

Federal Pension Payoff Could Cost $100 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal retirees can get billions of extra dollars at taxpayer expense because a formula designed to keep their pensions in step with inflation actually propels them increasingly ahead.

The unintended bonus could easily cost taxpayers $100 billion or more by 1990, according to projections by The Associated Press—projections which Congress failed to make before it approved the formula.

So many variable factors are involved, the exact cost of the bonanza for today's nearly two million federal pensioners can't be determined.

But AP calculations show that a typical federal employee who retired in January 1973 could, during the rest of his life, draw more than $27,500 beyond what he would receive if his pension merely kept even, month by month, with the cost of living index.

Put another way, at a point when the cost of living would have risen 46 per cent since this employee's retirement day, his monthly pension check would be up by 57 per cent.

The pension overpayments come about because under a 1969 law retirees are given an extra permanent one per cent pension increase each time their checks are adjusted for changes in the Consumer Price Index. The CPI is the standard measuring tool for the cost of living.

The extra one per cent is supposed to compensate for money lost during the lag between the time living costs increase and the time retirement checks are adjusted to meet those increases.

But in reality, the extra one per cent compounds over the years, pushing retirement checks farther and farther ahead of any rise in the cost of living.

In fact, the faster the cost of living increases, the farther and faster federal pensions move ahead.

Civil servants, congressmen and retired military personnel all benefit from the extra one per cent formula, which Congress approved in 1969.

Despite its existence for more than five years, the lucrative operation of the retirement pay formula has never drawn significant public attention.

In his budget message to Congress on Feb. 3, however, President Ford called for a comprehensive evaluation of the federal retirement system. He referred briefly to "cost-of-living adjustments which overcompensate by providing for permanent annuity increases in excess of changes in the Consumer Price Index."

SURPRISED

Ralph J. Devlin, who was top staff assistant on the House subcommittee which first approved the formula, expressed surprise in an interview about how it was operating in practice.

But he acknowledged that in 1969 no detailed projections of its effect had been made. He characterized the formula as "a throw-in in a bill that had some goodies."

The General Accounting Office warned the committee of a spiral effect, but even GAO did not make long-range projections.

Referring to the recent rapid rise in the cost of living, Devlin said: "Nobody had a crystal ball that could tell what would happen."

But AP calculations show that overpayments occur to some degree whether the cost of living rises slowly or rapidly.

Take an employee who retired in January 1973 at $400 per month, who was the average civil service retirement age of 57 and who lives the 18 years predicted by insurance industry tables.

If future inflation continues at an average rate of one-half per cent per month, or a bit more than six per cent per year, he'll be over-paid in pension checks by $27,588.62.

If future inflation is at a low rate of 3-plus per cent a year, he'll be overpaid $13,688.29. But if it continues at the present high rate of 12-plus per cent per year, his overpayment will total $78,388.59.

When Congress more recently tied Social Security benefits to the cost of living, it did not add the extra one per cent factor.

Total costs of the federal retiree overpayments in future years depend on so many factors they are difficult to compute.

FLYING AMMO IN CAMBODIA

Reserve Credit Is Due U.S. Fliers

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The head of the American airline flying war supplies to Cambodia said Saturday about half his crewmen have been recruited from the U.S. Air Force active reserve for up to $3,000 a month and that he believed they would also get reserve credit for making the runs.

William H. Bird, whose Bird Air cargo service is expanding its operations into the besieged Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh, said most of the other crew members are ex-Air Force men, many of them recently active-duty.

Bird operates C130 cargo planes on loan from the U.S. Air Force. With the U.S. military presence in Cambodia limited by law, Bird took over Cambodian supply flights from the U.S. Air Force last October.

FUNDS CHANNLED

The U.S. Air Force contract, paid for with U.S. military assistance funds channeled through the Cambodian air force, requires navigators and crews trained in high-altitude parachute drop techniques, even though so far the airlift has been landing at Phnom Penh, Bird said.

"One of the reasons we don't want people who are not current in the tremendous cost of training them," said Bird. "By going out on the original five crews and getting people who were current we saved the government over $500,000 just in flight time during training."

Last year Bird's crews flew three or four missions carrying 45 to 60 tons a day into Phnom Penh. But as rebel pressure tightened around the city, the flights have risen to 10 to 13 daily with heavier loads totaling up to 325 tons a day.

Now the aim is for 15 crews flying 600 tons a day.

Bird said he also has "several other deals I've been discussing with the Phnom Penh government on airlift capabilities, so we've been discussing funding and things like that."

Bird, a genial, florid 59-year-old Seattle native, said there is no mystery about his firm nor any Central Intelligence Agency connection.

Bird said the principal activity of his firm, which is based in Oakland, Calif., and started work in the Philippines in 1946, has been building roads and airstrips. But currently his other interests include a hotel in Oakland, an air cargo operation in Singapore and five helicopters flying for the U.S. government in Laos.

Some Stroke Victims Helped By Singing

BOSTON (AP) — With patient and therapist singing their conversations like players in an opera, researchers say a new form of chanting speech therapy has proved effective in restoring speech to some stroke victims.

The treatment, called Melodic Intonation Therapy, takes advantage of the seeming paradox that stroke victims with severely impaired language often retain the ability to sing the words of songs.

The treatment was developed by researchers at Boston University School of Medicine and was tested at the Boston Veterans Administration Hospital speech therapy research unit.

Researchers estimate that it could benefit up to 20 per cent of those afflicted with aphasia—the loss of the power to use language after a stroke or brain injury.

Patients suffering aphasia can have various problems in speaking, reading, writing or comprehending language.

Dr. Harold Goodglass, director of the Boston University Aphasia Research Center, says language is processed primarily by the left side of the brain, while music is a function of the right side.

Most aphasia patients have damage to the left side of the brain, Goodglass said, and the chanting treatment could be helpful to those who retain sufficient auditory comprehension but suffer speech impairment.

The treatment was developed chiefly by Robert Sparks, Nancy Helms and Dr. Martin Albert of the VA Hospital.

It takes the natural tones of spoken phrases and exaggerates them into melodies. Patients who retain the singing ability learn a kind of chant singing, similar to recitative opera, and therapists teach them to converse by intoning words.

The researchers found that patients who did not respond to conventional speech therapy but learned to chant often later gained the ability to make progress with traditional therapy.

Sparks said it is as if the right side of the brain helped the left side overcome some threshold or stumbling block impeding speech function.

The therapists found that as patients responded to the new treatment, they gradually began speaking phrases instead of chanting them.

Two men who refused to identify themselves left a 24-year-old woman suspected of suffering from an overdose of pills at Cowper Hospital about midnight Friday, a nurse told police.

CARRIED RIFLE EVERYWHERE WITH HIM Transient Ignores Advice, And Pays With His Life

SEATTLE (AP) — Albert Loges carried his rifle with him everywhere, even to the grocery store. But when police came to question him about it Friday, the 56-year-old transient holed up in his $50-a-month hotel room. He was shot to death an hour later after firing on the officers, police said.

Grocer John Kovacevic telephoned police and said he asked for a plainclothes officer to investigate Loges, who had been trading at his store for three or four months and always carried the M1 carbine.

Kovacevic said he finally told Loges on Friday to take the weapon home, "leave it home, come back and do your shopping later." Loges began to shake violently, paid for his groceries and left.

Loges also had talked recently about killing the police, said Kovacevic, owner of the J&K Grocery a half-block from the hotel.

Police said Loges fired through the door at two policemen who had come to question him after the call. He also fired through his window at a police car in the alley, but no one was hit, police said.

The officers called for assistance and a special assault team and other heavily armed police arrived. They laid down a fog of tear gas in the hotel and tried to talk Loges out of the room, said Sgt. Larry Farrar of the assault team.

"He yelled something at us, but we couldn't understand what he said," Farrar said. "It sounded like he was screaming."

After failing to kick in the door, officers chopped a hole in it with fire axes. Loges fired at them again and officers stuck a pistol and a shotgun through the hole and opened fire. Loges was fatally wounded in the chest, police said.

Kovacevic said he didn't know what Loges did or where he came from except that he often paid for groceries with $50 or $100 bills that "looked like he had kept them in his shoe."

The manager of the Strand Hotel, an aging three-story building in a rundown neighborhood near Seattle's waterfront, said Loges had lived there about a year.

"We don't know anything about him," the manager said. "He never said anything. We run a transient business here and we don't get involved with the personal lives of our customers."

B.R. "Frenchy" LaBlanc, a neighbor of Loges on the second floor of the hotel, said Loges seldom drank but always carried a gun.

"He carried this gun everywhere, but he was quiet and never bothered anybody," LaBlanc said. But another neighbor said, "I've been telling everybody this guy's nuts and he's got a carbine, but nobody cared."

KILLED IN SEATTLE HOTEL

Kovacevic cared but says now he regrets telephoning police.

"I wish I hadn't reported it," he said. "I feel bad ... I feel like I did it."

FOLLOW THE LEADER. A POLICEMAN — Cars traveling the desert freeway between San Bernardino, Calif., and Las Vegas, Nev., about 250 miles, follow a California Highway Patrol pace-car driving exactly 55 m.p.h. Saturday. The Patrol said it put 35 cars on the highway at intervals, each with instructions to ticket any car which passed it. Speeds of 70-90 miles an hour used to be common on this highway.

Doctor Convicted In Death Of Fetus

BOSTON (AP) — Dr. Kenneth C. Edelin was found guilty of manslaughter Saturday in the death of a fetus during a legal abortion.

A jury of nine men and three women returned the guilty verdict in Suffolk County Superior Court after deliberating seven hours.

Defense lawyer William P. Homans said he would appeal the case to the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court and, if necessary, to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Edelin, 36, a Boston City Hospital obstetrician, was charged in the death of a 20-to-24-week-old male fetus he aborted at the hospital on Oct. 3, 1973.

'GOOD PRACTICE'

"I did nothing which was illegal, immoral or bad medical practice," Edelin said after the verdict. "Everything I did was in accordance with law and with good medical practice."

DR. KENNETH C. EDELIN

An outburst of disappointment came from spectators when the jury foreman said the word "guilty."

Edelin's family burst into tears, but the doctor remained outwardly calm.

After the verdict, Edelin walked across the courtroom to a group of relatives, kissed his brother and sister, then returned to the defense table and silently lit a cigarette.

Judge James P. McGuire continued the case for sentencing and released Edelin on his own recognizance.

In six weeks of technical and sometimes contradictory testimony, the trial drew national attention as it explored delicate legal and medical questions about when a human life begins and what responsibility a doctor owes to the unborn.

The landmark case is one of the most significant abortion cases since a January 1973 U.S. Supreme Court ruling that barred states from interfering with a woman's right to an elective abortion before the fetus became viable—able to survive on its own outside the womb.

Edelin said he was sure his conviction would discourage other doctors from performing abortions. He added that he did not know if he would return to medical practice.

Homans said he would appeal the case on the grounds that the verdict went against the weight of evidence; Edelin's conduct conformed with accepted medical practice; the doctor's conduct was protected by the 14th amendment of the U.S. Constitution and the Supreme Court ruling; and that Edelin was not given fair warning under the law that his conduct would be subject to a manslaughter indictment.

ISSUE CLEAR

The prosecution accused Edelin of killing the fetus by holding it inside the mother's womb for three minutes, depriving it of air, before removing it.

However, the judge told the jury that a manslaughter charge would not apply to death within the womb.

"A fetus is not a person and therefore not a subject for an indictment for manslaughter," he said.

He said a person must be born alive before he can be killed. McGuire defined birth as "a process which causes the emergence of a new individual from inside its mother."

"Once outside the body of the mother, the child has been born within the commonly accepted meaning of the word."

The prosecution's only eyewitness testified that "there were no signs of life, such as breathing," when the fetus was removed.

The judge, however, told the jury there had been conflicting medical testimony, based on an autopsy of the fetus' lungs, as to whether it had ever breathed air.

Defense attorney William P. Homans based his arguments on the claim that the fetus "never drew a breath of air outside the body of its mother," and that therefore no human being was born and none was killed.

McGuire's definition of abortion also supported defense arguments that the procedure legally presupposes the death of the fetus.

Fighting Is Over?

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP)

Ethiopia's military government has accepted a Sudanese proposal for a cease-fire in rebellious Eritrea province, Sudan government sources said Saturday.

There was no immediate response from the Ethiopian capital of Addis Ababa or from the Moslem and Marxist rebels who have been fighting to gain independence for Ethiopia's northernmost province.

The sources here said a three-point proposal offered by Sudan called for an immediate cease-fire by government forces and the secessionist guerrillas; declaration of a general amnesty for all Eritreans who carried arms or worked with the Eritrean Liberation Front (ELF); and the opening of truce talks without preconditions.

Ethiopian acceptance of the plan was contained in a letter from Ethiopia's ruling military council to Sudanese President Jaafar el Numairi, the source said.

Numairi offered to mediate the dispute and sent Foreign Secretary Jamal Mohd Ahmed to Addis Ababa with his proposals. Numairi said Monday the Eritrean rebel leaders had accepted his offer and he was waiting for the Ethiopian government's reply.

Ahmed returned to Khartoum Saturday after five days of talks in Addis Ababa and met immediately with Numairi, the sources said. They added that a ranking official of the Ethiopian government was expected to arrive in Khartoum soon "to discuss the application of the three points."

Materials Laid In For Supper

Materials for the annual Kiwanis pancake supper, which will be held Thursday, are being laid in, club officials said Saturday.

The big community supper will be held in the dining hall of the Dora Roberts Student Union Center on the Howard College campus from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m.

The menu, of course, features a generous stack of steaming hot pancakes, plus bacon or sausage, syrup, butter, coffee or milk. And if that isn't enough, the diner can go back for seconds.

Kiwanians, with years of experience behind them, have mastered the art of keeping lines moving so that customers are served as promptly as possible with piping hot pancakes. Tickets ($1.50) will be available at the door.

Big Spring Week

with Joe Pickle

Big Spring Independent School District got some good news with passage of the emergency school financing bill by the legislature. The district's part will be $200,598, which will come in handy, and Coahoma IDS will get $27,995. While Howard College could come in for around $100,000 special aid on adjustments for enrollment increases, this still lacks Senate floor action. Dr. Charles Hays, president, reported Saturday.

And now for the "bad" news, which was not altogether unexpected. The Department of Transportation in its recommendation to Congress, shot the Interstate 27 extension out of the saddle, along with all nine other proposed extensions. Unless Congress specifically passes legislation to extend the highway, the matter may rest there for a while.

Word came through Saturday morning that a federal grant of $79,000 has been made to the City of Big Spring for the softball complex. This will be north of the IS 20 access and west of US 87, and is designed to handle at least four fields. It's been in the mill for two or three years.

Braniff, TIA Could Be Fined Heavily By U.S.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Braniff Airways Inc. and Texas International Airlines Inc. face up to $100,000 fines each if convicted on charges they conspired to stop Southwest Airlines from flying in Texas.

A federal grand jury on Friday named Braniff and Texas International in a two-count indictment charging that they and other unnamed co-conspirators attempted to monopolize airline business among Dallas-Fort Worth, Houston and San Antonio.

The indictment also said Braniff and Texas International tried to delay Southwest, an intrastate commuter airline, from becoming operational and to increase the cost of Southwest's entry into the Texas market.

It also charged that the two airlines "jointly undertook a boycott of Southwest by measures designed to prevent passengers from canceled Braniff and Texas International flights among the major Texas cities from traveling on Southwest flights."

A Braniff spokesman in Dallas said the indictments are unfair and unwarranted.

No Surge In Work Likely

The ordered release of $2 billion in impounded highway trust funds likely will not mean a sudden surge in road building, Roger Welsch, Abilene, district engineer for the Texas Highway Department, said Friday.

Welsch had been in Austin most of the week for a briefing on this and other highway matters.

"Keep in mind that the money we are talking about is for projects Congress had already approved and appropriated the funds for," he said. "This means that the President now is going to let us have what Congress already had said we could have."

In short, it means there probably won't be much net increase in projects and programming.

Release of the funds will, however, mean that some jobs that have been delayed may be advanced on the timetable.

There is one additional fly in the ointment. It has to do with money. While the highway trust fund has a balance of over $11 billion, at one stage the cash balance in the fund was only about $1,900. The remainder was in U.S. Treasury bills which the government had used to borrow the money from itself. Now, the money will either have to be repaid to the fund or else borrowed from some other source so the bills can be redeemed.

Gene Brownrigg To Give Talk

MIDLAND — Gene Brownrigg, director of the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission of Texas, will be in Midland Tuesday to speak at a luncheon sponsored by the Midland Bicentennial Commission in the Midland Country Club.

Mrs. Brownrigg will speak on what other communities and organizations throughout the state and the nation plan for the Bicentennial celebration. Joe Dominey, chairman of the Midland Commission, has announced. She will be available for consultation after the meeting.

Those wishing to attend the meeting Tuesday should call the Bicentennial office in Midland, 683-7676.

Firm Contributes 60 Barrels To Campaign

"Let's Beautify America", one of the first projects of the Horizons Committee of the Big Spring-Howard County Bicentennial Commission is off to a good start.

The Cosden Company, through W. D. Broughton and Tom Ivey, contributed more than 60 barrels to be painted and used as litter barrels throughout the county.

Jimmy Johnson, owner of Southwestern Tool and Supply Company, agreed to store the barrels pending painting and delivery to assigned destinations. James Williams of Southwestern Tool cut out the tops of the barrels and readied them for painting. Bert Harris of Harris Lumber Company donated red, white and blue paint.

Garden Club members Garland Morrison, Edna Womack, Polly Mays and Kathy Mays painted the barrels in the bicentennial colors. Kathy Bull and Mrs. C. Y. Clinkscales assisted with the painting.

Circle K Club from Howard College delivered the first 40 finished barrels to the designated locations. The remainder will be ready March 1. Circle K members delivering the litter barrels were Carl Smoot, president; Abel Abundez; Chris Bogard; Tom Mullen; Joseph Wooten; and Rafael Luevanos Jr.

"This first phase of the 'Let's Beautify America' campaign for Howard County," is typical of the spirit of community Co-operation said Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery, co-chairwoman of the committee.

Mrs. Janell Davis, co-chairwoman, added, "As people drive around the city and county over the next months, we hope they will take notice and pride in this effort."

Mrs. Mary Joy Cowper, chairwoman of the Horizons Committee within the BS-HC Bicentennial Commission, had praise.

Bentley Is New Prexy

Harold Bentley is the new president of Big Spring Educators Federal Credit Union, succeeding Mrs. Doris Huibregtse. Other officers named following the annual meeting were Russell McMeans, Stanton, vice president; Mrs. Elizabeth Schattel, treasurer; Mrs. Corrine Buckner, secretary. New directors included McMeans, Mrs. Gerry Dietz and Tommy Joe Johnson. Williams Martin was elected to the credit committee. Mrs. Mary Vaughn is a hold-over director.

Approximately 150 attended the meeting and prizes went to Millie Heartfield, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Mize, J. T. Clements, Stacy Palmer, Sandra Hicks, Sue Watkins, also Clarice Fowler, Colorado City, Annette Cregar, Forsan, Myrtle Tindol, Coahoma.

The credit union had assets of $2,177,937 at the end of last year and now is in process of adding members in Big Lake. It has $2,037,546 in member shares and last year paid $56,498 in dividends. There were 1,324 loans aggregating $1,936,401 outstanding at the end of last year, and borrowing was up about $234,000 for the year.

Scientists Will Begin Life Search On Mars

WASHINGTON (AP) — The terrain is dry and red, tortured by dust storms driven by winds of carbon dioxide gas. Towering mountains, huge volcanoes and gaping canyons scar the landscape.

In this most inhospitable place, American scientists are about to begin a search for life. It is the planet Mars.

The quest starts next August at Cape Canaveral, Fla., when two unmanned Project Viking spacecraft will be launched 10 days apart on 11-month journeys.

The first is to be parachuted onto a broad Martian plain named Chryse on July 4, 1976, as America celebrates its 200th birthday. The second will descend a few days later to Mare Acidellum, near the north polar cap.

TOP CANDIDATE "Mars was selected because it is a leading candidate as a place to find life in our solar system beyond earth," explained Robert S. Kraemer, director of planetary programs for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

"To search for life we have in Viking the most ambitious automated space mission ever undertaken."

Richard S. Young of NASA's office of space science and applications said clues to the how and when of life are scattered through the universe. If, as is now believed, planets of the solar system are related, earth and other planets will have undergone a similar evolutionary sequence, he said.

Other robot spacecraft have paved the way for the twin Vikings, giving man his first clear look into the far reaches of the solar system. Exploration began with relatively simple Pioneer and Mariner probes in the early 1960s. In the last two years, highly advanced versions of these vehicles have surveyed Mars in great detail. They've relayed close-up pictures of Venus and Mercury and have penetrated the powerful radiation belts surrounding the largest planet, Jupiter.

Now, after sweeping close to Jupiter in December, Pioneer 11 is heading for a 1979 rendezvous with Saturn. Later in this decade, NASA plans to launch probes to Venus, Jupiter and Saturn, and perhaps a satellite to skip past Jupiter, Uranus and Neptune. That would leave only Pluto to be explored. That farthest of the planets must await technological developments in communication and spacecraft survival.

Kraemer said planetary explorations are increasing man's knowledge of how earth and other planets formed and evolved.

"Mars appears to be trailing in evolution and is still in the process of forming its atmosphere and reaching a state of persisting liquid water on the surface."

Dr. Carl Sagan, director of Cornell University's Laboratory for Planetary Studies, predicts that Mars will reach a habitable state for man at about the time earth is becoming uninhabitable, and that the human civilization might then migrate to colonize Mars. But he says this might take three or four billion years.

Until Mariner 9 orbited Mars in 1972, most scientists classed it a dead planet.

IN TURMOIL But the windmill-shaped probe photomapped its surface, took its temperatures and assayed its chemistry. Then Mars was revealed as a planet in turmoil.

Saga said the Mariner 9 data indicates Mars is in an ice age with most of its atmosphere frozen into polar ice caps. But the extreme cold — down to 200 degrees below zero Fahrenheit — is not severe enough to exclude possible forms of life. He said existence of earth-like forms was more likely in the past, when the planet was warmer.

But he added that organisms dating from that period might lie dormant in the frozen atmosphere of the ice caps. The spacecraft may detect them by adding water to a soil sample.

If the Vikings do detect a low form of life, it might be similar to what life was like on earth several billion years ago.

Other planets examined by American spacecraft — Venus, Mercury and Jupiter — do not appear to have conditions for supporting life at this stage in their evolution.

Pioneer 11 used the strong gravity field of Jupiter in December to propel it onto a five-year course toward Saturn. NASA plans to guide it inside the rings of the planet to take readings from the largest of its 10 moons, Titan. Earthbound observations indicate Titan has an appreciable atmosphere and therefore might harbor a low form of life.

Until now, research has concentrated on the accessible inner planets — Mars, Mercury and Venus. In the 1980s NASA wants to emphasize the outer planets — Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune and Pluto — because they are more likely to hold clues to the origin of the solar system.

Scientists believe the outer planets probably contain remnants of the creation of the solar system. There also is evidence some of their satellite moons might contain a frozen record of the system's early history.

"There can be no question that the study of other planets, with or without life, will contribute greatly to our understanding of the basic processes controlling our own," Young said.

He said the opportunity to study atmospheric phenomena on other planets is important because it may help man to understand problems of coping with pollution.

Stricter Litter Laws Help Singapore Image

SINGAPORE (AP) — Lee Ching Ling was fined $50 (about U.S. $22) for leaving fruit peel in a flower bed on Yung Sheng Road. Kwok Choo Mei was fined $40 (about U.S. $17) for discarding a cigarette butt in Upper Bukit Timah Road.

They got off relatively lightly. Each could have been fined as much as $500 (about U.S. $217) for a first offense under Singapore's tough antilittering laws.

A six-year Keep Singapore Clean campaign has produced sparkling results. What was once one of the filthiest cities in Asia now looks like a municipal Mr. Clean.

This island republic of 2.2 million has been scrubbed, trimmed, painted, landscaped, decorated, beautified and made almost litter free. The change seems dramatic to returning visitors who remember the old sights and smells.

TIMES CHANGE Generations of Singaporeans got rid of their rubbish by dumping it into streets or the harbor or vacant lots and forgetting it. Those were the good old biodegradable days.

The growing population — density reached 8,000 per square mile in some areas — produced even larger piles of garbage and junk. Indiscriminate trash disposal and industrial pollution added to the festering mess. A tropical climate provided ideal conditions for the breeding of disease-carrying insects and bacterial growth.

Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew's government gave the cleaning of its city-state top priority from October 1968. A carrot-and-stick campaign was headed by Minister of Health Chuan Sian Chin.

Grant For Park Is Announced

Congressman Omar Burleson has been advised of a $79,000 grant to the City of Big Spring from the Department of Interior's bureau of outdoor recreation.

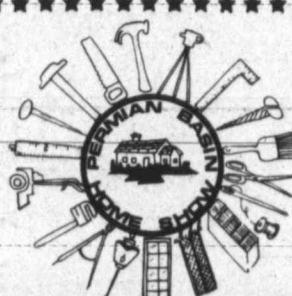

This will go toward the development of the softball complex on IS 20 which will honor Roy Anderson, retired assistant city manager and who helped for years in development and scheduling of the ball park system.

The grant is to be matched by local funds to provide roads, parking areas, restrooms, concessions, bleachers, fencing, landscaping, signs, utilities, etc.

Captured Plane Owned By Baldi

COLORADO CITY — The twin-engine aircraft captured by sheriff's deputies here last weekend was owned by Anthony T. Baldi Jr., of Austin.

Federal law enforcement officers have notified Mitchell sheriff Bill McGuire that Baldi has been charged with the federal offense of conspiracy to smuggle marijuana for sale.

Baldi is being held on bonds totaling $350,000. Two other men arrested in the incident, Bruce A. Mettler, 26, of Crowley and Roy T. Boyd, 28, of Las Cruces, N.M., are being retained on $100,000 bond.

TAKEN TO JAIL — Carol Ann Citrin, 27, left, who argued her own income tax evasion case before a federal court in Miami and lost, is taken to jail by federal marshals. She was charged with evading taxes on $160,362 that she earned from 1968 through 1971 as a highly-paid prostitute.

Prostitute Wood To Lead Sent To Jail Group To Show On Tax Rap

MIAMI (AP) — A high-priced prostitute convicted of not paying federal income taxes on her earnings has been sent to jail for 60 days and given two years probation.

Carol Ann Citrin, 27, blonde, tearful and $128,000 poorer since she belatedly paid four years worth of taxes, was sentenced Thursday by U.S. District Court Judge Peter Fay.

"If I go to jail I just won't live," she told the judge. "I have to sleep 15 hours because I am a weak person."

Miss Citrin's mother, Edna Citrin, stood by her side.

"It's not as if she killed somebody," Mrs. Citrin said. Miss Citrin, who once had 37 savings accounts in 15 banks, was found guilty last month of failure to pay taxes on $160,362.40 from 1968 through 1971. She told the jury that her mother had bequeathed her most of the money in a will, but it turned out that her mother was still alive.

Government witnesses included four of her clients and IRS agent Vernon Hampton.

Hampton said Miss Citrin told him that she collected fees of up to $2,500. Hampton said "she never paid taxes because she was afraid IRS would want to know all her customers' names."

He said Miss Citrin had readily acknowledged prostitution as a source of income. He said she also claimed she earned part of the money as a stockbroker.

During the trial, Miss Citrin acted as her own defense lawyer, saying she wasn't about to pay for an attorney.

The judge repeatedly explained to Miss Citrin on Thursday that she could retain a lawyer any time and even told her how to appeal her case.

But Fay added, "I feel some period of incarceration is absolutely mandatory."

He sentenced Miss Citrin to one year in a "jail-type institution," suspended 10 months of the sentence and put her on probation for two years.

PLANTING WATERMELONS Pace Of Farm Work Starting To Quicken

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Agricultural Extension Service says the pace of farm work is beginning to quicken in Texas as sorghum planting has begun in southern areas and cotton farmers prepare to follow suit.

Land preparation for spring crops has made good progress in most areas and planting activity will begin to move northward from the Rio Grande Valley as soil temperatures warm up, according to the service's Dr. John Hutchison.

Watermelons and other vegetables are being planted in southern areas and along the coast. Vegetable planting is also under way in East Texas.

FRUIT TREES

Recent warm temperatures in southern sections have caused some fruit trees to burst into bloom, said Hutchison.

The livestock picture in Texas is still on the gloomy side due to low cattle prices and lack of grazing.

Although stockmen are providing some supplemental feeding, most are concerned about keeping feeding costs at a minimum due to the depressed cattle market situation, said Hutchison. Predator losses are also increasing in some counties.

District Extension agents reported the following conditions:

South Plains: Wheat continues to make generally good progress. Most of the crop appears to be free of disease and insect problems. Subsoil moisture is good throughout the area. Cattle and range conditions are generally good.

Rolling Plains: Moisture from rain and snow the past week brought further delays to an already prolonged cotton harvest. Small grains continue to make limited growth and greenbugs are causing damage in a number of counties.

Far West: Good soil moisture and warmer weather is boosting small grain growth, thus allowing for some grazing by livestock. Winter weeds and grasses on ranges are also offering some grazing, especially for sheep and goats.

SHEEP LOST

West Central: Farmers are trying to wrap up the cotton harvest between rains. Small grains generally look good over the area but are providing limited grazing. Supplemental feeding is light. Some sheep continue to be lost in Sutton County due to bitterweed poisoning. Lambing is increasing and Angora goat shearing is active.

Southeast and Upper Gulf Coast: Flax and small grain crops are generally making good growth. Livestock have grazing on small grains and ranges and are in fair to good shape. Farmers continue to get land in shape to plant corn, sorghum, rice and vegetables.

Southwest: Good rains of a week ago brought needed moisture for small grains. Pasture conditions are improving with the rainfall and warmer temperatures. The lambing and kidding season has started and some goat shearing is underway. Peach trees are beginning to bloom. Harvesting of carrots, cabbage and spinach continues. Potato planting is under way.

SUGARCANE

South: Sorghum planting is in progress in the Rio Grande Valley and has also started in more northern counties, including Nueces. The flax crop is improving after a setback from freezing temperatures a few weeks ago.

Public Offered 1937 U.S. Gov't Art Prints

A series of rare coincidences has led to the historic discovery of several thousand sets of full color antique art prints that were "lost since 1937." They are now being offered to the public.

Eleanor Roosevelt

Back in 1937, immediately following the depression years, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and a select group of a dozen nationally prominent people formed a voluntary national committee for art appreciation to create an art program that would give the public a well-needed moral lift. It was the committee's decision to select the world's most famous paintings from the 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, and 20th centuries — the best paintings of Matisse, Van Gogh, Gainsborough, Picasso, Gauguin, Titian, etc., and to reproduce them in full color as perfectly as humanly possible and make them available to the public at a price within the reach of everyone.

Abandoned In 1937

For some unknown reason, after a quantity of these beautiful reproductions were made, the entire project was abandoned and this collection of perfect reproductions was stored in a Brooklyn warehouse, where they remained undisturbed since 1937.

The lost collection was "rediscovered" and leading lithographers and art critics agree that the subject matter and quality of detail and color reproduction is incredibly accurate. Over $500,000.00 had been spent to make engraved glass printing plates.

These authentic original 1937 prints are literally collector's items and have been appraised by the American Appraisers Assoc. at $7.00 each print. Once they have been sold, there will be no more available. A truly excellent art "investment" that makes a fabulous gift.

Available to Public

Now, after 38 years these full color 11" x 14" (ave. size) prints are finally available to the public at $19.95 for a collection of 18 prints. Send cash, check or money order to: U.S. Surplus, Dept. C85, P. O. Box 605, Tarzana, Calif. 91356. Fully GUARANTEED. Certificate of authenticity given with each set. Master Charge and BankAmericard OK (give card number).

MEN'S LEISURE SUITS

Step out and meet Spring in a fashionable leisure suit. A variety of colors so you can mix and match these polyester jackets and slacks as you choose. Jackets have contrasting stitching to highlight. All are easy-care wash 'n wear. Sizes 36-48.

Intrusions On Privacy Are Resented By Bess

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — In her very old age, it has been easier for Mrs. Harry S. Truman to live by her conviction that to attract public attention is undignified.

The former mistress of the White House was 90 on Thursday Feb. 13 and she is finally managing a life without fanfare in the big old Victorian house she had shared with her husband.

Traffic through the front door at 219 N. Delaware has slowed since President Truman died in Dec. 26, 1972. Bess Truman is pleased. Public attention was something she endured.

Mrs. Truman lives alone now, tended only by Secret Service guards and by servants who clean the house and prepare meals, but don't live there. She is still strong enough to shop for groceries once a week, to have her hair done at a nearby beauty parlor, and to dine with family or close friends.

The people she does business with — Mrs. Doris A. Miller, her hairdresser, the clerks at the supermarket, and others — refuse to discuss their famous client.

"GREAT LADY"

"I must respect her sense of privacy," says Mrs. Miller. "She is a very great lady." And Pat Ragusa, assistant manager at the supermarket where Mrs. Truman shops, agrees.

"She has always insisted that we give her no special treatment. She takes her turn in the checkout line. Sometimes someone she knows will see her and they will visit. Many times she comes and goes without anyone recognizing her."

A Secret Service agent, unusually Robert Lockwood, head of the detail which protects her, drives Mrs. Truman the 10 blocks to the supermarket, and helps with the shopping, pushing the cart slowly down the aisles while she makes her selections.

Arthritis in the right knee causes Mrs. Truman considerable pain, so she walks slowly, using a cane, and has a tendency to stoop.

Whenever she leaves the house, an agent ushers her through a side door to the limousine she owns. He drives. An escort car accompanies them, driven by a second agent. The third member of the detail maintains the 24-hour surveillance of the premises from a brick bungalow across the street.

It is a mark of her lifestyle that she and the Secret Service have worked out ways to get her about unobtrusively. Errands they can do for her are at least a relief from the tedium of their assignment. The essence of their feeling: "Great Lady. Dull duty."

When the Trumans returned to Independence in 1953 after he had been U.S. senator for 10 years and President for almost eight, they wanted to live as if they had never been away. They wanted no Secret Service agents.

Instead, Mike Westwood, a longtime friend on the Independence police force, was with them most of the time. Secret Service agents stayed mostly in the Truman Library eight blocks away.

But after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in 1963, President Johnson insisted on more protection for the Trumans. The Secret Service first moved into a shed beside the carriage house-turned garage, then to the bungalow across the street.

OFTEN AT WHEEL. Lockwood is on his second tour of duty in Independence after an interlude with the Johnsons in Texas. He is often at the wheel of her car.

He occasionally recharges the inside fire extinguishers, but the only other Secret Service presence inside the house is an agent posed on 'overnight duty in a room on the first floor.

The understanding among those who know the story is that this is at the insistence of Margaret Truman Daniel, the Truman's only child, and that her mother strenuously objected.

The obvious concern is that Mrs. Truman, with the aggravation of arthritis in her knee, might fall while in the house alone. There is no elevator, and she must negotiate the long stairway to the second floor. Upstairs, there are some ups and downs between the original structure and sections added later.

Mrs. Truman knows them all. Except for the time in Washington, she has lived in the house — built by her grandfather in 1865 — for nearly all of this century's 75 years.

Mrs. Truman reads a lot, mostly mystery stories and occasionally a historical novel. Public Library employees will not disclose the books she selects.

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Sun., Feb. 16, 1975 5-A

Today, Mrs. Truman does much of her visiting by telephone. She handles considerable correspondence through Miss Rose Conway, who was her husband's longtime secretary.

PROMPTING. Some of it is at the prompting of Eddie Meisburger. He was the sergeant in command of the Number One gun in Captain Truman's artillery battery in France on Armistice day. He is secretary-treasurer for the organization of 45 men who survive from the outfit. It once numbered 275.

"Now Mrs. Truman sends the letters the captain always did when one of the Battery D boys was sick or died," Meisburger says.

Mrs. Truman's happiest times are when her daughter comes to visit or when she goes to Washington to visit the Clifton Daniels and their four sons.

Old friends who saw her during Christmas at a Washington luncheon said she seemed in better health than a year earlier and was a bright and witty as ever.

Mrs. Truman has appeared at one public function since her husband's death.

BIG SPRING HIGH SCHOOL Registration For Cycle Safety Course Begins

By CAROL HART
Registration for a beginners motorcycle safety course, co-sponsored by the Big Spring High School

Student Council and Western Kawasaki of Big Spring, has begun according to BSHS vice principal Craig Fischer.
The course, which has been approved by the School Board, will be limited to 32 students on a first come basis. Students must have a parental agreement signed, a student insurance waiver form signed, and a $5 registration fee to register for the course.

Instructors include C. W.
Tanner, high school driver's education teacher, John Harris and Jack White, Texas Highway Department, representing Webb Air Force Base Traffic Safety.
Don Reynolds and Ralph Matteson will instruct also.

Registration must take place on or before Tuesday, Feb. 18 at Mr. Fischer's office at the High School.

The first session will be on Thursday, Feb. 20 from 6-10 p.m. at the high school, the second session will be Friday, Feb. 21 from 4-6 p.m. at the high school and the driving portion of the course will be Saturday at the Memorial Stadium Parking lot in two hour blocks.

For more information, call
Mr. Fischer at 267-7461.

There will be an assembly Wednesday morning during second period. Johnny Ray Watson will be performing.

The following students attended the Texas Tech speech tournament in Lubbock Friday. Students were Mary John Cherry, Sheri Snodgrass, Steve Cannon, Julie Davidson, Debbie Shroyer, and Donny
Knight.

Others were John Sanders, Rose Carrillo, Karen Karawesky, Jamie Petty, Julie Gatts and Dale Johnson.

Rounding out the list were James Burleson, Joe Millaway, James Durham, Renee Wash, and James Williams.

Mr. Robert Sadler is the speech coach, and Mr. Craig Fischer is the debate coach.

Several students from BSHS attended the UIL contest yesterday. Attending in the typing division were Debra Adams, Celeste Grenier, Kathy Hought, and Kelly Meisenheimer.

Alternates were John Birdwell, Cindy Kooser, and Denita Minchew. Cheri Ingram represented BSHS in the Shorthand division, with Sharon Jenkins as alternate.

In Number Sense, in the veterans division, James Hughes, Carla Walker, and Kay Willbanks attended. In the Novice division were Michelle Coffee, Cassandra
Green, Becky Ragun, Kim Andrews, Scott Sullivan, and Asima Syed.

In mathematics division were Cassandra Green, Becky Ragun, Kim Andrews, (freshmen), Michelle Coffee, and Scott Sullivan (sophomores).

Juniors attending were Asima Syed, and Kay
Willbanks.

Seniors were Robert Bradbury, Pam Pope and Richard Cranall.

In preparation for student registration and orientation, several of the business classes toured the Vocational Office Education laboratory this week.

Students observed the VOE
Co-op and Pre-employment Lab classes at work and were given information concerning both programs.

The Pre-employment Lab class is for junior students who are interested in a business career in office occupations. The students are in class for a two-hour block period per day. They learn correct office procedures and correct operation of business machines so that they are prepared to enter gainful wage earning employment upon completion of the program.

The VOE Co-op class is a program for seniors who desire to be trained for careers in various office occupations. Students are placed in actual business offices as student-learners in "on-the-job" training 15 to 25 hours per week with pay commensurate with other beginning workers in similar occupations. Classroom instruction of one hour per day consists of occupationally related instruction on various office machines and office procedures to prepare the student for success in the business world. Students are encouraged to complete the pre-employment lab phase of the program as juniors and then go into the co-op phase as seniors.

The DECA Area I Youth Leadership Conference was held Feb. 14 and 15 in San Angelo. The students who attended were Suzanne Craig, Jose Pineda, Jimmy
Douglas, Craig Knappe, Ricky Read, Connie Dunbar, Larry Cordes, David
Williams, Randy Christian,
John Cline, and Tab Morgan.

They competed in several divisions. Among them were advertising, job interview, sales demonstrations,
display, public speaking.
Schools from Abilene to Del
Rio competed.

WESTBROOK Wildcats Tie District Title With Roby Match

By MARY MARTINEZ
Monday the senior class met with the R.O.T.C.
Representative at 1:00-1:45.
That representative came from San Angelo.

The high school boys played Roby Tuesday. It was a very important game. If the Wildcats won they would be tied with Roby for the District Title. So Monday,

both junior high and high school cheerleaders held a pep rally to get the spirit up.
Everybody was busy with painting victory signs. Signs were put up all over the school.

Tuesday another pep rally was held; both junior high and high school cheerleaders got out on the floor. Chairs were placed on the floor for all high school basketball players to sit on.

Tuesday was junior high boy's last game so they were called down and little badges were pinned on them.

Ronnie Diese was honored as Mr. Irresistible at the pep rally. He was presented a candy stick and a red ribbon was pinned across his front that had Mr. Irresistible written on it with silver glittered letters. One of the cheerleaders presented him with a kiss.

The high school boys won their game against Roby.
They are now tied for the District Title.

Wednesday four students went to Snyder for the Student Seminar at Western Texas College. Those attending were: Brenda Matlock, Eva Duran, Kathy Parsons, and Jimmy Anderson.

A National Honor Society meeting was held Thursday.
The meeting was called to order by president Eva Duran. Georganne Smith gave the invocation. Julia Sweatt read the minutes and Pandora Moore gave the treasurers report.

Bobby Matlock, FHA
Beau, was presented with a box of valentine candy. A red ribbon was pinned across the front of his shirt with FHA
Beau written on it.

Earlier in the year, the senior girls took the Betty Crocker Leadership Family Test. Tuesday it was announced that Kathy Parson had won the award, which was presented to her at the pep rally. Kathy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H.

COAHOMA HIGH Chess Club Members Finish Tournament

By VICKIE COOK
Monday night, Feb. 10 the Future Homemakers of America held their regular monthly meeting at 7:30 in the high school cafeteria.

The guest speakers were from Big Spring High School and gave a talk on "Beauty."

Thursday night, Feb. 13, the Spanish Club held their monthly meeting at the Spanish Inn Restaurant in Big Spring.

All senior athletes and band students receive their letter jackets Monday morning during first period.

The Chess Club members finished their tournament to determine the placement of the ladder. It is as follows:
Mark Tiller, Clay Tidwell, Michael Barbee, Bill Brown, Benny Ray Fishback, Kathy Brown, Pierce McCraw, Tim
Barbee, Pattie Hill, Ricky
Brown, Ricky Jones, Dean
Pherigo, Russell Kennedy,
Ron Roby, Brenda McDonald, Bobby Roefer, Kenny Fryrear, Jay Phinney, and Terry Sharp.

Beginning Feb. 18, there will be a new exemption plan. The purpose of this plan is to make punctuality and regular attendance a habit on the part of each student. Requirements for the plan are: 1. Must have been enrolled in class at least 60 days during the Tri-Mester. 2. Has not been absent from the class more than 2 times. 3. Must have a satisfactory citizenship record. 4. Must have a passing grade. 5. Must have no more than 2 tardies.

There will be no exceptions allowed under this plan.

Mike Marchant
On Dean's List

Mike Marchant, son of Mr.
and Mrs. Gordon Marchant, Big Spring, was named to the Dean's List of honor students at West Texas State University for the Fall 1974 Semester.

He is president of the American Marketing Association at the school and is a member of Alpha Kappa Psi, a national business fraternity.

He is working on his master's degree.

Runnels Plan Trip

By JONI CLINE

The Runnels National Junior met on Thursday, Feb. 12 and discussed where they would go for their annual trip. The society decided to go to the Sonora Caverns. The plans will be further discussed.

Tuesday the eight grade girls' volleyball team was defeated by Snyder Travis.
Runnels high scorers were Selena Jones, Selena Harris, Toni Cline, and Connie
Spears. On Thursday, Mr.
Horton and Mrs. Rosson counselors from High School, talked to the eighth grade English classes about pre-registration.

The seventh grade girls gym classes had been playing intramural basketball games. The championship game was between the Smokers and the Midnight Stars. The Smokers composed of Lona
Gilbert, captain, Simona De Leon, co-captain, tamed the Stars by a score of 20-6.
Other team members were as follows: Sherry Byrd, Debra Green, Sandra M.
Garcia, Maydelina Sanchez and Julie Munoz. Captains for the Midnight Stars were Penny Moore, captain and Debra Jackson, co-captain.

Friday, Feb. 7, all classes took a unit review test. On Monday the Spelling Bee was held during advisory and Marsha Demina took first place. David Richardson took 2nd place.

Student council officers met Friday, Feb. 14 to discuss the upcoming events.

GOLIAD JR. HIGH SCHOOL Science Club To Visit Webb Physiology Center

By JENNIFER SMITH

The Library Club met Wednesday of last week to reorganize. Danny Richards, former president, is being moved to the track team.
Donna Bauer, former vice president, will now take over the presidency. Kathy Stevens was elected as the new vice president.

Wednesday, Feb. 19, a new collection of books will be in the library and ready to check out. A list of the selections will be sent to each classroom prior to this date.

During the Student Council meeting Feb. 12, members decided that each of them should be admitted to any future paid programs free.

Goliad Girls' Volleyball Team will play their first game Tuesday, Feb. 18, against Snyder Travis at 5:30 here in the Goliad gym.

On Thursday, Feb. 20, they play Snyder-Lamar at 4:30 in Snyder. Saturday the team will be involved in a Big Spring Volleyball Tournament. Their first game begins at 9:00 a.m.

The Goliad Mavericks played their last game Thursday, Feb. 13 against Lamesa. They ended the season well with a score of 44-38 in their favor. Track season will begin Monday.

The Science Club will meet Tuesday, Feb. 18, from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Members will go to the Physiology Center at Webb Air Force Base. They are reminded to have parents pick them up at 4:30 at Goliad.

This past week two counselors from the high school, Harvey Rothell and Roger Tucker, came to talk with eighth grade students about pre-registration for high school. They handed out booklets and explained the subjects and procedures of high school. If there is any eighth grade student who did not receive pre-registration information, he should contact Mr. Lee Freeze, counselor at Goliad.

Miss Carmen Johnson's Teen Interests classes will be giving their sixty-day project reports over various subjects of their own choice this week, while Miss Johnson's Foods classes will be baking cakes. Those students who will be cooking are reminded to bring cake mixes and cake pans.

Both seventh and eighth grade girls' P.E. classes will begin playing basketball this week. Art classes will begin architectural perspective drawings.

Goliad enrolled one new student this past week, Tena Hodges, an eighth grader, from Pecos, Texas.

Miss Carmen Johnson will celebrate her birthday Feb.
18. Happy Birthday!

New Grapefruit Diet 'Pill' Gives Fast Weight Loss

BEVERLY HILLS (Special)—
An amazing new improved version of the popular grapefruit diet has recently been developed featuring the use of a "grapefruit pill" that enables over-weight people to easily and quickly become slim, trim and attractive
"while still eating almost as much as you want."

The new chewable (candy-like) grapefruit pill puts an end to the inconvenient mess, fuss and high cost of eating half a grapefruit at every meal. Happy testimonials from people all across the country claim "you save time and money while achieving more effective weight loss results with this handy new diet plan."

Lose a Pound
Those who follow the simple grapefruit pill diet report an average loss of up to a pound a day and even more without strenuous exercise or starvation.

Fortified with vitamin E and C, the new whole grapefruit extract pill and foods as prescribed by the diet will, through natural action, act to help your body release excess fat and body fluids, allowing you to keep your weight down and figure in firm control.

Eat All You want Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, lobster, chicken, fish, some sauces and gravies, bacon and eggs, and still lose weight.

Diet Now Available

STANTON HIGH SCHOOL FHA Week Is Marked With Many Activities

By MINDY HAILSLIP

This week was designated as National FHA Week and the local FHA chapter began its observance with group attendance of the First Baptist Church on Sunday, Feb. 9.

The rest of the week was filled with daily activities for the chapter including the planting of a rose bush on school grounds, honoring H.A. Schuelke as the FHA beau, honoring teachers, wearing of FHA colors, and honoring of parents.

Members of the senior class met Thursday to order graduation invitations from the Southern Engraving Company. They were also measured for caps and gowns at that time.

Valentine's Day at SHS was a little more exciting than usual this year due to a service provided by the junior class. Juniors took orders all week for valentines to be delivered on Friday.

The customer had his or her choice of a written message to be delivered privately, a message to read aloud, in some cases a message to be "sung," and the addition of a carnation to be delivered with the valentine.

Stanton FFA members took high honors at the Grass Judging Contest held during the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show in Fort Worth. Stanton teams took third and fifth place. Team members were Bimbo
Allred, Garry Hull, Ronnie
Mims, Danny Ireton, Wayne
Atchison, Tressa Hull, Jacky
Romine, Gary Barnes, Terry
Smith, Connie Christen, and Dean Christian.

At the El Paso Stock Show the plant identification team of Garry Hull, Wayne Atchison, Frank Atchison, and Ricky Lewis took first place, and Tressa Hull, David Louder, Danny Ireton, and Bimbo Allred teamed up for second place. Tressa
Hull, Garry Hull, Ricky
Lewis, and Frank Atchison placed first, second, third, and fourth, respectively, in individual competition.

Using activity period as practice time, math club members have been working hard in preparation for the UIL district competition later this spring. Students have already attended an invitational tournament in Andrews and plan to attend another in Stamford to gain experience in number sense and slide rule.

Members of the club include Mike Scott, Mark Cook, Darrell Christian,
Gordon Eiland, Bill Howard, James Franks, John Yater,
Ralph Newman, and Ricky
Dill. Sponsor of the group is Mrs. Susan Alexander.

Officers of the club are John Yater, sec-tres.; Gordon Eiland, vice pres.; and James Franks, pres.

Joining the math club at Stamford will be several members of the science club.

Members of this organization are DeeDee Adkins, Donna Sue Hale, Paiga Lou Eiland, Shelly Church, Gordon Eiland, Gary Hanson, John Yater,
James Franks, Kenny McCallister, and Diane Sculark.

GARDEN CITY
Prepare For Meet

By MARTHA DOE

Basketball ended on a glorious note for the Bearcats the past week. The home teams took the measure of Sterling City in both ends of a conference doubleheader.

The junior high and high school athletic classes have been working out for track and field. The first meet for the high school girls will be March 8 in Robert Lee.

Thursday was an exciting day for the juniors. Larry Freeman, the Herf Jones ring man, delivered class rings to the juniors. The design of the rings was changed this year.

Also, on Thursday, the seniors were measured for caps and gowns. They will be delivered in April, along with the graduation invitations.

COLLEGE STATION —
Six students from Big Spring have earned "Distinguished Student" ranking at Texas
A&M University, announced
Registrar Robert A. Lacey.

The undergraduate honor is awarded students who have excelled academically.
Recipients must earn at least a 3.25 grade point ratio (out of a possible 4.0) during the most recent grading period.

"Distinguished Student" ranking is limited to 10 per cent of TAMU's undergraduate enrollment.

Big Spring students are Nancy C. Dunnam, sophomore educational curriculum and instruction;
Ronnie G. Hise, freshman chemical engineering;
James C. Hunnicutt, sophomore history; Kirk M.
McKnight, freshman forestry; Billy M. Priebe, junior mechanical engineering; and Sterling K.
Shaw, sophomore biomedical science.

areas are among the 269 students named to the Dean's Honor List for the 1974 fall semester at South Plains College.

In order to be named to the list, students must maintain a 3.25 grade point average while enrolled in 12 or more semester hours and have no failing grade, announced Nathan Tubbs, academic dean at SPC.

Big Spring, Midland, Odessa and Colorado City are represented on the honor roll.

Students include Gage Hopkins and Richard Kil-chen, both of Big Spring; Dana Henderson of Midland;
Connie Cooley and Phyllis Solomon, both of Colorado City; and Bruce Haan of Odessa.

Tombstone Industry Is Faced With Shortages

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Carving tombstones is a dying craft, but monument retailers say the public couldn't live without the grave markers they produce.

"There are fewer and fewer good carvers left today," said Henry J. Pofi, executive secretary of the Tri-State Monument Builders Association. He noted that many of the skilled craftsmen are resting under their own monuments and others have been driven out of the business by hard times.

Pofi, whose organization represents 900 monument builders in New York, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and Washington, D.C., said the lack of craftsmen is only one of the problems facing the tombstone industry.

COSTS SKYROCKET

Pofi pointed to the rising price of granite, obtained from both domestic and foreign quarries, which he said has gone up 40 per cent in the last five years.

The price depends on how much finishing is done on the quarry site, but the average cost of a standard chunk of rock has risen from $400 to $600.

"Times are hard, but most people are covered by insurance," Pofi said. "But they only have a certain amount of money to spend. So they'll spend the same on something smaller."

The standard size of a granite memorial has diminished from 48 to 36 inches while the retail cost has gone from $385 to $500.

And this industry is experiencing shortages like all others. Silica carbide, used to lubricate the rotating wire which cuts the stone into pieces, is in short supply.

AN ART

"It's a leftover from the steel mills. The government bought it all up and has only just begun to release it into the market."

But monument caring is as much a craft as it is a business, Pofi is a third generation carver, his grandfather having begun the business in Italy.

Young guys don't seem interested. They'd rather go into the mills or go to college.

"Carving tombstones is tedious, it takes hours to do," And years to learn. An apprentice will spend several years under a shop foreman learning the basics. He will then be sent to a major quarry in Vermont or Georgia for two years to refine his trade.

Should he decide to do statuary, it could take up to five years.

Young carvers are drawn from any number of fields, Pofi said. The artists are the best craftsmen and easiest to teach, in most cases, he said. But one of Pofi's star employees for 28 years was formerly a carpenter.

"A good carver might make between $30 and $40 a day. But an apprentice might only earn $20 a day," Pofi said.

Time To Make Showing

At this season of the year, we generally turn to a subject which is less than world-shattering, but which nevertheless is important to our community. It is, namely, the matter of getting with it in home beautification.

Now, not next summer, is when we decide on what our places will look like. Now, not next summer, is the time that we make it possible for shrubs and trees to make a good showing. Now, not next summer, is the time when we put our flower beds and garden plots into condition that will yield real results.

Within less than a month, the sap will be rising and trees will be putting out leaves, and most nursery stock will have been out of the ground a month longer. The best time for transplanting and for pruning will have past. The best time for turning beds, mixing in compost or organic matter will have slipped by, and we may be obliged to try and do it all at once.

We are coming up to the Bicentennial celebration with renewed emphasis upon beautification, among other things. So get the fever now when it will do the most good.

Profitable To Pick Up

One major bottle is making a distinct contribution to ecology through the simple device of making it worthwhile for users of cans to be neat. Coors Beer (Pearl) now has a comprehensive program of the same type going; paid out nearly $6 million last year to individuals and organizations gathering in aluminum cans for recycling.

These resulted in over a billion cans being returned, which was nearly a quarter of a billion gain over the previous year, and which may reflect the hike in the price from 10 to 15 cents a pound for returned cans. The percentage of cans returned to those issued grew from 34 per cent in 1973 to 38 per cent in 1974. Apparently progress is being made. These were of course, not all cans of the company's label, but included soft drink and other aluminum cans. But when it comes to less clutter and trash, a can is a can. People pick up when it is profitable.

My Answer

Billy Graham

I hate to admit it, but the romance we had as newlyweds has practically disappeared — and after only six months of marriage. Why? What's wrong?

Well, it would be presumptuous of me to analyze your problem at this distance, and without personal consultation, but let me suggest two things.

The first is that as newlyweds move out of the singles group, they should early seek other young couples their age — preferably with their own interests. Two or three close couples, in a "buddy" type relationship, can serve as a kind of support to keep a tottering relationship from disintegrating. There's perhaps an element of boredom that has set in with you two, and you need to be with other couples — if only to observe how they handle their own marital problems.

The second thing is to get related quickly to a Bible preaching local church. Here you'll find young adults your own age; here you can share problems, and give yourself in some form of Christian service. But most of all, it's in the church that you'll find faith in Christ, with all the inter support that represents.

McNALLY

A happy marriage is when each live for the other and both for the Lord.

The Azores, Too

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Concerning the developments in Portugal, a few observations:

1) The Communists in Portugal are organized, the non-Communists are not. Power generally flows into the hands of the organized, as distinguished from the disorganized, party. Alvaro Cunhal, the leader of the Portuguese Communists, spent nearly 20 years in France. He had advantages then he did not have during his exile in Zurich. Cunhal was well looked after by his hosts, and he spent his time creating an organization against the day when a successor dictatorship to Salazar's should fall.

WHEN APRIL CAME, Cunhal was there, ready to plot the subjugation of the Portuguese people. That is the proper term for it, as the polls show that the Portuguese are not an exception to the rule, that the human species will not elect a Communist dictatorship if given a choice. The question isn't: will the Communists win in Portugal at the general election scheduled for April twelfth. The question is: will there be a fair general election. The Communists will not abide by a fair election, any more than Lenin did. Like him, they will simply dissolve the general assembly — in this case the rump Parliament set up by the military — and proceed with communication.

2) WHAT SHOULD WE DO about it? Anything? My guess is that the CIA is too intimidated these days to do anything. How can it do something to help the Portuguese resist enslavement by the Communists, when to do so would involve the risk of antagonizing America's New Isolationists?

Mr. James Burnham, collating the reports of informed journals and commentators in Europe, writes that Moscow is sending sums in excess of ten million dollars per month to Portugal. And why indeed not? At that rate even over a period of one year you are spending less than a single submarine costs you. But the tactical and strategic value to the Soviet Union of Portugal is worth, I should think, something on the order of 1,000 submarines.

IT IS A PITY that, during the SALT talks when Mr. Kissinger and Mr. Brezhnev were balancing off permissible inventories of missiles and submarines and whatnot, we did not think to include countries. It would have been interesting to see what would have happened if we had insisted that the Soviet Union would have to limit itself to its current quota of slave-satellites.

3) AS TO THE FUTURE, what are we going to do if the Communists take power, which appears likelier than not at this moment? They would, of course, instantly withdraw Portugal from NATO, and boot the United States out of the Azores. Should we accept Mr. Cunhal's orders, and abandon our bases in the Azores? Portugal was admitted into NATO in the 'forties not because the European NATO powers loved Salazar, and certainly not as a reward for Portugal's neutrality during the war. Portugal was admitted because, on further consideration, the generals gave out the word: We must have the western coastline of the Iberian Peninsula; and, above all, we must have the Azores.

Are we prepared, in the event of a coup in Portugal (which is what, in effect, it would be), to dissolve NATO, or to accept it as a military unit? Or would we simply say, as we did when France fell, that we do not recognize the legitimacy of the regime? That, indeed, the full powers of NATO are legitimately summoned to resist the colonization of one of their members by the superpower NATO was sworn to protect Europe against?

IT WOULD NOT BE tactful to say it in so many words, but I should think Mr. Kissinger could find a suitable elliptical formulation for saying: "You may get away with staging a coup in Lisbon, boys, but if you think the Azores go with it, come on to Washington and talk it over with our admirals."

New Currency

PORT MORESBY, Papua New Guinea (AP) — Papua New Guinea's new currency, to be known as the kina, will go into effect in late April, Finance Minister Julius Chan announced.

The exact date for the change over from Australian currency to kinas will depend on when new banknotes are delivered from the printers in Australia and coins minted in London, he said.

NEW YORK (AP) —

Output in the nation's plants and factories during January dropped off at its sharpest rate since the Depression era, the government said during the past week.

But Wall Street, apparently looking beyond the recessionary crevasse, never seemed to blink — and in fact the stock market had its heaviest trading in history on the day the industrial output figures were released.

The Federal Reserve Board said Thursday its index of industrial production plummeted 3.6 per cent in January, adding to the 3.1 per cent falloff in December and bringing the overall decline since September to 9.5 per cent.

The January drop was the steepest since December 1937 when the index skidded 8.9 per cent.

GOOD AND BAD On Friday the government followed up the Fed's report with good and bad news. The Labor Department said its wholesale price index fell .3 per cent in January, led by a 2.2 per cent drop in farm prices. Coming atop a similar fall in December, the trend held hope for consumers weary of ever-rising costs.

Also Friday the Treasury Department disclosed an increase of $4.1 billion in the balance of trade deficit incurred during the fourth quarter, bringing the year's total deficit to $8 billion.

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In a few months we expect the arrival of our third child in three years. When our last baby was born, our house was packed with well-meaning neighbors and their curious children, anxious to see the baby.

This resulted in my being exhausted, and the baby catching a bad cold before he was three weeks old. I am very anxious not to repeat this bedlam, especially since the baby will be born in the middle of the flu season.

How can I explain to our visitors that I appreciate their good intentions, but that I would rather they keep their children at home?

This whole dilemma is causing our household great concern, and I certainly would appreciate advice. — Mrs. R.W.

All new babies are "cute" to adults and an attraction for youngsters. You will just have to set up some guidelines for your visitors.

In that regard, everyone visiting the baby, adult or child, should be asked to wear a mask, particularly if they are sneezing or coughing. They should be asked to keep their distance and not handle the baby. In fact, you can tell them a doctor (me) suggested no one but the mother, father and doctor handle an infant.

That hint should be broad enough and yet productive of some results. To satisfy the children's curiosity, the baby can be held at a specific time "on display." Newborn infants do have natural resistance to certain infections, but the ability to cope with flu or strep organisms is not unlimited.

Don't let anyone but yourself into the nursery room to hover over the crib. Tell visitors the baby is napping or is about to be fed.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My first request is for your booklet "Ear Noises, Their Causes and Cures." I am sending 15 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to you in care of the Big Spring Herald.

I also would like information on the causes or cures of the enlargement of my husband's testes. This condition started 15 years ago.

The doctor at the time did not push for treatment or predict any worsening of the condition. However, the past few years, they have really enlarged to the point of making him chafe.

If you feel this is a serious condition, please say so. — Mrs. O.W.

You should understand the difference between the testes and the scrotum. They are not the same.

The swelling is most likely due to fluid accumulation in the scrotal sac (called hydrocele). This does not involve the testes proper, which are within the same sac.

Treatment involves either drainage of the fluid or corrective surgery to prevent recurrence. The purpose of the surgery is a rearrangement of membranes within the sac so that fluid does not reappear. The condition is not considered serious, and this is why your doctor did not, as you say, "push" for treatment early.

With simple drainage, recurrence is common, but with the surgical procedure the problem is corrected.

Your husband should probably see a urologist. Your local medical society should be able to refer you to one.

WEEK'S BUSINESS

- ★ Factory output declines at sharpest rates since Depression
- ★ But wholesale prices, prodded by farm decline, ease off
- ★ Lower interest slows foreign investors, trade balance sags
- ★ Stock market shows optimism with an all-time record day
- ★ Rebates may be helping, but car sales still down 5 pct.

The latest figure indicated a slowdown in investments by the oil-exporting countries as a result of declining U.S. interest rates, the government said. The year's deficit, while large, was way below the all-time high of $26.76 billion reached in 1971.

MARKET RALLIES

Ignoring the bad news, the stock market continued its vigorous rally begun in late December. New York Stock Exchange volume for the week totaled 110.83 million shares; on Thursday it reached a record high of 35.16 million. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks surged 22.29 to 734.20, sparked by declining interest rates, recovery hopes, and cash-laden investors worried about missing what they thought might be a new bull market.

Adding to Wall Street's optimism was the Big Board's report that its 425 member firms posted an aggregate pre-tax profit of $138 million in the fourth quarter of 1973, turning around two quarters of losses. Thus far 1975 looks profitable too. "We're up in bed, but not yet doing wind-sprints," said one broker.

CAR SALE OFF

Meanwhile in Detroit auto sales in the first 10 days of February fell 5 per cent from depressed levels in 1974, reaching their lowest numerical level in 13 years. Cash rebates helped sales, but haven't yet "saved" the industry, one analyst said.

American Motors announced layoffs of 8,500 hourly workers beginning Monday. The Interior Department's plan to lease Atlantic tracts for off-shore oil exploration hit a legal and political roadblock and was abruptly withdrawn. Interior officials said their call for lease nominations violated a commitment to some Atlantic Coast states to wait for a Supreme Court decision on ownership of the off-shore tracts.

Procrastination

Around The Rim

Walt Finley

There's only one thing, I believe, that will keep us procrastinators from inheriting the earth. We'll just never get around to it.

I was sitting at my typewriter, X-ing out a misguided item and a co-worker stopped and watched my dexterity.

When I finished blossoming Judette Bloom said, "That's the best item you ever had."

A female dog, like my Moonchild, is a litterer.

The other day, a local lawyer was reading the law to his client, and when he finished he asked her "do you understand what I'm talking about?"

"No," she replied.

And he said "Neither do I."

The secret of the success of J. Paul Getty was that his father moved from Minneapolis to Oklahoma at the age of 21, and promptly struck oil, according to "People," a new magazine off the presses of Time.

Young Getty made $40,000 his first year buying and selling oil leases, and then his first million in only a few months. When the depression hit, he had enough to buy millions of shares of collapsed oil stocks.

From that point on, it was easy.

"Money is like manure," Getty once said. "You have to spread it around or it smells."

"People" says he has a pay telephone in his 72-room mansion near London.

"The guests won't mind paying for their calls," he says, "and as for the deadbeats, I couldn't care less."

I wish I'd thought of that.

I believe the pay phone bit. Over a period of two years I bought a very close relative of the "World's Richest Man" more than a few "soda pops" at the Tulsa Press Club. Not once did the "tight" feller reciprocate.

An administration official referred to the energy crisis as a "blessing in disguise."

Pollyanna would make a good Secretary of "Blessings in Disguise."

Sage Of Scurry Street, A. J. Vaughn, reports:

Yesterday in a Big Spring store a woman asked for a three-quarter inch pipe plug. The clerk asked, "Do you want a male plug, a female plug, or both?"

She replied, "I just want to stop a leak, I don't want to raise them."

They Need A Rest

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — The big question everyone in Washington is asking this week is, "Can congressmen chew gum and walk at the same time?" It's impossible to answer because all of them have gone on vacation for 10 days.

THE DECISION to take 10 days off was not one of those spur-of-the-moment actions that the House of Representatives is noted for. It was carefully thought out and approved by the leadership.

I went up on the Hill Monday to find out what was going on while the congressmen were away.

The only one I could find, who wasn't on vacation, was a cleaning woman who had been asked to act as a liaison with the press.

AFTER SHE FINISHED mopping the floor in one of the congressmen's offices, she agreed to speak to me.

"Why would the House, after only being in session for one month, take a 10-day vacation?"

"They have to go home to make speeches in their districts telling their constituents what a mess this country is in because nobody in Washington is doing anything."

"WOULDN'T IT HAVE BEEN better if they stayed in Washington and tried to get us out of the mess?" I asked.

"Everyone needs a rest. You can't expect a legislator to work for 30 days and not get tired. When they come back from vacation, they'll be fresh and able to deal with the momentous problems of the country."

"I hate to say this, but there doesn't seem to be the sense of urgency around here that the times would require."

"That," she said, as she squeezed out her mop, "is because you don't understand how congressmen work. They have to know what the people are thinking."

"BUT ALL YOU have to do is pick up the newspapers and you'll know what people are thinking. They want jobs, a halt to inflation and some sort of tax reform."

"You wouldn't get that in 10 days even if they were all here," she retorted. "But they could get started," I protested.

"HAVEN'T YOU HEARD from voters who have protested the House taking so much time off?"

"There has been a lot of mail," she said, "but I haven't been able to get to it yet because I still have to mop the hall."

"Are you going to answer the mail?"

"The congressmen said I could do anything I wanted as long as I didn't break any brie-a-brac on their desks. But I doubt if I'll get to the mail. I have to see Gerry Ford at 4:00."

"YOU'RE GOING to see the President?"

"He called up and said he wanted to see Carl Albert and Tip O'Neill. I told him they weren't here. Then he said he would speak to any congressman. I had to tell him they were all on vacation. So he asked me to come over to discuss congressional problems with him."

The phone in one of the Congressmen's offices rang.

The cleaning lady picked it up. "Who is this? Sen. Jackson? No, no one is here. This is Eliza in the Rayburn building. No, I haven't gotten around to writing the energy legislation yet. For heaven's sakes, Scoop, I've only got two hands."

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Your recent article explaining the approximate 30 per cent increase in the size of gas bills left a couple of unanswered points. It was explained that the rate increase was due to the increased cost of gas. Well, we all know that the cost of the gas is only one cost for a gas company. Other big costs are the plants, pipe lines, and people. If the one expense of buying gas increases 30 per cent, a 30 per cent increase in the consumer price cannot be justified. The price of plants, pipe lines and people didn't also jump 30 per cent.

Thirty per cent was the figure discussed in your recent article, however, the gas bill at my shop doubled from December 1973 compared to December 1974. I checked with the gas company people, and they got the records out on my meter. The records show that I used slightly less gas in December of 72 than in December of 74. Why did the bill double? The rates doubled.

Of course, the best way to see whether a gas company's price increases are in line with their cost increases is to look at their profits. For example Pioneer Gas' 1973 earnings were $1.19 per share. Their first nine month earnings for 1974 were $1.99, with estimates of $2.60 for the year. That is more than double net profit after paying all their expenses. Their profits double, folks gas bills doubled, and folks income stayed the same.

Your truly,
MIKE CRADDOCK

CHILDREN'S CORNER 'Did Gyre And Gimble In The Wabe': Carroll

By SUSAN CONLEY
Children's Librarian

"'Twas brillig and the slithy toves Did gyre and gimble in the wabe: All mimsy were the borogoves And the mome raths outgrave."

This and other nonsense verses, people and places await the reader who dares to follow Alice through the rabbit hole or looking-glass and into a world filled with fantasy and adventure.

"Alice's Adventures in Wonderland" and the sequel, "Through the Looking-Glass" were created by Charles Lutwidge Dodgson (his pen name was Lewis Carroll), who was a respected mathematician at Oxford and a middle-aged bachelor.

"Alice in Wonderland" is the story of a young girl, who follows a White Rabbit into his hole and is then led from one adventure to another. A piece of cake she eats makes her grow as large as a house; a bottle she drinks from shrinks her into the size of an elf.

'WHAT YOU MEAN'
At a "Mad Tea-Party" attended by the March Hare, the Hatter, and the Dormouse a nonsense conversation was going on:

"Then you should say what you mean," the March Hare went on.

"I do," Alice hastily replied; "at least—at least I mean what I say—that's the same thing, you know."

"Not the same thing a bit!" said the Hatter. "Why, you might as well say that 'I see what I eat' is the same thing as 'I eat what I see.'"

SEQUEL STUDIED
"Through the Looking-Glass" takes Alice on another imaginary trip where she meets Tweedledum and Tweedledee, Humpty Dumpty and is crowned a queen.

As queen, Alice is questioned intensively by the Red Queen and the White Queen to find out how smart she is: "Take a bone from a dog: What remains?"

Alice considered. "The bone wouldn't remain, of course, if I took it—and the dog wouldn't remain: it would come to bite me—and I'm sure I shouldn't remain!"

"Then you think nothing would remain?" said the Red Queen.

"I think that's the an-

Presley Now Out Of Hospital

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Singer Elvis Presley is home from the hospital under the same rule he used when he was hospitalized, secrecy.

Officials of Baptist Memorial Hospital said Friday that Presley was discharged late Thursday without announcement of his release. The singer returned to "Graceland," his mansion in South Memphis.

Presley entered the hospital in secrecy Jan. 29 for tests and treatment of an intestinal blockage. Doctors have said the singer's condition results from a twisted colon.

A spokesman for Presley said Friday that the singer is "improved and up and about, although he is not completely recovered."

Presley's father, Vernon Presley, 59, remains in the hospital as the result of a heart attack on Feb. 5.

Hospital officials said the elder Presley, whose condition was first listed as serious, has improved and is now in fair condition.

Rooney Sued For Alimony

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mickey Rooney is being sued for $14,500 in back alimony by his fourth wife, Elaine Mahnen Rooney.

She alleges in the Superior Court that Rooney had stopped paying her $500 monthly alimony in 1969.

Under terms of their 1961 divorce, he was to continue payments for 10 years. The suit asks 7 per cent interest per year on back payments.

Unemployed Seek Work In Florida

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Unemployed workers desperate for jobs at any price are pouring into Florida's citrus groves by the thousands, creating the largest harvest-time labor surplus here in 25 years, officials say.

And growers are responding to the influx by cutting wages, using tactics one union leader says are reminiscent of the Great Depression.

Orange and grapefruit growers, hard hit by spiraling production costs, have cut wage rates by as much as 10 cents a box because of the flood of would-be pickers, according to industry sources.

"It's the old law of supply and demand," said Clark Ghiselin, director of the Citrus Industrial Council. He estimated that pickers currently earn 35 to 40 cents a box, compared with 40 to 45 cents a box earned last season.

Don S. Bryan, a citrus grower in Bartow, said that last season, an average picker could produce about 60 boxes a day. At last year's rate of 45 cents a box, a picker would earn about $27 a day.

Because of the labor surplus this season, Bryan said, some growers are limiting their pickers' hours and have cut them back to four-day work weeks, although Bryan's pickers are not being restricted.

"A lot of crews are being limited to two trailers a day, and that figures out to about 20 boxes per picker," said Diana Lyons, an organizer for the United Farm Workers Union who says some pickers are getting as little as 25 to 30 cents a box. "And that comes to as little as $6 a day."

"It's the same kind of situation we had when people fled the dust bowls for California during the Great Depression. Back then, employers bargained for an over-supply of labor."

VANDALISM

Child Abuse Prevention Day Is Declared By BS Mayor

In connection with the State Department of Public Welfare's official opening of the Texas Campaign Against Child Abuse, Mayor Wade Choate has declared February 20 "Child Abuse Prevention Day" in Big Spring.

Official opening of the campaign in the Big Spring area will take place at a noon luncheon on that day. Featured speaker will be Raymond W. Vowell, commissioner of the State Welfare Department. There will also be a short panel discussion on some of the aspects of child abuse and neglect. Members of the panel include Dr. Mark Nardone, who will speak on the medical aspects. The 118th District Attorney, Robert H. Moore, III, will discuss legal considerations, and Charles Condray, Director of the Adolescent Program of Big Spring State Hospital, will contribute his viewpoint.

Since the Department of Public Welfare is the agency charged by Texas law with the protection of Texas Children, child abuse and neglect is of great concern to it. As a part of this concern, the State Welfare Department has launched a campaign to inform the citizens of Texas about child abuse and neglect, feeling that an informed citizen will be a concerned citizen. Every effort is being made to inform the public by various media materials, of the current programs available.

These services include a toll free Texas Hot Line to report child abuse: 1-800-292-5400, as well as two local numbers. 267-8098 and 267-labor to get the cheapest labor possible and that's what's happening now," she said. "I haven't seen this kind of surplus since the late '40s." Ghiselin said. "There's no way to get a census on people looking for jobs, but all the harvesting operations tell me they've got whole crews who can't get work." Despite the lack of hard statistics, other industry sources estimate that two or three workers are applying for each of this year's 26,000 picking jobs. The main harvesting period runs from the end of December into the spring months.

Two Major Trials To Begin Monday

HOUSTON (AP) — Two major criminal trials are scheduled to begin Monday in the Harris County Court House.

David O. Brooks, 19, one of two youths charged in the 1973 mass murders case in which the bodies of 27 youths were recovered, is to go on trial on one of four murder counts.

Ignacio Cuevas, 42, the lone survivor among three inmates involved in the Aug. 3 Huntsville prison shootout that left four persons dead, faces one murder count.

Brooks was ruled last November to be mentally competent to stand trial before State District Court Judge William Hatten. The Brooks case is the only one on Hatten's docket next week and Hatten and other court officials have indicated the selection of a jury will require about a week. Testimony has been scheduled tentatively to start Feb. 24.

Cuevas entered a plea of innocent Nov. 21 before State District Court Judge Miron Love to an indictment alleging he intentionally caused the death of Julia Standley, a prison librarian and one of two hostages killed in the shootout that ended an 11-day prison escape attempt. The trial was sent here on a change of venue from Huntsville.

Love has other matters on his Monday docket. Defense attorneys Will Gray and Hector Azios also have eight motions awaiting rulings by Love.

Most of the defense motions are rather routine but one asks that Love order that the body of Mrs. Elizabeth Beseda, a prison teacher and the second hostage to be killed in the shootout, be exhumed for an autopsy.

In the motion filed Jan. 20, Gray argued that a post mortem examination might indicate Mrs. Beseda was killed by a bullet not fired by one of the three inmates involved in the shootout. No autopsy was performed prior to Mrs. Beseda's burial.

Brooks is to go on trial for the murder of William R. Lawrence, 15, whose body was found buried near Lake Sam Rayburn.

Elmer Wayne Henley, 18, the second defendant in the mass murders case, also was indicted in Lawrence's death.

THE WEEK

Walter Grice, 78, justice of peace (Pet. 1, Pl. 1), has submitted his resignation for the post effective March 31. This will end a career of 31 years in public office, which probably eclipses the old record of the Late J. I. Prichard, who was the perennial county clerk.

Texas International Airways withdrew its objection to the Trans Regional Airways application before Texas Aeronautics Commission last week when the local carrier said it would delete Abilene as a proposed point of service between Big Spring and Fort Worth-Dallas.

Mitchell County officers, fortified by the Rangers, DPS, and police of Colorado City, captured an airplane and 1,500 pounds of marijuana last weekend. This followed a similar deal at Lamesa. These aerial pot smugglers may be well advised to find some points to land other than this area's smaller airports.

Our Jaycee chapter came back from the district meeting in Midland last weekend with three first places for individuals, and a top state award for extension.

If the Chamber of Commerce is able to accomplish all that was laid out by the division heads at the directors' meeting Monday, it will be a busy and productive year.

Two of our young men were lost during the past week. Michael Peters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Peters Jr., was killed in a one-car mishap north of Del Rio. Charles Burned a key member of the science faculty at Big Spring High School, died unexpectedly from a heart attack last Monday.

Bessie Love was renamed president of the Howard County Council on Aging. The council, which has been arranging numerous activities and operates a center on the Howard College campus, is moving more toward being a coordinating agency now that there is vastly more interest and action in this field.

The city council, led by Mayor Wade Choate, plus Garden Clubs and other community improvement leaders, paid fitting tribute last week to a modest but unselfishly helpful man, Johnny Johansen, director of parks. From now on, the drive at the historic "big spring" be known as Johansen Circle.

Neal Barnaby, county engineer, complains that vandals are working havoc on county road signs. You can help more than anyone in curbing this nonsense by jotting down numbers of suspicious cars and bucking them to the sheriff.

From the notebook: We are advised that our outline about "Requiem for Rover" picture is in error; that it was a passing motorist in a Corvair who stopped, pulled the big dog to the side of the road and checked to see if it was alive—not the little dog in the picture. Gary Bradbury, the radio impresario, may be turning engineer; at any rate he has been accepted by Rice University school of engineering for the fall semester. Howard County Family Services is slated to be in operations this week at the Dora Roberts Health Center building (but it still needs immediate financial help from individuals and organizations).

Kissinger Is Working On Long-Term Oil Pacts

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — The United States is trying to make long-term purchase arrangements with individual oil nations at prices substantially below the current level. The strategy was revealed as Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger flew on Saturday to Saudi Arabia, the world's biggest oil exporter.

Arriving in Riyadh to hold talks on the new strategy and the Arab-Israeli situation with King Faisal, Kissinger said "the American attitude will be one of conciliation, cooperation and traditional friendship."

Privately, however, it was learned that the United States is intent on breaking the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries through such means as long-term, individual deals. At least one, unidentified producer has expressed an interest, newsmen were told.

Current world crude oil prices are $10 to $11 a barrel at production points. Kissinger has proposed that even if prices drop, consumer countries should set a minimum price in the range of $6 or $7 as a means of encouraging continued oil exploration.

A long-term purchase deal could involve the United States acting alone or in combination with other industrialized countries. When France and other Europeans sought separate deals with Arab producers they were criticized by Kissinger as forsaking unity.

U.S. officials said that if Western dependence on imported oil is not ended in five years the choice to be faced will be either political surrender or use of military force.

Kissinger also took up with Faisal the use of petrodollars for economic warfare. A senior U.S. official said

Kissinger had ordered a study of the blacklisting of banks and investment firms with Jewish directors by financial pools involving Arab money.

Charles W. Robinson, the undersecretary of state for economic affairs, is traveling with Kissinger looking for "concrete proposals," particularly in agricultural development.

This is seen as a means of pressuring the Arabs to maintain high production in order to provide capital to finance agricultural and industrial development. The State Department hopes this will result in a drop in oil prices because of oversupply.

Kissinger also reported to Faisal on his "exploratory" mission regarding a possible Sinai settlement between Israel and Egypt.

"We appreciate his efforts and wish him the best of luck," Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani, the Saudi oil minister, said in greeting Kissinger at the airport. With him was Ibrahim Masoud, the acting foreign minister.

Kissinger had talks earlier with King Hussein in Amman, Jordan. Prime Minister Zaid Rifai told newsmen Jordan representatives would not attend the Geneva peace conference if it were reconvened. He said the Palestine Liberation Organization should represent the West Bank in negotiations.

Supper Planned

The Disabled Veterans of America are holding a free chili supper Tuesday 8 p.m. at the VFW Hall on the Country Club road in Silver Heels Addition. All members are urged to attend, and any other disabled Veteran is invited to be a guest, said Bob Bowen, commander.

Bicentennial Meeting Is Scheduled Thursday

A meeting of Bicentennial representatives from all clubs, groups and organizations in Howard County has been called for 4 p.m. Thursday at the Howard College auditorium.

This is to be an explanatory meeting, said Mrs. Janell Davis and Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery, co-chairman of the Bicentennial Commission.

The meeting will be confined to no more than one hour in length. There will be an updating of planning to date for celebrating the nation's 200th birthday. A publicity guide will be presented, and the role of clubs, organizations and other groups in the celebration will be explained. Then there will be a half an hour for suggestions, questions and answers.

Nearly all of the scores and scores of organizations contacted by the commission responded favorably and have named a Bicentennial chairman. Mrs. Davis emphasized that if it is impossible for this person to attend (or the head of the organization), then it is important that someone be obtained to represent the group at the meeting.

"We must have the whole community involved," she said, "and this is one way we feel that we can get the information out to most of our people."

College Board Meets Tuesday

Howard College trustees will have their monthly meeting Tuesday 12:30 p.m. in the board room of the Dora Roberts Student Union Building.

Dr. Charles Hays, president, will have personnel recommendations for the board. He also will have a report from Rauscher-Pierce, fiscal agents, regarding financing possibilities should a proposed civic center be undertaken. The board also may be asked to select possibilities for visiting other college centers or coliseums as a guide for the architects.

Flu Hits 210 During Week

Flu which accounted for 406 cases of communicable diseases the previous week was still leading the list Friday but had dropped to 210.

A survey by the Big Spring-Howard County Health Unit also showed 104 upper respiratory, 56 sore throat, 27 gastroenteritis, 23 diarrhea, 20 tonsillitis, 11 chicken pox and two mumps.

Microfilm Talks Set

Combining election boxes for the state constitutional amendment election April 22 and hearing a proposal for microfilming some important records appear on the agenda for County Commissioners Court Monday.

County Clerk Margaret Ray said the court legally may reduce the number of election boxes to one or more in each commissioner's precinct.

Don Woodman of Southwest Microfilm, Lubbock, requested permission to talk to the court about the proposed microfilm project, Mrs. Rays said.

Important legal documents such as deeds, deeds of trust, birth and death certificates could be photographed on microfilm, and the microfilm stored in a bank vault. This would protect against the county's copies of these records being lost in a fire or disaster.

Commissioners court does not plan to meet with Keith Jones, Martin County juvenile and adult probation officer, about the proposed consolidation of adult probation departments in the 118th Judicial District. The court is not interested in the proposal.

But the court will confer again with Bruce Griffith, county extension agent, about securing tables and chairs at the fair barns.

Also on the agenda are repair the library building, pipe stored in connection with a criminal case and advertising for bids on a lawnmower.

An emergency meeting is planned for accepting the resignation of Peace Justice Walter Grice.

ANNE CHAMLEE

WILL BE PRESENTED IN SACRED CONCERT ON THE NEW CONCERT STEINWAY

Mrs. Chamlee, who now is working toward her doctorate in music at Baylor University where she holds her bachelors degree in piano, will play the new concert grand Steinway piano Sunday evening.

This superb instrument is the gift of Dr. and Mrs. P. W. Malone and their daughter, Mary Frances Clements, is being dedicated at the evening worship service.

Mrs. Chamlee has given numerous recitals and concerts in the Central Texas area, has studied under Frugone, McKamie, Gyarto and Keyes, and has been coached by Lilli Krause. She also conducts piano workshops and is on the Mary Hardin-Baylor summer faculty.

We urge you to experience the spiritual uplift that comes from so fine an instrument in the hands of an artist.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

RECEPTION

Immediately after the dedication service, there will be a reception in the new Fellowship Hall honoring Dr. and Mrs. Malone and Mrs. Chamlee. Please come visit them.

FUNNY CAR — Lubbock's Roger Freeman will have his AA funny car in the field when action starts in the 1975 Winter Drag Championships at Odessa International Raceway, Saturday and Sunday. The gates open both days at 9 a.m. with eliminations starting at 2 p.m.

ODESSA RACEWAY Drag Racing Fast, Heavy

ODESSA — Drag race action will be fast and heavy at Odessa International Raceway where new owners Bill Hielscher and Bill Smith have scheduled the 1975 Winter Championships, featuring 300 AHRA classes, 10 eliminators, and 200 MPH funny cars.

AHRA world record runs will be staged on Saturday, the opening day of the meet.

In Top Eliminator the fastest 32 qualifiers will be guaranteed a spot in Sunday's program and cannot be bumped.

The Funny Car field will include Flash Gordon Mineo, The Dry Martini, The Okie, The Buccaneer, and the Beach Bandit.

Lubbock's Roger Freeman, who qualified first in recent competition in Ft. Worth in his new Mustang, will be among the cars to beat for the top money in the funny car division.

Dallas' Frank Cook, 1974 NHRA Division 1V Pro Comp champion, and the sanctioning body's "Man of the Year" will be a threat in his Drag-On Amalie sponsored Vega.

Cook, 20-year veteran of drag competition, topped the

By CLARK LESHFR

At the October meeting of the Southwest Basketball Officials Association, Boyce Hale was elected to an honorary life membership, one of the highest honors bestowed on a member.

Cliff Speegle, secretary-treasurer said, "I want to express thanks to you for the contributions which have been made to the Basketball Officials Organization, and for the direction which you gave the countless youngsters who were members of athletic teams for which you worked during the years officiating basketball in this area."

Hale has been officiating for 37 years. He started in 1938 in Forsan. The veteran referee called 154 games during the 1947-48 campaign. He worked 39 games over a five year period in the State Girls' Tournament, Austin.

In 1968-69, Hale worked the Alaska State Tournament in Anchorage.

"Blood" still hot. TCU's Thomas Bledsoe, ex-Howard College All-American, maintains his nationally-ranked field goal percentage.

Through 18 games to date, the Mississippi junior has connected on 90 of 142 field goal tries for a lofty 63.9 average.

TCU's season record is 58.9 by Goo Kennedy in the school's championship season of 1970-71. The SWC record is 65.3 by Texas Tech's Dave Olsen in 1966.

Bledsoe, who unseated previous SWC scoring leader, Lynn Royal last week, increased his lead over him by one full point. The 6-6 transfer student has hit for 13.4 points per game compared to Royal's 12.4.

Bledsoe, from the free throw line, has tossed in 62 of 94 attempts and pulled down 135 rebounds.

Toronto bowler Walter Heeney is claiming the fastest five-pin game ever bowled and wants his record included in the Guinness Book of World Records.

Heeney, who averages 255-260 a game, rolled a 290 in 1 minute, 37 seconds, using 18 balls. A perfect 450 score requires 12 balls.

"To bowl a fast game you've got to get a lot of strikes," said Heeney. "As it turned out, there were a lot of strikes and a few open frames."

Randy White may be the strongest man in college football," said Cowboys scout Red Hickey. "He will bench press 450 pounds or better. He is some kind of a physical man."

"He has all the traits you look for — quickness, balance, toughness, agility, desire, smartness."

White, everybody's All-American as a defensive end at Maryland, was the second player chosen in the NFL draft. This followed Atlanta's selection of California quarterback Steve Bartkowski.

Dallas acquired the pick from the New York Giants in the Craig Morton trade last fall.

The 18th annual Mustang Relays will be held Saturday, March 8 in Andrews' football stadium bowl.

This year's delegation will feature several of the state ranked athletes in all divisions. Field events will begin at 10 a.m. Preliminary races will commence at 10 a.m., finals at 2 p.m.

Teams entered:

Division I — Hamlin, Denver City, Andrews JV, Christ the King, Seagraves, Lubbock Christian, Permian JV.

Division II — Kermit, Snyder, Lakeview, Seminole, Ft. Stockton, Lamesa, Andrews.

Division III — Big Spring, Permian, Odessa, Carlsbad, Lee, El Paso, Midland.

Big Spring produced a tournament champion as the Tors took the junior high basketball event here Saturday night, edging Austin Red, 68-62, in the Steer gym.

The local five had earned a final berth by virtue of a double overtime decision over Edison Purple, 95-93, Saturday morning.

Edison Purple collected third place, downing

Gold, 75-63.

Christian walked off with consolation honors.

All teams excluding the Tors hailed from Midland.

Friday and Saturday preliminary rounds were played at Rannels and Goliad gymnasiums.

Eight games were constructed at the local junior sites. The final round switched to Big Spring

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Veteran Rod Funseth, whose major claim to fame is that he's Johnny Miller's next-door neighbor, struggled to a three-under-par 69 and took sole control of the third-round lead in the $170,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open Golf Tournament Saturday.

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Senior Mike Floyd hit a jump shot from about the free throw line with one second remaining to give Texas A&M a 62-60 Southwest Conference basketball victory over Arkansas here Saturday night.

A&M's largest home crowd ever—10,308, including 1,700 who watched in closed circuit television across the street from the gymnasium—saw the Aggies whip Arkansas for the 12th straight time at home. Only last Saturday the Razorbacks had defeated the Aggies 95-89 in double overtime in a game played at Arkansas.

Bill Casper, who shared the 36-hole lead with Funseth, could do no better than 72 and headed a group of four at 209. Also at that figure were Leonard Thompson and Bob Wynn, each with 68s, and Australian veteran Baruce Devlin, who shot a 69.

John Lister of New Zealand, also tied for the 36-hole lead, fell back to 211 after a scrambling 74.

Odessa Track Sold

Bill Smith, an Odessa businessman, and Bill Hielscher of Fort Worth have recently purchased Odessa Raceway Park at Penwell from Odessa Dragway, Inc., original builders of the track in 1967.

"The purchase price, including improvements we are planning, is in excess of $200,000," Smith said.

"Among the improvements we plan," Hielscher said, "is to build better access roads to and from the track, build new fences, and to provide safe recreational area for children."

A new lounge area and a new concession building will be built in the near future.

Hielscher, owner of Green Valley Race City in Smithfield, is a veteran of a decade of auto racing in Texas. He will retain his ownership of Green Valley, and will manage both facilities.

Smith heads a company that manufactures gas equipment.

The new owners have changed the name from Odessa Raceway Park to Odessa International Raceway, and weekly races will be held throughout the year, with two-day events staged once a month.

The new owners plan to cater to a large degree to the local competitors. Offering classes for "whatever people show up with."

The amateurs will not be neglected in favor of the pros, Hielscher said.

The first major event of the year is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday. There will be competition in all AHRA classes, and eliminator divisions, plus world record runs, and an eight-car Funny Car eliminations.

Gil Decides To Stand Pat

DALLAS (AP) — Gil Brandt, vice president of the Dallas Cowboys, has decided to remain with the National Football League team despite offers from the Atlanta Falcons, the Dallas Morning News reported in Saturday's editions.

The News said the word came from Cowboys general manager Tex Schramm, who said, "We're obviously not decided to stay. He's an extremely important part of our organization."

Brandt was out of town and not available for comment.

Schramm would not comment on whether Brandt would take over the duties of the club's other vice president, Al Ward, who resigned to become general manager of the New York Jets. Schramm said, "For the time being I'm going to assess the various functions Al performed and disperse them to people in our organization. Right now I'm more concerned with utilizing the great amount of talent we have in our organization than in naming a successor to Al."

Steers Pull Off Vibrating Victory

By CLARK LESHER

How sweet it is. Bubba Stripling's frantic shot sailed through the net with no time left brought 200 fans to their feet here Friday night as Big Spring pulled off a thrilling 57-56 overtime win over cagey Cooper.

The Steers, who had become an easy prey for district opponents, wiped clean a 10-game losing streak and picked up their first second round win in five tries. Big Spring advances to 6-24 for the season. Cooper dips to one mark above .500, 15-14, and bears the same district mark that the Steers own.

Cooper trailing by four with only a minute left in the overtime period, shot ahead on Cory Pittman's three point play, 56-55. The scoreboard clock showed only nine seconds left.

Big Spring moved the ball inbound at a rapid-fire rate, then came Stripling's long to be remembered desperation move. Followers quickly filled the court area to congratulate the Steers.

The score was tied twice in the three minute extra period. Mark Moore and Jim Ray aided the Steer drive with a

Russell Refuses NBA Induction

SEATTLE (AP) — Bill Russell says "there is not the remotest possibility" he will change his mind and agree to induction into the National Basketball Hall of Fame.

A week ago Russell said he would decline induction into the Springfield, Mass., shrine for personal reasons which he did not wish to discuss.

The coach and general manager of the Seattle SuperSonics of the National Basketball Association said Saturday he has not talked with Lee Williams, executive director of the Hall of Fame.

Williams has attempted to discuss the issue with Russell by telephone and said he would go to Seattle to see the former Boston Celtic great.

Russell said he would refuse to meet with Williams if he the Hall's director came to Seattle.

Coahoma Blasts Stamford, 95-65

STAMFORD — Warming up for the bi-district, Coahoma directed by Jody Sory blasted Stamford, 95-65, here Friday night in a 6-AA contest.

The Bulldogs conclude regular season play on a 27-5 note and in district, 11-1. Coahoma, for all intents and purposes, had wrapped up the loop crown two weeks ago.

In a B game, Coahoma came out on top, 78-38.

Four varsity Bulldogs hit in the double figures. Keith Stone led off with 20 points followed by Don's Kelso's 16. Jody Bennett and Russell

Kennedy tossed in 10 each. S Harrel of Stamford scored 20. The bi-district contest is tentatively scheduled for Feb. 24-25, against probably Post. Sory hopes an arrangement can be made to steer the playoff site to Snyder's Scurry County Coliseum.

COAHOMA (95) — Stone, 7-20; Bennett, 4-12; Miller, 4-19; Kelso, D. 7-16; Pnhr., 4-8; Kennedy, 4-12; Jennings, 3-0-4; Tindol, C., 3-0-4; Hendricks, 1-1-3; Kelso K., 3-1-7. Totals 29-7-45.

IS ANY POSSIBLE SAVING WORTH THE RISK?

While most everything else is going up, and up, the average cost of a prescription medicine has remained relatively constant. Insurance company statisticians estimate the average person spends about $18-$20 per year on prescriptions.

Sometimes far away mail order firms promise reduced prices on prescriptions. No possible savings could be worth the personal attention a local pharmacy can give. For those few who are unable to afford medication, we cooperate at their physician's request.

Bobby Winters worked in for a hard to make floor shot, advancing the Steers, 55-53. At the end of the regulation period, the score was deadequid 49-49.

Both teams made several miscues, but Cooper's taller unit and fast break kept the Cougars on top for three periods.

Then everything seemed to fall in the right place at the right time for Big Spring. Fourth period tactics found the score tied on four separate occasions — with the lead changing hands three times. Winters pushed in two points and the Steers had made a stunning recovery, tying the game at 49-49.

Cooper employed a semi-stall in the waning minutes of the fourth quarter hoping to pull Big Spring out from underneath the basket. But the Steers refused to comply with the suggestion.

"The boys played as well as they are capable, especially the second half," said Ron Plumlee, Steer head coach. "I almost forgot how it felt to win, it feels good."

In preliminary games, Big Spring won both the junior varsity and sophomore outings, 65-48 and 58-52 respectively.

David Spence and Mike Harris shared Steer JV scoring honors with 14 each. Casey Wilder made 12 and Bill Arenciba totaled 10.

Sophomore play found Big Spring's Frankie Rubio socking in 18 points and Harold Sherman collected 17.

Big Spring concludes home play Tuesday against Odessa High. The Steers finish the season on the road Friday at San Angelo.

Women, Sports Mindful

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — At a recent Texas A&M basketball game, a male student was sitting with his date in the lettermen's section, reserved for Aggie athletes in all sports.

A surprised friend passed by and said "I didn't know you were an athlete."

"I'm not, she is," the student said, pointing to his date, a member of the Aggie women's basketball team.

Even in Aggieland—the former bastion of male chauvinism where three years ago there was no women's sports program and nine years ago there were no women—times are changing.

"Our nickname is Aggies, but we call ourselves jocks just like the men do," said Cissy Auclair, a mainstay on the women's basketball team. "We started calling ourselves that when they let us sit in the lettermen's section."

From humble beginnings, this year there are about 150 women athletes at A&M competing in 10 sports. Their budget has gone from zero to its present $40,000 in three years and women's basketball coach Kay Lon figures they've come a long way, baby.

"I've had people come up and say they want to do a story on discrimination and I just have to tell them that we don't feel discriminated against at A&M," Miss Lon said. "At some of the other schools, they have been discriminated against, but not here."

Getting women athletes to attend A&M is actually helped by the fact that the school is a former all-male institution, Miss Don said.

"I think A&M is kind of a calling card right now for women, just because it's A&M and it's kind of new for women. It's been almost 10 years (since women were first admitted) but it's still a new thing."

Miss Don, who donates her time to help run the women's program, said the program was on a club status level its first two years and this year is in a transition period over to the athletic department.

Three years ago, five Aggie women's swimmers qualified for the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women national championships.

"We qualified five young ladies but we were able to get enough money to send only one," she said.

Women still do not receive scholarships for athletics but they no longer have to buy their own uniforms as in the beginning.

"The girls bought all their uniforms and paid for their meals and lodgings," Miss Don said. "Most of the times when we traveled, we'd stay in homes and take our sleeping bags and sleep on the floor, so the girls wouldn't be out that money."

Lake Fishing Reports Down

Fishing reports from Lake E. V. Spence were a little light last weekend.

At Y.J.'s Marina, Mike Martin, Clay Rhodes, and Bobby Hodges of Midland reported boating at 27-lb. yellow cat, plus six channel cat to 2 lb.; also Ed Henry, J. L. Varley, Jan Pearcey, Harold Garmes and Bill Manis of Andrews caught 55 white bass and four striped bass to 6½ lb.

Robert De Woody, Odessa, brought a 5-lb. blue cat to Drink's Bait.

Rozelle Presents League Problems

EDITORS NOTE: The National Football League is beset by problems in the courtroom and on the playing field. From his office overlooking Park Avenue, Commissioner Pete Rozelle discussed them in a wide-ranging interview.

NEW YORK (AP) — In a year when the economy wasn't their biggest problem, a record number National Football League teams lost money.

Ticket prices rose again, stadiums were filled in many areas. And so how did some eight to 12 teams finish in the red when only one or two did the year before?

Figuring that out is one job facing Alvin Ray "Pete" Rozelle.

Rozelle, who discussed the problems in an interview, sees the lifting of the television blackout, the player strike and the World Football League's intrusion as the thieves in the 1974 NFL's treasury.

"The economy doesn't rate very high on our list of problems," said the commissioner who has three major court cases bothering him. "It seems that people will always save a little money out to give them some release, to help combat their depression over the economy."

But ticket prices are rising. Rozelle fears no-shows are becoming no-buyers, that more and more stadiums will be less than full and that the sport will lose its mystique as something one guy should buy because everybody else does.

And he feels a settlement in the player-management battle over freedom and salaries must come soon.

Each of the league's 26 teams had its television revenue increased by more than $500,000 this year, to about $2.5 million each, but that did not stem the tide of the worsening economy.

One reason was the WFL. Rozelle said estimated "the salaries as a league last year might have gone up as high as 35 to 40 per cent," mostly as a result of clubs reacting to the WFL's raids.

There were other factors, and they combined to force ticket prices higher, to an average of $7.59 each. Rozelle he would not be able to tell until the end of the fiscal year how many of

Spence, Next Tourney Site

Next month's Big Spring Bass Tournament will be a one-day event on Lake Spence, Feb. 23. Entry fee is $5. Fishing time will be from 6 a.m. to 5 p.m. Headquarters will be at Y. J.'s Marina.

Prizes are: Fō Mac Electronic thermometer; master rod with speed rings; case of motor oil; triline XL line, ¼ lb. spool (900 yards); lifetime stringer trophy. Rules will observe a three fish string, 15 inch minimum.

Top 10 club patches were distributed at the last meeting, Thursday, in the Dora Roberts Vocational Building.

Results of the January Tournament:
1. Jerry Dudley, 10-12 $63
2. Tom Henry 9-15 $26.25
3. Ken Sprinkle 9-2 $15.75
Program on "Art of Worm Fishing" was presented by Ed Henry of Andrews. Dr. Larry Key won the door prize.

the league's 26 teams lost money. But, he confirmed reports it would be more than eight, perhaps as high as 12.

Rozelle said the league's economic strength has been what he calls its somewhat socialistic structure. TV money is divided equally; visiting teams get 40 per cent of every gate.

"The reason for that is so that the game is put on a level of sportsmanship," he said. "It's not economics, but it's management brains, coaching brains and playing talent that determine the winner."

But he sees dangers ahead, and one of the most immediate is what may happen if the television blackout is not lifted. He said no-shows in 1974, the second year of the congressionally mandated end to the blackout, totaled 1,125,000. He said that was 100 per cent more no-shows than in 1972, the last year the NFL was able to enforce its blackout.

Q: What is the major effect of the lifting of the blackout?
A: Football no longer became a special thing to the public, and they found they weren't using the tickets. So when they look at the budget ... at the end of the season they say, "We didn't use these tickets six out of seven times so I don't think we need eight. We'll go down to two or four."

Rozelle said season ticket purchases had fallen off slightly and that he feared a continuation of the anti-blackout law would eventually result in too many empty seats in stadiums.

"When you become a studio show and your event is not important enough to have a body in that seat, pretty soon it's not important enough to buy the ticket," he said. "We had some shocking cases of it this year."

He also said a major impact of no-shows was on those who have the concession and parking rights at NFL stadiums.

Rozelle said the league is giving its data on no-shows to Congress in hopes the blackout law is allowed to die when it expires, at the conclusion of the 1975 season.

Asked about the future of the WFL, Rozelle said he did not think there was room in the economy for long-term existence by rival leagues.

He also ruled out any chance of a merger between the two leagues at any time.

"The whole key is whether they (WFL) have enough money and a willingness to spend it."

Stanton Ends With Victory

STANTON — The Stanton Buffs completed their 1975 District 5-A season on a victorious note Friday, hammering O'Donnell, 74-52.

The Buffs, 4-4, were third in the district behind Shallwater and Seagraves. They were 12-9 for the season. In the junior varsity game, Oscar Perez, with 10 points, led the Stanton leads to a 47-34 victory. He teamed with Marvin Jones and Russell Mims in outstanding defensive work. McMillian led O'Donnell scorers with 12 points.

Stanton hopped to an early lead against the O'Donnell

Golf Play Is Monday

A partnership golf tournament at Big Spring Country Club, announced erroneously for Saturday, will be held Monday, a holiday.

The entry fee will be $5 per person or $10 a team, and play will be over 18 holes. There will be divisions for 10 and under and 11 and over handicaps.

Tee time at the clubhouse will be 10 a.m. said C. G. Griffin, club pro. Winners will receive merchandise prizes.

Other candidates include Steve Kohanek, pole-vaulter, junior and Freddy Moran, sophomore, one-mile.

The schedule: March 1 Sweetwater; March 8 Irwin; March 14-15 West Texas Relays, Odessa; March 21 Jai, N.M.; March 29 Open; April 4-5; San Angelo; April 12 Ballinger; April 17 District at Anson; April 25 Regional at Odessa.

TRACK SCENE

Bulldogs Feature Three Lettermen

COAHOMA — Coach Jan East has three lettermen back on the Bulldog track squad, Putt Choate, Robert Tindol and Charles Tindol.

Choate and Robert are seniors and Charles, a junior.

Present there are 10 out for practice. The list should swell at the close of the basketball season.

Choate is the leading Bulldog thindlad, placing second in the 6-AAA shot-put and fifth in the regional.

BI-DISTRICT MONDAY Girls Cop Warm-Up Test

COAHOMA — Playing without the services of Debra Meyer, one of the star forwards, the Coahoma girls, 6-AAA champions, nevertheless won over Robert Lee, 56-46, Friday evening in a warm-up game for the crucial bi-district contest Monday.

They will meet Slaton at 6:30 p.m. in the Scurry County Coliseum.

Slaton, the 5-AAA champion, defeated Coahoma 32-31, in the regional tourney last year, then went on to win the statetitle.

Fans attending the bi-district game Monday also will be entitled to see the Western Texas-New Mexico Military Institute game which follows.

Patty Hulm and Becky Snell poured through 20 points each against Robert Lee, but L. Bickle for Robert Lee was high with 26.

THE BOX SCORE: COAHOMA (56) Becky Snell, 8-4-20; Patty Hulm, 9-2-20; Nancy Wood, 6-0-12; Barbara Ward 2-0-4; 25-6-56. ROBERT LEE (46) — L. Bickley 11-4-26; S. Bickley 4-2-10; Garman 5-0-10; totals 20-6-46.

93 miles per hour? We obviously don't recommend it, but it is reassuring to know that as you get onto a hectic expressway, a new Volkswagen Rabbit Hatchback has the power for incredible acceleration. From 0 to 50 in only 8.2 seconds. Quicker than a Monza 2-2-2. 38 miles per gallon? That's what the Rabbit averaged on the highway in the 1975 model Federal Environmental Protection Agency fuel economy tests. The Rabbit in the city averaged a nifty 24. Not bad for a sub-compact with all the interior room of some mid-size cars. $2,999? That's what you pay for the car backed by the most complete and advanced coverage plan in the business: The Volkswagen Owner's Security Blanket with Computer Analysis. Happy days are here again? We think you'll think so after you've driven a Rabbit.

New Conservative Party Is Shunned

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas Republican leaders made it clear Saturday they would not support a new national political party for conservatives.

"With this third party talk the time has come to make my position clear," Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., told a regular meeting of the State Republican Executive Committee at nearby Lakeway Resort. He noted that some of his Senate colleagues appeared Saturday at a meeting of the American Conservatives Union in Washington.

"All my life I have worked to build the Republican party in Texas. I have no intention of abandoning my party now," Tower said. There was long, loud applause.

"If the strong conservatives do cut away from the GOP it would, in my opinion, have two bad effects," said Rita Bass, Dallas, national committeewoman. "First it would weaken the Republican Party and second it would fragment the voice of conservatism even more."

Much of the committee's session was spent discussing ways to recuperate from the 1974 election defeats in time for 1976.

Mrs. Bass said a recent meeting on the national level in Washington was told that a survey shows only 9 per cent of young people are becoming Republicans. "This is one segment we really have to reach out and touch," she said. Another survey figure showed that "only 30 per cent of Southern whites are Democrats with many moving to independents. This is another segment we really need to work on."

Tower recommended that Texas Republicans in 1976 exert unusual effort to elect more GOP county judges and commissioners and more GOP state legislators. "I am convinced we have to work harder from the grass roots level," he said.

Tower said he thought Republicans should work harder than ever to reduce the intervention of federal government into other levels of government. "It is up to you to stimulate in any way you can by popular demand that the government get out of your everyday affairs," he said.

Tower predicted "the Democrats will nominate someone totally unacceptable to Texas and I think we will re-elect our President."

Fred Agnich, Dallas, national committeeman, presented a Positive Action Committee report, which he said was designed to broaden the state and national parties "by education, by what we stand for."

MRS. BILLIE CARR

B. Carr Entering ISD Race

Mrs. Billie Carr, who owns and operates Billie's Fabric Shop, Friday filed as a candidate for the Big Spring school board.

Mrs. Carr, an unsuccessful candidate for the school board two years ago, said she observed every school board meeting and workshop here last year.

A 1948 graduate of Texas Tech with a bachelor of science degree, Mrs. Carr has been admitted to graduate study in this field.

She has a lifetime teachers certificate in home economics and science. Also, Mrs. Carr has several music certificates and is qualified to teach music.

She was an honor student at Big Spring High School.

Mrs. Carr and her son, Brad, 17, reside at 1000 E. 16th St. She has one son, Ben, with the Navy and stationed in Athens, Greece, and a married daughter, Barbara Carlos.

All candidates for the school board run at-large. Dan Wilkins and Jim Bill Little face expiring terms as trustees.

Lottery Ticket Sellers May Get Tax Exemptions

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new effort is under way to help sellers of state lottery tickets who may be in violation of a federal law treating them the same as casino operators.

Hanging over the heads of the newsstand dealers, drug store operators and other sellers of lottery tickets in most states is a federal requirement that they buy a $500 gambling tax stamp.

As far as is known by some congressmen from lottery states, no ticket salesman has as yet bought the gambling stamp, but neither has the Internal Revenue Service attempted to enforce the requirement that the stamp be purchased.

They said that to force purchase of the stamps could devastate state lotteries because selling tickets no longer would be profitable.

The IRS has told lottery states, however, that unless the law is changed, someday the agency might be compelled to enforce its provisions. With this warning in mind, an attempt was made last year to exempt lottery vendors from the tax stamp provision.

It failed, when it was made a part of the 1974 tax revision bill that Congress did not enact.

This session a new bill has been introduced in the House by Illinois Democrat Rep. Dan Rostenkowski. Under its provisions lottery ticket-sellers would be exempt from having to buy the gambling stamps. A companion Senate bill has not yet been filed.

Currently, lottery salesmen in New York and New Hampshire are exempt from the gambling tax stamp provisions of the Internal Revenue Code because winners in those states are chosen on the basis of the outcomes of horse races. A change in the law after New Hampshire became the first state to run a lottery provided this relief.

But when other states came along and began choosing winners by drawing numbers, the new exemption was not broad enough to protect their salesmen.

As it stands now, salesmen in the states of New Jersey, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Illinois and Michigan are in violation of federal statute and would be subject to arrest if IRS chooses to enforce the law strictly.

But the tax agency has served notice to Congress that it doesn't want to arrest the vendors for not buying the gambling tax stamps, but wants them to be in compliance with federal law. That would be accomplished, said an IRS official, by changing the law to provide for the exemption.

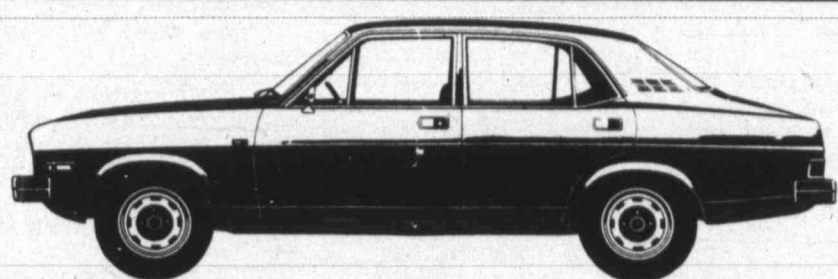

Herald Employee Suffers Hurts

Tony Reidy, mail room foreman for The Herald, was hospitalized here Friday evening when a fork lift fell on him while he was preparing to unload comics from a truck.

Reidy suffered a broken rib, a broken arm and a bruised back when the vehicle tipped over.

Again Mercedes-Benz quietly astonishes the engineering world. Announcing the new Mercedes-Benz 300D. The world's only 5-cylinder automobile.

Mercedes-Benz astonished the engineering world when we invented the automobile in 1886. And when we introduced the first production Diesel car in 1936. Now, with a 5-cylinder automobile — the new 300D — we've done it again.

The performance and engineering sophistication of the new 300D make it the most advanced Diesel car in the world. A car whose time has come. Five cylinders mean more power without unnecessary weight. Torque is up nearly 20% and horsepower is a full 25% higher than in any previous Mercedes-Benz Diesel.

24-31 miles per gallon

In every major appointment, the new 300D is equal to the Mercedes-Benz 280 Sedan. And the Federal EPA reports that it can get up to 24 mpg in town, up to 31 mpg on the road.

Until the 300D, nobody had ever even heard of a 5-cylinder Diesel car. But now you can drive one. It's waiting for you at our Dealership right now. Call today for a test drive.

Engineered like no other car in the world.

ARE SATAN WORSHIPPERS AT WORK?

Cattle Mutilations Move Closer To Area

By MARJ CARPENTER

Some people call it ritualistic killings by Satan worshippers. Some call it investigations by some kind of life off UFOs. Some still try to claim it is mutilation by scavenger birds and animals.

But call it whatever you want to, the number of cattle mutilations in Texas now number 23 and has moved closer to this area when a mutilated eight-month old bull calf was discovered on Heston Redwine's place near the Spade Community in Mitchell County last weekend.

Redwine reported the incident to Sheriff Bill McGuire Monday after he made the discovery on the weekend. The jaw of the 400-pound animal was cut away and the tongue removed, according to Deputy Jim Reynaud.

The animal had been dead three or four days when it was found in the pasture. The carcass had not been disturbed by vultures or varmints, which is in itself, strange.

Earlier, 14 head of cattle had been reported mutilated in five West and north Central Texas Counties.

NINE MORE CASES
During the past week, nine more cattle mutilation killings were found near Palestine, Coleman, Tyler, Lufkin and Nacogdoches.

In most cases, the sex organs, whether male or female, have been removed cleanly, as if taken by knife.

In many other cases, the tongues, ears, eyes and other organs have been apparently cut away.

In one case found Feb. 7, Etoile rancher Hoyt Cook found his 350-pound calf dead and its tongue removed. Cook quoted veterinarian Dr. C. C. Young as saying the calf apparently died of an overdose of tranquilizing drugs.

During the past week, new mutilation killing cases included a 750 pound bull in Palestine found last Sunday with its sex organs, ears and tongue missing. Its blood had been drained out, though none was on the ground around it.

BLOOD DRAINED
Another occurred in Tyler where a large cow was found Monday on the Ashby ranch with sex organs missing and blood drained. A bull was found similarly mutilated Tuesday. At Trinity, a pregnant cow was found Thursday with the tongue removed and the carcass drained of blood.

At Motalba, a cow and calf were found dead Thursday although Sheriff Herrington attributed their deaths to malnutrition and at Coleman, two calves were found Friday with eyes, nose and sex organs missing and the blood gone.

Ranchers are angry and lawmen confused at the continued killings. They are not limited to Texas but include findings in Wisconsin, Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota, Colorado, North Dakota and South Dakota with mutilations of cats and dogs reported in West Virginia and Missouri.

A radio newsmen in Brownwood said he believes some of the killings may, in fact, be ritual killings by members of an occult group.

CHURCH OF SATAN
He said that sources have told him of three or four occult groups near Brownwood, possible congregations of the Church of Satan. There was reported to be such a group in Andrews last year, but they left after creating a stir there and denials by news media that it was a Church of Satan. Early reports there claimed they were killing goats.

The Brownwood radio announcer has apparently been proven wrong on one count. He said his sources told him the killings would continue during the Equinox of Panda from Christmas until Feb. 2 at which time, there would be a sacrifice of a higher order of life.

Apparently a new seige of killings has followed Feb. 2, so perhaps they have reached another equinox.

OUTER SPACE
Another spokesman, Terrance Mitchell, under contract with the University of Minnesota to lecture on UFOs, believes the taking of ears, udders and other parts of the carcasses are part of a scientific investigation being done by unidentified flying objects.

Teaff Day Set

Baylor University partisans and others will have an opportunity to visit Friday with Grant Teaff, coach of the 1974 Southwest Champion Baylor Football team, when he comes "home" to Snyder.

He is to be honored at the annual Snyder Chamber of Commerce banquet 7 p.m. in the Scurry County Coliseum. George Nigh, lieutenant governor of Oklahoma, also will be on the program.

Teaff, however, will be at a reception from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. in the Baptist Student Union Building (or the Museum next to it if its furnishings have not arrived) on the Western Texas College campus to visit. He grew up in Snyder and played football there, going on to McMurry for his college ball.

During his career, he was an assistant coach at Texas Tech and head coach at Angelo State University before his spectacular record at Baylor. Judge Wayland Holt, Snyder, invited all area exes and others to the reception for Teaff. Tickets for the banquet (7.50) are still available at the Snyder Chamber office.

BAD NEWS FOR 'RUNNERS' Big D Food Stamp Ring Flattened

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas racket involving government food stamps has been broken up by the State Welfare Department, the Dallas Morning News said in Friday's editions.

The investigation by the state agency involved a Dallas resident described as the mastermind of the scheme, 31 other persons described as "runners" and a small grocery store accused of purchasing stamps at a discount.

The newspaper said that the racket involved $12,491 worth of food stamps. One law-enforcement official said, "We're fortunate. We got wind of the scheme and nipped it in its early stages. Otherwise, there is no telling how much the government would have lost."

Sources said the "mastermind" of the scheme would provide the "runners" with applications giving false information that would make them eligible for food stamps.

After the applications were approved, the runners would obtain the stamps and turn them over to the mastermind, who paid them for their services. He in turn would sell the stamps at a discount to the owner of the grocery store.

The store owner would make a profit under this arrangement since the government would redeem the stamps at their full value.

Women Do Man-Sized Job

By JO BRIGHT

How — or when — the Equal Rights Amendment is resolved will be left up to the people; eventually, to be determined by the democratic process.

Meanwhile, the controversy surrounding the issue has attracted the attention of women from every social and economic level. Women, who, heretofore, have shown little interest in accepting the governmental responsibilities of citizenship are suddenly becoming aware that there is political power in the velvet glove. The thinking woman is becoming informed on legislation which affects her life.

In Texas, an amendment forbidding discrimination on the basis of sex was approved for the state constitution in the 1973 general election. Thursday, women from all across Texas gathered in Austin to honor Susan B. Anthony who fought for women's rights for 50 years in the 19th century. During the event, the women said they want to see that federal regulations banning job discrimination are enforced.

In Big Spring, as elsewhere, women stand on both sides of the fence, but one thing is obvious — jobs which previously were marked "men only" are opening to women. And being accepted.

At Berkley Homes Inc., where approximately 20 women are employed, the construction workers include Mrs. Rhonda Norwood, a wife and mother, and Miss Cindy Brown, 20, who is from Vincent.

Cosden Oil and Chemical Company's purchasing agent is Mrs. Sue Broughton, whose position was previously held by a man, and recently hired was Mrs. Mitzi Krebs, who is the first woman to be a dispatcher in the company's field office.

Ms. Sandra Williams, a 20-year-old who likes outdoor work, has been a meter reader for Texas Electric Service Company for over seven months and, with the same company is Ms. Pam Wheeler, 19, an engineering assistant in the trainee program which takes her to college every other semester.

The City of Big Spring can now boast of a woman director of personnel, Ms. Ruth Harper; a woman purchasing agent, Ms. Mary Alaniz; and a woman traffic engineer, Mrs. Susan Thomas.

Miss Teresa Sheppard, whose pleasant voice and style became familiar to listeners of Radio Station KBST, paved the way for other women announcers and, now, Ms. Linda Beckham is following in her footsteps.

That's only the beginning — but it is a beginning.

MRS. JAMES DEWAINE CHADWELL

Nuptials Held Friday Night

Miss Betty Ruth Henkel and James Dewaine Chadwell were united in marriage Friday evening in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Henkel, 2706 Coronado.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Chadwell, Forsan.

The Rev. Carroll Kohl, pastor of St. Paul Lutheran Church, officiated for the ceremony before an improvised altar adorned with an arrangement of yellow spider mums, white carnations and gypsophila.

The bride wore a formal gown of white organza over satin, styled with yoke and neckline edged with ruffling which was repeated on the cuffs of the long, puffed sleeves. The full, floor-length skirt was appliqued with lace motifs, and the hemline was edged with lace.

The bride's bouquet was of yellow roses and carnations. Mrs. Dickie Hull, matron of honor, wore a floor-length yellow and white dress. Her flowers were yellow carnations and white daisy mums.

The bridegroom's attendant was Ronald Allen.

The couple will be at home at 1802 Nolan after a wedding trip to Lubbock.

The bride is a Big Spring

High School graduate and attended Howard College and Angelo State University. She is employed at Super-Save Grocery.

The bridegroom graduated from Forsan High School and is now employed by Forsan Oil Well Service.

At the reception, refreshments were served from a table laid with a white cloth overlaid with lace. A centerpiece was fashioned of white and yellow daisies and daffodils. Sisters of the bride couple, Mrs. Steve Mundell and Miss Regina Chadwell served.

Relatives attending included Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kelly, Lamesa, grandparents of the bride; and Miss Helen Henkel, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Stone and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Tipton, all of Lubbock.

Late President Is Lauded In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Recalling her husband's words that when he was a boy growing up in Texas, "there was so much poverty we didn't know it had a name," Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson accepted a Chicago Model Cities award honoring the late President for his leadership and courage in fighting the war on poverty.

The award was presented by the Chicago Committee on Urban Opportunity at its 10th anniversary dinner Wednesday night.

The CCUO is an outgrowth of one of Johnson's War on Poverty programs.

"Anyone who has worked in the area of a poverty program knows that you simply do not win all the battles," Mrs. Johnson said. "You aren't dealing with neat and tidy people that fit ordinary computers. You are dealing with human needs, with people whose lives can be shaped or misshaped by their government's compassion or lack of compassion."

During her address, Mrs. Johnson said that in recent years many of her husband's war on poverty programs have been cut back. However, she said, the war itself will not be stopped.

Earlier in the day, more than 600 persons, including Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, paid tribute to the former first lady during a luncheon at a downtown hotel.

At the luncheon, Daley predicted that Johnson's contributions in the areas of housing, education and health care will some day distinguish the late President as one of the nation's outstanding chief executives.

Wedding Ceremony Performed On Friday

Miss Jannette Hodges became the bride of Frederick Thomas James in a ceremony held at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the Baptist Temple.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Hodges, 1006 E. 12th, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. A. C. James, Sterling City Rt.

The Rev. J. F. Meeks officiated for the rites before an altar centered with a heart-shaped arch covered with greenery and topped with white doves and wedding bells. A sunburst arrangement of white gladioli and red carnations was flanked by branched candelabra.

Nuptial selections were played by the organist, Mrs. J. E. Meeks.

The bride's formal gown was of satin-backed crepe styled with empire waistline, rolled collar and sleeves enhanced with lace appliques and simulated pearls. Her floor-length mantilla of Spanish lace was attached to a Juliet headpiece of Spanish lace and pearls.

The bridal bouquet was fashioned into a cascade of white gladioli and gypsophila centered with red roses and satin hearts.

Miss Nita Hodges served her sister as maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Sara Zant and Miss Zina Johnston. They wore floor-length dresses of red satin with lace trim at the collar and on the sleeves. They carried nosegays of red camellias and white satin hearts tied with red and white streamers.

Steve Hodges, brother of the bride, was best man. Groomsmen were Gary Burgess and David Wood. Lee Fleeming, Sterling City; Ricky Barnard, Big Lake; John Beiderman and Herman Hodges were ushers.

Pamela Slaughter was the flower girl, and Sammy Ben Johnston was the ring bearer. Miss Terissa Rene Mainord and Miss Sheri Lynn Calihan were candle lighters.

Upon their return from a wedding trip to New Mexico, the couple will reside in the Silver Heels Addition of Big Spring.

The bride graduated from Big Spring High School and attended Valtai Reeves School of Hairdressing and Cosmetology.

The bridegroom is a Forsan High School graduate and attended Howard College. He is employed at Gamco, Inc.

The couple was honored with a reception in the fellowship hall of the church.

The bride's table was covered with a sheer white cloth, and at one end were white satin bells with red streamers inscribed with the names of the couple. Silver and crystal appointments were used.

The bridegroom's table was centered with a red candle on a horseshoe stand. Serving were Miss Kay Caroland, Lubbock; Miss Rity Sherrill and Miss Kathy Mays.

Relatives attending from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Dorris Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper White, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Trammill, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl J. White, all of Lamesa; Mr. and Mrs. Mike Caroland, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Buchanan all of Lubbock; Mrs. Art Kennev, Olney, Ill.; Mrs. Lilly Kennard, Frankston; and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hicks, Artesia, N.M.

Mother Watches Nurse Take Their Dad Away

DEAR ABBY: Our whole family is in a turmoil because, after 52 years of marriage, our father has left our mother. They used to have their fights over the years but we never thought it would come to this.

Dad left Mother to go and live with a 53-year-old nurse he met three years ago when he was in the hospital. (Dad has been in a wheelchair for three years.) The nurse came right into the house, packed Dad up and moved him out, and they drove off together.

Now that this has come out, everybody is saying they knew about Dad and this nurse all along. Dad is 74 and Mother is 73. Mother is so humiliated, she hasn't been out of the house since Dad left.

What do you think of this mess? How can we get Dad to come to his senses and go back to Mother? It's the talk of the town.

DISGRACED
DEAR DISGRACED: Stay out of it. And you needn't feel "disgraced." A person can disgrace only himself.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 35-year-old widow, not unattractive. A middle-aged physician (divorced) invited me to dinner at his home.

When I arrived, he fixed a cocktail, then the phone rang. I could tell by his conversation it was a woman. And she wasn't a patient. I sat quietly sipping my drink while he talked for 30 minutes! When he finally returned, he resumed the conversation with me, making no apologies for leaving me alone for so long.

About ten minutes later a car drove up in front of his house and stopped. He said: "Let me see who that is." Then he went outside.

When he didn't return in 20 minutes, I took my wrap and purse and went outside to tell my host I was leaving. He was standing by the car, talking to a lady who apparently had come to see him.

I said: "Good night, I am going home." The lady immediately drove off. My host insisted that I go back into the house. I did, but only because I wanted to tell him off for his rudeness to me. Before I had a chance to say anything, he told ME off for having "embarrassed" him by coming outside.

Was I wrong? How would you have handled it?

MISTREATED
You were not wrong. I would have handled it much the same as you. Only I'd have said my goodbyes immediately after my host returned from his 30-minute telephone conversation.

DEAR ABBY: I never miss your column. It's a kick to read about some of those fools who write you come up with. I'm amazed at the number of women who write to say they're afraid of losing their husbands to another woman.

That's the last thing I'm worried about. I say: "The woman who steals my husband steals my troubles."

NOT WORRIED
DEAR NOT: If that's the way you feel about your husband, why don't you just turn him loose, so there will be one less potential thief in the world?

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I live next door to my son and his wife. They have only one child, a lovely 17-year-old daughter. She goes with a very nice 18-year-old neighbor boy.

My son and his wife went skiing over the weekend and left their daughter home alone — unchaperoned. She's a good girl, but I think it looked bad. (I wasn't even asked to look in on her.)

We live in the kind of community where everybody knows everything that goes on, so I told my daughter-in-law that leaving her young daughter like that might cause the girl to be talked about, even though her behavior was the best.

She told me to mind my own business!

Was I wrong to say what I did, Abby? I was only warning her that gossip could start. So far I haven't heard anything, but I am 63 years old and I've seen innocent girls fall victim to vicious gossip. Was I wrong?

CONCERNED GRANNY
DEAR CONCERNED: You meant well, but obviously your "concern" was not appreciated. Don't offer any more unsolicited advice, Granny.

ENGAGED — The Rev. and Mrs. Jack Clinkscales, Box 244, Forsan, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Brenda Margaret, to Raymond Edward Walker, Las Cruces, N.M., son of Mrs. Cletus Walker, Las Cruces, N.M., and Edward Walker, Salem, Utah. The wedding is scheduled March 22 in the Forsan Baptist Church.

Can an Early American bedroom be elegant?

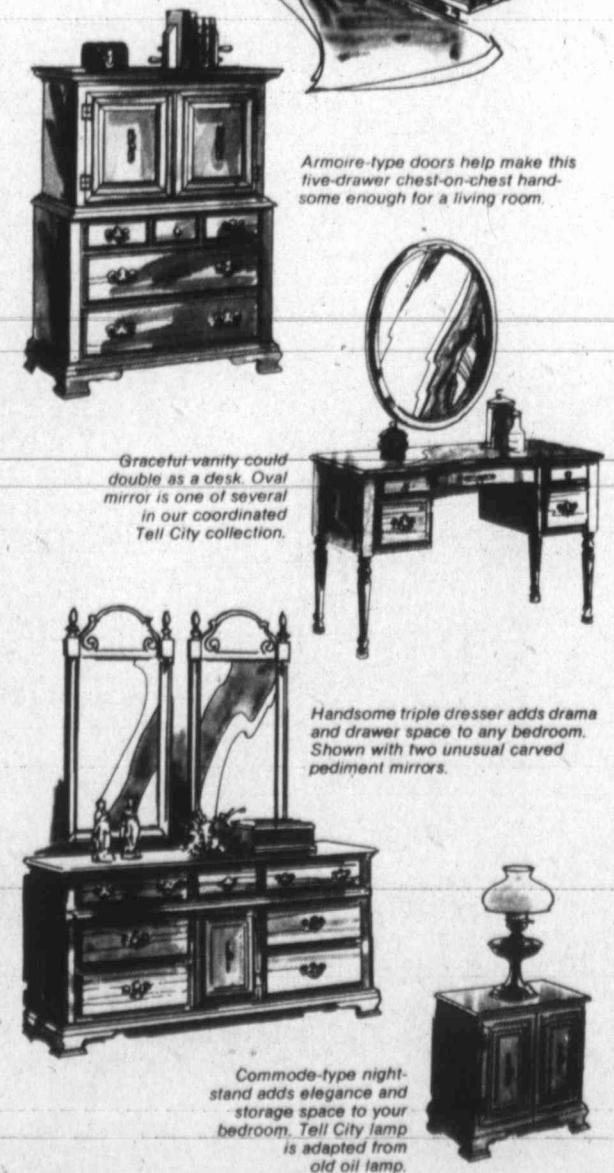

Our new Tell City styles say "yes"

Warm. Friendly. Charming. Good with children. Easy to decorate. These are the most common reasons why Early American is our most popular furniture style. Our new Tell City styles are all these — and more. The wood is genuine solid hard rock maple. The look is handsome, massive. Simplicity made graceful with deep mouldings, sculptured brasses, other fine details. We call it the elegant Early American. Come in and see. You'll call it just right for you.

'Quotable Women

By The Associated Press
Here are some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"To me it is like a dream that the next name on the list after Sir Winston Churchill, Harold MacMillan, Sir Alec Douglas-Home and Edward Heath is Margaret Thatcher. Each has brought his own style of leadership and stamp of greatness to his task. I shall take on the work with humility and dedication." Margaret Thatcher, named to lead the Conservative party in Britain's Parliament.

"I am very pleased about it. It is a very interesting example of how men frequently underestimate women's abilities. Whatever one's views of Mrs. Thatcher are, she is a very capable woman." Gwyneth Dunwoody, a Laborite member of the House of Commons, commenting on the election of Margaret Thatcher to lead Conservatives.

"The next time I come I will take good care they don't get the other leg," DeJean Repligle, 17, a Jacksonville, Fla., high school girl who lost her right leg after being injured in an Arab terrorist attack while she visited Israel. She was visited in a Jerusalem hospital by Nancy Kissinger.

"The kids don't know who I am. I'm paying full tuition and I'm not getting any special treatment. I'm not an employee of the state. I really feel strongly about my privacy." Jean Lucey, wife of Wisconsin's governor, asking that publicity about her return to college be limited.

"A lot of nurses went into it to nurse patients. Then they became managers. They had to. They graduated from nursing patients to a desk — ordering supplies, seeing that meal trays were delivered. Here in Rochester we're really nursing patients. We're bringing in other people to do non-nursing functions." Dean Loretta Ford of the University of Rochester, N.Y., school of nursing.

Ford Naming Women To Responsible Posts

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's selection of a woman for his Cabinet and Betty Ford's lobbying for the Equal Rights Amendment have won applause from leaders of the women's movement.

However, many of these leaders combined their praise with concern about a wide range of other issues, including the administration's reaction to problems facing women because of the recession.

Frances Farenthold, chairwoman of the National Women's Political Caucus, said Ford's nomination of Asst. Atty. Gen. Carla A. Hills to be secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development "shows he understands the importance of including women in decision-making positions."

in his administration."

Similar expressions of approval came from Ruth Clusen, president of the League of Women Voters, and Karen DeCrow, head of the National Organization for Women.

Other leaders of women's groups noted that Ford named Betty Southard Murphy to be the first woman member of the National Labor Relations Board. Mrs. Murphy also was named NLRB chairman.

The women's rights leaders had reservations about endorsing all aspects of the Ford administration.

Mrs. Farenthold said the Hills-Murphy appointments represented "the gate-crashers, the ones at the top — but that's not where most women are today."

Forsan Couple Ends Travels

FORSAN (SC) — Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Anderson have returned from a vacation which took them to Lake LBJ to visit their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hayhurst, and family. Mrs. Hayhurst accompanied her parents on the remainder of the trip. They visited the Jerry Pyles in Weslaco and the Earl Clements' in Rio Hondo.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Camp were the Bill Davis' of Odessa.

The Dorcas Class, Forsan Baptist Church, held a luncheon Tuesday in the Spanish Inn, Big Spring, where the table was decorated in a valentine theme. Mrs. Joe Evans presented the devotional, and the lesson was led by Mrs. Pat Barron. Prayers were by Mrs. J. W. Overton and Mrs. J. H. Cardwell. Mrs. J. D. Gilmore was a luncheon guest of the class. The next meeting will be at 2 p.m., March 11 in the Carwell home.

A LOVELIER YOU Refreshing Rest Is Best Relaxer

By MARY SUE MILLER

Are you tired? Worn out? Longing to rest over the weekend? Well, do it!

Most of us do have a post-holiday letdown. Feeling fat and logy is a universal malaise. Short of a winter vacation, how can we "get with it" again? It really depends on specific symptoms.

For a healthy person, extra sleep is the answer to physical fatigue. A nine hour snooze for several nights in a row could do it, along with some slow-paced days.

The legdown feeling vanishes when you turn your attention to a refreshing interest. It could be anything from those books you meant to read to that table you meant to refinish. Just plotting a new course brings a new outlook. If you're in a sluggish state — logy to the point where you don't want to move or think — you need stimulation. The simplest way to get it is to take a brisk half hour walk every day for a week. Any form of exercise, however, makes a good cobweb chaser.

That brings us to the fat problem. And you already know the solution, for it has already been previewed in this column. How much dieting you have to do is cued by your scale. Having gained only a few pounds, you can take them off in ten days by forgoing starchy vegetables and sweets, and by limiting your intake of bread and oils. Taking off more than a few pounds requires a more conventional approach — a carefully balanced diet and a well-planned exercise program. The longer you wait, the harder your task. Excess pounds spiral upward. Watch the column. New programs are on the way.

YOUR BEAUTY DIET
Learn now to diet, like it and lose for keeps. Send for my booklet YOUR BEAUTY DIET. It includes — for a new and happier way of life — menus tested to insure approved calorie and nutrient values; how to plan your own menus for figure, beauty and appetite control. Miss Kim Kuykendall Weds Monty Dodson

Miss Lisa Kim Kuykendall and Monty Gene Dodson were united in marriage at a ceremony Saturday evening in the sanctuary of Berea Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kuykendall, San Angelo Highway. Parents of the bridegroom are Gene Dodson, and Mrs. Frank Muse, Lawton, Okla.

The Rev. Frank Martin, pastor, officiated before an arch covered in greenery and yellow and white carnations and flanked by spiral candelabra. The altar was centered with a sunburst arrangement of yellow daisies and white gladioli.

Mrs. Vaughn Martin, organist, accompanied Mrs. David Harrington, Odessa, vocalist.

The bride's gown was of white peau de soie overlaid with silk organza with Victorian neckline of Chantilly lace. The full gathered sleeves were accented by deep lace cuffs with tiny covered buttons. The skirt, with sculptured front panel of matching lace sequined and beaded with pearls, extended into a chapel train. A Juliet cap of beaded lace held her fingertip-length veil of illusion.

Her bouquet was a cascade of white gladioli centered with yellow roses and lily-of-the-valley tied with satin streamers.

Mrs. Terry Forrest, was matron of honor, and Miss Valerie Stevens, Forsan, was bridesmaid.

Their dresses were floor-length of lace styled in an empire line with lowered neckline, puffed sleeves and full skirt with deeply flounced hemline. Mrs. Forrest wore lime green, and Miss Stevens wore yellow. They carried miniature white lanterns that held yellow and lime green camellias tied with matching ribbons. Their white garden hats were trimmed with matching ribbons.

Pete Lee, Midland, was best man, and Bill Tom Kuykendall, brother of the bride, was groomsmen. Rudy Holquin, Forsan, and Clayton McKinnon were ushers.

Kerry Kirby was the flower girl, and Monty Wayne Guthrie, Lawton, Okla., was the ring bearer.

After a wedding trip to Oklahoma City, Okla., the couple will return to Big Spring to reside.

The bride is a graduate of Forsan High School and Commercial College of Midland. She is employed as a secretary at Big Spring Nursing Inn.

The bridegroom graduated from Lawton High School and served two years in the U.S. Navy. He is co-owner of M & T Trucking Co., Big Spring.

At the reception in the church parlor, the bride's

MRS. MONTY GENE DODSON

table was covered with yellow organza and centered with a brass candelabrum entwined with yellow and white carnations and greenery. Crystal and silver appointments were used. The bridegroom's table was laid with green cloth and a horseshoe candelabrum decorated with yellow and white carnations. Brass appointments were used.

Serving were Mrs. Jo Nell Hughes, Mrs. Tony Lopez, Mrs. Don Stevens, Mrs. Burr Lee Settles, and Mrs. Mack Guthrie, sister of the bridegroom, Lawton, Okla.

Mrs. Richard Laick registered guests.

Alcoholism

Undesirable home environments characterized by neglect, abuse or continual parental arguments have contributed to the 450,000 alcoholic children in the U.S., according to Mrs. Ilene Miller, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

City HD Club Has Guests At Luncheon

Former members of the City Home Demonstration Club were guests of the club at a valentine luncheon at Kentwood Center Friday.

Hostesses for the affair were Mrs. M. F. Hodnett and Mrs. W. N. Norred.

At the hospitality hour prior to the meal, Mrs. Frances Zant, Mrs. Waymon Etchison and Mrs. Ervin Daniel pinned red net valentine name tags on guests as they registered at a table centered with an arrangement of red carnations.

The serving table was covered with a heart decorated cloth and centered with a white net valentine and rosebuds. The luncheon table was decorated with red runners and valentines.

There are 27 past members of the club who still make their home in Big Spring. The club was chartered in May, 1947, in the home of the late Mrs. Felton Johnson and Mrs. L. B. Andrews as the first president. Mrs. Bob Wren is the only charter member who still resides here.

Mrs. M. B. Bettis, a guest, who has recently moved to Big Spring from Jal, N.M., received a hostess gift, as did Mrs. Marvin Sewell. Miss Sherry Mullin, extension agent, also attended.

The meeting Feb. 28 will be at 2 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Bill Conger.

Local Couple Has Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Terry McAdams, 609 McEwen, announce the birth of a daughter, Mickie Shawn, at 5:45 p.m., Feb. 10 at Medical Center Memorial Hospital, weighing 6 pounds, 10 ounces. The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Weir, 2712 Rebecca, and the paternal grandparents are Mrs. Betty McAdams, 1104 Mt. Vernon, and Donald McAdams, Durango, Colo. Paternal great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Garner McAdams, 1313 Dixie, and Mr. and Mrs. A.P. Oglesby, Forsan, ABC.

Doctor develops Home Treatment to

Rinse Away BLACKHEADS

in 15 minutes

Look! See them come off on your cleansing tissue—and without squeezing or digging!

See Blackheads "Wipe Off"

After a Single Queen Helene
Skin and Beauty Treatment
INA LEE, Beauty Consultant

A leading New York dermatologist has developed a simple medicated home treatment that rinses away blackheads and whiteheads in a matter of minutes. I saw it demonstrated recently on five women and two teenage boys. The results were almost breathtaking. Blackheads really rinsed away. In fact, many could be seen on the cleansing tissues that finished each treatment.

But this wasn't all! In the case of two older women, I saw enlarged pores reduced, and rough, muddy complexion made cleaner, clearer and smoother looking. In the case of teen-agers, I saw acne pimples improve after one application... After seeing these results, I can well understand why so many beauticians are now acclaiming this doctor's treatment as one of the most important beauty discoveries.

Floats Dirt off Face
The treatment starts with a thorough skin cleansing. A special laboratory-developed whipped cleansing cream is used that takes off not only surface dirt, but also softens and loosens pore-caked grime with its emollient action. It liquefies as soon as it is applied and literally floats the dirt right off your face.

After this is rinsed off, a delightful mint-scented cream is applied. Within 2 or 3 minutes an absorbing agent called Argilla dries and turns this specially medicated cream into a plastic-like masque. As it firms and hardens, its suction action draws on waste matter in the pores... In 8 or 10 minutes you simply rinse the masque away with lukewarm water which dissolves it immediately. When you wipe your face, you can see blackheads and other pore "filler" actually come off on your tissue. And your skin feels clean—really clean—and refreshed and smooth, like velvet!

Pore Sponging & Closing
The third step in the treatment is an exhilarating application of a unique antiseptic astringent—a facial "mint julep"—that sponges and tightens emptied pores and leaves a protective invisible film that helps guard your skin against dust, dirt and bacteria for hours and hours.

Nothing Else Like It
Even after a single treatment, women who have been troubled by blackheads for years see a marked improvement. Many find it hard to believe their eyes. Some blackheads and whiteheads just rinse away. Others are softened and made ready to be drawn out by future treatments. Enlarged pores appear to be smaller. The skin looks smoother and firmer—feels fresher and more alive!

In short, after a single treatment taking only 15 minutes, you can expect to see results that normally you would not dare hope for even after many weeks... but don't expect everything at once. Damage done by years of neglect can't be undone in a day. Yet with 3 or 4 treatments a week, you may confidently look forward to startling complexion improvements within 30 days. Then one treatment a week—or every second week—will probably be all your skin will need to keep it clear, lovely and healthy looking.

The medically developed products used in this treatment are manufactured and quality-controlled by QUEEN HELENE. They are Queen Helene Whipped Cleansing Cream, Queen Helene Medicated Masque and Queen Helene Penetrating Astringent. The three items are sold as complete skin and beauty kit for $5.00. Quite a bargain when you think of what it will do for a person's good looks—and self esteem!

Top Tallies In Bridge

Five tables were in play for the regular duplicate bridge game held Friday afternoon at Big Spring Country Club. Winners were Mrs. J. A. St. John and Mrs. Lowell Jones, first; Mrs. Ollie Anderson and Mrs. L. B. Edwards, second; and Mrs. Manley Cook and Mrs. Jerry Harding, third.

It was announced that Championship Day for the La Gallinas group will be held Friday, beginning at 10 a.m.

The couples' duplicate game is continuing Tuesday evenings, with a starting time at 7:30 o'clock. Last week's winners were Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Fish, first; and Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor, second.

Save Heat

Using one day a week for baking helps conserve energy. Get organized and keep the oven in use constantly once it is heated, suggests Mrs. Doris Myers, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

DATE SET — Mrs. Ernestine Rennaux, 2412 Alabama, announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Janet, to Gary Ross Stuteville, 900 E. 4th. The couple will marry April 19 in the Grace Baptist Church.

Fewer Trips

Fewer trips to the grocery store will result in a lower food bill. Plan the shopping list carefully so that a once-a-week trip to the grocery store is all that's necessary, suggests Sally Springer, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Vows Are Exchanged In Home Ceremony

Miss Karen Janise Daniels became the bride of Jessie Dawayne Henry at 7 p.m., Friday in a ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Bolton, 4006 Parkway.

Officiating was Bob Kiser, minister of the Anderson Street Church of Christ.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Murphy L. Daniels, Rt. 1, Big Spring. Mrs. Violet Roberts, 1806 Nolan, is the mother of the bridegroom.

The bride was attired in a gown of white peau de soie with the bodice overlaid with lace-trimmed, ruffled organza. The long sheer sleeves were gathered to deep lace-trimmed cuffs. The A-line skirt was overlaid with organza and featured a lace-trimmed, flowing ruffle at the hemline. Her bouffant veil fell from a caplet trimmed in lace and pearls.

Mrs. Chuck Reeves, Heavener, Okla., was the matron of honor. She wore a polyester knit suit in multicolor floral print.

Jimmy Bolton was the bridegroom's attendant.

The bride, a graduate of Coahoma High School, is attending Howard College in the Licensed Vocational Nurse Program. She is employed by Medical Center Memorial Hospital.

The bridegroom attended Big Spring High School and is employed by Yale E. Key Oil Co., Big Spring. The couple will be at home at 405 Donley.

Mr. and Mrs. Bolton were hosts for a reception following the ceremony. The refreshment table was covered with a white lace cloth, and the red rosebud-decorated cake served as a centerpiece.

Miss Barbara Weatherford

MRS. JESSIE DAWAYNE HENRY

served. Relatives attending from out of town included Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Reeves, Heavener, Okla.; and Miss Ina Hamlin, Owassa, Okla.

CRC Says No Money For Discriminating Programs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Rights Commission Thursday said federal revenue-sharing grants should be cut off from state and local governments which use the money for programs that discriminate by race or sex.

"Abundant evidence indicates that discrimination in the employment practices and delivery of benefits of state and local governments is far reaching, often extending to programs funded by general revenue sharing," the commission said in a two-volume report on civil rights and revenue sharing.

The report, issued as part of the commission's continuing evaluation of federal civil rights programs, challenges the whole program of turning over bloc grants of federal funds to state and local governments. The program was the keystone of President Richard N. Nixon's "New Federalism."

"... revenue sharing is viewed by many civil rights advocates as symptomatic of a declining federal commitment to the principles of equal opportunity," the report said.

The commission also said that federal revenue sharing money, which may not be used for discriminatory programs by law, is used to free local funds for other programs where discrimination is practiced.

The report says the Office of Revenue Sharing ORS has not assembled an adequate compliance staff "to conduct even a minimally effective civil rights enforcement program."

Princess To Wed Cuban

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP)—Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard today announced the engagement of their youngest daughter, Princess Christina, to Jorge Guillermo, a native of Cuba who runs a day-care center in New York City's Harlem.

The princess is 27 and her fiancé is 29.

Princess Christina and Guillermo flew from New York to Holland Thursday with her father, who returned from a three-week visit to Latin America and the United States.

The young couple will remain in The Netherlands until Feb. 18, the princess' 28th birthday.

No date was announced for the wedding.

Guillermo was born in Havana in 1946. His parents brought him to the United States after Fidel Castro's revolution, and he studied art and received a college degree in 1968.

Milk Use Dips

The amount of milk in all forms that U.S. consumers used last year was down 14 pounds from 1973, according to Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. This drop from 556 pounds in 1973 to 542 pounds in 1974 is the sharpest drop in milk use since 1967. The per person use of low fat fluid milk and cheese is up, while the per person use of butter, whole milk, canned milk and nonfat dry milk is down.

Banquet Held At Church

WESTBROOK (SC)—The annual sweetheart banquet sponsored by the First Baptist Church was held Saturday evening at the school cafeteria. Guest speaker was the Rev. Bill Haller, pastor of Oak St. Baptist Church. The "Hee Haw" theme was used for the program. The Rev. Gene Farley, First Baptist pastor, was chairman of the affair.

Records Checked By Genealogists

A visit to the county clerk's office was a feature of the Thursday meeting of the Genealogical Society of the Big Spring.

Mrs. Margaret Ray, county clerk, explained the various volumes that were available to the public for research.

During the business session at Howard County

Library, Bill Steagald, president, appointed A. A. Porter, Mrs. John Damron and Mrs. Margaret Barnett as a committee to represent the society at the Howard County Bicentennial Commission. Mrs. Jerry Avery, co-chairman, will speak at the next society meeting. At this time there will be a "show and share" time for members to assist those needing help with their genealogical lines.

Members were also advised that a basement room in the library building has been set aside for their meetings.

Students of a Coahoma school history class attended as guests of Miss Frances Kelly, Coahoma school librarian. Guests were Cheryl Gillenwater, Byron Neff, Sammy Buchanan, Greg Brown, David Barbee, Mrs. Jean Wynn, Mrs. Eleanor Garrett, Mrs. Kay Shaw and Kent Vickery.

ABC Wives Set Meeting

The American Business Club wives (Amdees) will meet at 7:30 p.m., Feb. 17 in the home of Mrs. Morris Robertson, 2806 Clanton.

Work will continue on decorations to be used for the Region 6 convention scheduled here in April. Also, reports will be heard from each committee chairman. All wives of ABC members are invited to attend and participate in activities of the auxiliary group.

First Lady Stumps For Female Rights

WASHINGTON AP — First Lady Betty Ford has reminded Sen. Barry Goldwater that he has two daughters in urging him to support ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment in his home state of Arizona. Mrs. Ford told reporters Wednesday that she telephoned the Republican senator to express her views on the proposed amendment which the Arizona House of Representatives debates today. Goldwater has opposed the amendment to guarantee equal rights to women.

The First Lady also called Arizona Republican state Sen. Jay Prizlaff, who has been a firm backer of ERA. The amendment has been ratified in 34 states and needs approval by four more to become effective.

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Sun., Feb. 16, 1975 7-C

Baby Shower Held Friday

Mrs. Delia Silva was honored Friday with a baby gift shower in the home of Mrs. Stella Salazar. Hostesses and guests were wives of military personnel in the 78th Field Maintenance Squadron, Section A.G.E., Webb Air Force Base.

A surprise at the informal event was the presentation of a baby crib which was given by the men of the squadron.

FOCUS ON FAMILY LIVING

Special Laundry Aids For Flame Retardants

By SHERRY MULLIN
(County Extension Agent)

Since July, 1973, by law, all children's sleepwear from sizes 0 to 6x must be flame retardant.

Different fibers, blends and flame retardant finishes used in sleepwear call for different types of laundry products. Therefore, it becomes extremely important to follow care label guides which suggest how to retain the flame retardant properties.

Flame retardant finishes are adversely affected by detergents formulated with carbonates and by soap. These products react with minerals such as calcium and magnesium from water and soil to form an insoluble precipitate more commonly known as soap curd or calcium carbonate. This residue builds up on the garments and inactivates the flame retardant finish; they should not be used when laundering such items.

Therefore, wash flame retardant garments with a phosphate-based granular detergent or with a heavy-duty liquid laundry detergent. In areas where only low-phosphate products are available (8.7 per cent phosphorus or less), it is necessary to increase the amount of detergent. In most instances, the label on the package will indicate the phosphorus content of the product. If phosphate-based granular detergents are unavailable in your area, use a heavy-duty liquid laundry detergent.

Other precautions in the use of laundry aids may also be specified. Here are some examples of label instructions for various fibers used in flame retardant garments:

100 per cent polyester — machine wash in warm water; tumble dry. To retain flame resistant properties, do not use soap, bleach, low or non-phosphate detergent. Do not send to commercial laundry.

100 per cent cotton — machine wash in warm water; tumble dry; do not iron.

MRS. RONALD D. DICKENSON

Couple United In Marriage

The wedding of Miss Rebecca Gail Lambert and Ronald Dale Dickenson was solemnized at 7 p.m. Friday in the sanctuary of the First Baptist Church in Stanton.

Parents of the bride are Mrs. Martha Lambert, Houston, and Charles Lambert, Stanton. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Delbert W. Dickenson, Stanton.

The Rev. Clifford Eastman officiated. The altar was decorated with branched candelabra entwined with blue and white carnations and greenery. Arched candelabra centered the altar.

Nuptial music was by Miss Karen Anderson, organist, and Miss Roberta Hughes, pianist. Miss Anderson and Miss Karen Hughes were the vocalists.

The bride's formal-length gown was of white sheer organza and re-embroidered lace, featuring a fitted waistline with high neck and lace yoke accented with leaves of bridal pearls. The sheer lantern sleeves were enhanced with lace as was the demi-bell skirt trimmed with a re-embroidered lace circle on the front. The chapel-length train and hemline was bordered with a band of lace. Her lace and seed pearl headpiece held a lace-edged finger-tip-length veil. The bride carried a cascade of white roses sprinkled with blue gypsophila and tied with blue satin streamers.

Miss Deborah Lambert, Big Spring, was her sister's maid of honor, and Miss Cheryl Dickenson, the bridegroom's sister, and Vicki Christon were bridesmaids.

Their floor-length dresses were of sky blue crepe with blue and white flowered sheer organza over blue crepe. They carried nosegay of a single white rose surrounded by blue gypsophila. The headpieces were wreaths of blue gypsophila.

David Standerfer was best man, and ushers were H. A. Schuelke and Mark Eiland. Groomsmen were Randy Lambert, brother of the bride, Odessa, and Robby Dickenson, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride is a sophomore in Stanton High School, and the bridegroom is a graduate of Stanton High School and is engaged in farming with his father.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall.

Nuptial Rites Held Friday In Lubbock

The wedding of Mrs. Nancy Henry Kelly and John Roy Phillips was solemnized at 7:30 p.m., Friday at the First Christian Church, Lubbock.

The bridegroom is the son of Roy Phillips, 401 Pennsylvania, and the late Mrs. Phillips, and the bride's parents are Mrs. Sam Henry of Lubbock, and the late Sam Henry.

Officiating was De. Dudley Strain, pastor, and music was by Miss Jean Lanham, pianist; Miss Beverly Terrell, vocalist; and Sion Gutierrez, violinist.

The bride received her BA and MA degrees from Texas Tech University and is a counselor for the Lubbock Independent School System.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Big Spring High School and Texas Christian University where he earned a BA degree. He has a Doctor of Jurisprudence degree from the University of Texas and is a partner in a Lubbock law firm.

WILL WED — Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Welch, Coahoma, are announcing the betrothal of their daughter, Raylyn, to Roy Lee Metcalf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Lee Metcalf, also of Coahoma. The couple plans to be married March 22 in the Midway Baptist Church.

Cheese-Filled

Chipper Frank Bake makes a great Saturday lunch. Combine 1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese; ½ cup crushed corn ships; ½ medium onion, finely chopped; 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce; and ½ can (8-ounce can) tomato sauce with mushrooms. Split 1 pound frankfurters lengthwise; place in single layer in baking dish. Fill franks with cheese mixture. Pour remaining ½ can tomato sauce with mushrooms over franks. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

HC Nursing Program Viewed By Speaker

Mrs. Johnnie Amos, RN, was guest speaker for the Permian Basin Medical Society Auxiliary at a luncheon meeting Thursday in Big Spring Country Club.

Mrs. Amos, who heads the LVN School of Nursing at Howard College, introduced Annette Burell, the recipient of a scholarship given by the auxiliary.

The speaker gave an in-depth talk on the school saying it was begun in 1946 and has produced 261 graduates who have filled a tremendous need in the nursing field. There have been only six failures.

Mrs. Amos said state licensing of vocational nurses was started in 1952, and this license is NLN approved which gives the nurse reciprocity in other states. Mrs. Amos touched briefly on the registered nurse program which is under study for the college.

During the business session, over which Mrs. Robert Griffin presided, volunteer hours given by auxiliary members were listed for the state records.

The women also planned to support a Feb. 20 program of the Texas Campaign Against Child Abuse which will be held locally at the Dora Roberts Community Center under the sponsorship of the state welfare department.

Mrs. Clyde Thomas and Mrs. James H. Kreimeyer were named delegate and alternate to the Women's Auxiliary to the Texas Medical Association convention in San Antonio April 30-May 4.

Officers for the 1975-76 period will be Mrs. Thomas, president; Mrs. John A. Fleck, vice president; and Mrs. Philip J. Parker, secretary-treasurer.

The March 13 meeting will be a tour of the new HCA hospital.

Residents Have Guests

WESTBROOK (SC) — The J. V. Hendricks family spent Wednesday with the Altis Clemmer. They were en route to their home in Roswell, N.M., after attending funerals for her grandfather, T. L. Ramsey, in Putnam on Sunday, and his mother, Mrs. Nola Hendricks, in Abilene, Tuesday.

The Vernon Wagners, Lamesa, and the Bobby Blalocks, Stanton, have been guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Odens.

Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Clawson are in Odessa with their granddaughter, Mrs. Tommy Bryant, who underwent surgery Thursday.

CONSUMER'S OPPORTUNITY TO PURCHASE EFFICIENTLY

THE KEY TO A BETTER TODAY

An opportunity to get the most value for your money in today's economy.

Consumers Urged To Be Alert To New Racket

WASHINGTON — A wave of phony invoices for advertising, supposedly authorized by top management, has been hitting banks and other businesses nationwide, Hollis W. Bowers, director of the American Bankers Association's (ABA) Insurance and Protection Division, reports.

Consumers can save dollars by being wary.

Bowers describes the typical phony invoice racket this way: "A bank officer or business executive receives a call from a person who says he represents an organization with a high-sounding name, usually one which implies connections with minority organizations or publications. This person usually solicits advertising directly."

"Whether an agreement has been reached or not, the business later receives an invoice for advertising with a notation requesting prompt payment allegedly because a top bank officer or executive has authorized it. Too often, the payment is made."

Even when such advertising has been properly authorized, Bowers cautions, bankers and businessmen should be aware that they frequently are paying grossly inflated rates for "calling card" insertions — and that a large portion of their payment usually goes as a fee to the sales organization, which may have no formal connection with the minority publication it purports to represent.

One gimmick, Bowers explains, is the presentation of a sales promotion document that resembles an invoice for advertising.

BIG SPRING HERALD

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1975

SECTION D

Publication Invaluable

Want to know more about inflation, its causes and effects? Need help in planning a budget, tips on purchasing appliances or planning meals for maximum nutritional benefits?

These are a few of the 200 topics listed in the last quarterly edition of "Consumer Information," published by the federal government.

The index, compiled by the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration, describes available pamphlets and other literature of interest to the consumer. Some literature is free and other publications cost run about 25 cents each.

The publications cover such topics as saving energy in the home, how to set up a recycling center, carpools, health, diet and drugs. Other literature is available on buying and financing a mobile home, home safety, federal benefits for veterans and dependants and merchandising your job talents.

For a copy of "Consumer Information," write: Consumer Information, Public Documents Distribution Center, Pueblo, Colo., 81009. The index is free.

SPECIAL SECTION FIGHTS THREE-WAY THREAT COPE's Mission Explained

Rare is the person who isn't concerned with the threat of rising unemployment, inflation and recession. The nation perhaps is experiencing something it never has before — an economy that is fluctuating erratically in times when prices continue to escalate. Under such conditions, every penny in a family's budget must be counted.

To help The Herald's readers cope with rising prices, joblessness and, in some cases, more unemployment to come, this newspaper is publishing a special section appropriately called "COPE." The section has been so written to make today's difficult times easier.

Herald reporters have been busy piecing together stories on how to get maximum value for your dollar, where to look for financial assistance and what procedures to follow to utilize existing benefits to the fullest.

If you're interested in cutting food costs, if you're looking for medical help, if you're shopping for the best buy in housing, if you're making every effort to reduce the use of expensive fuels — the articles in COPE should be of great interest to you.

The Herald will continue to provide information to meet consumer needs with related articles in future editions.

In line with the COPE theme, The Herald advertising department has been working closely with community merchants in producing advertising messages designed to help their customers cope with rising prices. Each advertising message in the COPE section contains the COPE label, signifying "Consumers Opportunity to Purchase Efficiently."

New Sources Of Limitless Power Sought By Science

With world energy supplies in critical demand and their costs soaring, businessmen and scientists are looking to sun and wind as clean and limitless sources of power.

One answer, they are finding, is windmills. In Detroit, John Z. DeLorean, the shaggy-haired engineer who walked away from a $650,000 post as a General Motors vice president, has created a new kind of generator. If it works, the DeLorean windmill will produce enough energy to heat 1,000 homes and store what's left, cleanly and cheaply.

HASMERIT
Engineers who have examined DeLorean's idea say it appears more efficient than other solar energy inventions. The glass company financing the project likes it because SOLAIR, as DeLorean calls his invention, looks cheap to build, economical to run, and requires a lot of windows. Scientists at Arizona State University are experimenting with it.

ALTERNATIVE
In Sandusky, Ohio, government scientists at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration are building a 50-ton, 160-foot high, 100-kilowatt windmill at the Lewis Research Center. It is part of a $25-million, five-year NASA project in the field of wind energy.

The windmill will be erected next summer in a 7,000 acre, deer-stocked forest reserve near an old Atlas Missile test stand.

"Wind isn't the sudden savior of the energy picture," said Dr. Robert Ragsdale, chief of NASA's coal mining, or shut down nuclear plants to switch to sunshine. But it is one other energy alternative, and we are moving on it. We are at the point now of taking it out of the lab and into the real world."

There are already 175,000 old-fashioned, water-pumping windmills on U.S. farms and ranches. Half of them are either in good working condition or capable of being repaired, according to a survey by the New Mexico State University College of Agriculture, conducted at the request of energy-conscious ranchers in the southwest.

ENERGY SAVERS
"The energy crunch and profit squeeze have led ranchers and farmers all over to look for ways to save," said Morgens Rasmussen, author of the study. "There is a rapidly growing demand for the old-fashioned pumps."

As a result, windmill sales, nearly extinct three years ago, have made a solid comeback. In fact, the two major windmill companies in this country report they are currently unable to keep up with demand.

"Wind energy is clean," said Dr. Ragsdale. "It's always available and pollution-free. The name of the game is public acceptance. We are looking for efficient new ways of using old sources."

And that is what SOLAIR and the NASA wind energy project are all about.

The first step in building a DeLorean windmill would be to cover a 20-acre hillside with black asphalt, says the inventor, and cover it with a one foot-high glass house, open only at the bottom end.

RIGHT TEMPERATURE — One way to save substantially on fuel bills is to keep the thermostat turned down to 68 degrees. Heaters left at high readings when families are away from home waste fuel and money needlessly, too. Here, Mary Smith turns the dial to the recommended level.

Consider Options When Renting Gear

You can often save a substantial amount of money by renting equipment — whether you need a car, a plane, a post-hole digger or furniture.

Suppose you wanted to use a tent-type camping trailer. Rental might run you $95 weekly. A used trailer, if purchased, would cost $1,395. New, the same trailer would likely be priced at about $1,975.

How many weeks a year would you be likely to use such an item? If you used only during a vacation period of two or three weeks, it would, of course, be much better to rent. Considering the full cost of a used trailer, you would need to use the trailer at least 15 weeks to break even in your investment.

On the other hand, if you want to rent a post-hole digger at, say, a cost of $1 a day might not be good business if you plan to make use of it over a period of weeks. A new digger might not cost over $10 when new and less than that when used.

Consider, too, these non-money factors affecting a rent-buy decision: Convenience — renting a floor polisher for $1.25 a day is cheap enough, but hauling it back and forth from the super market means time and trouble. Buying a polisher used anywhere from three to nine times a year makes sense for convenience.

Storage — Not having to store seldom-used equipment compensates for a difference in cost. Saving the rental on a roll-away bed could amount to a 20 per cent annual return. If you have no place to store it, however, then renting makes sense even at a premium.

Variety of equipment — A Saturday mechanic often needs different wheel or bearing 'pullers.' Renting a special puller at an hourly rate permits using the right tool instead of having to make do with something nearly right. But, a torque wrench used many times could be a good investment.

Flexibility — Instead of renting an apartment furnished in a relative's attic styling, consider the trade-off of an unfurnished apartment stocked with rented furniture vs. a furnished apartment. You will pay more but you choose your own style and, when you change locations, you save on moving expenses.

A point to remember is that you usually rent equipment which is well used but maintained in good working order. A chain saw will be sharp and so will a lawn mower. Don't rent them if they run poorly or fail to cut cleanly.

There is no firm answer to the question of rent or buy. Sift the facts as they pertain to your situation. Study the options. Then make up your mind. The difference could mean a big savings.

Average Refund Could Be $400

Two out of every three of the nation's taxpayers can expect federal income tax refunds from 1974 withholdings, according to a leading Texas tax-preparation service.

The refunds are expected to average $400, for a total of $21.5 billion, according to government estimates gathered by CIT Financial Services. Nationally, refunds on 1973 withholdings averaged $350 and involved some 54 million returns.

Taxpayers normally are entitled to substantial refunds when extraordinary deductible expenses have occurred during the year. In many cases itemized deductions are the only way to obtain the maximum legal refund. Such deductions reduce taxable income and, if large enough and substantiated, entitle the wage earner to get back a part of the money withheld by his employer throughout the year.

Second-Hand Togs Popular

The success of garage sales attests to the fact that more than a few people wear second-hand clothes.

Such togery is especially popular with mothers who have children who outgrow anything bought for them inside six months.

Most used clothing have been cleaned and pressed before placed on display, too. Bargains can be found in many such sales.

Insulating All Homes Would Preserve Fuel

A technical study which provides new information to help homeowners determine just how much insulation, weather stripping or storm windows they should use to get the maximum return on their investment has been issued by Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent.

In reviewing the study, Dent said that if all the under-insulated homes in the country received insulation according to the findings of the study 500,000 barrels of oil equivalent would be saved each day.

The study concluded that the amount of insulation and storm windows needed to give a homeowner the greatest savings on home heating and cooling expenses is higher than generally believed necessary in the past. This study clearly shows that more than half of the 40 million owner-occupied homes in the nation could benefit from more than six inches of attic insulation. He said that nine to twelve inches will generate the greatest savings in oil-heated homes and in homes that need a lot of air-conditioning in the summer. More than twelve inches may be needed in many homes which are electrically heated and cooled.

The publication, entitled "Retrofitting Existing Housing for Energy Conservation: An Economic Analysis," is available from the U.S. Government Printing Office at $1.35 per copy. Use SD catalog number C13.29-2-64 when ordering.

Caulking Outside Of Home Keeps Water From Entering

The home owner has always known, in a rather vague way, that caulking the outside of his house is a good way to keep water from entering it.

What usually happens, though, is that he does nothing about it until the house is stolen from the barn. Any time you see the outside of a house being caulked, you can be reasonably certain that a leak has been noticed somewhere inside, probably damaging walls, ceilings and floors.

The same opening that admits water also admits air and plays havoc with the operation of heating and air-conditioning systems. But very few persons give much thought to that aspect of the condition. The energy crisis has catapulted caulking into new prominence as a vital ingredient in any program to keep heat inside a house during cold weather and outside it during warm weather.

Caulking is the act of closing gaps that permit the passage of water, air and anything else.

A LITTLE DRIP, A WHOLE LOT OF WASTE — Sharon Hooper investigates a faucet for a leak. If a steady drip occurs, thousands of gallons of water can be wasted in a month's time, resulting in unnecessary water bills. A gasket which often can be installed by the householder can usually solve the problem.

Small Volume Builders Cutting Costs, Profits

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Small volume builders are making a special effort to overcome the inability of many would-be buyers to purchase new housing, a recent survey shows. In the survey, conducted by Journal-Scope, the weekly publication of the 77,500-member National Association of Home Builders, small volume builders listed ways they were trying to overcome increased downpayments, high interest rates and the difficulties prospective buyers have qualifying for loans.

Here's what the survey found, as reported in the February 3 issue of Journal-Scope:

Small volume builders are cutting costs and profits in order to reduce prices to compensate for buyers' high financing costs. They're still building, but they're having to build fewer units, build smaller units and generally slow down operations.

Some builders are trying to ease prospective buyers' burdens by temporarily leasing new homes. Some are subsidizing part of their interest for a time. Others are renting new homes for a period and crediting part of the rent toward an eventual downpayment.

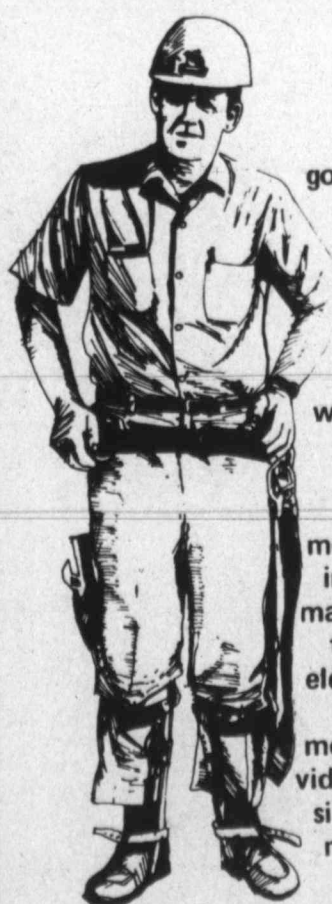

Builders are seeking new ways to finance the kind of building they know best — single family. Small builders are scrambling for dollars under the federal government's Tandem Plan, administered by the Government National Mortgage Association; they are obtaining 8 3/4 per cent government money; and building under Farmer's Home Administration and Veteran's Administration housing programs.

One builder surveyed is taking advantage of 1 per cent interest — credit mortgages available to buyers under FHA; another has gotten Federal Land Bank loans; a third is able to secure construction money because he has a reserve of commitments for permanent take out. One builder has arranged a profit sharing joint venture with his lender in order to keep on building homes.

WHEN YOUR RATES GO UP WE'RE THE FIRST TO KNOW

Because our rates go up first. When the people who generate electricity for the rural electric cooperative pay more for their generating fuels, when they install costly anti-pollution devices, when they do anything that affects the price of power, the costs are passed along to the cooperative and its member-owners. In a time of instability in the oil and gas market, such increases seem all too frequent. But the rural electric cooperative, through good times and bad, for more than 30 years, has provided power at its lowest possible price. It's a promise we make for the future as well.

DIRECT DISTANCE DIALING SAVES — Dee Ann Forest will tell you that you can save a lot of money on your telephone bill if you use direct distance dialing rather than person-to-person calls. It's surprisingly easy, too, says Dee Ann.

One-Plus Dialing Can Save Lots Of Money

To save money on long distance telephoning, develop the One-Plus call. Direct distance dialing saves money as Southwestern Bell has tried to point out for two years.

The savings are even greater when you use One-Plus evenings, nights and weekends. Phone lines aren't as busy during those hours and the charges are less.

Look at these examples of rates for coast-to-coast calls:

		STATION-TO-STATION	PERSON-TO-PERSON
		One-Plus	Operator Assisted
Weekends	8 a.m. to 11 p.m. Sat. and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sun.	70¢ first 3 minutes	$1.40 first 3 minutes
Evenings	5 p.m. to 11 p.m. Sun. through Fri.	85¢ first 3 minutes	$1.40 first 3 minutes
Nights	11 p.m. to 8 a.m. daily	35¢ first minute (minimum call)	$1.40 first 3 minutes (minimum call)
Weekdays	8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mon. through Fri.	75¢ first 3 minutes	$1.85 first 3 minutes

You may notice that between 1 p.m. and 8 a.m., you can take advantage of a super-low one-minute night rate. In other words, if you talk 60 seconds or less, you pay only 35 cents.

This is ideal for short conversations such as when you want to let someone know you arrived safely after a trip or you wish to make out-of-town hotel or motel reservations.

Rates shown do not include tax. One-plus rates apply on all interstate calls, excluding calls to Hawaii and Alaska.

Your Peak Water Demands

If you have your own water system, it's a good idea to be sure you have a pump that meets your needs. You should have enough pressure to allow using several outlets at the same time. The Ground Water Council recommends that you know your peak water demand.

The demand, or capacity, in gallons per minute should equal the number of water outlets installed in your home. If your water pressure is not sufficient, you may need a larger pump. Call your local drilling contractor, pump installer or dealer for his advice.

Electrical Safety Is Emphasized

WACO — In the average home an electrical outlet is usually not more than six feet away from an electrical appliance. This, according to John Ambrose — instructor in electrical power distribution at Texas State Technical Institute, in Waco — is because an electrical outlet is located on the walls approximately every 12 feet for consumer convenience.

Ambrose believes electrical safety should play an important part in both industry and the home. He has listed a few hints on how to make your home electrically safe:

1. "Although many people use adapters, it's not a good idea because they can overload the circuits. Grounded receptacles should be used for the safety of the person and to prevent fires."
2. "When you 'piggyback' your plugs you may be overloading the circuits. The National Electric Code allows for 15-20 amps in each two circuit branch. One amp is approximately 100 watts. Any thing over this and the circuit overloads. Then the circuit breakers ground the current."
3. "The grounding system becomes a path for the current instead of the individual. Of course the type of floor and the shoes worn by the person will make a difference. Wet hands offer less resistance than dry hands. Just as wet cement floor offers less resistance than a dry one. Don't ever use an electrical appliance if you are wet."

4. "When installing timers it may be necessary to cut into the house wiring. Good splices must be made or a high resistance joint can occur that will make the insulation and consequently cause a fire."
5. "Children and pets can be injured if they are allowed to chew on wires that are plugged in. It doesn't matter if the appliance is turned on or not."

This early version was apparently much like the just-born liquor made by French farmers called calvados. However, the calvados sold in the better French restaurants today has been aged about 10 years and ranks with the smoothest cognac.

The same thing happened in America after farmers acquired their own little pot stills and began distilling a much smoother liquor from newly pressed hard cider. Food was hard to come by in those days, and what grain our ancestors grew went to feed themselves and their livestock. But there were plenty of apples since the seeds were easy to carry and plant as farmers moved across the land establishing settlements.

Buying Togs In Off Season Saves Cash

The best advice to spending on clothing is to save enough cash to take advantage of sales.

Having the money in hand there are 10 good guides for slashing your clothing costs.

Buy clothes in off season. For instance, March is the best month to buy ski outfits, and January and August are good months to buy furs. Three major periods for store-wide clearances are after Easter, the 4th of July, and Christmas.

It is true there may be a shortage of styles, sizes, and colors if you don't shop as early in the sale as you possibly can, preferably the first day. It is helpful if you have listed the standard items needed for the next six to 12 months for use in the clothes-buying season.

Do watch out for the numerous "going out of business" sales that go on for a long period of time.

BUY IN QUANTITY

Buy certain items in quantity — stockings, pantyhose, socks — if you can play as many as six pair in the same type and color you can match a good with a good when one wears out. Quantity buying is especially good in large families.

Buy standard sizes; small, medium, large, rather than detailed neck and sleeve sizes. This principle holds true in gloves and socks.

Patronize economical clothing stores. Chain stores and mail order houses are excellent for such staples as jeans, underwear, shirts, nightgowns, work clothes.

Factory discounts stores where irregulars are sold afford much saving on wearable clothing. Savings run to almost 25 per cent at the typical self service, cash only discount stores. Look, too, in thrift, charity and consignment shops where you may buy next to new well made and some high fashion second hand clothes at very low prices.

Learn store departments. If you find a garment for a bargain in the sports department or the teen or junior shop, the buy is just as good, if the quality is good and it fits.

KEEP IT SIMPLE
Look without prejudice at clothing seconds. Flaws can be surface ones or basic and some may be mended successfully.

Steer away from frills especially on such as sweaters with lavish belts or fur collars. Stay with simple lines that can be dressed up or down.

Match prices against utility especially in children's clothing where the mortality rate is high.

These factors are watched very closely by our distributors, who try to have clothing supplies in stock in a region when they are needed," he said.

Ball's headquarters in Muncie has received thousands of mail and telephone inquiries from customers wanting to buy directly from Ball.

Should a home canning supply shortage develop this summer, Stuart said some gardeners may choose to freeze crops. "For this we produce plastic freezer boxes and bags, which should be in good supply throughout the canning season."

Ball has manufactured home canning supplies since 1884.

Home Canning Supplies Still Selling Briskly

MUNCIE, Ind. — Ball Corp., a major producer of home canning supplies, said today it is anticipating another season of strong demand for home canning supplies and is presently manufacturing around-the-clock.

"We cannot say with absolute certainty that there will be adequate home canning supplies in the 1975 canning season, but we can assure home canners that we are doing our best to manufacture an increased amount," said John W. Fisher, president.

Production lines are operating seven days a week and three shifts a day at Ball home canning supply manufacturing sites, according to W. Stanley Stuart, Jr., vice president of consumer products. He said Ball is allocating its production to customers on the basis of the customers' past sales and to accommodate the growing harvesting season in the particular region.

Most Have Inadequate Insurance

AUSTIN — Insurance companies throughout the state have warned property owners that due to skyrocketing inflation almost all citizens are underinsured.

F. Darby Hammond, president of Southwestern Insurance Information Service, pointed out that the cost of housing construction has jumped about 70 per cent since 1967.

A home that cost $20,000 in 1967 now sells for $34,000. "Homeowners who have not increased their insurance even in the past year are underinsured and would face drastic losses if an accident occurs," he said.

The insurance industry is proposing a solution to the problem which will not cost homeowners much increase in premiums, if any he added. "Homeowners should increase the amount of their insurance to actual value at today's prices," Hammond said, "and they can do this without costing them a lot of money. Some might even see a reduction in premiums. They should consider raising the amount of the deductible on their insurance policies," he said.

Many homeowners carry $50 or $100 deductible on their homeowner insurance. In other words, the homeowner agreed to pay the first $50 to $100 of a loss.

PLANNING FOR HOME GARDEN — Mary Brown listens as David Janisch takes a little time to explain to her the advantage of priming soil with a good fertilizer. Many home owners are going in for gardens this year as a way of combatting the rising costs of food.

There's Much You May Not Know About Food

How much do you know about what's in the food you eat?

Do you know the difference between beef with gravy and gravy with beef? Which has more meat — a high-meat baby food dinner or one labeled meat and broth?

The answers aren't always what you would imagine.

Fifty-eight congressmen and two consumer groups petitioned the Food and Drug Administration this week to require baby food manufacturers to be more specific in their labeling, listing all ingredients and the percentages of ingredients constituting more than 2 percent of the total weight of the product.

The Agriculture Department also sets standards for products that carry a federal inspection stamp. Here are some examples of some popular canned and other packaged items and USDA requirements about their contents:

BABY FOODS

High-meat dinner — at least 30 per cent meat.
Meat and broth — at least 65 per cent meat.

Vegetable and meat — at least 8 per cent meat.
High-poultry dinner — at least 18 per cent poultry meat, skin, fat and giblets.

Poultry with broth — at least 43 per cent poultry meat, skin, fat and giblets.

BEEF PRODUCTS

Beef with gravy — at least 50 per cent beef.
Gravy with beef — at least 35 per cent beef.

Beef burgundy — at least 50 per cent beef; enough wine to characterize the sauce.

Burgundy sauce with beef and noodles — at least 25 per cent beef; enough wine to characterize the sauce.

Corned beef hash — at least 35 per cent beef on a cooked basis. Must contain potatoes, curing agents and seasonings. May contain onions, garlic, beef broth and beef fat.

POULTRY PRODUCTS

Poultry with noodles or dumplings — at least 15 per cent poultry meat or 30 per cent with bone.

Noodles or dumplings with poultry — at least 6 per cent poultry meat.

Poultry with noodles au gratin — at least 18 per cent poultry meat.

Poultry with vegetables — at least 15 per cent poultry meat.

Poultry hash — at least 30 per cent poultry meat.

Some foods are even more difficult to figure out. They're what's known as fabricated foods, which, according to Dr. Kermit Bird of the USDA's Food and Nutrition Service are foods that have been designed, engineered or formulated from ingredients that may or may not include additives, vitamins and minerals.

Basically, such foods are natural products that have been taken apart in some way — dehydrated, for example — and put together in another form. Examples include breakfast pop tarts, fruit juice drinks and vegetable protein products. Government economists estimate sales of such foods will total $23 billion in 1980, up more than 75 per cent from the $13 billion spent in 1973.

Area Musicians Are All-State

Seventeen Texas high school musicians, including three from this area, have been named to first chair positions in the All-State Symphony Orchestra.

The positions, named by the Texas Music Educators Association, included:

Piccolo — Leslie J. Moore of Midland Lee High School.
Bassoon — Tim E. Owens of Abilene Cooper High School.

Percussion — David G. Slusher of Odessa Permian High School.

Itemizing Can Save One Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — Should you itemize your income tax deductions or simply take the standard deduction allowed you by law?

Using the standard deduction saves work and avoids an area of possible dispute if the Internal Revenue Service should question some of your deductions.

But you may save money by itemizing. Almost certainly you will if you are making mortgage payments and paying local taxes on a home.

The only way to be absolutely sure is to work out your return both ways, in rough, and compare.

IRS offers some guidelines to help you, based on the fact that the standard deduction is 15 per cent of adjusted gross income, with a deduction ceiling of $2,000.

HOW TO DECIDE

If your adjusted gross income — the figure you come up with on line 12 of the 1040A short form or line 15 of the 1040 regular form — is less than $8,667 and the itemized deductions total more than $1,300, you should save by itemizing.

If adjusted gross income is between $8,667 and $13,333 and itemized deductions are more than 15 per cent of that figure, itemize.

If adjusted gross income is more than $13,333 and itemized deductions are more than $2,000, itemize. If you do itemize, be honest, of course, but don't gyp yourself.

Many taxpayers overlook perfectly legal deductions available to them. Some of these:

DEDUCTIONS

In addition to the cash you lay out for charitable donations or medical expenses, you may charge off the cost of transportation to get to the doctor's office or hospital, or in connection with charitable work. This may be actual out of pocket expense or, if you use your car, mileage, at 7 cents a mile, plus parking fees and tolls. You may also deduct the fair value of non-cash charitable gifts, such as clothing, food or items to be sold at a church bazaar.

The total medical deduction is subject to a reduction by 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income. However, without regard to this you may deduct half of your premiums for health insurance, up to $150.

ONE WAY TO SAVE — Housewives like Mrs. Stuart (Daphne) Forest of 2504 Carol St., resort to home canning to save on the family food bill. Home owners all over the country are being urged to plant home gardens to cut costs and help the American farmer in his battle to provide enough food for all Americans.

Some Gardens Are Fertile Enough

Home gardens are appearing in backyards, flower beds and on patios all over Texas. And with continued high fertilizer costs due to low supplies, homeowners should give special attention to conserving fertilizer.

Sam Cotner, vegetable specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, offers these suggestions:

1. Have soil tested. Many home gardens are already fertile enough to produce good yields of most vegetable crops. Soil samples may be sent to the Soil Testing Laboratory at Texas A&M University. Information is available at any county Extension office.

2. Apply only light applications of fertilizer at planting time. In absence of a soil test, use one-and-one-half to three pounds of a complete fertilizer, such as 8-8-8, 10-10-10 or 12-12-12, per 100 square feet of garden area. Thoroughly mix the fertilizer with the soil. Use organic fertilizer and compost whenever possible.

3. If at all possible, use mulch in the garden to aid in moisture retention and to prevent leaching of plant nutrients.

4. If vegetable plants appear to grow slowly or lack good color, sidedress lightly with a quick-acting fertilizer. Sidedress leafy crops such as lettuce, cabbage and greens after they develop six to eight leaves. Fruiting crops such as

Often Pay Too Much

WASHINGTON — Some U.S. taxpayers may contribute more than their fair share to the Treasury April 15, even if President Ford's tax rebate scheme is enacted by Congress.

Due to a lack of adequate information, the 52 per cent of U.S. taxpayers who do not have professional help in preparing their returns are most likely to overpay federal taxes, independent tax research groups say.

Among the information problems confronting unassisted taxpayers looking for ways to pay the least legal amount of tax are:

The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) policy of not providing — either in its tax advice booklets or in IRS telephone taxpayer assistance — notice of court decisions the IRS is appealing that rule that taxpayers make take a more liberal deduction than allowed under IRS policy.

Knowledgeable taxpayers often file returns based on these favorable court decisions, hoping that the IRS position will not prevail on appeal.

But unassisted taxpayers seeking such potential tax saving information in IRS instruction booklets will find only the note that there are "some matters . . . on which certain courts have taken a position more favorable to the taxpayer than the official position of the service."

Recipe for using electricity more efficiently for cooking.

When cooking foods in liquid — whether in an electric skillet, crock pot, Dutch oven or on your range — use the lowest heat setting that will maintain a boil.

Don't open the oven door unnecessarily. Opening the oven door when the oven is hot can cause heat loss and extended cooking time.

For toasting bread, use a toaster or portable toaster-oven instead of your range oven. The smaller appliances are more efficient for this job.

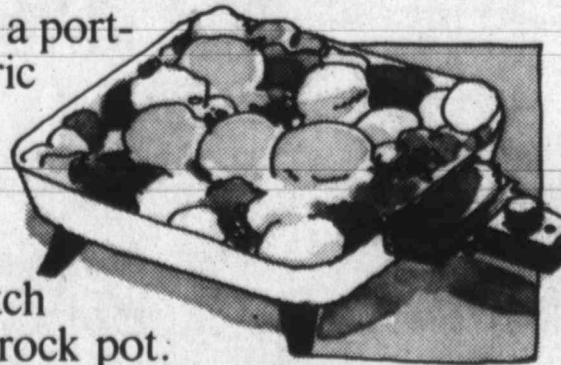

Reduce cooking time by thawing meats before cooking them. When recipes call for a preheated oven, don't turn it on too far in advance — usually 10 to 15 minutes will do.

Use flat-bottomed pans.

The flatter the pan, the better the contact with the electric unit. Be sure the pans have tight-fitting lids to reduce cooking time and moisture loss. Match pan size to unit size to avoid heat loss.

Plan one-dish meals that can be cooked in a portable electric appliance such as a skillet, deep fat fryer, Dutch oven or crock pot.

Get our free booklet, "Tips to help you use electricity more efficiently throughout your home." Copies are available in our office, or you can request one on the comment portion of your electric service bill.

Many Sources Extend Aid In Times Of Need

Fortunately, there isn't too much need for it here, but what if the comparatively few furloughed from jobs are not called back until unemployment benefits run out?

Many may qualify for timely aid from other sources from Food Stamps to Aid for Dependent Children, or emergency help in some instances.

Probably the best known and accessible of immediate help would be to qualify for food stamps.

The food stamps could help supplement a strained family food budget.

No appointment is necessary to go to the DSS office to apply for food stamps. But you should be prepared to verify your income and what are called "mandatory deductions," such as taxable items, union dues, retirement payments, and all types of tax payments. Generally bringing in a pay stub is all that's required for verification. A statement from an employer, can verify income.

Or for instance, if a person is receiving social security benefits, you should bring in your award letter.

Applicants will be interviewed and fill out an application to determine what food stamps benefits you may qualify for.

Generally, a family of four with a net income not exceeding $513 a month is eligible for stamps.

If eligible, an authorization form allowing you to purchase stamps will be sent to you through the mail.

Length of authorization varies from one month up to one year depending on individual circumstances.

The form allows you to buy the stamps on a monthly, or semi-monthly basis at banks that participate in the food stamp program as distribution centers.

A family of four, depending on net income, may pay anywhere from nothing to $130 for $154 worth of food stamps every month. A family of four with a net income of less than $30 a month would not have to pay anything for stamps.

ADC is a bit more complicated. Under no circumstances is anyone receiving unemployment benefits eligible for ADC benefits. Once those benefits are exhausted, you may become eligible. Those who are presently on ADC because they exhausted unemployment benefits are usually required to stop ADC and pick up recent extensions made available in the unemployment program.

To apply, no appointment is necessary. Bring to the DSS office verification of registration with the Michigan Employment Securities Commission, and their card indicating your benefits have been exhausted.

Also bring verification of any property or assets, such as bank account books, stocks, bonds, or life insurance policies. A driver's license usually qualifies as adequate identification.

After the initial visit to the office, a return visit is required, at which time a budget is determined, and checks are generally mailed out in two weeks.

A family of four with no income, for instance, could be budgeted up to $155 a month, plus $226.40 for food, clothing, and incidentals. Also, $30 a month is available for your heating bills, and $15 for electricity and other utilities.

Many receiving ADC benefits might qualify for food stamps also.

Those receiving unemployment benefits who incur medical costs may also be eligible for receiving Medicaid benefits for their children, or general assistance county funds for adults.

Money spent on medical bills or insurance can be considered a deduction on your food stamp allotment.

Saving Water Conserves Fuel And Money

Saving water can help you save energy and money. The Ground Water Council recommends these saving tips:

1) Put a stopper in your sink or use a dishpan when you wash dishes. Washing with running water uses 30 gallons per meal. 2) Wait until you have a full load before washing clothes.

An average automatic washer uses 50 gallons per load. 3) Take showers instead of baths. You can save about 11 gallons. 4) Don't use the water closet to dispose of ashes, facial tissues and the like. A normal flush requires 5 to 8 gallons. Your pump will run less often if you take these steps — and your energy bills will be lower.

Vines Growing On Walls Help In Energy Fight

As attention focuses on conserving energy — air conditioning in summer and heating fuel in winter — consider the help and beauty that clinging vines could provide for your home.

Vines growing on masonry walls or on trellises on wooden walls add an insulation. The temperature will be lower inside in summer if the outside walls are kept sheltered from the sun's direct rays. You can accomplish this by growing deciduous leafy vines on the southern and western walls.

Leaf-bearing vines are proposed because they will drop their foliage in winter to let the sun warm the dwelling.

In cold weather, a covering of evergreen vines on the north surfaces will fend off the wind and keep the inside warmer.

The American Association of Nurserymen notes that clinging Boston Ivy or Virginia Creeper will be good summer insulation on southern and western masonry walls and an evergreen species such as English Ivy will be practical for cold weather protection on north surfaces.

Clinging vines are not recommended for wooden walls because their stems and tendrils hold moisture, causing wood to deteriorate.

However, you can achieve the same insulating effect with trained twining vines such as wisteria or climbing roses on trellises. The trellises may be detached during painting, then restored.

Bare-rooted vines should be planted in early spring or late fall. Plants in containers may be planted almost anytime. Most vines grow best in fertile, well-drained soil. You can improve the soil by lining the planting hole with a layer of mixed peat moss, sand and soil.

Second Income Helps In Battle Of Budget

Sue Robbins of New York City writes free-lance articles when she is not at her regular public-relations job. Ken Williams of Cambridge, Mass. works as a photographer in his spare time when he is not working full time at the Cambridge Public Library.

Roger Charlier, of Chicago, a geology and oceanography professor at Northeastern Illinois University, also works as a free-lance writer and consultant to the World Tourist Organization, a UN agency.

Betsy Hamilton, a secretary at Dreyfus Corporation in New York, also works three nights a week as a coat-check girl at Charlie's, a restaurant in the theater district.

MOONLIGHTING — Teresa Sheppard is one of many Big Spring residents who work at more than one job in efforts to combat the rising cost of living. Miss Sheppard is employed by GAMCO, Big Spring Park Village Apartments, Big Spring Hardware and the Howard College Book Store. In addition, Teresa decorates cakes for sale.

SECOND INCOME These four are part of the growing number of Americans who are finding that a second income helps keep the family budget in the black and pays for extras the family would otherwise not be able to afford during these times of spiraling prices. The added income has paid for new automobiles, dining-room sets, and T-bone steaks.

Mrs. Robbins, for example, says, "My second income has paid for my children and sent them off to camp in the summer."

They are part of the 4½ per cent of the American work force, or 4.2 million individuals, who earn extra money.

NOT EASY

Finding a second job when inflation and recession are causing many companies to restrict hiring or to eliminate part-time jobs is not easy. In fact, the actual number of workers holding down multiple jobs has declined in recent months, even as the cost of living has continued to increase, according to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Nonetheless, there are many ways individuals can earn a second income. The amount of money to be made is limited only by the amount of time, skill, and effort expended.

In some cases pay for part-time jobs can be as low as $10-$20 a week, in other instances, it can run into several thousand dollars a month. Sometimes a second-income job leads an individual into an entirely new line of full-time work.

THEY GROW For example, Alyce J. Collier, a New Yorker, began typing for a writer as a source of second income, and soon found herself automatically editing the manuscripts she was given to type. From then on, Miss Collier realized she had a talent in making writers' manuscripts hold together better, and began editing on a full-time basis. She also began public-relations and consulting businesses.

However, most should beware of starting a new business from a second-income business, says Leon Henry Jr., publisher of a newsletter designed to help the person working out of a home or in a second-income situation.
