DECLARING that "beer is the backbone of the liquor traffic" and "you're not voting on any soft drink proposition on August 26", Senator Morris Sheppard of Texarkana, co-author of the Eighteenth amendment and "little Napoleon" of the dry cause, brought his campaign against beer and repeal to Lubbock last night, addressing approximately 3,500 people on the courthouse lawn.

Quoting statistics and records from congress and citing the evils of the beer and liquor traffic, the small gray-haired senior member of the senate from Texas, urged his audience to vote against beer and repeal "so that Texas could start the march against repeal". People packed the temporary seats on the lawn and hundreds stood up during the hour and a half the senator spoke, applauding at times throughout his remarks. A specially-equipped sound truck with amplifiers carried his voice to the outstretches of the crowd.

Details Pro Benefits

After detailing benefits of prohibition which included decline in the death rate, decrease in consumption of liquor and decrease in social evils, Senator Sheppard declared:

Apparent Check In Increase Of Bread Prices Now Noted

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (AP)—An apparent checking of increases in bread prices "at least temporarily" was noted today by Dr. Frederic C. Howe, consumers' counsel of the agricultural adjustment administration.

At the same time he warned that consumers will have to watch out, however, for a possible lowering of the quality of bread as an alternative to price increases."

"Already, there seems to be a tendency on the part of some stores to discontinue higher priced brands and substitute lower priced ones," he said. "This substitution suggests the introduction of poorer quality—a form of profiteering as injurious to consumers as unreasonable price increases."

HEARING IS SET

AMARILLO, Aug. 21. (AP)—Federal Judge James C. Wilson tonight set for hearing at Fort Worth Wednesday morning habeas corpus proceedings on a petition seeking reduction of the $50,000 bonds on which four members of the R. G. Here's An Idea For Fat Folks

Fat folks, here's an idea!

If you'd like to lose a generous slice of waistline try flying around the world against time—like Wiley Post did.

On display in a show window at Hemphill-Wells company today is the belt Pilot Post wore on his recent globe-girdling jaunt and it plainly shows that during his 7 day, 18 hour, 49 minute journey the intrepid Oklahoman dropped exactly five inches from his midriff.

The belt, insured for $100, was the only one taken on the history-making flight and was given by Post to W. C. Garthoffner, of Oklahoma City, representative of the Bichok Belt company.

Garthoffner, old friend and co-pilot of Post, gave the airman the belt when he left Oklahoma City for New York, where the intrepid flier hopped off on his globe-circling flight. After the world trip, Post returned the belt to Garthoffner and later will autograph it.

Longhorns Of West Invade Chicago For "Texas Day"

Almost 10,000 Texans Are In Windy City On Monday With Others Coming

By RUTH COWAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, Aug. 21. — The Longhorns are coming—From the Gulf coast, the grapefruit groves, the cotton and corn fields, the foothills of the Rockies, the sweep of the Panhandle, the oilfields, the ranches, the big cities and the crossroads, the Texans are arriving by special trains, automobiles, buses and airplanes for Texas Day at a Century of Progress international exposition.

Specials Arrive

And although this event is not until Wednesday, fifteen special trains are already in—and the Lone Star state expects to send between 60 and 80.

It was estimated by August De Zavala of San Antonio, aiding in the arrangements, that there were close to 10,000 Texans in Chicago by sundown.

And Texas, stamping ground of the cowboy, is invading Chicago, where the Chicago Civic Opera company long held forth as one of the world's foremost opera companies, with a cast of 1,300 to present Verdi's spectacular "Aida" as a climax to the Texas Day celebration.

Gov. Miriam "Ma" Ferguson was unable to come, but the state will be officially represented by speakers who include: Former Gov. Pat Neff; Col. Claude E. Coal And Auto Codes Studied

Completion Is Being Expected Today; Industries Will Be Required To Give Details On Price Increases

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—A new objective—the placing in the hands of President Roosevelt by tomorrow, perhaps, and Wednesday at the latest codes of fair competition for the coal and automobile industries—tonight was the aim of Hugh S. Johnson.

Both codes were nearing completion, NRA officials said, and at behind the scenes conferences the administration was seeking an agreement which would add charters of these two major industries to the recovery lockstep.

To Report To Chief

If this can be obtained, Johnson, the administrator, was expected to set off on a second dramatic flight to Hyde Park, N. Y., to report to his chief another milestone passed in the campaign for re-employment through minimum wages and working hours.

Meanwhile, the cabinet advisory board of the recovery administration decided as a step to protect the public against profiteering to request all industries now operating under codes to submit information on recent price increases.

Thousands Of Applications Received By Jones For Jobs

FORT WORTH, Aug. 21. (AP) — Thousands of applications for employment already have been received and prospective applicants can save their time by not presenting requests for work to Clifford B. Jones of Spur, the regional director for the public works administration said today, upon opening temporary offices here.

"When the public works projects are in readiness, applications should be made to the contractors" Jones declared. He explained the government will not do the construction itself but will let the projects on competitive bids.

Thousands Will Take Stump As Speakers In Great Move

By BESS FURMAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—In rising crescendo, starting next Monday, the rallying cry of the NRA Blue Eagle will be heard throughout the land.

Recovery headquarters bustled today with final preparations to make the Blue Eagle articulate in a summons to all remaining industries to code-compliance, all consumers to code-cooperation.

Speakers Listed

One thousand "national speakers" were being assigned to key-city platforms. Twenty-nine thousand local speakers were listed.

Louis Alber, head of the speakers' bureau, announcing final plans for the August 28, nationwide, over the top movement, said Sunday night has been set for the "army of volunteers" to get their "final marching orders" from General Hugh S. Johnson, "field marshal."

Plenty of martial fanfare was scheduled to help Johnson swing a nation into the spirit of concerted action:

Plenty of Action

Music by army, navy and marine bands; a speech by Madame Ernestine Schumann Heink, who learned to say stirring things back in the world war days when she had sons in the United States and German forces; entertainment by Will Rogers and other mirth producers; addresses, too, by the public relations

FORT WORTH, Aug. 21. (AP) — Chairman Maury Hughes of the state NRA committee, organized today, will seek to obtain instructions from national NRA headquarters within the next three days to direct the activities of his group, he said before leaving Fort Worth for his Dallas home.

The purpose of the committee, outlined today in the conference in the rooms of James Ferguson, husband of the governor, will be principally to expedite uniform observance of NRA provisions throughout Texas. Hughes said he would communicate promptly with others of the committee as soon as he received instructions from NRA headquarters.

Shortage In Funds At Bank Starts Search For Employe

GIDDINGS, Tex., Aug. 21. (AP) — Discovery of an $11,500 shortage in funds from the vault of the First National bank in Giddings today started officers in search of a missing bank employe.

Officials of the bank were puzzled this morning when they found the time lock, which should have permitted opening of the vault at 8 a. m., failed to function.

The employe whose duty it had been to set the time lock was late so bank officials telephoned his home. They were further surprised when his mother informed them that the employe had left Saturday evening, ostensibly for Austin, and had not been home since.

Winter Arrives In The Rockies

(By The Associated Press)

DENVER, Aug. 21. — Heavy snowstorms in Montana moutain passes and scattered rains in Wyoming and New Mexico in the last 24 hours sent the temperature skidding toward the freezing point and almost convinced those sections of the Rocky mountain area that winter is here.

On MacDonald pass, west of Helena, a white mantle was visible today and unofficial reports were that six inches of snow fell along parts of the continental divide in Montana.

Rainfall was reported from several sections in Wyoming and New Mexico.

State Leaders To Seek More Federal Funds

Officials In 113 Counties Of State West Of Fort Worth To Gather At Sweetwater On Friday To Lay Plans

A movement to secure from 75 to 100 million dollars more for road construction in Texas from the huge federal public works fund will be started at a meeting Friday in Sweetwater, said Percy B. Ralls, Ralls, president of the South Plains Good Roads association.

County judges, mayors, newspaper editors and chamber of commerce executives in 113 counties west of Fort Worth and San Antonio have been advised of the meeting and requested to see that their sections are represented, Mr. Ralls said. The Friday session is being sponsored by the Texas Good Roads association, parent organization of the South Plains unit, and the Sweetwater Board of City Development is cooperating.

Can Secure More Funds

Texas can secure additional road building funds from the public works appropriation, the road association executive said, if the people of the state show that they want more money from the unemployment relief program for that purpose.

"Texas has been granted more than $24,000,000 for roads construction out of the $400,000,000 of the public works fund set aside for roads in the entire nation," Ralls said, "and we have been advised that we have a strong possibility of getting more.

Need Better Roads

"If Texas gets the fullest possible statewide benefit from the program of the national government to create jobs through public works, we are going to have to get a big part of the money in this state spent on roads. Every town and every county in the state needs better roads and money spent in that way will put more men to work than any other project, per dollar expended.

"We are calling the meeting Friday in Sweetwater for the purpose of getting something started toward the goal of securing more road construction money for this state. The idea has been approved by sound men in all parts of the state and the thing we need to do is get together and start. Other states are at work on such projects now."

AUSTIN, Aug. 21. (AP)—A hearing on oil pipe line rates and rules governing surface storage of petroleum, set for today, was postponed by the Texas railroad commission until August 30.

Lone Star State Is Center Of Attention In The Campaign For Removal Of Dry Law And Voting Set Saturday

Sheppard Leads Drys And Jim Ferguson Heads Wets During Last Week; Farley To Sound An Appeal Today

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Aug. 21.—Texas today was the center of attention in the campaign for removal of the eighteenth amendment from the nation's fundamental law. This state will vote Saturday in a special election to decide whether prohibition should be retained or ousted.

Repeal and anti-repeal forces swung into the last week of what hitherto has been a dull campaign that has failed to arouse the voting public to enthusiasm.

Leaders In Action

The prohibitionists are led by United States Senator Morris Sheppard, fiery dry crusader and author of the amendment under attack. The repeal group is headed by Ex-Governor James E. Ferguson, husband of Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson and long an opponent of national prohibition.

Texas will be the 23rd state to ballot on ratification of the twenty-first amendment. All other states that have voted on the question have stood solidly behind the repeal movement. Missouri, which voted Saturday, gave repeal a majority of approximately 3 to 1.

Averages Two Per Day

Sheppard has been making an average of two speeches each day since August 1. He has stated the belief that if Texas refuses to join the repeal parade a sufficient number of states will follow the Lone Star state to block the anti-prohibition drive.

Sheppard has pitched his campaign on the premise that national prohibition has not been a failure. He has charged that repeal is being sponsored by interests desirous of shifting the burden of taxation.

United States Not Planning To Resort To Wheat Dumping

LONDON, Aug. 21. (AP) — The United States will not resort to dumping to get rid of its surplus wheat if other nations fail to agree on a program to restrict production and exports, Frederick E. Murphy, American delegate, said today as the world wheat conference resumed its work.

Representatives of more than a score of nations gathered here to continue negotiations begun in Geneva last May and carried on concurrently with the world economic conference during June and July.

Mr. Murphy, publisher of the Minneapolis Tribune, asserted there was no idea of upsetting the market by dumping but that the United States would consider means of getting rid of its surplus should the various nations fail to reach an agreement.

Elaborate Trap Set At Amarillo For Extortionist; Something Goes Wrong

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, Aug. 21.—Something went wrong last night with an elaborate trap laid by federal, county and city officers to capture a gang of extortionists who had demanded $6,000 on penalty of death in letters written to R. B. Masterson, jr., prominent pioneer and wealthy cattleman of Amarillo.

The first letter mailed at the Amarillo post office two weeks ago demanded $6,000 on penalty of death to Masterson or some member of his family. Officers immediately were notified and began working on the case. Masterson had been instructed to park in front of the postoffice at a certain hour to acknowledge good faith.

The next letter told him to go alone on Sunday night at 8 o'clock in the evening toward Clarendon, southeast of here, until he found a white rag in the road and to drop the package there and continue on his way until a large automobile caught up and honked three times, when he might return home.

In the motorized arsenal which went out last night were machine guns and armored cars loaded with concealed officers also with sawed off shotguns and pistols. They found the white rag a mile and a half east of Goodnight.

Near the scene behind a railroad fill they arrested a man asleep. He identified himself as an Amarillo cotton picker but was brought to Amarillo for fingerprinting and questioning.

David A. Lamson, sales manager of the Stanford university press, went to trial Monday in San Jose, Cal., on a charge of slaying his wife, Alene, in their campus home last May. Death Penalty Is To Be Asked In Campus Murder

David Lamson Faces Trial For Slaying Of Young Wife

(By The Associated Press)

SAN JOSE, Calif., Aug. 21. — The death penalty will be demanded in the trial of David A. Lamson, accused of the murder of his pretty young wife, Allene Thorpe Lamson, the prosecution announced today after indicating the state's case would continue to be of a circumstantial nature.

Lamson, 31 year old representative of the Stanford university publishing house, went on trial this morning. He came into court smiling and with a confident air.

Found In Bathtub

His 28-year old wife, Y. W. C. A. secretary at Stanford, was found in the bathtub of their home on the university campus last memorial day with her head crushed.

Since that day the defendant, except to enter a not guilty plea, has made no statement for public record.

Indications were that at least several days would be required to obtain a jury.

Asks Death Penalty

Assistant District Attorney Allan P. Lingsay announced the death penalty would be asked.

The case has been surrounded with mystery since Lamson burst from his home on the Stanford campus and cried:

"My God, my wife has been murdered."

"Kiting" Of Checks By Banks To Mislead Public Charged; Says Government Knew About Serious Conditions

(By The Associated Press)

DETROIT, Aug. 21.—Herbert Hoover, former president of the United States, is to be asked to testify in the open grand jury investigation of the closing of Detroit's two big national banks.

The decision to ask Mr. Hoover, who was president when Detroit's banking difficulties came to a crisis last February, to accept a subpoena was reached after United States Senator James Couzens had voiced a request for the former president's testimony while giving evidence before the jury today.

Two Under Scrutiny

The two banks whose closing is under investigation are the First National bank-Detroit and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce.

Whether the former president will be asked to come to Detroit in person or make a deposition at his home in Palo Alto has not been decided. The first steps in securing his testimony were taken by Prosecutor Harry S. Toy and Circuit Judge Harry B. Keidan, who constitutes the one-man jury, after a conference tonight.

Senator Couzens' request for Mr. Hoover's testimony was made during his listing today of certain unnamed persons who, he said, had obtained loans from the closed banks which they would be unable to repay. While discussing one such debtor he said:

Very Dangerous Man

"There is one director who was told by President Hoover that I was a very dangerous man, . . . at this particular time I want to urge the attorney general and the prosecutor to invite Mr. Hoover to come here

West End Baptist Women's Society Elects Officers Monday: Other Groups Meet

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE SEAN WILSON
Avalanche Woman's Editor

PERHAPS you have resented, after the fashion, the belief in many sections of the East and North that people in Texas are cruder than those of any other section of the country. You may have laughed with them when they were surprised to learn that you do not have horns or carry a six-shooter but the chances are that you resented their beliefs.

How do you suppose the mountaineer of Tennessee may feel when you are surprised to find him wearing a white linen suit, white shirt, white tie and riding around in the latest model automobile? That is what Miss Lida May discovered the other day when she was over in that section.

While she was attending a house party over there, she attended the White Top Music festival where the folk music of that section is played. This is an annual affair and the people of that section sing and play fiddles—make the music of that section. Yet, contrary to our usual belief that they are illiterate and dressed in rough clothing, the mountaineers came down garbed as people from any other section might. Miss May was surprised, as you or I might have been.

By the way, she is probably the only person here who has been presented to the First Lady, Mrs. Roosevelt. The presentation took place at this festival, which Mrs. Roosevelt attended. In keeping with this democratic country of ours, the introduction might have been between any other two women. There was no formality—a simple matter of "Miss May, Mrs. Roosevelt."

It was not one of these general hand-shakings, either, as only a few of those who were at the festival had this opportunity.

Mrs. Roosevelt's personality and charm were the things that made an impression on Miss May. "In her pictures, her teeth are so prominent, yet when you meet Mrs. Roosevelt you do not notice these at all," Miss May said. She described the First Lady as "the best looking homely woman" she has ever seen.

As to the mountaineers of Tennessee and North Carolina. The wealthy people live in the country. The poor people live in town, she says.

PICK-UPS

BACK in the old days when people used to get Christmas presents you probably saw a five-dollar gold piece. The other morning we were privileged to see a five-dollar stamp that was on some material mailed to this office. Imagine, if you can, paying five dollars for a piece of paper little bigger than your thumb nail in order that you could post something! And I can remember the thrill I got out of buying my first special delivery stamp.

As to names, there is Ray Red whose hair is that color.

THE SEASON'S PROBLEM

EVERY season brings on more speculation over one's ability to wear the new hats. Now we are wondering all over again how we are going to manage to appear in public in the head pieces that are being pictured in metropolitan papers.

The only consolation is that most of us have managed to get out in the things that have been introduced so far and that one is far less conspicuous in the accepted thing than in something that was good a few seasons past.

You may feel like a fool in the latest fad but you will feel more like one if you wear something else.

A NATION marches on!

The people of America, while they have their trials and troubles, keep marching on to higher goals of development. Right through the last four years when large numbers of the people were under stress, advancements were being made in medical science and almost every phase of industrial production. Automobiles are better, there are ways of building better houses than a few years ago, there are many more practical electrical appliances than ever before. While production slowed up, improvement of products has gone continuously on. Thus America marches on, and all will enjoy the improvements made during the last few years. . . .

Texans Urged To Open Fight

"I Want To See Texas Drive First Of Thirteen Nails In John Barleycorn's Coffin," Says Sheppard

thirteen nails necessary to keep the lid closed on him forever.

"If Texas will vote dry, other states will follow," he continued. "We need only thirteen states to keep America from undoing the work we did back in 1919 and we'll carry those if Texas will start the drive."

Lists Other States

The senator then predicted that if Texas started the drive, fourteen other states, Vermont, Maine, Virginia, North and South Carolina, Mississippi, Georgia, Kansas, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Idaho and Kentucky and possibly Colorado would fall in line. He also listed Florida and Washington as two other possible dry states to join the parade.

"My hope and prayer is that the people of Texas will say no," he declared.

The senator, replying to arguments of repealists that the return of beer and liquor would have economic advantages, charged a group of millianaires were backing the wet movement, "becase it will aid them to shift their corporation and income taxes onto the masses and avert taxation of their enormous wealth". He said the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment had promoted the vast propaganda program against the Eighteenth amendment from funds furnished by these men.

Beer Or Bread?

"The millionaires want the drinking public to pay their taxes, while the brewers want to mass fortunes at your expense. They offer you beer when your wives and children need bread. Why, all this talk of prosperity is a wholesale debauchery of the American people. This is no time to talk of spending millions for beer when millions are starving for bread.

"As if we didn't have enough taxes already," he continued. "Times like these are no time to waste fresh capital on such an evil as the brewing and liquor traffic when millions are needed for other purposes." He cited various statistics taken from hearings on the beer bill this year to show the cost of restoring beer to its pre-prohibition status and declared "it would make, under these figures, a per capita consumption of 19 gallons yearly in the U. S.".

All Be Dragged Down

"Whether we drink or not," he said, "We'll all be dragged down into this lowest of all economic conditions. . . . Can there be any prosperity for the American people in paying corporation and income taxes for millionaires ? . . . .

Concluding his talk, the senator sat on the improvised platform and shook hands with many acquaintances gained during his 32 years as a senator from this state.

He was introduced at the opening of his talk by John L. Ratliff, vice chairman of the local dry forces. Geo. R. Bean, chairman, opened the meeting with a few remarks and sat on the platform along with Mr. Ratliff throughout the senator's talk.

Senator Sheppard's talk here was one of a series he is making in every congressional district throughout the state.

Hoover Called

and tell what a bad man I am."

Senator Couzens did not reveal the name of the director to whom he was referring.

During his testimony before the jury today Senator Couzens made the declaration that the federal government knew of "deplorable conditions" in the First National bank-Detroit as early as May, 1932.

Because "the powers that be were not anxious to start an epidemic of bank closings in a political year," the senator asserted, only a moderate write-down of the bank's loss was ordered at that time.

Startles Courtroom

The senior Michigan senator, appearing for his third day of testimony before an open grand jury investigating the closing of the First National and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce following the Michigan bank holliday Feb. 14. startled a packed courtroom by a sudden reading of what he said were reports of federal bank examiners detailing "bad practices" in the First National. The reports, he said, were made in May and November, 1932.

"There are at least $70,000,000 of slow assets, and $54,000,000 of doubtful assets, not including loans on Detroit Bankers Co. (the First National company) stock which is classified as slow but should be considered doubtful,'" quoted the senator, reading from the examiners' report. "There are $49,000,000 loss assets. How the institution will ever work out cannot be foretold." This, Couzens said, was from a report made last November.

Matter Of Judgment

"Undoubtedly," he said, "the government should have done something to protect the depositors and protect people from depositing any more money. But it was a matter of judgment. If the bank had closed in May, 1932, I don't know if the depositors would have gotten more or less than from the closing when it did come."

Plunging into direct charges against the bank and its officials, the senator, declining to present his authority because he said he "does not want to pillory anybody," told the jury that "there has been all kinds of 'kiting' of checks in an effort to mislead the public "as to the actual condition of the Detroit banks."

He cited what he declared was one example of the "serious condition" in banking interests here. On one occasion, he said, the Detroit Trust Co. "got $6,000,000 from the First National bank-Detroit, then turned around and deposited this amount with the First National bank-Detroit as a trust fund."

"The net effect of this," he said, "was to show that each bank had $6,000,000 in cash more than it actually had."

Stocks

WALL STREET REPORT

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 21. (AP)—Stocks improved in quiet trading today. Grains were erratic, but closed with narrow changes and shares reached their best levels after dealings had ceased on the Chicago board of trade.

A few leaders were up about 3 points, while the average advance amounted to around a point and a half. The turnover, 1,562,429 shares, tallied closely with recent totals; at times the market was extremely dull.

Gains were well distributed among the industrial equities. Rails were firm but utilities lagged. Steels, "farm belt" stocks, chemicals, oils and repeal shares went ahead rather easily and throughout the session the market ruled above last Friday's close.

October recovered to 9.51 and December to 9.74, up 13 to 14 points net up. Later in the morning prices eased off again on easier wheat and stocks and due also to hedge selling. October dropped to 9.28 and December to 9.52, down 22 to 23 points from the highs and 8 to 10 points below Saturday's close.

COLUMBUS, Kas., Aug. 21. (AP)—Mrs. Jewell Johnson, widow of Gene Johnson, who was killed by officers near Siloam Springs, Ark., last week, was released from custody yesterday by Sheriff Dave Hasenplaugh. Checks Expected Soon For Cotton

County Agent O. G. Tumlinson yesterday said that cotton farmers who sold a portion of their crop to the federal government may expect checks in payment for their contracts "almost any day now."

"Last advices I had from Washington, a week or ten days ago, were that the checks would be mailed direct to the farmers," Mr. Tumlinson added. "Since then I have seen press dispatches which said that checks would be mailed through the county agent's offices, but I have had no direct advices to this effect."

More than 2,000 acceptance blanks and other papers from farmers have been forwarded to Washington. About 400 more blanks are expected this week. None had reached here today.

Pro Battle

Repealists speakers are contending that national prohibition has proved futile and has had an adverse effect on the economic condition of the country. They are bearing down hard on the argument that the doctrine of state's rights dictates that each state should be allowed to control its liquor problem as it sees fit. Frequent mention is made by repeal speakers to the repeal plank in the national Democratic platform in urging voters to give hearty support to the party pledge.

Sale Still Banned

Should Texas ratify repeal of the eighteenth amendment, the sale of spiritous liquors still would be banned under the state constitution. A referendum on state prohibition will be held at the Democratic primary next July.

In addition to voting on repeal of national prohibition, Texas voters also will decide Saturday if the state constitution shall be revised to allow the manufacture and sale of 3.2 beer. Anticipating that this amendment would be approved, the 43rd legislature passed a pre-enabling act under terms of which beer may be sold legally in Texas September 15.

Urges Big Majority

James A. Farley, postmaster general and chairman of the national Democratic executive committee today urged a large and favorable majority for repeal in Texas in a communication to Roy Miller, director of the Democratic national committee in Texas.

"Am looking forward to the result of the repeal election in Texas," Farley stated. "Am sure Texas will join other 22 states which have already voted in favor of repeal. Please make every effort to bring about a large and favorable majority for repeal delegates."

Farley said he would make an appeal to Texas voters tomorrow night to support repeal.

Melville Stone Is Given Honor

HUDSON, Ill., Aug. 21. (AP) — A huge boulder on the lawn of a century-old house here bore a bronze tablet today recalling that this was the birthplace of Melville E. Stone, general manager of the Associated Press from 1893 to 1921.

Stone's father, a Methodist minister, and his wife occupied the house at the time of the famous newspaperman's birth on August 22, 1848. He died in 1929.

At a ceremony yesterday, arranged by the Optimists club of Normae, near here, and attended by publishers from Illinois and other states, L. A. Brophy of Chicago, news editor of the central division of the Associated Press, dedicated the marker to "one of the greatest figures in the world's journalistic hall of fame."

Mrs. J. W. Evans Is Buried In Local Cemetery Monday

Funeral services were conducted at the Lubbock cemetery Monday afternoon for Mrs. J. W. Evans, 66, of Colorado City, who died in that city Sunday afternoon after an extended illness. The Rev. Walter P. Jennings, pastor of First Christian church, and the Rev. J. O. Haymes, pastor of First Methodist church, were in charge of the services.

Mrs. Evans is a former resident of this city. Survivors are: the widower, three sons, Herman Evans, Jim Evans and Roy Evans, and a daughter, Mrs. H. F. Ward, all of Colorado.

All of the family members were at the funeral and left for their homes Monday night.

Mr. Evans was in the restaurant business here several years ago.

Protestant, Catholic and Jewish ministers, he said, had accepted the NRA invitation to assist.

Ahead of the main drive, Al Smith will speak in New York tomorrow night; Speaker Rainey on August 30, in Chicago.

The thirty thousand NRA speakers, Alber added, will stress two main points:

Stress Two Points

Every employer should be enlisted to fly the Blue Eagle. Every consumer should sign the cooperation pledge:

"I will cooperate in reemployment by supporting and patronizing employers and workers who are members of NRA."

Next Monday, too, a block-by-block check-up canvass starts.

The chief difficulty right now at NRA headquarters is to keep up with the frantic telegrams for more and more Blue Eagle insignia. Twenty million consumers' eagles are off the government presses, and twenty million more have been ordered to meet insistent demands.

Not Guilty Is Plea Of Bates

Bond Is Set At $100,000 But He Fails To Make It; Heavy Armed Guards Are Stationed Around Jail

DENVER, Aug. 21. — (AP) Albert Bates was charged on a kidnaping charge in connection with the abduction of Charles Urschel, of Oklahoma City at the county jail here today before Leo Crowley, United States commissioner, and pleaded not guilty.

His bond was set at $100,000, which he did not post.

Heavily-armed guards were stationed around the jail offices as U. S. Marshal C. A. Patton and Thomas J. Morrissey, U. S. district attorney, presented the kidnaping charge against Bates.

Bates was represented by Attorney Ben S. Laska of Denver, who was counsel for Mrs. Verne Stanley when she was tried in St. Paul as one of the kidnapers of William Hamm, jr., recently.

Commissioner Crowley set September 4 as the date for a preliminary hearing for Bates in Denver.

However, it is expected, official sources said, that an indictment in the Urschel kidnaping will be voted against Bates in Oklahoma before September 4 and sent here. In this event, Bates will be turned over to federal authorities and taken to Oklahoma City.

HEALTHY NERVES
TO FLY EIGHT DAYS AND NIGHTS
WITHOUT A STOP

● FRANCES MARSALIS AND LOUISE THADEN set the world's endurance flight record for women when they brought their plane down at Curtiss Field, Long Island, after flying more than 196 hours without a stop through fog, rain, blinding sun, and pitch-black night.

● IN ADDITION to their astounding endurance flight, Miss Marsalis (Left) and Miss Thaden hold many other flying records. Miss Marsalis is the women's champion stunt flyer of the world. It takes healthy nerves to fly . . . doubly so to fly like these two young women. It is significant that both are enthusiastic Camel smokers.

STEADY SMOKERS TURN TO CAMELS

MISS THADEN says: "Flying is a terrific strain at times. I frankly don't know what I should do without cigarettes. But I've found that different cigarettes have different effects on my nerves. For some years I've smoked Camels. They taste better. They're much milder. And I've noticed that they never upset my nerves."

MISS MARSALIS says: "I started smoking Camels because most of my friends who were flyers seemed to prefer them. I've never changed because I can't afford to take chances with my nervous system."

Camel's costlier tobaccos do make a difference . . . in taste, in mildness. They never jangle the nerves. Your taste and your nerves will confirm this. Turn to Camels.

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. You will find Camels rich in flavor and delightfully mild.

● WHAT A THRILL! And how a good smoke adds to its enjoyment! Light up a cigarette. And for the sake of your nerves, make it a Camel . . . the milder cigarette that's made from costlier tobaccos.

The 'Usual Abnormality'

SEVERAL times this season Lubbock and South Plains people have experienced sweltering nights during which it was not necessary—or even comfortable—to pull up some kind of a cover, at least in the early morning hours.

Rainfall in this section, too, has been strangely distributed this year; there have been several small twisters and, upon two or three occasions chilly nights upon hot days.

Therefore, it is no surprise to us to learn that the summer of 1933 has been an abnormal one thus far, but that the 'only usual thing about it has been its complete abnormality'.

Of this we were confident all along, but now there is the word of Charles D. Reed of the United States weather bureau for it. Mr. Reed says there have been "somewhat unusual alternations of extremely hot weather and unseasonably cool weather." So that's it, it isn't an abnormally hot weather; it isn't an abnormally cool one. Instead it has been an abnormally hot-and-cool summer.

Well, Mr. Reed, none of this is any surprise to us. Nor is your statement generally that "where great abnormality continues for 30 days . . . it is easy to predict that the average temperature of some succeeding months will be above or below normal." In other words, just one long orgy of abnormal weather.

Mr. Reed believes that if people will try to realize we are in for one kind of abnormal weather followed by another kind of abnormal weather there is profit in it for somebody. He thinks they will find out a sort of ordered abnormality prevails, and that pretty soon a series of "weather cycles" of short durations will be established and that so far as the weather is concerned, summer, fall and spring will only be so many words.

Other of Mr. Reed's observations are just as interesting. January, for instance, sets the pace for weather in the winter months and June sets it for summer. This doesn't apply to the country at large, and the Pacific coast and the Southwest, Mr. Reed feels, might as well be in another continent.

And don't be fooled when you read a newspaper headline announcing "Heat Wave Breaks" or "Cold Snap Ends." There's nothing to it. A period of abnormal weather doesn't come to sudden end. They sort of go to pieces gradually, Mr. Reed says.

Finally it seems that a three-degree average above or below normal is pretty extremely abnormal. If it was five degrees below normal in New England for a few years, the place would be uninhabitable. At least Mr. Read says so.

APPEAL OF THE PRIMITIVE

"Wilderness areas" have been defined as regions more or less forested where primitive nature is modified in the least possible degree by human agencies. It is desirable that they have special natural attractions and plentiful game and fish. But most important is the condition that they be free from roads, railroads and settlements, so that they may be preserved in their original state.

The wilderness area idea has received impetus from both the federal and state governments. The federal government has set aside hundreds of thousands of acres for the purpose of preserving the wilderness unspoiled by too much civilization. A number of states are adding to these "forests primeval."

Here are the future playgrounds of America. Here will primitive America live again. Here will new forests stretch their branches to the sky, wild life multiply and mankind glory in going back to nature.

Hundreds of thousands of American men and women hunt and fish. Other hundreds of thousands plan to. Multitudes spend their vacations and holidays in the woods, and there lies latent in the back of the minds of most men the desire to go camping where nature is her wildest. This is the American's inheritance from an ancestry of frontiersmen and pathfinders. The impulse to follow in their footsteps into the little frontier that is left is hard to resist. So the average American places much store by the "wilderness area" idea.

Matrimony is a state that makes a summer kiss a mere duty that skids.

Another advantage in behaving yourself is that you seldom need ask the public to reverse judgment.

KNOWLEDGE INCREASES SORROW

Increase of Knowledge is increase of sorrow—Ecclesiastes—1:18.

This is but half the truth. When Pasteur discovered the germ theory it is true that many lived in constant fear of those things we call germs. But the discovery of that theory meant the liberation of the human body from its bondage of disease.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

CATEGORIES: The pork barrel has taken quite a sock behind the closed doors of recent meetings of the Public Works Advisory board.

A lot of the boys had envisaged a Roman holiday in public-building allotments all over the country. They are finding to their sorrow that the spigot has been capped.

Secretary of Interior Ickes, who administers public works, and Budget Director Lew Douglas, who administers economy first, last and always, are responsible.

The first proposed program for new federal buildings that reached the board was well in excess of $100,000,000 and included tentative authorizations for just about all the post offices, court houses, customs houses, etc., that haven't been built.

Assistant Secretary of Treasury L. H. "Chip" Robert Jr., submitted this first proposal. He wasn't to blame that it wasn't broken down. Senators and congressmen had given him general information and suggested that he get a bulk appropriation from the public works fund with authority to administer it himself—guided by the office of supervising architect.

Administrator Ickes called no dice on such a turn. He said the program should be itemized closely and each item passed upon by the Public Works board.

A new program was drafted. It approximated $100,000,000 and contemplated construction of about 2,400 new government buildings.

Ickes turned to Budget Director Douglas and suggested he was pretty good at breaking things down—how would he like to take a crack at the public building projects?

Douglas said he'd like nothing better.

As a result, Douglas returned the program classified into five categories. They were:

1. Buildings needed immediately; 2. Buildings needed soon but not immediately; 3. Buildings needed soon but can be delayed; 4. Buildings economically sound but can be deferred 3 or 4 years; 5. Buildings not needed at all. The fifth category carried the great majority!

RUM: Reports reach Washington that American interests, anticipating prohibition repeal, are planning to give the famous Raccardi rum people of Cuba a little competition.

Down in the Lake Okechobee region of Florida domestic capital is mixing medicine to convert Florida sugar cane into rum.

Native sugar cane stock—or bagasse, as it is called—has been used principally in recent years for the manufacture of synthetic boarding. Sugar has been a by-product (less than 100,000 tons a year).

The monied gentry probably figure we've had enough of things synthetic and are getting ready to offer the real stuff.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

CUBA: The present peace in Cuba is the peace of a sleeping volcano.

The best authorities say that the big eruption is still ahead. Getting rid of Machado helped—like getting a spider out of your eye. But the eye is still badly inflamed. There's plenty more front page news in the making.

New Yorkers who are in a position to know say that Cespedes is only a gap-filler. He is personally popular but has no political following worth mentioning. The competing factions accept him as temporary chief while they are preparing to scalp each other and seize the reins. He isn't strong enough to reconcile the warring elements. The situation compares with that in Spain when Primo de Rivera fell.

There are four principal ingredients in the Cuban political stew.

1. The A.B.C. This is a university organization with Fascist leanings. It bore the brunt of the campaign against Machado but is more idealistic than practical in the political sense.

2. The Labor Unions. They didn't realise how powerful they were until they called a general strike which literally paralyzed all Cuba. Now they feel their oats and will be heard from again.

3. The remnants of the old conservative party under Menocal. Menocal is a cagey politician and has a pretty good idea how to get what he is after.

4. The Union Nacionalista, of Mendieta is a leader. This group will probably have army support which means a decided edge in the early maneuvering.

The United States is not likely to favor any of these groups as against any of the others. If possible we intend to sit tight and let the Cubans settle the argument among themselves. Maybe this policy will work but New York is skeptical.

TRADE: Informed New Yorkers say we must either write off much of Cuba's debt to us and fund what is left over a long period at low interest or kiss our Latin American trade good-bye.

Professional anti-gringoes in all the Latin countries are ready to scream about Yankee imperialism on the slightest pretext. And Britain is all set to lap up the trade cream which would be diverted from our exporters. Intervention would be a costly business coming and going.

Nearly all South and Central American countries have an exchange commission which takes up to eighteen months to decide when imported goods from the United States shall be paid for. Britishers get their exchange payments through the same commissions in much less time than we do. They know their stuff on trade diplomacy.

MEXICO: Strange as it seems, Mexico also has designs for a commercial empire in this hemisphere. She has been working on her Central American neighbors for some time. She presented several of them with radio stations and airplanes and loaned army officers for training purposes. Our intervention in Cuba would be a godsend to her ambitions.

Some Central American states are actually more afraid of Mexico than they are of us. Gutemala tore up miles of railroad track just because they might have been convenient for Mexican troops.

BANKS: There may be a revolution in bank advertising before the year is out. Most bankers have felt it beneath their dignity to discuss their problems with the public. Now they are beginning to realize they must build better public relations if they hope to regain their lost prestige. A plan to tell the world in newspaper announcements just what they are doing and why is being discussed.

BARGAIN BRIDE

by KATHARINE HAVILAND-TAYLOR

BEGIN HERE TODAY

ELINOR STAFFORD, 20, falls in love with BARRETT COLVIN, 25, but her jealous, scheming mother, LIDA STAFFORD, breaks up the romance by convincing Barrett that Elinor is a heartless flirt.

When Elinor's aunt, wealthy MISS ELLA SEXTON, dies she leaves her fortune to Barrett. Then drunken VANCE CARTER shoots BENTWELL STAFFORD, Elinor's father. Barrett tells Elinor that if she will marry him and live in his home as a guest for a year he will give her the entire Sexton fortune to divide among her relatives. Knowing the money may save her father's life, Elinor agrees.

The marriage takes place. Barrett, in spite of the lies Lida told him, finds himself more in love with Elinor than ever. Barrett has a ward, nine-year-old GERALD MOORE, who is the son of his half-sister, MARCIA RADNOR. Barrett has promised Marcia never to reveal the boy's true story. Lida Stafford discovers the child's existence and concludes he is Barrett's son.

Elinor's father dies. Barrett takes her to Cuba and the trip is a happy one. After their return Lida calls. Elinor senses that there is some secret between Barrett and her mother. When she asks him about this he evades.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLI

Elinor rose slowly. She felt suddenly plunged back into the old existence of deceits and dishonecty, wishing so hungrily that codes might be right and true, yet certain they never were.

"Barry," she said, "I can't live if things aren't—as they seem. You know how entirely my heart is yours—"

"Of course I do!" he exclaimed. He caught her in his arms to kiss her hungrily.

As suddenly as it had swept her, her fear faded. She laughed. "It's just that I've been worrying about nothing at all, isn't it?"

He nodded, face pressed against her throat and hidden there. He didn't want her to read his eyes, revealing his terror at what she might think if she knew about Gerald. He never had broken a promise but he did not see how he could keep the one he had made Marcia if keeping it should make Elinor unhappy.

"I didn't understand mother's look, dearest, but it was foolish of me to take her seriously," she admitted.

"Yes, darling, it was."

"It bothered me all evening—"

"Darling!"

"You do love me?"

"You know I do!" he faltered, tightening his arms about her.

And that was the end of the matter—for the time.

It was on a day in early July that Lida decided it was her "duty" to tell Elinor the entire story. Lida had always been capable of turning a wish to a moral necessity. She had felt the scorn Barrett could not keep from showing for her and this was to be her revenge.

Never had any man looked at her as Barrett had—her daughter's husband, her son-in-law! His eyes, whenever they met hers, were remote and chill. He could not have shown more aversion to a beggar of the east.

Lida assured herself that under the circumstances Elinor would be able to extract from Barrett a huge amount of alimony. This done, Lida was sure she could have about what she wished. Elinor hated quarreling over money—hated quarreling over anything at all. She would do anything to maintain peace.

"She must leave him!" He isn't fit to be her husband!" Lida thought. "She must be brave and stand by her rights!"

But Elinor did not comply with Lida's suggestions. She received her mother in the drawing room. That was a beginning that Lida, who wanted a boudoir intimacy in her daughter's house, did not like.

"It's frightfully hot!" Lida said as she sat down. "Why don't you get away?"

"Barrett has to be in town just now. He's helping Doctor Detries," Elinor answered. It was for her a wholly convincing reason.

What had her mother come for? Elinor, who knew her so well, was aware that when Lida seemed concerned about anyone it was likely to preface a stab in the back. Her eyes grew troubled as she waited.

"I'll have Higgins bring us some iced tea," she said quickly. Perhaps she could divert her mother.

"Not for me, darling, please. I haven't time. I have a few words I must say to you and I want to catch a train at five for Bellport."

Elinor sat back and Lida began. The color faded from the girl's cheeks. She closed her eyes a moment, then opened them. It was true that each week Barrett went away for a long day. Objects in the room that she knew well became suddenly remote and misted. She must not let her mother see what this talk was doing to her.

"All that I want," Elinor heard Lida saying, "is to help you in your struggle toward truth. You must leave this man, to build a strong, fine life for yourself! And I will help you—"

Lida was astonished then to hear Elinor laugh. A long, unsteady, almost hysterical laugh. Lida could not believe her ears.

"Why, Elinor!" she exclaimed. "I don't understand you at all!"

"No, of course not. Mother, I am not going to leave Barrett. You thought I would, didn't you? And I suppose you thought I'd collect a huge sum of alimony—"

"He certainly should support you after he's wronged you so!"

"I am not going to leave him and that's final. No decent woman would leave a man who has done as much for her as Barrett has for me! Everyone would know about it if I did that! The story would get out. Later perhaps I will, but not now. The heat is bothering me a little—"

Higgins let Mrs. Stafford out of the house. His stony expression did not change as she smiled at him condescendingly. Higgins had seen Elinor go up the stairs and knew something was amiss. He was certain that her mother had said something cruel to her and Higgins was devoted to Elinor.

As soon as the door closed the butler hurried up the stairs. "Mrs. Colvin," he said after tapping at her door, "can I bring you a glass of iced tea and some sandwiches?"

He waited a long minute. Then quite steadily came the answer. "Thank you, Higgins, but not now. I'm not feeling very well. I don't want to be disturbed, Higgins, please—"

"Yes, Mrs. Colvin. Certainly," he replied, sure that his suspicions had been correct. Mrs. Stafford had said something cruel to Mrs. Colvin. Higgins went slowly down the stairs.

Barrett came in eagerly a little before six. He had been gone since early morning. He had missed the tea hour with Elinor and was eager to see her. He had been helping a group of archeologists lay their plans for a trip to a part of South America which he had once longed to visit. Now his mild interest in their plans showed him how entirely he had been changed by Elinor and his adoration to her.

The house seemed unusually quiet. "Where is Mrs. Colvin?" he asked Higgins.

"She is in her room, Mr. Barrett. Mrs. Stafford called and Mrs. Colvin excused herself. She went to lie down and asked not to be disturbed."

Barrett's face lost color. He hesitated a moment and then, all his eagerness drained from him by fear, mounted the stairs.

He tapped on the door that was closed between their rooms, heard Elinor say, "Come in if it's you, Barrett."

"Not 'dearest' or 'Barry,' but 'Barrett.'"

He opened the door. She was standing, wrapped in the yellow negligee, by a window. He saw that her hands were tightly gripped and knew that if he could touch them he would find them cold in spite of the day's heat.

"I'd rather you didn't kiss me, please," she said breathlessly as he neared her.

"You may be quite certain," he said, "that I never shall unless you much rather I would. I think you know that?"

"Yes, I do," she answered. There was a pause and then Elinor said slowly, "Mother's—told me."

Muleshoe Citizen Will Support Prohibition In Texas

Editor, The Avalanche: I was talking with a dentist in Lubbock this week and he told me there are more saloons in Lubbock today selling liquor than there were in Dallas, Houston or San Antonio before prohibition. The statement was staggering to say the least, not a compliment to the lowest type of law enforcement officers of any law, and is the main reason crime has full sway in our land.

He also told me that the bootleggers are going to vote dry on August 26. I was rather elated. Come on, bootleggers, and vote for the morals of your country! Then if our public officials say by action, "continue your trade Mr. Bootlegger," I'll say so too, because we all know that you are as honest in what you sell it for as the breweries or anyone else who stoops to sell liquor and does not consider the women and children, but are trying to bring them down to a bootlegger's level.

Every man and woman should know that the present liquor movement is an evil, to make the rich man richer and the poor man poorer, not to mention his wife and children.

Also remember that the drys are not in this fight for one penny of gain.

Mrs. W. L. Stringer,
Muleshoe.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: I have no idea who the dentist in question might have been but if I know anything about my home town he is entirely too enthusiastic regarding the number of 'saloons' in Lubbock. In my travels over the country I have never found a city of Lubbock's size as nearly 'dry' as Lubbock has been. Of course, Lubbock has never been 'dry' in the exact sense of the word but it has come about as close to it as any city in the land.)

Morton Defeats Amherst Sunday

Morton defeated Amherst, 10 to 3, Sunday, at Morton, in the only South Plains Baseball league thus far reported. Levelland was scheduled to play Enochs at Levelland in the other game of the northern division, but officials of either club could not be reached yesterday for report.

Manager Woods' Morton club, holder of second place in the northern division, jumped on Pitchers Bradley and Dickinson for eleven runs, and took advantage of errors to score the ten runs. Burks and Rose pitched for Morton, both giving up five hits.

A rumor that the northern division, as well as the southern group, is about ready to toss in the towell and call it a season, awarding the second half championship to Enochs, was circulated yesterday. The southern group, consisting of Lubbock, Tahoka, Abernathy and Slaton, is reported willing to accept Tahoka as the second half winner.

If the two divisions do come to such an agreement, Tahoka and Enochs will meet in a play-off series for the second half championship of the league. Should Tahoka win, the Bulldogs will be acclaimed league champions of 1933, since Tahoka won the first half title.

Dutch Leuenberger, league president, said he was awaiting official word from managers of the circuit before naming Tahoka and Enochs champions in the southern and northern divisions respectively.

Rosenbloom To Fight In Fort Worth September 8

FORT WORTH, Aug. 21. (AP) — Maxie Rosenbloom, light heavyweight champion of the world, has been signed by Promoter Dick Griffin for his inaugural boxing program here under legalized prize fighting September 8.

Rosenbloom who has held the championship since 1930 will engage in a 10-roung fight with Joe Rice, former leading heavyweight.

The match between Rosenbloom and Rice was arranged by Griffin after every effort to obtain an opponent for Tony Herrera, ranking lightweight, had failed. Several leading contenders for the light and junior welter weight crowns were sought as foes for Herrera but none would agree to fight Tony.

Yanks And Sox Battle 18 Innings To 3-3 Tie

Season Record Set As Squads Extend Battle

Another "Endurance" Mark Is Set, Featuring Yank Stars As Teams Tie All The Way Through Long Contest

CHICAGO, Aug. 21 (AP)—After battling 18 innings in an effort to decide the final game of the series today, the New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox found themselves back where they started four hours and eleven minutes before as darkness ended hostilities with the score tied at three-all.

The game set a new season's record for endurance in the American League and tied the mark made by the Giants and Cardinals in the senior circuit. On Aug. 13, the White Sox dropped a 17-inning decision to the Tigers.

From the start, the fray was closely fought with young Charlie Devens of Harvard and Milton Gaston pitching scoreless ball for eight innings and the veterans, Herb Pennock and Urban (Red) Faber, matching wits over the latter part of the contest. Devens cracked up in the ninth when the Sox tied the score at one-all and Gaston was removed for a pinch hitter in the eleventh.

Each team connected with eleven hits, all singles. The sox had a decided advantage in bases on balls, however, as Devens passed seven and Pennock eight in comparison to three issued by Gaston and two by Faber. The Yankee hurlers struck out five between them while the Sox pitchers fanned six.

The triumph ran Cleveland's winning streak to seven straight and enabled the Tribe to tighten its hold on third place.

Country Club Youth Breaks Par By Seven Strokes To Lead A Field Of 75 At South Plains Tourney; Allen Second

Meadowbrook Golf course here was the scene of sizzling shooting Sunday when half a dozen crackshots made a plaything of par figures, two others evened the count with par and the rest of the field of 75 played in proportionate style.

John D. Munn, Amarillo high school graduate of the late class, now a Lubbock Country club player, bested the field with a 36-hole score of 133—seven under par—to win the third annual South Plains Invitation tournament championship.

Manson Allen and Allan Ferrell, Meadowbrook and Slaton representatives respectively, finished in a tie for second place with 135's—five under par—and Charles Qualls of Post, veteran campaigner of Texas links, came in with a 64 on the afternoon round for a total of 136 for a tie for third place with Clinton Bussey, who posted a 71 and a 65.

Edgar Doherty, Lubbock High school and Country club star, and championship defender, finished in sixth place with 139—the identical score he shot to win the 1932 tournament.

First Six Break Par

Joe Bihl, former Meadowbrook caddy, shot 137 for fourth place and Cotton McAfee, Lubbock Country club hotshot, finished fifth with 138. Thus the first six players broke par by from one to seven strokes in a tournament that required 72 or better to make the championship flight.

Ten clubs of the South Plains were represented in the tournament, said to be the most successful and hardest fought event in the history of the tournament.

The Meadowbrook team of Joe Bihl, Manson Allen, Clint Bussey and Alfred Holton won the four-man team play prize with an aggregate score of 276—four under par. Bihl shot a 66 in the morning round, Allen a 68, Bussey a 71 and Holton a 71. The same team finished the 36 holes three under par.

Allan Ferrell fired a 64 on the morning and qualifying round to take medalist honors. Two strokes behind was Bihl. Munn was third with a 67 and Allen fourth with his 68.

McIlroy, Slaughter Tied

Howard McIlroy of Meadowbrook and Jo Dick Slaughter of Lubbock Country club tied for second flight honors with scores of 140. They plan to play off the tie this week.

Jess Lockhart, Country club player, took third flight honors with scores of 69-72—141.

Jimmie Alls of Meadowbrook won the fourth flight with 89-83—172.

Fifth flight honors went to E. W. George, who posted 98-90—188.

The two rounds of 64, fired by Ferrell and Qualls, lacked one stroke of equalling the course record held jointly by Mendall Hughett and Clinton Bussey.

Munn's card:
Morning round:

Munn out ..... 334 436 443—34

Afternoon round:

Clubs represented at the tournament were: Lubbock Country club; Meadowbrook, Brownfield, Post, Littlefield, Slaton, Spur, Crosbyton, Petersburg and Idalou. All of the South Plains league clubs with the exception of Plainview were represented.

Red Birds Not Out Of Race By Long Shot, He Says

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 21. — Frankie Frisch looked as grim as the weather, which was bad and getting rapidly worse. Perhaps it was a mistake to have brought the subject up in the first place.

"The Cardinals out of it, eh? Don't be silly. It's going to be a tough job catching the Giants. Seven and a half games at this stage of the race is a nice fat juicy lead. But we've done it before. And we can do it again."

Whereupon the "Fordham Flash" of a dozen years ago, who walked off a New York college campus and into Larry Doyle's shoes at second base for the Giants, explained how it not only could, but would be done by the ball club he took over July 25 when Gabby Street went the way of all Cardinal managerial flesh.

"Look At 1930"

"Look back through the records," he said. "Look at 1930. The Cubs had a 5 1-2 game lead on us going into September, which is still ten days away. We caught them in the stretch and won the pennant. We'll do the same thing with the Giants this time."

The experts say he won't, that he can't, that it's not in the Cards or anyone else his year to stop Bill Terry's destiny riders. And Frisch returning for the first time as a manager to the fields where he shone so brilliantly under the master pilot, John McGraw, would be the last man to try to take credit from his major league alma mater.

"But Not Safe"

"They're getting wonderful pitching," he said almost reverently. "It's tough to beat a team that's piling up shutouts and one-run games the way Hal Schumacher, Carl Hubbell, Roy Parmelee and Freddy Fitzsimmons are doing. There's no question about it, Bill has his team hustling, doing impossible things for him, and they've made him a great manager. They've got what I'd call a comfortable lead. It's not a safe one."

The figures though are all against Frankie's prediction, game as it is. In 1930, for instance, the rise of the Cardinals coincided with a September tailspin that caught Chicago, Brooklyn and the Giants, the top contenders, and all but backed the Red Birds into the National League title and a World Series drubbing by the Athletics.

This time the Giants show no signs of faltering. Since July 25, when Frankie took over, the Cards have won 18 games and lost 8, an average of .667, normally a pennant winning burst at this stage of any flag race. The team's average has risen from the .505 where Frisch took them, 46 victories and 45 defeats, to .542 today, with 34 lost and 64 won.

Yet in this same period since July 25 Terry's Giants have won 15 games and lost 7 for an average of .682, fifteen points better than the inspired Cards could go. Moreover as the clubs stand today, with the Pirates, Braves and Cards all in a virtual tie for second, 3 1-2 of the Cards' 7 1-2 game deficit hang in the "games lost" column, where no manager of brilliance from now on can retrieve them.

Was that a poser for Mr. Frisch?

He Can Add

"We've got five games with the Giants here starting August 27, and three more in St. Louis beginning Sept. 17. Five and three make eight, don't they? If we beat them eight straight there's no deficit."

For grimness the downpour outside was pure sunshine as compared with the look on Frankie's face.

Joseph Weldon Bailey Will Speak Here Friday Evening

Because of a change in schedules, Congressman Joseph Weldon Bailey, Jr., who is touring the state in the interest of repeal of the Eighteenth amendment and legalization of beer in Texas, will speak here Friday night instead of Tuesday night.

Congressman Bailey likely will speak at the southeast corner of the courthouse lawn, said R. R. Robertson, district chairman of the legion.

Vines Puzzled But Unworried

Former King Of Amateurs Can Not Understand Defeat By Shields; Prepares To Defend Doubles Title

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 21. (AP)—Four straight defeats have made Ellsworth Vines, national tennis champion, puzzled but not worried.

The lanky Pasadenan, who holds the unique record of winning both the American and British titles before reaching his majority last September, was musing over his prospects today as he watched the rain wash away the opening round of the National doubles play at Longwood, where he and Keith Gledhill will defend their team championship.

Vines appeared as if he had forgotten the five-set defeat Jack Crawford of Australia gave him in the Wimbledon finals this year and his Davis Cup failures against Fred Perry and H. W. "Bunny" Austin in the interzone finals with England. But the memory of Frank X. Shields' straight-set decision over him at Newport last week still was painful.

"I still can't understand that match with Shields," he said. "When I went onto the Casino court I felt that I would beat Shields. I have always beaten him and I thought I had my shots going well enough to beat him again. But I couldn't do anything right."

Swenson Captures Dawson Meet With Score In Twelfth

LAMESA, Aug. 21. (Special) — A run in the twelfth inning of an otherwise scoreless and exciting ball game gave the Swenson team of Stonewall county the championship of the fifth annual Dawson County Invitation baseball tournament here this afternoon.

It was a fitting and thrilling climax to a tourney which saw nine teams start. The tournament held forth for ten days.

Red Berry, pitching for Lamesa, gave up four hits in twelve innings, while the Lamesa team combed Pitman of Swenson for 13 hingles. Pitman kept them well scattered, however, and was never in a serious hole.

Negro Boxes Woman's Jaws After She Steps On Foot

Because a negro woman stepped on his sore foot and cursed him when he asked her to get off, Casey Jones, a negro, "boxed her jaws," the defendant told County Judge E. L. Pitts when pleading guilty of aggravated assault yesterday. Jones was fined $25 and costs.

Two other pleas of guilty were received in county court yesterday. Irvin Pierce, a negro, was sentenced to 30 days in county jail and fined court costs for carrying a pistol. J. W. Hughes, charged with theft of a spark plug, was fined $1 and costs and sentenced to one day in jail.

John Henry Land, charged with carrying a pistol, pleaded not guilty and his bond was fixed at $250.

Cecil Smith Is Praised Much By Polo Officialdom After Neat Work In "World Series" Against Easterners

CHICAGO, Aug. 21. (AP)—Mounting acclaim for Cecil Smith, the big Texan who led a band of hard riding Westerners to victory over the East, today promised to send him to the top of the polo world as a shareholder of the cherished 10-goal rating with Tommy Hitchcock.

Critics and officials of the United States Polo association, surprised at the victory of the Westerners in the "World Series" polo struggle at Onwentsia, admitted Smith quite certain of dividing the high goal rating with Hitchcock and that other members of both teams probably would be given higher rankings.

South Texan Goes To Third Round After 2 Wins

Jack Jones, youthful netter of South Texas who registered as from Rio Grande Valley, nosed into the third round of the Northwest Texas Tennis tournament here yesterday by taking his first two matches with comparative ease.

Gordon May, seeded No. 1 on Texas Tech's net team; Barnard Lambert of Littlefield; Hubert Burgess of Lubbock; Renford Taylor of Lubbock; W. B. Rushing, Lubbock City Open champion, and John Boyd of Hamlin advanced with Jones after first round victories in the singles division.

Field Is Small

A disappointingly small entry field reported for drawings yesterday morning, other tournaments over the state and unfavorable weather conditions in various parts holding back entries who formerly had indicated they would be here. Quality, however, was stressed, and spectators saw some neat exhibitions.

May, runner up in the City Open, defeated Larry Taylor of Lubbock, 9-7, 6-3; Lambert won over Bert Pinson of Lubbock, 7-5, 9-7, 6-3, in one of two extra set matches; Burgess advanced with a 6-4, 5-7, 6-4 victory over Bill Wells of Littlefield, interscholastic district champion; Renford Taylor downed Hank Roberts of Lubbock, 6-4, 6-2, and Rushing downed James Alldredge of Sudan, 6-2, 6-4. Boyd drew a first round bye, as did Forest Wiemhold of Sudan. Jones defeated Wiemhold, 6-4 6-3.

The Taylor brothers, Renford and Larry, teamed to beat Jones and Boyd in a hard-fought doubles match, 9-7, 6-4, and May paired with Bogeman to defeat Lambert and Wells, the Littlefield championship team, 6-2, 6-1.

Rotarians Defeat Kiwanis Team In Junior Loop Game

The Rotarians defeated the Kiwanians, 16 to 3, yesterday and virtually cinched the championship of the second half of the Lubbock Junior baseball league.

Tyson, pitching for the Rotarians, allowed but five hits and struck out 12 batsmen. The winners got to Parr and Jackson for fourteen hits.

The Rotarians play the Slaton juniors here Wednesday afternoon at the College Avenue park.

Little Brown Jug Found In Bush

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Aug. 21. (AP)—The Little Brown Jug, long the prize of victory between Michigan and Minnesota foot ball teams, missing since just before the Wolverine-Gopher game of 1931, has been found.

In a lump of bushes on East University avenue, near the medical building at the university here, the gridiron trophy was found today by Al Thomas, a brother of Lorenzo Thomas, ground keeper at Ferry Field.

The jug apparently was placed in the bushes within the last few days.

When the demijohn, its sides carrying the scores of numerous Michigan-Minnesota grid contests, disappeared two years ago, various "accusations" were passed back and forth, but it remained in hiding.

It will be the prize again when the Gophers and Wolverines meet here on November 18.

Queen Helen Gets Another Day Of Rest As Rain Sets In To Halt Final Matches

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 21. (AP)—With the other girls showing neither fear of her game nor compassion for her injured back, rain today came to the aid of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody to give her another day of rest before she makes her final bid for her eighth American title in the Women's National tennis championships at the west side tennis club.

Queen Helen was scheduled to play her final match against Dorothy Round, leading English challenger, or Helen Jacobs, defending title holder, tomorrow, but the rain set back that semi-finals contest another day and the finals until Wednesday.

Mrs. Moody gained her final bracket yesterday, but only after a bitter three-set encounter with bouncing Betty Nuthall, in which she dropped a set—something she had not done in this country since 1926—and became so rattled that she served twice in succession.

General Johnson Says That He Will Return To Business

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (AP) — Hugh S. Johnson, the recovery administrator, said today in a statement that he intended to surrender his job as administrator "when the NRA program is sufficiently advanced for me to go back to my regular business."

He added that it was impossible to tell when this would be, but his intimates have disclosed that he hoped the time will be during the present year.

Johnson took the post as administrator at the request of President Roosevelt and Bernard M. Baruch, his business associate and a confidential adviser of the chief executive.

In accepting, he let it be known that he wished to return to private life as soon as possible.

THE RETURN OF TARZAN No. 8

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Tarzan showed no signs of anger as he stood up. A half smile played about his lips, but of a sudden a great fist shot into the face of the scowling Arab and back of it were the mighty muscles of the ape-man. At the instant the fellow fell, a dozen fierce plainsmen sprang into the room.

With cries of "Kill the unbeliever" and "Down with the Christian dog," they made straight for Tarzan. Other Arabs in the cafe sprang forward to join in the assault upon the unarmed white man. Tarzan was rushed backward before the numbers opposing him. With drawn knife, Abdul fought by his side.

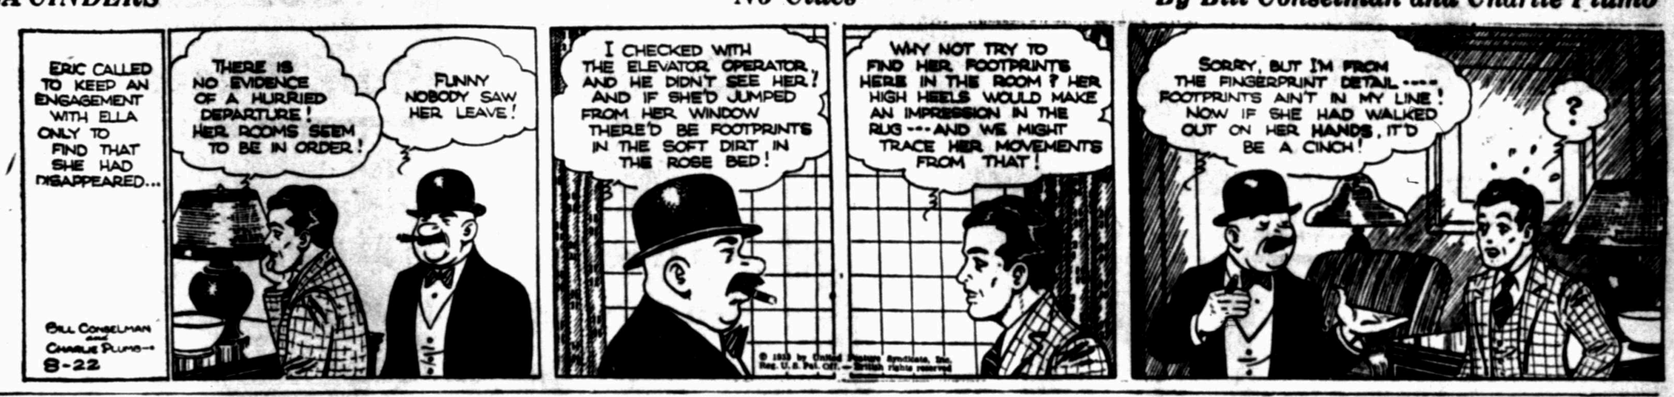

With Tremendous blows the ape-man felled all who came in reach of his powerful hands. So closely packed was the howling, cursing mob, that no weapon could be used. Finally Tarzan succeeded in seizing one of the nearest attackers, and, with a quick wrench, disarmed him.

Holding this Arab before them as a shield, he backed slowly toward the little door leading into the courtyard. At the entrance he paused an instant, and lifting the struggling fellow above his head hurled him, as from a catapult, full in the faces of the inrushing mob.

Character Witnesses Line Up In Defense Of Polo Star In Chicago And Also For His Nurse Accuser

CHICAGO, Aug. 21. (AP) — Character witnesses were lining up today in behalf of Miss Eugenia Rose, 23-year-old nurse, and Cecil Smith of San Antonio, Texas, the polo star whom she accuses of criminally attacking her.

Smith, detained in Chicago by a summons for arraingement tomorrow, issued a statement flatly denying any assault and relating how he escorted the girl to her home Friday night.

His teammates were expected to testify to his good character, while officials of the Alice home hospital at Lake Forest said they would give similar testimony for the nurse.

In a statement, Smith told of offering to escort Miss Rose to her home after she had cared for Rube Williams, his teammate, who had suffered a broken leg. Smith said, in part:

"It was then 10:30 p. m. We drove south to Evanston, engaging in civil conversation mostly about polo and its fascination. The drive took about an hour and forty-five minutes. I delivered her to her door at 2118 Central ave.

"I got out of the car and took her to the door, bidding her goodbye and thanking her. She in turn wished me luck in the game on Sunday. There was at no time any indiscretion on my part. I cannot understand Miss Rose's charges unless they are a deliberate frameup. I will stay in town until I am cleared."

Fifth Baby Sold In Tulsa Market

TULSA, Aug. 21. (AP)—Miss Helen Schaeffer, director of the Tulsa children's service bureau, said today that a fifth baby had been "sold here recently to pay hospital costs of its unmarried mother.

Miss Schaeffer, whose discovery that four other infants had been sold for $70 to $100 led to an investigation by the state commissioner of charities and corrections, said she expected "to find new cases every now and then."

"We have not reached the end of our investigation," she said. "All our findings will be turned over to the Tulsa county medical society in due time."

There is no state law that prohibits such transactions, and foster parents who purchase the children are permitted by law to keep them without a hearing to assure they maintain proper homes.

Man Is Held After Assault

Chiropractor Is Identified As Man Who Assaulted And Kidnaped Another; One Now In A Hospital

ST. PAUL, Aug. 21. (AP)—M. F. Kinkead, Ramsey county attorney, today said that Dr. W. H. Hedberg, St. Paul chiropractor, had been identified as the man who assaulted and kidnaped Dr. E. J. Engberg, secretary of the Minnesota state board of medical examiners.

Hedberg was in a hospital, semi-conscious after being found bruised and drugged in a railroad yard early Sunay, July 12 last, Dr. Engberg was lured from his home by a fake telephone call, kidnaped and ordered to perform a mutilation operation, presumably on the chiropractor.

He refused and was drugged. Hedberg later was found with a bullet wound in his ear some distance from where the other physician was picked up in his automobile on a railroad crossing.

Afterward, Hedberg and Engberg were compelled by police to reenact that night's events and it was while the chiropractor was dressed in the garb of an oil station attendant, the county attorney said, that he was identified as Engberg's captor.

The motive for those happenings involving both the doctors, has not been explained. Neither have police been able to explain Hedberg's latest injury.

AUSTIN, Aug. 21 (AP) — Moore Lynn, state auditor and efficiency expert, has advanced a plan which, he hopes, will assist in maintaining a more efficient group of state employes.

The plan would prohibit state department heads from dismissing more than a fixed percentage of employes during a certain period. It is designed to reduce the heavy turnover in state employes that usually accompanies the induction of a newly elected officer.

In the past, the custom of "to the victor belongs the spoils" has been followed in Texas. Lynn's idea would be a modification of this practice and the victor would get only a part of the spoils immediately.

Efficiecy in state departments depends largely on maintaining an experienced and capable personnel, Lynn said. Under the spoils system it is very difficult to build up an efficiency organization and it costs the state considerable money to break in new employes each two and four years.

Just about the time the old employes have become an asset to the state, a new department head comes in and replaces them with new employes who will require from two to four years to familiarize themselves with the work, Lynn reported.

"This practice is contrary to good business for a high turnover in employes means additional expense," Lynn said.

To solve the situation, Lynn proposes establishment of a state personnel department to pass on the qualifications of state employes. Before any department head could employ a clerk or stenographer the prospective employe would be required to pass an examination.

The right to discharge an employe would remain with the head of each department provided that during any one year not more than a certain percentage could be discharged.

In lieu of the personnel department plan, Lynn urged passage of a law that would prohibit the head of any department employing more than six or discharging more than 50 per cent of the employes during the first 12 months he was at the head of the department and not more than thirty-three and one-third per cent during any succeeding 12 months.

"This plan would allow a period of transition in which the efficiency of the department would not be as badly hampered as at present," Lynn said.

The limitation on discharging employes would not apply in cases of fraud, insubordination or neglect of duties.
