Thousands attend Easter services

Thousands of Wichita Falls residents who attended church Easter Sunday in celebration of a spiritual resurrection were privately praying that a second, more secular rebirth would occur in this tornado-ravaged city.

"I don't think the storm was the Lord's work," the Rev. Ted Savage told about 500 members of Faith Baptist Church, "but I think the Lord's work will come from the storm."

Tuesday's deadly twister did about $100,000 damage to the 1,500-member congregation's two-year-old church. Nine other churches were damaged or destroyed by the storm, which claimed 44 lives.

Church members met Sunday in Chaparral Baptist Assembly, a church retreat in Wichita Valley Farms.

Before worship services began, somber Sunday school classes were conducted outside under the warm April sun. Men and women, many of whom had lost everything in the storm, sat in silent prayer with tears streaming down their cheeks.

"We are without words to express what's in our hearts," Rev. Savage told worshipers after they gathered inside, "and as we face the future, we must not be afraid."

In a husky, emotion-laden voice, he asked church members to "trust in the Lord to help rebuild every house, every life. We must let people know we've just begun...we're going to do what the Lord sent us here to do."

"I'm glad to see some of you folks," he said. "I haven't seen you all week and I've been worried about you." About 130 families in the congregation either lost their homes or had them badly damaged.

Rev. Savage said none of the church members was seriously injured in the storm, but that a woman who took a storm victim to the hospital had a heart attack while in the emergency room.

"But she's fine now," he said, "and our prayers are with her."

A round of pleased laughter greeted the pastor when he announced the birth of a 10-pound, 4-ounce boy to a church member last week.

Rev. Savage asked for persons not affected by the storm to stand and offer a special prayer for church members victimized by the most destructive twister in the city's history.

A young man and woman stood, arms around each other, while a second couple, who lost its home, sat behind them, trying to choke back muffled sobs.

"Don't be afraid to put your arms around someone today and love them," Rev. Savage said.

As he read from the book of Matthew, chapter 28, about the resurrection of Christ, he asked the congregation, "why should we be afraid of what lies ahead of us?"

"Let me challenge all of you," he said, "to start building a new life in Christ. We have a living Jesus that's interested in saving people, not killing them. It's not God's business to make us suffer."

He said "we have suffered a great loss in 'things,' but God has never wanted 'things,' he wants us. I don't expect you to praise Him because your home is gone, but praise Him because He can help you rise above these circumstances."

During the sermon, persons dressed in Easter finery sat next to storm victims wearing borrowed clothing. "Amens"

Homicide victims search to resume

By ROCKY SCOTT

OLNEY, Texas — Authorities said Monday they were preparing to resume searching a rural area southwest of Olney in connection with a possible triple murder that occurred in Wichita Falls Tuesday.

Texas Rangers and Young County sheriff deputies Friday evening found the body of Jerry Lamb, about 25, tied to the hood of a pickup in an abandoned field off Texas 114.

Officials said Lamb, who had been reported missing at the Wichita Falls Police Department, had been stabbed three times in the back.

A 25-year-old suspect who was arrested in Dallas was in Wichita Falls city jail Sunday night in connection with the killing. Another suspect is reportedly in custody after being arrested by Fort Worth police, Young County officials said.

Officials believe Lamb and two other men were killed Tuesday morning in Wichita Falls, then taken to the site near Olney. Officials said the two suspects planned to return to the scene and dump Lamb's body in a stock pond.

Officials said they had not yet determined the identity of the other two victims or where the bodies are located.

Thousands more flee Mississippi flooding

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Water swirled through the streets of Jackson on Easter Sunday, forcing thousands of residents to join those who earlier fled their homes in what officials described as the worst flood in the city's history.

About 2,500 residents of the Jackson suburb of Pearl and 1,000 in suburban Flowood fled the rising Pearl River, joining some 4,500 evacuees driven out late last week when heavy spring rains bloated rivers and streams in central Mississippi.

Another 6,600 persons had been evacuated elsewhere in the state, and the death toll stood at four known dead.

Elsewhere in the South, the storm has claimed seven lives. Two Alabama men were missing and feared drowned, authorities said.

The river headed toward the 42-foot mark Sunday at Jackson, 24 feet above flood stage, and authorities said the crest was yet to come.

Red Cross chairman visits Wichita Falls

Saying he was "terribly sorry" he had to visit Wichita Falls under these circumstances, Dr. Jerome H. Holland, board chairman of the Red Cross, Sunday toured disaster-stricken Wichita Falls.

Holland, who flew into the city by helicopter Sunday afternoon, met with reporters after a briefing and praised Wichita Falls Red Cross workers for their "magnificent" efforts after the twister struck the city Tuesday.

"It will be extremely difficult when I go back to explain to the other directors just how extensive the damage is in Wichita Falls," he said.

"But despite the damage, I think the local chapter performed magnificently."

He praised Bob Draper, Wichita Falls disaster chairman, for the "tremendous job" he and his staff of more than 5,000 volunteers did.

"There are literally thousands of people that have been helped," Holland said, "and more people will be brought in if needed."

"We will be here for a long time," Holland said. "Our emphasis in the weeks to come will be to help people by the thousands know what help is available."

Easter celebrated in tradition

By DEBORAH WOOD
Associated Press Writer

Easter celebrants flocked to sunrise services on hillsides and at churches Sunday, then children and adults alike turned out for a variety of secular Easter activities, including traditional and not-so-traditional egg hunts.

The celebrating started early for about 5,000 Seattle youngsters who watched the Easter Bunny drift 3,000 feet from a small plane and land in an 80-acre pasture east of the city at the beginning of the May Valley Lions' Club's annual egg hunt.

"It was one heck of a hop," Seattle police officer Steve Knechtel, alias the Easter Bunny, said Saturday after his landing.

In Carrollton, Texas, just north of Dallas, another celebration was kicked off by air Sunday when a helicopter scattered 40,000 candy eggs near Sandy Lake prior to a hunt.

Cardinal Terence Cooke celebrated the 100th solemn pontifical Easter Sunday Mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral in Manhattan, before 2,500 worshippers streamed out onto Fifth Avenue to join a traditional Easter parade of spring fashion finery.

True to the words of Irving Berlin's song "Easter Parade", photographers snapped away, particularly at a middle-aged woman carrying a white, lace-trimmed parasol and wearing a high white straw hat.

The Red Cross prepared about 3,500 Easter dinners Sunday for residents cleaning up flood-soiled homes along the Illinois River near Peoria and for crews working along the flood-swollen waterway.

"We've got 30 turkeys in the works now and all the trimmings," said Larry Broun, Red Cross director of the operation. He said turkey dinners were planned in other communities along the Illinois, "but they won't be that elaborate."

In Wichita Falls, Texas, about 2,400 people worshiped at the city auditorium. Ten churches were flattened by a tornado Tuesday that cut an eight-mile swath through the town, killing 44 persons.

In Los Angeles, 11,000 persons attended the 59th annual Hollywood Bowl worship service, while in suburban Burbank, Mickey Mouse led a parade of 75 Walt Disney characters and floats ridden by honorary grand marshals James Cagney and Irving Berlin.

Downtown Skid Row missions held services and served dinners to hundreds of derelicts.

More than 300 persons representing anti-nuclear, disarmament and religious groups gathered in a pasture near the Air Force's Rock, Kan., missile site south of Wichita for a sunrise service. Two Air Force men were killed last August at the missile site in a fuel leak.

The service went smoothly, and four Cowley County sheriff's officers watching the gathering never left their cars.

The Herbert Garrison family of Homer, Ga., planned its traditional family Easter egg hunt for 2,500 participants this year.

Betty Garrison said the family event began 19 years ago when her daughter's school didn't plan a hunt. The Garrison hunt is staged on the family's 40-acre front lawn, and this year involved 12,000 eggs, 30,000 candy eggs and 50 special prize eggs that earn the finder a live rabbit or an Easter basket.

A pre-Easter egg hunt in Philadelphia ended successfully when a misdelivered 70-pound chocolate coconut creme egg was located and delivered to a school for 1,000 handicapped children.

The Falcon Candy Co. has made the egg for for 19 years, and traditionally displays it at a Philadelphia bank before delivering it to the children at Elwyn Institute near suburban Media. The egg was mistakenly delivered Friday to the Overbrook School for the Blind.

Every American child can aspire to the White House, and each Easter thousands come as close as the South Lawn for the rugged rites of the Easter Egg Roll.

Hired Hand

Away in New York

By GLENN SHELTON

From the viewpoint of the professional newsman, it was the worst possible time to be out of the country. From the standpoint of plain good sense, it was the best.

The Redhead and I were in New York visiting daughter Sharon when first news of the devastating tornado began trickling in. I caught the first inkling when an announcer mentioned that twisters were ranging in North Texas along the Texas-Oklahoma border.

It wasn't until mid-morning Wednesday that Wichita Falls was pinpointed and the full dimensions of the awesome disaster became apparent.

"Twisters' Trail of Death" was the banner emblazoned across page one of the New York Post. "40 Die in Okla., Tex. Tornadoes" was the Daily News headline. "Tornado Toll: 60 Die, 800 Hurt" ran another New York head.

Naturally, we were scared out of our socks for all our friends and colleagues in Wichita Falls, but naturally we couldn't get a telephone call through. But it seemed that all of Gotham was commiserating, and Wichita Falls was on everyone's tongue.

We would have had a wonderful time in the Big Apple if news of the disaster hadn't reached us. I attended an opera, Carmen, and the musical "Ain't Misbehavin", wandered through the Museum of Modern Art and the Metropolitan Museum of Art, visited Coney Island, went atop the 100-story World Trade Center, took the ferry to Staten Island beyond the Statue of Liberty, and on the way home saw boxer Muhammad Ali in the LaGuardia terminal and the infamous Three-Mile Nuclear Plant.

OFF ON A TANGENT — If you follow "Love Boat" on the Big Eye, be apprised that this dream ship is the 600-passenger "Island Princess" of Princess Cruises, and be informed that MS "Skyward" that will take us on the Hired Hand Caribbean Cruise this coming July is similar, only better.

The "Island Princess" carries 600 passengers while the "Skyward" carries 750.

Our "Skyward" is sparkling white, just as is Love Boat, with all the luxuries.

Though romance may flourish on our boat, every passenger, alas, won't be beautiful. (I will be aboard). Otherwise, it will be Love Boat that will whisk us into the turquoise waters of the warm Caribbean this summer!

MIKE CARPENTER would like to know if anyone knows what happened to the Robinson Pumper fire truck purchased by the Wichita Falls Fire Department in 1910. It was replaced by another six years later.

Call Mike at 723-7616 if you can supply the information. A man in California is trying to locate the antique fire truck.

Gen. David C. Jones, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Department of Defense, is scheduled to speak at the 70th annual banquet of the Altus, Okla., Chamber of Commerce April 27 in the High School cafetorium.

Army engineers are planning to build a $10 million birdbath for whooping cranes in north central Oklahoma! Since there are only 100 of the birds, that figures at about $100,000 per bird. Law!

One killed, two injured in collision

A Wichita Falls woman was killed and two Wichitans were injured Sunday in a two-car collision on Texas 79 service road northeast of Holiday Inn East.

Grace M. Standifer, 72, of 703 Taylor, died about 5:30 p.m. Sunday at Bethania Hospital, where she, her husband and the driver of the second vehicle were taken after the 3 p.m. accident.

Her husband, Ernest M., 74, remained in stable condition, and Glen Wade Austin, 23, of Route 5, driver of the other car, was treated and released.

Police said the Standifers' 1970 Buick was southbound on Texas 79 West service road when it collided with Austin's 1975 Ford, which was eastbound on the service road leading to Texas 79 East.

The collision spun the Standifers' car in a half-circle before it came to rest just short of a light pole. Austin's car was knocked about 100 feet.

Mrs. Standifer was born May 15, 1906, in Alabama. She was married in 1927, and the couple moved to Wichita Falls in 1950.

She was a member of Floral Heights United Methodist Church and Merle Anthony Sunday school class.

Survivors include her husband; a daughter, Mrs. Patricia Mae Coonce of Fort Worth; a son, Carey Eugene Standifer of Fort Worth; three sisters; five grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren.

Services are under direction of Hampton-Vaughan Funeral Home.

Good Morning!

TORNADOES BRING death and destruction, but they also often result in unusual, even humorous, stories. A selection of tornado vignettes appears on Page 2A.

Weather

(Complete Weather, Page 10A)

WICHITA FALLS VICINITY: Fair Monday with increasing cloudiness Monday evening. Chance of rain Monday and Tuesday. Cooler Tuesday. High Monday in the upper 80s. Low Monday near 60. High Tuesday in the upper 70s. Winds southeasterly 10-15 mph. Probability of rain 20 percent.

Tornado vignettes

In a Wichita Falls department store, a small girl, about 4, was seen "trying out" cuddly toys. She would take a stuffed animal from the rack, hug it, then put it back and take another.

Presumably she had lost a loved toy in the tornado and was shopping for a replacement.

On the lot of a heavily damaged service station sat a heavily storm-damaged compact American car with a hastily-lettered sign reading: "For Sale, $100; I need the money."

Several would-be purchasers were inspecting the wreckage.

Electric utility employees from Texas Electric Service Co., Dallas Power & Light, Texas Power & Light, Central Power & Light of South Texas, OG&E of Oklahoma and Southwest Public Service of Oklahoma all were involved in the massive effort to restore electric service to Wichita Falls after the tornado.

The crews found poles uprooted and guy line anchors pulled apart as well as some poles and transformers missing.

Cost of the massive effort may never be precisely known. It is known, however, that the bill for cigarettes, "smokeless" and chewing tobacco alone, purchased to keep the linemen happy, came to more than $3,000.

Two neighbors were discussing the aftermath of the twister. One asked the other, "Do you know whose car that is in my living room?"

A Wichitan, busily digging through the ruins of his house, was offered help by two strangers.

Accepting, he introduced himself. One of the volunteers shook hands, introducing himself to the Wichitan as "James Carter." The other proffered his hand, saying his name was "Reagan."

The two were from Rotan, Texas, but Reagan's first name wasn't Ronald, it was Ernest.

One Wichita Falls couple argued during a clean-up process about who had opened a bottle of whiskey. The bottle was nearly empty, but upon closer examination the man and woman found the seal had not been broken. The same experiences have been told about soft drink bottles with screw-on caps.

One man reported he was able to save canned goods from his tornado-stricken home. When a can of vegetables was opened, however, he found wood splinters in the food.

A building engineer at First Baptist Church supervised much of the activity at that location when the church became a shelter.

When water shortage became a major problem, he went to a friend who watches over City National Bank at night. They got plastic bottles from a supply company and drained the plumbing in the tall building to use as drinking water.

Debris showing up in Oklahoma area

By BRENDA SIMMONS
Regional Staff Writer

Debris from Wichita Falls and Vernon, Texas, is finding its way into all parts of Oklahoma following Tuesday's devastating tornado.

The wind from the twister apparently has scattered the debris to areas in South, Central and Northeast Oklahoma.

Bob Hamilton, publisher of Iowa Park Leader, last week received a letter from Loco, Okla., where the writer found a printing plate from the Jan. 25 issue of the Iowa Park paper.

The plate apparently blew about 50 miles northeast from Wichita Falls' Nortex Offset Publications, where the newspaper was printed.

A family in Pauls Valley, Okla., found in its back yard pictures, canceled checks, a First Baptist Church offering envelop and part of a Wichita Falls Record News sports page which traveled about 110 miles on a windy straight northeast path.

The owner of a Garvin County feed store said he found letters and pictures, many with names and dates.

Also finding materials in the Oklahoma County was Vernon Martin, who resides 3¼ miles north of Elmore. He said his pasture was scattered with bills and checks from Wichita Falls, while Jerry McCaskill of Elmore City reported finding a letter from Wichita Falls in his pasture.

A work sheet from a construction company in Wichita Falls was found next to a front porch of an Elmore City resident.

Some of the materials are being given to Preacher Carter of Pauls Valley, who is trying to locate some of the owners.

Some began finding the debris as early as Tuesday evening, right after the tornado swept through Wichita Falls.

Walter Fisher of Frederick, Okla., was on his way to Manitou to escape the tornado's threat. He reported a piece of plywood fell from the sky before tornadic weather began in Oklahoma. He figured that debris came from Vernon.

Andy Wright of Pauls Valley, reported a 24"x24"x1" piece of styrofoam dropped from the air before the storm reached Pauls Valley Tuesday night.

Tornado property damage estimated

By CINDY RUGELEY
Staff Writer

Wichita Falls received $125 million in real property damage from Tueday's tornado, City Manager Gerald Fox said Sunday.

This figure does not include losses to personal belongings or automobiles.

About 6,100 properties were damaged, Fox said.

Broken down, the damage included 4,160 residences, 109 commercial properties, 1,772 apartment units and 21 tax exempt structures.

The American Red Cross Friday said 57 persons in Texas and Oklahoma had died as a result of the tornado. Forty-four persons have died in Wichita Falls alone.

In Texas, 1,570 persons were injured and in Oklahoma 35 were injured, the Red Cross said.

All missing persons in Wichita Falls had been accounted for Sunday and were alive, police said.

In Wichita County, including Wichita Falls, 2,566 homes were destroyed, 879 received major damage and 1,659 received minor damage, the Red Cross said.

The Red Cross said 84 mobile homes were destroyed.

In addition, it said 1,274 apartment units in the county were destroyed or received major damage and 170 received minor damage.

Seventy-nine small businesses were destroyed or had major damage in Wichita County.

A total of 6,711 families in Wichita County were affected.

Last week, the Red Cross estimated 20,000 persons were left homeless by the storm.

In Oklahoma, the Red Cross estimated, 732 families were affected.

In the rest of Texas, 3,916 persons were affected.

More funding said available

Texas Department of Community Affairs has indicated the city can receive $250,000 in additional funding to handle request for clean-up and clerical assistance made necessary by the tornado, Jerry Fisher, manpower director for Nortex Regional Planning Commission, said.

No Comprehensive Employment Training Act requirements will be waived, Fisher said.

Most of the clean-up is being handled by contractors hired by the Army Corp of Engineers.

To qualify for Title VI CETA employment, a person must have been out of work 10 of the last 12 weeks and be economically disadvantaged.

Interested persons should contact the Human Resources Department in Memorial Auditorium in Wichita Falls or Bob Harrison at the Manpower Office in Wilbarger County Courthouse.

Mennonites aid rebuilding

By BRENDA SIMMONS
Regional Staff Writer

More than 100 Mennonites have arrived in Wichita Falls to help families clean up the community after a tornado destroyed homes and businesses Tuesday.

The Mennonites, who will stay as long as they are needed, are being housed at First Presbyterian Church, according to former pastor Dr. Earle Crawford.

The sect travels to many disaster-stricken areas offering the relief service as part of their Christian practice, the former pastor said.

Crawford said the men and women have been going out to the ravaged areas everyday to help roof, rebuild or board up houses.

Also attending Sunday morning church services at First Presbyterian were students from Sterling College, Kan.

Crawford said the students decided to spend the final three days of their vacation in Wichita Falls to help victims of the tornado.

Temporary fire station planned

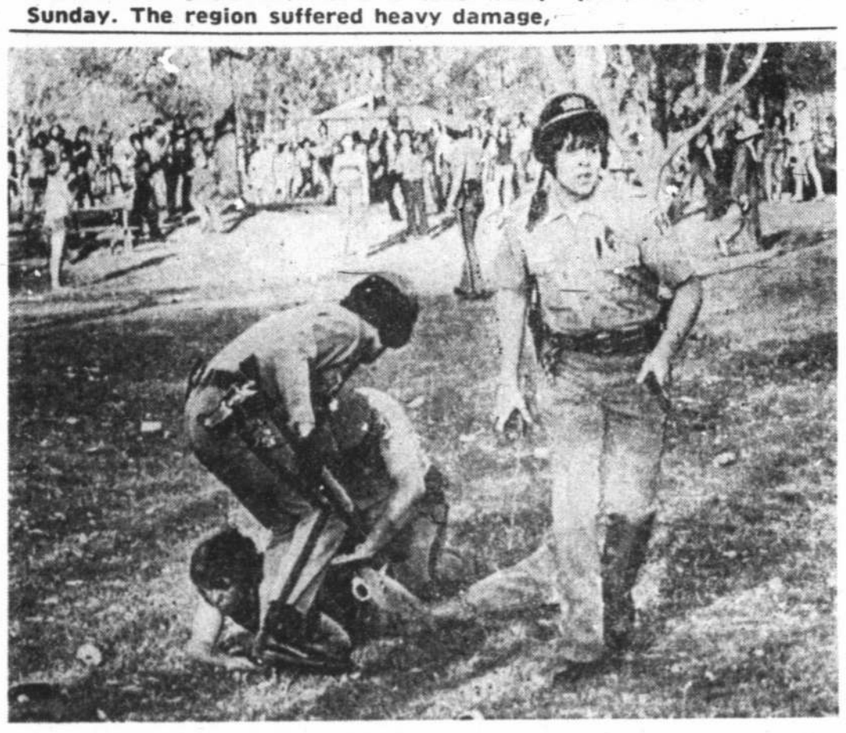

A fire station will be operated temporarily out of Cypress Street City Water Plant off Johnson Road, said Hurshel Johnson, fire chief.

The station will service the area previously served by the station on Southwest Parkway in Kiwanis Park which was destroyed by last Tuesday's tornado.

Quake damage

This building in Kotor, Yugoslavia, was damaged in a violent earthquake that hit the southern Yugoslavian Adriatic coast early Sunday. The region suffered heavy damage, with isolated damage as far as 90 miles inland. The quake registered 7.2 on the Richter scale. (AP Photo)

Riot arrest

Three policemen make an arrest Sunday in what officers termed a full-scale riot at a Wichita, Kan., rock concert. About 500 officers were called to the scene and arrested about 100 persons. (AP Photo)

24 injured, 100 arrested at rock concert riot

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Four policemen and 20 concert goers were injured and 100 people were arrested when a "full-scale riot" broke out Sunday evening during an outdoor rock concert attended by 4,000 to 5,000 people, authorities said.

"It just broke into warfare," said Bob Lawrence, program director for radio station KICT, which had publicized the concert.

The riot began at about 5:30 p.m. and the park area was not completely returned to order until nearly three hours later, said Wichita Police Chief Richard LaMunyon. The concert was being held in Herman Hill Park and the disturbance spread to four surrounding blocks in the busy area of south Wichita.

About 500 officers from the city police department, the Kansas Highway Patrol and the Sedgwick County Sheriff's office were sent in to quell the disturbance. Rocks and bottles were thrown at police. The officers used tear gas obtained from the Kansas National Guard with the approval of Gov. John Carlin, an aide to the governor said.

Witnesses said the rioters threw some gas canisters back at police. A sheriff's officer at the scene said police fired shotguns into the air.

Allegations of police overreaction came immediately from persons at the scene, including Lawrence, who had gone to the park where his station was doing live broadcasts.

"The police were doing their job, enforcing the law, but may-be getting a little rambunctious," Lawrence said.

LaMunyon had no immediate comment on the allegations.

Lawrence said he saw persons he described as "hoodlums" destroy two police cars with tire irons. A police spokesman said about 10 patrol cars were damaged.

Hospital spokesmen reported a total of 24 persons, including four law enforcement officers, had been treated at emergency rooms. At least one policeman was admitted to St. Joseph's Medical Center. His condition was not released.

A police officer at the scene, D.D. Behrend, said there were 100 arrests.

Police communications director Ken Duckworth said he believed the disturbance began when power to electrically amplified musical instruments was cut off by police, "probably due to disturbances of some kind." He would not elaborate.

Witnesses told reporters the riot broke out when police began ticketing cars parked on the grass, or when a fight erupted in the crowd.

The concerts are held throughout the summer at the park by local bands, who can buy permits to play from the city parks department, Lawrence said. The city routinely controls the length of time the bands play by turning the electricity on and off, he said.

Hearings planned on metric change

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Metric Board will hold public hearings here May 2-3 on whether gasoline pumps should be converted to metric measurements.

The board said most of the nation's more than 1 million pumps are incapable of computing prices over 99.9 cents per gallon.

Finnell reports twister damage

AUSTIN — State Rep. Charles Finnell last week toured the Wichita Falls area ravaged by Tuesday's tornado and returned briefly to Austin to report to the House and committee chairmen "in order that the emergency funding process may be started immediately."

Finnell said Sunday that Rep. Bill Presnal, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, and House Speaker Bill Clayton have assured him that they will cooperate with the rebuilding to the fullest.

Earthquake damages Yugoslavia

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — A major earthquake ripped across the rocky Adriatic coast of southern Yugoslavia early Sunday, killing about 200 persons, the official Belgrade Radio reported.

The quake, centered in the Adriatic Sea near the coastal resort of Dubrovnik, tore open hotels, hospitals, factories and homes along the coast, the agency reported.

As rescue operations began, officials said they feared that more dead may be buried under the rubble.

Earlier, the official Tanjug new agency reported 100 persons were dead, and hundreds more were injured.

Highways rimming the coast, medieval citadels in old settlements and modern hotels broken up by the initial 50-second tremor slid into the sea after a series of violent aftershocks, local officials reported.

Residents panicked as the tremors continued until late afternoon and fled into open fields and olive groves where they prepared to spend the night.

The area struck by the 7:20 a.m. (1:20 a.m. EST) quake is in the mountainous and relatively sparsely populated province of Montenegro. The small fishing villages and towns that cling to the rough and sunny coastline make it a popular resort area.

President Josip Broz Tito, who was staying near the coastal town of Herceg-Novi when the quake hit, visited the stricken area.

"It was lucky it was not a working day," said the 86-year-old president while viewing a shipyard that was destroyed by a landslide.

18 looting-related charges are filed

In the wake of Tuesday's tornado, city and state law enforcement officials have arrested 18 persons on looting-related charges and another 32 persons for curfew violations.

Following is a list of persons formally charged with looting or other storm-related offenses through 6 p.m. Sunday:

Leroy Dwayne Eurings, 23, 205 Welch, burglary of a habitation, bond set at $10,000; Jerry Allen Williams, 23, Denton, Texas, theft over $200, bond set at $10,000; Homer Lee Polk, 26, 306 Patterson, burglary of a habitation, bond set at $15,000; Janice Lea Jones, looting, released on personal recognizance bond; Steven Gregory Collier, looting, released on personal recognizance bond; Jay Jerome Leach, 19, 1900 Speedway, looting, released on attorney's bond; and Dwight Joe Tillman, 24, 2707 Ninth, released on attorney's bond.

The others arrested have not yet been formally charged.

Thousands attend Easter services

punctuated the service, and many church members, unable to hold back the emotions welling up from a tragedy-filled week, put their faces in their hands and wept.

As the service ended, Rev. Savage asked the congregation to join hands and say "I love you" to a neighbor. "It's marvelous," he said, "just marvelous to be alive."

The scene at Chaparral Baptist Assembly was repeated across the city. About 2,400 persons attended "The Dawn of a New Day" citywide service at Memorial Auditorium, sponsored by First Baptist Church, while 300 members of Evangel Temple Assembly of God, destroyed by the storm, gathered at a vacated Assembly of God Church to hold services.

At Seymour Road Drive-In Theater, the congregation of Southwest Baptist Church met to hear the Rev. Larry D. Lilley preach from a flatbed truck.

And in several churches whose congregations were not directly affected by the storm, silent prayers and offerings were made for the more than 20,000 persons left homeless by Tuesday's tornado.

Missing Foard ranchers 'heard'

CROWELL, Texas (Special) — Law enforcement officials Sunday reported hearing faint calls for help believed to be the voices of two missing Foard County ranchers.

Larry Gilbreath said a posse of riders will leave the Foard County Courthouse at 5 a.m. Monday to continue the search for Glyndon Johnson, 44, and County Commissioner Billy Johnson, 46, who have been missing since Friday evening.

A search by land and air was conducted Sunday.

Both are residents of the area and are of no relation.

About 80 persons rode horseback over the area west of Crowell and helicopters from Waggoner Ranch, Department of Public Safety and Fort Sill, Okla., flew over in an air search.

The two residents were last seen in their two-seater airplane Friday when they took off to check cattle and fences.

Building information offered on hot line

North Texas Home Builders Association has established a hot line to provide tornado victims with rebuilding information.

The hot line, number 322-8857, will be open from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday and from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily after Monday.

Phone service repairs delayed

Restoration of Wichita Falls telephone service was delayed Sunday when storms in states southeast of Texas placed additional demands on cable supplies, said Mac McGee, Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. district manager.

In addition to Mother Nature's delaying tactics, McGee said the safety factor also caused delays.

Service for Sikes and Midwestern Park additions, originally expected to be restored by Sunday night, now has a target date of Monday night, McGee said.

He said areas in far South Wichita Falls, generally around Lake Wichita, should be in service by 9 a.m. Monday.

"Service to all customers in inhabitable areas of the city should be restored by Thursday evening," he said.

At present, about 3,200 customers still are without service, down from the original 7,429, he said.

McGee apologized for the added delay and asked citizens to be patient.

"Our goal is the same as yours, (to get) service restored as quickly as possible while working safely," he said.

Community bulletin board

For as long as it is needed, Wichita Falls Times and Record News as a public service will publish in all of its editions a Community Bulletin Board listing information of a public nature concerning the recovery of Wichita Falls from Tuesday's tornado.

Gathering information for the bulletin board will be the responsibility of the community relations department of the newspapers.

The daily listings will be designed to act as a referral service for those affected by the tornado and to keep the general public informed about the city's status as the massive recovery effort continues.

All directors of agencies who have information in the public interest are urged to contact the community relations department of the Times and Record News between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at 767-8341, extension 258, or by coming to Times Square, 1301 Lamar.

Hotlines

Federal Disaster Assistance Administration has established two hotlines to provide information about state and disaster aid. Hotline number in Wichita Falls is 855-6910; in Vernon, 552-2528. Hotline operation hours are 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Ministers

Regular luncheon meeting of the Wichita Falls Ministers Fellowship has been canceled. Instead, Wichita Falls and surrounding community ministers are asked to come to Trinity United Methodist Church Tuesday at 10 a.m. Representatives of numerous agencies will also attend the meeting and all ministers of all faiths are urged to attend. Plans will be made for disaster assistance.

For further information, ministers should contact the Rev. John Lightfoot of Trinity United Methodist Church, 766-4777.

Texas Electric

Texas Electric Service Co. is seeking information from customers in the disaster area where electricity is needed most. Customers who are planning to live in their homes and make repairs, where possible, will be given high priority, according to Tom Locke, division manager. Others who desire electricity for cleanup operations will be served as facilities are available. TESCO phone number is 766-3331.

Mail delivery

Mail delivery has been suspended in the areas affected by the tornado in Wichita Falls. All other areas of the city will receive regular delivery.

Postal customers affected by the tornado will be able to receive the following services.

Zip code zones 76302, 76303 and rural roste 5 may pick up mail at the Main Post Office, 1000 Lamar, during regular business hours.

Zip code zones 76308, 76309 and 76310 may pick up mail at the University Park Station, 4312 Call Field Road, during regular business hours.

Business hours for both locations will be 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturday.

Mail for customers in the affected areas will be held indefinitely. Customers are urged to turn in a change-of-address as soon as possible so their mail can be delivered. This will avoid congestion at the Post Office.

Missing Inquiries

For help in locating missing people, call the Red Cross at 855-2141. A Red Cross spokesman advised patience on the part of people making inquiries.

Disabled vets

Glen Neal, national service officer, will be in Wichita Falls Monday and Tuesday to administer emergency relief funds for service connected disabled veterans who were affected by the tornado. Veterans who believe they qualify are asked to come to the Disabled American Veterans Chapter Building at 417 Indiana after 9 a.m. on Monday or Tuesday.

Employment

Texas Employment Commission has job openings for carpenters, roofer, general construction laborers and other silled and unskilled workers, according to E. R. Bearden, manager.

Anyone desiring employment may visit the TEC office at 1101 11th opening at 7 a.m. Monday.

Contractors in need of workers also may visit or contact the office at 322-5481.

Transportation

Community Action Corp. is offering transportation. Anyone needing transportation should call 723-8186.

Persons needing portable cooking equipment should call the same number.

Amvets

The Amvets store at 717 Indiana has clothing and some supplies for tornado victims in need. Anyone wishing to donate clothing, linens or canned food for tornado victims is invited to bring items to the Amvets store for distribution. Hours of operation are 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. daily except Sunday.

Stickers

All available disaster area stickers have been issued. If a vehicle has such a permit, it will be allowed to move freely in and out of the disaster area. Persons with necessary business are not excluded in the area but occupants of vehicles without stickers will have to state their business and prove their necessity to enter the area.

Salvation Army

The Salvation Army is providing food and drink at stationary canteens for disaster victims and workers. They are located at Southwest Parkway and Fairway, Sun Valley Apartments on U.S. 287, Cynthia and Jacksboro Highway in Southmoor and in two mobile vans. The relief agency's clothing distribution center at Harrell Elementary, located just east of Beverly Circle on Seymour Road is open from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

A Salvation Army spokesman says the agency is in immediate need of a warehouse to store donations and supplies until they can be processed. Please call 322-9822 or 322-4642 if you know of an available storage facility.

Aid programs

The following is a condensed outline of the various federal and state programs available at the disaster assistance centers in Wichita Falls and Vernon.

DISASTER LOANS
Loans to individuals and businesses for repair or replacement of home and businesses and personal property. Maximum loans are $55,000 to individuals and $250,000 for businesses. The interest rate on these long-term loans is 7 and three-eights percent. People who suffered losses in the five counties and any adjoining county are eligible to apply.

VETERANS BENEFITS
Veterans Administration can make adjustments to payment schedules for VA insured home mortgages. In addition, VA personnel will assist in obtaining death benefits, pensions and insurance settlements.

FARM AND RANCH AID
U.S. Department of Agriculture makes available a number of programs to assist farmers and rachers who have suffered losses. These include:
—Farmers Home Administration can provide loans for repair or replacement of farm homes and physical property and production and operating losses.
—Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service can provide grants of up to 80 per cent of the cost of debris removal from croplands, fence repair and rehabilitation of farmlands.

TAX ASSISTANCE
Internal Revenue Service will assist storm victims to file casualty loss claims and to amend income tax forms which may result in refunds on federal taxes already paid.

SOCIAL SECURITY
Social Security Administration will help in expediting benefit checks and in obtaining disability, death and survivor benefits.

LEGAL HELP
Young Lawyers Section of the American Bar Association will provide free legal counseling for disaster related problems, such as replacing legal documents, transferring titles and contracting.

INSURANCE
Federal Insurance Administration will provide counseling on insurance problems such as obtaining copies of lost policies, filing claims and expediting settlements.

GRANT PROGRAM
Texas Department of Human Resources will take applications for grants to individuals or families who have serious needs or necesary expenses which other aid programs can not meet. The grants, which can be up to $5,000, may be used for repair of owner-occupied homes, medical, dental and funeral expenses, replacement of personal property and various other necessary needs.

DEBRIS CLEARANCE
Contractors hired by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will remove debris considered a menace to public health and safety from both public and private property. Owners of private property who need debris removed must visit a disaster center and sign an access agreement before contractors may do the work.

TEMPORARY HOUSING
Housing for those whose primary residence was left uninhabitable by the storm may be made available without charge for up to one year. Housing may include exisiting government-owned and government-assisted units, privately owned rental property or mobile homes.

UNEMPLOYMENT AID
Unemployment compensation can be made available to those who became unemployed as a result of the storm. This includes those not covered by regular state or private unemployment insurance programs. Assistance in finding re-employment also will be available.

Easter bunny surprises Chinese

PEKING (AP) — A U.S. congresswoman donned a fluffy white bunny suit and papier mache rabbit head Sunday to deliver Easter eggs and jelly beans to surprised American tourists and Chinese at the Great Wall.

"They went crackers. They loved it, both the Chinese and the Americans," said Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., a member of the visiting House Military Affairs Committee.

Mrs. Schroeder, of Denver, put on the costume in her room at the Peking Hotel and was thronged by Americans when she stepped from the elevator.

When she removed her grinning, toothy mask, a woman exclaimed, "I know you, I'm from Denver, too. Fancy meeting a Colorado Easter rabbit in the Peking Hotel." The rabbit marched into the hotel dining room, followed by 100 grinning Americans and Chinese.

"Everybody gathered and patted me. I gave out plastic eggs. It was a zoo," Mrs. Schroeder said.

The white rabbit then went by a tour bus to the Great Wall where she again drew a large crowd of curious Chinese.

"I couldn't get over how delighted the Chinese were," the congresswoman said. "I had never seen them so animated. There were actual belly laughs.

"They asked me about the Easter bunny and I explained it was a pagan custom."

Then, she said, the Chinese told her a legend about a benevolent white rabbit who lives on the moon. A Chinese guide wanted to meet the rabbit-person and was given Easter eggs for his children.

Born Aug. 23, 1902, in Graham, Texas, as Lillie Mae Porter, she was married in 1925 at Matador, Texas. She had resided in Olney 46 years and was a Baptist.

Survivors include her husband; a daughter, Mrs. Bill Crosthwaite of Olney; a son, Billy Dunlap of Watauga, Texas; a sister, Mrs. Lela Estes of Olney; a brother, Henry Porter of Breckenridge, Texas; seven grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren.

City, county officials resuming many regular duties

By CINDY RUGELEY
Staff Writer

Wichita Falls and Wichita County officials will return to their offices and many of their regular duties Monday, but the task of overcoming last week's devastating tornado has only begun.

City and county officials, city council members and representatives from various governmental and private agencies had manned phones and controlled the city's disaster recovery from an Emergency Operations Center in the police station for countless hours since Tuesday's tornado. At 6 p.m. Sunday, they disbanded. Many left to take in a full night's sleep for the first time in almost a week. Others left with plans to attend an evening church service.

One of two command posts operated last week by employees of the City Human Resources Department was closed permanently Sunday evening. The second post, at Southwest Parkway and Fairway, will remain in operation.

Utility employees worked through Sunday night restoring electric and telephone lines. Spokesmen for both utilities have indicated work should be completed soon. City water was declared safe to drink Saturday.

City officials also announced a curfew placed into effect at an emergency council meeting Wednesday had been modified, effective Sunday. Curfew for the disaster area is 9 p.m. until 6 a.m., and for the rest of the city curfew is 11 p.m. until 6 a.m.

The city council will meet at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday in Memorial Auditorium.

Many businesses have returned to general operation.

Business will not be as usual, though, for officials or citizens of Wichita Falls and the surrounding area.

City Manager Gerald Fox has estimated almost 6,100 homes and businesses were damaged. Included in that damage were Southmoor and Southgate shopping centers and Sikes Senter Mall. Red Cross has estimated 20,000 persons were left homeless by the storm.

The portion of the city receiving the heaviest damage, the southwest portion, according to planning department studies, was the area expected to experience the heaviest growth.

For Wichita Falls, the task of clearing and rebuilding that area remains.

Aid in this process is pouring in from government agencies and volunteers.

Most of the damaged homes have been cleared of personal belongings.

Contractors hired by U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will begin the clearing process soon. Persons seeking assistance from the corps must sign a statement giving permission for debris to be cleared from their property. The statements can be picked up at the one-stop assistance centers.

Mayor Kenneth Hill and Charles Harper, a city architect, have both predicted it will take 10 to 15 years to rebuild the storm-ravaged portions of Wichita Falls.

Harper, who was instrumental in the southwest development, said redevelopment can not occur without a city zoning ordinance.

Federal Disaster Assistance Administration one-stop centers are operating at Notre Dame High School and the 4-H Barn. Persons affected by the storm can apply for a variety of state and federal aid at the centers. A third center is open at Wilbarger Coliseum in Vernon, Texas.

In the two days since the centers opened, 2,422 persons have applied for aid.

Persons with inquiries concerning city functions should contact the city switchboard, 322-5611.

Inquiries pertaining to other areas of concern should contact interested agencies. Telephone numbers for those agencies are listed in the Record News Community Bulletin Board.

Sadat warns protesters

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — President Anwar Sadat warned student protesters Sunday that police would "shoot immediately and without discussion" anyone caught destroying state property.

Sadat's strongly worded speech at the upper Egyptian city of Assiut, 380 miles south of Cairo, also announced a ban on students carrying weapons or participating in national politics on the country's campuses.

"I will not allow the students to carry knives and weapons or allow the universities to graduate cowboys instead of educated people," Sadat said in a speech distrubed by the official Middle East News Agency.

Blessing the pope

Pope John Paul II appeals for peace in Easter message

By VICTOR L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II appealed for peace and respect for human rights in his Easter message Sunday, delivered to 350,000 pilgrims and tourists in St. Peter's Square. He called Easter "the day of universal hope."

As the festive crowd, one of the largest in Vatican history, called out "Viva il Papa" ("Long live the pope") and held up their national flags, the pontiff gave Easter greetings in 32 languages, apologizing if he mispronounced any.

The pope wished peace to all those who suffer, are humiliated, disappointed, oppressed, repressed and to those whose human dignity is violated.

Repeating the greeting of the risen Christ, "Peace Be With You," he made special mention of those places where he said peace "is particularly relevant and particularly awaited" — the Middle East, Africa, Asia, Latin America and the "peoples who live in the various social, economic and political systems."

About 8,000 Italians taking part in a peace march to focus attention on the plight of starving children walked to the edge of the vast cobblestone square carrying orange flowers, palm leaves and signs. Some of the signs read "Feed Don't Kill" and "Don't Let 1979 Be the Year of Herod."

The United Nations has designated 1979 as the International Year of the Child.

The march was organized by Marco Pannella of the tiny, but vocal, leftist Radical Party, which has battled for causes ranging from abortion to disarmament.

The pope appeared to speak to them when he said, "I am thinking in this moment in particular of all those who are suffering for the lack of what is strictly necessary for existence and of all those who suffer hunger, and above all of the little children."

But in an apparent reference to abortion not included in his prepared text, the pope called for respect of "life" as well as truth, freedom, justice and love.

Scores of Italian police surrounded the sun-baked square in a stepped-up security move, but no incidents were reported. Several persons who had taken part in the peace march presented Pope John Paul with an olive branch and a written appeal during the morning Mass.

Claim service quick

Insurance claims adjusters so far have done a magnificent job of serving the needs of Wichita Falls and area residents whose property was damaged and destroyed in the killer tornado of April 10.

Teams were dispatched promptly and in many cases insurance representatives went into the debris-laden path left by the storm to present settlement checks to homeowners.

With a record like this from its representatives in the field, we hope the insurance carriers will continue to keep faith with Wichitans after the tornado effort is completed.

We still recall with dismay the aftermath of the April 4, 1964 storm when insurance adjusters settled with Wichita Falls homeowners, then promptly announced that they were "pulling out" of Wichita Falls. Some companies even stopped serving any customers in Texas.

So far in their work associated with settling losses from last week's twister the insurance picture is bright indeed. Representatives are due highest praise for their efforts to make fair and prompt settlements. On the basis of their performance so far, we confidently expect them to continue such excellent service to policyholders.

Insurance firms' principal product is this service, and continued service is their stock in trade, so we hope they will continue their coverage. We realize that ultimately we will repay then losses through additional premiums. For this, we hope to be able to continue to purchase coverage from the same firms in the future.

Soft energy path best?

The most vigorous energy debate is the dialogue over whether we will take the "hard" or "soft" path to future energy sufficiency. Hard energy is that generated from non-renewable fuels; soft energy, in short, is decentralized solar energy.

Foremost disciple of soft energy is Amory Lovins, a "boy wonder" consulting physicist with the University of California's Energy and Resources Program. Amory is enthusiastically backed by Friends of the Earth Inc., a nonprofit conservation group.

Lovins sees the energy controversy not only as between solar and hard energy, but also between monopoly utilities and decentralized energy, represented by individual solar collectors atop everyone's house. He believes soft energy is more practical and can be developed more quickly if the decentralized path is followed.

The reason for such thinking is simple: centralized power plants must produce large quantities of electrical energy to be practical, and solar energy doesn't yet lend itself to production on such a scale. However, the sun can be harnessed relatively easily to produce power for a single house or a cluster of houses.

Lovins has a point, arguing also that the soft path is cheaper in capital costs and has better potential in cost of delivered energy. He feels that in 50 years we can revolutionize the supply of energy needs for mankind. That's a coincidence; most petroleum experts feel the world has only about 50 years of petroleum remaining.

Universe: house of laws

Editor:

The universe is a house consisting of parts relating to each other and the whole, created by God to operate on a system of law.

Observation of this fact has prompted men to develop mathematics and other sciences. Tampering with the law weakens the foundation and eventually brings destruction.

It is not God's intention to confuse, but men who live in this house must be familiar with its operations. All other creatures and things receive this information by heredity and obey. Man is born intelligent, untutored and in rebellion. He must teach himself discipline and acquire any knowledge he may need.

A few thousand years ago, men learned to write with hammer and chisel on clay and stone. A letter was hard to mail. A man in China decided these problems could be overcome if man could make paper, so he watched the insects, which always had known how to make and use paper.

This knowledge was transmitted to the insect, along with other information, in its genes at birth. With a small amount of self-appraisal, discipline and intelligent thinking, a man can become prosperous, happy and shrewd.

If any of you human beings are about to venture out into the world to "do your own thing," observe first how the animals do it. It may save you a few thousand years of study.

Maggie Trudeau analyzed

GEORGIE ANNE GEYER

SEOUL, South Korea — Nobody and no place is safe from Margaret Trudeau. Even here, where I am trying to do some serious reporting, Margaret's episodes jump out of the papers.

I am forced to focus for a moment on Margaret. I do it because of one nagging factor: she is the one type of woman in the world I simply am thoroughly incapable of understanding.

I can understand the homebody, the earth mother, the devoted wife, the bitch, the aggressive career woman, the community servant, the militant feminist, the radical lesbian and even the nice ordinary woman.

For the life of me, I cannot understand the woman who brags about all the men in the world who will agree to sleep with her.

This, you see, is Margaret's whole thing. She considers conquests what most women consider favors or choices. What other women hold back from because it is so common she celebrates like Arbor Day.

And now she is telling about it in her book (which I resolutely refuse to name) and is letting it be known through a Canadian magazine (which I also refuse to name) that she had an affair with an American politician (whom I also refuse to name) for whom she must be No. 10,542.

In this super-analytical age we have to ask why Margaret, who also thinks it's good that she abandoned her three infant children because it will teach them to stand on their own six little feet, should have this bedroom-as-proving-ground obsession.

Those who think about it at all think she probably is getting back at her husband (certainly nobody calls him Lucky Pierre any more). This could well be so. She stops intermittently to ponder soberly how she really loves Pierre and the children.

The high point in their relationship was when he slapped her, she has said, which one easily can understand, at least from his point of view.

I suspect she just needs to be talked about. In a short period of time she has proven conclusively that she 1.) can't act, 2.) can't take photographs and 3.) can't write. What is left, I ask you, for a pretty woman who wants, to use the word lightly, to make good?

If she were just plain Margaret Gooch from the wide open spaces, she would make a nice receptionist. But she has Pierre Trudeau's name, so she indeed can sell something.

In short, the only thing that turns out to be noteworthy about Margaret Trudeau is her willingness. And indeed she has been selling that to us.

I am afraid this may sound catty. God knows that is the last thing I would have wished. I am just trying to gain some understanding of this certain kind of woman who so perplexes me.

But, I admit it, perhaps I am being unfair. Perhaps what I am really afraid of is the Margaret Trudeaus glutting the market.

After all, if girls like Margaret are any indicator of the future, it is the men who will be murmuring to themselves: "Don't give away anything you can sell."

Other shoe ready to drop

By ROWLAND EVANS & ROBERT NOVAK

TEHRAN — With the force behind the Iranian revolution having vanished with the toppled shah, architects of the new "Islamic republic" face the gravest peril in the immediate future from Soviet intrigue, border wars and a disastrous economy, with the U.S. powerless on the sidelines.

Expulsion of the shah was the first shoe; the second has yet to drop.

"The Soviet Union pretends to be a friendly country," the minister of the interior said, "but we are quite aware that they are trying to cause troubles with agents."

Amplifying that statement as he twisted prayer beads around his wrist, Ahmad Sadr said his government makes no charges, but that "I personally think" Moscow is helping exploit Iran's age-old security problems with the Turkoman, Baluchi, Kurdish and Arab minorities.

The present strongman of the revolution, Deputy Prime Minister Ibrahim Yazdi, said he couldn't say "precisely" that the Soviets stirred up the trouble in the western Kurdish regions. But it is assumed by many here in a capital city rich in assumptions but poor in certitudes that when the Ayatollah Khomeini received ace Soviet diplomat Vladimir Vinogradov, the first ambassador admitted to his presence, Soviet fishing in Iran's troubled waters was one subject. But warnings will have no impact from a country without an effective armed force. The defense minister, air force chief and army chief of staff change with the regularity of Italian governments, and the revolutionary regime is hard put to field a healthy division or two.

A huge new edifice is nearing completion on the one-square-block Soviet embassy grounds here for housing even more Soviet "diplomats," commercial agents and the like (most of whom are undercover KGB operatives) with the obvious mission of weakening and further dividing the forces of the revolution. With Iran's access to the Persian Gulf and its rich oil reserves, its switch from the American orbit has made it a glittering target for Moscow.

There are no illusions in the interim government headed by mild-mannered, goateed Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan as to Soviet intentions. Extremist elements of the gun-toting fedayeen, whose numbers are multiplying, may show few signs of pro-Soviet inclinations, but there is no doubt about tneir Marxist ideology. A second organized faction of irregulars, youthful "Mojahadeen" Islamic zealots, is anti-Soviet and anti-American, with strong xenophobic tendencies.

The power vacuum of Iran's transition from the shah's dictatorial rule to a constitutional "Islamic republic" begs to be filled. The increasing number of trained Soviet agents, many of whom speak vernacular Farsi, obviously is intended by Moscow to fill it in a way that will maximize Soviet and eliminate American influence.

Western authorities here say there is no doubt that anti-American broadcasts from across the Soviet border, ignored by the State Department for months, were a major factor in linking anti-shahism to anti-Americanism. "Those broadcasts by themselves made the (Feb. 14) attack on the U.S. embassy inevitable," one western ambassador said.

The first test of whether the weak interim government can build a bridge to the mystical "Islamic republic," feared by the middle and upper classes will come when Iran's 35 million people vote on the new constitution and its plan for some form of popular representation mixed with the discipline of the Koran. There is impatience among Tehran's roving bands of young revolutionaries for instant change to "popular" rule, and constant proselytizing in the villages by Tehran-based fedayeen.

Scare stories confusing

By MARTHA ANGLE & ROBERT WALTERS

HARRISBURG, Pa. — In the tense days following the nation's worst accident involving a commercial nuclear reactor, none of the institutions responsible for providing guidance to a worried citizenry became covered with glory.

Federal and state officials, the news media and the utility corporation that operates the trouble-plagued generating station on Three Mile Island all failed to properly serve the public during that unprecedented crisis.

By far the most irresponsible was General Public Utilities Corp., whose subsidiary power companies own the sprawling plant on the Susquehanna River 10 miles southeast of Harrisburg.

In the early days of the crisis, the company regularly issued deceptive, misleading and inaccurate statements, apparently designed to minimize both the damage done earlier and the potential for more profound disaster in the future.

As a result, the utility firm was publicly rebuked and repeatedly contradicted by senior officials of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission dispatched from Washington to bring the runaway plant under control.

Pennsylvania state officials said direct pressure from the White House was necessary to force the company to cease proclaiming unwarranted optimism.

Nuclear Regularity Commission hardly distinguished itself, providing often-conflicting information from at least four scattered locations: two sites in Washington, the generating station here and a regional office in King of Prussia, Pa., a Philadelpia suburb.

Spokesmen for the federal regulatory agency variously a.) offered technical data without providing any context enabling laymen to understand it, b.) claimed a lack of basic information, and c.) was unavailable when critical explanations were most needed.

State officials, including Pennsylvania Gov. Richard Thornburgh, lacked the necessary expertise to deal with the complex problems encountered within the troubled nuclear facility.

At one point, Thornburgh told residents living within a 10-mile radius of the generating station that they could minimize the effect of radiation exposure by remaining inside their homes or offices with windows and doors closed. But he withdrew that advice only a day later without offering any further explanation.

The governor never acknowledged that his initial suggestion had been worthless because the xenon and krypton nucleides released into the atmosphere emit beta and gamma rays, both of which readily penetrate virtually all conventional construction materials.

Nuclear reasons foggy

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — The haunting accident at the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant, its lessons and its consequences, will be hotly debated for months to come.

The instant reaction of those who had already made up their minds that nuclear energy is an uncontrollable evil, were these:

— The 72 nuclear facilities that have been generating electricity for years in the United States should at once be put out of business.

— The 90 other plants under construction should be stopped and the federal government should not license any more.

Undoubtedly, others will be thinking along similar lines. Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., for example, sees the plight at Three Mile Island as nothing less than a final, fatal blow to the use of nuclear power as a source of energy, however needed it may be.

But the only way to avoid leaping to the wrong answers is to be sure that we ask ourselves the right questions, such as:

Are there adequate alternative energy sources if nuclear power is to be banned? Are there sources of energy safer than nuclear-so that we can achieve a more risk-free power supply? If the alternatives are as risk-prone as nuclear power, or even more risk-prone, will not the consequences of abandoning nuclear power inevitably produce a widespread reduction in the nation's living standards, a reduction that will fall hardest on the poor?

Before we decide to abandon nuclear energy, the American people need credible answers to such questions. If what happened at Three Mile Island is indeed, as it has been described, "the worst nuclear accident ever," then the nuclear record is reassuring beyond comparison. No member of the public has yet been found to be exposed to serious radioactive fallout. Nor has any employee.

Seventy-two nuclear power plants have been operating in the U.S. No member of the public has had his health injured. Not a single worker has been killed by radiation.

No other industry can match this achievement. Thousands of workers have been killed mining coal and thousands of others have had their lungs fatally impaired by pollution of the atmosphere that comes from industrial coal burning plants.

Nobody's talking about abandoning the use of coal; in fact, just the opposite. Poorly constructed dams in the United States have cost the lives of thousands of people whose homes have been destroyed. Nobody's talking about banning dams.

No modern high-technology industry is risk-free, but on the record nuclear power is safest of all.

As one who believes nuclear power is needed to meet America's energy requirements safely and economically, I do not take the accident at Three Mile Island lightly. No one should. There are lessons to learn that can improve on the unexampled safety of the nuclear plants.

But if we attempt to reduce everything to zero risk, we would be getting a zero-growth economy, mounting unemployment and a nation on the decline.

New agreements reduce regulations on world trade

By CARL HARTMAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is about multilateral trade negotiations — but don't go away, there's a trillion dollars involved.

Many people find agreements on international business hard to understand. One who does not is Ambassador Alan Wolff, who did a lot of the talking for the United States on the accords just initialled by 41 governments in Geneva. He tried this explanation on a group of reporters:

If you took the city of Peoria, Ill., and put a 60 percent tax on everything that went in and out — and innumerable restrictions on everything bought and sold — the result would be a depression in the area and everyone would earn very little.

That's what happened on a global scale in the 1930s, and it had a lot to do with complicating the Great Depression and leading to World War II. Today, said Wolff, it's the reverse that's happening. World trade is being deregulated.

"In a world that after the oil embargo and the recession has suffered a good deal of anxiety and loss of business confidence," Wolff said, "to have people lowering government interference and restrictions is an enormous achievement."

The decontrolling of international business has been approached by drafting a series of "codes" — agreements among governments designed to break down barriers to trade.

There's a code on how a customs agent appraises the value of a shipment — this makes a difference to a businessman who finds what he thinks are $500 worth of goods being valued at $1,000, at 10 percent duty — as well as codes on government subsidies and purchasing, and on how governments deal with the aircraft industry.

The codes also include tariff reductions. Wolff said the codes are intended to end restrictions that destroy trade. For instance:

There is a great demand all over the world for foreign medicines. But France has a regulation that no pharmaceutical may be sold unless a French inspector is at the plant where it is produced.

Many firms would be happy to pay the expenses of a French inspector. But France has another rule: inspectors do not travel outside the country.

One of the codes sets out how to set national standards for products and is designed to put an end to that kind of thing.

Another code will try to end the counterfeiting of goods, requiring that such goods be destroyed. Wolff explained how counterfeiting interferes with trade, saying simply:

"When Levi Strauss finds its products selling all over the world, some of which it didn't manufacture, they wonder about that."

Still another code among the Geneva agreements will open up government contracts in many countries to international bidding. The U.S. authorities hope that at least $20 billion worth of new business a year will become accessible to Americans.

One important part of that is still not settled. President Carter's top trade negotiator, Robert Strauss, suspended talks with Japan on international bidding on $2 billion in equipment the Japanese telecommunications system buys each year.

The Japanese were unwilling to go as far as Strauss wanted, but the issue will come up again when Japanese Premier Masayoshi Ohira visits Washington next month.

Another thing that didn't get done: France bans advertising of hard liquor made from grain but not that made from grapes. That gives cognac an advantage in France over whiskey.

Harry Kopp of the State Department's office of international trade said the European Common Market has promised to do its best to get France to change that. France belongs to the Common Market, but it's so influential a member that few decisions are made against its will.

Though the experts say that cuts in tariffs are less important than the dismantling of other barriers to trade, some of the tariff reductions are also significant.

Wolff cited the Japanese import duty on photographic film, which under Japanese law could have been a prohibitive 40 percent. The Japanese have actually been charging 11 percent, and at that rate Wolff said Kodak film was able to compete on the Japanese market.

Under the new codes, he said, the tariff will be cut to 4 percent.

The agreements still have a long path to travel before they go into effect. They must be ratified in each of the countries — which is complicated in some cases and simple in others.

In the United States, the necessary bills are to be put to Congress next month in the hope that they can be passed before August. But Kopp said the debate could last until October or November.

Congress cannot amend the bills — it must simply vote for or against.

Good news, bad news

"Dearly beloved, we are gathered here today to join this man and this woman in a two-paycheck marriage."

Empty White House a sign of spring

WASHINGTON (AP) — At 8:19 a.m. Thursday, a big, military-green Marine Corps helicopter shuddered, shifted slightly, and then lifted off the South Lawn of the White House, carrying President Carter, wife and daughter on the first leg of an Easter vacation.

Within 20 minutes, a General Services Administration team in white overalls was scurrying about the Oval Office, pulling down drapes for cleaning, freeing windows stuck with layers of paint and spreading putty around loose panes.

Tourists, escorted by friends or relatives on the White House staff, were ogling the workers in the most famous office in the nation.

A cleaner, interrupted only by the tourists, was polishing the brass door handles and locks of the White House West Wing, which houses the offices of the president and his senior aides.

It's springtime at the White House, when the crabapple trees blossom around the Rose Garden, the holly bushes show fresh sprigs of new growth, the tourists come in and the president goes fishing.

With Carter back in Georgia, Vice President Walter F. Mondale visiting his ancestral village of Mundal on a Norwegian fjord, and members of Congress scattered around the globe on their Easter vacations, a number of senior White House aides and other officials also disappeared.

Zbigniew Brzezinski, the president's national security assistant, and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance both planned trips to Florida.

Top aide Hamilton Jordan was in Albany, Ga., visiting his mother. Press secretary Jody Powell and his family were spending a long weekend at Camp David, the president's Maryland mountain resort.

But others took advantage of Carter's planned 11-day absence to catch up with their work.

Frank Moore, the president's chief congressional lobbyist, planned a week in town while Congress was in recess.

"You always say, 'When they go home, boy, I'll play golf.' But it never happens," he said.

The president's senior aide for domestic issues, Stuart Eizenstat, did nothing to tarnish his image as one of the hardest workers on the White House staff.

"He'll be here working as usual," said one member of his staff, adding: "Stu plans to work us straight on through."

The only allowance Eizenstat made was to leave early on Wednesday evening for his family's Passover seder, a Jewish ceremony, where the special guest was Jimmy Carter.

Just below the senior staff level, there was a relaxed atmosphere. With the boss gone, a receptionist in Mondale's office sat down in a big chair in an adjoining office one morning while another staff member helped her comb her long, reddish hair.

Groundskeepers and tourists busily devoted themselves to their appointed rounds, a sure sign that spring has arrived in the nation's capital.

Misleading ads reason for caution

By MARK WHITE
Attorney General

AUSTIN — Every consumer has seen ads that say "normally sells for $69 — on sale now for $49.95." Or maybe it's "Buy the first pair at $18, get the second pair for half price."

These are price comparison ads, and our Consumer Protection and Antitrust Division attorneys say they are a popular and effective way to promote various products.

In such ads, current prices for goods or services are compared with previous prices, with future prices, or with other stated values in order to show price reduction, savings or sales.

Price comparison ads that accurately reflect current market values help consumers make buying decisions. But if such ads are based on inflated or arbitrary prices, they can be misleading. In such cases, our attorneys say they could violate the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act.

While most business persons use price comparisons to show legitimate changes in prices, there are a few unscrupulous merchants who treat both consumers and their competitors unfairly by misusing price comparison ads.

They may raise the price of a popular item just before a "sale" and then offer "tremendous price reductions on our best-selling line." Our lawyers say the previous price must have been in effect for a reasonable length of time before the sale, though, and must have been sold regularly at that price, in order for the "sale" to be legitimate.

Consumers should also read sale materials carefully. Such statements as "compare at $5.95," or "made to sell for $25," can be meaningless. They give the impression that the buyer will get a real bargain, even though the merchandise may never have sold at that price.

It's a good idea, too, to investigate further if an ad indicates an item is "reduced from manufacturer's suggested list price," since some sellers jack up this price to make it seem their reductions are more attractive.

Our attorneys also note that offering goods at "factory price," "wholesale" or "dealer cost" can be misleading if the merchant's definition includes cost to dealer plus overhead, advertising costs, sales commissions and other business expenses. In other words, such terms mean different things to different persons, and it's important to know exactly how they are defined.

If you have a consumer complaint about deceptive or misleading cost comparisons, contact the attorney general's Consumer Protection and Antitrust Division in Austin, Houston, Dallas, San Antonio, El Paso, Lubbock or McAllen.

Traffic radar trial to begin

MIAMI (AP) — Traffic radar goes on trial here Monday in a court test of its reliability as legal evidence in speeding cases.

Public defenders armed with about 30 speeding cases will argue motions to overturn Florida's statute on the use of radar as evidence and to suppress radar readings in the cases.

Judge Alfred Nesbitt, Dade County administrative judge, will conduct the hearing, which he suggested in February after he and other judges viewed films that showed potential serious errors in radar clockings.

In the films, broadcast as part of a series by Miami television station WTVJ, a tree was clocked at 86 mph and a house at 28 mph.

Although any decision by Nesbitt would cover only Dade County, the case seems certain to be appealed and take on far-broader ramifications.

Radar already has lost a round in neighboring Broward County, where County Judge Bobby Gunther last week dismissed a speeding charge against a Hollywood, Fla., businessman.

A private engineer who repairs radar units for several police agencies testified that the MV-715 radar unit used to nab the driver could be influenced by mobile telephones or citizen band radios. The engineer also said the unit tends to settle on the largest target in its area, creating some confusion about which car is being clocked.

Col. Eldridge Beach, head of the state's highway patrol, said he may ask the attorney general to help if unfavorable rulings continue.

"Obviously we're going to have to do something," Beach said.

In the Miami case, Nesbitt said at least two dozen attorneys have asked to be heard.

Volunteers make life bearable

By ERMA BOMBECK

Volunteers are like yachts.

No matter where they are, they arouse your curiosity. Who are they? Where do they come from? Why are they here?

They could stay moored where it's safe and still justify their being, but they choose to cut through the rough waters, ride out storms and take chances.

They have style. They're fiercely independent. If you have to ask how much they cost, you can't afford them.

Volunteers and yachts have a lot more in common these days. They're both a part of an aristocratic era that is disappearing from the American scene. They're both a luxury in a world that has become very practical.

Day by day, the number of volunteers decreases in this country as more and more of them equate their worth in terms of dollars and cents.

Three years ago I did a column on volunteers in an effort to point out that they don't contribute to our civilization. They ARE civilization, at least the only part worth talking about.

They are the only human beings on the face of this earth who reflect this nation's compassion, unselfishness, caring, patience, need and just plain loving one another. Their very presence transcends politics, religion, ethnic background, marital status, sexism, even smokers versus non-smokers.

Maybe, like the yacht, the volunteer was a luxury. And luxuries are too often taken for granted.

One has to wonder. Did we, as a nation, remember to say to the volunteers, "Thank you for our symphony hall. Thank you for the six dialysis machines. Thank you for sitting up with a 16-year-old who overdosed and begged to die. Thank you for the hot chocolate at the Scout meeting. Thanks for reading to the blind. Thanks for using your station wagon to transport a group of strangers to a ballgame. Thanks for knocking on doors in the rain. Thanks for hugging the winners of the Special Olympics. Thanks for pushing the wheelchair into the sun. Thanks for being."

Did the media stand behind them when they needed a boost? Did the professionals make it a point to tell them they did a good job? Did the recipients of their time and talent ever express their gratitude?

It frightens me, somehow, to imagine what the world will be like without them.

Tax group cites cost to workers

WASHINGTON (AP) — No point hiding it. April 16 isn't the end. The average American will work full time for the government — federal, state or local — until next month.

The Tax Foundation, which figures out such things, says if all the income of the average worker went first to pay his taxes for the year, he would be through paying on May 6.

By such reckoning, of course, everything from then through the end of the year would belong to the wage-earner to spend for things other than running the various governments.

For those millions who wait until the last minute to mail Form 1040 for 1978, there are some other tax facts to chew over while in line at the post office.

For one thing, for those in the northeast or upstate New York who file through the Internal Revenue Service processing center at Andover, Mass., or live in North Carolina, another 24 hours was available before getting into that line.

Monday is Patriot's Day in Massachusetts, a state holiday, and it's a legal holiday for Easter in North Carolina.

The people who live in Wichita Falls, Texas, have been granted automatic 60-day extensions on filing their income tax because of the devastating tornadoes there last week.

The foundation estimates a typical worker pays 34.3 percent of his earnings into taxes. That means two hours and 45 minutes of each day. The next largest claim on income, housing and running the household, comes to one hour 27 minutes. Contrast that with 19 minutes earmarked for recreation.

Average Taxpayer gets a break this year, the Tax Foundation says. Federal taxes in 1979 will take one minute less to earn than last year.

That's not exactly stemming the tide. Fifty years ago, the magic mythical date was Feb. 9. But in 1929 the tax bite was only 10.8 percent of the average worker's earnings.

In 1939 taxes took 17.4 percent, the foundation says. In 1949 it was 22.7 per cent. Ten years later, down to 18.6. In 1969, it was 34.5 percent and the average worker with the devotion to pay his year's share of taxes before taking anything for himself would have paid it off on May 3.

Or put another way, in 1929 it took only 40 days labor to pay for the privilege of living in this country. Now it takes 125 days.

While Americans seem to pay their taxes willingly, many aren't in a hurry to do so, the IRS says.

As of April 6 — 10 days before the deadline in most of the country — 58 million returns had been filed, divided almost equally into long forms and short forms.

The IRS expects 91 million individual returns, meaning there were 33 million to come in the final crush.

Lawmaker blasts use of Army chauffeurs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army's use of chauffeur-driven cars in Europe to carry officers distances of less than 300 yards reflects "a disregard for the taxpayer's dollar," a Wisconsin congressman said Sunday.

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., made the criticism as he released the results of a study by the General Accounting Office, Congress' investigative arm, into use of Army chauffeurs in Europe.

"Soldiers are used as drivers and are wasting considerable time chauffeuring vehicles and waiting for passengers," the GAO report said.

The GAO recommended that more officers drive themselves. However, its report recognized that the use of chauffeurs can be warranted in many circumstances.

Aspin said he requested the GAO study after hearing that the Air Force severely restricts the use of chauffeurs in Europe, but that drivers were assigned to both high- and low-ranking officers in the Army.

As part of its investigation, the GAO checked the work of seven men assigned as drivers to the U.S. Army Headquarters in Europe in Heidelberg, Germany.

One driver spent 80 percent of his time driving and the remainder doing nothing, a second spent half his time driving and the other half studying college courses and a third spend 30 percent of his time driving and the rest with no assigned work, the GAO said.

"Several of the staff heads were also being provided with transportation from their offices to the command office building . .. a distance of 200 to 300 yards," the report said.

"In private enterprise, no one would get away with such wasteful practices," said Aspin.

'Debbie Does Dallas' to open in courtroom

FORT WORTH (AP) — The film "Debbie Does Dallas" which has played almost as many courthouses as theaters, opens in a Fort Worth courtroom Monday morning.

In a rare move for misdemeanor cases, Dallas Judge B.L. Brashear transferred the case to Judge J. C. Duvall's Fort Worth courtroom on a change of venue. Duvall said he expects a packed courtroom to view the film.

WHAT TO EXPECT WHEN YOU ATTEND

Many of you have never been to a service of the church of Christ meeting at 1814 Buchanan and therefore do not know what to expect when you attend. When you arrive at the building there will be people happy to see you and welcome you to the service. The weeknight services will consist of congregational singing (Eph.5:19), prayers (1Cor.14:15f), and gospel preaching where book, chapter, and verse will be given for all preached. The preacher will not go into a lot of death-bed stories, personal experiences, and emotionalism. He will ably teach the Bible proving all he teaches by citing where it is found in the Bible. He will preach in such a way that you can easily understand what is being taught. You will notice many taking notes on what he preaches so they can continue to benefit from it. Most services will last about an hour unless the preacher is dealing with some subject that requires more time. He will take all the time he needs for no one will tell him how long he can preach yet he will not try to impose on the audience. The meeting will be designed to help you learn the truth that makes men free (Jn.8:32) from sin. Why not plan now to attend and be our honored guest? When? April 23-29. Dan Shipley of Burnet, Texas will be preaching. 7:30 nightly. ALL WELCOME. David Bonner, preacher, church of Christ, 1814 Buchanan (One block off Kemp) P.S. No collections are taken at any time except on Sunday.

Mobile homes shipped in for homeless

Mobile homes shipped to aid disaster victims

By AUBREY RODGERS
Staff Writer

Disaster recovery officials Sunday began installing 48 mobile homes in northwestern Wichita Falls as an order for 139 more housing units went out to federal storage depots in Texas and Georgia.

The first four dozen two- and three-bedroom mobile homes began arriving early Sunday, and engineers began placing them on commercial mobile home pads in the Lakeside Village Mobile Home Park near City View Lane.

Federal coordinating officer Joe D. Winkle said he hopes to have homeless tornado victims living in the mobile homes by the middle of the week.

Winkle said he did not know how many more mobile homes may be required for the five-county North Texas disaster area, but he estimated the number might be 2,000 or more.

"The federal government has an ample supply of mobile homes in storage around the country," Winkle said. "We will be able to supply living units to all who are eligible for this type of temporary housing."

The 139 units ordered Sunday will come from storage areas in Palo Pinto County, southeast of Wichita Falls, and Forest Park, Ga. Officials expect the trip from Georgia to take about four days.

The units will be placed on existing mobile home sites at the Sunrise Mobile Home Park on Nashua Drive off North Central Freeway.

Personnel from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers have located 400 available mobile home sites in Wichita Falls, and many already are under government lease.

Engineering teams moved into Wilbarger, Foard, Clay and Baylor counties to search for other sites.

As mobile homes are being moved onto the leased sites, work is expected to get under way on development of large group sites in the affected area.

Eligible applicants may live in the mobile homes rent free for up to one year or until they can secure permanent housing.

Poll shows consumers are uneasy

NEW YORK (AP) — Consumers are growing increasingly uneasy about the future of the U.S. economy, a bimonthly Citibank poll indicates.

Of 1,400 adults questioned nationwide in March, 77 percent said they think the economy will get worse during the next six months, while nearly 25 percent said they feel the economic situation will grow much worse.

In January, about 72 percent of those polled felt the economy would grow worse within six months, while about 20 percent predicted much worse conditions ahead. Poll results were released Sunday night.

The "consumer confidence" survey is conducted for the nation's second-largest bank by AHF Marketing Research Co., a consulting firm in New York. The pollsters question a different group of 1,400 adults every month but attempt to draw a representative sample of the U.S. population each time.

With inflation running well into double-digit annual rates, "people in all income categories are beginning to feel the economic bite and are expressing concern about their personal financial situations," Citibank said.

"More than one out of every three respondents say their own economic situation is worse now than it was a year ago, while only one in four thinks it is better," said the bank. "Almost 35 percent of the respondents with incomes above $20,000 a year say they are worse off now than in the same period in 1978."

Citibank's consumer confidence index, based on the percentage of those polled who are optimistic against the percentage who are pessimisic about the economic outlook, dropped to 17 out of a possible 100 in March. The index stood at 23 in January and at 48 in March 1978.

Pastor to join White House staff

CALHOUN, Ga. (AP) — Dr. R.L. Maddox, who says he is "cut from the same cloth" as President Carter, said Sunday he will leave the First Baptist Church of Calhoun to become a White House speech writer.

Maddox, 42, told his congregation at Easter Sunday services that he will be joining the White House staff on May 15, ending 7½ years of service as pastor of the north Georgia church.

Among the 850 members of the congregation are President Carter's son and daughter-in-law, Jack and Judy Carter.

"I do it out of a sense of call and responsibility," Maddox said in a telephone interview. He said the post was offered to him by Gerald Rafshoon, Carter's communications chief.

"I hope that I can bring a sense of understanding of the president, both from being from Georgia and a Baptist and perhaps move with his mind," Maddox said. "Being cut from the same cloth would give me some good contact with him."

Carter also is a Baptist and was active in church activities in his hometown of Plains. Maddox said he first met Carter in the mid-1960s when Carter preached three or four times at his church in Vienna, Ga.

Except for a long conversation with then-Gov. Carter in the early 1970s, Maddox said he has spoken only briefly with the president in recent years.

"I've had more contact with Mrs. Carter, who asked me to help her put together a guest list for a National Bible Week dinner at the White House last November," he said. "I also wrote one speech for her."

Maddox, who graduated from Baylor University in Waco, Texas, and received a doctorate in sacred theology from Emory University in Atlanta, said he has "done a good bit of writing."

"I'm real excited about the opportunity," he said.

ConsumerScope

Many substitute fish for meat

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

A growing number of Americans are turning to fish as meat prices soar, but shoppers are finding that many of the traditional favorites are just as expensive as steak.

To save money, you'll have to experiment. "You can buy many relatively unknown species (of fish) today at reasonable prices," say economists at Citibank, the nation's second-largest commercial bank.

A reasonable price, says the bank, is about $1 a pound or 40 or 50 cents per portion, depending on the type of fish.

Government figures show that per capita consumption of fish and seafood in 1978 was only 12.9 pounds, less than one-tenth of red meat consumption. From 1970 to 1978, however, consumption of fish and seafood on a per capita basis increased 9 percent, while consumption of red meats — beef, pork, veal and lamb — dropped 1 percent.

Fish is often costly. The Consumer Price Index for fish stood at 290.4 in January, meaning it costs almost three times as much to buy fish today as it did in 1967. The CPI for red meats, in contrast, was only 227.6. in January.

Red meats, however, seem to be catching up. The index showed that the price of red meat went up 24 percent from January 1978 to January 1979. Fish prices rose only 9 percent.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture is predicting an increase of about 8 percent in fish prices this year, while beef prices are expected to rise 20 percent. The USDA says fish prices this year will be boosted by two major factors: the high cost of meat and the increased use of fish in fast-food and other restaurants.

Fish is generally low in calories, but varies widely in fat content. Salmon, for example, may be 25 percent fat; cod has less than 1 percent. You should figure on three to four ounces of boneless cooked fish per serving; it takes four to six ounces of raw fish to make one serving of cooked fish.

According to the Citibank experts, there are 240 varieties of fish caught commercially in the United States and it can pay to look for the less familiar.

A recent check in New York City showed shrimp at $4.50 to $8 a pound, clams at $2.39 to $2.50 a pound, fresh salmon at $4.49 a pound and frozen fish kebabs — at $1.75 a package or $17.50 a pound.

By contrast, tilefish — which has smooth, white flesh and few bones, making it a good substitute for salmon — was $1.75 to $1.99 a pound, lake carp was only 85 cents to $1.29 a pound and mussels — an alternative to clams — cost only 50 to 85 cents a pound.

Buying fish in season helps cut costs. Among the varieties which are usually abundant during the spring are: bass, carp, ocean catfish, cod, herring, mackerel, porgy, scrod, shad and tilefish.

You can buy fish, fresh or frozen, whole or in parts.

If you're buying fresh fish, check for a shiny skin, somewhat iridescent, and a fresh smell. The flesh should be firm, not falling off the bones, and the eyes should be clear and full. (The eyes tend to sink if the fish is stale.)

Frozen fish should be in solid packages, with no tears in the wrapping. There should be little or no odor. Check also to make sure there is no discoloration, indicating freezer burn.

A whole fish may be your best buy if you like to cook. Parts of the head can be used for soup or stock and the roe can often be turned into an hors d'oeuvre. Large, whole fish can be barbecued, baked or fried. Smaller fish generally are good for pan-frying or broiling.

A dressed fish will have the scales and entrails removed. The head, tail and fins also will be cut off.

Fillets are generally pure meat with bones and skins removed. They cost more per pound than dressed fish, but may be the better buy if your family isn't willing to pick out bones.

Steaks are cross-section slices from large fish and usually include a section of the backbone.

Fish sticks are cut from frozen blocks, coated with batter, breaded, partly cooked, packaged and frozen. By law, they must contain no less than 60 percent fish.

Groups donate Easter baskets

The Easter baskets distributed by Red Cross officials Saturday and Sunday to children of tornado victims were donated by United Parcel Service and Bridgeport, Texas, Camp Fire girls, according to Red Cross officials.

Officials said Sunday UPS gave 1,000 baskets to children in Wichita Falls and 350 baskets to Vernon, Texas, children. Bridgeport Camp Fire Bluejays and Bluebirds donated a truckload to the two cities, Red Cross officials said.

Both cities were devastated Tuesday by tornadoes.

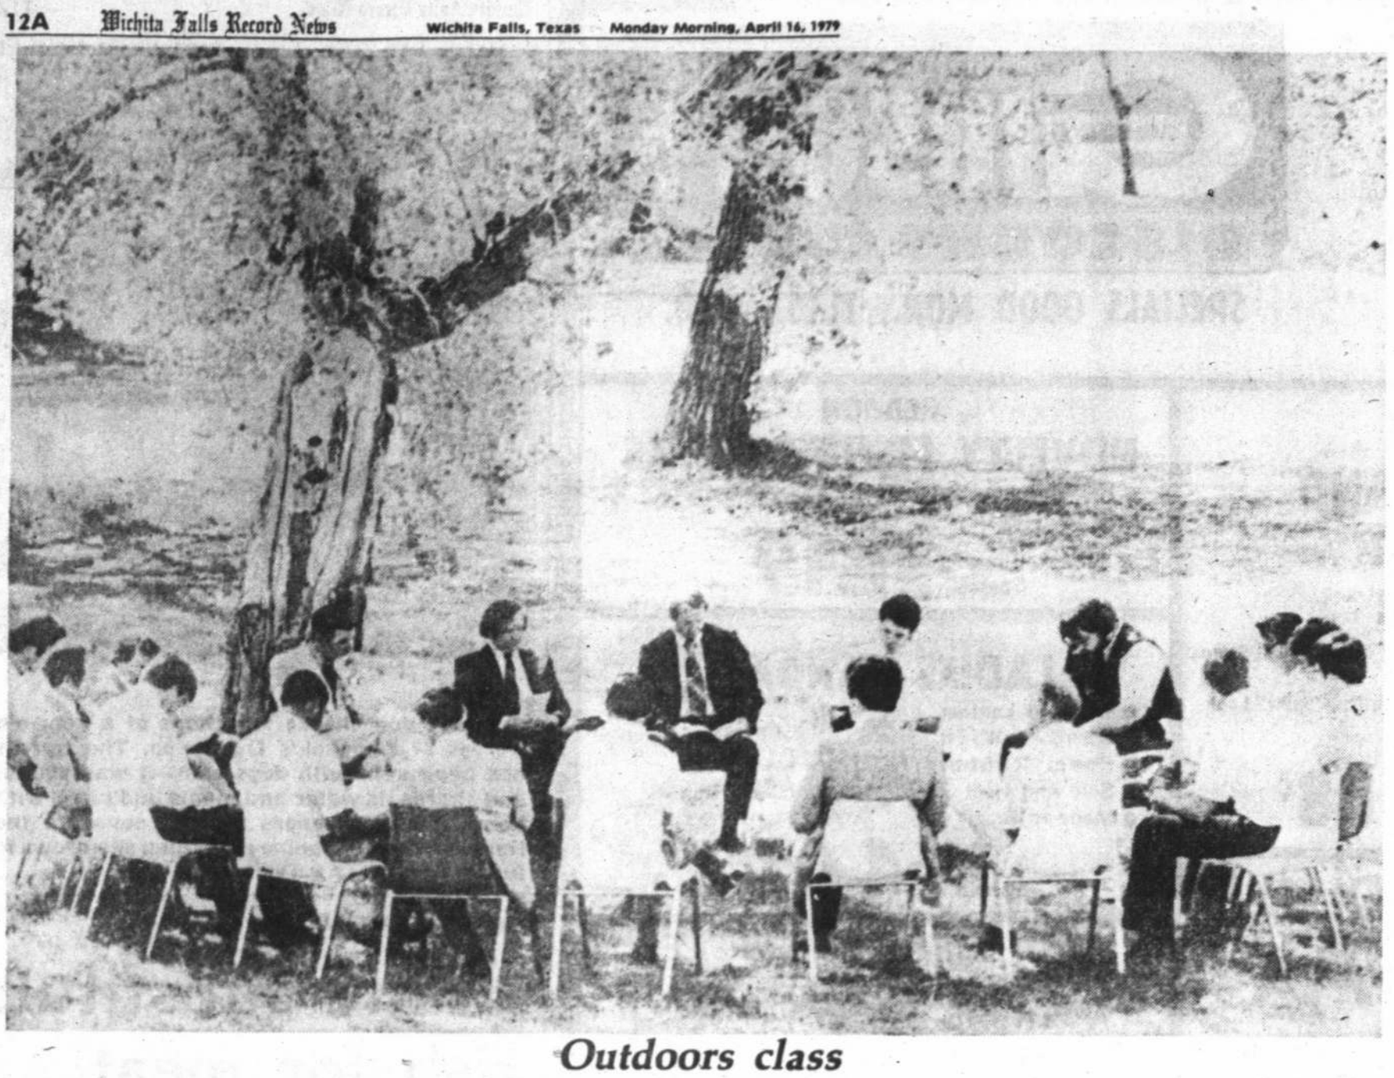

The officials added that Red Cross youth groups from the North Texas area also were sending in baskets.

Traffic signal bid opening set

Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation Wednesday will open bids for installation of traffic signals on U.S. 82-277 in Wichita Falls.

The facility consists of frontage roads for what will be a freeway.

District Engineer Bob Schleider said the project will provide signals to allow for safer and more efficient traffic flow. The intersections included are at Brook, Taft, Kemp, Grant, Lawrence, McNiel and Fairway.

Israelis kill 4 guerrillas near border with Jordan

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli troops shot and killed four Arab guerrillas in a Jordan River Valley sugar beet field early Sunday after the infiltrators sneaked across Israel's northern border with Jordan, the military command said.

In its statement, the military told Jordan's King Hussein it viewed "with gravity" the use of his kingdom as a base for terror attacks on Israel.

"It appears the guerrilla squad intended to perpetrate an attack on civilians," an army spokesman said.

The spokesman said the early morning firefight occurred on Kibbutz Tirat Zvi, a collective farm 20 miles south of the Sea of Galilee and north of the Israeli-occupied West Bank.

No Israeli casualties were reported and the slain guerrillas were not identified.

Israel's army radio station said a patrol discovered a hole in the border fence along the Jordan River about a half-mile from Tirat Zvi. The troops caught the guerrillas in the beet field and killed them, theradio said.

It was the second guerrilla attempt to cross the Jordanian border in five weeks. On March 10, four guerrillas were killed by Israeli troops after slipping into the West Bank.

Israel had hoped that Hussein would join in the peace process that led to the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty, but Jordan has grown closer to hard-line Arab states that oppose the pact.

In Beirut, the Palestinian guerrilla group Fatah claimed responsibility for a "large-scale" attack on Israeli-held positions south of Beit Shean, apparently referring to the same raid the Israelis described.

A spokesman for the guerrilla movement said "all our men, except four, returned safely to base" and that the attack inflicted heavy losses to Israeli men and equipment.

The guerrilla spokesman also claimed the Israelis lobbed several artillery and motar rounds into the southern Lebanese port of Tyre early Sunday.

Israeli army officials called the guerrilla claims "nonsense" and denied shelling Lebanon.

Palestinian guerrilla attacks against Israel have most recently been launched from Lebanon and Israel has retaliated with its own cross-border raids.

The Palestinians once had large numbers of armed forces in Jordan, and attacks from bases there were common, but in 1970 and 1971 King Hussein drove the Palestinians out and the border area has been relatively quiet since that time.

In other developments:

— Israeli Energy Minister Yitzhak Modai announced that Egyptian and Israeli ministers will meet Tuesday in the Sinai oil fields to iron out questions of transferring the fields to the Egyptians, as called for in the peace treaty.

The talks will concentrate on the Egyptian purchase of the Israeli oil equipment and the transfer of the Israeli-developed Alma field, due to be returned in October, Modai said.

Guerrillas pressure Afghan leaders

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Afghanistan's leftist government is preparing for April 27 celebrations marking the first anniversary of its bloody takeover. But Moslem exile groups want a "holy war" to topple the regime, and Moslem guerrillas are taking their toll of Afghan troops.

Reports from Kabul say President Nur Mohammed Taraki's regime is painting the Afghan capital red — literally — daubing crimson on some state buildings to match its new flag.

Diplomatic and Afghan sources here and in Pakistan say his government faces growing pressure from guerrilla attacks which have spread from eastern provinces bordering Pakistan to Herat, on the landlocked nation's Western border with Iran.

Rebel claims, which include thousands of Afghan army casualties and prisoners, are hard to assess and a clear picture of the insurgency even more difficult to piece together.

But stepped-up criticism over Kabul and Moscow radio broadcasts of alleged Pakistan, Iranian, U.S. and Chinese aid to Afghan guerrillas indicates Taraki's government and its Soviet backers are taking the threat seriously.

U.S. intelligence sources in Washington say they have reason to believe some of the estimated 3,000 Soviet advisers attached to the Afghan armed forces have been slain or wounded by the insurgents.

Refugee groups in neighboring Pakistan have called for a "jihad" or Moslem "holy war" against the new regime, which they accuse of imposing godless communism. This is their main quarrel with the new Kabul leadership.

Little is known about the insurgency and the relationship between the exile parties and guerrillas in the field.

A number of exile leaders have emerged, but observers have not been able to identify a single dissident leader within Afghanistan.

This leads some to conclude that no unified Afghan organization exists to oversee the insurgency.

The biggest challenge to the regime so far came four weeks ago in the ancient city of Herat.

At one point, rebels reportedly controlled parts of the city, about 60 miles east of the Iranian border, until routed by heavy air strikes and armored assaults, diplomatic sources said.

Radio Afghanistan charged that 4,000 Iranian troops, dressed in provincial costumes, infiltrated Herat with the help of Iran's consul general to "create unrest."

A Kabul broadcast this month made a similar accusation about Pakistan soldiers. It claimed that the Pakistanis, wearing Afghan uniforms, raided four police posts in the eastern Afghan province of Paktia. Islamabad called the charge "preposterous."

Pakistan is known to worry about the continued insurgency along its ill-defined border with Afghanistan and about posible counter-measures by Taraki.

White slates meeting with Roloff lawyers

By STEVE McGONIGLE
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The tours and social calls are over. Attorney General Mark White says it's time he and Lester Roloff's attorneys had a talk.

White said he will meet Tuesday or Wednesday with lawyers for the fiery fundamentalist preacher to discuss the next step in state attempts to license Roloff's South Texas youth homes.

Roloff, of Corpus Christi, has waged a six-year battle with the state and has refused to bend to licensing laws despite court orders saying he must.

The last court action came in October 1978, when the U.S. Supreme Court said Roloff's case was not a federal matter.

Since taking office in January, White has refused to comment on the case except to say he would enforce the law.

After Roloff paid "a social call" on him two weeks ago, White said he was awaiting a report on Roloff's homes from the Texas Department of Human Resources before reviving the licensing case.

The attorney general broke his silence Thursday, apparently after seeing DHR affidavits that Roloff was violating the law by operating his homes without a license.

"If (Roloff) has a change of heart, and his lawyers so indicate, then we'll give him time to get a license. But we're ready to seek judicial remedy if he doesn't," White told the Austin American-Statesman Thursday.

But Friday, White backed off that stance, insisting he is optimistic the state's conflicts with Roloff can be resolved without further confrontation.

"It seems that reasonable people should be able to reach an accommodation over this type of operation and both comply with the law and permit the degree of religious freedom that (Roloff) is seeking," White said.

Earlier this week, White said after touring Roloff's Rebekah Home for Girls in Corpus Christi that he is impressed by the evangelist's work with troubled youths.

He indicated Friday that he hopes to avoid requesting a court order to close the home and Roloff's other facilities for non-compliance with the law.

"If we were to precipitously close that operation," White said, "then we're going to have to find some place for those young people to go. We don't want to send them someplace worse than where they are."

While he said he respects Roloff's beliefs in separation of church and state, White denied making any concessions during his previous meetings with Roloff.

He also insisted that his decision to act on the case was precipitated by revelations that Roloff failed to report the stabbing of a 16-year-old Kansas girl at the Rebekah home.

The incident, which occurred last July, has been referred to a Corpus Christi grand jury.

Easter drive-in

It's still Easter

Despite the long task of cleaning up after Tuesday's tornado, Wichita Falls children still found time Sunday to celebrate with an Easter egg hunt. Troops seal off Nicaraguan city recaptured from guerrillas

ESTELI, Nicaragua (AP) — Nicaraguan troops sealed off this battle-scarred city Sunday after driving out leftist guerrillas in more than a week of bitter fighting.

National guardsmen would not let residents leave and barred all but a few relief workers from entering. Reporters were stopped at national guard roadblocks.

Refugees approached heavily armed guardsmen pleading to leave the city but were turned back. They said Esteli, 90 miles north of Managua, has been without water or electricty for a week and little food was left.

One woman in Esteli, reached by telephone, said, "People are back in the streets for the first time since the heavy fighting began." She said the residents were "very nervous and afraid and most go inside when the guard passes. Dozens of buzzards are circling over El Calvario."

That is the poor district where the guerrillas made their last stand before slipping through encircling government lines and into the hills early Saturday.

An estimated 400 Sandinista National Liberation Front guerrillas stormed the 100-man national guard garrison in this city of 35,000 on April 5. It was the biggest assault since the Sandinista's spearheaded a civil war last September in an unsuccessful effort to overthrow the regime of President Anastasio Somoza. The Somoza family has dominated this Central American nation's politics for the past 40 years.

Somoza has been vacationing in the United States since last Sunday and was scheduled to return from Miami Monday.

Col. Aquiles Aranda Escobar, chief national guard spokesman, said government forces had killed at least 46 guerrillas in retaking the city and captured large quantities of automatic weapons and ammunition. There was no word on civilian casualties.

A guard communique issued last Monday said 77 persons, including seven guardsmen, were killed during the first days of fighting.

Another Esteli resident reached by telephone reported troopers were patroling the city in armored cars and jeeps, but the city was quiet except for occasional sniper fire.

Refugees at the national guard barricades said Red Cross workers were aiding the wounded and firemen were distributing water from tanks on carts. They said beans and rice were about the only food left in Esteli and there has been no bread or milk for babies for days.

The Sandinistas take their name from Augusto Cesar Sandino, a rebel officer who fought the occupation by U.S. Marines in the 1930s. Somoza's father gained power after the Marines were withdrawn.

Editor deciding on steps in meeting CIA challenge

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The editor of Oregon Magazine, faced with a CIA order to delete 16 words in an article about U.S. espionage in Uganda, says the magazine may not be able to win if the government takes the issue to court.

Tom Bates, editor of the 40,000-circulation magazine, says he will announce Monday what his next step will be in the dispute. Bates already has agreed to 28 CIA-requested deletions.

One option is to sue the CIA for violation of the First Amendment, he said. Others include deleting the 16 words, which the CIA argues could hamper future operations in Uganda, or ignoring the order and risking a federal injunction to kill the entire issue or award damages to the CIA.

An injunction is particularly worrisome, Bates said, because it has the potential of hurting the magazine's finances. "We could lose as a business whether we won or lost in the court," he said.

Bates said Saturday he has been offered support from the Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press based in Washington, D.C., if he decides to take the CIA to court.

The words at issue are contained in a humorous, 7,000-word article by ex-CIA agent Jay Mullen entitled "I was Idi Amin's Basketball Czar." The article details Mullen's exploits in the Ugandan capital of Kampala during the early 1970s, including Mullen's claim that he punched Amin in the nose.

Part of the article was printed Friday, but that section did not contain the 16 words the CIA wants deleted. The rest of the magazine's May issue is supposed to be printed Monday.

The 28 deletions Bates agreed to make followed CIA assertion that the information might endanger lives in Uganda. The remaining words in dispute are contained as clauses in two sentences.

Bates said the article was submitted to the agency in advance in keeping with Mullen's pledge as a former CIA agent to submit any material written about the CIA to the agency for examination.

"We've tried from the start to honor Jay's secrecy agreement with the CIA," Bates said. "They did have time to review it, and we think they've acted quite unreasonably about it."

The conflict began last Thursday when CIA counsel John Greany flew to Portland to negotiate the deletions with Bates and Mullen, who lives in Medford, Ore.

The magazine's attorneys on Friday asked U.S. District Judge Robert C. Belloni to decide whether national security was at stake in the 16 disputed words. But Belloni said he couldn't act until the CIA did, and refused to rule on the issue.

Meanwhile, Bates said that should he agree for now to delete the 16 words, the magazine may go back to court to get them into a sequel article in its June edition.

Mexico wreck kills 18 persons

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Two runaway locomotoves slammed into a train bringing Easter Week vacationers here from the Gulf coast city of Veracruz. The Red Cross said Sunday 18 people were killed and at least 70 hurt.

Police spokesman Fidel Cruz said the locomotive hit the train as it stood in the station of Nogales at about noon Saturday. Most of the injuries were apparently not serious.

The train was picking up passengers when the two locomotives, hooked together, slammed into it, Cruz said.

Final arguments Monday in Davis divorce trial

FORT WORTH (AP) — The long and turbulent divorce trial of millionaire Cullen Davis and his estranged wife, Priscilla, is nearing completion, with final arguments set for Monday.

District Judge Clyde Ashworth has promised a final decision by April 23 in the 5-year-old case, delayed by a shooting spree at the Davis mansion and two criminal trials against Davis.

The property settlement is the only issue at stake in the trial. Ashworth is the third judge to preside in the case.

The first judge, Joe Eidson, withdrew last year after Davis was accused of plotting to have him killed. Eidson was not killed, and Davis' trial ended with a hung jury.

The second judge, John M. Barron of Bryan, withdrew March 24 after it was revealed he had met privately in a hotel room with Davis.

Senate votes

AUSTIN — This is how North Texas senators voted on two issues in the Texas Senate last week:

An unsuccessful attempt, 15-13, to consider a bill allowing the Parks and Wildlife Commission to raise hunting and fishing license fees by 20 percent.

Sen. Ray Farabee — no; Sen. Tom Creighton — yes.

A vote, 25-5, to prohibit 18-year-olds from drinking alcoholic beverages.

Farabee — yes; Creighton — yes.

Lutherans offer aid to other churches

Elders of St. Paul Lutheran Church Sunday voted to invite three churches whose buildings were demolished in Tuesday's tornado to use the Lutheran church's facilities for worship services.

The Rev. W.C. Harting, pastor of St. Paul, said Sunday night he had been able to contact only one of the pastors of Trinity Baptist Church, Evangel Temple Assembly of God and All Saints Episcopal Church.

The pastor of All Saints Episcopal Church told Harting that his church would be meeting in Episcopal Elementary School, Harting said, adding that he still was trying to contact the other two pastors.

In addition to his church's invitation, Harting said four Lutheran congregations in Dallas have sent three pickup loads of clothing, household utensils and food for Wichita Falls' tornado victims.

The pastor said St. Paul Lutheran Church and Our Redeemer Lutheran Church would be dispensing these items.

The Dallas congregations also sent $750 in donations which St. Paul Lutheran Church will distribute, he said.

Puffy Spinach Casserole

Problem of leftover Easter eggs solved

Decorating Easter eggs can be great fun for the whole family. But sometimes deciding what to do with the after-Easter extras can be a real challenge to the cook.

Here's a dish that will help solve that problem deliciously: Puffy Spinach Casserole. This airy creation is much like a souffle and couldn't be simpler to prepare. Merely combine drained chopped spinach, cream of onion soup (don't try plain onion soup!), cheese if desired, seasonings and egg yolks. Fold the mixture, along with chopped hard-cooked eggs, into beaten egg whites and pour into a casserole dish. Bake until puffy, firm and lightly browned.

This casserole, though delicate in appearance, is hardy enough to be served as a main dish. Team it with a tossed green salad, rolls and a fresh fruit dessert and you have a lovely, nutritious meal for lunch, brunch or supper.

PUFFY SPINACH CASSEROLE
(6 servings)

1 package (10 ounces) frozen chopped spinach, thawed
1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed cream of onion soup
½ cup shredded Swiss cheese, optional
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese, optional
½ teaspoon pepper
4 eggs, separated
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
6 hard-cooked eggs(x), chopped

Drain spinach in a strainer or colander, using a spoon to firmly press out as much liquid as possible.

In a saucepan combine spinach, soup, cheeses, if desired, marjoram and pepper. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until hot and cheeses melt. Remove from heat and cool 5 minutes. Beat in egg yolks.

In large mixing bowl beat egg whites and cream of tartar at high speed until stiff but not dry, just until whites no longer slip when bowl is tilted. Gently but thoroughly fold spinach mixture and chopped eggs into whites. Pour into greased 11 x 7 x 2-inch (1½ quart) baking dish or casserole.

Bake in preheated 350 degrees F. oven until puffy, firm and delicately browned, 35 to 40 minutes. Serve immediately.

(x)HARD-COOKED EGGS

Pierce eggs with an egg piercer or punch, if desired. Put eggs in single layer in saucepan. Add enough tap water to come at least 1 inch above eggs. Cover and quickly bring just to boiling. Turn off heat. If necessary, remove pan from burner to prevent further boiling. Let eggs stand covered in the hot water 15 to 17 minutes for large eggs. (Adjust time up or down by about 3 minutes for each size larger or smaller.) Immediately run cold water over eggs or put them in ice water until completely cooled. To remove shell, crackle it by tapping gently all over. Roll egg between hands to loosen shell, then peel, starting at large end. Hold egg under running cold water or dip in bowl of water to help ease off shell. (Kitchen-Tested Recipes from American Egg Board.)

Strokes involve fatty deposits

By DR. LAWRENCE LAMB
NEA Writer

DEAR DR. LAMB — A year ago I had a stroke. My neurologist believes the stroke was caused by a thrombus. My cardiologist believes it could have been an embolus from the heart due to an irregular heart beat. My family doctor tells me the neurologist is right. He says my stroke occurred in my right middle artery in the brain and it is impossible for an embolus to reach this artery from the heart. Who is right? Is it impossible for an embolism to reach the right middle artery coming up from the heart?

DEAR READER — You can develop an obstruction of an artery in the brain either way. A thrombus means a simple clot. In the artery it's usually a complication of fatty-cholesterol deposits. The fatty material is somewhat like a pimple and may rupture and a little hemorrhage starts within the artery and the clot forms. That is the most common cause of strokes.

The clot that forms in the arteries in the brain to cause a stroke is exactly the same as a clot formation that can occur in the artery to the heart and cause a heart attack. In both instances the underlying problem is usually fatty-cholesterol deposits.

Now the arteries that go to most of your body, including the brain, come from the left side of the heart. If you have a significant irregularity of the heart — and I mean something besides an occasional skipped beat — you can develop clots in the left side of the heart. A good example here is atrial fibrillation. The left atrium may be fibrillating or just twitching, so to speak, at rates as fast as 500 beats per minute.

Under these circumstances, it never really contracts in a rhythmic manner. A clot can form in the left atrium, pass into the left ventricle, which is the lower heavy pumping chamber of the heart, and then flow out with the blood through the arteries. The clot may lodge in the brain and cause a stroke.

A clot that develops in the veins in most locations cannot go to the brain. If you have a clot in the leg, for example, associated with thrombophlebitis, it will follow the veins as they get larger and move upward toward the right side of the heart. It will enter the right atrium. It can pass down into the right ventricle which is the lower pumping chamber for the right side of the heart. It can flow out of the right chambers of the heart through the pulmonary artery to the lungs. There it will lodge in the lungs and cause a pulmonary embolism. So it makes a difference whether the clot is coming from the right side of the heart or the left side of the heart as far as the complications it can cause.

In most instances the best means of preventing a stroke are the same means we recommend for preventing heart attacks. Specifically, avoiding obesity, eating a diet that's low in fat and low in cholesterol, not smoking cigarettes and maintaining a normal blood pressure. If need be, medicines to lower blood cholesterol and decrease high blood pressure can be used.

James Clift was best man and groomsmen were Dr. Robert Nelson, John Broocks Jr., Lee Mitchell, Steve Horton, Gary Clift and Richard Croswell. Scott Nelson was ringbearer.

Ann Landers Says

Favorite column lost in wallet

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: Somebody lifted my wallet. I didn't lose much money but I did lose my favorite column which I had carried for years. It was advice to parents from two teenage children. It started, "Keep cool." Will you please reprint it? — N.L. From N.Y.

Dear N.L.: Here it is. Thanks for asking.

1. Keep cool. Don't lose your temper. Keep the lid on when things go wrong. Children are great imitators.

2. Don't get strung out from too much booze or too many pills. We lose respect for parents who tell us to behave one way when they behave another.

3. Don't be afraid to dish out the discipline. Show us who's boss. We need to know we have strong supports when our judgment goes haywire.

4. Don't blow your class. Keep the dignity of parenthood. Stay on that pedestal. We put you there because we need someone to look up to.

5. Don't try to dress, dance or talk like us. You embarrass us and you look ridiculous.

6. Show us the way. Tell us God is not dead, or sleeping, or on vacation. We need to believe in something bigger and stronger than ourselves.

7. Scare the hell out of us. If you catch us lying, stealing, or being cruel — get tough. Let us know WHY what we did was wrong.

8. Call our bluff. Don't compromise. And don't be intimidated by our threats to drop out of school or leave home. Stand firm. If you collapse, we will know we beat you down and we will not be happy about the "victory."

9. Be honest with us. Tell the truth, the whole truth, no matter what. Lukewarm answers make us uneasy. We can smell uncertainty a mile away.

10. Be generous with praise. If you give us a few compliments once in a while we accept criticisms more readily. Tell it like it is.

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think of a 40-year-old husband who can't spell the name of the street we have lived on for three years — who can't remember my mother's name? (It's Bernie and he's been calling her Bernice for 15 years, which she hates.) He also doesn't know how to address an envelope and refuses to learn.

Our last name is rather unusual. When someone mispronounces it, he becomes enraged and insults them, even though he murders everyone else's name if it has more than two syllables.

Maybe these sound like petty complaints, but they are just a few things that are getting my goat. I realize none of this is worth breaking up a marriage for, but he annoys the hell out of me. Any suggestions? — Call Me Judy

Dear Judy: The man is not going to change, so if you intend to keep living with him you'd better build some defenses against the small (and large) irritations. There's a possibility that your husband may have some neurological problems. Has he ever been tested? If not, I recommend it.

CONFIDENTIAL to Help Me See the Best Way to Go: No doubt the dollar signs on your eyeballs have impaired your vision. People who are money-hungry and don't know which side of the bread to butter usually wind up choosing the wrong side — and they deserve to. Sorry — no advice from here.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a woman in her early 30s who is very confused and in need of some sound advice.

I've been seeing this man off and on since 1976. He moved in with me in '77. I lost a child last year and now have a five-week-old son by him. I used my cousin's name when I went to the hospital because the man is married.

I finally called his wife to ask her to give him a divorce so he could marry me. She said, "You did it for revenge. I still love my husband. I've forgiven him for this mistake and now I hope you will leave him alone."

I told my lover I would pay for his divorce, but he has done nothing. He visits or calls his wife every day and says he doesn't love her but he needs to know about their children.

He is still living with me as I write this and I need to know what to do. — Messed Up Life

Dear Messed Up: (1) See a lawyer. The man must support the child whether he is a married man or not.

(2) Ask him to leave at once and tell him not to phone or show his face until he has started divorce proceedings. (P.S. Don't stand on one foot waiting. He sounds like a clinker to me.)

Workshop scheduled

LAWTON, Okla. — Cameron University will host the 1979 Wildflower Workshop May 2, R. A. Ward, director-chief engineer of the Oklahoma Department of Transportation, has announced.

The workshop will concentrate on the conservation and preservation of Oklahoma's wildflowers. Among the speakers will be botanists from the University of Oklahoma, the University of Tulsa and Cameron University.

May 3 participants will be guided by botanists into the Wichita Mountains Wildlife Refuge to see the different habitats of flora and fauna in the area.

Information about the workshop and field trip may be obtained from Mrs. Paul McClaskie, 302 N. W. Columbia, Lawton.

Newlywed couple at home in Bowie

BOWIE, Texas (Special) — Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Strickland, who were married March 23 in the First Baptist Church, are making their home here. Both are students in Bowie High School and will continue their studies.

Mrs. Strickland is the former Dianna Frazier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Frazier. Strickland is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Strickland.

Plant, bake sale planned

The Gold and Red Doors, senior citizens centers, will have a plant and bake sale 8 a.m.-4 p.m. Friday at the Red Door. Plants are home grown and will be acclimated to this area.

Bring any plants or baked goods you may wish to donate.

Eight steps for home laundry given

Most washable items can be machine laundered today. For those which should be hand washed, The Soap and Detergent Association advises that procedures similar to those used for automatic laundering be used for best results.

1. Sort clothes by color and amount of soil. 2. Pretreat spots and stains. 3. Use enough detergent or soap to remove soil on garments. Dissolve a granule detergent in water before hand washing.

4. Handle woolens, loose knits, acetates and silks carefully—they may require little or no agitation. Squeeze suds through these fabrics gently; do not wring or twist. If colored, don't soak these items more than 5 minutes. 6. Rinse items twice; add fabric softener to the last rinse, if desired. 7. Squeeze water from garments. Blot excess moisture by rolling them in a towel. 8. Hang garments to dry or lay them on a flat surface, if the fabric could stretch out of shape. Avoid placing items near heat to dry.

Save cream

If you have some heavy cream left over and have no immediate use for it, you can whip it (adding sugar to taste or omitting it) and freeze it to use as a dessert topping another time. It's a good idea to put the whipped cream into small paper cups placed on a small cookie sheet and freeze; when the cream is frozen, you can store the little cups in a tightly closed plastic bag in the freezer.

Ugandans give thanks for fall of Amin

By ANDREW TORCHIA
Associated Press Writer

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Ugandans in Easter finery gave thanks for liberation from Idi Amin at Easter services Sunday while religious leaders called for peace and an end to looting.

Tanzanian and Uganda exile troops continued searching for Amin. There was a report from Ugandan refugees fleeing into Kenya that the dictator was seen Saturday in a northern village near the Zaire border.

Journalists exploring Amin's residential lodge found a case of old films, recalling Amin's favorite pastime of movie-watching. Included were reels of the "I Love Lucy" television show and "Tom and Jerry" cartoons.

While there were signs of normal activity in Kampala, northern and eastern Uganda were still gripped by lawlessness. There were reports of thousands of Ugandans fleeing east into neighboring Kenya.

Refugees arriving in Kampala said stragglers from the remnants of Amin's army were wandering about in the north searching for food and looting. Sectarian killings were reported at Tororo and Soroti in eastern Uganda, apparently against Moslems who had dominated the government under Amin.

Worshippers gathered in the Ugandan capital in long bright dresses, dark suits and flower-decked hats. Uganda is predominantly Christian despite the Moslem Amin's attempts to portray it as an Islamic state.

"I stopped going to church because I thought God had forgotten us," said a worshipper at the Anglican All Saint's Cathedral. "Now I can go again."

Inside, Archbishop Sylvanus Wani praised the new administration of provisional President Yussufu Lule for its "brave and friendly action in liberating the people of Uganda."

Wani's predecessor, Archbishop Janani Luwum, was killed in a car accident allegedly engineered by Amin in Feb. 1977 while awaiting trialfor "treason."

A group of Indian road workers said they saw Amin Saturday with a group of bodyguards in a radio-equipped jeep near Arua, in Amin's home province in northwestern Uganda.

Oil sources in Nairobi said Friday Amin's private jet had been refuelled at Soroti in eastern Uganda, and speculation was that he would use the plane to fly from Arua to Libya or Sudan.

A British Foreign Office official, Richard Posnett, arrived in Kampala Sunday to assess the situation and report to London on the feasibility of reestablishing relations. Uganda was a British colony until 1962.

The Tanzanian government, meanwhile, flew out most of the 64 Western journalists brought in to cover the installation of Lule's provisional government.

Tanzanian officials in Kampala said no organized opposition remained in the country, but they were yet to begin moving east or north to establish the authority of the new government there.

Desite the joyous celebration, Kampala remained in disarray, looting persisted and soldiers backing Amin were still being flushed from hideouts.

At the Roman Catholic cathedral in the suburb of Rubaga, Cardinal Immanuel Msubuga urged his congregation to return the loot they had taken and offered prayers for peace. He said Kampala looked "like Jerusalem after being sacked by Romans."

The bodies of 200 of Amin's victims were removed from the blood-stained dungeons of the State Research Bureau, where thousands of prisoners are said to have been tortured and killed. Soldiers also gathered corpses of Ugandan troops killed in the battle for Kampala from the streets. Officers estimated 200 had been collected and said another 500 were still to be brought in.

The Tanzania-Uganda war began five months ago when Amin's troops invaded Tanzania. They were driven out two weeks later and President Julius Nyerere's forces, fighting with Ugandan exiles, drove Amin's army back to the capital.

Electricity and water services were restored in parts of the city, but telephones and telexes, which remained operating during the war, went down Saturday and were still inoperable on Sunday.

Slanted well may extinguish natural gas fire

SARITA, Texas (AP) — Firefighters drilled a slanted well Sunday, hoping to be able to snuff out a natural gas well that blew out Thursday and caught on fire, forcing the evacuation of several homes located about 100 yards away.

About 12 families remained homeless during the Easter weekend in this tiny South Texas coastal town, and no one was saying for sure when it would be safe for them to return to their houses.

A crew of Red Adair's well firefighters from Houston drilled the slanted well toward the live gas well, "and when the slanting well meets the other one they will fill it with mud to completely kill it," said Mrs. Clark Slater, wife of chief deputy sheriff in Kenedy County.

The gas well, being drilled by Exxon, blew out early Thursday and caught on fire, shooting flames 200 feet into the air. No one was injured, but the heat was so intense it blistered the paint on nearby houses.

Adair's crew extinguished the fire Friday and set up a torch at the mouth of the blown well to ignite escaping gas so it would not accumulate in the town.

Nevertheless, guards hired by Exxon to assist deputies prevented any visitors from entering this county seat unless they live or work here.

"No one is coming in or going out of town," said Mrs. Slater. "I don't know if they're going to wait to finish the slanted well before they allow the 12 families to go back home or not. It will probably take another week to finish it."

Exxon operations manager James Peery said the evacuees may be allowed to return home sometime this week.

Bishop seeks recognition of Rhodesian vote

UMTALI, Rhodesia (AP) — Bishop Abel Muzorewa, who is expected to head Rhodesia's black majority government after elections this week, appealed Sunday for international recognition of the vote.

Muzorewa told an election rally attended by an estimated 20,000 persons that U.N. sanctions against Rhodesia are no longer proper because "racist laws" imposed by the former white-minority government are no longer in effect.

Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., who helped kill a U.S. Senate plan to send observers to the elections, arrived in Salisbury Sunday. He said he was not an "observer" and would leave before the Friday elections, but he would report to President Carter after getting "an up-to-date assessment" on the chances for an end to the guerrilla warfare.

The United States, Great Britain and other Western nations have said they would refuse to recognize the elections because they exclude participation by black nationalist guerrilla groups led by Robert Mugabe and Joshua Nkomo.

Mondale ends visit to Norwegian town

MUNDAL, Norway (AP) — Vice President Walter F. Mondale completed his visit to this village of his ancestors with an old-fashioned Easter dinner and prepared for meetings Monday with Norwegian officials.

He also is scheduled to visit Sweden, Finland, Denmark and the Netherlands.

The vice president and his wife Joan attended Easter services in Mundal's wooden Lutheran church and later signed autographs and posed for snapshots against the postcard-backdrop of fjord and snow-covered mountains.

Mondale asserted his ethnic ties with a valiant attempt at folk dancing in his country hotel Saturday night.

"It's good exercise, don't give up," encouraged one of his partners, wearing a long-skirted costume with embroidered waistcoat and silver ornaments, as she flung the visitor through a series of complicated twirls.

After church, the Mondales got a glimpse of how Norway manages to combine traditional and modern living standards.

He visited a 19th-century farmhouse halfway up a mountain where farmer Per Horpedal earns his living by keeping fewer than two dozen milk cows.

It was explained that this was an average herd for the region and can bring a farmer half to two-thirds of his annual income of up to $15,000.

A key ingredient for farming on such a small scale is government subsidies. Norwegians pay about 90 cents a gallon for their milk, but the farmer gets about four times that amount.

Olav Orheim, a distant cousin of the vice president, said this results in fewer impoverished farmers emigrating to cities where they would pose financial problems for the municipal governments, and also maintains Norway's traditional culture.

But not all of the old ways can be preserved, Orheim said.

Huts called "seters" on the mountain heights, where girls used to spend their summer days tending the cattle while others worked in the fields below, are falling into disrepair.

"It's hard to find young girls now who are willing to spend a summer so far from the boys," Orheim said.

The 37-year-old Orheim is a glaciologist who spent four years at Ohio State University's Institute for Polar Studies. He served as guide on the excursion to the farm and a nearby glacier.

Dallas-Fort Worth residents aiding Wichita Falls victims

By MARK WITHERSPOON
Staff Writer

Urgent needs of Wichita Falls' tornado victims caused an expected shower of clothes, bedding and other necessities arriving here Sunday to turn into a trickle.

But officials of Sertoma International, who are bringing the needed items to Wichita Falls from the Dallas-Fort Worth area, hope they can fill three 18-wheel tractor-trailers by next weekend and cart them to this devastated city.

Dallas-Fort Worth Sertoma officials called various dry-cleaning businesses in their area last week, requesting any unclaimed clothes for the Wichita Falls tornado victims, Tom Staples, governor of the North Texas District of Sertoma International, said Sunday as he and other Sertoma officials were unloading a small trailer full of about 130 pieces of clothing, bedding, household items and canned goods at First Baptist Church.

"We have a bunch of things but we only brought what we were told (Wichita Falls citizens) needed the worst," Staples said.

He said 35 to 40 people are loading an 18-wheel tractor-trailer at the Arlington collection post and he planned to return to Arlington Sunday to separate the things needed most in Wichita Falls. "Children's clothes, bedding and food are what we're pushing for down there now," he said.

Bill Cummings, president of Wichita Falls Sertoma chapter, said the Dallas-Fort Worth dry-cleaning establishments laundered the clothes and everything is ready to be distributed at First Baptist Church.

Staples said he hopes to bring at least one truck to Wichita Falls next weekend, depending on the needs of the tornado victims.

"There's no use bringing up everything now when people don't have anywhere to put them," he said.

However, "the way things are coming in right now, it looks like we'll be able to fill three of those 18-wheelers," he said. "We may wind up bringing more than the people of Wichita Falls can use."

Staples added that the Sertoma chapters in his area are accepting cash donations, and money collected will be turned over to the Wichita Falls chapter to distribute as it sees fit.

Senate OKs prayer measure

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Senate voted last week on an amendment to a Supreme Court bill that would restore the right of voluntary prayer in public schools and on a motion to table an amendment to the Department of Education bill that would restore the right of voluntary prayer in public schools.

The amendment was approved 51-40, and the motion passed 53-40.

Sen. John Tower of Wichita Falls did not vote on either issue, and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Houston voted against the amendment and for the prayer issue.

The House voted on:

— An amendment to the international development authorization bill to "provide a fair and open election program" for South Africa and to earmark $20 million for the government chosen in Rhodesia as a result of this month's elections there. It was rejected 180-190.

— An amendment removing the Peace Corps from Action. Approved 276-116.

— An amendment cutting by 5 percent the total amount of money authorized, except for the Food Peace Program and funds for American schools and hospitals overseas. Approved 259-135.

Rep. Jack Hightower of Vernon voted for the first issue but opposed the last two amendments. Rep. Charles Stenholm of Stamford, Texas, favored the first and third amendments but voted against the second.

Island volcano calm after two eruptions

KINGSTOWN, St. Vincent (AP) — Soufriere volcano, which spewed rocks, ash and lava over this Caribbean island in two weekend eruptions, was calm Sunday and special monitoring devices showed no significant sign activity, seismologists reported.

Three U.S. Coast Guard helicopters, a plane and three cutters were on duty for reconnaissance and possible evacuation procedures. Reconnaissance flights Saturday over the steaming volcano showed two streams of lava flowing slowly down the sides of the 4,048-foot peak.

Coast Guard officials in Puerto Rico said the flights were hampered by clouds of ash and smoke, obscuring visibility.

On Sunday, seismologist John Sheppard of the University of the West Indies in Trinidad said special seismic devices showed only a low level of activity within the volcano. Sheppard said the volcano was at its lowest point of activity since an explosion Saturday.

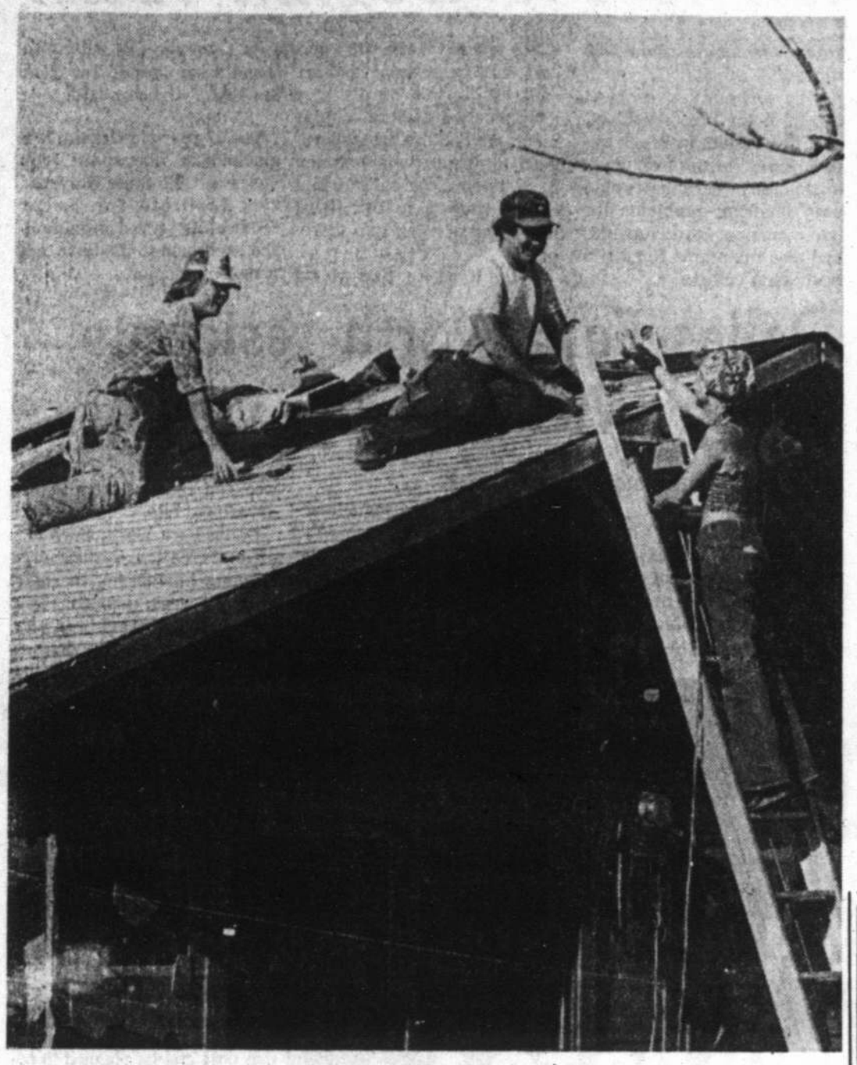

St. Vincent, a self-governing British protectorate, has a populaton of about 100,000. The volcano is away from the tourist and commercial areas of the island in the Lesser Antilles. The island is 18 miles long and 11 miles wide.

Officials said 1,500 residents have been sheltered in emergency relief centers since the first eruption early Friday. Authorities said 17,000 persons live in a 10-mile danger zone at the foot of the mountain.

Local officials have not reported casualties so far. But U.S. officials in Washington said Friday they had been informed that two infants were killed and others injured as the evacuation began. The report could not be confirmed.

Rescue supplies were arriving in increased numbers Sunday. Officials in Washington said 4,000 cots, 10,000 blankets plus cooking utensils for 600 families were being sent to St. Vincent from U.S. storage sites in Panama.

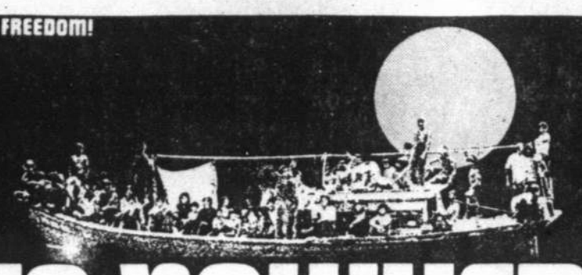

Britain has provided $20,000 to buy urgent supplies and was considering participation in an evacuation, if that becomes necessary, a Foreign Office spokesman in London said.

Study claims blacks paying higher taxes

CHICAGO (AP) — Black homeowners in some Chicago area neighborhoods pay higher property taxes than whites in comparable homes in other neighborhoods, a University of Illinois research team says.

The value of homes in a sampling of black neighborhoods consistently has been overestimated, while homes in the white neighborhoods studied consistently are underassessed, the researchers from the university's Chicago campus said.

The results of the study, which covered about 4,000 of the 1.3 million properties in Cook County, were published in Chicago newspapers Saturday. Black leaders called for investigations by the Illinois General Assembly and by Jane Byrne, who takes office as mayor Monday.

An aide to Cook County Assessor Thomas Hynes criticized the research methods and said there was no systematic discrimination in assessments.

Fuzzy fools 'em with first Masters win

Zoeller captures sudden death playoff over Sneed, Watson

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Fuzzy Zoeller, archetypal of the new breed of touring pro that he says plays the game of golf with "guts and enthusiasm," subdued Tom Watson and Ed Sneed with a birdie on the second extra hole to win a three-way sudden death playoff for the 43rd Masters title.

"I'm on cloud nine," Zoeller said Sunday while Watson and the extremely disappointed Sneed talked wistfully of what might have been.

"I can't say what it means to me. I'm too high right now," said Zoeller, who defied tradition that says a first-timer can't win in the Masters.

Watson, who won here before, and Sneed, who watched in dismay and disbelief as a five-shot lead disappeared, seemed to know what it would have meant to them.

"What's past is past," said Watson, who now has lost the last two major championships in three-man sudden death playoffs. "You can't dwell on it. You have to forget it and go on."

"I'm bitterly disappointed," said Sneed, his face chalk-white in the aftermath of his collapse that opened the gates for the playoff.

"You don't get many chances to win a tournament like this. I wanted to win. And I didn't. I'll try to wipe it from my mind. But it won't be easy. I wanted to win very badly. But I didn't."

Zoeller, making his first appearance at the Augusta National Golf Club course, rammed in a 6-foot putt to win the first sudden death playoff in the history of this storied championship that, as usual, produced high drama.

Sneed squandered a five-shot lead and opened the gates for Zoeller and Watson when he bogeyed the last three holes of regulation play and finished with a 76 and a 280 total, 8 under par.

Zoeller, a powerful 28-year-old from New Albany, Ind., got into the playoff with a closing 70 while Watson, the 1977 winner here and the pretournament favorite, closed with a 1-under-par 71.

"I can't believe it happened," said Sneed.

"My condolances to Ed," said Watson. "I've been there before and I know that all the condolances in the world won't stop the hurt he feels right now inside."

Sneed bit his lips and appeared to be fighting back tears.

His had been a struggle throughout the afternoon.

First there was the mighty Nicklaus, playing about an hour ahead, who made a run at him.

There was his own shaky play that opened the gates.

And finally, there were Watson and Zoeller, in the confines of the white, colonial clubhouse, safely perched there with an 8-under-par total while he tried so desperately to get it home.

After teetering on the brink of collapse and going 3 over par through the first 10 holes, Sneed appeared to right himself.

He made a 6- to8-foot par putt on the 11th hole, saved par from a bunker on the 12th, birdied the 13th from four feet, saved par with a 10- to12-footer on the next one and then appeared to have it wrapped up with an 8- to10-foot birdie putt on the 15th hole.

That put him three in front with three holes to play.

But he 3-putted for bogey on the 16th. He was over the green on No. 17, chipped back to four feet and missed the putt. Another bogey. Now his lead was down to a single shot with only the 18th hole, uphill to a two-level green, left between him and the famed green jacket that goes to the winner.

He drove the fairway but pushed his approach into an almost impossible position, resting against the rough grass on the lip of a bunker.

Jack Nicklaus, the game's greatest player and a five-time Masters champion, bulled his way into the act — at least for a while — and missed the playoff by the margin of one shot at 281. He closed with a 69 that included a bogey on the 17th hole — the bogey that deprived him of a chance for a 16th major professional title.

Tom Kite was next with a 72 and a 283 total.

Bruce Lietzke, the cross-handed putter who led the first round, followed at 74-284.

The group at 285 included Leonard Thompson, with a closing 74, Lanny Wadkins, 73, and chunky Craig Stadler, who had an erratic 76.

Defending champion Gary Player of South Africa never really got into the chase and finished with a 71-288. Lee Trevino was 73-287 and U.S. Open champion Andy North 69-287.

Zoeller, who got into this event off his first professional victory in the San Diego Open earlier this year, took time out to applaud Sneed's great sand shot on the second playoff hole and then watched with a blank face as the determined Watson tried and missed on a long birdie putt.

Then it was his turn.

From his slightly opened stance, the husky, 190-pounder stroked it home with a firm, deft stroke and went soaring in the air in a joyous leap of victory.

His putter went soaring even higher. He tossed the club in the air in jubilation and failed to find it.

Watson, who now has tied for second in the last two Masters, spoke his first words of the distraught Sneed who was so close — so very close, and let it slip away.

His chip was about as good as it could be, trickling some eight feet below the cup.

But the 34-year-old journeyman, winner of three titles in 11 years of tour activity, couldn't get it in the hole. It stopped, hanging on the edge while he stared in a frustration only he could know.

It was another bogey and the playoff, the first at sudden death ever held in the Masters, was set up.

They went to the 10th tee facing a 485 yard par-4 that is the beginning of Amen Corner, that stretch of holes leading away from the clubhouse where so many Masters have been won and lost, while the colorful gallery of thousands arrayed in Easter finery rampaged after them.

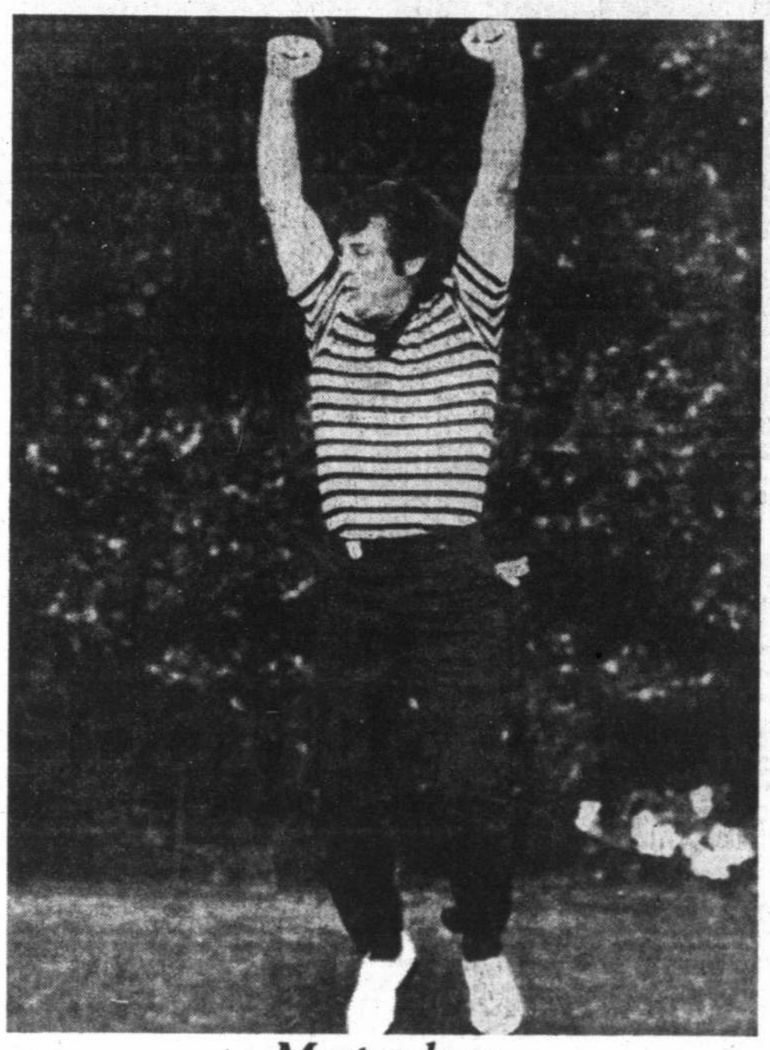

All drove the fairway.

Sneed hit his second shot first and got it some eight feet to the right of the flag. Then it was Watson. He got it eight feet left. Then Zoeller, who put it 10 feet below the cup.

Almost unbelievably, all missed the birdie putts that would have won it. Fuzzy grazed the hole to the right. After a lengthy discussion, involving the use of the flagstick to determine who was away, Sneed missed on the high side. Watson missed below the cup.

That sent them to the 11th, another par-4. Again, all drove the fairway, with Zoeller — noted among his peers as one of the longest hitters in the game — ripping the ball far beyond the efforts of Sneed and Watson.

Sneed's approach skipped over the green to the back bunker. Watson got his some 20 feet to the right.

Master leap

Tigers topple Texas, 11-6

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Bill Mankowski's two-run single and Lance Parrish's two-run double highlighted a seven-run outburst with two out in the ninth inning Sunday, giving the Detroit Tigers an 11-6 victory over the previously unbeaten Texas Rangers.

With Texas leading 6-4 and one out away from its seventh victory of the season, the Tigers loaded the bases against reliever Sparky Lyle on a walk, a single and a walk.

Tim Corcoran beat out an infield single to score one run, Bill Mankowski knocked in two with a ground single and Lynn Jones brought home another with a ground single.

The Tigers scored their fifth run of the inning on an error by Texas shortstop Bert Campaneris and Parrish capped the rally with his two-run double. The Tigers send 11 batters to the plate in the big inning.

Sheldon Burnside, 1-1, picked up the victory in relief while Lyle, 1-1, was the loser.

Oscar Gamble hit a three-run homer to give Texas a 6-1 lead in the fifth inning, but the Tigers came back in the seventh on a three-run homer by Steve Kemp off Lyle.

Sneed saw his big lead slip away

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — "It just didn't happen," said a bitterly disappointed Ed Sneed Sunday after he squandered a five-shot lead and lost one of golf's most coveted titles — the Masters championship — in a sudden death playoff.

"I never at any time felt like I lost control."

But he did.

His once commanding lead slipped to one shot when he was 3 over par after 10, but he recovered and stretched the lead to three shots with only three holes remaining.

Incredibly, there came three straight bogeys and suddenly Fuzzy Zoeller and Tom Watson had new life — a chance at the title in the first sudden death playoff in Masters history.

All three parred the first playoff hole, the 485-yard, par-4 No. 10 that starts the "Amen Corner" on the famed Augusta National Golf Club course.

Then, it ended when Zoeller, appearing in his first Masters, drilled in a 6-foot birdie putt on the 11th green, sealing the agony for Sneed, and Watson as well.

"Ed's disappointed," Watson said. "I'm disappointed too. I had chances to put heat on him. It was just a terrible round of putting."

But, it had to hurt Sneed more.

He saved a par with a 10-foot putt at the 14th and then 2-putted for a birdie at 15 to go three shots ahead of Watson and four in front of Zoeller.

Gervin, Kenon score 61

Spurs storm by 76ers, 119-106

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — George Gervin and Larry Kenon combined for 61 points Sunday as the San Antonio Spurs routed weary Philadelphia 119-106 in the opening game of the National Basketball Association Eastern Conference best-of-seven semifinal series.

Gervin hit 20 of his 31 points in the first half as the Central Division champion Spurs built up a 63-45 halftime margin.

Kenon had 30 points, 16 in the first half.

With Gervin hitting three baskets and Kenon adding one, the Spurs outscored the 76ers 10-2 in the first 2:41 of the third quarter to seize a 73-47 lead. It was their biggest lead of the game.

The 76ers, who were unable to practice Saturday after arriving late in the day from their playoff victory in New Jersey, trimmed that margin to 88-70 by the end of the third quarter and had cut San Antonio's lead to 92-81 with 8:50 remaining in the game.

But the Spurs built their lead back up to 109-90 in the next five minutes to ice the victory.

Darryl Dawkins came off the bench for 25 points, sparking the Sixers' second-half rally with 20 in the final two quarters. Julius Erving added 22 for Philadelphia.

The well-rested Spurs drew a bye into the Eastern Conference semi-finals by virtue of their Central Division championship and had not played in a week. Philadelphia had to sweep a best-of-three series from New Jersey, winding it up Friday night.

"It was just an excellent game for us," said San Antonio Coach Doug Moe. "But like I said, it's only one game and we remember what happened to us last year."

The Spurs easily won the Central Division last year, got a bye into the Eastern Conference semi-finals and blew out Washington in the first game. But they lost a key home game in the second match and later were eliminated from the series.

"They (the 76ers) didn't play real good, but it was just a case of us going out and shutting them off. We just had a great effort defensively from the entire team."

"We had a tremendous effort this afternoon, but we haven't forgotten what happened last year," said Gervin. "We were kind of cocky last year. This year we've got our confidence, but we're not cocky."

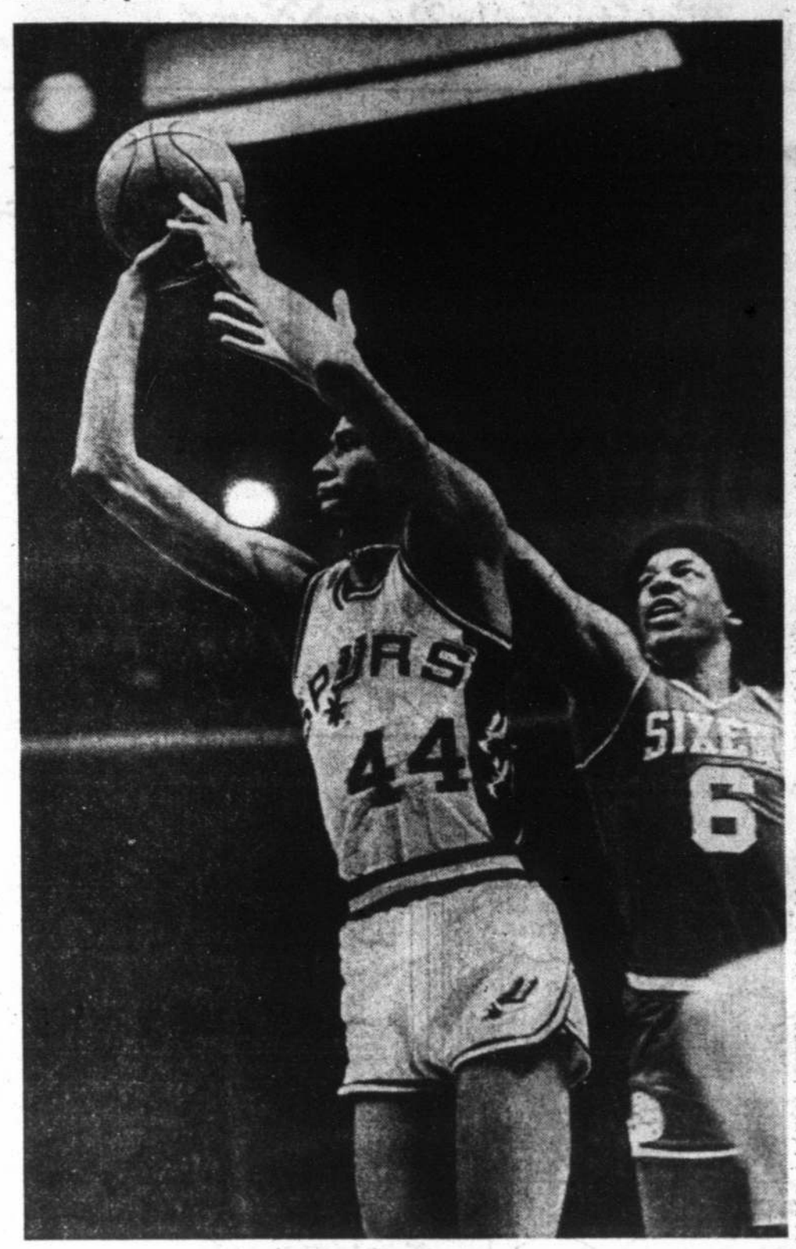

Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham said his team was weary after their 1,500-mile flight Saturday. "There was no question that the rest helped the Spurs. We were just a step slow. You'll see a different team on Tuesday.

"The first half was as well as I've seen the Spurs play. Kenon was really outstanding," he added.

Moe, however, didn't think Philadelphia should have been tired.

"You play three nights in a row sometimes in the regular season. You're not tired when you have a day off," he said.

The series resumes Tuesday night at San Antonio before moving to Philadelphia for a pair of games and then back to San Anotnio for the fifth game if needed.

Rodgers listed as Boston pick

BOSTON (AP) — Defending champion Bill Rodgers, rated by many the world's best marathoner, carried the heavy burden of favorite to go with his No. 1 identification tag Monday in the 83rd running of the prestigious Boston Marathon.

The 31-year-old Rodgers, who set the American record—2 hours, 9 minutes, 55 seconds—in winning the 1975 Boston race, earned the victor's laurel wreath by a mere two seconds in 1978.

A record throng of more than 7,800 official entrants and hundreds—maybe thousands—of unofficial runners, will trek to rustic Hopkinton to start the 26-mile, 385-yard race to downtown Boston.

The field that assembles for the noontime start will include nearly 100 athletes who have run marathons in times sufficient to win many past Boston races.

Rodgers, 5-foot-9, 128-pounder, now a retailer of running goods, and a former teacher of disturbed childern, says Toshihiko Seko of Japan may be his toughest competition.

Seko, 23, won the Fukuoka, Japan, marathon last December in 2 hours, 10 minutes, 21 seconds. Rodgers, of Melrose, Mass., was sixth in that race.

The entry list for the Boston run included more than 500 women, and several past winners. But some contenders—such as 1978 winner Gayle Barron of Atlanta and 1976 winner Kim Merritt of Racine, Wis.—said they were not in top form.

Overall, 28 foreign countries are represented, although the AAU ordered Race Director Will Cloney to bar five South African marathoners who had registered from American cites. The South Africans plan to run unofficially.

All official entrants met qualifying standards that may be tightened in the future to whittle the huge field. The current rule is that men must have competed a sanctioned marathon in three hours. It's 3½ hours for women and men over 40.

Cloney said next year those qualifying runs will have to be on courses that have been officially certified as accurate distances, to the yard.

The 1979 entry list is nearly 75 percent bigger than what was thought to be the maximum number a year ago. As recently as 15 years ago, the average field was 250 runners.

Eight of last year's top finishers are entered. The No. 2 that would have gone to Texan Jeff Wells, nipped by Rodgers, will be given to 1972 Olympic champion Frank Shorter of Boulder, Colo. He finished 23rd in his first Boston try a year ago. Wells is not entered.

Stanley Cup quarterfinals slated to begin Monday

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

Four National Hockey League teams have little time to prepare for their opponents in the playoff quarter-finals that begin Monday. The series pairings weren't determined until Saturday night, when the Philadelphia Flyers routed the Vancouver Canucks to decide the next round's matchups.

The 7-2 triumph that gave the Flyers the best-of-three series against Vancouver gave Philadelphia the right to host the New York Rangers in the opener of their best-of-seven set.

Meanwhile, the Boston Bruins host the Pittsburgh Penguins, the Toronto Maple Leafs travel to Montreal to meet the Canadiens and the New York Islanders host the Chicago Black Hawks.

Four teams — the Bruins, Canadiens, Islanders and Black Hawks — had last week off as a reward for winning their division titles. Boston Coach Don Cherry knows his team can't afford to be rusty in the early going against Pittsburgh.

"We'll just have to do the best we can. We'll have to play them like we play the Canadiens," said Cherry, whose Bruins won the Adams Division title a fourth consecutive time. "The Penguins had a good last half, they have good balance, and Denis Herron is some goalie."

Herron has started 19 of the Penguins' last 20 games and backstopped Pittsburgh's three-game triumph over the Buffalo Sabres in their preliminary round. Though the Penguins were outshot 41-24 in Saturday's third game, Herron held fast and Pittsburgh won on George Ferguson's second goal of the game — at 47 seconds on overtime.

"In key situations, I always go to Fergy," said Penguins Coach Johnny Wilson. "You can count on him doing almost everything right, and that's exactly what he did in the overtime."

Ferguson sped up left wing, breezed around a Buffalo defenseman and sent a 15-foot shot into the cage off the legpads of Sabres goalie Bob Sauve to send the Penguins into the quarter-finals.

"It wasn't a hard shot," said Ferguson. But it went in, and that's all that matters in overtime.

"This is the biggest disappointment I've ever had in hockey," said Buffalo left wing Rick Martin. "We worked so hard and were really looking forward to the playoffs. This is the most frustrated and disappointed I've ever been. I just can't believe it."

"A lot of overtime games end so quickly," said Ferguson, "so I knew I wouldn't get another opportunity like that."

And because he converted it, the Penguins advanced. And because the Maple Leafs swept the Atlanta Flames in their preliminary round, they got the right to meet the defending champion Canadiens.

"They (the Canadiens) can make life more miserable for a goalie than any other club because of their shooters and their speed," said Toronto netminder Mike Palmateer.

Montreal swept Toronto in last year's semi-finals, but Palmateer says: "We're a better team now than we were a year ago, and I think I'm a better goalie than I was a year ago."

Hayes, Dandridge spark Bullets in win over Hawks

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Elvin Hayes and Bob Dandridge combined for 37 of their 61 points in the second half and led the Washington Bullets to a 103-89 victory over the Atlanta Hawks in the opener of a National Basketball Association quarter-final playoff series Sunday.

The second game of the best of seven playoff will be held on Washington's homecourt Tuesday night.

Washington's defending champions trailed 76-71 entering the fourth quarter against a team they beat in a preliminary round last season and the score was still tied 85-85 before a 12-point streak clinched the decision for the Bullets.

Dandridge, who scored 30 points, had six of the points during the hot string and also blocked a shot when Washington was ahead 87-85. Hayes added one field goal, and he finished with 31 points and 15 rebounds.

Atlanta, which had won six in a row including two straight over Houston in a preliminary round, was led by Dan Roundfield with 24 points.

The Hawks appeared in danger of being blown out when they went more than four minutes without a point early in the second quarter and fell behind 42-30.

But Armond Hill sparked a 14-point rally, scoring six points and assisting on another basket to put the Hawks ahead 44-42.

Rookie Daniel claims Japan victory

TOKYO (AP) — Rookie pro Beth Daniel of the United States won the $70,000 World Ladies Professional Golf tournament by three strokes here Sunday.

Daniel, the 1975 and 1977 U.S. amateur champion, clinched the $14,000 first prize with rounds of 71-78-69 for a three-round total of 218, seven under par.

The 22-year-old Daniel, who turned professional last January, started the final round of the 54-hole tournament six strokes behind 39-year-old Takako Kiyomoto. But she shot eight birdies and two bogeys over the par-75 Yomiuri Country Club course on the outskirts of Tokyo to clinch her first victory in six pro tournaments.

Austin defeats Reid 7-6, 7-6

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Tracy Austin outlasted Kerry Reid 7-6, 7-6, in a women's tennis tournament championship match Sunday that was marred by numerous double faults by both players.

In a consolation match earlier Sunday, Martina Navratilova defeated Evonne Goolagong 6-4 for third place.

Austin, 16, of Rolling Hill, Calif., won the $30,000 first prize money in a match that had both women playing evenly throughout. Austin won the tiebreakers 7-3, 9-7.

Borg wins over Gerulaitis again

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — Bjorn Borg of Sweden gained another clearcut victory over Vitas Gerulaitis of the United States 6-2, 6-1, 6-3 to win the final of the $175,000 World Championship Tennis Tournament on Sunday.

The top-seeded Borg hit superb form in the warm sunshine at the Monte Carlo Country Club and third-seeded Gerulaitis had few opportunities of breaking the Swede's control of the match, which lasted 1 hour, 41 minutes.

Borg's heavy top spin was the key factor in the rallies and Gerulaitis could not produce any sustained counter-attack. After staying even over the first four games, Gerulaitis was unable to stop Borg taking almost complete control.

The second set showed Borg at his best with Gerulaitis winning only one serve and losing three service games.

In the third set Borg led 4-0 but lost his own serve. At 5-2 Gerulaitis saved a match point on his own serve, but another match point in the next game left Borg the winner.

Borg earned $30,000 in prize money, and Gerulaitis $15,000.

Borg has now captured two successive titles on the WCT, having won in Rotterdam, Netherlands, last Sunday.

The Monte Carlo tournament was the seventh of eight qualifying tournaments for the WCT finals in Dallas, May 1-6.

John McEnroe of the United States, Borg, Gerulaitis and Jimmy Connors of the United States occupy the first four places in the qualifying list for Dallas.

The last qualifying tournament begins Monday in Houston.

Villeneuve captures Champions race

BRANDS HATCH, England (AP) — Gilles Villeneuve, the French Canadian who is the world's current top Grand Prix racing driver, won the 40-lap Race of Champions at Brands Hatch Sunday by more than 15 seconds.

Driving last year's model Ferrari 312 T3, Villeneuve wore down America's Mario Andretti, the reigning world champion, who had led the race for 18 laps. Andretti eventually finished third.

Brazilian Nelson Piquet was the runner-up.

The only non-championship event this year for Grand Prix cars, the Race of Champions is traditionally a testing ground for new models. Villeneuve's victory does not contribute to the championship points table, which he already leads with two Grand Prix triumphs.

The 27-year-old Villeneuve cut in behind Niki Lauda before the Austrian had to retire with tire trouble after seven laps.

Andretti, driving a Martini Lotus 79, grabbed the lead on the 10th lap and led until the 28th when Villeneuve forged ahead.

"It was hard work," said the Canadian, "especially when Mario got by and then I had to work very hard to get back in front."

Piquet put in an impressive performance in his new Brabham Alfa Romeo BT48, shattering the track record in the process with a new lap time of 1 minute, 17.46 seconds.

He overhauled Andretti with just four laps to go to grab second place.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON
Monday, April 16

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: This can be one of the best years of your life if you are more considerate and avoid taking chances with money and health. Telephone proves to be better business aid than trips. Romantic outings will be many and varied for singles. Marriage has difficult moments, but in end becomes more meaningful.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Week gets off to a bad start, but if you keep emotions in check you'll triumph later. Little things tend to upset you most. Shake them off and get on with what is important.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Fresh approach needed to solve money questions. Payments can be deferred if you will level about your present cash flow problems. Take initiative. Don't wait for creditors to call you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Take independent stance and results are likely to turn in your favor. Your best qualities surge forward. You gain recognition. Influential people recognize you have something of value to offer.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Working independently can be more rewarding than team effort. Ride with tide. Be gentle to someone who confides problem. Key now is to be optimistic, wear bright colors.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Creative hobbies can be lucrative. Strive for greater self-reliance. One who flatters you may have ulterior motives in mind. Know it, protect yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Work good therapy if feeling restless, impulsive. Can make extra money from overtime for vacation. Think positive, key to success. Get out and mix this evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Cutting yourself off from "pipe dreams" may be painful but necessary. Look ahead — study future goals, destination. Romance can be bright spot of your day!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Avoid all forms of gambling, speculation. Domestic problems apt to tax your patience. Respond with kindness, patience. Open up lines of communication.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Choose words carefully. Answers are available, come from surprise sources. Hold off travel commitments. Large gathering in evening can be pleasant surprise. Get out of your rut!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Accomplish more, working from background position. Be secretive about future plans. Romance can be disillusioning. Give other person "breathing time." Don't overdo advice to partner, mate.

AQUARIUS (Jam. 20-Feb. 18): Avoid rash actions. Advice from friends could be inaccurate. Do own investigation. Keep tight rein on cash. Don't ignore signs of fatigue. Improved diet, advice from family physician helpful.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Work harder to cut expenses. Postpone new starts, beginnings. Work may be difficult, keeping you on go. Perhaps you thrive on activity but not this much. Slow down, relax tonight.

2 killed as 16 autos collide

CLEVELAND, Tenn. (AP) — State police said two persons were killed and at least 14 were injured Easter Sunday when 16 cars collided on a fog-shrouded section of Interstate 75 about 30 miles northeast of Chattanooga.

State Trooper Charles Jones said the dead and injured were taken to two hospitals. The names of the dead were not released pending notification of relatives. Jones said the accident occurred at 6:39 a.m. CST.

He said it involved 12 vehicles in the southbound lane and four in the northbound lane. "It was a chain reaction," he said.

Venezuelan oil production levels

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Daily oil production in Venezuela is beginning to level off after months of steady increases, the South American nation's state oil industry reported.

By last week, the average daily production was 2,340,000 barrels, representing 97 percent of maximum production capacity, the industry said.

Critics of high production say present levels are putting a strain on the industry's aging wells and are a violation of a ceiling of 2.2 million barrels established to conserve decreasing reserves.

Parks to take reservations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Park Service says advance reservations for campsites that can be reached by automobile will be available at sites in four states this summer.

The sites are Yosemite and Sequoia-Kings Canyon National Parks in California, Grand Canyon National Park in Arizona, Acadia National Park in Maine, and Chickasaw National Recreation Area in Oklahoma.

Oswald: "Here is an example of cruel and inhuman punishment for a mere misdemeanor."

Alan: "The Stayman convention in response to notrump openings is generally so effective that some players use it automatically any time their partner opens in notrump and they have any four-card major suit holding."

Oswald: "A better practise is to leave the convention alone when your distribution is 4-3-3-3; your four-card suit is a bad one and you have honors in the other three suits."

Alan: "With this in mind, North should simply have looked at his eleven high card points and raised South to three notrump."

Oswald: "The punishment resulted when spades broke 4-1 against South at the four-spade contract that resulted from North's use of Stayman. However, suits 3-2 only 68 percent of the time."

Alan: "The cruel and inhuman feature came when West was not only able to double, but scored 100 points for honors in addition to the penalty for a one-trick set."

Card sense

A Florida reader asks if it is ever proper to pass when your partner has made a forcing bid.

The answer is that there are times when such a pass turns out to be profitable, but we abhor the practice. Furthermore, even if your pass works, your partner is still going to be mad.

President celebrates Easter on vacation

SAPELO ISLAND, Ga. (AP) — President Carter, looking tanned and relaxed, joined island residents here Sunday to celebrate Easter at a foot-stomping, hand-clapping Baptist service.

The president, wearing a light checked sports jacket, drove a green Jeep to the small First African Baptist Church here to worship with a congregation made up of the descendants of plantation slaves.

"We've had a good vacation," Carter told reporters as he arrived. Then he escorted wife Rosalynn and 11-year-old daughter Amy into the stark white concrete church for two hours of singing, clapping and old-time preaching.

Sitting in the second row, Carter joined others who clapped their hands while the McIntosh County male chorus sang a foot-tapping version of one of the president's favorite hymns, "Amazing Grace."

With about 100 other persons, including women and girls in frilly Easter bonnets, Carter listened to Rev. George Ward of Eulonia, Ga., begin a sermon talking, then casually drift into song to the accompaniment of "amens" from the audience.

After he was formally introduced, Carter took to the pulpit and invited church members to the White House "particularly to see the room where Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation" that freed the slaves.

He said he had arisen alone to watch the sunrise. "Every time the sun rises on Easter Sunday," he added, "I will think of our friends here on Sapelo Island."

The service was held at one of two black churches on the island. Members of St. Luke's, the other church, also attended the president's service.

Sapelo Island is owned by the state of Georgia and is used for marine research. Some 200 blacks whose forebears worked as slaves on old island plantations remain as its only permanent residents.

Carter recalled that he visited the same church while governor of Georgia, and noted that Presidents Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover vacationed here as the guests of auto manufacturer Howard Coffin.

After the service, Carter ate barbecued chicken and baked ham with other churchgoers while Amy hunted Easter eggs in the backyard with island youngsters.

On the lawn, Carter told reporters he's been jogging each day and driving what he called the "sacrificial Jeep — but so far, I have not sacrificed it."

He said that during his stay on the thickly wooded island, he has seen alligators and wild turkeys, adding that a rattlesnake was discovered on the bottom of a boat he used for fishing.

Clearly enjoying himself, the president said, "someone suggested that I move down here."

Carter said he has "a good bit of paper work" to attend to each morning from Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski.

Nonetheless, he said, he's read four or five books, includng a collection of Ernest Hemingway short stories entitled "Death in the Afternoon."

Several hours after he arrived, Carter piled into the Jeep and headed for the mansion he is renting. Rosalynn Carter sat next to him, and Amy read a book in the back seat as the first family returned to their vacation retreat.

Joining the Carters for Easter dinner later were Atlanta attorney Charles Kirbo and his wife and the president's local friends, optometrist Carlton Hicks and lawyer Jim Bishop.

The menu featured roast duckling with orange sauce, snow peas, buttered baby carrots, Waldorf salad and pecan pie with ice cream.

Carter leaves the island Friday for an overnight visit to his home in Plains, Ga., followed by another overnight stop in Calhoun, Ga., for the christening of his granddaughter. He returns to Washington Sunday.

New drinking age in effect

BOSTON (AP) — Sunday was last call for 18-year-olds and 19-year-olds at Massachusetts bars. At closing time early Monday, the state's 20-year-old drinking age went into effect.

Possession is also a crime under Massachusetts' new liquor law. Anyone under age 20 found carrying an alcoholic beverage can be arrested without a warrant and fined $50.

Anyone who buys liquor for a peson under age 20 can be fined $300.

Package stores, which are not open on Sunday, reported last-minute rushes Saturday as those under 20 stocked up.

Onassis manuscript a gem among celebrities' papers

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Imagine an unheralded, unpublished manuscript by Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis describing her life with her husband and her hopes for the future as she was about to enter the White House in 1961 as John F. Kennedy's glittering first lady.

The existence of such a document would be enough to set off a stampede of gossip magazine editors trampling one another to jelly in the race to publish the manuscript and parade glamorous Jackie on their covers, a sure-fire circulation-booster.

Such a manuscript does exist — neatly handwritten on legal-size notebook paper.

Anyone who can satisfy the conditions set by Boston University can inspect, if not quote from, Jackie's words — for free.

The manuscript, found unexpectedly in the papers of novelist Fletcher — "Zinzin Road," "Seven Days in May" — Knebel, is a gem in the university's Twentieth Century Collection.

The collection is an archive embracing the significant and the trivia of contemporary history, growing — with the help of the Internal Revenue Service — in 16 years to a mass of paper overflowing the university library's shelves, some of it still packed in old gin bottle cartons awaiting indexing. Howard B. Gotlieb, 52, who moved from archivist at Yale to Boston University in 1963, estimates the value of his collection at $16 million.

They range from papers accumulated in the 60-year political career of former House Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts to 44 years of the comic strip "Little Orphan Annie" to all the letters Bette Davis ever wrote her mother from Hollywood.

Personalities represented range from playwright George Bernard Shaw to author Irwin Shaw, from master of the absurd Samuel Beckett to lovelorn novelist Barbara Cartland, from civil rights martyr Martin Luther King Jr. to saloon comic Joey Adams.

"We are a repository of the 20th century," said Gotlieb, "the largest 20th century archive in the country."

Actor Rex Harrison, between performances of his Broadway play "The Kingfisher," is rewriting at 73 — especially for Gotlieb — his autobiography, "to be read posthumously," cautioned the performer.

Harrison has been married six times and is an observer of show business from G.B. Shaw in the '30s, through "My Fair Lady" in the '50s to the romance of Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor while making "Caesar and Cleopatra" in the '60s.

Already in the collection is a verse about Harrison by comedienne Bea Lilly starting, "To wax poetic ... Harrison, Rex ... Higgins, Caesar and sex. ... "

Anyone doing legitimate scholarly research can peruse the Jackie manuscript or most any other document in the collection under the rules established by Gotlieb. Material can be quoted only with the permission of the author.

Like Harrison, some donors set conditions for public disclosure. Robert Redford has locked away his diary for release after his death.

The Jackie manuscript turned up in the papers Knebel donated to the library, a half-forgotten item she gave him in response to his research for a magazine article on her husband. He tucked it away and never used it, Knebel said.

"The manuscript would bring $5,000 to $7,000 at an auction house like Sotheby Parke Bernet," said Gotlieb, who had no idea what editors would pay to publish it, even if Mrs. Onassis gave her permission.

"The only thing I remember from it was her response to my asking her if Jack ever did any work around the house," said Knebel. "After all, what did I know with my middle-class upbringing? She answered, 'Really, Fletcher, how dreary'."

Knebel donated his papers because he could write off a fat deduction of about $20,000 on his income tax, a practice which attracted many donors but which came to an end with a change in the law in 1971.

Surprises pop up incessently, said Gotlieb. Roddy McDowell turned over his files, and out popped a collection of all the movies Errol Flynn ever made. Out of the papers of Bella Fromm, a Jewish socialite who for a time was a favorite of Adolph Hitler, Gotlieb's archivists fished a Sept. 19, 1940, letter from German geopolitician Albrecht Haushoffer to Deputy Premier Rudolf Hess. The letter discussed a Hess flight to Britain — which actually took place the following May.

Ruling due this week in Marvin case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Superior Court Judge Arthur Marshall, who has peered over his spectacles at the Marvin vs. Marvin trial with alternating astonishment and amusement, issues his written decision in the landmark case this week.

Those who know him say the judge's ruling — whether it favors Michelle Triola Marvin or Lee Marvin — will bear the hallmark of Marshall's judicial career: a dedication to fairness.

"If any other judge had been named to this case," says one attorney, "you can bet the lawyers would have opted for a jury. With Marshall, they know they'll get a fair shake."

Another lawyer, who has appeared before Marshall, calls the judge "cordial, charming and well-liked in the legal community."

But he adds, "You should remember he is a man who sticks to the letter of the law. He doesn't want to be reversed, and whatever decision he makes, he will have the law on his side."

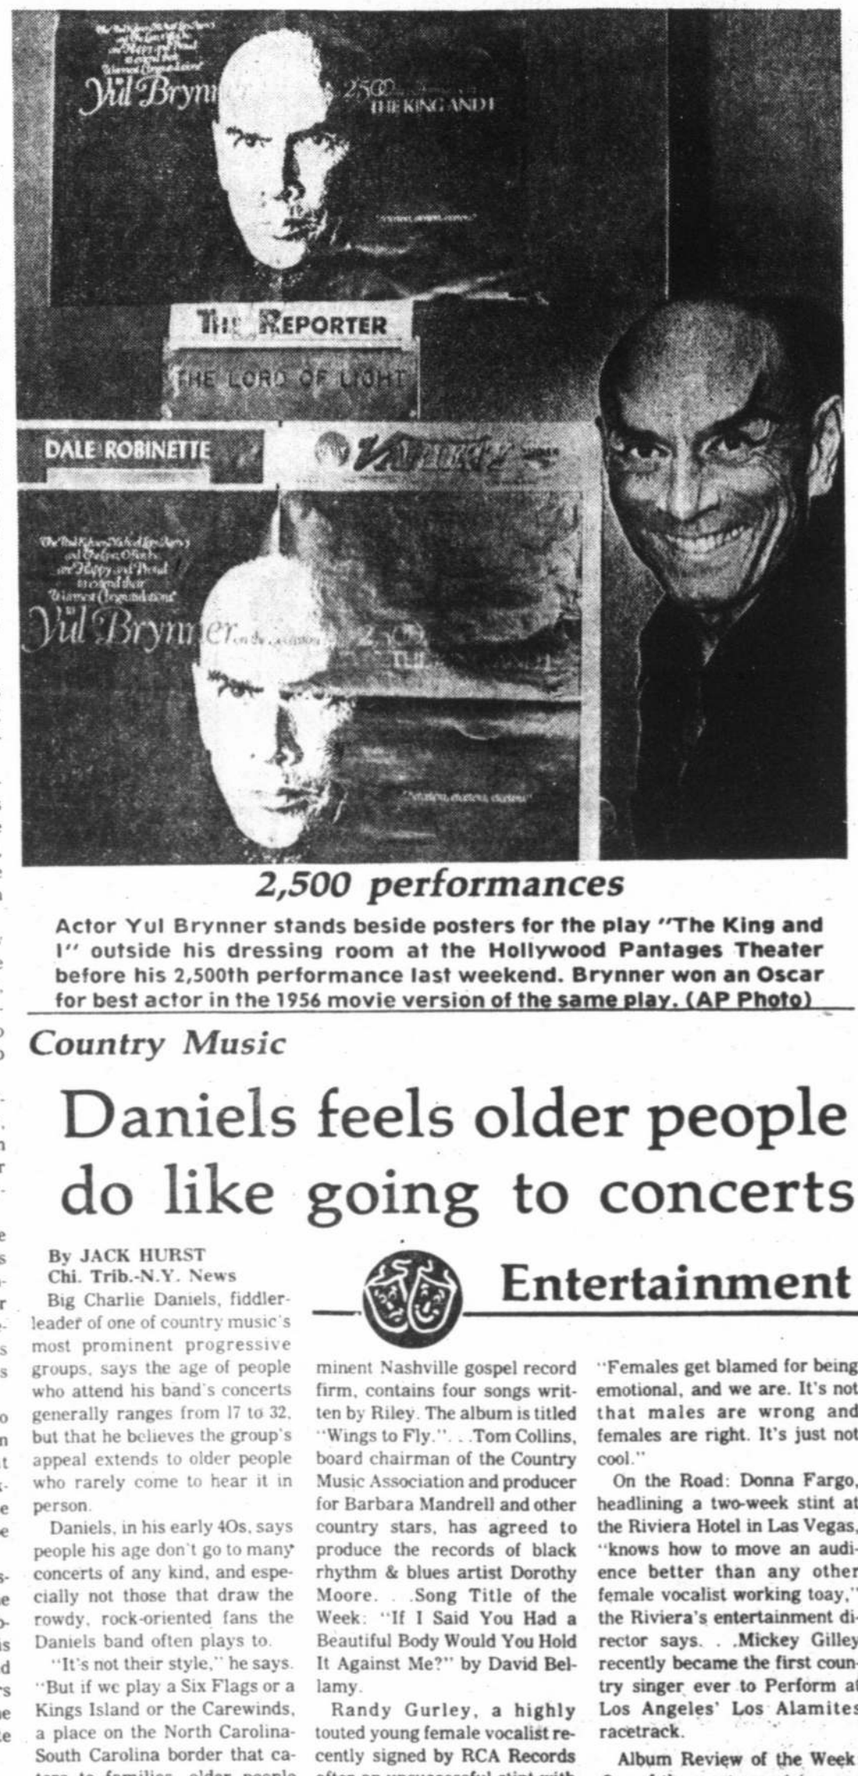

Defining the letter of the law in Marvin vs. Marvin won't be easy. Miss Marvin's lawyer, Marvin Mitchelson, has suggested Marshall may have to devise a "Marshall Plan" to divide Lee Marvin's millions.

In the lawsuit which could affect live-in lovers everywhere, Miss Marvin seeks $1.8 million in alimony-like benefits for her unmarried six-year relationship with the actor.

The California Supreme Court ruled in 1976 that Miss Marvin and others in her situation had the right to sue for property rights. But the precedent-setting decision left judges wide latitude in deciding what is an "equitable remedy."

Marshall is the first judge to be faced with making a decision since the Marvin precedent came down. His ruling is expected to serve as a guideline for trying other Marvin-type cases.

Marshall's conservative lifestyle is worlds apart from the free-wheeling Hollywood celebrities who paraded through his court. At 67, Marshall is a solid family man, married 31 years and the father of twin sons, one of whom recently took the state bar examination.

Daniels feels older people do like going to concerts

By JACK HURST
Chi. Trib.-N.Y. News

Big Charlie Daniels, fiddler-leader of one of country music's most prominent progressive groups, says the age of people who attend his band's concerts generally ranges from 17 to 32, but that he believes the group's appeal extends to older people who rarely come to hear it in person.

Daniels, in his early 40s, says people his age don't go to many concerts of any kind, and especially not those that draw the rowdy, rock-oriented fans the Daniels band often plays to.

"It's not their style," he says. "But if we play a Six Flags or a Kings Island or the Carewinds, a place on the North Carolina-South Carolina border that caters to families, older people come out of the woodwork. They'll come with the kids to something like that because it's got kind of a family atmosphere."

On the Record: Jeannie C. Riley's new LP, the first country release on the new Cross-Country label founded by a prominent Nashville gospel record firm, contains four songs written by Riley. The album is titled "Wings to Fly." . . .Tom Collins, board chairman of the Country Music Association and producer for Barbara Mandrell and other country stars, has agreed to produce the records of black rhythm & blues artist Dorothy Moore. . .Song Title of the Week: "If I Said You Had a Beautiful Body Would You Hold It Against Me?" by David Bellamy.

Randy Gurley, a highly touted young female vocalist recently signed by RCA Records after an unsuccessful stint with ABC, recalls that she once led two groups in the New York-New Jersey area — and adds that she'll never again try to boss a group of men. "I've learned to pick out one guy as leader of the males and communicate with him and let him take the grief," she says. "Females get blamed for being emotional, and we are. It's not that males are wrong and females are right. It's just not cool."

On the Road: Donna Fargo, headlining a two-week stint at the Riviera Hotel in Las Vegas, "knows how to move an audience better than any other female vocalist working toay," the Riviera's entertainment director says. . .Mickey Gilley recently became the first country singer ever to Perform at Los Angeles' Los Alamites racetrack.

Album Review of the Week: One of the most promising new voices on the Nashville scene is that of Con Hunley, a bluesy pianist combining the fire of a Ray Charles with the smoothness of a Charlie Rich.

Olivier's speech excellent

By LIZ SMITH
Chi. Trib.-N.Y. News

"Fax mentis incendium gloriae," and if your Latin isn't rusty you know that means "the fire of glory is a torch to the mind."

Laurence Olivier's speech to the Academy of Motion Picture Arts & Sciences on Oscar night surely will live as the all-time uplifting, gracious and stunning apex of what one wishes all acceptance speeches might be. Everything that followed seemed gross and trivial by comparison.

But aside from the fact that you couldn't see the film clips they were showing on the TV screen next to the presenters, the show was excellent in most respects.

Eventually, perhaps, they'll figure out how to beat the time game so that most viewers don't go to bed before the major awards are presented. On the Eastern seaboard, it was 1:20 in the morning when the event ended. In California, the show began at 7 p.m. Maybe they should move it back to start at 5 or 6 p.m. so Middle and Eastern America can get to see all of it and also get some sleep.

ON THE SPOT: Johnny Carson brought such a neat touch of class and restraint to his Oscar emceeing that if he WAS "auditioning" for ABC, he covered himself with glory.

The rumors on TV row continue: that Johnny told NBC's Fred Silverman to "buzz off;" that he is refusing NBC's importuning that he appear at least four nights a week on the "Tonight Show;" and, finally, that come Oct. 1 he'll ankle off the Peacock Network to ABC, which is no longer known as "Little Rock" as it was back in its days as No. 3. Now they call it "Hard Rock" or "Hot Rock"!

OSCAR-AFTER: Much as I admire Diane Keaton, if she could go up to accept her best actress Oscar for "Annie Hall" last year, then she had an obligtion to be a presenter when asked this year. It's different when someone like Woody Allen refuses to appear; he is consistent and never appears at all. But if you ACCEPT, seems to me you owe it to the Academy to PRESENT.

Shirley MacLaine's sibling tribute to Warren Beatty seemed a little outre after the Olivier speech, but it would have passed as an acceptable sentiment had she not gone on about his sex life. By the way, the big surprise to me about Hollywood's morning after is the general joy that Warren's "Heaven Can Wait" flunked out in the winning. Warren is enviously admired and grudgingly respected in the business, but many feel that his ego is too big and they don't like him personally.

Oddest twosome of the night — Diana Ross and Ginger Rogers.

Give-That-Man-Some- Anti-Itch-Powder-Award to director Francis Ford Coppola, who scratched so much during his appearance on stage that he made Ali McGraw, his co-presenter, look positively cool and stately.

Lovely to see Audrey Hepburn, but at her weight, why does she insist on those strapless dresses?. . . If you wonder why Ruby Keeler was overweight and tremulous, consider the lady's gallant fight back from a really crippling stroke after her Broadway triumph in "No, No, Nanette" a few years ago. . .Bravo to Raquel Welch, who looked incredible and kept her poise while Dean Martin did his "act." Raquel kept things on the track.

TV LIFE: Sally Struthers, known to millions as Archie Bunker's little girl Gloria, is going to portray Totie Fields in Lorrimar's television movie of the late commedienne's life. . .And the BBC wants Oscar-nominee Meryl Streep to play Nancy, Lady Astor, in a major drama series based on the life of the American who became Britain's first woman Member of Parliament. . .CBS will telecast Lord Lew Grade's big star-studded party for The Muppet movie from the Coconut Grove on May 16. . .Bobby Fryer offered the Sinclair Lewis estate $150,000 for rights to "Dodsworth" as a vehicle for Gregory Peck's TV debut. But the estate wants $250,000 plus 5 percent of the gross from a feature remake of the old Sam Goldwyn movie that starred Walter Huston, Ruth Chatterton and Mary Astor. (Mrs. Dodsworth's line? "I'm young, Sam!")

DIANE KEATON

JOHNNY CARSON

PRINTING PRESS: The New Yorker will print Philip Roth's new novel in its entirety, which should please little old ladies in Dubuque, even those not named Portnoy. . .Tommy ("Blood and Money") Thompson, stymied in choosing a title for his new Doubleday book about people whose paths cross fatefully, is finally calling it "Serpentine." Look magazine has first serial rights and the book garnered a million bucks for paperback. . .On the other hand, William Styron, the squire of Roxbury, Conn., just sniffed at a mere million for the paperback of his new fiction. . .Michael Korda's family "histoire," "Charmed Lives," is already leading a charmed life of its own. Book-of-the-Month took it for full selection. . .Maria Riva has agent Swifty Lazar all excited by her drafts of a tome about her own mommie dearest Naturally, it can't be printed in Marlene Dietrich's lifetime because mama Dietrich can still spank. . .

Brown, Ronstadt leave Africa

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. and rock singer Linda Ronstadt winged their separate ways for a rendezvous in London Sunday after an African "vacation" marked by numerous changes in plans.

Brown, who had left Kenya two days earlier, flew from neighboring Tanzania after attending Easter services at St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church in Dar es Salaam with President Julius Nyerere.

In earlier discussions with Nyerere, Brown pursued the environmental theme he adopted for his African trip, querying Nyerere about the possibility of using solar energy in Tanzania.

Nyerere said later that the United States and Britain should have brought more pressure on Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith to accept U.S.-British peace proposals that would give black nationalist guerrillas a role in the future of a black-ruled Rhodesia.

Ms. Ronstadt, who stayed behind in Nairobi's colonial-era Norfolk Hotel, checked out Sunday morning and was reported to have flown to London.

Jailbreakers captured

COMANCHE, Texas (AP) — Comanche County authorities Sunday recaptured the second of two prisoners who escaped from jail by overpowering a jailer and a trusty.

Deputies captured Louis Gonzalez, an ex-convict accused of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, shortly after midnight about 10 miles north of this Central Texas town.

5. Retirement program
6. Stock Purchasing plan

Here is the type person we are looking for — if you qualify, come in to see us.

1. Good driving record.
2. A mind for detail and thoroughness.
3. A sincere interest in creating good customer relations.
4. An interest in training boys to be successful.
5. Determination to complete projects that you start.

You don't need to bring us a world of experience — if you bring the right attitude, we will train you in the right methods to be successful.

DUTIES INCLUDE:

1. Working with Times and Record News carrier boys.
2. After a training period, you would be assigned to a specific geographical area.
3. Be responsible for the good service, proper collections, sales calls on non-readers and good customer relations in your assigned area.
4. Regular contact with parents of your carrier boys.

We want only honest, reliable people to work with our carrier boys. We carefully check your background.

Please apply in person Monday through Friday, 8 to 5 p.m. Times Publishing Company, 1301 Lamar, Personnel Department.

Merit Smashes Taste Barrier.

—National Smoker Study

Majority of smokers confirm 'Enriched Flavor'™ cigarette matches taste of leading high tar brands.

Read what smokers had to say about MERIT in a recent nationwide survey.

Confirmed: Majority of smokers rate MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading high tar cigarettes tested! Cigarettes having up to twice the tar.

Confirmed: Majority of smokers confirm taste satisfaction of low tar MERIT.

And in research conducted among current MERIT smokers:

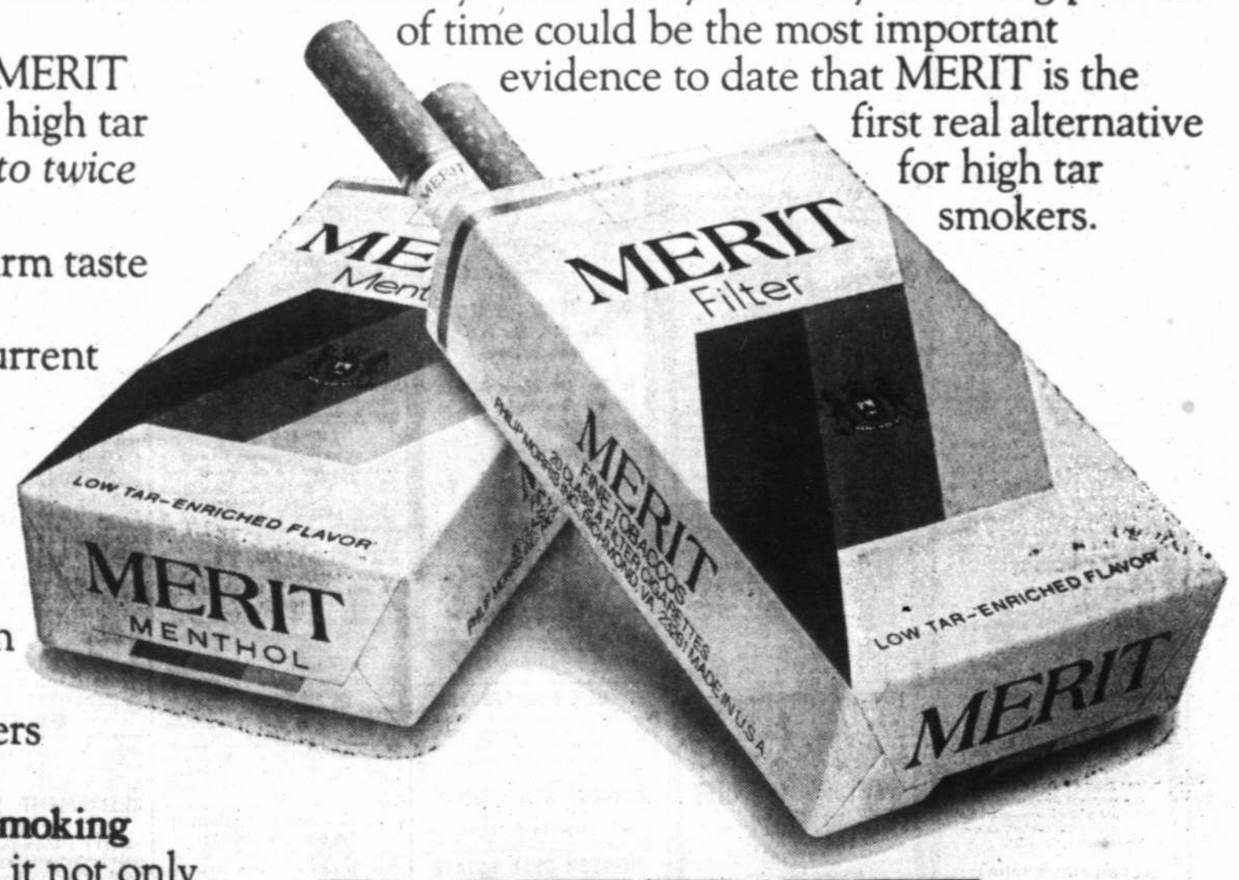

Confirmed: 85% of MERIT smokers say it was an "easy switch" from high tar brands.

Confirmed: Overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers say their former high tar brands weren't missed.

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 MERIT smokers not considering other brands.

First Major Alternative To High Tar Smoking

MERIT has proven conclusively that it not only delivers the flavor of high tar brands—but continues to satisfy! This ability to satisfy over long periods of time could be the most important evidence to date that MERIT is the first real alternative for high tar smokers.
