Senate To See That Work Is Not Curtailed

Persons Who Slow Program Will Be "Put On Skids"

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Senator Connally (D-Tex) declared today that the Senate defense investigating committee was ready to "put the skids" under any official responsible for not speeding up the nation's armament program.

Connally's assertion came during sharp questioning at a committee hearing of Stacy May, OPM statistical chief, who had testified that the production program ought to be speeded up.

Nation Not Serious

May said he thought the army, navy, OPM and the country as a whole had "not taken the job seriously enough" in the past. There has been a realization of this, he said, and as a result Congress could look for more defense fund requests later.

May said he was convinced that there was a "tremendous" number of machine tools not yet being used in the production program.

Connally insisted on knowing why the OPM had not taken decisive action to speed up production of these items.

Tired Of Evasions

"If the OPM is not doing its maximum, and you say it is not," Connally said heatedly, "then tell us who is at fault and we will put the skids under him."

"I can't answer that question," May replied.

"I'm tired of all this buck passing to other people," the senator went on.

May testified the government must virtually double present defense expenditures by fall if a $40,000,000,000 production program for 1941-42 was to be fulfilled.

Mistakes Likely Made

Senator Ball (R-Minn), remarking that it might be well to double the program, asked May whether OPM had weeded out some who had been responsible for what Ball said were setting too meager goals.

"I have the impression," Ball said, "that some of those who missed the boat so completely in planning for aluminum needs are

Okay Near On Tax Refunds

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 4—A Senate-approved bill remitting to Texas counties $4,500,000 annually in ad valorem taxes was passed to third reading by the House of Representatives today.

The Senate likewise passed to third reading a bill previously approved by the House requiring the railroad commission to prorate oil production on a statewide, rather than individual field, basis.

Both Important

Both measures were highly controversial and among the most important remaining before the general session.

Proponents of the tax remission bill failed in an effort to suspend rules for a final vote. It passed to third reading, 77 to 43.

Accepted was an amendment by Rep. James Taylor of Kerens exempting 54 counties now receiving remissions aggregating $1,833,000 annually under special laws.

Branded Unconstitutional

The bill found favor despite opponents' charges it was unconstitutional in the opinions of appellate courts and the attorney general.

One effort to strike out the enacting clause was killed, 83 to 48.

The constitution permits donation of state property taxes to counties to alleviate public calam-

Ickes Hints At Gasless Days, Less Heat

Conservation Of Oil Products Is Seen In Offing

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Secretary Ickes said today "all of us" would have "to make some kind of adjustments" to meet the prospective oil shortage which industry representatives have suggested might lead to gasless Sundays and less heat from oil burners.

"We face a set of hard facts," the interior department chief declared in his first formal statement since President Roosevelt made him petroleum coordinator for defense. He added briefly:

"I am sure that American industry, as well as individual citizens, can help to meet the situation. Conservation of petroleum products is certainly one way."

Time Change Urged

As another conservation measure, Ickes has recommended establishment of nationwide daylight saving time. It was learned today this probably will be recommended soon by the office of production management.

The recommendation, to save electricity, probably will be made to governors, one official said. It is unlikely any legislation will be requested to put the change into effect.

Secretary Ickes' aides have estimated that Japan now is importing 60,000 to 70,000 barrels daily of oil from the United States, sending to the West coast for it.

May Start In July

Oil experts pointed out, however, the Japanese imports from this country bore little if any relation to the threatened petroleum shortage in eastern states, since the deficiency would result from lack of transportation from the southwestern oil fields to the east rather than a shortage of production and refining facilities.

The shortage, petroleum experts said, will begin in the East in July and become progressively more

Suspect In Liner's Derailment Is Held

LAS CRUCES, N. M., June 4 (U.P.)—A suspect long sought in the derailment of the "City of San Francisco" passenger train near Harney, Nev., with loss of 23 lives has been arrested by Las Cruces police, it was disclosed today.

Sheriff Mike Apodaca said a 45-year-old man picked up here last week in a "routine case" has been identified by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, through fingerprints, as a wanted fugitive.

The suspect first was apprehended for allegedly posing as a "special investigator," Apodaca said.

No charges had been filed.

Axis Subs Extending Atlantic Destruction

NEW YORK, June 4 (AP)—Maritime sources, disclosing the recent torpedoing of eight British ships, totaling 54,268 tons, revealed today that Axis submarines had extended their work of destruction two-thirds of the way across the Atlantic to within 700 miles of the American continent.

They said that four British ships were torpedoed in a single day in positions roughly 700 miles east of Labrador and about 350 miles south of the tip of Greenland—an area presumably covered by the U. S. neutrality patrol.

RAF BLASTS CONVOY

CAIRO, Egypt, June 4 (AP)—British bombers made a "highly successful" attack on an Axis convoy off Tunisia yesterday, blowing up one 8,000-ton ship, the RAF Middle East command announced tonight. The convoy was spotted by American-made Maryland reconnaissance craft, the name the British apply to the Martin.

New Safeguard To Protect Factories

Pilots Rushed Into Pacific

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Scores of fledgling air corps pilots are being sent to Hawaii and the Philippines, it was disclosed today, for duty with the rapidly expanding air fleets based in the Pacific.

The latest transfer orders published by the war department show that some 116 second lieutenants who have recently won their wings have been ordered to embark for the Pacific outposts in the next three weeks. The fliers are from Brooks and Kelly fields in Texas, and the advance flying school at Stockton, Calif.

Posts Heavily Reinforced

The number of these assignments was regarded as evidence that the air squadrons at Hawaii and the Philippines have been heavily reinforced in the last several months. Some authorities consider it possible that the number of combat craft now at Pacific posts runs into several hundreds.

There has been speculation that this expansion was preparatory to relieving substantial units of the Pacific fleet for duty in the Atlantic. But military experts generally discount this, saying that while aircraft would be capable of taking over some patrol duties from surface vessels they could not offer the threat to a potential enemy fleet which is offered by the powerful naval forces now on Pacific duty.

Rather, the strategy which dictated the creation of strong air

WASHINGTON, June 4 — The war department today created a new inspection service designed to protect plants and government property against accidental or intentional damage that might retard defense production.

The new organization, known as the Plant Production Inspection service, will be set up in the 21 major army procurement districts to safeguard the "uninterrupted production of materials for defense" from the 43,000 factories working on rearmament orders.

Patterson To Direct

It was understood that about 800 civilians and retired and reserve officers would be used immediately in the inspection service. Chiefs of the various supply arms and services will be responsible for organization and functioning of the new set up. Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson will supervise and coordinate the program.

The Civil Service commission sent a letter to its district managers asking them to locate im-

Absentee Voting To Begin Here Monday

Absentee voting in the special senatorial election June 28 will begin Monday, since the first day that ballots may be cast legally falls on Sunday, according to Ed D. Allen, county clerk.

Joe Y. Boyd, county auditor, said he had received the ballots from the printers this morning and that they would be turned over to the clerk in a few hours.

Only one application for ballots for absentee voting had been received by the clerk, from Charles D. Mathews, former Lubbock attorney who lives in Austin.

All equipment except ballots had been assembled, Allen said.

Ban On Night Diamond Tussles To Get Serious Consideration

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, June 4—Organized baseball today faced a situation potentially more serious than the military draft—the possibility that growing defense power needs may dim or even black out night baseball, a multi-million dollar industry with a gate appeal to match.

The United Press learned that the federal power commission—which may ration electricity in an emergency—will include night baseball in its nationwide inventory of the power situation within the next 10 days.

A series of conferences with utilities to discuss emergency measures, including rationing, begins today at Atlanta, Ga., key point of the southeastern area where drouth has complicated the power problem. These conferences may determine the future of night baseball.

"We have nothing definite in mind right now about night games," an FPC spokesman

Mediation To Halt Walkouts Is Under Way

New Strike Of Coal Miners Is Said Threatening

(By The Associated Press)

The defense mediation board called together in Washington today representatives of Northern and Southern soft coal operators and the United Mine Workers (CIO) to hear board recommendations for settlement of their wage contract controversy.

Hinging upon acceptance or refusal of the terms was a threatened new strike of 400,000 coal miners in the seven-state Appalachian bituminous industry. The walkout was postponed by President John L. Lewis of the UMW pending the board's report.

Might Be Tomorrow

The recommendations were to be made public after they had been submitted to participants in the three-way controversy, but board officials said the closed parleys might last until tomorrow.

A board panel headed by W. H. Davis, vice-chairman, began drafting the recommendations 10 days ago after efforts to mediate the dispute failed. The board has no power to enforce its recommendations, but following President Roosevelt's proclamation of an unlimited national emergency, Davis said:

"The president said that the recommendations of the mediation board should be followed. I assume he meant what he said."

Differential Is Reason

Crux of the controversy is the historic wage differential between Northern and Southern mines. The northern operators have met union demands for a wage increase of $1 a day to $7. The southerners have raised their rate

Principle In Tax Bill To Be Retained

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—The House ways and means committee, rejecting a treasury proposal, voted today to retain the "average earnings" principle in the excess profits tax system.

The action was the first taken by the committee since it voted six weeks ago to follow the treasury recommendation of a $3,500,000,000 goal for new taxes.

In connection with its proposal for raising this additional revenue, the treasury urged the committee to base future collection of excess profits solely on a ratio of profits to invested capital, with 10 per cent as the maximum any corporation might be allowed without being subject to the levy.

Thursday Is Deadline For Summer Students

No more students will be admitted to the summer session of Lubbock public schools after Thursday morning, R. W. Mathews, principal, said today. Registration in the high school had totaled 176 at noon today and there were 28 students enrolled in Junior high work.

Classes started Monday and will continue through July 18 with July 4 and 5 as holidays, Mathews said. Classes will be conducted six days a week.

Of the students enrolled, 23 were in a special home making class.

Wichita Falls Area Hit By High Water

WICHITA FALLS, June 4 — The rain-swollen waters of the Wichita river and Holliday creek seeped into houses in lowland areas and caused the evacuation of 40 families last night.

Cloudbursts along Beaver creek in the Electra district caused the river to rise. A two-foot flow over the spillway of Lake Wichita swelled Holliday creek. The overflowing river forced the creek to back up and burst its banks.

Former German Kaiser Is Claimed By Death

(By The Associated Press)

BERLIN, June 4—Former Kaiser Wilhelm II of imperial Germany died today at his exile estate of Doorn in the quiet backwash of a new German conquest almost 23 years after he fled from the crumbling failure of his own European war plan.

DNB, German official news agency, reported from Amsterdam that the 82-year-old, white-bearded former emperor died at 11:30 A. M. (4:30 A. M., EST) in a sudden relapse of an illness which brought members of his family to his bedside last week.

An intestinal disorder, complicated at the last by a lung emboly, caused his death.

Even in death, the "old man of Doorn" is not to return to the land he once ruled.

Services Set Monday

He is to be buried at Doorn next Monday but, on the orders of Adolf Hitler, a military funeral with full honors is to be accorded imperial Germany's last emperor.

The German high command has taken full charge of the military phase of the funeral, a token, perhaps, that reconciliation between the fuehrer and the former emperor had been complete

Curb On Pictures Of Defense Work Sought By Knox

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 4—Secretary Knox asked Congress today to prohibit "all photographs or sketches of national defense centers or objects anywhere, and said Japanese agents were taking such pictures.

The secretary of the navy testified at a closed session of the Senate naval affairs committee in favor of legislation that would impose penalties of $500 and six months imprisonment for taking photographs of any vessel, yard, aircraft, or national defense center or object anywhere, specifically including the Philippine islands.

Already Busy

"This is really very mild and it's necessary," Secretary Knox told reporters. "Pictures innocently taken might be used by an unfriendly power."

A reporter suggested that the proposed law might curb some Japanese camera users.

"They are taking pictures right now," the secretary said.

Exact Figures Unknown

Discussing the American naval patrol expansion, the secretary said today that the navy had been unable to determine yet whether expansion of the system had substantially reduced the effectiveness of German submarine operations.

Knox said the Germans were claiming a tremendous number of sinkings while the British have contended the true figures were much less. He added, "hitherto the British have generally been right."

Knox added the explanation that "we haven't had time yet to tell just what the results are" of expansion of the United States patrol.

Extension of U. S. Atlantic operations has been under way for many months. Last week it received new impetus from President Roosevelt, who declared that whatever methods necessary would be taken to assure delivery of American munitions to Britain.

RAF IS ACTIVE

FOLKESTONE, England, June 4 (AP)—The RAF was believed to have carried out a series of heavy daylight raids on the French coast today, with Boulogne one of the main targets. Several times the rumble of loud explosions was heard across the strait of Dover, which was shrouded in mist. Ground on the British side of the English channel was shaken.

NAVY TAKES OVER

Deanna Asked Not To Aid The British

(By The United Press)

ROME, June 4—The newspaper Popolo D'Italia of Milan, appealed to Motion Picture Actress Deanna Durbin not to aid the British.

"Dearest Deanna," the newspaper said. "In the past we always had a soft place in our heart for you. However, today we fear that you, like the remainder of American youth, are controlled by the president and perhaps tomorrow will see fine American youth marching into battle in defense of Britain.

"To be able to gnaw the Axis, steel tough jaws are necessary and not rosy ones used to chewing gum. If you only knew how good and beautiful are the children of Rome and Berlin and how much poetry there is in the youth of Europe, then you wouldn't listen to your and our enemies."

Solons Causing O'Daniel Grief

(By The United Press)

Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, fishing for adjournment of the Texas legislature before he goes campaigning, had got a promising nibble today but still hadn't caught anything.

The lawmakers — especially those in the House—were proving that their motives in endorsing O'Daniel unanimously to succeed the late U. S. Sen. Morris Sheppard were not quite simon pure.

The governor knew this; he charged that they sought in Shanghai him "out of Texas politics and into Washington."

New York Representative Dies After Answering House Attack

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Rep. Michael M. Edelstein (D-NY) died in the House lobby today after answering a speech by Rep. John M. Rankin (D-Miss) who had charged that "Wall Street bankers and international Jews" were trying to plunge America into the war.

Edelstein, obtaining unanimous consent of the House to reply to Rankin, had "deplored his mention of our Jewish brethren."

He left the House floor and entered the lobby. As he was talking with a friend he "threw up his arms and suddenly collapsed," according to Rep. George Bender (R-Ohio) who was standing near.

He was pronounced dead of a heart attack by Dr. George W. Calver, capitol physician.

Rep. Samuel Dickstein (D-NY) took the floor at the completion of a quorum call that followed Edelstein's last address to the House.

Nazis Say English Wounds "Bleeding Allies To Death"

(By The Associated Press)

Egypt's cabinet resigned late today, amid fears of Axis invasion, and British warplanes bombed and machine-gunned the oil depot at nearby Beirut, Lebanon, in what may have been the opening blow in the next major campaign of the war.

Authoritative quarters in Cairo said the Egyptian cabinet shakeup was prompted by the "present grave circumstances" involving the belief that a German thrust into the rich valley of the Nile may be imminent.

Answers Public's Demands

It was said the present threat was considered far more serious than that of last autumn, when Marshal Rodolfo Graziani's Italian legions knifed some 80 miles into Egypt from Libya.

A terse announcement by British Middle East headquarters told of the RAF's attack on Beirut.

"A petrol dump at Beirut in Syria was bombed and machine-gunned by our aircraft," it said.

The British public had been clamoring for action.

France Stands "Ready"

Simultaneously, authoritative quarters in London said Britain had now taken "necessary precautions in regard to Syria"—neighboring French colony in the Middle East—and imperial headquarters at Cairo announced that British troops had occupied Mosul, the center of Iraq's rich oil fields.

As the war momentarily threatened to boil over into this new theater in the eastern Mediterranean, the Syrian high command declared that the army of the Levant was ready to defend its territory against any attacks.

In Berlin, a Nazi spokesman said France had taken "certain protective measures" along the borders of some of her colonial possessions—an evident reference to Syria and Lebanon.

Reservoirs Destroyed

Reports reaching Vichy, the French capital, said British planes this morning attacked Beirut, blowing up reservoirs and bombing the oil depot there.

In the background of the war, Germany's former Kaiser Wilhelm II died in his Dutch exile at Doorn even as Germans under the swastika regime of Adolf Hitler declared that Britain was "bleeding to death" from wounds in her lifelines across the sea.

The Nazi claim that England was "bleeding to death"—based on an assertion that half Britain's

Lamesans Visit Lubbock Today

There were some missed connections and Mayor Carl E. Slaton didn't get to make his welcoming speech, but that did not keep a whooping delegation of cowboy-costumed boosters from Lamesa from telling Lubbock this morning that the biggest of all Lamesa rodeos is to be staged there June 10 and 11.

Plans for greeting and welcoming the nearly 100 Lamesans who were clad in western costumes miss-fired because of a misunderstanding as to the highway over which the visitors were to arrive.

Came From Slaton

While a chamber of commerce committee waited on the Lamesa highway due south of the city, the good will motorcade drove into Lubbock from Slaton, where a program had been presented a short while before. Members of the chamber of commerce welcoming committee were H. W. Wylie, Charles E. Smith, J. Ray Dickey, Freelan Groce and Dr. I. E. Barr of the chamber staff.

However, the Lamesans went ahead as though nothing had happened. Escorted by highway patroimen and motorcycle police and led by their sound truck, members

The Better Homes Garden club met at the home of Mrs. O. A. Woody, 2806 Twentieth street, Tuesday afternoon to make a tour of five gardens, ending at the home of Mrs. Belverd Needles, 1807 Eighth street, for a business session and refreshments. Mrs. J. S. Johnson, president of the Lubbock Garden club, was a special guest.

For Mrs. Carter

Mrs. R. J. Carter, who was Miss Oline Bates before her recent marriage, was honored Tuesday morning when Mrs. Mark E. Schwab entertained with a breakfast and miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. F. R. Friend, 2005 Broadway. There were 22 guests.

The long table was centered with an arrangement of white carnations and bridal wreath. Sweetpeas were plate favors. Place cards were pink slippers filled with forget-me-nots.

Melon ball cocktails, scrambled eggs and crisp bacon, plain and cinnamon rolls and coffee were served.

To Visit Daughter

Mrs. Christine Hall of 1627 Tenth street left early this week for a vacation to Chicago, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and New York City with return by way of Washington, D. C. in New York she will visit her daughter, Mrs. Elton Plowman, and Mr. Plowman who are studying voice and piano.

Misses Nannie Margaret and Ruth Overton, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. M. C. Overton, 1808 Broadway, have gone to New York and other eastern points to spend a month. They will return the southern route. In Clement Yard

The W. P. Clement home at 2606 Twentieth street was the first yard visited by the Better Homes Garden club Tuesday afternoon. Of special interest were the lilies, the Nellie Perkins rose that climbed over the back fence and the poplars that were in the background.

A natural fish pond in which water lilies were floating and a well built barbecue pit and shrubs that made an attractive outdoor living room were noted at the home of Mrs. J. E. Stokes, 3601 Twenty-second street.

The next place of interest was the Floyd Beall home, 2607 Twenty-first street, where deep red roses were climbing over the garage, wisteria was in bloom and a weeping willow tree hung its branches.

A century plant, already in bud, was inspected at the home of Mrs. Roberta Doughtie, 2314 Sixteenth street. Her pansies, larkspur and delphinium were a riot of color.

The large trees were the topic of conversation when the group arrived at the home of Mrs. Needles. Her most unusual blooming plants were black pansies.

Plan Garden Party

We The Women

BY RUTH MILLETT

The government fully realizes the importance of "home morale" to the success of national defense.

It is fully as important, Uncle Sam figures, to have parents "with him" in the operation of selective service as to have young men of draft age willing to do their part in their country's defense.

Well, what can you say to a modern mother who is finding it hard to reconcile herself to her son's being taken into the army—contrary to every plan she had for his immediate future?

You can point out that army training will undoubtedly be a fine thing for him physically.

You can point out that army discipline may also have a strengthening effect upon his character and personality. You can search for, and probably find, half a dozen other ways in which a young man is likely to benefit from army training.

SOME SADNESS, FEAR, REGRET

But all those arguments are going to seem pretty weak to a mother who is taking the draft hard. She'll have an answer for every one of them.

Suppose you stop trying to appeal to the instinct of self-interest—which we do today in all things, following the salesmanship line, "Sell the customer on the idea that he will benefit from the deal"—and get right down and use some old-fashioned words like duty, courage and honor.

Perhaps you would get somewhere if you spoke quite frankly in this manner:

"Yes, it is too bad that your son, for whom you have worked, planned, and perhaps sacrificed, should have his life's work either postponed or interrupted at this time.

"You have every right to regret the necessity for it. But you MUST see the necessity. You must see that if he is to live his adult life in the kind of world you want him to live in—a world in which people are human beings and have the rights of human beings—he and thousands of other healthy, young men must be prepared to defend that world.

"Probably no mother in the world sees her son put on the uniform of his country—with all that it implies—without feeling some regret, some fear, some sadness.

IT'S THE JOB OF A GOOD MOTHER

"But overcoming her fears and apprehensions are part of the job of being a mother. It has never been too difficult a self-imposed task for you before, and it must not be now."

That kind of talk, I think, mothers would neither resent nor find meaningless. For it is the attitude great numbers of them take right now.

It is bound to be the attitude, as soon as they have had time to straighten out their thinking, of all good mothers who are also good Americans.

Couple Is To Wed At Home

Miss Evelyn Gregory, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Gregory, and Bill Anderson, son of Mrs. W. N. Anderson of Pampa, will be united in marriage tonight at 7 o'clock at a ceremony in the garden at the home of the bride's parents west of Lubbock.

Immediately following the reception the couple will leave for a trip to Colorado. They are to be at home in Pampa where Mr. Anderson is a member of the high school faculty.

Service Read In Nall Home

Miss Winiford Casey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Casey of Hermleigh, and Carl Nall, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Nall of Lockney, were married Sunday morning at 9 o'clock at the home of the bridegroom's brother, Kline Nall, 2122 Twenty-seventh street. E. Gaston Collins of the Broadway Church of Christ read the ceremony.

Baskets of babydoll roses, larkspur, Queen Anne's lace and fern were at either side of the fireplace. Roses and other spring flowers decorated the house.

Kline Nall, accompanied by Mrs. Elton Griffith, sang "I Love You Truly." Mrs. Griffith played Lohengrin's "Bridal Chorus" for the processional.

To Live Here

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, James Casey, wore a light blue alpaca redingote suit and hat with navy and white accessories. Her corsage was a pale pink carnations. For "something old" the bride wore a necklace that belonged to her mother.

Miss Ruth Gillespie of Crosbyton was the only attendant. She wore an eggshell and tan colored ensemble with a corsage of white larkspur and baby breath. G. T. Meriweather of Lockney was best man.

Mrs. Nall is a graduate of Hermleigh High school and is a junior home economics student at Texas Technological college. Mr. Nall is a graduate of Lockney High school and is a junior agricultural major at the college. The couple will be at home here and plan to continue their studies.

The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Nall of Lockney, James Casey of Hermleigh, Roger K. Owen of Vernon, Leland Turner of Lockney, Hall Nall of Lockney, Orba Miller of Floydada and Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Allen and daughter of Amarillo.

United States Still Far Behind In Race For World Air Supremacy

Forces Above 9,000 Mark

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the third in a series of five stories dealing with the United States' preparedness program. Today's story, from facts compiled by the United Press Washington staff, is about the air forces.)

BY SANDOR S. KLEIN
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 4—Uncle Sam's army, navy and marine corps combined have approximately 9,400 aircraft, including trainers. A year ago the figure was 5,000.

Approximately 6,000 are army craft. The navy had 3,476 aircraft on hand May 1.

Only a small percentage are of the most modern combat types. Most of them lack armor protection and sufficient machine guns and aerial cannon. Production of the latest models did not begin until early this year, and the bulk of those produced were shipped to Britain. New-type four-engined bombers and interceptors are considered the equal or superior of any abroad.

Pilot Forces Increasing

Breakdown by types was not available but it was estimated that about 2,000 of the army craft are trainers. Of the navy's total, 2,542 were listed as service craft, including trainers; 213 as obsolescent; 352 obsolete; 32 experimental; 337 reserve.

The army air corps has placed orders for approximately 21,600 planes. Congress has been asked for an additional $2,790,000,000 for approximately 13,000 more army planes, of which several thousand will be long-range bombers.

The army has about 8,500 pilots against 3,322 a year ago; the navy 4,500 against 2,900.

The army air corps is working toward a training goal of 30,000 pilots per year. A year ago, the army was training fewer than 500 pilots a month. The pace was stepped up until 1,000 prospects entered its schools in March. Despite high standards required, applicants so far have outrun army facilities. With expansion of facilities now, the army is making a special drive to interest men being graduated from college this month.

Present navy pilot output is 200 a month and fast approaching 500. The navy believes that after January its training program will supply a pilot reserve ahead of the 15,000 planes it hopes to have by July 1, 1943.

Some At War Strength

At several coastal points, some air corps combat units are at war strength in numbers of planes and men.

The army air corps is spending $81,321,000 for expansion of its fields and schools and construction of dozens of new ones. Many have been completed.

Gas Showing Is Made By Test

WHITEFACE, June 4 (Special)—An excellent gas showing was reported here Tuesday in the Dela Slaughter-Wright wildcat test near Whiteface.

The well was being swabbed late Tuesday and there were rainbows of oil, it was reported. The test was being given an acidizing treatment that night, and whether it is to be a producer probably will be known today, it was said.

Casing was set to test 43 feet of lime, from 4,940 to 4,983 feet.

The well is in the northeast of labor 12, league 60, Martin county school land, just 2.2 miles south of the J. E. Alexander addition to Whiteface. It is on the very edge of Slaughter field.

May Drill More Wells

Original drilling block was 2,100 acres, but since casing was set, an additional 2,000 acres have been acquired offsetting the block from the Wrights, by John T. O'Neal of Lubbock and G. W. Wheeler of San Antonio, operators and owners.

A spudder was moved onto the well Monday night after the rotary crews finished drilling the cement plug. Swabbing was being completed late today.

If this well is a producer, at least 50 more wells will be required to be drilled in order to protect the offset rules and regulations, it was pointed out here. The well is about three miles ahead of production and is considered an important outpost.

Depending on the temperature, water exists as gas, liquid, and solid.

Post Expects Crowds For Rodeo Programs

POST, June 4—More than five thousand West Texas and New Mexico visitors are expected here Friday and Saturday to join Garza county residents in seeing Post's two-day non-professional rodeo.

Post has been in readiness for the big celebration since Saturday when Post Stampede officials announced that more than $3,000 had been spent on permanent improvements at the grounds, including the building of 4,000 additional seats.

Prizes Total $1,300

The Post Stampede, Inc., sponsor of the annual entertainment, has posted more than $1,300 in cash prizes, two $115 saddles and other merchandise prizes, for the hundred or more contestants who will participate in the various events.

There will be five major events, cowgirl sponsor's contest, calf roping, wild cow milking, bronc and steer riding.

Parades Planned

Besides the four exciting rodeo performances, a colorful and spectacular street parade will be staged each day at 12:30 o'clock. Old time cowboys dances, the kind grandpa and grandma used to enjoy, will be held each night following the night performances. Mrs. Delaney Davis and her five-piece string-band of Spur will furnish music for the "shin-digs." The Spur square dance team will spice the dances with specialty numbers.

Afternoon performances begin at 2 o'clock, night shows at 8.

Indian Moslem To Attend School At Tech In Summer

Dark, turbaned Rajkuman Abdul Mehta, late of the Punjab in northern India and more recently of Colorado School of Mines and the University of Texas, has come to Lubbock to enroll for the six-weeks summer session in Texas Technological college.

Later he will return to the Colorado school to take a petroleum engineering degree in terms of a scholarship granted him by the Indian government. Afterward he hopes to return to his native country and become an oil man in his own right, India being rich in oil.

A scion of the family Mohyul, the 23-year-old Moslem also attended school at the University of Punjab, the University of Aligar, Muslam university and the Indian School of Mines.

He likes the freedom of America's institutions and the all-sweeping possibilities here for public education. His semi-native dress, even to hand-woven silk and gold sandals, and his preference for riding a bicycle set him apart from all others, his friends say.

Democrat Explains "Support" Of FDR

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP) — The war department bill empowering President Roosevelt to seize property for defense was introduced in the House by Chairman May (D-Ky) of the military committee, bearing the notation "by request."

"If I don't like 'em, I say 'by request,'" May told reporters. "If I like 'em I put 'em in straight."

Derailed by a rock placed on the track, the locomotive of the night train running from Los Andes to Los Vegas, in Chile, plunged into a telegraph pole, and train and passengers were saved.

Curb Is Sought On "Draft Property" Plan Asked By Roosevelt

Congress Will Have Control

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 4. — A well-supported move developed in the Senate today to put a congressional check on the wide powers asked by President Roosevelt to requisition private property "temporarily or permanently" for defense purposes.

Two influential senators, who asked to remain anonymous, said serious consideration was being given by administration leaders to suggestions that the property confiscation bill drawn by the war department be amended to make it simply a temporary measure under which the president could act only after Congress directed such action by passage of a resolution.

Would Satisfy Critics

This, these senators said, would meet the objection of some critics who have said that to permit the president to take over private property of all kinds for defense uses or for resale, as proposed in the bill, would be to give him dictatorial powers.

The president made it plain at his press conference yesterday that one of the prime objectives of the bill was to make it possible for the government to deal summarily with strikes or lockouts in defense industries by taking over the affected plants.

Practically Halt Strikes

Such action would put recalcitrant labor or management in the position of striking against the government, and Mr. Roosevelt said some time ago that this could not be done.

The property requisitioning legislation, the president said, grew partially out of the government's inability to act more forcefully to end the prolonged Allis-Chalmers strike in Milwaukee, which held up defense contracts.

Strikes Brewing

to $6.60. The UMW demands a uniform $7 scale, and its contract with the Northern group provides that a strike may be called if a lesser wage is paid elsewhere.

Two other major cases engaged board members.

A panel considered the threatened strike of United Auto Workers (CIO) at the Inglewood, Calif., plant of North American Aviation corporation, while another group continued its effort to induce 12,000 CIO lumberworkers in 52 Puget Sound logging camps and mills to return to work pending settlement of the dispute.

Lumber Facing Tie-Up

Day-long discussion yesterday with leaders of the International Woodworkers of America failed to produce a report of progress in the Pacific Northwest lumber tie-up. The IWA demands a 7½ cent hourly wage increase to 75 cents an hour, vacations with pay, and union hiring hall.

Pending outcome of the other mediation effort, the UAW postponed a strike set for today at the North American plant, but reserved to its negotiating committee the power to call a walkout later. Demands include a blanket ten-cent hourly wage increase for all employes and an increase in minimum wages from 50 to 75 cents. Current average wages have not been disclosed.

Developments Watched

Defense officials meanwhile watched apprehensively two new developments in the steel industry, the sudden walkout of 8,000 men at the Great Lakes Steel company at Detroit last night and a threatened general strike at midnight Thursday of drivers of steel trucks in Ohio, Indiana and Michigan.

At San Diego, Calif., the AFL International Association of Machinists, aircraft local 1125, decided to vote next Tuesday on a possible strike at Consolidated Aircraft corporation which holds $100,000,000 in defense orders.

mediately suitable personnel for inspectors. The instructions specified that the men must be "of highest integrity" and selected for their knowledge of inspection practices, the insurance field and industrial engineering.

Power Extensive

Officials specified that the main duties of the new inspectors will be to protect both private and government plants, installations and equipment. They will have power to check the physical features of plants, supervise fire and guard systems, and control the plants' own guard forces.

Officials said that one of the major duties will be to see that proper arrangements have been made to combat fires and other damage whether caused by accident or saboteurs.

They emphasized that the Federal Bureau of Investigation will continue to handle sabotage cases, and that the army's program does not represent any intrusion into this field.

The new agency will have control of personnel working in plants to such an extent that identification badges will be required and the inspectors will be empowered to look into the background of workers.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, June 4 (AP) — After chalking up gains of more than a cent per bushel, wheat prices today lost all of the advance during the last hour.

The setback was due to profit taking, attracted by an upturn of 5 to 8 cents Monday and selling touched off by outstanding weakness of soybeans. Earlier in the session mill buying helped to lift prices and there were reports from the Southwest that rain had flattened wheat and given rise to fear of rust spread. Flour business so far this week was reported on a good scale and many dealers were showing concern because of uncertainty as to how much "free" grain will be available in the commercial trade due to the loan and marketing quota program.

Wheat closed unchanged to ⅝ lower compared with yesterday, July 97⅞-98, September 99-99⅛; corn ⅛-¼ down, July 73¾, September 74⅝; oats unchanged to ⅛ higher. Soybeans finished 1⅛-1⅝ lower, being weakened by reports of increased plantings in some areas.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, June 4 (AP)—Demand for grain on the Fort Worth market today was slow.

Stock Market

MARKET STEADY, SLOW

NEW YORK, June 4 (AP)—Shares representing makers of aircraft and other defense materials received sufficient buying support today to steady the whole market.

Trading was slow, however, and the best gains rarely ran above a major fraction while declines were of even lesser extent. Transactions totaled about 400,000 shares.

Holding a firm tone through most of the day were Douglas, United Aircraft, Boeing, Caterpillar, International Harvester, Dupont, Dow Chemical, Eastman, Savage Arms, Bethlehem and American Telephone. Less favored were U. S. Rubber, Cerro De Pasco, Kennecott, Sears Roebuck and Chrysler.

Bonds were irregular. Commodities, with the major exception of hides, advanced. At Chicago, after early strength, wheat closed unchanged to ¾ cent a bushel lower and corn ended ¼ to ⅝ cent down. Cotton was 10 to 35 cents a bale ahead in the final hour.

Cooperation With Government In Oil Emergency Is Seen As Way To Avoid Federal Control

By RAY NEUMANN
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, June 4. (AP)—While the production end of the oil industry admittedly was in healthy condition, distribution and other perplexing problems tinged the future gloomily for some operators today.

A shaft of optimism pierced the picture as member Jerry Sadler of the Texas railroad commission, which regulates the industry in the biggest producing state, expressed the view appointment of Secretary Harold Ickes as oil coordinator eliminated possibility of federal control.

Tankers Shortage Watched

Meanwhile, the Texas Senate refused to clear a shadow over proration by turning down recent efforts to act on House-approved bills, one of which would amend the law toward curtailing of possible selective crude buying and the other simply extending current statutes two years. The law expires Sept. 1.

Federal government requisitioning of tankers for aid to Britain continued to worry oil men who foresaw a possible gasoline shortage on the Eastern seaboard. Proposals of construction of new pipelines were given thought.

Could Increase Output

As oil leaders repeatedly have pointed out, a tremendous supply of crude could be released for any civilian or military emergency simply by turning valves which are holding down production within market demand in Texas.

Regarding the appointment by President Roosevelt of Ickes as federal oil coordinator, Sadler asserted he believed criticism was unwarranted.

"The responsibility rests solely upon wholehearted cooperation between the various state oil regulatory bodies and oil men with the federal government," the Texas commissioner said. "If Texas oil men and the railroad commission chart a cooperative course with the administration, it will go a long way toward forever avoiding direct federal control."

Night Baseball Ban

said. "But the subject of night baseball will be thoroughly canvassed in these conferences, and we'll have a better line on the matter then. If the situation warrants, baseball owners may be asked to cooperate in curtailing night programs."

A United Press survey brought this general reaction from baseball officials:

Minor leagues—Judge W. G. Bramham, chief of the minor leagues—which depend largely upon night baseball to keep them going—said:

"I don't think there will be any voluntary cutting down." He said that any immediate lights-out order would force the minors to close shop.

Major leagues—"We haven't been asked yet, we're always willing to cooperate with the government, but there seems no necessity for discontinuing night baseball now."

U. S. Senate Race

to act, and its recent activities bodes no good for his senatorial ambitions.

When the House yesterday almost passed a bill which would extend run-offs to special elections, it was aiming at O'Daniel the most severe blow it could strike. Political students believe he has a better chance for a plurality than a majority victory.

Vetoes Overridden

Presence in the Senate race of three other powerful contenders—U. S. Reps. Lyndon Johnson and Martin Dies and State's Attorney General Gerald Mann—made it almost certain that a plurality would be enough to win.

The House also over-rode two O'Daniel vetoes, indicating why he wants to "sit on the lid" at Austin until he is rid of the legislature.

Mann, at Beaumont, radiated optimism about the June 28 results as his congressmen-opponents whirled through the hinterland on strenuous schedules.

Endorses Action

"I was the first candidate in this race April 13, I am the first candidate today and I'm going to be the first candidate when the votes are counted," Mann said.

Mann chose the oil country to endorse President Roosevelt's appointment of a coordinator for the oil industry as "all right—for now."

"But the moment the emergency ceases to exist, then the oil industry should be returned to state control where it rightfully belongs," he declared.

Special Venire For Trials Are Drawn

A 75-member special venire was drawn this morning to report June 23 for selection of a jury in 72nd district court to try either John Bush or Leon Brown, each of whom are charged with murder, or Oland Saint, charged with rape, said Burton S. Burks, district attorney.

A 60-member special venire had been drawn Monday and will report Monday for the Bill Pierce rape case, Burks said.

Two other persons charged with murder, Mrs. Elva Denny and a negro, Ivory James, had waived special venires, court officials said.

Gasless Sundays

acute during the autumn months.

To combat the approaching scarcity and to keep it from curtailing defense production, they recommended that rigid restrictions be imposed on the use of oil. Specifically, it was suggested that "gasless Sundays" be started, and that the temperature in oil-heated homes be kept five degrees lower this winter. No federal program has yet been formulated, however.

A full report on the situation was submitted yesterday to Secretary Ickes, defense petroleum coordinator, by a committee of the petroleum industry. The industry pledged its support "to any extent" in helping to meet the anticipated emergency.

Transportation Big Problem

Nationally, experts emphasized, there is plentiful oil production. The crux of the prospective problem, as the oil men's report noted, is transportation.

Both Ickes and the oil men agreed that there was urgent need for the construction of an oil pipe line from Louisiana and Texas to the New York-Pennsylvania area. The report said that a 24-inch line would move as much oil as 65 tankers. It would cost $70,000,000 and require a year or 15 months to build.

Lamesa Rodeo

of the party drove to the east side of Lubbock hotel. There, with W. E. "Bill" Boyd acting as master of ceremonies, the colorfully clad visitors presented a brief program and joined in announcing to the large crowd which gathered their plans for the rodeo. Cowboy musical numbers by the Sand Hill Cowboys, composed of R. F. and Gilbert Menix and Leon Bredemeyer, were a program feature.

Prizes Total $2,000

During the program, Boyd received a telegram from Ken Maynard, western screen star, that he would be unable to accept an invitation to attend the rodeo.

Boyd announced that more than $2,000 in cash prizes have been posted for the four rodeo performances scheduled during the two-day Lamesa celebration. Another feature, he said, will be dances each night. At one of them, an all-girl orchestra will play.

En route to Lubbock, the Lamesans presented programs in O'Donnell, Tahoka, Post, Southland and Slaton. On the itinerary after leaving Lubbock were Ropesville, Meadow, Brownfield, Seagraves and other points.

Another good will trip to points south of Lamesa is scheduled Thursday, Boyd said.

ment because of my grief," he said. "Every member has seen the long journey right here on the floor of the House, where a man sought to protect his people, his integrity and his Americanism. I don't recall ever having seen such an incident. It was unfortunate that this had to happen at a time when his services were so needed."

Tennessee Officers Take Homer Bivens

Sheriff Tom Abel this morning received a letter from Madisonville, Monroe county, Tennessee, asking that Homer Bivens of Lubbock be arrested for Tennessee authorities on a charge of arson—and in 10 minutes Bivens was in custody.

He signed a waiver of extradition and said he would accompany Tennessee officials who will be sent here by Sheriff W. O. Brakebill of Monroe county, Tenn., to accept custody.

Arrest was by Grady Harrist and Cap Moore, deputies sheriff.

Bivens is under two-year suspended sentence on a 99th district court burglary indictment, and had been released May 5, according to records of Burton S. Burks, district attorney. Earlier he had been charged with theft in county court, the sheriff's department said.

Mosquitoes Said Not Breeding In 'Lakes'

Complaints about mosquitoes in the southwest part of the city drew from city officials this morning the declaration that the "lakes" at Avenues Q and X are not to blame.

There is no water in any of the lakes to provide breeding places for mosquitoes, officials said.

They suggested that the probable source of the pests may be such places as puddles and tin cans in which water may have accumulated and stagnated. Another frequent source of mosquitoes, health officials said, are places where hydrant drippings may collect.

They expressed the opinion that the source of the trouble will be removed if all persons will see to it that haphazard collections of water are drained or that kerosene or crude oil is poured into puddles that cannot be drained so as to provide a surface coating.

Death Claims Former Kaiser

the Duchess of Brunswick; and his grandsons, Louis Ferdinand, Karl, and Franz Joseph, and the latter's wife, Princess Henrietta.

The first kaiserin died April 11, 1921, and was buried at Potsdam.

Successors Were Away

The former emperor's eldest living son and successor as head of the Hohenzollern family, Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm, had been at his father's side earlier, but left late last week when the former kaiser seemed to rally.

Second in the family line, Prince Louis Ferdinand, also was away from Doorn.

It was reported here that the former emperor talked for several hours yesterday afternoon with his major domo, but showed signs of a relapse later, approached a crisis at 8 p. m., and shortly thereafter lost consciousness.

Family Served British

The Hohenzollern flag flew at half-staff from castle Doorn.

The "old man of Doorn," who in his time commanded the world's mightiest military machine, regarded the ascendancy of Adolf Hitler to the leadership of the reich in 1933 as "a step in the right direction'"

When Hitler picked up the saber dropped in 1918 by the kaiser and turned it into terrifying blitzkrieg in 1939, 13 of Wilhelm's family were in Nazi uniform. One son, Prince Oscar of Prussia, 11 grandsons and one grandnephew of the Kaiser marched with the gray-green legions. Two of the grandsons since have fallen in battle. Another grandson was interned by the British.

Rumor on rumor had cropped up since 1933 that the Kaiser was actively "behind-the-scenes" of rejuvenated Germany and that he would one day triumphantly return to Berlin to claim his "divine right" as emperor. All such reports were quickly spiked.

"Old trees can not be transplanted," the Kaiser often remarked, seemingly content in his orderly life at the Doorn estate.

In the past decade his routine of breakfast at 8:45 a. m., morning wood-chopping, tea, correspondence period, lunch, nap, tea again, a walk, dinner and lights out at 10 p. m. had been disturbed by attacks of rheumatism or colds.

He followed the present war painstakingly as though he had a commanding position at the Nazi general headquarters. He marked the progress of the Nazi war machine by affixing tiny flags on detailed maps of European countries and by maintaining a remarkably complete index of naval and merchant shipping losses.

The only change at his estate was the substituting of Dutch guards by German soldiers after the four-day conquest of Holland last spring

Wilhelm II, once powerful emperor of Germany, died without realizing his dream of restoration of the Hohenzollern dynasty, but almost to the very end followed enthusiastically the news of the German army's successes.

After the conquest of the Netherlands in May, 1940, Wilhelm declined an offer to return to Germany, saying he was too old to be "transplanted."

Testimony In Damage Case To Be Finished

Plaintiff this morning completed presentation of direct evidence, including expert medical testimony by Dr. J. T. Krueger, who was being cross-examined late this morning.

Remainder of the jury panel was to report Thursday at 10 o'clock to consider another case.

Officials said Yarbrough was driver of an automobile that struck the rear of a car in which Mrs. S. W. Bivens, 25, of Lubbock route 1 was riding with her husband Tuesday night.

Mrs. Bivens was released from West Texas hospital after x-ray examination revealed no fractures.

The collision was at intersection of Slaton and Tahoka highways, near Lubbock's southeast limits.

The bond would bind Yarbrough over to await a 99th grand jury's action Sept. 1.

Egypt Fearing Axis Invasion

pre-war merchant fleet has been destroyed—would have rung familiarly in the old Kaiser's ears. He would have recalled an hour of false hope in his own heyday, in April, 1917, when the British were declared to have been "beaten to their knees" by the Kaiser's sink-on-sight U-boat campaign. Less than 17 months later, Wilhelm fled a beaten Germany to take refuge in Holland. He never went back.

Official Britain Silent

Recapitulating the 12-day battle of Crete, the Germans asserted that 12,000 more British and Greek troops had been captured on the blitz-ravaged Mediterranean island, making a total of 25,000.

The latest group of captives, it was said, included 8,000 British and 4,000 Greeks.

Previous British reports said 15,000 troops had been safely withdrawn from Crete, out of an original contingent of some 30,000.

Amid official silence, Britons waited for word that the war may already have flamed into action in France's Middle East colonies of Syria and Lebanon.

Cabinet Ministcr Lord Beaverbrook's newspaper, the London Evening Standard, declared British troops should occupy Syria at once — if necessary for the defense of Palestine and Cyprus — and demanded:

"Are we afraid of war with France? It would be better if we saw the issue as clearly as Admiral Darlan (French vice premier)."

The newspaper asserted that Darlan, bitter foe of England, had offered Syria to Germany as payment in his "betrayal on the instalment plan"

The British press and public alike demanded that Britain "act boldly and stop placating Vichy."

In the still raging "battle of the lakes" in Ethiopia, the British announced the capture of 17,000 more prisoners, including 5,872 Italians, along with 14 tanks, 700 cars and 85 guns.

The lake region is in south central Ethiopia, where scattered remnants of the Duke of Aosta's Fascist armies have been holding out for several weeks.

Tax Refunds

ity and the remission measure was founded on claims every county has suffered from floods and drouths.

Money sent back to county coffers could be used for variety of purposes in addition to flood and soil erosion prevention.

The Senate's vote on engrossing the proration bill was 23 ayes and 8 noes. It refused, 21 ayes and 10 noes, to suspend the rules to allow final consideration.

Controversy developed over an amendment by Senator Weaver Moore of Houston, who sought to provide that if a field produced so little oil physical waste resulted the allowable must be increased.

Already in the bill was a provision that if a field produces so much oil physical waste resulted, the production must be reduced.

Moore said his amendment would "give the independent operator in Texas the right to survive, the right to protect his property."

The amendment was defeated, 12 ayes and 19 noes.

A similar bill passed by the last legislature was invalidated by the state supreme court on grounds it did not specify the calamities for which tax remissions were intended.

still running the planning for aluminum supplies."

The witness said he thought mistakes had been made but added that planning had to be done from scratch.

May said that defense production would have to be stepped up from the $1,100,000,000 cash outlay in April to $1,500,000,000 monthly in the next three months, including June, and $2,000,000,000 monthly in the last four months of the year to reach the $17,300,000,000 expenditure goal for the calendar year. He said the OPM had scheduled cash outlays of $22,400,000,000 in 1942.

"Continuously our sights have been too low for the job we are tackling," May declared.

American Merchantmen May Take Over British Shipping Routes

Agreement For Service Made

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 4 — An agreement for American merchantmen to take over all British shipping routes from the United States and Canada to Australia and New Zealand was regarded here today as the probable forerunner of a complete British withdrawal from maritime activities outside the war zone.

Such a withdrawal, with United States vessels taking over the abandoned routes, long has been considered likely, but the first formal action did not come until late yesterday.

Releases Dozen Vessels

In a brief formal announcement, the maritime commission reported the agreement and said that a dozen British vessels would be released for Great Britain's war effort.

The agreement was interpreted in some official circles here as further evidence of Britain's acute need for cargo tonnage in the battle of her ocean life-lines. The expectation was that British ensign ships in the South American trade would soon follow.

Disclosures Made

The maritime commission's announcement capped a day that saw various aspects of Britain's lifeline battle figure prominently in capital developments.

One provocative disclosure was that "a number" of the commisson's new cargo vessels had already been converted into aircraft carriers. John J. Dempsey, a member of the commission, gave the information to a Senate committee investigating the defense program.

He also said that merchant ship deliveries were expected to reach the one-a-day rate by November. He gave the number of vessels now under construction as 746.

Recreation Project Is To Begin Shortly

The summer parks recreation project will be started in operation within the next few days, according to information given this morning by officials of the Works Projects administration and members of the recreation council of the city parks board.

The project is operated jointly by the city and the WPA, with the city paying costs of materials and the WPA the salaries of project employes, officials explained.

Miss Imogene Douglas, who replaced Mrs. John W. Wilson, as superintendent of the project last week, has reported for duty and is completing preparations for the start of the program, officials said. Miss Douglas has been superintendent of a similar project in Plainview the past two years.

Details of the program for the summer are to be discussed at an early meeting of WPA officials and members of the recreation council, officials said. The WPA officials include Miss Evelyn Richter, district supervisor of professional and service projects; Ed Strout, district director of recreation projects, and Miss Douglas. Members of the recreation council are W. H. Evans, chairman, and W. O. Daniels, H. C. Pender, Marion Sanford and W. G. Alderson.

Sanitation Course's Registration Is Set

Registration for the national defense course in community and camp sanitation, which replaces the annual public health workers and sanitation officers course at Texas Technological college, will be conducted Thursday, J. H. Murdough, chairman of the committee planning the course, said this morning.

Ten persons have notified Murdough they plan to attend and others are expected to register. Persons may register with C. G. Decker in room 108 of the engineering building between 8 and 5 o'clock Thursday.

Jesse Q. Sealey, assistant professor of biology, will have charge of instruction the first term, from Thursday to July 14, and Gordon W. Parkhill, associate professor in civil engineering, will be the instructor in charge the second term, July 15 to Aug. 22.

The course will be comprised of lectures, laboratory work, demonstrations and field inspections. Instruction will be by Tech faculty members, visiting lecturers and members of the state health department. Class work will open Friday.

The course will be offered for public health and lay personnel in community and army camp sanitation.

New City Well Said "Above The Average"

A recently completed city water well northwest of the city limits has tested for a production of approximately 600 gallons a minute, or between 850,000 and 900,000 gallons per day, according to information given at the city hall this morning.

The test has been in progress for approximately 72 hours, and marks the well as "above average" as compared with the 15 from which the Lubbock water supply is obtained.

The well is approximately one-half mile beyond any in that direction now included in the city system and is within the general area where three other wells are planned as needed. Plans are to tie an aggregate of five or six wells, including those to be drilled, into a large line costing around $50,000 which will connect with a 5,000,000-gallon surface reservoir now under construction.

6 CARS DIED IN OVERHEATED DEATH VALLEY TO PROVE THAT YOURS CAN LIVE LONG

New Oil a Life-Giver. 5-Quart Fill—None Added —Lasted 13,398 Miles

—more than Twice the mileage averaged by 5 other big-name oils in fiendish Destruction Test ...Impartial...Certified THIRST killed gold-feverish Forty-Niners in Death Valley. You can stand there today on our Hemisphere's bottom, 279 feet below sea level. And some of the worst heat on U. S. Weather Bureau records will be drying you up.

...America's hotspot!...where 6 identical everyday cars scorched along, testing 6 different motor oils, till 6 new engines were junk. Every condition was the same for all. Qualified authorities eyed every move. Speed: 57 miles an hour for all. The Referee had bought 5 of the oils right off the market; millions know their names well. The other oil was decidedly new. And this new oil that authentically delivered more than twice the mileage averaged by the others is named

CONOCO Nth MOTOR OIL
Now on Sale here for Your Car

How could one fill of this popular-priced Conoco Nth oil keep lasting—without one added drop—for an official total of 13,398.8 miles? How could Conoco Nth oil outlast them all by 5,683 miles or more, even outlasting one "rival" by 8,268 miles!... And that's all Certified.

New Synthetic In Conoco Nth

You know of vitamin synthetics...man-made...replacing Nature's life-givers sacrificed in some modern food processing. Similarly, the latest refining methods steal life-giving elements from motor oils. But more than making up for that today—in popular-priced Conoco Nth oil—is Thialkene inhibitor...man-made. (Conoco Patent 2,218,132.) It inhibits or checks the effect of foul leftovers created by the normal engine explosions. Thus Conoco Nth stays more like its own good self...helps the engine keep fit—good way to save quarts.

A Triumph matching Conoco OIL-PLATING

Another wondrous synthetic—long in use under the famed Germ Processed oil patent—still makes Nth oil give your engine OIL-PLATING...lubricant that can't all quickly drain down from inner parts. Instead, it's able to stay plated up...on guard against wear in advance, while you're using Conoco Nth oil. In addition you get the latest life-giving aid that foiled Death Valley...that eclipsed other oils tested...that made one 5-quart fill of new Conoco Nth oil last 13,398 miles. Certified.

That's like a mad extreme—beyond the utmost allowed by authorities on the subject. You'd never make your own car stand such proving-ground torture. But you want as wide a margin of engine protection and oil economy as your money will buy this Summer, and Conoco Nth has nailed up plain evidence. Ask today for Conoco Nth at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Continental Oil Company—Pioneers in Bettering America's oil with Synthetics

IMPARTIAL
The 6 new cars were broken-in alike, after engines had been taken apart for the Referee, to check uniformity. All cars tuned alike. Same desert route for all. Handling evened up by alternating drivers. One 5-qt. fill per car and no more ...engines under lock.

CERTIFIED
I hereby certify that the Death Valley Test and related work were thoroughly and fairly conducted. Engine Destruction occurred in each case at the mileage stated.

Borger Invades City For Series Opener Tonight; Hubs Split Two With Pampa

Gold Sox Take Twin Victory Over Lamesa

The Borger Gassers come to town tonight for the opening game of their third series of the season with the Lubbock Hubbers.

The Hubbers haven't yet beaten the league champions of 1940 this season; they'll have three chances in this series to down the Gassers for the first time.

Leonard Heinz, Lubbock's leading pitcher at the moment, is slated to twirl for the Hubbers tonight. Heinz has won two of his three starts, and has pitched well every time out.

He's due to be opposed tonight by Milbert Vannoy, one of the many good pitchers on the Borger staff. Vannoy won once from the Hubbers the last time the Gassers visited Lubbock, stopping the Englemen with nine hits for a 9-5 decision.

Won Five, Lost One

Altogether, Vannoy has won five and lost one game this year.

In three times the Gassers and the Hubbers have played this season, the Gassers have won every start, taking a two-game series here and an abbreviated series at Borger, second game of which was rained out.

Last night the Pampa Oilers stopped the Hubber winning streak at four straight by winning the opening game of a doubleheader, 4 to 0, behind the five-hit twirling of Monty Montgomery.

And when the Oilers led, 6 to 2, with only an inning and a half to play in the second game, it looked as if the Hubbers had run into another losing streak.

But the Englemen rallied to score five runs in the home half of the sixth, the last two of them being batted in by Engle himself with a pinch single, and take a 7 to 6 lead they managed to hold through the first half of the final inning.

Huckabee Wins Nightcap

The surging Amarillo Gold Sox grabbed a double victory from Lamesa in games reminiscent of the style of baseball once familiar to WT-NM fans. The scores were 12 to 9 and 15 to 8.

The Loboes seemingly had the afternoon game all tucked away when they went into the ninth inning leading 8 to 5. But the power-crazy Sox proceeded to drive Bob Hicks from the mound with a three-run blast that tied the score with two out. Then they went on to score four more runs off little Hector Arroyo before he could get the third man out.

The second game was a reversal of the first. This time the Gold Sox built up a big lead in the early innings and held it throughout the game for the victory.

Buck Huckabee, the left-hander who used to pitch for Cooper High school, started for the Jonnardmen and twirled the first six innings. A Lamesa rally that produced four runs in the seventh chased him, but nevertheless he got credit for the victory.

Gassers Lose Again

The Borger Gassers took their second straight beating at the hands of the Wichita Falls Spudders, the two-hit pitching of southpaw Raymond Lucas providing a four to nothing victory margin.

Big Eddie Stevens, Big Spring's 16-year-old first baseman, hammered out two home runs, batted in five runs and otherwise conducted himself in a manner befitting a baseball hero as the Bombers downed Clovis, 5 to 3. Buck Schultz turned in a three-hitter for the victory, while the Bombers got six hits off Bill Nagle.

NEW YORK, June 4—Major league officials may stage a memorial to Lou Gehrig in connection with the Cleveland-Cincinnati exhibition game June 13 at Cooperstown's baseball shrine . . . Billy Conn has gone big time with a personal bodyguard—Detective Joe Becker of Pittsburgh. . . Next golf stop after the Open is the Mahoning Valley Open June 13, 14, 15 at Girard, Ohio . . . And Peter Willman, owner of the club, is putting up all the dough himself. Tip-off, he's a lefthander . . . Since Wes Ferrell took command the Leaksville (N. TO LOU GEHRIG

We know the late Hughy Keogh, one of the greatest sports scribes of his day, wouldn't mind if we lift the words he once penned to another great ball player and say through him:

"Good bye, old scout.
And once again, good-bye—
They called you out
And baseball wonders why."

THE PASSING SHOW

Gene Sarazen, at 39, is going back this summer to considerable tournament playing. He's hitting the ball easier than ever and his tee shots are going great . . . Phil Rizzuto is bragging that he loaned Joe DiMaggio a ten spot the other night. (Kid figures he's on the big time at last) . . . Tom Stidham, Marquette's new grid coach, is having a powerful lot of grief with those Milwaukee stop-and-go signals. Says he never saw anything like 'em in Norman, Okla. . . . The recent skid of the Indians into second place, after getting a country mile out in front, recalls that at the beginning of the season one of the Cleveland sports columnists had this to say in an open letter to the Tribe:

Surging Tide Of Popular Favor May Stamp PGA Champ No. 1 Man For Fort Worth Tourney

BY BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

FORT WORTH, June 4.—Byron Nelson, the likeable P. G. A. champion, is riding a rising tide of popular favor that appears ready to make him No. 1 choice for the U. S. Open golf championship about the time the first round gets started tomorrow morning.

Everywhere you go, whether you ask player, sideline expert or pure spectator, the name that almost invariably comes to their lips first is that of the long, lean Toledo pro who came up like a rocket from the caddie pen at Fort Worth's Glen Garden club.

The way Nelson was playing in practice at the Colonial club yesterday, when he and Lawson Little finished all-square with the "old masters," Gene Sarazen and Tommy Armour, he'll give anybody a good run for his money.

Playing To Course

On a course where drives have to be hooked, faded or strung out on a trolley wire, Nelson was doing just that. In addition he was smacking his long and short irons with authority.

Not so with Ben Hogan, who started out as co-favorite with Bryon in the betting books. Little Ben has been in the money 47 straight times since he missed out in the Open at Philadelphia in 1939, and even if off his feed should make it 48 straight here.

Hogan Needs Assurance

But he seems to lack mental assurance. The confidence which, when he's right, amounts almost to a swagger isn't there this time. Though he hasn't finished worse than a tie for sixth since Jan. 1, by his own calculations he's been in a slump since mid-March, and still hasn't got back to where he hits the ball with the conviction he knows it's going where he wants it to go.

There is, however, another Texan not to be overlooked. That's Ralph Guldahl, who learned the game in Dallas. Big Ralph had an even unhappier time than Hogan on the winter tour (Ben, after all, was top money winner.) Guldahl couldn't get his putts to drop and that failing crept on into the rest of his game.

Since then he's trimmed off about 15 pounds, and he's been at Colonial as long as any of the top-notchers, working hard and often in quiet. Monday, for instance, he shot a 67, three under par, but he wasn't telling even his best friends.

Links Champions Do Repeat!

Little Is All Set To Defend Open Title

By BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

FORT WORTH, June 4. — Having made an enviable habit of holding on to what he'd won as an amateur, 200-pound Lawson Little hopes to be able to do some more of the same when he steps out in the U. S. Open Golf championship on Thursday as defending titleholder.

Little, you will recall, won the U. S. and British amateur championships in 1934, then repeated in 1935, the only time it's ever been done. As an amateur, of course, he was far and away the best of the crop. But as a pro he's up against a little more rugged competition.

Chances Are Good

Still he thinks his chances should be as good as any other man's when the boys start shooting for keeps over the Colonial club course on Thursday morning.

In spite of high practice scores, from 74 to 77, Little feels quite content with his game. He's been hitting some fine golf shots and believes he's timing his practice so his game will be just about at its peak for the championship.

The two players he singles out as especially likely to do well here are little Paul Runyan and tall Byron Nelson—Runyan because of the accuracy that compensates for his lack of length, Nelson because he is among the best of the pros at placing tee shots either by hooks or fades.

Beaumont Takes Two From San Antonio

(By The Associated Press)

For a wonder, rain didn't seriously interfere with yesterday's Texas league schedule, but club owners, players and fans are going around with their fingers crossed.

Official statistics showed that through Monday night excessive moisture had caused the postponement of 53 games during 51 playing days, or more than one-fourth of the schedule.

Taking advantage of a hiatus between storms, the Beaumont Exporters took both ends of a doubleheader from the Missions at San Antonio, 3-2 and 6-0.

The Fort Worth Cats, playing at home, banged out 7-6 victory over the Tulsa Oilers, Shreveport took the visiting Houston Buffaloes, 7-1, and Oklahoma City was humbled 6-3 and 6-1 by the Rebels in a twin bill at Dallas.

Colonial Setup Just Another "Death Valley"

BY HARRY FERGUSON
United Press Sports Editor

FORT WORTH, June 4—A call went out today for volunteers to form a searching party for some unfortunate golfers lost in the wastes of "death valley."

"Death valley" is the cheerful name given to hole No. 5 on the Colonial club course where the National open golf championship will start tomorrow. All week survivors, wet and weary, have been straggling out of "death valley," bearing horrible tales of the fate that awaits any man who ventures there armed only with driver, putter and irons.

Is Crucial Hole

Your agent made a trip through "death valley," and, truly, it is enough to turn your hair white overnight. Hole No. 5 combines the worst features of the Johnstown flood, the forest primeval and the African trail that Stanley followed to find Livingston. I have seen several tough golf holes, but they look like pitch and putt affairs compared to this stretch of 469 yards. The only fair thing to do is to station Red Cross units along the fairway equipped with smelling salts, stretchers and life rafts to rescue players who hurl themselves into the Trinity river in despair.

The man who licks this hole probably will win the tournament. Each contestant who goes the full 72 holes has to face it four times, and any lucky guy who gets away with only 16 shots for the tournament on No. 5 ought to breeze in. It is ridiculously easy to take an eight or nine on it.

Hazards Are Plentiful

No. 5 has every hazard known to golf, except sand, and some new hazards, including man-eating chiggers that roam the rough ready to gobble up any golfer who strays too far from the safari.

It is 469 yards long, par 4 with a slight dog-leg to the right. The fairway is only about 35 yards in spots, and is as hard to hit from the tee as a mosquito in a dark bedroom. New grass is growing on the fairway and there are bare patches to give plenty of dirty lies for second shots. Beyond the fairway there is a stretch of rough on each side made out of something called Johnson grass. Each blade of it is a little vise that clamps around golf balls. Trees lie beyond the rough, ready to send slices and hooks bouncing in crazy directions. Along the right side of the fairway runs the Trinity river and on the left side is a swampy piece of land that will gobble any ball hit into it.

Terrors In Trinity

Unknown terrors lurk in the chocolate-colored Trinity river. Last evening a youngster killed a water moccasin on the bank, and for all any one knows the Loch Ness monster may be swimming to and fro in the murky waters, figuring on eating the first threesome that comes past tomorrow for breakfast.

The contestants are sufficiently frightened to consider using a No. 1 iron off the tee instead of a driver. By so doing, they would have a better chance of staying in the fairway and foiling the creatures that swim and crawl on the edge of "death valley."

And now if you will pardon me, I will go purchase an elephant gun and a harpoon with which to cover this tournament.

Householders in Eire could purchase only a quarter-ton of coal in March.

Lou Gehrig, Ib--Self-Made Monument

Final Services Are Read Over Great Sportsman As Admirers Nation Over Pay Respects

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 4.—The last sad sentences were recited over Lou Gehrig early today in a little vine-covered church around the corner from his home in the Bronx.

The wasted body of the great Yankee first baseman who died Monday night after a brave two-year fight against an unsolved disease rested in a handsome mahogany coffin banked by thousands of blooms as the Rev. Gerald Barry spoke the burial office of the Episcopal church.

There was no music and the ritual was at a minimum, conforming with the request of Mrs. Gehrig. Only those with invitations were admitted to the final rites. The public had expressed its sorrow last night in a line of men, women and children that wound past Lou's coffin before the altar for two hours.

To Cremate Body

Later today the body was to be cremated. Mrs. Gehrig had made no plans for disposal of the ashes, but there was to be nothing morbidly spectacular, such as strewing them over the Yankee stadium. Mrs. Gehrig and Lou's fond parents, long prepared for his death, wanted an end to the sorrowing.

Last night they stood for hours receiving the condolences of hundreds of persons prominent in baseball and public life, including Lou's closest associates, who hurried here by plane and train upon learning of his death. The grief of all of them was very real.

Ruth Shows Sadness

Babe Ruth, who preceded Gehrig in those famous Yankee batting orders, reached the little church last night just before dark. With him was Bill Klem, veteran National league empire.

Babe stood for a minute looking at his former teammate, whose handsome face showed only slight evidence of the disease that had paralyzed and wasted the rest of his body. Tears welled into Ruth's eyes and ran down his fat cheeks. He stumbled over into a corner and buried his face in his arms.

An attendant opened a door and took the Babe into an adjoining room until he had regained his composure. Then he brushed unsmiling through a hundred fans who had trooped with him to the door of the church and who met him as he came out another door. Even in death, someone remarked, Gehrig shared the spotlight with his famous teammate.

Brooklyn Still In Line, With Wyatt's Help

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

You look at the National league pitching averages today, at the record of John Whitlow Wyatt, and you wonder whether that song-writer didn't have the Tigers, the White Sox and the Indians in mind when he turned out that little thing about the "Three Blind Mice."

The lean chucker from Chickamauga is wearing the same right arm now as he wore back in the '30s. Yet, those three American league clubs all brushed him off. They wouldn't see his stuff for sour apples.

Sinks Cardinals

All that John Whitlow's doing is winning the whitewashing championship of the major leagues as he tosses those bewildering Brooklyn Dodgers to the top of the National league pile. He turned in a snappy six-hitter yesterday to sink the St. Louis Cardinals, 6-0. This not only put the Dodgers back up into a tie with the Cards for first place, but also marked the fourth time this year Whitey has dished out a dainty set of goose-eggs.

Tommy Hughes, the latest prize bit of bric-a-brac to pop up with the Phillies, turned in a one-hit job that mowed down the Chicago Cubs, 7-0.

Giants Halt Reds

Another youngster, Bob Carpenter, made even Bill Terry smile by serving up a five-hitter to give the Giants a 7-3 win over the Cincinnati Reds in a game marked by four homers.

Over in the American league, Steve Peek gave four runs to the Detroit Tigers in the first inning and then settled down to pitch a four-hit shutout the rest of the way. However, it was a case of locking the door after the mule got out and the Tigers trounced the New York Yankees, 4-2, behind Dizzy Trout's eight-hit effort.

The Pittsburgh Pirates used two hurlers to four for the Braves and won a free-for-all 9-5 affair. The Brownies and the Washington Senators both had their bull-pens working overtime under the arc-lights, in a game the home boys won, 14-12, by scoring nine runs in the fifth inning.

The Boston-Cleveland night game and the Philadelphia-Chicago day doings in the American league were rained out.

FIGHT ON TIME

PEIPING, North China. (AP)—It is against (Japanese) law to be on time in Peiping. Japanese police making a house-to-house search of the city smashed all clocks and watches which were found to be keeping Peiping standard time instead of the new Japanese time. New time coincides with Tokyo time.

Sarazen Swaps Autographs In Fort Worth With Ferry Pilot

FORT WORTH, June 4. (U.P.)—Gene Sarazen, two-time National Open champion and Tris Speaker, former outfield star of the Cleveland Indians, gave their autographs to a young man who approached them at lunch today.

"I never hoped to meet two such fellows as you at one time," he said, introducing himself as Bill Wilson.

"Are you a golf fan?" Sarazen asked.

"Not much," he replied. "I don't have time. I'm ferrying bombing planes to England and that takes up most of my time. I'm on my sixth trip now, taking off this afternoon."

"Just a minute," Sarazen yelled. "Give me your autograph." Wilson gave it to him.

New Legislative Regulations Designed To Improve Texas Traffic

Vital Changes Are Reviewed

By HUGH WILLIAMSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, June 4.—Smooth, fast and safe flow of traffic over Texas highways and city streets was the goal of the 47th legislature in passing a driver's license law, a measure requiring accident reporting, new speed regulations and legislation revising the drunk driving statutes.

All drivers will have to obtain new licenses. Dates for re-registration were staggered to prevent an unmanageable rush at the department of public safety. Here are the renewal dates:

Dates Announced

Numbers 1 to 450,000 expire December 31, 1941, and are renewable beginning Oct. 1, 1941; numbers 450,001 to 900,000 expire March 31, 1942, and may be renewed beginning Jan. 1, 1942; numbers 900,001 to 1,350,000 expire June 30, 1942, and are renewable April 1, 1942; numbers above 1,350,000 expire Dec. 1, 1942, and are renewable July 1, 1942.

Automobile operators will have to pay a fee for the first time; the legislature, after much haggling, agreed to a 50-cent charge for the two-year permit.

Chauffeur's licenses will cost $3 and commercial operator's licenses $1.

Examinations Severe

New applicants for licenses will be required to take examinations for their vision, understanding of signs in English, knowledge of traffic laws, mental and physical fitness to drive, including an actual demonstration of their ability to drive safely.

The department of public safety was empowered to suspend licenses of drivers responsible for an accident causing the death or personal injury of another or serious property damage, drivers guilty of habitual reckless operation of cars; and for other reasons.

Changes Are Made

Automatic suspension would follow conviction on charges of negligent homicide resulting from the operation of a motor vehicle, driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor or narcotic drugs, any offense punishable as a felony, hit-and-run driving or aggravated assault by means of a motor vehicle.

Change in the drunk-driving statute is that the first offense is now a misdemeanor, instead of a felony, as before.

Penalty for the first offense is now imprisonment in the county jail for not less than 10 days nor more than two years; a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $500, or both such fine and imprisonment.

Speed Limit Raised

For second and subsequent offenses the penalty is imprisonment in the penitentiary for not less than one year nor more than five years.

New speed laws raised the legal limit from 45 miles per hour to 60 miles during daytime and 55 miles an hour at night for cars; 45 miles an hour for trucks and 55 miles an hour for buses.

Attorney General Gerald Mann yesterday held the law unconstitutional, but a substitute measure has been offered to correct the error in the caption.

The limit in cities and towns was boosted from 20 to 30 miles an hour, with cities being given authority to depart from these figures in specified zones, the rate to be based on engineering and traffic investigation.

The accident reporting law requires that every person involved in a crash resulting in death, injury or property damage of $50 or more shall report the accident to the department of public safety within 48 hours.

Allison Paces Field In State Net Meet

AUSTIN, June 4 (AP)—Men's singles and doubles held the spotlight today in the Texas state tennis tournament as ace netters of the state clashed in afternoon matches. Consolation play was held during the morning.

Wilmer Allison of Austin, seeded No. 1, headed the field with a snug semi-final berth, the only player to advance that far. Quarter-finals were completed in yesterday's matches. Allison and George Ball of El Paso who is seeded No. 2, are favored to meet in the finals.

Heavy New Car Purchases Are Continued; No Surplus Seen

BY DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Automotive Editor

DETROIT, June 4—Heavy buying of new motor cars continues unabated with indications that the contra-seasonal trend will carry on through June and leave no surplus at the end of the model period.

Generally the closing weeks of a model season see a sharp tapering in demand on the theory that new models only a few weeks away are more desirable.

From present indications the new models scheduled for initial appearance around Aug. 1 will be no less desirable from any angle —construction, styling, roadability and riding qualities—but they are going to cost more and they certainly are not going to be any more plentiful at the start of the new model year.

Seemingly more important right now than any other consideration to the car buyer is that a scarcity of vehicles is virtually certain at the beginning of the industry's new year.

The exact amount of the increase in prices for 1941 models hinges at the moment on the extent to which the excise tax on automobiles is boosted in the forthcoming new bill expected to be ready for Congress in the next few weeks.

Current guesses are that barring additional labor troubles the nation's automobile assembly plants will turn out the scheduled 5,200,000 of its 1941 models by July 31 and that all of them will have been sold before next year's models are in dealers' hands.

Penalties Certain If Wheat Is Overplanted

Penalties must be paid by farmers who over-planted their allotted wheat acreage for 1941, according to statement here Tuesday by Walter Y. Wells, county administrator for the Agricultural Adjustment administration.

"There is no way for any man who is overplanted to get out of it," Wells added. "He will have to pay before he can get his marketing card."

Meanwhile, Wells explained, applications for 1941 parity have been sent to the state office and have been given tentative approval and forwarded to the disbursing office for payment. Parity will be 10 cents a bushel on the adjusted yield which is approximately eight bushels per acre. Checks are expected shortly.

Lubbock county's allotment for this crop was approximately 17,100 acres.

Final Figures Given On 1940 Cotton Crop

Texas' cotton crop of 1940 was 3,234,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight, according to revised estimates of the crop reporting board of the U. S. department of agriculture.

Production was on 3,873,000 acres estimated as of July 1, 1940 and a harvested acreage of 3,472,000, averaging 184 pounds of lint per acre. Revised acreage is only slightly below the 8,520,000 harvested in 1939 and compared with 8,784,000 in 1938 and 12,539,000 for 1937.

Acreage is the smallest harvested since 1905. Lint yield is above the 10-year average for 1929-38. Value was placed at $14,674,000, compared with $124,104,000 in 1939. Cottonseed production was estimated at $31,696,000, of which sales of cottonseed amounted to $24,364,000.

Per acre yields were above the average except for the North Plains district, known as district 1-N. The South Plains district, 2-N, the southeast and the extreme West Texas districts showed production above the average.

Argentina is asking its farmers not to increase their wheat acreage.

Tennessee Scene Of Maneuvers By Army

WITH THE ARMY IN TENNESSEE, June 4 (AP)—The fifth division — one of the army's nine streamlined fighting organizations — moved into the pivotal flank position today as 55,000 Seventh army corps troops swept northward in the Tennessee war games.

A supply organization of three combat teams, the Fifth division from Fort Custer, Mich., gave the 27th and 30th division several hours start and followed a battle plan that would put them on an eight-mile tableland "battlefield" about 50 miles from Nashville at about the same time.

The Fifth division is triangular in contrast to the "square" organization of the two others. It has three infantry regiments each coupled with a battalion of artillery and functioning always as a smaller but more closely coordinated unit.

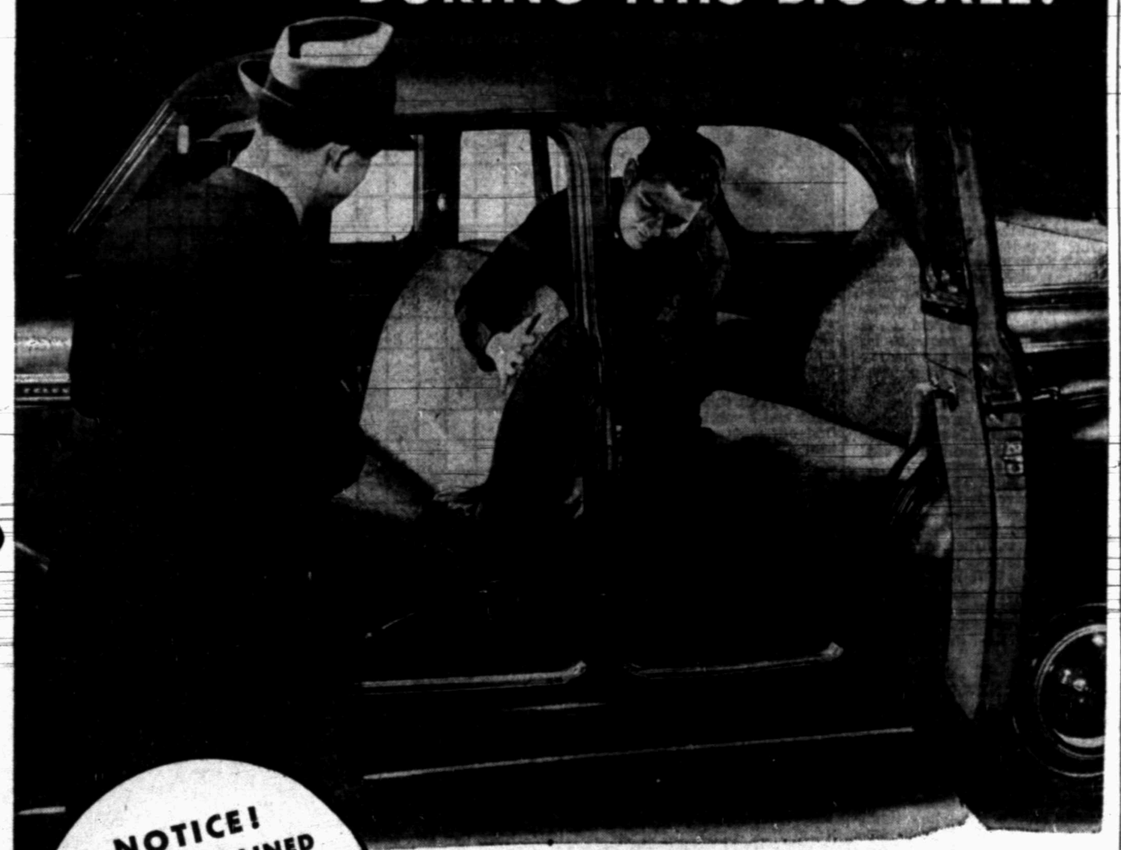

(A square division has four infantry regiments comprising two brigades and three artillery regiments forming a third brigade.)

Because it has only about two-thirds of the 1,400 vehicles it will have at full strength, the combat teams had to be shuffled the 15 miles into position. The "march" motorized division soldiers ride to position but dismount to fight.

But as a result of lack of full equipment, trucks had to be unloaded and returned for another combat team. The third was kept in reserve.

So even with shuttling, the entire movement was scheduled for only six hours during the afternoon.

ONE of the most active supporters of Congressman Lyndon Johnson's senatorial campaign told The Plainsman the other day:

"President Roosevelt will come to Texas about 10 or 12 days before the June 28 election, ostensibly to inspect the new U. S Navy base at Corpus Christi. But his principal reason for coming at this time is to plug for the election of Congressman Johnson."

This may or may not be true, but only time can prove it true or false.

THREE per cent doesn't seem like very much, but if our air technicians can reduce gasoline consumption of American long range bombing planes by that figure those same planes then will be able to carry more than a ton of additional death and destruction dealing bombs.

The American twin-motor bombers can now travel 8,000 miles without running out of gasoline.

Knock three per cent off the present gasoline consumption and the potential bomb-load goes up by 2,700 pounds.

Twenty-seven hundred pounds of explosive is lots of destructive force, particularly when it is super-imposed on the normal bomb capacity of these ships, which is greater than that of the planes of any other nation.

There are times when one wonders if the pursuit of happiness isn't closely analogous to chasing a phantom in a vacuum.

CONGRATULATIONS certainly are in order to West Texas State Teachers college, of Canyon, and to members of the Panhandle-Plains Historical society in connection with a recent WPA grant which paves the way for a $56,952 addition to the Panhandle-Plains museum.

One of the very finest institutions of our western country is Canyon's Panhandle-Plains museum, on the campus of West Texas State Teachers college. Begun a dozen or more years ago as a vision of forward looking people in the Panhandle, the museum today has a high rank among similar institutions over the Southwest. Construction of the new addition will almost double the size of the building and will draw additional thousands of visitors to other thousands which annually visit the shrine.

Success of the Panhandle-Plains museum should serve as a spur to those people of Lubbock and the South Plains who are endeavoring to build up a similar museum on the campus of Texas Technological college. Our start here admittedly is a small one, yet so was the start at Canyon. Backers of the local project doubtless sometimes become discouraged over the difficulties they face in attempting to complete our West Texas museum, but in all probabilities, backers of the Panhandle-Plains museum at Canyon likewise went through many periods of despair before success crowned their efforts.

What the members of the Panhandle-Plains Historical society have done on the North Plains can be duplicated on the South Plains by members of the West Texas Historical society. All we of the South Plains need to do is to keep hoping—and keep working.

Then some day we, like Canyon and West Texas State Teachers college, can be proud and happy over a very fine museum of our own.

MRS. E. M. R., who asks that her name be not published, sent in the following note backed by some pretty good logic. Says she:

"Enclosed please find a copy of 'The American's Creed,' by William Tyler Page.

"With conditions as they are in the world, and with considerable unrest and doubt abroad in our land, don't you think it would be a good idea to print it in your column for all to read, study and remember?"

We do think so, and here it is:

THE AMERICAN'S CREED

"I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign nation of many sovereign states; a perfect union, one and inseparable; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes.

"I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it; to support its Constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag, and to defend it against all enemies."

As the clouds of war drop lower and lower over our land, The Plainsman recommends you clip out "The American's Creed," commit it to memory—and accept it as a solemn pledge.

These times demand loyalty, unlimited.

MOST patriotic Americans, we believe, will hope that President Roosevelt grants the request of Chief G-Man J. Edgar Hoover for either a new law, or an executive order, permitting FBI men to collar suspected saboteurs in dirty work.

Mr. Hoover seeks this added authority because the present law is inadequate. Under current statutes, the saboteurs can be caught and punished only after the machinery has been wrecked. The FBI wants to strong-arm defense enemies before they do in a few minutes damage perhaps requiring a year to repair.

There wasn't much publicity on the subject, because the FBI and the Office of Production Management didn't give out much. But in the last strike at the Ford plant in Detroit there was a perfect example of what has to be done if the G-Men are to become 100 per cent effective in protecting the wheels of defense.

The FBI keeps a much closer eye on defense factories than the average person realizes. Every employe of those factories is suspect and his comings and goings are carefully checked every day. As a result of this type of work, the FBI knew there would be sabotage in the Ford strike and they knew who the saboteurs would be. But the operatives, because of the present inadequate laws, were powerless to act until damage had been done.

As soon as the strike began, 23 key saboteurs did their stuff in a twinkling of an eye. Machine tools and dies were wrecked. Some of them cannot be repaired in less than a year's time and all were essential to the industry.

Thus the very laws of the land—that are supposed to protect the country and society—lent themselves to protecting the enemies of our government and our people.

ACCORDING to information from Washington, the story of the Ford strike sabotaging is just one story of one strike in one factory.

Other identical stories can be told of many strikes in many factories engaged in defense production.

Certainly G-Man Hoover's request for additional authority is a logical one and one which should be granted with a minimum of stalling and official red-tape.

In safeguarding our defense, as in other matters, an ounce of prevention is considerably more valuable than a pound of cure.

YESTERDAY: Paul is angry to see Martha working so hard. It is not until evening that they have a chance to be alone "to talk business." Martha explains lamely. Paul demands that she return to the office, threatens to tell Bill. Martha tells him, then, that Suzanne has also threatened to go to Bill, tell him how Martha is carrying on.

"OF COURSE I LOVE YOU"

CHAPTER XVIII

But even as the words left her lips, Martha was sorry she had said them. This would just bring on more of the talk that was dangerous. Yet she had meant to tell him. Ask him to prevent Suzanne from carrying out her threat. Was it too late now?

"Suzanne?" Paul echoed, puzzled and uncomprehending. "The you you're carrying on?' I don't understand. What was she getting at?"

"The same thing, in a way, you were getting at," Martha heard herself saying, resentfully. "Going to Bill and complaining about me. Except that she—she was going to complain about you, too."

"Me?"

"Don't sound like that! You know perfectly well what Suzanne meant! I tried to tell you myself that night. That we should not see as much of each other."

The street down which they had been aimlessly riding came to an abrupt end. Paul backed up, retraced the route a few blocks, nosed the car into a little dirt road. They could see the passing lights of cars racing down the state highway beyond. He pulled up short and dimmed the lights.

"I met her on the street," Martha explained, turning in her seat to face him. "Suzanne was—very angry. Because Madge Willis told her we'd been together at that country club dance."

"Go on."

"She talked and talked."

The memory of Suzanne's narrowed eyes, the sound of her tight, impassioned voice made Martha stir uneasily. She could not escape the same, unwilling pity which had touched her then. Suzanne had been suffering so! She would never have spoken with such edged malice if it were not her own pain that was urging her on.

"She said—she said that she would drive up to camp herself. She said that she'd warn Bill. Warn him that I—that you—"

Paul swore. "Is she crazy? The meddling fool! What's gotten into her?"

"You know. She's—she's imagining things. Because she—" Somehow, Martha couldn't betray Suzanne by saying, baldly, the things Suzanne herself had said in that shaking, hungry voice.

"I can't believe she'd do a low trick like that! Suzanne has always been decent." He mulled it over in his mind. With the eternal wonder of women, Martha sat beside him and marvelled at the simple, incredible fact of his blindness. That Suzanne could feel so strongly about him, and that he could be so completely unaware!

Paul's jaw hardened. "She has no right to go mucking up trouble, no matter what she imagines! It isn't her affair how often, or why, I take you to dances."

"Perhaps not, Paul. But—remember—I tried to explain before exactly how it—it can't help looking. With Bill away. And people what they are. Oh, in a way, I—I can't blame her. And now, now that you've come driving all this way to Bayville after me, everything's worse! Can't you see, suppose I let you take me back—suppose you hired a woman—" She couldn't go on.

Paul turned suddenly. His hands were strong on her shoulders. "Listen to me!" he blurted. "I don't care what anyone thinks. I know there's been nothing, nothing a detective on my heels could find out. What if I do love you? Of course I love you! Any fool might guess. But they couldn't point a finger—couldn't muddy it up—because I've been careful, I never—"

Martha gasped, in swift dismay, "Oh, Paul. Don't You mustn't!"

"I know I mustn't," he cried savagely. His face was a pale blur above her, and his hands on her shoulders were shaking with a powerful emotion that had at last become too strong for him.

"What do you think has been torturing me, giving me no rest? You're his! But I love you. I can't help that. I can't help breathing, can I? It's like that. Beyond my control." He was fighting to keep his voice down, but the words came jerkily, hoarsely.

Martha's heart thudded with a terror she had never experienced before. Something huge and elemental seemed to have come into the car here in the darkness. Something that sat with them, and had then in its grip.

"I have no intention of doing anything about it, Martha," he was saying. "Have I ever tried to make love to you? Have I ever expressed it—in words—in any way—before this? Bill's my friend, he trusts me, and you—you're too fine— As long as you're happy with Bill, I'm content to remain out of the picture, Martha."

He was sorry he had said this much. Realizing, Martha bowed her head, and looked carefully away, while he tried for composure.

"But I can't bear to see you overworked and miserable, taxed beyond your srength, when it's so unneccessary!" he cried. "I tell you, I will hire a woman to do that housework! You've got to come back to the office, where you belong. You can't go on killing yourself with floors and pots and three children."

Stubbornly, Paul's hand shot out and cut the switch off. "Martha, you must listen to me. For your own sake! If Bill realized what it means to walk in there, as I did, and see you pale and tired, circles under your eyes—"

"I'll live. Start the car."

"Martha, please." Almost, he was begging, now. The imperious tone of command, the note of overriding anger was gone. There was no more arrogance, just a piteous plea.

"Martha, listen to me. You're not well. Since Bill's been away, you haven't been yourself. This is no time to be taking on added responsibilities. Martha, outside of my own feelings—if you weren't anything to me at all—I'd still say the work's too rough for you!"

"Paul, if you don't take me back immediately—" She was trembling.

He uttered a wordless sound, and his foot found the starter. But something was wrong. For a moment, as the car leaped forward, Martha was aware that Paul's usually sure hands, the keen, swift, co-ordination, were shaken. She felt a vague disquiet. Then suddenly, out of nowhere, the blinding lights of a car, speeding down the highway, stabbed at them. Paul was turning—here was an involuntary gasp—and before he could swing the wheel the other way, the lights were white and pitilessly close.

"Paul!" she screamed. "Paul!"

Something smashed against them. She was aware of the black, hurtling bulk behind those glaring headlights. Aware of the groan and rip of steel, the sudden violent shudder of the seat beneath her, and the sound of showering glass.

LEGALITY OF THE LIQUOR LAW

Regardless what individual views may be of recently effective legislative measures tightening control of prescription liquor, satisfaction should be general that questions concerning its legality and constitutionality are due for early settlement.

Seemingly the springboard for carrying the case into the higher courts for an early decision was provided through injunction proceedings a few days ago in a district court at Huntsville.

Even before the law was declared in effect, it was a matter of general knowledge that an attempt to upset it in the courts would be inevitable. The test was inaugurated somewhat sooner than was generally expected. Thus there will be no loss of time in determining whether the law is legal, and the danger is reduced materially that there may be needless and expensive prosecutions which higher courts may say later on were entirely without purpose.

For everyone, it is desirable that the state learn just where it stands with reference to the new law as soon as possible—and apparently that now is in process of being done.

Congressman Engel Goes On One-Man Investigation Rampage

Solon "Burned Up" Over Cost Of Army Camps

BY PETER EDSON

Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 4—Every professional ranter in Congress could very well take a lesson in economy and how to find out what's wrong with the country and the defense effort from Congressman Albert J. Engel of Muskegon, Mich., the one-man gang who has done more to expose waste and extravagance in the army's camp construction program than all the high-priced, formal and somewhat futile investigating committees put together.

This Engel is quite a character. He looks about as much like a statesman as Fiorello H. La Guardia. He is short and he runs to the roly poly. His thick, gray hair stands straight on end as though it were drawn up by static electricity.

EDSON

His eyes snap and he talks through his teeth, punctuating sentences with a clipped expletive: "See! I was a captain in the war, myself. See! I was 23 months in France and Germany and I know what the army is up against when they've got to get things done in a hurry. But this thing didn't look right and I wanted to get out and find out what was wrong myself. See! Without anybody knowing what I was doing. See!"

Engel has already given six reports to the House on what he found wrong at eight eastern army camps.

A TALE OF TERMITES

EXPOSURE of the muck site below lake level at Camp Blanding, Fla.; the expensive termite proofing at Indiantown Gap, Pa., where there hadn't been a termite since the coal age; the extravagant planning at Fort Meade, Md., where the best land was not used, to save a golf course; and the woeful waste of all cost-plus-fee contracts. Those are just a few of his charges.

It's the way Engel gets his figures that makes the most interesting part of his story. He is, to begin with, a member of the War department sub-committee of the House Committee on Appropriations. When he found out last January that the army had underestimated the costs of its first $466 million camp construction program by $338 million, he decided to find out what was wrong. He made two trips, one south, one north.

On the northern trip, he left Washington at 3 a. m. Driving over icy roads he reached Watertown, N. Y., at 1 a. m. He was up at 6:30 and drove out to Camp Pine. He drove around all morning, "counting knotholes" in the green lumber, taking pictures, talking to watchmen and carpenters, seeing what was wrong.

NO PUBLICITY, PLEASE

AT 10:30 he went to the camp commander's headquarters, identified himself, and asked for three things: First, call the camp public relations officer and tell him that Congressman Engel wasn't there. Second, call the construction quartermaster and arrange for a conference with the contractor and the engineer Third, send him a bottle of milk and two sandwiches at noon.

For four or five hours he pored over construction records, estimates and costs. He went into the problems of land acquisition, who picked the site and why. Materials, why the cost of lumber had gone up $5 a thousand feet. Equipment, how much the contractors had charged each other for truck and bulldozer hire. Labor, why the general contractor had sublet parts of the job so as to charge in as costs the overtime above the prevailing wage rate set by the government. Utilities, why it cost $2 a foot to string wires.

Engel was driven around the camp, and the difficulties of its construction were explained. Then he drove on to the next camp, so as to be there in time to go in with the workmen next morning. He slept in tourist homes to avoid hotels where a congressman's name might be noted by local newspapers. He spent his evenings in pool rooms where the camp workmen gossiped about what was wrong. At Fort Bragg, N. C., he sat up most of one night to watch a check on equipment.

When Congressman Engel got back to Washington, he had driven some 4500 miles. He turned in his expense account and it added up to $248.67. For that sum, he had shown up waste running into the tens of millions of dollars.

It shows what a congressman could do if, instead of voting these millions of dollars and then sitting back and looking wise, he got out to find where the money went and how it was spent.

WASHINGTON'S SONG OF THE CITIES

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., near Fort Bragg, has had its 17,000 population doubled by defense activities . . . WPA is putting aircraft markers on the roof of the biggest building in 200 Mississippi towns. . . . Bureau of Census reports that Miami, Fla., usually considered a resort town, turns out $18 million worth of manufactured products annually. . . . Thirty towns in the Shenandoah valley of Virginia have formed the first defense co-operative, putting 365 idle machines to work. . . . Low-income families living in a U. S. Housing Authority slum clearance project at Biloxi, Miss., have had to give up their pet hogs, cows, chickens, ducks, and one pet pelican which came to earth with a broken leg and joined up with some geese.

den, who hangs around with the slap-happy pugs with mispronounced features, discussing fights with them. The modernistic moats at the Bronx Zoo, just designed to give the animals more freedom. Here we give animals more freedom than most people in Europe have. . . . The tasty aroma of coffee near the Manhattan Bridge winning its battle against the off-key whiff of gasoline. . . . The private art exhibits held along Fifth Ave. saturated with people balancing their snobbery on their noses. . . . The stream of words from Sixth Ave. auctioneers falling on a group with frozen expressions, who listen because they have nothing else to do.

CHINATOWN—it used to be full of mystery, now it's just full of Chinamen. . . . The bores who infect night clubs and tie tin cans to the tails of conversations. . . . Pigeon-feeders at Lincoln Square eagerly watching a pigeon gobble crumbs as if it was something immortal. . . . The tapestry of hundreds of sounds weaving their way through the Broadway air and dive-bombing into your ears until your nerves jangle. . . . The Russian, Italian, Spanish sections of the town (to name a few nationalities), where each group live their lives in their own way—little worlds within a city.

British Clamor For Real Action Against Syria

Dilemma Faced By Churchill

BY FRED VANDERSCHMIDT
Special News Service

Syria is a harsh dilemma for Winston Churchill. He must decide whether to attempt to occupy it by land and sea, in a morbid struggle with France, Britain's former ally, or he must sit tight and wary, harassing German concentrations there mainly from the air, and taking the risk that the Germans will be able to occupy it themselves and thus drive Britain from the eastern end of the Mediterranean.

It is not merely a military choice. Many of the British, at home, are clamoring for real action against Syria. They are distraught about Crete and feel, rightly or wrongly, that lack of proper defensive preparation on that island was responsible for its loss. In fact, there have been hints that another British reverse which could be blamed on lack of foresight would really endanger the Churchill government.

To meet this clamor for action authorized British sources today gave assurances that "the necessary precautions in regard to Syria" are being taken. Simultaneously it was learned from Vichy that the British have bombed oil installations in the French mandate which might feed German planes and motorized equipment.

However, nothing has been done to commit Britain to actual occupation of Syria. This could be accomplished, probably, only by concerted action by land and sea, the land action coming from both Iraq and Palestine-trans-Jordan borders and involving the participation of the free French units of General Charles de Gaulle.

The fact is that Churchill knows the Germans would relish a bitter fight in Syria between the British and free French on one hand and Vichy's army of the Levant on the other. It may be the German game to draw the British into Syria without proper preparation, to rearm the inert Vichy army there with its own French stores, which the armistice gave to the Axis for disposition, and to give the Vichy army just enough German air support and other military aid to prolong the struggle.

Could Strike Egypt

Then, with the British air force and fleet busy in the eastern corner of the Mediterranean, the Axis could strike with great force in the Egyptian desert, feeding reinforcements into North Africa across cleared sealanes in the western Mediterranean—perhaps from such French Mediterranean ports as Villefranche, deep Riviera harbor which served as an anchorage for the U. S. European squadron just before the present war.

Such a situation, in which Britain could be pointed out as the aggressor in Syria, might serve also as the zero hour for Turkey. If Britain were up to her neck in Syria she could be of little help to the Turks in resisting a German land smash into Asia Minor to "the rescue" of Syria.

In any event, the trouble in Syria is drawing Turkey inexorably toward involvement in the war, for it is not conceivable that the Germans would permit a doubtful entity on their flank, even should they succeed in taking and holding Syria by sea and air reinforcement alone.

Jack Lamb To Show Films Here Friday

Jack Lamb, sportsman and outdoor photographer, who recently completed a two-week tour of the Big Bend National park where he took thousands of feet of technicolor movies, is to show his films at the Senior High school auditorium Friday night under auspices of the Lubbock Garden club and the park association.

The program will start at 8 o'clock and tickets are 35 cents each. Proceeds of the show will be shared by the club and the association, Lamb donating his services to the parks project. Mrs. J. W. Day is in charge of arrangements and tickets for the program, Mrs. J. S. Johnson, Garden club president, has announced.

Leaving Alpine May 4, Lamb visited every part of the great 800,000-acre Big Bend Park, and brought back films of the St. Helena and Boquillas canyons of the Rio Grande and scenes of majestic mountains which tower more than 7,000 feet. The flora and fauna of this frontier country was also captured by Lamb's camera, and his films will depict everything from skunks to antelope in their native haunts.

Some of the people in that section only get their mail twice per month, Lamb said, and newspapers are a rarity. Particularly is there a lack of ice. It is 110 miles from Marathon into the Park and 85 miles from Alpine, and everything has to be hauled by truck from these two cities.

Because black is considered unlucky by the natives of India, automobiles of that color cannot be sold there.

Payments Not To Be Made On Castor Beans

Widely circulated reports that parity payments are to be made on castor beans are incorrect, officials of the Agricultural Adjustment administration said here Tuesday.

Walter Y. Wells, Lubbock county AAA secretary, has been advised by B. F. Vance, administrative officer in charge of the AAA in Texas, that erroneous reports have been circulated to the effect that he issued a statement that the AAA would make parity payments on castor beans.

"I do not know the source of the report," Mr. Vance said, "but it certainly was in error. At no time have I made such a statement. The AAA has no plans to make payments of any sort in connection with castor bean production.

"The National Defense commission has asked that the AAA relax restrictions on castor bean production, and that request has been complied with. At the same time, the AAA is not guaranteeing any fixed price on the sale of castor beans and is explaining to farmers that they may increase their production in accordance with AAA regulations, but they do so without any guaranteed price return."

The AAA official explained that the regulations are being amended so that no deduction from payments will be made for excess soil-depleting acreage up to five acres or five per cent of the farm's cropland, whichever is greater, when such excess acreage is due to the planting of castor beans.

Additional information can be obtained at the county AAA office, Wells said.

Legion Committees For Session Named

Local committees have been named to make preparations for the joint conventions of the fifth division and 19th district of the American Legion to which Allen Bros. post is to be host here June 14-15, according to J. Louis Murfee, post commander.

Murfee also announced that responses to various of the several letters of invitation which have gone from Lubbock to legionnaires and auxiliary members throughout the division and district virtually assure a record attendance at the conventions.

Local committees follow, the first named in each case being chairman:

Steering — Glen Hess, H. L. Allen, A. C. Jackson, Chas. Whitacre, A. B. Davis and M. D. Fanning; registration—J. A. Raley, jr., and George Brewer; dance—Fred Higbee, W. O. Daniels, W. E. Lavender and C. A. Hubbard; chow—Alex McDonald, S. H. Bain, Hugh Slagle and W. H. Waln; police—F. R. Land, C. E. Luce, Cap Moore and Grady Harrist; finance—Paul Hardwick, A. R. Osborn, Murfee and Raley; guest—Allen, Whitacre, Jackson and Murfee; reception—E. C. Kuykendall, chairman, membership to be named; and publicity—H. I. Kiefer, Whitacre and Fanning.

Wichita Falls Oil Man Donates Gym Building To SMU

DALLAS, June 4. (U.P.)—Another large piece of the fortune of J. J. Perkins was in the hands of the Southern Methodist university board of trustees today.

Gift by the Wichita Falls oil and merchant-millionaire of $150,000 for construction of a gymnasium was announced by the SMU president, Dr. Humphrey Lee.

Since the early 1920's, Perkins: 1. Helped make up a $100,000 pool to buy lots for the university; 2. Gave a $30,000 residence building to the Methodist orphanage at Waco; 3. Endowed a professional chair at SMU with $50,000; 4. Spent $75,000 for competion of SMU's Perkins hall, three-story office building.

In 1938, Wichita Falls citizens voted Perkins their "outstanding philanthropic citizen."

Lee said the gymnasium, a large one-story building, would seat 4,000 persons and provide facilities for basketball and other games, dressing rooms, offices for the team and officials, classrooms, concessions rooms and a clinic.

Tech Classing School Dates Are Suggested

Fourteen replies already have been received to cards relative to the approaching cotton classing school at Texas Technological college, according to report Tuesday by C. M. Stanley, jr., of the college textile engineering department.

Three dates were suggested for the school, July 2 to Aug. 1, Aug. 4-15 and Aug. 18-29 in the 700 cards mailed last week-end. Those to whom the cards were mailed were asked to specify dates they preferred and greater interest seems to be in the Aug. 4-15 dates.

Ginners, cotton merchants, agricultural teachers, farmers and anyone else interested may attend. Registration fee will be $10. Those attending may stay in one of the dormitories on the campus for $1 if they furnish their own linens, $1.25 if they don't.

A representative of the Agricultural Marketing service of the United States department of agriculture, probably Frank Dial of Dallas, will help conduct the course.

poisons caused a contracted condition in my stomach, and I couldn't eat for as long as 72 hours at a time. I had headaches and severe spells of nausea.

"But since taking Hoyt's Compound, I can eat comfortably, my headaches have gone, and I feel a great deal better. I enjoy my meals now as I haven't been able to do for years. I am well, though I still speak from once to five times a day, just as I did before."

Evangelist Denning's constant mission in life is to help others, so why not be guided by his important statement? Try Hoyt's today! Hoyt's Compound is recommended and sold by the Mark Halsey Drug Store and by all leading druggists everywhere. Adv.
