Switch Parties

AUSTIN (AP) — The state Republican chairman says the party defections of two Democratic members of the Texas House show that the GOP is the growing force of conservatism in Texas.

A statement by Chester Upham Friday welcomed Reps. George Pierce of San Antonio and Ray Keller of Duncanville to Republican ranks. Both men describe themselves as conservatives.

Their change in party affiliation brings the number of Republicans in the Legislature to 45.

Ed Commissioner Picked

AUSTIN (AP) — Raymon Bynum, an expert on the intricacies of school finance, was appointed state education commissioner Saturday by the State Board of Education.

The board also approved phonics-oriented supplementary materials for first through third grade reading classes — a victory for back-to-basics forces led by Norma Gabler of Longview.

Bynum, 52, will succeed Commissioner Alton Bowen on June 1 for a term extending to 1985. Bowen is retiring.

Bynum was chosen over Spring Branch Superintendent Henry Wheeler in a 15-7 vote of the board when it met Friday as a committee of the whole. The action was ratified Saturday.

This Sunday is Mother's Day, a special day that most people are aware of. But it has even more significance, especially if you are a taxpayer.

This is tax freedom day for 1981. So far this year, the average American has been working for the government rather than himself. Everything he has earned from Jan. 1 to May 10 is required to pay his taxes levied by all of the entities from the federals to the municipalities and schools.

From now on, you'll be working for yourself this year.

Some of the figure filberts have calculated that the average American family will spend $4,338 on food, $3,699 on housing, $1,376 on clothes and $7,599 on government this year.

At least it is nice to know that the government's part has been taken care of by now, that is, of course, if you haven't taken any of your income since New Year's Day and squandered it on life's necessities.

They say that the tax freedom day came about a week later this year than it did in 1980, which means that it required wages for one week longer to pay off the government. Hopefully, the federals will reverse this trend now that most of the lawmakers seem to have the message from the voters.

One of the big problems, of course, is that too many people are not pulling their part of the load. They are the ones who are "taking out" instead of "putting in."

When we were in Washington, D. C., recently, we heard and read quite a lot about unemployment. Yet, the Sunday issue of the Washington Post had 300 columns of help-wanted ads. (That is not a typographical error—it's 300 columns, not 30). They covered the entire field from executives in the $75,000 per year class, to part time laborers at the minimum wage. A lot of the ads indicated that the advertisers were positively begging people to take jobs. This is the type of situation that has voters puzzled. How do Congressmen overlook such things?

As for Mother's Day, it's a bonanza for some folks, including Ma Bell. The phone people expect 28,000 long distance calls per minute this time as offspring dial their mothers on this special day. Some places in South Texas may have a bigger volume of phone calls than normal, they say, because Mexico's Mother's Day also falls on May 10 this time.

Off To Damascus

Envoy's Talks Prove Futile

Special envoy Philip C. Habib was to meet with Israeli leaders Sunday on the third stop of his tour.

His talks in Beirut Friday were held during the heaviest mid-city shelling in a week across the line that divides the city into Christian and Moslem sectors.

A police spokesman said eight people died and 30 were wounded as Syrian troops and rightist Christian militias traded artillery, rocket and tank fire, before calm was restored early today. The fighting sent about one-tenth of the city's 1 million residents to basement bomb shelters Friday, a spokesman said.

Meanwhile, Syria again refused Israel's demands to remove its Soviet-made anti-aircraft missiles from southern Lebanon.

The Syrians brought in the missiles April 28 after Israeli planes shot down two Syrian helicopters. Israel said the gunships were attacking its Christian militia allies near the besieged city of Zahle in eastern Lebanon.

"Air defenses, including missiles, are part of Syria's armed forces," the Syrian Defense Ministry in Damascus, said. "They exist now and so they will in future, anywhere Syrian troops are, to be ready for use whenever the need arises."

During the Syrian-Christian fighting in Beirut, some shells exploded about 500 yards from the presidential palace and the nearby residence of the American ambassador where U.S. presidential envoy Philip C. Habib held talks with Lebanese leaders in a bid to defuse the missile crisis.

Habib, a retired career diplomat, planned to leave for Damascus today for talks with Syrian officials. He is to meet Sunday in Jerusalem with Israeli leaders.

After conferring for about 90 minutes Friday with Lebanese President Elias Sarkis, Habib told reporters the situation in Lebanon was "dangerous."

In Moscow, Sovieo television criticized Habib's mission as "defending American interests in the region."

The Soviet Union's first deputy foreign minister, Georgy Kornienko, finished three days of talks in Damascus with Syrian leaders, and the official Soviet news agency Tass later called the sessions "useful" without giving details.

Syrian President Hafez Assad said his troops were ready to fight back any moves Israel might make to press its opposition to the missile deployment.

Israel contends the missiles threaten its ability to monitor Palestinian guerrilla operations in southern Lebanon.

S&L Makes Request For Branch

Homestate Savings Association of Sweetwater has filed application with the Texas Savings and Loan Department for authority to establish a branch in Snyder.

A hearing has been scheduled or 10 a. m. June 1 in the department's offices in Austin.

The application proposes a branch office for the Sweetwater firm to be located at 3405 College Ave.

Homestate Savings and Loan formerly operated under the name of Sweetwater Savings and Loan Association, and applied several months ago for a branch here under its former name. That application was rejected by the Texas Savings and Loan Department following hearings during which local financial firms opposed it.

The new application states that the Sweetwater firm feels that there is a need for a branch office here and that it woud not adversely affect other associations operating in the viciinity.

Japan Promises Boost In Defense Capability

WASHINGTON (AP) — Japanese Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki is promising President Reagan that Japan will try to fill the "vaccuum of naval protection" along its coastal waters and vital sea lanes by bolstering its defense capabilities.

But Suzuki's, pledge, which came Friday as he and Reagan concluded two days of talks, contained no specifics, senior U.S. officials said. Details are expected to be hammered out at a series of lower-level meetings beginning early next month.

In a speech at the National Press Club, Suzuki said increasing Japanese defenses could occur only "within the framework of our constitution," which forbids Japan from developing an offensive military capability.

Before leaving Washington for Ottawa, Canada, where he planned a four-hour stop and a meeting with Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau before returning to Japan, Suzuki confered with leading U.S. economic officials on American domestic economic planning.

Rioting Escalates In Belfast; Six Wounded

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The IRA escalated its campaign against Britain today, threatening to bomb a ship off Scotland where Queen Elizabeth II was to lunch with 90 dignitaries, wounding six policemen in a grenade and sniper attack in Belfast and touching off hours of rioting in Londonderry.

The Irish Republican Army claimed it planted a bomb on the Rangatira, a converted ferry where the queen and Prince Philip were to lunch during a visit to British Petroleum's oil terminal on Shetland island, in the North Sea 100 miles north of the Scottish mainland.

A BP spokesman said police searched the vessel but found no explosive device and that the lunch went on as scheduled. It was not clear whether the queen was advised of the bomb scare or if there was an evacuation. The queen was making her first visit to the terminal, the largest in Europe.

About 600 people were evacuated for three hours from an orphanage and a nursing home in Newry, 44 miles south of Belfast, after a bomb hoax at a natural gas works.

A crude hand grenade exploded under a police vehicle in West Belfast, injuring five officers, while another officer patrolling there was shot and seriously wounded by a sniper, police said.

In Londonderry, Northern Ireland's second largest city, about 100 rioters battled police for four hours. Youths hurled 300 gasoline bombs and 60 acid bombs at police in the Roman Catholic Bogside district.

Roommate Is Charged In Aggie Death

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — A 20-year-old Texas A&M student from San Antonio has been charged with murder in the stabbing death of his roommate, authorities said.

Leighton Barry Hurst, a sophomore wildlife and fisheries science major, was accused Friday of killing Joseph Dill, 19, a San Antonio freshman who had majored in accounting, police said.

The victim had been stabbed several times and his throat slashed, police said. Hurst was held in the Brazos County Jail in Bryan.

Burn Victim Is Improved

Raymond Smith, 24, earlier listed in critical condition here, is now in stable condition at Lubbock General Hospital. Smith was injured in an apparent flash fire Friday afternoon when his hot oil truck caught fire about three miles southeast of Snyder as he was treating a tank.

Smith received first, second and third degree burns over 35 percent of his body. Oilfield workers saw the blaze and took Smith to Cogdell Hospital. Soon afterwards, he was transported by Scurry County EMS to Lubbock General where he is in the medical intensive care unit.

Smith is a driver with the local family business, Smith Hot Oilers Inc.

Snyder fire fighters responded to the blaze and were successful in preventing the nearby tanks from catching fire.

Oil Activity Booms...

Service Firms Continue Expansion

By LOIS GLEASON

The Western Company and BJ Inc. are both making major changes here by bringing in cementing services to keep up with the oil boom.

BJ Inc. leased the old Globe Vacuum building and has built a bulk plant there and has redone the old Globe building. They plan to open a satellite station here in about two weeks. They have been doing local work but were operating out of Sweetwater.

"The boom is such that we feel we can handle our business better by having a substation in Snyder," says Harry Littleton, district manager in Sweetwater. The station is to open with two cement trucks, two bulk trucks, and other equipment.

Littleton says they will move some people up here from Sweetwater but will also try to hire local personnel. They will begin operations with eight employees and hope to expand to a larger operation. Tom Hudson will be the station manager in Snyder.

The Western Co. expanded their national operations from irac work to include cementing operations a few years ago. But the Snyder station won't begin cementing till October 1.

They have already been hiring people here and in surrounding areas and are training them in places like Odessa and Abilene. These employees will be moved back to Snyder Sept. 1.

Chuck Kelly, district manager here for Western, says they plan to go from the 45 employees they have now up to 105 employees. He cites the low unemployment statistics here as the reason he has found so few local people to hire.

Western has already leased 20 units of an apartment complex which will not be under construction till June 1, to house the personnel which will move in. The complex is to be located between Snyder Oaks Nursing Home and the Kingswood Estates.

Kelly says when operations begin here they will have 18 bulk trucks, four pump trucks and auxiliary equipment. Plans also call for construction of a bulk plant, a few more bays on the shop, a locker room and more offices.

Both Littleton and Kelly feel there is enough work in Snyder to warrant such expansion. "The boom," says Littleton, "will last quite a while — at least till we catch up on our oil imports." Even then, he says, it won't be a big slow-up.

Meanwhile, Halliburton's operations here continued at a brisk pace. Joe Fowler, Halliburton's district superintendent, said the firm would continue to expand as demands for service increased. Halliburton has been gradually bringing in more employees for several months.

ALBERT LEWIS
...Tiger coach

Weather Permitting....

Tiger 9 To Try 'Stangs Tonight

Fingers were crossed in hopes that overcast skies this morning would not let loose with a downpour, possibly causing officials to postpone tonight's District 2-AAAA baseball game here between Snyder and Andrews high schools.

The second-round contest is scheduled for 7:30 at Moffett Field.

SHS athletic director John Gary said the field would be usable despite last night's brief but heavy rain, if no more showers occurred.

Weather has already stopped several Tiger games this season, including their first-round contest with Pecos, which was finally cancelled because Snyder had already won the round.

Tonight's game is expected to bring Gerald Don Hicks, 3-2-1, to the mound for Snyder and Jamie Price atop the hill for the Mustangs - the same matchup used when the Tigers edged the Mustangs 5-3 in Andrews back on April 10.

"They didn't pitch Price against Monahans earlier in the week (a 14-2 loss) so they must be saving him for us, trying to knock us off," said Snyder Coach Albert Lewis. "He's a tough one."

Price's record was unavailable, but he's been pegged for all-district honors since early in the season. He held the Tigers to one run on 10 hits through six innings in their previous meeting, until Snyder overcame a 3-1 lead with five seventh-inning hits.

Hicks' last decision came against Andrews and he did a stellar job, striking out nine batters, walking only one and allowing six hits over seven innings.

Along with his pitching, Snyder hopes to counter the Mustangs with a .357 batting average - the primary strength of the Tigers this season. In fact, with a frequently used nine, the hosts are hitting .379.

Lewis' bunch has come up with 29 home runs in just 25 games and is averaging 10.36 hits a contest to its opponents' 5.6.

Knepper, Astros Shut Out Chicago Cubs, 6-0

CHICAGO (AP) - The Houston Astros have shown Bob Knepper a few things about playing baseball, and the left-hander acquired from the San Francisco Giants is showing the Astros a few things about pitching.

Although Knepper was without his good fastball Thursday, he had enough to hurl Houston to a 6-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs as he effectively scattered six hits, struck out five and walked only two.

It was his third victory of the season since going to Houston in a trade for third baseman Enos Cabell last winter, and all three have been shutouts.

Knepper, who soon will be 27, hurled successive 1-0 shutouts against Los Angeles and Cincinnati but was involved in a non-decision start against Pittsburgh before blanking the Cubs.

"The defense certainly helps a pitcher," said Knepper in assessing his new teammates. "And the overall attitude of the team is positive. It's contagious. You might fall behind, but the team never quits. They're always battling."

Knepper also felt his pitching has been a positive factor toward the Astros' recent surge, which includes nine victories in the last 11 games and an 8-2 record on the current road trip, which will end with a four-game set in Cincinnati.

The Astros got their early lead by jumping on starter Randy Martz, 1-1, for two runs in each of the first two innings before Ken Kravec came in and put a halt to things.

A walk to Terry Puhl, singles by Craig Reynolds and Danny Heep and a sacrifice fly by Jose Cruz gave the Astros a pair in the first inning.

Knepper singled to open a two-run second, which included a pair of walks, another sacrifice fly by Cruz and a run-scoring single by Art Howe.

Rangers Rally To Defeat Sox

ARLINGTON (AP) - In the first 22 games of this season, the Chicago White Sox had been charged with 18 errors, which put them about in the middle of the American League statistically. But after 23 games, the Sox have collected 22 errors, three of them in one inning.

That was the eighth inning of Thursday night's 9-4 loss to the Texas Rangers, who took advantage of the three miscues for seven runs, four of them unearned.

It gave the Rangers their first sweep of a series with Chicago since 1976.

"The errors they made were on real tough plays," said Rangers outfielder Leon Roberts, who scored the first run in the eighth inning outburst. "It's not like they caved in."

Roberts opened the inning with a single and was moving on the pitch when John Grubb laid down a bunt to advance Roberts to second. But Chicago relief pitcher Ed Farmer was not able to field it cleanly.

"The ball rolled into a little hole and fell away from me," said Farmer, 0-2. "I couldn't grab it good and I had to hurry the throw."

He threw it into right field. Roberts charged around third and headed for home where he collided with Chicago catcher Carlton Fisk.

Roberts bowled Fisk over and scored, Harold Baines' throw from the outfield skipped into the Chicago dugout and a hard running Grubb - who scored three runs for Texas - came home too.

That gave Texas a 4-3 lead with no outs and the damage had just begun.

Jim Sundberg singled, Mark Wagner doubled and Bump Wills drove them both in with a single.

Wills stole second, Al Oliver walked, both players moved up on an infield out and scored on a single by Bill Stein.

To complete the scoring, Stein crossed the plate when Chicago third baseman Jim Morrison booted a ground ball by Roberts, who was batting for the second time in the inning.

Chicago had taken the lead on Baines' bases-loaded triple in the sixth that scored Tony Bernazard, Greg Luzinski and Lamar Johnson.

Bob Babcock, 1-0, won the game in relief of Jon Matlack.

Request Nixed

MADRID (AP) - Soccer's ruling body rejected the North American Soccer League's request to change any playing rules and warned that the NASL would be suspended from official recognition if it did not apply the international regulations.

Rockets Claim Second Game

BOSTON (AP) - The Boston Celtics, having lost the battle against overconfidence, are a step closer to losing the war against the Houston Rockets.

The dominant feeling among observers was that the contest for the National Basketball Association title would be no contest. Rarely has there been such a disparity in the records of the final combatants.

The Celtics were 62-20 in the regular season. The Rockets were 40-42. Going into Thursday night's second game of the championship series, Houston had lost its last 14 games against the Celtics and was 3-31 in Boston.

Like many others, the Celtics apparently expected the series to be brief - until Thursday night.

Showing strong defense in the last half of the fourth quarter and capitalizing on sloppy Celtic play, the Rockets rallied from a seven-point deficit in the final 7:09 and won 92-90 to even the best-of-seven series at one game apiece.

"We just played a very poor basketball game. It's a demonstration of what guys do when they get a big head," said Boston forward Cedric Maxwell.

The Rockets didn't win their eighth post-season road game, a playoff record, simply because Boston played poorly. The brilliance of Houston center Moses Malone, coming off a mediocre opening performance, had a lot to do with the victory.

Malone had 13 points and 15 rebounds in the Celtics' 98-95 victory Tuesday night but came back with 31 points and 15 rebounds Thursday night. After Boston took an 82-75 lead with 7:09 to go, Malone scored seven points, blocked two shots and stole a pass.

Larry Bird led Boston with 19 points and, for the second straight game, grabbed 21 rebounds. He also had five of Boston's 22 turnovers. The Celtics had 19 in the first game.

Until Thursday night, Boston had won all 29 games this season in which it had held its opponent below 100 points.

Pair Share Lead In Nelson Classic

DALLAS (AP) - Tom Watson, trying to capture his fourth consecutive Byron Nelson Golf Classic over a course where he is a dues-paying member, shot a 4-under-par 66 Thursday, but had to share first-round honors with 23-year-old Tim Norris, a rookie who has won only $1,922.

Watson, seeking to equal Walter Hagen's record as the only player to win the same tournament four consecutive times, got off to a blazing start over the Par 70 Preston Trail Golf Club by making birdie on three of the first four holes.

He birdied two of the first three holes on the back nine after turning in 32 but suffered his only bogey of the day when he bunkered his second shot on the 428-yard par 4 No. 16.

Norris, who attended Fresno State and has a PGA Tour high finish of 41st at the Doral Open, fashioned fine iron play into six birdies that were offset by two bogeys.

Switch Parties

AUSTIN (AP) — The state Republican chairman says the party defections of two Democratic members of the Texas House show that the GOP is the growing force of conservatism in Texas.

A statement by Chester Upham Friday welcomed Reps. George Pierce of San Antonio and Ray Keller of Duncanville to Republican ranks. Both men describe themselves as conservatives.

Their change in party affiliation brings the number of Republicans in the Legislature to 45.

Ed Commissioner Picked

AUSTIN (AP) — Raymon Bynum, an expert on the intricacies of school finance, was appointed state education commissioner Saturday by the State Board of Education.

The board also approved phonics-oriented supplementary materials for first through third grade reading classes — a victory for back-to-basics forces led by Norma Gabler of Longview.

Bynum, 52, will succeed Commissioner Alton Bowen on June 1 for a term extending to 1985. Bowen is retiring.

Bynum was chosen over Spring Branch Superintendent Henry Wheeler in a 15-7 vote of the board when it met Friday as a committee of the whole. The action was ratified Saturday.

The SDN Column

This Sunday is Mother's Day, a special day that most people are aware of. But it has even more significance, especially if you are a taxpayer.

This is tax freedom day for 1981. So far this year, the average American has been working for the government rather than himself. Everything he has earned from Jan. 1 to May 10 is required to pay his taxes levied by all of the entities from the federals to the municipalities and schools.

From now on, you'll be working for yourself this year.

Some of the figure filberts have calculated that the average American family will spend $4,338 on food, $3,699 on housing, $1,376 on clothes and $7,599 on government this year.

At least it is nice to know that the government's part has been taken care of by now, that is, of course, if you haven't taken any of your income since New Year's Day and squandered it on life's necessities.

They say that the tax freedom day came about a week later this year than it did in 1980, which means that it required wages for one week longer to pay off the government. Hopefully, the federals will reverse this trend now that most of the lawmakers seem to have the message from the voters.

One of the big problems, of course, is that too many people are not pulling their part of the load. They are the ones who are "taking out" instead of "putting in."

When we were in Washington, D. C., recently, we heard and read quite a lot about unemployment. Yet, the Sunday issue of the Washington Post had 300 columns of help-wanted ads. (That is not a typographical error—it's 300 columns, not 30). They covered the entire field from executives in the $75,000 per year class, to part time laborers at the minimum wage. A lot of the ads indicated that the advertisers were positively begging people to take jobs. This is the type of situation that has voters puzzled. How do Congressmen overlook such things?

As for Mother's Day, it's a bonanza for some folks, including Ma Bell. The phone people expect 28,000 long distance calls per minute this time as offspring dial their mothers on this special day. Some places in South Texas may have a bigger volume of phone calls than normal, they say, because Mexico's Mother's Day also falls on May 10 this time.

Off To Damascus

Envoy's Talks Prove Futile

Special envoy Philip C. Habib was to meet with Israeli leaders Sunday on the third stop of his tour.

His talks in Beirut Friday were held during the heaviest mid-city shelling in a week across the line that divides the city into Christian and Moslem sectors.

A police spokesman said eight people died and 30 were wounded as Syrian troops and rightist Christian militias traded artillery, rocket and tank fire, before calm was restored early today. The fighting sent about one-tenth of the city's 1 million residents to basement bomb shelters Friday, a spokesman said.

Meanwhile, Syria again refused Israel's demands to remove its Soviet-made anti-aircraft missiles from southern Lebanon.

The Syrians brought in the missiles April 28 after Israeli planes shot down two Syrian helicopters. Israel said the gunships were attacking its Christian militia allies near the besieged city of Zahle in eastern Lebanon.

"Air defenses, including missiles, are part of Syria's armed forces," the Syrian Defense Ministry in Damascus, said. "They exist now and so they will in future, anywhere Syrian troops are, to be ready for use whenever the need arises."

During the Syrian-Christian fighting in Beirut, some shells exploded about 500 yards from the presidential palace and the nearby residence of the American ambassador where U.S. presidential envoy Philip C. Habib held talks with Lebanese leaders in a bid to defuse the missile crisis.

Habib, a retired career diplomat, planned to leave for Damascus today for talks with Syrian officials. He is to meet Sunday in Jerusalem with Israeli leaders.

After conferring for about 90 minutes Friday with Lebanese President Elias Sarkis, Habib told reporters the situation in Lebanon was "dangerous."

In Moscow, Sovieo television criticized Habib's mission as "defending American interests in the region."

The Soviet Union's first deputy foreign minister, Georgy Kornienko, finished three days of talks in Damascus with Syrian leaders, and the official Soviet news agency Tass later called the sessions "useful" without giving details.

Syrian President Hafez Assad said his troops were ready to fight back any moves Israel might make to press its opposition to the missile deployment.

Israel contends the missiles threaten its ability to monitor Palestinian guerrilla operations in southern Lebanon.

Japan Promises Boost In Defense Capability

WASHINGTON (AP) — Japanese Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki is promising President Reagan that Japan will try to fill the "vaccuum of naval protection" along its coastal waters and vital sea lanes by bolstering its defense capabilities.

But Suzuki's pledge, which came Friday as he and Reagan concluded two days of talks, contained no specifics, senior U.S. officials said. Details are expected to be hammered out at a series of lower-level meetings beginning early next month.

In a speech at the National Press Club, Suzuki said increasing Japanese defenses could occur only "within the framework of our constitution," which forbids Japan from developing an offensive military capability.

Before leaving Washington for Ottawa, Canada, where he planned a four-hour stop and a meeting with Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau before returning to Japan, Suzuki confered with leading U.S. economic officials on American domestic economic planning.

Rioting Escalates In Belfast; Six Wounded

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The IRA escalated its campaign against Britain today, threatening to bomb a ship off Scotland where Queen Elizabeth II was to lunch with 90 dignitaries, wounding six policemen in a grenade and sniper attack in Belfast and touching off hours of rioting in Londonderry.

The Irish Republican Army claimed it planted a bomb on the Rangatira, a converted ferry where the queen and Prince Philip were to lunch during a visit to British Petroleum's oil terminal on Shetland island, in the North Sea 100 miles north of the Scottish mainland.

A BP spokesman said police searched the vessel but found no explosive device and that the lunch went on as scheduled. It was not clear whether the queen was advised of the bomb scare or if there was an evacuation. The queen was making her first visit to the terminal, the largest in Europe.

About 600 people were evacuated for three hours from an orphanage and a nursing home in Newry, 44 miles south of Belfast, after a bomb hoax at a natural gas works.

A crude hand grenade exploded under a police vehicle in West Belfast, injuring five officers, while another officer patrolling there was shot and seriously wounded by a sniper, police said.

In Londonderry, Northern Ireland's second largest city, about 100 rioters battled police for four hours. Youths hurled 300 gasoline bombs and 60 acid bombs at police in the Roman Catholic Bogside district.

Roommate Is Charged In Aggie Death

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — A 20-year-old Texas A&M student from San Antonio has been charged with murder in the stabbing death of his roommate, authorities said.

Leighton Barry Hurst, a sophomore wildlife and fisheries science major, was accused Friday of killing Joseph Dill, 19, a San Antonio freshman who had majored in accounting, police said.

The victim had been stabbed several times and his throat slashed, police said. Hurst was held in the Brazos County Jail in Bryan.

S&L Makes Request For Branch

Homestate Savings Association of Sweetwater has filed application with the Texas Savings and Loan Department for authority to establish a branch in Snyder.

A hearing has been scheduled or 10 a. m. June 1 in the department's offices in Austin.

The application proposes a branch office for the Sweetwater firm to be located at 3405 College Ave.

Homestate Savings and Loan formerly operated under the name of Sweetwater Savings and Loan Association, and applied several months ago for a branch here under its former name. That application was rejected by the Texas Savings and Loan Department following hearings during which local financial firms opposed it.

The new application states that the Sweetwater firm feels that there is a need for a branch office here and that it woud not adversely affect other associations operating in the viciinity.

Burn Victim Is Improved

Raymond Smith, 24, earlier listed in critical condition here, is now in stable condition at Lubbock General Hospital. Smith was injured in an apparent flash fire Friday afternoon when his hot oil truck caught fire about three miles southeast of Snyder as he was treating a tank.

Smith received first, second and third degree burns over 35 percent of his body. Oilfield workers saw the blaze and took Smith to Cogdell Hospital. Soon afterwards, he was transported by Scurry County EMS to Lubbock General where he is in the medical intensive care unit.

Smith is a driver with the local family business, Smith Hot Oilers Inc.

Snyder fire fighters responded to the blaze and were successful in preventing the nearby tanks from catching fire.

Oil Activity Booms...

Service Firms Continue Expansion

By LOIS GLEASON

The Western Company and BJ Inc. are both making major changes here by bringing in cementing services to keep up with the oil boom.

BJ Inc. leased the old Globe Vacuum building and has built a bulk plant there and has redone the old Globe building. They plan to open a satellite station here in about two weeks. They have been doing local work but were operating out of Sweetwater.

"The boom is such that we feel we can handle our business better by having a substation in Snyder," says Harry Littleton, district manager in Sweetwater. The station is to open with two cement trucks, two bulk trucks, and other equipment.

Littleton says they will move some people up here from Sweetwater but will also try to hire local personnel. They will begin operations with eight employees and hope to expand to a larger operation. Tom Hudson will be the station manager in Snyder.

The Western Co. expanded their national operations from irac work to include cementing operations a few years ago. But the Snyder station won't begin cementing till October 1.

They have already been hiring people here and in surrounding areas and are training them in places like Odessa and Abilene. These employees will be moved back to Snyder Sept. 1.

Chuck Kelly, district manager here for Western, says they plan to go from the 45 employees they have now up to 105 employees. He cites the low unemployment statistics here as the reason he has found so few local people to hire.

Western has already leased 20 units of an apartment complex which will not be under construction till June 1, to house the personnel which will move in. The complex is to be located between Snyder Oaks Nursing Home and the Kingswood Estates.

Kelly says when operations begin here they will have 18 bulk trucks, four pump trucks and auxiliary equipment. Plans also call for construction of a bulk plant, a few more bays on the shop, a locker room and more offices.

Both Littleton and Kelly feel there is enough work in Snyder to warrant such expansion. "The boom," says Littleton, "will last quite a while — at least till we catch up on our oil imports." Even then, he says, it won't be a big slow-up.

Meanwhile, Halliburton's operations here continued at a brisk pace. Joe Fowler, Halliburton's district superintendent, said the firm would continue to expand as demands for service increased. Halliburton has been gradually bringing in more employees for several months.

Not Only Mothers Get Special Day Greeting

Kansas City, Mo. (AP)—You don't necessarily have to have borne children — or even be a woman — to receive a Mother's Day card this year, says a greeting card company official.

More than 125 million cards, a record, will be given or sent for the May 10 observation but only about 50 percent of them actually will be titled "To Mother," according to Hallmark's Tim Scheele.

"There semms to be a desire afoot to spread the holiday's affection to friends, relatives and other people in our lives, hence the demand for titles addressed to sister, daughter, niece, aunt, grandmother, great-grandmother and granddaughter," says Scheele.

Although most starfish have five rays, some have six or more. Twelve-armed species have been taken in the Gulf of Mexico.

House Okay Court Changes

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — House members tentatively approved Friday a plan to erase Texas' three-year backlog of 3,600 appeals from criminal case convictions in state district courts.

A final vote, which includes the creation of 30 new appellate positions, is expected Monday.

It must return to the Senate for consideration of numerous House changes made in the Senate-approved bill.

The court shakeup was ordered by Texas voters in 1979 when they approved a state contitution change.

Basically the bill would make the 14 current Courts of Civil Appeals into Courts of Appeals that would handle both civil and criminal cases sent them from district courts.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, which currently handles cases sent direct from district courts, would handle only death penalty cases or appeals sent them from the new intermediate courts.

The 30 new appellate judges, increasing the state total from 51 to 81, would result in new judges in Houston, Fort Worth, Austin, San Antonio, Dallas, Amarillo, El Paso, and Corpus Christi.

A House amendment on handling the backlog of appeals cases provides the main difference with the Senate-approved bill.

The House refused, 76-57, to accept the Senate plan for the new courts to take over about half of the 3,600-case backlog, with the Court of Criminal Appeals handling the remainder. The House voted for the Court of Criminal Appeals to handle all the accumulated cases and let the new court start handling new criminal appeals, effective next Sept. 1.

"If we sent these old cases to the new courts it will just create a backlog in them like there is in the Court of Criminal Appeals," said Rep. Robert Maloney, R-Dallas.

"The people wanted justice to be swift," argued Rep. Jim Turner, D-Crockett, in support of the Senate plan. "It would just be fair to transfer half of all these old cases to the new courts."

Another House amendment, by Rep. Lynn Nabers, D-Brownwood, would require the state to pay for office space and furnishing for all the courts. He said this would affect mostly courts in Houston, Waco, Beaumont, Eastland, Tyler and Corpus Christi where local funds pay office costs now.

Maloney said Nabers' amendment might not cost much at first "but if other cities find the state is paying the costs it may not be long before they will be asking courts to move out of their space into space provided by the state."

Estimates for the cost of the salaries for the new judges were placed at about $4.5 million a year for the next five years. The bill limits salaries for appeals judges at not less than $3,000 below that paid justices of the Texas Supreme Court.

Efforts to authorize new judges for El Paso, Odessa, Lubbock and Abilene were defeated.

An effort to have the new judges elected instead of appointed by the governor was tabled 68-58.

All It Takes Is Green Stuff

SUVA, Fiji (AP) — Stateless persons and others who want a quick change of nationality can buy the protection of the Polynesian kingdom of Tonga for $2,375 a year under legislation adopted by the islands' legislative assembly. An acre of volcanic land is included.

The Tongan Passport Act has been amended to allow non-Tongans to hold a "Tongan protected person's passport," the government newspaper The Chronicle reported.

To obtain the special passport, a foreigner must lease an acre of Tongan land. The new law sets aside 1,021 acres on the island of Fonulei, north of Nuku'alofa, the capital, for leasing in one-acre tracts at $11,875 each. The lease and the passport is renewable every five years for $11,875 more.

Revenue is believed to be the purpose of the passport scheme.

OEA WINNERS—Geneva Martinez and Jill Linam of Western Texas College display the plaques they were awarded as winners in the national Office Education Association competition in Corpus Christi. Students from 14 states participated in the contest.

Viet Vets Lobby In Austin

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The veterans wore old dress uniforms, battle fatigues, T-shirts asking "Don't forget the Vietnam Vet," but a child warned the crowd that government may not respond.

"By the time the U.S. government studies Vietnam veterans, there may not be any more," said Chad Jordan, son of Vietnam vet activist Dan Jordan.

Jordan and about 100 other veterans gathered on the Capitol steps at a Friday rally — well-attended by politicians — celebrating the state's first Vietnam Veteran's Day, proclaimed by Gov. Bill Clements last month.

After the morning march and demonstration, the vets swarmed inside the Capitol to lobby for passage of a bill to aid victims of Agent Orange, the powerful chemical defoliant used during the war.

Bright orange stickers showed up on lapels everywhere, indicating support for the measure.

Agent Orange has been blamed for causing cancer, liver disease, respiratory illness, internal bleeding, and psychological problems in the men who were exposed to it, and birth defects in their children.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring, would let the Texas attorney general represent veterans in lawsuits for damages and more information about the effects of Agent Orange, set up screening programs to discover genetic or other damage done by the chemical, and help veterans file for aid.

"I, too, have bad days. I, too, spit blood," said Roy Benavides of San Antonio, referring to the damage done by Agent Orange.

"It's wounded veterans who pray for peace most of all, because we know," the Medal of Honor winner said.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby had high praise at the morning rally for the war the former soldiers fought.

"You heroes, you veterans, we are privileged to honor you," Hobby said. "You fought in an unpopular war, but it was a war fought for human dignity and decency.

"The Vietnam war was a noble endeavor in the advancement of human freedom," he said. "It was opposed by those elements in our society who deny we have a stake in human freedom, and who think we should not have a national will."

SHS Ex Directs Top Play

Snyder High School's one-act play failed to place in the state finals at Austin, but the local school had an interest in the winner.

Taking first place in the judging was the play staged by Georgetown High School students. Their director is Amber Dawn Walker, a Snyder High graduate and former pupil of Jerry Worsham, the veteran SHS drama director. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Walker, 3003 42nd St.

However, Snyder came in for some individual honors. Jack O'Banion was named best actor, while Mark Robertson and Barry Tubb received honorable mention for the all-star cast.

Snyder High holds the record of seven state championships in the UIL one-act play competition.

Brownfield placed second and Gregory-Portland placed third in the judging behind Georgetown.

Retiree Benefits Axed By Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, while recognizing "the impending solvency problems" of the Social Security system, is stopping short of endorsing a Senate plan to reduce annual cost-of-living increases for 44 million retirees.

The Senate voted 49-42 Friday to trim by $7.9 billion cost-of-living increases for recipients of Social Security and Supplemental Security Income, as well as for railroad, federal and military retirees.

Officials say the Social Security system's main trust fund, which pays retirement checks, will run out of cash in late 1982 or 1983.

Budget director David A. Stockman, however, told Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd in a letter that President Reagan still opposes altering the the annual cost of living increases that help retirees keep pace with inflation.

White House aides and their congressional allies indicated they did not fight the Senate plan because they expect the projected $7.9 billion in savings to be achieved elsewhere — without cutting cost-of-living benefits.

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said President Reagan will propose cuts of $8 billion next year in Social Security and other programs administration officials have called a social "safety net" for the truly needy.

Stockman's letter to Byrd, D-W.Va., said the administration "does recognize the impending solvency problems of the Social Security Trust Fund. Significant savings are needed."

Health and Human Services Secretary Richard S. Schweiker will come up with "a package of reforms designed to maintain the solvency" of the fund, Stockman wrote.

Speakes said raising the age of eligibility for Social Security from its current level of 65 was one of many possible reforms under consideration.

The Senate action came as the Republican-controlled chamber considered its own version of a 1982 budget blueprint.

The vote was on a Democratic-led attempt to reverse the Senate Budget Committee's recommendation for trimming cost-of-living adjustments by basing them on either a wage index or the Consumer Price Index — whichever is lower.

Many experts say the Consumer Price Index, currently used to adjust the retirement benefits, actually overstates inflation.

The committee also recommended putting the annual increase into effect Oct. 1, beginning in 1982, instead of the current date of July 1.

"If we're going to vote today to rip away that part of the safety net...and break the president's promise, then I think we've said there is no part of the safety net that can be depended on," said Sen. Donald Riegle, D-Mich., in urging that the inflation adjustments be kept intact.

The $699.1 billion Senate budget proposal — like the Reagan-backed plan adopted Thursday in the House — is designed to accomodate the deep cuts in taxes and spending the president wants. The Senate is expected to complete work on it Tuesday.

But the budget plan adopted by the House assumes no changes in cost-of-living adjustments for retirement programs. The differences between the two plans will have to be worked out in a House-Senate conference committee.

Thirty-six million retirees, disabled workers and their families will get an 11.2 percent increase in July that will add $15.4 billion to the cost of the $140 billion Social Security and other retirement programs.

Warning Issued On Pork Cooking

WASHINGTON (AP) — A livestock industry group is supporting the Agriculture Department's campaign to warn consumers about the potential dangers of cooking pork in microwave ovens.

The department said Friday that pork cooked in microwave ovens must be heated thoroughly and uniformly to 170 degrees Fahrenheit to destroy any trichinae and other harmful microorganism that might be present.

An official of the National Livestock and Meat Board, which has its headquarters in Chicago, supported the warning and added a few extra cooking tips for consumers.

The department emphasized that it issued the warning as a precaution and that no outbreaks of illness related to pork have been reported.

Trichinae are parasitic worms which cause trichinosis in farm animals and humans. It is relatively rare in the United States. Pork from hogs that are fed uncooked garbage is the major source of the disease.

Donald L. Houston, administrator of the department's Food Safety and Quality Service, said preliminary unpublished studies "indicate that under certain circumstances trichinae and food poisoning bacteria may not be destroyed by microwave cooking."

The warning did not apply to those who use regular ovens for cooking pork. However, the department recommends that pork in those ovens also be cooked to 170 degrees.

Department officials said U.S. Census figures showed that microwave ovens were used in about 6.1 million homes as of Dec. 31, 1979, nearly 8 percent of all households. They also are used widely in lunch rooms, delicatessens, schools and other institutions.

ANNUAL GIFT PROGRAM

Desite the changes in the estate and gift tax laws, a gifting program is still an excellent tool for reducing federal estate taxes.

If your annual gift to any one recipient does not exceed $3000 it does not create a gift tax. The $3000 limitation is per year, per recipient, from each donor.

If a father transfers $3000 in cash or fair market value of property to each of four children, he can transfer $12,000 annually for as many years as he chooses. If his spouse consents to a "split-gift" he can double the amount of annual gifting. The spouse does not have to have a financial interest in the property given to qualify for the joint gift.

If this non-taxable $24,000 annual gift is continued for a period of ten years, you will have removed $240,000 from your estate. If your estate would have been a one million dollar taxable estate, this gifting program would have reduced your federal estate taxes by $93,600. On a $500,000 taxable estate, you would have saved $81,600.

In addition to the annual exclusions, you are entitled to transfer $175,000 of assets tax-free during your lifetime. In any year where the gifts to any one recipient exceed the annual exclusion, the entire transfer will be brought back into the computed value of your estate. Despite this inclusion in your estate, there are still two advantages to sizable gifts in excess of annual exclusions.

If you live at least three years from the date of transfer, the property will be included in your estate, but only at the value as of the date it was gifted. You have, therefore, frozen the maximum value to be subject to estate taxes.

A second permanent benefit is that the income derived from the property transferred will be taxable to the recipient for all the years that he has been in possession of it.

There are many long range consequences of a gifting program, and you should therefore seek professional assistance.

VEGETABLE BLOOMS DROPPING

Before long blooms will be dropping from squash, cucumbers and tomatoes in many home gardens.

On squash and cucumbers, male flowers which produce pollen are separate from female flowers which produce fruit. To complicate matters even more, male and female flowers may not be open on the plant at the same time. If this happens, flowers will fall off due to lack of pollination.

Usually male blooms will appear first on squash and cucumber plants. Male blooms are attached to the plant by a green stem while each female bloom has a small squash or cucumber attached directly behind the petals.

Female squash and cucumber blooms falling off early in a plant's life when male blooms are not present is normal. However, when female and male blooms are both present and female blooms continue to fall off, then there's a pollination problem.

Pollination means the transfer of male parts to female parts. This task usually is accomplished by bees or insects visiting the flowers. Blooms of squash and cucumber plants are only open for one day. If pollination does not occur during this period when the bloom is open due to lack of pollinating insects, then inadequate pollination occurs and fruit drop follows.

If pollination is a problem, you can hand-pollinate the blooms. This involves pulling a male bloom and rubbing or dabbing it on the female bloom. The result will be that you'll have squash to eat within five to seven days.

Tomato blooms drop off because of another type of pollination problem. The tomato bloom, unlike squash and cucumber, is classified as a perfect flower, which means that the same flower has both female and male parts. The problem is that female parts of the flower that must be pollinated are located above the male part which produces pollen. If pollen is inactivated by high temperature or made sticky by cool, wet, cloudy conditions, the female flower part will not be pollinated and the entire flower and the potential tomato will fall off.

Tomato flowers are wind, or mechanically pollinated, so you don't have to worry about having bees. Flowers can be artificially set or made to stay on plants by using blossom-set hormone which is sold by many local garden centers or nurseries. These tomato-setting products are most effective during early spring when cool temperatures and cloudy conditions cause poor fruit set.

So, if your blooming vegetables start dropping their flowers, try to figure out the reason why. A little time and attention paid to your plants during this criticial period will result in more groceries on the dinner table.

In 1896, Miami was incorporated as a town with a population of only 260.

Redistricting Brings Usual Array Of Problems

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Your legislator's political future and the kind of representation you will get for the next decade hinge on events of the next three weeks.

One thing is sure. Population shifts are going to force some lawmakers out of their jobs and change the kind of voices that speak for many Texans.

Legislative redistricting overshadows all else at this stage of the session. Knots of lawmakers frown over district maps, ignoring debate of major bills.

Redistricting must be done by June 1 or a five-member board will draw the new lines.

Carve a district the "wrong" way, and a legislator loses his base of support and his low-paying but powerful and prestigious job.

Sen. Tati Santiesteban, D-El Paso, presides over Senate redistricting, and his biggest problem is what to do with five West Texas districts without sufficient population to support that number of senators. In Houston and Dallas, where population has shifted from the inner city to the suburbs, the issue is whether to draw purely ethnic districts. There is no black senator now.

Rep. Tim Von Dohlen, D-Goliad, chairman of the House redistricting committee, has identified numerous areas where suburbanization, population loss or slow growth create difficulties.

He estimates that as many as 10 of the new districts could force incumbents to run against each other.

Von Dohlen spent an hour recently outlining the problem areas in reapportioning the 150 House seats, and here are his observations, as well as some recent developments, by regions of Texas.

— West Texas: One rural seat will be lost in the Lubbock-Amarillo area, but Speaker Bill Clayton has eased that problem by deciding not to run again for state representative from Springlake. Districts represented by Reps. Bill Heatly, D-Paducah, dean of the House; Larry Shaw, D-Big Spring; Walter Grubbs, D-Abilene; and Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield, are underpopulated, and one pairing of incumbents is likely — very possibly Heatly with Shaw.

— East Texas: Rep. David London, D-Bonham, is sure to be paired, probably with Rep. Smith Gilley, D-Greenville. London's district includes part of Grayson County, which will not be split in this year's redistricting.

— Central Texas: Williamson County, a booming suburban area north of Austin, will dominate the heretofore rural district of Rep. Dan Kubiak, D-Rockdale. Williamson County has 78,000 people, while Kubiak's home county, Milam, has 22,000. There will have to be some splitting to approximate the ideal population of 94,000.

— Harris County: "Confusion reigns," one observer said, with Republicans, anglo Democrats and Mexican-American Rep. Al Luna, D-Houston, issuing conflicting plans. The county will gain two representatives, with an excess population of 20,000 to 40,000 people to be attached to one or more rural or suburban districts. The core city has lost population, but Von Dohlen predicts there still will be six "clearly minority districts."

—Dallas County: Shifts to suburbs in adjoining counties will reduce the number of representatives from 18 to 16. There might be problems preserving minority representation. Black Rep. Sam Hudson, for example, has a district that is 40 percent below the ideal population. Republicans and Democrats are at odds over which party will lose representation.

—Bexar County: One seat will be lost. Population loss has occurred in San Antonio's inner city. One district will be shared with an adjoining county. The Mexican-American Legal Defense Fund (MALDEF) has proposed a plan protecting Mexican-American incumbents while jeopardizing Republican Reps. Kae Patrick and Alan Schoolcraft. Von Dohlen said there was no danger of losing Mexican-American representation.

—Tarrant County: All representatives but Doyle Willis, D-Fort Worth, have agreed to a proposal that protects all incumbents but Willis. He would be placed in a predominately black district with Rep. Bobby Webber, a black. Some of Willis' constituents have held protest meetings.

Mexican-American, but some Mexican-Americans want even higher percentages. "Mexican-Americans have come to the committee and requested that we pack those districts in areas where they have identified green card carriers (citizens of Mexico with work permits) to assure that they are minority districts," Von Dohlen said. Packing districts with Mexican-Americans could hurt Rep. Mary Polk, D-El Paso, who has counted on their support. "Mary Polk is caught in the squeeze," Von Dohlen eaid.

—Nueces County: This county grew slower than the state as a whole. Possibilities include adding parts of Jim Wells of San Patricio counties to the district of Rep. Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi. There also is a possibility of pairing Rep. Leroy Wieting, D-Portland, with Berlanga or Rep. Ken Riley, D-Corpus Christi.

—South Texas: Cameron and Willacy counties will gain strength, from four representatives to five. The Lower Rio Grande Valley's gain might be the Middle Valley's loss, with a possible pairings of Reps. Ernestine Glossbrenner, D-Alice, and Irma Rangel, D-Kingsville.

—Jefferson County: Will lose one representative, and possible pairs include Reps. Frank Collazo, D-Port Arthur, or Bo Crawford,, D-Beaumont, with Rep. Jerry Clark, D-Buna.

Arrest Leads To Charges In Two Separate Theft Incidents

Police arrested one man Friday night in connection with a felony theft that occurred at Mal Donelson Chev. earlier this week. Everything that had been taken was recovered.

The arrest was made after officer Richard McCulley, during another theft investigation, noticed a vehicle at the American Motor Inn which was believed to have been involved in the theft. He reported it to Lt. Warren and Sgt. Neeley, who made the arrest.

Recovered were several tools, tires and hubcaps which had been taken from four different vehicles parked at Mal Donelson Chevrolet.

The other theft McCulley was investigating was also at the American Motor Inn. In that, Kent Gardner said that a class ring, on which he set a value of $1,500, was taken sometime Thursday evening or Friday.

In other activity, Dr. Mary Hood reported that her 35mm camera had been lost or stolen. Value was set at $350.

Officer Don Whittenburg investigated a minor accident Friday afternoon in the 1200 block of College Ave. Involved was a 1975 International flat bed truck driven by Truman Leon Franks and a 1979 Chevrolet flat bed truck driven by John Wayne Jones.

At 4:09 p.m., McCulley investigated a hit-and-run accident at the Snyder Drug parking lot. Involved in that was a 1978 legally parked Chevrolet owned by Patricia Nix, and a vehicle which left the scene. Only minor damage was reported.

At 12:48, police answered a disturbance call at the Smith apartments and arrested two subjects for public intoxication. Following booking procedures, one of the men was also charged with possession of marijuana, less than two ounces.

French To Vote On President

PARIS (AP) — The French decide Sunday whether to give center-right President Valery Giscard d'Estaing another seven-year mandate or opt for the drastic change of direction offered by Socialist Francois Mitterrand.

Most analysts have termed the election, a rematch of the 1974 contest, too close to call. In the 1974 election, Giscard d'Estaing won by a 1.6 percent margin, or just over 420,000 votes.

The president is campaigning on his record, which he says has been marked by stability, the maintenance of France's position in the world, and an economic program which, if not completely successful, at least is better than most Western countries have managed in a time of world economic crisis.

Mitterrand has called that record a total failure, pointing to an unemployment rate of 7.3 percent, representing nearly 1.7 million jobless, and inflation at a consistent 12 to 14 percent. His program calls nationalization of the remaining private banks and 11 major companies along with large increases in public spending and public works projects to create jobs.

Giscard d'Estaing has retaliated by saying Mitterrand's program of nationalization would frighten away private investors and that his plans for a 35-hour work week with no loss of pay would be inflationary and in fact increase unemployment because of added costs to business.

"I propose five objectives: conquer unemployment, restart the economy, construct a more just, more free and more responsible society, restore the vigor and independence of France and defend peace in the world," Mitterrand said in a final television broadcast.

The president closed out his campaign by saying: "If you elect my opponent, it will result in political disorder... If you elect me ... we will begin again on another foot, but with neither shock nor disorder."

Giscard d'Estaing has homed in with vigor on Mitterrand's weakest point — the fact that he will be forced to compromise with France's pro-Soviet Communist Party if he is to govern effectively.

Reagan Greets Those Who Aided In Victory

JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — They came in a trickle at first, the Republicans from the Northeast and Midwest. Then came the Southern Democrats.

But the trickle turned into a flood, as Ronald Reagan opened the door of the Oval Office and invited 60 or so members of Congress who were crucial elements, in the view of White House aides, in his effort to win his biggest test so far on Capitol Hill.

Now, the president is at Camp David, relaxing in the mild spring of a Maryland mountaintop. His top aides took a day off — Chief of Staff James A. Baker III was turkey hunting on Saturday — and others also left the White House, missing Farah Fawcett, who peeked in at the vacant Oval Office.

And the Democrats were left wondering whether they could resist another ride on the Reagan roller coaster when it starts running on the tax track.

Before he left town, Baker told reporters that the White House had viewed the vote on the budget-slashing blueprint "tough but do-able."

The next test, on the president's desire to cut income taxes 10 percent a year over three years, is "tougher but do-able," Baker said.

Luxuriating in the afterglow of the 270-154 vote of late Thursday, Treasury Secretary Donald Regan said Friday that the administration would stand firm on the size and timing of the tax cut plan.

But he did indicate there may be some room for compromise on a few minor aspects of the tax-cut package.

Larry Speakes, a deputy White House press secretary, said Saturday, "we don't plan any compromise, but the president has always said he's willing to listen to anyone who has an idea."

Administration official took pleasure in pointing out that the measure that was approved by the House on Thursday was not the president's original budget plan.

By setting the overall fiscal 1982 budget, which goes into effect next October, at $689 billion, the House cut even further the budget the president sought in his own effort to reduce government spending.

The measure emerged as a compromise sponsored by Rep. Delbert L. Latta, R-Ohio, and Rep. Phil Gramm, a conservative Texas Democrat.

New Mexico Woman Hurt

An Alamagordo, N.M. woman was injured in a one vehicle rollover nine miles west of town on 180 after she apparently fell asleep at the wheel Friday afternoon. The passenger in the car was not hurt.

Annette Heinle was transported by Scurry County EMS to Cogdell Hospital where she was said to have suffered a head laceration and muscle strains. She was released Saturday morning.

Another accident Friday afternoon occurred six and a half miles west of town. In that, a 1979 truck driven by Richard Weatherly of Balch Springs, Texas was in collision with a 1976 Ford pickup driven by Harley Deihl of Snyder.

The mishap occurred when one of the westbound vehicles made a left-hand turn onto Farm Road 1606. Both vehicles sustained heavy damage but were driven from the scene. No one was reported injured.

Trooper Gary Brewer, department of public safety, investigated both accidents.

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization was created April 4, 1949, by a treaty signed in Washington.

HEALTH TIP from DEAN

ROUGHAGE VS CANCER

"To avoid cancer of the colon or rectum, doctors are switching patients from a bland, refined diet to high roughage (lettuce, bran cereal, etc.), says Dr. H. M. Pollard of U. of Michigan. "In countries with high roughage diets you find the lowest incidence of cancer of the colon. They have good bowel activity." He recommends whole grain cereals and raw vegetables — avoid refined (white) flour and puddings.

Student Militants Now Working Within System

EDITOR'S NOTE — The times they have a'changed. A telling difference between the decades of the '60s and '70s is the comparison of college student presidents. The protestors of the past now seem more like corporate businessmen working within the system.

By SCOTT KRAFT
Associated Press Writer

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — When student protest turned bloody at Kent State in 1970, shouts of frustration from a college campus here echoed off the foothills of western Massachusetts.

Student leaders marched. They led sit-ins. They took over buildings.

A decade has passed. University of Massachusetts student leaders still are commited to changes. But they work from inside — rather than outside — the system. Inside the chancellor's office. And inside the statehouse.

The student body president today is a partner in the education business. He rarely need march to be seen or shout to be heard.

"Where it's available, and where it works, you have to work through the system," says Richard LaVoice, co-president of the UMass student body.

Instead of picketing, LaVoice and his counterparts across the country are filing lawsuits. Instead of criticizing big business, they run multimillion-dollar, student-owned corporations. Instead of looking askance at the profit motive, they talk incessantly of the need to have a "marketable" degree.

Instead of staging a sit-in at the Board of Trustees meeting, LaVoice sits inside — on the board and with a vote. And instead of sitting in silent protest in the chancellor's waiting room, LaVoice is ushered in — without an appointment — for frank discussions.

The people who ascend to the student soapbox also have changed. Student presidents are older, as is the average student. And they are likely to be studying business or science, rather than the traditional political science.

Like his predecessors, LaVoice still arranges concerts and fights the administration bitterly when he spots an injustice, using rallies, lawsuits and boycotts.

But the 21-year-old senior also travels to Boston and Washington to lobby for more state aid for the school and its 24,000 students. And he oversees an operation that includes a student federal loan bank, a health food restaurant, sporting goods store, bicycle shop, photo service, staff of attorneys and 30-bus transit fleet that carries 17,000 people a day across the campus.

Brenham Loses Track Title By Disqualification

AUSTIN (AP) - Gregory-Portland and Goliad took state titles in girls high school track Friday night in a meet that featured a national record and a heartbreaking finish for defending 4A champ Brenham.

The 4A title went to Gregory-Portland after Brenham's 1,600-meter relay team, the apparent winner in the final event, was disqualified. The win would have given Brenham the title, but the relay team was disqualified when anchor runner Florence Walker cut off a Canyon girl.

Gregory-Portland had no entry in the 1,600 relay, but its 40 points were good enough for the title. The Brenham relay team included K.K. Felvey, who won the 800 and 1,600-meter races.

The only race Gregory-Portland won was the 200-meter dash, taken by Pam Mitchell.

Brenham and Dallas Madison tied for second with 37 points.

Goliad, with 42 points, held on to win the 3A crown by running fourth in the 1,600 relay at windy Memorial Stadium.

New Caney's Terri Turner set a national record in the triple jump with a leap of 40-9½, shattering the record of 40-1½ set in 1980 by Charlotte Reese of Flora, S.C.

Chandai Phillips of Waco Connally topped the national best in the 100-meter hurdles, but the 13.6 effort was wind-aided and won't stand as a record.

State and conference records also fell on the first day of the two-day meet. Catherine Shaw of Ballinger won the 3A shot put with a state record toss of 46-1½.

Conference records in 4A included a new mark in the 400 relay, a 46.8 turned in by Dallas Madison. Jacksonville's Michell Tatum cracked the 4A shot put mark with a 43-3¼ heave.

Melinda Clark of A&M Consolidated set a 4A high jump mark at 5-10. The 100 meter record also bettered by Vernon's Gina White, who ran a quick 11.8.

Camille Cockerham of Red Oak set a 3A high jump record by clearing 5-9. A new 400 relay record was set by Waller's foursome, with a time of 47.5

Palestine Westwood's Bonita Brown set a 3A 11 meter record at 11.7. She nipped Goliad's Estell Barfeld, who set the Junior Throws 40-7¼...

Anderson 2nd At State

AUSTIN -- Brenda Anderson took second place in the Class 4A shot put competition here Friday evening, clinching the position with a throw of 40-feet, 7¼ inches on her final toss of the day.

Michelle Tatum of Jacksonville won the competition, setting a new conference record of 43-3¼.

Until her final throw, Anderson's best had been a 39-1½, which would have left her in fifth place - exactly where she finished here last year as a sophomore.

"I knew I had to do it. It was my last throw," said Anderson. "So I sent (coach Patty) Grimmett away and I did it."

Sent her away?

"Everytime Brenda is not doing so well I walk off," laughed the coach. "Sometimes she can't seem to concentrate as well when she knows I'm there watching her."

The second-place finish was right in line with Anderson's hopes, who now has her sites set on a gold medal for her senior year.

"I want to win, but I'll be happy with second place this year," she had remarked before leaving for Austin on Thursday.

Grimmett testified that she was indeed happy after the competition.

"She couldn't go to bed last night. She was hyper after it was over. As a matter of fact, she still is," said the coach. "And I don't blame her at all!"

Third in the competition was Delaine Wilder of Mount Pleasant with a throw of 39-4½, followed by Tina Schoubroek of Livingston, 39-4¼; Netta Bridgewater of Wharton, 39-3¾; and Teresa Moore of Rockport Fulton, 36-10.

Houston's Reid Coming On Strong In Playoffs

HOUSTON (AP) - Forward Robert Reid, the unknown Houston Rockets defensive wizard, has been traveling in elite company during the National Basketball Association championship playoffs.

He's dogged the footsteps of some of the NBA's most prominent players all the way to the NBA championship finals, where he's showing his technique to Boston's Larry Bird.

Reid, who symbolizes the "we-don't-get-respect" Rockets, shadowed Los Angeles' Jamaal Wilkes in the first round miniseries and drew Kansas City's Scott Wedman as his defensive assignment in the NBA Western Conference finals.

Now it's Bird's turn.

"I'm going to be so close to him that I can tell you what cologne he wears," Reid said after the Celtics won the opening game of the title series in Boston. "By the time this series is over, I'll be able to tell you how many hairs are on his chest."

Reid at least got a rough count in Game Two at Boston Thursday night when Bird scored 19 points as the Rockets evened the series 1-1 with a 92-90 victory.

The count continues in the third game and fourth games today and Sunday at The Summit.

Although Bird has been responsible for two of the most talked about shots of the series, a pair of driving cork-screw layups, Reid feels he's been doing his defensive job.

"If I can hold him to 20 points that's a good day," Reid said. "My priority is to keep the ball out of his hands. That's not easy to Degrate's Homer Puts Hosts Over Top...

Tigers Out-Punch Andrews Here, 6-4

Tony Degrate's fifth-inning two-run homer gave Snyder the distance it needed as Albert Lewis' Tigers pegged Andrews for their eighth straight District 2-4A victory here Friday night, 6-4.

The Tigers, 18-7-1 on the season and 8-0 in district play - 3-0 in the second round - meet arch rival Pecos in Pecos at 7:30 Tuesday in a game which could end up deciding the loop championship. Pecos defeated Monahans 9-5 on Thursday to remain spotless in second-round district competition. All of the other loop contenders have one or more losses.

Snyder spotted the Mustangs a three-run lead in the top of the first inning as eventual winning pitcher Gerald Don Hicks started slowly. The left-hander walked leadoff hitter Jamie Gonzales who later scored on an error, and three singles later Robert Ramirez and Buddy Price came across the plate.

"I almost pulled him out of there in the first inning," recalled Lewis. "But I decided to keep him in a little longer and he responded."

Hicks, now 4-2-1 on the season, gave up just three more hits in the next six innings to handcuff the visitors. Andrews' only other point came on a third inning home run by Price.

Snyder batsmen also started slowly, though Brent Roemisch and Curtis Gafford opened the bottom-first with singles.

Jamie Price, 6-2 on the season, fanned the next three batters to temporarily preserve Andrews' 3-0 lead. Jesse Hernandez led off the Tiger second inning with a single and Barry Davis cracked a run-scoring double to get the hosts going. Snyder still couldn't capitalize however, as Price and company put the next three batters down in order.

After Buddy Price's homer made it 4-1, Snyder went to work. Gafford reached on an error in the third and later scored on a wild pitch. Perry Echols clubbed a single, stole second and took third on the stray pitch. Mike Roemisch then hit a sacrifice fly to bring him in, making the game 4-3 in favor of Andrews.

Snyder took the lead in the fifth when Degrate slammed a two-out homer out of the park, scoring himself and Gafford, who had reached on a walk.

"I thought they might pitch past Tony," said Lewis. "We didn't have Curtis steal because we didn't want to invite them to do that. But they pitched to him, I guess because the next man up, Jesse, had already gotten two hits."

Degrate's homer made it 5-4 Snyder, and Barry Davis put the icing on the win in the fifth when he belted Price's first pitch over the fence for his second hit of the day.

"That was another thing I was glad to see," relayed the coach. "Barry had been having some trouble lately and he got two hits in the game. He was getting the job done for us this game."

Davis' two-for-three performance equaled Hernandez's as tops for the day, while Gafford was officially one-for-two with a walk and two runs.

Despite the loss, Price recorded another good evening on the mound, walking only one batter and striking out 12.

Hicks, whose last decision was a first round victory over the Mustangs, walked two and fanned eight.

Cooney Gets Chance Monday Against Norton

NEW YORK (AP) - "I never claimed to be great, never will," says Gerry Cooney, who will settle for just being champion.

The 24-year-old Long Island Irishman takes what should be a last step toward a heavyweight title bid Monday night when he fights Ken Norton, a man who knows the pressure of bigtime boxing, in a scheduled 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden.

And it will be a million-dollar step or stumble for Cooney, who is unbeaten and ranked No. 1 by both the World Boxing Council and World Boxing Association, but who is still questioned in the areas of the quality of his competition, his ability to take a punch and his stamina.

The 35-year-old Norton is getting $850,000 to find the answers. If Cooney answers the questions negatively, Norton would be right back in the title picture, he occupied for most of the 1970s.

"Right now I'm feeling good because I enjoy fighting again," said Norton, who twice has fought for and failed to win the universal title and who gained WBC title recognition when Leon Spinks was stripped for failing to defend against Norton.

"My goal is to do the best I can every time a fight," said Norton, who lost the title in his first defense on a split decision to Larry Holmes June 9, 1978. He then retired after being knocked out in one round by Earnie Shavers and fighting a 10-round draw with Scott LeDoux in 1979. He launched a comeback last Nov. 7 with a split decision win over previously unbeaten Randy Cobb.

"I'm just a fighter like anybody else," said Cooney, who tires of being called a "White Hope." He also is weary of being referred to as a one-armed fighter who throws only left hooks. That hook sent sparring partner Walter Santemore to the hosptital Friday with a split lip.

do because I have to run through two or three picks at a time. It's a struggle.

"He moves around a different screen about every four feet. You've got to worry about stopping him, but you've also got to worry about not getting tangled up in a screen."

Reid's playoff performance also has been impressive to Rockets Coach Del Harris, who has been preaching the gospel of defense since he was a Rockets assistant coach under Tom Nissalke.

"Robert Reid has become a man during the last month," Harris said. "We already had two of the toughest competitors in the league in (Calvin) Murphy and (Moses) Malone."

Houston's victory Thursday marked the Rockets' eighth road victory in the playoffs and broke the record of the 1968 Celtics. The victory also ended two Celtics strings - 14 straight victories over the Rockets and 29 straight victories where the opponent was held below 100 points.

Reid figures, however, that low-scoring games favor the Rockets.

"A low-scoring game in this series will be on our side," he said. "We aren't a running team. We have to slow it down and get them in a half-court game."

Softball Group To Begin Fund Raising

Snyder Girls Softball Association will be selling an all-purpose cleanser to raise funds for purchasing additional uniforms and other equipment.

Jerry McNew, president of the association, and a committee of Lucille Beuerlein, Ena Flack, M.J. Merritt and Nancy Wilson will meet Monday at 7:30 in the Snyder Savings and Loan basement to discuss the project.

Joining the committee will be team mothers of every division of the league, Beverly Greene, Mrs. Allen Doty, Janet Spence, Suzette Martin, Mrs. Thomas Brown, Mary Ann Caldwell, Linda Cox, Kay Jennings, Mrs. George Page, Mrs. Joe Hicks, Mrs. R. L. Murph, Patsy Ashworth and Jan Pierce.

Fishin' Report

Catfishing continued to set the pace at Lake E.V. Spence during the past week, but striped bass were stirring again. There were numerous reports of blue catfish catches, along with channelcat and a few yellowcat. The largest was a 17-8 bluecat, but pressing closely was a 15-0 striper.

Reports from the lake included:

Paint Creek Marina-- C.C. Weir, Robert Lee, 9-8 blue catfish; A.L. Womack, Odessa, 8-0 yellow catfish; Doug Phillips, San Angelo, and Roy Blair, Sterling City, a 16-7 blue catfish on trotline.

Wildcat Fish A Rama-- Bill Emerson, Big Spring, a 6-0 striper.

Skinny's Hillside-- Jim Hubbard, Robert Lee, a 17-8 blue catfish; a 15-0 striper and three channelcat to 2-0; Bill Ensor and Sparks Burdett, Robert Lee, 10 channelcat to 3-0 and a 7-0 blue catfish; Wallace Tomlinson, Robert Lee, 14½-pound yellowcat and 20 channelcat to 2-0; D.A. Counts and Larry Sproles, Robert Lee, 11 channel catfish to 4-0; C.C. Weir, Robert Lee, two 6-0 stripers, six crappie and two blue catfish to 10-0.

At Lake J.B. Thomas, fishing was beginning to stabilize after the disruptions occasioned by a 3.19-foot rise. Oscar Valle, Big Spring, strung 15 channel catfish up to 5-0 and D.W. McComas, Snyder, exhibited a 2-0 crappie caught on minnows.

Crappie fishing has been has been fair to good, mostly with minnows on jigs; black bass fishing fair in four to six feet of water in brushy areas; channel catfishing good, mostly on trotlines; white bass fishing fair. Yellow catfish and walleye fishing have been poor.

Lake Spence continued to inch up, topping elevation 1879.02 Friday, or one foot over the service spillway. It has gained 4.12 in the past fortnight.

Game Study Conducted

A year-long game management study is being conducted at Lake J.B. Thomas by the Texas Parks and Wildlife fish biologists.

During this week, specialists out of the department's San Angelo office have been taking gill net samplings for census, variety, and size of fish in the lake.

Every other month they will conduct shoreline seining for water samples and census of forage fish.

In August and September, they will perform several sove samplings in which they will net off one square acre areas for a complete check of fish by variety, size, weight, etc. At the same time, agenst will be checking habitat and bottom conditions.

Bill Follis, in charge of the San Angelo office, said that a complete report of the survey will be available, perhaps about a year from now. The report, he noted, should not only present a comprehensive picture of fishing conditions at the lake now, but serve as a guide for future fish management in the reservoir.

Lake Thomas is approximately 30 years old.

Insurance FACTS
by Tom Deffebach
YOUR Independent Insurance AGENT SERVES YOU FIRST

Term insurance is protection bought for a limited period or term. Protection ends at the end of the term and the policy has no savings or cash value. Because it is strictly for short term protection, the cost is relatively low although the cost tends to increase with each renewal and sometimes becomes prohibitive at older ages. Some term policies do not permit renewal without a medical examination. Term insurance can provide stopgap protection for young couples until they are able to afford insurance to cover permanent responsibilities.

We can cover all your insurance needs at the DEFFEBACH AGENCY, 1801 27th, 573-5611. Anytime you have a question come in and visit with us. We'll do our best to answer it. Our knowledge and experience benefits our customers. Open: Mon. thru Fri.—9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Insruance Tip:

Term insurance is best used as additional protection for temporary periods of extra risk.

Farm Pest Management

By BILL JANY
Scurry-Mitchell Entomologist

Conditions at a glance appear great for planting cotton. Soil moisture levels range from good to excessive, soil temperatures are bove 60 degrees. So, why wait?

For those producers who have their land ready for planting, this question has probably gone through their minds.

I am sure every farmer has his own opinion about when the right time to plant is, and most of them are based on many years of successful farming experiences. Every farmer knows that many variables affect seed germination, not the least of which are soil moisture levels and temperature of both the soil and the air above it.

Too much or too little soil moisture and too low soil temperatures can cause a good planting to produce a poor stand of very slow growing plants, forcing the farmer to replant or to live with this situation for the rest of the season. With a good year like this one, where the farmer is banking on a good harvest, planting early may cost you more than you thought you could gain.

I have been monitoring our soil temperature levels in Mitchell County and at the Big Spring Research Center for the past several days. They have been ranging at the 60-degree level for the past several days. Now, a general rule of thumb that many farmers use is to plant after the soil temperature measured at the eight-inch depth has averaged 60 degrees for 10 consecutive days. They will quickly add that if you are using less than good quality seed, wait until the average soil temperature is around 70 degrees.

Soil moisture levels not only influence soil temperature levels but also can influence the incidence of seedling disease. The higher the soil moisture level, the greater risk off seedling disease, especially when soil temperatures are low, and poor quality seed is planted.

Temperature as we have already discussed is very important not only with seed germination, but seedling growth also. Seedling growth is slowed considerably when soil temperatures are low. When soil temperatures are combined with high soil moisture level and poor quality seed, the incidence of seedling disease is greatly increased because of the poor plant vigor, slow growth rates and environmental conditions favoring disease pathogens.

A study conducted at the Lubbock research center several years ago not only supports this claim, but also shows that early planted cotton did not produce blossoms significantly before cotton planted in the latter part of May, mainly because of the lower soil temperatures during the beginning of May. Of course Lubbock is quite a way north of Mitchell County, but most researchers would agree that the results would be similar if the study was conducted in Mitchell County.

Managing the boll weevil should be an important concern to all farmers. We have been very fortunate the the past several years. Unfavorable environmental conditions for boll weevil survival and reproduction and effective management programs have allowed cotton producers to grow their crops without severe economic loss from this pest. Unfortunately, some producers have forgot how much damage boll weevils can do to a crop and how difficult and expensive they are to control. The way this season is shaping up, it appears that conditions for boll weevil survival and reproduction will be optimal. Given two years of these same optimal conditions without some sort of management program, and boll weevils could increase to economically damaging numbers.

Begonia plants in Brazil grow to a height of 18 feet.

Texas Midshipman Has Approval To Wear Boots

By CHARLES RICHARDS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Texas midshipman will get to wear his cowboys boots and hat during his offduty hours at the Naval Academy after all, after the inquiry by the chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee into a purported ban on the attire.

After getting a letter in which the midshipman called the purported ban "a disgrace to my culture," Republican Sen. John Tower asked Rear Admiral William F. McCauley, commandant of midshipmen, to rescind the reported ban.

"In my view, as an old Navy man who enjoys the comfort and appearance of boots, I see nothing inappropriate about our Naval midshipmen wearing well-kept boots and hats in their civilian activities," Tower told the commandant.

After all, said Tower, the commander-in-chief himself dons western wear for certain civilian activities. If Ronald Reagan considers them appropriate, surely students at the Naval Academy should be allowed to wear them on their off time, Tower added.

A spokesman for the commandant said Friday it was all a misunderstanding, that the midshipman from El Paso had misinterpreted a memorandum issued on March 5 by the brigade commander, a midshipman himself.

One paragraph of the one-page memo had listed as inappropriate civilian attire: "torn, frayed, dirty or faded jeans; T-shirts, bib overalls, cowboys hats and cowboy boots."

Dennis Box, public affairs officer at the Naval Academy, said the paragraph "was used in the context of an example of an outfit that would not be appropriate, as opposed to singling out hats and boots."

Box conceded there are a couple ways to read that. And "I'm not arguing the way it could have been interpreted," he said. But "as a matter of fact, cowboy hats and boots of a presentable nature, not ... torn and frayed, are acceptable at the Naval Academy."

Box said Admiral McCauley had written Tower to assure him boots and hats are permitted at the Naval Academy.

Over 200 Attend API Fish Fry

The Snyder chapter of the American Petroleum Institute had its annual membership drive and fish fry on May 1 at the National Guard Armory. Over 200 people attended the function and proceeds are to be spent on furniture for the Cogdell Hospital.

Officers for the Snyder chapter are Bill Lemon, president; Larry Bills, vice-president; Jim Northcott, secretary; Harold Ellis, treasurer and Hood Jones, program chairman.

There are 155 members in the organization and membership is open to anyone interested in the betterment of the oil field, said Jones. Many Snyder businessmen are already members, he added. Anyone interested in joining can call one of the API officers.

The next scheduled API function is the joint effort with the American Institute of Mechanical Engineers on the June golf tournament. Hood also mentioned that Justin Wilson, comedian, will perform for the API members on Oct.15.

Students To Pre-Register

Pre-registration for the 1981 fall semester will begin Monday for students now enrolled at Western Texas College.

Students are to go to the student center to make out schedules. They are not required to pay fees at pre-registration but will be billed in August.

New students will be pre-registered during the summer on dates to be announced later.

Problems Seen For Supercode

EDITOR'S NOTE — Computers: they're everywhere in our lives, and, many people feel, causing problems of privacy. What if someone could come up with a "supercode" to protect the privacy? Sounds great —except some believe that might threaten national security. Here's a look at a not-so-secret conflict about computer codes.

By EVANS WITT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Working quietly, a university researcher develops a brilliant abstract theory that might result in a virtually unbreakable computer code.

Such a code would mean vastly improved protection of privacy for millions of Americans whose records are stored in computers and whose everyday transactions are handled by computer.

But an American intelligence agency steps in, arguing that publication of the theory could threaten national security.

Should the government prevent publication? Does it have the right?

These aren't hypothetical questions. They are the crux of a growing conflict between the super-secret National Security Agency and academic researchers invoking freedom of research and the First Amendment.

The implications are vast. There may not be a "supercode" yet, but researchers are working on theories that could lead to such protection of information stored in computers and the messages transmitted from computer to computer.

This conflict has already produced an unusual result: the agreement by a group of researchers to a system of voluntary censorship of their research in an esoteric field called cryptography, the study of codes and code breaking.

The researchers have agreed to give the National Security Agency a peek at research papers in cryptography before they are published, with the NSA reserving the right to ask for censorship of the papers.

The deal has sent shivers through the academic community.

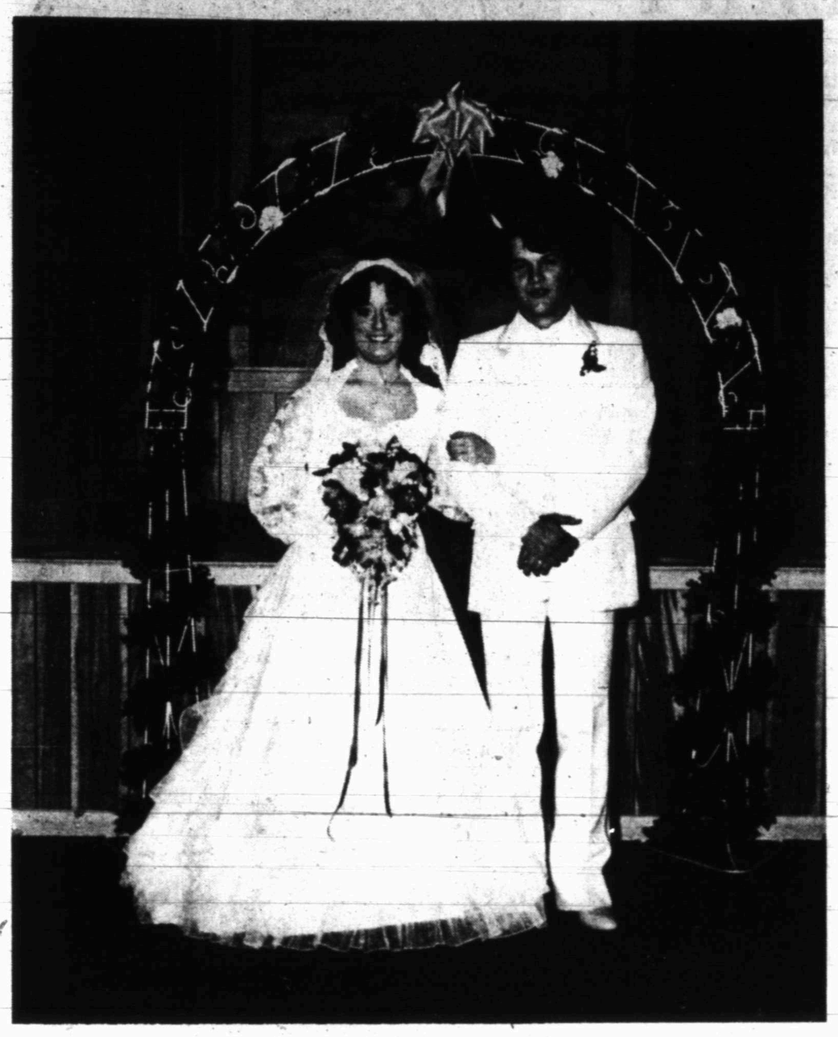
Pruitt, Goins Exchange Vows In Calvary Baptist Church



MR. AND MRS. BART WAYNE GOINS

Calvary Baptist Church was the setting for the wedding of Mary Cecelia Pruitt and Bart Wayne Goins on April 4 at 7:30 in the evening. The double ring ceremony was officiated by Larry McAden.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe M. Pruitt, 3717 Highland Drive, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goins, Carlsbad, New Mexico.

The couple said their vows before an arch of greenery entertwined with burgandy and pink carnations. Flanking each side of the arch was a candleabra and the family's pews were decorated with pink and burgandy bows.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Her wedding gown was of white organza featured a Queen Anne neckline trimmed with iridescent seed pearls and long sleeves of Chantilly lace which ended in points over the bride's hands. The chapel length train was covered with ruffles and her tiered veil of illusion was held in place by a Juliet cap with matching lace and seed pearls.

Something new for the bride was her wedding dress and something blue was her garter. A gold and diamond heart necklace, gift from the groom, was her something old. Her something borrowed was a diamond and ruby engagement ring which belonged to her maternal grandmother, Mrs. A.E. Clark, Coleman.

The bride carried a bouquet of silk burgandy camellias and pink roses with hand-blown crystal. Picot ribbon streamers with silk lily of the valley and seed pearls completed the bouquet.

Music for the ceremony included "You Needed Me" sung by Laquita Reaves, accompanied by Marion Constable on the piano and Darla Constable on the organ, "The Theme from Ice Castles", and "The Lord's Prayer" sung by Janelle McAden.

Serving as maid of honor was Christi Windham, Athens. She wore a floor length pink quiana gown with a blouson bodice. The split half sleeves tied on the shoulders. Her bouquet was of silk burgandy and pink roses with seed pearls and picot burgandy and pink streamers backed by white lace.

Susan Burnett, Mineral Wells, served as matron of honor while Donna Layne was a bridesmaid. Their dresses and flowers were identical to that of the maid of honor.

The flower girl was Rebecca Williams. She wore a dress of pink dotted swiss trimmed with a matching apron and wore a comb in her hair consisting of burgandy and pink daisies with streamers. She carried a white wicker basket trimmed in pink net with lily of the valley and burgandy and pink picot ribbon.

The best man was David Rainbolt, Amarillo. Groomsmen were Brett Goins, brother of the groom from Carlsbad, and Dusty Williams, brother-in-law of the groom. Cody Pruitt, brother of the bride, and Bobby Foust were ushers and the ring bearer was Steven Bellinger.

The reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church.

The bride's table was covered with a pink linen tablecloth belonging to the bride's grandmother, Mrs. A.E. Clark. It was overlayed with an ecru lace cloth on which sat the three tiered, heart shaped cake with burgandy and pink decorations. Presiding at the table were Media Pruitt, cousin of the bride from Roscoe, and Darla Constable, Wylie.

The groom's table was covered with a burgandy linen cloth overlayed with lace. The table held a chocolate, horse shoe-shaped cake and a centerpiece of pink and burgandy roses and lily of the valley with picot pink and burgandy streamers in a hand blown crystal vase. Robbie Williams, sister of the groom, and Sandy House presided over the groom's table. Sandy also registered the guests in the bride's book.

The couple now resides in Carlsbad.

The bride graduated from Snyder High School in 1979, then attended WTC where she majored in Secretarial Science. She worked for Von Roeder Seed Farms as a secretary.

The groom graduated from Carlsbad High School and works for Kenai Drilling.

The Martin Preuitt, Jr. chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met at the Martha Ann Woman's Club May 6 with eleven members in attendance.

Mrs. Henry F. Clark, Jr., past chapter regent, presided at the meeting and installed the following officers for 1981-1983.

They are Mrs. Louise B. Thompson, regent; Mrs. Clyde Hall, Jr., vice-regent; Mrs. Ivan Gatlin, chaplain; Mrs. Harry Ward, recording secretary; Mrs. David Strelecki, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Bernard Longbotham, treasurer; Mrs. Joe T. Alexander, registrar; Mrs. Fred Davis, historian and Mrs. Jarvis Bullard, librarian.

The program was given by Mrs. Fred Davis and titled "America's Natural Beauty—Wild Flowers." She showed slides of Texas wild flowers of which there are 5,000 varieties, which were narrated by the Texas Highway information division. Mrs. Davis told the group that Texas was the first highway department to add a landscape architect to its engineering staff. It has also been proved, Mrs. Davis pointed out, that a beautiful, colorful roadside is a safer one, according to the highway department, because it somehow makes the motorist more alert to his surroundings.

Hostesses for the luncheon were Mrs. Ivan Gatlin and Mrs. Jarvis Bullard. Mrs. Irene Hester and Mrs. Pearl Sellers were welcomed as new members.

MR. AND MRS. LYNN CARROLDSON BURLESON

Cannon, Burleson Vows Exchanged On April 4

Tina Louise Cannon became the bride of Lynn Carroldon Burleson in the Faith Baptist Church on April 4 at eight in the evening. Reverend Buck Hatfield officiated the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Bobbie Browne, 104 Peach, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Travis Burleson, Hermleigh.

The couple recited their vows before an archway entertwined with greenery and yellow daisies. A candleabra flanked each side of the archway and a basket of spring flowers was on the piano.

Music for the ceremony was provided by Tammie Farmer, pianist, who played the "Theme from Love Story" and "The Wedding March".

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Bill Rollins. She wore a white gown with an empire fitted waist and inset lace that trimmed the skirt, bodice and cap sleeves. Her headpiece was of white organza net trimmed with lace.

Penny Serventi, Weatherford, served as maid of honor. She wore a formal white gown trimmed in yellow and carried a bouquet of yellow daisies.

Serving as bridesmaid was Bobbie Brooks who wore a formal yellow gown trimmed in white. She also carried a bouquet of yellow daisies.

Jay Kincaid, Brownwood, served as best man and the groomsman was Carl Burleson, brother of the groom. Cory Lane Burleson and Doug Davis were ushers.

The reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the fellowship hall.

The bride's table was covered with a yellow tablecloth. The three-tiered wedding cake and an arrangement of spring flowers adorned the table at which Vicki Propect and Rene Aucutt presided.

The groom's table held a horse-shoe shaped chocolate cake. Deana Browne, cousin of the bride, registered guests in the bride's book.

After a wedding trip to Lubbock, the couple will reside in Snyder.

The bride attended Snyder High School and works at Hair Haven.

The groom graduated from Hermleigh High School and is employed at Massey Anchor.

Clock Thermostats

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Residents of 20 states who installed automatic clock thermostats in their homes during 1980 received a state tax credit in addition to federal incentives, an industry survey shows.

In 11 states, the added incentives were offered if the device was installed as part of a renewable-energy system, according to the survey released here by Honeywell. Seven other states granted tax breaks for installation of the thermostat alone and two offered special bonus plans as part of conservation tax programs.

The state tax breaks ranged from 100 percent deductions in Arkansas and Montana to deductions of 20 to 40 percent in California, Colorado, Oregon and Rhode Island.

These savings supplement federal energy tax credits of up to 15 percent available to all taxpayers.

To Each Her Own

WASHINGTON (AP) — Because you like a perfume spray on someone else does not mean you'll like the same perfume on yourself. That is because body chemistry and skin oils affect the aroma of perfumes.

It takes 10 minutes for a fragrance to interact with skin oils and at least one hour to develop its full range of scent in reaction to an individual's body chemistry, reports the Aerosol Packaging Council.

Try This Walnut Pie

We came on the walnut pie recipe in a cookbook called "Private Collection," lovingly assembled by the Junior League of Palo Alto. It's not surprising to have this dessert included.

WALNUT PIE

3 eggs ½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 cup light corn syrup ¼ cup butter, melted
1 teaspoon cinnamon ¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup broken English walnuts or walnut halves
1 9-inch unbaked pastry shell

Preheat oven to 375 degrees.

In a medium-sized bowl, beat the eggs then blend well with the brown sugar, corn syrup, melted butter, cinnamon, salt, and vanilla, in that order. Stir in the nuts. Pour the mixture into the unbaked pastry shell.

Place the pie on the lowest shelf of the oven and bake 50 minutes, or until the filling jiggles only slightly when the dish is gently shaken.

Cool on a wire rack at least 2 hours before cutting. The pie is at its best made a day ahead but kept unrefrigerated. From "Private Collection," a cookbook available for $12.86 from the Junior League of Palo Alto, 555 Ravenswood Avenue, Menlo Park, Calif. 94025.

Bended Knee Causes Fuss

By MIKE FEINSILBER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lenore Annenberg bent a knee and lifted eyebrows all over Washington.

Mrs. Annenberg, the State Department's chief of protocol, greeted the visiting Prince Charles of Britain with a deep knee bend when he arrived on American soil last Thursday.

Tongues thereupon wagged.

Mrs. Annenberg was taken to task. Americans, she was told, do not curtsy.

The Washington Post's etiquette writer, Judith Martin, who uses the pseudonym "Miss Manners," printed a special tsk-tsk in Saturday's paper.

"A great deal of effort was once put into freeing Americans from the necessity of bending their knees in recognition of British sovereignty, and Miss Manners believes that achievement should not be mocked," she wrote under the headline, "A Miss Manners Ruling."

Writers of letters to the editor of the Post took up the cry.

"How dare she?" asked reader Mary Ruth Holroyd.

Joel Anne Sherman said a photograph of the curtsy "made me gag on my orange juice."

Wrote Catherine M. Collins: "We do not bend the knee in this country before any except God."

Richard M. Sawyer said he could only assume "that Mrs. Annenberg was caught in the act of arising after retrieving a glove, or perhaps a handkerchief."

In an interview, James Symington, one of Mrs. Annenberg's predecessors in the protocol job, was chivalrous. He recalled that Mrs. Annenberg, as wife of the former U.S. ambassador to Britain, probably got in the habit of curtsying, and properly so, on British soil to British royalty. He called her curtsy "a throwback ... a learned instinct."

Government spokesmen spoke, too.

At the State Department, spokesman David Passage sought to make light of Mrs. Annenberg's gesture.

Nursing Homes Are Honored

The residents of Snyder who live in nursing homes will be specially honored during the week beginning on Mother's Day, Sunday, May 10.

An announcement from Juanita Land, Administrator of the Snyder Nursing Center, said that open house will be Sunday and a program of special events will be observed as a part of Annual Nursing Home Week sponsored by the Texas Nursing Home Association.

The Life Festival, a carnival-type celebration of games and amusements for the general public, is additional this year. All proceeds of the Life Festival will be donated to the Leukemia Society of America for its research and patients aid program.

"We have a schedule of events the public will enjoy, " said Juanita Land. Our residents will be able to participate in many of them, and nothing makes them happier than to work on projects to help other people."

That's what Nursing Home Week is all about—to get the public to visit and learn for themselves the fine quality of the total care being delivered by today's licensed nursing homes. The Life Festival will be fun for the whole family.

"We are so grateful for this oportunity to invite the public to visit during our special week," she continued. " It is a heartwarming experience and I'm sure that many first-time visitors will be pleased and surprised to learn that a lot of living goes on in our nursing home."

Dear Abby

Mothers-in-Law Must Speak Softly, With No Stick

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR READERS: Sunday, May 10, is Mother's Day. Many suspect that it is just another commercial holiday dreamed up by florists and merchants to stimulate business.

Not so! Mother's Day was conceived by Anna M. Jarvis of Philadelphia, who in 1907 persuaded her minister to have a special church service the second Sunday in May to honor all mothers. Those with living mothers wore red carnations, and those without mothers wore white carnations. This custom is still observed in some areas.

Mother's Day is a day of gladness to most mothers. But not for all. I should know. For weeks following Mother's Day, my desk is covered with letters from mothers who have been snubbed, slighted or forgotten.

Two typical Mother's Day letters:

DEAR ABBY: The day my son got married, he forgot that he has a mother. Every holiday — including Mother's Day — his wife drags him to her people, and he goes like a little puppy without even putting up a fight.

LOST MY SON

DEAR ABBY: My son lives in the same city with me, but I'm lucky if I see him six times a year for 10 minutes. Then on Mother's Day he sends me a bouquet of roses. Big deal!

HURT

Each year, disappointed mothers send me the verse: "A son is a son until he takes a wife, but a daughter is a daughter all of her life."

My mail constantly reaffirms the fact that one of the most sensitive of all human relations is the one that exists between a woman and her mother-in-law. (There is far more friction between a woman and her husband's mother than between a man and the mother of his wife.)

Recently, I received a letter from a young wife who asked, "Who should sit in front with my husband when we take his mother out for a drive?"

I replied, "Out of respect for her age — his mother."

Well, the brickbats started flying from all directions. Readers quoted Scripture: "And a man shall leave his father and his mother, and cleave unto his wife."

One mother wrote to remind me that the Ten Commandments say, "Thou shalt honor thy mother and thy father" — and it doesn't say one word about the mother-in-law!

You don't have to be a Dear Abby to know that being a good mother-in-law is one of the most difficult roles in the world.

Now that I am a mother-in-law, I have resolved to abide by two simple rules:

Never offer advice unless it's asked for.

Never ask questions that are none of my business.

I am trying earnestly to be the best mother-in-law possible. And I must say that my chances for success are excellent, because for 41 years, I have had a wonderful teacher — my own mother-in-law, Mrs. Jay Phillips. God bless you, Rosie. You are the best! Love,

Chastity Bill Before Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal to spend federal money to promote "self-discipline and chastity" among teen-agers is speeding toward a vote in a Senate committee.

"When young people engage in intimate physical relationships before they are ready or willing to take on the responsibilities of marriage or child-rearing, they jeopardize their own emotional or physical health," said Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, chairman of the Senate Committee on Human Resources.

With Hatch's support, the legislation drafted by Sen. Jeremiah Denton, R-Ala., is scheduled for a vote by the full committee next Wednesday. Preliminary indications are it will have broad support.

Steam cleaning

If your skin is oily or prone to break-outs, clean your pores with an herbal steam facial twice a week. Heat two quarts of water in a pot until it boils, then add a combination of the following: rosemary, sage, camomile, papaya leaves, strawberry leaves, juniper berries, lemon peel, burdock. Simmer for one minute, then bring the pot to a table. Drape a towel over your head and hold your freshly washed face eight inches away from the pot. Steam clean for 10 minutes.

Beauty secret

Carole Sheeley told Beauty Digest magazine her secret for looking great: "Because I use so much makeup, I've found it's not what I put on my face that counts, but how I take it off. Most times I use cream, then wipe it off with a facial tissue. Twice a week I give my face a good lathering with a transparent soap, alternating hot and cold water. I scrub with a good cotton towel, rinse, slosh on witch hazel, then use a moisturizer."

martyr to what?

GUEST EDITORIAL:

For days, weeks, the world watched as a Northern Irish terrorist starved himself to death, in affirmation of his claim to be a "political prisoner." When the end came, the name of Bobby Sands was nearly as familiar as that of Ronald Reagan.

The word "martyr" is being applied freely to Sands, both at home and abroad. No tag could be less appropriate.

Classically the martyr — a word derived from the Greek for "witness (of Christ)" — is a man or woman put to death for the strength and constancy of his religious faith. The British, who refused Sands' claims to political prisoner status, did not put him to death. He committed suicide by refusing to eat: thereby flouting a basic moral teaching of the Roman Catholic Church, for whose sake he is widely perceived as having died.

This helps to clarify the larger point. The Irish Republican Army, in whose service Sands helped blow up a furniture store and subsequently went to prison, is in no sense the spokesman for oppressed Roman Catholics in a Protestant-dominated province of Great Britain. The Northern Irish conflict is too often framed in Catholic-Protestant terms — out of historical habit no doubt — when in fact the conflict is chiefly about the IRA's desire to impose Marxism on the whole land.

As Claire Sterling writes in her recently published The Terrorist Network, "It was and is a war against north and south both — the 'colonial north' and the 'quisling south' (Ireland) — fought to 'destabalize capitalism in the whole of Ireland,' and in Great Britain as well, and in all Western Europe besides."

Though the movement, she notes, has never polled more than 5 percent of the Irish vote, north or south, an ERA leader declared in Dublin: "A revolutionary movement does not depend on a popular mandate as a basis for action. Its mandate comes from the justice and correctness of its cause."

But if the IRA disdains democracy and deems the Roman Catholic Church reactionary, it has fond feelings for left-wing terrorists the world around. So long ago as 1972, the IRA Provisionals — the terrorists — were receiving Soviet arms. IRA men are regularly trained by the Palestinian guerillas.

For the IRA's vision of a Marxist Ireland — "similar to communism but not exactly like it," is the way Ruairi O'Bradaigh, a Provisional spokesman, puts it — more than 2,500 have died, including Lord Louis Mountbatten, and 12,000 have been hurt or crippled. In the aftermath of Sands' suicide, the tally could rise much higher.

"Martyrdom" is a high and holy word, or at any rate it used to be. It should be reserved for those who deserve it, not for those who work only for destruction.

not all bad

Atlanta police are trying something new. After probing the deaths of more than 20 young black males, the police were left with no leads to the identity of the killer or killers.

So Atlanta's mayor sent out word through the underworld grapevine that there would be a crackdown on prostitutes, pimps, sex diviates, junkies, pushers and gunsels -- and that the heat would stay on until somebody fingers the Southtown Strangler.

Is Atlanta really as lawless as it is being made to appear?

The "Dr. Quincy" of Atlanta -- the Fulton County Medical Examiner -- is Dr. Robert R. Stivers.

He says that homicides of black children are not new to Atlanta, that the city has averaged this many or more killings for many years.

And in any typical year only about half of the child killings are ever solved.

Dr. Stivers blames the news media for distorting the public perspective. "The news media has turned these homicides into a headline, but there is really nothing new about it."

Dr. Stivers has been County Medical Examiner for 12 years. He has kept track of child homicides. He says the recent average of one a month is some less than heretofore.

It can be argued that making front page news of a chronic problem is the best way to bring it to a head and motivate remedial action.

But Dr. Stivers believes media exaggeration of the situation may make the murders more difficult to solve.

"Cases are often solved through an anonymous tip but the mail and telephone calls to police in regard to these children's deaths have been so enormous that personnel simply hasn't time to check each one out."

Dr. Stivers says if any good can come from the media's fascination with this Atlanta situation, it will be to arouse us all to do more to protect our children.

A while back an FBI official was shouted down when he sought to say the same things that Dr. Stivers is saying.

But Atlanta is getting an ugly national image which it does not deserve.

Atlanta may have less for which to apologize than do several other cities

National reaction may result partly from the residual scapegoat concept -- better to say "tsk-tsk Atlanta" than to face our own mirror.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "There is a four-word formula for success that applies equally well to organizations or individuals--make yourself more useful.

We had the privilege Thursday morning of joining several local business folks and participating in the Career Day at Snyder High School.

We listened to several comments from the town's resource people who indicated they felt the exchange of information was extremely worthwhile.

We enjoyed the opportunity of being around Snyder's young people and we learned some things as a result of the experience. We also took advantage of the opportunity to do a little editorializing concerning work habits and a few tips for prospective employees.

Along that same line, we had an extremely refreshing experience just the day before. A freshman at WTC called for an appointment.

Not only was he neat and on time, he had an excellent attitude--one that made you want to hire him on the spot. For instance, he said he wasn't interested in the money, but in experience and the opportunity to build a portfolio of pictures for future job applicatons.

In addition, he revealed that he worked for his dad on weekends and summer and felt that his dad shouldn't pay him--because what he's already done for him as a father.

We don't know if that type of attitude is rare--but we found it refreshing.

We particularly enjoyed President Reagan's budget victory last week in the House of Representatives.

Both the president and the taxpayers should thank a host of conservative Democrats for their leadership in passage of the President's trimmer budget.

Among those who helped pass the more conservative plan was our own Charles Stenholm. We saw Congressman Stenholm on national tv the other night and he was solidly behind the president. By doing so we think he adequately represented the views of this district.

Our other delight was seeing House Leader Tip O'Neill bite the dust. Some of his remarks were full of sour grapes, and we are glad to see his liberal grip on the House failing.

Skipper Joyce said Wednesday he was sure the budget cuts were already in effect. He observed that neither of us had received our welfare checks this month.

WASHINGTON (NEA) —In his "Political Dictionary, " New York Times columnist William Safire defines "red herring" as "a side issue that draws attention away from the main issue."

More and more people in Washington — from Capitol Hill to the Pentagon to the Israeli embassy — are viewing the administration's proposed sale of AWACS to Saudi Arabia as one such "red herring."

The Saudis contend that the five super-sophisticated radar-surveillance planes are vital to their defense because they would provide early warning of air strikes against their oil fields from Persian Gulf enemies such as Iran or from the Soviet Union.

The Israelis, however, note that the flying radar outposts could be used in Saudi airspace to monitor the movement of Israeli aircraft. This could tip the balance against Israel in any future Middle East conflict.

The AWACS sale was actually proposed in the final months of the Carter administration as part of a wooing campaign designed to get the Saudis to moderate world oil prices. Now the Reagan administration has thrown its weight behind the proposal.

Such arms sales can be made if neither house of Congress objects within 30 days after their formal announcement. Many senators have objected to the AWACS sale, and Majority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., had warned that he may not be able to round up a majority of his colleagues in its support.

The administration's vow to go ahead with the sale in the face of such warnings is persuading an increasing number of observers that the issue may well be a red herring.

The AWACS sale is only one of several that have been proposed to the Saudis. Equally controversial is a planned sale of equipment that would greatly enhance the offensive capabilities of the 62 F-15 aircraft that were sold to the Saudis by the Carter administration. Delivery of the planes is scheduled to begin in 1982.

That sale was permitted over the protests of Israel's friends on Capitol Hill partly because Defense Secretary Harold Brown promised that the planes would be equipped for defensive use only. The new gear would give the planes vastly increased range and firepower, including the ability to launch air-to-surface missiles.

Thus, the modified F-15s would be potentially more valuable to the Saudis — and more devastating to the Israelis — than the AWACS.

Many observers think that the Reagan administration is focusing attention on the AWACS so that the F-15 equipment can slip out the back door unnoticed. "I think what the administration is doing is putting through both sales so that we can vote 'no' on the AWACS and the F-15 sale will slide through," says Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., who opposes both sales.

Opponents of the sales have urged the administration to combine the two proposals into one package on which Congress could vote a single "yes" or "no." But the administration has so far refused to do so.

Baker says that he has convinced the White house not to submit the AWACS sale for congressional approval until after this summer's Israili election. He still says that the proposal may well be voted down. But he will not say whether the AWACS and F-15 equipment sales will be combined into a single package.

Most observers think that keeping the two sales separate would be a tip-off that the AWACS are a red herring to divert attention from the F-15 equipment.

NEW YORK (AP) — Today's Americans live in an age of depletephobia — the fear of running out of things.

As we sat in lines at gasoline stations during the 1970s, we came face to face with the idea that supplies of oil were not infinite.

When drought hit many areas of the country this year, a news magazine posed the ominous question, "Are we running out of water?"

Many a family budgeter has to cope with the problem of running out of money, even though recent Federal Reserve figures show the over-all money supply growing too fast.

And all the while another precious commodity — time — is steadily running out for everyone.

The "shortage mentality" that develops from all this is well known. A facetious remark on television about a shortage of toilet paper, and the next day the stores are mobbed with panic buyers.

Lately, one diehard optimist, stock market analyst Raymond F. DeVoe Jr. at the Wall Street firm of Bruns, Nordeman, Rea & Co., claims to have seen signs of another developing shortage. We appear, he says, to be running low on crises themselves.

Thanks in part to conservation, worldwide supplies of oil are now described as ample at least. For once, the question of what to do about oil seems to be more a problem for the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries than for the industrialized nations.

The state of the economy may still be very troubled, as demonstrated by the recent surge in interest rates. But there are a few hints at least that it is improving.

The slide of the dollar against most foreign currencies, which experts were so upset about just a few years ago, has been dramatically reversed. The other day, for example, it reached a 10-year high against the French franc.

Inflation is still very much with us, but some think it is starting to lose its momentum. From a peak annual rate of about 15 percent in early 1980, the rise of the consumer price index gradually slowed to an annual rate of less than 8 percent in March.

The price of gold, regarded as a thermometer of international anxieties, is hovering roughly 40 percent below the record high of $875 an ounce it reached a little more than 15 months ago. Some leading advocates of investing in gold have simply lost interest in it, and gone looking elsewhere for profit opportunities.

Depletephobia is sometimes justified, as when the reservoirs run low and there's no rain in sight. Other times, as in the toilet-paper fiasco, it plainly is not.

At the moment, it's too soon to tell whether DeVoe's vision of a "crisis shortage' will be realized. It flies in the face of the time-tested precept known as Murphy's Law ("Whatever can go wrong will go wrong").

Chimney Swifts Return Again

NORTHVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — The chimney swifts are back in their abandoned factory smokestack here.

Every May 6, residents say, the birds return to this small Adirondack foothills village. This year, the swifts were greeted by pelting rain, and went down the smokestack. But the rain cleared up in a few hours, said eyewitness Cathy Capriano, and the birds reappeared to the glee of a country band, a high school marching band, a TV crew and a flock of spectators.

The return of the birds from the southern winter quarters has been the subject of a municipal event since the early 1950s, officials say.

Beatles Record Is Released

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — The recorded reunion of Paul McCartney, George Harrison and Ringo Starr is now hitting the nation's airwaves.

The surviving Beatles didn't get together to record the Harrison song — they recorded their contributions separately — but the release of "All Those Years Ago" marks the first time three Beatles have performed on the same song since the legendary group broke up a decade ago.

The Harrison composition is a tribute to John Lennon, who was shot to death outside his New York City apartment Dec. 8.

Warner Bros. Records spokesman Bob Merlis said Thursday the song was released to radio stations Wednesday and Thursday and will be available in some record stores this weekend.

Diet pills are a bad idea

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I recently started taking diet pills to help lose weight. I am 15 years old and in good health. My problem is that instead of feeling peppy and energetic I always feel exhausted and light-headed. Is this a common reaction? Is it dangerous? The pills are time-release capsules containing phenylpropanolamine hydrochloride and caffeine.

DEAR READER — Throw those pills in the garbage can. Phenylpropanolamine hydrochloride has been implicated in causing high blood pressure. It is under review by the Food and Drug Administration and a number of companies that have marketed products that contain it have withdrawn their products from the market.

My general opinion is that people should not use diet pills of any type. Too often they contain harmful substances. Caffeine in diet pills is the same as caffeine in coffee. Too much can make you nervous and jittery, also lightheaded. Individuals who have a tendency to high blood pressure or other circulatory disorders should be particularly careful.

Another reason you could feel exhausted is from the diet itself. We get energy from our food. When we don't eat enough and don't really have a lot of body fat reserves we do get exhausted. Also inadequate food intake, particularly with some diet fads, leads to severe chemical changes in the body that are not healthy and can be dangerous.

A lot of young girls diet who should not. Being too thin can delay their normal sexual development and affect normal hormone functions.

I want you to very carefully read The Health Letter number 16-2, Dangerous Dieting, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. It may change your mind about what you need to do.

If you really need to diet it is best to follow a sensible balanced diet and lose weight very slowly. A good exercise program with a balanced diet is also important.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My work involves a lot of traveling and at times my suitcase is heavy. On my last trip I developed an excruciating pain in the bone of my right elbow, outer side. It was diagnosed as tennis elbow. It is not only the bone which is painful but the entire arm from below the elbow to the palm, so much so that it is painful to shake hands or grip and lift a light object. I have been advised to massage with ointment and use hot fomentation, which doesn't provide relief. What do you suggest?

DEAR READER — I am assuming the diagnosis is correct. You did not say if you play tennis or not but other strains can cause the same form of injury to the area where tendons attach to the side of the bone just below the elbow. In the classical form it involves the muscles that straighten the elbow as in the backhand stroke.

First, stop using that arm. Use passive stretching for full range of motion; local heat may aid the stretching. If you are a tennis player get some lessons from a pro to find out if you can improve your technique. Your doctor can give you some medicines to relieve the pain. You might wear a brace, the wraparound band you see on tennis players' forearm to help prevent a shock to the area. Once you have tennis elbow you need regular attention by a physician while you recover.

Your Birthday

May 10, 1981

Your prospects for achieving your goals for the year ahead are good. The trick is to choose targets that will be desirable once they are attained.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Should misunderstandings arise with the family today, try to settle your differences at once. A little tolerance and forgiveness will salvage a pleasant day. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Beware of a tendency today to anticipate negative happenings which may never occur. Let events take their course and you'll enjoy yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll be eager for companionship today, but try to select friends who can have fun doing inexpensive things. Your extravagant pals could be hard on your wallet.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Try not to let yourself be drawn into competitive situations today. You're the type who usually enjoys a challenge, but this may not be true at this time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Important financial decisions today should not be predicated upon your initial assumptions. Your first thoughts may not be as profitable as later ones. Study matters.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A friend may come to you with a proposition today which you'll know from the start you won't want to participate in. Be diplomatic when begging off.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'd be wise at this time to keep your goals to yourself. Even counsel from well-meaning associates might get you off-track.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Although your purpose today won't be to use others, persons whose help you ask may think so. Be very careful that you don't give this impression.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you follow procedures which worked for you previously, you're likely to be successful with them again today. Don't gamble on unknowns.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be wary of a tendency today to settle for second-best in finalizing situations. It will take more time to do things right, but you'll be glad in the long run.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Others may have better ways of doing things today. You could, initially, resist their ideas. Don't let pride stand in the way of getting the job done properly.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) When others offer you sound advice today you'll graciously listen to what they have to say. Unfortunately, you're not likely to act upon it.

May 11, 1981

Don't be discouraged if projects or enterprises get off to a slow start this coming year. You may not establish any records for speed, but you will make substantial progress.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be persistent in that which you hope to accomplish today. You could get sidetracked if you don't stick to your agenda. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Take your responsibilities and duties seriously today, or else, through neglect, they could begin to pile up and cause you complications.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Instead of operating prudently financially today, you may be tempted to do otherwise. Losses could occur if you get too careless.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You won't accomplish all you hope to today if you do things in fits and starts. Be consistent and try not to launch projects on impulse.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Instead of weighing your words in order not to offend others, you may say things today which will have more bite than you intended.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's good to do for others, but today you may be unwisely generous and make a commitment beyond your means which you'll later regret.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Do nothing today to make yourself look important at the expense of associates. If you do, the applause will be marred with sneers and jeers.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There is a possibility today that you might repeat a mistake similar to one you've made in the past. Let old lessons count for something.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Unless handled properly, joint ventures could be more counterproductive than fruitful today. Be tactful with emotional associates.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This is not a good day to try to imitate the actions of others in career situations. What worked for them may fizzle for you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you are saddled with a careless co-worker today, keep a closer eye on him or her than usual. Do the complicated tasks yourself to avoid mistakes.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Some uncertainties are likely today in business situation. This is not a time to take risks, gambles or make impulsive moves.

First Wedding Of Space Travelers Is Scheduled

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — When Rhea Seddon's father filled out a standard newspaper form announcing his daughter's engagement to Robert Gibson, he expected to see it published among dozens like it in the society section.

It didn't occur to him that the engagement was front page news.

But alert editors of the Nashville Tennesseean noticed that the occupation of both Miss Seddon and Gibson was the same — U.S. astronaut — and Edward Seddon's standard form became a copyrighted news story.

"My father filled out the usual form and sent it in, along with a glossy print, thinking it would appear in the Nashville paper on Sunday along with all the other announcements," said Miss Seddon during an interview at the Johnson Space Center. "He was kind of surprised when it appeared the next morning on the front page."

The two astronauts, who plan a May 30 wedding, will become the first space travelers to marry each other, although there is one other couple among astronauts who were wed before they joined the space program.

Miss Seddon said news of her engagement came as good news to Anna and Bill Fischer, who have been in the spotlight as the only husband-wife team at present in the astronaut corps.

"For the past year they have been known as Mr. and Mrs. Astronaut. I'm sure they feel it's nice to be passing the baton," she said.

Gibson and Miss Seddon will wed in a down-to-earth ceremony in her hometown of Murfreesboro, Tenn., followed by a honeymoon trip to Hawaii.

"I doubt we'll be the typical married couple," said Gibson. "I suspect I won't come home and complain about what a horrible day I had and she won't talk about the neighbor's dog."

He also said he will be in a better position than the average husband to miss a birthday or an anniversary because of the demands of his job — since she faces the same demands.

And although it's doubtful they'll soon fly a mission together aboard the 99-ton space shuttle, which successfully completed its maiden voyage last month, they say such a husband-and-wife space trip is possible.

"I personally think she'll fly before I do," said Gibson, who has a 4-year-old daughter by a previous marriage. "But since she is a mission specialist and I am a pilot, the chances of our flying on the same mission will improve as the number of flights increases in the coming years."

Gibson, who would be the commander of such a flight, said taking his wife along on a space mission would create no special problems. "Just as long as she does what I tell her to do," he joked.

Romance between Gibson, 34, a Navy lieutenant commander from Westminster, Calif., and Miss Seddon, 33, a Berkeley-educated physician, blossomed in the cockpit of a jet fighter trainer.

The handshake originated in medieval Europe as a gesture between two men to show that each was unarmed.
