Poor Kids Are Fatter

PHILADELPHIA AP— Children in poor white families are likely to be fatter than rich youths, four researchers say.

A study of 3,300 youngsters in Philadelphia, New York and Wilmington, Del., also showed a "surprising incidence of overweightness in young children in general," one of the researchers, Dr. Ross D. Filion, said Sunday.

Published in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, the study shows that "marked differences" in weight appear by age 6 in upper and lower class children.

The study limited its sample to white children—2,300 in the upper socio-economic group and 850 classified as poor. The researchers, all from the University of Pennsylvania, explained that differences in anthropometric measurements among various races caused the restriction.

Of the children studied, 29 per cent of the girls from the lower socio-economic levels were obese at age 6 compared to three per cent of the upper level girls.

The differences continued to age 18, but fell to a minimum at age 12, when 13 per cent of the poor girls and 9 per cent of the rich girls were overweight, the study indicated.

"One might speculate that this had to do with considerable social pressure on women to be thin," Dr. Filion said. "This tends to be more true with the upper socioeconomic class."

The difference was less striking with the boys according to the study. At age six, 40 per cent of the poor boys were obese, compared to 25 per cent of the rich, the researchers found. But the wealthy boys were fatter at age 12 with the poor boys again becoming heavier by age 14.

The researchers, headed by Dr. Albert Stunkard, concluded that "Socioeconomic status and related social factors have more to do with determining whether a person will be obese than does individual psychopathology."

Demos Gather To Pick Veep

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic National Committee today opens an extraordinary three-day meeting to nominate a running-mate for presidential candidate George McGovern.

But first the party must decide a number of seating disputes including one involving a slate headed by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

Chicago Alderman William S. Singer, who led a successful fight to unseat the Daley delegation at the Democratic National Convention in Miami Beach last month, filed a challenge early today against the mayor's Illinois slate of committee members.

Some forces in the party were talking of a compromise that would avoid antagonizing Daley again. Daley, who has not been an avid McGovern backer, has welcomed McGovern's recommendation of Sargent Shriver as the vice-presidential nominee.

Challenges have been filed by dissidents in Wisconsin, New Jersey, Ohio and Virginia, and New York Democrats have been given until midnight tonight to say whether they plan to lodge a challenge with the nine-member Credentials Committee.

The full national committee meets at 2 p.m. Tuesday to nominate a replacement for Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton. He quit the ticket July 31 because of the public discussion arising out of his disclosure that he had undergone shock treatment for mental depression in the 1960s.

The fight over seating the Illinois members of the national committee stems directly from the Miami Beach convention where Singer's 59-member group replaced Mayor Daley's delegation.

Under the new rules by which the Democratic National Committee was expanded from 110 to 303 members, members are chosen by the state's delegation to the previous national convention or, in some states, by joint action of the convention delegates and the state executive committee.

The complication in Illinois is that, although the Singer slate was seated at Miami Beach, a Cook County judge last week ousted Singer's challenge group from the Illinois convention which was choosing DNC members and put Daley's forces back into the delegation.

The six additional DNC members from Illinois were elected as part of a coalition constructed by Daley and a McGovern operative, the Rev. James M. Wall. In contrast to Daley's Miami Beach slate, his Illinois delegation to the DNC complies with party guidelines encouraging minority representation.

The Ohio credentials dispute pits McGovern supporters against those who had backed Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's presidential candidacy.

The other state disputes revolve largely around local issues.

8 Perish In Boston Fire

BOSTON (AP) — Five children and three women died in an early morning fire today which swept through a wood frame tenement in Boston's Roxbury section.

A mother, Maria Gomes, 24, and five of her children, ranging in age from 1 to 8, were among the victims of the fire that destroyed all but the bottom floor of the 2½-story building. The blaze also left the head of the Gomes household and two young children hospitalized.

Police said Ormond Gomes, the father, told them he was asleep on the second floor of the building when he heard an explosion, stepped out into the hall and ran into a "sheet of flame."

Gomes told police he returned to the bedroom and began to lose consciousnesse and was unable to remember anything else.

The five Gomes children killed in the blaze were identified as Michael, 1; Gina, 3; James, 4; Anthony, 5, and Zire, 8.

They were believed to have been the Gomes' only children, but this could not be immediately confirmed.

The other two dead women, who police said occupied the attic of the building, were identified by police as Alberta Carvalho, 60, and Catherine Ahern, 70.

A neighbor, Atanasio Rosa, said the fire spread so quickly that rescue was impossible. Gomes was the only person to escape from the upper two floors of the building, police said.

The injured children were listed in serious condition at Boston City Hospital. Police identified them as Balbina Andrade, 5, and 3-year-old Candida Andrade.

Gomes was taken to the hospital for treatment of shock.

Two firemen, Capt. John Hawe, 65, and Frederic Finn, 55, were hospitalized and treated for smoke inhalation.

Police said the Gomes family lived on the second floor of the 2½-story wood frame building in the Roxbury section. Mrs. Carvalho, the mother of Mrs. Gomes, and Mrs. Ahern lived on the top floor.

The injured children lived with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Andrade, who occupied the first floor of the dwelling.

The cause of the two-alarm fire was not determined.

Police said Gomes was the owner of the building. Neighbors said the front was quickly engulfed in flames when the fire broke out

PETITIONS PRESENTED
BCD Vote Due

An election on a proposal to establish a board of county development here moved a step closer this morning when a delegation submitted a petition to the county commissioners court.

Officials of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, who presented the petition, said it had 797 signatures.

Although a number of Chamber of Commerce officers and directors, along with other interested citizens, worked in getting the petitions signed, there was no extensive effort made to get a large number, said Mickey Nunley, Chamber Manager.

The commissioners court took the petitions for study and indictations were that an election probably would be called. However, a study will be made to determine whether a special election should be called on that issue, or if it would be possible and-or advisable to call it on the general election date in November.

State laws permit counties to establish boards of county development and provide them with funds for operating the development agencies. Usually such boards function as a supplement to Chambers of Commerce, and that type of operation is envisioned here by those who had taken the lead in advancing the proposal.

The proposal was first advocated several weeks ago by Paul Sizemore, President of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, who noted that many development agencies in neighboring cities and towns of Snyder's size and larger are supported by tax funds in addition to the voluntary membership dues.

Joining Sizemore and Nunley in conferring with the commissioners court this morning in behalf of the BCD proposal were H.F. Clark, Bentley Baize, Phil Fortune, Bill Gilliland and Loren Sullivan.

The commissioners court also was canvassing returns from Saturday's liquor election in the City of Snyder. The unofficial returns showed that 1,703 votes were cast against legalizing the sale of liquor for off-premises consumption in the city, while, 1,529 votes were cast for legalizing the sale of liquor in the city.

Texas Still Sizzles In Fierce Heat

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Texas keeps burning a little crisper, and no letup in the fierce summer heat looms on the horizon.

Although scattered and sometimes brisk showers fell during the night and early today along a weak trough of low pressure from the big bend in far West Texas through the central part of the state into Oklahoma, few areas received enough moisture to offset the wilting effects on crops, pastures, lawns, trees and shrubs.

In the six hours before midnight Lubbock received .62 inch of rain, Wink .60 and Wichita Falls .17.

By this morning skies were nearly clear south of the trough and partly cloudy to the north.

Along with a few showers elsewhere Sunday, turbulence kicked up a tornado near Vigo Park, southeast of Amarillo in the Texas Panhandle, but there was no word of serious damage. A twister warning for several counties was lifted as the unruly weather moved toward Oklahoma.

Sunday afternoon's top temperatures hit 105 degrees at Wichita Falls, 104 at Fort Worth and 103 at Dallas, Longview and Mineral Wells. Other points sweltered in the 90s except for highs of 89 at Palacios on the coast and Marfa in the West Texas mountains.

Readings near dawn today stood in the 60s and 70s at most points, staying as high as 81 at Galveston and 82 at Dallas.

Forecasts indicated little change, calling for partly cloudy skies and more warm weather throughout the state with a few showers in the north, west and extreme south sections.

5 Killed In Road Crash

MARFA, Tex. (AP) — Five persons were killed Sunday night when two cars collided while one was passing a third vehicle, state police reported.

The accident happened 21 miles south of Marfa in far west Texas on U.S. 67.

Officers listed the dead as Teresa Carrasco Acosta, 25, of Marfa; Mrs. Felix Gonzalez of Pecos and three Gonzalez children-Henry, 7, Guadalupe, 8, and a girl 4, whose first name was not learned.

Officers said Teresa Acosta was riding in a car driven by Cipriano Rodriguez, 25, of Fort Davis and he was passing another vehicle when his auto crashed head-on with one operated by Felix Gonzalez, husband of the dead woman.

Dear Abby

Divorce action only way out?

By Abigail Van Buren

[© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: When I was barely 16 I had to get married. George [made up name] was 18. It was a mistake from the start, but I stuck by him because of our kids who are now 8, 9, 11 and 12.

George always ran with other girls. He still does. I never denied him love or affection, but it was like a sickness with him. Even he admits he can't help it. They are the worst kind of girls, too. I can't count the times George brought home a social disease.

Two years ago I kicked him out for that reason and I started divorce action. Our oldest daughter became so upset she wouldn't eat. She always idolized her father but I don't know why. He hardly ever looked at her. Anyway, this girl was practically starving herself to death, so the doctor advised me to let George come home. I gave him one more chance.

Last week I kicked him out again for the same reason, and this time I made up my mind to go thru with the divorce. Abby, I just can't live with this man any longer. Now the same daughter is sick again. She can't keep any food on her stomach. She says if I don't take Daddy back she will run away or kill herself.

If anything happens to my daughter, I will never forgive myself, yet I don't want to spend the rest of my life with a man like George. What should I do?

IN THE MIDDLE

DEAR IN: Get some professional counseling for your daughter and proceed with your plans. Tell her that your mind is made up, and she will have to be a big girl and accept your decision.

DEAR ABBY: I recently served on jury duty and I was shocked at what went on.

One woman said the man must be guilty or he would never have been arrested. Another man urged everyone to vote guilty so we could all go home. Another man suggested we should all vote guilty and close the case because the court costs are paid for by tax dollars.

The case ended in a 7-to-5 vote of guilty which prompted one juror to suggest that we make it a unanimous vote because the judge "got awful upset" over hung juries.

Abby, if any of your readers can tell me that my experience was unique, please have them write to you. Thank you. WAITING IN COOLVILLE, OHIO

DEAR WAITING: All right. Former jurors?

DEAR ABBY: "Disgusted" wanted to keep people from going to movies which showed "raw sex."

I am a healthy-minded 23-year-old woman who wants to know why "disgusted" complains about "raw sex," but the sickening sights of war, shoot 'em-ups, bloody violence and other forms of raw murder don't seem to bother her.

Children, if educated honestly by their parents about sex, will be able to cope with movies containing sex. If children don't learn that sex is a healthy normal part of their lives, they will do their research with dirty books and in the back seats of cars.

"Disgusted" needn't worry about blushing. The theaters and drive-ins are dark. I am more worried about throwing up! DISGUSTED WITH DISGUSTED

CONFIDENTIAL TO "BORN LOSER IN CARLSBAD": Think about the man who said, "I complained because I had no shoes . . . then I met a man who had no feet." . . . Feel better?

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Missing Girls Are Found Alive, Well

By RICHARD BEENE
Associated Press Writer

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Two little girls have been found alive and well after spending four days in a locked closet of a vacant home.

Cherry Lambert, 6, and her playmate, Fara Fazi, 8, said they accidentally locked themselves in the closet while playing last Wednesday.

They were discovered Sunday morning by a teen-ager out for a walk with her dog.

"I never gave up hope," said Ann Lambert, mother of Fara. "I always felt they would be found."

The girls were taken to Wilford Hall Air Force Medical Center, where doctors allowed newsmen to talk to them briefly.

Fara said she kept thinking about "how we would get out and when we would get out, and what we would do when we got out."

As they munched ice and received intravenous fluids at the hospital Sunday afternoon, the girls said they heard noises from the searchers and helicopters looking for them — but they didn't realize they were the objects of the hubbub.

Stephanie Roy, 15, found the two little girls. She lives just two doors away from the newly built, unoccupied house where the girls had been trapped and said she heard screaming and investigated.

The youngsters were found within 200 feet of the Fazi home in a new subdivision near Lackland Air Force Base, where their fathers are stationed.

Sheriff's Lt. Alfred Carreon said the hundreds of searchers that hunted for the girls had been instructed to check vacant houses in the area.

IN MASS CEREMONY
75 Couples Wed

BOLINAS, Calif. (AP) — As a 15-piece band belted out rock music and wedding waltzes, 75 young couples, many of them former drug addicts, tied the knot at a mass wedding ceremony.

The marriage festival was staged Sunday at the Synanon ranch in the golden hills of Northern California. The ceremony took place at a riding ring.

The brides and grooms were residents of Synanon centers throughout California, as were most of their 2,000 guests.

Synanon Foundation Inc., most widely known for its efforts to rehabilitate drug addicts, has set up seven living groups in California and Michigan.

Though most Synanon residents are former addicts and alcoholics, some have joined the groups because they wanted to take part in the communal life style.

All the couples had been legally married in the past year, but none had a wedding ceremony. They said they waited until it could be performed before the Synanon community.

"These kids shared their hell with the community when they were going off drugs," said one Synanon resident. "Now they want to share their happiness."

The wedding festival had a 19th-century nostalgic touch. The brides wore picture hats and long, old-fashioned summer gowns of muslin, linen and chintz. Some twirled parasols.

The grooms, sporting new-grown beards, wore starched denim overalls and dress shirts, with carnations in their buttonholes.

The guests, also attired in 1800s dress, watched from bleachers as the wedding began with a flourish of trumpets.

Eleven horsemen galloped down from a nearby hill and paraded around the oval ring.

A 100-voice choir, made up of young addicts recently arrived at Synanon to kick their habit, sang "Shenandoah."

Then came the wedding march.

Arm in arm, the couples strolled around the ring, smiling and waving at cheering friends and family.

The frivolity ended when the Rev. C. Mason Harvey, in top hat and tails, mounted a podium and started the ceremony.

"Marriage means 'to be joined with.' We also join with you," he said. "We say to you that we care for you, we love you."

The couples formed three circles and danced a minuet and the ceremony was over — almost. The guests took their turn.

They jumped off the bleachers and gathered in the middle of the ring, swaying in unison to the throbbing of hard rock music.

The couples and their guests stood in line for the wedding feast, which included 600 pounds of beef, three lambs and a pig.

Cat Sought After Child Is Bitten

A search is underway for a mother cat and two kittens after a child was scratched and bitten Sunday afternoon on Rose Circle.

The mother cat was described as dark and yellow in color and the two kittens were yellow colored. One of the cats bit young Brian Sitton and scratched him and the cats are needed so that they may be kept under observation.

Anyone with information about the cats is asked to call 573-2810.

Podiatrist Says Wedgies Are Bad For The Feet

NEW YORK (AP) — Those platform or wedgie shoes in their dashing colors may be the fashion fad, but according to some people:

They're bad for the feet.

"The foot can't function properly with this type of shoe," says Dr. Monroe Jacobs, president of the Podiatry Society of the State of New York.

"The foot is made up of a number of joints, requiring free movement, and must have a grasping-type shoe to function properly.

"This rigid, tall platform shoe—some with five-inch heels set on three-inch platforms—is changing walking habits of many women," Dr. Jacobs goes on. "It's forcing them to shuffle along or rely on a stilt-like gait. It's the only way they can get around."

The shoe has a flat, immovable sole, he said, which prevents the free movement feet must have to function in a healthy manner.

Jacobs, who reports increased complaints directly related to the new shoes, also says persons wearing platform shoes expose themselves to "skiing-type accidents."

The high platform sole and heel with space in between is the most dangerous, he says, noting that persons wearing them can catch their foot walking stairs, and precipitate a fracture.

"If you caught your heel like that, you would have the same type accident as when skiing," says Jacobs. "You get the sudden jolt—and you could fracture or have a sudden displacement of a bone."

The shoe is not flexible, you can't move the sole—and the foot is in a foreign environment, he says, adding:

"Joints that should flex when a person walks cannot. As a result, if there's dormant condition in a joint, it will be stimulated and possibly develop other problems."

Local Women Will Attend ACS Meet

Mrs. Travis Rhodes, president of the local unit of the American Cancer Society, and Mrs. Henry Clark, elected delegate, will represent the Scurry County Unit of the American Cancer Society at the 27th Division Annual Meeting of the Society, August 23-24 at the Adolphus Hotel, Dallas. Mrs. Clark is the Public Information Chairman of the Scurry County Unit of A.C.S. The meeting will begin with a leadership orientation followed by group sessions for Service and Rehabilitation, Public Education, Crusade and Public Information. Kent Copenhaven, of Brownsville, chairman of the board of the Texas Division, said the sessions are designed to help the volunteer leadership expand cancer control programs whenever they live.

Thirty eight committee, membership, district and board meetings are scheduled during the two day meeting. The 110-member board of directors, attending to the business of the Society, will elect officers, directors-at large and executive committee members. Delegates will also hear three Texas Clinical research fellows describe their ACS funded projects on investigation of additional approaches to treatment of uterine, ovarian, and breast cancer.

The highlight of the meeting will be a dinner address by Dr. R.B. Caraway Jr., of Wharton, president of the Texas Division of the American Cancer Society. Dr. Caraway has been active in the Society since 1958, and has served as chairman of two different division committees: Service and Rehabilitation Committee and the Medical and Scientific Committee. Dr. Caraway is a graduate of Texas A&M University and Baylor College of Medicine.

Country Singer Discusses Career

By PAT SHERLOCK
Associated Press Writer

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — It's been 10 years since Dick Curless did any trucking, but he still remembers the ice and the curves of that lonely stretch of bad road he made famous in song.

"I knew that Haynesville Woods Road," the tall singer said.

"And I knew it in winter when I drove a logging truck up and down it."

But the closest Curless has come to a truck since he recorded "Tombstone Every Mile" in 1965 is the pickup camper he sometimes drives on singing tours in summer.

Now 39, and one of the top country singers, Curless still carries the truck driver look and likes it—big, rugged, deep voiced and a black patch over his right eye.

In a hotel room and an hour before a singing engagement at a Portland nightspot, Curless sat cross-legged on a bed, relaxed and smoking.

In years, he's not that far removed from poverty, and his moorings to the past and and his family are strong. He recalls his youth in Fort Fairfield in Northern Maine, and the boyhood autumns in the fields digging potatoes.

"That was the Depression Era, and not many people were working. My dad went to New Hampshire to look for work, but he didn't find any.

"Dad knew that Haynesville Woods Road, too," Curless said. "He walked it. Walked most of the way back to Fort Fairfield from New Hampshire. He used to think Mom was the one who had spirit.

"He used to tell me, 'If I had your mother's guts and my frame, there's nothing I couldn't do.'"

His father, two inches shorter than the 6-foot-4 Curless, also played guitar and was a guiding influence on his son's future.

When Curless was a senior in high school, his father let him take money set aside for his class trip to New York and use it to buy boots and a cowboy-style hat and outfit.

There were 15 often lean years between then and 1965 when Curless met Dan Fulkerson, the Bangor songwriter he teamed up with for "Tombstone Every Mile."

"Tombstone" was a mournful tale of truck drivers who haul Maine potatoes to Boston in winter, along that 40-mile-long desolate road through southern Aroostook County.

"I'm really proud of that song, because I worked so hard all my life trying to prove someone from Maine could sing country and western music. And make it.

"I had this being from Maine kicked in my face for years," Curless said.

The song had the power of a truck and Curless sang it as tough as the men who drive trucks.

It brought him fame and a recording contract with Capitol-Towers Records. The fame led to several physical difficulties, loss of vision in one eye and ulcers. It finally drove Curless back into the Maine woods to regain his health.

"I've been a picker since I was a boy, but when I was sick and went into the woods I never touched my guitar," he said.

Curless looked at his watch and lit another cigarette. In a dark room not far away, where tables were covered with beer bottles and overflowing ashtrays, Maine's workingmam and his wife—The Curless People—were waiting. He was due there in 20 minutes.

"When I came out of the woods I had my health back. I went right up to my room and stayed there three days, singing and getting reacquainted with my guitar."

Curless has recorded 14 profitable albums since then, but fame has left its mark. He's almost blind in his right eye, has developed a back problem from bending, his large frame down to low microphones and his calf muscles have contracted from wearing high-heeled western boots since he was 17.

But to Curless, fame is not as great a peril as to be back trucking on the Haynesville Woods Road.

Texas Makes Progress In Fight Against VD

By GODFREY ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

Gonorrhea is about as communicable in Texas as the common cold, health officials say, although the infectious syphilis rate is down 35 per cent across the state.

A dramatic decline in syphilis is noted in the big cities of Texas the first half of the year. Dallas slashed its number of reported cases from 429 to 182, Houston from 349 to 242, Fort Worth from 237 to 177 and San Antonio from 89 to 41.

"We are real pleased," remarked George Hilliard, special government consultant for venereal disease programs who is assigned to the Texas Department of Health. "It has convinced us that, if we do things right and have the money and the people available, the rate of infection just has to come down. We feel that in a year or two primary and secondary syphilis should be controlled in Texas."

"When you get that sort of reduction . . . you're bound to be doing something right," added Bob Owen, supervisor of the city-county health department at Dallas' epidemiolgy division.

The welcome news comes after figures from the American Social Health Association showed that in 1971 Dallas County led all Texas in the incidence of both syphilis and gonorrhea. The nation's eighth city then ranked seventh in the United States for syphilis and 16th for gonorrhea.

Gonorrhea, of course, is quite another story.

Dr. J. Donald Millar of the national Center for Disease Control in Atlanta estimates there are some 2.5 million cases a year in the United States, with only one-fourth of them reported. He says gonorrhea is "truly epidemic" and "is now probably second only to the common cold in incidence."

Texas figures reflect the general picture and show gonorrhea increasing, sometimes sharply. Austin, for example shows a shocking jump of 54 per cent in the first half of this year against the same period in 1971.

Hilliard said there were around 51,000 cases reported statewide last year and he is projecting a figure of 60,000 to 65,000 this year. "We already have about 30,000," he said.

But mere statistics can sometimes be misleading. The start of new mass screening programs results in more cases being discovered and reported.

The woman who has gonorrhea but shows no symptoms of the disease is a particular problem. Congress has allotted $16 million, of which $2 million is coming to Texas, in a bid to track down these asymptomatic females with gonorrhea and get them started on treatment.

Owen claims that expanded surveillance through improved screening partly accounts for the fact that gonorrhea cases in Dallas County increased from 7,347 to 8,554 in the first half of this year compared with last. He thinks more than one-fourth of cases—the national average—are reported though.

"Reporting is more effective than it has ever been before in Dallas County," he said. "But the big danger is that gonorrhea is asymptomatic in the female—she feels no pain, has no symptoms, gets no treatment, and therefore remains as a reservoir of continuous infection."

Owen said the new mass screening program aims at examining all women of childbearing age, say from 15 to 44. Already family planning clinics, cancer detection units, hospitals and private physicians are contributing by screening for VD too.

Hilliard hopes to see the gonorrhea screening program in operation through most of the state in three to six months. He hopes that a more sophisticated control program with improved epidemiological techniques will help win the battle.

Meanwhile the gonorrhea figures continue to edge up. The January-June figures for Houston are almost alone in showing a slight drop—6,539 against 6,697—but Lawrence Zyla of the city health laboratory, which handles cases throughout Harris County, agreed many gonorrhea cases never get reported.

San Antonio's first-half figures jumped from 674 in 1971 to 902, but again officials point out not all cases are reported. Austin's gonorrhea cases increased from 590 to 906, Fort Worth's fell slightly from 1,887 to 1,807.

The two VD clinics in Dallas see 300-350 people a day five days a week. They are staffed by two doctors and 36 nurses, technicians and clerks.

Owens has his own little detective force to follow up on cases and track down contacts. He says his 12 investigators rarely meet hostility.

"The men are all trained professionals and they use the proper scientific approach," he said. "We never contact a patient without the doctor's okay and the patient's identity is always kept confidential.

"We emphasize the seriousness of leaving VD untreated, its negative implications, the physical debilitation it involves, and so on. We don't make moral judgments or try to save souls. We are scientists trying to stop the spread of disease."

Owen claims his men usually track down 88 per cent of the people whose names they are given as contacts. Last year they reached 2,598 out of 3,167. The rest had left the area or maybe the state.

People going to the Dallas clinics for diagnosis and treatment have their identity protected. They aren't labelled as VD patients. People getting health cards required by some employments and visitors to the buerculosis clinic are in the same waiting-room. When a patient is called, he is called by number, not by name.

Hilliard thinks much of the drop in syphilis here is due to two laws which the state legislature passed in 1969—one requiring all laboratories to report positive blood tests and the other allowing teenagers to seek treatment without being reported to their parents.

State Subsidized By Shipping Line

By MORT ROSENBLUM

MALE, Mladives (AP) — Anyone can have a shipping line subsidized by the state. Here's a place where the state is subsidized by the shipping line.

This Moslem republic, with 110,000 inhabitants scattered over coral islands totaling a few square miles in the middle of the Indian Ocean, has a fleet of 32 freighters and a number of smaller craft.

The vessels carry two to three million tons of tramp cargo a year, including most exports of Ceylon, 400 miles to the east. They handle Egyptian fertilizer and Japanese watchsprings.

The Maldivian National Trading Corp. operates the fleet from a crumbling building in Ceylon that could accommodate every government office in this tiny capital back home.

As with many things in the tight-lipped republic, the books of the corporation aren't discussed. But the government owns a major share with a few insiders known to hold the rest.

Directors are reluctant to announce their capital or turnover, but shipping sources report the corporation pays cash on the spot for ocean-going freighters on the second hand market.

It is clear a large share of government revenue comes from shipping profits:

The line started in 1965 when small Maldivian boats were trapped by a monsoon and couldn't bring home imports. It was discovered that buying a freighter was cheaper than chartering one.

Since then the company added about a vessel a year and then stepped up the pace until the fleet's capacity totalled 120,000 gross tons.

Ships are added any way they can be gotten. Two Taiwanese trawlers that strayed close to the Maldives in 1970 were seized and put into service as coasters. The crews were charged heavy fines for fishing in Maldivian waters and sent home.

Maldivian vessels carry a British flag which directors say offers an advantage worth the price of London registration in trouble Middle Eastern waters.

The officers are mainly Indian and British and all deck crews are Maldivians.

"They are born to the sea, the Maldivians," said one corporation official. "We have a master with no certificate who is a better sailor than anyone. If his engine fails, he just puts out a sail . . . ."

Maldivian skills at boat-handling and navigation are undisputed. On a recent visit, Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip stood in honest amazement as craftsmen whipped up a boat with crude iron tools.

Fishermen, using ancient Arabic star sighting, sail for days at a time in tiny boats. If their water runs out, they simply ship seawater and lie in it to keep from behind dehydrated.

A boy begins rowing beyond the reefs by his eighth birthday, and most youths can stay alive for weeks on end lost at sea.

Besides shipping returns and payments from an island leased to the British Royal Air Force, about the only other government revenue comes from fish caught by Maldivians.

Maldive fish is carried to Ceylon in small boats that take four days for the crossing. The merchant fleet doesn't bother with such small pickings, and its ships rarely see the Maldives at all.

The Maldivian line carries freight for less than the minimums set by international freight conferences, giving it a slight advantage.

Its ships range from Japan to the Red Sea and the Persian Gulf. If the Suez Canal reopens, directors say, they will sail in the Mediterranean.

Ramsey Clark Blasts U.S.

TOKYO (AP) — Former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark has toured dikes in North Vietnam which were damaged by U.S. air strikes, according to the official Vietnam News Agency.

A broadcast monitored Sunday said Clark toured Phu Vang, a village in Thai Binh Province, on Aug. 3, and later told a correspondent for the Voice of Vietnam:, "We visited one site yesterday where dikes had been bombed. The bombs directly hit the top of dikes ... The bombing should be stopped immediately, should have never been done in the first place and should never be done again."

Clark, attorney general under President Johnson, left Washington July 24 for a two-week tour of North Vietnam at the invitation of the North Vietnamese government.

Miss Softball Stars Lose 7-4 In State Play

The Major League All-Stars of Snyder's Miss Softball America were disappointed in their first bid for a state title by a strong Midland team Saturday afternoon. Although the Snyder girls led in the hit department they came out short in run production 7-4. The evening was brightened however by several awards that were presented to the Snyder team.

Snyder jumped to an early lead, scoring three of their four runs in the top of the first inning. Regina Lewis walked and Kathy Weber and Martha Braziel looped singles to score Regina and set up the next two scores. Della Braziel sent them in with a double.

The second and third innings were scoreless, but Midland pushed over four runs in the fourth inning to take the lead, and they never trailed from that point. The Midland flurry was the result of four walks and two doubles. Snyder was scoreless in the fifth while Midland increased their lead with one run on one hit.

Snyder's last run came in the top of the sixth inning when Della Braziel singled and then scored on the triple of Frances Collins. Midland retaliated with two runs in the bottom of the inning and then retired Snyder one, two three in the top of the final frame to end the game.

Kathy Weber was the losing pitcher for Snyder and gave up five hits along the way. Della Braziel, Regina Lewis, and Martha Braziel were the leading hitters with two hits apiece. Tracy Chandler was the winning hurler for Midland.

Snyder's first trip to the state playoffs was highlighted by winning the sportsmanship trophy as the most sportsmanlike team in the tournament. Snyder also placed two girls on the all tourney team, Jean Ann Payne and Kathy Weber. Jean Ann was also awarded a trophy for being the Most Valuable Player on the Snyder team.

Braves Fire Harris Today

ATLANTA (AP) — Luman Harris was fired today by the Atlanta Braves and replaced as manager of the National League baseball club by Eddie Mathews, owner Bill Bartholomay announced.

Mathews, 40, was in his second season as coach with the Braves. The former slugging third baseman, who retired as a player in 1968, takes over the club immediately.

A spokesman for the Braves here read a statement from Bartholomay in Cincinnati where the Braves are concluding a five-game series tonight.

"After careful evaluation, director of player personnel Eddie Robinson strongly recommended a change had to be made.

"Eddie Mathews has been named manager of the Braves."

The spokesman said the contract extends through next season.

Grasshoppers Upset Midland

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — A horde of grasshoppers invaded the Texas League baseball park here Sunday night, causing the umpires to suspend the second game of a doubleheader after a half inning.

Amarillo defeated Midland 5-4 in the first game, an eight-inning affair.

The grasshoppers hit in such numbers they dimmed the lights. They hopped into the hair of women and invaded their clothes, witnesses said, resulting in wild screams of feminine anguish.

And the men, including players and umpires, didn't like the 'hoppers any better.

Midland club officials said they'd try to finish the suspended game Monday night—if the grasshoppers cooperate.

Soccer Team Wins Match In England

OSSETT, England (AP) — The Texas Longhorns, a schoolboy soccer team from Dallas, won the first match of their overseas tour Sunday with a narrow 3-2 victory over Yorkshire's Ossett Sporting Club.

Federico Garcia, captain Neil Cohen and Stewart Jones scored the Longhorns' goals but Ricky Galvan was proclaimed most valuable with a fine display at halfback.

IN HALL OF FAME

Sandy, Yogi Included Among New Inductees

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Baseball's Hall of Fame opened its doors today to pitchers Sandy Koufax and Early Wynn, catcher Yogi Berra and five other great names from the past.

The eight new entries were officially inducted into the shrine in ceremonies near The National Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum while thousands of fans watched the annual midsummer pageant.

Along with Koufax, Wynn and Berra, pitcher Lefty Gomez and first baseman Buck Leonard were on hand to receive the honor. Three of the new members were honored posthumously—outfielder Ross Youngs, American League President Will Harridge and catcher Josh Gibson.

Koufax, the youngest player ever to make the Hall at 36, retired prematurely from baseball because of an arthritic left arm. But before leaving the Los Angeles Dodgers, he established himself as the best pitcher in the game from 1962 through 1966.

Once he was able to harness his fastball and curve, the boy from Brooklyn dominated the National League. He led the senior circuit in earned run average those last five seasons, winning the Cy Young Award three times and Most Valuable Player once.

Koufax struck out 300 batters or more three times, including a record 382 in 1965, and pitched four no-hitters, also a record.

While Koufax was the golden arm of the Dodgers, Berra was a golden bat for the New York Yankees. The Yankee catcher had a modest .285 lifetime batting average, but was one of the game's best clutch hitters.

Five times he drove in 100 or more runs and in his 18-year career, he walloped 358 homers. He was also known as an instinctive catcher and peerless handler of pitchers.

Wynn had waited several years for his election to the Hall, despite an amazing career record of 300 victories with the Washington Senators, Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox.

He was frankly annoyed at having been bypassed earlier.

"I was disappointed the first year and disappointed the second year. The third year I just shrugged it off."

Flames Take Eastland Tourney Championship

The Snyder Flames came from behind in all of their outings in the Eastland Invitational tourney to bring home a first place trophy, their first championship in the last three tournaments.

In the first game Snyder fell behind to the Ft. Worth Red Devils. Ft. Worth opened the scoring with four runs in the first inning while Snyder could manage only two. Snyder pulled within one run in the fourth inning and then took the lead when they outscored the visitors 3-0 in the fifth inning. Snyder increased the margin in the sixth, but things fell apart in the top of the seventh as Ft. Worth pushed over six runs to take a one run advantage. In the bottom of the seventh the Flames were able to muster one crucial tying run before they were forced to retire. The game then went into the eighth inning and Ft. Worth scored a single run in the top of the frame to put Snyder down again.

In the bottom of the inning the Flames rallied when Helen Rios doubled and advanced to third on Mabel Powell's single. An error put Gwen Brunson on base, but Rios was unable to score the bases were now full. Janie Rody stepped in to hit a game winning double that sent over Rios and Powell.

Powell was the leading Flame hitter with three singles and a double. Rody was right behind with two doubles and a single and Linda Yeager had three singles. Jan Kruse, Barbara Moffett, and Helen Rios had two hits apiece. Brunson started the mound duties, but Powell took over in the last two innings to record the win.

In the second game the Flames overcame an early flurry to come back and win over Mineral Wells 8-6. Mineral Wells scored a run in the first inning and then pushed over five runs in the third to put Snyder in a deep hole.

Snyder's scoring began with five runs in the top of the fifth inning and the winning runs were produced in the top of the sixth when the Flames pushed over their remaining three scores. Gwen Brunson went the first 2 and two-thirds innings before suffering a sprained ankle that put her out of action for the rest of the tournament. Mable Powell finished the game to record her second tourney win. Janie Rody, Jan Kruse, and Luther Thompson all had two hits and Evelyn Wesley had a two RBI double.

Mineral Wells fought their way back through the losers bracket to reach the finals and once again met the Flames. Mineral Wells took the early lead again with two runs in the first inning, but Snyder went ahead to stay in the second with three runs. Snyder scored again in the sixth and both teams finished out the scoring with one run apiece in the seventh giving the Flames a 5-3 victory and the championship. Evelyn Wesley, Luther Thompson, and Terry Watson had two hits. Thompson had a triple and Watson had a double and racked up three RBI.

Four Flames were named to the All-Tournament team. Jan Kruse was selected for her third honor in as many tourneys, Janie Rody, Evelyn Wesley, and Mabel Powell were the other Flame selections. Powell was the winning pitcher in all of Snyder's games.

The hitting of the Snyder team is what kept them alive throughout the tourney, making up for some occasional lapses in defense. The three wins boosted the Flames' record to 20-7. Their next game will be in the Hamby tournament this weekend.

Gary Player Wins PGA

By LARRY PALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — Gary Player, one of golf's mighty mites, has mastered The Monster and suddenly recouped his fading prestige.

Four months ago, Player was eating humble pie after pulling within a stroke of the lead in the Greensboro Open heading into the final round, then being disqualified for not signing his scorecard, which read 67.

Today the crewcut South African is the new Professional Golf Association national champion and $45,000 richer. His second PGA title, his first coming in 1962, will probably reinforce the belief that he is one of golf's "Big Three" along with Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino.

"It just goes to show you what a humbling game golf is," said the 5-foot-8, 159-pound Player on Sunday. "But it all seems to even out."

Player harnessed a balky putter on the key holes down the stretch to salvage a two-over-par 72, destroying Jimmy Jamieson's dream of glory and finishing with 281 for 72 holes — one-over-par at the 7,054-yard Oakland Hills Country Club south course, dubbed "The Monster" by Ben Hogan in 1951.

The cherubic Jamieson, who won the Western Open this year, bogeyed the last three holes to drop out of a brief lead and end up with a 70 for a four-round total of 213, two strokes behind Player.

Veteran Tommy Aaron came in with a 71 to tie Jamieson for second, both earning $20,850 of the $225,000 purse.

Three-time champion Sam Snead, now 60 and always a sentimental favorite blitzed the front nine in three-under 32 enroute to a 69, good for a $9,275 and a share of fourth at 284 with 1969 winner Ray Floyd and Billy Casper. It was the best round of the day, equalled only by George Archer who finished far down the list.

Bunched at five-over 285 were second-round leader Jerry Heard, Doug Sanders, Canadian Open champ Gay Brewer, and Phil Rodgers.

Pretournament favorites Trevino and Nicklaus were far off the pace, with Trevino and Hale Irwin at 286, and Nicklaus finishing at 287 with Dan Sikes.

The 36-year-old Player, who was the leader by a stroke over Casper heading into Sunday's round, boosted his money winnings this year to $119,000.

Snead, Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, who ended up with nine-over 289, are the only active golfers who have won more major championships.

When Player bogeyed the No. 3 and 4 holes, it put him one-over and opened the floodgates for a host of challengers in the early going. At one time or another, Casper, Heard, Brewer, Rodgers, Sanders, Floyd and Jamieson all had a piece of the lead.

But all except Jamieson, a Kalamazoo, Mich., native who lives now in Moline, Ill., drifted back as Player jerked his game together and began a string of six consecutive pars.

Food Prices Step Into Economic Spotlight

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Right when the nation's economic referees were about to congratulate themselves on bringing order to the consumer price game, those incorrigible food prices are stepping out of bounds again.

Based on latest wholesale figures, supermarket prices could become the center of attention again. Meat, poultry, eggs, fruits and vegetables seem destined to go higher. And coffee prices too.

The rise forecast in retail coffee prices represents an unexpectedly diabolical blow from nature in the form of a freeze-die situation in the Brazilian coffee growing areas, where you must remember, it was winter in July.

The wholesale food price problem can be seen as especially irascible when it is contrasted with the prices of other wholesale items which now appear to be conforming to exhortations and expectations.

Eliminate food prices from the Wholesale Price Index and it shows for July a rise of only two-tenths of one per cent, which makes a yearly average of 2.4 per cent, a figure that by modern standards is acceptable.

Include the prices of agricultural goods, however, and the WPI rise comes out to eight-tenths of one per cent, a yearly average of 9.6 per cent, a rate that could bankrupt a family of hungry, growing children.

The signals being sent out by this ominous turn are directed in sharp focus at:

—The Price Commission, which has been hesitant to tangle with farmers.

—The administration and its election advisers, who must know that consumer attitudes can become politicized in election years.

It is nearly too much to believe or bear, but while the nation still wrestles with inflation, albeit while enjoying benefits of a sturdy expansion, some economists are talking about recession.

This dismal outlook may have something to do with the psychology or the politics of the forecaster. Some economists are by nature as dour as their subject; most economists, like others, lean to the left or right in politics.

Whatever the reason for the recession talk, this is the reasoning:

The country is overspending. We'll have a three-year federal budget deficit of more than $80 billion. Everyone knows that deficits are inflationary. Nobody knows this more than the Federal Reserve Board.

The Fed, therefore, will be goaded into action. It will seek to restrain the economy by restricting the money supply. And down goes the economy, into a corrective recession.

House Painted As Giant Flag

DALLAS (AP) — When Merle L. Vines, 24, returned from Vietnam as a decorated veteran in 1968, he decided Americans weren't proud enough of their country. So he painted the outside walls of his home as a giant national flag.

"I guess, with all the trouble in Vietnam and the Middle Eastern situation, people don't have time to look around in this country," he said. "I just hoped they would see it and maybe it would give them a little lift."

Vines grew up in the Dallas house but, while he was away in Vietnam, his parents moved to Arlington.

"Someone broke in and tore it up," he said. "They made a pretty big mess, so my folks said they'd let us have it rent free if we'd fix it up."

He fixed it up with the Stars and Stripes.

"That's here to stay," he says.

Junior Editors' Quiz on PEPPERMINTS

QUESTION: What is peppermint and how is it made?

ANSWER Peppermint is the common name for Mentha Piperita, a perennial herb of the mint family, which is grown for its aromatic oil. This plant is grown extensively in England and the United States. It thrives in moist swamp land and is cultivated by runners set in rows about 3 feet apart. The plant grows from one to 3 feet high and has sharp-pointed oval leaves and small bluish-white flowers. It has a square stem, a characteristic of mints.

The oil secured from the leaves is valuable as a medicine and for flavoring. Medicines derived from the oil are used to treat toothache and to relieve indigestion. Menthol, which is made from peppermint oil, is used to treat colds and croup. Peppermint is used as a base for perfumes.

Peppermint is widely used in the confection industry. It is the most popular flavor used in making candy.

Things Learned Via Mail

by HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Despite all its dieting, America is still one of the world's greatest bread-eating nations. We consume over 14 billion pounds a year, or about 73 pounds a person.

If you want to be a writer, it's hard to write about a subject people find much more interesting than money. One of the biggest all-time nonfiction best sellers is a book titled, "A Guide Book of U.S. Coins."

When you see a pink elephant coming at you on a hangover morning, do you know what you've got? You've got Zoppsia, the hallucination that you are being chased by animals.

The infamous Bastille of Paris, a symbol of the French Revolution, wasn't a lock up for common rogues and criminals. It was a jail largely for nobles who had offended the king or his men. The prisoners often had spacious apartments dined on the best delicacies and wine and sometimes had wild parties at which they entertained up to 20 outside guests.

Quotable notables: "Anybody can win, unless there happens to be a second entry." - Indiana novelist George Ade.

The rising cost of government: In the decade from 1960 through 1970, the average U.S. family - including families in which the wife worked also - earned $174,874. From that amount Uncle Sam took about a year's pay - $10,070 - in income and Social Security taxes alone. But for each $100 a worker forks out for U.S. income and Social Security taxes, the Tax Foundation says, the federal government collects another $74 in hidden taxes.

The fact sheet: George Washington Carver found more than 100 new commercial uses for the sweet potato. One out of three Americans today is a bicyclist. But bike riding is of doubtful value in weight reduction, as you use only one-fifth of a horsepower to pedal 10 miles an hour - little more than in walking. Modern tennis developed from a game played on horseback in the 12th century.

It was Bugs Baer who observed, "Alimony is like buying cats for a dead horse."

Chute Failure Is Overcome

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Neil Schuyler is walking in a cast but he expects to be parachuting again.

That may not sound terribly spectacular, but for a man who jumped from a plane only to have both his main and reserve chutes fail, it's not too bad.

Schuyler made his leap July 6. After 2,500 feet of free fall, he pulled the cord on his main chute. With a rapidly diminishing 3,000 feet between him and the ground, he watched the chute stream out and fail to open.

"No sweat," he told himself, "I still have my reserve chute."

But that one malfunctioned too, forming what jumpers call a "Mae West" and eliminating about two-thirds of the chute's effectiveness.

So then, at about 30 or 40 miles per hour, he concentrated on avoiding a barbed wire fence and somehow managed to come out of the drop with only a broken right ankle.

And three weeks later he's already talking about getting back for some more jumps.

Conventions First Broadcast In 1924

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — First radio broadcast of a major political convention was in 1924, and RCA provided the cameras and the few viewing sets for the first TV coverage in 1940.

Viewers in '40 could be counted on fingers. In '52 about 34 million people watched all three networks during the first nationally telecast convention coverage. This year, it's expected that about 118 million will see both convention proceedings.

Nixon stayed at a beach house owned by paper company executive Thomas McCabe.

Economy Gain May Continue

HOUSTON (AP) — An economist at the University of Houston says, based on a mathematical model, the U.S. economy will continue to improve for the remainder of 1972.

The nation's Gross National Product, the aggregate value of goods and services predicted for final use, will total $1.14 trillion for 1972, Dr. R. William Thomas predicts.

He says he also sees a slowing in the rate of inflation to an overall increase in prices of 3.8 per cent for 1972 and unemployment declining to 5.3 per cent by year end.

The mathematical model of the economy on which the forecasts are based relies on the results of surveys of consumer spending plans, business investment anticipations and governmental projections, Thomas said.

In recent months, all these indicaters have brightened substantially, forcing upward revisions in most economic projections, he added.

The model shows home building leading the recovery pace. Construction outlays should total almost 25 per cent more than last year's figures, he said.

Consumer purchases of appliances and furniture also are strong, he said, with the major weakness in automobile sales, where no increase in unit sales for 1971 is forseen.

Corporate profits will rise to over $100 billion at an annual rate by the fourth quarter of this year, Thomas predicts. This should provide ample funds, he says, to insure money for the 11 per cent increase in capital spending forseen by business.

Inventory investment will also improve moderately, as well, giving added impetus to the recovery in investment outlays.

The capital of Colorado was named after James W. Denver, territorial governor of Kansas in the mid-1800s.

Opium King Has A Private Army

By PETER O'LOUGHLIN
Associated Press Writer

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A mysterious Chinese who operates in the mountains of northern Burma, in a wild area called the Golden Triangle, has qualified as the opium king of Asia. Narcotics agents describe this man, Lo Hsing Han, as the first link in the drug chain that ends with sales on U.S. street corners.

In recent weeks, from his sanctuary at Tachilek, a small Burmese town just over the border from Thailand, he has been Thai and U.S. narcotics agents striking at the heart of the Asian drug traffic.

In June and July agents seized 3,853 kilograms of raw opium, 212 of morphine base, 353 of prepared smoking opium and seven of No. 4 pure heroin. A kilogram is 2.2 pounds.

Judging the value of these hauls is difficult, agents say, because the prices rise sharply the farther down the pipeline it moves.

But the raids did not hurt Lo Hsing Han. He had already sold the drugs to dealers who were caught before they could make their runs to Saigon, Bangkok and Hong Kong for further sales.

Still, the message must have been clear: The heat is on and that may be bad for business.

There are no photographs of Lo, no physical description. Thai authorities do not even know his age, although they have heard he is a superb organizer and a charismatic leader. He is thought to have been born in China.

Intelligence that trickles over the border is sketchy.

But it is known that he operates in that northeast corner of Burma which borders China, Thailand and Laos. The whole area, including parts of Thailand and Laos, is a no-man's land called the Golden Triangle because of the estimated 1,000 tons of opium produced there annually.

Intelligence reports say Lo is the leader of a private army of at least 1,000 men—euphemistically called a self-defense force.

He organized this army with the tacit approval of the Burmese government. It wanted him to help fight Burmese Communist party guerrillas.

Lo Hsing Han promised to fight these guerrillas but informants say he established an accommodation with them, so as not to disturb his trading.

Lo's army is regarded as the best equipped and most cohesive fighting force in the mountains. The Burmese army, confined to the main towns, will not tackle it.

Lo also deals in the lucrative border trade, smuggling everything from truck engines to bolts of cloth into Burma to feed a black market created by the Burmese governments nationalization program.

Intelligence reports say Lo buys opium from the hill farmers and transports it to his own refineries by pack horse and mule caravans. His troops provide the armed escort to prevent hijacking by rival groups. Some of these caravans may comprise 400 guards, 200 porters and 200 mules.

In Tachilek, Lo is reported to have a refinery complex, one of about 15 dotted along the border, where he produces morphine, smoking heroin and No. 1 heroin.

Drug-suppression officers in Thailand would like Lo's scalp, but see little chance of that. The Thais won't cross the border for fear of creating an incident with Burma. The Burmese government cannot act because its writ does not extend fully to the territory where Lo operates.

Officials say they plan to keep choking off big shipments when they cross the Thai border. This is difficult because of the hundreds of trails and rugged mountainous countryside.

"If he can't sell it because the dealers think they run too heavy a risk of getting picked up on the Thai side, we'll have done him a lot of damage," said one official.

"The next season from November through to February should see him hurting."

Identical Careers

STEPHENVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The parallel careers of Bob Glasgow and Don Jones, young Stephenville law partners, reached a peak this year when both launched successful careers on their first venture into politics.

At 29, Jones is the youngest man ever elected mayor of Stephenville, and at 30 Glasgow is the youngest district attorney of the 29th Judicial District since Fred C. Chandler was elected in 1926 at 29.

Both Jones and Glasgow, who are cousins, graduated from Stephenville High School, and received bachelor's degrees from Tarleton State College. While attending Tarleton, Glasgow and Jones served as student body president their respective senior years, and both graduated from the University of Texas School of Law with the Doctor of Jurisprudence degree.

Following graduation, Glasgow was appointed administrative assistant to Gov. Preston Smith and Jones became an assistant attorney general.

Jones is married to his college sweetheart, the former Nicki McAden, and Glasgow married his college sweetheart, the former Deanna Carr. Both now have two children.

Texas Bankers Concerned About Bank Robberies

Editor's note: Bonnie and Clyde they're not, but Texas bandits still strike banks with amazing regularity, if not overwhelming success. It's puzzling and perplexing to those involved. And Texas bankers are gravely concerned.

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

"A guy is some kind of a nut," says a Fort Worth police officer, "to try to rob a bank."

"Only winos or real crazy people," says a Houston banker.

"You just can't get away with it," says a veteran investigator. "Even if you succeed in robbing a bank, you'll be caught."

Interesting theories all. But few bank bandits would agree. And not all get caught.

Texas recorded 92 bank robberies last year and an unofficial count shows a similar rate for 1972.

For whatever reason and regardless of who is involved, bandits view Texas banks as prime targets, a fast buck and perhaps instant wealth.

"It is a matter," says Leonard Passmore of Austin, legal counsel for the Texas Bankers Association, "of great concern."

Three robberies in March illustrate the implied and actual violence and techniques of bank robbery.

—Four men armed with shotguns stormed the University State Bank in Fort Worth, seized $20,000 and two women hostages.

—An intruder held hostage the wife of a bank president in a small West Texas town while an accomplice extorted a large amount of cash from the bank.

—Three bandits entered Houston's South Park Bank, shot and killed a bank officer, wounded a policeman and fled with thousands of dollars.

Police arrested suspects in each case. But their capture apparently did little to discourage other attempts. Two bank extortion attempts in Fort Worth alone occurred in July.

Houston banks now are teaching their employes how to be robbed. New security devices are being tested. The Texas Bankers Association has a special committee probing for solutions.

During the Roaring '20s, and for a time afterward, Texas bankers sought to curb robberies by offering a $5,000 reward for capture of the bandits—dead or alive.

They abandoned the practice some years ago, presumably for humanitarian reasons.

Swift and often irrevocable Texas justice gave way to more sophisticated deterrents, such as hidden cameras, silent alarm systems and increased security forces.

Still, banks remain frequent targets for daytime raiders, most without the flair and flamboyance of such Texas predecessors as Bonnie and Clyde but not lacking their bravado.

In Texas and elsewhere, robbers apparently view drive-in tellers as the most vulnerable and convenient victims usually threatening them with real or fake explosive devices. But they also have turned to capture of hostages as one means of circumventing electronic and photographic security systems.

It has become popular among bandits to hold, or threaten, the family of a bank official, commanding the banker to quicly produce ransom money.

Earlier this year, the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover called for more stringent security measures to curb bank robberies in which hostages are used.

"The hostage bank robbery is not a condition that an open, free society can live with," Hoover said. "This dangerous crime merits the grave concern of every banking institution, law enforcement agency and community in the nation."

He said the "terror and danger connected with these tactics defy description" and declared:

"A campaign of continuous, coordinated effort is needed to make the odds against success so great that hostage bank robberies will cease."

The risk factor already is heavily stacked against the bank robber. Besides elaborate security systems, including closed circuit television, such bandits also must cope with the FBI.

"It is really difficult to hold up a bank, normally, and banks are protected by federal law," says former Fort Worth Police Chief Cato Hightower.

"You get the whole federal government involved in the case and the FBI's system stretches across the country."

Attorney Passmore says he doubts the increase in bank robberies is any greater than for other types of armed robberies. But, he said, the arrest and conviction rate of the bandits is considerably higher.

The 92 robberies last year, he said, involved approximately 150 suspects. There were 81 arrests.

"I wouldn't minimize the significance of this," he said. "It is a very encouraging figure."

However, bandits strike so often in Houston that many banks have begun teaching their employes what to do if robbed. The emphasis is not on defense but observation to aid investigators.

"We operate on the premise that money can be replaced, human life cannot," explained George L. Nelson of the Bank of the Southwest in Houston.

All things considered, particularly the risk, why banks?

"Psychologically," said Passmore, "people just associate banks with money. If they seek money for whatever purpose they just think of a bank."

Ice Is Nice Cooling Work

Career Corner
by Joyce Lain Kennedy

what job would you like to see explored in this column?

Dear Joyce: Please give me any information on a career in refrigeration and air conditioning, including training needed, and the best way to get it, job opportunities, pay range. Thank you. — L.L., Seattle

Because climate comfort is a big deal with Americans, employment of air-conditioning, refrigeration and heating (AC/R/H) servicemen is expected to be healthy and happy in the decade ahead. There are now an estimated 90,000 servicemen, also called "service engineers" (to the dismay of college graduate professional engineers), and "field service technicians."

TO AIR IS HUMAN. Generally speaking, a competent serviceman has stable employment, good times or bad. A retail store, or other public place, cannot delay repairing the air-conditioning system when it's 110 in the shade. (On the other hand, an out-of-work homeowner may not be able to afford having his air conditioner repaired.) A supermarket risks perishable foods if faulty refrigerated protective cases aren't promptly repaired. If your furnace is out, and it's frostbite cold outside, you don't wait until the economy gets better to have it fixed.

CHILL SKILLS — and heat skills too — may be best learned through the approach recommended by the Refrigeration Service Engineers Society (RSES). Attend a 2-year community or junior college, or technical institute (2-3 years), which offers an AC/R/H program appropriate to your goals. Do not expect to be considered a fully qualified serviceman after graduation this status requires additional continuing education courses (some of the best of which are available through RSES) and on-job experience. It is wise to ULTIMATELY become proficient in all areas of environmental control.

MAKE COOL DECISION. For simplicity, environmental control in this context may be thought of as (1) air conditioning, with refrigeration cycle (including dehumidification) as a component part, (2) air conditioning, with heating cycle (including humidification) as a component part, (3) refrigeration of appliances (such as a frozen foods display case, home refrigerator, etc.) and structures (such as an ice plant), also known as commercial and industrial refrigeration.

Some schools attempt to give the student a smattering of all aspects of environmental control and little practical "hands on" experience. The result is the graduate doesn't know enough to be an engineer, nor does he have enough practical experience in any one area to be a good serviceman. RSES suggests you try to decide which particular area of environmental control you want to start out in — air conditioning and refrigeration, air conditioning and heating, or commercial and industrial refrigeration. Then try to find a program which will give you not only theory, but a reasonable amount of concentration in one of the environmental control areas, so that you will be more quickly productive to an employer and make more money.

THE ICE IS NICE. Wages vary greatly across the country, by union and nonunion shop, locale, skills, type of equipment and work performed. However, just to give you a ball-park range, RSES estimates that helpers start at about $3/hour, and experienced servicemen get top rates of from $5-12/hour. A good commercial air-conditioning serviceman can earn, counting overtime, $12-15,000/year. Servicemen work for AC/R/H dealers and contractors, any type of user establishment (store, hotel, etc.) large enough to require full-time servicemen, manufacturers of AC/R/H equipment, and may have gone into business for themselves. A few women are in this field, particularly in husband-wife teams.

FOR MORE INFORMATION: A free career booklet is available from the Refrigeration Service Engineers Society, 2720 Des Plaines, Des Plaines, Ill. 60018. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed return envelope. This is an excellent association to join to gain professional knowledge even if you are still a student or beginner.

Irish Toll Now Near 500 Mark

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer

BELFAST (AP) — Two British soldiers and a youth were killed early Monday as the violence in Northern Ireland increased again, bringing the three-year death toll close to the 500 mark.

The Catholic guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army were reported to have regrouped following the British Army's sweep into their barricaded strongholds in Belfast and Londonderry last week.

Troops manning an army post in Belfast came under fire from an anti-tank bazooka and immediately raided nearby homes in the Andersonstown area but failed to locate the weapon.

Two soldiers were killed and two others were injured when their armored jeep was hurled into a ditch by a mine on a country road in County Fermanace, near the border.

In Belfast, the body of a youth of about 17 was found on a street, apparently the victim of an assassination squad. He was not immediately identified, but both Catholic and Protestant execution squads have been active in Belfast in recent days.

The three deaths raised the confirmed fatality toll in Ulster since August 1969 to 492, with 283 of them recorded this year.

The IRA's militant Provisional wing warned that its members are ready to resume operations after a lull. Guerrillas who took refuge across the border in the Irish republic last week were reported filtering back into the Londonderry area.

Catholic resentment triggered a major riot in Belfast when a mob stormed an army post in a sports ground, tore down an iron fence with their hands, set an armored car ablaze and stoned troops.

After a peaceful demonstration to protest the army's takeover of Casement Sports Park, about 1,000 men and youths attacked the army post, cheered on by hundreds of bystanders.

The pro-Catholic Social Democratic and Labor parties cancelled talks today with William Whitelaw, the British administrator of Northern Ireland.

Yasir Arafat Ordered To Bed

CAIRO (AP) — Yasir Arafat, leader of the Palestine Liberation Organization, has entered a hospital for a checkup.

The newspaper Al Gomhourjya reported Sunday that Arafat more than a week ago was ordered to bed after suffering from something described as exhaustion while visiting in Alexandria.

Then, when he arrived in Cairo, he again entered a hospital, this time for a cold, the newspaper reported.

Phone Counseling Service Popular

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Fifty per cent of the current students at the University of Texas have used a telephone counseling and referral service started in 1967, a recent survey showed.

Telephone counselors are on the job all day, seven days a week.

The service has logged 126,791 calls for information and 12,262 counseling calls in just over five years.

Decision Due On Minority Parties

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas voters hope to find out this week just which political candidates will be on their Nov. 7 general election ballot.

Everybody knows the Democratic and Republican candidates will be there, from president down to public weigher.

But what about the candidates of the American Party, La Raza Unida, the Socialist workers Party, and the New Party?

These are all legally formed political parties and have filed an intention to qualify for the November ballot with Secretary of State Bob Bullock. This generally means each must present petitions with about 23,000 signatures of qualified voters who did not vote in either the Republican and Democratic primaries.

Bullock, as chief elections officer of the state, and his staff will have to decide, probably this week, whether these minority parties have fulfilled legal obligations and deserve a place on the Nov. 7 ballot.

The odds are that La Raza Unida, a political organization of predominantly Mexican-Americans; the American Party, which got 584,000 votes for George Wallace in Texas in 1968, and the Socialist Workers will be on the ticket. So far the New Party, which is headquartered in Houston, has submitted no voter petitions, according to the Secretary of State's office.

And Bullock's decision could be affected by a three-judge federal panel which will hear four cases Sept. 7 that challenge the Texas Election Code, principally on the June 30 deadline set for the voter petitions.

La Raza Unida got temporary relief in a San Antonio court last spring when it claimed the June 30 deadline did not allow enough time to get petitions. Similar claims were made by the American Party, which got an extension on the petition submission until Sept. 1.

The Texas New Party filed a suit in Houston, in which the Texas Socialist Workers joined, that not only challenged the time of petition deadline but also the number of signatures required.

"If we don't approve their petitions they may go to court and get an order against us anyway," Bullock said last week. He pointed out that his department does not have the men and equipment to check each petition to be sure there are 23,000 legitimate voters there who have not voted Democratic or Republican.

The Socialist Workers filed petitions they said contained 46,000 names, most of them from Harris, Travis and El Paso counties. Headquarters of the party is listed in Houston.

If the Socialist Workers get on the ballot their petition says their candidate for U.S. Senator will be Richard Garcia and the candidate for governor will be Debby Leonard.

La Raza Unida, with state headquarters in San Antonio, has submitted petitions containing about 24,000 names, many of them from the South Texas area around Crystal City where the party was born. Their statewide candidates include Flores Amaya of San Antonio for U.S. Senator and Ramsey Muniz of Waco for governor. They also list 11 candidates for state representative, one for state senator, and four for the state board of education.

Much of the party emphasis is on gaining control of party machinery in parts of the state where La Raza Unida is strong. They list 44 candidates for precinct chairman in Bexar County alone, plus candidates for county chairman and sheriff. In Brown County two justice of peace posts and two constable positions are sought by La Raza Unida candidates. Eleven offices are sought in Hidalgo County, five in LaSalle, six in Starr, two in Tarrant, four in Victoria, and nine in Zavala.

The American Party says it has two candidates for U.S. Senator, W. M. Townsend of Dallas and Elwood Smith of Temple. Their candidate for governor is Homer Fikes of Fredericksburg. They have three candidates for Congress, two for state senator, seven for state representative and eight for local offices.

Shriver Eagerly Waited For Call

By JANET STAIHAR ....
Associated Press Writer ...

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sargent Shriver, who waited eagerly in the wings for everybody else to say no, was George McGovern's backstop running-mate for several days before he was invited to join the Democratic ticket.

Aides and personal friends of Shriver were told that if Sen. Edmund S. Muskie didn't want to run for vice president the job would fall to Shriver.

"There's still light," McGovern's national political director, Frank Mankiewicz, advised Shriver operatives Friday night. He had word that Muskie just might decline. "We're trying to move it from Kennebunk Port to Hyannis Port," he said.

Muskie returned to Kennebunk to discuss the offer with his wife, Jane. He delivered his turndown Saturday morning.

Shriver, a youthful looking 56, was vacationing at the Kennedy compound in Massachusetts and was playing tennis when McGovern placed a telephone call to welcome him aboard.

The presidential nominee got a busy signal.

The connection was made a few minutes later; at 11:50 a.m. Shriver said "yes" and then went off sailing.

Later, Shriver disclosed that he had talked to McGovern Thursday afternoon. McGovern asked him if he would be interested in the job if Muskie declined. Shriver said he certainly would be.

For a group of lawyers and congressional aides pushing Shriver's cause, the second call was the perfect climax to a fast-moving sequence of events.

Shriver's name was well down on a list of possible replacements for Missouri Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton who gave up the nomination because of controversy over his medical history. But the list dwindled rapidly as those asked turned thumbs down.

Then Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey also rejected the vice-presidential offer and Shriver's political supporters realized they had a good chance.

Wednesday night, Shriver's closest backers met to launch a serious campaign for him.

Last Thursday, when Muskie was officially asked to join the McGovern ticket, Mankiewicz informed Shriver allies that there still was a very, very strong possibility that Shriver could be the ultimate choice.

Mankiewicz, who was Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's press secretary, was a leading backer of Shriver, husband of Eunice Kennedy.

On Friday morning Shriver received a hopeful telephone call from Mankiewicz, saying "it was possible but not probable" that he'd be the nominee.

Shriver aides continued the stream of telephone calls to potential backers.

Orr Doubts Shriver To Help Slate

DE SOTO, Tex. (AP) — The chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee in Texas, Roy Orr, said Sunday he has doubts that the addition of Sargent Shriver to the Democratic ticket will help the party in Texas.

Shriver, brother-in-law of Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and a former Peace Corps director, was chosen by the Democratic presidential nominee, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., Saturday.

Shriver takes the place on the national ticket vacated by Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., who resigned after a furor over his mental health.

Two of McGovern's choices for the second place on the ticket—including Senator Kennedy, turned down the position before Eagleton was chosen by the National Democratic Convention.

Orr said he assumed McGovern chose Shriver for his "nationwide value" but he added in the same breath that in Texas "Shriver wouldn't be any improvement over Eagleton."

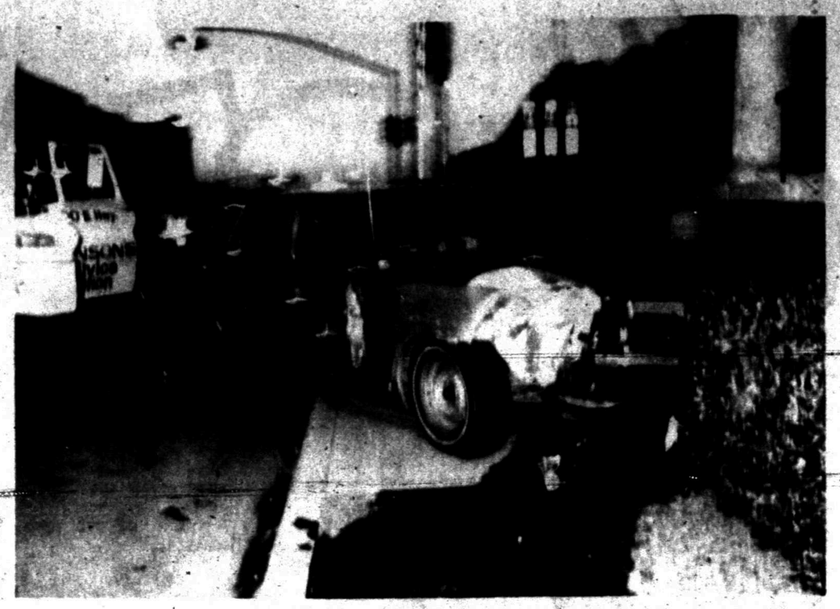

"McGovern could have done better," Orr said.

He added that he believes Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., would have been the best choice to balance the ticket and carry Texas in the November general election.

Former Sen. Ralph Yarborough of Texas and state Rep. Frances Farenthold had been mentioned as possibilities to join McGovern on the ticket, but apparently neither was approached.

Mrs. Farenthold, defeated in a runoff election by Dolph Briscoe for the Texas Democratic gubernatorial nomination, ran second to Eagleton in voting by delegates at the national convention in Miami Beach, Fla.

Hakodate, the chief seaport on the northern Japanese island of Hokkaido, was founded in the 13th century. It was a small fishing village when Commodore Matthew Perry visited in 1854 and observed that Hakodate boasted one of the finest natural harbors in the world, the National Geographic Society says.

SUNDAY MISHAP—Two persons were injured, neither believed to be seriously, when this automobile and another were in collision early Sunday at the intersection of Twenty-fifth Street and College Avenue.

2 Injured In Mishap

Two Snyder residents were injured Sunday morning in a two car smashup at the intersection of Twenty-fifth and College Avenue.

Elaine Cannell, 3731 Ave. U, was traveling south on College when her 1967 Pontiac collided with the 1969 Ford Fairlane of Alva B. Cumming, 2705 Twenty-sixth, which was traveling west on Twenty-fifth St. Considerable damage was done to both vehicles.

Mrs. Cannell, 25, was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Snyder ambulance, and was treated for head injuries. Cumming, 69, was transported to Cogdell by private automobile and was X-rayed for a shoulder injury, but nothing was found to be broken. Both patients were admitted to the hospital for observation, but their injuries are not believed to be serious and both were reported in satisfactory condition and resting well.

THE INFORMED CONSUMER

BY CRAWFORD C. MARTIN
Attorney General of Texas

"We can't live on a budget!" Or is it that you don't want to? How else can you find out where your money goes - or where it's taking you? A smart consumer not only spends his money wisely, but plans his spending as well.

Good money management considers the past, present, and future. Look at the past to see where your money goes as well as where it comes from. Keep an extra close check on spending for a month or more to determine your spending patterns.

Then figure how much money is coming in. Your spendable income basically is your pay check. If you have cash income from other sources, such as dividends, interest, or rent, be sure to include it.

Look at the present to check family needs and wants for which you can spend current income. First, list the things you need - your fixed expenses. This includes food, shelter (house payments, repairs, furniture, appliances, utilities), clothing (new, repairs), taxes, transportation (bus fare, auto payments and repairs, gas, oil), insurance, health (doctor and dentist, drugs, eye glasses), and savings (including emergencies).

Second, list the things you want - flexible expenses. These include education (books, tuition, newspapers, magazines), recreation (sports, movies, records, pets, vacations), gifts, personal grooming, contributions and dues, etc.

Third, add up these items to see if they fit the family's total expected income. If you're like most people starting a budget, you've probably overspent. You'll have to alter your plan. Remember your important needs - food, a place to live, and clothing. Can these costs be cut? What about other expenses? What could be left out or put off until later?

Make your plan, but keep it simple. If it's easy to use, you'll be more likely to stick to it. Then try your plan for a month or two. Perhaps you've overestimated spendings in some areas and underestimated in others. Try to leave a "cushion" of a few dollars.

Look to the future and adjust to change. Spending and savings plans seldom remain the same for long periods of time. Major changes may have to be made as financial problems are solved, as goals are reached or reevaluated as you move from one stage to another in the family life cycle, if you have a change in income.

All consumers know how easy it is to spend money. But to spend it wisely is really a challenge. These guidelines for your budget can help you meet that challenge.
