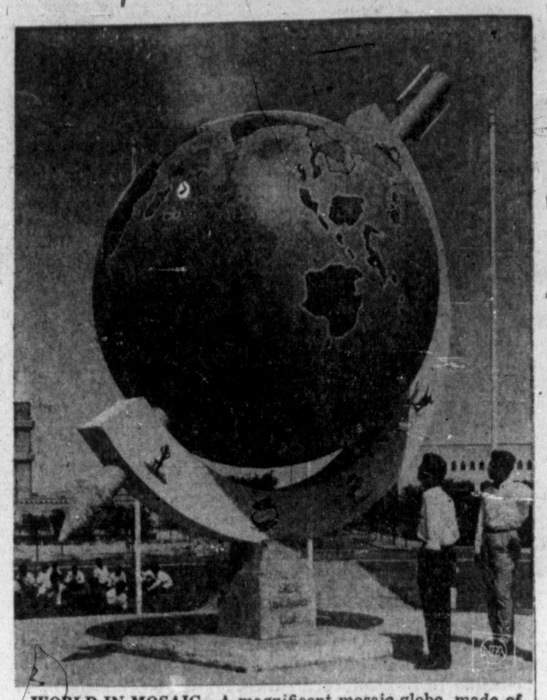

This basic law in effect would be an interim constitution to replace the old one which came into being after the students' revolution in April last year.

The military junta was vague in detailing what sections of the constitution had been suspended and which were still in force.

But the question was academic because Korea actually has been ruled by military decree since the rebellious generals took over in a lightning-fast coup May 16.

After taking power, the generals dissolved the National Assembly and kicked out the government of Prime Minister John M. Chang.

Ohio's flag is different from every other state flag in the Union in that it is of a swallowtailed pennant shape.

WORLD IN MOSAIC—A magnificent mosaic globe, made of thousands of pieces of tile, is admired by students on the grounds of the State Secondary School at Shuwaikh, Kuwait. Key Clubber Thanks Flag Project Backers

Wayne Denson, president of the Pampa High School Key Club, today voiced thanks to 14-year-old Ray Wagner and the residents of Navajo Road for their support of the Key Club's project to have an American flag flying from every Pampa home and business place by Labor Day.

Young Wagner and the Navajo Road residents have set the pace for other Pampa streets, Denson said, and properly was labeled the "Street of Flags" yesterday, Memorial Day.

The folks on Navajo Road, Denson said, signed up with young Wagner so fast that he was unable to make all of the installations before Memorial Day.

"In fact," Denson stated, "we ran out of flags." In explaining the shortage of flags, Denson reported that six dozen flags had been ordered, and the response was such that the first order was exhausted before all the homes on Navajo Road could be serviced. Denson, who heads a thriving "business" from his home at 511 N. West St. stated that another gross of the Home Flag Kits have been ordered and should be delivered by June 5. The next target date for the Key Club flag effort is Flag Day, June 14. Young Denson stressed that the Pageant of Flags is more a service effort than a money raising operation. The total cost of $5 for flag, pole, fittings and installation is only slightly above the actual cost to the Club, in quantity lots.

"The Key Club could easily lose money, if we should over buy," said Denson, "but, we believe Pampa citizens want to demonstrate their loyalty to the nation, by proudly displaying the United States flag at their homes on all significant holidays."

Young Wagner volunteered to sell and install flags on his home street, even though he was not fully eligible for membership in Key Club. He plans to spent much of his summer holiday season aiding in the flag effort. Wagner urged all Pampa streets to make a similar attempt to have a flag on every home by, no later than July 4. Home Flags may be ordered by telephone at either MO 4-8443, or MO 5-2824.

Business firms are offered a unique rental plan. The Key Club will provide a 4 x 6 foot flag, a 12-foot pole, and either a bracket or a reinforced hole in the ground, on an annual basis. Members of the Club will place the flags before the business firm on each of 11 national holidays and remove them at the end of the day, with proper storage between display dates.

Key Club members will call on heads of business firms to explain the plan. The rental program developed from the discovery that often it is not convenient for a firm to fly its flag on holidays when retail houses are closed.

The Key Club plan assures the placement and removal of the flags at proper hours without effort on the part of the management of a "renting" firm. The two-phase flag placement program will continue throughout the summer, climaxing with Labor Day, Sept. 4.

Makers Of Automation Systems Increase Yearly, Book Reveals

By JESSE BOGUE

NEW YORK (UPI)—In 1905, a former minor league baseball player named Charles P. Lyding published a pound-and-a-half book of slightly more than 1,200 pages listing American manufacturers and their products.

In the growth of his first effort to the four-volume, 46-pound chunk of information which his company published in 1961 is reflected the expansion and the change in American business and manufacturing.

Known as the Thomas Register of American Manufacturers, the directory is not the only one published, but aims to be the broadest in scope with its 75,000 product classifications ranging from absinthe to whalebone. Its publishers (the Thomas Publishing Co.) say it is the largest business directory ever produced.

For persons who claim they can trace the changes in a nation's economy by studying catalogues, as some students of mail order house buying profess to do, a significant comparison can be found in the listings under "automation" in the 1961 edition and the one of only six years previously.

Before 1955, producers of automation systems and their component parts were listed only as producers of the parts.

In that year, the automation classification was added. It contained all of six manufacturers, with the others remaining under the listing of component parts makers.

But in the next three years, the automation entries jumped to 613, and this year the total has grown to 744.

New York State has the largest number of companies making automation equipment, 147, followed by New Jersey with 70, Illinois third with 68 and Michigan fourth with 67.

Another modern classification is that for cryogenics, which deals with materials and processes used at low temperatures.

In 1960, the register listed only four categories of cryogenics equipment, and six companies. In 1961, it lists seven categories and 44 companies as producers of cryogenics equipment and component parts. The categories include controls, pumps, thermometers, valves, solenoids, tanks and cleaning device.

The job of keeping such a directory growing and up-to-date is an almost continuous chore.

About 4,000 current telephone books are used for the basis of the listings, plus all available trade publications and tips from 70 field representatives.

Segregated Bus Travel Decision Asked From ICC

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) is expected to act soon on a request from Atty.tGen. Robert F. Kennedy to spell out rules barring segregation in bus travel.

The ICC is under no obligation to accept the Justice Department's request that it issue new regulations to eliminate "confusion" about the law governing interstate bus travel.

Kennedy said he was making the request because of "recent events in certain states" — an obvious reference to attempts by "Freedom Riders" to test segregation laws in Alabama and Mississippi.

The full 11-member ICC will have to act on the request. Informed sources told United Press International the ICC was likely to initiate the requested proceedings involving a public hearing at an early date.

Kennedy, in effect, told the ICC to enforce the law under which it operates. He said the Interstate Commerce Act, like the Constitution, is "color blind."

"The time has come for this commission, in administering that act," he said, "to declare unequivocally by regulation that a Negro passenger is free to travel the length and breadth of this country in the same manner as any other passengers."

Paper Industry Finds Prospects Brightening

By JESSE BOGUE

NEW YORK (UPI)—The paper products industry, hard hit at some spots by the recession, has begun making some cautiously hopeful sounds about its outlook for the rest of the year.

During the first three months of the year, a Standard & Poor's corporation study noted paperboard and coarse paper production fell below that of the corresponding period in 1960. But it found that demand stepped up somewhat in March, and it is possible that the balance of the year will show more improvement.

Most sources agree, however, that the competition in this industry makes any definite trend most difficult to figure.

It is called a cyclical industry, meaning that it closely follows the business cycle, and is sensitive to its movements.

A study of what happened to earnings per share in the first three months of 1961 as compared with those in the first three months of 1960 shows how closely this indutry followed the course of the recession.

Some managed to barely hold their own. Some were off as much as fifty per cent.

Thus, Diamond National earnings were 62 cents a share, compared with 63 cents for the first quarter of 1960, although sales declined 7 per cent. Scott Paper's first quarter earnings were 81 cents a share, down from 83. Oxford Paper was 62 cents per share for this year's first quarter, '63 in the same a year ago.

But others showed heavier reductions. Federal Paper Board was at 32 cents per share earning for the first 1961 quarter, against 64 in the first three months of 1960. Crown Hellerbach was 58 cents against 64 for the same period, Container Corp., 38 against 43, Weyerhaeuser 24 as against 46, and International Paper 38 against 45.

S. D. Warren, a specialty company making fine paper but without any packaging or paperboard operations, saw its earnings go up, earnings go up.

Industry sources say that production of paper and paperboard has been holding fairly close to last year's levels, but operating rates have gone down because productive capacity has increased over a year ago.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — The Cleveland Transit System spent $10,000 to remodel a bus into a luxury coach equipped with air conditioning, hi-fi, carpeting, a bar and washroom.

On its inaugural run, the bus threw a connecting rod 100 miles from its destination and a regular bus had to complete its trip.

Makers Of Automation Systems Increase Yearly, Book Reveals

By JESSE BOGUE

NEW YORK (UPI)—In 1905, a former minor league baseball player named Charles P. Lyding published a pound-and-a-half book of slightly more than 1,200 pages listing American manufacturers and their products.

In the growth of his first effort to the four-volume, 46-pound chunk of information which his company published in 1961 is reflected the expansion and the change in American business and manufacturing.

Known as the Thomas Register of American Manufacturers, the directory is not the only one published, but aims to be the broadest in scope with its 75,000 product classifications ranging from absinthe to whalebone. Its publishers (the Thomas Publishing Co.) say it is the largest business directory ever produced.

For persons who claim they can trace the changes in a nation's economy by studying catalogues, as some students of mail order house buying profess to do, a significant comparison can be found in the listings under "automation" in the 1961 edition and the one of only six years previously.

In that year, the automation classification was added. It contained all of six manufacturers, with the others remaining under the listing of component parts makers.

But in the next three years, the automation entries jumped to 619, and this year the total has grown to 744.

New York State has the largest number of companies making automation equipment, 147, followed by New Jersey with 70, Illinois third with 68 and Michigan fourth with 67.

Another modern classification is that for cryogenics, which deals with materials and processes used at low temperatures.

In 1960, the register listed only four categories of cryogenics equipment, and six companies. In 1961, it lists seven categories and 44 companies as producers of cryogenics equipment and component parts. The categories include controls, pumps, thermometers, valves, solenoids, tanks and cleaning device.

The job of keeping such a directory growing and up-to-date is an almost continuous chore.

About 4,000 current telephone books are used for the basis of the listings, plus all available trade publications and tips from 70 field representatives.

Constitutional Rule Ended By Korean Junta

SEQUL, Korea (UPI) — The republic of Korea officially had no constitution today and was being ruled by decrees issued by the military junta which seized power.

The junta, headed by ROK army chief of staff Lt. Gen. Chang Do-Young, kept enough of the constitution intact to maintain the legality of President Posun Yun's position, even though it was just a figurehead one. This eliminated the necessity of seeking new diplomatic recognition from other nations.

But the junta suspended, in decree No. 24 issued Monday night, other portions of the constitution and announced it would be replaced by a "basic law of national reconstruction."

This basic law in effect would be an interim constitution to replace the old one which came into being after the students' revolution in April last year.

The military junta was vague in detailing what sections of the constitution had been suspended and which were still in force.

But the question was academic because Korea actually has been ruled by military decree since the rebellious generals took over in a lightning-fast coup May 16.

After taking power, the generals dissolved the National Assembly and kicked out the government of Prime Minister John M. Chang.

Ohio's flag is different from every other state flag in the Union in that it is of a swallowtailed pennant shape.

Paper Industry Finds Prospects Brightening

By JESSE BOGUE

NEW YORK (UPI)—The paper products industry, hard hit at some spots by the recession, has begun making some cautiously hopeful sounds about its outlook for the rest of the year.

During the first three months of the year, a Standard & Poor's corporation study noted paperboard and coarse paper production fell below that of the corresponding period in 1960. But it found that demand stepped up somewhat in March, and it is possible that the balance of the year will show more improvement.

Most sources agree, however, that the competition in this industry makes any definite trend most difficult to figure.

It is called a cyclical industry, meaning that it closely follows the business cycle, and is sensitive to its movements.

A study of what happened to earnings per share in the first three months of 1961 as compared with those in the first three months of 1960 shows how closely this industry followed the course of the recession.

Some managed to barely hold their own. Some were off as much as fifty per cent.

Thus, Diamond National earnings were 62 cents a share, compared with 63 cents for the first quarter of 1960, although sales declined 7 per cent. Scott Paper's first quarter earnings were 81 cents a share, down from 83. Oxford Paper was 62 cents per share for this year's first quarter, '63 in the same a year ago.

But others showed heavier reductions. Federal Paper Board was at 32 cents per share earning for the first 1961 quarter, against 64 in the first three months of 1960. Crown Hellerbach was 58 cents against 64 for the same period, Container Corp., 38 against 43, Weyerhaeuser 24 as against 46, and International Paper 38 against 45.

S. D. Warren, a specialty company making fine paper but without any packaging or paperboard operations, saw its earnings go up, earnings go up.

Industry sources say that production of paper and paperboard has been holding fairly close to last year's levels, but operating rates have gone down because productive capacity has increased over a year ago.

Segregated Bus Travel Decision Asked From ICC

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) is expected to act soon on a request from Atty.Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to spell out rules barring segregation in bus travel.

The ICC is under no obligation to accept the Justice Department's request that it issue new regulations to eliminate "confusion" about the law governing interstate bus travel.

Kennedy said he was making the request because of "recent events in certain states" — an obvious reference to attempts by "Freedom Riders" to test segregation laws in Alabama and Mississippi.

The full 11-member ICC will have to act on the request. Informed sources told United Press International the ICC was likely to initiate the requested proceedings involving a public hearing at an early date.

Kennedy, in effect, told the ICC to enforce the law under which it operates. He said the Interstate Commerce Act, like the Constitution, is "color blind."

"The time has come for this commission, in administering that act," he said, "to declare unequivocally by regulation that a Negro passenger is free to travel the length and breadth of this country in the same manner as any other passengers."

ALPINE, Tex. (UPI)—Funeral services were scheduled today at the Alpine First Methodist Church for Jesse Walter Gilmer, 77, a prominent Brewster County rancher, who died at an El Paso hospital Tuesday.

Our words, chicory, crocus, hyssop, myrrh and saffron originated in Mesopotamia.

FIRST MOVING SIDEWALKS—Huffing and puffing on the steep streets of Tacoma, Wash., now is passe. The first publicly owned moving sidewalks now take the walk out of walking. They provide a link between the city's major business areas. Moving at 90 feet a minute, the sidewalks can carry as many as 7,000 persons an hour.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Under circumstances about as dismal as they can get, the Union of South Africa becomes a republic Wednesday, with thousands of Africans in jail and merchants' supplies of pistols and ammunition nearly exhausted.

Housewives were carrying pistols in their handbags, and white clerks and industrial workers had sharpened up their marksmanship in pistol-shooting classes.

As South Africa moved into the closing hours of nearly 150 years of close ties with Britain, both the change in status and the seething unrest that gripped the more than 10 million natives and persons of mixed blood could be attributed to one man and the political party that supports him.

Prime Minister Hendrik F. Verwoerd did not originate South Africa's white supremacy policy of apartheid but since he took office on Sept. 3, 1958, certainly he has been its strongest and most determined exponent.

Back of him has been the Nationalist party composed mainly of Afrikaner descendants of early Dutch settlers.

On March 15 of this year Verwoerd returned from a stormy meeting of the commonwealth of nations in London after announcing that as of May 31, the date she became a republic, the Union of South Africa would sever her commonwealth ties.

South Africa has had an ingram against natives and colcreasingly repressive program against natives and coloreds, a program which had seen courts reduced to the will of the Nationalist party, the nonwhites deprived of their own elected representatives in Parliament and civil liberties erased.

Remembered also was the example of Sharpeville, the black community outside Johannesburg where on March 21, 1960, police using tear gas, rifles and machineguns against natives armed with stones killed an estimated 72 and wounded 200 others.

Widespread demonstrations protesting his one-man decision to quit the commonwealth greeted Verwoerd upon his return home.

The Union of South Africa, already under boycott by such commonwealth nations as Malaya, Ghana and India, saw its export business dwindle to almost nothing.
