OIL MEN FOUND GUILTY

Court Chuckles As Gen. Lee Exhibits Doodle Bug With Which He "Found" Oil Wells

FORT WORTH, June 4.—How the "high-powered" literature of the General Lee interests was sent by the defendants, Charles Sherwin and H. H. Schwarz over his protests because statements made in them were untrue and incorrect, was told from the witness stand today by "General" Robert A. Lee, third defendant in the "oil fraud" trial of the Lee companies.

"I told them that things they had said in the letters and advertisements were not true, yet they sent it out anyway," the aged defendant said. He gave his age as 70 years.

"They held me up to the world as a "miracle geologist," yet I never claimed to be a geologist, but do say that I am a mineralogist."

The "general" was on the stand the greater part of the day and when his testimony was concluded at 4:35 p. m., the defense rested. The argument in the case was started immediately. It will be continued tomorrow morning, and according to the time allotted each side, will go to the jury about noon. H. H. Arterberry, district attorney opened for the government.

Brings Out Doodle Bug.

The testimony of "General" Lee, the aged defendant, presented both pathos and humor. As he told how he protested against untrue literature being sent to investors and his suit to make Sherwin and Schwarz carry out their contract, the court room was stolidly silent. Then, as he described the working of his 'doodle bug' oil finder, which he took from his pocket, the entire court room, including attorneys and the judge, laughed at the aged witness's expense. He spoke with emphasis as he demonstrated the action of the machine and illustrating the various movements with his hands.

The defendant identified numerous letters and instruments he had signed, but of which he never knew the contents. He testified that in his contract with Sherwin and Schwarz, he was to allow them the use of his name for furthering the promotion of their companies and was to sign all letters. These letters were brought to him in batches, he said, sometimes 40 or 50 at a time, with instructions to "put your John Henry on these."

In this way, the witness said, numerous letters were sent to investors and stock-holders which he never wrote or was cognizant of their contents.

The witness called his locating instrument a "chemical battery" and said that it would work only with his system, that his body had peculiar magnetic agencies which harmonized with the battery.

SHIPPING BOARD TO KEEP FLAG AFLOAT ON SEAS

Government Operatives Will Insure Trade On All Routes

CAMPAIGN PLANNED

Committee to Draw Plans For Making U. S. Dominant

Associated Press Dispatch

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The shipping board decided today to proceed with direct government operation of sufficient vessels to keep the American flag on all world trade routes.

A committee composed of Chairman Lasker and Commissioners O'Conner and Thompson was named to map out administrative plans.

Under a resolution adopted by the committee, it "will prepare a plan to be submitted to the shipping board with a view to the formation of such companies or organizations to be owned and controlled by the shipping board, as it may ascertain to be necessary for the purpose of operating sufficient vessels to fully cover world trade routes under the American flag, consistent with the greatest possible economy and efficiency in direct government operation."

Four Bids Remain

Decision to name the committee was reached after Commissioner Lasker, who had been in New York conferring with some of those who submitted bids for routes now operated by the government, reported that only three or four promising bids remain.

A statement issued today by the board said that Commissioners Lasker and O'Conner, together with Chairman Lasker, would continue "in negotiations so that when the new plan of operation is determined on the shipping board will know just which of its lines, if any, are to pass into private hands."

Arriving at West Point an hour after his take off, he circled above the United States military academy. He did not land, however, as the field appeared too small to permit safe landing.

Validity of Deal Will Be Determined By Test Suit

M. N. Marrs against whom the suit is directed, in the case. Keeling had notified the legislature that he would not file suits to annul the contracts.

A legislative sub-committee today obtained the services of C. L. Black, Austin attorney, to assit in defending the state superintendent. Black's services will be without charges to the state, it was announced.

The petition accompanying the American Book company's application in the supreme court declares that the state superintendent had announced he will not recognize the newly made book contracts and he has sent requisitions to school officials without including the new texts. Although the winds were strong, they were not of sufficient intensity to do any serious damage. The lightning play, however, was feared to have caused the usual trouble to telephone and telegraph wires.

SHRINERS SEE CAPITAL SIGHTS

Nobles Swamp White House And Invade Public Buildings

Associated Press Dispatch

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The National capitol became today the play ground of nobles of the Mystic Shrine. Crowds already on hand for the annual convention of the imperial council, which will begin formally tomorrow, here augmented hourly by new arrivals from north, east south and west from Canada and even from such far away places as Hawaii and Panama.

Noise and Color.

All day and far into the night, Pennsylvania avenue was a confusion of noise and color as each arriving delegation marched to its headquarters behind its band. Typical Washington summer weather greeted the visitors and the marchers found that the wide expanse of asphalt on the famous thoroughfare gave back a heat akin to that of the "burning sands" of a desert.

California's Autos.

The day's arrivals included the automobile caravan from California. There were 500 cars in the line.

Pennsylvania avenue was a mecca for many of the Shrine hosts during the day, but for as many more it was a day of sightseeing, with corridors of public buildings crowded. President Harding, himself a noble, had the entire first floor of the White House thrown open to the Shriners and the executive offices lobbies and the famous green and red rooms were open during most of the day.

NAVAL PLANES HALT CEREMONY

Denby Embarrassed When Machines Interrupt Unveiling

Associated Press Dispatch

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Two memorials, one signifying the nation's progress in highway construction and the other devoted to the promotion of better homes, were dedicated in Washington today by President Harding.

Ceremonies, incident to the dedications were attendedby thousands of Shriners here for their convention and were marked by addresses by the president.

"Home, Sweet Home."

The highway memorial took the form of a block of granite, erected on the wall south of the White House through the efforts of the Lee Highway association and destined for use as a "zero milestone," or basic mark for the measurement of highway distances throughout the country. The other memorial was a reproduction of the boyhood home of John Howard Payne, author of "Home, Sweet Home," built in Sherman Square by the General Federation of Women's clubs to further the movement for better homes.

Planes Break In.

The milestone ceremonies were almost halted by a squadron of naval planes which circled over the assemblage, drowning out the voice of the speakers. The whole squadron appeared to the embarrassment of Secretary Denby, one of those on the speakers' stand, while the monument was being presented to the nation by Dr. S. M. Johnson, general director of the Lee Highway association. The look of embarrassment on the navel secretary's face became one of consternation a few minutes later when of the planes returned and flew low over the the crowd while the president was speaking.

Mr. Denby left the ceremonies, went to the navy department and issued a general order forbidding naval or marine aviators from flying over Washington except on his own personal authorization.

JURY HOLDS TWO FOR USING MAIL IN FRAUD DEAL

Peeler and Chancellor Will Be Sentenced In U. S. Court Today

DEFENSE 'ASTOUNDING'

So Declares Judge, as Promoters Tell Their Story To Court

Associated Press Dispatch

DALLAS, Texas, June 4.—A jury in United States district court late tonight found B. H. Peeler and Wade P. Chancellor guilty of using the United States mails to defraud in connection with the sale of oil stocks of the Peeler Royalty company. Federal Judge William H. Atwell will sentence the men tomorrow morning.

The case, the first of some 20 alleged illegal oil promotion schemes, said to have been operated here and in this vicinity in the last two years opened in federal court this morning before the May federal grand jury when it reconvened today after three weeks recess. The trial proceeded virtually without interruption until late tonight.

The government called only two witnesses, G. B. Johnson, post office inspector and O. F. Peterson, of Iowa, who the government declared, invested in the oil company. The defuse called a number of character witnesses during the afternoon session.

DALLAS, Texas, June 4.—A defense "most astounding, as astounding as your advertising," was presented Federal Judge Will H. Atwell today said in open court to Wade P. Chancellor, charged with B. H. Peeler with alleged fraudulent use of the United States mails. The judge stopped Chancellor's testimony.

The defense counsel was questioning Chancellor. He asked Chancellor to explain incidents relative to the Peeler Royalty company in which the defendant said he owned one half interest.

Chancellor, detailing leases which he said his company owns, said he obtained them for $12,000, of which $815 had been paid. The judge stopped the testmony during the witness's explanation of value and units of stock.

"Your defense is most astounding, as astounding as your advertising," Judge Atwell commented.

The defense had brought forward some of the company's advertising in which, the prosecution alleges, Chancellor and Peeler proclaim ownership in potash properties in Grimes county.

Chancellor, under cross examination, said the company does not own this land. Judge Atwell interposed:

"Let me understand this. He advertises that he owns potash fields in Grimes county and he now says that he does not own it, which is the charge?"

The defense pend an agreement that Chancellor proposed to organize a company for $100,000 to produce ash and manufacture a polish for use on silverware, glass and many other things. Chancellor was to pay $15,000 and in return to receive six per cent of the stock in the Victory Products company.

Both Chancellor and Peeler pleaded not guilty to the charges. The jury will receive the case probably tomorrow afternoon, court officials believe.

Rare Wine, Mellowed With Age, Seized By Hand of Law As Owners Wonder What It Is All About

Associated Press Dispatch

FORT SMITH, Ark., June 4.—Cellars of Tontitown, Ark., have felt effects fo the Volstead law for the first time.

Destruction of hundreds of gallons of rare old wine at Tontitown was described here today by Hiram Sutterfield and Mack Guerley, federal officers, who returned after heading raids in Washington county, Ark.

Tontitown is inhabited by a colony of foreigners. Long ago they began the cultivation of grapes. Their orchards and wine made from grapes have been famous for years. Most of the members of the colony have grown rich. The town is in an isolated part of Washington county and far as known has never before been visited by prohibition officers.

After destruction of the contraband Saturday, three men, including the mayor, were taken before a United States commissioner in Fayetteville and gave bonds.

Few of the colonists speak English and they appeared unable to understand "what it was all about," as they watched officials scrape colored from bottles and jugs and pour the sparkling contents on the ground, officers said.

TEN MEMBERS

members was expressed by Dr. Tolman who asserted he could not "work under Wilson because his ideal of education, of government, of character and American principles" were thoroughly out of harmony with those of Wilson.

The three farmer-labor league members of the board of agriculture, who elected Wilson, will meet the new college head in Stillwater tomorrow to receive from him his faculty recommendations.

The resentement of John Whitehurst, president of the board, and bitter foe of Wilson, boiled over at the board meeting today. Whitehurst declared he "would not be ordered about by Governor Walton."

He declined to accompany the three farmer-labor league board members to Stillwater to confer with Wilson. Whitehurst is an elective officer of the state. A. T. Whitworth, fifth member of the board, who has sided with Whitehurst against Wilson, also declared he would not go to Stillwater.

NEW PRESIDENT'S OFFICE GUARDED

Associated Press Dispatch

STILLWATER, Okla., June 4.—At work in the executive office in Morrill Hall, while five high national guard officers lolled about outside, George Wilson, new president of Oklahoma A. & M. college, today began mapping out plans for making the institution a center of practical learning for the sons and daughters of the toilers of the state.

Guards Not Needed

The flurry occasioned by the farmer-labor league leader's entry into the city yesterday with a military escort, had subsided today but the resentment of the townspeople at the show of force remained.

"The situation was not without humor as the guard officers loafed about with nothing to do. J. B. Eskridge, whom Wilson succeeded apparently expressed the general feeling of the community when he declared Wilson was in no physical danger and that the presence of the military escort was like "using a cannon to shoot a jay-bird." Regret was generally expressed by townspeople over the hoisting of a red flag on the college campus with Wilson's arrival yesterday.

Ancient Languages To Go

One of the first steps of the new president, it is understood, will be to abolish the department of ancient languages. Wilson is expected to develop at the college a course in the marketing of farm products, holding that it is important for the farmer to know how to best sell his product as to know the most improved methods of growing crops. He is an advocate of co-operative marketing.

LANGUAGE TEACHING CANNOT BE REQUESTED

Associated Press Dispatch

WASHINGTON, June 4.—State statutes which would prohibit the teaching or use of foreign languages in all schools below the eighth grade were declared void by the supreme court today as an unlawful encroachment upon the rights conferred by the fourteenth amendment which provides that "no state..... shall deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law." Justice Holmes delivered a dissenting opinion at which Justice Sutherland joined.

The question was presented to the court in cases coming from Iowa, Nebraska and Ohio. Eighteen other states, with similar statutes, participated.

Justice McReynolds, who delivered the majority opinion, asserted that the 14th amendment without doubt "denotes not merely freedom from bodily restraint, but also the right of the individual to contract, engage in any of the common occupations of life, to acquire useful knowledge, to marry, children, to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience, and generally to enjoy those privileges long recognized at common law as essential to the orderly pursuits of happiness by free men."

COURT REFUSES TO PASS ON MATERNITY BILL

Associated Press Dispatch

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The supreme court refused today to pass on the constitutionality of the Sheppard-Towner maternity act in cases brought by the state of Massachusetts, and a Boston tax payer. Both suits were dismissed for want of jurisdiction.

Unanimously the court held that an attack on the validity of the statute by a state did not present a judicial question. As to the suit instituted by Mrs. Harriet A. Fronthingham, the court declared her status as a tax payer did not entitle her challege the law.

CUTTING IN ON CLOSEUPS

The Movies by Josephine Fisk

OLYMPIC—Alice Terry and Ramon Novarro in "Where the Pavement Ends."
STRAND—Constance Binney in "A Bill of Divorcement."
EMPRESS—Walter Hiers and Jacqueline Logan in "Sixty Cents An Hour."
MAJESTIC—"The Prisoner," starring Herbert Rawlinson and Eileen Terry.
GEM—George Chesboro in "Diamond Carlisle."

"Sixty Cents An Hour" does not refer to Jimmie Kirk's salary, but to the rental cost of a flivver he hires to take his dear little Mamie riding. "Dear Little Mamie" is Jacqueline Logan, who is always attractive, but never more so than in the scene where she so daintily wears a black eye. "Jimmie," played by fat and jolly Walter Heirs, has his troubles too when he tries to build a store on a four foot plot, but finds that the law requires the walls so thick that he can't get inside! You'll enjoy this Paramount comedy at the Empress.

SOUTH SEA BEAUTY IN OLYMPIC FEATURE—

"Where the Pavement Ends" you'll find jungle-land, tropics, with all the fresh alluring beauty of the South Seas. Ramon Novarro is a young bronze god! He is so perfectly superb in the character of the young island chieftain that he portrays. His black curly hair, his sparkling eyes, his shining white teeth and dark complexion contrast so strikingly with the pale pearly loveliness of Alice Terry, who plays the role of the missionary's daughter.

The tropic scenes are beautiful and the camera work exceptionally good. In one scene, the two stars escape from the native village down the face of a roaring waterfall, climbing from rock to rock, slipping and falling with the rush of water, clinging to vines and brances in the stream. There is plenty of action and real interest to the picture, with the thread of a wonderful love story woven in.

"Where the Pavement Ends" closes a four-day run Thursday at the Olympic.

CONSTANCE BINNEY AT THE STRAND—

Constance Binney is starring at the Strand in "A Bill of Divorcement." The story swings on the justice of a divorce from an insane husband, who returns years after the separation, on the wedding night of his former wife who has found the man she loves. His presence complicates the happiness of the young daughter, played by Constance Binney, as much as that of the mother. The story adheres closely to that of the famous stage play, and dramatic scenes have been only intensified by screening.

"THE EXCITESS" STARS BEBE DANIELS—

During the filming of scenes for her latest Paramount picture, "The Exciters," Bebe Daniels was called upon, for the first time in her life, to drive a speed boat. It so happened that Bebe was the favorite picture star of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Steadman Wheeler of Boston, who were wintering at their Miami Beach home, and they insisted that she use their 150-horse-power speed boat, "Live Wire" in the picture.

Since meeting Miss Daniels personally the Wheelers decided to re-christen the boat and call her "Bebe." The re-christening took place at Miami Beach and as a tribute to Florida, grape juice was substituted for anti-prohibition wine.

"The Exciters" is playing soon at the Olympic.

Separate Chickens for Market And Fatten Them Before Their Sale

By AL OLSTON

Poultry Editor, Record News, Poultry Extension Department, Maricle Coal and Feed Company, Phone 4351.

Before marketing fowls it is a good practice to separate them from your other birds and begin fattening them. It does not take much feed to fatten poultry and a much better price can be gotten for fat birds than those in poor condition.

Food, to fatten birds must be rich in carbohydates and fat rather than protein. Keep the birds as inactive as possible so the food consumed will turn into fat in place of bone and muscle. I would suggest that they be fed only in troughs. Do not feed all they will eat the first few days. Keep some laxative in their food so as to keep them in good condition. Dampen your feed with water or buttermilk as a mash in the morning and then feed the latter two day. Do not burn them out by overfeeding; be sure to see that they clean up their feed at night. Be sure also to keep a good supply of oyster shell or grit before them at all times.

Books of etiquette and classes in na-

As to the selection of breeds, for nest purposes, Brahmas, Cochins, Langshans and Jersey Giants are best; for general purposes (meat and laying combined) the Plymouth Rock, Rhode Island Red, Wyandottes, and Orpingtons; for laying all the Leghorns, Minorcas, Hamburgs, and most all other small breeds.

There is a vast difference in feeding fowls for laying and in feeding them for fat and weight. To feed for weight we must buy some good commercial feed that is prepared especially for this purpose. This feed is very concentrated and can be fed only a short time. Of course there is an honest and dishonest way to feed for weight and the law is very strict in this instance.

Those who are interested in raising market folwls must et acquainted with the different holidays when poultry is sin demand. Besides our own days it is very profitable to have birds for the Hebrew holidays which are as follows, according to the Produce Packer of Kansas City Mo.:

Fast of the Weeks, May 2]—market days, May 15 to 18. Very little extra for these days.

Jewish New Year, September 11—Marget days 5 to 8. Fat fowls, turkeys, ducks and geese.

Day of atonement, September 20—Market days 17 to 18th. All prime stock, especially White Leghorn chickens and roosters.

Feast of Tabernacles, September 24—Market days 18 to 21, all fowls ducks and fat geese.

Columbus Day, October 12—Market days 9 to 11. Live chickens, fowls, rabbits.

Feast of the Law, December 3—Market days, November 28 to 30. Prime quality of all kinds.

Regardless of which end of the poultry game one goes into they must have it on a business basis to make a success of it. If you are going in for breeding purposes you must establish a system and then work this system to perfection. You will fail badly if you do otherwise.

If you are in for the market end at this I would suggest getting in with some good reliable produce dealer and work for him for a bit. You can get a great amount of information relating to the buying, contracting and selling ends of the game, or the storing, candling, killing freezing, and packig. The raising end you must learn from experience. The egg-raising end you must learn from some practical, reliable poultry raiser, and some of the best are located right here in Wichita Falls.

The moral of successful poultry business regardless of the kind is "Get a purpose and live that purpose out to the end." Remembering that to be successful in the game you will find plenty of hard work and lots of it.

Lack of Space May Prevent Two Years Work in Junior College Here

"The only obstacle that stands in the way of having two years of college work in Wichita Falls during the next school session is space for the pupils," Dr. J. W. Cantwell, new superintendent of Wichita Falls public schools, said Monday upon being asked whether there would be one or two years of college work offered here next year.

Dr. Cantwell arrived in Wichita Falls Sunday and assumed his duties Monday. He will stay in Wichita Falls the entire summer with the exception of a brief period when he will return to get his household material.

Dr. Cantwell said he had not had time to look over the space situation in Wichita Falls and it is not known yet whether a separate building will be used for the college students until the new junior college building is completed.

With nearly 100 pupils entering the senior high school building this fall and the majority of the high school graduates intending to attend the junior college, and added to this number the 10 present junior college students, it would be nearly an impossibility to seat all the pupils in the senior high school building.

signed eight bills, filed seven to become laws without his signature, and vetoed seven.

Blue Sky Act Effective

The so-called "blue sky" law, seeking to prohibit fraudulent activities in stocks and bonds, was signed, as was also the bill creating a separate state banking department.

Other bills signed or filed include: Releasing inhabitants of Wharton and a portion of Matagorda counties of taxation for 26 years; appropriating $25,000 for erection of a memorial to Gen. Sam Houston; regulating the net quantity of packages and containers; appropriating $10,000 for assisting disabled former service persons; substitute gasoline tax; creating state plant breed examiner's board.

The principal bill which was vetoed was the Burkett bill seeking to create the eleventh court of civil appeals at Eastland. Veto on this measure was because there already are too many courts of civil appeal, the governor said.

HOUSE PASSES BIG APPROPRIATION BILL

Associated Press Dispatch

AUSTIN, June 4.—The judiciary appropriations of $3,185,884, was passed finally by the house late today, 85 to 15. This is the first general appropriation bill to be passed since Governor Neff vetoed the measure. The appropriation was reduced $50,000 over that passed in the last session.

The Carpenter regulation property rendition under oath and the Downs bill, making provisions for inheritance tax collections also were passed.

Under an amendment to the judiciary bill by Rogers, all nine courts of civil appeals would have been abolished, saving $225,000. The amendment was defeated overwhelmingly.

RECLAMATION FUND ACT BY SENATE

Associated Press Dispatch

AUSTIN, June 4.—The senate this afternoon engrossed the Price house bill reducing the reclamation appropriation after amendments had been adopted adding $75,000 to the appropriation as allowed in the lower branch. The education institution appropriation bill was the subject of a long and heated debate, but no action was taken on the measure.

Indications of strong opposition to the emergency and rural aid school appropriation bills were voiced by several senators during debate on the educational bill. Although the finance committe report carries reductions of over $1,000,000, Senator Wood, chairman, moved that the amendments be defeated and the bill be passed as votoed by the governor.

MRS. BUTLER'S TERRIBLE PAINS

Vanished After Using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

W. Philadelphia, Pa. — "When I cleaned house last April I must have overlifted, for after that I had pains and aches all the time and was so discouraged I could hardly do my own housework, and I could not carry a basket of groceries from the store nor walk even four or five squares without getting terrible pains in my back and abdomen and lower limbs. I went to visit a friend in Mt. Holly, N. J., and she said, 'Mrs. Butler, why don't you take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' My husband said that if it did her so much good for the same trouble, I should try it. So I have taken it and it is doing me good. Whenever I feel heavy or bad, it puts me right on my feet again. I am able to do my work with pleasure and am getting strong and stout."—Mrs. CHARLES BUTLER, 1238 S. Hanson St., W. Philadelphia, Pa.

Mary Immaculate Pupils Give Program - To Large Audience

An audience consisting of friends and patrons, which filled the ball room of the Kemp hotel to its capacity enjoyed the annual commencement exercises Thursday evening of the graduates of the Academy of Mary Immaculate.

Striking excellence of artistic beauty and charming simplicity were exemplified in every number on the program, which consisted chiefly of the graduation exercises.

The entertainment was opened with the aptly chosen Abt's "Ave Maria," and exquisite part song, and was followed by the address of Miss Edna Steed, salutatorian of her class. Miss Steed's excellent words of welcome were delivered with a serenity and poise that displayed the thoughtful personality of the gifted speaker.

Miss Mary Marguerite White, class essayist, told some wonderful truths in her "Woman in the Past and Present."

The presentations of the medals and diplomas was followed by the valedictory given by Miss Edna Black, valedictorian of her class, who delivered her essay in a clear, pleasing voice, carrying with it the sweetly sad charm of sorrow at parting, also a strong tender message.

The Rev. Father Hoyt, then addressed the graduates and after congratulating them on their success, urged them to follow always the high ideals which has been held up to them during the years they have spent in the clarifying atmosphere of learning and virtue.

"The Throne of the King," one of the strongest numbers on the program was given in an excellent manner by Miss Marguerite White, and showed the gifted speaker, as a dramatic reader possessed of remarkable histrionic ability.

The musical numbers deserve special mention as being particularly beautiful, displaying marked musical talent, supplemented by perfect training. Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream," a piano and violin concert number, in which ten young women took part, was an artistic triumph, eliciting the praise of the audience. It was insistently applauded.

Misses Edna Black, Enda Steel, Ruth Harrison and Katherine King, music students of the academy, having honorably passed all the recitations and examinations of the elementary grade of the progressive series of music and having attained a corresponding proficiency in technic, were awarded an elementary certificate by the Art Publication society of St. Louise.

The program given follows:

JOHN SKAGGS WILL RECOVER

Man Injured In Fight Resting Easy in General Hospital

Reports from the hospital last night said John Skaggs, local truck driver, who was seriously cut about the chest, neck and face in a fight on Seventh and Travis streets Sunday afternoon, was resting easily and there are good hopes of recovery. The injuries came as a result of a disagreemnt between the injured man and C. Holcomb, which terminated Sunday afternoon.

It was at first feared there were little hopes of Skaggs' recovery, due to the loss of blood and had he been delayed in being brought to the hospital five minutes, he would have had no chance of recovery.

Skaggs, it is reported, has been employed by the J. W. Clemons Trucking company and lives at 1408 Sixth street, where he has a wife and three small children. He is about 25 years of age.

CHARGES FILED

Charges of assault with intent to murder were filed Monday afternoon against C. E. Holcomb, held in connection with the attack Sunday on John Skaggs.

The charges were sworn to by Assistant County Attorney Sommerville before a justice of the peace. A preliminary hearing will be held as soon as it is ascertained that Skaggs' wounds are not fatal.

The fight Sunday afternoon took place at the corner of Seventh and Travis streets and terminated only after Holcomb is alleged to have cut Skaggs' throat with a pocket knife.

It was reported last night from the hospital that the injured man stands a good chance for recovery despite the loss of a large amount of blood.

Storm Forces French Airman To Ground

Associated Press Dispatch

MINEOLA, N. Y., June 4.—Encountering a thunderstorm while attempting a flight from Roosevelt filed to West Point, Georges Barbot, French aviator, was compelled to return to his starting point today and delay the trip until better weather.

Barbot took off with three gallons of gasoline in the fuel tank of his aerial "filvver" although he explained he would not require more than half a gallon for the flight. Piloted by a larger plane, he started up the Hudson. Upon reaching the vicinity of Tarrytown, however, the storm forced him back, but he was officially credited of 60 miles an hour for the flight.

New Hostess Book Tells How To Please Whole Groups of People

Books of etiquette and classes in the latest way of socialising your nature to please others flourish. Now along comes a new complete hostess book. It tells you how to please not one person individually, but whole groups.

"Parties and Stunts," just off the press, describes how to chill your midsummer guests with a Jack Frost revel with polar ice and snow, how to give shadow pictures and animated songs, stunts and parties.

"To extend hospitality to others seems a simple enough matter for most people until they find themselves confronted with a whole group on their hands," says Miss Retzner, the author, who is a recreational expert. "Many want a general plan which they can adapt to their particular needs for such special occasions. Others declare that they never know what to do next at community affairs and fetes.

"Parties and Stunts" we hope will provide ideas which may serve for entertaining at home, school, church and special community affairs on a large scale. If such an evening is not intelligently handled the affair will fall short of success.

"In arranging for an evening's activity it is well to remember that any social gathering is like a piece of music. It is a series of moods that must be blended into harmony to kindle fellow feeling."

The book from the Womans Press contains scores of new stunts, games and party suggestions for community parties both indoors and outdoors.

36 GRADUATES AT GRAHAM HI

Ben Taylor Delivers Sermon at First Methodist Church

GRAHAM, June 4.—With the sun filtering in through the stained glass windows, lending light and beauty to the scene, 36 graduates of the Graham high school heard Rev. C. R. Taylor deliver the commencement sermon at the First Methodist church Sunday morning. The scene was one of indescribable beauty; the beautiful large auditorium of the church with its pipe organ, its stained glass windows and electric chandeliers gave the effect of a ney day. The manyhued dresses of the congregation and choir contrasted with the more sombre grey of the seniors caps and gowns.

Dr. Taylor took his text "What is man, that htous art mindful of him?" from Psalms VIII, 4. He first dwelt on the word man, making a few pertinent remarks relative to the theory of yeolution. He likened man to three stories of a house, the body, the mind and the soul. He exhorted the graduates that inbuilding their house not to leave out the most important of all, the third story, or the soul. "In middle age I hope you will have a clearer vision of the Father than you have now. Whatever profession you may take, whatever path of life you may select always be mindful of Him, for He is mindful of you."

The program for the morning was as follows:

Voluntary, Dedication, Festival March—Mrs. Wright Wilson.

BERLIN, June 4.—Germany and Lithuania have signed a commercial treaty for two years granting most-favored-nation treatment insofar as this is possible in conformity with the Versailles treaty and Lithuania's special arrangements with the Baltic states.

SHORTAGE OF HARVEST HELP

$2.50 Per and Board Fails To Attract Sufficient Workers

Thre is a shortage of harvest help in Wichita county at present and although the dearth of labor is not serious, farmers are anxious to obtain more assistance.

County Farm Agent Guy R. Jones stated Monday that practically every farm where harvesting was in progress was feeling the need for more men.

Pay is made at the rate of $2.50 a day and board, it was stated.

Headers are being used to a large extent in the fields this year because of the poor stands of grain, Mr. Jones reported. Very little wheat is being bound.

In Wilbarger county and points north of here harvesting is not yet under way. Too much rain has retarded developments in that territory but threshing will start within the next week or ten days, it is thought.

WOMANLY WEAKNESS

Birmingham Lady Took Cardui for Relief of Change of Life Troubles and Says It Helped Her "So Much"

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — "I first took Cardui for that tired, worn-out feeling that comes from being dreadfully run-down," says Mrs. Catherine E. Smith of 2106 Stout street. "Twenty-five years ago, I was suffering from womanly weakness..... I read of Cardui in an almanac, and thought I would try it. I got a bottle and it helped me from the first. After that, during the whole of my married life, I took Cardui when I needed it.

"About four years ago, change of life came on me....I grew weaker and weaker, and was confined to my bed where I laid on my back for days. I was told that only a severe operation could do me any good, and this depressed me very much for I dreaded such an ordeal.

"I remembered how Cardui had helped me for female trouble in the past and I had read of how it had helped other women during change of life, so one night I told my husband to go to the drug store and get me a bottle. I began taking it at once. From the first dose I could feel myself getting stronger.....I continued to take Cardui until I was entirely through this very trying period of a woman's life....Cardui is a wonderful medicine for women. It helped me so much that I gladly recommend it to other women suffering as I did." At druggists.

"A TEMPEST IN A TEAPOT"

Governor Smith of New York signed the bill which repealed the state prohibition enforcement act. All the ultra-drys are filled with a wrath bordering on righteous indignation, and all the hopeful vets are as hilarious as a bunch of college boys on vacation.

President Harding sent a letter to the press in which he lectured the governor of New York and the repealers of the bill. He blandly intimated in his letter that the signing of the bill would be looked upon as an act of nullification.

Henry Cabot Lodge is the republican leader of the upper house of congress. John Calvin Coolidge is the vice president of the United States. Massachusetts is proud of her two favorite sons. They are republicans to the core, and Massachusetts, politically speaking, is republican to the core.

Massachusetts is without a prohibition enforcement act. Rhode Island is without a prohibition enforcement act. Massachusetts and Rhode Island are republican states, sainted members of the original 13 colonies.

Now, to be consistent, President Harding should point the finger of scorn at Massachusetts and Rhode Island and proclaim the republican leaders of these two ancient commonwealths as nullifiers who never accepted to the full Harding limit the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act.

New York lawmakers repealed the Gage-Mullan enforcement law. This did not repeal the eighteenth amendment. This did not repeal the Volstead act. The first is part of the organic law of the republic, and the second is the federal enforcement act which was passed by the congress.

With the Gage-Mullan act repealed, it is impossible for a New Yorker, native or adopted, to manufacture or sell or import liquors which would intoxicate without violating the Volstead act and incurring the penalty provided by the federal lawmakers.

America is dry. New York is dry. Massachusetts is dry. Rhode Island is dry. Maryland is dry. Maryland is a stalwart democratic state, and the leaders of the democracy of Maryland are committed to the dogma of states rights.

Massachusetts republicans are not committed to that dogma, but they cling to it. It is the same with Rhode Island republicans. They never did take kindly to the eighteenth amendment or the Volstead act, and the Rhode Island republicans are Harding republicans.

According to a decision by the supreme court of the United States the congress of the United States is clothed with the power or authority to decide that which constitutes intoxicating liquor. Former Congressman Andrew J. Volstead had his point of view. He fixed a very low alcoholic content.

Now, if the people elect a president and a congress in sympathy with him who favor a very high alcoholic content and then crystallize their amalgamated thirst into a law there is going to be more moisture in the land than ever existed under the Volstead act and its workings.

Illinois is a republican state—beastly republican in the majorities that it rolls up for the elephant and its trainers and G. O. P. candidates for office. Yet only last year, by a majority of 250,000, the voters of Illinois declared against the Volstead act and demanded its sweeping nullification.

If the Smith approval of the New York repeal law is going to be a political issue next year, why not pass the flowers all around?

Why overlook Massachusetts, the home of Lodge and Coolidge? Why overlook little Rhody? Why overlook Illinois, in whose broad bosom reposes the ashes of Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas?

More than 70 years ago the original prohibitionists began their campaign to outlaw the liquor industry in the United States. They were successful in World war times.

Now if the repealers are going to launch a movement for the modification of the Volstead act, those who are on earth in 1993 may be privileged to freely quaff the juice of the graupe24oflusu-io L shrdl of the grape and the foam of the hop.

There are those who suspect that it will be a long, long road to Tipperary.

OSAGES AND THEIR WEALTH

Production of oil and gas on Osage Indian lands in northern Oklahoma has reached proportions of such magnitude as to surpass records made by any oil and gas fields at any time in history. Secretary Work of the department of the interior, made the announcement that from 1905 when oil was discovered up to March 1923, approximately 212,000,000 barrels of oil have been taken from the reservation. There has been drilled 8,360 oil wells. Every one of them are producers with the exception of five dry holes, the smallest proportion ever known. There have been 3,300 leases, each lease covering oil and gas rights on 160 acres.

There are 2,229 Osage Indians and their heirs and the total income accruing to the Osages, both from cash bonuss and from royalties, reached the huge figur on May 1, 1923, of $136,014.37. Total aren of the Osage reservation is 1,500,000 acres and up to this time 550,000 acres have been found to contain oil. It is announced that the number of different oil companies now holding leases in the Osage field total 66.

Who was it that said "Alas! poor Lo." He must have said it before the coming of the petroleum industry and the discovery of the Osage field in northern Oklahoma where oil has made the Osages the richest Indians that civilization has ever known.

WHY SHE DIES HER HAIR

A New York dispatch carries the news that James A. Stillman has deserted Miss Flo Leeds and their son and has found himself another affinity.

Now just what did Flo expect? She knew that Stillman had a wife and children; she knew that Stillman had not been divorced from the wife; she knew it was dangerous to play with fire, but she played. Now a sympathizer says that her hair has turned white, although she is only 26, "and she has had to dye it."

Hair dyeing is not an exhibition of poignant grief. There are many light-hearted sisters who make their hair yellow, black, red or brown. It is a matter of style or taste.

James A. Stillman has had many affairs in his life and when he tired of an affinity or was lured by a new affinity, the deserted ones were compelled to travel the old, old road.

He is a man of millions. He isn't an Adonis. They hooked him for his money. He is a man of the world and he plays the world as he finds it, in a way as sorid and as selfish as a miser who gloats over his gold.

AN EASY BANKER

Uncle Sam is the most liberal banker in the world. He kept an army of occupation on the Rhine for three or four years. He paid all the bills. Now he has a claim for $250,000,000. He has compromised it. He is to get it in 12 annual installments, with interest at 4½ per cent, only after the 12-year limit has expired. Would it be possible for Uncle Sam to loan 4½ per cent money to his own subjects on gilt-edged security? If not, why not?

MILLIONS FOR MIRTH

Five years ago Larry Semon was a draftsman in a newspaper office earning exactly $35 a week. Now he has signed a contract to take down $3,000,000 in three years for six pictures, to be produced within the next two or three years. Larry is a slap-stick comedian of the silent stage. He is getting his millions because he is able to make the people laugh. No one cares to fatten the pocket of the man who makes people weep.

JOHN M. GARNER

Congressman Claude Kitchin is dead. Now Congressman John M. Garner of Texas will be minority leader until 1924, and should the democrats capture the lower house of congress in that year, Garner is certain to be elected gavel weilder. Texas has been known as the banner democratic state. Texas never had a speaker. Garner would fill the bill. He has poise and brains, experience and courage. And it takes all these to make a real speaker of th ehouse.

WEEKS AND WAR

Secretary of War John W. Weeks predicts an outbreak between Turkey and Greece in the near future, with other nations involved. What has become of the Armenian? He was massacred by the Turks, and then he escaped and the Greeks massacred him. Is he hiding out or awaiting resurrection? Greeks and Turks and Balkan mountaineers have been warring for thousands of years. They are going to keep it up unless a big world policeman is erected to club them whenever they run amuck.

A trusted official of a bank in the city of St. Louis embezzled $175,000, the money of depositors who worked for wages. A jury returned a verdict of guilty and gave the bank looter a term of five years in the Missouri penitentiary. If he had stolen a hog, a Missouri jury would have given him the same penalty. Now, why shouldn't the punishment fit the crime?

Poland is a republic. Polish hens produce 900,000,000 eggs in a single year. These eggs are shipped to all the nations of the earth. Paderewski and Pilsuski may be great statesmen, but the Polish hen is the wealth producer of the new republic.

UNCOMMON SENSE
BY JOHN BLAKE

THE BRAIN MARKET

The one market that is unaffected by hard times or even panics is the brain market.

It fluctuates sometimes, but it never breaks.

Men who have accumulated wealth and are still accumulating it, men who have established big industries and mean to keep them going, must have this commodity, or their wealth will be swept away.

Nobody can make money or build industries without brains—his own or somebody else's, or both.

There is always a demand. And in hard times the demand is as great as ever. For when the accumulations of a life time are threatened with destruction, the man of wealth is in the same need of brains to save his money as the man in ill-health is in need of a doctor to save his life.

Some of the shrewdest captains of industry discovered, 20 or 30 years ago, that such brains could not be had on salary. So they took them into partnership.

Andrew Carnegie did this, and became one of the richest men in the world. John D. Rockefeller did it, and not only made a vast fortune, but built a tremendous industry.

He is now able to give millions of dollars to great public benefactions, because not only his own brains, but those of a dozen or more of the keenest minded men in American industry aided him to create his wealth.

That they made their own fortunes at the same time was to be expected. Such men were not to be hired for any fixed salaries.

Henry Ford, today perhaps the world's richest man, has always found that it paid him to let other men get part of the profits of the enterprises he established.

It would not today be a quarter as great as it is had it not brought fortune to the men who helped him.

The brain market is everywhere but it is a canny and a well-informed market, and seldom are bogus brains bought or sold in it.

To convince a man who knows how to make money himself that you can make more money for him is not easy.

But it can be done, and it is being done.

Today in little town and rural communities are hundreds of boys born with good minds but born with the willingness to do the work necessary to the development of their minds.

You can sell your brains if you have them. You will have little trouble in finding a market. But you must have an unusually good set of them—and be able to prove it—if you hope to command a high price.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU
BY MARY BLAKE

GEMINI

Today is of favorable meln. The aspects are propitious for the initiating of new projects and for the termination of those already under way. Conditions change and are of somewhat adverse nature after five tending to produce contrary feelings and abrupt manner.

A child born today will be robust and energetic, courageous and indomitable, but withal a sensitive and imaginative mentality.

You will continually over-rate your own powers if today is your birthday, and thereby fall into a lot of trouble, almost before you are aware of any change of condition.

You are quite satisfied in having self confidence. You are forceful, resolute and fearless and unless you can live as you think it should be lived, you will not be over desirous of carrying on with it. Not that you are weak willed, but that you will have nothing but the best. If you were not so wrapped up in yourself and always thinking of your own comfort and happiness above everything and everybody else in the world life would not seem so empty and useless when you are without material luxuries.

It is an absolute fact that the greatest joy in the world is derived from doing for others. It is a point of view about which you are skeptical, but once you try it seriously you will realize that you have been only superficially happy.

Your mind is firm, relentlessly logical and analytical, and constantly in revolt against false idealism, or at least that particular idealism in which you do not believe at the time. You are a partisan in mind and spirit, and although you have a clear sense of legal and literary justice you are quite incapable of seeing all sides of a question at one time.

You are imaginative and also creative, but not essentially an artist. You might achieve technical perfection in anything you undertake, but your emotional nature has more of a taste for combat rather than for love.

You are apt to be romantic and sentimental in your thoughts as well as your conduct, but purely as a matter of form, although you yourself probably do not recognize it.

A nature like yours should not be combined with any other and therefore a life of single blessedness is the only one for you.

Well known people born on this date are: Henry Wurtz, chemist; Jubex L. M. Curry, statesman; Columbus Delano, congressman.

The BLOOD SHIP

By NORMAN SPRINGER

THE ACTION UP TO THIS POINT

Captain John Shreve, a commander of sailing ships, tells the story. It is the tale of a voyage, his first as an able seaman in the clipper ship The Golden Bough. Shreve, just come to sea manhood, becomes a lodger at the "Knitting Swede's" one of the lowest sailors' resorts in San Francisco. He notes one lodger of quite, austere manner with a scar on his face. Young Shreve defeats the Swede's runner and wins his girl, but determines to go back to sea. He and the mysterious man, known as Newman, sign for a voyage in The Golden Bough, in spite of the ship's reputation for cruelty. Shreve encounters a wreck named Beasley and Newman sees him. Beasley confesses to Newman his part in many dirty plots against Newman. He speaks of a Mary and an unprincipled man who is master of a ship. Taken aboard the Golden Bough by the Swede, Shreve and Newman learn that there is a lady aboard.

Captain Swope dives up to his reputation as a brutal master by beating Nils, a young sailor. Swope's wife appears on deck. The men learn that she is the angel of the floating prison.

When the watches are told off Newman appears on deck for the first time during the voyage. Captain Swope is shocked at the man who calls him Angus. The lady greets Newman as Roy.

The Lady warns Newman, by means of a note, to be on his guard. By order of Swope she is restricted to her cabin. "Boston" and Blackie," two tough members of the crew, are rebuffed by Newman and hint that he has been a convict.

"Boston" and "Blackie" fan the hatred among the crews for the officers over the ill treatment of Nils, the boy beaten by Swope, and other cruelties. An apparent attempt by the captain on Newman's life nearly ends Shreve's. "The Lady" acts as nurse to the abused members of the crew. "Boston" hints that Newman is being "double crossed." Shreve goes in search of him.

The story is told by Jack Shreve and describes his first voyage as an able seaman on the old time clipper

The Golden Bough, a "hell ship" as those were known on which captains and mates maintained a reign of terror by their cruelty to the crew. The Golden Bough's captain is Yankee Swope, a villainous brute. In the past, according to a story Shreve overhears, Swope by virtue of a series of lies had caused the death of one girl and broken up the engagement of another.

Mary, whom he had married. Her former lover, now known as Newman, served a term in prison and, hunting Swope, signs as a seaman on the Golden Bough. On the same ship—the crew being largely being shanghaied—are two ex-jail birds,

"Boston" and "," who hint at treasure she is carrying.

Fitzgibbon and Lynch are the mates and abet Swope in his brutality.

Nils, a youthful "Square head" among the crew is terribly beaten, and dies. Mary, whom the crew knew as The Lady, warns Newman he is in danger, and Swope actually makes an attempt on his life.

Nil's Ghost.

Ever since the night when Captain Swope tried to snap us off the yardarm, I made it a practice to stick close to the big fellow during the night watches.

One night we were aft on a job when I missed Newman. An instant before we were together, we had handed the same line; suddenly he was gone from my side.

The second mate drove us, kept us jumping, at perfectly useless jobs on the head sails. It was as plain as the nose on my face that he was purposely keeping us forward.

Something was going on, aft there by the boat skids.

I was in a quandary. I wasn't sure he was in trouble, that Newman would welcome my advertising his disappearance. Perhaps he was keeping a rendezvous.

That was the other old's thought. Oh, aye, they missed him too. But they didn't have wit enough to realize that Lynch also had sharp eyes; they thought Lynch didn't know that Newman was gone.

"The Big Un's queenin,' right under the Old Man's nose!" That's how Boston put it.

But he had been up to something else as well. As he and I walked forward after the watch was relieved we were overtaken by Lindquist, who was coming from the helm.

"Vat you ban doing with the longboat to-night?" he asked Newman curiously.

"Nothing, lad. You must have dreamed at your wheel—understand?" was Newman's prompt reply.

It took a moment to filter into the squarehead's mind, but he got it. "So—ja, it ban dream; I see noddings," he said.

"And you say nothing?"

"Ja, even to mineself I say, noddings," promised Lindquist.

"Was there much comment among the hands?" Newman asked me.

I told him what Boston had said, and that it was the common opinion.

"That will do no harm," he remarked. 'So long as they did not see, or guess—yes, it is a good blind.

A strange peace lasted for several days. It was a curious time, a period of uneasy suspense for me, for I could feel her simmering beneath the smooth surface of the ship's life, but I could not see it, or guess when or where it would bubble over.

"I took the trick when Nils died," explained Newman, I asked him what the new program meant, "and now our sweet captain is dealing a new hand, from a cold deck. He is nursing the scum, because this time he will strike through them, instead of through the squareheads."

By "scum," Newman meant our unsavory mob of stiffs, or roughs recruited by the Knitting Swede.

The sailors were worried, just as I was. The sailors knew ships; the stiffs did not. They could feel ships.

Aye, the calm before the Typhoon!

To heighten the squareheads' foreboding, and to scare the wits half out of us all, Nils' ghost visited the ship.

Nils came at night, in the middle watch, always in the middle watch. That circumstance might have aroused suspicion in sceptical minds. But we were not sceptical.

Lynch had us busy forward the first night.

Newman had the first wheel. At four bells a lad named Oscar went aft to relieve him. A moment later he appeared forward, wild-eyed and sputtering his own lingo. All we could understand of his speech was the word "Nils." He had seen Nils!

Nils was at the wheel. Oscar had gone aft to relieve Newman, and he had seen his dead shipmate at the wheel steering the ship! He was afraid to relieve a ghost.

"Oh, rot!" says Lynch. "Here, come along aft with me, the lot of you. We'll lay this ghost."

"Well, m'son, where's your ghost?" demanded Mister Lynch.

Oscar was still too frightened to muster his scant English, but Lindquist talked for him. "He say like dis, sir, Nils ban at da wheel when he koom aft, oond den he yump vrom der wheel oond run for-ard yust like da time da captain throomp him."

"Rot!" says Lynch. "Newman have you permitted a ghost to stand your trick at the wheel?"

"Hardly a ghost, sir," answered Newman.

"What is wrong, Mister?" inquired the Captain's soft voice. He had popped up from below as quietly as if he were a ghost.

"Nothing wrong, Captain," replied Mister Lynch. "One of my jaspers declared he saw the squarehead's ghost."

"So one little ghost scared you, eh?" says Swope to trembling Oscar. "Why, my man, if all the ghosts in this ship were to begin walking about, we living men would be crowded into the sea." With that he went below leaving us more frightened than ever.

When we went below at eight bells we held a grand talk in the fo'c'sle. Aye, we were convinced that the ghost was abroad. Oscar stuck to his yarn.

He couldn't be mistaken! 'Yust as plain like a picture."

He knew him by his boyish stature, by his beardless features, by his clothes. He was wearing his Scotch plaid coat and red tam o' shanter. Didn't his mates remember those togs?

Aye, we talked so much we were afraid to turn in. Captain Swope's words about the ghost crew in the Golden Bough impressed us mightily. We told each other that many men must have died cruel deaths in this notorious hooker.

The third night after marked Nils's last and most startling appearance. In the heart of the middle watch, while my mates were sound asleep, the ghost walked into the empty fo'c'sle.

That is, the port fo'c'sle should have been empty, since the mate had the watch out. But it happened that Nigger, coming from the wheel, seized an opportunity to slip into the deserted room for a quiet smoke.

I awakened abruptly to discover Nigger clawing my mitt; and when I saw his convulsed face I knew at once he had "seen Nils."

He was too scared to talk; he could only stutter. "Gug-gug-gug-God!" But he pointed into the other fo'c'sle.

Well, my bowels were water, as the saying is, but I would not let the crewu think I was afraid to face anything, even a ghost.

Out I rolled, and into the doorway I stepped. There I stopped. God's truth; I was frozen to the spot with terror. For Nils's shadow lay athwart the floor of the port fo'c'sle, his moving shadow. I saw a white hand appear on the door jamb. A ghost-like hand, it was so white and small, a patch of plaid cloth, a little bare, white foot lifting above the sill, and then the tam and the white face beneath it.

Aye, that white face with its great, staring eyes.

Then Newman pushed past me and crossed the port fo'c'sle in a bound. He joined the white face in the other doorway, and disappeared with it into the outer darkness.

Not a man save me and Newman had saw that white face. Even Nigger had not seen it. But my watchmates were awake and eager.

"Is it gone?" they chorousted.

"Yes," I answered gruffly. "Stow the guff, the lot of you. I want to sleep."

But I didn't sleep. I lay there thinking about the face I had seen. The ghost that had scared all hands was the Lady, dressed in Nils's clothes!

The Lady had brought Newman bad news. As I afterward learned, the steward overheard a conversation between the captain and the mate, and reported it to her, and she immediately risked her masquerade forward to carry the tale to Newman.

During the morning Newman said to me, "Watch your step today, Jack. Trouble brewing."

I watched my step, but not until the middle of the afternoon watch, when I went aft to relieve Newman at the wheel, did I see any indications of a coming breach of the afterguard's own peace. I sensed it then before I saw it.

Newman gave me the course. I repeated it aloud, as is the custom. Then he whispered, hurriedly.

"I think he intends to lock me up. Help Holy to keep peace forard. Remember, lad, my life—and hers—may depend upon it."

When Newman neared the forward end of the poop, the two tradesmen of the port watch suddenly popped up from the ladder and confronted him. Salls carried a sawed off shotgun in the crook of his arm, and Chips had a pair of handcuffs dangling in his grasp.

Newman stopped short.

"Am I to consider myself under arrest, Captain?" he called out.

Swope turned his face to the speaker.

"Yes, my man, you may consider yourself under arrest!" he said.

"Then you will notice I offer no resistance," added Newman.

The carpenter slipped on the cuffs.

"Lock those iron tightly, Connolly," Swope directed the tradesman. "We have to deal with a desperate man, a tricky man, a damn jailbird, Connolly. Squeeze those iron down on his wrists. It dosen't matter if they pinch him."

From where I stood I could not see, but I could imagine the steel rings biting cruelly into my friend's flesh. I felt a rage against the captain which overcame the sick fear of what he might do to me. But my rage was impotent; it could not help Newman.

Lynch crossed the deck and examined the prisoners wrists.

"These iron are too tight, and will torture the man," he said. 'In my judgment, sir, it is not necessary to secure him in this fashion."

"In my judgment it is," was Swope's bland response.

In the cabin Swope held a sort of trial of Newman. His spies—I could overhear them—glibly told of Newman's part in "plotting mutiny"—of course was pure lie.

Another told of a meeting between Newman and The Lady in the sail locker room.

"So my wife was in the sail-locker with this convict and he was making up to her? Well, well!" sneered Swope.

All hands were mustered aft when the port watch came on deck and the little parson was plucked out of the crowd and ushered into the cabin.

Five minutes after he entered the cabin he was thrown out on the deck bruised, bleeding and unconscious, and his mates were told to pick him up and carry him forward.

The Old Man and the mate appeared on the poop immediately afterward. The instant I clapped eyes upon Swope I knew that my turn was next.

More Truth Than Poetry
By James J. Montague

IT DEPENDS ON WHO IS SMOKING

Lord Leverhulme, a British peer,
Broadcasts the stern injunction
That people must not smoke for fear
Their brains will cease to function.
The fumes, he says, within us lurk;
Prevent our thinking clearly,
And make us hate all forms of work
Severely.

He may be right, but ere the weed
With fetters firm had bound me—
Before I felt a daily need
To watch smoke wreathe around me;
Before I thought a ——— pipe
A thing of grace and beauty,
I hated every form and type
Of duty.

And when I'm sometimes told to quit
My pipe by my physician,
(Who thinks it does not benefit
My physical condition),
The inhibition only serves
To worry and upset me—
I cannot work because my nerves
Won't let me.

But when once more my pipe I light,
Two puffs forthwith restore me,
I tackle with my main and might
Whatever is before me.
Smoke may be harmful to a few;
I'll not presume to doubt it;
Without it,

Mistletoe Butter is pure because long before the cream is produced we start to make it right.

Dairy experts supervising production of cream; pasteurization for futher protection, and snow-white churns in sunlit creameries all go to make a butter always pure, sweet, clean and uniform in texture, taste and color.

No other food supplies our bodies with the DRIVE, the vigor which fat gives. Butter is the perfect fat.

Buy It In Wichita Falls

If every person living in Wichita Falls bought their requirements from some firm which does business here, it would have more to do with the growth and progress of this city than any other one thing.

Do you know that almost everything needed by almost everyone living here is sold by some firm in business right here in the city? How will Wichita Falls ever become the hub of a great trade territory that it has every geographical right to become unless every citizen in this city patronizes home industry?

This is one of a series of editorials on diversified lines of business which will be published in this paper. Familiarize yourselves with the industries—find out what they sell—learn who operates them.

There are business houses here of whom you have probably never heard. Wichita Falls is no longer a small town, therefore, there are many things that are happening every day in the business circle of which you know nothing.

The Plant that Brings a Touch of the Arctic to Wichita Falls.

Twenty-two wagons and trucks engaged all day long in supplying Pure Crystal Ice to homes and business houses in Wichita Falls.

Wichita Ice Company Plans Further Increase In Capacity to Care For Steadily Increasing Business

In December of 1920 the present owners of the Wichita Ice company acquired ownership of the plant and property of what was then known as the Wichita Ice & Refrigerating company. The plant had been in operation for many years previous to that time and had for a short time been under the control of Dr. J. W. Greenwood and associates.

During this period the machinery and building had undergone extensive improvements in step with the progress of the community and was regarded as one of the most modern and up-to-date plants in the country.

However the great growth of the city of Wichita Falls called for a greater capacity to supply the ever increasing needs. The plant's capacity for 60 tons per 24 hours was by no means sufficient, therefore plans were made for increasing the output as well as for better facilities for handling of the product.

These plans were under way when the present owners of the plant took over the property. Recognizing the need for greater improvement than had been planned, installation of equipment to more than double the capacity was started, this having been recently completed.

The present capacity of the Wichita Ice company for manufacturing ice from distilled water is more than sufficient to take care of their entire retail trade in this city.

An even greater capacity for the manufacture of ice from raw water is available at the local plant.

This company supplies an up-to-date storage plant at Iowa Park for the needs of that place, and also has a splendid business at a number of other towns through this trade territory.

The blocks are sufficiently large on leaving the plant and the scoring machine is so adjusted to take care of the meltage, so as to give the consumer correct weight.

All water that is used in the manufacture of ice is secured from the city water supply as it has been found that its much purer than well water. The entire supply of raw water used is chemically treated and purified before it enters the tanks and the product of this plant grades as high as any in the country.

J. O. Phelps, the chief engineer of the company, to whom is entrusted the responsibility of keeping the plant in constant and satisfactory operation is a man thoroughly qualified in the making of ice, having had nearly 20 years of experience in this line. He has been employed by the Wichita Ice company ever since the present owners have been operating the plant.

Paul Stoke is the route foreman and to him falls the task of supervising the delivery system and attending to the assigning of routes for the salesmen-drivers on their daily rounds. The city is divided into districts and at present there are 22 wagons and trucks that are in constant use in making these deliveries in addition to a light truck for making special deliveries. Several other wagons are held in reserve to handle the increase in business in the warmer months.

The personnel of the salesmen-drivers is carefully selected and only men of reliable character are employed.

One of the most important features of the highly developed service of the Wichita Ice company is an automatic cutting machine which insures accurate weight and uniformly sized blocks for home use.

The ice is received into the machine from the freezing tanks and is cut about half way through at measured distances so that it easily breaks into the various size pieces that are required by large and small users. This entirely eliminates the possibility of one piece of ice being small and the next one large and also affords greater convenience in handling. The measurements are just what is required for the capacity of your refrigerator.

The building of the Wichita Ice company is of reinforced concrete and brick construction and is 116 by 105 feet in size. Complete cold storage plant for the accommodation of perishable articles is one of the many features of this concern.

Plans are now under way for greatly increasing the capacity of the present plant which now has a total capacity of 130 tons of ice for each 24 hours, and employs more than 60 men.

The plant maintains a 24-hour service for the accommodation of patrons who wish to call at the platform for their supply of ice and they have earned an enviable reputation for promptness and courteous treatment in this service.

The officers and stockholders of the Wichita Ice company include: Frank Kell, president; S. W. Sibley, vice president; J. T. Gant, secretary and general manager; Henry Ford, E. P. Taylor, Mrs. T. J. Taylor, T. J. Taylor Jr., and Joseph Kell.

J. W. Makin is in charge of the bookkeeping department and T. J. Taylor is assistant bookkeeper and cashier.

Homer in Eleventh Gives Spuds Win 7 to 6

BISCHOFF POL LEFT BARRIER ES FIRST BALLBREAKING UP P PITCHED OVERITCHERS' DUEL

Carlson Lets Steers Have Counters in First Stanzas But Tightens Later And Battles With Mitchell in Last Innings.

By DON WELDON

George Bischoff leaned into the first ball pitched in the eleventh inning of yesterday's battle, and poled it out of the park, winning the hardest-fought game of the season for the Spudders, 7 to 6. The clout ended an exciting pitchers' duel between Carlson and Mitchell, and pandemonium broke loose as the ball cleared the barrier, coins and bills being rained upon the Spudder hero as he trotted past the plate.

The circut bingle came after six innings of scoreless baseball, Mitchell having held the locals to no runs after he went in relieving Swartz in the fifth. Carlson, who had allowed several hits and a sextet of counters in the first stanzas, settled down to his job and throughout the last six innings was the master of the field.

Spuds Second Now

The win put the Spudders well in second place, as Houston lost to Beaumont in a 13-inning game, 4 to 3, eliminating the only other opponent for the position. The Spuds are in striking distance of the first position, and the brand of ball they displayed yesterday should be enough to give them a chance.

A good Monday crowd, of probably 1,000 fans, saw the game, which was undoubtedly one of the most interesting and hardest fought ever staged in the local park. Both the Steers and the Spudders were hot after the game that would determine the standings of the teams in the league, and the long game was thrilling throughout with fast bits of fielding and batting that kept the excitement up.

Steers Get Breaks

The Spudders played against luck in nearly every inning, and seemed to be fighting against the breaks, and missed several chances to count. Had Bescher been on bases when Tanner hit his long homer over the left field fence, the game would never have gone to extra innings. In the third a few moments before Tanner's homer in the same inning, Bescher got to third base, and was put out attempting to make home on Coomb's bingle to second base. Their hits failed to come at the right time and had they been bunched as were those of the Steers the score would have been much different.

Dallas Scores

The visitors started scoring in the first stanza counting one, and again made four in the third, giving them a big margin to play on. Wano, the first man up in the opener, sent a long one to left field, Lingle, who walked, being held at second. Lingle went out when he was forced at third, but Wino crossed the plate when Vache pounded the ball far to center field for a base hit.

In the third, the Steers' big inning, the counting started after one man was out. Mathes hit a terrific smash against the center field barrier, making third, and Vache made second on Tanner's error in throwing to first. As Vache went to second, Mathes came in Vache following on Berger's bad throw to first when Donohue got to second. Massey hit to left field for one base and was scored by Allen's drive to center, giving the visitors a five-run lead, which was cut to four when Coombs pounded a terrific home run over the left field fence in the Spudders part of the inning.

In the third Mathes hit safely and scored on Donohue's bingle past short.

The fourth was the Spudders big inning and they batted completely around, scoring five runs and giving them a chance at the game. White was hit by a pitched ball and went to first. Berger sending him to second with a single to center field. Swartz walked Jonnard, filling the bases and Bescher cleaned up with a crashing blow that sent the pill rattling against the center field boards. He made two bases, went to third on Segrist's error in throwing to first, but was caught between third and home when he attempted to score on Coomb's bingle to the outfield. Coombs made first and Tanner completed the counting when he slugged the second ball over the left field fence, running Coombs in ahead of him, and tying the score.

Carlosn, who had been allowing all too many hits in the early stanzas seemed to be pepped up by the scoring of the local gang and began to show better brand of hurling, holding the visitors scoreless during the remainder of the game. He stayed the entire 11 innings and seemed to be getting better as the game wore on, slinging the pill by the batters so fast that the best they could do was to pop up. He struck out seven Steers during the melee and only three reached first on balls. From the first he showed up better than Swartz who lasted only five innings.

Swartz Knocked

Swartz was hit unmercifully in the fourth when the Spudders made their five runs, and could not hold the locals at all. He held out fairly well during the first two innings, mainly by the help of some lucky and unusual fielding, but in the third it became evident that he could not win the game.

Mitchell, who relieved Swartz, hurled a brand of ball I modessene hurled a brand of ball seldom seen in the local park and made the ball hard for the Spuds to connect with. He had them hitting where it wasn't and in the sixth sent Bescher and Coombs out swinging in succession. In the seventh Grigsby went the same route. The Steer moundsman was at his best and up until the time Bischoll leaned too heavily into the pill, only one safe hit had been ooC b msmdaeyaolehtblsc5 tk hm made by the locals. Coombs made that when he got to first with a long one to left field.

What must be kept in mind when playing a ball from very hard ground?

Answered by
LAURIE AYTON

Always a consistent place winner in the big tournaments—National Open, Metropolitan Open, Western Open, and sectional tournaments. Famed for his accuracy and steadiness under fire.

In playing from very hard ground hit the ball and hit it clean, without taking turf before the shot. Hitting hard ground with the club before the ball is struck will spoil the direction of the shot by turning the shaft in the player's hands, and will rob the impact of the firmness and pep which it should have.

FORT WORTH, June 4.—Wachtel's spitball was breaking today and he held Shreveport helpless behind airtight defense. CITY BUYS 3,000 FEET OF FIRE HOSE

Three thousand feet of new fire hose were purchased Monday night by the city council from the Fabric Fire Hose company of New York, shipment to be made immediately. The order was placed at $1.30 per foot, making the total cost $3,900.

Chief McClure appeared before the commissioners and stated that his hose supply was running low. Much of that now in use, he stated, had seen years of service and was nearly worn out.

On these representations and on the recommendation of Commissioner Young, the purchase was made.

Wheezes From The Press Coop

By Don Weldon

Boy, howdy! That wallop of Bischoff's sent the ball over the fence so fast that it was still rising when it passed over left field.

* * *

They put him in to start things in the eleventh, but they didn't expect him to deliver like that. He said that old war club against the pill the first trip over the plate, and it is reported that it has stopped yet. Bischoff always has delivered in the pinches and that smash showed that he is one of the most valuable men in the Spudder staff. Mix his receiving ability and knowledge of the game with hitting that can be counted on, and you have a combination that is rarely excelled.

* * *

The score tied in the eleventh
With Bischoff up to bat,
The ball goes for a homer—
Now what do you think of that?

* * *

The fans showed plainly what they thought of it when they rained cash on the Spudder batsman as he crossed the plate. Bischoff left the field with a hat full of money, a big smile and another ball game credited to him. All the Spudders gathered around to shake his hand, as did a number of fans, and in the melee no one noticed the Steers.

* * *

Wonder how it feels to lose three straights?

* * *

This is the second time they came to Wichita in second place, and both times they lost the place while here. They have already lost it and even if they should win today's game they would be a couple of points behind. They are tied with Houston for third now.

* * *

Fanning, working behind the plate yesterday, got a hard crack on the head when a smashing foul off Tanner's bat in the ninth inning tore the mask from his face. Even the umps get the bad end of the game sometime!

SELLING SETS WHEAT BACK

Closing Prices Heavy, 1 1-2 To 2 1-8 Cents Net Lower

Associated Press Dispatch

CHICAGO, June 4.—Persistent selling supposed to be from hedging movement, had a good deal to do with the setback today in the value of wheat. Closing prices were heavy, 1½ to 2 1-8 cents net lower, with July 1.08 3-8 to 1.08 5-8 and September 1.08 3-8 to 1.08½. Corn finished at quarter to 7-8 cents advance, oats unchanged to a shade lower and provisions at a range varying from 12 cents decline to 7 cents gain.

Wheat closed at the day's bottom prices, the lowest closing level in several months. Favorable weather and a prospect that harvesting of the 1923 crop would be under way in Texas before the end of the current week put bulls at a disadvantage from the outset.

Corn and oats derived their strength principally from a decided falling off in amount of corn in Chicago and in the visible supply as a whole.

In the provision market the effect of lower quotations on hogs was somewhat counterbalanced by the largest May reduction in western stocks of meat since 1915.

OIL SHARES LEAD ACTIVITY

Marland Sells Freely; California Petroleum Climbs

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, June 4.—Prices pursued an uneven course in today's stock market with principal interest centered in a few individual issues subject to specific influences. The volume of sales was one of the smallest for any full day session in recent weeks.

Initial quotations gave the market an appearance of strength, but trading quieted down perceptibly when the week-end buying orders had been absorbed. Expanding crude oil production was made the basis for rather extensive short selling of the oil shares around noon, General Asphalt breaking five points to the lowest figures in five years. Marland was sold freely on the announcement of a new stock offering, closing more than a point lower at 43. California Petroleum climbed more than a point above Saturday's closing quotation before profit taking set in and forced it down to 113 3-8 for a net loss of nearly 2 points. Standard Oil of New Jersey duplicated its previous low.

Davison Chemical wa sin good demand on report that contracts for the use of its silicago process were under negotiation with the Pan American and Royal Dutch companies. Marine common and preferred each touched new lows on the passing of the preferred dividend and the poo 1922 report.

Just before the close a buying demonstration was staged in such low priced rails as Rock Island, Southern, Baltimore and Ohio and St. Louis and Southwestern common and preferred, some closing at net gains of a point or more. Union Pacific up 1 5-8, was one of the strong spots of the investment list.

Call money held steady at 4½ per cent all day. There was no change in time money and commercial paper rates, the volume of business being small.

Foreign exchanges were heavy. Demand sterling dropped half a cent to $4.62½, French francs broke six points to 6.41 cents and Italian lire dropped 7 points to 4.61 cents, a new low for the year. German marks snapped back to .0014 cents from their recent low of .0012½.

Dr. Everett Jones Rescues $5,000 Worth of Radium From Trash Pile

Going through fire to recover $5,000 worth of radium shows the zeal which modern scientists risk their lives to preserve the precious supply of that scant substance, Dr. Everett Jones of the general hospital test who today has his scorched fingers bound up, will attest.

Dr. Jones at the General Hospital Sunday afternoon was custodian of radium valued at $5,000. He placed the four radium tubes on a table and engaged in three-minute conversation with an attendant. Turning around he missed the four radium vials. Frantically he began a search.

The negro janitor was returning with an empty waste paper basket. It occurred to Dr. Jones the janitor had destroyed the radium. Rushing into the yard he found the $5,000 worth of radium being consumed in the burning trash heap.

Dr. Jones delved into the burning trash heap with his bare hands. The four radium tubes were recovered, undamaged. Dr. Jones' hands were severely burned but the general hospital still has its allotment of radium to treat future cases of cancer and other diseases which radium alone can heal.

KIWANIS CLUB TO HELP YOUTH

Hoffman and Datson Make Suggestions For Action

In line with an anouncement several weeks ago that it planned a campaign in behalf of the children whose environment deprives them of childish pleasures.

Several suggestions were advanced at the session, one by Luther Hoffman that a "Go to Church" movement might be of value and another by Rev. F. T. Datson that providing playground equipment for the Mexican school would be advisable. No action on any of the ideas was taken.

It was intimated, however, that the local club is to take some worth-while steps in the near future in behalf of the underprivileged youngsters of the city.

KELL REPRESENTS TEXAS MILLERS AT WHEAT CONFERENCE

Frank Kell will represent the millers of Texas and the Western Millers' federation at a meeting to be held in Minneapolis June 19 and 20, for the purpose of evolving some means whereby the American people can be educated to using more wheat products, he being one of the efew representatives invited by Gov. J. A. O. Preu of Mennisota to participate in the conference.

It is pointed out by the leaders in the movement that unless something is done to stimulate the consumption of wheat products, prices will declinee to the extent that it will be unprofitable for American farmers to raise the product. Mr. Kell is scheduled to attend today a meeting of the Texas millers at Dallas. He is expected to receive instructions at this meeting as to the attitude of the Texas delegation.

190 ATTENDING SCHOOL HERE

Summer Session Draws Students from Many Nearby Towns

More out-of-town students, several from distant points, are registering for the summer session of school which is being conducted in the high school building. The present number of pupils is by far the largest that have attended summer school in this city, according to A. K. Presson, principal of the school. More than 100 have already registered, according to Mr. Presson, and this number is increasing as out-of-town schools are dismissed for the summer. Due to the fact that the local school is one of the few that is being conducted west of Fort Worth this summer in Texas, man pupils rom near-by towns are forced to come to Wichita Falls if they wish to attend school this summer.

One pupil registering Monday gave his place of residence as Burkburnett and another gave his as Stamford, which is situated more than 100 miles south of Wichita Falls.

TAYLOR PLEADS ILLNESS, SO CASE IS RESET HERE

Acting on representations made by his wife and defense attorneys, the case of Roy A. Taylor, charged with violating the state prohibition laws, was postponed Monday morning to Thursday at 9 a. m.

When the case was called Monday, a physician took the stand and testified that he had just examined Mr. Taylor and that he was in no condition to appear in court. Dr. J. Frank Clarke, county health officer, was summoned and asked to make an inspection of the defendant at his room. This was done and the physician reported back to the court that so far as he could ascertain, Mr. Taylor was perfectly able to appear for trial.

Judge Martin, however, instructed that the case be passed until Thursday.

NEGRESS ON TRIAL FOR SLAYING OF HUSBAND HERE

Testimony will be closed and argument had today in the case of Willie Anderson, negress, who is facing trial in the Eighty-ninth district court on a charge of murdering her husband. She was indicted for shooting Aubrey Anderson on the night of September 6, 1922, after a quarrel at their home in the rear of the R. E. Moore residence, 1603 Eleventh street.

A special venire was waived by the defendant when her case was called and the jury was selected from the regular panel of the week. Testimony started early in the afternoon and the state rested at 4:30. The defense put on several witnesses before court was adjourned at 5 o'clock.

Officers who responded to the call the night of the shooting told of conditions at the scene of the killing. The defendant has not as yet taken the stand.

Two efforts have previously been made to bring the case to trial but both have resulted in a postponement.

PLAINTIFF FAVORED IN $2,000 SUIT

A judgment favoring the plaintiff was returned Monday morning by Judge P. A. Martin of the Eighty-ninth district court in the case of W. H. Richardson vs. W. S. Robertson. The case was tried last Saturday and taken under advisement by the court. It was a suit for approximately $2,000.

Although the plaintiff was awarded the judgment, a decision favoring J. E. Ward, a co-defendant in the case, was returned by the court. Ward was being sued as being accountable for part of the sum sought by the plaintiff from the defendant.

This producer is expected to again stimulate drilling activity in this area. The Ryan company announces a location to the north has already been made and a test will be made immediately.

MANY WAURIKANS SIGN PETITION TO CLIP WALTON'S WINGS

WAURIKA, June 4.—Petitions to initiate an amendment to the state constitution establishing a pardon and parole board, removing final clemency in the matter from the governor's hands received many signers in Waurika last when members of the Oklahoma Traveling Men's association began their two-day session.

Back of the move is Governor Walton's announcement that so long as he is governor there will be no one suffer the death penalty. The announcement was, of course, received with great jubilation at the penitentiary. The traveling men are interested especially because Arthur Henderson is the self-confessed slayer of W. H. Prewett, an Oklahoma City traveling man, who was recently held up by hijackers and slain. Henderson is under death sentence at this time.

1,700 SAND IN ARCHER RUNS TRUE TO FORM

The 1,700-foot sand in the Archer field again ran true to form when Sunday the Wilson Drilling company's No. 3 came in in the Ferguson tract of the Freeman-Hampton pool at a rate of 150 barrels a day production. This well was the first Archer county pool to register with production for the new week.

The Gulf company followed with an 80-barrel producer in the same 1,700 foot sand. Officials of the company state four other tests in this area will soon begin, locations having already been made. Another completion for the Gulf was Sunday in the Hirschi district on the E. A. Dalrtact, block 835, the well reported making 185 barrels at a depth of 1,886 feet.

What Co-operation Has Done

Little more than half a century ago, Gustavus F. Swift borrowed $20 from his father and started in the packing business.

Hard work on his part and on the part of the associates whom he presently gathered about him caused the business to grow.

When first incorporated, Swift & Company had six shareholders. The nation was growing and needed meat, and the young company grew also. As more money was needed the business was enlarged by enlisting the co-operation of more shareholders.

The first little plant at Barnstable, Mass., has given way to 23 modern packing plants strategically located. More than 400 branch houses and 600 car routes distribute the meat carried in more than 6,000 refrigerator cars.

Today Swift & Company's service in meat to retailers here and abroad represents the effort of nearly 100,000 people co-operating with their savings or daily toil.

More than 45,000 men and women have co-operated with us by investing their money in shares of Swift & Company.

Nearly 50,000 men and women who work in these offices, plants and branch houses—16,000 of whom also are shareholders—are giving us their co-operation in building the business. They take a just pride in the promptness and precision of its service and in the uniformity and high quality of its products. Swift's Premium Hams and Bacon, "Silverleaf" Brand Pure Lard, Premium Frankfurts and other Swift products are symbols of their hearty co-operation and of their belief in the Company.

THE OLD TIME IDEA

That the natural oil oil trend is north-east and south-west seems to be working out in Archer county. Looking to the north-east from the Peterson pool is the Minchew and to the south-west is the Artex opening up an area over four miles long with wonderful possibilities.

BOY GETS NEW BIKE WHEN KIWANIANS HEAR HIS STORY

The Wichita Falls Kiwanis club, in the role of a patron saint, provided a 14-year-old youngster with a bicycle Monday and lifted from his shoulders a load that has been growing heavier day by day.
The boy, it was explained, had purchased the wheel some time ago but was unable to make all the payments and it went back to the dealer from whom it was bought. It was also explained that the boy was out of employment and wanted work.
When his predicament was put before the club, it was unanimously voted to make the needed payments on the machine and several members indicated that they would give him work.
A report from Horace Robbins, Kiwanis president, on his trip to the national convention in Atlanta last week was the only matter of business brought up.
The attendance prize of the day, a gallon of white enamel given by C. E. Watson, was won by Raymond Myers. Silent boosts were distributed in the form of smokes by Guy R. Jones.

Waurika Boy, Back From Persia, After Adventure As Missionary

Special Dispatch to Record News

WAURIKA, June 4.—Mr. and Mrs. E. Groseclose have received a message from their son, Elgin announcing his safe arrival in New York. Elgin left America two years ago last November for Persia, where he has been doing missionary work under the auspices of the Presbyterian church. He has had a great many thrilling adventures, including quite a term of imprisonment. He is back in America to stay permanently. He will be heartily welcomed home by his family and his many Waurika friends.

Prairie Dogs Killed.

C. W. Price has been named by the federal Bureau of Biological Survey as assistant to A. B. Tucker in the work of exterminating the prairie dogs in Jefferson county. They are conducting a systematic drive over the county, taking the county from north to south and reaching every prairie dog colony in the county.

Miss Mary Louise Green of Waurika, a sophomore in Oklahoma College for Women at Chickasha, was one of the three young ladies whose name appeared as honor student of the class. This list included only those who had made an average grade of "A" and their names are mentioned as students "Magna Cum Laude."

This was not a surprise to the Waurika friends of Miss Green as she led her classes all through the grade school and was class valedictorian both in the eighth grade and senior classes commencement programs in Waurika.

Mrs. Edouard Stewart and little daughter Barbara of Wichita Falls spent the week-end in Waurika the house guests of Mrs. W. H. Lemons and daughter Miss Frances.

Miss Frances Lemons came home from Wichita Falls Tuesday where she has been in St. Mary's Academy for the past school year.

Miss Julia Conners left Thursday for Kansas City where she has a position. She will remain in Kansas City throughout the summer months.

Mrs. C. A. Howard of Walters and her daughter Miss Aline were in Waurika Friday and Saturday visiting friends. They had accompanied their daughter and sister, Miss Martha Howard as far as Dallas on her trip to Los Angeles where she will spend the summer. They returned home Saturday.

Judge C. A. Galbraith, assistant attorney general of Oklahoma, who died last Sunday in Oklahoma City is well known to Waurikans of an earlier day as he was supreme court referee who took the testimony in Ryan-Waurika county seat fight.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ash and daughter, Miss Marie, left Saturday morning, for a long motor trip which will include Washington, D. C., where Mr. Ash will attend the Shrine meeting, from thence to New York City, Toronto, Canada, across Canada to Los Angeles before starting home.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Ray motored on Tuesday to visit Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Walker and family. Mrs. Walker is a sister of Mr. Ray. While in Norman they attended commencement exercises. Their nephew Hugh Rinsen Walker graduated from the Norman high school with honors.

Mrs. John Brown, nee Miss Jean Dorothy Johnston, came in Wednesday to visit her mother, Mrs. J. N. Johnston and Mrs. Brown's little daughter, Dorothy Ruth, who has been with her grandmother for the past several months. Mrs. Brown will remain through the summer.

The many friends of Mrs. Ed V. Parsons, who resided in Waurika for so many years, will be very sorry to learn of her being in a hospital in Fort Worth, with nervous breakdown.

"Happy" Moore, who has been handling magazines and newspapers for the past two months, has sold the magazine business to E. E. Weiss of the City Drug Store, and has accepted a position with the Style Shop.

T. N. Chandler returned from a three-day fishing trip to Medicine Park Wednesday. Contrary to the general rule, he claims to have had no luck in fishing.

Judge Chan. Jones, recently appointed to the supreme court commission came home last week and he and Mrs. Jones went to Fort Worth for a few days' visit with Mrs. Jones' parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Poole. They will be home the first of this week and will immediately move their household goods to Oklahoma City where they will reside. Their home has been rented to Rev. T. J. Doss, the new pastor for the Baptist church. The Doss family will arrive to make Waurika their home this week.

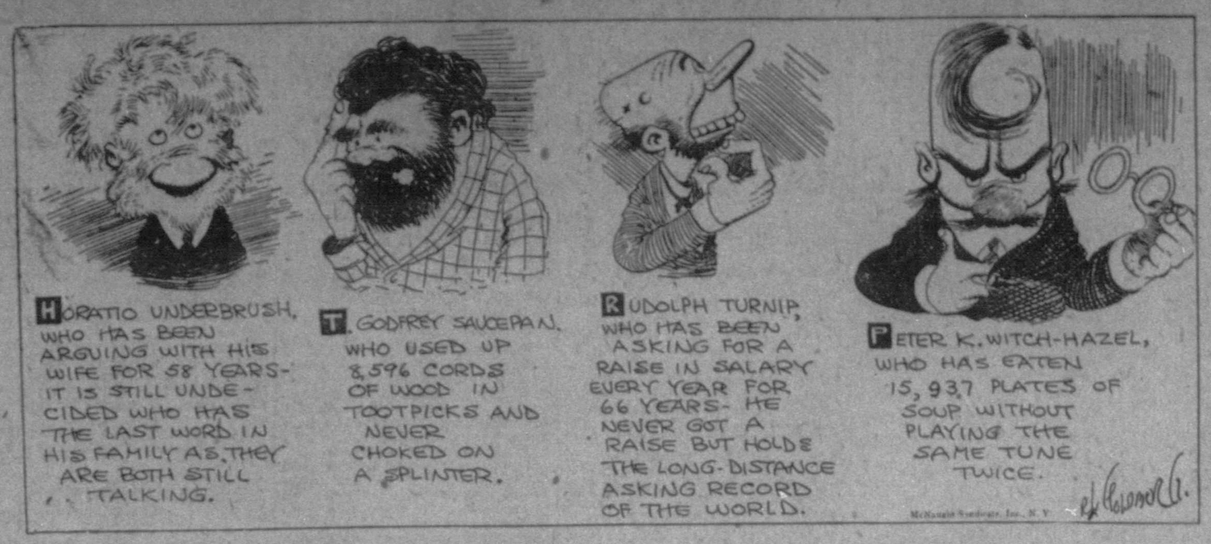

The city council accepted the report of the paving appraisers: O. E. Head, A. E. Landon and C. R. Phelan, and their report was published this week in order that each property owner could determine exactly the paving charge against his property. This was made on the ten-year basis. Anyone who cares to pay cash will receive a 15 per cent discount.

There will be a mass meeting June 14, at which time the city council will sit as a board of appraisers to listen to any objections that the property owners make in regard to distribution of the costs and if they decide the same has not been equitably distributed they will have the power to change it.

It seems to be the consensus of opinion that both the engineers, of the Benham Engineering company of Kansas City and the contractors of the General Contracting company of Oklahoma City have done their best to give the city a good job, and they have succeeded.

COUNTRY CLUB VOTES INCREASE IN DUES

An increase in the annual dues from $60 plus tax to $75 plus tax was voted by the officers and directors of the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club in their annual meeting held last Saturday night and at which time directors for another year were elected.

The $15 increase in the annual dues was not passed without considerable discussion. The club now boasts a membership of 350 and one of the most modern buildings and grounds in the Southwest. Directors chosen at the annual meeting were E. P. Bass, M. D. Rowe, G. C. Wood, W. E. Norton, R. O. Harvey, William McGregor, T. P. Duncan, Will Daniel, A. H. Britain, D. Burleson and W. D. Cline.

Arbuckle Sentenced To Six Months In Jail

After two previous juries in district court had failed to agree, a jury of six men in the county court at law Monday returned a verdict of guilty and assessed punishment at six months in jail in the case of E. C. Arbuckle, charged with chicken theft. The defendant was tried before Judge Guy Rogers.

Arbuckle was charged with having entered the chicken yard of a local fancier early in the year and to have stolen several fowls. When tried twice before the juries were hung.

Soothsayers Begin to Wonder What's Going To Happen to Them

Soothsayers, prophets, and their sons and daughters, astrologers, clairvoyants and others who claim they can trick the fates and tell what future holds for gullible mortals impatient to know what destiny has planned for them, are out of luck in Wichita Falls.

A quartet of quacks who have been finding persons who believed it was possible to take a peep into tomorrow were arrested by the sheriff's department Monday morning. Officials state they are going to find some more just like them. That is unless those clairvoyants on the outside have already looked far enough ahead into their own future to see their impending arrest, unless they find another town without such a vigilant sheriff's department.

Zoning Law Will Be Explained By Harrison

An effort to interest Wichita Falls citizens in the importance of supporting a law that will restore the police power to cities to the extent of preventing business houses from being erected in the residential sections will be made by Hubert Harrison secretary of the chamber of commerce, who will address the weekly luncheon of the University club Tuesday at the Y. W. C. A. on the subject of "City Zoning Law."

Mr. Harrison has made a close study of this subject and is expected to give out some very timely and interesting information on this subject which is now becoming of great importance locally. A good attendance is expected at the luncheon.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR CITY HALL JOB

Final contract was awarded by the city council Monday night for the improvement program at the city hall. The inside decorating job was let to James Rodgers for a consideration of $325. Eight bids were received on the work.

Contracts were let last week for the construction of three new cells and for a rearrangement of office space in the hall. Work on the projects is to begin at once.

Lost Battalion Verses Being Sold By Veterans

"History and Rhymes of the Lost Battalion" a book of poems and anecdotes compiled by "Buck Private" McCollum, who was a member of Lieut. Col. Chas. W. Whittlesey's battalion which was lost several days during the world war is being sold in Wichita Falls by A. F. Ellison and W. B. Brooke, former service men who saw overseas service.

Sam J. Beattie, local American legion commander commends the book highly and has urged the sale of as many of the volumes as possible to those who are making a study of world war history and like adventure stories. Ellison and Brooke state the author will not allow the book to be sold by any agency except former service men.

Drive Wheel Goes Off; Train Delayed

Passengers coming into Wichita Falls Sunday night from Tulsa were delayed four hours when the Frisco passenger train lost one of its large drive wheels near Wheatland, Okla. The train was only traveling at a slow rate of speed, which probably saved a serious accident. If the train had been going at even normal speed nothing could have averted a derailment.

Croaking of Frogs Keep Us Awake Nights Say Citizens Drainage Plea

Water Stands Deep Enough to Float Canoe Say People In Monroe Section

Charges that "the frogs make so much noise we can't sleep at night," were made before the city council Monday night by a delegation from the "Monroe Lagoon" district, who appeared to protest against conditions existing on Monroe street between Avenues D and E. It was also indicated that court proceedings were to be instituted today to force relief from the situation.

The complaint centers around a miniature lake that forms on Monroe street and on residence lots after each rain. Monroe street at the point in question is low and is the basin of a natural drainage area in which flood waters accumulate.

After Each Rain—A Lake.

At one time the city built aculvert through the basin in which excess waters were drained away, but about two months ago the property on wnen the culvert was built was sold as a residence lot, was filled up and a house erected. This blocked the drainage and now after each rain, water backs up over the street and lawns.

Relief has been sought for several weeks but nothing has ever been done. Property owners in that territory are planning action against J. Carruthers, who built the house which he later sold. They are also asking that the city take some remedial steps by constructing new outlets for the water.

It was charged that water deep enough to float canoes has spread over Monroe street at times that after every rain a veritable river rushes through the block, flooding cellars, washing away gardens and causing vvarious other inconveniences.

Those Who Complain.

Included in those making the complaints last night were Al Ellis, Harwood Stacey, Jim Waggoner, Harry Naylor and others. They stated that the present menace lay in the fact that mosquitoes would find a breeding place in the pool and that refuse and garbage collected. From a standpoint of sanitation, they declared, this constituted a serious threat to the entire community.

The fire department was called out once to pump the lake dry and Commissioner Young promised that the firemen would be sent out again to relieve the situation in so far as they could.

No definite plan for rectifying the trouble was reached by the commissioners.

MASKAT TO FORM BASEBALL TEAM

With several challenges from nearby Shrine clubs already on the books, organization of a Maskat Temple baseball team is to start late this week, it was announced Monday. A meeting has been called by Al Ellis for Friday and all the athletically inclined are expected to attend.

Shrine clubs in Vernon, Bowie, Archer City, Seymour and other points have such organization, it is said, and have been pleading for a chance to cross bats with Maskat temple ever since the baseball season opened.
