Strains thankful for friends

With one bolt of lightning Ross and Barbara Strain lost everything they owned. But they both said they gained something priceless.

"I knew there were a lot of good people here but I didn't realize just how many there were until this happened," said Mrs. Strain during the week following the fire that destroyed their home in the Fairview community.

"If I live to be 100, I'll never be able to repay people who have helped us since the loss of our house," said Ross Strain.

The couple had lived in their partial wood, large country home since 1956. Barbara Strain works at the Middle School cafeteria.
Ross Strain, retired and in bad health, had only lived in one other house, located just down the road, in his entire 76 years.

They recalled the Monday evening, May 15, when thunder storms threatened the area.

Mr. Strain was watching a movie on the vcr and Mrs. Strain

"Letting go!—That's what my son suggested and I'm learning to do just that..."

Barbara Strain,
after a fire that destroyed her home had gone to bed early to read for awhile.

"I took my glasses off and laid them on the book," she said. "I got up once and unplugged everything—appliances, television, radio, everything—and went back to bed."

"I had just closed my eyes when I heard it," she said.
"There was a big explosion," said Ross Strain. "It sounded like something blew up or like someone shooting off roman candles."

Mrs. Strain said she raced to her husband and they ran outside.

In the seconds it took them to leave the house, their eyes took in view after view of the destruction.

"There was a big ball of fire behind the stove—an enormous ball," Mrs. Strain recalled.

"Sparks were flying and it was blazing up the walls," he said.

"I was looking as we ran out and it was spreading faster than I could see," she added.

"I've never seen anything burn so fast in my life," he said.

As they jumped into their car and sped down the road, their last sight of their former home was of solid grey smoke filling the rooms.
They called the fire department from a neighbor's house and sat in their car parked on Highway 1808.

"Two more minutes and we..."
Mrs. Strain began without finishing the sentence.

Property tax valuations up

Property owners in Mitchell County have received their property tax valuations and have found an increase this year in the values set on their property.

"Overall, it looks like a tax increase with the increase in value," said C. C. Burt, Chief Appraiser.

"We're hearing people ask why."

A stronger economy has led to the increase in property tax valuations this year, the chief appraiser said.

Four years ago when the economy was slow, the appraisal district applied an economic factor and everyone's property valuation was reduced by 5 percent.

"This time, with the improvement in the economy, the economic factor has been taken off, which increased everyone's property value," said Burt.

"The law requires that we emphasize that it's just an approximation. Nothing has been set," he said.

The county has estimated a loss of $28 million because of the 2-1/2

City hires new officers

Two new police officers have joined the Colorado City Police Department.

Jesse Jimenez, 21, of Odessa and Thomas G. Calzada, 28, of Sweetwater, took the oath of office Monday in a ceremony at the Colorado City Hall.

One more new officer has been selected and will begin in a couple of weeks, Chief David Montgomery said.

Jimenez is a graduate of Sherwood Christian Academy in Odessa. He attended the police academy at Odessa College and has worked as a reserve officer for the Seagraves Police Department.

Jimenez is engaged to marry an Odessa elementary school teacher.

Calzada is single and has lived in Sweetwater for the past 15 years.
He graduated from Sweetwater High School and attended the police academy at South Plains College.
Calzada previously served as a reserve deputy.

On Memorial Day...

Our thoughts turn to those brave people of our armed forces who died while serving their country. In times of peace and times of war, these courageous men and women stood ready to defend the very freedom that we so cherish. On Memorial Day, we pay silent tribute to them. Their deeds will never be forgotten...they did not die in vain. For a list of the servicemen from Mitchell County who died defending our country, see page 3.

"Zero tolerance" declared against teenage drinking

City officials and school administrators are declaring "zero tolerance" on teenage drinking and discipline problems.

A beer party Friday night attended by 50-60 local young people between the ages of 13-17 and an accident at midnight involving students who had been at the party highlight the teenage drinking problem that peaks this time of year and continues through the summer, Police Chief David Montgomery said Monday.

Eleven young people ranging from 13-17 years old were identified by the police when they arrived at the party. Charges are pending and will be handled through the municipal court, the chief said.

"I've been assured full

Water, sewer rates rise

Effective June 1, city water and sewer rates will increase for both residential and commercial users city officials announced this week.

The increase was proposed a year ago to meet the cost of the 7.5 million indebtedness on the new water and sewer systems, said Steve Shutt, city manager.

The improvements will include changing the water source to Lake Champion and vastly improving the quality of our water here, he said.

While residential users will see a slight increase on their water and sewer bill this month, businesses (especially the large commercial customers) will have the highest percentage of increase.

For example:
The rate for water in the city for both residential and commercial customers has been $10 for the first 3,000 gallons used and $2 per thousand thereafter.

The new rate will be $11 for the first 3,000 gallons and $2.10 after the 3,000.

Outside the city limits, rates

Day Care Center needs more room

(This is the second of a three-part series.)
By Susan Dunn, staff writer

Many local residents say the main day care problem facing Colorado City is where to house a new, improved and bigger New Discoveries Day Care Center.

A committee was formed in March to investigate the problem and possible solutions. Members are Bob Reily, representing the city; Dori Shutt, representing the Chamber of Commerce; Nancy

Sullivan of the Board of Economic Development; Ray Mayo representing the county and school board member Tony Turner.

It would seem that a solution is right under the city's nose: either in the former Colorado Middle School, which now houses administration offices and storage space or the Wallace Center, which has an adequate amount of unused space.

Either building would make an ideal location for a larger day care center. Each was constructed with children in mind and it is unlikely that they will ever be used for the benefit of children again, unless New Discoveries is permitted to expand.

One obstacle to the use of one of these buildings for day care and Head Start is the possible need for more classroom space should the community grow. But according to a local source, portable buildings would be a likely solution.

Both buildings under consideration need heating and air conditioning installation and/or upgrades.

According to PPI's Gary Spalding, however, PPI would cover those costs.

Along with the bigger day care center, PPI would bring its other programs for the benefit of Colorado City's residents. There are some misconceptions on the part of many of these same residents, however.

PPI is interested in working with existing occupants—they do not want to "take over" either building or run any other organization, nor do they plan to move anyone from existing offices.

For instance, more than a few citizens are concerned that the seniors who use the Wallace Center will be displaced. According to Gladys Gerst, PPI's executive director, the activities for seniors at the Wallace Center would remain the same.

The Wallace Center's program is funded through a different grant than

COOK'S CORNER

Susan Goodman "just got a book and started learning to cook" after she got married. Until that time, she was not interested in household work of any kind, but then, like so many newlyweds, she was interested in all of it.

While growing up, Susan's mother did all the cooking and household chores for a family of five. As she gets older, Susan realizes she should have helped her mother more, especially since she has a family of four to care for now.

Before she married, Susan went to college, where she did cook a big breakfast for herself every day before her 8 a.m. class. Bacon and eggs were her favorite then—I guess that was before the cholesterol scare!

I'm sure every mother out there remembers (probably by heart) the Dr. Seuss book, Green Eggs and Ham. Susan's funny story she had to share with me started with that book.

Susan read and read and re-read that book to her oldest son, Archie, when he was little. When he was about two or three years old, he decided he just might like green eggs and ham. So one Sunday morning, Susan's husband, Alvin, made green eggs and ham just like Archie wanted (using green food coloring). Susan says the eggs were very green and when they were served to Archie, he decided, Sam I am or not, he was not going to eat green eggs and ham, either.

Susan and her husband of 17 years, Alvin, have recently moved to Colorado City. Alvin works for TU Electric and Susan is an unemployed elementary school teacher, hoping to work again soon. They have two children, Archie, 12 and Richard, 9.

Because of the years she has worked, Susan has become very organized with her household work. When working, she plans her once-a-week grocery shopping trip around menus she has previously made out. By her own confession, she has gotten a little lax in her planning, but tries to keep her grocery shopping to once a week if possible.

Susan is sharing three recipes with us today. The Creamy Baked Chicken Breast and Strawberry Delight are a couple of her favorites which she has prepared for 12 or so years now.

1 3 1/2 oz. pkg. lemon instant pudding mix

Ruth and George Bryant

Couple celebrates 50th anniversary

George and Ruth Bryant of Paris, Texas and formerly of Colorado City, will have been married 50 years on June 8. They were married in Paris, Texas and moved to Mitchell County to make their home. George and Ruth have three children, Linda, Greg and Anita, and also Wendell, now deceased. George is retired from Cosden Refinery in Big Spring and Ruth is retired from food service. Their children and grandchildren will host a reception on June 17 in Paris in their honor.

A non-alcoholic Graduation Dance sponsored by the Cinco de Mayo committee for all Mitchell County seniors will be held Saturday, May 27 from 8 p.m. - 12 midnight at the Ag Barn. All seniors will be admitted free. Tickets are $8.00 in advance and $10.00 at the door. The band will be La Promesa. Call 728-8942 for tickets.

Remember when Joanne Sanderson used to teach the water aerobics class a few years back? Well, a new class, with instructor Laurie Lowrance, will begin on June 5th at the city pool. The class will meet two days a week. We all had fun at the last classes, so let's participate in this one! Call the HealthStyles Center to enroll.

A big welcome to newcomers Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Brooks, formerly of Livingston, Texas. Anthony is a lieutenant at the Wallace Unit and his wife is employed at the Daniel Unit in Snyder.

People began arriving last Sunday for the Bluegrass Festival this weekend. My husband and son, Earl and Tyler, were at the park Sunday evening and Nancy Moore, a member of the Cherry Creek band, was nice enough to give Tyler some bread to feed the ducks. He doesn't think you can go to the park without feeding the ducks. Thanks, Nancy!

As of Tuesday evening, three recreational vehicles were already parked for the festivities. I believe we may have a large crowd in town this weekend, but don't let that keep you from attending the festival yourself. Support the Chamber, the Kiwanis Club and Colorado City D.A.R.E. by attending the festival and the breakfasts. See you there!

The John Okray family visited Sea World in San Antonio last weekend. Aaron, Evelyn and Megan told me they had a good time. Wendy said they really enjoyed the water park.

This is graduation weekend around the county. This year there are 194 graduates in the three schools. Last year, there was only 90 graduates in all three schools. The breakdown is as follows:

	1994	1995
Colorado City	64	83
Loraine	14	14
Westbrook	12	7

We recieved a nice rain Tuesday afternoon that will save us from watering our lawns for a couple of days. R.J. Hoback's rain gauge downtown at Colorado Feed and Seed measured exactly 1/2" after the showers had moved east.

Summer reading program will begin May 30

Registration for the Texas Summer Reading Program at the Mitchell County Public Library will begin Tuesday, May 30. Preschoolers through eighth graders are encouraged to participate.

Children who have not yet learned to read may participate by having someone read to them. Participants will be rewarded for each five hours of reading time. Story time will begin on Wednesday, June 7 and will be held at 10 a.m. each Wednesday thereafter. Children four to nine years of age are welcome to attend. Younger children may come but should be accompanied by an adult.

All events at the library are free of charge. For more information, call the library at 728-2968 or stop by 340 Oak Street.

Garden Club will plant the flowers and the merchant is responsible for watering them. If you would like to help and have not been contacted, call Marge Kolman at 728-8403.

"Some young people had seen the blaze from Highway 208 and drove out here and stayed with us," said Mrs. Strain.

Family and friends arrived and they spent the night with a sister.

The next day, the couple, friends and family returned to the house and spent most of the day sifting through the rubble to see what they could salvage.

They saved a few items although most of their belongings that

Talking about some losses brought tears to her eyes, but she was able to talk matter-of-factly about losing other possessions.

As her sisters shared recipes, she remembered that her recipe box was gone.

"Oh well. It's time to get some new recipes anyway," she said.

At this point she said it was overwhelming. Rebuilding their lives from the ground up. So much to do. So many decisions to make.

A shower was held Monday night at Calvary Baptist Church and school children were taking up donations and canned goods for them.

The Strains recounted example after example of how good people have been to them—family, friends, even total strangers.

For instance, Mrs. Strain said she talked to a woman while she was at the washeteria, trying to wash the smell of smoke out of a few salvaged clothes.

As she left, the woman, who said she lived in Loraine, pressed money into her hand, saying "I don't know you, but I want to help. My husband's been sick a lot and I don't have much, but maybe this will help."

Looking to the future, Mrs. Strain said, "The fire was devastating, but it's going to be okay—thanks to a lot of good people."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

My family and I would like to take this opportunity to express our gratitude for all the love, prayers, generosity and support we have received over the past year since I became ill. Our load just seems lighter and we couldn't have made it without their help.

I'd like to thank Dorn Methodist, St. Luke's Methodist, All Saints Episcopal, Calvary Baptist, Central Baptist and Christian Temple for their ongoing prayers and support. I'd also like to thank the cancer support group for their help in providing the needed rides back and forth to Lubbock.

I'd like to thank Dr. Roach, Dr. Gross and the staff at Mitchell County Hospital for their wonderful care.

There are so many other names I could mention, but it would take weeks to write them down and I would like them to know I love them all.

God bless,
Marie Sanderson

Dear Editor:

My house at 938 E. 13th Street has never looked better and I'd like to express my gratitude by thanking a few people in your paper.

I want to thank Warden Cooper and his TDCJ crew for the hard work they did getting things ready and also Mr. Merrell and his middle school kids who came to help scrape the house to get it ready to paint.

I'd like to thank John Paul Drummond and Steve Myers and his boys for the plumbing and electric work. Thanks also to Mr. Stone.

A very special thank you is for my fellow parishioners of Calvary Baptist Church for the magnificent paint job and other work they did.

Thank you, also, to Jan Lemons and her crew of volunteers for all the hard work they put into organizing this wonderful gift.

I love you all and God bless you,
Maurine Igheart

Dear Editor:

We'd like to take this method of publicly expressing our thanks and deep appreciation to all persons involved in the transformation and super cleanup work recently done on our community cemetery at Spade.

To Sheriff Patrick Toombs, Warden Rodney Cooper, correctional officers and the inmates of the Wallace Unit, we give special thanks for a job well done.

Spade Cemetery Association
Mrs. Tom Moore, secretary

To the Editor:

Once again, a big thank you to Christmas In April.

I want to extend a special thanks to Light Rivera and Manuel Molina, Jr. for doing such a superb job in building my ramp.

Also, a thank you to Scott Lamb and my son, Donny Wood, for doing some of the preparation work in connection with the pouring of the cement.

A big thanks, also, to the inmates and the officers who worked. Because of their help, I was able to use my ramp sooner.

Ron Appling, thanks for my railing; Kent Womack, you did a great job of supervising and "gofering."

And last, I want to thank James Merrell, Loraine Methodist, Calvary Baptist, Travis Monday and the Ministerial Alliance for supplying each house involved with Christmas In April a beautiful Bible that I will cherish.

It is so nice to live in such a caring community.

Dolores Wood

Dear Editor:

I moved to this town with the construction of the original state penitentiary. Lenrolled my children in the public school system and was very pleased with the system and the teachers.

I made the decision to stay in Colorado City because of the people here and the fact that the schools' and teachers' involvement in the education of the children is outstanding.

Although I still feel, basically, that Colorado City is a good place to raise children, I have been deeply disappointed in one of the city officials.

Until just a few days ago I had been a single parent of a 10- and seven-year-old, working and trying to stay involved with all of their many activities.

I know and realize as a parent there are many times I have made mistakes by acting hastily. There have also been many times I have had to step back and apologize for words said or actions done.

But never in the years of being a parent or involved with children have I or would I break up a fight between two little girls under the age of nine by pulling them by the hair of their heads, causing loss of hair and then refuse to even talk to the other child's parent.

I am appalled that a law enforcement officer, with many years experience, could not break up a fight between two small girls any other way.

It was wrong for the girls to fight but who was the adult in this situation? How does this person handle other situations?

The person responsible for this action knows who he/she is and really owes two little girls an apology.

Sincerely,
Tricia Lee (Cowley)

Bluegrass band has local ties

On the weekend of July 4, 1994, Tom and Nancy Moore attended a mini bluegrass festival at Wayne Hite's Colorado City lake house. There they met Calvin Jones and Nancy invited him to visit their house any time and place.

By October, Calvin, Tom and Nancy had formed a group and were playing at Catfish and Company, an Odessa restaurant featuring bluegrass bands most Saturdays.

As they gained success, they started to think about a name for their group. Nancy thought they should call themselves the Colorado City Lake band, as they had met at the lake, but Calvin said that since they met where Cherry Creek feeds into Lake Colorado City, the Cherry Creek bluegrass band was a more appropriate name.

Calvin's job was taking him out of town by December, so the band agreed to hire another person to fill in for Calvin when he was out of town.

In February of this year, Tom and Nancy were asked to back up another band on a television program. Afterwards, one of the musicians in the group asked if he could play with Cherry Creek, and Jay Ward became the newest member the next week.

The band is made up of Tom and Nancy Moore of Odessa, Jay Ward and Calvin Jones.

Tom has owned his VCR repair company since 1987. During the '70s he played guitar with the Virginia Mountaineers and various country bands.

Nancy is an office manager at Gerhard's, Inc. Cherry Creek is her first band. Her prior musical experience includes membership in the First Baptist Church, Odessa. Within the last four years, she has participated in two ensembles at the church and has toured Austria with the Odessa Community Choir.

Jay Ward is a dispatcher with Texaco Trading and Transportation, Inc. He has played instrumentals with a group that performed a Christmas program and a charity function. He also played with Old Path.

Water quality topic of meeting

The Lower Colorado River Authority (LCRA) will hold a fact-finding meeting in San Angelo on Thursday, May 25 to hear comments from the public on water quality issues in the area.

The meeting, part of a state-mandated program to assess the water quality of the basin, will begin at 7 p.m. at the San Angelo Convention Center, 500 Rio Concho Drive.

The meeting is a follow-up to one held by the LCRA in San Angelo in April 1992 when more than 100 persons showed up to voice concerns about pollution problems created by an overloaded waste water treatment plant in San Angelo.

As a result, an assessment report by the LCRA in 1992 identified the plant and collection system as a major source of pollution to the Concho River, a tributary of the Colorado.

Water quality problems still remain in the San Angelo area, however. A 1994 assessment report by the LCRA identified fish kills on the North Concho River in San Angelo as a "high priority" concern in the basin.

The fish kills were attributed to polluted runoff entering a series of small impoundments on the North Concho, combined with minimal releases from the O.C. Fisher Reservoir immediately upstream to provide adequate dilution.

Co-sponsors of the meeting include the Upper Colorado River

Authority, Colorado River Municipal Water District, Texas Alliance of Groundwater Districts, Glasscock County Soil and Water Conservation District, North Concho Soil and Water Conservation District, Lower Concho Soil and Water Conservation District, Concho Soil and Water Conservation District and the cities of Ballinger, Bronte, Colorado City, Eden, Paint Rock, San Angelo, Sterling City, Robert Lee and Winters.

The meeting is part of a program established by the Texas

Clean Rivers Act of 1991, which requires river authorities and other designated entities statewide to conduct water quality assessments of their regions and submit reports each even-numbered year.

Assessments of the Colorado watershed are conducted jointly by the LCRA, the Upper Colorado River Authority and the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

For more information on the San Angelo fact-finding meeting, call Mary Ann Neely, LCRA, 1-800-776-5272, ext. 3261.

CHIEF LONE WOLF

By Jim Baum

For more than a month Colonel John H. Moore, some 90 frontiersmen and 12 Lipan Apaches, led by Chief Castro and his son Flacco, had tracked a band of Comanche Indians. At last, the distance between the seekers and those unknowingly being sought narrowed.

The Comanches set up a camp in a small bend of the Colorado River near present day Colorado City. When the estimated 125 warriors, their squaws and children bedded down for the night on October 12, 1840, most of them had less than 12 hours to live.

Colonel Moore's Rangers had now located the enemy and plans were made for a sunrise attack the following morning.

"The camp was in a half moon of the Colorado River," Dr. Harry Krenke explains. "There was a high bank on the other side and a norther had come up and they had moved to that south bank for protection from the north wind."

The Moore attackers were split into two forces in order to box in the Indians. Lt. Clark Owen, with about 30 men (all expert riflemen), were positioned on the bluff which would give them a direct path into the camp. (Clark, according to Krenke, would later be killed in the Civil War.)

At first light, the signal was given to charge. The rout was on; the surprise was complete. The bewildered Comanches reacted instinctively but ineffectively. As Moore's men raced on horseback through the village, Indian men, women and children panicked.

Indian women who tried to fight alongside their men were mowed down by the withering gunfire. Others were clubbed with rifles as the invaders hurriedly dismounted and swung at any Comanche near them.

"When the attack erupted," Dr. Krenke states, "some Indians swam the river and tried to climb the bluff. The Texans stood on one side and shot them. Those Indians who were able to escape met the cavalry on top, who then killed the rest of them."

For 30 minutes, the one-sided battle raged. And then it was all over. It's estimated that 125 Comanches were killed. Historian T.R. Fehrenbach states, "80 of them died at or in the river. The Texans lost two wounded, one fatally."

In the heat of battle there had been one humorous incident, but only after the fact. Dr. Krenke related the details.

"Isaac Mitchell was riding a mule and his reins broke. The mule carried him right into the midst of the camp. One of the Indian women picked up a piece of firewood and knocked Mitchell from his mule. A friend [of Mitchell's] yelled, 'Kill her!' Mitchell yelled back, 'I can't kill a woman.' He did disarm her, however," Krenke concluded.

In all, some 30-odd prisoners were taken, most of them squaws. The killing field was littered with corpses of men, women and children. Fehrenbach says, "this was a punitive raid; no attempt was made to spare Indians because of age or sex." He also notes these were the same rules applied by Comanches during their raids.

The number of Indians killed (125-130) near Colorado City is significant. "This is quite a large number," Dr. Krenke notes. "I don't think there is any battle in Texas, that I know anything about, where nearly that many Indians were killed."

Looking over the battleground, Colonel Moore voiced his satisfaction with what he saw. "The river and its banks presented evidence of a total defeat of our savage foe," he later wrote in his official report.

Men from the expedition collected items of value from the Indian campground, many of which were goods plundered from Linnville. Everything else belonging to the Comanches, their teepees, saddles and personal belongings, were ordered burned by Colonel Moore.

The government of Texas was well pleased with the performance of Moore's raiders. An official of the Texas War Department praised those involved in the battle.

"Permit me as an organ of the government to hail you as citizen-soldiers," Thomas Gales Forster wrote. "The champions of our liberty, the bulwarks of our safety and at the same time, to tender you my cordial congratulations on your safe return."

The War Department eventually paid Colonel Moore $250 for two months service in eradicating Indians during 1840. However, it would be 11 long years before he collected the money from the financially strapped state.

The Moore expedition is significant for several reasons. It's Dr. Krenke's opinion that the battle in Mitchell County taught the Comanches "that they needed to stay out of Central Texas where the settlements were," Fehrenbach agrees. He states "the defeat ended the Comanche war in southwest Texas."

That the battle was in fact fought in Mitchell County is pretty well documented. Dr. Krenke cites official government reports, newspaper accounts and the memoirs by some of those who participated in the attack as proof it did occur here.

"One account," Krenke notes, "written by a man who identifies himself only as a 'survivor' gives us a great deal of information on what it was like in the territory they saw, the men involved and what the battle was like."

He also says other accounts given by men who were there, some of whom gave distances traveled each day and the route they took, help pinpoint the location of the massacre. In addition, eight or 10 of the men left descriptions of the site and the terrain around it.

Then there's John Henry Brown, who started out on the expedition but had to turn back when his mule became lame. Dr. Krenke says Brown later talked to many of the participants. "He wrote his history after Colorado City was founded. He said it was in the area near Colorado City."

Krenke has some thoughts of his own on the probable location. "After looking at topographical maps and walking the river and talking with people, I think it was probably north of Colorado City."

As for Colonel Moore, the excursion was to be his last recorded military venture. He would later become a wealthy rancher near La Grange, where he lived out his life.

Although a slave holder and considered austere, he joined the Christian church in 1861. As a zealous member of the congregation, he would actually stand by the preacher on Sunday mornings to watch fellow members who might not be paying proper attention.

John H. Moore died in 1880 at the age of 80. "The story is," Dr. Krenke says, "when he died, and I don't even know if this is possible, but he reached up and closed his own eyes."

For the man who ordered the first shot of the Texas Revolution, anything was possible. During his lifetime, he undoubtedly opened many eyes. And we know he closed many others, a large number of them right here in what became Mitchell County.

(Our thanks to Dr. Harry Krenke, president of Western Texas College (interview), T.H. Fehrenbach, author of Lone Star and the Houston Post, Feb. 2, 1936 for resource material on this story.)

Project Celebration set for Friday

Project Celebration, a drug and alcohol free graduation night alternative, will be held Friday immediately following the Colorado City High School commencement exercises.

Fifty-six seniors have signed up to enjoy the celebration. They and their guests will travel to Hardin-Simmons in Abilene for an evening of fun, food and prizes and return at 6 a.m. Saturday.

This is the first year that Project Celebration has been held at the college, said Roxie Strain, coordinator.

The students will have access to Hardin-Simmons' recreation center and student center. Recreational facilities they can enjoy include basketball, volleyball, video games, bowling lanes, etc.

This year's seniors have held several fundraisers throughout the year to raise money for the celebration.

Students earned points for the amount of time they spent in working to raise money for the festivities.

Strain said there were plenty of prizes so that each senior should be able to take home at least one prize. Work points accumulated through the year will increase their chances at the prizes.

"This gives them an incentive to work hard on raising money," Strain said.

that which funds PPI. The separate organizations would remain so, unless the seniors who use the Wallace Center decide otherwise.

It does not matter to PPI which building is offered, however; the children just need one.

According to Mary L. Daniel, training coordinator with Child Care Management Services (CCMS), the student/teacher ratio will change after June 1, 1995 when stricter guidelines go into effect for day care personnel. There will be fewer children for each teacher.

CCMS is a program administered by PPI and it provides training for day care workers as well as subsidizing day care. According to Daniel, who herself holds a master's degree in early childhood education, the level of training and skill of day care workers is higher than ever before.

After June 1, all day care teachers will be required to have at least eight hours of in-service training.

In addition, day care employees must complete 15 hours of training a year in addition to first aid and CPR training and each center must have at least one staff member certified in first aid for each group of children. Standards for day care in Texas are becoming increasingly stricter.

It will not be very helpful, though, to improve the trainers if there is no place to do the training and without a bigger building, the day care center's waiting list will continue to grow.

percent increase in value now that the district is no longer using the economic factor.

Burt suggests that property owners who have questions about their valuation or are considering filing a protest come into the appraisal district office in the CISD Administration Building.

Texas Law requires the appraisal district to place 100 percent market value on property.

The appraisal district is a group of citizens who live in the appraisal district and are appointed by the district's directors.

Their responsibilities are outlined by the Texas Constitution, which requires that property be appraised equally and uniformly and that exemptions and productive valuation are properly granted.

The appraisal district is different from the Appraisal Review Board which reviews appraisals set by the district and hears protests.

Taxpayers in the Mitchell County Appraisal District will have an opportunity to protest values proposed for the property for taxes.

May 31 is the deadline for filing a written notice of protest with the Appraisal Review Board.

The district's Appraisal Review Board will begin hearing taxpayers' protests on June 7 and 8 for real estate and June 9 for utility and oil businesses.

The board will be in the curriculum room of the Colorado Independent School District Administration Building from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

After the appraisal board concludes its hearings and approves final property values, local governments will use these values to assess property taxes for 1995.

Property owners appear before the Appraisal Review Board and may protest any of these seven specific actions of the appraisal office:

- The appraisal or agricultural value of the property;
- Unequal appraisal of the taxpayer's property compared to other property in the district;
- Inclusion of the property on the appraisal records;
- Denial of a partial exemption, such as a homestead exemption;
- Denial of agricultural-use, open-space or timber productivity valuation;
- Identification of the taxing unit or units in which the property is located.

Determination that the taxpayer is owner of the property; and

Any other action of the appraisal office that adversely affects the taxpayer.

State law requires the AB to review and approve the appraisal records by July 20.

The ARB has no authority over tax rates or taxing unit spending and will not hear protests on those matters. The appraisal district is charged by law to place value and administer exemptions on property. Each taxing unit's governing body sets the tax rate.

a stand against teenage drinking," said Chief Montgomery. "This should have a positive impact on lessening the problem."

Several measures are underway to combat juvenile discipline problems, many of which involve cooperative efforts between law enforcement agencies and school, said Chief Montgomery.

The Mitchell County Sheriff's Department and Colorado City Police Department are reporting to CISD any violations committed by students, as mandated by state law.

In addition, the police increase from $20 to $21 for the first 3,000 gallons and from $2.20 to $2.30 after that.

The Wallace Unit Prison's rate will also change from $1.20 per thousand gallons used to the new rate of $2.1 minimum plus $1.95 per thousand gallons used.

Sewer rates for residential usage have been $6 for the first 3,000 gallons winter average taken in January, February, and March, with $0.75 per thousand thereafter to $7 minimum for the first 3,000 gallons and $0.80 after 3,000.

Commercial rates have previously been $15 per 3,000 gallons plus 10 % of the actual dollar amount of the water bill.

New rates will be $16 per 5,000 gallons plus $0.40 per thousand over 5,000.

A large commercial consumer who uses 800,000 gallons in a month could see a $334 sewer bill which would have cost $175.40 at the old rate.

Shutt noted that Colorado City has previously had a sewer rate that was substantially lower than surrounding cities, except for Sweetwater which is only slightly higher.

Statistics gathered by city staff last month showed Big Spring, Abilene, Snyder's rates were at least twice as much as Colorado City rates.

Grand Ole Opry star to perform

Roy Thackerson, "The Fingerless Fiddler," will make a special appearance in two performances Saturday at the Lone Wolf Bluegrass Festival.

The popular entertainer has a reputation as a top musician and bluegrass fans are looking forward to his performances at 4 p.m. and 9:15 p.m.

Putting aside his handicap, he learned to play the guitar and fiddle. He uses a special gadget he calls a "gut strap" and performs with the best.

Thackerson has made several appearances on the Grand Ole Opry as a guest of Roy Acuff. He has also appeared on national television shows, such as "That's Incredible" and "The Ralph Emery Show" as well as other local and area television shows and commercials.

He has played in fiddlers' contests throughout the country and has been a judge in numerous contests, such as the Grand Ole Opry's National Master's Fiddling Contest in Nashville.

PROPERTY TAX PROTEST AND APPEAL PROCEDURES THE MITCHELL COUNTY APPRAISAL DISTRICT MAILED NOTICES OF APPRAISED VALUE IN MAY, 1995

The law gives property owners the right to protest actions concerning their property tax appraisals. You may follow these procedures if you have a concern about:

- the value placed on your property;
- exceptions that may apply to you;
- cancellation of agricultural appraisal;
- whether your property is taxable;
- which local governments should be taxing your property; or
- you think the appraisal district has done something else that adversely affected you.

INFORMAL REVIEW: Taxpayers are encouraged to make an appointment with an appraiser to discuss their property value. This may be done by calling 728-5028. They should bring information to substantiate why they feel that their property value is incorrect. The appraiser will discuss their property and may recommend an adjustment to the Appraisal Review Board. If the taxpayer is satisfied with the adjustment, he does not have to appear before the ARB.

REVIEW BY THE APPRAISAL REVIEW BOARD: If you can't resolve your problem informally with the appraisal district staff, you may have your case heard by the Appraisal Review Board.

The Appraisal Review Board (ARB) is an independent board of citizens that reviews problems with the appraisals and other concerns listed above. They have the power to order changes to solve problems. If you file a written request for an ARB hearing (called a NOTICE OF PROTEST) before the deadline, the ARB will set your case for a hearing. You'll receive written notification of the time, date, and place of the hearing. The hearing will be informal. You and the appraisal district representative will be asked to present evidence about your case. The ARB will make its decision based on the evidence presented. You can get a copy of a protest form from the Appraisal District office at 1132 Hickory.

NOTE: YOU SHOULDN'T TRY TO CONTACT APPRAISAL REVIEW BOARD MEMBERS OUTSIDE OF THE HEARING. THE LAW REQUIRES BOARD MEMBERS TO SIGN AN AFFIDAVIT SAYING THAT THEY HAVE NOT TALKED ABOUT YOUR CASE BEFORE THE ARB HEARS IT.

REVIEW BY THE DISTRICT COURT: After it decides your case, the ARB must send you a copy of its order by certified mail. If you're not satisfied with the decision, you have the right to appeal to district court. If you choose to go to court, you must start the process by filing a petition within 45 days of the date you receive the ARB's order. If the Appraisal District has appraised you property at $1,000,000 or more, you must file a notice of appeal with the chief appraiser within 15 days of the date you receive the ARB's order.

MORE INFORMATION: You can get more information by contacting your Appraisal District at 1132 Hickory, Colorado City, Texas 79512, (915) 728-5028. You can also get a pamphlet describing how to prepare a protest from the Appraisal District or from the State Comptroller's Property Tax Division at P.O. Box 13528, Austin, TX 78711-3528.

DEADLINE FOR FILING PROTEST WITH THE ARB

(the deadline is postponed to the next business day if it falls on a weekend or holiday)

USUAL DEADLINE: On or before May 31 (or 30 days after a Notice of Appraised Value was mailed to you whichever is later)

LATE PROTEST: (If you miss the usual deadline for good cause. Good cause is some reason beyond your control, like a medical emergency. The ARB decides whether you have good cause.) Late protests must be filed before the day the ARB approves records for the years. Contact the Appraisal District for more information.

SPECIAL DEADLINES:

CHANGE OF USE: (If the Appraisal District has informed you that you are losing agricultural appraisal because you changed the use of your land.) Change of use protests must be filed before the 30th day after the notice of the determination was mailed to you.

ARB CHANGES: (If the ARB has informed you of a change that increases your tax liability and the change didn't result from a protest you filed.) ARB Change protests must be filed before the 30th day after the notice of determination was mailed to you.

If you believe the Appraisal District or ARB should have sent you a notice and did not, you may file a protest until the day before taxes become delinquent (usually February 1). The ARB decides whether it will hear your case based on evidence about whether a required notice was mailed to you.

Loraine News

By BESSIE ANN VAUGHN

Greetings from Loraine.
I'm sure everyone remembers the old axiom, if you're left with a lemon, then make lemonade.

Since we have an abundance of wind, and high wind at that, we should come up with some useful and practical things to do with it.

For example, everyone knows wind is great to turn a windmill. But have you thought about how fast it will dry out a wet cow patty?

The dry patty could then be put in a beautiful little basket, trimmed in ribbons and lace. The instructions could read, "poke a hole in the patty, plant flower seeds, water slightly and enjoy."

You might want to spray paint your patty a pretty color first.

If this doesn't appeal to you, shampoo your hair, mix in some mousse, then sit out in the sand and wind. Your hair will dry in no time. Everyone will envy you your hairdo and you will not need any hairspray.

Or, go kill a calf and hang it from a clothesline and in no time—voilà—dried beef.

Or, if you are old and have trouble blowing out candles, just poke your cake out the back door for two seconds. Your wish will most likely come true.

If none of the above appeal to you, just go fly a kite and keep complaining.

T.J. Green, Jr. is still having a bad time with his leg and has been told to stay off it.

He will go back to Lubbock this week for a checkup and we are surely wishing him good news.

Addie Mahoney, T.J. Green's nice part time employee, isn't doing much dancing either, as she has a leg problem as well.

Louella Crockett had a nice surprise on Mother's Day at the Loraine Methodist Church, for as she stepped into the foyer, there were all her children and a sister to join her.

Attending with Louella were Bill and Mona Crockett of Colorado City with sons Will, Andy and Sam; Bruce and Bridget Crockett of Lubbock, son Brian and daughters Kristen and Amanda; Dr. Mike and Cathy Collins and Zack from Waco and Juanice Taylor of Midland.

Every Valentine's Day, or the Sunday nearest, all the men in the Loraine Methodist Church cook or furnish all the food for a nice meal following the sermon.

Each lady of the church receives an invitation, making the event seem more special and personal.

Leila Beatty didn't go to the Valentine's special last February because she knew nothing of it.

Her invitation came in the mail last week.

Better late than never?

Loraine has a new band director. His name is Larry Gowen and he and his family come to us from a Navajo reservation in New Mexico, where Mr. Gowen taught music and algebra.

We want to welcome the entire family to Loraine. We are glad you are here.

Beverly Johnson has been in town this past week, spending time with her mother, Dorothy Johnson.

While here, the two ladies went on an excursion, which we hope to hear about at a later date.

Beverly left the 22nd to go back to her home in Irving.

Our sympathy goes out to the Mathis family, as Julia Mathis passed away at the nursing home last Friday. She lived in the Taylor Witta Apartments for several years before going to the Loraine Manor.

At the Loraine Manor on the 22nd, residents were helping Lula Lafave, Alvis Finley and Antonio Moreno celebrate their birthdays.

Fay Martin is a new manor resident but at this time she is in Mitchell County Hospital.

There was a crowd at the manor on Mother's Day. Everyone enjoyed a special party or tea, with punch and cookies. All the ladies had on corsages they had previously made with a lot of T-L-C.

Now something special is in the works for Father's Day. We will let you know more about it later. Come to see us!

At the senior center on Friday, May 19, we had politicians visit. Charlie Stenholm, his assistant Mr. Cain and Bobby Lemons came to explain the farm program, along with other congressional business.

An interesting question and answer session took place.

Gus Armstrong and Sarah Smith really lived things up for us last Wednesday with their music. We appreciate their volunteer service.

They will play again next Wednesday when we will have a special memorial service.

Monday the 22nd, Maxine Pierson brought poppies over and whoever was interested in helping disabled American veterans could do so by buying a poppy.

This Wednesday, we plan to observe Memorial Day and to celebrate May birthdays.

Margaret Brame brought her beautiful Mother's Day flowers that she received from her son, Kenneth, for us all to enjoy this past week.

Rachel Anne Collins was born May 16, 1995. She weighed 8 lbs. 3 oz. and was 19-1/2 inches long. Rachel Anne's parents are Dave and Kimberly Collins of Grapevine, and Laura welcomed her sister into the family.

Paternal grandmother is Mary Lou Collins of Louisville, Ky. and maternal grandparents are Shep and Sally Compton of Weatherford, formerly of Loraine.

Congratulations to all the family. Hi, Grandma!

Syble Walker went home with her children, Jack and Mary Love Allbright, last Saturday.

She will make doctors' appointments while in Odessa before she returns home next week.

Live oak trees may need pesticide treatment for scales

By Joe Raff
CEA-AG Mitchell County
A small insect, Lecanium scales, can pose a big threat to live oaks and now is the time to apply a pesticide to infested trees, says County Extension Agent Joe Raff.

Lecanium scales are most prominent on twigs and small branches during the spring and early summer. A single infested twig may have more than 100 scales on it, although fewer scales are more commonly present.

These scales are hemispherical in shape and dark brown. They are hard shells about one-eighth to one-fourth inch in diameter.

Lecanium scales damage trees by reducing vitality and causing dieback of infested branches. While they are most damaging to live oaks, they also occur on red oaks, the county agent said.

Eggs are produced underneath the hard-shelled female during late spring and they hatch in May. The immature insects then feed on the underside of leaves during the summer. They migrate to twigs in the fall and spend the winter there. There is only one generation a year.

Eggs are hatching in the South Plains. Scale insects are most susceptible to control at this time and insecticide treatments will be most effective if applied now. Heavily infested trees may require two applications two weeks apart.

Insecticides recommended for control include orthene, dursban, sevin, malathion and diazinon. Thorough coverage will improve the effectiveness of sprays. Always read and follow insecticide label instructions carefully, the county agent cautioned.

For more information, call the Mitchell County extension agent's office at 728-3111.

Ranch tour planned

The Mitchell County Ranch Tour is planned June 7. Sponsored by the Mitchell County Extension Service, tour stops will include:

• alternative agriculture: boer goat market and emu and rhea operations
• native grass pasture and prescribed burn benefits
• cell grazing system

Dr. Jackie Smith will be the guest speaker during lunch. The TAEX economist will discuss futures and how it relates to the cattle market.

The cost of the tour is $7 per person which includes lunch. Participants will meet at the Mitchell County Office in the courthouse annex building at 8 a.m. Wednesday, June 7.

County Extension Agent Joe Raff said participants are responsible for their own transportation and suggests car pooling.

For more information, contact the County Extension Office at (915) 728-3111.

GED Classes

GED classes are offered Monday nights at 6 p.m. at the Wallace Center.

Pancake Breakfast

The Kiwanis Club will hold a pancake breakfast Saturday, May 27 from 7-9 a.m. at Ruddick Park. The cost $4 for adults and $2 for children 12 years and under.

The Loraine F.C.E. Club met Wednesday the 17th at the Loraine Center at 2 p.m.

Darlene Hamrick, hostess for this meeting, was absent.

After the usual club prayer and creed, President Brame turned the program over to Ann Hallmark, who gave an interesting and informative program on "The Keys to the Courthouse."

She reported on duties of different departments and on county government in general. She left informative brochures.

After the minutes were read and the treasurer's report was given, there was some discussion about recreation day.

The club has voted to visit the Wallace prison unit on June 8.

Those attending this meeting were Shirley Kendall, Elaine McMichael, Margaret Brame, Eva Wells, Doris Henderson, Billie Schroeder, Billie Ruth Abernathy, Effie Wheeler and speaker Ann Hallmark.

"Wilma and Charlie"

(Last week, Charlie's mama was finally freed from the dog door.)

"Wilma, I'm home. How is Mama?"

"Frankly, Charlie, I don't really know. She got out of bed, changed her clothes (and hopefully her 'holey' underwear), then asked to see a phone book. She dialed a number, talked a moment, then split."

"Well, where did she go?"

"Now Charlie, you know your mama's short on words."

"Good grief, Wilma. Don't talk about the lack of Mama's vocabulary or intellect at a time like this."

"Fine, Charlie. Talk to her in sign language for all I care. I don't know where she went."

"Charlie, get the door. I need to check on supper."

"Well, Wilma, come quick, look who's here—Mama's husband, Big Bear."

"Mr. Big, I mean Bear, how are you?"

"Fine. Where's Maude?"

"Well, we don't know. She drove off about an hour ago."

"It won't take Ma long to find her in this one-horse town," Bear said, with fire in his eyes.

—20 minutes later the phone rings—Charlie says, "Hello."

"Get down to the jailhouse pronto and get us out, you hear me?"

"Who is us, Mama?"

"Charlie, if you're not down here in 20 minutes, you're gonna be sorry, and don't ask so many questions."

"Yes, Mama."

"Officer, what happened, exactly?"

"Well, we don't really know for sure, but it seems that your mama's husband, Mr. Big Bear, caught Doc Holliday rubbing around on your Ma—and all the clothes she had on at the time was a little short paper dress."

"Well Officer, Doc is a chiropractor."

"But Charlie, Mr. Big, what's his name, didn't know that."

"He sorta spanked your ma a little, but he broke both of Doc Holliday's arms."

"Oh, no. Is Doc going to press charges?"

"Beats me, Charlie. With two broken arms he can't press much of anything."

—Remembering Memorial Day—

In reverence, awe, sadness and respect, we choose to remember the men and women who paid the ultimate price for our freedom here in America.

While these fallen heroes no longer have a voice to be heard or a vote to be cast in order to select the finest and most qualified people to run our country, we have to do it for them, theirs, us and ours.

War is not the only solution for hate, greed and intolerance.

There has to be a better way or we will have another long wall somewhere with names that seem to go on forever.

Take good care and see you about town.

Specialty Clinic offers mammograms

Mammography is now available at the Mitchell County Hospital Specialty Clinic.

What is a mammogram?
A mammogram is an X-ray of the breast, giving a picture of the inside of the breast.

How is the mammogram done?

The X-ray technologist carefully positions the breast in the mammogram device. It is then pressed between the X-ray plates. The pressure usually causes some discomfort. If you have periods, plan to go 7-10 days after the start of your cycle, since your breasts may be less sensitive at this time.

Does a mammogram find all cancers?

No test is 100% effective. That is why the American Cancer Society advises that a doctor or other health care provider should check your breasts once a year and that you should check your own breasts once a month.

What are the recommendations for mammography?

The American Cancer Society recommends a clinical breast exam by a health care professional every three years for women ages 20-39, and annually for women age 40 or over.

A baseline mammogram is recommended by age 40, mammography every two years between the ages of 40 and 49 and annually for women age 50 and over. Mammography screening in this age group can detect early breast cancers.

It is also known that death from breast cancer is greatly reduced if it is found in the earliest stages. It is easy to assume that early detection will lead to fewer deaths from breast cancer.

How do I decide what to do?

If you still have questions or concerns, seek the advice of your doctor, who is familiar with your personal and family medical history.

Make an appointment for mammography by calling Mitchell County Hospital, 728-3431, ext. 220, Monday through Friday from 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

There are four appointments daily, Monday through Friday from 2 p.m.-5 p.m.

Six advance to state 4-H meet

By Joe Raff

Mitchell County 4-H members had a fantastic day at the District 2 Roundup. There were 11 members who participated in the district contest, six of whom were senior 4-H members and all six qualified for state competition.

The horse bowl teams, coached by Maureen Morris, were each second in their divisions. The senior team, who qualified for state, was made up of Jennifer Morris, Paik Morris, Caci Joiner and Laurie Miller.

The second place junior team was composed of Toni Joiner, Robin Morris and Ashley Hill.

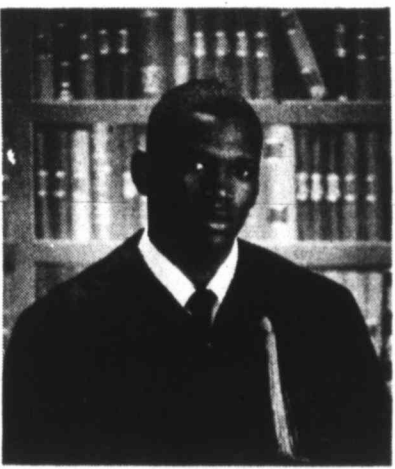

Congratulations to the state-bound horse bowl team.

In method demonstrations, Hayley Smith was first with her sheep demonstration and qualified for state competition. Angela Chaney also qualified for state with her demonstration in the farm and ranch economics division. Mark Sheets was first in the junior division with his goat demonstration.

Congratulations and good luck at state, Hayley and Angela!

Due to an outstanding application, Jennifer Morris will also be in competition for one of the scholarships offered through the 4-H program. If selected, Jennifer could be a recipient of a $15,000, $10,000 or several $7,000 and $5,000 scholarships. Good luck on your interview, Jennifer.

Mitchell County was very well represented at the District 2 contests. I hope everyone will take time to congratulate these fine young 4-H members for their fantastic accomplishments.
