Culberson, Sutton Get Probe Sites

C. H. Sherrod, Midland, will drill No. 1 Double C, a 1,850-foot Permian wildcat, in Culberson County.

Location is 2,173 feet from north and 467 feet from east lines of section 2, block 114, PSL survey, 18 miles southwest of Oria. It is a north offset to a depleted Delaware discovery, which was abandoned in 1970.

Sutton
R. B. Mitchell, Houston, filed application to drill an 8,500-foot exploratory test of the Ellenburger zone in Sutton County, 12 miles west of Sonora. It is No. 1-18 Mayer.

Location is 1,320 feet from north and east lines of section 18, block D, GC&SF survey, abstract 1601, within the Sutton portion of the Sawyer (Canyon) field.

Pecos Exploration Flows Gas On Test

Union Texas Petroleum Corp. No. 1-23 Harrah, Pecos County, scheduled 12,500-foot wildcat, 15 miles southwest of Bakersfield, has indicated production in an unidentified formation, with the recovery of distillate on a straddle-drillstem test.

Tool was open three hours on the test taken from 9,990-9,990 feet, on which gas and mud surfaced in 17 minutes, on a 3/4-inch choke, gauge unreported. Recovery was 180 feet of distillate and 3,036 feet of distillate-cut mud. Gas volume was estimated at 4 million cubic feet per day.

Flowing pressure was 856-1,116 pounds; one-hour initial and five-hour final shut-in pressures were 4,394 and 4,360 pounds, respectively.

The last reported depth was 12,511 feet.

Location is 2,600 feet from north and 1,200 feet from west lines of section 23, block 127, T&SL survey.

Pay Zone Spreads In Eddy Gas Area

The Carlsbad, South multizone field of Eddy County, N.M., gained its fifth Atoka well, and a 2 1/4-mile northeast extension to that pay, with completion of Mobil Oil Corp. No. 1 Maude Rickman Communized.

It gauged a calculated, absolute open flow of 2.8 million cubic feet of dry gas per day, through perforations at 11,243-11,424 feet, which had been acidized with 15,000 gallons.

Operator was preparing to calculate open flow potential from the Morrow zone, through perforations at 11,658-12,040 feet, which have been treated with 5,000 gallons of acid.

Location is 2,204 feet from south and 840 feet from west lines of section 3-23-27e, seven miles southeast of Carlsbad.

U.S., Russia Talks Set June 27

To The Newcomers

Midland economic reports show a healthy influx of new residents during the last year.

It is to these newcomers to the Tall City that this edition of The Reporter-Telegram is dedicated.

In Section B of today's newspaper are stories and pictures designed to better acquaint new residents with various aspects of community life in Midland.

Downpours Hit Parts Of Texas

Downpours heavy enough to fill some streets with water hit Texas areas from Galveston and Houston as far north as Tyler as heavy thunderstorms ranged from those areas into Louisiana early today.

There also were showers and thunderstorms bringing moderate rainfall during the night from South Central Texas eastward to the coast and near Corpus Christi to Victoria.

Despite the showers elsewhere, the National Weather Service at Midland Air Terminal holds out almost no hope of rain for the Tall City. However, a cold front which came through the area this morning will lower temperatures today and Saturday and produce partly cloudy to cloudy skies and gusty winds.

The high today will be 85-90, following a top mark Thursday of 97 and an overnight low of 66. The mercury had hit 87 degrees this morning before the cold front's passage, but was only 84 at noon.

The low tonight should be around 60 and the high Saturday near 90.

As much as four inches of rain drenched the Seguin area (See WEATHER Page 2A).

Israel, Syria Sign Accord

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP)— Syria and Israel signed an historic U.S.-negotiated disengagement pact today committing them to end the fighting on the Golan Heights and move toward lasting peace in the Middle East.

A half hour after the signing, the guns that boomed across the bleak and barren front for the past 81 days fell silent, an Israeli military communique said.

Artillery duels that started in the early morning continued intermittently past the deadline and finally fizzled out altogether, newsmen reported from the front.

A United Nations spokesman said all signatures were completed at 6:45 a.m. EDT after a last-minute delay caused by Syria's apparent reluctance to sign the pact in the presence of newsmen.

The snag had developed about 30 minutes earlier after Israeli representatives had signed the disengagement agreement. The Syrians, expected to follow, sat still and made no move.

At that time, Lt. Gen. Ensis Silasvuo of Finland, commander of the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East, who chaired the meeting, announced a 15-minute recess. Newsmen were asked to leave the marbled council hall of the Palais des Nations, the Geneva U.N. headquarters.

And shortly thereafter the problem was cleared up, and the agreement negotiated by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger in a marathon peace mission was signed.

Signing of the pact is expected to start a prisoner exchange and move a permanent peace a step closer to the troubled area.

On Saturday, Israeli and Syrian military delegations begin five days of talks on the disengagement timetable and on precise demarcation lines for thinning out of forces. The troop separation agreement says all its provisions are to be implemented by June 25.

Israel and Syria formally endorsed the pact on Thursday, one day after agreement by the negotiating teams was announced in Jerusalem and Washington. The Syrian endorsement came at a 10-hour session of President Hafez As-Sadat (See SYRIA Page 2A).

Grads Urged To Seek Constructive Change

By BRUCE CAMPBELL

The philosophies of two prominent American writers — one past, the other present — were the messages of the valedictorian addresses as 1,173 high school seniors received diplomas Thursday night at Midland Memorial Stadium.

Quoting Henry David Thoreau, Lee High valedictorian Susan Bechtel urged the graduating class of 622, "to hear a different drummer," while Midland High's top graduate, John Bishop, reading from Kurt Vonnegut's "Slaughterhouse-5," told the 551 MHS graduates not to overlook "the beautiful side of life."

Miss Bechtel said "to hear a different drummer" is a theme with two parts.

"The first involves looking for new ideas without fear of being different," she said. "The status quo should not be destroyed purely for the sake of change; instead, it should be modified by consecutive change. The change can be in the form of a concept rather than an actual product."

"Another point to consider is that a lack of talent in a given area can be an asset rather than a liability if used properly."

There is satisfaction both in being the person who comes up with an idea and in being the one who goes through with it.

"Marching to a different drummer is also the self-image of the individual," she noted. "Everyone needs to form his own beliefs and set his own standards to follow in life. Periodically we must disassociate ourselves from what we are doing and ask what our purpose is in doing it, and second, whether or not we are fulfilling it. If the answer is no, the next step is to do something about it."

She added that this philosophy also included respect for others. "As we do what we think is right—as we march to our own drummers—let us also at all times maintain respect for other marchers," Miss Bechtel said. "Thoreau particularly emphasized this point: 'Let him step to the music which he hears.'"

"Ideologies should never be forced on people. Each individual must be allowed to form his own opinion without being influenced by others," she continued.

Miss Bechtel concluded by urging her classmates to hold on to their own ideals.

"It probably won't be easy to continue holding on to our own ideals, but if we can hold to them, we shall have the satisfaction of creating a living, progressing society rather than maintaining a stagnant one," she said.

"At the same time, we will be personally gratified. The world we face is one which needs marchers—let us together meet this challenge and proudly march to our own distant drummer," she concluded.

Bishop noted the message of "Slaughterhouse-5" is appropriate for the graduating class of 1974.

Reading passages from the novel, the Midland valedictorian said "Today we have a peaceful planet here. On other days we have war as horrible as any you've ever seen or read about."

There isn't anything we can do about them, so we simply don't look at them. We ignore them.

"We spend eternity looking at pleasant moments. That's one thing humans might learn to do, if they tried hard enough. Ignore the awful times, and concentrate on the good ones," he said as he finished the passage. "This message is not new."

It's the same one that inspired Lao-Tzu in the 6th Century B.C. and the same one that Plato said, "But today, 25 centuries later, we've lost sight of this wisdom: In a society where everyone

Man Wondering What's Next On Menu For Backyard Hole

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — The four-foot wide hole in James Johnson's backyard has devoured 162 used tires and wheels, and he's a little worried about what the cavity might choose for its next meal.

"The size of the thing worries me," he said. "I'm afraid it might act like a funnel and just keep sucking things down."

When Johnson's wife first discovered the hole she thought it had been dug by a gopher and started poking with a broom handle to find the bottom. She failed.

As the hole grew, the family began to think it was an old well, capped at a depth of 32 feet, where metal and other debris were found. But since the tires have disappeared, they're not so sure.

Johnson fed the cavity its last snack in February 1973. He covered it and figured he had an entire backyard once more. But this week he checked it again, since he plans to extend the house that way.

"You can see just a few of the tires now," he said, "right at the very bottom."

The Johnson's hole has been chewing for quite a while. Mrs. Johnson recalled that a family which owned the house in the 1930s filled it up with gravel, metal and other fill—all of which disappeared.

"I just wonder where it's all going," she said.

Session Is Third In Series

WASHINGTON (AP) —

President Nixon's summit talks with Soviet leaders will open June 27, the White House announced today.

The date is several days later than expected — an adjustment caused by Nixon's plans to tour the Middle East during mid-June.

The Moscow talks, expected to last about a week, will be the third in a series of summit meetings between Nixon and Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev. The first summit was held at the Kremlin in 1972 and was followed by the second set of talks when Brezhnev visited the United States last year.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren read the one-paragraph joint announcement of the summit date as White House officials continued to turn aside questions about the timing of Nixon's Middle East trip.

Sources reported Nixon has tentatively decided to visit Egypt, Israel and perhaps three other Middle East countries during the week beginning June 9 as a follow-up to Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's successful negotiation of an Israeli-Syrian disengagement agreement.

In a move seen as helping pave the way for Nixon's visit, the United States and Egypt announced today the formation of a joint cooperative commission to promote economic, scientific and cultural cooperation.

"Both governments are reaffirming their hope that a lasting and just peace in the Middle East will be realized, thus helping the people of the area enjoy the rewards of stability and development," said this announcement, also read by Warren.

Nixon's separate trips to the Soviet Union and the Middle East come as he faces impeachment proceedings in Congress. They reflect the White House view that despite Nixon's domestic troubles, he remains

Blast Rips State Attorney's Office At Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A massive explosion ripped through state Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger's sixth-floor downtown office early today, causing extensive damage but no injuries, officers said.

Shortly before the predawn blast ripped out windows in the 12-story Old State Office Building, two Los Angeles newspapers received telephone calls from "the Weather Underground" warning that a bomb was due to go off shortly in the 12-floor structure.

The "Weather Underground," or Weatherman, is a splinter of the Students for a Democratic Society, and has been mentioned in the past in connection with other bombings.

The group claimed credit for the March 1, 1971, bombing of the U.S. Capitol and the August 1971 bombing of two California prison system offices.

Allstate To Pay $4 Million In Dividends

AUSTIN (AP) — Allstate Insurance Co. bowed to the wishes of the State Insurance Board today and agreed to pay $4 million dividends on auto insurance policies expiring between Oct. 3, 1973, and May 31, 1974.

The announcement by company spokesman Donald Schaeffer, vice president and general counsel, came just before the board would have issued an order threatening Allstate with suspension and a $10,000 fine if it did not comply with board orders within 30 days.

"We are glad they are paying up now instead of dragging out the case in a long, legal battle," said Insurance Board Chairman Joe Christie.

"There was a bonafide difference of opinion with the board on legal points but it was decided that policy holders would be better served if we avoided the expense of litigation and disbursed monies to the policy holders now," said a company spokesman, Eugene Palmer, Austin lawyer. "Of course this only includes those covered by the commissioners order which are auto policies expiring between Oct. 3, 1973 and May 31, 1974. We will continue to sell auto insurance now and in the future at our present lower rate."

Nixon Stands Firm On Decision About Releasing Evidence

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has chosen to risk the dismissal of criminal charges against two former top assistants rather than turn over evidence for their defense in the White House plumbers case.

Although slightly easing rules on access to White House evidence, the President restated Thursday his determination to remain the final arbiter of what evidence is released to a federal court.

In a second Watergate case, the White House sought to block an early hearing before the Supreme Court on another attempt to obtain Watergate evidence under Nixon's control. Early Ruling Expected

The high court may rule today whether to assume jurisdiction in that case, in which seven men are accused of covering up the Watergate break-in.

Special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski, pressured by a Sept. 9 starting date for the cover-up trial, is seeking to leapfrog the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to obtain tapes and documents of 64 presidential conversations.

A U.S. District Court has upheld Jaworski's subpoena of the 64 tapes. He wants the Supreme Court to consider the case immediately but the White House wants the case to follow normal appeals procedures.

Plumbers Case
In the plumbers case, former presidential aides John D. Ehrlichman and Charles W. Colson and three others are accused of violating the civil rights of Dr. Lewis Fielding, Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist in 1971 when the former Pentagon analyst leaked the Pentagon papers to the press.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell, scheduled to begin the plumbers trial June 17, ordered presidential lawyer James D. St. Clair to provide written assurances that Nixon understood what might happen if he refused to turn over evidence Colson and Ehrlichman say they left behind in the White House.

In a letter, St. Clair said, "The President is not desirous of having these, or... any indictments of former government officials dismissed without a full and fair trial."

Searchers Find Body Of Cyclist

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Fred Mundy may have been making a futile attempt to pursue airplanes that were looking for him when he died, his brother Charles says.

A team of Mexican cowboys and two off-duty U.S. border patrolmen found Mundy's body Thursday about five miles from his abandoned motorcycle in the Baja California desert, 80 miles south of the border.

Searchers said Mundy, 40, apparently walked about 30 miles in a circling path over rocky desert ground, where daytime temperatures exceeded 100 degrees.

They believe he died five to seven days ago.

Mundy, a former football player and experienced outdoorsman from Riverside, Calif., took a wrong turn in a desert motorcycle race May 18. He left his motorcycle when it ran out of gas, and set out on foot.

Abrams Has Cancer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Creighton Abrams, Army chief of staff, has cancer in the left lung, the Pentagon announced today.

His message is simple. There always have been and always will be awful times and pleasant moments. And we may grow and learn a great deal from evil that surrounds us. But if we become too concerned with what's wrong in the world, we overlook the beautiful side of life, and it's the appreciation of the pleasant things that makes life so meaningful," he noted.

Bishop's audience included two streakers, one a 17-year-old student at Lee, was arrested and jailed for disorderly conduct by indecent exposure.

He spent the night in jail and was released to the custody of his parents at 8:30 a.m. today.

"But he must implement the Constitutional responsibilities of his office by not jeopardizing the national security."

Gesell, who has repeatedly declared his willingness to dismiss the charges if the White House evidence is not produced, has scheduled a hearing on Monday on subpoenas sent to Nixon.

In a three-page letter, St. Clair said the President will permit lawyers for Colson and Ehrlichman to look through hand-written and typewritten notes they say are needed for a fair trial.

In the cover-up case, the White House said in a brief to the Supreme Court that the justices should avoid a "rush to judgment."

Normally, early consideration of the case occurs if four justices agree that is necessary.

2.7 Million Veterans Eligible For New Insurance Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Veterans Administration said today it is trying to inform 2.7 million veterans who left military service less than four years ago they are eligible for new $20,000 temporary, low-cost government life insurance.

The new program, which starts Aug. 1, is part of legislation President Nixon signed into law last week raising GI insurance coverage from $15,000 to $20,000 for those on active duty, reservists and National Guardsmen.

The new veterans insurance was voted by Congress because so many complained about the current program under which veterans are given only 120 days to convert their GI insurance to regular civilian insurance without physical exams.

The veterans said they could not afford to pay the conventional rates for full coverage so soon after leaving service.

All servicemen will be eligible to convert from Servicemen's Group Life Insurance to the new Veterans Group Life Insurance within 120 days after leaving service. This is five-year term insurance that is not renewable.

At the end of the five years, the veteran may convert this to an individual policy by applying in writing to a commercial company participating in the new program.

Veterans who already have left service within the past four years have one year in which to sign up for the new program.

Their five-year term starts with the date of application.

The rates for the new veterans insurance and added $5,000 coverage for those in service, reservists and National Guardsmen are being worked out by VA officials.

But the rates are expected to be comparable to the old GI insurance rate of $2.50 monthly for full $15,000 coverage for those on active duty.

It also provides coverage for another 100,000 reservists who are retired or will be retired and have not reached their 61st birthday, provided they have completed at least 20 years of service to qualify for retired pay. Retired pay starts for reservists with at least 20 years service at age 60.

The only permanent VA insurance coverage now carried by the VA is for veterans of World War I, World War II and Korea.

HABEAS CORPUS PLEA—

Former Escapee Files Federal Court Appeal

Clarence Eugene Francis, 32, has filed a petition of habeas corpus in Midland's Federal Court to appeal his imposed sentence of 15 years for robbery by assault with firearms. Francis is presently serving out his sentence at the Texas Department of Corrections' Ramsey Unit in Otey.

On Nov. 21, 1971, Midland County Sheriff Ed Darnell initiated a manhunt for Francis after the convicted robber escaped from Midland County Jail some 30 hours before anyone noticed he was missing.

At that time Francis was being held awaiting an appeal hearing in connection with his case in 142nd District Court.

Ector County sheriff's officers picked Francis up in Odessa Dec. 3, 1971, and returned the prisoner to Midland authorities.

Francis' attorney, Thomas Rocha Jr. of San Antonio, filed his client's appeal to the Federal Court.

The House passed the measure Thursday, 333 to 20, but also voted 224 to 19 to limit the audit to the Federal Reserve's financial operations and preclude evaluations of the agency's policies.

A similar measure was rejected by the Senate Banking Committee last week.

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House Banking Committee, argued that the Federal Reserve, the nation's central banking system, shouldn't be immune to an independent audit.

Milk Prices, Nixon Gifts Said Linked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The staff of the Senate Watergate committee has concluded that contributions to President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign by dairy cooperatives were apparently directly linked to Nixon's decision to raise milk prices in 1971.

A White House white paper issued Jan. 18 said Nixon was motivated principally by pressure for a price increase from Congress, and the fear that Democrats might profit from the issue in an election year.

The Watergate committee's draft report said this white paper contains serious deficiencies.

"The white paper misstates the strength of congressional efforts," the draft report said. It said many of the members of Congress the White House said had cosponsored bills to raise prices actually were not listed as cosponsors at the time Nixon raised prices.

"One can only speculate whether any of the bills would have passed both houses of Congress," the draft report said.

Chinese Reject Soviet Request

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — China has rejected a Soviet request for Red Cross intervention in behalf of a Russian helicopter crew captured by China last March.

The International Committee of the Red Cross said today that the Chinese had advised the relief organization verbally that they were opposed to a third party intervening in the case.

The report said the dairy cooperatives continued their contributions to the President's campaign through 1972 "partly to honor the earlier commitment and partly to seek a favorable resolution of a Justice Department antitrust suit filed against the leading dairy co-op early last year."

"At the same time, they provided support for Democratic presidential candidates, but primarily with 'secret' corporate contributions, in part to avoid the enmity of the Nixon administration."

President Nixon has denied that the promise of campaign contributions influenced his decision to raise the federal support price for milk in 1971.

A draft report by the committee's staff, written principally by Democratic staff members, also said there appeared to be serious deficiencies in President Nixon's defense of the price increase.

The 360-page draft report, the product of months of behind-the-scenes investigation by the Watergate committee, was circulated today to members of the committee, and a copy of it was obtained by The Associated Press.

The report said the dairy cooperatives "committed at least several million dollars... in an effort to secure the favor of the President and his administration in connection with favorable treatment on key matters of concern to the dairy industry."

"This effort included a $2 million pledge in 1970 to the President's 1972 campaign and, in March 1971, the reaffirmation and restatement of that pledge to be fulfilled in monthly installments, apparently directly linked a favorable milk price support decision by the President worth hundreds of millions of dollars to the industry—and costing the same amount to the government and consumers."

The report said the dairy cooperatives continued their contributions to the President's campaign through 1972 "partly to honor the earlier commitment and partly to seek a favorable resolution of a Justice Department antitrust suit filed against the leading dairy co-op early last year."

House Committee Calls For 45 More Watergate Tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee subpoenaed tapes of 45 more presidential conversations despite President Nixon's refusal to turn over any more Watergate material.

Along with the subpoena, approved by a 37-to-1 vote Thursday, the committee sent Nixon a letter saying his refusal to comply could provide grounds for impeachment.

But the committee rejected two harsher attempts to deal with the President. A motion to seek an immediate impeachment vote for contempt of Congress was tabled, 29-9. One to recommend citation for contempt but delay House action until later was tabled 27-11.

The committee also rejected, 23 to 15, an effort to open some of the impeachment hearings to the public next week. The vote is expected to keep the hearings closed at least two weeks longer.

Issuance of the committee's fourth subpoena against Nixon with only one dissenting vote — cast by proxy for an absent member — demonstrated the bipartisan opposition in the committee to the White House strategy for fighting impeachment.

"He's stonewalling," said Rep. Thomas F. Ricksback, R-Ill., borrowing a term made popular by the White House transcripts.

Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., said, "His current conduct does not make it easier for this member to conclude that such allegations are without merit" that Nixon obstructed investigations by the Justice Department, the Senate Watergate committee and the special prosecutor.

Republicans Join In
Ricksback and McClory were among eight Republicans who supported the letter that warned continued refusal to honor committee subpoenas would permit members to conclude he is withholding damaging evidence.

A month ago only one Republican supported sending a letter merely notifying Nixon he failed to comply with a subpoena for 42 taped conversations.

Nixon had released edited transcripts instead of tapes on that occasion. He refused to supply anything in response to two subpoenas issued May 15 for Watergate tapes and White House logs and said he would reject future subpoenas for Watergate material.

The new subpoena calls for delivery by June 10 of Watergate tapes originally requested April 19. Most of them also have been subpoenaed by special prosecutor Leon Jaworski, who has asked the Supreme Court to rule on his right to them.

"My message is simple. There always have been and always will be awful times and pleasant moments. And we may grow and learn a great deal from evil that surrounds us. But if we become too concerned with what's wrong in the world, we overlook the beautiful side of life, and it's the appreciation of the pleasant things that makes life so meaningful," he noted.

He spent the night in jail and was released to the custody of his parents at 8:30 a.m. today.

Municipal Judge William Ahders required the youth to write a thesis on the moral issues involved in streaking to be delivered to him by June 19. Judge Ahders also indicated the streaker probably will be fined.

The other streaker, also a male, managed to elude police.

"The past 12 years have been a period of learning and preparing for the future," Raymer said. "During this time, we have been under the guidance of our parents and teachers, sometimes willingly and sometimes against our wishes."

"We have not been merely guided but we have also been taught to guide ourselves. The educational system has not in itself been democratic but rather it has provided us with the knowledge and training necessary to function in a democratic society," he added.

"With our graduation we are breaking the bonds which have tied us and we are preparing to assume the rights to which we are entitled. We have been given knowledge and the freedom to use it as we choose, but each of us must provide his own initiative."

OPEC Plan Would Boost Gasoline Price At Pump

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil company officials warn that Americans could again be paying high prices for scarce fuel if nations controlling most of the world's oil exports decide to increase oil taxes.

A plan now under consideration by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) will raise prices at the gasoline pump if it is adopted, according to a major oil company official.

Middlemen Take Increased Slice Of Food Dollar

CHICAGO (AP) — The president of the Farm Bureau Federation said today that the middleman's share of the price of food has gone up about four cents on the dollar since the first of the year.

The farmer's share has gone down by about an equal amount, William J. Kuhfuss said in a speech prepared for the 28th annual conference of Farm Bureau insurance accountants.

While he said he was not attempting to put all the blame on retailers and wholesalers, Kuhfuss said consumers are not getting the full benefit of recent major declines in farm prices.

voked a commitment to the independence of a broad study of government secrecy.

Then the lawyer in charge of it resigned in protest.

The dispute casts doubt on the future of the long-range project to assess the extent of government compliance with the federal law requiring disclosure of information to the public.

As developments came to light Thursday, Justice Department officials said Saxbe decided during the past month that he should not have granted the Freedom of Information Study Unit almost total independence from department control.

Saxbe made that commitment in a letter Feb. 19 to Jerry N. Clark, the lawyer chosen by the attorney general to head the $300,000 research effort.

Clark and department officials said the agreement began to unravel about a month ago. Clark submitted his resignation Wednesday.

"I'm disappointed," Clark said in an interview. "They clearly wanted to depart from the original agreement and clearly wanted to assert greater Department of Justice control over the end product."

The study was conceived as an answer to increasing congressional demands for a detailed accounting of executive branch compliance with the 1967 Freedom of Information Act.

The research team of about 15 lawyers and political scientists was to compile the first comprehensive data on the information policies enforced throughout government, particularly in such traditionally secretive agencies as the FBI.

The team was to present the information and recommendations to Congress and the public in July 1975.

Saxbe's administrative aide, Bill Hoiles, said the attorney general took a new look at the agreement after Deputy Atty. Gen. Laurence Silberman raised questions about it.

The decision to revoke the commitment came because

Warring North Irish Groups Have Common Enemy—British

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Two years ago the Union Jacks which flew over Protestant strongholds in Shankill Road and Sandy Row attested to an unshaken allegiance to the British Crown.

Today the same flagpoles defiantly fly the red and white of Ulster, and the Protestant militants of the Ulster Workers' Council are sounding almost as anti-British as their sworn foes, the Roman Catholics.

This is the political paradox of Northern Ireland: the bloody five-year feud between Protestants and the Catholic minority has given them a common enemy — the British.

The defiant Protestants paralyzed Northern Ireland with a 15-day general strike and shattered the delicate British blueprint for power-sharing in the province.

The toppled provincial coalition government of Catholics and Protestants was the whole basis of Britain's political design to beat the Catholic-based Irish Republican Army's urban guerrillas.

But the council was shelved during the strike. The British design lies in ruins. Now, with the celebration bonfires still burning in Belfast's Protestant back streets, the question is: What next?

One idea increasingly popular among grass-roots Protestants is an independent Ulster.

Independence was one of three alternatives seriously proposed to British leaders Thursday by three Protestant chiefs, the Rev. Ian Paisley, Harry West and William Craig.

Craig, leader of the extremist Vanguard movement, has long talked of a negotiated independence in the hope that Protestants and Catholics could find a common allegiance to Northern Ireland.

By contrast, the Catholic-based Irish Republican Army's nationalist Provisional Wing has long pressed to make Ulster a Protestant-governed province in a united Ireland.

The Catholics evidently saw that Protestant discontent might lead to British withdrawal.

All during the two-week strike the IRA kept unusually quiet, suspending all its bombing attacks.

One sign of growing Protestant disenchantment with the British was an unlikely lapel badge worn by strike supporters — a piece of sponge.

It was a mark of derision for British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, who went on nationwide television Saturday and accused the Northern Irish of "sponging" off the British taxpayer for military assistance.

The strike simply hardened and so too, have the thoughts of an independent Ulster.

Kissinger Sells Harris Poll High

NEW YORK (AP) — Pollster Louis Harris says Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger scored a record 85 per cent good-to-excellent job rating in a nationwide survey taken before the Mideast agreement.

Harris said Thursday that Kissinger's score was the highest job approval rating ever tallied by the polling organization for a member of the executive branch.

Kissinger got negative marks from only 10 per cent of the 1,555 adults across the nation who were queried between May 4 and 7. The remaining 5 per cent were not sure.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Clean Jeans Her Hangup

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Association

Polly's Problem — A pair of my white jeans have turned rather brown and the tag on them says "Do not bleach." Around the bottoms of the legs is embedded dirt from walking across a puddle. There is bicycle grease along the seams and some black ink marks. I tried using hair spray but really did not know how much to use or how to do it. I hope someone has a solution that will help me clean these jeans. — J.S.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the cosmetic companies that put cake powder in plastic cases. These break so easily. Mine always break at the hinges long before I use all the powder. — MRS. F.C.

DEAR POLLY — I am answering Mrs. M.C.J. who had two loads of clothes come out of the washer with yellow crayon marks on them. This happened to me when doing a load of my husband's permanent press dress slacks. I first put them in the freezer and when they were good and cold I gently scraped off as much crayon as possible. It may take more than one freezer operation. Next I gently rubbed in a commercial liquid detergent until the crayon dissolved, then rinsed and washed the slacks as usual. Do not scrape too hard or the fabric fibers may be damaged. I remove gum and glue the same way. Since her clothes are ruined I hope this helps save them. — SHIRLEY.

DEAR POLLY — The following Polly's Pointer was submitted by Mrs. Bill Goode of 2408 W. Kentucky St.

DEAR POLLY — I want to tell Mrs. M.C.J. that I had excellent results removing melted blue crayon from my daughter's nylon dress by pouring boiling water through the garment several times. The stained area was put over a large, deep bowl, secured with a rubber band and boiling water poured through until the spots were melted out. The dress was then washed as usual and looked good as new. — MRS. B.G.

DEAR GIRLS — A well-known washing machine company suggests the following for removing crayon stains. "Loosen stain with kitchen shortening. Apply detergent on stain, working until outline of stain is removed. Launder as usual. Repeat process, if necessary, pretreating with a liquid household cleaner. If stain persists, use bleach if safe for the fabric. Rinse and launder." — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer has saved me from falling many times. I tacked a cap from a pop bottle to the bottom of each of my crutches and my cane. The crimped edges of the caps (on the outside bottom) kept my cane or crutches from slipping, particularly in bad weather. — TILLIE.

POLLY'S NOTE — This would be great for outdoors but a bit hard on hardwood or resilient flooring.

Dear Abby

Feeling For Dead Mate's Friend May Be True Love

—By Abigail van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You are the only person I can turn to with this problem because I'm ashamed to tell anyone else, although I haven't done anything wrong.

I'm 22. Six weeks ago my husband was killed instantly in a motorcycle accident. Jimmy and I had been married only eight months and were fantastically happy. My whole world fell apart. I didn't want to go on living and even thought of taking a bottle of sleeping pills so I could join Jimmy.

For a month I sat and stared at the walls. Then Jeff, a friend of Jim's, came over to cheer me up. I was terrible. He made me fix myself up, and he took me for a long drive. I don't know how to say this, Abby, but all of a sudden all the hurt about Jim left me, and now I think I'm in love with Jeff.

Is it wrong to have these feelings so soon? I loved Jim with all my heart, but now I think I love Jeff. I think Jeff feels the same way about me although he hasn't said it in so many words. Should I feel guilty? Can this be love?

MIXED EMOTIONS

DEAR MIXED: Yes, it can be love. It could also be a desperate desire to replace Jim and escape from depression. Don't rush into anything, and don't make any decisions or announcements until you are sure of your feelings. You need not feel guilt or shame for honest emotions. Good luck and God bless.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter was married for only five weeks last year. The marriage was annulled because her husband

LARGER THAN HOUSE VERSION— Bill To Create Big Thicket Preserve Gains Senate Okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved a bill creating a national preserve in Texas' Big Thicket region, moving to protect approximately 100,000 acres of unique vegetation and wildlife from development.

The bill, approved by voice vote Thursday, includes approximately 15,000 acres more than a House version passed in December. The Big Thicket National Preserve, as designated by the Senate, would encompass the Big Sandy-Village Creek Unit in Hardin County.

The Senate bill deletes a section that would give the secretary of the Interior certain rights to seize property for the park.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., praised the provision in the Senate bill protecting landowners and homesites.

Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., chairman of the Parks and Recreation subcommittee, said he didn't see any problem in protecting year-round homesites.

Bible predicted that differences between the House and Senate versions could be resolved without any great problems and said he hoped to send the bill to the White House for President Nixon's signature "very, very soon."

Each version costs $63,813,000.

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, said efforts have been made for 30 years to protect the Big Thicket area in East Texas.

The Senate first approved a Big Thicket plan in 1970. With the House action last December and current Senate approval, the matter has come its closest to final passage.

Bentsen urged approval of the bill, saying that the wildlife and vegetation of the Big Thicket "stand to be lost forever unless we act to save them."

Tower argued that the Big Sandy Creek area should be included.

"One of the most important ecological systems, which is an integral part of the Big Thicket, would be deleted if acreage in this area was not included," he said.

Crossroads Of Forests

He noted that the area contained a collection of vegetation not found elsewhere.

"Because the thicket is located at the crossroads of the forests of the South and East and the vegetation of the West, and contains elements of all these areas, the Big Thicket is unique not only to Texas but to United States, Tower said.

"Its wet climate and rich soil have created a beautiful and ecologically unique combination of plants and wildlife which must be preserved for future generations."

The category of "national preserve" is a new concept to protect areas which are unique due to their wildlife and vegetation and are threatened by encroaching developments.

California Ghost Town Auctions For $300,000

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The town of Idria, Calif., population 2, complete with 48 bungalows, a general store, church and an abandoned mercury mine, fetched $300,000 at a public auction.

Claire Seipp, a Los Angeles realtor, outbid about two dozen other prospective customers in the auction held in a motel in San Francisco Thursday by Milton J. Wershow Co. of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Seipp said she had never been to Idria and was merely acting as an agent for clients who didn't want their names revealed.

"The principal interest in the property is for mining reasons," she said.

The plush hotel meeting room beside a bustling freeway provided an ironic setting for disposal of 3,600 acres of remote central California mountain land, including the ghost town and idle quicksilver mine.

But the New Idria Quick-silver Mine had seen better days. Founded in 1952, the mine, located 165 miles south of San Francisco in San Benito County, was for many years one of the 10 largest and richest mercury mines in the world.

But the price of mercury fell disastrously in the late 1960's. The low price and ecologists' cries that the mine was causing dangerous mercury pollution, led the owners, New Idria Mining and Chemical Co., to shut it down permanently in May 1972.

The 150 families living in Idria at the time, mainly Basques and Mexican Americans, moved elsewhere last fall, leaving behind the blacktail deer and quail that inhabit the area.

Newspaper Says Agnew Has Paid

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Spiro T. Agnew has paid his back taxes to the Internal Revenue Service, a Baltimore newspaper said today.

The Baltimore Sun, quoting sources familiar with the case, said Agnew has complied fully with IRS demands, including payment of penalties and interest.

The newspaper said it could not be determined how much Agnew paid.

The IRS has refused to comment since Agnew's resignation as vice president and plea of no contest to a tax evasion charge last Oct. 10.

Police Assist Troubled Youth

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A young man, ordered by his mother to dispose of the marijuana plants growing about the house, was trying to decide what to do with them when he got help.

He also got arrested. Two police officers were somewhat startled Thursday when they encountered on routine patrol a small car with the plants hanging out the window.

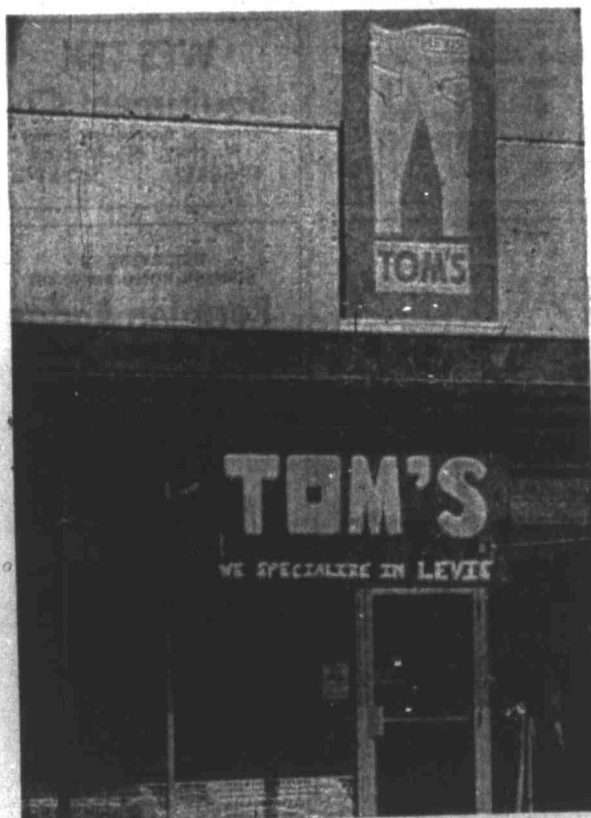

The driver explained his plight and they quickly solved his problem—confiscating the plants and jailing him in lieu of $5,000 bond on a felony charge of possession of marijuana.

President Tito Elected For Life

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — The Yugoslav Communist party Congress has unanimously named President Tito the party's president for life.

The action was taken Thursday, and resolutions also were adopted to ensure political continuity in case of his death. Two weeks ago, the 62-year-old leader was re-elected for life as head of state.

Would you like to be able to go to a retreat like this when you are worried—a place where you could be alone with your thoughts—a place where you could untangle your problems?

If you would, then you are like most people. Everyone needs a retreat, at moments. And everyone has one! It isn't a mountain cabin or a seaside cottage—but it is a place far better suited to prayer and contemplation, a place to sort out old errors and make new resolutions. It is your church.

Let your church be your sanctuary. Go to it when you are troubled. You will find within its walls your moment of peace, and you will walk out into the street again for better able to make the most of your life.

The state convocation will begin here Wednesday night.

Free Will Baptist Convention Set Here

Midland's Westside Free Will Baptist Church will be host to several hundred visitors late next week during an annual meeting of the Texas State Association of Free Will Baptists.

The convocation will begin Wednesday and continue through Friday, June 7, said the Rev. Glen Hood, host pastor.

Various denominational leaders from Nashville, Tenn., will be in attendance, Mr. Hood said, along with state leaders.

Theme for the meeting will be "Reaching Forth."

Among speakers at the meeting will be the Rev. Don Ellis of College Station, the Rev. Herbert Richards of Corpus Christi and the Rev. Thomas Marberry of Bryan. Also to be in attendance is Jim Williams of Bryan, executive secretary of the state association.

A state youth conference will be the opening event of an annual meeting. The Wingers, a gospel singing family group from Bryan, will present special music at the gathering. The Rev. Thurman Murphy, pastor of Odessa's First Free Will Baptist Church, will be the preacher. Highlights of the youth gathering will be the presentation of student scholarships to one of the Bible colleges owned and operated by Free Will Baptists.

Thursday morning, state competition will begin in various Church Training Service contests, with church youths who were winners in a recent district competition vying for state honors in such activities as Bible Bowl, Bible Tie-Tac-Toe, Sword Drill, declamation events. Learners for Christ, and music and art events. Winners in the state contest will go on to national competition to take place during the denomination's national youth conference at Wichita, Kan., in mid-July.

All events of next week's state meeting will be open to the public, Mr. Hood said. Westside Free Will Baptist Church is at 4031 W. Illinois St.

American Lutherans Set United Mission Appeal

AUSTIN — Sunday is designated as United Mission Appeal Sunday in the Southern District of the American Lutheran Church (ALC).

Pastors of the districts 260 congregations, including Midland Lutheran Church, 2705 W. Michigan St., are being asked to deliver special sermons on mission outreach. Dr. Vernon A. Mohr of Austin, bishop of the Southern District, recently announced this special emphasis as one of the initial informational efforts of the United Mission Appeal (UMA) which is a year-long program to acquaint all ALC members throughout the U.S. with the church's mission outreach. The financial goal of the commitment plan, to be conducted in early 1975, has been established at $25 million. Funds raised will be used for missions in this country as well as in the 16 overseas areas where the ALC is serving.

Pastor M. David Fetter Sr., of Grace Lutheran Church, San Antonio, has been named district director for the UMA. Lay chairman of UMA in the district is Abbe Strunk, also of San Antonio's Grace Lutheran Church. Other members of a district directing committee include Dr. Vernon A. Mohr, Pastors Ed. A. Heye and Arthur Rode, all of Austin; Pastor Edmund Steinbrink, Jr., San Antonio; Pastor Daniel Schorlemer of Seguin; Col. H. J. Rockstroh, San Antonio, and Mrs. Roy Dahl of Midland.

The Southern District of ALC includes congregations in Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas and New Mexico.

The march will conclude at Hogan Park with a dinner prepaid for all the marchers.

A 73-year-old woman, anxious for the march to get under way, has challenged all comers, confident that she can keep pace with the best of them.

David Herman, pastor of Midland Lutheran Church.

For younger children, the 10 day church school is designed to help each child see himself as someone special, created and cared for by God, personally redeemed by Jesus Christ and part of the family of God, explained Pastor Herman. All class activities will be correlated to stress the "God's People Today" theme.

A closing program and potluck supper is scheduled for the evening of June 14 for the children, their parents and members of the congregation.

Mrs. Dale Stice and Mrs. Marvin Fiebeck will be the coordinators of the vacation church school, which will be open to all children of the community.

Faith Temple Church of God in Christ will present its Youth Deliverance Choir in a television special which will be seen from 4 to 4:30 p.m. Sunday over KMD-TV, Channel 2.

The Rev. W. C. Kenan, pastor, said the tv special also will include testimonies. He and his congregation are inviting the public to view the presentation.

Town Throws Out Giant Electric Utility

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP) — Corp. facility hailed the vote as a victory for consumers in the fight against rising utility bills. "The consumer, the little guy that has to pay a power bill every month, had an opportunity to lower his own cost of living by voting," said John Dumas, spokesman for the town and village boards. He estimated that the switch "will pay off in a 20 per cent rate reduction at takeover."

The boards now have the authority to condemn Niagara Mohawk transmission facilities and take them over through a $4.5 million bond issue. Niagara Mohawk, which serves 1.3 million customers in upstate New York, waged a month-long advertising campaign against the takeover.

"We have been here 74 years and we feel we are the experts in the electric utility business," said a Niagara Mohawk spokesman. The utility argued that the takeover's true cost would be about $8.3 million, almost double what the town estimated.

The issue of whether the town can go into the electric utility business "will have to be settled in the courts," said Donald P. Nims, Niagara Mohawk district manager.

20 County Judges Take Issue With Judiciary Article Foes

AUSTIN (AP) — Twenty county judges, including those from Bexar, Harris and Tarrant, say they do not agree with the lobby efforts of "a small, vocal group of county judges" opposing the judiciary article proposed for the new state constitution.

The judges held a news conference Thursday and said they represent more than five million Texans. Other counties represented at the joint news conference were Bee, Coke, Crockett, Galveston, Harrison, Jefferson, Limestone, Montague, Nueces, Orange, Panola, Rusk, Burleson, McLennan, Polk, El Paso and Reeves.

"Specifically, we endorse the circuit court concept as contained in the (Judiciary Committee) majority report and those sections pertaining to the establishment of circuit courts and the duties and functions of the county judges," they said.

Harrison County Judge Don Stokes and Rusk County Judge-elect James Porter held a news conference in the Capitol.

First Lady Flies Commercial Lines

WASHINGTON (AP) — First Lady Pat Nixon overruled the Secret Service and flew on a commercial airliner when she wanted to go shopping in New York.

Mrs. Nixon's press secretary, Helen Smith, said the President's wife flew commercial flights for the weekend shopping trip because she didn't want to risk criticism by using a military jet for such a non-sentimental mission.

Twelve to 15 rural county judges from West Texas have successfully lobbied against the committee report, which, even with weakening amendments, has twice been rejected by the convention.

The rural judges object to giving the legislature the power to strip them of their right to try contested cases and transfer that power to the new circuit courts.

Circuit court judges would have to be lawyers. Only 70 of Texas' 254 county judges are lawyers.

Both Stokes and Porter are lawyers. They said they would become circuit court judges if the article becomes law. Non-lawyer county judges would not have that option.

Fifteen of the 20 judges listed on the statement are lawyers, Stokes said.

Possible Key To Mystery Death Of Bride In Hands Of FBI Now

EWING TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — A possible key to the mystery death of Mrs. Patricia Albanowski Giesick, involving a weird combination of events in Texas, Louisiana and New Jersey, was in the hands of the FBI in Washington today.

Laboratory, Art Equipment Moved To UTPB Buildings

ODESSA — Equipment and supplies for laboratory science and art students are being moved into UTPB's Phase I buildings.

The laboratory wing of the $10.8-million facility will go into use for the first time Monday, when summer school students will attend the first classes there.

Registration for the first summer session is under way until 7 p.m. today in the South Campus Complex, where most lecture classes will meet during the initial 5½-week term.

Classes for the first term will continue through July 10. Registration for the second session will be July 9, with classes running from July 11 through Aug. 18. Most classes during the second segment of summer school will meet in the new facility.

The South Campus structure occupied by the Experimental Resources Center, the laboratory segment of the university, will be utilized as library processing area.

New quarters for the science laboratories are on the upper floor of the 120,000-square foot laboratory wing. The art studios are on the Mesa level.

The body of Mrs. Giesick was removed from its grave here Thursday just long enough to obtain a sample of her hair.

Then the body was buried again.

The hair was turned over to the FBI for comparison with hair found on one of two automobiles her husband rented in New Orleans during the honeymoon there.

Mrs. Giesick was killed by a hit-and-run driver in a lonely part of New Orleans while on her honeymoon with the Texas man.

Mercer County Prosecutor Wilbur Mathiesius said the body hair sample was given to a New Orleans detective, John Dillmann.

The hair, Mathiesius said, will be compared with that on a car rented under a false name by Mrs. Giesick's husband, Claudius James Giesick Jr., 26. She was his fourth wife.

Giesick reported his bride playfully ran across a road and was struck by a car without lights.

The first lead came when it was found that Giesick had rented two cars when the couple came to New Orleans for their honeymoon. They had been driving one the night of Mrs. Giesick's death; the hair was found on the bumper of the second.

Dillmann then traced Giesick to Dallas, where he found him living with his third wife, Katherine, from whom he allegedly had not been divorced.

Giesick was arrested on bigamy charges. He also was accused of passing bad checks.

Dillmann also found that a few days before the woman's death, Giesick had taken out two insurance policies on her life, one for $200,000 and the other for $100,000.

In New Orleans, Asst. Dist. Atty. Ralph Whalen said an Orleans Parish grand jury will resume hearing the results of Dillmann's investigation next Thursday after the FBI analysis of the hair samples is completed.

New Orleans police confirmed Thursday that a self-dedicated minister in Texas, Samuel C. Corey, 40, of Dallas also was in New Orleans on the weekend of the hit-and-run death.

Corey, who has told police he married the Giesicks last January, was freed on $3,500 bail after surrendering to Dallas authorities last Wednesday in connection with a morals charge. The former massage parlor operator was accused of promoting prostitution.

New Orleans police said Giesick gave Corey "on or before" the hair sample.

Floyds Attend Graduation Of Granddaughter Here

Mr. and Mrs. Claude W. Floyd Sr. of Shawnee, Okla., were guests in Midland this week to attend the graduation Thursday of their granddaughter, Kimberly Floyd of Midland High School.

Miss Floyd is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Frances Floyd of Midland and Bill Floyd, formerly of Midland and presently the head of the electronics division for Oasis Oil Co. Inc. of Libya.

the day Mrs. Giesick was killed" one of the two cars the bridegroom had rented under the false name.

Officers said Corey admitted being in New Orleans at that time, but claimed he was on business and did not visit the couple.

Corey also accompanied Giesick to Patricia's funeral here, identifying himself as the Rt. Rev. Sam C. Corey, a minister in the Society of Mary, a New Orleans police captain said.

Halliburton Serves Notice On Strikers

DUNCAN, Okla. (AP) — Halliburton Services company officials have served notice that striking union members who do not return to work by Monday will face dismissal.

The company issued the ultimatum Thursday after District Court Judge Will Willis granted the oil well cementing and serving firm a temporary restraining order against further picketing by members of United Auto Worker Local 1860.

Halliburton sought the court order after the fourth negotiating session broke down between the firm and union representatives.

The strike against the company has idled several hundred workers since May 5.

Officials said the deadlock occurred over union demands for an agency shop.

Union officials are expected to seek a hearing on the injunction.

Building Projects To Heighten Effect Of Tall City Skyline

Several projects under way here will heighten the effect of the Tall City's distinctive skyline.

The framework of Southwestern Bell's seven-story electronic switching center is already in place, with completion of the $17-million project expected in 1976. The building could become a full-fledged West Texas skyscraper—rivaling the Wilco Building—since the foundation was designed to support a 25-story tower in case expansion is needed in the future.

Although still just a big hole in the ground, the Midland Hilton will reach 14 stories by its completion in 1976. The 150-room luxury hotel will provide parking for 200 cars, a 700-person banquet room and a swimming pool and cabanas on the third floor.

The third high-rise building planned for the Tall City is the new Midland National Bank Building, to be constructed at Illinois and Marienfeld streets.

MNB and Gerald D. Hines Interests of Houston will construct the new facility, to include a 12-lane drive-in, bank offices, offices for tenants and parking. Construction will begin this fall and be completed in the fall of 1975.

Next Thursday, the bank will announce the starting date, size of the building and estimated cost of construction.

Though still not a skyscraper, the Midland County Courthouse stands a story taller than it did when $2 million worth of remodeling work was begun in March 1972.

A fifth floor was added to provide for expanded jail facilities, the interior was completely renovated and a distinctive exterior was constructed.

Midland County commissioners decided at their meeting Tuesday to begin moving county offices back into the courthouse at the end of next month.

In the interim, the county offices have been located in the Permian Building at Texas and Big Spring streets and in the old Convention Center in the 100 block of North Main Street.

Last month Federal agencies and the post office here moved into the new Federal Building and Post Office, located at Main, Front and Wall streets.

The three-story structure was begun in 1972. It provides facilities for the Postal Service's Regional Section Center here.

Several U.S. agencies and officials are housed in the Federal Building. They include: soil conservation service, field office of the food and nutrition service, Midland office of Rep. George Mahon, Navy recruiter, defense investigative service, General Services Administration, social security, wage and hour, selective service, Internal Revenue Service, federal credit union, district courtroom, district judge, bankruptcy judge, magistrate, magistrate and bankruptcy judge's hearing room, FBI, U.S. attorney, U.S. marshal, U.S. probation officer and Drug Enforcement Agency field office.

The Texas Department of Public Safety next month will move into its new $1-million regional headquarters building.

The building, located in the Midland Industrial Park at Holiday Hill Road and IS 20, will also double as an emergency center in times of disaster. The structure is nearly twice as large as the current headquarters on North Big Spring Street.

The Midland Police Department last month completed a two-story, $250,000 addition to the Public Safety Building. The expansion covered most of the parking lot on the east end of the building and provides additional space for offices and the municipal court.

Citizens Savings and Loan expects to begin construction within 30 to 60 days on its new main offices, to be located at the corner of Andrews Highway and Whitney Street. Completion of the 9,000-square-foot facility is set for the first quarter of 1975.

Citizens is currently constructing a branch office in Oakridge Square at Wadley and Garfield streets. Completion is expected by Oct. 1.

The Cerebral Palsy Center plans to be in its new building, at 802 Ventura St., by June 10. The 5,800-square-foot structure was begun last November and will cost approximately $187,000.

The long-awaited Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, Library and Hall of Fame is taking shape rapidly, with completion expected in early 1975. The 32,000-square-foot facility is being constructed on IS 20 in South Midland at a cost of $1.5 million.

Located on a 41-acre site, the complex will include exhibit wings, the Hall of Fame, administrative and other offices. The second and third phases are planned eventually.

The museum will include educational and scientific displays. The Hall of Fame will honor persons and firms who have made outstanding contributions to the development of the petroleum industry.

The Midland Central YMCA last month finished a $200,000 expansion project, in which the men's health club was enlarged and a woman's health club was constructed.

At Midland Industrial Park, three additional projects are under way. Engineer Concrete Placer is in the process of expanding its plant.

Scottish Inns Motel will open next month and Western Pollution Control Inc. is constructing three buildings to house its main offices and manufacturing and laboratory facilities for three of its subsidiaries.

Motel 6, at Midkiff Road and West Wall Street, will have its official opening next week. Construction is under way on Lexington Inn motel and apartments on Midkiff Road just south of KCRS Radio Station.

Leamco Bearing broke ground last month at the Airport 20 property just west of Midland Regional Air Terminal for a 21,000-square-foot plant. The Spanish-decor facility will eventually house 80 employees.

Brown Experienced Manager

By GEORGE MASSEY
City Manager James W. Brown serves Midland with an administrative expertise gained through both educational and professional business experience.

Since he was first hired by the city as assistant city manager in 1963 and later promoted to city manager by the city council in 1964, Brown has gained invaluable knowledge in what he terms, "my primary duty," that being the effort of compiling a workable city budget.

According to Brown, it is also his job to keep a constant eye on the proper carrying out of the budget throughout the fiscal year, and to advise the city council on any questions concerning the budget.

Brown said the compiling of a workable budget is an enormous task, and that Assistant City Manager Fred Poe plays a most integral role in the difficult task of building the budget.

Another of Brown's jobs concerns his ability to act as mediator to the public on questions and information anyone appearing at the city council meeting might wish to have explained in detail. Brown pointed out that he made it a common practice to bring in various department heads from city hall to detail any effort toward proper decision-making in their particular fields.

He said, "these men are experts in their individual fields and it is to the council's advantage if I allow them (department heads) to give briefs and information concerning their areas of work."

Brown and Poe also draw up the agenda for each city council meeting, and brief the council before each meeting in all areas covered in the agenda to help expedite the meetings.

The city manager's office is presently working to complete the 1974 fiscal budget with a target date somewhere between June 25 and July 12 for presentation of the finished product.

Although City Manager Brown is required by law to attend all city council meetings, his position does not carry a vote for use.

in the decision-making process of the council.

The 52-year-old Brown came to Midland from Flint, Mich., in 1964. He was a department manager for Sears and Roebuck at Flint, and

Chamber Midland's Information Center

Newcomers to Midland can get a helping hand in finding what the city has to offer them in the way of services and entertainment by contacting the Midland Chamber of Commerce at 211 N. Colorado St.

According to H. A. Tuck Jr., chamber public relations director, new residents can pick up free copies of the city map, directory of community services and special events calendar at the chamber office.

Tuck also noted that information relating to various recreational spots throughout the state is available at the chamber. City directories on most cities are also available for use.

entered the oil business when he arrived in Midland. Brown served as vice president of the Westlund Drilling Co. from 1964 to 1962.

He served with the U.S. Air Force during World War II, and is a graduate of the University of Michigan with the B.B.A. and M.B.A. degrees.

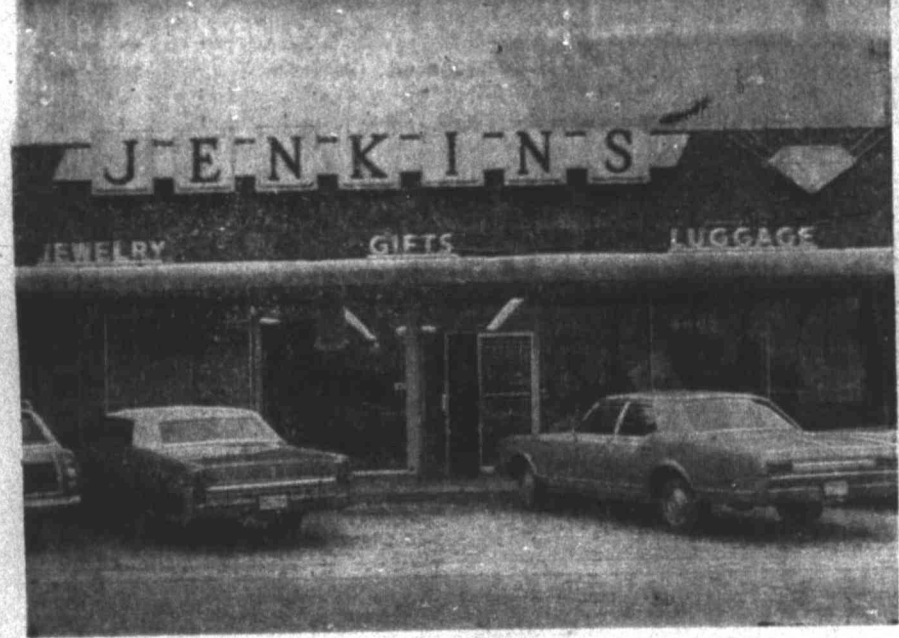

Brown is a member of the Rotary Club, director of the Texas City Managers Association and attends the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity, where he is a senior layman and lay reader.

Brown and his wife Dorothy, a government teacher at Midland High School, have three sons, Jim Jr., Bob and Bill.

SPCA TRIES TO EASE SUFFERING—

630 Million Dogs, Cats Die Unwanted In U.S. Every Year

Not all animals are pets with loving owners who worry if Fido is getting the right kind of dog food.

Every year in the United States, 700 million dogs and cats are born, three and half times the nation's population.

But only one out of every 10 animals finds a home; the other 90 per cent are destined to die unwanted and unloved by either disease, starvation or being run down by a passing motorist who often doesn't even notice.

It's the job of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals that these animals receive humane treatment—a difficult responsibility because not every animal can be saved. "We're not here to save lives but to prevent suffering," said Midland SPCA President Rodney Hale.

"We're working towards animal control in the most humane way possible."

The SPCA took over the Midland animal shelter last Oct. 1 from the city. Hale said the society does not act as dog catchers, but as "animal rescuers." Still the public much of the time views his group as dog catchers.

The job of putting an animal to sleep is not a pleasant one and due to the overpopulation of animals and a lack of space at the shelter it is a unavoidable fact of life for the SPCA.

"We don't like to put an animal to sleep," Hale said. "But we're forced to do it because of an overabundance of cats and dogs which was caused by careless and indiscriminate breeding."

Since taking over the shelter, Hale's group has averaged 500 animals a month, 60 per cent of which were picked up as strays the other 40 per cent of which were brought to the shelter by citizens.

The shelter can hold 30 dogs and 12 cats but the unwanted animal business has been booming in Midland and the SPCA can not handle the overflow.

"Only one out of the 50 dogs we find has a city tag. A responsible owner should be aware of the fact there is a $3 dog license tag required by the city. We need that tag to identify the owners."

The shelter is required to keep an animal for three days before Hale is forced to make the decision to put the animal in the adoptable section or to put it to sleep.

Hale said he has kept animals at the shelter, 1601 Orchard Lane, up to two months hoping it will be adopted. Once the SPCA was taking care of 91 dogs in hopes they could find a new owner.

When an animal is adopted out, there is a $20 charge, $15 of which goes for spaying. The animal is given a distemper shot and owners are asked to get their new pet vaccinated.

The animal adoption agency is not involved solely with just dogs and cats. The SPCA has taken in such animals as eagles, hawks, owls, coyotes, foxes, skunks, porcupines, snakes, lizards, turtles, guinea pigs, hamsters, bats, ground squirrels, monkeys, horses and goats.

The SPCA also handles bite cases. Hale said the organization offers advice to the person bitten and handles the proper quarantine of the animal.

The Animal Shelter operation is a low-budget one. Monthly expenses are $2,200, $1,875 from the city and the rest from donations, admission fees and adoption charges. Monies from city dog tags are supposed to aid the SPCA but Hale said only three of every 50 owners buy tags.

The four-man, one-woman shelter staff operates seven days a week. On weekdays, the shelter is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.; from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday, and from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Sundays. An emergency calling service operates after 6 p.m.

Hale hopes to have summer volunteers. He said those interested can call the shelter at 684-7582 and give the hours and days they can work. The SPCA handles all the minor maintenance jobs "which includes a great deal of activity," said Hale.

Midland Home For Several Reserve Units

Midland is the home of reserve units for the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Army National Guard.

All units currently have vacancies for enlisted men and many can accept new officers.

Members of the Marine Reserve Fourth Motor Transport Battalion Headquarters and Service Company meet monthly at the Armed Forces Reserve Center at Midland Regional Air Terminal.

The unit consists of 61 officers and enlisted men.

The Navy Officers Reserve School here sponsors classes for officers in all branches of the military. The school meets at 7 p.m. each Wednesday in the Teachers lounge of San Jacinto Junior High School.

The Army Reserve has three major units in Midland.

The Midland-Odessa Instructional Center of the 4166th Army Reserve School teaches classes in most Army occupational specialties.

The unit meets each Tuesday night in the Armed Forces Reserve Center at Terminal. Classes for the current school year concluded Tuesday and will resume in September.

The 4266th Logistic Command meets each Monday at Terminal. The unit has about 13 members.

The largest Army Reserve unit here is the Supply Platoon of the 974th Supply Co. The 66 men in the unit meet monthly at the Reserve Center. There are several vacancies for enlisted men in the unit.

Midland also has an active Reserve Officers Association Chapter. The group meets monthly, from September through May, at the Sheraton Inn-Midland, 401 W. Missouri St. Meetings normally are held at noon the second Monday of the month. Officers of all branches of the military and the U.S. Public Health Service are eligible to join.

NEW STRUCTURE OCCUPIED — The Postal Service and various federal agencies recently finished moving into the new Federal Building and Post Office.

Floyd Brought Polo To Midland

Jay Floyd is generally credited with giving Midland its start in polo, a sport that alternately flourished and languished in the Tall City, but is currently enjoying one of its most prosperous periods.

The Floyd family raised thoroughbreds on a ranch south of Midland in the 1900s. When Jay was a boy, polo players from the east frequently came through West Texas buying polo ponies.

An excellent horseman, Jay had a hand in training many of the horses his dad sold. While getting these ponies accustomed to the mallet and ball, his interest in the sport was aroused.

Times really haven't changed much. Polo players still come to Midland from north and east, only now it's to spend their winters here so they can pursue the sport through the cold months.

And young boys still put the polo ponies through their paces and learn by so doing. In fact, players that's how Midland Lee High School happened to bring back a National Interscholastic Polo championship from California this spring. The players on the team all won their spurs by caring for and training ponies belonging to others.

Jay played at Texas A&M and after college set up Midland's first polo grounds, a dry lakebed on the Floyd Ranch. By the mid-1930s, Midland was a principal source of polo ponies.

The arrival of Carlton Beal Sr., a nationally ranked player, from Los Angeles in the mid-1950s, revived polo interest.

The Beals, Carlton, Carty and Barry along with Toby Hilliard and Jimmy Stimmel founded the Midland-Lamesa Polo Club.

They played at the fairgrounds east of the Tall City until 1956. In 1964, the present Midland Polo Club facility north of the city was established.

Polo matches take place Sunday on a regular basis between local and visiting teams and

'Sky's The Limit' At Zoo

By BRUCE CAMPBELL

The promotional slogan, "The Sky's The Limit in Midland, Texas," could fit the Cole Park Zoo, said curator Robert Cooper.

"The Midland Zoo is a good roadside zoo which means the zoo can't go anywhere but up," said Cooper who took over the top job March 1 from a similar position in El Paso. "If Midland wants a good zoo they can build anything they want to."

Cooper said the facility is lacking in two out of three purposes of a zoo — education and conservation, and is under-financed. He added the zoo is meeting its recreational responsibilities.

"We need signs for information about the animals," he said. "It would also help if we had more natural exhibits rather than the small cages we have for them now."

"As far as conservation is concerned we're just getting under way with the birth of the baby tigers, an endangered species, but we still have a long way to go," he added.

The zoo currently has a budget of $36,000 but Cooper said to build a "nice, impressive" zoo in Midland the department needs $100,000.

He noted the zoo hasn't changed a great deal since its opening exhibit and then build a reptile house.

There are some rare animals among the 80 to 90 residents of the zoo.

The purchase of the bengal tigers was the first major financial transaction at the zoo. Recently two bengal tigers were born and were vaccinated at the zoo May 24.

The zoo curator said the bengal tiger is now found only in isolated areas, ranging from Siberia, Southeast Asia, into India and on to Indonesia.

Another animal on the endangered species list at the zoo is the ocelot, a spotted cat whose natural habitat ranges from Mexico to South America.

Golden eagles also reside at the zoo.

He said he would like to have more exotic animals at Cole Park but the zoo couldn't afford the price tag for animals such as elephants, polar bears, leopards and camels.

Cooper said the bengal tigers cost the zoo $5,000. Cooper hopes to sell the baby tigers for $1,500 to $2,000 each.

He wants to develop a master plan for a new zoo, a trend which many cities are following, but he admits it's an expensive venture.

Fun-Filled Summer Scheduled By P&R

Midland has allocated a generous 1974 summer budget of $72,000 to the Parks and Recreation Department to help youth and adults enjoy the hot months of the year, according to Dave Maddox, superintendent of recreation.

Maddox noted that 120 additional summer employees have been combined into the regular 40-man department to expedite the fun-filled summer programs. And according to Maddox, "over 95 per cent of the additional employees are Midland students, with the other five per cent being teachers who handle managerial positions at the recreational facilities."

Anyone wishing to get extensive information concerning any of the various programs available during the summer can go by the Parks office at 300 Baldwin St. or telephone between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

According to the 1974 summer schedule, all instructional programs are conducted in sessions consisting of 10 one-hour lessons, Monday through Friday for two weeks. The sessions are scheduled between June 3 and July 26. Swimming, tennis and baton lessons will highlight the instructional program, with lessons being taught from the beginner to the advanced range.

Other summer programs will include the Tall City Adult Choir, Summer Symphony Concerts to be held at Haley Barron Park on June 14 and Wadley Barron Park on June 18, 25 and July 4. The Senior Citizens Center will be open throughout the summer from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the First Christian Church, 1301 W. Louisiana St.

There will be a novice swim meet held at the Alamo pool Aug. 3, a West Texas invitational swimming and diving meet at the Alamo pool July 12-14. And, Hogan Park will host the American Softball Association state slow pitch softball tournament August 9-11. The 1974 summer schedule also includes a canoeing course to be conducted at Hogan pool July 15-19 and a supervised playground program for Midland's young children.

The city has five swimming pools that will be open for public use. These pools may also be rented for private parties.

There are 18 parks available for public use including Cole park, four miles east on the Cloverdale Road; Dennis The Menace Park at 301 Garfield; and Hogan Park at Wadley Street east of Lamesa Road. These parks contain lighted picnic table areas, individual barbecue grills, and all parks contain children's play equipment. It should be noted that all city parks are closed from midnight until 6 a.m. by city ordinance.

In addition to the parks, Midland will have 21 Little League teams, five Sophomore teams and one High-Junior baseball team playing this summer.

There is one lighted softball field for public use, and of course the Midland Cubs professional baseball team will continue to play at Municipal Stadium throughout the summer.

Midland College Expects Move-In By Spring Semester

Midland College, not even a year old as an independent school, expects to occupy its first four buildings by the beginning of the spring semester next year.

Groundbreaking for the $2.9 million Phase 1 buildings was last October. Included in Phase 1 are the administration building, science and faculty building, learning resource center (library) and maintenance building.

Phase 2 construction will begin very soon, according to college officials. Phase 2 facilities include the technical-vocational building, the physical education building and the student union.

Phase 2 construction costs will be approximately $3.4 million.

Youth Centers Many Things To Midland, Lee Students

The Midland and Lee Youth Centers represent many things to students at Midland and Lee high schools.

They are a place to grab a sandwich, meet a friend, go to a dance, hold a meeting — even shoot a game of pool.

Henry Schreiner, Midland Youth Center director, said the centers strive to provide a year-round place for students to simply have a good time.

A complete snack bar is open daily during the school year so that youth center members can have a place to eat outside the school cafeterias. The centers regularly sponsor dances for members and are open nightly — except Sunday — so the members can have a place to just get away from it all.

Both youth centers are open for lunch, after school and from 7 to 9 p.m. on school nights, except Sunday. On nonschool nights they are open until 10 p.m. and 11 p.m. on Saturdays.

During the summer youth center hours will be from 2-5 p.m. daily, and 7-10 p.m. Monday through Friday. They will continue to remain open until 11 p.m. Saturdays.

Each youth center will close for one month during the summer to allow staff members to take vacations. The Lee Youth Center will close during July and the Midland Youth Center will close during June.

Before any student can use youth center facilities he must purchase a membership, which costs $5 per year. Memberships can be purchased at any time.

Each youth center has a Junior Council and 100 Club which advise the directors on policies of the centers and help coordinate activities of the centers.

Overall direction for the centers is provided by the Midland-Lee Youth Centers Inc. board composed of 18 parents of high school students.

The zoo lacks a reptile cage which Cooper feels could be a big addition to the Cole Park grounds.

"In most zoos the reptile house is the second most popular item," Cooper said. "People like to go into a zoo and be terrorized. Last summer we had a rattlesnake exhibit here and it was quite popular."

He said with more money he would first improve the monkey house.

Cooper said the bengal tigers cost the zoo $5,000. Cooper hopes to sell the baby tigers for $1,500 to $2,000 each.

He wants to develop a master plan for a new zoo, a trend which many cities are following, but he admits it's an expensive venture.

J.A. Provides Vital Experience To Midland Youths

Midland high school students get a chance to see the operation of free enterprise from the inside through the Junior Achievement program here.

Divided into a number of companies, the youths organize the corporations, issue stock and manufacture and market products.

Mike McIver, J.A. executive director, said each company is sponsored by a Midland business, which provides adult leadership.

Each company elects its own officers and may sell from 50 to 150 shares in the firm at $1 a share, with the money used to finance the project. Each member of the company must buy at least one share.

The company members are paid small salaries out of the profits and shareholders receive dividends.

Business advisers give helpful hints, but all work is done by the students. They meet one night a week from 7-9 p.m. at the J.A. offices, 2311 Elizabeth St.

McIver said the program teaches the students an appreciation of business, as well as encouraging responsibility and the ability to get along with people.

Junior Achievement began in New York City in 1919 and today has 200,000 members in all 50 states and 10 foreign countries.

J.A. students are eligible to participate in national competition with awards ranging from gifts to scholarships of as much as $5,000.

Dr. James Mailey

Dr. Mailey Wants To Challenge Each Student In School District

Challenging each student is the goal of Midland Independent School District Supt. Dr. James H. Mailey.

"I think each child needs to be challenged in keeping with his own ability," he said. "I hope we are providing quite a diverse educational program so that we can take into account the diversity of youngsters."

"The real test of our school system will be the extent we can inspire a child to want to learn."

Midlanders always have supported their schools, allowing school officials to maintain a high quality of education, Mailey said. "And they have been willing to pay for it."

The people also have always maintained a strong board of trustees, he added, a board which is not afraid to make decisions and give direction to the school system.

Mailey has been school superintendent here since 1968. Prior to that time he was chairman of the educational administration department at the University of Southern Mississippi, assistant superintendent of schools here and professor of education at Southern Methodist University.

Midland school officials attempt to provide a balanced program with academic and vocational programs, sports and cocurricular activities, Mailey continued.

"We do have a lot of opportunity for youngsters to excel," he said. "We do not emphasize one area at the expense of another."

Football Fortunes In Tall City Improve Under Acree, Reddell

Football has taken an upswing since Jim Acree and John Reddell came to the Tall City to guide the Midland Lee Rebels and Midland Bulldogs.

Acree begins his fifth season at the helm of the Rebels while Reddell starts his third year when the 1974 schoolboy football season opens in September.

Acree is the dean of coaches in District 5-4A and is looking forward to a banner year in '74 while Reddell's Purple Pack can look back on the 1973 season and savor the big 21-8 victory over Odessa Permian's Panthers and look to cause some ripples again in tough 5-4A this fall.

Since coming to MHS, Reddell has beaten every team in the loop at least once in what is described as the Little Southwest Conference by the coaches and news media across the Lone Star state.

Reddell and Acree are graduates of Oklahoma University where they played football for the Sooners. Acree came to Lee after an assistant job at Texas Tech while Reddell came from Arlington where he had brought the Colts to the winner's circle after being down for several years. Reddell also was a catcher on the sooner baseball team that won the NCAA championship.

Acree's 1973 Corsicana Tiger team won the Class AAA state championship over San Juan Pharr Alamo, 7-0, while Reddell's Colts met Odessa Permian in the regional finals in 1970 and in 1971, lost to Wichita Falls, eventual state champion, 28-24, in the quarterfinals.

Midland wound up 6-3-1 last year and capped the season with a big 46-27 victory over Lee in a wild finale in Memorial Stadium. The Pack also held a resounding 53-13 victory over Ysleta Eastwood, District 2-4A champion along with its win over Permian which saw a 20-game winning streak end with the loss. The Panthers went on to win the district with six straight loop wins after the loss to the Bulldogs.

Lee had a 3-7 mark last year, but gave San Angelo fits before bowing, 16-14, in the rain and lost to Permian, 14-6 with Lance Posey returning a kickoff 100 yards for a Rebel TD.

The Rebels had a great season under Acree in 1972 with an 8-2 mark, losing to Abilene Cooper, 7-3 and to Permian, 14-13 as the Panthers went on to win the Class AAAA state championship, going undefeated in 14 games. In that controversial 14-13 loss to Permian, the Rebels scored the two-point conversion when Pat Lyons, now at LSU, rolled out and dove over the goal line, but an offside penalty nullified the play and cost Lee a playoff berth.

Both Lee and Midland wound up spring football drills two weeks ago with enthusiasm. The Whites defeated the Purples, 13-12 to wrap up Midland's drills and the Bulldogs showed plenty of potential with the lack of size the only big drawback while in the final Lee spring game, the Whites took a 29-14 victory over the Maroon squad.

The Rebels and Bulldogs look to be competitive this fall again with Lee having more depth than in the past while Midland looks solid in its starting eleven, but lacks depth at key positions.

The 1974 season opens, Sept. 6 when Lee entertains Lubbock High in Memorial Stadium and Midland takes the long journey to Amarillo to take on the Tascosa Rebels, which it beat, 22-21, in a real thriller last season.

Midland Cubs' Playing Surface Envy Of Majors

The Texas Rangers and Houston Astros represent Texas in the major leagues, but neither one of them has a playing surface that can compare with the Cubs Stadium field where the Midland Cubs play their Texas League baseball games.

One umpire reporting to the Texas League last year after working the well-manicured diamonds of Florida where the major league clubs trained, asked Cub General Manager John Cox, "How can a Double-A club afford artificial turf?"

That gives you an idea of how smooth the surface is.

However, you should have seen it four summers ago, before the renovation job. The field had lain fallow for 13 seasons since the departure of professional baseball from the West Texas Scene.

Then the Chicago Cubs came to town and Midland in effect had a new baseball stadium, the Cubs signing a five-year pact to field a team, if the city would provide a diamond suitable to Texas League standards. The Chamber of Commerce, Chamber Sports Committee and City Parks and Recreation Department did the rest.

The city did even better than that. The $75,000 mercury-vapor lighting system makes Cubs Stadium one of the best illuminated parks in minor league baseball.

Although this is only the third year of pro ball, major league lineups are liberally sprinkled with Texas League graduates of the last two years.

Midland, alone, has placed five players on the Chicago Cub roster—pitcher Bob Burris, catcher Tom Landstedt, infielder Matt Alexander and outfielders Chris Ward and Jim Tyrone.

Walt Dixon, with a baseball background of 34 years, is the manager of this year's Cubs while Cox is back as general manager for the second year.

By D'EVA LUTHRINGER
A ready smile on his face, a firm handshake and a friendly "Howdy, Brother"—that's Big Ed Darnell, sheriff of Midland County.

He became sheriff here in 1941 and doesn't want to say yet whether he'll run for office again in two years to round off his career with an even 40 years.

When asked if he plans to run again for the highest law enforcement post in the county, for a position he has held longer than any sheriff in the state, he just grins and says, "Let's go with the sheriff to serve papers or whatever he had to do. "Even when I played with the other children, I'd always be the sheriff."

But Darnell didn't get his wish right away. When he left home in 1919, he lived with a retired doctor at Sweetwater and worked for an oil mill.

Later, he worked at a bakery at Lorraine and, in 1922, moved to Midland.

He ran a bread truck here for 11 years and opened Big Ed's Sandwich Shop on Wall Street in 1933, keeping it until 1940.

The sandwich shop was near the present site of the Wilco Building and Darnell remembers that Ralph Lowe, the late wealthy oilman, ran a one-pump service station across the street.

Big Ed made his first try at politics in 1940 when he ran against four other candidates for sheriff.

The incumbent, who had been in office for 18 years, did not run. The other candidates were the incumbent's ranch foreman, two of his deputies and a special officer for Humble Oil Co. (Exxon).

That year, Big Ed won in the run-off in the second primary. Although he's had as many as four Democrats running against him in the primaries since then, he's never been thrown into a run-off again and he's always beat his Republican opponents.

"I don't think there's a sheriff in Texas that has had better equipment than I have," he said. "And I buy the best food for my prisoners and feed them well."

There have been many changes in law enforcement since Big Ed stepped into the arena and most of them are good, he says.

"Departments are being upgraded and there is better communications now with the teletype hookups."

"Our business is growing every year. The more people there are, the more work there is. The paper work is tremendous."

He also works for the High Sky Girls Ranch and YMCA. He spent $900 for a refrigerator for High Sky and gave the YMCA a $500 kiln for ceramics.

Big Ed is a member of First Baptist Church, Lions Club and Elks Club. He is a 32nd degree Mason and a member of the Royal Order of Jesters in the El Paso Shriners organization.

He also is a member of the Scottish Rite Bodies.

He is a charter member of the YMCA here and has belonged to the chamber of commerce since 1927.

Darnell is a member of the Texas Sheriff's Association, serving as its president in 1949-50, and was named by that group as Outstanding Sheriff in Texas in 1958.

The sheriff and his wife have two daughters, Mrs. Dick (Tommie) Rowan of Midland and Mrs. Ray (Eddie Juan) Echols of Coahoma. They have four granddaughters, two grandsons and one great-grandson.

Fire Chief Melvin Little Says He Would Be 'Lost In Anything Else'

By D'EVA LUTHRINGER
"I like it. I'd be lost in anything else," Midland Fire Chief Melvin Little said in discussing the career to which he has devoted 38 years of his life.

As a fireman, "I've seen just about everything from floods to the kind of fires which wipe out lives and property."

"None of this is pleasant but it's a job someone has to do. And it gives me a great deal of satisfaction to know that I've helped someone."

"You know, it's bad when someone has a fire in his home but firemen can keep it from spreading, minimize the damage."

"That's what makes you feel good, knowing that it could have been worse if you hadn't been there to help."

Little was born at Scranton in Eastland County but moved to San Angelo in 1929 and was graduated from high school there.

He worked for the city for a while, but his goal was to get on the fire department.

That was quite a goal, too.

because during the '30s jobs were hard to find. Men who had them were keeping them, so there wasn't much turnover.

But his opportunity came in 1936 and he transferred into the San Angelo Fire Department, where he stayed for six years.

In 1942, Little moved to Midland and went to work as the assistant fire chief at the Midland Army Air Field.

He stayed in that position for five years, until the city took over the field in 1947.

"The city inherited me with the field" and he stayed on as head of the fire department there.

In 1952, the city combined the old air field fire department with its city department and Little was made chief of the consolidated department.

He's been chief ever since.

Firefighting is something that gets into a man's blood, Little said.

"It's not the hours," he mused, "because they're long. When I started, it was three days on duty and one day off. Now, the men work one day on and one day off and every now and then they get three days off."

"And it's not the pay, though that's much better now than when I started, to these many years ago."

"I don't know what it is. It's just a good job, a satisfying job."

"And I'd recommend it for any young man just starting out. There's no limit if a man applies himself. And I don't mean just in this department. The government and the plants need firemen for jobs all over the world."

Little doesn't just do what a fireman does, he talks about it too — every summer at Texas A&M University.

He's been teaching a one-week course there every year since 1954. About 1,700 firemen from across the United States and from Mexico attend the session.

It has grown so, over the years, that the university now puts on the course three times during the summer.

"We used to teach ladders and hoses and such. We didn't have fields to build fires in."

"But now, it's a different story. Thirty acres have been developed into a training center."

Although firemen were used as instructors to begin with, the teachers now are Railroad Commission employees and Little is the coordinator for his week's session.

"I'm the only fireman (on the staff) in the class," he said with a smile.

Little is proud of "his" men. He says they are well trained and are capable.

"When I leave here, I don't have to worry because I know the men can handle anything that comes up. They work as well whether I am here or not."

"So, I enjoy my job."

"I look forward to coming to work every day. A lot of people get up in the morning dreading having to go to the office. But, I don't; I'm always in a hurry to get down here."

Little and his wife, the former Ruth Ann Johnson of San Angelo, have four children: Mrs. Clovis (Marilyn) Fisher of Corpus Christi, Jim Little of San Angelo, Mrs. Clyde (Linda) Crocker of Houston and Dale Little of Houston.

Little's Hunting, Fishing

They also have eight grandchildren.

He likes hunting and fishing. He said he knows of a good little fishing hole on the Red River in New Mexico, "but I don't get there as often as I'd like to."

He likes to go deer hunting and does every time he has a chance to get his boys here to join — but said that isn't often enough, either.

He and his wife usually take their vacations in the mountains.

"We love to go camping," he said and then smiled as he added, "the kind of camping you do in a motel room with all the conveniences of home."

But Little's favorite pastime is putting in the workshop which occupies a large part of his garage.

Tears Things Apart

"I spend a lot of time out there. I do some woodwork, electrical work — whatever my wife or the neighbors need done."

"I like to tear things apart but I don't always get them back together," he grinned sheepishly.

"I'm curious about what makes things work — televisions, radios, cars, lawn mowers, just about anything."

Little is a member of Trinity Presbyterian Church and the Downtown Lions Club.

His professional affiliations include International Chiefs Association and its southwest division organization, State Firemen and Fire Marshals Association, Texas Fire Chiefs Association and National Fire Protection Association.

Exchange Club Recognizes Service

The Exchange Club of Midland organized in 1954, annually recognizes a Midlander for unselfish service to the community. At its 21st annual banquet earlier this year, the club honored Mrs. John J. Redfern as its Golden Deeds Award winner for 1974.

The club also holds an annual banquet, in which it honors Midland and Lee high students in each of five departments at each school. Outstanding students are chosen in the areas of English, language, mathematics, social studies and science.

Robert N. Watson is the 1974-75 president of the club.

'Mutt' Green Says Probation Not Magical Process

By D'EVA LUTHRINGER

"Most people think probation is a magic word. They think a child is a delinquent one day and because he was put on probation he should be an angel the next."

"But it doesn't work that way," Grover "Mutt" Green, Midland County's juvenile probation officer, said.

"It's a slow process. People don't change overnight."

"It takes us three or four months to get a new probationer to realize that we are here to help them. And it isn't until they realize that that their attitudes begin to change."

Green has been county juvenile probation officer here for 20 years and has seen many a child come through that office.

He said he has learned that with a little help and encouragement, most of the children will "straighten up" and never be in trouble again.

"They usually come in here from the court thinking that I'm here to spy on them and they are resentful."

"But I explain to them what probation is all about, try to find out what they want to do with their lives and let them do most of the talking. I don't threaten them. After three or four months I begin to get their confidence."

Green said he believes in the idea of probation and it upsets him that so many people think it is nothing but a slap on the wrist.

"People sometimes seem to think that the kids have gotten away with their crimes or misbehavior if they are put on probation. Some of the probationers feel that way at first, too."

"But it isn't that way at all. The probationers are given rules—conditions of probation—they must live by and the possibility of revocation of probation is always there if they continue to misbehave."

"There are always a few who do not belong on probation, who will not adjust and who will eventually wind up in a state school or, later, in prison."

"But the vast majority of the kids realize that they are lucky to have the second chance that probation allows them and they take advantage of it."

"A scrape with the law, the trauma of going to court—and being found to have committed what was alleged—these are usually enough to bring a kid to his senses."

Every effort is made to help the child, Green said. If he is not making the headway he thinks he should with the probationers, he sends them for

Mental Retardation Center or to Family Counseling or to a psychiatrist or gets help from the schools and families of the children.

Revocation of probation is a last resort measure, he said.

Green works under the state laws in the Family Code. A new Family Code went into effect last September and there are efforts being made to implement some of the provisions relating to juveniles, Green said.

One area Green objects to is the new limit on probation.

Until September, a child was put on probation from the time of the court order until his 21st

bation with as many one-year

extensions as the sentencing

court deems necessary, up to the probationer's 18th birthday.

Green feels that the legislature's reason for putting

right back where we started,

a limit on probations was sound but thinks a two-year provision would be better.

Under the "til 21" rule, a child may be on probation for 11 years for something like truancy whereas an adult could get just five years probation for murder, Green said, adding,

"That isn't fair."

A child's probation under the old law could be terminated before his 21st birthday but it meant all kinds of red tape.

Continuation Provisions

Although the legislature set one year for probation, it wrote into the law a provision for the extensions so that the probation could be continued for a child who is not adjusting.

This may seem satisfactory on the surface, Green said, but "imagine what happens when the court order until his 21st

that to provide one year probation with as many one-year

extensions as the sentencing

court deems necessary, up to the probationer's 18th birthday.

Green feels that the legislature's reason for putting

right back where we started,

We've got to start working with them all over again because they think they've been lied to and they lose confidence in us."

One provision Green likes in the new code is the separation of treatment for a child in need of supervision and one who is delinquent.

The "in need of supervision"

law relates to those children who have violated such laws

as compulsory school attendance

(truancy), minor in possession of alcoholic beverages, running away from home, not minding their parents.

The delinquency statute is reserved for children who commit higher crimes such as burglary, large thefts, robbery, murder.

The two "charges" run along the lines of adult punishments with those crimes which do not require jail or prison being in the "in need of supervision"

category and those which require detention in the delinquency category.

Children in the "in need of supervision" group are always put on probation if the court decides that action should be taken. Those declared as delinquent may be put on probation or sent to a state school or some other facility.

Before September, the court's only option was to declare a child delinquent and put him on probation or send him to a facility or let him go.

The new code also provided for voluntary probation, which means that the child is put on probation on recommendation of the probation office with approval of the court, but without a hearing.

Many probation offices have been doing this for years, but have no legal authority to do so.

Green said the Midland County Juvenile Probation Office rarely used the voluntary probation program until it became authorized by law last Sep-

The children who have been put on voluntary program since last fall have adjusted remarkably well, he said, and he likes the program.

Another good provision of the new code, Green said, is the one authorizing the sealing of a juvenile's record after he turns 18 and if he does not get into more trouble at that age.

This is not automatic, but the probationer may request the court to seal the record.

Texas laws have specified for a long time that juvenile records are not public unless made so by the court but somehow people could always get the information.

Under the new law, if a record is sealed it is the same as its being nonexistent and all matters relating to the juvenile's acts are gathered by the court and held secret.

Green tells a probationer about his right to have the record sealed when he discharges the child and there have been several records sealed since the law went into effect last fall.

While the probation officer feels that a juvenile's rights should be given him at all costs and that there is a difference in juvenile and adult offenders, he agrees that children should be certified and tried as adults

circumstances."

This is allowed for juveniles aged 15 or older.

But, he said, certification as an adult should be done only in serious matters, such as murder, armed robbery, serious bodily injury.

"Property can be replaced, but when a life is jeopardized,

it's time to take a hard look at certification."

Green was not born a probation officer—though it sometimes seems that he was, he said.

Native Of Kentucky

He was born in Trigg County,

Ky., and was reared at Colorado Springs, Colo.

He served in the U.S. Army

during World War II.

His pre-probation work in law enforcement, working 7½ years

South Pasadena, Calif., and then for a short time with the Midland Police Department

On March 1, 1954 he was appointed as the county's juvenile probation officer, a position which had been in existence only 1½ years at that time, and he has held the post ever since.

He attended college in California and has attended hundreds of seminars and workshops on juvenile probation matters. In 1967 he graduated from the University of Southern California's Delinquency Control

SW Museum's Horizons Always Being Expanded

Midland's Museum of the Southwest is an institution with ever-widening horizons.

Its two-pronged basic objective, entertainment and education, is constantly expanding through its expanding program of special exhibitions, special classes and special projects.

The museum complex now includes the Turner Memorial Gallery at 1705 W. Missouri St., the Lancaster House at 1706 W. Indiana St., and the Planetarium, located in Haley Park.

The Turner Gallery, housing the museum's permanent art and historical collections, is the nerve center of the Museum of the Southwest. Lancaster House is the location of the Lancaster Garden Center and is a frequent meeting place for civic and cultural organizations. The Planetarium is the site of special education programs presented by the museum in cooperation with the Midland public schools and Midland College, in addition to "star shows" and numerous other special programs.

The newest "star" in the museum's crown will be the Nita Stewart Haley Library, housing a collection of rare books, historical documents and recorded interviews with Southwest pioneers.

The library of some 10,000 volumes and historical documents, will ultimately be housed in its own structure in Haley Park, adjacent to the planetarium.

Depression One Of Best Things To Happen To E. K. Browning

By D'EVA LUTHRINGER

The depression beat E. K. Browning out of the medical education he had planned but he thinks now that it may have been one of the best things that ever happened to him.

And, there probably are many who agree because the need for a job caused him to join the Texas Department of Public Safety when it was created in 1935.

He has since risen to the rank of major and is commander of DPS Region 4, which is headquartered in Midland.

Browning was born in Hillsboro and went to high school there.

He had been in the pre-med program at The University of Texas at Austin when the depression hit and he had to drop out.

But Browning wanted to be a doctor and went to work, trying to save enough money to get back to college.

The Texas Motor Patrol was about five years old when it and the Texas Rangers were combined to form the DPS in 1935.

When the state police department was created, there were newspaper ads seeking 27 patrolmen to work in it. Browning saw the ad, applied and was accepted.

He went through the first DPS school, which was for 14 weeks. (It is now 18 weeks.)

At that time there were no patrol cars and no radios. All the 125 highway patrolmen in the state rode motorcycles.

Browning was assigned to the Wichita Falls area. He recalls that he had never been there when he received his assignment, and when he wrote home to say where he was going, he first spelled it "Witchata."

But, he said, "I knew that didn't look right, so I got out a map to see how to spell it."

In those early years ("DPS is still young, but I'm getting old"), the areas an officer was to cover were large.

"We were so new, we could ride into a town and no one would even know who we were. They'd never seen a highway patrolman."

The uniforms were different then: caps, blue shirts, jodhpurs and boots.

Since there was no radio communication, the officers would just ride around their assigned areas while on duty and handle whatever traffic violations they happened upon.

If they ran upon a traffic accident, they investigated it but were not sent to investigate them as they are now.

They were called upon to help out with manhunts and road blockades and Browning said he participated in many an exciting hunt in his day.

Although Wichita Falls was Bonnie and Clyde country, Browning missed that one. They were killed the year before he went on the force.

Because DPS manpower was so short, the officers were gathered from all over the state to help in disaster areas.

"It seemed like there was a hurricane on the coast every year in those days and we'd be sent down there to help out. We used to say, 'Well, it's time for another seaside vacation' and off we'd go."

Things are a lot different these days. Now there are radios, laboratories, breathalizers and other scientific aids. And the manpower is such that almost anything that happens can be handled by the men stationed in the region where it occurs.

Browning admits with a smile: "I don't want to go back to the good old days."

Besides Wichita Falls, Browning served as a patrolman at Vernon and Waco. Then he was promoted to sergeant and was sent to San Angelo.

After two years there, he was promoted to captain and transferred to Fort Worth and later to Corpus Christi.

After a couple of years in Corpus, he was stationed at Austin, where he stayed for 20 years.

Austin became home. That was where his children were reared and he owned his home

So, he wasn't too happy when Col. Homer Garrison, then director of the DPS, called him at midnight one night and told him he was being transferred to Midland.

But the rank of major and the job of commanding Region 4 went along with the transfer, so Browning and his wife came out here in January 1968.

They kept their home at Austin because they figured they'd move back there when the major retired.

But now Midland is home and Browning said he and his wife want to stay here after he retires. They like it here, like they never thought they would.

"I should have known better than to think I wouldn't like Midland," he said. "I've always found something I liked about every place I've lived. And, at each place, I've thought that would be where I'd want to spend the rest of my life."

Browning is a man in love with his job and his pet right now is the new Region 4 DPS building into which the offices should be moving next month.

He's especially excited about the scientific laboratory in the new facility. To hear him talk about it, one might think he was speaking of a dream about to come true.

There's a crinkle around the mouth and a twinkle in the eyes as he talks about the new equipment the lab will have. He proudly tells his listener that the Midland lab will be able to do almost everything the full DPS lab at Austin will do.

And what about what can't be done here — ballistics and handwriting tests? Well, Browning figures on having those too as soon as he can manage it.

Browning is in a management position, but he says he's still like that ole firehorse who runs every time he hears the bell.

He says he still makes the scenes of the major crimes in his area.

"The challenge is greater at a desk," he says, but confides: "but the excitement is in the field."

"The field patrolman's work is different everyday. It holds a fascination which draws a man in his work," the major says, his eyes glowing.

"The best part of my job is when I am out over my region, going to El Paso, Del Rio, Abilene."

Browning said he doesn't fit in a rocking chair and wishes he had 15 more years of duty ahead of him instead of three.

He said he'd advise any young person starting out on a career to get into law enforcement if he thinks he would like it.

"It's as rewarding a life as any I know."

L. A. Klebold Has 352 Acres Of Lawn To Mow Each Week

By TOM MORAN

L. A. Klebold has a lawn care problem.

Klebold, the director of maintenance for the Midland Independent School District, has 352 acres of lawn which must be mowed at least once a week. He uses more than 100 tons of fertilizer per year.

He is also in charge of upkeep for the school plants, including 34 major installations. More than 2,200 gallons of wax are required each year just to keep the floors shiny.

"In essence, we run a service organization for the schools," he explained.

Klebold has been director of maintenance since 1954. When he started, Midland had only eight active schools and one school under construction.

"I started at a good time," he said. "I've grown up with the school system. I've learned where everything is."

Every summer each school is given a complete maintenance inspection, Klebold continued. Necessary repairs are made to all plumbing, heating and air conditioning equipment and all other school equipment.

Each of the 7,048 door locks in the system — and the 5,800 door closers — also is overhauled, he added, and each school is repainted every five years.

Among his other duties, Klebold is responsible for repair of the school district's 400 pieces of audio-visual equipment.

An electronics shop in the maintenance department employs two fulltime technicians who can perform all but the most complicated work on the machines, including tape recorders, overhead projectors, movie projectors and listening centers.

"In the last five years equipment repair has more than tripled because of modern teaching techniques," Klebold said.

The school district also employs a cabinet maker to construct library tables and special furniture for the schools, Klebold said.

Midland School System Modern

Midland's 16,000 public school students attend classes in 26 modern buildings in all parts of the city.

Lee High School, with 1,000 students and Midland High School, which has an enrollment of almost 1,700, are the largest schools in the Midland Independent School District. Both high schools offer a comprehensive academic program, ranging from calculus to English.

Currently certain vocational education courses, including vocational agriculture and metal shop, are offered only at Midland High but school trustees recently approved a new vocational facility for Lee High School.

The new $350,000 building will include vocational agriculture shops, wood and metal shops and classrooms for Distributive Education, Industrial Cooperative Training and Coordinated Vocational Academic Education.

Ninth grade students attend one of two freshman schools. Austin Freshman School students attend Lee High after ninth grade and Edison Freshman students go on to Midland High.

Nineteen elementary schools, located in all parts of the city, are attended by 8,300 students ranging from 4-year-old Head Start students to sixth graders.

Kindergarten classes are offered all 5-year-olds. Five elementary schools offer day-long kindergarten classes. Kindergarten classes at De Zavala Elementary School are bilingual. At Burnet, Long, Rusk and West elementary schools, kindergarten students attend class with first graders in a large open areas. Each student progresses at rate designed to constantly challenge him.

Students who live more than two miles from their schools are provided free bus transportation by the school district. Students living in the city are picked up at elementary schools near their homes. Those outside the city are met at bus stops near their homes.

McCubs Tumble Twice To Aces

ALEXANDRIA—Alexandria's Aces swept a doubleheader from the Midland Cubs, 6-5 and 2-0, in Texas League baseball action here Thursday night, making it four out of five over the visiting Bruins.

Midland's woeful batting slump, which has dogged the team in the last 12 games, 11 of which were losses, haunted the Cubs in the second game when Gary Junge pitched a three-hitter, but Midland managed just two singles by Bill Huisman and Ken Skotkiewicz.

The Aces had only three runners in the game, but won on homers by Mike Dupree in the sixth and Jerry Turner in the second. For Turner, it was his seventh straight hit. Midland rallied for three runs in the sixth inning of the first game to tie it 5-5, but lost when Turner doubled off Paul Zahn to plate the winning run after Duane Larson and Mike Dupree singled.

Midland's three-run rally started with a walk to Jerry Tabb and was followed by Jose Ortiz' single. Joe Wallis forced Ortiz at second, but Wayne Tyrone doubled for one run and Joel Green singled home two more runs.

No More Delays

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Scouts' first home game in the National Hockey League has been set back once, but there can be no further delays, says the league's president, Clarence Campbell.

Scotkiewicz' double accounted for two Midland runs in the fourth.

CUB BRIEFS— Dan Corder, 0-1, will try to get the Cubs back on the right track tonight in the series final before the Bruins leave for a six-game series against Arkansas at Little Rock. . . . Jerry Tabb, 0-for-26 and only 3-for-40, was benched in the second game. . . . The Cubs seem to be getting adequate pitching, but the only bats in the lineup belong to Huisman, in the second game. . . . The Cubs Green, and Skotkiewicz as the rest of the team wallows in the throes of a fitful slump. . . .

Dream Come True

Mrs. Simons Owns Part Of Rangers

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
DALLAS (AP) — A former secret admirer of New York Mets owner Joan Payson now has a baseball team to call her own.

Sharon Simons, wife of wealthy Dallas investor-real estate developer Pollard Simons, became a major shareholder this week among the Dallas-Fort Worth group that purchased 90 per cent of the Texas Rangers from Bob Short for an estimated $9 million.

She joins Mrs. Payson of the Mets as the only woman owner of a major league baseball franchise.

Mrs. Simons said she is an acquaintance of Mrs. Payson's daughter, Mrs. Linda de Rou-

"I told Linda a year and a half ago that her mother must be quite a woman to take on a project the size of owning a team," said Mrs. Simons. "I told her, 'I think it would be the most marvelous thing in the world to own a baseball team.' Linda was quite surprised when I said that."

She said that at that time she didn't have any idea she would buy a major share of a team, "but I knew in the back of my mind I would jump at the opportunity."

Mrs. Simons said her husband was approached first as a possible partner in the team, but he said, "Sharon's the one who's a baseball fan, you should go ask her."

Simons first learned of his wife's love of baseball in 1961 when he asked his new bride what she would like to do more than anything and was surprised when she answered, "Let's get to the World Series."

She got so excited at the Yankee-Dodger games that she developed an ulcer.

"I take it (baseball) very seriously," said Mrs. Simons, whose voice was hoarse Thursday after attending two Ranger games this week. "I get pretty excited and when the players deserve it, I yell and clap."

R. S. Simons was not shocked or embarrassed Wednesday when her players emptied the bench for an on-field brawl with the Cleveland Indians.

"I think when you get two teams whose players are loyal to one another and tempers flare, some fights are going to happen," she said. "I was glad to see that the players were ready to help their buddies. I wasn't embarrassed because I know baseball is not anything like hockey and roller derby where they fight a lot."

Mrs. Simons already has proved lucky to the Rangers. Her prospective ownership was announced Monday, and she attended a game the Rangers won 6-0. On Tuesday, Pollard Simons ran out of gas while returning home from work and they missed an 8-0 Texas loss.

She flew to Chicago Wednesday to finalize the changing of the team ownership, but returned in time to see Texas win 3-0.

man will punt with Jones doing the field goals and extra points.

The Whites won the spring game, 29-14, over the Maroons with several surprises on both sides, according to Acree.

"We got through spring training without any major injuries, which is nice in itself," commented Acree. Acree is pleased with the depth that he has.

It could prove to be a good year for the Rebels if the question marks are all answered by the night of Sept. 6 when they take on the Lubbock Westerners in Memorial Stadium.

Carner Ready To Go Again

BALTIMORE (AP) — JoAnne Carner, coming off back-to-back tournament victories, says she's "ready to go again" in the $40,000 Baltimore Golf Championship opening today.

"For the first time, last week I felt like I was playing the way I did as an amateur," Mrs. Carner said before teeing off in the first round of the 54-hole tournament at the municipal Pine Ridge course.

When she joined the tour in 1970, Mrs. Carner was a five-time U.S. amateur champion and was expected to be an instant winner on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour.

Until winning the Bluegrass International at Louisville, Ky., and the Hoosier Classic at Plymouth, Ind., the past two weeks, she had not scored a tour victory since 1971.

"At Louisville I was getting weaker on the last nine holes and just wanted to get in before I fell apart," she said. "But at Plymouth, I felt like I was getting stronger at the end. That's the way I used to play as an amateur."

Mrs. Carner was ranked as one of the favorites this week along with Kathy Whitworth and JoAnne Prentice, other double winners after 12 weeks of the tour. Other contenders included defending champion Judy Rankin and Carol Mann, the local favorite.

Jane Black, another double winner, was among a handful who skipped the tournament.

Houston Picks Up Reformed Kiner

HOUSTON (AP) — Pro football linebacker Steve Kiner, who has a reputation as a drug user, says he now "has his head on straight."

Kiner, 26, who has seen service with Dallas, New England, Miami, Washington and New England a second time in four seasons, has been acquired by the Houston Oilers.

In an interview, Kiner said he got involved with drugs the summer after his freshman year at the University of Tennessee.

"I just happened to be caught up in them," he said. "I loved to get high and ride horses."

"I went back to school my sophomore year and told myself, 'I'm so good I can totally dedicate myself to football during the week and get high after the game Saturday night and Sunday.' My junior year, I told myself I was so good I could get high every day as long as I was ready to play Saturday."

My senior year, I thought I was so good I could be high for a week. "I went to Dallas and became the focal point of the drug scene. I guess because I was the drug scene in Knoxville. Grass, Speed, Mescaline. Cocaine. That's an expensive habit. There was a time when I smoked grass every day. I finally decided to get my head on straight."

"I remember in Miami, (Dolphins Coach) Don Shula had tests for me to take every day. Blood tests. Urinalysis. That stuff. I told him he didn't know a damn thing about drugs and that I had been into them for six or seven years. He told me to clean up my act. I told him it was already clean."

Kiner said he was not opposed to drugs but he said he would not recommend them, either.

"I get excited about things today that I never even used to notice," he said.

He was asked if he got away from drugs for health reasons or because they were moving in on his football.

"I was dilapidated," he said. "You can burn yourself out on drugs without realizing it. My weight went down to 185 (from 215). I felt I was still in great shape when I wasn't. I think a guy gets into drugs to overcome stress. He's slow to approach some chick. So he hands her a joint. It's a form of non-verbal communication."

Despite his moving around so much, Kiner said he still loved football.

"It's a good game," he said. "You're out there sweating, you touch people and it's a good feeling. I want to be thought of as a gentle person. But I really like to hit people."

Turner Case Ends With Hung Jury; New Trial Stated

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)

Flamboyant businessman Glenn W. Turner's unstoppable image remains intact. A jury beset with discord has given the Orlando promoter and seven of his associates a mistrial.

But the federal government kept its brakes on the 8th-grade dropout who convinced thousands to invest in his cosmetics and motivational businesses.

When the nine-month trial on mail fraud and conspiracy charges floundered on a hung jury Thursday, U.S. District Judge Gerald B. Tjoflat announced that a new trial would begin here on Aug. 5.

He told defendants and attorneys they must continue to avoid discussing the case with the news media and public.

Turner, who was dubbed "The Unstoppable Glenn Turner" in a book about his life and on a huge billboard in Orlando, couldn't talk about the turbulent trial and its equally turbulent end in the jury room. But his broad smile reflected his feelings.

Director Says Funding Holds Up Pollution Control

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — A water pollution control specialist says efforts to meet federally set pollution standards will fail in some instances because of holdups in allocating federal funds.

Joe G. Moore Jr., program director of the National Commission on Water Quality, said Thursday attempts to control water pollution "are moving, but not as fast as contemplated."

Moore said at a meeting of the Texas Water Pollution Control Association that only half of the $14 billion approved by Congress for municipalities has been allocated by the Nixon administration.

He said he expected the standards to be met in most areas of Texas. Moore added the worst water pollution problem in the state is the Houston Ship Channel.

Industries, he said, are moving slower than expected to meet government standards because they feel the government should not hold them responsible if municipalities are not going to be held to the 1977 standards.

Army To Raise Ethnic Curtain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Starting Saturday, more than 23,000 soldiers will be given a chance to come out from behind ethnic anonymity.

They are men and women whose Army records list them as "other" rather than Caucasian or Negro.

The Army says it is expanding official ethnic designations to cover 12 groups, mostly Asian or Latin in origin. Also included are American Indians, Eskimos and Aleuts. Officials estimate these groups account for about three per cent of the Army's 789,000 men and women.

The Army said it needs more detailed ethnic data to check on whether everybody gets a fair break in promotions, assignments, retention and separation.

The new official designations include Mexican American, Puerto Rican, Cuban American, Spanish descent, Chinese, Japanese, Korean, Filipino and Asian American.

FTC Eyes Curbs On Sugary Food Tv Commercials

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government ban on television commercials for sugar-laden foods aimed at children is under consideration, a Federal Trade Commission official says.

"At the present time, the issue is at least open," but a proposed rule may be ready for public comment within a month, said J. Thomas Rosch, director of the FTC's Bureau of Consumer Protection.

Rosch told a food industry briefing on nutrition labeling Thursday that a ban would have to be based on a determination that children were particularly vulnerable to such advertisements and that sugar posed a particular health problem, such as causing tooth decay.

American Dream Is Missing

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — What seems to be missing from the lives of many Americans is the dream—the vision that tomorrow could only be better, the soul-deep conviction that they would participate in the future. Like a kite flying out ahead, the dream tugged the dreamer into a new material reality: a new house, more money, education, a second car, a color TV set.

All through the 1960s families found that it paid to dream because there was an excellent chance of turning dreams into reality. America was always on the verge of something exciting.

The credit suppliers realized that money was needed to translate the dream, and so they made the down payment smaller, the terms easier. Buy now, pay later.

The stock market was like an elevator, lifting many people to new financial achievements. Everyone was playing the game. The number of shareholders doubled to 31 million.

Companies were formed just to provide a vehicle for investor money. New issues sometimes doubled their offering price in hours, the belief being their future was unlimited.

Some companies became conglomerates, assembling into one unit a medley of existing companies that was supposed to produce a new composition called synergism, in which the whole exceeded the sum of the parts.

Now, it seems, if the dream is still out there at all, the string is broken.

The various consumer surveys show conclusively that millions of Americans simply do not believe in the immediate future. They feel inflation is robbing them. Aren't the big increases in the essentials—food, housing, medicine?

The buying power of the production worker's paycheck is down 5.6 per cent in a year. Education? Five thousand dollars for room-board-tuition at a prestige school? It's still a pretty dream, but who can afford it?

Forget buying that home for the time being. If you can get a mortgage at all, you probably can't afford the house. Save up for the down payment, and you need twice as much as a few years before.

Besides, there are a lot of bills to be paid, and it seems to be getting harder to pay them.

project will do to the school children of Texas.

We need flexibility in this area, so I urge you not to freeze this in constitutional concrete. Don't put statutory language in the constitution. We need a pure constitution.

This amendment does not touch the real issue, top, side or bottom, at this point in time. You can bet your bottom dollar this will affect generations of Texans yet unborn. This is a stab in the back.

Now I'm not wedded to the language in my proposal, but we're down to the real nuts and bolts of this article. Let's go the extra mile.

Ignore the bleeding hearts. Don't coddle the criminals. Let's kill this snake.

I ask you to vote aye on the motion to table.

Cliches Mark Speeches By Convention Members

By ROBERT HEARD
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Deprive Constitutional Convention delegates of certain phrases and many of them would be naked before the microphone.

In recognition of this, and in an effort to be helpful to those delegates, the following hypothetical example is offered as a sort of all-purpose opposition argument.

Mr. President. Fellow delegates. I will be brief. We're all tired, I know. But I ask you to give me your attention for just a minute because this is very important.

I have no pride of authorship in my proposal, but if you adopt this amendment you will gut it. You will open Pandora's box. This is the whole ball of wax.

If you are really for reform, you will defeat this amendment and send a message to those who have been throwing up smokescreens all day so that you cannot see what their pet such varied virtuosos as Jose Feliciano, the late Charlie Christian, Eric Clapton, T-Bone Walker and classicist Christopher Parkening.

In addition, he said each show has a five-minute interview on the state of the art with well-known guitarists, people like Les Paul, jazzman Barney Kessel and bluesman Dock Watson.

None of the interviewees plug new albums or current engagements at nearby bistros "because that would date the shows and we want them to be timeless, so to speak," Beyl says.

He said the entire package cost about $3,500 to put together, including tape duplication and mailing costs. But none of the guitarists interviewed asked for or received any fees.

Guitar Magazine Trying To Strum Up Business With Unique Radio Approach

By JAY SHARBUTT
NEW YORK (AP) — Guitarists tend to be a picky lot, but a magazine specifically written for them has been trying of late to strum up some business with a unique radio approach.

Ernest Beyl, a spokesman for "Guitar Player Magazine," says the approach consists of 13 half-hour taped programs that illustrate differing guitar styles as played by the greats of the instrument.

Alas, this plectrum forum isn't heard on commercial radio. Beyl says it's only been heard on about 50 college campus radio stations and wasn't really intended as a commercial radio program.

In fact, he says the stations got the programs free simply by asking for them.

He said the idea was to interest college-area guitarists in subscribing to the magazine by offering them a taste of what the professionals are doing, accompanied by a soft-sell pitch for GPM.

"So we started hunting for suitable colleges that had radio stations with a loose enough format to accommodate something like that," he said, adding that the shows began airing about six months ago.

Beyl, whose publication is based in Los Gatos, Calif., 50 miles south of San Francisco, said the musical commentator on the series is Jim Crockett, editor of the seven-year-old magazine.

Beyl said the programs feature selections from albums by

Hearst Fears Patty May Be Lost Forever

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (AP) — Randolph A. Hearst fears public sympathy for the six Symbionese Liberation Army members who died in a police shootout may mean his daughter Patricia will remain a fugitive forever.

"She can go underground now, I think, forever," he said Thursday in an impromptu remark to a newsmen.

Hearst said an increase in sympathy after the May 17 shootout with Los Angeles police may make it easier for his daughter and William and Emily Harris, identified by the FBI as the remaining members of the SLA, to find refuge and aid with sympathizers.

Sought By Authorities
Authorities seek Miss Hearst, 20, on charges of kidnapping, armed robbery and assault.

The SLA reportedly kidnapped the University of California coed Feb. 4. She later renounced her parents in a taped message, and said she had joined her abductors.

Public sympathy coming from the May 17 shootout, which was televised live, may offset some of the criticism of the group for its alleged assassination of Oakland Schools Supt. Marcus Foster, Hearst said.

"It was unforgivable," Hearst said of the Foster slaying on Nov. 6. Two alleged SLA members — Joseph M. Remiro, 27, and Russell J. Little, 24 — are awaiting trial for Foster's murder.

Meanwhile, in Los Angeles, Coroner Thomas Noguchi said he had not ruled out an inquest into the gun battle and deaths.

He made the comment after meeting with Dr. L. S. Wolfe, father of William Wolfe, one of the victims, and the American Civil Liberties Union.

Parent Accuses Police
Wolfe's private investigator, Lake Headley of Los Angeles, said he had information indicating police may have prevented firemen from fighting the blaze until it was too late to save anyone inside.

He charged that police may have incensed members of the Special Weapons and Tactics team by showing them pictures of an officer slain a week earlier and telling them the SLA was responsible.

"In all my years on the force, I've never heard of anything so idiotic," said a police spokesman in denying the allegations.

At a news conference, Wolfe, sometimes crying, told newsmen, "I think that if the inquest is held and conducted in the fashion that we think it should be done, we're still not going to prove anything but we may find out something."

Houston To Hire Women Firemen

HOUSTON (AP) — Linda Sue O'Grady, hoping to become Houston's first woman firefighter, was to receive a formal interview today.

Fred Holmes, assistant civil service director, said Thursday Miss O'Grady is the first woman to apply for the fire academy who meets the standard requirements set up for all applicants.

She is 26 years old, 5-10 and weighs 170 pounds. The Gatesville High School graduate received her licensed vocational nurse training at Coryell Memorial Hospital there and now works at Sam Houston Hospital in Houston.

Fire Chief John Little announced Thursday that the fire department would step up its recruitment of women and would go so far as to picture women in firefighter garb on its recruiting posters.

Welcome, Newcomers!

Newcomers to Midland are arriving on the scene in unusually large numbers at this particular time, and it is fitting that friendly Midland residents and business, civic, church, social and other groups should join in directing a sincere and meaningful WELCOME TO MIDLAND chorus to the new residents.

Many new residents, family groups in particular, always arrive in Midland at this season of the year, but the number is even greater this year, due to the increased activity in the oil industry and in other fields of endeavor. Midland is delighted to have them.

The Tall City and its residents particularly are desirous that its newcomers feel perfectly at home here from the very beginning . . . and the best way to achieve this is for them to get acquainted "right off," not only with fellow Midlanders but with churches, schools, civic and service organizations, clubs, recreational and entertainment organizations and business and service firms.

This friendly Headquarters City of the Permian Basin Empire offers a wide variety of organizations and facilities which make for better and more enjoyable living. And this is just what Midland is — a great city in which to reside, work and enjoy life to the fullest.

Involvement perhaps is the quickest, best and most rewarding means of getting acquainted, of making new friends and of discovering the many and varied virtues, qualities and facilities which make Midland stand tall on the West Texas scene.

It isn't at all difficult to get acquainted with friendly, smiling Midlanders, and newcomers are urged to give it a try.

They also will find in the Tall City many other persons who, themselves, were newcomers a few days, weeks or months ago. They also will welcome more recent arrivals with open arms. And there will be yet more recent newcomers tomorrow and the next day. Fortunately, it doesn't take long to become an "old-timer," so to speak, in Midland, one of the Southwest's most friendly cities.

This particular issue of The Reporter-Telegram is dedicated to Midland newcomers, along with the wish that they will have a long, enjoyable, profitable, involved residence here.

Information of general interest to newcomers — what to do, see, join, shop and become involved in — may be found in this issue, along with where to find what.

It's great to live in Midland . . . in Wonderful West Texas.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Jacobson's confession describes the "Toilet Incident."

WASHINGTON—Dairy lobbyist Jake Jacobson has described as sordid a scene, if his secret confession is true, as ever has occurred in the Treasury Department's highest office.

Among Watergate investigators privy to Jacobson's account, the episode has become known as the "toilet incident."

It happened when John Connally was secretary of the Treasury. The bold, booming Texan — "Big John," his friends called him — was then the rage in Washington. Almost everyone agreed he was presidential timber.

He let everyone around him know he was serving at a sacrifice. His government salary didn't provide him with enough pocket money, he complained, to live in the high style to which he had become accustomed. He would have to start selling off his investments, he bemoaned, if he stayed around Washington for long.

His lament did not go unheeded. His close friend Jake Jacobson picked up $10,000 from the Associated Milk Producers, Inc., stashed half of it in a safe deposit box and brought the remaining $5,000 to the Treasury Department.

As Jacobson has described the incident to Watergate investigators, he handed over the cash in five crisp, $1,000 packets to Connally. The smiling secretary carefully removed the wrappers, strode into his private bathroom and flushed the telltale wrappers down the toilet, Jacobson has alleged.

When we reached Connally for comment, he listened in uncharacteristic silence to the account of the toilet incident. Then he quietly repeated the denial he has made in the past. He said that he twice offered the $10,000 milk payment but that he twice rejected it.

The reluctant Jacobson has told Watergate prosecutors, quite to the contrary, that he delivered the money to Connally in two $5,000 installments.

After the milk scandal came under investigation, Jacobson has related, a repentant Connally brought back the hot $10,000. The two friends agreed upon a cover story. Jacobson promised to say the milk money had been rejected by Connally and had been kept in a safe deposit box.

But in his later confession, Jacobson now has alleged that Connally became nervous that the bills could be traced. So he allegedly arranged to bring Jacobson a second, substitute bundle in Austin.

Meanwhile, Jacobson was called before a grand jury where he loyally repeated the cover story. But the FBI broke down his story, and the grand jury indicted him for perjury. He also was indicted about the same time in an unrelated savings-and-loan case.

Jacobson has an ailing wife who needs his constant attention. So in a bid for leniency, he offered to cooperate with the prosecutors and gave them the incriminating details against Connally.

The FBI now has confirmed many of the details from bank records, travel vouchers and witnesses, such as a chauffeur who drove Connally in a limousine from Houston to Austin for the rendezvous with Jacobson.

The FBI also has established roadways during the wet seasons."

Our Pentagon sources say these details, which now have been officially confirmed by the Defense Department, were available to Laird. The public ought to demand an end to official lying, even if it takes a few more perjury prosecutions to do it.

that Connally intervened on behalf of the milk producers both with the White House and with former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell.

THE RAINMAKERS: There were flat denials when we reported on March 18, 1971, that Air Force rainmakers were seeding the clouds over the North Vietnamese spy trails "in an attempt to concentrate more rainfall upon the trails and to wipe them out."

Melvin Laird, who was questioned about this after he became secretary of Defense, testified before Congress on April 18, 1972: "We have never engaged that type of activity over North Vietnam."

This was a bald-faced lie. The Defense Department now has admitted that the Air Force, indeed, conducted top secret rainmaking operations over the supply trails from 1967 to 1972.

In response, a sheepish Laird has corrected his testimony, explaining that he had been misinformed. He is claiming, in other words, that we had better Pentagon sources than he did. Flattering as this may be, it is untrue.

In our story three years ago we have specific details of the hush-hush rainmaking project including its code name "Intermediary-Compatriot." We reported that the rainmaking experiments had started in 1967 and that the participants believed they had "increased the precipitation over the jungle of clubs. With both those cards he would win the first trick in order to lead a trump. Therefore, South was marked with the ace of clubs.

How about the ace and queen of spades? South might have both those cards also but it wouldn't be likely. With ace-queen, ace and a long suit South would almost surely have made some more enterprising bid than a mere two spades.

After all that thought West would plunk the king of spades on the table at trick two and continue the suit. The defense would collect two trumps, three clubs, one diamond and 100 points above the line.

Erecting A Barrier To Trade Barriers Seen

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Leaders of "ministerial" status in the developed nations are meeting in Paris with high hopes of adopting a policy declaration which could set them firmly against use of new trade barriers as a remedy for rampant economic difficulties.

Represented at this conference are the United States, Canada, Japan and the various nations of the European Economic Community. A high foreign economic source here tells me the idea of such a declaration, which would be a highly significant breakthrough, already has been largely accepted in principle.

What would this mean? To start with, high-placed realists in the advanced nations see their lands all broadly engulfed in an inflationary tide whose high point can't yet be gauged.

They regard it as ruinous for the future of needed full and free trade for the affected countries to resort to strictly nationalistic import and export controls and devices in these parlous times.

A declaration to this effect at Paris could not be dismissed, I am told, as empty words. It would carry the full weight of the participating governments.

But how, then, would deficit-traders meet their obvious dilemma? The overriding hope, considered quite realistic, is that they could offset payments deficits in any given period by extensive borrowing.

Borrowing from whom? Inquiry discloses a strongly growing belief that a chief source of funds would be the heavy reserves presumably being accumulated in European and other banks by the oil-bearing Middle Eastern countries under the steeply hiked oil price structure now prevailing.

Even as Arab oil nations were using their resources as a political weapon in the aftermath of the 1973 Arab-Israeli war, the message quickly got through that the Arabs did not want to bring the Western-style economies (including Japan's) into chaos.

So, not unreasonably, it is believed in the developed lands that the capital-heavy Middle East not only will do more trading with the advanced nations (to lift their own living standards), but may prove quite sympathetic to the "borrowing" notion which is tightly bound up with the idea of staying away from new trade restrictions.

I gained no indication that the men who soon were to meet in Paris have any real assurances on this score from the oil nations. But the prospective conferees are not dreamers.

In any event, it is news enough at this stage that the big industrial powers see only destructive futility in a new building of barriers — and are preparing to commit themselves openly and forcefully against such a course.

Plainly, this resolve, even if it works as they devoutly hope and avoids serious aggravation of an already troubled world industrial economy, will not settle the nagging issue of inflation.

When the best economic minds in the advanced lands meet, they still separate in puzzlement. All they muster is hope.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

Many high-minded critics deplore how our city, county and state wheels scramble for federal handouts to help finance local needs and wants.

Their preach is that the federal don't have any money except what we send to Washington or get put on U.S. IOUs for, so local-type taxpayers furnish whatever they get from the federals, plus transportation to and from.

Which is a sad fact of life, but what is sadder is that this federal largess always comes back wrapped in paternalistic red tape, except to careerist welfarers.

NEW YORK (NEA) — This is the era of the enigmatic star in rock music. People like David Bowie and Alice Cooper dress and behave so strangely it is hard to tell if they are coming or going, or both.

But the biggest new hit may turn out to be the largely unknown Rex Oedipus, who presently is playing the park bench and friends' garage circuit but certainly seems destined for stardom. Rex performs with his body completely covered in chartreuse luminescent paint, wearing a Chicago Cardinal football jersey, a miniskirt and combat boots; his repertoire basically centers on his own compositions, including the haunting "Abstract Peanut Butter" and "Yoga Guru Polka."

Asked to describe his style in a recent interview, Oedipus explained, "It is heavy, far out, out of sight, together, where it's at, into it, truckin' boogie, boogeyin', trucking and the cat's pajamas."

Oedipus formerly was associated with such unsuccessful groups as "Hans and His Sado-Machistic Serenaders," "Cacophony," "The Dregs," and "Indivisible Pickles," but now at 37 he seems to have reached the point where, as he puts it, "we kids are ready to put it to the Establishment."

He describes his act as "apolitically political," particularly the number where he rips autographed photos of John Wayne and Ronald Reagan to shreds. But he has become best known for his rousing climax, during which he sticks pins in a voodoo doll of his mother, then throws the doll, two quarts of weasel blood and a week's worth of old Wall Street Journals into the audience, after which he takes off his combat boots and clips his toenails.

Some critics have questioned the taste of this number but Oedipus dismisses them as "up tight reactionary sourpusses."

"Look, man," he says, "I really dig mothers, you know? I mean, I'm not putting mothers down. But it's us kids that are really where it's at. Look at it this way: you can't have any kids, you know? And as far as taste goes, you should have seen the act before we toned it down. Wow, man, I used to use THREE quarts of weasel blood."

Ford Campaigning To Rally GOP Amid Repeated Watergate Shocks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six months into his tenure as the nation's first appointed vice president, Gerald R. Ford is campaigning to rally a battered Republican party amid repeated Watergate shocks.

Oklahoma Publisher Gaylord, 101, Dies

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Edward King Gaylord, dean of the nation's newspaper publishers, died late Thursday. He was 101.

Gaylord, whose newspapers won national recognition, headed the Oklahoma Publishing Co. for 70 years.

Gaylord, president of The Oklahoma Publishing Co. and editor and publisher of The Daily Oklahoman and Oklahoma City Times, died at his home after an apparent heart attack.

Gaylord had been working regularly in recent weeks after recovering from a back ailment that required hospitalization.

He was considered one of the most powerful men in Oklahoma.

At the time of his death, Gaylord's holdings, included the state's largest trucking express service, television stations in Tampa, Fla., Dallas-Ft. Worth, and Houston, Tex., Tacoma, Wash., Milwaukee, Wis., and Oklahoma City and radio stations in Albuquerque, N. M., and Oklahoma City in addition to the two Oklahoma City news-seeking any political office in 1976."

His 25-year friendship with President Nixon, who chose him last October to succeed the resigned Spiro T. Agnew, has been strained by events. But Ford denies a rift exists.

Ford says he and the President have "very good personal relations."

As for the top job, the vice president says he has no doubt of his ability to handle it, but always adds: "I assume it won't happen."

Like the Republican party as a whole, Ford's severest test has been Watergate. So far, he has succeeded in maintaining his equilibrium on 1974's most treacherous political tightrope.

Ford repeatedly asserts his confidence in Nixon's innocence. He avoided listening to the Watergate tapes, but says he read most of the edited transcripts.

"They don't confer sainthood on anybody," he replies when asked his reaction to the transcripts. Privately, he indicates he is disturbed about the tone the House Judiciary Com-

At the same time, he repeatedly has urged the White House to cooperate fully with special prosecutor Leon Jaworski and

Storms, Floods Hammer Midwest, Texas Sectors

By The Associated Press

Thunderstorms continued today in the Midwest and in Southeast Texas. Flash flood watches were posted this morning for parts of Kansas, Missouri, Illinois and Iowa.

Rain was falling today from the upper Mississippi Valley into the Great Lakes region, with overcast skies spreading into the northeast. Low clouds and fog covered much of the Atlantic Coast.

Tornadoes were common Thursday afternoon and evening, but had subsided into heavy rains by early today. Seven homes were damaged and 11 persons injured Thursday afternoon when a tornado struck Ursa, a small community in western Illinois.

An estimated two to three inches of rain fell in parts of northern Missouri and southern Iowa. Rivers were rising rapidly with flooding expected in parts of northern Missouri.

on's "stonewall tactics."

The vice president rejects suggestions that he is being inconsistent.

"I speak what I believe to be the truth and what I feel is right to say," he said recently. "I don't think that's zig-zagging. I think that's an expression of my views on several separate aspects of Watergate."

In his ambivalence, Ford mirrors his essential constituency, the hard-core, regular Republicans in the country and in the Congress. His inevitable statement that Nixon shouldn't resign brings applause at each GOP fundraiser.

Since Ford was sworn in Dec. 6 he has traveled more than 80,000 miles and visited 31 states. By November, he will travel to all 50 states.

"I think the demands for travel are a little heavier than I had anticipated," he said in a recent interview.

As House Republican leader from 1965 until Nixon nominated him last October, however, Ford was a busy man. He averaged some 200,000 miles a year while keeping an excellent congressional attendance record.

He has settled easily into the vice presidential routine, the availability of Secret Service and planes. But he seems less impressed with it than many other politicians and makes most of his short trips in a twin-engine, propjet Convair rather than the plush presidential jets that he could use.

When Ford was asked his views after six months on the job, he thought for a moment, then replied, "I don't think I would have done anything differently in that period."

Kennedy Wants Overturning Of President's Veto Upheld

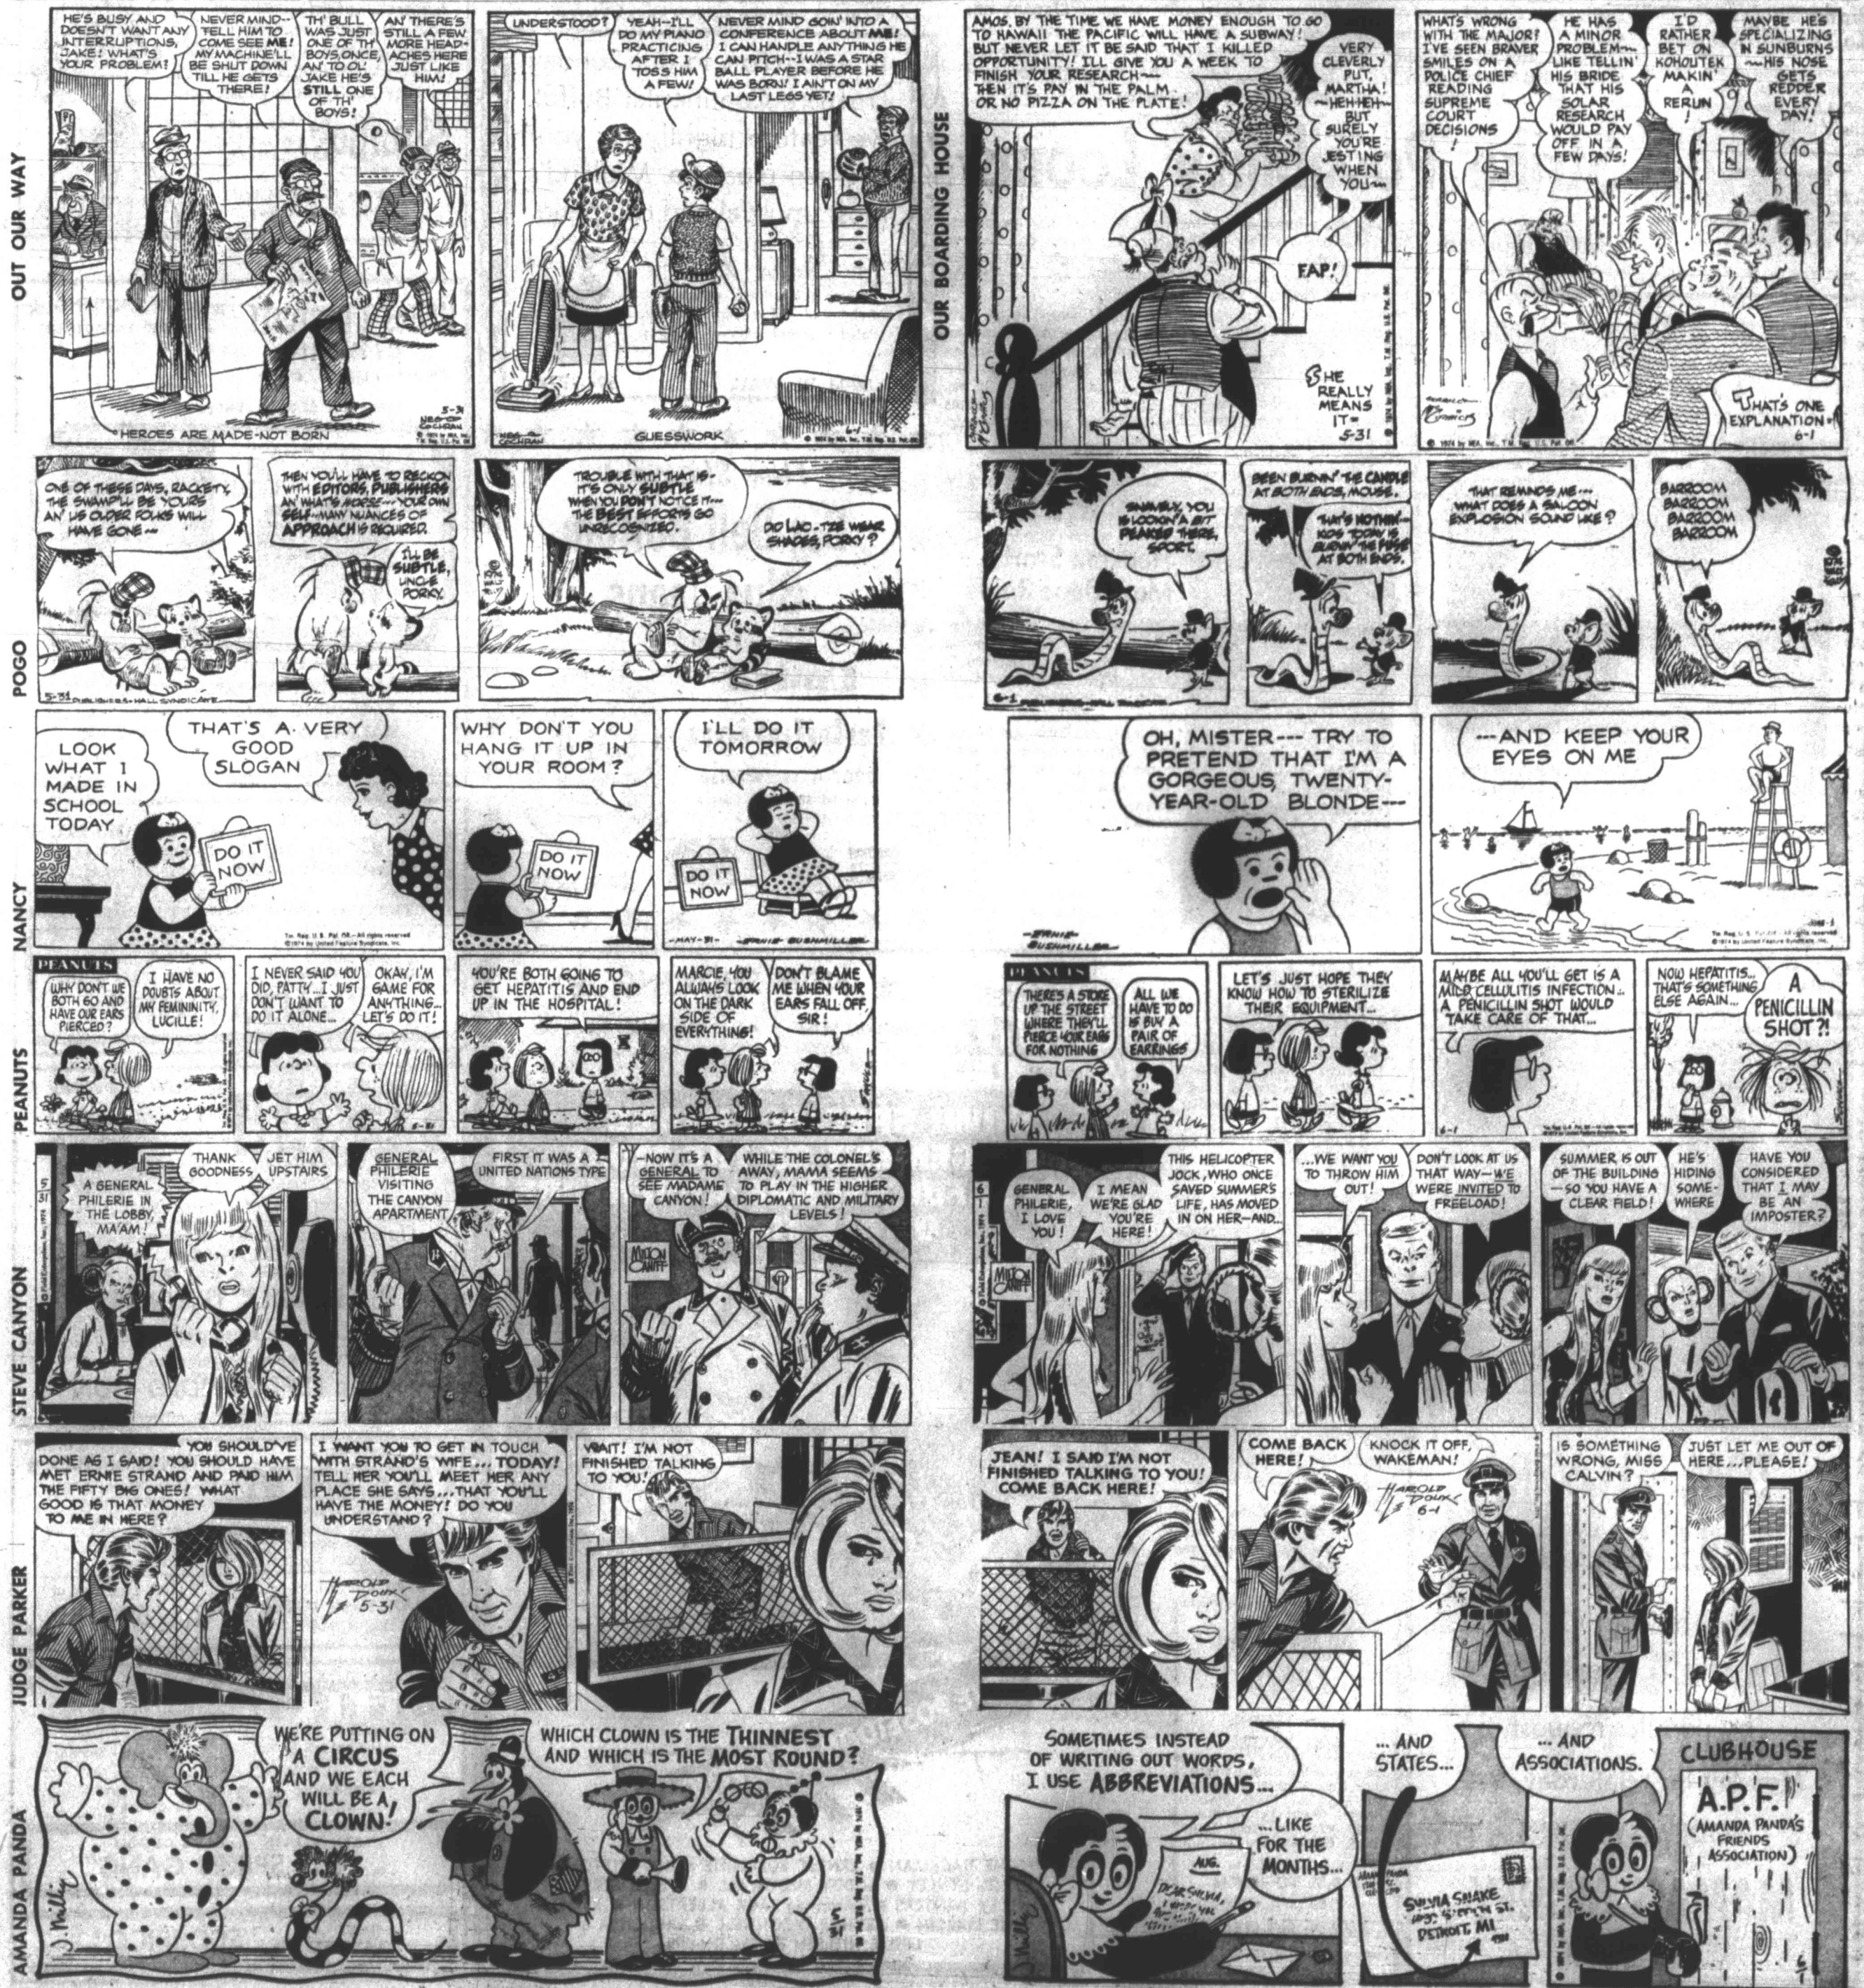

WASHINGTON (AP) — Appearing personally as a lawyer, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., hopes to convince the U.S. Court of Appeals today to uphold a lower court order overturning President Nixon's pocket-veto of a health bill.

At issue is President Nixon's action if automatically becomes veto in December 1970 of a bill law, unless Congress is not in authorizing the spending of $225 session during the 10-day period. In that event, the bill is vetoed.

Kennedy argues his case to

The Senate had passed the measure 64-1 and the House approved it 346-2.

Strike Possibility Looms

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)

After much argument, the negotiating committee of the Screen Actors Guild has finally settled on the terms they will ask for from tv producers. And these terms (which I know but have been sworn to secrecy not to tell) are so high that it looks like there will be an actors' strike when the contract expires in June.

And, if that strike turns into a lengthy one, it could threaten next fall's tv schedule.

Speaking of SAG, they have been divided in recent years over the question of whether or not they should attempt to organize porno film performers.

Houston Starts Mass Dope Raids

HOUSTON (AP) — City police narcotics officers, following several months of undercover work, started a series of raids today on suspected dope peddlers.

Capt. B. G. Bond said 24 persons were arrested in early morning raids and the arrests were continuing. Of those arrested, he said, 13 had been named in sealed grand jury indictments alleging the sale of heroin or cocaine or both.

The others arrested today probably would be charged with possession of drugs, he said.

Sandy Hulme To Give Recital

Sandy Hulme, a 1974 graduate of Lee High School, will present her senior piano recital tonight in the home of her teacher, Mrs. Warren G. Hill.

Miss Hulme has been awarded the High School Diploma in piano from the National Guild of Piano Teachers. She has been a participant in the NGPT auditions for the last seven years, winning the Guild's Critic's Circle award for six years.

The young lady has been an accompanist for school choirs since she was a seventh grader, and presently serves as assistant organist for the St. Paul United Methodist Church here. At Lee High School, she has been a member of the President's Cabinet and the National Honor Society. She plans to attend Southwestern University at Georgetown to major in music education.

Miss Hulme will play works by Beethoven, J. S. Bach, Mozart, Scarlatti, Chopin and Khachaturian in her recital tonight.

TWOB Chairman Welcomes Inquiry By Subcommittee

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Water Quality Board said Thursday it welcomes a subcommittee investigation ordered by House Speaker Price Daniel Jr.

Board chairman J. Douglass Toole and the agency's executive director, Hugh Yantis, issued a statement saying the probe might be useful.

The study was prompted by the board's decision, since retracted, to permit operation of a burial site for industrial wastes near Three Rivers in South Texas. In view of this, Yantis said he hoped the legislators might "be helpful in finding solutions to the very complex problem of where and how to dispose of industrial wastes."

"Major industrial plants eventually may be forced to close down unless acceptable ways to dispose of solid waste materials can be developed," Toole said.

Former Midlander Giving Time And Talents To Cause Of MIAs

A former Midland resident, Rebecca (Becky) Bearden, who now resides at San Angelo, is devoting her time and talent to the cause of approximately 1,300 United States military men who remain classified as "Missing in Action" in the aftermath of the war in Indochina.

Miss Bearden was in Midland earlier this week in the interest of "Operation MIA/POW," of which she is the West Texas representative. She also visited in Odessa and other area cities.

She points out the fact that documented evidence exists which shows conclusively that approximately 70 servicemen, presently listed as MIA, were, in fact, taken prisoner. She is convinced that Communist forces in Southeast Asia definitely or reasonably could account for many of the MIAs under the terms of the 1973 cease-fire of the Paris Peace Accords.

She also cites instances where missing journalists and servicemen reportedly have been seen in North Vietnam.

She explained that Dr. Henry Kissinger, more than a year ago, announced that among the cease-fire agreements was the assurance that a determination as to the status of each MIA would be made whenever humanly possible.

Eisenhower Family 'Shaken' By Watergate

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Mamie Eisenhower and her son say the Eisenhower family was "shaken" by the Watergate affair but is confident President Nixon will come out all right.

Retired Col. John Eisenhower and the former First Lady were at the U.S. Military Academy Thursday for dedication of a $22.3-million recreation building named for the late President Dwight Eisenhower.

Col. Eisenhower said, "Mother and everyone else in the family is confident the President will make it all right."

Mrs. Eisenhower added, "I'm a Nixon person and have been for years, which everybody knows, including the President."

"We are thankful for those of our POWs who have been returned," she said, "but the war rages on and only about one-third of our POWs-MIAs have been accounted for."

She said every effort must be made by as many Americans as possible to prevail upon world leaders to issue proclamations asking Hanoi to honor the Paris Peace agreements. She is of the opinion that Hanoi would react favorably if enough world leaders would act thusly.

Miss Bearden has been selected by "Youth Concerned for the 1,300 MIA, Inc.," as one of about 20 delegates from the United States to plead the case for the MIAs before a world jury.

The delegates will leave July 1 on a 24-day, 10-nation pilgrimage to enlist the support of world leaders and citizens in this humanitarian cause. The schedule calls for the group to visit France, Sweden, Denmark, Russia, India, Thailand, Laos, South Vietnam, Hong Kong, Japan and, if possible, North Vietnam.

Youth Concerned, she said, is

El Paso Gas Consolidates Royalty Suits

El Paso Natural Gas Co. is asking the Midland federal court to enjoin 11 companies and individuals from demanding royalties El Paso claims are unfair and seeks to have the court determine whether the defendants should be under regulations of the Federal Power Commission.

Defendants are Sun Oil Co., Sun Oil Co. (Delaware), Atlantic Richfield Co., Mobil Oil Co., Tenneco Corp., Continental Oil Co., American Petroleum Co., Union Oil Co. of California, Crown Central Petroleum Corp., Delta Drilling Co., W. Watson LaForce Jr. of Midland and Morris Mizel and Flora Mizel, address unknown.

El Paso holds leases on land owned by the defendants and produces and transports natural gas from those leases to gas distributing companies for resale for ultimate public consumption in 11 Western states and to direct industrial customers in some other states.

The company's agreements with the defendants call for royalties to be paid to them according to the terms of the individual agreements.

El Paso claims that the royalty rates demanded by the defendants are excessive, that they have not complied with Federal Power Commission regulations and that they are subject to FPC regulations.

The suit on file now is a consolidation of four suits filed last fall in the federal court at Washington, D.C.

Support Sought For Stillman College

By BO BASKIN

About 30 Midlanders and Odessans heard Stillman College President Harold N. Stinson and a member of the board of trustees, make an appeal for the support of the college Thursday at a luncheon at Midland Regional Air Terminal.

Stillman is a "coeducational, fully accredited, liberal arts-oriented college" in Tuscaloosa, Ala. It was founded by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U.S. in 1876 to provide educational opportunities for black males. It is still under the auspices of the General Assembly.

In speaking to the group, Dr. Stinson emphasized the proficiency which Stillman has demonstrated over the years in providing educational opportunities for these students who might not otherwise have a chance to go to college. He said that Stillman had enabled "literally thousands" of students to become fruitful, productive members of society. He talked of the rapid development of the college over the last 25 years and of its plans for continued growth.

Dr. Stinson pointed out, however, that such growth would depend largely on the college's financial status. New programs, new approaches to old tasks, increased salaries and benefits and spiraling operational costs have contributed to Stillman's budget doubling to almost $3 million over the last six years. In order to continue to progress, Stillman will need a substantial increase in endowment funds and in capital funds.

Dr. Stinson discussed the potential which such a substantial increase would help Stillman realize. He spoke of the goals of the Stillman College Challenge Fund which the college hopes to reach by its 100th anniversary in 1976. Reaching these goals would mean greater funds for student scholarships plus greater capital funds for building. The greater capital funds would enable Stillman to construct a new Physical Education Health Center and a new Humanities-Fine Arts Center.

Black Fraternal Group Makes Plea To Sell Liquor

HOUSTON (AP) — A state district court judge was to hear a plea today by a lawyer for a black fraternal group to obtain liquor licenses for 31 lodges of the order in the state.

Kenneth Hoyt, representing the National Sportsman Fraternal Order, said Thursday Judge Shearn Smith had agreed to a hearing on its merits of his motion to force the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission to license the lodges.

Law enforcement agencies, including the ABC, have been conducting raids on the lodges for serving liquor without a state license. The lodges contend the ABC has refused to issue the licenses.

Delegates Approve $1.8 Million More To Run Convention

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Constitutional Convention delegates had a new $1.8-million budget today to finish writing their version of a new state constitution.

The budget, that will cover the period from May 1 until July 30 if necessary, was approved late Thursday, 82-62, after almost four hours of argument.

If the convention should end before July 30 the remaining money will be returned to the state's general revenue fund.

The new budget will help the House out of a financial bind by transferring a large number of House employees, who have been doing convention work, from the House to convention payroll.

House leaders said the financial straits were caused by the first appropriations being made on estimates that the convention, which began Jan. 8, would last only 90 days.

"We have passed appropriation bills for two years in a heck of a lot less time than we spent on this," said Rep. Bill Healy, D-Paducah.

Rep. James Cole, D-Greenville, House administrator, explained that the new budget contains $307,000 for salaries of House employees who are now occupied with convention work. This is about $200,000 more than was previously budgeted for those employees, who are being transferred from the House payroll to the convention Tyler.

Witness Says Ridyolph Told Him Of Shooting

HOUSTON (AP) — A witness in the trial of a youth accused of slaying a Corpus Christi policeman, has testified the defendant told him of shooting an officer.

Alex Robinson of Corpus Christi testified Thursday during the murder trial of Richard Ridyolph, 19, charged in the 1971 slaying of Corpus Christi Patrolman John W. Sartin, 22.

Robinson quoted Ridyolph as saying, "I got a policeman," Sartin was shot as he walked from the rear of the Corpus Christi police station to go on patrol.

The defense claims Ridyolph was only shooting at the police station and did not mean to hit the patrolman.

Robinson said he saw Ridyolph standing near a fence about 140 yards from the police station with an "object" in his hands. He testified he heard a shot fired and that both he and Ridyolph ran back to the defendant's home.

Jaworski Finds No Major ITT Scandal

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the wake of three resignations that decimated his ITT task force, special prosecutor Leon Jaworski admitted that a year-long investigation failed to turn up evidence of a major scandal in the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. case.

Jaworski wrote a letter Thursday to Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Tex., giving a status report on the ITT probe following the resignations of the last of three assistant special prosecutors serving on the task force.

Jaworski said that although the case is not closed, "it is fair to say that there is no present expectation of a disclosure of such offenses."

Sources familiar with the case said they would not rule out the possibility that the task force, to be reorganized under assistant special prosecutor Richard Davis, would continue the probe in the same area. "But right now, the case just isn't there," they said.

The ITT case involved allegations that the government agreed to out-of-court settlement of three antitrust suits against the giant conglomerate in exchange for a pledge of financial support if the 1972 Republican convention was held in San Diego, Calif.

payroll to help the House out of a financial jam.

Cole said the House would be in the hole by as much as $300,000 by the end of the state fiscal year, Aug. 31, if the change was not made.

"The well has run dry," Cole said. "We are now asking you to pay for the convention costs, just from May on."

Numerous amendments to the budget were rejected, some to reduce and some to increase it. Several efforts were made to fix shorter adjournment dates for the convention.

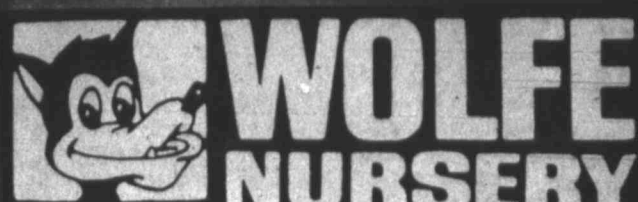

"Since the recess it has become obvious that some are bored, disturbed and disgusted with the proceedings," Rep. Tom Uher, D-Bay City, in support of a cutoff date of June 30. It failed 87-62.

Second Cutoff Amendment "We could save $810,000 by quitting on July 3," said Rep. Wayland Simmons, D-San Antonio, who offered another cutoff amendment. "It costs $30,000 a day to run this convention. During the Memorial Day holidays it cost the people $90,000 for us to take a three-day holiday."

"We're spending $15,000 this afternoon," said Rep. George Preston, D-Paris.

An amendment that would stop the pay and personal expenses of delegates on July 3, lost 82-55.

"You can't win a war by cutting the pay of the soldiers," said Rep. Billy Williamson, D-House Tyler.

Israeli Soldier Says Peace Hasn't Broken Out Yet

ISRAELI FRONT. Occupied Syrian (AP) — The plan to bring peace to the Golan Heights was ready for signing, but for a grimy-faced Israeli gunner loading shells into a 175mm howitzer, it was business as usual.

Kissinger Returns Home, Ending His Extraordinary 34-Day Peace Mission

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger returned home early today, ending his extraordinary 34-day peace mission that on three separate occasions nearly collapsed over Syrian and Israeli refusals to compromise.

The secretary of state and his weary party arrived in Washington four hours before Syrian and Israeli generals were to meet in Geneva to sign the agreement that will separate their warring armies on the Golan Heights.

Kissinger was to meet this morning with President Nixon and then brief congressional leaders on his latest success at shuttle diplomacy.

One sure topic for discussion between Nixon and Kissinger will be the President's upcoming trip to the Middle East, aimed at spurring momentum toward a permanent Arab-Israeli peace in a region where war has existed off and on for more than a quarter century.

Sources said Thursday that Nixon has tentatively decided to begin his Middle East trip the week beginning June 9. They said Nixon probably would spend from seven to 10 days visiting Israel, Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Jordan and perhaps Syria.

On leaving Jerusalem Thursday, Kissinger told newsmen the accord may become "a turning point in the history of the Middle East."

"The Israeli parliament voted 76 to 36 in favor of the agreement after a hot debate over whether it undermined Israel's security. Golda Meir, in probably her final appearance before parliament as prime minister, said the pact would prevent another war."

In Damascus, the 125-member regional command of the "Peace hasn't broken out yet. It's the same here today as it's been for weeks," he said. Israeli and Syrian forces were pounding each other with tank and artillery shells Thursday, the day after both sides agreed to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's disengagement pact.

Israeli soldiers, Arabs in Israeli-occupied Syrian villages and Jewish settlers on the Heights waited in hope that peace would come after 80 consecutive days of shooting, but in fear that it wouldn't.

"When we heard the news of the agreement, it produced a new feeling that maybe the last days of fighting will come soon," said artillery Sgt. Haim Gross.

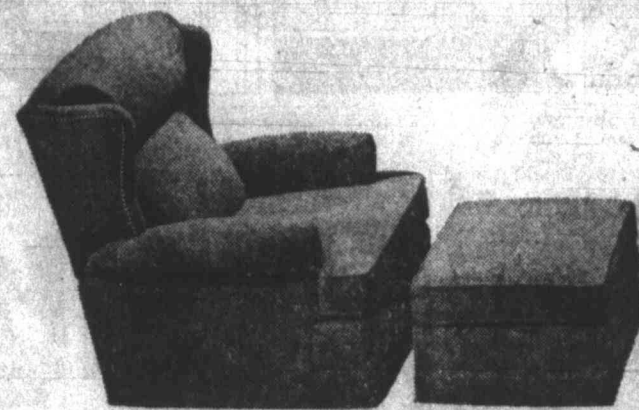

But Gross said the news had no effect on his orders. His battery of hulking, smoke-blackened 175mm howitzers blasted Syrian positions all day after incoming shells hit the Israeli strategic Mt. Hermon.

In the Arab village of Harfa, occupied on the 12th day of the October war by Israeli forces pushing toward Damascus, villagers were overjoyed with the news they would be returned to Syrian rule.

"We will welcome the Syrian soldiers like our own family,"
