Loot Is Recovered

Lubbock Youth Included In Suspects; No Money Is Found; Clues Discovered To Other Burglaries

ARRESTED in Lubbock early Wednesday morning, three South Plains youths yesterday confessed to a series of robberies which included the Lindsey confectionery and Mistletoe Creamery office, in this city; another in Shallowater and two attempts in Lorenzo, according to information given out last night by local police.

The youths are Morris Tew, 19, of Lubbock; Harmon McCoy, 22, of Shallowater, and A. M. Sanford, 19, of Levelland.

Watch Recovered

A watch, which was identified by Clarence Farris, of the Mistletoe company, was recovered by officers, together with a wrist watch, unidentified, and a safety razor, which was said to have been taken in the Shallowater robbery.

The three were charged with burglary yesterday in Crosbyton in connection with frustrated attempts to loot safes of the Abell Chevrolet company and the Smith filling station at Lorenzo.

Arrested Here

They were arrested in Lubbock at 4:30 o'clock Wednesday morning by George Eubanks and N. M. Davidson, night police, after identification of one of the men had been revealed by name in a vest which was left at the Abell Chevrolet company as the youths fled from the building when John Cook, night watchman, appeared. They fled in an automobile, which was parked near the building.

No money was found on them and they stated that it had been spent.

The Lindsey confectionery was

Home Demo Clubs Begin 1930 Work

New Year Books For Eleven Lubbock County Groups Are Out; New Program Is Started

With the 1930 yearbook out for Lubbock county home demonstration clubs, the organizations, 11 in this county, have started the new year's work with a great amount of enthusiasm, according to reports yesterday from office of the home demonstration agent.

Instead of so many county contests during the year, club work is to be based on individual demonstrations and, in order to further coordinate the subject matter, only three lines of work will be undertaken. These include better living rooms, yard improvement and a year-around garden.

Improve Living Rooms.

"The living rooms will be improved with the idea of making them more beautiful, restful and livable," said Miss Louise Baird, county agent. Sixteen club members have enrolled in the state living room contest and already are working on their rooms. Miss Jean Derrell and Miss Vivian Johnson, of Texas Technological college, will judge the local entries.

Yard improvement was started last year and 17 yards of the 22 who started made permanent plantings and showed some progress despite a dry year. This year these en-

Decade Of Prohibition Culminated

Congress Leaders to Carry Out Hoover Recommendations

BY CECIL B. DICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. (AP)—A decade of prohibition closed tonight with leaders in congress planning to expedite legislation to carry out President Hoover's proposals to strengthen enforcement.

House leaders decided to grant legislative right of way to the Williamson bill to transfer the prohibition unit from the treasury unit to the justice department as soon as the house expenditures committee reports it.

Bills Drafted

Representative Snell of New York, chairman of the rules committee, said drafts of four or five bills to carry out the recommendations of President Hoover probably would reach the house early next week and that quick committee action had been assured.

Representative LaGuardia, republican, New York, announced he would raise a point of order during consideration tomorrow of treasury-postoffice annual supply bill in the $15,000,000 appropriation for prohibition enforcement that the eighteenth amendment was null and void. It will be based on the ground that only 10 states ratified the amendment after it was enacted. He said three-fourths of the states had ratified the resolution creating the amendment, but not the article itself.

Senators Sheppard, democrat, Texas, author of the amendment, and Borah, republican, dry, of Idaho, expressed the opinion that the New Yorker's efforts would come to naught and cited the supreme court's decision upholding the article.

Campaign Started To Reduce Cotton Acreage for 1930

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—A national campaign to reduce the American cotton acreage to 40,000,000 acres was launched tonight by directors of the American Cotton Cooperative association, who named a supervising committee and gave it full power to act.

The committee was composed of Dr. Tait Butler of Memphis, Tenn.; Sam L. Mobley, of Oklahoma City, and N. C. Williamson, of Lake Providence, La., Morley represents the southwest division on the association's executive committee and Williamson the Mississippi valley division.

In announcing the committee, C. O. Moser, of Dallas, Texas, vice-president and secretary of the association, said the cotton acreage had been totaling approximately 46,000,000 acres and that to conform to the Federal Farm Board's warning against excessive planting the directors had decided to take immediate steps to lop off at least 6,000,000 acres. The board advised farmers not to plant cotton next spring on land that did not produce one-third of a bale to the acre.

Tech Directorate Meets January 28

The board of directors of Texas Technological college will meet on January 28 in Corsicana, at which time matters of importance to the institution will probably be taken up for discussion. Two matters of major importance will be the coaching situation at the school and legislative appropriations.

Some definite decision will be made regarding coaches for next year if possible, Dr. Paul W. Horn, president, stated. The matter of appropriations will be in line with the action of the state legislature on the requests made by the board. The legislature is scheduled to convene January 20 in Austin.

Blonde "Trigger Woman" Questioned For Slaying

Three Suspects Are Sullen, Defiant After Arrest

(By Associated Press)

PHOENIX, Jan. 15.—Sullen and defiant, two men and a woman captured by a posse after an exciting chase through mountainous Arizona country were questioned here today in connection with the slaying of Pennsylvania policeman, a Texas bank holdup and a series of robberies in Pennsylvania and Arizona.

The woman, who said last night she was Irene Schroeder, blonde "trigger woman" of Benwood, W. Va., alternately admitted and denied her identity today. She said today her name is Mildred Winthrop and she has no son in West Virginia named "Donnie." Soon after she expressed a wish to see Donnie, "my son."

Examination of the woman revealed a flesh wound in the neck, caused by a rifle bullet when she and her companions attempted to fight it out with the posse.

The two men are M. Olen Dague, alias Albert Winthrop, and Joe E. Wells. The latter has a bullet wound in his right leg, and officers point out that one of the robbers who held up a Coleman, Texas bank, recently had been shot. Dague and the woman are suspected of slaying Brady Paul, Pennsylvania patrolman, last December.

Final county officers filed complaints against the trio today charging kidnaping for the purpose of robbery, an offense which carries life imprisonment as a penalty. The officers said they would insist Arizona try the three unless Pennsylvania can prove positively it has a case of first degree murder against them.

Crude Oil Price Slash Announced

HOUSTON, Jan. 15. (AP) — Three major oil companies today announced cuts in the price of crude petroleum ranging from 15 to 14 cents a barrel.

The Humble Oil and Refining company was the first to make public the reduction in posted prices and the Texas Company and Gulf Pipe Line company followed suit. The new scales went into effect at 7 a. m. today.

The Humble said the decreases were ordered to "fairly adjust" crude prices with the prices of petroleum products. The "conspicuously successful" efforts of producers to keep output within the market demand did not succeed in eliminating over production, it added, and "the effect has been to further depress the markets for products, especially gasoline."

RATLIFF CASE ENDS

Record Closed Of Bandit Lynched By Mob

AUSTIN, Jan. 15. (AP)—For one of a few times in its history, the court of criminal appeals today reversed and remanded more cases than it affirmed. Nine judgments were approved to 11 reversed and remanded for new trials.

The court closed the criminal record of Marshall Ratliff, "Santa Claus" robber, who was lynched at Eastland about two months ago when it abatted his appeal from a death sentence given by a Taylor county jury for his part in the Cisco bank robbery two years ago. At the time Ratliff was lynched there was pending before the appellate court a motion for a rehearing, his case having been affirmed.

Reference? Mr. Hoover Will Do

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 15. (AP)—James D. Smith, Corinth, Miss., wanted to open a charge account at a department store here.

"Yes, sir," said the polite clerk, "what reference please?"

"Reference?" said Mr. Smith, "oh certainly. Mr. Hoover will do. He is the president you know."

"Oh," said the clerk, and came up for air. The firm investigated and learned the president recently had notified a Jackson, Miss., firm that Mr. Smith was a "good risk."

The Mississippian was one of the contractors who built Mr. Hoover's Palo Alto, California home.

The account was accepted.

West Texas Rail Line Authorized

I. C. C. Grants Permission For Route From Eden To San Angelo And Brady To Fredericksburg

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. (AP)—Conditional authorization to the Gulf and West Texas railway to construct a line in Gillespis, Mason, McCulloch, Concho and Tom Green counties, Texas, at a cost estimated at $3,552,665, was granted today by the interstate commerce commission.

The proposed line would extend from Brady to Fredericksburg and from Eden to San Angelo, permission being given to build the latter on condition that the road file a petition to operate under trackage rights over the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe between Brady and Eden.

The conditions also specify that the road reach an agreement to acquire the Fredericksburg and Fredericksburg Junction, and agree with the Aransas Pass to operate over its line between the latter point and San Antonio.

The complete road would form a continuous line from San Antonio to San Angelo, to connect with the Santa Fe; and would connect at Brady with the Frisco for Fort Worth and Dallas.

NO CITY POLL TAX

Erroneous Report Here Is Corrected By Holland

Replying to an erroneous report which was circulated yesterday, R. A. Holland, city tax collector, stated that Lubbock has not levied a city poll tax in three years and such in order to vote in this city.

The city election will be conducted here the first Tuesday in April. At that time votes will be cast for mayor and two city commissioners. The two commissioners, whose present terms expire at that time, are A. V. Weaver and J. H. Hankins. Neither has officially announced for re-election.

Approximately 1,500 persons have paid poll taxes at the county tax collector's office.

Winter on Return Engagement Here

Following on the heels of the year's worst blizzard here last week during which the mercury took a nose dive to ten degrees below zero, winter again returned to the South Plains last night, carried on the wings of a cold, biting north wind. The mercury hovered about the ten degree mark at midnight and promised to drop nearer zero this morning.

Light flurries of snow fell intermittently during yesterday afternoon, but melted as soon as it touched the ground. Colder weather is the official forecast for this area today.

Brief Earthquake Shocks Wednesday Shake California

Slight Damage Results As Wide Area Feels Series Of Tremors; Dishes Are Broken By Movements

Buildings Rocked

Telephone Service Halted In Various Sections Of State; No Excitement Is Caused Among People

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15. — Southern California from the Mojave desert on the north to San Diego on the south, and from the Pacific ocean as far inland as Indio and Niland in Coachella valley was shaken by brief earthquake shocks at 4:25 and 4:35 P. M. today.

No damage other than a few broken dishes and bricabrac and temporary disruption of telephone service in spots, was reported. Communications generally, and public utility services were not affected.

Shocks Vary

The shocks varied in intensity over the affected district and in the vicinity of Los Angeles and south, the earth movement was of a distinct rolling nature, while in the northern mountainous sections the shocks took on sharper, more jolting characteristics.

In Los Angeles buildings were rocked perceptibly in a gentle, rolling motion. Flagpoles on tall buildings showed a distinct northeast and southwest sway. No excitement was caused in the city or its environs among a population injured to earth tremors resulting from not infrequent slight slippings of the several Southern California Geological faults.

The quake was not felt in Santa Barbara, where in May, 1925, a serious quake occurred, nor in the

Cold Wave Menace To Flood Victims

Winter Spreads Cold Hand Over Mississippi, Ohio Valleys; Property Loss Mounts To Thousands

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—Fickle winter stretched a cold hand over the flood perilled Ohio and Mississippi valleys tonight and brought at once a blessing and a menace.

The January thaw that had spilled icy waters of swollen streams into the farms and cities of the central states was at an end. Rivers still were rising in Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Kentucky and Missouri. The bitter cold served to sharpen the misery of farmers and townsmen driven from their homes.

No Lives Lost.

Thus far there have been no loss of life, but property damage swelling into the hundreds of thousands of dollars was anticipated as the rising waters swept over a broad expanse of farm lands and destroyed corn crops left standing in the fields. Highways were undermined or washed away at many points.

Minnesota, handicapped by sub-zero temperatures, had begun to recuperate from yesterday's storm. Throughout the northwest and as far south as Kansas the temperatures ranged from near zero to 24 below, the minimum at Sheridan, Wyo. The mercury was expected to touch five above zero at Chicago tonight.

MacDonald Gives Britain's Views On Naval Parley

Failure Of Conference To Agree Means Competitive Building By World Says Prime Minister

BY FRANK HAVILAND KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 15. (AP) — Prime Minister MacDonald outlined today to journalists of all nations the program Great Britain will pursue in the coming weeks of the naval conference. Speaking with full authority of the government he heads MacDonald gravely declared that failure of the conference would mean the world would have to face 10 or 20 years of competitive building of fleets.

He is not outstandingly enthusiastic about prospects for the conference, but he is confident a treaty that will be immediately effective in reducing navies to the lowest level commensurate with national security will result.

Increase Tranquility.

He expressed belief that, without sacrificing national security of any country, the tranquility of nations can be increased and international treaties already arrived at can be strengthened by an agreement in London that will put the world on what he calls the high-road to disarmament."

The equilibrium of armaments he aims at will provide naval forces effective for defense, but ineffective for offense. He affirmed that Britain bases her conference policy on the assumption that military forces should bear a direct relation to the immediate risk of war. The covenant of the League of Nations, the Washington treaties, the Locarno Pact, the optional clause of the World court statutes, and the Pact of Paris, in their cumulative effect should make possible immediate and definite steps toward world disarmament.

He declared the battleship to be

MAY BAN PARROTS

Embargo On Birds Seen As Disease Sweeps U. S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. (AP)—The First official reports on deaths and serious illnesses due to parrot's fever or psittacosis in widely separated cities reached federal health officials today and led them to give further consideration to placing an embargo on importation of the birds.

The reports were meagre, and did not cover one new death and two suspected cases reported unofficially today, nor all of the eight deaths and 47 cases that public health officers said they had information about yesterday. They brought information, however, that is expected to aid in tracing the origin of the outbreak.

Surgeon General Cumming called in Dr. T. S. Palmer, assistant director of the Bureau of Biological survey, for what was understood to be a conference on means of banning the birds.

Robert Durham To Be Sent To State Asylum Jury Says

Jury Reaches Decision In County Court After One Hour Deliberation Over Charges Of Lunacy

Awaits Indictment

To Be Confined In Texas Institution Until Grand Jury Takes Action On Murder Charges

(Special To The Avalanche)

LAMESA, Jan. 15.—Robert Durham, alleged shotgun slayer of his aged father, was judged insane this morning by a jury in the county court and will be sent to the state asylum as soon as possible, according to local authorities.

Charges of lunacy were filed Monday by relatives of the boy and, after almost an hour of deliberation, the jury today adjudged him insane.

To Await Action

Durham will remain in the asylum until action is taken by the grand jury on the charges of murder which face him, filed here three days after the fatal shooting. If he is indicted, another sanity trial must be held in the district court, according to County Attorney A. W. Gibson.

The elder Durham was killed on December 31 at his home near O'Donnell, dying almost instantly from three shotgun charges in the legs and side. He was lying on a bed in his room when the shooting started and ran out of the house and into the road screaming for help.

Acted "Queerly"

Robert was apprehended a short time later by neighbors and held for Lamesa officers. Relatives stated after the shooting that he often had acted "queerly." There were no eye witnesses to the shooting.

Boundary Patrol Draws Attention In 'Pro' Program

House Immigration Group Takes Up Reorganization Of Enforcement Machinery Asked By Hoover

BY WALTER CHAMBLIN
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. (AP) — Steps necessary to patrol one of the longest boundaries any nation has attempted to guard claimed the attention today of the house immigration committee as it moved to carry out the Hoover prohibition enforcement reorganization program.

Taking the lead over other committees which must pass upon various phases of the program, Chairman Johnson summoned Commissioner Hull of the immigration bureau and other officials of the labor department for questioning.

Interest Held.

Meanwhile, the prohibition situation held the intense interest of many members of the house and senate as they continued preparation of legislation to carry out different parts of the program, and committee chairmen arranged to assemble their committees.

In the house, a group of "wet" members returned to their discussion of the question at an informal conference. In recent years there has been an unofficial committee in the house known as that favoring modification of the prohibition law. It has been only more or less active, but it is known some of its members now feel it should announce a definite aim and work to that goal.

Some members of the committee have advocated that a particular phase of the prohibition issue be singled out and every effort made to obtain a roll call vote on the proposal. Those of this thought contend that considerably more than a hundred votes could be mustered in support of such a move. They assert that only a handful of "wets" have voted on wet and dry questions and there are many more votes in favor of modification among the 435 members than most people realize.

No Concern Shown.

House drys have never shown concern over such an issue. Their answer has been let the "wets" arrange for the ballot and "we will supply the votes."

In the senate discussion continued informally over the constitutionality of the proposal to turn petty offenders over for trial by United States commissioners. Chairman Norris of the senate judiciary committee is one of those wondering if this would not violate the constitutional guarantee of trial by jury.

Legislation to authorize commissioner trials has been pending before the committee for several years but never reported for this reason. Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, dry leader, is sponsor of the long pending proposition.

Bill Before House.

A bill designed to accomplish the same end was before the house judiciary committee today, having been introduced yesterday by Representative McKeown, democrat, Oklahoma. This committee was called in session for other business, but it was thought that before adjourning it might set a date for consideration of the subject.

The session of the house immigration committee was watched with interest. While this committee has jurisdiction over immigration measures, the house commerce committee has control over legislation affecting the coast guard. The two committees probably must work together in drafting legislation to create the new border patrol.

Last session the immigration committee held extensive hearings on enforcement conditions along the Mexican and Canadian borders in connection with the Bob bill to place quota restrictions on immigration from Western Hemisphere nations. This testimony never has been made public, but Chairman Johnson now hopes to be able to release it. Many believe it will throw much light on the situation to be considered in mobilizing a force to patrol the thousands of miles of boundary.

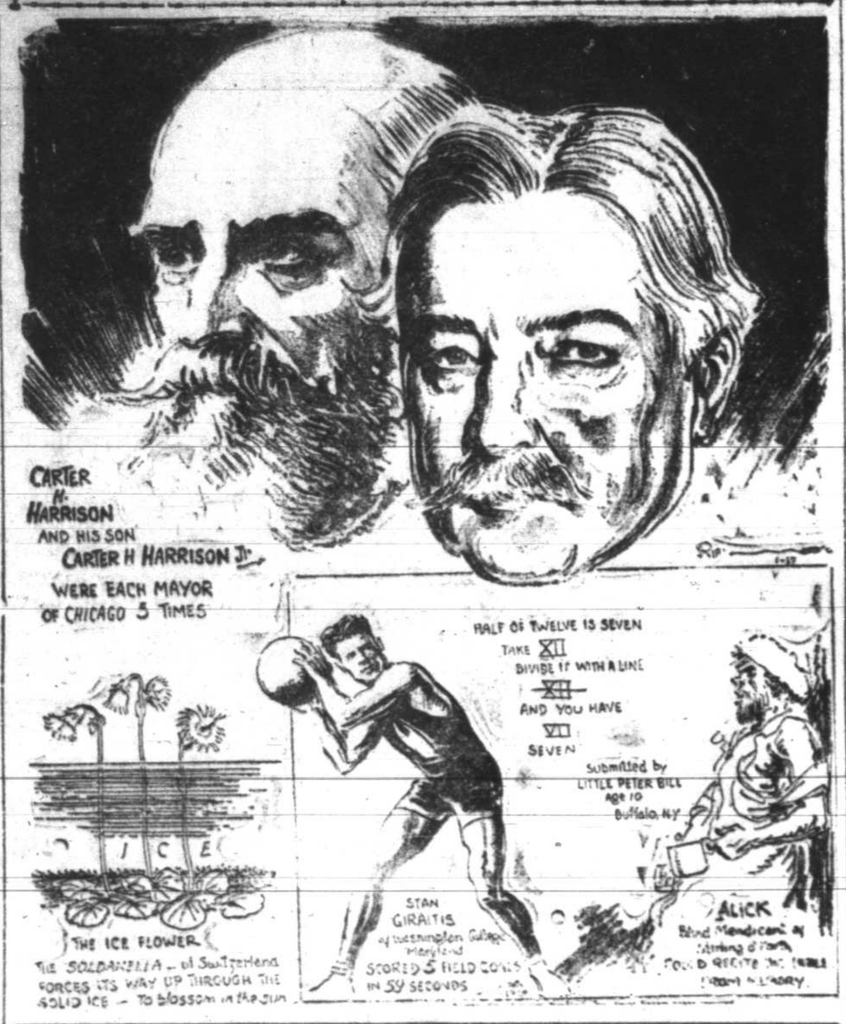

The Williamson bill to authorize transfer of the prohibition unit from the treasury to the justice department will be taken up next week by the house expenditures committee. Next Tuesday, the senate judiciary committee will discuss in a preliminary way all of the reorganization program.

Woman Jailed For Poisoning Youths

Cook At New Jersey Summer Camp Arrested After 18 Children Become Ill; No One Dies Of Poison

NEW YORK, Jan. 15. (AP)—Accused of administering poison to 18 children at a New Jersey summer camp where she was employed as cook, Mrs. Pearl Topper, 27, was held here today.

Arrested at the Parnassus club, sorority dormitory at Columbia university, she denied the charge. None of the poisoned children died. An indictment was returned against her by a New Jersey grand jury.

Discharged As Cook.

Miss Helen Simmons, manager of a camp conducted for New York tenement children at Montvale, N. J., said Mrs. Topper had been discharged as cook on August 19.

Prosecutor A. C. Hart said Miss Simmons charged that Mrs. Topper returned the following morning and poured poison over the breakfast cereal.

Nine children who ate the cereal were removed to a New York hospital and the others were treated at the camp. He said the poison has no fatal effects because the large doses acted as an antidote.

Relief from Gas Stomach Pains Dizziness

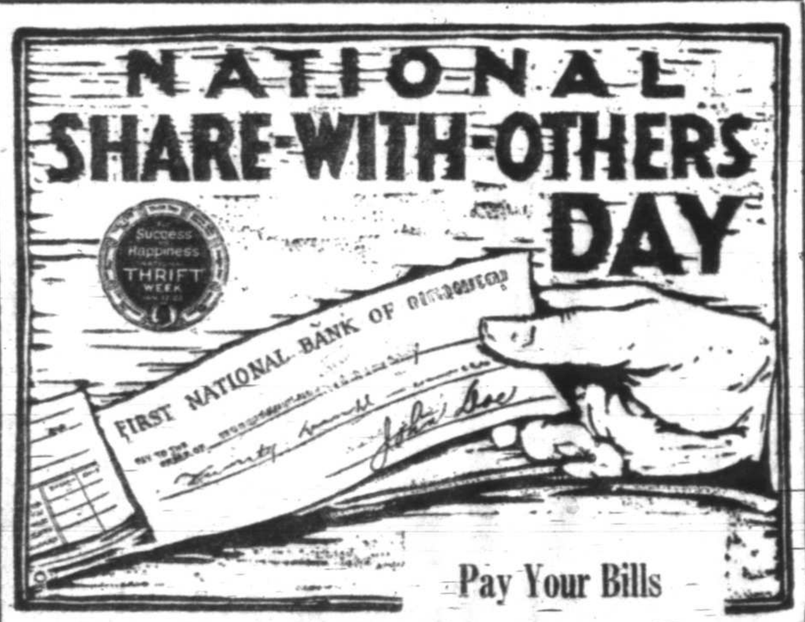

The doctors tell us that 90 per cent of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relish food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as a relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing.

Local people, many of whom you know, are highly endorsing Tanlac. For example, Mrs. Ellen White says: "For years I suffered from indigestion. I got no relief from anything until I took Tanlac. After my fourth bottle, I feel like a new person and have a fine appetite."

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation, or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run down, you need Tanlac. It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs and barks. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you. Accept no substitute.

Where Seventy Children Died In Fire Panic

NEA London Bureau

The moving picture being shown that day was titled, ironically enough, "The Crowd." And as this picture was taken, the bodies of more than 70 dead and dying children still choked the aisles and stairways of the Glen Cinema house in Paisley, Scotland, where a small fire started a frantic stampede for exits among more than 1500 boys and girls at a special holiday performance. Here you see anxious relatives standing outside the theater immediately after the panic, which was one of the greatest theater disasters in modern Europe. Allen Bebbie, below, left, a football star, and Isa Muir, extreme right, candy salesgirl in the theater, both are credited with saving the lives of many children. That the panic did not assume even greater proportions was credited in part to the coolness displayed by James Glen, a theater attendant, shown in the center as he was questioned by a police official.

NATIONAL THRIFT WEEK

January 17th to 23rd

Bitter-minded philosophers would have us believe that happiness is an illusion, that it is the eternal Snark, waiting to turn into a Boojum.

"You're not happy," they say, enjoying themselves in a happy sort of way, "because no human being has ever been, is, or ever will be happy. Only the beasts are happy, and they don't know it."

Which is fair enough, as philosophy goes, but fails to account for the very existence of the word "Happiness" and its widespread usage throughout the entire human domain. Perhaps the world is wrong. It is more likely that the philosophers enjoy talking through their metaphysically black hats.

Ten Rules of Happiness

Not only do we say that we're happy, but we have a definite notion of what we mean when we say it. We love life. We remember the past with pleasure. We look forward to the future with eager, excited hope. We're content with circumstances as they are. But we aren't blind! We realize that everyone is not so fortunate as ourselves. That is why we intend taking this informal opportunity to announce Thrift Week which makes for a successful and happy life.

Theta Kappa Omega Fraternity Entertains At Hilton

Members And Guests Attend Pretty Dinner-Party In Matador Ballroom; Dancing Enjoyed Between Courses

R. E. Hardberger Is Host And Gordon Dickinson Serves As Master Of Ceremonies For Evening; Mrs. Barclay, Miss Waters Furnish Music

OUTSTANDING among social functions of the mid-week was a lovely dinner-dance given by the Theta Kappa Omega fraternity Wednesday evening in the Matador ballroom of the Hilton hotel.

R. E. Hardberger was host for the evening, and Gordon Dickinson was toastmaster.

The dinner was served in five courses from a table centered with a lovely gold basket tied with a huge bow of yellow tulle, and filled with white roses, the official flower of the organization.

Sprigs of fern encircled the basket, running from there to either end of the table, and embedded in the fern were bright calendula blossoms.

On either side of the basket was an Indian hand-wrought candelabrum with three yellow tapers, and next to these were dainty bud vases holding roses and calendulas. Then came other candelabra, each having two tapers, a second pair of bud vases, and finally, at either end of the table, a candelabrum with only one taper.

Unique Place Cards.

Place cards were in the form of dainty little trays resting on the cocktail dishes. The bases of the trays were of yellow, and bore the letters TKO in black, while ruffles of white formed the sides. The colors, yellow, white and black are the official colors of the organization.

Mrs. Frank Barclay furnished piano music, and Miss Willette Waters entertained with selections on the accordian. Dancing was enjoyed between courses.

Local Music Club To Bring Pianist Here For Concert

Harlan Pettit To Be Guest Artist For Afternoon Musicale; Was In Lubbock Several Years Ago

The Lubbock Music club is completing plans for a musicale which will be given Saturday, January 18 at 3 p. m. at the Hilton hotel. Invited guests will attend to hear Harlan Pettit, talented young pianist of Dallas, play in concert on this occasion.

Mr. Pettit and David Guion, who played in a public concert here several years ago, rendered a two-piano arrangement of Guion's "Ballet Primitive" last Sunday in a Dallas Little Theatre concert. This was the initial performance of David Guion's latest composition and was so well received that the audience called for a second rendition.

"The Scissors Grinder," another one of Guion's compositions, still in manuscript form was also given its first public appearance by Mr. Pettit.

A passing scissors grinder spent an afternoon in the home of the composer grinding away on old knives and scissors, with the result that its musical interpretation glides into a series of runs with the left hand, while the right takes care of the sharpening of the instruments, even to the snappy after turn of the grinder. The quick tempo in its theme was so interpreted by Mr. Pettit, that the group would be satisfied only with a second rendition.

Mr. Pettit is to play "The Scissors Grinder" on his Lubbock program.

Buddy Snipes has returned to his home in Mineral Wells after spending the past two months in Lubbock.

Intimate Chats with Eve Ve Verka on PERSONALITY-BEAUTY-HEALTH

Madame Ve Verka Will Conduct The Avalanche-Journal Free School of Beauty And Charm, February 3-5

Jiggs tiptoed stealthily up the steps, across the veranda, into the hall and cast a quick furtive glance into the room where Maggie was. Jiggs was thinking fast. He would not sit down to another one of Maggie's red-plush dinners this night. Not with Dinty Moore's kitchen within reach. Caviar; Pate de foier gras; little frilly dabs of this and that, ugh: his soul—and hungry tummy—rebelled.

Just then something happened. Up from the scullery wafted a gentle aroma. Jiggs incredulous, stopped in his tracks. The frown on his face faded and in its place there spread the beatific smile of one of the angelic host.

"Liver and onions." His nose twitched in happy anticipation. Then his joy outburst in its bounds and he rushed to embrace Maggie.

"Maggie me darlin'" he cried. "Liver and onions," ain't ye the sweetest."

There has been no discovery in the field of dietetics within the last decade which can approach in importance the discovery of the almost miraculous value of liver.

In children's hospitals I have watched little waifs—of the rich and poor alike—come in with wobble little pipe-stem legs, long listless dangly arms, sunken bloodless faces from which looked out quite eyes that were haggard and old and world weary. Underweight, undernourished, subnormal, anemic. Little bodies which could not be made to grow and blossom and dance with the joy of childhood. And I have watched these same little bodies, fed with liver and liver extract, begin to expand and glow. The little legs grow plump and grow round. The faces grow rosy and dimply and the eyes dance like merry elves on a sunlit meadow.

The same miracle is performed by this homely magician for the grown ups, too. There are the extreme cases which bear the title of pernicious anemia. These are the poor bloodless dears who have been drinking daily quarts of milk and gorging quotas of butter and eggs and cereals and thick steaks in an effort to build up. But it seems to no avail. Every day, it seems, they are weaker and paler and more gaunt. And every visit to the laboratory shows fewer and fewer of the precious red cells in the blood.

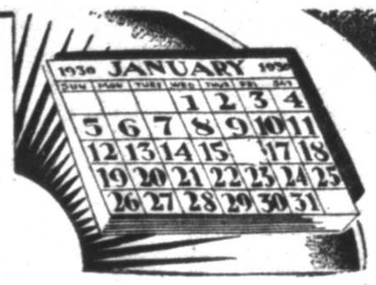

Then there are the border-line cases. And aren't they legion? Those many, many of us who are tired all the time, and listless, and yawny, and—and a little hard to get along with. Those who feel that the slightest effort of body or mind requires a gigantic effort of the will. Those to whom life is a struggle scarcely worth while—and its most profound philosopher our little dusky friend who maintains "There ain't no use o'nothin' nohow."

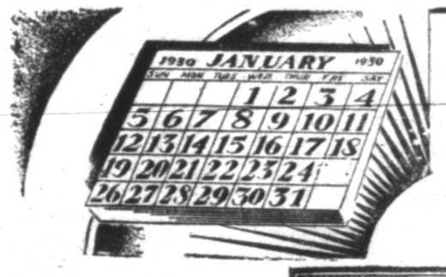

The liver diet changes all that. For the sufferer from pernicious anemia it offers the one most certain avenue of escape. Through its use he will be enabled to assimilate the eggs and cereals and steaks and gradually the little figures in the laboratory will change and the precious red cells will be there in newfound thousands. It isn't vain oratory to say that he will have been snatched from the grave—and these others—the weary hordes who are not quite equal to their tasks, and to whom the world is always faintly overcast with blue—they too will take on a new vigor and a new philosophy of life.

I daresay even Maggie's uncertain disposition would often grow sweet—and her knees and cheekbones a little less knobby.

In my next article I shall explain just how this miracle is performed by the use of liver.

Simmons Cagers Invade Tech Court Stronghold Tonight

AN OLD TIMER'S SCRAP BOOK
BY TIM McGRATH

WHEN MYSTERIOUS BILLY SMITH THREATENED TO BITE OFF WOLCOTT'S EARS

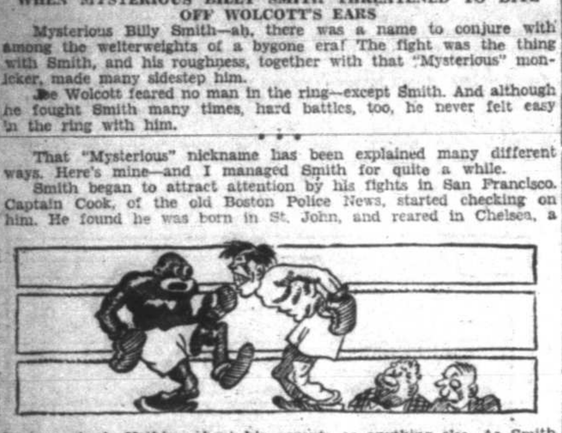

Mysterious Billy Smith—ah, there was a name to conjure with among the welterweights of a bygone era! The fight was the thing with Smith, and his roughness, together with that "Mysterious" moniker, made many sidestep him.

Joe Wolcott feared no man in the ring—except Smith. And although he fought Smith many times, hard battles, too, he never felt easy in the ring with him.

• • •

That "Mysterious" nickname has been explained many different ways. Here's mine—and I managed Smith for quite a while.

Smith began to attract attention by his fights in San Francisco. Captain Cook, of the old Boston Police News, started checking on him. He found he was born in St. John, and reared in Chelsea, a Boston suburb. Nothing about his parents or anything else. As Smith forged ahead, Cook kept referring to him as "Mysterious Billy." The name stuck to him.

• • •

Smith, when training for one of his many Wolcott battles, sent Joe word that he'd bite both his ears off. And Joe wanted to call off the fight.

"If he bites your ears off, it's a foul, and you get the decision," counseled Tom O'Rourke, Joe's manager, who had a dry sense of humor.

"I wouldn't trade my ears for a million decisions," Joe protested. "Outside the ring, Smith's a gentleman. In the ring, he ain't got no conscience. He's mean, and he does exactly what he says he'll do."

O'Rourke, who ruled his famous negro stable Wolcott, Gans and Dixon with an iron hand, got Wolcott to go on with the battle.

But all through the first round, Smith kept showing his teeth, and snapping at poor Joe's ears. If O'Rourke hadn't warned the referee that Smith was apt to scare Joe out of the ring, the fight might not have lasted more than that round.

All Italians in Italy Will "Hail" Charles Arthur Shires' Homecoming

FORT WORTH, Jan. 15. (AP) — All Rome used to turn out when Caesar rode home from his wars but all Italy (Texas) will turn out when Art Shires comes home from his wars.

The home town of the famous conversationalist, first baseman and pugilist at first decided to take his home-coming quietly. But Italy has changed, according to M. D. Lewis, secretary of the Italy Chamber of Commerce, and all the Italians in Italy will cry "hail" when Shires arrives. The home-coming is expected some time next week.

"All the luncheon clubs and civic organizations will get together, for the celebration," said Lewis, "and we'll do something big. Probably a community banquet, with a dance afterwards." He didn't say so but Shires probably will be the chief speaker. He usually is.

Italy is the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Shires, parents of Whattaman, of five brothers and two sisters.

Art Ready To Make Peace With Baseball

CHICAGO, Jan. 15. (AP)—Charles Arthur Shires is about ready to make his peace with baseball and lay aside his boxing gloves.

The "Great Man," was summoned today to appear before Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner, next Monday. Commissioner Landis intimated the battling White Sox first baseman would receive a lot of fatherly advice and that he would be urged to quit ring activities.

Shires still is on the suspended list, following his second insurrection against the White Sox in which he engaged in a fist fight with Russell "Lena" Blackburne, then manager of the club, in a Philadelphia hotel room last fall. He has not been removed from the suspended list by the White Sox. Neither has he been tendered a contract for the 1930 season.

—Landes May Intervene

Commissioner Landis may straighten out the suspension, thus permitting Shires to discuss terms with his club.

"I am going to have a session with Shires Monday, and, you see, I never like to discuss such personal business before hand," Commissioner Landis said. "Of course, I will be much interested in the way he has spent the winter and some of his activities will demand attention. I have about 400 children in the major leagues, and from time to time I have conferences with each of them."

Offers to box still are pouring in on shires after his success in drawing 18,000 customers to the Boston arena last week. He has an offer of $7,500 to box "Duster" Mails former major league pitcher, in Los Angeles, and also is wanted for a four round bout in the Madison Square Garden, New York.

Hakes Leading in Winter on Return

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Jan. 15. (AP) —Albert R. Hakes of Dunkirk, N. Y., led the field today to stroke a 74, three above par for the medal in the qualifying round of the annual national amateur championship of club champions.

One stroke behind him came Albert W. Haigh, White Plains, N. Y., Samuel R. Freeth, Hempstead, N. Y., and Carl Dann, the youthful defending champion from Rollins College, Winter Park, Fla.

The qualifications were marked by excellent golf, with but four of those composing the champion flight well within the seventies, with

The Great Shires knocked out a pitcher named Faeth. "You don't suppose there will be another investigation to find out whether or not Art has been keeping Faeth?

This mysterious Dan Daly, however, doesn't seem to have been entirely Faethful.

Art might have the power to move mountains, but without Faeth it would avail him nothing.

The Army isn't going to the coast any more because the long trips interfere with school work. Something is wrong with that sentence.

Who is Babe Ruth? Why he's the guy who built the Yankee Stadium where guys put on boxing trunks and dance a few rounds for $100,000

Mr. Ruth, of course, wouldn't play again unless he got $85,000. That is, wouldn't play any other place than right field for the New York Yankees.

Consider the irony of Mr. Ruth at Miami, paying for a ringside seat to watch Phil Scott earn in one night nearly as much as the Babe gets for 150 hot afternoons of toil.

A new York writer complains that this having two champions complicates the wrestling situation. After the years he probably will learn that the wrestling situation just has to be complicated.

Boxing is becoming slightly complicated, too, with most of the names on the fight cards reading like a League of Nations roster.

Maybe congress ought to take a hand in straightening out the rassling problem. It did so well with the Army-Navy dispute.

Porkers Prepare For Crucial Series With Longhorns

Matadors Out For Fifth Basketball Victory Of Year

Les Cranfill Brings Powerful Quintet Here For Battle With Paynemen; Game Starts At 8

Coach Leslie Cranfil and his Simmons University Cowboys invade the Matador court stronghold tonight to tackle the Texas Tech basketeers in a single encounter, starting at 8 o'clock.

The Matadors' mix with the Abilene quintet tonight will find the forces of Coach Victor Payne seeking their fifth successive collegiate basketball triumph of the season. Twelve members of the Simmons squad, together with Coach Cranfil, will arrive in Lubbock today from Canyon, where last night they met the West Texas Teachers.

While the Matadors have won decisive triumphs in their first four games of the season with Wayland and Howard Payne, close followers of the game realize that the Paynemen are facing tonight a much tougher assignment than they have met thus far. Champions of the Texas Conference in 1929, the Cowhands this year are favored to breeze through to another title. The majority of last year's veterans are back and Coach Cranfil has built a powerful scoring attack around the flashy Johnny Gregg, four-year Simmons star; McCollum, the other Cowboy forward and Matthews, lanky center. Harrison and Smith are the regular guards on the invading club.

Reserve Lacking.

Coach Payne's problem tonight will be to keep his one strong combination on the floor. It will take the best efforts of the Matador regulars to hold their own with the Texas Conference title holders and personal fouls on the starting five are certain to be at a premium. In previous games the Tech club has been weakened noticeably when reserves were sent into action.

Tech's scoring aces, Maxwell, Hodges and Fisher are certain to be more than well covered by the Cowboy cagers. This trio has accounted for the heavy scoring the locals have been doing in their early games. But whether or no, Coach Payne plans to send his hot shots out against the Ranchers at the outset. Hodges and Fisher will be at forwards; Maxwell at running center; Tadlock and Vinzant at guards.

Others May Play.

Grimes, Dalton, Cline and Pickett are likely to see action in the event the Tech mentor is forced to substitute.

Manager M. T. Warlick announced last night that an added attraction would be offered the fans tonight in a game between the Levelland and Meadow high school teams. This contest will follow immediately after the Tech-Simmons fracas. No extra admission is placed on the second game.

Simmons Defeats Buffaloes, 32 To 19

CANYON, Jan. 15. (AP)—The Simmons Cowboys defeated the West Texas State Teachers College Buffaloes at basketball here tonight, 32 to 19.

St. Louis Games To Be Broadcast

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 15. (AP)—Officials of the St. Louis Cardinals and the St. Louis Browns today made an agreement with two local radio stations for the broadcasting of major league baseball games from Sportsman Park in the 1930 season.

Under the agreement, stations KWK and KMOX may broadcast the games of both the Cardinals and Browns five days each week. On Saturdays, Sundays and holidays no play by play broadcasts will be permitted.

Smallpox Flurry Not Funny To Dr.

Several Hundred Persons Are Vaccinated By Health Official; Everyone Refuses To Pay Bill

TEXARKANA, Jan. 15. (AP) — There's nothing funny about this city's smallpox flurry to Dr. William Hibbitts, Texarkana, Tex., health officer.

The school board ordered compulsory vaccinations. Somehow the word got out that poor white and all negro children would be given free vaccinations by the city health officer. As a result between 400 and 500 persons, including some adults who voted themselves in on the arrangement, surged into the doctor's office.

Last night the doctor applied to city council for $100 expenses in furnishing vaccine points.

The council, declaring it had not ordered the vaccinations, referred him to the school board. That body also disclaimed responsibility.

Today Dr. Hibbitts as nursing a sore finger, resulting from an inadvertant self-vaccination caused when he plunged a broken glass tube of the fluid into the finger, and reflecting he was "out" both his professional services and his vaccine.

Fifty-seven cases, 40 of them on the Texas side, were under quarantine today.

Former Detroit Hurler to Bucs

By JACK SORDS
Central Press Sports Cartoonist-Writer

With the idea that Lil Stoner, former Detroit pitcher, might have fared better with the Tigers had conditions been different, the Pittsburgh Pirates signed the husky right-hander hoping that he will prove his worth as a big leaguer in the National league next season. Stoner spent considerable time in the Detroit uniform but never shone any too brightly. He worked under the regimes of Cobb and Moriarty, which might have had something to do with it.

Whatever Lil's success in the won and lost column for Detroit, he was and still is reputed to be a smart pitcher. Possessing only a fair fast ball, he depends on a good curve and a thorough knowledge of what his job is all about.

Stoner comes to the Pirates from Fort Worth, Tex. He won six games and lost four for the Texans last year. But what attracted the Pirates was his record of only 1.98 earned runs per game scored against him. He led all the pitchers of the league in that department.

Go See Tech Beat Cowboys

An Editorial Urging Support Of The Matador Cage Team

THE TEXAS TECH basketball team has won four consecutive intercollegiate games—the entire schedule thus far—but the support being accorded the lads is woefully inadequate.

After a whirlwind victory over the Howard Payne five Monday night, the gate on Tuesday evening clicked to the meagre sum of $65 as the Matadors took another game from the Jackets. It cost the Tech athletic department $110 to blow the whistle!

Basketball is a good game to watch. Coach Vic Payne has assembled a good team to perform. Tonight the Matadors meet their old enemies, the Cowhands from Simmons U. Why not go out?

Intercollegiate athletics, if they are to survive here, must be supported. Tech cannot go on forever, bringing teams in here for games and then losing money. Something must be done about it.

Go to the game tonight and do your part!

Invitations Sent Out for Tourney

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 15. (AP)—Invitations have been sent out to all golf clubs in Texas belonging to the Texas Golf association as well as clubs in other states for the first annual invitation golf tournament of the San Antonio Country club here January 22-25.

A large and fast field is expected for the tournament, as quite a number of amateurs will be here for the Texas Open Golf tournament, starting January 29.

The program includes a stag supper on the night of January 21, prior to the tournament start; qualifying round on January 22 and match play the next three days.

Three flights of 32 each will participate with 16 golfers losing out in the first round matches in each flight participating in a consolation play.

Bruin Quint Back At Hard Training

WACO, Jan. 15. (AP)—Fresh from a one-sided 64 to 20 victory over the Trinity Tigers, Tuesday night, the Baylor Bear quint was hard at practice this afternoon.

Bricky Byerly, who was ineligible for the Texas contest because of registration trouble, now has his difficulties smoothed out and will be eligible for remaining games.

The Trinity team will come here for a practice tilt Saturday night.

MATCH POSTPONED

CHICAGO, Jan. 15. (AP) — The third match between Jimmy McLarnin and Sammy Mandell, scheduled for the Chicago Stadium, February 4, probably will not be held until February 28, owing to a conflict of dates on the pugilistic calendar, it was revealed today.

EMBARGO LIFTED

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 15. (AP)—Officials of the Missouri Pacific lines today announced the lifting, effective immediately of an embargo on its line into Mexico at Laredo, Texas, as a result of announcement yesterday of the Mexican government's intention to reopen the consulate at Laredo. The embargo had been effective since January 1. The railroad officials said they had been advised the consulate was reopened today.

Westerners Meet Athens Saturday On Rabbit Court

Afternoon Game With National Champs At Ralls To Furnish Test; Play At Quanah Friday Night

A late change in plans in the program for the Lubbock High school cagers this week-end finds the Westerner quintet matched with the Athens Hornets, national schoolboy champions, Saturday afternoon in the municipal auditorium at Ralls, following the Lubbock-Quanah clash on the Indians' court Friday night.

Cancellation of the second game of the series with the Redskins was necessary before Coach Morgan could complete arrangements for the contest with the Hornets, Coach Jimmy Kitts and his national champs are touring the Panhandle and will be in Ralls on both Friday and Saturday nights to meet the Ralls High school quint.

The Westerners leave here early Friday for Quanah and will meet the Indians there Friday night in a single engagement. Saturday morning the locals will swing back westward and arrive in Ralls in time for the game on the Jackrabbit court, starting at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Idalou's Wildcats took a practice tilt with the Westerners Wednesday afternoon by the score of 28 to 25. The majority of the Lubbock regulars were missing from the lineup, however. Last night Coach Morgan sent his charges through another practice skirmish on the Tech floor, the Matador reserves winning handily.

Although the high school mentor has failed thus far to find a desirable combination, the quintet composed of Holmes and Hinson at forwards; Pressley at center; McGeehee and Price at guards looked like the best bet in the game with the Tech cagers last night. Holmes and McGeehee are the only letter men on the squad.

Sooner Officials After Biff Jones

NORMAN, Okla., Jan. 15. (AP)—An attempt to have Lawrence (Biff) Jones, retiring head football coach of the United States Military Academy, transferred to the University of Oklahoma R. O. T. C. was launched today by Dr. W. B. Bizzell, president.

Jones, whose transfer from West Point was required by army regulations is to report to the field artillery school at Fort Sill at the end of the academy term. He finished his fourth year at West Point last season.

In a letter to Colonel Patrick Hurley of Tulsa, secretary of war, Dr. Bizzell sought to have the army mentor assigned to the Sooner unit. He wrote Hurley on a "hunch" that Captain Jones would like to be stationed where his love for football would not be handicapped by military career, the president said.

RUTH'S CONTRACT OUT

Document Mailed To Babe Calling For $75,000

NEW YORK, Jan. 15. —(AP)—The New York Yankees today mailed contracts to Babe Ruth and 30 other players. The document sent to the home run hitter is for a term of two years and calls for a salary of $75,000 a year. Recently he left for Florida a holdout for $85,000.

Four players in good standing will not receive contracts as a result of today's mailing. Lou Gehrig, first baseman, Henry Johnson and George Pipgras, pitchers, will serve under holdover contracts in 1930, and Ben Chapman, third baseman, signed when he was in New York for a Christmas holiday appendicitis operation.

Bearded Cager

Doc Tally (this is Doc) is one of the aces of the House of David Benton Harbor, Mich., basketball team.

El Paso Tourney May Be Changed

EL PASO, Jan. 15. (AP)—There is a possibility that the annual El Paso Open Golf tournament, scheduled January 24, 25 and 26, will be cancelled, officials of the meet said today. Such action would deprive the touring professionals of $2,000 in cash prizes.

Rain, which forced postponement of the Los Angeles open and, subsequently, the Aguas Calientes open, has placed the local tournament committee in an embarrassing position. The Texas open at San Antonio, a $7,500 event, is scheduled only a few days after the local meet, and it is feared that most of the links stars would go right on through to the Alamo City if it became necessary to postpone the tournament here.

Unless San Antonio officials agree to set their meet up several days, the El Paso tourney probably will be cancelled.

Fayetteville Is Scene Of Clashes Between Leaders

Bassett Likely To Use But Five Men On Friday And Saturday Nights; Games May Mean Much

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Jan. 15 (AP)—Coach Chuck Bassett is putting his Arkansas University cage squad through intensive drill in preparation for the "crucial" series here this week-end against the Texas University Longhorns.

Although the Razorbacks captured their opening games from Texas Christian University without being greatly extended, Coach Bassett realizes he faces a much stronger foe this week. He, like a majority of critics, believes the championship lies between Arkansas and Texas.

Indications are that the Porkers will use only five men in each game. Schoonover and Pickren, forwards, Holt center, and Prewitt and Creighton guards. It is doubtful there will be a single substitute, no matter how many reserves Texas rushes into the game.

The "Big Five" can take care of itself, but it was discovered on the team's holiday tour that there is little reserve strength. The Porkers lost five straight games on the trip several of them because the reserves could not hold the leads given them by the regulars. There will be no such experimenting in conference games.

SLATON TO MEET LAMESA

(Special To The Avalanche)

SLATON, Jan. 15. — The Slaton High Tiger cage crew will play the Lamesa quintet at Lamesa on Friday night, it is announced by Coach Paul W. Wright.

India is now exporting eggs to England in such quantities that that country may soon be taking the place of China as the chief egg supplier to Britain.

The twentieth annual convocation of the Protestant Episcopal church in the missionary district of North Texas, will assemble in St. Andrew's church, Amarillo, next Sunday morning for a three-day session, according to information reaching this city yesterday.

Several Lubbock persons have planned to attend the convocation which was held in this city last year. Those included in the local party will be Rev. L. G. H. Seek Extradition Of Mrs. Schroeder

NEWCASTLE, Pa., Jan. 15. (AP)—Extradition papers for the return of Mrs. Irene Scheoder of Benwood, W. Va., to Pennsylvania were prepared today by District Attorney John Powers.

Powers said papers also would be sent for extradition of one of the men, identified as M. Glen Dague, also charged with murder.

Besides Mrs. Scheoder and Dague, Thomas Crawford, brother of the woman, also has been charged with murder.

Informed one of the men with the woman had been identified as a former Texas convict, the district attorney said he probably would not ask his extradition pending receipt of additional information concerning him.

First Women on Floor of Senate

The "weaker sex" has broken another barrier. Never had women been accorded the floor of the United States Senate till the other day when Mrs. Evelina K. Southworth, above, and Miss Ruth Peterson, below, fabric experts of the Tariff Commission, were called to furnish data during a senatorial debate on tariff measures. Here you see then smiling because the Senate had to waive its unwritten rule against admitting women to the floor.

Labor Chiefs to Unionize South's Workers

The first concerted drive to organize thousands of non-union workers in the south has been launched by the American Federation of Labor. Here you see labor leaders as they gathered at Charlotte, N. C., from where 50 organizers of the A. F. of L. were sent to principal cities in eleven southern states. Left to right are T. A. Wilson, president of the North Carolina Federation of Labor; William Green and Frank Morrison, president and secretary, respectively, of the American Federation of Labor; and W. B. Piemmons, president of the Asheville Central Labor Union. Birmingham, Ala., has been chosen as the headquarters for the far-reaching unionization campaign.

Fight On John A. Valls Looms With Legislature Meet

Refusal Of Gov. Moody To Withdraw Appointment Is Likely To Cause Controversy In Confirmation

AUSTIN, Jan. 15. (AP)—Governor Moody's action in refusing to withdraw the appointment of John Valls of Laredo as district attorney of that district may mean that the fight on the prosecuor as a result of his threat to arrest General Calles, former president of Mexico will be renewed in the Texas senate when the legislature meets next Monday.

Governor Moody will send Valls' name to the senate for confirmation as district attorney along with the names of other recess appointees.

Parrish In Statement

Senators J. W. Hornsby of Austin and Pink Parrish of Lubbock have expressed the opinion that the senate will vote overwhelmingly to confirm the Valls appointment.

The senate had previously confirmed Valls' appointment to the district judgeship, an office he resigned to return to his long-time role of prosecutor. When the legislature last winter created a new district court for Webb county, Governor Moody appointed Valls to the bench, and R. L. Bobbitt, district attorney. When Bobbitt resigned as district attorney to become attorney general, Valls expressed a desire to return to his former office and Governor Moody appointed him to the place.

The governor indicated from the start of the controversy over closing the consulate at Laredo that he would not accede to the demand that Valls be removed from office.

Blizzard Brewing In Northern Area Rocky Mountains

More Snow Piled On Already Impassable Highways As Far South As New Mexico

DENVER, Jan. 15. (AP)—High up in the northern Rocky mountains there brewed today another blizzard, and the eastern slope of the continental divide shivered before its warning blasts. As far south as New Mexico, the new storm piled more snow onto already impassable highways.

The weather man confirmed the signs and predicted "continued cold" as thermometers in Basin, Mont., Medicine Bow, Wyo., and Denver registered 32, 22 and 8 degrees below zero, respectively.

Motorists Stranded

Between Durango and Silverton, Colo., the predicament of fourteen motorists stranded in snows in a howling storm was a source of anxiety.

Since Sunday morning no word of their plight had been received here, despite efforts of men on snowshoes to penetrate the storm along the 51-mile highway. Today, with all available snow fighting equipment of the state highway department marshaled here, fresh efforts were planned to battle through the storm into the Lime creek district.

Highways Covered

In the central and northern parts of New Mexico highways became skating rinks as sleet mingled with snow. The Santa Fe-Albuquerque highway was closed because of ice on the steep, winding La Baja hill. Roads between Santa Fe and Roswell were impassable.

To the east, temperatures in Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska and eastern Missouri dropped.

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

Thorns and snares are in the way of the forward: he that doth keep his soul shall be far from them.

Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it.—Proverbs, xxii, 5, 6.

"KEEP A-GOIN,' KEEP A-GOIN'!"

"GETTIN' cold out there, Bud?"

Women who "keep a-goin'" don't have time to Union messenger boy yesterday morning, when the mercury in our best thermometers was flirting with the 20 degree mark.

"Naw sir?" came the answer, "not if you keep a-goin.' But if you stop—then you get cold!"

And that wee thought is pretty much symbolical of life, when you stop to think about it.

Men who "keep a-goin'" don't have time to 'get cold' on their jobs. They don't have time to think about getting cold. They drive along, drive along, drive along, like the Western Union boy, and sooner or later they get where they are going—to the time and to the place where they can stop out danger of getting cold.

Women who "keep a-goin' don't have time to 'get cold' on the biggest of all jobs—making a home and raising a family. They, too, press forward from morning until night, until they reach the place where they may rest in comfort—where they reach the reward they have earned by "keepin' a-goin'" and not taking time off to 'get cold' on life.

"Keep a-goin,' keep a-goin,' keep a-goin'."

The simple words of a lad barely into his 'teens are words of weighty meaning. Their counsel is good counsel for us all while we are here.

They constitute the greatest thing in life—"Keep a-goin,' keep a-goin,' keep a-goin'!"

BEARDS' STRONGHOLD FALLS!

A conflict of counsel seems to have grown up around the subject of beards. Mr. Mussolini has recently pointed out that no great Italian has worn one. On the other hand, Maurice de Waleffe, arbiter elegantiarium of the Paris boulevards, moves for their renaissance, saying the beard is the outward sign of a mature mind.

His is also a plea, he says, against monotony, since many things may be done with a beard. It may be landscaped is the shape of a shovel or trimmed down to the proportions of a torpedo. It may be permitted to flow over the lapels in the Dundreary manner, or allowed to run to stubble as was done by our Civil War notables. The Gladstone or Ibsen variety combined a smooth chin with the scenic advantages of a beard by making it a sort of outer hedge. The Lincoln type covered the face except for the upper lip; and the Van Dyke, once the badge of the fledging physician, was another of its manifold forms. Plainly the variations may be infinite.

But there are quite as many possibilities in smooth faces. Cheeks come in all shapes, round, concave, blooming, pale, high-boned, the saddle-bag type, and so forth. Chins may be retreating or protruding or even absent. Jaws may be lean or square or the type known as lantern.

The smooth chin, we should say, comes under the head of Truth in Advertising. It is less liable to mislead, to be outward sign of an attribute the subject lacks; while a luxuriant beard may conceal a fatal weakness in physiognomy or the absence of a tie. As for maturity of mind, which is thought to go with beards, it was not lacking in Caesar or Napoleon or Washington, who resorted regularly to the razor.

We fear the signs are against M. de Waleffe, and that his arguments are not compelling. It is felt nowadays, we think, that a beard signifies nothing in its wearer except that he prefers to wear one. Even in Soviet Russia, the last stronghold of beards in their primeval glory, an American razor company's installing a branch.

"OH, YEAH?"

The derisive retort "Oh, yeah?" is now on the lips of lisping babes, as well as on those of respectables parents and grandfathers. It sprang from the people; before anyone could attribute genius to the inventor, it had been recognized as the national shibboleth; and presently it will pass away, and be heard no more. Speed the day? Oh, yeah; but it will replaced by some other expression.

Charles Mackey wrote, about 1850: "Many years ago the favorite phrase was 'Quoz.' The odd word took the fancy of the multitude in an extraordinary degree, and very soon acquired almost a boundless meaning. When vulgar wit wished to mark its incredulity and raise a laugh at the same time, there was no resource so sure as this popular piece of slang—Every ale-house resounded with 'Quoz,' every street corner was noisy with it, and every wall for miles around was chalked with it."

But "Quoz" grew old-fashioned and disappeared. It was replaced by "Walker," accented on the last syllable. This was the word flung at old Scrooge when he requested the small boy to buy the prize turkey for him, to be delivered to Bob Cratchit. In turn it was succeeded by the question, "Has your mother sold her mangle?" which was presently varied to "Does your mother know you're out?" After which came "Who are you?" And soon this was superceded in popular favor by some other phrase equally banal, equally meaningful.

Even now, somewhere, a word or phrase is being spoken which is destined to crowd "Oh, yeah?" from the popular mind. It's no use wondering what it is; we shall hear it when the time comes, and it will sweep the country like influenza.

AVOIDABLE AIRPLANE ACCIDENTS

Loss of 10 lives in the California plane accident is in itself a shocking disaster, and doubly deplorable because it was one of those avoidable tragedies that help to convey exaggerated impressions of the risks of aviation.

In this case two planes, maneuvering with a third in connection with the production of a movie film, collided head on, presumably through a misunderstanding of signals. The resulting crash, like many that occur in stunt flying, adds to the total of flying fatalities without having the remotest connection with the hazards of transportation by air.

When such accidents are considered they should be dissociated from those that occur in transport flying, which, though certainly not free from serious mishaps, is accomplished with a much greater degree of safety than may be popularly supposed.

If the boy cries for a horn, maybe you'd better give him one to shut him up.

WASHINGTON FILLED WITH TEMPORARY COMBUSTIBLE STRUCTURES AND FIRE DANGER IS EVER PREVALENT; NEW BUILDINGS TO RELIEVE DANGER

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Although a fire in the Capitol building, only 10 days after flames had left little more than the walls standing of the White House's left wing, did wring from Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Michigan, the ejaculation, "There must be more than coincidence in this!" nevertheless investigation soon left little doubt that coincidence was about all the sequence amounted to.

Coincidence mixed with a modicum of carelessness, that is to say.

The truth is, the government ought to be mighty thankful it has not had a sure-enough fire in the last few years.

* * *

Ever since the World war, when the departments overflowed all their old quarters, important subdivisions of them have been housed in the most amazing collection of inflammable rattletraps that veritable mountains of almost invaluable records ever were stored in, in any capital in the world.

These shacks were slapped up pell-mell, acres of them in extent, out of almost nothing but lath and plaster, with the country already in the world conflict, and literally anything passed muster.

Except that none of them exceeds three stories in height, and probably could be jumped from, through their windows, without a very heavy casualty list, the danger to their occupants' lives, as well as to property, would be frightful. Even as it is, an alarm would have to be instant, for they would burn like card structures.

* * *

To be sure, the government's building program will empty the worst of its temporary war-time edifices within a few months, but the risk has been sneezed at for ten long years. For that matter it is not too late yet for the finest bonfire in the history of Washington.

The authorities know it and have all along "No smoking" signs not only line all the walls of the crates in which a full half of the workers in such departments as those of commerce and the treasury spend their time, but the slightest flicker of flame is banned under dire penalties anywhere in their neighborhoods, outside.

* * *

For instance, the census bureau is accomodated in as combustible a shell as if it were made of pasteboard; indeed, more so, for pasteboard might not flare up so readily if it were wet, and the census bureau's mammoth drygoods box is as parched as tinder.

Needless to say, the census bureau's entire stock in trade is its years' accumulation of statistics.

It is no exaggeration to state that an explosion could hardly blow that dried-out framework of two-by-fours to smithereens in shorter order than it would go up in smoke if a playful child held a match to it for a second and a half.

* * *

Of course the government's buildings (not counting the ones now under construction, which are regular modern steel and concrete affairs) are middling fire resistant.

The interior and labor departments, and the main offices of the commerce department also, are all right.

The homes of the state, war and navy departments and the older agriculture department buildings would burn—not in the wink of an eye, but if they got a good start, as the west wing of the White House did.

* * *

The Capitol, be it understood, is substantial, in its 18th and 19th century way.

It is difficult to imagine a fire that could gain such headway in it (unless it were deliberately set and encouraged, as by the British in 1814) as to damage it seriously—structurally.

A lot of its contents, however, would burn like a pine knot.

It is somewhat disquieting to realize that such a fire actually can smoulder in it, as it did recently, undiscovered until flame and smoke burst right out through the roof and dome, for chance passerby to see, and give the alarm.

SEVERE EXERCISE CAUSES HEART TO SHRINK TEMPORARILY

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Muscular exercise increases the rate of the pulse and is followed by a fall in the blood pressure. By the use of the X-ray it has been found that one of the immediate effects is also temporary decrease in the size of the heart.

Examination of the Olympic athletes in 1928 indicates that 90 per cent of them had some diminution in the width of the heart immediately after a maximal physical exercise. Indeed, after a marathon race the heart was temporarily decreased in size for about 24 hours and then restored to normal.

In the vast majority of cases muscular exercises do not increase the size of the heart beyond what might be expected from natural growth. It is the opinion of the investigators that the changes brought about in the heart by exercise are not the result of changes in the character of the blood due to the exercise itself, but represent the response of the heart tissue to the new conditions.

One of the most interesting organs in the body is the spleen, the function of which has been a puzzle to physicians for more than a century. Apparently this organ also contracts in size following muscular exercise, and it is coming to the opinion that the spleen is one of the organs which controls the volume of the blood.

During exercise more blood is required for the activities of the muscles and the spleen acts to force more blood into the circulation.

Another fact which has long been known is the appearance in the secretion of the kidneys of albumin immediately after severe exercise in people who may not have had albumin previously. Swiss marathon runners who were examined in 1928 invariably revealed this condition, whereas previously not one had shown any excretion of albumin previous to the race.

Some of the runners were still excreting casts and albumin and red blood cells eight to 14 days after the race, which is an indication of the damage that may be done to the organs by severe efforts of this character. It has been suggested that possibly the severity of the symptoms in the particular instance reported was due to the fact that the race was run on a very hot day and that therefore extra strain was placed on the organs of excretion.

Street car riders will stand for almost anything these days except a woman.

Today's Poem

A SONG

Sing me a sweet, low song of night
Before the moon is risen,
A song that tells of the stars' delight
Escaped from day's bright prison
A song that croons with the cricket's voice,
That sleeps with the shadowed tree,
A song that shall bid my heart rejoice
At its tender mysteries!

And then when the song is ended love,
Bend down your head unto me,
Whisper the word that was born above
Ere the moon had swayed the sea
Ere the oldest star began to shine
Or the farthest sun to burn—
The oldest of words, O heart of mine,
Yet newest and sweet to learn.
—Hildegrade Hawthorne (18—)

DESTROYER ON WAY

Plan To Protect American Citizens In China

SHANGHAI, Jan. 15. (AP) — The United States destroyer MacLeish was heading for Hoibow, port city of Hainan Island, today to protect 15 Americans who reported that communists had launched a campaign of slaying and looting there.

The destroyer was dispatched from Swatow upon orders from Rear Admiral Charles McVay, commander of United States naval forces in Chinese waters. Canton authorities also sent five gunboats to the scene.

The reds had seized the city and there was much disorder, although the foreigners had not been harmed.

VOTE FOR ONE MAN

BIG SPRING, Jan. 15. (Special)—Unless the 1930 U. S. census figures become official before November the people of Howard county will again vote for one man for the office of sheriff and tax collector, according to information received here from the attorney general's office. While Big Spring has more than 10,000 people, the town only had 4,500 people at last census and the laws requires a population of 10,000 federal census to maintain the two offices separately.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

After a whirlwind courtship JUDITH CAMERON, typist in a New York publishing office, is married to ARTHUR KNIGHT, executive of the firm. Knight is a widower, father of two children, TONY, his 18-year-old daughter is in Europe and JUNIOR, 16, is attending school.

Judith has been snubbed by other employes because she was not communicative about her private affairs. She has no intimate friends though on several occasions she keeps mysterious appointments with a young man known as DAN.

The first week of their honeymoon in Bermuda is a paradise of sunny days and moonlit nights. Then comes a cablegram, forwarded from New York, in which Tony Knight announces she is sailing for home. Knight says he and Judith must return to meet Tony's boat. They depart two days later. Since neither of Knight's children has been told about the marriage, Judith is skeptical of her welcome.

Knight has no such worries and begins making eager plans for Christmas which is only one week distant. Immediately after landing they drive to Knight's Long Island home. Judith steps from the car, sways and is about to fall when Knight catches her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER X

Judith put one hand to her head. "But it's nothing," she insisted smiling shakily. "Just dizziness, I guess, from the car. Hard to realize I'm on land again."

Arthur regarded her anxiously. "Sure you feel better?"

"Of course. I'm all right now."

They went up the walk to the house. A woman in gray morning dress stood waiting in the doorway.

"Mrs. Wheeler, the housekeeper," Knight explained. "Been here for years."

As they came up the steps Knight spoke heartily:

"Good morning, Mrs. Wheeler. Fine to be home again, Judith, this is Mrs. Wheeler, who can tell you everything there is to know about the house. Mrs. Wheeler, Mrs. Knight."

Judith took the housekeeper's hand and smiled. She saw a large middle-aged woman with an air of capability. Mrs. Wheeler was florid-faced and wore glasses. Her dark hair was piled into a neat knob at the top of her head. She seemed aggressively alert.

"Good morning, Mrs. Knight," the woman said. "I hope you had a good voyage, Ma'am?"

"Oh, yes, a fine voyage, thank you."

They had stepped into a broad hallway which seemed to be the center of the house. A winding stairway arose in the background. Doors at each side led into larger rooms. Judith caught a quick impression of dull, unobtrusive furnishings. Nothing stood out interestingly but there was a huge bouquet of red roses in a hideous vase upon a table. Everything glistened and shone with polish. It must have been put in readiness hurriedly and the girl felt she should be appreciative!

"How nice everything looks!" Judith said, turning to Mrs. Wheeler. "Oh, I shall have to ask you a great many questions and have a long talk this afternoon, Mrs. Wheeler. I know you can tell me so much."

A younger girl in a maid's uniform stepped forward to take Judith's and Arthur's wraps.

"This is Harriet," Mrs. Wheeler introduced the maid.

"How do you do, Harriet," Judith answered, offering the girl her hand. Knight murmured a greeting, half of which was not heard.

Mrs. Wheeler followed Judith and Arthur into the living room where logs were crackling in the fireplace. It was a long room with windows on the east and north. Morning sunlight came streaming through the ornate curtains. Heavy over-stuffed furniture and several chairs of mahogany stood about. There were innumerable footstools, small tables and occasional pieces. Two Chinese rugs covered the floor, very good ones. Nothing was radically wrong with the room, Judith told herself. Everything in it was in good taste. The whole simply failed to fit together. Its atmosphere (if there could be said to be a trace of such a quality) was stolid unintelligent wealth.

More red roses bloomed on the mantel and large reading table.

Judith was determined to be cheerful.

"The flowers are lovely," she told the waiting Mrs. Wheeler. "How thoughtful to have ordered them."

"We always have flowers when the house is open, Ma'am," the housekeeper said primly, but Judith was certain the praise had pleased her.

Knight had drawn a cigar from a humidor and was lighting it.

"Have it any time you want, dear," he told Judith. "You won't mind if I don't wait, do you? Thought I'd like to run in and get hold of R. G. (R. G. Hunter) before he gets off to the club. I'll be back quite early but I'd rather not take time for lunch. Sure you don't mind?"

"Not in the least!" Judith assured him, smiling. What else could she say to a husband so eager to be off?

"You can serve me in about an hour and a half," she told Mrs. Wheeler. "I'm going to want to rest a bit."

"Would you like to go upstairs now, Ma'am?"

"Why—I—" Judith hesitated. "Yes I supose I would. You're going to leave right away, aren't you, Arthur?"

He had already summoned Harriet and was putting on his top coat. "Be back by four o'clock sure," he told Judith. "Rest up. Mrs. Wheeler'll attend to anything you want. Goodby, dear."

They kissed. Then Knight pulled the front door open and was gone.

Judith felt lost in the big house.

"Let's look about down stairs a little before we go to my room," she said to Mrs. Wheeler. She was going to add that it seemed to be a very large house, then changed her mind, remembering that servants must be properly impressed.

The Knight residence was a large one. Architecturally it was attractive, but furnishings and draperies throughout lacked brightness and modernity. On the first floor there were the living room, dining room, library, a smaller room where Knight kept a desk which was known as "the study," and on the west side of the house, half-enclosed in glass, a "sun room."

Upstairs Judith found another central hallway corresponding to the one below, and six bedrooms. Somewhere at the back of the house there were quarters for the servants.

Harriet, the new maid, had been hired only a week ago, Mrs. Wheeler said. Then there was Cora, who had been the cook two years ago and dismissed after the house was closed. Mrs. Wheeler felt that she had been extremely fortunate in obtaining Cora's services again. Bert, the chauffeur, also took care of the walks and lawn and did the odd jobs that needed a man's hands.

"An here's your room, Ma'am."

The housekeeper drew back the door and Judith entered a bedroom. It was not the largest of the six. It had three windows and an air of freshness and sunlight. The furniture was old-fashioned walnut and the girl loved it instantly. A quaint, sedate charm pervaded the room which had a doorway leading into another chamber.

"Mr. Knight's," the housekeeper volunteered demurely.

Judith looked into the room beyond. It was much like all the others which she had seen.

"I think it's beautiful," said Judith.

The triumph of the big house was yet to come. Judith supposed she had seen all of it, but no—!

"You'll want to see Miss Tony's room," the housekeeper urged. "Here—down the hall."

Wondering, Judith walked after her. Mrs. Wheeler threw the door open and stepped back. Judith looked into a lavish French boudoir.

The room was very girlish—that is, it was exactly what the taste of a 17-year-old school girl would be likely to dictate if she had been told to instruct a decorator exactly how to furnish a bedroom, sparing no expense.

"Her father gave it to Miss Tony on her last birthday," the older woman explained. "My—ain't it elegant though?"

"She's coming, you know, tomorrow morning," Judith said.

"Yes. So Mr. Knight's message said. Well, we'll have plenty going on all right with Tony here!"

Judith scarcely heard. She was still marveling at the lavish rose and blue taffeta curtains, the rose velour chaise lounge with its innumerable lace pillows, the bed, dressing table and other pieces of Louis XIV furniture. Genuine woods, delicately constructed and prodigiously expensive! There was a lace coverlet thrown over rose satin upon the bed. A whole family of French pierrot and pierrette dolls languishing together upon the coverlet. Souvenirs of a dozen parties were cluttered about.

"Tony never would let me change any of those things," Mrs. Wheeler was quick to defend herself. "She said she liked things sort of careless. My—all this cost a lot! But Mr. Knight's such a good man. And he never has the heart to deny Tony anything. She could have the moon if she asked him for it."

Tony—Tony—Tony.

"Do you want to see Arthur Junior's room?" the housekeeper asked.

"Thank you," Judith spoke up quickly. "I do want to rest and freshen up so I think that can wait. I want a very simple luncheon, Mrs. Wheeler. Just soup and an omelet or something quite light."

"It'll be ready in half an hour, Ma'am," Mrs. Wheeler assured her.

Judith returned to the room which was to be hers and shut the door. She looked about. The charming old walnut was beautiful but it would have to go. She felt like an interloper.

She slipped off her garments, picked up a silk robe and stepped into the severe white-tiled bathroom. The adjoining bath was the only touch of luxury the bedroom afforded.

She splashed in warm water and soapsuds and the steamy moisture crept up from the tub and curled her wavy locks tighter. Then she slipped on her frivolous little leather mules, pulled her robe about her and returned to the bedroom to dress.

The afternoon was to be devoted to household duties. Judith pulled the beige crepe frock over her head again, paused before the dressing table mirror to take an inventory of her appearance and then went down stairs.

She found Mrs. Wheeler in the reception hall.

"Luncheon's ready, Ma'am. I was just going to call you."

Judith followed into the big, square dining room. It was rather dark, and mahogany furniture added to this impression. The table linen was exquisite and showy and there was a low bowl of roses. At the head of the table a chair was placed. In front of it was service laid for one.

Judith sat down. A moment later Harriet appeared bearing a tray with a bowl of steaming broth.

It was chicken soup with rice, rich and well seasoned. Judith ate it slowly.

She was here in Arthur Knight's home, a bride, and she was having her first meal alone.

Cotton Quiet; Stock Mart Spirited

Market Recovery Follows Decline In Early Session

Price Fluctuations Scarce After Bearish Influence Of Consumption Report Causes Value Decrease

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 15. (AP)—Cotton was quiet today and following a recovery from an early decline prices scarcely fluctuated. A bearish view of the consumption report influenced an early downward trend but the decline met covering and March contracts which had sold off from 17.41 to 17.36 and closed at that figure, with the general market closing steady at net declines of 1 to 5 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of 2 to 3 points and showed net losses of about 2 to 6 points during the early trading under realizing and liquidation. The census report placed domestic consumption for December at 483,892 bales compared with 544,186 in November and 533,301 in December last year. These figures were slightly below expectations but the market soon steadied on trade buying and covering.

Wheat Lower On Cash Grain Mart

FORT WORTH, Jan. 15. —(AP)—Wheat on the cash grain market was lower again today in sympathy with contract markets. Milo was active and strong. Oats and barley continued slow.

Exporters bid 1.28 1-2 to 1.29 for No. 1 ordinary export wheat delivered Texas gulf ports.

Other bids and offers, basis carloads delivered, freight paid to Texas common points:

Wheat No. 1 ordinary hard milling 1.30 a 1.31; No. 1 hard 13 per cent protein 1.31 a 1.32; 14 per cent 1.35 to 1.36.

Corn: No. 2 mixed 99 a 1.00; No. 2 white or yellow 1.02 a 1.03.

Oats: No. 2 red 61 a 62; No. 3 red 59 a 60; No. 3 white Texas group one points 55 1-2 a 56.

Hog Trade Fairly Active Around 11 Market Circuit on Lighter Weight

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 15. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Hog trade around the 11-market circuit was fairly active on the lighter weight at firm to 10c higher prices but strong weight butchers were on a weak to 15c lower basis. The top of 10.10 was paid in Chicago. Offerings 10,900, an increase of 4,400 over a week ago but 12,000 short of the corresponding day last year.

The sheep supply approximated 43,950 against 50,314 last Wednesday and 46,226 a year ago. Most river markets were able to maintain steady prices on killing classes. At Chicago trade was very slow at steady to 25c lower figures. Chicago reported fed wooled lambs up to 13.85.

Killing classes of cattle met a slow demand with packers endeavoring to hammer prices on everything but the better grades of light weight steers and yearlings. Chicago scored $16 on choice yearlings and realized 14.75 on around 1500 lb. beeves. Several points around the loop reported a less active demand for replacement stock. Receipts 36,800. 3,000 more than a week ago and slightly under a year ago.

All Classes Are Steady On Market

Particularly Better Kind Of Cattle And Calves At Fort Worth On Wednesday Demand Steady Price

FORT WORTH, Jan. 15. (AP)—All classes of cattle and calves—particularly the better kind—about steady here today. The fairly good and medium quality calves a little slow in line with Tuesday. A moderate supply of cattle and calves was in the hands of sellers today, steers scarce.

Common light bulls 5.75; fair quality bulls 7.00. Better ones at 8.00 and up.

Thick fleshed cows $60 and a few individuals at higher levels. Butcher cows 6.00, canners 4.00 and 4.50.

Yearlings Liberal

Slaughter yearlings and heifers liberal in proportion to the total grown cattle receipts. Values steady to strong. The top load came from Young county and was a very desirable load of well-finished yearlings that sold at 13.4. Other loads 13.00 and less. Common packages $7.00 and less.

Better calves sold steady to packers and shipper buyers at 11.65 and less, desirable light steer calves sold for stockers at 11.75 and less. Heavy calves or short yearlings that had been fed 12.00. Cull calves 6.50.

Sheep sales about steady. Aged wethers sold at 8.50 and 2 year olds at 9.50; yearlings at 10.00 and less and shorn fat lambs at 12.00 and 12.50; wooled fat lambs at 13.25.

Hogs strong to 15c higher; fairly good butchers sold at 9.50 and others held for higher prices. Truck top 9.40.

Downward Swing Of Wheat Price

CHICAGO, Jan. 15. (AP)—Slashing of 24,000,000 bushels from estimated world imports needs for wheat this season led to a sudden downward swing of wheat values today. The curtailment brings the estimated total as low as 672,000,000 bu., the smallest since 1925-26, and 240,000,000 bu. less than actual clearance in 1928-29. An additional disturbing influence was the fact that export purchases of North American wheat today were reduced nearly to the vanishing point, aggregating only 200,000 bushels.

Chicago closing prices on wheat were unsettled, 1 1-2c to 1 3-4c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1 1-2c to 1 5-8c down, oats 3-8 to 1 1-2c to 5-8 to 3-4c off, and provisions varying from 10c setback to a rise of 12c.

COMMITS SUICIDE

Millionaire Capitalist Is Found Dead In Bed

HEMPSTEAD, Jan. 15. (AP)—Lashed by nervous disorders, Ray R. Urban, popularly believed to be a millionaire, committed suicide today, according to the coroner's verdict.

Catherine, a nine year old daughter, heard a shot and rushed into her father's room to find him dead in bed, a pistol beside him.

The capitalist, who suffered a nervous collapse about six weeks ago, just had returned from Houston where he had been treated. He owned much business and residential property and operated throughout South Texas as a cotton buyer. He also conducted private banking enterprises and was reported to have been connected with operations in the Raccoon Bend oil field.

SMUGGLING ALLEGED

Government Takes Blow At Organized Alien Ring

HOUSTON, Jan. 15. (AP)—The government's second blow at an alleged vast alien smuggling organization was dealt here today.

Two Chinese seamen were charged before U. S. Commissioner Winston McMahen with smuggling aliens. Nine other Chinese, assertedly taken aboard in Chile and landed off the Norwegian ship Toluma here, were charged with illegal entry.

The eleven were arrested in New Orleans and will be brought here for trial.

Opposing Forces Clash To Change Market Idleness

Bull Crowd Gains An Upper Hand But Victory Is Not Decisive; Trading Stays In Narrow Rut

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Writer.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15. (AP) — The most spirited clash between opposing speculative forces experienced in nearly two weeks today moderately disturbed the comparative idleness in which the stock market has languished since the holidays, and ended with the bull crowd gaining the upper hand.

The bull victory was not decisive, and operations were not violent enough to shake the market out of its narrow trading rut. Sales totaled 2,630,060, the largest since January 2, but the price index of 50 leading stocks showed a net gain of less than a point.

Advance Aided.

The advance was aided by renewed talk of a decrease in the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate tomorrow. Such action will undoubtedly depend upon whether the Bank of England reduces its rate tomorrow morning. A large shipment of gold from Spain to London enhances the prospect of such action, but Sterling exchange has weakened so decisively of late that the prospect is not regarded as particularly promising.

Money at this center cheapened considerably. Call loans declined to 4 per cent, after renewals at 5 1-2, and funds were offered in the outside market as low as 3 1-2. Time money was also easier.

British Views

of doubtful value and said that in due time Great Britain would abolish it by international agreement. The cruiser problem was related largely to the distribution of tonnage in different categories. Destroyers depended on the relation of the other units to submarines the abolition of which Great Britain favored.

LAREDO PICKS UP

Mexican Consulate Will Be Opened Tomorrow

LAREDO, Jan. 15. (AP)—Business in Laredo, a port of entry between the United States and Mexico, prepared tonight to pick up where it left off nearly a month ago.

Lacking three days, a month has elapsed since commercial relations between the city and the Mexican government were disrupted by closing of the Mexican consulate, following attempts of District Attorney John A. Valls to arrest former President Calles of Mexico.

Yesterday it was announced officially that the consulate would be reopened Friday morning, the Mexican government having been officially assured of the safety of Mexican citizens traveling lawfully in Webb county.

Free of Vibration

The Imperial valley, where the border city of Calexico experienced a damaging quake in 1924, also was free of today's seismological visitation, although the shocks extended without marked intensity into the neighboring Cochella valley, just to the west.

Indio and Niland, near Salton sea reported the quake.

The Mojave desert north of Cajon pass in the San Bernardino mountain range, appeared to have borne the brunt of the shocks without damage. Barstow suffered a rather rugged shaking, as did Ludlow fifty miles to the east. Communication lines remained inact.

In Pomona some dismay was caused when the first shock, which was the stronger of the two, put most of the city's telephones out of commission for a brief time. The damage was not serious, however and service was restored quickly.

Radio Commission Called Political Football By Paper

Investigation Of Reports Demanded By Senator As Hearing Continues On Communications Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. (AP)—Investigation by the senate interstate commerce committee of reports that an attempt was being made to make a "political football" out of the federal radio commission was demanded today by Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, as the committee continued hearings on the Couzens communications bill.

The Montana senator said he had received a report from a newspaperman that a man had been appointed attorney for the commission who had had no experience in the radio field and that it was the purpose to appoint two negros from Ohio to assist him. The latter, he added, had had no experience either. Thad Brown, Columbus, Ohio, attorney, was recently named attorney for the commission.

Senator Dill, democrat, Washington, observed that the situation respecting the commission's attorneys was "very bad" explaining that two of them had retired while an important case was pending in the supreme court.

City Manager Row "Political Plot" Ex-Mayor Claims

Published Rumors Connect Name Of City Commissioner As Successor To Man Asked To Resign

BEAUMONT, Jan. 15. (AP)—Simultaneously with the publication of rumors linking the name of J. L. Appling, city commissioner, with prospective successors of J. W. Anderson, city manager, whom the council last night asked to resign, E. W. Gross, former mayor, and the man who appointed Anderson to office, denounced the action as "political intrigue," today. He added that the secret of it would be revealed with the appointment, if there is any, of the new manager. Anderson has not yet resigned and probably will await action of the commission.

The mayor, Dr. C. M. White, had no statement to make regarding Gross' attack, and said that the matter must yet come to the attention of the commission for final action. Although presiding at the council meeting, White did not vote, since he may not do so except in ties. He and other commissioners have not stated their position.

Claim Incompetency.

The council's action was based on on charges of incompetency. Gross, in his statement yesterday, declared that Anderson had been very efficient during the Gross administration and remarked.

"I regard the action of the city council last night as unjustified, unreasonable and outrageous. I denounce the secret meetings at which this action was agreed upon and believe that when Mr. Anderson's successor is chosen, if one is chosen, that the secret of this political intrigue will be revealed."

Kanady seemed pleased with the sentence and thanked the jury for showing leniency.

The jury was out 30 minutes, reporting at six p. m.

Murder Trial of Five Is Delayed

GASTONIA, N. C., Jan. 15. (AP)—Request of State Attorney General Dennis G. Brummitt for removal of the cases to another county caused temporary postponement this afternoon of the trial of five men indicted a few hours previously for murder of Mrs. Ella May Wiggins, a cotton mill worker.

Solicitor John G. Carpenter, who announced when the men were arraigned and pleaded not guilty he would ask for second degree murder verdicts, joined with defense council in opposing removal of the trial.

Presiding Judge J. H. Clement postponed the trial and announced he would hear further arguments on the motion tomorrow morning.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 15. (AP) Governor Holloway and J. Berry King, attorney general, will go to Austin, Texas, January 24, for a conference with Governor Moody and members of the Texas legislature in an effort to reach a settlement in the western boundary dispute.

The meeting was arranged today through a telephone conversation with the Texas executive.

Pro Sentences In Michigan Reduced By Governor Green

Terms Of Five Men Serving Life In Penitentiary Are Commuted Under New 1929 Amendment

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 15. (AP)—Governor Fred W. Green today commuted the sentences of five Michigan violators of the prohibition law serving life terms under the provisions of the state's former criminal code.

By this act the governor finally ushered into oblivion that clause of the Michigan criminal code which provided a mandatory life sentence for any prisoner found guilty of four liquor law felonies or whose fourth felony happened to be a violation of the liquor law. The sentences were cut to from seven and one-half to 15 years, complying with an amendment to the code passed by the 1929 legislature.

"It was not the intention of the drafters of the criminal code that violations of the liquor law should bring life sentences," Governor Green explained.

Under the revised criminal code the life sentence for fourth offenders will only be applied when the fourth offense is one which, as a first offense, carries a maximum penalty of at least five years in prison. The maximum penalty for violations of the state liquor law is only four years. Fourth offenders whose fourth conviction comes under the lesser classification will accordingly receive the mandatory sentence of from seven and one-half to 15 years.

Allen Attorneys Seek To Prevent Death In Chair

Last Minute Delay Sought In Execution Of Doomed Man Scheduled For Early Friday Morning

DALLAS, Jan. 15. (AP)—Attorneys for E. V. Allen were fighting against time tonight to save him from dying in the electric chair in the early hours of Friday morning for bank robbery.

The hope of all condemned men, executive clemency, was denied Allen today by Governor Dan Moody. The governor had been asked to commute the sentence to life imprisonment.

Seek Sanity Hearing

Maury Hughes, Allen's attorney, then fell back upon the last resort, an attempt to obtain a sanity hearing. Failing in this Allen will go to the chair.

To obtain a sanity hearing, Hughes must have time to go to Eastland, where Allen was convicted, and file the petition. Because of the short time intervening, he asked Governor Moody, following the governor's refusal of a commutation, to grant a ten days' stay.

Time To Brief

In his telegram, Hughes, who was employed by the American Civil Liberties union, pointed out that the long delay in giving a decision as to executive clemency had made the time too brief for other legal processes on behalf of Allen. Hughes said that all members of the jury which convicted Allen had joined in the request for commutation. According to advices from Austin, 11 of the jurors signed it.

Allen was convicted of robbing a bank at Carbon, Texas. No shots were fired in the robbery, and a companion received a prison sentence.

AIKEN TO WACO

Dr. T. J. Aiken, Lubbock food inspector, left last night for Waco where he will attend the state convention of the Texas Veterinary Medical association. The convention is to be held in that city on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. He will return to Lubbock Sunday.

VALUATIONS BOOSTED

With the issuance of one small permit yesterday afternoon Lubbock's building valuations were increased for the month of January to $63,410, for 16 permits.

Yesterday's permit went to L. C. Gilley for moving a residence to 1305 Avenue H, at a cost of $10.

Anti-Saloon Meet Opens In Detroit Wednesday Night

Militant Fight Promised Against Liquor By Heads Of Organization During Biennial Convention

DETROIT, Jan. 15. (AP)—Calls for unrelenting militancy mingled with paeans of conquest and hopeful predictions in addresses of national leaders at the opening session of the Anti-Saloon league's biennial convention here tonight.

The league has "enlisted for the duration of the war," F. Scott McBride, general superintendent, asserted in his address, and it must continue "an aggressive, militant fight until country and city submit to the law." A similar spirit permeated the address of the Rev. A. J. Barton of Atlanta, chairman of the National Executive committee who spoke on "Dry Strategy for 1930."

Most Hated, Feared.

Rev. Barton asserted the league is the most hated and feared organization in America. "The wets," he added, "are more and more amazed at the strength of our organization. In a pitying and patronizing way they announce that we are dead, or at least moribund. The wish is father to the thought."

A "well-organized, happily cooperating, gloriously militant body" is the "imperative demand of this hour," Rev. Barton declared. As one point of the strategy to this end he suggested that state leagues be given a larger autonomy, that they may "function more effectively, each in its own sphere and may give larger support, both moral and financial to the national league."

Out of Politics.

Keeping prohibition "out of and above party politics and party contentions," was another point suggested. Responsibility for the presence of the prohibition issue in the last presidential campaign was laid by Rev. Barton upon "the nominee of one of the parties, who felt himself big enough to bully his party, to jump its platform and make his own."

"I predict," he continued, "that never again will any party allow itself to be so bullied and so lead to certain political slaughter, and that hereafter both of the major parties will frankly espouse prohibition as a dearly bought and highly fruitful American achievement."

Ask Hoover Support.

"We must, we will give wholehearted support to our president and all others charged with responsibility for enforcement of law who are faithfully doing their duty," he said in summing up the final point of his program. "The whole situation as to prohibition and prohibition enforcement has been changed and is being changed more and more by the example and influence and straightforward course of the president. Three years more—shall I say seven years more?—of the present order of things at the White House, and the whole country will be dry, both in law and in fact."

TO ATTEND MEET

WACO, Jan. 15. (AP) — A Waco Chamber of Commerce committee, headed by E. C. Barrett will attend a conference at Abilene, January 27, relative to construction of a railroad line between Cross Plains and Abilene as contemplated by Texas capitalists and Abilene men. Waco will intervene in behalf of the road, since its establishment will add considerably to this city's trade territory.

"Never Felt Better In My Life," States

Wichita Man Says Didn't Feel Like Working But Orgatone Gives Him Strength And Energy

"I honestly never felt better in my life," said Marvin McClendon, of 311 Lee Street, Wichita Falls, Texas. Mr. McClendon is employed at the Albright Transfer Co.

"I've had stomach trouble for some time," he continued, "and always felt tired and worn out and no-account and never felt like doing my work. Sometimes when I had to make a long run, driving a truck, I would feel so bad, it would nearly kill me and I couldn't hardly make it. I didn't have any appetite and what food I ate didn't digest and I was awfully constipated. I was quite nervous and restless and never got a good night's sleep.

"I saw where Orgatone was advertised so highly for just such troubles as mine and began taking it. I haven't taken one bottle and certainly feel like a different person. I am also taking the iron for my blood and it, too, is helping me. I eat anything I want now and it doesn't bother me at all. I'm not nervous and sleep fine every night.

My constipation has been relieved, and in fact, I feel better and stronger in every way. Now, I can make a long drive and it doesn't even make me tired out as it used to. I am glad to recommend Orgatone for I know it is a good medicine."

Genuine Orgatone may be obtained in Lubbock at Bowen's Drug Store. Adv.

Anglo-American Feature At Meet To Be Prominent

American Delegation Plans To Arrive In London On Friday In Preparation For Naval Conference

BY BYRON PRICE
Associated Press Staff Writer

S. S. GEORGE WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. (AP)—It seems certain that the Anglo-American feature of the London naval conference negotiations will have a prominent place in discussions beginning with arrival of the American delegation in England Friday.

Although Henry L. Stimson, American secretary of state and head of the delegation, is not disclosing his plans, it is not improbable that he and Ramsay MacDonald, British premier, will discuss in advance of the conference recent indications of irritation among the other powers at the close cooperation of the British and American governments in the inception of the negotiations.

Irritation Not Justified

The American delegation feels strongly that such irritation is not justified and that Colonel Stimson may take the first opportunity to reassure others that the two nations enter the conference unbound by any agreement except to work toward the common end of naval limitation.

After Premier MacDonald's visit to President Hoover, Colonel Stimson denied suggestions abroad that an effort would be made to bring the conference under Anglo-American domination. A misunderstanding seems to have arisen in some quarters also regarding status of the parity agreement. It can be said authoritatively that while agreement in principle has been reached by the two nations there is still division of thought as to the exact cruiser strength allowable, and some points of differences remain respecting battleships.

Deny Understanding

Secretary Stimson feels it would be most unfortunate if anyone entered the conference under a wrong impression of these subjects. In talks with heads of the other delegations before the opening of the conclave Tuesday he undoubtedly will reject most vigorously any hint of a joint Anglo-American understanding as to a general limitation plan for all the powers.

With the George Washington speeding eastward in the hope of reaching Plymouth late tomorrow night, the American delegates are becoming involved in preliminary plans for their reception. After a radio exchange yesterday Colonel Stimson left it to Ambassador Dawes whether any formal governmental welcome would be appropriate on the night of the landing.

The subject was considered at a conference of Colonel Stimson, Ambassador Morrow, Captain Randall, of the ship, and others, but no decision was reached.

Fined for Three Swindling Counts

Carl Hays, formerly of Lubbock, was assessed a fine of $1 and costs, aggregating about $23.40, in each case yesterday morning in the county court following his plea of guilty to three charges of swindling.

He also was sentenced to a day in jail on one of the charges.

Another complaint, charging swindling, was filed against Hays by County Attorney Vaughn E. Wilson shortly before noon yesterday.

The man and his wife were arrested Monday night in Plainview and returned to this city Tuesday.

President's Farewell to American Arms Envoys

Reed of Pennsylvania, Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, chairman, President Hoover, Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, and Dwight W. Morrow, United States Ambassador to Mexico.

Community Chest Report Is Given

Statements Mailed To All Subscribers After Heads Announce $11,375 Out Of $24,244 Collected

Statements have been mailed to all subscribers to the Lubbock Community Chest campaign, following announcement that a fund of $11,375.60 has been paid on the $24,244.70 subscribed.

According to the audit made recently by Boyd & Ferguson a total of 1,784 pledges were made in the drive.

The work and financial support of each participating agency has been curtailed in proportion to the amount raised, it having been announced that the full quota lacked one-fifth of being raised. A clerk has been employed by the chest organization to receive information of concern to the official board. Affairs pertaining to the community chest may be communicated to the organization by telephoning 2083. Headquarters are located in the city hall.

With each statement a letter was enclosed from E. L. Klett, president of the organization, which reads as follows: "On behalf of the Community Chest and of the participating agencies, I wish sincerely to thank you for your subscription and to assure you that it has been made to agencies that are doing a splendid, worthwhile and absolutely necessary work for maintaining the welfare of our community.

"The chest organization is functioning efficiently and as it should. The chest does not dispense charity directly or handle charity cases or do any of the other work that the funds contributed to the chest and distributed to the participating agencies which actually do the work, such as the American Red Cross and Salvation Army.

"These agencies have been paid their allotments for the months of October, November and December and provided you and the other subscribers pay the amounts now due on your pledges, the chest will be able to pay the January allotment to each agency that they may continue to do the work they should."
