Agro Rescue School attracts firemen from across state

Members of approximately 30 fire departments statewide converged on Floydada to train in the Agro Rescue School, Saturday. The training session took place just east of Floydada on land owned by Texas A&M Extension Service.

Eight hours was spent rescuing dummies in every type of simulated agricultural accident you may think of. Assorted implements were used to demonstrate the most common accidents; an overturned tractor, an overturned tanker truck and two towers used to teach rappelling. Dummies were rescued from hay balers, grain storage bins and headers of combines.

Rappelling was also taught. The plains might not seem a place to worry about rappelling, but firemen are aware of the possibility of accidents in the tall concrete elevators all over the country.

Advanced students of rappelling were taken to Blanco Canyon and descended the cliffs of the Caprock. Rescuers must be able to ascend and descend the structure, tie off his rope and be able to work suspended as he secures the dangling victim.

This year's Agro-Rescue School was the largest ever, with 238 people in training. "When we started this course, no one else was teaching this kind of thing," said J.E. "Dinks" Eckert of Floydada, vice president of the State Firemen's and Fire Marshal's Association.

"Now similar courses are being taught in Kansas, Iowa, and Nebraska. They are also teaching a 30 hour continuing education course at Texas A&M based on our curriculum."

Jerry Crawford, of Rankin, lead instructor for the header accident said, "We teach the team approach. Each team should have a leader, a medical person to take care of the victim during the rescue, two rescuers, two to be able to go for additional equipment if needed and at least one person to handle the crowd and to answer questions for the press."

Also making an appearance at the school was the CARE-LINK helicopter.

"The Floydada Fire Department would like to thank all the people and businesses who helped, and special thanks to the implement dealers who provided equipment for demonstrations."

Fuller thrives on day care duties

By Sharon Thames
(Tech Journalism Student)

Even after her own children were grown, one Floydada resident continued to care for Floyd County's children for nearly 19 years.

Betty Fuller executive director of Floyd County Day Care, has earned more than 200 hours of certification in classroom hours in nutrition, child development and management.

She said, "Our needs are made known, then somebody arranges the workshops for us." Fuller and her five full-time staff and two substitute staff employees attend seminars, workshops and conferences sponsored by the Day Care Licensing Division of Lubbock for the State of Texas.

The class schedule varies, Fuller said.

"We arrange for somebody who is trained to be here at all times with the children when we go to the classes."

The day care workers earn their credited hours at either Texas Tech University, South Plains College or West Texas College.

Each staff member is required every year to spend at least 15 hours of training, while the director needs at least 20 hours a year.

The Floyd County Day Care is located inside the Della Plains School. During the regular school session the school is shared with Jr. High School vocational students.

The day care practices emergency drills. One year, a class of metal shop vocational students designed a special crib to be used during these exercises.

"It's really a one of a kind, I don't know of any other day care centers, except one, which uses an extremely oversized baby bed."

The large baby bed is doubled in size by its length and width of an average baby crib. It is made of black metal and bars and is moveable on wheels. The baby "emergency" bed will hold 12 to 14 infants and/or toddlers sitting up. Whether a fire or a tornado is imminent or under a warning, the day care worker quickly places each child into the bed and is well prepared to wheel the bed out of the baby room down the hall to the nearest exit.

At least one person on duty has CPR training and attends first-aid training every three years.

"We have had two 'Green Thumb' volunteers for several years," said Fuller. These senior citizen volunteers have the same amount of training as the other staff members. Fuller added, "We need some more 'Green Thumb' workers — the government will pay them."

Also, the youths of Floydada help out in the summer months by working to nearly 240 hours per summer.

"Most of my staff have been with me for years and it helps when they know the children," said Fuller.

Of the two children Fuller kept at the day care when she first started Dec. 1, 1969, one has brought in her own child to the day care. Now that a new building attached to the school is completed, the day care will take up to 78 children a day.

Fuller said, "In the past, we had to turn some away."

"We are here to help the people in Floyd County," Fuller said. The day care does not require a registration fee, but has a sliding wage scale. Fuller said, "We do accept drop-ins for the day or half-day."

The non-profit organization is supported by the fees to cover meals, salary and needs of the children. Most of the support is donated by the community, from vegetables, fruits and meats to furniture and toys.

"One of my high-chairs and baby beds is still here when I started working here," Fuller said.

This woman, who has grown children, speaks of the little Floyd County residents as having a lot of energy and how they give her a lot of energy.

"We all enjoy ourselves or we wouldn't be here," Fuller said.

Sunbelt Savings replaces Summit

Monday marked a new beginning for Summit Savings in Floydada when they opened under the new name of Sunbelt Savings. Friday, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board merged Summit with seven other troubled savings institutions. The new thrift, with 143 branch offices in 89 Texas cities, will be operated by federal regulators. Heading the management team will be Thomas J. Wageman, who is the former head of Sunbelt Savings.

Officials with the Federal Home Loan Bank (FHLB), announced that the merger created a new institution, called Sunbelt Savings F.S.B., which will be controlled by the F.S.L.I.C. The newly created institution has a net worth of 6.9 billion dollars, including a $2.5 billion note contributed by F.S.L.I.C. to eliminate negative net worth of the consolidated institutions.

In addition to Summit, the institutions being merged include Sunbelt Savings

Association of Dallas, Western Federal Savings and Loan Association of Dallas, Independent American Savings Association of Irving, First City Savings Association of Irving, Federated Savings and Loan Association of Brady, MultiBanc Savings Association of Alice and Texas Savings and Loan Association of Texarkana.

Besides Floydada, Summit had branch offices in Plainview, Hale Center, Matador, Muleshoe, Friona, Littlefield, Farwell, Allen, Dallas and Plano.

As of June 30, Summit had total assets of $186.3 million and total liabilities of $340.6 million with deposits of $320.3 million. Regulatory capital infused into Summit from banking regulators totaled $154.3 million as of June 30.

FHLB officials said this merger is the largest savings and loan bailout of the proposed Southwest Plan. The FSLIC estimates it will spend at least $5.5 billion over the next decade to create a new institution and combine the thrifts.

Depositors will be able to conduct business as usual at Floydada's new Sunbelt Savings office. At this point no decision has been made on the closing of any branch office. All deposits have been protected, including those over the $100,000 Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. limit.

Joy Assiter, local manager of Sunbelt Savings in Floydada, said of the move, "I think it is a positive step."

FISD holds tax hearing

A short session comprised of a public hearing concerning a proposed tax increase was held by the Floydada Independent School District Board of Trustees on August 18 at 1:00 p.m.

There were no taxpayers in attendance to speak for or against the proposed 66 cent tax rate the board is considering adopting for 1988. A written missive from a teacher in the district was presented which asked that the board consider retaining the 69 cent rate adopted in 1987 and use the additional funds to increase teacher salaries or pay additional money on the group insurance benefits for school employees.

Scrimmage slated against Lubbock Cooper tomorrow

Floydada varsity football players will square off against Lubbock Cooper opponents here in Floydada on August 26 at 6:00 p.m. This preseason scrimmage affords Whirlwind fans an excellent chance to view the 1988-89 Whirlwind team in action prior to the opening of the regular season on September 2.

The Floydada-Post scrimmage last week found Post in front of Floydada 2 to 1. Scrimmages do not necessarily give an accurate reading of a team's ability or competence says head coach Earl Overton.

"The purpose of a scrimmage is to line up against someone other than yourself and find out what you need to work on," says Overton. "The scrimmage was a good experience for us. We were pleased with the overall effect."

The coaching staff encourages Whirlwind fans to come out and give the team their support as they continue to prepare for an exciting season this fall.

Although the 66 cent rate is a decrease in actual tax rate, it represents a tax increase as it will raise more money than the previous years taxation did due to an increase in tax base. This increase came from the annexation of the South Plains Independent School District at the close of school in May. FISD increased their tax base by more than $13 million in that transaction.

No action was taken at the session. Due to legal requirements governing the setting of tax rates, the board was unable to set the tax rate at the hearing. This action will be taken at a called board meeting on August 26 at 7:45 a.m. in the library at A. B. Duncan Elementary School. Approval of the budget for the 1988-89 school year is expected at the same time. The meeting will precede the annual back to school breakfast for all district employees.

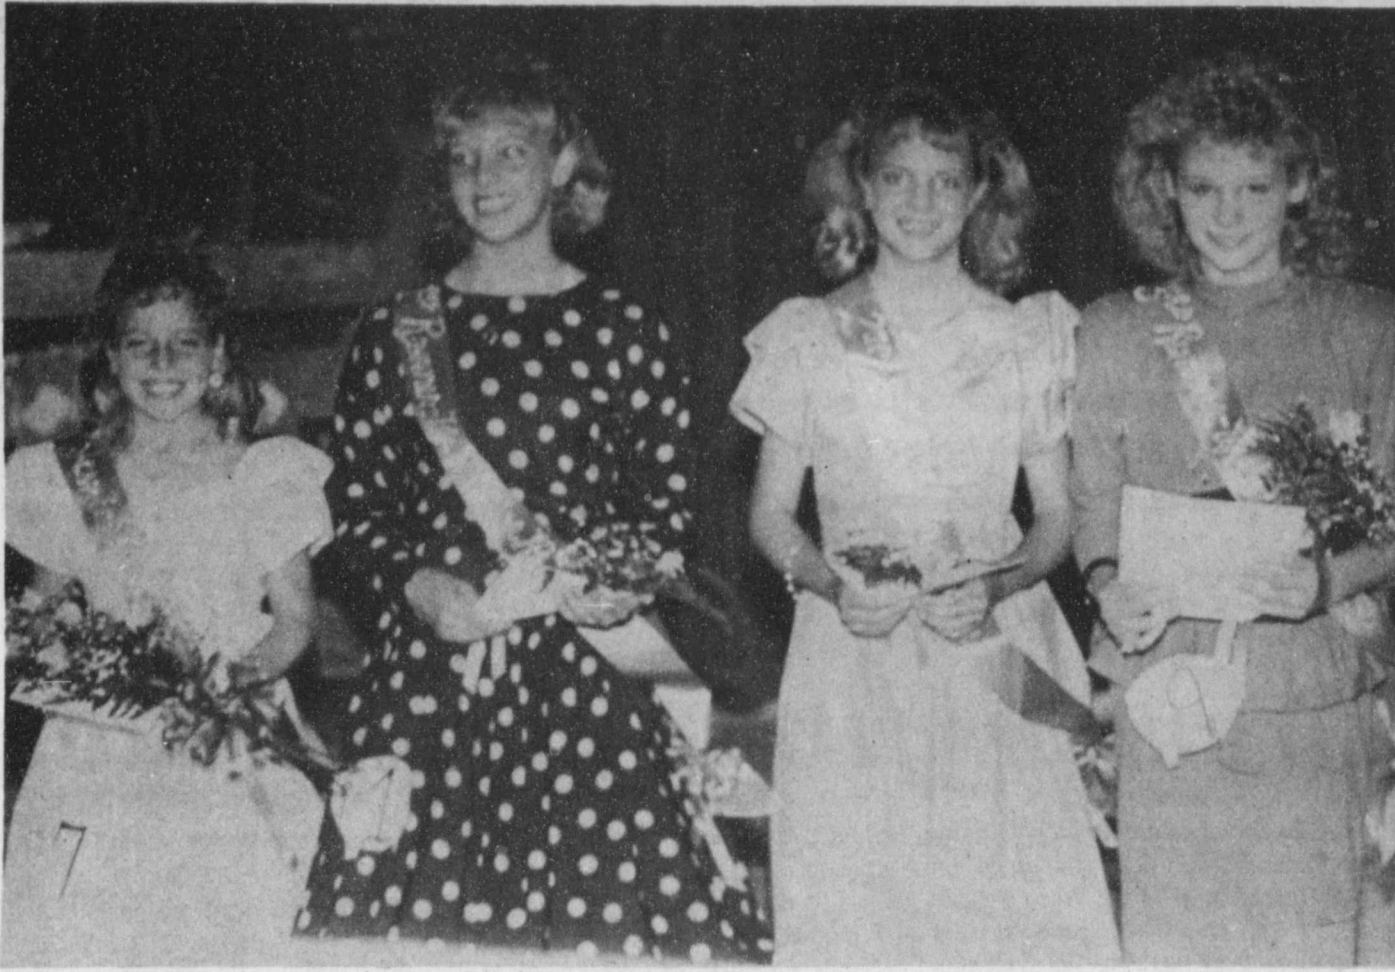

Ice cream supper will introduce new directors and band hall

The Spirit of the Winds Band will host an ice cream supper Tuesday night, Aug. 30, at 8:45 p.m. at the high school band hall. The public is invited and encouraged to come out and meet the new directors and view the new band hall, currently under construction. Ice cream, cookies and brownies will be served by band parents. Come out and show your support for the band.

Activities keep local police busy

August 16, police received a report from a concerned citizen of an injury to a child. An investigation was conducted by the Child Protection Services who felt at this time, that it was an accident.

Also on August 16 at 10:40 p.m., one man was arrested on East Houston for public intoxication and city warrants.

On August 17 at 9:00 p.m. in the 800 block of South Wall, there was a report of an attempted burglary. "It appears the burglars were scared off before they could gain entry," said Chief James Hale. "We do have a description of the vehicle and the suspects."

Sometime during the past week, on unknown date, a business in the 600 block of North Second had its windows shot with what appeared to be a BB gun.

On August 18, police took a report from a man that sometime between 4:30-5:00 p.m. he had been assaulted with a knife in Annie Taylor Park, by three unknown male assailants. He required five stitches to the groin area. The case is still under investigation.

On August 20 a theft of two boat trailer wheels was reported to police. Two weeks before this, Sgt. Harold Snell had received a call of tires being stolen from a '78 Ford Pinto. When he arrived on that scene he noticed the car held up with two boat trailer wheels. A man was subsequently arrested for the theft of the Pinto's tires. After the report this week of the boat trailer tires, Snell returned to the scene of the first theft and the owner identified those wheels as the ones belonging to the boat. A warrant has now been issued for the same man who was arrested for the theft of the Pinto tires.

On August 20, at 4:00 p.m. police received a call of a verbal assault in the 600 block of East Price.

August 21, two men were arrested for public intoxication at 8:57 p.m. both men were found laying in a ditch with their feet in the driveway of a residence in the 300 block of East Jackson.

At 4:00 p.m. on August 21, police received a report from a woman that she had been assaulted in the 700 block of West Georgia. After an investigation no charges were filed.

The weekend of August 22, at 10:50 p.m. police received a report that someone had thrown a rock through the window at Allsups. The rock went through the window plus the glass in the walk-in cooler door was also broken. The suspect was waiting for police when they arrived and stated, "I want to go back to TYC" (Texas Youth Council). He also told police that he was currently on parole from TYC. "The problem is," said Chief Hale, "he is no longer a juvenile. He turned into an adult since he has been out. He will not be going back to TYC."

Accidents reported to police last week have been minimum. On August 17 at 2:25 p.m. police investigated an accident at Price and Second. A Ford pickup was traveling west on Price Street and failed to yield right of way to a truck traveling north on Second Street. The truck suffered minor damage, and the pickup suffered heavy damage. There were no injuries.

Notice of Vote on Tax Rate

County tables railroad district vote

A pair of special commissioners court sessions have resulted in much discussion, but no action concerning the formation of a railroad district in cooperation with several other area counties. Floyd County commissioners have heard opinions from several sources, but are still seeking additional assurances that no financial liability will be incurred by the county if a decision is made to participate in the formation of a railroad district.

A Thursday, August 18 session found the court hearing a representative of South Plains Area Governments (SPAG) explain the proposed district and the purposes it is intended to accomplish. SPAG representative Tim Pierce told those present that the proposed district would look into the feasibility of purchasing and operating a number of railroad spurs that Santa Fe and Burlington Northern have declared intent to abandon in the South Plains region. Counties with an interest in the project include Floyd, Hale, Castro, Dawson, Hockley, Crosby, Terry and Lubbock.

Pierce indicated that a study recently completed by SPAG in cooperation with area counties and cities spells out the estimated cost of rehabilitating the lines as opposed to liquidating the railway spurs. The study also shows the estimated cost of purchasing and operating the lines as a private entity.

The purpose of the study was to demonstrate the feasibility of forming a railroad district, purchasing the railway spurs and operating them in the future. Pierce told the gathering that Castro and Hale Counties have voted to form a district covering two lines now owned by Burlington Northern. The six remaining counties have been asked to form a district encompassing the Leveland, Seagraves, Floydada, Lamesa and Crosby spur lines.

1981 legislation allows the formation of railway districts "as a government entity unto itself" according to Pierce. "This entity would have no taxing power. It would simply create an organized entity which could address the basic concerns of the five spurs and formulate a plan for the future should that course of action be deemed feasible."

Pierce explained that formation of a district would put "decisions concerning railroad spurs of the area in the hands of those who know the area, its needs and concerns."

Several Floyd County shippers expressed their concern at the session, fearing that abandonment by the railroads of these spurs would mean more expensive shipping for local producers and less convenient processing for products. One stated, "There is no question but what we need the railroad and need to keep it open if possible."

Despite assurances that there is no possibility of financial liability to the county, commissioners elected to table the matter and consult with the office of the attorney general to obtain more information and ascertain to what extent and in what areas the county could be held liable if they choose to participate in the proposed district. The issue is scheduled for reconsideration at the regular September session.

During the special called session, the court also canvassed election returns from the Carriker-Albert race on August 13. The Floyd County return were reviewed and approved as presented. A farm work contract was approved for Carthel Brothers and one was voided for Dale Galloway.

Happenings at Caprock Hospital

By Molly Stringer

The Board of Directors met for a public hearing for tax increase on August 18 and then had their regular monthly meeting.

Board members present were Don Bean, president; William Bertrand, Joy Assiter, Melba Vickers and Fred Thayer. Also attending were Leroy Schaffner, administrator, and Molly Stringer.

We are glad to have several people back from vacation, others are taking advantage of one last opportunity this week before school starts. The Schaffners are vacationing in Colorado this week. Dr. Hale and his family have returned from a medical meeting at Lake Tahoe.

Joyce Smith has been discharged from the hospital and is recovering well following surgery last week.

Helen Teple's diabetes class meets tonight at the hospital at 7 p.m. Please plan to attend. Helen is doing an excellent job of presenting many different ideas and material to each participant.

We now have about 15 people signed up for our ECA class. We have been approved by the state to offer this class, so it will begin as scheduled in September. We will publish the date next week.

Our longtime employee this week is Jean Jarrett. Jean first came to work at Caprock Hospital in 1974. She came to apply for a job as a nurses aide after finishing nurses aide training in Plainview. She was asked to wait in the lobby. She waited for hours. Finally after 5 o'clock she went and asked the Director of Nursing if she was too busy to see her. Much to the DNS' embarrassment she had forgotten that Jean was waiting. Jean filled out an application and was hired on the spot. She worked for three years in this capacity.

Before going to nurses aide school, Jean had worked for years at local restaurants. It was due to this past experience that when there was a vacancy in the dietary department, that the administrator, Troy Patton asked Jean to take the position.

Jean attended South Plains College to receive her certification in dietary. She worked as dietary supervisor for five years. She then went to work for Dairy Queen as manager for three years. She returned to Caprock Hospital in November of 1985 as our dietary supervisor.

She was elected as president-elect of the South Plains Dietary Managers Assn. This organization provides continuing education hours for dietary workers. Each Dietary Manager must have 15 hours of continuing education each year to retain their certification.

Jean was born in Floydada. She married Corley Jarrett, 35 years ago this week. They are parents of two sons and Jean says they also claim her younger sister as their own. She proudly boasts of having nine grandchildren. One grandson, 14-year-old, Chad plays football for the Hale Center Owls. One of her sister Erma Dean's daughters plans to be an astronaut.

Jean has filled several roles at our hospital. She was coordinator of our Ambulance Service for two years. She was a certified EMT and did some work toward being an instructor.

We say thank you to Jean for the good employee she has been at Caprock Hospital. We appreciate all the hard work she has put forth.

If you have trouble reading medicine labels, ask your pharmacist for large type on the label. Some people color code their medication bottles and write dosage information on a piece of paper the same color as the bottle.

Residents observe August birthdays

By Lorilla Bradley

When August comes along... Summer is "a waning"... But that won't stop our birthday time... We'll do some entertaining!

We have a lovely lady... Her parents named her Sue... She always is so pleasant, A friend to me...and you.

We greet our Mr. Breeding... A very friendly man, Who likes to visit people And help them when he can.

Our Mrs. Burmah Probasco Is a lady, oh so nice... She's boasting 90 birthdays

And could give us "good advice!"

Let's serenade these people With the good old Birthday Song So get your "vocals" ready And sing out good and strong.

Thursday, August 18, was party time at the Rest Home with ladies of the City Park Church of Christ hosting the occasion.

The Hesperian photographer came for the "picture taking" after which everyone was ushered into the dining room with the honorees being seated at the honor table. It was laid with a white cloth and adorned with a lovely arrangement of fresh summer flowers, a gift to Mrs. Thompson from a niece in Ft. Worth. Each place was marked with a special card and the honorees wore corsages, compliments of Williams Flower and Card Shop. Jo Bryant read a brief history of the life of each honoree after which the poem was read and all joined in singing the Happy Birthday song.

The refreshment plate consisted of a beautifully decorated birthday cake, angel food cake and a delightful fruit punch.

Seated with Mrs. Thompson was her niece Dolores Cannon, and with her mother, Mrs. Probasco was her daughter, Frances Badgett. Ernest Smitherman was visiting his wife, Ruth.

The next party will be Thursday, September 15, 2:30 p.m. You are invited to be with your friends and loved ones who are being honored at this time.

Floydada Nursing Home Happenings

By Jo Bryant

Monday started the week as usual with morning juice and coffee. Bro. Bill Wright couldn't be with us, for the devotion, so we sang songs and Irene Wexler played the piano. We talked and shared our prayer needs, and the need to give thanks always. "From the rising of the sun to the setting, the Lord is to be praised." At 2:30 the residents had a sing-a-long.

Tuesday, Bro. Neeley and Zelma came and shared with us and sang some songs. He shared Ps. 108. At 2 p.m. the ladies from the Companions came and served the residents ice cream, which they enjoyed very much. The ladies serving the ice cream were Dolores Cannon, Dorothy Neff, Shirley Varner, Ola Smith and Frances Badgett. They also did the manicures. Thanks, we appreciate your time and your caring.

Wednesday, Bro. Sammy Rodriguez gave the devotional taken from Isaiah 55:8, "My ways are not your ways, my thoughts are not your thoughts, and seek the Lord while he may be found."

At 2 p.m. the residents played Bingo. Mary Alice Walters came and assisted the residents. We had two first bingo's, Linnie Willis and Brooks Callaway both had bingos. This had never happened before. We had to laugh.

Thursday, Helen Lipham was back with us, after three weeks, it was good having her back. She played the banjo, and we sang some songs. We shared about blessing the Lord's name, and His name is above all names. At 2:30 was the birthday party of the month of August, we had three.

Sue Thompson, born Aug. 18, 1902, is 86. She was born in Searcy Co., Arkansas, to a large family. She moved to Oklahoma, attended school there and later moved to Floydada, where she also attended school. Sue has been in the nursing home for the past eight years, Dolores Cannon is her niece. She came to the party.

Next Burmah Probasco's birthday was Aug. 22, 1898, she is 90. Born in Granger, Texas, Williamson County, she came from a family of five. She attended Floydada schools, met and married her husband in Floydada and had two children, Frances Badgett and Billy. She is a member of the First Christian Church and one of the oldest members, along with Jewel Price. Burmah has been in the nursing home since March, 1987.

Charles Breeding was born at Sulphur Springs, Texas, on Aug. 23, 1935. He is 53. He has four sisters and a brother, Terry, who lives at Fritch, Texas. Charles went to school in Houston and also Floydada. He likes to watch T.V., walk, read the Bible and help with all the chores around the nursing home. He attends Calvary Baptist Church every Sunday. He has been here a year.

Friday, the ladies from the First Baptist Church came and gave the devotional. Mrs. Lillian Ross told some jokes, and read Ps. 90. Letha opened with a prayer and Evelyn Latta played the piano. At 1:30 the residents went to Plainview on the bus ride. Stars treated them to some ice cream. Thanks Wilma for taking us.

Steve and Julie Eldridge were gone this past week on their vacation, to his hometown of Winston, Salem, North Carolina. He attended his high school homecoming.

Thanks to Stan Self for the peaches. This week's visitors were: Daryl Halencak of Crowell, Texas, Gladys Cross of Lockney, Beulah Baker, Ann Thompson, Bessie Wilson, Rudolph McCurdy, Willie Mae Smith, May Sue, Evalene Boyd, Ethel Warren, Edna Patton, Ray Hill, Mattie Covington, Pauline Robertson, Carolyn Holmes, Gale and Guy McPherson, Winnie Neil, Mel and Marjorie Holcomb, Kenda Rhoderick, Lucille Sisson, Pauline Pierce, Jimmy and Anne Willson, Zelma Mae Emert, Zelma Crump, Wanda Armstrong, Jettie Moss, Hazel Bradley and Berniece Buertera.

England resident visits in area

Delise McGuire of England was a recent guest of the O.G. Mayfields. She was an honored guest at the Happy Union School community reunion and said she "had a great time."

While in Floydada, Mrs. McGuire visited with friends, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hagood, Dr. and Mrs. Guthrie, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Matsler, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hale and sons, Mrs. Mark Martin, Mrs. Jack Henry, Pamell Powell, Mrs. Homer Steen, W.D. Newell and Bill Jones, who was home visiting his mother. She expressed that "she just didn't have time to see everyone."

While in Texas, Mrs. McGuire spent a week in Del Rio and a week in Plainview. The rest of her time was spent in Lubbock with her son, Don and family. She left Lubbock Tuesday and will spend a week in Thousand Oaks, Calif., with her sister, Cecile Alden, before returning to England.

She was accompanied on the trip by Bobbie, but he had to return home early, as he was transferred to High Wickhem, 20 miles from London. He has been promoted to a supervisory job in the school. Bobbie stated, that, "they had sold the house but will buy a big house there in High Wickhem, so that all can visit them."

Motorists cautioned to beware of students going back to school

Major Vernon Cawthon, Regional Commander of the Texas Department of Public Safety, wants to remind everyone that the summer vacation will soon be over, and thousands of youngsters will be starting back to school, many of those for the first time.

So, once again, we will be seeing those big yellow school buses back on the streets and highways. The Texas Department of Public Safety wants to remind you that Texas law prohibits the passing of a stopped school bus that is loading or unloading passengers when the lights are flashing. If you are in doubt—stop—those few moments you lose may mean a lifetime to some youngster. None of us want to be responsible for the death or injury of a young child, so remember to slow down in the school zones in the mornings and again in the afternoons.

Major Cawthon stated, "Just because most of the children will be in school, we must not forget the preschooler who will still be playing in the residential areas. Remember, slow down as you are driving through school zones, playgrounds, and in and around school areas.

Drive as if you had a child there—because someone has!

Sixteen 4-H members tour Washington, D.C.

The Floyd County 4-H interstate exchange group recently toured Washington, D.C. through Citizenship Washington Focus (CWF), a citizenship program sponsored by the National 4-H Council. The group of 16 4-H'ers and leaders included: Grant Cage, Richie Crow, Libby and Michelle Delgado, Janet Himes, Stacy Hinsley, Kelli LaBaume, Joel Mitchell, Christie Rowan, Sharon Smith, Wesley Teeter, Mary True, and Donna, Ethelyn, Robert and Tami Vernon. There were over 300 4-H'ers from a number of states.

The National 4-H Center in Chevy Chase, Maryland, is where the group stayed. At the center, the group attended workshops such as "Target 1.1.8", "Action on the Hill", "Global Village", and many more which helped the teens understand how the government process works, the importance of keeping up with current issues, how to voice their opinion where it will be heard, and the extreme importance of voting.

The group was also given many opportunities to tour various sites in Washington. They went on a night tour of Washington where they could see many historical sites all lit up showing their breathtaking beauty. The White House, The Lincoln Memorial and The Jefferson Memorial were a few of the places visited on this tour.

A great deal of time was spent at Mount Vernon, George Washington's home, and touring the colonial town of Alexandria. Other sites that the group saw included: The Kennedy Center, The Washington Cathedral and the FBI building.

The group was touched through visits to the Vietnam Veteran's Memorial which is a black marble wall with over 50,000 names of men gave their lives or are missing-in-action in Vietnam. The Arlington Memorial Cemetery was also visited. Stops there included the grave of John F. Kennedy, the Arlington House, and the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier where the 4-H group was involved in a special wreath laying ceremony following the changing of the guard ceremony.

A day was spent on Capital Hill where the group toured the Capitol, The Library of Congress, and the Supreme Court Building. They also attended a Congressional hearing on whether or not compensation should be given to Iran for the jet that was shot down. A visit to Beau Boulter's office was on the agenda as well as going to the Senate Gallery while the Senate was in session.

One of the highlights of the week was the "Presidential Elections." Each state attending this session of CWF had two "Senators" running for president. Texas' representatives were Kelli LaBaume and Joel Mitchell. They had to give a speech to their party in the primary then that party selected one representative to run for its party. Joel Mitchell won the "Red Dot" party primary and went on to run for President of the United States. Out of the group of 300 (84 of which were from Georgia), Mr. Mitchell received more votes than his competition from Georgia and became the President of the United States.

The group worked very hard for this trip raising over $6,200 through many fund raising projects. They appreciate the support that Floyd County showed them in their efforts to pay most of the expenses of the trip. It was a great experience which helped to increase their interest in government affairs and boost their patriotism.

Floydada gears up for Jerry's kids

Preparations for the 23rd annual "Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon" are underway, especially in Floydada. The Floydada "Telethon" Pledge Center will be located at the Fire Department. Mike Reeves will serve as Pledge Center Coordinator; he has been a key volunteer for over two years for the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA). The Fire Fighters have served as pledge center coordinators for over 10 years.

The "Telethon" will be broadcast live from Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas and KLBK-TV in Lubbock. Over 200 stations across the country and several stations in Canada will air this special event. The show will begin Sunday, Sept. 4, at 8 p.m. and continue 22 hours through Labor Day, September 5 at 6 p.m. All area pledge centers, including Floydada, will close between 12 midnight and 8 a.m.

Hosting this year's local portion is KLBK's news co-anchors Carol Thomas and Chris Alexander, and including Bob Benson, in his third year as co-emcee. Special guest emcees will be Misty, well known local DJ who served as the only Telethon hostess in the early seventies, and Paul Archinald, past Amarillo "Telethon" emcee.

The "Jerry Lewis Telethon" is watched by approximately 50 million people every year and is a leader in the Nielson ratings. The 1987 show raised over $39 million in pledges alone, a record for telethons. Lubbock's telethon raised $160,050 in pledges and fundraising events, which included Floydada's totals.

Activities during the Labor Day weekend in Floydada for MDA will include a Fire Fighters "Fill the Boot" street corner collection. Marcher kits for children and adults who want to collect donations door-to-door will be available at Floydada's Pledge Center during the Telethon. Anyone who collects $35 or more will receive a "Jerry Lewis Telethon" t-shirt. Some shirts will be in stock but some participants will receive shirts 7-10 days after the Telethon.

A special "Telethon" Patron Board will be set up at KLBK for individuals and businesses who contribute $100 or more to MDA prior to the show. These names will be shown throughout the "Telethon". Businesses offering a percentage of sales for Labor Day weekend will be mentioned in Sale-a-Thon segments, too. Contributions or Sale-a-Thon questions can be made to MDA, 8212 Ithaca, Suite F, Lubbock, Texas

Floydada's Pledge Center raised $667 in 1987. This year the center is challenging Littlefield to raise $2000. Just 38 people in Floydada pledged to last year's Telethon.

Early days of row crop farming explained

By Will Martin

Preparation of land for farming row crops in the early days of farming on the plains was mostly the same as for crops such as wheat, oats, rye, barley, etc.

To begin with, grassland had to be broken out. I remember asking the Director of Nursing if she was too busy to see her. Much to the DNS' embarrassment she had forgotten that Jean was waiting. Jean filled out an application and was hired on the spot. She worked for three years in this capacity.

Before going to nurses aide school, Jean had worked for years at local restaurants. It was due to this past experience that when there was a vacancy in the dietary department, that the administrator, Troy Patton asked Jean to take the position.

operator had to walk behind the plow holding the handles. These plows made one furrow at a time.

Some farmers would tandem or chop the new plowed land to get it ready to plant a crop on. Most would plant a feed crop with a two row knife planter and standard seed boxes which were used on different kinds of planters for many years.

One method of breaking fifteen or twenty acres with a walking sod plow and planting maize, kaffir corn or whatnot at the same time was with a rolling planter. This consisted of a syrup bucket with a heavy wire running through the center of the bottom, straight through the center of the lid so the bucket could rotate on the wire. Two wires on each end of this axle wire were tied to the plow handles. Holes were punched in the bucket, spaced to let 2 or more seeds drop out as the bucket rolled on the ground. The buckets were allowed to roll on the ground, dropping seeds in every third furrow.

A farmer would prepare his land pretty well like his neighbor did for planting next years crop. I remember when I was quite young that farmers began to use the rolling stalk cutter or chopper. These were sharp blades about five feet long with a cutting edge mounted downward on a wheel-like thing made to roll on an axle. Pulled by horses, the sharp blades would roll along cutting the stalks into small pieces clear to ground level. This was done so a person could disc the ground or bed it with a combination lister and planter.

Some years, a good rain would come early after the bedding was done but a good while before planting time, resulting in a good thick crop of weeds. Farmers used a one or two row slide go-devil to cut the weeds. Long sharp knives on each side cut the weeds on the beds and a plow sweep in the middle cleaned the furrow of weeds.

These methods of early preparation were used for both feed and cotton. When planting time came, a farmer planted with either a two wheel or a four wheel lister with a seed box on it. The listers busted out the old beds with a two wing lister bottom causing the new crop to come up in the furrow instead of coming up on the bed as most is now planted. The seed box dropped seed in the ground just behind a narrow opening plow. The four wheel rigs had 2 wheels shaped to cover the planted seed and pack the ground firmly on the planted seed.

The two wheel planter my papa usually used had a buzzard wing sweep with tin to throw the dirt away from the furrow. After the opening plow received the seed, two small plows came behind and covered up the seed.

Used later was a drag bottom planter. The planter box sat on 2 disc like wheels that were made to cover up the seed. I don't remember much of the details about this planter.

Early cultivation was done with go-devils or cultivators. Some people used a drag spike tooth harrow when the crops and weeds were small.

Papa had a two section harrow that I had to walk behind and drive a team many miles year after year. I really didn't mind the walking so bad but I became jealous of a neighbor boy that rode horseback and drove his team with long lines to pull his harrow. Papa disapproved of putting any extra work on his workstock that didn't seem necessary.

When the crops came up, they would usually mature in the early fall with a very good yield "if it happened to be a rainy season." People would sometimes harvest these crops with a row binder that would tie the feed in bundles with binder twine. The bundles would be put into shocks to be hauled to the feed lot later and put in fairly large stacks.

I can remember how tired I would get shocking those old heavy bundles and stumbling over the stubs left by the binder that couldn't cut the stalk tops close to the ground. I stacked quite a number of stacks of feed even after I became a grown man.

Most of the bundle feed was kaffir corn or feterita. Sorghum came later with hegari and maybe some grains that I can't call to mind just now. You might say all these grains are close kin with different color grain stalks and fodder. Feed and grain raisers have changed the feeds over the years.

The first plain old red grained maize I remember was known as crook neck maize. When stalks reached their full height, the shank of the head would turn down and cause the head to turn downward instead of stand up as other grains do. We cut these heads with a knife and caught them in a wagon for hauling to a crib or a bin made from red fence. This held the heads for feeding to livestock later.

We didn't have as good of control over weeds as farmers do now and a rainy spell at the wrong time would cause a farmer to lose a crop if it waited too long to dry up. Weeds sure could grow fast and thick. When the ground dried enough for a person to get the middles fairly clean with a go-devil or cultivator, some of the weeds would be so large that the tools would slide around the weed and not cut it. That left the dear old hand hoe to cut weeds out of the row and larger weeds out of the middles.

We would take a crock jug with a tow sack wrapped around it which kept the water in the jug cooler if it was kept wet. Every time we would make a round hoeing, we would reach under the shade of a big old weed and get that water jug. My, oh, my, wasn't that water good. Then we would rest awhile and file our hoe sharper. I am sure more hoes have been worn out from files than by cutting weeds.

Hoeing in those days lasted all the growing season. Many people would hire people from town to hoe. Custom hands went from farm to farm hoeing. Lots of hoeing is still done by hand, but not near as much as back then.

In earlier days, practically all farming was one row. I never saw a two row implement until World War I or after.

Most times back then, about all crops were mature by the middle of August. Most cultivation was stopped and we called it a time to "lay by". Some crops were ready to gather before others. Bundle feed would be ready to harvest and put in shocks and some people would start picking cotton. It would be an on and off deal until fall harvest was in full swing by the middle of September.

Now comes that "sweet old cotton picking" time. We would build high side boards on a wagon bed, take it to the field and park it about in the middle of the length of the rows. Next, we used the breast yoke to raise the wagon tongue up high enough to hang the weighing scales so the cotton sacks would not drag the ground. Of course, the breast yoke stood on end was what held the wagon tongue up.

Pickers used a cotton sack with ducking straps over the shoulders which fastened to the sack allowing it to be dragged. We would pull the open cotton staple out of the burr and put the staple in our sacks and we were in business.

When the sack was as full as we could handle, we would weigh up and empty the sack into the wagon. This repetitive process continued throughout the day until night fell or we played out. Farmers also hired custom hands to pick cotton the same as they did for other types of farm work. Men, women and children came out from town to pick cotton. Smaller farmers tried to let the family pick the cotton. Our family hired very little work done and what we did hire was done mostly by kinfolks.

A bale of cotton then was fifteen to seventeen hundred pounds of seed cotton and ginned out on the average of five hundred pounds in a pressed bale. The seed weighed out the balance. Farmers caught the seed to take home for next year or to feed the cows. He could also sell it to the gin to pay on the cost of ginning.

Ginned cotton was hauled to the square to be sold to the highest bidder from among the cotton buyers. These men bought for cotton mills or speculators. Some farmers took cotton home to wait for higher prices, but the price usually went down instead of up. So you see, farmers have always had a tough time.

After 1918 or possibly in the early 1920's, we started snapping cotton or pulling the whole boll off. It was then that gins came up with a burr extractor to clean the lint. This method kept pace with the large farms and faster handling of cotton. I believe hand pulling lasted until up in the 1940's. Crude sleds and bole pulling machines have progressed to the point that we now have multi-row machines doing the work today.

Courtroom Activities

In county court on August 22, three men pled guilty to DWI. Christino G. Gonzalez, 39, of Dickens, was fined $400.00 plus court costs of $90.50 and sentenced to 120 days in the Floyd County Jail which was probated for two years.

Jose Pelata, 40, of Hidalgo, was fined $400.00 after pleading guilty to DWI, and was sentenced to 120 days confinement in the county jail. His sentence was probated for two years and he was also ordered to pay court costs of $90.50.

Jorge Angeles Trenado, 35, of Quitaque, was also fined $400.00 after his guilty plea. He was sentenced to 120 days in jail which was probated for two years and ordered to pay court costs of $90.50.

In J.P. court for the week of August 16-22, there were 70 misdemeanor cases filed.

Vaccination funds available soon

State funds will be available again September 1 to partially reimburse veterinarians for vaccinating heifers against brucellosis.

The Texas Animal Health Commission (TAHC) has budgeted about $523,000 for the reimbursements for fiscal year 1989, beginning September 1. Veterinarians accredited by the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture (USDA) and approved by the TAHC will receive $1 per head for vaccinating heifers 4 to 12 months old. Veterinarians may collect the outstanding balance from producers.

The TAHC recommends vaccinating young heifers with Strain 19, brucella abortus vaccine to build immunity against brucellosis, an incurable bacterial disease highly contagious among cows during and shortly after calving. The disease, commonly called "Bang's," can cause cows to abort or deliver weak calves. As of May 1988, about 900,000—or an estimated 40 percent—of the eligible heifer population in Texas had been vaccinated.

Because of state budget cuts, TAHC financial administrators predict reimbursements funds may run short in 1989. A lack of funds this year caused the payments to be halted since early April, except in 43 counties, where the state's highest incidence of brucellosis occurs.

In these counties, reimbursements have come from federal funds and will continue until at least October 1. Veterinarians receiving the federal funds are paid an $8 "stop" fee, plus $2 per head for vaccinating up to 25 heifers and $1 per head thereafter. They may not collect additional fees from producers for the vaccinations.

The federal reimbursement counties are: Anderson, Aransas, Austin, Bee, Brazoria, Brazos, Calhoun, Chambers, Colorado, De Witt, Fayette, Fort Bend, Freestone, Galveston, Goliad, Gonzales, Grimes, Hardin, Harris, Houston, Jackson, Jefferson, Karnes, Lavaca, Leon, Liberty, Limestone, Madison, Matagorda, Montgomery, Orange, Polk, Refugio, Robertson, San Jacinto, San Patricio, Trinity, Tyler, Victoria, Walker, Waller, Washington, and Wharton.

Elimination of insects saves millions

Consumers have had a wide array of high quality meats at lower cost because a livestock insect pest problem has been solved.

The insect eradication program also has resulted in about $10 billion in savings to U.S. livestock producers during the past three decades, said C.G. Scruggs of Austin.

Scruggs, a former magazine editor and early president of the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation (SWAHRF), spoke in Kerrville last week during a meeting of scientists, livestock industry leaders and government officials of the United States and Mexico.

"We are here to honor two scientists who have changed ranch management practices and reduced labor costs by eradicating a costly livestock pest. Their work also has impacted on consumers by providing them with larger supplies of wholesome meats at lower costs," Scruggs said.

Scientists honored were Dr. Edward F. Knipling and Dr. Raymond C. Bushland, who worked with livestock owners, county Extension Service agents, veterinarians and local, state and national government officials to rid the nation of the screwworm pest.

Knipling, assisted by Bushland, successfully developed the sterile male fly concept to achieve this goal.

Scruggs said ranchers in the early decades of this century had to maintain cowboy crews to check their herds regularly and treat wormy animals through the spring, summer and fall, otherwise their economic losses were great enough to force them out of business.

Many cowboys of the 1930s through 1960s said that "they only had Sunday afternoons off from their duties of doctoring wormies," according to Dr. Bud Turner of Water Valley, vice president of SWAHRF.

With arrival of cold weather each fall, the deadly screwworm flies overwintered in Texas and Florida.

Knipling, then an entomologist with the U.S. Department of Agriculture, reasoned that "if the female fly mated only once in her lifetime, it might be possible to control screwworm populations with a technique of releasing sterile males in large numbers to overwhelm native fly populations."

Knipling returned to Texas in 1937 to test this theory, and Bushland soon joined him in the project. Mathematical models for fly control were devised, and small-scale sterilization of the flies began in the 1950s. Knipling and Bushland found that sterile male flies released in test demonstrations mated competitively with normal females, and resulting egg masses were not fertile.

Scruggs said that additional scientific testing followed. The Dutch West Indies island of Curacao was the site of a successful screwworm fly test in 1954-55, and a program was initiated in Florida in 1957. Success of these programs launched a screwworm eradication effort in the southeastern U.S. in 1958-59.

A massive screwworm fly population control effort followed in Texas in 1962. To fund the Texas program, livestock owners organized the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation (SWAHRF) to collect support money. Later, the federal government provided budgets for program continuation.

In 1972, the USDA and the government of Mexico moved to suppress the fly in all of Mexico north to the Isthmus of Tehuantepec. Scruggs said this continuing effort has eliminated the fly from about 90 percent of Mexico to date.

Last week, two more nations—Guatemala and Belize—joined in the massive effort to eradicate the costly screwworm fly during a U.S.-Mexico Commission meeting in Kerrville.

Get conservation plan approved early

"Do it now!" That's the advice of Frank Jones when asked about getting Soil Conservation Service (SCS) approval of a conservation plan to comply with the conservation requirements of the 1985 farm act.

It's not advice from the SCS, from the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service or any other government agency. It's advice from a farmer—a farmer in Dawson and Gaines Counties where his farms and every other farm comes under the act's provisions for highly erodible soil.

And he's taking his own advice. The "fragile lands" section of the law, on penalty of being denied all farm program benefits, gives farm operators until December 31 of 1989 to get a conservation plan approved.

So what's the hurry? Why not wait until next year to get a plan approved?

That's what Jones, a member of the Board of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, and immediate past president of the Producer Steering Committee of the National Cotton Council, might have done two weeks ago. But since attending a hearing August 9 in Washington before the House Subcommittee on Conservation, Credit and Rural Development, he says "No way!"

Jones testified at the request of the Cotton Council, urging the SCS to continue using field office technical guides to judge the acceptability of conservation plans in lieu of the initially proposed requirement that plans reduce erosion down to the soil loss tolerance, or "T" value level. Also staunchly and ably defending the flexibility allowed by field office guidelines, he says, was SCS Chief Wilson Scaling.

But what worried Jones was the parade of witnesses "on the other side." They included producers from other parts of the country, some of Chief Scaling's own state SCS directors, and lobbyists for well-organized, well-financed environmental groups.

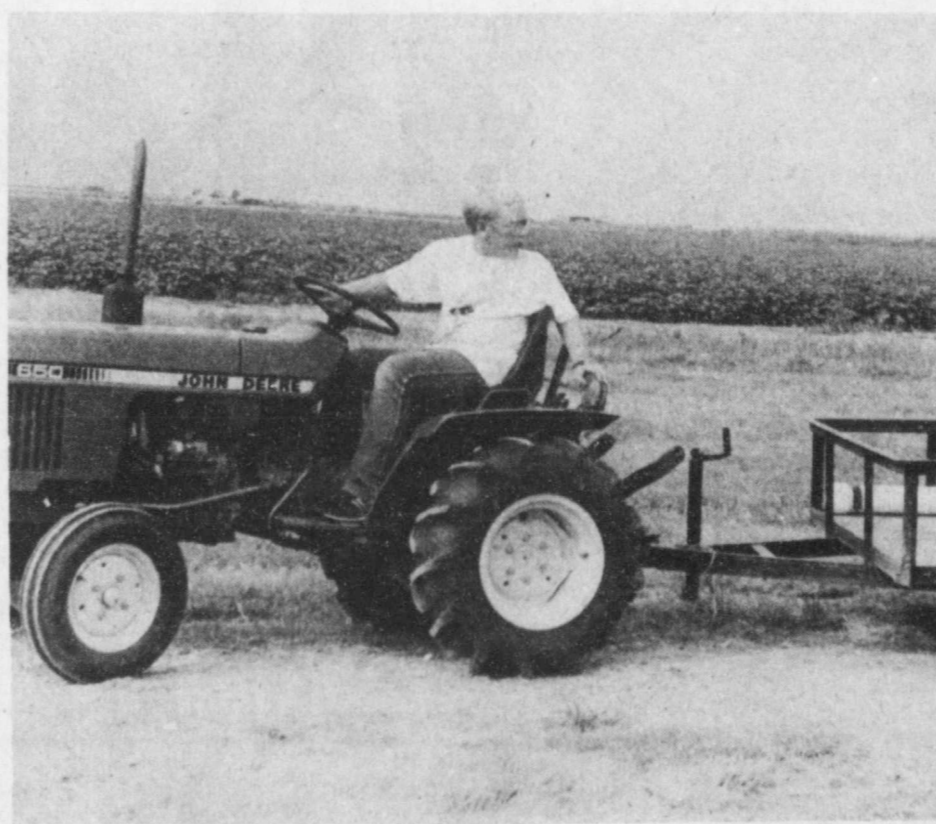

"These people aren't without Washington influence," Jones notes. "They complain that current SCS policies don't treat all farmers equally, discourage entry of fragile lands into the 10-year conservation reserve program, and won't achieve the degree of erosion control intended by Congress. And they're all intent on seeing a return to the T-value standards that would put many of us out of the farm program and right out of business."

That's why Jones, though not given to telling anyone else how to run his business, advises every producer to lock-in an acceptable conservation compliance plan as soon as possible, "and certainly before the November elections."

Recalling that PCG, the Cotton

Council and other farm organizations for years fought successfully against conservation requirements in farm laws, Jones emphasizes he doesn't like the idea any better than anybody else.

"But the requirements are in the 1985 law and they aren't going away, so we're down to the lesser of two evils—either adopt a plan now that will comply under current SCS rules, or take a dangerous gamble on what the rules may be next month or next year."

The following is a letter written by Senator Lloyd Benson to the Honorable Patrick Leahy, chairman of the joint Senate and House committee that rejected the disaster payment for 1987 hail damage in Floyd County

August 2, 1988

Dear Mr. Chairman:

As you go to conference on the drought relief bill, I would appreciate your assistance in seeing that the House provisions providing for the payment of disaster assistance to farmers who suffered losses in 1987 be included in the final bill.

This provision will provide assistance only to those who suffered truly devastating losses, since a 75 percent crop loss is required as a condition of eligibility. In addition, the budget impact is strictly limited by the fact that a spending cap of $40 million is provided for this program. This is a very small amount compared to the cost of the 1988 relief package.

Most importantly, simple fairness requires that disaster payments be made for 1987. Farmers who suffered losses last year, including hailstorms which wiped out about 192,000 acres of cotton in West Texas, suffered hardships equally as severe as those being experienced by Midwestern farmers wiped out by the drought this year. Farmers who suffered losses in 1986 received disaster payments, as will those who suffered losses in 1988. I see no reason to discriminate against those who suffered losses in 1987.

Thank you for your leadership in moving this needed legislation quickly and for your consideration in this request.

Sincerely,
Lloyd Benson

News and Views from Cedar Hill

WEATHER

It is a grim, grim thought but nature has spoken and through her infallible messenger, the broomweed, she warns us that a killing frost will occur here in Floyd County on October 15. Over the years that yardstick, the first broomweed blossom plus 60 days, has proven to be a very accurate forecaster, and those who failed to gather their green tomatoes by that date wound up wishing they had. October 15 seems a little early and one tends to be reluctant to fully endorse that date, but who are we to argue with mother nature? As a watchman on the tower this column's function is to cry the warning! Tell it the way you see it!

We got our BIG rain Friday, August 19. All of four tenths fell in Cedar Hill at the intersection of FM 97 and Main, a "here today, gone tomorrow" shower. One half mile east it didn't rain enough to stick mud to your boots. Four or five miles in any direction and you could see black spots in fields or a little water in the ditches where three quarters to one and one quarter inch showers had fallen. One report told how water was almost ready to flow across the highway at one point between South Plains and the Briscoe Co. line.

CROP COMMENTS

Corn, at this point, is the one crop where we can relax and let it run it's course. Hot, dry weather just hastens the day when combines can begin harvesting. Hail could devastate the corn, high winds could throw it, but normally to just relax while it ripens is the right thing to do.

Cotton is at that annual crisis period where each grower must choose between euthanasia, the withdrawing of all forms of life support, and let the plants live or die as nature dictates, or continuing to pour the lifeblood of his bank account into continued irrigation. If the fall is hot and dry and frost is quite late the grower can win big by pouring on more water. More often the late watering stimulates a shady top growth which is an ideal environment for harmful insects. It creates excess tonnage for strippers and cotton gins to handle, and blends in a lot of low grade lint to detract from the quality of the earlier bales. It is a gamble. It was a gamble in May, there on the turnrow, when the first seed was poured into the planter boxes. Choose ye this day whether to stop or roll the dice one more time.

Cukes are still being hauled to the packing sheds and rumor has it that prices are improved over a week ago.

Hay crops are suffering, and suffering bad for want of moisture, and they present something of a dilemma for the farmer. If it starts raining so the hay comes on and does fine, then the late watering of the cotton was a mistake. If it fails to rain and the late watered cotton does fine then it will take the cotton crop to buy feed for the cattle.

Milo ranges from a dryland crop that is just beginning to head and firing badly due to drought to irrigated patches that are coloring nicely and promise yields anybody would be proud of.

Vegetables are swamping county gardeners. Okra, peas, beans, squash, Irish potatoes, onions, tomatoes, all are out there crying to be preserved. You don't grow something then throw it away. That is why three different neighbors may all drop by in three days time each of them with just the number of cucumbers they think you can use. Before the cucumbers it was roasting ears. Since the cucumbers it has been tomatoes. A week ago it was a 25 pound watermelon left on the front porch. Yesterday a different donor stepped over the first melon to carry in a cold saran-wrapped quarter-melon, and place it in the refrigerator. There is a second refrigerator at my house that will get plugged in today, and let it be known, refrigerator number three is ready and waiting in the wings.

PEOPLE

Visitors in the Frank and Mae Taylor home in Hollis, Oklahoma, Sunday, August 21, were Junior and Martha Taylor of Lockney, and Dale and Jean Keeter Taylor, and Dale and Jean's son and his wife, Larry Dale and Martha Taylor, all of Hollis. Larry Dale, the father of four sons, is head athletic coach at Hollis High School, and the football team he coached this past year was the undefeated and untied champion of it's class in the state of Oklahoma. Since Jan. 1 of this year Frank has had a lung operation and has undergone a series of radium treatments. Frank's troubles now seem to be cured and he is recovering satisfactorily.

Those at the Lackey reunion Saturday, August 20, report that attendance was up from previous years and they were quite encouraged. Last moment vacations and the reunion's falling on the same date as Floyd Co. Fair may have kept some away who otherwise would have been there. Sarah Lackey Beard, who will be 82 years old the second day of September, is the only living member of the original Lum and Nan Lackey family. Sarah and Clara Randolph Mize, who turned 90 July 6 and is also a sole survivor, were the two oldest persons attending.

Three of Sarah's first cousins, a Jack Lackey and his sister from Morton were there. The Morton two had an old-maid sister who came all the way from California, and traveled the furthest of any who attended. The last count was 44 but stragglers were still coming in and the final number may have reached 50.

August 12-14 weekend visitors in the Cephus and Imogene Fortenberry home were their daughters, Melba Jean Smith and Phyllis Harris. Also there for the reunion was Wess Durham and his friend Cyndi Kerr from Lubbock.

Wess Durham has picked up his belongings here at Cedar Hill and is moving to Greenville, Alabama. He is far enough along with his court reporting course that he will be able to do part time work in that field in Alabama, and he will also be able to continue his training as the works.

Cephus and Imogene visited his sister, Evelyn Wynn, in Central Plains Hospital in Plainview last Sunday afternoon. Evelyn was able to return to work early last week, but at midweek was admitted and started receiving treatments for pneumonia.
